Thirty-Two Of Ship's Crew Rescued In Heavy Sea

Captain Fried's Liner Figures In Sea Rescue Again

Disabled Italian Freighter Reached After Two Ships Give Up Search; Message Received In New York

Other Ships Lost

Tremendous Seas Continue To Rock Atlantic As Reports of Disabled Boats Are Received

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Captain George Fried of the United States liner America again wrote his name into an epic of the sea tonight when he rescued the 32 members of the crew of the disabled freighter Florida in a roaring westerly gale 700 miles off the Virginia Capes.

No details of what must have been a thrilling battle with the sea were given in the laconic message which the quiet mannered little man, who always seems to be around when there is heoric work to be done, sent to his line's offices here telling of the rescue.

His message said:

"Rescued full crew of Florida. Total 32, Chief Officer Harry Manning in charge. Whole westerly gale. Lifeboats lost. Proceeding. More details later."

Old shipping men, reading those words "whole westerly gale" could visualize what must have been a terrific job. A "whole gale" means a 75-mile an hour wind and mountainous seas which must have been tossing the little disabled freighter around like a cork. How Captain Fried maneuvered his great liner in those seas, lowered a lifeboat and got it safely alongside the Florida and then safely back to the America remains to be told.

Two Give Up Search

Since Tuesday morning Captain Fried had been driving his big liner through a roaring gale and heavy seas toward the foundering Florida. Two other ships, much nearer, also had gone to the rescue, but they gave up the search this morning and turned away. Captain Fried, with a direction finder in his radio equipment, had been able to follow the little 2,500 ton freighter as she drifted helplessly in front of the gale.

"Will reach Florida at 6 p. m."

City To Receive Bond Bids Today

City Commission To Offer $190,000 Issue For Sale Today; Funds to Go For Subway, Improvements

Bids on $190,000 worth of the City of Lubbock bonds are to be received and considered by the city commission, at its regular session to be held this afternoon at the city hall, a number of bond buyers expected to submit bids.

These bonds are part of the $350,000 in bonds authorized to be sold by the special election held last September, and funds to be derived are for the purpose of building the city's part of the subways under the Santa Fe railroad tracks at Broadway and at Avenue H and the railroad intersections. All of the bonds are to bear date of February 11, 1929 and to be of $1,000 denomination, principal and interest payable at the National Bank of Commerce, New York City.

Attorney To Approve

Bonds are to be sold subject to the approval of a bond attorney of recognized authority, such attorney to be named and agreed upon by and between the city commission and the purchaser.

Of the $190,000 being offered for sale today, there are to be $125,000 street improvement bonds; $25,000 sewer extension bonds; and $40,000 waterworks extension bonds.

Postmaster John L. Vaughan Is Subpoenaed To Appear Before Senate Patronage Probing Group

Builds New Car to Break Speed Record

Two hundred and fourteen miles an hour? Too slow! The English racer, Capt. Malcolm Campbell (inset) who set a world's speed record on the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla., with his "Bluebird" speeder, is building a new car, shown above, in which he hopes to shatter his own mark. But first he'll give the "Bluebird" one more try on a dried lake in Africa.

Local Man Says He Hasn't Received Notice Yet

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. —The senate patronage investigating committee today issued subpoenas for three Texans to appear next Tuesday in connection with the inquiry into disposition of postmasterships in that state. The men subpoenaed were:

Leonard Withington of Dallas, director of organization of the state republican executive committee; J. L. Vaughan, Lubbock postmaster, and Lloyd Hill of Fort Worth.

Postmaster John L. Vaughan, when asked regarding the announcement from Washington that he was to be subpoenaed before the United States Senate Patronage Investigating committee, declared that he had not heard anything of the affair, nor received any subpoenae, and that he knew nothing of any postoffice, or federal office patronage practices by Republican leaders in Texas.

"I have been closely affiliated with the Republican party in this state for about 25 years," he said, "and there never has been anything of this sort, that I know of, obtaining."

Rebecca Rogers Is Granted New Trial By Appeals Court

Improper Remarks of District Attorney Gives Reason for Reversal; Faced 14-Year Sentence

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 23.—Basing its reversal on improper remarks of the district attorney before the jury, the court of criminal appeals today ordered a new trial for Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers, convicted at La Grange of robbery by firearms and sentenced to 14 years.

Mrs. Rogers, former Texas University student, was indicted in Hays county for robbery of the Farmers National bank at Buda on December 11, 1926, and tried in Fayette county on a venue change.

Case Was Sensational

The Rogers case was one of the most sensational in court annals. A girl appeared at the bank, representing herself to be a newspaper reporter, and was given permission to use the typewriter.

With a pistol, she forced bank officials into the vault and left in an automobile with $1,000, all of which was recovered shortly after her arrest in Austin on the same day.

At the time Mrs. Rogers was employed in the office of Governor Dan Moody, then attorney general. It developed that she had been secretely married some time before to Otis Rogers, young Amarillo attorney.

Breckenridge Man Is Given 99 Years

BRECKENRIDGE, Jan. 23. (AP)—Al Rowden, 41, sentenced 99-years by a jury late today for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Pauline Rowdent, 26, shot to death December 12 as she lay in bed in her room here. The jury deliberated less than an hour.

Rowden, whose plea was temporary insanity, displayed no emotion at the verdict.

The couple had been separated five months when the shooting occurred.

OIL MEN GATHER

West Texas Exposition Is Opened Today nI Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 2.3 (AP)—Oil operators from a dozen states were coming into San Angelo tonight on the eve of the fourth annual West Texas oil exposition. At least 2,500 visitors are expected for the two-day program.

Barring bad weather, more than 100 airplanes were expected in the afternoon for the formal opening of San Angelo's new municipal airport. Skelly Oil company's Spartan plane, piloted by Parker D. Cramer, was forced down at Wichita Falls late today because of poor flying conditions. The ship was bringing company officials from Tulsa.

NOMINATION CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. (AP) — The nomination of J. Rebuen Clark, of Utah, to be under-Secretary of State was confirmed today by the Senate.

In Washington Wednesday

The senate passed the deficiency supply bill with a provision for tax refund hearings.

The $41,000,000 District of Columbia appropriation measure was passed by the house.

The cruiser construction bill was made the order of business by the senate.

The house way and means committee completed its hearings on the tariff revision of the tobacco schedule.

The second national conference on merchant marine opened to study the problems of American shipping.

House members were divided on the advisability of the $24,000,000 increase for prohibition enforcement, voted by the senate.

Change In Court In Section Downed

Mullican Notifies of Success Of Protest Against New District Court For South Plains

"There will be no change in the Seventy-Second court," were the words of a telegram received here Wednesday morning from Judge Clark M. Mullican, who, with Senator W. H. Bledsoe and J. E. Vickers, went to Austin Monday to appear before the judiciary committee of the Texas state senate in protest to a proposed bill to establish a new district court in the South Plains section, which would have taken Crosby county from the Seventy-Second district court, presided over by Judge Homer L. Pharr.

The bill, as proposed, sought to create a new court with the counties of Crosby, Briscoe, Floyd, Dickens and Hockley, all of which are now included in established courts. The Lubbock County Bar association sent the three lawyers to Austin to represent this county in protesting the court, which was deemed unnecessary, and protests were sent from Crosby county.

Highway Meeting Is Scheduled For Friday Night Here

Effort to Be Made to Get County Together On Road Program; Invitation Is Extended to All

In an effort at bringing divergent factions of Lubbock county together in a county-wide project for voting bonds to build paved roads, a meeting has been called for Friday night by C. E. Maedgen, president of the Lubbock National bank and leader in the past two bond issue campaigns.

The meeting is to be in the county courthouse and an invitation has been extended to every community and city in Lubbock county, with a request that representative citizens of those communities be present to give their views on the county's road building problems as affecting their respective sections.

To Study Aspects

"The purpose of this gathering is to study the various aspects of Lubbock county's road building problems," said Mr. Maedgen, " and to determine the best and most practical means of solving them so as to give our citizens mutual benefit. We hope to get the workers from every part of the county together on a project that can be put over this time that will rebound to the county's record of progress."

Probe Into Land Office is Ordered

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. (AP) — Three members of the House and two senators, who probably will be named tomorrow by Speaker W. S. Barron and Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, will organize immediately for investigation of the land office.

The investigation was authorized today when the House passed the Senate concurren resolution 94 to 32. Included in the inquiry will be the acts of governor, attorney general's office and the University of Texas regents insofar as they pertain in efforts to postpone sale of Texas university land oil and gas leases advertised by J. T. Robison, land commissioner for January.

Midwest Has Cold Wave; Eight Die

CHICAGO, Jan. 23. (AP).—The midwest slipped about its work today, assured of several more days of neor zero weather.

The cold wave, moving eastward from the Rocky Mountain region blanketed the Missouri and middle and upper Mississippi valleys, turning the earth into a sheet of ice.

Minnesota, with highways blocked and trains and motor busses delayed, reported one daeth due to the storm.

DETROIT, Jan. 23. (AP)—Five lives have been taken by the blizzard and cold wave which for three days have held Michigan in their gasp. Two women were frozen, an aged man and his small granddaughter burned to death when an overheated stove set their home afire, and a youth was killed when, blanded by snow, he walked in front of a truck.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 23. (AP)—Three deaths in Kansas and Missouri today were charged indirectly to the cold wave. A baby was suffocated in its crib at Arkansas City, Kansas; a girl died of coasting injuries at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and a physician, blinded by the sharp wind, walked into the path of a train near Independence, Mo.

Lubbock's predicted cold wave appeared to be a fizzle at an early hour this morning as a heavy fog descended upon the city. The temperature was well above freezing.

Traffic Authority Sees Great Future For South Plains

Albert L. Reed of Dallas, Declares Section's Rail Growth Is Phenominal; to Carry Extension Plea

Represents Area

Expert Contends That Development of Section Is Headed West and Southwest of Lubbock

"Not only is the progress of a country to be judged by the number of miles of railroad track built, but the development of any section may be closely watched and easily discerned by the traffic over these steel rails, once they are built," was the sense of statements made Wednesday by Albert L. Reed, of Dallas, traffic expert, who has been employed by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce to represent this city in its endeavor to have the Interstate Commerce commission act favorably on the Santa Fe railway company's application to extend its line from Seagraves to Lovington, N. M.

Section is Watched

The Panhandle-South Plains section of Texas is now, and has been for the past eight or ten years, the brightest spot on the nation's map of expanding development of country as revealed by records of railroad tracks built tonnage of traffic over these lines and increase of tonnage.

In 1910, for instance, Lubbock county had 207 farms in cultivation. In 1925, the last government census, it had nearly 3,000. And this county is similar to every other county in this section, to a degree. In 1910, for instance, grain loadings on the Panhandle & Santa Fe railway at Lubbock totalled 2,037 tons. In 1926 grain loadings on this railroad at Lubbock was more than 20,000 tons.

"Such things as these figures reveal," stated Mr. Reed, "tell us why the railroads are struggling to get the lines extended into this section."

Rail Facilities Double

In 1910 there were only 699 miles of railroad in the Panhandle-Plains area of Texas, Mr. Reed explained. Then traffic density was less than 500,000 net ton miles. The traffic density was made for less than 500,

Five-Cent Cigar Future At Stake

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—With most argument centering around the future of the five cent cigar, pleas for both increases and decreases in the import duty of $2.10 a pound on Sumatra wrapper tobacco were heard today by the house ways and means committee considering tariff revision.

Manufacturers of the cheap cigar sought a reduction in the duty to $1.50 a pound.

Opposing the reduction and seeking an increase to $4.62 a pound, shade grown tomacco producers of New England argued their industry was in a "deplorable" state and that the higher duty was needed to meet higher production cost.

Merriman Given Death Sentence In Assault Case

Caddo, Oklahoma Man Gets Chair for Alleged Crime In Dallas; Believed To Be Slayer of Two Women

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 23.—Lee Roy Merriman, 28, today was sentenced to death in the electric chair for criminally assaulting a 17-year-old girl.

Merriman was the second man to be convicted and sentenced to death for assault after three girls had been kidnaped from their escorts here on the night of December 9 and attacked. Bennie Aldridge, 23, drew a similar penalty last week

May Be Linked In Death

Merriman, whose home was in Caddo, Oklahoma, and Aldridge were arrested after a riotous week of crime in which half a dozen persons were held up and robbed. The district attornews office today said it had evidence which might link the two men with the slayings of Mrs. Bessie Lynch and Mrs. Cleo Lieto, whose battered bodies were found in a corn field near Dallas on November 4.

