Japanese Army Begins Great Push Southward Toward Ancient Chinese Wall

TOKYO ORDERS LEAGUE ENVOY TO 'STAND PAT'

China Accepts Plan For Commission Only If Force Departs

PROPOSAL UP TODAY

General Dawes Presses For Investigation Of Treaties

LONDON, Nov. 24. (Tuesday) (US)—Japanese troops today began their long expected push southward from Mukden toward the ancient great wall that separates China proper from Manchuria, according to a Mukden dispatch to the Daily Telegraph.

The Japanese advance is being made along the Pieping-Mukden railroad. By daylight all passenger traffic on the railroad as far south as Chuliho had been halted to give precedence to the troop trains.

At Chinchow, 147 miles south of Mukden and between the Japanese and the great wall, the Chinese are reported by Japanese sources to have concentrated 50,000 men. While Chinese sources maintain the Chinchow garrison consists of but 7,500 troops, the Chinese are expected to put up strong resistance to the occupation of the city.

A Peiping dispatch to the Daily Mail states that the Japanese forces are accompanied by armored trains and that they are expected to push as far southward as Shanhaikwan, point where the great wall meets the gulf of Liaotung.

For the past several days Tokyo and Mukden dispatches have described a gigantic Chinese troop concentration at Chinchow, declaring that Japan would be forced to take measures to protect the South Manchuria railway if the concentration continued.

Chinese advices have denied extraordinary military preparations at Chinchow, stating the reports were spread by Japan as an excuse for extending its grip on Manchuria southward as it has in the north by seizing Tsitsihar.

JAPAN STUBBORNLY HOLDS TO DEMANDS

By WYTHE WILLIAMS

(Copyright, 1931, Universal Service, Inc.)

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The Japanese government tonight informed the League of Nations council that Japanese troops will not be withdrawn from Manchuria before the neutral commission proposed by Tokyo is formed.

Ambassador Kenkichi Joshosawa, on receipt of urgent instructions from his capital, tonight told Foreign Minister Briand that his government could not accept the Chinese condition of evacuation which was imposed before China would accept the commission.

Inducements Fail

The Japanese refusal came as a result of efforts of the "big twelve" to induce Japan to evacuate Manchuria in order to prevent the league's having to take vigorous action. Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, today told M. Briand that China could not accept the commission proposal unless Japanese soldiers were withdrawn.

Japan's defiance of the league's pacific efforts may lead to stronger

COLEMAN, Texas, Nov. 23. (UP)—Pay warrants that teachers could not cash were on the way back to their makers today and in the deal the teachers had obtained good coin of the realm.

Twenty-five teachers had been holding the warrants because the bank on which they were drawn had closed.

Today the West Texas Ice company purchased $471 worth of the warrants from the teachers and will use them to pay taxes. Other taxpayers took smaller amounts and the Santa Fe railroad bought $840 worth.

San Antonio District Votes Today To Fill Wurzbach House Seat

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 23. (AP)—Seven Democrats and one Republican, candidates for the congressional seat of the late Harry M. Wurzbach of Seguin, Republican, tonight drew the attention of state and national political leaders.

Upon results of the special election tomorrow in the 14th congressional district perhaps hinged the balance of power between closely divided Democratic and Republican forces in the house of representatives.

Demos Split

Democratic leaders had pleaded vainly with the eight members of their party seeking the post to agree upon one man lest a split vote enable one of the two Republicans to win.

Two last minute withdrawls today left eight candidates in the field—seven Democrats and one Republican.

Of this group, Carl Wrigh Johnson of San Antonio and Richard M. Kleberg, Democrats, and Charles W. Anderson of San Antonio, Republican, were regarded as strongest.

Maloney Withdraws

Ben L. Maloney, war veteran and Democrat, withdrew in favor of Johnson and Dr. A. A. Luther, San Antonio Republican, withdrew in favor of Anderson.

Democratic candidates, other than Johnson and Kleberg, were John M. Malinack, William R. Fox, Spencer E. Bomar, Thomas B. Smiley and Harry Peabody.

Old political lines were being redrawn and the election presented a novel situation in the district which sent Wurzbach, a Republican, to congress term after term, in spite of opposition he encountered from party Democrats and the "regular" Republican chieftains. Wurzbach's ability to carry the district under such circumstances was attributed solely to his personal popularity.

Prohi Issue

In the present election, which has been preceded by a necessarily brief campaign, none of the candidates has a personal following such as Wurzbach enjoyed, although Anderson, the lone Republican aspirant, was Wurzbach's campaign manager.

The only issue raised was prohibition, Johnson and Kleberg declaring for modification of the dry law and Anderson stating he "favored enforcement of the constitution and laws of the United States."

Oil Tanker And Big Rum Cargo Seized in Port

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. (US)—Weeks of careful ground work resulted today in one of the largest seizures in the history of prohibition. Customs agents assisted by the coast guard seized more than 5,000 cases of liquor valued at $350,000, an oil tanker valued at $750,000, and five large motor trucks valued at $50,000. Sixty men were arrested.

The raid took place at dawn at Bushy's dry dock, Brooklyn. The raiders converged by water and land and, after firing a few volleys over the heads of the surprised liquor smugglers, arrested them easily. Eight of the prisoners composed the crew of the tanker, the Raritan Sun, owned by the Sun Oil company.

The company itself was not connected in any way with the smuggling.

YOUTH HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH

Murder Charge Filed After Laredo Shooting

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 23. (AP)—Ollie Carter, 20, Laredo drug store clerk, was held without bond for the grand jury today after a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder in the roadside slaying of Miss Mary Ellis, 20, last night.

A bullet struck Miss Ellis in the neck.

Carter did not take the stand at the hearing today. He told officers he was sitting in the rear seat of a parked automobile with the woman when some one approached from the rear and fired through a rear side window.

He asserted when he jumped from the machine he saw a Mexican fleeing.

Night Marshal Dave Gallagher and Policeman Frank Brewster, both of whom were at the police station when Carter took the girl's body there, appeared as witnesses at the examining trial.

One bullet struck Miss Ellis in the neck, fracturing her spine.

Miss Ellis lived at Milo, 12 miles north of Laredo. She had formerly lived at Houston and San Antonio. Her body was sent to San Antonio for burial.

TEXAS TROOPS TO FIRE SALUTE TO GOVERNOR

Sterling Arrives in East Texas Oil Field For First Visit

FIRST ANNIVERSARY

3,000 Producers Have Been Completed in Section Since Discovery

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP)—Gov. R. S. Sterling's troops in the East Texas oil field will have their first opportunity since they occupied that area three months ago to fire a salute to their commander-in-chief tomorrow.

Not only may the guns ring out a welcome to the governor but they can bark out a birthday greeting to the first anniversary of what has developed into the nation's most prolific pool.

About this time last year, oil was discovered in the red clay hills of the piney woods section of Texas, the first well having been brought in by C. M. (Dad) Joiner just across the line from Smith county in Rusk county. Joiner had gone through a long period of discouragement before success fully crowned his tedious efforts.

Governor Departs

Governor Sterling left for the field tonight. He will spend two days there inspecting conditions and visiting with the people of that area, embracing Smith, Upshur, Gregg and Rusk counties. He will be accompanied on his tour by Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, in command of the martial law troops.

Soon after Joiner's well came in there was feverish development. Within one year more than 3,000 wells have been drilled and the potential production yet is an unknown quantity.

Proration Fails

When Governor Sterling declared martial law as a means of regulating production in the field the wells were flowing about 1,000,000 barrels daily. Efforts to enforce proration on an allowable basis had been disregarded until the military moved in, opponents to the "orderly taking" program maintaining the major companies sought to cramp the field's expansion. It was contended the field had been brought in by independents and that to the pioneers should go the spoils.

The Texas troops, however, have met with a minimum of opposition in limiting the production, until at present Governor Sterling believes there is widespread satisfaction with the manner in which the field is being administered and state conservation laws. The present allowable is 125 barrels per well daily, the plan being to reduce the per well production whenever the bringing in of new wells runs the field's aggregate to more than 400,000 barrels daily.

New Plan Considered

Lately the governor has had under consideration a plan to combine the per well plan with an acreage allotment, but he said he had not decided when he would make the change, if at all.

The price of oil under rampant production dropped to below 10 cents per barrel, but under proration the market has advanced to 85 cents per barrel.

WARRANTS ISSUED TO COVER TOUR

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP)—Deficiency appropriations aggregating $85,000 have been approved by Gov. R. S. Sterling to defray expenses incurred in maintaining martial law in the East Texas oil field. This was supplemental to the funds to the credit of the national guard at the time martial law was declared.

Warrants totaling $4,105 were issued today by the comptroller to defray incidental expenses of the East Texas campaign, including lawyer's fees. This sum was ordered paid from the governor's fund for law enforcement. Approximately $4,000 was for lawyer's fees.

The governor's appropriation for law enforcement is $9,000 annually. Under the law, the governor has authority to issue deficiency warrants totaling $200,000 annually.

U. S. Court Hears Texas Truck Bill Arguments

HOUSTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—A three-judge federal court this afternoon began hearing a suit by truck operators designed to test the constitutionality of house bill 336, a companion to house bill 335, which was held constitutional recently.

Truck operators also appeared during the morning requesting a stay in the judgment affecting house bill 335, pending action on appeals taken. The matter was taken under advisement.

House bill 335 put contract carrier trucks under supervision of the state railroad commission as well as common carriers. House bill 336 sets up regulations as to speed, weight of load and the like.

COURT CALLS CASE AGAINST KELLY HUNT

Wichitan Goes to Trial At Archer City Today In Bank Robbery

$1,600 LOST IN RAID

Hunt's Alleged Companions In Burglary Also Wait Hearing

Kelly Hunt will go on trial before Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court at Archer City at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday on a charge of burglary in connection with the robbery of the Dundee bank last January, according to District Attorney Sam B. Spence.

Delay of One Day

The trial of Hunt had been set for Monday morning, Mr. Spence said, but was continued because the defendant was being used as a witness before the federal grand jury now in session here. Hunt was indicted in connection with the Dundee case along with Hunter Russell, Erwin Spicer, and a fourth defendant not yet reported under arrest. The Dundee bank was robbed on Jan. 16, and about $1,600 was said to have been taken. Hunt is the first of the quartet to be called to trial.

Finding of burned parts of a safe combination, money wrappers, one coin, and presumably parts of a strong box near Hunt's home west of this city several weeks ago resulted in his arrest and subsequent indictment.

Informations charging Hunt with liquor law violations also have been prepared by federal officers, it has been announced.

Cattle Theft

Henry Fred Cagle was assessed a two-year term in the penitentiary Monday by Judge Montgomery after the defendant's plea of guilty to a charge of cattle theft. Cagle was indicted for the theft of two animals from Bronson & Gatlin of Mankins.

Ollie Ralston, charged with being an accomplice to attempted arson, will be tried Wednesday morning, according to settings announced by the court Monday. Continuance was granted to the February term of court in the case of T. Jeff Hays, indicted for alleged acceptance of deposits in an insolvent bank, when the defendant produced a physician's affidavit certifying prohibitive ill health.

The state is represented by Mr. Spence and his assistant, O. M. Wylie.

WOMAN NEAR DEATH AFTER VAIN BATTLE

Young Matron Risks Life In Fight to Save Two Children

FATHER SERVES TERM

Parent Entered County Jail Two Hours Before Tragedy

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Nov. 23.—Mrs. Dave Allen, 24, was believed dying here Monday night after a vain effort to save her two small children, trapped in their blazing home.

The body of Grady Gordon Allen, 4, and Elsie Ruth Allen, 2, were found beneath a bedstead when the flames were extinguished.

Two hours before the children were burned and the young mother risked her life in a battle with the flames, their father, Dave Allen, 25, started serving a sentence in the Jackson county jail on a liquor charge. His case, appealed from the county court, was affirmed Monday. Told of the ruling, he submitted himself to the jailor at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Children Cry Out

Mrs. Allen was raking leaves in the yard of the home at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. She had left the babies at play in the coal stove heated room.

At the sound of their terrified cries, the mother looked up to see the house in flames.

"Mother's coming" she encouraged them as she ran toward the blazing house.

A few minutes later neighbor boys dragged her away, her clothing in flames, all the hair burned from her head, her body so deeply burned that physicians feared she would die before morning.

Relatives Help

Apparently the frightened children had fled from the flames and crawled together beneath the bedstead when the spreading blaze reached them.

The family of Henry Allen, Dave's brother, which lived next door, rushed to Mrs. Allen's assistance, neighbors came and the fire department was prompt, but the five-room house and all its contents were destroyed.

Origin of the fire was unknown but fire fighters thought a stove must have exploded.

Funeral arrangements for the children had not been made Monday night. Their mother was under treatment in the Henry Allen home.

The family had lived here about three years.

TWO CHILDREN BURNED AT BURK

Two small children are at the Wichita General hospital here for treatment of severe burns received Monday.

Donald Canada, 3, son of Mrs. C. J. Canada of Burkburnett, was seriously burned about the body shortly before 7 o'clock Monday morning when his clothing caught fire as he stood near a heater.

Dollie Lou Manton, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Manton of route 3, Wichita Falls, was severely scalded when she overturned a pint of hot water at her home about noon Monday.

The condition of neither child is serious. The burns of both, however, were said to be exteremely painful.

The Canada child, it was said, had just risen from bed and was standing before a fire, clad in a flannel outing nightgown. While his mother was occupied in another room of the home the child's clothing caught fire. He was severely burned before his mother hastily extinguished the blazing clothing. He was rushed to the hospital here.

Advocates of School Bible Reading Lose Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Advocates of Bible reading in Washington state schools today again failed to persuade the supreme court to take up their arguments.

Proposed 'Mule Junket' to Wichita Assailed by Mississippi Senator

VICKSBURG, Miss., Nov. 23. (AP)—Senator John Culkin, Vicksburg, tonight issued the following statement relative to a proposed trip of prison board trustees to Dallas, Wichita Falls, Kansas City, Memphis and other places for the purpose of determining the best mules to be offered for use at the state penitentiary.

"It is not only absurd, but entirely unwarranted, for the 'lame duck' trustees of the Mississippi penitentiary to expend the state's money on a 'jaunting trip of several thousand miles. I am reliably informed that there are about 700 mules at the penitentiary at this time, and it is absolutely foolish and unbusinesslike to purchase additional mules or livestock in the fall. It would be necessary to feed these animals during the entire winter, and this in itself is an unnecessary extravagance.

"Much information has already been given by the press, relative to the transaction through which the mules are to be purchased and the trustees should not only be enjoined, in this connection, from wasting money, but should not be permitted to receive refunds or payments for the expenditures necessary in connection with this long and useless trip. As a matter of fact, the trustees are not familiar with the value of mules, neither do they know the difference between the grades. All purchases of importance should be left to the newly elected trustees, and a business like method of handling this department of the state's affairs should be inaugurated. Useless expenditures of this character simply add to the tax burdens of the people of this state."

Senator Culkin is chairman of the unofficial "steering" committee of the 1932 legislature convening under the administration of Gov. Sennett Conner in January.

Notification of an intended visit to Wichita Falls by a group of Mississippi officials has not been received here, it was believed Monday night. It was not known why the group would come here seeking mules.

JAPAN HOLDS TO DEMANDS

Tokyo Sends New Orders To League Envoy

measures, it was reported, since most of the smaller powers favor the Chinese condition. This adds to the task of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, who assumed the task of clearing up the league's troubles since it was he who inspired the Japanese to propose the commission.

Meet Again Today

Dr. Sze and Ambassador Kenkichi Yoshosawa, the Japanese delegate, tonight conferred with Ambassador Dawes, Foreign Minister Briand of France and Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, while other council representatives met to plan a course of action when the "big twelve" meets secretly again tomorrow.

It is understood that General Dawes is pressing for a commission whose powers will include investigation of China for the purpose of investigating the treaties Japan insists the Chinese have violated. To this, Dr. Sze agrees, providing the council gets that far.

The draft resolution which will be discussed tomorrow does not mention the size of the commission beyond stating that Japan does not want the commission to have more than three members. No new proposals as to the size of the commission have been made officially, it was declared.

Bad News From Tokyo

When General Dawes induced the Japanese to propose the commission, he did not suspect the "bad news" which came from Tokyo today. This is that Japan's "Hitler," Baron Hiranuma of the old party of Giichi Tanaka, reputed author of the famous "Tanaka memorial," is likely to be head of a coalition government if it is formed.

New orders sent Ambassador Yoshisawa include the placing of China's anti-Japanese boycott on the list of "offenses," and the fact that the economic situation is critical because of the boycott. Yashisawa was also reminded that the drain on Japan's gold reserve has amounted to $100,000,000, and that 4,000 fresh troops and an air squadron have been sent to Manchuria.

