Empty cotton trailers outnumber those waiting to be ginned on Wellington gin yards this week as cotton harvest winds down.

Cotton Ginnings 26,800 Bales, Little in Field

Not much cotton is left in Collingsworth fields, although growers did not reach the goal of having the entire crop in by January 1.

Reports of gin managers show the county has ginned approximately 26,800 bales for the 1980 season.

On Tuesday morning, the price broke and dropped the limit of 200 points (2 cents per pound). "We don't know what caused it to break," said J.N. Glasgow of Farmers Co-op Gin. Little cotton sold Tuesday.

The price of cottonseed remained firm at $120 per ton.

Robert Barjenbruch, manager of the Wellington Gin, said all buyers quit their buying Tuesday after the price dropped.

"The market has been wild this year, like a yo yo, up and down." He believes the "Buyers will let the market settle before they resume activity."

Grover Graham of Davis Gin, Dodson, observed the break from the standpoint of years of experience as a gin manager.

"Cotton ordinarily does some funny things around the new year," he said. "I don't feel so shook up about it right now. I've seen a lot of things happen at the first of the year to cotton."

On the other hand, he estimated that not more than half his customers have sold all their cotton.

Davis Gin will receive only a few more bales, Graham said. The grade of the cotton is bad, but staple and mike are holding up.

With the season ending, this veteran gin manager, is already looking toward the 1981 crop. He hopes it will be better.

Glasgow said the 1980 crop is coming to an end pretty fast. A lot of times you gin more than you think you will when you're almost finished, he said.

Among customers of the Farmers Co-op Gin, the grade is varying. "Almost everyone is ready to get it over with and get started on another crop," he said.

Most of the irrigated cotton in the Wellington area made around a bale per acre, Glasgow reported.

Both Glasgow and Barjenbruch said the staple on

The Tax Man Cometh

A complete appraisal for tax purposes of all property in Collingsworth County will begin January 1.

Appraisers will begin the job of checking each house and building and evaluating each farm in Collingsworth County.

Doing the appraisal is

Troy Sloan, Inc. of Spearman, a professional property tax service.

The reappraisal is the result of Senate Bill 621 (the "peveto" bill) which mandated valuations at 100% of market value and the use of one valuation by all taxing entities in the county by 1982.

The Collingsworth County Tax Appraisal Board hired Sloan to reappraise the county in 1981 and the board set up the Chief Appraiser's office, staffed by John Duncan, chief appraiser, and Verne Barton, secretary which has already begun operation.

Sloan has been doing paperwork on the project for the past several months, and his firm will now begin field work.

"On housing we will be checking the dimensions, type of construction, quality and condition of the house," Sloan said. In areas of the county where maps and cards exist, Sloan will update existing documents. In areas where there are no such records, the appraisers will work from scratch.

Both Samnorwood ISD and Wellington ISD had extensive records which will be used in the appraisal.

"Each of our appraisers will carry an identification signed by Chief Appraiser John Duncan," Sloan said. "And we want homeowners to ask for the identification card if anyone knocks on their door seeking information on your property."

"We like to talk to property owners about the condition of their home to allow a more accurate appraisal," Sloan said, "but

Fund Begun for Jeffery Hiatt Medical Costs

A fund to help defray medical expenses of Jeffery Hiatt, 4, has been set up at both Wellington State Bank and City State Bank.

Jeffrey was diagnosed this week as suffering from acute leukemia.

He is currently undergoing treatment at Wadley Research Center in Dallas.

He is the son of Gary and Waileen Hiatt.

Maxwell Selects Staff Of Sheriff's Department

Sheriff-elect Kenneth Maxwell this week announced names of the deputies, jailers and dispatchers who will staff the Collingsworth County Sheriff's department.

A majority have served with the retiring sheriff John Rainey, who did not seek re-election.

Ray Akemon will be chief deputy.

He retired from the U.S. Army after a 23-year active duty career. He worked in law enforcement in Oklahoma before moving to Wellington to become a deputy on Rainey's staff.

Other deputies are Billy Gilbert, Kim Wauer and Gene Denton.

Kenneth Martindale, principal of Samnorwood High School, will continue as a part-time deputy.

N.E. Childers is the new chief jailer, and G.T. Owens, Jr., is jailer. Both men have experience in law enforcement, Childers as a deputy sheriff and Owens as a city officer. These are newly created posts.

Maxwell named Winnie Bell chief dispatcher and secretary, a continuation of her present duties. Other dispatchers-jailers are Melodeze Wauer, Robin Rainey and Robert Wolf. Mrs. Bell, Childers and Owens are certified officers, in addition to being jailers and dispatchers, Maxwell said. "I'm real proud of the rest of the staff and the new people. We'll strive for it to be real efficient," said the sheriff-elect.

Maxwell comes into the office with 8 years experience in law enforcement, all at Hereford. He was with the Texas Department of Public Safety 5 years and a deputy sheriff of Deaf Smith County three Born and reared at Quail, he graduated from high school in 1950 and later the DPS Academy. He noted that the school he attended for newly elected sheriffs came just 25 years after he attended the academy.

