Posses Searching Desert Waste For Trio of Abductor's

McPherson Trail Leads Officers to Mountain Wilderness.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 24.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, left Douglas at six o'clock tonight in company with William Fraley McCafferty, editor of the Douglas Dispatch, to search for the shack where Mrs. McPherson said she was held prisoner, southeast of Agua Prieta, Sonora, Mexico.

The pair had not been heard from two hours later.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., June 24.—(AP) Herman Cline, chief of detectives of the Los Angeles police department, Joe Ryan, deputy district attorney of Los Angeles and A. P. Murchison, Douglas police sergeant late today crossed the international line into Mexico in an attempt to trace the movements of Aimee Semple McPherson, prior to her arrival yesterday at Agua Prieta, Sonora.

Simultaneously a posse headed by Sheriff McDonald of Cochise county set out across the international boundary line in a different direction. The two posses plan to meet near Niggerhead mountain in Sonora several miles south of where the shack in which Mrs. McPherson says she was held prisoner by three kidnapers is believed to be located.

Others Scour Plains

A third group composed of Minnie McKennedy, the evangelist's mother, and her two children, Rolf and Roberta and Douglas and Bisbee newspapermen also were scouring the wild plains of Sonora in an attempt to trace the course followed by the evangelist when she staggered into Agua Prieta yesterday after she is said to have escaped from her captors.

Both posses of officials were accompanied by expert trailers, men familiar with the country of cactus, mesquite and greasewood that lies to the south of this city. A circle will be made in an attempt to pick up the trail of Mrs. McPherson, who declares she wandered all night through the desert after sawing the thongs that held her captive and escaping from the clutches of the three kidnapers.

Los Angeles Plans Royal Homecoming

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 24. (AP)—Followers of Aimee Semple McPherson, Angelus temple evangelist, overjoyed at the news of the return of their lost leader, today were making preparations for a mammoth demonstration on the day of her home coming. Her welcome will take on the aspect of a civic event if the plans of her congregation are fully materialized.

Mayor George E. Cryer, already has been approached. The city's chief executive told friends of the evangelist that he saw no reason why the official courtesy of the city should not be extended Mrs. McPherson when she returns and expressed the personal wish to meet her at the station.

Mrs. McPherson is expected back here Saturday, no definite announcement has been made here of the exact time of her return.

Offers $10,000

Merle Armitage, business executive of the Los Angeles grand opera association who last night telegraphed Mrs. McPherson an offer of $10,000 for her first public appearance here at Hollywood bowl, also was without word from the evangelist. His offer still stands, he announced.

Thousands of Mrs. McPherson's congregation filled Angelus temple today to attend special services of thanksgiving for the deliverance of their pastor. The services continued throughout the day and were interspersed with songs of praise sung to the accompaniment of Mrs. McPherson's famous silver band assembled for the occasion.

Attaches of the temple today launched a plan whereby Mrs. McPherson will be able to broadcast a message to her followers by control from her bedside at Douglas, Ariz.

Photos Eagerly Taken

The first photographs taken of Mrs. McPherson since her return arrived here this morning, being brought by airplane and automobile. Early editions of today's papers carrying the pictures were quickly bought up on the streets.

Miss Emma Schaeffer, the evangelist's secretary, who first reported Mrs. McPherson missing at Ocean Park on May 18, remained in seclusion today and denied reporters an interview. She has not made any public statement since Mrs. McPherson was reported located in Arizona. Newspaper men yesterday were told by Mrs. Kennedy that the secretary "knew nothing and would not permit her to be interviewed."

HOUSEWORK AND ROAD WORK IN AUSTIN TRIAL

MADE BIG PROFITS

Witnesses Testify Highway Contracts Figured in Bond Business

AUSTIN, June 24.—(AP)—Politics and domestic life at the Texas executive mansion was brought to light here today when the Yett-Nalle suit got under way in the 53rd district court. Mrs. Richard Yett, doughter-in-law of Mayor W. D. Yett and plaintiff in the suit for $939 alleged half of a commission due her in the former partnership of Mrs. Oulda Ferguson Nalle daughter of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, and herself, was on the stand when court adjourned.

After much delay and an attempt to settle the case out of court, trial started late in the afternoon. It involves the claim of $939, which Mrs. Yett claims is due her on a bond furnished by the Southern Surety company of Dallas, for W. L. Pearson, a contractor, who obtained a $939,000 highway contract from the state highway commission last September.

Mrs. Nalle Ousted

Through a second amended petition filed by the attorney for the plaintiff, Mrs. Nalle was ousted from the suit, and George Nalle, her husband, was made the sole defendant. Then the attorney for plaintiff protested the presence of Mrs. Nalle in the court room on the ground that she had been placed under the witness rule because she is to take the stand, but the judge overruled the objection.

Taking the stand, Mrs. Richard Yett, whose husband is a party to the suit, testified that both George Nalle and Richard Yett solicited insurance and bond business for the partnership. She said that Mrs. Nalle tried to get the American Surety company to write the bond required by the highway department of W. L. Pearson and testified that Mrs. Nalle said: "This company is so slow."

Ma Gets Mad

Testifying that she had a conversation on September 24 in which Mrs. Nalle made no mention of a division of the partnership Mrs. Yett said that on September 28, Mrs. Nalle called her to the executive mansion and said her mother (Governor Miriam A. Ferguson) was always getting after her for the way she kept house at the mansion and that she wanted to split up the business, giving Mrs. Yett the insurance business and keeping the bond business.

Mrs. Yett said the partnership made "lots of money" getting bonds for highway contractors and that the partnership "made good profits" and "split them every month." She said "half and half." She said that Mrs. Nalle tried to get a settlement October 8, but that she (Mrs. Yett) did not have the books balanced up for the month of September, and that she asked Mrs. Nalle if she had received any commissions and that Mrs. Nalle said "no."

Mrs. Yett testified she told Mrs. Nalle that she knew she had collected the commission and that she was going to get her part of it and that, "I could stand a law suit as well as she could." The witness said that Mrs. Nalle gave the excuse of social duties and keeping house at the mansion for the division of the partnership.

DAN'S MANAGER SAYS HE KEPT HIS HANDS OFF

'FALSE CHARGES'

Letter From Culver Says One Who Wrote It Knew Little.

FORT WORTH, June 24.—(AP)—The south plains railway fight has been dragged into the governor's race and has already been replied to.

A statement was issued here Thursday night by Frank P. Culver, Jr., northwest Texas campaign manager for Dan Moody, denouncing a circular issued from Lynch Davidson campaign headquarters. Moody's stand in the rail fight is attacked in the circular.

The railway issue was injected into the campaign a few days ago when a circular was printed here under the caption:

Many Mis-Statements.

"Dan Moody's stand against the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf railroad and the interests of the south plains." After submitting a copy to Assistant Attorney General Ernest May, Culver issued a statement in which he declared that the circular almost in every line contained a direct mis-statement of facts or a false implication of some sort.

The circular which explains at the foot that it was put out by "Friends of Lynch Davidson on their own responsibility," accuses Moody of supporting the Fort Worth and Denver (Burlington) railway in an attempt to "monopolize" the plains territory.

"The statement that "Moody was busy at Washington filing an argument for the Burlington against the T. P. and G." for instance, Culver said, is an out-and-out falsehood, because Moody did not go to Washington at any time during the T. P. and G. controversy.

Gross Falsification.

Another "gross falsification," Culver declared, was in the statement that "the Texas railroad commission granted the request for permission to build the T. P. and G., but refused to grant the request of the Burlington."

"Such mis-statements," Culver said "lead me to believe that the person writing the circular are not responsible to Davidson campaign leaders, who certainly would not have allowed their cause to be damaged to the extent it doubtless will be by the flagrant misrepresentations contained in this circular."

Eucharist Congress Ends In Splendor As Storm Soaks Vast Multitude

MUNDELEIN, Ill., June 24.—Despite a deluge of rain and hail in the midst of the final ceremonies, the 28th international euchhristic congress was carried to a magnificent conclusion today by hundreds of Catholic clergy, including 12 cardinals, before a vast assemblage of more than 700,000 persons.

Congress officials announced that between 700,000 and 800,000 persons had passed through the gates of the seminary grounds during the morning. Rain clouds gathered suddenly soon after the procession began to file out of the sanctuary shortly after noon and at 2 o'clock the first light rain fell.

An hour later a torrential rain and hail fell upon the multitudes for 20 minutes. Thousands on the fringe of the assemblage dashed for shelter and in a few widely separated sections of the two square miles the crush created a momentary condition of panic, but the official program continued as solemnly and as orderly as it had begun.

Throughout the rain, chimes of the chapel rang out the continuity of the sacred ceremonies, and before the rain had stopped the seminary choir was chanting a Latin hymn from the sanctuary.

So dense were the throngs about the wide exits from the seminary grounds that for several hours after the services ended messengers charged with the task of hastening through the jam were unable to get within a mile of the gates. One railroad car ried passengers from the main entrance at the rate of 30,000 an hour for five hours.

I'M THE GINK

I'm the gink who never has a match. They are such trifles—why should I carry them? Every few minutes through the day you'll hear me ask, "Say, got a match?" Of course others have to stop and dig down in their pockets for matches for me. It never occurs to me that it may be some little trouble for them to carry matches. I don't think. My pipe or cigarette is never lit. "Say, let me have a match, will you?"

JIM HOGS ROAD FUNDS, DAN SAYS

Declares Tenth of All Money Is Spent in Four Counties.

TEXARKANA, Texas, June 24.—More than one-tenth of the highway maintenance fund for 1926 was spent in four counties in Texas—the home counties of former Governor Ferguson, and of former Highway Commissioner Joe Burkett and Frank Lanham—Dan Moody, attorney general and candidate for governor, charged in a speech here tonight.

"Here is a fine sample of Fergusonism", declared Moody, "as it manifests itself in favoritism and the serving of selfish ends in the use of the public money.

"Durin gthe year 1924, under the "During the year 1924, under the $122,980.57 was spent on the maintenance of highways in Bosque, Bell, Eastland and Parker counties. But in 1925, under the regime of Jim Ferguson, Joe Burkett and Frank Lanham, a total of $1,067,880.03 was spent on those same roads. Less than $9,000,000 was spent for this purpose in the other 248 counties in the state. Bell and Bosque counties are Ferguson's counties, Eastland county is the home county of Joe Burkett and Parker county is the home county of Frank Lanham. If there is any other reason why these four counties should be singled out among the 252 counties in the state and more than one-tenth of the maintenance fund spent on their highways, I don't know what it can be."

Gives the Figures.

Moody gave the figures county by county, pointing out in each case that the increase over the previous year was nearly ten to one. The figures for 1924, under the Neff administration, were Bell county $29,509.64; Bosque $24,834.64; Eastland $19,589.81 and Parker $30,575.95. The figures for 1925, under the Ferguson administration were Bell county $304,851.41; Bosque $201,588.61; Eastland $224,870.26 and Parker $267,091.03.

Moody charged that the state was building a road in Bell county right now without one cent's expense to the county.

"Why should the people of Bell county be made the favorite children of the state in this way?" asked Moody. "Why should they not be required to vote bonds for the building of highways, just like the other counties of Texas are required to do? Does anybody believe that this has no connection with the fact that Jim Ferguson is a property owner and taxpayer in Bell county, and that in this instance, as in others, he used public funds in his personal interest?

A Ferguson Stunt.

"Everybody knows the reason for it, for this kind of thing is characteristic of Fergusonism. It is only another case of using the public money to further selfish ends and toward political friends. It is futile to talk about economy in the administration of the state's affairs, it is futile to talk about putting the state on a cash basis and reducing the taxes, it is futile to talk about obtaining a higher apportionment for the school children of the state, it is futile to talk about anything constructive so long as practices of this kind prevail at Austin. And such practices will continue to prevail so long as Ferguson is in control of the governor's office."

Moody reviewed the highway contracts in his address, and advocated placing a fair apportionment of maintenance funds in the hands of the commissioner's court in each county as the best way of getting full value for the money spent. He scored Ferguson for his attitude on the district road bonds and his failure to call a special session of the legislature to validate the bonds.

Jury on Fire

SAN ANTONIO, June 24.—(AP)—Jurymen in the case of Paul O'Brien on trial in the 94th district court, Thursday morning would have been overcome with the smoke from a fire, which started in a closet opening off the bathroom of the jury's dormitory, had not a janitor investigated the insistent ringing of the bell from the jury room.

When the shadow of the janitor was framed in the frosted glass of the jury room, the beleaguered 12 began to shout "fire" the menial turned in the alarm as a deputy sheriff answered the bell which rang in the sheriff's office. He opened the door to the room to find the figures of the jurors completely obscured by the smoke which poured forth from the bathroom in volumes.

