OSAGE HILLS HIDE BANDIT KILLERS

Watch Young Ard—
From Wichita Falls—
Another Creamery—
Bass Fishing—

MUSIC lovers of Wichita Falls who attended the concert Thursday night given by Floyd Ard Jr., were delighted with the improvement shown by this young Wichita Falls musician after several months study in Europe. Young Ard is a Wichita Falls boy and received the foundation of his musical education from Wichita Falls teachers.

This young man, who has already created much favorable comment both here and abroad because of the mastery which he places in his playing, should go far in the musical world.

The rather small, or perhaps it would be better to say select, audience which heard Ard's concert Thursday night will likely remember the occasion with gratification, not only because of the excellent entertainment, but because here is a home boy who should some day make his mark in his work.

It is quite often the case that talent is unappreciated by the home folk, but such is not the rule in Wichita Falls in the case of Ard. He is receiving the enthusiastic support of a small group of persons and a number of organizations which recognize his talent, and will return to Vienna after a vacation here to resume his studies for a 10 months' period.

Judging from the reception given him at the Thursday night concert, Wichita Falls will then begin to hear from Ard from other critics and other towns.

ANOTHER creamery plant for Wichita Falls is announced, this one to be constructed by James brothers at a cost of between $60,000 and $70,000. Increase in the dairy business here is given by the officials of the company as one of the chief reasons for the new plant.

The dairy industry in Wichita Falls and Northwest Texas has just started on its growth and expansion. The completion of the project for the bringing of the J. L. Kraft interests here, with a central cheese plant to be located in Wichita Falls, will be another great step forward in the upbuilding of this new enterprise, in fact, will be the link which provides a profitable market for the products of Wichita farms.

This Kraft factory is already assured, according to a statement made no later than Thursday by J. A. Kemp, who is responsible for interesting Mr. Kraft in the possibilities here, and negotiations for the building should be completed some time within the next two or three weeks.

LAKE KEMP is described as one of the greatest fishing paradises in the entire southwest, in an article entitled "Bass Lakes Instead of Dry Land," by Billie Oneal, which appears in the current issue of Outdoor Life, sporting magazine. Two large photographs taken at Lake Kemp accompany the article.

In describing the beauty of Lake Kemp the writer declares that "it rivals the blueness of Crater Lake in Oregon." He tells of the trip to the lake from Wichita Falls and briefly gives the history of the Wichita Valley irrigation project. The thrills of bass fishing on the lake are vividly told by Oneal in the article.

All this is news for the nation's anglers, the majority of whom probably never heard of Lake Kemp. All you have to do is bring them to Wichita Falls, and Wichita Falls sells itself, whether it's bass fishing, dairying, irrigation or what not.

Bishop Refuses To Use Automobile Costing $1200

PORTLAND, Me., May 19. (AP)—Bishop Brewster, Episcopal, thinks a $1200 auto is a rich man's car, and he refused to accept such an expensive machine from the diocesan convention. He agreed to take one that cost no more than $450.

Resolutions endorsing the five-day working-week and the eight hour day in public and municipal work were unanimously adopted by the 23rd annual state convention of the Texas State Council of Carpenters in session here Thursday afternoon. The delegates also approved a resolution in favor of proposed apprentice schools to be established in connection with the various vocational schools of the state for the purpose of training apprentices for their trades.

150 Delegates.

Approximately 150 delegates had arrived for the convention Thursday morning. A large part of these will remain here for the State Federation of Labor convention which opens Monday.

D. E. Mills, state president of the council, has been in the city since Sunday, and other officers who had arrived Thursday were: Ed Tull, Amarillo, vice-president; J. Rex Anderson, Dallas, secretary-treasurer; R. E. Roberts, Dallas, and O. O. Olson, Houston, national organizers, and Tom P. Bays, Fort Worth, E. Ilschner, Fort Arthur, F. O. Kelly, Lubbock, W. P. Cottingham, Corpus Christi, E. C. Adamson, San Antonio, T. F. Hamilton, Teague, and W. D. High, Waxahachie, members of the executive board.

Routine business occupied the greater part of the Thursday morning session, which opened at 9 o'clock. George H. Slater, Dallas, member of the state labor legislative board, and secretary of the state federation of labor, delivered a 30-minute address, discussing labor conditions in the state, and the actions of the state legislature in dealing with labor problems.

Tour City.

Immediately following the adjournment of the meeting at 4:30 p. m., all delegates who will not remain for the Federation of Labor convention were taken for an automobile tour of the city.

A banquet was given in the dining room of the Labor Temple at 8 o'clock Thursday night by members of the local union. Music was provided by the Labor Temple orchestra.

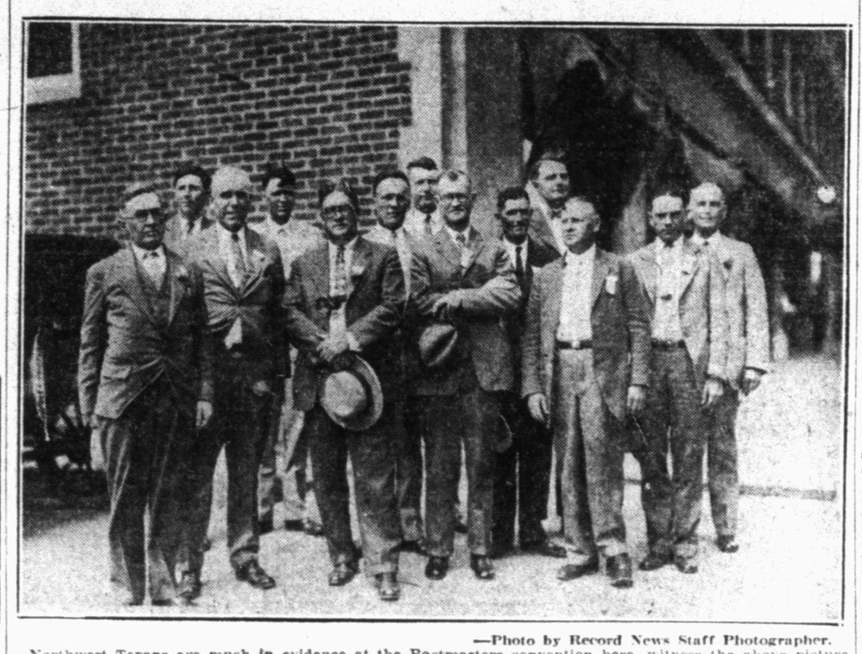

The convention, which began Wednesday morning, will be in session until 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

PRINTERS OPEN MEETING TODAY.

Approximately 75 delegates to the state council of the Allied Printing Trades of Texas are expected to be here for the opening session in room 11 of the labor temple at 9 o'clock Friday morning. The convention will continue through Sunday, and will close with a picnic for delegates, local members, and their relatives Sunday afternoon.

A number of officers of the International Typographical union are scheduled to arrive Friday morning, among them John W. Hayes of Indianapolis, Ind., secretary, and State Representative Pat Doyle of the International Sterotypers and Electrotypers' Union. George Wilson of Houston, president of the state association, will be here for the convention.

Postmasters Of State Open Fifth Annual Convention In Wichita Falls; Federal Officials Attend

The fifth annual convention of the Texas State Postmasters' association was called to order here at 10 o'clock Thursday morning by O. P. Maricle, Wichita Falls postmaster, and host to approximately 150 visitors from cities and towns all over Texas.

The program of the first day's session was devoted to welcome addresses, officials' reports, brief talks from distinguished guests, and to four papers on departmental work during the afternoon. O. S. York of Galveston, president of the state association, took charge of the meeting at the opening of the business session.

The Friday session of the convention will be featured by addresses from prominent postal officials and state officials, two of whom are here in the interest of the establishment of additional air mail routes in Texas, C. B. Braun, division traffic manager of the National Transport corporation of Fort Worth, and W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general of Washington, D. C.

Following invocation by Rev. Leslie Miller of Grace Methodist church and addresses of welcome by Mayor R. E. Shepherd and Orville Bullington, President York responded to the greeting in behalf of the visiting postmasters and postmistresses. The principal address was by Guinn Williams of Decatur, congressman from the 12th district of Texas, who spoke on the two political parties and their influence on the postal department.

"I want to assure you that I am ready to aid in any way possible with the work in Texas, and the first consideration in all dealings with the department in Congress in one of fairness," he said.

R. S. Regar, third assistant postmaster general, made a brief talk during the morning session, urging the ideal of service in every phase of the department activities. Statistics quoted by Mr. Regar showed that there are at present 366,000 men in the postal service, in 50,600 offices, serving over 120 million people with an average of 25 billion pieces of mail each year, one-half of which are letters.

Pres. Coolidge To Call Congress Into Session Two Months Early

By UNIVERSAL SERVICE

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Coolidge probably will call the 70th congress into session in October, two months in advance of the regular convening, to adopt a constructive program for protection of the Mississippi valley from further devastating floods, according to indications in White House circles today.

President Coolidge's view that a special session at this time would be futile is believed by him to be substantiated by the comprehensive report of flood relief sent to him from the flood area by Secretary Hoover.

The government and the Red Cross are now engaged in every project for immediate relief possible under present circumstances, the president believes.

President Coolidge is understood to be sympathetic toward the request of Senator Reed and others for quick action, but is convinced for the Mississippi from its source to the gulf must be plotted by the engineers before congress and the administration could act wisely. It is because of that sympathy that a special session in October now seems likely. By that time, the engineering plans will have been drawn.

The next session of congress, coming into being on the eve of a presidential campaign with all the political cross-current and with the senate so evenly divided between republicans and democrats that the slush-fund contest of Vare of Pennsylvania and Smith of Illinois may determine which party will rule it, will bring to President Coolidge the most troublous times of his administration.

But with the picture of life and property destruction along the Mississippi still fresh in the public mind, congress may be forced by public sentiment to forget politics until after it has provided flood relief.

Vernon Man Resigns As Farm Agent No Appointment Made, Says Nicholson

Instructions to report to the county commissioners court Monday to discuss the assumption of the position of county agricultural agent in Wichita county have been received by G. C. McGowan, of Vernon, from officials of A. & M. college, Mr. McGowan said Thursday in long distance communication with The Record News.

County Judge E. W. Nicholson in a statement made to The Record News Thursday night said that the county commissioners court had not been informed of the college officials' action and that Guy Jones, the present county agent, had not yet tendered his resignation to the county commissioners court, which body appoints the agent.

Judge Nicholson asserted that Mr. McGowan could not assume the position of county agent until the county commissioners court had made the appointment. He made the same statement several days ago to The Record News.

The county commissioners court will take into consideration any recommendations made by A. & M. college officials relative to the appointment of a county agent, if the resignation of Mr. Jones is received, Judge Nicholson said, however, the court will have to authorize the appointment before it becomes effective.

Mr. McGowan tendered his resignation Thursday as agricultural agent of the Farmers State bank, of Vernon, effective June 1. His resignation set out that he was to accept the Wichita county post at that time.

His resignation as adjuant of the Vernon post American Legion was also tendered by Mr. McGowan.

Mr. McGowan has been agricultural agent for the Vernon bank since Sept. 15, 1926.

TWO AIR MAIL ROUTES NAMED

New Terminals at Galveston And San Antonio

Definite announcement of the opening of two additional air mail routes in Texas, one between San Antonio and Dallas via Austin and Waco, and another between Galveston and Dallas via Houston was made here Thursday night by W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general.

Route to Mexico.

The first international connection made by the United States and any other country will also be established through Laredo if Mexican authorities now in conference in Washington agree to make connection between Mexico City and Laredo, Mr. Glover announced.

This route would pass through San Antonio, Austin and Waco en route to Dallas for connection with the Chicago-Dallas line, he stated.

Call for Bids.

"Bids will be advertised for as soon as I return to Washington," Mr. Glover announced.

Committees from the Chambers of Commerce from San Antonio, Waco and Austin, are scheduled to meet in conference with Mr. Glover in Wichita Falls on Friday to consider details of the various routes.

Two Borger Men Freed On Bond In Burglaries

BELTON, Texas, May 19. (AP)—Whitey Walker and Ed Bailey have been released on $5000 bond here in connection with the Hemphill jewelry store robbery which occurred February 8.

Walker and Bailey appeared here Tuesday, after being released at Borger on their own recognizance in the cases in which they are charged with the killing of Deputies Buchanan, Terry and Kenyon.

Blow From Golf Ball Cures Player's Deafness

ERIE, Pa., May 19. (AP)—J. Wayne Haskell, a jeweler, has discovered a new, although harsh, cure for deafness. Haskell, hard of hearing for years, was struck by a ball and knocked unconscious while playing golf. When he recovered he found his hearing had been restored.

Science Must Decide If a Man's Intoxicated

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—A laboratory test is the only safe way to determine the age-old question, "when is a man drunk?"

This announcement was made today by Dr. Emil Bogen, of Cincinnati, who dismissed as meaningless all the old-time police tests such as "breath-smelling" and "walking the chalk line."

Nicaragua Rebel Force Waves Flag Of Surrender to U. S. Marines

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—After one encounter with American marines a large body of Nicaraguan rebels today asked permission to surrender their arms, the navy department was advised by cable.

This was the attack at La Paz Centro on May 16 in which Captain Richard B. Buchanan and Private Marvin Jackson were killed and two other marines wounded. Admiral Julian L. Latimer, commander of the America nforces there advised that the marines numbered 45 and the rebels 300. The action occurred shortly after midnight and lasted for an hour and a half. The rebels left 14 killed, but carried their wounded with them.

With the marines in hot pursuit the rebels have sent an envoy in an attempt to negotiate for permission to surrender their arms. This will be granted, it was stated.

The marines deserve the highest commendation for overcoming the unequal odds, Adrimal Latimer said.

BOY SHOOTS TO SAVE MOTHER FROM FATHER

Canton, Texas, Boy Tells Officers He Shot His Parent

NO ARREST MADE

Youth Told To Appear In Court If He's Indicted

CANTON, Texas, May 19. (AP)—To protect himself and his mother from possible injury, W. D. Goolsby, 16-year-old youth, Wednesday shot and killed his father, W. A. Goolsby, prosperous farmer of Van Zandt county, according to statement to officers made by young Goolsby and his mother.

Two loads of buckshot struck Goolsby, one hitting him in the chest and the other tearing away a portion of his head.

Offfcers instructed Goolsby to go to Canton Friday and make $1,000 bond and to await action of the grand jury but they did not arrest him.

Mrs. Goolsby said that Wednesday about noon she and her children were dressing for a funeral of a relative when her husband entered the room and ordered her to remove her dress, asserting there would be another funeral if she did not obey him. Afraid of her husband, she ran from the house, according to her statement.

Young Goolsby said his father then entered another room where he was dressing and likewise fearful of bodily injury, he picked up a shotgun and shot him twice.

Goolsby, rated a prosperous farmer and owner of approximately 200 acres of good land near Martin Mills, 12 miles south of here, is survived by his wife and several children.

Defense Rests Case In Trial of Actor

HALL OF JUSTICE, Los Angeles, May 19. (AP)—The defense rested its case this afternoon in the trial of Paul Kelly for the murder of Ray Raymond, allegedly dead as the result of a fist attack over the affections of Dorothy Mackaye, actress wife of the song and dance man. Kelly completed his defense testimony and weathered a 20-minute cross examination before his counsel announced its case was completed.

The flight, it is believed will take six weeks. Dargue will carry messages of goodwill from Washington to the various states' governors.

Chinese Forces Draw Up For Naval Battle

By Universal Service.

SHANGHAI, May 19.—A naval battle, which will be probably more noisy than deadly, between the northern and southern Chinese fleets is promised within the next few days by the southern Admiral Yang Shou Chwang. It is expected that the engagement will take place off the mouth of the Whangpo river about 50 miles from Shanghai.

PERFECT HANDS

All Four Players Dealt Perfect Hands In Bridge Game

By Universal Service.

LONDON, May 19.—Properly attested evidence that four bridge players were yesterday each dealt a complete suit in one deal, was published here tonight.

A rubber was played at the Cavendish hotel, Bedford, and on a final bid of seven spades the holder laid his cards on the table. The pack was not new, and had been shuffled and cut in the ordinary way.

The odds against this miracle are calculated as about 2000 million to one, yet it has happened four authenticated times in the last 40 years. It occurred at Calcutta in 1888, at Brighton in 1892, and at the Surrey Whist drive in 1917.

HOUSE OKEHS BOOST IN TAX

35-Cent State Tax Gets Solons' Approval

By Universal Service.

AUSTIN, May 19.—The house, by a 76 to 41 vote, today placed itself on record as favoring an increase of the ad valorem tax from 23 cents to the constitutional limit of 35 cents.

The vote, taken during discussion of the house departmental bill carrying a total of $11,741,875, was seen by observers as a challenge to the small group of insurgents that is stubbornly contesting every appropriation.

During the day appropriations for five state departments had been discussed. They were: $790,440 for the adjutant general's department; $302,000 for the agricultural department; $226,740 for the attorney general's department; $392,160 for the banking department and $315,000 for the state board of control.

Guard Opposed.

The "economy bloc" fought hard to exclude the entire appropriation of $250,000 a year for the National Guard. The insurgents said it was not the duty of the state to maintain armed forces but rather the federal government's duty.

They lost their fight but did succeed in excluding an item of $2,000 for a personnel officer in the adjutant general's department.

Only one measure of importance was taken up in the senate and that was the reinsertion of the "savings clause" in the manslaughter bill which was passed during the regular session and approved by Governor Dan Moody. This bill abolishes manslaughter from the criminal code of the state and provides that the penalty for murder shall be from two to 99 years or a life sentence or the electric chair, carrying according to the circumstances surrounding the killing.

The "savings clause" provides for the perpetuation of cases now pending and involving manslaughter.

Registered Meat.

A bill requiring butchers to register animals which are slaughtered was submitted to the special session by Governor Moody. The governor also submitted a bill providing for the eradication of cattle scabbies and a corrective civil statutes bill.

Texas Rangers Called 'Hired Gunmen' By Houston Lumber Millionaire

AUSTIN, May 19. (AP)—Texas Rangers and the Texas National Guard were attacked today in acrimonious house debates over unsuccessful attempts to abolish the guard and squelch the 30 to 50 increase of the ranger force provided in the adjutant general's biennial budget.

