Heart Block Fatal To Bradford Knapp

Two Charged After Boy Plummets 400 Feet To His Death

Tragedy Enacted On Precipice Near Alpine

Sensational Plot Charged To Couple Who Took $5,000 Policy On Boy's Life

(By The Associated Press)

ALPINE, June 11.—Youthful Mr. and Mrs. Francis Black, San Antonio couple who two months ago took tousled, 13-year-old Marvin Dale Nobbitt from his widowed mother to "give him a good home," today were accused of tumbling him off a 400-foot mountain precipice in a purported insurance death plot.

Murder charges were filed by District Attorney Alan Fraser after an all-night sifting of circumstances surrounding the tragic drop of the lad into a rock-filled canyon.

Detailed Statement Made

Black, 25-year-old San Antonio filling station operator, made a detailed statement after lengthy grilling, said Fraser, who later announced "the boy's death was not accidental."

Craggy bluffs dot the death scene, deep in the mountainous Big Bend country on the Worthington ranch. The section, noted for its scenic grandeur, has been selected as the site for a national park.

Two days ago the Black couple, who brought the frail lad here ostensibly on a vacation, took him to the Worthington ranch for an outing. From atop a high cliff he toppled to death and his companions told authorities he slipped and fell while tossing rocks down the hillside.

$5,000 Policy Contracted

Sheriff Elmer Taylor and deputies went to the isolated spot in Agua Frio springs and returned several hours later to arrest the couple a few minutes after they had sat, sobbing, at funeral services for the boy they claimed they had legally adopted. District Attorney Fraser said no adoption papers had been found.

Fraser admitted the insurance angle had been investigated and from a San Antonio insurance firm it was learned the boy's life had been insured for $5,000 on May 27 and that Mr. and Mrs. Black had been named beneficiaries. San Antonio sources also said the couple had attempted to take out other policies on the boy.

At Harlingen, deep in the Rio Grande valley, Mrs. Bobbie F. Smith, 41, widowed mother of the dead boy, collapsed with grief when informed of her son's death. Two other small sons were abed with measles.

No Verdict Returned

Mrs. Smith, also confined, wept as she told Chief Deputy Sheriff Will Cabler that she let the San Antonio couple have her boy after their insistent promise they would provide for him. The couple first approached her in April, promising to send Marvin to school, she said. They came back a few days later and she finally agreed to let them

Filibuster Threat Apparently Over

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—A thoroughly compromised wage-hour bill, including pay differentials within a given industry, received unanimous approval of a joint congressional committee today.

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) said conferees would draft a formal report tomorrow, so it could be taken up in the house Monday. Advocates predicted the bill would be approved quickly and sent to the senate, early in the week.

A filibuster threat by southern senators, who fought for a geographical wage differential, appeared eliminated by the compromise.

PORT ARTHUR, June 11. — Lubbock was chosen as the 1939 convention city of the Texas Press association which closed its annual meeting here today.

Representing Lubbock at the convention were Cecil Horne, head of the journalism department at Texas Technological college, and R. Dick Shinkle, publicity manager of the chamber of commerce.

Deskin Wells, editor of the Wellington Leader, was named president.

Kerrville Wins Award

Delegates to the convention named Ben Harigel of LaGrange, treasurer; Walter Buckner of San Marcos, vice-president; and re-elected Sam Harben of Richardson secretary for his 27th term.

The Beard award for the "best all-round weekly" went to Mrs. W. A. Salter, editor of the Kerrville Mountain Sun for the second time. The Mission Times drew the prize for the "best set ads."

A resolution advocating regulation of "so called publicity" which has developed into "business" to the extent it has become detrimental to legitimate advertising, was adopted.

Other resolutions demanded: Prohibition of lottery advertisements over the radio, as in newspapers; Texas legislation supporting full publicity to proceedings of tax collection and spending agencies of district, county, and city governments. They re-affirmed opposition to the diversion of gasoline taxes for anything except highway work, and urged congressional policies which would revive export trade.

Wyoming Plane Crash Claims Five Lives

(By The Associated Press)

WORLAND, Wyo., June 11.—Four men and a woman were killed today when a plane piloted by William O. Bashaw, 34, Seattle, crashed on a farm near Worland, in north central Wyoming.

The dead in addition to Bashaw were:

Wesley Bard, 28, Spokane, Wash.

W. B. Bledsoe, Valley Falls, Kas.

Sheriff John Nicola said reports from witnesses to the crash indicated the plane's motor failed and caused it to go into a nose dive and crash onto a cellar on the farm of Charles Cavanaugh at the edge of Worland about 4 p. m. (mountain standard time).

Flying At Low Altitude

"The plane after taking off from the airport here circled over town, and as it passed over the postoffice the motor sputtered and the ship went into its spin," the sheriff said.

The plane was flying at an altitude of about 300 feet at the time. When it went out of control Bashaw cut off the switch to the motor, Sheriff Nicola said. The plane did not catch fire after it crashed.

Dr. L. S. Andrews, Washakie county coroner, said the bodies

Politicians Fan Issues Alive

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 11.—Problems of farmers and ranchmen received attention in campaign speeches of gubernatorial candidates today as one of the more important weeks of the pre-election period in Texas politics this year drew to a close.

Opening his campaign at Corsicana, James A. Ferguson, a cousin of former Gov. James E. Ferguson, advocated state and federal cooperation in selling tenant farmers homes on easy terms.

He also called for full payment of pensions to persons over 65, economy in government, more consideration by government of laboring masses, tax reduction and a restoration of "free government" to the people.

Roundtable Plan Promised

At Brownsville and other points in the lower valley of the Rio Grande, William McCraw said that if elected he would call farmers and ranchmen to the council table to work out a program of betterment for rural life.

"Texas needs a far-reaching soil conservation program," he said, "and I propose to assist the farmers in getting it."

Speaking at Harlingen, Karl Crowley said politics was destroying the profits of fruit and produce growers and advocated greater taxes on "foreign monopolies" to make available loans to farmers at low interest.

Stanton Swept By Violent Windstorm

Church, Other Buildings Are Demolished; Other Places Hit; Rain Heavy

(By The Associated Press)

STANTON, June 11. — A violent wind and rain storm did heavy damage there tonight. A half dozen structures, including the Church of God, were demolished and 12 homes damaged by a twister that accompanied a heavy rain.

Rainfall was estimated at from three to five inches in an hour and a half.

Communications lines were down briefly but no loss of life was reported, said Midland and Big Spring newspapermen.

Traffic Is Slowed

At Midland traffic was almost paralyzed because of power and telephone lines across the highway, said Jesse Rodgers and J. P. Harrison, Midland newspapermen.

They said Odessa, too, had a blow. A sandstorm toppled two shacks in the early night.

Damage at Stanton could not be determined immediately, but was set at approximately $20,000.

Heavy damage also was done to the schoolhouse at Fairview, 10 miles north of Big Spring.

Big Spring was struck by a heavy rain. Two and a half inches fell in a short time and some houses in the lower part of town were flooded.

A 48-mile an hour wind did minor damage.

Variety Of Weather Hits Lubbock, South Plains

Rain, damaging hail, wind, and dust late Saturday swept down on sections of the South Plains to continue the temperamental weather which has characterized this area since late May.

It was estimated an inch or more of rain fell in downtown Lubbock, virtually turning streets into canals. The deluge caused a drop in temperature from a maximum of 93 degrees for the day to a low of 68 degrees in the early night. The maximum, as reported by the main line station of the West Texas Gas company, was at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Lubbock Municipal airport measured officially the rainfall there at .05 of an inch.

More Cloudy Weather

The main line station said the forecast was for continued cloudy weather today.

The moisture was spotted on the South Plains, ranging upward to more than two inches. Many places, however, received no precipitation.

CLYDE, June 11 (AP)—Swelling donations of money and supplies poured into storm relief headquarters here today while Red Cross officials announced they did not believe the death toll would exceed 12.

At least 40 persons were injured, several seriously, and 23 homes were smashed when the tornado sucked a narrow, destructive course through the western edge of the West Texas town late yesterday. The whirling windstorm missed the business district, but tore a freight train asunder and apparently lifted as it moved from the city limits.

Workers delved into the splintered wreckage of homes throughout the day, and found no additional dead or injured. Local and state officers helped residents salvage their scattered belongings.

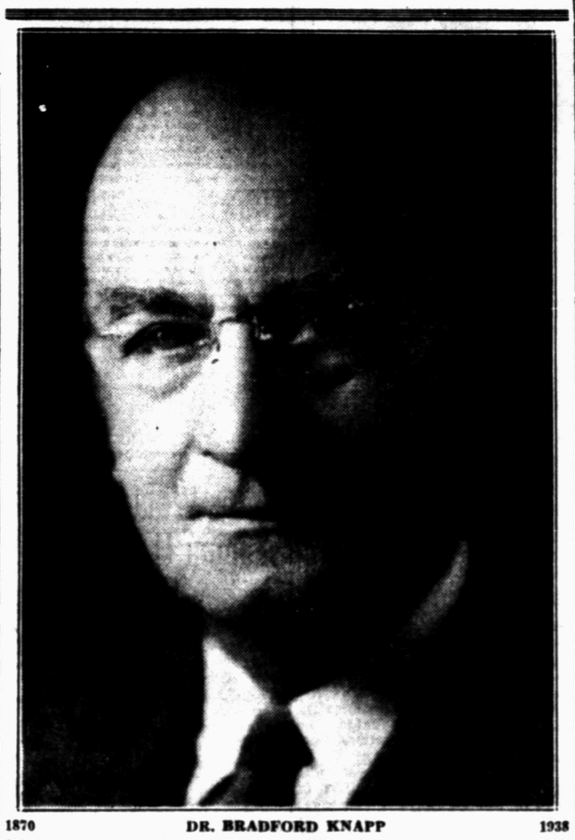

Robert T. Bridge, disaster relief director of the Red Cross, was due late today to take charge of relief work. A detachment of the national guard under direction of Capt. Frank Hobbs of Abilene, set up a rolling kitchen.

His Chair Is Vacant

1870 1932 — DR. BRADFORD KNAPP — Second President of Texas Tech — 1938 1938

An Editorial Tribute To Dr. Bradford Knapp

Institutions Are Builded Upon The Lives Of Men

BRADFORD Knapp marched into the Valley of the Shadow knowing full well that he was laying down his life for the principles to which he had dedicated his every waking hour since, in 1932, he accepted his charge at Texas Technological college.

Unmindful of the pleadings of his family and friends, refusing to take cognizance of the warnings of his physicians, he preferred to place his responsibilities ahead of his personal wellbeing. His job, to press always for the progress and advancement of Texas Technological college, and, by so doing, to take a leading role in the betterment of the great section the college serves, was paramount with him. He knew he was drawing too much upon his physical resources. He knew, doubtless better than anyone else, that he could only stand the pace so long and then would have to pass the torch to other hands. But he kept on and on and on, true to his trust. He made the supreme sacrifice with open eyes, and fully as courageously as any soldier who ever went into battle for the protection of his homeland and for the upholding of his country's ideals.

NO great institution is ever built alone upon money, or the brick, the stone and the steel which money can buy.

More, it is built upon the brains and the sinew and the blood of men who alone can make of a thing of masonry a lasting contribution to civilization.

And so Texas Tech, with its fine record and its even more promising future, has been, is being and will continue to be built. Although the college is less than a decade and a half old, it already has exacted a terrific toll in health and lives of the men who have made it.

The heavy demands of a lusty, growing institution have taken before their time two presidents, Doctor Knapp and Dr. Paul Whitfield Horn. They took the lives of Dr. W. A. Jackson, of Professors C. S. Mast and R. C. Harrison; of the college's first business manager, R. M. Chitwood and of its first registrar, E. L. Dohoney. And long before the administration building becomes ivy-covered, these forfeits will be exacted of many another man who insists upon placing the demands of the institution before his own welfare.

• • •

THESE facts are to be deplored. Such a condition is unjust. The necessity is regrettable. Yet when viewed from another angle, what better can a man do; what more can he achieve; how better can he serve in his brief years upon this earth than by doing a big job in a big way, even though it costs him his all?

That is the view the family and friends of Doctor Knapp must take today. That is the broad view which will fill, in part, an aching void and make his memory glorious.

Those who knew Bradford Knapp know that is the way he would like to have his untimely death considered. And paraphrasing the words of the Apostle Paul, in his second epistle to Timothy, Chapter 4, Verses 7 and 8:

He has fought a good fight; he has finished the course; he has kept the faith.

Last Rites To Be Held Monday For Tech President

Two Year Period Of Ill Health Ends In Death Of Noted Educator At 11:20 A. M. Saturday; Body Lies In State Today; Interment To Be In Lubbock Cemetery After Services In Tech Gymnasium

BY OPAL McMAHON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

A heart attack proved fatal for Dr. Bradford Knapp, 67, president of Texas Technological college, at 11:20 o'clock Saturday morning.

Due to a heart block, his death came after a day when he had appeared to be improving in condition. He had suffered from the ailment about two years.

Heart block is a condition in which the ventricular beat of the heart does not follow the auricular beat with normal regularity. When one side of the heart contracts, the other does not do so immediately afterward.

Scarcely had the stunned family left the bedside at the hospital where he had been a patient four days before expressions of grief and condolences began to pour in from state officials, educators, and former associates and students during his long and varied career.

In the building to which he came as president in 1932, the body will lie in state from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon. Uniformed members of the college Reserve Officers Training corps will form a guard of honor about the body of the educator as residents of this area pass through the arch in the center of the administration building.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock Monday morning in the college gymnasium, building in which he made his last address and appeared for the last time in public, at the commencement service Monday morning.

Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of First Presbyterian church in which Dr. Knapp was an elder, will deliver the funeral address. Rev. J. Hodge Alyes, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will deliver the opening prayer; Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, past of First Methodist church, the scripture; and Rev. C. E. Hereford, pastor of First Baptist church, the closing prayer. Cello music will be played by Julien Paul Blitz, head of the college music department.

Former Aides Are Pallbearers

In his death, the body will be surrounded by those with whom he was associated in administration of the college and a sorrowing institution will pay every tribute possible.

At the side of the body this afternoon will be members of the administrative council: Deans James M. Gordon, O. V. Adams, A. H. Leidigh, Margaret W. Weeks, Mary W. Doak, James G. Allen, W. C. Holden, R. C. Goodwin, and W. P. Clement, registrar, Miss Elizabeth Howard West, librarian, and W. T. Gaston, business manager.

Male members of the council will serve as active pallbearers. Honorary pallbearers will be Dr. Harry L. Kent; Chas. A. Guy; Walter S. Posey; Clifford B. Jones, chairman of the board of directors; Spencer A. Wells, vice chairman; any other members of the board who arrive in time; and presidents of the four civic clubs: J. I. Kilpatrick, Rotary; Bill Collins, American Business club; William H. Evans, Lions; and Dr. O. W. English, Kiwanis.

It was announced last night that special places would be reserved in the gymnasium for Head Coach P. W. Cawthon, his staff and members of the football squad who are still in Lubbock. The arrangement was made in keeping with Dr. Knapp's great interest in the Red Raiders and his hearty efforts in their behalf.

Masonic Rites At Grave

At Lubbock cemetery, a Masonic ceremony will be held under the direction of Lubbock Yellowhouse lodge, No. 841, AF and AM. W. Guy Casey, worshipful master, announced last night that the oration would be delivered at the grave by Jewel P. Lightfoot-33, of Ft. Worth. Mr. Lightfoot is a former master of the grand lodge of Texas, is at present an official in the grand chapter and a trustee of the State Masonic home. Dr. Knapp had been a Mason for more than 30 years and was a member of both the Scottish and York rite bodies.

Casey urged that all members of the Lubbock lodge, others in good standing and representatives of lodges in the surrounding territory be at the Masonic hall, on the top floor of Citizens National bank building at 9 a. m., Monday. At that time preparations will be made for the ceremonial.

Public Co-Operation Asked

It was requested that the public enter through the north side or main entrance of the administration building to pass by the casket this afternoon and that they leave through the south entrance.

The body will be clothed in a white suit made from material woven at Tech.

The first hint of the attack which was to prove fatal was given 10 minutes or less before Dr. Knapp's death. He told his family and attending physicians he felt that he would suffer another attack. He was in no great pain, and remained conscious until two minutes before his death, said an attending physician.

Although he had suffered complications in addition to heart block, his death was attributed entirely to that ailment.

Dr. Knapp was forced to defer from going to his office daily early in March. He took part in tree and shrub planting ceremonies on the campus March 2, but upon advice of

Trio In Charge Of Texas Tech

Administration of affairs at Texas Technological college will again be placed in the hands of an executive committee which had charge during the recent absence of Dr. Bradford Knapp, Clifford B. Jones, chairman of the college directorate, said late Saturday.

In a statement telephoned The Avalanche-Journal from his Spur home, Mr. Jones said the committee would remain in charge until such time that the board of directors names a successor to the institution's second president who died shortly before noon yesterday.

Task To Be Difficult

"It will be a difficult task," said Mr. Jones, "to find a man to succeed Dr. Knapp and it will doubtless take the directorate much time and search. The college, however, will be in capable hands. Members of the executive committee are experienced and know the work."

The committee, chairmanned by Dr. Harry L. Kent, who was brought to Tech from New Mexico last fall as director of administrative research and assistant to President Knapp, has as members Dean James Marcus Gordon, of the division of arts and sciences, and W. T. Gaston, business manager.

The group was in charge during this spring, while Dr. Knapp was convalescing in San Antonio and Corpus Christi, following an illness which had developed in late winter.

Editor Would Aid Woman Held After Husband Suspected

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP)—Seward Collins, editor of the "American Review," a monthly, put up $5,000 cash today to release Mrs. Maria Griebl, wife of Dr. Ignat T. Griebl, who fled to Germany to escape a federal grand jury's espionage investigation.

Left without funds Mrs. Griebl had been in jail, unable to raise $5,000 bail as a material witness.

Collins told reporters that he had never met Mrs. Griebl and all he knew about the case was what he read in the newspapers.

He described himself as "shocked" at the action of federal officials in holding Mrs. Griebl as a "hostage" for her fugitive husband and accused the government of copying "the practice of torturing the relatives of accused persons in Stalin's Russia."

Five European Nations Shaken By Earthquakes But No Fatalities Reported

Property Loss Not Estimated

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 11.—An earthquake born in the North sea jolted five nations today, rumbling over a 400-mile front from England to the Rhineland.

There was scattered damage, surprise, alarm and even panic among the countryfolk in Belgium and northern France, who dropped to their knees in prayer as chimneys toppled, walls cracked, windows broke and furniture jumped.

Three capitals—London, Paris, and Brussels—felt the shocks, which some seismographs recorded as having a duration of 10 minutes.

No Fatalities Listed

In several continental towns people were injured by falling bricks, but there were no reports of fatalities.

Damage was minor but extensive, apparently most serious in Belgium where it was estimated the damage might reach a million dollars.

Germany and The Netherlands felt the shocks along with England, France, and Belgium.

The quake was described as the most severe in Belgium's history. Brussels boulevards were suddenly thronged with frightened crowds. Factories and homes alike were evacuated as roof tiles crashed to earth and windows were shattered.

Here's Three-Year-Old Hero Of Clyde Storm- And Tot Saved

Posse Of 500 Seeks Negro

LAKE CITY, S. C., June 11. (AP)—Led by a pack of bloodhounds, a posse of 500 armed men tramped through the swamps today searching for a negro share-cropper accused of slaying the plantation owner for whom he worked.

All night the searchers, carrying pine-knot torches to light the way, sought to pick up the trail of the negro, L. H. Goodman, 23, who, Sheriff W. R. Wall said, was charged with killing his white employer.

The victim, 28-year-old Lewellyn Singletary, one of Florence county's largest land-owners, was shot to death in a barn on his plantation late yesterday.

Fight On Traffic Mishaps On, According To Governor Allred In Special News Story; Executive Calls Attention To War

EDITOR'S NOTE: In connection with Traffic Safety week in Texas, which begins tomorrow, Gov. James V. Allred has written this article exclusively for the Associated Press.

By JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor Of Texas

AUSTIN, June 11. (AP)—Texas is in a war!

Not a war of shrapnel and bullets but one equally as deadly to some 2,000 Texans whose life blood is spilled just as quickly and thoroughly as though bombs had dropped their destruction from the skies.

A war in keeping with the modern trend where innocent noncombatants—the pedestrians and cautious drivers—must go about their daily lives, as long as they live, in the zone of the no man's land known as our streets and highways.

It is a war where human lives are sacrificed daily as heedlessly as those of a battalion ordered to take the enemy's position at any cost.

Cost Runs High

And that cost is plenty! To Texas—2,000 lives annually. To the nation—more than 37,000 human beings. In property damage, a toll approximating 20 million dollars!

Startling as these figures may seem, equally surprising has been the attitude until recently of the majority of citizens who somewhat fatalistically felt that the one-sided war would come to an end somehow—and anyway, "it won't happen to me."

The governor's traffic safety committee of 100 public spirited citizens, together with official law enforcement agencies and civic clubs, has attempted to end this one-sided war by arousing the citizenship to its traffic safety responsibilities.

One hundred state organizations have joined with this committee to sponsor a gigantic traffic safety mobilization in Fort Worth, Wednesday. The week beginning Sunday has been declared by me as Traffic Safety week in Texas and the citizens have been asked to mobilize for the war on sudden death.

National speakers and state authorities will head the one-day session outlining the tried-and-proved methods of safety defense against the onslaughts of traffic accidents. Recommendations will be drawn up for consideration by the legislature at its regular session in order that law enforcement bodies will not be lacking for "martial law" on the streets and highways of Texas during the safety war.

Whether you know it or not—Texas is in a war!

Bartenders Name Saloons "My Office" To Protect Husbands

MEXICO CITY, June 11. (AP)—Showowners and saloon-keepers with their genius for selecting unusual names for their places of business, have performed a service for stay-out-late husbands.

A common name given to bars is "mi oficina," or "my office." Thus any belated gentleman may inform his wife, in all truth, that he has been at his office.

German Churches Must Limit Use Of Oil, Minister Says

BERLIN, June 11. (AP)—Oil for devotional purposes must be used as sparingly as possible in nazi Germany, Hanns Kerrl, federal minister for church affairs, has informed the clergy.

A considerable amount of rapeseed oil is being consumed in the "eternal lamps" found in churches, says Kerrl. Some churches have installed burners designed to lower oil consumption; in one case the saving was put at 47 per cent.

Major Brooke Held By Government

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 11. (AP)—The federal government jailed Major John R. Brooke, jr., today on a charge he murdered his wife, but its spokesmen steadfastly withheld details of the case.

U. S. Commissioner N. A. Brown ordered the 44-year-old army officer held without bond after the prisoner pleaded innocent and waived preliminary hearing.

Mrs Brooke, comely, 42-year-old mother of three children, was found fatally beaten in the Brooke home at nearby Fort Benning last Wednesday.

Major Brooke, an instructor in the fort's vast infantry school, was afield on maneuvers when two daughters discovered their mother's body. He was recalled, placed in the post hospital where he was held until civil authorities claimed him today.

None would say what motive the government would claim or disclose any of the circumstances of the death.

Chicken Hawks Hot On Trail Of Colorado Grasshoppers

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 11. (AP) — The grasshopper invasion in eastern Colorado has attracted thousands of chicken hawks.

Several ranchers reported recently the skies were black with hawks circling over regions where the 'hoppers were thick.

