JUNIOR COLLEGE PLANNED FOR SEPT. NEXT YEAR

At a meeting on last Thursday night of the school board, the board of equalization and a number of citizens of the Perryton Independent School District, it was decided to launch an educational program that will insure the establishment of a Junior College in Perryton for the term beginning September 1929. The meeting was of one accord in the matter and it is believed that by adding equipment during the coming year, that it will be comparatively easy to add the two years additional work at that time. Time is so short and detail work is so extensive, that it is practically impossible to try to establish the organization this September.

It is also hoped that by next year, the Legislature of Texas will pass a practical bill relating to Junior Colleges. No such bill now exists, in fact no law relating to Junior Colleges in any manner.

CITY BUYS NEW STREET GRADER

NEW CATERPILLAR TRACTOR AND GRADER COMBINED PURCHASED FOR CITY STREET DEPT.

The contract was let for the purchase of a new Caterpillar tractor and grader, combined, for use on the streets by the board of city aldermen.

The new street grader is already in use and is putting the city streets up in fine shape. It is so made that the crawler type tractor pushes the grader ahead of it, allowing one man to operate the tractor and grader.

This new improvement was badly needed, the old tractor being in such bad shape that it could not be used.

Mrs. John Piper and children were Friday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Millege.

Employ Band Director

Wilmann is Hired Jointly by City Council and the School Board

Rud R. Wilmann of Sequin, Texas has been employed jointly by the city council and the school board as band and orchestra director for nine months period commencing September 1st.

Mr. Wilmann comes to Perryton highly recommended as a director and teacher of all band and orchestra instruments. He has had a number of years of experience in this work, both as a director and as a member of some of the best musical organizations in the state.

He has made several tours with the Texas University Longhorn band as xylophone soloist. Wilmann plans on maintaining a studio near the school campus where he will give private lessons on the various instruments.

He will also go to the Lone Tree and Farnsworth schools one night each week to help and direct those who are interested in music. No charge will be made to individuals for these practice periods.

Correll Addresses The Voters

Perryton, Texas
July 9, 1928

To the Voters of
Ochiltre County:
Ladies and Gentlemen:-

I am candidate for the office of County Judge and this is to interest you in my behalf and to solicit your vote and influence. I am paying the Ochiltree County Herald to publish this so that you may know that I am in the race.

If elected I propose to make you the best official I can. I held this office between the years 1914 and 1918, and you may investigate that record as to my qualifications and fitness for the place. With the experience I have had in the office and a constant connection with the County's affairs since, I believe is sufficient for me to say that I am fully advised of the needs of the county and duties of the office.

I am for rigid economy in all departments of government. I am for the country school, and point with some pride to my previous record as evidence of the truth of this statement. I am for good roads wherever needed. I am for a fair deal to all without special favors to any. If I am elected, I will be the county judge of this county while I hold the office and be responsible to the people whom I serve, but I will not be dictated to by any one, what shall be done and what shall not be done.

I will enforce a systematic administration of the County Court and all litigation brought before it. I served on this court for four years and there was not a single case tried during that tenure of office that was appealed to a higher court. The judgments rendered were observed which should be evidence sufficient to show the litigants believed they had a fair and impartial trial, and according to law.

I am for the equalization of values in this county so that we will not be required to pay to the State almost twice as much in taxes as our sister county of Hansford, which is the case at present. If they can get along on half what we are spending, surely we can reduce the matter some and still do well. I am for making the bills come within the money.

Just this other matter. I have just been told that it is being urged that I want the office in order to spend a godly sum improving the Ochiltree grave yard. I regret that this was ever mentioned. I want it to stop right where it is. For the information of all, let me state that the county has permanently abandoned the Ochiltree and all other grave plots, and that an association is being organized among the citizens to take over the old Ochiltree grave yard and beautify, repair, maintain and manage it generally. This will be done as soon as the necessary details can be worked out. It is with a tender feeling that I mention this hallowed spot so dear to me and many others, and to think of it being dragged into politics pricks hard at one's heart, for there lies, to me and many others, some of the tenderest memories of our lives where we like to linger and reflect. It is the land of dreams for me. I have stated the truth and am stating it early that no one may be misled with a sincere hope that such will never be mentioned again in connection with this or any other political race in this county. I had rather never see the inside of Ochiltree County's courthouse than to have such an issue dragged into the race. In the name of all that is high and noble in us let the name of the city of the dead remain untouched by politics.

I shall try to see as many as I can and ask them personally to vote for me, but to those I will not get to see, let me here say that I want your vote, your influence and good will. Voting is a duty, not a privilege, as is so often said. It is a duty you owe to your government whether National, State or local. That duty is to vote for those candidates who are qualified to fill capably the offices they seek. Ochiltree County is the biggest business corporation that any of us are stock holders in, and the only one that we all have to support; so let us select officers for the administration of its affairs on the same basis we would if it were a private corporation for profit with a capital stock of some $10,000,000.00. Until you do this you have no valid complaint when its affairs seem not to prosper.

I have no mud to sling, no axe to grind, no special reason for wanting the office further than I believe that I can serve you profitably to yourself and share therein myself.

I thank you in advance for your vote.

Respectfully submitted
R. T. Correll.

OCHILTREE AGAIN WINS TITLE TO BANNER WHEAT COUNTY OF TEXAS WITH ELEVATORS FILLED TO CAPACITY AND WHEAT ON GROUND

Ochiltree is again holding its claim to the "Banner Wheat County of Texas" for the 1928 season, according to elevator men and railway officials who estimate the movement of wheat from this county at approximately seven hundred cars for the first ten days of shipping.

With elevators filled to capacity and dumping wheat on the ground, when all the available cars on the switch tracks are loaded, and with thousands of bushels of wheat being stored in granaries all over this trade territory, Ochiltree county will probably exceed the new high production record set in 1926.

Scores of fields of late wheat have not been entered, many of them estimating that it will be the first of next week before they will be able to start harvesting. This information would lead one to believe that the peak of the wheat rush would not be reached here until next week end and probably later.

The test of the new wheat is running from sixty to sixty-four pounds, the color and grade proving excellent. While there are several reports of fifty bushel wheat, the general average seems to be from thirty to forty bushels to the acre. The total acreage this season is much greater than in 1926.

WEIRD LIGHTS IS RARE SIGHT

BEAUTIFUL PLAY OF NORTHERN LIGHTS IS RARE SIGHT IN PANHANDLE

Residents of Perryton and vicinity witnessed one of the rarest heavenly phenomena in the memory of the oldest residents, late Saturday night, when the Aurora Borealis or "Northern Lights" burned with a fierceness said to be unequalled south of the Canadian border.

According to spectators the weird ray extended from the northern horizon to almost mid-heaven, then slowly receeded. They extended from the northeast to the northwest.

The lights varied from a soft glow like the moon rising behind the cloud bank to distinct shafts of lights piercing almost to the zenith of the heavens like dim searchlight rays. The shimmering veils of lights and soft rays would fade then glow brighter.

Old timers reported having seen the "northern lights" in this vicinity before but never with such beauty and distinctness when shades of red and old rose could be seen.

A heavy cloud bank low on the northern horizon with intermittent lightning prevented many from noticing the beautiful spectacle.

WILL EXHIBIT AT BIG FAIRS

WONDER DISTRICT PRODUCTS TO BE SHOWN AT TOPEKA, HUTCHINSON OKLA. CITY

A meeting of representatives from Dallam, Hartley, Hutchinson, Ochiltree and Union counties was held in Dalhart last Friday, and the finishing touches were put on the Wonder District fair exhibit program An agricultural exhibit of a composite nature will be shown at Topeka, Hutchinson and Oklahoma City this fall by the counties mentioned, and also Sherman county, which was not represented at the meeting Friday.

Ten thousand copies of a booklet now in preparation will be distributed at the fairs. The object of the movement is to attract farmers to the district represented by the counties in the association and to this end the literature will be of a descriptive nature, and the agricultural exhibits will be of a diversified nature and will be selected from the best crops grown in the distriot.

The following representatives attended the meeting: Ochiltree county, Judge J. M. Grigsby and Guy Sheets; Hutchinson county, G. G. Granville and K. T. Cones; Hartley, E. R. Duke and H. J. Clemmer; Dallam, P. B. Harbaugh, and C. H. Walker; Union, H. H. Errett and R. T. Lee.

Roy Beever is building a new residence in the west part of town just across the street east of the new high school building. When finished it will be one of the prettiest homes in Perryton. It is of English design with seven rooms and two bathrooms. This fine new residence, which is of frame construction, is being built by Contractor Ed. Birt.

Rains .40 Inches

Early Sunday Morning Rain Totals .40 of Inch; Delays Harvest In Some Localities

Local showers over the county Saturday evening and early Sunday morning caused some delay in harvest, although the precipitation was not heavy. Some hail was reported east of Perryton, Saturday evening but the extent of the damage was thought small.

No moisture fell in Perryton until early Sunday morning, when .40 of an inch was received. The fall in other localities of the county was said to be heavier.

ALWAYS GETS RESULTS FROM HERALD WANT ADS

J. M. Bull dropped into the Herald office one day this week to order the dicontinuance of a classified ad offering a stove for sale. This small ad run in last weeks Herald and it got immediate results.

In the course of the conversation, Mr. Bull stated that of the many want ads they had used, they had never failed to get a response within thirty-six hours after the paper was published. We think that is a mighty good record for Mr. and Mrs. Bull are very consistent users of the Herald classified section.

THE TWO PROHIBITION PLANKS IN COMPARISON

Following is a comparison of the attitudes of the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively, toward the prohibition question as expressed in their compaign platforms:

DEMOCRATIC

The Republican party for eight years in complete control of the government at Washington presents the remarkable spectacle of feeling compelled in its national platform to promise obedience to a provision of the Federal Constitution which it has flagrantly disregarded, and to apologize to the country for its failure to enforce laws enacted by the Congress of the United States.

