

Ramblin Round

By BERT WEST

We don't know whether the Bogata Lions will dare try to stage another of those marathon women's softball tournaments next year or not, but the one they came up with in their first effort last week--especially the Saturday phase was not only a test of endurance for the gals, but also for the Lions and their helpers.

After three games on Thursday and another two on Friday, the marathon session of the tourney set in Saturday. From 8 a.m. Saturday until the Blossom team finally collapsed around the championship trophy about 5:30 a.m. Sunday, the tourney wheeled off 16 back-to-back, no rest, games.

Charlie's Angels from Caddo Mills was judged the team with the best sportsmanship, but all of the teams who made it through the Saturday phase deserve some type of award. The luck of the draw had the Johntown girls playing five games in the Saturday-Sunday marathon the last two from about 3 a.m. until 5:30 a.m. Sunday before settling for runner-up honors.

While the gals did the playing all day and all night, Lions Club president John Hood says there were a bunch of men due special thanks for their work with the games and most everything else that was required to keep the tourney going.

"They were out there in the hot sun and stayed around all night until the games ended at 5:30 a.m. Sunday," says the head Lion.

"All they asked for was for the Lions Club to donate $10 for each game to the Little League," Hood adds. "The Lions were happy to meet their request and we will also see that the Little League has a better playing field for next season."

The men that Hood wants to salute for their help are Kenneth Duffer, James Jordan, Daryl Cabell, Eddie Brown, Charlie Hines, Johnny Brown, Larry Hinsley, Stanley Walesiak, Jimmy Smith, Donald Warren, Monk Sessums and Danny Smith.

We want to add our own thanks to the Bogata News' Linda Tabb who crawled out of bed sometime around 3 a.m. to be on the scene with her picture-taking device when the champions were finally trophied--and she's not even a Lion.

LETTER FROM TEAGUE: Our recent search to get to the starting point of The Talco Times produced the following letter, received last week, from David Teague of Austin:

"I enjoyed the letter from Mrs. Francis Whitmire of Nacogdoches in the July 1 edition of your column. My family also moved to Talco in 1936. I went to school with the Whitmire girls, Gayle and Joyce.

"As a result of her letter, you are trying to determine whether the paper is in its 42nd year as reflected on the front page, or whether it might be older.

"In checking with the Secretary of State here in Austin, I was told that the Corporate Charter was issued Feb. 28, 1938. No doubt that would also be about the beginning of its publication, 44 years ago.

"I am a genealogy buff and have some information your Deport area readers should find interesting. I will give this to you within a few days.

"Yours truly, David Teague, 4429 Eck Lane, Austin, Texas."

GOTTA BE RIGHT....Texans would call them Aggies; people around St. Louis would call them Hoosiers or Polaks. Nevertheless, Zeke and Zeb bumped into one another in town and were talking away when Zeb said he had to go home and dig a post hole, so he left.

A little later Zeke, who lived on down the road past Zeb's place, also started home but decided to stop and see how Zeb was doing with his post hole. He found his friend had dug two holes and was working on a third with his digger.

"I thought you said you only had to dig one post hole," said Zeke.

"That's right," replied Zeb, "but those two weren't deep enough."

Uncle Link Sez:

"It's really not the doctors or nurses or hospitals that are the problem. It's the side effects--such as bankruptcy."

In Sales Tax Revenue....

Top Gains By Talco, Bogata

Rebates of the one-cent sales tax to the city coffers of Bogata and Talco continue ahead of last year, with Talco one of only two Titus County towns showing an increase over the same period of a year ago.

Between them, Bogata and Talco have received $33,808.83 in reimbursement of the penny tax through the first seven months of 1982. This is an increase of more than $8,900 over the $24,835.63 the two cities had received through the same part of the year in 1981.

Talco's check for the period ending July 7 totaled $1,869.04, boosting the total for the year to $23,327.31. That's an increase of 51.4 percent over the rebates for the first seven months of a year ago, the best percentage of increase in Titus County. Mt. Pleasant is up 24.6 percent, but Winfield, Monticello and Millers Cove are running behind last year.

Bogata's July check totaled $620.64. This gives Bogata a total of $10,481.52 it has received in sales tax revenue through the July 7 period, an increase of 11.1 percent over the $9,427.80 Bogata had received through July of a year ago.

All Red River County towns are running ahead of last year, with the exception of Avery, which is down 47.9 percent. Annona is a whopping 155.8 percent ahead of last year. Clarksville is a healthy 83.4 percent better than last year in its sales tax revenue, having received $95,785.91 through the July 7 period, as compared to (See TAX, Page 6)

Church Records Offer Valuable Data

Genealogy Begins With U

By Michael Cunningham

There are normally three major events in a person's life (birth, marriage and death). All three events also play an important part of a person's religious life. Since churches were normally founded at or near the very beginning of a town's settlement, church records play an important role in genealogical research.

Birth records may be found in baptism records, blessings, or other similar religious practices. These records will usually state the date on this event, date of birth, child or person's name and names or parents, relatives or sponsors.

By following up on these leads, their records furnish unlimited opportunity for further research.