The hawks settled down at various places and feasted until the supply of grasshoppers was exhausted, then moved on to other 'hopper infested regions.

Monday School Of Instruction Will Initiate Parks Recreational Program

Heads Listed By City, WPA

Definite assurance that a city parks playground project will be in operation the second consecutive summer was given Saturday with the announcement that a school of instructions for playground supervisors will start Monday and continue through the week.

John W. Wilson, physical education instructor at Junior High school, who has been named project supercisor, said that a staff of 15 assistants has been chosen and will attend the school, scene of which will be the auditorium in American Legion hall.

City, WPA Sponsors

The project will be sponsored jointly by the city and the Works Progress administration, with the city supplying the equipment and the WPA paying necessary salaries. The plan of operation is practically the same as last summer, when the project attracted an estimated 70,000 participants to various city parks for activities.

While the playground program probably can not start on a full schedule until next week, tentative plans announced by Wilson are for activities probably Tuesday or Wednesday afternoon at Pioneer (Seventh street) and Carlisle (Twenty-seventh street) parks.

To Expand Program

The program later will be expanded to include morning, afternoon and night activities on every day except Sunday at Mackenzie and Booker T. Washington parks as well as Pioneer and Carlisle.

Direct supervision of the project for the city will be the recreations council of the city parks board. Members of the council are W. H. Evans, W. O. Daniels, Mrs. W. A. Jackson, H. C. Pender and L. H. Liston. K. N. Clapp is chairman of the parks board.

Passing Of Forged Instrument Charged; Bond Is Not Made

R. P. Bray, arrested several days ago by members of the police department, Saturday was charged with passage of a forged $27.72 check, the complaint having been filed with S. E. McMillan, justice of peace.

On arraignment, bond of $750 was set and late Saturday he had not posted bond, said Jas. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff.

The check assertedly was passed to J. P. Leach, complainant, and had the name of Geo. D. Elliott, district superintendent for the Shell Oil and Refining company, signed to it, according to the complaint. The complaint was prepared by Burton S. Burks, district attorney.

Old And New Mixed---This Resulted

Crosbyton fire department was in need of a fire truck, so they mixed together an ancient model sedan, $850 worth of equipment and parts, a lot of elbow grease and even more mechanical ability. The result, as uptodate as any truck of its kind to be found, is pictured above with Chief Hugh Nation of the Crosbyton department at the wheel, and Assistant Chief Sam Caldwell on the rear step. The picture was made when they brought the truck to Lubbock a few days ago. The truck is equipped with a 200-gallon booster pump, carries 160 gallons of water to fight small fires and is equipped with 400 feet of lin-lined hose. It will be exhibited and demonstrated at the state fireman's convention opening Tuesday in Amarillo, Chief Nation said. Assisting in the demonstration will be Sam Pangburn of Pangburn Supply company, Lubbock.

Dr. Bradford Knapp Hewed Out Successes In Three Fields Of Endeavor

Late Tech President Followed Law And Agriculture Before Becoming Noted Educator

A full life of service and of intense activity was ended with the death of President Bradford Knapp of Texas Technological college Saturday morning.

That life began on Christmas eve in 1870, in Vinton, Iowa, where his father, Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, was president of the Iowa School for the Blind.

A man of many talents, Dr. Knapp established a career in two separate fields before he entered educational work in 1920. He first was a lawyer, then devoted his attention to the promotion of agricultural work in the South before he turned to the educational field in 1920 to become dean of agriculture at the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville.

Son Of Agricultural Leader

He was the son of the man who became known as the "father of extension work" in the United States and throughout his life he was interested in agricultural work and served as director of extension work for the United States department of agriculture in the South and in other high agriculture positions before he became a college executive.

His presidency of Tech became known July 18, 1932, when he resigned as president of Alabama Polytechnic institute at Auburn and telegraphed his acceptance of the Tech position to Clifford B. Jones of Spur, directorate chairman. He had been president of the institute at Auburn four years. Previously he had been president of Oklahoma A. & M. college at Stillwater from 1923 to 1928.

Dr. Knapp began his higher education when his father was president of Iowa State college at Ames, studying there two years.

Health Sends Him South

An attack of pneumonia led to a recommendation from his doctors that he leave Iowa during the severe winters and he enrolled, as a result in Vanderbilt university at Nashville, Tenn.

He engaged in various campus activities and played on and managed the Vanderbilt football team. His enthusiasm for sports, evidenced frequently on the field at Lubbock when he left the president's box on occasion to lead the cheering for the Red Raiders, got its start in those years when "football was a man's game—and the surgeons got the losers."

He received his bachelor of science degree from Vanderbilt in 1892. For a time, then, he managed a sugar plantation in Louisiana, but yen to practice law sent him to the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. He received his law degree in 1896 and returned to Iowa to practice law in Clarion until 1909. From 1907 to 1909 he was county attorney of Wright county. It was at Clarion he met his wife, the former Stella White. They were married July 20, 1904.

Father To Washington

Meantime, Dr. Seaman A. Knapp had entered the United States department of agriculture. From a small beginning in demonstrating to Texas cotton farmers the most effective methods of combatting the boll weevil, the elder Knapp developed the present extension service employing county and home demonstration agents.

The elder Knapp, knowing his son's interest and knowledge of agriculture, took Bradford to Washington in November, 1909, as his assistant. Ten days after the father's death April 1, 1911, his son was appointed to succeed him.

The federal government gave recognition to Dr. Seaman A. Knapp for his part in establishing the extension service with the dedication of a memorial arch in Washington in 1937. Dr. Bradford Knapp, Mrs. Knapp, and their younger daughter, Virginia, attended.

Is Sent To Europe

In 1913, the department sent Knapp to Europe to study rural finance organization and cooperative marketing. He returned a few months before the outbreak of the World war.

With war raging in Europe, America received an immediate demand for more raw products. The man who later was to become Tech president was appointed chief of the extension service in the South and directed his energies during the war period to increased production. From 1915 to 1920, he was in the states relations division for the same federal department.

The University of Maryland, in recognition of his services, bestowed the honorary degree of doctor of agriculture in 1918.

With return to peace, Dr. Knapp decided to turn to the field of education. He and Mrs. Knapp had five children and his duties in the department of agriculture kept him traveling much of the time. The offer of the deanship at the University of Arkansas provided the opportunity to settle down. Three years later, Oklahoma, after a siege of political turmoil which saw three men at the helm of the Oklahoma A. & M. college in almost as many months, called Dr. Knapp to become president of that institution.

The college had an enrollment of about 1,700 when he took charge in September, 1923. Enrollment went up to 2,400 in about a year and continued to climb.

Quiet had returned to the political front and soon Oklahoma had discovered it had an educator who could mix with the farmers on their own ground.

Children Are Listed

The two older children, Bradford, jr., and Marion, took their degrees from A. & M. The latter became the wife of Irvin Hurst, a classmate who had edited the college paper. They moved to Oklahoma City, where he continued in newspaper work. Bradford, jr., took his advanced work at Ames and then, like his father, joined the department of agriculture. He is stationed with the bureau of animal husbandry in Washington.

After five years, the educator went to Alabama Polytechnic institute at an increase in salary of $2,000 a year. Four years later, he received the offer from Tech.

Associates knew Dr. Knapp as an indefatigable worker — one who spared himself least of all. Much of the strain which led to his illness was attributed to the fact that he attempted to perform personally little services which might have been detailed to others.

Stressed Technical Work

A belief that Dr. Knapp often expressed was that work in the technical divisions at Tech should be stressed. He encouraged a general arts and sciences course when students were sure of what they wanted to study, but discouraged the tendency of students to enroll in that division merely because they were undecided of what course they desired.

Arriving in Lubbock in late August of 1932, he was plunged immediately into the task of meeting a report of the state board of education and efficiency committee in which were found many criticisms of the educational system in Texas, Tech included. The gist of the board's recommendation was that schools of agriculture, engineering, and home economics be discontinued here and Tech reduced to a college of liberal arts with some teacher training.

The new president flung himself into the attempt to save those technical fields of the college which he considered all important. The legislature did not disturb the charter or objectives of the college or eliminate any item of the curricula.

Aided In Statewide Moves

During his presidency, Dr. Knapp gave efforts to aiding in agricultural activities in the state, and had worked recently on a program in cooperation with the state-wide cotton movement. He highly commended the rural community project now operated under the Farm Security administration at Ropesville and actively aided in that project.

He was chairman of the subcommittee on education of the Governor's Traffic Safety committee in Texas and was a pioneer in promotion of public schools traffic safety education in Texas.

He was widely known as a speaker. Before he became ill and his physicians recommended that he cease making speeches, he usually filled several speech engagements weekly. He soldom missed an opportunity to laud Tech in his speeches.

Was Widely Traveled

He made numerous trips to Washington, to Fort Worth, Austin, and other cities to gain new facilities and improvements for Tech.

During his administration, the college has gone through the trying years of a growing institution constantly needing new facilities. Through efforts of Dr. Knapp and his staff, facilities were stretched to allow for an increase of approximately 1,000 students during his administration.

Mrs. Knapp shared his joy in entertaining, and successively, at Stillwater, Auburn and Lubbock they initiated receptions and banquets to bring faculty and students into closer relationship.

He was sympathetic to the problems of his students and anyone could obtain a few minutes time from the busy educator's life.

Member Of Many Groups

Who's Who in America listed him as a member of the advisory committee of the federal farm board, American Economic association, National Economic league, Kappa Alpha (social fraternity), Alpha Zeta (agricultural fraternity), Phi Kappa Phi (scientific fraternity), Democratic party, Presbyterian church, Masonic lodge, and Rotary club, and a fellow in the Royal Economic society.

He was an elder in the Lubbock First Presbyterian church.

He was author of two books, "Safe Farming" and "How the Whole County Demonstrated", and of numerous magazine articles.

Hearing On Bond Of J. R. Rae Asked

Burton S. Burks, district attorney, Saturday said a motion would be filed with Judge Daniel A. Blair of 72nd district court for a hearing Monday at which attorneys for the state would attempt to show that bond for J. R. Rae, charged by indictment with robbery of S. B. Bardwell, Lubbock business man, should be increased.

His bond had been reduced from $5,000 to $1,500 after a mistrial had been declared in his case last week when jurors deadlocked nine to three for conviction.

Upon his release Friday morning, he borrowed money from Sheriff Tom Abel, then asked members of the Bardwell family for money and frightened them, officers said, creating a disturbance.

He was arrested later by deputies sheriff who said Rae, 23-year-old Coleman man, had been drinking.

One-Legged Men's Shoe Store Is Opened At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11. (AP)—A shoe exchange for one-legged persons and other cripples has just been opened here. It is intended to do away with the necessity of buying two shoes when a person can wear only one. Odd-sized shoes for various other afflicted persons will be sought through voluntary contribution.

Eventually the exchange hopes to work with similar agencies in other cities, so unwanted shoes may be exchanged and put to good use.

Dr. Knapp is shown here as he donned a cap and gown on the day before 1938 commencement exercises at the college. Although he had been a college president fifteen years and had graduated from two institutions and conferred honorarily by another, he had never worn the academic regalia until this photo was made.

In this picture, Dr. Knapp is seen in a typical pose. He was an enthusiastic horseman and loved to ride. He was snapped above as he rode on the campus directing activities of the gigantic tree-planting event this spring in which more than 20,000 trees and shrubs were planted.

HE BELLED AN ELK

QUINAULT, Wash. (AP) — Jasper Bunch found a lovely cow elk bogged in a mud hole. Instead of killing her, he attached a cow bell to her neck and then dug her out of the mud. Since then, the tinkle has been heard all over the valley.

Hardin-Simmons President Wires Deepest Sympathies In Passing Of Dr. Knapp

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

ABILENE, June 11.—Profoundest sympathy to the entire Tech family, at the death of Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Tech, as one of Texas' greatest educators and most eminent citizens was expressed tonight by Dr. J. D. Sandefer, president of Hardin-Simmons university, here.

In a message to Mrs. Knapp, Dr. Sandefer, beginning his 30th year as president of HSU, and dean of senior college and university heads in Texas, said:

"Everyone connected with Hardin-Simmons university joins me in expressing deepest sympathy to you in the passing of your illustrious husband. Dr. Knapp was one of our greatest educators and one of our most illustrious citizens. May the Father of all mercies comfort you. Tenderly, J. D. Sandefer.

To Dean J. M. Gordon of Texas Tech, Dr. Sandefer, who is ill at his home here, messaged:

"All of us here at Hardin-Simmons university convey our profoundest sympathy to the entire Tech family in the loss of your illustrious president. Illness prevents my attending the funeral."

Tributes Paid Memory Of Dr. Knapp By Friends And Colleagues At Texas Tech

PERSONS prominently identified with Texas Technological college, state and educational circles and with life in the City of Lubbock yesterday joined in expressions of grief over the death of Dr. Bradford Knapp.

Among hundreds of expressions heard and scores which were telephoned to college authorities and The Avalanche-Journal, the following are typical:

GOV. JAMES V. ALLRED (in a telegram to the bereaved family)—It will always be an inspiration to have known Dr. Knapp. He wielded untold good on the lives of thousands of men and women. The institution he headed stands as a memorial to the greatness of his work.

• • •

CLIFFORD B. JONES, of Spur, chairman of the board of directors of the college—"I am grieving today not only for the loss of a personal friend whom I had grown, through frequent association, to respect, love and revere, but also because Texas and the nation has lost a friend who had a deep and abiding interest in improving the lot of the average man. Men like Doctor Knapp, and his predecessor, the late Dr. Paul W. Horn, are indispensable to the nation's youth and essential to the development of our state and our section."

• • •

SPENCER A. WELLS, Lubbock member of the college directorate—"Texas Technological college, Lubbock and West Texas had in Doctor Knapp an untiring champion whom the entire South and the nation had learned to view as one of our most forward-looking educators. His passing causes me personal grief and leaves a vacancy which will be extremely difficult to fill, not only at the college, but all over this section of the country. In my association with Dr. Knapp I learned to respect his fine judgment and love him as a personal friend."

• • •

DEAN A. H. LEIDIGH of the division of agriculture and professor of agronomy—"Dr. Knapp in my opinion was the outstanding authority on applied practical rural sociology in America. His wide sympathy and love for the farm people was on a par with his determination to make the college do everything possible for the population as a whole. He carried these qualities into his college work and was a firm believer in making education contribute directly to earning power, human comfort and human wellbeing."

• • •

DR. W. C. HOLDEN, dean of archaeological, anthropological and historical research and curator of West Texas museum—"Dr. Knapp was one of the most human characters I have ever known. He had a big heart, a keen mind, a tolerant attitude and a generous spirit. I feel like he went just the way he would have wanted to go—in harness and full of zest to the end."

• • •

W. P. CLEMENT, registrar—"Though connected with higher education in Texas only six years, Dr. Knapp had come to be recognized as one of the leading college presidents in the state. His death distinctly is a loss to all Texas."

• • •

DR. HARRY L. KENT, director of administrative research and assistant to the late president—"I have known Dr. Knapp 15 years, always in the capacity of his development of agricultural institutions and knew him as most unselfish and interested in developing the welfare of the American farmer, especially the Southern agriculturalist. He was a man of wide vision, practical and sound in his ideas both as an educator and an administrator. I will miss him personally, as well as his constructive leadership."

• • •

DR. R. C. GOODWIN, dean of the graduate school—"The college will suffer inestimably through its loss of Dr. Knapp. His ability as an educator and administrator was widely conceded. His strong belief in development of scientific and technical, as well as cultural high standards, marked his administration. His cheering philosophy did much to lift the college to its high achievement. I shall miss him as a president and a friend."

• • •

HUGH J. McCLELLAN, secretary of Masonic bodies of Lubbock—"Dr. Bradford Knapp was a Mason of long standing, being a member of both the Scottish Rite and York Rite bodies. He attended the meetings of the different bodies as often as possible, and was well informed in history and symbolism of Masonry. The craft has lost a valuable member in the passing of this great and good man."

• • •

W. T. GASTON, business manager —"Dr. Knapp lived a devotion to his position that was an inspiration to me every day I was associated with him. A tireless worker who never required as much of his associates as he was willing to do himself, he literally gave more of himself to accomplishing the task in line of his duty than any man I ever knew."

• • •

MISS ELIZABETH WEST, librarian—"He loved his fellowman. He never spared himself. I remember hearing once that he 'did the work of six men.' His death was as great a shock as if we had known nothing about his illness. An impulsive person . . . full of human kindness . . . loving and loyal toward his family . . . always interested in people . . . one of the biggest hearted men I have ever known.

• • •

DEAN O. V. ADAMS, of the engineering division—"Dr. Knapp's aggressive thinking and his wide experience in many fields of activity made him a stimulating leader. He believed in the type of education which would contribute to the usefulness of the individual. In his passing the state has lost an outstanding citizen and the faculty and student body a sympathetic friend."

• • •

DR. JAMES M. GORDON, dean of the arts and sciences division—"A man of exceptionally strong convictions; loyal to his friends, devoted to his family; a tireless worker; a man of broad acquaintance and extensive knowledge, capable of meeting those high in authority on their plane but never losing touch with the common man; son of an illustrious father, with the luster of the father fully reflected in the son. Another great educator has paid the penalty for unstinted devotion to high ideals of service to humanity; another great man has all but literally laid down his life for Texas Technological college; another great leader has fallen. We shall sorely miss him."

• • •

MISS MARGARET W. WEEKS, dean of home economics—"One of Dr. Knapp's outstanding characteristics was the breadth of his interest and his knowledge of technical work. His interest in home economics went back many years to the beginning of home demonstration work in the United States when he and his father, the late Seaman A. Knapp, inaugurated home demonstration work in the South. The home economics faculty at Tech was always conscious of President Knapp's appreciation of home economics objectives and problems. We, with the rest of the faculty, deeply regret his passing."

• • •

MRS. MARY W. DOAK, dean of women—"Dr. Knapp was an enthusiastic worker, untiring in his efforts to fulfill his objectives. He devoted wholeheartedly his whole life and soul to his work. All of us have felt the loss of President Knapp's passing and will feel it more."

• • •

CARL E. SLATON, mayor of Lubbock—I wish to express regret, both personally and in behalf of the city officials of Lubbock, of the tragic death of Dr. Knapp. In addition to his untold value as a Texas educator and as being instrumental in the recent development of the college, Dr. Knapp was a highly-treasured citizen and friend of the city. His death is a tremendous blow to the city as well as the college.

Freaks And Thrills Told Of By Clyde Folk Who Suffered From Fear And Loss Of Property In Tornadic Disturbance

CLYDE, June 11. (AP)—Out of the welter of tales of the Clyde tornado came the story of the frightened little boy, tossed into a pit of water, who held his tiny brother above the surface until help came and saved them both.

Jess Donald Rutledge, 5, and his babe-in-arms brother, Caryl, were tossed from an automobile when the blow bowled over the machine.

The persons with whom they were riding were killed. When the tots landed in the water, instinct impelled Jess Donald to grab his brother and tearfully, but manfully, hold him at a safe distance from the water.

A telephone lineman happened along and rescued them.

Left Tractor In Time

Homer McConnell started into town with a tractor and combine from the wheat fields. He saw the storm approaching and took refuge in a ditch. After the wind passed, he hazarded a peek. The machines had been tumbled end over end several times.

A stone residence was blown away. Nothing remained but the foundations—and a pair of shoes, dropped idly on the bedroom floor. At what had been the site of another home, there was nothing but an ice box and a stove. The stove wouldn't work.

Plenty Of Thrills

Dale Fitzhugh said "about 20 of us were in a storm cellar at the west edge of town, when it hit. I watched the storm until it was almost on us. It was weaving from side to side. There husky men were holding the door. The wind lifted the door out of their hands as if it had been paper. My house was completely cleaned out."

Just past the cemetery on the edge of town there was no evidence of the storm. The winds appeared as though they suddenly tired of the evil game and had dissipated at the spot where the victims will be buried.

Alcohol In Cocktail Is Antidote For Infection

BY RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11 (AP)—The alcohol in your cocktail is the antidote for the trichinosis that may lurk in the hors d' oeuvres or the dinner.

Dr. James B. McNaught of Stanford university told the American Society of Clinical Pathologists today that intoxicants prevented trichinosis or pork worm infection when taken in appreciable quantities along with food containing the parasites.

Alcohol did not kill the worms — in fact they thrived by themselves in a 28 per cent alcohol solution — but it impaired the flow of digestive juices which would have "broken down" the infected food into bodily energy.

Remaining undigested, the infected food passed through the body as waste, carrying with it the tiny worms which often cause serious illness and sometimes death.

Dr. McNaught made the discovery by following up the fact that several persons who ate tiny sausages but took no intoxicants at a cocktail party became ill, while those who ate and drank did not.

He tried to treat trichinosis by administering relatively large quantities of alcohol 48 hours after infection but the intoxicant had no effect then. To be effective, he said the drink had to be taken just before or during the consumption of the food.

Dr. McNaught said any element which might block the digestive process probably would do the same thing.

MONTGOMERY WARD

City And College Prepare To Say Farewell To Dr. Knapp

Again, on March 8, he returned to the college to take part in the cornerstone-laying ceremony at the library under construction and to attend a board of directors meeting. That night, he introduced Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt before she made an address in Lubbock High school auditorium.

He remained at his home and directed work from there until upon advice of his physicians he left April 9 to rest in a lower altitude and to consult other specialists. He remained away until May 21, spending most of the time in Corpus Christi.

Planned Further Rest

He returned to take part in commencement activities at the college and to attend the annual June board of directors meeting Monday afternoon, and had planned to leave again Friday to rest in Corpus Christi.

Tuesday morning, he collapsed at his breakfast table and was rushed to West Texas hospital. His collapse at that time was due to acute gastritis, but he suffered several heart attacks in the time intervening before his death and late Thursday it had been feared he might not survive the night.

He suffered stomach, digestive, and kidney complications, said a physician.

During the last three months, his pulse had been far below normal, going as low as 26. Normal is between 72 and 76. A day or two before his death, his pulse had gone up to between 44 and 48.

Part Of Family Starts Home

The family had been so encouraged by Dr. Knapp's apparent improvement in condition that a daughter, Mrs. Irvin Hurst, and Mr. Hurst had left Saturday morning for their home in Oklahoma City and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Roger Knapp had left for her home in New Orleans at the same time. The Hursts were reached by radio and the Texas Highway patrol at Amarillo shortly after noon, and Mrs. Roger Knapp was advised of the death by the same methods at Terrell late Saturday. Both the Hursts and Mrs. Knapp immediately turned back to Lubbock.

The educator is survived by his wife; three sons, DeWitt Knapp, a Lubbock architect, Dr. Roger Knapp, who has completed his interneship in a New Orleans hospital and is ready to start practice in Lubbock, and Bradford Knapp, jr., of Washington, member of the third successive Knapp generation to be employed in the department of agriculture; two daughters, Miss Virginia Knapp, a senior at Tech, and Mrs. Hurst, wife of an Oklahoma City newspaperman.

Several grandchildren, Randle, 9, Owen Bradford, 6, and Carol Anne, 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Hurst; Virginia Dee, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Knapp; Bradford Knapp, 3rd, one, and Maxine, 9, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Knapp, jr., and Jeannette, four months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Knapp.

Relatives On Way Here

One brother, Arthur S. Knapp, of Lake Charles, La., who late Saturday was on his way here; and one sister, Mrs. J. Fay of Des Moines, Iowa.

