

Kracker Krumb's Odd Bits Salvaged At Random

Another thing the town needs, according to some merchants, is a Dick Tracy "Crime Stopper's Club":

And, as the story goes, those youngsters who should be members of the crime stoppers—like Junior Tracy in the comic strip—are the very youngsters who need to be stopped.

We guess their "crime" would be called shop lifting, or maybe just sorta pilfering, or snitching—or maybe it's just plain stealing.

As the tale has been unraveled to us, boys of our town just kinda use the Mexican tactics of securing items from store counters.

They come in, several in a group. One of them is a customer, who calls for some item in stock. Generally it's an item that's stocked in the rear of the store.

This is usually done at an hour in the day when only one clerk is on duty at the store.

As the clerk goes about waiting on the customer, this leaves the other boys unwatched, and they're able to pick up items from the counters, possibly unnoticed.

Such items as golf balls, flash lights, etc., items that can be placed in their pockets or hidden in their clothing are taken.

Many stores have display counters on which are placed these small items. But why a youngster would want to snatch them doesn't quite add up unless it's just the boy in him.

Some of them have been caught and made to give up the merchandise they had stolen. Then the merchant would give them a "taking to" on where the road they'd chosen might lead to in the future.

"And you'd be surprised," they tell us, "at the boys who are doing that. Some are from the best families in our town."

It's not the value of the merchandise that hurts the merchant either, although on a certain "quiet days" enough of these items can be stolen that the business would be operated at a loss that day.

It's the idea that such an act upon the part of many of our beloved youngsters might grow, and grow into something bigger and more shameful.

It's not the monetary value of these items that tempts the youngsters, either, we believe. It seems to be more of a sport, with a certain feeling of accomplishment when they've gotten by with it.

And they're youngsters ranging in age from eight years to their early teens.

They're youngsters who know better, who have been taught better—whose parents, in most instances, would frail the living daylight out of them if they knew it.

It's a habit among them. And like most habits among grown-ups as well as youngsters, it sort to keep it from growing into something bigger and "worse" if you please.

It's a habit that could grow into bigger crimes—and we do believe it's a crime to "snitch" items from a store counter.

It could grow into crimes punishable by prison sentences. We're not saying it will, only that it could.

But the idea is that people who operate the stores in Munday are friends of these youngsters. If the boys needed these items and didn't have the money to pay for them, the merchant had rather give the things away than to see their young friends swipe them.

The boys are destroying the confidence which their adult

Bank Deposits Remain High

Although showing a slight decrease from the $3,803,000 shown on deposit March 31, the financial statement of the First National Bank of Munday, appearing in this issue, reflects the sound condition of this area, according to W. E. Braly, president.

The statement, published in response to a call made by the Comptroller of the Currency, Washington, shows total deposits of $3,735,181.50 at the close of business on June 30. Of this amount, $3,570,514.95 are demand deposits of individuals, partnerships and corporations.

Bank officials stated that deposits possibly soared above the $4 million mark during the peak of the wheat harvest, but farming expenses, etc., since that time have brought them back below four million.

The strong financial condition of the local bank, as shown in the statement, reflects the splendid service which it is rendering to its customers.

Wise County's Home Coming Is Set Aug. 14th

As usual, the old timers and friends will gather at Audubon, Texas (Wise County) on the second Sunday in August for an all-day affair.

Everyone is requested to bring a basket lunch which will be served under the new brush arbor which is now under construction, and will be air-conditioned to be hot in the summer and cold in the winter.

A new rest room has been built in the last few weeks.

There will probably be no preaching service this year, but the time will be given to visiting and renewing of old acquaintances. A short program will be given, also an introduction period, and a swift business session.

Ice water will be plentiful on the grounds. Come and meet again the old friends you knew twenty to forty years ago. The program will begin at ten o'clock.

Panhandle Area Is Stirred By The Murder Death Of Tex Thornton

Because Tex Thornton was a former Goree man and because of the interest many local people have in the case, The Times is running the following reprint from the Dallas Morning News which appeared on Monday, July 4th.

AMARILLO, Texas, July 2.—Amarillo has an old-fashioned, who-done-it murder to solve, one that reads like the opening half of a dime detective novel.

There is everything here for what police call a "good murder." A prominent, well-to-do man was found dead in a tourist court, his head bashed in and his shirt knotted around his neck.