Further uncertainty is added to the council's hardships by the debate of foreign policy in the French chamber of deputies tomorrow, which might result in the reforming of the Laval ministry with M. Briand no longer holding a portfolio.

New Breed of Rabbit Has Fur Like Beaver's Perfected

CHICAGO, Nov. 23. (AP)—A new breed of rabbit, with fur the color and texture of beaver has been developed after 12 years of scientific experiments.

Dr. C. F. Friend, rabbit fancier, announced perfection of the breed today before opening this week of the first display of the new offspring of the lepus cuniculus family.

The rabbit, scientifically attributed to a mutation or a biological change in cells, reached its present development in this country after discovery 12 years ago in France.

Through application of the Mendelian law, Dr. Friend reported, successful experiments also have been carried out in the development of rabbits bearing fur closely akin to ermine, seal and chinchilla.

ATWELL HEARS LIQUOR CASES

28 Plead Guilty in U. S. Court

Twenty-eight defendants in cases arising from alleged violation of the national prohibition laws entered pleas of guilty before Judge William H. Atwell in federal district court Monday when the criminal docket was taken up, receiving comparatively light fines and jail sentences. Several car forfeitures also were ordered.

Part of Monday was given to the trial of civil cases, but with the exception of two cases in which sentence was deferred, all the 28 liquor cases were disposed of by the court. The criminal docket will contain a large number of additional cases of that classification, however, according to assistant federal district attorneys. The grand jury still is in session, and is expected to make another lengthy report within the next few days.

Pleas to Court

Those who pleaded guilty Monday before Judge Atwell, and the sentences imposed, are as follows: Martin Steinberger, possession and sale 30 days, $100 fine; Fred Steinberger, possession and sale, 30 days, $100 fine; Eddie Meadows, possession and sale, 20 days; Dick S. Shadel, possession and sale, sentence deferred; T. B. Warren, possession and manufacture, 75 days, $100 fine; H. O. Wehunt, possession, $50 fine; Ruby Hawkins and John Patterson, possession and sale, 30 days each, dated back 30 days in each case; Wilbur Wales, possession and sale, five days, $50 fine; A. P. Tinsley, possession, sale and transportation, 10 days, $100 fine, car forfeited; Joe L. Veith, possession and sale, 30 days $100 fine; Henry J. Veith, possession and sale, 30 days, $100 fine; Roy Rhodes, possession and transportation, 40 days, car forfeited; H. D. Boyer, possession and transportation, 30 days, car forfeited; B. B. Williams, possession and transportation, 30 days, $100 fine, car forfeited; J. A. Jones, possession and sale, 10 days, $25 fine; T. D. Scott, possession and sale, 25 days, $100 fine; Roy Gibson, possession and transportation, 30 days; T. D. Scott, possession and transportation, 30 days, car forfeited; Roy Gibson, possession and transportation, 60 days; Roy Gibson, possession and transportation, sentence deferred; James N. Loving, possession and sale, 40 days each, $100 fine each.

In the cases of T. D. Scott and Roy Gibson, each of who were sentenced twice to jail terms, the court stipulated that the sentences were not to run concurrently.

Civil Suit

The government dismissed a charge of possession and sale against Frank W. Benson, and continued the case of Jack Garrett, charged also with possession and sale of liquor, to a later time this week.

During the latter portion of the day, the trial of F. M. Grav's suit against the Q. A. & P. Railway company for $60,000 damages was begun before Judge Atwell. The plaintiff, formerly an employe of the defendant company, alleges that while working in the roundhouse at Quanah, he was struck over the heart by a hammer-head which had flown from the handle in the hands of a fellow workman. Serious and permanent injury is alleged. The plaintiff is represented by Bert King of this city, while C. Y. Welch of Quanah is attorney for the defendant concern.

Panhandle Section Works To Repair Damage

peared that the cold wave which froze the Panhandle and struck gently here was still moving slowly southward and continuing to lose its force. Katy officials said Gainesville basked in a temperature of 60 degrees Monday afternoon.

PANHANDLE WORKS TO REPAIR DAMAGE

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 23. (AP)—Damages to telephone and telegraph wires resulting from the Panhandle's week-end blizzard will total many thousands of dollars, and lines broken down by an accumulation of ice will not be restored to normal conditions for at least a month.

Definite estimates of the damage were not available tonight. The Southwestern Bell Telephone company suffered the greatest loss. Crews of workmen sent out by the company early today to repair breaks had not reported, and a survey of the damage was impossible, officials said.

Service Broken

Pampa, Borger, White Deer, and smaller towns to the northeast of Amarillo still were without telephone service. Pampa was isolated throughout the day, with both telephone and telegraph wires out. Western Union said service would be restored late tonight, and the telephone company said workmen would continue their efforts through the night to restore service by tomorrow.

Heaviest damage was in the vicinity of Pampa. Telephone company officials said 110 breaks were found in their wire to Pampa. At one point 15 consecutive heavy poles were broken and lying on the ground under the burden of ice. The ice, an accumulation of mist that fell Saturday night and Sunday, was more than an inch thick in places.

Wires are being strung temporarily on whatever timbers or poles are available. Permanent lines will be rebuilt later.

Calls Relayed

Lines were out tonight to Vega and Tucumcari, N. M., Oklahoma City, and to Claude to the southeast. Long distance calls were being handled, after delays of 30 minutes or longer. In some cases calls to Dallas were relayed by way of Denver. The line to Oklahoma City went out at noon and was the last to break.

Western Union reported little damage. The Rock Island wires were out, except to Dalhart. The Denver's line was out to Claude, and the Santa Fe had a break between Pampa and Panhandle. All expected to restore service during the night.

The ice melted under a bright sun today. All highways were passable, but muddy. Trains and buses ran on time, and airways service was resumed.

The city forester reported damage to 150 trees in the city parks, out of 20,000. The damage to unpruned trees in the residential districts was probably greater. Because of the excellent condition of livestock, cattle men reported no losses.

TILLMAN OFFICIAL QUITS AFTER ADMITTING DRUNK DRIVING

OUSTER CASES ARE DROPPED

Commissioner Pleads Guilty to Single Charge

FREDERICK, Okla., Nov. 23. (AP)—Ouster proceedings against the Tillman county commissioners were ended in district court today when Commissioner John W. Williams resigned and the case against Commissioners O. C. Ball and F. G. Patterson was dismissed. They remain in office.

Williams pleaded guilty to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated and was fined $100 by Judge Frank Mathews.

Another drunken driving charge, one embezzlement charge and two charges of accepting bribes, which had been pending against Williams, were dismissed.

By agreement of the prosecution, Judge Mathews also dismissed embezzlement charges against E. M. Cason and Mark Anthony, members of the county excise board. Cason resigned.

Ousted Pastor to Continue Battle

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 23. (AP)—Rev. Rembert G. Smith, suspended Sparta, Ga., Methodist minister, says he is renewing his "fight on Cannonism, the greatest menace to the church since political agitation over slavery made reorganization a necessity."

He spoke yesterday before a nondenominational Bible class at the invitation of its leader, Mayor James L. Key, recently relieved of teaching duties at Grace Methodist church here because he refused to accede to a demand by the pastor that he cease his criticisms of prohibition.

Mr. Smith predicted "an exodus from the Methodist church" if it followed the policies in 1932 which he said had divided it since 1928.

The North Georgia Methodist conference recently suspended Mr. Smith for one year on an undisclosed charge of "high unministerial conduct." He had been active in criticism of Bishop James Cannon Jr., and others of the church for political activities but no mention of this controversy was made in connection with his suspension.

Tobey stayed with his muzzle close to the hat all through the night and until noon the next day.

Electra Woman Pilots Own Plane To Nebraska in Five Hours

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas Nov. 23.—Mrs. Charles F. Kolp of Electra piloted her own plane from Tyler, Texas, to Lincoln, Neb., last week in five hours and 10 minutes, according to information received by her mother, Mrs. W. A. Gault. Mrs. Kolp arrived at Lincoln last Monday afternoon at 2:10 to visit Mrs. John G. Burkett. Mrs. Burkett was a roommate of Mrs. Kolp when they were students at the College of Industrial Arts in Denton. Her trip took her to Tulsa, Okla., and Topeka, Kan. She arrived in Topeka at 12:30 and left a few minutes later on the final hop to Lincoln.

Mrs. Kolp has been piloting a plane for the past five years and has owned her own plane for three years. According to the Lincoln Star, Mrs. Kolp was invited, at one time, to fly in the national air derby. She attended the Cleveland air races this year. A number of entertainments have been planned for Mrs. Kolp during her stay at Lincoln.

Best Relief For Athlete's Foot

An old formula for skin diseases is astounding the most skeptical in the marvelous way it heals severe cases of athlete's foot, eczema, tetter, ringworm and itch. The minute it touches the sore you feel a cooling, soothing sensation; in a few days you marvel at how your skin has healed. If you suffer with athlete's foot, or any skin disease, get from any druggist a 60c box of Tetterine and get relief or get your money back. Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.—Adv.

THOMAS PLANS TARIFF FIGHT

Oklahoma Senator to Renew Oil Duty Campaign

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—The senator whose one-man filibuster for investigation of the distressed oil industry marked the closing of the last session does not expect to go on talking on Dec. 7 where he left off March 4.

Tall, white-haired Senator Thomas said today no attempt would be made to revive the resolution on which he expended so much breath.

That proposal for a study of the industry was only a last resort undertaken when all hope for definite oil tariffs or embargo legislation during the session was gone.

A new congress brings new strategy. When the Oklahoma Democrat's tireless voice is raised again on oil it will be in behalf of bills to help—not to investigate.

Just what form his efforts will take, he said, will be decided after a committee recently appointed by the industry meets here, probably early in December.

NOCONA REVIVAL

NOCONA, Texas, Nov. 23.—Evangelist J. N. Cowan of Robstown, Texas, is conducting a series of gospel meetings at West Side Church of Christ here and services will extend over this coming Sunday. This is the second series of meetings by Cowan at Nocona this year, and large crowds are in attendance at all meetings.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like Cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?—Adv.

Court Frees Wife On Husband's Plea

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 23. (UP)—Mrs. E. C. McKnight, an expectant mother, was freed from the federal jail here today when her husband appeared in court at her arraignment on a Dryer act charge and offered to "take her back."

The charge resulted from her elopement from Phoenix, Ariz., last June with another man in a stolen auto.

She was sentenced to one year and a day in the penitentiary, but was paroled to her husband.

The other man, Roy Braun, already is serving a term in Leavenworth penitentiary. He pleaded guilty at Kansas City to the auto theft charge. He admitted stealing the auto in Kansas City, going to Phoenix to get Mrs. McKnight and returning to McAlester, where they were arrested.

Texas School Head Called to Washington

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP)—S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, has accepted an invitation to attend President Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership in Washington Dec. 2 to 5.

He will remain in the national capital to attend the national council of state superintendents, which reals with subjects peculiar to public education, Dec. 7 and 8.

Extortion Hearing Scheduled for Dec. 5

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP)—The case of Clint D. Lewis, sheriff of Burleson county under indictment for alleged extortive claims of fees of office, was set in Travis county district court for Dec. 3 today.

Lewis was one of four Central Texas sheriffs charged in connection with claiming and collecting allegedly excessive fees of office.

Sheriff Woody Townsend of Bastrop county was convicted on the charge and given two years in the Texas penitentiary. His appeal from the verdict is pending.

Other sheriffs charged were John Bigham of Bell county and J. J. Burtschell of Lee county.

Cut in Pay of U. S. Employes Pushed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—A drive to reduce all government employes' salaries which exceed $1,200 a year is to be instigated by Representative Wood of Indiana.

The chairman of the last house appropriations committee said today all federal employes should be willing to accept the reduction in view of the treasury deficit and the low cost of supplies.

He did not specify the amount of the proposed reduction.

Representative Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, and Lewis, Democrat, Maryland, have proposed that salaries of senators and representatives be sliced 25 per cent. This proposal, however, has not been warmly received by most of the other congressmen.

Hidalgo County Trials May Be Postponed

VICTORIA, Texas, Nov. 23. (AP)—Judge J. P. Pool indicated today that the criminal cases involving a number of former Hidalgo county officials might not come to trial at the current term of court. He said an unusually heavy criminal docket might necessitate their postponement until next term.

The cases were transferred to the Victoria district on a change of venue. Judge Pool said he would probably set the cases tentatively when the grand jury completes its work later in the week. He said that if the criminal docket was cleared speedily, the Hidalgo cases might reach trial at this session.

Funeral of Donor First Service in Church

When John Kennedy, pioneer Texan, built this beautiful little church close to his home near Corpus Christi, he didn't know that the first service ever held there would be his funeral. New Market Plan For Livestock Is Being Formulated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—A new method of bringing the nation's swine, cattle and sheep production into relationship with demand has been laid before the farm board.

The livestock advisory committee of the National Livestock Marketing association, central cooperative sales agency, asked the board today to appoint two committees of 50 each, including representatives of state and federal governments, retailers, processors and others, to recommend national production policies.

One committee would serve for hogs and the other for cattle and sheep. They would study the outlook twice a year, distributing information to all stockmen.

The advisory committee also urged the board to ifnd additional outlets abroad for American livestock products.

New Tulsa-Atlanta Air Line Proposed

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 23. (INS)—Application has been filed with the postoffice department for a new east-west air mail route to operate between Tulsa and Atlanta, it was revealed here today.

The application was a joint request of the Tulsa, Atlanta, Muskogee, Okla., Fort Smith, Ark., Little Rock, Memphis and Birmingham Chambers of Commerce. Tentative plans are for mail pickup stops at those points.

A St. Louis aircraft corporation was reported desirous to bid for the contract and establish a passenger service in connection with the proposed air mail line.

Periodical Pains Relieved In 3 Minutes

Month after month some women still suffer needless pain, but those who know simply go to a drug store or soda fount, get a package or dose of "B-C," and get perfect relief in 3 minutes, continuing their duties in pain-free, easy comfort.

"B-C" is the formula of two North Carolina druggists, contains several ingredients that function together for the relief of headache, neuralgia and periodical pains, accomplishing in a few minutes what no one drug formula can do under 1 to 3 hours.

"B-C" stops the pain, quiets the nerves, is perfectly harmless. No other preparation like it. Nothing else gives such profound relief. Ask your druggist, he knows.—Adv.

FINE FOWLS GO ON DISPLAY

6,200 Birds En Route to Chicago Show

CHICAGO, Nov. 23. (AP)—Six thousand two hundred scions of the aristocracy of fowl and an extra baker's dozen that aren't in the social register yet will be able to write home that they escaped the big Thanksgiving massacre.

The 6,200 survivors will be the turkeys, ducks, pheasants, geese, chicks and chickens and their relatives who are being taken for a ride this week to the annual poultry show here—one of the animal "conventions" of the farm week conclave which begins Nov. 30 and includes the International Livestock exposition, American Farm Bureau federation and other agricultural gatherings.

The odd dozen saved from Thanksgiving execution are the 4-month-old brood of "turkens" under observation of the Rev. Castor Ordonez, head of the biology department at De Paul university. He induced an aristocratic white Austrian turkey to mate morganatically with a Rhode Island Red hen, and is raising the youngsters with the hope the hybrids will father and mother a new race. The meat, he said, is tastier and the fowl more efficient in producing marketable flesh than either turkey or chicken.

Entries at the forthcoming poultry exposition include 600 from California, Texas, Missouri and the Southwest.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Monday morning dawned with a mist in the air like that of spring. Even though it grew cold about noon, the feeling of spring remained with us and our eyes were open for the little beauties that always seem to touch the spirit in those misty early days when nature is waking from a long sleep.

Well, we have heard that you get what you are looking for and we got the beauty. With the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs stressing a move for beautification, we feel that laurels should be handed to some of the citizens of Wichita Falls, who have inaugurated such a movement just because they loved the beautiful things of life.

◇ ◇ ◇

There's a pretty little street that lies between Brook and Harrison—(we beg pardon; it is longer than that but we went that distance)—that is worth traversing. At 1918 Victory there lives a lover of flowers. No one passing could dispute it. There are rose-colored verbenas round the trees on the green boulevard and chrysanthemums blooming back of the blue of ageratum in the beds around the house.

◇ ◇ ◇

There is one cluster of white blossoms that looks like a huge snowball. Little evergreens are silvery in the mist. But the striking thing is that Mr. or Mrs. R. Lee Joiner, who own the place (or both of them) have taken advantage of a vacant lot next door and made one of the most glorious beauty spots we have seen in the city.

