Brine Lake Slated Southwest of Rolla

A brine lake, one of 5 projects proposed by the Corps of Army Engineers to control the salt content of Red River, will extend into southwest Collingsworth County, and another project will lie immediately east of the Oklahoma state line, northwest of Vinson.

Information on the projects was released by Col. Vernon W. Pinkney, CE, District Engineer, Tulsa District, Corps of Engineers, and received by County Judge Zook Thomas Friday, June 18.

The Red River Basin projects covering 5 areas of brine concentration in the lower Panhandle came out of the Arkansas-Red River Basin Water Control Study, authorized by Congress in the Flood Control Act of 1970.

The brine lake extending into the southwest part of the county will be on Dry Salt Creek, at a point where Collingsworth, Hall, and Childress Counties meet, and the brine dam will be about one-half mile north of Highway 256, which runs from US 83 to Memphis.

This project would include two sub-surface collection systems, one on Jonah Creek, and another on Dry Salt Creek near their junctions with Prairie Dog Town Fork of Red River. A 20" pipeline, about 12 miles in length, will carry the brine northwest to the lake. This brine lake should be about 5 miles long and three miles across at its greatest width.

The project northwest of Vinson will be on Elm Creek, approximately 8 miles north of the intersection of Oklahoma Highways 9 and 30, and Highway 30 will cross the project. The subsurface cut off-collection conduit and pump station will be in the vicinity of the Salton Salt Beds, used by pioneers as a source of salt, and this subsequently flows into Salt Fork and Red River.

None of this has any bearing on the quality of water in Elm Creek in Collinsworth County.

The brine lake, located on Fish Creek, a tributary of Elm. It will be about 3.5 miles and 2.5 miles across at its widest. A 12-inch pipeline will bring brine from the collection area.

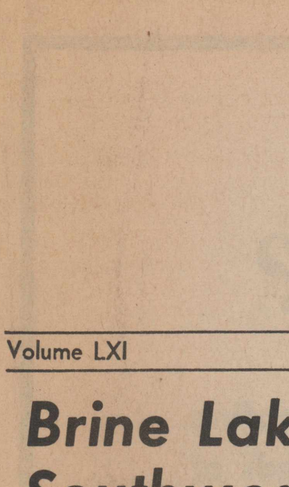

The other projects are in north Cottle- Foard Counties on Middle Pease River and on Little Red in west Hall County

Approximately 23,000 acres of land will be needed for the 5 projects.

No funds for any part of the work have been appropriated by Congress.

"After initial planning funds are made available and plans

Combined County and City Law Enforcement Agency Backed

The first move toward a combined county-city law enforcement body was taken in a meeting of the Commissioners Court and City Council Tuesday evening, June 15.

Several other steps remain before the agency becomes operational, and this probably could not take place before September 1, said Sheriff John Rainey, who would head the set-up.

The proposed joint agency was agreed to for a two-year period, to be financed by the county and city and by a federal grant.

An application has been made for partial funding through the Criminal Justice Council. These federal monies would total $80,991 for the two year period or $53,588 for the first year.

The applications will be reviewed by the CJC advisory board of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission at the monthly meeting July 9, according to County Judge Zook Thomas.

It will then go before the executive members of PRPC on July 21, and if approved, it will be sent to the Texas CJC for final approval, according to Judge C. L. Abernethy, PRPC criminal justice co-ordinator.

The grant application of $53,588 for the first year would be matched by city-county funding of $35,873, and under the contract approved Tuesday, the county will bear 60 per cent of the cost of operation and the city 40 per cent.

Sheriff Rainey outlined what the combined law enforcement office will mean to the county and city.

Four deputies will be assigned to the office, along with three dispachers. Presently, he has one full time deputy, one part time deputy, and one dispacher. Since the resignation of Police Chief Donald Nunnelley in April, the sheriff's office has handled law enforcement for both city and county.

City Night Officer Junior Owens will become a deputy sheriff if the proposed combination goes through. However, Owens principal duties with the City consist of an hour by hour check in the Wellington Fire Zone, the City was given assurance that this will be covered under the new set-up.

Such an hour-by-hour check, verified by punching a time clock, is a requirement if the City is to maintain its fire insurance credit.

