FSA To Furnish Dawson Co. Farmers With Farm Hands

Dawson County farmers who will need to employ year-round farm laborers should make application to Orville W. Richardson, rural rehabilitation supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, according to word received here this week from the Regional FSA office at Amarillo.

The Farm Security Administration, it was announced, is prepared to transport volunteer farm workers into this county to fill orders placed by the farmers with the local supervisor.

Farmers desiring to employ year-round workers, it was explained, will sign a request, stating the wages and housing facilities offered, and the kind of workers needed to help produce the 1943 war crops. Wages will be based upon those prevailing with in the county.

The FSA plans to transport hundreds of workers into West Texas this spring from the poorer farming areas in other states, and make them available to farmers who need their labor.

Dawson County farmers, were urged by a spokesman for the FSA to place their orders for workers as quickly as possible. Orders will be filled in the order in which they are received. The FSA can give no assurance that late orders will be filled immediately.

Whether the workers will be experienced will depend very largely upon the wishes of the farmer-employers, it was explained. The FSA is prepared to train a limited number of inexperienced farm hands at one of several farm apprentice training centers being established in West Texas, in cooperation with the Texas Vocational Agriculture Department's war production training program.

The first group of laborers completed a short course last Saturday at Lamesa, and have been employed. A second group began training on Monday.

The FSA representative said many farmers prefer to train their own workers. He said every effort will be made to supply farmers with the kind of help they prefer. Most of the workers, he said, will be general farm hands, with considerable experience on small, diversified farm units.

Individuals and family groups who have volunteered for employment as farm workers are motivated by patriotism, it was said. Farmers will find them anxious to do their part in helping produce food for this nation and her allies. He said these workers obviously expect weather-proof housing with adequate furnishing for keeping house. Because it is necessary to transport them to this county by train or bus it will be impossible for these people to bring more than their clothing and bedding.

The FSA spokesman urged farmers who expect to hire year-round farm labor to make any needed improvements in their housing facilities immediately. "Experience has shown us," he said, "that farm workers will not remain on places where they have no facilities for preparing meals, doing laundry and for plenty of good drinking water. He might as well face that fact now and avoid disappointment later."

Mr. Richardson of the local FSA office in the Courthouse said he will be glad to explain complete details of the Department's war-emergency farm labor supply program to all

Sgt. Faulkenberry Awarded Medal For Wake Raid

Staff Sergeant J. M. Faulkenberry, of Lamesa was awarded an Air Medal at a ceremony held at Hickam Field, T. H. on New Year's Day.

Medals were presented by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander-in-chief of Pacific Fleet Units; Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, head of Hawaiian Army forces; Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, Air Force Commander in the mid-Pacific; and Brig. Gen. Robert L. Douglas and Brig. Gen. Howard K. Ramey of the Army Air Forces.

S-Sgt. Faulkenberry was a member of a Lomber crew that raided Jap-held Wake Island Dec. 24, 1942. Because the American planes crossed the International Date Line in attacking Wake, they got back from the raid a day before they made it. They were over Wake on Dec. 24th (Wake Time) but landed back at their home base, Dec. 23rd, (Hawaiian Time).

An undisclosed number of four-motored bombers made up the striking force, which dumped 76,000 pounds of high explosive and incendiary bombs on Wake. The raid was led by Col. Wm. A. Matheny.

REV. A. B. LEE

Starting Tuesday, March 2, the St. John Baptist Church are sponsoring a weeks special program in celebration of the first anniversary of their pastor, Rev. A. B. Lee.

Each evening through this coming Sunday, a special program will be given with pastors and choir members from Hobbs, N. M., Odessa, Pleasant Valley, Brownwood and other towns taking part.

8510 War Ration Books Issued At Lamesa Gym

The business of issuing War Ration Book No. 2 at the Lamesa Gymnasium was quite brisk during the two days of rationing, and site administrator, V. Z. Rogers, reports that 8510 Ration Books No. 2 were issued.