Representative John H. Kirby, millionaire Houston lumberman, referred to employment of rangers as "hiring gunmen to intimidate citizens."

Representative W. R. Poage lost his effort to strike out the $262,000 annual item for the National Guard. He declared it should be supported by the national government if at all.

Originally calling for $62,800 a year for the ranger force, the item was trimmed to $50,000 by the appropriations committee's adopted amendment. Chairman Claud Teer explained that the latter sum would provide 50 men at least part of the time.

Representative Kirby was arguing for an unsuccessful amendment by Representative Loftin to cut the item to $37,500 and keep the force at 30 as at present.

"I'd be willing personally to strike out the whole appropriation." Representative Kirby said, "in the face of Representative Satterwhite's argument that new oil fields create imperative necessity for aid of state officers in law enforcement."

Representative Webb, who recently led a liquor raid here, said that some of the oil field characters "have more cussedness to the square inch than Apache Indians."

KIMES LEADS ROBBER BAND TO SECRET LAIR

Desperate Young Outlaw's Cohorts Outwit Officers

VANISH INTO HILLS

Posses Of Armed Men Go Into Hills After Hi-Jackers

BEGGS, Okla., May 19.—Somewhere in the Ozark hills near his boyhood home, perhaps in some limestone cave discovered when he was a barefoot youth, Matthew Kimes, feared successor to Jesse James in the annals of banditry in the great southwest, was in hiding tonight with his pal, Ray Terrell, another desperate outlaw, and seven companions.

Spying out the hilly fastnesses which are believed to harbor the desperate gang that yesterday looted two banks of $18,000 here and killed W. K. McAnally, town marshal, were scores of armed men directed by veterans peace officers.

Harbor of Outlaws

Tonight the rough Osage country, which has been the rendezvous of outlaws since the days of Jesse James, Bud Tracy, the Dalton brothers, Henry Starr and Al Jennings, harbors the most desperate gang in the criminal history of the southwest, its leader a ruthless young killer, Kimes, with a desperate escaped convict, Terrell, as his principal satellite.

Kimes, who is only 20 years old, is now a marked man, for whose blood the trigger finger of every officer in the Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle itches. Believed with Terrell to be the slayer of two deputy sheriffs at Borger, where for a time Kimes was a member of the underworld, only to take flight with the arrival of Texas rangers sent by Governor Dan Moody to clean up that lawless town, he is wanted in Texas also for the robbery of the First National bank of Pampa. After this robbery he is believed to have fled into the Oklahoma hills with his loot, to reorganize his forces and then to appear again in the raid Wednesday here.

Town Mourns Marshal

Those residents of Beggs who were not out on the hunt for Kimes and his gang, Thursday paid tribute at the bier of Marshal McAnally, slain when he battled with the bandits as they were leaving one of the Beggs banks with their loot. At the bier of her father, too, was Mrs. F. V. Wakefield of Wichita Falls, who was called from the Texas city on news of her parent's murder by the bandits. In a hospital at Okmulgee was Mrs. Charles Campbell, who was shot in the head after she had given an alarm to Marshal McAnally. She has a "fighting chance" to live.

It was Mrs. Campbell, who saw the robbery of one of the banks as she sat in her car nearby with her children, who ran into a pool hall and told McAnally of the raid, then to be struck down by a bandit bullet, fired in reply to a fusilade from McAnally's gun, as the officer sought to halt the fleeing robbers.

Some excitement was caused here Thursday morning when it was reported that the bandits had been surrounded at Quay. Other reports that the robbers had been cornered at various places in the Osage country later also proved unfounded as posses scouted the sections involved in these rumors.

One Car Abandoned

The last definite evidence of the bandits' trail was the finding of a bloodstained automobile, one of the vehicles used by the bandits, which was abandoned near Matthew Kimes' former ranch home. They were last reported actually seen by a truck driver on an oil lease Wednesday night at 10 o'clock.

That Kimes and Terrell are the leaders of the desperate band of robbers was definitely established Thursday with the statement of Garrett Ramsey, barber, who was a witness to the robberies Wednesday. Garrett was sitting in his car in front of one of the banks. The bandits forced him to quit his car at the point of a pistol and ordered him inside the building. Garrett has known both Kimes and Terrell for a number of years and declared that he recognized the two as the commanders of the bandit gangs.

FEUD MAY BAR GREAT PLANE

Byrd and Lindbergh To Hop Off Soon

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 19. — The feud in the Bellanca airplane camp was on full blast again today.

The fight which may keep the Bellanca firmly on the ground while Commander Richard Byrd and Capt. Charles Lindbergh attempt non-stop hops to Paris, was resumed after Lloyd Bertaud, ousted pilot, had announced that he had settled all his differences with Charles A. Levine, the financial backer, and would withdraw his injunctions.

But just when everything was looking fine and dandy, Levine said nothing had been patched up and that Bertaud would not fly in the Bellance if he had anything to do with it.

When Bertaud heard this he retaliated by saying that he and his attorneys would go into court tomorrow and do all in their power to make permanent his injunctions that forbid the Bellanca from flying without him.

New Pilot Chosen

Then Levine come out with another statement, saying he had selected another pilot and would announce his name just before the hop-off.

While they are airing their differences in court tomorrow, Byrd and Lindbergh may be on their way to Paris, for the weather bureau indicated tonight that the storms on the northern Atlantic may cease by morning.

Bertaud reported peace in camp after he and Levine held a 3 a. m. session. G. M. Bellanca, designer of the plane, was present at the conference and worked heroicly in the role of peacemaker.

He too announced that everything looked good after the session.

Poor Bellanca is the innocent victim in this row between Bertaud and Levine over the spoils of the flight.

He was a pathetic figure tonight. It has been his life ambition to see the Atlantic spanned first by a plane of his own invention.

Recently it looked as though that aspiration would be fulfilled but now his hopes are tumbling about him because of a row in which he is not involved.

His face was wreathed in smiles after this morning's conference but he was crestfallen tonight. His emotions are up and down like the changes of his plane taking off in the race ofthe century.

Byrd Tests Plane.

Byrd gave his big Fokker plane two more tests today. Although he said that there will be no race so far as he is concerned, it was noted that he has taken aboard enough food to do three men a month, is prepared for any emergency and is ready to hop just as soon as the weather man says "go."

Lindbergh puttered around his hanger again tonight and when he was asked if he would fly tomorrow, said:

"Ask me no questions and I will tell you no lies."

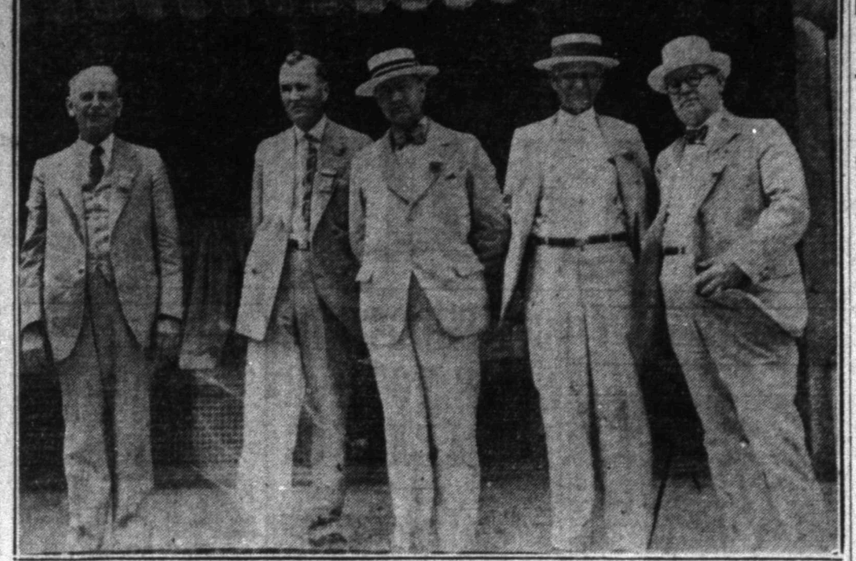

Boy Fractures Skull In Fall On Curbing

James Thomas, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Thomas, 803 15th street, is in the Hargrave-Walker hospital suffering from a fractured skull sustained when he fell from his bicycle late Wednesday afternoon. His injuries were thought at first not to be serious and he was not taken to the hospital until Thursday afternoon.

The boy, who is an employe of the Lamar street Pharmacy, had just left the store to make a delivery when the accident occurred. In some unknown manner he was thrown from the bicycle and his head struck the curbing.

REDS PROTEST ON RAID.

LONDON, May 19. (AP)—Soviet Russia's note of protest against the British raid on soviet house in London was received at the foreign office and laid before the cabinet in Downing street today.

The "men on the stage" at the opening session of the Texas Postmasters' annual convention are shown above, caught by The Record News photographer as they left the hotel. They are, reading from right to left, O. P. Maricle, postmaster at Wichita Falls; Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls attorney and prominent leader of the Republican party of Texas; R. S. Regar, third assistant postmaster general, Washington, D. C.; O. S. York, Galveston postmaster and president of the state association, and John W. Philp, postmaster at Dallas.

150 Delegates At Postal Meet

by a question box in charge of L. G. Bragdon, postal inspector at Wichita Falls; Hugh Wallace, inspector at Houston, and W. B. Luna, assistant postmaster at Dallas. In the absence of A. W. Henderson of Terrell, Ed Mulkey of Sherman made the scheduled address on "My Partner, the Postoffice Inspector," and R. F. Fenton of Denton substituted for Chas. W. Page of Shreveport on "C. O. D. and Insured Mail."

Affirming that one of the major factors in the success of the postal service was the faith that its workers and the public had in it, Hugh Wallace of Houston opened his speech with the statement, "Fitting indeed it is that those upon whose heads rests the responsibility in Texas for this service that faith built should meet in the convention city of Wichita Falls, known throughout the country as 'the city that faith built.'

"Coupled with faith in the building of our service has been the enthusiastic support and earnest work of those who have dedicated their lives to it, and coupled with the faith of the men in the building of Wichita Falls has been the giving up by nature of her riches in oil and the work of men in assisting nature in sprinkling the surrounding territory with the refreshing waters, the building of one of the greatest irrigation projects in the Southland," he added.

J. L. Reed of Clarksville was the fourth speaker on the afternoon program, delivering an address on "Registered Mail."

Four committees were appointed at the Thursday session to report on Saturday, as follows: Resolutions, M. A. Taylor of Bonham, chairman; auditing, J. N. Johnson, Dalhart, chairman; nominating, J. L. Reed, Clarksville, chairman, and a committee to select the 1928 convention city, with Jerry Hickman of Gainesville as chairman.

Following are the delegates to the convention: L. W. Harris, Seymour, Texas; A. W. Orr, Livingston; Henrietta Fricks, Brenham; Anna C. Burnap, Weir; O. S. York, Galveston; J. F. Rogers, Harlingen; Wade Arnold, Wellington; H. H. Duncan, Kaufman; T. Y. Allen, Rice; E. N. Mulkey, Sherman; Leo Spencer, Crowell; W. G. McClain, Waxahachie; Joe Burger Sr., Wharton; Charles E. FLOOD'S TOLL GOES HIGHER

250,000 Alone Affected In Louisiana

By Universal Service.

NEW ORLEANS, May 19.(AP)—Flood damage in Louisiana alone has already reached the proportions of a major national disaster, Secretary of Commerce Hoover said here tonight just before boarding his train for Alexandria. Secretary Hoover said that he was not taking into consideration the damage in other states, and added that "the end is not yet." Approximately 250,000 persons have been affected by the flood in Louisiana so far.

FLOOD MAROONS 1000 ON CRUMBLING LEVEE

By Universal Service.

BATON ROUGE, La., May 19.—More than 1000 people are clinging to a crumbling embankment along the Atchafalaya river above Melville, La., according to a radiogram received here tonight. They are without food and a furious current prevents their immediate rescue.

An attempt will be made to supply them with food tomorrow. A small high-powered boat able to negotiate the swift water will be used.

Dallas Ford Manager Denies Any Change To Gear-Shift Model

DALLAS, May 19.—Rumors of the manufacture of a new four-cylinder, gear shift Ford motor car by June 1, announced by Theodore Kalbe, secretary of the Detroit police department Wednesday, were emphatically denied by A. J. Langford, manager of the Dallas Ford assembling plant Thursday.

"It would be a physical impossibility," Langford declared, "to produce such a car by June 1. The company has 38 assembling plants in the United States, of which the Dallas plant is one.

"To assemble such a car by the date mentioned, it would be necessary for us to be supplied with additional equipment—and no such equipment has arrived.

"Furthermore, we have had no official or unofficial advice that such a change is contemplated. The only knowledge Dallas officials have of the rumored change is gleaned from the rumor mentioned Wednesday.

"Of course, the public has been discussing the change many months. We have heard of such rumors before, but—as you see—they have proved without foundation."

Langford said if such a change were planned, it would be impossible to assemble the new car before September.

"And equipment for the assembling would already be in Dallas or enroute," he added.

M'CLESKY SUIT TO JURY TODAY

Testimony Concluded In Third Hearing

Arguments to the jury by counsel for the plaintiff and defendant in a suit relative to the distribution of the estate of the late E. A. McCleskey, of Iowa Park and former county commissioner, which started Thursday in the 89th district court before Judge P. A. Martin will commence Friday morning. Presentation of testimony was concluded Thursday afternoon.

This is the third hearing in the suit which was filed by Mr. McCleskey's widow against four stepchildren, sons and daughters of Mr. McCleskey.

Mrs. McCleskey contends that the estate is worth approximately $75,000 and that she has only received $2000 and a house and lot in Burkburnett as her share which she claims is not the amount she is legally entitled to receive.

The step-children declare that the estate is only worth $4000 and that there is an indebtedness of $2000 against it; also that Mrs. McCleskey has received her legal share, which according to the law, is one-half of the estate.

In the first trial a verdict was returned in favor of Mrs. McCleskey. The verdict was reversed and remanded for new trial by the court of civil appeals. The jury disagreed in the second hearing.

Mrs. McCleskey contends that while in a dazed condition following the sudden death of her husband she signed away property rights in the estate at the request of the step-children.

The defendants claim that the instrument she signed was a settlement agreement, in which she received her full share of the estate, and that she was possession of her faculties when she signed.

Wichita Farmer Nabs Negro In Hog Pen

An apparent foray on the hog pens of Carl Williamson, who lives eight miles west of the city on the Iowa Park road, was thwarted early Thursday morning by Mr. Williamson who caught a negro in the pens with an automobile waiting nearby supposedly to receive a load of swine.

After nabbing the negro Mr. Williamson called three neighbors and while one of them stayed with the automobile, a large sedan, the others brought the black to the county jail. The man left to watch the car reported firing several shots at a man feeling from a place of hiding near the pens when the others returned.

Electra Man Cleared On Homicide Charge

Brought to trial on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the fatal injury of W. W. Woolsey, who was struck by an automobile April 25 at Electra, Bert Pace was acquitted Thursday by Judge C. M. McFarland in the county court at law.

Testimony in the case, which was a non-jury trial, tended to show that Woolsey stepped off the curb into the side of the automobile.

One of the unusual features of the case was the lack of conflicting testimony between state and defense witnesses. All of the witnesses testified to the same facts.

Man Tried Under Alias Gets 10 Years In Prison

FORT WORTH, May 19. (AP)—J. A. Reynolds, 30, indicted under the name of W. H. Scott, was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary after conviction on charges of automobile theft. He said his home was in Denver, Colo.

NEGRO HELD IN POSTAL CASE

Black Accused Of Cutting Open Mail Sack

Joe Washington, 35, negro, is in the county jail here charged with cutting and tearing open a mail sack at the union station where he was employed as a mail handler.

Charges were filed against Washington before United States Commissioner J. A. Lantz Wednesday following his arrest by L. G. Bragdon, postoffice inspector, who alleged that the negro cut and tore the sack and inserted his hand while on duty at the station Tuesday night.

Although the negro was not charged with theft of mail he made a written statement that he has on previous occasions rifled parcel post sacks, taking packages, Commissioner Lantz said.

Hogg Opens Services At Floral Heights Church

"The only way to obtain the will of God is to cleanse your heart and hands from sin," the Rev. Will Hogg, evangelist, said Thursday night in his sermon to a capacity congregation in the Floral Heights Methodist church.

The Rev. Hogg took for his sermon subject, "And Moses Went Back to Egypt With the Rod of God in His Hands."

"I am deeply interested," said the Rev. Hogg, "in seeing this church on fire for God and the only way to get fire from the Lord is to cleanse your heart of sin and ask Him to fill your life with His will and knowledge."

The subject for the Rev. Hogg's Friday night sermon will be, "A Dry Bone Appointment." Day services will be started Friday by the evangelist.

Santone Woman Smashes Plate Glass With Her Boots

By Universal Service.

SAN ANTONIO, May 19.—Twenty-four hours after she was discharged from a local hospital where she was operated upon for appendicitis, Mrs. May Cartwright, 31, was in the city jail for displaying too much energy so soon after being allowed to leave the hospital.

The police had no objection to her rapid recovery; in fact, they rejoiced with her, but when she began kicking out plate glass windows at $300 per kick in the electrical fixture store where her husband works, they decided it was time for them to enter the picture.

"That husband of mine spoke harshly to me this morning, the woman said in explaining her window breaking activity.

EDITH BISHOP WINS LIBERTY

Wife Of Slain Sleuth Voted Acquittal

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 19. (AP)—Mrs. Edith Bishop, charged with the slaying of her husband, Luther Bishop, a state detective, in their home here in December, was adjudged not guilty by a jury in district court here today.

Luther Bishop, a state detective, was slain with his own guns shortly after midnight December 5, 1925, as he lay in his bed at his home here. Officers immediately advanced the theory that he was shot by an outlaw in revenge and Mrs. Bishop was not only accused of the killing until the next day when the officer's weapons were found hidden in a clothes closet at the home.

A coroner's jury, after three days of testimony, returned a verdict that Bishop was slain by "persons unknown," and the widow was released from custody.