New equipment will be available, Sheriff Rainey explained.

Two cars are to be furnished by the City.

The federal grant would cover certain salaries, and if the salaries of the officers are raised during the two-year period, the federal grant will cover 50 per cent of the cost of the increase.

Radio equipment for cars and for a base station will be available, with the city-county paying only 25 per cent and the grant covering the remainder.

A four-wheel emergency vehicle will be added, which will enable law enforcement officers to travel into areas not now accesible. Such a vehicle can serve as an emergency am-

Camper Accidents

Couples Escape Vacation Injuries

Two Wellington couples, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Caison and Mr. and Mrs. Oran Starkey, traveling with their campers, narrowly escaped serious injury when they were in accidents, a day apart but both in the Springer, N.M. area.

Two other couples in the group, Mr. and Mrs. Les White and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clubb, made the trip without incident, and most of them returned home during the weekend.

All were en route to South Fork, Colorado to fish.

The Caison's one-vehicle accident occurred between Springer and Cimarron when the back left wheel ran off their pick-up, carrying a 12-foot camper. The wheel, with a heavy duty tire bought only that morning, went up under the pickup, Mr. Caison held the vehicle on the down-hill road and came to a stop after several hundred yards. Both pick-up and camper were damaged.

He called a wrecker to move them off the highway, notified Oran Starkey to bring another tire, and the Caisons and Whites camped there for the night.

Next day, the Starkey's carrying the new tire, had their camper sideswiped between Clayton and Springer as they were passed by a chartered bus from Kansas City. This also occurred on the narrow highway.

The camper trailer was not badly damaged and has been repaired.

Mr. Caison said damage to their pick-up was set at 1,200 and damage to the camper has not been determined They were able to continue to Colorado in it.

The four couples found fishing good.

NYC Gives Summer Work to 30 Youths

Thirty Wellington boys and girls have jobs this summer through the Neighborhood Youth Corps, a federally funded project which is handled locally through the office of County Judge Zook Thomas.

All but three of these are still in high school, according to Mrs. Kenyard Poteet, secretary to Judge Thomas, who handles NYC records. The three who are out of school work year-around at the Community Action Center.

These 30 are bringing to Wellington a payroll of $6,624 per month, and the term of employment for the students is six weeks. At the end of that time, Mrs. Poteet said, another group will begin work, continuing until school begins.

"Most of this money is spent right here in Wellington, and not in some other town," she pointed out. Some of it will go to finance the student's school expense through the coming year.

The requirement for acceptance in the NYC program is that the student need to work and cannot find a job otherwise.

It is required, also, that the employer be a non-profit organization, agency, or political subdivision, Mrs. Poteet explained.

Some of these teen-agers used skills they have learned in school. Others are getting

I Saw... by Virginia Robey

It has been a year of misadventure for Marty Warrick, the 9-year-old of Glenn and Zenith Warrick. A while back he was visiting in the country and he and a friend had a chunking contest. A rock hit Marty in the forehead, and it bled.... and bled. His mother was sent for.

By the time she arrived, the bleeding had stopped and Marty was nonchalant about it all.

"Did it bleed much?" she wanted to know.

"Sure it did, but I washed it off in the horse tank," he told her.

Since then he has had two black eyes, one in Cub Scouts and the other from the perils of a pitcher in Peewee baseball.

Now he has just recovered from the mumps.

Maybe we didn't know how dry it was. Before the rain, County Commissioner Orville Vaughan told a group it was so dry around Dodson, the cows were giving powdered milk.

And this thing of milk – the pre-school class went down to the John Brims Tuesday to watch Mr. and Mrs. Brim milk a cow. Some of the children had never seen this operation. We used to think things like that happened to children somewhere else.

To show how much it did rain around Abra, Karon and Rudie Tate were having a party at their ranch on one of the stormy nights and so much water fell part of the guests had to stay all night.

The tornadic period brought other things besides rain and sleepless nights:

Bear Bowen did not go to the meeting of the Masonic Lodge and that was when they elected him Worshipful Master. Several days later he hadn't been notified.

Jack Sanford has been a pilot since World War II, and he has flown most of his life.. but for Mary, their trip to Mexico City last month was her first time in the air. Because the hail storm came just as they were getting home, Jack hasn't had much opportunity to tell about the wonderful time they had... but he does say that they got some excellent slides while they were there.

