

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

Her whole life, Eve was beginning to think, would mean acceptance and reconstruction. Marcel and Leon seemed broken reeds, and her present condition might go on indefinitely. If it did, she would at least continue temporarily in this new environment. She was helping Ivy, whom she had persuaded to see a specialist and follow his treatment. Miss Morris had hinted that she would like to learn some French, and had added frankly:

"Some English, too, teacher. Don't think I ain't wise to the way I spill words."

Even Stella was more human with Eve than with others, and on one occasion had sought the novice's apartment to make a tearful confession of a sort not often given. Eve gathered that Stella had so far forgotten her prejudice against men as to fall in love with one of the regulars at Jake's and to throw herself violently at the head of the unappreciative young man. When he failed to respond she sent him notes.

When he ceased coming to Jake's, obviously to avoid her, she called at his rooms late one afternoon and waited there till he came home.

At this point in the account she gave Eve, Stella's sobs grew so loud that Eve feared they might draw Miss Davenport from the next apartment. She mentioned this danger to the raconteuse, who stifled the expression of her grief. It was no part of Stella's plan to make Ivy a confidante. But her plain face was tear-streaked as she went on, and Eve experienced a deep sympathy not only for her but for the regular who had been subjected to this sort of scene. There may be girls who are beautiful when they weep. Poor Stella was not among them.

"I let'm see why I was there," Stella gulped, "an' he was that polite he broke my heart. I'd taken off my coat an' hat before he come in, for of course I thought he'd keep me to dinner anyway. Don't they always in stories an' pictures? But he didn't. He got my hat an' coat, an' he put 'em on gentle an' kind, like he was dressin' a kid, with soothin' noises, an' he told me I was too nice a girl to put myself in compromisin' positions. Wasn't that the elephants' knuckles? An' he got me to the door an' outside it, an' the first I knew he had the elevator up and was puttin' me in it an' sayin' good-bye. Oh, Berson, it was awful! For of course I caught on then, right off. I seen I was a woman scorned!"

The phase seemed to please Stella, for she tried it again on a higher key.

"A woman scorned," she repeated. "Berson, I give you my word I cried all the way home. Now, what d'you think I ought to do? Give him up?"

"Yes, Stella," Eve said with a straight face and a comforting pat on the girl's shaking shoulders. "If I were you I'd give him up."

She had believed that, with the possible exception of Queenie, Stella had the keenest sense of humor of any one at Jake's. Now she realized anew that one's sense of humor often perishes under the first assault of one's emotional nature.

"Well, if you say so, I will," Stella

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write Syrup Pepsin, Dept. B, 110 West 40th St., New York, for 20¢ trial bottle.

agree with a pathetic sniffle; and she drifted away, greatly relieved by an outburst to which she never again referred.

Yes, one could do a little for these girls, Eve reflected, as she depressedly walked at Hunt's side. She was earning money, too, and saving most of it, and beginning her readjustment, and doing her sleeping in the daytime and not having to face black nights. Yet, admitting all these things, her panic returned in some degree every time she met strangers.

Tonight she told herself she had been mad to come. Deep within her an alarm was sounding, softly but persistently. It grew louder as she approached the man at the corner table. He had risen, and stood watching her with an air of tense expectancy. He took a quick step forward when she reached the table, and then under her conventional smile stopped short with a look of incredulous stupefaction.

He was a big man, six feet tall, smooth-faced, of dark complexion, middle-aged, and inclined to stoutness. He had a large head covered with thick hair, brushed straight back from a good forehead. His gray eyes, just now fixed unswervingly on hers, were partly concealed by the thick lenses of the horn-rimmed spectacles he wore. They had the peering look of the near-sighted, and this constant effort to see clearly had lined his forehead and tufted his thick grey eyebrows.

"I wish I knew what this meant," he said at last. "Perhaps you'll tell me. But take your time."

She made two efforts before she could speak. He was some one she had known, but her inner panic proved that he was also some one she had reason to fear. She did not know him now, and she would let him see that she did not. It seemed the safest course.

"I'm always rather nervous with strangers," she admitted, and then asked breathlessly, "Would you care to dance?"

He laughed at that, on a sudden harsh note; and again he took his time to speak, his eyes on the cigar as if he were thinking deeply.

