Kampfer resigns as city manager

With over 35 people in attendance, the city council accepted the resignation of City Manager Pete Kampfer in a called meeting Monday evening.

Following several comments from the public, Kampfer tendered his resignation and spoke briefly to those in attendance. He cited the first question in the four-way test often associated with the Rotary Club, "Is it the truth?" Kampfer told citizens that there has never been a time he could remember when one would not be better served by the truth. He also urged the citizens of Colorado City not to take the path of least resistance, and to take the necessary steps to stay on the path of progress.

Kampfer recognized and thanked council members Robert Brookshear, Keith Hiser, Bobbie Banks, Marcelo Alvarez, Sue Mason and past council member Margaret Brown for their support and leadership.

The council accepted Kampfer's resignation with a unanimous vote, 6-0. Mayor Carol Sue Dakan did not vote. His last day as city manager for the City of Colorado City will be February 21.

Following a closed session, the council announced that Belinda Blassingame had been chosen as interim city manager. She will fill the open position until a replacement can be found.

Blassingame is currently the municipal court judge, and she will add interim city manager duties to her current judicial duties. The board also approved for City Secretary Donna Madrid to post the open position and begin taking applications.

According to Kampfer, he had added an item to the agenda, at the urging of several council members, which would see the council appointing a contact person to serve as a go-between for the council and interim city manager. Apparently during the executive session, council members and the mayor agreed that a contact person would not be necessary.

Councilman Bob Brookshear noted that the original purpose for the appointment of a contact person was to "try to eliminate or reduce the amount of harassment or improper contact like we had last time." Councilman Keith Hiser agreed that it would be for the best if all council members and the mayor stayed "out of city hall" so as not to interfere with the day-to-day tasks of Blassingame and other city employees.

Councilwoman Bobbie Banks said, "I think city hall is best served by us staying out. I don't need to tell her how to do her job." And with all other council members and the mayor in agreement, no contact person was appointed, and the meeting was adjourned.

Public reacts to resignation

Several Colorado City residents took part in the public comments session during Monday night's city council meeting, taking the opportunity to voice their opinions about things happening within the city government. The most prevalent theme for the night was allegations that the mayor and some city council members have harassed the last few city managers to the point that they have resigned.

Bob Reily was the first to speak and began by thanking City Manager Pete Kampfer for all he and his employees have accomplished during his time here. "While publicized very little, our city was in a dangerous financial condition when Pete came. Now we are on a firm financial footing," Reily said. He went on to list several accomplishments made that he believes can be directly attributed to Kampfer.

Reily also stated why he thinks Kampfer has chosen to leave his position here. "The reason we are losing Pete is not Pete, but some on the city council. When three city managers leave in less than three years it is evident that the city council is doing something wrong." He urged the council to work with the new city manager when one is hired and to allow him to manage the city as he has been trained to do.

Councilman Keith Hiser also exercised his right to speak. Hiser said that "our city is lacking sustained peace" and admitted that the council has also been lacking a basic rule of law within its chambers. Hiser went on, "I believe that the root of our problems lies within our leadership and the friction we have between ourselves. Over the past months, I have witnessed questionable behavior and disregard for order both within

Local family's history has strong ties to that of C-City

For Colorado City resident Bessie Wright, just being here is a miracle in itself. Her parents moved to Colorado City at very young ages from Red River County, though the two had never met. It took the move and a few years of growing up before the two people would fall in love and marry.

Her father, Albert Walthall, came here from Clarksville, at the age of 13 to live with an uncle. While her mother, Ceola Butler made the move with her parents at the age of two.

Bessie described her father as a laborer, who spent time working for Fuller Foods, Haliburton (before the company moved to Oklahoma), the oil mill in Colorado City and even at Truck Town.

"He would do anything," Wright said of her father. "Anything which was honest, anyway."

Meanwhile, Wright's mother opened the first public laundromat in Colorado City which allowed blacks to use the machines.

"Mom worked out a deal with Ms. Snowden, who owned a laundry mat," Wright said. "She bought six Maytag wringer style washers and made payments every week on them."

