WOMAN TELLS OF HUSBAND'S FATAL SHOOTING

Coyotes Excel Only In Punting As Lubbock Takes Contest By 6-0 Score

FREAK TALLY GIVES PLAINS TEAM VICTORY

Roundly Outplayed, Coyotes Hold Westerners Back Three Periods

HOLTON'S TOE BEST

Kicking of Wichita Tackle Is One Bright Spot Of Battle

By Staff Correspondent

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 15.—A Coyote team that never could get started was defeated by Lubbock today, 6 to 0, and thus saw its last faint chance for district honors go a glimmering.

According to the natural histories, the Coyote belongs in the temperate zone. The Wichita Falls Coyote was out of his habitat today and played under conditions more suited to walruses, polar bears and other fauna of the arctic zone. The freezing weather resulted in many fumbles, including some very costly ones, and seemed to cramp the Coyotes' style offensively and defensively.

Coyotes Outplayed

Lubbock deserved to win, outplaying the Coyotes in every department except punting, but it was a lousy fluke that gave the Westerners their only touchdown. It is to be doubted if, without that break, they could have scored.

They were thrusting at the Coyote goal from the nine-yard line when Rish, carrying the ball on an end around play, fumbled. The ball rolled across the goal line, where Jameson fell on it.

Without that bit of hard luck, the Coyotes, decisively outplayed though they were, would have gotten a tie. They had checked Western threats earlier in the game and were to check another threat later on.

Pack Threatens Once

The Westerners made 18 first downs to none for the Coyotes and in yardage gained and passes completed had margins that were overwhelming. Only once did the Coyotes threaten to score. That was immediately after the Lubbock touchdown. Holton kicked a low hard punt from his own 23-yard line. The ball bounded past Smith, Lubbock safety man, and rolled to the 15-yard line where Smith grabbed it, dropped it and then Gimlet Dixon fell on it.

The Coyotes were unable to improve on this opportunity. Four

Hambone's Meditations

Later her husband left. Returning, he entered through a window. When his shotgun was pointed at Mrs. Williams, she fired twice, she said. The shots tore the window screen.

When Mr. Williams entered the room, a struggle followed and a third shot was fired. The charge entered the door separating the two rooms.

At the fourth shot Mr. Williams fell, mortally wounded.

EVENTS PRIOR TO STRUGGLE ARE DESCRIBED

Widow Tells of Facing Gun While Holding Infant In Her Arms

Edward Williams, 46, Wichita Falls plastering contractor, was shot to death at his home, 1416 Twenty-fifth street, shortly after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. Officers of the sheriff's department whom Mrs. Mattie Williams, Edward's wife, had hurriedly summoned a few minutes before Williams' death, found two shotguns near the body. One of them Mrs. Williams identified as belonging to her husband. It had not been fired. The other Mrs. Williams told officers was her own. It had been fired four times.

A coroner's verdict by Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn held Williams' death resulted from a shotgun charge.

Mrs. Williams was not placed under arrest, but was told to appear at the office of District Attorney Sam B. Spence Saturday morning, when the inquiry into the tragedy will be resumed.

Tells of Struggle

As dusk neared late Friday afternoon Mrs. Williams, who is 33 years old, sat before a warming fire in a neighbor's house with an infant child at her breast and four of her five other children grouped near, and told the story of a struggle which ended with the fatal shooting of her husband.

Her husband was killed, the widow said, after she had seen a gun pointed at her as she sat in the living room of her home with her 7-months-old daughter, Mary Katherine, suckling at her breast; and after a struggle during which she fired in self defense. The final struggle occurred about an hour after the first mentioned incident, Mrs. Williams said, and after her husband had left the house and subsequently returned.

Husband Comes Home

He had come home from work about 1 p. m., Mrs. Williams related. He was not himself, Mrs. Williams said, and apparently he had been drinking. Shortly after his arrival he called W. A. Buchanan, his business partner on the phone and told him to "come on over here," and then turning to his wife he started talking wildly and finally, according to Mrs. Williams, came into the room where she was nursing the baby and caught his wife by the head, pulling her hair.

"Finally," Mrs. Williams continued, "his partner came, but his attempts to get my husband to leave failed."

At this juncture O. C. Tidmore, a neighbor living at 1425½ Twenty-fifth street, arrived. He said he had been a friend of the Williams family for years, and had come to the Williams home when he saw Mr. Buchanan on the porch.

President Calls Nation's Business Heads to Keep Prosperity Going

Hoover Expresses Confidence in Basic Conditions and Sees Chance for Real Progress Now

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (U8)—President Hoover today expressed confidence in American business and issued a call for the nation's leading captains of industry, agriculture and labor to meet with him here next week.

The conference will lay plans to keep American business booming at full speed.

The meeting probably will be Tuesday or Wednesday. Then will be gathered, it was learned at the White House, the representatives of greater wealth, potential and real, than ever have met here before.

The president plans to coordinate business and governmental agencies into concerted action to ensure continued business prosperity. He sees in the present situation an opportunity for business to forge ahead, rather than be disturbed.

Diversion of capital from speculative channels into the channels of business cannot but result in renewed constructive progress, he believes.

The president has invited to the conference the heads of most of the large railroads in the United States, representatives of the great banking interests and builders. Those to be here will include John D. Rockefeller Jr., Henry Ford, J. Pierpont Morgan, or a representative of his firm; Thomas W. Lamont, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, Daniel O. Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, and many others.

HOOVER VISITS STRICKEN AIDE

War Secretary's Condition Reported Worse

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. (AP)—Alarmed by the dangerous condition of Secretary Good, President and Mrs. Hoover went to Walter Reed hospital tonight.

The president spent only a few minutes in the room with his sick friend. Then he re-entered his automobile to return to the White House.

The visit of the president to his war secretary provided a touching scene from which Mr. Hoover's closest associates withdrew to leave them entirely alone.

The president entered the sick room with a secret service man. In the room also were Col. William L. Keller, chief of the Walter Reed staff and Lieut. Com. Joe T. Boone, the White House physician.

"How are you, my dear friend?" the president saluted his cabinet official as he walked into the room.

The secretary recognized his chief and made a feeble effort to acknowledge his appreciation. He lapsed into unconsciousness quickly however, and Mr. Hoover presently departed.

President Hoover was visibly affected when he left the sick room, believing that he might have looked upon his close friend and associate for the last time.

Another consultation of physicians was ordered. It was to begin as soon as Dr. John M. Finney, Johns Hopkins specialist on genito-urinary diseases, could arrive from Baltimore.

The calling of this physician was taken to mean that because of the unusual type of operation which was necessary there had developed serious complications.

The bulletin issued from his bedside was:

"Secretary Good's condition was satisfactory throughout the day, but early this evening complications arose which made his condition not satisfactory at present. His temperature, pulse and respiration increased tonight and are higher than at any time since he was taken ill."

The secretary's temperature has been at 102.

It was understood that all attending surgeons were in constant attendance.

O. L. SOULES DIES IN ACCIDENT

Car Overturns in Muddy Ditch Near Burk

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Nov. 15.—O. L. Soules, 64, widely known oil man and owner of large properties in Burkburnett, was fatally injured about 1 o'clock Friday afternoon when the small truck which he was driving overturned two and one-half miles west of Burburnett on the road to Clara.

Passing motorists picked up the injured man, whose head had been crushed, and brought him to a physician in Burkburnett. He died soon after. The body was taken in charge by the Owens Funeral parlor here.

Driving Alone

Mr. Soules was driving alone on the road, it was said, with two cars ahead of him. He passed the first and was going around the second when he cut to the right to get back in the line of travel. Recent rains had made the road slick and his truck skidded into loose earth at the side of the highway. He attempted to cut the wheels back to the left, but the rear wheels held in the dirt and the truck careened over. Soules was thrown from the seat, his head striking the pavement, and the truck rolled over several times before stopping, completely demolished.

J. B. Fitz, county highway officer, who happened to be nearby, conducted an investigation and took statements from the drivers of the other cars. The condition of the road made the accident unavoidable, he reported.

Funeral Saturday

Funeral services will be held from the First Baptist church in Burkburnett at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon with Rev. Miles B. Hayes, pastor, officiating. The body will be forwarded after the services to Terre Haute, Ind., for interment.

CONFERENCE TO SWEETWATER

Methodist Board Selects Nolan County City

By HAMILTON WRIGHT

PAMPA, Texas, Nov. 15.—Sweetwater was today unanimously chosen as the 1930 meeting place of the Northwest Texas Methodist conference. No other town bid for the session.

A resolution was adopted memorializing the general conference meting in Dallas in April next year authorizing the annexation to this conference of the Panhandle district of Oklahoma. A similar resolution to the general conference has already been passed by the West Oklahoma conference. The territory is comprised in the Oklahoma Panhandle, being 150 miles long by about 38 wide, and containing eight pastoral charges under Ed R. Wallace, presiding elder. The district now is detached from the West Oklahoma conference by a "wedge" allocated to the Northern Methodist church. The resolution was passed without opposition. The speakers favoring it were Ed R. Wallace, President Fannin of Good Will college, Frank Sewell, banker of Good Will, Dr. George S. Slover and W. B. McKeown, as well as the bishop.