Education Bill Calls For $1,342,955.73 While Eleemosynary Measure Allots $282,947 For Work

Tech Bill Okehed

Measure Provides for $187,000 For Emergency Fund And Improvement At the Tech

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 23—Instead of paring the eleemosynary and educational emergency appropriations measures, the senate made a few small additions before passing them today.

The education bill provided for the appropriation of $1,342,955.73 and the eleemosynary measure asked for allotment of $282,947.

Senator W. D. McFarlane of Graham started to make a fight on the $50,000 item for a hospital at the College of Industrial Arts at Denton, the only building contained in the bill, but he withdrew an amendment striking out that appropriation after Senator Eugene Miller of Weatherford explained the reason for including it.

Westbrook Approves Buildings

Senator Ed Westbrook of Sherman spoke against the C. I. A. appropriation, once stricken from the bill in committee along with provisions for two dormitories at A and M and a library at East Texas State Teachers' College and the next day re-included.

Westbrook said he thought it only fair for the C. I. A. item to be eliminated along with the other buildings. After the senate had adopted the emergency measure, he introduced a bill asking emergency appropriation for a $275,000 library at East Texas State Teachers' College.

Before passing the educational emergency measure, the senate adopted an amendment appropriating $10,000 for the repairing of the Little Campus dormitory at the University of Texas.

Abolish Game Commissioner

After three salary - reducing amendments had been adopted and about two hours had been spent in debate the senate passed a bill to abolish the office of state game, fish

Failure To Pay Back Rent Causes Touching Scene In Local Court

Couple Brought Before Bar of Justice On Complaint Filed By Landlady For Recovery of $10 In Rent Money

By AL HILL
Avalanche Staff Writer

Man's—or woman's—inhumanity to man.

The greed for revenge!

Anything you want to call it. But it crops out once in awhile. Did here in Lubbock. In the form of using the law. Red tape sometimes ties the hands of sheriffs and deputies and attorneys and judges. Even though they, who are compelled to carry through the details of red tape, know justice when they see it and want to see that justice is administered, witness occasions when legal procedures obtain only the aspect of being inhuman.

Rent Money Is Cause

The cause of this affair was the matter of only about $10 or $12. Back rent. Landlady filed a complaint against the man, charging not that he owed the rent, but that he had secured the use of her rooms, or house, under false pretenses—or words to that effect.

This man was arrested by a deputy sheriff. The officer could do nothing else but follow orders. As the man sat in the sheriff's office, trembling, fearful, anyone could see that he was crippled in one hand. Clothing not new for months now. As he arose to walk a pace or so, he limped considerably because of a deformity in one leg. He did not know what to do. Nor how. Nor why he was so accused, except that he admitted he owed the bill. Was trying to pay it.

When the deputy arrested him, the man's wife did not know. She came to the courthouse, within a few minutes of the time he was brought there.

"What's this all about?" she inquired.

"That room rent, I guess. I don't know," he half sobbed.

Burden Is Evident

The wife was dressed in clothes no nearer being new than those of her husband. The effects of much labor were visible upon her hands and upon her face. There was no rouge. And pains of worry and striving to keep from going under—into the pit of utter poverty—were telling upon her countenance.

Yet, there was that divine light of the spirit of battling for right

Hobbs Gets Rush Of Activities As Spring Approaches

Building Resumed In Oil Town and Companies Make New Locations For Drilling Campaigns

(Special to the Avalanche)

HOBBS, N. M., Jan. 23.—With carpenters, electricians and plumbers all busy, with a modern light plant nearing completion, and a water system in operation, Hobbs gives every evidence of being a real city before the close of the year.

During the winter months very little building has been done, though several new houses have been completed since the first of the year.

Locations Are Made

Just what major operators are planning to do can not be said, though at least four companies have locations and drilling epuipment here. The Midwest and Bordages No. 1 Jenny Hughes are the only two wells that have really shown production. The Midwest is a good producer, but just at this time it can not be said what the Bordages well will finally be. Drillers are to resume work this week, and within a few days it will be known the well's actual value.

The Ohio No. 1, two miles southwest of Hobbs, is a rig and will be spudded in at an early date.

North of the city two independent operators are preparing to begin operations, and a rig is under construction on the Texas side some 12 miles northeast of this place.

Both the Roxana and Marland companies are active and have large holdings in this county.

The demand for leases and royalties continues to grow though very little trading is being done. Property owners who have not leased their land or sold royalties are in no hurry to do so.

Slaton C. of C. Reports on Work

(Special to the Avalanche)

SLATON, Jan. 23.—Several hundred copies of the annual report of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce are being mailed out this week, according to officers. The report refers to 1928 as having been the "most eventful year of progress in the history of Slaton and surrounding territory." It also claims a record in the accomplishments of the organization during the year.

A budget for 1929 is shown in the report. It outlines an enlarged program for the year, and represents a heavy increase in the financial goal of the Chamber, as compared with 1928.

CONVICTS FURLOUGHED

Three Are Allowed To Go To Bedside of Family

AUSTIN, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Three convicts were furloughed by Governor Moody today, two to visit sick mothers and one to attend the bedside of his wife. They were: Boss McGregor, Haskell, two years, violation prohibition laws, 15 days to visit wife; Lloyd H. Tracy, Collin, three years for burglary, six days to visit mother, and H. Coffey, Harris county, 10 years for burglary and theft, 15 days to visit mother.

Archer City is experiencing an improvement boom. A new Baptist church costing $25,000 is being built, and $8,000 worth of water and sewer extensions being installed. Work is underway on the new City Hall and Masonic Temple, to cost some $20,000.

Mrs. Hayes One Of the Proudest Women in Amarillo, She Says

"I'm Certainly Grateful For The Happiness Orgatone Has Brought To My Home"

"I am one of the proudest women in Amarillo today, and I just want to tell the people it's all because of what this Orgatone has done for my husband," said Mrs. G. R. Hayes, of 113 N. E. Fifth St., Amarillo, Texas a few days ago.

"He had suffered so much during the past four years," she continued, "with stomach trouble that he had almost given up hope of ever finding anything to give him relief. His appetite was fairly good but what he did eat would just stay in his stomach and make gas and misery for him. Constipation bothered him continually and his liver was very sluggish.

"He had tried many different kinds of medicines and treatments, but every thing failed to help him until he began on Orgatone. He began picking up right off when he began taking Orgatone and his sluggish worn-out feelings soon disappeared. He has such a big appetite now that he can hardly get enough to eat and his digestion is fine. He has already gained in strength and says he never felt more peppy or better. He sleeps good every night and goes to his work bright and cheerful all the time. I'm certainly grateful for the happiness Orgatone has brought to my home by restoring my husband's health. I honestly believe it will help any body."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowens Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily. Out of town customers are being supplied promptly by mail upon receipt of price $1.25 or six bottles for $6.25. Adv.

Small Proposes Sale of New Lands

Wellington Senator Introduces Bill Calling For Purchase of Titles By Present Possessors

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 23.—Senator Small of Wellington today proposed a bill providing for the disposal of the present Oklahoma lands which will become a part of Texas under a decision of the United States Supreme court.

Senator Small's measure would provide for the extension eastward of the Texas Panhandle counties along their present limits and would give the possessors prior right to purchase.

28,500 Acres Added

Senator Small exhibited a letter from Washington which stated that 28,500 acres would be added to Texas if the Supreme court validated the commission's location of the 100th meridian.

This land lies east of the present boundary between Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle and west of the 100th meridian as last located.

The Wellington senator explained that since titles to these lands originally were obtained from the United States government instead of from Texas, these titles would be invalid if the territory should be made a part of this state.

Traffic Expert

000 net ton miles. The growth down to 1926 developed a total of 1,200 of traffic lines and traffic density of 1,600,000 to nmiles.

While your trackage is almost doubled in this time in this period," Reed says, "at the same time traffic density increased nearly 300 percent. And the largest number of this increase has been paid and phenomlnal.

"The net railway income, per mile of railroad, leading all districts in the United States, is that of the Fort Worth and Denver, the 1926 figures show $9,000 earnings per mile of line. In the district west of the Mississippl," continues Reed, "the net per mile railway incomes was $3,000 for the same time, and in the Southwest district, only about $2 400."

Yet, the Panhandle & Santa Fe railway which is strictly this section's showing for 1926 per earnings per mile of road was $4,500."

Reviewing the growth of this immediate section, by a study of traffic records, Reed contends that the development is headed naturally to the pacific coast of Lubbock and that the extension of the Santa Fe's line from Seagraves to Lovington, N. H. and to the Hobbs oil field section, which should concern every town and city of the entire Panhandle and South Plains section. Traffic flow is naturally to the entire area, just north of Tech. The success of this extension will do good to all the communities in this territory, from Amarillo on down to Lubbock and on into New Mexico.

Rich Cattle Country

The New Mexico section to be pierced by laying of new steel rails is now a very rich cattle country. Lubbock is the natural trading center for this industry, with its feeding grounds, grain center and grain market, cotton oil mill and other facilities. As the cattle country gives way to farming and trucking, this city will continue to be the logical center for all this development.

This extension will establish new lines for Lubbock, among them oil well supply businesses, to better serve the quickly developing oil field area. If the permit should be granted to the Texas & Pacific, to build from Monahans, to Hobbs and Lovington, that will take away, not only logical trade from this city, but will place that section farther away from any market of consequence by many miles. Cattle would have to be shipped farther before getting to feeding facilities. Any wholesale center available would be a hundred or so miles farther removed than this city.

"With the T. & P. granted a permit, their line would compel the people of the New Mexico section around Lovington," Reed says, "to go from 400 to 600 miles by rail to reach a market city, while Lubbock would be only 175 miles away from them."

Swine Breeders

and the business men of Lamesa bought the good lines and breeds that went at auction here today. Merchants bought breed gilts for the club boys of he county, while farmers interested in better breeds and stock bid lively at the auction cry.

Many Breeders Attend.

The meet was attended by some of the best hog breeders in Texas including George P. Lillard, of Arlington, who had several head in the show; Texas Technological college; C. L. Franz, Turkeq; H. G. Tollet, Lamesa; B. W. Wilkes, Plainview; J. A. McCoy, Kress; J. W. McCrery, Wayside; H. C. Rafey, Canyon; R. E. Prewitt, Tulia; W. T. Wright, Lamesa; E. R. Eudaly, swine specialist of A. and M. college, and Col. C. C. French, of the Fat Stock Show of Fort Worth. Other outstanding breeders also attended the meet and exhibited hogs.

The officers of the association are, C. L. Franz, Turkey, president, and R. E. Prewitt, Tulia, secretary-treasurer.

D. F. Eaton, Lubbock, J. P. Davis, Brownfield, and C. B. Martin, of Tulia, were among the county agents attending the meeting.

It was pointed out to the breeders that Dawson county now has better than 16,00 head of swine and the trend of the owners to better their stock by adding registered and good blooded stuff.

and oyster commissioner and transfer his duties to a state game, fish and oyster commission.

The amendments reduced the proposed salary of the executive secretary from $5,000 to $4,500, his assistant from $4,200 to $3,600 and the maximum salaries of wardens and division heads from $3,000 to $2,400. Under the present system the commissioner receives $3,600, the chief deputy $2,500 and the wardens $1,800.

Dam Site Survey Opposed

Senator Benjamin F. Berkeley's bill asking for a $25,000 emergency appropriation for a dam site survey met unexpected opposition, particularly from members of the finance committee, before it was passed to engrossment 13 to 12.

Berkeley, Alpine, said the federal government would match the state's $25,000 and, if the site were found practicable, would build a $2,000,000 dam.

The project would irrigate about 40,000 acres in the Pecos Valley near the New Mexico line, Berkeley said. Congress, he added, already had appropriated the money.

A bill introduced by Senator Sunningham of Abilene which would make uniform the law providing that the sale, delivery or gift of liquor to a minor was a felony instead of a misdemeanor was tabled subject to call by the committee on criminal jurisprudence those opposing the bill based their obpections on the gift feature.

in her eyes.