Wright said her father built a small

Dykes to speak at banquet

The 103rd Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce banquet will be held March 2nd at 7:00 p.m. in the Colorado City Civic Center. Applications are being taken until February 9th for the Citizen of the Year and agriculture awards. The applications can be picked up at the chamber office.

The featured guest speaker this year will be Spike Dykes. Dykes was the head coach of the Texas Tech Red Raiders for 13 years, the longest tenured and most winning coach in Texas Tech football history. Following the final game in Jones Stadium of the 1999 football season, Dykes announced that after more than 40 years of prowling a football sideline, he was retiring.

Dykes accomplished much at Texas Tech, but his biggest accomplishment was instilling in a generation of Red Raiders a soul that is not timid, a determined heart unafraid to fail and a spirit that dared to compete. Few coaches

The Girl Scouts of America are at it again! Their selling the delicious cookies everyone has come to love. This is the 100th anniversary of Girl Scout cookie sales and the Colorado City chapter of Girl Scouts is selling eight flavors of cookies, including Carmel Delites, Peanut Butter Patties, Thanks-A-Lot, Peanut Butter Sandwiches, Lemonades, Shortbread, Shout Outs and Thin Mints. According to Girl Scout troop leader Kara Wood, the local Girl Scouts had sold approximately 3600 cookies, as of last Thursday, and they want to keep going.

Proceeds raised from cookie sales are spent on troop patches, camps and charities such as the Uganda Watoto children's choir. The local troops have also donated to the mission and fire departments, as well as other local entities.

"As needs come up, we try to help," Wood said. The girls are setting up in yards, on parking lots and selling cookies at any location they can. They will be in Loraine and at Desert Rain in Colorado City soon, so watch for the cookie patrol.

County bridges to be replaced

The Mitchell County Commissioners Court met Monday in a called session. The commissioners approved the county's payroll, which was just over $65,000. With no budget amendments, the court moved on to its only other actionable business, a resolution for the advance funding agreement amendment for bridge replacement.

Unanimously, the commissioners and County Judge Ray Mayo agreed to approve the resolution which would allow work to go forward to replace four of the county's bridges. The bridges included were the bridge over the Colorado River on CR 142, the bridge over Wild Horse Creek on County Road 155, the bridge over No Name Creek on County Road 351 and the bridge over Red Bank Creek on County Road 352.

Judge Mayo, though it was not on the agenda for the commissioners to vote on, passed information on to the court in regards to a building the county owns.

After a concern was brought to his attention concerning air quality in the county tax office on 2nd Street, Judge Mayo expressed interest in having the building tested. The cost of the testing, according to Judge Mayo, would run in the area of $2,600.

Also, Judge Mayo asked the commissioners about the county-owned rock quarry near Loraine which sits in a 240-acre tract of land. His questions were directed toward the possibility of taking bids for the mineral rights of the land, which the county owns.

After several minutes of discussion, the commissioners and Judge Mayo agreed the item should be placed on an agenda and brought before the court, allowing the court to decide whether it was in the county's best interest to entertain bids toward that effect.

outside our council chambers."

"Most recently you saw or heard the disregard for the Rules of Order within our meeting and unprofessionalism in a member personally attacking the city manager," Hiser said. "It appears now that may have been the straw that broke the camel's back, so to speak and firmed up our city manager's decision to leave." Hiser also added, "Personal attacks against the city manager, and other subordinate employees, only tear apart the integrity of our team and direct attention away from our purpose."

Part of the solution to the problems, according to Hiser, lie with the focus of the council. "Each and every member of this council must remain focused and steadfast on the task at hand. We may even have our own personal opinions of each other, the city manager and the employees of the city. However, when we represent the people of Colorado City, we must do so in a professional and unbiased manner. We do not have to personally like each other, but we must abide by the laws and rules that we adopt or were previously adopted before us."

Hollis Gainey passionately scolded the mayor and council for what he perceives as running off "the best city manager we've ever had." He also asked the question on so many minds, "Who would want to come here to be the next city manager?"