He is married to the former Flora LaDell Chandler, a registered nurse, now director of nurses at Collingsworth General Hospital.

They have two sons, Ken Maxwell, Jr., of Abilene, an employee of Pride Oil

New Hospital Administrator Begins Work January 1

Collingsworth General Hospital board hired a new administrator, S.J. "Sut" Braselton, 42, who will begin work officially on January 1.

The hospital has been without an administrator since Morris Barcroft resigned from the job on November 3. Judy Naylor has been acting administrator in the interim.

Braselton has been assistant administrator and head of laboratory and x-ray at Richards Memorial Hospital in Paducah since 1978.

Braselton grew up in Roaring Springs and graduated from Roaring Springs High School. He is a graduate of the Gradwohl School of Laboratory and X-Ray Technique in St. Louis.

He was lab and x-ray technician and assisted in administration at Stanley Hospital in Matador from 1958 through 1966. From 1966 through 1968 he was in private business in Corpus Christi and from 1968 through 1975 he was assistant administrator at Doctor's Hospital in Corpus Christi. From 1975 through 1978 he was associated with Motley General Hospital in Matador and was also in private business there.

Braselton is married to the former Karen Jenkins and they have two sons, Steven James, 21, who will be a student at Clarendon College during the spring semester, and Jeffrey Hal, 19, who is studying electronics at Texas State Technical Institute in Amarillo.

The Braseltons have already moved into the administrator's quarters at the hospital and Braselton worked here one day earlier this week.

The board set Braselton's salary at $1500 per month, the same pay the former administrator was receiving.

$500 Gift Made To X-Ray Machine

Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Emmert of Los Angeles, Calif., have made a gift of $500 to the x-ray fund of Collingsworth General Hospital.

Emmert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Emmert, grew up in Collingsworth but has lived away from here almost 40 years, since he entered the armed forces in World War II.

Wishing to make a gift to some worthy organization in Wellington, he called Mrs. Emmert to inquire. She suggested the x-ray fund.

In sending the money, he said that "my people still live there and I want to

1981: Economic Regrouping Period, Says Babson

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., December 24, 1980.

A year ago, our forecast for 1980 predicted that the American economy would experience a recession, the main thrust of which would be felt early in the year. Technically speaking, however, the generally accepted definition of an economic recession was not fulfilled. That is, the "real" gross national product (the GNP stripped of inflation) did not experience two consecutive calendar quarters of negative readings. However, the massive second-quarter 1980 slump (down nearly 10%) suffered by the gross national product in terms of 1972 dollars, and miniscule growth rates of the year's remaining quarterly spans, surely must be regarded as ample indication that a recession did indeed occur.

While the severity of the economic contraction during the spring weeks of 1980 exceeded the expectations of most economists, the let-down's brevity underscored the intrinsic resilience of the nation's economy. Had it not been for the drastic credit curbs which the Carter Administration and the Federal Reserve employed in the bold bid to curb burgeoning inflationary forces, the economy might not have been subjected to such a pronounced buffeting in the spring and early summer of 1980. But even if the reins had not been pulled back so radically, it is doubtful that a business slowdown could have been averted completely.

After all, the growth of the nation's money supply remained consistently higher than the targets that had been projected by the monetary authorities, and the federal government was unable to cope with the ever-increasing budget deficit for fiscal 1980 which ended September 30. Hence there was an exceedingly fertile breeding ground for inflation, and the brief, sharp downturn in short-term interest rates was supplanted by another spell of oppressively high inflation and interest rates in the second half of 1980. As these adverse factors resurfaced, the promising pick-ups in residential building and industrial output sputtered as the year worked to its terminus.

1981 --- A PERIOD OF REGROUPING

The staff of Babson's Reports now foresees an extension of the logy economic climate during much of 1981's first half. The incoming Reagan Administration faces the monumental task of lowering inflation and interest rates. We doubt that sufficiently significant and rapid inroads can be made on these problems to boost the economy into a swift upthrust early in the year. Indeed, vitality and forward momentum will be slow in developing. Hence, economic activity will do well to edge upward during the winter and early spring weeks. Thereafter, however the business tempo will quicken and, the second half of 1981 could enjoy enough of an uplift to enable the year as a whole to record a moderate amount of progress. In effect, therefore, 1981 should be viewed as a regrouping period for the U.S. economy, to the groundwork for a more vibrant 1982.

ECONOMY'S RESILIENCE A SUSTAINING FORCE

Although the staff of Babson's Reports does not anticipate a sturdy year-long upsurge in economic activity 1981 could turn out to be more fruitful than current conditions would seem to support. But there are less hopeful opinions. Such views reflect fear that the economy will lapse back to the 1980 low point of economic activity, and the more pessimistic element go a step further in projecting a dip of even deeper penetration. If either viewpoint should be borne out, the result would be a "double dip" 1980-81 recession, or something tantamount to a "W"-type reversal pattern.