SECOND LOVE

By MALCOLM DUARD

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY EUGENE MACLEAN

John Parrish leaves his rich young wife, Audrey, chafed by her frequent references to her wealth and his poverty. Marcie Allen, young, lovely, very advanced in her views, proceeds to vamp him, and gradually he becomes interested. She has been ordered from her own home because of her "new" ideas, and has been invited by Audrey to be her guest. Audrey's handsome father, Harry Morton, comes from Europe, and Marcie immediately sets her cap for him. He laughs at her, and she confesses to him that she has made love to Parrish, and that the young man now is angry because she teased him. As the last chapter closes Marcie, Morton and Parrish are at dinner in Audrey's house (Audrey has gone away to make an opportunity for this meeting) and Parrish has just angrily accused Marcie of trying to vamp Morton.

(Names and situations in this story are fictitious)

CHAPTER XXVII

"I didn't throw you over, John boy," she said, her words low-toned and soothing. "Don't you remember—you took me by the shoulders and shook me dreadfully?"

He leaned nearer and tightened his grip upon her arm.

"But you ARE after Audrey's father now!" he whispered. "Aren't you?"

"Sh-h!" she hissed. "He's coming."

Parrish withdrew his hand and straightened up. Morton entered an instant later, whistling.

"Don't know how I'm going to fill your place, John," he said. "That fellow I was trying to get can't leave his job."

Parrish turned to him. His face was flushed from his brief colloquy with Marcie.

"Well, I want to leave right away," he said.

"Okay with me," Morton said. "I'll run my business—and I suppose Audrey can handle her finances herself."

"She can't handle anything!" Parrish growled, putting down the fork full of food he had just lifted. "You ought to have seen the fool account book she showed me not long ago. Said her funds were twelve hundred dollars short. Turned out that she had forgotten to subtract her household expenses from the balance she had written down."

"By the way," said Marcie, innocently. "Did you ever give me the money from my stock that you sold?"

Parrish turned scarlet. Morton looked toward him with interest. "Been handling some of Miss Allen's funds?" he inquired.

"Forgot all about it," Parrish said. "I put the money in the safe, down at the office, and with one thing and another, my mind was so full—I'm sorry," he concluded, turning to the girl. "What did you do without money?"

"Oh, I had a little—and charged what I bought to Audrey's account," she said placidly.

She cast a glance at Parrish and went on: "Do you know what I did Mr. Morton? I found Mr. Parrish's emerald pin that he—he lost, and I took it down town and sold it, and he got it back and made me return the money. Wasn't that awful of him?"

Parrish looked at her aghast. "You told him that because you thought I'd tell him!" he accused.

Morton was watching them as one might view a play.

"Wouldn't you have told?" she asked, innocent eyes fixed upon the younger man.

He lowered his head. "I might have."

The girl clapped her hands, triumphantly. "See? That's why I told."

"I didn't lose the pin, anyhow" Parrish said, directing his words toward his plate. "I threw it away. And she knew it!"

Shifting his knife and fork around he was silent for a moment or two, and then went on: "She didn't actually steal the pin, Mr. Morton—I think she—"

"Steal it!" The girl's voice raised "Who said I stole it? Why, how horrible!" She dropped her hands to her lap and looked at Parrish accusingly. "How can you use such words about me?"

His forehead wrinkled in quick astonishment. "Why, I said you DIDN'T steal it I said—"

Her handkerchief came up to her eyes in her two hands. "He accuses me of stealing!" she wailed.

Parrish's face wore an expression of complete misery, as he turned to his father-in-law for aid.

"You heard what I said, sir," he appealed. "I was defending her from a false impression, wasn't I?"

"Sh-h," Marcie hissed, "He's coming."

Morton, who had been sitting easily, looking from one to the other, now interposed.

"Miss Allen," he said, quietly.

She looked from the side of the handkerchief, which still was before her eyes.

"Put down the handkerchief," he continued.

She obeyed.

"Now go on with your dinner," he said. "Parrish, I understood you correctly. And Miss Allen—" she was dipping into her food now, with entire composure—"I quite understood you."

She nodded and smiled at him. Parrish, confused and troubled, had nothing more to say for the remainder of the meal. After it was over, he asked Morton if he might be excused.

The older man walked with him to the door. "Are you sure you want to resign your job?" he asked, as Parrish stepped onto the porch.

"I'd better, Mr. Morton," said the other, "I'm utterly miserable. You know that."

"Poor lad!" Morton patted him on the shoulder. "But it may come out all right."

When Parrish had gone, his host called to Marcie. "Suppose we sit on the lawn until Audrey comes," he suggested.

"As I get it," he said, as they took their seats outside "you appropriated Parrish's emerald. Is that one of your little customs?"

"Stealing, you mean?" she was undisturbed. "Oh, goodness, no. I think I did this just for development. Besides I was likely to need the money, you know."

"That's the reason for pilfering, generally," he commented. "You lifted some of my liquors, too, didn't you?"

She nodded. "Some boys came," she explained.

"Reason enough," he returned politely. "Is anything else missing?"

"I can't think of anything," she said after reflection. "But Mr. Horton—truly I'm not a thief. I just do things—on impulse, you know. That is, I do things if they're exciting."

"I see—I see," Morton mused. "Actually, I don't suppose you'd have taken that pin, if it had belonged to a stranger."

"Certainly not," she said eagerly. "Poor kid!" he murmured, half aloud.

Her eyes widened in astonishment. "You mean me?"

"Yes—poor Marcie." He was tapping thoughtfully on the arm of his chair. "Full of life and energy—needing something to do in the world—no duties to perform—nothing useful to look forward to—running after the pretty butterflies until you're lost in the forest—"

He looked up, and saw the girl's eyes were wet.

"Poor little kid!" he concluded.

She produced her handkerchief and applied them to real tears, this time. "You—you said you were a hard-boiled rounder," she choked. "I always thought I was one, too!"

"Stuff and nonsense!" He waited until she lowered the square of lace she held to her eyes. "You'd become one, fast enough—and there isn't anything in the world so wretched to look at, and to be, as an old bat—a tough woman whose youth has gone."

"But you're just a kid, now—a pathetic little kid."

She began to cry, audibly.

"There, there," he soothed. "I was just talking. I didn't want to hurt your feelings."

"You didn't hurt them," she sobbed. "It was I—I hurt myself. I'm no good! You said so."

He started forward, as if to go to her. Then his eyes puckered at the corners, amusedly, and he sank back, she was not looking—her hands covered her face.

"The only man in the world I ever was really attracted to," she went on. "And you see so plainly what I'm headed for—just to be an old bat!"

She paused, but as he said nothing, she went on. "Chasing butterflies—hunting happiness. That's all I do. And when I almost find it, he sees through me—he knows what I am going to be—and, of course, he won't have me!"

Again she waited. He continued silent, and she moved her hands so she could look at him.

"What are you laughing for?" she demanded sharply.

"Because, Marcie, you're a fraud." He shook with merriment, while she stared. "My cue, I suppose, was to say: 'Now Marcie—the old bad days are over. Harry will take care of you.' Wasn't that your idea?"

Her look of indignation passed, and was slowly succeeded by a smile. "I hoped you'd say something like that," she said, demurely.

"But I didn't. I've seen that stunt tried before."

"Goodness—don't I do ANYTHING new? Haven't I ANY new ideas in vamping?"

He smilingly shook his head. "There aren't any new ideas in courtship. They're all been used.

A taxicab drew up at the curb.

"There's Audrey," said Marcie warningly.

Morton arose, and went to meet his daughter. Returning, he placed her in his own chair, and went to get another for himself.

"I've been trying to get him interested," Marcie said.

"And just made him laugh," surmised Audrey.

Morton came back, and the three sat talking, as it grew dark. Night had fallen when Audrey, with a start and a whispered word, told them that her husband was coming in the gate.

"How do you do, John?" Audrey said, as he came up to them.

He bowed stiffly. "Good evening, Audrey," he replied. "Then he addressed Marcie. "I brought your money," he held a roll of bills in his hand, and this he extended to her. "I'm sorry I forgot it. Goodnight." He looked at Morton. "Goodnight, sir."

He hesitated, then bowed to Audrey, and was moving away.

She arose hastily, and went to him.

"John—wait!" she said.

U. S. CITIZEN IS TORTURE VICTIM

Man Falls in Hands of Mexico Smuggling Brigands.

BROWNSVILLE, June 24.—(AP) Telling a story of being tortured by Mexican officials in Matamoras, in an effort to obtain information concerning shooting recently of a smuggler by United States immigration officers, Mativada Garza, 35, American born citizen, is in the hospital here with a broken arm, wrenched shoulder and in a semi-conscious condition.

Garza was found last night on this side of the river by Ramon Longoria, a close friend and a member of the local immigration force. The man told his friend and Sheriff L. G. Nichols that he had been held in the Matamoros prison since Sunday evening and that he had been questioned a number of times by the judge of some court in that city.

He said that the judge and a number of officers came to his cell late Wednesday evening and again questioned him about the officers who were in the party which killed Artego Guerra when he resisted arrest for smuggling at a point several miles above Brownsville on the Rio Grande.

When he informed the officials he knew nothing of the case they began to torture him, according to his story, and after they had failed to gain any information from him they put him across the Rio Grande about 11 p. m. last night. He was wandering along the bank of the river when he was found by Longoria, who called Sheriff Nichols and Chief Deputy R. D. Brown.

Horses Fade Out

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP)—Just as the horse has given way to the automobile in urban centers, so is the camel fading out of the picture in remote deserts to make room for the motor bus.

An idea of the extent to which the American motor busses and trucks have invaded the far corners of the earth was contained in a report issued by the commerce department today showing that this modern method of transporation is now in operation over the Arabian, Gobi and Sahara deserts. Passengers are carried over the Biblical route from Jerusalem to Jerico, to the Temple of Heaven in the sacred city of Pekin, to Rangoon, Mandalay, Cairo, Alexandria and Casablanca.

Miss Helen Teckler Wyers, of Audubon, N. C., is spending ten long days in the county jail as a result of speeding in her motor car. She laughed at the officer who called her to stop—and stepped on the gas. Now she spends her days meditating on this and that and life in general. She is prominent socially and is missing the height of the early summer season. But she laughed at a traffic cop. And when she gets out, she's under promise not to drive for a year in that county.

WHO IS THE JOKER?

THERE must be a joker somewhere in the campaign of 1926. Perhaps there are several jokers. A. M. Ferguson of Grayson county is a prominent farmer and seed man. He is a brother of the husband of the governor of Texas. When Lynch Davidson made his talk at Wichita Falls, he was handed a telegram purported to have come from A. M. Ferguson pledging his active support throughout the campaign and on primary election day.

Now Lynch has been a campaigner or in politics until he has become thoroughly seasoned as well as a bit wary. He told the press boys that he did not know just what to say, and surmised that it might be a trap of some sort. It appears that away down here in Texas there are political trappers ever laying their wires for unsuspecting feat and unsuspecting minds. According to newspaper stories the Grayson county farmer and seed man did not take kindly to the manner in which the candidate for the gubernatorial nomination received his tender of support. He was a bit wrathy and before his wave of wrath had subsided, according to the Grayson county newspaper correspondent, he sent a second telegram to the distinguished citizen of Houston. This telegram follows:

"Dear friend Lynch, I am in trouble and want you to reciprocate my offer of support. What shall I do? Positively will not support Jim. Since you are afraid of my support, all my friends whom I had asked to vote for you are laughing at me and ridiculing you for your biliousness at Wichita Falls last night. Preacher Zim will not have me and my wife will not let me vote for ladies. Please read this to your audience tonight so they will know how big or how small you are."

Perhaps Lynch was right. Perhaps the telegram contained a joker. Perhaps A. M. Ferguson, who may be a Scotch humorist, and they are rare birds, sent the first telegram. Perhaps he sent the second. But why not Zim?

Zim is a tithing evangelist. Zim would run all the foreigners out of Texas. Zim would run all the Mexicans out of Texas, including the thousands of so-called Mexicans whose forefathers were here before Columbus discovered America. Zim would put the lawyers out of politics.

Zim would put all the modificationists of the Volstead act on a Sahara desert, where they would be compelled to drink branch water without being iced. Zim would lift all the taxes from the farmers and make the wealthy pay the debts of the state of the cost of the government. But if the first telegram was a joker, what classification should be made of the second telegram. It appears that the wife of A. M. Ferguson draws the line on the women candidates for governor. A. M. says he won't vote for Jim, Lynch is in doubt and the red-headed attorney general isn't in evidence in the interesting story by wire handled from the Grayson end of the line.

