9 KILLED AND 35 INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

2 PASSENGERS CRASH OUTSIDE OF BETHLEHEM

Wrecking Crews Are Cutting Into Cars With Acetylene Gas

By United Press.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 27.—A Jersey Central train smashed into a limited on the Lehigh Valley at a crossing here today, pinning passengers of the Lehigh Valley train in the wreckage of the coaches.

Three hours after the wreck it was announced that seven persons were killed and more than 30 injured. Several passengers were imprisoned in the wreckage. Twelve of the injured were reported in a serious condition.

Wrecking crews were cutting into the overturned coaches, with acetylene gas torches, and until the cars have been opened the exact toll will not be known.

Railroad officials said the dead may reach as high as 10. Twenty-eight injured were taken to the hospital here and in Allentown.

Late reports are to the effect that the death list will reach nine and the injured list 35.

Five of the dead were identified this morning.

The wreck occurred just outside of the Bethlehem union station at 5:45 a. m., when a Buffalo express of the Lehigh Valley was struck by the Scranton flyer of the Central railroad of New Jersey. The two lines cross near the station.

RESCUERS RUSH WORK TO SAVE MEN

By United Press.

IRONWOOD, Mich., Sept. 27.—Rescue workers still held hopes early today that the 43 miners trapped for two days and three nights 700 feet below the surface of the earth in the G. Pabst iron mine near here were alive, though attempts to establish communications with the men have failed.

Mine officials declared there is no gas in the mine and that the eighth level, where the men are entombed, is well supplied with air.

Exposure, thirst and hunger, however, undoubtedly are ravaging the trapped workers, if they are alive.

Three separate shafts are being forced through the ground toward the 500-foot level where the men are imprisoned, and a diamond drill is sinking a small hole through which concentrated feed may be lowered.

Officials of the mining company told the United Press that they believed the men would be reached by tonight. Whether the men are alive is uncertain.

CONSPIRACY TO DEFEAT JUSTICE IS THE CHARGE

By United Press.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27.—In the somber setting of a tiny courtroom patrolled by more guards than spectators, Aimee Semple McPherson, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, went on trial today on charges of conspiracy to defeat justice.

Dressed in modest gowns of black and white, the picturesque pastor of Angelus Temple and the buxom manager of the Four-Square gospel, walked quietly into the court shortly before 10 a. m.

Hundreds of her followers and many others, denied admittance, formed a mob outside the hall of justice after the proceedings began.

There was no demonstration to hail the arrival of the evangelist, that marked her appearance before the grand jury last July when she told her story of kidnapping, which is claimed now as a fabrication. At that time, Mrs. McPherson was surrounded by a temple bodyguard and trailed by her followers, singing hymns of praise to their leader.

The little courtroom, presided over by Judge Samuel Blake, was literally filled with newspapermen and special guards. The spectators were barred.

The evangelist and her mother walked majestically into the background, looking toward the right, and took seats at the counsel table. Both were pale and deep lines on the evangelist's countenance showed the emotional strain she was undergoing.

The witnesses stared at the woman preacher, but she appeared not to notice them.

MEXICAN RANGERS ON TRAIL

By United Press.

DEL RIO, Sept. 27.—Mexican rangers were reported today close on the trail of Albert W. Bonds, wanted in Bell county on charges of murdering Wiley Fisher, Temple's chief of police. Andrew Garza, chief of the Mexican rangers, declared Bonds' capture was expected momentarily.

Bonds shot and killed Wiley Fisher while in attendance on a funeral of a prominent man at Temple. Fisher's wife saw the killing which resulted from Fisher's opposing Bonds in the primary. Bonds formerly was sheriff of Bell county.

Immediately after the shooting, Bonds drove off in his automobile and stopped a few blocks off to get a supply of gasoline. No trace of him could be found until last Saturday when it was announced that Bonds had crossed the border near Eagle Pass and was on a Mexican ranch.

The meeting will convene in connection with the Rannels county fair, the date scheduled for it being officially designated as West Texas Chamber of Commerce day. President Arthur P. ### Breaks Klan

The four-year reign of the Ku Klux Klan in Colorado state politics was broken at the recent primary when Senator Means, Klan candidate, was defeated, and to Clarence C. Hamlin (above), Colorado Springs publisher, goes the distinction of having led the anti-klan fight. His influence was too much for the ticket endorsed by Dr. John Galen Locke (below), Klan leader in the state.

WHAT TO CHARGE PATIENTS OPEN HOSPITAL MEET

By United Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 27.—With a discussion of moderating hospital rates to patients of middle class economic standing, occupying a prominent place on the program, the American Hospital Association opened its 28th annual convention here today.

Leading authorities in the hospital and medical world are scheduled to deliver addresses on the subject. They are expected to point out that at present the very poor have adequate hospital attention on a charity basis, and that the well-to-do can afford hospital charges but that those of moderate financial standing bear a disproportionate burden between these two extremes.

A conference of association officers, with section and committee chairmen, President A. C. Bachmeyer, M. D., presiding, followed by a novel clinic in which waste of time and materials, equipment/abuse, low personal morale and nurse paucity are diagnosed as ills, were on the program for today.

The association is the oldest and largest in the country, comprising hospitals of every creed, race and color willing to accept and uphold the principles the association exacts in protection of both patients and the community.

President-elect R. G. Brodrick, M. D., will open the clinic of which J. C. Doane, M. D., as chairman, is chief. The American Occupational Therapy Association, T. H. Kidner, president, the Children's Hospital association of America, Robert E. Neff, president, the Hospital Dietetic council, Rena S. Eckman, president, and the American Association of Hospital Social Workers, Mrs. Charles W. Webb, president, convened with the American Hospital Association.