Speaking for the national Democracy this convention pledges the party and its nominees for an honest effort to enforce the eighteenth amendment and all other provisions of the Federal Constitution and all laws enacted pursuant thereto.

REPUBLICAN

We reaffirm the American constitutional doctrine as announced by George Washington in his "farewell address," to wit:—

"The Constitution which at any time exists until changed by the explicit and authentic act of the whole people is sacrely obligatory upon all."

We also reaffirm the attitude of the American people toward the Federal Constitution as declared by Abraham Lincoln.

"We are by both duty and inclination bound to stick by that Constitution in its letter and spirit from beginning to end. I am for the honest enforcement of the Constitution. Our safety, our liberty, depends upon preserving the Constitution of the United States, as our forefathers made it, inviolate."

The people through the method provided by the Constitution have written the eighteenth amendment into the Constitution. The Republican party pledges itself and its nominees to the observance and vigorous enforcement of this provision of the Constitution.

RESTRICTING IMMIGRATION

Many of the foreign countries whose citizens are seeking to immigrate to the United States are obliged to keep their own citizens for one, two three, four and five years, while the waiting lists and the quotas are being reduced to permit these aliens to cross the Atlantic and become citizens of the land of the free and the home of the brave. It was an act of wisdom that the United States raised the bars against immigrants at the close of the war. If this had not been done Europe would have been depopulated by this time, and the United States would have been crowded with common labor competing for the ordinary jobs.

The immigration laws have been enacted under the guiding direction of Representative Albert Johnson of the State of Washington, Chairman of the House Committee on Immigration. In a recent statement Mr. Johnson said that further restriction of immigration seems to be imperative. He says that the question will come up again in Congress next winter. One of the changes will apply to countries whose present immigration quotas are 10,000 or less, so as to enable immigrants from countries like Sweden, Norway, Finland, Denmark and Italy to come into the United States as family units, instead of struggling to obtain admission individually.

LIKE A SUCKING CALF

A good milking machine should be easier on the cow and more pleasing to her than the average hired man. Mechanical milkers are now being scientifically constructed to exert a pleasing effect on the cow at milking time, thus encouraging her to secrete more milk and preventing her from drying up too quickly.

Putting the thumb or finger inside one of the teat cups while the machine is in operation is a simple and practical way to test out the gentleness of a mechanical milker, the Research Departments finds. Suction which is too vigorous or which continues too long without a counteracting "massage" effect is likely to cut off the circulation and to cause the teat to become red and swollen. In imitation of the calf's method of getting his dinner, the suction of the milking machine lasts only a little over a second. Air is then forced in around the rubber tube near the bottom of the teat cup and its pressure relieves the suction, massages the teat from the tip upward and encourages circulation. These alternate actions or pulsations are timed to occur regularly from 44 to 47 times a minute.

Liver can be broiled in the oven. Cook it from eight to ten minutes, turning frequently. When done, sprinkle with salt and pepper, pour melted butter over it and serve piping hot.

Fine steel wool is good for scouring your aluminum saucepans.

DUCK DATA

There is much difference of opinion as to whether the number of wild ducks in this country has increased in the past ten years, since the passage of the migratory-bird treaty act of 1918. The Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agricultrure, with the assistance of about 3,000 observers in various parts of the country, is making a study of the abundance of ducks by counting or estimatng the numbers of birds at their oncentration points on the same day each month over a period of years. In the State of Utah alone many millions of ducks have died during the past ten years from poisoning by alkaline waters, but with certain areas of marshland in this State set aside for feeding, breeding, and nesting ground for wild fowl, under a bill approved by the President on April 23, great numbers of ducks will be saved. This is a matter of interest throughout the West, for ducks banded in Utah have been found in at least 11 other western States.

AMERICAN MACHINERY

More than $53,000,000 worth of industrial machinery was shipped to Europe in 1927, representing an increase of 29 per cent of such exports during the year. Evidently Yankee inventions are in high favor in the Old World, as our outgoing ships are filled with machinery to be set up in foreign manufacturing establishments.

Our trade with Latin America has also move upward, and it amounted to $56,557,000 in 1927, which was a gain of more than two and one half million dollars over the previous year. Cuba moved from ninth place to the fourth best customer of the United States last year.

THINKING OUT LOUD

By Samalman

Three bands at the convention were playing the different airs all at once, and many who accidently tuned in to the convention on their radio thought they were having a program of modern jazz music!

The little fights that sprang up here and there at the big Democratic conclave made one think that those who didn't get on the band wagon would be put in the patrol wagon!

Add similes: As easy as calling a national political convention to order.

"Inspiration is nine tenths perspiration," says an old adage. We didn't know "inspiration" would play such a large part in the convention.

Many speakers wondered whether those long-drawn-out demonstrations were outbursts of enthusiasm or just part of a secret plot to keep them from continuing too soon!

Both Hoover and Smith have one great essential for the presidency. Each of them likes to go fishing.

London policemen have been forbidden to chew gum. Well, what is a London policeman to do with all his time?

With all the June brides that are going home to mother, the railroads are having more business than they can handle!

During the month of June the farmers of the country got a lot of promises, and some real substantial rain!

Charles M. Schwab says business has no reason to fear either of the parties. It seems to us the important thing is whether either of the parties has any reason to fear business!

"No building on the farm gives so great a net return, year after year, for the expenditure as a good hog house," says E. Z. Russell, in charge of swine investigations for the United States Deparment of Agriculture, "yet the hog house frequently is the building of poorest construction on the farm." Often the light and ventilation are poor or lacking. Other farm animals are protected by nature from the heat and cold. The hog is not. Hog houses should not be too high, in the North. They should be located where the water will drain away freely. In the North the hog house should have a south front. In the South, it is usually better to have its length to the north and south with windows on both sides. Farrowing pens should always be provided with a guardrail, either permanent or removable to prevent the sow from crushing pigs against the wall when she lies down. This rail should be about 9 inches from the floor and leaves a space of eight or more inches from the wall.

RARE INTELLIGENCE SHOWN

Rare equine intelligence is shown by Silver King, Fred Thompson's fine pure white Arabian steed, which appears in "The Pioneer Scout" coming to the American Theatre Friday and Saturday. Silver King is almost human with hs actons in the picture. Thomson has been offered a small fortune many times for the horse but in every case has refused, and has just purchased a mate for the stallion which he will also train.

DIP SHEEP TO KILL LICE

Dipping is the the only practical method for ridding sheeping of both biting and sucking lice. Three kinds of materials that have proved effective against sheep lice are arsenical, coal-tar creosote, and tobacco or nicotine dips. An arsenical dip is the most effecient, although since it is so poisonous great precautions must be taken when using it. Prepared arsenical dips are on the market, and those advised by the Government for dipping cattle for southern fever ticks are all right for dipping sheep for lice. Coal-tar creosote is also a suitable material when used with soft water and may be used warm or cold; this is sold under various trade names. Tobacco or nicotine has also proved fairly successful in controlling sheep lice. If a dip of this material is used , it should not contain more than 0.05 to 0.07 per cent meotine; a solution stronger than 0.07 per cent may injure the animals. One dipping if properly done, will kill the lice but will not destroy the eggs, some of which usually hatch after the first dipping, so that it is safer to dip the sheep a second time from 14 to 16 days later.

Considerable interest in purebred bulls was aroused last year in a county in Misslissippi through a "lottery" to encourage owners of scrub bulls to get hid of them. A purebred bull was purchased by one of the banks in the county. Each owner of a scrub bull placed his name on a slip of paper and put it in a sealed box which was brought to the shipping pen. One name was drawn from the box to determine who would receive the purebred bull in exchange for his scrub. The others were paid the market price for their animals. In another county in the same State five banks cooperated in making a similar offer to sellers of scrub bulls in that county.

all Europe, ending financial disorder that has lasted ten years.

It is a great achievement by Poincare, worthy successor of Thiers, Turgot, Necker, Sully, and a long list of brilliant French statesmen.

Sir James Barrie tells Rhodes' scholars not to try for "greatness." The advice was humorous, probably. Trying for greatness produces desirable mediocrity. Men "aim high to shoot low" as the illiterate colored man said when he asked Grover Cleveland to make him Librarian of Congress. He really wanted a job as a porter.

A baby cries for the moon and is satisfied with a cooky. Youth reaches for greatness and is content with modest achievement and a place on the golf course.

Winfield R. Sheehan, who knows about moving pictures, says screens will be much bigger for large sized theatres now building everywhere. That will make it necessary to revise production methods.

Most important for budding genius, he says the "talking movie" will create a new army of scenario writers, knowing how to make sound effective in pictures.

In a detective story, noise of a creaking board, or a shot, might be more effective than the hero's smile.

Mr. Sheehan believes that the pictures with sound will double moving picture attendance.

In New York's brutal dancing contest—the dance to go on until all but one couple drop—the female dancer, nervously exhausted, slap their partners faces. Then the men slap the women's faces vigorously. The yahoos, called "fans," looking on, shriek with delight, as the half crazed dancers strike each other.

Such is our poor imitation of the Roman arena.

By using pectin you can make strawberries into a delicious whole fruit jelly, or you can make a clear strawberry jelly, although the juice of these berries by itself does not "jell". The United States Department of Agriculture will tell you how to make the necessary pectin and what proportions to use in the jellied strawberries or strawberry jelly.

The best cleaner for piano keys is wood alcohol. Next best is clean warm water and neutral soap. If the water is too hot it will make the keys yellow.

