SLAIN DEPUTY'S BROTHER DENOUNCES LYNCHERS

Representatives Of Capital And Labor Meet With President Hoover Today

TEAMING UP OF TWO FACTIONS IS PLANNED

Henry Ford and Others To Attend Conference In Morning

LABOR HEADS CALLED

Easier Installment Terms May Result From Today's Parley

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Capital and labor both will confer with President Hoover tomorrow to further his program for spurring business activity.

Industrial heads, including Henry Ford and others, representing billions of capital and employing thousands of workmen will meet with the president at 10 a. m. He will confer with labor leaders in the afternoon.

To Spur Business

The president hopes to team up capital and labor to insure smooth and active functioning of the nation's industrial machine regardless of recent stock market fluctuation.

These conferences are expected to follow the lead of the railroad executives who pledged the president earlier this week to go ahead with their billion-dollar expansion program. The construction industry, which is to meet with the president Friday, is expected to indicate willingness to go ahead with expenditure of one to three billions on buildings, roads and bridges.

For all of this activity lower money rates are promised by the federal reserve board's advisory council to provide an abundance of cheap working capital for the nation's business.

Leaders Called In

The president's program was expanded today with the White House announcement that labor leaders had been called in for tomorrow and public utilities for Monday.

The president depends upon the vast utilities interests to go forward with projects as the railroads have agred to do.

While no intimation was given as to what would take place at the conference of industrial leaders, it was thought in some quarters that suggestions for easing installment terms to meet individual cases might be considered.

Hurley Backed for Post; War Chief's Rites Held

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 20. (UP) A move to recommend Col Patrick J. Hurley, of Tulsa, acting secretary of war, for the post left vacant by the death of Secretary James W. Good, stirred Oklahoma political circles today.

Senator W. B. Pine and W. G. Skelly, Republican national committeeman, were said to have united in support of Hurley at the state's party headquarters here.

Recommendations to President Hoover will be forwarded asking that Hurley be promoted to the post of his chief as soon as the nation has paid its respects to Good, it was said.

SERVICES HELD AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (AP)—Funeral honors for only the most exalted in public station were extended today to James W. Good, secretary of war, as the capital's last tribute to him who little more than a week ago stood among the nation's leaders in the fullness of his career.

Foremost among those who mourned was President Hoover. He sat with head bowed as services were conducted in the east room of the White House with a dignity which typified the gentle, loyal and self-effacing friendship, as the president himself described it, of the war secretary's attitude toward his fellows.

As the casket finally was wheeled slowly out of the White House for the martial procession to union station, both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover stood in the palm-filled foyer with heads lowered in sorrow.

The simple service in the White House contrasted with the military splendor of the procession which accompanied the body to the station to be taken to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for burial Friday.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. (Thursday), (UP)—Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, emerged from the District of Columbia jail tonight after serving almost seven months for contempt of the senate and the District of Columbia supreme court, little changed in appearance and still convinced he has been treated unjustly.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (UP)—Harry F. Sinclair, chief pharmacist and prisoner No. 42060 at the District of Columbia jail tonight, will became Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire financier and sportsman of New York, tomorrow morning.

The transition was to take place tonight at 12 o'clock, at which time Sinclair, who has served more than six months for contempt of court and senate, was to be free to leave the district's red-stone jail.

Pursuing their usual policy, officials offered him permission to remain 24 hours after his term expires, a courtesy of which many prisoners avail themselves in order to be certain of three more meals. Sinclair, however, was not expected to remain longer than necessary.

He did not tell prison officials what his plans were, but it was considered likely he would leave early tomorrow morning by train or automobile for New York, accompanied by his brother, who arrived here last night. Sinclair announced soon after entering the jail he would assume active direction of his oil companies immediately after his release.

The oil millionaire was sentenced

36 Degree Mark Reached At 1 A. M.

A slowly dropping temperature in Wichita Falls had reached the 36 degree mark at 1 a. m. Thursday following a drop of 14 degrees from the peak temperature recorded for Wednesday. At 8 p. m. Wednesday the mercury stood at 39 degrees and at 10 p. m. it had dropped to 38 degrees, according to the recording thermometer at the Texas Electric Service company. As in the case of the previous night, temperatures approaching the freezing point apparently were not to come until the early morning hours Thursday if the mercury continues to fall.

The lowest temperatures Wednesday evening in this section were reported at Forgan, where a stiff north wind had brought the mercury down to the 28-degree level. Childress also reported descending temperatures, the mercury hovering about the 30-degree mark at 9 o'clock Wednesday night and apparently headed for a still lower recording. The thermometer there rose during the day following a hard freeze Tuesday night and took a sudden drop toward evening Wednesday.

Reports Vary

Grand Jury Called To Meet Today To Ferret Out Ratliff's Hangmen

EASTLAND, Texas, Nov. 20. (AP)—Denouncing the action of a mob here last night in lynching Marshall Ratliff, bank robber, District Judge George L. Davenport today ordered an Eastland county grand jury to convene in special session tomorrow to make a thorough investigation.

Bitterness against the lynching also was voiced by Joseph Jones, county attorney and brother of Deputy Sheriff Tom Jones, who died today of bullet wounds inflicted Monday night by Ratliff in an attempted jail break. The officer said he would prosecute vigorously should indictments be returned.

Moody Won't Intervene

Indications that the investigation would be left entirely in the hands of county authorities was made by Gov. Dan Moody, who said the state would render any assistance that might be asked.

"Lynching is in violation of the law and it is unfortunate when people take the law into their own hands," was the executive's comment.

Tom Jones, whose fatal wounding by Ratliff caused the enraged mob to take the Robber from the jail here, was conscious until he died. After hope for his recovery was abandoned, fellow officers were allowed to group about his bed in a hospital. Each pressed his hand in a last farewell.

When it came E. P. (Tack) Kilborn's time to whisper good bye, Jones said the jailer:

"Tack, I stayed with you to the last, but I have to go now."

The officer's 8-year-old son, Billy, also was at the bedside as the end Wilson, Iowa Park, was questioned by police as a result of an automobile crash 15 miles southwest of Oklahoma City late today. Mrs. Brown died in a hospital three hours after the accident. Derrick has a chance for recovery, doctors say.

Mrs. Brown, Derrick and Wilson, were en route to Wichita Falls when Wilson, who was driving, swerved from the road in an attempt to avoid a collision with another machine. Mrs. W. R. Brown, fatally injured in an automobile crash at Oklahoma City Wednesday, lived at Dad's Corner several miles from Holliday on the road to Wichita Falls, according to reports at Holliday. She left there several days ago presumably to visit a son who is said to live in Oklahoma City. Leonard Derrick injured in the crash, is listed in the Wichita Falls city directory as a tailor and his address is given as as 808 Fifth street. W. H. Derrick is also listed at that address. The house at 808 Fifth street was found to be unoccupied about midnight Wednesday, furniture in the front rooms apparently having been prepared for moving.

Deputy's Brother Denounces Mob

neared. His father admonished him to be a "good boy."

The widow today received a letter from Mrs. Rilla Carter, mother of Ratliff, expressing sympathy and regret over the shooting of Jones.

Mrs. Carter also sent a telegram from Corsicana to officers requesting Ratliff's body be held until her arrival.

The robber's body was removed from an undertaking morgue to adjoining store in order that it might be more accessible to the large crowd passing in and out to see it.

Ratliff died with a prayer for mercy and forgiveness on his lips. Dragged and carried out of the jail he fell to the ground when the first rope broke and was stunned. He lay there murmuring: "God have mercy and forgive me."

Loin Cloth Provided

While the mob awaited a new rope, someone tied a sack about Ratliff's loins. He had been dragged from the prison naked. Before he was pulled up a second time someone asked if he wanted to talk.

"Let me down and I'll talk," Ratliff begged. The rope was loosened, and he said: "Forgive me, boys." Then the rope drew tight, and he strangled, his neck unbroken.

The body swung 15 minutes before Justice of the Peace Jim Steele ordered it removed to a morgue.

Old residents said Ratliff's lynching was the first in this county since 1894 when two men were hanged near Rising Star. One was a notorious horse thief, while the second, it later developed, was an innocent youth.

Ratliff was in jail here pending sanity proceedings filed by his mother, who claimed he had become insane while awaiting execution for his part in a bank robbery at Cisco, near here, the day before Christmas two years ago. Ratliff, who participated in the holdup dressed in Santa Claus regalia, and two companions were captured after a gun fight in which two officers and one robber were killed.

Helms Was Member

Henry Helms, one of those captured with Ratliff, was executed, and Robert Hill, the only member of the bandit quartet now alive, escaped recently from the state penitentiary where he was serving a 99-year sentence for his part in the robbery.

The following were chosen to compose the grand jury which will investigate the lynching:

Hall Walker, banker, Ranger; W. B. Smith, banker, Eastland; R. L. Conner, Hardware merchant, Gorman; Wyley Hitson, banker, Cisco; John W. Thruman, mayor of Ranger; Tom W. Foley, insurance and loans man, Cisco; William Reagan, oil man, Cisco; B. M. Collie, insurance man, Eastland; Tobe Morton, farmer, Eastland; Charles Falls, Namker, Rising Star; W. H. Puitt, merchant, Carbon; Walter May, druggist, Desdemona; H. L. Capers, amusement man, Gorman; Ben Cazort, retired farmer, Scanton; John M. Gholson, oil man, Ranger.

The credentials committee reported attendance on the woman's meeting was 700 messengers, 415 visitors and 17 missionaries.

Revision of the constitution and bylaws was deferred until the 1930 convention.

The meeting pledged the woman's organization to raise $600,000 during the year for its work, exclusive of local church activities, $300,000 of this amount to go to the cooperative program. It sets $45,000 as its goal toward the $225,000 fixed by the Southern Baptist women as their contribution to the Lottie Moon missionary fund.

Pleading for liberal contributions to the Lottie Moon fund, Miss Kathleen Mallory of Birmingham, Ala., corresponding secretary of the Southwide W. M. U., told the convention that American women spend 10 times more money and time at beauty parlors than as "messengers of Jesus Christ."

Mrs. Hal Buckner of Dallas reviewed conditions at Buckner Orphan home, where 700 children are being cared for.

Love Is Worse Than Indigestion, Says Doctor

CHICAGO, Nov. 20. (AP)—Falling in love is worse than having indigestion for a tubercular person, Dr. W. F. Peterson, of the University of Illinois college of medicine said in a radio talk over station WLS this afternoon.

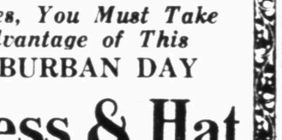

"Worry is one real cause of fatigue," Dr. Peterson said. "Half the battle in tuberculosis centers about the nervous apparatus. Give it a chance. Don't fret, don't be peevish, don't be too sensitive and whatever you do, don't fall in love. That is worse than indigestion. Emotions upset the body more completely than most other things."

MEMPHIS WILL PLAY BIG GAME

Cyclone and Harvesters To Tangle Friday

Special to The Record-News

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 20.—The football game that will decide the championship of sections C and D will be played here Friday of this week, when the Memphis Cyclones of the Memphis high school meet the Pampa Harvesters. The winner of this game will play the Hereford Whitefaces on Thanksgiving day for the championship of district one.

This will be the hardest fought game of the season for the Cyclone. Pampa is doped to win the game, as they have a much better record than the Cyclone, and their team is composed of veterans, while the Memphis team is made up of first-year men for the most part.

Due to injuries received in the Clarendon game last week, the Cyclone will be badly handicapped. Bob Phillips and Emmett Walker, star halfbacks, both received injuries which will probably keep them on the sidelines during the larger part of the game. Their loss will be keenly felt as they are two of the mainstays of the Cyclone running attack.

A large delegation of fans is coming from Pampa and plans are being made to take care of a record crowd for this game. Many fans will come from the surrounding towns to see the championship game.

According to Coach Nolan Walter, following will be the probable lineup for the Cyclone: J. D. Jackson, left end; Walter Massey, captain, left tackle; Ezell Champion, left guard; Clarence Jackson, center; Gerald Kunkler, right guard; Robert Mitcham, right tackle; J. W. West, right end; Durward Martindale, quarter; James Hammond, full; Albert Pearson, half; Roy Stargel, left end.

The game will be played at Fair park, and will be called at 2 o'clock sharp.

PHILADELPHIA. — To prove that he was a good husband and to forestall his wife's petition to get $5 weekly out of him for the support of two children, James Savina got 31 husbands to sign their names to a document proving that he was a kind man. Regardless of this testimony, the judge ruled that Savina should pay.

Mercury Has Wide Range

Sharp Variations Reported Over Section

proaching freeze were apparent. At Vernon the temperature during the day was higher than at most other points, the mercury standing at about 50 late Wednesday evening and giving no indication of a drop. In spite of freezing temperatures farther south Tuesday night, the thermometer remained fairly high at Vernon and there was no promise of a lower mark Wednesday night.

In the more immediate vicinity of Wichita Falls, Iowa Park reported falling temperatures late Wednesday evening, with the mercury during the day remaining at about the same levels as in Wichita Falls.

50 at Archer City

At Electra, although there was a freeze Tuesday night, the mercury rose during the day and was apparently rising during the evening Wednesday, with a sudden fall expected. Archer City reported fairly high temperatures Wednesday, the 50-degree mark standing until late in the evening and giving no indication of a freeze Wednesday night.

Railroad dispatchers Wednesday evening reported conditions similar to those here to the north and east, with fairly high temperatures to the south and west. The temperatures took a gradual drop farther north where wintry winds were blowing, it was reported. No snow or rain was reported at any point.

Forecasts in Wichita Falls predicted a hard freeze for the immediate vicinity Wednesday night in spite of the rising temperatures during the day. Tuesday night's minimum was 30 degree, according to the weather bureau at the Texas Electric Service company.

Has the laxative in your home a family doctor's approval?

MOST of us value our health too much to purposely neglect ourselves when we are warned of constipation by bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, a headache, lack of appetite, or that weak, helpless feeling. The continuation of our trouble is more often due to the things we do rather than the things we leave undone.

Some things people do to help the bowels really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what things will cleanse the system without harm. That's why the laxative in your home should have a family doctor's approval.

A wonderful product now known to millions of people as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in his many years of practice at Monticello, Illinois. He proved it safe and reliable for women and children; thoroughly effective for the most robust men. He showed it actually corrects constipation. It is made from fresh herbs and other pure ingredients.

Since Dr. Caldwell first permitted his prescription to be put up in bottles and sold through drug stores, it has increased steadily in popularity until today it is the largest selling laxative in the world!

FARMS IN PLACE OLD RANCHES

600 New Families Expected In South Plains

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 20.—The foundation for the rapid development of the South Plains of Texas has been the selling of virgin agricultural land, taken from huge ranch holdings, and the putting into cultivation of this land by farmers.

An idea of the rapid settlement of the South Plains can be gained by a study of the sales records of a few large ranches.

Ranches Sold

Five years ago five big ranches had nearly a million acres of choice South Plains land within their pastures. This land is all level and highly productive when planted to cotton, grain sorghums, cane, sudan, corn, wheat and other crops. In the past five years, over half this acreage has been sold out in 160-acre tracts to actual farmers who have brought their families and established their home on the land to cultivate the soil.

The success of these farmers in paying a small cash payment the first year and then paying the farm out from their profits in future years went back to the respective homes all over the South, the Southwest and Middle West and friends and relatives followed.

The influx of farmers is still heavy and there is yearly an abundance of good soil that can be purchased at low prices and with convenient terms.

Virgin Land

This fall and late summer approximately 90,000 acres of land has been sold over the South Plains, land owners and agents estimate. Of this big block, approximately 80 per cent is raw, unimproved land which is to be broken out this winter and planted to crops next spring. This means that approximately 600 new families are moving into the South Plains this winter. And while sales have been heavy thus far this summer and fall, agents indicate that their best season for sales comes during November, December and January.