Dick Richards noted the picture and story of the old courthouse, to be used on this year's Texas program cover. He reminised about the artist's mother, Seigniora Russell Laume--"Nonie we all called her, "and the fun which she and all Wellington's young people had at the home of Dick's grandparents, the R. H. Cocke, Sr.'s.

Mayor John Coleman keeps in close touch with the men who were with him in Prisoner of War camps in World War II. Just recently M-Sgt. D. C. (Bull) Massey, veteran of the Osaka, Japan, P. O. W. Camp, was by to see John. One of the men who stayed in the Army, he is a past National Commander of the American Ex-POW Association.

The rainy season has started and Holland wrote that it had rained every night.

Four months of picnic food is no picnic.
Get central gas air conditioning and bring back meat and potatoes.
Some days you wouldn't even boil an egg. Let alone cook a meal. But with central gas cooling you can cook a banquet. Without heating up your home.
With central gas air conditioning, it only costs a little to add a lot to your living.
First of all, you'll save in installation costs. Because you just add a cooling unit to your existing central gas heating system.
But that's just part of the savings.
Gas costs less to use than electricity. And we give you a special low rate for central gas air conditioning during those sweltering summer months. When you need central air cooling the most.
So go ahead. Have central gas cooling installed. And save the picnic food for the great outdoors.

Collingsworth County FARM NEWS

By Don Reeves
County Agricultural Agent

CROP REPORTS NEEDED

In early July, some 22,000 Texas farmers will receive an acreage and production of selected crops questionnaire from Cary D. Palmer, Agricultural Statistician for the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Austin, Texas.

This information will be the basis for determining harvested acreage and production of early harvested crops for the State of Texas and for each county. There are 254 counties in Texas and reports are needed from many farmers so that each county will be well represented. Accurate estimates are of great importance to farmers in planning production and marketings and in providing an unbiased picture of Texas agriculture.

The Texas Legislature has provided a program of estimates for each county. Texas covers such a wide area that State totals alone do not provide adequate information on Texas' most basic industry. This is a cooperative effort of USDA's Statistical Reporting Service and the Texas Department of Agriculture.

HERD MANAGEMENT

When drought conditions cut down the amount of available natural green forages and feed costs rise, the cattleman may want to reconsider his breeding management program and make some changes.

During the periods of drought cattlemen must provide their herds with enough nutrients to prevent weight loss and maintain production requirements or they must give their cattle some relief from body stress.

If they fail to modify their program, they could end up suffering with light weaning calves and unbred cows.

Often the unavailability of feeds or their high cost may prohibit feeding lactating cows the total nutrients needed for lactation and rebreeding.

Lessening the body stress of the cows encourages weight gains that are necessary for a large percentage of the herd to eventually produce calves of an adequate weight.

Females in moderate flesh following calving should be gaining one-fourth to one-half of a pound daily, while cows in poor condition should gain up to three-fourths a pound a day.

Product on requirments of the mature cow includes nutrients for body maintenance, lactation, and rebreeding. Early weaning, creep feeding, or holding calves off the cow for the day can lessen lactation stress.

In herds where the cow have been with bulls before the early weaning time pregnancy testing may be desirable. Unbred females can be fed to stimulate reproductive activity. Females pregnant at the time of early weaning may be put on a maintenance diet.

Feed saved here can be used to maintain other cows or it can be fed directly to their calves. In the overall picture this means more cows can be carried per acre, and better use of low quality forages can be made.

In early weaning (after 60-80 days of age) the calves can be penned and allowed to nurse twice daily. Putting calves in a relatively small pen with palatable feed available will stimulate early eating.

One or two older calves that will eat well will "show the way." After a week or two, once a day nursing can be allowed for two-three days and then complete weaning can be achieved when all calves are eating.

Success in early weaning may depend partly on the diet the calves have been receiving. The rumen will be fully developed in eight week old calves that have been allowed roughages and grain, but not in calves that have received only milk.

It is important that calves to be weaned early are provided creep feed two weeks to one month before weaning. This stimulates rumen development and helps to insure maximum performance after weaning.

