NO BLOOD IS SHED IN COUP

DAMASCUS, Syria —(AP)— The Syrian Army seized power in Syria's capital today, arresting government leaders in a bloodless revolt at dawn.

Brig. Hosny El Zaim, commander of the Syrian Army, said the military coup was ordered because of "attacks against the army, inside as well as outside the House of Representatives."

U. S. Minister James Hugh Keeley, Jr., reported from Damascus to Washington that President Shukri al Kuwatly, Prime Minister Khaled Bey Azem and his entire Cabinet had been arrested.

(Keeley reported the army took over complete control of the capital in the early morning coup d'etat.)

Army officials said not a single drop of blood was shed in the lightning coup.

Curfew was clamped on the city at 6 a.m. local time and all was reported quiet several hours after Brigadier Zaim announced the seizure of power.

Zaim said the revolutionary movement was "purely local and has no foreign implication."

This was taken to mean that the new government would probably proceed with scheduled armistice negotiation with Israel. Two United Nations officials left Rhodes yesterday for Damascus to lay the groundwork for the Israeli-Syrian talks.

The bloodless coup was the first serious disturbance since last December when riots forced the resignation of Premier Jamil Mardam Bey.

(The riots were attributed then to resentment over the handling of the Palestine war. The people, who read only censored news of the fighting, were amazed when they learned the Syrian forces had failed to defeat the Jews.)

"We have been compelled to undertake this change in the

'No' Expert Arrives With West Chiefs

NEW YORK —(AP)— A group of voluble Western European foreign ministers arrived today aboard the big liner Queen Mary to sign the North Atlantic Pact. A fellow traveler was Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, still saying "no."

More than 500 pickets marched near the pier in noisy protest of Britain's policy toward Israel—their greeting to British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. He was one of four foreign officials who will sign the pact in Washington next week.

Gromyko, who arrived to attend the United Nations Assembly, had "no prediction" on what would transpire there. He answered "no comment" to reporters' other questions.

Other foreign office chiefs besides Bevin who arrived were Belgian Premier and Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, Dutch Foreign Minister D. U. Stikker, and Luxembourg Foreign Minister Joseph Bech.

Gromyko told a reporter at his table in the ship's restaurant that he had a very smooth trip, but that he preferred not to say anything now.

Bech, who talked briefyl with a reporter, implied that he and other Western foreign ministers had discussed a possible Mediterranean alliance on the trip over.

Enthusiastic endorsement of the Atlantic Pact was voiced by Paul-Henri Spaak, foreign minister of Belgium, and Dirk U. Stikker, foreign minister of The Netherlands.

When a reporter asked if he believed Russia would agree that the pact strengthens the U.N., Spaak laughed and replied:

"Ask Gromyko. He's an authority on that."

Capitol Hill Predicts Government Crackdown on Rent 'Black Market'

New Rent Law Made Changes in The Present One

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Here's an ABC on the new rent law which keeps controls another 15 months.

The present law ends tomorrow, March 31. Once President Truman has signed, the new one goes into effect Friday, April 1, and ends 15 months later, June 30, 1950.

The new law made changes in the present one. The parts which are new will be so labeled in parenthesis.

(New) Now any state legislature can wipe out all federal rent control in the whole state or any part of it whenever it wishes.

(New) Any city, town or village —provided the governor of the state approves—can wipe out all federal rent control whenever it wishes.

Just as under the present law, Tighe Woods, the housing expediter, can remove controls in any area at any time he wishes. If the local advisory board recommends that to him, he's pretty sure to do it.

(New) Woods not only can take controls off any area in the next 15 months but also can slap them back on any area he has decontrolled whenever he thinks they're needed.

(New) Landlords must get a "fair net operating income." What does that mean? At this minute no one knows. Woods will have to work out a formula that can be used around the country.

Veterans of World War II still have 30 days' preference in buying or renting a newly built place. But—

(New) Such Veterans now have 30 days' preference in buying or renting a place newly converted into living quarters.

(New) Trailers and trailer spaces, which had been decontrolled, are now back under controls for permanent guests.

(New) The housing expediter has been given back his power to control evictions. He can get a court injunction to stop an eviction he thinks is wrong. If you're being put out in a way you think is illegal, see your area rent control office. There are about 15 ways in which a landlord can tell a tenant to move.

(New) The housing expediter can sue a landlord for three times the amount of rent he's overcharged a tenant. (Under the present, expiring law he could sue only for the amount overcharged.)

Local Men Suffer Burns

Two Pampans suffered burns at 12:30 p. m. yesterday between Borger and Fritch when a butane container exploded.

Eugene Cooper and Willie Houston, both employed by the Federal Drilling Co., north of Borger, were taken to the North Plains Hospital in Borger.

Houston suffered third-degree burns on his hands and second-degree burns on his face.

Cooper, 420 Crest, was released from the hospital this morning. His face, both cheeks and one ear were burned rather badly, but his condition is not serious.

PARTY LEADERS STAND PAT AGAINST ERP REDUCTIONS

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senate foreign policy leaders of both parties stood pat today against a move by Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Russell (D-Ga) to whack about 10 percent off the $5,580,000,000 European Recovery Program.

But Senator George (D-Ga) threw his powerful weight behind the Taft-Russell proposal with the assertion that unless some cut is made this country may face "a serious financial deficit."

Senator Connally (D-Tex), who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, predicted defeat for the Taft-Russell proposal. But the Texan admitted the vote might be close.

The committee's top Republican, Senator Vandenberg (Mich) would not comment publicly. But he was reported to have told colleagues he is sticking by the full authorization.

Vandenburg has taken the stand that the Economic Cooperation Administration should have elbow room to defend before the Appropriations Committees later the amount it says it needs.

If the authorization in the pending bill is cut, ECA would have to stay under that ceiling in its bid for actual funds to carry out its program.

Meanwhile, Senator Malone (R-Nev) charged that Marshall Plan countries helped by the United States are actually using that aid to "rearm Russia for the third world war."

"The recipient nations are shipping everything from locomotives to jet engines to Russia and Russian satellite countries," Malone said in a speech prepared for delivery as the Senate resumed debate on the authorization bill.

"Those supplies are produced with the raw material and money furnished by the United States through ECA while we are severely restricting our own exports to the iron curtain countries.

George told a reporter he is backing the proposed 10 percent cut because he thinks prices are levelling off and a dollar of American funds will buy more materials to ship to Europe next fall than was estimated when the ECA budget was made up last November.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, opposed the cut, contending that the full amount is needed.

3-Day Rodeo At McLean Is Legion Plan

McLEAN — A three-day rodeo will be held here April 29-30, and May 1, under the sponsorship of the Andrew H. Floyd Post of the American Lerion.

First performance will be held Friday night, April 29, at 8 o'clock; second, the next afternoon, and final performance Sundas afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

In addition, the Legion post will sponsor two dances. One will be held Friday night following the first rodeo performance, and the other Saturday night from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Heading the rodeo committee in Spencer Sitter. Other members are Jud Henley, George Terry, and Bob Sherrod. The committeemen are already making plans for the big celebration.

The rodeo will be held in the football stadium near the McLean Grade School, and will probably be the last public activity to be staged there. The McLean School Board is in the process of building a new stadium in the northwest part of town, due to the fact that U. S. 66 will be widened soon and the widening will cause the new road to run through a part of the football field.

Featured in the rodeo will be bronc riding, both saddle and bare back; bull riding and bull dogging; calf roping; and a ladies sponsor contest. Liberal prizes will be awarded in all events.

Terry, in charge of publicity for the affair, is planning several booster trips to neighboring towns to advertise the rodeo.

The rodeo will be one of the first of such activities to be held in this area, and is expected to attract a large number of cowboys as well as rodeo fans.

President Truman Expected to Sign 'Home Rule' Law

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Capitol Hill heard predictions today that the new rent control extender will set off a government crackdown on a rent "black market."

President Truman was expected to sign, in plenty of time, the "home rule" legislation that continues rent controls for another 15 months.

Just two days before the present controls are set to die at midnight Thursday, Congress late yesterday tossed the new compromise bill to the White House by overwhelming votes. Then:

1. Rep. Patman (D-Tex) said it will mean a "rollback of illegal rents," as well as increased rents on some properties where landlords are not now showing a profit. He said it will put an end to the rent "black market" that Tighe Woods, rent administrator, reported to be growing throughout the country.

2. House Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass) said in his opinion there won't be any big increases in rent for anyone, and most rents probably won't be increased at all.

3. Paul V. Betters, executive director of the U. S. Conference of Mayors, predicted no major city will drop rent controls under the "home rule" provisions of the bill, that allows states or localities to throw off the controls.

Mr. Truman was described by friends who talked to him as "elated" over the legislation, although it falls short of what he asked. They said he regards it as an administration victory, and is sure to sign it. Rent controls are in force on 14,350,000 dwelling places. Mr. Truman wanted a two-year extension.

The Senate approved the bill 78 to 11 and the House stamped on a 262 to 143 vote, after weeks of bitter debate.

Patman predicted "thousands of suits" will be brought to collect treble damages for rent overcharges.

"Heretofore," Patman said, "illegal rents have been collected because the tenant could not resist and the tenant would not sue because there were too many ways for the landlord to evict him. But now the tenant is secure, because he cannot be evicted without the rent administrator's approval."