"Let's see the Judge," she demanded.

Before Judge Robert H. Bean, she stood anxiously beside her husband, while County Attorney Vaughn Wilson read the charges contained in the paper the deputy had served on her husband.

"Yes—yes," faultered the husband. "We owe the rent, but we have been paying her some. We've paid all we could and will pay as we can—"

The wife interrupted.

"We're only trying to make our living. We've got to live, first. He and I both work, and make only about $10 a week. You know, Judge, that's not much to live on."

"All the court wants to know," Judge Bean said, "is whether or not you plead guilty to the charge as made. If you don't, then we can set your bond."

Pleads Not Guilty

"No! He's not guilty of false pretending," exclaimed the wife. "I'll go get his bond signed. Fix one up. Where we work, I'll get it."

This was agreed. As the tension of appearing before the judge lessened, the husband, clear of eye, trembling, exclaimed:

"I'm nervous. Just got up from two weeks of the flu. And not workin'—With no money—Trying to get by now, makin' as little as we do—this is kinda tough on a fellow to stand."

Bond was made shortly. Together, she, encouraging his afflicted pride with her determined step, and aiding his limping progress with a strong grip of both her hands on one of his arms, they departed.

Sea Rescue

he radioed this afternoon. Then at 6:20 he was heard asking the Florida if she could see his search light. Then only silence out over the North Atlantic until at 9 p. m. he reported "Alongside." An hour and ten minutes later came his message saying that all had been saved.

Fate of Ship Doubted

The fate of another ship, the British freighter Teesbridge, still remains in doubt. It has been given up for lost as rescue ships failed to find her in the position she broadcast Monday afternoon. The American tanker Dannedalke tonight was still afloat. She told the President Harrison, one of the vessels which searched unsuccessfully for the Florida, that she had set up a jury rig of sails and was attempting to make Bermuda.

She is making progress toward safety tonight, a cheerful message from her captain to its owner, Charles Kruze and Company of Philadelphia, indicated. The message said the ship was out of danger and making progress toward Bermuda.

Captain Fried first wrote his name in heoric letters across the world's consciousness in January of 1926 when he turned his ship, at that time the President Roosevelt, to the aid of the sinking British liner Antinoe. For two days in snow and fog and cold, seas running high, he held his ship alongside the sinking vessel and finally rescued her crew. He lost two of his own crew in the rescue. He arrived in New York to find himself a world wide hero. He was presented with the Navy Cross and lionized for days in New York and other cities.

Man Has Narrow Escape As Officer Uses His Gun Here

Having his hair parted down the center with a .45 bullet, after his life evidently was saved by his hat band, when he was shot between the eyes, was the unusual experience of Claude Raines Tuesday night.

According to the sheriff's department here, Raines was shot when Constable Jim Wylie, of Wellington, Texas, came to where he was residing on a farm near Shallowater, to arrest Raines and take him back to Wellington where he is said to be wanted on felong charges, and also wanted in Oklahoma on other felony charges.

Constable is Small

The constable, who is very small of stature, perhaps shot at Raines, who is very large of stature, when Raines refused to accompany the Wellington officer to that city, the fact of the pistol being pointed on a marked incline upwards when aimed at Raines' head, being partly responsible for the bullet not entering his forehead instead of glancing up, piercing his hat and actually cutting a swath through the hair of his head.

Raines was brought to the county jail here Tuesday night and late Wednesday agreed to accompany the constable back to Wellington to face charges there said to be pending against him. He has been in this county, with his family, picking cotton for the past few deeks, it was stated.

SEARCH ABANDONED

Van Phillips Is Given Up As Killed by Bandits

DEMING, N. M., Jan. 23. (AP) The posse searching for Van Phillips, cowboy who disappeared from the Carretas ranch in Chihuahua has abandoned its search after almost definitely establishing that Phillips was kidnaped and killed by two Mexican outlaws who have a hideout in the Sierra Madre mountains west of the Carretas ranch.

Search for the outlaws was left to the Mexican rural police. L. C. Phillips, a brother of the cowboy, returned to Deming today, and D. A. Phillips, another brother, went to Benjamin, Texas, where their father lives.

NEED SCHOOL FUNDS

Rural Aid of $300,000 Is Needed In State

AUSTIN, Jan. 23. (AP)—An emergency supplementa appropriation of $300,000 for rural school aid is needed, S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent, said today.

The fortieth legislature appropriated $1,500,000 for this fiscal year. That amount was sufficient for last year but about 300 more schools have qualified for rural aid and the number of teachers entitled to preferred salaries increased, Marrs said.

Unless the legislature gives relief, each of the amounts recommended by the rural inspector will be reduced 20 per cent Marrs asserted.

Rotarians Hear of Rail Growth Here

Lubbock Rotarians, at their regular weekly noon luncheon yesterday, were told of the Panhandle-Plains section's remarkable growth from a railroad transportation standpoint, during the past few years, by Albert L. Reed, of Dallas, traffic specialist, who has been retained by the chamber of commerce to assist in placing facts before the Interstate Commerce Commission favorable for the Santa Fe's application for an extension from Seagraves into New Mexico.

Short talks were made to the club by Dean J. M. Gordon, chairman of the On-To-Dallas committee for the Rotary International convention in May, and by Jed A. Rix, chairman of the On-To-Ranger committee for the district Rotary convention in March.

Hotel Plans To Be Delivered Feb. 19

Plans for the new $700,000, twelve story Hilton hotel, which was recently announced as to be erected at where the present Merrill hotel stands, corner of Texas Avenue and Main street, has been promised for delivery by the architects, by February 19, it was learned here Wednesday in a letter received by the Lubbock chamber of commerce, from C. N. Hilton, president of the Hilton Hotel company.

"We hope to have the contract let for this hotel before March 1," Mr. Hilton writes, "and intend to rush completion on the project at the very earliest moment."

The hotel will be furnished in the most modern hotel designs of furniture, a total of 200 rooms to be included in the structure. It is one of seven such hostelries operated in Texas by the Hilton company four of which are in West Texas.

Several Believed Perished In Fire

PALATKA, Fla., Jan. 13. (AP)—Several men were believed to have lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the Wilson Cypress company's sawmill here late today.

Trapped on the second floor of the main building those who escaped were compelled to jump 60 feet, and at least two of these were seriously injured. J. I. Bunch, suffered a broken back when he jumped from the second floor. Will Davis, negro, broke both feet.

One negro, according to a witness, swung a hammer at a window in order to make his escape that way, the force of the blow pulling him into the opening where he was caught, unable to move.

One man said he saw three negroes fall into the flames as they tried to jam through doors and windows among the panic stricken crew.

Hats Are In Keystone Position In Dictating Style

Spring hats introduce new straws and fabrics, new colors, new lines. (Left) The very latest is the scarf hat, one of which is a soft pastel pink felt turban intricately manipulated, with chiffon crepe swathing it, slipping through one side and fashioning a long scarf. (Upper right) A natural Chinese bangkok turban features irregular sides, a folded brim and ribbon banding that ties in the back. (Lower) Reboux uses burnt leghorn for a poke shaped hat with short front and back and wide sides. It is colorfully banded.

BY HENRI BENDEL
For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—There is more than mere vanity in the paramount interest hats hold for women.

Of course, since hats can make a woman pretty or unattractive, it is right that they should concern the gentler sex. But fundamentally, hats also deserve consideration because of the keystone position they hold in styles.

Hats are, one might say, barometers for the mode. They reflect changes more readily and easily than frocks, gowns, suits or coats.

Colorful Hats—and Spring!

When hats grow colorful it usually augurs a colorful spring for all the realm of women's wear. You will remember that the ubiquitous plain little felt of a few seasons ago preceded the sports suit uniform that practically all women adopted. More recently flaring brims, more adornment, a change in outline and increasing detail in manipulation of materials in hats came before the intricate fashions in garments today.

Therefore, is is fitting that everyone concerned with women's attire should watch hats. That is why Palm Beach models hold such attention, because their changes will reflect changes all along the line.

Variety Marks Straws

Variety of straws shown this spring is the first noteworthy thing, probably indicating the increasing wealth of new fabrics for gowns and ensembles. Bakou, ballibunal, bangkok, Paris Meme, sisol, paillasson and leghorn are seen in quantity, though most of them are expensive straws. Many of them introduce novelty versions of their straw, lacy interpretations. Color is always important in spring hats. A bright cherry red is seen often, soft rose shades are excellent. Chartreuse, pervenche blue, Lilo blue, maize, lilac beige, off-whites and several clear light greens are perhaps the best colors. Black hats are fewer.

A fine sense of intricate ornamentation that yet looks simple distinguishes the best models of spring. Brims that slash and turn back upon their own crowns for decoration, giving unusual silhouettes are good. Some hats show a preference for wide or irregular sides. Crowns rise slightly. Ribbons, fine flowers, feather fancies, pins and veils adorn spring hats.

Now—the Scarf Hats!

The newest hat this spring is the scarf hat. If you are old enough she will remember the old auto veils that used to swathe the huge sailor and anchor it for that wild ride in the open automobile of the 1900's. New scarf hats are beautifully fitting, tailor-made 1928 versions of this hat and veil combination. Many of the little scarf hats are of fine felt, svelt and vastly becoming, with their matching scarfs, their decoration as well as accompanying scarf.

To illustrate, a soft pastel pink felt turban, cleverly cut with irregular long sides, is swathed in a matching scarf of twisted chiffon cloth which threads through a slit in the right side of the hat and falls across the shoulders, extending almost to the skirt's hem.

Youth in This Hat

Illustrating the wider sides, one of which is apt to flare more than the other, is a Reboux creation of burnt leghorn. It is slightly poke shaped, with its brim exceedingly wide both front and back and its crown rounded in a youthful way. A gay little fan-shaped band of red, green, orange and yellow, grossgrain ribbon trims it.

The small hat has so completely won woman's heart that many spring models are small. One of the newest is that hat that is a bit more sprightly in the way it sits than most small hats which snuggle down on a woman's neck. One of these is a Chinese bangkok in natural tone which is an off-white. It has a folded brim which fashions a helmet shape. A narrow band of black grosgrain ribbon is laced through the brim and crown and tied in a little bow at the back.

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

Allene Sumner

"Do labor laws bring hardship to wage-earning women?" asks Lorine Pruette in "The Woman's Journal," reporting the results of the two years' investigation which the Women's Bureau has done on the National Woman's Party charge that working women are so handicapped by discriminatory labor laws. The Bureau interviewed 1,200 women in all lines of industry. One significant paragraph reads—

HERE'S PROOF

"In four states with laws limiting women's working week to 48 or 50 hours, information was secured from 156 establishments employing 24,216 women. In only two of these 156 establishments was there any indication that the employment of women had been lessened by the passing of the hour law. Just nine women were affected out of the total of more than 24,000 women who might have been.

"In the face of such evidence, can any reasonable person get agitated over the hardships imposed upon women workers by hour laws?"

The answer would seem to be no.

LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH!

"Happy Jimmy Murphy," who has made his living, and a fairly good one, by clowning it for many years, is seeking a divorce on the grounds that his marriage is making it impossible for him to laugh, and that since laughing is his stock in trade and its lack impairs his professional advancement, he must be free and in an environment where he can laugh once more.

THE OLD BOLOGNY

We have been so sopped up with the "Laugh, clown, laugh, even though your heart be breaking, laugh, clown, laugh," version of being a clown, that it's just taken for granted that to be really good in the profession one must laugh with a tear behind the smile. Still, Jimmy Murphy's theory sounds fairly sensible.

What would happen if all the wives in the world who have lost their ability to laugh through their marriage could be divorced? Still, if their laughs don't mean livelihood for them, maybe it's different.

PLANE FOR EVERY GAL

"I look forward to the day when women will be piloting their own planes in the same casual manner as they drive their own cars on the highways. The progress of aviation country clubs proves this."

So says Amelia Earhart, first woman to fly across the Atlantic. Which is a rather pleasing prospect for the jaded maiden with money; it means less, however, to the $18 a week girl casting about for some neat but not gaudy diversion.

THIS LOVE BUSINESS

Mercedes Gleitze, the English typist who swam the channel—one of them, at least—is about to marry a British soldier in India who saw her picture in the paper and to whom she became engaged without ever seeing him. They met after a two years' engagement the other day, and the engagement continued. Which only proves again that this funny business of falling in love is largely in the mind of the lover and lovee. The idea is planted, and it's about as easy to make one person the object of affection as another. Disillusioning? Not necessarily.

