Second opportunity--23 years later

Arnold La Fuente nails down sub-flooring in preparation for new tile at McCaslin Lumber Co. This part of the lumber company's restoration work was La Fuente's second opportunity at the job. Twenty-three years ago, he installed the tile he is now replacing. "If this floor lasts as long as the last one, someone else may have to replace it next time," said La Fuente.

Morales poses new way to elect judges

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Attorney General Dan Morales said Friday he will propose a new way to select state district judges in response to a federal court ruling that the current judicial election system is unconstitutional. Morales said a wide range of options will be considered before he submits the plan to the Legislature in two months.

On Jan. 27, a three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the countywide election of state district judges discriminates against minorities. The judgment would affect eight counties that together make up more than 40 percent of the state's district judges. Those counties are Harris, Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar, Jefferson, Lubbock, Ector, and Midland.

The plaintiffs have argued that dividing the counties into single-member districts would result in more minority representation.

But Morales said other options, such as non-partisan elections or an appointed judiciary, also would be considered.

Minority plaintiffs in the lawsuit have generally opposed an appointed system. Representatives of the two lead plaintiffs - the League of United Latin American Citizens and the Houston Lawyers Association - did not immediately return telephone calls from The Associated Press.

Last week, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock urged Morales to settle the lawsuit, while others urged him to immediately appeal the ruling.

But Morales said he wants a proposal to go through the Legislature.

He agreed with the plaintiffs that the current system is unfair.

In Harris County, for example, minorities constitute 42 percent of the population. But only 8.5 percent of the district court judges are minorities. In Dallas County, minorities make up 37 percent of the population, but only 13.5 percent of the judges.

"I believe that we do the people of Texas no favor in prolonging the inequity and injustice of the status quo," Morales said. "The people of Texas deserve reform and they deserve reform now."

Clinton debating cutting two big science projects

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton may cut spending on two of the nation's most expensive science projects, Space Station Freedom and a huge atom smasher in Texas, but the White House says he won't scrap them.

The statement late Friday came after congressional sources said Clinton's budget director, Leon Panetta, proposed abandoning the $30 billion space station and the $8.2 billion superconducting super collider.

Asked during a White House photo session about reports that the two projects were being eliminated, Clinton said only: "That's not true."

A congressional aide said Panetta made his proposal during last weekend's Cabinet retreat and that Clinton asked for more study of the issue.

"The president was not comfortable with a budget that did not contain (the) station," the aide said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

White House Communications Director George Stephanopoulos said late Friday that Clinton's "that's not true" applied only to whether the projects would be scrapped entirely. He said it was possible that both would be cut, but added that Clinton "is not canceling the super collider or the space station."

"The president is looking at all areas of the budget for appropriate cuts," he said.

The two projects are among the costliest science programs the government finances and thus have come in for criticism from Panetta and others.

Clinton's search for AG on again after Wood declines

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton, having lost a second prospective attorney general over her hiring of an illegal immigrant, is pressing ahead in a search for a nominee without "a Zoe Baird problem."

"He is going to go forward, we're going to have an attorney general," Clinton spokesman George Stephanopoulos said Friday after federal Judge Kimba Wood withdrew from consideration.

Wood was Clinton's expected choice for the post, although she had not been officially nominated. She took her name out of contention, saying her baby sitter had been an illegal alien for seven years.

In a statement, Wood said she had "fulfilled every legal requirement with respect to the employment of our baby sitter." And a senior administration official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Wood did not appear to have broken any laws.

The Manhattan jurist's withdrawal was followed within hours by the disclosure that as a student in the 1960s she had trained briefly as a Playboy Club bunny in London. An administration official called the Playboy training "irrelevant."

Two finalists believed to be still under review for the Justice Department post are both men - Washington lawyer Charles F.C. Ruff and former Virginia Gov. Gerald Baliles.

However, an administration official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Friday night that Clinton might widen his search to include other female candidates.

Wood's announcement stunned a White House still reeling from the withdrawal on similar grounds two weeks ago of Clinton's first choice, corporate attorney Zoe Baird.

Richards not sure funding measure will pass in time

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards said Friday she doesn't know if the Legislature will pass a proposed constitutional amendment to meet a court order for school funding reform.

"I can't call it," said Richards, a Democrat. She referred to opposition from House Republicans to a proposed amendment to redistribute some local school property tax money.

"I can't be optimistic, and I don't want to be pessimistic," Richards said. "I just hope that these legislators can keep in their mind that this is not a game here. This is the schoolchildren of Texas. It's the future economy of this state."

The Texas Supreme Court has given lawmakers until June 1 to come up with a constitutional way to equalize funding among property-rich and poor school districts.

Leaders have said a proposed amendment must pass the Legislature by Feb. 20 to go on the May 1 ballot for voter approval, beating the court deadline. A proposed constitutional amendment requires two-thirds support from lawmakers, and Republicans number 58 in the 150-member House.

Richards said the state may have to try passing a school funding law, which requires only a majority vote of lawmakers, instead of amending the constitution.

But she said that going that route, "It's sort of a crapshoot whether or not the courts are going to say that you've done what you need to do."

Some battles seen over Governor's appointees

AUSTIN (AP) - Both Republicans and Democrats vow not to let partisan politics influence the confirmation of Gov. Ann Richards' appointees to state boards and commissions.

But most agree that battles are in sight over some of the approximately 650 nominees the Texas Senate must confirm.

During the last regular legislative session in 1991, the Democratic-controlled Senate "busted" two high profile Republicans who were appointed by lame-duck Gov. Bill Clements, also a Republican.

Now Richards, a Democrat, faces the prospect of guiding her appointees through a Senate in which Republicans have made big gains.

The new Senate has 13 Republicans, an increase of five since 1991. But more importantly, the Senate Republicans are over the one-third limit in the 31-member chamber. The Texas Constitution requires a two-thirds Senate majority to confirm a governor's appointment.

Republicans say they aren't looking to even the score. "I'll be disappointed if the Republicans treat the governor's nominations as a place for gratuitous violence," said Sen. David Sibley, R-Waco, vice chairman of the committee that reviews the appointees.

"I haven't heard any Republican senator say, 'Let's just show them who the boss is here.'"

Senate Nominations Chairman Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, also hopes the committee can work without partisan bickering, but he predicted there will be confrontations.

"There are always fights on this committee regardless of who the governor is. If it gets into a fight, that's why we have this democratic form of government; duke it out and find your votes," he said.

The committee already has recommended approval of dozens of appointments with little dissension. The exception so far has been Richards' selection of Mary Scott Nabers to the Texas Railroad Commission.

Among other appointees scheduled for review who are expected to be contested are Insurance Board member Allene Evans; Amy Johnson, general counsel of the Office of Public Insurance Counsel; and John Hall, chairman of the Texas Water Commission.

City of Hereford, Chamber of Commerce reach new agreement

Motel tax: past, present, new direction

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

What was all the fuss about on the use of the city's motel tax revenues? That's the question some readers were still asking this week after the City of Hereford approved a new agreement with Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce for administering the fund.

At the time the issue was being discussed, The Brand probably didn't adequately explain state guidelines for such a tax, when it started here, who has to pay it and to whom, how the funds can be spent, and other background information. Following is a more comprehensive report on the topic:

A hotel occupancy tax was initiated by the State of Texas in 1959 when the state imposed a 3 percent tax on the charge for a hotel or motel room. The hotel collected the tax and sent it to the state comptroller. The state now charges a 6 percent tax.

The Texas legislature first provided cities with the authority to levy a hotel tax in 1965. It started with a 3 percent limit, increased to 4 percent in 1981 and was raised to a maximum of 7 percent in 1983. More than 266 Texas cities levied a local hotel occupancy tax in 1988, generating $96 million in revenue.

The City of Hereford passed an ordinance establishing the tax, effective Jan. 1, 1976. State law provides the city can name a person, another governmental entity, or a private organization. The city contracted with the chamber as the entity to administer one-sixth of the funds for advertising and promotion of tourism, and the City retained the balance.

The amount to the Chamber was increased to 75 percent of the tax revenues in March 1981, and the city kept 25 percent. These funds must be kept in a separate account so there is no co-mingling of revenues. The city's portion must also be used to advertise the city or promote tourism, and a record of those expenditures is required. These funds cannot be used for general governmental expense.

The amount of the motel tax revenues has generally ranged from about $10,000 to $20,000 a year. The proposed 1993 budget submitted by the chamber was estimated at slightly more than $17,000 as its portion to administer for promotional activities.

This budget was drawn up before the city changed the amount to 100 percent of the motel tax revenues.

The budget included administration and operating expenses of about $5,000 and special event promotion of about $4,000. The ongoing promotional programs include the Town & Country Jubilee, conference promotion, National Cowgirl Hall of Fame, community and area video update, and playoff game promotion.

Other expenses of about $6,500 included billboard lease for Cowgirl Hall of Fame, billboard permits and painting, directory advertising, printing costs of promotional material, folders for tourist promotion, tourism education, and organizational dues.

Over the years, both the chamber and the city apparently became lax in the reporting guidelines. City Commissioner James McDowell, a former chamber board director, initiated a study of the matter last year, and proposed changes in the administration of the funds. McDowell, in a commission meeting, stated that "contrary to what some people say, I do not have a personal vendetta against Mike Carr, I am simply questioning the process--I think we need new ideas and a more open process."

A proposal for an "independent committee" to administer half of the funds failed in a 3-3 city commission vote in January. Then the city and chamber reached an agreement and the city approved it unanimously last Monday.

Under the new agreement approved this week, the Chamber will receive 100 percent of the motel tax revenues. The agreement stipulates that 50 percent of the funds will be used by the Chamber for operating expenses and ongoing Chamber promotional activities.

The other 50 percent will be administered by the Chamber through a new Convention & Visitors Board. The makeup of this board shall be: one city commissioner, one chamber director, one member from the chamber tourism committee, and one member each--selected jointly by the city and the chamber--from the motel industry, restaurant industry, retail merchants, and Hereford Beautification Alliance.

This board will accept applications for funds and the determination of all requests will be recorded and the forms maintained for future reference. The Chamber will submit quarterly reports of all fund activities within 30 days of the close of each quarter.

The Chamber's executive vice president will be an ex-officio member of the Convention and Visitors Board and will coordinate and administer the maintenance of records and disbursement of funds.

And, finally, the budget for expenditures of motel tax funds will be submitted to and adopted by the City Commission prior to the start of the Chamber's fiscal year, as required by state law.

County commissioners meet Monday

Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court will hold a regular session Monday beginning at 9 a.m. in the county courthouse. Items on the agenda include: Open bids for county depository; appoint financial secretary for Extension Office; consider tax abatement for Panhandle Milling expansion; consider no-smoking rule at Bull Barn for Mid Plains Pioneer Association meeting; and consider ban on smoking in the courthouse.

Windbreak seedlings available

The Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District is taking orders for the 1992-93 windbreak tree seedlings program. The trees are supplied by the Texas Forest Service and the Colorado Forest Service. Landowners or operators have their choice of more than 30 varieties of shrubs, hardwoods and evergreen trees for their windbreaks, said Jim Crownover, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service. Planting trees near your home will help ease the greenhouse effect as well as reduce your fuel costs. A well-cared-for windbreak is priceless in adding beauty to a farmstead or home and will enhance the value of your property as well, Crownover said. When planning a windbreak, consider the number of rows needed for an effective windbreak. One row on the windward side will be most effective in providing protection, said Crownover. The success of a windbreak can come at planting time. When planting stock, remember the roots must be kept moist. Exposure to air or sunlight can lead to plant death. Contact the conservation district or local soil conservation office at 315 W. Third St. or phone 364-6995.

Senior parents to meet Monday

The senior parents will meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the community center.

Senior prom and related activities will be discussed.

All parents of seniors are invited to attend.

Incidents, arrests mark police report

Hereford police arrested two people on Friday and investigated seven incidents during the day. A 36-year-old female was arrested in the 600 block of Star for DWI and a 17-year-old male was arrested in the 200 block of Star for displaying fictitious license plates. In incident reports, two cases of harassment by phone were reported, one in the 1700 block of Plains and one in the 500 block of Sycamore Street. A civil standby was reported in the 1200 block of West 15th Street. Officers also investigated a theft, which was reported in the 300 block of North Schley. A suspicious vehicle was reported in the 900 block of Cherokee and a terrorist threat was reported in the 1300 block of East First. Officers also were called to an assault with a motor vehicle (domestic violence), which was reported in the 600 block of Irving; no charges were filed. Four citations were issued, a minor accident was reported with no injuries and the fire department was dispatched to the 600 block of Avenue G in reference to a house fire.

Students in junior high school want to know the WHY of what they are learning. Parents can help by encouraging family discussions on a variety of subjects and make a point of tracking down the facts behind general statements. Your youngster will enjoy airing his opinion and will be learning to think...to check the facts.

Working at school on thinking skills are students in Mrs. Buckley's class as they respond to "imponderables" for daily writing prompts. They have pondered over questions such as, "Why do fly swatters have holes?" "Why don't woodpeckers get headaches?" and "Why are peaches fuzzy?" Students are not allowed to respond with "I don't know," but instead, must consider possible explanations for the imponderable questions. Students often respond with unusual and extremely creative ideas, and frequently, they surprise themselves by answering the imponderable correctly. Imponderables not only cause students to think, but also provide a source of knowledge concerning the world around them.

Students in Mrs. Bone and Mrs. Sims English classes have viewed the classic movie, Frankenstein. They have written their own monster stories after seeing the Frankenstein monster. The stories are wonderful. Be sure you ask to see your student's writing!

The library has been hosting a Book Fair and students and teachers have had the opportunity to "latch on to" some good books.

Students who will lead the Pledge to the Flag from February 8 to February 18 are Jeffrey Brown, Missy Lemons, Chris Casarez, Jesse Salazar, Keesha Kimball, Erin Whipple, and Nancy Cepeda.

History Fair participants are busy gathering information for their projects. They will be rushed to complete their work on time as the local fair will be during the first week in March. Communication is the theme for this year.

If you hear someone say they go to Content Mastery or GAP, you should know that they are participating in Growth Achievement Program. This program aids the students in their classes by their receiving help on a one-on-one situation as needed. Mrs. Mines and Mrs. Morris come early, work through lunch periods, and will stay late, if the need arises. Mrs. Kerr also assists in the GAP room during the mornings. Students in this program are encouraged to be more independent and to use their thinking skills!

WTSU notes

STUDENT RECITAL...J. David Finnell, a senior music education major from Plano, will present his Senior Horn Recital at 4 p.m. today in the Mary Moody Northern Recital Hall on the WTSU campus.

Admission to the recital is free, and the public is invited to attend. Seating is on a first-come, first-served basis.

RECRUIT-A-THON...The WTSU Student Foundation will sponsor its annual Recruit-A-Thon beginning today. Recruit-A-Thon involves students, faculty and staff members calling prospective students to assess their needs regarding their decision about higher education.

MEADOWS FOUNDATION GUEST...The Meadows Foundation and the Amarillo Symphony, in conjunction with the WTSU Department of Music and Dance, will host a voice master class Thursday, Feb. 18. Debra Dixon will conduct the class at 3:30 p.m. in the Recital Hall of Mary Moody Northern Hall. The class is a part of the 1992-93 Master Series at West Texas State University.

FACULTY NOTES...Dr. Winston D. Stahlecker, head of the Department of Management, Marketing and General Business and professor of marketing, has been appointed as one of seven members worldwide to the American Marketing Association's Global Marketing Council.

Kiwanis Club honors students

Lost Alzheimer's victim found safe

DALLAS (AP) - A 71-year-old man with Alzheimer's disease was reunited with his family Friday after a frightening five-day odyssey that began when he left his wife in the Utah desert and took off in the couple's motor home.

Harold Morris, resting at his son's home in Fort Worth, said in a telephone interview that he was overwhelmed by the attention but delighted to be back with his wife, Peggy, of 44 years.

"I feel fantastic!" Morris said. "I thought she was dead. And here she is, doing a lot better than I am. I drove a long way, thinking I'd never see her again."

"I just took the ignition key off his key ring," Mrs. Morris said. "I'm going to see to it he won't leave me again."

The Morrises, avid rock hunters and jewelry makers, were vacationing in south-central Utah near the Arches and Canyonlands national parks. Sunday afternoon, they were parked on a dirt road when Mrs. Morris hiked to search for agate.

Mrs. Morris, 63, told her husband she'd be back by dark, but she got lost. She heard her husband honk the horn, and walked toward the sound.

Then the honking stopped.

Morris said he thought he had waited for three days and that his wife was dead, so he drove off to tell his family. Morris had actually waited several hours.

Mrs. Morris spent the night in cold and snow but finally found a road that led to a highway Monday. She suffered slight frostbite on her toes and a pulled muscle.

Law enforcement agencies nationwide were alerted to be on the lookout for Morris and his 28-foot mobile home with Florida license plates.

Mrs. Morris told police she feared for her husband's safety because he panics under stress, can't navigate well and doesn't ask for directions often. When he does ask, he forgets right away, she said.

