Tuition may increase

■ Texas Higher Education Board recommends raising senior public university tuition to $32 per hour and community junior college tuition to a minimum of $16 per semester hour.

Associated Press

AUSTIN (AP) — Higher education officials Friday recommended raising tuition at public colleges and universities.

But the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board rejected a plan by State Comptroller John Sharp to reduce state funding of colleges and universities to offset some of the revenue produced by the tuition hike.

Sharp defended his plan, and added that higher education officials miscalculated budget figures when they said his proposals would cut nearly $700 million and force the closing of some schools.

"You're not going to believe this," he told reporters. "They were working from the wrong numbers."

"In the 'old Texas' you might have said this was deceitful. In the 'New Texas,' it's an honest mistake," he said.

But Hans Mark, chancellor of the University of Texas system, stood by the figures touted by higher education representatives. "I belong to the new Texas. The mistake is not a mistake. It's a difference of opinion of where you start from."

Sharp said that under his proposals, higher education would receive a 4 percent, or $116 million funding increase.

Sharp's proposal would reduce state funding of higher education in relation to the tuition increase.

House swallowed

FROSTPROOF, Fla. — A giant sinkhole swallowed a house Friday and nearly trapped an elderly woman inside. Pauline Bennett, 71, was awakened by popping noises in her attic. At first she thought they were made by someone trying to break in. By the time help arrived, the house already had begun to crack and sink and Bennett fled out a rear door. The sinkhole, 150 feet across and 60 feet deep, destroyed her house.

Nun killed

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — A purse snatcher ran over and killed a nun he had just robbed Friday, then went to a friend's house and hanged himself, police said. Sister Veronica Turzak, 68, was delivering groceries to her father when the man stole her purse in a parking lot and fled in a car, Sgt. Michael Metz said. The woman was hit head-on while chasing the thief. She suffered head and chest injuries, and died at a hospital. The driver, who was not identified, went to a friend's house, told him the police were after him, then went to the garage and hung himself, Metz said.

Powell's proud

HOUSTON — Gen. Colin Powell says he is proud of the disproportionate number of minorities in the military because it serves as an example to business and unions to provide more opportunity for them. The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff made his comments Thursday at the NAACP's 82nd annual convention, where he received the Spingarn Medal, the civil rights group's highest honor. "I never apologize to anyone when we're accused of having a disproportionate number of minorities who seek military careers. If you don't want disproportionate numbers in the military, then go tell business. Go tell unions ... to provide those types of opportunities."

Greg Scarpetta and Sandra Abila, employees of the Dynagen petrochemical plant, helped coordinate a company-wide food drive to benefit the Permian Basin Food Bank. Scarpetta is holding a certificate which expresses the Food Bank's appreciation of Dynagen's commitment to help feed the poor and hungry of West Texas.

Dynagen makes contribution

■ Dynagen donates 3,000 pounds of canned and dried food to Permian Basin Food Bank and challenges other companies to help food drive.

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Dynagen joined its employees in donating 3,000 pounds of canned and dried food to the Permian Basin Food Bank on Friday to make the petrochemical company Odessa's first major industry "to really get involved" in an employee-company match food drive.

The food bank supplies food to 180 West Texas charities which, in turn, provide food in the form of groceries and prepared meals to hungry individuals and families.

"There's a lot of hungry people out there," said Dolly Neff, the food bank's executive director who was particularly grateful for Dynagen's donation in the summertime when the Food Bank's inventories are low.

At mid-year, children are at home rather than in school where many (40 percent in 17 counties) qualify for free school lunches.

"There's a lot more food needed in the summertime because of these kids being home," Mrs. Neff said.

Many people are "not thinking about other people being hungry," she said.

The food bank, which was established here in 1985, carries out food drives year-round but particularly in "the fall when we all are thinking about the Thanksgiving turkey,"

Women sue local schools

■ Midlanders sue MISD, GISD because both districts refused to let them attend school.

By David Morris
Staff Writer

Two Midland women who say they were denied admittance to the Midland and Greenwood school systems because they didn't live with their parents have sued the school districts in federal court.

Cherie White and Jennifer Guthrie, both 18, filed the lawsuit Friday, claiming that school officials violated their civil rights.

According to the lawsuit, the women were living and working in Midland in August 1990 when they attempted to enroll as seniors at Lee High School.

Don Mason, an assistant principal at the school, "forced (Ms. White and Ms. Guthrie) to involuntarily withdraw from the school despite his knowledge that plaintiffs were gainfully employed ... and residents of Midland Independent School District," the lawsuit states.

MISD administrators told Ms. White and Ms. Guthrie, both then 17, that "they had no legal right to live independently of their parents and it was a policy that they could not attend school in the Midland district," according to the lawsuit.

Ms. White and Ms. Guthrie, whose parents live in Greenwood, subsequently tried to enroll in the Greenwood Independent School District. But Greenwood High School Principal Bob Phiel told them "they had no right to attend school in the Greenwood district because they were not living with their parents," the lawsuit states.

GISD Superintendent Quentin Burnett said the lawsuit was "frivolous."

"For starters, they've never even pursued a complaint under our local district

Pennzoil Co. to cut gas production

■ Producers blame cuts on 15-year low in gas prices.

Associated Press

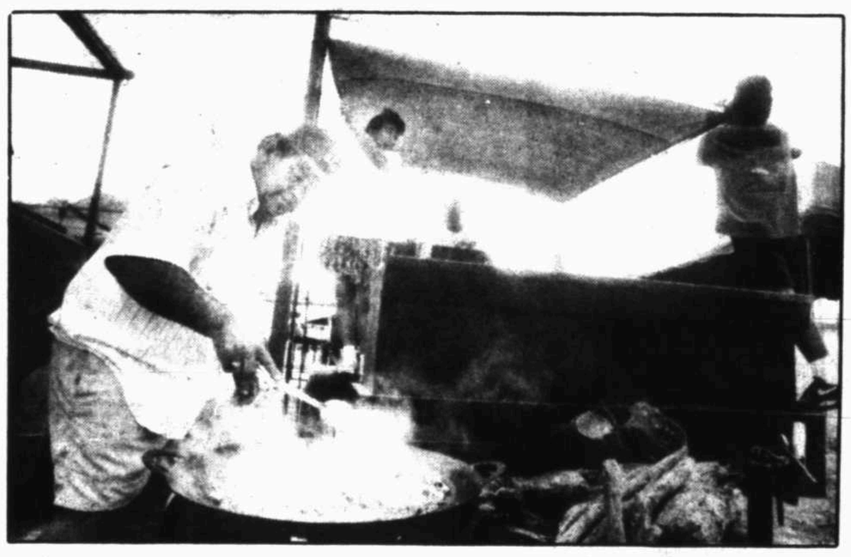

HOUSTON — The plummeting price of natural gas, now at a 15-year low, is forcing many of its producers to take cautionary measures, industry spokespersons said Friday.

Pennzoil Co. became the latest player Thursday when it announced plans to cut down a third of its annual natural gas production, about 50 billion cubic feet, rather than sell it at deflated market prices.

"We don't want to sell it at such a deep discounted price," Pennzoil spokesman Robert Harper said. "You're certainly not going to make much money at today's prices."

Harper said Pennzoil was not selling its natural gas at a loss, but the company felt it was not making a substantial enough profit to continue full-scale

Rain leaves many local motorists stranded

Staff Report

Heavy rains left Midland motorists stranded in flooded streets Friday afternoon and evening, and National Weather Service forecasters were calling for a 50 percent chance of rain in Midland today.

Midland Police Department Officer Donnie Dove said officers had responded to "quite a few stranded motorist reports up and down Wadley" Avenue.

Other trouble spots were the north service road of Highway 80 near Midland Drive, where flood markers indicated up to four feet of water covering the road, and along Andrews Highway.

Wet pavement was a contributing cause in several car accidents Friday afternoon and evening, Dove said, but most of the crashes were minor and none resulted in serious injuries.

The rain — 1.01 inches fell between 6 p.m. Thursday and 6 p.m. Friday — was the result of a tropical depression from the Gulf of Mexico that moved

Minister resigns after admitting he had affairs

RICHARDSON, Texas (AP) — A minister who resigned after admitting several adulterous relationships should stay out of the pulpit until he proves he's ready to practice what he preaches, a Southern Baptist leader said Friday.

Gilyard

Darrell Gilyard's once-rising star within Southern Baptist circles came crashing down this week, leaving yet another evangelist whose message was tainted by adultery.

Gilyard, a frequent guest on Jerry Falwell's weekly evangelical television program, has been described by several prominent ministers as one of the nation's most gifted religious orators.

But the 29-year-old preacher's future darkened when he announced his resignation during a midweek meeting at the Victory Baptist Church, one of the few integrated congregations within the mostly white Southern Baptist Convention.

"I offer you my resignation immediately without option," said Gilyard, as quoted by The Dallas Morning News. "The only reason I stand before you now is because my love for this book supersedes my will."

Gilyard did not return messages left at his home Friday by The Associated Press.

Although Gilyard did not mention his reasons for leaving his church, a longtime supporter and friend, Dr. Paige Patterson, said Friday that Gilyard admitted having several adulterous affairs with women he was counseling.

Falwell said in statement released Friday that he has not spoken with Gilyard since his resignation.

"I am always deeply saddened to hear such allegations against any servant of God whether true or false," Falwell said. "The whole cause of Christ is always injured.

"Rev. Gilyard is the most gifted young preacher I know today and God has greatly used his message throughout this country."

Southern Baptist Convention officials said Gilyard was pressured to resign because of mounting complaints that he had behaved inappropriately toward women in both his own church and at least three other congregations.

'I offer you my resignation immediately without option. The only reason I stand before you now is because my love for this book supersedes my will.'

— The Rev. Darrell Gilyard

Patterson, president of Criswell College and Gilyard's former teacher, said the complaints prompted an investigation.

"He has resigned from Victory Baptist Church, but I have been told by some that he may be having second thoughts about that," Patterson said. "Apparently some members of the church may want him to stay on."

But Patterson said it would be best for Gilyard, who is black, and the church if Gilyard does not return.

"Darrell needs counseling to try to gain restoration with God and his family," Patterson said. "I think it is inappropriate for a person who has had this type of thing happen to him to be in the pastorate.

"Naturally, there comes a period of time that man has to prove himself again. Darrell has to demonstrate that he is actually living the kind of life that he preaches about."

When allegations of sexual misconduct cropped up against Gilyard four years ago. Patterson said he counseled the young minister, who is married. Patterson said he advised Gilyard to avoid meeting alone with women and to avoid lengthy personal counseling sessions that might breed gossip.

Although Gilyard did not heed Patterson's warning, he said Gilyard can still recover from his indiscretions.

"Darrell could have quite a testimony. As tragic as it is, it does not have to have a tragic ending," Patterson said.

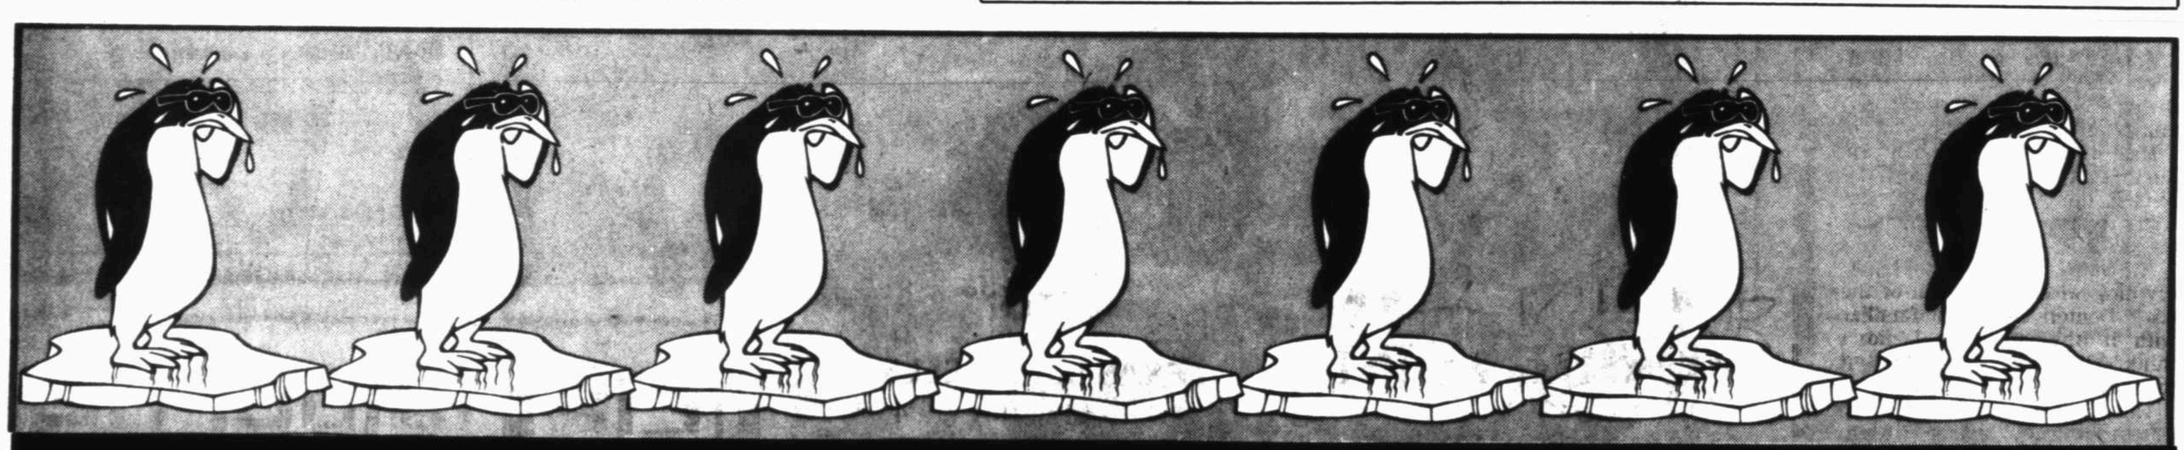

Corps contest

policies," he said. "They ought to at least exhaust the remedies that we have in place first."

