Airliner Ditched In Caribbean

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman reported a commercial airliner carrying 57 passengers ditched in the Caribbean Saturday afternoon.

The DC9 was flying in heavy rain and the pilot reported he was running low on fuel, the spokesman said. He added the airplane was believed to be operated by Antillian Airways, a Dutch company headquartered in Curacao.

The plane went down about 33 miles east of St. Croix and 120 miles east of San Juan, the spokesman said. The flight was en route to St. Croix from St. Martin.

The spokesman said three rescue planes and a Coast Guard cutter have been sent to the scene.

Three merchant vessels, believed to be within 100 miles of the crash sight, were also called upon to lend assistance.

U. S. Planes Hit Red Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon indicated Saturday U.S. planes have attacked North Vietnam under a long-standing policy of protecting unarmed American reconnaissance planes.

The Pentagon said the planes have been flying over North Vietnam since the bombing halt of Nov. 1, 1968.

"As we have said many times," the Defense Department said, "we conduct protective reaction when necessary to protect our unarmed reconnaissance aircraft from attack."

Earlier, North Vietnam charged that more than 100 U.S. military aircraft attacked populated areas of North Vietnam, killing or wounding many civilians, including a score of children.

It claimed the attacks, in the central and southern portions of North Vietnam were carried out Friday and Saturday.

Hinting at a possible further statement from Saigon, the Pentagon said the U.S. Command there "announces significant instances of protective reaction when they involve U.S. aircraft losses or crew casualties."

Defense sources said this incident had nothing to do with warnings issued by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird at a Pentagon news conference.

Laird said at the conference the United States would resume bombing North Vietnam if Hanoi retaliated against U.S. ground operations aimed at North Vietnamese bases in Cambodia by sending troops across the demilitarized zone into South Vietnam.

By The Associated Press

Lloyd Bentsen Jr., mounting a powerful campaign pointing to his conservative outlook swept liberal Sen. Ralph Yarborough out of office in a stunning upset Saturday.

Bentsen, a political unknown to most of Texas, beat the best-known name in Texas politics—a man who has been running for office for decades.

SOUTHERN BLOC

Yarborough was seeking the Democratic nomination for his third full term in the Senate.

Bentsen's victory assures the southern bloc in the Senate that it will have another member—whether it is a Democrat or a Republican.

Republican George Bush, a U. S. House member, won the Republican nomination for the Senate by a stunning margin over Robert Morris.

Bentsen captured a solid lead from the start of the vote count and at a late hour maintained a percentage of the vote of about 54 per cent—a safe margin in a political contest.

STATES RIGHTS

The Texas Election Bureau, the unofficial vote-counting agency, called the turnout one of the lightest in Texas history for a primary considering the 4.1 million who had registered.

The result—coupled with a trend to return conservatives to some key positions in the Texas Legislature—could only indicate the majority of Texans are against militant riots, anti-war rallies and large federal expenditures and want the states to have more rights. These were the issues onto which Bentsen pegged his platform.

One of the big surprises was the manner in which turbulent, aggressive Jerry Sadler lagged in his race for Democratic renomination for land commissioner, a job he has held for nine years after long service on the Railroad Commission and in the legislature.

LAST LIBERAL

Political unknown Bob Armstrong of Austin, a member of the legislature, was within a hair's breadth of winning nomination over Sadler and Fred Williams without a runoff.

Yarborough was the only liberal voice on the statewide political scene.

Saturday's result could only show that Texas had returned to conservatism and states rights—if it ever had really left those philosophies.

Coupled with the Democratic Senate race in significance was the trend toward ousting liberals in the Texas Legislature.

SPEND, SPEND, SPEND

Bentsen hit Yarborough with telling blows on two issues of conservatism vs liberalism: mob violence and federal spending.

See Election Returns On 7-A and 8-A

The Houston insurance executive called Yarborough won by the apostle of "spend, spend, spend."

And he accused Yarborough of supporting anti-war moratoriums, stressing that the moratoriums and militant left-wing rallies led to severe violence in the streets.

The senator cried "foul," but Bentsen refused to back down, declaring that Yarborough had made his bed and now must lie in it.

What Bentsen did was take away from Yarborough some of his strength, particularly in counties with heavy vote registration. And even where he did not win the counties, he often cut sharply into Yarborough's strength.

AUSTIN SWITCH

As some predicted, Bentsen led in Bexar County (San Antonio) which Yarborough won by a 2-1 margin in Yarborough's last primary—the 1964 contest with Dallas radio executive Gordon McLendon.

Bentsen led in Dallas as expected, and in such counties as Lubbock, McLennan, Cameron, Smith and Gregg—all of which were Yarborough country in 1964. He led Yarborough 2-1 in Dallas County at one time.

The margin in vote-heavy Travis County (Austin) switched between the contestants where six years ago Yarborough held a 13-8 lead.

On the other hand, Yarborough held onto his ethnic minority vote from all indications, except perhaps in Bexar County.

The senator beat Bentsen in Hidalgo County, in the heart of the district Bentsen represented in Congress. There is a strong Mexican-American vote in the county.

'Free Bobby Seale' Chants Huge Crowd

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Massed under a skywriter's peace sign, youthful demonstrators listened Saturday to a taped message from the man whose release they were demanding: Black Panther national chairman Bobby Seale. About 1,200 National Guardsmen stood by several blocks away.

The crowd on the New Haven Green cheered and rose to its feet when Seale's wife, Artie, was introduced at an afternoon rally, highlighting the second day of a two-day demonstration.

Mrs. Seale played a message she said had been taped by her husband three hours earlier in Montville State Prison where he is being held, near New London.

"It's a racist system," Seale said. "Pigs . . . scared people away from this rally," he added, referring to police and troops who had been alerted in case of violence.

Judge McCloud Swamps Court Race Opponent

Austin McCloud, Colorado City, judge of the 32nd Judicial District, Saturday won promotion to the chief justiceship of the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals.

Unofficial returns from all but one of the 23 counties showed that Judge McCloud had swamped his opponent, Roger Garrett, Abilene attorney, by 40,896 to 17,864. He will be unopposed in the November general election.

Judge McCloud carried all but one county — Jones, of which Garrett is a native.

His home county of Mitchell gave Judge McCloud 94 per cent of its total—2,147 to 134.

From the earliest returns, there was never any doubt as to the trend in the race.

Judge McCloud came to Colorado City after earning his law degree from Baylor University law school and was appointed to the bench vacated by Eldon Mahon. He has been twice re-elected to that post.

McCloud will preside over the appellate court at Eastland, whose member are Judge Cecil Collins, former Big Spring, and Judge Esco Walter.

Results of the voting by counties, all complete but Scurry and Stephens, are given in the tabulation.

A runoff shaped up Saturday night in the 63rd Legislative District race between Dee Jon Davis and Ralph Mahoney. With a strong third, Roy Ford thwarted Davis' chances for a first Democratic primary victory.

Unofficial complete returns from the three-county district of Howard, Mitchell and Nolan showed Davis leading with 5,119, Mahoney next with 3,323 and Roy Lee Ford with 2,750. Davis carried two counties — Howard and Nolan, but Mahoney edged him in Mitchell.

All candidates are from Big Spring, and Mahoney, a cotton buyer, and Davis, a practicing attorney, will be contesting in June for the place being vacated by Rep. Temple Dickson, Sweetwater, who was not a candidate.

This is the way the race stacked up by counties:

Davis Ford Mahoney

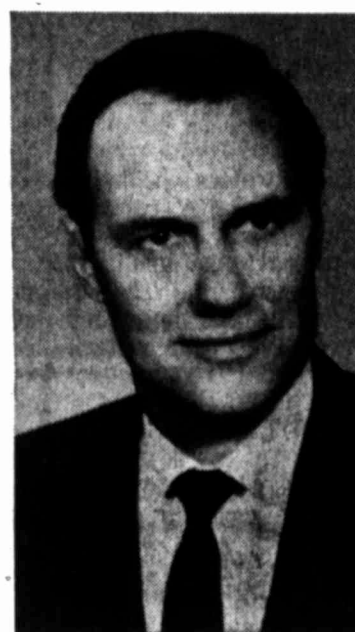

County	Davis	Ford	Mahoney
Howard	2,491	1,607	1,591
Mitchell	876	531	886
Nolan	1,752	612	846
Totals	5,119	2,750	3,323

Prime Time Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission by a 5-2 vote has adopted a proposal that would limit the amount of prime time a television station can fill with network programming.

The proposal—if accepted after a 30-day period for opponents to file their opinions with the FCC—would take effect in September 1971.

In the 50 largest markets it would require stations to fill one hour of the 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. prime time block with something other than network programs.

Local Commissioners Court To Have Three New Faces

Howard County Commissioners Court next year will have a new makeup, but its actual personnel will have to be determined in the second Democratic primary of June 6.

Contestants for county judge then will be Harvey Hooser and A. G. Mitchell, who emerged in Saturday's primary at the top of a five-man race, and were separated by only five votes. In complete, unofficial tabulations Hooser had 1,768 and Mitchell 1,763. The incumbent, Lee Porter, did not seek re-election, and there is no Republican candidate.

Trailing in the judge's race were Omar Jones 1,159, D. A. Brazel 864, and Lewis Heflin 188.

Vote total in Saturday's primary was 5,899, considered extremely light considering the number of contested races. Much higher totals were recorded in 1960, 1962 and 1964, going as high as 7,800 the last named year.

The only incumbent seeking office on the Court, Bill Tune as commissioner for Precinct 4, lost out, and runoff contestants will be Bob Wheeler 499, and

Deadly Shootout

HOUSTON (AP) — Walter Bennett, 33, died Friday night in a shootout outside a cafe.

Police said Bennett had been thrown out of the cafe and came back brandishing a gun. The grill manager told police Bennett pointed the pistol at him and he fired back with a pistol he kept behind the counter. No charges were filed.

Jack Buchanan 477, Tune had 349 and Jeff Grant 284.

For commissioner of Precinct 2, Raymond Hamby and Bill Bennett got into a runoff, Hamby getting 655 votes and Bennett 483. They outdistanced Ed Edwards 311, Howard A. Sherrill 306 and Joe T. Swinney 226.

Ray Nichols, present Precinct 2 commissioner, did not seek re-election.

Fern Cox, incumbent, ran up virtually a two-to-one margin over his opponent for District Clerk, getting 3,601, to 1,877 for Evelyn Hale.

Hooser is a veteran attorney here and Mitchell, who ran four years ago for county judge, has been a deputy in the sheriff's office.

Wheeler formerly was purchasing agent for Howard County with years of experience in the road department. Buchanan is a farmer-rancher and leader in conservation programs.

Hamby operates a used car business, and Bennett is a farmer-rancher.

Struck, Killed By Hit-And-Run

HOUSTON (AP) — Bobby Gene White, 33, was killed late Friday night when he was struck by a hit-and-run car at a Houston intersection.

Witnesses said the driver of the car which struck the walking White got out of his car after the accident, looked at the victim, then got in his car and sped away.

Big Spring Week

. . . with Joe Pickle

This surely shouldn't be classed as a dull weekend, for plenty has been or is going on. In town is the Fourth division convention of the American Legion, plus the matched roping contest this afternoon between Ronny Sewalt and Barry Burk. Last evening a few hundred square dancers held a festival here, and a "Stars" parade was unreeled at the Municipal Auditorium.

Were you included in the recent census enumeration? If you're not absolutely certain, then you are urged to fill out a form appearing in The Herald. It is tremendously important that every individual be included in this 10-year census check.

This undoubtedly will go down in the records as that cool Spring. It was a crazy weather week with balmy weather, then a punishing wind early Wednesday that moved more sand and dust in a shorter space of time than most people can remember. (Hot winds hit up to 60 and 75 mph briefly and drove temperatures up to 82 degrees at 3 a.m.) But Friday a front moved in and readings tumbled to 37 — low enough that winds and backdraft caused some ice to form where sprinklers were left going.

Big Spring school teachers will continue to get their $650 over the state foundation scales, which is good news for them and for administrators who must recruit teachers. A budget

ONE OF SIX NEW PUMP STATIONS BUILT IN WATER DISTRICT EXPANSION
Spade Ranch station has million-gallons storage, 17,000,000 GPD rating

Water District Board Inspects Completed Job

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District looked Thursday at more than $32 million of work completed in the past three years.

They couldn't see about half of it — it was underground.

O.H. Ivie, general manager, presented a breakdown of costs for a $35,000,000 expansion program, and the construction costs came out to $32,006,855. To this is added the cost of financing, both in bond issuance and interest during construction. It will come to more than the $34.5 million in two bond issues because the District put in $1,482,671 out of revenues generated by the existing system.

BIGGEST ITEM

The chief item of cost was the E. V. Spence reservoir and

Robert Lee dam which ran to $14,417,997. The dam and spillway cost $9,315,373. While not so apparent as these structures (and even a part of the dam is an inverted dam below the base to prevent possible underflow) were such items as $1,857,561 for land and damages; $154,106 for clearing brush in the basin; $998,282 for building mounds from which oil wells can produce in the dry; $165,675 for moving pipelines; $1,446,997 for electrical lines. The project also included $44,759 for a barge, $23,244 for a drip trap to catch condensates from gas lines going under the lake. The relocation of State Highway 158 cost the district $1,145,424. Long before the project ever started, the district had to pay out $400,000 to satisfy claims in obtaining a lake permit.

This all looked good to the directors, especially with some 35,000 acre-feet of water impounded today. Twice that amount would make the picture lovely, they agreed. (The lake has a capacity of 488,000 acre-feet, or about 162 billion gallons.)

PUMP STATIONS

Board members also inspected new pump stations which ranged from $688,326 for the main one at Lake Spence to $223,822 for additions to the Martin County station — or a total cost of $2,391,326 for six of them. At full tilt, these will be able to deliver some 35,000,000 gallons a day as far west as Odessa, although now operations are geared to 17,000,000.

Another impressive facility was the low-flow diversion works just above Colorado City. The channel dam to stop the normal low flow, the pump station to boost these highly mineralized waters behind a dam, and a sizable reservoir for storage cost $1,099,341 — all just to improve the quality of water downstream. The 80-million gallons per day pumps were turned on momentarily and made the river run backward.

COSTLY LINES

Less apparent but costly were the pipelines which showed up only at the pump stations. The project called for 685,978 feet of supply lines, ranging from a mile and a half section of 12-inch line up to more than 60 miles of 42-inch diameter line which cost about $22 a foot. Total bill for the lines was $11,833,465. These connect the diversion works with the existing Sun pipeline in Mitchell County; the Sun line with Moss Creek Lake (a key terminal storage for the district); Lake Spence with Big Spring; Big Spring with Midland.

Also unseen but trunk nerve in the operational communications system was a buried cable all the way.

WORK PRAISED

This will tie into a control center being installed now at a cost of $170,650 with an eventual capacity for operating the entire system automatically from one point. A final item of cost was the $180,585 for building a 15-million-gallon reservoir for Midland, which last month began taking water from the district.

The project drew high praise from Charles Perry, Odessa, district president. Lee Freese, speaking for Freese, Nichols and Endress, consulting engineers, lauded Ivie and the district staff for exceptional work. In a time of rapidly rising costs, the project experienced only modest overrun, he said.

Fiber Glass Has Glowing Report

Good progress on an expansion program as well as a fine outlook in marketing were reported at the annual stockholders meeting of Fiber Glass System, Inc. here Friday.

Stockholders returned all directors and added two new ones — Bob Michaels and Marvin M. Miller. Those re-elected were John Currie, Russell Dorsey, L. B. Edwards, Gil Jones, John L. Taylor and R. W. Whipkey. The board named officers, and it was indicated that W. K. (Bill) Jackson will become treasurer.

Assets of the corporation now have reached $464,000, a sharp increase over the $220,000 last July. Part of this gain came from the exercising of stockholder warrants to purchase additional shares which yielded $170,000 to finance plant expansions.

V. F. Michael, president, told stockholders at the meeting at Big Spring Country Club that 180x60 new building and a 20-ft. extension to the original plant had been completed. Two new pipe machines are complete and will be moved into the new building this week, he said. Facilities are now being operated on three shifts, and by the end of the year all increments of the expansion program should be complete with resulting sharp increase in production, said the president.

Bob Michaels and Jerome Garretson, new staff members, projected slides of Star pipe, a product of the factory here, being installed as flow lines or downhole pipe. Although the company is young and not yet widely known, they said the quality of product had earned a good reputation. Both predicted sales would match plant capacity. President Michael told stockholders that output of fittings would be stepped up to round out the systems service. Stockholders gave management a standing vote of thanks.

Many Families Plead For Their POW Relatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 1,000 Americans, united in common concern over loved ones being held captive or listed as missing in Southeast Asia, have issued a renewed plea for pressure on Hanoi for humane treatment of prisoners of war.

The relatives of 1,500 U.S. servicemen were among 4,000 persons filling Constitution Hall Friday night for a program billed as an Appeal for International Justice. They heard the founder of the American League of Families of American Prisoners in Southeast Asia, Mrs. James B. Stockdale of Coronado, Calif., urge "all Americans to let the leaders of North Vietnam know how they feel about the treatment of our boys."

She added: "A vigorous letter-writing campaign is crucial."

PAIN — YOUR BODY'S CRY FOR HELP

There has never been a generally satisfactory definition of pain or even a good method to measure it. Some rare individuals have an in-born immunity to pain which is called "Congenital Analgesia." Others are so sensitive that they feel pain at the slightest instance. But, pain is your body's personal alarm system and should not be ignored.

Once your physician has pinpointed the condition causing the pain symptom, he can act to give you quick relief. We stock the medicines he prescribes in our prescription laboratory. We have the modern pain killers and medicines that attack the cause of pain symptoms.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Seven Billed For Alleged Supply Of Faulty Parts

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Seven men have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges that they conspired to pass defective parts for the controversial F111 fighter plane.

There was no mention in the 20-count indictment of an F111 crash which killed two crewmen last Dec. 22 near Las Vegas, Nev., nor the subsequent grounding of more than 225 of the planes delivered to the Air Force.

The indictment, brought by a grand jury at Little Rock, Ark., and opened Friday, named three employees of General Dynamics Corp. here, the prime contractor for the swing-wing plane, and four officials of two subcontracting firms.

Fifteen F111s have crashed, among them three in Vietnam. A wing breaking off because of a steel flaw caused the Nevada crash, the Pentagon said. Asorted technical problems and pilot error were blamed for other crashes.

It was unlikely that the parts figuring in the indictment could have been responsible for a crash, a General Dynamics spokesman said.

It said the defendants placed new serial numbers on parts previously rejected by the General Dynamics material review board and sent those parts back through inspection to be bought by the company as new. Many of the parts were welded to hide defects, the grand jury said.

The indictment accused the four subcontractor officials of giving cash, cars, building supplies and entertainment to General Dynamics employees.

One of the seven men, Neuman L. Johnson, identified as chief of outside production for General Dynamics, surrendered Friday to authorities in Fort Worth. He was freed under $2,500 bond. Other General Dynamics employees named in the indictment are James L. Townley, a quality assurance superintendent; and Joseph R. Spear, resident inspector at subcontracting plants producing F111 components.

Also indicted were Harry C. Bass Jr., president and chief executive officer, Selb Manufacturing of Walnut Ridge, Ark.; Kenneth W. Hunn, vice president of Blades Manufacturing Co. of Rector, Ark.; Melvin C. Davis, Selb plant manager; and Steven C. Fischer, assistant to the president and public relations manager for both companies. The firms are F111 subcontractors.

COSVN Not Easy To Find

SAIGON (AP) — The American troops who invaded Cambodia are seeking an elusive objective: the top command post for all Communist military and political activities in South Vietnam.

It is being hunted in the scrub jungles of Cambodia north of Vietnam's war zone "C" where the enemy has constructed thick-walled concrete bunkers linked by a maze of tunnels.

But the top enemy command post, known as the Central Office for South Vietnam, or COSVN, is only sometimes in that area. Since it was formed in the early 1960s, COSVN has been a mobile and dispersed headquarters.

Senior Vietnamese officers say the command post was moved deeper into Cambodia a few days ago, apparently in an participation of the American sweep.

COSVN, is responsible for both political affairs and Viet Cong military activities.

The headquarters reports directly to officials in Hanoi by highly sophisticated radio communications. The key leaders of COSVN at present are also members of the North Vietnamese Politburo, according to American specialists in Communist affairs.

HOLDEN C. HOLDEN

Holden Authors Book On Ranch

LUBBOCK — The Texas State Historical Association Thursday announced its publication of "The Espuela Land and Cattle Company" by Texas Tech Emeritus Professor of History William Curry Holden.

The new volume is an expanded and more definitive edition of Dr. Holden's "The Spur Ranch" which was published in 1934. In the 1970 book, the author devotes five chapters to the background of the Spur country in West Texas before the organization of the Espuela Land and Cattle Company of Fort Worth and the Espuela Land and Cattle Company, Ltd., of London.

