CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

I am the Christmas spirit!
I enter the home of poverty, causing palefaced children to open their eyes wide, in pleased wonder.
I cause the miser's clutched hand to relax, and thus paint a bright spot on his soul.
I cause the aged to renew their youth and to laugh in the old glad way.
I keep romance alive in the heart of childhood, and brighten sleep with dreams of woven magic.
I cause eager feet to climb dark stairways with filled baskets, leaving behind hearts amazed at the goodness of the world.
I cause the prodigal to pause a moment on his wild, wasteful way, and send to anxious love some little token that released glad tears — tears which wash away the hard lines of sorrow.
I enter dark prison cells, reminding scarred manhood of what might have been, and pointing forward to good days yet to be.
I come softly into the still,
white home of pain, and lips that are too weak just tremble in silent, eloquent gratitude.
In a thousand ways I cause the weary world to look up into the face of God, and for a little moment forget the things that are small and wretched.
I am the Christmas Spirit!—E.
C. Baird.

CHRISTMAS LEGENDS

Folklore of the Christmas season is fascinating. Whether true or not, these innumerable tales from the traditions of the holidays season. Animals are promi-nently mentioned in many legends and customs.
One Christmas legend tell of the little gray lamb with a longing in its heart to be white. It wandered to the dwelling of the Holy Family, lingering at the door. The Christ Child, seeing the lamb, beckoned it in. He laid his hand on its head, and it became white as snow.
Norwegians, Swedes, and the Swiss make it a special point to be extremely friendly and hospitable on Christmas, both to domestic pets and wild birds.
A persistent Christmas legend is that bees hum a carol in honor of the Christ Child. In England, holly is placed on the hive to with the bees a Merry Christmas.
Spaniards are taught to treat cows kindly; they believe that cattle breathed upon the Christ Child to keep Him warm. Tradition holds that cows and horses kneel in adoration at midnight each Christmas Eve. Among the residents of the German Alps it is believed that on Christmas Eve
all animals can speak.
In Worcestershire, it was at one time the custom to give a bough of mistletoe to the cow that first bore a calf after New Year's Day, to bring good luck to all.
In Syria, the youngest camel which accompanied the Three Wise Men is called the camel of Jesus, and it is this camel which brings gifts to the children.
In Bohemia a horse is taken out into the river at Christmas and walked against the current.
The rider tosses an apple into the stream and if it hits the horse it will be stronger during the coming year.—Adapted from Alan A. Brown in "Our Animals"

LETTER TO SANTA

Dear Santa: This coming Christmas Eve, will you be kind enough to leave, besides the toys you have for me, some duplicates for Dad, that he may tinker with his own, and play as fathers will on Christmas Day? Then, I, for once, won't have to wait for days and days to celebrate.

Pictures Of The Holy Land Are Shown At Wesleyan Service Guild Program Thurs.

Members and guests of the Wesleyan Service Guild were taken on a tour of the Holy Land
last Thursday night when Rev.
Doyle H. Ragle, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Vernon and former Munday pastor, showed slides and movie films of his recent trip to the Holy Land.
Rev. Ragle made the trip with some 15 others last July.
The films and lecture culminated the Guild's annual Christmas dinner. Some 60 people enjoyed the turkey dinner with all the fixings at this annual event, for which Guild members have gained wide reputation. Each guest was invited to secure a plate and took a generous helping of all the good things to eat.

Tables were erected in the fellowship hall and were gaily decorated for the occasion. Place cards attached to tiny Christmas trees contained names of each guest, and as they entered there was a "big hunt" for their respective places. Rev. and Mrs.
Ragle were special guests for the dinner.
The program was held in the church sanctuary. Rev. Ragle gave a brief account of his trip, then gave a very interesting lecture on the various places visited as the films were shown.

Guests were taken to such interesting Biblical places as Jerusalem, Nazareth, Bethlehem, Mount of Olives, Calvary, the place of Christ's burial, the Sea of Galilee, the Dead Sea, Jordan River where one member of the tour group was baptised, and many others.
Preceding the showing, a lovely vocal solo, "I walked Where Jesus Walked," was sung by Rev.
Rex L. Mauldin, with Mrs. E. L.
Horton as piano accompanist.