The Babson forecast, on the other hand, envisions a generally flat trend of economic activity--but with a modest upward bias--for early 1981. On this thesis, a "double dip" recession pattern would not materialize. This scenario is predicated on the basic buoyancy of the U.S. economy, which Babson's views as capable of providing more bolstering influences than is generally recognized. For one thing, service-oriented activities have been growing in importance over the years. Many facets of this diverse segment of the economy are less responsive to cyclical downswings in the industrial and commercial sectors, hence tend to impart support to the overall economy.

The automotive and agricultural equipment industries are verging on cyclical advances which could come into play once oppressively high interest rates decline. Improvement in these sectors will give a uplift to the operations of parts suppliers, including the steel and rubber industries which have experienced tough sledding for quite some time. Moreover, the feverish pace of exploration and development work in the oil and gas industries and the rapid growth in computer-related fields mean added vital support for the economy. And, as 1981 progresses, a new upturn (more durable than the aborted 1980 effort) is likely to take hold in residential building.

BENEFITS FROM THE CHANGE IN NATIONAL LEADERSHIP

Allowing for the setting-in process, Babson's expectation is that the incoming Reagan Administration will make some headway in the fight against inflation and in nudging interest rates back down to less stifling levels. In addition, efforts to stimulate economic revitalization, via business incentives and a less ambivalent attitude toward private enterprise, should lead to a healthier state of business confidence. But the programs and legislative proposals of the new Administration cannot become reality without the cooperation of Congress. The Babson view is that a better working relationship will prevail between Capitol Hill and the White House, in contrast to the climate which shadowed much of the past four years.

Bear in mind that even though the GOP barely wrested control of the Senate, members of Congress--particularly those facing reelection two years hence--will certainly be mindful of the shift in voter sentiment shown at the polls last November. A more constructive atmosphere at top echelons of the Legislative Branch can go

Swearing in Ceremony To Be Thursday at 10

New county officials will be sworn into office at 10 a.m. Thursday, January 1, County Judge Bob Watson has announced. He will administer the oaths of office in the county court room.

John Rainey at that time will retire as sheriff, after serving Collingsworth County for a quarter of a century. He is due to watch his successor, Kenneth Maxwell, take the oath of office. Rainey did not seek re-election.

Immediately after the swearing in ceremony at the court room, the group will go to the newly remodeled county jail where other members of the sheriff's department, including deputies, jailers, and dispatchers, will take the oath of their offices.

Other county officials to be sworn in at the court house are:

-Ann Wauer, county tax assessor-collector, who was re-elected to the office.

-Judge R.L. Templeton, county attorney, who was re-elected.

Three precinct officials will take office, all re-elected. These are:

John Robert Henard, Jr., Commissioner, Precinct 1.

Bill Lowe, Commissioner of Precinct 3.

Wilson Porter, Constable of Precinct 1, which includes all of Collingsworth County except three small tracts along the east, north and west county lines.

Two officials having jurisdiction in Collingsworth County will be sworn in elsewhere.

Judge Robert Montgomery, presiding judge of the 100th District, told Judge Watson he will be sworn in along with other Hall county officials at the court house in Memphis. County Judge Lester Campbell will administer the oath of office.

David McCoy, newly elected 100th District Attorney, said he will take the oath of his office along with Childress county officials. Wednesday morning he said he didn't know the time of the ceremony.

Any official from a notary public to a judge of record can administer the oath of office to a duly elected officer.

Sloan warned homeowners against letting anyone inside their home who says he is an appraiser.

"We will also turn in auto descriptions, license tag numbers and a physical description of the appraiser to the County Sheriff," Sloan said. "If you see someone driving or walking on your property, you can call the Sheriff's department to verify identification of automobiles and appraisers."

In addition to checking homes, appraisers will be field checking rural property for irrigation wells, farm buildings, cultivated land and grass land.

The appraisers will measure the class of the land off of soil maps and acreage reports from the ASCS office and other existing records. Rural land will be evaluated in three ways, Sloan said: 1) field check, 2) aerial photos and 3) soil surveys.

The appraisers are required by law to provide a market value and an "ag use" value on all rural property, thus allowing agricultural landowners the opportunity of paying on a lower value than an inflated market value.

The law says that the "ag use" value can't exceed the market value, Sloan said.

Sloan gave an example of how an "ag use" value might be figured:

Texas Department of Agriculture figures show that for the past five years an acre of a dryland wheat farm has yielded an average of 15 bushels per acre. The farmer received an average of $3.00 per bushel for the wheat and received an average of $4.50 per acre for grazing, yielding a gross to the acre of $49.50. Expenses are figured from a formula prescribed by the state. In the example, expenses averaged $33.50 per acre, leaving $16.00 per acre net income. This figure $16.00 is divided by the current Federal Land Bank loan rate as of December 31, plus 2.5 %. In the example, 12.25% was used, and the "ag use" value of the land figured to be around $13 per acre.