Friday morning, her husband was spotted at a convenience store in Saginaw, Texas, about five miles north of Fort Worth, by someone who had seen news reports of his disappearance and called police.

Police then held Morris and called his wife and son, who drove to meet him. The couple lives in Miami and their daughter, Elizabeth Sip, watched the reunion on Miami television as Peggy Morris entered the motor home and embraced her husband.

"He looked like he was pretty upset, but he was OK," said Sip. "I'm sure he'll be eating a pretty good lunch. He sure looked happy to see my mother."

Mrs. Morris said her husband, a retired Pan Am engine mechanic, was diagnosed with Alzheimer's two years ago when he got lost on his way home and drove around for 30 hours straight without food or drink. Doctors told him not to drive anymore. The disease robs its victims of memory and reasoning ability.

Over the days the man was missing, credit card companies reported that Morris used cards to buy gas in Eagle, Colo., on Monday, and in Amarillo, Texas, on Wednesday. Mrs. Morris flew into Fort Worth Thursday.

"I just had a hunch he'd come this way," she said.

Police said Morris spent the night in the mobile home in a convenience store parking lot. Passersby notified police after he failed to move on in the morning.

"He's really doing well. He's well-rested," Mrs. Morris said. "He drove in last night, fixed himself something to eat and went to bed."

"He was so happy to see me," she said. "He thought he'd never see me again."

Mrs. Morris said she never lost faith that she'd see her husband again.

"I'm just going to keep him under my care," she said. "At home, he's fine. We were out in strange country, though, and he just got confused."

"I'm just so relieved that we have gotten together without any mishaps. He's sitting here just kind of bewildered about the attention, bless his heart. We're just going to recuperate here and then go and do something for the rest of our vacation."

MOTEL-----

All hotels and motels are required to pay the tax except for two exemptions—occupants who use a room 30 days or more, and state or federal employees traveling on business. The motel tax is paid by the customer to the motel then remitted to the city on a regular basis.

Entities which manage activities funded by a motel tax may spend some of the revenue for certain day-to-day operational expenses, if these costs are incurred directly in the promotion and servicing of the authorized uses.

The primary qualification for the use of the motel tax revenues, according to state guidelines, is that the expenditure is spent in a manner which directly enhances and promotes tourism and the convention and motel industry. Expenditures must come under one of the following five purposes: establish or enhance a convention center, pay the administration costs for facilitating convention registration, pay for tourism-related advertising and promotions, fund programs which enhance the arts, and to fund historical restoration or preservation programs.

Jury awards $19 million to lightning victim's family

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) - A jury has awarded more than $19 million to relatives of a Victoria man who was killed by lightning while working at a plastics factory.

In a verdict reached on Friday, jurors ordered Formosa Plastics in Point Comfort to pay 80 percent of the multi-million dollar award, according to the family's attorney, Jim Post.

In August 1990, a bolt of lightning fatally struck Martin Solis as he and two co-workers helped guide a bucket of wet concrete down from a construction crane.

Kinchen Construction of Port Lavaca, who employed the three men must pay the remaining 20 percent, said Post, the plaintiffs' attorney.

The co-workers, Ricardo Mares of Victoria and Elipidio Ortega of Houston, were severely injured in the accident and will also share in the jury's award.

Martin Solis' three children - Martin Jr., Christina and Anna Lisa - were awarded a combined total of about $4 million in actual damages, Post said.

Solis' wife Virginia, who was separated from her husband at the time of the accident, was awarded $40,000 in actual damages. Another $10,000 was awarded to Solis' estate, Post said.

Mares, who suffered neck, back and leg injuries after being jolted by the lightning bolt, was awarded $1.1 million in actual damages.

The Chamber and You

BY MIKE CARR
Executive Vice President

BY MICHAEL CARR
Executive Vice President

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board of directors recently completed a day-long retreat to review Chamber activities and update plans for 1993. The Chamber will be working on both short and longrange goals this year as we all work together for the benefit of our city and county. Your help and involvement is needed and encouraged.

The Chamber and Hereford will be represented by at least seven community leaders as we participate in Panhandle Day in Austin Feb. 16. A group of almost 200 people from throughout the Panhandle will be heading for Austin to visit legislators, have a luncheon with Gov. Richards and host a reception. Topics to be discussed will include trucking reform, health care, products liability, permitting process and environmental waste issues.

The Chamber would like to congratulate former Hereford resident and Hereford High School graduate Robb Kendrick for his photography work that appeared in the December issue of National Geographic. The article, entitled "Gateway to the Himalayas," uses many of Kendrick's works.

He is currently working on additional features for the magazine. While in Hereford, Robb was on the staff of the HHS annual and did photography work for local activities. He is the son of Richard and Lanell Kendrick. Our community is very proud of this fine accomplishment and wishes him the very best.

Short takes and upcoming events: The next Chamber Fun Breakfast is set for Thursday, Feb. 18, sponsored by Hereford Travel Center; the second annual Chamber Raffle for a new 1993 truck or car is set to begin later this month; the Chamber of Commerce Banquet is set April 1; the Town & Country Jubilee is set for July 26-Aug. 1.

We invite everyone to join in and take part as we work to make things great in Hustlin' Hereford. Drop by the Chamber anytime you would like to help or need additional information.

Women's conference scheduled in Amarillo

The fifth annual Women in Science Endeavors (WISE) conference will be held at Amarillo's Crockett Middle School on Saturday, Feb. 27. This conference is organized by the Don Harrington Discovery Center and sponsored by the Amarillo Independent School District, Region XVI Education Service Center and a coalition of area businesses.

For reasons that are deeply rooted in culture and tradition, men significantly outnumber women in science-based careers. As students progress through the elementary grades, girls and boys exhibit little difference in ability, effort, or interest in science until the middle school years when courses and career choices begin influencing school effort. Then, as social pressure increases and career goals are formed, girls' decisions to reduce effort in the study of science progressively cuts women off from many professional careers.

Cross-national studies of gender differences in mathematics and science suggest that most of the differences observed are due to the accumulating effects of sex-role experiences at home, in school, and in society; moreover, in countries with more rigid curricula where mathematics or science courses are required and students do more homework, gender differences are reduced significantly.

Although American society is committed to equality of opportunity, public attitudes perpetuate stereotypes that "girls can't really do math" that as long as these stereotypes persist, young women will continue to drop out prematurely from math and science education, thereby losing opportunities for future careers. The nation cannot afford this loss, especially in view of the projected shortfall of scientifically trained personnel. We must reduce societal factors that compromise a student's potential to learn math and science.

Many women drop science in high school or in the transition to college. Overall, women receive approximately one third of university degrees in science and engineering. The highest percentages of women are found in those sciences with the least mathematical prerequisites: psychology, biology, and sociology. The lowest percentages of women are found in those sciences with the least mathematical prerequisites: psychology, biology, and sociology. The lowest percentages of women enter fields requiring the most mathematics, namely, physics, engineering, economics, geo-science, and chemistry. Evidence from many sources suggests that it is differences in curriculum rather than lack of ability that matter most in limiting women's access to careers in mathematically intensive sciences.

WISE was developed to ensure that young women in the 7th and 8th grades receive the attention needed to perpetuate their continuing interest in the sciences and to provide them with much needed role models. Participants are nominated by their school principals and receive personal invitations to attend the conference. As a result of the WISE program, a diverse group of both urban and rural females will be served this year. This year's participants will include females from the 26 counties of the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico. This scholarship event features female scientists as role models to discuss career opportunities available in their science fields and to present hands-on demonstrations which focus on careers in the sciences.

The keynote speaker for this year's WISE conference is Mary Johnson, a heart transplant physician. She is the Associate Medical Director of the cardiac transplant program at Loyola University Medical Center in suburban Chicago, Illinois. This year speakers also include Linda Stanhope, a health occupationist with Caprock High School; Dana Dalchau, a wildlife biologist with Texas Parks & Wildlife; Virginia Perry, an AISD geology teacher; Linda Wofford, a chemist with the Texas Water Commission; Cassie Turner, a robotic engineer with Mason & Hanger; Donna Mailhot, a flight test engineer with Mason & Hanger; and Annette Fairrow, a radiation safety specialist with Mason & Hanger. In addition, Marianne Jones from the Amarillo College Counseling Center will be on hand to discuss college entrance requirements and financial aid. Gender equity will also be highlighted by Sandy Purcell Center.

WISE will be held on Saturday, Feb. 27, at Crockett Middle School. For further information or to nominate a young woman for participation, please contact Amy Gubser at 355-9547, ext. 19.

Club makes donation

Hereford Merry Mixers Square Dance Club President George Olson recently presented a $300 donation to Irene Mullins, manager of the Hereford Community Center, in appreciation for the club's use of the facility. The money from the club will again be used to make improvements at the center. Also, pictured is Betty Olson, at right, and club members.

CANTON, Mass. (AP) - Dentists say more of their adult patients have root cavities and gum disease, because of the general aging of the U.S. population.

Seventy-three percent of dentists participating in a nationwide survey cited an increase in the average patient age over the past five years, and 56 percent reported root decay in one of four patients over 55.

Cavities decreased in the under-25 age group, however, according to the survey sponsored by Colgate Hoyt-Gel Km, the professional oral care division of Colgate-Palmolive.

Fifty-eight percent of dentists noted an increase in periodontitis (gum disease) in patients 41-55 years old.

DOUBLE CHECK BEFORE SIGNING

A home has been for sale and an enthusiastic prospect presents an "offer" to buy. This offer should be reviewed by a professional. It's an extremely important part of the sale. Are all the names correct? Is the property correctly described? Is the mortgage information accurate? Can the seller move by the possession date? Is the purchase price satisfactory? Then the calculations should be double checked to be sure of the money that will be received. If there are any doubts contained in the offer, it should not be signed until they have been completely reviewed. The offer to purchase is binding on the purchaser for the amount of time stated in the offer. It can be accepted with or without changes, or let expire. If anything is changed in the offer, the process is reversed, making an "offer" to "sell" to the purchaser, who then has the same options. Before you sign be certain of the content, because the sale will be according to "the letter of that script."

Check it out

A reader called this week to check on an what he thought was an alarming letter to the editor in the Amarillo Daily News. A writer from White Deer wrote, as a matter of fact, that a group was proposing a bill—to be considered in the current session of the Texas Legislature—which would provide mandated sex education. The topics to be taught, as listed by the writer, included homosexuality and explicit sex acts. That would scare most any parent.

The reader wanted us to check it out before he started writing and calling his state senator and representative. The Amarillo paper printed a correction the next day. The letter claimed the Adolescent Pregnancy and Parenthood Council had proposed the bill. This is not true. The APPC does exist but is not engaged in supporting such activities.

In addition, we contacted Sen. Teel Bivins' office about the matter. There is a bill before the Legislature (SB-20) titled Self-Development and Life Skills Education, but it does not propose the teaching of topics such as mentioned in the letter.

Occasionally, people with good intentions but bad information champion a cause without really checking out the facts. We appreciated the local reader giving us a call, and he was happy to learn that the letter was "out of line."

Letters to the Editor:

from county commissioner, pet lover, abortion foe

Dear Editor:

In regard to a recent letter to the editor, I would like to say that I am more than glad to see them take an interest in their local government. I wish they had taken a moment to visit with me in person, but since they didn't, I wish to answer their letter.

First, let me say that I am not new to supervision. I have taken college courses in personnel management and human relations. I served in the U.S.

Navy as a petty officer. I worked for a construction company for many years and my duties as foreman and general foreman included supervising from 12 to 60 men. That experience enables me to evaluate, supervise and set standards for the men in Pct. 1 county road crew.

My first responsibility is to the taxpayers of Deaf Smith County, which should be run as a business—as efficient and effective as possible.

Anything less should be viewed as a disservice to you and every other taxpayer.

My only promise was to take a hands-on attitude towards by elected office, and I will continue to do so. To sum up, I will not take a business as usual approach to my job as your county commissioner.

I'm sure that there will be other issues that we will not always agree on, but I will always welcome your input. My phone number is listed and I will be more than happy to visit with you in the future.

DSC Commissioner, Pct. 1

Dear Editor:

The other morning at coffee, Janie Banner was feeling sad about the way things are going in the fight to save our precious unborn babies. So I, being the windjammer of the group, told her there are lots of hopeful signs—but I just said that to make her feel better.

Then the rays of hope began streaming in! Nita Black said that not only did several people tell her they would join me in writing to President Clinton but they'd write once a week about the babies. And, someone gave her a list of addresses of officials in both Washington and Austin.

Then I had a nice visit with Robert Chavez, just back from being arrested again with Operation Rescue as they saved babies at an abortion clinic. And, our son Craig, a Holy Cross seminarian on temporary assignment in Washington, D.C., called and said he participated in the March for Life on inauguration day, and the march was huge.

Things are darkest just before the dawn. We can save the babies with daily prayer, fasting every Thursday, and writing to the President every week. What do you write to the President? Just follow your heart and say what you feel. As for me, I'm telling him there a lot more Pro-Life Christians than there are NOW women, and that millions of Americans are praying for him and our unborn every day. And, if he can triumph over the special interest groups that are trying to tell him how young person.

After all, unless a young person has a take-over parent who does everything for his or her child, animal owners must consider the best type of feed to use, how much to buy, how much it costs, when to feed and what type of exercise or workout the animal needs.

Also, I wonder how many of these young people spent sleepless nights sitting beside a sick lamb, hog or steer, worrying if it would make it till morning?

Then, those who raise numerous animals must continually evaluate them as show time appears, determining which ones will have the best chances in the show and which ones to leave at home.

Maybe this is a project more young people should get involved in.

Seems like kids raise who animals might not have as much time to get in trouble as those who just sit around after school and watch television.

Anyway, kudos to all the young people who gave it their best at the livestock show - whether they won or not.

(Another group needs special recognition for their important role in the livestock show. The pooper-scoopers sure had a dirty job, but it needed doing and they are to be commended for doing their part.)

Finally, just a brief note about the Super Bowl.

Out of the Blue

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Last week's column was finished by the time I started going out to the Hereford Young Farmers livestock show, so I didn't get a chance to talk about this activity.

Except for the obvious odor surrounding a livestock show (which obviously can't be helped and is a part of Hereford that can be expected), I had a good time.

This isn't the first time I have been exposed to a 4-H/FFA livestock show, but it marked the longest time I have spent in a show arena.

Overall, I was very impressed with the young people who participated; they were well dressed, well behaved and dedicated to what they had come to do.

They knew how to manage their animals and, although some were more proficient at it than others, they were able to display their animals to the judges.

I did not hear any curse words, there were no teens making out in dark corners in and around the Bull Barn and the only tobacco use I saw was among the adults.

Is that all because of them being in 4-H or FFA and raising show animals? I really don't know, but I feel like there must be a connection somewhere.

It seems to me that raising a show animal for 4-H or FFA would be a very rewarding, educational and character-building opportunity for a

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Editorials from around the state

By The Associated Press

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from Texas newspapers:

The Austin American-Statesman on the ban of gays in the military: President Clinton forged a tense cease-fire as his infant administration reels from one dustup to another.

On the heels of the Zoe Baird fiasco, the president found himself embroiled in an emotional battle over lifting the ban on homosexuals in the military.

For Clinton, it is another challenge to the authority for which he campaigned so long.

New presidents are always tested. It seems, however, that this one has more than his share of challenges.

It would be best if the new president were able to act decisively and move on.

Given the emotional nature of the issues, however, it looks like he's in for a long, divisive fight at a time when he should be focusing on his economic agenda.

The compromise has a brief shelf life for an issue that needs to be put to rest and quickly.

San Antonio Express-News on D.C. statehood:

When Bill Clinton was elected president, people who are vehement that the District of Columbia become the 51st state proclaimed loudly that if Clinton fails to make their dream come true, they'll lop off his political head.

Meanwhile, Washington Mayor Sharon Pratt Kelly, who has been one of the most fervent proselytizers for statehood, has unintentionally done more than her share to undermine the very cause she champions so eagerly. ... Having promised to eliminate 2,000 public jobs, Kelly recoiled when patronage-hungry constituents rebelled.

She beat a hasty retreat and adopted Barry's scratch-my-back, I'll-scratch-yours hiring practices.

There's much more to tell, but not enough room to tell it.

New Braunfels Herald-Zeitung on Elvis stamp:

Just in case you failed to buy your commemorative Elvis stamp when they first went on sale, it's not too late.

The (Elvis stamp) contest and its attendant publicity provided an outlandish amount of hype for the whole project and when the stamp finally went on sale, thousands and thousands of folks old enough to know better stood in long lines all over the country and bought the darn things.

We're poking fun, but you gotta hand it to the folks at the P.O. on several fronts.

First, they went out and invented a product that, poke fun as some of the older and stodgier among us may, a lot of folks wanted.

The whole thing probably doesn't speak very well for the overall intelligence of us as a nation, but you might want to go buy an Elvis stamp or two anyway, because in and of themselves, wholly separate from the person they purport to commemorate, they are an American phenomenon.