YOU, TOO, CAN RAISE A DELINQUENT

Juvenile delinquency, as FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and others emphasize, becomes a graver problem all the time—both in the extent of the crimes committed by juveniles, and in the crime's seriousness. If you, as a parent want to join the parade and raise a delinquent, there are certain rules to follow. Frank Brabant, an authority on the subject, who lectures around the country, recently listed them. Here are a few:

From infancy onward give the child everything he wants, so that he'll grow up thinking the world owes him a living. Don't give him any spiritual training. Avoid use of the word "wrong"—it may give him a guilt complex. Do everything for him, so that he'll become accustomed to throwing all responsibility on to others. Give him all the spending money he wants, and never insist that he earn any of his own. Satisfy his every craving and sensual desire—after all, denial may frustrate him. Take his part against neighbors, teachers and the police. When he gets into real trouble, apologize by saying, "I never could do anything with him."

These rules aren't hard to follow and abide by—great numbers of parents have, as surging juvenile delinquency shows. You, too, can produce a delinquent, simply and easily. The authority adds one more observation: "Prepare for a life of grief. You will be apt to have it."

NOT EVEN A GARDENER

The Antigo, Wisconsin, Daily Journal, says: "The man with the hoe" at one time was considered the counterpart of the farmer. Today he can scarcely pass for a gardener. Few and simple tools used to be enough for farming, and some would be made right on the farm or at the local blacksmith's. Today, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, investment in farm machinery amounts to about ten per cent of the physical assets on farms. This compares with six per cent in 1950 on a much smaller value. Machinery costs make up an increasing share of the total farm costs, and its efficient use is more and more important as a part of farm management."

Present day labor costs, if nothing else, would have made expanded use of farm machinery inevitable. The price of human labor has reached the prohibitive point in many agricultural operations. Machines are great savers of time and energy. They make it possible to get the most out of each acre. Any they also make it possible to conserve those acres for future generations.

Merchandization has been the savior of the family farm. A given number of people can efficiently farm much larger holdings than in past times, and at minimum cost. Thus, they can compete in the market place.

COMPULSION NOT NEEDED

Next year will witness a full-scale effort to eliminate the present voluntary federal-state program of medical aid for the aged, as passed by the last Congress, and to supplant it with a compulsory system tied to Social Security.

It is to be hoped that President-elect Kennedy and other national leaders will think long and hard before embarking upon this. For as many authorities, the American Medical Association among them, point out and substantiate with impressive evidence, the compulsory system would be bad for the aged, bad for the nation as a whole and, in the long run, bad for the new administration itself.

The present program goes to the root of the problem by providing help for those who actually need help. Need is the criteria, not just an arbitrary age bracket. It was approved by Congress after careful and protracted study, and after all points of view had been heard and considered. It does the required job, it does it practically and economically—and it places heavy responsibilities at the local government level where they belong.

The existing law does not waste tax dollars on aged people who are perfectly willing and able to take care of their own medical care costs, and it is not based on a compulsory, socialized approach to the problem. It deserves a full chance to work—and, there is every indication that it is working and will continue to do so.

ONE EGG EQUALS 100 TAXES

The Tax Foundation recently counted the number of "hidden taxes" that are imposed on items in every-day use. It found that there are 100 taxes on an egg, 116 on a man's suit, 150 on a woman's hat, 151 on a loaf of bread and 600 on a house!

In case you're wondering who ultimately pays these taxes, the answer is simple. You do!

Chips From The Carpenter's Workbench

By JAMES HALLMARK

WHY ARE THERE SO MANY DIFFERENT CHURCHES TODAY? The multiplicity of religious organizations here in the United States has prompted many sincere persons to ask this question. Perhaps you, too, have wondered. There are several reasons, or causes for this division which exists.