◇ ◇ ◇

The chrysanthemums are staked up so that their pretty faces will not de draggled by the beating rain and there are clusters—giant bouquoets—of pink and yellow and maroon and white. Not the giant flowers that bloom on disbudded plants, but flowers and more flowers—like the masses of flowers that you remember before they used to pinch the buds for flower shows.

◇ ◇ ◇

We do not know who lives at 1924 Victory, but Santa Claus must envy them. There are two of the most perfect Christmas trees there we ever saw. May they live forever!

◇ ◇ ◇

This beautification of vacant lots next door to home is getting to be a lovely spirit that "catches" and it is one infection for which we are glad.

◇ ◇ ◇

The lot next to Mrs. Frank Timberlake's home has been gorgeous this summer with golden cosmos and with zinnias in magnificent coloring and we hope they spread.

◇ ◇ ◇

And let the city look at the vacant lot next to Mr. Rhea Howard's home next spring. Mr. Howard has indulged a passion for tulips and we expect to see marching ranks of gorgeous blossoms in all the beautiful shades that ladies wear in spring. He has a new variety, also. Wichita Falls will be a tulip city in the spring.

Highland Heights Groups Discuss Home Missions

Mrs. Viola Frost talked on the America negro. Two negro spirituals were sung by Mesdames Frank Creighton and Phil Hesler.

Impressive Service Held By Floral Heights W. M. S.

Members of Floral Heights Methodist Woman's Missionary society observed the week of prayer service in an all day meeting at the church Monday with Mrs. W. H. Roper leading the morning service on the theme, "Love, the Law of Life." The prelude to the service was a hymn played softly by Mrs. Lester Jones, after which Mrs. Roper led the devotional on the lifting power of love and with the members present, gave the responsive reading. The prayer hymn music was played by Mrs. Jones while members read the words of Whittier's "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind" to themselves.

An impressive feature of the morning session was the devotional hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," sung by Mrs. Fred Sehmann, between the verses of which Mrs. Roper gave beautiful comments. Following the silence and meditation after the hymn, Mrs. W. C. Chapman told the interesting story of "Kagawa the Apostle of Love in Action," and after a prayer, Mrs. R. J. Claypool have a splendid history of "Spofford Home."

The softly sung hymn led up to the hours of communion service administered by Rev. Finis Crutchfield while Miss Martha Johnson played soft music.

Afternoon Service

After a short intermission, Mrs. W. B. Guthrie called the afternoon meeting to order, using Jesus' challenge, "Rise Up and Follow Me" for the theme of the program. She gave a beautiful devotional following the musical prelude and the audience bowed their heads in meditation during the music of the hymn following.

Mrs. G. Wayne Barker sang the lovely solo hymn of the afternoon service with Mrs. Guthrie giving the impressive responses between each verse. A spiritual meditation followed with soft music marking the period.

Mrs. Charles H. Crowell told the impressive story of the life of Belle Bennett and after prayer, Mrs. Grady Payne gave a one-act play, "Crooked Walls," taking each of the parts in an impressive manner. The play was an inspiration to offerings for the upkeep of buildings in which Korea, China, Japan and Mexico were doing effective mission service. It led directly up to the movement to the chancel where members of the society gave their week of prayer offerings.

The group remained at the chancel during the consecrational hymn, "Take My Life" and approximately 50 members were dismissed with silent prayer and meditation.

First Methodist W. M. S. Has Beautiful Program

The background of a lovely home with its softly glowing lights and cheerful crackling wood fire made the impressive Week of Prayer service held by members of the First Methodist Woman's Missionary society at the home of Mrs. N. H. Martin Monday beautifully effective. Mrs. W. W. Cook presided and Mrs. P. P. Langford gave the devotional on Thanksgiving in spiritual a manner that its impression lasted throughout the service. Mrs. Stanley Raub, accompanied by Mrs. J. A. O'Brien, sang "Thank God for Roses."

A story of the life of Mrs. K. T. Soong, strong, true and beautiful in its Christian phases, was told by Mrs. S. S. McKenney. "Her one passion," the speaker said, "was to glorify Christian life and though from a human standpoint, she had reached the peak of life, she was always ready to be friendly to the lowly. Her hand had a part in shaping the destiny of China." Her beautiful burial service conducted by the form of the Southern Methodist church was described and it was noted that this woman's second daughter is the wife of the man who now rules the destiny of China.

The story of a Japanese Christian boy, "Kagawa," was told vividly by Mrs. C. E. Basham, who spoke of him as the apostle of love in action. Kagawa's present goal is to win a million souls to Christianity in three years, 1930-1932. Mrs. Basham told of the boys being disinherited by a rich uncle who had planned a diplomatic career for him and of his life in the slums during his school work. He lived, she stated, on about $1.50 per week. Though Kagawa has been imprisoned as a radical his teachings are now, she said, regarded as the best argument against Russian communism. He is a student, a social worker, an evangelist, a writer and a labor organizer, but his work as an evangelist is recognized as his outstanding work, and at the age of 42, he is expected to do much for the country. His plea is for missionaries outside of city life; missionaries who will go and live and work among the fisher folk.

Mission Play

A one-act play directed by Mrs. T. A. Hicks was the feature of the morning. Mrs. Hicks took the part of Mrs. Harris and Mrs. D. J. Carithers of Miss Clark, two members of a missionary society who did not believe that the women of the societies would stand giving donations for repairing and keeping up foreign buildings in times of depression. They were in the office of Miss Case, head of the committee for women's work in foreign countries and of the fellowship committee, and Miss Case, entering overheard part of their conversation. Mrs. Spragins took the part of Miss Case beautifully and with the entry of Mrs. J. E. O'Brien as Miss Anne Deavours, head of the Centro-social school in Monterey; Mrs. Ben Jones as Miss Belle Markey, principal of a college in Chihuahua; Mrs. Josach Easley, as Miss Myrtle Pollard, a teacher in a progressive college in Mexico; Mrs. G. K. Wilson as Deaconess Kern, telling of a recent visit to Holston institute in Korea; Miss Jeannette Moore, as Miss Kiang, a social evangelistic worker in Japan and representative of schools in China, the two ladies in the play and the entire audience were convinced of the necessity of work to keep up established schools. Miss Moore and Mrs. O'Brien were lovely in their Japanese and Mexican costumes and Mrs. Wilson made a demure deaconess. Parts were played so naturally that each was splendid.

Luncheon to 85

Mrs. Jason Walker, chairman in charge of the luncheon, was assisted by Mrs. J. C. Hanks and Mrs. N. H. Martin, the hostess. Mesdames T. C. Anthony, J. C. Hanks, A. B. Duncan, Homer Lee, John Marrs, E. N. Ash, and Mrs. J. S. Riggs, who represented Mrs. E. B. Lehrack in her absence, were hostesses who met and seated the guests and assisted in serving the delightful plate luncheon at noon. The invocation was said by Dr. S. S. McKenney.

Directly after luncheon, the meeting was called to order and after a song Mrs. C. W. Snider gave the opening prayer. Dr. McKenney, N. H. Martin and Dr. C. A. Spragins were introduced and gave pleasant greetings and words of congratulation on outstanding work to the members.

Ella Merle Mathis Bristol featured the afternoon with two delightful readings, "Soul of Prayer" by William Stidger and "In Praise of Little Children," by William Canton.

Mrs. R. L. Underwood told of the work at Spofford Home, a home in Kansas City where maladjusted children are taken care of, using charts and pictures to emphasize the interesting talk.

Mrs. W. W. Silk gave a beautiful prayer for the sick of the church and the community and after the song "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," sung by the assembly, Mrs. Wayne Somerville gave the closing prayer. About 85 members were present.

North Side W. M. S. Has Mission Study

Members of the North Side Baptist W. M. S. met in circles Monday afternoon for mission study. Mrs. R. Boone was hostess to circle one and the meeting was opened with a song. Mrs. Boone gave the devotional from the Book of Psalms and Mrs. R. L. Anderson gave the opening prayer.

The lesson was taken from the textbook, "Pioneer Women," and those taking part were Mesdames Bill Hoskins, J. B. Ozannon, R. L. Anderson and C. G. Coleman.

TEETH COME HIGH

VANCOUVER, B. C.—A farmer in Peace river district, according to a story told by C. Webber, recently visited his dentist to obtain a set of false teeth. He offered the dentist oats in exchange for the molars. He nearly fainted when the dentist asked 1,500 bushels of oats for the set. The low market price of oats accounted for the "high" price of the teeth.

HARRIS COUNTY TO FIGHT TEXAS MOTOR LICENSE LAW

WACO MURDER TRIAL DELAYED

Youth Arrested Iowa Park Faces Hearing Feb. 1

WACO, Texas, Nov. 23. (AP)—The murder trial of William C. Beck, 19, accused of slaying O. L. Jones, Waco automobile salesman, was continued today until Feb. 1, due to absence of defense witnesses.

Defense attorneys said they wished to obtain testimony from Dr. W. G. Campbell of the University of California at Los Angeles, and other persons, relative to the defendants' sanity.

They said Dr. Campbell had examined Beck when the defendant was a student at the University of Texas. Dr. Campbell was formerly connected with that institution.

Officers claimed Beck had admitted shooting Jones to death on a highway seven miles north of Waco with robbery as his motive.

YOUTH ARRESTED IN WICHITA FALLS

William C. Beck was arrested here by members of the sheriff's department. Shortly before his arrest he had called at the sheriff's office to inquire whether he would be liable under kidnaping laws if he eloped to Oklahoma with a young Wichita Falls shop girl. The girl he named as his prospective bride later denied they had planned to elope.

IDOLIZED IDOL EYES

LONDON.—Natives in African and eastern countries idolize the idol eyes made in England. A firm on Oxford street receives numerous orders from these countries to make artificial eyes for the idols. Some of them are passive, others have a fierce look, and still others are liquid pools of sympathy. The firm has succeeded in making artificial eyes in which the pupils expand and contract.

D. A. V. Commends City's Response To Sale of Flowers

Commendation of the response of Wichita Falls citizens to the Forget-Me-Not sale staged here on Nov. 7 for the benefit of disabled veterans of the world war was expressed by members of the Wichita Falls chapter of the D. A. V. in a meeting at the Memorial auditorium Monday night.

Per capita contributions to the relief fund, based upon chapter memberships and upon populations in their various areas, were much larger in Wichita Falls than in other North Texas cities from which reports have been obtained, according to Fred Cone, commander of the local chapter.

Particular commendation was accorded members of the Girl Reserves, who sold the forget-me-nots on the streets here throughtout the entire day of Saturday, Nov. 7. Aside from obtaining an excellent volume of sales in the first such drive ever made in Wichita Falls, the Girl Reserves immediately turned to the community chest the full amount of the percentage which they were allowed for their work. Members of the D. A. V. also voted their appreciation to Miss Juanita Kinsey, under whose direction the force of Girl Reserves was assembled for the flower sale, and who aided throughout the day when it was staged.

Physicians to Leave Knife Blade Deep in Brain of Workman

CHICAGO, Nov. 23. (AP)—Linus Larson will probably carry to his grave the two and one-half inch knife blade lodged in his brain, reminder of a youthful brawl.

Dr. Karl Meyer, medical director of the county hospital, said today the staff had decided not to operate because Larson is 59 years old and such an operation would be extremely hazardous.

The medical director recognized Larson, a coal teamster, as the man brought to the hospital 15 years ago after a fall from a coal wagon. Then, an X-ray was taken, disclosing the knife blade. Larson slipped out of the hospital.

Larson's only ill effects from the blade have been frequent lapses of consciousness, several of which have nearly been fatal.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas fabricating plants supply about one-half of the structural steel annually used in the state—160,000 tons valued roughly at $15,000,000. The wages of the Texas steel industry are about $2,500,000 a year.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

The first two units of the dozen similar units that ultimately will be built at Jasper for the manufacture of wooden crates and other wooden products are under construction, backed by a $35,000,000 Michigan concern. The two units will employ 100 workers, additional units proportionately more.

An example of community effort is reported from Snyder where a hundred men and women from over Scurry county devoted six days' work to canning more than 4,000 pounds of meat and vegetables contributed by other citizens. The whole was contributed to charity organizations for free distribution.

Pouring of concrete on state highway No. 10 between Collinsville and Tioga (Grayson county) is under way. Seven more miles will connect the Grayson county system with the Denton county highways on the south. At Whitesboro, on the north, connection with No. 5, from Texarkana to Wichita Falls, already exists for another transstate highway.

Kilgore, transformed by its proximity to one of the great oil fields of the world from a farming hamlet to a thriving oil and industrial center, recently celebrated completion of its first block of paving, is busy getting ready to build more.

Wichitan to Speak At Rocky Point

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Nov. 23.—Roy J. Daniel, Wichita Falls, will be the principal speaker at Rocky Point Parent-Teacher association meeting to be held Tuesday night at the school. His subject will be "School Laws." W. D. King of that community will discuss "Citizenship." The pupils of the Rocky Point school will give "The Song of the Flag" and the flag salute, after which Carl Greene will be presented in a violin solo. Buddy Richardson will give the new flag salute, and the High-Line quartet of Electra will appear in special numbers. Miss Alma Cheaney, principal of the school and publicity chairman of the association, states that every one is especially invited to attend the meeting.

Rocky Point has the record of having one of the best rural P.-T. A.'s in Northwest Texas. Recently a clinic was held at the school and the diphtheria toxoid was given to 33 school children, and the association paid the expenses of Dr. C. W. Monroe, city health officer of Electra, to administer the toxoid. He was assisted by Mrs. Roy Ackerman, Mrs. C. Roberts and Miss Cheaney. Persons who cooperated by giving the toxoid to their children were Messrs. E. H. Hamilton, L. A. Clark, C. E. Miller, T. L. Jones, E. D. Richardson, W. M. Turner, S. E. Byrd, J. A. Byrd, C. Roberts, W. J. Bingham, B. C. Davis, W. D. King, T. S. Whitcamp, A. Randolph, H. A. Matthews and A. Bailey.

Another health clinic was also held recently with Drs. T. H. Parmley, P. E. Fish, R. R. Ramey and Miss Mabel Jones of the Parmley-Ogden hospital, and Miss Iva Mayfield, Austin, district health nurse, in charge. Fifty children were examined.

Criticizing Critics

AN AMERICAN orchestra leader, returning from a visit to Russia, reports that no professional critics cover any of the musical events in the land of Stalin. Instead, each theater and concert hall has a big blackboard in the lobby, and any patron who cares to writes his own criticism of the performance on it, for all to read.

Now this seems to be one of the neatest ideas that Soviet Russia has yet brought forth. The critic of any of the arts tends to get above himself and nourish an exaggerated idea of his own function; and the layman—the cash customer, so to speak, the ultimate consumer—tends to place altogether too much reliance on the critics' verdict.

We are, after all, very much like sheep, especially when it comes to any form of art. Instead of enjoying what we like, we strive manfully to enjoy what we are told to like.

We go to a concert, for instance, and get a great deal of pleasure out of the music; but the next day come critic announces that the orchestra was badly off form, the composers represented were dull and hackneyed, and the tenor had a bad cold—and our remembered enjoyment vanishes as we try to make our own impressions jibe with those of the Olympian reviewer.

This blackboard idea represents a way out. It would do away with a lot of hypocrisy and cant. And it might—who knows?—prove a stimulus for the performers themselves.

Of course, as a matter of common practice this stunt already works in a different guise. The patron renders his verdict, not on a blackboard, but at the box office. So, now and again, we have a phenomenon such as "Abie's Irish Rose" presented, with the critics rising unanimously to express disapproval and the general public registering its enjoyment by buying tickets in droves.

But the blackboard would add more zest to it. The artist who gets by on a puffed-up reputation might suffer, but the unknown performer of genuine ability would get a break. And the cash customer would have a lot of fun.

Baker's Anti-War Plan

NEWTON D. BAKER'S speech at Boston urging passage by congress of the Capper resolution calls attention to one of the simplest and most promising anti-war measures yet proposed.

The Capper resolution would bind the United States not to be a market for finances, industrial goods, farm products or munitions for any nation which went to war in violation of a previous agreement to arbitrate international troubles.

Its advantages are obvious. Many nations would be reluctant to enter a war if they knew that American markets and banking houses would be closed to them. Furthermore, if a war did get started there would be much less chance for the United States to get involved through commercial and financial ties with one of the combatants.

Mr. Baker believes that adoption of such a policy by the United States would prevent large-scale wars. The plan is at least worth a trial.

When Youngsters Drive

ONE of the most disturbing traffic accidents of the season is that recently recorded in Kansas City, where an auto driven by a 14-year-old boy knocked down and killed a pedestrian at a street intersection.

No youngster of 14, of course, or of an age anywhere near 14, should ever be permitted to drive an automobile on any public street. In this case, to be sure, the lad is said to have been driving without his parents' consent; but that fact only adds to the weight of the object lesson.