On the day following the funeral Mrs. Bishop was rearrested. She remained in jail until December 28, when she released on bail after a writ of habeas corpus had been filed.

The trial started May 2.

The defense contended that Bishop, who was known to have had many enemies in the criminal class, was killed by some gunman whom he had been instrumental in bringing to justice.

MERGER OF TWO LINES UPSET

Katy-K.C.S. Unification By Loree Disapproved

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—Proposed control of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad by the Kansas City Southern, and of the St. Louis-Southwestern by the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, was declared by the Interstate Commerce commission today to be not in the public interest and authority to carry out the transaction was denied.

The merger proposal was advanced by L. F. Loree of the Delaware & Hudson railroad and both the financing plan and the transportation effects were looked upon favorably by the commission. The Kansas City Southern by the proposal would come into control of railroads larger than itself, the commission said, and the result would be unsound from the public viewpoint.

"If one carrier is to control another there should be a reasonable and proper proportion between them," the commission said. "There is something incongrous in the control by one carrier of another having more than three times its mileage and more than twice its resources, and when there is added indirect control of a third carrier, also larger than the controlling corporation, the incongruity and lack of proportion is accentuated.

"We cannot look with favor upon such control, especially when effected largely by the use of the credit of the controlled carriers and when the pre-existing obligations of the controlling carrier are such as to suggest the impropriety of its assuming additional financial burdens."

"If a sound transportation agency is to be created by a combination of the three lines herein considered it would seem that the largest carrier, the Missiouri-Kansas-Texas, instead of the smallest should be made the center of the system.

"But even if the Kansas City Southern were finally able to acquire and maintain control of the Missouri - Kansas - Texas and through the latter, of the Cotton Belt (St. Louis Southwestern), the control of properties so large by such a relatively small amount of capital is not in the public interests."

Public opinion in the territory through which the railroads operate is divided, the commission said, the Texas railroad commission having recommended that the merger be denied, the Arkansas commission having favored it and the Kansas utilities commission having refused to express its views either way.

It was pointed out that the Kansas City Southern operated about 865 miles of railroad, while the Missouri - Kansas-Texas operated 1800 and the Cotton Belt about 940.

Several members of the commission, including Commissioners Myer, Hall, and Lewis favored the granting of the application instead of denying them.

HEIR SUES FOR ESTATE SHARE

Texas Woman Aids Girl In Her Contest

ST. LOUIS, May 19. (AP)—A deposition by Mrs. Fannie Steele, 80, of Zybach, Texas, in support of the claim of Mrs. Sophie Meier, farmer's wife of Gumbo, St. Louis county, to a daughter's share of the $76,000,000 estate of William Edenborn, Louisiana railroad owner and capitalist, was filed in federal court here today.

Mrs. Steele declared Mrs. Meier was a daughter of Edenborn and a woman to whom he was married in 1874 by Justice of the Peace Black at Old Mines, Mo. She said her husband, a friend of Edenborn, attended the wedding and brought the couple to his log house where they stayed about two months.

Mrs. Steele said Edenborn later told her his wife had died and a home had been found for the child. She did not see him again until 1924 when he visited the Steele ranch in Texas and spoke of Mrs. Meier as his living child to whom he intended to will half of his estate.

The bulk of Edenborn's estate was inherited at his death a year ago by his widow, the former Miss Sarah Drain of St. Louis, whom he married in 1876. No will was found and Mrs. Meier received nothing.

Edenborn's widow and four nephews and nieces deny Mrs. Meier's mother was ever married to Edenborn and they are contesting Mrs. Meier's claim.

Programs On "The Child" Given By Circles Thursday Afternoon

Circles One and Six of the Floral Heights Methodist Woman's Missionary society met Thursday afternoon and studied interesting lessons on "The Child."

Mrs. J. B. Evans was hostess to Circle One, with Mesdames D. L. Fritz, Ed Crump, W. H. Roper and Lula Bristol, assisting. The program opened with a song, and devotionals were given by Mrs. Floyd Billingsley, who also talked on "The Growth and Development of the Kingdom;" Mrs. Merle Waggoner discussed "The Child and the New Age," and "The Child and the Missionary Council was discussed by Mrs. C. E. Waller.

The social program was given by juniors, and opened with a piano number, played by Johnnie Green Hawkins. Peggy Fritz sang a song, and Lucille Waggoner gave a group of readings. Little Miss June Houston sang and played her own accompaniments on the guitar.

An ice course was served by Mesdames T. J. Waggoner, John Prewitt, H. W. Barton, W. H. Russell, D. W. Wiley, B. W. Johnson, C. E. Waller, Combs, Merle Waggoner, George Henderson, Clyde Murph, Floyd Brigance, Cliff Camp, J. W. Hamilton, Floyd Billingsley, Laura E. Schoolfield, Fred Snyder and Harvey McCarty, and Johnnie Green Hawkins, June Houston, Lucille Waggoner, Peggy Fritz and Ruth Billingsley.

Circle Six

Circle Six met with Mrs. Paul Scott, and the program was opened with devotionals led by Mrs. Charles Crowell. Mrs. Val Land discussed "The Child and the Missionary Council," and Mrs. Crowell talked on "The Child and Our Missionary Society and What We Are Doing."

In a brief business session, Mrs. Rhea Howard announced that the study class will open at the Floral Heights church Monday, and will be lead by Mrs. Austin F. Leach. The social service report included $31.50 collected on the pledges; 30 bouquets given to the tick, 15 trays, 94 visits, 132 magazines, $30 in cash, $39 in clothing and 42 hours devoted to social service work.

In the program, little Miss Eloise Curtis gave two readings, "The Cushville Hop," and "The Mumps and Measles." Elizabeth Perkins read "A Perfect Little Lady," and "A Friday Afternoon Speaker."

Refreshments were served during the social hour to Mesdames A. B. Gough, R. L. Dillard, M. S. Innes, Charles Crowell, E. G. Prewitt, Lester Jones, J. D. Dillard, Rhea Howard, J. M. Franklin, F. E. Pupils Give Program At P.-T. A. Meeting

Members of the Huey P.-T. A. held an interesting session at the school Wednesday afternoon. The program which was especially entertaining was given by the pupils who have made perfect attendance records as follows: Quotations by Jimmy Webb, Jarrell and Ralph Beard, Paul Osteen, Robert Lee, Eldon Phillips, Talma Lee Brooks and Marguerite Hollis. Alta Knight and Inez Carr sang a duet, and the entire group, a song. Mrs. W. T. Wade gave a musical reading, accompanied at the piano by Miss Macia McClure.

The program was opened with devotionals led by the Rev. C. S. Holley, who also gave a brief talk.

During the business session, reports were given by the various officers, after which refreshments were served. Mrs. J. B. Scarbrough, the president, was remembered with a lovely purse presented by the association in appreciation of the splendid work done by her the past year. There were about 40 members present.

Reagan P.-T. A. Has Meeting Thursday

About 100 were present at a called meeting of the Reagan Junior high school P.-T. A. Thursday afternoon which met for the purpose of installing new officers for the coming year. Mrs. F. A. Bash, retiring president, conducted the installation ceremony when Mrs. Frank Creighton was made president; Mrs. A. D. Patillo, vice president; Mrs. A. D. McCulloch, second vice president; Mrs. W. E. Wilson, third vice president; Mrs. T. E. Hubbard, treasurer, and Mrs. R. E. Souther, secretary.

An interesting program included the following numbers: Devotionals led by Mrs. A. D. Patillo; violin solo, Miss Roberta Lincoln; reading, Laura Glenn Patillo and an address, "Purpose and Plans of a P.-T. A.," by Mrs. T. H. Lawson.

Carrigan P.-T. A. In Last Session

The final meeting of the school year was held by members of the Carrigan school P.-T. A. Thursday afternoon. The program was given by pupils from the rooms of Misses Elizabeth Peters and Helen Horton, assisted by Miss Edna Rundell who read "Will o' the Wisp."

Reports were read by the retiring officers and a quilt made by the P.-T. A. during the year was presented to Judge and Mrs. A. H. Carrigan for whom the school is named. A vote of thanks was given the retiring officers.

During the social hour, refreshments were served to about 60 members.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

Mrs. Jones: "I had a letter from my sister today, she included this recipe, as she knew all our family was so fond of cheese dishes."

"We are, too. May I see it?"

Cheese Delight

Two tablespons butter, two cups milk, one cup chopped celery, two tablespoons flour, one cup cream cheese, one-half cup stuffed olives, salt and pepper.

Method: Make a cream sauce by melting two tablespoons butter, add to it two tablespoons flour, brown and add two cups milk. Cook until like gravy, then add cheese cut in small pieces. Stir until melted, add salt, pepper, celery cut fine and sliced stuffed olives. Serve hot on crackers.

Floyd Ard Delights Audience Of Music Lovers at Concert Here

By MRS. CHARLES WILLIAM WALLACE
Written Especially For The Record News

A representative audience of music lovers of Wichita Falls heard the brilliant performance of Floyd Ard, young artist, at the Junior College auditorium Thursday night. Mr. Ard's program was received with manifest pleasure and enthusiasm. The proceeds of the concert are to be used for further study of music in Vienna, where Mr. Ard has been for the last few months.

The young artist was presented under the auspices of the Musician's club and an informal receiving line included Mrs. Fred Barron,, president of the club, and Mesdames Charles William Wallace, Kenneth Bebb and W. L. Underwood.

The program follows:

I. Fantasie, F Minor.....Chopin

The "Fantasie" is probably Chopin's greatest work. Mr. Ard played it with a fine and true appreciation and understanding of the meaning of the varying moods that, in progression, make up the theme of this beautiful tone-poem. Mr. Ard made the theme sing itself out of the exquisite harmonies enveloping it, and that is just as Chopin himself demanded that his music should be played—and how he played it himself. No greater compliment upon Mr. Ard's achievement in the performance of this number could possible be uttered than this—that he played the "Fantasie" as the great composer himself would have had it played. To do this means a repose in performance, a breadth of style and a perfection of technique that shall be equal to all the demands of this difficult number. Mr. Ard's brilliant performance of the "Fantasie" showed that he had achieved a mastery of the requirements of an ideal Chopin performer to a remarkable degree in one so young. In fact, when listening to his playing of the Chopin number one forgot his youth and thought only of his remarkable mastery of the technique of his art and his delightful interpretation of the music.

II. Sonata Appassionata, Op. 57 ..... Beethoven

Beethoven in his Sonatas gave to the world some of its noblest music. It is a music that makes special demands upon the performer. The Sonatas can be played so that they sound like elaborated five-fingered exercises, or they can be played so that they glow and thrill and pulse with life and emotion. Mr. Ard gave a masterly performance of the "Appassionata Sonata," usually considered the noblest of the group of 38. Each one of the four movements was played with true musicianly feeling, and mature understanding of each individual theme. The musical genius of the young performer and the artistry of his performance were evinced by the skill with which he developed the themes so that they combined to form a homogeneous musical creation taken as a whole.

Mr. Ard has developed a delicacy of touch that he can use as occasion demands, and he used it to fine effect at various times in the performance of this number (as well as throughout the whole program). The Andante movement was played with fine repose and power, and with a poetic appreciation of the meaning of the theme. The "Allegro ma non troppo" movement was played with an impassioned fervor in keeping with the name of the Sonata, that was an index of the understanding that the young performer had of the emotional possibilities of the theme. The last, or "Presto," movement was taken at a tremendous tempo and played with a fine passion. Mr. Ard's technique has gained in brilliancy to a remarkable extent during his year of study abroad, and he made his tones come clear and rippling from the most delicate pianissimo passages, up to the heaviest fortissimo work where ever such contrasts were required in the performance of this tremendous number.

III. Romance, F sharp, Schumann Moment Musical ...Schubert Andantino and Variations ..... Schubert-Tausig

Mr. Ard played the Schumann "Romance" with exquisite feeling for the poetic theme. The same can also be said for Schubert's "Moment Musical." The Schubert number has a delightful rythm which Mr. Ard brought out with rare skill and delicary of touch and tone.

The third number of this charming group, the Schubert-Tausig "Andantino and Variations," was technically the most brilliant, and called for the greatest skill in execution. The theme stood out above the exquisite harmonies of the variations, which faet called for a manipulative dexterity that required special technical resources.

IV. Gnomenreigne (Dance of Gnomes) ..... Liszt
La Campanella ..... Liszt

The two Liszt numbers which closed the program were of exceptional charm. The "Dance of the Gnomes" is built upon an eccentric theme, where one is taken at once into the land of mystery, where things are done magically and the genii revel in the doing of them. The technical difficulties of this number are great, and Mr. Ard met them with ease, giving a most finished and exquisite performance of the number.

Mr. Ard's performance of "La Campanella" was brilliant in conception and execution. He took it at a tremendous tempo and played with fire and imassioned feeling. The rythm was exquisitely marked and the whole performance was given with a maturity of style and understanding that places Mr. Ard, once for all, in the rank of an artist of whom one may say, as Mozart said of the young Beethoven, "Pay attention to him; he will make a noise in the world some day or other."

Economists.

Lend ears, ye housewives. This is for you.

A group of women attending the league of nation's economic conference at Geneva, Switzerland, have presented a resolution asking that steps be taken to standardize the kitchens of the world.

They pointed out that a uniform size oven would cut down the number of pans needed. They testified that in moving from one place to another perfectly good electrical appliances were rendered useless by variation of voltages in different localities.

I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."—Mrs. E. F. DOROTHY DIX: Advice For Women

WORKING GIRL LEARNS VALUE

She Knows That Money Isn't Water

The Girl Who Earns Her Living Before Marriage Appreciates the Value of Money, Knows How To Deal With Men, Sympathizes With "That Tired Feeling" After Work and Can Share Her Husband's Business Problems as No Home Girl Can.

A young man wants to know whether I think that business qualifies or disqualifies a girl for making a good wife.

I am strong for the business girl, son. Contradictory as it may seem, a girl gets a better training for domesticity in an office than she does in a kitchen, and nothing would do more to promote domestic felicity than for every woman to earn her own living for two or three years before she gets married.

There are many reasons why the business girl is a preferred matrimonial risk, and the most important of these is that she doesn't take so many chances in the matrimonial lottery as the girl does who has always lived in the seclusion of the home. Consequently she doesn't make so many mistakes in picking out her husband, and the happy, satisfied wife is always the good wife and the real home-maker.

Nine-tenths of the disagreeable, disgruntled wives are just taking out on their innocent husbands their chagrin over not liking their bargain, after all, when they got it at home.

The business girl isn't apt to make this sort of a mistake, because she gets a close-up on men that it is not possible for the girl to get who knows men only socially. This knocks into smithereens all of the fantastic illusions about men being godlings, and fairy princes that so many girls entertain and which makes them so bitterly disappointed when they find out they have espoused just plain, ordinary human beings, such as they are themselves.

The business girl sees men with their coats off, spiritually as well as bodily. She knows when the veneer knocks off just how many men are mean and stin— and high tempered and irritable and beastly and sensual, gentlemen only on the outside and when they are dressed up for company.

And she knows what other men are gentlemen through and through chivalrous to old and weak and homely women; kind and tender; honest and honorable. And so when she chooses a man for a husband she isn't very apt to be fooled in him, or taken in by any glib line of talk.

The business girl gets a discipline in office or shop that stands her in good stead the balance of her life. She learns to be prompt and efficient, to do things on time, to respect the binding nature of a contract, and to control her nerves and her temper and emotions.

For there is no place in the business world for the woman who is not competent and who loafs on her job, or for the one who cannot get along with other people, or for the one who has her feelings strewn all over the place and who bursts into tears every time the slightest criticism is made of her work.

Also a girl learns in business how to deal with men, and this is invaluable advance information for any bride to possess. For one uses exactly the same recipe for smoothing down the fur of an irritable husband as one does in handling a cranky boss.

Any girl who has held down a goodjob for three consecutive years has learned how to give the soft answer that turns away wrath, how to can the snappy comeback that trembles on her tongue; how to refrain from reminding a man of the mistakes he has made; and how to apply salve in large and liberal gobs in the places where it will do the most good. And this knowledge, which can only be gained by experience, will enable her to make any husband eat out of her hand.

The business girl learns the value from havinge earned it by hard licks. No woman who has made a dollar ever looks at one in the same way that the woman does who has always had her money given to her.

The one sees it stained with sweat and blood the symbol of anxiety, of struggle, of weariness of mind and body. The other looks upon it as a mere scrap of paper, good only for self-indulgence and luxury and pleasure.

The business girl knows not only how hard it is to mak emoney, but how difficult it is to keep it, and how important it is to have it. Therefore, she is not only more apt to make an economical wife than a domestic girl but she is more anxious to save and get ahead and safeguard the future and she is more understanding sympathetic toward her husband if he does not have the talents of the go-getter.

The woman who has been in business makes a sympathetic wife because she understands what her husband goes through as no woman ever can who has not labored and known the strain and weariness that leaves one spent in mind and body at the end of a day.

The domestic woman cannot comprehend why her husband does not feel gay and chatty of an evening and why he wants to slump into a chair and bury himself in the evening paper, instead of putting on his dress-up clothes and stepping out to some place of amusement. She does not understand why he is often peevish and snaps back some impatient answer to a harmless question.

But the girl who has been in business does. She remembers how she would come home after an anxious day with her nerves so raw that she felt that a single word would be more than she could endure, when she was so tired that she felt as if she would faint with fatigue and when all in the world she wanted was just to be fed and let alone. And this knowledge makes her wonderous kind. It entalk shop with her husband, and natural cussedness and utter exhaustion and makes her feed and coddle and soothe a worn-out man instead of nagging him.

Finally the business woman can talk shop Cwith her husband, and there can be no stronger bond between any two people than that. There ar eno dull and silent evenings in the household where the wife takes an interest in her husband's business and listens with intelligence and enthusiasm to his plans.

Every man has to have some woman to confide in and to encourage him and to applaud him, and he who finds his confidante on his own hearthstone will never go farther.

So you needn't be afraid that, if you marry a business girl, you won't have bread such as mother used to make. You will be fed on angle's food, prepared in the most scientific manner.

