Solons Approve Water Storage Loan Hike; Gov. Expected to Sign

A House bill giving the Water Development Board power to make loans on storage dams up to $15 million rather than the present $5 million was approved by the Senate Tuesday and went to the Governor's desk for his signature.

Gov. Price Daniel termed the bill as a "great step forward" in developing Texas' vital water supplies. "It is the first of my major recommendations to be enacted and one of the most important, he stated.

This bill will help the Greenbelt Municipal Water District on the dam project located on Salt Fork of Red River north of Hedley.

MRS. W. W. NOBLET IS RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP AND FUND CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Noblet, assisted by a large number of capable volunteer workers throughout the County has accepted the work involved in raising the County total of $1315.00.

The Red Cross is the expression of concern for one another in time of need. Today the emphasis of Red Cross' activities is on peace time service that can be expanded as needed in national emergencies. The organization's continuous program and its hundreds of volunteer workers make it possible for Red Cross to be on hand to help whenever and wherever human needs arise. As in any organization, this takes adequate funds.

The American Red Cross constantly adjusts its plans within the shifting picture of Community needs so that one Red Cross may continue to serve the entire world. To apply the strength of the Red Cross effectively, the National Organization and the Local Chapters are moving forward together.

Lawrence Neece, Home Service Chairman, is a messenger between the men and women in the armed forces, whose units are broadly scattered around the world, and their families in the home community. The more than a million messages carried last year, brought both sorrowful and joyful news, but they all told facts valuable in the relationship of servicemen and their families.

Many messages were equally valuable to military officials in helping them make decisions regarding emergency leaves, transfers, and even separation from the service for compassionate reasons.

Other volunteer workers with the Red Cross in Donley County are: Mrs. E. S. Ballew, County Chairman; Basil Smith, Disaster Chairman; Mrs. J. Gordon Stewart, Water Safety Chairman; Emmit Simmons, Treasurer; Mrs. W. J. Lewis, Jr., Secretary, and Mrs. Bob Moss, Publicity Chairman for the Fund Drive.

Clarendon Junior High Science Fair Date Set for March 2nd and 3rd

*** *** *** ***

The annual Jr. High Science Fair will be held at the Jr. High gym on Thursday and Friday, March 2nd and 3rd as a prelude and part of Public School Week which has been set for March 6-10. The fair is being held early as the winners here will compete in the science fair the following week in Amarillo.

3. To encourage talented youths to enter scientific careers.
4. To focus attention on science and stimulate student, teacher, and community interest.

QUACKERY VS. CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

The American Medical Association News, which is the newspaper of American medicine, has something worthwhile to say about what it calls "Journalistic Quackery." In its words: "Because of the public's increasing interest in health and matters pertaining thereto, the broad field of medicine each year provides subject matter for scores of books and hundreds of articles in nationally-circulated magazines.

"Most of this material is painstakingly researched, factually and objectively presented, and, consequently provides a valuable communication link between physicians, scientists, research laboratories and the public. This material, of course, is not always complimentary to medicine, but when criticism appears it often is well founded and therefore serves a useful purpose.

"Occasionally, however, an article or book is published in which the author obviously sets out to discredit physicians, hospitals, pharmaceutical companies or medicine in general, and apparently vowed at the outset not to let facts interfere with his predetermined purpose. These essays usually follow the same time-worn pattern of carefully avoiding many of the facts and making broad, generalized attacks against an organization or profession."

The News specifically cites several nationally published pieces of writing of which this is true. Facts are misinterpreted or warped. Overstatement and exaggeration become weapons. Some weakness, real or alleged, is blown up out of all proportion to its real significance. And the great accomplishments of medicine are overlooked or given a minimum of attention.

"Journalistic Quackery" of this order can be used to discredit any enterprise, any profession—or, for that matter, any individual. The defense against it is an informed public which can't be taken in.

ELECTION LAWS NEED REVISION

Nearly 70 million voters cast ballots in the general election just concluded. What most people do not know is that but for our archaic voting laws the turnout of voters last November could have approached the 80 million mark. Between 5 and 10 million American citizens were forced to stand on the sidelines while their fellow citizens went to the polls. These 5 to 10 million disenfranchised citizens were deprived of the right to vote for president because they had moved recently and could not meet the residency requirements in the states to which thy had moved.