PRICE SAYS MONEY IS EASY

COLONEL THEODORE H. PRICE is responsible for the following: "Plenty of loose capital in the United States, and it is being used freely." Sure, the colonel is correct. There was plenty of loose capital in Pennsylvania while the republican senatorial primary was on, and the three friends of three candidates spent $3,000,000 in order to purify politics and political contests before the campaign had closed.

There appears to have been plenty of loose money in Illinois and Indiana in the political contest of the year and these contests were of a primary nature. Col. Price says that the reservoirs of capital of the United States are full to overflowing. He points out that the United States is receiving annually about a million dollars to pay the interest on or the principal of foreign loans already made.

"This sum, plus the excess of our increase in income," writes the colonel, "is pressing for employment at home, as investors do not want foreign security. The consequence is analmost unexampled demand for good bonds and stocks."

It is high time Texans are coming out of their trance. Something should be done to protect the credit of the state. Something should be done to protect the legitimate securities of the state. A huge issue of Dallas school bonds found no buyers in the investing capitals of the country. Buyers shyed away. They were hands off. They had heard of conditions away down here in Texas. They had heard of the decision of the Archer county bond case. They had been told that a hundred million dollars in bonds, road and otherwise, had been tainted by the decision. They had been told that there were many repudiators of public debts away down here in Texas.

They had been told that the powers that be refused to call a special session of the Texas legislature for validating purposes and to give legislative assurances to the bond holders of Texas securities and the bond buyers of America, that the credit of Texas would be held inviolate throughout all the years to come and that the pledge to pay would never be repudiated or broken by state, county, municipality or political sub-division created for road improvement bond issuing purposes.

There is an enormous wealth in America. It is said the national income will be greater this year than ever before. It is said that national wealth will be increased two or three billions. Now why should Texas' credit be black listed or rather their price be hammered down?

It is not a political question, it is a business question and the men and women voters of Texas who love their commonwealth should be out on the firing line for the protection of the honor of Texas, the future of Texas, the security of Texas and the fair name of their state and its people.

GERMAN REPUBLIC VERDICT

A BILL to confiscate the property of German royal families was defeated in a national referendum. Property worth approximately $500,000,000 has been saved for former Kaiser Wilhelm and numerous kings and princesses by the result of the referendum. There was a light vote cast. Only 34 percent of the electors voted yes on the proposal for confiscation.

It was admitted that the issue was one of the gravest which has confronted the German republic. If the confiscation measure had carried, four kings, six grand dukes, five dukes, seven princesses and their respective dynasties would have been dispossessed of their landed property.

Many of the foremost leaders of the German republic declared the endorsement of confiscation would be a deliberate blow to Germans credit abroad and would destroy her futuure prospect for foreign credits.

There is a socialist party in Germany. This is the slogan of the socialist, "not a penny for princesses." It appears that Germans ran true to form as to property rights. They ran true to form as to the protection of property rights.

Never in their history have the men of the Tutonic race stood for the repudiation of either individual or state obligation. Wherever you find the sons of the Teutonic race, they are opposed to either confiscation or repudiation. They are thrifty. They are industrious. They never live beyond their income. They accumulate. They invest. "To have and to hold," is one of the tenets of their business faith.

There may have been exceptions to this rule in the past. Earl Marx was a German but not of the Teutonic family of men. In all climes under all flags, the sons of the Teutonic race believe in the payment of their debts, of all debts legitimately made or contracted.

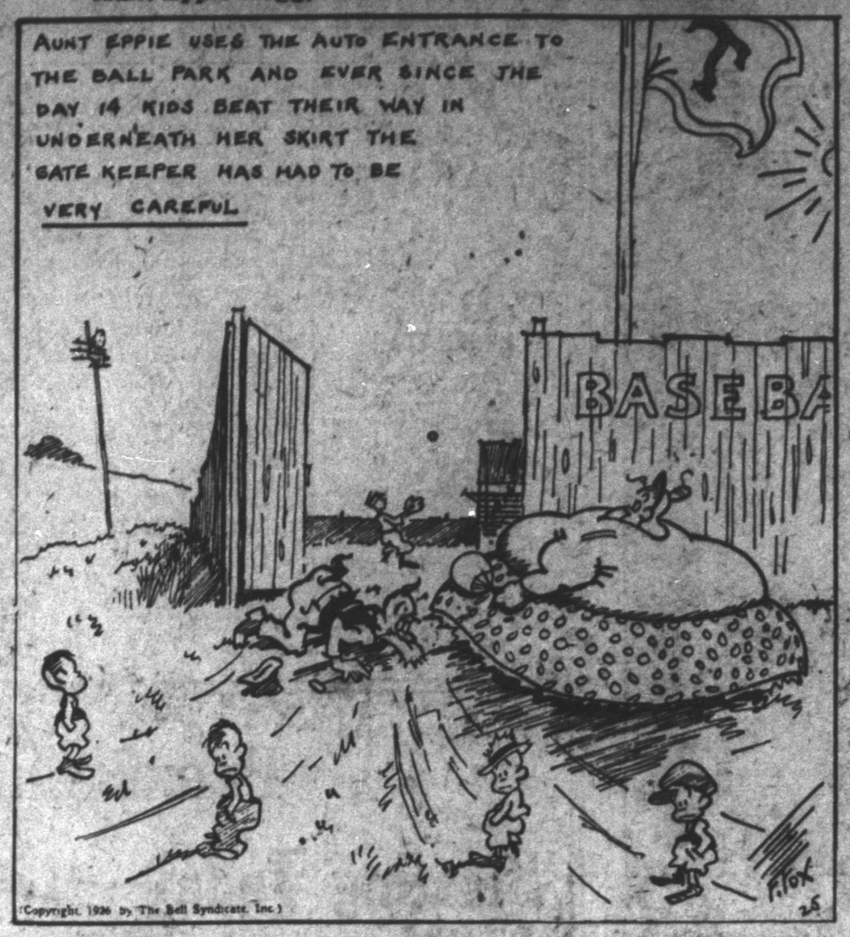

There are thousands of the Teutonic family in Texas. They are not repudiators. They are not confiscators. They believe pledges are made to be kept. No doubt, like all other tribes or families of men, the Teutons have their faults, they have their vices, they have their shortcomings but when it comes to the payment of debts, private or public, they deliver the goods. They are not Welchers. They are not repudiationists. They stand for the sacredness of contract and the sancity of private property.

God help the land or the nation where a majority of the people are repudiators of private or public debts or willing to confiscate the property of others at the ballot box. As for the former kaiser, he is a mere creature of a system of government that has passed away, oppressive systems of government should be destroyed; oppressors, whether kingly or otherwise, should be deprived of power and their talons broken, but the sancity of private property should not be destroyed either under the flags of Europe or the flags of America.

Aunt Eppie Hogg, The Fa ttest Woman In 3 Counties

PROLOGUE —by— Michael Arlen

Adams to you sir, said that gentleman. "But otherwise I am well, thank you."

"Lord Quorn," His Highness cordially continued, "I am really most pleased that you could accept my invitation."

"You do me too much honor, sir. And may I take it that your courtesy in selecting me for an invitation for your probably enjoyable ball is a sign of your gracious forgiveness?"

"You may, Lord Quorn."

"Then I have the honor, sir, to declare myself, without any reserve whatsoever, to be your Highness' most obedient servant."

"And I, sir," said Mr. Woodhouse Adams.

"Gentlemen," said His Highness, "you are very kind."

"Your condescension, sir, but points our crudity," protested my lord. "May I, however, further trespass on your indulgence by asking to be allowed to enroll myself as the humblest among your daughter's suitors?"

"We can talk this matter out more comfortably," said His Highness agreeably, "in my study. Ho, there! Ho, pages!"

"Altesse!"

"Conduct Milord Quorn and Mr. Woodmouse Eves to my study, and see to it that they have suitable refreshment. Lord Quorn, I will join you not a moment after I have received my guests."

"I'm not sure I like this study business," said Mr. Woodhouse Adams as they followed the page through many halls and corridors to a distant part of the house in the walled garden, until at last they were conducted to a quiet-seeming door, and were no sooner within than what appeared to be a regiment of Hussars of Death or Honor had pinioned their arms to their sides.

"This is an outrage!" cried my lord with very cold eyes.

"Gentlemen, you are under arrest," said an officer with moustachios whose name the chronicler has unfortunately overlooked.

"We're under what?" cried Mr. Woodhouse Adams.

"And you will await His Highness' pleasure in this room," said the officer with moustachios, but he had no sooner spoken than the Duke entered, followed by a lean young officer with pitiless eyes.

"Altesse!" saluted the Hussars of Death or Honour.

Not so Lord Quorn. "Sir," cried he, "this is outrage and assault on the persons of King George's subjects. Do you forget that you are in England, sir?"

"Silence!" thundered the officer with moustachios.

"Silence be damned!" cried Mr. Woodhouse Adams. "Your Highness, what can this piracy mean? I wish to lodge a formal complaint."

"Sir, take it as lodged," said His Highness graciously, but it was with lowered brows that he turned to address my lord.

"Lord Quorn," said he, "it was my first intention to have you shot like a dog. But I have suffered myself to be dissuaded from consigning you to that ignominious fate at the intercession of this gentleman here. I present Counts Rupprecht Saxemunden von Maxe Middengrafen."

"Oh, have a heart!" gasped Mr. Woodhouse Adams.

But Lord Quorn, being a much-traveled gentleman whose ears were hardened against the most surprising sounds, merely said: "How do you do?"

"Your differences will soon be arranged," sternly continued His Highness. "Count Rupprecht has very properly put before me certain reasons which give him an undoubted right to be the agent of your destruction. The course of this night, Lord Quorn, shall see you as a duellist. And I can only hope that you have some knowledge of swordsmanship, for Count Rupprecht Saxemunden von Maxe-Middengrafen is the first swordsman of Valeria."

"I may add, Lord Quorn that his engagement to the Princess Baba will be formally announced immediately after your interment, which will take place in a corner of the garden. That is already arranged. Also your death will be accounted for to the authorities in a satisfactory way. Mr. Woodhouse Eves will, no doubt, act as your second. I will now leave you until such time as the ball is at its height, when there will be little chance of any of my guests being distracted by the ring of steel in the garden. Au revoir, milord. Count Rupprecht, your arm to the ball room!"

"Altesse!" saluted the Hussars of Death or Honor.

"And what a mess!" sighed Mr. Woodhouse Adams.

"I'll have to kill that boy," said Lord Quorn thoughtfully.

IV.

The dance was not yet at its most furious when the following events happened:

Anyone penetrating to a secluded conservatory leading from a corner of the ball room might have espied a young lady sitting at her ease on a bench of cedarwood beneath the dusty and unbalanced looking growth which is sold in civilized countries as a palm tree. The languid young lady's air was that of one who is forlorn, of one who is sad, of one who is so bored, yet decidedly that of one who would not for the world have her dolour interrupted by the general run of humanity, such as perspire without suavity and go poking their tedious noses into corners of ball rooms, saying: "I say, will you dance? I say, do dance!" Woe and woe to such youths, for they shall instantly be answered by the magical words "Miss three" and their persons shall be enveloped in forgetfulness forever.

Secure in her solitude behind a screen of plants and flowers, our young lady had quite evaded the eye of even the most relentless dancer but for the whisper of her white dress through the leaves. Her throat was adorned but for a double rope of pearls, while two captive emeralds swept from the tips of her ears. Her hair was tawny, and it glittered like a swarm of bees. As for her eyes, they were more than adequate to every occasion, men being what they are.

But no sudden intruder could have been more surprised to see the Princess Baba herself to see, by the merest hasard of a glance over her shoulder, the curious phenomenon of the bands the feet and the person of a young gentleman forcing himself into the premises through one of the conservatory windows.

She said, sighed, cried: "Oh!"

The intruder said something denoting astonishment, confusion, and grief; while his appearance was not ably devoid of that air of calm which is the mark of your perfect rogue or practising philosopher.

"Well!" said the Princess Baba. "To come in by the roof!"

"Sorry," said the young gentleman. "Sorry."

"Sir, what can this mean! It is not by saying 'sorry' that one is excused for housebreaking!"

"Madam," begged the youth, "won't you please allow me to explain?"

"And he calls me 'madam'!" sighed the Princess Baba with vexation. "Now I ask you, young man, do I look like a 'madam'?"

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Do you by any chance resemble the women who brags about her family tree, her money or her children—or the man who modestly recommends himself to all comers?—here's hoping you see none of these reflections in your own mirror.