Burnett added that GISD will allow students who do not live with their parents to enroll under certain circumstances.

Meanwhile, MISD Assistant Superintendent Bill Denton defended the Midland school district's treatment of Ms. White and Ms. Guthrie.

"Of course, we think we did everything within the realm of the law," Denton said. "I'm familiar with it (the situation). I didn't think it they were going to bring it to a lawsuit."

The women, represented by Odessa attorney Melissa Hirsch, are seeking damages totaling $1 million, plus $1,000 a day for each day they are not allowed to attend school in either district.

They are also asking that the school district policies that prevented their enrollment be declared unlawful.

Offshore quake hits northwest

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A strong offshore earthquake rocked the Pacific Northwest Friday, shaking cities far inland. There were no immediate reports of injuries or damage.

The quake registered 6.6 on the Richter scale and was centered about 70 miles off the coast, said Paul Whitmore, a geophysicist at the Tsunami Warning Center in Palmer, Alaska.

It struck at 7:50 p.m. The epicenter about 120 miles northwest of Eureka, Calif., he said.

"We would call it a major earthquake," Whitmore said, but added "the effect dies down fairly rapidly as you move inland."

Reports indicated it could be felt as far inland as Eugene to the north and Sacramento, Calif., to the south.

There were no reports of any injuries or damage in the five southernmost Oregon counties covered by the Oregon State Police office in Medford.

WEATHER SUMMARY

RAIN: Storm may continue

(From 1A)

inland about three days ago and reached southeast New Mexico on Friday, NWS Meteorologist Brian Francis said.

The upper-level low that accompanied the storm promises to bring more rain today, Francis said.

The forecast for today calls for cloudy skies and a 50 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. The high should be in the mid-80s, with winds from the east and southeast at 10 to 20 mph.

Tonight promises to remain cloudy, with a continued 50 percent chance of showers and a low in the upper 60s.

Sunday will be mostly cloudy, with a 30 percent chance of showers and a high in the upper 80s.

The high Friday was a relatively cool 84 degrees, compared to the record for the date of 104 set in 1933. The low Friday was 67. The record low for today's date is 49, set in 1936.

STATE

It was partly cloudy and hot across North Texas on Friday, while there were showers and thunderstorms in South and West Texas. A flash flood watch was issued for the southwest Panhandle Friday night.

High temperatures climbed mostly into the 90s, with readings feeling warmer in East Texas because of higher humidity. Peak readings ranged from 70 degrees at Lubbock to 100 degrees at Wichita Falls.

A weak surface trough of low pressure extended from northeast to southwest across Oklahoma and West Texas. This maintained winds generally from the south at 5 to 15 miles an hour with gusts just over 20 mph at times.

The forecast was for partly cloudy skies over the weekend with a possibility of scattered thunderstorms across most portions of Texas. High temperatures were expected in the 90s and lows in the 70s.

NATION

Rain extended from the northern Plains to the Middle Atlantic States and south into the Southeast on Friday, and rain also spread from Texas into the central Plains.

At midday, showers and thunderstorms extended over eastern North Dakota, northern Minnesota, eastern Wisconsin, western Upper Michigan, Lower Michigan, eastern Indiana, Ohio, southwestern Pennsylvania, northwestern West Virginia, western Virginia, northwestern through south-central North Carolina, north-central South Carolina, southern Georgia, Florida and south-central Alabama.

Heavier rainfall during the six hours up to 2 p.m. EDT was 2.93 inches at Jacksonville, Fla. That brought the two-day total for parts of the city to 6 inches, the National Weather Service said.

Rain and thunderstorms also extended from the central Texas Gulf Coast and Big Bend regions over northwestern Texas, southeastern New Mexico, southern and central Kansas, west-central Missouri, northeastern Colorado and west-central Nebraska.

Levels of rivers and streams in northeastern Missouri were generally falling Friday after recent locally heavy rain, the weather service said.

The Associated Press also contributed to this report.

LOCAL/AREA REPORTS

Arrest warrants

Staff Reports

SAN ANTONIO — Authorities Friday arrested a man in connection with the June 29 robbery of Midland's Sam L. Majors Jewelers, Bexar County Jail officials confirmed.

Raymond Garcia Jr., 20, was being held on aggravated robbery charges in lieu of a $100,000 bond, officials said.

He had been wanted in connection with an armed robbery last month in Midland in which three men stole an undisclosed quantity of watches and other merchandise from the Majors store at 18 Oak Ridge Square.

Midland Police Department Detective Sgt. B.G. Johnson said authorities on Thursday night issued arrest warrants for Garcia and another San Antonio man wanted in connection with the robbery, 21-year-old Samuel Delarosa.

Police issued the warrants after local robbery witnesses identified Delarosa and Garcia from mug shots, Johnson said.

Police traced had traced the men to San Antonio based on a description of their getaway vehicle, a 1985 red BMW registered in that city.

Johnson also said San Antonio police on Thursday recovered five watches stolen in the June 29 heist.

Police found the watches at a pawn shop, Johnson said.

He said Midland and San Antonio police have been cooperating in an attempt to find the robbers.

Alleged drug buy

Four men arrested for allegedly attempting to buy 106 pounds of marijuana from undercover agents in Odessa were afforded an initial appearance before a U.S. Magistrate in Midland on Friday.

The men, 46-year-old Juan Dios Barberis and 36-year-old Frank Miguel Saldarriaga, both of Miami, and 33-year-old Rojerio Segura Gonzales and 41-year-old Jesus Jose Maraz, both of Odessa, are being held without bond at the Midland County jail. They have been scheduled for a detention hearing July 16 before U.S. Magistrate Robert R. Sykes.

Three of the men are not U.S. citizens, court records show. Barberis was born in Havana, Cuba; Saldarriaga was born in Medellin, Colombia; and Maraz was born in Chihuahua, Mexico. No birthplace was listed for Gonzales.

According to reports, the men met with undercover Department of Public Safety investigators on Monday in Odessa and agreed to purchase 106 pounds of marijuana for $50,000.

Fatality

FORT STOCKTON — The driver of a tractor-trailer westbound on Interstate 10 fell asleep at the wheel Friday and died in the resulting crash, the Department of Public Safety reported.

Johnny R. Sprouse, 39, of Monahans, was pronounced dead at 8:25 a.m. Friday. According to reports, he was driving west on I-10 at mile marker 238 around 7:20 a.m. when he apparently fell asleep.

The truck veered onto the median, and then Sprouse overcorrected, causing the truck's load to shift and the rig to skid sideways and overturn three times, reports indicate.

Sprouse was not wearing a safety belt, DPS reports show.

Drug charge

A Midland man was in Midland County jail Friday night on $10,000 bond following his arrest Friday morning for possession of crack cocaine, according to Midland Police Department reports.

Police arrested Charles Richard Wooden, 30, around 1:20 a.m. after reportedly finding a single rock of crack and $11 in cash in his car, which was parked in the 700 block of North Lincoln Avenue.

FOOD: Dynagen makes donation

(From 1A)

Mrs. Neff said.

Odessa Mayor Lorraine Bonner, who observed the transfer of food from Dynagen to the food bank truck Friday afternoon, noted that Dynagen is one of Odessa's "significant" corporate citizens.

"We are very proud to have them doing business in Odessa," the mayor said. "And they want to share their success and prosperity with those in need in the community."

Dynagen, which employs 250 workers in producing synthetic rubber for General Tire & Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio, funds a $10 million annual payroll.

The Dynagen food drive, which was launched more than a month ago by Dynagen employees Greg Scarpetta and Sandra Abila, was "desperately needed," Ms. Bonner said.

Members of the Dynagen labor union, the United Rubber Workers, supported the food drive. "If the company is doing something, and the union is not endorsing it," said Freddie Sanchez, union president, "it's not going to happen." In the Dynagen food-drive case, the employees launched the drive, and the company supported their efforts.

Since Dynagen was Odessa's "first major industry" to hold an employee-company food drive to benefit the Permian Basin Food Bank, the mayor issued a "challenge" to other companies to support the Food Bank.

Major Midland companies have launched food drives to benefit the food bank.

Much of the Food Bank's donated food comes from grocery stores, churches and other groups, businesses, individuals, and Second Harvest, a nationwide network which seeks out food-industry food to supply the 200 Food Banks across the nation. There are 19 in Texas.

"We would like to challenge other industries in the area to meet this challenge that Dynagen has started in the community," the mayor said. "It is a vital need in these hard economic times" in the Permian Basin.

Richard Calzada, Food Bank board president, invited more individuals and businesses to help in the Food Bank's year-round food drives.

"We are always in need of canned goods," Calzada said. "That's our staple."

Tim Gorman, Dynagen plant manager, issued a "challenge" to Rexene Products Co. and Shell Oil Co. in the Odessa petrochemical complex to "join in the Permian Basin food drive.

"It's good for the community," Gorman said.

The food bank "serves a big human need" which sometimes goes "unidentified and gets overlooked — the hungry and the needy people who don't have a job" in order to buy groceries, he said.

America is a "great nation," Gorman said, and "really, no one should go hungry in our country. We're the greatest industrialized nation in the world."

Los Angeles chief says he will resign only if term limit on ballot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The mayor and two city councilmen said Friday that embattled police Chief Daryl F. Gates intends to resign by year's end, but the chief insisted he would only leave by that time under specific terms.

In a confusing day of bicoastal posturing, Gates said from North Carolina that he may resign if a measure limiting the chief's tenure to 10 years goes on the ballot.

"I think there's going to be an effort to get that on the ballot and once that's on the ballot then I may feel that it may be time to announce a date of resignation, but it's got to go on the ballot first," Gates told reporters after addressing an anti-drug conference in Winston-Salem, N.C.

The term limit was a key recommendation of an independent panel's highly critical report on the Police Department and served as the basis for the suggestion that Gates, 64, now take steps to retire after 13 years as chief. Currently the chief has civil service protection and it is difficult to remove him.

The panel was formed to investigate the Police Department in the aftermath of the March 3 videotaped police beating of black motorist Rodney King.

Gates' statements Friday appeared at odds with those of two councilmen. The councilmen said in Los Angeles that they had met with Gates and their impression was that, even if the term limit initiative fails to pass, a new chief would be found and would replace Gates.

"At approximately the end of the year, Chief Gates will pass the mantle to a new chief," Councilman Joel Wachs said at a news conference with City Council President John Ferraro.

They said they would work to get the council to approve a special election by November or December to consider the term-limit initiative. The measure must go to the voters because it would change the City Charter.

Mayor Tom Bradley also said he believes the chief has decided to leave, and that the city's personnel department would announce a search for a new chief in four to six weeks.

"I think the people of this city have won," said Bradley. "We are in a position now where the serious division fallowing the Rodney King beating can now be healed. We can bring about the peace and harmony the city deserves."

COLLEGES: Tuition may be increasing

(From 1A)

The board recommended that the Legislature raise tuition from $20 per semester hour to $32 per hour for resident students at senior public universities.