The convention has arranged practically two hundred exhibits erected for educational purposes, contributing from scientific, purely educational, state and manufacturing sources to knowledge of what is most effective and efficient, time, labor, loss and money saving in promoting health through hospitals.

Considered of great public moment, especially in large cities, will be the out-patient session, during which speakers will show how the public health officer and the hospital are on common ground in preventing sickness, since the up-to-date hospital no longer distinguishes between preventive and curative medicine.

INVESTIGATORS TO HOLD FIRST MEETING TUESDAY TO PREPARE PROGRAM

NEW YORK NAMES CANDIDATES FOR ITS GOVERNOR

By United Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The republicans and democratic state conventions are being held today. The republicans met at Madison Square Garden, New York city, and the democrats held their convention at Syracuse, in the arena.

The democrats plan to renominate Governor Al Smith, he having signified that he would yield to the almost unanimous wish of the state democrats.

There are several candidates for the United States senatorial nomination to run against Senator James Wadsworth, who is certain to be renominated by the republicans. The most likely candidate seemed to be Justice Robert J. Wagner of Brooklyn.

In addition to renominating Wadsworth, the republican state convention was expected to nominate Congressman Ogden L. Mills of New York city for governor to make the race against Smith.

Probably the most debatable part of the program is the platform action to be taken by the two parties on prohibition.

Governor Smith is wet but so is Wadsworth on the republican side. Rural New York republicans are predominantly dry.

Many members of both parties favor letting the well known record of the candidates of both parties speak to the voters on the wet and dry issue and let the platform declarations take a back seat on the subject. However, the last minute wishes of state leaders and the candidates themselves will probably control the platform action in both conventions.

Both republicans and democrats are expected to conclude their deliberations tomorrow.

Man Compels His Sweetheart To Take His Life

By United Press.

SZOTYOND, Hungary.—Angered by obstacles to their marriage, Sandor Vatra, 20-year-old forester, compelled his 17-year-old sweetheart, Margit Nagy, to kill him.

Margit's parents objected to Vatra's suit for their daughter's hand and forbade her to see him. Vatra persuaded Margit to accompany him into the forest one day shortly thereafter.

As soon as they had reached the forest Vatra offered to teach his sweetheart how to shoot. Margit accepted the offer, and soon the woods were echoing her shots. Vatra stood near the muzzle of the gun and called "shoot" when the gun was in the proper position.

After she had somewhat mastered the art he ordered "shoot," jumping at the same instant before the muzzle. His action was so quick that Margit pulled the trigger before she realized his suicidal intention. Vatra was killed instantly.

Turkeys Valuable To Use Killing Cotton Leaf Worm

By United Press.

WILLS POINT, Sept. 27.—A. A. McIntosh, farmer residing near here, has discovered that turkeys may be utilized to an advantage in other ways than garbishing the table at Christmas time.

McIntosh has a farm north of Wills Point, five acres of which are infested with the leaf worm. In spite of the usual habits of the leaf worm to spread, McIntosh says that he has kept the worms confined to the small area by allowing a few of his neighbors turkeys to run in the patch.

"Just as soon as they are big enough to be seen the turkeys gobble them up. That's all there is to it. They simply do not have a chance to spread."

Certain Members Of Legislators Will Be The First Probed

By United Press.

AUSTIN, Sept. 27.—The initial meeting of the house committee of nine to investigate the state departments will be held tomorrow, Speaker Lee Satterwhite, chairman of the committee announced this morning.

The first work of the committee will be to investigate charges that certain legislators have appeared before the board of pardons in behalf of pardon applicants, and also practiced before the state highway commission. Efforts, it is said, is to be made to complete this phase of the investigation before the adjournment of the special legislature.

Investigation of the highway department, board of pardons and the text book commission contracts is not to start until after adjournment. The committee is to make its report to the fortieth legislature which convenes next January.

The Smith resolution seeking to urge Texas members of the national congress to work for the abandonment of the United States Department of Agriculture of its present system of reporting estimates of cotton crop met with strong opposition in the house this morning, and on a point of order went over without action account of the expiration of time for considering resolutions.

Representative Stanford of Rock county offered a substitute, that crop estimates by the government be made monthly instead of semi-monthly, and Representative McFarland of Young county opposed both resolution and substitute, declaring the present method of government reporting was fair to all. Interests, and history shows that the reports are practically correct.

Abandonment of the government crop reporting system would leave farmers at the mercy of speculators in New York, McFarland declared.

An amendment by Representative Paul of Dallas county, that the government make a report every six years was voted down.

The house highway committee which is considering a resolution to ask the state highway commission to confine its allotment to money now available announced that it probably will not resume hearings until the last of the week.

More Subjects
The submission of additional subjects to this session of the legislature makes it certain the present session will go the full thirty days, Satterwhite predicted.

Some members predicted that if the 3 cent gas tax was not re-enacted at this session, the governor would immediately reconvene the legislature in a second called session.

FROM THE BIBLE

He answereth and saith unto them. He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat let him do likewise.—Luke 3:11.

Prayer: O Lord, show us Thy way and train us in Thy paths so that we may do Thy will. Bless us that we may divide what we have with the less fortunate.

DRUG STORE COWBOYS.