BENEFIT PARTY

College Girls To Attend Affair This Evening

A benefit party is to be given in the Tech college gymnasium this evening from 8:30 until 10:30 o'clock by the Arena Ritas. This is to be an all-girls affair and all girls in the college are being invited.

A recently discovered area of pure sand and gravel near Hamlin will be the incentive for the building of ten mile lines to it from the Abilene & Southern, the Orient and the M. K. and T. railroads. The sand and gravel area is about three miles square and 10 cars of sand a day for several years can be shipped from it.

Today's Recipes

Peach Butter — Two and one-fourth pounds peaches, one pound sugar, two whole allspice, one-fourth teaspoon whole cloves. Chop peaches and add sugar and spices in a cheesecloth bag. Stir frequently to keep from sticking. Cook two hours. File this for future use.

Beef Loaf—One pound beef, two strips bacon, one pepper, one cup breadcrumbs, one small onion, one egg. Grind or chop ingredients and mix. Add agges and form into loaf. Bake 45 minutes at 400 Farenheit.

Royal Roll—One half pound graham crackers, one half pound marshmallows, one half pound dates, one half cup nuts, cream. Roll crackers fine, Add marshmallows which have been quartered, chopped dates, nuts. Add enough cream to make the ingredients stick together. Form into a loaf and let stand for several hours, or preferably over night, in ice box or cold place. Top with whipped cream.

Suggestions

Salad Materials

Grated raw carrots, grated raw young beets, grated yellow or white turnips, thinly sliced or chopped onions make delicious salads.

Save for Flavoring

Save your celery tops, wash and dry them and place in the oven. Store the leaves in an airtight tin and when celery is out of season they will be useful for flavoring soups.

Cook it Gently

Bacon, whether broiled or fried, should be cooked gently. This makes the difference between crisp and hardened bacon. If correctly cooked the fat must be white when cold.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

MME. RUBINSTEIN

The general outline of your face is an important part of your beauty ensemble. Unfortunately, we cannot dictate exactly the type we shall portray, and on the other hand, fortunately, there is a sufficient variety of lovely faces that are representative of all the types that I am describing below. The important thing for you to consider, when it comes to considering the frame lines of your face, is to what extent you have maintained the clarity of the original lines.

Let us start at the first point, the chin line. From 25 on, the muscles of your chin and throat have a tendency towards relaxation. It is impossible to prevent this but it is not by any means impossible to control it. In fact, one of the first suggestions I make to every young woman coming to me for advice is that she face the indisputable fact that she must take definite steps to preserve a firm chin and taut muscles of the throat and neck.

Let us say that you are in your early twenties and that there is already a distinct suspicion of relaxation visible around the lower outline of your face. Your immediate care must be preventative. Nightly patting with the back of your hand, patting smartly from the line under your ear and up to the other ear, using good contour jelly, will prevent further inroads of the bete noire of beauty—the double chin.

Should your chin be definitely relaxed, your treatment must be corrective. It is better to use a strong preparation, probably a balsamic muscle astringent, and instead of patting for five minutes, increase the time to 10 and do it both night and morning. If the chin is heavy and definitely relaxed, you must realize that you are not going to obtain marked immediate results. If, after three months of consistent, regular treatment, you have succeeded in restoring your chin to its normal outline you are doing well.

There are typical facial outlines. One is the oval and this is generally conceded to be the popular ideal of beauty. Another is the rather piquant, heart-shaped face with a pointed chin, slightly high cheek bones and probably a broad and well shaped forehead. The next is the round face and last we have the angular and none too attractive outline.

The two first I have mentioned need no more than playing up to. The third, or round face, if it is clearly cut as to outline, must merely be watched to guard against the first sign of flabbiness or relaxation. The angular type, on the other hand, is almost always representative of an undernourished condition and to fill out these outlines you require definite and scientific care to restore the outline to gracious curves.

Then, angular, sunken outlines seldom frame beauty. Usually a rather concentrated treatment will achieve good effects in a comparatively short time. If you never go to bed at night without having first applied a generous amount of nourishing cream, you will soon find that your persistent efforts have modified the unbeautiful outlines of you. face. Anti-wrinkle creams are created especially for you and your type. Use them and you will find that beauty may be obtained even when nature has been less generous than she might have been in apportioning the lines which constitute the outline frame of your face.

Remember that the lines of your face are significant of your own type, and that in maintaining them you are preserving the beauty-personality you were meant to have. Determine early in youth to make best of what you have. Forget your personal and secret admiration for beauty that you can never have and turn your attention towards developing the best possibilities that are within you.

The basis of all good discipline is reasonableness.

All law should be reasonable law and easy to obey.

But that does not say that the child is to be the judge of what is reasonable and what is not. Not by any means. It rests with the parent to decide about that.

For instance, suppose a mother says to a little boy, "You must not run out in the street. An automobile may run over you and kill you."

The boy may think the law unreasonable while the mothers knows it is a proper and correct and easily obeyed law.

Now then suppose the little boy, decided that the law is unreasonable, decides that he is justified in breaking it.

So when he sees his friend across the street over he goes.

A Time for Discipline

Here is where the discipline comes in. He has broken a law that his mothers knows to be reasonable. She has never threatened him. She has simply told him that he must obey and explained the reason why.

When he disobeys she tells him again: "Billy, you must not run across the street again. You understand, Bill, I say 'must' not. Automobiles running even very slowly cannot stop in time to save little boys. You kno how badly Larry Smith was hurt. You wouldn't want to walk on crutches all your life like he does, would you? Or perhaps be killed altogether? Now you have disobeyed me and so you'll remember and not do it again I'll put your scooter away for two days. After that if you think you can promise to obey me, I'll let you have it.

The next day, however, Billy, still thinking the law unreasonble, or rather not thinking about it at all, dived across the street again. A car just missed him.

Now then what? Billy's mother did just what I should have done; she gave Billy a good spanking on his spanking place. Little children must learn that there is backbone in the authority that governs them. They must learn that a command is a command.

It is not always necessary to explain to children exactly why they should obey you. They must learn to obey, that's all, and without question.

TWO BURN TO DEATH

Overheated Stove Causes Blaze In Michigan

PONTIAC, Mich., Jan. 23. (AP)—Two persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their three room home here today. The dead are: John Lasner, 63, and his granddaughter, Thelma Lasner, 3. Mrs. Paul Lasner, 23, Thelma's mother, was seriously burned. The fire was caused by an overheated stove.

Farm demonstration week in Wheeler County during 1928 resulted in a profit or saving of $10,320.-90 on dairy cattle, swine, and poultry according to T. R. Broun, county agent. He reports that 518 farms adopted improved practices in poultry alone.

The Midland courthouse was remodeled this week to handle the vastly increased land and lease sales in Midland and the Midland oil field area. Two new abstract offices and chambers for J. M. Gilmore, corporation judge were created.

Internal Health by Nature's Own Methods

If you are sick inside you are sick all over. When the stomach fails to digest its food, you are standing at the threshold of a series of ailments that may end in a complete physical wreck.

Internal health means health throughout the body. Keep your stomach and other digestive organs clean and vigorous by giving them the natural stimulation of the roots, barks and herbs contained in Tanlac.

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headaches. It brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food, and gain strength and weight.

Tanlac is as free from harmful drugs as the water you drink. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. For over 10 years it has been recommended by druggists who have watched its marvelous results. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle of Tanlac from your druggist and give it a thorough trial. Your money back if doesn't help you.

"I light a Lucky and go light on the sweets

That's how I keep in good shape and always feel peppy."

Al Jolson
Famous comedian and star of song.

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

Al Jolson as he appears in Warner Bros. Vitaphone success, "The Singing Fool."

Something sensible. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets." It brings to men the health and vigor that come with avoiding overweight. To women it offers a slender, fashionable figure.

20,679 physicians have stated that Lucky Strike is less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes. Very likely this is due to toasting which removes impurities. This same process, toasting, improves and develops the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. This means that there is a flavor in Luckies which is a delightful alternative for the things that make you fat. That's why "It's Toasted" is your assurance that there's real health in Luckies—they're good for you!

Keep fit—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. That's what many men have been doing for years. They know the evidence of prominent athletes whose favorite cigarette is Lucky Strike and who say Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical condition.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

Simmons Regulars Pile Up A 23 to 4 Lead In First Half

Bridges Crew Toy With Tech Cagers In Opening Period and Second Stringers Are Sent In

ABILENE, Jan. 23—After sewing up the game in the first half tonight, the Simmons Cowboys toyed with the Texas Tech basketeers throughout the last period for a 35 to 24 victory.

Gregg and Fitzgerald roped the ring accurately and often in the first half. When the Simmons regulars had piled up a 23-4 margin, Coach Frank Bridges sent in a second string that prevented field scoring for the rest of the period but was fouled to allo wthe Matadors three free pitches.

The first team returned at the start of the second hald, and playing a time-killing back court game did not loop the hoop from the floor for 15 minutes. Tech had begun to creep up at this stage, the score standing at 19-26 before McCullum, Matthews and Gregg broke loose with field goals to stretch the margin again.

Gregg with 14 points was high scorer. And Wilkins of Tech trailed him with ten. Wilkins and Walker starred for the visitors with their long loopers and the former made a good defensive showing.

Champs Ordered To Defend Titles

Four Boxing Titleholders Must Fight Within 60 Days or Lose Belt, The N. B. A. Orders

CHICAGO, Jan. 23. (AP)—The National Boxing Association, controlling the sport in 27 states, today ordered four champions to engage in a title contest against a logical contender within sixty days or surrender their titles.

Tommy Lougran, light heavyweight champion; Mickey Walker, middleweight ruler; Joe Dundee, welterweight title holder, and Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion were notified they must fight a title bout before March 21 or cease to be recognized by the N. B. A. as champon of the class. None of the four has defended his title within the last six months period, the time allowed a champion between title bouts under N. B. A. rules.

Fights Hansen's Conqueror

BY JACK SORDS

Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and The Avalanche

Jack Sharkey, the talkative one from Boston, finally signed to fight Young Stribling at Miami on February 27. It will be the biggest heavyweight battle since the Tunney-Heeney championship fight last July and promises to be an even better one.

As a tune-up for this step towards the heavyweight title Sharkey has next in his book of engagements a meeting with one K. O. Christner, of Akron, the boy who helped Knute Hansen's walk into the titled class last December. This fight is scheduled for Friday, January 25, at Madison Square Garden. Jack will probably climb into the ring with Christner a 10 to 1 favorite, and he should be.

Wholesalers Win By Forfeit From Teacher Quintet

Hard Fought City League Game Ends In 26 All Tie And Pedagogues Refuse To Enter Extra Period

The second half of the City League basketball season started off with a bang at the high school gymnasium last night as the Teachers and Wholesalers tangled up in the most bitterly contested game seen in the league this season. Fighting savagely for the advantage as the game came to a close, the two teams were deadlocked at 26 all when the final whistle sounded. With only four men left with which to play off the tie, the Teachers refused to play the extra period, and automatically forfeited the contest to the Wholesalers.

George Brown, the Teachers' ace, had gone off the floor by way of personal fouls in the last period, and the Pedagogues finished the contest with four men. With this one-man advantage, the Wholesalers came from behind to knot the count with Luenberger in the steller role.

Lunberger Gets Hot

Strengthened by the addition of Luenberger, former Super Service star, to the lineup, the Wholesalers stayed on the heels of the Teachers throughout the hard fought contest, proving as apt at the rough and tumble game as the hefty Pedagogues.

Liston led the Teachers in their first half assault that gave them a 13 to 8 margin at the half. But with Luenberger running wild in the second half, the Wholesalers came back to score 18 points in the last half while the Teachers were counting 13.

Luenberger's long shots accounted for 17 of the 26 points registered by the winners. Liston led the Teachers in scoring with 11 points.

College Girls Win

In the opening game of the night, the Business College girls won handily from the Montgomery Ward sextette, 15 to 9, in a contest featured by the defensive showing of the college guards, Hobson and Gillon.

Ellison led the winners in scoring with 8 points, while Simmons of the Montgomery Ward team accounted for all the tallies registered by the losers.