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Takes Off What She Puts On — By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi is looking for the Gym. The reason is not obvious here for you see only the very smart felt hat with its creased high crown, narrow brim and the small band with a marquisite ornament on the side. You do not see, as Mitzi does, the extra pounds she has been acquiring from six meals a day a deck chair.

Of course, she was looking at the sign all the time and didn't know it. (Salle de Mecanotheraple. Imagine!) Polly got there first and is going to do a little reducing of her own. She doesn't have to dress for it either. Her sweater and pleated skirt are just right. Mitzi's sport costume has a pleated skirt also.

Mitzi chose the bicycle that goes by electricity and records the speed and the distance that she pedals. Polly, across the way, is riding a camel. A camel—that goes by electricity but has all the sensations of a live dormedary. Mitzi hasn't even removed her hat—so you can see the ripple brim at the side.

Isn't it wonderful? She can still eat bombe glace, French pastries and baba au rhum and be sure that by the time she gets to Paris she will be able to wear the clothes she started with! She's lost centimeters or what are they? This new scale that you sit down to, says so. She'll just be in time for tea if the hurries!

Tax Reform As An Issue

JAMES A EMERY is the general legal adviser of the National Association of Manufacturers of America. He appeared before the association the other day and made the declaration that taxation is a business and not a political problem. He reminded the manufacturers that while federal taxation has declined state and local taxes have risen. He advised that federal reduction of national debt and taxation creates the illusion of declining governmental cost "but every saving at Washington is met by equal or greater expenditure in state capitals or localities."

Our first endeavor he said, should be to realize the magnitude of expenditure for American government in all its forms, in terms of the efforts required to produce the essential revenue. He had his figures. He said federal and state and local government expended in the year 1925, $11,500,000,000 and that little over $7,750,000,000 of that amount was raised by taxation. Furthermore, he emphasized that most of the remainder was borrowed and represents taxation deferred.

"Despite increasing population," he said, "it represents three times the per capita expenditure made for that purpose in 1913 and more than that in terms of those gainfully employed. But 34 per cent of that enormous sum represented the cost of federal government, substantially two-thirds was an expenditure for state and local government. In 1903 we supported all forms of government for the sum spent by state, exclusive of local, government in 1925."

He submitted some startling facts. Federal fiscal affairs have enjoyed efficient management. Then he asked, "can as much be said for state and local taxation?" In 1925 but 70 of the 48 commonwealths were living within their income. Counsel Emery submitted the figures. They are his and his alone. Furthermore he said that the annual expenditure for and by American government approached half the savings bank deposits of 1925. This is an excerpt from the Emery address.

"It is a sum almost equal to the value of all the crops raised on 6,500,000 American farms, employing more than 340,000,000 acres of land. It means our annual wheat crop, the largest in the world, would, if turned over to state government, about meet its expenditures for 1925. The largest produce of food stuffs and cotton in the world, the value of both crops scarcely equals the spendings of local subdivisions of our state. We lead the nations of the world in industrial production, but the net income of all the manufacturing corporations of the United States could not meet the combined expenditure for state and local government, nor could all the money in circulation in the United States pay their last year's bills."

It must be admitted that Americans are marvelous makers of wealth and marvelous spenders of the wealth which they have created. However, this is a $375,000,000,000 country. It is the richest nation that has existed since time began. There are higher standards of living in the United States than time has known. There is more new wealth created each year than any two foreign nations creates for their people or governments.

All this reminds us that Texas has a tax survey commission. It is a reminder that the constitution of the commonwealth declares that taxation shall be equal and uniform. It is a reminder that the tax survey commissioners should get down to business and at least make an attempt to bring about a solution of the problems before them.

It means stagnation to go backward; it means additional life and additional wealth and additional progress to move onward and upward. As for the tallow dip age and its champions, it died long ago. Man was not made to stand still, he was made to advance, to climb higher and to leave the world better than he found it.

They Demand Birth Control Advice

NOW the working women of England, the women who are identified with the great labor party of Great Britain, have been placed on record as joining their liberal sisters in favoring removal of the prohibition of birth control information. A London cable says after a stormy debate the national convention of labor women of England, by a vote of 581 to 74, carried a resolution calling upon the ministry of health to permit the dissemination of birth control information at public clinics. Woman has the ballot in England. She is going to use it. Women outnumber men to the tune of 3,000,000 in England. They are going to be the makers of a new civilization.

Caught in a Trap

OFFICERS and detectives called in the Bishop murder trial at Oklahoma City testified at the outset of the trial that although there was a heavy frost they were unable to find tracks of any intruder who might have entered the house and killed the state detective.

Then the defense called John T. Slaughter, United States weather observer at Oklahoma City, who testified it would have been impossible for frost to have fallen during the early morning of December 6, 1926, when Bishop was shot to death in his house.

Government weather records showed that the temperature ranged from 37 to 41 degrees between 7 p. m. December 5, and 6 o'clock next morning. There is a lie out somewhere.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, May 19. — His feelings still ruffled and the indignity of a nickel tip keeping his memory fresh, a Long Island taxi driver, a month after the Snyder murder, climbed to the witness stand and identified Judd Gray as the man he had driven from Jammaica to Columbus Circle early on the morning of the crime.

"The fare was $2.50, and he handed me $3.55," testified Meter Mike, scorn and bitterness struggling for mastery in his tone.

Which proves that I have always maintained: No murderer, making a get-away can afford to tip a taxi man less than a dime. Economy at such a moment is worse than foolhardy.

Abby Rockefeller Milton had her tonsils removed a few days ago, and got her picture on the front page of several New York papers.

New York editors have funny ideas about pictures. President Roosevelt's widow was sitting in a coffee house in West 45th street one afternoon when the cook forgot some toast in the oven. The place became filled with smoke and everyone stepped out on the sidewalk while the place was being aired.

An out-of-town man was crossing Madison aveune the other day when he caught sight of a pair of female limbs directly ahead of him, encased in the sheerest of silk, and became so entranced he was nearly run down by a taxicab.

He was telling a newspaper friend about it. "I suppose," he said, "if that taxi had hit me the morning papers would have carried something like this: 'Run Down While Watching Girl's Legs.'"

"No," said the scribe, "you're wrong. The caption on a story like that would be: 'Laid Low Lamping Limbs.'"

The day Mayor Walker took office the corridors of the City Hall were crowded with state and municipal officials, their wives, relatives and friends. Near the door stood a strikingly handsome woman, and not far from her a broad-shouldered young policeman so beguiled by the woman's charm he couldn't take his eyes off her. His stare was frank. His admiration was for all the world to see, and back of his gaze lay the hope that the woman herself might look toward him and descern it.

A newspaper man, scaling the situation, edged alongside the cop and indicating the woman with a nod of his head, remarked:

"She's a darn fine looking woman, isn't she?"

The policeman turned with surly resentment. "Well, what's dat to you?" he demanded.

"Oh, nothing," replied the reporter airily. "Not a thing in the world. I didn't know whether or not you knew who she is, and I was going to tip you off. That's the new police commissioner's wife."

The cop blushed so violently that his celluloid collar nearly took fire.

There are innumerable laundries in New York, but despite their number the old-time wash line still survives in residential districts where "life is real, life is earnest."

Each Monday morning in these areas, out flutter the clothes on the pulley lines, strung from window sills, balconies and fire escapes to tall poles in the backyard. Around 9 o'clock may be heard the creaking of the rusty wheels as the housewife pulls the washline back and forth, wiping off the coal dust and soot preparatory to letting the domestic shirt tail flap in the sunlit breeze.

On one block of wash lines on the East Side a single clothes-pin dotted rope displays long, heavy underwear alongside a smock, a "scanty," a pair of silk stockings and a trim wash dress.

Pop may toy with a pick for a living or stoke some apartment house; but daughter wears silk.

A thought for Monday!

WHAT HAS HAPPENED:

Phillip Wynne Tracy IV brings Natlee Jones to his house in the car his mother has just given him and asks her to give him $10 to take Natlee to Arrowhead Inn.

As he leaves she tells him to come back early and she becomes very angry when he does not come home until 3 o'clock and she finds that he has proposed to Natlee and hopes to marry her before he leaves for school.

Mr. Jones, who is the Tracys' milkman, objects quite as much to Phillip as Mrs. Tracy objects to Natlee. Phillip's mother tells him that a friend of hers is coming to stay for a while and that she is going to give a party during that time. Unconsciously she interests her son in the woman. She also tells him that she has nightly prayed that he would never make any woman as unhappy as his father has made her.

Without the knowledge of his mother Phil plans that Natlee shall come to the party with Rodney Maxwell, his friend, and then goes to the train to meet Mrs. Hilliard. She flirts with him as thought he were a grown man.

Meantime Rodney takes Phil's message to Natlee, which she does not believe comes from his mother.

Here the story further unfolds—

For a blissful moment she dropped into his arms as she tumbled out of the roadster

CHAPTER VIII.

Love's Delicious Pain.

As Philip Wynne Tracy IV helped his mother's friend into his roadster and wrapped the robe about her he was distractingly aware of slender ankles in the thinnest of thin stockings and of tiny feet whose insteps were completely covered with shining cut steel buckles.

To hide his embarrassment he stopped a moment to light a cigaret. Over the flaring match he saw the face of Lyra Hilliard.

It was not the kind of face he had expected to find, particularly from his mother's intriguing description.

At that moment she was looking straight ahead and there was a peculiar, almost childish, wistfulness in the red brown eyes that made him want to press her head down on his fur-coated breast and let her weep while he quoted something about "There, little girl, don't cry—they have broken your doll I know." Then he blushed, for he was thinking that a man could write a book of poems not only about her wistful eyes, but of her slender ankles as well.

"Where are you going to take me, man?" she interrupted his thoughts as she nestled toward him.

"Why, I thought you were hungry," Phillip answered with boyish directness.

"Of course, you were polite about it and very flattering. You suggested that you were pleased to lunch with me because I was, but I knew that you were pleased because you are hungry. I knew what you meant."

"Did you?" she asked, turning her face toward him and the glorious brown eyes stared disconcertingly into his. "I wonder—if you did?"

Phillip did not answer unless an an involuntary movement toward her was an answer. A fierce emotion of rebellion came into his consciousness. Why had he been born too late? Up until this morning he had never thought that love was anything like what he was feeling now—nothing that he had ever felt for Natlee had prepared him for this terrible pain and breathless joy that were so much alike he could not separate them.

He wondered if this woman sitting beside him could read his thoughts. He felt his heart contract as he thought that she must have loved before because she was married—he speculated on her husband—he wondered what she was going to say to him next—was he carrying off the meeting as a man would do? Would she laugh at him if he told her now that he loved her? His heart was beating like a trip hammer, his throat was so dry he seemed dying of thirst.

He drew up at the restaurant door and for one blissful moment she dropped into his arms as she stumbled out of the roadster.

"How strong you are!" she whispered as she straightened up beside him. "I would have fallen in my awkwardness if you hadn't caught me."

"It was nothing," he answered gruffy. "I just happened to be there and the doorman was not—that was all."

As though to steady her up the steps he put his hand upon her arm and again he was sure he felt her lean—if ever so lightly—upon him.

With great pride he led her across the room, passing a table where Jerome Kenyon, Bill Husted and Jack Kilgore were sitting.

These youths were all older than Phil. They had been at college a year and sometimes he had felt that they looked upon him almost as a baby—well—they wouldn't do this any more. He caught that by the lifting of Bill Husted's eyebrows and the surprised, if low tones, with which Jerome Kenyon exclaimed, "Look who's here."

He could, however, have killed them gleefully, for they arose formally as he and Mrs. Hilliard came abreast of their table saying, "Hello, Phil, we're just lunching. Won't you join us?"

He turned to Mrs. Hilliard politely. She, of course, could do nothing else but accept their damned invitation.

He knew they considered it a great joke and he reminded himself that he would pay them out and pay them good for it.

In the meantime there was a little confusion over introductions and getting chairs and plates adjusted at the table. Then, much to the chagrin, he found himself across from Mrs. Hilliard, while she was seated between Jerome and Jack.

He wanted to get up and punch their faces, which were plastered all over with triumphant grins, but he was a little comforted when he found that the red brown eyes had pirated around the table to where he sat and picked up his eyes and in some way taken them back to herself. All the while she had on her mouth a rather amused absent minded smile.

"I never expected to have the joy of lunching with four handsome young men," she exclaimed to Jack Kilgore after Jerome Kenyon had ordered the chicken a la king and salad. "Already I can see where every girl in the room is hating me."

"I've never asked much in the way of a reputation but from the looks of that young woman over there I know that little will be taken away from me in this town before I have hardly arrived."

All the others hastened to tell her that that could not possibly happen and assured her that her reputation was perfectly secure from any jealous hurt, but Phillip kept silent, his eyes still on her face.

"Do you all dance?" she suddenly asked.

They answered with enthusiasm and in unison, "Yes."

"Well, if that's the case I shall expect at least one of you to be at every party to which I am invited and rescue me from the bridge tables, where most of my hostesses will probably think I belong.

"I will not play bridge. I may be older than some of those who are younger (she said this with a sly smile), but I shall insist that one and all of you will lie like gentlemen and say both to yourselves and everyone else that I am not old enough to settle down to cards."

"You can count on me," said Bill Husted. "And me—" "And me—" added Jerry Kenyon and Jack Kilgore.

Mrs. Hilliard lifted her eyes to his face. He thought he detected a look of disappointment and was glad.

"Speaking of dancing, Mrs. Hilliard, mother is not going to set you down to bridge. She is going to give you a dinner dance next week."

All the others at the table groaned and Bill Husted said: "Of course, she will invite only her own friends to that, and you, Phil, will be lucky enough to dance with Mrs. Hilliard while we cool our heels outside looking in."

"Oh, don't you worry—you'll all be given a chance—mother and Mrs. Hilliard will be the only—" She stopped and stammered, for he found he had been going to say "middle-aged women there."

Lyra Hilliard looked quickly at Phillip and then at the others around the table. Her mouth drooped as she realized how young they were. Phil knew he was classed with the others, even when he told himself fiercely that he was different. He wondered what he could do to keep from being submerged by that callow group.

"Who's your mother going to invite, Phil?" asked Jack Kilgore.

"All you fellows, of course, besides Rod Maxwell and Pierre Marquart," he answered, hoping that they would not ask about the girls. He couldn't tell them that Natlee was coming—neither could he let them into his plan, for now he did not want Rod to bring her.

He thought he would get away from the table as soon as possible and see Rod again. If he had not already seen Natlee he would call the whole thing off. He would tell Rod that his mother had decided, after thinking over what Mr. Jones had said, both to her and to her son, that she could not consistently have anything to do with any of his family.

He looked across the table to Mrs. Hilliard.

What an understanding woman she was!

She arose and immediately they left, in spite of all the efforts of the others to detain them. As it was, the fellows all followed them out to the car. He was glad that not one of them mentioned it—it showed that they envied him.

And truly he was to be envied, for a moment later, as they drove away, Lyra Hilliard turned to him and said: "They're nice boys, your friends, but some way they strike me as playing at being grown up. They do not have that man-of-the-world air which always fascinates me."

Phillip found his spirits fagging as they drove slowly home, for he knew that when they arrived he would have to share Lyra Hilliard with his mother.

He told himself that he had hardly had her long enough yet to get used to that wild thing she had put in place in his heart.

He was not any happier to see Rod and Natlee coming out of Millard's together, for he knew it was too late—Rod had already asked her to go to the party with him.

He was doubly sure of this by the smiles and waving hands with which they both greted him.

"Who was that beautiful girl?" asked Mrs. Hilliard.

"That's Natlee Jones," he answered. "She, Rodney Maxwell, who was with her, and myself have been playmates all our lives."

"And you do not mean to tell me that you have never fallen in love with her—why haven't you?"

"I expect it's because I have never tried."

"Dear man, haven't you learned yet that nobody ever falls in love with anybody if he tries to do so. You wake up some morning or go to bed some night, as the case may be, head over heels in love—you don't know how, when or where you got that way—you only know that one of Cupid's arrows is sticking in your heart and is giving you the most delicious pain you ever knew."

"Yes—I've learned that, but so lately that I am afraid I was not sure of it until you told me, Mrs. Hilliard. There is mother on the steps and it is half past three. She has probably been worrying for fear I have killed you in an accident."

"More likely Anne thinks that I have kidnaped her son."

How will Phil extricate himself with both Natlee and Mrs. Hilliard scheduled guests at the party? See how the plot resolves itself tomorrow.

And in that day shalt thou say, O Lord, I will praise thee: thou wast angry with me, thine anger is turned away, and thou comfortedst me.

Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust and not be afraid: for the Lord Jehovah is my strength and my song; he also is become my salvation.

Therefore, with joy shall ye draw water out of the well of salvation.

And in that day shall ye say, Praise the Lord, call upon his name, declare his doings among the people, make mention that his name is exalted.—Isaiah 12:1-5.

Christian Endeavor Program

The Christian Endeavor, which meets Sunday evening, May 22, at 6:45, promises a very good program, with Miss Orton as leader. The lesson for the evening is on "Bible Guide-Posts." Miss Eloise Gafford will give an essay, "Bible Wealth," with a debate, "Resolved, that the most helpful book in the Bible is the Gospel of John," and the negative will exalt some other book in the Bible. The debaters will be Joseph and Ira Lee Bradley.

A surprise is in order for those attending. Miss Lucille Balthrop is president, and the meetings are held at the First Presbyterian church. Everybody is urged to bring his Bible Sunday evening.

Arteola Delphian Chapter

The Arteola chapter of the Delphian society met Friday afternoon at the Kum Join Us Sunday school class room. The lesson studied was "Egypt of Bible Times." Very interesting discussions of the different topics were given by Mesdames Wofford, Cox, Roberts, Shaw, Cummings, Easley, Conyers and LeBus. Two new members, Mrs. O. M. Stidham and J. J. Hagan were welcomed into the society. Other members present were: Mesdames Saye, Chilton, Jowell, Ratcliffe, Dovel, Fisher, Tally and Miss Bonnie Jennings. The next meeting will be May 27.

