Standstill Cease-Fire Asked By Nixon In Speech

The SDN Column

Cecil Fowler, one-time local manager here for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., was in town Tuesday and Wednesday on phone company business and simultaneously renewing acquaintances and catching up on happenings here during the past year and a half.

It had been that long, he said, since he had been in Snyder, and he marveled at the changes that had taken place in that relatively brief period of time.

Flower, still representing the telephone company, has an area of some 17 counties to visit now, which accounts for the fact that he doesn't get around as often as he once did.

Also, he's still single and vows it is his preferred way of life. He agreed wholeheartedly with a note in Paul Crume's Big D couumn in the Dallas Morning News the other day to the effect that "if you give a woman an inch, she'll think she's ruler."

Actually, Fowler said he would like to come back to Snyder more often, as he is rather fond of this town and still is interested in its progress.

Did you know that the State of Texas has fewer public employes per capita than all but three of the 50 states?

The figure here runs 88 state employes per 10,000 persons, according to the Texas Public Employes Association.

Texas ranks fifth in the number of veterans of military service, according to Jack Coker, Director of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco. California claims the most veterans, followed by New York, Pennsylvania, Illinios, and then Texas. California has 2,553,000 veterans, Texas 1,370,000.

The average age of veterans living today who served in World War I is 75.7 years. The average age of World War II veterans is 50.7, and the average age of Vietnam veterans is 26.7. However, all of these appear quite young when campared to the 5,000 veterans of the Spanish-American War still living. Their average age is 91.2 years.

There are more World War II veterans than of any other war, with a total of 14,458,000. Next in numbers comes the Korean conflict with 5,867,000 veterans.—WACH. McNAIR.

Snow Hits Panhandle

Roads Are Dangerous

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The earliest measurable snow in its history struck Amarillo today, causing immense traffic jams and what some residents called blizzard conditions—although the cold and wind did not reach such a level officially.

While the Panhandle underwent the snow, a portion of North Central Texas was warned of possible tornadoes.

Heavy rains fell in the twister-warned area and nearby regions.

Conditions were still worse in portions of Oklahoma near the Texas border.

An official 1.34 inches of snow were on the ground at Amarillo at midmorning—and deputy sheriffs said the depth was up to 3 inches five or six miles from the Panhandle hub city.

The mid-morning conditions at Amarillo were blowing snow, temprature of 32 degrees and wind velocities of 32 miles per hour. An official blizzard requires 35 m.p.h. or higher winds and temperatures of 20 degrees or lower.

Snowplows were called out in east Amarillo because of drifts.

One observer said, "There have been nothing but traffic jams since the rush hour began."

Dozens of cars collided but there were no immediate reports of injuries.

There were so many collisions at an exit on Interstate 40 in west Amarillo that police herded drivers into a Howard Johnson Motel to get their versions of the accidents—rather than standing in the cold, wind and snow.

The snow ranged from the top of the Pahandle to Plainview on the South Plains in varying amounts, with the most severe conditions in the central Panhandle.

The Amarillo Globe-Times said the snow hurt cotton which still is in the fields. But it was just what wheat farmers needed, for snow soaks in and gives a fine moisture supply for the grain. Snow damages the cotton quality.

In Oklahoma, three inches of snow were expected to accumulate in the Panhandle and a little east, with a hard freeze of 20 degrees expected tonight.

Heavy rains fell in South Central, Southeast and East Central Oklahoma with Sulphur reporting 11.61 inches, Konowa 7.60 and Pauls Valley 5.90. Flash flood warnings were in effect for the southeast half of Oklahoma.

The cold wave strangely contrasted with Wednesday, when two Texas cities reported the highest temperature in the nation—Abilene with 92 degrees and Wichita Falls with 91.

Explosion Damages Armory

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A bomb exploded outside an Army National Guard Armory today scattering cement debris from a wall, blowing out windows and sending up columns of smoke, police said.

No injuries were reported in the 4:32 a.m. explosion at the building, operated by an artillery unit of the California National Guard and shared by an Army Reserve unit.

"Part of a wall was blown back but there was no cave-in," said police Lt. Fred Baker. Baker identified the cause of the explosion as a bomb device.

Fair Judging Is Underway

Judging was underway this morning at the sixth annual Scurry County Fair.

A cold, north wind which swept through the Towle Memorial Park area kept outside activity to a minimum as the judges were inspecting exhibits inside the buildings at the fair. First judging results were not expected to be known until this afternoon.

A number of exhibits of field crop products, livestock, educational booths, community booths and women's division exhibits were being judged in the Towle Park barn.

Meanwhile, the annual Scurry County Fair Flower Show and the Art show were located in the National Guard Armory.

Other exhibits in the armory included the commercial booths, along with the drug exhibit prepared by the Texas Department of Public Safety, and the Western Texas College exhibit.

Also on the fair grounds is the carnival.

The fair opened today for its traditional three-day run in the park.

The displays in competition were to be opened for the public to view around noon today, or as soon as the judges finished their work.

The fair will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. through Saturday.

Auto Caravan To Pep Rally

Senate, House Exchange Anticrime-Narcotic Bills

By JOHN H. KAMPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and Senate have exchanged bills to give the federal government stronger legal weapons against organized crime and narcotics traffic.

The Senate is expected to accept the House's sweeping anti-crime bill. But the Senate narcotics crackdown measure was headed for a conference committee where attempts will be made to iron out differences with a bill approved earlier by the House.

Both bills were apprpved Wednesday, the anticrime measure sailing through the House 341 to 26, the narcotics control legislation getting 54-0 favor in the Senate.