His analytical study of the ranch covers its organization in 1883 until it was sold — much of it to the S. M. Swenson family and associates in 1907.

"Holden, after joining the Tech faculty in 1929, discovered that among the rare items in the university's fledgling library were ranch office records of the Espuela Land and Cattle Company, Ltd., of London — 15 volumes containing about 500 pages each — and other records relating to the Spur (the English word for "espuela.")

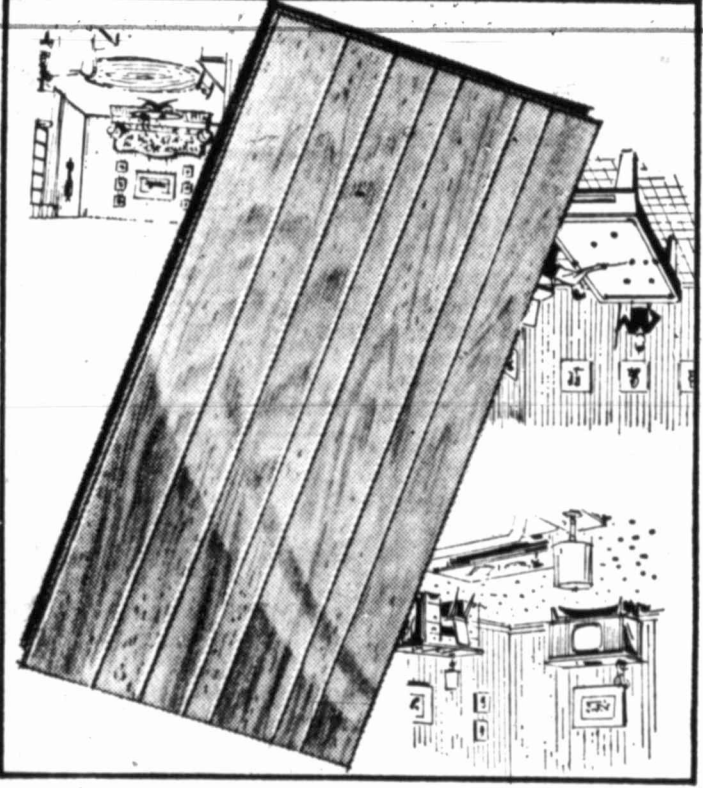

A reception and autograph party for Holden will be held May 17 in the rotunda of the Texas Tech Museum which he also helped to found.

The reception will be the final public event held at the museum before it moves into its new $2.5 million quarters where a Ranch Headquarters outdoor exhibit also will be situated. Dr. and Mrs. Holden have served as co-chairmen of this project.

Wished He Had Been Fireman

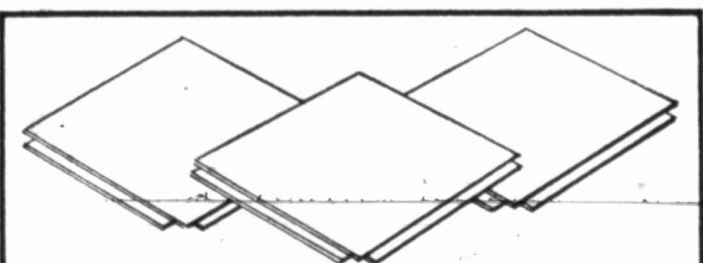

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., told a firemen's dinner Friday night that he had always wanted to be a fire fighter but ended up in politics instead.

"After the last few days, I wish I'd been a fire fighter," said the senator, who is spending the weekend in his home state making speeches and assessing the political effect of the release Wednesday of the inquest report on the death of Mary Jo Kopechne in his car last summer.

Justice Finds Quickest Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger says his visit to the White House Thursday night had nothing to do with the Cambodian situation.

Burger said Friday that he went to the presidential mansion on a judicial errand.

The reason for the personal visit? According to the chief justice, he was unable to telephone the White House because the phone lines were jammed by callers regarding the President's just-completed address on Cambodia.

EXPECT FIERCE COUNTERATTACKS

U. S. Troops Overrun Four Bases

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. forces swung across the Fishhook area of Cambodia Saturday against little resistance, overrunning several base camps, capturing tons of rice and reaching the area of enemy headquarters.

Senior allied intelligence sources said, however, they expect the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong to launch fierce counterattacks within a week against the 8,000 U.S. troops and 2,000 South Vietnamese paratroopers who thrust into Cambodia Friday on President Nixon's orders.

As many as 7,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops are thought to be in the Fishhook area, so called because of its shape, and in bases in nearby South Vietnam.

WE'RE PURSUING

One of the enemy bases reached was the center of operations for a Viet Cong division. But the main command headquarters, an underground complex, has yet to be found.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett, with the American task force, reported that a column of tanks had reached Highway 7, east of the town of Mimot, about eight miles inside Cambodia. One of the largest rubber plantations in Cambodia is nearby.

The task force is pursuing a North Vietnamese regiment that seized Mimot three nights ago, routing two battalions of Cambodian defenders.

Aerial observation Saturday indicated the North Vietnamese had moved out of Mimot. Remnants of the Cambodian defense force fled into South Vietnam and have been providing the Americans with information on the whereabouts of the North Vietnamese.

ON THE WAY

On the way to Highway 7, the tank column overran three enemy battalions base camps with little opposition. Most of the enemy soldiers had fled.

At one point, the tanks drove into an open field that turned out to be the camouflaged roof of some secret installation. The tank crews, under orders to push on, had no time to check it out.

Farther on, a hungry American infantryman passing through a pineapple farm yanked out a plant, revealing a tunnel entrance. It led to board-lined rooms, sleeping quarters and mess halls. The tunnel complex had an exit that led into a tiny farm above ground stocked with chickens, pigs and cows.

At the end of the second day of the operation, U.S. headquarters in Saigon reported 398 enemy killed, most of them by air and artillery strikes, 118 enemy suspects detained, and 38 weapons captured. American casualties were put at 5 killed and 25 wounded. South Vietnamese casualties in the operation stand at 4 killed and 16 wounded.

LIKE A MONSTER

According to the U.S. Command, Base Area 353 is the operational area of the Viet Cong 9th Division, comprised mostly of North Vietnamese troops. The headquarters and a regiment of the 7th North Vietnamese Division works out of Base Area 352.

The base areas also contain the headquarters of the Central Office for South Vietnam—COSVN—which controls all military and political operations against the southern half of South Vietnam.

Captured documents, prisoners and defectors have described the headquarters as a widely dispersed complex of underground concrete buildings, some seven or eight layers deep, with sliding doors and electric lights.

"It's like a monster with many arms," Brig. Gen. Robert M. Shoemaker, commander of the American task force told newsmen.

HITTING HARD

Discussing the likely enemy

counterattack, a senior U.S. intelligence officer said: "There are thousands of enemy underground. Right now we are pushing through and we don't have time to search them out."

"We believe these troops will fight us because we are hitting hard at their nerve center. They have to react."

Far to the south, a South Vietnamese armored force launched a new drive across the border into the Viet Cong's Cambodian Ba Thu base area, a complex of four square miles webbed with roads and dotted by thousands of bunkers and houses.

AMERICANS DIE

Fighting wore on through the day with about 130 enemy reported killed, mostly by air and artillery strikes. South Vietnamese losses were put at five dead.

A South Vietnamese general, observing the operation, and six other Vietnamese aboard his helicopter were killed in a crash with a U.S. helicopter gunship inside Cambodia.

12 Plan To Whack Pentagon Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan group of 12 senators announced plans Saturday for a rigorous examination of the $73-billion defense budget to chop Pentagon spending and reorder "the relative priorities between military security and domestic needs."

The announcement assures a renewal of last year's struggle when military procurement authorization legislation reaches the Senate floor, probably in late May or early June.

It is scheduled for House passage this week—probably Wednesday.

Although one focus of the fight again will be the Safeguard missile defense system, narrowly approved on a tie vote last year, the senators made clear they intend to apply their efforts to a wide variety of weapons projects, the size and nature of conventional forces, procedural issues and procurement practices plus the general level of Pentagon spending.

"We believe the result of such scrutiny can both substantially reduce the general level of expenditures and provide for as great if not greater real security for the United States," the senators said.

Last year, the critics won restrictions on chemical and biological warfare (CBW); studies of the need for new aircraft carriers and tanks; and a number of lesser victories. But much of what was accomplished in the Senate fell by the wayside when the procurement bill went to a Senate-House conference committee of senior Armed Services Committee members from the two houses.

But Congress cut more than $5 billion from the defense budget.

The signers of the statement include nine Democrats—Sens. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, J.W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Philip A. Hart, Michigan, Vance Hartke, Indiana, George S. McGovern, South Dakota, Gaylord Nelson, Wisconsin, Walter F. Mondale, Minnesota, Thomas F. Eagleton, Missouri, and Harold E. Hughes of Iowa—plus three Republicans—Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Clifford P. Case, New Jersey and Charles E. Goodell, New York.

Two schools — Federal City College in Washington, D.C., and Pennsylvania State University—have the most critical problem, the survey showed.

Federal City College is preparing 16,000 rejection slips and Penn State will say no to 10,400 students, including 7,400 state residents.

Reasons for the refusal of admission generally fall in these categories in the major schools: classroom shortage, faculty shortage, enrollment quota, housing shortage, and a lower dropout rate.

A major school survey shows applications have increased the most — 12.4 per cent — in the Northeast. Applications in the South and West rose by 8.7 and 8.6 per cent respectively.

In the Midwest, applications decreased 5.3 per cent. This decline was attributed to large tuition increases for nonresidents and widely publicized quotas on out-of-state students.

Students To Be Greeted With 'Sorry, No Room'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although academically qualified, tens of thousands of students will be greeted with "sorry, no room" when they seek admission as freshmen at a state college or university.

Surveys conducted by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges and the American Association of State Colleges and Universities show applications for admission in the fall of 1970 rolling in at a record clip.

The first organization, representing 101 of the nation's largest schools, said 35 of its members estimated that they will have to reject 87,230 qualified applicants.

The American Association, with 213 member schools having 1.7 million or one-fifth of the nation's graduate and undergraduate students, reports that 62 of its institutions will turn away qualified applicants from within their own state and 73 will reject qualified out-of-state applicants.

Admission applications to the larger schools were up 6.9 per cent over 1969 and by March 15, 84 of the 101 schools had received 579,370 applications compared with 541,757 a year ago.

Burk, Sewalt Square Off In Roping Match Today

Major league calf roping and barrel racing come to Rodeo Bowl at 2 p.m. today. In the spotlight will be two of the most talented young ropers on the rodeo circuit today — Barry Burk and Ronny Sewalt — who will square off in a 10-calif matched event.

But this is only part of the action. Thirty-five other leading ropers, a couple of them in the top 10 money winners last year, will take part in two sections of jackpot roping. Best time on two calves will win this event. The number of women in the barrel racing will not be known until show time when Jack Lewis will register entrants, but a substantial number is anticipated. Pre-registration includes some of the leading contenders for the current national crown.

Fifty raw-boned crossbred calves have been on feed here during the week and are in excellent condition. Sunday will mark the first time they have been roped.

TOP ROPING ARTISTS
Burk, member of a famous Duncan, Okla., roping family, last year finished third in national standings and lacked only $206 in winnings to be in second place. Sewalt finished sixth.

Burk was runnerup for the national title in 1967 and 1968 and he was five times champion of the National Junior Rodeo Association.

Sewalt, whose father, Royce, once grabbed the coveted national crown, seemed headed for one in 1966 when he injured a knee and finished third. A southpaw roper, he ties right-handed.

Ropers will be under the watchful eye of the greatest of all — Toots Mansfield, Big Spring rancher who was seven times world champion. He will be the man who starts calves and ropers. Announcer will be Rich Anderson, Borden County rancher.

Lowest elapsed time for 10 calves will win the matched event. Burk and Sewalt will rope five calves, then in the second go around, each will rope the other's original calves.

HOW IT WORKS
Timing starts when a roper's horse crosses the starting point (over which is stretched a line known as the barrier, and which, if broken prior to its release by the starter, inflicts a 10-second penalty). Once the roper has caught his calf, he must throw it to the ground, slip a loop of a "piggin" string over a foreleg and then with two quick wraps around the calves legs, plus a hoole (a short of halt hitch wrap) to bind the calf.

Time stops at this point. However, the roper must go back to his horse, mount and slack off on the rope to see if the calf stays down the required time.

HORSE IS KEY

While skill of ropers is something to behold, a substantial contribution is made by the roping horses. These must be quick and fast, get the roper in good position to throw the loop, stop instantly as the roper rises to bound off the saddle, then back off to always keep the lariat taut between calf and saddle.

Today's event is sponsored by the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, which will have its annual rodeo extravaganza in about a month.

Graduate Center Schedules Classes

Undergraduate and graduate-level courses are announced for summer 1970 to be taught in the Midland-Odessa area by Sul Ross University, through the Permian Basin Graduate Center. Registration is set for 7 p.m. Friday night, May 15, at the Armed Forces Reserve Center at Terminal.

Courses to be offered include: Ed. 335-Methods, Observations, and Materials for the Elementary Teacher; Ed. 534-History of the Far East; Ed. 334-Educational Psychology; Ed. 431-Individual Assessment and Guidance; Eng. 430-Teaching of Reading; Ed. 636-Child Growth & Development; Eng. 533-Structure and History of the English Language; Music 330-Music Education in Elementary Schools. Information may be had by writing the center at P.O. Box 1518, Midland, or calling 563-2311.

Many Applicants

HOUSTON (AP) — About 60 persons applied for the general superintendent's post for the Houston School District, officials said Friday.

Among the 60 is acting Supt. Charles Nelson, who replaced Glenn Fletcher who retired March 31.

Three Perish In Car-Truck Crash

BUNKIE, La. (AP) — A car-truck collision near here Friday night killed three Oklahoma residents.

They were Milas Patterson, 49, of near Pauls Valley, Okla.; Geneva Lewis, 40, and her daughter, Jeanetta, 19, also of Pauls Valley.

A boy, 3, presumed to be Mrs. Lewis' child, was injured seriously. The victims were in an auto that hit the side of a truck, police said.

THE WEEK

of $5,139,640 is in prospect without having to raise taxes.

Big Spring State Hospital came in for some welcome news. An additional $71,000 was allocated to the hospital, along with $29,000 transferred from another installation. These provide funds sorely needed for operations because the patient load had risen from an average of 900 to 960.

The primaries are now over and results are in. For some it will be a time of relief, for some disappointment, for others continued worry until the runoff is past a month hence. These times call to mind the defeated candidate who put on a pistol the morning after the election on the grounds that anyone with no more friends than he had (at the polls) needed protection.

Officers are still searching, and apparently without substantial leads, for an assailant of Police Sgt. Don Thorpe. The officer said he accosted two men in a car near the bowling alley and was fired upon when he asked to see a driver's license. He was hit once in the arm but hopefully will make full recovery.

An official announcement of the purchase of Radio Station KBYG was made during the week. John H. Hicks III, Beaumont radio man, acquired the station for $170,000 subject to FCC approval, and will operate under the name of Howard County Radio, Inc. with

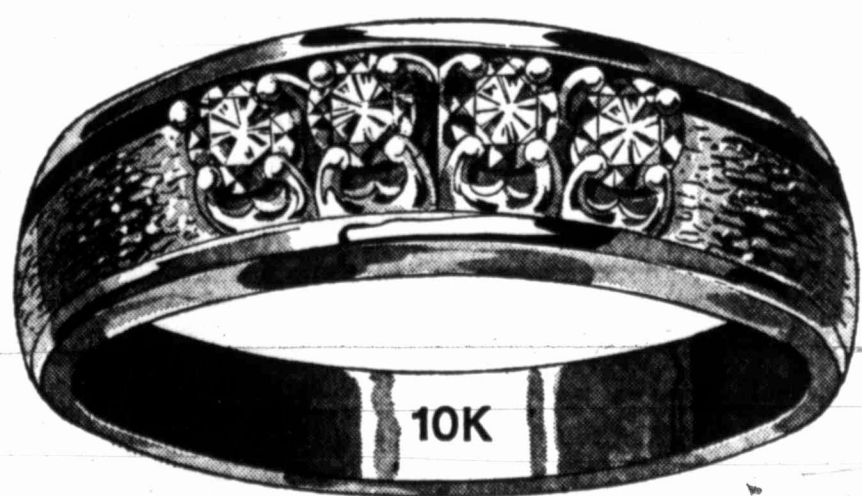

An old timer departed the scene during the week. Harry Lees was born here in 1896 and lived in Big Spring all his life. A founder of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, he was a faithful director of its maintenance program.

Speaking of old timers, another one is in the process of meeting its demise. Word of demolishing the Texas & Pacific Railway terminal — or depot (that's deepo) — started during the past week. Within a month only lingering rubble and memories will mark the place where people congregated to see the trains come in and catch the Sunshine Special out. Some efforts were made to preserve it, but all these seemed too costly.

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District inspected the completed 1966-69 expansion program during the past week. More than $32 million in construction has put the district in excellent position to furnish water needs of this area of the state. Now, when the Lord rewards this faith with a trash-moving, cob-floating rain, everything will be rosy.

Blinky the Lion will be blinking this week when Downtown Lions stage their annual light bulb sale Thursday and Friday. All net proceeds go into a special fund for blind and sight conservation, youth and other welfare projects.

HINTS GROUND ATTACKS INTO OTHER SANCTUARIES

Laird Favors Resumed Bombing Of North Vietnam If...

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration Saturday signaled a wide-ranging offensive against all enemy base areas in Cambodia and warned that North Vietnam may be bombed again if Hanoi retaliates across the demilitarized zone.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird unfolded administration policy at a news conference at which he made it plain last week's U.S.-South Vietnamese operations against two North Vietnamese sanctuaries are just the beginning. He hinted at possible further widening into Laos.

Shortly after Laird's session with newsmen, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told reporters the defense secretary was not stating administration policy with regard to resumed bombing of the North.

"He gave a hypothetical answer to a hypothetical question," Scott said, adding that he had been authorized by the White House to say this.

The defense secretary told reporters "I do recommend that all (sanctuaries) be subject to air and ground interdiction."

He said he meant "a base chain" of five major sanctuary areas stretching from the region where Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam meet all the way down to near the Mekong River delta.

ALREADY HITTING

He dropped a hint that U.S. warplanes already are hitting into the three major base areas not yet invaded by allied ground troops which are operating in the Parrot's Beak and Fishhook areas, traditional jumping-off points for attacks on Saigon.

Laird hinted that ground attacks into other sanctuaries can be expected in the next three or four weeks of good weather before the monsoon rains.

For the time being, Laird said, the United States will limit itself to air attacks on infiltration routes through Laos but that "this will be assessed on the basis of the protection of Americans and American lives."

If the North Vietnamese should retaliate by sending troops across the demilitarized zone in a major infiltration or invasion, Laird said, "I would recommend" that the United States resume the bombing of the North.

CLAIMING 100

Even while Laird was speaking Hanoi was claiming more than 100 U.S. warplanes had attacked North Vietnam inflicting civilian casualties.

Later the Pentagon issued a statement indicating some strikes were made aimed at suppressing ground fire against unarmed reconnaissance planes which have continued to overfly North Vietnam.

Defense sources stressed that this is standing policy and the latest strike had nothing to do with resumption of widespread bombing as suggested by Laird. He refused to say how deeply into North Vietnam American bombers might go if they resume strikes halted Nov. 1, 1968.

Laird contended the North Vietnamese entered into understandings with the United States at that time not to violate the demilitarized zone.

If they should do so, Laird said firmly, "I would recommend the use of air power in the North."

North Vietnam has denied at the Paris peace talks that it ever gave such an understanding and that it agreed only to start negotiations if the United States stopped the bombing.

Li Gen John W. Vogt Jr., a key staff officer, said "We wouldn't expect any immediate reaction" from North Vietnam.

TO END WAR

"It would be rather hard for them to crank up" a major increase in infiltration in troop flow southward in short term, Vogt said.

Obviously mindful of rising criticism of the new U.S. initiatives in Cambodia, Laird asserted "This is not an enlargement of the war."

He termed it a step to end the war either by bringing the North Vietnamese to undertake meaningful negotiations in Paris or to insure the completion of the Nixon administration's Vietnamization scheme aimed at replacing Americans with South Vietnamese soldiers in the battle line.

Laird said the Cambodian operation will further the U.S. withdrawal plan.

WILL BUY TIME

It will do so, he claimed, by diminishing enemy attack capabilities during the coming critical six months, as he put it, in the Vietnamization program.

What he obviously meant was that the blunting of enemy military capabilities in Cambodia will buy time for the South Vietnamese army to get ready while U.S. forces continue to withdraw.

Laird assured the newsmen that the operations into Cambodia "will insure we are able to meet" President Nixon's announced objective of withdrawing another 150,000 servicemen from South Vietnam by next May. Further, he said, success of the cleaning-out operation in Cambodia "could have the effect of making other (troop) reductions possible."

