2,000 Persons Flee Laos Into Thailand

By the Associated Press

Fearing an imminent takeover by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, more than 2,000 persons fled Laos into Thailand on Saturday, border police reported. They said high-ranking Laotian officials were among them.

Pathet Lao police at the Mekong River border crossing refused to permit some of the refugees to take their cars and other belongings such as furniture with them.

The U.S. Embassy in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, urged the more than 800 Americans in Laos to remain calm, saying that Laotian officials had given assurances of protection after an attack on the embassy Friday by student demonstrators.

In other Indochina developments:

—A Phnom Penh broadcast said the new Cambodian government wanted no foreigners in the country because the nation was "too busy rebuilding a new and clean society" to be bothered with outsiders. Experts outside Cambodia said the ban on foreigners was aimed in part at least at the North Vietnamese, historical rivals of Cambodians.

—The North Vietnamese Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan, scoffing at U.S. predictions of a bloodbath following the takeover by the new Revolutionary Government in Saigon, claimed South Vietnam now is "a sea of joy, (with) nothing of the retaliation predicted by the United States but only love and mutual understanding among people." The newspaper was quoted in a broadcast by Radio Hanoi.

—The Japanese news agency Kyodo quoted a military officer in Saigon as saying that South Vietnam's most urgent task was the "anti-U.S. education" of the people.

—Saigon Liberation radio said 10 generals and more than 1,500 other senior officers of the defeated South Vietnamese army had registered with the new government in the first few hours of a registration period last week. The new leaders have promised the military men they would be forgiven and given jobs if they obey orders.

—Thailand, among the first to recognize the new South Vietnamese government, accused Saigon's rulers of playing "political games" and making threats because the Thais had permitted the United States to remove American-supplied aircraft flown to Thailand by fleeing South Vietnamese.

RIDING THROUGH A RIVER — An automobile on Scurry Street (top photo) sprays water like a motor boat after rains flooded the Howard County area Saturday night. Texas Highway Department workers (bottom photo) stop to warn motorists on the Andrews Highway near Big Spring about the flooded stretch of the pavement around the Howard-Martin County line.

Torrential Rains Strand Motorists

By JOHN EDWARDS

Torrential rains stranded about 60 motorists on a five mile stretch of the Andrews Highway on the Howard-Martin County line Saturday night and made a number of area streets and highways impassable.

One car on State Highway 176, a link to Andrews, was washed 300 yards from the highway, a spokesman for the Martin County Sheriff's Office said.

Several swam to the road when their cars were washed off pavement, but no injuries or deaths were reported.

When boats were offered to rescue the motorists, officials at the scene said the waters were too swift and shallow.

Trucks were required, and Webb Air Force Base and the Howard County road department were among the agencies whose trucks were sought.

The steady rain soaked Howard County generally with hail in places. In Stanton, hard rains and hail half the size of golf balls crashed down.

Howard County's Farm Road 33 was too flooded for traffic.

Rain runoff was reported as a traffic hazard on U. S. 87 four miles south of the Forsan cutoff.

Closer to Big Spring, a flooded Rockhouse Road brought distress calls from at least one driving there.

A tornado was sighted by radar in clouds above the Howard County Airport at 7:52 p.m. Friday, the Texas Department of Public Safety office at Midland told Big Spring Police.

An unoccupied mobile home belonging to Edna Owen was blown 50 feet, flipped over and destroyed at a location two miles north of Big Spring sometime Friday night.

Eddie Owen, the owner's father and a deputy sheriff, said the 12-x-65-foot mobile home had not been anchored to the ground.

At 10:40 p.m. Friday, State Trooper Ben Lockhart was sent to assist two motorists on the Snyder Highway near the Gail Highway.

One driver attempted to leave the main highway on one side, and another motorist offered to drive him home. The second driver washed up into the other adjoining ditch.

Kidnap Industry 'Booming'

ROME (AP) — Italy's flourishing kidnap industry held a Rome judge and the son of a wealthy lawyer Saturday in a new wave of the crime that pays.

Their kidnapings, one apparently for political motives and the other reportedly for ransom, brought the number of abductions for the week to four— and to 21 for the year. Last year there were 42 kidnapings in Italy.

Both the judge and the lawyer's son vanished as Italy was about to pass a tougher law enforcement bill, making already limited bail more difficult and giving police wider power of arrest and detention.

Investigators reported that Francesco Napoli, 20, son of a Calabrian lawyer, was kidnaped while returning home Friday night. They declined details of the kidnaping and the amount of ransom demanded.

As kidnapings engulf Italy, ransom demands have soared to well over $1 million. Gianni Bulgari, a prominent international jeweler and Italy's "golden bachelor," was ransomed last month for $2 million.

The disappearance of magistrate Giuseppe di Gennaro Tuesday night was officially classified a political kidnaping after a bizarre prison riot in Viterbo, a city 60 miles north of Rome.

MOTHER'S DAY

Big Spring citizens join the nation in observing Mother's Day today.

Long distance switchboards will be jammed as many persons telephone long distance on Mother's Day.

Flower shops and gift shops had a good week as numerous corsages, plants and bouquets were sent to mothers. Candy and other gifts, from household items to items of clothing, were presented in grand style.

Today, more citizens then usual will dine out so that mother will not have to cook and quite a few persons took time to go to church with mother.

It is the day for America's symbols of affection for mother. It's a day of appreciation for either the things mother has done in past years or what mother is doing during the current years.

ATTEMPTED EXTORTION IN ABILENE FIZZLES

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — A three-man bomb squad from Ft. Hood exploded a device on the parking lot of the Abilene police station Saturday night after officers foiled an attempt to extort $4,000 from a grocery store here.

Police chief Warren Dodson said the device will be sent to a laboratory for analysis.

The device was found in an undisclosed location in Abilene after police arrested a 37-year-old Abilene man in connection with the extortion attempt.

The man was arrested shortly after noon a few blocks away from where he picked up a brown paper bag containing an undisclosed amount of money from the grocery store.

Store manager George Mullins said the store received a phone call at about 11:50 a.m. from a man who demanded $4,000 or a bomb would go off.

Police staked out the specified location for the money and made the arrest. Federal authorities said charges for attempted extortion would be filed.

During questioning, police said the man told them the bomb was not in the store, but authorities nevertheless evacuated the store and searched it as a precautionary measure.

The suspect later told officers where the device could be found.

Two Raped Girls Found Amid Burning Wreckage

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Revenge may have been the motive in the raping of two 16-year-old girls who were then set on fire, killing one of the victims, police reported Saturday.

The girl who survived named the assailants in a painful bedside interview at a hospital, police said.

Robert Rigler, 20, of Philadelphia was arrested in Philadelphia, according to police. Still being sought was a man identified as Charles Stickle, 20, who lived at the French Creek Inn, scene of the alleged rape, police said.

Rigler was charged Saturday night with murder, attempted murder, two counts of rape, two counts of kidnaping, assault, possession of incendiary devices, causing and risking a catastrophe and criminal conspiracy, according to homicide Capt. Martin Rahinsky.

Tina Statuti of Conshohocken, one of the victims, died early Saturday morning.

Beverley Rodenbaugh, also of Conshohocken, was in critical condition with burns over 90 per cent of her body.

"She's not expected to live. She's terribly burned," said Sister Rosa Mystica, nursing coordinator of St. Agnes Hospital.

The two girls were found amid the burning wreckage of a trailer truck shortly after it exploded around 12:30 a.m. Tina's body was found inside the trailer, police said.

Police said Miss Rodenbaugh told them that after they were raped, she and Miss Statuti were forced into a trailer filled with large rolls of cardboard and paper and one of the men tried to choke her. She said as she lost consciousness she felt liquid, apparently gasoline, being poured over her, according to police.

The truck was then apparently set afire, police said, and the resultant explosion blew apart two-thirds of the 50-foot trailer.

Beverly reportedly was thrown 15 feet from the trailer by the blast.

Sgt. Charles Millhouse of the West Conshohocken police said police theorize the motive for the assault may be revenge for the beating of the father of one of the suspects.

Millhouse said Robert Jacquot, Rigler's father and owner of the French Creek Inn, was badly beaten in Bridgeport, Pa., Thursday morning. The boyfriends of the two girls, Millhouse said, "may have been involved in the beating."

Millhouse said it is not known how the girls got to the French Creek Inn, where Stickle was living under the name Charles Sheppard. According to police, the girls were raped around midnight and then were forced into a panel truck and taken to a parking lot in Philadelphia where the trailer was located.

Millhouse said about two hours after the explosion he and another officer stopped Stickle for a routine check while he was walking across a bridge in West Conshohocken.

The Conshohocken police had not then been alerted about the Philadelphia incident, so Stickle was released.

Millhouse said a 19-year-old woman and two juveniles, who were next door at the inn when the alleged rape occurred, have been taken into custody for questioning.

Reviewing the . . . . . .

Big Spring Week

with Joe Pickle

Thundershowers continued an erratic pattern across this vicinity during the past week, but as is so often the case, rains keep falling in the same places and skipping the dry areas. Last Sunday Big Spring got 1.6 inches as a shower belt with 1-2 inches moved west to east from Stanton to Westbrook, but it was only five miles or so wide. Friday more showers came, and northeast Big Spring to Sand Spring got about two inches. This time rain did amount to more as far north as Luther and the south of Knott, with possibly enough to plant. Our horseback guess is that maybe a third of our cropland may have enough to try a planting.

★

That wave of violence, particularly on the highways, continued with Garthel Bailey, 61, of Humble City, N.M. being killed instantly when a pickup, in which he was a passenger, veered into a camper trailer 12 miles west, just over in Martin County on Wednesday afternoon. Lee Owens, driver, was injured severely, but the Ed R. Van Pelt family from New York, pulling the trailer, escaped unscathed.

SOME OFFICIALS KILLED THEMSELVES

No Sign Of Blood Bath

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — From presidents and generals to prostitutes, Vietnamese fearing reprisal or regimentation left Saigon by the tens of thousands in the final days before the takeover by troops of the Revolutionary Government.

Others stayed. Some who could have left in the United States evacuation refused to leave relatives behind. Some stayed in hope of a reunification that would allow them to see again loved ones who stayed in North Vietnam after the 1954 Geneva agreements that partitioned the country at the 17th Parallel.

Tens of thousands were unable to get out. Some were still trying to escape by sea after the Revolutionary Government had occupied Saigon. Some high officials killed themselves. Others died trying to escape.

There were no visible signs of the blood bath predicted by U.S. officials from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on down.

One army captain said that the North Vietnamese could have slaughtered thousands of soldiers and civilians but fired ahead of them only to stop them. He was captured, released within two days and told he could visit his family.

"If they tried to kill, they could have killed everybody," he said. "They told us, 'Don't worry. There will be no killing.'"

High-ranking Saigon officials were told to register with the Revolutionary Government, then set free for the time being. The authorities simply ignored them in the first weeks after the takeover, too busy with more important work such as establishing security and a civilian government.

Several generals were reported to have killed themselves. They included Maj. Gen. Pham Van Phu, commander of the 2nd military corps that embraced the central highlands, where the Saigon government's downfall began in a chaotic retreat during the Ides of March.

Lesser officials also took their own lives, including a police lieutenant colonel who shot himself to death before my eyes. President Nguyen Van Thieu and his family and Premier Tran Thien Khiem departed in style aboard an air force plane to Taipei several days before rockets closed Tan Son Nhut Air Base.

Tran Van Lam, former Senate president and foreign minister who signed the January 1973 Paris cease-fire agreement for South Vietnam, had said publicly he'd stay. But sources said he left for the U.S.

Webb Security Police Spotlighted This Week

Maybe all the "good guys" don't wear white hats, but 37 of them do at Webb AFB. They are the men of the 78th Security Police Division.

They are in the spotlight with National Police week starting today.

Capt. Millard D. Stafford, chief of Security Police here, pointed out that base security policemen do much more than patrol the base and give tickets. Among the many services they provide are private weapon and boat and trailer storage, 24-hours-per day, provided, advance notice is given when storing or withdrawing weapons.

The white hatters also keep the base free from stray animals. In recent months, they have answered calls to capture various wild animals, including a skunk in Barracks 203. They will also help base residents recapture pets that have strayed.

During peak traffic periods on base, they control the flow of traffic, and are always willing to give aid and directions to travelers. They also cooperate with local and state authorities when they request assistance.

Lawmen Solve Mock Crime

Eighteen law enforcement officers converged on the Ramada Inn Thursday to investigate a mock crime.

Set up by the law enforcement academy personnel, who were teaching a police training course here last week, a make-believe murder scene was created in the two back rooms of the north wing of the motel.

The crime was patterned after a real crime which occured several years ago in Louisiana in a Lake Charles motel. Two policewomen acted the part of the murder victims.

Clues included a pistol on the floor by the body, a broken whiskey bottle, three glasses, a cigar butt in an ashtray, three teeth out of a comb on the bathroom floor, one footprint, simulated outside the back window and one tire print, simulated out front.

A person who was in the next room and heard a party in the room was the first witness produced.

The teams of officers, divided in two separate groups, had to go through the procedure of keeping the crime scene intact, yet search for evidence, set up lookouts, take photographs, question witnesses, etc.

The teams included the law officers from Big Spring, Midland and Odessa, with part of the Big Spring police department used to act out the crime.

When the real crime was investigated in Lousiana, the wrong suspect was first arrested because all clues pointed in the wrong direction. This is the reason that this particular case was selected to be used by the academy.

Both teams here at first planned to arrest the wrong suspect and then as additional clues were uncovered, they came up with the real culprit. All of the cases used in mock investigations come from real crime files, according to the instructors.

The Permian Basin Law Enforcement Academy course here was funded by a criminal justice division grant through the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

Anthony Plans 2 More Stores

C. R. Anthony Company has signed two new leases for stores in Odessa, according to M. C. Grigsby, veteran manager of the Big Spring store.

Youths May Apply For Jobs

Youths from low income families are invited to apply on Saturday, May 17, for jobs through the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) summer program.

In Howard County, 200 governmental jobs will be provided to men and women from 24 to 21 years of age, Nabar Martinez, director of the Human Resource Center at City Hall, said.

Those employed through the program will make $2.10 per hour and will work a maximum of 40 hours weekly. Employment will begin the second week in June and continue through August.

At 10 a.m., an orientation speech is planned. Workers will be helping youths complete applications until 4 p.m. The applications are to be taken home for parents' signatures.

To show proof of family income, pay check stubs, W-2 forms and Social Security numbers should be brought to the meeting.

