CAF Objects To Wallace Using Name

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — A spokesman for the Confederate Air Force—a Texas-based organization of World War II warplane buffs — has asked former Alabama Gov. George Wallace not to use the name in his presidential campaign.

Col. Eddie May, publicity officer for the organization which has its headquarters and museum in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, said Tuesday he had made the request to Wallace in a telegram.

Col. May, who pointed out that the name is copyrighted, said he had been informed that Wallace has said he started the Confederate Air Force and has been passing out honorary commissions during his fund raising trips as a third party candidate for president.

The former governor is not a member of the Confederate Air Force, said May. He also pointed out that members are not allowed to use the name or symbol in any political or business activities.

Projects Move Ahead

Additional construction for Webb AFB moved up another notch Tuesday.

The Senate approved the finance committee recommendation which included $2,796,000 for Webb. This is the same figure contained in the House authorization bill. Thus, there is not due to be any change when it goes to the conference committee.

If and when the authorization measure is finally approved and is signed, the way will be opened to seeking actual appropriations for the work. The Webb projects are $2,300,000 for parallel runways, $147,000 for an academics classroom, and $349,000 for a basic flight training building.

Gangs Loot Stores

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — Members of a crowd of about 250 Negroes fought police and looted two stores Tuesday night. Police said the melee broke out after a patrolman shot a teenager fleeing from a car believed stolen.

All the windows were smashed in an ambulance arriving to take Charles Mims, 15, to a hospital and conveying patrol cars were pelted, police said. Police reinforcements were called as the crowd of about 250 Negroes split up into bands that roamed into surrounding streets, looting two stores, officers said.

A grocery and a liquor store were "cleaned out," said Capt. Norman Sullivan. He declined to estimate damage.

Gunman Takes $970

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A gunman wearing dark glasses and a straw hat took $970 from the downtown Frost National Bank today and escaped.

Patrolman Ben Lively said a woman teller told him that the robber came to her cage, drew a pistol and demanded cash. She said, the officer reported, she gave the man the money in bills, mostly $100s and $50s.

Witnesses said the man appeared to be 28 to 32 years old. He wore white Levi pants.

'Spy Boat' Displayed

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea displayed a 12-foot outboard-motor boat today and claimed it was the "U.S. imperialist spy boat" it reported sinking off Korea's west coast Saturday.

The boat was set up outside the meeting place of the Joint Military Armistice Commission. It had the name of a Japanese maker, Yamaha Motor Co., on the hull, and two Mercury 500 engines made by Kiekhaefer Corp. of Fond Du Lac, Wis.

The North Korean delegation brought the boat for the 271st meeting of the armistice commission. The boat had some bullet scars but otherwise looked intact.

Radio yong yang has claimed that North Korean patrol boats sank an American spy boat Saturday off Boopo, also known as Pukpo, near the North-South Korean border, and killed all the crew.

Both American and South Korean authorities said no U.S. or South Korean military vessel was sunk off Korea Saturday.

Heroin Cache Found

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agents have seized $22.4 million worth of heroin — the largest single seizure of the drug in the nation's history — in an automobile in New York City, Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said today.

Clark said the 112 kilograms of pure heroin was discovered in a hidden compartment in a foreign automobile which had been shipped to New York City from France.

Clark said a 63-year-old naturalized U.S. citizen was arrested in New York City and four Frenchmen were captured in Paris in connection with the conspiracy to violate U.S. or French narcotic laws.

THORNBERRY NAMED TO SUPREME COURT

Fortas To Replace Warren

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today his acceptance of the resignation of Chief Justice Earl Warren and the selection of Justice Abe Fortas to replace Warren.

And Johnson told a news conference he was nominating Homer Thornberry of Austin, Tex., former congressman and now a judge on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, to the Supreme Court.

MINISTER DENIES IT

Claims Church Used As Arsenal, Party House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Annabell Martin, who said she is the mother of eight members of a Chicago gang, testified today that a minister allowed his church to be used as a gang arsenal and for marijuana parties.

The minister, the Rev. John R. Fry of Chicago's First Presbyterian Church, immediately disputed the testimony. He asked a Justice Department investigation of who was telling the truth and who was lying.

He called the testimony "contempt of the Senate."

The woman, whose heavy frame overflowed the witness chair, said that on one occasion she had bought $90 worth of bullets and delivered them in the church to Eugene Hairston, president of the Blackstone Rangers. She said Fry walked into the room during her conversation and saw the bullets.

Fry denied this after the hearing. Describing her duties in providing recreation for Rangers, ettes—a female auxiliary of the gang—she said she once went looking for the girls when they failed to show up for a musical rehearsal.

She said she found they were in the church, was told they were going to see their boy friends, and waited for almost two hours for them to emerge. When they came out, she said, they were drunk, cursing, "and had reefer (marijuana cigarettes) in their hands."

She said marijuana was common in the church, that the Rev. Mr. Fry never objected to its use and that gang members could smoke it in his office without rebuke. "I would sit in Rev. Fry's lap and tell him the same thing," she claimed at one point.

HAS 10

Mrs. Martin, who said she has ten children ranging in age from 7 to 15, testified on the fifth day of a Senate hearing into an Office of Economic Opportunity grant for the Rangers and another Chicago gang, the Devil's Disciples.

MUDDY, RUTTED

Capital's Streets Back To Normal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The streets of the nation's capital were back to normal today—no curfew, no heavy police patrols, no National Guardsmen and few visible symbols of the Poor People's Campaign.

But even with its leader, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, beginning a 20-day jail term and Resurrection City reduced to stacks of plywood, the campaign continued to run at a reduced pace.

'ALIVE'

"We have to keep the movement alive," said the Rev. Andrew Young, Abernathy's chief assistant, as he announced plans for clergymen to march on the Capitol grounds today, despite a law forbidding demonstrations there.

Young told a news conference plans for the ministerial demonstration had been in the works for some time.

Abernathy, one of 261 demonstrators arrested Monday, was sentenced by Chief Judge Harold H. Greene of the District of Columbia court of General Sessions.

Greene said he had no doubt "you were sincerely trying to help the poor people of America." He could have levied 90 days in jail plus a $250 fine.

The most visible aspect of the Poor People's Campaign Tuesday was the mule train. Five weeks after it left Marks, Miss., its 13 battered wagons trundled across the 14th St. bridge into Washington under police escort.

In hot, muggy weather, it made a 10-mile tour of poor and wealthy sections of the Negro areas hit by disorders and to the surprise of even the drivers was warmly welcomed wherever it went.

This prompted Young and 28-year-old wagon master Willie Bolden to decide that mule train members could do more out of jail than in, and should try to drum up support among Washington area residents.

"We will use the mule train to go around the D.C. community and try to get the community involved," Young said.

As the mule train creaked along the Potomac River bridge from Virginia, it passed within sight of a strangely empty Resurrection City.

SIGNED

Johnson wound up the news conference by picking up a pen and signing the nominations for Fortas and Thornberry before sending them on the way to the Senate for confirmation.

He read Chief Justice Warren's resignation of June 13 saying that he was leaving only for reasons of age. He is 77.

Johnson wrote back today saying he would accept Warren's decision to retire at the time his successor is qualified.

"You have won for yourself," Johnson told Warren, "the esteem of your fellow citizens. You have served your nation with exceptional distinction and deserve the nation's gratitude."

"Under your leadership, the Supreme Court of the United States has once again demonstrated the vitality of this nation's institutions and their capacity to meet with vigor and strength the challenge of changing times. The court has acted to achieve justice, fairness and equality before the law for all people."

Justice Fortas reached his 58th birthday June 19. He and Johnson have been friends and associates from New Deal days back in the 1930s.

Like Warren, he is considered a liberal.

Senate Debaters Tangle Over Natural Gas Tax

AUSTIN (AP) — Senate tax bill debaters immediately tangled today over the old legislative controversy of trying to tax Texas' natural gas that is used out of state.

Before a decisive vote could be taken on the amendment to the House passed tax bill, the Senate recessed for a joint session to hear Ambassador to Sweden W. W. Heath.

Debate on the tax bill, which contains a one cent increase in the state sales tax as approved by the House, began at 10:15 a.m.

The natural gas argument arose when Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston offered a committee recommendation that $12.5 million be raised by increasing the natural gas production tax from 7 to 8 per cent of value at the well.

Sen. Jack Strong of Longview proposed a substitute that the production tax remain at 7 per cent but a new one per cent tax be levied on the first purchaser of such gas.

"We're monkeying around with something that may be unconstitutional," protested Sen. Bill Patman of Galveston. "This is just another sales tax not a production tax."

Strong said that the state attorney general's department said the proposed new levy was unconstitutional because it was on the first delivery from the well.

He said it could not be called interstate commerce like a pipeline tax that was declared illegal by courts several years ago.

PASSED ON

"This can be passed on to the ultimate consumer in Chicago or New York because that's where more than half of our gas goes," Strong said.

The natural gas debate was the first appearance of efforts by a group of liberal senators to put enough more money in the house-approved bill that the one per cent sales tax increase could be eliminated or at least decreased.

The various substitute tax plans included proposals to tax soft-drinks one cent per bottle, put liquor and beer under the sales tax in addition to present special levies, add 2 per cent to the present 11 cent cigarette tax, tax all radio-TV, newspaper, movie and outdoor sign advertising 2 per cent, charge an additional 5 per cent for professional entertainment such as pro football and basketball games, tax insurance premiums 2 per cent, add another one cent gasoline tax, and collect a 20 per cent surcharge tax on most present taxes not under the sales tax.

TO REMAIN

Most legislative leaders expected the sales tax increase to remain in the bill, along with the 7 to 8 per cent increase in the natural gas production tax that was recommended by a senate committee.

There was some speculation the House might accept a Senate amendment increasing the gas production tax and keep the bill from going to a 10-man conference committee.

Two Officers, Gunman Killed

HOUSTON (AP) — A policeman was shot to death with his own gun while investigating a traffic violation today and a resulting high speed chase led to a traffic collision in which another patrolman was killed.

The hunted man was later shot to death.

Officer Ben E. Gerhart was shot to death at a busy intersection on Interstate 10 west after stopping a man and a woman in an automobile.

The couple fled in their automobile and officer Bobby James was killed in a one-car collision on the Beaumont highway in northeast Houston.

Officers said the man being sought was shot to death in a gun battle near the Beaumont highway after he left the automobile James had been chasing.

A woman who stayed in the car was arrested.

CLARK CARRYING THE BALL

Anti-Gun Fight Opens Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark opened the administration's fight in Congress today for registration and licensing of firearms and a ban on all interstate mail order sales.

"After all we have suffered," he told the Senate Judiciary Committee's juvenile delinquency subcommittee, "it would be terribly disillusioning if we failed to act to control guns."

ESSENTIAL
"Interstate control, registration and licensing are all essential," Clark said. "The people want strict gun control. Their safety demands it. The Congress is fully empowered to act. The time is now."

Clark was the administration's spokesman, but supporting statements came from a number of others. Among them: Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., two of whose brothers were assassinated, said in a letter Congress should "not delay even a day" in passing the legislation.

"For each extra day may mean needless tragedy and suffering," Kennedy wrote subcommittee Chairman Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Col. John H. Glenn Jr., former astronaut and president of a newly formed Emergency Committee for Gun Control, said the legislation would in no way interfere with legitimate uses of guns by sportsmen, hunters and others.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City said the nation's cities need federal assistance to make gun control laws fully effective.

The hearing was held a day in advance of a full Judiciary Committee meeting to act on measures to tighten firearms controls.

Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., said he will try Thursday's session to add registration and licensing provisions to a bill that would prohibit interstate mail order sales of firearms and ammunition.

Tydings, with 15 other senators as cosponsors, had introduced such legislation before President Johnson urged Congress two days ago to provide for national registration of all firearms and the licensing of gun owners.

ACCUSES HHH

Thy accused Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey of trying to create confusion and mislead world opinion over the bombing question by suggesting recently that an immediate cease-fire should be established in Vietnam. Lack of progress in the Paris peace talks to date, he said, is due to "the position of aggression of the United States and their quibbling attitude."

"We are very serious about these negotiations," Vance told Thy. "We want them to succeed."

"We think there is a proper basis for peace in Southeast Asia that conforms to the legitimate interests of all the countries of that area, and that we and others should move steadily toward it."

Vance said of the U.S. position: "We are prepared to cease bombardment at the appropriate time and circumstances. Our fundamental premise is that North Vietnam must not improve its military position as a result of the cessation of bombardment by the United States."

Thy replied, according to his spokesman, with a new demand that all attacks on the North stop immediately without any military reciprocity by the North Vietnamese forces. He said then other peacemaking questions could be discussed here.