Dr. Kent, Dean Gordon and Business Manager Gaston, meeting immediately after the president's death, issued bulletin notices of his death and asked that all offices be closed and all classes be suspended. Class and office work will be discontinued until 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, Dean Gordon said Saturday night.

Politican Speeches

Anna, likewise discussed agricultural problems, citing the part he played as a member of the railroad commission in obtaining reduced freight rates on feed for drouth stricken areas.

At Brenham, Tom F. Hunter said $15,000,000 could be whacked off expenses of state government, largely through eliminating useless branches.

If elected governor, he said, he might create one job, that of "state eliminator," whose duty would be to pull "loose the leech that doesn't move the body."

Self Opens Monday

Thomas Self coupled an announcement he would open at his home town of Crockett Monday with a declaration he would favor abolition of state elective officers except the governor, who would appoint a cabinet.

Another campaign opening also will take place Monday in Waco, that of W. Lee O'Daniel, Fort Worth flour merchant. The Ten Commandments constitute his announced platform.

P. D. Renfro of Beaumont, who is stressing the need of a business administration and economy in government, moved into Dallas after "working" Lufkin, Jacksonville and other East Texas towns earlier in the week.

Clarence E. Farmer of Fort Worth told voters at Denton it was Texas' duty to provide full pensions for all over 65 and also care for dependent children and needy blind as "demanded by the people."

Significance Recently Found

The past week assumed unusual import because it witnessed the nearly-final shaping of the state ballot for the first democratic primary July 23 and the people obtained a clearer view of the candidates' lineup.

The ballot will be finally passed upon and certified to counties by the state democratic executive committee meeting here next Monday. Fifty-seven had applied for places upon it, including 14 seeking the governor ship, when the deadline for filing passed last Monday.

A protest against listing as a candidate for governor a Dallas garage operator who originally filed as Vernest O. Thompson has been brought by Everett L. Looney of Austin, a member of the committee, and Myron G. Blalock of Marshall, committee chairman, has summoned Thompson to show why the protest should not be sustained.

A Question Of Politics

The protest said publicity in connection with Thompson's application raised a question whether such a person existed, whether the application was filed in good faith or whether it was an outgrowth of "political chicanery."

It was the duty of the executive committee, it said, to protect the integrity of the party and to resist any effort to use the primary to confuse the voters.

The committee may decide where the state party convention will be held in September. Houston, Beaumont, Laredo and Dallas have been mentioned as possible sites.

Interpretation May Follow

The committee may be asked to advise county committees that they are required by law to determine by lot the order in which the names of candidates shall appear on the ballot.

Vann M. Kennedy, secretary of the committee, said more than 50 per cent of the counties accepted the state ballot as it was sent them by the committee, interpreting the law relative to drawing for places as applicable only to county and district offices.

For the consideration of the committee, he has listed the candidates in the order in which they filed. In the governor's race, this places S. T. Brogdon of Stephenville in first place, Joseph King of Houston in second and Ernest O. Thompson in third.

Stanton Storm

slightly more than half an hour.

Rain and hail, accompanied by light winds, fell at Tahoka. An estimated inch and a quarter of moisture fell there and hailstones in portions of that area were described as being large as a man's fist. The hail did damage to car tops and residences. It was not known the extent of the coverage of the hail there, but it was estimated much damage was caused to crops. Estimates of damage to crops varied from 25 to 50 per cent.

Inch At Seminole

Seminole bore the brunt of a "little storm" with the deluge, falling rapidly, estimated at an inch. Hail stones there, damaging crops, were larger than marbles, it was reported. The fall reached several miles in each direction.

Ropesville, badly in need of moisture, received half an inch, but rains were heavier in neighboring areas. Possibly three-quarters of an inch fell at Abernathy with hailstones ranging in size from marbles to eggs. An unestimated amount of damage resulted from hail.

Hale Center received only dust and wind, it was reported. Likewise Matador received no moisture. Seagraves, also suffering from lack of rainfall, received less than a quarter of an inch after a duster struck first. The moisture there came in two showers. The rains missed Roaring Springs.

Two Inches At Post

Two inches resulted from a hard-dashing rain at Post with other heavy rains in that immediate area. A "water spout" was reported between there and Tahoka. No inclement weather of any sort visited Meadow, but Lakeview near there was recipient of an inch of moisture, according to reports.

Dry Brownfield, whose clouds this spring for the most part have brought only dust with occasional showers, received less than a quarter of an inch. A duster accompanied it. Heavy rains in nearby areas fell. "Not a sprinkle" was the report from Littlefield.

Hail At Levelland

Levelland's half-inch was accompanied by hailstones as large as marbles. Whiteface suffered damage from hail. Morton was slighted in the precipitation. Spur, according to a report from the experiment station there, received a half-inch of beneficial moisture.

Lamesa's report was only showers with dust. However, at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night the moisture continued to fall.

Santa Fe dispatchers said heavy rains fell at Lorenzo with lighter rains at Ralls. Spotted rains fell to Sweetwater and north from there as far as Rule.

Crosbyton got half an inch with no hail or strong wind. Slaton received only a shower.

would be held here for relatives. He had not yet made plans for an inquest.

Airport attendants said Bashaw and his companions planned only a short ride over the city.

Bashaw told airport attendants when he arrived here Thursday that he had come to see Ed Mileski, former Worland pilot.

Schoolmen Resolve Lowering Of Salaries Not Expected

AUSTIN, June 11. (AP)—Adopting a resolution whereby no school will be expected to lower its high school teachers' salaries below those of 1937-38 in order to effect the standard set forth in the single-salary schedule, the committee on classified and accredited public school system Saturday completed its annual session here.

Members of the committee adopted the "single salary schedule" in June 1937, but decided this year to give all schools making an honest effort to meet the schedule all the time necessary to effect the change.

LOW MARKS HIT

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP)—The stock market almost shut up shop today as dealings dropped to the lowest mark in about 20 years.

The ticker tape was virtually a standstill. Transfers totaled only 197,230 shares, the smallest for any day since Aug. 3, 1918.

Price changes were exceptionally small either way at the close, with numerous issues holding at their Friday's final quotations. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 3.91, but was up .7 of a point on the week.

Traders were inclined to ignore the few bright spots in the news, including one of the sharpest rallies in wheat futures for some time, together with strength in most other commodities.

In addition little attention seemed to have been paid to fresh inflationary murmurings occasioned by a brisk run-up of European currencies in terms of the dollar.

The domestic business outlook continued as cloudy as ever, although some in Wall Street thought chances for an upward reversal in the next month or so would improve as government pump-priming gained headway and the depletion of inventories revives buying demand.

Cotton . .

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 11. (AP)—Foreign purchasing, inflationary scares and unfavorable weather sent cotton prices approximately 50 cents a bale higher on the exchange here today.

The market closed steady, up 7 to 9 points from yesterday's close, with July contracts at 8.39, Oct. at 8.31, Dec. at 8.35, Jan. at 8.34, March at 8.39 and May at 8.42. Spots closed quiet with middling 3 points higher at 8.34 on sales of 95 bales.

Biggest gains were made in the early trading of today's short session. A few points were lost near the close on profit taking.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP)—Cotton was generally higher today although early firmness attracted week-end realizing. After selling off to within a few points on Friday's close, the market turned steadier on trade covering. October eased from 8.24@8.13 and closed at 8.18 with final prices 5 to 8 points net higher.

Market opened 10 to 13 points higher and soon advanced a few points further on active foreign, trade and commission house buying, influenced by steadier Bombay cables, larger cotton goods sales yesterday and unfavorable weather in the cotton belt. July liquidation and profit-taking appeared, however, and prices reacted 8 to 11 points from the highs.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, June 11. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.22 cents a pound, average for the past thirty market days 8.37 cents a pound.

V. O. Thompson May Ignore Summons

DALLAS, June 11. (AP) — James Wright, campaign manager for gubernatorial candidate Vernest O. Thompson, today indicated but did not say definitely, that Thompson would ignore a summons to show cause before the state democratic executive committee why his name should not be stricken from the ballot.

Wright said the voting system "as indulged in by the citizens of the United States is primarily to manifest their satisfaction or dissatisfaction on any candidate. The Texas statute governing the candidacy of governorship has been complied with."

Wright protested in a statement that "V. O. Thompson is in no position to trade favor, pull strings, or bear pressure—his opponent is in that position and is taking full advantage of the situation."

Dr. L. A. Woods To Dedicate Model Vernon School Today

VERNON, June 11. (AP)—Dr. L. A. Woods of Austin, state superintendent of schools, tomorrow will dedicate a new $71,500 school building, 16 miles southwest of Vernon, which was completed in May to replace a structure razed by fire last summer. It will serve a district formed several years ago when five-rural schools combined to install an 11-grade institution.

Equipment at the school, which has a gymnasium seating 800, includes radio and intercommunication facilities in all rooms, and still and motion picture projection machines.

English Attitude Toward War Is Flayed By Anthony Eden

(By The Associated Press)

Anthony Eden, the man who balked at dealing with dictators, tonight rebuked Great Britain's "appeasement" government as Czechoslovakia and warring Spain held Europe's attention as danger spots.

Eden spoke more forcefully at Leamington than at any time since he quit the cabinet Feb. 20 in protest against Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's "realistic" foreign policy.

Eden demanded a "clear stand" against Nazi-Fascist power policies. He said "retreat is not always the path to peace," and "true friendship" with other nations cannot be built on foundations like "disregard of engagements, merciless bombings of open towns and deliberate sinking of British merchant ships."

Hull Seeks To Prevent Sale Of Bombing Planes To Japan

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP) — Secretary of State Hull undertook today through public opinion to halt sale of American-made bombing planes to Japan.

Hull told reporters this government's repeated condemnation of bombing of civilian populations was directed especially at the manufactureres of military planes, and the general American public as well as foreign powers.

The repeated damning of ruthless warfare would discourage sales to regions where planes were being used to bomb civilians, he predicted.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 11. (AP)—Wheat prices skyrocketed 4½ cents a bushel in Chicago and 5 cents, the daily limit, at Kansas City and Minneapolis today as large buying orders poured into the grain pit.

The reductions, effective next Wednesday, average more than 10 per cent, Hall said. He added they would apply on classes of property affecting the greatest number of insurance buyers, such as homes, stores, stocks of merchandise, farm property, garages, public buildings and churches.

A bus ticket to San Antonio came in the mails shortly thereafter.

Only last week the bed-ridden mother received a postcard from Marvin, telling her he was going on a fishing trip and would write her again soon.

A coroner's inquest was held in the early morning hours Friday but Justice of Peace Raymond Garnett did not return a verdict.

No bond had been set for the Blacks and date for an examining trial was not revealed by Fraser.

Mother Worries Over Her Awarded Custody

HARLINGEN, June 11. (AP)—Worry over whether she did wrong by giving her son, Marvin Dale Nobbitt, 13, to the care of the couple now held in connection with his death, added to the agonized grief of Mrs. Bobbie Smith Saturday after she learned of his death in a fall from a cliff near Alpine Thursday.

Belief that she was acting in the child's interest impelled her to consent to his going to San Antonio early last April with Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Black, she said Saturday from the cot where she lay ill. Mrs. Smith has been seriously ill with the measles, a disease that has also afflicted her two younger sons, Harold D., 11, and Billy Gene, 7.

Adoption Was Pending

Marvin Dale was not adopted by the Blacks, the mother said definitely, though the question of adoption had come up. She said she had insisted that adoption not be discussed until he had stayed with the couple six months or a year to make certain the relationship was agreeable to the boys.

The Blacks contacted her through Mrs. Elizabeth Same, who was in charge of a tourist camp in Harlingen. Mrs. Smith related. They said, she reported, that they wanted a boy about 13 willing to work in the ice cream business they expected to enter at San Antonio.

She said she understood the couple had been in business in San Benito before going to San Antonio to operate a radio shop there.

Visit Offer Spurned

The only communication from the Blacks which Mrs. Smith has is a postcard written May 11 in which she reported that Marvin Dale seemed unruly and hard to manage at times. She suggested that the mother write to the boy and try to correct this habit.

His last message to his mother came about a week ago and was a request to her to postpone an expected visit to him. Mrs. Smith had been planning to visit a married daughter in Decatur, Ark., and wrote that she would stop in San Antonio to see Marvin Dale.

Mexican Treaty On Water Is Urged

AUSTIN, June 11. (AP) — Gov. James V. Allred and the Texas Planning board added their influence today to the renewed drive to speed up consummation of a treaty with Mexico governing division of the waters of the Rio Grande.

The acute shortage of water in the lower Rio Grande had focused attention on the need for such a treaty so storage dams might be built along the international boundary stream. State officials were informed that crops between Eagle Pass and Brownsville were seriously threatened because of lack of water for irrigation and that at some points water was being rationed for domestic uses.

Allred sent a telegraphic appeal to Secretary of State Cordell Hull urging quick action on the drafting of a treaty.

HOUSTON MAN KILLED

HOUSTON, June 11. (AP) — W. C. Rister, 45, was killed today when a bolt on the side of a boiler at a nearby oil field was driven through his right temple. Rister was making fast a cable when the truck suddenly slipped into a chug-hole and threw him against the boiler.

Additional Sports

Patty Berg Cops Trans-Miss Cup

TULSA, Okla., June 11. (AP)—Little Patty Berg of Minneapolis has her championship at last.

Today the red-haired stylist, often a runner-up, played her smartest golf over the soggy fairways of Oakhurst Country club to beat decisively one of the most famous players in women's golf, Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, in the 36-hole final of the Trans-Mississippi tourney, six and five.

Mrs. Hill made a great battle of it on the morning round, playing a steady game on the fairways and rolling her putts dead to the cup to match the advantage Patty's longer wood shots gave her. The first eighteen ended with Miss Berg one up.

Patty Forges Ahead

It was a different story in the afternoon. Patty kept her skill on the fairways and found her putting touch.

Finally they came to the thirteenth with Patty five up.

Both made the slanting green in three. Mrs. Hill's putt from 15 feet barely missed and the ball lay a few inches from the cup, and Patty's ball nearly was stymied.

Patty firmly stroked in her 10 footer for a par four, winning the hole, the match and the championship.

"Well," beamed Patty when they handed her the big championship cup, "they say everything comes to those who wait."

Americans Keep Wightman Cup

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 11. (AP) The United States exerted its monopoly on the Wightman Cup for the eighth consecutive year today, when merciless Helen Wills Moody froze out Kay Stammers in the deciding match of the two-day international tennis series, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

The final score was 5 to 2. But after Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Boston had defeated Margot Lumb, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, and Helen had beaten Miss Stammers, the last two matches merely were exhibitions.

In the third singles match Alice Marble whipped Peggy Scriven, 6-3, 3-6, 6-0, and in the concluding doubles Joan Ingram and Evelyn Dearman won from Mrs. Moody and Dorothy May Bundy, 6-2, 7-5.

High spot of the day was Miss Stammers' fight against Mrs. Moody. This was a battle of Mrs. Moody's style and experience against the courage and tactics of the petite English southpaw.

By winning the trophy again, the U. S. team brought the standing in the series, begun in 1923, to: United States 12, Britain 4.

Luce Beats Skeeters To Win River Crest Golf Tourney

FORT WORTH, June 11. (AP) — Buck Luce, Austin, won River Crest's twentieth annual invitation golf tournament here today when he defeated Bill Skeeters, Fort Worth, 4-3.

Skeeters, 1936 champion, had defeated Billy Coffey, last year's winner, in the semi-finals.

It was Luce's second major victory in as many weeks, he having triumphed at Beaumont last week end. He succeeds Don Schumacher of Dallas as the River Crest champ.

Fadeout Is Unexpected

Skeeters' fadeout was entirely unexpected. Starting the back nine three down, Skeeters sprayed his tee shot, lost the hole. He rallied to hold things even at 11 and 12 and picked up 13 when Luce suddenly went wild himself. That left Luce three up and five to go.

Skeeters missed an iron second, flubbed a third and took five to get on the 536-yard fourteenth. Buck made a beautiful long third within three feet of the can and ran the putt down for a bird to keep Bill from putting for a six.

The duel ended on the short fifteenth. Both missed the green, pitched up and missed par putts to halve in fours.

PORT VENDRES, France, Near the Spanish Frontier, June 11.—The tradition of adventure on the Spanish Main is being kept alive by seamen carrying aid to the embattled Spanish government.

Imagine riding a cargo of high explosives in Valencia harbor, with Insurgent air bombs sending up spouts of water around you, and you have an idea of what blockade runners experience now in waters where old-time buccaneers would be a minor nuisance.

Their traffic is mounting between French and Spanish governmental ports as the Insurgent land forces tighten their ring around Catalonia and broaden their wedge toward Valencia.

Men of many nationalities — Americans, Canadians, British and all the sea-faring races of Europe —are braving the bombs of Insurgent planes, the shells of warships and the torpedoes of submarines to carry supplies to the government coast.

All Nations Crew

Take, for example the little British tramp steamer S.S. Stangrove of London, with a single black stack sticking up out of 620 blistered tons of freighter.

Aboard her are 15 men; the Welsh captain, Robert Dowman, a veteran of 50 years at sea; five Estronians' three Frenchmen, two Englishmen, one Canadian, one Pole, one Norwegian and one Dane.

The Canadian, dark and wiry, with a beret, turtle-necked sweater and pants of navy blue, calls himself Tom Evans of Toronto. He first went "to sea" on the Great Lakes, at the age of 15, during summer vacations from high school.

"I've been in eight bombardments and heard more from the water, some as we passed ports at night," he said aboard ship.

A Close Shave

"About the closest shave we've had was in Gijon last November. We were just going alongside with a cargo of cigarette lighters, shoes and socks, when the planes came over and started bombing the port. They dropped 30 bombs around us, but never hit us.

"Another time, we came into Valencia. They started to bomb. Six men on the quay ran down a tunnel, and a bomb lit right over them. Five of those men they never found. The sixth—a piece of shrapnel went right through his head.

"Once, we went into Valencia with 350 tons of TNT from Rotterdam and Amsterdam. About 2 a. m., they came over with the planes.

Never Mind The Pilot

"At that time, all the ships used to go out in the harbor at night, to anchor away from all that. But we had stayed at the dock. The warehouse alongside was full of TNT and so were we. Some bombs dropped near.

"The next night, with some TNT still on, the captain took the ship out in the harbor without even waiting for a pilot."

The Stangrove came to Port Vendres this time from Burriana with a cargo of oranges—"it took us 10 days to get the cargo because the planes came over and scared the dockers," Evans said—and left for Marseille to pick up gasoline for Barcelona.

Despite the hazards, the men don't quit. They go, not for high adventure, but for high pay. Their work is usually overseen by non-intervention control officers, who rule out war materials, but they still must elude the Insurgents trying to keep all supplies from reaching governmental Spain.

The seamen, whose average base pay is about $16 a week and keep, receive double wages for 24

Three Regional Cotton Classing Schools To Be Conducted By Texas Tech

Three Agencies Are To Assist

Cooperating with the Texas Cotton association, the Texas Cotton Ginners association and the statewide cotton committee, Texas Technological college's textile engineering department will conduct three regional cotton classing schools again this summer, M. E. Heard, head of the Tech department, said Saturday.

The first of these schools will be held at Tech, July 5 to July 16. The next will be at Abilene, July 18-30 and the final one at Quanah from Aug. 1 to Aug. 13. Heard is to direct the schools, which have been attended by several hundred cotton men, ginners and farmers in the past two years.

Notable Assistants Employed

Leaverne Lackey of Austin, supervisor of the cotton classification division of the United States department of Agriculture and Lewis Meyers of Abilene of the same division will assist in the schools. Instructors at Abilene will include J. O. Green, G. I. Wall and Judd Acton, cotton men there. C. F. Wilson, Bob Stevenson and others will aid in the school here.

The West Texas Cotton Growers association, the American Cotton Cooperative association, the division of cotton marketing in the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture and the Texas Cotton Growers association will assist in conducting the schools, Heard said.

"False Positive" Wassermann Reaction Said Cause Of Wrong Treatment For Syphilis

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—The discovery of a strange substance which mocked the Wassermann test and led to syphilis diagnoses for patients not actually infected was reported today before the American Society of Clinical Pathologists.

Dr. A. S. Giordano, of South Bend, Ind., the discoverer, said the substance was found in guinea pig blood, one of the three necessary elements of the Wassermann test.

One out of every 40 animals was found to bear this substance, which invariably caused the test to show "positive" on a human being even when syphilis was not present.

Since the blood of four or five animals is used in a single test, the possibility of a wrong diagnosis was deemed even greater than one to 40.

To counteract this mysterious agent Dr. Giordano turned the Wassermann test upon the guinea pigs themselves, although he knew their blood contained no real syphilis germs.

When the blood of an otherwise acceptable guinea pig showed positive under the Giordano test it was discarded. By using only blood which did not react to the preliminary test Dr. Giordano got serum which produced reliable results on human patients.

"It is obvious," he said, "that by applying the preliminary tests the 'false positive' Wassermanns due to this substance can be avoided, and many patients thus need not be subjected to unnecessary treatment for syphilis."

Attempt Of Man To Save Girl Fails; He Is Drowned

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 11. (AP)—The body of a man drowned in an effort to save a girl riding with him in a boat when it capsized at Belle Isle lake during a church picnic was recovered today a short time after the girl died.

The body of the man, Ollie Beeseley, 30, was found by firemen after an all night search.

He drowned when he attempted to save Miss Marie McLear, 19, of McLean, Tex., who was pulled from the water by other rescuers. She died this morning after respirators failed to restore her to consciousness.

A third occupant of the boat, Cameron Charles Holland, 13, swam 100 yards before he was picked up by another boat.

Miss McLear, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McLear, McLean, worked in a private home here.

Hopper Fight Getting Results

DALHART, June 11. (AP)—A concentrated drive by 500 men in a poison campaign against grasshoppers in the Texas Panhandle counties, is decreasing population of the insects about five per cent daily, leaders said today.

But, they pointed out, fifty per cent of the original hopper population which began hatching in Dallam, Hartley, Sherman and Moore counties in May, still remained unless they are killed within the next several days the millions of insects will get their wings, and do ruinous damage to grass and other crops.

Campaign Unabated

By tomorrow coordinator Ted Houghton, Hartley county rancher, hoped to have 300 spreaders distributing 350,000 pounds of poisoned mash daily.

Etimates were that an average kill of 75 per cent was being secured by present spreading. Mop up operations will account for most of the remaining 25 per cent, and fighters hoped for a final kill of at least 95 per cent.

National guard, highway department, soil conservation, and bureau of agricultural economics trucks and drivers are aiding in the battle.

G. R. Kennedy Made Official Of Dallas Insurance Concern

Miss Mildred Proctor, his secretary, also has been made district secretary of the company, he said.

Hubbers And Terry Beat Hobbs With 2-Hitter, 3-2; Teams Play Today At 3

Big Bill Takes Down 5th Win In Row Here

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

Ernest "Big Bill" Terry pitched and the Hubbers played great baseball yesterday to nudge the Hobbs Boosters, 3 to 2, in an hour and a half of fast West Texas-New Mexico league competition that had the fans hollering for more.

Rabe and his Boosters got only two hits off big Terry, and Rabe got both of them, and both of them were singles. Terry pitched shutout ball for eight innings, ending his day's work by striking out in succession the Hobbs "murderers row" of

BLANCHARD VS. NEEDHAM TODAY

It's Lefty Blanchard's turn on the hill for the Hubbers today in the second game of the Lubbock-Hobbs series here. He will oppose Russell Needham, ace of the Hobbs pitching staff, in today's single header which begins at 3 o'clock sharp.