State Makes Survey Here

A reconnaissance survey to protect the embankment of the Canadian River, on the site of the proposed bridge there along Highway 70 was made yesterday by State Highway Department engineers, and a representative of the Kellenes Jetties Co., Topeka, Kans.

G. K. Reading, resident Pampa engineer for the Highway Department and Guy Lott, Amarillo, district engineer for the department, made the survey along with Randle B. Alexander, bridge engineer for the Highway Department, Dave Askew, and Percy Pennybacker, both senior designing engineers for the Highway Department and Roy Lucas of the Jetties company.

Reading said the survey was made on the spot and from aerial photos in order to arrive at a cost estimate for the embankments' protection. The report will be made several weeks from now when technical details of the problem are worked out.

T&P Railroad Stops to Give Girl Cat for One It Killed

OXFORD, La. — (AP) — A passenger train made a long, unprecedented stop at this little Louisiana town today. The railroad wanted to give a girl a new cat.

The cat, black as midnight, went to 13-year-old Marlene Wendt. Thus, the Texas & Pacific Railroad replaced a cat belonging to Marlene which was killed by one of their engines last month.

William Ray Hargrove, 60-year-old red-haired engineer who had piloted the train that destroyed Marlene's cat, made the ceremonious presentation today.

The girl wrote the T&P March 1, saying: "Dear Sir: My cat was killed by one of your engines on Feb. 20. He was a black cat named Cinder. I would appreciate another cat."

The railroad thought that one over a few days, and then pushed the throttle full full steam ahead.

"In the near future we will see that you have a cat to replace Cinder," the T&P wrote Marlene.

Eight railroad employes at Fort Worth, Tex., built a sumptuous cage, brass hinged and with special water and food receptacles. And on top of the cage, they printed a name: "Cinder II."

Meanwhile, other employes of the railroad scurried around to find a cat to suit Marlene. "Cinder didn't have any white whatsoever," she had said in a second letter to the T&P.

"Cinder was a big pet. I mean you could pick him up anytime and pet him."

At the home of J. H. Hefner in Fort Worth, the railroad's scout found a seven-months-old tomcat that fitted specifications, except for a single white whisker. The railroad bought him for $15 and put him in the new cage.

Cinder II still sported his lone white whisker—and a bright red ribbon—when Engineer Hargrove handed him over to Marlene.

Oklahoma Tornadoes Kill 2; Level Town of Canton

CANTON, Okla. —(AP)— Tornadoes struck four times in Northwest Oklahoma today, killingt wo, injuring 25 and causing heavy property damage.

Canton, Longdale and Blackwell were hit. A tornado also dipped down five miles north of Enid, and wrecked a small airport.

The greatest damage was to the first two — Canton, a town of 1,200, and nearby Longdale, 400.

The dead were in Canton and Longdale.

In Canton the storm hit hardest in the northwest residential area and the business district, but the entire town was damaged.

The tornado in Blackwell struck the south and southwest residential area and the business district, but the entire was damaged.

The tornado in Blackwell struck the south and southwest residential areas of that city of 12,000.

Six persons were taken to hospitals in Blackwell and two were soon released. None of the others was reported in critical condition.

With the coming of dawn rescue workers found the damage in Canton and Longdale not as great as first reports had indicated.

The first tornado started winding up in the farmlands southwest of here ripping open some isolated ranch buildings. It smashed into Canton at 12:20 a.m. (CST) without warning and went right through the home and business sections.

Moments later it crashed into little Longdale, located seven miles northeast of here.

Less than three hours later another twister of lighter force struck Blackwell. The Canton area is 75 miles northwest of Oklahoma City, and Blackwell is near the north central border.

"This town looks like it had been ground in a sieve," said the first state patrolman who reached Canton. "It's ripped to bits."

The two dead were 12-year-old Larry Arnold, son of a widow storekeeper at Longdale, and

HIGH WINDS CAUSE HEAVY DAMAGE HERE

Erratic high winds, giving birth to several small twisters at places, roared over the Panhandle last night causing heavy property damage, but took no lives until it screeched into Oklahoma, where two died.

Tearing through Gray County shortly before 9 p.m., the wind ripped the roof of a stock dock from the Panhandle Lumber Co., 420 W. Foster, blowing it over the roof of the main building to the middle of Foster Street where it made a "pancake" landing and smashed itself to pieces.

As the roof went sailing through the air, Rex Rose of the Rose Motor Co., driving home in a company wrecker, saw it drop from a height of about 30 feet and fall on the street.

Rose told The News:

"I was driving along Foster and got as far as the Shamrock Service Station, Foster and Somerville, when I saw something shiny flying through the air and sheer off one of the Gulf Station's flood lights. I didn't know what it was at first, but I saw it drop from a height of about 30 feet and land on the street.

"When the gust hit me it felt like someone putting on my emergency brakes. After the roof fell it started to hail so I backed up, turned around as fast as I could to get out of there and then called Jack Sullivan, manager of the lumber yard."

Sullivan, this morning said the roof covered a dock in the yard where windmill parts, corrugated iron sheets and fencing are stored.

Delay Sought in Final Action On Gilmer-Aikin Legislation

AUSTIN — (AP) — A plan to delay final action on the Gilmer-Aikin education bills until after the present session, holding them for a special session, took shape in the House today.

Rep. William A. Miller, Jr., of Houston prepared for early introduction a resolution to that effect. It had the signatures of 25 House members.

The resolution loomed as the first blow in the renewed battle over the public school bills in the House today.

Miller's resolution noted that the bills are "highly controversial," "far-reaching" and "revolutionary." It said they were complex and difficult to understand.

Many House members have not had opportunity to study them, the resolution stated, and taking up now would jeopardize "much good legislation which should be passed now."

It recommended that hearings on the bills should be held at the special session by the House sitting as a committee of the whole, before any action is taken on them.

The basic school reorganization bills have been approved by the Senate and cleared through the House Education Committee in amended form.

All three had rough sledding, but the lead-off proposition by Senator Jim Taylor of Kerens is the one on which the biggest battles have been waged.

Opponents and backers of Taylor's bill generally agreed that its passage by the House would assure subsequent approval of the other two. However, some said the bill creating a new financing system that would cost 180 million dollars or more a year would face equally stiff opposition.

The initial bill would reor-

Pampan Issued Patent on Carbon Black Manufacture

William Loving

William Loving, of the Cabot [illegible] and Co. that such Companies has been [illegible] by the U. S. Patent Office [illegible] on a method of carbon black manufacture.

The patent (No. 2,467,26[illegible] titled "Manufacture of Carbon Black," was issued on Feb. 15 [illegible] to him on April 8, 1947, pertains to a construction that achieves this desired end. As its principal feature, the inlet side of the furnace is provided with a number of spaced apart bar ducts, between each pair of which is a runner with numerous orifices therein. With this arrangement, according to Loving, the natural gas is injected in the form of jets traveling in the same general direction, but at a higher velocity, then the air, and, as a consequence, an immediate and localized turbulent mixture of air and gas is established under conditions of incomplete combustion.

It is claimed that the process of this invention may be adjusted to produce carbon black having a wide range of rubber reinforcing properties.

The patent has been assigned to Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc.

As is generally [illegible] black is formed by the incomplete combustion of natural gas. Heretofore, as one of the methods of its production, air and natural gas have been supplied in regulated volumes to and burned in a suitable furnace after which the unconsumed particles of the gas, which constitute the carbon, collected without being permitted to impinge or deposit upon adjacent hot or cold surfaces of the furnace or its connections.

Loving has discovered [illegible] that favorable conditions for a high black are realized when an immediate turbulence is created in the area in which the gas first [illegible] and [illegible] that such turbulence [illegible] a higher velocity than [illegible] of the air.

Therefore, his present invention, which incidentally is a division of a prior patent issued to him on April 8, 1947, pertains to a construction that achieves this desired end. As its principal feature, the inlet side of the furnace is provided with a number of spaced apart bar ducts, between each pair of which is a runner with numerous orifices therein. With this arrangement, according to Loving, the natural gas is injected in the form of jets traveling in the same general direction, but at a higher velocity, then the air, and, as a consequence, an immediate and localized turbulent mixture of air and gas is established under conditions of incomplete combustion.

It is claimed that the process of this invention may be adjusted to produce carbon black having a wide range of rubber reinforcing properties.

The patent has been assigned to Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc.

High School Choral Groups Give Program

The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce was treated yesterday to two musical concerts at its regular weekly luncheon meeting in the Palm Room of the City Hall.

The Pampa High School girl's sextette, consisting of Naneen Campbell, Barbara Blair, Junice Ann Fahle, Johnnye Sue Hart, Betty Joyce Scott, and Phoebe Osborne, sang Cole Porter's "Night and Day," and a modern arrangement of "Rock-a-bye, Baby."

The boy's quartet from the high school sang "John Peel," an old English hunting song, and the haunting "Going Home," adapted from a part of Dvorak's "New World" symphony.

The quartet consists of Don Thut, Jack McBeak, Dick Oden, Bob Brown, and Bob Allford, accompanist.

Volunteer workers from the club have finished a cattle guard for Boy's Ranch and it will be delivered to the ranch Sunday, President Floyd Watson said.