The House anticrime bill, which survived attempts to soften it, would give the federal government greater legal powers against organized crime and more authority to deal with terror bombings, including the right to send federal agents to college campuses to investigate explosions and fires.

Embraced in the bill are a dozen recommendations of the administration, a Presidential crime commission and members of Congress.

The bill would, among other things: establish grand juries with expanded powers to investigate organized crime activities; strengthen procedures to compel witnesses to testify; protect witnesses from initimidation or murder, and permit court use of evidence obtained by wire-tapping.

Prison sentences of up to 25 years could be imposed under the bill if a judge determines that defendants are dangerous criminals.

The narcotics bill was passed by the Senate after being amended to include provisions for the treatment and rehabilitation of drug usersjan amendment which some senators said would conflict with the bill's law enforcement provision and may jeopardize the neasure for this session.

The bill, recommended by President Nixon, would give the Justice Department broad new powers to combat organized narcotic traffic. It also would clamp new restrictions on the import, export, manufacture and sale of drugs.

The measure, in addition, would increase penalties for organized drug pushers while relaxing punishment for some forms of marijuana possession.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a new five-point bid to end the war in Vietnam, President Nixon has called for a standstill cease-fire throughout Indochina and a big new international conference to negotiate peace for Southeast Asia.

"Our side is ready to stand-still and cease firing," Nixon told a national television and radio audience in a speech from the White House Wednesday night. He urged North Vietnam to start serious negotiations promptly.

"Nobody has anything to gain by delay and only lives to lose," he said.

At one point in the 12-minute speech he offered to negotiate "an agreed timetable" for troop withdrawals from South Vietnam without specifying removal of North Vietnamese forces as a condition. But aides said Nixon was talking about a schedule for removing North Vietnamese as well as U.S. and allied forces.

He also called for immediate and unconditional release of all prisoners of war.

Nixon's five-point peace bid is the latest in a series of settlement plans put forward since the Paris talks opened in May 1968. The newest element in American policy as disclosed Wednesday night is the call for a cease-fire in Laos and Cambodia as well as Vietnam. Previously Nixon had proposed an internationally supervised cease-fire in Vietnam as part of a plan for troop withdrawal by the U.S. and allied nations and by North Vietnam.

Nixon announced his new peace plan—breaking through the bounds of previous policy—on the eve of its introduction today in the Paris peace talks where prospects of its success were not rated high even by administration policy makers.

They said North Vietnam has shown no sign of moving out of the stalemate at the Paris talks. Nevertheless Nixon was said to feel the time was right to make what he himself called "an intensive effort to develop new approaches for peace in Indochina."

And administration officials expressed hope that regardless of its first public reaction, North Vietnam would take time to consider the new U.S. proposal fully.

Jury Is Selected

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — An Arky court of five officers has been tentatively selected for S. Sgt. David Mitchell, but testimony is not expected to begin in the case—the first involving a My Lai defendant — until Wednesday.

Plan Rejected At Paris Talks

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — President Nixon's five-point peace plan was formally presented at the Paris peace talks today and the Communists immediately rejected it.

North Vietnam called it "an electoral gft certificate" while the Viet Cong assailed it as a means of "legalizing American aggression in Indochina."

In making the plan a part of the conference proceedings, U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce said the President's proposals "represent a profound effort to achieve peace in Indochina ..."

"These proposals are designed to end the fighting throughout Indochina and to end the impasse in the negotiations in Paris," Bruce declared at the 87th plenary peace talks session.

"It is our earnest hope that the President's proposals will receive the most careful study and considered response by your side," Bruce told Ambassador Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong emissary.

The President's five points included a standstill cease-fire throughout Indochina, a Geneva-type conference on Indochina, negotiation of a troop withdrawal timetable, balanced representation in South Vietnam's political structure and immediate release of all war prisoners.

Mrs. Binh dismissed the plan as one aimed "only at misleading public opinion on the so-called American desire for peace."

"The real significance of the proposals," she asserted, "is that they aim simply at arrogating for the United States the right to commit aggression in Laos and Cambodia and to continue Vietnamization of the war, that is, to prolong and intensify the war to impose the yoke of U.S. neocolonialism on South Vietnam.

Good Advice Neutral

Notify police about molester

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago a man in our small town broke into my home and tried to force his attentions on me. I am a happily married woman and I have never tried to attract this man. I was so embarrassed of what people would say I never told a soul.

Last week the same man broke into another woman's home while her husband was away and tried the same thing with her. She didn't tell her husband because she was afraid he'd kill the man. This woman is my neighbor and she confided in me. Oh, yes, he also makes obscene telephone calls to women when he knows their husbands are away. I know because I recognized his voice.

I honestly believe this man is mentally unbalanced. Should I step forward and tell his wife? They are newly married and have a small baby. Your advice is desperately needed. AFRAID TO GET INVOLVED

DEAR AFRAID: Telling his wife may accomplish nothing. Few wives will turn their husbands in because either they are afraid of them, ashamed of scandal, or they fear that if the law steps in their husbands may be sent away, lose their jobs, and the families will lose their breadwinners. This man's behavior clearly indicates that he is sick, and could be a threat to society if permitted to go free. Your police should be notified at once!

DEAR ABBY: There are three grown children in my family and we are all married and have families of our own. We all live in the same general area.

My parents live in this area, too, and are active and healthy for their ages. We have heard that in the last few months they have had four cookouts to which my husband and I and our children have not been invited. They invited their other children and grandchildren, however. We find out about these cookouts after they have taken place. My parents also visit back and forth with the other members of our family, but they seldom come to visit us, even when invited.