Notes on the Law

Several months ago, one of these articles analyzed Soliman v. Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service. Mr. Soliman is an anesthesiologist whose works in three separate hospitals and maintains an office in his home. The home office is Mr. Soliman's only office since he is not provided any office space in any of the hospitals.

When the last article was written, the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit had allowed Mr. Soliman to deduct his home office expenses. In its opinion, the Fourth Circuit had abandoned the "local point test" and had adopted a test to determine where the taxpayer's principal place of business was. Since Mr. Soliman's home office was essential, since he spent a substantial amount of time in his home office and since there was no other location available for Mr. Soliman to perform the office functions, the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit held Mr. Soliman was entitled to his home office deduction.

Unfortunately, the United States Supreme Court has disagreed. On January 12, 1993, the United States Supreme Court rendered its opinion in Commissioner v. Soliman, 1993 U.S. Lexis 828. The Supreme Court found that the home office was not Mr. Soliman's "principal place of business" and, for that reason, ruled he was not entitled to the home office deduction.

The Supreme Court provided the following instructions for determining whether a home office is a legitimate deduction.

"In deciding whether a location is the 'principal place of business,' the common sense meaning of 'principal' suggests a comparison of locations must be undertaken. This view is confirmed by the definition of 'principal,' which means 'most important, consequential or influential.'"

The Supreme Court found that the approach used by the fourth Circuit was incorrect, and stated:

"Contrary to the Court of Appeals' suggestion, the statute does not allow for a deduction whenever a home office may be characterized as legitimate.

... This approach ignores the question whether the home office is more significant in the taxpayer's business than every other place of business."

After recognizing that each case must be decided based upon its own particular facts, the Supreme Court defined "two primary considerations in deciding whether a home office is a taxpayer's principal place of business." These considerations are:

1. "the relative importance of the activities performed at each business location" and
2. "the time spent at each place" of business.

Applying these two factors to Mr. Soliman's claim, the United States Supreme Court ruled that the most important business activities performed by Mr. Soliman were those activities he performed at the hospitals. "The actual treatment (of patients) was the essence of (Mr. Soliman's) profession." Since the home office activities were less important than the activities performed at the hospitals, Mr. Soliman was denied his home office deduction.

The case provides further guidance for individuals who maintain home offices with other types of businesses and should be reviewed by anyone wanting to claim a home office deduction.

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: More than 30 years ago, John F. Kennedy said, "This is a dangerous and untidy world." Today it is even more dangerous and more untidy, especially if you drive a car.

Here are some suggestions from the Chicago, Los Angeles and New York police departments to keep you safe and prevent car-jacking. Please read them carefully. They just might save your life.

When approaching or parking your car:

1. Don't dawdle. Move quickly. Have your keys in your hand.
2. Check to make sure no one is hiding in, or under, your car. Carry a small flashlight to check dark areas. Be aware of occupied cars nearby.

3. Keep your car locked whether you are in it or not.

4. Drive into your garage front-first so the headlights illuminate the total area. Your own garage is a perfect place to get mugged.

While driving:

1. Be alert to what is going on around you at all times. Daydreaming or a moment's distraction can be fatal.
2. Keep your doors locked and your windows closed.
3. Allow room between your car and the car in front of you so you can maneuver quickly if you need to step on the gas and get away.

4. Avoid the curb-side lane whenever possible. Fast operators can break a car window, unlock the door and be inside within seconds.

5. Always put your child in the front seat.

6. Avoid idling your car in neutral. You might have to move quickly.

7. Keep your wallet/purse out of view while driving. Never leave it on the seat next to you. Experienced purse grabbers can reach over, grab a purse and be gone within seconds. A Florida woman on her way to the bank lost $100,000 worth of jewelry this way.

8. Keep your car in good repair. Never allow the fuel gauge to fall below half way. Cars have a way of running out of gas at the worst possible moment.

9. Be careful at stoplights and on expressway offramps. Car-jackers often bump into the back of a car in order to get the driver to pull over. If you are bumped from behind and it seems suspicious, motion to the driver to follow you. Move at a slow but steady pace to the nearest gas station, police station or well-lit, well-populated area. A car-jacker will disappear fast.

If someone tries to take your car. 1. If your windows are up, your car is locked and you can maneuver out of the way—hit your horn and STEP ON THE GAS.

2. If the perpetrator has a weapon, give up your car immediately. Do not fight or argue. Your life is more important than the car.

3. If your child is in the car and you are forced out and cannot grab the child, yell immediately, "There's a baby in the car!"

4. Do not reach for your purse or anything else in the car. The perpetrator may think you are reaching for a gun and shoot you.

If your car is taken:

Remain calm and non-threatening. Take careful note of all physical aspects of the robber and the vehicle, as well as the direction of flight. Report the incident to the police immediately.

Gem of the Day: Examine closely what it is that you dislike most in others, and you will discover a trait that you dislike in yourself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Jim" and I are sharing a home. We are both divorced, retired senior citizens. We purchased this house jointly two years ago and agreed to split expenses and housework. We were extremely compatible and felt we could spend our golden years together happily. Our sex life was wonderful.

Since that time, however, the intimacy has gradually decreased to zero. We argue constantly and now occupy separate bedrooms on opposite ends of the house. Our relationship has become so unhealthy that I am under tremendous stress. To add to this problem, Jim seems to be on a path of self-destruction, smoking excessively and eating junk food. His coughing gets worse each day.

About two months ago, after I attempted once again to bring some romance into our lives, Jim confessed that he is overcome with guilt. He feels that as a Catholic he is committing adultery if he is intimate with me outside of marriage. Unfortunately, we cannot be married in the church unless he gets his first marriage annulled, something he refuses to do because it would make his children illegitimate. A civil ceremony isn't the answer, because that wouldn't be recognized by the church.

I now feel betrayed and cheated. Had this man been honest with me, I would never have gotten involved with him. I feel I'm missing out on my best years, trapped in a loveless relationship that is preventing me from finding someone who is free to love me unconditionally.

I have suggested therapy or selling the house and going our separate ways, but he refuses. He wants us to stay together, but I simply cannot continue like this. Please help me.—L.L. in Florida

DEAR L.L.: You and Jim need joint counseling with a priest who will set Jim straight about annulment. The procedure does NOT make the children "illegitimate."

If Jim refuses to investigate the steps necessary to marry you, the best course is to split with him permanently. The man is obviously ridden with guilt, and unless he gets himself squared away, he will make a very poor husband.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my parents died, I found evidence that they had loaned $8,500 to a medical student they knew, to help pay for his last year of medical school. He told them that without their help, he would have had to quit and give up his dream. I don't know if they ever tried to collect the money, but I do know it was never paid.

That doctor has been fabulously successful. He lives in a $500,000 home and drives several expensive foreign cars. My parents died nearly penniless and left nothing to my brother and me. We are barely getting by.

I wrote to this doctor several days ago and asked that he repay the loan with interest. He returned my letter and in his nearly illegible handwriting, which seems to be characteristic of doctors, he informed me that he borrowed the money from my parents, not from me.

What can I do now? The man seems to have no conscience.—Disappointed in Los Angeles

DEAR LOS ANGELES: You should see a lawyer at once about having an executor appointed to your parents' estate. It is the executor's job to collect all assets of your parents—including outstanding loans.

You cannot collect the loan directly, but the estate can. If there is money left over, it will then be divided among the heirs.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Brides, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Urbanczyk, Fry honored

A total of 519 students were named to the President and Dean's Honor Lists for the fall 1992 semester at South Plains College in Levelland.

Gregory Urbanczyk was named to the Dean's List and Carla Fry was named to the President's List.

A total of 162 students were named to the President's List, maintaining a perfect 4.0 grade point average, while a total of 357 students were named to the Dean's Honor List. Both honor groups must carry at least 12 semester hours.

"We want to congratulate these students on their outstanding academic achievement while attending South Plains College," said Dr. Gary McDaniel, vice president for academic. "Both the students and their families are to be commended."

Hints from Heloise

Q: I like to add cream of mushroom soup to rice dishes and baked chicken. However, we are on a fixed income and the cost of the soup just keeps getting higher and higher. Is there a way I can make my own? — Ethel and Jim, Savannah, Ga.

A: Sure is! Here's how to make a cream soup from scratch. Combine: 1 cup non-fat dried milk powder 1 tablespoon dried onion flakes 2 tablespoons cornstarch 2 tablespoons chicken bouillon powder

1/2 teaspoon dried basil 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme 1/2 teaspoon black pepper

This is a dry mix that can be stored in an airtight container and kept on hand until it's needed.

When you're ready for soup, just add 2 cups of cold water and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until it thickens. If the soup is too thick, just add a little more water to thin.

For cream of mushroom soup, add some sliced mushrooms a few minutes before removing from the stove.

This recipe is from my new pamphlet, Heloise's Sensational Soups! To receive your copy, send $2 and a self-addressed, stamped (52 cents), long envelope to Heloise/Soup #12, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. Bon appetit! — Heloise

LETTER OF WARNING

Dear Heloise: Here's something you probably wouldn't think of.

My 2-year-old daughter loves popcorn and we have a hot-air popper. She was watching while I made her a bowl of popcorn with the popper, and without my realizing it a hot kernel popped out and got caught in the neck of her pajamas. She was screaming and pulling on her pajama top. It blistered and she still has a small scar.

I never thought those kernels were that hot and could burn a little one like that. I thank God it wasn't worse! Just a little helpful hint. — Julie Bock, Brainerd, Minn.

I'm glad your daughter is all right. Thanks for writing to warn us all. — Heloise

SALAD DRESSING

Dear Heloise: This is in reference to the woman who carries her own salad and dressing. I found the small jar that chopped pimento peppers come in is just perfect for the amount of dressing needed for a salad. The jar fits perfectly in the salad bowl and still allows the lid to be put on. — Elizabeth Duckett, Dallas, Texas

RAISIN QUESTION

Q: I read your column every day and I've learned a great deal from your correspondence. I would like to know how to keep raisins from going to the bottom of my loaf cake. — Ann Iezzi, Bayonne, N.J.

A: You could try either flouring the raisins or cutting them.

To flour them, mix the cake's dry ingredients together and stir the raisins in. Coating the raisins in flour seems to help them blend into the batter.

Or, cut the raisins, either in half or into small pieces. It lets the flavor out and makes the raisins lighter. — Heloise

Demons stymie Herd comeback

The Hereford boys' basketball team got outscored by Dumas 11-0 in the first quarter, then came from 14 points down in the fourth to tie, only to lose on a last-minute three-pointer.

Matt Nystuen's trey with just under a minute left broke the 44-44 tie and gave the Demons a 47-44 win Friday in Dumas.

In the first game of the varsity doubleheader, the Demonettes pulled away from the Lady Whitefaces in the second half and won 58-48.

In the boys' game, the Herd was 0-for-9 from the field in the first quarter, according to Herd statistician Connie Main (Connie's husband, coach Joe Main, was unavailable Saturday).

Dumas extended its lead slightly in the next two quarters, leading 27-15 at halftime and 42-28. Hereford's press got to the Demons in the fourth quarter, and they scored only two points in the first seven minutes while Hereford scored 16 to tie at 44-44.

"They got flustered," Main said. "They looked like us in the first quarter." Hereford had a couple of chances to tie in the final minutes but couldn't hit on three-point tries, Main said.

Hereford was led by Richard Sanderson with 12 points. Michael Brown and Jason Tatarevich each added 10 points. Nystuen led Dumas with 15 points.

Hereford is now 7-18 overall with three games left to go. The loss dropped the Herd into a tie for fifth in District 1-4A; Dumas and Hereford are both 1-6. Dumas is 10-14 overall.

The Lady Whitefaces trailed 12-9 after one quarter. They came back to tie at 19-19 late in the second quarter, but Dumas' 6-2 run made it 25-21 at halftime. The Demonettes pulled away in the third and led 40-32 at the end of the quarter.

Misty Dudley led Hereford with 17 points and Stephanie Wilcox added 10. Callie Beauchamp sparked Dumas with 32 points.

The Demonettes improve to 3-6 in district and 7-17 overall. The Lady Whitefaces drop to 0-9 and 3-21. They play their last game of the season Tuesday when Pampa comes to Hereford for a 6 p.m. game.

The Hereford boys will face powerful Pampa at 7:30 Tuesday. Pampa took the district lead Friday with a 79-73 win over Caprock in Pampa. Earlier this season Caprock (now 5-2) handed Pampa (6-1) its first district loss in several years.

In the Friday's other boys' game Borger ripped Randall 80-52 in Borger, making both teams 4-3 in district play.

In the girls' games, Randall (9-0) clinched the district title by beating Borger 51-29. Borger at 6-3 retains the inside track for the second playoff spot. Also Friday, Pampa (5-4) beat Caprock (4-5) 66-54.

The Hereford boys' junior varsity lost to Dumas 49-43 despite 15 points and eight rebounds from Jay Kendall. Benton Buckley and Robin Simons each scored 10.

The Hereford girls' JV lost 57-19.

Cowboys should own Super Bowl in 1990s

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The guys with the stars on their helmets and "World Champions" on the front door of their practice facility will be expected to own the Super Bowl in the 1990s.

Soon after the Dallas Cowboys had routed the Buffalo Bills 52-17 with the youngest team in the NFL (average age 26), the most prevalent question was: Who's going to stop them in the future?

They've got the quarterback of the decade, Troy Aikman; the running back of the decade, Emmitt Smith; the tight end of the decade, Jay Novacek; the wide receivers of the decade, Michael Irvin and Alvin Harper; and the best offensive line from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The defense is young, quick and athletic. Linebacker Ken Norton is emerging as a future All-Pro star and cornerbacks Kevin Smith and Larry Brown have grown into great man-for-man covers.

The defensive line of Tony Tolbert, Tony Casillas, Russell Maryland and Charles Haley, backed by Leon Lett, Jimmie Jones and Jim Jeffcoat is excellent. Lett just needs to lateral the ball the next time he picks up a fumble.

Apparently, the only force strong enough to stop Dallas is the Cowboys themselves. Coach Jimmy Johnson has proved that his college ways not only work in the NFL, but some other clubs had better learn from his blueprint.

There have already been some assistant coaching changes, but it shouldn't bother Johnson, who has seen his staffs change in 14 of his 15 years as a head coach. Butch Davis, who has been with Johnson as a line coach for 15 years, will take over for Dave Wannstedt as the defensive coordinator in the most important change. Wannstedt became head coach at Chicago.

"Butch has deserved this chance and I think he'll do a great job," said Johnson.

There could be a few players leaving Valley Ranch.

Haley is a free agent and there are reports the Cowboys are nervous about signing him to a multi-year deal because of his fractious behavior. The Haley watch should be interesting.

Smith's contract is up but owner Jerry Jones will open his checkbook wide to get him back into camp with a long-term contract. Free agency doesn't apply to Smith under the current rules of the NFL contract which are still being ironed out.

The Cowboys also desperately

Shaq puts Magic spell on Blazers

By The Associated Press

Although Orlando already has won as many games as it did all last season, the reasons behind it are hardly magic.

Rookie Shaquille O'Neal has captured the starting berth in the All-Star game, with his powerful inside game, and the improvement of such players as Nick Anderson also has helped Orlando to a 21-19 start. The Magic went 21-61 last season.

Anderson had five 3-pointers and 27 points while O'Neal finished with 22 points and 11 rebounds as the Magic beat Portland 114-106 Friday night, the Trail Blazers' first loss ever to Orlando in nine games. It was the third consecutive road victory for the Magic, another first for the franchise.

"We've played some good games on the road this year," Magic coach Matt Goukas said. "We won at Chicago, we won at Boston and now we've just beaten three very tough Western Conference teams."

"I think we do better on the road when people under-rate us," O'Neal said.

Clyde Drexler had 32 points and 12 rebounds for the Blazers, who have lost three straight for the first time since early last season. The last two losses came at home against Minnesota and Orlando. Before those games, Portland had a 41-1 record against the NBA's four most recent expansion teams.

Elsewhere, it was Boston 105, Philadelphia 93; Washington 138, Golden State 111; Charlotte 118, Milwaukee 111; Cleveland 109, Detroit 89; New York 108, Miami 105; Dallas 105, Indiana 104; Minnesota 112, Houston 105; Denver 116, Sacramento 103; and Phoenix 132, the Los Angeles Lakers 104.

Suns 132, Lakers 104

Phoenix won its 14th straight home game and improved its record at America West Arena to 17-1 with an easy victory over Los Angeles.

Dan Majerle scored 29 points, Richard Dumas 24 and Charles Barkley 20 for the Suns, who took control in the first quarter with a 9-0 run keyed by Majerle's 3-pointer and three-point play.

A.C. Green had 20 points and 15 rebounds for the Lakers.

Mavericks 105, Pacers 104

Dallas, which won one game each in November, December and January, took care of February with a victory over Indiana.

The Mavericks, 4-20 at home and 4-38 overall, led throughout the fourth quarter until the Pacers tied the game 101-101 with two minutes left. Derek Harper's two free throws broke the tie and Sean Rooks added two more foul shots for a 105-101 lead with 1:29 remaining.