Municipal Auditorium has been chosen as a tentative site for the meeting. Should another location be named later, notices will be posted at Muncipal Auditorium, Martinez said.

Among those conducting the meeting will be Betsy Howe, Manpower coordinator, and Martinez.

Suspend Sleuth

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Post says the director of the Texas Board of Private Investigators and Private Security Agencies has been suspended from his duties pending the outcome of an investigation of complaints against him.

The Post's state capital bureau quoted Board Chairman J. Mason Lankford Jr. of Fort Worth as saying Wednesday that Thomas W. Brown was suspended for 30 days with pay pending the outcome of a May 14 hearing.

Lankford declined to specify the complaints against Brown because he said "they have not been reduced to writing." The complaints apparently come from within the agency.

The action came at a closed meeting in the attorney general's office.

More Illegal Aliens Are Holding U.S. Jobs

O. D. Stevens, chief patrol agent of the Marfa Border Patrol sector, said today that while unemployment among America's citizens and legal resident aliens continues to elimb, the opposite is seen in the illegal alien labor force within his jurisdictional area.

During the first two months of 1974, 36.4 per cent of the illegal aliens arrested in the Marfa Sector were employed. During January and February of this year, 44.5 per cent of the illegal aliens arrested were employed; an increase of 8.1 per cent.

Evidence is further available to indicate a greater portion of the illegal force is moving into industrial type jobs he said. During the same two months in 1974, only 13.3 per cent of the aliens arrested were employed in jobs other than agriculture; in 1975, the number increased dramatically to 26.5 per cent, thus depriving more and more lawful workers of employment, he added.

Chief Stevens also stated that statistics computed during January and February of 1975 show that 28.5 per cent of the aliens located were employed at wages exceeding $2.50 per hour.

During January and February, the internal stations (Big Spring, Amarillo, Ft. Stockton, Lubbock, and Pecos) were responsible for apprehending 88 per cent of the aliens found while employed.

School Funds Might Boil Down To Test Of Strength

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — After months of pencil-pushing, ringing statements via press releases and intense lobbying, the school finance issue comes down this week to the hard currency of votes.

The House committee process failed, and representatives literally will put together a bill on the floor after debate begins Tuesday.

NEEDY DISTRICTS

It very well might boil down to a test of strength between Speaker Bill Clayton, who has a plan; Rep. Dan Kubiak, former House Education Committee chairman, who has a plan; and Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who says he is sticking by his own plan despite indications that it lacks legislative support.

School finance reform was played up on the pre-session legislative marquee four months ago as the No. 1 priority.

Now, with three weeks left until final adjournment, its priority rating apparently has slipped. Various "emergency" measures, many of them deserving, and the committee-approved general appropriation bill have absorbed much of the present and prospective state budget surplus.

That surplus was important, because to needy school districts, underpaid school teachers and tax-weary property owners, reform means more state money.

Briscoe's insistence that the legislature adjourn without imposing any new or increased taxes wiped out that method of fattening a school finance bill.

Reform also means an attack on the wide inequity between districts that are rich in taxable property and those that are poor.

UNREALISTIC

The House Public Education Committee studied the problem for months but could produce nothing better than a bill that left organized teachers jubilant but was so unrealistic that its author, Kubiak, is preparing to offer a complete substitute on the floor.

A key feature of the bill was a $10,000 salary for beginning teachers, who now are guaranteed $6,600 a year. This was the goal of the TSTA, and Kubiak doesn't mind saying he put it in the bill to get the votes necessary to pass his bill out of committee and defeat Briscoe's weighted pupil approach.

The bill would cost about $1.8 billion over the next two years, more than $1 billion over the funds available.

Kubiak is working on a floor substitute that would cost about $665 million, raising the bottom salary for teachers to $8,000 and providing $100 million for "equalization aid" to half the school districts—those with less than the average taxable property of $67,000 per child.

Kubiak's plan continues the current "program approach," which bases Foundaton School Program spending on classroom teacher units, total number of pupils and specific allocations for certain types of instruction, such as vocational and special education.

It conincides with Briscoe's thoughts in one respect: It would immediately abandon all criteria for determining a district's need for state aid except market value of real estate, using estimates until accurate appraisals can be made.

POLITICS

Briscoe says he is "not discouraged" about prospects for his weighted pupil approach, which would recognize cost variations between different types of programs and mixtures of pupils in each district.

Legislators merely don't understand the weighted pupil approach, Briscoe said, but he is vague about how he will enlighten them.

Clayton's assumed role in all this is political realist.

He believes the market value estimates now available are so unrealiable, and would hit some districts' taxpayers so hard, that a bill mandating immediate use of market value for distributing state aid would kill the bill.

Instead, Clayton proposes a two-year transition period, with an index based half on market value and half on an estimate of county income.

Vote To Issue Water Bonds

LAMESA — City Council has voted to issue $610,000 in general obligation bonds for sewer and water improvements.

The bonds will draw 5.695 percent interest, which is considered a low rate.

Buying the bonds were the Lamesa National Bank and First National Bank, Abilene. Elwood Freeman, president of Lamesa National, represented the banks at the meeting.

On April 5, voters approved the bonds. Officals took action quickly in anticipation of higher interest rates in the future.

Lamesa National will be holding bonds maturing in 1976 through 1981. And the Abilene institution bought bonds maturing between 1982 and 1988.

The bonds will be issued after June 15. Engineers, meanwhile, will be preparing plans.

This year, city taxes will remain the same, but 75 cents has been added to monthly utility bills.

With the bond money, the city will enlarge and renovate sewer and water systems.

Texas Teachers Eligible For Jobless Benefits?

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas teachers should be able to receive jobless benefits during their summer vacation, says the executive director of the Austin Association of Teachers.

Annette Steele said her organization will file a brief to accompany a request from the Texas Employment Commission for a state attorney general's opinion on whether teachers can qualify for money under a new federal unemployment law.

The law, which went into effect last December, covers workers not included in state unemployment programs. The estimated 200,000 public school employes in Texas are exempt from state coverage because they work for political subdivision of the state.

Texas teachers are eligible for the federal money because they meet the definition of seasonal employes, said Ms. Steele, who prefers that designation.

Robert Heath, chairman of the attorney general's opinion committee, said his group will focus on deciding whether the teachers are "unemployed" under state law during two summer months. Teacher aggrements run for 10 months.

"We hope to have an opinion as soon as possible," Heath said, "but Congress may move before we do because there is a movement in Washington to exclude teachers from the law."

Henry Rothell, the TEC administrator, who requested the opinion, said the House of Representatives has already amended the law to take out teachers.

"If just half of the teachers in Texas were found eligible for compensaton, it would cost $75-80 million in federal funds," Rothell said. "It wouldn't cost the state anything although it would be an administrative headache."

Mrs. Steele said a bleak summer job picture is facing Austin teachers, 87 per cent of whom, she said, hold second jobs during the school year.

"Many of our teachers work on graduate degrees during the summer and most of those who don't end up competing with college students for jobs as construction workers or waiters," Ms. Steel said.

Some serious talk about West Texas gas

By K. B. "Tex" Watson, Pioneer president

Living in the middle of an area known for its abundant gas deposits, it's hard to imagine West Texans threatened by a shortage of natural gas. However, there is the possibility that governmental regulations could create a shortage here. If we are not vigilant, we could see much of our gas supply allocated to other areas. Or we could see price controls make it impractical for producers to drill additional wells in this area. What can the average citizen do to prevent that from happening? I would suggest that he be aware of the problem and support Pioneer's efforts to maintain our gas reserves.

Works to Help Patients See

By TROY BRYANT

There are many things donated to the Big Spring State Hospital that never go to waste, because of a number of ingenious employes who recover donated items for use by the patients.

One such employe is Mrs. Mary Lou Walker, a lab assistant.

Mrs. Walker works about one hour a week rebuilding old glasses frames for the Texas Commission for the Blind, so that patients who need glasses can get them.

PARTS USED

"We use parts from donated glasses, frames or sometimes the whole frame if they are good enough," she said.

The Texas Commission for the Blind brings optometrists and opthamologists to examine patient's eyes and prescribe glasses for them free of charge.

Mrs. Walker also adjusts and repairs glasses that patients already own.

GROWING PROGRAM

"The program has only been in operation about a month," Mrs. Walker said, "So I only work about an hour a week and work on about five pairs of glasses." She expects the program will be expanded so more and more donations of frames are needed.

Mrs. Walker, whose husband Dr. W.J. Walker is a staff doctor at the State Hospital, got her experience working on glasses when she worked for an optical firm in Houston.

ALWAYS USE MORE

She has been working for the State Hospital since 1972 and has been a Big Spring resident for six years.

"We can always use more frames, to see that the patients here have good glasses," she added.

Donations may be made by contacting the Volunteer Services Office, at Big Spring State Hospital.

PRISONERS HATED 'OLD PATCH EYE'

Refused To Salute Jap Flag

By MARJ CARPENTER

William E. Jensen could not swim. But it was the day of the fall of Corregidor, May 6, 1942, and the Japanese were forcing the prisoners out to the landing boats, close as they could get to shore.

"I just kept running into the waves. Sometimes I was underwater, and sometimes my head was out. I ran and bobbled right up to the landing boats. Then began my three years, three months and three days of confinement in a Japanese prison camp," Jensen recalls.

The first few weeks that Jensen was placed in the Cabata Teewan prison camp on Luzon, along with 6,000 others from the surrender of Corregidor, he received a broken jaw and had most of his teeth knocked out.

HIT WITH RIFLE

He refused to salute a Japanese flag and was hit in the mouth with a rifle butt, breaking his jaw in three places. He was not given any treatment and a fellow prisoner pulled out the parts of his broken teeth with a pair of pliers "and no novocain," Jensen recalls.

Jensen missed the Bataan Death March. He was at Bataan when it was falling in April of the same year and was with the group sent on to Corregidor to "buy a little time for the United States."

General Wainwright went with us and was captured with us and served as a prisoner of war with us. There were 21 nurses captured with us. I always wished they had left with General MacArthur. They went through some terrible things. I don't even like to think about it."

The prisoners were kept on the Island of Luzon for two years and when the Americans began to close in, they were taken to Formosa. "Then we left by ship for Tokyo, we were packed like sardines in the hold of a coal vessel. We were in Hong Kong harbor several days because the U.S. submarines were after our convoy.

TORPEDOES WHISTLED

"When we got back out into the harbor, the American subs got us and sunk 13 of the 16 ships. We could hear those torpedoes whistling by us. Two of our civilian prisoners committed suicide. They bashed their heads in on the bulkheads. It was really bad.

"I wish there had been some way for us to know that some Chinese spies had told the Americans we were there. They knew whichships they were sinking. They left our ship, a tanker with fuel for us and the supply ship with food for us. The rest went down. They were looking out after us.

"Malnutrition was our enemy," Jensen recalls. "My treatments now are said to be a result. My bones are deteriorating. They blame the years of 'just rice.' " Jensen smile, "My nerves aren't too good either. I still have dreams about old Patch Eye. That was the guard we all hated."

After the war, the prisoners of war were interrogated by the F. B. I. about their treatment. "We heard that Patch Eye was hung. I hope so. We had another guard — a great big guy nearly seven feet tall — he was good to us.

Of the 24,000 prisoners caputred at Wake, Guam, Midway and in the Philippines, only 8,800 returned. Those who did had a special fortitude and the ability to survive. "I remember when we were in the hold of that ship and the torpedoes were whistling. Two were dead. I knew there was nothing I could do, so I went to sleep," Jensen related.

The prisoners were worked in a steel mill and had to clean up the damage caused by the American B-29s. "We set things on fire when we could. We blew up a few boilers. Prisoners in that war never told on each other. We were a close group, but I can recall few of the names. We went by numbers and had to say out numbers in Japanese and we often referred to each other by number. I was Nana Junana or 77.

HUNG BY THUMBS

"Whenever somebody would steal a little salt or rice, they would pick somebody out and hang them up their thumbs for 72 hours. I've seen a lot of them die. But the worst thing — the very worst thing — was in the first prison camp.

"We had identical twin brothers in the camp. They made them both dig a grave and then decided which one was to die and which was to shoot the other. At first, the brother refused until his brother standing at the foot of the grave said, 'I'd rather you would kill me than let them do it.' It was awful.

"After the first atom bomb fell, our guards became all excited. We could feel the shock waves — even in Tokyo and wondered what it was. The guards had us go 120 feet outside the compound and dig a new bomb shelter. They really thought that 120 feet would help, Jensen laughingly recalled.

"The day the war was over they told us and began to bow to us and carry on a lot. One Alabama black prisoner chassed one of the guards out of the camp. Then we sat and waited for that hospital ship. After 15 days, we could see the ship coming. It was August 23, 1945. They hauled us onto the ship on stretchers because we were too weak to climb the ropes. Then they treated us and fed us and filled us up with vitamins before we went home. I went from 110 to 172 pounds — the most I ever weighed in my life."

Jensen stayed in the Air Force and they were told that as prisoners of war they would not have to go into more combat. But the Korean War came and Congress decided it was a conflict, not a war, so Jense was sent back. He was a mess sergeant and served another seven months in combat.

PLEASE, NOT AGAIN

"It was early in the war. I always seemed to be there early. We were 14 miles out of Seoul and told to retreat to Japan. They sent me back to set fire to the mess hole. I was running down the runway and the last plane was leaving and I was praying, 'Dear God, No. Don't let me be left and captured again. No.' "

Then he breathed a big sigh, even telling it this many years later and said, "They saw me and waited. I got on the plane."

Then Jensen was stationed at Webb and got married here. He and his wife, Velma, have three children, Gwen Faulkner, Louisville, Ky.; Leon Gass, Midland, and Jo Beth Gerk, Denver, Colorado. The grandchildren include four boys and one girl.

The Jensens were next to Casa Blanca in North Africa three years in 1953 and then to Spokane, Washington.

LED THE ATTACK

It was in Washington that the Air Base was hosting a special guest, a Christian evangelist, the former Captain Mitsuio Fuchida, who was piloting the first plane as they flew in to bomb Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

The officers were a little worried about Jensen cooking the dinner, but made a special event of it and took a picture of them shaking hands.

"I began to speak in Japanese to the pilot and all the officers jumped forward, afraid of what I was saying. But I was just welcoming him. He fought for his country and I fought for mine. Now, if it had been Old Patch-Eye, the guard, I couldn't have done it. That was too personal."

When Jensen retired from the service, they moved back to Big Spring. "I never had a special home. I was born in Wyoming and was an orphan at 13 and my sister finished raising me at Silver City, New Mexico. I joined the army when 17. Big Spring is home," Jensen added.