All those who wish to go along when the guard is delivered are asked to meet at the City Hall at 8:30 a.m. Sunday. It was suggested that each family pack a picnic lunch to make an all-day outing of the trip.

Huelyn Laycock, superintendent of county schools, introduced Jess Coleman of McLean, teacher and coordinator of veterans vocational schools in the county.

A veterans vocational school is being planned for Pampa, Coleman said, with classes in business administration, welding, and refrigeration and air conditioning as the first courses.

All veterans interested in such courses are asked to contact Jack Graham, county veteran service officer in the American Legion-VFW Hall, Coleman said. As soon as enough men have signed up, classes will be started.

British 'Exchange Worker' Returns Laden With Gifts

By HAL BOYLE

NORTH BERGEN, N.J. —(AP)— The British Labor government's most successful post-war export to America goes back home this week.

She's a new kind of diplomat Ada Fishburn, a 24-year-old factory girl, daughter of a coal miner.

We've had her here on a one-month swap for an American girl who traded jobs with her for that period. The idea of the American girl was that an exchange of factory workers would help international understanding.

And it has worked with Ada, the first British girl to come.

"Ask me to come back again and I won't say 'no,'" she said.

She has probably been the most feted English woman to visit these shores since her own Queen Elizabeth, but as she says:

"I 'aven't let it go to me head. I said I wouldn't and I 'aven't."

Unswayed by America's luxurious indoor bathtubs and its robust outdoor manhood, she is returning content to the land and the lad she left behind her.

The land is the mine-pitted county of Durham near the Scottish border. And the lad is Ronnie Lancaster, her boy friend for many months. She said he wrote "and said he missed me."

It would have been very easy for Ada, a girl who never had been away from home overnight, to have lost her head. She got a 24-karat welcome. She worked class at her factory job, but her nights have been a round of glamorous entertainment.

"England never sent us a better ambassador," said her boss, Walter Simpson, president of the Twin Test Corp. "She hasn't become spoiled in the least by her reception."

One reason is the unshakeable personal dignity of this small, observant fair-haired girl. She has enjoyed her Cinderella role and is reconciled to the fact that midnight always strikes for Cinderella.

The factory boys and girls threw a surprise party for her and gave her a robe and some slippers. She has many other presents — $100 from an anonymous well-wisher, earrings, bubble gum, clothing and, for some odd reason, tea.

Ada got $40 a week here compared to $15 at home. She is a top worker and had no difficulty keeping pace in an American factory. But she isn't sure whether the higher salary here meant she could live better.

"The food is dearer," she said, "but clothing costs much less. And the rents — I couldn't live with me family here. And how much do you pay for a doctor?"

Ada will leave something behind her, take something with her when she goes — a fair and fine exchange in human understanding between ordinary people working in peace.

Not only must a plant bud prevent evaporation, but it must keep out moisture. A plant takes the temperature of the air surrounding it, and should any moisture get inside, a severe freeze would cause the plant cells to be broken by the expanding ice.

Cosmic Ray Machine Dedicated

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—One of two machines in the world that produces man-made cosmic rays, the University of Rochester's giant cyclotron, was dedicated today.

The machine is essentially an enormous magnet, as high and wide as a dwelling house.

It is a mass of steel weighing 1,100 tons. It is painted red except the two poles of the magnet, which are shining steel. The horizontal poles are round and their ends flat. Each is the size of a big dining room table. In the gap between them is space enough to sit on one pole without bumping your head on the other.

In this gap energies of 250 million electron volts are created. In the gap heavy particles of matter called protons swing 'round and 'round at velocities near the speed of light.

The speeding particles are let fly, like stones from a sling, and when one of these particles hits a bit of solid matter it knocks loose a particle called a meson.

Exactly what a meson is scientists do not know. But both the 250 million-volt protons and the mesons are the same particles which rain down upon the earth from an unknown source in the sky and are called cosmic rays.

AUTOMOTIVE HINT

Chemicals used to thaw out ice on city streets and highways constitute a real menace to the finish of an automobile. The body, therefore, should be washed frequently during the winter months to preserve its appearance.

CANOE BY WEIGHT

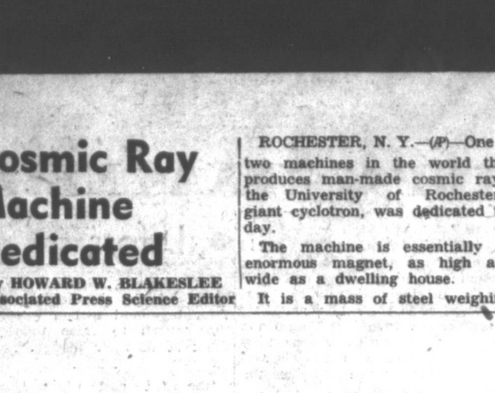

The early canoeman used to order his canoe according to his weight, just as he ordered his clothes according to his size, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

IN THE AIR

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, University of Chicago savant, suggested that cosmic rays do not come from faroff space, but from the earth's own atmosphere, many miles above our heads.

No Special Privileges

Newspapers, including our own, quite often have editorials regarding subsidies enjoyed by different industries.

How about the newspapers themselves? Are they subsidized in any way by the government?

The answer to that is "Yes." This was brought out in a recent move by the Postoffice Department to boost second class rates. These rates applied to newspapers, magazines and other publications and have been low-for these privileged publications than for other articles of the same size and nature, so far as actual handling is concerned.

Why should the Postoffice, a government agency, subsidize publications by giving them a lower rate?

The answer must be that the Postoffice should not subsidize those publications and cannot, if we believe in the principle of equality before the law.

The bill now before Congress might help some to eliminate this special privilege. However, there is certainly one part of the bill that is still following the plan of special privilege. That is the part where the rate charged by the Postoffice is dependent upon the amount of advertising in a publication. The more advertising in a publication, the higher the rate.

Why should the rate be higher for a publication that is all advertising than it is for one that is all news? The cost of handling this publication would depend upon the size and the weight and the number of pieces to be handled, not at all on whether it had advertising or news in it. If we believe in equality before the costs for equal service.

Most of the publishers, according to Editor and Publisher magazine, agree that the provision wherein a sliding charge of publications would be used on advertising volume is wrong, and we cetainly agree with them on this.

However, the majority of the publishers seem also to believe that newspapers should get a lower rate than other items mailed. We certainly do not subscribe to this belief for we think that all items requiring the same service by the Postoffice should be charged the same rate, regardless of whether they are newspapers, magazines or some other item.

Southland, Though Natural Cow-Land, Short on Cows

By THURMAN SENSING
Director of Research
Southern States Industrial Council

As great as have been the strides made in the South in recent years in diversified agriculture, in emphasizing the South's agricultural advantages with its favorable climate and long growing season, and even in the development of the cattle industry, the South still needs more milk cows. There was a time when as a boy I used to get up on a frosty morning and milk six cows before breakfast — that I thought we had too many milk cows. But statistics that are just as cold as those frosty mornings prove me wrong, even with all the improvement we have made in the meantime.

The Milk Industry Foundation has recently published figures showing that the 1947 U. S. farm milk production amounted to 55,519 million quarter. However, the sixteen Southern states, which comprise one-third the area and contain one-third the people of the United States, produced only 12,706 million quarts. In other words, instead of producing its 33 percent share of the nation's milk, the South produced only 22 percent.

The South can and should remedy this situation. The South very easily can do so, because all the natural advantages for dairying are in its favor. The growing season for forage crops of all sorts is much longer in the South, and not nearly so much dependence must be placed upon silage and dry feeds. The production of feed for dairy cattle is not only cheaper in the South, but the housing and care in the much less rigorous climate of the South is also less expensive.

The South should produce more milk both because of its importance in the diet of the people and because its monetary value would add greatly to the economic welfare of the region. Milk, in some form or other, comprises more than 25 percent of the foods consumed annually by the average American and its importance in the diet can not be over-estimated. Consumption in the United States at the present time is 14 percent above pre-war levels, with more than 50 million quarts of fresh milk and cream being used daily. Moreover, the cash farm income from milk ranks second only to that from cattle and calves. It is more than the total income from hogs, one-third more than the total from poultry and eggs, over one and a half times the total from wheat, nearly double the total from cotton, four times the total from tobacco, and so on. The South receives only 20 percent of this cash income from milk.

The production of creamery butter and cheese, of course, represents one of our most important agriculture-industry integrations. When we consider the amount of these two items produced in the South, we realize still more sharply the region's shortage along these lines. Of the nation's production of 1,321,700,000 pounds of creamery butter in 1947, the South produced only 176,200,000 pounds, or 13 percent. Of the nation's production of 955,860,000 pounds of cheese in 1947, the South produced only 168,180,000 pounds, or 17 percent. The state of Minnesota alone produced 30 percent more creamery butter than all sixteen Southern states combined. The state of Wisconsin produced 135 percent more cheese than all sixteen Southern states. All these things mean, of course, that the South is importing great quantities of dairy products which it should be producing.

There is one important aspect of this comparison of dairying in the South and in the nation that should be pointed out. The South actually contains 32 percent of the nation's dairy cows, almost its full share on a population-area basis, but the average milk production of these cows is 35 percent less than the average for the nation's total. Dairying is a full-time, year-round occupation, and requires conscientious care and attention; dairying is not at all like raising a crop of cotton or tobacco. The South could add greatly to its welfare in every way by paying more time and attention to the dairy industry.