Blanchard has won eight and lost five for the Hubbers, dropping his last start at Midland, although he pitched a 2-hit game and walked only 3 men.

Rabe, Padgett and Donaldson as fast as they came up. Until the seventh he had allowed but one hit, Rabe's single through the box in the fourth. Nifty play by Boyd Watkins at short and Manager Hack Miller behind the plate took care of that rally, however, in short order.

It was Terry's fifth victory in a row.

Gives One Walk

In the seventh, Rabe led off with the second hit off Terry. Padgett drew the only pass Terry issued, then, rattled, Terry hit Donaldson, who failed to move away from a change of pace. That filled the sacks, then as Smyly struck out on a wild pitch, Rabe scored. Grover Miller hoisted a long fly to Carr who stood against the fence to shag it, and Padgett scored. Hargrove grounded out to Stevens at second. Terry retired the last nine men to face him, in order.

A long fly into the wind to deep right by Manager Hack Miller provided the run by which Lubbock won. The Hubbers had filled the bases, Mosel getting on when Secondbaseman Loken threw too quickly on a ground ball. Taylor and Stevens drawing walks. One was out when Miller hit to Donaldson in right, and Mosel scored easily.

Pitcher Hogan of Hobbs limited the Hubbers to six base knocks, two of them by Al Carr his first trips to the plate, and the only extra base blow was Johnny Taylor's double to left in the seventh.

Carr scored after getting his first single, an infield blow that bounced hard off the pitcher and which the shortstop couldn't recover in time to handle. He stole second slick as a whistle, and tallied on Bob Hillin's single to right. Hillin got to second when Rabe threw wild over the base trying to head him off, and he scored when Rabe dropped the ball trying to tag him at the plate.

Wind Is Big Factor

It looked like Terry had him a shutout until the seventh when he filled the bases with nobody out, but he came out of the hole nicely, except for the wild pitch.

A stiff wind blowing into the plate caused batted balls to do strange tricks, and helped keep down the score. Lubbock sluggers probably would have chalked up four home runs, and Hobbs one, had the day been quiet. Stevens, Taylor, Hillin and Carr hit long drives that cleared the fence, but were blown slightly foul by the wind. Carr made a couple of nice catches of balls with home run labels on them, especially one by Grover Miller in the seventh. The ball looked like it would hit the scoreboard for a homer, but Carr caught it while leaning against the wall.

Boy Is In Three Finals Matches Of Fort Worth Tourney Today

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, June 11.—Bobby Curtis, the Houston schoolboy who is one of the nation's top ranking junior players, went into three championship finals of the Texas Sectional tennis tournament here today.

Sunday morning he tackles Jack Rogers of Dallas in the junior singles finals. In the afternoon Bobby will team with Dick Morris, also of Houston, against the University of Texas' Southwest conference champions, Bobby Kamrath and Edgar Weller, for the men's doubles titles, and a little later Lefty Brown, the huge Waco boy, will be his partner in the junior doubles finals. Curtis and Brown will oppose Joe Ball of El Paso and Harry Hickman of San Antonio for the junior doubles championship.

Guernsey Vs. Allison

The men's singles championship battle will be between Frank Guernsey, Rice institute's Southwest conference singles champion, and the former Davis Cupper, Wilmer Allison of Austin.

Allison and Guernsey roared into the finals Friday, Allison by beating Weller and Guernsey by putting Kamrath out in straight set fashion.

Today the old Davis Cupper sat on the sidelines and watched Guernsey and Joe Lucias grapple with Kamrath and Weller in a men's doubles semi finals match.

Earlier in the day Curtis and Morris had put out another University of Texas combine—Paschall Walthall and Warren Christner 7-5, 8-6, 6-1.

Abilene Boy Wins

Little Tommy Hill of Abilene took the boys' singles championship by stopping six foot Jack George of Fort Worth 6-3, 6-2.

Curtis and Brown advanced to the junior doubles finals by eliminating Joe Adams and Jimmy Whitehurst of Houston 6-2, 6-4.

Ball and Hickman defeated Henry Batjer and Ed Hatzfeld of Austin in the semi finals 6-4, 6-3.

Frank Whaley of Dallas and Dick Elliot of Trinity captured the boys doubles championship by stopping Don Goldbeck of San Antonio and Walter Driver of El Paso 4-6, 8-6, 6-4.

Lubbock, Lamesa Poloists Play

Local polo reaches a critical point this afternoon when the Lubbock team rides against the Lamesa Blacks in a "rubber" game.

The contest is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock on the polo field inside the race track at Fair Park.

It will be the third meeting of the teams this season in the West Texas Polo association campaign. In previous matches, Lubbock has won one and Lamesa one.

Alternating at Nos. 1 and 2 positions for Lubbock this afternoon will be Charles Smith, Guy Smith and Kent Smith, with Bob Hester at No. 3. Murphy May and J. H. Cooper alternating at the No. 4 slot.

For the Lamesa Blacks, Elmo Smith is expected to ride at No. 1, Lee Barron at No. 2, Ed Hatch at No. 3 and Sol Cleveland at No. 4.

Indications are that it'll be quite a ball game, between two fairly evenly matched teams featuring some of the best horseflesh seen in this section.

Don Budge Completes Tennis Grand Slam

AUTEUIL, France, June 11. (AP)—Don Budge completed his tennis "grand slam" today.

The red-headed Californian crushed Roderich Menel, huge Czech, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, to add the French hard courts championship to his American, British and Australian singles titles and became the first player in history to hold all four at the same time.

Budge became the seventh foreigner, but the first American, to win the French title. Tomorrow he and Gene Mako will seek to annex the doubles title in a battle with the French team of Bernard Destremeau and Yvon Petra.

The women's singles championship went to France's veteran No. 1, Mme. Simone Mathieu, who defeated Nelly Adamson of Belgium, 6-0, 6-3.

Ralph Guldahl Scores 284 For Second Straight Open Title

Stages Great Comeback

Ralph Guldahl, former Dallas golfer, Saturday captured the United States Open golf title for the second year in succession after staging a spectacular comeback to overcome a lead set up by Dick Metz in the first three rounds.

Final Round 69 Gives Former Texan Crown

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

DENVER, June 11.—Ralph Guldahl, burly Texas-born professional from the Braiburn club of Madison, N. J., today won the American Open golf championship for the second straight year with a smashing last-round come-back. He spread-eagled the field with a final 69, two under Cherry Hills' par for a 72-hole total of 284 to become the first repeater since Bob Jones did it in 1930.

Guldahl, trailing Dick Metz of Chicago by four strokes at the close of the third round this morning, came from behind with an electrifying finish to prove himself every inch a champion.

Overtakes Dick Metz

His victorious total, comprising successive rounds of 74, 70, 71 and 69, was three strokes short of the world record he set for major open championships in capturing the title at Oakland Hills for the first time with 281, but he won today by a much more impressive margin—six strokes.

Metz, who looked like the winner when he led Guldahl, 211 to 215 at the 54-hole mark, participated in a general blowup that blasted the chances of all but the defending champion. Metz finished second as he staggered to the finish with a last round 79 for a total of 290.

Four In Running

There were only four contenders with a title chance when the surviving field of 60 began the last round, after Henry Picard, the Hershey, (Pa.) star had fallen abruptly from the pace-making position with a third round 77.

Besides Metz and Guldahl, the potential winners included long-hitting Jimmie Hines, Metropolitan New York champion, and Emery Zimmerman, the slender 28-year-old "dark horse" from Portland, Ore., but the pressure quickly caught up with and disposed of all but the champion.

Champ Turns On Heat

Hines folded quickly and wound up with an 83 for a total of 297. Zimmerman hung on longer but finally skidded to a 78 for a total of 294, ten strokes behind the winner.

Meantime Guldahl, having rated himself exactly four strokes off the pace for three successive rounds, turned on the heat, mustered his best shots and overtook Hines on the second hole of his final round. He caught up with Metz at the fifth and also shook off Zimmerman's challenge.

Guldahl Never Bends

The issue, to all intents and purposes, was decided on the fourth, fifth and sixth holes. In that short stretch Guldahl picked up five strokes on the faltering Metz and three on Hines. The champion shot 4-4-2 on these holes against par 4-5-3.

Guldahl went on to the turn in 34, one under par. He had picked up no less than seven strokes on both Metz and Hines and four on Zimmerman. From there on only a crack-up by the champion himself could affect the outcome. He never displayed the slightest trace of even bending under the pressure as a swarming crowd of nearly 10,000 spectators saw him march through a shower of rain to victory.

Lady Luck With Him

Guldahl applied the crowning touches to his great finish midway on the homecoming nine. He bagged a brace of birdies on the 13th and 14th.

Even Lady Luck rode with the winner. On the 13th, he went too boldly for the pin but his ball struck a slope of the green, nearly 20 feet from the cup, stopped in its tracks and rolled back more than half-way.

Only three players, up to today, had repeated in the National Open. Besides Bobby Jones they were Willie Anderson, who won three times in a row in 1903-05 and Jack McDermott, who turned the trick in 1911-12.

Metz Is Second

There wasn't much consolation for the rest of the professional brigade after Guldahl got through mopping up, collecting the $1,000 prize money, signing another receipt for the title cup, and hastening off to give a radio talk.

Metz, whose 54-hole total of 211 equalled the championship record, had a two-stroke margin of second-place safety with his 290 total. Trailing him, in a tie for third place at 292, were Tony Penna of Dayton, Ohio, and Harry Cooper, the hard-luck king. Cooper finished with 71 for 292, after blowing his chances with a third-round 76.

Picard Falls Back

There was another two-way tie for fifth place, between Zimmerman and Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., at 294 each.

Picard's attack of putting jitters on the third round put him out of the running after starting the final day's play in possession of a one-stroke lead over Metz, 140 to 141. He posted 77 and 78 for his last two rounds and totalled 295. This left him in a three-way tie for seventh place, with Paul Runyan and Frank Moore, both from New York's suburban Westchester.

Far back in the heap of shattered hopes was Sam Snead, the West Virginia sophomore, whose aggregate

Meet The Hubbers' Most Rabid Fans

LOOKS LIKE a base hit! You could tell it, even without looking at the ball—by just glancing over at the middle box in the grandstand at this dashing trio of "always on time" fans. Clovis Bridwell must be pitching for the Hubbers and the Hubbers must be ahead, because Mrs. Eridwell, at extreme left, seems pretty pleased about everything. And it must be Pope Mize's day, too, because Mrs. Mize, "the Georgia peach" in the middle, has something to grin about. No, that isn't a black eye—part of the screen got in the photographer's way. Mrs. Boyd Watkins is at the right, and this demure lady probably is wishing Boyd would make up his mind one way or another—to play shortstop or center field. He has been doing both recently. They're three of the four baseball wives on the Hubber squad. Mrs. Hack Miller, wife of the skipper, declined to have her picture made, but she's an ardent fan, too. One other Hubber player, Pitcher Marvin Gramly, is married, but Mrs. Gramly is vacationing in California at the moment. (Photo by Reeves).

Roy Largent, Of Largent And Largent, Baseball Scouts, Visits In Lubbock To Look Over White Sox Property; Missus Busy Scouting

* * *

The "wusser half" of one of the world's strangest combinations—a husband and wife baseball scouting team—is a visitor in and around Lubbock since yesterday and for the next few days.

He is Roy Largent, who claims McKinney, Texas, as home but who, with Mrs. Largent, the only woman scout in baseball, rarely sees the inside of the home residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Largent are talent scouts for the Chicago White Sox organization, which includes Dallas, Longview and Lubbock in Texas, Rayne, La., and Vicksburg, Miss., in this end of the country, St. Paul and other clubs in other parts of the country. The Largent duties generally center around the South and Southwest, but they are not confined to this territory.

GIANT SCOUT HERE

Not one, but two major league scouts are here to see the Lubbock-Hobbs and Lubbock-Big Spring series this week. Following Largent into town yesterday came Clarence "Bubba" Jonnard, former Dallas and New York Giant catcher, now a full time scout for the Giants. Jonnard hopes to see several semi-pro teams at work in this section, as well as the West Texas-New Mexico league teams.

Rarely Travel Alone

Mr. Largent, one of baseball's "grand old men," rarely travels without Mrs. Largent, who, he admits, is the "brains and ears" of the team. Mr. Largent, handicapped by almost total deafness, relies on a keen pair of eyes to discover and a fluent tongue to convert sandlot and semi-pro baseball players for the White Sox, while Mrs. Largent does the "listenin'" for her husband. But she is "on her own" as a full-time scout, also, and many are the players in the White Sox organization, some of them now in major league ball, who were discovered, signed and delivered by Mrs. Largent.

"Mrs. Largent wanted to come with me," he said, "but had to go the other way this week. She'll be out here soon, though, because she's mighty interested in the Lubbock ball club. She sent some of your players here."

Commends Faulkner's Work

The interesting Mr. Largent, with his perpetual smile and his fast flow of words, was happily surprised to note the condition of baseball in Lubbock, especially the improved ball park, which he said was certainly a credit to a town this size, and the team which is leading the West Texas-New Mexico league. He sent several players to the Lubbock-Longview-Rayne training camp at Longview last spring, and some are on the Hubber team today. Largent is particularly proud of the progress of young Malcolm Stevens, Hubber second baseman, whom he discovered at a baseball school in Louisiana last year and wrapped up for the White Sox.

When he isn't talking about baseball players, Mr. Largent is talking about the missus. Mrs. Largent recently was named head of the All-American board to select the All-American semi-pro team for 1938. The squad of 16 players is to be picked from approximately 400,000 candidates. Mrs. Largent has had numerous requests to appear on national broadcasting programs recently, following her recognition by Robert Ripley, the "Believe it or Not" man, as the world's only professional woman baseball scout, but has turned them all down.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Largent have been scouting for the White Sox for 13 years. Every player recommended by the Largents carries the stamp of approval of the lady. Standing behind them at the national semi-pro tournament at Wichita is Steve O'Rourke of the Detroit Tigers.

If the 71 judges of the Great Sanhedrin, supreme Hebrew tribunal, rendered a quick verdict of guilty, the defendant was acquitted because it was believed that such a decision showed either conspiracy or a lack of calm deliberation.

J. Judge, Jr. Batting For J. Judge, Jr.

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP)—Meet the one-boy ball team—10-year-old Joe Judge, jr., son of the old Senator first sacker.

His team—the Joe Judge All Stars—was trailing by one run in a fierce struggle with the Tennesson Street Terrors.

Came the last of the ninth.

Joe Junior, first up, smacked a home run to tie the score. Then—after he got his breath—he ordered himself to pinch hit for his third baseman and drew a walk.

Reverting to strategy again, Joe stopped the game and ordered the boy he had just batted for to run in his place. This settled, Joe returned to the plate and pinch hit for his left fielder.

He won the game by blasting out a double, which scored the boy who was running for Joe, who had hit a double batting for somebody else.

In addition to naming the team the Joe Judge All Stars, Joe's other connections with the club are:

First baseman, team manager, captain and club president.

You must have a lot of extra time on your hands, Joey?

"Well," he said, "when I ain't too busy, I coach."

Righthanded Golf Is A Lefthanded Game, Says Lubbock Professional

By CHARLES AKEY
Lubbock Country Club Pro

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of articles written exclusively for the Avalanche-Journal by Charles Akey, Lubbock Country Club professional. Watch for the fifth article next Sunday.

If you have been swinging the club regularly for 30 minutes each day you should have your swing moving in an easy, smooth action, and describing a near perfect circle around your body in its arc.

If you are like most people who are right handed you have a very definite tendency to push the club through the swing with the right hand, rather than turning it with the body. Forcing the club with the right hand is the "trespass against mother nature" of which I spoke in the second article, and every effort must be made to overcome this natural tendency to hit with your strongest hand. "Right-handed golf is a lefthanded game," and the development of a strong left hand and arm is the hardest job the golfer will encounter.

Remember that your left arm is the "spoke" in your wheel, and that the power put into the swing comes from the body THROUGH this spoke. If the left arm is overpowered by the right, you are forcing the clubhead beyond the "spoke" it is supposed to swing on, and will produce a slice or hook, dependent upon the contact with the ball. Last week we left off with an abbreviated swing which is the foundation of every shot except the putt. Now we go into a full swing.

After you have turned to the right until the left side is well around, and the left shoulder has turned down to a point under your chin, the arms and hands move the club up into a position of the full backswing. A full backswing is reached when the club is horizontal with the ground. In moving the club to this position, keep the left arm straight and let the wrist "cock," be the very last movement in the backstroke.

Apply Power Properly

Be careful that the grip of the left hand does not become loose at the top of the swing. From this position we are ready to deliver a smooth, lashing surge of power that if applied properly will send the ball far and straight down the course, but it must be properly applied. If you have followed the action carefully thus far we will obtain satisfactory results after a few trials.

From the top of the swing the body starts and controls the downward movement and the power in

Fight Principals Look The Same As Last Time

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 11.—When Joe Louis and Max Schmeling face each other again at Yankee stadium a week from Wednesday night they will look just like they did on that memorable evening two Junes ago.

Max, at 32, doesn't look a day older, and fights in the same precise, methodical fashion that carried him to the world championship and later blasted Louis into defeat.

Louis, the negro, has a more mature look and seems a little fiercer at times when his sparring partners stir him up. Outside that he is the same devastating puncher with a curious inability to protect his chin from a good right.

Watch For Max' Right

They will look the same, but this time the crowd will be filled with a tense expectancy lacking the other time.

Instead of wondering how long Max can last, they will be watching for Schmeling's right fist to explode on the champion's chops, and to see if Joe has learned to take it.

When Max connects for the first time, they will know whether he is to return to Germany in triumph or is to take a beating from a black man.

If that first right knocks Louis down or even confuses him, then Schmeling will win, for this one great punch of his is the cruelest weapon in the business.

No One Can Take 'Em

But if the champion takes it standing up, then Schmeling is in for a bad evening.

This observer, after watching Schmeling train, honestly doesn't believe that Louis or any man living can absorb a half-dozen of the German's rights without being seriously damaged.

Schmeling in action looks like he always did, except that his right seems to dart out a trifle faster, and more often.

Determined For Knockout

Despite his confidence he can stop Louis again, Max asserts this won't make him careless. He is determined to score a knockout.

There is a chance that Louis will attempt to keep on top of his man this time and try to beat him down with youth and strength and the sheer fury of his attack.

He is trying hard in training to make himself an in-fighter, but it is our duty to report that Joe plainly doesn't have his heart in the effort.

The consensus is that if he does try such tactics on Schmeling he will run into a series of rights that will jar back teeth, and that he quickly will revert to standing nearly erect and jabbing away at Schmeling's nose.

Odds Favor Champion

His left jab still is about the best there ever has been. It is the one great blow he always had.

If Louis is seriously stung early in the fight, he might even try to stay clear away from Schmeling and jab out a victory.

The present odds of 8 to 5 in Louis' favor reflect the careful judgment of those who think the past two years are bound to have taken something out of the veteran German.

Maybe so, but you can't tell it from watching Max run up and down the Adirondack hills for hours at a time or from studying his workouts. If he isn't even a better man physically than he was two summers ago he has a lot of persons fooled.

Thomas To Grapple With Pedigo; Don Hill On Program

Soldier Thomas of Vancouver did right well for himself last week in defeating Joe Kopecky in the main event, so he's coming back this week to fight another top card. His opponent in the two-out-of-three-falls match is to be Blacksmith Pedigo, the veteran bone bender from Louisville.

Thomas and Pedigo are two of a kind, so far as size and shape goes; to all outward appearances, they'll be well matched, each a short, lumpy sort of guy. Pedigo has considerable more experience. But so did Joe Kopecky have more experience than Thomas, and the little fellow won.

Don Hill, the handsome Californian, is returning to the circuit and the Auditorium ring Wednesday night. He fights in the semi-final, against Dizzy Dilly Davis of Houston, the red-headed terror who never knows when he's had enough. Hill used to be extremely popular here, although last time around he failed to show the old stuff.

The curtain rises on a scene dominated by Andy Tremaine and Gust Johnson, the Swede from Minnesota.

Boosters Still With Us

By Collier Parris

RABE AND HIS RABID run-makers from New Mexico are with us again today, and you can look for anything to happen.

Since early season, the other clubs of the league have been looking askance over Hobbs way and muttering in their beards that "there's the team we've gotta beat; that's a hard nine."

And the Boosters are just that. They've been in the upper division all season, and they finally nosed Wink out of second place, and are firmly, well, more or less firmly, entrenched there.

• • •

It's a colorful outfit, this Booster band, with Manager Rabe leading the pack. Like wrestlers, they are more popular in one town than another. Some folks couldn't get off for Rabe's funny stunts on the field, but Lubbock sort of liked him. Maybe it was because Lubbock was getting the best of the ball games.

The Hubbers can't lose the lead today, but they can be made to feel pretty uncomfortable if Hobbs keeps moving up.

• • •

AND don't be forgetting the Big Spring Barons. They're moving in Monday for three days and four games, and they're getting tough. Monday's game will be a single header, with a twin bill possibly Tuesday.

So closely bunched are the five teams below Lubbock that any of them are dangerous now, and they're improving right along by adding experienced players, while the Hubbers are stringing along with the original lineup. But that lineup is good enough for us as long as its keeps winning at home and breaking even on the road.

PROBABILITY that lights will be installed here continues to grow. Harry Faulkner is definitely sold on the idea, although he doesn't have to worry about where the next salary check is coming from. It will be a feather in his cap, however, to keep the club as much out of the red as possible, and he's anxious to continue his reputation with the Dallas and White Sox organizations.

Bob Tarleton at Dallas, with his hands full of Dallas and other White Sox business, and with these clubs not going so hotly, is the man who gives the nod for such things as installation of lights. So far, he hasn't given the nod, definitely, but Faulkner has things lined up so that once he gets the go ahead sign, it won't take many hours to get the floodlights up and going.

Fans who have time might sit down and drop Mr. Tarleton a kind word relative to the nocturnal situation. It would help, Faulkner believes.

SHORT, SHORT STORIES: High school coaches are invited to notice Littlefield's request for some football games this fall . . . Reversion of the District 5 championship plan to the split district rule leaves the clubs with some open dates, and Littlefield's athletic handy man, Ed Seely, writes to ask that we publish his open dates . . . .

Qualified athletes will supervise the playing of the games, and they'll be under direct supervision of the Tech coaching staff . . .

CAN'T work up much enthusiasm over the pending Schmeling-Louis brawl . . . A lot of funny stuff is coming out of the Louis camp, but it may be a new kind of ballyhoo . . . They're saying Louis isn't nearly so hot as he was a couple of years ago . . . If it's true, Schmeling will topple him over . . . Personally, we don't give much of a darn whether the negro keeps the title or whether it goes home to Hitler . . . Little choice, we'd say, there . . . We'd also say that unless the heavyweight division "whups it up" a little, fan interest is going to stray over to the lighter weight battlers . . . The Armstrong-Ross bout provoked unusually high interest.

From Nashville comes a publicity blurb anent your old friend and ours, Henry Frnka . . . Who faithfully promised us when he left Lubbock that when he "made good" he'd put the "a" in his name . . . The yarn says that Tennessee's varsity end coach and assistant backfield mentor, which is Frnka, is getting along very nicely indeed, and "has more than justified the confidence Coach Ray Morrison put in him." . . . The yarn goes on and on, but we've gotta stop . . .