The morning session was largely occupied with speaking. Bishop Sam R. Hay of the Northwest Pacific conference spoke of the phenomenal growth of the church in the far west and urged establishment of an Episcopal residence at Los Angeles. He decried sentiment that would cause the denomination to withdraw from that virgin territory in favor of the Northern Methodist church.

Presiding elders made their reports during the forenoon. J. O. Haymes, presiding elder of the Vernon district, reported progress. Fifteen thousand dollar church has been built at Childress. C. A. Bickley, finishing his fifth year's pastorate at Vernon, has during the time added a 1,000 members. In the district this year there have been 681 conversions and 872 additions to the church.

J. H. Hamblen, presiding elder of the Stamford district, reported drouth severe but good gains $125,000 raised for all purposes. C. W. versions and 7000 additions. C. W. Parmenter, circuit rider out of Spur, on a salary of $600 this year, held meetings with 76 conversions and 75 additions.

Three Persons Escape Unhurt From Beneath Blazing Auto

Three persons narrowly escaped serious injury Friday morning when the car in which they were riding overturned on the Burkburnett highway about 10 miles from Wichita Falls, the car catching fire while its occupants were pinned underneath.

Mrs. J. F. McKinney, her daughter, Lena, both of whom live on the Iowa Park road, and George Wolf of Wichita Falls were driving on the highway when the car skidded onto the earth shoulder at the side and turned over. It rolled over several times and came to a stop on its top, gasoline from the tank or the motor igniting and almost enveloping the machine in a blaze.

A man driving a wagon on the road rushed to the car and extricated the occupants and passing motorists rushed them to Burkburnett. A Merkle ambulance was called from Wichita Falls but the three had been taken away soon after the crash. They were taken to a physician in Burkburnett but their injuries were slight, amounting to scratches and severe shock, it was said.

City Files Fourth Gas Tax Claim With State

The city's fourth claim for a refund on gasoline taxes was forwarded to the state comptroller's office at Austin Friday by W. E. McBroom, city clerk.

The claim sent Friday was for refunds due on gasoline purchased during October and part of November, and is for $120, Mr. McBroom said. Under the new state law, he explained the tax on gasoline used by the city, even though it is exempt as purchased for use in tractors and trucks and airplanes at the Municipal airport, is paid, the state then refunding these amounts. So far, Mr. McBroom said, the state has made no refunds to the city.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 15. (INS)—That Edgar E. White, local real estate man, came to his death by a rare poison, was established here today. A coroner's jury was unable to decide whether he was murdered, or a suicide.

The county chemist stated he had found a sufficient quantity of "verathrum viride" in White's stomach to kill 100 persons.

White's body was brought to his home by a man and a woman, who fled after notifying a neighbor.

NOTHING HEARD FROM M'ALPINE

Arctic Adventurers Silent For Two Days

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 15. (INS)—Although an unexplained two-day silence today surrounded the whereabouts of Col. C. D. H. MacAlpine, millionaire mine owner, and his seven adventurers making their way back to civilization, little alarm was expressed by directors of the rescue.

The last message from MacAlpine and the fleet of rescue planes came Tuesday morning when a start was to have been made from Bathurst inlet for Fort Resolution.

Nevertheless officials at Dominion Explorers, Ltd., headquarters explained that there is little reason for alarm because of the silence since the company has a large cache of gasoline, food and other equipment at Fort Reliance.

Whether the flight from Bathurst to Fort Resolution, a journey of 600 miles over rough, barren country, was actually made has not been learned.

KINGSTON, Jamacia. (AP)—Despite combined efforts of the government board of health and the Rockefeller foundation, the number of tuberculosis cases on these islands increased 33 per cent within a year.

FOLGER'S COFFEE

"I never thought your husband went into places like that!"

". . . . and I saw him through the window. He was all alone at a table."

MRS. BEARDSLEY had just returned from the city and she was telling her friend, Mrs. Stanley, all about her visit.

". . . and I saw him through the window. He was all alone at a table in the main dining room of the very best hotel. I was so surprised—you know, from seeing your husband washing his own car and cutting the grass himself and all those things. I didn't think he was at all extravagant."

"Sure, I go in there once in a while when I'm in the city," Mr. Stanley told his wife that evening. "It's not for the food. It's for the coffee. That coffee is worth the price of a meal there by itself. You know, dear, I simply must have good coffee once in a while and . . . well, I didn't like to hurt your feelings by mentioning it."

. . . .

"That coffee, madam," the waiter told Mrs. Stanley the next time she accompanied her husband, "is White Swan Coffee. This hotel has used it for years."

. . . .

Wives who are coffee-wise know that the appetizing aroma and satisfying flavor of White Swan Coffee served at home makes everyone wish that every meal could be eaten there.

Strict selection of the imported coffees, scientific roasting and artful blending each plays its part in fully developing and nicely balancing the famous White Swan flavor.

With the skill acquired by more than a half century of experience, the Waples Platter Company controls every phase of distribution as well as preparation—making certain that no finer or fresher coffee can be brought into your home for the price you are asked to pay.

The same coffee claims GOOD were being made thirty years ago

AS the fame of the coffee of the old Maxwell House spread beyond the Cumberland, and as requests for it poured in from all parts of the country, other coffee roasters began to protest that their coffees were "just as good." Many people listened, believed and purchased. But claims cannot produce flavor, and often, a few days later, these same people would return once more to Maxwell House. Similar claims about coffee are made today. It may pay you to remember that they were first heard years ago and that rare and mellow flavor, silently outweighing such claims, has made Maxwell House the largest selling packaged coffee in the world. Buy it at your grocer's today—money back if you are not fully satisfied.

WOMAN TELLS ABOUT SHOTS

Edward Williams Killed At Home Here

found themselves faced with a loaded automatic shotgun.

"I was sitting with my baby near the fire in the living room when I saw the gun pointed at me," Mrs. Williams said. "I didn't move at all. I could see the tips of the shells sticking out of the under part of the automatic. Really, I was not afraid. I had put up with much. I was just as unconcerned . . . ."

"Mr. Tidmore and Mr. Buchanan remonstrated with my husband, and then Mr. Tidmore was threatened. He left the house, and a little later Mr. Buchanan did also."

Then, Mrs. Williams continued, Susie, 7, one of the children, asked her father to take her to her dancing lessons. He left on this errand, taking with him his 12-gauge shotgun, the widow said.

All for a while was quiet. Then Mrs. Williams, remembering that her husband had taken the gun, decided to call officers, she said.

"I got Sheriff Bralley on the phone and told him to come out here quickly," she said. "He answered and told me that he would have somebody come right away."

Doors Locked

She had no more than replaced the receiver, she said, when she heard her husband's car rolling up the driveway. Meanwhile, she said, she had locked all the doors.

Mr. Williams came to the front door. His shotgun was in his arms, the widow said. He knocked on the door. Mrs. Williams had left her infant child in another room, but Tommie, 5, and Mildred, 2, were standing near the front door. Mrs. Williams said she quickly directed her children into an adjoining room, and, in fear, looked about the house for her 20-gauge shotgun she used on frequent hunting trips with her husband.

Mr. Williams, she continued, had by this time forced open a window. He started to crawl in. Mrs. Williams said she saw the gun in his hands.

Shoots Wildly

Mrs. Williams said she held her gun but did not fire until she saw her husband's gun aimed at her.

"Then," she said, "I fired anywhere, everywhere. I didn't know where my shots were going, but even after I had fired I had no intention of wounding anyone critically. I hoped to save my life by inflicting a wound in some spot that was not vital. It never had occurred to me that I would be aimed at.

"He got inside the room. I was in the living and dining room just opposite. A glass door, which was unopened, connected the two rooms. He was on one side of the partition and I was on the other. When I saw a gun pointing around the corner of the door at me I fired again. The shot went into the door. Then the barrels of our two guns clanked together. I had to pump shells into the chamber of my gun but he didn't. I fired another shot . . ."

One Charge Strikes

Of the four shots fired, only one took effect, officers who investigated discovered. The first two shots went through the window screen, in which was discovered two large holes. The charges had been stopped on the porch by a large cement portal. A spot where one of the charges hit was marked by a round piece of wadding which was glued to the cement. A splash of lead marked the place where the second charge was spent.

The third charge bored a neat round hole in the door connecting the two rooms.

The fourth charge struck Williams high in the right breast. Death was almost instantaneous, officers said. The charge of shot which entered Williams did not leave the body.

When the firing stopped Mrs. Williams said she picked up her infant child and ran to the Tidmore residence, where she implored Mrs. Tidmore to call for a doctor. Mr. Tidmore instead called for officers.