Every town of any size in the country is troubled with the corner drug store cowboy pest. He is usually a young fellow in his teens and when not in school may be found around some prominent corner in the town ogling the girls, making remarks about women as they pass and making life miserable to the auto driver, especially women. He usually wears a cap, and tries very much to have the appearance of a rah-rah boy.

He usually jumps out in front of cars driven by women so they will apply the emergency brake and have the car just behind them bump into them and throw a scare into the women. He is a pretty bright chap in a way, in that, he goes just far enough not to break any of the city's laws against the peace. Sometimes, they spit on cars driven by women. They are pests, and the kind that cause mother and father to wonder where their wandering boy is at night. Sometimes one of them accidentally says a thing that is overheard by the girl or woman's friend or husband, and when that occurs there is something to laugh.

Ranger and Eastland have them, with Ranger having a surplus. The police of both cities are getting tired of warning them about their doings, and unless it is stopped, there will be some arrests made in both towns. The police of Ranger are on the job and have been watching a few things there, and unless something ceases some few boys will be having to pay fines or work the streets.

In Eastland, the same condition prevails, but not quite as bad. Parents ought to take their young men in hand and give them a lecture. This drug store cowboy business must cease.

FOOTBALL MAKES MEN.

The football teams of the schools in the oil belt should be given support. Football makes men out of boys. It teaches them how to stand hard knocks and not whine. Whiners can't stay on any football team. It builds up muscle and character. It teaches quick thinking, and thanks to the wisdom of educational authorities, it plays a big part in school life.

The home team may not win every game, but when they put up a fight they have the satisfaction of knowing that the best man won.

The only thing is that the game ought to be played fair. The schools should eliminate ringers. It is great temptation for any school to bring in ringers in order to win. It would be better if the team lost than to use an ineligible man.

This is being closely watched this season throughout the state. It should be watched. Play the game fair and use your own men.

Ranger and Eastland are doing the right thing and showing the right spirit by using only qualified students in their games. Both teams may be light, but both have shown the fighting spirit that makes men. Support the football teams of your schools and encourage the boys to do their best.

Fair Secretary At Eastland Declares Event Was Success

George W. Briggs, secretary of the Central West Texas fair, which closed a four days exhibition at Eastland Saturday night, stated this morning that the fair was a success from every standpoint. He said definite announcements as to the financial and other results would be made soon.

Run Home, Oswald, To Mama; You're Positively Hopeless

No, Oswald, it was a nice party, even though the strains of "Show Me the Way to Go Home," do sound sort of suggestive.

To be more exemplary, the swan song of inebriety, was emanating from the high school auditorium, and that, Oswald, should dispel any fears on your part. It was merely Orville Tackett, Bobby Sanderford and Joe Roland, high school students, presenting an impromptu musical program, for the benefit of several hundred students at the regular semi-weekly chapel exercises.

Besides "Show Me the Way to Go Home," there were other renditions in the repertoire of the trio of piano, saxophone and banjo. All brought favorable response on the part of the listeners.

Student programs are to play an important part in student activities during the present school year, according to J. B. Preston, principal. Nearly every week, school talent will be offered in similar programs. This, Preston believes, will encourage talented students and possibly cause the development of many into finished stage performers.

Civil Docket Is Purged Of Three Cases

The following civil cases called for trial in the Eighty-eighth district court this morning were dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff on motion of plaintiff's attorneys: P. J. O'Donnell vs. A. H. Bowers et al.; Ranger State bank vs. Andrew Urban; Muskegee Tool company vs. Robert Collins.

X-Ray Lecture Is Feature Of Rotarian Meet

An illustrated lecture on the use of the X-ray by Dr. J. H. Caton featured on the program at the regular weekly luncheon and meeting of the Eastland Rotary club today at noon. Earl Bender made an interesting and instructive talk on investments, specializing on building and loan investments in Eastland.

Alex Clark, chairman of the boys' work committee of the Rotary club, stated that his committee had made an investigation of the circumstances surrounding a certain mother and her 14-year-old boy in Eastland, and found that the mother was physically unable to work and that the boy was her only means of support and that he was out of employment. He urged the Rotarians to see that the boy was given employment and that the mother was provided for until such time as she was able to support herself.

President Brelsford asked that each Rotarian make of himself a committee of one to locate a suitable man in the city for scoutmaster. "It seems that all that is necessary to start and carry on the Boy Scout work in Eastland is to find a suitable leader and we should do this at once," President Brelsford said.

Form Pep Squad Here to Boost School Activities

"Pep," unidentified as far as Webster is concerned, but an important term in describing enthusiasm in Ranger football circles, is slated to be used as much as "school" during the next few days.

Mattie G. Roberts, Norma Woodie Graham, members of the Junior college faculty, and some 50-odd aspirants to the girl pep squad, are the reasons.

Tuesday afternoon, the two sponsors will meet with all students and take initial steps toward the organization of the squad. The Chamber of Commerce here is buying maroon and white sweaters for members.

Following the organization meeting Tuesday, the squad will start preparations to swing into action Saturday when the Bulldogs and Stephenville clash in their annual tilt.

RANGER TIMES LETS "CAT OUT OF THE BAG."

The Ranger Times did not know that it was interfering with the plans of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hamrick, when it ran in its columns Friday a list of the marriage licenses issued in Eastland, for the week—but it was the means of rushing this young couple to the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Langston, to tell them that they had married on Monday night, at Eastland. They had intended to keep the marriage secret for a while, but the paper let "the cat out of the bag" so now they are receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

Mrs. Hamrick was formerly Miss Mamie Ruth Langston, and is a teacher in Cooper school. She was practically raised in Ranger and graduated from Ranger high in 1923. After that she attended C. L. A., graduating from that institution this past spring. While in C. L. A. she was editor in chief of the Daedalian. On account of her brilliant school work she had no difficulty in obtaining a place as teacher in Ranger's schools, a position which she will continue to fill.