Stevens Holds Hitting Lead

Malcolm Stevens continues to lead the Hubbers in batting through games of Friday night. Stevens dropped approximately 70 points during the week leaving his average at .402. Manager Hack Miller lost five points in second place for a .364 average. Johnny Taylor, with some lusty hitting on the road, brought his average up four points to .332 and Joe Gedzius gained a single point. Miller leads the league in doubles with 20, Carr has 15 homers for the loop lead in that department and Stevens' 55 runs batted in total is tops. Charley Bryan spoiled his perfect pitching average last week, dropping two decisions. Unofficial average through Friday, excepting game of June 7 and first game of June 8, follow.

Golf Series

The swing is generated by the turn in the body. The left side, the arm, shoulder and hip, should be consciously turned to the left, PULLING the club into the ball and through, with a smooth action.

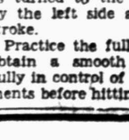

Remember that the golf action is a swing from the body; the power is generated by the body through the left arm and shoulder.

Don't Force Action With Hands

Make no effort to force the action of the club with the hands. Swing the club from and with the body, and let the action be free and easy, with the CONSCIOUS effort being made with the left side.

As you swing the club remember that you are turning your "wheel" and that your head as the "axis" must be fixed; let the club swing freely around this axis until the club is through, and the right side is turned to the position occupied by the left side at the top of the stroke.

Practice the full stroke until you obtain a smooth action, and are fully in control of the various movements before hitting a ball.

Vander Meer Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Game

Only Three Bees Reach Base Off Young Twirler

(By The Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, June 10.—Johnny Vander Meer, 23-year-old Cincinnati southpaw in his first full year in major league baseball, crashed the diamond hall of fame today with a no-hit, no-run preformance against the Boston Bees.

Only three Boston batters reached first base, all on walks, and none got past that station as the youngster from Midland Park, N. J., became the first National league pitcher to turn the no-hit, no-run trick over the full nine inning route since Daffy Dean did it back in 1935.

MacFayden Stingy, Too

His mates collected six hits off Deacon Danny MacFayden, one of them being Ernie Lombardi's seventh homer of the year with a mate on base in the sixth inning, and the Reds finished on top 3 to 0. The last no-hit no-run performance in the major leagues was turned in by Bill Dietrich of the Chicago White Sox against the St. Louis Browns in the American league on June 1 last year.

Complete Twin Killing

Vander Meer retired the first nine men to face him. Gene Moore, first up in the fourth inning, drew a walk, but was out when Johnny Cooney fouled to Lombardi and the catcher pegged to first to complete a double play.

In the fifth, Tony Cuccinello also drew a walk, but was picked off first base on Lombardi's fine throw a moment later. In the same frame, Gil English walked with two out, but died on first as Johnny Riddle grounded out.

Postmaster Is Consistent At Birdie Firing

Baseball teams may have winning streaks, a halfback may have a field day, and a golfer may tear up the course with a sub-par round—and it isn't so unusual.

But Postmaster Amos Howard has had a golfing "streak" that ought to sell a few extra stamps to people wanting something to write home about.

Beginning with the recent West Texas Golf association tourney, in which Southpaw Howard battled in—and won—the fifth flight after qualifying with a 91, and continuing through two rounds yesterday, he has "birdied" the 17th hole at Lubbock Country club eight times in a row. The 17th is a tricky water shot, 135 yards long. During the tournament, Howard played five rounds during the tournament, and each time he landed on the 17th green and ran down his putt for a deuce. Next time out, he did the same thing—and yesterday he did it twice!

Other stars who missed the money and qualifying circles included Jimmy Thomson, the siege gun, at 308; Lawson Little, ex-amateur king at 300; Bobby Cruickshank, of Richmond, Va., third place man last year, at 312; and Tony Manero, the 1936 champion at 313. Ed Dudley carded 315 but he won't have to qualify for next year's tourney because it will be played on his home course, which entitles him to a free ride.

Inquiry Made In Fall Of Plane

DELAVAN, Ill., June 11. (AP)—The bombing plane in which a crew of eight perished yesterday "disintegrated" in the air during a storm, Major Roy W. Camblin said today on the basis of a preliminary inquiry.

Major Camblin headed an army board which began a formal inquiry today at the scene of the crash, a farm meadow two miles northwest of here.

He told a coroner's jury:

"There is no doubt the plane disintegrated in the air, either because it was struck by lightning or by stress caused by rough handling by the storm."

The broken bodies of the fliers were removed last night to Chanute field at Rantoul, Ill., where the plane took off for a return flight to the home base, Lowry field in Denver.

NEXT SUNDAY IS FATHER'S DAY

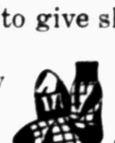

A great Guy . . . that Dad of ours and an unselfish sort-of-a-cuss too . . . but this is one day that we're really going to fix him up . . . it's one time we're going to get him those little things that he always wanted so badly yet wouldn't spend that extra money on them . . . and won't it be fun to see his proud smile broaden, to see him straighten up a little and throw out his chest as if to say he owned the world . . . and he'll probably feel just like that because he will have forgotten the daily grind of affairs, the worldly cares and all that sort of affairs, the he'll be thinking only of what a swell bunch his family is.

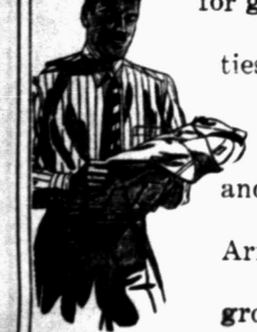

Choosing a gift for Dad is a pack 'o fun and extremely easy at this fine store . . . for there's a gift to be had for every Dad . . .

If you're one who has a spry young Dad who still loves to play golf, fish, hunt or just louse around the yard give him a pair of slacks and (or) a comfortable sport shirt. . . . wash slacks $1.95 to $5.00 sport shirts $1.00 to $2.50

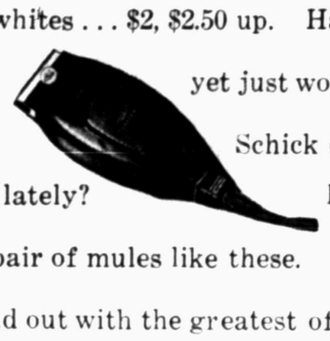

Then if your Dad is an ardent pipe smoker as many are, give him one of these clever pipe racks $1.00

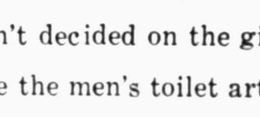

Perhaps he has no particular hobbies that are inspirations for gifts, then he is the type to give shirts, ties, socks,  etc. Show  me the man who doesn't love a good looking Shirt and especially an Arrow shirt with the perfect tie to match.

Arrow shirts in a grand new array of neat patterns and smartly groomed whites . . . $2, $2.50 up. Has your Dad been wanting an Electric shaver yet just wouldn't buy one for himself? then give him a new Schick ($15.00) . . . Have you checked on his old house shoes lately? He might need a new pair.

. . this time get him a pair of mules like these.  $4.00

. . you slip into them and out with the greatest of ease and they're ever so comfy. If you still haven't decided on the gift for dad, let's amble over to the cosmetic counter and see the men's toilet articles on display . . . such as Lentheric shaving soap that is unusually nice and the invisible talcum that goes with it . . . the soap is $1.00 and the talc 85c. . . . and too, there's a group of three flacons by Lentheric that has after shave lotion, men's eua de cologne and a special scalp stimulant . . . all three for $1.95

. . . and did we mention those light weight Summer robes . . . now there's something Dad would like . . . they're made of seersuckers, crashes, cotton twills etc. . . . all washable . . . feature price is $3.95. Well here we are at the bottom of the page and not near through . . .So we'll continue in the next column with suggested gifts that will make Dad's head swell up like this on his perfect day of bliss.

One Dead After Bridge Tragedy

RANDLETT, Okla., June 11. (AP)—Haroid Brewster, 20, Loveland, Okla., died today of injuries suffered in an accident in which he and three others were injured yesterday on the Red river bridge southwest of here.

Those injured were Olin Lindsey, 31, and Lee Griffith, 31, who suffered cuts and bruises, and Ed Alexander, 30, Randlett, who received two broken ribs and a fractured hand.

State highway patrolmen reported Brewster drove a car out of the lane of traffic, saw another machine approaching, turned in and struck a guard rail on the bridge. A car operated by Alexander struck the machine in the rear and both cars went partially through the guard rail.

Lindsey and Griffith, both of Loveland, were occupants of Brewster's car.

Prior to 1835 newspaper men were not admitted to parliamentary debates in England.

Marriage Is War, Says The Professor, But New Generation May Bring About A Truce

ULTIMATUM IS DELIVERED
Two Chicago college students who are "practically engaged" hear Dr. Rheingold expound his theory that marriage is war.

BY AURELIUS KINSEY
Associated Press Feature Writer

CHICAGO, June 11 — Marriage is war, says Dr. Joseph C. Rheingold, University of Illinois psychiatrist, and the sooner the bride and groom "chuck out romance" the better chance they will have.

"All marriages involve a struggle for power," Dr. Rheingold holds, "Sometimes it is waged in so subtle a way that husband and wife are not aware of any disagreement. If a compromise is not reached the marriage fails."

The Wherefores

Dr. Rheingold explains the struggle for power thus:

"The lot of woman has undergone a revolutionary change in the last generation. She has not yet attained equal rights with men but she has gone a long way . . . and her new freedom has altered her relations to her husband in ways she does not clearly understand."

On the other hand, he says the average man is brought up with the traditional idea that he is superior to woman, cannot adjust himself to her new sphere and resents any move she makes to gain equality.

Marriage on a partnership basis does little to solve the difficulty, the doctor believes, because although a man and his wife may agree to keep their marriage on an equal footing the man still expects the wife to do the housework, or he resents her greater business prestige, greater income, greater need for love or differences of opinion.

"The contest is settled soon enough in some marriages by complete suppression of the woman's rights, or, through deception, the woman controls her husband while allowing him to believe he is master," Dr. Rheingold said.

How To Gain Sympathy

"If not reconciled to her husband's superior status the woman may resort to various measures to get some semblance of power. She may interfere with his work, she may claim to be neglected, she not infrequently develops symptoms of illness as means of gaining sympathy.

"When the wife is triumphant the husband suffers damage to his ego.

"Some marriages may be genuinely happy, but these are relatively fewer today than at any other time in the history of marriage."

But Dr. Rheingold sees a ray of hope:

"Boys raised in modern homes are not being imprinted with the idea of masculine supremacy," he says, "and will not have the same blind desire to dominate as have their fathers. Through them the marriage war may be settled."

Deserters Fight To Death Rather Than Face Execution

PERPIGNAN, France, June 11 (AP)—Remnants of a band of 200 deserters from the Spanish government army hid in the Pyrenees mountains today after a battle with government frontier guards in which 21 were killed and 30 wounded.

The guards captured 84 of the deserters, who had been awaiting an opportunity to cross the border. When they were surprised by the guards, the deserters stood their ground in a pitched battle rather than surrender and face execution. Most of the dead were deserters, although several guards were killed.

Week's Permits Here Run To $50,875; Year High

Lubbock's building week rallied Saturday with issuance by the city building inspector of 11 permits authorizing construction and repairs estimated to cost $11,500.

Seven of the permits, with total expenditures of $2,450, went to P. H. Smith as owner and contractor for small one-story frame and stucco residences at 1014 Avenue A, 1916 Avenue A, 1018 Avenue A, 1020 Avenue A, 206 Main street, 208 Main street, and 210 Main street. Each of the residences was estimated to cost $350.

Harold Griffith received a permit, with Ray Givens named contractor, for erection of a brick veneer residence at 2123 Twenty-ninth street, $5,400. Permit for a one-story frame and siding residence at 2112 Twenty-eighth street to cost $3,300 went to O. W. Crittenden, owner, and J. E. Ligon, contractor.

The week's total, after permits Saturday morning, rested at $50,875; the month's climbed to $124,052.75; and the 1938 total was boosted to $1,115,640.57.

Chinese Handle Prisoners Well

HANKOW (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Offers of bounty equivalent to six months' pay per captive so far have failed to tempt Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's warriors to keep pace with official Chinese statistics on Japanese prisoners of war.

The few Japanese taken alive—probably not more than 100 all told—have reason to be pleasantly surprised at their treatment. For they are considered as subjects for political reformation rather than as hated enemies to be punished.

Immediately after the Chinese victory at Taierhchwang in early April, Chinese spokesmen announced that 1,000 Japanese had been captured and were being brought to Hankow to disprove the common belief that Chinese "take no prisoners."

Although the "1,000" taken at Taierhchwang has been reduced to "700" and "600," newspapermen here have been permitted to see and talk to only nine prisoners.

The presence of a half hundred prisoners in the Shensi capital, Sian, is confirmed by neutral observers. These and others, including a score or more of airmen brought down behind the Chinese lines, total less than 100 whose existence has been established by independent observation.

Off the record, Chinese officers admit that few prisoners are taken alive because of hatred engendered by what they call "enemy atrocities." Paradoxically, those who manage to survive are well treated.

Traditional for the brides-maids' favors and their significance are: Wishbone, luckiest; ring, first to be married; anchor hope; fleurde-lis, a flowery life; dime, riches; horse with rider, sport; thimble, old maid.

On the bridegroom's side are: Dice or shamrock, lucky chance in life; heart, love; horseshoe, good news, dime, riches; bulldog head, hang on; button, bachelor; barrister's head, knowledge.

Walt Cousins, publisher of the Southern Pharmaceutical Journal, edited in Dallas, writes poetry as a hobby. His style is reminiscent of the drawl made famous by the late Will Rogers. This poem, "The Drifter," which appears in the current Journal, is of interest to us since he mentions our home town.

"He's mebbe so a feller
Of whom you thought right well
Who had a place an' done a job
So far as you could tell.
To hear him talk you'd shorely think
That he's square an' plenty wise;
He "sabes" human nature
An' knows his merchandise.

But he's always changin' of his job
From Smith to Jones to Brown,
'Lowin' all the jobs he's had
Just kept a good man down.
The job he craves is somewhere else
Where it ain't too cold or hot;
In fact, the job he's pinin' for
Is the one he hasn't got.

For the dusty, windin' trail.
He can't stay put quite long enough
To even get his mail.
If he has a job in Tulsa
That's solid as a rock.
He decides the pickin's better
Up there in Little Rock.

If he gets fixed up in Lubbock
He decides he cannot stay;
He's heard about an openin'
Down on Corpus Christi Bay.
While flyin's years are takin' toll
With grief an' toil an' strife.
He's a chunk of human driftwood
On the troubled sea of life.

When old age is in the offin'
For this restless rollin' stone
He has no friendly fig tree
Nor vine to call his own.
He's trod the trail all through the years.
With swift an' itchin' foot.
He's old an' broke today because

Slacks Prove Popular For Many Occasions This Summer; Are To Crash Informal Parties

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Fashion Editor

Women are going to wear the trousers this summer.

Slacks are shown in greater numbers and smarter fabrics than last year. Thousands of yards of cotton and linen hopsacking, sleek rayon suiting and lightweight flannel have made new versions of them for beach, boat, garden and trout stream. They have even "crashed the gates" of a few informal country cocktail hours.

Work And Thought

This new 1938 edition shows the result of work and thought. The old high-waisted peg-top is gone. In its place have come straight, fairly wide trousers (designed for a woman's hips) topped by a smooth jacket or tailored shirt which hangs outside. A number of women develop costumes in color contrast—dusty blue pin-striped slacks topped by a dusty pink pin-striped shirt, for instance.

Shorts are in the summer fashion sun, too. They appear in various combinations linking a one-piece play suit and detachable skirt or shorts, shirt and skirt.

A Play Costume Calendar

These are the clothes to consider this summer when you're getting ready to play.

SAILING — Slacks of blue flannel worn with a jacket to match or white rayon suiting topped by a shirt of the same thing. Visor or duck hat.

BEACH — Hopsacking slacks and shirt. Cotton playsuit (shirt

James Rayburn, retired Presbyterian minister of that city. Three hundred guests have been invited.

Smilax will decorate the windows and light fixtures in the church. Background for the ceremony will be a 12 by 8 ft. burgandy velvet curtain with tapered banks of fern on each side. Above the fern banks, white cathedral candles will burn tall candelabra. Other decorations will be palms and baskets of white peonies. The aisle will be carpeted in white.

Mr. Gaines To Sing

Gordon Gaines, baritone, will sing "Because" (D'Hardelot) "Birth of Morn" (Otto Cantor) with piano accompaniment by Miss Myrtle Dunn.

As the bridal party enters the auditorium, Miss Dunn will play "The Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" (Wagner). Mr. Sanders will enter with Rev. Rayburn and the best man, Cecil Sanders, his brother. Ushers will be Lloyd Sanders, another brother, Kirby Scudder, brother of the bride-elect, and George Walton.

Next to enter will be junior bridesmaid, Glenna Williams, cousin of Miss Scudder, wearing a dusty blue chiffon over taffeta dress made identical with the dresses of Miss Scudder's three other attendants. Each will wear a white Juliet cap and wrist corsages on both arms. The flowers will be tinted to harmonize with the dresses and long streamers from the bouquets will be caught with flowers. The dresses will have V-necks, dropped shoulders and full, shirred skirts.

Following the junior bridesmaid will be Miss Minnie Will Wootton, bridesmaid who will wear dusty pink; the matron of honor, Mrs. George Walton who will wear fuchsia, and the maid-of-honor, Miss Lynn Bain of Plainview who will wear chartreuse.

To Wear White Chiffon

She will wear white chiffon over satin with full skirt, short puffed sleeves, shirred blouse with covered buttons in the back and short train. She will have a circular, lace-edged, knee-lengthed veil which will be attached to her satin and lace, brimmed hat. Her shoes will be of white satin and, for "something old" the birde-elect will wear a lavalier her mother had when a young girl. She will carry a Colonial arm bouquet of orchids and lillies of the valley, with long white streamers.

Miss Dunn will play Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" as a recessional.

A reception on the back lawn at the Scudder home will follow the ceremony. Ushers for the wedding and friends of the family will assist in the house party. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Scudder will receive guests on one side of the lawn, and members of the bridal party will receive guests on the opposite side.

A huge, non-tiered angel food cake, covered with cocanut, will be served with punch. The cake will be topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and the table will be decorated with flowers.

The couple will leave on a week's trip to Colorado Springs, Denver and Santa Fe. Returning, they will be at home in Lubbock where they are building a home at Avenue S and Twenty-eighth street. The bride's traveling suit will be a lavender alpaca dress with purple cape, purple felt hat, doe skin shoes and bag and beige gloves. She will wear an orchid corsage.

Rutledge Namesake

Winsome Ann Rutledge is the namesake and descendant of the woman Abraham Lincoln loved. An auburn-haired miss of 19 years, she was born in St. Louis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rutledge, was educated in Iowa and Tennessee, and now lives in New York City. Lovely Miss Rutledge appeared in a WPA Federal Theater production in Chicago. She attracted such wide attention that when the Federal Theater Project of New York decided to produce a play about the Lincoln-Rutledge romance, this great-great niece of the original Ann was asked to play the leading role.

Ideal Frock To See One Through Day

For daytime hours, from nine to five, men like best to see women in simple, conservative dresses such as this model of lightweight wool in a soft shade of blue. It is short-sleeved, has a draped bodice and flattering skirt.

Hat Sophistication

A touch of hat sophistication for the younger set. This model by Jean Patou is made entirely of the palest pink and white blossoms veiled in navy tulle. It is worn with a closely-molding, high-necked, long-sleeved dinner gown of navy net.

Jou Jou Asks Advice

Dear Louella: Well, I guess you observed that we got the past term of Tech college over with without any surprising secret marriages or engagements or ruckuses. Las Chaparritas and Sans Souci clubs stayed with their tradition of having farewell dances the same night. I didn't hear of any serious conflicts with dates, etc., however.

I think Beri Huffman, famous tea-sipper, is going to spend part of the summer here. I'm advising him to go back to Grapevine for a visit before his hands get too tender for plowing.

Miss Standefer Leaves

Mary Frances Standefer, who left Tuesday for the International House in Chicago where she will be student dietitian, went in company with charming Jane Chitwood of Chicago, niece of Mrs. R. M. Chitwood. The two met for the first time at a banquet shortly before they started for Chicago.

Do you remember Gertrude Samson, high ranking graduate of Tech college of several years back? Well she is on vacation from Herman hospital in Houston where she is dietitian. She and her parents, the James Samsons, and her cousin, Jeanne Samson, left yesterday for Carlsbad caverns and will probably return today. I think Gertrude wil be here all this week.

Somehow or other I don't feel quite up to making the marriage predictions I've been promising. To tell the truth I write about weddings in my dreams every night at this time of year. Should I have any dreams of couples-to-wed that would interest you, I'll let you know.

There is a Tech marriage-to-be that I've been neglecting to tell you about. It concerns Milton Coffey of Fort Worth and Hermione Holcomb of Quanah (both were graduated this month) who haven't told anyone around here if they have set a date. I think they'll wed in August.

Young Minister Does Well

I saw Rev. Harrell Rea, Lubbock's 20-year-old contribution to the Christian ministry, officiate at a wedding last Sunday and I really believe his ceremony is one of the most impressive I've ever heard. He combined parts of several ceremonies with parts of an ancient one and some original ideas, and he has just the right amount of charm and poise to keep the undivided interest of his listeners. Rev. Bill Vivrett and others, in a position to speak, have predicted that young Rea will go far in the clergical field.

Lulu wrote that Dr. Doyce Clark who had an emergency appendicitis operation a few hours before his graduation exercises at Baylor Med, won't get to come home, as he had planned, since he must begin internship at Shreveport as soon as he is released from Baylor hospital. Her letter also said:

"Hubert Allensworth received his LL. B degree from the University of Michigan Law School at Ann Arbor this week. I understand he has passed his state examinations in Philadelphia also.

"Someone told me the other day the Tom Bleekers will visit here soon. I am anxiously waiting to see their son, Keith, who was extraordinarily beautiful and intelligent when I knew him at age 3 and 4.

"I had a pleasant, although brief, chat with a sister of Edith Stubbs. She has reached quite a goal in her teaching career in Pampa Public schools.

Lumsdens Are Back

"Mr. and Mrs. Lon Lumsden and Tech student son, Bill, of Wilson recently returned from a trip through Virginia and on to Baltiforé. Mrs. Lumsden attended the 100th anniversary of the W. M. U. in Virginia. They took hundreds of pictures on their way up and back."

"'Sail for now, 'cept G. Z. is THAT elated over seeing Miss E. A.! !"

It's all for me too, except for a closing remark about Mrs. Allie M. Dyer's beautiful new home at 2020 Seventeenth street. It is pleasingly colorful and decidedly one of the most attractive of Lubbock's new houses.

Yours, Lou.

Household Hints

SHAPELY PIE SHELLS

When baking pie or pastry shells prick the dough well with a fork to prevent air pockets forming. Pastry shells may be baked over ungreased inverted molds or muffin pans.

Spinach is a valuable vegetable, but it does need some additional flavor to make it appeal to all the family. You can make it more palatable by adding a cheese cream sauce or minced onions and green peppers or still again by mixing in a bit of catsup or chili sauce.

That vital culinary instrument, the can opener, should have a special hook to hang on. It's used so often that you will save time by not dumping it in the drawer with all your other kitchen gadgets.

Add six whole cloves, one teaspoon of cinnamon and a tablespoonful of lemon juice to two cups of diced pineapple, chill for several hours, then remove the cloves

For a quick meal fill biscuit cases or hollowed toasted bread cubes with creamed tuna, salmon or chicken. Or you can serve the creamed mixture on waffles.