At community junior colleges, tuition for resident students would be set at a minimum of $16 per semester hour instead of the current charge that ranges from $4 per semester hour to $16.

The new rates would increase revenues by $73.4 million, and financial assistance funds by $36.1 million, officials said.

Lawmakers return Monday to grapple with an estimated $4.8 billion revenue shortfall for the 1992-93 budget period, and one of the big-money targets is higher education.

Harry Reasoner of Houston, chairman of the higher education board, said Sharp's plan would worsen the state's 49th national ranking in spending per student.

"We are badly under funded," he said. "Continued under funding will leave us with a sick system that is ever weakening."

"These are our schools where we educate our children. The rest of the nation is competing; we are 49th," he said.

In a unanimous vote, the board stated it wanted revenue raised from tuition increases to return to higher education for improving schools and increasing grants to low- and middle-income students.

"That's got to be emphasized," said board member Jess Ben Latham III of Amarillo. "I don't know how much clearer we can state our intent."

If enacted, Texas would rank 43rd in the nation in the cost of public higher education, officials said.

The tuition increase would take effect in the fall of 1992.

The board also unveiled a contingency plan to eliminate degree programs, limit enrollment and merge or close some institutions in response to possible budget reductions.

But Sharp said the contingency plan is based on inaccurate budget figures.

GAS: Company to decrease its production production.

(From 1A)

He said he would not predict at what price Pennzoil would resume maximum production levels.

Gas prices have sharply declined because of three consecutive warm winters and a glut of fuel. Prices for spot sales entered this month about $1.18 per thousand cubic feet, a 42-cent drop from first quarter prices, Harper said.

Other oil and gas companies have shown similar effects from the depressed market, including staff layoffs, as well as product reductions.

Dallas-based Halliburton Co. spokesman Guy T. Marcus said there was a direct link between the poor market and this week's announcement of its plans to cut 1,200 jobs.

"The principal trigger for this reduction has been disastrously low natural gas prices and reduced business activity in U.S. natural gas fields," Marcus said.

Halliburton reported its drilling activity was down about 12 percent in the second quarter compared to last year. In offshore areas, drilling was down 18 percent.

Eydie Pengelly, a spokeswoman for Shell Oil Co. of Houston, said 10 to 15 percent of its employees nationwide — about 4,600 people — will be laid off over the next 12-18 months.

Walsh probes high CIA officials

■ Independent counsel investigating whether officials knew about diversion of arms-sale funds.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Independent counsel Lawrence Walsh is investigating whether current high CIA officials, including operations director Tom Twetten, knew about the illegal diversion of Iran arms-sale money to Nicaraguan rebels, knowledgeable sources said Friday.

The deepening probe of CIA involvement in Iran-Contra churned the storm around Robert Gates, President Bush's nominee to head the agency, although no information has emerged publicly implicating him.

Bush on Friday made an impassioned defense of his nominee, telling reporters at his Maine vacation home that the Senate should get on with its confirmation hearings for Gates rather than get bogged down by information emerging from the Walsh probe.

The president said Gates must not be brought down by "rumor and insinuation," and he urged the Senate to begin confirmation hearings before the congressional summer recess begins Aug. 5.

Members of the Senate Intelligence Committee on Thursday delayed the start of the hearings while they try and determine how the new information fits with Gates' previous testimony that he didn't know of the diversion.

Alan D. Fiers, former CIA operations chief, has told Walsh's investigators as part of a plea agreement that several of Gates' subordinates as well as his immediate superior knew about the scheme.

Twetten, who now holds one of the most powerful jobs at the agency, testified in 1987 that he traveled to Europe three times with White House aide Oliver North to arrange weapons shipments to Iran. But in his deposition to congressional investigators he also said he didn't know North was siphoning off the profits to supply the Contra rebels.

"It never occurred to me that Colonel North was skimming something off," he said under oath.

It was not immediately known what led to renewed emphasis on Twetten by the Walsh investigation, although one non-governmental source said the information had emerged from North's testimony to Walsh's grand jury.

Twetten, who has spent most of his 29 years at the CIA under cover as a spy, assumed his current job Jan. 1. In the mid 1980s he served as deputy chief of Near East and South Asia operations, in effect acting as North's liaison with the agency.

Walsh is also pursuing information about at least two current agency officials as well as about the CIA's former operations chief, Claire George, said sources who are knowledgeable about the investigation.

All three men were named by Fiers, a former CIA official who admitted in a plea bargain this week that he knew about the diversion and told three of his superiors many months before the scandal erupted in November 1986.

According to a government statement agreed to by Fiers, he told Walsh's office that George had directed him to cover up from Congress his knowledge of North's secret resupply network for the Contras. The other two CIA officials are former Latin American division chiefs who still hold secret jobs and whose names are classified.

"Our investigation has now reached a point of significant breakthrough," said a statement by Walsh's office.

"There is no way in which the facts now under investigation as to the coverup in the CIA can be completed within a few days or a few weeks," he said in cautioning the Senate Intelligence Committee against actions that could jeopardize his probe.

Walsh aides are hoping to cut a deal with George in hopes that he will provide information about his former agency colleagues, said

CIA: Walsh's investigation reaching to current high officials one source familiar with the investigation.

(From 5A)

"But he can't give them Gates the way Fiers gave them George," said the source. Despite a long-standing personal enmity between George and Gates, said the source, "I really don't think Gates knew anything. That's just the way that place works."

Some sources have suggested Walsh was helped in securing Fiers' guilty plea through information contained in CIA tapes of phone conversations between the agency headquarters in suburban Washington and its stations in Central America.

The calls made on secure phones, recorded and transcribed under a system which George helped install, frequently related to the Contras, sources said Thursday.

But other sources familiar with the recording system and the investigation said the tapes were of limited value. Of far greater significance, said one source, are hundreds of coded cables and other classified information the agency has made available to Walsh.

"We have fully cooperated with the independent counsel since his investigation began four and a-half years ago, and will continue to do so," said CIA spokesman Mark Mansfield. He declined to discuss any aspect of the investigation.

A spokeswoman for Walsh, Mary Belcher, also declined to talk about the probe. "This office simply cannot talk about such matters," she said.

The deepening probe is sending waves of anxiety through the CIA, which was subjected to a broad internal review of its Iran-Contra role when William Webster assumed the directorship in 1987.

Webster, who retires this summer, was named to the post in 1987 after the death of William Casey who is widely believed to have masterminded the diversion scheme.

The review Webster ordered resulted in disciplinary actions against seven officials, some of whom were reprimanded and some dismissed, and in stricter guidelines for reporting to Congress on covert operations.

Quake rattles Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — A strong earthquake rumbled across Eastern Europe Friday, killing a Romanian youth and injuring at least 16 other people.

The quake, which measured 5.5 on the Richter scale, was centered near the western Romanian city of Timisoara and shook parts of southeastern Hungary, northwestern Bulgaria and Yugoslavia.

Dr. Matei Alexandru in Deta, near Timisoara, said the youth died instantly after a cafeteria collapsed when the quake struck at 1:43 p.m. (6:43 a.m. EDT).

Romanian state television said five people were injured in Timisoara and two others were hurt seriously in the town of Banloc, close to the Yugoslav border.

The doctor put the number of injured in Deta at 16, mainly with broken limbs and wounds from falling debris.

In Timisoara, six houses were destroyed and 125 damaged, Romanian TV said.

Yugoslavia's Tanjug news agency reported no damage, beyond cracked walls in the capital, Belgrade. The temblor sent many residents running from their homes.

The 10-second quake also was felt in the province of Vojvodina, north of Belgrade, and caused some panic in that province's city of Novi Sad, where residents fled tall buildings, Tanjug said. It also shook towns in Serbia.

Zoran Petrovic, an official of the seismological institute in the Yugoslav capital, Belgrade, said the epicenter of the quake was near Timisoara. Six aftershocks followed, he said.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by the ground motion recorded on a seismograph. Every increase of one number means that the ground motion is 10 times greater. A quake of magnitude 5 can cause considerable damage in populated areas.

China flood threat eases

BEIJING (AP) — Officials said Friday the water level has stopped rising in one of China's largest lakes, which had been in danger of overflowing into two major eastern Chinese cities.

However, the State Meteorology Bureau said moderate rain continued in the region, where heavy storms since late May have caused the worst flooding in a century and claimed more than 1,000 lives.

About 30,000 medical workers are distributing medicine and improving sanitation in the worst-hit areas, the state-run Xinhua News Agency said.

It said dead livestock and accumulated rubbish have polluted water supplies and created breeding areas for flies and mosquitoes. Disaster relief officials said that one-quarter of the residents of the flood-stricken areas have contracted dysentery, malaria or other diseases.

The government says 1,424 people have died this year in floods.

At least 2 million have been left homeless. Most of the deaths and damage have been in Anhui and Jiangsu provinces, densely populated rice-growing regions along the Yangtze River.

Huang Wenxian, an engineer at the Ministry of Water Resources, said the level of Taihu Lake, in southern Jiangsu province, had stopped rising as water flowed off via several channels blasted open for safety. The lake is one of China's biggest.

He said cities around the lake, including Suzhou and Wuxi, which have about 1 million residents each, remain flooded because rainwater has nowhere to drain.

Hong Kong residents, United Nations agencies and Japan, Britain, Australia and the United States have donated more than $1 million in relief.

Algerian army shoots Muslim

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Security forces opened fire to disperse hundreds of Muslim fundamentalists protesting outside a mosque Friday, killing one person. Eleven people, including three soldiers, were wounded.

The soldiers had been called in to keep order during weekly prayers at the mosque in Kouba, outside Algiers, a stronghold of the anti-government fundamentalists.

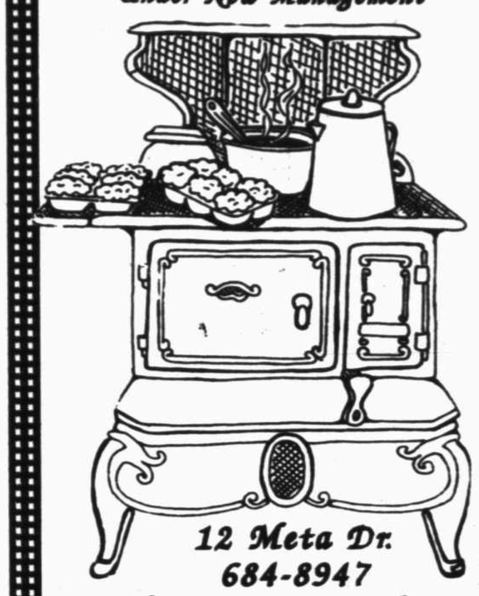

The Algerian capital had been calm for 10 days. More than 50 people have been killed and 5,800 arrested since early June, when a campaign by the radical Muslims turned violent.

U.N. envoy: End sanctions against Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — A special U.N. envoy said Friday he would recommend U.N. sanctions against Iraq be eased to allow Baghdad to buy essential food and medicine.

"Sanctions were not designed to make the people of Iraq suffer in the way they are suffering now," said Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan. "The problem needs to be addressed, and soon."

He told a news conference his team of investigators would propose that Iraq be allowed to use its own funds to buy the desperately needed supplies.

Members of the team told of poor hospital conditions and of families selling all their possessions to get food.

Sadruddin said the U.N. Sanctions Committee would decide on easing the sanctions. He said his team will make recommendations on how to ensure that Iraq would not spend the money to buy weapons.

The final report and conclusions will be issued in Geneva on Monday and are to be submitted to U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar.

There was no immediate comment from U.N. officials in New York.

Iraq has repeatedly asked the U.N. Sanctions Committee for permission to sell more than $1 billion worth of oil to buy essential goods. It also wants foreign governments to free Iraqi assets frozen after Saddam Hussein's troops invaded Kuwait last Aug. 2.

The Sanctions Committee, a subcommittee of the U.N. Security Council, has rejected the requests. It has, however, relaxed the worldwide embargo to allow Iraq to receive food and a broad range of humanitarian supplies, most of them donated by international institutions.

A number of Western leaders, including President Bush and British Prime Minister John Major, have said the sanctions should remain in place until Saddam is toppled.

Sadruddin also said Friday he had visited Iran's most senior Shiite spiritual leader, Grand Ayatollah Abdl-Qasem al-Khoei, in the Shiite city of Najaf, south of Baghdad. Iran says al-Khoei has been under house arrest since the spring.

Sadruddin said the 95-year-old imam was well but frail and told him that Iraqi authorities were giving him proper food and medicine. "He is obviously concerned about his family and followers," the envoy said.

Also Friday, the International Committee of the Red Cross, the main relief organization operating in Iraq, renewed its appeal for a relaxation of sanctions.