My husband and I have concluded that we are not liked very much by my family, and we shall let them all alone. Are we wrong to take this attitude? LEFT OUT

DEAR LEFT: There is a large piece missing from this jigsaw puzzle. Before you decide to "let them alone," why not attempt to have a summit meeting with them and find out what's what? Perhaps there is something in the air that needs clearing. Parents do not usually exclude one family for no reason at all. If all efforts to restore a harmonious family relationship fail, then let them alone.

DEAR ABBY: Frequently my husband will get a telephone call during the night regarding a problem at work. The phone rings in our bedroom, and rather than ask the caller to hold the line while he goes into another room to talk, my husband will get into a loud and lengthy conversation, making it impossible for me to sleep.

I told him that I thought he was being inconsiderate. He says that is why we have a phone in the bedroom, and if he can't enjoy the convenience, we may as well have the phone taken out. I say he is selfish. He says I'm the one who is selfish. What do you say? SLEEPY TIME GAL

DEAR GAL: I say he's selfish. But I have an idea that if your husband heard it from the Delphic Oracle, the Supreme Court or Dear Abby, he'd still insist that he was right. Selfish men are usually stubborn, too.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend and I are planning a spring wedding. The only thing that bothers me is that he was engaged two years ago and the girl had the nerve to keep the diamond and the hopechest. He claims he never asked her to return them, and he doesn't want any of these things back. I have a good mind to demand that my boy friend insist that she return them, as she has no right to keep them. He gave me a nice engagement diamond so it's not that I am jealous. What do you think? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I think if you demand that your boy friend pay his former financee a call for any reason, you should have your head examined. Furthermore, whatever he gave her is his loss—not yours, so stay out of it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Rat-Gnawed Body Found

HOUSTON (AP) — An autops, has been ordered in the case of a seven-week-old girl whose rat-gnawed body was found in a deep freezer Wednesday afternoon.

Police said the baby's godmother, Shirley Kizzee, told them she put the body of Shitara Brown in the freezer Monday because she was "ashamed" of what had happened and didn't want the mother to see it so horribly mutilated.

Police hope the autopsy will determine if the child was already dead when the rats attacked her in Mrs. Kizzee's shabby frame house on the city's near north side.

Mrs. Kizzee, 26, first reported the baby kidnaped but Wenesday led juvenile officers to her home.

Solzhenitsyn Wins 1970 Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Controversial Soviet novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn, whose works are banned in his homeland, was awarded the 1970 Nobel Prize in literature today.

The Swedish Academy of Letters said it had made the award to the 52-year-old writer, called the "Dostoyevsky of our time," for "the ethical force with which he has pursued the indispensable traditions of Russian Literature."

Solzhenitsyn was captured while commanding a Soviet artillery battery toward the end of World War II in 1945 and sent to a German forced labor camp. While there, he wrote a letter criticizing the military capabilities of "the whiskered one," an obvious allusion to Stalin.

Someone in authority saw the letter, and when Solzhenitsyn was "liberated" it turned out to be for an 11-year term in a Soviet detention camp.

His experiences there proved to be the background for "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich," a novel about a typical day of a 3,653-day sentence being served by a Russian peasant.

Solzhenitsyn was expelled from the Writers Union early this year.

In 1965 the Swedish Academy awarded the prize to the Kremlin-approved writer Mikhail Sholokhov.

The prize this year is worth a record 4,000,000 crowns—close to $80,000.

When Boris Pasternak, the controversial author of "Doctor Zhivago," won the Nobel Prize for literature in 1958, Soviet authorities refused to let him travel to Oslo to accept it.

GEA Not Authorized In Kansas

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Golden Eagle Aviation, Inc., of Oklahoma City was not authorized to do business in Kansas, the secretary of state's office said Wednesday.

Golden Eagle furnished the crew of a Martin 404 that crashed in the Colorado Rockies Oct. 2, killing 30 persons, 13 of them members of the Wichita State football team on the way to a game in Utah.

Aircrafco Services, Inc., of Wichita, has brought suit against Golden Eagle for payment of $3,142.61, alleging it leased a DC6B plane to Golden Eagle last May 6 for that amount. The suit seeks attachment of property owned by Golden Eagle, its officers or any proceeds of a contract with Wichita State.

Aircrafco's contention that Golden Eagle had not filed proper certification papers for doing business in Kanaas was confirmed by the secretary of state's office.

The Martin 404 that crashed was leased to Wichita State by the Jack Richards Aviation Co., Inc., Oklahoma City.

September Sets CRMWD Record

The Colorado River Muncipal Water District closed out its peak season with record September total of deliveries, monthly production records showed today.

Paschal Odom, assistant general manager, said that the district produced 1,270,533,783 gallons for the month, which boosted the year's total to 12,166,467,953 gallons. The September figure was up 24.66 per cent over the same month a year ago although oil company deliveries have been curbed sharply. The cumulative total for the year is up 21.18 per cent, altough oil and industrial use is down by 8.7 per cent.

The cities used 1,009,115,000 gallons, up principally by the amount Midland used. Figures for the month showed that Odessa used 339,080,000 gallons, down 2.29 per cent; Big Spring 202,313,000, up 2.02; Snyder 65,716,000, up 17.35; Stanton 3,403,000, (it was using its own wells September 1969), and Midland 398,903,000 (it was not a customer a year ago).

Oil and industrial deliveries amounted to 261,418,783 gallons down 37.38 per cent from September 1969. Approximately one-third of this volume of water was in non-portable water diverted from the low flow of the Colorado River as a pollution control step.