"It's been 33 years — 30 years this August since I was released. And 30 years this week that the war was over in Europe. We still seem to be having plenty of problems. But we've still got a United States — 33 years after that black day at Corregidor."

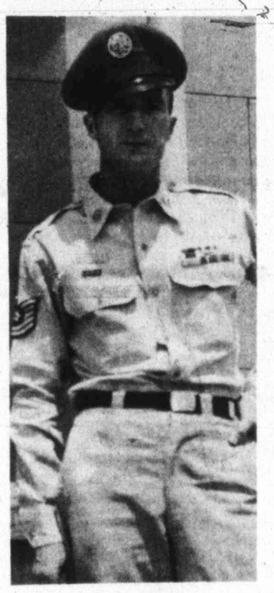
TODAY — Now, William Jensen is having medical problems including deterioration of his bones, possibly begun with the malnutrition in the old prison camps. He is looking over an atlas showing the battle areas in the Pacific.



IN 1945 — Jensen was built up with good diet and vitamins before he was brought home, decorated with ribbons at the end of World War II.

FORMER ENEMIES — William Jensen of Big Spring, who was mess sergeant at an air base in Spokane, Wash., when this picture was made in 1959 is a former prisoner of war in Japan during World War II. He is shown shaking hands with Capt. Mitsuio Fuchida, who led the bombing raid over Pearl Harbor. Jensen cooked Capt. Fuchida's meal that day when he toured the air base.

Feds Indict Local Trio

Three Big Spring men are among 12 persons indicted by the federal grand jury in Abilene Friday afternoon.

They include Daniel Rios, for the alleged distribution of two grams of heroin on July 9, 1974. Big Spring city police, working with a narcotics officer, investigated the case here.

Steven Carol Signom was indicted for allegedly stealing $1,000 in goods and property of the U.S. Government and injuring property of the U.S. (a safe) at Webb AFB, Big Spring, on about Oct. 29, 1974. This was in connection with a safe burglary at the base bowling alley.

Nursing Homes Will Observe Special Week

An invitation for Texans to "visit a nursing home" this week was extended today by Texas' First Lady, Mrs. Dolph Briscoe, on behalf of the 87,849 residents in the 965 licensed facilities across Texas.

Mrs. Briscoe, named honorary hostess of Nursing Home Week by the Texas Nursing Home Association which sponsors the annual event, issued the invitation from the Governor's Mansion in Austin. This week paralles Hospital week.

Both Big Spring Nursing Inn, 901 Goliad, and Mountain View Lodge, 2009 Virginia, will have their doors open to visitors throughout the week and urge people to inspect their facilities.

Cafeteria personnel of the Coahoma and Marcy Elementary schools will feed approximately 150 people at the Big Spring Nursing Inn Saturday in a gesture aimed at ushering in Nursing Home Week.

Food for the program was purchased with non-appropriated funds. Mary Womack, supervisor of the Coahoma cafeteria, will oversee preparation of the meal which includes fried chicken, chicken and dumplings or sliced roast beef, plus green beans, two salads, and four desserts.

Fanne Foxe To Write Book

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Argentine stripper Fanne Foxe says she is moving to Connecticut where she plans to write a book and get into "legitimate theater."

Seventy-Five Complete Upward Bound Program

The first school year of the Upward Bound program came to a climax this weekend with 75 completions, a banquet affair, and the final session Saturday at Howard College.

More than 250 participants, parents and teachers, from half a dozen cities in the area were on hand for the awards program at Howard College Friday evening. Larry Johns, Snyder, review board vice president, was picked by students as Mr. Upward Bound, and Brenda Belvin, Colorado City High, was named Miss Upward Bound. Runners up were Danny Rivera, Colorado City, and Cynthia Torres, Big Spring.

SPECIAL AWARDS

Perfect attendance awards for the year went to Cynthia Torres, and Alice Reyes, Midland Lee. Sergio Lopez, Midland High, Student Council president, and Cynthia Torres, review board chairman, were recognized.

Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College, urged his young listeners to take stock of what they had accomplished, to take the next step.

"The world is full of people who say 'if I had only —,' " said Dr. Hays, "don't you make the same mistake and miss your opportunities." To those who go on to college, he urged involvement in activities. "Success," he said, "is making the most of your total self. Ninety-nine per cent of it will be your mental attitude, for success is the ability to meet failure without being defeated."

There will be a summer session for UB participants. Herb Johnson, on co-director of the program, presented several of the faculty and counsellors. Students will be housed on the college campus during the program, whereas during the school year they have taken part on Saturdays. He took occasion to laud the Midland school system for furnishing a bus to transport a large number of UB members here for the weekly sessions of instruction, remedial studies, recreation, and career exploration.

Joe Montoya, director of the UB program to help motivate young people of low economic means toward college studies, presided.

4A CHAMPION

Ricky Awarded First In Mile

AUSTIN — Miler Ricky McCormick brought fame to Big Spring here Saturday afternoon in the 4A State Track Meet as the Steer senior was awarded the first place medal.

He was believed to be the first Big Spring athlete to bring home a mile title though other Steer barriers years back won in other events.

Rod Carter, Steer head track coach, said, "Ricky was thrilled and excited over his finish."

Kenneth Tolbert of Dallas South Oak Cliff was disqualified after winning the four-lap event in 4:12.8.

Ricky ran his best ever race in 4:14 flat. His previous four-lap low of 4:16.8 was posted in the regional.

The disqualification on Tolbert came as a result of a first curve fourth and final lap bump. Carter said Tolbert crowded Ricky repeatedly within a distance from 30 to 35 yards.

Field judges, five stationed around the Texas University oval, reviewed the case five minutes following the completion of the race, before rendering their decision.

Carter felt Ricky would have won the mile officially even if he hadn't been fouled. "He was making his move when the bump took place," he added.

Though Ricky suffered his first mile loss last week at Hobbs, N. M., Carter believed it made Ricky all the more determined to win at state. The season pointed toward Austin.

Permian's Lindon Dugan who trailed Ricky in all races this season, placed sixth in the revised final standings.

Assistant track Tommy Ross and Steer Kim Wrinkle accompanied Carter and Ricky to the state meet.

Mile-1. McCormick, 4:14.0; 2. Greg Lautenslager, North Mesquite, 4:15.0; 3. Marty Froelick, Houston Scarborough, 4:15.9; 4. Bert Warren, Baytown Lee, 4:17.0; 5. Marcell Vargas, San Antonio Fox Tech, 4:19.5; 6. Dugan, NT.

TEARS FOLLOW DISQUALIFICATION— Kenneth Tolbert of South Oak Cliff (Dallas) lies on the ground, sobbing, following his disqualification after winning the 4-A mile run event at the schoolboy track and field meet at Austin Saturday. In photo on left, Tolbert crosses the finish line in 4:12.8, but was disqualified for "bumping on a turn" and the race went to Ricky McCormick, Big Spring who trails Tolbert with a 4:14 flat.

Ball Best

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Galveston Ball, Schulenburg and Moody swept to state schoolboy track titles in Classes 4A, A and B Saturday but Charles Whigham of Fort Worth Dunbar unleashed the most dazzling individual performance.

Whigham, who is bound for Texas Southern University, topped the intermediate hurdles in 36.2 seconds—the second best time for a schoolboy in the nation.

As if that wasn't enough, Whigham chopped the 100-yard high hurdles in 13.6 seconds, just a tenth of a second off the national record. He also chipped in a fourth-place finish in the 100-yard dash to become high point man with 25.

There were other explosive performances on a humid, 80-degree day before 7,000 fans in Memorial Stadium which had been drenched by heavy early morning rains.

Elrich Brown of Lufkin shattered his own state record in the 440-yard dash in 46.5 seconds—the fourth best time run in the nation.

Ricardo Marquez of Sanderson broke one of the oldest Class B records on the book with a 4:15.3 mile run. John Eschle of Groom put the old record of 4:23.9 on the boards in 1958.

Galveston Ball, thanks to twin victories by Charles Alexander in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, scored 36 points to 34 for Abilene.

More or Lesh

By CLARK LESHER

I'd heard of Tom Sorley for months but never had the pleasure of meeting Floyd's son until this week. Tom had completed prep football at Big Spring High after the arrival of More or Lesh.

Then the talented quarterback left early last summer for the University of Nebraska. His dad had kept me briefed on his college gridiron progress.

Now Tom is home for a week, school out until next fall, and was married Saturday.

The annual Cornhusker spring game was held last Friday. Tom was a member of the White 20-16 win over the Red. He alternated at quarterback with Randy Garcia, a sophomore, red-shirted last year.

The red squad was directed by Terry Luck and Ed Burns. Burns also wore a red-shirt last year and Luck was backup to regular David Humm. Vince Ferragamo, a third red-shirter, was on the White team first half, then shifted to the Red side last half.

Ferragamo transferred from the University of California, Berkeley. Tom is the only freshman quarterback on a scholarship.

Before the spring finale, Tom was alternating at the No. 2 quarterback position with Ferragamo. Though the final grade card hasn't been posted, Tom looks with anxiety to receiving a passing grade.

Mrs. Loran Warren, mother of J. Wray Warren, stopped by the sports desk to clarify a story written on her son.

The 14 year-old golfer aced the 155-yard seventh hole at the Big Spring Country Club Thursday afternoon. J. Wray used a five-iron as witnessed by Duane Thomas, Craig Dunnam and Tim Hunnicutt.

The name appearing in Friday's Herald had only J. Wray.

Though two seasons late, the Texas six and eight man all-state teams have been announced. This is a first for these schools.

Players honored on the eight-man from West Texas area include Greg Eoff of Klondike, senior center, and Borden County's Garland Williams, senior guard.

The association will conduct its annual coaching school and all-star football and basketball games in Brownwood, July 17-19.

***

Eddie Spencer, a member of Lamesa's undefeated basketball team last season, has signed a scholarship arrangement with Lubbock Christian College.

Spencer scored 542 points and pulled down 275 rebounds for the 1975 state champion Tornadoes. He stands 5-11.

Mt. Carmel Champions

HOUSTON (AP) — Tony Fragoso singled in the winning run in the 10th inning Saturday as Houston Mt. Carmel edged Central Catholic of San Antonio, 5-4, to win the Class 3A championship of the Texas Catholic Interscholastic League.

Houston Northwest Academy pitcher Robin Brown tossed a two-hitter and knocked in a pair of runs as Academy won the Class 2A championship with a 6-1 victory over Victoria St. Joseph.

Brown allowed only a home run by Byron Pantel and struck out eight Victoria batters.

John Noey led Mt. Carmel hitters with three hits while Doug McLaughlin and Mark Ross each had two.

Ross, who started the game at third base for Mt. Carmel, went to the mound in the eighth inning and received credit for the victory in the game that lasted three hours.

Nelson Golf Lead Tied Three-Ways

DALLAS (AP) — Australian veteran Bruce Crampton scored a dramatic birdie—he missed eagle two by about an inch—on the final hole for a 67 that vaulted him into a three-way tie for the lead Saturday in the third round of the $175,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic.

The poker-faced Crampton, a winner last week in Houston who needs this title to complete a career sweep of the Texas tournaments, put together a 54-hole total of 203, 10 under par, on the 6,957-yard Preston Trail Golf Club course. He was tied for the lead with 41-year-old Rod Funseth and non-winning tour regular Bob Eastwood. Six other players within two shots of the top spot in probably the closest tournament on the tour this year.

The stocky Eastwood took advantage of the almost ideal playing conditions for a second consecutive six-under-par 65. The last two rounds represent his two best scores as a professional.

Funseth shot 66.

One stroke back at 204 were 44-year-old Miller Barber, Bob Smith and Tom Watson. Barber had a third-round 67.

Smith and Watson each had a share of the lead before bogeying the 18th hole for matching 69s.

The trio at 205, just two shots out of the lead, was composed of Canadian George Knudson, Jack Ewing and second-round leader Larry Nelson.

DALLAS (AP) — Scores of the leaders after the third round of the $175,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic over the 6,982-yard, par-71 Preston Trail Golf Club course (a-denotes amateur):

Brewers Blast Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pete Broberg and Tom Murphy teamed up to pitch a two-hitter and Hank Aaron singled three times as the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Kansas City Royals 3-0 Saturday night.

The Brewers scored against Nelson Briles, 3-1, on George Scott's leadoff double in the second and Aaron's first single. That was all the scoring until Aaron's third single touched off a two-run burst in the ninth, with Sixto Lezcano doubling home the runs.

Broberg, 5-3, didn't give up a hit until Buck Martinez singled with one out in the sixth. An inning later, John Mayberry doubled with one out but was thrown out attempting to advance to third on Hal McRae's grounder to shortstop Tim Johnson.

Broberg walked two and struck out one before raising a blister and giving way to Murphy in the eighth. The Brewers' relief ace retired all six batters he faced over the final two innings.

Aeros Near Hockey Goal

QUEBEC (AP) — A power-play goal by right winger Frank Hughes at the 13-second mark of the second period snapped a scoreless deadlock and the Houston Aeros scored a 2-0 victory over the Quebec Nordiques Saturday night to pull within one game of their second straight World Hockey Association championship.

The Aeros lead the best-of-seven final series 3-0.

NEW HOME BUYERS GET TAX BREAK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persons buying new homes will get help in obtaining the best price possible as well as a tax break under the tax cut law signed by President Ford.

The law provides a 5 per cent tax credit on the purchase price of new homes, with a maximum credit of $2,000.

To prevent sellers from increasing the price because of the credit, the law requires that the sale be made at the lowest price at which the new house ever was offered for sale.

A homebuyer claiming the tax credit will have to attach to his tax return a certificate from the seller that the home was sold at the lowest price. If the certification is false, the seller may be prosecuted and the homebuyer is entitled to recover an amount equal to three times the difference between the purchase price and the previous lower price that was offered.

The tax credit was designed to spur the home building industry by helping clear out a backlog of an estimated 600,000 unsold, new homes.

The tax credit is different from a tax deduction in that the credit can be subtracted from the taxes that otherwise would be payable. Congress has estimated that the total credits under the bill amount to $600 million.

In addition to new homes, the credit applies to purchase of mobile homes and living units in condominiums or cooperative housing projects. The home must have been under construction prior to March 26 of this year and the purchase made or agreed upon between March 12 and Dec. 31, 1975.