Miss Lunsford Honored

Miss Mayme Lowe honored Miss Daphna Lunsford of Chickasha, Okla., Tuesday evening with a picnic supper at the club park. The evening was spent in playing games and contests, and a delightful picnic lunch to Misses Nina Redin, Norman Sanders, Henry Jenson, Math Weisenfels and Mesdames M. Reis, Annie Hagee, J. B. Nepper, F. A. McLaughlin, F. J. May, Anson Elliott, C. E. Pye, and Mrs. and Mrs. D. F. Mourant, Elmer Addington, J. T. Osborn, Fred S. Keller and Dal Wilkinson.

Curing Erysipelas.

Every acute disease is really an effort of nature to bring about a readjustment of metabolism. An "attack" of erysipelas is no exception to this rule.

Erysipelas is commonly regarded as an acute disease caused by the streptococcus erysipelatis and is thought by many to be contagious. The eruption, which begins on the first or second day, consists of dark red, spreading patches of erythema or redness, with edema or swelling of the underlying tissues. The affected parts become swollen and painful, and there is often intense itching and burning.

The disease is frequently complicated by the presence of suppression of urine which sometimes contains albumin, and occasionally there is swelling of the membrane in the throat, especially of the soft palate. The back sometimes aches, and there is always a rapid rise in temperature.

The red, purplish patches of erysipelas may start on the nose, and extend to any part of the face, or these patches may appear in any other part of the body.

The most common form is that which locates in the skin of the face. When I say "locates" I mean exactly this: The poisons of the body, which really cause the trouble, begin to collect at some point because of insufficient elimination in other parts of the body. The swelling of the skin only shows that these toxins are trying to get out but can not come out fast enough through the pores of the skin. The bacillus of erysipelas may or may not be present, for the real cause is deeper seated than any bacteria, and really lies in a systemic toxicosis.

In an acute "attack," patient should take either a water or the orange juice fast until all symptoms have disappeared. The fever will go down in three or four days, if this fasting is continued along with daily enemas. The itching and burning of the affected parts can be soothed somewhat by the application of wet cloths which have been wrung out of cold water to which has been added a small amount of lemon juice, about one-half lemon to a quart of water. This is all the treatment needed for an acute "attack," which is only a warning of underlying causes which must be ascertained and eliminated.

The same poisoning with wrong foods which laid the foundation for an acute "attack" will continue to exist, if day by day the patient continues to live on the same indiscriminate diet. If no changes are made in the patient's habits, he can expect recurring "attacks," for the same poisoning may locate in some other part of the body and produce a disorder under a different name. A person suffering from such chronic poisoning could expect some internal disorder if it were possible to keep the skin entirely sterilized against the streptococcus erysipelatis.

One "attack" should be enough warning for the sufferer to search out the real causes and remove them.

QUESTION: R. L. P. writes: "Is coughing up sputum streaked with black a sign of tuberculosis?

ANSWER: Sputum streaked with black usually comes from a smoker's lungs, or because the patient has been breathing too much dirty air, and has nothing to do with tuberculosis. With tuberculosis, the sputum, coming from the patient with a tendency to hemorrhage, is either pink or red.

QUESTION: M. D. writes: "Would you please give instructions regarding diet and proper food combinations for a patient recovering from typhoid fever?"

ANSWER: Typhoid fever cases must be very carefully dieted, and as a rule, after the fasting treatment, the best diet to use is an excessive milk regime, taking small quantities of milk every 30 minutes during the day, and whenever the patient is awake.

Treble Clef Club

The Treble Clef club of Howard Payne college under direction of Cameron Marshall gave a very interesting recital at the high school auditorium Tuesday night to a well filled house. The program was as follows: "The Skaters" and "When De Banjo Plays," by the club; "The Secret" by Misses Lyon and Malden; "The Gypsies," by the club; "The Far Away Bells" and "Spanish Gold" by Mr. Marshall; "The Little Quaker Maid," "Pickaninny Joe" by club; "Adoration" and "Liebesfraud," by Elizabeth Early as violinist. "Unfold Ye Portals," "Spring Time Is Calling," by the club; "Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 6" by Alice Skerritt; "A Few Stories in Dialect," by Antoinette Sparks. A study in crayon and song by Mr. Marshall and quartet.

Mothers' Culture Club

The Mothers Culture club held their last meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Sunday school class room of the First Methodist church with Mrs. R. E. Scheurer the leader in charge. The topic for discussion was "The Cultivation of Descriptive Power by Talking of Birds with Children," which was given by the leader. Longfellows "Birds of Killingworth," by Mrs. E. A. McKelvey; "Mocking Bird," by Mrs. Walter Skinner; "The Skylark" by leader; "Protection of Birds" by Mrs. T. C. Stockton; "Protective Resemblance" by Mrs. S. B. Shaw, which concluded the program. There was a fine attendance.

Budweiser

Real Hop Malt Syrup

That can't-be-copied flavor of Budweiser Real Hop Malt Syrup is the natural result of four things!

1. Anheuser-Busch uses only the finest hops grown in Bohemia and America!
2. Uses only the pick of America's barleys!
3. Cleans and grades those barleys in a million-dollar plant built especially for that purpose!
4. Blends the hops and barley with the skill of America's foremost maltsters—and backs the finished product with a name that has meant top quality for 70 years!

KID DUGAN By Dick Dorgan

Dear Al,

Well, Al, I beat the Giants yesterday, 2 and 1, and if McGraw had some pitchers like me he ought to win this pennant, and I guess he would like to have me because he passes me after the game and says, "Hello, Jack," and I didn't say nothing because I'm satisfied with Pittsburgh and it costs too much dough to live in New York anyhow. Some of the boys and I went out to one of these restaurants last night and when it come time to get the check one of them was paged and another sees a friend at a table and this here Yde had to telephone. So if I waited for them to come back, the waiter would have got a charley horse standing around so long. The check was $15.75, and they had a $2 cover charge and we didn't get no covers or I would have taken mine. The next time I eat in one of those joints I'll be the first one finished. It saves dough.

Say, if this Hornsby batted against me every day, he wouldn't hit the size of his hat.

Your friend,
Jack Keefe.

POLO TEAMS TANGLE TODAY

Cowboys Go After Wichita Falls Outfit

The great H. Robbins will lead the speeding Wichita Falls polo team into combat again Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock on Call field against the combination cowboy aggregation from Woodson and Throckmorton, according to announcement Thursday by brother, W. Robbins.

The great H. was out of the city, but he's expected back in the burg this a. m., said brother W. when the latter was pressed for details.

The cowboy crew got nudged out of a game here last week, but expect to return this afternoon in a hurry. All in all, the boys are planning a merry melee or something both before and after, also during the playing interval or what it is.

Featherston, Whyte and Goodman probably will round out the Wichita Falls team with Robbins, somebody simmered. You can expect Prendergast on deck, too. For that matter, the reporter may have been misinformed or just made a bad guess: Prendy may play instead of Goodman or both. Now try to figure out what we're trying to say and you'll find you aren't any smarter than we are. But the big game is on, according to one of the Robbins boys. That's enough explanation.

Rain Forces 24-Hour Shift Of Fight Date

NEW YORK, May 19.(AP)—For the second time in 20 years of fight promoting, the proverbial "weather luck" that had followed the trail of Tex Rickard deserted him today.

A steady, driving rain, setting in early in the day, forced the promoter to postpone until tomorrow night the all-Boston heavyweight elimination "semi-final" between Jimmy Maloney and Jack Sharkey at the Yankee stadium. Otucome of the 15-round fray will determine an opponent for Jack Dempsey in the former heavyweight champion's scheduled comeback here in August.

Only once before in Rickard's long career as a promoter has the weather man failed to join hands with him in the production of outdoor shows. In the spring of 1925, a downpour temporarily washed out Paul Berlenbach's assault on the light heavyweight title then held by Mike McTigue.

Postponement of the match, generally disagreeable to the fighters themselves, held out for Rickard the prospect of an even larger gate than he had expected.

With another day added for advance seat sale, already at the $175,000 mark, Rickard anticipated that the total receipts would exceed his original estimate of $300,000. Of that amount the fighters will share approximately $150,000.

Postal Boys and Gassers 13-13 Tie

The Postoffice baseball team came from behind in the sixth inning to overcome the lead piled up early by the Gassers, and then lost their lead in the seventh inning and their game Thursday afternoon at the Jalonick street park was called a 13 to 13 tie.

Both teams played a very loose brand of ball and staged a wild hitting melee. The pitching of Seale and Sanders was the outstanding part of the ball game. Each pitcher fanned a good number of men and seemed to have good control. Seale fanned eight and Sanders six.

Billie McHam Jr. led the hitters of the day with four base hits in five trials. Several other players poled out two hits, but none of the others could get over this.

The Gassers got to Beard early in the game and piled up a 10 to 2 lead in the first three innings before Seale could be rushed to the relief. After this Seale held them well in check while his mates pegged along.

Under a blanket of darkness in the sixth inning, the Postoffice team ran in four runs to take a 12 to 12 lead. The run that should have been the winning run was scored on McHam Jr.'s fourth hit of the game.

The umpire ruled that the seventh inning should be played and the Gassers scored one run. Stephens singled to center and went to second when Seale balked. On a wild pitch, Stephens went to third. Nantz recovered the ball and threw to third and Stephens scored when the ball went through Scott. Then with the aid of almost blackness Seale fanned Sanders, Street and Land in a row.

The Postoffice team was helpless in the last half of the seventh and Sanders retired them on three easy chances.

The 'Champs' Run From This Fellow

He is a mighty man is this Richard Schikat, the undefeated German, who grapples the Russian Count Zarynoff, or something simular, Tuesday night at the Ross arena.

Wichita Falls matdom takes a jump back into the heavyweight realm next week, according to announcement by Matchmaker A. B. Ross. And as a starter there comes Schikat, two years in the United States and undefeated, Victor over Ad Santel, the Wichita Falls idol; conqueror of the great Zbyszko and sundry other leaders of the tinear fraternity; and an ardent pursuer of two gentlemen (?) who travel under the names of Strangler Lewis and Joe Stecher. Mr. Schikat (you kind of have to sneeze it in order to pronounce it) has posted $5000 for matches with Lewis and Stecher but neither of the latter will listen. Stecher, they say, has run out on Schikat twice. The tiger Pesek cares to have nothing in common with him. That's pretty good ballyhoo. Need more be said?

Lots of Fancy Stuff for A. A. U. Track Tourney

HOUSTON, May 19. (AP)—Friday's southern amateur athletic union program in Houston marks the official start of selecting the American Olympic team to compete in the 1928 Olympic games. Winners in the meet will be eligible to compete for national honors at Lincoln, Neb., and at that time the Olympic candidates will be selected.

One of the feature races on Friday's program which is for juniors only is the 100-yard dash. Aubrey Cockrell, Texas University flash, entered with the Austin Athletic club team, will have such stars to run against as Earl Davis of Freeport, C. O. Bracey, former Humble High star, and entered as a Houston Athletic club man; McCorkle, T. C. U. dash man, who defeated Cockrell in the 220 for the conference championship. The century promises to be one of the best events on the program. The record of 10 flat established by J. Chaney of Howard Payne may tumble.

Burrows of Louisiana State University has traveled the 100 in 9.8 and H. Lefleur, of Lafayette, La., has a mark of 9.9 to his credit. Both are listed in the 100 and 220.

Both the hurdles races are expected to bring new records. Maurice Stallter, Texas University man, and entered with the Austin Athletic club, has topped the timbers in 15.2 while Stovall of Baylor University and Toler of T. C. U., have marks of 15.6 to their credit. The record at present is 16 flat, established by Cecil Crow of Baylor.

Southern A. A. U., records have been bettered by athletes entered in the meet in the 440-yard dash, 880-yard run, mile run, mile walk, broad jump, pole vault, javelin, mile relay, discus, 56-pound weight and the high jump.

The order of events follow:

Track—100-yard dash trials, 120-yard high hurdle trials, mile run, 440-yard dash trial, 100-yard dash final, 120-yard high hurdle finals, mile walk, 440 yard dash finals, 220 yard trials, 220 yard low hurdles trials, three mile run, 220-yard dash finals, 220-yard low hurdles finals, 880-yard run.

Field events: Pole vault, 16 pound shot, high jump, broad jump, 16 pound hammer, 56 pound weight, discuss throw, hop-step and jump, javelin and one mile relay.

The following schools, clubs and colleges have entered men:

Freeport High, Austin A. C., Houston Southern Pacific, Warren Easton High, Baton Rouge De Molays, Houston De Molays, LaFayette, Houston A. C., New Orleans Y. M. C. A., New Orleans Jesuit High, South End A. C., Central A. C., T. C. U., Baylor, Rice Institute, Louisiana Central A. C., South End High, Union A. C., Allen Academy, Belleville High, Beaumont S. P., San Antonio Main Avenue High, Jeff Davis A. C., College Station Athletic Club, Heights A. C., Dallas A. C., North Texas State Teachers College.

§Senior events are on Saturday's program.

French Golf Star Captures British Woman's Tourney

NEW CASTLE, County Down, Ireland, May 19.(AP)—Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaums, 19-year-old French golfer, today turned a trick which American women have been attempting unsuccessfully for years in capturing the British women's open golf championship by a 5 and 4 victory over Miss Dorothy Pearson of Tunbridge Wells, Kent, England.

Mlle. De La Chaume is the first foreigner ever to take the trophy out of Great Britain, just as her compatriot, Arnaud Massy, was the first foreigner ever to win the British open by his victory at Hoylake in 1907.

Today's 36-hole final match was a great fight. The two girls, both still in their 'teens, waged a steady battle over the County Down fairway. Mlle. De La Chaume laid the foundation for her victory with a five-hole lead during the first round this morning, but the young Britain came back bravely and regained four holes during the first seven played this afternoon. For a few moments Miss Pearson looked like a winner, but the terrific odds of the French girl's perfect iron shots to the greens and her deft putting were too great for her.

Mlle. De La Chaume's victory today took the third of the major British golf titles out of Great Britain for the first time in the history of the ancient game. The open title now is held by Bobby Jones of Atlanta, while the amateur title is held by Jess Sweetser of New York.

HOUSTON, May 19. (AP)—Southern amateur athletes in larger numbers than ever before have been registered for the twentieth annual field and track meet here of the Southern Amateur Athletic union, according to announcement here Thursday of Jack Rafferty, Houston, regional director.

Entries to date, he said, number 350 from many southern states. The junior events are on the program for Friday and the senior contests are to be held Saturday.

VETS LOSE IN TITLE TOURNEY

Carleton, Massengill and Cochran Fall

SAN ANTONIO, May 19. (AP)—Brilliant youngsters today smashed their way to victory in the first two rounds of the state amateur golf championship at the San Antonio Country club, leaving six defeated favorites in their wake and guaranteeing the crown a new brow to grace in 1927.

The reigning champion, two former champions, the two low medalists and one of the most consistent runners-up in the state fell before the attack of youth.

As a result T. L. Campbell of Temple, Lewis Levinsen, Reuben Albaugh, F. M. Lewis Jr., and R. C. Scott of San Antonio, S. M. Hill of Dallas, Gaston Peek of Galveston and Clarence Hubby of Waco will fight it out tomorrow in the round before the semi-finals.

Campbell entered the third round by pulling one of the biggest upsets of the day and defeating H. E. Massengill of Fort Worth, one of low medalists, 4 up and five to play. Levensen eliminated Jack Speer of Houston with the most sensational spot of the day at the first extra hole. Five down and 7 to play, Levensen began doing weird things with his putting and came to the 18th green down. He won the 18th, but apparently lost the match at the next tee, when his drive sliced far to the left of the green. Levensen is a southpaw.

Speer's drive was to the left, but in the clear, while Levensen was hidden from the green by a clump of trees. Speer's approach was short, but Levenson played full mashie over the trees, dropped eight feet from the pin and sank his third while Speer took a four.

Albaugh won his way into the third round by downing James Harned of Dallas, 4 and 2, after the latter had defeated Ossie Carlton, reigning champion, 4 and 3 and the first round. F. M. Lewis Jr., took Tinsley Penick of Austin to a 7 and 5 beating in the morning round, and conquered Ed Stewart of Fort Worth, 6 and 5, in the second round.

In the lower bracket Dr. S. M. Hill of Dallas went into the third round by defeating A. K. Barbee of Waco, 3 and 2, after the latter had taken out Lamar Seeligson, who tied Massengill for medal honors. Hill won, 3 and 2, from Barbee. T. C. Wheat of San Antonio conquered Charles Dexter of Dallas, two-time champion, 4 and 3, in the morning round, but Gaston Peek of Galveston took his measure, 4 and 2, in the afternoon to enter the third bracket.

R. C. Scott of San Antonio, the next to the last man to win his way to the third found defeated Richard Hobbs of Dallas, 5 and 4, in the second round. Hobbs was fresh from his morning 21-hole victory over T. B. Cochran of Wichita Falls, and his defeat was a surprise. In the final match Clarence Hubby of Temple took an early lead on H. H. Wynne of Dallas and held it in spite of the fact that Wynne player par golf on the last several holes.

San Antonio is guaranteed a place in the round before semi-finals by the draw. Campbell tomorrow meets Lewis Levenson in the fourth round, while Albaugh and Lewis will clash. This assures San Antonio one victor in the upper bracket. In the lower bracket, Hill and Peek meet in the first match and Scott and Hubby in the second. Should Scott come through San Antonio's chances to place two men in the finals would be excellent. Temple also has a chance to place two men in the finals, as Campbell tops the upper bracket and Hubby the lower.

Every one of the eight players mustered a host of backers tonight, and the odds on the field were even. Levensen's marvellous control of his irons at crucial moments today balanced the brilliance which Campbell displayed in downing Massengill. Lewis and Albaugh each has a host of local hero worshipers and Hill and Peek were considered a dead heat as far as conditions are concerned. Hubby, if anything, was a slight favorite over Scott, but the latter had plenty of support. He is known as an erratic player, and if he is on his game can hang up birdies as regularly as most players score pars.

BY BLONDY CROSS

OH, HE DID, DID HE?