All landowners must sign up to be eligible for the "ag use" value on forms that will be mailed within the next two weeks from the chief appraiser's office.

Sloan said he expects to finish field work by May 1 and paperwork by May 31.

Then this summer every property owner will get a new valuation notice in the mail if the increase is over $100 in valuation. The notice will include times that the Board of Equalization will meet. Taxpayers can provide information and question the new valuation at the Board of Equalization.

Prior to the Board of Equalization meeting, however, Sloan and his associates will be available for meetings with taxpayers who wish to look over their valuations and offer corrections on information and ask questions.

"We will knock on doors as we go," Sloan said, "and we average catching about 40% of the people at home. But we won't come back to knock on the door again. It is to the taxpayer's advantage to give us any relevant information on his property at the time we appraise the house, but they can also

Barjenbruch also said some of the better yields he has been receiving is around 400 pounds of lint per acre (three-quarters of a bale.)

Joe Frank Knoll, Lurie gin manager, said Wednesday morning that he would finish ginning the crop in his area north of Salt Fork on the last day of 1980--Wednesday--if no mechanical trouble developed in the gin.

As the county's 5 gins account for almost 27,000 bales, this moves the 1980 crop to a little less than half the figure of the 1979 record production, when the county ginned just under 60,000 bales.

The 27,000 bale report does not account for the cotton in the west part of the county that went to Hedley and Memphis, nor cotton in the north edge of the county that has always gone to Shamrock.

Sloan said appraisers for Collingsworth County would be Troy Sloan, Blackie Johnson, Don Dyer, Alan Elliott and Jimmy Tope.

"We're eager to explain the process we go through to the people of Collingsworth County," Sloan said.

"We're available for club programs from now through May, so if anyone would like for us to appear at their club or organization, they may contact Appraisal Board chairman Bill Lindsey at 447-2281 or Troy Sloan in Spearman at 659-2322.

Sandra McGill, Chuck Wright, Wed in Formal Rites at Canyon

During Christmas holiday rites, Sandra K. McGill of Austin became the bride of Charles T. (Chuck) Wright of San Antonio in the sanctuary of First Methodist Church, Canyon.

The Reverend Murry L. Brewer, pastor of First Baptist Church, Lubbock, performed the ceremony Saturday, December 27, at six o'clock in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam McGill of 1606 Ellison Street, Wellington. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Jean Wright and Charles T. Wright Sr., of Canyon.

Church decorations were a large basket of burgundy gladiolas at the altar, with seven-branched and nine branched candelabra at each side. They were entwined with Christmas foliage.

White bows and foliage decorated the pews.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Norris Root of Canyon, organist. Teresa Hodges sang and Kloette Camp was the pianist.

Mr. McGill gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride chose a formal gown of candelight organza over bridal taffeta, designed with a Victorian neckline of scalloped Alencon lace and a sheer yoke of organza and lace. The empire bodice was completely applied in lace and the long tapered sleeves were enhanced by lace motifs and seed pearls. The softly gathered A-line skirt fell to a deep band of scalloped lace which swept to back fullness and cascaded into a chapel train.

She wore a matching lace coif dotted with seed pearls and enhanced by a full length mantilla applied in scalloped lace. Her bouquet was of white roses, cymbidium orchids, stepanotis and foliage, tied with ivory satin streamers. In the traditional manner, she had a lucky penny in her shoe and her "something old" was a lace handkerchief belonging to her maternal grandmother.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister Mrs. David Hodges of Amarillo. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Andy Henard of Wellington, Mrs. Keith Plagel of Amarillo, and Miss Suzy Wright of Canyon. Their gowns of burgundy chiffon were designed with a closely fitted bodice, spaghetti straps, and an attached draped capelet which accented the back of the gown and was held in place on one side with a silk rose. The softly gathered skirts fell unadorned to floor length. Each carried a single silk burgundy rose tied with matching streamers and wore a spray of baby's breath in her hair.

Jack Wright of Canyon was his brother's best man, and groomsmen were Larry Pritchard of San Antonio, Victor Schuman of Spearman and Mark Walker of Lubbock. Brent Sherron of Amarillo and Bill Parks of Jayton ushered.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. McGill entertained with a reception at the Desert Room in Amarillo.

Rites Unite Dr. Stanley Parker, Priscilla Berggren of Dallas

Priscilla Lea Berggren and Dr. Stanley DeWayne Parker, both of Dallas, were married in Christmas season rites performed in First Unitarian Church of Dallas Sunday, December 21, at two-thirty o'clock in the afternoon. The Reverend Josiah Bartlett, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Berggren of Quincy, Illinois. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lorraine Parker, 1801 Corsicana Street, and the late Wayne Parker.

At the center of the altar was a large pine wreath with red bows from which garlands extended. Candelabras were tied with pine and red ribbon, and at each side, planters were filled with poinsettias and Christmas greenery. Pew markers were pine and red ribbon.

The bride's twin sisters, Sara Berggren and Julia Berggren of Quincy, Illinois, presented vocal selections, while Janet Hunt of Dallas was the organist.