The town rose in indignation. Some of the dead man's friends rode off into New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado to trace down the slim leads the case first provided. Amarillo newspapers dusted off their big type and printed editorials about the need for justice and an end to the Panhandle's easy-going way of punishing those who break the law.

But when it all boiled down, it showed the same thing police have seen before—the killers of Tex Thornton, the likable, steel-nerved and free-hearted oil well fire-fighter, would be found only when the methodical parts of the jig saw are put together and point to the guilt of a fool.

Maid Finds Body

Thornton was 57 years old a week ago Thursday when an Amarillo tourist court maid found his body. He had checked in the night before with a young couple he had picked up near Tucuman. Witnesses who saw them said the man and woman were both under twenty-two years old. He was stocky and short and she was pretty, of medium build and with reddish blond hair.

Thornton had picked them up on the way home from a business trip into New Mexico. They had a drink in a San Jon, N. M. bar. Thornton later called an Amarillo car dealer to report that his big black car was acting up. He didn't know if he would get home on schedule, and would the dealer call Mrs. Thornton and tell her? He would and did.

The trio, with Thornton in the back seat, checked into the tourist court at 8:20 p. m. Wednesday. The woman registered them in under the name "E. O. Johnson, Detroit." At 10 p. m. the couple left after asking a negro porter to help them push Thornton's car, which would not start after its engine was killed.

The next morning, the maid came to clean up the cabin and Thornton was found dead. His head looked like it had been struck with the grate off a nearby air-conditioner. Police have not yet recovered the instrument that made holes in his skull behind one ear and over one eye. There was an empty whiskey bottle on the table, a few empty beer cans scattered over the room. There were no signs of a struggle.

Carried Large Sums

Thornton was known to carry large sums of money—$2,000 to $3,000—at all times. But his pockets were picked clean and the diamonds which were his trademark were gone.

The only clue was a pair of checkered pants with the name "R. L. Leach" printed inside. Sheriff Paul Gaither has charged R. L. Leach with murder. Grand jury indictments have been returned against John and Jane Doe on the same charge.

Thornton's car had been driven into Dodge City, Kan., even before his body was found. Later the car was discovered abandoned in a Dodge City residential district. Thornton's pistol, a silvered .45 caliber, was found in some tall weeds a block away. There the trail grew cold.

(The Associated Press reported Saturday fresh leads involving two men were being investigated.)

(One was a 23-year-old man taken into custody in Albuquerque, N. M., and returned here. He was the roommate of a hitchhiker who claimed the trousers were his. The hitchhiker reported his suitcase and roommate disappeared at the same time. Los Angeles police are questioning the hitchhiker.)

(Police said the hitchhiker did not know the trousers were involved in the Thornton murder when he claimed them to be his.)

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, which entered the case when the car crossed a state line, the Potter County sheriff's department, the Amarillo police and the Range Riders, an honorary horseman's organization in Amarillo all entered the chase.

But police believe the big leads are gone now. From here on, it is the slow, painful work of checking everything that comes in.

Thornton's friends felt that it was an ignominious way for the hulking 6-foot-6 to die.

He had been brought up in the oil fields and had made himself famous by living with danger. He had been afraid of nothing.

Once working a fire in Hutchinson County, he dropped five nitro-glycerin charges down a well. A pocket of gas rumbled and Thornton knew the nitro was coming back. He calmly caught all five cans as the well spit them out. There was enough nitro in each to blow up the whole countryside, and a hundred well hands with it.

His friends say Tex Thornton was just that kind of guy. Someone asked him once if he didn't worry about the dangers of handling high explosives. He replied, "A feller has just one time to die."

When Amarillo opened its Waddy Week celebration Friday, Thornton's riderless horse led the parade. Tex Thornton had had his one time to die, but death hadn't come the way the big guy had planned.

Be careful. Obey state and local traffic rules.

Many Texans Are Taking Blue Cross And Blue Shield

More than 200,000 Texans are prepaying their medical-surgical care through the Blue Shield Plan at the end of June, reports W. R. McBee, executive director. "Membership reached 208,972 with 21,000 new members in June."