The new U.S. moves will not increase the defense budget nor raise draft calls which are headed for a drop to 150,000 this year, Laird said.

AMERICAN LIVES

As did President Nixon, Laird described the widening attacks into Cambodia as aimed at saving and protecting American lives as U.S. armed strength goes down to about 284,000 next year and the primary U.S. combat role virtually ends.

"We are determined that those Americans that remain in Vietnam will not be sitting ducks for an enemy who can hide in the sanctuaries," Laird said.

Moreover, Laird attempted to stress that the objective is not to capture or kill personnel so much as to destroy bases, supply dumps, communications centers and other facilities which the North Vietnamese have built up over nearly five years' time.

Laird said the sweeping operation will last a week to 10 days, with a longer period needed to destroy the enemy complexes that are uncovered.

White House sources have estimated the Cambodian operations would last up to two months.

Meanwhile, Back In The Senate...

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee rebuffed Saturday President Nixon's suggestion that they join with House members at a meeting they sought to discuss implications of the U.S. attack into Cambodia.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., summoned members to meet Monday to reassess the situation in view of "the President's announced decision not to accept our suggestion."

Sens. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, and senior Republican Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont said Nixon's response—to invite the 35-member House Foreign Affairs Committee to join the session—was not what the Senate group had in mind.

"I regard a situation like that as a briefing rather than a conference," Aiken told a reporter. "You can hardly have a conference with 50 people, especially when 35 of them are not involved in the constitutional prerogatives."

The Senate committee had sought to discuss constitutional aspects of the situation, including implications for U.S. policy throughout Southeast Asia. Nixon suggested a joint session Tuesday.

"Gee," Mansfield told newsmen, "I won't be able to go."

He said the session will conflict with a meeting of the U.S.-Mexican Interparliamentary group, a joint organization of legislators. "As chairman of the Senate group, I'll have to attend to my duties and responsibilities there," Mansfield added.

Aiken, also a member of the U.S.-Mexican group, indicated he might not be able to attend the White House session either. "I'll have to decide that at the last moment," he said.

He indicated unhappiness with the White House response to the committee request.

"Some members of the committee probably will go," Aiken said, "but it won't have the purpose we sought—to work out some kind of understanding."

The committee's unanimous request Friday for a meeting with the President was the first such since 1919, when it asked for a meeting with President Woodrow Wilson to discuss the League of Nations.

A move to force a vote in Congress on whether U.S. involvement in Vietnam should continue was announced by Sens. George S. McGovern, R-S.D., Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., and Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa.

In a statement issued at a news conference, they said Congress "must either legitimize the conflict by declaring war or veto and end it. We believe that Congress must veto the war."

The only effective way to veto it is to cut off the funds for its continuation."

War Against Drug Abuse Must Be Paced By Medics

DALLAS (AP) — A Texas

Medical Association panel concluded Saturday the medical profession must seize the leadership in the war against drug abuse.

"Doctors first must educate themselves on the problems, then the parents and the kids," said Dr. Earl Harper of Abilene. "The problem is further complicated by psychiatric and emotional problems."

Harper moderated a two-hour discussion designed to review the TMA's drug abuse program and probe avenues of cooperation between the society and other state groups and medical agencies.

"No program at all is better than the programs we have to date," declared Dr. Robert Rynearson of Temple, an authority on the issue of narcotics abuse.

"Nobody really knows a thing about drugs," said Rynearson, who appeared with representatives of various state and educational agencies before the TMA's Council on Public Relations and Public Service and its Committee on Mental Health.

Among others appearing at the fact-finding session were state officers of the American Psychiatric Association, the Texas Youth Conference and Dr. L. Harlan Ford of the Texas Education Agency.

Harper cautioned the group at the outset to "refrain from controversial material," adding: "Our objective is to gather ideas whereby TMA and its members can help all the groups interested in drug abuse to accomplish effective programs."

Rynearson asserted that doctors have been "apathetic" in informing themselves of the problems and in extending help to various agencies.

"Physicians must become involved," he said, contending that the "crux of the problem" is that "we have no business educating our children until we educate ourselves.

"Who are we to go tell them the effects of drugs? They know the effects of drugs."

He said the medical profession must "help educate all of us—we need this education desperately."

Virtually all in attendance agreed, although Dr. Ford said he doubted that medical people could handle the problem alone. He said everyone must become involved.

Precinct Conventions Peaceful To Point Of Dullness

In sharp contrast to recent years, when "conservatives" and "liberals" staged vigorous slug-fests, precinct conventions in Howard County, 1970, went so routinely as to be dull Saturday evening.

Indeed, very few people showed up at any precinct, and mostly the business was a matter of naming slates of delegates to the county convention next Saturday evening.

Precinct 1, on the North Side, did not hold a convention. There was no word from some of the rural precincts.

A report from the major precincts in the city:

PRECINCT 2

Peace and harmony reigned at the Precinct 2 convention following the Saturday voting, with about a score of residents, representing all factions of the Democratic Party, taking part.

The convention approved two resolutions, elected officers, and named 32 delegates and 14 alternates to the county convention, to be held next Saturday.

Cecil Riordan was elected precinct chairman, and Oliver Cofer Jr. was named secretary.

The convention approved a resolution, offered as a motion by Frank Parker, calling for unity in the Democratic Party and recommending that the county convention send delegates to the state convention representing all factions of the local party. He pointed out that there had been no bickering within the party this year, and that this has hurt the county in past years.

Bob Dyer's motion to submit a resolution to the county convention commending Riordan's work as county chairman was also approved.

The 32 delegates to the county convention include Riordan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Utley, R. G. Goodson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Aciri, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Cofer Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Juan G. Santiago, R. C. Nichols, and Glenn Coates, all of whom attended the convention. Others named as delegates were Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Allen, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gressett, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Valdes.

The alternates include Mr. and Mrs. Preston Bell, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cordes, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dabney, Mr. and Mrs.

Says Delay Hurts Judicial System

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The president of the American Bar Association says the inability of the nation's courts to keep pace with the times has "severely strained citizens' respect for law and the judicial system."

Bernard G. Segal said in a Law Day talk Friday the courts "have not been able to meet the demands of our skyrocketing economy, the mounting crime wave and the ever increasing new types of litigation."

But he said he hoped the problems could be alleviated by a program to train court executives.

Donald E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Harvell, and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McCreary.

PRECINCT 3

Precinct 3 had a short, harmonious convention with John J. Roemer Sr. named as precinct chairman and Mrs. Nathan Bart Wilkenson secretary. The precinct's 32 delegates will carry to the county convention

Borden Voters Pick New County Judge

Precinct 2 County Commissioner Carl McKee was successful in his bid for re-election with 35 votes to 28 polled by A. S. (Ab) Hendley.

In the Precinct 4 County Commissioner race Don A. Jones was elected with 50 votes, compared to 21 received by Royce Patterson. Precinct 1 Justice of the Peace M. M. Monk was returned

The eight Democrats attending the voting precinct-eight convention at Cedar Crest School Saturday night resolved to uphold the pledge on the party ballot to support Democratic nominees, regardless of the primary's outcome, in the November general election and re-elected L. R. Mundt as precinct chairman.

The residents at box eight also elected eight delegates to the county convention next Saturday. The names of the delegates were not immediately available.

PRECINCT 16

Precinct 16's convention was a swift and routine affair, with the naming of delegates to the county convention as the only business. Fourteen were in attendance.

Peace Movement Perks Up On Many U. S. Campuses

By The Associated Press

The peace movement took on new vigor on some of the nation's college campuses Saturday as students and faculty reacted to President Nixon's decision to send American troops into Cambodia. However, the President also received some support.

At Stanford University, where anti-ROTC demonstrators clashed with police Friday and three shots were fired into the home of the school's ROTC commander, faculty members condemned Nixon's action.

A resolution adopted after a meeting of 700 faculty members said the "move will probably result in widening and complicating a cruel and immoral war that we wish to see liquidated." It said the decision "is deeply exacerbating the distrust of Stanford student and faculty in U.S. government."

However about 130 members of the Virginia Military Institute Alumni Association adopted a resolution endorsing "all reasonable actions to insure the safety of American servicemen in Indochina and to bring the conflict there to an honorable conclusion."

University of California President Charles Hitch said Nixon's decision will "make it easier to disrupt campuses and make it more difficult to maintain law and order."

Harvard economist John Kenneth Galbraith said, "We remain in Vietnam and we extend combat into Cambodia because the military bureaucracy wants it."

"It is aided by those congressmen and senators — Mendel Rivers, Jonn Stennis, Barry Goldwater — who are the parliamentary poodles of the Pentagon," Galbraith said in a speech prepared for the annual convention of the Americans for Democratic Action in Washington. The ADA earlier approved a resolution calling for initiation of impeachment proceedings against the President.

Princeton University President Robert Goheen said in a statement that "a large proportion of the university community shares, as I do, deeply dismay, almost a feeling of betrayal, over this decision."

A banner reading, "say no to President Nixon," was strung across the main gates of the university in front of Nassau Hall.

Earlier, two Molotov cocktails were tossed into Princeton's ROTC building causing minor damage.

On Friday, the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam announced mass demonstrations were being planned for several cities to protest widening of the Vietnam conflict to Cambodia.

On the other hand, Michael Thompson, national vice president of the Young Americans for Freedom, hailed Nixon's decision as "a welcome move in the direction of lasting peace in Southeast Asia." He called for defeat of "Communist aggressors" in a statement issued in Columbia, Mo.

Violent protests at the University of Maryland, Hobart College in Geneva, N.Y., Kent State University, Michigan State University and the University of Washington resulted in dozens of arrests. Much of the activity stemmed from anti-ROTC demonstrations and reaction to Nixon's decision.

Watches Holdup, Kills Robber

HOUSTON (AP) — A would-be robber of a drive-in grocery was shot to death early Saturday by a security guard who had watched the holdup from behind a one-way mirror.

John Edward Johnson, 21, and another man entered the grocery and held up the clerk. The robber then forced the clerk and two customers into a back room.

A security guard, who had been watching the holdup from behind a one-way mirror, told police he pushed his 12-gauge shotgun through a peephole and fired at the two men as they fled, hitting Johnson in the head. The other man escaped with $168.

Howard Gives Bentsen Help, Light Vote

The vote was astonishingly light, and there was a margin of only 125 votes, but Ralph Yarborough failed Saturday to carry Howard County for the first time in his contested races.

The county joined the rest of the state in voting the U.S. Senate Democratic nomination to Lloyd Bentsen. Bentsen garnered 2,928 votes to Yarborough's 2,823.

This was a complete, but unofficial tally.

The county also had a hand in sending Bob Armstrong to the top of the totals in the race for land commissioner, where incumbent Jerry Sadler trailed badly. Howard's vote in this contest was Armstrong 2,555, Sadler 1,817 and Fred Williams 1,038.

Howard's votes lined up with the rest of Texas on other state races, too. It gave incumbent Crawford Martin a big 3,667-1,677 margin over David H. Brown for attorney general. Similarly, Ben Ramsey was far out in front of Connie Lawson for railroad commissioner, 4,073 to 1,243.

In judicial races, the county voted heavily for Judge James G. Denton for a place on the Supreme Court. Denton, of Amarillo, received 2,921, Matt Davis 1,291 and Hawthorne Phillips 653. For the Court of Criminal Appeals, Truman Roberts led locally, 2,607 to 2,283 for Earl W. Smith.

Among other groups pledging to help, the American Noncommissioned Association, U.S. students, U.S. Army and U.S. Navy.

A runoff for the Precinct 2 County Commissioner race was staged, when Arlis Ratliff led this contest with 16 votes followed by George E. Schwartz with 11. The incumbent, Frank Ramsel, received nine votes.

The incumbent in the Precinct 4 commissioners race, Lois Blalock, got 25 to lose narrowly to W. L. (Bill) Robinson, who received 27 votes.

D. W. Parker won the county judge contest, getting 228 votes to incumbent Bryant A. Harris' total of 115.

In the statewide contests, the voters gave Bentsen a 233-101 edge over Yarborough in the Senate race. Crawford C. Martin Want Your Place Cleaned For Free?

This is an SOS to owners of property along Third and Fourth Streets and along Gregg Street and Lamesa Highway.

Will you volunteer to allow your place or lot be cleaned up for free — no strings attached?

The Pride People Task Force, headed by Mrs. E. H. Boullion Jr., has the manpower and the trucks pledged to pick up debris, trash, etc. along these streets.

What is lacking is permission from the owners.

"We're not going to renovate or in any way alter an individual's property," she said. "We just want to tidy up the main highway entrances through our city."

What people travelling along US 87 and US 80 see gives them their first, and likely their only impression of Big Spring.

Those who will volunteer to allow volunteers to clean up around buildings and lots are urged to telephone Mrs. Boullion (3-7449) or the Chamber of Commerce (3-7641).

The task force will make contact for a simple permission slip.

Among organization's pledging to help are the Civilians, American Business Club, Noncommissioned Officers Association, Kiwanis, HCJC students, United Youth Inc.,

Junior Officers at Webb, Boys Club, Morning Optimists, Men's Garden Club. Several trucks also have been offered.

Plans are to begin cleaning Monday and continue through Friday, so prompt response is desperately needed. There is no general citywide push, but Mrs. Boullion said the Task Force hopes that this example will stir individuals to tidy their own places.

Wildcatters Log Five New Wells

AUSTIN (AP) — Wildcatters drilled five oil wells and 11 gas wells in Texas during the past week, the Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

The five oil wildcats raised the yearly total to 132, or 25 more than a year ago, the commission said.

The commission said 96 oil wells and 27 gas wells were completed during the week, hiking the yearly totals, respectively, to 1,773 and 642 or 89 more oil wells than a year ago and 294 fewer gas wells than a year ago.

Master Confident 'Nic' Will Bring Him Safely Home

Nicodemus would have been a show dog had his eyes been a shade darker. Now he and his young handler are bound to Vietnam to scout for Viet Cong ahead of Army patrols.

"Nic" is a smart and friendly German Shepherd that once belonged to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson, 700 E. 17th. Johnson sold him to the military last fall after he found that the year-old dog's eyes were too light for show competition. He did not expect to hear about him again.

Thompson is a native of Syracuse, N.Y., he wrote, but lived in Fabens, Tex., during 1964.

Like men, some of the dogs that are sent to Vietnam do not come back. Some are killed in action. Some are wounded and have to be destroyed. Some are trained to be vicious or become vicious in the stress and have to be destroyed. Some come back.

"I have complete confidence that Nic will get me safely through Vietnam," Thompson wrote.

Panel To Ponder Actress' Death

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The coroner's office says a team of behavioral scientists will be called in to determine whether actress Inger Stevens took her own life.

Authorities are unsure whether the Swedish-born actress, who complained often of loneliness and inability to unburden herself of her problems, committed suicide or was the victim of an accidental overdose of pills.

Miss Stevens, 36, who appeared in numerous movies and starred in the television series "The Farmer's Daughter," was found near death Thursday in her rustic home in the Hollywood Hills. She died en route to a hospital. Coroner Thomas Noguchi's initial appraisal was "acute barbiturate intoxication."

Business Activity In Texas Slowing

AUSTIN (AP) — Most Texas economic barometers reflect the "slowing pace of business activity," a University of Texas report said Saturday.

Dr. Francis May, consulting statistician with the university's Bureau of Business Research, said estimated personal income rose only 1 per cent in March, while consumer prices increased one-half per cent.

"As a result of this price rise virtually no gain in purchasing power resulted from this gain in income," May said.

May reported month-to-month declines in March in crude oil runs to stills, total electric power use, industrial electric power use and manufacturing employment. Only tiny gains of 1 per cent or less were registered in personal income, crude oil production, bank deposits, total industrial production, total non-farm employment, average weekly earnings in manufacturing and average weekly hours in manufacturing.

Business activity indexes dropped during March in 19 out of 20 selected Texas cities, including Houston, San Antonio and Fort Worth.

"Economists generally expect that the business adjustment will be over by the end of this year. The mildness of the current slowdown encourages this point of view," May said.

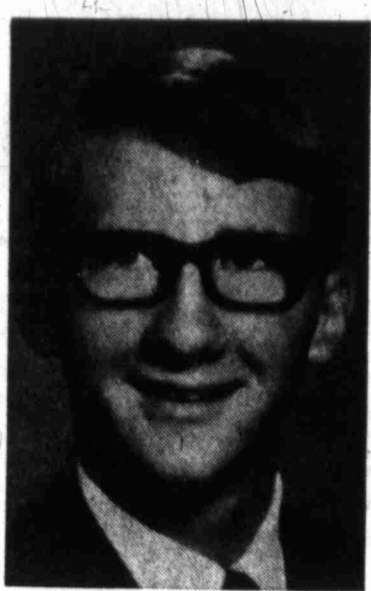

May said real income has been on a plateau.

"Unless production of goods and services rises at a faster rate than wages, salaries and other income inflation will continue," he said.

"The institution of credit and other controls could suppress inflation to some degree but not indefinitely. History has taught us that the effect of controls has been to suppress price rises only to have them flare up after controls are relaxed because controls do not remove the underlying causes of inflation."

May also said Texas' crude oil reserves are in a "critical situation." He said the American Petroleum Institute estimated Texas reserves on Jan. 1 were down to 13.06 billion barrels, a drop of 747 million barrels in one year.

"New field discoveries in the state amounted to only 29.03 million barrels in 1963," he said. Louisiana's reserves climbed by $1 million barrels.

SCOTT MEDFORD

Medford Gets Scholarship

TULSA, Okla. — James Scott Medford, a senior at Big Spring (Tex.) High School, is one of 13 high school students today awarded college scholarships by Skelly Oil Company.

James received one of three $500 freshman grants. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Medford, 2004 Morrison Drive, Big Spring. Medford is employed at Skelly's East Vealmoor natural gasoline plant.

James is a member of the National Honor Society, school choir and ready writing club, and is a photographer for the school newspaper and yearbook. He plans to major in journalism at Texas Technological College.

This is the sixth consecutive year Skelly has made the awards, which go to qualified dependents of employees.

The $2,000 grants consist of $500 scholarships renewable annually for four years, providing the students maintain high scholastic records while in college.

Cotton Planting Under Way In WT

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Planting of major crops drew farmers' attention all over Texas last week.

Rains still interfered over wide areas, however, and cool temperatures, especially at night, slowed plant growth and delayed seed germination, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Soil temperatures began to move up late in April and vigorous plant growth has brought on the need for rain in many sections, Hutchison noted. Planting, he said, is becoming active in west and northwest areas and is nearing completion from central areas east and south.

Grazing improved and live-stock picked up weight but some districts report a growing need for rain to keep grazing at the present levels, he said. Livestock are in good condition.

Early hay prospects are good and some is being harvested, the director said. Curing conditions, he noted have not been the best.

District agents reported: Wheat and other grains on the South Plains (Lubbock) are heading and some sections need rain to insure good grain production. Wheat is being irrigated. Sunny weather has rapidly increased soil temperatures and within a few days should be high enough to insure good stand of cotton except in the north counties. Early corn and sorghum are slow to emerge due to the cool soil. Many farmers will begin planting cotton and sorghum within 10 days if good weather continues.

Half the 22 Rolling Plains (Vernon) counties have adequate moisture, the other 11 need rain. Most grain is heading and making good progress but a general rain would help. Sorghum planting ranges from 10 to 95 per cent complete. Grazing is average to above and livestock are in good condition. Herbicide and fertilizer application and planting are major activities.

College Station Crops Take 2: condition.

Moisture in Far West Texas is short but grains are making good growth and cotton planting has started. Onions are being harvested around Brackettville and early cantaloupes near Pecos are up to a good stand. Pecos are in full bloom. Ranges are green but need rain with weeds plentiful and grass making limited growth. Livestock are in good condition. Calves and lambs are being marked. Sheep are sheared and goat shearing is about complete.

Moisture is needed in West Central Texas. Grains are heading and prospects are good. Forage and sorghum are mostly planted and up to good stands. Peanut planting will start soon around Llano and Mason and pecans are in full bloom. Grazing is above average and livestock are in excellent condition.

Moisture in South Central Texas ranges from short to surplus and spring planting is about complete. Grain grazing was limited but ranges are average to above and grazing is ample. Livestock improved. Hay prospects were good. Some vegetable harvesting was noted.

Slate-Listed For Workshop

The complete list of program participants for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Leaders' Workshop May 11 was announced today by Jack G. Springer, executive vice president of WTCC.

In addition to the newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, F. Ritter Shumway of Rochester, N.Y., speakers include Dr. Reagan Brown, Dr. Porter Crow and Marvin Hurley.

Dr. Brown is a recognized authority on community development and human relations and is extension sociologist at Texas A & M University.

A veteran chamber of commerce executive, Marvin Hurley is executive vice president of the Houston Chamber of Commerce and will speak on the duties of chamber executives.