The two sides agreed to meet again next Wednesday.

The Americans and North Vietnamese agreed that the talks made no progress. But there was a 42-minute coffee break of which North Vietnamese spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le said: "There was nothing special during it."

Accuses Reds Of Pushing Infiltration During May

PARIS (AP) — The United States accused North Vietnam today of pushing troop infiltration into South Vietnam to a record high of 29,000 men during May and said "an abnormally high rate of infiltration" is indicated by evidence for June.

Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance told Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam the United States is "prepared to cease bombardment" of North Vietnam but cannot do so when the North has "intensified its war effort" at the very time the United States tried to de-escalate.

Thy accused Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey of trying to create confusion and mislead world opinion over the bombing

The Americans and North Vietnamese agreed that the talks made no progress. But there was a 42-minute coffee break of which North Vietnamese spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le said: "There was nothing special during it."

Some American officials had hoped for evidence by this stage of the Paris peace talks that the North Vietnamese were actively considering moves toward de-escalation, to match President Johnson's March 31 limitation on the bombing of the North. They now see evidence instead that Hanoi is holding out for a further U.S. concession, done.

THAT SAVED HIS LIFE

Fights For Tree

SAVILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Ramon Blanco, 75, is fighting to save a tree he says once saved his life.

Blanco refused Monday to let a State Traffic Department crew cut down an old maple tree that stands between Route 32 and his 200-year-old home.

Blanco told the crew, "That tree saved my life once when a car hit it while I was in my yard. Without it there would be nothing but my wire fence to ward off any high speed traffic that might not be able to make the curve."

With that comment, Blanco and his wife, Clara, sat down on a small bench beneath the tree.

"I'm not going to budge even if the tree falls down on top of us," said the silver-haired man firmly.

The highway crew, after checking with a supervisor in Poughkeepsie, left the Blanco property and went to work farther down the highway, where they cut down another tree.

In Poughkeepsie, Douglas Vogel, the assistant maintenance engineer for the State Traffic Department, said there were no plans for widening the two-lane road. He said current plans call for resurfacing the road and a two-foot shoulder.

But Blanco says he has seen the road grow a little wider with each resurfacing to the point where it is now less than 14 feet from the corner of his home. He said he intends to hire a lawyer to protect his property.

Auto Insurance Difficult To Get For Some Motorists

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you are an actor, waiter, clergyman, newspaperman, you could have trouble getting auto insurance. Those are some of the occupations barred from coverage in a list maintained by at least one insurance company, says David Maxwell, Pennsylvania's insurance commissioner.

"Even a cursory review of the list made plain the reluctance to insure most occupations in which Negroes participate," Maxwell told a Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee Tuesday.

The subcommittee is investigating automobile liability insurance rates and practices.

Maxwell didn't name the company that maintained the list, but he said it is "apparent that companies generally have been competing for what they conceive to be safe business to the exclusion of those drivers who represent to them a high degree of risk."

He said that in a high-risk territory a youthful driver probably is paying more for insurance—if he has it—than for his car.

Maxwell added, however, that compulsory insurance would cause too steep an increase in rates and would not be the answer.

In other congressional action, the House passed by voice vote and sent to President Johnson the first legislation making it a federal crime to deliberately desecrate the American flag.

The bill applies maximum penalties of up to $1,000 fine and one year in jail for people convicted of burning, defacing, defiling, mutilating or trampling on the flag or a representation of it. Similar laws in all 50 states would continue to apply.

President Johnson prodded Democratic congressional leaders at a breakfast meeting for action on appropriations and other measures.

Strong Cool Front Moves Across State, Rain Follows

By The Associated Press

Showers and occasionally heavy thunderstorms marked the passage of a stronger than usual cold front through East and South Texas today.

Skies cleared and dust settled in its wake after a night marked by the sighting of a tornado northeast of Commerce in North Texas and soaking rains in several areas.

"Turbulence generated by the front's collision with tropical air flowing in from the Gulf of Mexico caused the Weather Bureau to post a tornado watch for 16 counties in the north central and northeast part of the state. It expired without word of damage."

Commerce firemen reported a twister funnel appeared northwest of town near nightfall.

Hemphill also disclosed that more than $1 million worth of property was placed in wills and trusts for H-SU during the past fiscal year.

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Four hours of fishing were costly for Donald Whitwell. Hoodlums slashed four tires on his station wagon. New ones and towing came to $200. When he got home he found his $150 outboard motor stolen. Meantime, his six trout spoiled.

Border Patrol Does About Face, Coming For Alien

The Border Patrol has changed its mind, according to word received late Tuesday by Sheriff A. N. Standard. It has decided it does have a way to deal with the case of Carlos Gutierrez and that it wants to take the man in charge without delay.

Tuesday, Standard said he was told by the patrol that there was nothing it could do about the case — that all it could do was "talk" to Gutierrez and advise him to get on a bus at his own expense and go back to his home in Mexico.

Now, Standard says, the patrol says it is sending representatives here at once to take the man in charge and see that he is returned across the border.

The situation arose when Gutierrez was arrested hiding in a barn on a farm near here Sunday night as aftermath to a reported burglary of a farm house. The man, who admits he is in this country illegally, is a Mexican national. At the time he was routed out of the barn, he was armed with a shotgun stolen from the farm house.

He is in ill health, the officers said, and Standard said this was one of the reasons he contacted the Border Patrol about the case.

Nationwide Strike Averted; Trainmen Agree To Pact

CHICAGO (AP) — A nationwide strike apparently has been averted by tentative agreement reached by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the National Railway Labor Conference Tuesday night to reveal details of the agreement, which is subject to ratification by the union members. The main issues were wages and the carriers' request for a "no-strike" pledge from the union effective until Jan. 1, 1970.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen is the largest operating railway union. It had set a strike deadline for 12:01 a.m. Thursday and union officials said 99.7 per cent of its local committees voted for a walkout.

Robert Resor, spokesman for the National Railway Labor Conference, said the union's bargaining agent, refused to say whether a "no-strike" pledge was part of the tentative agreement.

Opening lead: Eight of ♠. A blind spot, brought on by failure to properly pinpoint the key to success on the deal, led to the defeat of South's six spade contract.

When South freely rebid two spades after East overcalled with two hearts, North was convinced that the partnership had the assets to undertake a slam since his hand was worth at least 18 points in support of spades. He decided to check back for controls, by bidding four no trump and, when South showed two aces, North proceeded to six spades.

West opened the eight of hearts and dummy's lone ace won the trick. The king and queen of spades were cashed and, when East showed out on the second round, South deferred drawing the last trump until he had ruffed out his losing heart.

The closed hand was entered with the ace of clubs and declarer led the six of hearts which he ruffed with North's deuce of spades. There were no trumps left in dummy and, since South lacked a quick reentry to his hand, he exited with a small diamond. East put up the queen and then returned the ace which West ruffed with the jack of spades for the setting trick.

Declarer was the victim of his own blind spot in focusing his full attention on the heart suit—which was not actually pertinent to his success on the deal. Inasmuch as a diamond loser is more or less inevitable, the fate of the contract hinges on picking up the queen of clubs for, if the club finesse fails, the opposition will be able to cash the setting trick in diamonds.

It is suggested that South draw three rounds of trump, inasmuch as the king of hearts provides him with a second stopper in that suit. The ace of clubs may be cashed next and the ten is led next for a finesse. Whether or not West covers with the queen, South not only eliminates the club loser, but he also obtains a discard on the fourth club for his third heart.

In all, declarer takes six spade tricks, four clubs, and two hearts.

Dear Abby

Jumping Through The Ring

DEAR ABBY: I am in the service and have a little problem. The night before I left The States I surprised my girl with a diamond engagement ring.

She acted like she was thrilled to pieces, and of course I was happy, too. Her mother took me aside and asked me if I could get a refund on the ring—well, I couldn't.

Now I get a letter from my girl telling me that she and her mother "traded" in the engagement ring on another one which is bigger and much "nicer." She said her mother paid the difference and I can pay her back when I get home, but for me not to worry about it.

I am not exactly "worried" about it, but I don't think it was a very nice thing for them to do. If you were in my place, what would you do?

G.I. DEAR G.I.: Nothing for the moment. But when you get stateside, size up the situation and make sure your girl and her mother don't have a WEDDING ring waiting for you that's big enough for you to jump through.

DEAR ABBY: I know you aren't a lawyer, so I don't expect you to tell me what the law would rule in a case like this. All I want is a common sense opinion.

We have a friend (a widow) who started taking dancing lessons last September at a well-known studio. Since September she spent $18,000 on dancing lessons! (Yes, I said EIGHTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.)

This woman is not poor, Abby. She has had a lot of fun and met a lot of people, and she probably got more pleasure in the last six months from those dancing lessons than she got from that deadhead she was married to for 30 years. Yet, she is crying that she was had and she took them to court.

I say, nobody twisted her arm to take those lessons, and if she wants to spend her money that way she shouldn't go crying to anybody. My husband says she is out of her mind, and people who are batty have to be protected by law. What is your opinion?

ARGUING WITH HARRY DEAR ARGUING: I'm with Harry.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and my scout troop recently made a visit to a nursing home to cheer up the old folks there. We made some colorful flowers beforehand and sang some hymns to entertain them.

Abby, those elderly people are so hungry for company, you wouldn't believe it. The first lady I handed a flower to, gave it back to me, saying she didn't have any money to buy it. Then I told her it was free and her face lit up and she took such a long time trying to decide which color to take. I got the feeling that she was trying to detain me just to have somebody to talk to for a little while. I can't tell you how much our visit was appreciated. When we drove off, we could see them looking from their windows and holding onto their paper flowers. Please say something in your column asking people to go to visit their local nursing homes, whether they have somebody there or not. They are all somebody's grandmothers and grandfathers and they are human, too.

Druggists Launch Antismoking Drive

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey's druggists launched a campaign today to discourage smoking. The drive would warn of tobacco's dangers, discourage merchandising and advertising its sale, but not stop the sale of tobacco in pharmacies.

The antismoking campaign was outlined at the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association's 98th annual convention by Leo Dubrow of Newark, the group's first vice president.

Scouts Capture Robbery Suspect

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Listening to police calls over a transistor radio, three 16-year-old Police Explorer Scouts heard someone had just been robbed in a bank parking lot two blocks away.

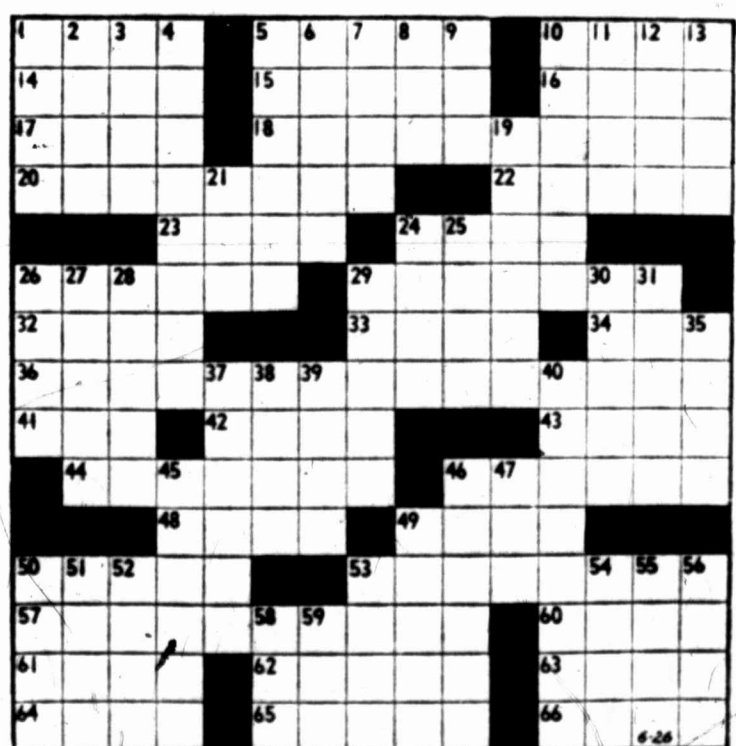

Wayne King, Ron E. Miller and Paul Stefan chased down a suspect, disarmed him of a loaded .32-caliber pistol and held him for police.

Police booked Kenzie O. White, 23, a Marine, on suspicion of robbery.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Prop Up Frying Pan When Cooking Food

Dear Heloise:

If you prop up one leg of an electric fry pan (I use the base of my counter-top can opener), you can:

Make relatively grease-free hamburgers by frying them on the high side and letting the grease run down the low side where you can skim it off easily.

HELOISE

Fry bacon then keep it warm on the high side while frying eggs on the lower side.