According to Mr. Rogers a few families who reported at the side Saturday and did not receive Ration Book No. 2, may get these books at the Dawson County War Price and Rationing Office, after March 10.

WPB Suggests Lambing Season Be Deferred

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 28 (AP) — An Idaho ranchman tells this one.

Unable to get a priority to buy lumber to construct lambing pens, he decided to try to use canvas. But, he said, the War Production Board gave him this answer:

"It is impossible to allow you such a large amount of canvas for the purpose of making lambing sheds. As an alternative, we suggest that you postpone your lambing season until more favorable weather."

farmers in this county who will need to employ help. He, too, urged farmers to make arrangements as quickly as possible.

LONDON, Feb. 28. (AP) — Brig. Gen. S. Hansell, Jr., of San Antonio, Texas, and Brig. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong of Asheville, N. C., flew with the American Fortress and Liberator formations which dumped tons of bombs on the German naval base at Brest Saturday, United States Army Air Force headquarters announced Sunday.

Participation of the high-ranking officers in the raid was disclosed along with accounts from the returning crewmen, who praised the Royal Air Force and Allied Spitfire squadrons for the coverage which helped to present the loss of a single American bomber.

Hansell, who holds the Silver Star award for gallantry while leading a bombardment mission over the Continent Jan. 3, flew to Brest in a Fortress named Tony H.—after his son.

Armstrong, who was promoted to Brigadier General recently has been on a number of raids. His plane was not named.

The flying General followed the lead set by Major Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the Eighth United States Air Force, who participated in the first American raid on the Continent last July 4.

Recounting the effective support of the accompanying fighter squadrons, the Americans reported that no member of their crews saw "more than five Huns at one time."

SECOND LIEUT. R. H. SMITH of LAMESA, TEXAS, told of seeing a lone Focke-Wulf 190 which "quickly disappeared without making a pass at us."

Lt. Robert H. Smith's wife, the former Miss Elizabeth Lee Davis, is residing here, and also his sister, Mrs. Wilda Jolly, makes her home here.

Red Cross Drive For $4,900 Gets Underway Monday

Cotton Crop Control Plan Endangered

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP) — The administration's compulsory cotton control program tottered Sunday before a rising tide of opposition in Congress, among growers in the industry.

The program is designed by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard to prevent expanded planting of the type of cotton which there is a relative large supply and to encourage instead the planting of wartime food crops, particularly peanuts and soybeans for vegetable oils, on land which otherwise would be used for cotton.

Demands that the program be abandoned have reached Wickard in such proportions in recent days that his aides expressed doubt he will be able to withstand them.

The program features a rigid marketing quota system under which farmers are subject to a cash penalty of nearly half the market value of cotton sold in excess of AAA sales allotments.

Chairman M. C. Tarver (Dem.) of Georgia, of a House appropriations subcommittee drafting the Agriculture Department's new supply bill, summoned I. W. Duggan, AAA southern director to appear before the committee Monday to explain why the quotas should not be removed and farmers allowed to plant all the cotton they want. Opposition to the quotas has been particularly strong among Georgia farmers.

Wants Unlimited Production

An appeal for unlimited cotton production has been made by Oscar Johnston, president of the National Cotton Council and a former AAA official. Emphasizing that cotton seed is a source of edible vegetable oil and of protein feeds for livestock, commodities needed in larger quantities, Johnston said:

"Soil, climate, equipment and experience of cotton producers are not adapted to the production of any other crops yielding anything like comparable quantities of foods, feeds, fibers or raw materials necessary to the war effort."

Johnston reported a general lack of the "tremendous importance of the American cotton crop as a producer of food and feed."

Unfair to Grower, He Says

"This erroneous impression is causing serious trouble in many quarters," he said. "It is placing the cotton farmer in an unfair and unpatriotic light in the eyes of the general public and is having a serious, adverse effect on his efforts to secure the labor, farm machinery and supplies necessary in making his crop. It is impeding the operations of all branches of the raw cotton industry, from producers to manufacturers in making their maximum contribution to the war effort."