Chief among bores are the braggarts. You know them by the score, and what you suffer while they perform solos blowing their own horns entitles you to a high place among the martyrs.

The woman who brags about her family:

"Oh, yes, indeed, I am a member of the Colonial Dames and the D. A. R.'s, for I think it is the sacred duty for everyone who belongs to the real aristocracy in America to assert their rightful place in society. There is so little family in this country. Positively no class distinction whatever. Everybody goes everywhere, and when you meet people you never can tell whether their ancestors came over in the Mayflower or in steerage except by their cars. If they have limousines, they are almost sure to be steerage.

"Of course, my ancestors were founders and signers. Really I can trace my ancestry back right straight to Adam, and my dear papa used to say to my dear mama, 'Really, my dear, our blood is so blue we could use it for ink if we wanted to.' Some day you must come and let me show you my family tree. Really, it is just perfectly fascinating. You would be so interested in it, especially in the collateral branches which show our connection with the Norman Kings.

"All of our people have been professional people. We have never been in trade. My great great grandfather was in the Virginia legislature and my mother's uncle was judge of the county court, and my dear father filled the responsible office of town dog catcher as long as he lived.

"Dear mama used to always say to us, 'Never forget that you belong to the Smythe family and are of the Smythes of Smytheville.'"

The woman who brags about her riches:

"Oh, dear, I am perfectly worn out. Really, running half a dozen big establishments is so exhausting that it keeps me on the verge of nervous prostration all the time. Of course I have a housekeeper and a large staff of servants, but she doesn't seem able to manage them, and there is always friction between her and the butler. And the parlor maids are always quarreling, and the chefs can't agree, and I am always being called upon to arbitrate disputes between the different footmen.

"I tell you, my dear, that I get so tired of it all that sometimes I wish I wasn't rich at all, and didn't have anything but a town house and a place in the country and a villa at Palm Beach and a chateau in France and not more than 30 or 40 servants. I often envy people who can live a simple life like that.

"You like this dress? Pshah, it is nothing but a little rag I picked up in Paris, a bargain I ran across one day on the Rue de la Paix. Why I didn't pay but $900 for it and really, I've gotten a lot of good out of it. I have actually worn it three times, and most of my frocks I never put on but once

"Yes, I think these pearls are rather good, but they are inexpensive. This string didn't cost but $200,000. I keep my good ones in the bank. They are so valuable I am afraid of having them stolen, but these cost so little it really doesn't make any difference whether I lose them or not, so I don't have to have them on my mind.

"How do I clean my jewels. I don't. When they get dirty, I just throw them away.

"Stephens will you order the car? Which one? Oh, it doesn't matter. Really when you have 20 cars in the garage, it is so tiresome to decide which one you will take out."

The woman who brags about her children:

"I am so worried about Sadie I don't know what to do. She goes, and goes, and goes, until I am actually afraid she will break down. Of course, I realize that, when a girl is as beautiful as she is and as fascinating and as wonderful a dancer, that everybody wants her at the parties. Why, she just makes the party by being there, but I just worry about her breaking herself down.

"And dates! My dear! The boys are simply crazy about her. It seems to me that she just lives at the telephone when she is at home, and in the evenings there are so many automobiles standing in front of our house that it looks like a public parking place. Of course, I wouldn't want Sadie to take a part in a bathing-beauty contest, but, really, sometimes I feel that she ought to do it. It is just a duty to show how perfect the human figure can be."

Lyrics of Life

By
Douglas Malloch

LET US LEAVE SOMETHING

Let us leave something when we're done;
A song, a little better one
Than we have sung in better days;
Or, if we do not fashion lays,
But brick or stone, then let us make
A better wall for someone's sake
Than we would ever make, I know,
If for ourselves we labored so.

'Tis well to want, 'tis well to dream,
To wash the glitter from the stream
Or find the gold in marts of trade.
Yet, when the last soiled card is played
And we have won the stake we sought,
Let us leave something we have wrought,
If song, or fortune, fame or stone,
For someone's joy besides our own.

I think we err who think success
Is having more than those with less,
Who leave the world through which we pass
Not greener by one blade of grass,
Not happier by one golden word
That hearts despondent might have heard,
Or men assured that life is good
By not one act of brotherhood.

Let us leave something when we go,
However little wealth we know,
That makes the world a richer place—
The memory of a smiling face,
Example of a heart content,
And faith beyond experiment.
Whatever for ourselves we find,
Let us leave something for mankind.

What Do You Know

Daily Science Six.

1. Who are the Iberians?
2. Who are the Celts?
3. To what race is the American Indian supposed to be akin?
4. To what race are the Eskimos akin?
5. Who are the modern descendants of the Huns?
6. Have the ancient Egyptians any modern survivors?

Twenty-Third Psalm in Klowa.

The minds of different races work differently, due largely to a different grammar and vocabulary rather than any fundamental difference in brain structure. One difficulty in converting other peoples to Christianity is in making our religion intelligible in their language. A missionary to the Klowa Indians translated the psalms into Klowa. Literally re-translated, this is what the 23 psalm sounded like to the Indians, with their limited vocabulary:

The chief is my Sheep-herder
I won't hiss anything.
He leads me beside the stinking water
He makes me lie down in the grass.
He greases my head with running grease
My drinking instrument is slopping over—
—and so on. This missionary made few converts.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. Camphor comes from Formosa and China.
2. Camphor is derived from a tree, Cinnamomum camphora.
3. Camphor is used as a diluent for lacquer, as an insect repellant, as a remedy for colds, as a painter's oil, and above all in the manufacture of celluloid.
4. Celluloid is made of camphor and guncotton.
5. Celluloid is used in high explosives, in motion picture films, and directly in the form of many household articles, imitation bone and wood.
6. Synthetic camphor is a chemical combination of several substances from which the oil of camphor is made; rock camphor has never been synthesized.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

FRI—WHAT TODAY MEANS CANCER.

Today's planetary aspects are rather disquieting, and indicate that more than ordinary care and prudence should be exercised. They clearly denote a certain amount of physical danger, as well as moral perturbation. It is, of course, impossible to state the nature of the danger that will arise, but watchful vigilance and the refusal to take any chance will in all probability avert any regrettable consequences. The moral perturbation will take the form of pessimism, and dissatisfaction, which will provoke a trend to do those things that sane reflection would convince you as futile. Travel should be avoided today.

Children born today will, except for a few minor ailments, enjoy uneventful infancies. Their nutrition, however, should be carefully regulated, so that they will be well equipped physically to withstand the illness to which they will be subjected at the time of adolescence. At this period in their lives, their condition will cause much worry and justified anxiety. If, however, it be taken in time, no untoward results need be anticipated, and the signs denote a vigorous and healthy adulthood. Their natures will be affectionate, without being demonstrative. Their characters will be dependable. They will be fairly intelligent, industrious and methodical, and will in all probability achieve mediocre but not spectacular success.

If today is your birthday your disposition is a very merry one and to a certain extent you are irresponsible. You view nothing very seriously and are happy-go-lucky. When troubles assail you or difficulties arise, you rather depend on your friends to help you out, rather than shoulder the responsibility yourself. In the same light-hearted way you "rush in where angels fear to tread," and participate in undertakings and make commitments without deliberate consideration. You always persuade yourself that there will be a way out, even if you make no effort to discover it for yourself.

You are charitable in your thoughts, speech and action, and endeavor to think kindly of everyone. This attitude, so far, has proved your salvation, for your inherent and tolerant nature has endeared you to many who are thereby prompted to give you that aid of which you so often stand in need, as a result of your lack of ordered vision.

You are capable of strong love and full reciprocation is what is needed to make your life, in spite of its many palpable blunders, a happy one.

A FEW PORTRAITS
Or Why I Have Never Married
By Peter Pentre Jr.

A red hot petter
And VERY pally,
If you will let her—
There you have Sally!

* * *

A knee-high skirt,
A saucy face,
A hopeless flirt,
And you have Grace!

* * *

She NEVER pets.
Hates EVERY man;
Smokes cigarettes—
Sweet, wholesome Anne!

* * *

She Charlestons till
She makes you dizzy;
She's never still—
Well-named—she's Lizzy!

* * *

An injured look,
A baby stare,
But WHAT a hook!
There you have Clare!

THE MATHEMATIC INSTRUCTOR AT HOME
(Observed by Fred Anselm)

His wife—What will you have for breakfast, dear?

Professor Nash—Toast plus butter, grapefruit divided by a knife, coffee plus cream, minus sugar.

His wife—Very well, but I'd like to know who you were with last night. You came in at two o'clock!

Professor Nash—Quite simple! Let's apply algebra to the problem. Letting x equal the unknown, or who I was with, and letting y equal two o'clock, then z, of course, must equal what you have found out. Isn't that perfectly clear?

His wife—You say x—Oh, I can't understand it! Never mind. Go ahead and eat your grapefruit.

Professor Nash—This grapefruit is an interesting problem. When I pressed on the circumference while eating th diameter I received most of the cubic contents in the eye. I'll have to work this out—five inches time pl—

His Wife—Pie for breakfast! How can you think of such a thing! John, I wish you'd tell me how old I look—can you tell that I'm 36 by looking at my face?

Professor—We must apply geometry. Let the line AB equal the line CD, and—

His wife—Lines in my face! Oh you brute!

Professor—I didn't mean that at all, dearest. I simply meant that I am to you as a love-bird is to a dove which is Matrimonial Theorem number 65.

His wife—Oh, darling! Forgive me!

Lemons Bleach the Skin White

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

OIL LAND BIDS FACING DELAY

Over Million Acres of School Lands to Be Effected.

AUSTIN, June 24.—(AP)—Advertising for bids for oil and gas rights on more than a million acres of Texas university lands in west Texas is being held pending settlement in the Texas supreme court of the mandamus suit brought by George W. Theisen of Houston, J. H. Walker, chief clerk of the land office, said today.

Mr. Theisen seeks to compel J. T. Robinson, land commissioner, to lease him certain Texas university lands in Crane county at 10 cents an acre, as provided in a law passed several years ago. Commissioner Robinson contends that under an act of the 39th legislature he must lease the land to the highest bidder.

"Until the supreme court passes on the issue, few will be interested in bidding," Mr. Walker said.

He Takes Beating But Gets Reward

Francis McDonald, intimate friend of Tom Mix, got a beating and a bit of remembrance when the western star finished "The Yankee Senor," now at the Gem theatre.

In this picture, many of the scenes of which are done in Technicolor, McDonald plays the part of Juan, who is secretly in league with American bandits.

It becomes the painful duty of Paul Wharton, played by Tom Mix, to administer a sound trouncing to the "heavy." Tom Kennedy, a formtr prizefighter who weighs two hundred and fifteen pounds, also took a few of the Mix punches. After it was over the two "bad" men were pretty badly mussed, but—

It was only a day or so until the final scenes were made.

Then, during the lunch hour, Tom invited Emmett Flynn, the director, and Francis McDonald to his home for a "bite to eat."

When "Mac" came back to the studio he carried something carefully wrapped in tissue paper. Tom had presented him with a beautiful silk handkerchief—a neckpiece—purchased in Europe.

Woman Is Hanged

MANCHESTER, Eng., June 24.—(AP)—Inside the gray walls of Strangeway jail, a woman—the mother of three children, one of them a baby, was hanged this morning.

Mrs. Louis Calvert, 33 years old, was executed for strangling her landlady, Mrs. Lily Waterhouse, and then robbing her. To the end the condemned woman asserted she was innocent.

Thousands of persons had petitioned the home secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, for clemency. Sir William said he found no ground which would justify him in advising the king to interfere with the due course of the law. Among those most energetic in circulating petitions was Mrs. Calvert's husband, from whom she was separated at the time of the murder.

Miss Leona Lauter Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"I had been troubled with pimples for two years on my face, neck, back and chest. They were large and red and many of them festered. They came in blotches and during the hot weather itched badly. The irritation caused me to scratch and I could not sleep at night. The pimples caused disfigurement and embarrassment, and my clothing aggravated the breaking out on my body.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in two months was completely healed, after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Ointment." (Signed) Miss Leona Lauter, 130 Grotta Ave., Houston, Texas, Sept. 28, 1925.

Bebe and Warner Make a Hit In Latest Picture

A Million Dollars to Spend in Strand Picture and Bebe Does It.

A laugh tonic—that's what is being shown at the Strand beginning today. "Miss Brewsters Millions" in Bebe Daniels' first film for Paramount, since having been given her own comedy unit. And it is only fair to say that they've done right by our Bebe. Clarence Badger directed, with Warner Baxter and Ford Sterling featured in the two leading male roles.