Gracie Says

By GRACIE ALLEN

I see that an important interior designer says there'd be a lot fewer divorces if married couples had separate bedrooms—and still fewer if they could live in separate houses. I should think he'd go a step further and say they'd get along perfectly if they had never met at all, and be done with it.

Anyway, he's a little late with that living-separately thought. Experienced wives don't have to be told that it's a good idea to put a husband in the doghouse occasionally.

This designer explains that it's practically impossible for couples to get along in the same surroundings, because the female sex likes bright, gay colors, and the male sex likes darker, woodsy shades. Personally, I think this is nonsense. I've observed a lot of domestic troubles caused by the male sex showing a distinct fondness for light colors, such as blondes and redheads.

Oil Production Shows Decline

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—United States crude oil production during the week ended March 26 averaged 5,119,700 barrels daily, 12,100 barrels under the daily average for the previous week, the Oil & Gas Journal reported.

A 5,400 barrel per day loss in Kansas production, which averaged 297,000 barrels, led the decline.

Other major decreases were reported in the Eastern area, down 1,450 barrels to 60,000 barrels; and Mississippi down 3,300 to 103,000.

Louisiana fell 450 to 489,225.

California had the largest gain, 800 barrels to 951,000 barrels.

Arkansas gained 350 to 87,550, and Oklahoma increased 300 to 398,150.

Production was unchanged in New Mexico, 135,400, and Texas, 2,127,925.

A Better Chance for All With Free Gold Market

VI

I am continuing today quoting from "Arguments for a Free Gold Market" by Joseph Stagg Lawrence, vice president of the Empire Trust Company, New York.

Fever Chart?

"Will a free market for gold constitute a "fever chart" calling public attention to the course of inflation and thus aggravate it? It is reasonably certain that a free market will show a substantial premium for gold. On the Toronto Exchange gold coins are freely traded. An American double eagle, a trifle less than an ounce of pure gold, has a bid and asked range of $45-52.

"Incidentally, the Canadian Government has tolerated such a market without going into a financial tailspin.

"In New York under Section 19 of the Treasury's Provisional Regulations under the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, trading is permitted natural gold. This is unsmelted, unrefined gold in the form of nuggets, flakes and dust. The firm of Bache & Co. provides a market which deals in contracts of 100 ounces on an 85% fine basis. Such gold is trading at $39-40 an ounce. On a 100% fine basis this represents a price of approximately $45 an ounce.

"At the end of the year gold in Zurich was selling for $43 an ounce, in Lisbon and Stockholm at $45; in Mexico City at $53; in Paris at $57; in Berlin at $62; in Buenos Aires at $68.50; in Cairo at $72; in Bombay at $92; and in Chungking at $100.

"Certainly a free market for gold will be a fluctuating market as are the markets for everything else that is not nailed down by government ukase. Even when the government applies the full force of its authority as it did under the OPA, any marked difference between official and natural values leads to so-called black markets. The term "black" is applied by frustrated officials who confuse the defiance of their edicts by otherwise free citizenns with a reprehensible evasion of duty.

"Actually black markets are honest forums of value operating under artificial handicaps. When Russia openly confessed the failure of its managed currency policy in December, 1947, by seizing 90% of all cash, 50% of all deposits, and 3% of all outstanding bonds ices showed an inflation of 12 to 15 times prewar levels. This deterioration in the currency was achieved without the benefit of a free market in gold.

"Price fluctuation in a free market is the delicate and automatic mechanism by which supply and demand are equated to permit the actual transfer of the units offered for sale. There is no question but that a free market for gold will mean a fluctuating market. In the beginning this may have some effect on public psychology. That it will cause any change in the general purchasing power of the dollar is open to question.

"During the past decade that dollar has undergone great changes in purchasing power measured on scores of "fever charts". Many of these charts are maintained by the government itself as a valuable service for the information of business and the general public. The monthly Federal Reserve Bulletin, the Survey of Current Business, to mention only two, are virtually solid compendiums of fever charts, almost all of which have a direct or indirect bearing on the value of the dollar.

"The indices of consumers' prices compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board and the U. S. Department of Labor vividly and periodically portray the changes in the value of the dollar. The "Wall Street Journal" maintains an index of futures, a highly sensitive fever line of conditions which are being anticipated by traders and speculators.

An Orderly World Market in Gold

"Actually all these yardsticks of changing value promote that effective art of living which is defined as an adjustment to the probable. In fact it is in the areas in which no markets or only poor markets prevail that price changes are most violent and least predictable.

"An open market in gold in this country, operating with legal sanction, would be the focus for the trading of vast quantities of gold. It would tend to reduce the great disparities which now prevail between Bombay and Paris, Buenos Aires and Karachi, natural gold, goin coins and pure gold.

"It would do more. It would provide a forum in which the conglomerate currencies of the world would find a valid common denominator of value. It would explode effectively the fantastic fiction that currency relationships can be maintained at the approximate levels prevailing on July 1, 1944.

"It would relieve this country of the cost and risk involved in maintaining the International Monetary Fund. This Bretton Woods offspring was conceived in error and dedicated to fallacy. The error lay in the premise that this country by financial force majeure could maintain the relative values of currencies as pegged in the midst of a great war, irrespective of the budgetary practices, the fiscal policies and the trade balances of the countries which are members of the Fund.

A Record

"Let those who fear that a free gold market might be inflationary consider the record of the past 10 years. There was no free gold market during that period. The price of food between January 1939, and the end of June, 1948, rose 116.9%; clothing 56.2%; housefurnishings 86.1%; construction costs 107%; wages 104%.

"The purchasing power of the dollar in terms of living costs fell 42% in this period; in terms of wholesale prices 54%; in terms of wages 53%. It must be apparent even to those who are not professional economists that inflation is the result of forces that have little to do with a free gold market.

"Actually a free gold market in addition to its moral value in restoring a vital portion of its stolen freedom to the American public now stands, according to the Achesonian and Congressional versions, the national legislature still has the exclusive power to recognize and declare the existence of a state of war. But it has divested itself of any real control by "delegating" this authority to the White House.

For the first time in history, a President can go to war, even though any outbreak does not directly involve U.S. territory, nationals, interests or honor.

There is no longer any disagreement on this extremely important question, even though its meaning and significance are not spelled out in the pact itself.

The most serious struggle during debate over ratification will now center around the articles—V and VI — which say that an attack on alliance members' occupation forces, ships or planes shall be deemed a possible casus belli. Many members do not want to approve warlike action on the basis, say, of an "incident" that might be susceptible to peaceful compromise or settlement.

CHASTENED — President Truman exhibited a chastened mood when he conferred with the Democratic "big four" from Capitol Hill on his recent return from Key West. He did not scold or criticize them for the four defeats which he had suffered during his Florida vacation. He apparently means to try the "molasses cure" with the legislators as a result of their failure to respond to the "vinegar treatment."

Speaker Rayburn and Vice Preident Barkley assured him that they could save enough from the legislative wreckage to spike Republican charges that he cannot lead, and that a Democratic Congress will not follow. Here is the outline they gave him of prospective action on the four issues that have gone sour from his original viewpoint:

CONGRESS — Rent Control: Congress will enact a law permitting a 10 or 15 percent increase, and giving states the right to decontrol in areas no longer suffering from housing hardships. They assured Mr. Truman that the latter provision will not weaken the national statute because, as Sam Rayburn said, "I don't believe any Republican governor or legislature will dare to lift a lid on rents. It would be political death."

Civil Rights: Congress will probably get around to taking action against lynching and poll taxes, but legislation to bar segregation or to reestablish the Fair Employment Practices Committee is out. Southern members may accept the first two proposals, figuring that they are harmless under present conditions.

FILIBUSTERS — Cloture: The Hayden-Wherry resolution for barring filibusters except on future rules changes by a Constitutional two-thirds vote will be adopted. The White House can maintain that it is an improvement on the existing system, and will blame the Southern bloc for failure of the Truman plan.

Air Forces: Congress will okay seventy groups, as against the forty-eight demanded by the administration. But it will slow down the construction schedule for 1950-51 so that it will not upset the administration's budget program.

Mr. Truman will make the best of this outcome, and count it a victory.

MARCANTONIO — Vito Marcantonio, a Wallace political manager and the only American Labor Party member in the House, hurt himself with both leftist liberals and House associates by his juggling of the non-segregation issue during consideration of the rent control and the Air Forces bill.

He did not insist on a non-segregation clause when the rent measure was before the House, although he had been shouting for its inclusion. He bowed to the argument of Democratic Whip Percy Priest, whose canvass had indicated that the renewal of ceilings would be defeated if an anti-racial discrimination ban were incorporated, or if it were defeated by a floor vote.

On this question Mr. Marcantonio abandoned his ideological cause.

LINE — But he pressed the same proposal when the Army air bill came up. And because the leaders manipulated procedure so as to bar his amendment, he voted against the measure. He also forced a week's delay on final action in order to express his resentment.

Now, his New York East Side followers figure that he ran out on them on housing equality. But his insistence on introducing this controversial question into the air debate is accepted as evidence that he follows the "Moscow line."