The removal last week of restrictions on wheat apparently gave impetus to demands for the lifting of cotton quotas. Their abandonment would leave only some types of tobacco subject to AAA marketing controls.

Under the 1943 farm program, southern farmers were asked to hold down plantings of short staple cotton, of which there is a large supply,

The Annual Red Cross membership drive got underway this morning, Monday, with a breakfast at the Plaza Hotel for volunteer workers.

The town of Lamesa and the county has been divided into sections and each section will be canvassed. The cooperation of every citizen is asked in this move as every one must help if the quota of $4,900 is met.

The war fund to be raised in the United States is $125,000,000.

Between January 1, 1942, and the present the American Red Cross has spent $40,000,000 for services to the armed forces and another $2,500,000 for Civilian War Aid. These figures do not include the great amounts spent by local chapters in buying materials for clothing, kits and hospital supplies.

Mr. And Mrs. J. W. Nooncaster Have 2 Sons In Service

First Lieutenant C. F. Nooncaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Nooncaster of St. Route 1, Lamesa has been recently promoted to the rank of Captain. He is stationed at Pomona, California.

Capt. Nooncaster, was a Reserve Officer when he reported for service last August. Before going into the service he worked in the Ford Plant at Dallas.

The Nooncasters other son, Aubrey is also in the army and has recently completed a four and one-half month Radio Course, and has started on an advanced course. He is stationed in Pennsylvania, when this advanced course is completed he will be commissioned a Second Lieutenant. He was football coach at Brownfield for six years before entering the service.

Both Aubrey and Capt. Clifton Nooncaster are graduates of Lamesa High School.

Olin Nix Jr. Promoted To Sgt.

Corporal Olin L. Nix, Jr., of the 13th Armored Division, formerly of Lamesa, Texas, was promoted February 15, 1943, to the rank of Sergeant. His excellent record and keen interest in his work prompted his commanding officer, Lt. Col. Ronald C. Anderson, to name him to the higher grade.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Nix, of Lamesa.

MAYBE 'GHOSTS' WEAR MARINE UNIFORMS

LONDON (AP) — Japanese soldiers reported found dead in New Guinea jungles without marks of violence or illness upon them may well have been killed by ghosts, a British woman explorer suggests, Evelyn Cheesman says that in her expeditions to New Guinea she had found belief in ghosts strong and widespread.

She told of seeing a native youth of 22 die in a fit because of ghosts he thought he had seen in the deep forest. Strangers taken into interior New Guinea often are terrified by sights they imagine they see in the jungles. Miss Cheesman added that the Japanese really are a primitive people and that some reported dead from no apparent cause might easily have died in an excess of fright caused by these fancied forest ghosts.

Old-Age Fund Not To Be Included In Income Tax

Many beneficiaries under the old-age and survivors insurance provisions of the Social Security Act have been calling on Social Security Board offices for information concerning insurance payments. The problem in their minds seems to be whether they should include such payments in their income tax returns.

In response to such inquiries from individuals seeking information as to whether or not payments received from the United States Government under the old-age and survivors insurance system of the Social Security Act are subject to income tax, Elliott W. Adams, manager of the Big Spring office of the Social Security Board stated "such funds are not subject to Federal income tax." This statement was based on information which his office has received from the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

According to Adams, exemptions include cash benefits paid, and in the hands of the recipient, such as primary insurance benefits as set forth in the law; wife's insurance payments; and payments made to children, widows, and parents. These exemptions not only include monthly benefits, but lump-sum death benefits as well.

3 Great Generals Laud Red Cross

Adding impetus to the American Red Cross war fund now in progress, praise of the Red Cross work for servicemen has been given by three American generals Eisenhower, MacArthur and Marshall.

General Eisenhower, leading Allied forces in Africa, said: "The American Red Cross is the one agency of its kind to serve our armed forces overseas. The services, rendered in the European theater have been invaluable. I can not speak too highly of the benefits which have resulted from the unselfish efforts of those engaged in the work on the battle fronts."