The old Spade ranch, the old Yellow House ranch, the old S ranch and others, romantic in a way, back in olden days when a cowboy had to ride all day from one pasture to the other, have passed into history, but with the coming of intensified agriculture on the South Plains, there is yet much more romance in this new life on the plains than there ever was before. New communities have sprung up and are yet springing up. Just this week, seven German families have come to Lubbock seeking a new home on the level prairies of the plains. The Ellwood lands, a part of the old Spade ranch was selected and four sections of land were purchased. The Germans went back to their homes in Oklahoma to get their families. They stated before leaving that approximately 10 or 12 other families are planning on coming to the plains to purchase the remainder of 10 sections of land in one big block. A Lutheran church will be constructed immediately at a place on the block of land which the new settlers will designate as their community center and before crops are gathered next fall, a new community will be thriving in this section.

Ranges Sliced

While it is difficult to get the figures on the acreage of old ranches and the present holdings, Judge R. C. Hoppings, general manager of the old Spade ranch gives an estimate of the larger ranches.

Back five years ago, the "Spades" had 265,000 acres, Judge Hoppings says. This acreage has been put on the market and in these five years, the raw land has diminished to something like 125,000 acres. The Yellow House ranch has diminished from a range of 200,000 acres to 50,000. The old S ranch owned by the Slaughters probably has the largest holdings of any of the old ranches. This is largely due to the fact that a good per cent of the land has not yet been put on the market. The T. C. Enochs holdings of something like 60,000 acres five years ago has been cut to 30,000 of raw land. The Halsell ranch of 100,000 acres has cut its pastures down to about 20,000 acres in the five-year period.

Besides these large ranches, there are a number of smaller ranches, including the Mallet ranch of 60,000 acres, the Devitt & Johnson ranch of 40,000 acres, considerable amount of land owned by the Santa Fe railway and other large holdings.

Advertising Started

About a year ago, the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, realizing that the quicker the section is completely settled with farmers on every quarter of a section or less land, the quicker Lubbock and other South Plains towns will be cities of greater proportions, started a national advertising campaign, using the better farm journals of the agricultural states to tell prospective farmers about the South Plains. This campaign is being continued on a larger scale for next year and has already developed surprising results in bringing inquiries, sightseers, and settlers to the South Plains. A total of $22,000 will be spent next year in advertising the section. Over 5,000 inquiries from farmers in every state in the United States and several foreign countries have been received during the past year. An illustrated booklet and other literature and information is sent free to those who inquire.

Lubbock College Forum Rehearses for Play

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 20.—Principal characters have been chosen and several rehearsals have been held for the presentation of "Once There Was a Princess," a comedy in three acts by Juliet Wilbur Tomkins. The play is to be given Dec. 3 by the Sock and Buskin Dramatic club of Texas Technological college and is to be sponsored by the Woman's Forum of the college.

Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge Series

Four of the country's bridge experts gathered around the table for the initial game of Milton C. Work's radio bridge series, broadcast from station KGKO.

The players were: Mrs. Charlotte Cotton Davis, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. John Munce Jr., of Alexandria, Va.; Walter F. Wyman, Arlington, Mass., and F. E. Bruelheide, Minneapolis, Minn., all of whom have a more than local reputation as players, teachers, or writers. Mr. Work followed the play of the hand, and closed the broadcast with his comments on the game as it was bid and played at auction and as it should be handled at contract.

The hands were: Mr. Wyman, South, the dealer: Spades, A, Q, 10, 6, 2; hearts, A, Q, 5, 4; diamonds, A, Q, 10; clubs, Q. Mr. Bruelheide, West: Spades, K, J, 9, 5; hearts, J, 10, 9, 8, 6; diamonds, 8, 4; clubs, 7, 4. Mrs. Davis, North: Spades, 8, 3; hearts, K; diamonds, K, J, 7; clubs, K, 10, 9, 8, 6, 3, 2. Mrs. Munce, East: Spades, 7, 4; hearts, 7, 3, 2; diamonds, 9, 6, 5, 3, 2; clubs, A, J, 5.

Mr. Wyman, South, opened the auction with one spade; Mr. Bruelheide, West, passed; Mrs. Davis, North, bid two clubs; Mrs. Munce, East, passed. Mr. Wyman then said two no trumps, which his partner overcalled with three clubs. Mr. Wyman, in his turn, went to three no trumps, East and West passing continuously. Three no trumps became the contract, with Mr. Wyman, South, declarer.

Mr. Bruelheide, West, led to the first trick from his longest suit, hearts, playing the jack, which is the correct lead from a suit headed by J-10-9 or J-10-8. Not until the opening lead had been made did Mrs. Davis, North, as dummy, place her cards on the table. Her singleton king of hearts, of course, was played by declarer to the first trick. Mrs. Munce, East, played the "discouraging" deuce. Mr. Wyman, South, the declarer, played the four of hearts.

Summing up the possibilities of his hand, declarer could see that he had to establish dummy's long club suit in order to make his game. He therefore led dummy's king of clubs to trick two, deliberately sacrificing his own queen. Unless he did this he feared that his opponents, by holding up the club ace, would block dummy's clubs, as there were only two diamond entries with which to get back to Dummy to establish and run the clubs. But by sacrificing South's queen, dummy, with two entries, could take five tricks in that suit, since the adversaries could win only two club tricks and could not take the lead away from dummy without using a winning club.

East played her ace on dummy's king of clubs; declarer played the queen; West the 4. East then disappointed the declarer by leading the 7 of spades instead of returning her partner's original heart lead. Had the heart been returned, declarer's play would have been simple. As it was, he had to decide whether to play the queen or 10 of spades, since obviously he could not afford to play his ace. He finally played the queen; West won with the king; and dummy played the 3.

Mr. Bruelheide, West, continued his hearts, as his best possible lead even though he knew declarer held the ace-queen. Mr. Bruelheide led the 8-spot from his sequence, as a slightly more informative card than the 10. Dummy discarded the deuce of clubs; Mrs. Munce played the trey of hearts, and declarer won with the queen.

Declarer then entered dummy again by leading his 10 of diamonds and overtaking with dummy's jack; West playing the 4, and east the deuce. Dummy led the 10 of clubs; East played the 5; declarer discarded the deuce of spades, and West played the 7 of clubs. East did not win this trick because she knew that the clubs would surely be continued from dummy, and by holding up she hoped to get a discard from West that might help her in selecting her next lead.

Dummy continued clubs, leading the 9 on the next trick; East won with the jack; Declarer discarded the 6 of spades, and West the 6 of hearts. East then led the 4 of spades; declarer played his ace; West the 5, and dummy the 8. Declarer then led his queen of diamonds, overtaking with dummy's king; East and West both following suit. As dummy's remaining three other highly probable tricks. South had his three high-card tricks in his three aces; his three other probable tricks consisted of the much better than even chance of winning a trick with one of the three queens in his ace suits, and two probable low-card spade tricks. Two low-card tricks are conceded to a five-card trump suit in addition to its one, two or three high-card tricks.

West of course would pass, and North would bid three clubs, as an original two-bid in a suit, just as is the case with a one-bid, calls for a denial from partner who has less than normal support but has other strength. South would then go to three no trumps, arriving at the same bid as in auction; and the play in the two games would be identical.

BABSON DRAWS CAPITAL FIRE

Economist Charges Congress Disrupted Business

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (INS)—The charges of Roger W. Babson, the economist, that congress is responsible for all business uncertainty, drew a storm of censure upon him today from leaders of all factions on Capitol hill.

Babson was charged with being a "stool pigeon for Wall street," an "economic Mussolini" and threatened with being haled before the senate lobby investigating committee. The factional leaders in congress declared they couldn't understand his attack on legislators, including his sweeping charge that all senators were "playing politics" with the tariff bill. This imputation of dishonest motives incensed the legislators.

Called Stool Pigeon

"This Babson is a mere stool pigeon for Wall street," observed Senator Heflin, Democrat, of Alabama. "He is a mouthpiece for the moneyed interests that manipulated the market in recent weeks. He demonstrates that he knows nothing at all about the situation in congress and very little about its effect on the country. I think he should be summoned by the lobby committee to tell what he does know about the manipulation of the market. He can be summoned under my resolution providing for an investigation into the recent collapse of prices on the stock market."

Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, insurgent leader, held a similar opinion.

Economic Mussolini

"I find it difficult to comment on Babson's statement in parliamentary language," he said. "Babson is an economic Mussolini. He believes in Mussolini government. He demands in the first place that we do something to help the station of life in European nations in order that they may have more money to buy our own surplus products. In the next breath, he says we will not be required to buy anything from Europe. I always supposed that economists of any standing whatever promulgated the theory that we can't sell to a people our surplus products unless we permit those people to sell something to us—otherwise they would have no money to buy our products.

"In some way Babson expects, through President Hoover, to accomplish this impossible economic feat. Any child of ordinary intelligence knows this is an impossibility.

"I cannot help but wonder what connection this alleged economist has with the financial tyrants who manipulate gambling operations in Wall street."

Lovely Nuptial Ceremony Unites Society Couple

No more beautiful setting for a home wedding has been seen in recent years than that in the spacious J. A. Fisher home when Miss Faye Fisher became the bride of J. Warner Zimmer at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening. The graceful curving staircase was wreathed in southern smilax and blooming with white chrysanthemums. Posts wreathed in green with lights gleaming softly on their tips stood to start a white ribboned aisle to the mantel in the drawing room which was banked with smilax and white blossoms. Tall candelabra stood on each side with tapers softly gleaming. A white kneeling bench waited the bride and groom.

The prenuptial music included two exquisite numbers by Mrs. W. M. Priddy, "I Love You Truly," and "Because," with Mrs. O. B. Kiel at the piano and Mrs. Jouette Bonner playing the violin obbligato. Mrs. Bonner also gave a violin number, "At Dawning," and the "Love Song" was played softly while the ceremony was read.

Little Sue Ann Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Thomas, preceded the party as flower girl, dressed in a quaint and lovely little costume of ivory satin made in empire style with a lace bertha and long ruffled skirt. Jimmy Straus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Straus, acted as ring bearer, wearing a black velvet tuxedo.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, dressed in an exquisite gown of ivory panne velvet with long train and tulle veil, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

She was met before the improvised altar by Mr. Zimmer, with his best man, Tommy Myers of Fort Worth, and Dr. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, read the impressive ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and intimate friends.

Miss Thelma Fisher attended her sister as maid of honor and wore green chartreuse satin, with an arm bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums. Misses Helen Grisham, Elizabeth Carrigan and Alice Graham, bridesmaids, were in green chartreuse satin with bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Mrs. J. A. Fisher was matron of honor and was a handsome picture in peach satin with an arm bouquet of orchid chrysanthemums.

Mrs. C. N. Cameron presided over the bride's book in the hall and during the reception following the ceremony. Misses Marguerite Fisher, Mary Jo Kell, Catherine Marcus and Mesdames George Collum, T. T. T. Reese and W. J. Grisham presided in the dining room where the Italian lace covered table held a lovely wedding cake with a five-light candelabrum rising from the center holding gleaming tapers. Silver candlesticks held other tapers with tulle bows adding to the effect. From each corner of the table, ropes of smilax reached to the chandelier and from the center of the chandelier, hung a shower of lilies of the valley.

Directly after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Zimmer left for Chicago. They will visit Mr. Zimmer's family in Illinois and on their return will be at home to their friends in the Westmoreland apartments.

Among the out of town guests attending the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Cramer of Daingerfield, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stovall of Graham, a large party from Electra, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hunter of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Clem of Dallas and Mrs. Hunter of Tennessee.

Guests were invited to view the wedding gifts which filled one of the spacious rooms of the residence. Dresden, Copeland, and Royal Doulton china; linens embroidered and in Italian cutwork, boudoir, bridge and handsome table lamps; an entire flat silver service and many handsome pieces of silver, with others gifts too numerous to mention, made a display not often seen. It told of the popularity of Mrs. Zimmer and of the Fisher family.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

The Kansas City brokerage house had an announcement Tuesday on their bulletin boards that no more margin orders for stocks would be accepted for women.

◇ ◇ ◇

Women are poor losers, they said. It surprises us. We had believed that as women entered the world of men they would take on the sterling virtues of men. Counted high among these is that virtue of being a good sport—a good loser or a good winner.

◇ ◇ ◇

A good winner, in our esteem, is one who doesn't brag over his winnings. In bridge, for instance, a good winner is one, who when he's winning and you're losing, doesn't say "That's just what I wished you'd do," when you play a card that makes his hand.

◇ ◇ ◇

A good loser is one who can stand the gaff and keep on trying. We believe the motto for the poor loser would be never to take on a game unless they were prepared to lose.

◇ ◇ ◇

Something happened in Wichita Falls Monday evening that we looked on as bad manners.

◇ ◇ ◇

When we were young, we were taught never to leave the table without saying, "Please excuse me" and never to pass between one and the fire without being just as polite.

◇ ◇ ◇

But at the Municipal auditorium Monday evening when the last number on the program was just beginning, people began to move out. It was bad enough when they went out before the singing began, but to go out in the midst of a number—well—they didn't even say "excuse me."

◇ ◇ ◇

Thoughtlessness, perhaps. Some may have had to go a distance and felt they must leave. But many were townspeople and had plenty of time to get home. It takes thoughtfulness, not thoughtlessness, to make good manners.

Woman Who Quit Her Sick Husband Scored by D. Dix

Is the Wife Who Divorced Her Sick Husband a Fair Matrimonial Proposition?—What Any Man Expects of His Wife's Cooking—Choosing a Life Work

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to a divorced woman whom I love very dearly. My brother has looked up the woman's history and he finds that she was married to a young mining engineer. They were happy until he was injured in an automobile accident due to her carelessness. For two years he was unable to work and soon the money they had saved up began to fade. She wanted to run around and have a good time and with the encouragement of her parents she divorced him, and heartbroken and disappointed he went West. She says that she thinks that her husband was selfish to expect her to give up her good times and that it was embarrassing to explain to people that he was ill. My brother says she is a quitter and a coward. My sister says she hasn't any common decency and is without honor. And my friends advise me against marrying her. Is this woman really a quitter? Should a wife remain with her husband even though her future is ruined? Should I marry her if I really love her?

—A READER.

Answer—Well, brother, if you marry this woman, my advice is to take out enough accident insurance policies to cover any catastrophes that may happen, so that you will be able to give the lady all the money she wants even though you should be as unlucky as your predecessor and meet with some misfortune that would curtail your earning powers. Otherwise, your fate will be even as his. For evidently her only conception of a husband is as a cash register and when it doesn't respond to her touch, out he goes on the dump heap. She has no further use for him.

If you are rich, you can keep a gold-digger wife—If you think she is worth the price—by giving her money, and more money, and more money, and the things that money buys, but you can't make a gold shield that will stand between you and all the vicissitudes of life. There is no way in which you can protect yourself against possible illness and from the certainly of growing old and tired.

When those evil days come, what sort of wife will you want? If you should be stricken down by disease, would you want a wife who would leave you sick and alone, perhaps with nobody to even hand you a glass of water, while she went off to amuse herself?

Or would you want a wife whose tenderness and devotion would be doubled because you were helpless and who would find a sacred joy in ministering to your needs? If you were invalid, would you want a wife who would divorce you because you could not make as much money as she wanted, or would you want a wife who would go out and get a job and support you if it were needed?

I have known plenty of women who have nursed sick husbands through illnesses that lasted through years and years and who never even once thought of the sacrifices they were called upon to make, so obsessed were they with pity for the poor sufferers. Every day I see women bearing with angelic patience with the querulousness and nerve-racked demands of sick husbands.

I know dozens of women who not only nurse but support invalid husbands and thank God that they are able to do it. And once in Honolulu I saw a boat start for Molokai bearing on it 40 women who were going out to join their husbands in the leper colony, knowing that they could never come back again, and that they were going to live among horrors and to face the death that one dies by inches.