"Strangers!" he repeated. "Strangers!"

"I think," she suggested, "you are mistaking me for some one you know."

He straightened as if she had struck him.

"My God! are you telling me I don't know you?" he cried.

"I think you're misled by a strong likeness. There are some amazing resemblances, you know."

Jake passed the table as she spoke, glanced at the pair, and hesitated. Eve did not see him, but the stranger did.

"Jake says you're working for him," he brought out with difficulty. "He tells me you're substituting for another girl. That's about the limit, but we won't go into it now. However, I know the rules of the cabaret game. I mustn't take the time of his people for nothing. So here's a sop to him."

With extreme deliberation he took a roll of bills from his pocket, pulled off a ten-dollar bank note, and tossed it on the table before her. In her increasing panic she hardly observed the action.

The stranger saw that Jake had passed on, and his manner changed as abruptly as if some nerve in him, tense till now, had suddenly snapped.

"Well, young lady," he rasped out, "it's time to drop this chicanery of yours and come to an understanding."

Eve stared at the man in a frozen silence.

"I don't understand," she faltered, after a brief duel of eyes between them.

He smiled wryly.

"I'm afraid neither of us is meeting this very well," he said wearily. "I'll admit it's too much for me but we'll understand each other all right when we've had our talk. Go and put on your coat and we'll get out. This is no place for you, and God alone knows why you came here."

Eve stood up quickly. She must end this nightmare.

"I must go to the dressing-room and get my wrap," she said.

Queenie was in the dressing room. Eve caught her arm.

"Is there any back way out of this place?" she asked desperately. Her expression forbade questions and Miss Morris rallied to the obvious crises of the moment.

"Sure there is!" she remembered. "The boys' dressin'-room has a window on a back alley."

She hurried Eve across the room, and with an emphatic push helped her through the window that opened on the alley.

It was all quite simple now. Three taxicabs stood in a waiting line just around the corner, in front of the side door, and with a crisp command she entered the first.

"Sixth Avenue and Fortieth Street. Quick, please," she directed; and the chauffeur, who seemed used to such instructions, started with a suddenness that made her bite her tongue.

She paid him and left the taxicab at the point she had indicated, and when the cab was out of sight she took another that was passing, and ordered herself driven downtown. The Garland, she had decided, was her only refuge. She dared not return to the apartment to which she could so easily be traced, and no other good hotel she knew of would take her in at that hour of the night without luggage and in evening clothes.

During the swift journey, she planned her story for the hotel clerk. If Jenkins, the night man, was on duty, she was sure he would take her in. She left the 'cab a block from the Garland and walked the remaining distance; and her panic lifted a trifle when she entered the lobby and saw the plump face of Jenkins confronting her across the night desk.

"Oh, Mr. Jenkins," she began with a desperate effort to speak naturally, "perhaps you remember me—"

"Miss Parsons? Of course. How do you do? I can give you the same rooms you had before, if you like," he hospitably added. "They're vacant."

"Thank you, yes; I'd like that very much."

Eve took her key, gave him a forced smile, and went on to the elevator, breathing more naturally.

A warm bath partly soothed her, the familiar bed was comfortable, and the quiet neighborhood was free from the car-clanging that had disturbed her at the apartment. With a mighty effort of will she tried to draw mental shutters between memory and the episodes of the night, but the gray-haired stranger pushed back those shutters, with compelling hands. The room seemed full of him. The very world seemed full of him, and of some horror connected with him.

The horror was worse than the man himself, because it was intangible. Like those trailing ends she was always striving to catch, it lay beyond her reach, just back of him.

... In some way he was connected with it all ... he was in the very heart of it. At moments she was just within grasp of what it was ... something flicked, lightened, and suddenly darkened again even as she was holding her breath in the use of his neck muscles. He writes with a pen or pencil between his teeth, and runs a typewriter by punching the keys with a stick held in his mouth.

The sun rose, bringing with it, first, endurance, then reviving courage.

She was awakened by a tinkle, sharply imperative. The telephone was in her sitting-room and she rose to answer it. At the first words that came over the wire her heart caught, then leaped, and reviving courage lifted her like a wave.