We have become a mobile nation, not only for pleasure but of necessity. Countless thousands of persons employed by larger corporations have to change residences as they are transferred or promoted. When this happens shortly before a presidential election under our present laws they automatically lose the right to vote for president.

The irony of the situation is expressed with feeling by one victim of disenfranchisement who was recently promoted and transferred by a major oil company. He writes, "We were being exhorted on all sides to get out and vote. When Arthur Godfrey told my wife (via radio) 'to get off your duff and vote' she wrote him immediately saying she would be glad to but the states would not let her. She committed a terrible crime — she moved! . . ."

There should never be another election in which millions of American citizens lose the right to vote for president because they move from one state to another. The first order of business of state legislatures should be to modernize our election registration procedure.

Money saved for a rainy day buys a much smaller umbrella than it used to.

The number of children appearing before juvenile courts for delinquency has increased two and one-half times in the last 10 years, while child population was increasing only 25 per cent, a special Senate sub-committee revealed.

GEORGE'S WIFE

By "Sarah"

Organize and form a committee seems to be the ultimate goal of America. Most times these committee's only plant ideas and information instead of seed, cultivate attitudes and opinions instead of young plants and hope to harvest good will instead of results, up to now, that is . . . There are some who never bother to do this, and are now heading some powerful committees, other organizations function for the above reasons only.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, heir to the Chairmanship of the house Committee on Education and Labor, not for his ability to hold so high an office but by simply getting elected year after year and doing nothing, according to his own admission to reporters on Meet the Press last Sunday. When asked about his high record of absenteeism and failure to function in committees, his answer, 'I was ignored! Had he been there tocast a vote on any legislation, how could he have been ignored, does any man have more than one vote to cast?

"He just might have something there all right. There's a report which says in only 215 counties in Texas there were 95,000 votes ignored last November."

Mr. Powell has promised to work four or five days a week now and if Mr. Kennedy, with the White House moral authority or position of influence, does not get his work done for him, he will present 'The Powell Bill' again. All this and the man is still under indictment for income tax evasion.

From "The Furrow," comes this information about belonging to organizations. Says "The average farmer, the almost non-participating fellow isn't a bad member, but doesn't give freely the leadership every group needs most. There is potent farm legislative concoctions constantly bubbling up out of our government, though sweet to some, it's often gitter to others. Fifty years ago farmers as a group carried weight in deciding the ingredients poured into the boiling pot. Today only 10 per cent out of a hundred comes from the farm. What they say may be as inaudible as a whisper in a crowd, especially when there are so many different opinions. George says it wouldn't do any good to go up there for any thing any more, be more like the donor said when he entered the blood bank, "Take me to your bleeder."

Teacher to colleague: "Not only is he the worst behaved child in school, he has a perfect attendance record."

LIVESTOCK CAN ALSO HAVE FOOT TROUBLES

College Station — During the cold, wet weather ahead, farmers and ranchers should be on the lookout for limping cattle. Dr. C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian, says that limping is one of the first sign of foot rot, a livestock disease that often develops during fall and winter.

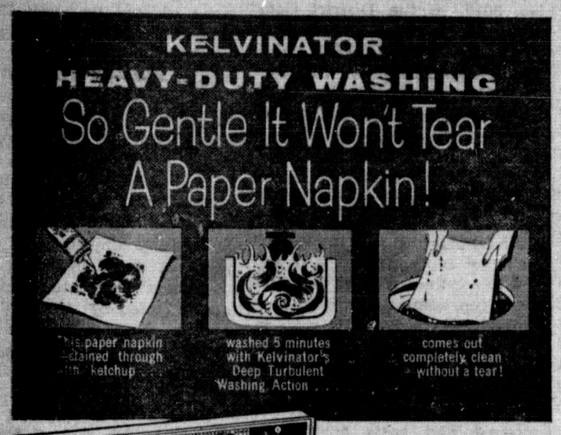

The disease, which causes a raw condition similar to "athlete's foot," can spread rapidly through a herd. Foot rot is caused by an organism which gets its start when the feet of cattle become softened and damaged in wet, muddy lots and pastures, Dr. Patterson continues.