Financial Facts

NO PAPER MONEY FOR EARLY AMERICA

Did you know that there wasn't genuine paper money in this country until 1861?

Many people confuse various forms of early currency and notes as paper money like we know it today. This isn't the case.

After the Declaration of Independence, paper currency was issued by the Continental Congress to help finance the war. This money was not issued by the United States Government as formed by the Constitution.

Between the time our government was formed and 1861, there was no actual national paper money issued, only coins. During times of financial crisis and war, however, the Government issued Treasury Notes to meet the drain on our finances. These notes were not paper money as such, but only promissory notes that bore interest and were redeemed by the Treasury as quickly as possible.

In Reply to R. L. Templeton's Letter in The Dallas Morning News

June 17, 1971

Dear Mr. Templeton:

I recently read your letter to the editor of the Dallas Morning News, entitled "Why Birch Bayh Should Be President." It caught my eye for two reasons: First, Why would anyone support Birch Bayh; secondly, because the letter was written by someone from Wellington, and since I was from Shamrock, I became more interested.

In noting your reasons why Senator Bayh should be President, there is no way that I could disagree with you more. You state he believes in a definite date to remove our troops from Vietnam, that we could then bring out our POWs after the withdrawal of troops, that the lack of planning got us into "the mess of this stupid war" and that only definte plans and timetables will get us out.

Recently, I was in Southeast Asia and I had an opportunity to live with and talk to people who worked for our U.S. Embassy in Vietnam from 1961 until recently. They were convinced that total withdrawal by a specified date was the worst possible thing we could do and still hope to get our POWs back. They said senators such as Bayh, Fulbright, Kennedy, McGovern, McCarthy, Muskie and others were the ones who were responsible for destroying any hope for successful peace talks at Paris, for the past several years.

Our first troop commitment was made under President Kennedy in March 1961 and from that point on the number has increased steadily until 1969 when President Nixon began an orderly withdrawal of troops. In that period 1961-1969 where was Senator Bayh with his expert advice as the war was expanding?

Currently Senator Bayh is on only two standing committees of the Senate ... Judiciary and Public Works. His sub-committee assignments are under these two standing committees and this does not make him an authority on foreign policy, armed services, or international affairs.

You state Senator Bayh supports the establishment of nationwide child-care centers for working mothers, because it would be a good safe place for the children. It may be a safe place from a physical standpoint, but I question how safe it would be from a mental standpoint. This is exactly the same means used in Communist countries to indoctrinate children on Communism and fill them with Communist propaganda. It is vivid in my mind what my parents said about the Communist "kindergarten camp" on their recent trip behind the iron curtain. The knowledge they got from personal observation on their visit leads me to believe that Senator Bayh should also visit the "kindergartens" behind the Iron Curtain before he makes a recommendation which might affect the children of our country. Those who have seen "nation wide networks of child-care centers" in other countries have seen child-care in a different light than that of our own privately owned and operated nurseries and day care centers.

I believe we have a President who is attempting to do what it best for us in the long run. If only the President could get the support from Senator Bayh and others in the Senate, we could then look forward to an orderly withdrawal. We could then work on our domestic problems rather than be faced with a prolonged war or another Vietnam in a short time because we "bugged out" now.

Sincerely,

JERRY HRNCIAR
of Dallas and Shamrock.

Why Birch Bayh Should Be President

To The Dallas News:

We have a candidate for president of the United States, who has the courage to say we should set a definite date to remove our troops from Vietnam, and who contends that Congress should indeed set a definite plan and timetable for returning our troops.

He says that lack of planning is what got us into the mess of this stupid war, and that planning involves timetables.

We should definitely set a time when our boys will come home. Then we can bring out also the prisoners that have been held there, some for as many as six or seven years.

This candidate for president of the United States is a young man. He supported lowering the voting age to 18. He has supported a constitutional amendment giving equal rights to women. He advocates reforming our criminal justice system to rehabilitating youthful offenders as the best method to stop the increase in crime.

He supports establishment of a nationwide network of child-care centers so that working mothers can have a good, safe place for their children while they work.

This young man has an agricultural degree from Purdue and a law degree from Indiana University. He is a veteran, and he sounds like a man who would make us a good president. His name is Birch Bayh.

Isn't it about time we had a young man for president of the United States?