Texas Romps

DETROIT (AP) — Texas ripped five consecutive singles to score three runs in the sixth inning and Bill Hands scattered eight hits as the Texas Rangers beat the Detroit Tigers 5-2 Saturday.

The rally began with two out and turned a 2-1 Texas lead into an easy triumph for Hands, 3-2. Joe Coleman, 2-4, who pitched a one-hitter in his previous start, was the victim of all five runs.

Singles by Willie Davis, Jeff Burroughs and Mike Hargrove produced the first run in the Rangers' sixth. Jim Spencer and Roy Howell followed with RBI singles.

Hargrove broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth with a suicide squeeze bunt while Cesar Tovar knocked in a Texas run in the third with a double.

The first Tiger run came in the opening inning on Willie Horton's double following a single and stolen base by Ron LeFlore. They scored again with two out in the ninth on Leon Roberts' infield hit and a double by Tom Veryzer.

CARD MEMBERS — Shown are five players who will be playing for the Big Spring Cardinals against the Ft. Stockton Sonics at 1:30 p.m., today at Steer Park. They include from bottom to top, Feliz Martinez, Sammy Rodriquez, Joe Cadenhead and John Moreleon.

Cards Host Sonic Club

After pounding the Ft. Stockton Sonics twice on their home diamond last Sunday, the Big Spring Cardinals host the same club today at Steer Park.

A doubleheader is scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m. The Cards are 6-3 for the season.

Big Spring against the Sonics won 14-0 and 9-2. This was the first meeting between the two clubs this campaign.

The Cards' Orlando Olague gave up only one-hit and whiffed eight in checking Ft. Stockton in the opener. In the nightcap, Frankie Rubio of Big Spring won over the Sonics, allowing three scattered hits.

Two of four pitchers will handle the duel Card assignments revolving around Olague, Rubio, Jody Flores and Tony Fierra.

Probable Card line-up: Felix Martinez, shortstop; Sammy Rodriquez, second base; Pat Martinez, Jr., first base; Jessie Zapata, center; John Moreleon or Billy Pineda, third base, Flores, left; Joe Martinez, catcher; Tommy Tune or Joe Codenhead, right.

Dodgers Drop Pirates, 6-2

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tom Paciorek, a last-minute starter for Los Angeles, belted a three-run homer that carried Doug Rau and the Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

When catcher Steve Yeager complained of back pains just before the start of the nationally televised game, Dodgers' Manager Walter Alston moved Joe Ferguson behind the plate and put Paciorek in right field.

And in the second inning, Ron Cey walked and Ferguson was safe on a fielder's choice when Paciorek came to bat for only the 13th time this season. He worked the count to 2-2, then rifled a Jim Rooker fastball over the left field wall.

Yanks Shell Champs, 3-0

OAKLAND (AP) — Catfish Hunter faced his former Oakland teammates for the first time Saturday and overpowered them with a two-hit shutout in pitching the New York Yankees to a 3-0 victory over the world champion A's.

The right-hander, who won free agent status over the winter, gave up two singles, the first by Bill North with one out in the third inning and the other by Claudell Washington in the fourth. Hunter then retired the last 18 Oakland batters and faced only 28 batters, one over the limit, since North was caught stealing.

Orioles Hold On To Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson snapped a hitless string of 20 consecutive at-bats with a two-run double in the sixth inning and the Baltimore Orioles held on to defeat the Minnesota Twins 8-6 Saturday.

The Orioles took an 8-1 lead into the seventh inning behind Mike Torrez, 4-1, but the Twins erupted for five runs, three on Larry Hisle's home run off Doyle Alexander.

Paul Blair also drove in two Baltimore runs while Al Bumbry, hitting .469 since April 28, had a single, double and triple, walked once and scored three times.

Robinson, who will be 38 years old May 18 and had only one hit in his last 36 trips to the plate, smacked his double off reliever Bill Butler to climax Baltimore's three-run sixth. Starter and loser Ray Corbin, 0-2, had departed after issuing a bases-loaded walk.

A pair of walks and run-scoring singles by Steve Brye and pinch hitter Tony Oliva chased Torrez, who gave up 10 hits in 6 1-3 innings.

Alexander retired Eric Soderholm on a liner to Robinson at third, but Hisle hit his third homer of the season into the right field bleachers.

Mets Handed 6th Setback

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Concepcion's two-run single highlighted a three-run fifth inning and George Foster hit a two-run homer that gave the Cincinnati Reds a 7-1 victory Saturday and handed the New York Mets their sixth straight defeat.

Hank Webb, 0-2, walked Pete Rose with one out in the fifth, Ken Griffey singled and Joe Morgan walked, loading the bases. After Johnny Bench struck out, Tony Perez walked, forcing in a run, giving the Reds a 2-0 lead and chasing Webb. Concepcion greeted Rick Baldwin with a broken-bat looper to right for two runs.

In the eighth, Perez walked and Foster hit his fifth homer of the season off Jerry Cram, the Mets' fourth pitcher of the game.

Winner Clay Kirby, 2-3, who needed relief help, gave up Rusty Staub's third homer of the season in the sixth inning.

The Reds nicked Webb for a run in the first on Perez' sacrifice fly and added a run in the sixth off Harry Parker when Cesar Geronimo doubled, stole third and scored on a wild pitch.

Cards Shell Giants, 9-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Left-hander John Curtis replaced sore-shouldered Bob Gibson in the St. Louis pitching rotation and allowed four hits in 8 2-3 innings in his first start of the season Saturday night while the Cardinals broke open a scoreless game with eight runs in the sixth inning and buried the San Francisco Giants 9-2.

San Francisco's Charlie Williams, 0-2, also making his first start, matched Curtis until he began his own downfall by walking Ted Sizemore and Jim Dwyer, the first two batters in the Cardinals' sixth. Ted Simmons singled Sizemore home with the game's first run.

Randy Moffitt replaced Williams and Ron Fairly greeted him with a run-scoring single.

ALL-DISTRICT BASEBALL

Carroll, Canning Honored

Big Spring's Pat Carroll and Barry Canning received recognition for season accomplishments as the two landed on the 5-4A All-District Squad.

Carroll was named the outstanding second baseman while Canning gained honor as a utility outfielder.

Canning is a senior while Carroll is classified as a junior.

BARRY CANNING

Steer head coach Larry Horton placed second in the Coach of the Year selection won by Lee's Ernie Johnson.

The Rebels won the championship outright and will represent the district this week in the playoffs.

Horton felt junior Dick Battle should there be awarded an all-district position, but his absence was probably from playing a multitude of positions.

Besides hill assignments, Battle performed at first, third, catcher, finishing up in rightfield.

Carroll and Battle carried the brunt of Steer pitching, both responsible for 20 of 24 games recorded in the book.

This was the first time in two years Big Spring stepped into the all-district limelight.

Astro Decides To Give It Up

HOUSTON (AP) — Dave Roberts, a starting pitcher for the Houston Astros, has decided to quit baseball, sources here reported Saturday.

"This is not a spur of the moment decision," several teammates quoted Roberts as saying before departing from Montreal Saturday where the Astros and the Expos were playing a three game series that ends Sunday.

"I think it started when he pitched in San Diego," said first baseman-outfielder Bob Watson, Roberts' road roommate. "His decision wasn't based on this season."

Roberts was traded from San Diego to Houston in 1972. He has a 2-3 record this season but his 3.29 earned run average was the best among Houston starters.

High-Flying Cubs Belt Padres, 5-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Jose Cardenal and Don Kessinger collected five hits between them, including a pair of doubles, to lead the high-flying Chicago Cubs to their third straight victory, a 5-1 triumph over the San Diego Padres.

Cardenal had a double and two singles, drove in two runs and scored one while Kessinger hammered out a double and single, knocked in one run and scored twice.

Kessinger and Cardenal, Chicago's first two batters, singled in the first inning off loser Sonny Siebert, 3-2, and both eventually scored on a sacrifice fly by Jerry Morales and a single by Pete LaCock.

The Cubs added two more runs in the second on a hit batsman and successive doubles by Kessinger and Cardenal. Cardenal also singled home a run in the fourth inning.

Recruiting Completed

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University football Coach Al Conover said Saturday he had completed this year's football recruiting with the transfer from the University of Tampa of two sophomores and the signing of a schoolboy quarterback.

The transfers from Tampa, who will be eligible immediately since the school ropped NCAA Division 1 football, are James Frith, a 215-pound linebacker, and Greg Boston, a 220-pound tight end.

The schoolboy quarterback is Frank Cebello, a 185-pounder from Neward Academy of Livingston, N.J.

Rice now has filled its quota of 30 players permitted under NCAA and Southwest Conference rules.

Conover also announced that David Houser, a star freshman flanker last season, apparently will miss the 1975 season.

TEXAS TALK

Joe Dunn

After the Rough Riding was over, Teddy Roosevelt spent a lot of time making what he hoped would be remembered as profound statements. One of those is proving itself more every year ... "We cannot afford to lose that preeminently typical American, the farmer who owns his own land." Many theories abound. Robert Aubrey lists it as a manifestation of what he calls the "Territorial Imperative." Others observe simply that a man will work harder for himself than for someone else. Undoubtedly true, but another, immeasurable factor is involved ... pride. American farmers are proud to be able to each produce enough for themselves and 50 others. And they're smart. Smart enough to use the right portions of ecology, mechanization, chemical know-how and management to make the same land produce more every year. In 65 years production per acre has increased more than 620 percent. The Rough Rider was right, we can't afford to lose the family farmer.

STEER FOOTBALL

Progress On Upswing

With the completion of the first of three weeks of spring football drills, Big Spring High Head Coach Bob Burris feels progress is definitely on the upswing.

During the initial week's phase, the Steers were divided into offensive and defensive units. With this arrangement, concentration could be given to special areas. The two-platoon system was employed.

"We're in bettter shape physically than last year and the enthusiasm is real good," said Burris.

One main changeover was made, Frosty Reynolds, 6-1 205-pound sophomore, switching from tackle to center.

Burris was well pleased with the defensive capabilities of Ed Pekowski, 6-0, 185, nose guard; Tony Mann, 6-1, 190, tackle; Steve Wolf, 6-3, 190, tackle; Rusty Phillips, 5-11, 175, Johnny Birdwell, 6-1, 170, secondary; Tommy Churchwell, 5-10, 165, Steve Hughes, 5-11, 160, strong safety; and Randy Jones, 6-1, 160, Junior Mathews, 5-10, 155, cornerbacks.

Pekowski and Matthews are juniors, Wolf, Birdwell, Churchwell, Hughes and Jones are sophomores and Mann, a freshman.

First week's leadership was under the direction of Mark Stark, 6-1, 175, Ricky Watkins, 6-1, 185, linebackers, and Mark Moore, 6-3, 200, quarterback. All three are juniors.

The second week of practice Burris plans to spot players on both offense and defense. They include: Watkins, tight end: Starks, offensive center; Pekowski and Mann, offensive guards: and Reynolds, defensive tackle.

Also Monday and Tuesday, the Steers will be preparing for Wednesday's scrimmage at Webb AFB's Soccer field. Game time is 4:30 p.m.

Burris' coach staff includes: Rex Scofield, secondary; Bob Glover, offensive line; Ron Rogers, offensive back; Larry Horton, split-receiver; Tom Adams and Tommy Moss, defensive line; and Rod Carter, lineback.

Darrell Evans led off the 11th against Gene Garber, 1-2, with a single and was bunted to second by Dusty Baker. Mike Lum was intentionally walked before Williams singled to left.

BASEBALL WITH CUBA — Joseph D. Gebhardt, a Washington attorney, has been promoting for more than a year the idea of American baseball players flying to Havana for ball games with the Cubans. Gebhardt said that if that happens he wants to be in the bleachers.

Matches Record

WINTER PARK, Fla. (AP) — Houst5n McTear has blazed past grinding poverty and a ragged running style to reign today, at age 18, as the world's fastest human.

McTear became only the second man in history to run 100 yards in nine seconds flat, tying the world record set by Ivory Crockett 363 days earlier at a track meet in Knoxville, Tenn.

"I don't believe it," said McTear after matching history's fastest 100 yards in a preliminary heat of the Florida Class AA prep championship meet. "I thought I might be a 9.2, but I never thought I was going that fast."

The odds against McTear breaking away from his family's hardened poverty, much less an unexplored racing barrier, would seem astronomical. But today McTear, who lives in Milligan, a town too small to make the maps, is on the verge of reaching a speed never attained before.

McTear lives with seven other children of a part-time sawmill worker in a little shack at the end of a dusty dirt road in Okaloosa County. He began running five years ago when he joined the President's Physical Fitness Program.

McTear, a junior at Baker High, sometimes practices on the school's football field and other times on bare dirt adjacent to railroad tracks near his home.

But with his enormous talent, all that seems to have been left behind, just like his competition. He's "a born sprinter," says track star Mel Pender.

McTear, who shattered the national high school record of 9.3 with a 9.2 clocking last weekend in a qualifying meet, was recorded in 9.0 by all three timekeepers Friday. The wind gauge showed a reading of two miles per hour, well under the allowable 4.47 m.p.h. for official world record purposes.

Texas Junior Golf Planned

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. AP-The 49th Texas Junior Championship golf tournament will be played Aug. 12-15 at the Brackenridge Park course where it originated in 1927.

Tournament Director Frank Ward, the course's head professional, said the field will include 200 of the state's best 17-and-under amateurs. Any male golfer not yet 18 years of age by Aug. 11 who is a resident of Texas will be eligible.

He said the only entry fee is $2 at one of the 15 qualifying sites.

Qualifying sites and dates will be: San Antonio, July 22; Fort Worth, McAllen, Longview, Houston, Beaumont, Waco and Big Spring, July 25; Wichita Falls, Corpus Christi, Victoria and Austin, July 29, and Pampa, Dallas and Lake Jackson, Aug. 1.

The championship will be determined over 72 holes of play. Jeff New of Victoria won the 1974 championship.

Peking Seeks Entry

LONDON (AP) — The next two weeks could see the climax of Mainland China's snowballing campaign to get into the Olympic games and push out Taiwan.

The International Olympic Committee (IOC), at its annual congress in Lausanne May 2124, may be ready to vote on an application by Peking's All-China Sports Federation for recognition.

True to form, the Chinese have demanded that the IOC disown Taiwan at the same time. If they get their way, Chinese athletes could be competing in the Olympic Games at Montreal next year.

But first the IOC Executive, headed by the president, Lord Killanin, can expect to meet the Chinese face to face in Rome. Killanin and his Olympic inner cabinet are due to talk with the National Olympic Committees (NOCs) from all over the world in the Italian capital this week starting May 13.