If you find a person's baptism record at a church, write to see if they have any records for their parents, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts and grandparents.

Marriage records are often found in the records of a church. This record will normally give you the maiden name of the wife, the age of the bride and groom and it may also give you the name of the parents.

Although death records may include information such as birth, marriage and death dates, it may be more valuable for information on the name of the next of kin, children of deceased, brothers or sisters and the parents. Because throughout their history churches have been taking care of cemeteries, these cemetery records will also be very important.

In the case of genealogical research, persistency pays off. One fact or date revealed today becomes the clue for the next fact or date tomorrow.

Please remember, when writing a church or any other place for information, be specific. Ask for information on one person or his family at a time. Always begin your research of church records at the local church your relatives attended.

If you have any questions about any genealogical problem, write me in care of your newspaper office and I will answer you. Next week we discuss the seventh genealogical principle - The Newspaper.

Blossom Girls Win Bogata Tourney

It may have been about 5 a.m. Sunday and they had just finished playing two softball games since 2 a.m., but the Blossom Warriors were still able to smile as they accepted the championship trophy in the Bogata Lions Club-sponsored women's slow pitch softball tournament from Lions Club president John W. Hood. The Blossom girls had to defeat Joliet twice in back-to-back early Sunday games in order to win the double elimination tournament. Joliet finished second, with the Flying Queens of Mt.

Pleasant third and the sportsmanship trophy went to Charlie's Angels of Caddo Mills. A total of 11 teams competed in the three-day, 21-game tourney. (STAFF PHOTO BY LINDA TABB)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Nanalee:

Thanks to Ruth Pearson Garrett I'm again enjoying reading of the folks we've known in Deport.

I didn't know that George Grant had died, and I'm sure there are many others I have missed. There is just nothing to equal a small town newspaper, all the details about people-weddings, socials, etc. that are no longer in our daily papers. I am glad to be a member of a small congregation church more like family.

The Deport Times is only three years older than I, (and it doesn't seem possible that I am almost the age of my father when he died). I find myself turning first to your "Nichols Worth", and before that "The Way We Were". I read all the Letters to Santa Claus at Christmas.

Thank you for the Deport Times!

Myrtle Evelyn Russell

Dear Sirs:

We sure enjoy our new Bogata News. The idea of different ones' birthdays and anniversaries is great. Enjoy knowing about them. I've been meaning to mail our list for a few weeks and have put it off. Pretty sure some others are guilty of the same. Thank you again.

R. W. Sanford

Buried Friday

Funeral services for Robert W. "Red" Sanford Sr., age 69, of Talco, were held Friday, July 16 at Bates-Cooper-Weems Chapel in Mount Pleasant.

Mr. John David Wright was the officiating minister. Interment followed at Gladewater Community Cemetery.

Sanford was born July 14, 1913 at Lone Oak, Tx., and died Wednesday, July 14 on his farm at Mount Pleasant.

He is survived by his widow, Juarene of Talco; one son, R.W. Sanford, Jr. of Houston; two granddaughters, Martie Sanford of Temple and Teri Sanford of Houston; one grandson, Kenny Sanford of Houston; two sisters, Mrs. Christine Allen of Harlingen, Tx., and Mrs. Juanita Williams of Mount Pleasant.

AUTO TIPS

Checking Treadwear

A tire's ability to hold the road decreases as the tire's tread wears down. When the depth of a tire's groove is one-16th of an inch or less, lateral wear bars appear across the grain of the tread.

A tire that reaches this point is potentially hazardous, particularly on wet pavement, and should be replaced, according to Bill Woehle, manager of industry standards for Uniroyal Tire Company.

The tread depth of a tire can be easily measured with a ruler, or with a Lincoln-head penny, he says. If a ruler is not available, insert the penny with Lincoln's head down; if you can see all of Lincoln's head, the tread is less than one-16th of an inch and the tire needs to be replaced.

you and the LAW

PRESENTED BY THE STATE BAR OF TEXAS

Q: The Warranty Deed on our home shows only my husband's name. If he should die before I do, would I automatically receive our home and land?

A: A home bought during marriage is presumed to be community property. It belongs equally to you both, even though your name is not on record.

At his death, your husband's one-half will pass to his children equally. You would retain your one-half and would have the widow's right to occupy the home for your lifetime.

Your husband can leave you his half in his Will. Also, if he has no children, you would inherit all his community property, even without a Will.

Q: I didn't think it would happen to me but it has. My husband of 30 years has walked out on me. I have two daughters still in need of some financial support. My husband has a good job and receives a VA check, but he says the only money I'm entitled to is one-half of what we get when we sell the house. I hope this is not true. Please tell me what may happen on divorce.

A: V.A. disability benefits are not community property and will not be available to you on divorce. You will, of course, seek child support if your daughters are still minors. You may not need to sell the house. In addition to the equity, you also have a claim to half the family's investments, savings and insurance and to half your husband's job benefits,

Q: I am a widow. I have a number of bonds, savings, and a large checking account that I hold jointly with my daughter. When I die, would it be better for my daughter to receive these accounts outright, or to inherit under my Will?