Mr. Berggren gave his daughter in marriage.

Her wedding gown of all-over lace was designed with a princess neckline outlined in dainty beading. This was repeated to define the contours of the fitted bodice. Narrow bridal ribbon and seed pearls detailed the bodice and the tiered full-length skirt. The lace-trimmed veil with blusher fell from a coif trimmed with lace motifs.

Her bouquet, designed by her mother, was a nosegay of red and white rosebuds, nestled in pine with pearl baby's breath, encircled by white lace.

Bridal attendants included her sister, Mrs. Donald Bertsch of Presque Isle, Maine, as matron of honor. Sorority sisters were bridesmaids and included Julie Whitehead of Champagne, Ill., and Georgia Liston of Bethesda, Md.

Their dresses of dark pine green satin finish quiana, had boat necks and attached ruffled elbow length capes. Gathers gave fullness to the floor-length skirts. They carried Christmas nosegays.

Yates Parker of Wellington, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Major Roy Parker of Alamogordo, New Mexico, another brother, and Gerald Ford of Lockney, his brother-in-law, were groomsmen.

MRS. STANLEY DEWAYNE PARKER

Ushers were Larry Henard and John R. Henard, III of Wellington, both cousins of the bridegroom. They also lighted the candles.

Tanya Paige Parker of Alamogordo, niece of the groom, was the flower girl. She wore a dress of red velvet and white eyelet.

Special guests at the wedding were the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Robert Lepper of Quincy, Ill., and the groom's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Parker of Lubbock.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Berggren were hosts for the reception. A Christmas tree decorated in the bride's colors was in the reception hall.

The table was covered with a red cloth and appointed with silver and crystal. The bride's cake topped with cherubs, was surrounded by white pine, green holly, red berries and white lace. The groom's cake of traditional chocolate was covered with nuts.

On the table was a book of pictures and memorabilia from the bride's life, compiled by her mother.

Miss Susie Davis of Houston was in charge of the guest book.

In the house party were Mrs. Brad Tooley of Slaton, Mrs. Galen Foat, Mrs. Yates Parker of Wellington, Miss Kellye Ford of Lubbock, Mrs. Gerald Ford of Lockney, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Porth.

The bride is a senior dental student at Baylor College of Dentistry of Dallas and will graduate in general dentistry in June. She received her bachelor's degree from Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington.

She was Homecoming Queen in 1977 and received the Lincoln Academy Award of Illinois. Her social sorority was Alpha Gamma Delta. Her dental fraternity is Psi Omega.

Dr. Parker received his bachelor of science degree from West Texas State University and a D.D.S. degree from Baylor College of Dentistry in 1979. He is a member of Xi Psi Phi dental fraternity and has

Other Editors Say . . .

Anti-Beef Alarm

From the time the first settlers came to this country, the Panhandle has been cattle country, and one of the best items on the menu has been beef, fixed any way you like it.

But at the recent meeting of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association in Amarillo, one of the principal speakers sounded an alarm for the beef industry by forecasting continued declines in the consumption of beef.

Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, editor and publisher of Nutrition Today, said that price may not be the factor in reduced beef demand that many cattlemen believe.

Considering the consumer price index, the price of beef has increased very little over the past few years. Yet the consumption drops.

In 1976 the average American consumed 96 pounds of beef and four years later this dropped to 76 pounds per person.

There is an anti-beef campaign which says it is not safe to eat beef, that the chances of having stomach cancer and heart disease are increased by beef eating.

Much of the criticism of beef and the cattle industry is founded on ignorance, but the claims of the anti-beef people are being believed.

Some environmentalists believe it wrong to convert grain into beef, claiming it would be better to consume the grain as vegetarians. These people overlook the fact that beef is for the most part produced on land unfit for farming and if there were no cattle eating the grass on it, there would be no food at all produced there.

The cattleman seems to have discovered another problem now to go with the ones he already has. But this anti-beef move must be halted if cattle producers are to remain in business.

Doxology

When Dallas' First Baptist Church, the home of 21,000 cheerful givers, finds the mortgage more than it can reasonably bear, the nation's economic dilemma must be grave indeed. Inflation, as Dr. Criswell notes, is eating the church alive. As whom isn't it devouring?

Fortunately for them, the Baptists usually pull through. They have, after all, a Power higher than the Federal Reserve Bank on which to lean. And a good thing they do, the way mere mortals have lately botched things up.

Student 'Affect' Slight

An English grammar "hot-line" at the English department of Illinois State University has attracted an unexpected amount of interest.

Callers are inundating the department with questions that range from simple punctuation to such things as the use of "effect" and "affect," how to conjugate verbs and whether words such as "impact" and "prioritize" are legitimate verbs.

Calls are coming from newspapers, insurance companies, doctors, stores and local citizens.

The fewest calls come from university students. They probably don't know what to ask.

a thought

FROM HIS WORD . . .