Gainey said that Kampfer, as well as others, had been "hassled and heckled until they couldn't take it." He also pointed out that no one has addressed the problem up to now. "You can't see the problem. You're blind," Gainey said referring to council members. "And so are you," he said pointing to the people in the audience, referring to the citizens of Colorado City.

Mary "Sally" Brown was the next up at the podium. She brought to mind councils of the past, working together for the future of Colorado City. She said that Mitchell County and Colorado City worked together to bring in the prison and state park. "There are some things that need to be revisited," Brown said, speaking about the county's proposed desalination plant. She also commended the current council and said, "City council is not a place for the weak."

Mickey Neff was the final citizen to speak, saying that Kampfer will be remembered because it's easy to see all he has done for Colorado City. He also held Kampfer up as an example for all citizens, commending him on the way he approached his time here. "You bought a house on (our) main street, so everyone could see how you do business," Neff said. He also said that sometimes in business, difficult and unpopular decisions have to be made and he commended Kampfer for his ability to do so.

Kampfer's last day will be February 21".

building behind their house on Front Street for her mother to put the machines in and she was off and running.

"She first opened the business in early 1955," Wright said. "And operated it until around 1974. The old machines used a boiler to heat the water and you ran the clothes through the wringer to get them started toward the drying process."

When asked about what kind of clothes dryers the facility had, Wright just laughed.

"We had a very long clothes line," she said. "The people would hang their clothes out and let them dry the old fashioned way."

Though leaving no impression of a family of great wealth, Wright talked of a childhood where their family always had people living with them, those down on their luck, just starting out or needing a fresh start.

"There was always more than just our immediate family there at the table," Wright said looking back. "It was never uncommon to see 10-12 kids at dinner time."

Wright graduated from Wallace High School in 1961, before attending the only nursing school Colorado City had. She was the only one to graduate from the school.

She moved to Houston in 1973, but found her way home in the mid-1980's, realizing her kids were getting lost in a dangerous world in Houston. The last two of her four children graduated from Colorado High School.

I guess one thing I remember most was going to nursing school during the same era as the civil rights movement. My dad really helped me through that time, with his thoughtful way of looking at everything. More than any, she remembered him telling her, "Remember this, when someone is looking down on you, they still have to look you in the eye."

Wright has pictures and letters which trace her family back to the time when they were slaves, but the history did not stop there. Her grandfather, George Martin, was a World War I veteran and is buried in the Washington State Military Cemetery.

Her great grandfather, Albert Prince, was the first in the family who moved to Texas. It was in the 1890's with his second wife, Viola Grey.

The family's history is one of strength, one of determination, but now, it is one of many which make up the history of Colorado City.

Belinda Blassin-game has been named the interim city manager for Colorado City in the absence of Pete Kampfer. Blassin-game (right) will be training with Kampfer until his last day, Feb. 21, before taking the reigns herself.

CUSTOMER NOTICE INCORPORATED AREAS OF THE MID-TEX DIVISION

On January 31, 2012, Atmos Energy Corporation, Mid-Tex Division ("Atmos" or "the Company"), filed a Statement of Intent with each City served by the Mid-Tex Division (hereafter "Affected Cities") with the exception of the City of Dallas. The Company's Statement of Intent proposes to increase its gas rates and implement a new schedule of rates and riders applicable to all customers within the Affected Cities. The proposed effective date of the requested rate changes is March 6, 2012. If approved, the proposed changes will affect approximately 1,194,420 residential, 100,461 commercial, and 705 industrial & transportation customers.

If approved, the proposed rates will increase the Company's annual revenues by $49,080,069 or 4.36%, including gas costs, or 11.94% excluding gas cost. The proposed change in rates constitutes a "major change" as that term is defined by Section 104.101 of the Texas Utilities Code. In addition to the rate changes, other proposed tariff changes include revision of the Company's residential and commercial rate schedules (Rates R and C), as well as its Rider WNA and Rider GCR to change the current billing rate basis from Mcf to Ccf. The Company further proposes to revise the Rider GCR to: (1) remove the 2009 interest rate reference, (2) clarify that the calculation of (b) Pipeline Cost is inclusive of interest, and (3) update the Upstream Pipeline Charge Allocation (Factor D). Atmos also proposes to modify its Rider WNA to update the heat load and base load factors. The Company further seeks to implement a new Rate Review Mechanism ("RRM") tariff, as well as a new conservation and energy efficiency tariff ("Rider CEE"). In addition, the Company seeks to recover all of its rate case expenses and all city rate case expenses as allowed by law. The exact amount will not be known until the case is completed.