"Miss Parsons?" It was Hamilton's warm and friendly voice, holding the thrill of controlled excitement. "Robinson has just told me that you're back," he continued, "and it seems too good to be true. I don't want to be a nuisance, of course—"

"Oh, I shall be glad to see you!" Eve gasped. "You can't imagine how glad I'll be. But—" with an effort she controlled her shaking voice—"I shan't be around to it for a couple of hours. I'm just awake. Will eleven o'clock be convenient for you?"

The last of her panic had slunk away at the sound of Hamilton's voice. With Hamilton in the hotel she was safe.

She rang for the chambermaid, who came promptly, and offered the girl five dollars for the loan of a hat, a dress, a coat and a pair of shoes.

The clothes fitted fairly well, as she had expected them to do after her first glance at Margaret's trim figure, but the general effect was that of a young working girl of a flamboyant type.

An impulse came to her and she stopped to consider it.

CRIPPLE WINS DEGREE

Among the season's college graduates none is more interesting or deserving than Richard Mahoney, who has just received his A. B. degree at Clark University, in Massachusetts.

Mahoney was stricken with infantile paralysis when he was four years old. He has not been able to use his arms or legs since, but has developed remarkable facility in the use of his neck muscles. He writes with a pen or pencil between his teeth, and runs a typewriter by punching the keys with a stick held in his mouth.

His great physical misfortune has never daunted his ambitious spirit, and he was voted the best-natured man in his class. He expects to continue his studies and win his master's degree next year.

Mahoney's ambition is to become a writer, and the courage and determination he has already shown will stand him in good stead in his effort to win fame and fortune as a man of letters.

Lawrence Potaczynski asked for a handout at the back door of a Detroit home. The lady of the house recognized him as her divorced husband who had failed to make money payments, and had rested.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Shindler Drug Company.

Sympathy Should Play No Part In Making Your Choice Of A County Treasurer

Political offices should be filled with men capable of holding them. That is why we urge you to support J. N. Conley for County Treasurer. Mr. Conley is a son of the south. For nearly twenty-five years he has been a resident of Ochiltree County. He has watched this section grow and develop. He knows the problems the farmer has to face. He knows conditions as they exist in this County, today.

In casting your ballot for Mr. Conley, you are voting for a capable, conservative and conscientious official. You are voting for a Christian gentleman, an honorable man and an honest official.

Mr. Conley is running for the office of County Treasurer on his own merits alone. Life Story of R. S. Sterling One of Triumph Over Difficulties

Practical Understanding of People's Problems Fits Him For Governorship

ROSS STERLING was born on a farm near Anahuac, in Chambers county, in 1875, one of 12 children of parents impoverished by the Civil war. His father was a captain in the Confederacy, and an uncle on his mother's side fought with Sam Houston at San Jacinto.

Early in his youth he left the farm to engage in freighting produce and merchandise across the bay between Anahuac and Galveston in a schooner. At the age of about 20 he opened a little "general merchandise" store in his home community.

From there he ventured into the oil field regions of Humble and Sour Lake, establishing feed and produce stores, and later expanding his activities to include county banking. In 1893 he was married to Miss Maude Abbie Gage. Five children have been born to them.

Mr. Sterling launched into the oil business in 1910, purchasing two producing wells. Adding to these properties, he organized the Humble Oil company.

In 1925 he retired as head of the Humble Oil and Refining company and parted with his holdings in it, to devote his time to other affairs, private and public.

He has been a member of the Houston Port commission since its inception, in about 1912, and chairman of the commission since 1921, during which period the port of Houston has been developed from a dream into one of the major ports of the country, and the city's size has been doubled.

For a number of years Ross Sterling has served as chairman of the board of trustees of Hermann Hospital estate, which has built and is administering a $1,500,000 charity institution. He is a director and for several years was president of the Y. M. C. A. of Houston.

In memory of Ross Shaw, Jr., who died in 1924, Mr. Sterling gave the Y. M. C. A. of South Texas a beautiful wooded camp on Galveston Bay. Recently he purchased 100 acres of the old Sam Houston homestead, adjoining this camp, for donation to the State of Texas as a park.

Governor Dan Moody appointed Mr. Sterling chairman of the state highway commission early in 1927. He and his colleagues, Commissioners Cone Johnson of Tyler and W. R. Ely of Abilene, reorganized the department, sponsored an increase in the gasoline tax, and for the past three and a half years have carried on an intensive program of highway construction and maintenance.