Officers Arrive

It was not long after the shooting that Deputy Sheriffs Dick Morris and George Garrett arrived at the scene, in answer to Mrs. Williams' telephone message. Had they arrived five minutes sooner, Mrs. Williams said, there would have been no serious trouble.

With the arrival of the officers an investigation began, and Williams' body was taken in charge by the Alberts funeral home. On the body officers found a bottle of whisky, they said. District Attorney Spence, who arrived with the officers, questioned Mrs. Williams. After the preliminary questioning Mr. Spence announced it would be concluded at his office Saturday morning.

Mrs. Williams remained at the Tidmore residence after the shooting. It was there she recounted the details of the afternoon to a reporter of The Record News. Her calmness, as she talked of the tragedy, was not marred by tears or outbursts. With her infant resting in her arms, her free hand occasionally stroking long whisps of brown hair from her mild blue eyes, the widow told her story from beginning to end.

"I have nothing to hide," she said. "I have told you the truth and I believe the truth is best."

She refused, however, to relinquish a photograph of herself. "The world has seen enough without getting my picture before it," she said.

Mr. Tidmore, who said he was a life-long friend of Mr. Williams and that he had been in his employ at intervals during the last 15 years, was among the first to hear the shots fired. He had no more than started toward the Williams home, he said, when Mrs. Williams came to his house to tell of what had happened.

He said that after he had been threatened in the Williams home he left and did not return until after Mrs. Williams had arrived at his home. After the shooting Mr. Tidmore said he placed a long distance telephone call to Dallas, to notify Mrs. Williams' father, J. H. Birdsong, of Mr. Williams' death, and that the latter was expected to arrive in the city soon.

Williams Welshman

Mr. Williams, according to Mr. Tidmore, came to Wichita Falls from Dallas in 1916. Until two years ago he was in partnership with F. E. Shoop in the plastering business here, Mr. Tidmore said. The Williams-Shoop partnership was dissolved, and up until the time of his death Mr. Williams had as his partner W. A. Buchanan.

Mr. Williams was of Welch descent, having come to America from Wales over 20 years ago, according to Mrs. Williams. In addition to his widow and six children, the oldest of whom is Anna Fay, 12, a pupil at the Reagan Junior High school, he is survived by two sisters, Mary Williams and Mrs. Katherine Williams, of Liverpool, England, a third sister, Mrs. Paul Leander, of New York, and a brother, who is said to live at Cardiff, Wales.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed Friday night.

Program on Jazz Given by Unity Club at Friday Meet

Mrs. W. M. Priddy gave a talk on "So This Is Jazz" when she was hostess to members of the Unity club Friday afternoon for a program on "Jazz."

Preceding the program, Mrs. Lillian H. Kerr, teacher of commercial law at the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine Arts, conducted a short parliamentary drill after which she was voted into the club as an honorary member.

Another interesting paper was given by Mrs. Eugene Sherrod when she discussed "Some Jazz Personalities." Mrs. W. N. Maer illustrated her topic, "Sperichils and Blues" with victrola records.

The feature of the entertainment was a short musical program which included, "Kitten on the Keys" a piano selection which interprets perfect jazz, by Mrs. Lloyd Taylor; several jazz selections on the saxophone by Joe McMaken, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr; two vocal duets by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey and Baldwin Montgomery, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., and two blues selections by Miss Dorothy Nolen, who was also accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Akin.

Plans were discussed for the Christmas party but no definite arrangements were decided upon. Other business taken up included plans for the all-day meeting to be held in December. The Grove closed in regular order.

Roll call was answered with Thanksgiving quotations after which Mrs. Charles Litchfield very beautifully told the story of "The First Thanksgiving." Mrs. Lindsey read "The Frost Is on the Pumpkin" and Mrs. Mont Groves told the story of "Three o'Clock in the Morning." Those taking part in the program were dressed in Puritan costumes. Girl Asks D. Dix If She Should Wed Her Second Choice

Shall a Girl Marry Her Second-Best Beau When Her Ideal Is Unattainable?—How to Elude a Persistent Sweetheart—Value of Athletics for Boys.

Dear Miss Dix—David stands in morals, intelligence and character head and shoulders above any other man I have ever met. I fell in love with him, but David didn't fall in love with me. I haven't seen him for many months and by stern self-discipline I have forced myself to stop thinking of him and have ejected him from my life completely. Now comes Bob, a dear boy who will make some girl a wonderful husband. He is a delightful companion; we have many interests in common; we are always happy together and he wants me to marry him.

I have been successful in the business world, and see more advances ahead, and as I feel now single blessedness would suit me perfectly, but how will I feel at the age of 35—or 50—or 60? Is a platonic friendship a good basis for marriage? Do you recommend it here? Shall I marry Bob, or turn every eligible man away just because he does not measure up to David's standard?

—TWENTY-THREE.

Answer—When in doubt, do nothing, is a good motto in love as well as in business. My own feeling is that marriage is such a hazardous proposition, and its chances of being a failure are so tremendously more than they are of its being a success, that no one should enter into it unless driven by a love so great and compelling that it makes him or her feel that life without the adored one would be cinders, ashes and dust.

Certainly at 23 you have no occasion to be in a hurry to take the fatal step. You have plenty of time to wait and look about you a bit, and perhaps find another David who will be more responsive than the other one. And you have to wait until the wound in your heart heals over, and until memory blurs the image of David until it becomes as shadowy as the picture of some half-forgotten hero in a book that you read when you were a young girl.

And let me tell you this for your comfort: You will not always mourn David as the pattern of perfection of mankind. Our ideals change with our growth. They alter from year to year. The qualities that thrilled us when we were 20 leave us cold at 30. The gestures, the poses that we thought so romantic and fascinating when we were schoolgirls we find grotesque when we are sophisticated women. So, if you should meet your David in five years' time the chances are that you would find him commonplace and ordinary, and you wouldn't feel called upon to burn even a single stick of incense at his feet.

So give yourself time to get over David before you get married, for if you marry while you are still doing your little hero worship stunt you will make marriage a failure both for yourself and the unfortunate man you marry. For you will always be pining for the unattainable, and drawing invidious comparisons between your husband and the little tin god of your imagination, and that is not soothing to the vanity of even the meekest of men.

Furthermore, there is no rival a man can have in his wife's affections that is so deadly as an ideal. For his image grows brighter as time goes by, and she clothes him in every imaginable perfection and charm, and no matter how good and kind her husband is, nor how he strives to make her happy, his efforts are in vain because he always falls short of what she thinks her dream man would have done, and the ecstatic bliss she would have had with him.

Of course, few women do marry their ideals because there ain't no sich an animal as the combination saint and hero and poet and perfect lover that a young girl can conjure up when her fancy gets in good working order. Most women do marry just ordinary, kind, good human beings like Bob, and they live together in reasonable peace and happiness. But it always seems sort of hard on the Bobs, and not giving them a square deal for them to be married as makeshifts by girls who took them merely because they didn't want to be old maids, and who would always sort of look down on them because they weren't Davids.

Don't do this. Give Bob a show for his white alley. Don't make him run a bad second to David. And don't marry just to be a-marrying and for fear you will regret not doing so when you are 35 or 50 or 60. Age has nothing to do with it. There are plenty of married women of 35 and 50 and 60 who wish to Heaven they had stayed single.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have the misfortune of having a girl crazy about me. I have never made but one date with her, but we work near each other and have occasion to meet often and each time she always schemes some way to make a date with me. You may think I lack will power not to reject her entreaties but she goes about it in a way that makes it impossible for me to refuse. She says that she loves me, but I have told her repeatedly that I do not love her, but she says that she has made up her mind that she wants me and is going to win my heart. How can I break up with her so that she will not become offended with me?

—CLYDE.

Answer—There is no way to break with her without offending her. That would be an impossibility, for girls do not take kindly to being flouted, and there is nothing truer than the old saying about hell having no fury like a woman scorned.

But there is no use in talking about mild methods of breaking with a girl who is crazy about you. The only safety in such a case is flight, for when a man-hunter gets on your track she always runs you down and drags you to the altar.

So my advice to you is to beat it while the going is good. Otherwise she will get you, and no fate is more dreary than that of the man who is united to a woman who has married him against his will and whose every love bores him to death.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have a boy friend whose mother will not let him go in for athletics in the high school, although he wishes to win his major letters. She will not let him attend any games, even when they cost nothing to see. She makes him hang around the house and he told me that this treatment at his mother's hands is driving him to hate her, and that he is going to leave home as soon as possible. Please write something that will tell these bone-headed parents that athletics are better for a boy than hatred and despondency, even if he should get scratched up a bit in a game.—ANOTHER BOY.

Answer—Right you are, son. No mother makes a great mistake than when she ties her boy to her apron strings so tightly that she keeps him from all the clean, normal, healthy sports of youth. She ought to know that apron strings don't stretch far, and that the lad who finds himself bound and hobbled by one cuts it at the first opportunity.