Based on the proposed rate design, the average monthly bill for each customer class within the Affected Cities will change by the amount and percent shown in the table below:

Customer Class	Current Bill 	Proposed Bill	Difference	Percentage Change with Gas Cost	Percentage Change without Gas Cost
Residential *	$48.51	$51.21	$2.70	5.57%	13.60%
Commercial *	$241.15	$246.50	$5.35	2.22%	9.69%
Industrial *	$3,703.47	$3,499.26	$(204.21)	-5.51%	-14.22%
Transportation	$1,754.60	$1,550.39	$(204.21)	-11.64%	-14.22%

*Includes Rider GCR Part A cost of $4.5750 per Mcf.

The calculation of bill impacts assumes average monthly consumption of 4.4 Mcf for residential, 34.2 Mcf for commercial, and 3,897 MMBtu for industrial and transportation customers.

Persons with specific questions or desiring additional information about this filing may contact Atmos Energy Corporation at 1-888-286-6700. Complete copies of the filed Statement of Intent, including all proposed rates and schedule changes, are available for inspection at Atmos' offices located at 5420 LBJ Freeway, Suite 1600, Dallas, Texas 75240 or on our website www.atmosenergy.com/mtx-soi. In addition, customers can contact their City for additional information regarding this rate request.

Este es un aviso a los clientes de Mid-Tex División de Atmos Energy Corporation, (la "Compañía"), que la Compañía está solicitando un aumento en la tarifa del gas. Este aumento afecta a todos los clientes de la Compañía excepto en la ciudad de Dallas y las áreas no incorporadas. Aquellas personas que deseen comunicarse con la autoridad reguladora que tiene jurisdicción sobre esta solicitud deben ponerse en contacto con su ciudad. He not only has elevated the program into consistently challenging for conference championships, he also won admirers throughout the game for his appreciation of traditional West Texas values and his genuine love for people. His success is quite an accomplishment when considering Dykes took over a program that had experienced only one winning season in the previous eight years.

He's helped make it so competitive that the Red Raiders played in a school-record four consecutive bowls games in the 1990s and in six overall during his 13-year tenure. Dykes is one of the game's all-time "straight shooters."

The Colorado City Wolves will drop to District 4-2A in Region I of District II, a move many in Colorado City had hoped to see.

In Colorado's district will be some familiar foes in Ballinger and Coleman. Though the Wolves made short work of Coleman this season with a decisive 30-14 win this season and a 39-0 trouncing in 2010, Ballinger is a team which has played Colorado to the wire in non-district play the last two seasons. The Wolves grabbed a 27-24 win in 2011, while escaping with a 24-21 win in 2010.

Ballinger went 5-1 in district last season, but their district was a bit lighter than this season should prove to be.

But the match between Ballinger and Colorado City should prove to be a good rivalry, with the winner claiming some much-needed momentum in their run for the title. Also in Colorado's new district will be Cisco, Hamilton and Hawley.

Hawley missed the playoffs last season by one point. Forsan had to beat Hawley by 13 points to claim the final spot and did exactly that, ending Hawley's miracle season just shy of heaven.

Cisco, well what can we say? The Lpboes came just one point of a 17-0 season, not to mention a state title in 2011. They will need to regroup a bit after a large portion of their team graduates in May, but look for them to be tough again.

Finally, we come to Hamilton. The Bulldogs made the playoffs in 2011 and even got post-season win before running into Idalou. They took the third playoff spot behind Cisco and will be another team Colorado will want to take a close preseason look at in 2012.

In basketball, the Wolves will only see a few changes in their district schedules. Grouped with Colorado City in Region I, District 4 will be Coahoma, Denver City and Stanton.

