Reagan Blasts Demo Tax Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders, accusing President Reagan of waging a "political trench fight," concede his nationally broadcast appeal may have swayed crucial votes for his tax cut but predict they will beat him anyway in Wednesday's showdown on the House floor.

Saying "this is not the time for political fun and games," Reagan sought Monday night to mobilize an army of Americans to lobby for his tax plan with "letters, telegrams and personal visits."

Some congressmen reported an immediate burst of telephone calls, but one Democrat who sided with Reagan on budget cuts earlier this year said he would vote against the president on taxes and at least two Democrats targeted by the White House lobbying drive remained undecided.

Reagan also tried to blunt Democratic criticism that he was sidestepping the politically sensitive issue of Social Security financing, telling his audience: "You have no reason to be frightened,"

He said he would talk about Social Security at length later but the overriding factor now is taxes.

The choice will be between Reagan's plan and a Democratic alternative the president branded as "just another empty promise."

Reagan's plan is for a 33-month, 25 percent cut in tax rates, starting Oct. 1, with everyone getting the same percentage reduction regardless of income. It includes automatic cuts each year starting in 1985 to offset inflation.

The rival bill pushed by Democrats is for a two-year, 15 percent cut, also effective Oct. 1, tilted to people earning less than $50,000 a year. A third-year, 10 percent cut would be allowed only if the administration meets its goals for lowering inflation, interest rates and the feder 7.

House Speaker Tip O'Neill, Massachusetts Democrat, who lost to Reagan on two earlier budget votes, said that as of Monday, "we have the votes to win" on taxes, but he said he couldn't say whether that margin would hold up in the face of the president's new lobbying offensive.

O'Neill said he counted 14 Democrats solidly against the Democratic bill with seven or eight still on the fence. He predicted an overall loss of 21 to 22 Democrats — which would give the Democrats a narrow victory assuming all 191 Republicans voted for the Reagan plan.

There are 435 House members.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, the Democratic chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said Reagan "has reduced the debate over a trillion-dollar tax cut to a political trench fight."

Reagan also stepped up his lobbying in the White House, meeting with 16 House members Monday and inviting more today.

The thrust of the White House campaign, however, was to build public pressure on Congress, the same strategy Reagan used in winning approval of sweeping budget cuts.

"I urge you again to contact your senators and congressmen," Reagan said. "Once again, they need to hear from you. That doesn't give you much time, but a great deal is at stake."

White House aides acknowledged that the issue was in doubt but said momentum was with the president.

Area Gets Showers, Heavy Rains

By JULIE SMILEY
Farm Editor

After several weeks without a good rain, Deaf Smith County received from 0.10 to 4 inches Monday night, according to local reports.

Herman Paetzold, Easter Fertilizer, reported 3 inches at the fertilizer store, 3.10 inches at the Price farm east of the store, and 3.6 inches at Frye Associates.

"The further east the more rain they got, and the further north, the lighter the rain," he said.

Trent Downing, who farms about one mile east of Easter Fertilizer, received 4 inches, said Paetzold, and north of the store, farmers were reporting from 1 to 1.5 inches.

"It was a real good rain, and we didn't have any hail with it," he said. "As far as I know, it didn't hurt a thing."

During the first two hours of the storm, the rain at Easter came fast, and then it slowed to a soaking rain. Paetzold said it was sprinkling at Easter this morning.

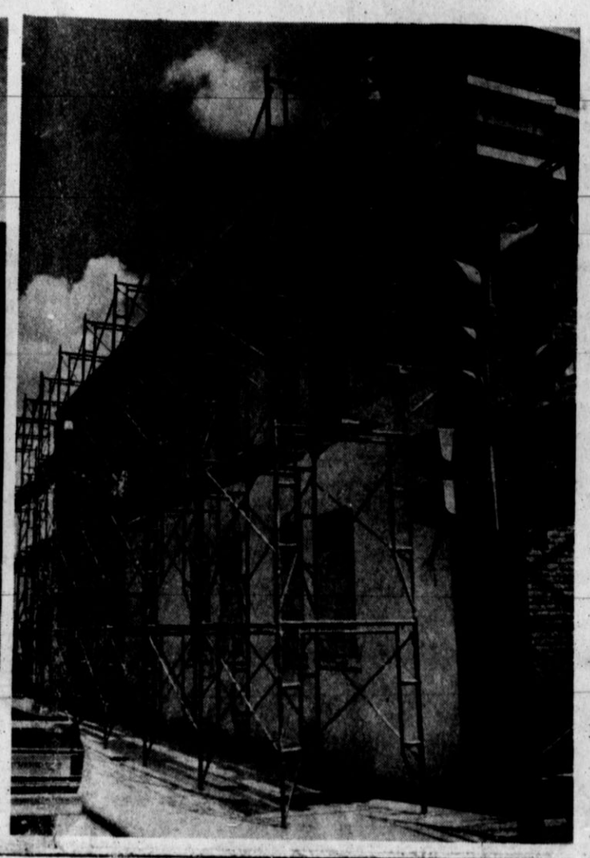

KPAN radio reported 0.38 inches for Hereford, and a yearly total for the city of 6.34 inches. Chip Formby said the average yearly rainfall for the city through July is 10.92 inches, which makes Hereford 4.58 inches behind the mean for the year.

Eddie Mathews, Easter Grain, reported 2.7 inches,and Summerfield Fertilizer reported 0.6 inches.

Other amounts for the county are: East of Dawn, 0.10 inches; 13 miles northeast of the city, 0.20 inches; Bootleg, 0.75 inches; and Westway, 0.80 inches.

The local forecast calls for 30 percent change of rain today.

County Approves Courtroom Bid, Precinct Redistricting Still Up in Air

By GAIL FIELDS
Staff Writer

Deaf Smith County Commissioners Monday accepted a bid for renovation of the district courtroom, despite some questions posed about the bid presentation procedure, and approved the moving of a polling place in connection with a redistricting change last year.

The contract for renovation of the courtroom was awarded to E&C Interior Construction of Amarillo, which had the low bid for the total construction project. Five bids were submitted, but three of them were considered as piece-work bids.

E&C and two other companies proposed to do the carpentry, sub-flooring, carpeting and electrical work required in the bid proposal. The E&C bid was for $18,542.

Piece-work bids were received from McCaslin Lumber and Owens Electric. Two other bids were given to County Auditor Alex Schroeter about two weeks before the July 13 bid date. Schroeter said the firms apparently thought their bids were legally submitted. Since they were not sent to the bid opening in court, the piecework bids of Simmons Carpet and Rawley-Whitaker Construction were not eligible for consideration.

County Judge Glen Nelson suggested that all bids be rejected and that bidding be reopened due to the possible unfairness of having allowed local companies to make estimates on the project. He suggested having a professional such as an architect come in and draw up plans for the renovation and make estimates. With this information, the county could readvertise for bids.

However, other commissioners thought the commission might be happier with one contractor to handle the renovation. The court approved Commissioner Austin Rose's motion to accept the low bid with the stipulation that Judge Gulley choose the carpet for the renovation and find a company to install the sound system. Of the two lowest bids discussed, a $865 difference in the price of carpeting for the project was noted. E&C's bid allowed $12.50 per yard for carpet. The next lowest bid, submitted by Canadian Corporation, totaled $7,088 for carpet.

Commissioners heard from Assistant District Attorney Jerry Smith that precinct redistricting is still up in the air until the 190 census is certified.

A consent agreement between Deaf Smith County and local Mexican-Americans that was approved in April, 1980 and put into effect Nov. 5, 1980, transferred about 1,000 voters from precinct 1 to precinct 2, giving precinct 2 a Mexican-American majority.

The Mexican-Americans who filed the class-action suit alleged that the former district plan did not allow Mexican-Americans a chance to be voted onto the Commissioners' court.

The redisticting project was based primarily on 1970 census figures, according to Smith. The Commissioners, under the Nov. 5 court order, must be prepared to redistrict the precincts again to satisfy the 1980 census figures. Smith said certification of the 1980 census might take a long time in view of the numerous suits that have been filed on the Census Bureau concerning the conduction of the 1980 census.

The Commissioner's voted to comply with the Nov. 5 court order, and to move the polling place of precinct one from the court house to the bull barn. Commissioners discussed the need to advertise the polling place change.

In other action, Commissioners agreed to allow precinct 3 commissioner Bruce Coleman money from the revenue sharing fund to advertise for a new tractor and mower for the precinct. Coleman said he would probably use about $15,000 from the annual $125,000 road work portion of the revenue sharing fund to purchase a tracor. Coleman said he would advertise for a used tractor

Eyewitness Talks In Murder Trial

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — A man who witnessed the Christmas night slaying of an Amarillo police officer testified in the capital murder trial of Victor and Guadalupe Gutierrez that he saw one man shot the officer while three others were "on the ground struggling with him."

Boneficio Navarretee testified Monday during the first day of testimony in the trial of the two Dumas, Texas, brothers — Victor, 24, and Guadalupe Gutierrez, 20 — accused of killing Amarillo policeman Berry Joe McGuire.

A third brother, Ernesto Gutierrez, 17, and Urbano Flores, 16, also have been charged in the slaying. The trial of Ernesto Gutierrez has been separated from that of of his brothers. Flores has been certified to stand trial as an adult, but no trial date has been set.

Police said McGuire was shot three times — once in the head — by his own revolver after he stopped a car for a routine traffic violation.

Navarrette, 20, who said he lived 40 feet from the site of the shooting, testified the officer was hollering as he was being beaten by the four men. He said he stepped outside his house and that was when the

Teenagers Using Less Marijuana

WASHINGTON (AP) - The use of drugs, especially marijuana, is declining among America's teen-agers, even though they "still show the highest level...of young people anywhere in the industrialized world," a top federal official testified Monday.

Dr. William Pollin, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, said also there has been a "dramatic" cutback in cigarette smoking by young people, though 21 percent of high school seniors still had that daily habit last year.

"There has been a significant decrease in drug use among key population groups in the past several years with associated increases in negative attitudes about the use of drugs," Pollin said.

Appearing before the Senate Labor subcommittee on alcoholism and drug abuse, Pollin testified that daily marijuana use among high school seniors dropped to 9.1 percent in 1980, down from a peak of 10.9 percent in 1978.

The proportion of high school seniors who think their close friends disapprove of marijuana smoking increased for the first time since 1975, from 66 percent to 72 percent, said Pollin.

He also said that the institute found that among 16 categories of drugs, use of 14 was either level or decreased in 1980.

The findings were from a survey of 100,000 high school seniors. The institute on drug abuse has been surveying members of graduating public and private high school classes since 1975.

Pollin also reported there has been a "dramatic change" in teen-age cigarette smoking. Last year's daily use figure of 21 percent was down 4 percent from 1979.

Governor Orders Medfly Roadblocks

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements invoked his emergency powers and ordered agricultural inspectors to once again man roadblocks on the state's western border to prevent truckloads of California produce infested by the Mediterranean fruit fly from crossing the stateline.

The governor's order Monday came one week after U.S. District Judge Patrick Higginbotham in Dallas issued a temporary restraining order that lifted a Texas quarantine on California produce not certified free of the destructive pest.