Texans led the nation in providing for hospital-medical-surgical care through their own initiative. They started the idea of prepayment almost 20 years ago, with the first hospital care plan, Blue Cross, which plan now protects 469,232 Texans and over 34 million Americans. The Texas Blue Shield Plan, corporately named Group Medical and Surgical Service, is only 4 years old.

For the 1,521 Texans who received medical-surgical care and the 5,337 who received hospital care, Texas hospitals and doctors received $404,043.24 last month. Cases were reported not only from the 380 Texas hospitals, but from far-away Egypt, Mexico.

With the June tabulation of members, Mr. McBee reports, the average Blue Cross family is 2.63 people, and there are twice as many man-and-wife memberships and seven times as many full family memberships as there are single-person members.

Matched Play Is Under Way In Golf Tourney

Busy days are ahead for golfers of three counties, as matched play in elimination matches of the Tri-County Golf Tournament got under way here Wednesday.

Roy Cook of Haskell won the driving contest Tuesday as he split the middle of the fairway for 239 yards.

A total of 81 players turned in qualifying scores, with these being bracketed in five flights following the Calcutta pool Tuesday. Players in the championship and first flights were sold at the auction.

Medalist honors went to Byron Shupee and Lindley Carter of Seymour and Joe Morrow of Munday in a three-way tie. Each turned in a qualifying score of 69.

The medalists advanced in the first play Wednesday. Results in the championship flight included: Byron Shupee over Tom Craddock, 5-4; Robert Hill over Gene Campbell, 1-up; Joe Morrow over Buck Everett, 1-up on 20 holes; Jeff Graham over J. B. Golden, Jr., 1-up on 20 holes; Lindley Carter over T. J. Hooser, 2-1; C. A. Wilson over A. V. Kemletz, 1-up; Chick Nolan over Trave Everett, 4-3; and Carlton Hill over Winston Blacklock, 5-4.

Miss Dorothy Perry returned to Washington, D.C., last Sunday after several days visit here with her sister, Mrs. J. E. Reeves.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mitchell returned last Friday from a two weeks vacation trip to New Mexico.

Gov. Beauford H. Jester, serving his second term as governor of Texas and fighter for state's rights and Texas tidelands, was found dead of natural causes in a sleeping car berth at Houston last Monday.

He died some time Sunday night on a train between Austin and Houston. He was enroute to Galveston for a physical check-up and a rest after the just-ended longest legislative session in history. A Pullman car porter found him as he went to awaken him.

Jester, 56, was serving in the sixth month of his second term as governor of Texas. Justice of Peace Tom Maes in an official inquest verdict said death was from natural causes.

Jester will be succeeded by 41-year-old Allan Shivers, serving his second term as lieutenant governor.

The body of Texas' governor laid in state in the senate chamber of the state capitol Tuesday, and a short funeral service was held at Austin Tuesday afternoon.

He was taken by plane to Corsicana, where funeral services were held at ten o'clock Wednesday morning.

LOCAL NEEDS FOR 1949

We're pulling for these needs in 1949. What will the year bring?

1. A modern street sweeper. Our paving cost us money, let's protect it!
2. Paving of road through Rhineland, and definite progress on Throckmorton road.
3. Completion of our drainage system. It's gonna rain one of these days.
4. An adequate waterworks system. This is a must for the continued growth of Munday.
5. Building of more housing projects. There continues to be a housing shortage.
6. Recreational facilities for our youth of today—our citizens of tomorrow.

GET IN THE CORNERS

The hot summer days, with their special fire hazards, are with us. It's time, if we haven't done it already, for everyone to "clean-up" their property in the interest of both safety and attractiveness.

The spring clean-up campaigns, in which thousands of communities participate, are a fine American tradition. Buildings are painted. Yards are groomed. Useless shacks are torn down. Overgrown vacant lots—which have been the starting points of some of the country's worst fires—are mowed and cleared. It's amazing what this sort of face lifting does to a town's appearance.

From the fire safety standpoint, the clean-up mustn't be confined to the surface of things. Some of the prettiest homes, for instance, offer fire a constant invitation. Most of us have some instincts of the magpie—we store and keep all kinds of junk, from 1930 newspapers to clothes and furniture and various knickknacks we'll never use again. The result is crowded attics and basements and closets, all set for a destructive fire.

Another very common hazard lies in the improper handling of storage of paint, solvents and other inflammables. Fire likes this, too.