R. L. TEMPLETON.

Wellington, Texas.

ELECTRIC SCISSORS

Electric scissors make a useful and time saving addition to your home sewing equipment.

They are available in a wide variety of sizes, shapes, and weights. Varying from six to eight inches in length and four to 11 ounces in weight, models can be powered from either a wall plug or batteries.

Basically, all electric scissors consist of a small motor encased in plastic with a pair of short blades in front. The stationary lower blade is set at an angle, and slides along the cutting surface to guide and support the appliance. The upper blade does the cutting by means of thousands of tiny snips. Although the stubby blades look vicious, they are really comparatively safe as the blades do not close completely and the area that does the snipping is very small, Choose electric scissors according to the kind of sewing you do. However, light, well-balanced, compact, and easy-to-grip models will prove the simplest to handle. Choose those with carbon steel or stainless steel blades to avoid rusting.

To operate the electric scissors, hold and move the appliance easily. Pressing too hard and fast into the fabric causes pulled, shredded or uneven edges and inaccurate and uneven cutting of the bottom fabric layers.

Like any scissors, the electric blades will gradually dull, but replacements are available. Keep your appliance in top running order by applying a drop or two of light machine oil on the blade pivot. And avoid running over pins.

MRS. WELDON DAVIS CLEVELAND

Diane Hickman, Weldon Cleveland Wed in Church Ceremony at Athens

Miss Cecil Diane Hickman of Arlington became the bride of Weldon Davis Cleveland in a double ring ceremony, performed Saturday, June 12, at First Baptist Church at Athens. The Reverend Curtis Mathis officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil F. Hickman of Athens and Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Cleveland of Wellington.

The altar was decorated with a silver arch holding white wedding tapers and garlanded with smilax. White flowers in silver baskets were on each side, and silver candelbras completed the arrangement.

Miss Pat Neff played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloists, Charles W. Hickman and Mrs. Ronny Brownlow.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of peau de soie designed with an empire waist and sabrina neck. Appliques of Alencon lace graced the bodice and lace formed the elbow length sleeves. Her train swept to chapel length and her shoulder length veil fell from a lace rose. She carried a traditional bouquet of white daisies, starburst mums, and centered with a cymbidium orchid.

Mrs. Ronald Douglas of Austin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jesse Hickman of Frankston and Mrs. Charles W. Hickman of Pleasanton, California.

Twelve-Months School System Puts Facilities to Full Use

The time-honored school semester soon will be no more under a law passed by the recent Texas Legislature, setting up a 12-months system.

Students will still go to school 9 months a year, but in three quarters, with the fourth quarter for vacation. Or the student may attend the fourth quarter by payment of tuition.

One object of this new law is to relieve the shortage of classroom space by one-third without requiring any new buildings, a situation that will benefit cities and fast-growing areas.

Another advantage, the sponsors of this legislation believe, will be to spread to year-around the part-time jobs usually filled by students, making it easier for them to find work, since only part will be out of school at any time.

This change is effective with the beginning of school in 1972 and mandatory in 1973. How it is worked out in schools such as Wellington, Quail and Samnorwood, and whether it will be an advantage, remains to be determined.

But it does point up one thing: some of the most expensive and best equipped buildings in any town that now are idle one-fourth of the year, may be put to full-time use.

Quick on the Talk

Congress has recently been declaring its intention to regain a leading role in foreign policy, But the other day some of its members demonstrated one of the reasons that it lost the role in the first place.

After seeking a closed, secret session to hear details of U.S. policy in Asia, several senators apparently raced each other to the door so that they could make political hay out of the facts that they had heard.