The great Gardner, they say, is hunting for throwers or, at least, another thrower. How does a man get excited over anything like that when we've got guys who can toss 'em like Tom did in Tamaletown yesterday?

• • •

Answer by Mail, Please

Now, if you just have to have a new chunker or so, don't make him less than an Earl Whitehill, a Hoyt, Pennock or Vance. Leave out Walt Johnson; he's getting too old. Estell cooked the question Thursday as to whether or not he's reached his stride. Step right up Major Hoople and count off a Texas league staff more effective than the quartet composed by Estell, Kiefer, Fussell and the rubber-winged Payne. And Steengrafe and Roberts may be in there yet. The youngsters Cobb and White will do to carry along as reserves to such an imposing array any day.

• • •

Habits of great men: Oral Jones' he still likes to quaff exudence of Java's national fruit from a saucer. No?

• • •

Crossed up again. Had me looking for Kiefer and forgetting all about Estell who trumped these Bears with only six safeties. Harlem Joe probably will be up and on 'em today, however. It's time old Bob Couchman was coming back, having been out a week or so. Takes that much rest for the old man.

• • •

Notice by the papers where Dukey Tramel took a tapping down in El Paso the other night. Ran afoul of a bird nomered Kid Allen, a Mexican mixture. Duke took a knockdown in the second. Somehow or other I always had held high hopes for Duke as a battler, but the Cowtown youngster just naturally seems to have shot his wad. Can't rise higher and appear on the verge of slipping lower. Hits just as hard as ever, they say, but doesn't bore in with the vim that flocked the fans of the sock shows here several years ago when Duke was a beginner who didn't care whether or not he got his face scratched.

• • •

Zero in sports: This fellow Bralley at a home brew tournament.

• • •

Try to pronounce 'em

It ought to be worth the money to see at the same time two birds burdened with such monickers as are carried by the next mat principals in the "Ross Athletic Stadium."

• • •

Maybe this Johnny Mann ISN'T much of a hitter. And maybe this T. Jenkins IS batting below form (if you are interested, study today's box)!

• • •

And if you were interested you noted P. Turgeon plunked another. Now he has plunked in 27 consecutively.

• • •

But about our pitchers: As long as we get 19 base hits in a game what about them?

• • •

The unusual in sports: The grandstand manager who is on speaking acquaintance with as much as a fifth of the knowledge he thinks he is.

This age strives to excel in all things and it recognizes and rewards excellence.

This age of high standards welcomes the Camel quality

MODERN smokers are the most exacting ever known, and they place Camel first among cigarettes.

For Camel was created to succeed in the hardest-to-please age ever known. It was made to satisfy those who demand the utmost, and modern smokers have given it such popularity as no other cigarette ever had.

If you're downright hard to please, just try Camels. Tobacco taste and fragrance will be revealed as never before, for Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos, supremely blended. This modern cigarette exceeds all other standards but its own. To light one is to find taste fulfilment. "Have a Camel!"

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

RUNYON SAYS

Scranton, Pa. Again—
It Boosts Billy Kelly—
Seeks Another Title—
The Home Town Boys—
Scranton Is For Them—

I wish it had been my good fortune to be born in Scranton, Pa., that thriving city in the heart of the Pennsylvania coal region, where the citizens know what time it is any time you ask them. I mean to say they are awake.

It seems to me that Scranton, Pa., does more for the home town boy than the other cities. The best the home-town boy gets elsewhere is plenty of recollection of things he wishes they would forget. But in Scranton, Pa., a prophet has plenty of honor in his home country, especially if he is a pugilistic prophet.

You may recall that Scranton, Pa., had a home-town boy, towit, Mr. Pete Latzo elected welterweight champion of the world by the simple expedient of getting up enough money to induce Mr. Mickey Walker to fight him. Now Scranton, Pa., lifts its musical voice on behalf of another home-town boy, and is prepared to raise the money to make him a champion, also.

He is little Billy Kelly, son of a battalion chief in the fire department of Scranton, Pa. Billy is a flyweight, and citizens of Scranton, Pa., are offering $15,000 to Fidel LaBarba of Los Angeles, the flyweight champion to meet Billy Kelly in their city.

And don't think they haven't got the $15,000 in Scranton, Pa.

I remember the sniffs of a disbelief in scrambled ears circles when it was announced that Scranton, Pa., was offering $30,000 to Mr. Mickey Walker to fight the leading pugilistic citizen of the community.

"In what?" was the general opinion, as I recall it.

"In spades," replied Scranton, Pa., flourishing the exact change. Mr. Jack Kearns, manager of Mickey Walker, was rather skeptical about the $30,000 until they "laid it on the line," as Mr. Kearns himself would describe it. Then he was sorry he hadn't asked for more.

Mr. Kearns transported Mr. Mickey Walker to Scranton, Pa., and blew the welter title, but he gave the newspaper writers of New York the opportunity of meeting some nice people. I have heard Mr. Kearns' judgment in taking that match severely criticized, but I could never see any ground for criticism. As Mr. Kearns himself remarked when friends visited him the afternoon of the struggle filled with foreboding:

"Well, I've got the champion of the world, and he's in good condition, and ready. He is getting $30,000 for fighting a man he has licked before, and if that isn't a good match for that kind of dough, what is?"

• • •

I departed from Scranton, Pa., that fight with pleasant memories of the cities and its citizens, also with a setter dog presented to me by a public spirited taxpayer. The dog's name was Scranton Prince, and he would have been a good dog, at that, if the hadn't developed distemper, and gun-shyness.

I presume it was because he was taken away from Scranton, Pa. A resident of that city does not seem to thrive in any other climate. I notice that whenever my friend Mr. Mike Barrett of Scranton, Pa. comes to New York he always seems to get a little loggy along about 5 a. m.

This Billy Kelly, the latest object of the devotion of Scranton, Pa. is about as good a little fighter as ever you clapped eyes on. He would give Fidel LaBarba, or any other flyweight, a terrific battle. I have never seen a better body puncher for a little fellow, and I am not one who goes in for little fellows to any extent. With me the pugilistic divisions begin at 175 pounds.

Billy Kelly is plenty Irish and about 21 years old. He fights at 110 pounds, ringside, so the flyweight limit is pie for him. He has whipped such flyweights as Black Bill, Joie Ross, Trip Lombaco, Ty Colman, Al Beauregard and Frankie Garcia. A lot of the boys are dodging Billy, and he is willing to permit them to come in six or seven pounds over him if they insist.

• • •

It is about time we had a little championship action among the small boys. The flyweights haven't been getting much attention lately. LaBarba fought Elky Clark of Scotland at Madison Square Garden last winter, but since then Fidel has been trying to devise ways and means of beating Johnny Vacca of Boston, a bantam.

Vacca has beaten LaBarba twice, both times over the flyweight limit, of course. LaBarba is applying trigonomerty and a lot of other things to that situation trying to figure out the answer. Thus there is not much among the flyweights.

I hope that Scranton, Pa., is able to induce Fidel to take that $15,000 if only because it will serve me with an excuse to go back to Scranton, Pa. Maybe I might get another setter dog there that has all its health.

Frogs Happy Although Title Hopes Are Gone

FORT WORTH, May 19. (AP)—With all hopes of championship honors definitely put aside, Texas Christian university baseballers were carefree today as they went through light workouts in preparation for the final two games of their southwestern conference season with Southern Methodist university at Dallas Friday and Saturday.

If the Frogs so much as split with the Mustangs they will finish in fourth place, if they drop both games, they will finish next to last, being passed on the stretch by the inactive Baylor Bears; but regardless of the finish, the Frogs are happy. They figure that when they participated in the no-hit, no-run game against the Rice Owls Tuesday of which Hobo Carson was the principal hero, they contributed one of the outstanding features of baseball play since the conference was created and can rest on their laurels until another year.

ESTELL SLAMS IT ON SANTONE

Spitter Allows Six Hits, So Spuds Win, 8-1

SAN ANTONIO, May 19. Unable to get a toe hold on Tom Estell's spitter while two San Antonio southpaws were hammered for 19 hits, the Bears were beaten 8 to 1 in the second game of the Spudder series Thursday before a crowd of about 3000 with little or no occasion for excitement.

Johnny Mann and Tom Jenkins led the stick work, each with four hits. Estell helped matters along with three hits, driving in two runs.

San Antonio scored its lone run in the first inning and thereafter did not even threaten seriously. Flaskamper, first at bat, drew a base on balls and went to second when Philbin singled to right. Both runners advanced when Leslie grounded out to shortstop. Philbin took third, but Najo grounded out to Swenson.

Start in Second.

Wichita Falls bats began clicking in the second inning and two runs were scored. Lamb opened with a single to center and Jenkins followed with a single by second. Turgeon hoisted out to deep center and Lamb went to third after the catch. Swenson drove a hard one to right center and Klien made a miraculous running catch. Lamb scored before the outfielder could recover and throw the ball in. Tobin walked and Estell singled, scoring Jenkins from second. LaFayette fouled out to the catcher.

The Spudders scored again in the third. Mann singled to right. Fitzgerald tried to bunt, but popped out to first base. Fitzgerald threw his bat against the stands and was ordered from the game by Umpire Griggs. Benton was sent to center field when the Bears batted. Lamb was given a base on balls, and Jenkins followed with a single, scoring Mann. Turgeon struck out and Swenson flied out to Najo.

Serious Seventh

The Spudders failed to score in the fourth and were blanked in the fifth and sixth by Lefty Lee, who relieved Ward on the mound, but Wichita Falls' bats clicked merrily in the seventh, when five runs were sent home.

Lamb popped out at the beginning of the seventh, but Jenkins followed with a double. Turgeon singled through second. Swenson singled through the pitchers' mound, scoring Jenkins. Tobin singled by third, scoring Turgeon. Estell singled through the box, scoring Swenson. LaFayette forced Estell at second, Tobin advancing to third. Mann singled past third, scoring Tobin. Benton singled to center, scoring LaFayette. Lamb was thrown out by the pitcher. The Spudders had driven in the five runs with seven hits.

Among the Big Leaguers

Old Man of the Diamond Today

The old man of the field, Raymond Tyrus Cobb, rated to have been through with the game years ago, is looking for his greatest year. Here is shown the hands, eyes and feet that have piled up records to be unequaled in the history of the game. Note the unothordox style in photo No. 1. His hands never meet, as one would suppose. No. 2 shows the old eye that has selected speedy curves for leading batting averages of both leagues. No. 3, the fastest legs in baseball, several years ago. Ty is depending on these pins to keep him in the game for a few years more.

By ROY GROVE

How long can Ty Cobb last in the major leagues? It looks as if he had three years ahead of him to establish a record that would never be approached.

At the close of the 1926 season, Ty Cobb had completed 22 years of major league service, and all with Detroit, tieing the endurance record. During Cobb's career, he established more records than any ball player in the history of the game, and it is doubtful if any present or future player will ever equal a majority of the marks.

His outstanding achievements are: Most games played, league, 2804; batted .420 in 1911; highest batting percentages, life time, .369; most years leading league in batting, 12; most consecutive years leading league in batting, 9; most years batting over .400, 3; most years batting over .300, 21; most times at bat, league, 10,586; most runs, league, 2086; most base hits, league, 3902; most years, 200 or more base hits, 9; making six base hits in six times at bat, May 5, 1925; most extra base hits, league, 1063; most extra base hits, game, 4, May 8, May 7, 1922, May 5, 1925; most extra bases on long hits, league, 1573; most total bases, league, 5475; most total bases, game, 16, May 5, 1925, 2 singles, 1 double, 3 home runs; most years leading in one-base hits, 6; most one base hits, league, 2839; most three-base hts, league, 286; making three home runs in two consecutive games, 5, May 5, 1925, 3 May 6, 2; most stolen bases, league, 865; most years leading league in stolen bases, 10; most stolen bases, season, 96.

SPORT a la CARTE

BY ROY GROVE

Who is supplant Chick Evans, Francis Ouimet and Bob Gardner in our amateur ranks for the coming season? True, they have a few seventies left in the old bag but they will concede the eighties that are gradually creeping into their score.

This season sees the rising of one amateur star, George Voight. Last year we were overtaken by Watts Gunn and the fine play of Roland MacKenzie. All three are men of the finest amateur match play, if not better than their predecessors.

• • •

He sliced it and he hooked it,
Onward he thundered,
Rolling up a hundred.

• • •

Gunn comes up with a background of Bobby Jones previously schooled through the ranks of the caddy. MacKenzie's golf is instinctive. He demonstrates one of the most natural swings in the simon pure ranks. There is nothing accumulative in his game.

George Voight, like Ouimet and Evans, learned his golf while toting the bags. Such a foundation formulates no quarter for an opponent, and is recorded as the toughest individual in the world at match play.

• • •

He teed the golf ball on the tee
So shiny and so bright,
He took a swing,
Hooked the thing,
His wife's alone tonight.

• • •

It was Gunn who beat the mighty Sweetser, the greatest of match players, at the amateur at Oakmont. Reputations mean little to Gunn. He never figures his man at any time, before or during a contest. They all look alike to him, including his master, Bobby Jones, who carry him to the finals of the same event. Like Jones, he has learned to "shoot the works," win or lose, balancing equally at either end.

MacKenzie's form astonished the British in his play during the Walker cup. They immediately recognized him as an ancestor of the royal and ancient game. His game is natural, consequently making him a better medalist than a match player, which he will overcome with an improved game.

Sensational Burkburnett Mile Runner Enters Two Tourneys

Pat "Bananas" Hood of Burkburnett left Wednesday to enter the high school section of the Kansas relays and then will journey to the national interscholastic meet in Chicago on June 3 and 4.

Pat won the mile run at Austin in the state meet over a field of 66 entries, and the fans of Burkburnett have the greatest hopes for Hood in the next two meets.

Hood is booked for both the mile and half-mile runs in his next two meets and he will go into training at Omaha, Neb. At Chicago, Hood will carry the Orange and Black of Burkburnett in his last race.

This year Hood holds the following records: First places at the Burleson relays, one dual meet, Wichita Falls boys' week track meet, country, district and state meets. He took a fourth place at Fort Worth when he was battled up and unable to break through in time to take the lead.

Hood announced recently that he intended running next year for the Wichita Falls Junior college Indians. It was under Coach Herbie Ludgate at Burkburnett that Hood first won fame. He intends on running for Herbie again next year. This will be great news to the fans of Wichita Falls that for the past three years have watched Hood win his fame.

Year before last Hood won every race he entered until he came to the state meet. There he was forced to be content with a fifth place over a large field. Hood is one of the greatest mile runners of the high school division that Texas has ever turned out.

HOUSTON DRUBS DALLAS

HOUSTON, May 19. (AP)—Celebrating in fitting fashion the return to the dugout of Manager Joe Mathes, missing for three days because of the illness of Mrs. Mathes, the Buffs Thursday pounded the ball in the pinches and whipped the Dallas Steers, 6 to 3. Kenneth Penner, ace of the Bisons, was in excellent form, while Russell Pence pitched fair ball for the losers.

Twice-a-Week Baseball For New League

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, May 18.—Perfection of an organization that is to bring twice-a-week baseball games for fans in Southwestern Oklahoma and Northwestern Texas was brought about in a meeting of fans from seven cities in Davidson Wednesday evening. A six-team league, to be known as the Cotton Oil league, will embark on its official schedule May 29.

L. W. Ozier, Frederick, is president of the circuit, and J. G. O'Donohou, Iowa Park, is secretary.

Teams that will be represented are Frederick, Tipton, Davidson, in Oklahoma, and Electra and Iowa Park in Texas. Location of the sixth team is to be taken up in a meeting Saturday, May 21, to be held in Iowa Park, and rests now between Grandfield, in Oklahoma, and Chillicothe, Texas.

Clubs will be allowed to carry 21 men during the first three weeks of the season. Teams then must be thinned to a roster of 15 players.

C. C. Hudson of Iowa Park will draft the schedule and O'Donohou will draw a set of rules and regulations based on Texas league rules, both to be submitted at Saturday's meeting in Iowa Park.

This is the first definite step to organize a league in this section of the two states that will include both Oklahoma and Texas teams. Initial support from fans in the movement attests the popularity which the circuit promises to enjoy.

Tilden's Conqueror Looms Before Him Again Across Pond

PARIS, May 19. (AP)—Only one of France's three tennis musketeers—Henri Cochet — stands between William T. Tilden, American tennis star, and the final of the international hard court championships, beginning at St. Cloud on Tuesday.

Crochet, incidentally was the man who eliminated Big Bill at Forest Hills last year in the American singles championship which Rene LaCoste, who heads the second half of the seeded draw for the hard court championship, captured.

Lacoste and Jean Borotra, the other two members of France's big tennis trio, must fight it out between themselves in the lower half of the draw in order to meet America's foremost player. Frances T. Hunter, the American star, who is accompanying Tilden on their present European invasion, also was seeded in the lower half of the draw.

The draw was seeded as follows:

Upper half: Tilden, Cochet, Baron Von Kehrling, Aeschlimann, and Turnbull.

Lower half: Lacoste, Borotra, Hunter, Landry, and Brugnon.

Sydney B. Wood and James Van Alen are other American entries, while Watson Washburn of New Yorw, will play only in the doubles.

KANE GETS WELL AS PILOT.

HOUSTON, May 19. (AP)—Because of the serious illness of Mrs. Mathes, manager Joe Mathes of Houston was unable to be at the Houston-Dallas baseball game here Wednesday. The Buff play was directed by Johnny Kane. The managerial worries rested lightly on Kane's shoulders, and the little second sacker had a great day in the field and at the bat. In five times at the plate, Kane singled twice, walked twice and struck out once.

WITH GEORGE MORIARTY

MANAGER DETROIT TIGERS

Predictions in sport are based on form, and form at its best, is a fleeting thing.

Form is something that can be here one minute and gone the next, and it often is.

In baseball, football, hockey, basketball, polo and most of the other sports, form rises and falls and sometimes disappears entirely. What happens today in sport can rarely be taken as an indication of what will happen tomorrow.

Since predictions are based upon past performances and records it is easily seen why predictions so often fail. Most of them do.

• • • •

Fielding Harris Yost, athletic director of the University of Michigan, said last fall that there were no upsets in football.