Disappearing from the district schedule will be Forsan, Post and Roosevelt, while Lamesa and Brownfield will both drop down out of 3A to join the ranks of those hoping to take down the Wolves.

THIS COULD'VE BEEN a child... One of the stop signs placed in the middle of 17th Street was smashed by a vehicle that was traveling well over 20 mph. The signs were placed in order to slow down traffic in the school zone. Photo courtesy of Jeff Ellis.

Last Friday night the Loraine boys and girls basketball teams honored the senior graduating students and their parents by special recognition before each game. The seniors presented their parents with a single red rose.

It was a very nice tribute and a way for the students to thank their parents for all the support given to them over the years.

A very special thank you to Jennifer Fales from Lilly, Little Jack and Sullivan. They really appreciated you letting them go potty last Saturday night. A big WOOF WOOF to you!

Congratulations to our Lady

Bulldog basketball team! Led by Coach Hanks, they are enjoying a run in the playoffs!

The pancake supper was a great success at the Loraine Senior Center last Friday night. Tanks to everyone, especially Carl Graham, Michael Kinnon, Allan Steck, Dicky and Shirley Summers and Y Sadler.

McKinneys to celebrate 50th wedding anniversary

Chris McKinney and Andra Maxwell, children of Mike and Sue McKinney, are proud to announce the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents.

The McKinneys, both from Mitchell County, married February 10, 1962, in Colorado City. Sue was a graduate of Colorado High School, and Mike graduated from Westbrook High School. Mike worked for the highway department and also in various oilfield services for over 40 years. Sue first worked at Colorado Lumber and then served as CEO of Midwestern Services in Snyder for approximately 25 years.

Along with two children, the couple has five grandchildren, Britanny McKinney of Killen, Christian McKinney of San Angelo, William McKinney of Colorado City, Haley Maxwell and Rion Maxwell, both of Colorado City, as well as a daughter-in-law, Tina McKinney and son-in-law, Richard Maxwell.

The McKinneys will celebrate with a private dinner and outing with their kids and grandkids.

Retired school personnel to be honored at luncheon

Retired school personnel will be treated to an appreciation luncheon at noon on Tuesday, Feb. 14, at Colorado Middle School administration building.

The annual event will be hosted by Principal Mark Merrell along with CMS student council members and faculty members.

"We look forward to this event each year," said Janet Mayo, president of the Mitchell County

Retired School Personnel. "We appreciate the recognition from Mr. Merrell, the faculty and students."

"The luncheon is open to all retired school personnel," said Mayo. "You do not have to be a member of the local organization in order to attend."

"Mr. Merrell told me that he hopes everyone is able to attend and that he hopes the building is full," said Mayo. "He said this is an opportunity to thank all retired school personnel for their years of dedicated service to the schools."

"The meal prepared by Mr. Merrell, his staff and students is always delicious," said Mayo. "The event provides an opportunity for us to meet in a relaxed atmosphere and gives us a chance to visit with one another as well as with students and staff."

WESTBROOK WANDERINGS

By Chrystal Jaimes
Westbrook Correspondent

Around Town... Well as you know now, I have started the year out by being the "queen of procrastination". Ok, I'm sorry for dropping the ball on the Westbrook news, but guys I have really been busy. Seriously J.

I do know that Alan, Leslie and Keshia were in Chicago. They were attending the graduation of their son Drake Thurman. He has graduated the Navy boot camp in South Carolina.

Way to go Drake! We are proud to have you serving our country along with your sister Keshia. Be safe!

This past weekend, we celebrated the 15th birthday of Vydellia Jaimes. This is my oldest daughter.

We had many family members and several friends attend her winter ball party. It was a great turn out. There was dinner, fruit, cake, punch and lots of dancing for the kiddos, and I know several had blisters by the end of the night.

What can I say, you only turn

15 once, and it will be a night to remember forever.

Belated birthday wishes for those January birthdays around Westbrook including Buck Parker over at Buck's Cafe and Jo Evan Cantu.

Speaking of Buck's, I think I have also seen Jack Green taking a break a time or two in Buck's. Keep up the good work patrolling Westbrook Jack. We are watching you.