Reggie Miller, who led the Pacers with 30 points, missed a 14-foot jumper with two seconds remaining that would have given the Pacers the victory.

Timberwolves 112, Rockets 105

Doug West scored 33 points on 14-for-19 shooting for Minnesota at Houston, snapping the Rockets' four-game winning streak.

Hakeem Olajuwon had 28 points and 18 rebounds for Houston, but he was held to 1-for-7 shooting in the first half when the Timberwolves took the lead for good.

Minnesota won for the third time in four games following a six-game losing streak.

Knicks 108, Heat 105

John Starks hit the tying basket and the go-ahead free throw as New York took its first lead with 23 seconds left at Miami.

The Heat, led by Rony Seikaly with 28 points, had a 102-98 advantage before Anthony Mason dunked and Starks connected, tying the score with 1:49 left.

After an exchange of free throws made it 104-104, Starks rebounded a missed shot and was fouled. He made 1 of 2 from the line to put the Knicks ahead 105-104 at the 23-second mark.

Patrick Ewing scored 26 points and Mason 21 for New York, while Glen Rice had 25 for the Heat.

Steiert gets writing awards

AUSTIN--Jim Steiert of Hereford has been recognized by the Texas Outdoor Writers Association (TOWA) as a winner in its Excellence-In-Craft competition for 1992.

Steiert won first place in special programs, second in magazine long features, and third place for newsletters. The awards were announced recently at the annual TOWA meeting in Rockport.

Steiert's first place came for a script he wrote for an educational video on the playa lakes of the High Plains. The video was designed for presentations to civic clubs, schools and other special programs. It was shot almost exclusively in Deaf Smith and Castro counties and sponsored by Phillips Petroleum Co.

The second place award was for an article which Steiert authored for a special edition of Texas Parks & Wildlife magazine saluting the wildlife diversity of Texas. "The Texas Waterfowler," a newsletter which Steiert writes and produces for the Hereford-headquartered Texas Waterfowling Association, took the third-place award.

Steiert won several TOWA awards while writing farm and outdoor news at The Hereford Brand, and he has written many freelance articles highlighting the Texas Panhandle for numerous state and national outdoor publications.

Steiert is employed with the public relations division of West Texas Rural Telephone Cooperative and produces a monthly newsletter for that firm.

SPORTS VISION TESTING

While any basic optometric eye examination will evaluate the health of the eye, check visual acuity and ascertain that two eyes are working well together, there are further areas of concern for the athlete, whether amateur or professional.

For example, a sports vision examination goes beyond reading an eye chart on the wall to determine vision strength when both the eyes and the ball they are following are in motion -- a skill called dynamic visual acuity. Further testing can determine the speed and accuracy of the subject's hand-eye coordination and how well peripheral vision is used. With special equipment, the eye doctor can gauge just how well the athlete keeps an eye on the ball.

Once the level of sports vision skills is known, visual training can be utilized to enhance them, helping the athletes to improve their games, and their lives.

Lucas won't take credit for Spurs' turnaround

By KELLEY SHANNON
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO (AP)—As the San Antonio Spurs keep winning, the question persists for coach John Lucas and his team: How are you doing it?

The answer, they say, is difficult to explain.

"There's a bunch of reasons, but it starts with John Lucas," said forward Sean Elliott. "I think he's just done a great job with us. That's what it all comes down to."

That Lucas is flourishing in his first NBA coaching job isn't disputed. By the end of January, the Spurs were 16-3 since the former NBA player and former drug addict was hired Dec. 18 to replace Jerry Tarkanian.

Lucas was named NBA Coach of the Month for January, when he led the Spurs to a 12-2 record that included a 10-game winning streak and victories over Utah, Portland, Chicago, Phoenix and Seattle.

Spurs players and managers say the team is winning because Lucas has placed new emphasis on center David Robinson, relied on Avery Johnson at point guard and sought and received more output from other key players, like three-point shooter Dale Ellis.

Then there's attitude.

"Lucas knows what it takes to win," said forward J.R. Reid. "He's brought in the right attitude. That's something we didn't have before. That's the big difference."

Reid said it helps that Lucas leaves some decisions to the players. Lucas is known to sometimes assign players to lead huddles during timeouts, saying players must feel an "ownership" in the team.

"This is definitely the most fun I've had since I've been in the league," said forward Antoine Carr. "All the guys are playing relaxed. There's just a bunch of things coming together at the same time. We're pushing to really get to that next level."

Bob Bass, Spurs vice president of basketball operations, has seen his share of Spurs teams through the years in management and as a coach. He believes this team is special.

"We've had a couple of teams that were really close and together," Bass said. "The 1977-78 team was really close. Up until this team, that team may have been the closest. But that team wasn't as talented as this one."

Evidence of this new closeness isn't hard to find.

Players often socialize together. During a recent road trip, for example, Ellis invited the team to a get-together at his home near Seattle. Team practices are lively as the players shout encouragement at each other. If they don't, Lucas tries to ignite it.

"Can we get a little life in here?" Lucas said in a shoot-around at HemisFair Arena. "Come on, there isn't enough chatter. It's like we're sleep walking."

Instantly, the arena was abuzz with banter.

Rookie guard Lloyd Daniels said Lucas has helped the team relax and has tapped into what each player does best.

"He's just letting guys play. He knows guys' strengths," Daniels said. Lucas shrugs off any personal credit for the success.

"It's what the team has done for themselves," Lucas said. "They just happen to be carrying me along for the ride."

Lucas prefers not to talk about his NBA Coach of the Month honor and the national hoopla over his success.

"That was last month," he said. "What we have is a weekly goal. We try to win all our games this week, then look at the next week."

Surely Lucas has done something to infuse this winning mentality into his team, hasn't he?

Again, Lucas declines to discuss it, and there's a great seriousness in his voice.

"I wish I could take some of the credit. I can't," he said. "It's not a 'me' deal. It's an 'our' deal. It's a deal that they've done."

"I have this thing called alcoholism. I take the 'I,' 'S' and 'M' and I start thinking about 'I,' 'self' and 'me' and then I get in trouble. So I just think about what we're doing as a group. We've been very successful as a team," Lucas said.

Lucas, 39, played for seven NBA teams including San Antonio and Houston from 1976-1989. A basketball and tennis standout from Maryland, Lucas was picked first overall by the Rockets in the 1976 draft.

His NBA career was interrupted by cocaine addiction and rehabilitation programs. He later established drug treatment and aftercare programs to help other addicted athletes. Lucas continues to attend support meetings to help him remain sober.

As the new San Antonio coach, one of the first things Lucas did was remind opposing teams to be wary of David Robinson's Neighborhood.

"It's been a re-establishing of David Robinson's team," said Lucas. "He's having an MVP type of year."

Robinson has been averaging 23 points, 12 rebounds and four blocked shots.

Lucas tries to keep Robinson fresh for games. Sometimes he's kept out

Barone has Aggies on right track

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP)—What you see is not necessarily what you get with Tony Barone. He'd fit in with the Bleacher Bums at old Wrigley Field or carrying his lunch box home after the second shift at the tuna factory.

The work ethic is written all over his blunt features, but the comparison stops there. Barone's product is Texas A&M basketball and his goal is to put it back on top of the Southwest Conference and beyond.

If there's such a thing as a friendly glare, then Barone has it. He has great empathy for his players, although his tone sometimes makes it difficult to see from a player's eye view.

His board of education is a two-by-four. He talks fast, expects results, makes demands.

Read my tonsils is his style.

"I'm a pain in the (neck), there's no question about that," Barone says. "If you step back, I think my players tend to appreciate what we do for them after they graduate."

"I don't think a lot of them genuinely appreciate what we do at this point in their careers because we are demanding."

Barone took over the program last year and went through a year that no coach or team should have to endure.

The Aggies staggered to a 6-21 record. Barone didn't know the players and the players didn't know him. His scholarships were reduced because of NCAA violations that occurred before he arrived.

Barone's mother died during the season and after that, everything else that happened had to be classified in a different perspective.

But he stayed. He kept yelling, and the Aggies have started winning. Not that they're eating up the SWC, but they're starting to take a few bites here and there. Out of Florida, out of Baylor.

Barone has turned G. Rolie White into a horror chamber for opponents.

"He's done a good job there," Houston coach Pat Foster said. "You go to play at his place and he's got those kids to where they dictate everything you do."

Before embarking on their current three-game losing streak, The Cougars were leading the SWC, including a victory in College Station.

"We just caught them on a good night for us," Foster said. "They're tough to play at G. Rolie."

The Aggies' improvement this season has been accomplished with four walkons, including the coach's son Tony Barone Jr. They get no special favors from Barone for their volunteer efforts.

"I have an extremely strong feeling for those kids," Barone said. "We yell and scream at them and demand of them as much as we demand of the scholarship players."

It took awhile to get his players' attention, but Barone has them believing. After beating Baylor on last Sunday, guard David Edwards knew where to issue his praise: "The coaches knew exactly what we had to do. They told us the game would go just like it did."

Barone suspects there was a time when his players wouldn't have recognized what it took to win.

"We were shocked when we came here and recognized that a major problem was a lot of our kids didn't understand the game," Barone said. "It had to do with shot selection and how to make a player on your team better by what you do."

"That was a foreign concept to these kids. It was like 'we're going out and hoop it up, make 10-12 points and get 4-5 rebounds and that's about all I can do.'"

That's all past. No more Murphy's Law for the Aggies. Now it's Barone's Law and it's simple.

"You challenge yourself every day to be the best you can be, whether it's economic class or whatever. If you don't do that, I have a problem with that."

"I don't ask anyone to do more than their best."

Lucas tries to keep Robinson fresh for games. Sometimes he's kept out

"It's kind of like kissing your sister," he said. "It doesn't mean anything until the last day of the season. Then it decides playoff advantages. And really then it doesn't mean anything. You've got to win on an opposing team's court anyway in order to win it."

If the Spurs keep playing the way they have been, that shouldn't be a problem.

COWBOYS

need a backup to Smith, who was the Cowboys' running game for 80 per cent of the plays. Smith gained over 100 yards in each of the playoff games against Philadelphia, San Francisco and Buffalo.

Backup quarterback Steve Beuerlein will likely move to another team for big bucks. He wants to be a starter and that will never happen in Dallas unless Aikman is hurt.

The Cowboys will have to find another backup quarterback for Aikman, the Super Bowl MVP, who was 61 of 89 with eight touchdowns and no interceptions in three playoff games. He finished the playoffs with a postseason rating of 116.7, completing a record 68.6 percent of his passes and a playoff mark of 8.66 yards per completion.

The Cowboys will be drafting from the 28th and last position so even the famed trading expertise of Johnson and Jones will be tested.

"Don't count on us staying put," Jones said. "We've learned you have to be busy and stay young in the NFL. We'll be exploring every avenue."

With only seven rounds in the draft, the Cowboys will be able to join in the free agent chase with gusto.

"It will be like a college coach recruiting high school recruits," said personnel director Larry Lacewell. "That's right up my alley. In fact, we've got three guys who can talk up a storm in me, Jimmy and Jerry."

The Cowboys can offer the lure of playing on a championship team. The downside is that not many free agents are going to make the team.

If Beuerlein or Haley go elsewhere for big contracts, the Cowboys can replace their salaries by going after a bigtime player like defensive end Reggie White of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Jones, his pocket book lined with $30 million in memorabilia sales, is ready to wheel and deal.

"A lot of people are wondering about us getting fat and sassy," said Jones. "But the memory of going 1-15 has burned a hole in our brain. That will keep us inspired for awhile."

Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative directors and employees were recently honored with awards recognizing them for their years of service. They included, from left, back row: Joe Kerr, 35 years; Ronnie Brown, 10; Gene George, 30; Dean Reinart, 15; Ramon DeLa Cerda 15; Jerry Deckard, 20; Sammy Davison, 15; front row—Shirley Murray, 15; Pat Scott, 20; Marion Carter, 20; Jimmy Holmes, 20; Jerry Koenig, 15.

Feed cattle, calf figures show 13-state increase over 1992

WASHINGTON (AP) - There were 10.88 million head of cattle and calves on feed for the slaughter market at the start of this year in the 13 states preparing quarterly estimates.

This was 7 percent more than Jan. 1, 1992, according to the National Agricultural Statistics Service.

"This is the largest 13-state January cattle on feed inventory since 1979," the service said.

The inventory included 7.17 million steers and steer calves, 7 percent above a year ago. This group accounts for 65.8 percent of the total inventory.

Heifers and heifer calves accounted for 3.64 million head, 9 percent above a year ago.

Cattle feeders expect to market 5.61 million head during the January-March quarter of 1993, the report said. This would be up 3 percent from the first quarter marketings in 1992 and up 5 percent from January-March in 1991.

Marketings of fed cattle during the October-December, 1992 quarter totaled 5.18 million, down 2 percent from both 1991 and 1990.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Grain Inspection Service soon will require a statement on official inspection and weight certificates whenever water is applied to grain at export locations.

The statement, required as of Feb. 8, must say when the water was applied to the grain and the purpose and location of the water application, according to USDA's recent grain transportation report.

"Water, or other liquid sprays, are usually used by barge operators to reduce dangerous airborne grain dust during the loading of grain barges," it said.

"The FGIS action is intended to reduce industry concerns over the potential grain quality degradation due to the added water, and excessive addition of water to increase weight," it added.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prune exports are expected to climb to nearly 90,000 tons for 1992, according to an Agriculture Department study.

"If you are looking for a U.S. trade success story, you need search no further than the prune industry," said a recent report by the Foreign Agricultural Service.

Export sales reached 54,000 tons in 1987, it said, and "in 1992, U.S. exports are expected to near a record 90,000 tons valued at $137 million."

The largest markets for U.S. prunes in 1992 were Japan, 20 percent; Italy, 19 percent; Germany, 13 percent; Canada, 7 percent; and the United Kingdom, 7 percent.

The United States is the world's dominant prune exporter, the report said, with the U.S. market share of global prune exports rising from 55 percent in 1986 to 66 percent in 1991.

"The U.S. industry is benefiting from two important consumer trends: an aging population and a growing health consciousness," the report said. "Many older people have long recognized prunes as a natural laxative. In addition, the growing health consciousness of younger and older people alike has spurred sales."

WASHINGTON (AP) - There has been a large increase in Canadian imports of U.S. corn, according to the U.S. Embassy in Ottawa.

In September, Canada received 122,000 metric tons of U.S. corn, which is about one-third of the total corn imports for the previous marketing year, the Agriculture Department said in a report based on embassy information.

USDA said the increase resulted from "wet weather conditions that limited this year's Canadian corn crop. More Canadian imports of corn are very likely since the latest Canadian corn production estimate was 5 million metric tons, down from the 7.4 million metric tons produced during the previous marketing year."

The report pointed out that corn use as a feed grain is different in Canada than in the United States.

"During the 1990-91 marketing year, corn represented only 28 percent of Canadian feed grain consumption, whereas corn normally represents more than three-fourths of all U.S. feed grain consumption," it said.

"Also, during the 1990-91 marketing year, Canadian livestock consumed 20 million metric tons of feed grain, compared to the 153 million metric tons of feed grain consumed in the United States."

DSEC directors honored

Clarence Martin, left, and Jerry Roberts were recently presented awards recognizing them for their years of service. Martin, board vice president; has served 10 years and Roberts, board secretary, received a 15-year award.

$1.2 billion in poultry, egg exports last year set mark

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. poultry and egg exports are estimated to have hit a record $1.2 billion in 1992, with broiler and turkey parts showing the largest increases.

"Broiler exports were still the leading category of U.S. poultry exports, accounting for about 50 percent of the value of total poultry product exports during 1992," the Foreign Agricultural Service said in a recent report.

Broiler meat exports, led by growth in sales to Hong Kong, Mexico, Romania and Poland, grew to around 658,000 metric tons, about 15 percent above the previous year, it said.

Turkey exports, described as booming in recent years, expanded by an estimated 60 percent in 1992, the report said.

"U.S. exports of dark meat parts, which do not benefit from any form of export subsidization, continued to be about the cheapest source of meat protein on the world market," it said.

Exports of prepared poultry parts almost doubled in both value and quality, the report said.

The value of table egg exports was up an estimated 4 percent, while exports of live poultry increased about 9 percent.

Table egg exports increased around 10 percent in volume in 1992, to about 57 million dozen.

"U.S. table egg shipments to Hong Kong, a targeted Export Enhancement Program market, accounted for about 50 percent of total table egg exports," the report said.

"Exports of whole broilers, the only U.S. poultry meat product for which the United States does offer export subsidies, declined in 1992," the report said.

However, it said, a number of governments took steps in 1992 to disrupt the flow of U.S. broiler meat entering their countries.

"Bowing to local producers' pressure, a long list of countries either increased tariffs or created new sanitary regulations to counter U.S. broiler imports," it said. "From South Africa, to Central America, to South Korea, the popularity of competitively priced U.S. broiler meat generated demands from local producers to block U.S. broiler imports."