In Australia, General MacArthur stated: "The Red Cross is an expression of humanitarianism. When tragedy interrupts, as sooner or later it must, succor for the injured, the helpless, the destitute speeds by land, sea and air. The Red Cross never fails a soldier."

The United States Chief of Staff, General Marshall, declared in Washington: "The Army depends heavily on the Red Cross as a vital link between its individual soldiers and their families. As the only civilian organization which operates on military reservations, the contribution made by Red Cross workers, and the highly-organized assistance available to the Army through them, are of inestimable value to us in maintaining morale."

COLUMN ON LONG ISLAND WRITTEN IN MISSISSIPPI

KEESLER FIELD, Miss. (AP) — News coverage by remote control is nothing new, but Private Leonard W. Miller of Keesler Field, 1,700 miles away from New York, writes a weekly column which keeps Long Islanders informed about what's going on around Long Island.

The column, which appears in both the Nassau Herald, Lawrence, N. Y., and the Rockaway Journal, Far Rockaway, N. Y., is made possible by a tremendous correspondence which Private Miller carries on with friends, relatives and readers back home. This correspondence averages about 60 letters weekly and includes news, gossip and rumor.

Before going into the Army, Private Miller was for 10 years news editor of the two papers.

Whooping Cough Warning Issued By Dr. Geo. W. Cox

Inasmuch as the incidence of whooping cough in Texas has shown a steady increase during the past two months, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said today, that strenuous efforts should be made to control the spread of this debilitating childhood disease.

"The only source from which whooping cough may be contracted is another case of whooping cough, and isolation of cases must be universally practiced to prevent its spread," Dr. Cox stated.

"The infectious agent or germ of whooping cough is transmitted by droplets expelled in coughing, sneezing, or speaking," he declared. "The discharges from the nose and throat are dangerous; the need for early recognition and careful isolation of whooping cough is obvious."

The first sign of this disease is usually a dry cough, which persists night and day and tends to become increasingly severe. The disease is fully developed when vomiting of food and whooping accompany the paroxysm of cough. Dr. Cox stressed the fact that children who have whooping cough should not attend school or come in contact with other children, until three weeks after the appearance of typical signs of the disease.

"Prevention and control of whooping cough, especially among infants and small children, may be accomplished through use of approved vaccine and convalescent serum," Dr. Cox asserted, "and it is important that such measures be taken to protect them. Neglecting to do so may seriously impair the child's health."

DRUNKS WAIT IN JAIL FOR SOMEONE TO BLOW

"where your money buys more"

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1943

Allied setbacks in French Africa may have deferred the day when a second-front attack on the European Continent from the south can be mounted. However, the Axis is still very uneasy over what may be impending on the North Sea and Arctic fronts.

There is more warrant for that alarm than the Axis-circulated reports of Allied preparations for a powerful sea-borne thrust from the west. It is implicit in persistent rumors in Sweden that Finland is urgently seeking a way of escape from its limited and now unhappy war association with the Axis. The predicament of both Finland and Sweden would be gravely complicated should Norway, for example, again become the scene of active military operations.

Most of all, however, weather conditions in the arctic theater as the winter wanes invite speculation as to what may be brewing in Allied war councils. The season is fast approaching when Russia-bound convoys will rarely be invisible, night or day, to prowling Nazi planes, U-boats or surface craft. It cannot be doubted that the Allies are preparing new measures to reduce the scope of enemy depredations next summer in the arctic.

Second-Front Demand

The fact that Joseph Stalin is prodding again for the opening of a second-front effort on the Continent is not apt to escape notice in Germany, Finland or Norway. Last Nov. 7, before word of American landings in French Africa that day was flashed from Washington to startle the world, he more pointedly dealt with the second-front question.

"Undoubtedly this (an Allied second front) will appear in the near future and will essentially relieve the position of our armies to the detriment of the German army," he then said.

It has not appeared except by air in the more than three months since he spoke. That to some extent warrants his most recent statement that lack of an Allied second front has compelled Red armies to bear the whole weight of the war on the Continent, and bear it victoriously both defensively and offensively.