Or saute onions in the grease that runs down from whatever meat you're browning in the higher side. Mrs. J. N.

Well, bless Bess, if that doesn't beat all!

Such a simple trick, yet I'm almost willing to wager that most of us with electric skillets never thought of doing this to save that extra pan or to cut down on grease intake.

You're the greatest! A great big God bless to you. Heloise.

Dear Heloise:

Anyone with a "bed wetter" who sleeps in a regular size bed has quite a job changing sheets. My solution is to make the bed in the normal manner except for the bottom sheet. Instead of tucking the bottom part under the mattress, simply fold it back to the center.

Then when you have to remove the bottom sheet (which is usually the only one that gets wet), simply pull all your covers back to the bottom of the bed, replace the wet sheet and pull the covers back up.

This saves tearing off blankets and top sheet which I did for years—til I finally got wise. Faithful Reader

Officers Installed By Club

Mrs. W. B. Sullivan was installed as president at the Tuesday dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club in Coker's Restaurant.

On accepting office, Mrs. Sullivan said "Coming together is a beginning, keeping together is progress and working together is success."

Other officers installed by Mrs. Bert Affleck were Mrs. Weldon Nucholls, first vice president; Miss Marie McDonald, second vice president; Mrs. John Hardy, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Zula Reeves, recording secretary; and Mrs. Garland Morrison, treasurer.

Mrs. R. V. Lewis gave the invocation, and Mrs. W. H. Ward, retiring president, announced that Miss Lorine Williams, a former member, is a resident in a rest home in Roscoe.

The club colors of green and gold were used in the table decorations. Hostesses were Mrs. Robert Smith, Mrs. Reeves, Mrs. I. S. Bonner, Mrs. Affleck and Mrs. Lewis.

Guests were Mrs. Audra Stanford, former member, and Mrs. J. W. Carter. Mrs. Edwina Carr was introduced as a new member.

Adhesive Fabric Glamorizes Shades

Are your windows "with it"? There's nothing wrong with sheer curtains, ruffled tie-backs or traditional draperies, but if you aren't aware of the new window treatments, you may be missing a decorating trick.

You can either buy or make puffed Austrian shades, tailored roman shades, roller shades, or the very new accordion shades. Shades also can be bought, ready-made, at curtain and drapery stores, and given a custom look by adding fringe, gimp or braid. Shades can also be custom made, or the woman who sews can make them herself.

Ideal for trimming ready-made roller shades is a velvety nylon adhesive-backed border. The new trim comes in many colors and in several styles. Shades can be edged with a combination of patterns or colors for a completely individual look. It is sold at drapery trimming counters.

of it. "Gramps," Dear Heloise: I have always had trouble with elastic loop buttonholes when I tried to replace them. (They usually pull away from the stitches.)

I've found a way to remedy this, though.

I fold a piece of seam tape with the ends of the elastic inside and stitch it several times. Next, I open the dress or coat seam just enough to get the tape inside the garment, then close the seam.

The elastic loop is in there to stay. No more pulling out. Regular Reader

Dear Heloise:

I always take our wooden skewers that we use for shishkabobs and for roasting little cocktail wieners over canned (beef) and soak them in water for at least an hour before we plan to use them.

The reason for this? The thoroughly soaked skewers don't char — or break and drop the food being cooked!

Dear Heloise:

The other day I got some nylon curtains out of storage that I wanted to hang. They were wrinkled from being folded so I tried ironing them, but they kept slipping off the board.

I finally put a damp bath towel over the ironing board. What a breeze! Wrinkles came out faster and the curtains didn't slip at all. ... Marjorie Sprouse with white mink sleeves and a brown silk sleeveless coat. At right is bronze lace ballgown with collar and cuffs in sable and a window neckline, also by Sarmi.

High Priced Fashions

Maxi-Money Needed For New Fall Look

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Whether waistslines are wide or waspish, bosoms banded or buxom, hemlines mini or midi, money must always be maxi if you're really to be in style this fall.

Forget those articles you may have read about looking like a many-dollared darling on a dime or two and a few hours time at your sewing machine.

To look like a million this fall will cost a million—or at least $3,000 for a sable beret by Adolfo, and $4,000 for a Renaissance gown by George Halley and another $2,000 for the latest status symbol, a Ferdinando Sarmi, a brown chiffon with white mink sleeves.

Throughout the American designers' series of fall collection previews Tuesday there was a steady march of fashions opulent enough to warm the cockles of the coldest tax collector.

Bill Blass designs have never been available for a song. But this year not even a brushed-plaid blanket converted to a coat could be had for less than several C-notes. Bathrobes may be low-end merchandise but not when made of lame and bordered with mink the Blass way.

As if every woman were a Medici, George Halley created jewel-girdled Renaissance gowns with skirts so huge the models appeared to be gliding on ice skates. If the $4,000 price tag were too much one could compromise with a page-boy tunic, also gem-encrusted for a mere $1,500.

Astronomical prices are a familiar tune to Sarmi customers such as Mrs. Cornelia Vanderbilt Whitney and Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller for the Italian has always been a status symbol for the rich.

This year's plans for giving them their money's worth ranged from the sublime chiffons and black silks with cleavage-revealing windows cut in the bodices to ridiculously expensive mink-topped gowns and voluminous many-layered skirts.

Mrs. Richard Shaver Named Council Head

Mrs. Richard C. Shaver was installed as chairman, and Mrs. Lee O. Rogers was named secretary of Council Two, Texasom Region, International Toastmistress Club at the Council Two meeting in Lubbock Saturday.

The announcement was made at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Tall Talker's Toastmistress Club in the Officer's Open Mess at Webb Air Force Base.

Mrs. Rogers conducted installation services for the new officers. The slate includes Mrs. Richard Shaver, president; Mrs. David King, vice president; Mrs. Rendal Hamby, secretary; Mrs. Dan Wilkins, treasurer; and Mrs. Monroe Gafford, club representative.

Mrs. Shaver announced a membership campaign to begin in the fall. Table topics were "Happiness is..." conducted by Mrs. Gafford, and the lexicon was made of free verse and poetry in a farewell to

BUYING TIPS

Draperies Add Final Decorative Blending

By GENEVIEVE S. WOOD

For many rooms — especially where some formality is desired — draperies are the consummate decorative touch, the feature that ties the room together in style and period and also in the blending of the color scheme.

As with sheer curtaining, air conditioning in homes today also has influenced even the draperies. For one thing the closed rooms make draw draperies, often of semi-sheer materials in light tones, a practical way to curtain rooms — particularly living rooms. These can be opened up during the day for light, and when drawn at night they impart beauty and coziness to a room.

When you go shopping you will find a great variety in the range of draw draperies. The sheer effects there are many styles of and semi-sheer fabrics run very much to man-made fibers, such as fiber glass and polyesters. The opaque materials also lean heavily on synthetics, as well as such natural fibers as silk, cotton, and linen. The blends serve to combine the best service features, including shape retention, resistance to wrinkling and sagging, and especially the effects of sunlight.

LINED, UNLINED

The very sheer draperies are not lined, of course. Others may be lined or not, depending on the fabric, its quality, and the style of the draperies. If you have an expanse of glass that is cold in winter and hot in summer, you may be interested in a milium lining — usually milium adhered to a foam surface. Such a lining adds insulation to draperies as well as giving them body. All draperies add a certain amount of quietness to a room, and these linings are particularly helpful in this respect.

Beiges, nubbed and slubbed surfaces, and many textured weaves in solid colors are deservedly popular in contemporary homes.

Even more colorful are the many prints, which can be chosen in color schemes that will accent a given color in the room, or that will knit the various colors of the decorative scheme into a harmonious whole. Too, you will find damasks, antique satins and other fabric in an almost endless choice.

Draw draperies usually dispense with valances, but if you want them often you can get separate ones. For more formal effects there are many styles of valances, including cornices or shaped valances. A valance hangs on its own rod, in front of the draperies.

RIGHT SIZE

Both draperies and curtains are measured in four lengths — short, to the window sill; long, to the floor; in a medium length, to the bottom of the window apron; and in a ceiling length, which is from the line of the ceiling to the floor. Floor length draperies should just clear the floor — not lie on it or above it.

If your curtain rods or poles are not in place, measure with a yardstick or foot rule (never with a tape measure) from the exact place where the hardware will be. If you want to make sure of this measurement, mark the place on the wall with a taut string or a soft pencil.

Draperies come in various widths to meet the requirements of windows of standard size. For curved rods, make sure that you have ample drapery width to round that curve and come to the wall. When poles are used, the draperies hang straight.

Many of today's draperies are washable. Fiber glass fabrics should be washed by hand and hung to drip dry. Cotton and synthetics can be machine washed — the man-made fibers in warm water.

However, it may be the better part of wisdom to have your draperies cleaned by a professional.

Times Have Changed In Business

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1919 when Virginia Furman became New York's first woman bank officer — an assistant secretary in charge of the women's department — her bank, Columbia Trust Company, took a quarter-page newspaper ad to celebrate the occasion.

Just the other day — nearly a half-century later — New York got its first woman vice president of a major commercial bank. Did the company Bankers Trust, buy space to bandy Elizabeth Brady's name about the business community?

No. Her elevation received the standard treatment — a one-page release on the appointment was sent to newspapers. And a bunch of the girls took her to dinner.

That's how matter-of-fact the financial world is becoming about the heady rise of women in its midst.

No great stir, either, greeted the announcement, hot on the heels of Miss Brady's appointment, that Chase Manhattan Bank had its first woman branch manager.

But no sooner had Madeline Burgess settled herself at the manager's desk in the branch office on New York's chic East Side than the Federal Reserve Bank of New York got into the act. This largest and most influential of the 12 districts in the Federal Reserve System promoted Madeline H. McWhinney to become its first woman assistant vice president.

Each has worked long, hard and faithfully for her company to get where she is.

"The thing that thrills me most about my appointment," says Miss Brady, whose fellow workers call her Liz, "is how it has lifted the morale of the women in the bank. They realize that if I can do it, they can do it. Even the little miniskirted kids who don't seem serious about anything are absolutely delighted."

Miss Brady — she was married 10 years ago to Philip C. Horter, a consulting engineer, but she uses her maiden name professionally — is a well-groomed, comfortable woman who has never forgotten that she started with the company as a stenographer during the depression.

In the subsequent 33 years her progress, to secretary, to platform assistant, to assistant vice president and, on June 20, to vice president, has been steady — but slow enough to make friends instead of jealous enemies along the way. It also helps explain why the young stenos call her "a real doll" behind her back.

A LOVELIER YOU

Use Soda On Polka Dot Red Blotches

By MARY SUE MILLER

A young lovely asks: What causes blotches on the face and neck? The ones I get look like polka dots, bright red and the size of a nickel. I can never tell when I'll have an attack and it lasts from just a few hours to a whole day.

The answer: Nerves sometimes cause blotches such as those described. They actually can be triggered by acute embarrassment. Blotches may also result from an allergic reaction to anything from food, to dust, to cosmetics. It is believed that a bad case of dandruff sets off blotching.

Swollen, itching blotches may signal a skin infection. Also the onslaught of allergic hives. When any form of blotching recurs with regularity, medical diagnosis and treatment is indicated.

"Polka dot" blotching temporarily responds to a bath of bicarbonate of soda. Simply add a painful of bicarbonate to a basin of cool water and splash onto a cosmetic free skin. Until the condition subsides, a medicated foundation and powder usually provide a non-irritating cover. However, do use hypoallergenic products if you even suspect the possibility of allergies.

But when you get down to the basics, only your doctor or dermatologist is in a position to give the individual advice you require.

One seldom finds the honey pond and the flitter tree together according to a good friend. Some are fortunate in finding good sales bargains... my good fortune is seeing so many of my friends who are out seeking their sales fortunes.

Fashion Fights At Pitti Palace

By LEONORA DODSWORTH

FLORENCE (AP) — The skirt length battle was still undecided as the showing of Italian lines for fall and winter ended in Florence today. Fifty-nine houses have fought it out on the Pitti Palace runway, and everything goes, from long bare legs to covered calves.

The boutique houses went mad about maxis. The knitwear houses were a little more cautious with only an occasional long skirt. The ready-to-wear lines from the couture houses were even less prepared to take risks; the maxi was in a definite minority.

The 1930s theme has been given a good second inning. Fox furs, droopy dresses in draped crepe, floating scarves and platinum blonde hair were copied straight from the Hollywood sketchbooks of 30 years ago.

Belted coats were a constant in all collections. Double-breasted styles are popular with tiny fitted tops buttoned up to neat band necklines, but revers are returning. Sleeves are set in and narrow. Below the waist, coats fan out in gentle flares, clever cuts, subtle seaming, bright metal buttons and plenty of pockets.