So what do you want, brother, in a wife? Do you want a fair-weather wife, or one who will stick to you come rain, come shine? Do you want a quitter or a stayer? Do you want a wife who will take you for better or worse, or one who considers that her marriage vows last only as you can give her good times?

Personally, I think that a wife who would turn her back on her husband when he was down and out; a wife who would divorce her husband just because he was sick, is the poorest specimen of femininity in the world. She is nothing but a mass of selfishness. She hasn't a heart the size of a chicken's. She has no loyalty, no principle, not even any pity. Nothing that any decent man can want in a wife. Nothing on which he can build any hope for a happy union.

Why, I think that the lowest woman who sticks to her man, who lies and steals for him and who wants outside of a prison gate to take him back when he has served his term, is a better woman than the one who leaves a sick husband, whose prosperity she has enjoyed, just because he is no longer able to work and make money for her.

Dear Miss Dix—Which do you think would make the better husband, the boy who has lived at home all his life, or the boy who has roomed or boarded? I think the boy who has roomed would because he would be so glad to have a home of his own and a dinner that his wife has done her best to prepare. that he would overlook the small things that a young wife finds so difficult to do, whereas the boy who has always lived at home would expect his wife to be as good a housekeeper as his mother.—MOLLY.

Answer—All men expect their wives to know how to cook and manage and set a good table, no matter whether they have lived at home and feasted on mother's pies, or have battered around from boarding house to boarding house and cafeteria to cafeteria.

There is something as pathetic in a man's naive belief that every woman is a born cook as in a child's faith in Santa Claus. It positively never seems to occur to one when he marries a girl who goes from high school into an office that she has never had a chance to acquire any skill with the pots and pans, and that she no more knows how to make biscuit than she does how to compose a sonata. And he is shocked and horrified and disappointed and disgruntled and feels that he has been cheated and generally gold-bricked when little new wife sets him down to a dinner that would give an ostrich dyspepsia.

—DOROTHY DIX.

A Sweet Stomach Yours for the Asking

If you're troubled with "indigestion," excessive gas, belching, heartburn, distressing pains after eating, it's a sure sign of acid stomach. Correct this condition and you can eat almost anything.

There are a number of effective anti-acids on the market, but most of them give only temporary relief. Often they upset the chemical balance of the stomach, retard digestion, and do more harm than good. Don't experiment. Pape's Diapepsin is the tried-and-true remedy you can always depend on for instant relief and quick restoration of normal digestion.

Pape's Diapepsin does not retard but aids digestion, because it does not interfere with the flow of gastric juices. It neutralizes acids, soothes the inflamed lining of the stomach, and it promotes perfect assimilation.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. (US)—There isn't anything I could write, half as good as what came to me this morning from White Pigeon, Mich. The lady takes me by the collar and drops me off of my cloud. She encloses her picture on which she writes: "In 44 years out of the first 99 that are supposed to be the worst, I acquired this set expression from worrying about how to hold a husband." The letter:

"You are uncannily right 10 times out of 10 in your perilous undertaking of showing the women where (and how) to get off. Came the dawn, (the day after wash day) and me with so many aches and pains as I arise to get breakfast, that I am convinced that I never was cut out to be a washwoman. All this hulabaloo about how to hold a husband! Hold 'em up. One never hears of men devoting a whole afternoon to running down a solution to the problem of how to hold a wife, as did the members of the Illinois Womens Athletic club in Chicago the other day. Men should worry when they have women guessing to that point!

"It was a night club hostess who told women 'tease 'em, pet 'em, love 'em' she should have added, 'Smack 'em'—but not with your lips. Some middle aged gentleman of generous waist line, will no doubt be annoyed by a sudden change of attitudes, sudden attentions from his wife. Anything a man hates, is attentions from a woman to whom he is indifferent. 'Tease and pet' em' is the bunk without a basis of comradeship, and without the spontaneity of a gay and mischievous nature.

"Furthermore, women get as tired of men as men do of women. Men seem to be unconscious of their middle age ugliness, baldness and rotundity, but women retain youthful appearance or lose out. I have been divorced twice and married three times and I never took a cent of alimony from either man. Pride! I am determined to stick this marriage out. An endurance test. Please him, pet him, tease him, remind him to take a clean hanky. I look after his health and comfort, in short live for him. I know that there is nothing that women can do to hold husbands who are 'like children,' tiring of women as children tire of toys. And while my husband is busy pursuing his new loves, I am busy repulsing the proffered attentions of other women's husbands. What do you make of that?

"My husband doesn't dare to be physically lazy or he would get a kick, so he substitutes mental laziness and gets away with it. He is a naturally lazy individual into whom I have managed to inject a little pep (enough to get by on). Conversationally he has certain sets of moth-eaten phrases that he uses until I am tired of hearing them, after 14 years. The use of them saves him thinking. Stored away in the recesses of his mind, if indeed his mind can boast of anything like a recess, they are brought out all dusty and cobwebby, brushed off and put back. I tried to jar him loose from one or two lately. If he would even say 'and how' once.

"Men are something to be endured, and this matter of holding a husband is something to be thrashed out in families, not conventions. I told one widow in love with my husband, who told me of it, 'you don't think you are the first, do you?' He gets that way about somebody every two years. Anybody with a come-hither smile, and the words right to bait the old ego, or vanity or whatever it is that wives ignore.

"So long sister.

Henrietta Club Entertains In Forum Spanish Tearoom

Henrietta came to Wichita Falls Wednesday. Seventeen representative women of the Unity club of Henrietta who are studying Spain in art, music and literature, drove to Wichita Falls to have luncheon and a program in the Spanish tea room on their federation club day.

Hostesses were draped charmingly in Spanish shawls and dressed in Spanish costumes. A delicious Spanish luncheon was served before the program.

Three Wichita Falls guests were entertained, Mesdames Sam Kruger, W. M. Cason and Ben G. Oneal. Mrs. Sam Kruger is an honorary member of the club, much loved by the club personnel for her interest in their work.

The toastmistress for the day was Mrs. Sylvester Koestetter, who introduced the guests and made a gracious speech in toasting Mrs. Ben G. Oneal. She went back into Spanish history of the days when Arabs and Moslems retired into the fastnesses of the mountains, wondering if it was not there that lay the foundation of the old saying about Mohammed coming to the mountain. Then she said, that in like manner, as Mrs. Oneal could not come to them, they thought it fit on federation day, to come to Mrs. Oneal.

Mrs. Oneal made a talk on the work of the district, state and general federations. She said that in the district work, the president was only the vehicle, who depended on the chairmen for the cooperation that would make a successful term of office.

Speaking of the manner in which the 19th century had changed the status of women—how machinery had freed them so that they might do club work, she told of the first biennial where 60 women met and made the plans to meet every other year. Many plans mentioned in the recent federation conference in Mineral Wells were touched lightly in Mrs. Oneal's talk, and the department work of the district was stressed as a theme for programs in the clubs.

Mrs. Koestetter next introduced Mrs. Earl Nutter, president of the Henrietta club. Mrs. Nutter gave an interesting talk on Spanish music, and when she discussed the opera "Carmen," illustrated it with the records from that opera, given by the most outstanding singers of the several parts.

There was a pleasant, at-ease atmosphere about the luncheon and the program that made it unusual in appeal to the guests.

The Henrietta party numbered Mesdames Earl Nutter, T. K. Jones, W. H. Myers, P. H. Boddy, J. W. Hunt, B. A. Weaver, F. O. Moore, E. L. Ikard, R. J. Brown, St. Andrew Myers, R. S. Owens, John Firestone, S. Koestetter, J. P. Gilliland, R. P. Thaxton, W. L. Mount and Miss Nellie Bobo.

Miss Mamie Bond gave a talk on the motto of her class, "Be True to God and Your Conscience."

The Joy Girls were represented in the program by Misses Marion Parker, Anna Ruth Cowart and Adeline McGregor. Refreshments were served to 48 guests and the hostess.

WOOL GROWERS HEAR MOODY

Marketing Plan Discussed At San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 20. (AP)—With action to be taken on the proposal tomorrow noon, discussions and addresses before the 65th annual convention of the National Wool Growers association today centered around the new national wool marketing association, plans for which were drawn up by a special committee here this week.

The growers' association will vote tomorrow noon on acceptance of the market association, which was formed in cooperation with the federal farm board.

Moody Makes Talk

Gov. Dan Moody of Texas and F. J. Hagenbarth, Spencer, Idaho, president of the National Wool Growers association, both referred to the proposed working agreement between wool warehouse marketing systems and the national marketing association. Governor Moody said that federal aid was the avenue by which the wool growing industry could find its way to a plane of equality with other industries. President Hagenbarth declared it was time that "we get together on a wool marketing plan, to stand together against the eastern interests which believe they hold us in peonage."

"We should not play second fiddle to Wall street, or to any industry of this country," Hagenbarth asserted. He emphasized the failure of the wool growers to obtain their desired 40-cent tariff in the new tariff bill, declaring the wool growers' tariff was cut to 31 cents "while manufacturers of the East were given increased tariff protection."

Backed by Board

"If this marketing plan is made broad enough, fair, and simple," the growers' president said, "it will be a success. We have the farm board behind us, backed by half a billion dollars, and with broader powers than given any other government agency. There is no reason why all growers should not come under the shelter of the farm board.

"We want to say what we will take, not having others say what they will give."

Hagenbarth suggested that financing for growers be handled through intermediate banks. He pleaded with delegates "not to let little details stand in the way of a working agreement between the warehouses and the marketing association."

FEDERAL JURY CLOSES WORK

35 Indictments Returned In Final Report

In its final report made Wednesday afternoon the federal grand jury returned 35 indictments, 28 of which were disposed of or pending when Judge William H. Atwell adjourned federal district court at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. The remaining seven indictments will be transferred to the federal court at San Angelo over which Judge Atwell will preside next April.

The charges against three men named in one indictment were withheld due to the fact that the men were not under arrest. Caplas writs were issued by the court when the indictment was made. The grand jury returned 13 indictments Monday and the remaining 22 Wednesday. The 35 indictments were returned out of a total of about 50 cases, no bills having been returned for the remainder.

Veteran Loses Suit

The greater part of the court session Wednesday was taken up by the trial of the suit of H. E. Larkin against the federal government on a claim of approximately $13,000 in principal and interest on a war risk insurance policy. After comparatively short deliberation, the jury decided in favor of the government, their report coming in at 4:20 p. m. shortly after the court had taken up consideration of criminal cases. Larkin's case was the second of its kind to have been decided in favor of the government during the court term here and was the second of a series of eight scheduled to come up for trial during the present term.

The great majority of liquor cases having been disposed of, criminal cases in the court Wednesday afternoon dealt with narcotic, forgery and using the mails to defraud charges in addition to violations of the prohibition law. A summary of the indictments brought before Judge Atwell, the charges and disposition of the cases Wednesday afternoon follows:

Cases Before Court

Ben Gray, negro, pleaded guilty to a charge of two counts of forging indorsements on checks, sentence deferred; James M. Carter, pleaded guilty on two counts of using the mails to defraud mail order houses, sentence deferred; H. C. McComb, pleaded guilty to possession of morphine, had been held five months in the county jail, sentenced to five months dated back and freed; Charles McCassalin and Lillie McCassalin, pleaded guilty to five counts of sale and possession of morphine, sentence deferred; Theodore Ellis, pleaded guilty to possession of liquor, fined $125; W. F. Tidwell, pleaded guilty to two counts of possesion and transportation of liquor, previously convicted, sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, car forfeited with reservation that the owner could obtain it on intervention hearing, since Tidwell had borrowed it; J. T. Alsup, pleaded not guilty to three counts on liquor charge, case set for Thursday morning; Ed Koenig, pleaded not guilty on three counts of liquor charges, case set for Thursday morning; Tom J. Bell and Frank Day, pleaded guilty to three counts on liquor charges, Bell sentenced to 15 days and fined $50, Day sentenced to 20 days dating back and fined $50; James Louis Williams, negro, pleaded guilty to four counts on liquor charges, sentenced to 49 days to date back 39 days and fined $50; Eva Gowdy, pleaded not guilty to three counts on liquor charges, case set for Thursday morning; Essie Whitener, pleaded guilty to charges af altering post-office money orders, sentence deferred.

In addition to the above cases, the grand jury returned indictments against Lena Phillips, charged with possesion of narcotics and Aubrie Smith, charged with possession of narcotics.

SENATE VOTES TO ADJOURN

Special Session Expected To End Friday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (AP)—Overriding opposition of the "young guard" Republicans, the tariff-tired senate voted today to adjourn the special session Friday night for a week's respite before the regular congressional meeting in December.

A hitherto defiant house, whose leaders have been lending encouragement to the senate "young guard" in blocking the adjournment tonight was prepared to accept adjournment tomorrow without a tariff bill.

Convinced the tariff measure had to go into the regular session of congress whether the senate met next week or not, the exasperated senate leaders quickly smothered opposition when the self-styled "Hoover regulars" renewed their anti-adjournment stand.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, the acting Democratic leader, offered the adjournment resolution with brief comment. Democrats lined up almost solidly for it and Senator Jones, of Washington, acting Republican leader, supported it along with 13 other Republicans of the old guard regulars and some of the western Independents.

Leaders of all factions insisted tonight the adjournment did not kill the tariff legislation. Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, who is in charge of the bill for the administration, announced he would call the legislation up in the regular session as soon as disposition is made of the contest against the seating of Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania.

Art School Forced To Drape Statues

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 20. (UP)—Citizens of Indianapolis still retain their modesty, art or no art.

And since they do, despite what the ancient Greeks and Romans thought about the subject, there was considerable scurrying about with chisels and draperies in the John Herron Art school here tonight.

For years, it seems, the school had an exhibition of plaster casts of ancient statuary depicting men and women in various states of dress and undress, principally the latter.

Then the school decided to invite parents of pupils to an open house the other night.

"And that's where we made our big mistake," admitted Clifton Wheeler, instructor in charge of the plaster cast room.

The parents were shocked that their children should see such statuary, they said, and they also told directors of the school that hereafter the school would change the statuary or else their children would neglect their artistic educations.

That explains why Wheeler tonight was busy with his chisels and his drapes. When he finishes with the statuary, he said, it may not look very much like the sculptors intended that it should, but it certainly will not offend the modest citizen in Indianapolis.

Lower Rediscount Rates Are Predicted

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. (UP)—A general downward revision of rediscount rates in each of the several federal reserve districts was seen in prospect here today, as the federal reserve board slashed the rate of the Boston bank to 4½ per cent.

Approval of the reduction followed yesterday's prediction of Gov. Roy A. Young that "money will be available at easier rates." Announced within 24 hours of the federal advisory council's joint conference with the federal reserve board and President Hoover, the cut is believed to have resulted from the council's specific recommendations.

Harry Sinclair Free Man Again

to three months in jail early last spring when the United States supreme court denied his appeal from conviction for contempt of the senate in the district supreme court. The charge grew out of his refusal to answer questions propounded by the senate oil investigating committee.

Shortly after his incarceration on the night of May 6, the supreme court denied Sinclair's second appeal, this time from a sentence of six months for contempt of court. He was tried and convicted on this charge when it was learned that he had employed a detective agency to shadow jurors trying him and former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall on a conspiracy indictment.

Since part of the two sentences ran concurrently and further time was allowed him for good behavior, Sinclair actually served only a little more than two-thirds of the total sentences.

SINCLAIR PROTESTS OF HIS TREATMENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. (UP)—Harry F. Sinclair issued to newspapers tonight, a few hours before his release from the District of Columbia jail, a statement reviewing his case and reasserting his complete innocence of any wrongdoing.

"I was railroaded to jail in violation of common sense and common fairness," he said. "The great power and prestige of the government were employed against me under hostile influences and prejudiced by a campaign unjustly describing me as defiant of law. I was a victim of political campaigns to elect honest Democrats by proving how dishonest Republicans were."