Sally finally got some Girl Scout cookies! I wonder why all the little ones always forget to come out and sell to her? Listen up Girl Scouts never, never, forget to come out to Buck's for sales. They will buy you out!

Westbrook ISD news... School will be dismissed early on February 17th at 12:30 p.m. Teachers have in-service.

Think on this: we are about 3 1/2 months away from May, meaning spring break soon and summer break before you know it. That should brighten your week.

•Class 1 Percussion ensemble (with Alyssa Bonner, Damian Davila, Tucker French, Sarena Lujan, Jaci Smith), Division 1, going to State

Students selected solo and ensembles back in December before their Christmas break. Solo/Ensembles are classified by Division 1, 2, or 3, with 3 being the easiest and only performable by freshmen. If a student learns a Class 1 solo, performs it by memory, and earns a Division 1 rating, they qualify for advancement to the state contest. If a group of students perform a Class 1 ensemble and earn a Division 1 rating, they also qualify for state.

These band students have put in many hours of hard work and preparation for the contest that is held each spring. CHS Band Directors Darin Johns, Elizabeth Wilson and Chaz Branch were proud of the success achieved by the students.

"We're especially proud to be taking 31 students to state in May," Johns said. "This is an all-time high for Colorado High School, or at least for the past eight years I've been here." The TSSAC (Texas State Solo & Ensemble Contest) will be held in Austin at Pflugerville Hendrickson High School on May 28. Those students participating will leave on Saturday, May 26th, the day after graduation to go to Austin.

"When most kids are winding down and getting ready for school to get out for the summer, these band students will be practicing hard and preparing for State. We wish these students the best at their state competition," said Johns.

Meanwhile, the CHS Band is preparing for UIL Concert/Sight-reading Contest that will be hosted by Colorado High School on March 1st.

FIRST GRADE Accelerated Reading students who have achieved 50% of their goal celebrated with an awards ceremony on February 2nd at Kelley Elementary. As part of their reward, the students will go to Colorado High School on February 13th, 14th to make gingerbread cookies.

Lady Wolves fight to the end

The Lady Wolves will not be participating in the basketball season, as Colorado City, down to seven players because of a rash playoffs this season, but it will not be for a lack of trying. Tied with Denver City for the final playoff spot, the Lady Wolves squared off against Coahoma Tuesday night at The Pit.

Lauran Meeks led the team with 20 points, with Miranda Reyna not far behind with 11 and then Mackenzie Kimball with nine points in a game which took an overtime to settle, after Colorado City came roaring back in the fourth to force the extra period.

Coahoma was ahead by 14 at one point in the third frame, but Colorado City refused to let this one get away. They rallied, they fought and they brought out all the stops.

The crowd was deafening when Katy Spencer stepped onto the court in her first appearance since tearing her ACL, but it went dead silent when she grabbed her leg and went down.

When she came back in later and drained a three-pointer, The Pit erupted again. More than once, she could be seen limping to the sidelines, but no one doubted they would see her return and return she did, time after time.

Late in the fourth quarter, as the Lady Wolves were making an unlikely comeback seem like a reality, Meeks gets fouled. What follows may have been the greatest nine seconds ever played by anyone in The Pit.

She walks to the line, drains two free throws. On the ensuing inbound pass by Coahoma, she steals the ball and scores two more points. Giving up the short inbound attempts, Coahoma throws the next pass to half court.

Meeks ran the Coahoma player down just as the ball arrives. She is eventually called for a questionable foul, but those watching know the referee just could not keep up any more and needed a break.

Heather Merket finished the game with six points and Megan Bullard with one.

Moments after the game, it was learned Denver City defeated Stanton, knocking Colorado City's girls out of the playoffs.

They got to this pivotal night by earning a split the last week in unlikely fashion:

With their season on the line, an injury-laden Lady Wolves team went into Lubbock to face a Roosevelt team which had not given away a district win in the last two seasons. In fact, earlier this year, these same Lady Eagles handed Colorado City's girls a 62-37 loss.

But this night would be different, as Colorado City, down to seven players because of a rash points in the clash.