Dr. Crow, dean of McMurry

College, Abilene, has been director of Project Change at Texas Christian University and in this program trained over 7,000 teachers in North Central Texas. Shumway will be the keynote speaker at a luncheon at noon at the Starlite Motor Inn.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you published something regarding the difference between being a "tattletale" or "stooley" and a person who is not afraid to provide information regarding violation of the law, etc.

This very issue is facing many of our young people today as they see their friends involved in illegal activities. They are torn between their "loyalty" to the friends and their responsibility as a good citizen.

Your statement in this regard is the best analysis of the problem I have ever seen. I have saved it and herewith enclose same. You would be doing all of us a favor if you would print it again. Thank you.

J. G. JOHNSON
Assistant County Attorney
Oswego, Iowa

DEAR J. G. J.: Here it is originally published three years ago, but still timely.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to write this quickly and mail it, so I won't have a chance to reconsider and close my eyes to a wrong.

My son recently told me about some youngsters in our neighborhood who steal bikes, remove the parts, rebuild and sell both rebuilt bikes and extra parts. I asked him how these youngsters managed to get away with it without their parents knowing about it, and he says the kids tell their parents that the bike belongs to another boy, and they bought the spare parts with their allowances.

I am appalled at the whole thing. I can't expect my boy to reveal the names of these boys, and my husband would think it unseemly if I were to bring this to the attention of the authorities.

You are the only way I have of warning parents who unknowingly may be allowing their children to continue this practice.

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: A boy who is old enough to "rebuild" a bike is old enough to know he is breaking the law. While your son may not be guilty of stealing, he is guilty of another "crime." (Knowing of thievery and keeping quiet.) I do not approve of friends informing on one another, but a real "friend" would do all in his power to set his companions straight.

I hope the parents of the guilty boys see this, and check out the stories their sons tell about "buying" spare parts, and repairing another boy's bike.

DEAR ABBY: To the reader who was always speechless when her friend would give her a gift and remark that she wished she could have kept it for herself. Try quoting this little poem next time:

I love the Christmas time, and yet
I notice this. Each year I live:
I always love the gifts I get,
But how I love the gifts I give!

This could apply to any time of year. And isn't it the truth! So many times we choose for gifts those which we would love to have ourselves. INEZ

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Sunland Holds Its $70,300 Futurity

SUNLAND PARK N.M. — Sunland Park will present the richest race in its history today as ten two-year-old quarter horses match strides for $70,300 in the fifth edition of the Spring Quarter Horse Futurity over 350 yards.

The starting field is composed of the ten fastest qualifiers from last week's eight trial divisions. The winner will receive a handsome prize of $33,900 plus a beautiful trophy.

Off his eye popping trial effort, Tom Neff's See Him Go to rule the favorite as the field reaches the post. The Go Man Go colt won his trial by four lengths while getting the distance in 17.48 seconds. The time was 18-100ths of a second quicker than the next fastest qualifier. Jerry Nicodemus will ride.

M. G. Spencer's My Roman Indian, holder of the second fastest time, drew the outside post to the pleasure of trainer John T. L. Jones. The Voo Doo Rocket gelding was easily best in his trial and has the services of Boyd Morris.

The outstanding lineup also includes Steele and Brannon's Kitaman with Bobby Harmon, Rulon Goodman's Bluvannah and Dave Morris, Bud Warren's Counter Jet, to be ridden by Don Robertson, T. H. Baker's Captain Parr and Jim Bannowsky, H. C. Lewis' Fast Jet with Larry Byers, John Thompson's Full Moon Zestee with Jerry Burgess and the Lincoln Land Farm's entry of Go Maggie Go and Carlotta 2 with no riders named.

Post time for Sunday's 12-race program is 1:30 p.m.

Full Moon Zestee and Fast Jet will each be seeking their second respective stakes victories. The Thompson color-bearer proved best in the Blue Ribbon Futurity at Salinas, Okla. last January while Fast Jet captured a recent futurity at Lubbock.

ACC To Host Spring Meet On Thursday

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Abilene Christian College will host the seventh annual Southland Conference spring sports championships beginning Thursday and the meet looks like a rerun from the past few years.

Abilene Christian, Trinity University and Lamar Tech, teams that have dominated competition in track and field, tennis, and golf, are big favorites to continue their winning ways.

ACC, boasting one of its best all-around track teams in years, shouldn't have to look back. The real battle will take place for second, where Lamar Tech, Arkansas State and Texas-Arlington all appear to have chances to claim runner-up honors.

It will be Trinity in a walk in tennis. The Tigers are unbeaten this season and boast such outstanding individuals as Bob McKinley and Paul Gerken. Lamar is easily the class of the field, in golf, although Trinity could possibly be a threat.

ACC has won six successive track championships. Trinity and Lamar have done likewise in tennis and golf. Baseball has gone to a round robin affair and won't have competition in the spring meet.

At the latest report ACC had the best marks in nine track and field events. The Wildcats return six defending champions. Most prominent ACC stars include do-everything runner Roger Colglazier, who is an accomplished performer in any race from the 100 through the half mile three-miler Kenny Link, miler Paul Chandler and John Lopez, discus thrower Wayne Walton, hurdler John McGuire and vaulter Gene Riley. Arkansas State has one of the nation's top high hurdlers in Thomas Hill, who has done 13.7 this spring.

Steers, 135 Strong, Open Drills Monday

By BILL HENRY

Clovis Hale, new athletic director and head football coach, will take 135 boys into spring training drills on Monday. The drills will last three weeks and be culminated with the annual Black and Gold game May 23.

Hale will have four returning lettermen off last year's 64 team. Dale Crenshaw, tackle; Tony Dean, end-linebacker; Howard Stewart, guard-linebacker and Joe Chavez, fullback-linebacker.

"This year's off-season program is the best we have had in several years," Coach Hale commented, "In the spring we hope to throw the ball more." The offense and defense will be basically the same except in the passing department. The coaches have come to the conclusion that the offense of the Steers will have to be more wide-open. They hope to be able to score whenever they get control of the football.

The offensive alignment will start with Dave Duncan at quarterback. Mike Adams and Alan Davis will back him up. Roddy Caffey will be at a running back with Chavez and David Stanley at the fullback spot. In the line the Steers will have able men at tackle with Crenshaw, James Miller at offensive guard and Pink Dickens at offensive tackle. John Weeks has been moved from end to flanker because he is considered a good pass receiver.

Mike McCormick will be inserted at split end or at flanker depending on how he fares in spring drills. The only foreseeable problem in the Big Spring line will be its lack of quickness. With the younger boys coming up this problem may be eliminated.

In the defensive secondary Tommy Fletcher will be at safety, in all probability, with Gatlin Jones backing him up. The linebacking chores will be ably filled with three returning lettermen.

Scott McLaughlin will miss spring training because of a knee operation he had for a torn ligament. He was scheduled to play split end. Tommy Fletcher is also ailing, with the flu, but is not expected to miss many work out days.

"We will try to accomplish four things in this year's drills," Hale stated, "First, we want to set a regular defense; second, we want to get good secondary adjustment; third, we want to get four good backs and fourth, we want to throw the ball."

The Steers will scrimmage the first two Saturdays (May 9-16), the week of May 18 through May 23 they will scrimmage and work out. They play the seniors and have the Black and Gold game the final Friday night.

Coach Hale will start the boys about 4:15 and practice will last for two hours. Work outs will be held on the Owens and 10th Street practice field.

Eight coaches will be involved at the drills full time. These are: Oakley Hagood, Jack Gray, John Varnell, Buster Barnes, Darrell Froman, Garland Braun, Dan Bustamante, and Bill Moore. All junior high coaches will also be available for service and help with the younger players.

Raton's Track Opens May 16

RATON, N.M. — La Mesa Park is beginning to bustle with activity as horses, trainers, owners, jockeys, track personnel, and the many "backstretch" employees are moving in to prepare for the Raton track's twenty-fifth annual 52-day racing season opening May 16 to run through September 13, according to Mrs. Bobby Jo Culver, publicity director.

Racing Secretary T. A. "Andy" Gillespie reports that an all-time record of over 2,000 stall applications have been received and "the calibre of runners set for this summer's races looks the best ever."

The third running of the "Land of Enchantment" Futurity set for Aug. 2, with 177 well-bred freshmen still eligible, seems headed for a new record-breaking total purse of $150,000. Recently billed by the Thoroughbred Record as "the richest two-year-old race contested between Chicago and Los Angeles," the stakes has attracted nation-wide racing recognition to La Mesa Park, smallest member track in the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Thirty-seven sophomores, including Paul's Domino, last year's Futurity winner who was fifth-ranked nationally among 69 two-year-old colts, remain eligible for the "Enchantment" Derby July 26. Purse for the mile affair is now estimated to be $60,000.

Stars Vanquish Jets, 17 To 3

The Stars exploded for seven runs in the third and six in the sixth to defeat the Jets, 17-3, in an American League game here Friday.

The winning pitcher was John Wolf. Randy Christian was tagged with the loss.

KENNETH NEAL

Ken Neal Signs With Jayhawks

Harold Wilder, new basketball coach at Howard County Junior College, has announced his first signing of a cager for the 1970-71 season.

The recruit is multi-talented Kenneth Neal, a backcourt specialist for Wilder's Abilene High School District 3-AAAA championship team the past season.

Neal, who stands about 6-1, led the Eagles in scoring his senior year in school. He wound up with 681 points in 37 games for an 18.4 average. Kenneth had a game high of 29 points.

Neal was All-City in Abilene, all-tournament at Waco, and all-tournament in the 32-team Dr. Pepper tournament in Dallas, as well as all-district in 3-AAAA.

Against district foes, Neal scored 314 points for a 19.5 average.

Of Neal, Wilder said:

"I feel fortunate that Kenneth has decided to continue his basketball career at Howard County. He will be the type of player that will be outstanding in junior college. He was consistently great at Abilene High and will continue to improve."

From the field, Neal averaged 51 per cent on his field goal tries, connecting 292 times in 578 attempts. At the line, he sank 97 of 135 for 71 per cent.

He grabbed off 97 rebounds and had 85 assists on a team that won 31 of 37 games.

He scored a season's high of 14 field goals against Permian. Against conference opponents, Abilene finished with a 16-6 record.

Wilder, although he still lives in Abilene, tries to come to Big Spring twice weekly to conduct workouts and look at new talent.

Boadle Leader In 7-4 Victory

Immaculate Heart used eight hits to defeat St. Paul Lutheran, 7-4, in the first church softball league regular season game for both clubs Tuesday night.

Charles Boadle led the team with two hits, including a home run, and three runs batted in. Contreras and Barnes also had two hits for the winners. St. Paul scored its four runs on five hits, with Kramer being the big gun with a double and a triple.

Kodiak Bear Will Wrestle Friday

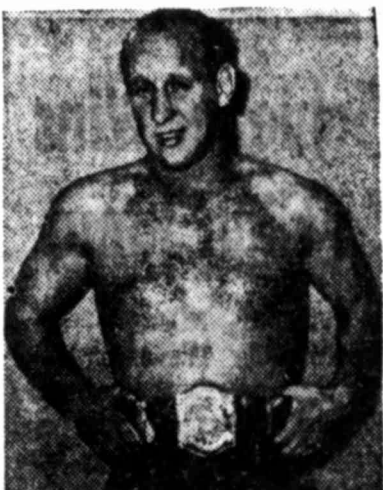

Professional wrestling returns to the Municipal Auditorium Friday night with what promoter Don Slatton says is the biggest card ever arranged here. The first bout is down for 8:30 p.m.

The main event will pit Dory Funk Sr., father of the heavyweight champion of the world, against The Beast.

The Beast should have a special fondness for Big Spring, because no opponent has been able to stop him here. The villainous Beast has beaten both Terry Funk and the Lawman here.

When The Beast got through with The Lawman, the latter had to be carried from the ring, so savage a beating did he take. The Beast ruined The Lawman by using two deadly pile driver holds.

Dory Sr., is coming back to Big Spring after a long absence. He wants a crack at The Beast for the manner in which the meanie treated his son Terry. The special event will be something especially popular in wrestling today. A Kodiak Bear named Ben The Brute will be pitted against Terry Funk. Ben The Brute stands eight feet tall and weighs 750 pounds. He is the only Kodiak bear wrestling in the world today. He is unbeaten in over 2,000 matches. Slatton says he will amaze fans with his wrestling skill. Terry Funk counters by saying his brother may be champion but he (Terry) is the best bear wrestler alive today.

The semi-windup will be a tag team match between Ricky Romero and Gorgeous George on one side and Beautiful Brutus and Bull Ramos on the other.

Advance tickets are on sale at both Giant Discount Food Stores here. Ringside seats sell for $2.50, general admission locations for $1.50 while children under 12 will be admitted for $1.

BENCH RACING Dallas Races This Week Count For NHRA Title

By SHAY NICHOLS

The time has come again for racers to start the battle for the hot rod world championships. The first NHRA points meet in Texas (Division 4) are being held this weekend at the Dallas International Motor Speedway.

It seems like an appropriate time to explain the World Championship Series. NHRA divides the nation geographically into seven areas. During the season five WCS races for points are held in each division.

Racers are allowed one out-of-division race. His home division is determined when he scores points at two or more races in a division.

Dan Roulston describes the fight for points. "You run, run, rebuild, run, and rebuild some more. Every time you win an individual race you pick up points, building a total that can qualify you for a shot at the world championship crown." The crown goes to the best of the seven challengers meeting at the big Dallas affair. "Rearrange the record books for your particular class," he says, "and you add additional marks to your score. When the six meets are over, everyone adds up their score and the top five cars from each eliminator category in each division gets one of the coveted Dallas numbers."

Actually every driver knows to the fifth decimal place what his own score is, and what his opponents' are as well.

The winners of the seven eliminator categories in the fall at the championship races in Dallas earn the right to wear the crown for a year.

The WCS meets are the first step to those crowns, and Division 4's first race is just about to get the final stage light.

The Christmas tree will begin its count down, and when the light goes green, there will be no turning back. Just consistent run, run, rebuild, run and rebuild some more.

And as a reminder, all group I cars must have permanent numbers. Dale Ham at NHRA headquarters in Amarillo has the applications.

Reasoning that athletes play better if they get an occasional rest, coach Clovis Hale of Big Spring High School plans to use as few two-way performers as he dares next fall. Hale foresees a 1-1 District 3-4A 11's going more to their passing games, simply because teams are finding it harder to run the ball against constantly improving defenses. However, no one will rival the aerial dynamite Midland Lee dared to detonate a couple of years ago, says the Steer mentor. When Notre Dame knocked off Navy, 26-2, back in 1930, coach Knute Rockne of the Irish used no fewer than 145 players in the game. That's more than 13 full teams. Because he has calcium deposits in both shoulders, touring golfer Jay Hebert wants to quit the circuit and take a club job somewhere. Jay is 46 years of age. It's reliably reported that Los Angeles will be the host city for the 1976 Olympic Games, which means the city's all-out promotional campus conducted in Europe and Africa paid off. San Francisco blew its opportunity to host the sports extravaganza, some observers say, because it was too busy admiring itself, as usual. Between his sophomore and junior years at Colorado City, Stan Bracey knocked 6 of a second off his running time in the 100 and 1.5 seconds off his effort in the 220—and Bracey has another year of eligibility remaining. He's now a 9.6 man in the century dash and has run the furlong in 21 flat. Average attendance at Baltimore NBA home games dropped from 7,500 to 6,000 the past season. The Bulls can't support too many $1 million players with that kind of take. Harry Miller North Texas State's new basketball mentor, had three of his five teams at Eastern New Mexico University in the NAIA tournament and won the meet in 1969. He once coached at Fresno State. Bobby Avila, the former big league infielder, is considered a sure thing in a July 5 election which would give him a seat in Mexico's lower legislative body. Cliff Cook, the former Big Spring tackle, may be red-shirted at Texas Tech this fall. That would be alright with Cliff, who would like an extra year in school working toward a career in dentistry.

Randy Womack and Bruce Hutto are teammates on the current Big Spring High School baseball team. Randy's grandfather, Bob Connelly, and Bruce's dad, Tommy, played together on the same Texas A&M team. Connelly, who now resides in Fort Worth, also lettered in football and basketball for the Aggies. Odessa Periman has now won seven straight regional golf championships. When the San Francisco Giants headed for Cincinnati recently and Willie Mays found out who the Reds' starting pitcher was going to be, he growled: "That guy threw at my head last time we played. If he throws at my head again, I'm gonna drop my bat and charge him." Then turning to huge Willie McCovey, Mays said, "And stretch, when I do that, you know what you're gonna do?" McCovey shook his head. Mays then went on, "You're gonna tackle me before I get to him." It's blue skies ahead for coach Dan LaGrasta and the San Angelo Bobcat football team only if a festering racial problem can be contained in the schools there. The dissenters are non-athletes. Running back Calvin Hill of the Dallas Cowboys played in just about the same number of games with the pros last year as he did in three seasons at Yale. Big Springer Charley Johnson quietly signed a multi-year contract with the Houston Oilers recently. No wonder Oiler coach Wally Lemm is impressed with Johnson. In four seasons under Wally at St. Louis, Charley guided the Cardinals to a 30-10-2 record. Johnson, who became one of the top NFL passers, completed only one aerial in his final game (against Sweetwater) as a high school senior here. The casualty rate among pitchers in the National League West has been astounding this year, but Cincinnati has been doing quite well without Jim Maloney. The late Ty Cobb, who had a sulphuric temper, was a man dedicated to being perfect, even in golf. One day while playing in San Francisco, he was about to putt when a low-flying plane came over. Cobb missed the putt and, in a rage, threw his putter at the departing plane. The attrition rate among athletes who turn commentators is tremendous—less than 10 per cent stick. Paul Hornung, Terry Brennan and George Conner are among those who failed. So did Davey O'Brien. Big Spring is on the verge of losing another coach, and to another 3-AAAA school, at that.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Red Holzman of the New York Knickerbockers declared, "I didn't notice anything wrong with Jerry West's hand out there."

There had been fears that a jammed left thumb might keep the Los Angeles Lakers ace out of the fourth game of the National Basketball Association championship playoffs on Friday night.

All West did was play 52 minutes out of a possible 53 as the Lakers won 121-115 in overtime. He scored 37 points and contributed 18 assists, which is just one short of the final playoff record of 19 held by former Boston Celtic star Bob Cousy.

As the pair of evenly matched teams head back to New York and Monday's fifth game at Madison Square Garden, the best four-of-seven series stands at two apiece. The last two have gone to overtime — the Knicks winning 111-108 on Wednesday night.

A crowd of 17,509 at the Forum saw the regulation period end 99-99 thanks in part to a great defensive play by reserve John Tresvant. He came on with 56 seconds remaining and, with nine seconds to go, knocked away an inbound ball aimed for Willis Reed.

Holzman said he felt his team played well in spots "but we missed too many fast-break opportunities."

"There really is little, if any, difference between these two teams," Holzman added.

Tresvant hadn't seen action in any of the previous three games against the Knicks although his play in the fifth game of the opening playoff series against Phoenix had been outstanding.

The Knicks, hitting nine of their first 11 shots, five of them by Dick Barnett, built an early lead and a 27-24 advantage at the quarter. By halftime, the Lakers led 54-47 and held a 71-67 advantage at the end of three stanzas.

Barnett led the Knicks scorers with 29 points including five in the overtime while Reed had 23 and Dave DeBusschere 20. DeBusschere and Bill Bradley both fouled out during the overtime.

Will Chamberlain hauled down 25 rebounds to lead that department for the winners.

Midland Retreats
To Zone Cellar

ODESSA — The Odessa Ector Eagles pulled themselves out of the District 3-4A cellar here Friday afternoon with a 5-1 victory over the Midland High Bulldogs.

The win puts Ector's record at 3-7, while the Bulldogs take sole possession of last place with a 3-8 mark.

Winning pitcher was Albert Hernandez and Kim Crowe was tagged with the loss. Hernandez struck out nine and allowed only three hits.

Big guns for the Eagles were Clarence Sadler, Raymond Nabarette and Mario Venegas, who had two hits each. Bruce Mailey drove in the Bulldogs only run.

A native of Jacksboro, Neely, 27, attended McMurry College. He formerly coached at Sanderson.

Dodgers To Host Lamesa
In 2 P.M. Game Today

Larry Broughton will be the starting pitcher for the Big Spring Dodgers today when they meet the Lamesa Eagles in Steer Park at 2 p.m.

The Dodgers' record dropped to 0-2 last Sunday when they were defeated by the Eagles, 4-3. Leroy Spires was charged with the loss, although he pitched a two hitter. He walked two and fanned nine. Three errors by the locals were the turning point of the ball game. The Dodgers had four hits.

The starting line-up will be Doyle Railsback, first base; Terry Smith, catcher; Joe Cadenhead, second base; Beetle Bailey, short stop; Johnny Thomas, third base; Terry

Railsback had two of his team's hits against Lamesa.

The concession stand will be open. Cost of admission is 50 cents.