Mr. Hamrick was reared in Gorman and has only been in Ranger a short while. He is a teller at the Citizens State bank and a most promising young business man.

They are at home at the Southland for the time being.

The wedding ceremony, which was to have been kept mum, was performed by Rev. Frank Singletary, at the Methodist parsonage in Eastland on last Monday night.

The young couple are both well known throughout Eastland county on account of their own charming personalities and the prominence of their families.

Gholson, Aubrey Jameson, Harry Logsdon, and the host and hostess. The next meeting will be with the E. E. Crawfords.

ALL LIVING MEMBERS OF HODGES FAMILY AT A BIRTHDAY DINNER

All the living members of the Hodges family, one of the oldest families in Ranger, were present yesterday at a birthday dinner, given to Homer Hodges, at his farm east of Ranger, by his two daughters, Mrs. Joe Rodgers and Miss Nina Hodges. The day was really a family reunion with the many course dinner at 12 o'clock coming as a pleasing interlude between morning and afternoon. At the end of the courses, a huge angel food birthday cake, gleaming with the requisite number of candles was brought in and placed before the guest of honor and much fun accompanied its cutting.

A long afternoon followed the dinner, during which time the relatives present gathered around Mr. Hodges, who is the oldest son in the family and lived over again the days of yesterday. For those who have gone before, there was a sweet and sacred mention, tinged with sadness, of course, but other than that, it was a happy, spirited reunion of brothers and sisters, who long ago went their separate ways in life, returning now to this oldest brother, with their own families to help him celebrate his birthday. They also remembered Mr. Hodges with many gifts.

William Rayborn Hodges, the father of those gathered on this occasion was one of the first settlers here and one of the largest property holders in this section and the Hodges family have always been prominently connected with the life of Ranger, one of the sons, Dr. R. H. Hodges, now being Ranger's mayor.

These present yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hodges of Abilene and their children, Catherine and Morris; Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Dean and children, Charles and Sue; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Neal and children, Dixie and Scott; Dr. and Mrs. R. H. ## Get Up on Wrong Side of the Bed?

Feel grouchy?

Headache—sour taste in your mouth—no appetite—feel lazy and can't think?

You are CONSTIPATED! Maybe you don't feel the need of medicine—but constipation doesn't merely mean failure of the bowels to act. You must have a THOROUGH movement each day, or you will become clogged up with foul wastes which breed disease and fill your system with poisons.

Better correct that constipation with KLOK-LAX. If you don't it may become chronic, and lead to serious disease and the sick bed. Constipation is a bad habit—a dangerous habit. Produces stomach trouble, biliousness, indigestion. Often leads to painful piles.

"GRASS" STORY OF REAL LIFE AND REAL PEOPLE

Whatever else man may do, he must work for a subsistence. When stark starvation stares him in the face, he puts all his resources into play and struggles as never before to obtain the necessities of life.

This truism is forcefully portrayed in "Grass," the Paramount picture which comes to the Lamb Theater, Ranger, on Monday. "Grass" is not a tale of fiction in which the author has endeavored to get over his poign with the aid of studio sets or sterling actors. It is a slice of real life and of real people who periodically bat—Baktyari, a forgotten people who still live as did their forefathers, thirty centuries ago.

A moving picture feature film contains about 96,000 separate pictures.

Ranger has its share of feminine football fans, but Mrs. Grace Whitehall of 709 McCleskey avenue, is apparently one of the most ardent.

Hundreds of men are contributing toward the $5,000 High school athletic field fund, but thus far only one woman has signed the dotted line. She was Mrs. Whitehall.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mrs. Lane, fat, middle-aged, sickly, Jim Lane, a carpenter, trying to branch out into contracting, on a small scale; Junior Lane, 21, lovable but wild; Faith, 20, who stays at home and dodges for the family; Cherry, beautiful, tiny, a flirt; Joy, 9, irrepressible and impudent—are an average American family.

When Mr. Lane invites Bob Hathaway to dinner, in the hope of landing a job of contracting with the young business man, both Faith and Cherry are instantly attracted to him, but he has eyes for no one but Cherry, who, after stealing all the credit for the delicious dinner which Faith has prepared, whisks Hathaway off to a movie, leaving Faith to despise herself for her one attempt at flirting.

While Cherry is out with Hathaway, a call comes for her from Chris Wiley, a man of unsavory reputation, to whom Jim Lane has forbidden the house. After Hathaway has left, Cherry telephones Wiley, and long after midnight slips out of the house to keep a rendezvous with him.

Faith, awake, hears a scream, as does Jim Lane. The two find Cherry being borne away to a car in the arms of a man who drops her when Jim Lane threatens to shoot. Cherry lies, says she does not know who her would-be seducer is, but after her father is bed-confessed to Faith, who upbraids her.

Cherry pacifies her sister with promises, then teasingly accuses Faith of being in love with Hathaway, and offers to tell Faith what Hathaway said about her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI
"Bob said you'd make a wonderful wife for some lucky young devil!" Cherry snuggled her tiny self closely against Faith's long, splendid body, like a kitten, expecting to have its fur stroked. "Aren't you thrilled, honey?"

Faith closed her eyes, lest Cherry see the upleaping glad light in them. "How did he—happen—to say that?" she asked slowly, huskily.