If treatment is begun early, the problem can usually be cleared up. The veterinarian will usually have to trim away the infected tissue before he can apply medication.

Farmers can help prevent the disease by keeping livestock away from pools of stagnant water and water-logged lots. Areas around water and feed troughs should also be kept clean and dry, Dr. Patterson concludes.

RIDDLE: What costs less the more you use it?

ANSWER: The electricity

that serves you in your home. The more of it you use, the bigger the bargain... the less you pay per kilowatt-hour for it. In fact, in homes served by WTU the average cost of electricity is 22% less than it was 10 years ago.

Think how many new uses you have for electricity these days... from your TV to your work-saving appliances for cleaning and washing. This is why your over-all bill may be a little higher than in the old days.

But what else in your home can give you so much value yet cost so little?

New '61 Chevy with Jet-smooth ride!

Impala 4-Door Sedan—Jet-smooth traveler that rivals the luxury cars in everything but price

The '61 Chevy loves to go because it goes so well. Purrs along pavements like a happy tabby. Takes rough roads in stride and all roads in style.

Just why does a Jet-smooth Chevy treat riders as royally as the high-priced luxury cars? It all came about through a delightful blend of Full Coil suspension, precision-balanced wheels, unique chassis cushioning, and a superb Body by Fisher insulated to hush away road sounds. All this adds up to less sway, less jounce, less dip, less dive, less tilt, less noise, less . . . well you name it.

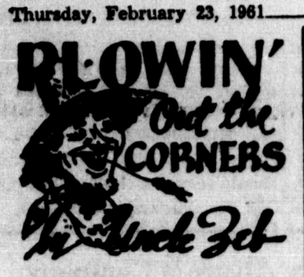

Now combine this Jet-smooth ride with conveniences to pamper you and roominess to relax in. Add a full measure of quiet good looks. Voila, you've got Chevy's formula.

And the proof is in the riding. When you sample a Jet-smooth Chevy at your Chevrolet dealer's we think you'll find it just to your taste.

"HONESTY is the best policy." We wonder who first made the above statement. We also wonder what per cent of any average group would be completely 100 per cent honest. To be completely honest we hate to tackle a column on the subject for fear we can't be both popular and honest at the same time. By this we mean that if we say the things we fear are the truth, folks may thing at first glance we have slipped a cog.

The trials in the anti-trust and price fixing cases made us feel that it was time to think seriously about the matter. This is only an example of things that are all about us. Practices which even though a bit on the shady side are fast becoming a part of our daily habits. It doesn't matter so much about some two dozen companies, or two thousand people, but when we sort of get involved in a practice that is almost commonplace then we have reason to be concerned.

Be honest with yourself and take an inventory of your own life for the past month. Has each and every report been exactly correct and fair? How about speed limits and stop signs if you felt no one was looking on? Have we bragged on something too strongly in order to sell it? An easy one is to take credit when we didn't deserve it. Another good one is to let an untruth go by unchallenged. The list of little dishonest things can be a mile long.

What is wrong? We could blame it on a lot of things. One reason might be the complicated mess in which we find ourselves. Grandfather dealt with the general merchant and sometimes the banker. He looked them square in the eyes across the table.

By contrast, we live in an age of reports, renditions, and returns. We apply for relief, readjustment, and re-imbursement. We can't afford not to keep up with everybody. We absolutely must have our fair share of everything being passed out. Our paycheck has been taxed and taken out of until it doesn't resemble our promised salary. We apply for quotes and allotments. We pay dues for the privilege of belonging to a dozen organizations.

Yes, there are dozens of reasons which we might give as excuses. But honestly, "Honesty is the best policy," and the closer we can come to abiding by it the better off we will be when we look at the fellow in the mirror.

Entertainment in many forms seems to be about the most important part of our modern times. It is big business and more money goes down the various drains than into any other segment of our daily lives. People scamper from their jobs in search of a week-end of diversion. Most of this trend may be justified but we do go to extremes.

So often we are seeking something exciting for the present in order to forget the past. Then again our rushing hither and yon may be an effort to keep from thinking of the future. All this is not necessary. We need not face the future with fear or the past with regret.