Tissue ginghams in attractive checked patterns and dainty colors, should not be overlooked among the sheer cotton fabrics, suggests the Bureau of home enconomics. The distinquishing characteristic of any gingham is that the yarns are dyed before the fabric is woven. Tissue ginghams have slightly threads at intervals, but are otherwise almost transparent. They wash and wear well, and are suitable for either morning or afternoon frocks, often being combined with organdy insertions or bandings.

Mr. Tractor Owner:

You can avoid 75% to 90% of your tractor field troubles, cut repair bills and get full season use of your tractor—if you realize how important correct lubrication is.

Get oil refined from high grade crude—that's the important item. Our suggestion is

QUAKER STATE TRACTOR OIL

Derived exclusively from Pennsylvania Crude—the highest grade crude oil in the world. This oil forms a perfect film which no heat or wear can dissipate and maintains an even viscosity (very important) through a wide range of temperature.

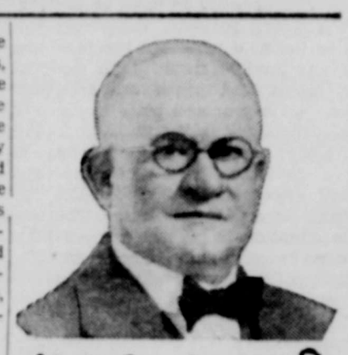

For fourteen years the highest grade tractor oil on the market—the Cream of the Crude.

Banking Service--

SERVICE! That poor, humble, browbeaten word that is kicked and cuffed and that has caused so many failures through a false creation of a sort of Utopian business heaven that never did exist. Miles and miles of paper have been used in writing about it but so few seem to understand what it means.

To give you what you pay for is not service. That's expected. To make good every promise we make is not service. That's also expected. Then you ask, "What is Service?"

It is that something, that intangible, that unexplainable something which comes from the innerself and prompts us to do something which comes from the innerself and prompts us to do something good—something that was not expected, something that can not be commercialized. That, in our opinion, is Service in its true sense.

Before Investing--Consult Your Banker!

At the present time, thousands of dollars are being poured daily into the coffers of the wheat growers of this section. It means that the people of this community will, almost to a single person, have a supply of available cash for investments. But the home folks are not the only ones that know of this era of prosperity.

The word of our wonderful wheat crop is abroad in the land and this country is full of agents, peddlers and land, stock and security salesmen. They have heard the call of the almighty dollar and have come to get a part of your hard earned profits

We are only asking that you let us give you what we consider a part of our SERVICE. Feel free to ask the advise of your banker in regard to any investment that you might be asked to make. We will gladly make prompt and immediate investigation and give you a sincere and honest opinion of the merits of same. WILL YOU LET US SERVE YOU?

The Livestock Situation

Live stock producers just now are in a very satisfactory position. Cattle prices on Pacific Coast are stronger than they have been for some time and there appears to be a very healthy undertone in the trade. This season's grass cattle have been selling at prices from two to three cents a pound higher than a year ago. Hog producers and feeders are resting much easier for the severe slump of recent months appears to be definitely at an end and the upward swing in values is well on its way. Pacific Coast markets have advanced more than two cents a pound since the "low" time three months ago. Wool growers have been fortunate in striking very satisfactory markets and despite the increased production in most of the lamb growing sections, there has been sufficient demand for the product to stimulate rather than deflate values and prices are even better than a year ago, both on the Pacific Coast and in the East.

It seems reasonable to presume that a continued period of satisfactory prices is in sight for the producer for some tme to come. The cattle situation is giving the feeders some concern, as "asking prices" on thin stock are relatively high in relation to prices on fat stock. However, that old rule of supply and demand woll take care of this situation and it is likely that buyers and sellers of stockers and feeders will be able to iron out their present differences of opinion.

Many California cattlemen settled this problem to some extent by holding back a considerable portion of their yearlings, which figure well compared with replacement values. Imperial Valley cattle feeders sensed a shortage of marketable beef on the Pacific Coast in the late summer and early fall and laid in a substantial supply of feeders which will move to market during the period of anticipated light supplies, just prior to the movement of Intermountain cattle.

Actual slaughter of beef cattle at federally inspected plants over the entire country shows a decided decrease from a year ago and the total runs far below any normal year. However, it must be remembered that when the price of cattle advance one cent a pound, the retail price of beef must advance from three to five cents a pound. This naturally eliminates a certain proportion of beef consumers, who turn to pork and lamb or some other substitue for beef. The shortage of beef and resultant higher price scale undoubtedly have contributed much towards the recent increase in pork consumption and the higher prices. No doubt, the scarcity of beef also is of much help to the lamb feeders.

No food commodity can be considered upon its own independent footing. With a shortage of beef and a higher price scale, it has been demonstrated that many normal beef consumers will turn to pork and lamb. It is another case of the laws of supply and demand working. No group of men could, for instance, sit about a table and decide the price of cattle or beef. Not only must the supply of beef be considered but the amount of money which the consumer can and will spend also enters into the proposition. And even then, there is no means of arbitrary setting a price because of the competition with other meat food products. And after we deal wth pork, veal, lamb and mutton, we must deal with poultry, rabbits, eggs and other foods.

Just now, the laws of supply and demand favor the producer of meat food animals. The condition will prevail as long as there is no overproduction.

CARE NECESSARY HANDLING COMBINE-HARVESTED GRAIN

Five principal sources of damage and loss in grain in connection with the operation of combine-harvesters have been observed by R. H. Black and E. G. Boerner, grain marketing specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, in a study of combine harvesting in the spring wheat area. These observances apply also to winter wheat in the Southwest.

These investigations declare that combines reduce the expense of harvesting and threshing, but unless the machines are operated under proper conditions and care is taken to handle the threshed grain properly, this saving may be lost. The chief causes of damage are harvesting before the wheat is ripe, cutting wheat that contains excess moisure, occurrence of green weed seeds in the threshed wheat, storing damp wheat in bins, and storing wheat that contains green weed seeds.

The investigation disclosed that it is best to delay harvesting with a combine until the wheat is mature and dry. Spring wheat in the field in the central Northwest absorbs moisture at night and is seldom dry enough to harvest before 11 o'clock or noon. Harvesting should be delayed after a rain until the grain is dry. Wheat that contains more than 14 per cent moisture is not considered as dry.

Immature, damp, or weedy wheat, it was found, can not be stored with safety. Weed seeds in even fairly dry threshed wheat may cause spoilage in storage. Properly constructed ventilators, open to the outside air and placed close together in a bin, the investigators learned, will keep clean grain which contain only a slight excess of moisture from going out of condition in storage, but may not prevent spoilage if the grain is immature or damp or if the grain contains green weed seeds.

In the spring wheat area any wheat which contains more than 14 per cent moisture must be watched carefully while it is in storage. Rely on ventilated bins only for wheat that is ripe, fairly dry, clean and sound, say the investigators. If only one of these essentials is lacking the wheat may spoil even in ventilated bins. The higher the moisture content of the grain the greater will be the danger of spoiling while it is in storage.

PREVENTING "BROWN PATCH" IN LAWNS

Loss of grass in lawns in summer from "brown patch", a disease affecting turf, may be largely prevented by care in the application of water and fertilizer. Although fertilizer is very desirable, too much of it makes the turf more susceptible to both "large" and "small brown patch," as do also too large quantities of water. Evening watering, poor air circulation, shade, and other things which favor the long covering of grass with moisture, should be avoided. Large brown patch requires a temperature of about 85 degrees to develope and the greatest losses from this will occur in July and August, but small brown patch will develop at much lower temperatures. The finer grasses, especially bents and fescues, are apt to be affected with this disease, which at times may be so widespread as to destroy large areas and necessitate replanting. Mercury compounds have given good results in controlling brown patch. Those most commonly used are Semesan and Uspulun, which should be applied at the rate of one pound to each 1000 square feet; and mercury bichloride (corrosive sublimate and colomel, which should be applied at the rate of three ounces to 1000 square feet. Colomel does not give such good control of the disease, but the effect lasts longer in the soil, and a combined application of one ounce of mecury bichloride and two ounces of calomel seems to give very good control. Amounts of mercury compounds in excess of these will injure the turf. The best way to apply the mercury is as a fine spray, watering the lawn afterwards.

KENNETH NEIL HOLT

Kenneth Neil Holt was born May 18, 1928 and passed away July 5, 1928. He is survived by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holt, and a brother, Robert Howard, and grandparents, Mrs. G. D. Holt and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carter besides a number of other relatives who mourn his death.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church, Friday afternoon with Rev. Martin T. Pope and Rev. C. Lex Shelby officiating. Mrs. J. W. Wilson was in charge of the music.

The little body was laid to rest in the Ochiltree cemetery under a beautiful covering of floral offerings.

CARD OF THANKS

At this time we wish to express our gratitude and thanks for the kindness and sympathetic assistance of our friends during the illness and death of our darling baby, and to those who contributed the sweet music, which meant more than words can express.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holt
Mrs. G. D. Holt
Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Dell
Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Carter and family.

WARREN JOY

Warren Joy was born May 14, 1880 and died July 7, 1928. At the time of his death he was 48 years, 1 month and 24 days old.

At the age of 21 he united with the Baptist church of Decama, Nebraska, which was his childhood home. He later removed to Billings Montana where he remained until January 1927 when he came to Perryton.

He was united in marriage with Mrs. Rutha Ferguson November 2, 1927. He passed away at the Shattuck hospital after a lingering illness of several months duration.

Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his death four sons and one daughter by a previous marriage, two brothers and three sisters.

The funeral services were held at the Baptist church Sunday evening with Rev. C. Lex Shelby in charge.

CARD OF THANKS

G. R. Wilson of the Wilson Funeral Home has received a letter from Raymond Rider, the young man who was injured here recently while unloading oil casing. Mr. Rider who lives in Guymon, wishes to express his thanks to those who were so kind to him.