In the third period, Colorado City came back out intent on keeping the momentum they had seized in the game's opening quarter. Coach Leverton's bunch never let up, outshooting Roosevelt to increase their lead to a 29-20 margin, going into the final frame.

Roosevelt would get a final push in the last quarter, but it would fall well short of the mark, as Colorado City took a 36-32 victory in a much-needed game.

Heather Merket added four points for the Lady Wolves, while Mackenzie Kimball put up three and Miranda Reyna added two from the point.

The win gave the Lady Wolves a one-game lead over Denver City for the third possible playoff spot going into last Friday's match between the two schools. A win would have clinched a postseason spot for Colorado City, but fate wanted to dance to a different tune. Despite Miranda Reyna's team leading 12-point night, the Lady Wolves fell short, losing to Denver City 35-38.

The first half got off to a slow start as the two offenses found out just how good their opponent's defense could be. With seven points being the highest any team scored in a period before the break, the two teams sauntered into the locker rooms with Denver City leading 12-9.

As much as the first half was a display of the two defenses, the second half was an explosion of offensive fireworks.

The Lady Wolves came howling out of halftime den and out up 19 points in the third quarter, while reigning in the Mustangs to a mere nine points.

This set the stage for a wild fourth period, with the Lady Wolves just eight minutes away from a playoff berth, holding tightly to a 28-22 lead.

Heather Merket scored eight points for C-City and Alyssa Leverton was good for six in the game, but the Lady Wolves just could not keep the Mustangs corralled.

Denver City, looking for a playoff spot of their own, put together an incredible fourth frame, outscoring Colorado City 16-7 to overtake the Lady Wolves and claim a 38-35 victory.

The loss to Denver City put the two teams tied at an 8-5 district record going into Tuesday night's season finale.

Lauran Meeks contributed five points for C-City and Mackenzie Kimball was good for four.

Jason Rodriguez looks beyond defenders to find an open teammate in recent Wolves basketball action.

Wolves eye a district title

With three games left in the regular season, the Colorado City Wolves took a huge step toward big goal Tuesday night as they defeated the Coahoma Bulldogs in The Pit 60-38.

A game which looked like it might be close early got away from the Bulldogs as the Wolves grabbed a lead and never let up.

Bailey Spencer scored 15 points in the third period alone on his way to a game-high 21. Derek Gainey never made the star sheet, except in the second period when he drained three straight 3-pointers for nine points, while Tylor Lorenz was good for ten.

With two games left in the season, the Wolves are guaranteed a playoff spot, while the district title is going to take one more win. Benny Jones and Jason Rodriguez each scored seven points in the win Tuesday night.

Corbin Castillo, Aaron Rivera and Gustavo Silva each scored two points for the Wolves as well in the win.

The Wolves will host Post Friday night in a 6:30 p.m. match at The Pit before travelling to Fort San Tuesday, Feb. 14 to face the Buffaloes. That game too is set to tip off at 6:30 p.m.

Don't get hit with a penalty! "Render" your taxable property by April 15.

A "rendition" is a report to your county appraisal district that lists all the taxable property you owned or controlled on Jan. 1 of this year.

Who must file a rendition?

You must file a rendition if you own tangible personal property that is used to produce income—such as the inventory and equipment used by a business. If you render late, don't render or file an incomplete or false rendition, a 10 percent to 50 percent penalty may be imposed.

Are there any advantages to you?

The advantages of filing a rendition are:

- You give your opinion of your property's value. The appraisal district must notify you in writing of any value change and explain how you can protest that value to the appraisal review board.
- You record your correct mailing address so your tax bills will go to the right address. If your bill is mailed to the wrong address, the law still holds you responsible for paying your taxes on time or paying extra charges for late payments.
- You can also file a "report of decreased value" to notify the appraisal district of significant depreciation of the value of your property in 2011. The district will look at your property before assigning a value in 2012.

What's the deadline?

The last day for filing 2012 renditions is April 15. You can get an automatic extension to May 15 (or the next business day if a weekend) if you ask for it in writing on or before the April 15 deadline. The chief appraiser may grant an additional 15 days after the deadline for an owner who shows good cause in writing.

Where do you file?