Intensive diplomatic activity is certain. The Chinese will be there and their friends will plead their case.

Virtually all the Asian countries want to see Taiwan ousted and Mainland China in. The communist countries obviously would support that, and probably black African nations as well.

They argue that China, with 800 million people, has the largest population of any country in the world, and the Olympic movement is incomplete without it.

The IOC has waited two years for Peking to make a move. More than once the Chinese have reportedly said the IOC must go to them.

Killanin, who has declared publicly he wants to see China in the Games, said in an interview: "The great thing is that the Chinese have approached us at last.

"I can only predict one thing with reasonable certainty—they will not get an immediate rejection.

IOC rules say National Olympic committees must be "completely independent and autonomous and in a position to resist all political, religious or commercial pressure."

Good Will Tour Set

PRAIRIE VIEW, Tex. (AP) — A Prairie View A&M instructor, better known for her track exploits, leaves Monday for an 18-day good will tour of China.

It will include clinics to help the Chinese prepare for the next olympiad.

Debra Sapenter, Prairie View graduate is in her first year of teaching. She is instructing in freshmen English.

She will be in a contingent of about 100 on a good will trip sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Ms. Sapenter was the 1974 oustanding athlete of the Gulf Coast AAU.

She broke an American record of 52.2 seconds in the quarter-mile at the Outdoor Women's National Championships. It was also a world standard for the 440.

LAKE SPENCE

Yellow Catfish Biting Better

An old favorite was pushing his way back into the fishing news at Lake E. V. Spence, reports showed last week.

The venerable yellow catfish began to bite more regularly, and a new record for the lake was set when Bobby Warren and E. E. Ford, Lubbock, landed a 30¼-lb. cat. Phil Johnson and Jerry Barnes, Snyder, reported 18 lb. and 10-oz. and 20-lb. specimen.

White bass also were biting in increasing numbers, and there was not much letup in the number of sizeable striped bass. There were some good crappie catches, too.

Here are a few reports

Cadets Assigned For 'OJT' Work

AUSTIN — Twenty-one young men will have a taste over the next four months of what it's like to be a game warden for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

On May 7, the men reported to regular commissioned wardens for four months of "on-the-job training" as game warden cadets.

According to P&W law enforcement training supervisor Lynn Stanley, at the end of the period those recommended by field wardens and supervisors will be enrolled in the department's warden academy at Texas A&M University September 1 for another four months of classroom training.

"On-the-job training will give the cadets an idea of the duties and responsibilities of a warden before they commit themselves to school," said Stanley. "Hopefully the program will provide the Law Enforcement Division with an experienced and qualified officer upon graduation from the academy."

The cadets are issued uniforms but no firearms and assigned for the most part to coastal counties or inland counties with large bodies of water.

"During the summer months," said Stanley, "our law enforcement emphasis is on water safety and that's what the cadets will be doing. But of course during the fall and winter the next group of cadets will concentrate on game violations."

Sport Short

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New York Jets and the New England Patriots, two long-time rivals, will meet three times this fall — once in an exhibition game and twice during the National Football League season.

The Patriots announced Wednesday they would play the Jets Sept. 14 at Yale Bowl in New Haven, Conn., completing New England's six-game preseason schedule. The two teams also will play in New York Oct. 5 and in Foxboro Dec. 12.

FIRST BLACK 5-4A HEAD COACH

Grif Loves To Win

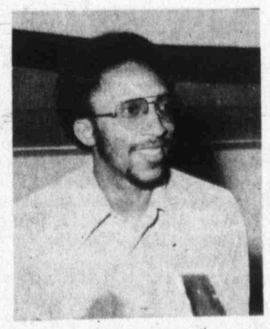
When next year's basketball season rolls around, history will be made when Big Spring's James Griffin becomes the first black head coach in District 5-4A.

Griffin replaces Ron Plumlee, who had the job for five years. The Hardin-Simmons graduate said, I've worked hard for everything I've done."

For the past two years, Grif, as he's called, guided the junior varsity basketball squad.

This past season, the Steer JV's were 16-10, finishing strong at the end. His JV five was 12-14 the first year.

Grif's attitude dwells on winning. With that thought in mind, he faces a stern challenge of molding a top-flight team from a 7-27 last season record.



JAMES GRIFFIN
Basketball Director

Only four Steer lettermen return with the nucleus coming from the junior varsity level. Grif feels the winning potential is there. "Certain players have to have a desire to win and it's up to the coach to find it," he added.

With his pleasing personality, Grif has a way to get his coaching point across to an athlete and for it to be absorbed. He's the last one not to become involved in a game.

Grif has such a unique way in communicating with athletes, he recruited several cagers for Howard College. His latest contribution was to get Cooper's Reggie Leffall to sign a letter of intent with the Hawks.

Before coming to Big Spring, Grif coached in Corpus Christi. He was a four-year letterman at East Side High in Cleveland, Miss.

Grif played two years of basketball at Harris Junior College in Meridian, Miss., before graduating from the Abilene school.

Sour Taste Still Felt

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Baseball lacks loyalty, according to Ken Aspromonte, who is fighting to rid himself of the sour taste left when he was ousted as the Cleveland Indians' manager after 1974.

The Indians had moved up two notches to fourth place in the American League East Division, and home attendance had nearly doubled.

Nevertheless, Aspromonte was fired and Frank Robinson was named his successor. Now, afte two decades in baseball, the 44-year-old Aspromonte is learning the hotel business at Caesar's Palace.

"It's been the first year out of baseball for me in 20 years and, to be honest, it is rather tough on me," said Aspromonte. "But after what I have gone through in Cleveland, it's going to take a pretty darn good deal for me to come back into baseball and leave what I have here."

After considering some baseball offers, Aspromonte accepted the suggestion of William S. Weinberger, president of Caesars Palace and a friend of 15 years, that he try the hotel business.

"That's what friends are for in life," he said. "When a fellow picks up a telephone and says, 'Kenny, you've done a great job in baseball, how about giving our organization a thought?' that's the kind of guy you can count on your fingers.

"That's what baseball doesn't have, loyalty. They should take care of the fellows who have been in the game 15, 20 or 25 years and are capable of holding a top job. If they are capable, keep them in baseball."

He believes Frank Robinson, his successor at Cleveland and the first black manager in major league baseball, "has to prove himself with his players."

"It's not so much knowing how to play the game," he said. "The thing is, you've got to know how to handle men. This is where the minor league experience is going to come into being, and that's what makes the good manager...the one that gets the best out of the players.

Aspromonte said the Cleveland general manager just brought in Frank Robinson as a player on Sept. 6, and everyone knew, including Robinson, that he was the next manager.

"We were in fourth place. We doubled our attendance from 600,000 to 1.2 million and had gone from sixth to fourth. The general manager (Phil Seghi) gives himself, with the okay of the directors, a two-year contract for a job well done, and then fires his manager."

Ken says his sour taste for baseball is for "just one team and one general manager." And although he misses the sport, he says he's doing well financially as a hotel executive.

Dade Still AA Leader

Paul Dade of the El Paso Diablos continues to lead the double-A Texas League in practically all batting categories as the league came near the end of it sthird week of play this week.

Leading in average (.493) in slugging (.985) in homeruns, seven in runs batted in (32) and tied for the lead in doubles with Dick Guerra of San Antonio, eight apiece.

In the rain-spattered week just concluded, Ryan Kurosaki with three wins and three saves in eight appearances has an earned run average of 0.00 to lead Texas League pitchers.

Richard Anderson leads the league in wins with four, and in strikeouts with 23.

Agriculture's Plight

Is the American farmer now prepared to make his way without a government umbrella? Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz thinks so. President Gerald R. Ford must think so too, since he vetoed the price supports bill passed by Congress.

The bill, although it would have had a life of only one year, would have increased federal price supports on major commodities, including wheat, corn and cotton. Increased support for dairy products also was included in the bill.

The federal government and the farmers have gone a long way together, beginning in the early Thirties and the Great Depression. The various agricultural measures passed by Congress in the Thirties saved farmers from bankruptcy. But with the Fifties, as government stockpiles of wheat, corn, cotton and dairy products grew, the programs of the Thirties no longer seemed relevant. The farmers were protected, but consumers were burdened not only with taxation to keep farmers in business, but were confronted with higher prices at the grocery store which the government programs ensured.

Yet Congress was loath to disturb the program, fearing the economic effect it might have on agriculture and the political retaliation that would follow at the polls. But the growing pressure from representatives from urban areas forced members of Congress gradually toward cutting back on price support programs. Then the problem of surpluses was solved by a series of crop failures or diminished yields in many parts of the world. Prices remained higher than government support guarantees and the problem was almost forgotten.

But the problem returned last year. Farmers were caught in a wringer by the catapulting price of fuel, farm implements and fertilizer. Ranchers watched while the price of beef on the hoof plummeted by more than one-half. The demand for protection of the farmer was heard again. The measure passed by Congress was the answer.

Who has the best of this argument? Is it the farmers, whose revenues have shrunk while their expenses rise? Or is it the administration which believes that the farmer can and should stand on his own feet?

There is much to be said for any sector of the economy standing on its own feet, but against this is the fact that agriculture is being made the whipping boy for some of the other parts of our society. It's all right to grant tax write offs to business to stimulate economy, but wrong to provide price supports; it's all right to rocket the costs for labor and markups of processors and distributors, but it's wrong to raise the prices for agricultural products. Something's not consistent.

Taxes For The Hungriest

Congress seems serious in its efforts to find a solution to the energy problem — or at least a formula for decreasing energy use. A comprehensive energy policy is expected to emerge soon from the House Ways and Means Committee.

An indication is given by tentative approval given in the House committee to a graduated federal excise tax on cars. Under this proposal 1977 model cars sold in 1976 would have a 10 per cent excise tax if they achieve fewer than 13 miles to the gallon. A car getting 14 miles to the gallon would be taxed at 8 per cent; 15 miles to the gallon at 6 per cent; 16 miles to the gallon at 4 per cent; 17 miles to the gallon at 2 per cent; and 18 miles or better to the gallon no excise tax.

During the past 10 years the automobile industry has given more weight to luxury rather than economy. Heavier engines, heavier bodies and frames, and more accessories brought weights which could not bring anything but lower gas mileage. Even today there are relatively few American models that can average better than 18 miles to the gallon.

The higher excise tax on hungrier cars may not deter some car buyers. But many Americans will opt for economy models if Congress passes the graduated excise tax proposal. That, along with the prospect for sharply increased gasoline taxes, will make the economics of a better-mileage car appealing.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Please give me your opinion on death. I think we'll remain in the grave till the day of resurrection. Some say I'm wrong and that the soul goes to God at death. M.A.

Death, which is a consequence of sin, comes to all. This, however, was not God's original plan — as Genesis 3 indicates. If man had remained obedient, he would not have returned to dust.

But now the answer to your question lies in the definition of man as God created him. Genesis 2:7 says man became a "living soul," that is, the real person is a never-dying spirit which goes on even after the body ceases to live. When we speak of resurrection, it refers to the body — never the soul.

The Bible says that through the Gospel, Christ brought to light the fact of immortality (2 Timothy 1:10). We need not fear then, as did people in the Old Testament, that death is the abode of darkness, of silence and of oblivion.

Paul makes it quite clear that "to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord" (2 Corinthians 5:8). He regarded death as a mere change in the mode of his being — like a change of residence or of a garment. What hopes the Gospel gives then for that which is otherwise man's most tragic prospect!

WATER CISTERNS

Where good well water or springs could not be found, one alternative water supply was the cistern. These water storage facilities were usually bell-shaped holes in the ground with a small neck at the top about three feet in diameter. The bottom part widened out to ten or twenty feet across. They were fifteen, sometimes twenty feet deep. The sides and bottom of the hole were sealed with cement plaster.

They were located near the house or some other building to catch the rain water that fell on the roof. Water was collected in roof gutters, went down a pipe into the cistern for storage. There was sometimes a frame of some sort above the opening which held a pully and rope for drawing the water out. An open bucket tied to a rope was lowered into the cistern, pulled out, and the water poured into another bucket which was taken indoors and kept there for household use.

There was a curb around the top of the cistern about three feet high and on it there was a cover or lid that could be put in place to protect the precious water supply from dirt and other foreign matter that might fall in. Some cisterns were above ground, nothing more than just water storage tanks but underground ones were better because they kept the water cool in the summer and prevented it from freezing in the winter. Some even had shelves or platforms built in them at various levels where things like milk and eggs could be stored and kept cool.

Cistern water had a distinctive taste, different altogether from well water. Some said, "It's t'only kinda water thats fitten to drank." To tell you the truth, I never really could develop a taste for it.

Cisterns were very important to the people who had to depend on them but when I was a child about the only thing that impressed me about them was that you could open the top and look in at your reflection in the water. You could (but you had better not get caught) drop pebbles in and watch as the circular ripples of water warped your face out of shape. You could yell down into one and it made all sorts of neat sounds.

WATER CISTERN

Runs Her Own Oil Firm

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — Just over two years ago, Charlotte Abell was in a cocoon, completely wrapped up in her husband, home, and children, all the things that consume an average woman's life.

Today, many crises later, she may be the only woman in Texas to run her own oil company.

HER SECOND VISIT to her husband's business office was four days after his death to take over as owner-manager.

As owner of Abell Oil Co., a jobber for Shell Products, Charlotte has "proven to myself that I could run this business when so many people said I couldn't."

She says she succeeded because she learned to make decisions and stick by them, to use a lot of common sense, to work hard at learning the business, and to deal honestly.

"I didn't know a thing about the oil business, bookkeeping or management when I took over. I just knew I was determined to do it and I wanted to get to work. I like to work and I'm not afraid to do it.

"My husband, Bill, had always said that if anything happened to him he wanted me to run the business. One advantage was that it was in good shape and he had good personnel."

FOR A WOMAN who didn't know how to run a calculator or how to allocate gasoline, just learning the business itself could have sent her back home.

"I just started digging in and I would take the books home with me at night. When somebody went on vacation I would fill in for them so I could learn their job, too. I wanted to learn everything immediately.

"I soon realized that was one of my problems. I was taking home my business problems and staying awake wondering if I had made the right decision or if I had spent money wisely. I found that it was consuming my office and home hours."

With three children, ages 12, 14, and 16, she had plenty to do at home. While she was making adjustments as a widow and a businesswoman, she also needed to help her children adjust to their father's death. Since her children come first, she decided to leave business problems at the office.

"It has worked out much better. I love my work and every day is a challenge and a lot of fun.