WASHINGTON (AP) - Japanese buyers are increasingly interested in importing frozen concentrated orange juice from the United States, sending them from 3,133 metric tons in 1990 to 8,019 metric tons in 1991.

That represented growth from 14 percent of total Japanese imports to 27 percent, according to a report in USDA's AgExporter magazine.

"Grapefruit is also becoming more popular among Japanese consumers," it said. "Until recent years, the market for U.S. grapefruit was mainly limited to large, urban areas of Japan. However, with the support of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Market Promotion Program, promotional activities for U.S. citrus fruit have been expanded to cover many local areas throughout Japan."

Satellite clients discussed

Loraine Sandoval presented a program concerning the clients at the Hereford Satellite Work Training Center when members of La Alfilus Estudio Club met Tuesday in the home of Opal Elliston.

Sandoval spoke about the clients' special needs and how those needs are met by the center.

During the business meeting, members agreed to donate $25 to the Friends of the Library to help purchase a video projector for Deaf Smith County Library.

Members present included Elliston, who served refreshments, and Annie Delozier, Marie Harris, Alberta Higgins, Aileen Montgomery, Pet Ott, Della Stagner, Emily Suggs, Louise Streun and Mary Williamson.

The next meeting is scheduled Feb. 16 with Della Stagner serving as hostess.

Public invited to convention

The Golden Spread Chapter of the National Society of Tole and Decorative Painters will sponsor Tole Round 1993 to all interested individuals. The mini-convention is scheduled March 12-14 at Amarillo's Fifth Season Inn.

Classes are offered for beginning through advanced painters in acrylic, oil and fabric dye. There will be 53 classes available taught by outstanding teachers.

Membership in the society is not required to participate in the three-day event.

For additional information, please call Betty Lady at 364-4056 after 6 p.m.

Classic look saves time

Here's a beauty of an idea to make the most of your money and your skin this winter - let your tan come out of a bottle. According to New York make-up pro Diane Young, "The sun-touched face has become a new classic that can easily be enhanced with a little make-up."

For more than 30 years, sunless tanners have played a role in establishing the now classic look. While sunless tanners used to be thought of as a way to jump-start or extend a summer tan, they're now considered a year-round product for the entire body.

Young cites tanning products as a double bonus because you can "combat winter paleness and dry skin in one step," without the dangers of ultraviolet (UV) exposure.

Once tanned, it's easy to finish the tanned face with four inexpensive make-up items including an all-over bronzing powder, a blusher, a single color eye-shadow and sheer lip colors. Here are a few color tips from Diane Young:

-Bronze and apricot triple-milled loose powders smooth and refine the skin's surface.

-Single eye colors that go on in one easy step are this season's hottest make-up trend. In bronzing shades of mocha, amber, copper and plum, these shadows give the eye a warm, soft look.

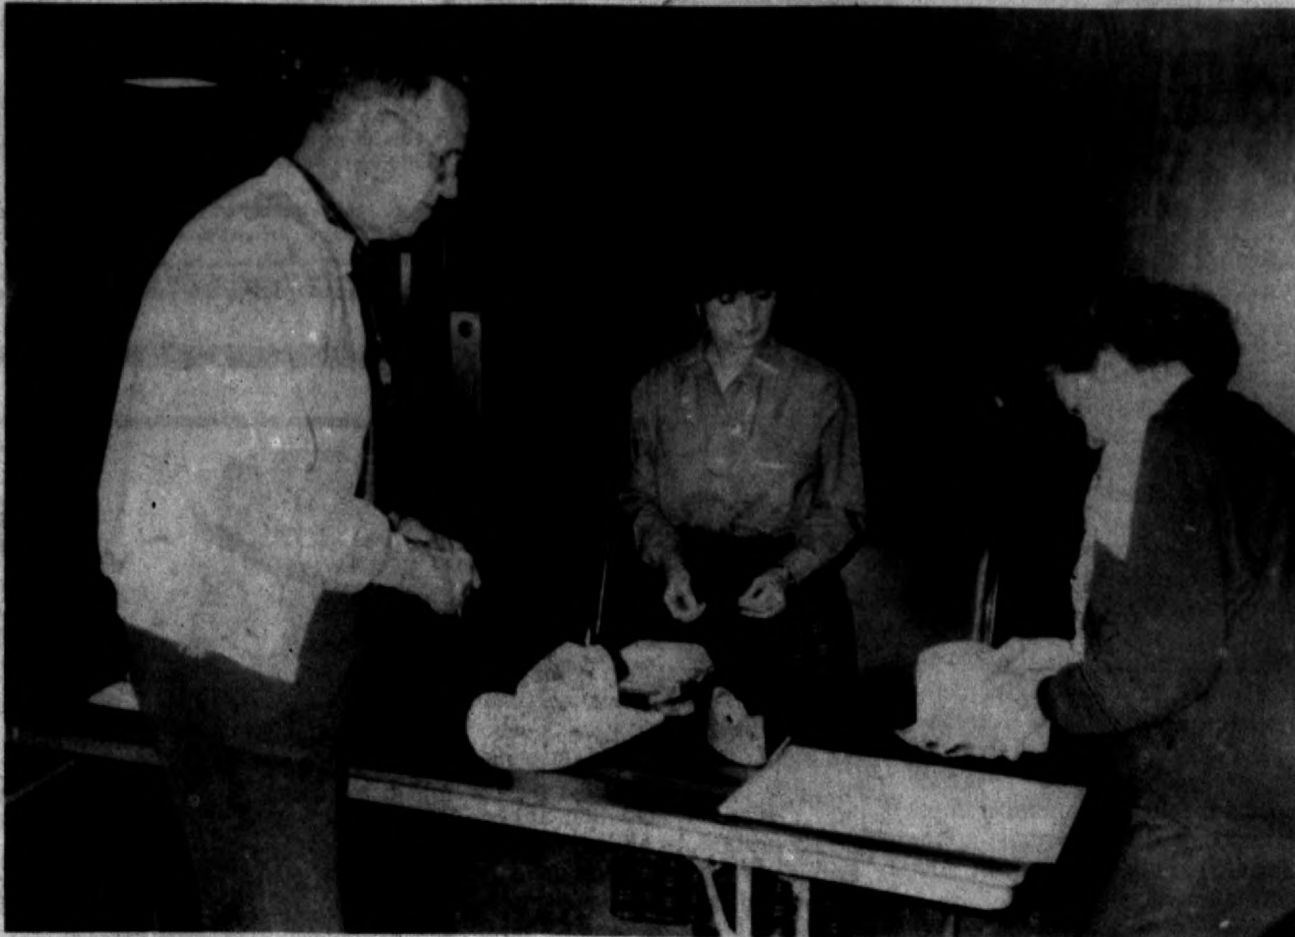

-Sun-touched blushers should be light, neutral shades with just a hint of copper or bronze.

-Lips should be well-defined using transparent color; lip veils-formulas between a lipstick and a lip gloss-work especially well with a tanned face.

Health Tip: If winter activities take you outdoors, be sure to protect yourself from ultraviolet exposure - a sunless tan will not protect you from the sun. Dermatologists recommend regular applications of a high SPF sunscreen, protective clothing and eyewear. By following these tips, you will protect your skin from premature aging, wrinkles and skin cancer.

The Liberty Bell was first rung on July 8, 1776 to announce the adoption of the Declaration of Independence.

Mexican stack supper set

The Hereford Pilot Club's annual Mexican stack supper is scheduled from 5-8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 18, in the Hereford High School cafeteria. Tickets are priced at $4.50 for adults and $2.50 for children and may be purchased from Pilot Club members or at the door. Carry-out orders will be available. All proceeds will be used to benefit the community. Lester Wagoner is shown buying a ticket from club members, Carolyn Fry and Joyce Ward.

Auxiliary votes to help with program

Deaf Smith General Hospital Auxiliary members voted to participate in the hospital's "adopt a room" program when the group met Monday in the hospital board room.

The auxiliary will donate the required amount of money needed to refurbish a hospital room. The public is also invited to participate in this project.

Bonnie Sublett reported that the auxiliary had accumulated 145 1/2 volunteer hours in January and Grace Covington said that 24 baby books had been distributed to new mothers in January.

It was announced that an orientation session for volunteers will be held March 1 and that an orientation meeting for high school volunteers has been scheduled at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 11.

Further hospital improvements were discussed with the focus on the nurses' station and OB room.

All current auxiliary members were encouraged to assist prospective members to become familiar with the hospital and gift shop duties.

President Quintna Waits presided over the meeting and Sublett read the auxiliary prayer. Roll was called by Mary Williamson and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Lupe Cerda.

Members in attendance were Quintna Waits, Baxter London, Lupe Cerda, Jo Lee, Nell Culpepper, Grace Covington, Bonnie Sublett, Elizabeth Fowler, Mary Williamson, Bonnie Hamilton, Anna Stindt, Irene Reinart, Lou Sherman and Mary Jane Burrus.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) - Charles Kimbrough, who plays stuffy anchorman Jim Dial on "Murphy Brown," didn't have to look far for inspiration.

He was just like the stiff-as-a-board Dial before he entered Indiana University in 1954.

"In school I was incredibly timid," Kimbrough, 56, said during a visit Wednesday to his alma mater. "I hated confrontation. So I tried to develop this cool, cynical, man-of-the-world pose to fool people into thinking they shouldn't mess with me."

He said his drama training at the university helped him grow out of his Dial-like fears of other people.

The experts agree that togetherness is the key to family stability and what better way to spend time together than having fun doing an activity that everyone can enjoy--watching videos.

Students honored at Tech

Eleven Hereford students attending Texas Tech University qualified for the academic honors lists at the end of the 1992 fall semester.

Students on the President's List earned a perfect 4.0 (A) grade point average while enrolled in 12 or more semester hours of classwork. Students finishing 12 or more hours with a grade point average of 3.5 to 3.9

qualified for the Dean's List.

Named to the President's List are John Malouf, Matthew Reiter and Brienna Townsend.

Those on the Dean's List are Temple Abney, Robert Backus, Russell Backus, Susan Bell, Jennifer Hicks, Charles Hund, Jayme Moore and Vaavia Rudd.

LAURA RICHEY, JIM BOB PARKER

Wedding date set

Laura Elise Richey and James Robert Parker, both of Houston, will be united in marriage June 5 in First United Methodist Church in Lake Jackson.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Richey of Lake Jackson and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Parker of Dawn.

Miss Richey is a 1988 graduate of Lake Jackson High School and she was the outstanding graduate in financial studies at Baylor University. She is a member of the social sorority, Kappa Alpha Theta; Student Foundation; honor fraternities, Beta Gamma Sigma and Omicron Delta Kappa; and the sorority honor, Order of Omicron. She is currently employed as a systems consultant with Arthur Andersen and Co. in Houston.

Parker is a 1988 graduate of Hereford High School and is a 1992 graduate of Baylor University. He is a medical student at the University of Texas at Houston. He serves as service chairman of Phi Gamma Delta; is a member of Student Foundation, finance and recruitment; holds membership in Gamma Beta Phi Honor Society and Phi Beta Pi Medical Fraternity; and is on the Dean's List.

Humorous talk given to legion, auxiliary

"Honeymoon Hotel" was the humorous talk given by Bob Lohr when members of the American Legion and Auxiliary Unit 192 met Tuesday in the Post Home.

Lohr and his wife, Carol, made a trip to Colorado this past year and Mr. Lohr recounted the scenery, the couple's childhood friends and the hometowns they had visited. The Lohrs were married in 1946 in Estes Park, Colo.

President Betty Jo Carlson called the meeting to order and Chaplain Dorothy Shannon gave the opening prayer. Bea Cargo, secretary-treasurer, read the December minutes and gave the financial report.

Several committee reports were heard. Viola Wagner of the cheer committee told of the cards which were sent in January and Troyce Hanna with the membership committee reported that there were 66 paid members with six members still needed to reach the auxiliary's membership goal.

It was announced that the 18th district would like to have 100 percent membership at the District Convention planned April 24-25 in Borger. Everyone is encouraged to invite prospects for possible membership. It was also noted that the registration fee for Girls State will be sent this month.

Several announcements were made: Shirley Carlson will be discharged from the hospital soon; President's Day is Feb. 15; Elvise Stambaugh, Helen Stark and Gladys Smith will be celebrating "over 90" birthdays; and 62 members were in attendance at the January Zone meeting held in Nazareth including 10 members from Hereford.

Ruth King quoted from the National News magazine, "If every auxiliary member would donate $1.46 it would take care of all the homeless veterans in America."

President Carlson read a Guidepost article about four courageous, giving chaplains who gave their lives on the Dorchester 50 years ago off the coast of Greenland. Many lives were changed through the example of these men.

Troyce Hanna announced that

Donna Brockman, executive director of the Deaf Smith County Museum, will be the guest speaker during the March 2 meeting.

Legion and Auxiliary members were served refreshments provided by hostesses, Viola Wagner, Willie Vinton and Clara Trowbridge. Mrs. Wagner was serenaded with "Happy Birthday" and was presented with a birthday cake and card.

Members present were Carlson, King, Cargo, Shannon, Hanna, Wagner, Trowbridge, Alta Hudson, Bernice Layman, Mildred LaFever, Beverly Jesko, Ella Caudle, Irene Berger and Lou Ann LaFever.

Parkinson's disease common

Did you know that Parkinson's disease (PD) is more common than other well-known neurological diseases like multiple sclerosis and muscular dystrophy? PD is a disorder of the central nervous system that affects some 1.5 million Americans.

Parkinson's can occur in any family, regardless of age, gender, race, or income level. It occurs most frequently, however, in men over 50. Where PD used to be considered virtually hopeless, doctors today are optimistic that the disease will ultimately be conquered. The Parkinson's Disease Foundation has been dedicated to research into the cause, prevention, treatment and cure for PD since 1957.

Increase of suits no asset

The growing number of liability suits is no asset to our economy say those who want to put American workers back to work. Consider these facts about the asbestos litigation which so far has bankrupted 16 American companies.

Economists report that the impact on the competitiveness of American business is devastating. In addition to the 16 bankruptcies, tens of thousands of jobs have been lost. Moreover, courts have imposed the burden of the bankrupt companies' liabilities on the assets of companies that remain.

Of the more than $12 billion spent so far by American companies on asbestos litigation, about $9 billion has gone to lawyers. Many Americans now feel civil justice reforms are needed to create an administrative solution for all present and future asbestos claimants. The reforms would unlog the courts and use available funds to meet the needs of future meritorious claimants.

Anyone can write Congress on this or any issue at: The U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510 and the U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

The U.S. Revenue Cutter Service - a naval task force - was formed in 1790. It would later become the Coast Guard.

Middle East topic of Pioneer program

Pioneer Study Club President Rosemary Thomas presented the program, "My Trip to the Middle East", and also served as hostess when the group met recently at Caisson House Restaurant.

In keeping with the club's chosen subject of study for the year on "Patchwork of History", Thomas presented to each member a surprise package to be opened. Each gift bag was decorated in rock colors holding blue and white tissue paper representing the terrain and colors of the countries she visited on her Middle Eastern trip. She also gave each member a clear plastic book mark decorated with flowers of the Holy Land.

Thomas explained that each person on the trip could receive four hours of college credit. She said that her tour began in Turkey which was known as Ephesus in the old days and was the location occupied by Paul, John and Luke. She told of the excitement she felt when walking on the marbled streets that were once the possession of Romans, Egyptians and Greeks and that her impression of Ephesus was dramatically realized when she could see the magnificence of the ruins.

The speaker also traveled to the top of the Acropolis in Greece where the temple of Athena is located, as well as the blue and white Greek flag.

Thomas told the club women that Israel has drastically changed from a trip she had taken several years ago. The ruins of the old temples are hard to find and it is difficult to locate places of quiet and contemplation.

At the conclusion of her presentation, Thomas stated, "Egypt is the place to go. Cleopatra had the right idea about sailing down the Nile. This trip is a must for those who want to learn about that part of history which is vital to all civilization. It takes preparation, both in studying and physical stamina, but it is well worth any sacrifice."

President Thomas opened the meeting and Virginia Wood gave the invocation. The Pledge of Allegiance and the Pledge to the Texas flag were repeated in unison by club members.

Nell Culpepper, chairman of public affairs, reminded members of the change in the military of lifting the ban on homosexuals. She asked those present to write letters to Les Aspin, Secretary of Defense, and/or congressmen.

Letters of appreciation for Christmas gifts and remembrances were read by Gladys Miller, corresponding secretary. Over 33 boxes of cookies and candy were delivered to shut-ins as well as to indigents serviced by the Texas Department of Human Services. Also, cards, stamps and clothing were sent to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Amarillo.

Nell Culpepper reported that the Hereford Beautification Alliance would be electing officers and directors. The purpose of this organization is to promote public interest in beautification and recycling.

Margaret Reed, district president of Top of Texas, sent a letter from the General Federation of Women's Clubs announcing a public awareness information program to be given in the form of books and coloring books to students in the Hereford Independent School District. The subject, "Operation Life Saver" will be given to pre-school and primary grade students. A gift from Procter Gamble called "Planet Earth" for children in fourth through sixth grades will be presented as well as "Decision Earth" to be given to students in seventh through eighth grades.