The future is not a game of chance. In reality it is a product of today. It is somewhat like when in the spring we plant a certain grain and in the fall we have the harvest. If we use our todays in the right way then the future will bring the right harvest. The future is not just a happen-so but as the flower blooms from the bud so it is that our life unfolds from the patterns we have followed.

Our past will be made of the todays which are passing by. In that we we have control over what it will be like. The little things along the way are that which may cause us to have regrets about the past. We may seek forgiveness and feel that we have received it for our major sins, but if we have been unkind to a friend we are sure to have regrets. If we have been selfish with a loved one we are sure to be sorry later on. Both our future and our past will be a harvest of that which we do today . . .

LIBRARY NOTES
EDITH BARNES

A memorial fund has been given in memory of Mrs. Perkins, mother of Mrs. Parker and Thomas, for children's books for the library.

Friends of the library have given us six books, all fiction. The magazine readers have several different people to thank for our magazine rack being most always full as they bring theirs in while they are still current. These in addition to the ones subscribed to give the reader a pretty wide choice. The only fly in the ointment are those few who keep them longer than seven days and the fewer still who never return them.

Marion Sims' "The City on the Hill" was written in 1940 but the things she writes about are as true today as they were when she wrote the book. Sometimes she hits where it hurts. For instance, "We are in a position to know things that the average man can't possibly know unless he takes the trouble to inquire. And no average man ever takes the trouble; he goes along in his groove, and when we jolt him with an unpleasant truth he flutters like a setting hen and says, 'That's a disgrace! Somebody ought to do something about it!' He stays indignant for 30 minutes and then goes back to making a living and keeping in the good graces of people who can help or hurt him."

She also says, "Apathy is our curse . . . and . . . is far more dangerous than dishonesty and treachery . . ." I looked up the meaning of apathy—lack of interest. She sums it up about right as everyone knows if enough folks do get interested and indignant and stay that way until the job is done about some things that need changing they can accomplish about anything.

Reading Mrs. Sim's book isn't going to change any of us unfortunately but it can give us a jolt for a little while and besides it is an interesting book and is easy to read.

Quoting from Frank Slaughter's, "A Story Tellers Creed," "We would find in a stone age village, one individual whose imaginative powers set him apart from the rest—the storyteller. . . His creed was simple: first to entertain; second, to instruct and third, to influence." This is as it should be, the creed of a good writer also.

Don't forget the slogan for this year's National Library Week, "For a richer fuller life READ!"

"An Informal History of Texas" by Frank Tolbert has been given to the ligrary dedicated to the memory of Mr. Maurice Allensworth.

that happens to us accidently. It is the direct result of the ingredients which we mix into our daily living. A reader who doesn't want to be mentioned sends us the following recipe for a happy day.

Take 1 cup of friendly words, 3 heaping cups of understanding, 4 teaspoons filled with time and patience, then put in a pinch of warm personality, and add a dash of humor. Measure the words carefully as you mix in the generous amounts of understanding. Add to this time and patience and keep the temperature low. Do not boil. Finally add the dash of humor and a pinch of the warm spice of life. Serve in individual molds garnished with smiles. This recipe for a happy day is guaranteed never to fail.

Likely you have your own personal plan for a happy day, and the final results will most always depend on how we mix in the above ingredients.

One of the best plans for happiness is to be happy at our work. We talked with one friend who said that he was able to endure his work only by looking forward and backward to his two weeks of vacation. Wonderful as vacation time may be this puts too much importance on such a short time.

According to one reader, "A vacation consists of 2 weeks, which are 2 short, after which you are 2 tired 2 return 2 work and 2 broke not 2."

To the person who has found the right work, that too, can be a happy time. This will give us so much more time for happiness.

Leader—Local rate, $3.00 a year

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18TH DISTRICT

By Congressman Walter Rogers

Slow Start

Congress got off to a slow start this year. This was due to several reasons, number one being the inauguration of a new President. The 20th Amendment to the Constitution, Section 2, provides as follows:

"The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall begin at noon on the 3rd day of January, unless they shall by law appoint a different day."