Bebe has the faculty of taking you with her when she travels. In other words, when you see her as a little extra girl riding through the streets of Hollywood on the back of a mule—you're going to get just the same kind of thrill that she did. And when she visits the various studios looking for work, you're going to be standing right behind, looking over her shoulder.

And if you don't think there's enough comedy in it, take a look at this ludicrous situation. After months of despair, and living from hand to mouth, a rich uncle dies, leaving our heroine, Polly Brewster, a million dollars. But the will stipulates that the money has to be banked and not spent. To offset this—an other uncle comes along and offers her five times as much if she'll spend the original sum, and get rid of what he calls his brother's "tainted money."

In a series of extremely funny sequences, one sees Polly attempting to make the money fly. You see a marvelous fashion show and a money ball. She even advertises her willingness to invest money in various inventions. A long line of quack inventors sell her shares in some of the trickiest funniest contraptions that have ever been seen. Polly is even tempted to make an investment in a motion picture production. And in this instance we are taken right into a studio, and see a company at work, "shooting" the film.

Business Council To Hear Reports

At today's meeting of the business council of the chamber of commerce reports on the Amarillo convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce will be heard. An added feature of the meeting will be musical numbers by members of the band. The boys will be garbed in the uniforms they wore to the Amarillo convention in order that those who remained at home may get some idea of the unique costumes and the appearance of the band in the parade of Tuesday afternoon.

Among the speakers to be heard Friday will be J. A. Kemp, who presented the invitation to the organization to meet next in Wichita Falls and a number of other prominent business men who attended.

He Admits Attack On Moody Record

WACO, June 24—(AP)—E. H. Banks of Waco, labor leader, who was quoted by Lynch Davidson as having written a letter to J. G. Smith of Waco, state secretary of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, attacking Dan Moody's labor record, and the letter Smith denied having received up to the time Moody spoke in Waco last Tuesday night, gave out the following statement this afternoon:

"In view of the fact that my name and part of a letter written by me to J. G. Smith of Waco, state secretary-treasurer of the Sheet Metal Workers union, has had prominent mention in the newspapers, I desire to state that the letter read by the Hon. Lynch Davidson, in Dallas on the night of June 20, was an exact copy of a letter which I had previously written and mailed to Mr. Smith. In due course of the mails it should have been received at the home address of Mr. Smith on Tuesday morning.

"As to whether the letter was received or not may be a question, but the facts are that the letter was written by me and personally mailed in time for it to have been received before the address of Dan Moody in Waco Tuesday night.

"The letter referred to giving the facts as reported to me, was based on information received from I. T. Saunders, business agent of Houston local International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers union."

Renee Adoree In Romantic Comedy On Olympic Bill

Has Lead in Van Sternberg's "The Exquisite Sinner" Opposite Nagle.

Renee Adoree, petite French actress now under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, has the feminine lead opposite Conrad Nagle in "The Exquisite Sinner," the Josef von Sternberg picture now being shown at the Olympic theatre.

Before coming to America Miss Adoree was a noted actress at the French capital. As a child she was a remarkable equestrienne and toured many of the principal countries of Europe with one of the big French circuses.

Since entering pictures in America she has steadily climbed in public favor, until now she is ranked with the best leading women of the American screen.

White as Cotton Face Now Ruddy

Says Mrs. Wolcott—All the Terrible Aches, Pains and Sour Bile Sickness Gone

Like many other folks thereabouts, Mrs. Wolcott was a picture of misery. She says: "I was ghastly white as cotton, all thinned out, bilious all the time, terrible headaches, bones creaked as if they would snap apart, ached all over, could hardly walk or lift an arm; had been taking calomel steadily, and it made me so deathly sick I was completely discouraged. Then one day my cousin who lives near the state line came on a visit and she had a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. My- what a change. It gave me new courage. We sent to town for two bottle, and since then my face is filled out, with a ruddy glow. Gained over twenty pounds and am the picture of health. Mid-Continent Oil Operations Reach 3,66 9 During Past Week

OKLAHOMA HAS ONLY DECREASE

West Texas Area Leads All Other Fields in Drilling Work.

Oil operations in the Mid-Continent fields, including north Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, reached a total of 3,669 during the week just ended, the Oil Weekly will say Friday.

Oklahoma led the other state fields with a total of 1,636 operations, north Texas followed with 1,478, while 561 operations were reported from Kansas fields.

All state fields showed an increase in the number of drilling wells except Oklahoma, which fell off slightly. The increase in Kansas and Texas was sufficient, however, to bring the total for the entire Mid-Continent to a new high figure.

The west Texas area led other Texas districts in the number of drilling, the number reported being 338. The Panhandle district followed with 248 wells drilling, while 150 wells were drilling in Wichita Falls.

Texas Panhandle

Since the completion of the Wilcox Oil and Gas company No. 3 Phebe Worley, in the southeast corner of the northwest of the southeast of section 62, block 3, I&GN survey, Gray county, Texas, Panhandle, on June 3, for 150 barrels an hour initial, and now making 2,800 barrels a day, a total of 10 new locations have been made by the Wilcox company around its new discovery well. They follow.

No. 5, in the southeast of the northeast of the southwest of section 62, is a rig on the ground; No. 6, in the southeast of the northeast, is now below 300 feet; No. 7, in the southeast of the southeast of the northwest, is a location; No. 8, in the northeast of the southwest, is a location; No. 9, in the northwest of the northeast, is a rig building; No. 10, in the northeast of the northwest, is a rig building; No. 11, in the northwest corner, and No. 12, in the southwest of the northwest, are materials being hauled out; No. 13, in the northwest of the southwest, and No. 14, in the southwest corner, are locations.

No. 2, Combs-Worley, in the southwest of the southeast of the southwest of section 59, is cemented at 3048 feet and will be drilled in shortly. No. 4 Wilcox-Worley in the southeast corner of the southwest of section 62, is standardizing and will be drilling shortly.

Surrounding the Wilcox acreage are probably a dozen locations made, and at some the cellars are being dug, and on others rigs are being built by the major companies such as Magnolia, Humble, Gulf, Clark and Baldridge, Pure, Empire, Marland and Prairies, and from all indications it is quite probable that there will be 40 or 50 wells drilling in the Gray county area within 30 days.

Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company is handling the production, piping the oil to the town of Pampa, some sixe to seven miles away, and thence shipping it in tank cars over the Santa Fe to Houston, Texas, where the oil is loaded into Sinclair tankers and shipped to the Marcus Hook refinery, near Philadelphia.

The oil of the Wilcox well is maintaining its initial gravity of 43 plus and so far has given no trouble in transporting. The daily shipments out of Pampa will average 30 cars.

H. F. Wilcox, president, and C. A. Dye, vice president, of Wilcox are delighted over their new discovery in the Pampa field, because their property consists of several hundreds of acres in one big block, with production so far in the center of the tract. The nearest offsets of other operators is three-fourths of a mile away.

Vaudeville Bill Promises No Lack of Interest

Music, Dance and Comedy Offer Specialty Attractions.

For theatre-goers who are in search of a variety of vaudeville thrills, the Olympic bill for Friday and Saturday will prove to be one of most satisfactory qualities. A program of five acts together with Conrad Nagle starring in "The Exquisite Sinner," an evening's entertainment is offered that affords no lack of interest.

The Anzac Duo presents a sensational comedy cycling act that has been shown all over the world. "Miss" Anzac does many difficult feats in fancy and trick cycling. The male member camouflages his good looks in comedy makeup with exaggerated clothes that heighten the laughing possibilities his appearance creates. Their versatility appears boundless in the offering they present. It is a splendid laughing number that cannot fail to serve its purpose.

"Somewhat Different"

Tom Brantford, "The Somewhat Different Comedian," and one-man band, is known universally, having played in England, Scotland and Europe for many years. He sings a song or two, tells some stories and gives a few imitations, finishing with his famous "one-man band" which is always good for carrying the house down.

The vaudeville program is more than ably filled by a dancing and musical act furnished by Vander and Haeghe. This delightfully personable couple offer a most pleasing musical and dancing skit, with xylophone and intricate steps, rendered in a most finished style and demonstrating perfect mastery of the talents.

"Boobology"

Tom Willard and Irene present "Boobology." Tom is an eccentric comedian dressed in extremely full dress costume and gets many a good laugh through his act and then invites the audience to furnish the singer to come up on the stage to compete with him and as usual has someone to accept this offer. His trousers are sort of a bother to him all through the act and he has a hard time keeping them up. The end of his performance is brought about by their final loss.

Howe, Cook and company consist of two athletic young men and a talented young woman in a gymnastic novelty, introducing Roman rings, balancing and sensational acrobatic feats together with a novel stunt by Ginger, the only dog doing a swing on a slack wire. The act is most wonderfully costumed; presented in the classiest manner and performed in the most rapid style. It is entertaining to the highest dtgree.

It Was Terrible

HOUSTON, June 24.—(AP)—Joyce Hawley, widely known as the central figure in a "bath tub" episode in New York, was the indirect cause of a Houston man being arrested here Thursday.

Last week her husband received a letter from Houston and he sent it back to Texas at once. It was turned over to postal inspectors and Thursday Eugene Hutchinson, deputy United States marshal arrested Milton Withers, 25.

He was arraigned before Dan W. Jackson, United States commissioner, on a charge of sending obscene letters through the mails. The commissioner set Withers' bond at $1000. He was taken to jail but was to make his bond during the day.

"The letter was terrible—no wonder it was fired back to Houston" said Deputy Hutchineon.

PROTTCTING THE GENTLER SEX

A certain young lady who gives interpretative dances in rather scanty costume was engaged to go to a staid community in New England and dance before the local dramatic and literary society.

The day after her appearance the entertainment committee—all women—held a meeting to discuss the affair of the night before. Several had been heard, when one member raised her voice.

"Personally," she said, "I enjoyed it ever so much. To me it was most artistic and symbolic and everything. But if you ask me, I must say this: It certainly was no place to take a nervous man!"

3 Years for Fraud

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—(AP) Robert E. Duvall, 32, Laurel, Miss., was sentenced to three years in jail today for defrauding the Atlantic Refining company of $1,500 two years ago.

Duvall was brought here from prison at Huntsville, Texas, where he had served 14 months for an attempt to C. K. Woodbridge of New York, was San Antonio.

His method in Philadelphia, according to detectives, was to send a forged telegram bearing the name of J. W. Van Dyke, president of the refining company, to H. O. Rogers, president of the company in New York, authorizing the payment to himself of $1,500. Duvall then sent a second telegram to himself in New York in care of the refining company, authorizing him to collect the money. The message was also signed with Van Dyke's name. The money was obtained and Duvall escaped to Texas. He pleaded illness which required funds for special treatment as an excuse for his act.

Ma Spends $115

HOUSTON, June 24.—(AP)—The Ferguson campaign headquarters for Harris county expended $115.75 from May 25 to June 10, largely for stationery, and printing, according to the "true and correct account" as filed Thursday by Frank B. McCurdy, chairman of the campaign committee for Harris county, at the office of County Clerk Albert Townsend.

The report did not include expenses for the renting of the city auditorium for the recent public appearances of the Fergusons nor does it include the cost of headquarters office. Office space was donated, the report stated.

ORDER NEW SHIPS.

SAN ANTONIO, June 24.—(AP)—Steps to provide planes of a type suitable for pursuing training in the advanced flying school, Kelly Field, have been taken by the placing of orders for experimental ships by the department according to information received from Washington by Major Frank M. Andrews, commandant of the flying school.

SHIPPERS TAKE WICHITA SERIES

Galloway Outfit Bunches on Fussell to Win, 11 to 4.

Freddy Fussell, after hurling a comparatively tight game for six stanzas, went the usual route of southpaws in Beaumont yesterday. The Exporters bumped Fred in the first frame for three runs, were held scoreless through five more couplets, and then tore into the portsider in the seventh to score six. Adding two in the eighth, Beaumont swept the series and brought the Spudders' consecutive losses to seven. The score was 11 to 4.

The Spudders got to Diviney at a terrific gait, but couldn't punch runners around. They pounded the Exporter for 16 safeties. Galloway's outfit touched Fussell up for 13 hits. Quite a contrast, that. Our noble athletes were forced to content themselves with four runs on 16 wallops; the Shippers got 11 runs on 13.

The stiffest jolt of all came to Fred in that fatal seventh when Robertson pasted a home run over that funny right field fence with three on the paths. Some day the Texas league will wake up and make Beaumont get a new ball park or move that fence back to where a common fly ball doesn't go for a round trip ticket.