THE INTRODUCTION OF HUMAN INNOVATIONS! The pattern for the New Testament church is clearly outlined within the pages of God's inspired Word. However, some persons were unable to content themselves with the simplicity of this pattern and have gone beyond the revealed Word! Such MAN-INSPIRED innovations as sprinkling, denominational organizations, the practice of voting individuals into the membership of the local congregation, infant "baptism," and instrumental music CANNOT FIND ANY FOUNDATION IN GOD'S WORD.

Therefore, to accept these practices is to go no higher than man for authority. We ought rather to seek to justify our religious practices BY THE BIBLE. If a man accepts a human creed, he simply does not believe James 1:25 and II Timothy 3:16-17.

"But in vain they do worship me, teaching FOR DOCTRINES THE COMMANDMENTS OF MEN." (Matt. 15:9).

LACK OF RESPECT FOR CHRIST'S AUTHORITY! Following his resurrection, Christ stated, "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." Yet, many unthinking persons look to their preacher, or religious leaders for their authority.

How many times have you answered a question concerning the word of God by saying, "I'll ask the preacher."? This is a dangerous practice. The preacher, regardless of how sincere, and devoted he is, CAN BE MISTAKEN! The Bible is accessible to all. Christ has revealed his will in the word, and in studying this word we recognize the authority of the Christ. "And ye shall know the truth, AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE." (John 8:32).

SAFETY MEETING

The annual Knox County Clinic was a big success again this year according to many of the people that attended one of the two sessions of the meeting. An estimated 750 students and teachers of Knox County schools attended.

One session was held in the morning at the Knox City School and an identical session was held in the afternoon at the school superintendents Mr. Apple and Mr. Youngblood made the arrangements for the programs.

D. L. Cooper, Safety Officer for the Texas Department of Public Safety, presented one of the 4 parts on automotive safety and was able to demonstrate that while the hand is faster than the mind, that this is a bad situation while behind the wheel of a motor vehicle.

Edwin Cooper, Extension Wildlife Specialist, presented a portion of the program on boating and firearm safety.

Mrs. Elsie Short, Extension Specialist in Home Management, gave a session on safety in the home.

Dr. Ulich, Extension Engineer, had a part on the program that dealt with farm and farm machinery safety.

The Knox County Farm Bureau was co-sponsor of the program with the local extension service. Mr. L. B. Patterson was on hand at the meetings representing the Farm Bureau.

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State Health Department

There are more than 100 children's dental clinics located in various Texas cities sharing in the cooperative program maintained by the State Health Department's Dental Health Division.

Sharing is the key word. The local area usually furnishes most of the equipment, lay personnel, non-professional assistance, and suitable space.

The State Health Department contributes funds for professional dental services in 14 different Texas dental clinics.

The clinics are operated for the benefit of children who need dental care, but whose parents are unable to finance adequate treatment.

Equipment for the clinics is gleaned from many sources including dentists' offices, supply houses, lumber yards, plumbing firms and hospitals as well as local health departments.

In many areas fund-raising campaigns are utilized to accumulate enough money to purchase major items of equipment such as x-ray machines and dental chairs.

To ensure an adequate supply of dentists to the clinics, local dental societies cooperate with volunteer dentists assigned specific dates on a rotational basis to serve a morning's tour.

In many instances dentists work without compensation, contributing any recompense received to special funds maintained for the purchase of special equipment.

To carry the workload forced by the mass of paper work, arrangements, cleaning up, and lay assistance, volunteer agencies or clubs often assign committees to assist the clinics—or even operate it entirely except for professional services.

The scope of the various clinics differs widely, dependent mostly

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

Most folks get their tax forms through the mail every year. In the last few years the Internal Revenue Service has been sending out three different kinds of forms. They give the right kind of form—1040, 1040-A, or 1040-W—to most of us, but some few receive the wrong form.

The tax folks say that they will have all three kinds of forms available at their office and at most Post Offices and banks around the first of the year.

If you don't like the tax form they sent you, get another. They want you to use the form you need and, more important, pay all the tax you owe, but no more.

Notes From Knox Farms, Ranches

By Jack Moore, Knox County Agent

"BANGS LAW"

The Texas Animal Health Commission has released a new list of counties that have the restricted movement law now in effect. There are 60 and a portion of another county in the area that are under the law.