The cities have used 8,871,435,000 gallons through the first three-quarters of the year and mining an industrial users 3,295,032,953 gallons. In June, the latter category of users were cut to 50 per cent of normal deliveries from Lake Thomas.

BETA SIGMA PHI RUSHEES — The Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its model meeting Oct. 6 in the community room of West Texas State Bank. The rushees attending were (from left) Brenda Jackson, Kay Spears, Laura Towns, Janie Putman, and Lana Heffnerman.

Rushees Attend Sorority Meet

The Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met Tuesday evening in the community room of West Texas State Bank for a model meeting. Vice-president Wanda Early opened the meeting with the reading of the opening ritual.

Mrs. Early stated that the purpose of the model meeting is to give the prospective members an ideal of the scope and purpose of Beta Sigma Phi and to give the opportunity for them to become better acquainted with the members and the way in which the meetings are conducted. The guests at the meeting were Brenda Jackson, Kay Spears, Laura Towns, Janie Putman, and Lana Heffnerman.

The ways and means chairman, Patsy Elliott reported that the chapter would have a caramel apple booth at the fair Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The social chairman, Mary Lou Scott announced that the next social would be a Halloween party on October 27th.

Carolyn Martin gave a brief outline of the program aspect of Beta Sigma Phi. It was pointed out that the sorority's most distinguishing quality has always been its program work.

Mona Bryan, first vice-president presented the story of Beta Sigma Phi to the prospective members. She explained that essentially, Beta Sigma Phi is an organization for social and cultural advancement. Through the years since its founding in 1931 by Walter W. Ross, Beta Sigma Phi has taken its place amoung the outstanding women's organization of our time. It has given thousands of young women an opportunity to grow, to express themselves, to expand their circle of life. Today among its nearly 200,000 members all over the world are thousands of talented and distinguished young women.

Carolyn Limmer gave a very informative program on "Your Day Socially." She gave the rules in setting a lovely table.

Following the reading of the closing ritual led by Wanda Early refreshments were served to the members and rushees attending.

Princeton University Has New, Black Woman Dean

By CHARYN SUTTON
Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin Writer

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Ultimately it is all about liberation these days—for black people, for women. And although she is not one for street confrontations, when attractive, spritely Dr. Cecelia Hodges Drewry settles back in her office in Princeton University's West College Hall this September, she will have struck blows, simultaneously, for both groups.

Dr. Drewry, dramatist and former professor at Douglass College, the women's affiliate of Rutgers University, was named as an assistant dean of the college at Princeton. As a black person and as a woman on a campus which has been almost all white and all male for most of its 224-year history, hers is a singular accomplishment.

A classroom educator for almost 20 years, Dr. Drewry took the administrative position because of her commitment to higher education. She says she feels that as a dean she can do more to implement needed changes.

Just over five feet tall with a close natural haircut and smiling eyes, Dr. Drewry easily resembles a student. And her feelings on the role of education are similar to the students'.

"Modern education should be geared mainly toward freeing students from some of the rather rigid and meaningless disciplines which now exist," Dr. Drewry said. "We must give thoughtful, sensitive consideration to deciding which requirements are unreasonable or irrelevant to today's world.

"Yet by the same token, every demand and discipline need not be swept away. There are things from the past which are still of value and ought to be saved.

"Many of us are well educated, we have knowledge of facts, figures, experiments. But young people are now saying that this is not all there is to an education. They are searching for the more nebulous tools of human relations.

"Colleges must begin to produce graduates who are not only knowledgeable, but sensitive. We must cultivate attitudes of open- mindedness."

Born in New York City of West Indian parents who stressed the importance of black heritage, Dr. Drewry has always been interested and involved in black cultural activities. A trained actress, she has concentrated in recent years on works done by black authors. But the stage has had to take a back seat to the classroom.

In 1969, Dr. Drewry postponed her scheduled departure from Douglass College, where she had taught for seven years, to head a newly established department of African and Afro-American studies there.

With the help of concerned students, she devised course content for the inter-disciplinary program, set up curricula and recruited new professors.

In addition to her duties as department chairman, she also counseled students, was adviser for the Douglass Black Arts group and taught a course on black literature in the evenings at Princeton.

"There is a definite need for cross-fertilization of ideas among black people and between blacks and whites," Dr. Drewry said, addressing herself to the increasing furor around the issue of black studies.

"Yet it is crucial that programs in black studies be stable and well constructed so students who take the courses with an eye to returning to the black community will be that much better prepared. The courses should serve the needs of the moment, but they should also have depth and breadth."

Dr. Drewry shares her involvement and enthusiasm for black studies with her husband, Henry N. Drewry, director of the office of teacher preparation and placement at Princeton University. He also teaches a course on Afro-American history at Princeton and with his wife has written a book, "Readings in Afro-American History." It will be available in the fall.

Dr. Drewry, as the second woman dean at Princeton, will join Mrs. Halcyone H. Bohen, dean of women, who was named to her post last year when Princeton first admitted coeds to the college. Dr. Drewry's position involves men as well as women undergraduates.

Dr. Drewry explained that while she was not personally aware of the problems which the coeds faced last year, she had heard that many of them encountered difficulties.

"There were so few women at Princeton that the men just were not sure how to deal with them," she said, referring to the ratio in the 1969-70 academic year of 170 women to 3,200 men.

"As the numbers of women increase, the social and academic problems will decrease," she predicted. "But I do feel that there is a need for discussion among the women as to how they can fit into society. How they can find themselves.

"Society has cheated itself of the talents of women in the past, just as it has cheated itself of the talents of blacks. We must move toward full constructive use of women by the society as a whole.