Caldera started on the mound for Beaumont, but retired in the first inning when a line drive from the bat of Pete Turgeon injured the portsider's pitching hand. Diviney pitched the rest of the way.

Tom Connolly, according to unofficial figures, was the first hitter in the league to reach 100 base blows for the season although Turgeon came back an inning later and tied the mark, getting his second hit of the game.

There was much bickering between players, also the umpires. At one stage, Umpire Held cleared the Wichita Falls bench.

Lowly Waco Wops Shreveport, 10-2

WACO, June 24.—(AP)—By taking advantage of Adkins' and Cantrell's wildness the Cubs hit in the pinches here today, and defeated Shreveport in the deciding game of the series, 10 to 2. Tuero was never in danger after the first innings and kept the Sports' six hits well scattered. West hit a home run in the fourth with one on and also contributed two doubles in five times up.

Carp-Huffman Go Scheduled July 5

LOS ANGELES, June 24.—(AP) James N. Crofton, representing a group of Tia Juana sportsmen, promoters of the Carpentier-Huffman bout, which was scheduled for July 4, today announced that the fight would be held in the Mexican city September 5.

Georges Carpentier was to have met the Los Angeles light heavyweight at Tia Juana on Independence day, but the match was called off on account of the Frenchman having injured his hand in his bout with Tommy Loughran at Philadelphia last week.

No Sentiment To A Dempsey-Wills Fight, Both After Cash

BY ROBERT EDGREN

An endless lot of slush has been turned loose, all about the "sentiment" demanding a Wills-Dempsey fight, the "patriotism" that demands a "fair show" for the large dark man who has been getting unlimitd publicity for years by persistently challenging Dempsey.

There is on "sentiment" connected with a Wills-Dempsey match, or the actions of either Wills or Dempsey. Both are trying might and main to get the money—the biggest possible wad — without risking anything. Dempsey has been fooling along without fighting for three years. He hasn't earned any loud cheers. But Wills has even less appealing to the "sentiment" of sport followers. He has been getting big purses without taking any risk whatever, and he has flatly refused to take risks.

Wills "fought" old Charley Weinert, and grabbed him around the neck with his left and knocked him groggy with his right although it would hardly be possible to imagine any reason for resorting to foulnig to win such an easy bout. He "fought" poor old Floyd Johnson, who had retired from the ring after taking beatings that totally wrecked him, so far as fighting is concerned. Wills got a pot of money for this alleged contest. Johnson was in such poor shape that he walked unsteadily when he came up for the first round, and it was almost a crime to allow him to be sent out to take punches from anybody. Wills was quiet the ferocious warrior with Johnson, and the massacre was short and complete. Against Firpo, who was not so far gone, and still dangerous, Harry was extremely cautious and the bout went the limit without a decision.

Wills Rests on Doubtful Laurels.

Wills hasn't done anything to prove that he is even a fit challenger of a stalling champion. It would be amusing if it came out, some day, that Dempsey and Wills, and their managers, had a standing agreement to pose as challenger and champion for a few years, and make all the money they could out of the publicity they'd get, without risking anything in fights with aspiring young fellows. Such an agreement would be possible, and it would make a lot of money for Wills, at any rate. It might not be so good for Dempsey.

Wills was offered $150,000 by Rickard, whose offers are in real money, to box Tunney. The offer was turned down. Wills certainly is no better than Dempsey so far as willingnes to take risks is concerned.

Commissioner Farley's speechifying about "planking himself down squarely upon the platform of fair play," as fighting men the more I respect John L. Sullivan, John Flood, Jim Corbett and Joe Choynski, who fought on barges off shore, more to see which was the better man than for the few hundred dollars put up for stakes. There was sport in fighting in those days. Today you can write all the sport connected with it, on a cash register.

Few Champions Fighters.

This, of course, may be a little extreme when applied to a few other champs and challengers. There are three champions who seem to deserve to be called "fighters." One is Paul Berlenbach. He's a fighter—a regular fighter. He never ducks out of a match or dodges a fellow who can punch or howls for more money because of the risk he is taking. Tod Morgan, junior lightweight, looks like another chance-taking champion. And Pete Latzo, who ripped the welter title from Mickey Walker, has accepted a proposition to fight the winner of Walker's next match and give Mickey a return chance if he earns it. There are lots of regular fighting men among the preliminary boys and the fellows who are working their way up. Whether they'll be fighters when they get near the top is another question. Probably by that time most of them will suffer from the same timidity that has characterized the work of a lot of others who got into the "big money" before them.

and all the rest of the oratory that went with it, was just a string of words, resounding phrases meaning nothing.

Fair play, bunk! How about a little fair play for the public, that has been expected to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to see Wills slam over a few cripples? How about a little fair play for the public that will be asked to pay more hundreds of thousands to see fighters who won't fight when they think fighting isn't a good busines sproposition?

The more I see and hear of modern high-finance manipulators posing

MAYWOOD TO MEET TRAMEL

Ray Substitutes for Doss on National Guard Card.

BY CAPTAIN JOE MARLOW

The Monday night fight has been somewhat changed regarding the Tramel and Doss fight. Ray Maywood an old favorite of the squared circle came to life when he found out that Tramel was on the same card with him but not as his opponent. He at once brought such pressure to bear on promoter Don M. Wofford that it was necessary to match a Tramel-Maywood fight for the main go. Maywood is well known and will be remembered as the boxer that came very near to giving Duke the sleeper. In a return bout Maywood lost the decision to Tramel on a foul.

Inside fight dope was let out Thursday by Maywood and his friends. Since he last fought in Wichita Falls, he has fought in Mexico City, New York, New Jersey and Canada. Many fans will get the old thrill at seeing Maywood step through the ropes to meet his old opponent Duke. Both of these boys are enthusiastic trainers in their workouts, Maywood began training early in the week. Duke will arrive today to begin training.

Ring side seats have been cut to $1.50, second section seats to $1 and general admission to 50c.

Due to the cut in prices and the presenting of an all star card a record breaking crowd is expected.

Snipe's Men Nose Santone, 5 to 4

SAN ANTONIO, June 24.—(AP)—Lindsey was wild, dealing out nine walks and the passes were bunched with hits off the Steers, who won Thursday's game from San Antonio, 5 to 4, evening the two-game series.

Moose Weber's single to left in the fifth scored two runs and gave Dallas lead after the Bears had scored three tallies in the fourth. Umpire Donohue was jeered all afternoon because his decision that Gonsales was out in the first in the opening frame prevented a San Antonio score. Jim Riley was the batting star, driving in two runs in the third with a screaming triple to the center field score board.

Flashkamper made two sensational fielding plays, each of which robbed Bauman and Williams of a hit.

Suzanne Beaten By American In Spectacular Game

WIMBLEDON, England, June 24. (AP)—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, six times Wimbledon doubles champion, carried the French colors to defeat with Mlle. Didi Vlasto in the jubilee tennis tournament today before the spectacular team work at the net and the slicing attack of the American team, Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Miss Mary K. Browne.

More than 17,000 spectators, among them the Duke and Duchess of York, applauded the bitterly contested match replete with magnificent tennis.

Howard Kensey, the only other American figuring in today's program, which was cut short by a hard rain, won his way to the fifth round of the men's singles, with apparently an excellent prospect of getting through to the semi-finals, where he is likely to meet Jacques Brugnon.

One of Most Notable.

The demonstration that followed the victory of the American pair in today's star match was one of the most notable in Wimbledon's history. It was commented upon as of an unprecedented character indicative of the popularity of the winning Americans whose combined play at certain periods when the battle was uphill was a revelation to the enthusiastic watchers.

The score in this thrilling three-set doubles which eliminated Mlle. Lenglen and her partner in the very first round was 3-6, 9-7, 6-2. It was this match that the French champion refused to play yesterday.

It was said in French tennis circles that Suzanne entered the contest today not feeling at all like herself and that she developed stiffness of the neck during the encounter.

SUZANNE FAINTS

LONDON, June 24.—(AP)—Mlle. Lenglen, the press association states, had a fainting spell immediately after her defeat in the doubles at Wimbledon today and went direct from the Wimbledon grounds to a London throat specialist. On returning to her hotel she looked ill, but professed herself a little improved.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP) Joe Bush, for many years a star pitcher of the American League has been given notice of his release ten days hence by the Washington club, after which he will be free to sign where he pleases.

In addition Alexander Ferguson, another member of the mound corps has been traded to Buffalo of the International League for Outfielder Taylor. Bush came to the Washington club from St. Louis in a trade which involved Pitchers Zachary and Ballou. Zachary has won more consistently this year than Bush. Ferguson was obtained from Boston last year.

Wallowing in the mire of the second division, the Washington club has decided to rebuild and President Griffith said today it could not be done with players who found it difficult to get in condition early in the year.

HAVE A CAMEL

All that's best in a cigarette

AFTER glorious exercise nothing is so refreshing as the fragrant smoke of a Camel. Wherever Camels go—to the seashore, to the mountains, to the office—they bring pleasure, full smoking enjoyment.

No other cigarette made ever gladdened the taste of so many millions, for Camels are made of the choicest tobaccos grown. Camels alone satisfy the taste for all that's best in a cigarette, for Camel blending can be found nowhere else at any price. Camels never tire the taste, never leave a cigaretty after-taste.

Camel leadership over all other cigarettes shows that the smokers of America want smoking quality. Camel success is built up on goodness, by the world's largest tobacco organization. Each year the makers of Camels spend millions for quality, and not one cent for frills or fancy wrappings.

No two ways about it, Camels are the finest pleasure, the richest contentment that ever came from a cigarette. If you haven't yet found the utmost in cigarette goodness, answer the most popular smoke invitation ever sounded—

Have a Camel!

MATTY WINS IN STRAIGHT FALLS

Throws Joe Parelli in Feature Bout at Arena.

Matty Matsuda, the popular Japanese welterweight, surprised his most enthusiastic wrestling admirers last night at the Eleventh and Ohio arena by completely outsmarting his opponent and carrying the fight all the way to Joe Parelli, Chicago middleweight, better known as the Roughhouse Wop, winning in straight falls.

The wily Jap outfought his heavier adversary the greater part of 57 minutes, the time in which it took him to cop initial honors, and won the fall with a body scissors and bar arm lock. Parelli returned for the second encounter an apparently thoroughly chastened grappler, found himself first in a near step-over toe hold that caused him great misery, broke away and then fell into a Japanese double toe hold. Fighting manfully, Parelli finally worked out of this position merely to be tagged with a reverse arm lock by Matsuda. Suffering untold agony and with his shoulders all but pinned, Parelli was forced to concede the fall. The time was five minutes and ten seconds.

Dutch Mantell, originally billed with Yaqui Joe in a finish match, gave Wichita Falls fan the run-around at the last minute, failing to put in an appearance. Cyclone Fox, a 146-pounder from Dallas, was substituted.

Yaqui and Fox staged a whirlwind encounter with the Indian winning in straight falls. The first fall came in 24 minutes via the hammer lock route. Yaqui worked speedily and grabbed the second in seven minutes and five seconds with a flying headlock.

Fox Game Boy

Fox put up an exceptionally game fight, scrapping his way out of numerous tough situations and charging right back at his apparently more experienced and better coached opponent. The Indian is Matsuda's protege. Shortly before the first fall was obtained the two boys brought fandom to its feet by a give-and-take application of flying head locks. Fox worked out of two headlocks and apparently quite groggy, seemed on the verge of losing in a hurry. But he rallied and stuck a headlock on Yaqui. It was a full 60 seconds before Yaqui wormed out merely to stumble back into another. Almost down, the Indian pulled loose again and implied a hammer lock that Fox was unable to come out of, the hold that won the fall.

Parelli is noted for his rough stuff. He's beaten many larger men and dealt them all misery in the middleweight class. His prowess can no better be heralded to Wichita Falls fans than by repeating the fact the Italian put it on Dutch Mantell twice in the past year. He beat Johnny Meyers, world's middleweight champion later losing to the champ, but the past several months has claimed the middle title on grounds that Meyers cannot make the middleweight limit any more.

Last night with the midget Matty swarming all over him, Parelli failed to come up to expectations. He did not look like the man who has beat some of the world's leading grapplers, greatly through his ability to rough it furiously and flagrantly. Instead, last night he complained to the referee at one stage, "At Jap's too rough! Make heem wrestle right!"

Too Much Jap

It was too much Matsuda the entire route with the Jap working from one hold to another, not the least of which was a series of damaging leg splits that came near to beating Parelli earlier.