The inauguration of a President takes place at noon on the 20th day of January. Hence, you can see that there is a lapse between the convening of Congress and the inauguration of the President. When a new President comes into office, the Congress is more or less stalemated during this interim period. They do not have the Inaugural Address of the new President, his State of the Union message, nor his Economic Report. Under the circumstances, it is not advisable for Congress to take any affirmative action prior to the Inauguration. However, it has always been the policy for the Congress to get completely organized and move forward quickly after the inaugural ceremonies. This brings up the second reason for the slow start of Congress this year. That is, the controversial Rules Committee issue. It was this issue which kept Congress from moving forward with its usual organization plans and being ready to proceed immediately after the Inauguration. The heat revolving around this issue and the firmness of the conflicting opinions on the subject made it impossible from a parliamentary standpoint, a practical standpoint, or a political standpoint, to fully organize the House before that issue was settled.

As most of you know, the issue was settled on Tuesday, January 31st. The settlement was not to my liking, nor in keeping with my vote, but it was settled. Immediately thereafter, the machinery of naming and electing the several members of each committee by the Democratic and Republican parties ground into action. However, the machine did get into high gear soon enough, and Congress ran into another obstacle of delay. Strange as it may seem, this third reason for the delay is the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. For many years, it has been customary for Republican members of Congress to make speeches throughout the country extolling the virtues of Abraham Lincoln—and he had many. Although Mr. Lincoln was born on the 12th of February, and speeches concerning his greatness and his contributions to this country would be most appropriate on that day, the distances which many of the Members must necessarily travel in order to be at the appointed places at the opportune time, requires that congressional activities be held in suspended animation for a period of approximately 10 days. Hence, the time for departure of these speechmakers arrived before committee assignments had been fully determined by the Republicans, because it took so long to settle the Rules Committee issue, which could not be settled until the inauguration of the new President, who could not be inaugurated until noon on January 20th, because of the provisions of the Constitution. So you see, it is not too difficult to blame anything you like or dislike on the Constitution.

The fact is that Congress should have gotten started earlier and should have much of its work behind it. But the further fact is that this has not been done. It means that this session of Congress could very well extend into late fall. A slow start does not mean a fast finish. It usually means that measures which must pass before the end of the fiscal year, which is June 30th, will receive priority of treatment and action. Emergency matters, and there could be a fertile field of these, will consume quite a bit of time; first to determine whether or not they actually are emergency matters, and secondly, if so, what to do about them. In any event, this country can certainly look forward to a most interesting year. It's nice that the people are alert and watching every move.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benson and Mr. Bill Decker from Hereford, and Mr. Art Ballard of Amarillo were visitors in the Nation's Capital this week and it was a pleasure to see and visit with all of them.

Chamberlain Center Holds Box Supper

Chamberlain Community Center was the scene Friday night for a box supper to raise funds for a building program. There was a good crowd out and many pretty boxes furnished by the ladies. The bids were good and $171.00 was raised. This money is now drawing interest at the Farmers State Bank, and will be added to as we can.

This is a long range building program to meet the needs of a growing community. After the bidding the lunches were spread and everyone enjoyed a supper of fried chicken, salads, pies, cakes, and all the trimmings of a fried chicken supper.

After supper was cleared members of the community gave two short skits and a reading for the entertainment of the other members and guests. Velma Heathington, Richard Dingler and Jess Ivey were hilarious in "The Customer is Always Right."

"War Scare" presented by Oran Hott, Clyde Gilbreath, Hawley Harrison, Ira Self, and Harvey Shaw was a riot. Nelda Jones gave the reading "Moonshine Holler" in appropriate Hillbilly attire. Several members finished up the evening with visiting and 42.

CLASSES COMPLETED AT ASHTOLA COMMUNITY CEN.

Members of the Ashtola Community Center have been quite busy the past week, crowding two weeks' projects into one. They met each evening at the center, Monday through Friday, for classes in wood craft and upholstering. The classes were well attended with three visitors from outside the community.

The group is very grateful for the time and effort expended by Bob Baxter and Gene Long of the Agriculture Department of Clarendon Public Schools for their supervision and teaching of the wood craft classes, and for the excellent help of Mrs. Janice Weatherly in conducting the upholstering class.

The women were very impressed with the quality of Mrs. Weatherly's work. A used divan was re-upholstered for use by the community center in this class.