"Be on guard, that your hearts may not be weighted down with dissipation and drunkenness and the worries of life, and that day come on you suddenly like a trap; for it will come upon all those who dwell on the face of all the earth. But keep on the alert at all times, praying in order that you may have strength to escape all these things that are about to take place, and to stand before the Son of Man" (Luke 21:34-36)

Should we not as Christians have the awareness to hear this message and allow it to be the moving force in our life this New Year?

REO

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature will be appropriating more money to build update prisons this session, an expenditure it has long avoided.

Last week a federal judge ruled the Texas prison system, largest in the nation, violates the constitutional rights of its inmates in virtually every aspect.

Among the violations cited by U.S. Dist. Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler are routine beatings, other forms of violence, poor medical treatment, unsafe working conditions, and unsanitary living and eating quarters.

The cost of making the sweeping changes ordered by Judge Justice is expected to run into millions.

Spokesmen for the Texas Department of Corrections point out they have not been able to initiate improvements on their own because the Legislature has repeatedly turned down requests for higher budgeting.

Justice's findings are not unexpected in a state where soft treatment of criminals is an unpopular stance with voters. Still, the depth of his court-ordered reform caught many Texas officials off-guard.

His 248-page opinion, which he took over a year to write, notes that the TDC system also violates several state laws and many of its own rules and regulations.

In apparently the first such ruling in Texas, the judge held that state job and safety laws apply to the 18-unit, 25,000-inmate system.

His latest ruling is not the first controversy in Judge Justice's long legal career. In the past his rulings have desegregated Tyler schools, forced a Tyler junior college to accept students with long hair and forced a Tyler high school to stop using the Confederate flag for school emblem.

Recently he ruled a Tyler school district must educate the children of illegal aliens without charging tuition.

Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White said he will wait until a final judgment is handed down in February before deciding whether to appeal the TDC case.

$536 Million

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the Legislative Budget Board is recommending the Legislature approve $536 million for TDC over the next two years.

"The prison system is overcrowded. Basically, it is a system built for 16,000 prisoners and it now has 29,000," Hobby said.

"That there are deficiencies in the system is unquestioned."

Texas is not the only state to come under heavy criticism for its penal system. Eleven other states have been similarly chastised by findings.

Election Miscues

The outcomes of some state elections are still up in the air.

State Rep. Al Brown, D-San Antonio, who lost his reelection bid to a retired military man, has charged discrepancies among the election's mailed in absentee ballots. The House of Representatives will decide which candidate to seat when it convenes next month.

Another legislator who won a state district judgeship may have to go to court to keep his new post. State Rep. Melchor Chavez, D-Harlingen, was declared ineligible to occupy the bench by Texas Secretary of State George Strake. Strake said Texas law prohibits Chavez from holding the judge's office, since as a member of the 1979 Legislature he voted for a 19 percent pay hike for district judges.

Chavez may seek an appointment from Gov. Bill Clements or a ruling from the Texas Supreme Court.

Clements has already called a Jan. 10 special election to fill the House seat being vacated by Rep. Chase Untermyer, R-Houston. Untermyer, a well-respected legislator, is resigning to become an aide to Vice President-elect George Bush. Several candidates are expected to seek that office.

Legal Funds Get Nod

Strake ruled last week that House Speaker Bill Clayton can use contributions from his officeholder's fund to defray legal and other expenses incurred in his defense in the Brilab prosecution.

Clayton had sought the ruling because of his $500-a-plate dinner a week earlier, which was well attended by state political movers and shakers to pay off Clayton's Brilab costs.

Strake said the fact that Clayton was acquitted rather than found guilty enabled him to use the funds for activity in connection with his office, since illegal activity is unquestionably not a part of official duties.

Governor Bill Clements has an opinion about Texas prisons different from federal Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler, who recently jarred the political establishment by ordering sweeping and expensive reforms of the state's prison system.

The week following the reform order, Clements opened his regular news conference by calling the Texas Department of Corrections a "model" system that is "one of the best if not the best in the United States."

However, Clements said he could "probably" agree with about half of the federal judge's reforms, though he declined to elaborate on specifics.

The judge came down especially hard on overcrowding and brutality in prisons with a 248-page opinion chock full of stories recounting prison abuses.

As Governor of Texas, Clements does not like to see his home state knocked about. As a self-made millionaire, he seems particularly to dislike any talk about Texas in inferior terms. And as a self-styled budget-cutting Republican, Clements (and many top Democrats) does not like the idea of spending a lot of taxpayer dollars to build several new Texas prisons.

MULE TEAM

This is, after all, supposed to be a cut-spending Legislature which is scheduled to convene in two weeks. The unexpected and extremely high cost of funding prison reform has caught budget leaders in a bind. The anticipated state budget to be hashed out by legislators over the next six months is already higher than last biennium's because of inflation factors.