Every healthy boy is bubbling over with energy that has to find some expression. He wants play and fun. He is gregarious and craves the society of his fellows, and the wise mother is she who gives her son all the freedom and all the pleasure that she can.

That is the way she can best fit him for life, for it is on the play field that boys learn how to make social contacts; they learn how to give and take; they learn how to play fair and how to stand punishment without whining.

No mother's darling who is raised a milksop and who is kept in cotton wool for fear he might get a bump or two ever amounts to anything in the world. He can't stand the gaff when he meets real life.

—DODOTHY DIX.

Business Shows Worries Over Skirt Lengths

Lucille Kelly, left, laughs at Doris Malmgren because her long skirt becomes entangled in a file. Efficiency and style in dress was the subject of a lengthy verbal combat recently at the national business show at Chicago. The efficiency experts advocated short skirts, while the style devotees argued for the longer hems. A decision on the question was withheld.

Red River Bridge Hearing Monday

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 15. (UP)—W. C. Lewis, assistant attorney general, will go to Washington Monday to represent the state highway commission before the supreme court at the Red river bridge hearing.

Owners of the Denison-Durant bridge are seeking to enjoin the secretary of war from putting in effect a reduction in tolls.

Lewis at the same time will confer with the Oklahoma delegation in congress on the question of the delegation introducing a resolution authorizing Oklahoma and Texas to build three bridges across Red river.

This is considered necessary as the Red river is classed by the government as a navigable stream.

The Oklahoma and Texas highway commissions will open bids for the construction of these two bridges Nov. 25 although congress has not yet authorized their construction.

Dean Splattered With Ancient Eggs

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 15. (INS)—Staid University place was shocked on arising today to observe the home of one of its colony, Dean Raymond Davies, splattered with rotten eggs, and an effigy of the dean dangling from a tree on Drake university campus.

The spectacle was the result of a student insurrection brought about by the action of Professor Davies, dean of men at Drake, in suspending six students who visited the neighboring town of Ames, home of Iowa State college, and liberally applied blue and white paint to walks and buildings.

Student groups from Ames returned the visit the same night, it is alleged, and painted their slogan on Drake walks and buildings in crimson and gold. The battle is incidental to the annual football game between the two schools tomorrow at Ames, which every year revives an ancient feud.

Mitchell which will be vacated Jan. 1 and remodeled to suit the needs. The Mitchell grocery now occupying one of the buildings will move to the Farmers National bank building now occupied by the Palace drug store, which firm will move to the Clough building.

ROME, Nov. 15. (INS)—Executing a sharp right about face, the Italian press today launched itself in unanimous favor of President Hoover's recent proposal to make food-carrying ships inviolable in time of war.

Such action, it is pointed out, would guarantee Italian needs in wartime.

LAWYER BEGINS JAIL TENURE

Hazen Green Furnishes His Own Bed Clothing

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 15. (AP)—Furnishing his own cot and bed clothing, Hazen Green, Eufaula lawyer, started serving a 30-day term in jail here today after being fined $3,000 in federal court for his part in the $35,000 divorce obtained by Exie Fife, Oklahoma's wealthiest Indian girl, from Berlin Jackson, her white school boy husband.

Green declared he was unable to pay the fine and went to jail after arranging to have his meals sent to him and providing his own bed. He expects to be released from jail at the end of a month. The usual procedure is to file a pauper's oath at the end of the 30 days when the federal judge can free him. Otho Green, his son, paid a $100 fine, escorted his father to jail and then returned to their joint law practice.

Several other lawyers also were fined, including Thomas A. Chandler, former congressman from the first Oklahoma district, who paid $4,000.

The lawyers were accused of misinforming Shade Wallen, former superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes, concerning facts in the divorce suit. It is alleged Jackson got $10,000 for consenting to the divorce and that the lawyers split the remaining $25,000 among them.

Better Than Whiskey For Bad Colds

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold remedy they have ever tried.

To get rid of that cold, step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal, the liquid cold remedy, and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite and expect you to try it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest, most effective, easiest to take and the most agreeable cold remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night. All druggists carry and guarantee Aspironal, the largest selling liquid cold remedy in the world. (adv.)

Mother, Daughter and Ward

"I AM a great believer in Cardui as a tonic for girls and women. Some years ago, I found myself weak; I did not have a good appetite, and did not sleep well at night. After taking Cardui, I felt lots better. I gladly recommend it to young girls and older women."—Mrs. C. H. Ferguson, 420 Eighteenth St., S. E., Roanoke, Va.

Two members of Mrs. Ferguson's household tell of having taken Cardui on her recommendation. These are her daughter, Miss Geneva Ferguson, and her cousin and ward, Miss Turrell, whose statements appear below.

"Mother Insisted On My Taking Cardui"

"ABOUT two years ago, I was feeling very badly. I had lost weight. I had a tired feeling and no pep. I lost many days from school, and I became discouraged. My mother insisted on my taking Cardui. I took three or four bottles at that time and it helped me. For some time I did not have any more trouble. Now when I feel the need of a tonic, I take Cardui. I can highly recommend it to all nervous girls."

Miss Geneva Ferguson.

"Great Improvement"

"ABOUT a year ago, I was feeling so bad and was so very nervous I was afraid I was going to have to quit work. I also had a pain in my side. I did not want to quit work, as I was just old enough to enjoy the money I earned, myself.

"One day when I was feeling blue, my cousin told me about Cardui and advised me to take it. I took about four bottles, and there was a great improvement in my condition.

"Since that time, I have not needed any medicine, until last spring when I felt a little off, I took Cardui again with good results."—Miss Verlie Harmon Turrell.

The above testimonials were given freely. No pay has been given or promised for their use.

DR. J. M. TUTT SPEAKER HERE

Scientist Church Presents Noted Lecturer

Dr. John M. Tutt, C. S. B., of Kansas City, Mo., member of the board of lectureship of the Mother church, First Church of Christ, Boston, Mass., spoke Friday night at the Junior college auditorium under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Wichita Falls. Doctor Tutt's subject was "The Knowledge of True Selfhood." His address in part follows:

Motive Makes Medicine

Deep in the so-called human mind is the belief in the curative power of matter; that fundamental human opinion makes material medicine. How the individual arrives at that opinion is a detail. He may inaugurate it himself (each so-called curative agent must have had a beginning as such in somebody's thought) or he may accept it, consciously or unconsciously, at the hands of others, or of general mortal belief. Anything is a medicine to you that you so conceive.

Material medicine, then, is the belief that matter is remedial. Motive makes medicine. Practically all the forms of matter have been used as curative agents, hence one's motive alone determines whether or not one is employing matter as medicine. In this, as in all other phases of human life, the pure in heart alone see God. To refrain from using material remedies is to turn away from them both materially and mentally to spiritual Truth, Christ. Sometimes an individual wonders why he is not healed, when all the time that he has studied Christian Science, and has perhaps had Christian Science treatment, his thought has remained unchanged in its belief in material medicines and in the healing power of matter. To take exercise as such is a material remedy. Exercise as a normal activity of the body is scientific. To diet or restrict one's food is either a material remedy or not, according to one's purpose. It is scientific to be temperate in all things. Should one diet, exercise, observe sanitary and hygienic laws? No, but one should live normally and be clean physically and morally. It is wholesome to be normal, but it is not scientific to predicate health upon physicality and material laws. As St. Paul put it, let everything be done as "to the glory of God" (1 Corinthians 10, v. 31), not as to the glorification, or as to the fear of mortal mind and body. Jesus wasted no time or thought over material laws of hygiene, diet, exercise, physiology, climate, or medication. Can you imagine Jesus weighing himself? Can you imagine him estimating the calories in the corn he plucked and ate as he walked through the fields? And yet his life showed him to be a sanative and hygienic expert in that he was clean and sound in mind, in body, and in morals. He lived moderately in all things, did this Way-shower. Christ Jesus was the Way—our example in all aspects of human life.

Disease a Personal Liability

Disease is not an entity, nor is it a question of germs, but it is a question always of personal liability. Thus the tubercle bacillus is held to be ubiquitous, and we are told that countless numbers of them are breathed hourly by every one, yet the disease they are supposed to produce appears only in individuals that present a liability. What constitutes that liability? A state of mind or mental consent; and that is true even when it seems to be attributable to lowered resistance of body, for mortal mind and body, remember, are one. Hence the liability to disease is a personal state. Notwithstanding all of which, the patient is not a person, neither a sick man, nor a man believing himself to be sick, but is, in fact, a false belief. In disease, mortal man and body are the victims of personal sense. Man is no more subject to disease than God is. It is personal sense, not man, that declares: "I am sick." In the illumination of spiritual sense, Isaiah proclaimed: "The inhabitant shall not say, I am sick." (Isaiah 33 v. 24). Personal sense should not be allowed to say anything, but should be remanded to perpetual silence.