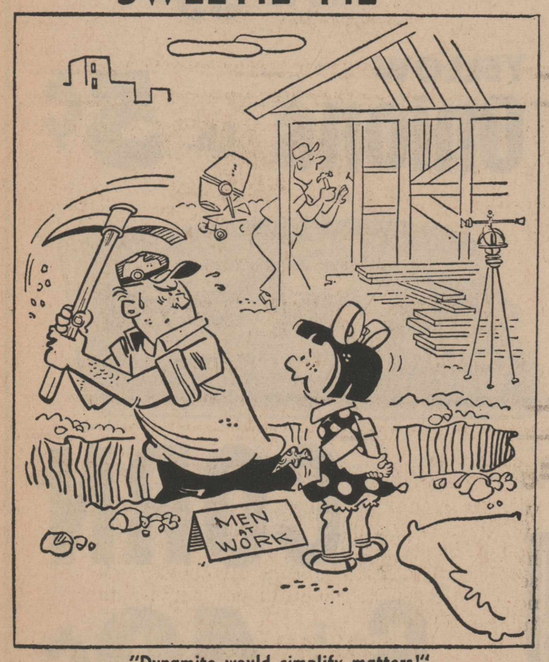

Congressmen have shown in the past that they are willing to play politics with security information.. This is not the sort of practice that builds confidence in Congress' ability to manage delicate and dangerous confrontations.

Just one representative or senator with a bone to pick with the administration or some voters to impress can easily derail months of work by the professionals. Not surprisingly the latter have been reluctant to tell all to politicians whose first inclination upon hearing classified information is to call a press conference to disclose it.

Conservatives generally have supported Congress in its search for a more effective and meaningful role in foreign policy. But the tendency of too many members to talk out of turn endangers that support.

There are times when it appears that giving Congress full information on classified matters is roughly as secretive as broadcasting this information on the Voice of America.—The Dallas Morning News.

STATE Capital NEWS

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN-Tex. –Texas 1972 political campaigns jumped off to an early start last week amid earthquake-proportioned new rumblings in the long-running Securities and Exchange Commission stock manipulation case.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes announced he will run for governor, and called "loss of faith and confidence in state government" the No. 1 political issue.

"I visualize the role of the governor as a much more-agres sive role than it has been in the past," he said. Barnes, who is 33, added "a young governor with progress would be an asset" to Texas.

Barnes said he would aim to make the state Democratic party an "energetic force for sound government, not just a political tool to be used briefly every two years and then discarded. I want Texas to be strong in national affairs!"

Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin recovered from a March heart attack, announced he will file as a candidate for a fourth term.

Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde reportedly retains interest in the governor's race.

Gov. Preston Smith still hints he may run again, brands federal handling of the stock case " political harassment."

High court set July 14 arguments in a Dallas woman's damage suit claiming negligence by a privat plane pilot in an accident which killed her husband four years ago.

Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed the life sentence in a Beaumont rape case.

Austin Court of Civil Appeals reversed a Houston trial court and upheld State Board of Examiners of Psychologists' decison denying Houstonian Joseph D. Farrar a license to practice psychology because his master's degree was not primarily psychological but educational.

AG OPINIONS– Minors can be tried for liquor law violations without notification to parents if court is unable to locate parents or guardians, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin has said.

In other recent opinions, Martin conluded that :

A trial judge has discretion to grant probation when satisfied the best interests of the public and the defendant will be served, and the defendant is not under burden to show eligibility for probation, though the judge may require appropriate proof.

Board of Private Detectives, Private Investigators, Private Patrolmen, Private Guards and Managers has discretion to decide whether or not license of those within its jurisdiction will be denied because of a conviction for felony.

Whether Parks and Wildlife Department executive can retire as a "commissioned peace officer" is a fact question to be determined by PWD on the basis of whether he was engaged primarily in criminal law enforcement activities of the department during the 10 years.

APPOINTMENTS–Raymond Vowell of Austin will succeed Burton G. Hackney as Texas Public Welfare Commissioner.

Governor Smith named A. Hughes of Decatur 235th district judge, Harry Hopkins of Weatherford 43rd district judge, and William B. Sullivant of Gainesville 235th district attorney.

Smith appointed Hugh O. Wolfe of Stephenville to North Texas State University Board of Regents.

LAND SALE SET– School Land Board will offer 594, 132 acres of land in 869 tracts for July 6 lease sale.

For the first time, said Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, the Land Board has coordinated environmental planning with the Parks and Wildlife Department on all bays and inlets included.

PWD reviewed tracts in lease and reported any possible hazard to the environment if drilling is permitted. Proposed restrictions will be considered by the Land Board.

Other tracts included are submerged lands in the Gulf of Mexico cancelled from the May sale list due to U. S. Army Corps of Engineers' halting drilling on such tracts temporarily. Submerged land acreage is the largest offered for lease since June 5, 1965, when the state received more than $17 million for sale of leases.