"We need houses," he explained later, "but we don't need planes. Nobody is going to attack us."

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Under severe cross-examination at a closed conference with foreign affairs experts on both sides of Capitol Hill, Secretary Acheson has conceded that Congress will virtually abdicate its Constitutional power to declare war when it approves the North Atlantic Treaty, with its guarantee that an attack on any signatory shall be regarded as aggression against all.

The former corporation lawyer, however, did not like the use of the words, "abdicate," or "abandon,' in connection with proposed approval of a pact that commis the United States to warlike measures under certain circumstances. He admitted, though, that Congress was actually delegating its exclusive war-making authority to the Chief Executive.

State Department lawyers wrestled for weeks to devise language that would appear to reconcile American participation in the anti-Russian alliance with the Constitutional requirement that only the elected representatives shall summon the nation to arms for a foreign conflict. It was their most difficult task in framing the actual document.

SITUATION — As the situation and its economic value in permitting the honest evaluation of currencies in a competent open forum will tend to check the forces of inflation, promote stability and facilitate the management of the public debt. This is a qualified statement. A free gold market will not eliminate inflation, will not guarantee stability, will not remove the problem presented by a huge public debt. Its influence cannot be absolute.

Treasury Purchase of Gold Inflationary

"Consider the effect of the present procedures in the acquisition of gold by the Treasury. During the calendar year 1948 the gold stocks of the United States increased by $1490 million, of which approximately 5% or $75 million was accounted for by domestic production. The gold which found its way into our Treasury exceeded the total world production for the period by 102%.

"As this gold enters the Treasury the Federal Reserve Bank is credited with the proceeds in special accounts established under Section 16 of the Federal Reserve Act. 'Balances in such accounts shall be payable in gold certificates.' These gold certificates constitute thereafter a part of the nation's basic reserve.

"Under the law the Federal Reserve Banks may expand their liabilities in the form of notes and deposits up to four times this basic reserve. In other words, the sale of the gold to the Treasury permits a potential expansion of the central bank's credit equal to 400% of gold involved. The credit of the central bank in turn when used by the member banks has a potential expansion ratio of approximately six times.

"This means that the sale of a million dollars of gold to the Treasury creates a potential expansion 24 times as great in the commercial banking system. It is beside the point to argue that the Treasury and the Federal Reserve banks will not utilize this highly combustible inflation base in the manner outlined. The truth is that they can if they wish to.

Compensatory Measures

"In fact the Federal Reserve Banks are forced at once to take measures to offset the inflationary impact of this gold purchase. The American producer who has sold a million dollars worth of gold to the Treasury is paid with a Treasury draft which he deposits in his own bank. The bank in turn sends it into the nearest Federal Reserve Bank where its reserve account is credited with the million dollars.

"That bank has received a net addition to its reserve account against which it may make loans and increase its deposits. The present rule of thumb expansion ratio is sixfold. In order to offset this possible credit expansion, the Reserve Bank dips into its portfolio of government securities and sells an equivalent amount.

"The checks which the buyers offer for these securities are drawn against commercial banks and when cleared through the Federal Reserve Banks are charged against the reserve balances of the commercial banks, thus reducing them back to the point where they were before the gold producer sold his million of gold to the Treasury."

Close-Ups.....by Upton Close

BURLINGTON, N. C. — I am down in Dixie observing the reaction of these Southern Democratic people to the collapse of the Truman civil rights program. I find that these good Democrats of the South are very happy about it, because they did not want to see trouble between the states and the federal government and also because they really dread a final and irrevocable split in their shocked, inherited Democratic Party.

The boldness of President Truman's remarks about Congress after he had lost the filibuster fight appeals to these southerners. They really want to think of Truman as a nice guy, forced to follow some lines by politics, but not really anti-Southern.

However, Truman spoiled his remarks on Congress by the statement that of course, Southern Democrats are not true Democrats at all, but Dixiecrats. From the viewpoint of people down here, whose fathers bled and died for the Democratic Party when the North was overwhelmingly Republican, there would be more truth in such a statement as:

"Northern Democrats are not Socialists!" Senate Leader Scott Lucas also went off half-cocked with some threats to punish the South by voting down its pork-barrel legislation. Vice President Barkley soon got hold of him and tempered him down.

COLORED PEOPLE

I have talked to some intelligent colored persons in the South about the collapse of the Truman civil rights program. I find that they are not too disappointed. In fact many of them are relieved. Many felt that the civil rightsers in the North were going too fast and furious, and many doubted the sincerity of civil rights programs predominantly pushed down here by agents of the CIO and left-wing, fellow-traveling bodies, as well as by out-and-out Communists.

These Southern colored persons believe their racials may now receive through goodwill a great deal of the benefits that federal laws could have bought them in name only, but short of a complete social overturn in the South, never in reality.

Notably the only colored persons I have found who are bitter about the collapse of the Truman civil rights program are those whose connections and education and inspiritation have come from extreme sources, particularly from Communist and fellow - travelling organizations. These are persons who are quite aware that the strategy of introducing civil rights legislation into party politics at this time was conceived by the Communist high command, and endorsed by a conference in Detroit in April, 1946, which, according to Detroit newspaper reporters covering it at the time, was dominantly Communist or fellow - traveller attended and controlled. The recommendations of that conference were "sold" to a portion of the public through the report of a civil rights committee appointed by President Truman. This committee was dominated by "experts" of strong pro-Communist Party and fellow - traveller connections. At the same time, the program was being sold in the United Nations by foreign fellow travellers and with the sympathy and support of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's committee.

Because of the origin and history of this movement [illegible] persons most sympathetic [illegible] its declared aims have [illegible] against it. Many a trap, you know, is baited with good meat —and this is a stock Communist ruse. In addition to those leaders in the civil rights movement who have become offended at the dominant redness and pinkness of its chief workers, some leaders have practically dropped out because of "practical politics." The young crusader from Minnesota, the very paragon who forced the civil rights plank into the Democratic platform over the heads of McGrath and Truman at the Philadelphia convention, namely former mayor of Minneapolis and now Senator Humphries, has done mighty little for his cause since reaching the Senate. Whether this is because of the natural disability of a freshman senator, or due to other causes, Humphries' "liberal" associates say he has "gone opportunist," "gone politician," or "been spoiled by all the publicity." Certainly being a freshman senator has not held young Russell Long, son of Huey, down! Thirty-year-old Long, thanks to his experience as a page boy in legislative halls, and to just plain hard work and boning up, turned out to be one of the most suave and cunning men in use of dilectic and parliamentary rules and tricks in the Senate. Watch that boy!

The piquant part of the story is that young Long and Humphries were classmates down in Tulane University. Humphries is one of the young Northern "liberals" who trekked to Southern universities under both political and economic inspiration. And some writers were suggesting that Humphries would have great influence over Long!

Both boy senators want to "do good" for themselves to use old Huey's frank and homely phrase. But young Long seems better seasoned.

POP Goes the QUEEN

THE STORY: John Henry and Sin Conover, deeply involved in a murder mystery, check over their recent unpleasant experiences and decide that of all the suspects, the person who must have committed two recent killings is Mr. Trim, who is supposed to represent a tooth-paste company. The Conovers won their desert vacation trip, on which the murder occurred, on a quiz show sponsored by the firm. Trim, in response to Johnny's telephone call, meets them at the edge of the resort town.

XXXII

TRIM turned out the car lights and shut off the engine. John Henry could hear a car door open and close, then the sound of footsteps crunching in the dirt, coming closer.

"Where's Mr. Conover?" Trim asked as he approached.

"He's—he'll be back in a minute," Sin stammered.

"Well, I certainly was worried about you two, Mrs. Conover. I don't mind saying," Mr. Trim was saying.

"Let's get off the road," Sin managed. "Here, behind these bushes—over here."

"Say, but I was relieved to get your phone call. I just knew you two couldn't be involved in what happened this afternoon," the little man continued. John Henry braced himself for the spring. Through the leaves, he could see the bobbing outlines of their two heads as they trudged toward him. Trim seemed to be wearing a three-cornered hat.

"We've been worrying, too," Sin said, glancing nervously toward the bushes. They were two yards away now.

One yard.

John Henry leaped like a tiger for Mr. Trim's throat.

The small man let out a yelp of pure terror and jumped backward. John Henry's hands missed the scrawny throat and fastened instead on a wide leather belt. The two men crashed heavily to earth and rolled toward the ditch. Sin was jumping up and down and shouting encouragement to her husband. "He's got a gun, Johnny! He's got a gun!"

TRIM wiggled away and got up on his knees. John Henry tackled him around the waist again. A wizened hand scrabbled at the leather belt, trying to draw a long pistol from it. As though he had nothing else to think about, John Henry suddenly realized the significance of the cocked hat. Like Faye Jordan, Mr. Trim was all ready to go to the costume ball. He was dressed like a pirate, complete with skull and crossbones cockade on his hat. The long pistol was wood, with a cork on a string in the muzzle.

Trim brought the wooden gun up as if to use it as a club. John Henry's free hand shaked out and hit the other man's arm. The pistol sailed off harmlessly to clank on the running board of the car.