Whenever the prediction of the majority is found wrong it is called an upset. To this Yost objects. He does not believe there are upsets because he believes that all teams have a chance and that if one takes better advantage of its opportunities than the opposing team then it deserves to win. There is no upset since the team had a chance. The fact that it was not admitted as having a chance by those who are supposed to be authorities on matters of this kind, makes no difference.

• • • •

I presume that it is difficult to tell the average man that there were no upsets in all baseball last season. He will insist that there were. He will say that the victory of the New York Yankees was one and that Rogers Hornsby's failure to win the National league batting championship was another. He will furthermore tell you, in all probability, that the victory of the St. Louis Cardinals was another upset.

Why were these results upsets? Simply because the majority of forecasts thought that they would not happen and that returns us to my original contention. The forecasts that went wrong were placed upon past performances, upon form that had vanished and since that form was in the past there was nothing secure about its presence in the future.

• • • •

New York finished seventh in the American league race in 1925. Because of this no one picked New York to be up in the race in 1926. No team that finished in seventh place (or no team that finished lower than sixth) one year had ever won a pennant the following year. But, the baseball prophets were overlooking the fact that 1926 was another year and that the race was a new one. They also overlooked the fact that a team whose offensive is headed by one George Herman Ruth and whose pitching staff boasts a Herbert Pennock should ever be overlooked. A team with these offensive and defensive advantages is likely to land anywhere, all depending on how the main factors work. The punch is there and the punch can never be totally ignored.

Hornsby had swept to the top of the National league year after year, the greatest hitter the circuit had known since Honus Wagner swung his mighty bat for the baseballs glory of Pittsburgh. Hornsby naturally was picked to repeat; no other batter seemed in his class. But the dopesters overlooked the fact that Hornsby was managing a team and carrying all the burders that baseball management imposes on a man. These burdens were almost sure to interfere with his hitting. They did. Hornsby suffered one of the steepest losses in percentage that any great hitter has ever taken within 12 months tims.

But while Hornsby was losing the batting honors he was driving a team to a championship. While the Cardinals' victory was marked down as an upset, no less an expert than John Joseph McGraw picked them to win two months before the 1926 season opened. They had enough stuff to convince McGraw that they could win, so they were not much of an upset.

• • • •

While human beings remain as they are no prediction in sport can really mean anything. One man's guess is as good as another man's prediction. We are all fallible. We may rise to certain heights today and bungle everything we attempt tomorrow.

Football teams look like champions one Saturday and like dubs the next. On some days a ball team will play like a perfect machine and the next day the fielders will commit four or five errors in tight situations, blow in run after run and lose to a team that should be beaten by an overwhelming score. It is the same thing in hockey and basketball. While these lapses are called upsets they are all really part of the game. If it were possible to predict definitely the result of any sports even the sports would not last long. If people knew what kas going to happen they would not take the trouble and pay their money to find out how it happened.

Form must remain fleeting to make the game worth while.

HIGH SPOTS of BASEBALL

When a runner is caught off base it is customary for him to blame the nearest coach, but I have always contended and still contend that no one but the runner himself is to blame for this mishap.

The runner should know at all times where the ball is. It is not up to the man coaching at first or the one coaching at third to keep the runner informed.

While the runner is on the bases he should keep one foot on the bag until the pitcher is on the rubber. If the pitcher steps on the rubber without the ball, then it is a balk and the runner advances a base. If the pitcher has the ball the runner can then start on whatever plans he has.

• • •

Too many base runners permit themselves to be distracted.

Fielders are always trying to attract the attention of the base runner. They will start a conversation with him on some irrelevant subject. The object is nearly always to draw the base runner off the bag and make him careless.

It is well enough for the base runner to engage in conversation. But, while he is talking, let him remember to keep his foot on the bag.

The base runner can often make his conversation so guileless that he will turn the tables on the infielder and make him forget. This has been done by clever base runners. It is a trick that will work both ways.

• • •

One of the outstanding faults of base runners is that they do not take a correct lead off the bag.

To develop the proper form in base running the player should first learn to lead off properly.

He must never, under any circumstances, take a running lead. This is permissible only when the runner is on third and when the object of a jumping start and short dash is to confuse the pitcher and cause him to pitch the ball wide to the batter.

The lead off first or second base should be taken measuredly, while the runner's eyes are riveted on the pitcher.

• • •

At no time, in the few strides he takes while leading off, should the runner be off balance. The feet should always be apart in order to give the runner a chance to spring either way.

Too many runners take too long a lead. This is a grievous fault, as it compels the runner to spring back toward the bag in self-defense, whereas, if he shortens his lead one step, he can go back or be in position to get a running start for the next base.

Base running is a simple matter. The runner should be guided by the score and the situation. He should take chances, especially after one is out.

• • •

The main fault with base running and base stealing is a lack of coaching, especially in the minor leagues.

There is no standard system for teaching base stealing or base running.

If the minors took pains to teach players along a given line then the major league recruits would arrive with a fair idea of what base running means, but as it is they come up for trial in the big leagues without the least idea of what it is all about. It is too late to teach them and few ever learn. While they have been taught batting and fielding they let base running take care of itself

OPERATORS EXHIBIT BETTER "FEELING" ON OIL SITUATION

MORE STABLE STATUS SEEN

Fear Of Future Has Checked Operations

The third month of the so-called depression in the oil industry is drawing to a close with operators and investors in the North Texas district visibly displaying a better "feeling" than at any time since crude prices started their tumultous slide which threw terror into men with money invested in any phase of the industry.

It now appears that the extremely careful treading which has marked operations for three months has been more the result of anxiety as to future developments than to present conditions and now, while major company executives still make declarations that over-production still exists and the price stays at low ebb, the belief seems to be spreading among leading oil men here that conditions are being made more stable daily.

Majors Buying

Confidence is gained when it is noted that some of the majors are showing a tendency to loosen their purse strings which have for some time been as tight as the proverbial hat band.

Another reassuring feature of recent happenings of national scope is seen in the decline of Seminole production which is taking place despite the completions of large wells in that area almost daily. It is gratifying to know as well that this decline is being shown just when a shut down movement there finally promises to get results. Oil men with an ear to the ground predict that Seminole will awake some morning soon and find itself about 100,000 barrels shy of its imposing daily production figure.

In California the flush spots are expected to do their best some time in June. In the Panhandle of Texas a new peak may crop out this summer but it is not believed that great field will ever approach the capers cut by Seminole although the ultimate yield may be as great if not greater.

It is generally recognized that no one fact is more in favor of the small producer today than that a majority of the proven territory in the broad stretches of West Texas is held in large blocks by big companies. This condition eliminates the rapid competitive drilling which has marked development of other fields.

Could Wreck Market

It is also believed that if certain companies operating in the western part of the state desired to do so they could wreck the crude market in such a short period of time that a large number of concerns could not survive the crash.

Charges that major companies were instigating the price cuts for the purpose of buying stored crude at a small figure have recently lost their force. The question has been asked, if this stored crude was not bought as rapidly as possible when could the market be expected to begin climbing again?

Withholding by some concerns of regular dividends is not taken with much alarm hereabouts. On the other hand it is thought to be a step to assure payment of dividends in the future. From California comes the report that a company has gone into the hands of receivers and in isolated instances a few forced mergers are said to be under way but a great majority of the organizations are standing the strain with remarkable ease.

Prophets give the market from 60 days to one year to begin climbing again. Others are so pessimistic that better days can not be seen at all. The greater number of oil men in Wichita Falls have quit trying to guess "when" and have started thinking more about "what" with the result that fear is leaving and the pace of local oil activity is quickening.

Good Looking Sand Is Found In New Mexico

AMARILLO, May 19—A good looking brokn sugar sand, the sort of a formation in which old time drillers always look to contain oil, was found by Henderson, Dexter and Blair in their No. 1, Wyatt, in the southwest corner of 34-17-33e, on the Caprock, in Isa county, southeast New Mexico, at 4953 to 4958 feet. It contained a little oil.

Inglefield-Bridges in No. 1, in the southeast corner of 4-17-34, have erected a steel derrick to replace the rig recently burned down. They will be drilling again soon. Total depth is 4615 feet and there was 4500 feet of oil in the hole when friction from a back brake set fire to the rig.

Muskogee Gas Well Flows Oil When Opened

TULSA, Okla., May 19.—W. R. Sommerville Oil and Gas company's well sw. corner nw. ne. of 15-17-17, eight miles west of Muskogee, in Muskogee county, which was completed as a gasser when it came in about five months ago with an initial production of 50,000,000 feet daily, was equipped to produce gas only. The past few days the meter had not been working properly, and Tuesday morning the well was opened to let it blow off. It started making oil, and flowed a steady stream for about 20 minutes before being shut in. The oil blew 50 feet into the air, and the wind being very strong sprayed a 40 acre corn field, thus ruining the corn.

Deep Rotary Test Makes 400 Feet In Two Days

Four hundred feet of hole was made by the drillers at the Reiter-Foster Oil company's No 4, Virgina Parrott, near Woodson in Throckmorton county, in the first two day's drilling. This is about twice the anticipated average as the test is expected to be completed in about 45 days. It is the first rptary drilled deep test in Throckmorton county and offsets the Red Bank Oil company's recent completion on the same fee in section 971, T. E. and L. survey.

Bar On Chain Banking Cannot Be Enforcable

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—The federal reserve board is powerless to prevent chain banking through purchases by holding companies, Governor Crissinger of the board has informed Chairman McFadden of the house banking committee.

Entrance of Exporters Peps Up North Texas Gasoline Market

Refiners of North Texas and the Panhandle districts are feeling good over the entrance of exporters into the spot markets of the Mid-Continent oil province.

Three million gallons of 64-66, 375 endpoint, grade of gasoline has been purchased of Oklahoma and Texas refiners at an average price of 6 1-2 cents a gallon, in tank car lots. The North Texas refiners received one-tenth of a cent more for 800,000 gallons because of the difference in the freight rates for group 3 (Oklahoma) and North Texas groups.

The general spot gasoline market is reported quiet, and especially with the higher gravities. Refiners report a good business for the U. S. motor grades, although sales are not excessive. Kerosene is becoming more active as farmers prepare the fields for summer farm work. Fuel oil business is nil.

North Texas spot quotations in tank car lots of 8000 to 10,000 gallons, f.o.b. the refinery, appear to be as follows:

Gasoline-naptha: The 48-52, 450 e. p. naptha; the 56-58, 450 e. p. gasoline, are both quoted at 6 cents flat; 58-60, 450 e. p. gasoline at 6 to 6 1-8 cents; 56-68, U. S. motor, at 6 1-8 to 6 1-4, and 58-60, U. S. motor, at 6 1-4 to 6 1-2; 64-66, 390 e. p., 6 3-4, and 64-66, 375 e. p., at 6 3-4 to 7; 68-70, 350-360 e. p. at 7 1-4 to 7 1-2 cents.

Burning oils: 40-42, water white kerosene, 4 1-2 to 4 3-4; 38-40, prime white distillate, 3 cents; 32-36, gas oil, from 2 1-2 to 2 3-4 cents, and 24-26 gravity fuel oil at 85 to 90 cents a barrel.

Natural gasoline: Grades AA and A, 5 3-4 cents; grades BB and B, 5 cents, and grade C, 4 5-8 cents.

Contract Let For 250-Mile Gas Line From Panhandle to Kansas

Contract for the construction of the 250 miles of natural gas pipeline being built by the Empire Gas and Fuel company and affiliated companies from the Texas Panhandle to connect with their pipeline and distributing properties in the Mid-Continent has been awarded to the firm of Booth and Flynn of Pittsburgh, Pa., who will establish headquarters at Woodward, Okla.

This line will be of 20-inch diameter. Pipe is now being strung along the right of way and construction machinery and material assembled along the route of the line which will begin at a point near Pampa, Texas, and extended in a northeasterly direction through Woodward, Okla., Anthony, Kan., and connect with the Empire Natural Gas system near Wichita, Kan.

Actual construction work, the digging of ditch and laying of pipe will begin about June 1. This line will have a carrying capacity of 70 million cubic feet of natural gas daily. The construction work will give employment to a large number of men all along the line until late this fall. The line is to be completed and ready for service by Jan. 1, 1928.

Roxana Gets Big Producer

Well In South Bend Area Flows Heavily

Blowing in Thursday afternoon with a natural flow of about 25 barrels in the first 15 minutes, the Roxana Petroleum company's No. 12, Ford extended the Stovall lime of South Bend, Young county, 600 feet east of the Panhandle Refining company's No. 17 McClusky.

The well early Thursday night was flowing at an estimated rate of 70 to 100 barrels per hour from an approximate depth of 3888 feet. It is an old well deepened from the 2000-foot sand and is the fifth big producer from the Stovall pay. It is located on the Wm. F. Carter survey.

Roxana's No. 9, B. F. Scott in the J. N. Smith survey was running pipe to the lime at 3831 feet. Should this well make a producer it will add considerable territory to the deep pay on the east.

Just east of South Bend and across the river north of Roxana's new producer, the Milham corporation was running pipe to the lime at 3845 feet in its test, located in the Tobin survey.

Gwynn Test Makes 50 Barrel Producer

P. F. Gwynn and associates have an estimated 50 barrel well at their No. 1, Ward Brothers, located in the R. R. Rainey survey, southeast Archer county. In 16 hours on the swab Wednesday night and Thursday morning the well produced 45 barrels of oil from the sand at 930-37 feet. This producer opens up another producing area for Archer county

DEATH'S TRAIL IN TEXAS FEUD

Third Violent Death In Series Of Shootings

BROWNSVILLE, May 19. (AP)—The third violent death in a series of tragedies which started with the slaying of Emilio Madrazo in a Brownsville bank in 1925 by Henely Williams, Brownsville attorney, occurred last night, when Guadalupe Riveria was killed at San Juan.

After killing Madrazo, Williams in turn was shot and killed, and Guadalupe and Juan Riviera, brothers, were charged with his slaying, Juan receiving a life sentence. Guadalupe Rivieria's trial was scheduled to come up next September.

The Riveria brothers had been hired in 1925 as guards by Mrs. Williams, who said she feared her husband would attempt to take her children away. Williams was killed at his own home here.

In the trial of Juan Riviera recently in Hidalgo county criminal court several witnesses testified that the shots which killed Williams were fired by Guadalupe Riveria.

Guadalupe was armed when he was slain last night, a revolver with one empty chamber being found in his hands. The gun, however, had not been fired recently. No arrests have been made.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, May 19. (AP)—Prices in the cotton market today soared to new highs. The sharp advance was attributed to good trade and outside buying brought about by the continued absence of rain in West Texas and on reports of rains and prospects for rains in the northern portions of the central belt where moisture is not needed. Buying was also stimulated by the sharp advance in stocks on Wall street. At the highest July traded at 16.09, October 16.38 and December 16.56, or 32 points above the previous close. After midsession prices eased off five to seven points on realizing.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Increasing nervousness over the new crop start, due to unfavorable weather reports of forecasts, were reflected in an advnace in the cotton market today which carried prices into new high ground for the movement. July sold up to 16.10 or 34 points net higher and closed at 16.08, the general market closing strong at net advances of 32 to 38 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of three points to a decline of one point and eased off two or three points in early trading under realizing and local or southern selling. Trade interests were credited with buying on the setback to 15.74 for July, and 16.30 for December, however, and the market soon turned firmer on the appearance of the weather map which showed some rain and was regarded by local traders as foreshadowing further showers or rains in the central and western belts.

The advance was halted by realizing as prices approached the previous high levels, but it was absorbed on moderate reactions, and the market developed increased activity and strength after the posting of the detailed weather report for the day. May sold up to 15.88, or 38 points net higher, and 10 points above the recent high level, while new crop positions made new high records for the season, October advancing to 16.48 and December to 16.70, net gains of about 34 to 38 points. The close was within a few points of the best.

Private cables reported hedging and London selling absorbed by continental buying in the Liverpool market, but that higher prices for cotton goods were checking trade.

Exports today 7334 bales, making 10,-146,218 so far this season. Port receipts 14,533. U. S. port stocks 1,754,107.

New Peak Levels Shown by High Priced Stocks in Bull Drive's Continuance On New York Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 19.—High priced stocks continued to lead in the stock market today and new peak levels for the move and for all time were established. Money renewed at 4 per cent, whatever calling of loans took place was by banks in territory affected by the flood.

Some of the leading local banking institutions were the principal buyers of securities. Six hundred and sixty-nine banks throughout the country have increased their investment holdings $408,118,-000 in the last four months. Weak features were the local traction stocks on reports of a rift in the political camp.

Heavy buying developed in corn and cotton was strong. Japanese yen developed acute weakness on short selling by Chinese speculators.

Rails remained in the spotlight. A sudden demand developed for Delaware & Hudson, which lifted that issue half a dozen points. Directors of this road, it is generally believed, will vote to segregate the coal properties. Delaware & Hudson has valuable assets which will come to light when the segregation plan is announced.

Pittsburgh & West Virginia was another strong issue. P. & W. V., as pointed out here, may figure in a new line around Pittsburgh. Gulf Mobile sold near the year's high. It is being acquired by interests identified with the Atlantic Coast line. This road would link up the Louisville & Nashville into a direct route from the Atlantic coast to Chicago and make one of the shortest routes from the south to Chicago. Gulf Mobile would also be a valuable line to the Burlington, whether acquired a minority interest and will make a strong application for the carrier. Wabash spurted five points.

General Motors crossed 200 a share but met profit-taking. Hudson Motors was strong at times on estimates that earnings for the second quarter would equal $3.25 a share. Sale of Hudson's Essex cars is understood to show a steady increase. Buying is taking place in Packard. This company is doing good business, particularly in its new six. Earnings are said to be running at the rate of $7 a share. The company has retired out of its earnings in the last three years preferred stock and notes and has acquired valuable service stations and garages.

Tobacco stocks were higher under leadership of Liggett & Myers and Reynolds. Both companies are doing a good business. Helme is another stock coming into favor. The company has cash and marketable securities of $4,000,000 and the only current liability aside from dicidends papable is $700,000.