Cattle men, truckers and shippers should keep abreast of the law so that they do not become violators and subject to penalty under law. Counties in the Knox County area that come under the law are: Young, Throckmorton, Stonewall, Shackelford, Cottle and Motley.

It is expected that in the near future King, Haskell and Stephens counties will come under the law. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to ship, drive, drift haul, truck or otherwise transport cattle into or within any county listed, except in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Texas Animal Health Commission.

The Texas Animal Health Commission rules and regulations require that all cattle except steers, sprayed heifers, calves under 8 months of age and officially vaccinated calves under 30 months of age consigned to a premise in any county in which Type II brucellosis work is being conducted or has been completed will have to comply with the law.

INCOME TAX MEETING

There were 21 people who attended the farmers income tax meeting held in Benjamin Dec. 16 in the courthouse. Mr. Fred Sanford, the ass't Manager of the Wichita Falls Social Security office, presented a portion on the program that dealt with the law and some of the new changes that would be in effect.

Mr. Tom Hunter, Farm Management Specialist for the Extension Service, presented the portion on Income Tax. The meeting was for the purpose of explaining the laws and to help the Farmer and Rancher and the tax consultant to better be able to make the most accurate tax report that they are able to.

The 1961 edition of the Farmer's Tax Guide was made available in the county agent's office in Benjamin. The new guides can be obtained by coming in and getting one or by requesting one through the mail.

FACT

"Many smart farmers are hedging by regular savings. A recent report by the U. S. Department of Agriculture shows that American farmers own liquid financial assets in excess of 14 billion dollars—$14.3 billion to be exact.

The largest single item in this holding is United States Savings Bonds, with farmers owning $5.2 billion worth, or 36 per cent. Their demand deposits total $4.3 billion, and time deposits $2.9 billion. Their cash in hand was estimated to be $1.9 billion."

Jerry Jetton, Norris Morgan, John Walter Massey, Roger Bell and Johnny Pruitt, all students at N. T. S. C. in Denton came in Wednesday to spend the holidays with homefolks.

CARD OF THANKS

We are deeply grateful to everyone for their kindnesses during my stay in the hospital. Your visits, cards and lovely flowers were appreciated very much. Our sincere thanks to James Hallmark and Payne Hattox for their loyalty. May God richly bless you all.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Comes Out Once More For His Youletide Equalization Fund For Gift-Giving

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek will never get anywhere with this idea, but he keeps on trying.

Dear editor:

A neighbor of mine claims Christmas comes too often, says it couldn't be over a couple of months since the last one and here another one is at hand.

This is because he works too hard. No day is ever long enough for him to get in all the work he feels he ought to do and by the end of the year he feels he's 3 years behind, but I don't look at it that way. A day is about exactly the right length to suit me, a week is about right, nothing wrong with the length of a month, and I'd hate to see Congress start tampering with the size of a year.

Consequently, I'm ready for Christmas, and as is my usual custom, I'd like to once more argue for a piece of legislation I've been advocating for years.

It's called the Christmas Gift Equalization Act, and I hope it gets more attention from President-Elect Kennedy's administration than it has from the past three or four administrations.

Here's the thing. When a person starts out buying gifts for his required list, and the people on his required list start out buying gifts for the people on their lists, with him included, nobody has any notion of how he'll come out. Somebody is bound to buy more gifts than he gets, and that's where my Equalization Act comes in.

What Congress ought to do is set up a fund for deficit payments to anybody who spends more than he gets. All you'd have to do is keep track of the money you spend, set up a fair value on the gifts you receive, and then if you spent more than you got, Congress would pay the difference. And if you got more than you spent, forget about it. Ain't Congress capable of the Christmas spirit?

I think this would be a great boon to getting gifts to the people who otherwise might not get any, and probably would increase the number of gifts to those who don't need anything in the first place, and as any economist knows, the more we spend, the more the country thrives and the more we can demand of the government.