Back to Work

Sinclair made the following references to himself:

"I have made no plans except to go to my home and then to my office. Naturally, my first thoughts are of my family, my associates and my friends whose loyalty I have so deeply appreciated. My own absolute knowledge that I have committed no wrong gives me unimpaired courage and absolute confidence of final vindication in the public esteem. No jury of my countrymen has ever convicted me of any wrong. The courts have admitted I am guilty of no moral turpitude in the contempt cases."

In the body of his statement Sinclair reviewed the cases against him—particularly alleged prejudice; the fact that jury shadowing had been indulged in by governmental agencies; the fact that his alleged contempt was simply refusal to answer questions by advice of his counsel, which held them not pertinent and unconstitutional; and his interpretation of court decisions against him, namely, that he was sentenced for a contempt which was never defined until the charges against him reached the courts, so that, in his opinion, he could not have committed contempt because there was at the time no definition of what constituted the particular contempt.

PARK PLANNED AT MEMPHIS

Contract for Erection of Dam Let

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 20.—Lakewood Farms, Inc., a new corporation recently formed by citizens of Memphis and Hall county, have let a contract for the erection of a dam on the land recently acquired by this organization for the purpose of building a 20-acre park and developing it into a recreational spot. The contract was let to a local contractor, who has had much experience in the building of dams, and construction work is to start immediately. The dam will cost approximately $19,000, and will be an earth dam with steel and reinforced concrete interlocking sheet piling and is designed to hold 320 feet of sheet water four feet thick. It is estimated that the annual flow of water will be between 16,000,000 and 20,000,000 gallons.

A 30-inch flume will be put in at the bottom of the dam for any emergency that may arise, necessitating the draining of the lake. A six-inch irrigation pipe will also be put in for the purpose of watering the 20-acre park east of the dam. This park is a second bottom creek flat, which is sub-irrigated, and will be profusely landscaped in flowers and shrubs. This will be only one of three parks which will be developed on the property of the Lakewood Farms, Inc.

The dam will provide for a lake of around 80 acres. According to John M. Browder, from whom the property was purchased, the watershed will be between four and five sections of land. In connection with the lake, two bathing beaches will be established. The site of each will be thoroughly grubbed of all growth such as bushes and mesquite trees and the land ploughed up and leveled preparatory to geting the beaches in order.

Second Kerrville Hunter Is Killed

KERRVILLE, Texas, Nov. 20. (AP)—Officers tonight had not ascertained who fired the shot which killed Hugo F. Day, about 50, Teague merchant, found dead late last night by companions on a hunting trip near here.

Day's body was in a tree. He had been shot from the back. His gun, undischarged, lay on the branches nearby and a turkey caller was on the ground at the base of the tree. About 60 paces back of the dead man in an adjoining pasture closed to hunting, was an empty shell fired from a .35-caliber rifle. Foot prints also were noticed there.

Day presumably had climbed the tree to wait for turkeys. He evidently had used the turkey caller and someone had mistaken him for a turkey.

The coroner's verdict was that Day was killed by a gunshot wound inflicted by "some person unknown."

This was the second hunting fatality in this section in as many days, E. J. (Doc) Stewart having been accidentally killed Monday.

Flier Killed as Plane Falls on Building

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. (AP)—Loser in a fight with a balky motor above the towering roofs of Manhattan, Charles I. Reid, 34, a concert manager and lecturer, was killed today in an airplane crash atop a 12-story Y. M. C. A. building on 64th street, just west of Central park.

While Reid desperately struggled to bring the wildly careening ship out of a tail spin over the western edge of Central park, his passenger, Robert Baille, a lion trainer, crawled out on the wing, pulled the ripcord of his parachute, and let it carry him off. He landed, with only a few scratches, on a roof top in 64th street, across the way from that on which Reid crashed in the airplane.

No South American people ever invented an alphabet, and although the Peruvians had a well-developed language and were able to use it in composing plays and songs and poems, they had no means of writing them down.

Betty Broodo Tells Why 'It's Right in Wichita'

Editor's Note—The following essay, written by Miss Betty Broodo, 2115½ Avenue E, was selected by the Junior chamber of commerce as the best among 200 submitted in a contest held in connection with "It's Right in Wichita Falls Week." Pupils of the city schools were eligible.

By MISS BETTY BROODO
Pupil in Wichita Falls High School

First—I should spend my money in Wichita Falls because by doing so I help build Wichita Falls' prosperity. The manufacturers and merchants of this city have put their faith in the prosperity of Wichita Falls. In the name of this great faith, these men have uplifted the standards of our educational system by building good schools and contributing to their support; they have built beautiful churches, homes, office buildings, and places of amusement. When we patronize the out-of-town merchants, our money goes toward the prosperity of their city—a prosperity which we do not share.

Second—I should spend my money in Wichita Falls because by doing so I help the employment and labor conditions. The establishments of another city do not offer the employment upon which most Wichitans are dependent for a living. But the merchants and manufacturers of Wichita Falls are offering this necessary employment to its working classes.

Third—I should spend my money in Wichita Falls because when I support the home establishments, I help to invite future enterprises and investment of capital for industries of a greater volume.

If Wichitans do not patronize home establishments, local merchants and manufacturers could not offer their products of industrial process on the proper commercial basis. Henceforth bad labor conditions would cause the working classes to leave our city for a place of better opportunities.

It is very essential for our merchants and manufacturers to have the support of the Wichita Falls citizenship as a whole. Therefore I should spend my money in Wichita Falls and thereby do my part in helping our merchants and manufacturers in their great enterprise—that of making the "city that faith built" one of the most prosperous cities of Texas.

QUIT TALKING PANIC

Daily Editorial

THERE has been no panic, no no possibility of a panic—none of the elements that produce panics have existed in the current situation. And the sooner we stop using the word panic, the quicker America will return to confident attitudes of mind and resume its enthusiasms.

The bull movement has shifted operations from Wall street to Wall street. Don't believe the half of it. There never were twenty million speculators—or fifteen, or ten million, gamboling in the lamb pastures.

If such wild figures were valid, they would indicate averages of fifty to a hundred per cent of the families in the United States, with at least one member dabbling on some exchange.

Poppycock!

The decline in security values doesn't represent anything like corresponding cash losses. Most of the shrinkage resolved into unrealized profits and the balloon stuffing, with which pool manipulation was outrageously sophisticating ticker quotations.

Nobody knows, or can know for months to come, the extent of the damage or the number of individuals who share it.

Savings banks haven't yet reported on wiped-out balances; insurance companies have made no statement as to advances against, and the hypothecation of policies; and lapses in mortgage payments are still to be totaled.

The badly hit birds are suffering in silence; caution and commonsense warn them against credit-damaging admissions.

Not an important brokerage house or fiduciary institution is known to be in difficulties. Neither big merchants nor small tradesmen are appreciably filing bankruptcy petitions. Dun and Bradstreet fail to note disturbing increases in requests for extension.

But—

EVERY business organization, sales force, and soda fountain rodeo, is filled with calamity howlers and gloom spreaders, boasting of scars from unsuffered wounds. Pikers and peewits, by myriads, are enjoying Barmicide feasts of woe, pretending, like Munchausen, to imaginative fiscal adventures, seizing the opportunity to pose as important ex-financiers, without ever having risked a penny in speculation.

Rumor mongers, unqualified experts and baseless opinion are peddling theories of conspiracies to wreck the Hoover administration and to smash American prosperity for the benefit of foreign bond flotations.

The less a man knows about the market, the more he seems to deliver conclusive judgment.

Industry is not threatened with immediate retrogressions.

The national balance sheet is sufficiently reassuring to warrant tax reduction, lowered re-discount, and optimistic declarations from money masters, merchant princes and federal officials.

Legitimate enterprise finds it easier to secure promotion and operating requirements than a year ago.

The resources withdrawn from channels of trade, to provide call money requirements, will now resume normal service, revert to construction, expansion, replacement or railroad and public service equipment and the stabilizing of employment.

There are no excess inventories to be written off, no post-war stocks or congestions of unsalable crops. None of the circumstances responsible for the inevitable adjustments in 1920 are anywhere apparent.

We've stopped shooting crape to aim at targets again. Our working capital is unimpaired; smokestacks are belching; and the outlet for essential commodities, undiminished.

Fools who continue to sell short, are selling America short—and deserve what's coming to them.

A woman magazine writer says marriage is the finest profession. We have noticed, however, that many people who follow it retire while still quite young.

The Wichita Falls Symphony Orchestra

NEARLY three thousand people enjoyed the program of the Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday night.

The term "enjoyed" is used advisedly for there was every evidence that the great crowd did appreciate and enjoy the varied program that was offered. To have brought together so many artists right out of Wichita Falls, to have planned a program of such variety yet with such harmony and balance and to have directed it through to such a brilliant success evidenced an ability that is certainly more than ordinary. The Record News congratulates the conductor and the orchestra and all who took part in the program. The hint of another program next spring is delectable.

The Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra is barely three years old. It has already gone much farther than most of the big orchestras of the country had gone at that age. With each performance it is showing an improvement and growth that promises even greater successes in the future.

The great crowd that heard the gala concert program cannot help but be an encouragement and an inspiration to the orchestra for the future.

Rebuttal Evidence

SOCIETIES and individuals devoted to the promotion of atheism doubtless will have their eyes opened to the magnitude of their task upon noting the present pilgrimage of believers to the shrine of Rev. Patrick Joseph Power in Holy Cross cemetery, near Boston.

Much of the evidence of general disbelief in a benevolent Divine Power which atheistic organizations profess to have measured during recent years will be vigorously reduced by the example now being set by thousands of all and any faiths. The 200,000 or more persons who have swarmed to the new-found shrine of reported healing during the past few days represent not only the church in which Rev. Mr. Power was a leader, but practically every branch of Protestant belief, and many who have never affiliated with any religious organization.

Regardless of the various interpretations which equally various groups will place upon the declared physical cures, the movement of vast throngs from all over the country to the stone where avowedly healing waters were discovered attests eloquently the deep-rooted faith in a kindly, all-powerful Deity which moves in human hearts.

They Didn't Have Leisure

"WOMEN," remarks a writer in a current magazine, "have suddenly exchanged leisure for equality—obviously the most stupid move ever made in history by a privileged class."

We're quoting that statement because it is so typical of the flabby thinking indulged in by many modern commentators on the "new woman" question.

The number of women who actually had anything approaching leisure before this present era of equality was certainly not above two per cent of all the women in the country. The farmer's wife certainly never had leisure—not enough to keep her from being an old woman at 40. The workingman's wife, with four or five children to bring up and a house to look after, never had leisure. Only the rich man's wife had it.

Just about half of all the high flown discussions of "woman's place" in the modern world are utterly worthless, because—like the one quoted above—they make the idiotic assumption that the stay-at-home woman of the old days was a member of the leisure class.

Even a Drunk Man Knows Better

A KANSAS CITY young man has been given a five-year prison sentence for driving an automobile while intoxicated. Even a drunk man ought to have more judgment than to attempt to drive a car while in that condition. And a few examples of punishment such as that meted out in the instance of the young man just noted is going to have effect.

The Texas law may not be as drastic as the Missouri law under which the young man received the five-year penalty, but it does have teeth that will hurt and there is need for an example right here in Wichita Falls.

Thirty Three Million Dollars

THIRTY COUNTIES in the Wichita Falls area had ginned 347,849 bales of cotton up to Nov. 1, according to the government report, which with its seed was estimated to be worth $33,000,000.

This was several thousand more bales than had been ginned in the same counties the same date a year ago, but it is likely that the total ginnings this year will be less than a year ago because there is not so much late crop to be picked.

Even should this be so, the ginnings this year have already exceeded expecations and thirty-three million dollars is an amount sufficient to support considerable commercial activity, even if there were no other resources in the territory.

One of the Oldest

Speaking of Ripley's "Believe It or Not," as we were speaking a column or so ago, when Rip said that Red Rum and Murder spelled the same backward as forward, George Jean Nathan reminds us that the oldest and best palindrome was Napoleon's, viz: "Able was I ere I saw Elba."

Oop!

Page 20 of the current Brentano's Book Chat offers among other complaints from readers: "I was very much surprised to see an article on Walter Winchell in the columns of so sane and sound a magazine as Book Chat. And I might so far as to say that I was disappointed. Why not let him stay in the tabloids where he belongs?—L. L."

Wonder how L. L. knows that we work for a tabloid.

Imagine!

What probably is the dirtiest Broadway trick in many seasons was accounted for by a New York critic recently when he said of a new show: "It is, however, a pediculous play. As a matter of fact, the leading lady's acting is most pediculous and she looks pediculous."

The actress was thrilled. After buying two dozen copies of the newspaper she sent the writeup to her family and particularly to a manager of a stock company who once fired her.

Then she looked up Pediculous in the dictionary.

"My dear Walter," passionately writes Irene Delroy, the leading lady of the "Follow Thru" show (who also incloses a clipping from Variety) "the incloseed clipping has annoyed me no end. "Dear Walter," writes Ona Munson, recently the leading lady of "Hold everything!" All I want to say is this is the first I've heard of the entire incident, and the reply Variety credited me with is purely out of their own imagination, or else they got the names mixed. Gosh, I know what you must be up against as we have a fiddle player next door to us that starts practicing at 8 a. m. I guess the moral is, we should all live in pent-houses.

At any rate, I feel badly about it, Walter, after the way we recently kissed and made up, and even Variety cannot come between us!—Ona Munson."

Observation

One of the local rags is in a lather about the night life sitchee-ay-shun. It would have you believe that Broadway is lifeless and that the stay-up-lates' only diversion is found in the septa sector of Harlem. Pardon the exaggeration.

Harlem gets the boarway play after 3 a. m., when the downtown places must close as soon as Broadway's Strong Arm Squad calls in person. For sound night life business none is better than that which is being enjoyed by the new Hollywood Restaurant, a delightful spot at Broadway and 46th, which features no couvert charge, and offers the most entertaining and nudest floor revue in all New York.

It is also the only place in New York, by the way, that resembles and offers a show like those you see photographed in the movies.

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XLIV

The little car was parked in the driveway, a solid mass of shadow against the moonlit side yard.

Ann Marie could see it through the open windows of the dining room as she started towards the side porch on slippered feet that made no sound.

She was just putting out her hand to unlock the door that led to the side porch when the sound of voices, coming from the yard, startled her. . . . Two people were out there in the cool sweet darkness, talking to each other just above a whisper!

Noiselessly she crossed over to one of the windows and knelt down beside it. . . . They were in the car—Alice and Neal! She could just make out the glimmer of Alice's white dress and the glowing tip of Neal's cigaret.

"I shouldn't have come back," she heard him say in a whisper.

An hour before he had kissed her goodnight and started down Pleasant street on foot. She had stood on the front steps and watched his tall figure vanish into the darkness.

And now here he was back again—not because of her, but to see Alice! And what could he be wanting to see Alice for at this time of the night? . . . And why should Alice be sneaking out of the house to seem him at this hour? What was it all about, anyway?—

"I know—but I just had to see you," Alice's whisper was hardly more than a sighing breath in the stillness.

Then there was a long silence—Ann Marie knew that Alice was in Neal's arm and that they were kissing each other.

A minute went by. . . . And then she got up from her knees. For an instant she thought that she would just walk out to them and tell them she had come for her coin purse and hated to disturb them.

"But I think you two might choose some place other than my car for your love-making!" she would say—

Oh, but what good would it do if she did say it? None. None at all.

"It would just make me look like a fool," she thought miserably, and she turned away from the window and went back up the stairs to bed.

She lay there, dry eyed, wondering why she didn't cry. . . . Wondering how long Alice would stay out there in the darkness of the little car with Neal. . . . Wondering if a man really could love one woman, as Neal said he loved her, and still want to have little sneaking affairs with other women.

And so she fell asleep.