"Some activities of women's liberation groups are rather frivolous, but I think that just as the demands of black students got more solid as the movement progressed, so the same thing will probably happen with women."

As assistant dean, Dr. Drewry's duties will include academic counseling, liaison with the admissions committee and supervision of student applications for foreign fellowships.

How To Get Roses Ready For Winter

Getting roses ready for winter is a several-step project, according to County Agent Billy Roach.

The first step is fall sanitation, he said. The leaves must be collected and burned as they fall. Any canes with cankers or bores should be cut and burned.

He said weeds must be controlled, especially chickweed which grows during mild winters and hides mites which will return in the spring. If blackspot has been severe, discard old mulch and leaves and replace with spaghnum peat moss, bark, pine straw, cotton burrs or other clean organic material.

No freeze protection is needed unless temperatures reach minus 10 degrees or lower. If temperatures dip this low and are expected to be below zero for more than 24 hours, Roach recommends covering the center of each rose plant with 10 inches of soil.

As soon as the first killing frost has removed all the foliage, material to protect the roses should be applied, Roach said. A light, loamy soil is recommended for winter protection, since peat moss, leaves and other materials hold water.

Nash Writes Comic Verse

BED RIDDANCE: A Posy for the Indisposed. By Ogden Nash. Little, Brown. $4.95.

Veteran quipster Nash has collected here the verses which he has done over the years on the subject of ailments and the ailing, offering it as a bedside book for the convalescent.

His topics range from insomnia, dieting and the perils of the dental chair to the common cold, the stubborness of doctors and the damage done by visitors who are primarily determined to cheer up the patient.

Sometimes he wanders off the subject a little, as when he deplores the social taboo against scratching in public as "it is greatly attached-To Barbara Fritchie. I bet she scratched-When she was itchy," he avers.

He is at his best, as always, with his tortured rhymes, as in his tribute to Isabel: "Some girls with a snuffle, Their tempers are uffle,- But when Isabel's snivelly- She's Snivelly civilly,- And when she is snuffly- She's perfectly luffly."

In fact, if the book has any shortcomings, it is that there are not enough of these outrageously rhymed couplets.

Nash denies he's a hypochondriac. Says he's just a victim of the planned obsolescence which our Maker built into every human body. But resignedly writes this Nash, figuring it's little use to gnash.

ON WICHITA STATE PLANE CRASH

FAA Finds No Sign Of Mechnical Failure

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government experts say the aging Wichita State football plane that crashed, killing 30 persons, lacked a valid safety certificate, but a probe has uncovered no evidence of mechanical failure so far.

A safety official said the rented plane may have flown into a dead-end canyon on a sightseeing route through the Rock Mountains and smashed into the foot of the Continental Divide Friday while trying to turn around.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the old airliner did not obtain its airworthiness certificate when taken out of mothballs last month at Las Vegas, Nev., where it had been left idle for three years.

FAA officials said the plane was issued only a 10-day ferry permit that expired Sept. 21. This permit allowed a crew to fly the plane eastward, but did not authorize any passenger operations.

In Oklahoma City, the aircraft owner, Jack Richards Aircraft Co. Inc., insisted anew the plane had passed a safety check and received its airworthiness license at Las Vegas Sept. 8. The FAA denied this.

The FAA also said investigators found a second rented plane that carried the rest of the football team to Utah State had only an outdated air certificate issued before it was mothballed in 1967. That plane was grounded this week for 16 safety defects.

A spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board said the board has found nothing so far to indicate any mechanical problem caused the crash.

The spokesman, Brad Dunbar, said the twin-engine propeller plane was flying a scenic route west of Denver when it was suddenly confronted with a wall of mountains soaring up nearly a half-mile where Loveland Pass crosses the Continental Divide.

Dunbar said the plane may have been trying to turn in the narrow canyon when it hit a ridge, crashed and burned. The pilot was among the dead.

The safety board is scheduled to open public hearings in Wichita in about two weeks.

The doomed plane, which figured in a runway accident in Oklahoma City one week earlier was making its first passenger flight after coming out of storage. The FAA said preliminary figures show it may have been 4,000 pounds overweight upon takeoff from Denver to begin the climb over the Rockies.

The second plane detoured north to Wyoming to avoid the most rugged part of the Rockies.

Ernest Dean, deputy executive director of engineering, reported work started Sept. 28 on the first airline terminal, for use by Braniff International.

Sweetwater Mustangs Host Bengals Friday

Can they bounce back?

That's what local football fans are wondering about Snyder's Tigers. The resident Bengals meet Sweetwater in the first District 3-AAA skirmish for both teams at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Mustang Bowl.

The local booster groups have been drumming up support for the Bengals. The Jaycees have organized a car caravan which will leave the high school parking lot at 5:30 p.m. Friday. Mayor Bobby McCormick declared Friday "Beat Sweetwater Day." The Tigers are going to need all the support they can get. A Snyder team hasn't beaten Sweetwater since 1963 when the locals won 20-7, although there was a 0-0 tie in 1965. It's beginning to look like the Mustangs have a hex over Snyder. The 30-6 Pony triumph in 1964 knocked the Tigers out of the district championship.

The Snyder-Sweetwater rivalry is one of the oldest and most colorful in the state. It began back in 1925 and has continued intermittently ever since. Sweetwater holds a 15-8 edge in the series and there has been only the one tie.

This year, the contest rates as a tossup. Sweetwater Coach Joe Boyd has installed the Wishbone T, and he has 14 lettermen to operate it. There are six offensive and six defensive regulars returning, including quarterback William Hunt and fullback Jack Brown and right half Tim Hendrix. Brown is quick and can run the 50 yard dash with any track man. Hendrix is a dependable runner. The other backfield starter, Junior John Houston, has 9.9 speed and is a break away threat every time he carries the ball.