"Oh, I was telling him how you slave for all of us—you know, darling. I didn't really mean to make him think I cooked the dinner and set the table, though I know you think I did—and how you stay at home and let me traipse around, like a silly little butterfly—"

"In other words," and Faith turned her back on her sister and covered her hot cheeks with her palms, "you gave him to understand that I don't have any dates, that I'm just the family drudge."

"Oh, Cherry, why don't you give me a chance?" she demanded passionately. "I'll own up! I do like Bob Hathaway, as much as you do—and more! But you get your work in the first minute he's in the house, and he can't see me for the glimmer you make. I'm not homely, really I have a sense of humor! I can talk, I can play, I can sing! But, oh Lord, what good does it do me—with you around?"

"I'm sorry, Faith!" Cherry's voice was humble, but there was the suggestion of a kitten's contented purr beneath the meekness. No girl can be really angry when she is accused of being a heartless flirt. "I really didn't mean to take Chester away from you—I give him back—from me to you, with love! But don't ask me to put the dimmers on when Bob Hathaway's around. I just couldn't do it, honey! I'm wild about him! And think how pleased Dad will be if he gets the contract!"

Faith did not answer. She lay perfectly still so long that Cherry thought she was asleep. But it was almost time for the alarm clock to go off at six-thirty before she lost her heartache in the sudden, deep sleep of utter fatigue.

She was frying the breakfast bacon before she realized with a sickening heart throb of dismay, that she had not heard Junior come in at all. She ran to the living room, found that the davenport had not been converted into a bed. It was not like Long to stay out all night, without telephoning. As she was worrying over whether she should break the news to her mother and father, the telephone shrilled loudly, repeatedly, indicating a long distance call.

"Hello, Faith! Lord, but I'm glad it's you!" It was Junior's voice coming faintly over the wires. "I'm in the devil of a fix, Sis. They pinched us last night in Marlboro county—"

"You and who else?" Faith demanded sharply in spite of her pounding heart.

"Ray and me," Junior answered reluctantly. "Speeding. Honest, we weren't doing more'n thirty-five, but they've got us nailed for fifty. Say Sis, you've got to get me out of this! Fifty bucks! Aw, gee, I can't help it. Faith! I'd rather be shot than come home. But if you can't make Dad pay it, it means ten days in jail. Ray's stalling her folks—sent 'em a telegram shes' staying with a girl friend over here. Says her dad will put her in a reformatory if he finds out about this. Yeah, they're holding us both, because the license was in Ray's name and I was driving."

"I don't know what I can do," Faith wailed, keeping her voice as low as possible. At any moment her father or mother might come out of their room and demand to know what was up.

"Aw, gee, Faith, be a sport! Get the coin somehow and wire it to Judge Pratt. They fined us last night soon as we were brought in. They got a drive on for speeders, and were holding night court. Please, Sis! Ray's nearly off her head—"

"I'm not thinking of her," Faith said grimly. "I'll see what I can do."

"Where's Junior?" Mr. Lane demanded when he sat down to his breakfast at seven-thirty. I see he didn't sleep here last night. That young man is getting just a little too big for his breeches—"

He telephoned a few minutes ago. Dad," said Faith, hurrying in with the coffee pot. "He—he had to see a fellow on business over in Marlboro, and decided to stay all night."

"Then why in Sam Hill didn't he phone last night?"

"He—he couldn't get a telephone," Faith felt herself skating on thin ice as she tried to stick to the truth and yet shield her brother. For she had no intention of asking her father for the fifty dollars.

After Cherry and Mr. Lane had left, Faith hurried to her bedroom and locked the door. In her handkerchief box were the four five-dollar bills that her father had given her to pay on the grocery, butcher and dairy bills.

Feeling like a criminal, she took two of the bills, then unlocked a cheap little jewel box that had been a Christmas present when she was a little girl. It held all her treasures of any value—fifteen dollars that she had saved over a period of months toward buying a decent coat suit for the fall; a ten-dollar gold (Continued on page four.)

America's Finest Condiment and the GEBHARDT line of Mexican food specialities

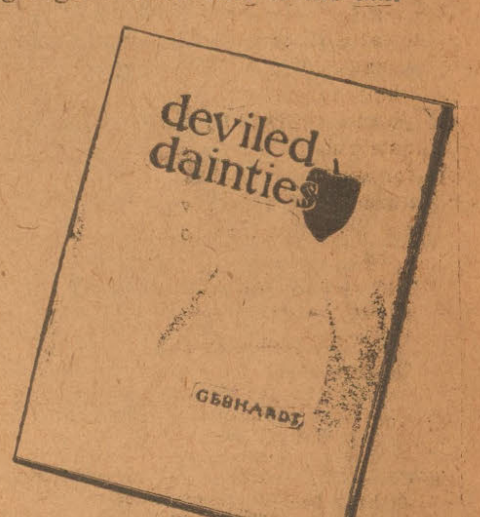

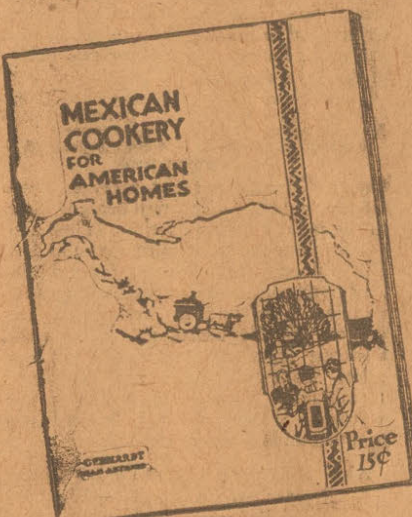

Gebhardt's Eagle Chili Powder, the basic seasoning for all Gebhardt's wonderfully wholesome, high-quality Mexican food products, is made from only genuine Mexican Ancho peppers, grown especially for and under the direction of Gebhardt. In addition to seasoning for typically Mexican dishes it is also a delightful condiment to be used in the preparation of all kinds of meats, fish, soups, salads and salad dressings.