Bogus Money Ring Smashed With Arrests

DENVER (AP) — Two men were arrested Friday at El Paso in the smashing of a $500,000 counterfeit ring, Secret Service agents said.

Seven men were arrested in all.

The Secret Service agents said they also confiscated a printing press, photographic equipment, inks and plate makers at a three-room office suite in Aurora, a Denver suburb.

Agent-in-charge Paul Rundle said several raids were made Thursday and Friday, with arrests in Denver, El Paso and a suburb of Phoenix.

Rundle said the office in Aurora, where $500,000 in bogus $20 federal reserve notes were recovered, was owned by Leonard J. Lackey. He was arrested.

Arrested in El Paso were William Tishey and Jessie Lackey Jr., a brother of the Arizona man, Rundle said.

Those seized in Denver were identified as James Brockman, 29, of Aurora; Thomas Campbell, 34, of Littleton, Colo., and his brother, Jerry Scurluck, 28, of Northglenn, Colo.

Authorities said they confiscated several thousand dollars more in bogus $20 bills at El Paso.

Abused Drug Background Detailed in New Book

A new book on drug abuse "has the answers" to most questions regarding abused drugs. "Drug Abuse: Teenage Hangup" by Donald J. Merki, Ph.D., has a question and answer format, and covers background of the drugs to treatment, including the multitude of slang terms.

The new book, published by the press division of Texas Alcohol Narcotics Education, Inc. (TANE), is designed for the "express purpose of providing the individual, whether he or she be a teacher, student, parent, law official, a clergyman, or any private citizen with accurate information about drugs in a clear, concise manner."

It starts with the background of abused drugs, then deals with each individually, asking and answering the questions. "Treatment and Rehabilitation — The Road Back," is followed by drug laws, a glossary of terms, and slang.

Past "cures" for drug addiction have been worse than the disease, according to Dr. Merki. "Codeine was first used in medicine for addicts as a substitute for opium, but it also proved to be addicting. Later morphine was thought to relieve people addicted to codeine and found it to be even worse, and later, at the turn of the century, heroin was synthesized in the hopes of relieving morphine addiction only to be found that it was more severely addicting."

In 1900 there were some 264,000 narcotics addicts in the United States. In 1965 it was estimated there were 60,000. New areas of drug abuse have arisen in the forms of amphetamines (pep pills and speed), barbiturates (sleeping pills, goofballs), hallucinogens, (such as LSD), and marijuana. Dr. Merki reports an estimate of 300 million marijuana users in the world. It is estimated that two million U.S. high school and college students have experience with marijuana.

Drug abuse is an international problem, he said. An example is the increase of Canadian marijuana cases from 54 in 1964 to 3,000 in 1968. Narcotics addicts jumped from 1,729 to 2,782 in one year in the United Kingdom.

The new paperback book ($1.50) is available from TANE Press, 2814 Oak Lawn, Dallas, Texas 75219.

Former Texas Police Chief Taking Tests

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) —Wayman Allen Dial, formerly police chief at San Marcos, Tex., is under court order to undergo 90 days of psychological testing in connection with an admitted burglary attempt at a Beverly Hills mansion.

Dial, 35, who said he turned burglar to get money for his son's open heart surgery and other debts, was directed to undergo the tests by Superior Court Judge Edward R. Brand Friday.

Formal sentencing was delayed until Sept. 1.

Dial could receive a prison term of 5 to 15 years for first-degree burglary, could be placed on probation or could be sent to a state hospital.

He also is under indictment in Texas in connection with a drug store burglary in San Marcos last Christmas Eve.

Dial's initial plea of innocent later was changed to guilty. He and Carmen Falzone, 27, were arrested Jan. 11 inside a Beverly Hills mansion. Police said the pair had tripped a silent alarm.

In a jail interview, Dial, a husky 5-foot-11, told newsmen: "I panicked."

He said he burglarized the home in the hope of paying off debts with the money received from the loot. Among the more pressing, he said, was the need for heart surgery for his younger son, Monty, 6.

A highly honored veteran of the Korean War, he joined the San Marcos police force in 1961. Two years later he was named chief.

"All my life I wanted to be a police officer," said Dial.

"I can't excuse my actions. I made a mistake," he said. "but there is no likelihood of my making another one."

If he had one fault, he said, it was failure to pay bills on time.

He met Falzone, he said, through a friend visiting from Los Angeles.

LBJ Blames Some Ex-Kennedy Aides

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson says his administration was "in effect undermined" by some former Kennedy staff members during the transition following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

Johnson said he attributed this more to a difference in viewpoint and to grief than to an organized effort. He said he wanted them to stay and serve him as they had served Kennedy, but one by one they left.

Johnson, dressed in a gray suit and seated in a leather chair in a guest house on the LBJ Ranch in Texas, paused of time during the answer and seemed to be searching for words.

He said he wanted to keep the staff because they had been chosen by Kennedy and because Kennedy had chosen him as "executor, his trustee, to stand in for him."

Johnson said life had ended

Johnson appeared on televised interview on CBS Saturday night from which the network said some statements had been deleted "on the grounds of national security." Published accounts said the deleted remarks concerned the Warren Commission report on the Kennedy assassination.

In the interview conducted by Walter Cronkite, Johnson said a handicap of the transition period was "the difference in viewpoints and the fact that some of the people who served did not share either the desire or the hopes that I had for the country and for the government, and they, in effect, undermined the administration and bored from within to create problems for us and leaked information that was slanted and things of that

Johnson said, "So I endured some handicaps, and I suffered some setbacks, and some disappointments, because of my desire to try to present a united front and let nothing I did create an excuse for division."

Asked if he thought these staff members were led by the late Robert F. Kennedy, then attorney general, Johnson said, "I can't answer that question honestly and directly; I don't know. I don't believe that all of those left, left because someone directed them to or urged them to. I think they were grief-stricken. I think that they no longer felt that they could be up to what was required of them, that their relationship with the President was a special relationship that they couldn't transfer to some new person."

on the ground of national security."

The Washington Post reported Tuesday that the material deleted contained remarks by Johnson questioning some findings of the Warren Commission on the assassination.

The newspaper quoted a CBS source as saying that Johnson was asked his opinion of the findings and replied that he has never been "absolutely" satisfied with the report.

Wallace's Fight Grabs Spotlight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1970 primary campaign gets into full swing Tuesday with George C. Wallace—fighting for political survival—putting his national prestige on the line in a bid to regain the Alabama governor's chair.

The pollers of public sentiment had incumbent Gov. Albert Brewer ahead weeks ago but they say Wallace, a persuasive campaign orator, has now nearly closed the gap and the election could go either way.

The main key seems to be how Alabama's more than 300,000 registered Negroes vote. Brewer presumably will win most of these but perhaps not enough. Other factors are how much of his South Alabama rural following Wallace has lost, and the showing by five other candidates—including former Gov. James E. Folsom.

In Ohio, the spotlight is on the U.S. Senate race which features some big names. On the Democratic side, America's first man to orbit the earth, John Glenn, now 48, faces tough opposition from Howard Metzenbaum, 52, a wealthy Cleveland attorney. On the Republican side, Rep. Robert Taft Jr., heir to the state's most famous political name, is battling Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Indiana's primary Tuesday offers no drama on the surface, with none of the 11 incumbent congressmen—seven Republicans and four Democrats—facing any apparent tough challenge. And there are no municipal primaries. Under the surface there's a factional Republican battle for election of delegates to the June 18 GOP convention which will pick an opponent to run for the seat held by Democratic Sen. Vance Hartke.

After the Alabama, Ohio and Indiana primaries will come a succession of other primaries and political conventions almost every week up to the windup Hawaii primary Oct. 3 to set the stage for the Nov. 3 general election.

The Republicans are aiming at gaining the seven seats needed to control the Senate and figure from a numerical standpoint the chances are good. Twenty-five Democratic incumbents are up for election while only 10 GOP incumbents must face the voters. Republican leaders contend they have a chance to win all but five or six of the Democratic seats.

While GOP leaders talk of capturing control of the House too the talk isn't confident. All 435 seats are up and the GOP must buck the traditional trend of the party in presidential power losing ground in an off-year election.

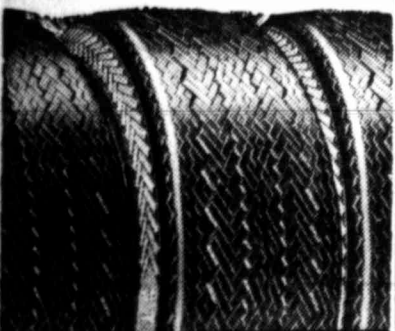

An even bigger factor is that an abnormally high number of incumbent Republican House members—18—have decided to forsake their seats to run for the Senate, governorships or retire. And the figure could grow since many filing deadlines are still ahead. In contrast only seven Democrats have announced they plan to leave the House.

The Democrats have a numerical advantage in the gubernatorial races in trying to cut into the current total of 32 Republicans. Of 35 state houses up for grabs this year, 24 are occupied by Republicans.

Ad Exec Slashes Wife, Plunges To His Death

CHICAGO (AP) — Howard B. Ketting, a Chicago advertising executive, plunged to his death Friday night after allegedly killing his wife and himself with a butcher knife.

Ketting's wife, the former Prudence Emerson Browne of Westport, Conn., daughter of playwright and novelist Porter Emerson Browne, was in critical condition from repeated stab wounds in the head.

Ketting, 60, told three neighbors in the apartment building just before the fatal plunge that he for 33 hours had attempted to kill his wife and himself with a butcher knife after an argument, police said.

The three men entered Ketting's blood-spattered luxury apartment after noticing blood on the door catch. As they entered Ketting and his wife lay in the bedroom, both of them stabbed repeatedly.

The three men told police that while they called for an ambulance, Ketting apparently leaped out of the window, landing on a third-story roof.

Police said Ketting had five stab wounds in the abdomen and had attempted to slash his wrists.

Ketting was a partner in the advertising agency of Kelly, Furth Inc. in Chicago.

- THIS IS - Music Week

By JO BRIGHT

"Music Brings Understanding" is the timely theme chosen for the 47th annual observance of National Music Week, May 3-10, sponsored by the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Locally, the celebration is again being sponsored by the Big Spring Music Study Club, an affiliate of the national organization.

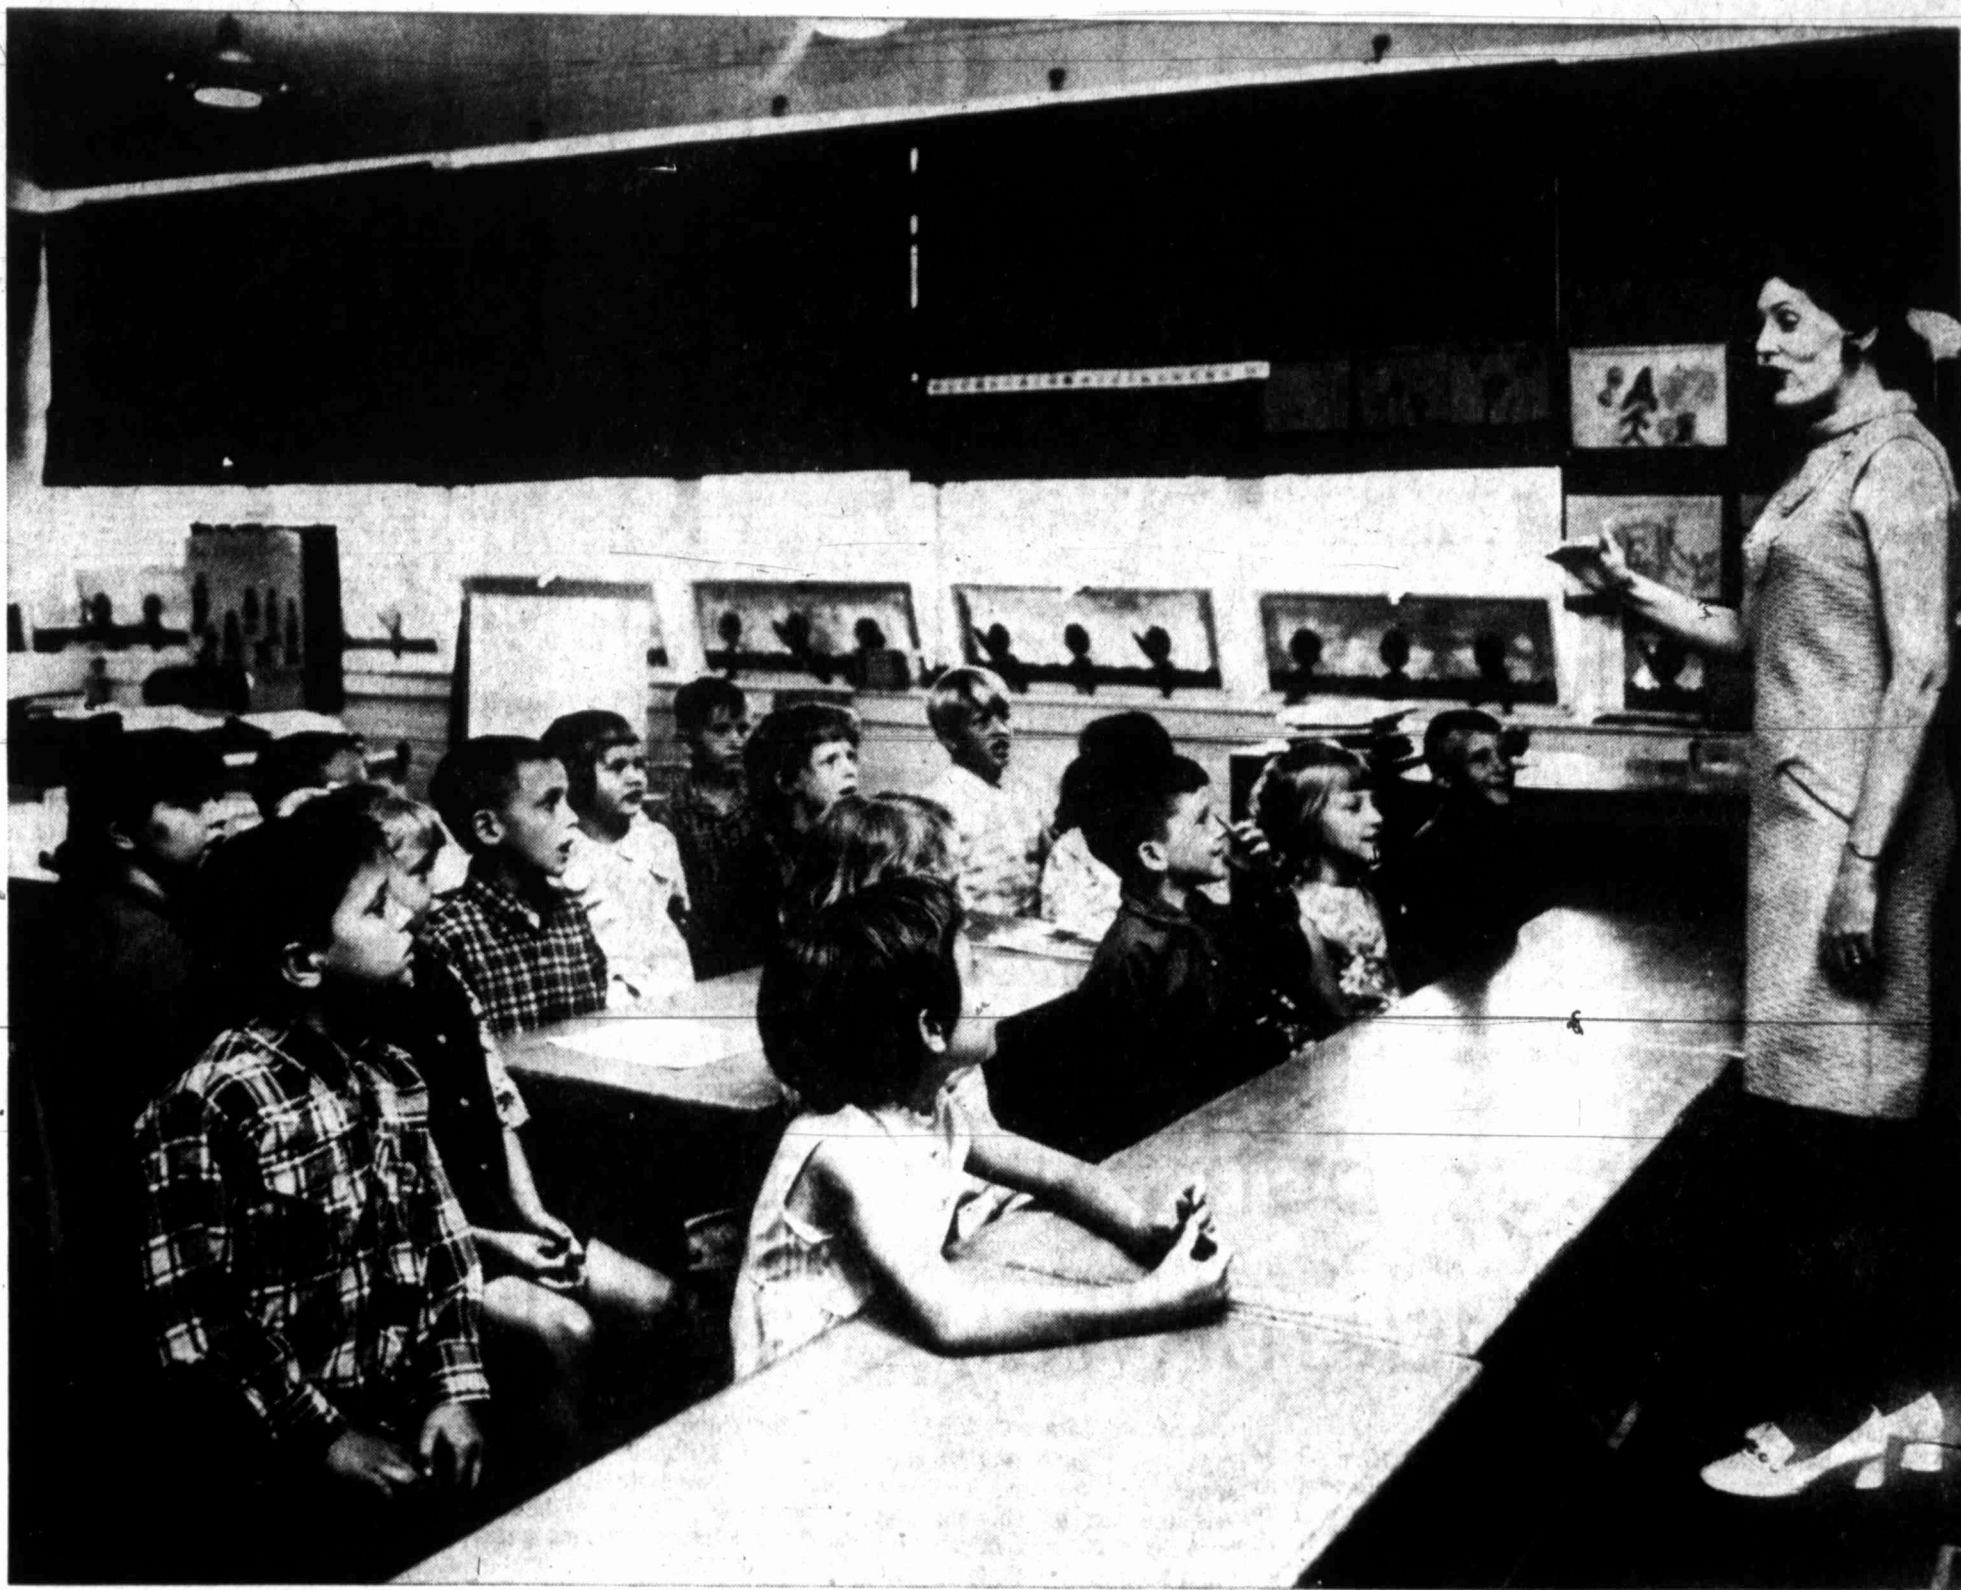

In saluting music club members this year, President Richard M. Nixon said:

"In this age of sophisticated technology, music of all ages, tastes and cultures reaches with unerring precision the hearts and minds of all who seek it. It is the most powerful and persuasive international language. It furthers human understanding and fosters the kind of communication which leads to peace and progress among men and nations. Yet without the dedication of your 600,000 members, the joys and benefits of this enriching art form might go undiscovered by many. Therefore, it is with special gratitude that I applaud your contributions to the cultural enrichment and personal satisfaction of countless fellow citizens."

The Big Spring Music Study Club, under the leadership of a special committee comprised of Mrs. Carl Bradley, Mrs. Mamie Lee Dodds and Miss Helen Ewing, will present musical programs this week for the Veterans Administration Hospital, Big Spring State Hospital and various service clubs. The week will conclude with a luncheon at Cosden Country Club where entertainment will be provided by music students of club members.