Having achieved success in all his private and public endeavors, Mr. Sterling became a candidate for governor through an expressed desire to be of further service to his state, declaring that state progress and growth demands a business-like administration of the state's affairs, and that the man best fitted to give such an administration and meet the demands of the changing times should be elected.

He advocates relieving the counties of financial responsibility for building state highways, and believes the people should be given an opportunity to decide at the polls whether they want a state bond issue, to be retired wholly with proceeds of a motor fuel tax. He proposes the refunding to counties of money already spent on state highways, as a means of lifting the heavy burden of county road taxes, and developing a system of lateral roads.

His platform pledges constructive and progressive executive efforts toward equalizing the tax burden, to the end that the small farm, ranch and home owner be relieved and mineral wealth may bear its just share of taxation.

He proposes a modernization of the prison system, useful employment of prisoners, and segregation of youthful offenders.

Mr. Sterling promises hearty support of the rural and urban schools and the colleges of Texas. A lifelong prohibitionist and total abstainer, he promises vigorous enforcement of the dry laws and all other laws.

He would give earnest attention, if elected, to problems of labor, eleemosynary institutions, agriculture, conservation of natural resources, judicial reforms, regulation of public utilities, and departmental efficiency.

Finally, he pledges his utmost efforts to end factional strife in Texas Democracy, and to restore harmony.

"Lowered Resistance"
I seriously doubt if anybody ever contracts disease when what we call "bodily resistance" is normal. Many of us come in contact with disease germs every day; but because our bodies are functioning normally the infectious germs are unable to find lodging.

The human digestive tract is singularly built to withstand infections. We swallow probably millions of germs, perhaps, in water, milk, raw fruits and other carriers of simple bacteria; these are for the most part promptly destroyed by healthy digestive juices. It is so with domestic animals; they drink and eat much that is impure, yet healthy digestive fluids protect them from disease.

The time, however, when disease producers hop in and make themselves at home is when we are, in general parlance, "run-down" from one cause or another. Overwork is a certain invitation to the entrance of disease germs. This means overloading the stomach for protracted periods, wearing down the muscular system by heavy toil, and tearing down the nervous system by constant grind in these strenuous days. Anything that taxes the system beyond its endurance invites disease, which rarely appears otherwise: so that, when we get sick, we had better cast about for just how we fore-sought the law of right living.

"Lowered bodily resistance," then, is a factor in almost all diseased conditions. The physician sets in to "clean house" and to restore health by systematic rest for the overworked organs. Unless he can enforce suitable rest, he will have a slow recovery. It never pays to go to work too soon after any illness.

Overwork—overwork! it is foolish. A man may tax his bodily resistance in dissipation—it is overwork just the same, though not in gainful employment. He may habitually lose sleep until his nerves become tired out; disease sets in, and he wonders why. Overdoing may be in pleasur-

KONJOLA ENDED TWO YEARS OF STOMACH MISERY

Again This New and Different Medicine Shows Why It Has Become Famous

MRS. BERTIE COWAN

Strange, but absolutely true—Konjola the new and different medicine seems at the very peak of its powers when pitted against the stubborn cases that have held on with bulldog-like tenacity. Take for example, the experience of Mrs. Bertie Cowan, 614 West Second St., Ft. Worth, Texas, who says:

"For two years the lightest of foods caused misery. At times I had to gasp for breath, and I belched up bits of undigested food. I took soda constantly. My kidneys gave me trouble too. I had backache and had to rise many times at night. But Konjola ended all this, and today my back is free from pain, my nerves are steady, I sleep soundly and wake up every morning rested and refreshed."

Thus Konjola works, swiftly yet surely. It is strongly recommended however, that a complete treatment of from six to eight bottles be used if best results are to be obtained. Konjola is sold in Perryton, Texas, at the Perryton Drug Company drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section. 24-11-c.