"Whether this will bump into the federal court ruling we don't know," said Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown. "We've been working on this the past few weeks. We've been very frustrated by court orders. This is another tool we're trying to use to protect ourselves."

Brown said Monday night 24 inspectors assisted by the Department of Public Safety would man the road blocks at El Paso and Amarillo within 72 hours.

Jon Ford, Clements' press secretary, said the governor's order is an inspection and not a quarantine. He said the order could last up to 30 days and then could be extended as long "as there's a fruit fly threat."

Harrington Cancer Center Will Begin Patient Services Soon

After four and a half years of planning, fund-raising, construction, and recruiting an outstanding staff, the Don & Sybil Harrington Cancer Center expects to begin patient services by the end of this month.

All equipment has been received and set in place, said Jim King, director of operations for the center.

Dr. Leroy Humphries, the center's biomedical physicist, said two linear accelerators for cancer treatment by radiation are being tested and calibrated.

Dr. Phillip Periman, medical director, said staff and physician recruiting is nearing completion.

Volunteer workers from Hereford and nearby towns are at work to raise $125,000 toward the purchase and installation of a computer system which will link the cancer center to hospitals throughout the area.

The $8 million structure for the diagnostic and treatment facility is an ambulatory care center, with hospitalized patients treated at one of Amarillo's hospitals.

The clinic staff will include surgeons, chemotherapists (or medical oncologists - specialists in medical therapy for cancer patients), radiation therapists, and others. Each patient will have the benefit of all the specialties or as many as the individualized treatment plans call for.

The new cancer center sits adjacent to High Plains Baptist Hospital, Northwest Texas Hospital, and Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center and will be connected to all three by all-weather passageways. Location of the cancer center next to the Amarillo campus of Tech's medical school will

Bush Says Reagan's Tax Cuts Good For Texas Oil

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas oil interests will benefit from President Reagan's tax cut bill, says Vice President George Bush, a former Texas oilman.

Bush flew to Texas Monday to enlist the aid of Gov. Bill Clements in urging Texans to put the pressure on their congressmen for the "bi-partisan" measure sponsored by Rep. Kent Hance, D-Texas, and Rep. Barber Conable, R-New York.

"This bill has provisions that are very important to energy-producing states such as Texas — provisions that will provide incentives to produce more oil and as a result lessen our nation's dependence on foreign producers," Bush told a news conference after a private talk with Clements.

The Austin visit followed visits earlier in the day to Atlanta and Baton Rouge, La., and came just before the president's Monday night address on the tax cut controversy with Democratic majority leaders in the U.S. House.

In May, Bush made a special trip to address the Texas Legislature and urged backing for Reagan's budget cuts.

Bush said Monday the Texas incentives in his tax cut plans included retention of the depletion rate at 22 percent and "a rate reduction on new oil, the same as in the Senate bill. So, there are these provisions, I think, if they lessen the burden of the windfall profits tax, will indeed stimulate drilling activity and production."

Clements spoke up to say he thought "these are terribly important issues in Texas. These are close to what is going on in Texas."

Tests Begin On Space Shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A twice-postponed flight and systems rehearsal of the space shuttle Columbia began as scheduled at midnight Monday, after wiring problems on the craft's huge mechanical arm were resolved.

Barring complications in the first nine hours of the test, astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly and their backup crewmen, Thomas Mattingly and Henry Hartsfield, were to enter the cockpit at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

They will check out systems and simulate orbital maneuvers during the rest of the 21-hour rehearsel.

Technicians ran into problems Friday on the shuttle's "remote manipulation system," the arm of which will place and retrieve objects and satellites in space on future flights. Rewiring was needed on a system permitting the arm to be jettisoned if it won't fold back into place during a mission.

"There were a variety of things wrong with the wiring," said Charles Henschel, shuttle test director at Kennedy Space Center.

Use Of Marijuana Can Enhance Sexual Desire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Occasional use of marijuana can enhance sexual desire, but chronic smokers may find their sexual functions impaired, a new study says.

Researchers at the University of Texas said Monday that new animal studies appear to resolve the contradiction between what marijuana users said they felt and what scientists measured.

"I'm as guilty as other animal scientists in the last few years in neglecting what people were saying about their experiences," said Dr. Susan Dalterio. "We weren't seeing in animals the reactions people were talking about because we waited too long after administration to measure them."

The active ingredient in marijuana, tetrahydrocannabinol, or THC, has different effects on male sexual hormones in a short period of time, the scientists say.

Initially, THC causes rapid increases in the levels of testosterone and other sex hormones in mice, considered a good apimal model for human in tests with marijuana. But after a short time, these levels plummet far below normal, Dr. Dalterio said.

Male mice receiving low THC doses maintained high levels of testosterone, a hormone produced primarily in the testes, for more than an hour, the researcher said in a telephone interview.

However, mice getting high doses showed dramatic drops in testosterone to below normal levels in 20 minutes, she added.

Weather

West Texas — Scattered showers and thunderstorms today, becoming less numerous most sections tonight and Wednesday. Possibly a few heavy thunderstorms central and southwest through tonight. Highs 84 to 96. Lows 62 to 75.

Skies were to be mostly cloudy statewide today with highs mostly in the 80s. Temperatures were expected to remain in the 80s over West Texas.

A flash flood watch for Southwest Texas was cancelled early today after some of the shower activity began to diminish.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported before dawn today in the northwest corner of the Panhandle, over the South Plains from north of Plainview southwestward into New Mexico, the upper Red River Valley and the Pecos River Valley. The remainder of the state had partly cloudy to cloudy skies.

Plaque Honors Late Delbert Kinsey

The Delbert C. Kinsey Parlor was formally dedicated at First Baptist Church of Hereford Sunday morning when pastor Doug Manning joined Mrs. Kinsey and her son, Robert, in unveiling a bronze plaque. The parlor is being used for various church activities, as well as small weddings. Manning also unveiled a plaque listing memorials and honorariums. The plaque for the parlor read: "This parlor is dedicated to the memory of Delbert C. Kinsey. His joyous spirit, his deep compassion, his delightful sense of humor and his commitment to Jesus Christ and his church will always be remembered. As a loving tribute, First Baptist Church dedicates this parlor to be named the Delbert C. Kinsey Parlor."

Paul Harvey News

Chicago area weather forecasters this year have been wrong more often than right.

The TV prognosticators will issue a dire decree concerning what weekend weather is going to be –

Their forecasts will prove 100 percent wrong. Instead of the predicted rain it will be an outdoorable weekend.

Yet, by George, those same fellows come back on the air Monday – as confident as ever issuing further worthless predictions.

I know that aviation weather forecasters purposely err on the side of pessmism so's not to jeopardize the safety of fair-weather fliers.

I'm told that TV forecasters are also purposely pessimistic figuring that you will feel both grateful and forgiving if they are wrong.

But their gloomy forecasts can be devastating to the resort business.

Economic forecasting – another inexact science – is no more reliable, and it can mislead leaders!

American dollars shrank 12.4 percent last year.

But most economists are projecting an inflation rate of eight-to-nine percent this year.

And there is enough of a consensus so that many investors and government officials and business leaders are predicating plans on that presumption.

I don't know why.

These same economists – like the weather forecasters– have been wrong more often then they've been right.

Most economists predicted a severe recession in 1979.

It did not come until 1980 and it was not severe.

The economic decline most forecast for early 1981 proved, intead, to be a period of above-average economic improvement.

Most newsworthy of the stock market forecasters, flamboyant Joe Granville advised investors to "sell" last January.

If they did, they've lost a lot of money – and they've paid higher capital gains taxes than if they'd waited.

For economists to mislead Wall Street crapshooters is one thing; when they mislead government policy-makers – that can be disastrous.

There was a chorus of doomsayers last December predicting $3-gasoline; some demanding price controls. Gasoline prices, without controls, are going down.

February 22, 1980, Harry Kaufman of Salomon Brothers predicted "catastrophe," wanted our government to declare an immediate national emergency.

He caused a stock market plunge of 18.34 points in one day!

For the record, the president's Council of Economic Advisors, seeking to foretell the inflation rate, has been correct only three times in 18 years.

You could flip a coin and do better!

Yet there are at least 270 organizations in the United States getting rich guessing wrong!

Panel Might Seek Resignation Of CIA Director William Casey

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Intelligence Committee inquiry into CIA Director William J. Casey's fitness is expected to stretch into September, and the panel might seek his resignation even if no criminal wrongdoing is found, sources close to the investigation say.

As Casey continued visiting senators to rally support and the White House issued a fresh vote of confidence from President Reagan, the Intelligence Committee put veteran Watergate investigator Fred Thompson in charge of the probe.

Thompson, joined by Republican committee chairman Barry Goldwater of Arizona and ranking Democrat Daniel P. Moynihan of New York, heard a preliminary staff report Monday on Casey's tangled past business practices and his appointment of businessman Max Hugel to head CIA clandestine services.

The full committee was to hear the briefing, based on a review of CIA and FBI files, at a closed session today.

Thompson, 38, who served as Republican counsel to the Senate Watergate Committee in 1973, is a close associate of Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee. "This gives Baker more input into the committee," according to one source, who asked not to be identified.

One source said the staff report was very preliminary and basically outlined areas to pursue. This source said that effort was expected to take two to four weeks, which would postpone the committee's final conclusions until Congress returns from its August vacation in early September.

Thompson promised "a thorough inquiry" but added: "I hope it will be resolved in the near future. I don't think it serves anybody's purposes to have a long drawn-out affair." He declined to commit himself in any more detail on timing.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan hoped the questions about Casey would be resolved shortly "in spite of Mr. Thompson's being retained there."

"The president still has full confidence in Mr. Casey and hopes this matter will be concluded shortly," Speakes said.

Asked whether he thought Casey could continue to be effective in his job, Speakes said: "We think so. He's a distinguished public servent."

Based on what is known to date, one well-placed source said key leaders anticipate the probe would produce "no smoking gun of criminal wrongdoing but some areas of questionable activity and judgment."

In that case, this source said, the committee might well conclude that Casey cannot serve effectively.

Casey has been conducting a counteroffensive. He has delivered a 20-inch-thick stack of documentary materials to the committee, has requested a chance to rebut any allegations personally at a hearing and has lobbied senators for three days.

who are committed to vote for Reagan's bill said their phones began lighting up almost as soon as the president finished speaking. And the White House said almost 800 telephone calls in the first 1¼ hours after the speech ran more than 5-1 in Reagan's favor.

Rep. Glenn English of Oklahoma, one of the Democrats wooed by Reagan at the Camp David, Md., presidential retreat, said: "I don't think that as far as convincing me, I don't think that did it. He made a good speech to have the country rally behind, but beyond that I'm not sure it did much."

He added, "It sounds like I'm going to get a lot of telephone calls tomorrow."

Rep. Beverly Byron, D-Md., who also was among 15 Democrats at Camp David on Sunday, said she remained uncommitted, although she preferred the Democrats' plan to make a third-year tax cut conditional on an improved economy.