Items made or repaired in the wood craft class included: (1) a three-tiered table; (1) coffee table; (1) end step table; (1) night stand; (1) coffee table, repaired and refinished; (2) bird houses; (1) gun rack with drawer for ammunition; (1) telephone stool; (2) picture frames; (1) what-not shelf, three-in-one; (1) repaired high chair; (1) chest of drawers, refinished; (1) cedar chest, refinished.

AUSTIN, Tex. —House of Representatives, which must make the first run at putting together a money-raising program, is finding its path land-mined with factional feuds.

Hard feelings, largely because of the speaker race, has reached Hatfield-McCoy proportions because of the speaker race, has reached Hatfield-McCoy proportions between liberals and conservatives. Until new events jar the factions into realignment, action and agreement on anything of importance is unlikely.

House Revenue and Taxation Committee began gradually bypassing out two unopposed bills to speed up and cut down the paper work of tax collecting. More sand will be stirred up with the February 15 hearing of a bill to levy a two-factor franchise tax on interstate corporations.

Two other committees are the focus of tax interest. Proposal for a referendum on broad-based taxes at the April 4 election was referred to State Affairs Committee. Its chairman, Rep. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline, has shown no great eagerness to get to it.

Constiutional Amendments

The Constitutional Amendments Committee, however, moved with unusual speed. It passed out a measure that would allow the people to vote on whether they want a constitutional ban on state income and payroll taxes.

Among new money measures introduced are a 2 per cent sales tax on items costing more than $50 and a 3 per cent excise tax on utility companies selling gas, electricity, telephone or telegraph service. Both are by Rep. Tony Korioth of Sherman.

WATER BILLS HEARD—Two bills aimed at making more money available for water projects met no opposition before a House committee.

One would raise from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000 the maximum amount the State Water Development Board could lend for a water project. Another would allow the Water Board to invest funds on hand in government securities.

Both bills, which were recommended by Gov. Price Daniel's water advisory committee, were sent to subcommittee.

INVESTIGATING PANEL APPROVED — House State Affairs Committee unanimously approved a resolution to create a new House General Investigating Committee.

Previous investigating committee, which made headlines in Beaumont and Amarillo, expired with the start of the new session.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., Director of the Department of Public Safety, and numerous Jefferson County people appeared in favor of a legislative group to watch for places where local law enforcement fails to cope with crime.

Named to the committee by Speaker James Turman are: Rep. Charles L. Ballman of Borger, chairman; Reps. Bill Hollowell of Grand Saline, DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi, Bill Pieratt of Giddings and Menton J. Murray of Harlingen.

MORE ELBOW ROOM—Building of new state buildings is relieving the always-cramped conditions under which the legislature has had to work.

Under a bill adopted by both houses, the Senate will get the third floor Capitol space vacated by the Court of Criminal Appeals. House members are to have offices where the Supreme Court used to be. Both courts and the attorney general have moved over to the new Courts Building.

When the second new state office building is completed, the State Pardons Board and Agriculture Department are to move there, leaving still more Capitol space.

Also under way finally is the new state insurance building. Contracts totaling $1,227,000 were let by the State Building Commission.

SCHOOL FOR MENTALLY RETARDED OKAYED — Long-range plans to build a new state school for mentally retarded persons in the Gulf Coast area gained Senate State Affairs Committee approval.

More than 1,200 children are now on the waiting list for state school space, Raymond Vowell, State Hospital Board executive director, told the committee.

Rep. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston is sponsoring the bill which does not appropriate money for the school but authorizes the board to go ahead with planning, accepting gifts, etc.

IN THE MIXING BOWL — Among the now hundreds of measures on the legislative assembly lines are proposals to:

Require state agencies to use American-made compact cars, State Police excepted. By Rep. Paul W. Curington of Corsicana.

Outlaw use of trading stamps. By Rep. Bill Rapp of Raymondville.

Provide for arbitration committees to iron out wage-hour disputes between firemen and city officials in towns of 10,000 or more. By Reps. Obie Jones of Austin and Robert Hughes of Dallas.

Allow part of the $400,000,000 permanent school fund to be invested in corporate securities, the same as the University permanent fund. By Sen. Hubert Hudson of Brownsville.