The American Legion Auxiliary met in regular session Monday night, June 7. A social hour was enjoyed by the members and Legionnaires, after the following business was disposed of:
 Meeting called to order by the president, and the following business disposed of:
 After considerable discussion, it was moved and carried that we send $50.00 to the State Department to help in the erection of a building for the child welfare program at Kerrville. The Executive Committee of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Texas, asked each Unit to donate generously for this building, and desired each Unit to donate 50c a member, or more. We have 65 members, which would amount to $42.25, but we felt that $50.00 would not be too much for such a worthy cause.
 We have received our Citation for having 100 per cent membership renewal before January 1. It was voted that we have same framed for the Hall, and Mrs. Lackey was appointed to see about this. Every Auxiliary member is asked to urge their husband, brother or son to have their Army or Navy discharges recorded. There is no charge for this. Just take it to the County Clerk's office. Sometime they may want a copy of their discharge and will be unable to find the original. This is part of the work that the Auxiliary is requested to see is done.

 American Legion and Auxiliary meet every first and third Monday night, and all members are needed at these meetings. We always welcome new members or visiting members.

Planview Farmer Hardly Had Well Day In Four Years

Wants Everyone to Know the Good Argotane Has Done For Him. Gains Daily

"I was determined to try Argotane after hearing and reading about the good results it was accomplishing so I bought a bottle and began taking it and the results are I have gained in health and feel better than I have in four years." This is what C. J. Spraggen residing on rural route 2, Plainview, Texas, said.
 "I have suffered from indigestion and stomach trouble until it just seemed as if nothing was ever going to help me at all. I hardly knew what it was to have a well day in five years until Argotane straightened me out. I had gotten to where I couldn't eat anything without suffering from it. After every meal gas would form and bother me for hours after and cause me all sorts of trouble.
 "I was in a very bad run down condition and had no appetite at all and what I did eat would turn sour on my stomach. No one but those who are troubled with indigestion knows how I did suffer and although I tried everything nothing seemed to reach my case so do me any good.
 "I kept on going down hill and the day I started on Argotane I was suffering with the same old troubles. I started to feel better in a few days after I began taking Argotane and have gradually picked up ever since. I now feel like my old self again and have not only gained in strength but can eat any thing I want and as much as I want without it bothering me in the least. My constipation is broken up, I sleep like a dog and simply feel like a different man."

C. L. LEIGHT

Charles Ludwig Leight was born in Indiana, April 4, 1863, and passed away at his home near Dalhart, Texas, July 3, 1930 at the age of 67 years and 3 months.

In 1889 he was united in marriage to Miss Emma Strickland, also of Indiana. To this union were born nine children, two of which preceded him in death.

In early manhood he lived in Anthony, Kans. In 1893 he answered the impulse of conquest and made the run to Oklahoma, homesteading eighteen miles north of what is now Enid, Okla. During the fifteen years he lived here as a pioneer the people knew him as a friend, and he was loved, honored and trusted. While in Oklahoma he became a Woodman.

In 1912 still looking for new adventures, the real pioneer spirit he moved with his family to Ochiltree county, Texas, where they lived until 1929, moving from there near Dalhart, where he bought and improved land. Here with many hopes ahead, death cut short his last days and he passed to his beyond after a short illness. He had accepted Christ as his Saviour and was baptised in 1924.

Besides the wife and seven children, Mrs. Pat Mammit, Mrs. Herman Barbour, Walter and Glen of Dalhart; Roy, Perryton; Harry, Ames, Iowa; and Lester, Union, Mo., eleven grandchildren, many other relatives and a host of friends were shocked at his sudden departure.

Help Yourself

Here's a little advice to the young men: The average college student puts in only about 650 hours of actual study per term of nine months. Anyone who really wants to gain an education of any kind, can do so by studying that many hours in his own home after work.

And here's a little advice to the young lady: Don't trust a husband too far; nor a bachelor too near.

A cook is a charitable institution, providing food and shelter for needy policemen.

Visitor: "Will you kindly tell me if a man belongs to your club with one leg named Walker?"
Doorman: "I don't know, sir, but I'll find out. What was the name of his other leg?"

M. D.: "Is there any insanity in your family?"
Lady: "Well, my husband thinks he is the boss."

IMPORTANT REDUCTIONS IN TRACTOR PRICES!

Steadily increasing popularity of McCormick-Deering Tractors throughout the world has made possible the announcement of new prices at the season when the greatest number of farmers are actually in need of new tractors. The big, powerful McCormick-Deering 15-30 is now offered at the lowest price at which it has ever been quoted. The fully equipped 10-20 is now priced the lowest in years.