It was 9 o'clock when she opened her eyes on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Leezy had come into her room and was setting the old painted tin breakfast tray down upon the chair by the side of the bed. It was covered with a fringed white napkin and there was a glass of orange juice on it and a little white pot filled with Mrs. Leezy's perfect coffee.

"Ann Marie," she said, "where did you put that car last night afore you went to bed? Out in the driveway by the side porch, didn't you?"

Ann Marie nodded her tousled gold-brown head and began to blink the sleep out of her eyes.

"Neal put it there for me before he went home," she answered—and it was not until then that she remembered when she had last looked at the little car the night before.

"Why?" she asked. "What's wrong?"

"Well, Idon't know—only that there car ain't there," said Mrs. Leezy. "I was up at 6 o'clock and 'twas gone then."

Like a flash Ann Marie was out of bed.

She had her kimono and slippers on in a second, and was running down the stairs.

Mr. Macy was sitting at the dining room table, looking over the Sunday paper, when she came flying into the room and across it to the side porch.

Outside the yard was fresh from the night's dew and green with the soft young tender green of early June. The roses were clustered on the bushes against the fence, thick as stars.

The whole place was just as serene and familiar as it had been under the moon at midnight—but there was no little car standing beside the steps!

"What's the use of standing there, goggling at the yard? I told you the car wasn't there, didn't I?" Mrs. Leezy's voice asked sharply. "It ain't nowhere around this house, I told you!"

Ann Marie nodded. "Maybe Neal decided to drive back to New York this morning," she said. "It would have been just like him to. He's always doing things on the spur of the moment—"

"I'll say he is!" agreed Mrs. Leezy with spirit. "I've been watching that young feller for the last month—and he's just about as wild as they make them, if you ask me! He'd be here every hour of the day for a week or so 'til we thought we'd go crazy. Then he'd tell Alice he wasn't never coming here again—and next day he'd be back again, under our feet the hull time. Seems like he don't know which one of you girl to take—you or Alice. Both of you act like fools over him!"

Without a word in reply Ann Marie went upstairs.

She stood in the upper hall, looking thoughtfully at the closed door of Alice's room. . . . Suppose she went in and asked Alice just how things were between her and Neal. . . . Wouldn't that be the wise thing to do?

"We can't all go on this way," she thought. "If Alice is pust playing around with Neal she's got to stop it. And if she loves him—and if he loves her—why, I'll just have to give him up. That's all."

She crossed the space that lay between her and Alice's door.

She turned the door knob and stepped into the room. . . .

Alice was not in it!

Moreover she had not slept in it last night! . . . The candle wick bedspread was smooth and white and the pillows had not been touched. They were like smooth little drifts of snow against the back of the bed.

But the rest of the room was in wild disorder.

The top drawer of the dresser was on the floor, and there was nothing in it but a pair of soiled stockings. Perfume and powder and brushes were all gone from the dresser, itself. Three or four dresses lay in a heap on the floor of the closet where they had fallen.

Even the drawers of Alice's writing desk had been pulled out and shoved only part of the way in again . . . . And on the top of the desk lay a white envelope. Across it Alice had written "For Dad" in her fine dashing handwriting.

Ann Marie picked it up. It was not sealed.

"For Dad," she said aloud, reading the words that were written on the envelope.

But she knew that the message in it would be for her . . . Just as if someone had told her about it beforehand she knew what that message would be. She knew that Alice had run away with Neal—

Little things that Alice had said about him from time to time came back to her as she went slowly down stairs once more!

"He certainly is the best-looking thing that ever wore suspenders—"

"He surely does dance wonderfully, doesn't he, Ann Marie?" . . . "I wonder if you and Neal are suited to each other, Ann Marie"—

That was the sort of things she had said about him lately.

Why, she had been crazy about him all along!

"She probably would have landed him before now—only she was engaged to Johnny Lawler and his money," thought Ann Marie, and laid the envelope down upon the dining room table in front of her father.

She read the note with her chin on his shoulder, while Mrs. Leezy looked over his other shoulder and read it, too:

"Dear Dad—Mrs. Leezy will probably give you this note in the morning when she finds it on my desk. When you get it please tell Ann Marie, as gently as you can, that I have gone away with Neal Forsythe to be married to him. Tell her not to blame him. It's all my fault. I never meant to take him away from her, in the beginning, but Neal and I were just made for each other."

"They sure was!" declared Mrs. Leezy, coming to the end of the note. "If ever there was a lazy good-for-nothing pair, them two was it! They set around this house all one day when I was in the basement doing the washing, and, do you know, they was too lazy to get theirself a bite of lunch? I come upstairs at 3 o'clock, and they sings out at me to know wasn't we ever going to have any lunch that day! Them two never should spoil two houses! Ann Marie, you should be glad and relieved to lose such a blatherskite as that Forsythe! Everybody in town says he lives off of his widowed mother—and borrows from the Lawlers besides!"

But Ann Marie was neither glad nor sorry. She simply felt numb . . . Her face wore the dazed look of a person who has had a piece of news that he only half understands.

"I was engaged to him. I'm glad nobody knows it," she said finally. "I would hate everyone to know that a man had—turned me down."

On Monday the story of the elopement was printed in the newspaper.

And on Monday night Leota Ingram, in all the glory of her New York clothes, came pounding along Pleasant street on her three-inch heels and turned in at the Macy's front walk.

"I want to see your old man!" she said insolently to Ann Marie, who was sitting in the hammock-couch on the front porch. "I got a bone to pick with this family, just leave me to tell you! You tell your old man I want to see him!"

"You mean my father?" asked Ann Marie.

"I mean your old man!" Leota answered. "You heard me the first time! And don't you start acting snooty with me, Ann Marie Macy, or you're goin' to regret it! I'm going to make this family pay through the nose for all the things it's done to me!"

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Bridge Whist Battle of the Century

A contract bridge tournament has just been held in New York, with some of the best bridge clubs in the East competing and with the New York Bridge Whist club winning the Vanderbilt cup. Similar tournaments are to be held in other parts of the country. If the idea gets a grip on the public we may yet have a bridge players world's series marked by the presence of brass band, cheer leaders, mascots and loyal rooters.

One can fancy the best bridge team in Chicago dashing onto the field to a rousing cheer from its supporters, followed after a brief workout by the appearance of New York, Boston, Los Angeles and New Orleans, all fit and eager fro the bridge battle of the century.

"A long cheer for New York:" calls a cheer leader, turning a back somersault:

Razzle-dazzle, razzle-dazzle,
Sis! Boom! Bah!
Get the game and rubber—
Rah! Rah! Rah!

And back across the field, from the Chicago leader in the white flannels and blue sweater, comes:
Who are we? Who are we?
We are the leaders of the C. B.C.

Then a conference of officials and team captains, a tense moment while the teams out for deal, the blowing of a whistle—and the battle is on!

There would, of course, be the usual confusion on the part of the official announcers:

Sports Writer: Who led that ace?

Announcer: Work led the ace . . . just a minute . . . that wasn't Work, that was Richards.

Sports Writer: There goes the king . . . Whose king was that?

Announcer: That wasn't the king; that was the queen . . . It was Mahoney's king . . . queen, I mean.

Sports Writer: Wow! . . . It's trumped: . . . A beautiful trump by Jones . . . This Jones is playing a wonderful game today.

Announcer: Brown trumped that trick . . . Wait . . . It wasn't a trump . . . It was a low diamond . . . Hearts are trumps.

Etc., etc.

After the game there would have to be some outlet for the spectators' emotions. Probably they could scamper onto the field and tear up the bridge tables or something.

BISCUITS AND CRACKERS

Those who have been following my health articles know that I usually recommend wholewheat flour rather than white, but there are two methods in which the white flour may be used. The first is in the form of thoroughly toasted or dextrinized bread, and the second is in the form of baking powder biscuits. The best method of making these baking powder biscuits is to combine the white flour with eggs and milk with the addition of baking powder. The biscuits should be made very thin so that they can be thoroughly cooked. They should not be used in addition to other starches at the meal, but should be considered the principal starchy food and be properly combined with the non-starchy and salad vegetables. Either white or wholewheat flour may be used in the preparation of these biscuits.

Properly prepared biscuits should be light, with a golden brown crust of a fluffy composition and never soggy. In making them one should be accurate with the measurements, have an oven of correct temperature, and avoid over-handling or kneading the biscuits. A good recipe is as follows:

Two egg whites, two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder or less, depending upon the type of baking powder used. (Follow the directions given on the can). Two cups of flour, a pinch of salt, and a half cupful of milk. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold in the flour with as little stirring as possible, adding the milk a little at a time along with the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder and salt. The yolks should be beaten in the milk and not thrown away. Drop the batter in small spoonfuls on an ungreased aluminum sheet and bake in a hot oven until brown.

Most of the biscuits sold from the bread counters are made of yeast rather than baking powder, and resemble bread rather than baking powder biscuits.

Biscuits should never be used as strawberry shortcake or with any acid fruit. Crackers may occasionally be used as the starchy part of a meal instead of biscuits. They are better when toasted so that they are thoroughly dry and of a golden brown. Crackers may be taken on camping trips in place of bread.

There are also a variety of wholewheat crackers, baked in a hard, flat form. Some have the addition of flaxseed, raisins, etc. One of the latest to be developed is the wholewheat cracker to which various vegetables have been added. This is a good type of cracker to feed children, as the vegetables are disguised and they can eat a large quantity.

There are a number of shredded wholewheat biscuit products which are quite wholesome when broken open and retoasted under the roller. Because of these products being so brittle, they may be softened by pouring hot water over them and then seasoning with butter. They can then be eaten with a spoon as a very tasty substitute for Melba toast.

Cornmeal flour may be used to replace the wheat flours in preparing muffins, but the wheat flour and cornmeal should not be mixed together in the same recipe.

In preparing any of these biscuits or crackers, remember that they are starchy foods and should be used as such and not be combined with acid fruits.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Controlling Height

Question: J. J. F. asks:—"Will you please tell me whether it is possible to control the glands of growth so that a child may not attain an unusual height? The grandparents of this child are tall and the child at 10 years is 58 inches tall, or four inches above average."

Answer:—I have found that the glands can be made more normal in the 10-year-old child if the child goes through an orange juice fast for about 10 days. The fasting seems to have a balancing effect upon the glandular functioning, and this seems to have a beneficial effect upon increasing the growth of the child who is not growing rapidly enough and also to retard the growth of the one inclined to be too tall.

Yellow Teeth

Question: L. G. asks:—"What will whiten the teeth harmlessly? I have tried salt, soda, lemon juice and toothpastes regularly, but still my teeth have a yellowish tinge. I do not smoke."

Answer:—It may be that the yellow tinge to your teeth is natural for you. Ask your dentist about this, for if your teeth are made yellow through bacterial stain this can surely be removed through some preparation which your dentist could suggest for you to use.

Rheumatism

Question: G. H. asks:—"What causes the whole body to ache? Some mornings it is painful to even move my arms up, but after I stir around a bit I seem to be all right. Does the weather have anything to do with this condition?"

Answer:—You undoubtedly are having the start of some form of rheumatism. You will notice the stiffness more in cold or wet weather, but as you move about, or as the sun comes out, you will feel better. I have a series of articles on the cause and cure of rheumatism which I will be glad to send to you if you will write again, giving me your name and address.

The Crimson Outlook

When the present football season opened Harvard looked to have the best looking material of many years. There was both line and backfield strength. And it might be mentioned that the Harvard team has played much better football than the season's results to date might indicate. Harvard has had a good football team in every game—barring the last 20 minutes against Dartmouth, when Marsters started running amuck with enough stuff to disorganize the Crimson line-up.

The point is that scores and results don't always show the true strength of a football team. Harvard has greater possibilities for speed and power for attack and defense, than the season has shown so far. And Harvard in her final stand against Yale hopes to get clicking for the first time as Harvard coaches think the team ought to click. Yale hasn't had a resting spot since early October. Both the Blue and Crimson have been marching along storm-swept roads. Harvard has had to depend less upon one man, with a fine supply of backfield reserves.

All the elements are present to make one of the best Harvard-Yale games of many years in this meeting. Both squads have their supply of high-class talent, with enough individual stars in either the running or passing game to make the contest remembered.

At anything like their best, approaching their possibilities, these are two of the best Harvard and Yale teams of many seasons.

The Major's Big Stand

Football teams are not rebuilt in a hurry, and it took Major Frank Cavanaugh a season or two to get going at Fordham. But when he got going there was no half-way stuff about it. The major's record and Fordham's record have been something to write about. Now both face their hardest game of the season, with Bucknell coming along. Bucknell was good enough to beat Villanova, and on one else has been beating Villanova for a long time. Certainly beating Villanova has been no habit since Harry Stuhldreher landed in the neighborhood.

But the major has his battery ready to fire. Few believed he could play West Virginia and Boston college within a period of four days and escape defeat. But Fordham made good for him, where West Virginia had little left to throw against Detroit university four days after the Fordham game, a hard, bruising battle, demanding reserve surplus which West Virginia lacked later on.

Another Army-Navy Angle

In all this discussion by politicians intended to force an Army-Navy game next season, one factor has been overlooked.

This happens to concern the boys who are playing the game. For example, the Army has already completed its schedule for 1931, and this schedule is about all that any one can ask from a team. Modern football schedules have to be arranged at least one, two or three years ahead.

The Navy also has about completed a schedule that will keep its men hard at work from October to December. A football team having only so many reserves can play only a certain number of hard games without forcing the players beyond a healthy limit. For example, next fall the Army again meets Notre Dame on the last Saturday in November. It would be criminal to force another game just one week later. It would be equally criminal to force Navy players into such a contest after a season that had taken a heavy toll.

Modern football is no May day party. There are a few teams with enough reserve strength to play six or seven hard games. But there are few of these. Others try to play through such a season, only to find their teams broken and stale, with the nerve systems exhausted. This helps to account for so many of the so-called upsets. For this reason a team may be two or three touchdowns weaker one Saturday than it was the Saturday before.

Such a contest as the Army-Navy battle cannot be forced upon two football teams where hard schedules have already been arranged. It would be more than the players could face without suffering serious effects.

This is one detail no politician has yet considered. If left to many of them they would have both teams playing hard games all over the country from early October into Christmas week.

The next orator who arises to suggest that the Army and Navy be forced into action next fall might wait just a minute or two and consider a factor that has been given little consideration—the young man out there on the field taking the punishment.

How many know that any number of football schedules have been practically completed through 1933 and 1934?

So far Doc Spears at Minnesota hasn't tried out Bronco Nagurski at quarterback. But he may give the Big Nag a shot at this job before the season is out. He has already starred in most of the other positions.

"I've seen Cagle, Marsters and Booth, among others this season," writes Wanderer, "but I'll still pick Banker, of Tulane, as the best of the lot. He can do more things well than any of them, admitting that his schedule hasn't been as hard as it might have been. If given a chance on a team playing a larger number of harder games in the East or West, he would be the talk of the country. And when it comes to football, one section looks like any other, as far as I am concerned."

TRIBE THREAT FIRST QUARTER

Perkins and Nabors in Punting Duel

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

Conceded the under dogs by all laws of advance dope, the Wichita Falls Junior college Indians flashed an indomitable fighting spirit coupled with deadly tackling and defensive work to stave off the repeated thrust of the strongest football team in the Texas Junior College Athletic association, John Tarleton Agricultural college, and hold them to a scoreless tie. The much-touted and famed running attack of the vaunted Plowboy backfielders failed to carry the punch that was needed to throw across a touchdown. The Junior college Indians put up one of the greatest fights of their lifetime and now hold the distinction of being the only team in the conference circuit this season to hold back the Plowboys and keep them from crossing a goal line.

Aerial Attack Fails

On the other hand the supposedly powerful aerial game of the Indians failed to develop and this weapon proved almost useless to the team. The much-talked-of Cox-to-Davis passing combination failed to click and fell far short of expectations. The extremely good punting and an occasional sweeping end run featured a game that for the most part was unproductive of sensational playing. Perkins for the Indians had the better of Nabors in the kicking and the early part of the game was chiefly a punting duel between these two, with the Indians gaining from five to 10 yards on each exchange. Once when deep within his own territory on the 10-yard line, Perkins got off a stupendous kick that rose high in the air to sail 60 yards to the John Tarleton 30-yard line.