Protect farmers from the misbranding of commercial fertilizers. By Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe.

Provide up to 10-year prison terms and up to $10,000 fines for unauthorized or fraudulent use of credit cards. By Rep. Charles Sandahl Jr. of Austin.

Allocate $177,000 a year for two years to soil conservation districts to use in combating water and wind erosion. By Sen. Jarrard Secrest of Temple.

Increase to five years in prison the penalty for selling narcotics. By Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston.

Require all meetings of all boards, commissions, committees of the Legislature and all other agencies to be open to the public, with exceptions. By Rep. Bill Rapp of Raymondville.

FARM NEWS

from the County ASC Committee

WHEAT PERFORMANCE

Our reporters have completed measuring wheat farms. May we remind you that May 10th is the date by which excess wheat shall be completely destroyed to bring your farm into compliance. In order to qualify, excess wheat must be destroyed in a regular shape.

COTTON PRE-MEASUREMENT

Applications are being accepted in the ASC office from farmers who desire their allotment acreage measured before time for planting. The request will be accepted until March 1, 1961. The County Committee adopted the following charges to farmers.

The charge for pre-measuring cotton is $8.50 per farm, plus $3.00 for each plot over one, plus 10 cents per acre of allotment, plus 8 cents per mile and 15 cents for each stake used. The fee must be paid by the farmer when he makes application.

1960 WHEAT LOANS

Those of you still have loans on your 1960 wheat crop should keep in touch with the local elevators. Lately, the open market on wheat has been on an upward trend. There is a possibility that you might want to pay your loan off and sell the wheat on the open market. Loans for 1960 may be redeemed at the County ASC office through March 31, 1961.

RELEASED COTTON ACREAGE

If you have more cotton acreage allotment than you need, you shall discuss a release by not later than April 14, 1961. REMEMBER April 14 is the last day you may request additional cotton acreage for your farm.

Will Writes From Austin

Rep. Will Ehrle

AUSTIN—Methods of handling our state deficit are still looming large in the session as members of the Legislature are taking long looks at the three major tax proposals.

At this early stage it would appear either a sales, payroll, or state income tax will be necessary to defray our costs and "balance the books."

It is unfortunate, as I am not enthusiastic about any of the three, but additional taxes on oil and gas won't be enough to handle the $260,000,000 estimate of new money needed by Texas for the next two years.

Rural representatives in the House this week were pleased as we passed House Bill 59, relating to agricultural trailers, which corrects what we believe is unfair license and registration fees.

Cotton Trailers

HB 59, which I co-sponsored, provides an exemption from license and registration for agricultural trailers for use on highways up to a gross weight of 14,000 pounds so long as a farmer is hauling his own products.

It seems inequitable to us that a farmer should have to register and license his trailer for a full year when he needs it for only a limited time each year. This bill will greatly benefit the cotton farmers in our district.

University of Houston

Among other important matters, the University of Houston is pressing the Legislature for state aid this year. Officials from that school appeared this week before the House and Senate presenting their case.

Bills are now being considered in the House and Senate proposing state aid, contending that increased tuition has forced many students in the Houston area to bypass higher education.

Water Program

An important step in our water program passed the House this week. It would allow the Texas Water Development Board to loan a city or water authority up to 15 million dollars for financing.

This program, if passed by the Senate, would allow Texas to loan the Greenbelt Water Authority the full amount to finance this project; the money to be paid back over a 40-year period.

Please let me have your views on the important question of taxes.

FARM BUREAU DIRECTORS MEET

The Donley County Farm Bureau directors met on February 14th at 7:00 p.m. with H. Wood, president presiding. Sue Rhodes read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were approved as read. Mr. Wood discussed the rural fire extinguisher program for rural homes being sponsored by the Farm Bureau. Five extinguishers were on hand to be studied by the directors. They voted to go into the program because they thought it would be a good safety program for rural people. These new extinguishers can ge purchased by contacting Sue Rhodes, H. Wood or Bill Clay. One extinguisher is on display in the county agents office. The directors also voted to back, and to take part in, all rural civil defense program that might be put into action by any federal or state agency. The directors adjourned at 9:30 p.m.