"I couldn't have done this job without help. Many times when I had a problem I would call up some of the friends my husband had dealt with and say, 'Look, I've got a problem, what should I do?'

PEOPLE are more than willing to help you in a bad situation. I had known many men in the oil business through my husband so many of those deal with now are not strangers."

She believes that men don't resent her and don't care who they deal with as long as one is fair and honest. Despite disheartening advice that she shouldn't take over the business, she has found that many men did have confidence in her.

"However, I felt like my word had to be my bond. I couldn't be wishy-washy."

The biggest challenge to her business ability and competence came during the gas shortage in the fall of 1973.

"When those dealers would walk into my office saying they were out of gas, it was a crisis. We were allocating just so much and it wasn't enough to take care of the gas people were buying.

Will Rebates Spark A Revival?

NEW YORK (AP) — Tax rebate checks, designed to stimulate the economy and end the longest recession since the Great Depression, began to leave Washington for American households this past week.

The first of an estimated 78 million checks ranging up to $200 per taxpayer were mailed Wednesday and Thursday to those who filed their 1974 tax returns early. About $8 billion in refunds is planned by June 15.

While the rebates are part of Washington's plan to get things moving again, there remained uncertainty whether taxpayers would spend the cash — as government economists desire — or will reduce debt or sink the money in savings accounts.

While all three choices will help the economy, spending the money will help it the most right now, economists say.

Lending credence to those who believe Americans would bank the checks were government figures which showed that consumer credit fell by a total of $462 million in March. It was the fourth decline in five months and the third largest on record.

A record $1.9 billion drop in business inventories during March encouraged economists, who feel the reduction is necessary before production can increase and layoffs end. But an even sharper drop in sales during the month could be even more troublesome if it continued, they said.

Wholesale prices, which had dropped four months running, turned around and posted an 18 per cent annualized gain during April, the government said. Higher food prices accounted for most of the rise.

In the auto industry spring remained elusive. General Motors said its supplemental unemployment benefit program was drv. cutting layoff compensation in half for some 55,000 workers. And American Motors Corp., like Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. the week before, announced a big loss in the quarter ended Mar. 31.

Henry Ford II at the Ford annual meeting predicted a profit for the automaker in the second quarter but said prices on 1976 models would probably rise between 3 per cent and 6 per cent. Last year they jumped 10 per cent.

From Pittsburgh, Gulf Oil Corp. kept the public guessing as to where it paid $4 million to keep an overseas oil operation going. Gulf disclosed the payoffs in Security and Exchange Commission testimony but left the country unidentified.

WEEK'S BUSINESS

- First checks in mail, to reach $8 billion by June 15
- Consumer credit decline hints individuals may save rebate
- Sales decline offsets whopping $1.9 billion inventory drop
- Another bad sign as wholesale prices turn up by 18 per cent

Stuttering - All-Age Problem

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 16 years old and I have a stuttering problem. I have stuttered since I can remember. My father stutters, and so does my brother. My father always reminds us about our speech defects.

There is a lot of tension in my family — parental dominance and pressure to achieve. I stutter greatly around my father because of the pressures on me. Do you have any advice? — M. S.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, who is 26 months old, is beginning to stutter. He has been talking for quite a while and is putting sentences together now. He doesn't stutter all words, but when he says "I" it happens. He stutters the first word of a sentence.

What causes this and what can we do to correct it? — Mrs. J. B.

Dear Doctor: My daughter never stuttered when she was little, but started in her teens. Now at 22, she stutters more. Is there any cure? — M. B. R.

Stuttering or stammering can start at any age, and I have used these three letters to point this out. The causes are not entirely clear. Some experts tend to suspect psychological causes, others neurological or other organic problems.

Boys seems more affected than girls.

There is a small distinction between stammering and stuttering. The former appears as a difficulty in pronouncing certain syllables wherever they appear. Stuttering is a repetition of initial letters.

M. S.'s letter strongly suggests psychological factors involved. In fact, it appears to be a classic set of circumstances — the parental pressures, the overstressing of achievement. The two brothers would do well to talk the matter out with the father.

Mrs. J. B., to ease her concern, should seek analysis by a speech expert but without making too much of a fuss over the matter. It might be nothing more than the precocious jibber-jabber associated with all early talkers.

The late onset of the problem in M. B. R.'s daughter suggests again psychological roots. Such problems usually disappear with time and appropriate attention, possibly in psychiatry.

Many readers ask me about the use of hypnosis in connection with these disturbances. It is not the answer. Adquate speech therapy or resolution of the emotional conflicts are the best approaches.

Many school districts have speech correction facilities as do most of the child guidance centers. All three writers can obtain further information about stuttering and other similar disorders from the American Speech and Hearing Association, 9093 Old Georgetown Road, Washington, D. C. 20014. Ask for a list of local branches across the country.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and phsically, by reading Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Way to Stop Constipation." For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 3999, Elgin, Illinois 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

TENNIS BUFFS tend to go overboard. When they want to play, they want to play. When something comes up to spoil their plans — be it rain, illness, unexpected company or a hurry-up call from the boss, they are upset and brood about it.

But the classic example occurred on a cold morning when a buff just leaving his house received a call from the wife of his favorite opponent.

"I'm sorry to break this news," she said, "but George cannot play tennis with you."

"Darn it," he replied. "It's a beautiful day and I sure was looking forward to it. Is he sick?"

"No, as a matter of fact, he died suddenly just after midnight. The mortuary people just left."

"Oh, that's too bad," he said. There was a slight pause, and then he said "would you like to play a couple of sets?"

THIS LITTLE joke is a sneaky way of asking:

Did you gaze upon that fat man resembling Cannon and wearing a sweat-soaked blue shirt and brown trousers, serving "cannon-balls" to that handsome hunk of a man, donned in crisp, white shorts at the Comanche Trail Park tennis courts last Sunday?

Yep, that physical fitness advocate and intrepid reporter John Edwards, lost 6-0, 6-0, 6-0 — then I removed my blue shirt and limped from the courts. After this report, I'm pretty sure there will be a return match. If I win I'll let you know.

MY CALCULATING cousin, Jimmy Ladd, says the dumbest thing that ever happened to him was when he was riding a subway and sitting on a newspaper and a man came over and asked:

"Hey! Are you reading that paper?"

Do you know someone who has conducted himself very well during a long public career, is loved by millions and must really be "something else?"

Bob Hope, that's who. And what a career that has been!

FRANKLY, I'D like to see him run for President. He wouldn't be the first comedian to hold the job, and in my opinion he's head and shoulders about anyone else likely to run.

Of course, some people might consider it a demotion. But it would be nice to have a man in the White House who would make us laugh instead of crying.

WHAT DO YOU suppose would happen if former President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam was put on a very strict diet which permitted only tea for Thieu?

EDITORIALS/OPINIONS

Turning Our Backs

William F. Buckley, Jr.

One of these days — too late to do any good, of course — there is going to be an investigation of the evacuation of South Vietnam and our handling of its refugees. I hope that investigation will be run by good men without political plunder in mind, though in these wretched days one wonders whether there are enough of these to constitute a substantial committee.

MY INFORMATION is that at the moment of maximum pressure, there were exactly two typists in whatever office in Washington concerned itself with refugees — two typists, hunting and pecking out authorizations for individual South Vietnamese who sought American help. Without the cabled form from Washington that emanated from one of these two ladies, no one in South Vietnam could get official access to U. S. facilities. Never mind if said person had worked for the United States in a most exposed position for years — as head, say, of counter-intelligence, or whatever.

There are stories now that individual South Vietnamese were told by gallant Americans with access to that escape hatch on top of the Embassy that they could get into a helicopter in return for two, five, ten thousand dollars. I would like to know if that is true, and I would like to see the pictures of the men who did that, so that they might be reviled.

ABOVE ALL, I would like to know why the United States fleet steamed off in the biggest show of moral funk in modern history. There are arguments (I find them unconvincing, but I respect the formal scaffolding on which they perch) that when it was clear that the North Vietnamese were in control of the mainland, our fleet should have retreated from Vietnamese waters, lest they end by engaging directly North Vietnamese shore batteries, or whatever.

But Vietnamese waters end 12 miles from land. Without violating any law at all, the United States could, if it were so minded, cruise its entire fleet 12 miles from the Vietnamese coastline.

IT HAPPENS that tens of thousands of Vietnamese, beginning a month ago when the great flight from Da Nang began, groped their way to anything at all that would float, and shoved themselves out to sea. While it is true that a large boat can sink in a mile-wide stretch of water, it is also true that a canoe can cross the Atlantic. The great flotilla of human flotsam that spilled out into the China Sea seeking help must, most of it, easily have reached the 12-mile limit. To what purpose? Only, one gathers, to see the backs of departing United States war vessels.

WHY DIDN'T we keep ships out there as long as there were men, women and children heading out to meet them? I suppose the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would have raised all hell if, let us say, we had attempted to interfere with North Vietnamese planes strafing the human cargo. But, after 12 miles, there was no question of poaching. Why were we not there? One can only imagine what the situation would have been like outside Dunkirk if the U. S. Task Force that operated the South Vietnamese evacuation had been in charge.

WHERE IS the gallant Sen. Kennedy, so very much concerned about refugees: so long as they are refugees from American bombing? Where was he last week, to show the consistency of his concern? He will, one learns, cooperate with private relief organizations. Since when did he lose his predilection for the public sector?

Only the International Rescue committee survives, with honor and ingenuity and steadfastness, the test: the IRC was everywhere, helping in every way. But a small private organization cannot have been expected to come up with a fleet of ships.

THAT'S TWO and a half times now, for America. The first was Operation Keelhaul, when we turned refugees back to the Russian Army where they were slaughtered by Stalin in 1945. Then, in 1953, we were apparently prepared to force North Korean prisoners of war to return to the north against their will: except that one night a brave old man went down to the camp, opened the gates, and freed the prisoners: for which act of human magnanimity we very nearly deposed President Syngman Rhee.

Newsprint Price Up

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — Southland Paper has increased its price of newsprint from $225 to $240 a ton, Palestine Herald-Press publisher Wayne Sellers said today.

Southland earlier this week refused to confirm its plans to increase the cost of newsprint sold to newspapers.

Sellers said he received a letter today from Bill Price, vice president of Southland, which said the increase is effective July 1.

Price's letter said the increased cost of newsprint was brought on by higher costs of raw materials, labor and energy above earlier estimates.

Price's letter said the company expects uninterrupted production for at least 2½ years because of recent stabilization of labor problems.

Price said Wednesday the price increase was a rumor and that he could not confirm it as fact.

"It is unfortunate that the price of our raw material has taken such a significant increase," said Sellers, president of the Texas Daily Newspaper Association. "The printed word cannot be disseminated without paper and if we continue to serve our subscribers we must be as efficient as possible in using our raw material and will undoubtedly be calling on our subscribers to help share the cost which has been passed on to us by the newsprint manufacturer. We have no recourse and can do nothing but pay the price...."

Southland maintains a mill at Lufkin where Lufkin News Publisher Thomas R. Meredith said, "Southland's Dec. 31 increase of $20 a ton and this latest $15 a ton can only result in increased costs of the newspaper to our subscribers and advertisers. Inflation is a vicious circle. Nobody wins and we all lose."

Daring Rescue

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — A former Army helicopter pilot took matters into his own hands to rescue his three stepchildren in the dying days of Saigon's fall.

Robert Masterson flew to Saigon by commercial flight last month to bring the three children of his Vietnamese-born wife to the United States.

"I stood in line at the U.S. embassy the better part of two days to get a letter of introduction to the South Vietnam Ministry of Interior," he said here. "The regular price for a passport is a couple of dollars. An official there quoted $1,000 each as the price. The corruption was much deeper toward the end."

When he complained to the U.S. embassy, he was told to come back in a week.

So, Masterson said, he hired a car and driver for an 85-mile trip to Vung Tau, a coastal resort city 85 miles east of Saigon where the children were with their grandparents.

He got through, picked up the children and was back in Saigon less than 24 hours before Vung Tau was cut off.

Masterson and the children were flown to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines, then to Guam and finally this past Tuesday to the refugee center at Ft. Chaffee, Ark.

Masterson's wife Phai, overjoyed at seeing her children — Tam, 9; Thuy, 7, and Lan, 6 — said the first thing they asked to do was see a zoo.

Masterson, who served in Vietnam as a helicopter pilot and then returned as a civilian contractor, brought his wife to this country for a visit 21 months ago, leaving her children by a previous marriage with grandparents.

Masterson accepted a job as a museum manager in San Francisco, and later transferred here.

Policing All In The Family

HOUSTON (AP) — Police work is not usually a job for the whole family but it has become that for John J. Orlando family of Houston.

Orlando, a robbery detective, is a 23-year veteran of the Houston Police Department.

His wife, Ruth, is a police radio dispatcher.

Two of their sons, Samuel, 24, and Michael, 21, are patrolmen.

Their third son, Stephen, 20, graduated from the Houston police academy Friday and became a patrolman.

Soviet Agent Says Oswald Held 'Unfit'

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to Soviet secret police files, Lee Harvey Oswald was considered mentally abnormal and possibly an American "sleeper" agent, CBS correspondent Dan Schorr reported Friday.

The files on the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy were allegedly brought to the United States by defecting KGB agent Lt. Col. Yuri Nosenko 10 weeks after the assassination on Nov. 22, 1963, Schorr reported on the CBS Evening News.

Schorr said an FBI interrogation of Nosenko, classified for the past 11 years, was available to the Warren Commission during its probe of the assassination, but said it was not cited in testimony by then CIA Director John McCone nor by Richard Helms, then a deputy director of the CIA.

Nosenko told the Americans that the Soviet secret police considered Oswald unfit to carry out any mission, Schorr said.

Awards Banquet Slated Friday Night At BSSH

The eighth annual awards banquet and program for Big Spring State Hospital employes will be held in the auditorium of the Allred Building at 7 p.m., Friday. Speaker for the affair, centered around the theme, "Bloom Where You Are Planted", will be humorist—philosopher Delbert Downing, Snyder. Downing, one of the most versatile speakers in the Southwest, was born on a farm. His love and respect for the land and for rural living seeps into his messages in a warm and often amusing way. He is the product of a one-room school, small elementary school and a small high school prior to entering Rice University on a football scholarship.