Dominique Dufour, head of the Red Cross delegation in Baghdad, said a U.N. go-ahead for Iraq to sell oil was "indispensable."

Dufour told The Associated Press it was "absolutely absurd" that Iraq was dependent on donations of food and medicine when it could support itself.

U.S. orders troops to leave north Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The announcement Friday of a final pullout of U.S. troops from northern Iraq comes at an opportune time for Saddam Hussein, who has brought top Kurdish leaders to Baghdad to discuss an autonomy pact.

The long-delayed autonomy agreement would relieve the Iraqi leader of his headaches in the north — including the U.S. troop presence — and allow him to focus on the scattered pockets of unrest in the Shiite south.

In addition, an agreement would lend weight to Saddam's efforts to rid Iraq of crippling U.N. trade sanctions by demonstrating that he is liberalizing his regime.

The Iraqi government had no immediate reaction to the announcement. But one official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said: "We're celebrating."

Hundreds of thousands of Kurds fled to neighboring Turkey and Iran after their failed rebellion. Under international pressure to prevent a slaughter, U.S. troops established a security zone for refugees in northern Iraq.

The final 1,400 troops were to be withdrawn by Monday, the Pentagon said.

Allied officials have been careful not to link their stay in northern Iraq with any agreement between the Kurds and the government.

But Brent Scowcroft, President Bush's national security adviser, said on Thursday that U.S. troops in northern Iraq will move to the Turkish border to form part of what Pentagon sources have described as a multinational brigade designed to ensure that Iraqi military forces don't attack the Kurdish population.

If Saddam achieves a pact with the Kurds, however, it could obviate the need for such a brigade in the long run.

Crash victims will be buried in holy city

JIDDAH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Mosque prayers on Friday honored the nearly 250 Nigerian Muslims killed in a fiery plane crash and plans began for burial in the holy city of Mecca.

Other arrangements were under way to return the bodies of the 14 crew to their homelands. The victims Thursday included 11 Canadians, a Briton, an Irish woman and a French citizen.

All aboard the chartered DC-8 were killed when it nose-dived to the tarmac and exploded after take-off from Jiddah's international airport. The pilot reported a fire and faulty landing gear just after leaving for Sokoto, Nigeria, with Muslims returning from the hajj, or pilgrimage to Islamic holy sites.

The exact number of victims remained unclear Friday.

The Saudi and Nigerian governments said 261 people were aboard. Officials at Nationair, the Montreal-based firm that owned the jet, said 250 passengers and 14 crew were aboard. The plane was chartered by the Nigerian-based Holdtrade company.

Why there was a discrepancy was not known.

There was no indication whether Saudi air authorities recovered flight data and cockpit voice recorders. Saudi officials were not in their offices Friday, the Muslim day of rest.

The Canadian Transportation Safety Board said Thursday it was sending four inspectors to the crash site.

African diplomats, speaking on condition of anonymity, said plans were under way to bury the Nigerians in Mecca, considered a high honor among Muslims. Saudi authorities allowed such burials in previous disasters.

Experts destroy damaged shells

KUWAIT CITY (AP) — Ammunition remained too hot to approach Friday in a depot still smoldering from a huge explosion the day before, but special teams combed nearby areas to blow up stray shells.

Military officials said about 30 of the 58 Americans wounded in Thursday's blast at Blackhorse Camp in Doha were released after treatment. One man operated on Thursday night remained in critical condition at Ibn Sina Hospital with a shrappel wound in the skull.

Four of six wounded British soldiers also were released, U.S. military officials said.

"It's quite a mess out there," U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Kelly said of the accident site.

Mongolia celebrates freedom from China

ULAN BATOR, Mongolia (AP) — Mongolians are celebrating 70 years of independence from China in the midst of a struggle to overcome the legacy of a planned economy and total dependence on the Soviet Union.

"The main goal of this government is to enter the market community, which is the guarantee of our democracy," the country's deputy premier, Davaadorjiyn Ganbold, said at a news conference this week.

Centuries of Chinese domination ended on July 11, 1921, and a four-day anniversary celebration began Thursday, featuring wrestling matches, archery competitions and horse races.

The economic reality in this Asian nation of 2.1 million people is more sobering, however.

Rationing is in effect in major cities. Factories, mines and printing presses have closed down because they lack spare parts, and vital power plants are run down. Personal income has plummeted, while inflation and unemployment have grown.

On the other hand, hundreds of small private businesses have sprung up and privatization of state enterprises has begun. Food shortages in the cities have been eased by 30,000 tons of U.S. wheat and supplies from Japan and Korea.

Teams of experts from the United States, the United Nations, Japan and South Korea have begun trying to help Mongolians make the difficult transition to a market economy.

Mongolia includes vast expanses of desert, mountains and pastures that stretch across a region the size of New York to Denver. Its population is smaller than Chicago's, however, and it is landlocked between two huge and powerful neighbors, China and the Soviet Union.

Mongolia is just beginning to grapple with the problems created by cutting the economic umbilical cord that linked it to the Soviet Union.

"We have a very strange trade with the Soviet Union," said the Foreign Ministry's chief spokesman, Terbish Chimeddorj. "They send us everything from matches to oil and we send them only a few items."

Such a skewed relationship was possible during the years of bartering and five-year plans that dominated independent Mongolia. But that ended on Jan. 1, when hard-currency trade began.

In 1990, the Soviet Union provided the equivalent of $433 million in aid — almost 40 percent of Mongolia's gross national product. Soviet aid ended this year, however, and U.S. aid for 1991 will total $12 million to $13 million.

Ganbold, the deputy premier, said that bartering continues, with Mongolia trading copper for oil and spare parts. But Mongolian officials accuse the Soviets of reselling their copper for a profit at world prices, while 358,000 tons of Mongolian copper concentrate is unable to find a market.

The officials also say the economy has been badly hurt by Soviet tariffs on consumer goods of 1,000 percent to 1,500 percent. As a result, Ganbold said, $100 million worth of Mongolian cashmere, leather and other goods are piled up in factory warehouses.

About 65 percent of Mongolia's people live in rural areas which have been largely unaffected by food shortages.

Bulgarians adopt new constitution

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Bulgaria on Friday became the first former Communist land of Eastern Europe to adopt a new constitution.

About 15,000 demonstrators gathered in Sofia to protest its passage. Earlier, 500 protesters blocked traffic and 23 lawmakers went on a hunger strike, demanding a referendum on the constitution.

They opposed the new constitution because it was passed by a parliament in which the Socialists, the former Communist Party, have a majority.

In a ceremony in Parliament, 309 of the 400 deputies approved the new constitution by signing it. It replaces a 1971 Communist law. A total of 267 votes had been needed.

The constitution proclaims inviolability of private property and establishes a constitutional court.

Most critics say it favors the state at the expense of society and individuals.

"The constitution ... gives many rights, privileges and prerogatives to the state ... and there is danger that it might maintain old totalitarian tendencies," historian Nikolai Genchev said.

"This constitution will delay change of the system," one of the 23 lawmakers on a hunger strike, Stoyan Ganev, said on TV.

Most other countries of Eastern Europe are working on constitutions to replace the ones adopted under decades of Communist rule, but Bulgaria is the first to finish.

Lawmen pay final respects to slain patrolman

PASADENA (AP) — Hundreds of police officers from across the state gathered Friday to pay final respects to Pasadena patrolman Jeffrey Ginn, who was killed earlier this week by a gunman with a history of mental problems.

"Jeff Ginn is the kind of young man that all of us who have boys hope they will grow up to be," the Rev. Charles Redmond, pastor of Pasadena's First Baptist Church, said. "He was just a notch above the norm."

"This is such a hard time, it's hard for all of us,"Jim Cluck, chaplain of the Pasadena Police Department, told the nearly 2,000 mourners who crowded into the church, many of them standing two-and three-deep in the aisles. "It reminds those of us in uniform just how vulnerable we are."

The State

Ginn, 29, married and the father of two young daughters, was the first Pasadena officer to die in the line of duty in nearly 50 years.

The gunman, Marvin Harris, 40, shot himself in the head Thursday, almost 21 hours after shooting Ginn and after holding a woman hostage in her home. The hostage, Jean Lina, was not injured.

Ginn was fatally shot after stopping in front of Harris' home to investigate smoke coming from the back yard where Harris was burning marijuana leaves in a barbecue pit.

He first shot Ginn in the back yard, then followed the officer across the street. As the wounded officer knelt against a tree, Harris shot him twice more at point-blank range.

Harris had a criminal record dating back eight years, had a history of mental illness and spent three days in a mental ward in February 1989 after police surrounded his house for another ordeal. Acquaintances said he had a longtime hatred for police.

At the church, two Pasadena officers stood guard on either side of Ginn's open casket while hundreds of officers walked by, their badges shrouded in black, many of them wiping away tears and some saluting. They included officers from as far away as San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Longview, Beaumont and Port Arthur, along with scores from adjacent Houston.

The slain officer, in uniform, had his motorcycle helmet resting near his chest. Two large photographs, one of him on his motorcycle and another showing him with other motorcycle officers, were displayed to the left of the casket. Nearly 100 bouquets of flowers lined the walls of the church.

'This is such a hard time...It reminds those of us in uniform just how vulnerable we are.'

Police chaplain Jim Cluck

His fellow motorcycle patrolmen wore white carnations on their shoulders as they walked by the casket.

"The first thing many of us ask is: Why?" Cluck said. "But all of us know we live in a world with no guarantees. No one sees more evil than police officers, time after time after time. Jeff won't have to see evil again."

Pasadena Officer D.A. Mudd said the department would give Ginn's widow a framed memorial that includes his badge No. 86, his motorcycle pin and service ribbons and a purple ribbon with a gold oak leaf cluster that signifies he was killed in the line of duty.

"That's the highest award we have," Mudd said. "It's the first and hopefully the last we'll have to issue."

Couple shot to death; 3rd person hurt in attack

SAN MARCOS (AP) — A man and a woman from Dallas were shot to death early Friday in an attack at an apartment complex that wounded a third person, authorities said.

A 23-year-old Southwest Texas State University student was arrested in connection with the shooting spree.

Todd Carman, a senior psychology major from Spring, appeared Friday afternoon before Peace Justice Macel Sullivan. Carman was charged with capital murder and attempted murder.

Ms. Sullivan set bond of $50,000 on the attempted murder charge but refused bond on the capital charge.

The dead were identified as Andrea L. Reynolds, 23, and Richard Scott Martin, 20.

Authorities said Martin, a Baylor University student, was the grandson of former Baylor president Abner McCall.

Travis County Medical Examiner Roberto Bayardo said Martin was shot 13 times with a .22 semiautomatic rifle and Ms. Reynolds was shot three times.

Shannon L. Roeder, 21, of San Marcos was in guarded condition in the intensive care unit of Central Texas Medical Center, a hospital spokesman said.

Ms. Roeder, a junior at Southwest Texas State, underwent surgery for a bullet wound to the neck.

Police said all three victims were found in the living room of an apartment that was shared by the suspect and Ms. Roeder.

Valenzuela's arrival imminent

■ Former Cy Young award winner due in Midland over the weekend, but won't start for Angels before Monday.

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

Former National League Cy Young award winner and Rookie of the Year Fernando Valenzuela will arrive in Midland this weekend to begin what is expected to be a 30 day stay in the minor leagues.

Valenzuela, waived last Friday by the California Angels, agreed to a minor league contract with the Anaheim, Calif., based team on Wednesday.

Local baseball fans, though, should not expect to see Valenzuela any earlier than Monday, if then.

"We'll decide how ready and close he is based on what he's been doing since he's been active," Midland manager Don Long said. "It won't be Sunday."

Long said Valenzuela will throw on the side for 10 or 15 minutes Sunday, and then a decision would likely be nearer as to when he would be ready for a start.

Although Long refused to speculate on when exactly Valenzuela would make his first start, he did say, "A pitcher can't go out and throw on the side one day and come back and expect to start a baseball game."

After Valenzuela throws on the side Sunday, Long said, "We'll go from there."

Valenzuela, his attorney Dick Moss, agent Tony DeMarco and California officials met Friday morning in California to firm up the pitcher's schedule.

"What was determined in that meeting," Midland general manager Monty

Weather chases Chicken; Angels-Drillers postponed

Staff Report

Friday's drenching rains and soaked playing field forced the third rain out of the year for Midland at Angels Stadium.

Rains which began shortly after 6 p.m. continued until after the scheduled first pitch at 7 p.m., prompting officials to call the Angels-Tulsa Drillers game at 7:10 p.m.