Officials who draw up the state government's budget have always taken it for granted that taxpayers-voters would go along with regular cost-of-operating increases in government. But this year, a sufficient number of lawmakers feel a tax revolt rumble when they put their ears to the ground. Thoughts about increasing the cost of state government make them nervous. Many legislators feel taxpayers may support some tax increases if the state government finds a way to significantly cut local property taxes, or even local school property taxes.

GTE Completes New Facilities

Construction of the new telephone facilities to the Quail Community and adjoining areas has been completed, according to J.H. Davis, division manager for General Telephone. The existing pole and open wire lines were replaced with approximately 68,630 feet of underground cable.

Forty-one existing customers between Wellington and Quail were changed from eight party to one and four party service.

The projects included the providing of service to 20 additional customers adjacent to this route and north of Quail. These projects included service into the Marella Community, serving an area approximately seven miles north of Quail and into the Lillie Community located northeast of Quail.

"This is just another step toward providing good, reliable telephone service to our customers in the Wellington exchange area," Davis added.

Babson Report Predicts Economic Regrouping in 1981

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, January 1, 1981

far toward improving overall public confidence. It will be no easy task, however. Forces which have eroded optimism and pride—unhealthy fiscal and monetary conditions, galloping inflation; a badly tarnished national image abroad, and the diminution of American productivity and competitiveness—have roots that are deeply imbedded. Nevertheless, if patience and understanding prevail, meaningful advances can be made toward rectifying these ailments, and the nation can be headed in a direction offering the prospect of new-found confidence and solid progress.

INTENSIVE CARE FOR INFLATION

We believe the Reagan Administration will honor its promise to wage a resolute battle against inflation. However, since an important part of the legacy the incoming national leadership has inherited is the entrenchment of strong inflationary forces, it will be difficult to neutralize these en masse, and hence it is unrealistic to expect a quick cure. But the commitment must be made by both the Administration and the Federal Reserve, this time without any premature backing off.

For the record, the Babson staff forecasts that the average gain in the Consumer Price Index for 1981 will be in the vicinity of 10%. While this would still mean double-digit inflation for the year as a whole, the low point of 1981 would enjoy a brief spell in the single-digit area. What is important is that we expect the trend to be in the right direction and the betterment to carry into 1982.

GROSS NATIONAL PRODUCT

The aggregate value of goods and services produced (Gross National Product) will likely post a gain approximating 15% in current dollars for 1981 as a whole. However, ex inflation, the real growth of the economy (GNP in 1972 dollars) will probably be only a shade above 4%, with the third quarter expected to show the best upthrust of the year. We do not expect the first half to be very impressive because of early-year restraints.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION

Although industrial activity will not be particularly vibrant in the early stages of 1981, a more noticeable upbeat will emerge as midyear approaches. By then, the negative influences should be less restrictive. Hence, industrial production for 1981 should register a gain of close to 4%. While this is far from robust (vis-a-vis other initial post-recession recoveries), the firm-to-higher trend can be viewed as an indication of betterment in the economy's health, and by the later months of 1981 some momentum will be accumu-

BUSINESS INVENTORIES

Though the fading of the recent upsurge in business has left inventories somewhat high relative to current sales, excessively burdensome positions are the exception rather than the rule. Nonetheless, the economy will not derive any great impetus from the rebuilding of stockpiles much before midyear. Another deterrent to quick resumption of widespread forward buying is the high cost of borrowed capital. Second-half 1981 should see renewed emphasis on inventory buildups.

BUSINESS CAPITAL EXPENDITURES

Because of underutilized productive capacity in many industries, we do not expect a raft of ambitious capital expansion programs in 1981. Possible tax incentives to spur productivity probably will not be enacted soon enough to do much good until 1982.

OUTLOOK FOR THE LABOR SCENE

1981 will be a relatively light year for new labor contracts. The other two years of the 3-year cycle of labor negotiations will be much more active and potentially more damaging to the economy in terms of work stoppages. But wage and fringe concessions in 1981 pacts will be expensive because of inflation catch-up efforts.

BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION

The availability and cost of mortgage credit will not improve dramatically enough in 1981 to support a fresh housing boom. New mortgage financing plans hold promise for future years, but the immediate impact on home building will still be nominal. Therefore, our forecast for new housing starts in 1981 is 1.4 million units, not appreciably different from 1980's achievement. But housing starts are still running below average annual requirements for the 1980s. Public construction likewise should rule in the "little change" group. There is more vitality in commercial building.

CORPORATE DIVIDENDS

Business profits after taxes will rule somewhat higher for 1981 as a whole, but the betterment will be due largely to improved earnings in the second half. The initial two quarters are expected to trail results for first-half 1980, since rising costs and the scramble of highly competitive conditions will pinch profits. Dividend payments generally will be maintained, with some hikes, but lengthy lists of dividend increases won't return until late in the year.

AGRICULTURAL PROSPECTS

The farm outlook for 1981 is quite encouraging at this point. Firmer agricultural prices and stronger foreign grain demand have brightened farmers' income picture, and some moisture short growing areas received much needed precipitation last fall. Thus, as things stand now, this nation's agricultural sector can have a good year if weather conditions are near normal during 1981. It is encouraging to note better buying interest for farm implements.