Canned artichoke hearts, marinated in French dressing and chilled an hour or more, are delicious when added to fresh vegetable or green salads.

Did you ever try toasting bread on your waffle iron? It can be done satisfactorily, and right at the serving table, if you choose.

CANAPE SCOOP

Here's a canape that may be eaten easily with the fingers: Scoop out the centers of tiny rolls — about three inches long. When you're ready to serve them, spread the hollow sections with butter and stuff them with a highly seasoned ham relish.

Absence Of General Interest Felt In Livestock Zoning Election On Tuesday

Light Voting Is Seen For Issue

An almost entire absence of general interest had been shown Saturday in the city "elections" Tuesday on proposed livestock zoning for Lubbock.

Saturday, however, was the first day of active campaigning on the part of supporters of the zoning movement and they said they will continue their activities without interruption through election day.

Opposition To Cast Vote

Unless those activities should spur interest, veteran observers were agreed generally that voting likely will be light. It was their apparently unanimous opinion also that the vote opposed to livestock zoning will go to the polls with considerably less urging than will those favoring it.

Polls are to be taken in three residential zones which have been established by the city commission especially for the referenda. Officials agreed that the polls, regardless of the outcome, will not be binding legally. City commissioners have pledged, however, that they will enact ordinances forbidding the keeping of livestock in those zones where majorities as expressed by the vote desire it.

Polls Open At 8 A. M.

Polls will be open from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m. and eligibility requirements will be the same as for any election. Those are that the voter hold either a poll tax receipt or an exemption certificate and that he must vote in the zone where he resides.

Polling places and zone boundaries will be:

Explanation Is Offered

Officials explained especially that residents must reside within the boundaries of the zone in which they are to vote. Thus, living on the east side of Avenue H will not be eligible because no zone has been established for that area. The same applies to those residing on the north side of sixth street and the east side of Avenue Q from Twenty-sixth to the city limits. Those residing on the east side of Avenue Q between Sixth and Nineteenth will vote in zone one and those on the west side in zone 2.

The term "livestock," within the meaning of the election proposal, applies to cows, horses, mules, jennies, jacks, sheep and goats.

Sudeten Germans Exhibit Their United Front

Visual evidence of the growing numerical strength of Konrad Henlein's insurgent Sudeten-German party in Czechoslovakia is given in the above scene showing a mass meeting of his supporters completely packing a town square. In the recent elections Sudetens in Germanic Czechoslovakia gained 10 per cent over the 1936 vote, while the Czech majority showed increases in its own areas, thus highlighting the growing schism between Czechs and such minority groups as that pictured above.

New 'Five-In-One' School To Be Dedicated Near Vernon Today

VERNON, June 11. (AP)—Dr. L. A. Woods of Austin, state superintendent of schools, tomorrow will dedicate a new $71,500 "five-in-one" school building which he has called "an outstanding example of the result of co-operation."

The building, located 16 miles southwest of Vernon, was completed in May to replace a modern structure razed by fire last summer. It will serve a district formed several years ago when five rural schools combined to install an 11-game institution.

Enrollment is 320 students and the teaching staff numbers 12. Ira V. Younger is superintendent.

Chinese Embassy In Tokyo Is Formally Closed On Saturday

TOKYO, June 11 (AP)—The Chinese embassy was formally closed today, nearly a year after the start of the Chinese-Japanese conflict, and Y. C. Yang, charge d'affaires, and his staff of nine left for China. Yang described the closing of the embassy as "merely a temporary suspension of business." China's ambassador to Tokyo, Hsu Shih-Ying, was recalled January 20.

John A. Odom Announces Candidacy For Justice Of Peace, Precinct 1, Place 2

* * *

Formal announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as justice of the peace of precinct 1, place 2, was made here Saturday by Jno. A. Odom.

His formal statement follows:

"In asking the voters for the office of justice of the peace, precinct 1, place 2, Lubbock county, I am mindful of the many duties of that office, and that the rapid growth of the town is constantly increasing the responsibilities, hence the necessity of electing a person well qualified to fill the position.

"I am 49 years of age. My family consists of wife and two children. Most of my life has been spent serving the public in some way. I have never held but one elective position, and that was district clerk of Crosby county for four years. My record there will speak for itself as to my qualifications and ability to fill the office to which I now aspire.

"If elected to this office, I promise the people that I will have no friends to favor, nor enemies to persecute. I will handle the affairs of that office strictly in a business-like manner. I insist that you give me a careful investigation, and if you find that I am qualified and worthy I shall greatly appreciate your vote and influence."

Cattle condition was reported at 87 points compared to 81 a year earlier and the ten-year average of 84.

The governor disclosed today he never listened to campaign talks against him because "they just make you mad." He was a successful candidate for governor in 1934 and 1936.

"I heard Tom Hunter speak the other night for the first time in 14 years," Allred said. "The last time was when he helped me prosecute a man."

Hunter and Allred, both from Wichita Falls, were opposing candidates in both 1934 and 1936.

Workmen Busy At New Dam Site

(By The Associated Press)

MINERAL WELLS, June 11.—A hundred workmen labored along the Brazos river today, rushing erection of quarters for the men who will supervise and build the $4,500,000 Possum Kingdom dam.

Hundreds of trucks carried supplies from the railhead at Salesville, nine miles north of Mineral Wells, to carpenters and other laborers who were turning them into temporary offices, bunk houses, store houses, and a mess hall for employes of Lyle and Johnson Construction company and representatives of the Brazos river conservation and reclamation district.

To Build Temporary Span

When quarters are finished a temporary bridge will be built across the Brazos south of the dam site. Excavations on the dam proper are also scheduled for immediate beginning. Three large steam shovels have already arrived.

To reach the dam site, which is 18 miles northwest of mineral Wells, truckers must haul 25 miles on a round-about road by Graford, nearest town to the dam, which is experiencing a boom in consequence.

Townsites Spring Up

Two small townsites, within a few miles of the scene, have sprung up, and concessions are being offered for building purposes, but both places are now in the first stages of planning.

Here, where offices are established for both contractors and the district, business has also been stimulated.

Contractors are maintaining a strict labor agreement, hiring laborers who are bonifide residents of counties on the Brazos water-shed and recruiting them through the Texas Employment service offices at Mineral Wells, Breckenridge, or Graham.

Wheat Crop Has Started Moving

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, June 11—Empty grain cars by the unprecedented hundreds banged along railroad tracks in North and West Texas today to expedite movement of the current wheat crop.

Railroads have been rushing empties into grain-producing areas for two weeks, while harvesting men and machines moved into the fields. Combines were at work as far north as Amarillo, center of the Panhandle-Plains production of an unofficially estimated 30,000,000 bushels.

Generally Good Condition

An unofficial survey of the state indicated generally good condition of the wheat crop. Most sections harvested bumper oat yields, and the condition of corn was mostly good. Wheat was the grain to be shipped principally, many farmers were holding oats for feed, or for possible better prices.

Wichita Falls reported wheat and oat crops good, with a heavy yield expected. Harvest was delayed ten days by rain which had caused little damage, but there was a need for hot, dry weather.

Lubbock reported the wheat crop already moving, with the peak expected near the end of the month. The crop was expected to yield more than was first anticipated. Plainview prospects were for a wheat crop less than half as large as that harvested last year generally in that section.

Most of the wheat and oat crop had been gathered in the Temple area, with a bumper yield of the latter. Wheat was hurt by the late freeze and rains. Recent rains have helped corn, and a good yield was expected.

Harvesting of what promised to be the greatest feed crop in the coastal bend section was under way near Corpus Christi. The market was weak, but large quantities were expected to be stored.

In the Paris area, where there was no wheat crop, a fair stand of oats had been harvested. Insects had damaged a promising corn outlook.

Vernon reported wheat prospects in Wilbarger, Foard and Cottle counties hit by varied adverse weather. Oats was also damaged in Wilbarger county, and corn was only delayed by rains. Wheat in eastern Hardeman county was good, but the western part was hurt by drouth.

Five or six cars of wheat daily were moving from Eden in the San Angelo area. Truckers from West Texas and the Plains-New Mexico area and ranchmen were buying most of the oats going out of the San Angelo area, paying 20 to 22 cents, an advance of four and five cents over prices a week ago.

Rain Wednesday assured the Corsicana area of a good corn crop. Oats were harvested, with production considered good.

County Agent T. H. Royder at Austin said oat prospects were the best in seven years, and indicated corn production would be somewhat below average in that area.

Mrs. John Garner Plans Cruise Of Gulf And Caribbean Sea

Mrs. Garner will leave by automobile June 12 for her home in Uvalde where she will remain until June 26.

You Can't 'Fix' A Mouse, Says Inventor Who Makes One Act As Roulette Wheel

(By Associated Press Feature Service)

Mouse roulette is to be tried out in a Reno night club.

The inventor, Everett MacDonald, of Oakland, Calif., says by substituting a mouse for the ivory ball he gets a game that can't be "fixed."

A live mouse is placed under a tumbler at the center of a circular bin. Around the circumference are 56 holes into any one of which the mouse can scamper when the glass is lifted.

Each hole corresponds to a card in the deck with a few extra designs for good measure. Players bet on squares on a table layout resembling that of regular roulette.

Survey Of Wheat Supply Is Ordered

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt, noting the forecast of a record American wheat crop of more than 1,000,000,000 bushels, ordered today a survey of world wheat supply conditions.

The survey was revealed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace after he and Francis Sayre, assistant secretary of state, conferred with the president.

The two departments will cooperate in the survey.

Wallace declined to say whether the survey was for the purpose of planning special methods of selling American surpluses abroad.

London's first "water bus" to operate on the Thames from Westminster to Southend, was launched recently in Cowes Shipyard.

The tenth annual youth conference of the Protestant Episcopal church in the missionary district of north Texas will begin in Ceta canyon near Happy Monday and continue through June 24.

This Conference for boys and girls from 14 to 24 years of age has assembled for nine consecutive years in Lubbock, but this year will emphasize the camp feature in the beautiful Cete Canyon, using the Methodist camp ground.

'Ever-Normal Granary' Plan To Be Applied To Surplus Butter

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP) — Secretary Wallace announced today the "ever-normal granary" surplus storage plan would be applied to butter.

Surplus butter will be purchased and stored when prices are low and released on the market when supplies decline and prices advance.

The program will be administered by the Dairy Products Marketing association, inc., of Chicago.

Funds will be advanced by the Reconstruction Finance corporation under commodity loan provisions of the new farm act.

Purchases, which may not exceed 50,000,000 pounds between now and April 30, 1939, will be made on commodity exchange and in the open markets.

Newspaper Ads Are Aid To Savings And Loan Associations

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP) — The Federal Home Loan Bank review said today that savings and loan associations in many parts of the country had obtained exceptional expansion of their business by cooperative advertising in newspapers.

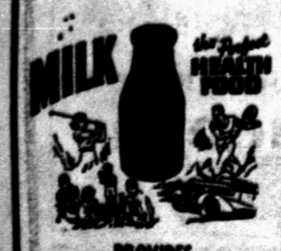

The review published a survey of a score of such campaigns. It said the public in the campaign areas had become "much more aware of the facilities and advantages of savings and loan associations" and "an unusually large number of new savings accounts have been opened and many new home loans have been made."

"These campaigns reveal that effective cooperative advertising, like other advertising of financial institutions, is cumulative in its effect," the review said. "A well planned, consistent program over a period of months succeeds, where sporadic and intensive campaigns of shorter duration have failed."

"The portrait is 6x4 feet," Father Gabriel Diamante, priest of the church, said." it will be a side-altar piece. We will hold the dedicatory service before the regular Sunday morning service at 8:30 o'clock."

James W. Potts Named To Post

James W. Potts, Lubbock county farm boy who graduated from Texas Technological college and who has been county agent of Garza county for two years, has been promoted to be assistant to L. L. Johnson, state club leader and will begin his work July 1. Announcement of the promotion was made by K. J. Edwards, district agent.

Potts graduated from Tech in 1933, majoring in agronomy. He entered the extension service and became county agent of Stonewall. From there he went to Washington, D. C., on a scholarship; returning to Texas he was made assistant county agent of Deaf Smith county and when W. C. Taylor was moved to Bailey, succeeded him there.

Active In Club Work

While in Lubbock county he was active in 4-H club work under D. F. Eaton, then county agent. Later he became a senior leader and during his college work at Texas Tech was one of the senior leaders for both Eaton and O. G. Tumlinson, also agent.

He attained high honors as a club boy, winning a trip to Washington, D. C., to the National 4-H club encampment. Potts was reared in the Canyon community where his father resides. He has a number of brothers in this section, including C. T. Potts of the Barton community.

Many local, state and district honors were won by Potts, including trips to College Station, to Dallas and other places. Mrs. Potts is a daughter of George Lund of the Union community.

Democratic Fund Is 'In The Red'

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 11 — The Democratic national committee reported to congress today that it was $33,000 "in the red."

A report filed with the house clerk showed the committee had to supplement its income from cash donations and Victory and Jackson day dinners with a $25,000 bank loan.

The Republicans are better off. Their national committee told the house clerk yesterday it still had $14,546 of $352,193 contributed to it since January 1 and had pledges of $68,515 more for this year's election wars.

SLATON—Ragan Reed, constable here, has reversed the usual procedure and instead of announcing his candidacy again, says he "does not choose to run." In a formal statement Reed thanked his constituents for their support and help, and said he was not a candidate.

When P. T. Barnum's circus was in winter headquarters at Bridgeport, Conn., he had a man plow a field by elephant power as a means of advertising the circus to passengers on a railroad nearby.

Grotesque---But Effective

Pikes Peak To Be On Scouts' Trip

Announcement that a trip up Pikes peak will be included on the itinerary and that 17 boys already have paid their registration fees were high spots Saturday of preparations for the Yellowstone National park motor trip on which Boy Scouts of South Plains council are to leave June 27.

Five towns in the council are represented among the boys registered, according to J. A. Raley, jr., chairman of the tours committee.

Revisins In Schedule

Inclusion of the Pikes peak visit, said Earl M. McClure, council executive, has necessitated minor revisions of the three weeks' schedule, which still will be sufficiently elastic to meet any unusual weather or road conditions which may be encountered.

He announced also that the scouts will inspect three state capitols—at Denver, Colo., Cheyenne, Wyo., and Santa Fe, N. M., before they return July 17.

Major points on the schedule as announced Saturday include:

Depart On June 27

June 25 and 26 — Preliminary camp at Camp Post; June 27, departure from Lubbock with overnight stop in Trinidad, Colo.; June 28, Colorado Springs and Pikes peak trip, cost of which is covered by registration fees; June 29, half day in Denver and overnight stop in Cheyenne; June 30, overnight at Casper, Wyo.; July 1, Cody, Wyo., for entrance the following day into park to remain through July 5; week of July 6 encamped in Jackson hole country, with numerous side trips including two overnight camps in Teton mountains; returning night stops at Rawlins, Wyo., Fort Collins, Colo.; Ratton, Taos and Vaughn, N. M.

Scouts who have registered for the trip are Allan Barnard, Robert Ragan, jr., Dale McIlhroy and Dee Hale, of Lamesa; James Willson and Joe Dick Moore, Floydada; Ray Taylor, Spur; Eldon Carroll, O'Donnell; and Billy McGehee, E. B. Brown, Russell Winn, Walter Clark, jr., Allen T. Stewart, jr., Earl C. Pollard, jr., W. S. Moss, jr., J. L. Sanders and J. A. Raley, III.

SWIM MEET TO PLAINVIEW

Annual South Plains Boy Scout swimming meet will be held in the American Legion pool at Plainview Aug. 12, McClure announced. Lubbock was host to the event last year. Those placing first, second and third in preliminary meets in each of the 10 districts of the council will qualify for Plainview contests.

NEW CAMP OPENS TODAY

Third of the series of one-week troop camps of the summer will open today at Camp Post with 109 scouts registered, according to Lyndon T. Grant, assistant executive. Represented among the registrations, he added, are 15 troops from 12 towns. The towns are: Lubbock, Tahoka, Gomez, Plains, Morton, Whiteface, Levelland, Amherst, Muleshoe, Plainview, Lockney and Matador.

CAMP DATES CHANGED

Dates of the annual encampment for scouts with previous camping experience have been moved up to July 24 - Aug. 3 from the originally scheduled opening Aug. 11, according to Grant, who will be director. Scene will be in northern New Mexico but the exact site has not been selected, he said. Cost, covering all expenses, will be $15.

MORE SEED CRUSHED

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP) — The census bureau reported today cottonseed crushed in the ten-month period, Aug. 1 to May 31, totaled 6,041,681 tons, compared with 4,384,738 in the corresponding period a year ago.

China's first railway, 10 miles in length between Shanghai and Woosung, was built by foreign enterprise in 1876. After a farmer had been run over and killed, however, it was puchased by the Chinese Government and torn up.

Krupp's, the German steel and munitions firm, is bidding for the construction of a second railway tack between Istanbul and Ankara. In addition to shortening the journey by four hours, the track would be of strategic value for rapid transportation of troops.

The various kingdoms and states that now make up the Republic of China were organized into one empire for the first time by Emperor Ch'in Shih Huang-ti (221 B.C.).

The lowest paid type of worker in China is the garbage collector. In most cities of the country, his monthly wage seldom amounts to more than (U.S.) $3.

EHENS'

Moment Of Suspense

Lady Luck rode as a passenger with Chester Nephew, 17, of Batavia, N. Y., when he made his first parachute jump. The leap almost ended in tragedy when he let go at 1500 feet and the chute fouled in the shrouds of his borrowed balloon, as pictured above. But it worked loose in time to land him safely, if pretty heavily. He had planned to jump from his home-made hot air balloon, but it burned while being inflated. Warren Allen, noted balloonist, lent him the professional balloon seen here.

Ralph Brock Of Lubbock Issues Statement On His Candidacy For State Representative

RALPH BROCK

Ralph Brock, of Lubbock, yesterday made a formal statement in announcing his candidacy for state representative from the 119th district, embracing Lubbock, Hockley, Cochran, Crosby, Terry, Lynn, Dawson, Gaines and Yoakum counties.

"I am a native West Texan. I was born on a farm in Crosby county in 1915. After living there for eight years, I moved with my parents to a farm south of Lubbock. Since 1927 I have lived within the city of Lubbock.

Was Scout Leader

"I early became interested in the Boy Scouts, and attained the highest rank in that organization. Throughout my entire scout career I was an outstanding leader, not only in Lubbock, but in the South Plains Area Council as well.

"I was graduated from Lubbock High school in 1933 with highest recognition, receiving a scholarship to any denominational school of my choice in the South; two years of Pre-Law training in Texas Technological college with an "A" average in the work; three years of outstanding work in the Law school of the University of Texas; was granted a Bachelor of Laws degree from this institution June 6.

"I was entirely self-supporting throughout the five years of college and university training, engaging in practically every type of employment from that of common laborer to assisting one of the Texas senators in the capitol. In this latter connection, I familarized myself with the workings of our legislature from a practical point of view, and made many acquaintances which should prove invaluable to me as your representative.

Selected Student Editor

"I was one of 17 law students in 700 to be selected as a member of the Board of Student Editors of the Texas Law Review, and was awarded a prize for outstanding contributions to the publication during the 1936-37 school year."

Brock makes the following statement regarding his candidacy: "I pledge to work as hard for you as your Representative as I have worked in my own behalf, with continuous Christian service in the Texas Legislature, and without discrimination for or against any interests, person, or persons.

"I believe that:

Must Be Strict Economy

"1. There must be strict economy in the administration of your state government without sacrificing efficiency.

"2. Texas must be redistricted so that West Texas will have its just representation.

"5. There should be closer supervision of the sale of liquor by prescription in dry counties.

Must Not Be Hampered

"8. Rural electrification should be encouraged and assisted to the greatest extent possible.

"9. A long range soil conservation program must be initiated.

"12. The present $22 per capita school apportionment must be maintained and increased if possible.

Consumption of cheese in the United States has increased from two and a half pounds per capita 20 years ago to five pounds at the present time.

Luise Rainer Brings Another Great Characterization To Screen

Hollywood On The Loose..

You Hear Good Tales And Bad Tales About Almost All Of The Folks In Hollywood

BY ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 11 — You hear good tales and bad tales about everybody in Hollywood. Stars get catalogued, in this Ready Gossip factory, as "nice guys" or "sourpusses" — depending mainly on how they act toward the people who have to work with them.

Let a "nice guy" once upstage an underling and the ensuing racket is easily identified — reputation being hammered on the anvil of a whispering campaign.

There is one girl in town for whom I've never head a good word except from her press agent. Worst thing she ever did was to have a character actor fired from her picture for "blowing up" in his lines a few times. The poor fellow hadn't worked in a year. The job meant so much that he was nervous.

The Other Side

BUT on the other hand — what fan, reading that Katharine Hepburn took a blow-up rap herself to save a minor actor embarrassment, isn't going to think kindly of Hepburn?

The helping hand from one actor to another is one of Hollywood's tritest themes. It isn't always given. Stars are human, subject to jealousies, petty irritations, fits of temper, all the unpleasant aspects of personality that make the human species interesting.

But it was in Gary Cooper's contract that he get top billing in Marlene Dietrich's first Hollywood movie, and he signed it away readily to give Dietrich the break. Same went for William Powell, at whose insistence Luise Rainer shared the star spot in her first. Both gentlemen were wise — contractually, they needn't have been.

All Helped

"KID GALAHAD" was one of last year's successes. The three stars in it—Bette Davis, Humphrey Bogart, Edward G. Robinson—were none too enthusiastic about the script. All figured the choice role would be that of the young fighter. They all felt better when they learned the role had been given to a new kid named Morris. They all pitched into help Morris make the hit he did. Little tips here and there, suggestions, occasional scenes thrown his way when they needn't have been. Davis and Bogart didn't expect much from the picture anyway, but Robinson thought it would be his meat. After the preview, when Wayne Morris was the hit, Eddie G. wasn't too happy. But could you blame him?

Romance In Funny Places

ROMANCE blossoms in the funniest places—and faces.

And the funnier, according to what is going on in the studios the better.

"You can't kid love" used to be a maxim of the screen writers. You still can't — if it's young love and serious romance. But you certainly can if you're looking for a comedy love team that will do for the box-offics what Wally Beery and the late Marie Dressler did.

Observers see something like that in the new teaming of Joan Davis, the fall girl, and Bert Lahr, the "oh boy, oh boy" or "ung, ung, ung" comedian. It was coincidence when they appeared as romantics in "Love and Hisses." It may have been accident when they re-teated in "Josette," but it's by careful design that they are together again in the Shirley Temple picture "Lucky Penny." The object — you can bet on it—is to pave the way for a series of films which Lahr and Davis can carry minus other stars.

Barnum's Life Is At Cactus

Character acting has gained Luise Rainer two Academy awards and her starring role as Froufrou in "The Toy Wife," showing currently at the Palace adds a delineation that may nominate her a third time.

Theatergoers will remember her O-San in "The Good Earth" and Anna Held in "The Great Ziegfeld" which marked her as one of the screen's better character actors.

Opposite Miss Rainer in "The Toy Wife" are Robert Young and Melvyn Douglas, Douglas as her husband who is in love with her sister, and Young as the dashing, romantic young gambler with whom Miss Rainer finally runs away.