Suit jackets are long and lean and usually with belts. Skirts are shaped just off the straight but plenty of pleats are still around.

The screaming colors that the Italians used to love are replaced by somber muted shades in keeping with the somewhat sedate styles being shown. Gray has got it almost all its own way for day and evening. Also important are beige, black, white and olive.

Big Spring Employment Assures Expert Selection

Every employer, at one time or another, has to make a decision regarding his personnel needs. The owner of a business, or the personnel manager is faced with many decisions regarding the person he employs. The easiest way to assure the selection of the best personnel available is to interview and hire through the Big Spring Employment Agency, Permian building.

The services of Big Spring Employment, free to the employer, saves him time, money and headaches. Using their technical service, they free him to solve other problems confronting the business.

From its very beginning, the Big Spring Agency has lived by the creed that every local employer has the right to demand the best qualified person who can be hired, considering the availability of applicants, the requirements of the job, and the salary to be offered.

To assure Big Spring employers the very best applicants available, many hours of hard work go on behind the scenes at the Big Spring Employment Agency. Job applicants are screened, meaning that you do not have to waste your time interviewing applicants who are not qualified for your particular job opening. The agency refers only those who fill the requirements and needs of your job.

your public relations. You also find that when you go through a private employment agency, there is less job turn-over for you. You get better employees many times, for many highly qualified job applicants prefer to use the service of a private employment agency, thus protecting their own identity.

In the field of office skills, the Big Spring Employment Agency carries on an extensive testing program. Most all applicants are exposed to personnel tests designed and created for testing adults in business and industrial situations. The employment counselors and the employer may successfully refer to these test results as a selection instrument in hiring applicants and also as an indicator of future possibilities.

Big Spring Employment is a haven for job hunters, from the $40-a-week clerk to the $25,000-a-year executive. They come to private agencies because they realize that the people at these agencies are technicians, specialists in job-hunting and can place them in desirable jobs sooner than they could locate them for themselves.

The Big Spring Employment Agency is an affiliate of National Personnel Association, Inc., an international recruiting organization of over 120 agencies throughout the nation.

Educators Ask Fund Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — The heads of 42 colleges and universities have called for more federal money for higher education.

The 42 head public and private institutions that make up the Association of American Universities.

In a 30-page position paper to be widely distributed this week, the educators ask the government for general, across-the-board support for all types of institutions ranging from junior colleges to graduate schools.

They pointed to the widening gap between university incomes and expenditures, then warned:

"The Association of American Universities is convinced that these (financial) pressures constitute a threat to the nature and vitality of American higher education and are therefore a cause for national concern."

The presidents added: "Few institutions will do anything as drastic as closing down," but said lack of new revenues could lead to serious deterioration of higher education.

Plans Mapped To Secure Highway 207 Designation

An effort to secure a continuous number for a 600-mile, arrow-line, scenic route from the Panhandle to the Rio Grande was renewed here Tuesday.

L. D. Patton, Borger, president of the Highway 207 Association, recalled that efforts for a single designation had been crowned with success from the northern Texas tip to Post. The time, he suggested, is ripe to press southward for a one-number designation.

Several others attending the session at Cosden Country Club on Tuesday noon were of the same opinion.

Each county along the route will be asked to name two directors. Patton said that after this is done, he will call a meeting to reorganize the association and map plans for designation.

"This is not asking for new highways, for they already are there," he noted. "It is asking for a single designation from the Texas-Oklahoma line on an almost straight line south to Del Rio."

The reason for this proposal is to help travelers avoid a multiplicity of highway number switchings which are now formidable. Patton acknowledged that eventually this might call for some right-of-way widening and state upgrading to come up try traversed is rich in history.

the Tule canyon is picturesque; the section between Gall and Post has rugged beauty; the Ozona-Comstock sector is rich in beauty.

Several participants noted that the route connected Lake Meredith on the Canadian on the north with Amistad Dam on the Rio Grande, on the south, with Lake J. B. Thomas in the middle. Moreover, the route is the most direct from Kansas and the Oklahoma panhandle to Mexico and to the lower Rio Grande valley.

Hubert Baker, Ozona, reminded that the route touched 61 counties with a million and a quarter population. Others attending were Harold Lucas, Post, W. E. (Bill) Nell and Wayne B. (Red) Smith, Borger; Bill Cooper, Ozona; Mayor Arnold Marshall, County Judge Lee Porter, Edith Gay, Carroll Davidson, and Joe Pickle, all of Big Spring.

Dogs, X-rays Inspect Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Portable X-ray machines and dogs that can burrow through a pile of mail to find packages containing dope are being used to sharply reduce the flow of illegal mail from Vietnam to the United States.

The Pentagon said Tuesday that the new techniques, plus tougher inspection measures, have reduced the influx of illegal souvenir weapons "to a trickle."

The Pentagon said the new measures were put into effect after a spot check last November found 56 weapons, including switchblade knives, and 12 packets of marijuana and narcotics.

SENATORS SEEK ANSWERS

Who, What Are Rangers

By MARGARET SCHEFF
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Dusk drops over 63rd Street. And under the elevated train track, in the neon-lit pools before the barred store windows, the Blackstone Rangers gather.

They lounge in front of the liquor stores, passing cigarettes and wine bottles. They cluster in the pool halls, playing poker and shooting pool. Sometimes they shoot each other.

Who are the Blackstone Rangers?

Are they the big-time operators who reportedly shelled out $36,000 from the gang treasury to buy "enough marijuana to turn on the whole of Cook County?"

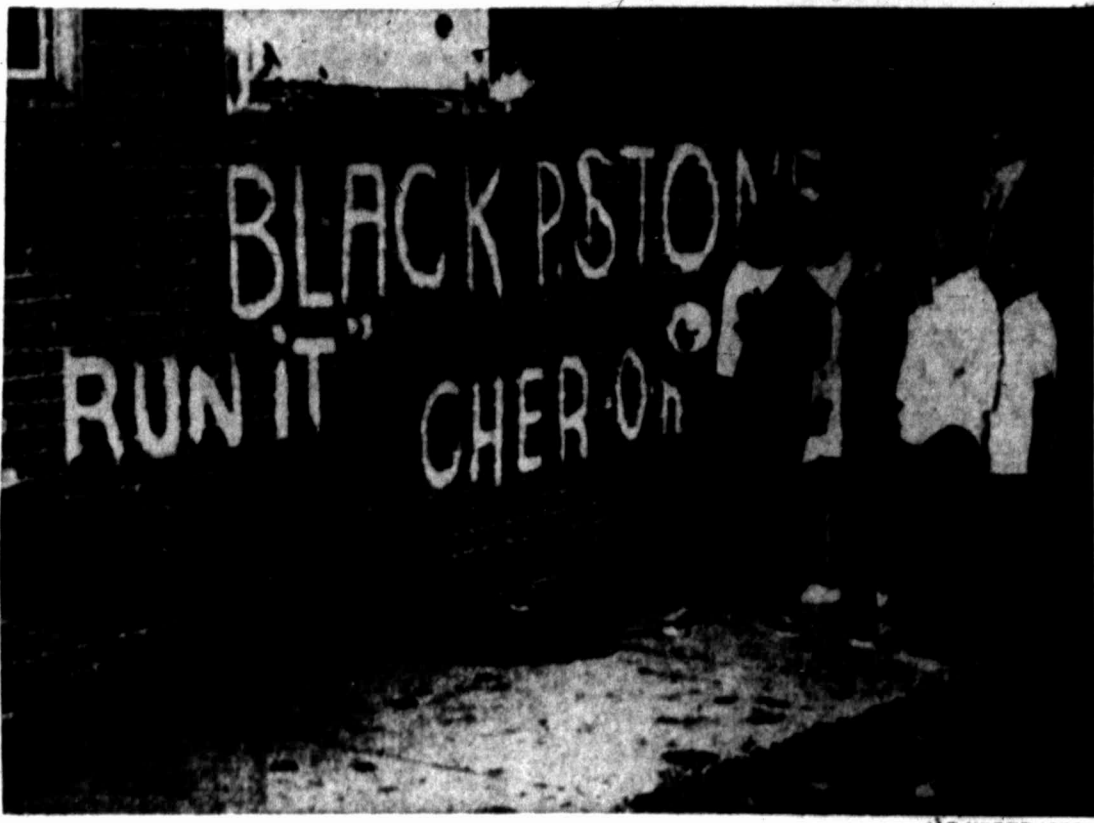

Are they just graffiti artists who delight in scrawling their "mighty Blackstone Rangers" war cry over every foot of wall and sidewalk in their South Side neighborhood?

Are the Blackstone Rangers a junior Negro mafia or just a bunch of trouble-prone but reform-minded kids?

A Senate subcommittee is seeking the answers to these questions. And it has heard testimony supporting these descriptions during its investigation into a $927,341 grant to the gang by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Purpose of the OEO grant was to provide assistance in basic education and job training for gang members. The federal agency has described the program as an attempt "to test whether the mechanisms of the gang structures could assist in shifting attitudes toward productive adult citizenship."

"Let's face it, these gangs have turned into the black Mafia of Chicago, selling dope, prostitution, and engaging in extortion or doing anything for a buck." Warden Winston Moore of the Cook County Jail told the subcommittee. Moore is a Negro.

"They are a community organization... of great influence and promise. They have used their organization to reduce violence and to create order in an otherwise chaotic environment," the Rev. John R. Fry, while pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, testified before the subcommittee.

The Blackstone Rangers were organized six years ago by a small group of Negro youths who hung around the corner of Blackstone Avenue and 63rd Street, Sgt. Timothy Daly, acting commander of the Chicago Police Department's gang intelligence unit, said Tuesday.

He estimated the gang's membership at between 600 and 800 youths, ranging in age from 8 to 25. Of these, he said, only about 100 older high-school dropouts are hardcore Rangers.

However, George Rose, 23, once third in command of the Rangers, told the subcommittee the membership is between 6,000 and 8,000. He said the gang is ruled by an unofficial board of directors called the "Main 21."

The gang's operations center mainly in Woodlawn, an eight-square-block area on the Middle South Side. They also spread north into the University of Chicago community of Hyde Park and west into Englewood.

A disparate set of facts about the neighborhood serves to point up the conflicting opinions about the Rangers.

— The rate of assaults and other crimes of violence has declined in Woodlawn while rising sharply in other Negro areas.

— Despite this, there have been 29 fatal shootings in Woodlawn this year attributed to warfare between the Rangers and the East Side Disciples, a rival gang.

The South Side turf of the Rangers—they call it their "hood"—has had no riots. A peace meeting among leaders of both gangs took place after the shooting of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The West Side was in flames at the time.

But, although the South Side escaped the looting and burning that scourged the West Side, some observers asserted it was the Rangers' cupidly rather than their peace-loving natures which kept the lid on. There were charges they extracted payoffs of up to $125 a week from South Side businessmen in return for protection.

Major Social Programs Face Spending Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — House supporters of major social programs face the formidable task of overcoming demands that economy measures must come at their expense and not from defense spending.

Amendments before the House today called for the restoration of at least part of $609 million cut from education programs and the $307 million slashed from antipoverty projects.

The funds were part of $1.7 billion pared by the House Appropriations Committee from a $17-billion money bill for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare Departments, and related agencies including the Office of Economic Opportunity.

"If anyone thinks we are going to capitulate to communism or to forces that would destroy us and cut the defense budget accordingly, they have another thing coming," Appropriations Chairman George D. Mahon, D-Tex., said Tuesday.

Mahon spoke before the House defeated two amendments that would have increased allocations. One, to add $5 million for improving the education of non-English speaking U.S. children—mainly Indians, Puerto Ricans and youngsters of Mexican descent—lost by only one vote, 96 to 85.

During debate, supporters of social programs charged that the economy mandate voted by Congress last week in connection with the 10 per cent income surtax is being applied largely against these programs.

The tax-spending bill requires a $6-billion cut in outlays under budget estimates for the year beginning July 1.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., said the Johnson administration will have to withhold even more funds that the committee cut to meet its $6 billion over-all reduction requirement.

Mahon rejected a suggestion that the defense budget be cut in proportion to the social programs, for a $5 billion saving.

Mahon said he "stoutly repudiated" claims he promised that social programs would not be touched at all.

"I said we would have to make cuts all down the line," he said.

Rules Against Reserve Police, Free Game Total

AUSTIN (AP) — Reserve police units in civil service cities and pinball machines that tell how many free games have been won are illegal, says Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

Jefferson County Dist. Atty. W. C. Lindsey asked Martin if Port Arthur's ordinance setting up a police reserve force was legal.