WAGES AND PRICES

The increase in the national minimum wage, automatic pay hikes under existing labor pacts, and pay boosts resulting from negotiations in 1981 will lift wage rates despite large polls of jobless workers. However, shrinkage of consumers' buying power owing to higher taxes and inflation is forcing labor groups to press for maximum pay boosts despite economic and employment uncertainties.

Much of 1981's price picture will reflect the time required for effects of 1980's drought and hot spell to work their way through the cost and price structure of the economy. The same applies to the ripples from OPEC's oil price escalation policy, and to costs associated with new wage settlements and increases in overhead generally. For much of 1981 some, but not all, of the cost inflation will be passed on, thus assuring further upward treks in prices at wholesale and retail levels, with little relief likely until mid-1981 or somewhat beyond.

EMPLOYMENT -- PERSONAL INCOME

We look for moderate gains in total employment -- mostly after midyear. However, job openings will trail the influx of workers into the labor force. The net result will be some difficulty in paring back the jobless rate. We expect unemployment to peak around the 9% mark, but any material brightening of the jobless picture will probably have to wait until the late summer or early fall of 1981. Nevertheless, the combination of higher wages and some gains in employment and average work weeks (mostly after midyear) will nudge personal income higher. Here again, employ-

CONSUMER AND GOVERNMENT SPENDING

Consumers are not likely to display much enthusiasm in their spending during early 1981. This will be due to anxieties over the expected economic lethargy and adverse effects of inflation. But as these negative influences diminish and business strengthens, consumers will loosen their pursestrings. Overall, retail trade in 1981 will turn in a fairly good showing -- not a rousing boom in buying, but better than 1980's achievement.

Federal government spending will increase markedly in calendar 1981, though much of the gain will result from higher prices. State and local spending will also rise, although only modestly.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

The Mideast-Southwest Asia region will continue to bear watching in 1981, even though we expect release of the American hostages held by Iran. There is a good chance, too, that there will be a negotiated settlement of the Iran-Iraq war. But stalled Israel-Egypt talks on the Palestinian issue are a more difficult barrier to surmount. Though conditions at this writing imply otherwise, 1981 could see an easing of Soviet-American tensions, and perhaps new talks on a strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT). However, smoldering potential trouble spots abound in the world, and occasional flare-ups remain an ever-present threat.

MONEY SUPPLIES--INTEREST RATES

Inability of the monetary authorities to consistently restrain the growth of the nation's money supply has been an important element in the prolonged spell of galloping inflation. Central to both the money supply and inflation problems has been the sizable federal budget deficit. However, we are hopeful that the Reagan Administration's determination to reduce the federal deficit and the Federal Reserve's fresh effort to pare back the rate of inflation will, in time, diminish the severity of monetary and fiscal excesses, and coincidentally dampen inflationary pressures.

Short-term interest rates, which twice soared to appalling heights in 1980, should slip to lower levels in the first half of 1981. Long-term interest rates are expected to shade downward also, but the betterment may be only nominal at best. And rates seem destined to firm again thereafter, owing to the Treasury's financing moves.

STOCK AND BOND OUTLOOK

The display of post-election strength in the stock market reflected new-found investment optimism emanating from the startling GOP victories. It is likely that further upside progress is in store for 1981. However, investors are still highly sensitive to domestic, economic and monetary problems, and to potentially dangerous international developments. Nevertheless, the improvement in investor sentiment should lead to greater recognition of the plethora of common stocks and convertible securities still languishing at attractive prices. For the record, we look for the Dow Jones industrial average to fluctuate within a range of 1150 on the upside and 900 on the downside during 1981.

Prospects for bond prices are less encouraging. Until problems related to inflation and high interest rates show basic, tenable improvement, we would invest mainly in short-term issues.

I Saw... by Virginia Robey

There's going to be some Texans in Fairbanks, Alaska, who have their grown in Collingsworth black eyed peas on New Year's Day.

We at The Leader talked with former staff member Linda Wolf Monday. The peas were sent up by her mother Louise Thomason. They'll serve the good luck tokens to friends, Jan. 1.

The temperature was 30 degrees below zero when we talked. It had been up to 10 below. Snow was deep on the ground. The first snow of the season fell the day school opened in September. But it's powdery and not suitable for making snow men.

More about this interesting family: Lynn, minister of a Church of Christ, did a bit of car repair for a friend and discovered he could get more of that work than he wanted.

The girls, Licia, 11 and Lyndi, 7, are in the school's gifted and talented program. Leon, age 3, doesn't have an interest in such things yet.

Cars have to be plugged in to be warmed electrically at night, so they can be started next morning. Even so, Linda said they were so cold inside that a person could stay warmer by walking.

It's the second time the Wolfs have lived in Alaska, but the other time, they were at Anchorage, which has a milder climate.

George, Marie and Rose Shadid spent Christmas day with their niece, Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Evans, Jr. of Memphis.