Club officers for the past year have been Mrs. G. R. Robinson, president; Mrs. Kenny Sheppard, first vice president; Mrs. Michael Leinen, second vice president; Mrs. Walter Osborne, recording secretary; Miss Helen Ewing, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Clyde Cantrell, treasurer; Mrs. Richard Cook, reporter-historian; and Mrs. James Baum, parliamentarian.

Each year, the club presents a scholarship to the Music Department of Howard County Junior College which award it to a student for the continuation of his musical education. Monthly, club members provide musical activities for the children at the West Side Center.

MUSIC APPRECIATION begins at an early age as Big Spring elementary school students enjoy their music periods two or three times each week. Mrs. Carl Bradley, shown here, is one of five teachers for the elementary schools who conduct classes which include instruction in simple instruments, along with fundamentals of music theory. Music in the elementary grades is often correlated with geography and history as the youngsters learn folk songs and tunes related to the past or current times.

MUSIC CAN BE MEDICINE when its healing power is used to relax the body and soothe the mind. Here, two patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital enjoy a break in hospital routine as they chat with Mrs. Star Warford, a local teacher who has made a hobby of folk-singing.

The men are Raleigh McCall and Allen Jarrell, both of Odessa. During National Music Week, Mrs. Warford, along with other members of Big Spring Music Study Club, will provide musical programs at hospitals and service organization meetings.

MUSIC HAS BEEN A WAY OF LIFE for these two Life Members of Big Spring Music Study Club. Mrs. J. E. Hardesty took violin training at Landon Conservatory in Dallas and Belhaven Conservatory in Jackson, Miss. She taught music at Lamesa High School for 15 years, and after moving here in 1942, she taught violin until her recent retirement. Miss Elsie Willis, pianist, earned a music degree at Texas Christian University, then studied at Chicago Musical College and Juillard School of Music in New York. She taught in a junior college; later at what was then North Texas Teachers College, and finally, at TCU for five years. She did private teaching for many years, retiring only last year. A charter member of Big Spring Music Study Club, she was organist and choir director for 20 years at St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

JOE LEMON APPLIES PAINT TO WESTERN MURAL. Scene is second to decorate the family's "painting wall"

Genealogy Buffs Find Family History Hidden Away On Shelf

By JO BRIGHT

Birth and background, or more specifically, ancestry, is a fascinating subject of research for genealogical societies, and the first such group to be organized in Big Spring met Thursday to choose a name and draw up its constitution.

More than likely, two of the society's charter members will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clay Lemon of Ackerly — although the couple may be "way ahead" of their fellow members. Mr. and Mrs. Lemon have in their possession a detailed ancestral chart which traces his family history from the year 1443 to 1943.

The chart, prepared in fine script, is an enlarged photograph of the original which is owned by Lemon's aunt, Mrs. Harold Laseter. To the top, at each side of the chart, are the dates, and between them is written "The Colonial Clays of Virginia and Some of Their Descendants."

Boxed in the right hand corner is this information: "This chart was prepared in collaboration with Mrs. Ben W. Hall ("Cleo Clay") of Mount Sterling, Ky.; Mrs. Mary Rogers Clay's Genealogy of the Clays, embodying Gen. Green Clay's manuscripts; Judge Rigsby's Clay Genealogy in his "Home and Family"; and Clay manuscript of Judge John C. Ferris of Nashville. Compiled by Clifford Charles Clay of Atlanta, Ga., in 1943."

The document details 12 generations — one of which lists the American statesman, Henry Clay — and several which include gentlemen named Cassius Clay.

Lemon, whose mother died when he was quite young, is the son of Ruth Clay, the daughter of a Henry Clay. According to the chart, his father was Thomas C. Clay, son of John C. Clay whose father was named James C. Clay.

At this point the first dates appear on the chart, for James was the son of Thomas Clay, born in 1738, who migrated to Chatham County, N.C. Thomas' father, also named Thomas Clay, lived from 1713 to 1787.

The latter Clay was the son of Charles Clay of Chesterfield (1675 to 1774), youngest son of Charles Clay of "Bacon's Rebellion" who deeded his land in Amelia County in 1752 to his children. (At the time the chart was compiled, a Dr. Grady Clay of Atlanta had the original deed from King George to Charles for 304 acres of land, dated 1737.)

Charles' father, also named Charles Clay, lived from 1638 to 1686, and is described as being "a leader in the rebellion of 1676." The latter Charles was the son of Capt. John Thomas Clay (1587 to 1656) who landed at Jamestown in 1613 and settled in Charles City County in Virginia.

Capt. Clay's father was Sir John Clay (1558 to 1632), a coal baron of Wales who was knighted by Elizabeth. According to the record, he was the great-grandson of John Clay, knighted by Edward IV at the battle of Tewkesbury in May, 1471. (The latter is taken from Margaret Clay's notes of Washington from the British Museum of History.)

The family's history contains, of course, hundreds of names, among them a Mary Mitchell who was connected, apparently by marriage, to the late Margaret Mitchell, famed author of "Gone With the Wind," a novel of the ante bellum South. Another illustrious name is that of Lucius Clay, one of six children, and a cousin of Joe Lemon's grandfather.

Joe Lemon was born at Powder Springs, Ga., in 1915, the son of Elvin Lemon and Ruth Clay. After his mother's death, he lived with an aunt, uncle and grandfather at Ackerly, where Paul Ackerly owned a cotton mill. When Ackerly needed a manager for his West Texas interests, he talked A. F. Davenport (Joe's uncle by marriage) to take the job, and Joe came west with him. That was in 1925, and Joe Lemon has lived in Ackerly since that time. He is now retired from cotton farming and rents his land.

Mr. and Mrs. Lemon have four children, Dr. William Lee Lemon, Fort Worth; Ruth, a therapist at Hot Springs Rehabilitation Center; Ann, a junior at the University of Texas at Austin; and James, a junior at McMurry. Prized possessions in the Lemon home are four statuettes proclaiming Ruth, Ann and James as class valedictorians and Lee a salutatorian. ("He had more competition.")

When the Lemons built their present brick home in 1962, included in the plans was his "painting wall." Located in the den, the five by 12-foot space is now being painted with its second mural. The first, a ranch house scene, was removed when Lemon "just grew tired of it," and now he has almost completed the second, picturing a lonely canyon inhabited by a small herd of cattle and a single cowboy.

"She's my inspiration," said Lemon, smiling at his wife, as they shared a private joke, which he soon revealed.

It seems they owned a painting of which he had been critical — often remarking that he could "do that good." Mrs. Lemon's answer to that was to buy palette and paints, challenging him to prove it. Thus began his interest in art, and the first and only painting he entered in competition won a third place ribbon in a Los Artistas show. Even that has a story. The first painting he did for "the competition was ruined when, to dry it quickly, they put it in the oven. By the time they remembered to check, "it had risen like a cake!"

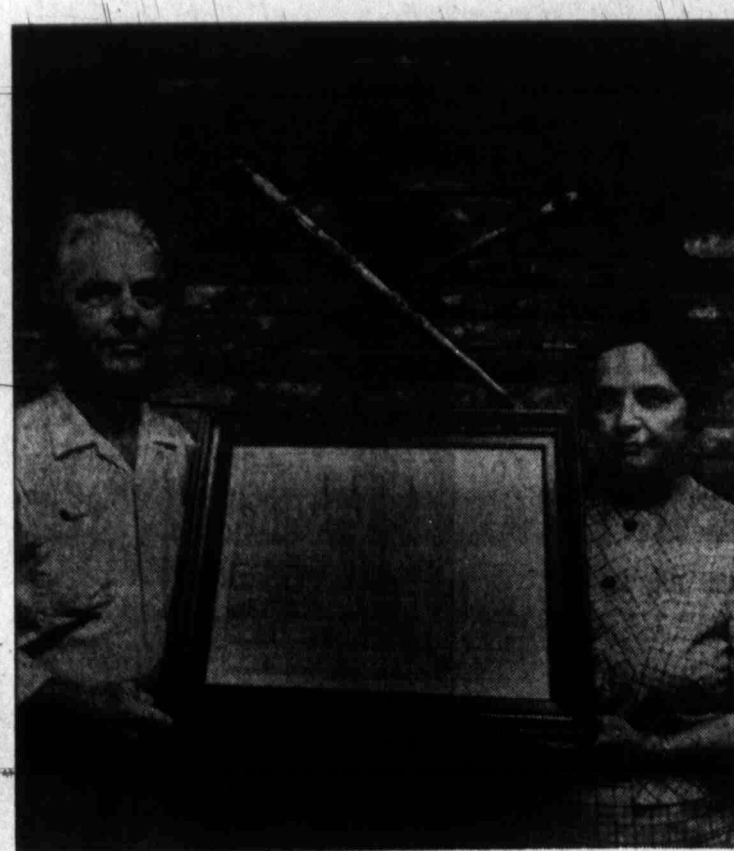

Lemon's sense of humor has apparently always saved the day.

"You know," he said, "when I went to Tech I didn't get to take the commercial art. I wanted—and I never intended to be a farmer. Guess it's been a misspent life."

At least, it's a life he can look back on — way back — to 1443.

Judy White Is Engaged

R. A. White Jr., 209 N. Benton, announces the engagement of his daughter, Judy Elaine, to Sgt. Richard B. Peters, Webb Air Force Base. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Peters, Ponca City, Okla. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Daisy Starks, Ramona, Okla. The couple plan to marry May 16 in Crestview Baptist Church.

CROSSED SWORDS — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lemon hold ancestral chart dating back to 1443. On the wall are Knights Templar commander swords; one presented to Lemon and the other received by his grandfather. Only recently, Lemon was privileged to knight his son, Lee.

Genealogists Choose Miss Hardy, President

The Genealogical Society of members. The next meeting will be May 14 in Pioneer Gas Flame during its second organizational meeting Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. I. V. Wolf, president of Permian Basin Genealogical Society of Odessa was acting chairman at the election.

Miss Gladys Hardy is the president. Serving with her are W. L. Sharon, first vice president; Miss Movelda Rhine, second vice president; Mrs. Jerry Phillips, secretary; Bill Steagald, treasurer; Mrs. Merry Jo Bright, reporter-historian; and Mrs. Oliver (Bud) Nichols Jr. librarian.

The members agreed upon the society's name and the title, "Signal Peak" for the newsletter. George Foster was elected editor of the publication. Also attending the meeting from Odessa was Mrs. George Fletcher, treasurer of the Permian Basin Society. She became a member of the Big Spring Society.

Members decided to hold meetings every second Thursday of the month. The society presently has approximately 40

Outstanding Women Honored At Banquet

Ten outstanding young women, Howard County's "Woman of the Year," five "Girls of the Year" and four "Pledges of the Year," were honored at the annual Beta Sigma Phi Founders Day Banquet Thursday night at Big Spring Country Club.

Mrs. Morris Robertson was presented with the "Woman of the Year" award and a gift by Mrs. Owen Wormser. Mrs. Gerald Wooten was mistress of ceremonies and Mrs. Edwin Dixon extended welcome to the pledges.

The "Pledges of the Year" were introduced by representatives of their respective chapters. Pledges were Mrs. Jerry Myrick of Alpha Beta Omicron; Mrs. Robert Brandon of Phi Zeta Omega; Mrs. Jack Hallett of Mu Zeta; and Mrs. O. D. O'Daniel Jr. of Beta Omicron.

A "Girl of the Year" chosen by each chapter was announced. Mrs. Bobby Hughes, Beta Omicron, served as president of her chapter and served on all activity committees during the year. Mrs. Clay LaRochelle is a charter member and first president of Phi Zeta Omega and served as BSP City Council representative. Mrs. Owen Wormser, president of Mu Zeta, is social chairman, BSP Council representative and member of her chapter's program committee.

Mrs. Jerold Cox is chairman of Alpha Beta Omicron's service committee and corresponding secretary of BSP City Council. Miss Beverly Jones is president-elect of Xi Mu Exemplar Chapter and has served as corresponding secretary and ways and means chairman this year.

They were introduced by Mrs. Joe Schalk, Phi Zeta Omega; Mrs. Garland Braun of Mu Zeta, Mrs. Joe Crump of Beta Omicron, Mrs. Roe Fulgham of Alpha Beta Omicron, and Mrs. Wade Choate, Xi Mu. Each reported on her chapter's activities for the year.

The founders day message from the wife and son of the late Walter W. Ross, BSP founder, was given by Mrs. Leslie Caperton. She related Ross' last message, "to keep the dream big. It always comes true in Beta Sigma Phi," he wrote.

Mrs. Clyde Angel, guest speaker, reviewed the amusing book on women's clubs, "Ladies, Please Come To Order," by Peggy Cameron King. She described the many types of members found in ladies clubs from the bossy to the docile. Qualities found in club officers were listed humorously.

Rituals were given by Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Harry McMillan and Mrs. LaRochelle led the BSP pledge. Approximately 75 members attended the banquet. Mrs. Gene McElroy was a guest.

Couple Wed Saturday In Tarzan

Miss Leslie Ann LaRochelle and William David Webb were married Saturday morning in Tarzan. The Rev. Billy Rudd, pastor, officiated.

The immediate families of the couple attended the wedding ceremony. The couple will reside in Wichita Falls, following a wedding trip to Cole Lake.

ADULT GIRL SCOUTS who are looking to the future and the over-all improvement and expansion of Big Spring's Girl Scout program are, from left, Mrs. Jack Little, Mrs. Allan Brown, Mrs. J. D. Poe of Stanton and Miss Arlene Estes, field director. The four were among adult Scouts who participated in Thursday's Association Four conference at First United Methodist Church.

Love, Brotherhood Stressed By Scouts

In an atmosphere of "Where do we go from here?", new solutions to old problems were pursued by 30 Girl Scout adults and guests at Thursday's all-day meeting of Association Four, West Texas Girl Scout Association. Those participating in the event were from Big Spring, Stanton and Coahoma.

The Flowers Will Say 'Tell It Like It Is'

"Tell It Like It Is" will be presented with flowers by the Rosebud Garden Club and Oasis Garden Club on Tuesday at the YMCA. The standard flower show will be open to the public, free of charge, from 3 to 7 p.m.

General chairman is Mrs. Odell Womack, with Mrs. C. O. Hitt and Mrs. Dale Smith as co-chairmen.

Serving on committees are Mrs. H. T. Hansen, Mrs. L. B. Edwards, Mrs. W.D.R. Lund, Mrs. Clance Kuykendale, Mrs. G. P. Morrison, Mrs. Womack and Mrs. Tom Hart, staging; Mrs. Charles Sweeney, Mrs.

Spring, Stanton and Coahoma. Popular rock music emphasizing love, understanding and brotherhood set the tone for the "Action 70" theme of the program.

Miss Arlene Estes, Girl Scout Field Director, explained the nationwide "Action 70" program, stressing love as being "one vital key to the deeper awareness, understanding and involvement that is being sought."

Mrs. Lanny Hamby, association chairman, raised several questions in relation to the extent and relevancy of the implementation of the Promise and Laws of the Girl Scout movement. Discussion groups led by Mrs. Allan Brown, Mrs. J. D. Poe of Stanton and Mrs. Tom Ivey followed, concentrating on the areas of improving communications between leaders and parents as well as the need to enrich troop programs through a deeper interpretation and implementation of the real values of Scouting. Of particular emphasis was the need to extend and increase membership.

In closing, each participant was invited to pledge their support of "Action 70" and to commit themselves to a deeper personal involvement in community needs as well as needs within the Girl Scout ranks.

SPRING FASHIONS — The home economic students of Coahoma High School will hold a style show Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium as they model clothing which they have made in class or at home in conjunction with their courses. The public is invited to attend, and there is no charge for admission. Twenty-five girls will participate, under the direction of Mrs. Tom Warren, narrator, and Mrs. Johnny Justiss, assistant coordinator. Shown are three of the girls in garments they will model. They are, from left, Toni Green, Lucretia Drake and Connie Howell.

Miss Beth Wise, Bride-Elect, Is Honored With Gift Shower

Miss Beth Wise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wise, 707 Ayford, was feted at a gift shower Thursday in the home of Mrs. Roy E. Smith, 1803 Settles.

Guests included the honoree's mother, Mrs. W. L. Wise, and grandmother, Mrs. C. C. Wise, Stanton. They received white carnations tied with blue ribbons.

The refreshment table carried out the color scheme with a white linen cloth with blue cutwork. A papier-mache bridal doll flanked by two candles formed the centerpiece. Crystal appointments completed the setting and the guest registry table was centered with an arrangement of blue irises.

Hostesses with Mrs. Smith were Mrs. Russell Brown, Janet Smith, Bonnie Brown, Linda

Murdoch and Mrs. Randy Cline. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Jim Gamewell, Midland; Mrs. Scott Ross, Mrs. Leonard Moose, Mrs. Doug Adams and Sherri Ross, all of Odessa.

Miss Wise is the bride-elect of Sgt. Charles Chrane, Prospect Park, Pa., who is stationed at Webb Air Force Base. A July wedding is planned in the home of the bride-elect.

Demonstration Clubs Study Historic Sites

Current studies on highway safety, nutrition and the history of Howard County were continued when area home demonstration clubs met last week.

CENTER POINT CLUB
Jim White, safety inspector for the Texas Department of Public Safety, was guest speaker at the Center Point Home Demonstration Club meeting Tuesday in the home of Mrs. H. M. Haygood, 109 Wasson. He told of new rules and traffic laws in Texas and showed pictures to describe the use of the Breathalyzer machine, which detects use of alcohol or drugs.

A law now requires blood tests for accident victims to determine if they had been using drugs or alcohol. Officer White said that 50 per cent of all accidents are caused by drivers consuming alcohol and drugs. California leads the nation in number of accidents and Texas is second. Efforts are being made to have uniform traffic laws throughout the nation, Officer White said.

Club members brought socks to be donated to Big Spring State Hospital and birthday cards for the Veterans Administration Hospital.

The next meeting will be a tour of Scenic Mountain. Members will meet at 10 a.m., May 12, in the home of Mrs. J. R. Petty, 1013 Sycamore, to depart for the hike and picnic lunch.

LEES CLUB

Six members of Lees Home Demonstration Club attended the District 6, Texas HD Association, meeting in the First United Methodist Church, Midland, Tuesday. The meeting included two general assemblies, a luncheon and workshops. Mrs. Gary Seidenberger was the Lees club delegate.

An amendment was made in the THDA constitution to permit a club alternate to attend the state convention if the delegate is unable to go. Glasscock County HD clubs were in charge of the 4-H workshop and the Lees club gave a skit demonstrating a typical 4-H Club meeting. Presenting the skit and representing the Lees club besides Mrs. Seidenberger were Mrs. Jessie Overton, Mrs. Gene Smith, Mrs. J. L. Glass, Mrs. H. L. McMillan and Mrs. A. W. White.

KNOTT CLUB

"Make Safety Your Rule" was the theme of a demonstration given by two Knott 4-H Club members for the Knott Home Demonstration Club Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Joe Meyers. Rene Roman and Kent Robinson showed safety posters and told how to be safe around farm machinery, strange or wild animals and dangerous equipment.

Mrs. Delaine Crawford, county HD agent, spoke on picture arranging, emphasizing balance in groupings. Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Emmett Grantham, Mrs. Lloyd Robinson, Mrs. Jerry Roman and Mrs. Joyce Chelette.

The next meeting, May 12, will be at the entrance of the state park for a historical tour of Scenic Mountain.

ELBOW CLUB

"You're only as old as you eat," Mrs. S. W. McElroy said in a talk on "Malnutrition and Mental Health" to the Elbow Home Demonstration Thursday. Mrs. Ross Hill, Sterling City Route, was hostess.

Mrs. McElroy listed "truths and half-truths about what we eat." Most elderly people make the mistake of eating only what they want. Everyone needs some of the four basic foods, meat, cereal, milk and fruit or vegetable, every day.

"Mental health is affected by malnutrition," she said. "Children reared in poverty and who are malnourished do poorly in testing and are slightly retarded," she explained.

Two new members, Mrs. T. C. Richardson and Mrs. R. P. Morton, were welcomed.