Finally, during the warm season, get your heating plant ready for the cold months that lie ahead. These may seem small things—but they will prevent an amazing number of fires.

A GOOD BUY

Food is a bargain!

That may seem to be a wild statement, in view of all postwar complaints about the high cost of living. However, the figures show that the American people pay less for food in relation to costs, than almost anything else.

Take a representative meat market as an example. The gross margin runs in the neighborhood of 26 per cent. And that term "gross margin" represents the spread between the cost of goods to the dealer and the retail selling price. Thus it must cover every store operating expense—from rent to wages—as well as whatever profit the butcher is able to earn. When you consider the heavy expenses involved in carrying on any business today, 26 per cent seems a pretty small figure.

Meat, in fact, provides an exceptionally good example of economy and efficiency all along the line from the farm and range, through the packing house, and to the retail store. If beef on the hoof is selling for 26 cents a pound, for instance, the packer pays $260 for a 1000-pound steer. He turns the steer into 600 pounds of beef, which he sells to the retailer for $252—eight dollars less than he paid for the animal. He doesn't make up his seeming deficit through magic, however. The value of inedible by-products, such as hides, facts, hair and so on, bring him sufficient revenue to cover the difference and make a very small overall profit.

The food industry, in all its many phases, is a typical part of an economic structure which does a remarkably good job for the consumer.

SMALL SLICE OF PIE

Last year was an exceptionally good one in the farm machinery business. Sales hit a peak, and wages and profits were a excellent levels.

One of the largest manufacturers in this important field had sales of $945,000,000—the great-in went for materials and supplies to other concerns which provided the things it had to have for it was spent.

First of all 57.2 cents out of each dollar taken in went for materials and supplies to other concerns which provided the things it had to have to carry on its business.

Payments to and on behalf of the company's employees—wages, social security taxes, group life insurance, etc.—accounted for 33.9 cents.

Taxes, Federal, state and local, require 4.2 cents.

The balance, when all these essential bills were met, was profit. And it came to just 4.7 cents—less than a nickel—out of that typical sales dollar. In 1941, by contrast, profits amounted to 8.3 cents on the dollar.

Finally, in 1948, the stockholders of the company didn't divide up all the profits in the form of cash. They received about half of it. The other half went back into the business for needed improvements.

The point is that even in an unusually good business year the stockholder generally gets about the smallest cut out of industry's financial pie.

Weekly Health LETTER

of Texas
Issued by Dr. Geo. W. Cox
M. D., State Health Officer

AUSTIN—A statewide educational campaign for the control of venereal diseases, which will be carried out throughout the summer and possibly into the fall, has been announced by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, who states that the public will be reached by means of radio, newspapers, movies, and lectures by health authorities.

"While it is true that great advances have been made recently in the control of these diseases, nevertheless a lack of full information on the part of the public has hindered the complete success of the program," Dr. Cox said.

"There has been a steady decline in the incidence of new cases reported, in infant and adult mortality rates, and in admissions to mental institutions due to syphilis, since 1938 when intensive measures for the control of venereal diseases were initiated. But this decline has not been great enough," Dr. Cox added, "and this is partly attributable to a lack of accurate information and the general apathy concerning venereal diseases which followed the termination of the war."

"The spread of many completely false ideas about these diseases and their treatment can also lead to a feeling of complacency and the belief that a patient can diagnose his own case, and treat it with self-medication. This is a particularly dangerous untruth only a competent doctor can diagnose and treat venereal diseases, and it is the purpose of this educational campaign to fully inform the public of the actual dangers of venereal diseases, and

Knox Prairie Philosopher Says That Four-Row Cultivator Is Just As Tiring As One-Row Cultivator

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller's creek, seems to be about normal this week, the following letter reveals.

Dear editor:

I was out here the other day watchin' things grow and listenin' to the drone of tractors runnin' on my neighbors' farms and wonderin' if my cork was goin' under from the pull of a fish big enough to be worth the effort of yankin' up on the pole, ain't no use exertin' yourself unnecessarily in this kind of weather, and I got to thinkin' what my neighbor, the energetic one, had to say yesterday about farm machinery.

"What will they bring out next?" he wanted to know, still admirin' and covetin' a set of four-row tractor equipment he'd seen in town that mornin'.