I will appreciate your using your influence to get this legislation passed. Merry Christmas.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Attend Industrial Commission Meet In Abilene Thursday

Charles Baker, member of the advisory board of Texas Industrial Commission; W. E. Braly, director in West Texas C. of C. and Goodson Sellers attended an Industrial Commission meeting in Abilene on Thursday, December 15.

Governor Price Daniel addressed the group that included members of the state legislature, officials of communities in this area, Chamber of Commerce representatives, commissioners, and advisory board members of the Industrial Commission.

The industrial future of Texas was pictured as one of the bright spots of the nation by Governor Daniel. In explaining the function of the Texas Industrial Commission, he said the purpose was threefold: to bring new industry to the state; encourage the expansion of existing industry; and to promote the development of natural resources to the fullest extent.

E. B. Germany, chairman of the Industrial Commission, pointed out that hundreds of letters have been exchanged during the past year with numerous special reports and authentic data sent to industrial prospects. His progress report showed 628 new plants coming to the Lone Star State and 788 plant expansions since 1958, with 458 new plants announced as ready to move to Texas some time in the future.

the Texas Industrial Commission as a clearing-house of industrial information and pledged full cooperation with local and regional Chambers of Commerce, city officials, and any other civic group with the common goal of the industrial development of the state.

John Ben Shepperd, who serves as chairman of the advisory board to the Commission, and Fred Husbands, director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce also spoke to the group of business and civic leaders. The four regional Chamber of Commerce directors in the state act as counselors to the Industrial Commission.

Who put the sock in Susie's Christmas?

One legend goes that the jolly old driver of the reindeer dropped some coins down a chimney on Christmas Eve night . . . as was his custom a long time ago . . . and instead of clinking on the hearth, they fell into a stocking hung up by a child from the mantel to dry.

Ever since that time, visits from the jolly old fellow, known as Old Santa, have been awaited by children like Susie . . . with very special eagerness, hoping he might fill their stocking with gifts!

Yet, Christmas was not created just for gifts . . . Christmas is for kindness, friendship, warmth and beauty. Only by keeping the spiritual meaning of Christmas can we hope to acknowledge the greatest gift to man: The First Christmas.

Let us help Susie understand this deeper meaning of Christmas . . . the joy that goes beyond her Christmas stocking. Why don't you sit down with your children now and tell them this greater story?

It's the Law in TEXAS

Our "Bill of Rights"

December 15 is observed each year as "Bill of Rights Day" throughout the United States. What does this important "document" mean to us?

The American "Bill of Rights", consisting of the first ten amendments to our federal constitution, all adopted at one time in 1791, specifies in some detail a number of basic civil rights of the individual citizen. Unaltered by subsequent amendments and jealously guarded by our courts, these privileges must still be respected by our governing bodies today.

Among the most familiar of our constitutional guarantees are those relating to freedom of religion, speech, and of the press. (The same article protects the rights of peaceable assembly and the privilege of petitioning the government for redress of grievances.

Another amendment secures our persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures, and specifies that no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, and unless supported by oath or affirmation.

The due process of law amendment encompasses not one but several guarantees. Every American is secured against being placed twice in legal jeopardy for the same offense; against being compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal case; and against having his private property taken for public use without just compensation.

He is also secured against being held for trial for a capital (death penalty) or other infamous crime, unless upon a presentment or indictment of a grand jury. And, of course, no person may be deprived of life, liberty or property without orderly court procedures, or due process of law.

The right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury, in the locality where the crime was committed, the right to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, and the rights to compel attendance of defense witnesses and to have the assistance of defense counsel in all criminal prosecutions are secured by another section of the "Bill of Rights."

Excessive bail and fines, and cruel and unusual punishments, are prohibited in Amendment VIII. Other articles insure the right to bear arms and ban quartering of soldiers in private homes during peace time.

Then, to make quite clear to our governing bodies the underlying intent of the preceding provisions, the Ninth Amendment states: "The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

The Tenth Amendment further emphasizes this basic theory by providing: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

Thus, that fundamental philosophy expressed in the Declaration of Independence, that men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, and that "to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed," has been carried forward into the highest law of our land.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The Internal Revenue Service folks are hard at work educating taxpayers.