The group also voted to give a donation to the Friends of the Library in order to purchase a video projector for Deaf Smith County Library.

Members present were Mary Jane Burrus, Culpepper, Catherine Gripp, Helen Langley, Miller, Mary Panciera, Thomas and Wood.

CYNTHIA CORDOVA, STEVE RODRIGUEZ

Couple to wed

Cynthia Cordova of Dimmitt and Steve Rodriguez of Hereford plan to wed Aug. 21 in San Jose Catholic Church of Hereford.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Juan and Juanita Cordova of Dimmitt and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Elias and Magdalena Rodriguez of Route 6, Hereford.

Miss Cordova is a 1988 graduate of Hereford High School and is currently attending Amarillo College where she is pursuing a degree in substance abuse counseling. She is employed by Hereford Bi-Products.

Rodriguez, also a 1988 HHS graduate, is employed by Hereford Bi-Products.

Protecting the environment has become a top priority. While the future of the environment lies to a great extent in the hands of government leaders and set policies, grassroots efforts to curb energy use can also make a significant impact on the state of the planet. Follow these tips to use less energy in the kitchen:

- Use the smallest oven possible to cook; larger ovens may use more energy than is necessary, which in turn can contribute to environmental damage.

- Save glass jars and plastic containers and use them instead of aluminum foil or plastic wrap to store leftovers.

- Take advantage of a crock pot, which uses little energy, for soups and stews or other dishes that take a long time to cook.

- Cook with a pan that is the same size as the burner when cooking on an electric stove. If a six-inch pan is heated on an eight-inch burner, more than 40 percent of the heat generated by the burner is lost.

- When possible, keep the lid on a pot or pan during cooking. Spaghetti heated in a pot without the lid requires three times as long to cook as spaghetti heated in a covered pot.

- Keep metal grease-catching burner pans clean. Clean, shiny pans reflect heat up toward the cookware, whereas dirty, blackened ones absorb heat and reduce cooking efficiency.

- Turn off electric burners a minute or so before a dish is fully cooked; a red hot burner will continue to generate heat.

- Contact the gas company if gas flames are yellow rather than blue. Yellow signals that the gas is not burning efficiently.

- Keep air circulating inside the oven by staggering pans on upper and lower racks. Good air flow allows for efficient cooking of foods.

- Make sure the inside of the microwave oven is clean to maximize its ability to heat food.

We do what we must and call it by the best names.

Toujour Ami members have white elephant auction

A white elephant auction was conducted for members of Toujour Amis Study Club when the group met recently in the home of Donna West. Proceeds from the live auction will be used to assist a needy family in the community in which the club has adopted for the year.

Following the auction, members were served desert by Lisa Klett, Kim Bigham and Donna Kemp, who assisted the hostess.

This meeting was the first business session of the year since the club's annual holiday party in December which was held in the home of Judy Barrett where a four-course sit down dinner was served and secret pal Christmas gifts were exchanged.

Members attending the auction included Judy Barrett, Kim Bigham, Cindy Black, Melinda Bridge, Patti Brown, Kim Buckley, Tami Charest, Diana Griffin, Tonja Horrell, Donna Kemp, Lisa Klett, Brenda Koenig, Leisa Lewis, Kyla McDowell, Elaine McNutt, Shelly Moss, Donna West, Lauri Paetzold, Kim Porter, Becky Reinart, Jill Savoini, Sarah Lawson, Cindy Simons, Nena Veazey and Marsha Winget.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Madonna too old? Sir Andrew Lloyd Webber thinks so.

Lloyd Webber said Madonna, at 34, isn't young enough to play the title role in his proposed film version of "Evita," the musical about Eva Peron.

Besides, her image has been hurt by her "Sex" book and her latest movie, "Body of Evidence," Lloyd Webber said Thursday.

"She made noises that she wants to do it, but I don't think she's right for it," Lloyd Webber said.

By JOE WEAVER

February is Black History Month, so this would be a good time to read about blacks who have made an impact on our society. A few names come to mind immediately...Martin Luther King, Malcolm X, Bill Cosby...and the library has a number of books by some great contributors like Booker T. Washington and George Washington Carver...and if you've never read Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass, subtitled "An American Slave," I recommend it. There is another man who played a prominent part in our history about whom comparatively little has been written and about whom the library, unfortunately, has less. Benjamin Banneker was a true genius, demonstrated by his construction of a working wooden clock after having taken apart a real watch. He was chosen to assist in the planning of Washington, D.C. and amazed "educated" men by his mathematical and astronomical skills. The one book was have, What Are You Figuring, Now? is on our adult literacy shelf, but it is a good overview of the life of this remarkable man. More detailed works are, of course, available through interlibrary loan.

A new month also brings new displays. Andrew Feller, twelve year old son of Don and Kathie Feller is sharing with us during February his collection of Lego creations. He has been collecting them "forever" and has a number of sets and arrangements. Andrew enjoys baseball and football and is active in JOY at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. He is in the seventh grad at HJH.

Mary Ruth Baird says that figurines of blond-headed boys are hard to come by, so she started collecting them about eight years ago. She has figurines in all sizes and poses, but her favorite is the one of Santa rocking the little boy, the first of her collection. Mary Ruth is teacher of special education at Stanton Learning Center and mother of two blond-headed boys, Matthew, 14, and Trevor, 8. She also teaches Sunday School at First Baptist Church and serves on the board of the Friends of the Library.

CORRECTION! If you received a library calendar for February, there is a change! March 1 was promoted as the Friends of the Library Annual Open House, but due to a scheduling conflict, the event has been moved to March 29. Mark your calendar now! You won't want to miss Dr. Fred Rathjen, former professor of history at WTSU as he stages a "Reenactment of Local History."

Sad news for fans of Jean Plaidy, Victoria Holt and Phillipa Carr...a Mediterranean cruise turned out to be the final journey. No, there was no maritime disaster, it was merely "time" for octogenarian Eleanor Hibbert, who wrote under those "noms de plume." There is some consolation, fans...three of her works will be published posthumously, though I don't know under what names.

New books this week include Awaken The Giant Within by bestselling author Anthony Robbins. Robbins reveals how to take immediate control of your mental, emotional, physical, and financial destiny.

Turnout is the story of Bill Hall - firefighter, EMT, paramedic. Turnout is a tale of "drama, death, humor, dedication, heroism, and teamwork, spiced with plenty of fire service excitement."

We thought we had the full "house of Winslow" series, but author Gilbert Morris is still cranking them out. The Union belle, number eleven is going out this week, so if you're following the story, you'll want to get your name on the list.

The library will be closed Saturday and Monday for President's Day. Looks like the groundhog may have seen his shadow last Tuesday. You know where to come when those winter blues get you down...the library!

New E.H. officers named

New officers of the 4-Corners Extension Homemakers Club were introduced when the group met recently at St. Thomas Episcopal Church.

Serving as president will be Emily Knight; vice president, Rhonda Urbanczyk; secretary, Brenda Paschel; treasurer, Sharla Moudy; reporter, Nancy Andrews; council delegate, Patty Urbanczyk; and club project chairman, Shawnay Sparkman.

Rhonda Urbanczyk presented a film entitled "Action for Children's Television: It's the Law." The film concerned how the Children's Television Act can make a difference. A survey will be conducted by World Media Partners in which the club will be participating by filling out survey questions.

Brenda Paschel, hostess, served juice and appetizers to those present: Nancy Andrews, Elizabeth Baca, Emily Knight, Rhonda Urbanczyk, Jaime Brorman, Sharla Moudy, Shawnay Sparkman, Denise Marnell, and guests, Karla Vasek, Larinda Jones and Dana Minchew.

The club meets the third Wednesday of each month at St. Thomas Episcopal Church.

Become smoke-free

Quitting smoking is the single most important step you can make to improve your health. If your goal for the New Year is to kick the nicotine habit, take the following steps to make your resolution a reality!

1. Think about your reasons for quitting.

Get down the specific reasons you have for quitting smoking. The more you want to quit, the easier it will be. And, if you encounter difficulties later on, reviewing your reasons may help strengthen your resolve.

2. See your doctor.

Nicotine in cigarettes is addictive. When you try to quit smoking, you may experience withdrawal symptoms such as craving for tobacco, anxiety, difficulty concentrating and headaches. Your doctor can explain the changes your body will go through, offer advice on diet, exercise, a comprehensive behavioral smoking-cessation program and prescribe nicotine gum or a nicotine patch, such as Nicoderm (nicotine transdermal system), to help relieve withdrawal symptoms. Also, remember to see your doctor regularly so your progress can be monitored.

3. Set a quit day.

Choose a day in the near future, mark it on your calendar and tell your family and close friends.

4. Keep a diary of your smoking habits.

Keep track of when you smoke and how you feel each time you light up. Is it first thing in the morning? After dinner? During busy periods at work? Are you happy? Stressed out? Bored? If you know when, where, and why you smoke, you can plan ahead for those times.

5. Develop coping strategies.

Quitting smoking has physical, social and psychological implications and a stop-smoking effort that neglects any of these aspects is far less likely to succeed. Take steps to modify your behavior by changing your daily routine so you won't miss smoking as much. For example, if you enjoy smoking after dinner, train yourself not to linger at the table. Stay busy for the first few days of your stop-smoking plan and actually participate in your comprehensive smoking-cessation program.

6. Determine what type of exercise is right for you.

Exercise can be invigorating and mentally uplifting. It can also take your mind off smoking and help keep your weight down.

7. Get help from people you know.

Support is critical to people trying to kick the habit. Look to your family and friends to determine who can be helpful and how. Know who to call when you have trouble resisting the craving for a cigarette. Rely on people who can offer praise and encouragement.

8. Take a realistic look at weight gain.

For many people, the thought of weight gain is an obstacle, if not a complete deterrent, to quitting. If you are one of these individuals, you should know that the average weight gain is five to six pounds. You might gain a few pounds, but view it as part of a plan to increase your overall health. Better yet...take active steps to avoid the increase with exercise and a proper diet.

9. Plan rewards for quitting.

Giving up cigarettes is a major life change. Establish milestones (two days without cigarettes, etc.) and reward yourself with things you enjoy or that carry special meaning.

10. Dispose of all reminders.

Throw away all cigarettes and matches and hide lighters and ashtrays. You do not want any accessible or visible reminders of smoking.

What if I go Back to Smoking?

Quitting smoking is not easy. In fact, of the 17 million people who try to quit each year, only 10 percent succeed.

James Beard and IACP Awards
NEW YORK (AP) - The third annual James Beard Awards will be held May 3 to in New York to honor the best in the cooking and restaurant industries.

Three sets of awards will be given: The Who's Who of Food and Beverage, honoring lifetime achievement; the Perrier-Jouet Restaurant Awards, recognizing restaurants, chefs and beverage professionals; and the Farberware Book Awards for 1992's top food and beverage books.

The awards are sponsored and underwritten by the James Beard Foundation, a not-for-profit organization established in Beard's memory, with funding from corporations and food associations. Beard is credited with awakening a serious interest in American food.

Adult displayer of the month

Mary Ruth Baird has been selected as the adult displayer of the month at Deaf Smith County Library. She is displaying her collection of blonde-headed boy figurines. This month's children displayer of the month is Andrew Feller, son of Don and Kathie Feller. His collection of Lego creations is on exhibit.

Voice of Democracy winner honored Monday

Matthew Parker, local Voice of Democracy winner, was honored at a banquet Monday evening by members of the Roy Wederbrook Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #4818 and its Ladies Auxiliary.

Marie Goheen, Voice of Democracy chairman, introduced Matthew who gave his speech. He was presented with an engraved plaque and his scholarship will be presented during the Hereford High School Awards Assembly in May. Also, introduced were the honoree's parents, Mary and Gerald Parker.

Goheen gave a brief history of the Voice of Democracy program and District 13 President Betty Dykes of Plainview informed the group that the District 13 winner this year was from Plainview and had placed sixth at state. District 13 Commander John Duke of Friona and Buddy Dykes of Plainview both spoke briefly about the Voice of Democracy scholarship program and praised Matthew for his speech.

Tom Draper gave the blessing before the banquet began. Lt. Pat

Michael and his wife, Sheryl, sang several songs including "America, the Beautiful."

Betty Boggs, safety chairman, introduced special guests, Police Chief David Wagner and his wife, Pam, and Officer Terry Brown, who received an engraved plaque thanking him for his three years of service with the safety program.

Also, recognized as a special guest was Deanna Duke of Friona.

Following the program, auxiliary members met for a short business meeting at which time Leona Sowell was welcomed as a new member. Roll was called, minutes read and approved, treasurer's report given and bills presented. Correspondence was read including the General Orders #6.

Members present were Betty Boggs, Martha Bridges, Mildred and Jo Bob Clements, Doris Coffin, Anna and Ben Conklin, Argen and Tom Draper, Marie and Tom Goheen, Dora Lea Howell, Linda Dutton, Essie Martin, Erma Murphey, Sadie Shaw, Doris Wilson, Kathryn Acton and Leona Sowell.

Lyme Disease vaccine discovered

By ROGER J. BULGER, M.D.

Dr. Bulger is President of the Association of Academic Health Centers and a past President of the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston.

Recently, researchers have made exceptional progress in developing a vaccine for Lyme disease, which may also help in its eradication.

In 1975, researchers investigated several cases of childhood arthritis in Old Lyme, Connecticut, and determined that they were caused by a tick-borne infection, known as Lyme disease. In 1982, National Institute of Health (NIH) researcher Willy Burgdorfer identified a corkscrew-shaped bacteria, subsequently named Borrelia burgdorferi, as the culprit. Animals such as deer, mice, rats, raccoons, and squirrels can harbor Borrelia in their blood without becoming ill. When ticks feed on these animals they ingest the germ, then pass it along to the next animal - or human - they bite.

Humans may develop a circular, red area around the bite. Initial symptoms can mimic a mild case of flu. If Lyme disease is left untreated, rashes, arthritis, abnormal heart rhythms, nerve damage, and memory loss can develop. If properly diagnosed, prompt treatment with antibiotics prevents these late effects.

Although avoiding the woods and wearing protective clothing reduces one's risk, a vaccine could provide long-term protection to people and pets. Vaccine development, however, was hampered by the lack of a suitable animal model - most animals harbor the Borrelia germ without developing the disease. However, after a year of searching, a susceptible strain of mice was identified. Researchers also found that hamsters with suppressed immune systems could contract Lyme disease.

Using these animal models a vaccine based on killed-Borrelia was developed, and in 1990 it was approved to protect dogs. Recently, a vaccine using a genetically engineered Borrelia protein has been shown to be effective in animals. Preliminary human trials began in October, 1992, and if successful, the vaccine may become available within three years.

Q. How does one get off of unsolicited mailing lists? Is there a central clearinghouse where this could be accomplished? — Douglas Wisman, Woodstock, Va.

A. Glad you asked! The wonderful people at Direct Marketing Association (DMA) are the ones that can help you with unwanted solicitation mail.

DMA has a new address: Direct Marketing Association, PO Box 9008, Farmingdale NY 11735.

Mail is being forwarded for anyone who has already sent a request in using the old address, but please make a note of the new one for future requests.

You can also help prevent unwanted mail in the future by requesting your name and address not be given to other companies.

Also, remember to make this request when ordering catalog merchandise, renewing or ordering a subscription or when giving a donation. — Heloise

Dear Heloise: I want to thank you for printing your reader's letter warning about the danger of coat hangers filling up the landfills. What with the way they multiply in one's closet, imagine the result they would produce in a landfill!

Returning these hangers to the cleaners is a godsend of an idea, except for the thousands of coat-hanger manufacturing workers who would lose their jobs as a result.

I suggest that everyone keep their hangers until they die, then they would be placed in the coffin with their owner.

No workers are thrown out of work and the landfills will have plenty of room. — David L. Katzner, Rural Hall, N.C.

This is a very different way of solving the coat-hanger dilemma. Thanks for sharing it, I think! — Heloise

Former resident accepted, enrolled in pharmacy school

Former Hereford resident, Nikki Lynn Hutson of Brenham, has been accepted and is enrolled in her first semester in the Southwestern Oklahoma State University School of Pharmacy at Weatherford. She is the daughter of Rickey and Theresa Yvonne Hutson of Brenham, also former residents.

A total of 38 students were accepted to the 1993 spring pharmacy school class at Southwestern. Chosen from 113 qualified applicants, the class has a composite grade point average of 3.26 and is composed of 25 women and 13 men.

Minimum requirements for admission to the School of Pharmacy at Southwestern include the completion of at least 60 semester hours of specified pre-pharmacy courses with a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0.

The Marketing Concept

THIS WEEK, more than 200,000 members of the American Marketing Association will celebrate marketing week with special programs, events and meetings. Yet, even as these marketing professionals celebrate, millions of small business owners will struggle with the marketing functions of their businesses. The marketing concept is confusing and often misunderstood by entrepreneurs.