Axis Is Shaken

The Stalin order commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Red army was necessarily an occasion for rhetoric. That army's achievements in the last three months have astounded the world and unquestionably shaken the whole Axis fabric in Europe.

It is permissible to point out that Anglo-American incursions in French Africa, British conquest of all Italian Africa and the tide of lend-lease food and war munitions flowing under Allied escort into Russia from the North necessarily had some part in shaping recent events in that country. That Allied aid may not have come up to Russian expectations or Allied hopes of last fall, but it has had some effect.

Nor can it be doubted that Allied energies are doubly bent to increase the help to Russia and increase it now. One obvious way is to increase both the flow of supplies to Russia via the arctic and the protection available for shipping on that route.

How that is to be accomplished remains to be seen. However, it can be reckoned that Berlin as well as Finland and Sweden are anxiously scanning every potential Allied jump-off point in the North Sea for signs of an impending attempt to gain a foothold in northern Norway.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1943

Implicit in Chinese agitation for quickened Allied aid, headlined by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek's Washington appearances, must be a Chungking conclusion that there is an exposed flank of Japan's conquest zone which can be hit and hit now with telling effect.

The First Lady of China did not deal with strategy, only with urgency for more planes, guns and fighting equipment. Her brother, Foreign Minister Soong, has now come much closer to indicating just what Chungking sees to deal Japan a blow without delay and without requiring any major change in the clearly indicated Anglo-American purpose of hitting first in Europe.

Soong holds that with "less than 1,000" Allied planes based in China, Japan can be driven out. It seems obvious, however, that to fuel, supply and maintain any great air force in China by air transportation, the only present means, would be a big undertaking.

It is to reopen the Burma route for supplying China with more fighting equipment as well as to regain possession of Burma oil fields to cut Allied transportation difficulties that General Wavell with American air help has started his Burma campaign from India. That bids fair to be a slow business at best. Apparently it does not satisfy Chinese strategists.

Assuming that any substantial part of 1,000 long-range Allied bombers were based in Central China and could be maintained there for offensive operations, certainly Japanese traffic in the China Sea would be in peril. Strike a circle of 1,000-mile radius from deep in the center of the great eastern bulge of China that just into the China Sea and not only all Japanese supply routes to French Indo-China, Malaya, the Dutch Indies and the Southern Philippines, but part of Japan itself would fall within it. All would be in Allied air range. The Japanese Gibraltar of Formosa is within easy bombing range of many good Chinese air bases or suitable sites within that eastern bulge never threatened by the invader.

Chungking has President Roosevelt's word for it that the concerted attack upon Japan when it comes will not be an inch-by-inch, island-by-island affair; but by air "over China—and over Japan itself." Just how that is to be done was discussed at Casablanca and later at Chungking conferences. Roosevelt has said there are many roads to Tokio and that "we shall neglect none of them."

It seems fairly clear, however, that Chinese Allies think the same roads leading the other way, from Japan to the outposts of her far flung conquest zone through the China Sea to maintain her thinly held fronts, are the weak-flank. They feel, too, that the quickest and easiest way to blast Japan out of China or put of any other part of the regions she has looted around China Sea is to strike by air from bases in China at those critical sea lanes.

MOTHER-IN-LAW GETS A RIDING

TARENTUM, Pa. — We'll call him John Doe for we wouldn't dare reveal his real name. He was driving along when he was stopped by an OPA agent. "Are you driving for pleasure?" he was asked. "Well, I'll tell you," he snapped. "I'm going to visit my mother-in-law, and if you call that pleasure, you can take my blankety-blank ration book!" They didn't take the book.

A former member of the Royal Canadian Air Force Second American Eagle Squadron, Maj. Daley was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for heroism in the European war theater.

WILLKIE FALLS FOR SHORT SNORT

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Wendell Willkie, here for a speech, couldn't produce his dollar membership card in the Short Snorter club and it cost him $3.