"First they had a walkin' plow, and I can remember when they brought out the one-row ridin' plow and I thought a man with one of them really had something," he went on.

"Then when they brought out a two-row ridin' cultivator, the fellow with the one-row outfit looked up and said the other fellow really had something.

"Then when they brought out tractors, with three-row equipment, the fellow with the two-row mule-drawn stuff was really envious.

"Now they got tractors with four-row equipment. What do you reckon they'll bring out next?" He walked off in sort of a dream, like he thought manufacturers was devotin' their lives to makin' farmin' a snap.

Now understand I pride myself on being progressive, ain't never yet stood in the way of anybody who wanted to work harder, ain't never envied my neighbor's flashy car or 18 months time-payments, but my suspicions is that most folks are kiddin' themselves about progress.

The way I look at it is, if you are still workin' from sun-up to sun-down. There may be some folks who can get some satisfaction out of goin' up four rows and down another four, but to me there ain't no basic difference between that and goin' up one row and down another. One may be produc'n more stuff than the other, but both is equally tired when they climb off the seat at sun-down and if the bottom falls out of the price, which ain't un-heard of in farmin', one ain't much ahead of the other. Now if you used a four-row tractor to get through quicker and go fishin', it might be different, but everybody I know with four-row outfits has to work more land to justify the added expense and wind up puttin' in the same hours as the one-row farmer.

Most folks, includin' those in town, have lots of conveniences and contraptions, but in the final analysis the total amount of work necessary to make a living and pay for the contraptions ain't been reduced very much by gadgets.

For a year in and year out proposition, to get the maximum out of every day, I like my system better—just let things slide. Yours faithfully, J. A.

Imagine, if you can, what this world would be like if people had no faith in one another. Many of us would have to live within our incomes.

HIGHWAY POST OFFICE

To speed the mail between points not served by regular common carriers, the government has ordered a fleet of these new highway post offices. Every facility of a railway mail car, sorting tables, pigeon holes, and bag racks are all a part of the complete facilities found aboard one of these modern mail coaches that travel the highways instead of the rails. The White coach shown at the top has just recently been put into service in the Midwest. Engineers of The Timken Roller Bearing Company were called in to design the bearings that will enable the new post offices to roll with a minimum of maintenance.

The lower picture shows the interior of one of the new rubber-shod mail coaches with clerks sorting the mail enroute. The mail does go through and now it goes through faster to the communities served by the new highway post offices.

Cotton Research Laboratory Slated For Fall Completion

AUSTIN—Texas cotton merchandising methods from a cotton research laboratory is scheduled for completion at the University of Texas this fall.

The laboratory, to be equipped with the latest scientific instruments, is part of a broad program of the Cotton Research Committee of Texas, composed of presidents of Texas A & M College, Texas Technological College and the University of Texas. The merchandising portion of the research program is carried on at the University.

Research under way is designed to help merchants make economical use of instruments now available for determining qualities of the cotton fiber important in merchandising, such as length, uniformity of length, strength, fineness and maturity.

By using instruments as aids in classing cotton, researchers believe, it should be possible to reduce rejections and arbitrations, both costly to merchants and mills. Scientifically-selected lists of cotton are more uniform resulting in better yarn strength and fewer "breaks" on the spinning frame.

Temperature and humidity affect cotton fibers, so the laboratory will be air-conditioned for control of both. 70 degrees Fahrenheit and 65 per cent relative humidity being considered the experimental standard.

What this country needs is a good plan where we can keep on spending all the money that we are spending now and at the same time reduce the taxes back to the 1935 level.

It's a pretty good sign that the honeymoon is over when the bride starts complaining about the noise hubby makes getting breakfast.

Lynn Larry Strickland of Ft. Worth spent from Thursday until Monday here with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Strickland.

Windy Sure "Stopped The Show"!

The other night a bunch of us were over at Judge Cunningham's watching a swell vaudeville program on his new television set. It came in fine, but just once, the screen got a little streaky.

Before the Judge could touch the knob to bring it into focus, old Windy Taylor starts fooling around with the antenna connection. "I can fix that!" he says.

Windy fixed it all right. He "stopped the show" for us, and Buzz Ellis had to come over and do a $20 repair job. I understand Windy feels so bad, that he's paying the bill and has apologized to the Judge for acting so smart.