DELBERT DOWNING

Downing has been a chain store manager, Chamber of Commerce manager, a consultant of small communities and now is a member of a family that manufactures livestock feed. He has always found time to contribute to the community, especially young folk, in which he lives. He is an honorary member of Future Homemakers of America, a State Farmer, he holds the Silver Beaver award from the Boy Scouts of America, is an honorary Lion, an active Rotarian, a life member of the Jaycees. Presently he is serving as General Chairman of the Bicentennial and Scurry County Centennial which will be celebrated in 1976. He is past president of the Christian Men's Fellowship of the State of Texas and serves as an elder in his church.

Banquet awards will include: One memorial award, special awards, five commendation awards, four "Friend of the Hospital" awards, one Psychiatric Aide award, 66 service awards. Of this group, 38 have five years' service, 12 have 10 year's tenure, 11 have contributed 15 years of service and 5 have given 20 years of service.

William R. Williams, BSSH business manager, will serve as master of ceremonies for the banquet, which is dedicated this year to the Social Service staff and other helpers.

Wheelchair Grad Not Psyched Out

DALLAS (AP) — A wheelchair will carry Becky Topletz to the platform May 20 as she is graduated from Eastfield Community College.

Becky, now 25, received most of her high school education at home while confined to that chair. She didn't enter a classroom after age 8 until she enrolled at Eastfield in 1971.

She attended Ursuline Academy prior to an attack of rheumatic fever. After that she was taught by private tutors and at length received a diploma from Woodrow Wilson High School.

At Eastfield she maintained an A-minus average and founded the "Not Psyched Out Club" for handicapped students, an organization which has worked for removal of architectural barriers at state colleges.

At her request, college officials installed a hydraulic lift in the campus center, lowered water fountains in the hallways and removed locks from elevators to help make the campus more accessible to handicapped students.

"College actually has been easier for me because I received more instruction," she said. "Completing high school really was a do-it-yourself project with only one teacher for all subjects just three hours a week."

She plans to enroll at the University of Texas at Arlington for her junior and senior years.

Emergency Jobs Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every state would be guaranteed at least $25 million in federal funds for public works projects if a bill moving in Congress becomes law.

A $5-billion emergency public works bill designed to reduce unemployment was approved by the House Public Works Committee Thursday.

The committee approved an amendment by Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., requiring that 70 per cent of the bill's funds be spent on projects in areas where local unemployment exceeds the national average.

The measure would provide federal grants to the states for construction, repair or other improvement of local public facilities, including local highway projects. The money could not be used for projects already under construction.

The bill would allow states and localities to apply for 100 per cent financing of the projects. Alternatively, if the local governmental body already has contracted for a project under another federal program that requires matching funds, it could apply for those funds if it found it was unable to come up with money on its own.

Will Be Aired

Air conditioning at Marcy Elementary will again be a topic of discussion at the meeting of the Big Spring Independent School District board at their regular meeting at 5:15 p.m. Monday.

Other topics on the agenda include budget amendments for adult basic education and the work study summer program and data processing for financial accounting.

Re-employment of teacher personnel will be discussed in executive session.

Flier Throws His Fate To The Wind

By JOHN G. EDWARDS

A helmeted man harnessed to cloth wings stood on the cliff, ran off the edge and yelled.

He soared like the legendary Icarus and Daedalus. But the Dacron wings of Air Force Capt. Steve Gasper did not fall apart in the sunshine. Gasper landed unharmed at the foot of Scenic Mountain 20 seconds later.

"You feel llke an eagle up there, you can see so far," Gasper said. "As a matter of fact, it is just like Jonathan Livingston Seagull (a book about a bird who tried to do what other seagulls couldn't)."

"You can say it's more fun to fly a hang glider than it is to fly a jet," the T-37 pilot-instructor added.

Gasper has helped Dennis Wynne, park superintendent, formulate rules for hang gliding from Scenic Mountain in the Big Spring State Park.

Whether to permit hang gliding in a state park is left to the discretion of park superintendents, Wynne explained.

Here, hang gliders must sign a waiver of their right to sue if they are injured, have enough experience to fly from the cliff, have appropriate protective gear and attempt flight under proper wind conditions.

Gasper always obtains permission from the landowner before leaping from a hill with his aluminum-supported hang glider. Often, the landowner wants a signed release.

For beginners, Gasper recommends Rogallo style hang gliders like his which will parachute you to the ground if you stall trying to climb too fast. The cost of such aircraft runs from $350 in kit form to $1,000 factory assembled.

While experienced hang gliders have jumped from Pikes Peak, Gasper said novices should learn from small, gently sloping hills with the help of an instructor.

Paved roads, houses and power lines should not be near the flight area.

Gasper suggested a 10-mile-per-hour maximum wind speed, which he determines by using a hand-held wind gauge. The breeze should be blowing directly into the slope, allowing 10-degree tolerance in either direction.

"I think a guy has to be in good physical condition to do it," Gasper said.

Suspended by a strap from the glider, the airborne man shifts his weight to control his direction of flight and speed.

Climbing, of course, reduces your speed, and vice versa. "You kind of judge your flying speed by the lap of your sail," Gasper explained.

Gasper, who has been hang gliding for a year, said a sprain has been his worst gliding injury. He considers motorcycling more dangerous.

He had to conquer fear for his first flights from high hills. "It's like your first time on a Ferris wheel or a first time on a roller coaster," Gasper recalled.

Glider experiments in the late 1800s blazed the way for the sport. Then motor-powered aircraft caused a decline in hang gliding for a time.

In 1971, the Southern California Hang Gliding Association was created, a group whose name was changed to the United States Hang Gliding Association in 1973.

"I think in the near future it's really going to expand," Gasper said of the sport.

Garden Ceremony Is Performed Saturday

The wedding of Miss Jana Sue Dickenson to Gary Lee Hale was solemnized Saturday at 4 p.m. in a garden ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Hale, Rt. 1, Stanton.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dickenson, Rt. 2, Midland.

The wedding party stood before an archway decorated with greenery and spring flowers as the ritual was performed by the Rev. J. B. Shewmake, pastor of Tarzan Baptist Church.

Carrying a multi-colored bouquet of spring flowers, interspersed with gypsophila, the bride was attired in a long cream colored dress fashioned with crocheted camisole top and an A-line skirt of India cloth with lace inserts. A matching crocheted shawl completed the costume with which she wore a cream colored straw garden hat adorned with a side cluster of beige flowers.

Ms. Gaye Meek of Stanton was the bride's only attendant, and she was attired in a floor-length, peach-colored dress styled with square neckline and ruffle at the hemline. Her garden hat matched her dress, and she carried a bouquet of orange rosebuds, pink carnations and gypsophila.

The bridegroom's brother, Rodney Hall of Stanton served as best man, and ushers were Steve Klein and Jimmy Walker, both of Stanton.

Prior to leaving on a trip to Lubbock, the couple was honored with a reception in the Hale home. The refreshment table, covered with a cloth of white linen with lace inserts, was centered with an arangement of yellow spring flowers. Assisting at the table were Miss Cindy Darden, San Angelo and Mrs. Marty Cooper, Midland. Miss Cheryl Dickenson of Stanton presided at the guest register.

Hale, who attended Stanton High School, farms with his father near Stanton. Mrs. Hale is a SHS graduate.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday evening in the Bonanza Restaurant at Midland.

Garden Pests Subject Of Program

Identifying garden pests, and what to do about them, was explained by Mrs. Lavelle Hill in a program for Planters Garden Club Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Luke Fortenberry, 1207 Lloyd.

Mrs. Hill said the first thing is to identify the pest. There are two kinds, the "chewers" and the "suckers." After identification is made, effective steps can be taken to combat the pest. Insecticides destroy bugs, and fungicides battle diseases. Some chemicals used for one purpose may be injurious in other ways.

Mrs. Frank Wilson presided for the brief business session, appointing a committee to audit the club books. It was reported that club members provided 12 dozen cookies for the state hospital in April.

The next meeting, a covered dish luncheon, will be held at 12:30 p.m., June 6 in the home of Mrs. Lester M. Utz, 2405 Allendale Road.

Brunch Held For Graduate

A surprise brunch honoring Miss Wannah Rybolt, a graduating senior at Big Spring High School, was held Saturday in the home of Mrs. Don Baker, 2612 Lynn Drive. Assisting Mrs. Baker as hostess was her daughter, Sharon.

Quartet tables were covered with checked gingham cloths and centered with spring bouquets. Special guests included the honoree's mother, Mrs. Bob Rybolt; her grandmother, Mrs. Maggie Cross; and her sisters, Mrs. Geary Underwood and Reneah Rybolt.

Miss Rybolt plans to attend Howard College of Big Spring in the fall.

10 Most Often Made Mistakes In Recipes

By SHERRY MULLIN
(County HD Agent)

Have you had a recipe fail lately? It may have been because you made one of 10 common cooking mistakes.

Misunderstood cooking terms: "Folding" is a gentle motion used when combining white sauce mixture into egg whites for a souffle, for example. "Beating" the two would cause the souffle to have low volume and thick texture. Check a cookbook for definitions of terms if you have doubts.

Not preparing ingredients in advance: Chop, cut and otherwise prepare and organize ingredients before you start to mix. For example, an egg custard can stick to the pan if you stop stirring to search for an ingredient from the cupboard.

Inaccurate measuring techniques and equipment: Standard measuring spoons and cups are different sizes than your tableware. A cake can fall because measurements were not standard and-or level.

Substituting key ingredients: Substitutions should rarely be made, especially by inexperienced cooks. Consult your cookbook for suitable substitutions if they are necessary.

Changing pan sizes: Using the wrong pan size can cause overbaking or underbaking of cakes or quick breads. Also, food may run over or may not rise to the top of the pan.

Adding ingredients in improper order or at unspecified times: Milk in a caramel candy recipe can curdle if it is added too soon and too quickly. A thin lemon pie filling can result from adding lemon juice before cooking rather than after.

Incorrect oven temperature: Too high temperatures result in cracked or peaked cakes or biscuits that aren't high. Too low temperatures result in cakes that have not risen properly or pale muffins. Proper oven temperatures always are critical in baking.

Not checking for "doneness": Oven and surface units vary, and food should be checked before the time suggested by a recipe, even when a time range is given.

Unreliable recipes: Recipes passed from one person to another often fail to explain a step or give exact measurements and so may result in a disappointing product.

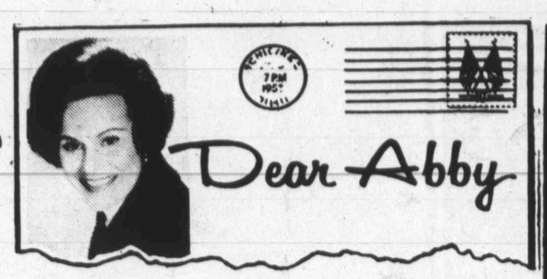
Not reading a recipe before cooking: People often start cooking without reading the recipe all the way through, only to find they are missing a key ingredient or utensil. Read recipe, collect ingredients, then start cooking.

Toes Hose Is Newest Look

COLLEGE STATION — Latest look for legs and toes is the "toes hose," Marlene Odle, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, reported this week.

These are 100 per cent acrylic knit knee-high socks with individual multi-colored toes. Stripes and argyle prints are most popular, she said.

"Lovers of this fancy legwear don't have to give up the fashion for warmer weather either," the specialist said.



Mormons Wouldn't Like This Type Of Member

DEAR ABBY: I work in an office. Our boss is a Mormon and will not allow any of us to smoke, drink coffee or tea, or swear.

The smoking and swearing restrictions I don't mind, but I do resent not being able to have coffee in the office during breaks from the hectic pace of our business.

The nearest cafe is 15 minutes away, so going there for a cup of coffee is out of the question.

Does the Mormon church condone this kind of pressure on non-members to conform to its beliefs? I don't question my boss's reasons for abstaining himself, but his demand that I do so too doesn't seem fair to me.

Meanwhile, this boss thinks he is being morally righteous by preventing us from drinking coffee in the office, but he is carrying on a not-so-secret affair with his secretary. Both of them are married. Does that mean, according to his religion, that I can't drink coffee, but I can still have extra-marital sex?

DON'T USE MYNAME

DEAR DON'T: Your boss is speaking only for himself and not the Mormon church, which stresses that each individual has a right to his own beliefs. Your boss's behavior shows him to be not only a poor boss but also a poor Mormon. NO church condones adultery!

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor, who thinks she knows everything, saw Joshua, my 3-year-old son, playing with his big sister's doll. He was cuddling it, rocking it and treating it in a very tender way.

This neighbor told me that I should not permit Joshua to play with dolls because it might make a homosexual out of him.

Joshua also plays with cars and trains, but occasionally he plays with his sister's dolls, and I don't see anything wrong with it.

Once, when Joshua put on my high heels and pretended to "go shopping" with one of my old purses over his arm, this neighbor told me that if I didn't discourage this kind of play, Joshua might grow up to be a transvestite.

Is she right?

JACKSON STREET

DEAR JACKSON: No. There's no reason why little boys shouldn't cuddle dolls. One day he may become a father, and babies need cuddling from fathers, too.

And as for Joshua dressing up in your clothes, don't worry about it — unless he persists in this habit, goes in for makeup and does it on the sly.

DEAR ABBY: Nearly every time I invite my boyfriend over for dinner, he plops himself down in an easy chair right after he finishes eating and falls fast asleep.

He works 10 hours a day and is 43-years-old. (I'm 42 and put in a good day's work, too, but I'm not all pooped out right after dinner.)

I've been tolerant of this habit of his for two years, but I have had it. Don't you think he is being selfish and unfair?

We discussed it, and he says I should wake him up and keep him awake. I say if he's that tired or sleepy, he should excuse himself and go home.

He says he loves me, but do you think a man can really love a woman and fall asleep in her face nearly every night?

FULL OF DOUBTS

DEAR FULL: It's possible. Don't awaken him, and don't chastise him. Insist that he have a complete physical checkup.

If he's all right, rejoice! It's proof that he is completely relaxed and at ease in your company.

Art Auction Today To Aid Permian Ballet

The Permian Civic Ballet Association will host a public art exhibition and auction this evening at the Ranchland Hill Country Club, Midland. All proceeds of the art auction will be used for the benefit of the Civic Ballet's Maintenance Fund.

Everett Bingham, president of the Permian Civic, promises "an exciting evening," to which everybody is invited. The exhibition opens at 6:30 p.m.

The art auction includes signed lithographs, etchings, oils, watercolors and other art works by Marc Chagall, Salvador Dali, Charles Bragg, and other world famous artists, collected by Graphic Art Galleries, Ltd., of Los Angeles.

An art work will be given away as a free door prize and refreshments will be served. The donation will be $10 per couple and is tax deductible.