The House Rules Committee was meeting today to set ground rules for Wednesday's floor debate. The Senate, meanwhile, neared completion of work on its tax bill, with a vote scheduled today on an amendment that would liberalize a tax credit for child-care expenses for working parents.

Coleman also reported to the Commissioners about his involvement in the National Association of Counties Convention in Lexington, Kentucky.

Coleman described the NAC as "A powerful tool we can use to get conservative thinking into federal law."

Commissioners met in closed session to discuss the personnel at the Bull Barn. Jack Nunley, currently the maintenance engineer for the county buildings, was named the manager of the Bull Barn.

Also in the closed session, the commissioners were brought up to date on the lawsuits pending against the county.

Defense attorneys charged that District Attorney Dan Hill made a deal to go easy on Navarette, who has a driving while intoxicated charge pending against him, in exchange for his testimony.

However, both Navarette and a red-faced Hill denied the accusation on the stand and presiding judge Ed Harris of Galveston ruled defense attorneys could not mention the alleged deal before the jury.

Earlier Monday, two police Amarillo police officers testified McGuire had tried to radio for help several times.

"He sounded very excited, and there was a lot of yelling in the background," Sgt. Chris Kennedy said.

Daryl Eaton testified that it sounded as if McGuire was "struggling or scuffling."

make it possible for the two to be affiliated in the development of a cancer research program.

Services will be provided to citizens in the Texas Panhandle and portions of the neighboring states of Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, and Colorado. The estimated population to be served is between 530,000 and 625,000.

The cancer center includes facilities for radiation therapy, with both an 18 megavolt and a 6 megavolt lineal accelerator; necessary support facilities; a special diagnostic laboratory; four treatment rooms and 16 examination rooms; and facilities for cancer education, social services, administration, pharmacy, staff cafeteria, and office space.

The center also houses the Panhandle Regional Tumor Clinic and Registry and offices for the local American Cancer Society.

Plans for the center began in December 1977 after a year of study. Originally, the study was to find and implement a plan to improve radiation therapy in Amarillo, but it grew into a blueprint for a comprehensive care center.

The Harrington Foundation pledged three million dollars for the center, and the Amarillo Area Foundation gave 3.7 acres of land for the construction site and provided $60,000 for interim financing.

Subsequently, the Harrington Foundation made two more grants of a million dollars each, bringing the total from the foundation to five million dollars. Another $4 million was raised through pledges and gifts from business firms and individuals throughout the area.

In addition, an endowment fund was started eight months ago with a goal of $2 million within three years.

Ground for the cancer center was broken in September 1979. Construction has proceeded on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Hereford Police Investigate Six Thefts In 24 Hour Period

The Hereford Police Department received reports of six thefts in a 24 hour period.

Lois Beavers, Fullwood Apartments, 410 E. Third, told police that a brown suitcase containing some clothes and jewelry, was taken from her car while she was in her apartment. Miss Beavers was in the process of moving out of the apartment. The suitcase plus its contents is valued at $600.

Four car batteries, were taken from cars on the Walker Used Car lot Monday. The batteries are valued at $25 a piece.

Mario Hernandez, Route 1, Hereford, told police that someone took his billfold and a jack and a shirt from his pickup while it was parked at The Office club. Hernandez was inside the club at the time. His billfold contained about $80 and the jack and the shirt are valued at $40.

Another vehicle was broken into Sunday. Dorman Duggan, 226 Greenwood, told police someone took his watch from his vehicle. The vehicle was parked in front of the Community Church during church services Sunday.

The local manager of Range Western Wear reported his 25-caliber pistol was missing yesterday. He had been on vacation and did not know when the pistol was taken. It was valued at $60.

A digital clock, two gallons of anti-freeze and a radio were taken from Boyd's Machine Shop at 1306 E. Park Sunday morning. Thieves broke the front glass door of the shop to enter.

Two Hereford women reported to police that their homes were ransacked, but not robbed.

Tracy Busic, 610 W. Second, told police that someone entered her home, turned her t.v. off, messed up her bed and emptied some of her drawers. Miss Busic said nothing was taken.

A rug, serving as an extra layer of insulation on the floor, helps keep heated or cooled air in a room.

Cornelia Winn, 202 Clement, told police someone entered her house, took some articles from her bed, messed her bed up and emptied some drawers. Nothing was taken from her home.

John Obman, 106 Aspen, reported a criminal mischief incident to police yesterday. He said someone slit two tires on his car while it was parked in his driveway.

Tomasita Muniz, 701 S. Texas, made an assault with a motor vehicle report to police yesterday. Muniz first told police that an accident had taken place in the alley of the 500 block of Whittier. She later told police that her boyfriend attempted to hit her with a car. Muniz told police she would file charges.

Police answered 11 police-related calls and issued 13 traffic citations. Also, two persons were arrested for DWI and three were arrested for public intoxication.

Validity Of Quizes Posed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Through no error on the part of the writer, this article was published in Sunday's Brand with several sentences and paragraphs out of sequence. Since this created confusion for our readers, we are reprinting the article, in full, today.)

You have two recipes for a spice cake, one from a cookbook which lists standard measurements, and one from a friend which calls for a "pinch of this" or "a pat of that." Would you: (a) Use the cookbook recipe, (b) Use the friend's recipe, (c) Combine the two recipes, or (d) Use the recipe for which you have the ingredients.

Pay close attention, for the answer to this question and similar ones reveals the method of contraception best suited to your personality, according to a Mademoiselle magazine quiz in the June 1981 issue.

Questioning the validity of such quizes, we checked 15 such magazines and approached Greg Smith, a counselor at Family Services Center, for his comments. According to Smith, the basic desire of people to gain insight into themselves and those around them has started a trend in publishing houses to print "Personality quizzes" because it sells magazines.

The premise of such quizzes is that after filling out the 10-30 questions and scoring yourself on given point systems, you can find out more about your basic personality traits.

Of the magazines we checked, we found quizzes such as "Criticism: Can You Give It-And Take It?" in the Mademoiselle November 1980 issue. This quiz contains 13 multiple choice questions, such as "What you would do about the poor table manners of the man in your life?" Points are scored and catagorized into five types: (1) Tactful but Honest, (2) Rational but Detached, (3) The Attacker, (4) The Runaway, and (5) the Self Abuser.

Ignoring the fact that most of us have possessions we abhore, such as the wall-hanging your aunt gave you for Christmas, or the chair mom passed on to you when she got the new living room set, Self magazine says, "Everything you own says something about you, your frustrations, your dreams, your joys, even your hostilities."

Their quiz promised it, "...will not only help you become more aware of your inner thoughts, and help you capture messages in the houses you visit, but will also tell you what kind of decorating is right for you."

There follow six multiple choice questions covering which color arrangements you prefer, the way you prefer your living room arranged, the shape of your dining table, and size of your bed.

Cosmopolitan's March 1981 issue quizzes your telephone allure on the premise that how a person uses and feels about the instrument reveals much about his personality.

One of the better testing methods is represented in the July 1981 issue of Glamour quiz "Are you a Macha Woman?" Statements are made which the reader is asked to respond to as never, occasionally, sometimes, often, and usually. This structure allows more room for individual response, thereby allowing more accuracy in answering than multiple choice questions in which the reader is limited to three or four absolute answers.

The July 1981 issue of Good Housekeeping asks the reader to pick a first and second preference from a vivid color chart of purple, blue, red, black, green, brown, yellow and gray. According to the article, and an excerpt from the book, "Analyze Your Personality Through Color" by Alfred W. Munzert, Ph.D. the first color preference describes basic personality traits and basic behavior style along with the image you project to other people. The second color choice indicates what your personal goals are.

Mademoiselle does it again with the quiz, "How Secure Are You?" in the July 1981 issue. In conjunction with a delightful article by Elin Schoen offering a security blanket for the insecure, comes a quiz composed of 10 multiple choice questions offering a situation and a choice of three not-so-hot answers; tough luck if you do not fit in with a, b, or c. Watch it, you just can't win with this one. According to Roz Ashley if you score in the 21-30 range, "You're so insecure that this test will probably have made you even more so." A score of 15-20 rates a caustic, "You're pretty shaky about yourself." A nice healthy score of 10-14 is, "You're secure and confident–maybe too much so."

Before you feed your recipes to the garbage disposal, put your husband on a fast, rip the armchair to shreds, unplug the telephone,paint the house white, and flush the insensitive Roz Ashley down the tube read what psychologist Greg Smith has to say about the magazine quizzes.

"Such personality tests are mostly for entertainment purposes. They generalize with simple things and in most the title provides keys to the answers sought." He explained that an article quiz advertised as testing your security would clue the reader to give the answer a secure person would give.

"They should be used intelligently, they are not printed in scientific journals. They are not scientific. They should be used for entertainment purposes only," he stressed.

"Tests given in a professional situation are administered differently from these,and are always used in conjection with a personal evaluation. There is no way you can define a total personality in one paragraph or in one test though they may be indicative of certain traits."

Standardized tests are available through counseling and other professional services.

"These tests have been given to thousands of people, with statistics on results compiled so that trends in answering specific questions certain ways can be used as indicators of personality trait characteristics."

As Smith points out, "Anyone who feels they have problems should not rely on a magazine but should seek professional help."

Ann Landers

Improper Usage

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a lover of good grammar. Improper usage grates on my nerves. I grew up in Illinois, and one of the first things I learned was to say "You and I – not ME and YOU." Our English teacher put it this way, "Remember to put yourself last."

My husband insists it is perfectly proper to say "me and you." How about it?–Straining at Gnats And Swallowing Camels in Alabama

DEAR CAMELS IN ALABAMA?: "Me and you" is awkward but not incorrect when used in a sentence such as: "This applies to me and you." It IS improper, however, to say, "Me and you were invited." It should be "You and I." Get it?

In my opinion the most outrageous assault on the eardrum is perpetrated by people who say "between you and I." This display of ignorance makes my skin crawl, and I'm amazed at the well-educated folks who are guilty of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am going with a wonderful guy who has been divorced twice. Larry says both marriages were mistakes and he never knew the "real thing" until I came along. He wants me to marry him soon.

Larry is the most marvelous man in the world–when he is sober. Unfortunately, his sober evenings are becoming less frequent.

I have tried to get him to go for counseling but he refuses – says after we are married he will have no reason to drink because he will be so happy. (This conversation has been going on for over a year.)

Larry has so many wonderful qualities, but I'm afraid of the future. I need guidance.–Torn In Tupelo

DEAR TORN: Unless Larry agrees to join AA or get counseling and stays sober for at least a year – don't marry him. Even then the risk of backsliding is ever-present.

I just read a terrific book that should be in the hands of every person who has a drinking problem. It's not preachy or depressing – just a startlingly frank (and sometimes funny) autobiography of a gifted writer who blew it all and finally got on to himself after too many wasted, booze-soaked years. Title: "Where Did Everybody Go?" by Paul Molloy. (Publisher, Doubleday. Price $11.95). This could be the most important $11.95 you ever spent in your life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Regarding "Marcia," the 14-year-old girl who tickled her friends and punched girls in embarrassing places: You said she should be avoided. I disagree. Confrontation is a far better approach.