Indians Menace

Early in the first quarter after a series of punts had placed the ball on the Tarleton's own 11 yard line, the Indians made their most serious menace at the enemy goal line. On the very first play the Indians broke through to throw Rudder, fullback, for a nine yard loss. Rudder was first tackled behind the goal line but managed to scramble back three yards and back onto the playing field on his two-yard line. Many spectators jumped to their feet, thinking the Indians had scored a touchdown; but referee, Barry Holton, ruled the ball safe to the Plowboys on their two yard line where, in reality, Rudder had been downed.

Even in First Half

The battling in the first half of the contest was as nearly even as two teams could fight, but in the second half the Plowboys shoved out in front to measure a shade on the local eleven. The second and final quarter saw two powerful Plowboy drives which swept them far into Indian territory and within striking distance of the goal line. After a series of punts and a 15-yard penalty the Plowboys made their first down. Four straight, hard line plunges gave the visitors their second first down and placed the ball on the Wichita Falls' 15-yard line. The most serious Plowboy threat came, when, after a long mid-field tussle, Hickman intercepted one of Cox's passes on the 35-yard line and stepped 14 yards before he was downed by Perkins and Barton on Wichita Falls' 21-yard line. Then began a drive down the stretch that threatened to send the Plowboys over for a touchdown. Nabors and Rudder plunged through the line and off-tackle in three plays that netted them another first down on the Indian 11-yard line. Two more plunges placed the ball on the Wichitans' 5-yard line and the Indians with their backs to the wall, when the final gun sounded ending the struggle and, perhaps, costing the Plowboys a touchdown.

Cox Is Consistent

For the Indians, Cox was the most consistent ground gainer, and also played a praiseworthy defensive game. Once when Williams had got away for a long run and seemed headed for a touchdown, Luttrell made a long dive but missed him and the fleet-footed Cox came from behind to overtake the runner and bring him down. Cox gained 47 yards for the Indians and Perkins gained 30. While Rudder was the big ground gainer for the Plowboys with 61 yards and Nabors was close behind with 57 yards.

Yardage Gained

That the Plowboys had an edge on the Indians is shown by their yardage gained. From the line of scrimmage the Plowboys tore off 165 yards and the Indians were able to gain only 81 yards.

The Indians attempted 18 passes and completed four to net 28 yards. Twelve Indian passes were incompleted and two were intercepted. Tarleton attempted 14 passes and completed three for 22 yards. Eight Tarleton passes were incomplete and three were intercepted.

The game was replete with fumbles and incomplete passes. Fumbles proved costly to both teams from the standpoint of yardage but never seriously cost either team at critical times.

Chill weather with overhanging skies made uncomfortable entertainment for the fans who braved the elements.

Football Team Has Seven Captains to Serve on the Field

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20. (UP) — Starting something new in the way of football captaincies the Pierce school football team here has has had seven leaders this season.

Bob Duffy, former Lafayette all-American, started the innovation when he decided to appoint a captain before each game. The Pierce school mentor selected as his captain the player who showed the best work in the previous game and in the practice all week. In this way he provided an incentive for good playing and hard work.

"Too often," says Coach Duffy, "a player will work hard until he is sure of his place on the team. After he has his berth clinched and is sure that no one is near enough to threaten his job, he eases up and starts to loaf. However, with ad added incentive for consistent good work, the star players keep on their toes the entire season."

Necessity was the mother of the invention for this system. Starting the season, Coach Duffy did not know who would make the team and rather than have a captain elected and then find him sitting on the bench all year, he decided to appoint a captain for the opening game. The plan worked so well that he continued it for the remainder of the season.

The players who have captained the Pierce team this year listed in the order in which they served are: Jim Hayman, guard; Pelease Bond, end; Chick Harrison, quarterback; Tim Delaney, end; Frank Moore, tackle; George Batchelor, halfback, and Bill Monson, guard.

Aggie Yell Leaders Preparing For Gigantic Demonstration at Big Game

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 20.—No small part of the preparation for the entertainment of the thousands of fans expected at Aggieland Thanksgiving day when Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggies and Coach Clyde Littlefield's Texas Longhorns will clash on Kyle field, is being directed by the members of the Aggie yell leading staff, headed by J. A. (Hop) Reynolds, of Bastrop. Other members of the staff are: N. K. (Doc) Farmer, Junction; Fred S. Buford, Dallas; and Jack E. Saunders, Dallas.

Gigantic Bonfire

The traditional gigantic bonfire on the college drill ground will be lighted on the eve of the game and according to present plans, a number of former A. & M. students, ex-yell leaders and members of the present senior class, as well as the yell leaders of this year, will speak. Plans are being made also for several new stunts between halves of the game in addition to forming the huge Aggie "T" by the entire A. & M. cadet corps.

Old Yell Leaders Back

Former yell leaders expected to speak at the bonfire on the eve of the game are: E. G. (Cue Ball) Cook, Putnam, yell leader of the Aggies last season; Allan Peoples, Dallas, who led the Aggie corps when Dana Bible's 1927 grid combination won the conference title; J. D. (Jake) Langford, Greenville, of 1926-27; O. E. (Beaumont) Buck, Beaumont, yell leader when the Aggies won the title in 1926; "Hike" McConnell, Crockett, who has not yet entirely recovered his voice, which he lost while directing the Aggies in 1921; and "Benny" Garrity, "Cy" Edwards and "Shorty" Short, all of whose names are familiar to former Aggies and followers of football at A. & M. for a number of years past.

Among the traditions which have been handed down to the yell leaders at A. & M. and which make the organized vocal support of the 2,600 leather-lunged cadets who form the "12th man" of the football team at A. & M. unique, is one which says that no member of the staff shall use a megaphone in directing the efforts of the corps. All signals for yells and songs are given with the hands or are voiced without the aid of megaphones.

Another tradition says that members of the staff are not to be designated as "cheer leaders" but as "yell leaders," and still another prohibits the leaders going through the usual gymnastic "collegiate" stunts so often pictured in fiction.

MANGUM TIGERS MEET BEARCATS

Dope Gives Tiger Eleven Even Break

Special to The Record News

MANGUM, Okla., Nov. 20—Bearing in mind the stinging defeats the Mangum high school Tigers received at the hands of the Frederick Bearcats last year by a score of 44-0, Coach C. C. Keller is working his proteges hard in order to get them in shape for the annual encounter with the Frederick aggregation on the local gridiron Friday, Nov. 22.

According to the proverbial dopebucket, Mangum should go into the fracas with Frederick with an even break to win, based on comparative scores this season, but Mangum will go into the contest outweighed about 25 pounds to the man. The average weight of the Orange and Black is but 145 pounds, compared with the opponents' team average of 170 pounds.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 20. (AP)—Another name was added to the Texas Christian university football casualty list Wednesday when Kenneth Moore went on the hospital list. Two other performers, Buck Barr, and Leo Buckley, are ailing and the entire squad is surrounded by an antiseptic atmosphere.

Coach Matty Bell is directing the Aggies behind closed gates and will continue this practice from now until the game, he said.

President Ankenman reiterated that the Buff pilot for 1930 would not be appointed until early in December at the National Baseball association convention in Chattanooga.

Washington State Team Ready for Chicago Game

CHICAGO, Nov. 20. (UP)—Perfection of a defense against passes is occupying the practice time of the University of Washington Huskies, here for a game with Chicago next Saturday.

Outweighing the Chicago line 10 pounds to the man, the Huskies do not believe they have anything to fear from end runs and line bucks but think they had better polish their defense against passes.

The Huskies, elated at their great showing against California last week, are playing their best football of the year. They held California to a single touchdown and California beat the Trojans who gave Notre Dame a great fight last week.

In the Chicago camp, hope went higher when it was learned that Red Burgess may be able to play in the Washington game. The Maroons have concentrated on a passing attack.

Arkansas Reserves Take Annual Game From Frosh

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 20. (AP)—Taking advantage of a freak punt, the Arkansas reserve gridders won 6 to 0 in their annual classic with the Porker freshmen today. Holt, six-foot end, scooped up a punt and ran for a touchdown after Ledbetter, his own fullback, had punted weakly and the ball bounded off a Yearling's head.

Four Boxing Divisions Without King

Ring Champs Refuse to Defend Crowns

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. (UP)—With four boxing divisions without champions and the other four dominated by champions who refuse to defend their titles for one reason or another, the boxing industry is decidedly on the downgrade in most of the large boxing centers of the country.

Crowds at Madison Square garden this season have been way below normal. Jack Dempsey lost money on his first two promotorial efforts in Chicago.

Two of the outstanding favorites in the East have been forced to go into the smaller clubs for their matches. Kid Chocolate, Cuban negro, appeared at a small Brooklyn arena tonight for $1,500. Jack (Kid) Berg of England fought at a small uptown gym last night for a similar sum.

The absence of champions in the heavyweight, light heavyweight, bantamweight and flyweight divisions has not helped the situation any.

Neither have the demands of Mickey Walker, Jackie Fields and Sammy Mandell for prohibitive purses helped the trade.

The failure of Fields to place his welterweight title at stake has been a big disappointment to his many followers in the East. Fields has asked the preposterous sum of $100,000 to defend his championship against Jimmy McLarnin.

Bat Battalino, Hartford, Conn., unknown, who won the featherweight title from Andre Routis, has a standing offer of $45,000 from Luis Guiterrez, manager of Kid Chocolate, to defend the 128-pound title against the Cuban negro. It is doubtful if Battalino could draw that much money outside Hartford against any opponent other than the popular negro.

Gene Tunney's Successor?

Little progress has been made toward selecting Gene Tunney's successor. Jack Sharkey was the outstanding contender when Tunney retired more than a year and a half ago, and he still remains such.

A match between Sharkey and Max Schmeling would put new life in the heavyweight ranks. Red tape is quite likely to keep them apart however, for the next year.

Two heavyweight matches are scheduled within the next month. Otto Von Porat meeting Phil Scott in Madison Square garden and Tuffy Griffiths facing Paulino Uzcudun at Chicago.

These two winners, Victorio Campolo, the giant Argentinian, Schmeling and Sharkey will form the front line of heavyweight contenders.

New King May Loom

A light heavyweight champion may be crowned when Maxey Rosenbloom of New York meets Yale Okun next month. Rosenbloom just about clinched the title left vacant by Tommy Loughran when he decisively whipped James J. Braddock last week.

A flyweight tournament is in progress, with Eugene Huat of France the strong favorite, but almost four years of effort have failed to make any progress toward determining a bantamweight champion.

At Oimekon, a district in northern Siberia, a temperature of 90 degrees below zero Fahrenheit has been found.

FOUR HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT GRID CHAMPIONS REIGN IN STATE

BRECK-SANDIES IN BI-DISTRICT

Waco and Sunset Will Go In Districts, 3, 4

DALLAS, Nov. 20. (AP)—With four district winners virtually decided and the other four scheduled for settlement by Thanksgiving, bi-district play in the Texas interscholastic league will be under way within another two weeks.

One bi-district battle which already is assured is that between Amarillo, champion of district 1, and Breckenridge, district 2 titlist. Both teams still have one district game to play, but it would take a radical upset to deprive either of a district crown.

Sandies Win Nine

The Amarillo Sandies have won nine games in all this season, scoring 285 points to their opponents' 16. Breckenridge's Buckaroos, coached by P. C. Shotwell, have waded through eight games in the powerful oil belt without a defeat. Their battle promises to be a thriller.

Indications are that Waco and Sunset of Dallas will clash for the championship of districts 3 and 4. Waco's Tigers practically has sewed up the district 4 crown with four straight victories. Their only obstacle now is Temple, whom they play Thanksgiving. Sunset is leading the third district with five victories and one defeat. The title, in all probability, will be decided next Saturday, when the Bisons meet Oak Cliff, which has won four, lost one and tied on. Central of Fort Worth has the same record as Oak Cliff.

Denton in District Five

Denton appears likely to represent district 5 against either Marshall or Tyler of district 6 in the quarter-finals. Denton has three straight victories, while Sulphur Springs, its closest district rival, has won four and tied one. Denton plays Denison Friday at Denison. It will take a game between Tyler and Marshall to decide the title in their east Texas district. Neither has been defeated.

There no longer is any doubt what eleven will represent district 8, that vast section extending from the Rio Grande down along the gulf coast and up to Austin. The Brownsville Eagles have cleaned out seven of their opponents and now have only to dispose of the Austin Maroons to make it unanimous. They will meet Saturday at Austin.

There still is some doubt as to what team the Eagles will encounter in their first bi-district melee. John Reagan of Houston is leading district 7 with four straight victories. Port Arthur has won four and tied one and Beaumont has won four and lost one. The Reagan eleven is favored to progress to the quarter-finals.

Bear Coach Fights Overconfidence

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 20. (UP)—With most experts making them a favorite to beat Stanford in the "big game" at Palo Alto Saturday, Coach Nibs Price warned his Golden Bears against over-confidence here tonight.

The Bears will have a chance to win the Pacific coast conference title in their annual "big game" because it is the final scheduled contest for them this season and they are the only undefeated eleven in the circuit.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Nov. 20. (UP)—Preparations for the most enthusiastic football gathering on the Pacific coast this year when California meets Stanford in the "big game" Saturday were nearly completed tonight.

The huge stadium will be filled with nearly 90,000 persons as the teams clash to decide the far western conference title and, almost more important, supremacy of the two old rivals for this year.

DETROIT U. SORRY

Formal Apology Is Sent To Mich. State College

DETROIT, Nov. 20. (UP)—University of Detroit has forwarded a formal apology to the athletic board of Michigan State college regarding student rioting in East Lansing and Lansing Saturday after the football game between the two school teams.

Drinking was indirectly blamed for the affair by Coach Charles E. Dorais, of the Titan eleven.

Whether the disorder, which led to the arrest of 22 youths and imposition of fines of each, will result in a break in athletic relations "rests in the hands of the state college board," Dorais said.

Harvard Preps for Yale In Traditional Battle

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20. (UP)—After a respite of two days, Harvard's varsity grid squads today began preparations for the annual clash with Yale at the stadium Saturday. The Crimson squad has done no work since the Holy Cross game and was reported in good condition for Saturday's tussle. Today's workout comprised a single drill and aerial rehearsal. Joe Potter, substitute quarterback, was the only Crimson player unable to attend the session.

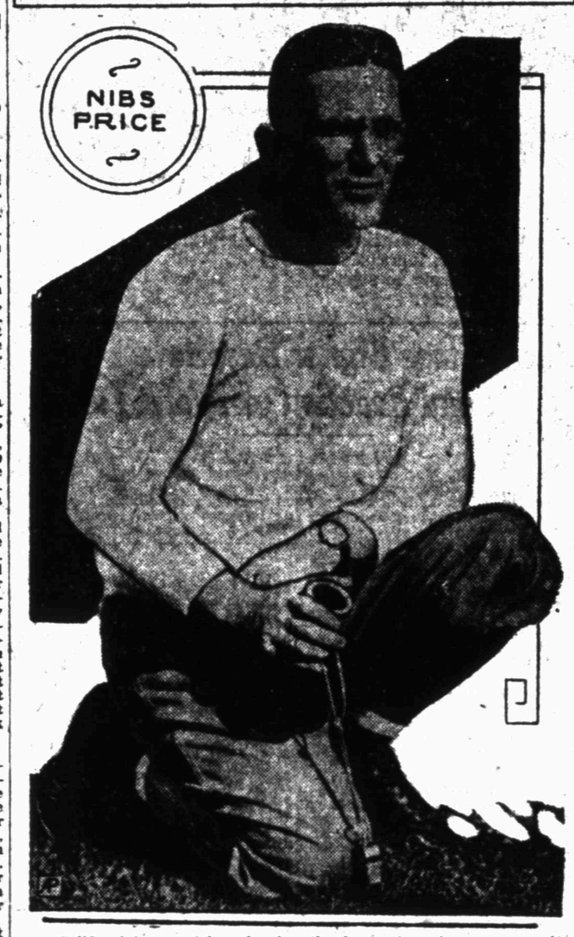

Navy Trains Intensively For Final 2 Grid Games

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 20. (UP)—The Navy football squad has commenced intensive training for the final two games of the season against West Virginia Wesleyan Saturday and Dartmouth at Philadelphia Nov. 30. Special stress is being given to a defense against Dartmouth's formation and forward pass attack. West Virginia Wesleyan will be without three or four of its regulars because of an agreement to abide by Navy's three-year rule.