Mrs. Thurston Dean, chairman of the event, said the art pieces to be auctioned are "real" art — not imitations or copies. They will be auctioned "at moderate prices by an art expert and the successful bidder will be receiving great art at auction prices." All the art is suitable for home or office.

Bingham said it is the first such benefit fund-raising event the Permian Civic Ballet has held, and a good attendance is anticipated.

Assisting in the program is Mrs. Byrne O'Neill, who is in charge of the reception, while hostesses will be Mrs. Robert Halvorsen, Mrs. Wayne Westerman and Mrs. William Shaw. Financial arrangements for the art will have Mrs. Wes Perry Jr., Mrs. Lyle D. Eberly and Mrs. Jack Hall in charge.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — According to a well-known Fresno restaurant owner, tradition was that if the service was good the waiter was left a tip. But, he says, things are changing.

The patrons instead of tipping are now leaving with parts of the table settings. He said the customers take about everything easily removed.

MRS. TOM SORLEY

Couple United In Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sorley are on a trip to Dallas following their wedding Friday evening in East Fourth Baptist Church, with the Rev. Eddie Thibodeaux, pastor, officiating. From Dallas, the couple will go to Lincoln, Neb., where the bridegroom is attending Nebraska University. Their address will be 1111 E. St., Apt. 4, Lincoln, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Sorley are graduates of Big Spring High School. She attended Columbia Secretarial School and is now employed at Commonwealth Electric Company in Lincoln.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Sorley, 2501 Larry, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Dewees, 4200 W. Hwy. 80.

The altar setting was enhanced with arrangements of red and pink carnations and candles. Mrs. Karen Standifer, pianist, accompanied the vocalist, Miss Carol Boyd.

The bride's gown, designed in an A-line silhouette with raised waistline, was of white sheer fabric. The bodice featured a high collar of Chantilly lace and long bishop sleeves with deep cuffs appliqued with lace. Matching lace formed a V on the bodice and formed trim on the flared skirt and chapel-length train. Her headpiece was a Camelot cap of Chantilly lace, dotted with seed pearls, which held a lace-edged veil of illusion.

Pink formal gowns were worn by the maid of honor, Miss Leigh Jones, and the bridesmaids, Miss Druanne Priddy and Miss LeAnn Brazel.

Tim Dunn was the best man, and groomsmen were Scott McEwen, Ronald McKee and George Andrews II, the latter of Lincoln, Neb. Serving as ushers were Gene Louder, Stanton; Kelvin Clark, Odessa; and Randy Tonn. Kayla Tonn was the flower girl.

The reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church, with Mrs. Ricky Steen, Miss Susan Blassingame, Miss Amy Holloway and Miss Patti Fitts serving refreshments.

Attending from out of town was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Campbell.

That old wive's tale that pork is hard to digest has been disproved many times by modern nutritional scientists. Pork, like all meat, is virtually completely digestible. Its protein is used for both tissue growth and maintenance. Pork makes may other contributions to good nutrition. It's the most valuable natural source of thiamin and generously contributes other B vitamins and important minerals such as phosphorus and iron.

Raw Violence OK; Bare Breasts Not?

DALLAS (AP) — The movie "Horror High" shows a pupil using a paper cutter to cut off a teacher's arm.

The Dallas Motion Picture Classification Board has rated it "suitable" for young persons.

The same board judged "Paper Moon" as "not suitable" because its 10-year-old costar used a four-letter word.

The 20-member board, of which two members have not attend movie screenings, is divided on what is acceptable for viewing and what isn't.

Priorities seem to be the center of the issue. Is the clever and graphic depiction of blood and gore more palatable than speaking a four-letter word, or the sight of a bared bosom?

Not according to board member Lupe Gonzales.

The movie "Towering Inferno" has actor Steve McQueen saying what some board members call the "'s' word." The board considered the movie questionable for that reason.

"I told them if I was stuck in a burning building I would use that word," Miss Gonzales said. "What bothered me was watching all those people burning to death."

She is the only board member under 30 years of age. The board is appointed by the City Council.

"We gave 'Horror High' a suitable rating, but it was suitable with exceptions so parents could know it had violence in it. You see, there were some Dallas Cowboys football players in it and you know how kids are about the Dallas Cowboys. They would be sick if they couldn't see it," one board member said.

"But 'Paper Moon' had a little girl saying that word. It would make other little girls think they should do the same thing. Besides, she also stole in that picture. It had no redeeming social value," the member added.

Some board members argue that violence appears in the newspapers and on television news programs, that children are exposed to it constantly and therefore are not shocked by it. It is, they argue, a fact of life—reality.

But others on the board ask: Sex is a fact of life; is it also reality? So why is violence an acceptable fact of life and sex a sin?

Board vice chairman Mitchell Ransansky, in his 30s, says he is probably the group's most conservative member.

Ransansky kept count of what he considers obscene words in the some 500 films reviewed by the board last year. He does not utter the words, referring instead of how many "f-words" or "s-words" appear in a movie.

In one picture, "Aloha Bobby and Rose," Ransansky said the "obscene language was unbelievable. Every other word was a four-letter word. Ten board members came to that screening and I couldn't believe it when four of them actually voted the film suitable with exceptions. There were no exceptions. It was obscene.

Rasansky described a scene from the movie "Jaws" in which a shark is shown eating a little boy "and there is blood all over the place."

Rasansky said such a scene is more acceptable than four-letter words.

He said he was "awake all night worrying about" the four board members who had approved of "Aloha Bobby and Rose."

"If these are the morals of this board I think we are going to have to disband," he said.

Board member May Sebel disagrees. "Parents who don't think their kids are hearing those words or that those words aren't used a lot today are burying their heads in the sand. Our job is just to let parents know what is in a film...." she said.

Herman Holland, a retired schoolteacher and principal, said, "Whether we like it or not, that happens to be language that people are using today. The kids use it themselves. It doesn't mean to them what it meant to us when we were growing up. That's life and we are going to have to accept it."

There are four clergymen on the board—which critics say is too many ...not a balanced representation of the population.

Miss Gonzales said, "Half of the board is made up of women and yet I think there are only two of us who work. They are not representative. We are not here to legislate morals."

Two members never attend screenings, she said.

Bishop C.C. Berry of the General Assembly of the Church of the Living God said, "I work. I can't get to those meetings because they are at funny times." He said, however, he has no plans to resign.

Mrs. Val James said the board should have censorship powers.

"I have heard enough about freedom. We should take films like 'Shampoo' and get them out of the city limits. If people want to see them let them go outside the city to do it," she said.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

Outdoor Advice In Books

By SUSAN CONLEY
Children's Librarian

When school closes at the end of May, many boys and girls will take advantage of the summer vacation to participate in sports.

Hiking, swimming, boating and bicycling are popular ones.

If you are a beginner at one of these sports, there is information at the Howard County Library to help you get going.

"Tennis" by Helen Jacobs explains the rules and the basic shots of the game.

"Good Times on Boats" by Will Hayes discusses different types of boats and has a glossary of boating terms.

For young people who are already into a sport, there are books that can offer tips on improvement.

"Ride Your Pony Right" by F. Devereux and "Horsing Around" by E. Radlauer offer advice on grooming and showing your horse. They also explain how to achieve the various gaits.

Whether a boy or girl is just learning or is already experienced at a sport, it is wise to know and follow safety rules.

All bicyclists should read "Bicycling" by Charles Coombs to find out the rules of the road and proper care of the bicycle.

Swimming is another sport that can be disastrous if certain water safety rules are ignored. "No Pushing, No Ducking" by Barbara Rinkoff is the story of Jennie and Tom who sometimes are careful and sometimes careless.

Hiking involves more than just putting on a pair of shoes and walking on a trial. A hiker must know the right kind of shoes to wear, what to pack and what not to pack. A knowledge of trail hazards and trail manners is also useful. "The First Book of Hiking" by C. W. Harrison tells each of these.

Have fun this summer and remember, the Howard County Library can help make summer a safer and more rewarding exprience.

Snidely Foon Fields TV Violence Questions

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As we all know, the networks next season will air shows suitable for "family viewing" in the first hour of their evening schedules. It's a noble attempt to reduce the amount of TV violence.

Originally, the "family" rule applied only to entertainment shows. But in an effort to further tone down violence on TV, the networks now plan to apply it to their coverage of major sports events at night.

That's the word from Snidely Foon, a TV observer who says he learned of the new plan from a network censor. He said pro football will be the first sport directly affected by the family viewing rule for sports.

"There is to be no blocking or tackling shown on TV until 9 p.m.," Foon said. "If it happens, the networks are to show excerpts from 'Mister Ed' until the violence abates.

"And if the teams persist in blocking and tackling during the family viewing hour, Howard Cosell is supposed to ignore the game altogether and interview himself until 9 o'clock."

Foon said baseball won't pose too many problems.

"It doesn't have much violence, although the networks have been told to cut to a picture of Kate Smith when it appears a runner may wipe out the second baseman during a double play," he said.

The problem of hockey, where fights always occur, "is being resolved by only televising the games of nice teams," he added.

Foon said the matter of fouling in basketball is being handled "by requiring the players to say 'May I have the ball, please?' until normal play resumes at 9 o'clock."

Does the family viewing hour signal the end of boxing telecasts early at night?.

"Not at all," Foon said. "The networks are telling the boxers not to strike each other until 9 o'clock. They may dance about and glare a bit at each other, but no hitting.

"If there are fisticuffs before 9, the network covering the bout will only show Myron Floren playing his accordion until the family hour ends."

Muhammad Ali and George Foreman are believed pleased with this new arrangement, Foon confided.

Then he was led away by a big man in a white jacket.

LOOKING AHEAD — McLean Stevenson, who recently quit his role as camp commander in "MASH", poses with Cher during a rehearsal of Sunday's show. Stevenson who says he probably is giving up a million dollars in residuals by leaving "MASH" explained "Now I want to see what I can do on my own."

Death Awaits You; Read To Be Ready

By SUSIE RITZ
Of County Library

Death is the only thing in life that is absolutely sure.

Poets have claimed it to be the great equalizer, and it is totally nondiscriminatory. As sure as everyone is of death it, nonetheless, often comes as a terrible shock to those who are left behind.

The Howard County Library has many books which deal with aspects of death. The books range from those spotlighting the spiritual outlook of death to those dealing with legal considerations.

"Love Must Not Be Wasted" by Isabella Taves is an optimistic look at the job of picking up the pieces and starting over. The book offers an emotional look at handling the depression which follows the sorrow at the loss of a loved one.

Edgar N. Johnson's "Telling a Child About Death" gives tender advice on how to gently acquaint a child with the facts of death.

Elizabeth Kusler's "Questions and Answers on Death and Dying" frankly discusses some of man's most intense fears of death. It also discusses why man has these fears.

On the financial side of the question, N. F. Dacey's "How to Avoid Probate" offers tips and guidelines on the practical way to avoid having one's estate reduced by probate taxes.

U.S. News and World Report's Money Management Library has published the book "Teach Your Wife to Be A Widow".

Fems Do Great, Flunk One Test

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Air Force officials who used women as instructors for male basic recruits at Lackland Air Force Base have cancelled the three-month experiment.

Part of the reason, they said Friday, is that male trainees don't like female instructors showing them how to fold underwear.

Lackland officials said the women instructors did well in all areas except teaching dormitory living and relating to the male recruits' personal problems.

Winds, Hail, Flooding Damage Crops In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Severe weather in central portions of the state last week brought high winds, hail and flooding that damaged some crops, Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

Harvesting of small grains and flax is active over South Texas but most yields are off because of dry weather, he said. Some oats are being baled for hay instead of being harvested for grain.

Vegetable harvesting is increasing in the Rio Grande Valley and in the San Antonio-Winter Garden area, Hutchison said. Some cantaloupe harvesting has started in the Rio Grande Valley.

CORN PLANTED

Range and livestock conditions are improving over Texas except in extreme southern areas, Hutchison said. Some cattle losses are occurring in Zapata, Starr and Webb counties because of malnutrition. Screwworms are spreading over southern counties and have started moving northward. The first screwworm case of the year in Llano County was confirmed last week.

District agricultural agents gave these reports:

Panhandle: Corn planting is nearly complete. Most sunflowers are coming up to a stand. Irrigated wheat looks good. Dryland wheat needs rain. Weevils are damaging some alfalfa.

South Plains: Corn planting is complete on irrigated land. Dryland farmers are waiting on planting moisture. Deep moisture is adequate over the area. Onions and potatoes are making good growth.

Rolling Plains: Weevils continue to damage some alfalfa. Sorghum planting remains active. Only a few acres of cotton have been planted. Planting moisture is needed in several counties.

North Central: About half the cotton acreage remains to be planted. Peanut planting has started. Planting of hay crops continues. Pasture and livestock conditions have improved.

OATS BALED

Northeast: Some corn is being replanted because of poor stands and weather damage. Small grains are heading. Many farmers are applying fertilizer to boost hay production. Grazing and livestock conditions are improving.

Far West: Cotton is being planted on irrigated land but many dryland farmers need planting moisture. The first cutting of alfalfa is making good progress. Livestock conditions are generally good.

West Central: Planting moisture is needed in some counties. Small grains are heading. Some oats are being baled for hay. Livestock have average grazing in most counties.

Central: A few western counties still need moisture. Grain prospects are generally good. most of the cotton crop has been planted in Bell County. Cotton planting is 55 per cent complete in Hill County, 75 per cent complete in Falls County and 85 per cent complete in Navarro County.

East: Some cotton and corn will have to be replanted because of damaging weather. Small grains need open weather. Forage and livestock conditions continue to improve. The calf crop is making good progress.

VEGETABLES

Southeast and Upper Gulf Coast: From 5 to 10 per cent of the cotton, corn and sorghum acreage remains to be planted. About 15 per cent of the rice crop is still to be seeded. Pastures and ranges are making good growth.

South Central: Field crops, vegetable gardens and hay pastures are making good growth. Some cotton and sorghum remains to be planted. Pecan trees are setting a good crop.

Southwest: Most crops, pastures and ranges are making good progress but more moisture is needed. Small grain harvesting is active with yields generally below average. Vegetables are doing well. Some early peaches are being harvested.

South: Moisture conditions have improved in the Coastal Bend but the western and southern portions of the area are still dry. Harvesting of small grains and flax is active. Flax yields are from 7 to 17 bushels per acre. The potato harvest is in full swing in Willacy County. Cucumbers are being harvested in Brooks County. The cantaloupe harvest has started. Screwworm cases are increasing.