Parents must not only keep their children out of the driver's seat. They must see to it, very rigidly, that the ruling is obeyed. When a child of that age does drive, and gets involved in an accident, the major part of the responsibility rests on his father and mother. Keeping child-drivers off the streets is primarily their job, not the police department's.

Cancer and Racketeers

THE Chicago specialist who characterized cancer cells as "racketeers" in the human bod ygave about as apt a description of the malady for the layman as could well be invented. Also, when you stop to think about it, he gave an exceedingly good description of the racketeer.

For if the cancer cells can be described as racketeers, the racketeers of real life can very well be described as cancers. They grow and spread in the municipal body at an alarming rate, they make the municipal body very sick, and—in a good many American cities—they have made a major operation as imperative necessity.

The specialist who thought of the comparison made a simile that works both ways.

Indigent Dreamer's Love Song

I'll buy anything you heart desires;
Camellias to tangle in your hair,
A rope of rubies, smouldering like fires,
For you there isn't anything too rare.
How would you fancy trinkets from Cathay?
Or precious scent to dab upon your ears?
Each morning orchids on your breakfast tray,
Or ivory bracelets, mellow with the years.
Some silver slippers for your little feet,
And other silly things that you adore,
A jade and scarlet plumaged parrakeet.
I'll see that you have all of these . . . and more.
But, just now, dear, I must go out and waylay
Some trusting sou, who'll lead me five 'til payday.

Sequel

Two newspaper men, after a long night against a speakeasy bar were highly carbonated with laughing soup. (Naturally!) One of the stews was explaining how, when drunk, he sneaked home to his wife. He said that he quietly removed his apparel and just crawled into bed.

"Try it some time," he concluded as he Leon-Errol'd home. They met again the following night. "Your system's fine," said the victim. "When I got upstairs my wife stirred a bit, but never woke up. And this morning she wasn't cross—she merely smiled and called me 'Darling'."

"I'll bet that's the first time she's done that, what?" asked the guy whose idea it was in the first place.

"It's the first time," was the reply, "I've ever seen her, at all!"

Absolutely!

Vivienne Segal, whose canarying in the better shows is something to admire, encountered a gent friend who was dejected. In response to her query, he said: "They just fired me."

"For what?" she asked.

"For doing nothing!"

"Don't be ridiculous," snapped Vivienne, "the only people who get fired for doing nothing are press agents!"

Gag

It is said to have actually happened in the movie sector. Samuel Hoffenstein, one of the Broadway notables who clicked out there, was on the verge of a new contract and a stiff raise in salary. The impresarios plotted to hold him at a cut in wages. They summoned him and consumed hours "selling" him an idea.

"Look," they commenced, "think it over. If you left here and went back to New York—where the depression is awful, what would you gain?" That was the theme of it.

You know, or didn't you?—that all big movie companies spend fortunes on reference rooms—in which data or any detail of costume periods, etc., can be verified and found.

Hoffenstein sent for the head of the reference department—a gal.

"Do me a favor," dryly said Sam." I understand there is a depression in America—will you look it up and let me know if this is true?"

"Very well," was the serious retort, "I'll look it up and let you know."

I've Met Her!

Deb From the Neck Up

The "Band Wagon" gave a benefit performance the other night and backstage a chorus girl said to Frank Morgan, one of the stars: "I should think it would be a better idea to give all these poor people a good meal, instead of letting them see the show."

Morgan thought this was pretty funny, and that night at a swanky party told one of the pretty debutantes about it. Much to his amazement, she replied: "Why I think that is very sensible. Why don't they do it?"

And they crack whips! And they kick goals! And they bang pianos! And they Bing Crosby!"

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

ALEXANDER LAAS—THE HUMAN FISH—Alexander Laas, a 26-year-old Estonian, completed a swim across the Gulf of Finland from Reval to Porkkala island on the Finnish coast, a distance of 65 kilometers, Aug. 18, 1931. He swam from Nargo island to Porkkala, 25 miles, in 19 hours, and suffered considerably from the cold as the water was only 13 degrees above zero (centigrade).

Laas, who now plans to swim the English channel in an attempt to break the existing record, is known as an unusually accomplished swimmer, and has been dubbed the "human fish" because his normal blood temperature never exceeds 35 degrees centigrade, or 67 degrees fahrenheit.

THE GIRL WHO ROLLER SKATES UPSIDE DOWN—During the past few years Peggy Gray, of 310 Orange Place, Plainfield, N. J., has practiced handbalancing until she has successfully mastered the ability to do almost everything others can do on their feet while she is standing on her hands.

She eats upside down, holding the knife and fork in her toes, she does tap dancing on her hands wearing specially constructed taps, she plays a trap drum with her feet, takes daily strolls in Plainfield on her hands going up and down steps, and other similar "hand feats," but the most astounding is that of roller skating on her hands, using special skates.

SYNOPSIS

Stephen Ashe, one of San Francisco's greatest criminal lawyers, was a hard master with every one but his motherless daughter, Jan, whom he adored. Since babyhood, Jan had been allowed to do as she pleased, and now, at 13, is a wilful, independent youngster. She dearly loves her father but fears his fondness for liquor which he takes to lessen the mental strain of his legal battles. Stephen's mother and sisters, disapproving of the freedom allowed Jan, suggest that Stephen send her to school. Furious, he tells his sister, Dorothea, he does not want his daughter to be a decorative hypocrite like her, but wants her to live her own life. He reminds them of his unhappy marriage with a woman who abided by social convention. Jan's mother deserted her husband and child during the fire which destroyed San Francisco. Jan goes to Los Angeles with her father for the Channing trial. Channing, candidate for governor of California, is involved in a scandal and Stephen is to defend him.

CHAPTER VI

She was alone, having stayed to arrange her father's room. When she started to walk into the courtroom, having by the sheer arrogance of her demeanor won her way through the crowds that packed elevators and corridors, the deputy put up a heavy hand and barred her progress.

"Wait a minute, missie," he said, a large man with heavy gold chains hung fascinatingly across his stomach. "You can't go in there."

Jan swallowed a grape whole and gave him the outraged stare of a colonel halted by a green private.

"That's no place for a little girl like you," he said severely. "Probation officer'll send you to juvenile hall if she catches you around this trial."

This—to Jan Ashe! But Jan had recovered her breath.

"Don't be silly," she said briefly. The deputy looked down at her. He looked around at the crowd that was craning for a sight of the impudent little figure. He did not know exactly how to deal with this situation.

"Let's you and me get together," said Jan kindly. "You know Steve Ashe? Well, I'm his only child. If you want this show to start, you better let me in. Dad might start without the judge, but he sure ain't going to start without me."

A few grapes remained in the bag and she finished them as she strolled down the aisle.

There wasn't a vacant seat in the courtroom. The crowd had come early, drawn by the sensational nature of the case, its great political importance, the prominence of the defendant and his family, and by the presence of Stephen Ashe. But Jan pushed open the swinging gate and went inside the enclosure where stood the judge's bench, the witness stand, the jury box, the long table for the lawyers. She flung up a hand to her father, who was talking to a group of men, and then flopped down in the chair Mac had saved for her next to her dad's.

She sat down as though she had business there. Plainly this was no matinee to her. She even took off her hat and flung it on the table, where it lay like a scarlet flower among the law books and brief cases. Always, even when she was grown up and her hats cost a great deal of money, Jan would fling them upside down wherever she happened to be. Jan cared simply nothing for clothes.

That was perhaps the one place where the tight line of her heritage failed. For never lived a being who cared more for clothes or understood them better than Steve Ashe. Part of the setting, part of the drama they were to him. That pale grap suit, for instance. That blue shirt, with such a fitting collar as a man may dream of his whole life and never possess. That tie, combining the elements of dignity and daring that alone can go to make a tie what it should be. The faultless gardenia. They made him stand out from the crowd. No chance for the jury to lose sight of him. He did not intend that they should. For there was no movement, no expression, no act of his but would have some meaning.

Jan spent the days of the Channing trial in that seat. The district attorney, whose name was McLagen and who had little girls of his own, proper and well-brought-up little girls who knew nothing of such matters, glared at her from under his bushy Scotch eyebrows. He resented her. But Jan disliked all district attorneys and paid no particular attention to this one.

It was not a pleasant trial. The worst of it was the man Channing, who sagged visibly in his seat, while Stephen Ashe, safe and dangerous and smiling, fought the evidence step by step.

In private, Ashe damned him for it. "What's the use of my sweating blood to prove you innocent when you're sitting there looking guilty as hell," he said.

And there was Channing's wife, standing by him loyally, her prop smile stiff on her lips and her eyes, with that new and terrible curiosity shifting from her husband to the girl and back again.

And there was the girl, strangely placid, old in her vaunted youth.

A week after the trial opened, Jan knew that her father was worried. He was altogether too charming. His wit scintillated. That, as Jan well knew, was because he had nothing more concrete to offer the jury. Like a clever boxer, he was sparring for time, for an opening, and showing a lot of fancy footwork in the meantime to dazzle them. As the difficulties increased his zest increased with them.

Thus she was not surprised one night, upon returning from dining with an elegant dowager who was a friend of her grandmother, to find him and Mac deep in secret consultation.

"What're you up to?" she demanded, rolling herself a cigaret with a sigh of relief. "The old lady was fearfully cut up because you didn't come. I got awful tired answering questions about you. They said you ought to get married, and I said we didn't want any woman around permanently. She's got a daughter makes me think of that poem, 'There is a garden in her face, where roses and fair lilies blow.' Now what are you two cooking up?"

They told her.

Jan cocked one eyebrow. "Not so bad," she said.

Stephen Ashe met the daughter with the flower face. It came about in the simplest fashion. Upon that particular night he wished his whereabouts to be well and favorably known. Therefore he followed Jan's example and went to dine with the dowager, who was a person of importance. The world would inevitably read that upon such and such a night she had entertained in honor of that famous counselor at law, Mr. Stephen Ashe.

Several people noticed how dark they were, Stephen Ashe and the daughter, side by side at the glittering table like a pair of blackbirds. His hair was brushed until it shone and lay close about his finely shaped head. And she wore hers sleek and smooth, and fastened at her neck by a fan of pearls.

Very gentle she seemed, and would not look at him. Her skin was not white—it was pale gold, it was almost the color of the champagne in his glass; and that amused him, for he did not intend to drink any champagne that night. Not that he couldn't drink like a gentleman, as his father had done before him. Jan, he thought, was a bit hipped on that one subject. Still he would not drink tonight, since it might well be that he would need a clear head in the morning. Meantime, perhaps this lady of the champagne skin and the droops lids would do as well by way of relaxation.

Community Club Formed in Hardeman

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 23.—A community club for the community around rural King's high school has been organized with I. L. Flippen selected as first president of the club, Hugh Brown as vice president, and Mrs. Lucile Schraeder as secretary-treasurer. The second Thursday night of each month was selected for the meeting night by the nominating committee which brought in the names of the officers, elected by acclamation. This committee consisted of C. R. Wofford, principal of the school; Cube Lovelace, Mrs. John Walser, Mrs. Frank Lamberton and Miss Julia May Baker.

The president then appointed two committees, program and arrangements. The program committee is Mrs. Harris Hunter, Mrs. L. P. King and Mrs. R. K. Coker. The arrangements committee is Mrs. E. L. Lewis, Mrs. Jess Irvin and Mrs. Frank Lamberton.

The school children of King's High presented a 30-minute program prior of the organization, after which H. D. Cuykendall connected with the Quanah Tribune Chief, gave a 30-minute entertainment, and later explained the workings of community clubs, what they are, how they function, and told of what such clubs had accomplished elsewhere.

County Agent Luther Hunter talked on the development of 4-H clubs explaining what each H in the 4-H clover design stood for. One stands for "head," "hand," "heart," and "health," and Mr. Hunter discussed each of these phases of club work.

B. H. Smith, Quanah undertaker, one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the 4-H and home demonstration movements in the county, told of the trip of Quanah business men last week to the 4-H club pantries over the county which were entered in the contest recently closed, stating that most households on the farms had pantries full of canned goods with which to start the winter.

The organization followed the program.

A.—The confines of Turkey or the Ottoman empire have changed many times. It has for centuries included country that is in Europe as well as Asia, and at times has extended into Africa.

Q.—Does New York City pension its ex-mayors?—R. S. K.

A.—It does not. For many years it has followed the practice of erecting two street lamp posts directly before the front door of an ex-mayor's house. The residence of modern mayors in apartment houses and hotels has interrupted this practice but it doubtless would be resumed in the case of any mayor's occupying an independent house.

Q.—Where is a sailor who has no permanent home listed as a resident under the official census?—J. H. L.

A.—The crews of vessels in the American merchant marine were enumerated as such and counted as a part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated.

Q.—What is the figure on the dome of the capitol?—A. C. B.

A.—The seven-ton bronze statue on the dome of the United States capitol represents the goddess of freedom. She wears the famous helmet with an eagle's head and a long sheath of feathers on the crest. The helmet fits closely over her long curls, which fall to the waist.

Q.—At what age is a woman called an old maid?—H. A. R.

A.—The term is obsolescent if not obsolete. There are women who are "old maids" at 18 and others who do not become so classified before they are 40 or 50. This is a state of mind and not a chronological matter.

SABINE LAND SUIT FILED

Mineral Rights to River Bed Involved

AUSTIN, Nov. 23. (AP)—Harry Dolan of Georgetown today filed application in the supreme court of Texas for leave to file a petition for mandamus to compel J. H. Walker, commissioner of the state general land office, to grant him a mineral lease on a part of the Sabine river bed in the East Texas oil field.

Dolan claimed that on July 23 and Aug. 22 he filed with the county surveyor of Gregg county applications to have surveyed an unsurveyed area of school lands which had not been listed on records of the land office as school land, that part of the bed and channel of the Sabine river where the river enters Gregg county on its western boundary line to a point where Hawkins creek flows into the river.

He alleged that area belonged to the public free school funds and that he had complied with a statute enacted by the regular session of the 42nd Texas legislature in filing his claim. He alleged the survey had been made by the county surveyor.

He asserted his purpose was to fix a preferential right to purchase a mineral lease thereon at a minimum price to be fixed by the commissioner of the general land office.

The second extraordinary session of the 42nd legislature amended the law to provide for development of state-owned river beds for oil and gas purposes and setting up a board of mineral development which was empowered to receive bids for and contract for leasing or drilling in river beds, it being particularly planned to develop the Sabine river. Gov. R. S. Sterling advocating the plan on a claim that hundreds of thousands of barrels of oil underlying the river in the rich East Texas field and rightfully belonging to the state were being drained from the pool.

The law as amended provided that in event the board of mineral development should decide to do so it could contract and drill independently in the name of the state.

The amended law will not become effective, however, until Jan. 6.

Oklahoma Towns Hit by Trucking Of Cotton Across River Into Texas

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., Nov. 23.—A pay roll estimated from $3,000 to $3,500 per week is being lost to the laboring people of Altus on account of the cotton crop being hauled out of this section by truck, according to figures compiled by the compresses and railroads of the city.

The two compresses, the Traders and Altus, are using at this time at least 175 fewer men on account of the sudden influx of Texas-owned and Texas-operated trucks that are taking the cotton of Southwest Oklahoma to Texas rail points. All of this cotton will be compressed en route by Texas compresses because practically none of it is being trucked directly to the ports.

Highways Hurt

It would be difficult to make an estimate on what these large trucks, hauling from 18 to 32 bales of cotton each, are costing Oklahoma. The revenue derived from them is a trifle sum compared to the damage they are doing to the highways and the loss of revenue they are causing southwest Oklahoma industries.

These trucks can buy an Oklahoma license, paying the last quarter only, for $11.75. They will do more damage to the roads on one trip than that sum represents, officials declared. They buy practically no gasoline and oil in this state, filling up with cheap Texas fuels that enable them to get back into Texas without buying anything on this side of the line, they added.

Pay Roll Cut

C. B. Bebingfield, manager of the Altus compress, estimates that 80 per cent of the cotton this year has gone out by truck, with less than five per cent of it being compressed. His pay roll has been cut from $1,250 per week to $200 last week, with practically every man going off this week. Ordinarily with the size of the 1931 crop this compress would be using 100 or more men are being employed now when the season would operate night and day.

Pay rolls at the Traders compress, the largest inland cotton compress in the world, has been cut from over $2,000 per week to $800 and R. M. Payne, superintendent, said that further reductions would have to be made immediately. About 25 are being employed now when ordinarily 150 would be used.