TRAIN KILLS THREE

COEBURN, Va., Nov. 20. (AP)—Three persons were killed here this afternoon by a passenger train which struck their automobile at a crossing.

Bears Great Under Nibs Price

California's surprising showing the far-west conference campaign has drawn Nibs Price, head coach, into the national spotlight. His Golden Bears stopped Southern California and may be favored to defeat Stanford, Nov. 23.

BERKELEY, Nov. 20. (AP)—Nibs Price is getting a big hand out here on the coast for his success in putting the Golden Bears of California back into the far-west championship race.

Until his team stopped Southern California's climb toward sectional and national honors, Price was just another big time coach with what apparently was a fair outfit.

The Golden Bears had not defeated one of the other two major California elevens in five years and few gave them a chance against the Trojans, who the week before had defeated Stanford.

But Price had brought his squad along slowly with plenty in reserve as the Howard Jones team soon observed. The result was a convincing 15 to 7 victory.

The Golden Bears' coach, a native of Minnesota, graduated from the University of California in 1914. After several successful seasons as coach at San Diego high school he became freshman coach at California. That was in 1919. A few years later he became first assistant to the late Andy Smith and became head coach after Smith's death in 1926.

MUSTANGS PREP FOR RICE OWLS

Mustang Regulars to Go Until Safe Lead

DALLAS, Nov. 20. (AP)—While the Southern Methodist squad primarily is getting in shape for Saturday's fray here with the Rice Owls, it is obvious to observers at the Mustang camp that Coach Ray Morrison is laying more stress on the conflict with Texas Christian university next week-end.

Pony Regulars

The Pony regulars are expected to get in the Rice game only long enough to pile up a safe lead, after which they will see no more action until Nov. 30. Powell, regular center, and Mason, star halfback, might not enter the Rice game at all unless the Owls display unexpected strength. Both have recovered from injuries incurred in recent games, but the Mustang mentor will take no chances on getting them hurt again.

Saturday's game will be the last at Ownby stadium for Choc Sanders, captain and all-conference guard of the Red and Blue. For that reason it is said he will be allowed to play the entire distance.

Three-thousand bleachers seats at the local field have been knocked down and transported to Fort Worth to increase the capacity of Clarke field, site of the championship game next week.

Open Season on College Coaches Soon

Biff Jones of Army Sure to Make Change

By L. S. CAMERON
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The open season on college football coaches is on.

Mentors of teams who show poor records are once again targets for shafts of the football fan, who, at the end of each season, becomes a head-hunter extraordinary. Some of the changes have been evolving since the end of the 1928 season. Some are being made because the coach wants to move to other fields.

Jones Is Relieved

Out of an advance crop of rumors there are only two changes forecast which are authentic. Captain Biff Jones of the Army is to be relieved of his West Point assignment by Maj. Ralph Sasse. Army has had only a fair season. Officially, Jones has been assigned to service at Fort Sill. Actually he may resign his commission and become coach at a civilian institution.

The second known change will be made at the University of Washington. Enoch Bagshaw is to leave his coaching post there. Nobody knows who will succeed him. Biff Jones is one of the nominees.

Fordham, one hears, is to have a successor to Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, who this year piloted his eleven to one of its best records in history. There appears to be no strong contender for the job.

Columbia May Change

Columbia may have a change in coaches. Columbia has won four easy games, lost all others. Coach Charley Crowley's successor might be a Western conference coach. Among the nominees are Dr. Clarence Spears of Minnesota, Dick Hanley of Northwestern, Jimmy Phelan of Purdue, and Adam Walsh, line coach at Yale.

Rumors which have it that Jock Sutherland is to leave after a great year have been mixing with the smoke at Pittsburgh. These reports are scouted in Pittsburgh today. Since Pitt is the best team in the East, it is obvious that Coach Sutherland will remain if he wants to.

Roper May Quit

Coach Bill Roper of Princeton may resign after the poorest season in Tiger history. Weeks ago at Princeton one heard talk that Roper would quit if he had an unsuccessful year. He has had it.

West Virginia university has a "downtown coaches association" which has been howling for the scalp of Coach Ira Errett Rodgers since mid-season. The folks down New Brunswick way are displeased at the showing Rutgers, as well they might be, and have suggested that a successor be named for Coach Harry J. Rockafeller.

Another possible change in West Virginia is at Davis and Elkins, where Coach Camden (Crafty Cam) Henderson has neared the end of another brilliant season.

MISS. ELEVEN TRIMS MEXICO

Americans Win From The Mexicans, 28-0

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20. (AP)—Mississippi college defeated the University of Mexico today in the second game of intercollegiate football ever played in Mexico. The score was 28 to 0. The game was a part of the dedication ceremony of the Workers' Athletic field at Valbuena. The Mexican team lost its first game to Louisiana college, 59 to 0, Oct. 5.

The Mississippi college smashed over three touchdowns in the first quarter for a 21 to 0 lead. Mexico found itself after this period and held the American team scoreless until late in the final period, when Mississippi managed to put over a fourth score.

The final touchdown was followed by a desperate advance by the Mexican players which nearly carried them to their first touchdown in the history of Mexican football before the game ended. When the final whistle blew, Mexico had the ball on the Mississippi college 19-yard line after a long march.

NEW WELL IN JACK COUNTY

Panhandle Producer Flows 405 Barrels

One of the best wells to be brought in from the Jack county pools for some time was completed Tuesday, when the Panhandle Refining company A-1 McKelvey, located in the Isaac Hughson survey, in the Bryson pool, drilled seven feet of sand topped at 3095 feet when the hole filled up and in the 24-hour period flowed 405 barrels. Before its final completion more sand will be drilled and it is expected its flow will be greatly increased.

Radio Fans Buy Speakers for Jail

A radio, paid for by radio listeners of four states, Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico has been installed in the county jail here, it was announced Wednesday.

Through the efforts of L. S. White, pastor of the First Church of Christ who is conducting a two-weeks' radio revival over KGKO, the radio was purchased and is practically paid for by subscriptions from his listeners. Two loud speakers are being used; one in either end of the room, in order that all prisoners may have the opportunity of hearing the services and other programs. The radio will be the permanent property of the jail.

Rev. Mr. White's revival will be brought to a close Sunday, at which time the service will be held from 3 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. Mr. White will continue teaching the Sunday school lesson over this station every Sunday morning from 8:30 to 9:30, however.

COUNTY GINS CONTINUE BUSY

Seson's Cotton Crop Total Far Ahead of '28

Cotton fields of Wichita county continue to belie appearances and to promise a total season's yield several thousand bales in excess of September predictions, according to reports received from different ginning communities Wednesday evening.

Electra led the spurt in which all cities in the county participated, turning in a total of 91 bales for the day, and raising its season's mark to within 21 bales of that held by Wichita Falls, in third place. Kemy City, after almost two weeks of comparative quiet, came to life with a total of 25 bales for the day. Burkburnett, still leading in total ginnings by almost 1,600 bales, ginned 81 bales Wednesday. The county's total now stands at 18,202 bales—approximately 3,000 in advance of 1928's complete season as shown on state records.

Prices showed little fluctuation, standing at from 11 to 17½ cents on middling cotton.

Continued evidence of Wichita county's definite committal to a program of intensive dairy development is produced with each new week. In addition to the further expansion of activities in this community by the Southwest Dairy Products company, which acquired the Producers' Creamery company Tuesday, establishment of a modern dairy farm on the Wichita river, five miles west of this city, with a large herd of registered dairy stock, and plans for another large dairying farm north of the city by H. C. Fitzgerald, are now being completed. The production engineer of the Southwest Dairy Products company is expected to arrive in Wichita Falls about Dec. 1 for the purpose of inaugurating a campaign for increased milk production throughout this and surrounding counties. Development of a dairying community, mentioned frequently during the past year as a possibility here, promises to materialize within the next few years on the basis of progress recorded recently.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. (AP)—Early advances in cotton today on a continuation of the recent buying movement were followed by reactions under realizing which appears to be coupled with some local and Southern selling. January, after advancing to 17.83 into new high ground for the movement and 105 points above the recent low level, reacted to 17.71 and closed at 17.76, compared with 17.66 at the close the previous day. The general market closed steady, net unchanged to 10 points higher.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 7 points, and active months showed net gains of about 12 to 17 points in the early trading on a continued demand from the trade, covering by shorts and commission house demand. Offerings were sufficient to send prices off from 17.69 to 17.56 for December and from 18.11 to 17.97 for March. This reaction carried the late months back to about yesterday's closing quotations. Near months were relatively steady on further covering and there was some additional trade buying of December, presumably against sales of later deliveries. Closing prices showed rallies of 4 to 5 points from the lowest on covering.

The weekly report of the weather bureau, mentioning unfavorable weather conditions for picking in some sections of the belt, met with some bullish comment, reports of small ginning figures tomorrow continued, but evidently failed to stimulate much additional buying. The earlier advance, which carried prices a cent or slightly more above the low figures of a week ago, attracted realizing.

Port receipts today 42,123. U. S. port stocks 2,458,652; exports today 41,818; making 2,959,399 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20. (AP)—Expectations of bullish ginnings figures tomorrow carried cotton prices into new high ground for the present movement today. Although realizing by recent buyers nearly wiped out the gain, final prices were 5 to 7 points net up, with the closing tone steady. January after advancing to 17.76 eased and closed at 17.71.

The market opened steady in response to higher Liverpool cables than expected. First trades showed gains of 1 to 4 points and the market advanced under a demand stimulated by bullish ginnings expectations, a steady stock market and an unfavorable weekly weather and crop summary. Late in the morning December traded at 17.66, January 17.78 and March 18.08, or 14 to 16 points above the previous close.

Near noon there was more or less realizing by recent buyers and prices eased 10 to 12 points but offerings appeared absorbed at the setback and the market improved in late trading but failed to duplicate the high points. December closed at 17.57 and March 17.98, or 5 to 7 points net up.

Stocks Close Higher Despite Final Reaction of Profit Taking

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. (US)—Stocks closed higher today, despite profit-taking reaction toward the close of a more active session. Steel was in the van throughout and its good tone enhanced the influence of cheering advices from Washington and business circles. Steel gained 1⅛ further on the day while Can advanced 2⅛, Standard of New Jersey 2⅛, General Electric 12½, Westinghouse 7, Warner 2¼, Columbia Gas 3¼, Foreign Power 3⅜, Cash Register 3¾, American Radiator 2¼, United Aircraft 2⅜, Missouri Kansas & Texas 4⅜ and Canadian Pacific lost 3⅜. Call money was in bountiful supply again and while the official rate eased from renewal of 5 per cent to 4½ per cent some brokers reported they were able to get accommodations at as low as 3 per cent outside of regular channels. Turnover increased to over 2,800,000 shares.

"Building" is the bull word of the moment. It is inspired by the many advices from Washington telling of the administration's campaign to stimulate business. It is hoped that the statements and activities of the administration will influence similar policies in state and municipal governments and that many building operations will be started in the near future that heretofore had been planned for some time next years. At the same time the definite easing in money conditions, it is pointed out, should bring more activity in private building operations. It was this influence that was evidenced in the buying of American Radiator. The break in the stock more than discounted the results of "errors of judgment" reported to have taken place at the time of the last merger. Radiator, it is clamied, stands to benefit more than any other company from increase in building activity.

Columbia Gas, Foreign Power, Electric Bond and other Utilities were the outstanding feature of today's advance. Strong interests in Electric Bond and other leading utilities organization have not abandoned hope for consummation of mergers and other deals that were the main stimulus to the buying prior to the general market cataclysm. They claim there is nothing to reports of "double crossing" in the market and that the best known interests in the group show the largest paper losses. Those interested in Columbia Gas hold to their statement that the Morgan group hold a big block.

Expectation is voiced that the next few months will witness several special developments in the oil industry that have been held up by reason of the market cataclysm. Several independent companies are mentioned in merger rumors. Good absorption of Mexican Seaboard is reported based on study of the property made by one of the best known geologists. Value of the Kettleman Hills holding alone is placed at $25,000,000. That is, the "conservative sales value" whereas the speculative value is placed at several times that amount. In addition the company has the largest individual holding in Southern California at Button Willow. Three new wells there that are capped in connection with the conservation program are close to the Record Hill well recently brought in by Marland.

There is expectation that the reserve will report another drop in loans for the week ended today. It will be comparatively small as compared with declines of recent week, it is stated, but should put borrowings below the $4,000,000,000 mark or about $1,000,000,000 under what they were a year ago. Checkup of loans of exchange members indicate that commission houses are borrowing practically nothing. Some firms report as much as 80 per cent reduction in borrowings in the last three weeks. The major part of the misnamed "brokers loans" now are in borrowings for the account of houses of issue, it is said, especially those which floated investment trust stocks.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Nov. 20. (AP)—Corn rather than wheat appeared to inspire the greater confidence as a purchase today among the rank and file of grain traders. In particular, December corn attracted attention, total stocks of the contract grade of corn in public elevators here having been reduced almost to zero, and reports being current that little or no corn was moving to Chicago from either Illinois or Iowa. Under such circumstances and with widespread notice being taken that the wheat market after a rise of 13c a bushel of late appeared overbought, spread trading between wheat and corn became an outstanding feature today, sending wheat sharply downward whereas corn displayed relative strength.

Closing quotations on wheat were shaky, 2⅝c to 3⅛c per bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed at exactly the same as 24 hours previous to 1c off, oats ⅛c to 1c down, and provisions varying from 2c decline to 12c advance.

Interest of grain traders began early today to focus much more on corn than has recently been the rule. It was pointed out that although the seasonal period for increased receipts of corn was at hand, terminal stocks in Chicago and elsewhere were decidedly smaller than last year and that with an excellent shipping demand continually present the available supply was about 200,000,000 bushels less than a year ago.

Uneasiness of traders who were short of corn to fill December contracts here, lifted the corn market at one stage today to substantially above yesterday's finish for the December delivery and for March delivery, as well, notwithstanding that the wheat market was showing unusual weakness. At no time today were wheat values here as high as yesterday.

Provisions were affected by an advance in hog values and averaged slightly higher.

NEW MARRIAGE RITE EVOLVED

Love-Birds Read Their Own Ceremony

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. (UP)—The fabled simplicity of love in the south seas has come to New York through the medium of the humanist society's marriage ceremonial, it was made plain today in an address on "The New Humanist Marriage" by Charles Francis Potter, founder of the society.

A few weeks ago, Potter would have been referred to as "the reverend mister" and his address would have been a "sermon."

These are typical of the changes in his new organization, for which the theologian abandoned one of the most fashionable unitarian pulpits in the East.

Describes New Rites

Potter, shepherd of a modernistic flock, described some of his recent marriage ceremonies and issued a platform manifesto against the customary practice of having the same ceremony for an "82-year-old millionaire and an 18-year-old boy."

Clod-hoppers and college presidents, under the Potter humanist system, are married by very different ceremonies.

"It requires more work (on the part of the preacher) than to read parrot-like the old form," said Potter, "but it makes the whole ceremony more intimate and effective.