I was an only child, spoiled, sheltered, and had limited contact with my peers outside the classroom. When I displayed inappropriate behavior my friends showed their displeasure. Eventually I got wise to myself.

Looking back, I can't understand why my parents were so permissive. They should have called me on the carpet when I was obnoxious and out of line. I am grateful my friends did – even though it was embarrassing at the time.

I became a decent person, considerate of others, and have many friends. I hate to think of how my life might have turned out if my peers had not confronted me.--Changed By Peer Pressure

DEAR CHANGED: You are right. I was out to lunch on that one. Thanks for confronting ME.

Fall-Winter Hairfashions Inspired By First Lady

Hairfashions for Fall and Winter take on a new height in the Looks of Elegance collection designed by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association for cosmetologists to offer to their clients throughout the country.

Inspired by the elegant hairfashion leadership of the nation's First Lady, Nancy Reagan, the Looks of Elegance collection is created for women of all ages and backgrounds in a variety of lengths.

Association Styles Director Doris Williams explained that, "The Look of Elegance can be achieved through one's hairfashion without purchasing a whole new wardrobe this Fall and Winter. The look is designed through multiple layer cutting, fashion perming, creative coloring and expert styling."

The hairfashion collection which includes a variety of lengths to complement the wide range of fashion moods designed for Fall and Winter, is especially attractive for today's working woman, according to Ms. Williams.

"The working woman is finding that an attractive, elegant appearance is a great plus in today's job market. The emphasis on hairfashion height on the front of the head and soft airiness throughout adds elegance to the classic Fall-Winter suit that has been inspired by the ever-popular Chanel suits," Ms. Williams said.

There are also Looks of Elegance styles for those who wish to follow the hairfashion inspirations of American media personalities such as Victorial Principal, Stephanie Powers and Dionne Warwick as well as Great Britain's Lady Diana.

The new hairfashion collection, which features new height as well as width on some designs, is created to balance the fullness developed in Fall-Winter's fashions which emphasize blousson tops, pleated skirts and free flowing tunics.

Ms. Williams explained that the elegant hairfashion feelings provide classic lines that complement fashion's interest in basic black, winter white, Reagan red and the glitter of gold, which are Fall-Winter's fashion colors.

The elegant hairfashions can be dressed up for evening with the addition of glittering, usually golden, hair ornamentation.

"Fashion's new interest in the cocktail dress clearly illustrates the need for classic, elegant hairfashions this Fall-Winter," Ms. Williams said.

The upward hair movement trend, with height on the front of the head, is not restricted to the female. The most fashionable evening looks for the male will have hair that is lubricated for free, upward movement.

"Male haircuts emphasize higher hair on the front of the head, natural and casual feelings, full volume and clean, distinct lines which enhance facial features. Male hair length is optional and is determined according to adaptability, hair density and facial bone structure," Ms. Williams said.

"Men also are learning the benefits of hair highlighting. Soft shine coloring offers blonde highlights in the Fall and Winter that equal natural blonde highlights received from the sun in the summer time," Ms. Williams said.

The haircoloring emphasis for women during Fall and Winter also includes soft shining in addition to red on red, wine coloring, blondes on blondes and cognac colors.

Both the male and female clients with heavy grey can benefit from what is called "mature coloring," which is the taking back of a percentage of grey to achieve a younger overall appearance without making a drastic change.

A variety of perming techniques are used on both male and female hairfashions throughout the Looks of Elegance collection.

The Fall-Winter hairfashions were designed by NHCA Styles Director Doris Williams of Statesville, North Carolina and the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association's Fall-Winter Coiffure Design Committee, which includes Michael Diano, Santa Monica, California; Candi Ekstrom, Altamonte Springs, Florida; Robert Navone, Margate, New Jersey and Mel Tozer, St. Clair Shore, Michigan.

These five individuals premiered the collection at the association's 61st Annual Convention and Show of Shows at the New York Hilton Hotel. It was the first time the event was held in New York in 40 years.

Canning, Freezing Program Scheduled Wednesday Morning

Louise Walker, County Extension Agent, will be teaching a canning and freezing program on Wednesday, July 29 at the Flame Room, Energas. The meeting place has been changed from the originally scheduled -- Heritage Room, Library to the Flame Room, Energas. The canning program will begin at 10 a.m. with the freezing program to begin at 1:30 p.m.

The basics of water bath and pressure canning will be reviewed. The principles of freezing foods will be included in the afternoon. Mrs. Walker will show examples of canned and frozen foods.

The program is free of charge. Everyone is invited.

Remember the meeting place has been changed from the Heritage Room, Library to the Flame Room, Energas.

JEWS PLACE UPON the Seder table a special goblet designated for the prophet Elijah, who is pictured on this glass with gold leaf overlay, probably from 18th century Vienna. The cup is a reminder of the redemption that will come with the arrival of the messiah, for whom Elijah is the harbinger.

Who Am I?

Patience and computer-like consistency were my trademarks. I was known as a quiet little guy. I guess I don't look much like a sports hero. I tried to use my brains. It helped to make me a champion for more than 20 years.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

Tomorrow in St. Paul's Cathedral in London, the heir to the British throne will take a wife.

Most Americans caught up in the pageantry, the tradition, the romance of a prince marrying the beautiful girl next door will lose sight of the real history that is being made.

It will mark the first time a mother of a bridegroom did not see the wedding from the kitchen.

Have you any idea the virgin trails this woman has blazed? As a mother of sons, I knew what I am talking about. Her precedents should not go unnoted.

We all know how the mothers of bridegrooms have always worn beige and kept their mouths shut. Prince Charles' mother has decreed she gets to choose a color for her dress that will be worn by no other person at the wedding. (She's opted to wear short, which is wise. She can wear it again without having to cut it off.)

And how does the bridegroom's mother usually get to the church? Crammed in the VW of one of her son's friends, holding a box if iced tea spoons and a jar of Sanka for the reception which someone forgot. Charles' mother has taken it upon herself to not only decide the order of the coach procession, but she gets pick of the livery.

And how many mothers of the bridegroom have entered church to see 15 guests on "his" side and 3,000 of the bride's dearest friends on the other side of the aisle? Charles' mother kept 300 tickets for her son's friends and gave the bride's parents only 100.

There is no question, Charles' mother has been an inspiration to mothers of sons everywhere. Who among us with a 33-year-old unmarried son who went to funerals for a living would not have panicked?

Be honest now. I have known mothers who have offered unprecedented finder's fees, and a few of us have actually followed up leads from the Welcome Wagon lady.

But Charles' mother, with her stubborn determination to serve tradition, announced, "The family put pressure on Charles to find a girl with no past and there aren't too many 20-year-old virgins available."

I salute Charles' mother for her courage and her vision. The only thing that would make the day complete would be to see the royal couple cut the 15 wedding cakes and see the bride's mother, Frances what's-her-name, running around with a bowl of ice water, dipping in the sword after each piece is cut.

Ugly delicacy

The bald-headed ibis is a particularly homely waterfowl. Yet it was one of the first birds of Europe to be protected, mainly because its young were regarded as delicacies that only graced the tables of nobility. The earliest recorded ban on indiscriminate hunting of the bald-headed ibis was issued in 1504 by Archbishop Leonhead of Salzburg.

Prayer to The Holy Spirit

Oh Holy Spirit, thou who art all knowing, who brightens every path that I may reach my ideal, though who giveth me the divine gift of forgiving and forgetting wrongs done unto me and who in every instant of my life art with me, I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all your blessings and re-affirm once again that I never want to part from thee though the illusion of material things abound.

My desire is to be with thee and all my loved ones in perpetual grace. Thank you for your mercy on me and mine.

(Person should pray 3 consecutive days without revealing petition. Within three days grace will be attained regardless of how difficult the petition may be.)

Publish this prayer, once grace attained.

Grateful for Grace attained,

The Hereford Brand Sports

Football Training Begins

School begins a week early for the Hereford Whiteface football team.

Aug. 17 is the day Coach Don Cumpton and his staff will start training prospects for the 1981 grid season. The athletes will work out in shorts and shoes for four days, then they'll don the pads and begin heavy contact drills.

At the end of two weeks of practice, the Herd will go to Clovis for a scrimmage session. The opening game is scheduled Sept. 4 at Pampa, then the Whitefaces make their home debut against Amarillo Palo Duro on Sept. 11.

Gibson Enters Baseball Hall Of Fame

Bob Gibson pitched in an era of some of baseball's greatest hurlers. Major league mounds were peopled by pitchers like Sandy Koufax, Juan Marichal, Don Drysdale, and Jim Maloney in those days.

So it seemed entirely reasonable to ask Gibson which pitcher from his time he would choose to hurl if his team needed to win that one, crucial game.

He considered the question for, oh, perhaps two seconds. The answer was easy. It required a single word.

"Me!" he said.

Not a bad choice. The man compiled an enviable record, winning 251 games in 17 seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals and striking out 3,117 batters, third best on the alltime list. The credentials earned him election to baseball's Hall of Fame, and he will be inducted Sunday.

His plaque in Cooperstown will contain the usual set of numbers chronicling a marvelous career which produced — among other achievements — 56 shutouts, five 20-victory seasons and a 2.91 career earned-run average.

That's all very nice, but if Gibson could choose one thing to be remembered by, it would not be the numbers he accumulated, but the way he approached his craft.

"I don't care if people like me," he said. "I want people to respect me. I want them to know me as a competitor, to know that I gave 100 percent everytime. I don't want them to think I ever cheated them. I want them to know that I gave my best, every time."

Gibson's best was awfully good. There was a 7-2 World Series record including an awesome, record-setting 17 strikeout performance against Detroit in the 1968 opener. The 15th whiff that day set the record, and catcher Tim McCarver, understandably, was rather excited by that development.

"At 15, McCarver came out and was waving his arms," Gibson recalled. "I motioned for him to throw the ball back, but he wouldn't. He kept pointing at the scoreboard. I said, 'OK, fine, now give me the ball and let's go.'"

That was Gibson's style. All business. No nonsense. There was simply no monkeying around allowed while he was in his office on the mound. His competitive approach to the game was legendary.

"Bill White and I were roommates at St. Louis," he said. "He liked to swing at the ball outside. I told him if either of us ever got traded and he hit my pitch out there, I'd hit him on the arm."

White was sent to Philadelphia, and sure enough he came to the plate one day with Gibson on the mound.

"He fouled off an outside pitch, and I hit him on the elbow with the next one. He and I were close, but when he was on the other club, I had to win."

Winning — that's how you get to the Hall of Fame.

Rozelle Believes NFL To Win Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle predictably considers the league the favorite to win its court battle to keep the Oakland Raiders in Oakland, but he also believes the NFL could survive a loss.

"I don't think the league would fold up and go away (if it loses); it would lower the level we are at now," Rozelle said out of court Monday after closing arguments began in the trial of the antitrust suit brought by the Raiders and Los Angeles Coliseum against the NFL.

Rozelle also said that, should the jury find for the Raiders, the case would be appealed and "We don't think we're going to lose at all levels."