W. L. (Young) Stribling, the rising young Georgia heavyweight, seems to be learning the ballyhoo game pretty well. Previously described as a modest, retiring personage, the Georgia flash has recently turned into the loud speaker variety, boasting in no uncertain terms what he will do to Ralph Smith January 25 and to Jack Sharkey in the Miami Beach battle February 27.

Claiming that Tunney refused to meet him in 1927, Stribling said recently that he would be champion now if Gene hadn't ducked the issue. Last Monday night he flattened Sully Montgomery in the second round for his 113th knockout victim.

Jack Dempsey, who has turned promoter to handle the Florida scrap after the death of Rickard will have plenty to worry him between now and February 27 when Stribling and Sharkey are "supposed" to meet at Miami Beach. We say supposed because it isn't altogether certain that both Sharkey and Stribling will be in the ring

Baseball Veteran Of Pioneer Days Dies In Milwaukee

Henry J. Killilea, Member Of Group That Founded American League Succumbs of Heart Disease

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 23. (AP)—Henry J. Killilea, 62, a member of the little group that founded the American Baseball League in 1899 is dead.

The sportsman, also owner of the Milwaukee American Association club died at his home here today of heart disease, after a brief illness.

Mr. Killilea with his brother Matt, Connie Mack, Charles Comiskey and Ban Johnson founded the league at a mooting in the Killilea home here and for several years he acted as its counsel.

Mr. Killilea became president of the Boston Red Sox in 1903, when that club was tottering on financial difficulties, and won the pennant. For nearly a quarter of a century thereafter he took no active part in the baseball. In 1928 he purchased the Milwaukee Brewers.

January 1, 1907, Mr. Killilea became solicitor general in Wisconsin for the Milwaukee railroad, in which capacity he served until his death.

He is survived by two children, Harry and Florence.

Sharkey's Match For Jan. 25 Has Brilliant Record

Knockout Punch of Akron Heavyweight Has Garden Officials Wondering As To Stribling's Foe

BY EDWARD J. NEIL,
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—An accident from Akron is looking around for a place to happen—with special designs on whatever spot Jack Sharkey occupies in the Madison Square Garden ring Friday night.

This accident of fisticuffs is known to his family as Meyers Wilson Christner, to the fans as "K. O." and to his opponents as bad news. Already, at the ripe ring age of 34, "K. O." has happened to 37 of his 44 opponents in two years of amateur and professional boxing.

Now he is ready to upset the biggest apple cart of all.

Two months ago, Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane who had all the physical attributes of a heavyweight attributes, started west in his campaign for the title Gene Tunney left vacant. The first stop was Cleveland and a bout with an unknown from the steaming rubber pits of an Akron tire factory. The unknown, growing slightly bald on the top of the head, tagged Knute lustily on

Golfers Warming Up for Texas Open

Eighth Texas Open Golf Tournament Gets Under Way Today In San Antonio; $6,500 Offered

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 23.—(AP)—The eighth Texas open golf tournament, carrying $6,500 prize money, gets under way tomorrow over the new municipal course with the pro-amateur best ball event of 18 holes leading professionals and amateurs are entered.

More than 160 amateurs played 18 holes over Willow Springs course Tuesday in a qualifying tournament, won by Jack Dold of Houston. Wednesday was devoted to practice rounds over the "Muny" course. All leading pro's and amateurs were out cracking the ball.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn, defending Texas open champion, was out today taking another round over the course, warming up the mashie niblick that chipped him to a low score record in El Paso last weekend when he went 17 strokes under par to lead a big field. Tommy Armour, former national open champion, who "blew up" in the Los Angeles open recently, also appeared for his first round.

The experts predicted today that Mehlhorn and Bobby Cruickshank, a former Texas open champ, will be hard to keep out of first money.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., and Harry Cooper also were looked to as possible winners.

The play starts at 8 A. M., players leaving in foursomes of two pro's and two amateurs.

Ralls Five Whips Lovington Quint

(Special To The Avalanche)

RALLS, Jan. 23.—The Ralls Jackrabbits came back strong tonight after their defeat at the hands of the Athens Hornets Tuesday night and trounced the Lovington, N. M., high school 40 to 17 in a hard fought contest.

Displaying a strong defensive aggregation, the New Mexico basketeers forced the Jackrabbits to fire at the hoop from long distance for the most part of the tilt.

"Flashy" Walker led the Ralls quintet in scoring with 10 points while Heidle of Lovington trailed him with 7.

Lovington is considered the strongest team in their district of the interscholastic organization of that state.

The Jackrabbits meet Estelline on the local court tonight and tomorrow night in a series that promises plenty of action.

New Pilot Of the Mobile Club Succeeds Despite Physical Handicaps

Rudy Hulswitt Made Quite a Reputation for Himself In Spite of Shoulder Injuries, A Busted Ankle, Appendicitis Operation Et Cetera

By NORMAN E BROWN
Sports Writer for Central Press and The Avalanche

Despite two serious injuries to his shoulders, a busted ankle, an operation for appendicitis, and changes in tariff laws, Rudy Hulswitt, newly-appointed manager of the Mobile club of the Southern association, made quite a reputation for himself in the playing end of baseball.

A misguided remark, made on false information, caused him more trouble than any of these bodily injuries.

But to take things about as they happened in Rudolph E. Hulswitt's life:

Rudy had spent most of his boyhood in and around Louisville, Ky.,

when the Newport News club gave him his first pro ball experience, back in 1900. And it wasn't long before his work there drew him a better job—with St. Joe in the Western league. His "big chance" came in 1902, when he took advantage of the turbulent conditions in baseball and hopped to the Philadelphia Nationals. If the memory of another old-timer isn't faulty, Charley Dooin, famous old-time catcher, moved up at the same time. Anyhow, Hulswitt was going good for the Phils when he injured his shoulder in 1914. The Phils promptly traded him to Columbus for another youngster, and thereby pulled one of the annual boners that are chalked up all too silently against major league bosses.

Hulswitt not only proceeded to round into form the next spring at shortstop, but helped Columbus win the first pennant that American Association club had ever taken. A couple of months after the hurrah of the final game had died down, Rudy found himself undergoing an operation for the removal of his appendix. The docs weren't quite as handy with the tools in those days, and Rudy's chances for rounding into his old-time form the following spring were doubted. He didn't set the pace he had held in 1905, but the Senators repeated, and the following year he was an outstanding star in the third consecutive victory of the club.

The end of the season found major league clubs scrambling for his services, with the Cinci Reds getting him, only to let him go to St. Louis a year later. Two years later the first accident to one of his shoulders cost him his berth and he was shunted to Chattanooga. Then came the cracked ankle and another blue ticket. Late in 1911 he joined Louisville, and the next spring returned to Columbus, only to shuttle back to Louisville again. He played with the Colonels in 1913.

The next time he was heard from he had accepted the post as manager of the Jersey City club.

Now we have it on good authority that when Hulswitt arrived at the Virginia training camp of the "Skeeters" someone had tipped him off (as a practical joke) that the Jersey City players were a "tough gang."

Hulswitt decided to take the boss of the barnyard by the well-known horns. He walked into the clubhouse, called the boys together, and spake as follows—did Rudy.

"I just want to tell you that I'm going to be the boss of this ball club, and if there is anyone here who don't think so we'll step outside and settle it right now."

The players, most of them peaceable citizens, didn't know just how to take him. No one challenged him. And as a result of the remark the team played through the season lacking confidence in Rudy, and trying vainly to dope him out. The result of the season's work was a disappointment. Rudy played about half the games at short himself.

In passing, however, it may be of interest at this late date to add that Hulswitt was known among his friends to be quite capable of taking care of himself, though not a seeker of trouble, by any means.

Of recent years Hulswitt has been scouting for the Boston Red Sox. He will still be of indirect assistance to the same club because of the fact that the Sox bosses have very close working connections with the Mobile team.

Golf Favorites Lead Writers Go

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 23. (AP)—Favorites continued to hold the upper hand in the second round of match play in the annual writers' and artists' tournament here.

Rex Beach, who turned in low score in the medal round, beat T. Kajiwara, St. Louis, 6 and 5 today while Grantland Rice, title holder, was eliminating F. Newland, Englewood, N. J., by the same score.

Clarance Buddington Kelland, North Hempstead, L. I., advanced through default of Ray Hubbole, Garden City, L. I.

that night. A certain fellow by the name of "K. O." Christner, who meets Sharkey January 25, has a wallop that has brought to his credit 41 knockouts out of 47 engagements. Before he met Knute Hansen, fight fans were saying he didn't have a ghost of a show. After he put Hansen to sleep in the seventh round of that bout, he has been given credit for having a terrible punch. Christner may be in that Florida fuss if he gets his discus windup in action and lands flush on the jaw of that fellow who called him "a common Polack."

The Arkansas Razorbacks continue to lead the chase in Southwestern conference basketball circles, and from all indications, will have to look outside the conference to find a team that can give them anything like real competition. Other members of the loop probably feel that the Porkers can whip any other basketball team in the country.

The 1929 edition of the Razorback five is one of the greatest scoring machines in collegiate history. Their 71-23 victory over Baylor last week broke their own record for points made in one game which they formerly held against the T. C. U. Frogs. In the second tilt with the Purple crew, the Porkers ran up 66 points.

Tom Pickel, Razorback center, continues to show the way to conference scorers with 91 points to his credit, while his teammate, Schoonover is close behind with 89. These six-footers from the Ozarks have completely ruined what would otherwise be a tight basketball race. The remainder of the team in the conference appear to be about on a par, and from here on out, the race will be for second place, not first place the chin in the eighth round.

The right hand punch that finished Hansen was one of the most important of the season. It snuffed out Knute's title campaign, drove Billy Gibson, pilot of Tunney and then Hansen, into retiremement, and shoved Christner into the spotlight. Furthermore that punch has Garden officials talking in whispers about plans for the Sharkey-Stribling match in Miami Beach. To them Christner is ominous.

An Odd Number

Christner is one of the strangest of ring phenomena since Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons, with his bald head, middleweight's legs and heavyweight's shoulders, crashed into fame. Christner saw only 2 rounds of boxing before entering the ring at 32, never had a glove on in four years in the army and was "kidded" into entering the amateurs.

Christner playfully slapped a big fellow at the end of the day's work. Christner landed one right and lost his job when the next days it developed that his opponent's jaw was broken.

Aside from boxing Christner has done about everything else in athletics. He caught Babe Ruth when the Bambino was the star left handed pitcher of the St. Mary's Industrial School baseball team in Baltimore and remembers when Al Jolson was the best singer in the school. Johnny Dundee, now the welterweight champion and was there at the same time.

Waner Brothers Sign Contracts

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 23. (AP)—Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pittsburgh National League baseball club, tonight confirmed reports that the unsigned contracts of Paul and Lloyd Waner, star outfielders, had been received at the Pirate offices here. Dreyfuss said, however, that the brothers were not considered by the management in the light of "hold outs."

Thirteen members of the 1928 Maryland grid squad played approximately 95 percent of the total time played by the squad.

Austin Wonders Lose To Steers

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 23. (AP)—The Austin Wonders blew their fina chance to beat somebody when, in the low-goal event of the sixth annual Southwestern Mid-Winter Polo tournament today they faltered before the San Antonio Longhorns and were defeated, 14 to 6.

Austin spotted the Longhorns one goal as handicap, but with the exception of the early rounds were unable to halt the Longhorns.

In the seventh chukker, Eddie Robbins, brilliant Longhorn forward was injured in a bad spill and was rushed to the base hospital, where his condition was reported grave. San Antonio, having no subs played the rest of the match with three men and scored three goals.

Ties Old Man Par In 18 Hole Match

BILOXI, Miss., Jan. 23. (AP)—shooting a par 72 over the 18-hole Edgewater Golf Course, G. Fred Lamprech, New Orleans, former national intercollegiate champion, gave the gallery a thrill today in the first round of match play in the Pan American Amateur golf tournament.

Lamprecht went out in 32 three under par, and required 40 to come home.

Lamprecht defeated his opponent, James Korndorfer of New Orleans, 9 and 7.

Ross McDade, Shreveport, continued his winning streak by defeating Bob Gormley of Biloxi 1 up in 19 holes and Don Armstrong, Aurora, Ill., defending Pan American champion won from Ed Enochs of Fernwood, Miss., one 70.