CORRECTION IS MADE IN GRAIN BIN PRICES

We take this occasion to make a correction in behalf of the Columbian Steel Tank company, Kansas City, Mo., whose advertising on Columbian Red Top grain bins has been appearing in the Herald. Prices published in these advertisements, furnished us by the Columbian Steel Tank company, showed Kansas delivered prices, whereas the correct Texas delivered prices are $89.00 for the 500 bushel and $130.00 for the 1,000 bushel capacity bin. These galvanized steel bins are handled by a number of Perryton dealers. The Plainview Hardware & Furniture company has just recently received a carload of them to supply the local growers on prompt notice.

The light weight tractor with the powerful pull on drawbar, belt or power take-off. Weighs only 4,700 pounds, yet develops 18 H.P. on drawbar; 35 H.P. on belt. Pulls three bottoms under practically all conditions and four bottoms under many conditions. Enough belt power for combine, medium size separators and other belt jobs.

The Rock Island is a most sensible tractor. All the mechanical features, involving a high-class dust-proof transmission, a positive gear train and frictionless bearings, have been provided in a manner which is extremely accessible. The gears are forged steel, machine-cut and heat-treated. The shafting is chrome nickel steel throughout. Hyatt and Timken roller bearings, and ball bearings are used to best advantage.

Lubrication is simple, easy and efficient. Putting oil in the motor and grease in the transmission takes care of most of it. The remainder is provided with six Alemite oilers.

The next time you are in town come in and ask us about the Rock Island Model "F" Tractor.

For Speedy, Economical Plowing

Sanders Cylinder Disc Plow

This Famous Stubble Plow has Revolutionized Farming in the Grain Belt

The ideal plow for summer fallowing — penetrates two to six inches. By shallow plowing, kills volunteer wheat, and by deeper plowing, cuts down high weeds, corn stalks and trash, and pulverizes the soil, creating a seed bed that catches and stores moisture and prevents soil blowing.

Light draft, because of vertical set of the 20-inch plow discs on the patented frame. Discs revolve together, reducing friction and moving soil all one direction only about a third as far as ordinary disc plows.

Special Shaped Plow Discs

No. 810, with 10 discs, cuts 6 feet—especially adapted to the Fordson and other light tractors; No. 815, 15 discs, cuts 9 feet; No. 820, 20 discs, cuts 12 feet.

Come in and tell us your soil conditions and we will show you this plow and tell you whether or not it will pay you to use it.

Conversion of Souls

Text: Acts 9:1-19; 22:6-10

After the burial of Stephen, persecution still raged against Christtians in Jerusalem. An eminent and active agent in this was Saul of Tarsus. The death of Stephen was really a bright spot in the history of the early church. The first apostle who died had been a traitor. The first follower of the apostles to have his death recorded was Ananias, a hypocrite. The heavenly light reappeared with the death of Stephen.

It is doubtful if any journey was ever undertaken on which so much interest has been concentrated as that of Saul of Tarsus from Jerusalem to Damascus. His conversasion on that road is like the call of a second Abraham. Think what it has meant to the world that Saul came to Christ that day!

You will appreciate the story more if you get Saul's own picture of his condition at the time as we have it in Phil.3:4-6. He was the greatest moralist and religionist who ever lived, yet he had to climb down the ladder of self-righteousness and accept Christ. If such a man had to come down, it is of little use for anyone else to try to climb up.

Saul furnishes one grand illustration of the fact that a man may be very conscientious and absolutely wrong at the same time (26:9). He may at once be the chief of moralists and the chief of sinners in the sight of God. That is the outstanding lesson in the conversation of Saul.

After the death of Stephen, Saul went after Christians, whether men or women, like a savage monster. Some suggest that the arguments of Stephen had produced a deep impression upon his mind, and that he flung himself with all his soul into the work of a persecutor, simply that he might drown the doubts that were troubling him. They point out that his morbid exfitement was an evidence of his inner restlessness. It must be admitted that many who are under conviction and do not wish to admit it, act after this fashion.

Yet there is little evidence that this was the case with Saul. Paul, in his later life, describes his feelings at the time and declares in the most unqualified manner, that all the time, he "verily thought he was doing God service." It would seem, therefore, that up to the moment of his conversion, he was sincere adherent of the Jewish religion, as interpreted by the Pharisees. He considered it a sacred duty to slaughter all Christians. He offered his services to the high priest for this business. What evil may not exist under the cloak of sincerity and religion! How untterly mistaken a man may be in following the dictates of an unenlightened conscience.

Although living under Roman rule, the Jews were permitted for the most part to live under their own laws, so long as the rights of Roman citizens were respected. The authority of the high priest was recognized by the Jews as that of the Pope is today acknowledged by Roman Catholics. Thus it was that Saul suggested to the high priest that he be sent to Damascus, 140 miles from Jerusalem, to bring back with him as prisoners, any whom he might discover to be infected with this new "heresy." He was given the desired credentials (Acts 9:2) and proceeded to this oldest city of the world, in that day the capital of Syria.

For six days Saul and his companions had journeyed. They were nearing their destination. The sun was approaching meridian height. "Suddenly there shined around about him a light from heaven and he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest; it is hard for thee to kick against the pricks."

His companions were speechless. They had seen the great light, but discerned no figure. They heard a voice, but couldn't catch any words. Then they discovered that Saul was blind. They led him by the hand into Damascus. Saul had seen the Lord Jesus Christ, a living, reigning Savior in heaven. He had been struck with His Lordship over him. A personal appeal had been made to him by the Lord of Glory. "Why—thou—Me?" The words kept ringing in his ears. There was something that had to be settled. He settled it. "Lord, what wilt thou have me do?"

Isn't this what happens in every conversion? We are suddenly shut up with the Lord. Others about us may not see what is going when we are face to face with Him. We must sooner or later answer the question of why we are opposed to Jesus Christ and His Church. We must choose whom we will serve. The finest evidence that a real conversion has taken place is when a man gets to the question, "Lord, what can I do for you?"

Watch them leading this meek, blind man into Damascus. Is that the entrance he had planned? No, indeed! He had anticipated being received with great honors by the rulers of the synagogue—lauded as the great champion of the faith. All has been revolutionized. He would have taken prisoners. He had been taken a captive to Christ. He would drag others to jail. He was drawn by the power of divine love. He whose eyes had been so keen for earthly glory, is blind to all such things and a celestial light was glowing within.

Three days of darkness! Who knows what light he had in that season? Did he ponder every word he had heard from Stephen's lips? Did he understand that seraphic light he had seen upon the martyr's face? Now, with his own great guilt borne in upon him, how he must have thought of Stephen's dying prayer: "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge!"

These were never-to-be-forgotten days. At the close a new Ananias, who had been prepared by the Holy Spirit, visited Saul and became the instrument of restoring his sight and leading him into the Sprit-filled life. After being baptized, he came forth to preach Christ in the very snyagogues where he would have destroyed the faith.

Here is something that must be accounted for! This man whose whole being was distinctly hostile to Christ, was completely and suddenly turned around. Atheists have tried all kinds of devices to explain it on natural grounds. It was a sunstroke! Blessed sunstroke that can turn a murderer into a self-sacrificing servant of his fellow men and make him a blessing to the whole world for nearly 2,000 years!

"The conversation of Saul," says Findlay, "is a psychological and ethical problem that can't be accounted for save by Paul's own interpretation of the change wrought in him." He saw Jesus and surrrendered to him. The critics are just as powerless to explain thousands of other experiences. The work is being repeated every day. Papini, Italy's blaspheming Atheist, writes a life of Christ that is read around the world. Frequently those who vilify Christ in the most virulent manner, become overnight, His most staunch defenders. The need of the day is not a new gospel, but the old Gospel anew IT WORKS.

Every true conversion is the result of a supernatural agency—the Holy Spirit. Not all may expect to be knocked down as was Saul, for his was a very special case, but like every other Christian, Saul entered the kingdom through the door of belief in Jesus Christ as the living Son of God. The effects of that belief are the same in every case. It is bound to issue in a complete transference of oneself to the service of God, in a life of prayer and testimony.

Dr. William M. Taylor rightly says: "You do not need any miracu- philosophers of antiquity. If you lous vision to convince you that Jesus is no more than one of the can read the Gospel and yet remain an unbeliever in the truth that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, then I deliberately say neither would you be persuaded though He were to smite you with His blinding light."

Comments on the Text

Saul was acting up to his light, but lack of light itself may be a sin. Have we humbly, honestly sought right opinions? If not, we must take the consequences, no matter how sincere we may have been.

Saul was converted "as he journeyed." Salvation is not tied to any church or organization.

Saul's conversion was sudden. Some do not believe in sudden conversions.

In Acts 22:6 we learn that the light from heaven came about noon. Verse 13 says it was "above the brightness of the noonday sun." This hour was chosen in order that the glory of this heavensent light should not be confounded with a ny natural phenomena.

"He fell to the earth." He who is called to great heights must first be laid low.

So actual was the oneness of Jesus with His own that He felt the pain of Stephen. "Why persecutest thou ME? Cf. Mt. 25:45; 1 Cor. 12:26-27; Isa. 63: 9; Zech. 3:8.

"Kick against the pricks." Pricks were goads on oxen. When the ox kicked, it would drive the goad into itself. No man can rave against Christianity and be a happy man.

Saul was three days in darkness as Jesus was three days in the tomb. He was learning death to self. He came in newness of life. Christ was not only revealed to him but in him (Gal. 1:15-16).

Some hold that it was during the three-day darkness that Paul had the vision spoken of in 2 Cor. 12 1-4.