The Ponies were hit hard at the tackle spot by graduation losses, but guard Pat Tucker (170), center Terry Hillis (165) and tackle Steve Oatman (186) return to help with the blocking. The Mustangs have a really fine defensive tackle in Larry Smith. He weighs 225 pounds and has good speed for such a big lad.

Fortunately, Snyder's Tigers have strength up front and sufficient muscle to cope with the Mustangs. This year's team is the biggest ever at SHS. Included among the starting linemen are such hefty lads as guards Albert Hernandez (212) and Mike Line (210), and tackles Steve Dillaha (207) and Barry Welsh (222) Joe Hale (212) also is available for defensive duties.

Snyder operates from the power I offense directed by junior southpaw Butch Buchanan (160). Butch is improving as a passer. Handling most of the running chores will be tailback Stewart Sims (160), a senior, while fullback Jackie Murray (185) and wingback Gary Patterson (162) are ready to lend a helping hand. Murray and Patterson are juniors.

Sweetwater employs a split six defense. The Tigers have used a 4-5-2 and a 4-3-4 alignment, but they could try something new against Sweetwater.

Both teams feature powerful running and employ the forward pass sparingly. Comparative scores indicate a close game.

It should be a tossup. But would you believe Snyder 14, Sweetwater 13?

Layne Sees Great Raider Future

DALLAS (AP) — Bobby Layne, former Texas All-American and All-pro great, predicts that new Texas Tech coach Jim Carlen will drive his Red Raiders into a "winning era" in the Southwest Conference within the next few years.

In Dave Campbell's Texas Football News Magazine, Layne says Tech has aggressiveness, bench organization and motivation.

"They may be outmuscled some this season, but give them two or three years and they will be a power," Layne says.

Layne has had a history of being an excellent crystal baller.

He predicted the Texas Longhorn success story in 1967 as coach of the Texas high school all-stars who ran roughshod over the Pennsylvania All-stars in the Big 33 game.

"I told my son, Rob, then," Layne says, "That Steve Worster would start as a sophomore and be a great fullback all the way."

K-ST, Kansas On Carpet

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Big Eight Conference placed Kansas State University's football program and all sports programs at the University of Kansas on probation Wednesday.

The K-State football team also is prohibited from appearing in postseason games or on television programs controlled by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

K-State's probation and the additional sanctions extends through the 1972 football season.

It does not affect the Wildcats eligibility for the conference football championship.

Kansas' probation is for two years.

Commissioner Wayne Duke said the action was taken by faculty representatives, the conference's legislative body.

Coach Vince Gibson of Kansas State was reprimanded for "failure to administer, supervise and apply the rules of the Big Eight Conference and the NCAA in the conduct of the sport of football."

Duke said the action against K+ State resulted from violations in four categories, financial aid, unethical conduct, scholastic eligibility and recruiting practices."

Officials at K-State said they were disappointed in the severity of the action.

Athletic Council Chairman C. Clyde Jones said it was hoped the conference would have taken "more lenient treatment" in view of remedial action taken earlier by the school.

In addition to placing KU programs on probation, the faculty representatives ordered that assistant coach Dick Tomey be denied participation in the school's recruiting program until May 31, 1972 and reprimanded John Novotny, assistant director of athletics.

Bugs, Blight, Weather Have Impact On Prices

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)--Bugs, blight and bad weather are likely to prove formidable opponents of Washington economic strategists attempting to produce a slowing in the rate of price increases.

In other words, that old conflict of man against nature is likely to lead to the loss of some battles on the pricing front even if the war against inflation is won. The critical area involves food prices.

Some of the strongest opposition to anti-inflation efforts is coming from the Southern leaf blight, a fungus disease that already has ruined hundreds of millions of bushels of corn in the South and Midwest.

The corn borer is lending a mandible in the destruction, and warm, humid weather in some areas is assuring the blight's spread.

Farmers desperately are harvesting crops in advance of anticipated dates so as to avoid further damage. But destruction already done seems certain to force up prices of many items in which grains are an ingredient.

The record so far is this:

On July 1 the government estimated the corn crop would reach a record yield of 4.8 billion bushels. A month later the estimate was reduced to 4.7 billion because of hot, dry weather in some areas.

By Sept. 1 the Agriculture Department had dropped its estimate all the way down to 4.4 billion bushels.

The biggest shock was still to come. Late last week the government reported a further 5 per cent cut in the expected harvest, reducing the official estimate all the way down to 4.2 billion bushels.

In just three months, based on official estimates, some 600 million bushels of corn appear to have been destroyed. The harvest quite likely will be insufficient to meet demand of about 5 billion bushels.

If estimates of demand prove accurate, the nation's reserve of corn from last season also will be greatly depleted. As of Oct. 1 the carryover was estimated to be about 950 billion bushels.

Production of other grains also is expected to be somewhat lower than a year ago, meaning that large users of corn will find it difficult to substitute other grains for their lowered stocks of corn.

The impact, therefore, could be felt in the prices of almost all grains, and even in the price of livestock. Higher feed grain prices might lead to price increases for hogs and broilers and cattle.

Cash prices for corn at Chicago this week, though lower than during the late summer, were quoted at more than $1.40 a bushel, about 20 cents higher than a year ago. Wheat was more than $1.50 compared with $1.40, and oats were close to 80 cents against about 62 cents a year earlier.