A: The joint tenancy with right of survivorship that you describe will pass your share of the accounts to your daughter if you have signed the correct papers. Simply naming your daughter on the account does not create a survivorship account. Whether the money should pass this way or as directed in your Will can be determined by your lawyer. Your estate will need some cash: how much can be estimated and planned for at the time of will-writing.

Q: Where two one-way streets intersect and the cross street moves from left to right is it legal for both the right hand lanes to make a right turn on red after stopping?

A: No. Only the far right lane is permitted to make a right turn on red after coming to a full stop. Even that is regulated by signs or arrows at the intersection. If a right on red is permitted, it will never include both right hand lanes.

Send your questions to "You and the Law," State Bar of Texas, P.O. Box 12487, Austin, 78711. Answers may appear in columns in hypothetical terms; personal answers not possible.

CUPBOARD DESK

The furniture pictured is most often called a secretary, but others refer to it as a cupboard desk. This designation sets it aside from those which are much taller, often with a fourth drawer and glass or solid doors in front of three or more shelves. The turned legs are Sheraton inspired, early 19th century, but we know this form was made as late as the 1850s. Most will be found with pine bodies covered with mahogany veneer, if made after about 1830. In Northern New England, they appear in this period with birch or maple bodies, and possibly mahogany veneer on the drawers. Basically, they were an inexpensive desk, made with woods native to the area where the cabinetmakers lived. However, the years between about 1830 and 1850 witnessed a rise in interest in mahogany furniture. Much in Empire and Victorian style was made from it. Since the wood was expensive in rural areas, cabinetmakers resorted to use of the readily available veneer. The molding around the top is very Empire styled and in keeping with the 1830-50 period. The heavy legs would identify this as New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania in origin - its proportions add to the feeling that it is not New England.

The glass doors are uninspired as they are simple rectangular panes, rather than the Gothic arch and often pieced work which are much more graceful. The Chippendale wing brasses with bale handles are strictly out of place on this desk as they belong on furniture of a century before. We are happy to see that all four legs are alike as this is paramount in furniture. One can be amazed at how much early furniture features legs in the rear different from those in the front.

Authorization was given by the board to requests that the Community Education Program be made a full time unit rather than the half-time unit as operated during the 1981-82 school year. Due to the reported success of the Community Education Program the T-B school district is being encouraged by the Texas Education Agency to apply for the full time unit.

Authorization was also given to the purchase of four or five IBM typewriters for the Commercial Department and the expansion of the trophy cases at Rivercrest. No cost figures were listed.

The superintendent briefly reviewed the 1982-83 school budget with the comment that the budget process is being delayed due to the lack of completion of the appraisal work in the counties of the school district.

Getting Ready For Fall Gardening

By CHRIS BULL
County Agent
Red River County

A fall garden often produces better quality and higher yielding vegetables than a spring-summer garden.

Cooler weather means a longer harvest period for many vegetables. Lettuce and leafy greens are sweeter and more tender. Lettuce, collards, spinach, broccoli, Brussels sprouts and Swiss chard will continue to grow to be a part of your Thanksgiving and maybe even Christmas feast.

A fall garden requires careful planning. Planting must be timed to allow frost-sensitive vegetables to mature and be harvested before frost. Those which will tolerate frost can be planted for harvesting to continue after the first fall frost.

Vegetables adapted to fall gardens can be divided into four groups by their tolerance of freezing temperature.

Some warm-season vegetables adapted to fall gardens—but killed by frost—are snap beans, southern peas, summer squash, winter squash, cucumbers, sweet corn and early maturing pepper and tomato varieties.

The second group includes cool-season crops usually damaged by light frost when mature, such as lettuce, cauliflower, kohlrabi, celery, cabbage and broccoli.

The third group contains those which are moderately tolerant of repeated light frosts: carrots, parsnip, beets, Brussels sprouts, leaf lettuce, endive, radishes, rutabagas and turnips.

Members of the fourth group, which tolerate night after night of freezing and have even survived a mild winter, include bulb onions, green onions, chives, garlic, leeks, multiplier onions, shallots, spinach, parsley, collards, kale and Buttercrunch and Romaine varieties of lettuce.

Seed of snap beans, baby lima beans, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, collards, chard, sweet corn, cucumbers and summer squash planted in mid-summer will produce crops ready for harvest before the first fall frost.

Beets, kohlrabi, leaf lettuce and spinach seed-planted in late summer will likewise provide abundant fall harvests. Mustard greens, radishes and turnips planted in early to mid-September will make it to the table in October and November.

Gardeners have several choices for starting their fall gardens. Summer vegetable seedlings require constant attention. Sowing seed in the garden in summer is one choice but will require repeated irrigation and careful attention to pest control.

A third choice to help fall gardeners is to buy transplants of these vegetables at local nurseries to set in the garden at the right time.

Additional information on timing of fall garden plantings and recommended varieties can be obtained from the Extension bulletin, "Growing Fall Vegetables and Annuals in Texas," available at the County Extension office.