Altus Loses

Altus has been the largest cotton concentration point in Oklahoma in former years but the trucks, picking up cotton over the entire western section of the state, has changed this picture. The Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway is now handling less than 1,000 bales per week when without the trucks it would be handling twice that amount every day.

The pay roll of the Katy yards and offices has been cut at least $1,000 per month, George Singletary, agent, said. E. A. Kleinsteiber, Santa Fe agent, and E. R. Slocum, Frisco agent, both reported their forces had been materially reduced when the movement of cotton by rail suddenly stopped.

Burk Gets Loads

Most of the cotton being trucked out of Altus and vicinity goes to Burkburnett, which has a 56-cent rate to port compared with the local rate of 89 cents. Trucks get 70 cents per bale for hauling the cotton to Burkburnett and the remainder of the small saving is hardly noticed in the local cotton market, cotton buyers insist. Railroads are now petitioning for a 65-cent rate, which would mean that trucks could not operate for the difference, it was pointed out.

The damage to the highways has been severe. It was stated by the highway commissioners in Oklahoma City this week that it would have a man down here checking up soon on the loads the trucks are carrying and all over-weight trucks will be forbidden to operate.

Poultry Show in Barkley Building

The J. P. Barkley building at 604 Scott, formerly occupied by the Fox Chevrolet company, has been obtained as the location for the Wichita Valley poultry show to be held Dec. 2-5.

The size of the building assures abundant room for all exhibits.

A special effort is being made to secure a large entry of turkeys for the show. County Agent G. C. McGown is in charge of that department.

The Wichita Valls Poultry association will hold a called meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 in the directors room of the chamber of commerce. A full attendance is requested by officers, as several important matters in connection with the show are to receive attention.

SHE'S BRICK-MAKER

LONDON.—One would think that the champion brick-maker of England would be a man, but it isn't so. The champ is Mary Goxall, of Lye, Worchestershire, and she started making bricks by hand 42 years ago. Since then she has turned out a daily average of 560 bricks, and still uses the same mould she started with. She just finished her nine millionth brick.

Scalped!

The U. S. land department announced Friday that a late federal land survey revealed the Texas-Oklahoma boundary along the northern edge of the Panhandle is too far north. A strip of land 400 to 500 feet wide and 168 miles long is really part of Oklahoma.

Border Citizens Lose Fight for School Rights

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (UP)—The supreme court today denied a group of Texans of Spanish and Mexican descent reconsideration of their unsuccessful plea to have the court review an order by the Del Rio, Texas, school authorities under which their children were barred from attending the same schools as were attended by children of other citizens.

Probe of Narcotic System Demanded

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. (INS)—Charging that the federal narcotic officials knew of the alleged narcotic smuggling and other activities of the late Arnold Rothstein but failed to suppress them and that no action has ever been taken on discovered corruption among narcotic agents, Representative Loring M. Black of Brooklyn announced today that he would ask congress to investigate the whole federal narcotic enforcement service.

He had, he said, been continually frustrated in his investigations and expressed the belief that now, with the Democrats in charge in the house, the investigation will be granted.

He pronounced dope as the chief patron of the murderous crime we have today. Without dope, he declared, our crime would not be distinguished with the brutality and careless murderousness that now distinguished it.

"Without some stimulant," Black declared, "even the hardest gangsters of the underworld could not be moved to murder so frequently. They obtain this stimulant in opium and heroin."

How to Get Relief From Catarrh

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness, or head noises, go to Allison's Drug Store or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength); take this home, add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to make, tastes pleasant and costs little. Every one who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need.—Adv.

Burro 'Midnight Express' Carries Miners' Mail

QUARTEVILLE, Ore., (UP)—An educated burro, the "midnight express," operates over the Quartsville trail connecting miners of this area with the outside world.

The burro travels the road alone, carrying mail and orders for supplies from operators of a placer mine to Roberts station, 12 miles down stream.

This train, like all others, carries its identifying sound—a bray instead of a whistle—and never fails to make its arrival known.

This is the first known case of a burro to operate under its own direction.

Dean Declares Students Fail to Retain Facts

LINCOLN, Neb., (UP)—College students forget from 43 to 47.8 per cent of the facts they learn within nine months.

This was the assertion of Dr. M. E. Haggerty, dean of the school of education at the University of Minnesota, when he addressed University of Nebraska faculty members here.

Tests, he said, had shown these results. He emphasized the importance of the college instructor repeating over and over again salient points of a lecture because of the poor memory work of students.

WORLD POWER FRAUD AIRED

Fourth Salesman of Atom-Splitting Sought

HOUSTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—The government sought a fourth suspect, Gus Barkow, today in an alleged $1,000,000 mail fraud scheme built upon a pseudo-scientific atom-splitting, power generating machine.

Three of the six under indictment were in custody—Dr. John May here, John F. Veale in Wilmington, Del., and "Doctor" Walter von Hohenau in a German prison where, the authorities feared, he would remain for a long time to come.

Von Hohenau was reported awaiting trial on a murder charge resultant from the slaying of a prison guard in an attempt to escape. Government agents described him as the "brains" of the scheme and it was believed they hoped to get him back in the United States before attempting to close the case.

Victims Prominent

Von Hohenau, said to have posed as a doctor of philosophy and an eminent scientist, spoke before various reputable national bodies of scientists in behalf of his invention, investigators learned during the many months that followed his trial in this country, in Mexico and Germany. The alleged victims included two high court judges, a United States district attorney in Texas, and others similarly prominent.

Around $1,000,000, postal authorities claimed, was collected in the United States and abroad in furtherance of the "atom splitting" scheme. Von Hohenau and his associates were accused of representing the machine capable of projecting water to such a high electrical frequency as to produce power 174 times greater than the power required in the "cracking." That sort of a contrivance, authorities said, would have been as good or better than perpetual motion and would have been capable of revolutionizing the power field.

Shrewd Men Duped

The unusual thing about Von Hohenau and his alleged persuasiveness was the fact that the list of victims was in no sense a "sucker list," but contained the names of shrewd and successful men.

The "professor's" trial was said even to have carried him to temporary favor with former President Calles of Mexico, who was said by agents at one time to have been duped to the extent he allowed Von Hohenau a secret service guard while he was in Mexico.

Barkow was believed to be in this region today. Clifford R. Skinner and C. B. Neumann, other defendants, were reported "somewhere in the East."

The publication of the indictment, returned about two years ago, was possible for the first time Saturday when Wilmington, Del., advised of the arrest of Veale. A court order had suppressed news of the indictment.

Rumanian Prince Backs Marriage At Risk of Crown

VIENNA, Nov. 23. (AP)—Reports in official circles at Belgrade today said King Carol of Rumania, acting on the advice of his brother-in-law, King Alexander of Jugoslavia, had commanded his brother, Prince Nicholas, to repudiate his recent marriage to the commoner, Madame Jana Lucia Deletj.

Nicholas, it was said, replied he was ready to forego all his royal rights, to renounce his membership in the Rumanian Hohensollern dynasty and to relinquish the public offices which he holds, to retire and live according to his own tastes on his own small fortune.

This interchange of messages, reports said, was conducted through Marshal Presan, who told Nicholas the king was willing to let him think things over for two months.

It was believed that the king was reluctant to go to extreme lengths and that he wants to avoid a repetition of the incident when he himself was obliged to go into exile with Magda Lupescu.

At the same time, it was said, the king is aware that any severe treatment of Nicholas would displease Premier Jorga, who probably would resign.

Raisin Company Makes Financial Arrangements

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Agreement has been reached by the farm board, Sun Maid raisins growers and California bankers for the financing of Sun Maid's export business next year.

Heretofore, the bankers handled virtually all of the financing but this year they sought to divert a portion to the board.

It was understood that $1,000,000 would be required. The bankers will provide $500,000 and the board will increase by $125,000 its previous commitment of approximately $375,000.

Commitments by the board for California grape growers this year total about $5,000,000.

Brothers to Grow Beards to Assert Their Masculinity

ANDERSON, Ind., Nov. 23. (AP)—Another step is planned by Nola and Geneva Armstrong, brothers, aged 31 and 33 respectively, to obliterate their masquerade of more than 30 years as girls.

They are going to let their beards grow.

Their first move was made recently when an attorney filed a petition for them in circuit court, asking permission to change their names to Noel and Gene.

Their mother, who died seven years ago, had six sons and no girls and it was to satisfy her maternal craving for a daughter that caused her to dress them in feminine clothing, the petition said.

Howard county farmers are making extensive use of trench silos for preserving the large surplus of feed crops produced this year.

INDIAN LEGACY CLAIM LOST

Tulsan Claims $1,000,000 For Old Favor

SAPULPA, Okla., Nov. 23. (UP)—A $1,000,000 claim from the estate of a wealthy Indian whom he had befriended two decades ago was not allowed J. B. Walker in Creek county court today.

Walker, a Tulsa resident, filed a petition claiming $1,000,000 from the estate of Jackson Barnett, an incompetent Creek, on the basis of a letter written by the Indian in 1926.

In the letter, signed by thumbprint, Barnett ordered that Walker be paid $1,000,000 as reward for having befriended the Indian.

Holding he had no jurisdiction in the matter, Judge Carl J. Hughes disallowed Walker's petition after the hearing which had been postponed twice.

Walker testified he brought mandamus action against the secretary of interior at Washington to force payment of the sum named in the gift. He said the court of claims at Washington instructed him that the proper place to bring action was in a probate Oklahoma court.

He then dismissed the case at Washington and filed the petition here. Judge Hughes in his ruling said he believed the case should be tried in a court of equity.

W. R. Kerr, and W. P. Smith, Walker's attorneys, gave notice of intent to appeal to the district court.

WORLD TARIFF WAR FORESEEN

English Move Weighed by U. S. Experts

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. — In the heavy increase in tariff duties by the United Kingdom, following on higher rates in Canada and the United States, business experts of the government today saw an international tariff war which they believed eventually would lead to reciprocal treaties between the principal trading nations of the world.

These experts had frowned upon the higher rates of the so-called Grundy tariff at the time of its passage, fearing it would lead to international retaliation. Since enactment of this law there has been a tremendous decrease in American trade, both as to exports and imports, although that development has been due in large measure to the business depression and price declines.

Reprisal Starts

The retaliation has developed, although, owing to depressed conditions it is not possible to discern accurately its effect on American trade. A measurement of the results of retaliation must await the return of normal conditions.

Since the war the foreign trade of the United States has been meeting increasing competition from England, France, Germany and even some of the smaller countries like Czecho-Slovakia. With high tariff walls becoming popular around the world the foreign trade situation will become more and more complicated and additional difficulties will be laid in the way of American exporters. This competition is felt chiefly in the Latin American and far eastern fields.

Trade Hampered

American trade has been handicapped in Europe by artificial barriers of all varieties, although the European countries take more goods from the United States than any other continent.

Some experts were of the opinion that the high tariff walls would become so burdensome as to make necessary reciprocity, such as was once proposed between the United States and Canada. This could be arranged by international treaty.

The British tariff increases will have little effect on American trade since annual exports amounting to only $12,000,000 are involved, according to the commerce department. It was thought no additional increases such as would much reduce American trade would be announced. America's chief exports to England are petroleum, cotton and raw materials.

Gallon a Day Capacity Failed to Save Defendant

WHEELING, W. Va., (UP)—A 63-year-old man's boast he could drink a gallon of whisky a day did not help his cause in court here.

John Hazlett, 63, was arrested on possession of liquor. When brought to trial he declared if he had any liquor in his home it was for his personal use. His daily capacity was a gallon, he added.

He was convicted and sentenced to three months in jail.

Alfonso Has One Ruling Thought—Love of Nation

PARIS, Nov. 23. (AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain, outlawed and banished by the Spanish national assembly last week on a charge of high treason, has "only one thought—love for the Spanish fatherland," he told a reporter for Le Journal, Paris newspaper.

"Sir," said Alfonso, "since I left my native land I am, and intend to remain, a plain citizen. Not even an event affecting me personally will lead me to break this rule of silence I have imposed on myself.

"But," he added in a graver voice, "in our exile, warmed by the welcome of the great and generous French nation, the queen, my children and myself have one and the same thought—love for the Spanish fatherland."

California's One Volcano Gives Four-Hour Show

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23. (US)—Disgorging steam like a gargantuan teakettle, Mount Lassen, California's only "active" volcano, was in eruption for four hours today.

At daybreak a black cloud bubbled out over the crater of the mountain and as the sun came up huge clouds of steam poured into the sky.

The unusual sight attracted thousands of spectators. Today's activity was the heaviest the mountain has displayed in several years.

Hndu-Moslem Split Menaces Indian Parley

LONDON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald made strenuous efforts today to save the Indian round table conference from dissolution because of the gulf between Hindu and Moslem participants. He interviewed all groups of delegates in turn and will continue to do so tomorrow. This was Mahatma Gandhi's day of silence and he did not participate in the discussions, but he met the prime minister.

DID YOU EVER EAT CRANBERRY MUFFINS?

WHAT A GLORIOUS THANKSGIVING

surprise

THANKS TO CALUMET'S DOUBLE-ACTION!

Sh-h-h! Here's a glorious surprise to spring on your family. Something new! Something invented especially for Thanksgiving Day... Calumet Cranberry Muffins!

It won't take you long—they're jiffy-quick! Just use the easy recipe—use Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder—and take your bows! Your muffins will be the talk of the day! So temptingly delicious—so marvelously light and fluffy—everybody will praise them to the skies!

And the secret is—Calumet's Double-Action! That's important—for it's Calumet's Double-Action that gives you such marvelous "luck". Calumet's first action, in the mixing bowl, gets the leavening properly started. Then, in the oven, the second action continues the leavening. Up!... up!... it keeps raising the batter and holds it high and light. Muffins, cakes, quick breads—everything you bake turns out perfectly—beautifully!

WHAT AN ECONOMY!—The easy, tested recipe given here is a Calumet recipe—specially designed for the Calumet proportion—only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour. That's the usual Calumet proportion and should be followed for best results—a splendid economy! And remember, it's the perfect efficiency of Calumet's Double-Action that makes this economical proportion possible.

When you see the transformation Calumet's Double-Action causes in your baking—you'll know it's the real bargain baking powder. A bargain—because it prevents disappointing failures, wasted time and ingredients. A bargain—because it brings you unfailingly the kind of baking you can take real pride in. And that's the bargain that counts most in baking! Get Calumet at your grocer's to-day. See why it is the world's largest-selling baking powder!... Calumet is a product of General Foods Corporation.

CRANBERRY MUFFINS

2½ cups sifted flour
2½ teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
½ cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup cranberries, coarsely chopped
1 cup milk

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream well. Add eggs. Combine cranberries and flour. Add to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating only enough to blend. Bake in greased muffin pans in hot oven (400° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 18 medium-sized muffins.

(All measurements are level.)

NOTE IN BOTTLE TELLS OF SHIPWRECK

LONE SURVIVOR PENS LETTER

Request for Notifying Relatives Found

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Nov. 23. (AP)—A note, purporting to bear a story of a shipwreck at sea and the suicide of a lone survivor after seven days of torture from thirst and hunger in an open boat, was found in a bottle washed ashore near Flagler beach yesterday.

The note read:

"Out at sea, Oct. 2, 1931.

"Any one finding this please notify Mrs. Patsy Avery, Kansas City, Mo. care of Frances hotel, and Mr. Lewis S. Avery, Arkansas City, Kan., care of Santa Fe Railroad company, that I am in an open boat after a shipwreck seven days. Am all in and going to jump overboard and end this suffering. Am so thirsty and hungry.

"Thanks."

It is signed Lorsin E. Avery, second mate of S. S. Goodhope. Coast guard officials here had no record of the sinking of such a vessel.

MRS. AVERY KNOWN IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23. (AP)—The Frances hotel reported today that a "Mrs. Patsy Avery" had lived there until about three months ago. The present whereabouts of Mrs. Avery was unknown to the hotel.

"Mr. Patsy Avery" was mentioned in a note found near Dayona Beach Fla., relating the story of a purported shipwreck.

Mrs. Norton Asks Welfare Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (INS)—Investigation of the District of Columbia board of public welfare, as a culmination of cruelty charges brought against Harry and Elsie Riley, for alleged mistreatment of their 13-year-old daughter Edith, was demanded today by Rep. Mary T. Norton, Republican of New Jersey. She is expected to become chairman of the house district committee at the December session. Mrs. Norton's demands followed similar declarations of Representative Bowman, Republican of West Virginia.

The little girl, said to have been kept a virtual prisoner in a dark closet by her stepmother for nearly four years, is now under observation at Gallinger hospital, to determine her mental and physical conditions.

The board of public welfare came under fire when it was brought out that Edith's case had been reported to attaches of the board several times without resultant action.