American Smelting featured the metal shares by going up nearly half a dozen points. Buying of smelting was said to be for the account of a big operator. Union Carbibe was another strong issue on buying in anticipation of an increased dividend. The company has developed a new process which has proved successful. Byers Pipe was another issue which responded to earnings from its new process which turns out wrought pipe. Universal, another stock in this category, remained firm. Cast iron pipe showed a gain for the day.

Predictions of several operators were fulfilled today when General Motors crossed 200. That was the "goal" set for the stock a month ago. General Motors has had a remarkable career as a speculative leader since 1925. In that year General Motors sold from 55 to 69 and early in 1926 rose to 149, but dropped to 110 in the "big smash" in March. After its recovery to around 190 a stock dividend of fifty per cent was declared and the equivalent market value was around 135, from which valuation the current advance to 200 was put in motion in the latter part of 1926.

Including the extra cash dividends, therefore the current valuation of General Motors on the 1925 basis, is approximately $3.15. A share, an advance of 260 points in 2 1-2 years. While this is not a record breaker, it is a speculative performance rarely seen in normal times.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, May 19. (AP)—All grain went skyrocketing today, especially corn. Cloudbursts and floods together with a forecast of more rain that meant further serious delay to corn planting gave a big stimulus to buying, and whirled the corn market to highest prices yet this season. Heavy profit taking ensued, and corn closed unsettled at 1c to 2c net advance, wheat ⅛ to ⅝c up, oats at ⅜ to ⅝c gain, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 20c.

Increasingly unfavorable crop reports from the southwest eclipsed news that 1927 harvesting of wheat had begun in Texas, the earliest ever known. Estimates were current simultaneously that the winter crop yield in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas has been curtailed 20,-000,000 to 25,000,000 bushels since May 1. Oats were strengthened by estmates that farm reserves in six leading states are 52 per cent smaller, compared with a year ago.

Provisions reflected advances both in hog values and in grain.

CORN ON TOP IN GRAIN PIT

July Futures Boosted To New High Top

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, May 19.—Corn proved the speculative leader in the grain market today. the July and the September being carried forward to new tops for the season on the crest of a broader buying wave. Wheat too was a buoyant but lost more of its gain finally than corn as heavy profit taking was attracted. The selling in wheat seemed to be based largely on indications for warmer and clearer weather in the Canadian northwest. Continued rains over the belt was the basis for the persistent support in the yellow cereal.

May wheat opened at $1.43⅝, reached $1.43½, reacted to $1.42½ and closed at $1.42⅝. July opened at $1.38⅛@1.38½, sagged to $1.37⅝, bulged to $1.39⅝, dropped to $1.38 and closed at $1.38⅛@1.38¼. Leading houses bought wheat and corn most of the session. Active locals offered wheat on the bulge.

The seaboard confirmed a healthier export interest with sales at 850,000 bushels to England and the continent. Liverpool closed ⅝ to 1½ pence up.

Locally wheat closed ⅛ to ⅝c higher, corn 1½ to 2c higher, oats ⅜ to ⅝c higher and rye ⅛ to ⅝c advanced.

Corn reached best levels around midday, reacting with wheat under profit taking from the top in the last hour. Fresh buying is descernible in this grain and prices are kept on the upgrade in face of repeated realizing. A few longs sold out corn on prospects of some immediate relief in the unfavorable weather.

Buying of oats was active in the first hour through commission houses and locals.

Rye advanced with wheat.

COTTON GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today with some easing reported in a few constructions of gray cloths. Yarns were steady with sales light. Sales were again large in Yokohama raw silk markets. Prices here were firmer with a slightly upward trend. Receipts continued large. Burlaps were quiet.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Cotton seed oil was more active and sharply higher today, closing 10 to 15 points net higher on covering and commission house buying promoted by the strength of lard and the advance in cotton, which emphasized the unfavorable nature of southern crop advices. Sales were 10,200 barrels. Prime crude 7.50; prime summer yellow spot 9.10; May closed 9.10; July 9.36; September 9.72; October 9.81; December 9.80.

The Game Warden

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Violent advances in high priced industrials and railroad shares overshadowed all other developments in today's irregular stock market. In all, more than 50 issues touched new peak prices for the year or longer but at the same time selling pressure was being applied to the New York tractions, which sank to new 1927 lows, and to several of the oils, which closed a point or more lower. Total sales again ran well over two million shares.

Money was again freely offered at 4 per cent, which was the rate fixed for the renewal of call loans.

General Motors fulfilled the predictions made for the stock several months ago by crossing 200, but heavy profit taking developed at that figure and it settled back to 198¼ for a small fractional loss on the day. Baldwin touched a new top at 216⅝, broke to 209½ and then rallied to 212⅝, off 1⅝ net. American Smelting soared nearly seven points to 159, the highest price since 1906, and closed at the top.

Oil shares were liquidated freely as a result of the growing pessimism regarding the possibility of an early solution of the over production problem.

New peak prices in the railroad group were attained by Union Pacific common and preferred, Baltimore & Ohio preferred, Reading, Chicago Northwestern preferred, Chicago & Western Illinois common and preferred, and Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the last named scoring an extreme gain of 12 points.

Both the rail and industrial averages closed the day in new high ground.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Renewed selling pressure against Japanese yen, which dropped over 100 points to 46.10 cents, the lowest in three years and a brisk rise in Norwegian kroner were the only developments of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was fairly stable around $4.85 1-16 and French francs just above 3.91 cents.

CREAMERY TO BUILD PLANT

James Brothers To Erect $70,000 Station

Construction is to begin immediately on a new plant for the James Brothers creamery of this city which will cost at its completion between $60,000 and $70,000, it was announced Thursday by R. M. James, manager.

Plans Completed

Plans for the new building have just been completed and approved and the contract will be let with the approval of the contractor's bond which is expected within the next day or two, Mr. James stated. The new creamery will be located on property recently acquired by James Brothers at the intersection of Waco and Virginia streets.

Modern equipment for the manufacture of butter and pacteurizing of milk will be installed throughout the new plant, Mr. James said. The company will continue to deal exclusively in milk and butter and the new building is in keeping with an expanding business attributed largely to the growth of the dairy industry in North Texas, Mr. James declared.

Firm Incorporated

James Brothers creamery recently sold its present plant and property on Chester street to the Texas Electric Service company. The company has operated its creamery here more than four years and papers of incorporation were taken out last September when H. C James was made president of the concern with R. M. James, general manager.

J. B. Lowry, Joe Shipley, C. K. Johnson, Bob Hollinger, Walter Hendricks, Howard English, C. D. Shamburger, and Harry ten Brink, have gone to Houston where they will attend the state convention of Elks which will be held in that city May 20, 21 and 22.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS REGAR

Texas Most Wonderful State, He Says

"Every city, country or nation in the whole world, in order to succeed, must co-operate," R. S. Regar, third assistant postmaster general of the United States declared in a talk to members of the Rotary club at a local hotel Thursday.

Mr. Regar praised the state of Texas, and said it was the most wonderful state in the union besides Pennsylvania, his native home. The speaker, in telling of his work in Washington, declared that out of the 29,000 publications each month, that 1174 of them went to Texas.

Reports from various chairmen concerning boy's week were made. Ben Williams reported on the athletic meet, and said it went off very smoothly. He also pronounced it a huge success.

Bob Penick read a report from Dr. S. S. McKenney which told of "Boy's Day in Church." It was said to be well attended, with 200 boys at the First Methodist church. Luther Hoffman told of the flag raising contests, and reported that 57 boys were present at the club meeting on "Boy's Day."

Dr. J. W. Cantwell reported that talks were made before 3000 boys by members of the club on "Boy's Day in School," and said it was a great success also.

John W. Philp, postmaster of Dallas, talked briefly and praised the wonderful growth in Wichita Falls during the past few years.

Mother Of Oklahoma Outlaw Near Death

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 19. (AP) The mother of Matthew Kimes is near death at her home at Van Buren, Ark., it was said here today by friends of the family. Kimes' father, who is with her, is said to have declared last night that Matthew took no part in the Beggs bank robbery and that he is "not in Oklahoma."

Coroner's July Decides Slaying Of Two Suicide

LOS ANGELES, May 19. (AP)—A coroner's jury here today returned a verdict that George J. Powell Jr., wealthy business man, was shot by his secretary, Margie Pike, with homicidal intent before she turned the gun on herself. The bodies were found Tuesday morning in Powell's automobile.

Two Boys, 5, Run Away From Their Home Often

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Two little boys in blue like to sleep in hallways. The Rosenberger twins of Brooklyn, aged 5, have run away from home elevent times now. Each time a cop has found them, their faces as like as their sailor suits, asleep in each other's arms.

Woman Dies In Fire Of Oil-Soaked Clothes

Cherchez La Femme!

Police looking for Marvin Brown suspected of complicity in the killing of Allen H. Weidenmann of Kansas City, searched first for Ruby Massey, Brown's sweetheart. Both were found at Memphis, Tenn., where Brown was arrested. The picture shows Brown and the woman whose love for him brought the police to his door.

Spanish-American War Veterans Plan Memorial Day Services

About forty members of the David C. Caleb Post No. 13 of Spanish-American War veterans were present at the regular monthly meeting of the organization in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Plans were completed for Decoration Day services, and a committee composed of W. L. Dalton, J. C. Bradshaw, A. G. Beam and R. C. Shuler, was appointed to meet with the American Legion and other veterans organizations in arranging joint services. It was announced that the women's auxiliary of the post would furnish flowers for the decoration of veterans graves.

W. S. Langford delivered a short address at the meeting, discussing the state convention which was held at Dallas, May 7, 8 and 9, and also announced the election of W. R. Duke of Wichita Falls, as state department commander. Mr. Langford and Mr. Duke were the only members of the local post who attended the state convention.

The next meeting of the David C. Caleb post will be held at 7:30 p. m., June 8.

Today { At the Theaters

MAJESTIC: Five acts Interstate Vaudeville, also Madge Bellamy in "The Telephone Girl," Topics of the Day and Pathe News.
OLYMPIC: "Wedding Bills," with Raymond Griffith; Bobby Vernon comedy and Fox news.
STRAND: Hoot Gibson in "Prairie King." also comedy and news.
MISSION: "The Last Trail," with Tom Mix, and No. 2 "Return of the Riddle Rider."
GARDEN: Buffalo Bill Jr. in "Galloping Gobs," comedy and No. 5 "Melting Millions."
GEM: Bill Cody in "Mocassins," and comedy."

All women are beautiful. That's why Raymond Griffith is still a bachelor. He can't make up his mind.

Each new leading woman is more beautiful than the last one, Ray says, so he can't fall in love with one of them because he's always waiting to see what the next one will be like.

Ann Sheridan is Ray's leading woman for his picture, "Wedding Bills," now showing at the Olympic theater, and she almost surpasses description, according to Ray. If they keep on coming better and better looking Ray's days of bachelorhood will be numbered. He admits it himself.

Griffith may be a high hat comedian on the screen, but he has never worn a high hat in real life. Despite the screen make up of frock coat and silk topper in pictures, he's the most unassuming actor in Hollywood.

His private life is a closed book. He lives in bachelor quarters and guards his privacy. Books are his companions a great deal of the time, and he is probably one of the best read men in the industry.

His regret is that he hasn't the build to be a hero in westerns because he's "goofy over horses." He rides for an hour three or four mornings at week before he comes to the studio.

Griffith was a writer and director before he became an actor, and takes a big part in the writings of all the stories in which he appears.

Construction Work On New Scout Camp to Start Early Next Week

Construction work on the Boy Scout camp building at Diversion dam will begin the first of next week, Frank B. Creighton, scout executive, announced Thursday. About 100 loads of building material have been hauled to the camp site, and J. C. Seale of Electra, building contractor, announced that the building will be completed in time for the first encampment.

The new structure will be built from stone, and will be 80x30 feet.

It is to be constructed just below the Diversion dam at Lake Kemp.

Work has been started on grading a site for the pitching of Scouts' tents during encampment, Mr. Creighton stated after returning from a tour of inspection Thursday morning. The first group of Scouts will go to the grounds Monday, May 30, where they will be employed in clearing up the site preparatory to encampment.

The camp will open July 18, and about 80 boys will be cared for at each encampment. Taylor Cash, Electra scoutmaster, has been employed as camp director.

County Court Resumes Bond Hearing Friday

Opponents to the proposed issuance of bonds totaling $1,125,000 for the improvement of Wichita county roads will be ready to show cause for not issuing the bonds when the county commissioners court convenes Friday afternoon, according to R. E. Taylor, attorney, representing the opponents.

The court will convene for the purpose of deciding whether an election shall be called for the purpose of determining if the bonds shall be issued.

Proponents of the project, led by representatives of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the project, will appear before the court to contest the allegations set up by the opponents.

Big West Texas Ranch Sold In Large Deal

KERRVILLE, May 19. (AP)—One of the largest ranch deals in this section in many years has been closed with the sale of the Diamond and Taylor ranches near Rock Springs, totaling 18,520 acres. The owner was Sid Peterson who sold to Charles Strapp and J. W. Jenkins and the purchase price was about $250,000 including 2,000 sheep and 2,000 goats. These ranches are among the best in this section, being well watered and highly improved.

The class play will be presented Friday evening, and the grammar school will give a three-act operetta.

The baccalaureate sermon will be preached Sunday morning and the commencement will be concluded with the graduation program Monday evening. Miss Bert Rains will give the valedictory address and Miss Effie Pierce the salutatory.

Tax Collections For April Total $18,000

County taxes amounting to $11,655.70 and state taxes totaling $7,193.85 were collected during April, according to a report forwarded Thursday by Guy Raley, county tax collector, to the state comptroller at Austin. Of the county taxes $3,489.45 was credited to the county school fund.

Delinquent state and county taxes amounting to $14,733.55 were collected during April by Mr. Raley, according to the report.

Cumberland Presbyterian Names Devore As Leader

LAKELAND, Fla., May 19. (AP)—Rev. T. A. Devore of Bowling Green, Ky., was elected moderator of the general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church here today on the last of three close ballots. Anti-board of education forces lined up solidly behind Devore, while pro-board support went to Rev. James McLeskey, Chattanooga, Tenn.

BOY, 7, IS DROWNED.

GAINESVILLE, May 19. (AP)—Henry Beam, 7-year-old son of C. R. Beam, was drowned late yesterday while seining for minnows on his father's farm, seven miles northeast of Gainesville.

TAX BOARD TO MEET TUESDAY

Week Of Equalization Hearings Scheduled

The county board of equalization will convene Tuesday and will be in session for one week. The board is composed of members of the county commissioners court.

Attaches in the office of Arthur C. Howard, county tax assessor, have been busily engaged during the past few weeks in compiling the rendered and unrendered tax rolls for presentation to the board of equalization.

When the board convenes Tuesday the rolls will be completed and ready for the examination of the members of the board, Mr. Howard said Thursday.

BANK DEBITS.

Bank debits in Wichita Falls during the past week totaled $6,148,615, according to a report made Thursday by the Wichita Falls Clearing House association. Debits for the corresponding week in 1926 were $7,935,650.

Record Attendance Indicated At Wichita Falls Summer Schools

If preliminary calls and inquiries may be taken as the basis of judgment, the 1927 session of the summer school of Wichita Falls Junior college, High school, and Junior High school will be the largest in the history of the local school system, according to Registrar A. K. Presson of the Junior college who is also director of the summer school.

Complete Course.

Calls and letters have been received from neighboring towns and even from some distance in the state. Many students in the local school have expressed their desire to attend.

Standard courses in the fundamental subjects in both junior and senior high school will be offered again. Long session requirements of class hours and instruction will strictly be followed in all respects, according to the director, and a good type of work is expected.

In the Junior college all regular courses will be offered according to demand except the double period subjects of the sciences Courses in English, history, mathematics, education, and psychology are scheduled.

Work For Teachers.

In education there are opportunities of teachers who wish to get standard certificate work in educational psychology, general elementary methods and management, high school methods and management, and high school finance, school law, and curriculum.

Courses in Junior college are fully accredited for certificate purposes and also are accepted at full value on the same basis as credits are accepted from other colleges and universities. Junior college students have received full credit for their work at the University of Txas, Texas A. & M. college, several teachers colleges, C. I. A., of Texas, University of Chicago, Ohib university, Kansas university, Colorado university, California university, Univerity of Washington, and many other ranking institutions.

Since the summer school runs nine weeks, as against six weeks at most other institutions, a student may here earn the equivalent of a unit and a half of high school work or three semester courses of college work, a half unit more in each case than possible elesewhere.

On the instructional staff, besides Director Pressen are the following long session faculty members: B. T. Adams, mathematics; Ted Brumbalow, history; R. O. Jonas, education and psychology; C. P. Kay, mathemaics-history; Jane McCuloch, Spanish; Mamie Raborn, history; J. T. Rundell, mathematics; Lona Belle Spruiell, English; Mrs. Hermione Vaughn, English; Eva Weber, English. Other teachers are held in reserve to be used in case of demand.

Unkissed Spouse Fires Pistol At His Bride

DALLAS, May 19. (AP)—An unkissed negro husband, angered because he did not receive the usual osculation on his return from a fishing trip, shot Daisy Rhodes, negress, last night, after dropping an infant he was holding.

The woman was in a hospital here Thursday. The man was holding the baby, when he suddenly dropped it to the floor, whipped out a gun and began firing.

Hamilton To Speak At Business Council Lunch

W. B. Hamilton, general chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, will give a general resume of the work done by the Wichita Falls organization on the convention, with observations and comments on its success weekly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce business council at the Kemp Hotel, Friday at 12:15 o'clock. Others taking active part in the convention schedule will be called on for remarks, it was announced.

R. S. Regar, third assistant postmaster general; W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general and John W. Phelps, postmaster at Dallas, will be guests of the council at the luncheon, and will be introduced for brief addresses. H. J. Adair announced Thursday. All are in Wichita Falls attending the annual postmasters' convention.

Dr. A. M. Skeffington, representative of the Optometrists' association of America, will make a 10-minute address before the council on the purpose and achievements of that organization.

Horrace Robbins was in Dallas Thursday on business. He is expected in Wichita Falls Friday morning.