Gebhardt's line of Mexican Foods, ready prepared, are a combination of good foods and pleasing flavor that once tried are always enjoyed. Gebhardt's Chili con Carne is made after the original Mexican recipe. A Gebhardt secret—long sought but never achieved by imitators. The Tamales are genuine Mexican—just mildly hot, different, wholesome and palatable. Shuck wrapped and eight good sized ones to the can.

The Mexican style Beans with Chili con Carne gravy are tender, rich and wholesome. Deviled Chili Meat is a product in a class to itself, and entirely different from anything you have ever tasted. Get a copy of "DEVILED Dainties" at the cooking school and see the many delightful ways this unusual food may be served.

Spaghetti and Chili and Rice and Chili complete the line. Both are foods of delicious difference with which to vary the every day menu.

All Gebhardt foods are prepared in sun-lit, white-tiled kitchens under rigid Government supervision.

SAINT and SINNER

piece that Grandpa Lane had given her for her twentieth birthday, and which he had promised to match at Christmas time if it was still unspent, for Grandpa's hobby was thrift, which he tried unsuccessfully to teach all of his grandchildren; a locket and chain, which she had worn as a baby; a heavy, oddly-shaped nugget of pure gold, a souvenir of Grandpa's glorious participation in the 49 Gold Rush; a ring, now outgrown, set with a tiny "chip" diamond, which her parents had given her on her graduation from grammar school; and lastly, pride of her heart, though she had been too modest to wear it, a gold medal, won in a "music memory" contest in high school, and inscribed with her name and the date.

She calculated swiftly. Ten plus ten was twenty; plus fifteen, made thirty-five. Could she pawn the medal, the nugget, the ring and the locket for the remaining fifteen, and if she could, how could she ever redeem them?

And she was really stealing ten dollars from Dad. Lane would have to pay her back, every penny of it, it meant bawling him mercilessly for months. He couldn't get away with it this time. She had shielded him so often that he expected it. He knew good and well she wouldn't tell Dad on him! That terrible Fay Allen! A pity Fay couldn't pay it back herself!

She stuffed money and childhood treasures into her handbag dressed as swiftly as possible, and presented herself before her mother, who was sitting beside the dining room window.

"I've got to go to town, Mother, to take Joy's dress to the hems, and stitcher's. I want to go before it gets so hot. I'll hurry back and get the work done before noon. Now don't try to do anything! You look awfully tired this morning. Did you sleep well with the bromide?"

"I never slept a wink," Mrs. Lane sighed wearily. "I declare, if this heat don't let up, I'll go jump in the river!"

Faith stooped to kiss her mother a tiny smile tugging at the corner of her mouth. If her mother had not slept soundly, she must have gone suddenly deaf in the night, not to have heard her uproar over Cherry's near abduction.

When she had visited the pawnbroker, she found that she still lacked a dollar and twenty cents of having the necessary fifty dollars, and there was the telegram fee to be paid, too. Hot-cheeked with shame, she forced herself to borrow three dollars from a girl friend, working as a stenographer in the Prudential Building.

Her wire to Long Lane was terse: "Money sent. Dad doesn't know. See me first."

Faith was busy with house cleaning when Cherry's voice thrilled excitedly over the telephone: "Hello, Faith! Got the job? Yeah! Swell offices! Oh, he's an old darling! I feel like he's my grandma already! Oh, yes, I'll be careful," she giggled at Faith's suggestion that she give old Mr. Cluny no chance to "get fresh."

"And say, Faith, I'm going over to the Banner Store on my lunch hour and get that printed chiffon I was telling you about. Preston gave me my full week's pay."

"Would you mind getting plain maize-colored chiffon for me, Cherry?" Faith asked.

"Oh, I'll get you the prettiest stuff in the store," Cherry caroled.

But when she brought the material home, that evening and snapped the cord of the bundle triumphantly, Faith's hopes of a becoming dress were dashed. Cherry had bought two pieces of printed chiffon.

"This is for me," Cherry shook out the folds of pale, cool Undine green splashed richly with coral-pink and yellow tulips—such tulips as never grew in any conservatory—and draped the lovely material about her tiny body. Her flushed, priest-tinted cheeks, her vivid lips and her riot of glorious curls took on a keen new beauty. "And this for you," she said as she tossed aside her own material—and snatched up the other piece of chiffon, draping it likewise down her own slight figure.

"But Cherry," Faith's voice was husky with tears of disappointment, "you know I can't wear powder blue and orchid. Why, I'd look like a house in that big-flowered stuff, and the blue against my olive skin would make me look like I had yellow jaundice. Oh, it's lovely—for you! I asked you to buy maize chiffon for me."

"They didn't have any," Cherry sighed, crushing the lovely blue chiffon with its great, rioting orchids, in an angry little fist. "So that's the thanks I get for spending my hard-earned money on you! It'll be a cold day in August when I buy you another dress! Well—" she bundled the material into its wrappings with trembling hands—"I was feeling kind of mean for asking Chester Hart here to supper, as my beau, but now I don't give a—d—d—d!"