Not in cities that have adopted the state Civil Service Act, Martin said in an opinion issued Tuesday.

The only special police force Port Arthur could create, Martin said, is one that may be summoned by the mayor in times of emergency as provided by state law.

The unpaid volunteers called for in Port Arthur's ordinance were to assist regular policemen in regular duties.

Harris County Dist. Atty. Carol Vance asked Martin about the pinball machines.

Martin said a 1965 state law permits "immediate and unrecorded right of replay." By unrecorded the law means the machine cannot have an indicator showing how many games have been won or how many remain to be played, he said.

The 1965 law reversed a 1957 Texas Court of Criminal Appeals decision banning pinball machines. The court said free games were property and things of value within the meaning of the state anti-slot machine act.

Famed Stars And Stripes Of Iwo Jima Hauled Down

TWO JIMA (AP) — Americans hauled down the Stars and Stripes on Iwo Jima today, 23 years after a band of Marines raised the U.S. flag atop battle-scarred Mt. Suribachi in a bloody World War II battle.

When six Marines put the flag in place on Iwo Jima, it was one of the inspiring moments in the history of American fighting men: An Associated Press picture of the event became one of the most reproduced photos in the world.

The Stars and Stripes came down in simple ceremony on the sun-baked island where in February and March, 1945, 6,821 Americans and 19,000 Japanese died in 26 days of fight.

One man standing at rigid attention during the ceremony remembered the day members of the 28th Marine Regiment raised the large flag on Mt. Suribachi.

He is Col. Miller Blue, 46, San Diego, Calif., who was a second lieutenant in the 24th Marine Regiment during the fighting for Iwo Jima. A couple of hours after he watched the flag being raised, he was wounded by a Japanese rifleman.

The Americans gave back to Japan two groups of central Pacific islands—the Volcanos, which include Iwo, and the Bonins, which include Chi Chi Jima, the only one in the two groups inhabited by civilians.

Three other small islands—Marcus, Rosario and Parace Vella—related geographically to the major groups are also reverting to Japan.

Small American detachments on Marcus, Iwo and Chi Chi will remain for the time being.

Control of the islands was officially returned to Japan at a ceremony in Tokyo attended by Crown Prince Akihito, Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson as senior U.S. representative.

Sato and Akihito hailed return of the islands as an example of postwar cooperation between Japan and the United States. Restoration ceremonies also were held on Iwo and Chi Chi.

While celebrating the return of the Volcanos and Bonins, the Japanese press urged a continuing campaign to regain other Japanese territories lost in the war. The newspapers mentioned Okinawa, the biggest U.S. base in the western Pacific, and the Soviet-controlled islands north of Japan.

Two Jima was the only island of the groups which saw any fighting in the war. The rest were taken by U.S. forces after the Japanese surrender.

Campaign Goal For UF Pends

Members of the United Fund budget and screening committee finally went home at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday after unsuccessfully trying to set a campaign goal for 1968 and trying to decide the amount of money to be allotted each agency.

R. W. Thompson, president of the committee, said its members would have to meet again to complete its study.

When the committee completes its reports, it will be submitted to the UF board of trustees for approval.

The budget and screening group met with representatives of the 14 agencies Monday and Tuesday nights for budget hearings. Members of the committee are John Taylor, Clyde McMahon Jr., John Currie, R. J. Beam, Jimmy Taylor, and Thompson.

Addressing Machine, Gas Purchase OK'd By Council

Big Spring City Commissioners, operating two members short, whizzed through a relatively routine agenda Tuesday evening, awarding bids for a six months supply of gasoline and buying an addressing machine.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. was apparent low bidder to supply the city with gasoline for six months, and received the contract. The firm offered regular gas at 1615 cents per gallon and Ethyl gas at 1815 cents per gallon.

Other firms bidding were Mobil Oil Co., Continental Oil Co., Standard Oil Co. of Texas, Gulf Oil Corp., and Texaco Inc. The city will use about 75,000 gallons of gas during the contract period.

On the recommendation of Charles Smith, finance director, the commissioners accepted the low bid of Addressograph-Multigraph Corp. for an addressing machine. It will cost $6,100 and Smith said it would be delivered in about 14 weeks. The only other bidder was Pitney-Bowes, which bid $6,148, including companion items making its offer competitive.

In other business, the commissioners:

(1) Granted Fire Chief H. V. Crocker a year extension of service past retirement age of 65.

(2) Approved purchase of a radio unit costing $766 for an extra police car, included in the new budget.

(3) Instructed City Attorney Tom Huckaby to draw up papers to accept dedication of Day Street, at the request of Harold Jones.

(4) Tabled a claim by James C. Ringener, 1502 Chickasaw, for damages to his house, car, and pickup, which he said was caused by the city's mosquito fogging machine. Huckaby said the city has no liability, but the commission asked for a complete report on the incident at its next meeting.

(5) Advised Perry Chandler that the contractor would level his yard on Cindy Lane, where a dirt loader working of utility line construction, backed across

(6) Answered Mrs. George Thomas' questions that the sound system in the meeting room is being studied for improvements to enable the audience to hear what is being said.

Mayor Arnold Marshall replied the commission has never had a closed meeting. Commissioner Jimmy Morehead said he would have answers to questions concerning the police department at the next meeting.

Working To Help Keep Hondurans Here Legally

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Last week a Honduran woman and her five children who walked here from Central America were about to be deported.

Today a congressman and a number of New Mexico families are fighting to keep them in the United States.

Hortensia Beltran Rivas was to appear before the U.S. Immigration Service today. It says she entered the country illegally.

Mrs. Rivas and her children—three boys and two girls, ages 5 to 13—were flown to El Paso Monday from Albuquerque, N.M., for deportation.

Albuquerque lawyers, working without a retainer, said several New Mexico families have offered to sponsor the family so it can remain in this country.

Rep. Thomas Morris, D-N.M., has asked immigration officials in Washington to delay action on the case until counsel can study the case further, lawyer Mary Walters said.

Mrs. Rivas said she and her children walked from Central America and waded across the Rio Grande at El Paso. She was taken into custody after staying Friday night with the Salvation Army in Albuquerque. She had been picking onions.

Salvation Army spokesmen said when they found out she was in the country illegally, they called immigration officials.

Mrs. Walters said her firm learned about the matter and obtained a writ of habeas corpus from U.S. Dist. Judge H. Veale Payne, preventing deportation until a federal court hearing could be held. Payne has set a hearing for next Monday in Albuquerque.

"As best I can determine, Judge Payne still has jurisdiction in this case and the immigration people must produce that family in Albuquerque next Monday for the hearing," Mrs. Walters said.

"I'm sure that by the time we have the hearing we will have 100 people who will serve as sponsors."

Commissioners Garner McAdams and Walter Stroup were absent from the meeting, as was City Manager Larry Crow.

TRUDEAU TIDAL WAVE HITS CANADA

Liberal Party Wins Clearcut Mandate

TORONTO (AP) — It was a Trudeau tidal wave, and it gave his party a clearcut mandate to rule Canada with a strength no party has enjoyed in six years.

In Tuesday's election Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who entered politics only three years ago, led his Liberals to the biggest victory any party has scored since John Diefenbaker's prime. Diefenbaker in 1958 spearheaded the Conservatives to a landslide triumph that was good for four years' control.

Trudeau became Liberal leader, and thus prime minister, by choice of a party convention two months ago when Lester B. Pearson retired Tuesday Canadian voters had the chance to ratify or repudiate the choice. Their answer gave the Liberals the House of Commons majority they had never won under Pearson's leadership.

Trudeau on assuming the prime ministry vowed to improve his party's standing. As the leading party, even lacking a majority, the Liberals could call an election at a time they thought advantageous. Trudeau and his aides judged this a good time, and the bet paid off.

How did he do it? There is no question of Trudeau's personal appeal, evidenced in the reaction of happy throngs that greeted him on the campaign trail across the country. But as the campaign progressed he also showed himself a pragmatic and tough politician. He said the right things and made no big promises.

Though a native of Quebec, he didn't give an inch to those Quebecers who want a special deal for that dominantly French-speaking province, or even to split off from Canada. There is one Canada, Trudeau said, and that's the way it's going to be.

Guess Who Won?

The answer to who won Canada's federal general election Tuesday is all too evident as Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau (right) glows over defeat of two of his opposing party leaders, Progressive Conservative Robert Stanfield (left), his main opposition, and Tommy Douglas of the New Democrats.

Stanfield was elected in his home riding of Halifax but was defeated nationally in the Trudeau sweep. Douglas, who earlier celebrated first signs of a personal victory in his constituency, later became dejected when further ballot counting put him down.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26, 1968

At the last minute, when Quebec separatists rioted in Montreal and hurled a bottle past the prime minister, he didn't flinch.

In contrast, the Conservatives, though also under new leadership, never caught popular fancy. Robert Stanfield, the Nova Scotian who replaced Diefenbaker last year, said as the returns rolled in that he had known 24 hours earlier that his party was beaten.

Stanfield is 54, only six years older than Trudeau, but to most Canadians, it appeared, his and the Tories' ideas were old-hat or at least not good enough.

The election was for 264 seats, with each citizen voting only for a legislator in his own district. Thus Trudeau's name was on the ballot only in a Montreal district, but voters nationwide knew whom they were supporting when they voted Liberal.

Tabulations today showed the Liberals were sure of 153 seats. The Conservatives had 70 and were leading in two contests.

SAYS KENNEDY DELEGATES COMING OVER

Rockefeller Still Wants Reagan As Running Mate

By The Associated Press
New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he's picking up support that had gone to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—and at the same time has kept alive the idea of running with California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"He (Kennedy) had become a symbol to minority groups more than anyone since Roosevelt," Rockefeller said in Albany Tuesday. "I think much of this is now coming my way."

The Republican presidential aspirant said earlier in the day there was "absolutely no basis" to reports he had given up the idea of a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket.

"Although Mr. Reagan himself has said he would not be a candidate," Rockefeller said, "there have been a great many people who have felt there was a possibility of a ticket there."

Reagan has said repeatedly he is not interested in the vice presidency and he told a news conference Tuesday neither Rockefeller nor Richard M. Nixon had asked him to become a running mate.

Reagan, a GOP favorite son, also indicated he would not be entered as a presidential candidate at the Republican National Convention if it is obvious someone else has the nomination locked up in advance.

"Obviously, if the convention is going to be sewed up," he said, "there's no sense in going down there and going through an empty gesture."

He indicated in such a situation he might also release California's 86-vote delegation before the convention. A key member of the delegation has said it would substantially favor Nixon if Reagan were not a factor.

In the Democratic race, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has scheduled a campaign swing through Colorado, North Dakota and Iowa—starting in Denver tonight—to seek delegates and outline his views to voters.

Aides have said Humphrey will concentrate on public speeches this summer to dispel any image of a campaign based on "back room politics" for convention delegate votes.

In other political developments:

—Nixon, in a position paper, called Berlin a keystone of Western security. "Any indication," he said, "that we are willing to accommodate to renewed Soviet and East German harassment of Berlin would be an invitation for further pressures from the Communists."

—Third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace set out today on a campaign swing aimed at raising campaign funds and gaining enough voter signatures to get on the November ballot in Maryland and Massachusetts. The swing also will take him through his home state of Alabama.

—Eleven Republican senators, most of them considered favoring Nixon, have criticized Rockefeller for attacks by name against Nixon and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, D-Ore. "We are dismayed," they said in a telegram, "by your breach of the so-called 11th Commandment not to speak ill of a fellow Republican."

—An Associated Press poll shows Humphrey has at least 19 of Indiana's 63 delegate votes. Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy 4, Gov. Roger D. Branigin 1 and Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy 1 with 15 uncommitted. Other delegates were not reached or declined to state their preference.

Holiday Inn, TCO Merger Announced

DALLAS (AP) — A merger pattern of Holiday Inns in recent years.

The Social Credit party was eliminated from Parliament. It officials of the two firms Tuesday. About $200 million was involved.

The Conservatives showed strength in the Atlantic provinces, winning 25 seats to the Liberals' 7. That trend was easily overcome in more populous provinces.

The Liberals led 55-4 in Quebec and 65-16 in Ontario. They picked up more than a dozen seats in the Prairie provinces and British Columbia.

Preliminary figures on the nationwide popular vote showed the Liberals won 46 per cent, the Conservatives 31, with the rest scattered.

Diefenbaker, who took little part in the campaign, won his own Saskatchewan district. Pearson was not a candidate to succeed himself as a Commons member.

Congratulating party workers, Trudeau said he expects to convene the new Parliament in September to act on a "forward-looking and constructive program."