When I started my first business more than fifteen years ago, I left behind a 10 year career in corporate marketing and advertising. Although I possessed some valid experience, I lacked many of the basic marketing skills needed to make my business grow.

I soon found that some of the marketing practices I'd taken for granted in the corporate world, weren't affordable in small business. Extensive research budgets didn't exist and we funded all advertising and promotion expenses out of our savings. My wife and I struggled as we made these business lifestyle changes.

Customer focus

Perhaps the most difficult part of the marketing concept for us to understand was that our business existed solely for the customer. We went into that first retail store with the belief that if we opened it, they would come. We also believed that if we carried lines that we liked, everyone else would like them too.

We focused on what we wanted to do and how we wanted to do it. It took us several months to realize the value of focusing on our customers. As we began to change our focus, the store grew and profits came. However, it took several more years and a number of business ventures for the rest of the marketing concept to sink in.

The core elements

The core of the marketing concept is driven by customer needs. For any business to succeed, a need, want or demand must exist. Once you determine there is demand, the question becomes, can you fill it? Can you satisfy the customers' wants or needs? Can you provide products or services from which your customers will derive utility, value and satisfaction? Will they pay you enough so you can cover all costs and make a profit?

I find that these are questions that few small business owners take time to answer before just plunging in. From my own experience of working with more than 1,000 would-be entrepreneurs, I'd say that only 1 percent really consider their future customer's needs.

Another core element in the marketing concept is to analyze your competition. You must be certain that no one else is filling the same need or want that you are trying to fill. Or, you must determine there is an adequate customer base to support more than one business of that type.

A third element is to target the market you plan to serve. One of the more common mistakes I see in the small business is the entrepreneur who tries to be everything to all people. Instead, focus your resources and efforts on satisfying customers in specific areas. You can think of this as niche-picking.

You can target income levels, geographic regions or areas and product categories. You can focus on men, women or children. You may aim at specific age groups like the baby boomers or the elderly. The objective is to find a niche. Even retail giants like Wal-Mart, K-Mart, and Target have weaknesses. Some very successful companies like The Gap, Toys'R'Us, Best Buys and Home Depot are working market niches.

If you are currently struggling with your marketing efforts, keep reading this column. All this month we will devote our entire column space to marketing topics as we join the American Marketing Association in celebrating the marketing concept. If you would like more information on the American Marketing Association, call me at (806) 372-5151.

You may write to Don Taylor in care of Minding Your Own Business, PO Box 67, Amarillo, Texas 79105.

Food facts, fancies

Eat five a day for better health: Five servings of fruit and vegetables, that is, says the National Cancer Institute and other health experts. They say five servings of fruit and vegetables every day can help reduce your risk of cancer, heart disease, diabetes, high blood pressure and other chronic diseases.

An easy and delicious way to add more fruit to your diet is by snacking on dried fruit, or adding dried prunes, figs or apricots to a salad. When looking for quality dried fruit, many consumers look to Mariani, a company with the best quality sanitation record in the industry. The company achieved a score that's the equivalent of an A plus for nine consecutive quarters from the Dried Fruit Association.

Says company president Mark Mariani, "Every facet of our business is based on the highest quality standards. We buy only premium produce. Our growers know we handle their fruit in the most sanitary and scientific way to produce the best product in the industry. Mariani isn't only a brand name, it's our family name that has encompassed pride in quality for four generations. The Mariani name on a package assures consumer of the finest quality dried fruit product on the market."

Your doctor can help if you suffer from a common digestive disorder.

Glenn Close soars once more in 'Skylark'

Sunday on CBS, the Hallmark Hall of Fame presents Skylark, the sequel to 1991's Emmy-winning Sarah, Plain and Tall. Reprising their roles as the courageous Witting family are (left to right) Christopher Walken, Glenn Close, Christopher Bell and Lexi Randall. Joseph Sargent directed from a teleplay by Newbery Medal winner Patricia MacLachlan.

MacLachlan's skillful sequel matches grace of original
By Steven Alan McGaw

Two years ago, roughly 50 million Americans fell in love with Sarah, Plain and Tall, making it the most watched program in the 40-year history of the Hallmark Hall of Fame presentations. CBS is hopeful a similar number of viewers will tune in for Skylark, the sequel to Sarah, airing Sunday, Feb. 7.

No one could have wished for a following-up to the Emmy-winning film more ardently than actress Glenn Close. She played the title character, a strong-willed woman from Maine who answers a Kansas widower's newspaper ad to move to the prairie, raise his children and "make a difference" in their lives.

"I loved that character very much," Close says, "and I thought it would be fascinating to bring everybody back... I wasn't ready to say goodbye to Sarah."

Initially, writer Patricia MacLachlan, the author of the novel Sarah, Plain and Tall and its subsequent teleplay, was reluctant to try a follow-up.

"I find sequels usually stretch and strain the original material," she says. But the enthusiastic viewer response, combined with critical acclaim and the impassioned requests from her leading players, convinced MacLachlan to give it a try.

"Patty, you gave birth to these characters," the writer recalls Close and co-star Christopher Walken saying, "how could you not want to explore them further?" They were right.

Skylark begins on a spring morning in 1912, two years after Sarah left off, with Jacob Witting,

In Skylark, Sarah Witting (Glenn Close) learns about the hardships of life on the Kansas plains in 1912.

(Walken), Sarah and their children, Anna (Lexi Randall) and Caleb (Christopher Bell), posing for a family portrait. The scene summarizes well the bonding brought by time. "We wanted to show a true progression," Close explains, adding that Walken particularly felt it was "important to show how Sarah had made a difference - what their marriage was like and that they actually were very happy."

But happiness alone can do little to forestall the hardships of frontier life. As the dusty days drag on, it becomes apparent that a drought has set in.

"What will we do?" Sarah asks one evening, as dangerous, seemingly taunting "heat lightning" flashes across the rainless sky. "We'll manage," Jacob answers tersely, but the fear is clear in his eyes.

Sarah and Jacob watch in dismay while their crops wither and their livestock grows weak and listless - much like themselves - as water becomes ever more scarce. Even more disturbing is the number of families who simply give up, adding their farms and homes to nature's bitte toll. Outwardly, the Wittings swear again and again to stay on the land no matter what, but doubts and fears remain.

Jacob's resolve crumbles the night he watches helplessly as his barn burns to the ground. The next day, he puts Sarah, Anna and Caleb on a train bound for Maine. The return to their childhood home is comforting to Sarah and a real adventure for the children, but Jacob - alone on the farm - is never far from their thoughts.

In every way, Skylark is well-crafted, graceful and life-affirming as its predecessor. Close clearly loves playing Sarah, and it shows in her luminous, understated performance. Walken is powerful and endearing as a sensitive man who insists he's "no good with words." Randall and Bell have matured as performers and Lois Smith, Elizabeth Wilson and Tresa Hughes offer warmth and humor as Sarah's maiden aunts. Joseph Sargent's direction is excellent, finding just the right tone for the graceful script.

STAR NOTES

Burton busy acting in a variety of TV roles

By Suzanne Gill

Actor LeVar Burton can be seen this week in three television arenas: a network docudrama, a hit syndicated series and a children's program on PBS.

On Sunday, Feb. 7, Burton has a leading role in the ABC movie Firestorm: 72 Hours in Oakland. In the film, which is based on the October 1991 fire in the drought-stricken hills of Oakland, Calif., Burton plays newly appointed fire chief J. Allan Mather. Despite inadequate preparations for such an emergency, "in tragedies like these human beings rise to their highest," Burton believes.

In addition, Burton appears weekly in Star Trek: The Next Generation as Lt. Geordi La Forge, who this season falls in love with "a real live human being, not a holographic representation..." I'm real pleased about that. Somehow, Burton also has time to tape several new episodes of PBS' Reading Rainbow each season. As host of the show, he uses award-winning books to open young minds to the wider world around them.

Burton found fame in 1977 as the young Kunta Kinte in Alex Haley's Roots. Viewers shouldn't be surprised, however, to find Burton missing from Queen, a new Haley saga airing next week on CBS. The story of Haley's father's family, "Queen was a situation where [producer] David Wolper made a conscious decision not to have anybody from the original Roots" in the cast, Burton says. He might have been too busy anyway.

A Christmas Carol  A miserly old man learns the true meaning of Christmas. Reginald Owen, Gene Lockhart 1:30. (1938) Feb. 8 3:30am.

Code of Silence  A Chicago cop is caught between a gang war and corrupt policemen. Chuck Norris, Henry Silva R Profanity, Nudity, Violence. 2:00. (1985) Feb. 13 1:00pm.

Come September  A man finds his caretaker secretly using his Italian villa as a hotel. Rock Hudson, Gina Lollobrigida 2:00. (1961) Feb. 7 1:00pm.

Conagher  A widow with two children meets a tough but honest cowboy. Sam Elliott, Katharine Ross 2:30. (1991) Feb. 9 7:00pm.

TIME OUT

NFL's best meet in Hawaii

By Michael Scogin

The NFL season draws to a close on Sunday, Feb. 7, as ESPN presents the 1993 AFC-NFC Pro Bowl from the sunny confines of Aloha Stadium in Honolulu, Hawaii, where it has been held since 1980. While most players consider the game a well-earned vacation, for the die-hard fan it represents the final football fix until training camp starts again.

The NFL's all-star game features the National Football Conference taking on the American Football Conference. The Pro Bowl had its beginnings at Chicago's Wrigley Field in a 1939 post-season game between the league champion and a team of all-stars from around the league. The game didn't take on its present form until 1971. The NFC leads the series 13-9 over the AFC.

The teams are selected by coaches and players from around the league, who name the best performers of the past year, and this year, there were plenty to choose from.

San Francisco quarterback Steve Young finally emerged from Joe Montana's shadow to finish as the league's highest-rated passer and the NFL's Most Valuable Player. The Dallas Cowboys' Emmitt Smith won his second-straight rushing title, though he had to snatch it from Pittsburgh's Barry Foster on the last day of the season. Green Bay's Sterling Sharpe led all receivers in touchdowns and yardage gained.

John-boy can 'Make You Love' him

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - John-Boy has become a killer.

Richard Thomas, who gained fame as John-Boy on the morality-based family show "The Waltons" two decades ago, plays the stalker of a young woman and killer of seven people in a CBS movie to be televised Tuesday.

Thomas stars as Richard Farley in "I Can Make You Love Me: The Stalking of Laura Black," which is based on a true story.

Thomas, who now laughs about his receding hairline and approaching 42nd birthday, sought the role, which seems "out of character to old 'Waltons' fans."

"Obviously, people tend to get cast as rough-and-tumble types or heavies, or they don't," he says. "And I don't usually, so it's always nice to play something different."

In the movie, Brooke Shields plays Laura Black, who was stalked over a four-year period by Farley, who is now on California's Death Row. Farley's obsession with his co-worker ended in a mass killing at their office building in Northern California.

The movie, written by Frank Abatemarco, was directed by Michael Switzer on location in Topeka, Kan.

This is the first television role as a heavy for Thomas, who appeared in three movies within the past year. It won't be his last, however. While this is on the air he'll be in Charlotte, N.C., for a role as a wife-killer in the ABC movie "Death in Small Doses."

He laughs and says, "I'm playing another killer. So you see, it's from one stereotype to another. I played bunches of bad guys when I was a little boy. I'd play the baby-faced psychotics."

"This guy murdered seven people, but it's not really a villainous role. The trick here is to paint a picture of a man who to all intents and purposes is normal and unthreatening until his persistence becomes an obsession and his obsession gets out of hand. This is just a guy who works in the office next door."

"Let's face it. I'm playing a real guy who's on Death Row. I've got a certain responsibility no matter how horrible his deeds. You want to make it real and human and have some sense coming from human needs."

He's not some mustache-twirling melodramatic villain."

When Laura Black arrives at her new job, Farley, a well-regarded, longtime employee, immediately asks her for a date. She politely declines, thinking that's the end of it.

It's just the beginning. He follows her everywhere she goes. He uses his position within the company to gather information on her. The more she spurns him, the more persistent and threatening he becomes.

Authorities at first suggest she may be encouraging him, but his actions become so menacing he is fired and issued a restraining order.

Farley, who's been amassing a small arsenal of weapons, drives to the office, kills seven people and critically wounds Black.

Since "The Waltons" ended in 1981, Thomas has divided his time between TV movies, the theater, teaching and recording books on tape. As soon as he finishes the movie in North Carolina he goes to Washington, D.C., for his first assignment as director of a stage play.

SOAP TALK

Soap clergyman wears wedding ring

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: I hope you will answer my question, because it is something that has been bothering me for quite a while.

If the Rev. Andrew Carpenter on the daytime drama One Life to Live is a Catholic priest, then how is he able to marry Cassie Callison? He wears a Roman Catholic collar. —Joyce Hamilton, Bardstow, Ky.

Dear Reader: The Rev. Andrew Carpenter (Wortham Krimmer) is an Episcopal priest. The Episcopal church, as you probably know, allows its clergy to marry. There is a great deal of similarity in the attire, and I can understand your confusion.

Speaking of attire, wasn't Laura Bonarrigo's character, Cassie, beautiful in her wedding dress? It was wonderful to see what could be considered normal wedding attire in a soap wedding.

Dear Candace: I was wondering if Barbara on As the World Turns is pregnant in real life. She is a beautiful woman, but she really does look as though she has gained a little bit of weight. Did she gain weight as part of the story line? I also wish that she and Hal would get back together. They deserve some happiness. —A fan in Oklahoma.

Dear Reader: Colleen Zenk Pinter, who portrays Barbara on ATWT, is pregnant in real life. She will be leaving the show soon to begin her maternity leave.

There is a good chance that Hal and Barbara could reunite eventually.

You may be interested to know that Pinter's real-life husband is Mark Pinter, who portrays Grant on Another World. This is the sixth child to join the Pinter household.

Dear Candace: I don't know if you can help me, but I thought I saw the MTV video jockey "Downtown" Julie Brown playing a role on Loving. At least I'm pretty sure it was her. She played the part of a bartender. —Sheila in North Carolina.

Dear Reader: Your eyes did not deceive you. "Downtown" Julie Brown has accepted the recurring role of PINS bar manager Sam. Her vibrant personality, sassy attitude and style will add some fun to the bowling-alley hangout.

HBO special reviews history of black comedy

By Dan Rice

Black History Month is observed on HBO with the documentary Mo' Fun: Black Comedy in America, debuting Tuesday, Feb. 9. Charles Dutton of Roc narrates the 90-minute special, which features rare film and TV footage and anecdotes of early black performers. From turn-of-the-century minstrel performers and 1930s comic servants such as Stepin Fetchit, to civil-rights-era comics such as Dick Gregory and Godfrey Cambridge and contemporary performers like Damon Wayans and Whoopi Goldberg, the program demonstrates how each generation's battle against discrimination helped the next.

Gregory Peck and Lauren Bacall team for the first time in their film careers since 1957's Designing Woman for the TNT original movie The Portrait, premiering Saturday, Feb. 13. Arthur Penn (Bonnie and Clyde) directs this adaptation of Tina Howe's stage play Painting Churches.

Author Marguerite Duras is profiled on an edition of Bravo's South Bank Show airing Thursday, Feb. 11. Included are clips from Jean-Jacques Annaud's film The Lover, an adaptation of Duras' best-known novel.

The protection and preservation of the parrots of the Windward Islands is the mission of English conservationist Paul Butler. Sunday, Feb. 7, on TBS, World of Audubon: Caribbean Cool looks at the efforts of Butler and his local counterparts.

LOVE

He will direct a stage version of "The Red Badge of Courage" for the youth program at the Kennedy Center. Thomas starred in a 1974 television adaptation of the Stephen Crane novel about a young Union soldier who flees in terror during his first Civil War battle. He ultimately finds the courage to return to the front.

After the play ends in April, Thomas will record the book for Dove Books.

"It's the first time for me to direct in the theater," he says. "I directed some episodes of 'The Waltons,' but directing was never an ambition of mine."

Thomas, whose parents were ballet dancers, began in the theater as a child in New York. At the age of 7 he appeared on Broadway in "Sunrise at Campobello" and soon afterward made his TV debut in a Hall of Fame

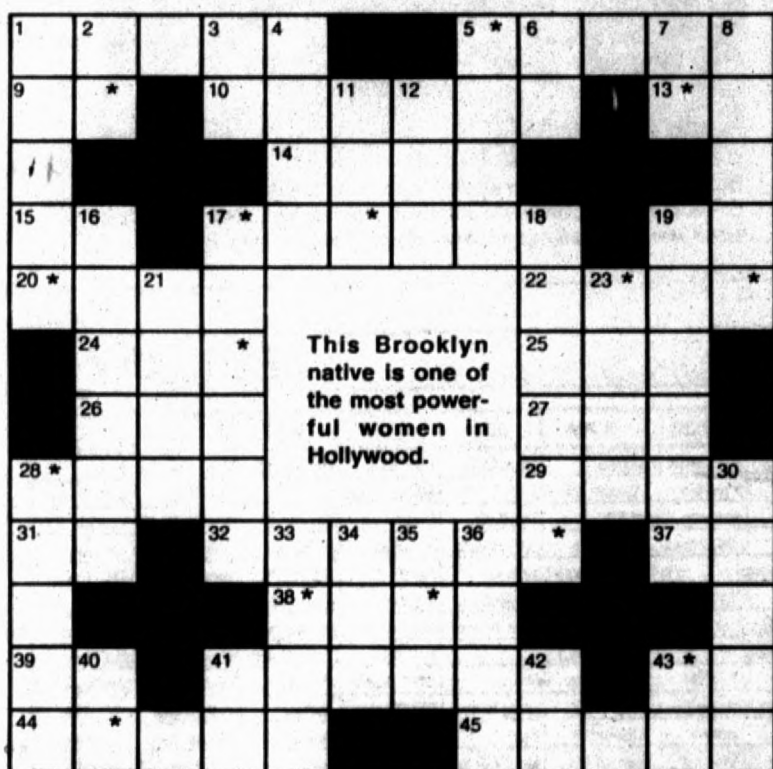

special "The Christmas Tree."