Noted Bridge Builder Dies Near Leavenworth

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 23. (AP)—Amos McLouth, 92, founder of the Jefferson county town which bears his name, died today at the national military home near Leavenworth.

For almost 40 years he was a salesman and engineer for the Missouri Bridge and Iron Works company. He sold bridges in almost every state in the union. The largest of these is a bridge across the bay at Galveston, Texas.

Here's Protest to Go With Gas Bill

The citizens committee appointed by Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., to advise with the city council in its efforts to obtain lower gas rates suggests that gas users fill out and sign the coupon herewith and mail or hand it in when paying gas bills:

Wichita Falls, Texas,

Nov. ....., 1931.

My bill for gas due Nov. .....1931, is paid under protest because rates charged are in excess of those authorized by ordinance No. 1067 of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, passed by the board of aldermen and approved by the mayor Aug. 24, 1931, and effective on Oct. 1, 1931. All amounts in excess of rates fixed by that ordinance are paid to prevent interruption of service and for no other reason.

Boy Aeronaut of 90's Perfecting Fool Proof Parachute in Tests

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 23. (AP)—Nationally acclaimed as "Prince Leo, the boy aeronaut" in the gay nineties, Leo Stevens hopes to climax his career as an airman with construction of a parachute lighter than any now in use and "fool proof" in the sense that it never will fail to open.

Stevens, now carrying on his experiments quietly, was a pioneer in parachute making. One authority, Charles J. V. Murphy, in his book "Parachute," refers to Stevens as the first man ever to revise and demonstrate the "free type" of parachute.

Besides opening unfailingly through air pressure, even if the aviator's hands should "freeze" so he is unable to yank the controlling cord, Stevens' new parachute, he says, will be under control at all times. It will float, too, or bring the flier to the surface if he falls into a lake or stream, or the sea.

Stevens became "Prince Leo, the boy aeronaut" over the objections of his parents, after a more or less accidental journey that focused the spotlight of international public interest upon him. He released from its moorings a balloon awaiting an exhibition ascension before 75,000 persons in Cleveland, Ohio, and drifted out over Lake Erie for hours, then inland again on a friendly breeze until the balloon became entangled in the branches of a tree, its lone occupant unhurt.

That unpremeditated air trip, Stevens says, took place because of his fear he would be cheated of an ascension after he worked three days, helping inflate the bag.

FREIGHT CAR ORDER OUSTED

Supreme Court Sets Aside Payment Ruling

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—An order of the Interstate Commerce commission regulating payment which short line railroads must make for freight cars used, but not owned by them, was set aside in part today by the supreme court.

Acting on an appeal by the Rock Island and other trunk line roads, the court ruled that paragraphs of the order fixing compensation for the use of cars were unreasonable in certain features.

The Interstate Commerce commission July 15, 1930, laid down rules to railroads for the hire of freight cars not owned by them.

The Rock Island and other railroads challenged the order in a three-judge federal court at Chicago, contending it was a violation of their constitutional rights.

The railroads argued the order permitted the use of their freight cars by certain railroads either without the payment of any compensation whatever, or upon payment less than that found by the commission to be proper, while requiring them to pay fixed rates for the freight cars of other carriers used by them.

The court dismissed the complaint. The railroads then appealed to the supreme court.

Self-Poisoning

Sometimes a patient may have the amazing experience of going from one doctor to another and being told by each that there is nothing organically wrong but that the sufferings are largely imaginary. I have had numbers of patients come into my office and tell me that they had exactly such an experience. Upon questioning these patients I found that they suffered from a variety of symptoms such as a tired feeling, dizziness, headaches, bad breath, sleeplessness, loss of weight, indigestion, etc. It is true that a casual examination of these patients usually revealed no organic trouble, but a more careful examination often revealed that these patients were suffering from some form of self-poisoning. The types of self-poisoning which come from infected sinuses, gum abcesses, chronic appendicitis, and other infections where pus is present are usually easily detected, but the type of poisoning which comes from the absorption of toxic substances by the intestinal tract often escapes notice.

During intestinal putrefaction many poisonous substances such as indol are created in the large bowel. These toxins may seap back into the small intestines where they are readily absorbed when there is a defective ileocecal valve. This valve is placed at the junction of the small and large intestines and is supposed to prevent a backing up of the substances which they contain. When the valve does not hold these substances from returning into the small intestine, the toxins may be absorbed and enter the portal vein where they are carried by the blood to the liver. A healthy liver will neutralize many of these poisons as it does by turning the indol into a comparatively harmless substance called indican which is thrown out as a liquid waste from the kidneys. As long as the body's defense remains strong enough, the natural powers of elimination are capable of handling many such poisons and the patient may not suffer the effects of them. However, after years of overwork the liver may not function properly and the poisons begin to circulate through the blood stream with a general toxemia. This is often the beginning of definite diseases.

Some type of toxic poisoning is present in nearly every disease. Those with headaches should know that the cause is really self-poisoning. Intestinal toxema is the main cause of skin troubles and one with acne, psoriasis, eczema, boils, etc., should begin to overcome poisoning in the intestinal tract as the first step toward a cure. Those who are continuously tired are suffering from self-poisoning. Rheumatism and arthritis are always accompanied by severe intestinal toxemia, which I believe precedes the focal infections which are so often considered the cause of rheumatic disorders. Nervous disorders are always aggravated by toxins absorbed from the intestinal tract. Often a urinalysis will show an excessive amount of indican; then you may be sure that you are absorbing an excessive amount of intestinal putrefactive substances.

Those with this dangerous condition should realize that the sensible thing to do is to increase the elimination of poisons from the body in every way possible. Those who wish to know the practical way for accomplishing this may receive the instructions by writing to me, sending a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and asking for my articles on Auto-Intoxication and The Cleansing Diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Thrombus Sometimes Curable

Question—Olive T. P. writes: "My doctor tells me that I have a thrombus and also tells me that I cannot be cured—that, if I did dislodge the clot, I would die instantly. Is there any diet that is suitable for this trouble, and, if it were possible to dissolve it, might it be dislodged and I be in danger of death. I am also told that I dare not take exercises when in this condition."

Answer—I advise an orange juice fast for this trouble. Contrary to your doctor's opinion, I have seen many cases where the clot was dissolved or dislodged, and I have never seen one of these cases die. There is a possibility that the clot might enter the brain or some other vital organ, but out of the several hundred cases I have treated this has not occurred, so evidently it is not a frequent occurrence. In addition to the fast it is often beneficial to use hot and cold applications on the affected regions, but I would not advise much exercise until you have shown improvement.

Milk Good Substitute for Meat

Question—Y. A. C. asks: "Can I use milk as a substitute for meat, eggs and fish? If one eats greens sometimes, starches, fruits, and milk, does he still need meat, eggs and fish?"

Answer—The protein of milk is not exactly the same as that found in flesh foods and eggs, but it provides an excellent substitute for meat with those who are theoretically vegetarians. There is, however, no good scientific reason against the use of flesh foods in the diet, but milk or fish may be substituted when one is not inclined toward hay fever, asthma, or catarrhal disorders.

STEERS BEAT WEATHERFORD, 6-0, TO ENTER LEAGUE FINALS

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

Among other predictions we wish to hurl about is that Hank Severeid, the new Spudder manager, won't be called that very long.

The Hank part of it is hunkydora, but the Severeid is too much for one mouthful. I don't know how to pronounce it yet, and since our Spudder president now resides in St. Louis I can't get any dope on it. Unless the fans will chip in and buy me a ticket to St. Louis so I can straighten all this out, we'll be forced to call him Sevvy. Or Sev or Savvy.

By doing a little heavy thinking, however, we might be able to save that trip to St. Louis, and economize. Looking at that weird name with a studious eye, it seems that the correct pronunciation could be "Sever-eyed." Just think of pie-eyed for a good start, and then you can pronounce it.

We hope that Mr. Sever-eyed's 1932 Spudder team knocks its opponents pie-eyed.

Hail, the Champion

Promotor Bob Connor gives us a laugh in announcing that the match next Friday night between Whitey Grove and Hugh Nichols will be for the world's light heavyweight wrestling championship.

No doubt these boys will put on a fair scrap, but we don't expect the world to be jarred to any extent at the outcome. Indeed, it will be extraordinary if the news of who won gets out of Wichita county or Wichita Falls.

At the same time these two guys are grappling for the alleged title, there might be a hundred other wrestlers in a hundred other cities in Texas or the United States wrestling for the same title. The title business in wrestling is almost as big a joke as the boxing championship of the world is getting to be.

Bang! Round One

Well, this is all news to me. B. Bishop of Wichita Falls, who said he attended the Vernon-Quanah game at Vernon Armistice day, writes a letter in which he says the Vernon Lions are some scrappers. But he means scrappers in another sense—he says they pick fights with opposing teams.

"The reason for so many Vernon substitutions," says Bishop, "was that the coach would send in a second string to pick a fight. That is the way they beat Altus so bad. Five Altus players were eliminated in the first few minutes of play for fighting.

"Capt. Jim Harrell of Quanah finally got the football if he did have to fight three Vernon players.

Bishop also says the Quanah delegation didn't receive the welcome in Vernon that they received when they came to Wichita Falls early in the season. "The city would not allow the band to play unless they kept marching," he says.

Well, those are pretty serious charges and doubtless Vernon fans will be gunning for Mr. Bishop. Since we have printed Bishop's indictments, our column is open to Vernon's answer, if they want to make one.

As for the Rambler, he doesn't see that the fighting business would necessarily account for Vernon second string substitutions. If the Vernon boys wanted to fight, it seems to me the first string team on the field could start as good a fight as a second string bunch. Why did Coach Weir have to send in second string players to start fights?

If he did, then the result of the game speaks mighty well for the playing of the second stringers.

Hunting News

Dr. O. W. Wilson of this city, H. T. Merrill of Petrolia and Hiram Vaughter and Joe White of Byers recently returned from a deer and turkey hunt, say the nimrods. Everybody bagged at least one buck, with the exception of White. Merrill got one, Vaughter two, and Dr. Wilson two. In addition, each got his limit of three wild turkeys.

The party encountered another group of Wichitans while there and brought back the news that Gerald Pond of this city had killed the largest buck ever known to have been bagged in the happy hunting grounds of Southwest Texas. It was a white tail buck with nine points. Others in the party with Pond were Dr. R. H. Peterson, Dave Shepherd, James Fox and "Zeke" Taylor.

From Burkburnett

The Burkburnett all-star football team, strong independent eleven, broadcasts that it is getting tired of having their opponents dodge scheduled games. The first article of complaint sets out that the all-stars had a game booked with Henrietta Nov. 8 and that it was cancelled at the last minute. They had one cancelled by Seymour on Nov. 22. A game with the Fighting Pups of Wichita Falls was arranged in the place of this last game, but bad weather forced a postponement.

The Burk bunch is anxious for games with teams in this section.

Jealousy Leads to Murder and Suicide

CHICAGO, Nov. 23. (US)—Jealousy aroused by a flirtation at a dance led William Kaczmarek, 24, to kill Frances Polejewski, 20, and to take his own life, early today, in the girl's home, to which he had escorted her from a neighborhood dance.

Graham Backs Lug Mail To Goal in Third Canto

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, Nov. 23.—Fighting in a sea of mud and with a cold drizzle falling during most of the game, the stout-hearted Steers of Graham here today avenged an early season defeat at the hands of Weatherford by defeating the same team, 6 to 0, in a play-off battle for second place honors in district No. 4, class B.

The margin of Graham's victory today was the same as Weatherford's over the Steers in a closely fought game played here early in the season, when Turner, Weatherford quarterback, intercepted a Graham pass and ran about 40 yards for a touchdown.

Today Graham used few passes as its slashing backfield brigade of Nicklas, Wignal and Dempsey Parsley ploughed through the Weatherford defense in its victory march. Instead it was Weatherford who took to the air, and at times successfully.

Steers Meet Masons

Graham's victory places the Steers in the finals of the district with Masonic Home of Fort Worth. The two teams will play for the district championship Thanksgiving day.

The title battle will be played here it was decided late tonight after officials of the two schools had conferred by telephone. The Turkey day battle is expected to draw a great crowd from the surrounding towns.

Graham and Weatherford tied for second place by going through the season with only one conference defeat, Graham losing to Weatherford and Weatherford losing to Masonic Home.

Graham put over its winning touchdown in the third quarter after a straight march of 58 yards to the goal line. Just preceding the winning drive, the Steers had ploughed deep into Weatherford's territory, but a fumble near the 10-yard line spoiled the chance to score. Immediately after, however, the Steers clicked off six successive first downs on power plays with Nicklas going over for the touchdown. D. Parsley's attempted place kick for extra point was blocked.

Steer Line Holds

Weatherford never seriously threatened the Graham goal line, except on one occasion. That was in the second period when a Graham fumble was recovered near the 10-yard line. The visitors bucked through for a first down on the one-foot line, but a valiant Graham forward wall turned to stone at that point, and four successive tries at the line failed to make the necessary one foot. This was Weatherford's only penetration of the Graham 20-yard zone during the entire game.

Graham took the initative at the outset and probably would have scored in the first period but for a fumble. In the second period Weatherford came to life, and a passing attack, featuring Turner to James, clicked off four first downs and the Weatherford team, in this period, generally had the best of it, although they could not threaten to score. After Graham had scored in the third period, the Steers played a defensive game, the fourth period being featured mainly by exchanges of punts.

Graham's starting lineup played the entire game and did not call for a single time out.

Should Graham defeat Masonic Home Thanksgiving day, the team would meet the winner of district No. 3 in the bidistrict game. Olney leads district No. 3 and can cinch the title with a victory over Chillicothe Turkey day.

The Fighting Irish Learn the Meaning of Trojan

—NEA-Chicago Bureau

The Notre Dame juggernaut that had rolled over all comers for 26 games was wrecked by the University of Southern California eleven at South Bend, Ind. The westerners had been held scoreless until the last quarter, when they made two touchdowns, and with only two minutes to play, Baker, husky Trojan guard, place kicked from the 23-yard line, ending the game 16 to 14. Steve Banas of Notre Dame is shown off his feet in the arms of Capt. Stan Williamson, Trojan center, after making two yards in the second quarter.

OLNEY TEAM HARD AT WORK

Cubs Face Chillicothe In Final Game

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Nov. 23.—The Olney Cubs will be hard at work here this week to enact Thursday what they hope to be the last act of the district 3 class B football drama of 1931, when they meet Chillicothe. The locals came out of the rough and tumble affair with Archer City with only one cripple, Captain O'Brien, regular center. His shoulder was badly bruised and he is likely to see the Turkey day game from the sideline. Bill Crawford can be relied on to take care of the center post, however, and the Cub bosses, Acker and Heyes, are not losing any sleep over the loss of their line captain. His leadership and ability to diagnose plays will be missed, but his understudy has been playing every line position during the season without any great loss of strength.

One of the greatest offensive duels of the year, and possibly of all the years in the history of district 3, will be fought on the Cub field when the great "Rat" Ramsey, quarterback and captain of Coach Hill's Eagles, leads his team against the Cubs at 2:30 Thursday. While Ramsey has been the chief threat of the Eagles all year, he has able assistance from Cook and Wiginton and a fast charging line that is well grounded in the fundamentals of the game. By virtue of playing the same positions the two quarterbacks, Ramsey and "Bull" Graves of the Cubs will give the fans an offensive show that will be worth going miles to see. Both these boys can carry the mail well and often. Both can pass, kick and block. If there is anything they do not do Thursday it will be done by their co-workers. Captain Duckworth of Acker's charges does everything either of the other boys can do, and is the best punter and place kicker the Cubs have had in several moons. His ability to place kicks out of bounds near the goal line is one of his most effective weapons. But for the outstanding work of the two Cubs just named, Rue and Elmore would be stars of the front ranks in the minds of fans and opposing teams. Rue is particularly reliable with the ball. He carried the oval only seven times against the Archer Cats and averaged seven yards on each attempt. He is a deadly tackler and the best blocker on the team. Elmore is always dangerous when he is carrying the ball, but often nullifies a marvelous run by fumbling. Little is known about the ball carrying ability of the other Eagle backs because the attack so far has been built around Captain Ramsey.

'Hunk' Doesn't Need Condolence Over Loss; 'We Know How to Lose,' He Says

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23. (AP)—Notre Dame can "take it."

There were no tears or alibis in the camp of America's dethroned champions of college football today over their dramatic defeat by the roaring Trojans from Southern California. From Coach "Hunk" Anderson down to the lowliest scrub in the 120-man sized army, there was only one comment:

"Aw forget it. Even Babe Ruth strikes out."

The calmest one in the entire camp was the man to whom a victory Saturday meant the most. It was "Hunk," who naturally heard some comment here and there as to what Knute Rockne would have done in that torrid fourth period during which the Trojans turned apparent hopeless defeat into a thrilling conquest.