"Wells Fargo" At Broadway

The story of development of the old West, with the rise of the nation's transportation systems during the nineteenth century, is the theme of "Wells Fargo," with Joel McCrea, Frances Dee, and Bob Burns, today, tomorow and Tuesday at the Broadway.

The hardships of the young employe of the stageccach company, his fight for the people whom he serves, and ultimate success give the play a tingling emotional tinge.

Penrod Schofield has been the boy hero of many a boy since his inception by Booth Tarkington. Hollywood has put on celluloid "Penrod and Sam," and now has produced with the identical Mauch twins, "Penrod and His Twin Brother."

Barnum's Life Shown

The picture shows at the Lindsey today and tomorrow. It not only will receive the approval of adolescents but grown-ups too will be delighted with the gay complications of the two lads.

P. T. Barnum once said, "A sucker is born every minute," and his rise from a young grocery clerk to ownership of the world's biggest show business proved his point.

At the Cactus today and Monday, the cinema brings the life history of the great showman. As P. T. Barnum himself, Wallace Beery brings his dry, philosophical humor into the title role. As the Bailey half of Barnum and Bailey is cast Adolph Menjou.

Winchell-Bernie Feud

The Walter Winchell-Ben Bernie word feud, started by way of radio, lends itself to the plot of the starring vehicle at the Lyric today and tomorrow.

Winchell is made the victim of a use to exploit a girl singer. When she seems to be about to lose her boy friend she confesses the fraud. He in turn makes Bernie the butt of a hazing.

Oxford Life Giver

Wallace Predicts Erosion Control

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 11—Secretary Wallace predicts that wind erosion can be controlled in the Texas and New Mexico dust bowl area.

Specialists of the agriculture department, land grant colleges, experiment stations and extension services are familiar with agronomic and engineering practices that must be employed in each locality and the farmers are learning the control principles, Wallace said.

Must Pull Together

"Sufficient governmental assistance is available to do a good job," he added, "but each farmer must also do his part. Federal state and regional forces must pull together. If they do, one of the worst physical soil problems in this country, with serious human consequences, can be solved.

"It is being solved now in a good share of the whole dust bowl area of the southwest."

In a bulletin issued to employes and farm cooperators, Wallace outlined aid that is available to farmers in controlling wind erosion.

Must Be Permanent

The plan, he explained, is designed to bring about a permanent correction of conditions in the dust bowl.

Under the agricultural adjustment program, the AAA requires as a condition of compliance that cooperators use practices effective in preventing wind erosion. A deduction will be made from the payment computed for a farm upon which wind erosion prevention measures, if needed, are not carried out in 1938. This deduction would be $1 an acre.

May Not Be Eligible

If a farmer fails to carry out proper prevention measures and his farm becomes a hazard to surrounding farms, he may not be eligible for payments under the conservation program.

To permit cooperating farmers to comply immediately with wind erosion provisions, the AAA has arranged with the Farm Security administration to make loans to farmers where wind erosion is most severe. The loans will amount to 60 per cent of the total conservation payments the farmer expects to receive.

Credit facilities of the FSA are available to farmers who can not obtain credit from other sources for purchase of equipment, seed, livestock and other necessities.

Making Another Type

In addition, FSA is making another type of loan which would enable the farmers to shift from cash grain farming to "mixed" farming with principal emphasis upon livestock. Such a program would permit some lands now in crops to go back to grass, thereby preventing wind erosion.

Due to the importance of getting a cover of forage crops on the worst eroded counties immediately, FSA has modified its lending policy, the bulletin explained, to make credit available this spring to any eligible farmer whose land has sufficient moisture and who desires to plant cover crops.

Babson Advises His Graduates To Get Business Of Own

WELLESLEY, Mass., June 11 (AP)—Graduates of Babson institute today were advised by Roger Babson, founder of the institute and well known statistician, to get whatever jobs they could and not to get married until they had "the philosophy of life straightened out."

After telling the graduates their opportunities were less than they were a year ago or 10 years ago, Bason urged them to "think this thing over before you get tied up to some woman. And don't get married before you get a girl who agrees with you."

"Your real goal," he declared, "should be to get a small business of your own. No matter what conditions exist there will always be room for a man willing to run a business of his own. My hunch is we're going to be in this economic struggle for a long time."

Pioneer Arizona Cattleman Is Recovering From Experience

PRESCOTT, Ariz., June 11—(AP)—Jack Webb, pioneer Arizona cattleman, was recovering in a hospital today from fatigue and a shattered hip-bone, after lying five days and nights without food or water in an isolated section of range, 50 miles northwest of here.

The 73-year-old rancher said he was injured when kicked by his horse. During most of the five days, the horse and his dog kept a vigil nearby.

Finally, he said, the horse returned to his Anvil Rock ranch and a party of cattlemen began a search for him.

WANT SMALLER COLLARS

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—The city council has taken steps to knock down the size of the collars being worn by Chicago beer steins.

Alderman William Rowan complained there was too much foam and too little beer. He wants a standard fixed for tavern keepers.

His suggestion that an ordinance be drafted to "take the starch out of these collars, to wilt them down" was approved enthusiastically by his colleagues.

Corsicana Philanthropist Pledges Fortune Of $800,000 For Well-Being Of His Town; F. N. Drane Establishes Unique Foundation

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Staff Writer

CORSICANA, June 11—Philanthropist Frank Neal Drane has pledged an $800,000 fortune to mold the well-being of those in a community that has held him since birth.

But, he insists in a crisp, emphatic tone belying his 76 years, he is no "Santa Claus" emptying the cornucopia of benevolence.

Plan Is Unique

His Navarro County Community foundation, born of a 25-year-old dream, is for all—in the morning, noonday and evening of life—those who tug at their own bootstraps. It aims at the promotion of religion and education, alleviation of human suffering, provision of public buildings, assisting the poor and aiding scientific endeavors. The plan set out in the articles is unique, and it is believed in some respects furnishes a new pattern for communities of this kind.

"But," said Drane, "it isn't my intention to heap benevolence on a person. There are those of this generation who believe 'Santa Claus' should do everything for them—but they do little for 'Santa.'"

Lives In Retirement

Drane, a mild, bespectacled man who amassed a fortune alternately as an implement dealer, bank president, utilities head, farmer and oil operator, was born ten miles from Corsicana in 1862. Recognized as one of the state's outstanding agriculturists, he now lives in retirement at Arcady, the heavily foliaged, 200-acre Drane estate on the outskirts of town.

His late wife, Florence Adelia Drane, was once president of the board of regents of Texas Technological college, and, he said, it was she who helped him build a dream that took life in the establishment of the foundation.

The man who gave trustees of the foundation a deed of conveyance to his separate estate, with some $350,000 reserved until his death, philosophized "the best way to help those needing help is to show them how to help themselves—never forgetting, however, the good samaritan aid to unfortunates. Only the utterly unfortunate should have everything done for them—and then for only periods of time. Benevolence should always go back to the base of things."

No Mandate On Foundation

Drane, as trustee emeritus of the foundation, stressed he did not wish to bind the foundation by mandate, and added:

"I crave to counsel full consideration in the fostering of formative, preparative character-building agencies to create industry, frugality, self-independence and helpfulness to others—primarily by helping them; teaching them, showing them how to help themselves. Persons should make and move on their own power; stole their own fires; remove their own ashes; consume their own smoke—contribute something to the sum total of human well being, and not subtract something from it."

Under articles of association, the foundation was created for promoting the well-being of mankind primarily in Navarro county, and elsewhere in Texas only upon the initiative and unanimous action of its trustees.

Trustees Given Power

Management of the foundation is vested in a board of managing trustees consisting of not less than five nor more than 13 members, possessed of powers of ownership in funds and properties of the foundation. Trustees are authorized to sell and exchange properties, lend and borrow; mortgage, pledge, sell, improve, exchange or lease any real property in the fund. None receive compensation for services rendered, except, in special instances, by a two-thirds vote of the other trustees.

No forms of philosophy—political, social or religious—will be sponsored by the foundation.

No specific projects are listed but Drane said he would suggest the founding of a county-wide parent-teacher-child service group to sponsor a kindergarten for pre-school tots.

Memorial To His Wife

"This," he said, "the only means by which rural children may have guidance in that important plastic age, would be a memorial to my wife. I have dreamed of, and hoped for, a county-wide organization of that great and good group, the parent-teacher association as a perennial and perpetually self-recruitive, noble and common objective of two so important groups of society."

He would have Navarro county mothers cooperate, week or month about, in conveying children to the school.

"Moreover," he added, "it seems the parent-teacher association might logically and successfully foster a county-wide nursing service, including in particular, maternity nursing in the mother's home or in a maternity home at Corsicana. This service would not be free, but at a gradual scale that would average cost, or near cost price, for mothers who can't avail themselves of present splendid services. It would be conducive to safer and better motherhood. Among that class are the increasing and major source of the replenishment of the race. It is probably the best, if not the only remedy for meeting a declining birth rate among that class best able pecuniarily to breed, rear and educate a superior race, but who are defaulting at an increased ratio."

Would Serve Nobly

Such a pre-natal and post-natal home, Drane said, could serve "nobly as a foundling institution for feeble mothers and for motherless and abandoned babes who are later lawfully adopted."

"I would counsel caution, if not taboo, of doing too large a part, especially as regards financial aid, for any agency, old or new. In my opinion, based on study, as well as reasoning, for one or too few to finance any, if not most, human service agencies is a fruitful cause of dry rot to the institution.

"No, there isn't any such thing as something for nothing. Someone is paying for it—perhaps in blood."

Litigation has clouded the Drane fortune. The elder Drane filed a suit April 11 asking for appointment of a receiver, partition and accounting. Hugh A. Drane, his son, and Hugh A. Drane, jr., filed an answer asking that Frank Neal Drane's application be dismissed.

Opening Of Bids For Seagraves Grade School Set For July 1

Opening of bids for construction of a grade school building at Seagraves has been set for July 1, it was announced by Haynes and Strange, architects for the board of trustees. Plans for the building were nearly complete Saturday and will be ready for inspection by contractors this week.

The building is to have 10 class rooms and is for elementary grades only. Bonds were voted by the district recently, amounting to $45,000.

Estate Of Former Texan Valued At $1,528,913, Probate Shows

ST. LOUIS, June 11 (AP)—The estate of Marvin E. Singleton, capitalist, who died in New York Jan. 29, was valued at $1,528,913 in an inventory filed in probate court today.

Among the listed stocks were 4,268 shares, carried at par value of $426,800, of the East Texas Cotton Oil company of Terrell, Texas, of which he was president. He was born in Waxahachie, Tex.

Singleton, 66, left his estate in trust for his widow and nine children. Associates said he had a substantial amount of insurance which went into a family trust created about 10 years ago.

Rains Have Been So Plentiful In Drouth Area Even Telephone Poles Are Beginning To Sprout

FRANKLIN, Neb., June 11. (AP)—Rains have been so plentiful recently in this region, ravaged by drouth last year, that even the telephone poles are growing.

A number of green poles were used as replacements this spring and small leafy branches now are sprouting on them. The moisture also caused trouble for R. B. Dunlap who has a field of rye six feet, two inches tall. It's too high for a binder, he said, and he doesn't know how to cut it.

Fortune Found In Old Safe In House After Death Of Recluse

MASONTOWN, Pa., June 11 (AP)—A fortune which Attorney Dean D. Sturgiss estimated "might reach $500,000" was found in an old safe here after the death of a recluse who lived in a house without running water, electric lights or other conveniences.

State motor patrolmen said the four heirs, Mrs. David Gans of Philadelphia and her three daughters, gasped as the door of the iron box belonging to the late Fred Schroyer, 2, was swung open by a locksmith.

Scores of $1,000 bills, a mass of dusty Liberty bonds and other negotiable securities were stacked neatly inside. Wild rumors placed the fortune in the "millions" but Sturgiss said it would not exceed $500,000.

New Passenger Train Schedule Becomes Effective Here Today

New passenger train schedule, affecting three trains into and out of Lubbock, becomes effective today, said R. H. Forbes, division passenger agent of the Santa Fe, said Saturday.

No. 92 for Clovis and California, will arrive at 1:15 o'clock from Sweetwater and leave at 1:25 for the west. No. 96, to Amarillo, will leave at 1:30 p. m., arriving in Amarillo at 4:25 and connecting with a Chicago train at 4:45.

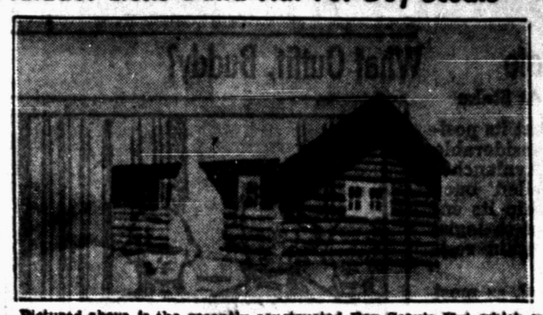

A new schedule through Amarillo and Clovis enables passengers from this section to connect with the Grand Canyon limited, which replaces the former Navajo. Better connections are available.

Tom Carter Of Lubbock Is In Race For State VFW Leader; Delegates At Waco Session

Campaigning to urge the election of Tom Carter of Lubbock as state commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars got off to a fast start in Waco Saturday as preparations were completed for the opening this morning of the annual four-day state encampment, according to word received in Lubbock last night.

Already at the scene were Terrell St. Clair, commander of Lubbock post of the VFW, J. B. Jones, post advocate, L. E. Parks and Carter, who is present senior vice commander of the state department. They attended the "cootie scratch" staged by the fun organization of the VFW Saturday night in advance of the encampment opening.

Others To Join Them

Others named as delegates are D. L. Poston, R. J. Allen, H. P. Gutterslon, Ray Amick, R. E. Fleming, W. H. McDonald and Jones. Alternates are Homer L. Pharr, Frank McPherson, W. G. Love, Earl Moore, C. E. Lenning, F. H. Zeltz, St. Clair and Lavender.

Posts Give Support

Word to Lavender Saturday said that large banners have been erected in the lobby of the Raleigh hotel, encampment headquarters, in the meeting hall and at various other places urging Carter's election. He added, also, that several posts in north, west, central and east Texas had advised by telegram of their support for the Lubbock man, who is a linotype operator for Avalanche-Journal Publications, Inc.

Delegates from three Panhandle and West Texas districts are scheduled to caucus at the Raleigh tonight following the annual memorial service to discuss matters to be submitted to the convention.

Annual banquet is scheduled Monday night and Lavender is to give sleight-of-hand performance at that time. Elections are scheduled Wednesday.

Unofficial information here Saturday that Sweetwater will be among the bidders for the 1939 encampment.

USED UNIQUE STUNT

ABERNATHY, June 11 — Johnny Lee Murray, Oklahoma City university student staged a unique hitch-hiking stunt here recently, enroute from Drumright, Okla., his home, to Hobbs, N. M., where he sought work.

Murray had a large hand, with a pleading thumb, operated by a string, tied to his hand. He used the card board hand to thumb rides. University stickers were plastered over his baggage.

Boy Evangelist Real Veteran

MINNEAPOLIS, June 11 (AP) — When 8-year-old Rev. Charles H. Jaynes, jr., opens a campaign to "put the devil out of business," he goes at it like a veteran. He is one, with five years of preaching behind him.

The chubby little cleric, who does his ministering atop a table before the pulpit so his congregation can see him, has been exhorting gatherings since he was two and a half years old. Last year he was ordained in the International Ministerial Federation at Peoria, Ill., and became, he thinks, the youngest pastor in the world.

His evangelical equipment is a shrill, far-reaching voice, a memory for Bible verses, and a good sense of rhythm. He can lead the singing, play drums in a church band, "bully" an interviewer for smoking or pause in the midst of a sermon to scratch his bare knee with equal aplomb.

His church career started, he relates, while he was attending evangelistic services in a California church.

"The lady who was taking care of me said I should sit still while she went up to the altar," he says. "But as soon as she got there, if I wasn't right behind her!

"I was saved then and I was saved again in the afternoon. I was very young then. I was two-and-a-half years old. Now I am here to put the devil out of business."

BARNYARD FLIES KILLED

SCOTTSBLUFF, Neb., June 11 (AP) —An accident was the mother of this invention — poison grasshopper bait used to kill barnyard flies.

A farmer near here hung up a bag of poison bait in his barn. Result: hundreds of flies were found dead beneath it.

Among the natives of the Adaman Islands, in the Bay of Bengal, wailing is a sign of joy. They huddle together and wail for an hour at a time on festive occasions, such as weddings.

City Votes On Livestock Zoning Tuesday; LaFollettes Have A "Sugar Daddy"

Citizens Are Urged To Vote

Health Of Community May Be At Stake

WITH the certain knowledge that its position may antagonize a considerable number of people, The Sunday Avalanche-Journal never-the-less is impelled once more to urge upon our citizenship its enthusiastic support of the attempt to legislate livestock zones outside certain residential zones of the city.

The livestock zoning proposal, as most citizens are aware, is to be submitted to popular referendum next Tuesday. Members of the City commission have pledged they will enact ordinances to forbid the keeping of livestock in zones where that is the wish of the residents as indicated at the "election."

The fact that the so-called "election" is wholly unnecessary and that it will be wholly without legal meaning is aside from the point in this discussion. We know, as City officials readily admit, that the City commission would be within its power to enact and enforce an ordinance forbidding the keeping of livestock within the city limits. By the same token, the commission will not be bound legally by the approaching straw vote, regardless what the outcome might be.

Purpose of the city fathers, obviously, is to seek a test of popular sentiment before acting. Ordinarily, that attitude might be commendable. But in this case, would it not have been the commendable and courageous thing to do to take the bull by the horns, so to speak, and to act in accordance with what they know to be the best interests of the public health?

THE Avalanche-Journal admittedly does not know what the outcome of the "election" may be. It does know, however, that those who favor livestock zoning must get out and vote if the proposition is to be approved. It knows that those who own cows, goats and the like not only will go to the polls, but that most of them will endeavor to get out as many votes as possible. It knows that such cow owners will increase their strength from certain of their neighbors to whom is sold—in violation of law—milk at a cheaper price than can be bought from dairies which are strictly regulated.

In its position, this newspaper is not motivated by the desire to work hardship on any person. It realizes a few may be subject to inconvenience if they are not permitted to keep cows. The Avalanche-Journal holds no animosity toward such persons. Ordinarily it would do what it could in their behalf. But it does not believe they should ask or expect that entire neighborhoods should endure swarms of green flies, the odors of manure, the unsightliness of cow lots and the bawling of cows so that they might continue a privilege of which very few take advantage. It is a privilege they would be accorded in very few cities in the United States—in no other city, so far as we have been able to ascertain—of Lubbock's approximate size.

We therefore again urge a vote to rid the city of a condition we honestly believe to be a menace to community health—to mention only one of the many objections to cow lots in town.

Another Kind Of "Milking"

DISAPPOINTING to most citizens was the lack of statistical information concerning the milking contest in which members of Congress engaged for a worthy cause a few days ago.

Congressman Marvin Jones, who apparently was the judge, contended himself with the announcement that the contest ended in a "draw," without disclosure of how much milk the law-makers were able to extract from the bossies.

Therefore, it seems, the nation must wait still longer before learning whether the men who milk taxpayers so effectively are equally competent at the more laborious task!

"Some time ago a high school class in a farming community was asked to write essays on farming problems," Mrs. Oran McClure notes in the Texas Spur. "One boy wrote in part: 'Two things are necessary to help dairymen. First, farmers need better organization. Second, farmers need more education about marketing problems.' "

The One-Minute Sermon

And Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of ten.

And they judged the people at all seasons: the hard causes they brought unto Moses, but every small matter they judged themselves.—Exodus 18; 25 and 26.

"Coin" Harvey's Dream Of An American Pyramid Is Slowly Dwindling Into Dust

Another "Great Idea" Goes Begging

This is the foyer of 'Coin' Harvey's projected pyramid. The pyramid itself was to rise from the trees in the background. The caretaker, shown with a boy, spends most of his time shooting at snakes and frogs in the terrace pool.

(By Associated Press Feature Service)

MONTE NE, Ark., June 11—Time has turned the tables on the late William Hope "Coin" Harvey. Civilization, which he feared would be destroyed, goe on. He started a great American pyramid in which to preserve the relics of civilization; that is disintegrating.

Coin Harvey died nere two years ago. In the late nineteenth century he was famous through his book on finance, "Coin's Financial School," and another on politics, "The tale Of Two Nations."

First Dream Fails

He was high in the councils of the Democratic party in the days of William Jennings Bryan, but he split with the Great Commoner over financial theories. He retired to this Ozark region and tried to establish Monte Ne as a summer resort. That project failed. Then he retired to a rustic log home to write and study.

Believing civilization would be destroyed, he decided to build a huge pyramid to preserve a record of the world in which he lived.

The site of the pyramid was a spot Harvey thought would be the last on earth to be covered through natural erosion. Tons of cement were poured into holes drilled hundreds of feet into solid rock to anchor a proposed 120-foot tower of stone and concrete. Part of the foundation was made into an amphitheater with stone benches and spring-fed pools. Harvey spent more than $10,000 from the proceeds of his book sales on this preliminary work.

• • •

In a vault at the base of the pyramid, Harvey planned to place "The Book," a volume he was writing as his masterpiece. It was to give a complete history of civilization; its rise and growth; the dangers threatening its overthrow; a symposium of opinions on the cause of its threatened destruction. There were to be volumes on industry and scientific attainment; pictures of outstanding inventions and discoveries, and of people and animals. With them was to be a book to aid in translation into the language in use when the pyramid would be opened.

On the six-foot square top was to have been placed a bronze plate bearing this inscription: "When this can be read, go below and find the record of and cause of the death of a former civilization."

Friends Unable To Help

Fearing he would not be able to complete his dream, Harvey organized the Pyramid association, composed of close friends. Most of them have died; none of the survivors is financially able to carry on the project. His son, Tom Harvey, to whom was left completion of the pyramid, has announced no plans for completion.

Mrs. Harvey, the writer's secretary for 40 years, has been living with relatives since his death, awaiting settlement of litigation over the property virtually all of which was debt-encumbered as result of her husband's prolonged illness and failure of the Monte Ne resort project.

It, the deserted Harvey home and the dilapidated resort depot deteriorate unnoticed, lonely as the ample tomb nearby in which lies the body of "Coin" Harvey.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

IT'S one of life's little ironies that the principal financial angel of those grim apostles of political reform—the La Follette brothers—happens to be a man nicknamed "Good Time Charley" Ward. A Minneapolis character, he has attached himself and his wad to the brothers from Madison who seek either a realignment or a third party.

Mr. Ward loves excitement—motion and commotion—the bright lights. He got his introduction into politics as a factotum for the late Floyd Olson, erstwhile Governor of Minnesota. He ran errands for Floyd, paid party bills, put up money for his campaigns. He also got the liberal itch. When Floyd died, he transferred his affections to the progressive movement across the line, and he's doing his bit for the La Follettes. He was one of Minnesota's two delegates at Phil's recent third-party convention at Madison.

"Good Time Charley" has what it takes, apparently. Some years ago he met a multi-millionaire under peculiar circumstances, and the latter was so impressed with the Ward personality that he left his entire fortune to the comparative stranger. So, if the La Follettes go anywhere, politically, you will hear a lot about "Good Time Charley". Men like him are apparently essential in American politics, which is still a rich man's game.

DAVID: President Roosevelt's choice of Rep. David J. Lewis as the New Deal candidate against Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland supplies the surest guidepost for the direction the New Deal will take if the White House wins in the November elections. The Tydings-Lewis contest, figuratively, is a contest between the beauty and the beast.