From where I sit, it pays to practice a little restraint whenever we get the urge to meddle. Whether it's television or a person's right to enjoy a temperate glass of sparkling beer now and then—let's get a good clear "picture" of the real situation before we cause more harm than good.

MORE U. S. COTTON NEEDED IN EUROPE
To furnish their people with the same per capita clothing as pre-war, European mills would need about half a million more bales of cotton than they probably will be able to secure thru ECA and all other sources, the National Cotton Council said today.

Lack of cotton is the principal limitation to European cotton textile industry recovery, according to Council representatives recently returned from investigating the European market situation. The Council spokesman said that in Europe, as elsewhere in the world, recovery of textile production will depend on the quantities of U. S. cotton which can be obtained. It is estimated that the total supplies of foreign cotton probably will be six million bales short of meeting anticipated world consumption demands.

FARM NEWS

from the County Agricultural Conservation Committee

Sheet Erosion

Have you skimmed the cream off your farm?

In asking this question of the farmers of Knox County, Emmett Partridge, Chairman of the County Agricultural Conservation Committee, says that too often the "cream has been skimmed off"—or rather the richest part of the soil has been washed or blown away.

Sheet erosion, the most serious kind of erosion because it takes the best part of the soil without leaving an obvious trail of evidence behind, has done much more damage than gully erosion, Mr. Partridge said.

An indication of how sheet erosion destroys a farm almost without notice is seen in the old idea that rocks are "pushed up" to the surface of the land. Actually, says the chairman, instead of the rocks being "pushed up", the soil being washed away leaving the rocks exposed.

Muddy water is the best evidence of sheet erosion. Often that muddy water is the best part of the topsoil. The part that is readily carried away in the run-off from rain or melting snow, is the part that has the highest concentration of humus and essential minerals.

Single cropping and too much land in cash crops year after year breaks down the "popcorn ball" structure of the soil leaving it in condition for quick and excessive erosion. A little of the surface of the whole field may be moved off in just a few rains. Farmers are increasingly realizing that when this happens it doesn't take long to lose a good share of the life-sustaining top layer of soil.

By encouraging farmers to plant more grass and legumes and to use more lime and fertilizers to increase the growth of grass and legumes, the Agricultural Conservation Program is helping to check sheet erosion and build the soil for continued abundant but balanced production.

Urges Grass In Place of Surpluses

Instead of piling up wasteful surpluses in cribs, bins, cellars or warehouses, why not store them in the soil? The question is asked by Emmett Partridge, Chairman of the Knox County Agricultural Conservation Committee, who points out that the crop reports now indicate that when the crops are harvested this fall there may be actual surpluses in a number of major crops.

And in most cases, the chairman said, there is no relief in turning to some other cash crop. Almost without exception a few acres shift by many farmers will result in surpluses of the other crops.

As the chairman explains, most farmers can't afford and it is not in the national interest to leave the land idle since it grows up to weeds and becomes a menace to the rest of the farm land. About the only alternative is to seed the land to adapted grasses and legumes, thus building up the soil for future production. And the grass that holds the soil and builds up humus, at the same time can furnish feed for the livestock products which are still needed.

Mr. Partridge makes these observations in urging farmers to consider carefully the problems which may make adjustments necessary to keep agriculture "on an even keel." Too often he explains, lower prices result in increased production of crops already in surplus in the effort to meet fixed costs. It results in a vicious circle of increased surpluses, lower prices and reduced income until the farmer is finally forced out. Production in line with consumer needs should be the goal instead of using up soil fertility, seed fertilizers, labor and equipment to turn out excess food and fiber.

Through the Agricultural Conservation Program, the chairman explains, farmers may obtain assistance in seeding grasses and legumes and in obtaining lime, phosphate and potash to improve growing conditions for these conserving crops.

Pat Moreland, who is executive secretary of the State Restaurant Association, is a versatile individual. He has been a pastor; he has written excellent poetry and he has been active in political affairs.

Some years ago, he was going to make a speech in an East Texas town on behalf of a friend of his who was running for Governor. Mooreland was told that he would be introduced by one of the leading attorneys of the town. "Let's hope he'll be reasonably sober," someone who knew the lawyer remarked.