NFL attorneys get their final shot at the seven-woman, three-man jury today when they present closing arguments, hoping to preserve a provision of the league constitution requiring three-fourths of the 28 team owners to approve any franchise move — and keep the Raiders in Oakland.

The league's defense appears to have been hurt by U.S. District Judge Harry Pregerson's paring the case for the jury deliberations. On Friday the judge ruled that the NFL is not a single entity, removing that from the jury's consideration. Rozelle and other defense witnesses had tried to convey the league as a partnership, while the Raiders painted a picture of 28 different owners competing in business.

Pregerson's instructions to the jury, which is expected to get the case Wednesday, narrowed to three the issues it must decide.

The judge told the jurors Monday that the three claims they would have to consider are whether the NFL and its member clubs violated the Sherman antitrust Act by refusing to let the Raiders move to Los Angeles; whether the league breached an oral contract to allow that move; and whether the defendants violated their implied promise of good faith and fair bargaining by blocking the move.

During closing arguments Monday by the plaintiffs, Raiders' attorney Joseph Alioto told the jury that the NFL constitution's provision concerning moves, rule 4.3, was "an unreasonable restraint on trade" and that the rule's purpose was to "carve out territories, then provide the device to protect them."

Alioto tried to impress upon the jury that a victory by the Raiders would not necessarily have a negative influence on the league. He contended that in three previous court challenges to the NFL — over the draft system, compensation, and television blackouts — the league actually emerged stronger.

Meetings Set on Each Coast

Strike Into Seventh Week

CHICAGO (AP) — Striking major league players and club owners will be meeting on opposite coasts Wednesday as the walkout that has canceled more than 25 percent of the 1981 baseball season continues through its seventh week.

Armed with a vote of confidence from the player representatives, Marvin Miller, executive director of the union, will hold the first in a series of regional meetings in Los Angeles. Miller said no further meetings had been scheduled.

At the same time, the 26 club owners will gather in New York for an update from the Player Relations Committee and their chief negotiator, Ray Grebey.

That means there can be no negotiations to end the strike probably before the weekend.

Miller spent more than five hours Monday night briefing the executive board of the union on the negotiations, which broke down last Thursday in Washington. The two sides had bargained for four days with a news blackout and Miller said he thought the players needed an update on the status of their strike.

Some 25-30 players who are not executive board members showed up for Monday night's meeting.

"Half of them didn't have the facts," Miller said. "There was an information gap not of our doing. A news blackout is a catastrophe for an organization like ours. There was a terrible information gap for four days (in Washington). Those were important days."

Miller said that although the players have never felt they were close to a settlement, that there had been some progress made for the first time about midway through the bargaining in Washington last week.

"But there is still an awful gap between us."

The basic issue remains the source of compensation for teams losing free agent players in baseball's annual re-entry draft. Miller said that the players' last proposal, made a week ago today, offered more compensation in the form of a professional player than the clubs had asked for.

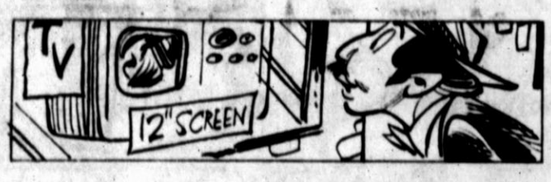

"The clubs' position throughout has been the necessity of filling the hole left by a free agent signing with another team," said Miller. "We have known for a long time that's not the problem. We proved it last week. Our offer said that after you protect 24, the club losing the free agent could pick the No. 25 player from the roster of any of eight teams."

But the union chief said management's counter-proposal was that non-signing clubs could protect 28 players, less compensation than the union was offering, while signing clubs could protect only 24.

"That's to make sure that the compensation is taken from the signing club," Miller said.

If a club lost a player through compensation, it would receive $150,000 under management's plan unless the signing club was involved. In that case, no payment would follow.

"That's another example of punishing a team for signing a free agent," Miller said.

Yokohama Breaks Record

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Mayumi Yokohama of Southern Cal may have surprised a number of people when she broke the World University Games 400-meter individual medley record in swimming. She surprised herself even more by doing it twice in one day.

Yokohama shaved six seconds off the previous record of 5 minutes 6.65 seconds when she was timed in 5:00.49 in qualifying Monday morning. She lowered that mark by another five seconds later in the day, capturing the gold medal in 4:55.45 in the final.

"I was pretty surprised by the whole day," Yokohama said. "I'm usually pretty nervous during competition and don't expect this sort of thing."

The United States lost a silver-medal performance in the race. Stanford's Anne Tweedy was second in the 400-meter individual medley in 4:57.68 but was disqualified for making an illegal turn along with Canadian Lisa Dixon and Barbara Selter of West Germany.

American coaches filed a protest, but to no avail.

"It's a pretty rare thing to see three disqualifications in a single race," said U.S. assistant coach Frank Comfort.

The silver medal was awarded to Romania's Irinel Panulescu, while Poland's Rozycka Malgorzata got the bronze.

Kim Linehan of the University of Texas gave the Americans a second swimming gold Monday, taking the 800-freestyle in a games record 8:37.50. Irina Laritscheva of the Soviet Union was a distant second.

Sergei Fessenko of the Soviet Union won the other swimming final Monday night, winning the men's 400-meter individual medley in a games record time of 4:25.53.

The American women's basketball team advanced to today's gold medal game against the Soviet Union, defeating Romania 74-64 behind a 21-point game by Oregon State center Carol Menken. The Soviets downed China 78-53 in the other semifinal.

Semifinal action in men's basketball gets underway today with the United States meeting Romania and the Soviets playing Yugoslavia.

Local idol Virginia Ruzici captured a pair of gold medal in tennis. She downed Lucia Romanov 6-1, 6-1 in the all-Romanian women's singles final and then teamed with Florin Segarceanu to post a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Russia's Sergei Leoniuk and Ludmila Makarova in the mixed doubles final.

American Kelly Henry won the bronze in women's singles, defeating Makarova, 6-3, 6-1.

Segarceanu also advanced to the men's finals after Thomas Emmrich of East Germany walked off the court trailing 7-6, 4-1. It originally was thought Emmrich defaulted the match in protest over calls by the line judges, but it was later disclosed he was feeling ill.

In the men's other tennis semifinal, Vadim Borisov of the Soviet Union whipped Andrei Dirzu of Romania 6-2, 6-1.

The U.S. water polo team assured itself of at least a silver medal as it posted its fifth straight victory with 7-3 decision over Hungary. The Americans can win the gold by beating Romania in its final match today.

49ers Find Summer Work-Out Place

ROCKLIN, Calif. (AP) — Dan Bunz found a summer place for the San Francisco 49ers and is working now to secure his place in the team's starting lineup.

"They brought in a bunch of linebackers and gave them a chance to take my job the last two years, but they always came back to me in the end," Bunz said between workouts at the 49ers' new preseason training site, a junior college campus a few minutes from the linebacker's home.

Soon after last season ended, Bunz paid a visit to the 49ers' offices to ask Coach Bill Walsh about the team's seeming lack of confidence in him.

"I only started nine games, but I led the team in tackles," Bunz said. "I stated that I thought I should go elsewhere if they didn't think I was good enough to start here."

After Bunz had his say and was told by Walsh that an off-season trade was possible, he ran into John McVay, director of player personnel for the team. McVay told him the 49ers were looking for a new summer training site, and Bunz suggested the Sierra College facilities.

"My brother went to school here, and I've been working out here in the off-season every year," said Bunz, who was chosen by the 49ers in the first round of the 1978 National Football League draft after finishing his college career at Long Beach State.

The 6-foot-4, 228-pound linebacker has been a starter, except for the few demotions, since turning pro. Right now, he and newcomer Jack Reynolds are listed as first-team inside linebackers in the 49ers' 3-4 defense.

The 49ers allowed 415 points in 1980, a 6-10 season, and the defense ranked 27th in the NFL in yardage allowed.

"But good players can breed good players, and I think we've got a lot of good new ones this year," said Bunz, alluding to a group of rookie defensive backs as well as Reynolds, the former Los Angeles Rams star.

"We had a mini-camp this spring, and I was told to just come to camp in good shape and forget about a trade," Bunz said.

Walsh plans to stick with the four-linebacker allignment this year, and he says, "I'm hopeful that Bunz comes through for us. He's definitely a key man."

"We're not real big at the defensive end spots and I don't know exactly what that will mean," Walsh said. "But it could put extra pressure on our linebackers."

What Would Happen If Strike Is Settled?

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

If — and it's becoming a big if — the 1981 baseball season is ever resumed, what format will it take?

Will teams simply pick up where they left off, or will some more complex formula be adopted to determine the champion of this strike-scarred season?

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's staff has been informally polling teams in an effort to get their input and reactions to various proposals as to what shape a resumed season should take. A spokesman for Kuhn said it's premature to discuss those plans right now.

"It's premature to get into something that may occur Aug. 1, Aug. 15, or whenever," said Chuck Adams of the commissioner's office. "A key to anything is to get a settlement. Once we've got a settlement, we'll be able to say where we go from there."

One direction could be to make 1981 into a split season — declare the leaders at the time of the strike the winners of the first half, then start from scratch when the strike is settled and play a second half. The two winners would meet in a mini-series to determine the four division champions, and the rest would procede normally.

The split-season concept was proposed by Al Rosen, president of the Houston Astros, who believes there are too many inequities in the schedule to pick up the season where it was interrupted.

"Some teams would end up playing more home games than others, and teams would play each other different numbers of times," Rosen said Monday. "One of the most important factors is that if we just picked up where we left off, many teams wouldn't have the opportunity to make up lost ground. They're so far behind they'd be out of the running right away and there would be diminished fan interest in those cities.

"If you start it fresh, it will give the fans in every city something to root for."

The Atlanta Braves have endorsed this proposal, according to executive vice president Al Thornwell, who described it as "the best way to revive interest in the season in all major league cities."

Nonsense! says Eddie Einhorn, president of the Chicago White Sox.

"You're not going to fool the people," Einhorn said. "They know a bad team when they see one. Some people favor the split season because it keeps everybody in the race, but the bad teams will still lose. To start all over again and play another inequitable season would just compound the situation and penalize the good teams."

Instead, Einhorn proposes expanding the number of teams which qualify for postseason play. Instead of just the division champions, he'd let the top two, three or four teams in each division advance into mini-series.

But before any solution is adopted, the owners and players must solve their dispute over free agent compensation. And although no cut-off date has been set by Kuhn's office, you have to wonder how much longer the strike can continue before all talk of formats for a resumed season becomes irrelevant.

Interception Scoreless Scrimmage Highlight

Spradlin, 6-1, 228, is one of four linebackers drafted by the Cowboys. Going into the scrimmage, he was listed as the No.4 middle linebacker behind Bob Breunig, Bruce Huther and ninth-round draft choice Paul Piurowski of Florida State.

Coach Tom Landry has said he is looking for improvement from his reserve linebackers.

Americans Place In Sports Festival

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Olympic veteran John Powell won the discus, American record holder Pam Spencer took the high jump and 17-year-old Kim Gallagher captured the 3,000 meters at the National Sports Festival.