God used Ananias. There is some human instrument in every conversion. Ananias was an obscure man, unknown before or after this transaction. Can He use you? If so, you may be used to direct another into paths of magnificent service. "Behold, he prayeth." A born-again man is sure to start praying.

Ananias at first found some excuses for not going to Saul. Let us not try to inform the Holy Spirit. If He impresses us to go to one about his soul, let us be assured God will take care of us.

Notes For Your Bible

Acts 9:1. "Breathing out threatenings." Connect up "he prayeth" in v. 11. God put a new kind of breath in him.

Acts 9:2. Saul laid violent hands upon Christians. Cf. v. 17, where Ananias laid helping hands upon Saul.

Acts 9:5. "Who art thou, Lord?" The salvation question. Cf. v. 6. "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" The service question which is sure to follow.

Acts 9:16. "He must suffer for my name's sake." Connect this with v. 23, "The Jews took council to kill him."

Here is a good "railroad connection" in Acts 9. In v. 15, "He is a chosen vessel." In v. 16, "He must suffer." In v. 19, "He was strengthened." In v. 22, "He increased the more in strength."

In Acts 22, note Saul's three preparations: 1. "Know His will," v. 14. 2, Vision of Christ, v. 19. 3. Hearing His voice, v. 21.

Can You Answer These?

What do we learn from Saul as to the saving of sincerity and conscientiousness?

What caused Saul to persecute Christians? Was it because he was under conviction?

How was it that the Jewish high priest could authorize Saul to arrest people?

What do you know about Damascus?

What was the effect of the incident on the Damascus road upon Saul's companions?

What was Saul's manner of entry into Damascus?

In what points was Saul's conversion like every other conversion?

What may have been some of Saul's experience during his three-day blindness?

How was his sight restored to him?

Why connot such a conversion be accounted for on any natural grounds?

Who alone can explain the experience that Saul had? Did he do so?

What will be the first evidences of any genuine conversion?

What "light" do we now have that is sufficient to show us the way of salvation?

Golden Text Illustration

Faithful is the saying, and worthy of all acception, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners (1 Tim. 1:15).

Uncle Joe Cannon, the noted politician, who passed away April 6th, not long ago, at 89 years of age, came to his knees in a Methodist revival and joined the church on his grief, so we are told, that he had not followed Christ throughout his life. That very Sunday was the day Clarence Darrow regaled his admirers with smutty yarns in a cigar-smoked hotel lobby in Dayton, Tennessee, where the Scopes trial was on. Uncle Joe Cannon had lived a long and sinful life, leaning decidedly toward the evolutionary, idea. Mr. Cannon never admired William Jennings Bryan politically, yet the Sunday after Bryan's death, the old man, now a bebe in Christ, sat in the Methodist church with the tears running down his wrinkled face. "Thus while the light holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return." Ise it too much for God to bring Clarence Darrow down upon his knees in the Damascus road? Let us pray to that end.

Several species of flies found in houses resemble the true house fly so closely that it is difficult to distinguish them from it. One of these is the biting stable fly which is so often mistaken for the house fly that many people think the latter can bite. Several species of metallic greenish or bluish flies are sometimes found in houses and still another fly, a smaller one, is called the lesser house fly, but is distinguished from the house fly by its paler and more pointed body. The true house fly—which is found in all parts of the world—is a medium-sized fly with four black stripes on its back and a sharp elbow in one of the veins on its wings. The true house fly can not bite, its mouth parts being spread out at the tip for sucking up liquid substances.

More than twelve thousand cooperative associations in this country are engaged in buying and selling farm products. In addition to those occupied in buying and selling there are about 58,000 organizations engaged in other kinds of activity, including agricultural educational associations, production associations, credit socities, rural telephone companies, and mutual insurance agencies. As an example of what these associations mean to farmers can be seen by the fact that in the field of cooperative insurance alone the risks carried amount to more than ten billion dollars annually.

YOU CAN'T HIT THE HIGH SPOTS ALL THE TIME

Dr. Frank Crane

A young lady complained to me the other day that she had periods of depression. There were times when life seemed drab and uninteresting. And she couldn't see the vision nor envisage the ideal. Life was just plodding.

Well, why not? That is the human lot and we had as well accept it.

We are fortunate if we get the vision once in a while, if occasionally we stand on the mountain top, bathed in the sunlight, and look out over the future. Most of the time we have to travel through the valley of the shadow.

In most North temperate climates rain is intermingled with sunshine and, as the poet expressed it, "Into each life some rain must fall."

Most of our course is to be made by dead reckoning. We cannot have the vision of the stars always, and life is mostly composed of future steps taken by faith in the dark. We are fortunate if once in a while the clouds sweep away and we can glimpse the goal.

Life is rhythm. It has its ups and downs and the best thing we can do is to say in the language of the old negro hymn, "I'm sometimes up and sometimes down, but still my soul is heavenly bound."

These moments of darkness, these uninteresting stretches of our life are our real test. Then is shown our staying quality and our ability to pursue a goal by faith and not by sight.

We cannot have the glory and the ecstasy every moment. We could not stand it. No man can live in a state of perpetual intoxication. He must get his feet down to the ground once in a while and just plug along.

We have the comfort of knowing that nothing lasts forever and if our mood is depressed after a while it will pass away.

You cannot hit the high spots all the time.

Leaves Race

Governor Albert Ritchie of Maryland, who withdrew his name as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential Nomination. Asserting that personal advancement should not be allowed to interfere with Democratic success, he suggested that Maryland's 16 votes be cast for Alfred E. Smith.

Converts begin their regular life usually in a blaze of enthusiasm. They are keyed up to high pitch and undergo an emotional ecstacy.

It is afterward that the test comes. They are required to take up the affairs of daily life which are perhaps humdrum and uninteresting. They crave emotion, but emotion is an occasional experience and not permanent. In their daily life there must be steady application of the truths they have learned in those rare moments of ecstasy, so many of them backslide.

In quitting a bad habit very often we make a vow or sign a pledge in a moment of enthusiasm which is very hard to keep in the succeeding moments of drabness.

The best moral quality is the quality of stick-to-it-ive-ness, the quality of hanging on and doing right when there are no drums beating nor horns blowing.

So in the marraige relation we begin in burst of love and violent affection what must be kept up through days of perhaps uninteresting detail.

So the Bible tells us that it is the overcomers who shall be given the reward.

Your Flower Garden

By Romaine B. Ware

THE JULY GARDEN

July is the most beautiful month in the garden and it will take some careful planning on your part to put everything into such shape that it will suit you. The glorious riot of color in the June garden is just lately faded and it can not help but leave some blank spots. The thing to do is to study the borders and see how to remedy the defects.

In making a study of the possibilities of your borders at this season by visiting the local nurseries and noting the things that are in bloom and see how you may add them to your garden to help out at this season of the year. Make careful notes of the things you want and just where you wish to plant them and then in the fall you will know what you want to do. Blooming seasons, heights, colors are the things you will want to be on the lookout for. Color combinations are a wonderful study by themselves and you will enjoy them.

Too, you should always be on the lookout for things you see in the gardens of your friends that are worthy of a place in your garden. Of course one garden can not hold everything; we would not want it to. As you advance in the art of gardening and your preferences take shape you will from time to time discard this or that from your planting, not necessarily because it is not good but because you would rather have something else in its place. I ave away 1500 glads one year be- se I wanted the space for some- g else. In the limited space of verage garden we have to be nating.

hange in gardens just the other things and as you ll probably find your- a sort of a specialist. The tain kinds of flow- ers that more attracted to than others. ot go this way too far though it most interesting. Try to keep your garden well balanced so that you will have a good succession of bloom at all seasons. This is the way to have a good garden.

PREVENTING CHIGGER BITES IS BETTER THAN CURING THEM

When chiggers grow older they reform, mend their ways, and cease to be the seasonal source of annoyance and inconvenience to many victims which was characteristic of their flaming youth. A chigger, F. C. Bishopp of the United States Department of Agriculture explains, is the first or larval stage of a large red velvety mite which is entirely harmless when mature. Contrary to the popular impression chiggers do not burrow into the skin and require extraction for relief. The chigger, minute size though it is, is capable of injecting a considerable quanity of poisonous material into its host and it is this poison that causes all the discomfort, the persistant itching that follows chigger bites.

Destroying the chiggers does not seem possible, the Bureau of Entomology says, in areas which are covered with woods and undergrowth, but preliminary studies by the bureau indicate they can be checked in vicinity of homes and camps by clearing away the underbrush, vines, and weeds from such areas, keeping the grass cut close, and by following these measures with applications of flowers of sulphur or very fine dusting sulphur. It appears, the bureau says, that from 5 to 10 pounds of sulphur scattered over an ordinary city lot will give a high degree of control, sometimes from a single treatment, but it is usually best to repeat the application two or three times at intervals of one to two weeks. This is especially necessary when the applications are followed by rain.

Humans are by no means the only victims of the chiggers. Normally they feed upon small wild animals, including snakes and lizards and they may attack birds. They are a pest of considerable importance to poultry, and are especially troublesome on late hatched chicks and turkeys. Heavily infested chicks soon become droopy and drowsy, later may show symptoms of paralysis, and quite frequently die from the attack within a few days. Early hatching unually prevents losses of poultry. Late hatches should be kept out of high grass and brush when chiggers are prevalent. The use of sulphur as described gives some protection, but usually if the chicks are brooded by a hen and allowed free range they will become infested. On chickens the chiggers are inclined to attach in dense masses on the parts of the body less covered by down or feathers, and a light dusting with sulphur will give some relief.

No method has been found for giving an entirely satisfactory protection to people. When going into places where chiggers abound, the bureau advises that it is well to wear high-top shoes over the trousers, or leather leggings. Dusting the body and underwear with flowers of sulphur will give a high degree of protection from attack.