The economies effected through large-scale, modern manufacture are being passed on to farmers in the form of substantial price reductions. You can now save considerable money and begin at once to reap the many advantages of abundant, dependable, low-cost power. Depend on these tractors—15-30 and 10-20 according to your needs.

We will be glad to show and demonstrate these popular tractors to you. Check over the new features and ask for the new low-price quotations.

MCCORMICK-DEERING FARM MACHINES IMPLEMENTS

ALWAYS A GREAT VALUE—NOW GREATER THAN EVER!

The McCormick-Deering 15-30—now selling at the lowest price ever—is the latest, most modern triple-power tractor. It is a big, easily controlled, fast-working tractor, conservatively rated at 22 h. p. at the drawbar and 36 h. p. at the belt. Its heavy-duty power can be applied in three ways—through drawbar, belt, or power take-off. Supplementing the 15-30 is the husky triple-power 10-20, popularly used the world over.

So long, see you next week.

MAD WAGGERY IN NEW FILM

COMEDY HOLDS SWAY IN NEW FUN SHOW, "THE CUCKOOS" COMING TO ELLIS NEXT WEEK

Filled with mad waggery, riotous fun and delirious nonsense, "The Cuckoos," all-talking musical playing at the Ellis Theatre next Friday and Saturday, is an innovation in sound pictures. Radio Pictures has stepped out into the lead among producers by introducing an all-comedy entertainment at the time audiences are sated with drawing-room dramas, back-stage strokes and underworld melodramas.

"The Cuckoos" is not a musical revue. It is a full-length production based on a well-developed plot, with the comedy sequences holding full sway. Gorgeously produced, with hundreds of scenes in Technicolor, "The Cuckoos" stands alone as a brand-new type of screen entertainment. It is an extravaganza of delirious nonsense, starring the mad wags of "Rio Rita" fame, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, and boasting a notable cast of featured players.

Wheeler and Woolsey, who scored sensationally in their first picture, "Rio Rita," carry practically all the action of "The Cuckoos." They frolic madly through the broadest of comedy which is said to be the most amusing of its kind ever brought to pictures. They are assisted materially by Dorothy Lee, also a featured player in "Rio Rita," and Jobyna Howland, a new find for pictures.

Romance is not neglected, however. June Clyde and Hugh Trevor provide the heart interest in most capable fashion. Marguerita Padula, who will be remembered as the "Lavinia" of "Hit the Deck," is heard again with her great "blues" voice, and Mitchell Lewis, leading screen "heavy," is the menace.

Ten rollicking song numbers composed by Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby, dancing choruses with hundreds of performers, and a thousand extra players make "The Cuckoos" one of the outstanding pictures of all time.

"Women Everywhere"

Fifi Dorsay and J. Harold Murray Play In Musical Romance of Foreign Legion

"Women Everywhere," the Fox Movietone talking and singing romance of Morocco and the Foreign Legion, which opens a two-day's engagement at the Ellis Theatre, Monday, is a colorful, tuneful and convincing yarn of love and adventure in French North Africa—a credit, not only to its director, Alexander Korda, but to an altogether capable cast headed by J. Harold Murray and Fifi Dorsay.

Dealing as it does with events of comparatively recent history, when France was struggling to subdue rebellious natives of its Moroccan colony, this movietone musical romance depicts the adventures of Murray as a Yankee sea captain, who is captured by the French while attempting to run a cargo of guns to the rebels. He is saved from death by Miss Dorsay, who is charming in her role as an entertainer in a Moroccan cafe.

Murray does a most admirable and convincing piece of acting in a somewhat difficult role, and he is in better voice than ever before. In view of his last, two productions, "Cameo Kirby," and "Married in Hollywood."

Other members of the cast, notably, George Grossmith, the famous English actor; Clyde Cook, Ralph Kellard and Rose Dione, gave splendid performances. Songs in the picture, words and music of which were written by William Kernell, are of the sort that audiences will be whistling long after leaving the theatre.

Dorothy Lee again appears as a running mate for Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey in RKO's musical comedy "The Cuckoos." This trio first won popularity together in "Rio Rita."