Faith's face went very white; her eyes were very black and enormous when she whirled upon her mother with the question:

"Mother, are you sure you didn't sleep a wink last night?"

How I make CAKES —perfect every time!

Success depends on following the recipe and method carefully. So be sure to read your recipe and method through to the end before you start to work. Then start your oven, get out all the utensils you will need and grease your pans. When you grease them with Crisco, you do not need to flour them. Crisco contains no moisture to cause your cakes to stick to the pans and scorch. Therefore, your cakes will come out whole, with no unsightly breaks, and an even brown all over.

Measurements must be accurate

Here is a way I have found to measure shortening accurately. To measure, for example,  $\frac{3}{4}$  of a cup of Crisco, I take a measuring cup, put in  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of cold water, then add enough Crisco to bring the water to the top of the cup, pour it off, and I have an exact  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup of Crisco.

The importance of the right shortening

I used to make all my cakes with butter. After I found Crisco and learned to make my cakes with it, using no butter at all, I found I still had perfectly delicious cakes, and my reputation for good cake was just as high as ever. When my Crisco cakes are compared with cakes made with butter, no one can tell the difference.

If you are one of those who simply find it unbelievable that you can use all Crisco in cakes, try half butter and half Crisco at first. Then next time, perhaps, three-fourths Crisco and one-fourth butter. I am sure you will be so pleased with the results, that before you know it you will be using all Crisco for all your cakes.

Importance of creaming Shortening and Sugar

Not everyone realizes the importance of creaming the shortening and sugar together. The purpose is to soften the grains of sugar, and this is done by beating the sugar with the shortening until the mixture is soft and fluffy, and does not feel grainy to the spoon. To have your layers even and of uniform thickness, divide your batter in equal parts and spread evenly over the bottom of the pans.

Correct baking temperature important

Up-to-date recipes give you correct temperature. If you are an experienced cake-maker and have never used a thermometer, you, of course, have your favorite way of testing your oven for the proper heat. If not, I advise you to buy an inexpensive oven thermometer. It will be a great help to you. If you have your own favorite cake recipes, simply use Crisco in the place of the shortening your recipe calls for, adding 1 teaspoon of salt to every cup of Crisco used.

Prune Cake

2 cups pastry flour  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon allspice
 $\frac{1}{4}$  cup Crisco 1 cup stewed and
1 teaspoon soda 1 cup mashed prunes
2 eggs (separated) 1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sweet milk
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco and sugar thoroughly. Add egg yolks well beaten. Then stir in prunes. Sift together, soda, spices, salt and flour and add alternately with milk. Last fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in loaf pan, one hour in moderate oven (325° F.). Be sure prunes are thoroughly drained of all juice.

Standard Layer Cake

This recipe can be used as a standard for a variety of layer cakes. It will make a large 3-layer cake, and also six cup cakes. Or, instead of making the cup cakes, you can make four layers, making two cakes of two layers each.

$\frac{1}{4}$  cup Crisco 2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt 2 cups sugar
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cups milk 4 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla 3 cups pastry flour

Cream Crisco and sugar together thoroughly. Add egg yolks, well beaten. Beat in the milk, a little at a time. Then add  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup flour and beat until smooth. Sift bit of flour with baking powder and salt. Add to mixture and mix thoroughly. Add vanilla. Last fold in well-beaten egg whites. Divide batter into three well-greased layer cake pans and six cup cakes. Bake in hot oven (375° F.), about 15 minutes. When partly cool, turn out on towel. When quite cold, spread filling between and on top of the layers.

Dolly Varden Cake

$\frac{1}{2}$  cups sugar 3 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup milk  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup Crisco
 $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon almond extract 1 teaspoon salt
3 egg whites 3 cups pastry flour

Cream Crisco. Add sugar and cream together until light and soft. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with milk. Add extract, beat mixture thoroughly and last fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into well-Criscoed Angel Cake pan and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) one hour. Remove from oven. Let stand ten minutes, then turn upside down on cake board—the cake will drop out whole. When cool, ice.

Icing:

Add two tablespoons of cream to three egg yolks. Stir in enough confectioner's sugar to make it thick enough to spread easily. Flavor with almond and a pinch of salt. Cover entire outside of cake.

An Astonishing Blindfold Test

SEE if this doesn't give you the greatest surprise of your whole cooking experience!

Put a little Crisco on the tip of one spoon. On the tip of another place a little of the fat you are now using; have someone blindfold you, and give you first one, then the other fat to taste.

Now, did you ever imagine there could be such a striking difference in the taste of raw cooking fats? Think what a difference Crisco's sweetness and freshness will make in your own cakes, pies, biscuits and fried foods.

CRISCO is used by

Mrs. Ida Chitwood in the Telegram Cooking School This Week

To test your cooking fat—taste it raw. Crisco's superiority will astonish you.

Mavericks Lack Experience and Weight This Year

Coaches and players from neighboring cities who saw the Eastland Mavericks in action Saturday when Gorman was barely defeated in the closing minutes of play came away convinced that reports from the Maverick camp as to the size and experience of the lads were correct. Six of the starting eleven had never before started a game on the first team. Three substitutes sent in before Eastland scored had never before played on the first team. Only two letter men of last season are back. King at tackle and Foster at guard weigh 170 pounds. All the other players are well below this figure and Jones, the chief ground game in Saturday's game, weighs 128.

astland fans are not pessimistic about the games that are ahead, however, as they feel that the light Mavericks team will play gamely and courageously to the last no matter how big the opposition nor how the score stands.