Sin screamed. Mr. Trim had slid away again and was scampering off down the road. John Henry loped after him and launched his stocky body into a flying tackle. The two men collapsed like a falling tree and slid along, face down in the sandy earth.

Sin ran up. "Johnny, Johnny," she was sobbing.

John Henry got up, panting, and brushed off his hands. "I'm okay, Sin. Lit right on top of him." Mr. Trim still lay crumpled on the ground.

"Is he—" Sin whispered.

"Nope. Just knocked out for a minute. He's still breathing," John Henry knelt and scooped up the limp figure in the pirate costume. "Come on." He strode back to the shelter of the mesquite. Sin tagged along, staying close behind. The moon, new-risen in the east, painted the scene in silver.

"I'll pass out his things, Sin. You go through them and look for the combination. Feel the linings especially."

"Hurry, honey—before he wakes up."

"Don't worry about that. Just make sure you don't miss anything," her husband said grimly.

HE began to go through the little man's costume. Mr. Trim was breathing heavily, his mouth wide open. John Henry decided to start at the top and passed out the cocked hat for Sin's examination. Then, after quick arithmetic, he divided the task in half. Over the bushes to his wife, he tossed the long dark-blue coat and the bright-red knee-breeches. "That paper's pretty small. Feel carefully." On his side of the leafy barrier, John Henry searched the white ruffled shirt, the leather hiking boots with black oilcloth tops, the long white stockings, the shorts and undershirt.

The combination was not there.

"Find anything?" he called to Sin.

"Not a thing," she said, throwing down the wide leather belt.

"Maybe he wasn't hiding it. Let's look in the obvious places. Try his wallet."

"There wasn't any."

"Maybe it fell out when I forced them over."

Sin poked noisily around in the underbrush. "Here it is. I found it."

"Good," muttered John Henry and felt around inside Trim's boots again.

Sin let out a horrified cry.

"Find it?" John Henry burst through the bushes. Sin was standing by the car. She had turned on the parking lights to aid her search. In her hands she held a black-leather wallet and she stared at it with stunned eyes.

"What is it, Sin?" John Henry grabbed her arm.

She looked his way and her eyes got wider and wider. "Johnny, look [illegible]s!" Sin handed him the wallet. He took it and held it up to the light. Something gleamed back, something small and golden. It was a badge, and the lettering on it said FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears — how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

10 pounds lost in 10 days

Mrs. M. C. Britton, 306 W. Wildwood, San Antonio, Texas, writes us as follows: "I am a faithful user of Barcentrate. I had dieted for weeks without your product and needed so badly to lose 10 pounds, so I started using Barcentrate and my worry was over for I lost the 10 pounds in 10 days. I now weigh 135 pounds.

"I eat most anything I want and hold my same weight."

'Bowery Brawl' Held By Kit Kats

The Kit Kat Klub held its annual "Bowery Brawl" Friday night, March 25, at the Terrace Grill. About fifty persons attended the affair and the dance, which followed the dinner and entertainment.

Red and white crepe paper barber poles and bows were used as decorations. A beer bottle with a lighted candle in it appeared on each table, which was covered with a red and white checked table cloth.

The bar, mounted on wooden kegs in a corner, was tended by Carol Smith, Jimmy Hyatt, Tommy Allison, and Dale Shackleford.

An anniversary cake was served with the dinner. Entertainment was furnished after dinner by Billy Cox and James Bowers who played selections on their electric quitars, and by Beverly Brandt and Max Hukill who did the "Apache Dance." Norma Manatt and Cherie McDaniels both sang songs.

Sponsors present were Mr. and Mrs. Clifton McNeeley of 117 N. Gillespie.

Oilers Held in By Bad Weather

The bad weather yesterday forced the Pampa Oilers to keep off of the diamond and confined their spring training to a team meeting in the clubhouse at noon. Several of the boys had a light workout in the gymnasium, just throwing the ball around.

Only four days remain before their first game of the year against the Gold Sox at Amarillo next Sunday.

A couple of other rookie hurlers who have joined the team are Al Peirlaard, a lefty, and John Tackle, who throws from the right side.

Several of the players are still searching for apartments so their families can join them here in Pampa. If you have one, or know of one, please call R. L. Edmondson, Grover Seitz or The Pampa News sports desk.

Sandow Meets Kasaboski Again

Friday night Billy "Kid" Sandow will get a chance to show a dirty wrestler how a good, clean one operates. He will make with ring madness against Alex Kasaboski, veteran roughie. The two fought on the same team in last week's six-man tag match, with Sandow eventually cleaning up on both of his partners because of their tactics. Hot words followed in the dressing room. Now the two participants can settle their differences in the ring.

This main event will be a two-out-of-three fall, 90-minute affair.

In the 45-minute preliminary, Glen Detton will do battle with a returning veteran, Hy Sharman. Sharman left the area several months ago after sustaining a double fracture of the jaw in a match at Amarillo.

Changes Made in Roundup Schedule

A couple of changes were made in the Roundup Club fight schedule for the coming three weeks. Lockney was scheduled to fight Lakeview at Lockney Friday night. But Lakeview decided to close its season before them Lockney, having advertised the Friday bouts, asked the Roundup Club to fight there Friday night, rather than their coming here Saturday. So, the revised schedule for the boxers is:

April 1, Lockney, there.
April 12, Stinnett, here.
April 16, Lockney, here.

Attempts are still being made to get a match with Wichita Falls. The match has been agreed upon, but the dates for the home-and-home fights have not been set as yet.

WARREN'S WARM UP

By Warren Hasse---News Sports Editor

QUESTION: What color is the bullseye of a standard archery target?

SOAP BOXERS: Now is the time to get started on the car that you want to enter in this year's Soap Box Derby. It will take longer to make the car this year because a new rule forbids the use of power tools, everything being done by hand.

Warmup had an opportunity to look at the official All-American Soap Box Derby movie taken at last year's race in Akron, Ohio. A fine time is in store for the local boy who wins the race in Pampa. At Soap Box Derby time in Akron, the youthful drivers take over the town, enjoying an experience they will never forget. The entire trip is free to the boy who wins. H will be driven to Akron, accompanied by a member of The News staff. His racer will be shipped on ahead in plenty of time to assure its arrival.

A special camp has been set up at Akron for the boys to live and play together, enjoying any sport they may desire, from pitching horseshoes to speedboat riding. All of thé time the boys are there they are under the watchful eye of capable, trained supervisors.

To the winner of the All-American Derby at Akron goes a four-year scholarship to any college or university that the boy may desire when he graduates from high school. The runner-up receives a new automobile for his family. Other national prizes, as yet unannounced, will be awarded.

Rule books, entry blanks and drivers' licenses are available at Culberson Chevrolet, who co-sponsors the local race along with the Lions Club and The Pampa News. So, boys, go out and get yourself a sponsor and start building your racer today. You don't have to have a sponsor to enter, but if you can get a sponsor, he will be willing to put up the $10.95 for the wheels for your car.

The aforementioned Soap Box Derby film, titled "Patterned for Sportsmanship," runs 26 minutes and is in color and sound. It will be shown to schoolchildren throughout the area by Mr. Paul Brown and Mr. Jimmy McCune.

Let's go, fellas! Get out the tools and start building your car today.

DOTS AND DASHES: The Texas Tech basketball team traveled farther and played before larger crowds than ever before this season. . .They traveled 7,400 miles and played before 80,000 people —— Ed Clepper, Mobeetie Senior at Texas Tech, will lead the Red Raider track squad to the Texas Relays in Austin this weekend. . .He placed third in the high hurdles and tied for second in the high jump at Fort Worth two weeks ago——Lefty Weisman, who has been trainer for the Indians since the days of Tris Speaker, claims to have written a song titled "Old Wagon". . .Asked how it goes, he replies, "Push it"——Bill Veeck, the Indians' front office boss, is looking for a Chinese player. . . Says he then would have an all-nations team——West Point's home baseball schedule includes games with the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers——Jack Mitchell, quarterback of Oklahoma's Big Seven Conference and Sugar Bowl champions, is taking a double job in preference to playing professional football. . . Jack is the new football coach and athletic director at Blackwell, Okla., High School. . .He also will do radio commentary on Oklahoma's five home games next fall . . . Another reason for Jack's decision to turn his back on major league football (and all those good sized paychecks) is that he owns a wheat ranch 12 miles from Blackwell.

Perfect Judge Needed for Boxing Bout

NEW YORK—(AP)—Eddie Eagan, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, thumbed through his files today in search of three "Solomons."

He's going to need three officials with something close to the BiBblical monarch's wisdom plus strong sets of nerves to judge Friday's ten-round, non-title bout between lightweight Champion Ike Williams and welter contender Kid Gavilan in Madison Square Garden.

The stir created by Eagan's indefinite suspension of two officials following the Jake Lamotta-Robert Villemain fray last Friday, has focused attention on the thorny problem that will be handed the three arbiters this week.

They will be asked to decide between two battlers with contrasting styles who have fought two of the closest fights in recent years.

Williams won the first one in February, 1948. The flashy Cuban evened the count last Jan. 28.

All three officials voted for sharp-punching Ike in the initial contest but by as narrow an edge as you can make it, 5-4-1, 5-4-1 and 6-4.