The new Parliament will include its first Negro, Lincoln Alexander, a 46-year-old lawyer from Hamilton, Ont. He ran under the Conservative banner, and said youth power, exemplified by 500 youthful supporters, won the election for him.

"Prime Minister Trudeau wasn't the only one with charisma," he observed.

agreement between Holiday Inns of America, Inc., and TCO Industries, Inc., was announced by officials of the two firms Tuesday. About $200 million was involved.

Holiday Inns and its licensees constitute the largest motel system in the United States with 114 shares of Holiday Inns common or 2 1/2 shares of TCO preferred.

TCO Industries owns Continental Trailways, Delta Steamship Lines and is engaged in real estate development, insurance and other businesses.

Kemmons Wilson, Holiday's board chairman, and Maurice E. Moore, TCO board chairman, said directors of both firms reached agreement at a Dallas meeting late Tuesday.

The agreement, the board chairman said, was subject to approval by both firms' stockholders, receipt of tax rulings and other matters.

Wilson, commenting on the action, said, "Both companies are active in areas of the service industry and would form a base from which the combined companies could continue the growth."

A Devotional For The Day

Let any one who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall. (I Corinthians 10:12, RSV)
PRAYER: Merciful Father, steady my footsteps so that I may not fall before anything, great or small, in this life. Help me to find the divine strength I need daily; through Jesus Christ, my Savior. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

A Successor To Warren

In the wake of authoritative announcements that Earl Warren is stepping down as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court comes the rash of commentary on the appointment of a successor.
While some personalities are discussed, much emphasis of the national analysts seems to be that the Warren resignation itself is politically timed, so that Lyndon Johnson, the "lame duck" President, may fill the post.
There may be some soundness to an opinion that a new President, with at least four years ahead as chief executive, should be the one to appoint the Chief Justice. But this seems to be stretching the point a bit. The fact is that when a Supreme Court vacancy occurs, it is presidential responsibility to fill it.
We share the concern of so many Americans about the so-called "liberal" or "activist" trend of the high court during the Warren days, and we would hope that the next justices (there are rumored to be imminent resignations other than that of Justice Warren) will be men of strong background in jurisprudence, and men of firm conviction on the interlocking role of the court, the legislative process and the administrative responsibility.

It is difficult to anticipate President Johnson. Had he appointed a Chief Justice a couple of years ago, he might have chosen a man of even more liberal outlook, or might have paid more attention to the political factors.
Today, when he has determined to put the presidency behind him, he might just ignore the political implications (he doesn't have to pay any more "debts"), and he might just have a new outlook on the type of leadership the Supreme Court needs. Mr. Johnson himself has undergone considerable transition during the days of his awesome responsibilities; he could continue this with any Court appointments he might make between now and next January.

Texas And The Scenic Road Law

While it would be impractical to get attention to the matter in the current hectic special session, the Texas Legislature next session would bring this state into full compliance with the federal Highway Beautification Act of 1965.
The deadline for compliance with loss of 10 per cent in federal highway aid was last Jan. 1, but the states were granted a temporary reprieve by the administration for this year.
Ten states' compliance legislation has already been approved by the Federal Highway Administration, and five other states with nearly complying laws have interim agreements. A number of other states are preparing to consider such legislation next year or improve substandard laws.
All the Texas Legislature has done so far is to adopt a resolution last year authorizing the State Highway Commission to discuss highway beautification with federal officials. And that is obviously not enough.

Texas should have no trouble meeting the landscaping standards. This state has an outstanding program of its own on that. It needs strict law for screening roadside junkyards. But mostly it should adopt at least the minimum federal standards regulating billboards on federally aided interstate and primary highways.
We are aware of the opposition of outdoor advertising agencies, rural land leasers, and businesses which feel they need travel-trade signs. But the federal rules allow enough for tourist-trade guidance. A "model bill" should be prepared and put on the agenda for the regular legislative session opening next January.

A Man Really Against Spending

WASHINGTON—Congressman Tom Curtis (R., Mo.), as Scott Fitzgerald said about the Very Rich, is "different."
Ordinarily a congressman from a safe, congenial district where he's been since 1951, would not risk the seat—and, if he did so to run for the U.S. Senate, he would promise to "do more" for the state.

TO "DO MORE," of course, means to wheel in the pork barrel of federal spending. With the probability of a Republican presidency next year, Curtis could make the envisioned future look very bright for Missouri. Instead, Tom is talking austerity. He is even willing to advertise that fact on campaign posters. He feels so strongly against inflationary federal spending that he says he'd like to raise signs over cut-back Missouri projects to read:

"This project temporarily suspended until we put purchasing power back into the dollar."

SOMETIMES Tom's erudite and involved economic convolutions are difficult for workaday laymen to comprehend. The Webster Grove District has nodded approval through nine elections, and considers itself lucky to have him. But there was much skepticism among well-wishing Republicans when Tom agreed to run statewide on the argument that it was almost now or never for Missouri to get a Republican senator. Nobody doubted that he would shine in the upper chamber, but how was he going to get elected? Tom has recently made such impolitic statements as these:

TO THE ACADEMIC community which is friendly to Curtis who's a lifetime trustee of Dartmouth College: In the lush Space programs, "we ran—not out of money—but out of scientists and engineers. You can pay a fellow the salary of a scientist and engineer, but that doesn't make him

one. In fact, it will foul up your program."
To the Missouri industrialists who normally would support a Republican conservative: "Corporations are tax collectors and not taxpayers. Corporations simply collect taxes from the consumer by raising prices."

TO VOTERS who are nervous about the talk of cutting $4 billion or $6 billion out of federal spending which trickles down to the communities: "As a matter of fact, beginning last year, around March and April I got up my list of $15 billion of cuts in expenditures."

What — $15 billion? That's right, Curtis gets angry when Democrats taunt him about meat-axing sacrosanct items like school lunches and Vietnam war funds. He isn't talking about these items. They play no part in his proposed economies. The cuttable parts of the federal budget, according to Curtis are:

THE GENERAL poverty spending: "We are feeding this money to the (poverty) program at such a rate that it's being wasted — not to put poor people on their economic feet, but rather to put them on a different part of their anatomy."
The general military program: "Let's start with troops in Europe cut back — about $2 billion." It goes on through foreign aid and military aid, Food for Freedom, research and development, public works, space, and federal employment.

WHEN A CANDIDATE proposes to drive so many fat federal cattle to the slaughter, there are sure to be sacred cows among them. Many a Missouri ox is going to get gored in the round up.
Can such a man win statewide election? If he doesn't, Curtis will regret the defeat for his party, but not for himself.

Billy Graham

When Jesus said: "I am the door" what did He mean? B.J. In ancient times the door was a thing of great importance. Houses had only one entrance. When Christ said "I am the Door" the people understood the exclusiveness of His claim. This one door was the only legitimate entrance to the house. Anyone who tried to get in by some other means showed that he was a thief and did not have honest motives.

When Jesus said, "Behold I stand at the door and knock," He demonstrated that He was not only at the legitimate place of entrance but He was endeavoring to gain admission in the legitimate way.

Trashword Puzzle

NEW YORK (AP)—Crossword fans who speed through the most difficult newspaper puzzles might be confounded by the clues in a little puzzle printed for garbage collectors.
The puzzle appears in "Sweep," quarterly magazine for 14,000 employees of the city's Sanitation Department. It has been composed for the past nine years by James H. McBurney, the department's deputy chief of staff.

The answers often are simple words but the clues are Sanitation shop-talk. McBurney's latest puzzle has such technical clues as "incinerator raising unit" (ton), "snow dumping ring item" (tag), "DS auction sale lowest bid price" (upset) and "spreader material" (slag).

Pools Becoming Common

NEW YORK (AP) — "Some-day swimming pools are going to be common as second bathrooms," said the swimming pool marketing man. "Well, maybe not that common but there'll be a lot of them," he added.

The statistics tend to document the latter part of his claim. An industry census shows that from less than 11,000 pools 20 years ago, the total now has grown to more than 800,000. And the growth seems to be intensifying.

BY THE END of this year, says the Hoffman-Harris Co., a publisher whose figures generally are accepted by the industry, hotels and motels will have built another 9,500 pools, clubs another 1,900, municipalities 1,400, schools 1,700 and homeowners more than 60,000.

Behind this boom in swimming pools are not just higher incomes but basic changes in American habits and attitudes. A swimming pool is slowly falling from the extreme luxury category, for example. To many it is now a health tank.

"The old idea of the swimming pool as something of a Roman bath doesn't hold water anymore," said a spokesman for the National Swimming Pool Institute, a trade organization.

"NOW SWIMMING is a health activity," he said, "one of the best sports for maintaining cardiovascular health."

Convenience is another factor. People ask themselves why they should drive 40 or 50 miles to and from a crowded beach when swimming can be available just beyond their patio and right next to the television set and the charcoal broiler.

A good small pool, something less than 15 feet by 30 feet, might cost somewhere around $3,000 installed and equipped, although prices range widely. In the middle sizes, between 15 by 30 and 20 by 40, prices generally are a bit more than $4,000.

For the same price, an industry official comments, you could buy a good automobile. "So why not buy a less expensive car and put the money into a pool?" he asks.

ALTHOUGH the most intensive pool population remains in the California-Hawaii and Florida areas, much of the present building activity is in the populous northeastern section of the country, where the Northeast Swimming Pool Association forecasts a 25 to 35 per cent increase in business this year.

Increasingly the pools now being installed are prefabricated of vinyl and are erected partially above ground and surrounded with a wooden deck. But in ground concrete pools, which might cost 20 to 40 per cent more, still are the most popular.

The expense doesn't end with the installation. Swimming pools get dirty, they get clogged with leaves.

IN A HEAVILY wooded area maintenance might cost $12 to $30 a month if the work is done by the pool owner. If handled professionally on a regular contract basis, the cost can run to $30 a month.

Not The Only One

NEW YORK (AP) — The absent-minded professor who winds the cat and puts out the clock is in full possession of his wits compared to me. I would put the cat to bed, give the clock a saucer of milk and stand outside all night, ticking.

THIS SCATTER-BRAIN trait of mine is not new, even though it is becoming more apparent daily. Way back when the kids were little and the family was sitting around the dinner table I very carefully tried to nibble around my husband's neck while our youngest, for whom it was intended, gurgled in glee.

I've not only poured the coffee into the sugar bowl instead of the cup, but I once ran the electric coffeepot through its entire cycle with nothing in it but water. It made a hot, but not very peppy, drink.

NO LONG AGO I put some potatoes on to cook and stepped outside to move the hose to a new position in the yard. This across the street and went over to say hello. Our chat lasted quite awhile—in fact, until I saw water from the hose pouring out into the street.

When I went back to turn it off I discovered that, while there was too much water on the grass, there wasn't enough in the pot with the potatoes. Oh, well, it was an old pan anyhow.

Then there was the time I went to the refrigerator to get a jar of mustard. I couldn't find it anywhere even though I was certain there should be some in plain sight. After a long search, I finally decided to get a new jar out, but before I could open the cabinet I had to put down what was in my hand. It was the mustard, which I had taken out without realizing it when I first opened the refrigerator.

ALL THE NEW spray products really have me confused. I recently grabbed a can from the bathroom shelf and sprayed my hair with window-cleaner instead of lacquer. It made it nice and shiny but didn't do much for my coiffure.

Just the other day I suddenly heard rain on the roof. This was rather strange as the sun was shining and besides, we don't have a roof, being on the bottom floor of a two-story garden apartment. It turned out my upstairs neighbor had forgotten to put the hose from her washing machine into the sink and the water was raining out onto the floor.

I enjoyed helping her mop up the mess. It was good to know I'm not the only witless wonder on the block.

Possible Meanings Of 'A Sweetish Taste'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a sweetish taste in the mouth? Every morning I also notice that my tongue is almost always coated white. — Mrs. J.

There isn't any quick and easy answer; it could be any of several things.

Sweetness, of course, is one of the four basic taste senses (the others are salty, sour, and bitter).
Tracing abnormalities of taste sense demands inspection of the tongue, teeth, and mouth; a review of whatever medications may be in use by the patient; inquiry into dental preparations such as paste or powder for dentures; and sometimes more sophisticated tests.

Several medications can cause a sweet taste, so, to start with, tell your doctor what medications you are taking. If any. If he cannot discover the cause, keep in mind that the problem sometimes is one of neurosis, again in other instances it can be a sign of a neurological disorder. Therefore, it is worthwhile consulting a neurologist.

The heavy coating on your tongue may be a clue. If you are a mouth-breather at night, the tongue may become excessively dry and the taste buds irritated. The buds for sweet taste are primarily at the tip of the tongue.