CONVICTION "TAX" LEVIED– Cost of moving traffic violations and other convictions will go up under a bill signed into law and designed to provide funds for projects to improve the criminal justice system.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor :

I see where our big-hearted Congress is fixing to compel richer living for beginners and inepts by upraising the legal minimum wage some more.

Legislative-type wisdom obviously tells them the time to decree higher wages is when jobs are scarce. Employers will fall all over themselves to drag in new people to put on their payrolls if the price goes up.

Away back when politicians bought votes mostly with their money, a worker's pay was about what he was worth, but hardly anybody will work that cheap anymore.

A major goal of the people wardens these days is to get our cars equipped with better bumpers and other safety devices.

It is highly noble of the brain monopoly to put in so much of its valuable time and effort just to help us underpeople live a little longer.

But since most of the crusaders are subsisting on what other people produce, it could be that their concern for us is triggered in part by fear of having to go to work themselves if too many taxpayers get killed in car wrecks.

DID CHRIST DIE IN VAIN?

by Gaylord Cook

Have you ever considered the possibility that Christ died in vain? He did die in vain if he was not raised from the dead (I Cor. 15:14). Some theologians today claim to accept Christ, but not his resurrection. The two can not be separated. Likewise Christ died in vain if one could be saved by the Law of Moses (Gal. 2:21). There would have been absolutely no need for Christ to die if salvation could come by the law, but since man could not be saved by the law, it was necessary for Him to die. It was in vain that our Lord shed his blood upon the cross if one can be saved by morality alone. It was possible before Christ died to live a good moral life, and so if salvation could come by morality, he need not have died. This was not and is not the case however. Consider the case of Cornelius. He was an outstanding man morally, but he still needed to know words whereby he could be saved (Acts 11:14). It is further true that Christ died in vain if one can be saved outside the church, for the blood he shed on the cross purchased the church (Acts 20 : 28).

Deck's DIDACTICS

—by Deskins Wells

EFFORTS of the Federal Government to prevent further publication of the New York Times articles on how the United States went to war in Vietnam seem futile to the average reader. The copyrighted New York Times News Service goes to hundreds of daily newspapers. Probably half the people in the United States have read the articles already and evidently the enemy had them years ago.

THE TIMES and the Washington Post have been enjoined from further publications of the articles based on secret documents that had not been declassified. This will eventually bring the case before the Supreme Court. This is the important thing. The right of a free press is well defined by the constitution and the law and so is the right of the government to keep information secret in the interest of the national welfare. The vital issue is a decision on where one right ends and the other becomes dominant.

IT IS TOO late now to try to keep the information contained in these articles from all the American people. Most well read people knew much of these events years ago. Before me as I write is a copy of the June 17 issue of The Daily Texas, the student newspaper of The University of Texas at Austin. It has been a great newspaper by any standards and will continue to be unless Frank Erwin and his regents ruin it.

THIS ISSUE of The Daily Texan carries one of The New York Times articles on U. S. action in Indochina. The Study led the researchers to the following conclusions : "That the Truman Administration's decision to give military aid to France in her colonial war aginst the Communist-led Viet-Minh 'directly' involved the United States in Vietnam and 'set' the course of American policy.

THIS ARTICLE goes on to discuss the roles of Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson in the tragic involvement. In time every person in the United States will have an opportunity to read the whole series as they should. Why not now?

WHILE THE TEXAS Legislature was so busy passing the monstrous tax bill it failed to include any money to comply with highway beautification requirements as set forth in the Highway Beautification Act of 1965. As a result the state will lose 10 per cent of its federal funds. This could affect highway improvement in this county. In fact, people have been asking when the road building north of town will start.

THE CLOSING of the Lowry newsstand has brought an empty feeling to many people particularly to some of us here at The Leader. Possum's place was more than a location where you bought newspapers and magazines. It was a social club where people of all ages and professions and vocations rubbed elbows. That last statement is literal and not figurative for the firm was so crowded that it was difficult to move around. The Lowrys will be missed.

BEFORE YOU decide on retiring you might remember the following verse from Robert Browning :

When a man's busy, why, leisure
Strikes him as wonderful pleasure,
Faith, and at leisure once is he,
Straightway he wants to be busy.