Prices of grains for future delivery also were near the season's high, reflecting the belief by many buyers that pressure in months to come will remain high or even rise.

Junior Editors Quiz on DEAD SEA

QUESTION: What makes the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea so different even though both are fed by the river Jordan?

* * *

ANSWER: To understand the answer, you must realize that the Sea of Galilee and the Dead Sea are situated in Palestine on a great depression in Earth's crust called a rift valley. The Sea of Galilee, at the North end of this valley, is hardly affected by it. The fresh water of the River Jordan enters the Sea of Galilee from the North. It is a pleasant country where rich crops can be grown, where plants bloom with fresh colors, birds sing. But as the River Jordan leaves the Sea of Galilee to flow South to the Dead Sea, the situation changes. The rift valley becomes much deeper. The river falls 9 feet per mile, gradually becoming laden with chemical salts. Six million tons of Jordan water pour into the Dead Sea each day. There is no outlet for all this water. In the hot climate, most of it evaporates from the surface, causing the appearance of bluish white clouds. The water of this sea has become so salty that life cannot exist in it. Yet things are not as dead as the name suggests. Modern scientific methods are being used to extract valuable minerals from the water. The climate is extremely pleasant; the Dead Sea area may yet become an agreeable place in which to live.

Memory Is Reconciler In Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is the great reconciler in life.

You've piled up a lot of memory trackage yourself if you can look back and remember when —

A farm boy's day was made if the engineer on a passing train returned his friendly wave. To him that was a salute from the great outside — beyond the acres of home, the world he would go out and try to conquer.

A spendthrift was a kid who used up most of his week's allowance seeing how many balls of penny chewing gum he could put in his mouth at the same time.

If a girl couldn't find a beau in her own home town, she'd make a series of visits to cousins in other towns, hoping her luck would be better there.

It took a woman all day to wash and dry her hair.

A strong dentist took pride in his ability to pull a tooth with his bare fingers.

About the only place the average family had a charge account was at the grocery store, and all the kids tagged along when father paid it on Saturday night in order to get a free lollipop from the grocer.

Butchers wore straw hats and their shops had sawdust on the floor, as did many saloons.

The hidden resentment against the richest man in town burst forth on Halloween, when men joined the boys in overturning the iron deer on his front lawn.

A lad was regarded as grown up when he put on long pants, got a gold watch from his father, and could go to a burlesque show without having to sneak in.

Reformers thought public morals had reached a new ebb when some brazen girls started wearing two-piece bathing suits that exposed their belly buttons.

You knew you were in a poor section of town if you saw working men sitting in front porch rocking chairs in the summer twilight with their bare feet cooling on the banister.

A thrifty man always greased the bucket with which he sent one of the kids to fetch some draft beer from the neighborhood saloon. That was supposed to keep down the volume of foam.

It took the great depression to knock down a long-cherished American idea—that even in hard times a man willing to work could always find a job.

A family was regarded as a success if it could afford the services of both a hired girl and a hired man.

Postmen made their rounds twice a day instead of just once —and still had time to come into the kitchen and gossip over a cup of coffee.

The thing that most men feared almost as much as the devil was getting in debt.

Folks popped more corn at home than they ate in movie houses.

Any husband who helped his wife do the dishes pulled the blinds down first so the neighbors wouldn't see him and spread the rumor that he was henpecked.

Legion Without Permit

Houston (AP)-- the American Legion in Houston is still without a permit to hold a parade on Veterans Day Nov. 11 after appealing to the city council again Wednesday.

The council, sympathetic to the cause, asked the legal department to see what it could come up with so the legion would not have to pay the $2,500 parade permit.

The council passed an ordinance in June calling for such a high fee after it lost a court battle with anti-war and peace groups to have parades.

Bill Hollis, vice chairman of the legion's national committee, severely criticized "leftwingers" and "people who tear up campuses," charging they get more police protection during their activities than law abiding citizens.

Three members of the Houston chapter of the Committee to End the War told the council that whatever it decides upon, it must be applied fairly to all groups.

The legion has told the council it cannot afford the $2,500 fee.

Several councilmen offered suggestions, one being that the ordinance be repealed and repassed after Nov. 11.

Mayor Louie Welch suggested that the ordinance be revised to provide a fee on the basis of one policeman at each intersection.

Thurmond's first wife died of cancer in 1960. They had no children.

Smith Booed At UH

HOUSTON (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith walked off a speakers' platform at the University of Houston Wednesday as about 750 students shouted him down.

The governor stood silent before the jeering crowd for a full minute then raised his hand in disgust and left.

He was whisked away from the building by 10 uniformed security guards and went on to a reception in Baytown.

Later, a statement from his office in Austin stated:

"When a public official — myself or anyone else — cannot go on the campus of a state supported university by invitation to deliver a speech without being interrupted to the rude rantings of a handful of unwashed, intolerant, ill-informed students, then the time has come to act.

"While I do no take this personally, and while I still have a great confidence in the vast majority of our young people, the time has now come to put a stop to such foolishness."

Smith said if the students cannot behave themselves and live under the laws of the institutions then there is no place for them in the halls of learning.

"If college administrators cannot control this type of sorry spectacle, we must find other ways to straighten out these undisciplined young people — both and non-students who stir up this kind of disturbance," he said.

The largest group at the meeting had been attracted by the promise that Smith would state his position on tuition at state universities, but the speech he had prepared to deliver made no reference to this issue.

Cochran Says Rural Areas Are Neglected

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Country folks don't move to the big cities anymore to find bright lights and indoor plumbing, but because of the government's deliberate neglect of rural America, the Senate has been told.