Some of us are ignorant about our taxes the year around, and plumb confused on April 15. The tax folks say they haven't given up on the old folks, but they are pointing their educational program toward the youngsters. They have a free teaching kit for high school and college teachers. Last year there were over 150,000 students who learned how to fill out a simple tax return here in Texas.

If you want your son or daughter to take this short course, your school principal can get the material by writing Jim Hodges, P. O. Box 594, Dallas, Texas.

Irrigation Still Expanding

Despite the past three years of favorable rainfall conditions irrigated acreage in Texas has continued to show a slow but steady increase instead of a curtailment.

This was brought out in the latest survey completed last year by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The survey was compiled from information gathered by county agents from each Texas county, and the results have been carefully checked with figures from previous surveys.

The total irrigated area in Texas in 1959 amounted to 7,140,443 acres. In 1957 the total acreage under irrigation was 6,962,234 acres, and in 1955 it was 6,208,022. The increase in acreage from 1957 to 1959 was markedly lower than in the preceding two years, and this was attributed to conditions of favorable rainfall which were generally in nearly every area of the state.

Reports by counties show that there is at least a sprinkling of irrigation in 239 of the 254 counties in Texas. Areas of harvest irrigation, of course, are in the Rio Grande Valley and in the High Plains.

The 1959 survey showed that some 6,445,155 acres are irrigated by surface methods and 695,288 acres by sprinkler systems, and indications are that the sprinkler method is growing steadily in spite of the heavy expense involved in installation.

In all, irrigation is used on 48,110 farms out of approximately 292,000 farms enumerated in the state. Ground water supplies, obtained from 60,708 wells, are used to irrigate 5,914,753 acres.

The leading irrigated crop is cotton, which shows a total of 2.2 million acres, and grain sorghum is second with slightly more than two million acres. Wheat comes third with 637,000 acres, and other top-ranking irrigated crops include rice, with 436,000 acres; vegetables, 375,000 acres, and pastures, 200,000 acres. There is also irrigated acreage in lesser amounts for corn, forage sorghum, alfalfa, oats and various other types of production.

While irrigation did not expand as rapidly during the past two years, any increase at all during a period of highly favorable rainfall was taken as a sound indication that irrigation is being widely accepted by farmers as a practice of good management instead of simply as an emergency measure used to maintain production in drought periods.

Replenishing ground water supplies, of course, is one of those problems yet to be solved along with many others in the Texas water outlook.

What is good fortune?

Many years ago, a new magazine was about to be started and the owner held a contest for a name. The winner received $20,000, a tremendous amount back in those days. The prize went to an unskilled laborer. His picture appeared in the papers along with an interview in which he told how much happiness this would mean to him and his family.

He gave up his job, moved from the tenement into an apartment house, bought a fine car, outfitted the family with stylish clothes—and, two years later, all the money was gone, he was in debt, without a job and he and his wife had broken up.

There is an atmosphere about Mineral Wells that is different from any place else in Texas. I feel relaxed as soon as I get there. It's certainly fine for soothing tired nerves and easing tension.

First time I ever visited Mineral Wells, I stepped up to the long "bar" in the original Crazy Hotel and asked for a chocolate ice cream soda. The dispenser, as gently as possible, told me that the only beverages served there were Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 mineral water.

Sir James Barrie was the author of such novels as "The Little Minister" and such plays as "Peter Pan"—but when his first play was going to be produced, he was so nervous that he could not attend. He seated himself on a bench in a nearby park but, before the end of the first act, he went to a florist's shop, and bought a basket of red roses which he sent to the dressing-room of the leading lady with his card on which he had written, "Just do as well in the rest of the play as you did in the first act."

The fact of the matter was, the actress was young; this was her first leading role and she had been so nervous that she had not performed at all well.

But when she received this message from the play's author (whom she supposed had been in the audience), she was so encouraged that, in the second act, she was superb.

When the final curtain fell, the play was a hit and a new star of the stage had been born—all because a man expressed a few words of praise!