The club is made up of persons who have flown an ocean. Membership cards are dollar bills autographed by other club members. When a membership card cannot be produced upon call of another member, the offender must pay $1 to the questioner and others present whether members or not. Three members hit Willkie.

Restrictions On Fertilizers Are Explained

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has designated certain essential war crops for preference in the delivery of commercial fertilizers.

These are classified as "A" crops, with the objective of concentrating the use of chemical nitrogen allowed for fertilizers upon the production of food, feed and fiber essential to the successful prosecution of the war.

According to E. A. Miller, agronomist for the A. and M. College Extension Service, the principal crops in this group are peanuts, soybeans, hybrid corn for seed production only, flax, castor beans, and important commercial vegetables, excepting melons, cantaloupes and cucumbers. All other crops are classified as group "B." The quantity of fertilizer which farmers may obtain for crops in the latter group is based upon the rate of application used on the farms during either the 1940-41 or 1941-42. Farmers are required to provide a written statement to their dealers showing their customary use of fertilizer in those years and their requirements for 1943.

Fertilizer for a Victory garden—one planted primarily for non-production of vegetables and small fruits—must be grade 3-8-7, and may be put up in 5, 10, 25, 50 and 100 pound packages. Fertilizer dealers and county agricultural agents should have information on substitutes of grades, Miller says.

used on golf courses, cemeteries, lawns, roadsides, parks, nor in non-commercial planting of trees, shrubs, or flowers. Moreover, no mixed fertilizer containing chemical nitrogen can be used on spring sown small grains to be harvested for grain. But nitrogen materials like cottonseed, peanut, or soybean meals may be added to increase the nitrogen content of commercial fertilizers, Miller points out.

INSTRUCTIONS.—To find the Point Value of an item:
 1. Find out the net weight of the contents (from the label, if any).
 2. In the line across the top of the chart, showing the weight in ounces and pounds, find the column in which this weight belongs.
 3. Find the item in the listing of items in the column to the left.
 4. The POINT VALUE of the item appears on the same line as the item and in the column listing the correct weight.
 All Point Values must be determined by weight. If no weight is marked on the item, the item must be weighed.
 In finding the Point Value of a container where contents are given in fluid ounces, consider the fluid ounce to be the same as the avoirdupois weight ounce. One pint is one pound; one quart is two pounds.

The Point Value of any item weighing over four (4) pounds shall be arrived at by multiplying the number of pounds of that item by the Point Value per pound of that item as given in the "Per Pound" column. Fractions of a pound should be figured in quarter-pounds. Fractions of a quarter-pound should be figured to the next higher quarter-pound. Thus, an item weighing 4 pounds 9 ounces would be considered as weighing 4 pounds 12 ounces for the purpose of getting the Point Value of the item.

Shopping With Point Rations To Be Simple

The housewife will find shopping under the point rationing system much simpler than might appear at her first glance at the point value table, Lubbock district officials of the Office of Price Administration said today.

Most purchases of canned fruits and vegetables may be made by using only three of the 16 columns in the official table of point values announced this week, they emphasized.

Although more than 200 different items are included in the processed foods rationing program, most housewives buy only about 18 different items and these usually are packed in the No. 2 or No. 2 1-2 cans, OPA officials said.

The chart was set up to include 16 different weight groups covering more than 100 different sized containers which are in use.

The 16 weight groups cover not only canned fruits and vegetables, but also all fruit and vegetable juices, frozen fruits and vegetables, soups, baby foods and dried fruits.

OPA officials suggested housewives keep a newspaper copy of the official table of point values and a list of weights of most generally used items.

"Under this plan, consumers may plan their point spending at home. When they decide what items they want and know the weight of each, they will find it comparatively easy to locate the point values on the official table and budget points before going to the store."

Some of the most widely sold canned goods, with approximate weights and point values of the most common sizes, are:

Item-Weight	Point Value
Peas—
1 lb. 4 oz.	16 pts
Corn—
1 lb. 4 oz.	14 pts

Monday Is First Day To Use Point Ration At Grocers

Housewives began a new experiment—point rationing — Monday, when they will be able to buy commercially processed foods again after an eight day freeze.