Personal Liberty and Self Control

At this time when bill-boards, newspapers and magazines are rampant in urging the gratification of the senses, with alluring assurances of satisfaction, and in response men and women are going many a mile of self-indulgence, it is important for him who runs and reads to reject all such suggestions. The senses do not satisfy. Instead, they stultify and stupefy. To the deceptive senses the paraphrase is applicable: "Trust them not, they are fooling thee."

"Bring forth your strong reasons," cried Isaiah (41 v. 21). Unenlightened by divine Truth, a mortal is governed by his false concepts. He will fear or love these idols. He will go all the way for them because false gods are jealous gods and must forsooth be placated, for terrible is their visitation of iniquity upon their hapless worshippers. Enslavement to false appetites; fear of disease; beliefs of sin and its penalties; bowing down to the body; liability to lack, loss, sorrow. Is there no emancipation from "strong reasons?" What about personal liberty?

Christian Science reveals the fact that every man is himself alone, a law until himself, reflecting the infinite Principle, God. Each man is governed and controlled, guided, influenced, and directed by God—by the supreme wisdom of the divine Mind. Intelligence is his, and he knows what to do, and how and when to do it. He is never dominated or controlled or influenced by other persons, circumstances or things. Personal liberty, then, is self-control or man's obedience to divine law. Man is free to do God's will and that freedom is liberty enough. Oh friend! Know thyself and be thyself! Dispossessed or unpossessed of self-knowledge, you will believe yourself liable to evil, and will see yourself in an evil aspect. Remember you can acquire error and its effects only through a personal sense of its possession. It must become your own error and be transplanted into

Author of Death Penalty Law Wages Fight Against Capital Punishment

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 15. (UP)—"The longer I live, the more I realize that capital punishment of any sort is wrong," declared W. H. Woods, Oklahoma City, former state senator, today. He was sponsor of the original bill providing a death penalty can be given for robbery with firearms. He addressed the Oklahoma Association of Social Workers, who gathered here for a two-day convention today.

Speaking further, he said immature minds of the judicial benches of the state are going to make it necessary to fight the law. He is fighting the law of his own making because Judge Saul Yager, Tulsa, sentenced Ted Cole, 17, to the electric chair for a robbery with firearms.

"I shall lend by efforts toward lightening Cole's sentence," Woods said today.

Negro Cotton Picker Wounded by Employer

A negro man who gave his name as Lonnie Green, who had a bullet wound in his right leg, was brought to the police station about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon by a group of negroes who told officers they had brought him from Odell in Wilbarger county where a white man had shot him Friday morning.

They had been picking cotton for the man, they said, and while working Friday morning their employer shot Green and fired shots at one of them. Subsequently, the employer gave them $2 to buy gasoline and told them to "take him away—anywhere," they said. They started out and decided to come to Wichita Falls, the negro meanwhile suffering from the wound. Medical aid was called by police here while an investigation of the negro's story was begun.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Elmer Twitchell, Noted Economist, Outlines Business Outlook

"Will I discuss the affects of the market collapse on business?" repeated Elmer Twitchell as a correspondent asked the question. "My boy, I will discuss anything, any time, any place. I do not look for any sudden conversion of the American consumer from a two-fisted spender to a parsimonious penny pincher. He may for a time stop counting his money in public, carrying it protruding from his vest pockets and using five-dollar bills to record telephone numbers, but he will soon be out there again as a big purchaser of the things that make him happy.

PHILLIPS

"He may not charter a taxicab for a trip around the block, give the manicure girl a fifty-cent tip or take the wife out to dinner so often to save her the trouble of preparing pork chops at home but he is not going to become a loud speaking member of the Nickle Nursers' Marching club over night."

Mr. Twitchell then stated that he looked for minor economies only for a few months and outlined the probable affects by month as follows:

November

"For the rest of November there will be less orchid-giving and the girls who had became accustomed to them will have to be satisfied with hollyhocks or something. I look for fewer raccoon coats at the big football games and a tendency for two men to travel in one coat. I anticipate a falling demand for 20-pound turkeys and believe the man of the house will be a little less profligate with the holiday rye when entertaining Thanksgiving guests. There will be fewer long distance telephone calls on matters that could be attended to by postcard.

December

"Women will put up cheaper prizes at their bridge parties and slice the salami a little thinner for the sandwiches. Men will not 'up' the poker pot so often on the chances of an inside straight and I look for a slight decline in the enthusiasm over wire-haired terriers, schnauzers and other pet dogs. A lot of people will use last year's Christmas-tree ornaments instead of buying new ones. Elevator attendants and doormen will get smaller Christmas gratuities. Bootleggers will be hard hit and there will be a general return to the custom of making homemade gin. Girls who order oyster cocktails before dinner and French pastry after will lose caste with their male escorts and parents everywhere will return to the ancient custom of making their grown children scrooch down in railroad trains so they will look like infants subject to half-fare.

January

"Florida outdoor fight promoters will abandon all plans for charging $25 a ticket. Golf ball manufacturers will reduce the price. Many people will shovel the snow from their own walks instead of hiring the boy next door to do it.

"That's about all that will happen," concluded Mr. Twitchell. "By February things will have picked up, barbers will begin giving stock market tips again and there will be newspaper stories that Durant has recouped his fortune. Radio will go up about 60 points and there will be announcements of mergers and split-ups. Everything will be lovely again by early spring and you can tell Babson I said so."

Who?

Better grade postage stamps are now being turned out by the government. But who has the money to buy them?

A Childs restaurant has put in a stock-ticker. Lady, bring me some buttered toast, a quotation on General Electric, two soft-boiled eggs and the latest figures on steel ingot production."

Americans pay an average of $2,500,000 daily for automobile accidents, says a statistician. How is it, then, that you never can collect?

Talkies and Prisoners

IT IS quite possible that the Philadelphia police authorities, in making a talking movie of a prisoner's confession to a crime, have started something that will have far-reaching influence on American police practice.

Safety Director Schofield of Philadelphia is sure of it.

Within a short time, he predicts, every big city will have a talking movie studio as part of its regular police equipment, and every man arrested will be taken there at once and photographed. The resulting film, says the director, will make identification much easier than is possible under the present rogues' gallery system.

It strikes us, however, that there is a more important way in which the talking movie may be useful in criminological work.

The police force's job is only half done when a suspect is arrested. An arrest is worth nothing at all unless it can be followed by a conviction. And the best possible way to get a conviction is to get the prisoner to confess to the crime himself.

Every effort, consequently, is always made to gain this end.

There is, however, an institution in American police stations known as the third degree. Under this system prisoners are beaten, deprived of food and sleep, threatened, often badly injured, in order to force them to confess.

A confession obtained in that manner is worthless. The third degree, in addition, is a matter of common knowledge. Every juryman has heard of it.

Thus a prisoner who has confessed to a crime but wants to escape punishment for it will often repudiate his confession and tell the jury that it was obtained by torture. Sometimes, of course, this is quite true; sometimes it is utterly false. In either case an injustice is apt to be done.

Many a man whose confession was hammered out of him has been unable to make the jury believe it; and many a man who confessed of his own free will has made the jury think that he was given the third degree and has, as a result, been acquitted.

The talking movie might remedy all of that.

The jury could see and hear the confession being made. If there were coercion or threats it could see and hear them. If the prisoner had been beaten that would be quite apparent. If, on the other hand, the confession were obtained in a perfectly proper manner, that, too, would be self-evident.

It may be that the "talkie" can provide the solution for the disgraceful third degree problem. If it does it will justify its existence many times over.

FORMER GOVERNOR JAMES M. COX of Ohio, publisher of a group of newspapers, has issued instructions to his editors to take all stock market news off the first page.

"My thought as publisher," he said, "is to help our public forget the panic, which has been in no small degree mental with holders of small securities, and let the public go to work. For more than a year the general efficiency of business has been below par because of speculative obsession."

Governor Cox' purpose is admirable and maybe he will be able to accomplish something by playing down the news of the slump in the stock market, but we doubt it.

This would be a much better world if we could run it according to our own ideas—and maybe it wouldn't. But newspapers can't go very far toward making news or stopping it. They've got to print what happens and that which the public will read, and maybe after all they are serving their purpose when they do this. Of course the ukase of a publisher can keep news in which there is greatest interest off the first page or out of the paper altogether, but isn't it possible the public wants the information and that after all the information will result in some good?

Nearly everybody outside of Wall street and those who have been engaged in the speculation have believed for more than a year that the bull market was disrupting business, attracting capital needed for local business and industry to Wall street and was generally damaging to business. But the thing kept going on in spite of warnings, gathering more people and more capital into its vortex. Maybe a headache was the only thing that could stop it.

The headache has come. Now, we hope, a large number of new speculators can get back to industry and business wiser, even if sadder; that capital drawn from far communities will find its way back to industry and commerce and that the public will learn there is still merit in the old and tried principles of business.

But we are doubtful whether banning stock market news from the first page will help greatly toward this desired end.

Don't Blame the "Other Fellow"

WHENEVER you get irritated at the reckless antics of some other motorist in the stream of traffic, you might bear in mind the remark recently made in a radio address of Maj. O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion.