In the return, the busy, wide-swinging Cuban keed received 5-4-1 verdicts from the two judges to give him the edge although Referee Ruby Goldstein cast his ballot for a 4-4-2 draw.

Roundup Club Ringmen Lose 7-6 to Stinnett Boxers

Despite the bad weather, approximately 250 Stinnett and Pampa fight fans were on hand last night to witness the boxing bouts between the Roundup Club of Pampa and the Stinnett school team. The Stinnett team won the final bout of the evening to break a 6-6 tie score and win the team match by a 7-6 count.

Riddle-Bell

The first fight of the night was a 55-pound scrap between Kayo Riddle, Pampa, and Gene Bell of Stinnett. These two little light boys stood toe to toe and battled through their entire fight, with Riddle getting a bloody nose midway through the first round. Kayo floored his opponent several times. The very close decision went to the Stinnett boy, Bell.

James-Delong

The second fight brought together Ronald Lee James, Pampa, and Ronnie Delong, Stinnett, in the 75-pound class. The fight was stopped near the end of the first round when James had the better of the Stinnett boys winning a TKO. TKO.

Cullum-Smith

In another 75-pound fight, Eddie Cullum, Pampa, met Glenn Smith, Stinnett. This was a fast fight from the opening bell. Both boys threw a lot of leather, with both landing several solid blows, though neither being hurt. This was another close fight, with the decision going to Smith.

Cooper-Groves

Billy Ed Cooper, Pampa, fighting in the 85-pound class, met Bob Groves, Stinnett. This was another ,well-matched fight, with both of the boys landing about even. Cooper was throwing an uppercut while his opponent was countering with a hard right. Cooper kept Groves in trouble through most of the final round and won the decision.

Estes-Bodie

With the score tied at 2-2, Merl Estes, fighting his first fight, met Calvin Bodie, in a 94-pound fight. Both boys were wary the first round. But from there on the leather flew fast, with Estes looking good in his first fight. The close decision this time went to the Pampa boy, Merl Estes.

Pitchford-Smith

The next fight of the night brought another inexperienced boy into the Pampa corner, Edgar Pitchford. His opponent was Don Smith, in a 110-pound fight. Pitchford is another Roundupper who looked good in his first fight. He backed his opponent all around the ring the final round and won the decision.

Wilhelm-Ballard

In a 110-pound fight, Bob Wilhelm, Pampa, met Ken Ballard of Stinnett. Bob ran into an opponent with a longer reach but he worked inside of him and won the fight on a third round TKO, when Ballard couldn't come out for the final round because of a broken thumb.

Tollison-Rogers

The next fight of the night, in the 134-pound class, found Paul Tollison, Pampa, meeting J. C. Rogers, Stinnett. Paul had to give away the height and reach to the Stinnett boy, but he constantly kept him in trouble. The decision went to the boy from Stinnett, Rogers.

Kelley-Logan

The ninth fight of the night was between Keith Kelley and Billie Logan of Stinnett, in the 126-pound class. Kelley threw a long right that kept his opponent undercover. There was a lot of clinching by the Stinnett boy, and the decision went to Kelley.

Roberts-Thompson

Jumbo Roberts, fighting in the 138-pound class, met Roy Thompson of Stinnett. Both boys scored constantly with long left leads, and lots of infighting took place. Roberts had his man out on his feet at the bell at the end of the third round, but the decision went to Thompson.

Gillmore-King

In the feature fight of the night, Jimmie Gillmore fought Max King of Stinnett, in the 126-pound class. King was a big boy with a long reach and height advantage over Jimmie. He stopped Gillmore for an 8 count in the first round, though not hurting him. It was a fast fight, but the reach of King was too much for Gillmore, and the decision went to the Stinnett boy.

Holland-Dewey

In the twelfth fight, Jim Holland met Don Dewey in the 137-pound class. Here was a wild fight. Both boys believed in throwing long looping shots, and both missed consistently. No solid punches landed in this haymaking affair. The decision went to Dewey, to tie the team score at 6-6 with one more bout remaining.

Murray-Williamson

That was a 160-pound battle between Dick Murray of Pampa and Bill Williamson of Stinnett. This was the first fight for Murray. Dick never was able to overcome a furious first-round onslaught by Williamson and the decision went to the Stinnett boy, giving them the team match by a 7-6 score.

The referee for the night was Bud Yount of Stinnett.

Other Pampa boys who made the trip but did not fight were Gary Watt, Don Fagan, Francis Hunt, Leon Kelley, Ken Morrison, Bob Hinkley, James Claunch and Barton Lockhart.

Coach Bob Avent of Stinnett can be proud of his team for the fine fight they put up and the fine sportsmanship shown by his boys and by the crowd that witnessed the bouts.

Texas Relay Team May Set New Record

AUSTIN —(AP)— The University of Texas 440-yard relay team needs only three good baton passes here April 2 in the Texas Relays to claim nation-wide domination of the record in this event.

Texas holds the record at three of the four major track carnivals in the nation, the Penn, Drake and Los Angeles Coliseum Relays, but only shares the Texas Relays record with Rice.

The Longhorns have two of the four men back from the 1947 team that tied the Rice record of 41.4 second, set 10 years earlier.

They are Charlie Parker and Perry Samuels, and John Robertson assures a swift first leg.

For the fourth man, Texas Coach Clyde Littlefield has two candidates, Robert Reedy and O. B. Chesshir, and which he will use in the record-breaking attempt will be dependent on improvement in the interim.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— If you look over one of those farm club training camps —Dodgertown, for instance — you might think there's an endless supply of baseball material. . .But a correspondent who knows how tough things can be down in Class "D" baseball sends this complaint: "It seems to me some scouts send in any boy they can sign to a contract. For instance, one club in our league had about 70 players during the last season. You can't win ball games unless your team jells. The point is they sent in one young player after another and the one they sent in usually was inferior to the boy he replaced. Where they dug 'em up is a mystery, but the greater mystery is why they'd sign 'em" . . .Just to show there's another side to the same problem, a baseball scout notes: "Had to hurry back from Florida to start trailing the colleges. You know college schedules are short and we have to move fast in the spring". . . Maybe it's something wrong with the scouting system, not the scouts.

Lack of Good Moundsmen Will Be Detriment to St. Louis Browns

By BOB MYERS
AP Newsfeatures

BURBANK, Calif. — Zack Taylor watched his St. Louis Brownies go through a lively inter-squad game at their new training base here and commented:

"We could use some pitching." Innocently spoken, it can go down as quite an understatement of fact. Boy, can they use pitching!

The Brownie front office peddled away their best hurler of 1948, Fred Sanford. They got in return a fat bundle of cash, but they can't pitch money every fourth day.

Sandy won only 12 games and lost 21 for St. Louis, but the Yankees thought enough of him to kick through with a lot of dough.

There is no reason to take a run-down of Zack's pitching prospects. There will be time enough for that if miracles are to follow in the American League race this year.

Aside from this department, however, the Browns have a pretty well balanced outfit, a hustling team and a manager who seems to get along fine with his talent.

His infield is good, and could be terrific if big Jack Graham, San Diego's homerun sensation, continues to belt the major league brand of ball as he has done in exhibitions.

Zack Taylor

Gerry Priddy at second was one of the outstanding players of the league last year, and teamed with Shortstop Eddie Pellagrini formed one of the finest double play combinations in the big show.

Graham, incidentally, can play in the outfield, too, leaving first base open to good-field, no-hit Hank Arft.

Taylor is high on his outfield —veteran Al Zarilla (.329); Paul Lehner (.276 and improving); Dick Kokos, a fine graduate of Toledo in the American Association; Whitey Platt, a utility veteran.

Two young catchers, Sherman Lollar and Les Moss, also look good.

Taylor achieved wonders in piloting the Browns into sixth place. Observers think they'll do as well this year.

One Tag for Texoma

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)— Fishermen would need only one license to fish in huge Lake Texoma under terms of a resolution introduced Saturday in the Oklahoma Senate by Sen. Raymond Gary of Madill.

Revenue from the uniform fishing license would be divided between the two states.

Sportsmen are in doubt which state they are fishing in, Gary said Saturday, since an estimated 70 percent of the lake lies in Oklahoma and the remainder in Texas.

He said that the uniform license is needed to head off a request by Texans for the federal government to take over fishing rights there.

AVAILABLE ARC: If the size of your swinging arc is smaller than the average because of your height, put yourself back on equal footing with those lanky pinsters by using all the arc available. My case in point is stocky five-foot-six-inch Walter Johnson of Fremont, Ohio. This sharpshooter is a picture of perfectly timed footwork and swing that all you bowlers of like build should note.

Delivering a medium-to-fast ball, the chunky redhead reached the finals in the world individual match championship twice and also won the rich Devito sweepstake twice. The ball he delivers is put into a long swinging motion from the arms being fully extended in the pushaway. He times the swing by using a 16-foot stride and the top of his backswing is parallel with the shoulders.

Never hurrying this swing, he allows the ball to drop into the downward groove of its own weight and in that way it picks up momentum. The regulated speed comes from the relaxed, free swing. His body weight is thrown over to the side in his finishing slide, in perfect balance at the line. This perfect slide finish makes his control sharp (body in line, facing the pins) as the illustration shows.