Because of a forecast which calls for more rain today, Friday's game will be made up as part of a doubleheader Sunday at 6 p.m.

The Famous Chicken will also return, but not until Sunday, August 25.

Midland general manager Monty Hoppel said those who had planned to attend the funny fowl's Friday performance can exchange either torn or full ticket stubs for the Aug. 25 show beginning next Thursday, July 18. The Angels will be playing San Antonio Aug. 25.

The Aug. 25 date is the only remaining open date on The Chicken's calendar in 1991.

Sipko gets handle on lumber that ends no-no

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

Midland's 15-year-old Sean Sipko knows how to be in the right place at the right time and he has a special bat to prove the point.

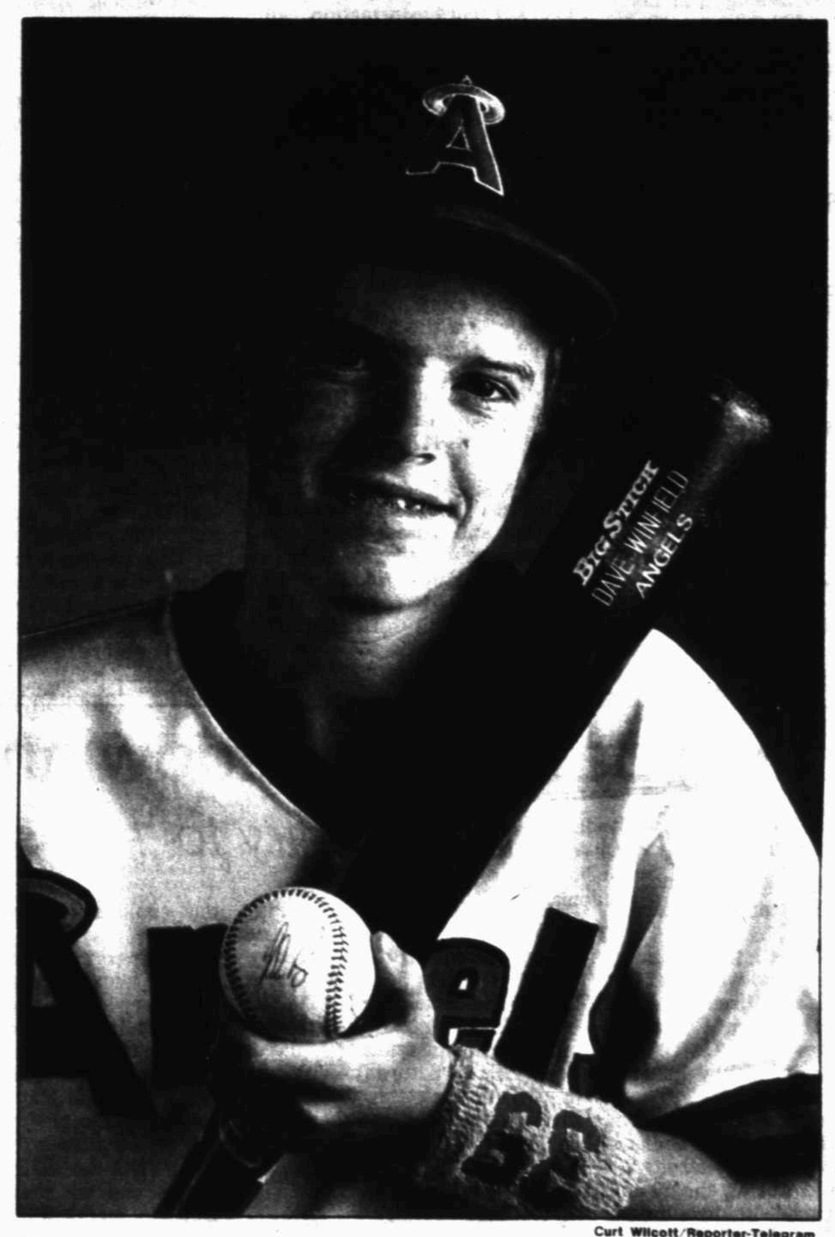

OK, so maybe he did need a little luck — maybe a lot of luck — to become the owner of the Dave Winfield bat that broke up the potential eighth no-hitter of Nolan Ryan on July 7 at Arlington Stadium — and an autographed baseball by Ryan to boot.

Sipko's luck, or being in the right place at the right time, began back on Jan. 31 at the Midland Sports Banquet, hosted by the Midland Angels at the Midland Country Club. That was the night former Midland Angel manager Eddie Rodriquez happened to win a drawing for a trip to Arlington to see the Angels and Rangers play.

"This is the third year that I've been a bat boy for the (Midland) Angels, and when Rodriquez won the drawing, he said he wanted the bat boy to get the trip," Sipko said. "So I got the trip.

But Sipko and the Angels went for the whole shooting match on this one. Midland trainer Scott Sowell called California trainer Ned Bergert and asked if it would be OK for Sean to be the Angels volunteer bat boy during his visit. Due to Sipko's experience as the Midland bat boy,

Blue Jays roll past Rangers

TORONTO — Pat Borders had a decisive three-run double in support of David Wells as the Toronto Blue Jays won for the 17th time in 20 games, beating the Texas Rangers 6-2 Friday night.

their fifth straight. Wells (10-4) allowed two runs on five hits in seven innings before Duane Ward came on to get his 15th save.

Roberto Alomar and Joe Carter started the seventh with singles to chase Jose Guzman (4-4). Kenny Rogers relieved and John Olerud's sacrifice bunt advanced the runners before pinch hitter Pat Tabler was walked intentionally to load the bases.

Kelly Gruber greeted reliever Rich Gossage with a walk to tie the game before Borders hit a line drive over the head of left fielder Juan Gonzalez to clear the bases.

Wells, who struck out three and walked two, allowed Steve Buechele's 13th homer following a one-out walk to Gonzalez in the second. Ward struck out three in two perfect innings of relief.

Rance Mulliniks trimmed the lead to 2-1 with a run-scoring single in the third. Mulliniks drove in Devon White, who drew a leadoff walk, stole his 20th base and took third on Alomar's fly ball.

Tabler had an RBI single in the eighth.

Guzman gave up three runs on eight hits, struck out seven and walked six.

The loss was the second straight for Texas, which had won four in a row prior to the All-Star break.

Bradley, Pitcock share lead

■ Defending champion Betsy King just makes the cut with a 10-stroke deficit.

Associated Press

FORT WORTH — Pat Bradley, the leading money winner on the LPGA tour, and unheralded Joan Pitcock led the 46th U.S. Women's Open by a stroke after 36 holes Friday. Defending champion Betsy King barely made the cut, 10 shots behind.

Bradley fought the wind, 99-degree heat and ragged greens for a 2-over-par 73 while Pitcock had a 1-over 72. Their 142 totals were even par for two trips around rough-infested Colonial Country Club.

Pitcock, who is 71st on the money list and was low amateur in the 1986 Open, turned professional four years ago when she was 19 years old out of Fresno, Calif. She's a non-winner on tour.

Bradley has won 27 professional events.

"It was a long day. Five hours is an awful long time to be out there," said Bradley, the 1981 Open champion. "Golf is a game of momentum and for 16 holes we were twiddling our thumbs out there. I thought a 73 was pretty good, to tell the truth."

Pitcock said she was surprised to be tied for the lead.

"It's different as a professional," she said. "You have to worry about making cuts and as an amateur you could freewheel it. I'm surprised to be here."

Amy Alcott, who with 29 tour victories needs just one more to enter the LPGA Hall of Fame, shot a tournament best 3-under-par 68 for a 1-over 143 total to tie Alice Ritzman, who had a 71. Debbie Massey shot a 72 and was at 144.

"I went to the driving range in cart 68 and I told my caddy that would be a great round to shoot," Alcott said. "It would be exciting if I got into the Hall of Fame by winning the Open, the most exciting thing I can think of right now."

"My heart started pounding when I found out I was on the leader board," Ritzman said. "I finally settled down."

LPGA champion Meg Mallon shot 75 and was in a group of five at 145 that included former champion JoAnne Carner.

King was disenchanted with her playing partners, the greens and the course as she saw her bid for a third consecutive Open title dim with a 7-over-par 78.

King, who later cried about the frustrations of trying to defend her title, was at 10-over 152 for 36 holes

"It's been a strange week and obviously I would like to have played better," said King, who made it clear she didn't like historic Colonial and its sun-baked, spike-marked bent grass greens.

"I can't say it's one of my favorite courses," King said. "I'd be lying if I said I wasn't disappointed in the conditions."

King wiped away tears several times during her interview then became so emotional she exited the press room through a back curtain.

She made four birdies on Friday but also posted two double bogeys and a triple bogey. Twice she miscalculated iron shots and found the water.

"It was hard to judge out there, a big guessing game," she said. "It takes more than talent to hit a shot."

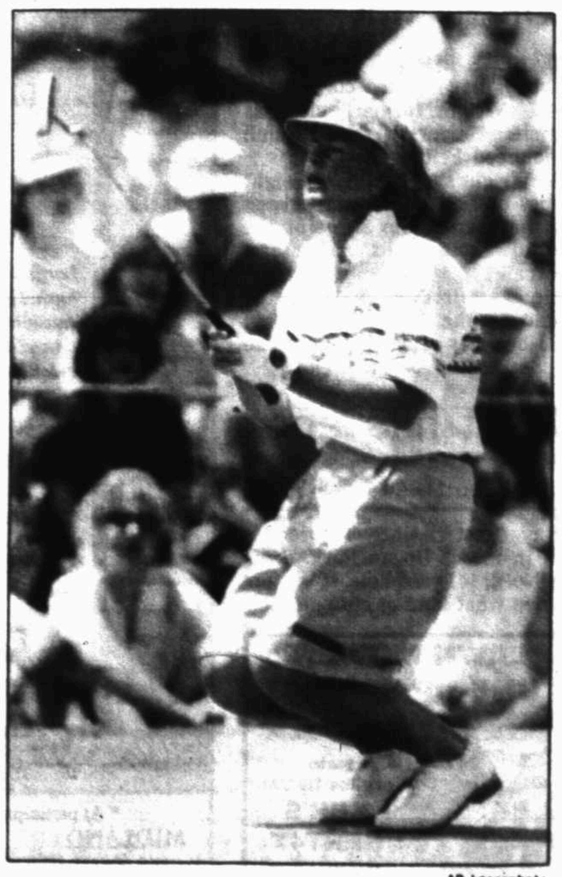

Earlier in the week, she had complained about pin placements, the watering of greens during the round, and being paired with amateur Sandrine Mendiburu of France.

She also said women's golf could never get any attention in the Lone Star state because of "a good ol' boy mentality in Texas."

"I can't tell you the number of people who came up to me and told me I was the darling of the press," King said. "I meant nothing malicious."

King said it takes away from an Open when a course was played that was "not in the best shape. I'm not saying that it's the fault of the people here. It's just

Staff Report

The first smell of high school football will hit Midland Monday as season football tickets for both Midland Lee and Midland High go on sale to current option holders at 8 a.m. at the Memorial Stadium ticket office.

Jack Tayrien, Midland athletic director, said the ticket office will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, including the lunch hour.

Option holders (those who had season tickets last year) will have through Friday, Aug. 9, to renew their options.

Beginning Monday, Aug. 12, all remaining tickets will be sold to the general public on a first com basis. Season ticket sales will close Friday, Aug. 30.

A set of Midland High season tickets will cost $20 for five home games. Midland Lee's four home games will go for $16. Lee option holders will also be able to purchase an extra ticket for the MHS-Lee game for Sept. 27 for $5. Lee is the visiting team this year, so that game is not part of the home season package.

Also Lee has an Oct. 18 home meeting with the University of Chihuahua, but that game was just recently scheduled. Tickets for that game will have to be purchased the week of the game.

"We'll sell tickets like a playoff game for the University of Chihuahua," Janelle Dozier, athletic secretary, said. "We didn't have tickets printed for that game in time. Option holders will get their seats for that game, but they will have to be purchased the week of the game."

Once season ticket sales close on Aug. 30, tickets will have to be purchased on a weekly basis through the rest of the season. Pre-game tickets will be sold each week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and until 1 p.m. each Friday. Adult pre-game tickets will be $5 per game and $6 at the gate on game night.

Student pre-game tickets are $1 and the gate price is $3.

Barnes plans to test NFL waters following his dismissal by 49ers

ROCKLIN, Calif. (AP) — Randy Barnes, released by the San Francisco 49ers before their first training camp practice, hasn't thrown out his hopes for a football career.