Major Bodenhamer said that practically all of us, at one time or another, are guilty of precisely those failings that we are so quick to notice in the other fellow.

You resent it when another driver cuts in ahead of you; have you never done the same thing? You resent it when another driver turns his bright lights on and dazzles you; didn't you ever do that? Check over your driving habits and you'll probably find that you commit practically all of the sins that irritate you so when the other fellow commits them.

"Knowledge of True Selfhood," Subject

terms of the first personal pronoun. In error only the "I's" have it.

Has man the freedom to sin, to be sick, to see error in others, or in things, to abuse the corporeality, wether his own or another's? No! Man's personal liberty is comprised in being himself, in his individuality and identity. The understanding of his real selfhood, his spiritual individuality, gives man power and wisdom. This knowledge is life eternal or consciousness of true being.

Bear in mind that a mortal sees his thoughts only, false concepts of right ideas. These concepts originate in mortal mind, but they must be one's own concepts if one sees them. We see our own thoughts of ourselves and of others. So others see their own thoughts of us. We must see to it that we do not adopt other people's wrong concepts of us and conform our lives and ourselves to them. This allowing others to make for us our thoughts, and even to shape our lives, and this thing of impinging our thought upon the consciousness of others, is a form of thought transference. It is thought adoption whereby we come to call other people's concepts our own. We muts raise our concepts of ourselves and of others to a higher plane, wherein the man of God's conceiving, or God's knowledge of Himself begins to appear. We should always think well of the man God made and strive to conform our lives to that higher concept. If others see us in an aspect of limitation, unloveliness, imperfection, unintelligence, inefficency, failure, are we to agree to all that and so consider ourselves to be? Blessed is the man that overcomes his own false concepts of himself and of others, and many times blessed is he that refuses to adopt other people's erroneous concepts of himself and all others as God sees all His offspring. In the words of Mrs. Eddy: "Thou shalt recognize thyself as God's spiritual child only." (Miscellaneous Writings page 18). Always be assured that mortal mind's estimate of you, or prediction of your future, can never be true absolutely. My friend, be a law to yourself; be yourself, reflecting the only law, God's good will. Man is not a receiver of evil suggestions, he is not an absorber of evil. He is a reflector of good.

Personal liberty includes freedom from control, domination, abuse, or worship at the hands of others. Personal control and domination do not always appear irksome. They may come in the guise of human love, winsomeness and kindliness. Indeed, it may be said that pleasing thralldom is worse than the lash of cruelty, for the latter often awakens the enslaved consciousness by its brutality, whereas the loving kindness of unenlightened human affection may lull into stupefaction. A benevolent despotism is worse than oppressive tyranny for it is more deceptive and its tentacles cling tighter and are harder to break. Never yield your God-given right of self-government and self-control. Sad indeed is the fate of the slave to another's will, whether that will be imposed for evil or seemingly for good. God alone is man's controller and director, and any usurpation of the divine prerogatives, whether in the guise of good or openly as evil, is a violation of personal liberty.

"Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left." (Matthew 24 v. 40.) So spoke Jesus. Salvation is so individual, so very personal, that it is impossible for one to wait on another. Two or more may progress together in the liberty of the children of God, lending loving cooperation, proving that in scientific union there is strength; but each must work out his own salvation. One is never alone on the pass, for God is with him always. To be alone with God is to lose all sense of worldly dependence on persons and things. Cultivate assiduously and preserve your sense of individuality as God's expression. Thus only can you stand in the evil hour when personal sense of loss would rob you of loved ones. Never merge your selfhood with another's personality. God made man individual and distinct.

The Talents God Bestows

God never made a weak man subject to the machinations of personal sense. Should one possess or develop a strong personality? Yes, if the individual subordinates personal sense to the real sense of Christ and God. Indeed, in proportion to his self-surrender to divine will and wisdom, will he reflect the strength of individuality which identifies him as the child of God, and which endues him with Christ, the power for good. Not mere knowledge of medicine makes a useful and successful physician, but knowledge plus individuality. So it is with every department of human life. The lawyer, merchant, salesman, clerk, all must manifest individuality to be notably successful. Shall we not employ and develop the talents God bestows? The scientific Christian will heal the sick and save the sinning, and comfort those that mourn, just as he is himself strong in individual reflection of divine Love. Keep in mind always that man is the expression of God. This God, who is Mind, Principle, Love, Truth, expresses such qualities as intelligence, strength, love, truth, in individual man. One cannot have too strong a personality, but one must unceasingly pray truly the Master's prayer, "I can of mine own self do nothing." (John 5, v. 30.) We should strive to make ourselves winsome and winning, not colorless nor forbidding. Men and women of strong personalities, whether they be compelling or persuasive, must through self-surrender, possess the Christ to render themselves harmless to others and to themselves, and helpful to all. A strong personality, imbued with Christ, under divine control and direction, is capable of great good to the human race. Such an individual was Mary Baker Eddy.

Humanitarian, Revelator, Leader

Mrs. Eddy's individuality was expressed humanly in a strong personality; in contrast to her slight physicality, her presence, though gentle and loving, was commanding and impressive—a perpetual challenge to evil, a compassionate assurance to all those harassed by personal sense. A gentleman whose business relationship with Mrs. Eddy in the publishing of her books frequently brought him in conference with her in her home, Pleasant View, at Concord, N. H., has written of her: "The characteristic about Mrs. Eddy that impressed me the first time I met her was her motherliness. She gave everyone the impression of her deepest interest and concern in what he said, and was sympathetic in everything that touched on his personal affairs. To many," he goes on to say, "her name suggests a great religious movement, but when I think of her I seem to see acres of green grass, a placid little lake, a silver strip of river, and a boundary line of hills, and within the unpretentious house a slight, unassuming woman—very real, very human, very appealing, supremely content in the self-knowledge that no matter what others might think, she was delivering her message to the world!"

While Christian Scientists love Mrs. Eddy for her humanness, nevertheless they understand that her mission was divine. They believe Mrs. Eddy to be the final Revelator of Truth to mankind. Mrs. Eddy revealed the allness of divine Mind and its ideas. Could there be revealed more than all? And they revere her as the Leader of the mighty movement she established. That work God gave her to do, and her spiritual mindedness, the purity of her life, the selfless devotion to humanity, all made her worthy to be His faithful witness. She furnished sublime proof of her God-bestowed mission when she wrote to her students: "Follow your Leader only as far as she follows Christ." (Message for 1901, page 24).

Aspiration and Attainment

God gives everyone his peculiar work to do, and happy is the man who has found his work and is about the Father's business. We can trust and need never fear that individual whose highest ambition and endeavor are to be the reflection of Truth and Love; who seeks always to make divine Principle first in his own life; who refers all others to the Father-Mother, God; who expresses supreme confidence that "power belongeth unto God;" (Psalm 62 v. 11) and who asks and is satisfied with divine guidance alone. We can only be benefitted by contact with such characters. As Mrs. Eddy has well said:—"He who gains the God-crowned summit of Christian Science never abuses the corporal personality, but uplifts it. He thinks of every one in his real quality, and sees each mortal in an impersonal depict." (Retrospection and Introspection page 76). To such an one who has the vision of his true selfhood and is valiantly striving to be the man God made, and who in selflessness and tender compassion is opening the way for others, there will come the voice of divine Love, uttering itself to consciousness: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." (Matthew 3, v. 17).

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XL

Early Monday afternoon Ann Marie came in from lunch to find Janet Goodwin sitting on one corner of her desk, calmly smoking a cigaret.

On her lap was a large flat brown-paper package.

"Look here!" she said in her quick breathless way. "I got a lot of orders for you Saturday—even if you didn't come to my luncheon. Three of the girls want you to do some work for them—four dresses each. And here's the organdy! I bought it this morning, myself, to save you some time and trouble. Don't you think I'm nice and thoughtful?" She laughed.

"You are!" And Ann Marie meant it with all her heart. "I've never known anyone as kind as you—and Jim—are. You've been too good to me—"

"Look here!" Janet said again, interrupting her. "Here are the names and the addresses of the girls who want the dresses. When they're finished send them, will you? And send the bills along with them. I'd take care of it for you but I'm going out of town in the morning. Going up to Maine to a wedding!"

Ann Marie tapped the package with her forefinger.

"I'll get started on this stuff tonight," she said. "I do it here at the office after everyone's gone home. Miss Hogan doesn't mind. . . . Janet, I don't know how to thank you for doing this for me. Truly I don't."

"If you ever thank me I'll never speak to you again!" Janet declared vigorously. "Goodbye, Ann Marie. As soon as I get back I want you to meet those girls. You'll like them, and you ought to have some fun once in a while. You work too hard. . . . I'm going to make you play!"

She darted away in her yellow flannel dress, bright as a ray of sunshine in the gloom of the big work-room.

At 6 o'clock the place was empty. Empty and so quiet that the ticktock of the clock on the wall above Ann Marie's head seemed very loud.