I LOST EIGHT peach trees in the tornado that struck the Fresno community June 10; but this loss was small compared to that of Claude Smith who lives south of my farm. The twister picked up his sprinkler irrigation system and blew part of it as far as Bob Hightowers farm which is two or three miles away. Up to now only half of the system has been recovered.

THE LOSS of the irrigation system is not the grevious one in the eyes of Mr. Smith, according to Mrs. Earl Janes. Claude Smith raises fighting game chickens. The storm destroyed the coops in which he keeps the cocks and they were out and fighting when he discovered them. "Their beaks and their toes were all broken," he said sadly without a word about the loss of his irrigation system.

for the first construction items are complete, the beginning date for on-site construction work depends upon future appropriations of construction funds by Congress," said Col Pinkney.

"After construction funds are made available, about five years will be required to build the projects."

Although the primary reason for construction these projects is to lower the salt content of Red River and Lake Texhoma, which furnishes water for North Texas cities, this area will receive residual benefits in the form of increased recreation facilities and wildlife benefits.

Bobby Saied Receives Clark Foundation Award

Bobby Saied, a spring graduate from Wellington High School, has received a scholarship award from the Clark Foundation of Dallas which he will use to attend Texas Tech University.

Saied, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Saied, Jr., qualified to apply for a scholarship when he placed third in ready writing in the regional Universtiy Interscholastic League Contest this spring. Earlier he placed first in District 2-AA.

The scholarship is in the amount of $750 for the academic year of 1971-72, Bobby was notified by Col. Walter Kerbel, USAF (Ret.) executive secretary of the Clark Foundation.

The Clark Foundation Scholarship Awards are open to those in the top three places in certain regional UIL literary events, according to E. W. Clement, principal.

The recipients may attend any four-year college or university in Texas.

Bobby is a summer student in Tech and will continue his studies this fall.

Both his parents attended Tech, and his maternal grandfather, Dr. S. S. McKay, was on the Tech faculty.

Six boys are emplyed by the city, most of their work being with Jake Leach on the parks and streets. They are Cleopus Pennon, Mike Williams, James Davis, Gary Brown, Jay Thomas and Bobby Joe Shrubs.

According to the application the will was delived to Otis Gatewood of Taylor County, one of the witnesses,to be kept until Mrs. Masten's death.

Mr. Gatewood, the instrument continues, spent much time outside the country and only recently learned of the death of Mrs. Lily B. Masten for the first time on May 19, 1971.

None of the divesees had any knowledge of the will, the application states.

James Williford of Highland Church, Abilene, was named executor without bond.

The application for probate also seeks recovery of money paid as inheritance taxes and income which has accrued to the estate since Mrs. Masten's death.

Since no will was found after Mrs. Masten died, it was believed she died intestate, and her estate was settled with Mr. Masten as her only heir.

The petition opposing probate, filed by Mr. Masten as June 4, cites the statute of limitation. It also alleges that the will was not executed with formalities and solemnities required by the law to constitute a valid will ; and that undue influence was exerted if Mrs. Masten did execute the will.

bulance unit. It could also travel in blizzard conditions as immobilized the county in Februrary.

Representatives of the Texas Criminal Justice Council will come here to set up the combined county-city law enforcement unit and get it operational.

One part of the financing includes payment of 10 cents a mile traveled by the law enforcement vehicles.

Sheriff Rainey has co-ordinated the efforts at getting a combined law enforcement unit. Both the Commissioners Court and City Council have held joint meetings and have met separately to determine if such a combined law enforcement body would be desirable for Collingsworth County and Wellington.

If this is approved, it will be the first in a member county of PRPC.

Combined county-city law enforcement has been effected for Hardeman County and Quanah, and Sheriff Rainey and Judge Thomas have made several trips to study it, along with other members of the city and county government.

Such a law enforcement body will not be autonomous, for an advisory committee, made up of two members from the Commissioners Court and two from the City Council. Final approval, however, lies with the court.

All fines levied under the new arrangement would go into the officers' salary fund of the county, except fines levied under city ordnances, over which the county does not have jurisdiction. Such cases would be tried in City Court, just as they are now handled.