"I'm going to see if there's any interest from other teams," the suspended shot putter said Friday in a telephone interview from San Diego, where he is staying with friends.

"I was looking forward to at least getting the pads on because I thought that's when I would have looked my best," said Barnes, a 1988 Olympic silver medalist. "It would have been nice but I understand it's a numbers game."

The 6-foot-4, 305-pound Barnes was trying to make the team as a defensive lineman, already an area of strength on the 49ers.

Barnes, who attended Texas A&M but didn't play college football, essentially was trying to make the jump to professional football from his experience at St. Albans High School in West Virginia, the last time he played organized football.

Coach George Seifert said Friday there simply was no room for Barnes on the roster after the club reached contract terms with virtually all of its 1991 rookie crop (12 of 13 drafted players) prior to Thursday's opening practice.

"That hasn't happened before where we've signed all our rookies," he said.

"This might discourage him initially, but it shouldn't because he does have some abilities and he should go on and try to get into another camp. He may even wind up back with the 49ers."

Barnes tried out for several NFL teams after being suspended from track competition for two years by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Mears sets sizzling pace at Meadowlands

John Andretti steers Midland's Hall-VDS entry to 11th spot

Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Rick Mears smashed the track record of Emerson Fittipaldi as he held off his Penske Racing teammate Friday in provisional qualifying for Sunday's Marlboro Grand Prix.

Mears, aiming for his fourth pole of the season and first on a road course since leading the way at Cleveland in July 1990, turned a lap at 115.991 mph on the six-turn, 1.217-mile temporary circuit at the New Jersey Meadowlands.

That was considerably quicker than the 115.541 by Fittipaldi in 1989, the first year the track was shortened from 1.682-miles.

The Brazilian, who has won the pole for each of the past two races — at Portland, Ore., and Cleveland — was able to get up to 115.413, which was good for the outside position on the tentative starting grid.

Michael Andretti, the defending champion here and winner of two straight races and three of the last four, was third on Friday at 115.328, followed by CART PPG Cup point leader Bobby Rahal at 115.304.

John Andretti, Michael's cousin, was 11th at 113.685 in the Midland-based Hall-VDS entry despite being hampered during the 30-minute qualifying session by a broken gearbox. The Hall-VDS Racing crew managed to repair the gearbox in just 10 minutes.

Mario Andretti, Michael's father and teammate and the winner of the inaugural Meadowlands event in 1984, was slowed by a collision with a tire wall that brought out a brief red flag. But the elder Andretti still managed to take fifth at 114.911.

Rounding out the top 10 Friday were Al Unser Jr. at 114.884, Arie Luyendyk at 114.619, Scott Brayton at 114.126, Scott Pruett at 113.975 and Mike Groff at 113.715.

The final lineup will be determined following another round of time trials on Saturday. With rain in the forecast, the top drivers threw themselves into their work on Friday.

"I tried really hard and I think Rick did, too," Fittipaldi said. "With rain possible, the team made a good strategic plan."

With Mears at the top of the speed chart and about five minutes remaining in the qualifying session, Fittipaldi made a mistake that could have been a lot more costly.

"I was trying to get a fast lap in," he said. "I went too deep in turn one, locked my wheels and went off. It looked like I was heading for the Lincoln Tunnel."

Mears, whose only victory this season came in May in the Indianapolis 500, said, "The car came off the trailer running pretty good. Then the guys began to find things and we made some real gains in practice."

Asked if quicker speeds could be in the offing if the weather remains dry on Saturday, Mears said, "There's always a chance for a gain. I've never had a perfect race car."

Cubs' rookie limits Astros to three hits

Associated Press

CHICAGO — Rookie Frank Castillo allowed three hits over 8⅓ innings and Jose Vizcaino went 4-for-4 as the Chicago Cubs beat the Houston Astros 5-2 Friday.

Castillo (2-0), making his fourth major league start since being recalled from Iowa on June 27, had a no-hitter until Casey Candaele led off the sixth with a double. Candaele scored on a two-out single by Craig Biggio.

The only other hit off Castillo was a bunt single by Steve Finley in the ninth. Paul Assenmacher relieved with one out and gave up an RBI single to Ken Caminiti before getting the last out for his seventh save.

Castillo walked two and struck out a career-high eight batters.

Vizcaino had two singles, two doubles and an RBI as the Cubs snapped the Astros' three-game winning streak.

Loser Mark Portugal (8-5) gave up eight hits and five runs in five innings.

National

Portugal's wildness cost him a run in the first inning, three more in the third and another in the fifth.

Pirates 7, Reds 2

CINCINNATI — Barry Bonds hit a three-run homer in the fifth inning and Doug Drabek won for the seventh time in eighth decisions as Pittsburgh once again pounded Cincinnati.

Bonds had his second straight four-RBI night, singling in a run in the seventh. He has 59 RBIs this year.

Pittsburgh, which had 14 hits in Thursday's 10-6 victory, had 12 more as it sent the Reds to their fourth consecutive loss.

Drabek (9-8) gave up two runs and seven hits in eight-plus innings, struck out seven and walked two.

Mets 6, Padres 3

NEW YORK — The New York Mets set a club record with their ninth straight victory from the start of a month as Gregg Jefferies returned to the lineup and drove in three.

The Mets won eight straight at the start of June 1969, and went on to win the World Series. The Padres, meanwhile, have lost four straight and 11 of 14.

Jefferies returned to the lineup after missing two weeks with the flu and a strep throat. He had an RBI grounder in the first, a solo homer in the third and a run-scoring single in the seventh.

Braves 6, Cardinals 2

ATLANTA — Lonnie Smith homered twice and John Smoltz won for the first time in seven starts since May 30 as Atlanta beat St. Louis.

Smith hit a two-run homer in the sixth off Bryn Smith (7-6) and added a solo home run in the eighth off Cris Carpenter, Smith's fifth home run of the season. Ron Gant also homered for the Braves, his 16th of the season.

Smoltz (3-11) allowed seven hits in 6⅓ innings.

Phillies 1, Giants 0

PHILADELPHIA — Darren Daulton homered in the fifth inning and Tommy Greene combined with two relievers on a three-hitter as Philadelphia beat San Francisco.

Greene (6-3) allowed three hits in 5⅓ innings, struck out four, walked two and left after a rain delay of 1 hour, 12 minutes. It was the first victory since June 7 for Greene, who had three no-decisions and three losses during his slide.

Expos 6, Dodgers 5

MONTREAL — Delino DeShields singled home the winning run in the ninth after Los Angeles had tied with score with four runs in the top of the inning.

Eric Bullock, who hit a three-run homer in the sixth, doubled with one out in the ninth off Kevin Gross (4-6). Spike Owen was intentionally walked and Bret Barberie walked, loading the bases. DeShields then singled to left past the drawn-in infield.

Giants place McGee on DL

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — San Francisco Giants outfielder Willie McGee, who missed the final six games before the All-Star break with a right rib cage muscle injury, was placed on the 15-day disabled list Friday.

McGee was in the starting lineup for Thursday's game at Philadelphia, but left in the second inning, still bothered by the injury.

The Giants recalled outfielder Darren Lewis from Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League, where he was batting .340.

Fielder grabs home-run lead in Tiger win

Associated Press

DETROIT — Cecil Fielder homered twice to take the major league lead, but two unearned runs that scored on his routine grounder led the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 victory Friday night over the Kansas City Royals.

With the score tied 3-3 in the seventh inning, Milt Cuyler walked and was bunted to second by Tony Phillips. After a walk to Lou Whitaker, Storm Davis relieved Mike Magnante (0-1) and got Alan Trammell to fly out.

But shortstop David Howard booted Fielder's grounder, allowing Cuyler to score. On the same play, second baseman Terry Shumpert threw the ball into the Kansas City dugout in an attempt to nip Fielder at first, allowing Whitaker to score.

Magnante, who pitched only a third of an inning, was charged with both unearned runs and the loss.

American

Twins 5, Red Sox 4

MINNEAPOLIS — Chili Davis ended an 0-for-12 drought with a game-winning hit as the Minnesota Twins rallied against Roger Clemens.

Chuck Knoblauch opened the seventh inning with a double and advanced on Kirby Puckett's sacrifice. After Kent Hrbek, who homered earlier, was walked intentionally, Davis hit a hard grounder by Clemens to break a 4-4 tie.

Clemens (11-6) allowed 11 hits in 6⅓ innings and couldn't prevent the Red Sox from dropping their third consecutive game and falling 7½ games behind Toronto in the American League East.

White Sox 8, Brewers 6

MILWAUKEE — Pinch-hitter Scott Fletcher had a two-run double in the ninth inning as Chicago completed a comeback from a five-run deficit to beat the blundering Brewers.

The Milwaukee defense committed key errors that made seven of Chicago's runs — including three of four in the ninth off Dan Plesac (0-3) — unearned. The White Sox fell behind 5-0, but scored four unearned runs in the sixth against Milwaukee starter Jaime Navarro.

Carlton Fisk reached to start the ninth on shortstop Bill Spier's error. One out later, Sammy Sosa singled before Fletcher, batting for Joey Cora, doubled into the left field corner. Robin Ventura, who drove in three runs, added a two-run single.

Arkansas basketball team will start season near half-strength

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas' basketball squad will begin its season with nearly half of the team suspended for various types of troublemaking.

Two players were suspended from the team Friday for making private calls on the athletic department's long-distance telephone service, an incident that involves 20 scholarship athletes. Five other basketball players on the 16-man roster already faced punishment: four for a February serial sex incident and one for damaging a student's car.

For the first few games of the 1991-92 season, the nine non-suspended players, including one walk-on, may find it hard to maintain coach Nolan Richardson's "40 minutes of hell" — a smothering defense that used a deep bench to make Arkansas a basketball power.

"We'll manage. We'll carry on. It's too good of a program not to," Frank Broyles, the University of Arkansas' athletic director said Friday after announcing the suspension of Clyde Fletcher, a senior, and Ray Biggers, a freshman. Both are forwards.

The latest suspensions are part of wide misuse of the athletic department's long-distance telephone service. Broyles said telephone records show that 20 current scholarship athletes made private calls totalling about $2,200.

SIPKO: Bat boy sees Rangers pull off sweep of Angels

the idea got approval.

"We saw three games while I was there," Sipko said. "We sat in the stands the first night, but I got to be the bat boy on Saturday night when Jim Abbott pitched and again on Sunday when Ryan was pitching."

The Sunday night game turned out to be the real bonus. Ryan carried a no-hitter into the eighth inning before Dave Winfield singled up the middle to break up what could have been Ryan's eighth no-hitter.

"Ryan was falling off the mound after trying to throw a fastball and Winfield hit a ball back up the middle and Ryan just couldn't get to it. It really wasn't hit all that hard," Sipko remembered.

Winfield cracked his bat on the hit and Sipko asked for it.

"They told me they had to keep those bats, but the (California) equipment manager (Leonard Garcia) gave it to me after the game," Sipko said. "He told me that he was happy to give me the bat, but he said he was glad I was going to be back in school the next time the Angels came to Arlington because they lost all three games to the Rangers."

After the game, Sipko crossed the field and into the Rangers clubhouse tunnel to wait for reporters to leave Nolan Ryan. Ryan, who does not give autographs on days he pitches, signed a ball for Sean. It may have been the only autograph by Ryan on the night of his near no-hitter.

Sipko is an Angels fan. He wanted the Angels to win, but admits that after Texas scored seven runs in the third inning, that he wanted Ryan to get the no-hitter.

Sipko may have been transported into a fantasy world for a brief period of time, but he never left his Midland bat boy roots. He claims that one of the highlights was a reunion with former Midland pitcher Joe Grahe and outfielder Mark Davis. Both have since been sent back down to Triple-A Edmonton, but were with the Angels during the Ranger series.

"They both remembered me," Sipko said. "I had a long talk with Davis about the guys he knew who were still in Midland. He was interested in all of them."

Davis even sent a message back to Midland Angel Mark Howie, who is tearing up the Texas League with a .367 average, 13 homers and 82 RBIs.

"Davis told me to tell Howie that he will need 40 homers and 200 RBIs to make the big leagues. I told Howie that and he got a big kick out of it."

And Sipko continues to be in the right place at the right time. Fernando Valenzuela is coming to town this weekend. Surely, that will be another easy autograph to add to his collection.

Fleisher expands lead at New England Classic

Associated Press

SUTTON, Mass. — Bruce Fleisher, returning to the PGA tour this year after an eight-year hiatus, fired a 4-under par 67 Friday for a 36-hole total of 131 and widened his lead to three strokes at the halfway mark of the $1 million New England Classic.