Cooperative marketing of grain has been carried on more successfully in Canada than in the United States. In Canada operations are conducted on a large scale with centralized selling agencies, whereas in the United States the local elevator is the unit. Cooperative marketing of grain is considered in this country from the viewpoint of the local community, but in Canada the viewpoint is that of the grain industry as a whole.

The popular belief that running water in the mountains purifies itself every few hundred feet and is always safe is not accepted by the sanitation authorities, says the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture. In streams used as a camp water supply, bathing or wading is a dangerous source of contamination. Throwing or dumping of refuse into the streams is frowned upon by the forest service, which asks the cooperation of its visitors in the national forests during the vacation season in keeping camp grounds clean and preventing steam pollution.

Potatoes grown under a paper mulch last year on one of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's experiment plots came into flowering five days to two weeks earlier than the plants grown without the paper mulch. The average weight per plant of the mulched plants was 386 grams, while that of the unmulched was only 81. This increased growth of the potato plant under the paper mulch was typical of the response obtained with various other truck crops. While the practical use of such a mulch is closely associated with climatic, crop, market, and labor conditions, its possible adoption as a means of hastening the maturity of crops is of interest to growers anxious for early markets.

A hog will find shade in hot weather if he can. However, he does not realize that a shady place often may be too hot and he is likely to stay there and die from overheating. Unless hog houses are high and have plenty of ventilation and air space, it is better to keep them closed in hot weather and force the hogs to seek shade elsewhere. If shade from trees is not available, a good artificial shade may be made by setting posts in the ground and building a cheap framework about four feet high, covering it with brush, hay or straw. This shade is better than one made of boards or sheet iron. Dust accumulating under it can be settled by watering the covering; this will at the same time cool the air underneath.

Toads often begin their mealtime before sunset and continue through the greater part of the night, thus taking the place in the warfare against insects, of the ground-feeding insectivorous birds that stop eating after daytime over Since toads eat large numbers of insects that are injurious to crops, it can be said that they are of some economic value, particularly in destroying mille-peds, sowbugs, weevils, caterpillars, crickets, and leaf chafers. Toads also render useful service on the farm by reducing the number of adult click beetles, as there is hardly a cultivated plant that is not attacked by these insect pests. Toads are not fussy about their menu and will eat indiscriminately any ground-frequenting insect.

A baited trap often may be used in summer to reduce the annual crop of newly fledged English sparrows. These young birds in their search for food will enter traps that usually are avoided by the adult birds during periods of food abundance. Trapping is safer than shooting or poisoning and has the added advantage that harmless or beneficial native birds if caught in the trap, can be freed. Canary seed, hemp seed, wheat, oats, and bread crumbs make excellent baits; or a live sparrow may be kept in the trap as a decoy. Trapping may begin at any time after the young sparrows are able to take care of themselves, which is usually by July 1. Although English sparrows are widely distributed as a species, one flock generally it attached to a single locality, a fact that makes their control easier.

GEESE FOR PROFIT

Opportunities for goose raising at a profit are best in sections where there is a demand for geese for fattening for use in large cities. Where there is good green pasture, most goslings can be raised from the time they are two to three weeks old to fattening time without any additional feed. Some farmers who fatten their own geese feed them three times daily; one feed of a moist but not sloppy mash made of one-half shorts and two-thirds corn meal, and two feeds of corn with some oats or barley. Some roughage or vegetables should be given. Ten-weeks-old goslings of the largest breeds of purebred geese weigh as much as ten or twelve pounds when forced for rapid growth and are sometimes marketed at that age as green geese. Higher prices for such geese are usually obtained in summer. The demand for geese feathers and the practice of plucking geese seem to be decreasing and more attention is being paid to their production for market.

Beware !

Don't Trade with the Door-to-Door Peddler

IN legal parlance there is a term "caveat emptor" which means "let the buyer beware." In other words you buy at your own risk ---no comebacks, no redress.

But community business isn't done that way nowadays. Your local merchant in the "store just around the corner" guards his reputation and the future of his business too well to subscribe to any such policy. He gives you service and satisfaction after, as well as before the sale is made.

The door to door peddler and the transit trader, they are the "caveat emptor" kind. They sell you and as many of your neighbors as they can cover in a day---then back to the hotel, the trunk is packed, checked into the "baggage car ahead" and gone forever---"let the buyer beware."

Do you want to deal with a sort of a "fly-by-night" trader? Or do you want to deal with your steadfast, reliable, home-town merchants---the men who make up the list of your best citizens, large tax payers, public benefactors and community builders.

Why should you have to beware when you buy? Buy from your home-town merchant and be sure of good reliable goods, of guaranteed quality and satisfaction at any and all times that you drop into "the store just around the corner."

MUST REGISTER BIRTHS–DEATHS

MRS. DAVID D. SHANKS IS REGISTRAR FOR OCHILTREE COUNTY, UNDER NEW LAW

Ochiltree county has now been organized in accordance with the new vital law, by the appointment of one registrar, it being advisable to combine all of the precincts into one district, Mrs. David D. Shanks accepting the appointment as registrar for Ochiltree County.

Every birth is required by law to be reported to the local registrar of the district in which it occurs, by the attending physician or midwife, or if there were neither, then by the father or mother, within five days after the birth.

The law prohibits the burial or removal of a dead body before a death certificate properly and completely filled out, has been filed with the local registrar, and a burial or removal permit has been secured.

The immense legal value of these records makes it important that the citizens of Texas be given this protection by having a complete, legal record properly filed in accordance with this law.

During the first three months of 1928 there were reported from Ochiltree County nine births and seven deaths. This would indicate that only about thirty-one per cent of the births and fifty-three per cent of the deaths were reported. Let's go one hundred per cent from now on.

It is urged that everyone make every effort to comply with the law and to aid in securing complete registration in the county.

Praises Judge Grigsby

Dalhart Texan Staff Writer Impressed With County Judge J. M. Grigsby

The following article was taken from last week's issue of the Dalhart Texan and was written by Warbud Hucker, a staff correspondent of that newspaper.

Judge J. M. Grigsby of Perryton was here last week, representing Ochiltree county in the Wonder District organization, now planning for an agricultural exhibit at a number of mid-west fairs. Judge Grigsby is the county judge over there, and is a candidate for re-election. Mighty good man for a county judge of any county. He is throughly sold on Ochiltree county and the Panhandle. Some of these days I want to commandeer about two hours of his valuable time and get him to tell me about the early days in the Panhandle. He knows more Panhandle than some of the historians, and can tell it in an interesting way. He would do the coming generations a real service if he would write some reminiscenses.

MIND OVER MATTER

In these days, when everybody seems to have "colon trouble," a short talk on the subject abovenamed, appears to me very timely I want you, not only to read, but to heed this, for it may concern you in particular.

Any form of profound emotion, as anger, fright, grief, and such like exert a most decided effect on the colon, or large intestine. I have noticed that, heavy brain workers are almost always troubled with that bane of healthy bodies—constipation. Any excess of effort on the part of the brain, subtracts from the necessary nerve-forces of the involuntary system, and to the detriment in health of the individual concerned. And I am sure that those placid natures among men and women—those who take life temperately—who are not impulsive, irritable or quarrelsome, invariably have the best-working elementary canals; I could mention many cases in proof.

I know of one man who cured his constipation—a severe form—by studiously avoiding his habit of fault finding, and, his was one of the most perfect cures I have witnessed. For years he had been a persistent "grouch." He could not argue on any question, without insulting his opponent by his own anger. He said he became "so mean that his family could hardly live with him." His physician told him the clogged bowel was the cause of his nerve trouble; a capable nerologist told him—and proved it—that his habit of growling produced the constipation! He simply quit being mean, and got well.

Here is something, then, worth thinking about—worth trying, since the trial involves no expense in time or money. If you are overlooking the mental energy in any direction, stop it, and work temperately; and as for foolish mental outbreaks, stop them anyway. We know that mental emotion affects the bowel profoundly. Now see if you can go about it intelligently—and cure yourself.

BETTER SCHOOLS FIRST IN IMPORTANCE

Prof. W. L. Hughes, head of the Department of Rural Education of the A. and M. College of Texas, is responsible for the statement that "except possibly some progress in the way of better houses, the rural schools of Texas have made practically no progress in the past quarter of a century."

Texas turns out 12,000 new teachers each year, many of whom have never seen the inside of a teacher-training institution. The country schools have to take these green young teachers. They break in and learn how to teach at the expense of our farm boys and girls. Some of them, after years of experience become good teachers, but as soon as that happens, off they go to the city schools where salaries are better. Not only are our rural schools handicapped by inexperienced teachers, but in the matter of school buildings, length of school term and supervision, they are at a serious disadvantage. The result of all this is that here in Texas we have inequality of educational opportunity. The farm boy and girl do not have an educational opportunity on a par with that of city children.

This is a serious matter. As Prof. H. L. Goerner, county superintendent of education for Dallas County pointed out recently in a splendid address before the Dallas Agricultural Club, the best type of farmer will not be content to remain where his children do not have good schools. Rather than sacrifice the education of his children he moves to town. This is at least one reason why the farm is losing so much of its best blood. It is a case of move or rear half-illiterate children. But in many instances, farmers are sticking it out on the farm and allowing their children to take "pot luck" as far as educational opportunity is concerned. The result is that the farm people as a class are not as well educated as those who live in the city. A half-illiterate or poorly educated man can't possibly cope with a man with a well-trained mind.

Other classes have taken advantage of the farmers' lack of education to pass legislation favorable to themselves and detrimental to farmers. Lack of education is enough of a burden in itself, but in addition to carrying this handicap, farmers are carrying burdens placed upon them by other classes because they (farmers) have not been able to fight it out with other people on anything like an even footing. Hence, we have a farm problem, and we shall continue to have a farm problem until the farmers' educational opportunity is equal to that of the other people of the land. Co-operative marketing is hard for uneducated people to put over. This surplus problem would be much easier of solution if a well trained rural citizenship were pushing it. Soil building would come faster and easier if our farm people could think straight on there matters.