Outside in the corridors of the great building feet went hurrying by. . . . The sound of them died away in the distance. . . . The elevator doors clanged. Then there was silence for a long time. . . . Outside the windows twilight deepened into darkness.

Every now and then Ann Marie would lift her golden-brown head from her work table and look around the office. It seemed vast in the shadow—and rather terrifying. A great office building after hours can be a very, very lonesome sort of place.

The piece of organdy she was working on was pale blue, and after Ann Marie had made tiny dots all over it with a pencil she began to paint blue wood-violets on it—a violet for every dot. It was hard work, and she was tired after the long day.

Her back ached and her eyes ached too. She sat up, stretched her neck and closed her eyes for a moment to rest them.

When she opened them she saw that someone had come into the room and was standing just inside the door where the shadows were thick and dark.

She stood up, clapping a hand to her mouth to keep from screaming.

"Who's there? What do you want?" she managed to blurt out at last, her eyes blinded with the glare from her own desk-light. She could hear her voice shake as she spoke.

"It's just Jim Goodwin, Ann Marie! I should have knocked on the door! I'm sorry I frightened you," and he came walking into the pool of light that lay on the floor around the table.

"You shouldn't be here alone at night," he said. "Janet told me tonight that you were working here late, and I couldn't stop thinking about it."

The light struck upward at his face as he stood there. And in it was the look that Ann Marie had watched for so many times in Neal's face—and never had seen there. The look of tenderness and longing that a man has for the woman he loves.

"How faithful he would be to a woman he cared for," she found herself thinking. "How good he would me."

And under that thought ran another one: "I mustn't let him stay here. I must get rid of him. . . . Neal's so jealous of him."

"How are you going to get home?" he asked her. "It's raining outside."

Ann Marie laughed. "I'm going to get home the way all the rest of the working girls in Manhattan get home," she said in a matter-of-fact way. "I'm going to walk part of the way and ride part of the way. And rain doesn't bother me. I love it, and some day I'm going to paint a really good picture called 'Rain On the Roof—"

"I know. You told me about it." He nodded. "But you aren't going to do it painting violets on other women's dresses and drawing fashion plates all day for Miss Hogan. I've been thinking about it lately—You ought to have a good teacher right away. You need some money right now. Let's be business like for a minute—"

He pulled up a chair and sat down beside her, full of his plan.

And Ann Marie knew instantly what the plan was going to be. He was going to offer her some money.

"You're going to tell me that you'll lend me some money!" she cried out. "But please don't say it! You're the last person in the world I'd borrow money from!"

"Why?"

"Because you've done so much for me now," she answered. "You got me this position with Miss Hogan. And Janet's gone to all of her friends and asked them to give me work. No, I never can accept any more kindness from you. I've taken too much already."

He just looked at her.

"You'll have to go now, if you don't mind my saying so," she went on. "You know I'm engaged to marry Neal—and he—Well he wouldn't like it if he knew you and I were here alone. You know he wouldn't."

"No, I suppose he wouldn't," Jim admitted in his plain quiet way. "But so long as I'm here won't you let me wait and take you home when you're ready to go? It's raining and it's late."

Ann Marie shook her head vigorously.

"Neal might come for me," she said. "You know, I've bought a little car, and I can't drive it. But he can, and if he should come for me and find you here—"

She stopped, startled by the sudden loud ringing of the telephone on the wall just behind her.

She turned in her chair and looked at the small black instrument. It kept on ringing.

"Goodness! How that did startle me!" she said, looking at Jim, wide-eyed. "If I'd been here alone, I'd have been frightened to death . . . Do you suppose we ought to answer it? Maybe it's Alice for me."

Jim picked up the receiver.

"Hello," he said into the mouthpiece, "Hello—"

An odd look came into his face after a moment.

"Who is this?—You, Neal?—Yes, this is Jim Goodwin. I thought it was you. What's wrong?"

Ann Marie sprang to her feet.

"Let me talk to him—"

But Jim put out his hand and gently, very gently, pushed her away from the telephone.

"Where are you, Neal?" he was asking now. "Where? All right, old man, we'll be there as soon as we can get there."

He was laughing when he turned away from the telephone.

"Neal and your sister," he said, "have been arrested up in Connecticut."

"Connecticut?" asked Ann Marie in blank amazement. "Why, what were they doing 'way up in Connecticut?"

Jim laughed again. "Well, they were parked at the side of the road, so Neal says," he explained. "They were on their way home from Westport, where they'd had dinner, and a road-cop came along and he and Neal got into a fight, it seems. It doesn't pay to fight with policemen, believe me."

"And what happened?" asked Ann Marie, tense with excitement. "Where are they now?"

"At the police station up there," Jim said cheerfully. "The police think they've stolen the car—and you and I will have to go up there and tell the police that it's your car. Put your hat on and come along."

"—Parked at the side of the road," thought Ann Marie as Jim's car left the town behind and nosed its way into the rain-swept country-side.

She closed her eyes and pictured them, sitting in the little car at the side of the road with the rain and the darkness and the loveliness of the country all around them . . . . When two people, a man and a girl, sat in a parked car along a country road it meant that they wanted to be away from everyone. It meant that they were in love with each other—almost always.

"I wish I'd never seen that little car!" said Ann Marie aloud and her voice was edged with bitterness. "I ought to have had more sense. I need a guardian—"

"You do," Jim Goodwin answered quietly. "You do, Ann Marie, and that's a fact!"

That the Fairfield Apartment building on 72nd street, owned by the late Arnold Rothstein is now named The Franconia.

That the lyric of the delightful theme song "Love (Your Spell Is Everywhere)," in Gloria Swanson's grand movie, was written by Elsie Janis, who never has been in love, poor thing.

That in Charles Mack's (Moran & Mack) $250,000 Hollywood home he has a huge library containing no other tomes except 500 copies of his own book, "The Two Black Crows in the A. E. F."

That scorpions eat their husbands after marriage.

That Jerome Kern, the composer, made $1,500,000 profit on his collection of rare books, which cost him $250,000.

COYOTES MAKE GREAT STAND TO HOLD LUBBOCK, 6 TO 0

S. W. CONFERENCE TEAMS IN STRETCH, TODAY

PACK THREAT IN BIG RALLY

District Honors Fade Away

line plays just failed to gain 10 yards. They had another chance soon afterward when a Lubbock punt was killed on the 27-yard line. A forward pass on the first down was intercepted. Lubbock narrowly missed being charged with a safety on the next play, when the Coyotes swarmed upon Smith of Lubbock and downed him on his two-yard line.

Westerners Pull Out

From that dangerous position, the Westerners pulled out of the hole very handsomely indeed. On the next play Price got away around the Coyote right end and ran 60 yards to the Coyote 34-yard line before he was forced out of bounds. A moment later, as a result of some clever aerial work by Lubbock, the Coyotes had their backs to the wall again, but they turned the Westerners back without further scoring.

Lubbock's overhead game did not get started until late in the game, but it proved rather baffling to the Coyotes when it did.

Wichita Falls did not complete any passes. The Coyotes did not, in fact, develop any sort of attack. When they seemed about to get under way a fumble would rob them of the chance.

The first three quarters were scoreless. In spite of the Coyotes' inability to cope with the off-tackle attack of the Westerners they managed to keep their goal line clear until just at the start of the fourth quarter.

Stars of Game

For Lubbock, Smith, Price and Lawson were the most consistent gainers. Frizzell at end was the most conspicuous defensive player. Norwood, Dixon, Elliott and Ray did the best work for the Coyotes. Holden's kicking was the happiest feature of the Coyote performance though bad in spots. Just at the close of the first half, he got off an 80-yard punt. There was a stiff wind back of it to be sure but wind did not account for the consistent manner in which Holden outkicked Smith of Lubbock.

The Coyotes pulled an onside kick at the start of the game. Skeen recovered on the Lubbock 40-yard line. That bit of smartness was promptly nullified by a fumble which Lubbock recovered. Smith broke through the line for 15 yards on the first Lubbock play and three first downs in a row on consistent gains by Lawson and Smith took the ball to the Coyote 14-yard line. Lubbock fumbled there and Holden promptly kicked out of danger to the 44-yard line. Lubbock soon fumbled again and Holden recovered. Two line plays failed to gain for the Coyotes and Holden kicked badly, the ball going out of bounds on the Lubbock 42-yard line.

Long Gain Killed

Price made an eight-yard gain which was nullified by a 15-yard penalty. Lubbock made one first down on a pass, but further advance was halted and Smith kicked to the Coyote goal line. Holden kicked back to the Lubbock 47-yard line. Ray intercepted Price's short pass and it was the Coyote's ball on the Lubbock 48-yard line as the quarter ended.