He appeared frequently on television, starred in soap operas as a teen-ager, and starred in "The Homecoming" in 1971, the movie pilot for "The Waltons."

"I was a child actor, teen-age actor, a young man, and now I'm a middle-age actor," he says. "I don't know that I've had transitions, though. It all kind of washes together. I think nothing has changed. Then I look at a piece of film from 20 years ago and it seems that I'm looking at a completely different person."

Thomas says he feels he loses roles because some casting directors still tend to think of him as a youth. But, he notes, he's the father of a 16-year-old son and triplet daughters who are 11.

LET'S TALK

Lansbury film a holiday favorite; Gabby rode with the Duke, Hopalong

By Taylor Michaels

Q: I was wondering if you could tell me the name of a Christmas movie that aired four or five years ago starring Angela Lansbury and Lee Remick. I waited to see it again, but to no avail. It's a wonderful family film.

A: The name of the presentation is The Gift of Love: A Christmas Story, which was made for television in 1983 and replayed on CBS nearly every Christmas Day. Since you are particularly enamored of this story, perhaps you'd like to read Bess Streeter Aldrich's The Silent Stars Go By, on which the movie was based.

Q: I am a great fan of old Western movies. Whatever happened to character actor Gabby Hayes? —Wanda, McCook, Neb.

A: George "Gabby" Hayes was born on May 7, 1885, in Wellsville, N.Y. As a youngster, he began performing in traveling vaudeville shows. As early as 1923, he appeared in Western films, usually playing the villain. Many times in those early days it was his job to be bested by a lean, mean hero named John Wayne. When Western serials became popular in the 1930s, Hayes graduated to the part of good guy, generally playing the comically cantankerous old-timer who needed a shave and a few more teeth. In the 1950s, Hayes' work with William Boyd in the Hopalong Cassidy serials was rerun on television. Hayes died in 1969.

Q: Can you tell me who the kids are who sing songs and dance at the end of Beverly Hills, 90210? Sometimes they are shown interacting with the cast members, yet as far as I know, they haven't been introduced in any episodes yet. Are they going to be new cast members? —Kathi Collins, Oregon City, Ore.

A: The assorted dancers and musicians who occasionally appear with the cast members as the show is taping off are a lucky few picked to be showcased — much in the same way dancers and rappers are introduced on In Living Color — by the producers. Strutting one's stuff with Luke Perry et al is a good way to gain immediate recognition in the music stores.

Q: As an admirer of John Larroquette's work on Night Court, I would be interested in writing to him. Do you have an address where I may contact him? —Helen Wolfe, Park Forest, Ill.

Angela Lansbury and Lee Remick in The Gift of Love

A: Larroquette, who has agreed to star in a new NBC comedy series tentatively titled Crossroads, may be contacted in care of Creative Artists Agency, 9830 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212-1825.

Q: I'm a fan of Wallace Beery, who I believe didn't have the sort of audience and career that I think he deserved. Could you run a story on him? —Patrice Henin, Deltona, Fla.

A: Beery, whose brother, Noah, and nephew, Noah Jr., were also screen stars, probably had more of a following than you think. His career flourished in the early 1930s when Beery was one of the few stars who made the transition from silent films to talkies without much of a problem.

Born on April Fools' Day in 1885 in Kansas City, Mo., Beery performed in everything from the Ringling Bros. Circus to Broadway musicals before landing a Hollywood contract impersonating a Swedish maid in a series of 1913 comedy shorts. Work soon came more steadily, and, in 1916 he married Gloria Swanson, the first lady of cinema at the time, only to divorce her two years later. In talkies, he managed to use his throaty growl and stark appearance to forge a career that was, though not wildly flamboyant, very respectable. A list of his best work would include Min and Bill, Treasure Island (as Long John Silver), China Seas, The Sea Hawk, Tugboat Annie, Dinner at Eight and Twenty-Mule Team. He even won (in a tie with Fredric March) a Best Actor Oscar for 1931's The Champ. He died in 1949.

Sexism, racism themes of 'Prime Suspect 2' on PBS

Helen Mirren reprises role as London policewoman

By Stuart A. Hessney

Murder, sexism and racism are the murky stuff of which PBS' latest Mystery! is made.

In Prime Suspect 2, a four-part thriller airing Thursdays beginning Feb. 11, Helen Mirren reprises her role as Detective Chief Inspector Jane Tennison, the highest-ranking woman in her department, whose job it is to solve another difficult murder case.

The tale unfolds in a muddy alley in London's Afro-Caribbean community. Heavy rain has washed away the dirt covering a young woman's badly decomposed body. Tennison quickly finds herself the target of local residents' rage while trying to learn the victim's identity and whether she was white or black.

In addition to the sexism Tennison endured in the original Prime Suspect, its sequel tackles the theme of racism as well. Here, one of Tennison's prime suspects is black, as is her paramour (newcomer Colin Salmon). In addition, one of her chief aides is a bigot. Despite Tennison's success in past investigations, her male colleagues still resent taking orders from a woman—a very formidable woman.

"She's tough and ruthlessly ambitious," Mirren says of her character. "Of course, women in all key positions of power have to be strong to survive ...

"It's great playing an ambitious and directed woman who still remains the heroine against the odds. It's a very rare combination to be seen on the screen."

Mirren's portrayal brings Tennison's strengths and weaknesses to life, adding complexity to the drama. Thanks to strong writing and direction, characters' flaws are illuminated, giving them depth and the drama a gritty sense of realism as it explores its themes of sexism and racism on political and emotional levels, all the while telling an engrossing murder tale.

In short, the sequel repeats the achievement of the original, and it's certain we'll encounter Detective Tennison again.

"The third [installment in the series] is being written at this very moment," Mirren says.

Sixteen Candles ★★ A girl's 16th birthday is the worst day of her life. Molly Ringwald. Anthony Michael Hall PG Profanity, Nudity, Adult Situation. 2:00. (1984) Feb. 12 10:00pm.

THURSDAY

Thursdays on ABC, Hal Linden (right) plays the proprietor of a bistro in Jack's Place. John Dye and Finola Hughes co-star, respectively, as his optimistic bartender and earthy waitress.

BITS AND PIECES

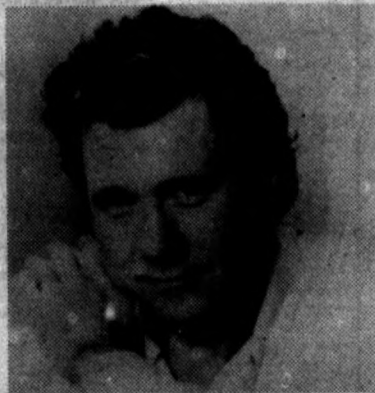

Larroquette back on NBC docket; Devane landing on ABC

John Larroquette (Night Court) has signed an exclusive deal with NBC to star in a new comedy series. The four-time Emmy winner will play a man recovering from a financial and emotional downfall while working as the night manager of an urban bus station. Larroquette will be the co-executive producer of the series, which is tentatively titled Crossroads.

Also on the rebound is William Devane, whose CBS series Knots Landing comes to a close in May. Devane has agreed to move to ABC to produce and star in a new series; he will also develop telefilms for the network.

A who's who of animation greats will make up the newly formed Cartoon Network Advisory Board, scheduled to meet for the first time in May. The consultants include Ren & Stimpy creator John Kricfalusi, Bill Hanna and Joseph Barbera, and Noel Blanc, who is following in the voiceprints of his father, Mel Blanc.

Ted Turner himself will be host of the Cartoon Network's upcoming "Turner Family Showcase," a quarterly series of animated adaptations of children's literature designed to foster family literacy. Titles for the series include Charlotte's Web, The Phantom Tollbooth and three adaptations of Dr. Seuss stories.

John Larroquette

NBC has a new programming strategy up its sleeve. Great Escapes, scheduled to launch on Friday nights this August, is a series of six-week serialized dramas designed to offer romance, adventure and exotic locales for viewers drained by the work week. Each saga will also serve as a series pilot, in case audiences agree the escape is great indeed. The projects in development include: Lake Success, the tale of a family-run New York pharmaceutical empire; Trade Winds, in which feuding families vie for sunken treasure in the Caribbean; and Pretenders, the story of a Louisiana bayou-born young woman who goes to Paris to reclaim her family's lineage.

FRIDAY

On Friday, NBC examines the seeming self-destruction of an American hero in Fallen Champ: The Untold Story of Mike Tyson, produced and directed by Oscar winner Barbara Kopple.

 EXCELLENT
  POOR
  DON'T WASTE MONEY

Two of this (or any) year's finest performances by actresses are found in PASSION FISH: Starring Mary McDonnell and Alfre Woodard.

Written, directed and edited by John Sayles, Passion Fish is a story of flight that leads ultimately to self-discovery. Mary McDonnell, playing a famous soap-opera star, paralyzed from an automobile accident, returns to her home in Cajun Louisiana to disappear into a life of self-pity. Alfre Woodard, a Chicago-born nurse with her own dark secrets, is her companion/nurse. His, however, is not a female-bonding movie. It's more of a compelling reaffirmation of life told with remarkably revealing, sometimes painful, and often caustic humor. The film's quiet pacing, the unfolding of each moment, the subtle release of hidden fears and feelings, will slowly draw you into the center of one of this year's best movies. Shot on location in Lafayette, Louisiana, the picture captures the eccentric magic and mystery of the Cajun country. Rated R for language and brief sex.

SINGLE WHITE FEMALE: (1992)
Starring Bridget Fonda and Jennifer Jason Leigh.

Things get kind of weird when Allison Jones (Bridget Fonda) recruits an adoring new roommate (Jennifer Jason Leigh) who begins to emulate Allison to the extent that she tries to become her. In the hands of as sophisticated a film maker as Barbet Schroeder, this might have led down twisted paths of identity crisis. However, laboring here for the mass market, Mr. Schroeder limits the ramifications to standard violence. This is a thriller far classier than, but essentially not very different from, your garden variety psychological dramas. Rated R.Two and a Half Boxes*

FRANCOIS TRUFFAUT

The late French new wave director and former film critic:

TRUFFAUT COLLECTOR SET: At a distance of 6,000 miles, Francois Truffaut transformed Hollywood filmmaking of the late '60s, spawning such seminal American works as Bonnie and Clyde. In this three-disc, laserdisc set from the Voyager Company is the first installment of what promises to be an eight-film Truffaut package for 1993. It features brand-new digital widescreen transfers of two of his three best films: The 400 Blows and Jules and Jim, and a documentary about his career. Black and white has never looked as good as it does here, nor to mention a wide spectrum of subtly discriminated grays. The films are supplemented by commentary from Truffaut's colleague Suzanne Schiffman; Jules co-writer Jean Gruault; Blows co-writers Marcel and Moussy; editor Claudine Bouche; and Truffaut scholars Annette Insdorf and Brian Stonehill; and thirty minutes of trailers, a tape of Jean-Pierre Leaud's Blows audition, and assorted interviews with Truffaut.

(See MOVIE, Page 11)

Chevy Chase plays a New York sportswriter who leaves the city for what he hopes will be the peace and quiet of the country in George Roy Hill's Funny Farm, airing Saturday on ABC.

NOT TO BE MISSED

RAISE THE RED LANTERN: (1992/Chinese) Mainland Chinese director Zhang Yimou (Red Sorghum, Ju Dou) returns to familiar territory - territory marked with the blood of lost youth. In Raise the Red Lantern, Soglian, a college-educated beauty, is forced by her stepmother to become the fourth wife of a wealthy feudal patriarch. The wives spend their days waiting to see whom the husband will choose to sleep with each evening - a ritual signaled, breathtakingly, by the raising of a red lantern. The house, a vast, haunted maze void of any signs of life - not even a garnish on a plate of food - becomes a stark metaphor for Soglian's isolation and doom. Tragically, this magnificently filmed, startlingly beautiful and brilliant film was nominated but then passed over by the American Academy at last year's Oscars. In Chinese with English subtitles (which are never needed). Rated PG-13.

JOHN SAYLES

Writer-director John Sayles (Passion Fish) has such an unerring sense of what's right in a scene and such a superb ear for dialogue that his movies often seem more like intimate documentaries than simple fiction.

Two more of his films this column recommends are:

BABY, IT'S YOU: (1983) Starring Rosanna Arquette and Vincent Spano. This is a most enjoyable movie about the trials and tribulations of high school kids in Trenton, New Jersey, circa 1966. Arquette and Spano are excellent as two high school students from opposite sides of the tracks who are attracted to each other. Baby, It's You is not only funny and touching, but also very sexy. Rated R for violence, profanity, and nudity.

RETURN OF THE SECAUCUS 7: (1980) Starring Mark Arnott, Gordon Clapp, Maggie Cousineau, Adam Lefevre, Bruce MacDonald, Jean Passanante, and Maggie Renzl. Here's an absolute gem of a movie. It's a story of the reunion of seven friends ten years after they were wrongfully busted in Secaucus, New Jersey, while on their way to the last demonstration against the Vietnam War, in Washington, D.C. It is a delicious blend of characterizations, humor, and insight. Not rated. Would be an R for nudity, profanity, and implicit sex.

FOR THE MUSIC LOVER

ROBERT SHAW: PREPARING A MASTERPIECE, VOL. 2; A CHORAL WORKSHOP ON BEETHOVEN'S MISSA SOLEMNIS: (1992/ Carnegie Hall/ $29.95/ For Information: 212-247-7800) In the latest of a series of tapes, the director Robert Shaw rehearses a large chorus for a performance of Beethoven's Missa Solemnis in Carnegie Hall. Last year saw the release of similar tapes of rehearsals of Brahms's German Requiem. In May there will be a tape of rehearsals for Berlioz's Requiem chorus.

FAMILY FARE

RSVP ABC for Flintstone wedding

By Chris Carpenter

Pebbles Flintstone prepares to say I Yabba Dabba Do! to Bedrock's most eligible bachelor, Bamm-Bamm Rubble, Sunday, Feb. 7, on ABC, and longtime friends of the Stone Age families will gather for the party.

Topping the guest list are Joe Barbera and Bill Hanna, producers of the original Flintstones animated series and many more, who appear in cartoon cameos at the big event.

More a father of the lovebirds than even new in-laws Fred and Barney, Hanna remembers the days when Pebbles was still a glimmer in Fred's eye - a time when "even the Disney studio was smaller" and animation wasn't "as rushed or frantic" as today.

"Joe and I used to take six or eight weeks to make a six-minute picture," Hanna says. "We're used to doing that in one or two days now."

A two-hour special, I Yabba Dabba Do! speaks volumes about the new generation of animators at Hanna-Barbera, a frenetic yet talented bunch who have re-created the sound and scenery of Bedrock to perfection. Thirty years later, Barney still doesn't mention where he works, the household appliances still hate their jobs and Fred's schemes still backfire.

And one more thing is the same - the Flintstones title theme, a little ditty Hanna wrote, which has even been parodied by Homer Simpson. "It's been well-received," Hanna offers modestly.

TRIVIA, ETC.

Who played Mary's mom?

By Steven Alan McGaw

Test your "old TV" IQ with these questions about sitcoms from the past. Questions:

1. Identify the actress who periodically played Mary Richards' mother in The Mary Tyler Moore Show.

2. This singer/actor played Sally Field's husband in the short-lived The Girl With Something Extra.

3. Buffalo Bill's last name was ...

4. Who played the recurring role of Mel's mother in Ally?

5. In Mr. Ed, what did Wilbur do for a living?

6. What was the name of Rhoda's less-than-energetic doorman?

7. Who put in several appearances as Ricky's grandfather on Silver Spoons?

8. What was "Potsie" Weber's real name in Happy Days?

9. Name the actor who portrayed Mr. French in Family Affair. (Bonus: What was the character's first name?)

10. Who performed the theme song for The Courtship of Eddie's Father?

Answers:

10. Harry Nilsson.

French.

9. Sebastian Cabot played Giles.

8. Warren.

7. John Houseman.

6. Carlton.

5. He was an architect.

4. Martha Raye.

3. Bittner.

2. John Davidson.

1. Nanette Fabray.