The four step stride of 15 or 16 feet, pushing the ball well away from the body with the first (right) step, and concentrating on swinging the ball, is an ideal style for stocky bowlers. Anyway, Walter Johnson does it that way, and he does very well for himself.

Gonzales Completes Sweep of Tennis

NEW YORK — (AP) — Richard (Pancho) Gonzales of Los Angeles won the National Indoor Tennis championship Saturday and became the first player in history to rule this country's amateur game on grass, clay and wood — all at the same time.

The Californian vanquished defending champion Billy Talbert of New York, 10-8, 6-0, 4-6, 9-7.

The women's singles title went to top-seeded Gertrude Moran of Santa Monica, Calif., who flattened Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Calif., 6-2, 6-3.

Browns Decide Not to Evict Cardinals Yet

BURBANK, Calif. — (AP) —The St. Louis Browns have decided not to evict the St. Louis Cardinals from Sportsman's Park pending a court decision on their suit to break the lease. Previously the Browns said they would file eviction notice April 1.

William O. DeWitt, president of the Browns, in a formal statement said the Dodier Realty and Investment Company had offered use of the park to the Cardinals.

The Browns, through the Dodier Company, own the ball park.

Notice of forfeiture of lease was filed against the Cardinals in circuit court Feb. 28. The action is based on a change in the corporation name of the St. Louis National League Club when ownership was transferred from Robert Hannegan to Fred M. Saigh, Jr.

Harvesters Win Over McLean by 8 to 1 Score

The Pampa Harvester baseball team took their young arms out in cold and rain yesterday and defeated the McLean Tigers 8 to 1.

The feature of the game was the hitting of Jimmie Howard, who slapped out two home runs for the locals.

The pitching for the Harvesters was handled by Howard Wells and Bill Epps, both righthanders.

The star pitching feature was turned in by Watson, McLean hurler, who fanned 11 Pampa batsmen in the four innings that he worked.

A return game is in the making, but first the Harvesters have to find a ball park in which to play their games.

They figure he should have a good hook.

1—Card of Thanks

A LITTLE CHILD SHALL LEAD THEM. Isaiah 11:6.

Where has she gone since yesterday
And left us lonely here,
To-night she seems so far away
Who yester-eve was near.
No map of ours on sea or land,
Her journeyings may trace;
We only know she's reached her home
And seen her Father's face.

And oh, she knows since yesterday,
And she'll be learning fast;
The mists of earth are cleared away,
The mysteries are past.
The sun of truth in radiance glows
All shadowless and bright,
Undimmed by any cloudy of earth,
Undarkened by it's night.

And she has grown since yesterday,
And she'll be growing still;
The bonds of time and sense and space
That irked her eager will
We're dropped like shackles from the soul
In that first upward flight
Thte weary body frets no more
The spirit, freed and light.

O dear, familiar yesterday,
O sad and strange to-day,
Yet who would call the glad soul back
To rouse the resting clay?
Oh who would wish that she might share
Our morrow's toil and strife,
Who, losed from Death and all it's pains,
Has entered into Life?

DONNA SUE HERREL

We wish to express our deep appreciation to all who helped us bear our sorrow in the loss of our darling baby, Donna Sue Herrel, who left us on March 21 to join the Heavenly band of Angles. We especially wish to acknowledge the kindness of Calvary Baptist Church and Rev. Collins Webb for the comforting message. Also Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home for last rites. The floral offerings were very helpful to our hearts.

Cabinet Rumor

Recurrent rumors in Washington are that Secretary of Defense James Forrestal will resign, with Louis Johnson, above, mentioned as his successor. Johnson was assistant secretary of war from 1937 to 1940, and contributed heavily to President Truman's successful campaign.

CZECHS

States, the State Department will wait a formal statement by the Czechoslovak government and the results of promised interviews with the prisoners by American officials.

The Communist-led Czechoslovak government announced yesterday that Recruit Clarence R. Hill, 31, of Pampa, Texas, has been sentenced to 12 years at hard labor and Recruit George H. Jones, 22, to ten years. They had been held since Dec. 10 when, U. S. officials said, they wandered across the border from the U. S. Zone of Germany.

Acheson said their conviction was announced suddenly without prior notification. The two men he said, were denied contact with the embassy and were convicted "without due regard for the normal rights and safeguards to which an accused should be entitled insofar as this government is aware."

Acheson noted that the Czech Ministry of Foreign Affairs has said a note is being sent to the embassy on the subject and has promised arrangements will be made for American officials to interview the two men next week.

STORM

Charles Stowers, 32, Canton.

Longdale was so badly hit that sheriff's deputies and patrolmen put up road blocks to keep the curious away and speed rescue work.

The Canton twister knockedout lights, power and telephones, and all through the early morning hours rescue work went in the fitful light of auto headlamps and flashlights.

Two ambulances, themselves almost wrecked in the blast, carried the injured to hospitals in nearby Okeene and Watonga.

Brick buildings as well as frame houses went down in Canton like card-castles. The brick Mormon Church and a brick warehouse were leveled.

"Longdale was almost blown away," said Nova Jean Schiska, 17-year-old telephone operator who manned her switchboard after the tornado.

"It came here with no warning—hardly any rain and hail. . . just bang!"

First word of the Canton disaster was phoned to the Daily Oklahoman by R. H. Burnham, publisher of the Canton Record, over the only telephone line left to the town. The Associated Press relayed the call to the State Highway Patrol, the central disaster headquarters for Oklahoma, and aid was ordered to the scene.

Canton is only 40 miles southwest of Woodward, Okla., where the worst tornado on record struck on April 9, 1947, killing 106. Canton has escaped the twisters for 30 years, although they have hit all around.

The Blackwell blow was only glancing. Police Sgt. George Morgan said it knocked down houses, a grade school and powerlines in the south part of town. There were six injured there. A report of another tornado at Medford, Okla., apparently was erroneous.

A tornado dipped down five miles north of Enid — in northwest Oklahoma — about 3 a.m. and demolished a hangar and several airplanes at a field operated by the Hirst Air Service. No one was hurt.

Texas, Louisiana, California and Oklahoma rank in that order in the production of natural gas.

WINDS

He estimated the damage would run between $500 and $600 since the roof will have to be replaced.

The same gust of wind pulled a breakin trick at Meaker's Refrigeration Plant on Hobart where it blew up the raising west door, roared through the building and blew out the north end plate glass window on the building's east side.

Two oil field derricks on the Mazda Oil Lease about eight miles southwest of Pampa on the Combs-Worley Ranch were blown over while another one was left leaning at a sharp angle. The three engine houses beside the derricks were also blown over. Inside the leaning derrick a drilling machine miracuiously remained standing.

No one, this morning, was able to determine just what kind of wind ripped through Pampa last night. Rose told The News it looked to him like a small whirlwind, but didn't believe it was a baby tornado.

In Canadian, the winds blew out two house windows and ripped the eaves from several business buildings, Karl Broadley of the Canadian Record reported today. Very little damage was caused there. At Higgins, Broadley's home, where the 1947 tornado left approximately 40 dead and injured, there was very little wind, some hail and very little rain. The wind, according to Broadley, bypassed the little town "a tornado couldn't kill."

SYRIAN

regime because of attacks against the army inside as well as outside the House of Representatives, which gave way to misrepresentation of the Syrian Army and ill treatment of its officers," El Zaim said.

"Another reason for it is the people's discontent with the present rule and the abuse from personalities handling it.

"Our movement is purely local and has no foreign implication whatsoever, and we are not rule seekers or supporters of dictatorial rule. As soon as a new cabinet is formed, which we are seeking at present with the advice of the speaker of the House, Faris Bey el Khouri, we shall transfer the power to them."

The commander cabled the United Nations that the Syrian Army took its action to put an end to internal anarchy. It confirmed Syria's adherence to her former agreements and respect for democracy.

DELAY

ganize the public school system's administrative set-up at the state level. Two key changes are suggested:

1. The office of state superintendent, now elective, would be abolished. In its place would be an appointive state commissioner of education.

2. The State Board of Education, now appointed by the Governor, would be elected on a district basis. The board would appoint the education commissioner, subject to confirmation by the Senate.

It is around these two proposals that much of the turmoil in political and education circles has developed.

Taylor speaking both as Senate sponsor of the bill and chairman of the Gilmer-Aikin Committee which worked 18 months before making recommendations, insists that the commissioner should be an administrative agent who would put into effect policies determined by the board.

The Senator says this plan is comparable to manager - council type of government used by many Texas cities in which an elected council hires a city manager to administer the policies it sets up.

Dr. L. A. Woods, the man who would have his job as state superintendent cut from under him, argues with equally as strong conviction that the only way to keep the people of Texas in control of their education system is to keep his office elective.

Manager to Convention

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Wedgeworth will leave in the morning for San Angelo to attend the annual convention and work clinic of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Managers Association.

Raymond Lee Johns, manager of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and president of the association, will preside at the opening session at 9 a.m. Friday at the Cactus Hotel.

All managers and their wives will be guests of the San Angelo Board of City Development at a fish fry at Lake Nasworthy at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Included in the conference will be a round-table discussion of the problems confronting the present day economy and a discussion of Chamber of Commerce activities.

M. D. Panning, manager of the San Angelo Board of City Development, will be host at the meeting. The Wedgeworths will return Sunday.