War Ration book No. 2 was issued to Dawson County citizens last Thursday and Friday, no figures have been released on the number registering in this county, but the number is thought to be around 16,000.

Eight thousand five hundred and ten registered at the Lamesa Gymnasium during the two days.

When you go to the grocery stores beginning today, take along your ration books. You are allowed to spend 48 points during the month of March.

The blue stamps in the Ration Book are to be used for the purchase of canned and other processed foods that are rationed. The number on each stamp shows how many points that stamp is worth. The letter on each stamp shows the period during which the stamp is to be used.

The blue stamps marked A, B and C are for the first period of rationing, otherwise March.

Grocery stores will have plainly marked the rationed canned foods and the number of points it will take to purchase each. Officials advised housewives to use the largest points first, as grocery men cannot give change in points.

Eating Places To Register, Mar 1-10

Commercial eating places and other institutional users of foods are being registered from Monday, March 1, through Wednesday, March 10, announces Dixie Kilgore, chairman of the Dawson County War Price and Rationing Board. Registration will be held at the Ration Office, North First Street.

All institutional users, such as boarding houses, hospitals, jails, restaurants and hotels, must register under the new program. Even though they have rationed foodstuffs on hand, they will not be permitted to use them after the registration period, March 1-10 unless they have registered.

Allotment periods for all rationed foods are two months each for institutions, beginning March 1.

Wets Hold Lead In Gaines Co.

Gaines county voters today approved retention of the sale of wines and beer, with wets holding a 12-vote lead, on the basis of complete but unofficial returns here tonight in the county-wide referendum.

The unofficial tabulation showed: wets 676, dry 664. This was a total of 1,340 votes out of a voting strength of 1,610 poll taxes. The county has 15 voting precincts.

Seminole voted dry 303 to 258, but Seagraves, only other large town in the county, more than counter-balanced this, voting 348 wet and 180 dry. This indicates an almost even division of sentiment in the rural areas.

Post Office Bldg. Being Repaired

Julius A. Peterson, Warrenburg, Mo., was awarded the contract for repairing and painting of the local Post Office, and work is now under way. The contract calls for the job to be completed in three weeks and the job will be finished next week, the contractor reports.

Some of the concrete work had settled necessitating the replacement. The Post Office will be redecorated throughout.

More New Farm Machinery Made Available

More new farm machinery and equipment became available to Texas farmers this week when the "freeze" order was lifted from wholesaler and distributor stocks.

Under the new order, stocks which distributors or mail order houses had on hand October 31, 1942, and stocks of new farm machinery and equipment owned by any manufacturer and located anywhere except in a factory or plant on the deadline date, are released for further distribution or sale through the rationing program.

The equipment will be sold to dealers in about the same territory proportion as during the period November 1, 1940 through October 31, 1941, except where stocks are excessive as compared with stocks in other areas of comparable need.

The Texas USDA War Board emphasized that although stocks at wholesale and distributor levels automatically were released that the order did not apply to farm machinery manufactured on or after November 1, 1942. Machinery manufactured after this date will be distributed by manufacturers through distribution orders.

Manufacturers operating under the rationing program will tag new machinery and equipment by county and state in routing machinery to its proper destination.

Under the rationing program, farmers need purchase certificates from County Farm Rationing committees in order to obtain about 75 types of farm machinery and equipment.

ULANE ZEECK REPORTS TO WAVES MARCH 3

Miss Ulane Zeeck, the first officer candidate to be sworn in the Texas Bluebonnet Squadron of the Waves on January 10, got her call to report on March 3 for training at Smith College, Northampton, Mass. She visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Zeeck in the Key community for a few days before going.

SAWYER HOME BURNS

The Sawyer home, in Sawyer Flat, east of Loop, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night. The home was almost a complete loss. Mrs. Sawyer was at home by herself and escaped from the burning building with only the clothes she wore and barefooted.

This is the third disastrous fire the Sawyers have suffered the past few years, the others being outbuildings.