"The old ceremony was so arranged that a couple could go through with it without any preparation, and they usually did, without the faintest conception of what it was all about."

In the humanist ceremony, the love-birds are required to prepare beforehand what they intend to say to one another. They make up the lines themselves. This requires cogitation.

Prepares Her Mind

"Instead of the bride spending all her time preparing her clothes for the ceremony," said Potter, "she spends some time preparing her mind for it.

Potter described a humanist wedding he conducted Saturday night in his home.

"The boy said to the girl, 'happiness isn't happiness and pleasure isn't pleasure any more unless I am with you—I love you and want you to be my wife—will you' and she replied, calling him by name, 'I love you and want to be with you, and so I am happy in saying yes'."

And so they were married.

Hawkins brought a splendid message to the young people after which there were voluntary sentence prayers. Sidney Eubanks was appointed to lead the program at the next meeting, and the sick reports were given. Alvin Pearson dismissed with prayer.

COUP PLANNED IN OKLAHOMA

Republicans Move to Sweep State

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 20. (UP)—Under leadership of Fred C. Clarke, Oklahoma City insurance man, Oklahoma Republicans were laying plans today to place the state in the Republican column, both nationally and locally.

Clarke was elected by acclamation late yesterday as Republican state chairman after Fred Bearly, Oklahoma City, and Guy Cobb, Ardmore, withdrew from the race.

Clarke succeeds the late Frank A. Parkinson, Enid, who resigned last June on account of ill health. He will appoint a secretary, assistant secretary and treasurer. The secretary's office was left vacant by the resignation of Raymond Fields, Guthrie publisher.

The election came suddenly after a hilarious session in which was started a move to draft Lew Wentz, state highway commission secretary and millionaire oil man, for the gubernatorial candidacy next year.

Political followers saw in the meeting yesterday the following trends:

1. A move to elect Wentz governor.
2. Re-election of Senator Pine not necessary to Wentz's success.
3. Complete control of W. G. Skelly, national committeeman of the party machinery in Oklahoma.
4. Skelly's introduction of a Tulsa candidate to oppose the nomination of Pine.

The Wentz movement was started by Herman Dittmer, El Reno legislator, who obtained about 250 signers to the Wentz pledge. It was noted that the rank and file of the party representatives and not organization men signed the pledge.

"Organization Republicans are not enthusiastic about Wentz because he might ignore party lines in appointments," one leader was quoted as saying.

Although Pine was indorsed by the committee resolution, he was "spanked" by Skelley and Representative Charles O'Conner when both commended regular Republicans who "have stood by the president."

Pine defined his position in joining insurgent Republicans and Democrats in farm relief measures.

Bull Fights May Be Abolished

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20. (UP)—Deputy Fernando Sotelo Regil of Campeche telegraphed President Emilio Portes Gil today he planned to present a bill to congress abolishing bull fights and suggested the bill might be extended to cover cock fights.

He emphasized the horror of bull fights, and said such contests were illegal in all countries except Mexico, Spain, Peru and a few others.

Regil's action apparently was inspired by the grave injuries received by Carmelo Perez, Mexican fighter, in a battle with a bull here Sunday. Perez's condition changed slightly for the better today.

NEW LEGATE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 20. (UP)—The senate has approved the appointment of Conrado Rios Gallardo as ambassador to Peru.

FAIR GROUNDS HERE LEASED

Association Plans Races And Displays

Announcement of the leasing of the Texas-Oklahoma fairgrounds here to the Bowen's Auto Racing association of San Antonio, with the provision that eight motor race meets and a seven-day fair and fall festival be staged during the coming year, was made Wednesday by W. W. Bowen and Don C. Onley, lessors.

The San Antonio concern, which introduced the 100-mile modified stock automobile race here in 1928, will close its 1929 season with a 100-mile motorcycle classic at the fairgrounds speedway here on Dec. 1, it was announced. Machines competing in this race must be equipped with side cars, and will carry side car riders.

Tentative dates for the fair have been set for the first week in September, according to the announcement made. Plans call for a grandstand program, afternoon and night, three days of running races, two days of rodeo, and two days of automobile racing. Attractions at night will include fireworks, musical revues and pageants, and possibly a horse show, it was said. It was also stated that contests between high school and municipal bands of Texas and Oklahoma, with large prizes hung up for the winners, will be staged during the fair.

Buildings at the fairgrounds will be equipped for displays by merchants and manufacturers, oil concerns, etc., and for automobile and educational exhibits, it was said, and a large carnival will be installed on the midway. No agricultural and livestock exhibits are planned for the fall fair.

Motor races during the year will be eight in number, three in the spring, two in the summer and three in the fall. The Bowen Racing association has been active during recent years in connection with fairs in Tulsa, Kansas and Missouri fairs, it was stated. The lease was signed by Orville Bullington, president of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association, according to information given The Record News.

Ears for Ships

LONDON.—Recent tests of a fog navigating compass and sound indicator may introduce an instrument which will save numerous lives on the sea. The instrument can detect fog for miles and also indicates the direction, enabling the ship to steer around the fog bank. It can be applied to airplanes, also, it is said.

K. A. Buck Is Now Ready To Talk

After Everything Else Had Failed Orgatone Turns the Trick, Says Says Waco Farmer

K. A. Buck, farmer, living on rural route 2, Waco, Texas, says that Orgatone is the best medicine he has ever taken and it has done more good for him than anything he has ever tried, and he has tried everything.

Continuing, Mr. Buck says: "I suffered from stomach trouble of the worse kind. Food that I would eat soured on my stomach and gas would form in the pit of my stomach and my side. I was very bilious at times and would have dizzy spells. I was continually having the headache and my nerves were always on edge. My general health was running down rapidly.

"I had been reading about Orgatone in the paper here so decided that inasmuch as I had given everything else a trial, Orgatone deserved the same chance. Well, it was a lucky day for me when I bought my first bottle of Orgatone. All the suffering that I have gone through the last year and a half have disappeared. I feel better in every way! I am much stronger and my nerves and stomach are back in shape. I can now eat most anything that I want without suffering from indigestion, gas pains or bloating spells. I am no longer dizzy and bilious and my headaches have disappeared. My nerves are settled and I am feeling better than I have in years. Orgatone is the best medicine I have ever taken and it has done more good for me than anything I have ever tried, so I ask you, my friend, if you suffer from the same thing I have? Do not hesitate for a minute but go direct to the drug store and buy yourself a bottle of Orgatone for I cannot speak too highly for it."

The Charles Weeks Community of Little Farms offers ideal conditions for commuters holding positions in the city who would like to have their families live in beautiful garden homes in the country where the entire living can be made from poultry and gardening, thus enabling the head of the house to save all of his wages. In such a community four or five commuters can make the trip to and from the city easily, comfortably and cheaply in a modern Ford car. By thus saving the entire wages in time the intensive little farm could be made entirely self-supporting and the nerve-wracking job in the city could be given up. Visit the Model Farm in Weeks Community of Little Farms located near Westmoreland swimming pool and see what irrigating water and abundance of fertilizer will do when scientifically applied. It will be a revelation to you. If you cannot come write for free literature.

MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM: Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra; juvenile court fiddlers; ballat dancers; Woman's Choral club; Scottish Rite choir; 8 p. m.

MAJESTIC: Dick Barthelmess, with Marion Nixon, in "Young Nowheres." Talking comedy. Movietone news.

STRAND: "The Hollwood Revue," 25 screen stars in an extravagant spectacle. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: Gypsy Strollers on stage. Lon Chaney in "Thunder." Comedy. Pathe review.

GEM: "Simba," Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson hunting big game in Africa. Comedy.

Of course Buster Keaton required a marine atmosphere for his participation in the "Hollywood Revue." Since his creation of the paralyzing comedy of "The Frozen North," it is hard to remember a picture in which he has not utilized the briny deep. And for some reason, the immobile countenance which he invariably affects before the camera becomes more ridiculous in the salt spray where Jack is supposed to be a gay sailor and all that.

◇ ◇ ◇

Also, for purposes of contract, B. Keaton could have been inserted at no right-er spot than the one chosen for him. One of the brightest bits of photographic art which the film produced brought on the tableau of the jewels as a forerunner to the comedian's contribution. Representations of conventional ornamental designs commonly conceived for jewelry were figured with beautifully posed feminine figures—and faces. The lustrous pearl opens to release a lithe but graceful danseuse, who, following a brief interpretative dance, returns to her pearl casement to return to Neptune's marine kingdom.

◇ ◇ ◇

Then the Keatonish touch. The figure which avalanched down the steps to stop at Neptune's feet was Buster, clad in the enticing raiment, or comparative lack of it, which Salome is fancied to have utilized. The ensuing dance, with its pantomimic charming, of the serpent, and the catastrophic finale as the two-headed asp is forced to do his daily good turn, comprises one of the burlesques which are enacted only when Buster Keaton is around the neighborhood.

◇ ◇ ◇

No feature of the impressive revue, however, outshone the element of choral dancing, which assumed the proportions of a gigantic spectacle when as many as 100 dancers were martialed before the elaborate sets provided for such scenes. None of the many such ensembles was more effective than that in which the units were militarized, not only in costume, but in action. The intricate patterns evolved in the constant, rhythmic movement of parts, with unfailing synchrony of steps, added color and grace to the exact precision of crack infantry parade regiments.

◇ ◇ ◇

After which, of course, the other foremost producing combine, Warner brothers will show us soon that the "Hollywood Revue" was merely a sidelight. For the "Show of Shows," now in the making by Warner brothers, will present not 23, but more than 50 screen luminaries in stellar roles, and will not content itself with a paltry 200 in the chorus. Half a thousand, so the announcement says, will support the galaxy of favorites to be trotted out for the second film derby. Well, we shall see.

◇ ◇ ◇

Incidentally, extension of sound-recording to practically all phases of motion picture making just keeps adding problems. Recording machines and cameras aren't hard to handle around the Hollywood studio, but become rather awkward bits of luggage when "location" happens to be out on the big water. In a picture now being made by Nancy Carroll, the "Flesh of Eve," (isn't that typical?) Miss Carroll and Dick Arlen enact some dialogue that just had to be recorded on a boat off-shore. The result being, that short poles mounted on rafts supported wires which ran a long line from the sound truck on shore to the temporary rendezvous of Dick and Nancy on the boat. But their words did successful wire-walking, even above such unstable supports, we are told, and the "Flesh of Eve" will creep ashore and over the land.

◇ ◇ ◇

After seeing Ruther Chatterton in "Madame X" and "Charming Sinners" it is easy to believe accounts of her varied accomplishments. Besides 10 years of highly successful screen and stage performances, she has written two plays for successful production on Broadway, and has composed several acceptable musical numbers. And her intelligence seems to take no vacations.

Evangelist Calls Jesus World's Greatest Optimist in Address

"Incurable optimism" was named as one of the outstanding characteristics which made Jesus Christ the world's greatest character in an address before the weekly meeting of the Optimist club at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon by Dr. Frederick M. Brooke, evangelist now engaged in a revival meeting at the Highland Heights Christian church.

"Christ came into a world dominated by the Greek philosophy which taught that the world and humanity had come from nowhere and would pass into oblivion," the speaker said. "He had a great idea, alive with optimism, and the world has been a new world ever since then. Even in the hour of His death, He laid down the foundation principle of your organization when he said, 'Be of good cheer: I have overcome the world'."

Doctor Brooke was introduced by Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church.

Temple Shell was the "It's Right in Wichita Falls" speaker before the Optimists. Dr. Claude M. Simpson, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church, was welcomed as a new member and chaplain of the club to succeed Rev. Alvin F. White, who withdrew recently upon his assumption of a pastorate in Blackwell, Okla.

R. E. Shepherd, song leader in the Highland Heights Christian church revival meeting, led in a singsong.

Russian Choir to Give Program of Sacred, Classical and Folk Music

Noted Group of Singers to Appear in Concert Thursday Night at Memorial Auditorium

Singers who have done more than any other modern choral organization to reveal the amazing possibilities of human voices for production of refined musical effects will be heard at the Memorial auditorium here Thursday night when the Russian Symphonic choir, directed by Bassile Kibalchich, presents a concert of sacred, classical and folk music of the Russian peoples.

Refined musical effects, as the standard of the Russian choir's performance, do not imply the presentation of ultra-technical compositions which might lack appeal to average listeners. The excellence which the symphonic singers have attained, and which was strikingly demonstrated in their concert here five years ago, consists in purity of tone, exact detail of interpretative expression, and submergence of individual voices in tonal combinations which equal the finest organs in blend and richness.

Sacred Compositions

Intricate compositions which would register only as bewildering exhibitions of technical skill with the average audience if presented as instrumental numbers assume a much warmer nature and acquire the appeal of simpler melodies when produced through the agency of human voices. It is this capacity for converting the works of Russia's greatest masters of music into intimate expression of human emotion that enables the Russian Symphonic singers to capture the sympathetic attention of hearers of all classes. Depth of feeling and shading of expression, in which no instrument equals the human voice, relegate the mechanics of production to the realm of unnoticed details in performances such as that to be heard here Thursday night.

But not all of the program announced by the Russian Symphonic choir is to be of difficult technical nature, even by its titles. The opening group of sacred compositions, drawn largely from the liturgical service of Russian churches, will reveal harmonies built upon themes almost as simple as those which characterize the Russian folk songs to be heard in the closing group. The tenderness of Tschaikowsky's religious expression will be heard in his "Holy Virgin," and the melodic brilliance of Rachmaninoff in "To Thee We Sing." A trio of male voices will be used as incidental embellishment of Archangelsky's setting of the Twenty-fourth Psalm.

Adaptation of the score of voices to tone singing in Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C sharp Minor," a favorite the world over in piano and orchestral arrangement, will open the second group, consisting of classical numbers. The foreboding atmosphere of the steppes, Southern Russia's expanse of Cossack-ridden plains, will be pictured in Sachnovsky's "On the Steppes."

The group of folk songs with which the program will close includes a number of children's melodies, gay and lightsome, but with an undercurrent of sadness born of the futility with which the Russian masses generally have regarded life in past centuries. Two numbers will be sung by the ensemble of female voices, and a double number by male chorus.

Local Choirs to Attend

Perfect mastery of tone production which enables the choir to sing the softest of passages and the most dramatic, resonant climaxes with equal clarity and ease will be the outstanding forte of the organization.

Choirs of the city have set aside the usual Thursday evening rehearsals to other hours in order to permit their members to attend the Russian Symphonic choir's concert, and some out-of-town musical organizations have made reservations for their entire memberships. If testimonials of those who heard these singers in their earlier appearance here reflect the attitude of the citizenship generally toward night's attraction, the Memorial auditorium promises to be filled to capacity for a musical program for the second time this week.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the Renfro Drug store at Eighth and Scott.

Burk Lions Club Wins Praise For Inter-City Meet

Reports of the inter-city meeting of Lions clubs held in Burkburnett Tuesday night, and a farewell message to Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, featured the weekly meeting of the Lions club at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon.

Doctor Bash made a short address following James King's expression of appreciation of the services given to this city by the retiring pastor, who has accepted a pastorate in Des Moines, Iowa, effective Dec. 1.

Bart Magee eulogized the Burkburnett Lions club for its entertainment of delegations from Wichita Falls, Electra, Vernon and Chillicothe clubs, and declared that Electra gained the distinction of having the largest representation. The next inter-city meeting will be held in Wichita Falls in January, it was announced.

Members of the Lions club voted to attend in a body the revival meeting at the Highland Heights Christian church next Sunday night, Nov. 24.

"It's Right in Wichita Falls" week was discussed by J. E. Wingart of the Junior chamber of commerce, which is sponsoring the observance of the city's commercial resources.

Presentation of a comedy, "Aunt Lucia," at the Woman's Forum on Nov. 25 and 26 by the Business and Professional Womens clubs, was announced by Miss Glenna Miller, a member of that organization. A feature of the show will be a Ziegfeld beauty chorus composed of well-known local business men, she said.