In one sentence: that sweet taste may or may not signify any important condition. It is worth having it checked out.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard so much in the last few years about cobalt for cancer, and I just read about a new unit being built near here.

How effective is the treatment? How often is it given; what side effects are there, if any? How often is it given; what side effects are there, if any? How expensive is it? Why don't they do surgery instead of using cobalt? — H.P.W.
Cobalt (meaning, in this case, a quantity of cobalt that has been made radioactive) takes the place of an X-ray tube in producing radiation. There are technical differences in focusing the ray and such things, but so far as the patient is concerned, it is X-ray treatment whether the rays come from a high-voltage tube, cobalt, cesium, or other source.

There are bound to be side effects from intensive radiation, and cobalt will have them, just as conventional X-rays do. Expense also will be about the same.

When to use surgery and when to use X-ray (and sometimes when to use both) is a question far too complicated to afford a general answer. It is a matter of choosing whatever will be most effective in any given case.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

Passing Of A Great Luxury

"Ever shave anyone anymore?" I asked my barber friend as he lathered my neck to put the finishing touches on a hair cut.

"RARELY," he said. "I have only one regular shave customer—and he comes in once a month—just after he gets his pension check. That's a hang-over from the old days, and he sort of figures this is his link with luxury as well as the past."

"What's it cost now?"
"No set price," he replied. "Maybe dollar and a half, dollar six-bits, or even $2 depending on how tough it is. You can be pretty sure that when anyone wants a barbershop shave today, it's because he's really got a mean beard."

OLD SQUIRRELS, that's what they called them in the old days when shaving was the major end of a barber's business.

C. D. Herring, who spent over three-score years barbering before he retired here a few years ago, recalls those Old Squirrels vividly. While a good portion of the regular customers had tough stubble, the squirrels were likely to be an old cowhand in from several weeks of unwashed service on the range.

"SOME OF THEM were mellow," he mused, "mellow as a goat. A few of them had the good judgment to hire out the bathtub in the back of the shop before getting in the chair. Occasionally we had to invite one to take a bath before we could get on with the shaving."

For 15 cents a man could enjoy the unequalled relaxing experience of a barbershop shave. For the Old Squirrels, this meant that the barber first ran over the whiskers with hand clippers, then started the softening process.

THE CUSTOMER, more like a patient, was stretched horizontally in the chair while a turkish towel, dipped in steaming hot water kept on the stove, was wrapped a la turban over his face. After the first impulse to scream passed, and the barber cooled his lobster hands, the customer settled down to several minutes of sheer joy and rest. If his beard was super tough, the process was repeated. Then came the business of whipping up a rich lather in the shaving mug (sometimes customers had their own private mugs which they left at the shop) and plopping and brushing it all over the face and neck.

THEN WITH HIS carefully honed straight-edged razor, the barber took hold of one end of his swivel strap and began beating out a brisk jig tune. He raked a swath with the back of the razor, wiped the lather on the paper kept below the head rest, and gently pulled the flesh past the blade with a subdued scraping sound.

When he had the customer slick as a whistle, the heat treatment might be repeated to a lesser degree, then the towel twirled over the face to cool and dry. Like as not a lotion was applied with massage while the customer grunted happily like a pig in the shade.

GRADUALLY, the weight of business moved to haircuts. Mr. Herring remembers when the City Barber Shop got its first pair of clippers, they were attached to a ring that slid along an overhead horizontal wire so that all barbers could use them. In time haircuts went to four bits, and on up. And gradually new safety razor blades replaced the old but unequalled straight edges. Even the old timers shied away from the shaves except for customers of long years standing. They were content to call it progress.

The Supreme Court And Politics

WASHINGTON — The political nuances whereby a Chief Justice of the United States is selected confronts the country today. As in the past, political factors play their part, and the people can be unwittingly denied the opportunity to have at the head of their highest court the nation's best judicial mind—a man dedicated to the principles of the Constitution.

The report that Chief Justice Earl Warren is ready to resign and that he will do so in time for President Johnson to name a successor—rather than waiting a few months for the new President, chosen by the American people in November, to make such an important appointment—is in itself a symbol of political manipulation.

THE BEST WAY would be to have the American Bar Association, consisting of all the lawyers of the country, to vote to pick out nine or ten of the leading jurists—persons with the least political bias or political affiliation and yet best equipped by years of familiarity with the law and the Constitution—and submit to the President at least three such outstanding individuals. This would be much better than the familiar method of letting a President choose a personal friend or a political ally who will cater to a particular school of thought.

HAVING WITNESSED for 58 years now the bizarre methods by which justices of the Supreme Court of the United States have been chosen, this writer needs only to recall the many ways by which political influences have been utilized in selecting members of the high court.

It was during the second term of Franklin Roosevelt that politics began to emerge conspicuously as a prime factor in the selection of Supreme Court justices. Thereafter came a series of appointments of men who could be expected to exert an influence favorable to the policies of the administration in power. Only occasionally were nominees for the court chosen by reason of their legal or judicial experience.

INDEED, President Eisenhower was prevailed upon by his associates, who were more politically minded than he was, to appoint Earl Warren to be Chief Justice despite the fact that the California governor had had little legal experience and none on the bench. In the 1952 convention, Mr. Warren, who had been the Republican vice presidential nominee in 1948, had been persuaded to throw his support to General Eisenhower. When the vacancy on the Supreme Court occurred in 1953, those instrumental in getting Gov. Warren into the Eisenhower camp were quick to suggest that he should be rewarded with the appointment as Chief Justice.

EARL WARREN is a conscientious man, but has strong personal convictions on matters of law and social problems. It has not been unusual for him to sway others to concur in decisions based on preconceived ideas of good politics — matters popular with large segments of the public—rather than in accord with fundamental principles of the Constitution which supposedly can be changed only by the amending process prescribed in the Constitution itself.

THE AMERICAN people could in November change the political complexion of the White House and the Congress and renounce the political trends of the past several years. But if a "lame-duck" President is given the opportunity to name as Chief Justice a close personal friend or a person of the same political school of thought as his own, the people will be deprived of any voice or influence in the selection of the Chief Justice of the nation's highest court, which in many cases today virtually legislates disregard of the words of the Constitution.

What the people really want is a change in the system so that the Supreme Court will be taken out of the realm of politics.

Rows Against Current

TORONTO (AP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau says he likes to row against the current—another way of saying he likes to flout convention and do things the hard way.

That is one of the reasons he has become the most exciting and most talked-about politician in recent Canadian history. He has a lot going for him, including the fact that he is intelligent, wealthy, comparatively young and a swinging bachelor who appeals to the younger set and to the women.

THESE ATTRIBUTES all add up to something that's called Trudeau-mania.

His swift rise in national politics was definitely against the current. In 1963 he was not a member of the Liberal party. He was even calling the Liberals sheep and idiots, and was describing their leader Lester B. Pearson as "an unfrocked prince of peace." Normally this would have ruled out any chance for a bright future as a Liberal. But two years later he was elected to Parliament under that party's banner. He became minister of justice in 1967 with Pearson's blessing and liberal leader and prime minister last April.

In Canada's highest elective office he has continued to take the unorthodox approach. Three days after he took over as head of the government, he dissolved Parliament and called a national election — when he could have remained fairly secure for perhaps another year as prime minister.

AS A FRENCH-CANADIAN, he might have soft-pedaled the Quebec question as his Conservative opponent suggested. Instead, he went into Quebec Province with his doctrine of "one Canada" and his firm opposition to special constitutional status for Quebec.

He pulled no punches in dealing with separatists who interrupted his speeches with heckling. He called them stupid and said that after the election they would "return to the trash cans from which they came."

Trudeau is a youthful-looking 48. He is the son of a French-Canadian father and a Scottish-Canadian mother, and thus fluent in both English and French. His father made a fortune as an oil distributor in Montreal, and Trudeau himself is a millionaire from inheritance.

HE STUDIED LAW at the University of Montreal and did graduate work at the Sorbonne, the London School of Economics and Harvard. He was a professor of constitutional law at the University of Montreal and a founder of a Montreal social reform magazine called Cite Libre, Free City.

Bride Plans Jazz Wedding

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — When Alice Ann Doughty gets married July 4 providing the "not-so-traditional" music at the wedding will be a Dixieland band.

"We think most church music is not very good," said the father of the bride, Ralph Dougherty. He will escort his daughter down the aisle of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, then join the band to play trumpet.

Music for the wedding will include the Dixieland jazz versions of the wedding march, the offertory, Lord's Prayer, communion and recessional.

Alice Ann, 20, is getting married to Robert Kellogg, a 21-year-old sergeant stationed at Warren Air Force Base in Cheyenne, Wyo. She says she doesn't know what he will think about it, but said he had heard the jazz music for a Thanksgiving Mass and "thought it was great."

an assistant pastor, who will perform the ceremony, says he favors the jazz music.

MIXING FROWNED ON

Sterner Ruling Made By TIL

DALLAS (AP) — When a high school senior signs a college letter of intent for an athletic scholarship he becomes a professional in the eyes of the University Interscholastic League.

Thus a schoolboy athlete who engages in organized summer sports with such a college can lose his eligibility for one year.

"This is not a new ruling," Dr. Rhea Williams, league director, said Tuesday in a telephone interview. "It is just getting more attention this year."

"If a boy has signed a letter of intent with a school that gives him an education in return for room, board, tuition and books, then he is a professional."

"Our definition of what is an amateur may be more stringent than other organizations. Most of the other state high school associations have pretty stringent rules. Ours are as stringent as any of them."

The rules on professionalism are made by the state's superintendents of schools, Williams said.

New attention was focused on the rule when a person from Abilene inquired about it last month, he said. "I don't remember who it was," he added.

Williams said he knows of no one who has been declared ineligible under this rule.

"We on the state level usually don't handle that," he said. "Suspensions are done by the district committees."

Because of the rule, college coaches in Texas might have to change their recruiting procedures.

Turbos Won't Be Banned By Club

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — U.S. Auto Club directors rejected Tuesday a move to ban turbine engines from racing and recommended bringing them into the "mainstream of automotive development."

The directors voted to — Have a special committee evaluate all USAC championship engine formulas, with the possibility of reducing or adjusting all engine sizes for 1969.

— Permit no turbine engines for competition in 1970 unless an automotive type suitable for passenger car use is available.

— Eliminate four-wheel drive by Jan. 1, 1970.

The special committee is to prepare its report on engine sizes by July 23 if possible or by the directors' September meeting.

Any change would cover the turbine engines of STP Corp. President Andy Granatelli and turbocharged piston engines like the one Bobby Unser won the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30.

Granatelli, whose turbines lost a third of their power by new UAC limits this year, still set a 500 qualifying record last month. But he said any further reduction would eliminate his turbines from competition with the turbocharged Offenhauser and Ford engines now used on the USAC circuit.

Bad Weather Putting Big Strain On Professionals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Garden City, N.Y., claimed Monday's honors by knocking out Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2. That was the tournament's first upset of a pro by an amateur.

Pilic, a semi-finalist at last year's Wimbledon, was the No. 16 seed.

The two top seeds in the women's singles—both professionals—got off the mark with victories. Defending champion Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., downed U.S. Wightman Cupper Peaches Bartkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., 7-5, 6-4. Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain, last year's defeated finalist, overcame Kathy Harter of Seal Beach, Calif., 6-0, 4-6, 6-4.

After two days hit heavily by rain, 14 of the 64 scheduled matches in the first round of the men's singles still hadn't been started.

Tournament referee Mike Gibson, said: "It's the older pros like Pancho Gonzales and Lew Hoad I feel sorry for."

"Normally we space out the singles matches so that players get a day's rest between rounds. But because the weather has interfered so much with the program, we shall not be able to avoid asking them to play on consecutive days."

Gonzales, 40, from Los Angeles, is competing in the All-England tournament for the first time since he turned pro 19 years ago. He won his first round match Tuesday, defeating Ramanathan Krishnan of India 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

Hoad, 33-year-old Australian who turned pro after winning Wimbledon in 1957, defeated another Indian, Jaidip Mukerjee, in three straight sets Monday.

A Help In A Hurry

Bobby Bonds, left, just called up to the San Francisco Giants Tuesday, hit a grand-slam home run on his first day as a major leaguer to help pitcher Ray Sadecki, right, to a 9-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Bonds had not even unpacked his bag before his first game. It was the first time since 1958 that a rookie had hit a grand slam home run in his first game.

Bobby Bonds Makes Sensational Debut

By The Associated Press

For 70 long summers Frosty Bill Duggeby had a secluded corner of baseball's cluttered hall of records all to himself.

Then, a young Giant born two years after Frosty Bill's passing crashed the oldtimer's heretofore private domain with one swing of the bat.