Fleisher, 42, the 1968 U.S. Amateur champion who left the tour to take a job as a club pro in 1983, set up four birdies with an accurate wedge in a bogey-free second round and tied the 36-hole record at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Fleisher shot a sizzling 64 in the first round to take a 1-stroke lead entering Friday's play. Fleisher said he "got a little lucky" in saving par with clutch putts on several holes. On the fifth hole, his approach shot hit a tree, but he got down in regulation.

"If that shot hadn't hit the tree, I'd probably still be out there," he said.

Fleisher, who spent 11 years on the tour with "little success," finished at midday and then watched with his wife, Wendy, as first one challenger and then another failed to catch him.

Blaine McCallister, Ernie Gonzalez and Ted Schulz, who shared a five-way tie for second after one round, added 69s to remain in tied for second and in the hunt for the $180,000 top prize. McCallister won here in 1989.

that time of year in Texas."

Colonial officials have used fans and constant watering to try to keep the greens from turning brown. By the afternoon rounds, the greens are spike-marked.

"We were faced with inconsistent greens and the course was not that forgiving," King said.

Three other players have failed in bids to win a third consecutive women's Open — Mickey Wright in 1960, Donna Caponi in 1971, Hollis Stacy in 1979.

Kristie Albers tied a women's Open record with a 4-under-par 31 on the back nine. Other 31s posted during Women's Open play include Judy Bell in 1964, Pat Bradley in 1983, and Rosie Jones in 1990.

Susan Sanders aced the 195-yard par-3 fourth hole with a 4-iron. The fourth hole had never been aced in tournament play.

Nine SWC officials axed by vote

DALLAS (AP) — Nine basketball officials have been fired as a result of a vote of Southwest Conference head coaches at the SWC's spring meetings in May, a newspaper reported.

The Dallas Morning News quoted Paul Galvan, the SWC's supervisor of officials, as saying the dismissals will be effective for the 1991-92 season.

Among the officials released are several veterans, including Mike Tanco of Dallas, Sonny Holmes of Forrest City, Ark., and Larry "Moose" Stubbing of Billa Park, Calif.

Also fired were Bobby Bonds, Benton, Ark.; Gordon Birk, American Fork, Utah; Ken Hill, Duncanville; Mike McCormack, Dallas; Bob Straface, Port Neches; and Charles Watkins, Nashville, Tenn.

The newspaper said one league source reported that several coaches were displeased with the attitudes of several officials. SWC rules bar league coaches from commenting publicly on officiating.

During the 1989-90 season, University of Texas coach Tom Penders twice berated officials. It brought him a one-game suspension at the start of the 1990-91 season.

The firings reduce the SWC basketball officials list to 26. Galvan said that will be increased if he decides more are necessary.

"In the meeting, we just looked at our officials ... and decided to make a change," Galvan told the News. "We were in general agreement. We have generally gotten rid of one or two officials after the season, but we just felt we needed to get a staff everyone could live with."

Tanco did not officiate any of the Longhorns' games last season, but clashed verbally with Penders after a game in Houston in March of last year.

Galvan said no one coach got rid of any one official.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AmEx, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9998.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numberical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key(*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:
- You may request a quote for another stock by repeating steps 2 & 3.
- You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key(*).

Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.
- You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

YARD SALES...

Sunday Luke 12:22-30
Monday Lamentations 4:1-22
Tuesday Lamentations 5:1-22
Wednesday Jeremiah 5:20-31
Thursday Jeremiah 9:17-24
Friday Jeremiah 10:1-11
Saturday Jeremiah 10:12-16

Yard sales are one of the most popular pastimes of our society because they appeal to our human frailty to accumulate more and more possessions. The strange thing about them is that we often end up buying things simply because "it was too good a bargain to pass up." The fact that we have little need for the treasured object escapes us completely.

Are we acquiring these trinkets and white elephants that clutter up our homes and lives because we are really seeking for more meaning in our life? In collecting objects of dubious value, are we overlooking gifts of much greater value?

If life is really to be worth living, we need more than the cast-offs and rejects of others. We need to seek the values that will bring us closer to God. These values cannot be found in yard sales, but rather in God's teachings. These values can best be discovered in our churches and synagogues.

Best of all, God's values are a real bargain. They are free to anyone who seeks them.

Humanists beckon rebuffed Christians

NEW YORK (AP) — Convinced that churches aren't going to ease restrictions on sex, the American Humanist Association suggests that Christians shake off their sexual shackles by becoming humanists.

The unusual invitation by the organization of atheists, agnostics and other non-theists — which advocates sexual freedom among consenting adults — resulted from the recent refusal by the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) to relax its sexual rules.

Considering that a sign that churches generally will stick to their restrictions and anticipating a backlash among members, the association said in an open letter:

"Religion has for too long denied sexuality its legitimate proper place among all other natural human activities. Perhaps now significant numbers of Presbyterians and others in traditional faiths will understand that they have been humanists all along.

"We must therefore open our doors wide to them," said the letter, signed by the association's president, science writer Isaac Asimov. He said those rebuffed by the church's position on sex "have a home in humanism."

The organization's leaders contend that many church members will be driven to switch to humanism but, ironically, Presbyterian leaders claim just the opposite — that the rejection of loosened sex rules scotched massive departures from the church.

The humanist association says it has 5,000 dues-paying members nationally and about another 5,000 in local chapters, with 18,000 subscribers to its magazine.

Protestant churches, as well as Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy, condone sexual intercourse only in heterosexual marriage.

In contrast, the 1973 Humanist Manifesto II approves varied sexual behavior between consenting adults, and in 1976, humanists issued "A New Bill of Sexual Rights and Responsibilities," spelling out broad sexual latitude.

Religious forces to push for national health care system

By George W. Cornell
AP Religion Writer

In the fall of 1989 a mixed group of religious leaders got together at the Carter Presidential Center in Atlanta, distressed about the cost and shortcomings of U.S. medical care.

They've met four times around the country since then, reflecting a concern that has led some denominations to call for a national health care system.

That appeal sounded most recently in Norfolk, Va., at the general synod of the 1.6 million-member United Church of Christ, which said last week it will make universal health care a priority for the next six years.

Similar calls came from the 3 million-member Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) and the Central Conference of American Rabbis, which serves 1.5 million Reform Jews and declared that the nation faces a "growing crisis in health care."

Judaism and Christianity, prompted by biblical injunctions to care for the sick, the injured and weak, always have demonstrated concern for medical services, running hospitals and clinics at home and abroad.

But church leaders have been dismayed by rising health care costs, and the clergy itself has faced "truly frightening" increases, says J.T. Simmons of Jackson, Miss., chair of the Presbyterian board's health care committee.

United Methodist Robert W. Stevens, head of a denomination task force on the problem, said the costs are "eating us alive." And 14 denominations are studying the feasibility of a joint medical plan.

The Rev. Patrick Conover, a United Church representative in Washington, said about 10 denominations and four ecumenical groups worked out a common set of principles, and are launching "a national religious health advocacy campaign."

"They feel a major legislative opportunity is coming up for getting something done," he said.

Conover, elected co-chairman of an interreligious steering committee along with the Rev. James Faulk of Oakland, Calif., representing the mainly black Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, added:

"The problem is getting vastly worse. Access to care is declining and costs are skyrocketing. Solutions attempted in the '70s and '80s are just not adequate."

Among the principles agreed to in the interreligious talks and likely to be echoed at various denominational conventions:

■ Access to quality health care for everyone in the United States.

■ Comprehensive coverage, including long-term care.

■ Progressive financing based on ability to pay, through a special tax program involving personal and corporate income.

■ Cost containment through simplified administrative procedures.

■ Advance budgeting for hospitals and other health institutions, providing them with dependable income based on their past and prospective level of service.

■ Solutions to reduce the "outrageous malpractice" costs, now passed on to consumers.

Conover, who has a doctorate in medical care sociology, said the government accounting office estimates that $67 billion a year could be saved through simplified administrative procedures instead of the present tangled system.

"Savings from no longer individualizing payments would be enough to provide coverage for all those now without health insurance, and also to pay for all present deductibles and supplemental payments to providers," he said.

'The problem is getting vastly worse. Access to care is declining and costs are skyrocketing.'

— The Rev. Patrick Conover, co-chair interreligious steering committee

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JULY 13, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Pursue your loftiest aims with confidence. Practicality and thrift are your strongest allies throughout the fall. Your leadership talents will attract new notice in September. Travel for business and pleasure in December. A business expansion is featured after the first of the new year. Tie up some loose ends in your personal life by March of 1992. Romance will reach a turning point by next spring.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Harrison Ford, actress Lynn Loring, Cajun chef Paul Prudhomme, comedian Cheech Marin.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You feel free as a bird in romance. Preening your feathers could ruffle someone else's now. Your social life is on the upswing. Participate in sports or other upbeat group activities today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take full advantage of the effect your charm has on people. Pursue a fun new relationship in festive surroundings. The friendships you make now will prove long-lasting. Avoid making promises you cannot keep.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone with important private information to share needs to be reassured that you will take it seriously. A parent plays a major role in a financial decision you make this weekend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The family may gather to celebrate a sentimental occasion. Much of the burden of the planning and preparation could fall on your capable shoulders. Be willing to ask for help.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): An older person inspires you to start on a new path. Do not dwell on the possibility of failure; your imagination could be working overtime. Show compassion to someone confined to home or hospital.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A partner, mate or associate tests your willingness to lend a helping hand. Be conscientious; show that no task is too tedious for you to attempt. Your reward will be greater trust.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be ready to change your plans midstream. An exciting trip is offered to you — a chance to add to your store of knowledge. Open new lines of communication. Romance enjoys favorable influences.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You receive the financial help you need to make a major purchase. Home improvements are a primary concern. Discuss your plans for beautification, storage space and convenience.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A mystery can be solved if you dig deep for information. The answers lie within your own heart. Take the time to really listen to good music. You will feel inspired!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Halfway measures will not suffice now. Show your dedication. A special gift, pat on the back or golden advice is coming your way. Make a long-range commitment concerning job training and business travel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Make use of your enhanced personal magnetism to charm a fascinating newcomer. You are entering a brand-new cycle and can impress others with your originality. Dress elegantly if going out this evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A social event could find you the center of attention. Someone who can help with your career is on the scene. Dress for success; first impressions are more important than you think.

'Field of Dreams' author takes several turns at bat

DYERSVILLE, Iowa — W.P. Kinsella, whose book inspired the 1989 movie "Field of Dreams," decided it was time someone took him out to the old cornfield.

But judging by the way he swings a bat, it's a good thing he makes his living swinging a pen instead.

After whiffing a couple of pitches and dribbling a grounder to local players wearing old Chicago White Sox uniforms, Kinsella finally cracked a liner into left field of the movie set carved out of a cornfield.

He was joined Thursday by about 150 students, faculty and friends from the Iowa Summer Writing Festival at the University of Iowa, where the Kinsella is teaching a one-week course.

He said his book "Shoelesss Joe" and the movie it inspired were successful because baseball was just the backdrop.

"The book is about people who are obsessed in one way or another with something," said Kinsella. "If this was just about baseball, it would have a 'two outs and bottom of the ninth ending.' That isn't good literature."

The Canadian author says he won't be writing a sequel.

"The book and the movie were so complete the first time, I couldn't find anything more to write about it."

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. — A former Fort Bragg soldier is suing Hollywood's Jean Claude Van Damme, saying the he-man actor injured him during filming of the movie "Cyborg" three years ago.

Van Damme

Jackson "Rock" Pinckney said in his lawsuit that during a fight scene, Van Damme struck him in the left eye with a sword. The injury forced him to leave the Army on a medical discharge and left him with medical bills and the loss of his income and benefits, the lawsuit said.

The suit filed Wednesday in Cumberland County Superior Court asks more than $10,000.

Van Damme's lawyer referred questions to the actor's publicist, who said he is unfamiliar with the lawsuit and declined to comment.

PHOENIX — Ann B. Davis, housekeeper and family referee in the old TV series "The Brady Bunch," is working as a volunteer at her fifth General Convention of the Episcopal Church.

Davis gained fame in wisecracking television roles, including "Schultzy" on "Love That Bob" from 1955 to 1959, and Alice Nelson on "The Brady Bunch" from 1969 to 1974.

The 65-year-old actress said Thursday that Bible study and "a process of spiritual renewal" revitalized her faith as an Episcopalian in the early 1970s.

At the convention, Davis is distributing resolutions, running errands and adding her own special contribution: "I can be darling. I'm friendly. I smile a lot."