We feel that lack of educational opportunity is the root of the evil of farm life, and that progress will be very slow, and in fact very nearly mark time, until the curse of illiteracy and near-illiteracy is wiped out.

Warns of Mosquitoes At Coolidge Camp

Seattle.—Allan D. McDonald is not at all cheerful about President Coolidge's choice of Brule, Wis., for his vacation camp. McDonald, a retired logger, warns that the mosquitoes in Brule are simply terrible.

"The mosquitoes are so bad there," says McDonald, "that we used to hang pieces of pork on our suspenders for them to feed on. They buzz around like a bunch of tractors so that you can't sleep."

ANGELL

"ONE WAY" DISC PLOW

Plows swath 6 to 10 feet wide and 2 to 6 inches deep.

Moves soil one way, leaving ground level for harvester.

Draft so light that 10-foot plow can be pulled by 15-30 tractor.

Thoroughly pulverizes all soil because discs are set close together.

Kills all weeds and volunteer wheat, even when set at a depth of 2 inches.

Leaves small lumps and trash in surface to prevent soil blowing and hold snow.

Ideal for summer fallowing—killing all weeds without going too deep.

Also used immediately after harvester to start weeds and volunteer wheat, then later used to kill this growth, thus preventing Hessian Fly.

Boy Scouts Interested

Perryton to be Included in New Council Now Being Organized by Meyers

The boys of Perryton are showing considerable interest in the prospects for having Perryton placed under a first-class council of the Boy Scouts of America according to the chairman of the local membership committee. "Our visits with local school men proved that there will be no difficulty in getting the boys; what we are looking for now is the men to lead," he added.

According to Mr. Meyers, organization executive, all of the principal town of Cimarron, Texas, and Beaver Counties in Oklahoma and Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, and Moore Counties in Texas, which will compose the Tex-Okla Council, now have local committees either functioning or in the process of organization.

"There is something for every man in this Area to do in the interest of the boys," declares Mr. Mathewson, of Guymon, general organization chairman. "Boys don't go wrong in the home, the school, or in the church," he continued; "but it is the unemployed idle hours that catch them unawares and leads them astray; and eventually lead them into the toils of the law. A poll of penal institutions will show that it is seldom that an inmate went to the bad after reaching maturity. In almost every case it will be found that the criminal was well started on the downward path before he became old enough to vote. A big majority of our most dangerous criminals are under twenty-two years of age."

Parents may say, "Oh well, my boy will never go to prison, nor be in court to answer penal charges or end up in the electric chair," but in a recent address a man, nationally know for his contributions to rural welfare, astounded his audience by saying that he thought his own boy would have ended in a state penitentiary if it had not been for additional good influence under which he came outside of his home. The boy, now grown into exemplary young manhood, was not thought to have been viciously inclined at any time in his life, and the father was asked for an explanation, to which he replied, "My boy had a tremendous amount of energy and I alone could not keep him busy all the time. If he had been thrown with those who might have misdirected his energies, I can picture him as a leader in crime, as a master criminal. But he had the advantages of an association with a man of very high moral character—a Scoutmaster."

Some of the cleverest and best educated men in America may be found behind four prison walls. But we know that nineteen out of twenty of these are victims of public indifference, and might have been creditable citizens if they had had the proper training as boys. Education without religion and without citizenship training is dangerous. Scouting does not seek to interfere with the home, the school or the church. It seeks to cooperate with these agencies in producing and educated, definitely religious men of character, trained for citizenship.

Mrs. Charles Brown and family will leave Monday morning for Hot Springs, Ark., where they will spend the next two months. Mrs. Brown is going to take medical treatments at Hot Springs.

CHAUTAUQUA STARTS TONITE

BIG FIVE DAY GOOD TIME FESTIVAL OPENS IN MAMMOTH TENT TONIGHT

The opening program of the Perryton chautauqua is to be held tonight when James Perusich and his Jugo Slav tamburica orchestra will appear in concert in the big tent, the first of the nine all-star programs.

That chautauquas are well worth while can easily be seen by viewing the statements of the big men of the country, a few of which are reproduced here.

"The work that the chautauqua is doing has gained new opportunities for service. Let me express the hope that you will let no discouragement weaken your activities, and that the people will not fail in the support of a patriotic institution that may be said to be an integral part of the national defense."—Woodrow Wilson.

"Chautauqua is the most American thing in America. It has made the name chautauqua a name of a multitude of gatherings all over the Union, and there is probably no other educational influence in this country quite so fraught with hope for the future of the nation as this movement."—Theodore Roosevelt.

"The chautauqua system in the great middle west and south and in other parts of the country is one of the best mediums of rational and educational entertainments that was ever devised."—William Howard Taft.

"The good wishes are for the present and the future leadership of the chautauqua institution. They represent the earnest hope that chautauqua may go on andon, serving the cause of culture, education and liberalism as it has done from its beginning. It has always stood for true democracy, spiritual liberty, and a constantly wider dissemination of knowledge."—Calvin Coolidge.

"The time has long since passed when there could be any doubt of chautauqua's service to the country. Chautauqua has served to reveal the individual American community to itself at its best. It has been a voluntary, inspiration service in which men and women have given the best they have in them for the sake of the social interest."—Warren G. Harding.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Schoffelmayer, Dallas, were in Perryton last week end looking over the crop situation. Mr. Schoffelmayer is agricultural editor of the Dallas Morning News and is preparing an article about Ochiltree county which will appear in the Sunday morning edition, July 22, of the Dallas News.

RAINS SLOWING HARVEST HERE

FALL OF 2.38 INCHES DELAYS CUTTING FOR SEVERAL DAYS DURING PAST WEEK

Two heavy rains during the past week have caused much delay in the harvesting of wheat in this section of the Panhandle, the first fall coming last Wednesday night measuring 1.11 inches in Perryton, the second fall coming Saturday night, measuring 1.27 inches.

The fall for the week was recorded at 2.38 inches and while very little actual damage was caused by the rains, it has caused many of the combines to lie idle during the past week and has even further delayed the cutting of the late wheat, many fields of which have not yet been entered up to date.

Lightning Saturday night caused some damage it is reported. No hail was reported during the two storms.

FIRE DEPARTMENT WILL SPONSOR STOCK COMPANY

The Merry Madcaps Stock company will play in Perryton all next week, appearing under the auspices of the Perryton fire department, presenting for their opening play on Monday night, the latest New York stage success, "Pigs", a rural comedy in four acts.

The Merry Madcaps have a company of thirty people and come highly recommended. They carry a band and orchestra. On the opening night a lady will be admitted free if accompanied with a paid adult admission.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thompson, Success, Ark., have moved to Perryton to make their home. Mr. Thompson has accepted a position as bookkeeper at the White House Lumber company. Mr. and Mrs. Ewell Hardy, Shamrock, are also new arrivals in Perryton, Mr. Hardy having accepted a position as mechanic in the implement department for the same firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Murphy and Earl Murphy and Mrs. Chas. Ward and daughter, Mildred, all of Marshall, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Helton and daughter of Canadian attended the funeral services of Byron H. Murphy Tuesday.

BIG RODEO TO OPEN AUGUST 9

THREE DAY EVENT TO BE STAGED AT ANVIL PARK LAKE AT CANADIAN IN AUGUST

Canadian, Texas—All Panhandle rodeo opens, August 9 for three days. Panhandle's great rodeo will be bigger and better than ever before, cowboys and cowgirls already practicing for event.

Bigger and better than ever before, the All-Panhandle rodeo will show this year, August 9-11 for three big days of fun, frolic, and sport. It is the big time for the cattle fraternity of the state—the time when old timers of the range meet again to swap stories of the other days and to have a rollicking good time.

The All-Panhandle rodeo is one of the north Texas's real institutions. It isn't so much a Canadian affair, although the people of that city are the hosts—but it really is a north Texas-Oklahoma affair and interest in the event is even more than state wide. Canadian is the beginning of the breeding ground of cattle of the southwest.

Ranches will virtually be abandoned, as well as the towns of the north Panhandle during that period, while guardians of the tick-set bovines and herders of saddle stock rally around the big paddock where bucking horses, bucking Brahma steers, bulldogging steers, roping and all events connected with a rodeo will be conducted.

Leonard Stroud with his stellar attractions of trick riding; horses jumping automobiles, trick roping and other entertainments will be there; as well as Florence Hughes Randolph, champion all-round cowgirl, and also trick rider at the Chicago and Madison Square Garden shows in 1927.

SOME EARLY TOMATOES

H. W. Buschman, who lives north of Waka, brought two large ripe tomatoes into the Herald office last week, which he had raised on his farm. We rather think that Mr. Buschman has the record for early production. Can you beat it?

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Conley and daughter, Mary Jane, Pyote, Texas came in Thursday for a short visit in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Conley. They left Monday morning for St. Jo, Texas to visit a few days with Mrs. Conley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Scott, before returning to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jol Williams, Watonga, Okla. visited Saturday night and Sunday with her uncle, Lee Worthington.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Atlus Flowers Tuesday, July 17, at their home south of Perryton.

THIEVES! THIEVES! GUARD YOUR WHEAT!

Perryton and surrounding territory is at present full of strangers who have come here to seek labor, some in the harvest fields, others at trucking. The great majority of these newcomers are honest, hard working men. But with the good, also comes the bad. There are a goodly number of crooks, gamblers and just plain thieves.