Almost a thousand telegrams, offering condolence and utmost confidence, have swamped the big shouldered leader of Notre Dame since Saturday night but the senders, Notre Dame alumni and sportsmen everywhere, might have saved their money as "Hunk" didn't need them.

"It's a funny thing, this football," he reflected today. "Notre Dame has lost one game in three years of play and every one seems to think we are hysterical. They think we don't know how to lose. Every since word was flashed over the world that we had taken one on the chin, telegrams have swamped me. Friends, former football stars here and alumni have wired "keep your dobber up, we're for you stronger than ever." Of course, I can't help but be thrilled by such a wonderful spirit of good fellowship and good sportsmanship yet I'd like to say we do know how to lose down here at Notre Dame. Southern California has a great football team and beat us in a big way with one of the finest comebacks I ever saw or hope to see again."

Baseball Men Off To League Meeting

Baseball leaders of Texas this week will start their annual trek to the minor league meeting, to be held this year at West Baden, Ind.

J. Alvin Gardner, Texas league president, plans to leave here Wednesday afternoon, and expects to meet Homer Hammond and Ted Robinson, presidents of the San Antonio and Fort Worth clubs, respectively, at Denison. The three will make the journey together from that point.

Guy Airey, secretary of the Wichita Falls Baseball club, will represent the Spudders at the meeting this year. William E. Huff, vice president, will not attend, he said last night. Airey does not plan to leave until Saturday, he said.

The meeting will open Dec. 2. The minor league board of arbitration, of which Mr. Gardner is a member, meets the night of Nov. 29.

Tipton Celebrates Victory Over Granite

Special to The Record News.

TIPTON, Okla., Nov. 23.—The Golden Tigers of Tipton are still celebrating their thrilling 12 to 6 victory over Granite here last week in the final game of the season. Several Tipton stars made their last appearance on the local gridiron in the contest, among them E. Young, four-year guard; Patton, halfback; McCormick, quarterback; Captain Southall, three-year fullback; Taylor, center; and Newsome, tackle.

A passing attack netted Tipton's first touchdown, Southall going over. The second came in the second quarter when Parks, mentioned as an all-state end, intercepted a Granite lateral pass and raced 45 yards for a touchdown.

PARADE AND RALLY PLANNED

Game to Be Dedicated To Senior Class

As the Coyotes and Vernon Lions started final workouts for their Thanksgiving day battle here, Wichita Falls yesterday started preparations for accommodating a crowd of approximately 5,000 fans expected to be here to watch the two football machines renew their traditional warfare.

A group of Wichitans, headed by Carter McGregor, was scheduled to go to Vernon today to learn the plans of Vernon folk concerning a special train to bear Vernon rooters here. If the Vernon delegation arrives in a body a suitable welcome will be arranged here. It has already been announced that Vernon fans will parade through the streets here upon their arrival Thursday.

For the first time in local history, the game will be broadcast to fans in the stands, it was announced yesterday. Loud speakers will be stationed in the grandstand, and as each play is run off an announcer from the sidelines will explain it in detail. Penalties and their cause, and every other detail of the game also will be told the fans. A battery of four experts, Randolph McCauley, Bill Habern, Jack Allen and Theodore Bratton, will do the announcing.

Big Rally Wednesday

Pep activities among the students will start with a bang Wednesday morning, when one of the biggest student rallies in the history of the school is planned. It will be held in the school assembly at 9:30 o'clock. At this rally the high school band will appear in uniform for the first time. The uniforms were purchased recently by local sportsmen.

At the rally the coming fracas with the Lions will be officially dedicated to the senior class of the high school, which will attend the game in a body, it was announced. Ed Greenwood, regular end on the Coyote team and a junior in school, will make the address of dedication.

Other speakers on the program will include J. A. Hood, county school superintendent; and Luther Hoffman, member of the board of education.

The customary parade of students will not be held on Thursday morning preceding the game, but instead will be held Wednesday afternoon at 4 p. m. in conjunction with the Maskat Temple parade, it was announced by Howard Bunch, parade marshal of the school. The girls' pep squad and the uniformed high school band will participate in the parade.

Pack at Work

The Coyotes yesterday went through a hard workout on the school practice field, mud preventing a workout behind the walls at Athletic park. The team scrimmaged Vernon plays and practiced punting and passing. Last night Head Coach Barry Holton called his two quarterbacks, J. Z. Powell and Clifford Mann into a skull session. D. L. (Country) Smith, backfielder for the Reagan Junior high team who next year will be in high school, also attended the meeting. Holton expects much of Smith next year and is starting to work on the youngster early.

Are Your Windows Helping You Sell?

EVERY merchant in town maintains displays of his wares in his windows. Every merchant expects his window displays to attract attention and to create sales.

A most important point—proper illumination—is often overlooked. Without doubt, the most effective windows in town are the best lighted windows. Passers-by just won't stop and look at a window dimly lit. Make sure your windows are well lighted—poor light, poor results.

MAKE YOUR WINDOWS SELL

Good lighting makes window displays an actual sales force. Many windows need almost as much artificial lighting in the daytime as they do at night. Lighting is too important to guess about. Hundreds of stores have seen "sales out of the window" increased 20 to 30 per cent when window lighting was bettered.

Speed up the Hesitant Buyer

Good lighting means good seeing. Much of the indecision of shoppers is due directly to poor seeing. The merchandise does not reveal its texture, shade or workmanship, clearly and instantly. But wholly apart from the difficulty of good seeing, poor lighting is depressing. Good light is stimulating—it creates the buying mood.

Well Lighted Stores Are Busy Stores

People instinctively shun gloom and seek brightness. Asked why they prefer one store to another, they may give every reason but the right one—but the fact remains that the busiest, most popular stores in every community are the stores that are best lighted. Perhaps this only means that the cleverest merchandisers understand the value of good lighting.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. (AP)—A moderate opening decline was followed by rallies in cotton today, but after selling up from 6.06 to 6.19 for January, the market slipped off again as if influenced by the decline in grains and stocks.

January sold back to 6.09 and closed at 6.12, with the general market closing steady, net 1 point higher to 2 points lower. December closed at 6.00 and May at 6.48.

The announcement from Washington with reference to arrangements for financing by the federal farm board and southern bankers of between 6½ and 7 million bales of cotton under the New Orleans agreement of last month, appeared to be without much effect on the market. Liquidation of December contracts continued but was largely in the form of switching into later months without much change in the differences and the market was supposed to be pretty well evened up in preparation for notices tomorrow.

Liverpool cables reported covering and trade buying in that market and said a fair business in cotton cloths was pending with India. Exports today 72,217 making 2,582,521 so far this season. Port receipts 64,023. U. S. port stocks 4,726,197.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 23. (AP)—Cotton developed erratic fluctuations in today's fairly active session. December liquidation was felt at the start and off and on during the day, as tomorrow will be first notice day for that month. After dropping 5 to 6 points in the early trading, prices had a good rally on shorts covering and trade buying, gaining 12 to 14 points from the early lows. Later prices turned easier owing to declines in stocks and grain and by early afternoon had lost 7 to 11 points from the highs. After ruling easy most of the afternoon the market rallied 5 to 7 points in the late trading on covering and owing to a closing improvement in stocks. The close was very steady showing net 1 point down to 1 up.

Liverpool was due to come in tomorrow 2 to 3 penny points down on New Orleans.

Liverpool came in 6 to 8 penny points better than due and sterling was considerably lower. Bar silver in London eased off to 18 5-16d. Private cables stated there was short covering and trade buying on easier sterling. Manchester cabled there was a fair cloth business with India pending.

December closed at 5.99, January at 6.11 and March at 6.31.

Port receipts 64,023; for week 103,501; for season 4,817,779; last season 5,752,067; exports 72,217; for week 97,773; for season 2,529,885; last season 2,915,089. BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Nov. 23. (AP)—Confidence in the wool market was fairly strong and prices on domestic wools showed a hardening tendency in spite of rather indifferent goods market. Unusual warm weather this fall is reported to have delayed the seasonal movement of wool clothing. The optimistic undertone in the wool market was attributed by many observers to what is regarded as a strong statistical position of domestic wools. Receipts of domestic wool at Boston during week ending Nov. 21, amounted to 3,058,700 pounds, as compared with 2,303,600 pounds a week ago.

Market Values Decline Again With Wheat and Railroads Taking Jolt

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 23. (US)—The stock market continued its decline today, with the railroad stocks especially weak. It was a rather dull session, with 1,300,000-share turnover. The market was faced with another two-cent loss in wheat, and the refusal of the railroad labor unions voluntarily to accept the requested wage reduction hardly helped sentiment. The market had the same characteristics as all recent sessions, a frightened bull element nervous over daily occurrences and lacking any inducement to actively resist the selling pressure, a modest increase in public short-selling, and almost complete absence of large-scale buying demand.

The railroad wage news was available to all market factors before the opening. Refusal of the unions to accept a wage-cut voluntarily seemed to come as a shock to many speculators, but the refusal was hardly surprising to students. The railroad labor leaders took the stand predicted here: Why cut wages to preserve dividends. In other words, the market must reconcile itself to further severe economies by railroad managements in the matter of distributions on stocks. The railroads are worried about their credit, i. e., their bonds, and every prior charge will be eliminated to preserve the standing of bonds.

If the railroads now attempt to set in motion steps to lower wages through the process provided by law, a long delay is still inevitable. In the meantime, the only hope for the roads to show improved earnings is in a pick-up of traffic. A factor which weighed heavily in the labor unions' decision on wages, but which was not mentioned publicly, was the knowledge that the railroads' difficulties in many instances resulted entirely from unwarranted purchasing of securities merely to satisfy managements' ambitions. Losses on such holdings, it has frequently been pointed out here, run into many millions of dollars.

Losses among railroad shares averaged almost two points net. Among industrials and utilities the net declines were much smaller, but the market lacked any display of resistance. Several rallies occurred during the session but failed to carry far.

Many "pivotal" points for important stocks were violated. Steel slipped down to a brand new low under 60. Liquidation was not particularly heavy but there was the same disinclination to buy stocks that has featured all recent markets. Many railroad stocks dropped to new lows and altogether almost two-score issues were under their former lows. News of the day included well-founded reports of another sharp decline in cigaret production in October compared with the previous month. The drop is understood to have exceeded 7 per cent. Compared with last October the decline was more than twice as great.

Size of the short interest is of prime importance in considering nearby prospects for the market. Large-scale short selling has not been taking place of late. The big operators are usually wary of selling large amounts of stock in a quiet market. However, there is reason to believe that the smaller speculator, the so-called public trader, has been induced by the declining trend to increase his commitments on the short side. As a result, the short interest may be somewhat larger today than, say, a week ago. The short interest is still too small to permit, without external influence on prices, more than a moderate rally.

As a matter of fact the market is dominated at the moment by purely day-to-day trading of no particular significance. The most powerful interests seem to have little or no interest in the market and as a result confident buying on a large-scale is being deferred.

A sharp break in sterling was a further contributing factor to the uncertainty of the day, but sterling's fluctuations currently have little significance except perhaps to emphasize the unlikelihood of any determined support for the currency until that nation is assured of international cooperation in restoration of the gold standard.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 23. (AP)—Severe tumbles in British exchange rates put a strain on wheat prices today, and led to breaks of almost 3 cents a bushel. Bottommost quotations reached were about 15 cents lower than the top of the recent extraordinary advance of 24 cents. Weakness of sterling exchange tended to halt export business, and the market was also bearishly affected by rains and snow in domestic wheat territory that had been complaining of drouth.

Wheat closed nervous, 2@2¾c under Saturday's finish, corn ⅝@1⅛c down, oats ½@¾c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Wheat showed a decided tendency to plunge downward most of the day, but developed considerably rallying power in late dealings. The United States wheat visible supply total, announced in the final half hour, exhibited a notable decrease of 3,430,000 bushels, in amount much larger than was looked for, and this helped to check selling, which earlier had been heavy and general. Another aid to recovery was the fact that world shipments of wheat were 13,743,000 bushels, and stocks on ocean passage had decreased 464,000 bushels, making the total afloat about 11,000 bushels less than was the case at this time last year.

Meanwhile, however, bears made much of auspicious crop reports from Argentina and Australia, and also put stress on the extend of the fall in British exchange. Sterling rates were down to 3.65 as compared with 3.72½ earlier. The reason ascribed was selling to cover payments on goods which had been rushed to Great Britain in order to anticipate new tariff decrees. Another disturbing factor was notice of 38,996,000 bushels increase in estimates of the 1932 wheat crop of the northern hemisphere, bringing the total to 3,114,412,000 bushels, exclusive of Russia.

Corn and oats went lower owing to sympathy with wheat weakness, notwithstanding that corn belt weather was unfavorable and despite extreme dearth of rural offerings.

Provisions showed relative firmness, a result of scattered buying on the part of previous speculative sellers.

PANHANDLE OIL GAUGE MADE

Production Climbs Due to Official Tests

Special to The Record News.

PAMPA, Texas, Nov. 23.—Opening up of the producing wells in the Panhandle field for official gauging has developed a small increase in daily production, the field reports show. As the tests continue under the direction of J. M. McDonald, deputy state supervisor, and his crew of 16 gaugers, field men say that it is natural that output should increase. It will probably be some time in December before output decreases to the level authorized by the Texas railroad commission of 55,000 barrelys daily.

Following is the way daily production shows up and in comparison with the previous week:

County—	Past Week Wells	Past Week Output	Prev. Week Wells	Prev. Week Output
Carson	240	6,375	240	6,221
Gray	763	40,623	763	39,574
Hutchinson	886	13,593	887	12,300
Moore	23	1,178	23	1,961
Wheeler	43	614	43	488
Totals	1,955	62,183	1,956	60,554

Two new locations, one for oil and one for gas were announced during the week, and three completions were recorded.

Texhoma Natural Gas company No. 1-T McCoy, in the center of the northeast of section 41, block 4, of I. & G. N. survey, in eastern Carson county, is a derrick building.

Skelly Oil company No. 23 Schafer, in the northeast corner of the southeast of section 189, block 3, of I. & G. N. survey, in northwestern Gray county, is a location in the dolomitic area.

The Texhoma company got three new gas wells, making approximately 100,000,000 feet of gas and from its eastern Carson gas structure. No. 1-T Dauer, located 1335 feet from the south and 656 feet from the west lines of section 71, block 4, had pay from 2101 to 2385 feet for 45,000,000 feet; No. 1-T Harrison, in the center of the northwest of section 40, block 4, is a 36,000,000-foot well in pay at 2390 to 2635 feet, and No. 2-S Schafer, in the center of the southeast of section 64, block 4, made 18,000,000 feet in pay at 2360 to 2765 feet.

The Western Union Oil company No. 1 Farwell, in section 18, range 2 east, township 3 north, of Deaf Smith county, was spudding at 75 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Wilson, in section 73, H. Kelly survey, in southeast Parmer county, was drilling below 750 feet.

Chicken Creek Oil company No. 1 Ledford, in section 55, block C, of G. & M. survey, in central Roberts county, was rigging up standard tools at 2466 feet.

MACON POOL, ARCHER

The Phillips Petroleum company No. 66 Macon-White located in block 4, section 35, A. T. N. C. L. survey in Archer county, missed the 2200 foot sand and is drilling ahead at 2360 feet. A small show of oil was encountered in a 11-foot sand cored at 2166-77 feet but was not tested.

SOUTHEAST ARCHER COMPLETION

Pois & Schultz No. 6 F. C. Green located in Jos. Levins survey, abstract 259, in southeast part of Archer county, is being placed on the pump and is rated at 100 barrels. The lime was topped at 1112 and drilled into 13 feet.

THROCKMORTON WILDCAT

The Sun Crest Oil company No. 1 Everett, located east of the center of the west line of section 1615, T. E. & L. survey, south Throckmorton county, is drilling a hard lime at a depth of 4170 feet. The well encountered at a depth of approximately 2900 feet a good gas sand estimated at 4,000,000 feet.

SOUTHEAST YOUNG COUNTY

Panhandle Refining company has spudded in on its No. 1 deep test located in the Bridwell-Mayfield lease in the southeast corner of the Indianola R. R. survey, abstarct 156. The test is also located southeast of the city of Graham about eight miles in the southeast Young gas belt.

DRILLING DELAYED

Owing to the bad roads caused by the heavy rain of Saturday and Sunday many rigs have been forced to shut down until these highways show some improvement.

One hundred tons of salt every week is being marketed from the mine near Crane City, Texas.