Powell's gold medal throw in the discus was 214 feet, 1 inch, to beat Art Burns, who was second with 210-0. Four-time Olympic gold medalist Al Oerter was third with 206-2.

Spencer, 23, of Northridge, Calif., took the high jump gold with a leap of 6 feet, 3¼ inches. She set the American women's record of 6-5¼ in May 30 in Wichita, Kan. The world mark of 6-7 is held by Sara Simeoni of Italy.

Kim Carter of Wichita, Kan., was second in 6-¾, and Phyliss Bluntson of Los Angeles was third in 6-0.

Gallagher, who will be a senior at Upper Darby High School in Pennsylvania, finshed the 3,000 meters in 9 minutes, 19.67 seconds. She has been impressive here. She finished second to Madeline Manning-Mims in the 800 Sunday. Debbie Eide of Salem, Ore., was second in the 3,000 in 9:20:08, and Mary Shea of Greensboro, N.C., was third with 9:2:11.

Ron Brown, Eric Brown, James Sanford and Dwayne Evans of the West team won the 400-meter relay in 39.28 seconds. The West women's team of Alice Brown, Jeannette Boldtlen, Florence Griffith and Jackie Washington won the women's 400 relay in 44.14.

Both teams received their medals from New York Gov. Hugh Carey and his wife, Evangeline Gouletas Carey.

Dodgers Beat Captains, 4-1

By The Associated Press

Tom Beyers hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the 10th inning to give the San Antonio Dodgers a 4-1 Texas League baseball victory over the Shreveport Captains Monday night.

In other Texas League action, El Paso edged Tulsa, 3-2, Midland shut out Jackson, 8-0, and Arkansas slipped past Amarillo, 2-1.

Beyers' homer came with two out and ended what had been a pitching duel.

Tom Niedenfuer, 11-3, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Jim Dunn, 7-3.

Stan Davis and Bob Skube had two doubles each as the El Paso Diablos edged the Tulsa Drillers, 3-2.

Weldon Swift, Chick Valley and Rene Quinones combined to hold the Drillers to only four hits. Kevin Richards and Jack Lazorko turned in a good pitching performance for Tulsa, holding the Diablos to only seven hits.

Valley, 7-5, was the winning pitcher. Richards, 4-5, was the loser.

Pitcher Craig Lefferts pitched a shutout as the Midland Cubs beat the Jackson Mets, 8-0.

Lefferts retired the last 17 batters in order.

Gotay Mills drove home two runs with a double in the eighth inning as the Arkansas Travelers slipped past the Amarillo Gold Sox, 2-1.

The winning pitcher was Jim Gott, 4-7. Troy Dixon, 6-10, was the loser.

Nielson In Spotlight

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Until last Thursday Houston Oiler quarterback Gifford Nielsen was better known as kicker Toni Fritsch's holder and for his television commercials about a dry cleaning establishment.

Sure, Nielsen was undefeated in three starts over three seasons with the Oilers and was tabbed as the Oiler quarterback of the future.

But Nielsen had no way of knowing that the future arrived last Thursday when veteran quarterback Ken Stabler announced his retirement from the game, thrusting Nielsen into the starting position.

Although coming off the most frustrating season of his career, Nielsen feels ready for the challenge.

"I haven't had a lot of playing time, but when I did play I think I played to win and we were successful," Nielsen said. "Hopefully, we can continue without missing a beat as if nothing happened. Hopefully we won't digress, just progress."

Part of his confidence, Nielsen says, centers around his teammates. "We have the kind of team where a young quarterback can come in and replace a veteran.

"When I make some mistakes we have the kind of team that will be able to pull through some of my rough edges."

Nielsen, a devout Morman, brings a different image to the quarterback role compared to his fun-loving predecessors, Stabler and Dan Pastorini. Nielsen denies, however, that his softer off-the-field image is any reflection of his aggressiveness as a football player.

"I've heard that theory before and I totally disagree with it," Nielsen said. "I'm going on the field and fight harder than anyone because I hate to lose. It just gets down to an individual and what his will to win is and how he gets the job done."

Nielsen suffered through a season of inactivity in 1980 when former Coach Bum Phillips went almost exclusively with Stabler in a desperate attempt to reach the Super Bowl. Nielsen completed two of his four passes for 12 yards last season.

"Last year was my toughest year in the NFL," Nielsen said. "It was really frustrating for me, especially when I started out by dislocating my shoulder. I just got off on the wrong foot and then I didn't get a chance to play."

The former Brigham Young star will get his chance to play this season and he is looking forward to the challenge even if Stabler sould un-retire as surprisingly as he retired.

Brian Oldfield Wants Status As Amateur Cleared, Once and for All

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Brian Oldfield would like to have his status clarified once and for all.

"I am not a professional — not even a semi-professional amateur. I am an amateur," the burly, colorful Oldfield said Monday after winning the shot put title at the National Sports Festival.

The U.S. Olympic Committee and the International Olympic Committee do not agree. They maintain he is tainted because of his participation in the International Track Association, a professional circuit that operated between 1973-76.

Oldfield has been ruled eligible by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, but the USOC and the IOC have not given him their blessing to participate in the Olympic Games.

He and pole vaulter Steve Smith, another former ITA member, file suit in New York State Supreme Court in Syracuse. Justice William Roy ruled in favor of the athletes, and much to the chagrin of USOC officials, Oldfield and Smith became part of the field.

Oldfield won his event with a throw of 58 feet 5 inches. Michael Carter had to settle for second at 67-2 and Dave Laut was third at 66-2½.

Oldfield's victory came on the final day of the Festival's three-day track and field competition at Sunnycrest Park.

Gov. and Mrs. Hugh Carey attended long enough to make presentations to the medalists in the men's and women's 400-meter relay races, and to heptathlon winner Cindy Greiner of Oregon State University.

In the feature race, a weakened Craig Virgin overtook Alberto Salazar with 2¾ laps left and won the 5,000 by about 20 yards in 13 minutes 35.4 seconds.

While the 5,000 turned into a runaway, there were two extremely close finishes.

In the women's 1,500, Cindy Bremser nipped Jan Merrill, 4:15.62 to 4:15.65. In the men's 400-meter relay, Dwayne Evans, running anchor for the West team, edged Harvey Glance of the South at the wire. The time for the West squad, which also consisted of Ron Brown, Eric Brown and James Sanford, was 39.28. The South was clocked in 39.34.

The West, with Alice Brown, Jeannette Bolden, Florence Griffith and Jackie Washington, also won the women's 400 in 44.14 and took the women's 1,600 relay in 3:31.72 with Paulette Clagon, Arlise Emerson, Rosalyn Bryant and Denean Howard.

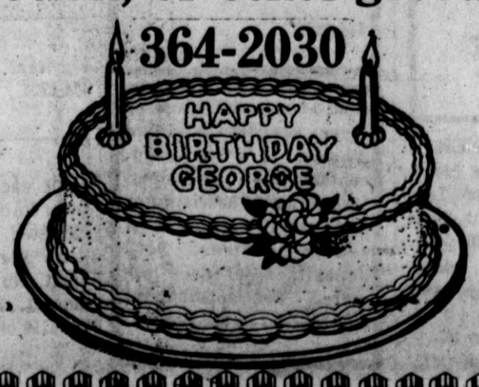

Ed Yearwood, with a strong anchor leg, led the East to victory in the men's 1,600 in 3:03.60.

In other events: John Powell, a member of three Olympic teams, won the discus at 214-1 as four-time Olympic champion Al Oerter finished fourth at 206-2; American record-holder Pam Spencer took the women's high jump at 6-3¼; Kathy McMillan-Roy beat American record-holder Jodi Anderson in the women's long jump with 21-2¾, and 17-year-old Kim Gallagher of Upper Darby (Pa.) High School was a surprise winner in the women's 3,000 in 9:19.67.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Mental stress no substitute

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need some help from you. You have said so much about exercise and physical fitness that my husband is after me. He is becoming a fitness nut. He claims that my lack of exercise is harmful, but he doesn't realize that I am tired.

I work in an office five days a week and am either typing or answering the telephone. After all I have to put up with during the day, when I get home I don't feel like Mrs. Energy USA and I am not about to go for a jog with him. If I did it would probably kill me.

It is all I can do to get dinner ready. He says that if I would do something besides watch TV I would feel better. Can you tell him that when you are tired that doing more exercise is just more work and makes matters worse? If you would he might listen to me. He reads your column and that is why he is such a fitness nut to begin with so you owe it to me to give me a break.

DEAR READER — The kind of break you should have is an exercise break. Your story is typical of millions of office workers. Sitting all day or engaging in only light activity is hard on your body. We call it deconditioning.

Our bodies are designed to be active, within reason. And the mental stress of office environments is no substitute for physical activity. It can add to your tired feeling. The antidote to mental stress is physical stress, in most instances, but you must be in shape to engage in adequate physical stress if it is going to help you any.

Sitting and limited physical activity is similar to bed rest in many respects. You accumulate adrenaline, the stress hormone, in your heart muscle and brain. Your heart gets small and loses its capacity to respond to increased levels of physical activity. The bone marrow gets sluggish and you can even lose calcium from your bones.

That tired feeling you have will begin to melt away if you will begin a light exercise program when you get home. A good walk is a good place to start. As you build up it is useful to develop a program you enjoy, whether it is jogging, swimming, tennis, dancing or whatever appeals to you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can appendicitis be determined by symptoms and X-rays so that a diagnosis can be made before a rupture occurs?

DEAR READER — Usually, but not always. Sometimes the first symptom may be when the appendix ruptures. In adults, particularly older persons, the symptoms of appendicitis are not at all typical and such cases are often difficult or impossible to diagnose. In children and young adults the symptoms are usually typical enough that the physical examination and blood tests are more reliable and are adequate to make a strong presumptive diagnosis before the appendix ruptures.

Even in young people there are a number of cases that are quite atypical. The pain may be in the wrong location or there may not be good physical findings of an inflamed appendix. There also are a number of other illnesses that mimic appendicitis. The diagnosis is not simple in all cases.

DEAR DR. LAMB — After reading your column on virility slowing at 77, I decided to write and ask for your Health Letter on impotence. My husband is 68 and I am 66. We have not had intercourse in three years and five months. Like the woman who wrote to you, I felt my husband was having sexual relations with another woman all this time. Could I be wrong?

My husband has high blood pressure and every day for the last 10 years has taken medication to control it. Could this be responsible for his lack of desire for sex?

I'm not a hot-pot at this age but three years and five months seems very unusual to me. He also has pills for sugar control and has arthritis which flares up periodically.

DEAR READER — You may well have done your husband a disservice by assuming he was having extramarital affairs. It is a poor idea in human relations to make assumptions.

Yes, some medications used for high blood pressure can cause impotence — usually not in every case but in, say, 10 percent of patients who take them. In that case the doctor can often change the type of medications used to relieve the problem.

Impotence is a symptom, not a diagnosis. Anyone with this problem deserves a careful examination to determine its cause. Although men are very sensitive about it, this is not an unusual event in a man's life. And your problem is made worse by a failure to talk about it. I gather you are not really sure if your husband is impotent or not. That suggests basic communications problems between you.