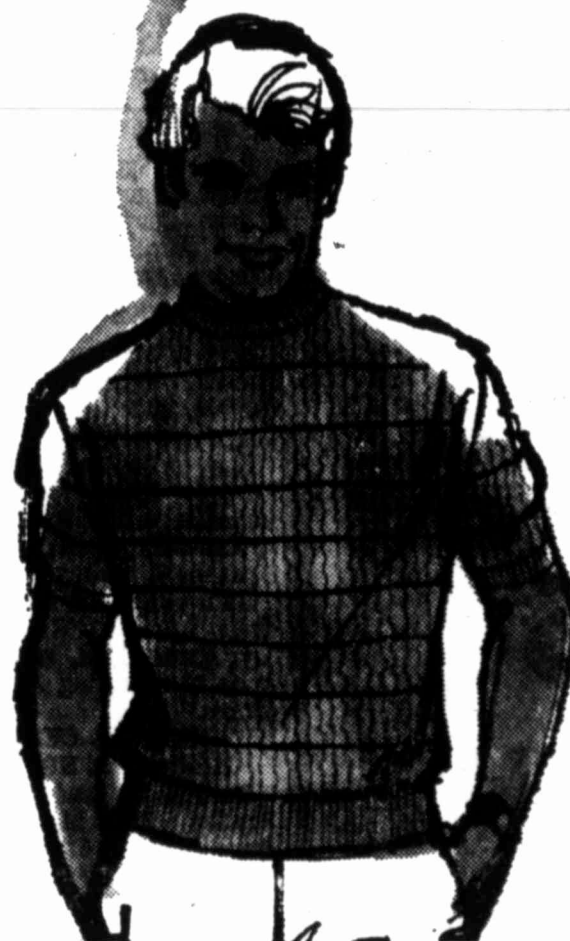

The next meeting will be May 7. Members are to meet at 11 a.m. in the home of Mrs. L. M. Duffer to go to Scenic Mountain. They are to bring sack lunches, and beverages will be provided.

From Fort Worth we hear that BETTY LYNN BUCKLEY whose parents are well-known here, is going to leave the London cast of "1776" in the fall and come back home. According to plans she now has she will go into rehearsal for a Casa Manana show . . . which she certainly should make popular as she was Miss Fort Worth several years ago and was well received.

MR. and MRS. C. H. McDANIELS planned to be in Temple several days this week.

Enjoyed a short visit with CHARLES and RUSSELL SPARENBURG of Austin who came Friday for the funeral of old timer HARRY LEES.

If I ever missed a show, and it didn't turn out to be the best ever the shock would be great. Since I missed the jazz concert Thursday night all I have heard is how good it was and how too bad it is that I should not have been present . . . for whatever reason. I almost feel like looking up Kid Thomas Valentine and telling him I'm sorry. But I don't think he missed me because he has so much fun from being a jazz musician.

It's really beginning to seem like the end of school is near. The seniors got their graduation invitations at Big Spring High last week, just about a month before they switch that tassel.

One of the most colorful brochures is the one put out by the Texas State Highway Department on Flowers of Texas. In case you haven't seen one make it a point to. The colors are beautiful and the flowers are identified by a regular everyday name along with the botanical tag.

In Affluent Society, There's Still A Need For Mending!

By CATHERINE CRAWFORD
County HD Agent

In our affluent society a damaged article may be thrown out, another bought. All the same, the need for thrift may not be entirely a thing of the past.

To mend or not to mend? Small pieces of repair work such as ripped buttons, loose hems and opened seams, should be done without hesitation. Whether or not to undertake more extensive repairs must be decided by circumstances, as how much wear is left in the article, how expensive the item was and how much time a person has at her disposal. There is no point in laboriously repairing clothing that can be replaced cheaply, or that will not last much longer. Menders and non-menders alike should save any scrap of fabric taken off a ready-made garment (when shortening, for instance) and kept as long as the garment is owned.

PREVENTIVE

Preventive mending: This is placed first for the obvious reason that it can make much of the rest of the instructions that are given unnecessary. It is a good idea after buying garments — especially inexpensive ones — to go over them with the following repairs in mind:

Dangling threads: Thread into needle, bring to inside of the garment and tie.

Hem: If the stitches are loose or too visible on the right side, or if the fabric is pulled off grain, open the hem by removing stitches and re-sew, using an appropriate hemming stitch. Resew any section of the hem that may be loose.

Buttons and other fastenings: Re-sew loose buttons and any buttons put on with a stitch that ravels, with a strong thread. A post or shank of thread lets the button hole set under the button without strain.

Buttonholes: You can double the life and improve the looks of machine-made buttonholes by going over them with a hand buttonhole stitch, or with a zig-zag machine. For strength alone you may go over the buttonholes. If, however, buttonholes are very raveled, you may want to remove all stitches with sharp, pointed scissors. Then, either make a line of very small machine stitches on each side of the slit, or back both the outside fabric and the facing with an iron-on patch. Refinish buttonhole edges, either by hand or by machine.

HARD WEAR

Areas of hard wear: Knees, elbows, seat of pants, and other areas of hard wear may be reinforced inside with iron-on patches... a real time saver if there ever was one. Round off corners of the patch and follow package instructions exactly. Tears in clothing can be repaired invisibly by pressing a strip of iron-on fabric on the wrong side, or by applying a decorative patch in a contrasting color on the right side.

Kick pleats and pockets: Strengthen with a few firm overhand stitches at the top of the pleat or pocket.

Seams: Sleeves and crotch seams can be strengthened with a second line of machine-stitching on top of the existing stitching. Set the machine at 12 to 14 stitches to the inch. Narrow or crooked seams, or overly large stitching, should have the same treatment.

Underarm seams of raglan and kimono sleeves, which are put to extra strain, should be reinforced with seam tape: a piece of tape is placed over the seam line and stitched through on the seam line.

Imaginative mending: This can be fun rather than work. It is a challenge to your imagination, and often the mended article may end up looking better than when new. It may mean using contrasting rather than matching fabric for patches, and repeating the patch on an undamaged elbow, knee or other corresponding area, in order to make it plausible; placing a decoration over the damage, adding a strategic pocket where none was intended, ironing on a flower, adding a braid or a frill to frayed sleeve edges (and even to the neck edge, even if unraveled).

Embroidery may be done boldly, in a simple design, and extended beyond the damaged areas.

Braid, lace, and ribbon are but three of a whole galaxy of trimmings which can be used to camouflage a mishap.

CHECK FIRST

One way to help keep repair of clothing at a minimum is to check garments carefully before buying them. When you shop, follow these suggestions: Pick types of garments best suited to your family's needs and to the kind of care these clothes will get.

Check size and fit. Getting just the right fit avoids many strains that cause damaging rips and tears later on.

Study style features and trimmings to see if they will hold up in use. Some, although satisfactory in dress clothes, are not practical in play or work clothes.

Examine the workmanship of a garment, outside and inside, to make sure it is appropriate and serviceable for the material, style, and cut of garment, as well as for the use and care it will get. Look for flaws.

Take time to pick the best garment, whether clothes are piled in a stack or hanging from a rack. Don't hurry. All clothes of a kind, or even a size, are not equally good buys. While one choice seems as good as another, clothes are made by individuals, some of whom are more skillful and exacting than others.

Housewives Collecting Coupons

An appeal is again being made to housewives to help in acquiring a kidney machine, this time for a sister of the Rev. J. C. Quarles of Valley Mills. Mrs. Ethel Vaughn, 46, San Bernardino, Calif., is due to have both kidneys removed because of polycystic condition. The kidney machine, therefore, becomes a necessity for her to live.

As in other instances, a food concern (General Mills) said it would supply the machine in her home in exchange for 800,000 coupons (Betty Crocker). Currently, she must go to a hospital for regular use of the machine, at $700 per stay. Persons in this area who can help are asked to mail or send coupons to Mrs. Curtis Reynolds, 1300 Nolan (Phone 267-2173) or to the Baptist Temple.

Secretaries Have Picnic, See Film

An end-of-the-school-year barbecue was held for the Future Secretaries of America Thursday at the home of Dr. Dean Box, 2401 Cindy Lane. Jackie Cordes, vice president, presided and showed the film, "Preparing For the Job in the 70's." Mrs. Dee Ratliff, member of the National Secretaries Association, was a guest.

Cook Snap Beans As Tender Treat

Cook snap beans so they are at their best.

BASIC GREEN BEANS
1 lb. green (snap) beans
1 cup water
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. butter
Pepper (white or black) to taste

Cut tips from beans; wash in cold water; drain. Slice crosswise into 1 to 1½ inch pieces. In a ½-quart saucepan bring the water and salt to a boil; add the beans; bring again to a boil.

Cover and boil just until tender-crisp — about 10 minutes; lift cover a few times during boiling to help keep beans green. Drain; add butter and pepper; mix well. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: Choose slender beans of good green color.

MRS. DANIEL JAMES LAFLER

Miss Paula Yingst Is Married To Daniel James Lafler Friday

Miss Paula Yingst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Yingst, Ackerly, married Sgt. Daniel Lafler, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., at 8 p.m. Friday in Webb Air Force Base Chapel. The single ring ceremony was performed by Ronnie Sellers, minister of Carl St. Church of Christ. Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with an arrangement of flowers and flanked with two baskets of carnations.

Leonard Moody sang "The Wedding Prayer," "Because" and "The Twelfth of Never," accompanied by Jan Moody, organist.

The bride wore an empire gown of white peau de soie with lace covered bodice and sleeves. The square neckline was scalloped lace and the sleeves extended to a petal point at the hands. The gown featured a matching chapel train. The bride's veil of illusion was held by a coronet of seed pearls and lace. She carried a bouquet of carnations centered with an orchid.

Miss Loretta Owen served as maid of honor. She wore a turquoise empire-styled dress and matching pillbox hat with veil.

Sgt. Steve Green, Webb Air Force Base, served as best man.

The wedding reception was held following the ceremony at First Federal community room. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. The refreshment table was decorated with the bouquets of the bride and her bridesmaids.

Members of the house party included Mrs. J. R. Clemmons and Mrs. Ben Kunkel.

A LOVELIER YOU Some Pretty Ways To Style Midi-Coifs

By MARY SUE MILLER
A teen lovely writes: I had my straight, maxi length hair cut to midi. It falls about two inches below my shoulders. The ends are meant to turn under, but soon after setting they hang down limp. At this length, straight ends look funky. Tying them back seemed a solution, but it's unbecoming. What's to do?

The Answer: Midi coifs are deceptive. Owing to their simplicity, upkeep appears practically nil. And it is, when hair has body and a tendency to curve-curl. But few tresses come by either of those assets naturally.

There are several solutions. For some heads, having the ends layered achieves the necessary bounce. This calls for blunt cutting ends in three or more layers under the surface strands. Starting at the bottom, each layer is cut one-fourth inch shorter than the preceding one.

Another and sure-fire recommendation is to have the ends tapered and permanented on jumbo curlers. A perm need only be given, and should only be given, to the ends. Salons are prepared for this kind of wave. For home use, there are jumbo roller and spot perm kits.

As an aid to the cause, investigate gel and liquid setting lotions. Applications help to keep straight portions straight and smooth, to hold and fluff curled sections. And what about "instant set" heat rollers?

TEEN TRESSES

Is your hair a problem, Miss Teen? Then send for my leaflet, "Teen Tresses, Model Type." It tells how to correct such ailments as oily hair and flaky scalp; fly-away, unmanageable, lackluster locks. Included too, are styling tips and model grooming quickies. Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I wonder how many of you who live in older homes, as I do, have ever wondered what to do about the old, worn, metal doorknobs and plates? It is so expensive to have to buy all new knobs so they will all match again. And if the face plates need replacing too (and most will after so many years), then you have the problem of refinishing around the new plate, because today the plates are round and close to the knob, whereas years ago the rectangular plate was six inches or so below the knob (with a keyhole yet!).

After deciding that I could not really stand those old knobs any longer, I put on my thinking cap to see what I could come up with. So here 'tis, and it didn't cost me a cent! I just took all the knobs that were on the inside of the closets or rooms where they weren't used very much and put them on the outside. The outside ones went on the inside. (After all, who sees an old knob on the inside of a closet door or a room where the door is generally open?)

What particularly pleased me was that my husband noticed the difference immediately and all it took was a little time on my part and my trusty, old screwdriver! — Mrs. D. B. S.

Dear Heloise: Ever have a horrid odor in the frig and no charcoal? That's easy to cure.

Remove the offending culprit and take a piece of twine about six inches long. Light both ends with a match, then blow out the flame so that the ends will only smolder. Hang this over a wire on one of the racks, then close the door. Be sure to keep an eye on the twine and remove it when the ends are close enough so that it might fall.

A repeat may be necessary if it's very pungent, but one treatment usually does the trick. — Heloise Disciple

State PTA Programs Deal With Current Issues And Problems

Current issues such as teacher shortage, crime and narcotics, driver training and 14 priorities for educational development are being studied by the Texas Parent-Teacher Association. These directives are sent from the Texas Education Agency as guides in planning local PTA programs.

Due to the shortage of teachers in certain subjects a total of 12,000 emergency certificates were issued. These certificates permit a teacher to teach a subject in which they are not fully qualified under the condition that the teacher begin to fulfill requirements for the subject. A mathematics teacher may be needed to conduct a science class. He may be partly qualified in science and must begin to fulfill the requirements for a certificate in science. The emergency certificate is valid for one year, giving the teacher sufficient time to complete the requirements.

Surprisingly enough, one of the greatest shortages is in qualified coaches and band directors. Illustrating the shortage which exists in science teachers is the fact that 1,081 emergency permits were issued for science teachers. The states 53 teacher education schools that year graduated only 32 students with the required hours to teach science. Of 422 college seniors to graduate last year with degrees in math, only 277 went into public schools.

To recruit new teachers and related personnel, a teacher training program based on 14 priorities was started. Included is a Teacher Certification Project to examine and update school personnel training from the college classroom to the district superintendent's office. A two-year plan of action aimed at student teaching, preparing school administrators and teacher education has been approved by the State Board of Education.

Some of the priorities include training teachers of children with high learning ability, training teachers of the handicapped, teaching vocational education, and comprehensive pupil appraisal.

In other areas, the PTA will be involved with the schools' attack on crime and narcotics. Beginning in September Texas schools will begin programs to instruct teachers in the prevention of crime and drug use and to direct children in projects designed to deter them from crime and drugs.

Texas Education Agency is also allotting $471,733 to help 12 school districts with up-dated driver education programs.

Woe To Debtors

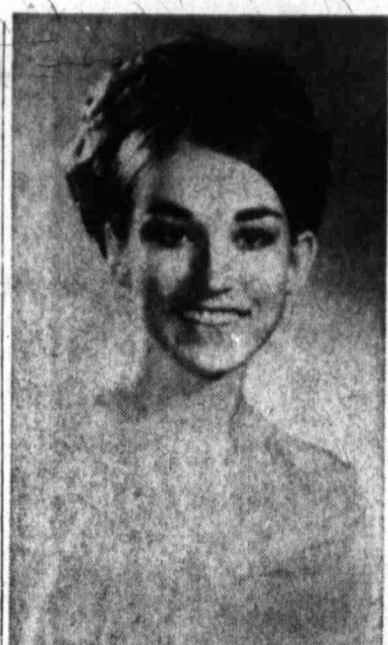

"He who is conscience of a debt he can never pay, will be forever paying it." — G. K. Chesterton

Grants have also been made to improve driver education teacher programs.

Seven school districts will receive nearly $1 million in federal funds to expand and maintain programs begun by Head Start to follow through in grades one through three. The emphasis will be to help disadvantaged children with increased instruction, hot lunches, breakfasts, medical services and psychological help.

During the spring conference of the 10th District Texas Congress of PTA in Big Spring this past week, questionnaires were distributed asking members to evaluate the state PTA program and list what present problems seemed the most critical. Some of the problems concluded financing vocational education, physical, mental and emotional health of youths, moral and spiritual education, bilingual education, pollution, traffic safety and what items were most important when allotting PTA dues.

The PTA's aims and programs reflect its concern with relevant issues. In presenting a program guide the state PTA suggests that local PTAs be forums for exchanging ideas concerning the welfare of children. As a forum, the PTA can exert influence toward the betterment of the environment as well as the education and well-being of the children and future community.

Best To Brush

It's a good idea to keep a pastry brush on hand for brushing meats with barbecue sauce when they're being cooked in the oven. A long-handled brush is necessary for outdoor barbecuing, but the regular short-handled pastry brush is fine for oven barbecuing.

Colorado City Woman Issues Poem Collection

Long-time Colorado City resident Mrs. R. H. (Harry) Ratliff, artist turned poet, has released her first volume of poetry, "While the Iron Is Hot," being published by The Naylor Co., San Antonio.

"I've been writing a little bit all my life," Mrs. Ratliff says, but admits she always wanted to be an artist. "I love to paint."

Her soft Georgian drawl gives away the fact that she is not a native Texan, but she attended the University of Texas and Southern Methodist University and taught school in El Paso. In 1922, a long correspondence-courtship ended when she married a promising young attorney and moved to his hometown, Colorado City.

Mr. Ratliff's law practice grew as Colorado City became part of the big West Texas oil fields. He died three years ago, and Mrs. Ratliff turned to writing poetry in earnest to fill her spare time.

Over the years the family developed a hobby of music, collecting 11 musical instruments, including a six-foot xylophone. Mr. and Mrs. Ratliff were both active in organizing a little theater, an art club, and an historical museum. Both painted and some of their work has been hung in the La Guna Gloria Art Museum, Austin.

Her early childhood among the tall pines and hills of northern Georgia was marked by a careful grounding in arts and letters, and in her poetry she uses this literacy to express her fondness for her adopted state, Texas.

Among her Western poems, several stand out as undiluted portraits of the West. One such is "Emergency Call" in which a doctor is confronted with the primitiveness of an ancient

The poet places herself as a child inside one of her poems, "The Lynching," admitting this was a true experience.

Further into the volume, the theme of the poetry widens to take in memories and reflections on the fast-changing scenes of today. A well-carried-off light touch is balanced with quiet reverence for things that

Kidnap, Pot Cases Face Grand Jury

Three incidents of possession of marijuana, one case of kidnapping and a charge of assault with intent to murder will be among the 16 cases studied next week when the January Grand Jury goes back into session.

Charged with the March 31 kidnapping of an eight-year-old boy is Agapito Pena, 25, a Mexican National. City Judge John Burgess set bond at $3,000, but Pena is still in custody in county jail.

The three charges of marijuana possession are lodged against four men. Roy Lynn Vinson, 19, 1116 Wakefield, Houston, and Thomas Glen Sloan, 17, 1124 Wakefield, Houston, are in county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond, facing one charge of possession of marijuana.

Other marijuana charges are against Albert Wilborn Jr., 22, 707 Wyoming, arrested April 18, and Steven Gordon Rogers, 17, 710 E. 14th, arrested April 11. Rogers was released on $2,000 bond and Wilborn on $5,000 bond. Pablo C. Bustamonte, 19, 1003 NW 3rd, is charged with assault with intent to murder in connection with the April 4 shooting of Johnny Vierra and Vincente Garcia.

Facing burglary charges are Isabell Espinosa, 23, 504 7th, and Garry Allen Peterson, 18, 201 NE 3rd, in separate incidents. A theft over $50 charge is against Julius Bailey, 39, 1304 1/2 Kindle.

G. W. Varner, 4011 U.S. 80 West, Midland, and Jimmy L. Krueger, no address available, are charged with worthless checks over $50; and Ed Brigid Villareal, 26, 210 Lockhart, is charged with carrying a pistol on licenses premises.

Driving while intoxicated — second offense charges are lodged against Luther Floyd Ward, 56, Rt. 2, Box 30, Denton; Douthitt Clay Buchanan, 39, Rt. 1, Box 148; Manuel B. Gutierrez, 47, 408 Benton; Malcolm Mercer Green, 63, 2106 Johnson; and Bernard Hastings, no address available.

Job Patterns Are Unchanged

Patterns of job activity established earlier this year at Texas Employment Commission local offices continued without notable change during March.

In Big Spring new job applications totaled 242 in March, up slightly from the 207 in February and from the 193 submitted in March, 1969. However, non-farm openings were 185 this year as compared with 105 in February and 268 in March, 1969.

Non-farm placements were made for 116 in March of this year, 87 in February, and 175 in March a year ago. Only 13 placements were made in March and February each this year, as compared with 22 made during March, 1969.

Unemployment insurance claims skyrocketed from 372 in February to 444 in March this year, as compared with 349 in March, 1969.

Calculated Risk

President Nixon's announcement of the deployment of United States forces against North Vietnamese sanctuary headquarters in Cambodia is an adventure fraught at once with potential for peace and invitation to disastrous involvement.

He recognized this in devoting part of his talks to the possibility that he would be a one-term president should his judgment be proven faulty. This is a fair assessment, for he would be obliged to gear the consequences of this decision.

Yet, the pervasive issue is not whether the chief executive will have one or two terms. It is whether the action will speed the conclusion of the Vietnam war, or whether it will lead to a still stickier and more frustrating experience in Southeast Asia.

We assume that the President had considerable information at his disposal and has therefore reason to believe that a devastating blow at the important sanctuary nerve center will sharply reduce the enemy's capacity or will to continue massive offensive. In that event, North Vietnam might be obliged to negotiate more seriously.

It is argued that this is aimed at a military rather than a political end of the conflict. This is confusing the issue, for an end of the war is what most people want, however attained. A termination of hostilities may be military without precluding a political settlement. In the meantime, since we are still fighting a war, it is realistic in the sense of self-preservation to deal severe blows to the enemies where it will hurt the most.

Important Week

Today begins Christian Home week, an observance which could and should make a timely contribution to the stability and quality of our society.