MAY BE HARD TO REPLACE

Many Cleveland sports writers think Summa's place in right field will be hard to replace. Not so much his hitting, but his excellent fielding.

Stribling Picked By Martin Burke To Beat Sharkey

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 23.—It will be just too bad for Jack Sharkey when Young Stribling fights him in Miami. Stribling will stop him!

That's the opinion of Martin Burke, who has been knocked out twice by Stribling in the first round in recent months and who fought Gene Tunney twice and has served as Jack Dempsey's sparring partner.

"Stribling will stop Sharkey," he says. "In fact, he can stop any of them. Even the retired champion.

"He has improved wonderfully in recent months. He has a good heavy punch and is quick to deliver it. I know—because he gave it to me twice in the first round in recent months."

Frogs Win First Conference Game

FORT WORTH, Jan. 23.—Beating the Rice Owls 28-27 Monday night by a desperate spurt in the last half, the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs broke into the conference credit column for the first time this season. The Frogs split their firt road trip, dropping their first to the Farmers by a 28-22 count.

The Frogs pulled themselves out of the conference celler by virtue of making 25 points in the last half of the Owl game, while their opponents were registtering 9. The Frogs failed to register a single field goal during the first half. Their score sheet now shows four games lost and one won. They have lost to the championship Razorbacks twice, the S. M. U. Mustangs and the Aggies.

The Frogs will return home to be hosts to the Farmers Friday night. The two teams apepar to be pretty evenly matched and a hot game is expected on the Purple's home floor.

WILLS ARE PROBATED

Tech Gets $20,000 Bequest From Morrow Estate

Three wills were probated in county court Wednesday, before Judge Robert H. Bean, among them being that of George Morrow, who died several months ago and who left $20,000 of his estate of approximately $50,000 to Texas Technological college for a student loan fund.

Other wills probated were those of John Adam Davis, Lubbock county citizen, who died in January 1928, leaving an estate of about $6,000 to his daughter, Mary Elberta Davis, and of Mrs. Lou A. Bacon, who died last year.

"South Plains, Inc.," Ads Continue to Show Results; Booklets Being Sent Out Over Entire Nation

Up to date a total of 838 inquirers have filled out coupons, requesting copies of "Farm Life on The South Plains," the booklet that has been prepared by the South Plains Inc. as results of advertising appearing in a number of national farm magazines, it was announced at the chamber of commerce offices yesterday.

The advertising has appeared in the Progressive Farmer, The Oklahoma Farmer Stockman, Farm, Stock and Home, and the Prairie Farmer, and will be published in a number of other magazines within the next few months.

Inquiries come from more than half of the 48 states in the Union and The South Plains Inc., in answering, send personal letters to each inquirer along with the booklet. From these booklets the farmers residing in other sections and in other states are given much valuable information about the South Plains, the purpose of the advertising campaign being to invite and promote further colonization of the hundreds of thousands of unplowed land in this great territory.

DRY BILLS IN THE TEXAS LEGISLATURE

It looks like the Texas Legislature is going to try to create some legislation this year that will be more favorable to the enforcement of the prohibition laws in Texas. Of course we have a great many laws, but the big trouble seems to be getting them enforced. The most important bills seem to be the repeal of the search and seizure laws of the state, that are now in force, and make others more favorable to the enforcement officers. At the present time it is very difficult to capture those who may have booze hid away in homes and other places on personal property, because of the red tape that seems necessary to legally search for the stuff, without laying the officers liable to prosecution, and endangering the bondsmen of the peace officers. The new law if passed will be much more favorable to the officers, and though it should not be abused by officers, it should be a great help to them in running down booze peddlers, and thereby make the prohibition laws easier to be put into effect.

There will be strong opposition to this law, but it is generally believed that it will ave enough support in the Texas Legislature to put it over.

Another very important law being offered is the prescription bill that will be presented to regulate more stringently the laws authorizing the writing of whiskey prescriptions. The new regulation would limit the amount of whiskey sold on prescription to one-half pint to the same person every 10 days. This proposed bill was opposed by only four of the 13 members of the committee present at the time it was up for discussion, which is considered an indication of its popularity among the representatives.

THE DRIVERS LICENSES BILL

We are really not familiar with all of the details of the driver's licenses bill offered in the Texas Legislature, but if we understand it, we are of the opinion that it will be of very little real benefit to traffic in Texas, and we are of he opinion that there might be some very serious handicaps in the law, should it be passed, and put into effect. In the first place we are of the opinion that it would be so unpractical that it wolud be hard to enforce. It would add a great deal more red tape to the operation of automobile laws of the state. Like the automobile light inspection law, it would add 50c more to the cost of operation per operator, and very likely would be of little benefit to traffic. Then another hardship, and we doubt if of much benefit would be the age limits placed on the drivers of cars. Children are very often more careful in the driving of cars than grown folks, and we are quite sure that the age limit is too severe—12 years would probably be more nearly right than 14 or 16 years, and to eliminate the 12 or 13-year-old children would no doubt work a great hardship on some people. Many people, especially those who send their children to school in automobiles, many of which might not be 14 years of age, but safe drivers. It would work a hardship on the owners of an automobile who had several members in the family to have to buy a licenses for the entire number before they would be permitted to operate their automobile. We believe in safety regulations in automobile driving, but we are of the opinion that this is going to be one measure that will be very hard to frame a law that will be practical, and that will not work a very great hardship on many people. It should be thoroughly studied, and not put another batch of nonsensical laws on the books to be violated because of their unpracticalness and unfairness to the public in general. We doubt if the licensing of automobile drivers would make them one bit safer than if they were not licensed, and if not then why should the owners of automobiles be placed at this disadvantage and expense?

CACODYL ISOCYANIDE

The subject of this editorial is the name of a poison gas that is poison. It is so deadly that it would destroy an army as I destroy the light of a candle. A distinguished chemist, Dr. Hilton Ira Jones, said recently, "I can not believe that the nations of the world would use it for warfare, simply because it always kills." But later he declared, "if war ever comes again, it will not be fought with shot and shell. It is easier to destroy life wholesale with the new gas." Thousands of tons of this poisoned breath can be manufactured in a day. The cost is less than the cost of powder and guns. And is Dr. Jones correct in thinking that nations will not use the new weapon? He is not. Ten years ago we learned that no method is denied, no instrument tabooed, no horror repudiated, when what the world has called "national honor" is in jeopardy or when a "soverign" state faces the defeat of imperialistic hopes. There is only one way to avoid the cataclysm that must follow the next general armed conflict—the way of peace. There is only one time in which to act—Now! The ratification of the Paris Pact by the United States Senate, ratification without delay and without amendments, is the imprative of the present Congress.

TRUTH AND TACT

Up in Arkansas the society editor of a newspaper had the influenza and the editor himself did her column. In writing up a wedding he wound it up by saying: "No higher word in praise of the groom can be given than to say that bride's parents were content to accept him as their son." There is one thing about a man writing a wedding notice—he just will mention the groom.

We are still too close to the Horse Age to understand the wisdom of a policy that puts a penalty on slow driving, but just the same the real road hog is the snail driver behind whom traffic congests and who generally rides high in the middle of the road. Speed with care is increasingly the imperative of Twentieth Century traffic.

OBSERVE NEW MEANING IN DRY LAW ATTACKS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press And The Morning Avalanche

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23. — "The mere fact that something about prohibition is written in the constitution does not overawe me," proclaimed Congressman John J. O'Connor of New York, in the house of representatives, recently.

"We wish the bootleggers prosperity; we hope more Americans violate prohibition in 1929 than ever before," said a New Year's message broadcast to the press by Miss Louise Gross, as chairman of the Women's Committee for Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Prohibition cannot be undone; nullification is the solution," concludes a letter I received recently—with no request for anonymity, though I do withhold the writer's name, to be on the safe side — from a western state governor I knew as a kid.

That there are wets is no tidings, but this new note of "nullification" does suggest a meaning all its own.

Only a few months—even weeks—ago, the least mention of the word was enough to throw a political wet into fits. He meant nullification but was deathly afraid to say so, or listen to anybody else say it.

"While prohibition is the law, it must be enforced." That was his rigmarole. Almost overnight he has developed extraordinary frankness.

Representative O'Connor's, Miss Gross' and my western governor's utterances are but three among many I could quote, from wets in key positions, to the same general effect.

Taken collectively, they more than hint at a changing—or changed—wet complex.

This is not true of so highly academic and impractical an organization as the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which still clings to the hope of modifying the dry regime by conventional legislative means.

I believe it to be true of the more impatient wet element which, very tired of skulking ineffectively under cover, now shows signs of emerging boldly into the extra-legal open at last.

In my opinion, such of the wet leaders as posses the faculty of facing facts were convinced by the last election of the impossibility of capturing even the Volstead ramparts—to say nothing of the Eighteenth Amendment citadel—by frontal attack—at any rate for a long time to come—the citadel probably never.

It can have taken no great amount of headwork on their part to agree on nullification sapping as the next best thing.

They certainly never liked the expression—nullification. However, what else is there left?

By openly preaching nullification, the wet leadership evidently intends, as far as it is able, to popularize the word—among individuals and maybe in wet states—in short, to transform an epithet into a rallying cry.

It is, at least, a policy which can be pushed regardless of the hopelessness of a repeal campaign.

And if it "takes," the wet tacticians doubtless feel that its general tendency is likely to be in the direction of repeal ultimately.

At worst, it is a policy, and the wets assuredly need one.

Of course nobody can foresee the issue, but it appears to me an interesting new development in the prohibition situation which will bulk considerably in the course of the coming Hoover administration.

DEAF MUTE HAPPIER IF REARED WITHIN HOME

BY DR. MORRISH FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association And of Hygeia, The Health Magazine

The child who cannot hear or speak lives of necessity a shut-in existence.

Modern developments in the care of this group of our population provide for the teaching of lip reading, so that they may follow human speech, and for the teaching of good writing, so that they may easily communicate to others their own thoughts and wishes.

If such a child unfortunately happens to be mentally backward in addition to having the defects that have been mentioned, the problem is even more complicated.

Keeping Them At Home.

Formerly it was the custom invariably to attempt to provide for the care of such persons in institutions. It is now realized that a much greater hope of a happy life exists for them if they can be reared to adult age within the family, making all of the modern contacts of life instead of the artificial existence that develops in an institution.

Since it is desirable that everything be made out of such equipment as the child may have, the technic of modern psychology has been called in, particularly Germany, in order to determine the inclinations and aptitudes of the child and to encourage his development along these lines.

Higher Education.

Preliminary tests showed that instruction in the field of higher education was just as important for such people as purely technical training in the uses of tools and machines. However, the latter methods will prevail for those who are mentally subnormal.

Apparently there are more than three million children in the United States who are hard of hearing to a greater or lesser degree.

The subject is one of the most important confronting the combination of teacher, psychologist and physician, who is responsible under modern conditions for the care of this group of the defective.

SO THINK WE

Lubbock is one of the fastest growing cities in the state and everything seems to be keeping step with the progress except possibly the public schools. Just at this time there is evidence that there is going to be a very crowded condition existing next year that will be equal to a handicap. Our school board will no doubt do its best to protect the schools along this line, but they will need the support of the patrons in the matter and we hope that they will be given every encouragement possible in building more and better buildings at the very earliest possible date.

We think that Mr. Hoover must be a pretty good diplomat after all. He is a Californian, but you notice that he went to Florida to write his first message. There is nothing like being on the safe side.

We think that after all the legislatures have passed laws on the prohibition question they should come to the relief of the dairymen and do something to keep the cows from going dry.

We think possible the poultry business is the most profitable busines of the farm. This seems to be the pickup, in as much as the hen is about the only thing that can make her own living by picking up what the balance of us have wasted.

We think that all of the gubernatorial terms are not just what they are scheduled to be. Especially is this true of Oklahoma and sometimes Texas. Sometimes these states throw their chief executives out before the term is over.

We think that Mr. Mellon could hardly be to blame for opposing a big appropriation for the enforcement of the prohibition laws.

We think when the graduate of the school of experience gets a bouquet of flowers he has to buy them himself, or at least he has paid for them.

We think President Coolidge might be willing to go back to the farm if his successor, Mr. Hoover, will promise to give the necessary farm relief.