Moreland arrived and he and the attorney went to the square, where a large crowd had gathered. The introducer, in presenting Moreland, reached heights of oratory seldom attained in this prosaic age and concluded with:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are going to have the privilege of hearing one of the truly brilliant and distinguished sons of Texas; a man who has achieved greatness in many fields; an eloquent genius whose name is a household word, known throughout the length and breadth of Texas; infants esp it in their cradles; it is on the hearts and lips of all. I now present to you the Honorable—"

He hesitated, then said, "The Honorable—", then leaning over to Moreland he asked, in a lower one but which carried clearly over the loud speaker to everyone in the audience:

"Youn man, what in the h— did you say your name was?"

According to Mark Twain, Satan told a newcomer in the infernal regions, "The trouble with you Chicago people is that you think you are the best people down here when the fact is you are merely the most numerous."

And it was Twain who said, "The man with a new idea is a crank—until the idea succeeds."

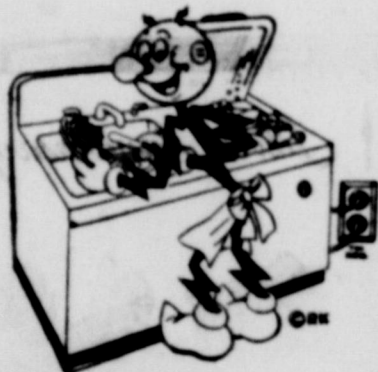

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Lain and children visited with Mrs. Lain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Bowen, and other relatives in Abilene last Sunday.

A PENNY-- for your thoughts

A bigger bargain
you couldn't seek—
A penny tells time for about a week!

Here's the answer to a housewife's wishes—
One penny will wash
six loads of dishes!

Four pennies a year
for Father's shaving!
Can you imagine a greater saving?

OF COURSE,
it's Electric!

Yes, even the lowly penny can buy you a lot of convenience and service—when you spend it for electric service. For there's plenty of penny wisdom in living the electric way—easily, comfortably, healthfully. Though electric service is just about the smallest item in your family budget, what else does so much—for so little?

WOMEN TO ENROLL IN PEACETIME NAVY
NEW ORLEANS—The Navy will begin for the first time July 1 to take women into its peacetime reserve enlisted forces direct from civilian life.

Eighth Naval District headquarters here said today that women high school graduates between the ages of 18 and 40 who have no children below 18 years of age will be eligible.

Until the new order only former members of the WAVES were accepted.

The skirted contingent of naval reservists will be enlisted at Navy recruiting stations, naval reserve training centers,

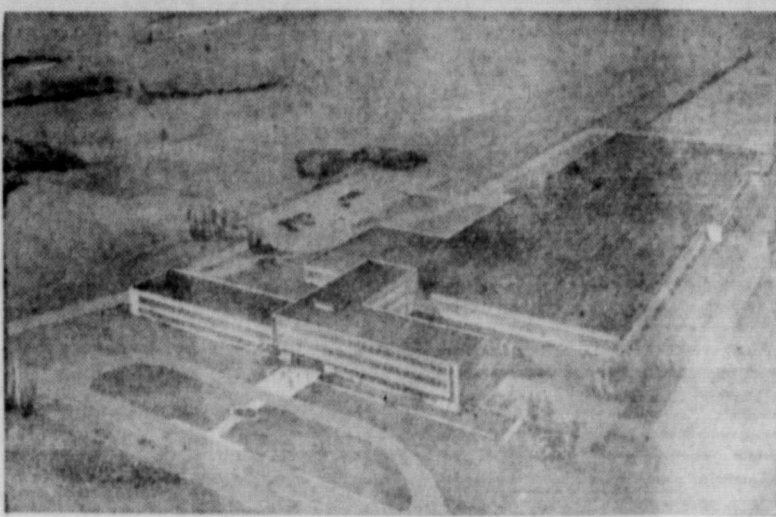

Easy To Rid Hogs Of Lice

Times have changed in the curing of mange and lice in hogs. It's different now. It's easy for farmers to rid their hogs of these pests.

Some years back, hog raisers had to cook up a scalding pot dip of lime sulphur. It took three such dips, 10 to 14 days apart to cure cases of mange or naval air stations and by reserve officers who operate as volunteer recruiters in most cities.