In January 1976, Davis stopped for a visit at the Denver home of Bishop William C. Frey, whose Victorian mansion houses a community of people touched by religious renewal.

She sold her Los Angeles home and has lived in the household ever since.

CINCINNATI — "Family Feud" game show host Ray Combs plans to open a downtown club that will feature new comedians and headliners and a comedy museum that houses Johnny Carson's toothbrush among its treasures.

Combs

"The Cincinnati Comedy Connection will offer the finest of young, up-and-coming comedians in addition to regular appearances by myself," Combs said in a statement Thursday. "I also plan to feature many of my Hollywood friends as frequent headliners at the club."

The club will seat 500 and is expected to open Oct. 1 in the Carew Tower, said Steven Stein, president of Belvedere Corp., which owns the building.

The club's museum will feature a cigar George Burns smoked on his CBS 95th birthday special, Carson's toothbrush and other memorabilia from comedians.

EL PASO — Pop singer Gloria Estefan, who's in El Paso on her "Into the Light," tour, had trouble ducking the limelight when she arrived at the airport.

Estefan

Estefan had hoped to make a low-key arrival at El Paso International Airport. But she arrived on the same commercial flight as a returning El Paso foreign-exchange student, who had a large crowd waiting for him.

Estefan was instantly recognized despite wearing dark sunglasses on the cloudy day.

But she didn't fail to disappoint fans. Estefan signed autographs and posed for pictures for several minutes before she was whisked away by airport security.

Developer indicted in HUD investigation

WASHINGTON (NYT) — Fort Worth developer Leonard Briscoe has been indicted by a federal grand jury in the first case stemming from a special prosecutor's 15-month inquiry into allegations of influence-peddling during the Reagan years.

Briscoe, a former city councilman and state legislator, is accused of mail and wire fraud and of submitting false financial statements to the Housing and Urban Development Department to obtain a grant to build a South Florida shopping mall. A federal grand jury in Washington returned the six-count indictment Thursday, and it was disclosed Friday.

It is the first indictment by independent counsel Arlin Adams since he was appointed by Congress 15 months ago after allegations surfaced that billions of dollars worth of federal housing assistance was distributed on the basis of political favoritism during the eight-year tenure of HUD Secretary Samuel Pierce Jr.

Briscoe, once named HUD's minority entrepreneur of the year, declined in 1990 to testify before Congress about his associations with former top agency officials such as Lance Wilson, Pierce's assistant; and DuBois Gilliam, a former deputy assistant HUD secretary.

In a statement Friday, Briscoe, 51, said the indictment is further evidence of injustice and bigotry in HUD and the Justice Department. Briscoe wondered why HUD was persecuting a black developer who received only a small portion of the housing funds available.

Janice Graham, a spokeswoman for The Briscoe Co. in West Palm Beach, Fla., said that Briscoe was asked to be a state's witness but that he declined the request.

Briscoe said in his statement, "I am committed to vindicate my name and I will do it without becoming a 'prostitute' for either HUD, the Justice Department or the independent counsel."

Adams' staff would not comment on the indictments.

The indictments concern how Briscoe obtained a $2.4 million Urban Development Action Grant to build a shopping mall. Briscoe wanted to construct the mall next to his Wedgewood Plaza Apartment complex, a $24.4 million project he also built with the help of federal money.

The indictment accuses Briscoe of submitting fraudulent financial statements and letters that said he had firm financial commitment of private money to underwrite bonds for the project.

The indictment also mentions two unindicted co-conspirators, identified only as an officer in a New York financial institution and a HUD deputy assistant secretary.

However, Briscoe's ties to Wilson, once a top assistant to Pierce and later an executive at the investment concern PaineWebber — and a partner of Briscoe's in several ventures — have been explored by Congress and federal investigators. PaineWebber backed a number of Briscoe's projects in Fort Worth and Florida.

Briscoe's dealings with Gilliam, a former assistant HUD secretary who had authority over UDAG money, also are well-known. The indictment alleges that Briscoe submitted false statements to Gilliam.

Gilliam, who has served prison time for an unrelated HUD fraud conviction, has testified that he took $5,000 in cash, clothing and free trips from Briscoe while working for HUD. He also said he was paid about $100,000 as a Briscoe consultant. In return, Gilliam said he made sure that $9.3 million in federal loans for Briscoe's Florida projects were approved.

Briscoe was indicted last month by a Florida grand jury on charges of bribery and defrauding the government concerning the construction of housing complexes near West Palm Beach.

Stuart Weisberg, chief counsel for the House subcommittee that conducted a HUD investigation, said he expects more indictments and gave no special weight to Briscoe's being first.

"I'm not sure being first is all that significant," Weisber said.

U.S. aircraft carrier may become Japanese theme park

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee has told the Navy it can transfer an old aircraft carrier from Bremerton, Wash., to Tokyo for use as a tourist attraction, Oregon's senators said Friday.

If approved by the full Congress and the Navy, a shipyard in Portland, Ore., stands to win a private, $30 million contract to refurbish the carrier Oriskany with an American theme park on board.

Republican senators Mark Hatfield and Bob Packwood said they helped to include the transfer in an appropriations bill the panel approved in secret late Thursday.

They said the proposed floating "City of America" would help "build a cultural and educational bridge between Japan and the United States."

But not everyone thinks the transfer is a good idea.

"If the Japanese want an aircraft carrier, let them dredge Pearl Harbor," Rep. Duncan Hunter, R-Calif., was quoted as saying when the matter was considered by the House Armed Services Committee.

Even the promoters of "City of America" knew that the idea could stir up some opposition from World War II veterans. That's why they picked a Korean War-vintage carrier, a lobbyist for the group.

The carrier is mothballed at the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard in Bremerton.

The floating theme park, to be based in Tokyo Bay or Yokohama harbor, would include an audio-visual tour of American history along the hangar deck, restaurants, exhibition space for traveling art shows from the United States, a giant-screen theater to show a movie about U.S. history and possibly a school and youth hostel.

"Once the City of America is located in Japan, the trade and cultural exhibits will benefit our state's commerce," Hatfield said.

City of America, the non-profit group sponsoring the project, earlier committed to a major overhaul of the ship at the Portland Ship Repair Yard.

Bill Calder, Hatfield's press secretary, said the Navy will have the final decision on whether to approve the transfer or follow an earlier plan to sell the ship Oct. 1 to a scrap yard for an estimated $2 million.

The Senate bill requires all design and restoration work to be completed by American firms.

Baker calls for overnight halt of arms-reduction negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Daylong U.S.-Soviet talks aimed at concluding a strategic missile-reduction treaty halted Friday night without agreement on the last stubborn issues and negotiators agreed to try again in the morning.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Soviet Alexandr A. Bessmertnykh planned to meet again Saturday while experts drawn from the two delegations met into the night on the remaining highly technical disputes.

A senior U.S. official said Baker had proposed to Bessmertnykh an approach to try to wrap up work on the Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty. The official, who demanded anonymity, told The Associated Press that Baker had made no new proposals on the issues but had suggested he and Bessmertnykh exchange their "bottom line positions" but it would not be binding until all issues were resolved.

Bessmertnykh had taken a dinner break after two rounds with Baker planning to return at 9:30 p.m. EDT. But a few minutes before 9 p.m., the official said, Baker telephoned Bessmertnykh and suggested waiting until Saturday morning, giving their specialists the night to chip away at the technicalities.

A well-placed U.S. official said the Soviets had not given ground on one tough issue — whether missiles would carry fewer warheads than they had been tested with.

The Bush administration is opposed to "downloading" because it fears that in a crisis the Soviets might simply load the missiles with their full quotas of warheads — and in the meantime the Soviets could apply the number of warheads to other missiles provided they were within the overall limit of 6,000.

"If we were 96 percent a couple of weeks ago, we are 97 percent now," Baker said Thursday after 4½ hours of talks with Bessmertnykh. "But we've got to be 100 percent."

Thomas quotes Farrakhan in 2 speeches, paper says

DALLAS (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas twice used the words of a controversial black activist in speeches he delivered as chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, according to a published report.

The Dallas Times Herald reported Friday in a copyright story that it had obtained copies of the speech independently and was later furnished identical texts of the prepared remarks from the files of the EEOC.

In two speeches, Thomas described activist Louis Farrakhan as "a man I have admired for more than a decade" and concluded his prepared remarks with a quote from Farrakhan, who succeeded Malcolm X as chief spokesman for the black separatist sect in 1964.

A cover page provided to the newspaper by the agency showed that one speech was given Sept. 19, 1983, to the Capital Press Club, an association of black journalists. The other was delivered Oct. 6, 1983, to the Association of Black MBAs in Atlanta.

"And so, I say to you, whether America overcomes or not, we the poor, we the oppressed, we the blacks, we the Hispanics, we the disinherited, we the rejected and most dispised (sic), we will overcome and then together we will be able to say, in the words of Dr. Martin Luther King, free at last, free at last, thank God Almighty, we have united and made freedom a reality at last," the newspaper quoted the text as saying.

There were no other references to Farrakhan, the newspaper reported.

A few months after Thomas' second speech, Farrakhan gained national attention when Democratic presidential hopeful Jesse Jackson refused to disassociate himself from the Nation of Islam leader, despite Farrakhan's calling the Jewish faith "a dirty religion" and describing Adolf Hitler as "wickedly great."

Farrakhan, a Chicago minister, refused to comment when asked about the speech.

"I've discussed it with Minister Farrakhan, and he has no comment whatsoever," said Abdul Wali Muhammad, editor in chief of the Nation of Islam newspaper, the Final Call, and assistant minister at the sect's headquarters mosque in Chicago.

Farrakhan, 57, is known for his firebrand oratory and his statements about the Jewish faith.

Chief EEOC spokesman James Lafferty said Thomas frequently spoke from handwritten notes or made off-the-cuff speeches. A woman on Lafferty's staff who attended the September 1983 speech thought Thomas had not used that text or made any reference to Farrakhan, Lafferty said.

"I can't find anyone who recalls being present at the Oct. 6 speech ... so we just don't know whether or not he ever used it," Lafferty said.

The Farrakhan reference might even have been added by a woman who wrote speeches for Thomas in 1983, he said.

The speechwriter, who is no longer with the agency, was named "Rose," but no one could recall her last name, Lafferty said.

Asked how he could then explain the personal tone of the reference to Farrakhan, Lafferty replied, "I can't. I just don't know how that got there."

Richards: Lawmakers will trim spending in special session

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards predicted Friday that the Legislature's budget-writing special session would trim state spending despite cries of protest from some government agencies.

"We're going to cut government. And there are going to be complaints heard from a lot of quarters," Richards said.

The governor, who will address lawmakers when their session opens Monday morning, said she is convinced that many of Comptroller John Sharp's money-saving proposals will be adopted in the face of a $4.8 billion budget deficit.

"We have felt very certain for a long time that there was a lot of money in this system that could be saved before we ever started talking about taxes. And we're going to do that, and we're going to stick to it regardless of which particular group it is" protesting, she said.

Sharp audited spending of all state agencies and two weeks ago proposed saving $4 billion through spending cuts, agency mergers and fee increases. Another $1.2 billion would be raised, largely through programs that increase federal dollars coming to Texas.

Since then, numerous agency officials — including state college and university presidents — have complained that the economies were too severe.

Richards said she believes those bureaucrats lobbying against the audit had misread lawmakers' intentions.

"I don't think they realize — any of the groups that are now presently talking about one action or another — how firm our resolve is," the governor said.

"I frankly am one who is really tired of us thinking of government as some big amorphous pot of money that comes from nowhere. It comes from the taxpayers, comes out of our pockets, and it's time we started thinking .... that every time we spend a dime," she said.

Sharp said the opposition so far had been more muted than he anticipated.

"It's been a lot less than I thought it was going to be," Sharp said. "I didn't anticipate too many agency heads saying, 'Yeah, do away with my agency.' And there were some that did it."

He noted that groups ranging from organized labor to the Texas Chamber of Commerce backed his plan. "I don't know of any substantive thing that's gone through this place (the Legislature) in the last 20 years ... that's had the AFL-CIO and the Chamber of Commerce both endorsing it."

Sharp also said he believes Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis remain committed to passing his 1,200-page plan into law.

"They're all, it seems to me, as hooked up as they were the first day that they got their initial four-hour briefings on this," he said.

In other budget-related developments:

■ Victoria school Superintendent Bob Brezina, speaking for 15 education groups, said they are concerned over Sharp's plan, including a proposed constitutional amendment to remove the 10 percent ceiling and 6 percent floor for state contributions to the Teacher Retirement System.