We think possibly the most distinct type of "eccentricity" is one who has no plan whatever for the enforcement of prohibition.

We think the big bus hardly ever tries to take up all of the road by taking more space than it needs, but it takes up most of the road by taking merely what it does need. However there is one thing that can be said about the drivers of the public busses on the highways, they usually do the best they can to let another car get by.

We think it all right to have all your insurance on the car provided the house does not catch fire. The best way is to have your insurance pretty well distributed over your property, and a little on yourself, and we do not sell insurance either.

We think that John Coolidge must be somewhat of a rounder. He was recently made Major by the Connecticut legislature although he was born in Vermont, reared in Massachusetts and lives in New York.

We think Texas people would feel much more at home if they could pay their taxes on the installment plan.

We think that ninety dollars is not much for a carload of old papers, but the Santa Anna schools have decided to keep all the papers gathered up and shipped out, the proceeds to be used in buying gymnasium equipment for the schools. There are two good features about that. One is that it will rid the town of a great deal of the paper that usually blows and stacks up against buildings and hedges, and it will also bring in a bit of the coin of the realm with which much needed gymnastic equipment can be purchased. Every town would do well to adopt this plan, and it would be one of those items of thrift that we have from time to time heard much of.

We think the people of Lubbock as well as all other towns should be more cautious about leaving their cars out on the streets without being locked. Several have been stolen recently, and more will be taken if the thieves find that the owners are careless about leaving them unlocked.

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

THE LAMPLIGHTER

There is a little poem by Robert Louis Stevenson in "The Child's Garden of Verse" which relates the ambition of a little lad to become the lamplighter of the village.

"But I, when I am grown
And can choose what I will do,
Oh, Leerie, I'll go 'round at night
And light the lamps with you."

It is just the prattling fancy of a child. Some of us wanted to be engineers and coachmen, conductors in uniform and policemen. But something deeper than fancy is touched by the little boy who wanted to go 'round with Leerie and light the lamps at night.

The world is dark in many places. It needs to be set aglow with cheer. So many hearts need the rays of understanding; so many lives need the sunlight of kindness. It has been said "let not your hearts be troubled." But sometimes, for a little while, hearts are troubled. Even the home town seems a desolate place. It's a great thing to light the lamps for someone in the dark. We do not need a laboratory demonstration to prove that faith brings reward. Happiness comes again, and finally peace.

Shall we think, with the little chap who waited with his face pressed against the window pane—

"When I can choose what I will do,
Oh, Leerie, I'll go 'round at night,
And light the lamps with you."

AS TO TRUTH

Many people who go about blurting out the truth about themselves or other people might better be silent. All they do is to make somebody miserable, to no purpose. Silence is often much better than the spoken truth. But the habit of not telling the truth when speech is demanded is even more indefensible than talking too much. When our word is no longer believed, we are through as far as character, reputation, standing or influence is concerned. Let's be careful about saying that someone can not be depended upon to speak the truth. There are doubtless "white lies" which lubricate the relations between people. There always have been and always will. But in an issue of importance there is no sound middle course. Stalling is no part of honesty. It is either silence or truth.

HOW ABOUT RESOLUTIONS?

It has been said that if all the New Year's resolutions in the world were laid end to end they wouldn't reach until the first of February. Have you checked up on yours? How far did they reach?

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Avalanche-Journal,
Lubbock, Texas.

Dear Sir:—

Under a Houston date line of Jan. 19th, sent out by The Associated Press, an interview appears in connection with the Snyder-Roswell railroad in which it is stated that M. G. Evans, secretary of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce, was in Houston to confer with Capt. Ed Kennedy, promoter of the new road.

For the information of your readers would state that M. G. Evans has not been associated with the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce in any capacity since the first day of December, 1928, when the Board of Directors of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce met and officially declared his office vacant. Mr. Evans is therefore not connected with any official business of the City of Snyder and the Board of Directors of our commercial organization has advised me to get in touch with you. The Associated Press has likewise been advised.

Very truly yours,
GEO. F. SMITH,
Editor Scurry Co. Times-Signal.

Avalanche-Journal.
Lubbock, Texas.

Gentlemen:

As a citizen and tax payer of your city, I feel free to speak through the columns of your paper. My past official position in road matters and bond issues gave me some valuable lessons. To begin with, permit me to say, I have always supported bond issues that proposed a better system of highways and schools, and still for them. But what seems to be the matter with Lubbock and Lubbock county, on the short time of two months, she has suffered two defeats for better roads. There seems to be no fight as to the need of hard surfaced highways in Lubbock county, I doubt if you can find a man that would speak against better roads. I am a little disappointed in the conduct of the majority of the citizens of Lubbock county. Is it unpressiveness? I can't think so. It's like unto a house divided against itself, can't stand. The same scriptural adage will apply to counties as to families. We must apply the Golden Rule, co-operate. I read in today's paper a spirit of reconciliation by our commissioners court in holding off the petition for special road district election. It can be done after everything that's fair and honorable has been tried. Now, gentlemen, let me emplore the good citizens to all join hands in this big undertaking; get together. I would suggest a get-together meeting and bury all past differences. What's good for Lubbock should be good for Slaton, in fact all agree on a better system of roads. We are but wasting time, energy and money in defeating what we all need and want. Let us all pray for our enemies and rid ourselves of selfishness and the battle is won. Good counties make good towns, but no county or town is better than its people. I venture the assertion there is not another town in Texas of the importance of Lubbock with no paved highways. Let us pull together and vote for the greatest good to greatest number.

Very truly,
S. W. RHODES,
1808 Avenue J.

Orchid

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

ASHTORETH ASHE is spending an exciting evening with Hollis Hart in a little house on the top of a mountain that towers above a tiny island in the Caribbean Sea. A most romantic spot.

Ashtoreth is a stenographer. Mr. Hart is her employer. Rich beyond her wildest dreams and handsome. Considerable older—but then—a girl can't have everything.

Ashtoreth, who has been ill, is taking a West Indies cruise. She meets Hart quite by accident in Dominica, and proceeds to make the most of it.

Her trip so far has been most adventurous. MONA DE MUSSET, a fascinating woman with whom she roomed, died at sea. JACK SMYTHE, an Englishman, made love to her. And all the women aboard snubbed her outrageously.

Ashtoreth caps the climax by purposely missing the boat, and going with Hollis Hart to his little house on the mountains. She pretends of course, that it was an accident. And Mr. Hart seems not to suspect her little ruse.

They have been sitting on the gallery for hours, exchanging confidences.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

"Two lumps, Holly?"

Ashtoreth sat at the breakfast table and tried to sound wifely. She was wearing Hollis' pajamas and looking her best.

Now, women, en masse, are not built for pajamas, any more than men are built for nightgowns, But Ashtoreth was one of those tall, slim girls, with long legs. Lean from knee to hip. And that, of course, makes a difference. As a matter of fact, she never looked better in her life.

They were orchid satin pajamas, With a military neck, and a Russian sash.

Over them she wore a silk dressing gown of Roman striped effect.

Behind each ear she had pinned a scarlet hibiscus, red as her laughing lips.

Her own clothes were drying on the bushes. And Ashtoreth was wishing it would rain, so that she could wear the pajamas all day.

"A week tomorrow," remarked Hollis, and salted his paw paw apathetically. "The boat is coming in early, Orchid."

For six days these two lived in the little house on the top of the mountain. And every day the sun had shone. And every night the stars had twinkled and bathed the garden in silver light.

"And now," he said, "you are going away."

Ashtoreth bent her head above her plate. And wondered what a girl should do in such a situation. Hollis Hart loved her. That is, he was crazy about her. She knew that it had been awfully difficult for him—being so dreadfully respectful.

And she loved him . . . Or was it love? Well, it didn't really matter. He had money to burn. And he was sweet, and wonderfully deferential. And generous as could be. After all, what else is there? It wasn't even as if he wasn't good looking. Why Hollis Hart had simply everything! . . . A girl would be an awful fool if she couldn't love a man like him.

Ashtoreth's experiences had been rather limited. A certain fastidousness had saved her from the promiscuous petting in which many girls indulge. But Monty had kissed her with a considerable degree of warmth and longing. And Jack Smythe had voiced his desires in no uncertain terms. There were, also, other men. They had not particularly impressed Ashtoreth.

Beautiful girls are usually sophisticated. Unless, of course, they are dumb. Aside from her own experiences, Ashtoreth's knowledge of the affairs of other girls—notably Sadie—had tended to acquaint her with the ways and thoughts of men.

For six days she and Hollis Hart had lived in a glamorous paradise. Her presence had stimulated and excited him. So that he had kissed her and made love. But further than that he had not gone . . . And tomorrow she was going home.

They were alone now in the dining room. Beyond the long windows lay the garden. Humming birds fluttered about the butterfly bushes. And a wanton little breeze that had dallied among the lilies and stolen their fragrance came stealing through the room.

Hollis put his hand on Ashtoreth's . . . "Have you been happy?" he asked her.

And in his voice there was a hunger and a questing that made her heart rejoice.

"So happy," she said.

"Will you miss me?" he asked her.

She knew then what it was he would ask next—when she slipped her hand in his .

"Oh, I'll miss you fearfully," she told him. And pried her fingers beneath his, and let them rest against his hot, hard palm. And they were soft and cool and lovely.

"Do you love me," he whispered . . . "just a little, Orchid?"

"Mm-mm," she murmured, so like a little frightened thing, that he had to lean to hear.

They were quiet for a minute And a mountain whistler, through the stillness, called his mate.

"Do you," she asked, "love me . . . a little?"

Beneath her breath she asked it, with her chin on her shoulder, and her dark hair against his mouth So that his lips caressed the red flower she had pinned behind her ear.

"Oh, my dear," he cried. "My dear."

A servant, padding softly on bare feet, came and filled their coffee cups. They ate in silence, tasting their food and pushing the plates away.

"Come," he said, and drew her to her feet. "It is glorious in the garden now."

They wandered through a crumbling wall to a giant tree whose hollow trunk was cushioned with moss. Above their heads a cluster of orchids grew from a bough within their reach.

"This tree," he told her, "is the father of all trees. See, there is room enough within its trunk for two to sit and love."

He put his arm about her shoulders, and they passed into the gaunt embrace of the great tree. Gray moss, like the beards of patriarchs, hung from its branches and swayed in the breeze.

"It's like a Druid," whispered Ashtoreth, and pressed against him.

He held her closely and ran his hand across her shoulders, in their satin jacket.

"Give me your lips," he whispered. "Just once."

And when he had kissed her he held her away, with his fingers gripping her arms so tightly that she winched.

"That is all I want," he said.

His voice was stern, as if he were trying to convince himself that it was the truth. He even repeated it. And his mouth tightened at the corners.

"That is all I want, Orchid. Only your lips, dear. Your lips—just once."

Ashtoreth's heart was beating madly. Throbbing in the hollow of her throat, where Monty used to press his kisses. Her eyes were wide and frightened. But she smiled with her red lips. And was, at once, filled with fear and rejoicing.

Because she knew that Hollis Hart lied with his twisting, hungry mouth.

"Go put some clothes on!" he told her harshly. His voice was very rough. But that was because he was trying to keep it even.

She smiled again. And brushed his cheek with her lips.

"Once more," she whispered.

She put her arms about his neck and drew his mouth to hers.

His breath was hot on her face, And his blue eyes were flashing like Mona's He bent fiercely and fastened his lips on hers. And she felt his teeth, hard and cruel.

She tried, impotently, to shake her head. He hurt, when he kissed like that. As she struggled he drew away.

"I never meant to kiss you like that," he told her. "For days I've been steeling myself against this . . . "

"Why?" she asked.

He ground his heel into the soft ground. And put his feet apart and his hands in his pockets.

"Why?" she repeated innocently.

"My God!" he exclaimed. "Don't you know why?"

She shook her head helplessly. A strange breathlessness welled within her, filling her body and her throat, so that her breath came in little strangled gasps.

He looked at her steadily, until her face crimsoned, and she dropped her eyes.

"You know why," he said.

"Yes," she whispered.

"Then please," he besought her, 'go get dressed."

She laughed like a naughty child.

"I haven't any clothes," she reminded him. "They're hanging on a hickory limb, or something. Hortense said so."