Be nice to him. Let him know that you realize he has medical problems and really want him to feel better and be happier. In that way you may encourage him to help solve whatever the problem is.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My father has just learned that he has two large bezoars in his stomach. What should he use to dissolve them? His doctor put him on one teaspoon of meat tenderizer with each meal. Is this safe?

DEAR READER — Bezoars are undigested masses of material that usually are found in the stomach. They may be a hair ball or undigested material from plant fibers. Persimmons contain a substance, particularly under their skin, that reacts with the acid contents of the stomach to form an undigestable mass or bezoar.

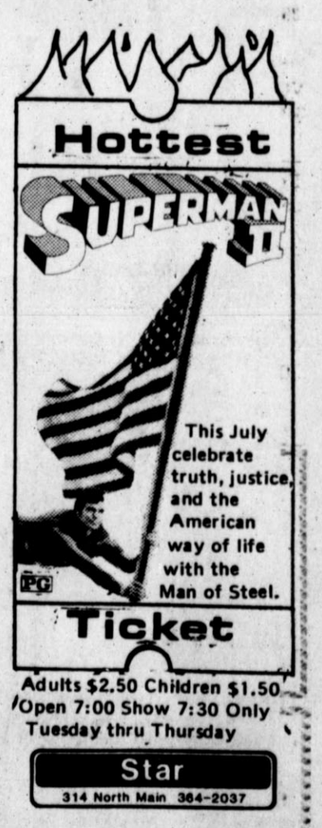

Enzymes, including those found in tenderizers, are used with some success to remove some of these masses. They can be broken up mechanically inside the stomach or in some cases must be removed surgically.

The mass can obstruct the stomach, causing symptoms. Bezoars are of some historical significance. They were believed to have magical powers, including healing powers. Queen Elizabeth had one framed in gold and kept with her crown jewels in 1622.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was wondering if there is any danger in taking 250 mg of tetracycline twice a day for a long period of time. I started taking tetracycline eight years ago for my complexion and am still taking it. Can you advise me as to whether I should stop or is it OK for me to keep taking it?

DEAR READER — If you have gotten along with it for eight years it sounds like you are not likely to have any of the rare complications from taking tetracyclines. You should know that it increases your sensitivity to the sun so you may be more susceptible to getting a sunburn.

You should also be careful not to take tetracyclines during a pregnancy. The tetracycline will cross through the placenta and can affect the developing baby. And it may stain the baby teeth a yellow color. Also, if possible, children under 8 years of age should not be given tetracyclines, because it can stain the developing permanent teeth. It will not stain the teeth of adults after the teeth have developed.

Fireworks Tonight Will Herald Royal Wedding

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The flash of fireworks and sound of music fill the London skies tonight, heralding the "wedding of the century," and early birds were already camping before the great dome of St. Paul's Cathedral to get a good view of the royal bride and groom Wednesday.

As dedicated royalty lovers staked out choice places beneath the bunting and balloons festooning the procession route from Buckingham Palace to St. Paul's Cathedral, Lady Diana Spencer, clasping Prince Charles' hand, made one of her last public appearances before becoming princess of Wales and the future queen of England.

In a final rehearsal Monday at Sir Christopher Wren's 300-year-old cathedral atop Ludgate Hill, the bride and groom met before Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie to practice the ceremony that will be televised to an expected 750 million viewers in 55 nations.

Diana, whose pre-wedding jitters caused her to flee a weekend polo match in tears when confronted by a barrage of cameras, was whisked into the cathedral through an underground parking lot.

After the hour-long rehearsal, however, she faced an enthusiastic throng of 3,000 people. Charles took her hand as they descended the cathedral's 24 front steps to their limousine.

Several hours later the young couple were on view again at Buckingham Palace, where Queen Elizabeth II honored them with a dinner for 90 special guests and a "private" reception attended by 1,500.

"One and a half thousand people may seem a lot for a private party, but they have a very wide circle," said a palace spokesman. "There was no protocol about it. It was purely a party for friends and friends of friends.

President Reagan's wife, Nancy, the official American representative at the wedding, was among the dinner guests. The Three Degrees, the American soul singers who are favorites of Charles, were reported at the reception.

Charles tonight lights the first of a nationwide chain of 101 royal wedding beacons during a $125,000 fireworks display in Hyde Park. The 18-minute finale will use 2½ tons of explosives in a 170-foot catherine wheel as the bands of the House Guards and the Household Cavalry accompany massed choirs and guns boom in celebration.

Meanwhile, police dogs sniffed for bombs under manhole covers and in drains, security forces made sweeps of the wedding procession's two-mile route, and police marksmen got their final briefings.

The 255-pound wedding cake, baked by Royal Navy cooks, was unveiled Monday. The five-foot, five-tier fruit cake was decorated with royal and naval insignia, family crests and replicas of St. Paul's, Buckingham Palace and Highgrove, the prince's country estate and the couple's future home.

As thousands of gifts piled up at the palace, what was declared the world's largest wedding card arrived with the signatures of 25,000 western Australians. Their diplomatic representative in London, Les Slade, noted that the 32-foot-wide greeting "is obviously too big to go on the mantelpiece."

New Heart Beats Strongly And Steadily Inside 36-Year-Old

By KATHY BAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — A transplanted heart continued to beat strongly inside the chest of a 36-year-old Dutchman and doctors remained "guardedly optimistic" about the man who has survived failure of his own heart and connection of an artificial one, nospital officials said.

Willebrordus A. Meuffels' condition remained "touch and go" early today, more than two days after surgeons implanted a human heart to replace the plastic, mechanical heart that sustained him for 54 hours.

"The heart continues to beat strongly and steadily," Texas Heart Insititue spokeswoman Hazel Haby said Monday night. "The doctors are still guardedly optimistic, but every little bit of progress is heartening."

Dr. Denton Cooley, who pioneered use of the artificial heart more than a decade ago, decided to use the man-made organ to give Meuffels a "second chance at life" after the man's own heart gave out following a triple bypass operation Thursday.

Meuffels, only the third man in history to live on an artificial heart, already has survived longer than his two predecessors.

Since his ordeal began Thursday, Meuffels has survived a heart that became ped and interrupted the nor- "completely lifeless," 54 hours on the artificial heart, two transplant operations and a blood-clotting problem.

Surgeons replaced the plastic heart early Sunday morning with an organ from an unidentified 29-year-old Tennessee car accident victim.

Ms. Haby said earlier Monday that the next 48 hours were critical for the retired tourist bus driver from The Netherlands.

"Nobody is relaxing and we are all pulling for him," said Ms. Haby.

She said he has been responsive when spoken to, allaying doctors fears earlier that Meuffels suffered brain damage when his heart stopmal flow of blood to his brain for 45 minutes.

"Doctors asked him if he is hurting and he shakes his head," Ms. Haby said. "And when a nurse asks him to move an arm or leg he does."

Doctors were concerned after the transplant that Meuffels blood was not clotting properly, but Ms. Haby said Monday that the problem "seems to have been corrected."

In the first use of an artificial heart, Cooley implanted a man-made organ in an Illinois man in 1969. The patient lived 65 hours on the artificial heart and another 36 hours on a human heart before he died of pneumonia. The survivors then filed an unsuccessful lawsuit against Cooley, complaining the device had not been tested properly.

Last August, surgeons in Argentina said they had replaced a man's heart with such a device, but the patient died 15 hours later of respirator failure.

Cooley has defended artificial hearts as a method of sustaining patients in emergencies while doctors launch a nationwide search for a suitable human heart transplant donor.

Nancy Reagan Reveals Her Outfit For The Royal Wedding

By CAROLYN LESH
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Nancy Reagan is giving the press a preview of her outfit for the royal wedding the day before the event because "she doesn't want to compete with the bride," her press secretary Sheila Tate says.

Mrs. Tate was to release pictures today of the costume America's first lady will wear to St. Paul's Cathedral Wednesday for the marrige of Prince Charles and Lady Diana Spencer.

The Washington Post reported Sunday that Mrs. Reagan would wear a salmon satin coatdress by her favorite California designer, James Galanos, and a broad-brimmed hat. The Post said Mrs. Tate, when asked to confirm its report, replied, "How did you find out?"

Lady Diana has three spare wedding gowns in reserve in case hers is revealed before the wedding. But "Mrs. Reagan has only one dress ready for the wedding," Mrs. Tate said.

The Washington Post said she bought it some time ago and saved it "for a special occasion."

Mrs. Reagan went to Buckingham Palace Monday night for a gala dinner and reception given by Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip for their son and future daughter-in-law.

The 90 dinner guests included King Olav V of Norway, Queen Margrethe II of Denmark and other heads of state attending the wedding. The 1,500 reception guests were friends of the royal family and "friends of friends," a palace spokesman said.

The president's wife got a big cheer when the large crowd outside the palace gates spotted her limousine driving through.

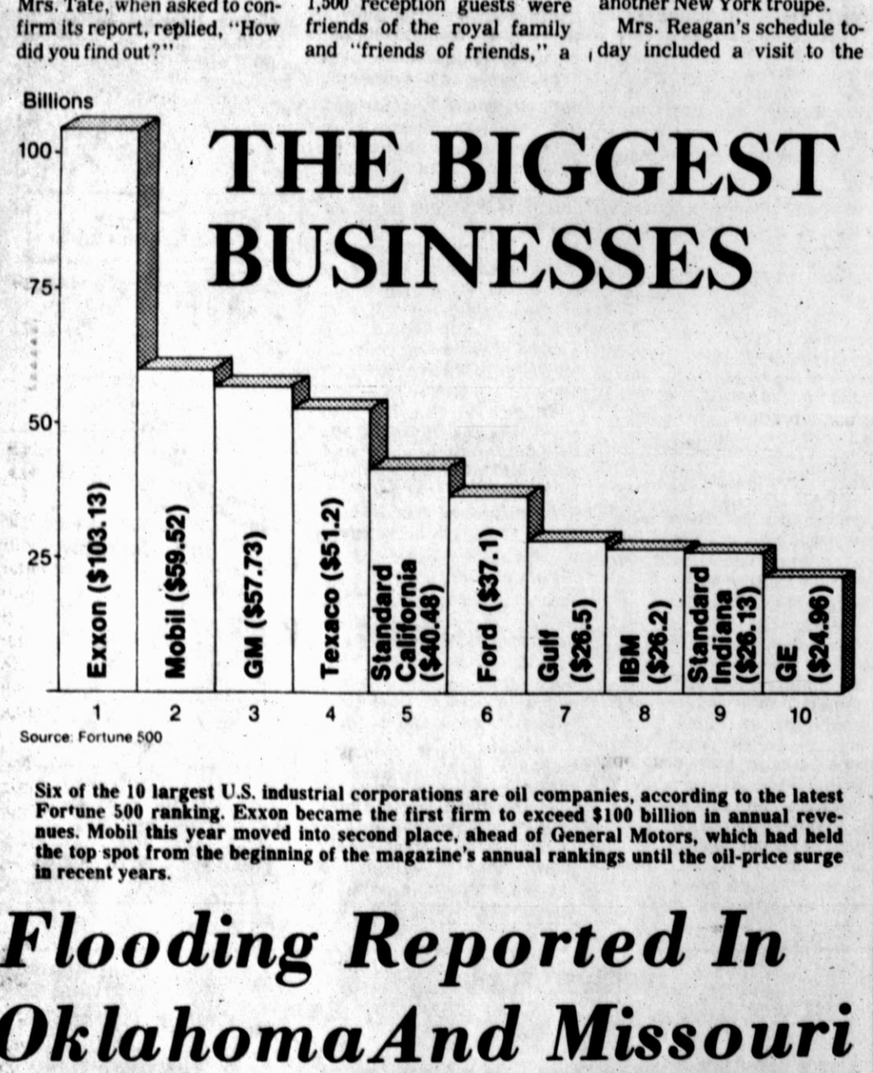

Before going to the palace, Mrs. Reagan visited the Royal Opera House to take in the first act of a performance by the Dance Theater of Harlem and went back stage to talk to the New York dance troupe.