It's almost trite to say that the home is in trouble, and for a number of reasons quite aside from the moral. Our mode of living today is vastly different to that of a couple of generations back when the home had few competitors in bidding for attention and loyalty. Then the nation was largely rural; now it is preponderantly urban; then it was hedged by inhibitions, now it is unshackled by license.

The pattern for the home cannot return to what it was; indeed it may be vastly different tomorrow than from today. But the influences of the home can be perpetuated. These must be set in motion by the parents who themselves are committed to moral and ethical principles, and who really love their children enough to expose them to these virtues and to give time and discipline sufficient to impress the basic fabric of young lives. There is an old saying that character is caught, not taught. In our experience, more of it is caught in Christian homes than anywhere else, and that's why this is a week that merits your reflection, and we hope, your rededication.

Steps To Protect Cambodia

WASHINGTON — Red China has come out into the open with a broadcast proclaiming that its 700 million people are supporting the Communist leaders of Cambodia, Laos and North Vietnam. It was an expression of animosity against the United States as "the most ferocious enemy of the three Indo-Chinese peoples."

THE ACTION came at a time when various members of the United States Senate were warning their own President to keep out of Cambodia and, in effect, let the Communists have their way. It isn't often that the Communists are unwittingly given such support, and particularly at a critical moment when more than 400,000 American troops are located in an area where their security can be endangered by the movements of enemy forces and supplies in the countries bordering on South Vietnam.

ONE WONDER why in a crisis those members of the Senate with no responsibility for the conduct of our military operations will take chances by making public expressions that can affect the position of the United States through encouragement of the enemy.

The President has been considering a request from the premier of Cambodia for arms, but in the United States one senator after another has been speaking out warning the President against giving any aid to Cambodia.

REPRESENTATIVE Jonathan B. Bingham, Democrat of New York, however, proposed a more sensible course than most of the critics. He urged the Secretary of State to take the question of Cambodia's defense to the United Nations. He declared that if the United Nations finds that aggression is being committed against Cambodia, the United States "should support whatever collective action is agreed upon." In a telegram to Secretary of State Rogers he said:

"IF THE Security Council can come to no agreement on the matter, then the issues should be referred to the General Assembly at a special session to be called for that purpose.

"If an invasion of Cambodia by North Vietnam is in progress, as you have suggested, then this is clearly a case of aggression and should be handled in accordance with the provisions of the U.N. charter."

PRESIDENT NIXON and his top defense advisers have been studying the question of how to handle the Cambodian government's request for military aid. It cannot be ignored. To do nothing means to give the Communists a free hand, and this would impair the morale of the South Vietnamese. Under such dangerous conditions, surely pressure should be exerted to get the United Nations to intervene.

Also, it has been suggested that a conference of the signatories of the Geneva accords in Indo-China should be reassembled. Although Russia seemed at one time to favor such a course, the idea has been brushed aside by Moscow in the last few days.

BUT, IN ANY event, the course of the American government will have to be a cautious one. It would be far more constructive for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to meet and, by resolution, give its wholehearted support to the President in his efforts to obtain either a conference of the Geneva accords signatories or intervention by the United Nations rather than to spend its time criticizing the administration. For certainly the Defense Department is obligated to make plans to protect the troops now in South Vietnam, particularly to guard the supply lines and to use as much air power as necessary to prevent any new military movements from being launched against South Vietnam from the Cambodia-Laos area.

Administration Cautiously Optimistic

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon administration continued to express confidence during the past week that progress is being made to curb inflation.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said even recent price levels offered "far more encouraging features than surface evidence and analysis suggest."

On Tuesday, McCracken said the outlook for strong production and income gains throughout the rest of the year was bright and that quarterly advances in economic activity "should be increasing for the remainder of the year."

Another key administration adviser, Herbert Stein, said further increases in unemployment are possible, but he expressed confidence that a more stable economy would be attained "without running through a period of deep unemployment along the way."

STEEL PRICES HIKED Bethlehem Steel Co. announced late Thursday it was raising by 4.7 per cent the price of steels used heavily by auto and appliance makers.

The nation's No. 2 steel producer said hot rolled steel would go up by $7 per ton, cold rolled sheet $8 and hot dipped galvanized $6. These products make up more than one-third of the industry's shipments.

Meanwhile, the government released figures which showed that layoffs of factory workers hit a seasonally adjusted six-year high of 18 per 1,000 during March.

Wholesale prices declined this month for the first time in two years, but the key industrial commodities index maintained a steady rise.

The wholesale price index fell 0.1 per cent in April to 116.5 per cent of the 1957-59 average, preliminary U.S. Labor Department figures reported.

At the beginning of the week General Motors announced a 3.4 per cent decline in profits while Ford reported an earnings decline of 25.8 per cent. These first-quarter results, taken with Chrysler's multimillion-dollar loss the previous week, apparently made the first three months of 1970 the worst first quarter for the Big Three automakers since the recession of 1958.

PROFITS SKID Three big steel companies — Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp.,

Interlake Steel Corp. and Wheeling — Pittsburgh Steel Corp. — also reported declines of more than 30 per cent for the first quarter, and all three indicated that earnings difficulties could persist in the current quarter.

The McGraw-Hill survey of business plans for new plants and equipment, released Thursday, showed U.S. business now plans a 9 per cent increase in capital investment this year and projects higher spending for each of the next three years.

Total capital spending this year is pegged to $82.3 billion, while actual spending in 1969 was $75.6 billion, government officials reported.

What Others Say

A state or local government considering a bond issue has a public obligation to weigh the matter carefully. Is the money really needed? Will the benefits exceed the costs?

However, as Federal Reserve Board member Andrew F. Brimmer says, states or localities are only being silly when they try to minimize costs by setting ceilings on interest rates.

CONTRASTING SIGNS

- Experts think controls working despite rising prices
- More unemployment foreseen, but not deep decline
- Wholesale prices off, but Bethlehem raises steel prices
- Construction rises by 19 per cent during March
- Big three car profits dip sharpest in 12 years

Around The Rim Were You Counted In The Census?

There remains in this corner a deep concern over the results of the 1970 census.

We are advised that the enumerators in Howard County have finished their assignments — and a hard-working group of people they have been — and the final tabulations are being checked in the district office.

REGARDLESS OF the effort of those employed to make the calls, some residents could have been overlooked. It seems fair to guess that if Big Spring and Howard County come up with a 1970 population less than the 1960 figures, many people will be unhappy and protest about the methods of the census.

But the Census Bureau is doing what it can to see that every person is included.

FOR INSTANCE, there is a form being published in the newspapers which can be used by those who missed contact with the enumerators. It can be completed and mailed as per directions.

Hopefully, the first question persons should be asking of one another the next few days is "have you been counted in the census?" It's pretty important for a lot of reasons other than civic pride; to see that this decade's nose count is complete.

STATISTICIANS and researchers over the years will be producing much interesting information on this country's citizens — I trust without violating any privacy. They have been doing this, actually, ever since the first census of 1790.

One study concerned itself with names, always a fascinating topic. Names, like other things, disappear over generations, if they are too difficult to spell or pronounce, or if they are too quaint or even ludicrous.

BACK IN 1790 there were counted such personalities as Joseph Scolds, Thomas Simmers, Truelove Sparks, Sermon Coffin, Sarah Simpers, Hannah Cheese, Mercy Pepper and Wanton Bump. And also Boston Frog, Boozie Still, Over Jordan and William Sorrows.

There were such families as the Pockerpines, the Drips, the Fryovers, the Hungerpealers and the Slappys.

Names come from foods (Trout, Lamb, Melon); from relationships (Cousins, Brothers, Neighbors); from nature (Brooks, Rivers, Meadows, Parks); from the ocean (Shoals, Billows, Seas); from religion (Preacher, Rector, Blessing); from war (Battle, Cannon, Fort) and from time (Winter, August, Sunday, Clock).

BUT FOR ALL these noble names, the old reliables will lead the parade, doubtless, in 1970, as they have every year. First the Smiths, then the Browns, the Joneses, the Johnsons, the Clarks and the Williamses.

No matter the name we are all citizens (in varying degree of respectability), and are entitled to get our names on the population list. It is to be hoped that we all do.

Brandt On The East-West Problem

BONN — Despite critical sniping on both sides of the Atlantic, Chancellor Willy Brandt is confident of the success of his talks with President Nixon in Washington two weeks ago. In an interview with this reporter he reaffirmed the understanding he reached with Nixon on the Brandt policy of an opening to the east.

"I have just received a good letter from President Nixon," he said. "We are already beginning to see the results on certain problems that we discussed when I was in Washington."

THE DOUBTERS in Germany have suggested that Nixon was cool toward the negotiations Brandt has initiated with the East. They have gone so far as to talk about a cooling off of relations since the talks in the White House.

"It went just as well as it could," Brandt said. "We had a very frank exchange. There was really no tactical maneuvering on even the most difficult problems. We discovered no area where we disagreed."

BRANDT WAS speaking in his handsome, spacious office in the Palais Schomburgk on Bonn's main thoroughfare where Konrad Adenauer first presided over the young Federal Republic. As the first Social Democratic head of government in 40 years Brandt is pioneering a foreign policy that is the subject of wide controversy. But controversy has been the stuff of his political life ever since he returned from his refuge in Norway to rise to the No. 1 position in the German government.

THE CENTRAL ISSUE in Washington was the pressure in America for cutting back the 250,000-man American troop contingent in Germany. This, according to Brandt, played a role in the talks with the President in only a single sentence. With a smile Brandt observed that, as he left the President's office with an appointment to go before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Nixon remarked that the Chancellor would find committee members opposed to his view on the need to maintain troops at their present strength. And, as Nixon added, against my view, too.

In Brandt's opinion the question of the troops is not just a German-United States issue. It must be considered in the context of the NATO alliance. The NATO powers are all concerned with the American commitment, he says, and not merely a symbolic commitment.

"IF A MUTUAL reduction of troops on the side of the West and the side of the East is to be considered, this must be done with the most serious preparations — as serious as the preparations for the SALT talks in Vienna. This cannot be done overnight."

Nor does Brandt believe that his opening to the East, both in the negotiations with Moscow and with East Germany, can bring tangible results on mutual troop reduction prior to the deadline of Mid-1971 when West Germany's agreement with the United States on compensation for American forces stationed here expires.

An estimated 20 Russian divisions are stationed in East Germany and large contingents are in other East European countries. Joint maneuvers with the Warsaw Pact powers is the justification for the movement of large numbers of Soviet troops throughout Eastern Europe.

"THAT THE PRESENT level of American troops in Germany is essential for the stability of Germany is nonsense," Brandt said with emphasis. "It is important for Western Europe as a whole. The disappearance of the troops or even the retention of a small symbolic force would give many people in Western Europe the feeling that they were confronted with Russian hegemony."

"This is a problem for the United States. Until there is an East-West settlement America needs more than a symbolic force in Europe. The danger is falling back on massive retaliation."

Art Buchwald Those Caught In The Middle

WASHINGTON — My friend Brightfeller is having an identity crisis. He said that no matter where he stood on the major issues in the United States today, he found himself in trouble.

"The fact that I'm against the bombing of New York buildings, the student take-overs of offices and intimidation by militant know-nothings makes me a fascist pig."

"Well, there's nothing wrong with that," I said.

"Except that I think Spiro Agnew is full of hot air."

"BUT THAT makes you an effete snob and a pseudo-intellectual," I said.

"Exactly. I think Judge Julius Hoffman of Chicago is one of the great disasters of our judicial system."

"That makes you an ultra-left-wing revolutionary."

"At the same time, I think the Chicago Seven are a bunch of clowns who belong on the comic pages of the newspapers."

"Which makes you an apologist for the stinking bourgeois establishment."

"TO MY MIND, Atty. Gen. Mitchell would do anything to violate my constitutional rights in the name of law and order, and this makes me a limousine liberal."

"They're the worst kind."

"At the same time, I think we should beef up our police forces."

"Join the Silent Majority."

"I believe Nixon's Southern strategy is tearing this country apart."

"This makes you a typical Northern bleeding-heart hypocrite."

"AT THE SAME time the blacks call me a honky racist for not giving them my church."

"You seem to be all things to all men."

"I keep saying we should get out of Vietnam as fast as possible, and they call me a fellow neo-isolationist. But because I'm not willing to pull the troops out today, my left-wing pals say I'm a prize dupe of the military-industrial complex."

"How do you feel about the economy?"

"I'm against a recession which makes me a reckless socialist free spender."

"What about inflation?"

"I'M AGAINST THAT too, for which I've been called a Nazi conservative who doesn't give a damn about unemployment."

"Any thoughts on the ABM?"

"It's a disaster and as phony as anything the Defense Department has come up with."

"But that means you're giving aid and comfort to the Communies."

"I'm the original pinko Dove. And because I think the draft is safer for the country than a professional Army, my kid's friends refer to me as the 'war criminal.'"

"You have to have a strong hide to take all this name calling."

"THE TRAGEDY of all this is that the radical right knows exactly where it stands, and the radical left is completely secure in the knowledge it's right. But the fascist pig, pseudo-intellectual effete snob of the radical middle is being torn apart."

"You can say that again," I said.

"Any country where a citizen has to choose between Judge Julius Hoffman and Yippee Abbie Hoffman is really in trouble."

Eddie and Jake have been buddies since they could toddle. Together they hiked, fished, argued and leap-frogged the years away. If they weren't at our house, they were at Eddie's. Sundays, Eddie came along to church with us.

They did everything together, dated, played football, went to college. When they joined the Army, they went together.

Jake is coming home next week, but not Eddie. His mother brought his last letter over today. We cried together.

"Dear Mom," Eddie wrote, "Things are pretty bad. I'm glad Jake is here. We talk about home, about God, too. I know you and Dad never cared about church and all, but I think you'll be glad to know I've learned a lot about God from Jake. Whatever happens, I feel close to Him. I'm not scared."

FAMILY PORTRAIT — Tony York, Robert Walker, Diane Varsi and Dick Clark pause for a moment of play before the elders become "The Killers Three."

Mystery Act Fits Actress

Diane Varsi, one of the most controversial personalities to ever attain stardom in Hollywood, is apparently experiencing a fabulously new and exciting motion picture career, but the mystery and mystique cloaking her private life is still one of the cinema city's enigmatic puzzles.

After attaining overnight stardom, the beautiful, blonde actress suddenly disappeared from the Hollywood scene for eight long years.

Now, eight years after leaving the movie capitol, the blonde beauty has returned to Hollywood film-making with a starring role in "Wild in the Streets" and a current starring portrayal in "Killers Three," a Dick Clark production in which Robert Walker and Clark also star.

In "Killers Three," which begins an engagement Wednesday at the Jet Theatre, Diane appears as Walker's loyal wife who joins him in an ill-fated crime and eventually pays the supreme sacrifice for her fidelity.

Popular Young Stars Combine Talents In 'John And Mary'

Two of motion pictures' most popular young stars — Dustin Hoffman and Mia Farrow — play the title roles in "John and Mary," 20th Century-Fox's contemporary love story now showing at the Cinema Theatre.

Peter Yates, the young British director who made his American debut with "Bullitt," was behind the cameras for "John and Mary," which was filmed entirely in the New York City area, with the exception of three days of location work on Grand Bahama Island.

The film was produced by Ben Kadish, with a screenplay by John Mortimer adapted from the novel by Mervyn Jones. Although this is Kadish's first time out as a producer, he is a veteran of the motion picture scene, having been associated with such luminaries as John Huston, Fred Zinnemann, Joshua Logan and George Stevens.

The motion picture gives a discerning portrayal of many of today's young singles and the intricate rituals they observe while simultaneously searching for and evading communication and commitment. Dustin Hoffman, playing "John," is the young actor who became a superstar with his role in "The Graduate" which he followed with "Midnight Cowboy." Mia Farrow's latest hit was "Rosemary's Baby."

Playing with Dustin and Mia in "John and Mary" are an attractive group of talented young performers, including many faces new to motion picture audiences. Michael Tolan is co-starred as the married man in Mia's cinematic life, and newcomer Sunny Griffin makes her film bow as the vivacious high-fashion model who moves in and out of Dustin's life and apartment.

BARRY NEWMAN AS 'THE LAWYER' ... Diana Muldaur, Robert Colbert (right)

Actor Doesn't Want Stardom

Barry Newman, the young Broadway actor who makes his film debut in the sensational courtroom drama, "The Lawyer," candidly admits that he has no interest in becoming a star.

"Too many headaches and heartaches," he claims. "I'd much rather carve out a movie career and a reputation for myself as a versatile actor and stay clear of the shoals of stardom."

"The camera becomes a monster to a glamour star, then it becomes an opponent which demands a constant emotional pitch. For a character actor, the camera's terrors may never disappear completely, but you can be sure it is a lot less of a Frankenstein."

Newman cares little for such a life. He states that he is attempting to achieve a film career in which he makes a good living doing a variety of roles and still keeps enough private time to lead his own life and engage himself in other pursuits that interest him.

"I don't think an actor should be a robot, but I think once he accepts a role in a picture, he should just act and leave the other details to the men at the studio equipped to handle them," he concludes.

"The Lawyer," which stars Barry Newman, Harold Gould, Diana Muldaur, Kathleen Crowley and Robert Colbert, opens today at the Ritz Theatre. The film was directed by Sidney J. Furie from a screenplay he wrote with Harold Buchman and was produced in color by Brad Dexter.

Unusual Love Is Film Plot

"Fulfillment. Something Worth remembering" will be the special late show Friday and Saturday nights at the Cinema Theatre.

The motion picture shows the many faces of love, with the producer making no effort to condone or condemn. This he leaves up to each individual member of the audience. In the process, he delivers an abundant supply of all kinds of love to choose from.

In spite of the frankness of the film, the director manages to present his subject with a classic style. The story is fresh and believable; the color and photography are good.

The Spanish and East Texas

locations are breathtaking, and the musical score is undoubtedly the best since Dr. Zhivago.

LONDON (AP) — An organization appropriately named STOPP has complained to the British Education Ministry that corporal punishment still is rampant in British schools despite majority opinion against it.

STOPP stands for the "Society of Teachers Opposed to Physical Punishment." It says some teachers cane pupils, often secretly and without reporting even to their superiors.

MANAGER WARNS MOVIEGOERS
Playboy Exposes 'Hush-Hush' Story From Bold and Brash Adult Movie
RATED FILM BANS MINORS
A daring 12-page exposure by Playboy Magazine of the subject matter in "All The Loving Couples" proved a shocking experience for those who read the article or saw the startling, unbelievable transition to the screen.
Audience viewing "All The Loving Couples" were jolted by the boldest movie scenes and frank words ever dared on any screen.
This movie, a true-life story about real people—telling of personal and confidential desires—is based on a startling, hush-hush trend spreading rapidly throughout the country involving people from all walks of life, and all age groups.
"Our desire to protect young people and adults with hangups and our respect for prevailing community standards and established advertising ethics, prohibits the display in our advertising of any actual scene or any spoken words from this movie," the theatre manager emphasized.
"People easily offended, embarrassed, or those with hangups definitely should not see 'All The Loving Couples,'" the manager cautioned. "For them," the manager warned, "this movie will be a shattering emotional experience!"

Prisoners Keep Getting Dope

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) —

The first director of drug abuse programs in the North Carolina

Mental Health Department, Dr.

Ben Britt, says that even though you put drug pushers in jail,

they find "all kinds of channels" for getting drugs into prisons.

Dr. Britt, a Raleigh psychiatrist and former medical director of the state Department of Prisons, said Friday that drug traffic in the prison system not only caters to addicts, but introduces drugs to prisoners who have not used them before.

Mayor Bridles At Color Hassel

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Get that nonsense out of this office," Mayor A.J. Cervantes growled Friday when the city trash can color controversy was submitted to him for binding arbitration.

The 275 trash cans in the downtown area are a light green and Street Director Paul Spelbrink wanted them to stay that way.

But a Cervantes aide and Harvard art graduate, Edward A. Rueising, said he thought orange would be a nice color.

Spelbrink offered the opinion that painting the cans orange would make them "look like hell."

Baptists' Youth-Led Crusade Opens Today

Baptists of the Big Spring Association, with youth in the forefront, begin a cooperative evangelistic series today in the Comanche Trail Park amphitheatre.

David Railey, who is on leave as missionary to Taiwan and Hong Kong, will be the minister, and Jerry Wayne Bernard, Houston, will direct the music, which will feature a 75-100 voice youth choir.

Preparations for the meeting have been under way for weeks and were climaxed a week ago by a rally addressed by Randy Peschel, star pass catcher of the national football champion University of Texas team. All during last week a series of prayer meeting were held.

Prior to going on the mission field, the Rev. Railey was a minister in Houston. He and his family are home on indefinite leave due to illness of one of the children. Bernard formerly was a night club entertainer, including singing with the Vincent Lopez orchestra. He was under contract to a motion picture studio when he decided that he was missing the purpose of his life and turned his musical talents to Christian service.

Crusade chairmen and sponsors are: Look-up group