During the first 30 minutes of battle the Italian fought at a hard clip, but was outguessed and outspeeded by his smaller adversary. At one stage, Matsuda worked an arm strangle on the Chicagoan with such gusto that when Parelli finally came out of it, he started playing the ropes, stalling for time and claiming his trunk strings had become untied. Fact of the matter is, Parelli himself endeavored to loosen up those trunks as an excuse to catch a respite while tying them up again.

The card was opened with a fast preliminary 15-minute limit affair between Pano Carr and Clifford Holcombe, two local boys. Holcombe won in seven minutes with a hammer lock.

KILLED BY TROOPS

CAIRO, Egypt, June 24.—(AP)—Twenty-five persons, among them women, have been killed by Egyptian troops during a disturbance in the Wahibi village of Muna, near Mecca, says the newspaper Mokattam.

The trouble arose when Egyptian troops, escorting Kiaja, or "holy carpet," to Mecca were passing through the street. Their band was playing and as music is strictly forbidden in holy places by the Koran, the Wahibis attempted to stop it.

Connie Uses Grove, Pate, Gray, Rommell in Opener.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—(AP)—Washington took both ends of a twin bill from the Philadelphia Athletics here today winning the first in 10 innings, 8 to 6 and taking the second 4 to 1, when rain broke up the battle in the sixth. The first game was a bitter fight with the Athletics forced to overcome a four-run lead only to lose out when Rommel, the fourth local hurler, weakened in the tenth. Palmero, a recruit flinger, went to the mound for the Senators in the second game and received credit for the victory. In this game the Senators completed a triple play in the third inning after Palmero had walked the first two men to face him.

Sox Take Third

CHICAGO, June 24.—(AP)—Chicago made it three out of four from Cleveland today by taking the final game of the series, 6 to 0, and strengthening their grasp on second place. The White Sox won the game in the third inning by scoring six runs on five hits and a walk off Buckeye and Levsen. Falk's home run into the right field bleachers accounted for three of the runs. Falk also started a three-run rally in the sixth with a double. Edwards, who started for Chicago was forced to retire under fire in the fourth inning. Steengrafe pitched steadily thereafter. Score:

Motto: "RAZZ THE RAZZERS"

THE SPUDDERS ARE AT HOUSTON TODAY.

* * *

Brainard has Williams and Estell to choose from as the opening pitcher

* * *

OF COURSE

Umpire Held chased a bevy of the Spudders out of the dugout in Beaumont yesterday during the sixth frame. Doesn't matter what any or all of the boys may have said or done to him, Held was wrong as usual. Red is always wrong. Roberts, Hodge, Benton and Ross were the chasees.

* * *

* * *

The pudgy southpaw has been working away daily at Spudder park keeping in shape for the moment the Spudders will want to shoot him onto the hill. Said yesterday he was going to make Freddy Dorman, whose cracked ankle is just about all to the okeh now, take a few laps around the orchard with him this afternoon.

* * *

Lester Ravin'.

Long Beach Lester is just about ready to step in and fill a gap, too. Lester's side in which a couple of ligaments became more or less estranged with the rest of his neighboring anatomy, is coming along nicely. The young righthander says his arm is in great shape. The M. D. told him his strained gristles are all right now, needing no more than a bit of rest. Lester has been getting that. He's been drilling daily the past week and is all set to burn 'em across.

* * *

John Roberts, Jim's younger big brother, has been given a change of venue, announces Spudder Secretary Guy Airey, skipping from Paris, the Spud farm, to Mexia. John copped eight and lost three with the farm hands, but balked at riding around over the country in a bus, the method taken in making jumps from town to town.

POOR STUNT, DUTCH

Dutch Mantell failed to show last night for his match with Yaqui Joe on the Milk and Ice fund mat card. Nor did Dutch notify the promoter until yesterday afternoon that he would not answer roll call. Mantell was expected in the city Wednesday. Having put in no appearance, efforts were made to get in touch with him Wednesday night by long distance telephone and by telegram. He replied to neither. Matchmaker Ross finally got the monkey-man on the line Thursday P. M.

* * *

Mantell, after having agreed to meet the Indian in return match here last night, had backed down without so much as a warning. Publicity had been given his "match" with the Indian and the bout had been advertised all down the line at quite an expense to the Wichita Falls wrestling association. Yet, Mantell, knowing all along that he did not intend performing on the program, made not so much as a murmur.

* * *

YELLOW???

Mantell's action is the dirtiest and most unfair piece of bad business the Dutchman who has pulled several pretty foolish stunts, ever enacted. Whether a yellow streak cropped out and he suddenly decided that he had better not risk his hide on the canvas with the Indian again, an opponent who is every bit just as clever and who for several long months has been seeking revenge on Dutch for foul tactics and unorthodox trickery used against him in a match at Amarillo, is problematical.

* * *

Dutchman's only excuse for not filling his engagement was that he did not want to wrestle on a card topped by Matty Matsuda. Mantell bears no love for the Jap. But on the face of it, Dutch takes the attitude of a spoiled child when he humps up his spine and dodges a match with such a poor alibi to fall back on.

* * *

WHAT ROSS SAYS

Mantell did not know that Matsuda had been lined up for his match with Parelli, said Matchmaker Ross, when he agreed to meet Yaqui Joe. Later the Dutchman discovered that Matty was on the card, but he did not give Ross any warning that he had become inoculated with the idea of taking a run-out powder, the promoter declares.

* * *

SURPRIZED AT YOU, DUTCH

For several months the writer had admired Mantell's "guts," so to speak. Couldn't help but like the little monkey-man with all his meanness, but after this stunt Dutch doesn't deserve any true sports lover's friendship. He doesn't deserve to step onto the mat with any clean athlete. Dutch has gone back on all Wichita Falls mat fandom. He knew that many people would attend last night's program for the sole purpose of seeing him in action, yet he jumped out and gave no advance notice, not a word until the afternoon a few short hours before the match was to have been staged.

Cards Deadlock Buccos, 3 to 3

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's hope of advancing into first position was blighted in a game with the Cardinals here today. With the score tied 3 to 3, the game was called at the end of the ninth inning by agreement to allow the world champion Pirates to catch a train for Cincinnati. The Cardinals fell one short in the eighth inning rally when they bunched two single and two doubles to tie the score. Score:

Giants Shatter Phils Twice In Double Header

Win Twin Bill Thursday by 12 to 7 and 7 to 2. Scores.

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP)—The Giants subdued the Phillies twice today 12 to 7, and 7 to 2. The opening contest was a heavy slugging affair the Giants knocking out 17 hits against 12 for the visitors. Pitcher Knight hit two homers in successive times at bat, driving in five runs. Frisch got five singles and scored four runs. McQuillan allowed but five hits in the second game and was not in danger after the first inning when both the Phil's runs were scored. Score:

U. S. DRIVES TO BRITISH OPEN

Brilliant Play by Jones and Mehlhorn Hurts England's Chances.

STANNES, England, June 24.—(AP)—America's brilliant band of links stars swept impressively on toward the British open golf crown in the second day's play today with youthful Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Ga., and Wild Bill Melhorn of Chicago passing Walter Hagen to jointly lead the procession with scores of 144.

Hagen, slipping from the heights of sensational golf which brought him a record-breaking 68 yesterday, took a loose 77 today to fall one stroke behind the American amateur champion and the fighting Chicagoan. But Great Britain could find small comfort in the lapse of the stout-hearted American professional king for three other American stars followed closely behind the pace-makers as the second round closed with Archie Compston and Tom Barber, the first British players on the list six strokes back of the leading pair.

Al Watrous and Freddy McLeod, whose astonishingly good play has been one of the biggest surprises of the tournament, came through with a pair of 75s today to clinch fourth place while George Von Elm, the Los Angeles amateur, bettered his opening day card of 75 by three strokes to finish sixth at 147.

Compston, who has been living in America for several months and who says he plans to make his home there, came through with a 74 to bring Great Britain a ray of hope but his total of 150 for the 36 holes finds him tied for seventh place with two Americans, Cyril Walker, former open champion of the United States and Tommy Armour.

Only two miraculous rounds by a native Briton or something akin to a complete collapse of the American offensive, critics admit, can save the open crown from an American invasion which already has successfully defended the Walker cup and lifted the British amateur title.

Davidson Continues His Attack On Moody's Liquor Policies

PARIS, Texas, June 24.—(AP)—Lynch Davidson continued his attack on Attorney General Dan Moody's prohibition record in an address here Thursday. Davidson is the first gubernatorial candidate to speak here during the present campaign.

Davidson referred to a statement by Moody that he had made a speech for prohibition in Houston six months ago. Davidson then declared that "Moody hasn't made any prohibition speeches since he tied in with Texas anti-prohibitionists. Texas is interested in Moody's attitude on prohibition today, not what it was six months ago."

Fresh OIL Every 500 MILES Means LONG LIFE for Your Motor

Every manufacturer of automobiles stresses the need for frequent changing of the motor oil in the crank case.

Even the best oil suffers from "Crank-case dilution", and should be periodically replaced with fresh oil. Experience has shown that draining and flushing the crank case and refilling it with high-grade motor oil of the right consistency, every 500 miles, pays handsome dividends in better motor performance, fewer repair bills and part replacements, and longer service life for the motor.

There is a Humble Dealer near you. Let him drain and refill your crank case with Humble Motor Oil, regularly —every 500 miles.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP)—Advances followed opening declines in the cotton market today, October contracts selling up from 16.47 to 16.75 and closing at 16.73. The general market closed firm at net advances of 16 to 27 points. The market opened steady at a decline of three to 15 points on the general list and 19 points on August, under selling which seemed to be promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, a favorable view of crop progress and talk of a bearish private crop report. The latter was published shortly after the opening, placing the condition at 77.7, the indicated reduction in acreage at only 0.5 per cent and the indicated crop with an allowance of three per cent for abandonment of acreage, at 15,700,000 bales.

These figures were closely in line with the previously published report and their failure to bring in much selling seemed to be taken by some of the local traders as suggesting a favorable end-June crop prospect had pretty well been discounted. At any rate, the decline was checked by covering and the market turned firmer during the afternoon on apprehensions that the unsettled showery weather reported in the south would stimulate the spread of insects and result in considerable damage fro mthat source during the summer. There was covering by near month shorts, presumably in anticipation that very few notices would be issued here against July contracts tomorrow and fresh buying of new crop positions was reported on the fear of less favorable crop reports following the improvement indicated by the end-June figures. July sold up from 17.70 to 18.10 and December from 16.42 to 16.69 or 19 to 23 points net higher, and the market closed within two or three points of the best.

Exports today 5,303 bales, making 7,776,815 so far this season. Port receipts 6,575. U. S. port stocks 730,078 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, June 24.—(AP)—A fair degree of activity characterized the cotton market today and after some hesitation at the start and a decline of twelve six points the market turned firm and remained on the upgrade practically all day the reactions being few and inconsequential. The dominating influence was the liquidation of the July short interest in advance of notice day which will be tomorrow. A powerful contributing influence was the many reports of damage by the "hopper" or cotton flea which was reported to be numerous in several of the cotton states. The constant showers also caused anxiety as to the effect op the boll weevil. At the highest of the day, reached near mid-session, prices showed gains over the early lows of 25 to 29 points. The market continued well sustained throughout the afternoon and the close was but a little under the highs, showing net gains for the day of 15 to 21 points.

At the start Liverpool was one penny point worse than due to five better than due. First trades here showed losses of one to five points and prices lost a couple of points additional near the start with July at 17.06, October at 16.07 and December at 16.00. These proved to be the low points of the day.

The advance, which started soon after the opening, finally carried July up to 17.35, October to 16.32 and December 16.55, or 25 to 29 points up from the lows and 19 to 26 points above the previous close. From these high points the market did not recede more than a few points after mid-session and the close was near the highs.

Exports for the day totalled 5,303 bales.

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP)—Establishment of the highest level in several years by the average of 20 leading railroad shares featured the resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market. The advance was not uniform because of a contintention of heavy profit taking which unsettled the market somewhat at the opening but gains of one to five points were secured over a broad list at the close. Trading showed another marked falling off in volume the day's sales aggregating only 1,343,100 shares, compared with 1,738,500 yesterday and 2,-426,100 last Thursday.

The day's business news which consisted largely of earnings and sales reports was constructive in character. Freight traffic in the week ended June 12 again exceeded the million mark and an increase of $2 a ton in steel beams was reported from the Pittsburgh district. The New York federal reserve bank rate was unchanged setting at rest rumors that another cut would be made this week.

Strength of the Van Sweringen issues on a revival of rumors that the new "Nickel Plate" merger plan was about ready for submission to the interstate commerce commission featured the railroad group.