"I'm sorry I can't stay for the whole ballet, but I have to go to the palace," she told the dancers. "I hope you understand."

The dancers murmured "yes" and nodded their heads.

The Reagan's son, Ron, is a ballet dancer with Joffrey II, another New York troupe.

Mrs. Reagan's schedule today included a visit to the Spastics Society, a 13-year-old training and educational facility for cerebral palsy victims. She had asked to view such a training center during her visit.

Six of the 10 largest U.S. industrial corporations are oil companies, according to the latest Fortune 500 ranking. Exxon became the first firm to exceed $100 billion in annual revenues. Mobil this year moved into second place, ahead of General Motors, which had held the top spot from the beginning of the magazine's annual rankings until the oil-price surge in recent years.

Flooding Reported In OklahomaAnd Missouri

By The Associated Press

The roof of a cafe caved in and motorists were stranded at flooded intersections in Oklahoma City, while a dam in New London, Mo., began overflowing after heavy rains swamped parts of the Southwest and Midwest.

A flash flood in Arizona killed at least three people on Sunday.

After baking in 100-degree weather for a week, Oklahoma City got about 5½ inches of rain Monday — nearly 3 inches of it in less than an hour, officials said.

The Red Cross received reports of people perched on their rooftops to escape rising water and several motorists were rescued as Lightning Creek overflowed its banks, spilling water onto nearby roads at a depth of up to 4 feet.

About 25 people were inside the Cattlemen's Cafe Monday night when the kitchen roof collapsed under the weight of collected water, but no injuries were reported.

Dozens of motorists were stranded at low-lying intersections by high water.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol reported shortly after 11 p.m. that Interstate 35 was flooded and impassable in south Oklahoma City.

"We've got reports of cars floating down the 1100 block of North Penn," said a spokesman at the Oklahoma County Emergency Operations Center. "It's just going from bad to worse."

Elsewhere in Oklahoma, authorities said 3 to 4 feet of water blocked traffic along Oklahoma 33 on the east side of Watonga.

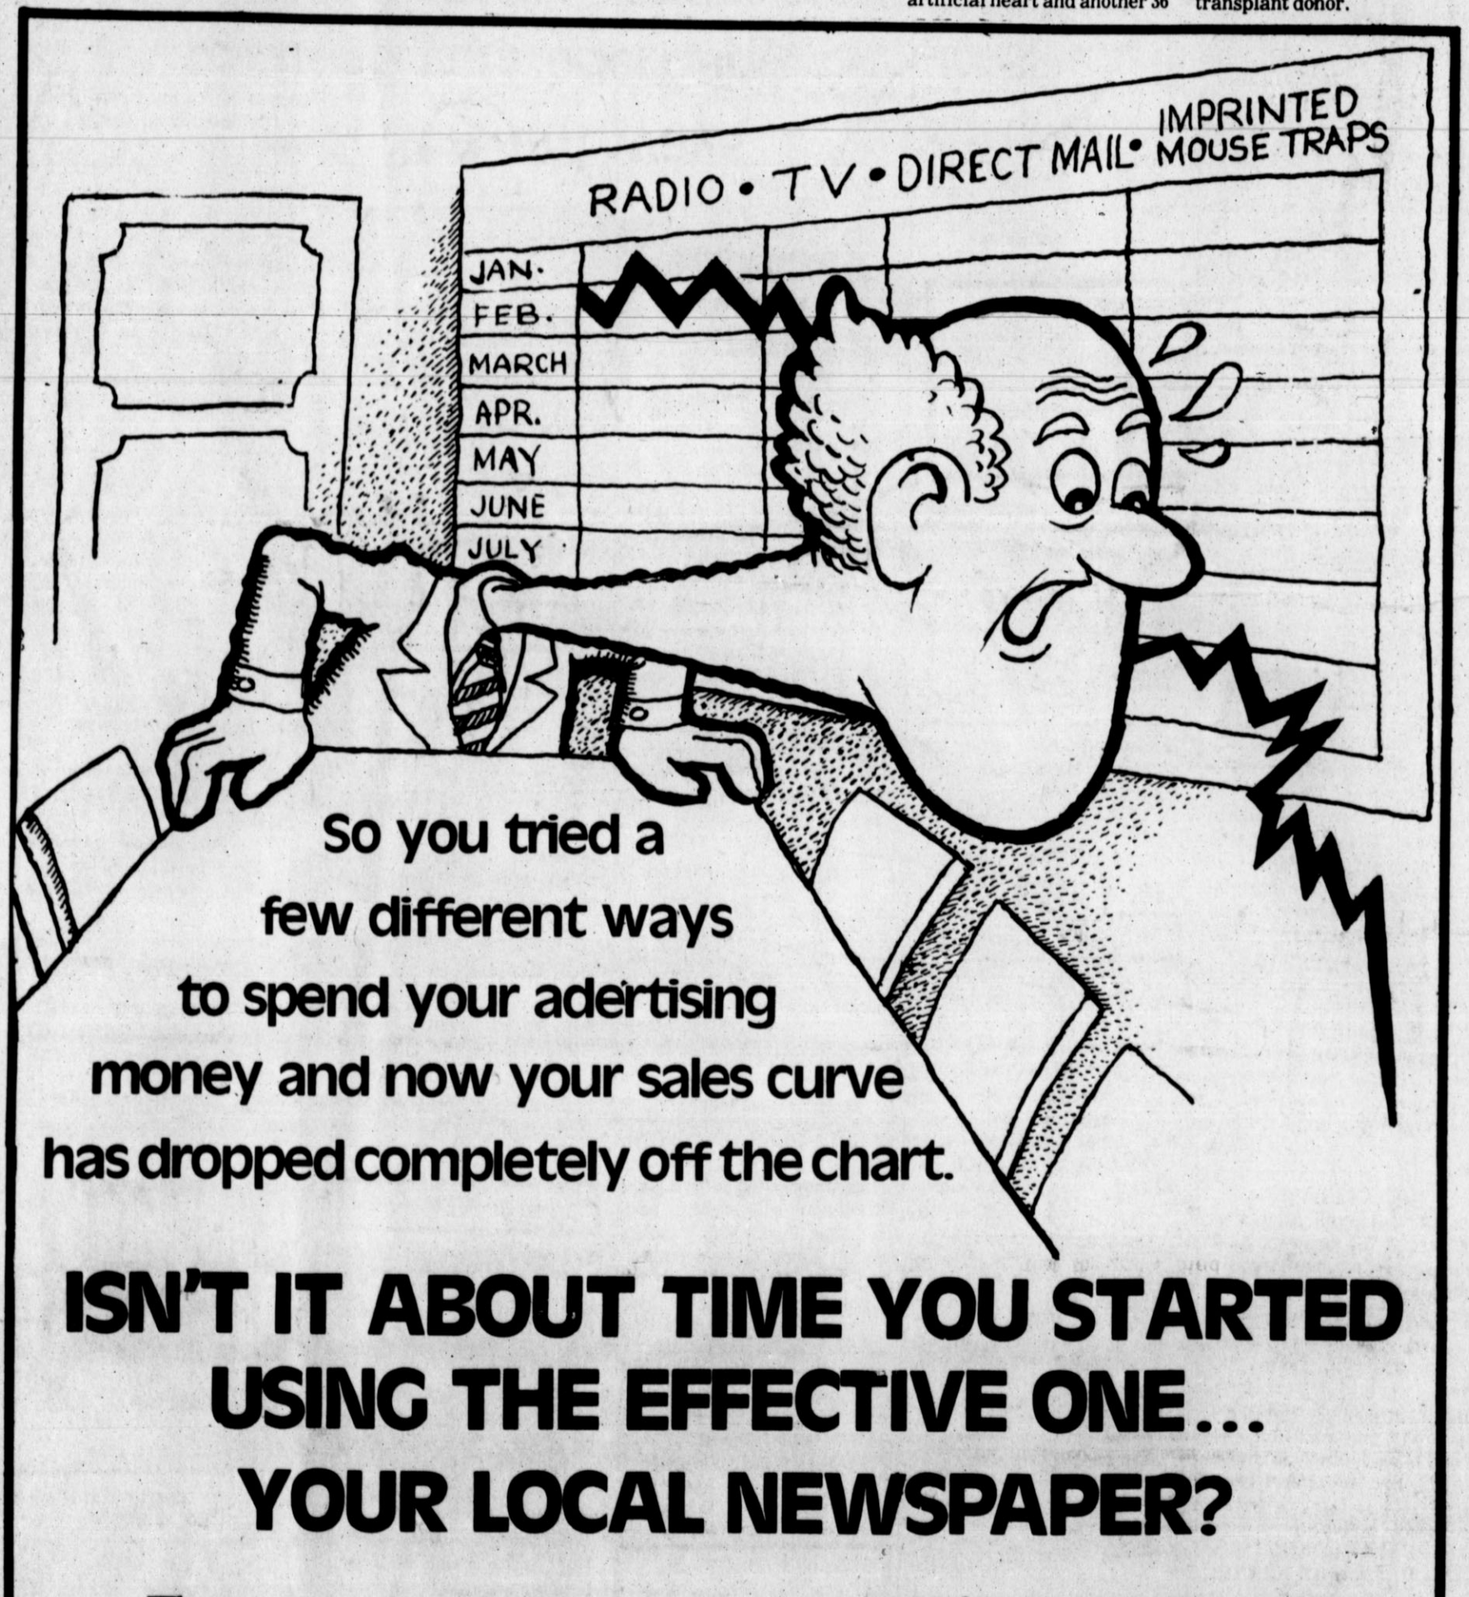

In New London, Mo., floodwaters from the Salt River began overflowing a coffer dam above the Clarence Cannon Dam project Monday night after the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers breached the dam to try to control flooding.

The floodwaters were expected to inundate hundreds of acres of farmland below the dam, causing an estimated $5 million in crop losses.

"With the rainfall Sunday night, it became obvious we could not save the coffer dam," said Col. Robert J. Dacey, district engineer for the corps in St. Louis.

"We took the option of removing dirt from the dam to permit water to overtop it in a controlled fashion," he said.

The coffer dam, made of earth, was built to protect the permanent dam while it is under construction.