The officers are doing their best. Not a day passes but what some of the crooked gentry are either jailed or ordered to leave the country. But the peace officers cannot be everywhere in the country at one time. In our opinion many of the thieves who are here have come from the crook infested, nearby oil fields.

During the past few days, a number of wheat thefts have been reported, tools, gasoline, lubricating oils and tractor parts have been taken from the fields at night; a fine milk cow was stolen right here in Perryton and a good work horse was taken just outside the city limits.

The best thing that we know to do is to take every precaution to guard the wheat piles, the tools and fuel supplies. Load up the old "double barrel" with buck shot. A few dead thieves will do more good to stop this stealing than any number of arrests and convictions.

"FIGURES DON'T LIE" GIVES WORKING GIRL FAIR BREAK

At last the American working girl gets fair treatment! She has been caricatured, ridiculed and unmercifully criticized. Now she comes into her own in Paramount's new picture "Figures Don't Lie", which reaches the American Theatre, Friday and Saturday starring Esther Ralston.

In this picture a glimpse behind the scenes in business life is given. The part the working girl takes in keeping the wheels of industry running smoothly is brought out in convincing as well as amusing fashion.

Mrs. Otis Shearer and children, Ruth Ann and Claud and Mrs. J. H. Shearer and daughter, Mrs. Melba and Viola left Monday morning for Enid in responce to a message that Mrs. Otis Shearer's nephew was seriously ill.

BIG INCREASE BANK DEPOSITS

ALMOST TREBLE SINCE FIRST OF MONTH. NOW RIGHT AT $1,500,000 AND INCREASING DAILY

The phenomenal increase in the deposit of Perryton banks continues. On Monday night of this week, the combined deposits of the First National and the Perryton National banks lacked but a few dollars of reaching one and one-half million dollars, almost three times what the total was for the June 30 call.

On June 30, the combined deposits were approximately $556,000. It is expected that within a very short time, the deposits will have reached the two million mark. On Monday night the banks had a stupendous total of $793,000 in cash and sight exchange.

Lose To Booker

Junior Team Loses In Final Period of Ten Inning Game at Booker Last Sunday

Coming from behind, the Booker second team won over the Perryton Junior Legion team, last Sunday in a ten inning game played on the Booker diamond, the final score being 7 to 6.

The junior team had the game in the bag by a 3 to 6 count until the ninth inning, when errors cost them three runs, tying the score. In the tenth Booker added one while the juniors failed to score.

This was the third game between the two teams, the juniors winning one and Booker wining two.

According to Manager Paul Ballew, the juniors will play either a boys team from Ochiltree or Jines Springs, Sunday, on the local field.

LIGHTNING DAMAGES WIRING SYSTEM AT ELEVATOR

Lightning, Saturday night, caused considerable damage to the wiring system at the W. H. Douglas Grain company's elevator in Perryton.

It is thought that the lightning was carried in on the electric wires, burning the wires and conduits in two and putting both of the electric motors out of order. Had the wiring not been properly insulated it would probably have caused the elevator to burn.

MUST REGISTER BIRTHS-DEATHS

Ochiltree county has now been organized in accordance with the new vital law, by the appointment of one registrar, it being advisable to combine all of the precincts into one district, Mrs. David D. Shanks accepting the appointment as registrar for Ochiltree County.

Every birth is required by law to be reported to the local registrar of the district in which it occurs, by the attending physician or midwife, or if there were neither, then by the father or mother, within five days after the birth.

The law prohibits the burial or removal of a dead body before a death certificate properly and completely filled out, has been filed with the local registrar, and a burial or removal permit has been secured.

The immense legal value of these records makes it important that the citizens of Texas be given this protection by having a complete, legal record properly filed in accordance with this law.

During the first three months of 1928 there were reported from Ochiltree County nine births and seven deaths. This would indicate that only about thirty-one per cent of the births and fifty-three per cent of the deaths were reported. Let's go one hundred per cent from now on.

It is urged that everyone make every effort to comply with the law and to aid in securing complete registration in the county.

Praises Judge Grigsby

Dalhart Texan Staff Writer Impressed With County Judge J. M. Grigsby

The following article was taken from last week's issue of the Dalhart Texan and was written by Warbud Hucker, a staff correspondent of that newspaper.

Judge J. M. Grigsby of Perryton was here last week, representing Ochiltree county in the Wonder District organization, now planning for an agricultural exhibit at a number of mid-west fairs. Judge Grigsby is the county judge over there, and is a candidate for re-election. Mighty good man for a county judge of any county. He is throughly sold on Ochiltree county and the Panhandle. Some of these days I want to commandeer about two hours of his valuable time and get him to tell me about the early days in the Panhandle. He knows more Panhandle than some of the historians, and can tell it in an interesting way. He would do the coming generations a real service if he would write some reminiscenses.

MIND OVER MATTER

In these days, when everybody seems to have "colon trouble," a short talk on the subject abovenamed, appears to me very timely I want you, not only to read, but to heed this, for it may concern you in particular.

Any form of profound emotion, as anger, fright, grief, and such like exert a most decided effect on the colon, or large intestine. I have noticed that, heavy brain workers are almost always troubled with that bane of healthy bodies—constipation. Any excess of effort on the part of the brain, subtracts from the necessary nerve-forces of the involuntary system, and to the detriment in health of the individual concerned. And I am sure that those placid natures among men and women—those who take life temperately—who are not impulsive, irritable or quarrelsome, invariably have the best-working elementary canals; I could mention many cases in proof.

I know of one man who cured his constipation—a severe form—by studiously avoiding his habit of fault finding, and, his was one of the most perfect cures I have witnessed. For years he had been a persistent "grouch." He could not argue on any question, without insulting his opponent by his own anger. He said he became "so mean that his family could hardly live with him." His physician told him the clogged bowel was the cause of his nerve trouble; a capable nerologist told him—and proved it—that his habit of growling produced the constipation! He simply quit being mean, and got well.

Here is something, then, worth thinking about—worth trying, since the trial involves no expense in time or money. If you are overlooking the mental energy in any direction, stop it, and work temperately; and as for foolish mental outbreaks, stop them anyway. We know that mental emotion affects the bowel profoundly. Now see if you can go about it intelligently—and cure yourself.

BETTER SCHOOLS FIRST IN IMPORTANCE

Prof. W. L. Hughes, head of the Department of Rural Education of the A. and M. College of Texas, is responsible for the statement that "except possibly some progress in the way of better houses, the rural schools of Texas have made practically no progress in the past quarter of a century."

Texas turns out 12,000 new teachers each year, many of whom have never seen the inside of a teacher-training institution. The country schools have to take these green young teachers. They break in and learn how to teach at the expense of our farm boys and girls. Some of them, after years of experience become good teachers, but as soon as that happens, off they go to the city schools where salaries are better. Not only are our rural schools handicapped by inexperienced teachers, but in the matter of school buildings, length of school term and supervision, they are at a serious disadvantage. The result of all this is that here in Texas we have inequality of educational opportunity. The farm boy and girl do not have an educational opportunity on a par with that of city children.

This is a serious matter. As Prof. H. L. Goerner, county superintendent of education for Dallas County pointed out recently in a splendid address before the Dallas Agricultural Club, the best type of farmer will not be content to remain where his children do not have good schools. Rather than sacrifice the education of his children he moves to town. This is at least one reason why the farm is losing so much of its best blood. It is a case of move or rear half-illiterate children. But in many instances, farmers are sticking it out on the farm and allowing their children to take "pot luck" as far as educational opportunity is concerned. The result is that the farm people as a class are not as well educated as those who live in the city. A half-illiterate or poorly educated man can't possibly cope with a man with a well-trained mind.

Other classes have taken advantage of the farmers' lack of education to pass legislation favorable to themselves and detrimental to farmers. Lack of education is enough of a burden in itself, but in addition to carrying this handicap, farmers are carrying burdens placed upon them by other classes because they (farmers) have not been able to fight it out with other people on anything like an even footing. Hence, we have a farm problem, and we shall continue to have a farm problem until the farmers' educational opportunity is equal to that of the other people of the land. Co-operative marketing is hard for uneducated people to put over. This surplus problem would be much easier of solution if a well trained rural citizenship were pushing it. Soil building would come faster and easier if our farm people could think straight on there matters.

We feel that lack of educational opportunity is the root of the evil of farm life, and that progress will be very slow, and in fact very nearly mark time, until the curse of illiteracy and near-illiteracy is wiped out.

Warns of Mosquitoes At Coolidge Camp

Seattle.—Allan D. McDonald is not at all cheerful about President Coolidge's choice of Brule, Wis., for his vacation camp. McDonald, a retired logger, warns that the mosquitoes in Brule are simply terrible.

"The mosquitoes are so bad there," says McDonald, "that we used to hang pieces of pork on our suspenders for them to feed on. They buzz around like a bunch of tractors so that you can't sleep."

Harry is stuck again!

JUST when he felt sure—he was going to get even with those high-binders that trimmed him last week—and then—well, he was late and his nerves were all on edge. The game cost him more than the price of a Laminex door that won't swell and stick.

Don't let sticking or rattling doors get on your nerves. Come and look over our line of Laminex doors and other high grade millwork.

ANGELL

"ONE WAY" DISC PLOW

Plows swath 6 to 10 feet wide and 2 to 6 inches deep.

Moves soil one way, leaving ground level for harvester.

Draft so light that 10-foot plow can be pulled by 15-30 tractor.

Thoroughly pulverizes all soil because discs are set close together.

Kills all weeds and volunteer wheat, even when set at a depth of 2 inches.

Leaves small lumps and trash in surface to prevent soil blowing and hold snow.

Ideal for summer fallowing—killing all weeds without going too deep.

Also used immediately after harvester to start weeds and volunteer wheat, then later used to kill this growth, thus preventing Hessian Fly.