"Nickel Plate" common jumped five points to 150, or only 1½ below the high established earlier in the year, and Chesapeake and Ohio common, Erie common and second preferred, and Pere Marquette each advanced a point or more.

A steady investment demand also was noted for Atchison, New York Central, Atlantic Coast Line, Canadian Pacific and Pittsburgh and West Virginia all of which advanced one to nearly three points.

Revival of speculative interest in a selected group of oil shares, based on favorable merger and earnings reports, was another outstanding development of the day's trading. Amerida corporation and General Petroleum, which have not participated extensively in recent bullish demonstrations each advanced over two points to new high records for the year at 31¾ and 68¼, respectively. Texas and Pacific Land trust soared 90 points to $1,000 a share on a few odd lot sales.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent and remained at that rate all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges displayed a strong undertone. Demand sterling was firm around $4.86⅝ and French francs jumped nearly 10 points to above 2.80 cents in reflection of the completion of Premier Briand's tenth cabinet. Norwegian kroner dropped 12 points to 21.93 but the other continental rates showed moderate gains.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, June 24.—The grain market took to an up-grade todayand the closing was generally firm, although all pits reported interest dull and trade light. Reports of heavy rains and hail in parts of the southwest with a forecast for unsettled weather had considerable influence on wheat values and the market closed strong at an advance of ¼ to ⅝c. corn finished ⅛c lower to ¼c higher, oats ⅛@¼ down to ¼c up and provisions at 5 to 15c decline.

Corn and oats were affected somewhat by the acting of wheat early in the session but later developed a heavy undertone of their own. What little trading there was appeared to be in the nature of changing, one house buying July and selling December, while northwest houses sold September and bought December. Hedging and liquidation was on in oats, the market remaining sluggish most of the day.

Selling by packers and commission houses eased provisions.

EXPECT SLICE IN WATER TAX

Irrigation Assessment to Show Increase in Valuations.

A possible blanket reduction of from 10 to 15 per cent in the assessment value of property taxed for the support of the Wichita water improvement district is forecast by G. A. Remington, general manager of the district, in a statement Thursday. Mr. Remington declares that if total property assessed should reach $42,500,000 with every indication that it will do so, the reduction in the assessment value will be made.

The board of equalization for the district No. 1 is now in session, and engaged in equalizing the property values on the 1926 rolls for irrigation tax purposes. An assessed value of $40,000,000 for property taxable in support of the irrigation district is necessary to maintain the tax rate of 1925 of 80 cents on the $100 valuation, it is claimed.

CITY HIT BY RAIN STORM

Two Inches of Rain and Some Hail Fall Here Thursday.

An even two inches of rain, some hail and a high wind visited Wichita Falls and vicinity early Thursday morning, as well as points in the western portion of the state, southern Oklahoma and the Panhandle. Hail which followed the downpour did damage to crops on the farms northeast of the city on the Charlie road, it was said yesterday afternoon. The stretch covered by the hail was narrow and extent of the damage could not be estimated.

Little Damage

Following a hot day and a night showing a few clouds, the rain began about 3 o'clock Thursday morning. Dark clouds rolled in the sky, indicating wind, and there was a heavy battery of thunder and keen streaks of lightning. The wind uprooted a few trees and did other little damage.

Dispatchers on the railways leading into the city said the rain was general. Showers were reported on the northern division of the M. K. and T. as far as Forgan, Okla., varying from three-quarters to an inch of rain; the Fort Worth and Denver lines reported heavy rains between Texline and Henrietta and showers from there to Fort Worth. Rains were also reported on the Wichita Falls and Southern to Olney, and on the Wichita Valley heavy rains to Seymour.

The two-inch rainfall of this section did not damage the cotton, but delayed the harvest for several days. It is believed no damage will be done to the grain that is in the shock unless the rains continue.

Faughan was a Magnolia employe at the time of the explosion and was the father of two dependent children.

Wichitans Back With C-C Convention, Plan Great Display Next Year

"We've got a year in which to get ready, but a year is none too much."

Such was the opinion Thursday of Wichita Falls business men and chamber of commerce officials, following their return from a successful conquest in Amarillo where Wednesday night they won the 1927 convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce. In view of the success of this year's convention and the excellence made of the affair by Amarillo, the 175 or more Wichitans in the city saw all too plain that hard work and a lot of it awaited them next summer.

The Wichita Falls special train pulled in and unloaded in a driving storm at 7 o'clock Thursday morning. It ran into the rain a few miles out of Amarillo, although not many in the Pullmans knew it. Most of them were too tired to know whether or not they were on a railroad train or a steamship, and accordingly a little thing like a rain storm meant nothing.

The shower knocked out plans for staging a big parade through the business section, in which the Wichita Falls men were to have been joined by delegations from Abilene and Fort Worth. The special trains on which representatives of these two cities reached Amarillo came down the Denver behind the Wichita Falls special Wednesday night and were scheduled to lay over here for breakfast. The three bands were to have swung into action and all three parties were ready for a last big swing before disbanding.

It was a somewhat fatigued but a contented crowd that landed back here with the biggest prize the annual conventions of the West Texas chamber of commerce have to offer. It was a victory all the more conspicuous because of the battle Wichitans were forced to wage Wednesday night. San Antonio and more especially Lubbock fought stubbornly and with effect. Both wanted the next convention almost as much as did Wichita Falls, but the other two had failed to do the advance missionary work necessary, and when the voting started the results of this were apparent, much to Wichita Falls' elation.

Chamber of commerce officials will begin in the near future, it has been indicated, to lay plans for next year's meeting which will bring to this city far and away the largest and most demonstrative crowd it has ever entertained. Committee appointments must be made and a mass of other work attended to, all of which must be started ahead of time.

Ziegler at Work

J. R. Ziegler has again entered the sheet metal business, having moved into a brick building at 2158 Avenue I, which especially designed to meet the peculiar requirements of his business.

Mr. Ziegler was actively engaged for 18 years in handling sheet metal work of all kinds and says the continued growth of Wichita Falls convinces him that it is a good place again to conduct a business.

NEW PERMITS REACH HIGHER

$17,233 Separates Present Year From Total of Entire 1925.

Just a bare $17,233 separated the 1926 building permit total at the close of business Thursday from the total for the entire year of 1925. A total of $9,180 in permits issued thus far this week brought the total for 1926, not yet half over, to $5,891,153 against a total for the entire preceding year of $5,908,233.

There have been 29 permits issued thus far this week for the total Thursday afternoon of $59,180. All of the permits are for comparatively small amounts.

Code Files Writ

An application for a writ of habeas corpus was filed Thursday morning with Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court by R. C. Cade, under two indictments in Wichita county for robbery with firearms and a one-year sentence in Archer county for possession of equipment to manufacture liquor. Cade, in his application, sets out that the $5,000 bail set for him is excessive, and states that following a five-year sentence on his first trial on the robbery charge, he was allowed a new trial by Judge H. R. Wilson of the 30th district court, but that on three separate occasions since then when his case had come up for trial a continuance had been granted on application of the state. He has been in jail since his arrest last March, he claims.

WOMEN MEET TO ENDORSE MOODY

Gathering Scheduled for Kemp Hotel Friday Morning.

Wichita Falls women will go into politics for sure th's morning, when, if calculations are aright, several hundred of them will convene at the Kemp hotel ballroom for organization into a Moody-for-Governor club with the express purpose of furthering the campaign of the attorney general to succeed Mrs. Mariam A. Ferguson as governor of Texas.

A call for the meeting was issued early this week by Mrs. A. R. Bleakley and Mrs. C. C. Randle, letters stating the purpose of the organization and requesting attendance were mailed late Tuesday to 600 women of the city, the 600 including practically the entire list of club women of Wichita Falls and about 300 others. Through some inadvertency the larger part of these letters were not received in Thursday afternoon's mail, and other means of notification and advertisement of the meeting were resorted to.

Montgomery Leaves.

Original plans had called for Judge J. T. Montgomery, president of the Wichita county Moody organization to preside this morning. Judge Montgomery, however, leaves the city early this morrning, and in his stead W. E. George will act as chairman, preceding the election of a woman member for that place.

C. I. Francis, in event he reaches Wichita Falls from Guthrie, Luther Hoffman and J. A. Kemp will all make short talks before the women, propounding the Moody platform and policies.

The letters mailed to Wichita Falls calling upon them to attend the meeting this morning carries an appeal to "combine" on a single candidate for the purpose of beating the "Fergusons" in the July primaries.

Sponsoring the movement among the women are the following: Mesdames J. A. Kemp, J. T. Montgomery, M. M. Adickes, E. T. Gorsline, N. H. Martin, W. W. Silk, C. W. Gilliland, Charles Pogenphol, T. A. Hicks, O. E. Maer, L. R. Buchanan, G. D. Anderson, Walter Priddy, H. B. Patterson, M. H. Glover, J. T. Harrell, J. D. Carithers, J. C. A. Guest, P. A. Welty, Bernard Martin, Ben G. O'Neal, Ola G. Hamlin, W. S. Curlee, Leslie Humphrey, Newt Maer, W. J. Grisham, J. A. Akin, C. P. Burton, T. J. Waggoner, Minnie Gaffney, Martin Rowe, T. R. Boone and C. C. Randle.

Asks Damages

Damages in the sum of $5,000 are asked by Tom Moore et al. of T. P. Byrd in a suit filed in the district court Thursday afternoon.

Alleged forcible eviction from a 65 acre tract near Wichita Falls which had been planted, and according to the petition was in a flourishing condition at the time of the eviction, is made the cause for action. The plaintiff contends that loss of crop, damages to his wife's health through the mental strain involved, and other things entitle him to the $5,000 damages.

Grocery Concern Changes Hands

Announcement was made in Wichita Falls yesterday of the sale of the Blair-Maupin wholesale Grocery company in this city and Bowie, to the Adkins-Polk Grocery company of Dallas, according to Wiley Blair of Dallas. The new company will take charge July 3, it was said.

The new company is said to be one of the largest distributors of wholesale food products in the southwest, having houses at Dallas, Fort Worth, Denison, Greenville, Hillsboro, and this city. In order to take care of the plant, it is expected that a new fireproof five-story warehouse will be erected here.

Mr. Blair is retiring from active service after a career of 45 years. He said his retirement is due largely to the illness of M. A. Maupin of Wichita Falls, president and general manager of the company, under whose guidance the company has prospered. Mr. Maupin is improving, and expects to take an extended vacation from business activities in regaining his health.

The Blair-Maupin Grocery company is among the oldest established firms in this part of the state. Its sale marks the retirement from the grocery business Mr. Blair, and J. A. Kemp and Frank Keil, his associates.

The Married Man To Be Sermon Theme

"The Fellow Who Got Married," will be the subject tonight of the sermon of Dr. Trigg Thomas, evangelist for the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church, who has been conducting a revival meeting for the First Southern Presbyterian church of this city under the big tent on the church lot across from the Junior college during the past two weeks.

This will be the final week night service for the campaign as there will be no services Saturday, and Sunday will be the closing day of the revival.

In addition to the strong sermons by Dr. Thomas, the fine congregational singing of the old gospel songs and special solos by some of Wichita Falls' best musical talent, have drawn and held the people for Christ and the church and a better life. The organization of "The win-one-club" of young people and their activity and zeal has worked greatly for the good of the revival also.

Dr. Thomas preached last night on "Old Time Repentance" and set forth in a very plain and practical way the Bible teaching on the subject, both in the Old and New Testaments.

CREIGHTON AND SCOUTS RETURN

Have a Successful Stay at Craterville, He Declares.

Scout Executive Frank B. Creighton, who has just returned from Boy Scout camp held at Craterville Park, Okla., reports it as one of the most successful camps he has held since he has been scout executive in this district.

He announced a plan where a combination of scouts of Childress, Quanah, Vernon and two cities in Oklahoma might put up a mess hall at the park to seat 50 boys. Then during the summer, the scouts could camp there by bringing tents.

Fort Worth Camp.

Wilks and Wife To Leave City

Captain and Mrs. Fred T. Wilks of the Salvation army expect to leave early next week for Milwaukee, Wis., and take charge of the army post of that city, according to announcement yesterday. Capt. and Mrs. Wilks have been in charge of the local post for more than a year.

The transfer is being made because of Mrs. Wilks' health. She has not recovered from a recent operation, and it is believed she would be benefitted by the change. No successors have yet been named for them, but Captain Wilks said that they probably would be selected by the latter part of the week.

Special farewell services will be held at the army hall, on Seventh street Saturday night and all day Sunday, it was announced yesterday. The public is invited to attend.