Multi-Million Dollar Research Program

Artist's drawing of new research laboratory near Detroit

DETROIT—Dearborn Motors Corp. announced a multi-million dollar research and development program in farm equipment. Focal point of the activity will be the new laboratory and general offices now being erected near Detroit at a cost of $2½ million. Officials of the Ford Tractor and Dearborn Farm Equipment company said the research activities will include studies of existing machinery, as well as development of equipment for farm jobs not yet mechanized.

lice, says E. M. Regenbrecht, extension swine husbandman of A. & M. College.

All that's necessary today is dip or spray the infested hogs with a mixture of BHC powder and soft water. Since this is a poisonous material, it's important that the mixture be of the right strength. The information on the BHC container or the local county agent will give you the exact amount of wettable powder to mix with the water, says Regenbrecht.

One thorough spraying or dipping will kill all mange eggs and mites, as well as the eggs and the adult of the louse.

BHC has a very offensive odor and flavor, so don't treat any hogs with it that you figure on sending to market in the next 30 days. There's a good chance the BHC flavor may show up in the meat.

There's another new drug that seems to be just as good for killing hog mange and lice—it's chlordane. Mix a half pound of 40 per cent wettable powder with 10 gallons of soft water. One good treatment with this mixture is usually enough for a good control of mange and lice. DDT will kill the lice, but it won't bother the mange at all, says Regenbrecht.

These chlordane, DDT and BHC mixtures are all good for controlling flies, he adds. For fly control, spray the barn walls, fences, and other places where the flies gather. However, avoid spraying hog feed water and feed troughs. These are poisons, and should not be eaten

The number of tractors in the United States has more than doubled, and the number of motor trucks on farms is up 82 per cent from 1940 figures. The value of all autos, measured in 1942 dollars, was down one-third of the South's total cash income. Lint brought 1½ billion dollars, and cottonseed another quarter billion.

Hens in the laying flock that show a shrunk, dried-up comb, yellow beak, new feathers yellow shanks and yellow vents should be culled and sold. A continuous culling job will pay any poultryman good dividends.

To provide a place for the hot iron and to keep the ironing board cover from being scorched, tack a piece of asbestos paper on the ironing board where the iron is usually placed.

In a recent survey, taken to find out why people are so extravagant, up comes this answer. There are thousands of ways to spend money but only one way to save.

by hogs, the swine husbandman

If you were going to talk to young men and women who are going out into the world after completing school, what would you say? Here is what your columnist told graduating classes this season:

The question uppermost in your minds probably is, Is there opportunity? Yes, greater than ever before. Look at the tremendous employment in the United States, with salaries and wages high, and a standard of living that is the highest ever enjoyed by the rank and file of any country.

Next, perhaps you are wondering, Where is opportunity? Is it away off in New York and Chicago? Yes—but there the competition is of the cut-throat variety. Opportunity is right here in your home town. Opportunity is everywhere there are people who want services and products.

Charles Kessler was a pilot instructor during the war. As he flew a plane made of aluminum, he thought, "This is wonderful material, so light and yet so strong. Other things could be made of it." As he flew around he noticed many sagging gates on farms and ranches, so he thought, "Why not a gate made of aluminum?"

So after the war, he and several other veterans started a factory. And where do you suppose they located it? In Mineral Wells, which we think of primarily as a health and pleasure resort. And, today their aluminum gates are in service on the King Ranch, Houston, Fat Stock Show, Chicago stockyards, farms and ranches all over the nation and are being shipped to South America and the islands of the Pacific.

Kessler found his opportunity in a small city and his experience is typical of that of other men with imagination and energy.

I stopped in Fairfield at a cafe recently for breakfast and they brought out a platter with five hot biscuits and five pats of butter. An I ate 'em all.

friends have placed in them. And when you've destroyed the confidence of one person, you've thrown away something very beautiful in this art of living among people.

We've been asked to "krumble some krackers" about this practice the boys of the own are making. So there they are, all krumbled up and ready for digesting.

Think it over, boys. Don't lose your friends, be they young or old. There'll never come a time when you don't need friends, and there may come a time when you'll need all the friends you have. You never have too many friends.

Those little items on the store counters cost your friends, the merchants, money. They must sell them at a profit to stay in business. Let them sell them. Don't swipe them!