Hortense was a big, ebony laundress. Ashtoreth left her clothes each night on the floor as she stepped out of them. Some time before she woke. Hortense, washed and ironed them. But this morning there was a shower, and Hortense had explained that little Missy must wait. Ashtoreth had no other clothes, and wore Hollis' pajamas and dressing gown through necessity.

"I'll put on your raincoat," she offered. "if this boudoir scenery bothers you."

"You'd better," he told her grimly. "Saint Anthony himself couldn't look at you in that outfit."

She secured her hibiscus firmly in the great coils of heavy hair that hugged her ears. And wound the silk gown about her hips.

Hollis appraised her critically. "If Mr. Ziegfeld could see you

Today's Poem

THE VIOLET

Down in a green and shady bed
A modest violet grew;
It's stalk was ben, it hung its head,
As if to hide from view.

And yet it was a lovely flower,
It's colors bright and fair;
It might have graced a rosy bower,
Instead of hiding there.

Yet there it was content to bloom,
In modest tints arrayed;
And there diffused a sweet perfume,
Within the silent shade.

Then let me to the valley go,
This pretty flower to see;
That I may also learn to grow
In sweet humility.

now," he informed her. "there'd be a pajama brigade in the Follies. Tall, slim girls, with red flowers behind their ears."

She laughed delightedly.

"I always wanted to go on the stage," she confessed. "I suppose every girl does. I read a story once about a famous Follies queen, you know. It said that she was quite a poor girl who lived in Boston. She was a bride and her husband wanted to have a picture of her in her wedding gown. But she was such a thrifty little thing she wouldn't let him spend the money. She said they'd buy some linoleum for the kitchen, or some curtains for the bedroom, instead. But he coaxed her to a studio, and when she heard him tell the photographer that they wanted the very cheapest picture they could get, she consented to have one taken.

"But when she wasn't listening her husband told the man to finish a great big beautiful one. And it was such a perfectly lovely picture that the photographer asked her husband's permission to submit it in some beauty contest. Helen almost had a fit because it cost so much money. She didn't feel any better when they told her she had won first prize either, because she was so furious with her husband for being extravagrant. You see, she was absolutely crazy about him and she didn't care a bit about being famous, or a beauty, or anything of the sort."

"But her husband was so proud that he persuaded her to go to New York to accept the prize. He took her to the station and kissed her goodby. And promised to water the plants and feed the cat, and everything.

"And then, all of a sudden, Mr. Ziegfeld, or someone, saw Helen. And they offered her a great big contract. And everybody started calling her the most beautiful girl in the world. . . . ."

"And that, I suppose," Interrupted Hollis, "was the end of the poor, adoring husband."

"I guess it was," agreed Ashtoreth. "But what I started to say was—wasn't it just like a fairy tale? It was too bad, of course—walking out on a loving husband, but just the same . . . "

Hollis interrupted. "Imagine having a worshiped wife and losing her—to be glorified for all the other men in the world. Now if I should marry a beautiful girl—and another man admired her worshiped charms—do you know what I'd do?"

Ashtoreth laughed.

"No," she said. "What would you do."

"Well," . . . Hollis surveyed her appraisingly. Sunbeams played in her blue-black hair, making it glisten like a bird's sleek wing. She kept his dressing gown swathed about her lips, but the broad lapels had fallen back. And the soft curves of her lovely body showed tantalizingly through the soft satin of her pajama jacket.

(To Be Continued.)

Hollis Hart, in the next chapter, proves to be a thrilling lover . . . and Ashtoreth is deliberately provocative. Whatever happens, it's her own fault.

Declines In New York Recovered In Late Trading

Larger Ginning Figures Than Expected Send Cotton Prices Down; Rise Is Made Before Close

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. — (AP) — Larger ginning figures than expected were followed by considerable selling and liquidation of old long accounts in the cotton market today. The bulk of the declines were recovered in the late trading. March contracts, after selling at $19.89, rallied to 20.10 and closed at 20.08 compared with 20.15 at the close of yesterday. The general market closed firm, net 7 points lower to 2 points higher.

The market opened easy at a decline of 8 to 19 points under selling brought in by relatively easy liverpool cables and the report of the census bureau showing 13,891,857 bales ginned prior to Jan. 16. These figures apparently were a disappointment to holders of contracts, running about 200,000 bales above recent private estimates. The selling movement became active and general as prices worked lower. Some stop orders were uncovered on the decline and while trade buying was in evidence on a scale down from the 20-cent level, the decline extended to 19.90 for January and 19.53 for July. At these prices old crop positions showed net losses of about 25 to 27 points while the new crop sold 22 to 23 points net lower. The volume of offerings tapered off at these figures, however, and the market was less active with the tone steadier during the afternoon.

The buying by trade interests on the early declines seemed to have improved its technical position and there was covering or rebuying by some of the early sellers on the rallies which followed.

January advinced to 20.13 and July to 19.76 in the late trading, or within 2 to 5 points of yesterday's closing quotations. The close was within a point or two of the best.

There appeared to be difference of opinion on interpretation of the ginning figures. Some traders said they were about in line with the government's estimate of the crop. Others thought they tended to eliminate all crop ideas of below the government's estimate and that if a thing they pointed to a slightly larger outturn. Still another view was that any difference between final.

Ginning figures and the crop estimate was not likely to be sufficient to have much if any distant influence on values. Exports today, 12,760 bales, making, 5,444,120 for this season.

Port receipts, 22,642. U. S. port stocks, 2,261,425.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 23.—(AP)—(U. S.D.A.)—Sharply higher prices prevailed in the hog prices today with values from 25@50c higher than Tuesday's best prices; shippers were moderate buyers, but the big packers seemed anxious for fresh supplies and were active competitors amongst themselves; the extreme top of $9.90 was scored late in the day at Chicago while best offerings at Kansas City and St. Louis brought $9.80, these prices are the highest since the middle of October; total receipts were 96,000, against 113,064 a week ago and 129,997 a year ago.

Fat lamb values held at generally steady levels although some strength was reported at the Kansas City market; choice fed lambs went to shippers at $16.85 at Kansas City while the extreme top at Chicago reached $17.40; sheep prices were mostly steady at all points; offerings totaled 47,600 as compared with 46,226 last Wednesday and 47,301 a year ago.

More life was noticeable in the fed steers and yearling trade and values ruled steady to strong with some sales slightly higher at Chicago; short fed arrivals sold largely from 11.00@13.00 with best up to $14.00 at Chicago; most classes of the stock sold steady; stockers and feeders were scarce at all markets with prices unchanged; receipts totalled 90,900 as compared with 37,873 a week ago and 37,754 a year ago.

Oil Notes

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Deals were being completed today for two new tests in the South Oklahoma City area both to be drilled by Booker and Beaver. One is to be on a forty acre tract in NW-23-11-3W, and the other on a 15 acre tract in NW-15-11-3W. Exact locations are to be announced later.

TULSA—J. V. Bailey, Cushing operator, has assembled a block of 15,000 acres of wildcat leases near Mustang in Cleveland county, Central Oklahoma, and will drill a test to a depth of 6,500 feet. Location has been staked on the Robinson farm at CNE-NW-1-10-6W.

HOBBS, N. M., Jan. 23—Boilers for the new Ohio test passed through here Sunday enroute to the company's location just south of the city. All other equipment, including engine, rig, etc., was moved to the field some weeks ago.

Rig for the Midwest No. 2 has been completed and the well will be spudded in at an early date.

Two new locations have been made during the past week—one by an independent operator.

HOBBS, N. M., Jan. 23—Cold weather has retarded work in the Hobbs field during the past week. In some instances, operations have ceased though temporarily and with the coming of warm weather work will be resumed.

At this time it appears that the Hobbs area will be given a thorough test during the coming year.

A deal whereby $14,400 was the price for a five year lease on the building at the corner of Eight street and Hutchinson Avenue in Ballinger was paid recently by G. A. Ladig. Mr. Ladig intends to make big improcements in the inside of the building.

A contract has been let for the building in Coleman of a 50 by 120 foot brick building to house the Whippet-Willys-Knight agency under the direction of W. A. Forgey. A fifty foot space next to this building will be used by Mr. Forgey also.

Ginnings Report Influences Drop In Cotton Prices

Market Eases Off $1.50 Per Bale But Recovers $1 In Later Buying; March Is Closed at 19.44

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23. (AP).—The cotton market eased off practically $1.50 a bale today following issuance of the Census Bureau's ginning total which was larger than expected but a good trade and outside demand developed in afternoon trading and fully a dollar a bale of the loss was recovered. March contracts sold down to 19.25 then rallied to 19.45 and closed one point under the latter figure for a net loss of 12 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 7 to 14 points.

Liverpool cables were slightly lower than due at the start here but as the census figure showing 13,891,857 running bales ginned prior to January 16, was larger than expected first trades here showed losses of 24 to 26 points. Prices continued downward after the start under rather aggressive selling and although offerings were absorbed at one time on realizing by satisfied shorts and prices rallied 8 to 14 points, January eventually eased off to 19.19, March 19.25 and May 19.26 or 30 to 31 points net down.

Near noon the market turned quiet and ruled within the early range but always near the lows until near the close there was considerable trade and outside buying as well as covering by shorts and before the demand was supplied January recovered to 19.37, March 19.45 and May 19.47, or 18 to 21 points up from the lows of the morning. Final prices were one point under the top on active positions with January showing the maximum loss of 14 points.

Receipts, 22,642; for week, 123,364; for year, 7,723,638; last year, 4,537,225. Stocks, 2,320,422; last year, 2,402,269. Stock on shipboard, 122,214; last year, 107,938. Spot sales, 23,111; last year, 21,576.

Further Shipments Of English Gold Inspires Buying

Bull Campaign Continues In Stock Market; Wide Assortment of Shares Figure In Liquidation

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—A powerful bull campaign inspired by further taking of gold from London ran into rather heavy liquidation on the stock market today. Although a wide assortment of issues reached new high ground, the general list made only moderate headway.

While the inveterate bulls were inclined to make the most of the resumed inflow of British gold. Totalling $7,500,000 with today's taking of $5,000,000, opinion as to the probable volume of the movement varied sharply. With tomorrow's federal reserve brokers' loan total generally expected to reach a new high record, there was a fairly widespread disposition to take profits.

The selling was readily absorbed, however, and nervousness over the brokerage loan announcement was less marked than in recent weeks. banks have been paying off their loans at the reserve institutions, and any plan for a higher rediscount rate is regarded as highly unlikely especially as it might encourage the gold movement from London.

The prospects of a heavy inflow of gold were regarded as less bright, with the announcement that Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, sailed for New York today, presumably to confer with the federal reserve authorities.

Call money held at 6 per cent. but the tone was somewhat firmer than yesterday. Time money held firmly at its abnormally high rates. Call money a year ago was as low as 3 per cent.

The day's news included an unusually cheerful weekly review of the steel industry by "Iron Age", which pointed to higher steel scrap prices and keen demand for finished steel as the important features of the steel market this week. Copper was advanced to 17 cents a pound, domestic, and still higher prices were talked of. News from the oil industry was less favorable, with an advance in crude production to record levels, with easing gasoline prices. A stock exchange seat sold for a new record price at $625,000, and the exchange announced expansion of its telephone quotation facilities.

Utilities were prominent in the day's advances, the Associated Press index of 20 of this group advancing more than 2 points to a new high. The indexes for 50 industrials and 20 rails also were carried to new high levels, in gains of around a point.

Oils generally were heavy, shell transport losing nearly 3 points and Marlin and Standard of New York about a point. Rio Grande, however, was strong, jumping more than 4 points. Baldwin locomotive sold down 8 points, while American Radiator, Best and Co., Goodrich and National Biscuit receded about 2 points each.

FT. WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Jan. 23. (AP)—Buyers got the advance of the price revisions in the cattle yeards here today, while sales men profited in the change on the hog sales. The cattle supply was under the number listed for the same day last week or for the corresponding day last year, but more calves were on hand.

Trade in steers slow, very few early sales, with buyers bids about a quarter lower on the better class of steers. The common steers about steady. Early sales included cars at $9.50, $9.65 and $11.50. About ten or twelve loads on hand.

The supply of bulls light. One load of range bulls sold at $7.90, common kind sold around $6.50. Values steady.

The supply of cows light and consisted mostly of mixed lots, packing