Clay Cochran, chairman of the year-old National Rural Housing Coalition, said Wednesday the government still treats small towns and rural areas—home for 65 million Americans—as orphans in its aid program.

The extent of the neglect and the damage already done is rarely recognized, he said.

Testifying before the Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, Cochran said the neglect of rural America stems from the myth that the height of civilization will be reached when 90 per cent of the population lives on one per cent of the land.

Recent publicity given pollution and the accompanying problems is helping puncture this myth, he said, but still little notice is taken of rural America's needs.

"The American people, including the Congress, must be made aware of the widespread need: that two-thirds of the bad housing is there (in rural America) and that bad water and lack of sanitation destroy the health and lives of people," he said.

Cochran proposed establishment of an emergency Rural Home Development Administration to help families or individuals otherwise ineligible for housing from Farmers Home Administration or public housing programs.

The proposed agency would provide minimum housing, sanitation and clean water, plus other community facilities such as day care centers, in any town of 25,000 population or smaller, he said.

"Let the existing institutions take stock and struggle to maintain their doman by doing more of the job they should long since have completed," he said.

The Nixon administration has yet to make concrete proposals for upgrading rural America although there have been signs in recent months that such proposals are under study.

Congress also has begun to move toward solving the problems of rural America. A part of the omnibus farm bill drafted by the Senate Agriculture Committee defines the problem and calls for progress reports by agencies starting Dec. 1.

The Statue of Liberty became so marked by lipstick in recent years that officials coated it with a special lipstick-resistant paint.

AD Rules On Watered Meat

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says demands for juicier beef sandwiches at fast-food shops are raising questions over how much water should be used to make them seem that way.

Adding water to some meat and poultry is allowed as long as it is part of a mixture intended to improve the food's tenderness or taste.

It cannot be added if the only objective is to increase its weight or size.

But the regulations have not spelled out to government satisfaction the practice of adding water or oil mixtures to partially cooked meat demanded by the nation's thriving drive-in and quick-snack trade.

These products—beef was cited as an example—are treated during processing with a flavoring or tenderizing solution, partly cooked and then passed on to the retail food shops.

At the drive-in, cooking can be completed quickly and—because of the earlier treatment—the meat is juicier for sandwich customers.

Current regulations generally limit the extra water or oil mixtures to three per cent in the case of meat and six per cent for poultry.

The department announced Wednesday it has given temporary approval for using solutions as long as labeling on the products, carrying a list of ingredients, is bold and clearly understood by users.

"Solutions approved thus far range from 2 to 10 per cent of the weight of the meat product, and 3 to 6 per cent of the weight of the poultry product," the department said.

A spokesman for the Consumer and Marketing Service said the temporary approval has been in effect for several weeks and was directed primarily to wholesale or institutional meats and not items generally found in supermarkets.

But the matter is far from settled. The department announcement also asked public comment on the possibility of changing federal regulations so specific limits can be put on the amount of liquid mixtures used in meat and poultry.

"We want to find out more about it," the consumer agency official said. "It is all so relatively new that we need to gather all the information we can."

Another popular example of recent years are the "self-basting" turkeys available at retail food stores.

The turkeys are injected with mixtures of liquid fats or water and seasoning. The liquid helps spread the tenderizing or seasoning agents so the bird is juicier and more tender.

Allowable Upped In 69 Fields

AUSTIN (AP) — Sixty-nine of the 282 oil fields which were ordered to cut back on production Oct. 1 have been given permission to resume operating at the regular statewide allowable of 87 per cent.

But the Texas Railroad Commission reduced the allowable for the Seminole (San Andres) Field in the Lubbock district to 74 per cent.

The commission, which regulates oil and gas production, reduced the oil allowable in the fields Oct. 1 after a staff study revealed that casinghead gas, a natural byproduct of oil production, would be wasted on the 87 per cent marked demand factor.

The agency said, however, a review and new data has shown that the allowable may be increased in the 69 fields "without causing flaring of casinghead gas."

Combat Deaths Drop

SAIGON (AP) — American combat deaths in Indochina dropped to 38 last week, the lowest weekly toll in nearly 4½ years, the U.S. Command announced today.

The announcement, seven hours after President Nixon called for a standstill cease-fire, emphasized that the war has ebbed considerably in recent months for U.S. forces.

EGGERS DUE HERE FRIDAY — Paul Eggers, Republican candidate for governor, is scheduled to be in Snyder tomorrow. He will be at the Republican booth in the armory at the Scurry County Fair from 4:30 p.m. to 5:40 p.m. Local Republicans have invited all Scurry Countains to stop by their booth at the fair for coffee, to meet Eggers and discuss campaign issues with him.

Scott & White Doctor Dies

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — Dr. G. V. Brindley, 84, surgeon emeritus of the Scott & White Clinic here and a nationally known medical man, died Wednesday night.

He was a former president of the American Cancer Society, the Southern Surgical Association and the Texas Medical Society.

Dr. Brindley went to Scott & White as an intern shortly after his graduation in 1911 from the University of Texas medical branch and worked there until his retirement.

He was a native of Ellis County in Texas.

Surviving are the widow, the former Arabella Owens of Elgin, Tex., who married him in 1913; and three sons, Drs. H.H. Brindley and G. V. Brindley Jr. of Temple and Dr. Clyde Brindley of Johnson City, Tenn.

Sen. Aiken Has Surgery

BERLIN, Vt. (AP) — Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., 78, has undergone what an aide described as routine surgery at Central Vermont Hospital.

The aide said Aiken was feeling well after the operation Tuesday and expected to be out of the hospital in four days to a week. Aiken is ranking Republican member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.