Thousand Dollar Mark Is Reached Athletic Field

Ranger's hopes of having a High school athletic field were assuming a more definite form Monday with the announcement by S. A. Lillard Jr., member of the city gridiron committee, that nearly $1,000 had been raised toward the $5,000 goal for financing the project.

Two civic clubs, the Lions and Rotary, the Chamber of Commerce and the city school board, are sponsoring the drive.

The baseball park, where football games are now staged, is inadequate for Ranger football fans, it is pointed out. Should the necessary funds be raised, a new grandstand will be erected and improvements made to the field.

Besides Mr. Lillard, three other members comprise the committee that is in charge of the drive. They are J. T. Gullahorn of the school board, Raymond Teal of the city commission, and Marvin K. Collie of the Rotary club.

Recent subscribers to the athletic field fund, made known by Lillard, are as follows:

T. V. Terrell, J. H. Lillard, L. M. Boze, Dr. A. N. Harkrider, E. George Jr., Heid Bros., four subscriptions; G. C. Blankenship, Pickering Lumber company, four subscriptions; Ranger Transfer, two; J. ## RUBY MINE SOLD.

By United Press.

MANDALAY.—The Burma ruby mines at Mogok, that produced the finest pigeon's blood stones, have been sold. The transaction must be approved by the government of India before details are announced.

In 1875 the Burmese government sent two rubies to England as samples of the output of the mine. One was sold for $50,000 and the other for $100,000.

Calm yourself, Cousin Mary, seen "Good Evening, Clarence," Liberty Theater, Thursday, Sept. 30.—Adv.

Giant Coxcomb Entered in Fair By Mrs. Harkrider

Coxcomb a foot across, grown by Mrs. A. N. Harkrider, at her home on Main street, Ranger, will be entered tomorrow in the Oil Belt fair at Breckenridge. Mrs. Harkrider today brought a floor basket filled with several stalks of giant coxcomb by the Times office before leaving them on display at J. M. White's store today, after which they will be taken to Breckenridge and entered in the flower show.

Last year a basket of Mrs. Harkrider's coxcombs received honorable mention and probably would have received first award, had they been entered for prizes, but they were just on display. This year they will compete for high awards.

These flowers are very lovely. Dark red in color and velvety in texture, they look almost like a big splash of curled red velvet, poised on a long green stem.

Ranger's Little Theatre to Open Season Thursday

Opening of Ranger's Little theatre season has been scheduled for Thursday night, Mrs. Marion F. Peters, director of the theatre, announced Monday. "Good Evening, Clarice," a three-act comedy, is the initial offering. It will be presented at the Liberty theatre.

"Good Evening, Clarice" will be the first of a series of plays that will be presented during the coming winter months.

The cast follows:

Louis Franklin, a newspaper man, Dewey Jones.

Annette Franklin, his wife, Mrs. V. V. Cooper Jr.

Elmer Hudson, his friend, John Tibbels.

Cleo Hudson, Elmer's wife, Azaline Cox.

Daphne Jackson, the Franklins' maid, Tommy Knight.

Aunt Penelope Wilmot, Annette's aunt, Winifred Dunkle.

Cousin Mary, from California, Christine Schmuck.

Teddy Langley, her husband, Hassell Edwards.

William Dunkirk, from Northville, N. Y., M. F. Peters.

Mr. Lewis, the lawyer, Lester Davernport.

Clarice De Mauree, the dancer, Mable Knight.

Sketch: Annette Franklin, a jealous wife who has been raising a little domestic war over her husband's supposed infatuation for a noted dancer, Clarice de Mauree. How Annette was proven wrong in her supposition, cured of her jealousy, and found her long-lost parents, makes a comedy which proves effective.

Special attention to display windows of downtown stores is being planned by merchants. Windows will be unveiled the first day of the affair.

J. C. Smith, John Hassen and W. W. Housewright are members of the committee that is in charge of arrangements.

Ft. Worth Man Buys Controlling Interest In Gorman Bank

O. P. Newberry, formerly of the Continental National Bank of Fort Worth, has been elected president of the Continental State Bank of Gorman, having purchased a controlling interest in the stock of that institution, and with his wife have moved to Gorman and taken active charge of the bank's affairs.

In speaking of his change in business locations, Mr. Newberry said: "Needless to say I am very happy to come to Gorman and Eastland county, and have great faith in the sound condition of Gorman and its trade territory. The prospects for increased agricultural production through sound diversification adds materially to the possibilities of this section. However the wealth that has been and is being created by oil and its by-products in this territory is a great contributing force."

It's a spanking, not a divorce, you need. See "Good Evening, Clarice." Liberty Theater, Thursday, Sept. 30. —Adv.

Frigidaire users are delighted at its low cost of operation

We say that the operation of Frigidaire costs less than ice. Frigidaire users will tell you that they hardly notice the difference in their electric bills after Frigidaire is installed.

For the convenience of dependable electric refrigeration is a revelation to every Frigidaire user. The fact that it needs no attention whatever, that it is absolutely automatic, that it keeps food colder, better, longer, makes delicious desserts, and freezes those enticing Frigidaire cubes for iced drinks, that it makes the preparation of meals so much easier—these are things that only a Frigidaire user can appreciate.

"This modern ice man calls once—with Frigidaire, and the ice stays always"

Mrs. Chitwood prefers the FRIGIDAIRE above all other refrigeration. There must be a mighty good reason for her preference, a woman of such prominence in the cooking and lecturing field. The reason is very simple. You can always retain an even temperature at any temperature you want.