"David John" Lewis, as he calls himself, is one of the ablest and most honest men on Capitol Hill. Some sixty years ago he dropped into a coal mine alongside his father—he was only nine years old—and had to do a man's work. "The only difference between dad and me," he recalls, "was that father used a big pick and shovel, and I used a small set." Mr. Lewis learned to read by forking scraps of newspapers off the street with a stick, taking them home and puzzling over them by candlelight. By slow degrees he studied law, and eventually entered politics.

Though nationally unknown, he is one of the most important figures on Capitol Hill. He fathered such measures as the parcel post, the unemployment insurance act, the Guffey Coal control measure. Fifteen years ago he was advocating reforms which have come true under the New Deal. Old, white-haired, weazened, "David John" now has a chance to win glory he doesn't desire by sitting in the Senate.

• • •

GOLIATH: Mr. Tydings, on the other hand, is the darling of political fortune. A university graduate, an outstanding hero of the World war, a brilliant member of the house, his rise has been rapid. But he is as conservative and bourbonish as "David John" is radical and CIO-ish.

Millard was just a hard-working, plugging member of the house until late one afternoon he engaged Willie Upshaw of Georgia in a fierce debate over prohibition. Mr. Upshaw, as a paid evangelist for the Anti-Saloon League, quoted the Bible literally and liberally on behalf of the dry cause. But for every quotation upholding prohibition Mr. Tydings hurled back two excerpts which paid lyric tribute to the joys of liquor. Even Willie admitted that the brash boy from Maryland was good.

That single debate made Mr. Tydings—elected him to the senate. There, however he has been just another member—making the most of his Annapolis constituency. He has opposed almost every New Deal measure. Therefore the president, under prodding from John L. Lewis, who has thousands of coal miners in the western section of the state, has trotted out a David to fight Goliath Tydings.

• • •

OBJECT?: Vice President Garner's mail vies with President Roosevelt's in volume and variety. Pen-in-hand Americans write their woes and happinesses to both men. But the V. P. thinks that recently he received the gem of the ocean—and the land. It was entitled "The prayer of an old Negro preacher":

"Oh Lord, give Thy servant dis mornin' dee eye of dee eagle and dee wisdom of dee owl. Konneck his soul to dee gosple telefoam in dee central skies. Turpentine his heart wid love fer dee peoples. Grease his lips wid possum oil. Electrify his mind wid dee lightning of Thy word. Fill him plump full of dee dynamite of Thy power. Nointh him all over wid dee kerosene oil of Thy salvation and set him on fire! Amen."

• • •

IDEA: Sir Willmott Lewis of the London Times—the CaCpital's finest after-dinner speaker and bon motor—thinks that we Americans do and say things in halves. As usual, he has a remedy.

"If you really believe that Mr. Roosevelt is a dictator," says the British knight to his poker pals around the National Press Club, "why don't you call him a 'pinch-Hitler'?"

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THOMAS Corcoran—Tommy the Cork—was submerged for several months early this year. Today, buoyant as ever, he is again riding the crest of the White House wave. It was he who persuaded F. D. R. to go the whole hog for Claude Pepper in the Florida primaries. More cautious counselors to whom the President had been listening—Jesse Jones, Steve Early, Marriner Eccles, Henry Morgenthau, Alben Barkley—preached watchful waiting and a truce with economic royalists. Corcoran urged audacity, always more appealing to Mr. Roosevelt. He won out.

Tommy Corcoran has dash and color, qualities which Roosevelt likes. His talk is full of bright patches, enthusiastic, sparkling. Compromise and half-way measures are alien to him. He would rather risk all and fight. The real battle for perpetuation of the New Deal will be in this year's primaries, with no quarter given. The wounds inflicted, he reasons, can be healed. If the Old Deal Democrats are beaten, they will have no choice but to fall in line.

Supporting Corcoran are audacious personalities like his own—Jerome Frank, Morris Ernst, Harry Hopkins and, of course, Ben Cohen. The Cohen-Corcoran team works like a baseball battery. Cohen stands behind the plate, sizing up the batters, calling signals. Corcoran does the pitching. For the moment at least F. D. R. is whole-heartedly on their side. That's bad news for John W. Hanes' business-truce endeavors—and for all middle-of-the-roaders.

HEADLINES: The scandal over Continental Securities corporation and allied investment trusts is provoking a three-cornered race for prosecuting honors. New York City's District Attorney Tom Dewey, the State Attorney General John J. Bennett, jr., and S. E. C. prosecutor David Schenker all have hands in the grab bag and are vying to pull out the prize plums. The first two may be rival nominees for the New York governorship. The last is reliably reported to yearn for a commissioner's job in the S. E. C.

Insiders are betting on Dave Schenker for the publicity prize. He has an ingenious technique in handling the press which produced lots of copy when he conducted the S. E. C.'s general investigation into investment trusts two years ago. Newspapermen, bemused by a morning of involved technical testimony, could depend on him to come back after the noon recess with an abstract of the story for them. It was always close enough to the facts to be libel-proof—and always got his side of the story across effectively.

Courtroom authorities concede Schenker to be brilliant, though ruthless. There is nothing tender in his examination of witnesses. He has a way of leading up to a damaging admission late in the afternoon, then calling for adjournment. Next morning's testimony may easily erase the damage from the record. But it doesn't erase the newspaper headlines.

Our Curious World --- By William Ferguson

OFFICIAL action was taken with regard to a national flag on June 14, 1777, and it is this date that is celebrated now as Flag Day in the United States. The first official flag had 13 stars, and 13 stripes . . . a star and a stripe for each state. In 1794, two more stars and stripes were added, to take care of additional states. Later on the flag was changed back to 13 stripes, with a star for each state.

Arnold Zweig Adds To War Chronicles

"The Crowning Of A King" Is Good Story, Well Told

"THE CROWNING OF A KING", by Arnold Zweig; (Viking Press, N. Y.).

ARNOLD ZWEIG, a German Jew, now makes his home in Haifa, Palestine. He left Germany in 1933, and as "Time" expressed it is now, in company with every first-rate German writer, in exile.

The interesting series of war chronicles by Arnold Zweig began with the publication of "The Case Of Sergeant Grischa." This book as the key-stone and foundation of the series, is unquestionably the best. The next two books of the Terralogy follow, but in reality retrace the characters in "The Case Of Sergeant Grischa." "The Young Woman Of 1914," then "Education Before Verdun," are a retraction of events and formations shown in, "The Case Of Sergeant Grischa."

Last Year Of The War

In Arnold Zweig's latest contribution—"The Crowning Of A King"—the title comes from the controversial issue of placing an occupant on the throne of Lithuania. The scene of action is the Eastern front and the time the last year of the World war. Over-confident Germany seeing victory in peace, with expansion an enevitable process finds the conflict and dissention within her own ranks.

The Junkers are determined to see a Protestant Prussian Prince placed as ruler of Lithuania, while the opposing side are equally desirous to see their candidate, the Catholic Duke of Teck on the throne.

The main character, Captain Winfred, is the nephew of Colonial-General Lychow of "The Case of Sergeant Grischa." Captain Winfred becomes the trusted friend of General Clauss who is in command of the armed forces governing the Eastern Front. He enjoys privileges and unusual promotions, but his enemies continually and insiduously inject into the minds of his comrades insinuations that he is not to be trusted and these insinuations finally plot to ruin his military career has started back in 1914, when Captain Winfred along with Bertin and several other characters try to defend Sergeant Grischa from an unjust imprisonment and execution. Captain Winfred is finally aroused to action by reports of abuses practiced in a prisoners' labor camp.

General Clauss learns of this and also of Winfred's communications with members of the Reichstag and decides that some disciplining of the captain might not be amiss.

The interest of the book is centered in the meeting afterward of General Clauss and Captain Winfred, when the latter denounces his superiors and the whole German military system.

Romance is afforded by the love affair of Captain Winfred and the army nurse—Sister Barbe.

Arnold Zweig, as a novelist has a story to tell of German warfare and militarism and it is a good story, well told.

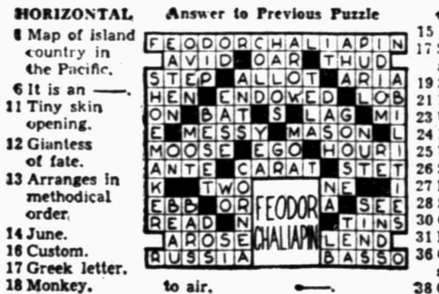

"The Crowning Of A King," is not a book for superficial reading, for Zweig is not writing for entertainment but for information to further his motive—to institute reform.—L. M. H.

Wheat Harvesting And Replanting Of Cotton Occupy South Plains Farmers

More Combines To Be Started

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Rains up to this time in June have played havoc with planting of cotton, many farmers having had to replant two and even three times before getting a stand. Others have been unable to plant owing to dry top soil. The western part of the territory especially is dry, not enough moisture having fallen to make it advisable to plant.

Several Counties Harvesting

Wheat harvesting is under way in several counties. First wheat came to Lubbock last week from Dawson county. Crosby, Floyd, Hale and Scurry counties have heard the hum of the combine in the fields. Amount cut so far has been small, but beginning Monday it is anticipated hundreds of machines will be running.

No reports of yields of wheat have been made. It is thought yields will be above general expectations.

Some late rains may have set back harvesting, particularly where the fields are not uniform in ripening.

Modern Equipment Used

Few binders will be used this year. There are almost no threshing machines in this area, specially on top of the cap rock. There is one small machine at Texas Technological college. A few private machines are available, in the north part especially.

No accurate estimate of wheat acreage abandonment is available. Farmers in Crosby and Dickens counties, hailed out recently, have begun to plow under the stubble and prepare for planting other crops.

There is much cotton up to a good stand. Late May and June rains enabled moisture to meet in sections where the top soil moisture was heavy enough to go down. However, May evaporation was heavier than normal.

While many recent rains were light in total, they were beating and washed dirt down on top of seed just planted, or on small cotton. Grain sorghums were further advanced.

Rolling Stock Ready

Cotton acreage for the territory may be reduced from the allocated acreages, due to late planting. Generally from 120 to 135 days are needed for cotton to proceed from the seed stage to open bolls.

Late June, according to farmers, is too late to gamble much on a crop. However in recent years many farmers have been known to have harvested cotton from seed planted as late as July 4.

Thousands of railroad cars for hauling wheat are on side tracks of the main wheat hauling roads. The Santa Fe and Denver are said to be prepared to handle the Texas crop easily.

Somereports indicate a storage of grain for the immediate future. Federal loan program is not complete and farmers may hold wheat to see what that will be.

There is still some 1937 wheat on hand, mostly in storage. Elevators also are holding some.

First Wheat Received

Hale Center had its first wheat Thursday from J. L. Mann, near Cotton Center. The wheat tested 57 pounds per bushel. Several combines are working there.

At Ralls G. A. Aldrich brought in the first wheat Tuesday. It tested No. 1. Wheat in the north part of the county is ripening fast.

Lewis Thompson brought to Plainview Friday the first load of Hale county wheat. The load tested 58.5 pounds per bushel for 120 bushels. It was three days earlier than 1937 crop.

MANY BEETS PLANTED

FLOYDADA—There are 200 acres of sugar beets planted on irigation farms in Floyd County, it is estimated. H. M. Bainer, general agricultural agent of the Santa Fe, arranged the test crops.

The standard type of bayonet used by the Chinese army is lighter and shorter than that used by most armies in the Occident, having a blade 10 inches long and one inch wide, designed as a cutting as well as a thusting weapon.

Horse drawn carriages are still to be seen on the streets of Shanghai. They are known as "broker's carts," a name derived from the fact that many stock brokers in the city still use the horse and buggy as a means of transportation in traveling from their homes to their offices.

Milking Cow Strengthens Urge Of Poet To Shape Thought Into Meter, He Boasts

Marvin Miller At Work
'He Goes To The Cows For Rhythm'

* * *

(By Associated Press Feature Service)

ABILENE, June 11—Marvin Miller, college freshman whose poetry appears in magazines, says he creates his best verse while milking a cow.

Now 19, he began writing seriously four years ago wren a study hall teacher laughed at him and said he never would make a poet. He made up his mind to "show" the teacher.

"With a bucket between my knees and a teat in each hand I am ready to jerk out the milky meter," says Miller. "The milk, splashing in the bottom and the sides of the pail, interprets itself to me in various kinds of rhythm.

"After the milk is strained I go to my typewriter and hit off the first draft of the poem. The concentration on meter, as I milk, clarifies my thinking. A bit unusual, perhaps, but effective. The cow at first seemed quite amused but now is accustomed to my chanting."

In high school he won second prize in a national high school poetry contest. His income has totaled more than $2,000 from poems; a volume of his work, "Bone Dust," is being prepared for publication. He is at Hardin-Simmons university.

May In Lynn County Brings $33,000 In Farm Produce

TAHOKA, June 11—Lynn County during May produced $33,000 worth of produce which farmers sold to produce buyers in Tahoka and O'Donnell, Henry Maasen, a dealer, told the Rotary club at its luncheon here. Maasen said his figures were conservative, but that May was a peak month for butter, eggs and poultry.

At least 1,500 ten-gallon cans of cream were produced and sold for approximately $9,000; 4,000 case of eggs were sold for about $20,000 and 30,000 pounds of dressed poultry sold for $4,000.

Maasen estimated Lynn County as a whole will produce $250,000 worth of produce a year, or more. This is in addition to these items consumed on the home tables of farmers.

MANY H. D. CLUBS

FLOYDADA — There are now 18 home demonstration clubs working in Floyd county, said Mrs. Holmes, chairman of the county council. Mrs. Raymond Williams was recently named vice president. Miss Ruth Grimes is the home demonstration agent. The council voted to send Mrs. Holmes to the state meeting at College Station July 13-15 as its delegate.

FSA Check Given Haskell Farmer

HASKELL, Jun 11—Ayres Cox, 25, who began farming three years ago with small resources, received June 3, a check for $6,665 to buy 120 acres of land as one of the tenants being aided to become owners under the new program of the Farm Security administration.

A statement by the administration says Cox is the youngest of five tenants to receive land purchase loans in Haskell county. Cox, the statement says, was chosen by a committee of farmers "by advancing from his status of three years ago to the present situation where he has a net worth, above indebtedness, of more than $1,000, owning a good tractor and plow tools, four milk cows and a beef cow, two calves, four hogs and 75 pure bred chickens."

Yielded $210 In Food

The hogs, cows and chickens yielded $210 worth of food last year to keep Cox, his wife and two small children, the statement says. Only $72 went for store-bought groceries, the remainder of their cash income being applied on the loan they had received from the Farm Security administration to establish themselves with livestock and equipment prior to the land-purchase loan. A "rehabilitation loan" was made each of three years totaling more than $1,600. Cox has repaid all but $500.

Cox and the other four chosen to receive loans will work under a farm management plan set up with the aid of FSA specialists, which gives assurance they will be in position to pay their loans, the statement says. The plans shows he will earn a cash income of $1,937 yearly, even with cotton at 10 cents a pound. Forty-six acres of his farm, which he rented the past three years, will go into cotton.

Covers Cost Of Land, Buildings

Farm operations will cost an estimated $805, living expenses $475 cash, above home-grown items, leaving $657 to pay taxes and the $324 installment on the land purchase loan. The check for $6,665 covers the cost of the land an enough to build a four-room house and barn to replace the one-room shack in which the family has been living.

Cox is one of 168 Texas tenant farmers who were the first to receive land purchase loans. The $820,000 allotted to Texas (exclusive of the Panhandle) has been all utilized in these loans, which bought 34 more farms than had been expected.

TARZAN UNDER FIRE No. 31 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

While Ulp sat thinking how he might get rid of the little high priestess, the fearful voice of a hungry lion sounded in the distance. An idea filtered into Ulp's muddy mind. How fortunate it would be is the hungry beast should come and devour the child!

His slow-moving brain groped for some means of accomplishing his horrible purpose. Then an evil smile overspread his brutal face. Yes, the thing might be arranged so that it would appear accidental. Ulp arose and ambled toward the shelter that housed Yvonne.

Through the black jungle night, two other figures crept toward the same goal. They were Dick and Doc. The two brave boys had descended from the trees at the opposite side of the camp, and they were crawling now through the brush—intent upon reaching Yvonne.

They were unaware that the sinister Ulp was moving toward the same objective—for far different purpose. If the boys continued at the same pace, they would come face to face with Ulp; then they, as well as Yvonne, might become captives of the awful brute-men!

Andrews County Wildcat Showing And Increased New Locations Are Features Of Oil Developments

BY JOHN B. BREWER
Special Oil Writer

The showing of oil in promising amounts by two Andrews county wildcats, H. S. Forgeron No. 1 Lockhart & Brown and Frank S. Perkins and others' No. 1 E. W. Cowden; extending of the sand production in the Kermit field in Winkler county 1 1-2 miles east by Samwan Oil Co.'s No. 2 Gelder and an increase in wildcat locations featured developments in the West Texas Permian Basin this week.

Bert Fields of Dallas sold to the Gilcrease Oil Co. of San Antonio his Gibbs lease of 276 acres in the Crane-Cowden pool in southeastern Crane county for $255,000 cash. There are 17 wells on the lease with total daily potential production of 12,745 barrels and total daily allowable of 654 barrels. Fields last winter acquired Finley & Cherry's interest in the property.

Swabs Two Barrels Hourly

Forgeron No. 1 Lockhart & Brown, five miles west of the Fuhrman field in southern Andrews county, swabbed two barrels of fluid hourly, 97 per cent oil and three per cent basic sediment and water, after washing the hole twice with 500 gallons of acid, with the total depth 4,483 feet. It treated with 1,500 gallons and was testing. Location is in the northeast corner of section 20-A41-psl.

Perkins and others' No. 1 Cowden in the extreme southwest corner of Andrews county, in the northwest quarter of section 14-A 55-psl, showed some light green, high gravity oil and sweet gas with water after perforating 5 1-2-inch, flush joint casing 144 times between 7,666 and 7,760 feet. It was to run a "squeeze" cement job in an effort to shut off the water before gun-shooting other sections of the pipe opposite zones indicated by a Schlumberger survey to be porous, saturated lime. Acid then will be run. The pipe was cemented at 8,004 feet. No. 1 Cowden drilled to 8,012 feet, deeper than any other test has gone in the North Permian Basin.

Drilling By Lost Tools

Magnolia No. 1 J. D. Webb, Yoakum county wildcat two miles southwest of Plains, in section 267-D-John H. Gibson, showed only 1,500 feet of heavy, dead oil when cleaned out to 5,340 feet after acidizing at a plugged back depth of 5,400 feet. Helmerich & Payne No. 1 Ohio-Dowell, in section 986, promising a 1 1-2-mile southwest extension to the Denver pool, was drilling by tools lost at 4,995 feet.

J. T. Perryman, jr., of Ft. Worth was rigging rotary for No. 1 C. H. Doak, a northeastern Gaines county wildcat west of Cedar Lake, 660 from the north, 1,980 feet from the east line of section 43-H-D&W.

Devonian No. 1-C-8 Duggan, two miles south of the Duggan pool in southeastern Cochran county, topped saturated lime at 5,003 feet and cored ahead below 5,019 feet in lime. It is in the northeast corner of labor 8, league 54, Oldham county school land.

Flows 10 Barrels Hourly

Samwan (formerly E. L. Gelder's) No. 2 R. D. Kessler, east of Kermit pool sand production in northern Winkler county, flowed an estimated 10 barrels of oil hourly while cleaning out following a 240-quart nitroglycerin shot, bottomed at 3,203 feet. It is in the southeast quarter of section 14-B3-psl.

The Texas Co. No. 1-F University, three miles west of the north end of the South Ward field in Ward County, in section 15-16-U, was abandoned at 3,094 feet in sand, where it flowed 11,000 barrels of sulphur water daily through casing. J. E. Fitzpatrick and others' No. 1 Dyer, 1 1-2 miles southwest of Mahres and others' No. 1 Wilson, a small Delaware discovery in west central Ward county, topped the Delaware lime at 5,080 feet, 2,371 feet below sea level. It shutdown at 5,085 feet in lime with no shows and began moving tools to the same operators' No. 1 Dyer, two miles to the southeast, for the resumption of drilling at 1,320 feet in anhydrite.

Stake Out Wildcat

J. N. Gregory and others staked No. 1 Humble-O'Neil, a Pecos county wildcat 2,310 feet out of the north corner of section 74-10-H&GN, 2 1-2 miles northwest of the Masterson pool. Magnolia and Tex-Mex No. 1-A McKee, northern Pecos county wildcat in section 24-9-H&GN, had showed no oil, gas or water in drilling to 6,171 feet, 69 feet in the Ellenberger, lower Ordovician, which it topped 3,717 feet below sea level.

Gulf No. 8 Waddell in the Sand Hills district in western Crane county, in the northwest quarter of section 4-B27-psl, topped the Simpson, middle Ordovician, at 5,483 feet, 3,282 feet below sea level, and 17 feet lower than in Gulf No. 4 Waddell, first major Ellenberger producer in the district, a quarter mile to the south. It had cored to 6,007 feet, still in the Simpson.

Flows 791 Barrels

Producing from lime higher than the normal pay from which nearby wells pump, Cardinal No. 12 Wooley in the McCamey district in Upton county flowed 791 barrels of oil, naturally through casing, for completion at a plugged back depth of 2,128 feet. It is in the east quarter of section 3-R-GC&SF.

Choate & Hogan No. 1-H University, gauging 63 barrels in 24 hours, was completed at 1,425 feet as the first flowing well in the new pool on University land in extreme northwestern Crockett county. It is the field's fifth producer.

Replugging below cemented pipe delayed acidizing of Homer Price and others' No. J. C. Beddo, Runnels county wildcat four miles northeast of Ballinger, which recently yielded 10 sixty-foot bailers of 40 gravity oil daily from Palo Pinto lime at 3,498 to 3,515 feet.

J. B. Watson of Llano staked a location for a scheduled 500-foot test on Llano county's school land block of 17,712 acres in Tom Green county north of San Angelo, in the southwest corner of section 16, Llano county school land survey.

John W. Sward and others' No. 1 T. G. Brennand, northern Sterling county wildcat in the northeast quarter of section 107-2-H&TC, showed free oil from 1,735-45 feet in sand above the Blaine lime and drilled ahead at 1,785 feet.

Displayed at the Cleveland Great Lakes Exposition, a giant refrigerator, 25 feet high and 170 times as large as an average household model, held the rank of world's largest ice refrigerator.

Texan Who Caught Bobcats With Bare Hands To Thrill 'Teddy' Had Nothing On Border Officer

BROWNSVILLE, June 11—(AP)—The hardy Texan who caught bobcats with his bare hands to thrill Theodore Roosevelt was more aware of the hazards involved than was United States Border Patrolman William L. Sill of Brownsville, who recently twisted the rattles off a live diamond-back for a souvenir.

Sill and other border patrolmen had stopped at a brushy spot near the Rio Grande to repair an automobile tire when a rattlesnake came out of the brush nearby. Sill shot its head off and just before proceeding announced he was going to take the snake's rattles as a souvenir.

The next day the border patrolmen were driving along the same road and stopped to look at the dead rattler, thinking its mate might be there and they would kill it.

"I noticed it was doing a lot of wriggling," he said, "but thought nothing of it."

The border patrolmen figure the snake must have had its head and part of its body in a hole, and was unable to get out when Sill was hurriedly twisting the rattles off.