Gloria Swanson's Love Story

Connie Bennett Turns Marquis' Head

Continuing her fascinating story of "A Girl in Love With Love," Miss Parsons today tells of the regal homecoming of Miss Swanson and the Marquis de la Falaise after their Paris wedding.

She reveals, too, how the actress, now the proud possessor of a foreign title, plunged into a lavish mode of living that astonished sophisticated Hollywood; of increasing marital dissatisfaction and the parting that meant the marquise was to join Wallace Beery and Herbert Somborn as a divorced husband.

Miss Parsons begins with the actress' triumphant return from Europe with a husband and a foreign title.

Chapter Four

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service)

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Nov. 23.—Hollywood, not to be outdone by New York, prepared a royal homecoming for Gloria and her marquis. Conspicuous by their absence at this reception were certain famous stars. Gloria had not gone out of her way in the past to be cordial to the film celebrities and not all of them met the train or took part in the reception.

True, there were some headliners and many other lesser lights. The streets were again crowded and again Miss Swanson was cheered. The marquis who had thought he had married just a movie actress was surprised, to say the least, at this ovation. He and Gloria settled down to married life with as much privacy as the proverbial goldfish.

The marquis, genuinely in love with his bride, suggested they go to Paris and live in an apartment in keeping with his financial means. But ambition overruled.

Doubles Servants

Gloria started to live in a fashion that would have seemed extreme even to the French aristocrats when they were in power. Other stars had one butler. Gloria had two. She doubled the number of her servants. Her menage would have equalled in extravagance that of a Vanderbilt or an Astor.

She was making a big salary but she spent it—every cent. Henri started chafing at the bit. He wanted to work. He didn't enjoy being exhibited as Miss Swanson's husband. Gloria would be away all day at the studio while he, in a strange country, found time hanging heavy on his hands. He played golf, rode horseback and tried to accustom himself to these strange surroundings but he wasn't happy.

About this time Gloria who carried her royal ideas into the studio, startled every one by being wheeled on the set in a palm beach chair. A uniformed attendant stood back of her and the whole studio was agog. She explained this seeming affection by telling me she was ill and couldn't walk.

Capitalistic Ideas

These evidences of power and wealth eventually influenced Miss Swanson's ideas of picture-making. She wanted to produce her own pictures. She wasn't content to act. She felt she should have something to say about the direction, the story and the mechanics of her screen dramas.

Paramount offered her $20,000 a week, the largest sum ever offered any star. Her friends advised her to accept it but when has this amazing Swanson girl ever taken any one's advice? She is decided and definite in all her ideas and a law unto herself.

She refused to remain with Adolph Zukor's company. She started out on her own and this is where she made her first big mistake. Her pictures were not for a time a success. There were too many people "yessing" her and not enough advising her sanely and for her ultimate good.

Her finances began to cause her grave concern. Spending one's own money on pictures is very different from drawing a set salary and letting the other fellow do the worrying about production costs.

Forgets Economy

There was not any cutting down on expenses. Gloria continued to buy what she pleased. If she saw a bracelet she wanted she would get it. There is a story told that in her earlier years she would insist upon owning some trinket, wear it constantly for a few weeks and then discard it forever.

That is characteristic of the whole Swanson makeup. Gloria gets tired of people, of men, of surroundings. Perhaps she cannot help it. Once she is through there is nothing as dead as her desire or affection, for either a man or a jewel.

The romance of Gloria and the marquis was never questioned until 1929. Then there started all sorts of rumors. Up to that time their devotion was an accepted fact even in suspicious Hollywood. They were only apart when it became necessary for Henri to return to Paris to renew his immigration permit.

Sometimes Gloria would accompany him, when she was busy he would depart alone and their farewells were always duly registered in the newspapers.

Embraces Photoed

A close embrace, a passionate kiss left no doubt of their continued love. Gloria always saw to it that this scene was photographed.

Perhaps if Gloria had not been so worried over money difficulties she and Henri might have remained the devoted lovers. But the time arrived when Gloria was hard put for actual cash. She visited New York, interested a financier who loaned her money to get out of her difficulties. So pressed for cash was she that she had to part with her rights to "Sadie Thompson" to United Artists before they were earned.

"Sadie Thompson" did much to start a new Swanson vogue. It was an excellent picture, the best thing she had done in some years.

Rumbles of Gloria's interest in this and that man were heard. One well known director was whispered as being intrigued by the undeniably fascinating actress. Gloria, it was said, was also not indifferent. The director later married some one else and the gossip died down as suddenly as it started.

A rich producer was said to have fallen for the star to the point where he was financing her pictures. But Gloria steadfastly denied trouble. Time after time she asked me to deny that she and Henri were not the same turtle doves.

The real trouble started, I think, when Joseph Kennedy signed Gloria to make a series of pictures at Pathe to be released through United Artists. He gave Henri a job as special foreign observer for Pathe. In this case absence did not make the heart grow fonder.

Months and months of separation had their effect. Gloria, while discreet, was no longer mourning her husband's absence. She appeared place after place, alone—it is true—but she always managed to be the center of attraction wherever she went. A magnet, she attracted the male sex as easily as the flame attracts the moth.

Then one day some one told her that Henri had been seen dining in Paris with a party of friends and he had shown he was not indifferent to Constance Bennett, who was a guest at the same dinner.

Here La Belle Swanson sensed real rivalry. Constance Bennett is beautiful, she was said to have received a large alimony from Phil Plant when they were divorced and if it were true that Henri never took his eyes off her face, here was real danger.

The marquise became alarmed. She had no desire to lose that title. Henri's letters had been fewer and fewer.

I faced her point blank with the rumors that she and Henri were considering a legal separation. She told me she had spoken to Henri on the long distance telephone and he had said nothing about a divorse.

Having known Gloria for many years I realized that she was worried. She had no intention of letting any other woman take her husband away from her. In the past it had always been she who had said farewell.

Quoting from an interview I had with Gloria at that time she said: "I love Henri and I think he loves me. A separation of 7,000 miles is always hard but I know he isn't thinking of divorce any more than I am. I am going to join him in Paris as soon as I finish my picture."

Let it be said in justice that Gloria blamed herself and her ambition for the trouble. "It's difficult, being married to me," she admitted. That's one fine thing about Gloria Swanson, she is generous and understanding to those she loves.

Gloria never did join Henri in Paris. She made one trip after their troubles were apparent to the world but instead of an amiable young man who had always so courteously listened to her every suggestion she found a stern husband who wanted his freedom if they were to be separated.

Deep down in her heart even though Gloria realized Henri's growing indifference she never really believed she would lose him. But many tragic things were happening to Gloria about this time. She and the rich financier, who had so generously backed her other pictures, were not on the best of terms. He was said to have grown a little sour after "Queen Kelly." He wasn't any more sour than poor Gloria, who saw $900,000 go aglimmering on a colossal failure. Not her money, of course, but money that had been advanced by friends.

"Queen Kelly" and its attending worries may have been one thing that caused the breach between Gloria and the marquis. She admitted she was so engrossed with her work that she didn't have time to be a devoted wife. The talkies had arrived with a terrific rush and "Queen Kelly," born silent, was given voice. But the voice didn't save it from the ashcan.

With the Swanson luck that has always come to the rescue at the critical moment, Gloria in five weeks gave the world "The Trespasser." Edmond Goulding, called in originally to doctor the ill-fated "Queen Kelly," remained to put Swanson back on the map. Not only did her star rise once again but she was hailed as a leader in the talkies.

Her career, once more saved by a miracle, Gloria would have liked to have had Henri by her side again. But it was too late. His affections were elsewhere.

Henri, determined to seek Gloria and discuss with her their future plans, sailed for Los Angeles without so much as telling his wife that he was on his way to America. Only Constance Bennett knew that he was expected and only Constance met him in Victorville.

He went to a hotel in Los Angeles without communicating with Gloria and registered under his family name of Baily. Poor Gloria, alone in Malibu, read with humiliation that another woman had seen her husband before she had so much as had a chance to greet him. Never had the queen been so near dethronement.

Junior C-C 'Air Mail Crusaders' Open Drive to Increase Stamp Sales

Air mail stamps will be distributed within the next few days at a large number of business houses here by the "Air Mail Crusaders," a Junior chamber of commerce committee recently appointed to further air mail patronage in Wichita Falls.

Drug stores, banks, hotels and other places where the public often goes for stamps will be supplied with quantities of air mail postage and will be given a placard inscribed with the announcement, "We sell air mail stamps. Keep Wichita Falls on the air mail map. Use air mial. Time is money."

Placards are now being printed and will be distributed with air mail stamps, it was said. A. L. Hecht, chairman of the committee, is in charge.

Efforts to increase the use of air mail was started here a few days ago with the announcement that the city is apt to lose air mail service unless its use is increased. About five pounds of air mail leaves here daily, it was declared, when a city of this size should send out 20 pounds.

Council Asks State Board to Cease Giving Licenses to Cotton Trucks

Henrietta Company Protests Ordinance for Use of Distilled Water in Ice Making; Higher Price Claimed

Two ordinances governing the operation of produce salesmen in Wichita Falls were adopted on final readings, another requiring distillation of water for ice-making purposes here was adopted on its second reading, and a resolution opposing further licensing of heavy cotton-hauling trucks for use of the public highways was adopted in a busy one-hour session of the city council Monday night.

The ordinances finally adopted by the council require the licensing of wholesale and retail sellers of fruit, vegetables and other fresh produce. The first stipulates that a $100 annual license fee must be paid by concerns or individuals conducting wholesale businesses here for the sake of such commodities. It was prepared and passed after various local wholesalers of this city represented to the council that produce of inferior quality was being sold here by transient and foreign salesmen under the classification of first class merchandise.

Henrietta Protest

The second ordinance requires that all peddlers using horse-drawn or motor vehicles for the prosecution of retail sales of produce be required to obtain permits from the city. Annual fees were fixed at $10 for motor-drawn vehicles and $5 for horse-drawn vehicles.

The council passed on second reading an ordinance requiring that all water used for manufacturing ice here must be distilled. Representatives of a Henrietta ice manufacturing concern which sells ice in Wichita Falls appeared before the council to protest the adoption of such an ordinance. Their protest was based upon the claim that the Henrietta ice is made from deep well water of demonstrable purity, and their offer to submit daily samples for analysis by local health authorities. They also stated that because of having no distillation expense, they are able to offer pure ice in this city at an appreciable margin below prevailing prices on locally-made ice. After a prolonged discussion, the proposed ordinance passed on its second reading, the council intimating that the question will be opened for discussion at next Monday night's meeting before the ordinance again is brought to a vote.

Another ordinance, prepared during the past week by City Attorney Thelbert Martin at the request of the council, was passed on its first reading. It provides that any person or firm selling water here for domestic use be required to obtain a permit from the city after filing a written application to the department of health. Approval of the health department as a result of frequent tests of the water will be requisite to continuance of the permit, which will be renewable annually. The measure provides that equipment of local concerns now producing drinking water must be conditioned to guarantee purity in the supply. It further stipulates that any well from which such supplies are drawn must be located at least 200 feet from any surface source of contamination.

Protest Presented

The council adopted a resolution addressed to the state railroad commission asking that no further licenses be granted to trucks designed for use in carrying heavy loads of cotton upon the public highways across the state. Members of the council, in adopting the resolution, deplored the congestion of motor highways by the presence of numerous "cotton trains," and declared that material damage to roads as well as numerous accidents are due to that condition. The resolution was presented by W. F. Carter, of the transportation department of the F. W. & D. railway, and E. J. McDonald, shop crafts representative of the M-K-T railway.

Small items of routine business were dispatched by the council before adjournment. All members except E. H. Eddleman were present.

RITES SAID FOR AUTO VICTIM

Last Services Held Here For Miss Ella Barrett

Funeral services for Miss Ella Barrett, 27, who died at a hospital here Sunday afternoon of injuries received Nov. 11, when struck by an automobile on the Henrietta road, were held Monday afternoon from the chapel of the Hines mortuary.

The Rev. H. C. Hoesch, pastor of the First Evangelical church, officiated. Burial was in Riverside.

During the 11 days she lay in a hospital here with a serious head injury, the woman was never fully conscious. She either was completely unconscious or in a semi-conscious condition.

Shortly before the accident, she had gone to a rural mail box near her home on the Henrietta road near the Clay county line. Returning, she started to cross the highway. After waiting for one automobile to pass, she was said to have stepped directly in the path of a car driven by A. J. Longley, 1628 Lucile street. Although Mr. Longley drove his automobile into a ditch in an effort to avert striking the woman, she was knocked to the pavement by a fender of the car.

Surviving are the father, C. M. Barrett of Waco and a brother, J. M. Lucas of Wichita Falls.

Billie Burke To Play Before Big Wichita Audience

Eleventh hour reservation of seats for the appearance of Billie Burke at the Memorial auditorium Wednesday night in "The Vinegar Tree" indicate that the piquant New York favorite will be widely known in the Wichita Falls vicinity after that performance.

Not only are blocks of seats being taken by citizens of many towns surrounding Wichita Falls, to a distance of 100 miles in all directions, but residents of this city were making numerous reservations Monday at the Renfro Drug store.

Added to the fact that Billie Burke has for many years been one of theater-going New York's favorite daughters, her matrimonial experience is of such quality as to provide a marked exception to the rule supposed to prevail among stage folk. She not only married Florenz Ziegfeld, connoisseur of female beauty and perennial producer of the famous Follies, but she has remained married, year in and year out, to this same husband. Their stability as "married folks" is further enhanced by their proud possession of a charming daughter.

Constancy in matrimony has proven in no way, however, a detriment to the continued brilliance of Miss Burke as an actress. Her appearances both in New York and in the country's larger cities generally have met with unqualified success during the past few months. Citizens of Wichita Falls who have seen her in "The Vinegar Tree" praise not only the exceptional work of Billie Burke in this production, but her selection of a scintillating comedy as well.

Tickets for the Wednesday night show will remain on sale at the Renfro Drug store throughout Tuesday and Wednesday, with Mrs. H. C. Cheshire in charge.

Laborers Union to Meet Tuesday Night

A special meeting of the common laborers' union and all unemployed has been called for Tuesday night at 7 o'clock at the labor temple for discussion of unemployment relief.

Effort will be made, it was announced, to create work for those in need of employment. The executive committee of the union called the meeting and issued a statement to the effect that a number of members who have been picking cotton are returning home without sufficient food and clothing to last through the winter.

Both skilled and non-skilled laborers who are unemployed and persons who are interested or can assist in the union's objective are urged to attend, it was said.

BURGESS FACES ROBBERY TRIAL

Man Convicted Here Is Taken to Stinnett

Jack Burgess, under an eight-year sentence here for robbery by violence with an appeal pending, was taken by federal authorities Monday to Stinnett, Texas, to face trial in the state court on a charge of robbery with firearms, according to Assistant Federal District Attorney E. Crippen.

Federal officers were assigned to take Burgess to Stinnett, Mr. Crippen stated, in order that he might remain in the custody of federal authorities until he is brought to trial at Amarillo soon on a federal charge. In the latter case, Burgess is accused of having participated in the robbery of the postoffice at Borger more than a year ago. A federal penitentiary sentence subsequently was imposed upon the man who was postmaster at Borger at the time of the alleged robbery.

Burgess was convicted here in connection with the theft of an automobile from the storage garage of the Marchman hotel on Sept. 10.

Shingle Making Demonstrated by Factory Expert

Demonstrations of the manufacturing process of Bird & Son's shingles were given here Monday morning by G. Wikelund, factory representative, at the Woodward Roofing company, local distributors, 123 North Burnett street.

Those attending were shown each process the material undergoes in the make-up of a shingle: Dry felt, used as a base, is thoroughly saturated with coatings of asphalt, into which is rolled crushed slate, after which the product is run through steam rollers, and heated to a temperature of 140 degrees to remove foreign material and moisture, to prevent the shingle curling or cracking, and to seal against drying of the felt. Crushed slate used in the process, it was shown, is in three standard colors, black, red and green. The slag is heated and reheated to a temperature of 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit to remove impurities.

In heavier grades of shingles manufactured by the company, it was explained, slate composes 47 per cent of the shingle, making it more fireproof and giving assurance that it will not crack. Through this process, it was added, the shingle is approved under class B of the Fire Underwriters association of America.

Mr. Wikelund also demonstrated the Bird Art-Bric siding, used to cover old siding and giving the appearance of brick veneer. The demonstrator declared that 1,000 homes in St. Louis used this siding in 1930.

Other features of the product which were pointed out included added overlapping for better protection, and the conservation of nails in application.

Mr. Wikelund was accompanied here by T. E. Adams of Dallas, who is North Texas representative of the company.

Wholesale grocers of Lamesa, Texas, reported a 40 per cent increase in volume of business from June to October.