Bobby Bonds, a 22-year-old outfielder called up by San Francisco Monday from the Pacific Coast League, became the first modern-era player to hit a bases-loaded home in his first major league game when he connected during the Giants' 9-0 romp over Los Angeles Tuesday night.

The sixth inning grand slam—Bonds' first hit in the majors—matched a feat achieved just once before... by Duggeby, a

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

CHICAGO — Shell Oil Co., which focuses attention on the claim that its gasoline will shoot you a little farther along the salt flats than the opponents' brands, hosted a group of writers from Texas and other Southern states here earlier this week.

The occasion was the TV filming of the final segment of "Shell's Wonderful World of Golf" over the spacious acres of Medinah Country Club.

Medinah is the type of exclusive club where President Johnson would probably have to have a security check before getting in.

The club was organized in 1923 by a group of Shriners. R. G. Schmid, architect of the clubhouse, visited Asia to study and secure the design of the structure. The building is one of the few examples of Byzantine architecture in the nation.

Medinah, where the No. 3 course is referred to as "The Monster," hosted the Western Open in 1962 (Jacky Capil was the winner then) and the '66 Western (won by Billy Casper).

It took an hour and a half to make the trip from Dallas to O'Hare Airport in Chicago and two hours to take a bus from a downtown Loop hotel to the Medinah course — late afternoon traffic in Chicago being what it is. That segment of the trip extended 22 miles.

Format of the TV series has been changed by producer Fred Raphael. Now, the players (usually a non-American against a Yank) pay toward a grand championship, with $20,000 going to the first place winner.

Frank Beard, the Texas-born youth who now resides in Louisville, reached the finals in this one. That wasn't too surprising. The big shocker was in seeing Filipino Ben Arda in against Beard. Arda, a little fellow who makes even Chico Rodriguez look big, defeated Roberto DeVicenzo and Dan Sikes to make it to the last round and the outcome probably astonished Arda more than anyone. He just doesn't have the booming tee game to compete against the American giants.

The outcome of the Beard-Arda match, of course, will remain a secret until the series is brought out of the mothballs and screened over NBC starting in January.

Rain intervened with the match one day and everyone in the Chicago party was chafing about it.

Arnold Palmer was present to help with part of the commentary and he had to cancel a lot of plans later in the week to remain over for the shooting.

Palmer was quoted here recently that every golfer — no matter how outstanding — had a club he didn't particularly like to use.

When asked about it Tuesday, Palmer had to think a long time before he decided the wedge gave him more woe than any other club. Those who have seen him play, however, might take issue. He'll use the club with authority if he has to.

Shell's golf crew has streamlined its operation to the extent that it can now film an 18-hole match in 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 hours, whereas before it required three or four days. Including the men who appear in front of the cameras (usually Jimmy Demaret and Gene Sarazen, the commentators), a team of about 40 people are a part of the filming company. Eight thousand pounds of film equipment, including eight cameras, are required.

The crews include two Hollywood greensmen who must camouflage the platforms and vehicles carrying the cameras. Also traveling with the group is an accountant who makes sure all bills are paid before the crew leaves the country in which it is filming.

In all, Shell offers $164,000 in prizes to its golfers, with the losers dropping by the wayside. Because of the format change the series have ceased to become exhibitions.

Th matches have been filmed in monsoons, typhoons, wind storms, rain and, once in Banff, Canada, in a snow storm. It couldn't buck Chicago's dismal weather Tuesday, however.

The one bad aspect of the shooting is the fact that it starts so early in the morning. The writers who followed the matches had to fall out of bed at 4 a.m. to be at the course by 6:30. A freeloading scribe who likes to do a strange town finds that schedule a little hard to meet. But meet it most of them did.

Frank Howard Is Selected As All-Star

NEW YORK (AP) — Slugging outfielder Frank Howard of the Washington Senators, the American League's home run and runs batted in leader, was named to the circuit's All-Star team for the first time and third baseman Brooks Robinson made it for the ninth consecutive year, it was announced today.

Others chosen to start against the National League in the July 9 All-Star baseball game in Houston were outfielder Carl Yastrzemski of Boston, catcher Bill Freehan and outfielder Willie Horton of Detroit, first baseman Harmon Killebrew and second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota and shortstop Jim Fregosi of California.

Robinson, Freehan, Killebrew, Carew and Yastrzemski all started last year when the AL dropped a 2-1 decision, extending the circuit's losing streak in the mid-season classic to five games. The National League leads in the series, 20 to 17 wins-one tie.

Outfielders Tony Oliva of Minnesota and Tony Conigliaro of Boston and shortstop Rico Petricelli of the Red Sox were the other AL starters in 1967.

Freehan led the balloting by league players this year, accumulating 248 votes. The Tigers' backstop is batting .260.

Yastrzemski, hitting .321, was next with 246 votes followed by Howard with 238, Horton 193 and Carew, 184.

The closest competition for a starting position was at first base where Killebrew collected 116 votes and Boog Powell of Baltimore drew 106. Killebrew has 12 homers and 32 runs batted in, but is way down the batting list with a .216 average. Powell has a .255 batting mark with 11 homers and four RBI.

Howard had a .298 average with 24 homers and 53 RBI through Monday's games. He is in his fourth season with the Senators after five years in the National League with the Los Angeles Dodgers. He was never chosen to the NL All-Star squad.

Braves Tame Wildcats, 9-3

The Braves tamed the Wildcats 9-3 in a National Minor League game Monday. Ricky Smith and Ken Froman led the 11-hit attack of the Braves, each having a perfect 3-3 night at the plate. Jim Zapp had two for three.

Mike Dennis, winning pitcher, scattered the six Wildcat hits so that none got more than one safety. Jackson was charged with the loss. The Braves are 10-7 and the Wildcats 7-10.

Cardinals Near Lead In League

The Cardinals moved within one game of the pace-setting Lions in National Little League standings by defeating the front-runners, 21-9.

The Rob Birds are now 11-6 in the standings while the Lions boast a 12-5 mark.

Bruce and Corky Buchell divided time on the mound for the winners, with Burchell getting credit for the win.

The win was the seventh straight for the Cards, who meet the Lions again in a make-up game Friday night.

Abbe had six hits in many trips for the Cards, including one double. Jimmy Stewart, clubbed two doubles and a single.

Francis Johns had three of the Catholics' seven hits. Jimmy Montgomery smashed a bases-loaded home run for Berea.

Thelbert Camp and Johnny Anderson collected two hits each for Forsan Baptist while Bob Mickler drove out a round tripper for Salem.

BULLETPROOF ARMOR, GLASS

Sirhan's Safety Shield

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Sirhan will sit behind a shield of bulletproof armor plate and glass if he is tried as expected in Los Angeles on a charge of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

He will be led to the courtroom from a cell through a sealed passageway whose windows will be covered by heavy steel plates.

The County Board of Supervisors decided Tuesday to authorize unlimited expenditures to assure the safety of the 24-year-old Jordanian, accused of shooting Kennedy June 5.

The cost of the protective equipment was estimated at $20,000 — $1,500 for work on the passageway and the rest for "armor plate, armor glass, steel plate and wire netting in the courtroom."

Several threats have been made on the life of Sirhan as well as his lawyer and others connected with the case.

The accused was expected to enter his plea Friday on the ninth floor of the Hall of Justice, a floor above the courtroom where he probably will be tried.

But the plan was canceled because of security measures were not ready.

A precise description of the security devices was not made public, at the request of Superior Court Judge Donald R. Wright. But Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said that the shield could be large enough to protect not only Sirhan but also the trial judge, attorneys and jury.

Instead of in the Hall of Justice, Sirhan may enter his plea Friday in the chapel of the new county jail, where he had been kept in a maximum security cell since the shooting.

Observers note, however, that his attorney, Russell E. Parsons, who took over the case from the public defender last week, may request more time to study the lengthy grand jury transcript, or there may be other reasons for delay.

Hahn said the county mechanical department will begin work on the bulletproof shield Friday.

Navajos To Mark Famous Long Walk

By HOWARD GRAVES

FORT SUMNER, N.M. (AP)

The peaceful unity of two nations will be celebrated Sunday at the site of an abandoned old fort.

An Army general and 150 to 200 Navajo Indians will sit down in a cottonfield and re-enact the signing of the Treaty of 1868. The peace treaty brought to an end captivity for an estimated 7,000 Navajos rounded up by the famed Col. Christopher (Kit) Carson.

The ceremony will include re-enactment of the famous "Long Walk" from old Ft. Sumner, in East Central New Mexico, back to the Navajo Reservation in Eastern Arizona.

This time the circumstances will be more pleasant and more comfortable for the Navajos—they'll ride the 354 miles from Window Rock, Ariz., present day Navajo capital, to the old adobe fort site in cars and pickup trucks.

The delegation of long-haired men, women and children will be attired in traditional costumes for Indians at the Redondo Reservation.

The entourage will leave Saturday and return home July 4. "The big thing nowadays," said Magin Link, Navajo centennial commemoration committee chairman, "is a protest march. The Navajos are marching not to Washington but to their symbolic home, Navajo land."

"We're too busy constructing and don't have time to destruct."

The best way to improve life is to build, not to burn."

Today there are an estimated 110,000 Navajos living on the reservation in parts of Arizona, New Mexico and Utah.

The peace treaty, which made the Navajos a sovereign nation within the continental U.S. boundaries, brought to an end a tragic, four-year period of suffering, hardship, deprivation and exile for the Indians in Redondo Reservation on the banks of the Pecos River.

Old Ft. Sumner was headquarters for the reservation, where tribal members were held captive.

The treaty was signed by 29 Navajo headmen and 10 U.S. Army officers June 1, 1868. It was ratified July 25, 1868, by the U.S. Senate and proclaimed Aug. 12 by President Andrew Johnson.

Among those who will be on hand for the ceremony will be longtime tribal council member Howard Gorman of Ganado, Ariz., a grandson of head Chief Barboncito, the first signer for the Navajos.

'Murder Contract' Reported On Gov. McKeithen's Life

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — State police Supt. Thomas D. Burbank says there will be new developments in three or four days on reports of a plot to assassinate Gov. John J. McKeithen for a $5,000 fee.

McKeithen and other high state officials confirmed Tuesday reports of a "murder contract" put out for McKeithen in connection with the state's probe into labor-management racketeering.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas McFerrin, chief counsel for the rackets agency, said information came to him that someone "was searching for a contract on the governor's life."

The governor tried to play down the reports, but Burbank said they were more than the usual crank telephone calls.

Burbank put more security guards around the governor. He said two such threats were reported by the FBI in New Orleans.

"There have been two other threats other than the two reported by the FBI, and surveillance of persons is being conducted at this time," the state police commander added.

One report received by authorities was that McKeithen was to have been killed by an ex-convict from the state penitentiary at Angola while the governor was visiting Mobile, Ala.

The governor visited Mobile on June 10 for a meeting of the interstate oil Compact Commission, but no incidents occurred there.

Asked if the ex-convict was from Mobile, Burbank said, "You're close, but I don't want to say anything else about it."

The FBI in New Orleans confirmed that it passed on to state authorities reports of threats on the governor's life.

McKeithen's labor-management rackets agency, after a year of investigation and public hearings, has begun a crackdown. It has arrested several figures in the labor field at Baton Rouge.

"We're about to back those people against the wall," the governor said.

After confirming he had received reports of an assassination plot, McKeithen went before the Louisiana Senate Finance Committee and pledged "sensational developments in a short time" by the labor rackets agency.

"We are trying to rid ourselves of extortion and violence in the labor-management area," he said. "We hope in a very short time to bring this thing to a head."

Adding that public hearings have almost come to a close, said the governor said, "We're down to the nitty gritty." Despite what Burbank said about his security, the governor said that he is taking no extra precautions. "Two times zero is zero and we have," McKeithen said.

Follis Found Not Guilty

It took a district court jury of four women and eight men two hours Tuesday to decide that Carol Wayne Follis was not guilty of burglary and that the state had failed to show that he was the man who burglarized Big Spring High School last December.

The case has been on trial since Monday in 118th District Court. The state was attempting to convict Follis as an habitual criminal.

He was defended by Lanny Hamby Wayne Burns, district attorney, prosecuted the case.

The jury decided that the fingerprint evidence in the case, which was the principal issue in the state's allegation of Follis' part in the high school burglary, was insufficient to support a verdict of guilty.

The jurors began deliberating the case at 3:20 p.m. At 5:20 p.m. they reported the verdict to Judge Ralph Caton.

Today the court began trial of another burglary case. The defendant this time is Roy Broadwell. The state is seeking to convict Broadwell as a repeater offender.