Norwood's pass was incomplete and two line plays netted six yards. Holden kicked over the Lubbock goal. Lee and Elliott went in for Smith and Ray. Smith of Lubbock gained five yards off right tackle and Watkins added three over center. A short pass, Smith to Rich, netted five yards and a first down. Another pass, Smith to Price, gave Lubbock a first down in midfield. Shortly afterward Ray again intercepted a Lubbock pass giving the Coyotes the ball in midfield. They promptly fumbled and Lubbock recovered. Rich got away around the Coyote left end for 18 yards. Doing some artistic dodging. Then Price fumbled and the Coyotes recovered on their own 30-yard line

Holden Best Punter

The remainder of the quarter was devoted largely to an exchange of punts, with Holden getting the best of it so regularly that the Westerners were forced back to their own eight-yard line. Just as the half ended Price got away around the Coyote right end for a 25-yard gain that came near to getting him clear away.

The Coyotes were unable to gain after receiving the kickoff and a punt gave Lubbock the ball on the Coyote 41 yard line. A pass was ruled complete for interference, putting the ball on the Coyote 28-yard line. Lubbock was unable to advance from there and Green kicked out of bounds on the Coyote 16-yard line. Smith hit left tackle for the Coyotes' longest gain from scrimmage during the game, eight yards. He was stopped for no gain on the next play and then the Coyotes drew a five-yard penalty. Holden kicked to midfield but the ball bounced back and was killed on the 30-yard line. Three plays of the spin variety gave Lubbock first down on the 16-yard line. There the Coyote defense stiffened and Lubbock attempted a place-kick which wasn't even close. The Coyotes could not gain and Holden kicked to midfield. A fumble by Price cost Lubbock an eight-yard loss, but they recovered the ball and Green kicked out of bounds on the Coyote 37-yard line. After two line plays failed, Martin intercepted a short pass and ran the ball to the Coyote 25-yard line.

Lubbock Penalized

A 25-yard penalty set the Westerners back to midfield. From there Smith kicked over the Coyote goal. After one line play, the Coyotes kicked and the ball was downed on their 35-yard line as the quarter ended. If they had waited one down longer this kick would have been with the wind instead of against it.

A five-yard gain by Lubbock's Smith, four yards by Lawson and five yards more by Smith gave Lubbock a first down on the Coyote 16-yard line. Two line plays gained seven yards. On the next play Rich fumbled and Jameson covered the ball across the goal line for a touchdown. The try for point was wide.

Holden's punt that got past Smith and was recovered by Dixon came soon after Lubbock's kickoff. The 61-yard dash by Price took the ball out of danger after Wichita Falls' scoring threat failed and the remainder of the game was played deep in Coyote territory. One Lubbock threat carried the ball to the 9-yard line, but the Coyotes held for downs and kicked out. Lubbock was pushing at the goal line again, being on the 14-yard line, as the game ended.

Mustangs Are Ready for Battle Of Life-Time Against Baylor Bears

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (AP)—An atmosphere of confidence pervaded Ownby Stadium today as the Southern Methodist university squad tapered off a week's practice in preparation for tomorrow's crucial struggle with Baylor university. Snappy fall weather speeded up the Ponies in their final drill. Although declining Ray Morrison admitted that his team was ready for the battle of its life and would have no alibis in the event of defeat. The Red and the Blue will send a stronger, better drilled eleven onto the field tomorrow than faced either Texas or A. & M. in the opinion of observers.

Regulars in Shape

Every regular is ready for service. Malcolm Powell, all conference center last year, might not start, but will be on the sideline available for duty. Vic Saufley can fill his shoes with little loss of strength. Mason, backfield meteor, is in top shape, fully recovered from a head injury received two weeks ago. Marion "Scrap Iron" Hammon, rugged tackle, whose nose was broken against Mississippi, has a good, all-around probosis again.

The swift, wide-open game which featured Mustang teams of the past is expected to burst into full bloom tomorrow. Morrison has had difficulty getting his sophomore backfield to functioning smoothly, but the plays have been clock-like in practice this week. Also, the backs have developed an ability to knock down passes, a feature at which the Mustangs were woefully weak in most of their games so far.

18,000 Persons Expected

A crowd of at least 18,000 is anticipated for the important battle. Providing rain does not mar the proceedings, a spectacular offensive game is looked for. Both teams boast powerful lines, but if given dry footing the shifty array of ball carriers on each team are expected to get away for plenty of yardage. The individual duel between Mason and Wilson, former teammates at Waco high, looms as a highlight of the conflict.

The probable lineups:

Southern Methodist: Long and Koontz, ends; Skeeters and Hammon, tackles; Sanders (captain) and Neely, guards; Saufley, center; Gilbert, quarterback; Mason and Kattman, halfbacks; Hopper, fullback.

Baylor: Lewter and Lucas (captain), ends; Elkins and Morris, tackles; Koch and Witcher, guards; Paradeaux, center; Wilson, quarterback; McElreath and Furl, halfbacks; Kathcart, fullback.

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Nov. 15.—Graham Steers won a game from Caddo on a forfeit. Caddo was leading 20 to 14 at the beginning of the fourth quarter. Graham carried the ball to Caddo's 15-yard line as result of line play and a 15-yard penalty for neck twisting. As result of this penalty Caddo's team walked off the field and forfeited the game to Graham. Caddo outplayed Graham in the first quarter but from then on Graham walked up and played Caddo off their feet. Stars for Graham were Harley, Q. Street, Bruce Street, Turney and Starbuck.

Lamesa Tornado Blanks Snyder Eleven by 12 to 0

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, Nov. 15.—Coach F. T. McCollum's Golden Tornadoes added their tenth straight victory to the 1929 season today when they blanked Snyder eleven on the local field for 12 to 0 count. Snyder backfield was the fastest the locals have met this season, but Lamesa made 19 first downs while Snyder made four. Interference of visitors was outstanding. Both teams fought 0 to 0 standstill in first half but when last half came Riley managed to cross goal for two touchdowns in third and last quarter. Hill and Banta were the outstanding players on the Lamesa eleven. The Tornadoes are now training for Turkey day tilt with Post, another conference team.

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Nov. 15.—The Frederick High school team administered a sound beating to the Cordell High school team here today by the score of 31 to 6. Clark for Frederick was the outstanding player of the entire game. On one occasion he raced 70 yards for a touchdown and again he intercepted a pass and dashed over 60 yards to cross the Cordell goal line. Addison also played a good game and chalked up a pair of markers. Burns made one touchdown. A pass from Murry to Price accounted for Cordell's lone touchdown.

TITLE MAY BE IN BALANCE

Four Teams Fighting for Honors

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 15. (AP)—Rounding the turn at full speed and with none showing any inclination to wilt from the pace, four aspirants for the Southwest conference football title enter the home stretch tomorrow. There is not an outstanding favorite.

The Texas Christian university Horned Frogs, one of the few gridiron units in the country that can boast a record of seven straight victories, face their stiffest opposition to date in the Texas university Longhorns, unbeaten and unscored upon in seven games. They clash at Memorial stadium, Austin, where last week the Steers battled Baylor to a scoreless tie.

Twelfth Meeting

It will be the 12th meeting of the schools upon the gridiron, and the Frogs still are seeking their first victory. They hold conference wins over Rice and Texas A. & M. A triumph over the Longhorns would set them well on the way to a conference crown, a bauble they have never won.

Two equally ambitious elevens, Baylor and Southern Methodist, meet at Ownby stadium here in the week's second crucial game. Each holds one victory and a tie in conference play. The winner can capture the title by winning its remaining games, no matter what the outcome of the Texas-T. C. U. fray. Each has yet to play the Frogs. Texas, with two ties against its record, could win its two remaining games with the Frogs and Aggies and yet lose the title, providing either Baylor or S. M. U. wins its last three. It is a jumbled situation that conference fans hope to see cleared up tomorrow.

Rice vs. Aggies

Rice institute and the Aggies, whose failure to hold the pace largely is responsible for the jammed condition of the four leading teams, are due to scrap it out for the basement position at Houston with the Aggies apparently stronger. Rice has failed to score in two conference starts, while the Farmers have scored in each of the three games they have lost. They have, in fact, scored 27 points to their opponents' 39.

Razorbacks Are Out

The Arkansas Razorbacks, long since out of the title race but a powerful team, nevertheless, engage the Centenary Gentlemen at Fayetteville. Led by Dick Miller, the circuit's leading scorer, they are favored to outpoint the Gents.

With the exception of Texas, which has two of its regulars, Baumgarten, guard, and Meadows, halfback, laid up with injuries, the "Big Four" of the Southwest will go into action tomorrow in prime shape. Weldon Mason, Southern Methodist's versatile star, will be at his best against the Bears. Bochey Koch, industrious Baylor guard, has recovered from injuries which almost forced him out of last week's game with Texas. Austin Griffith, T. C. U.'s regular fullback last season, is ready to go tomorrow after spending two months on the bench with a cracked arm. He adds power to the Frog backfield.

There have been few outright predictions on the outcome of the two vital encounters. Baylor and Texas Christian rate slight favorites on the strength of their respective records, but so slight that the fact scarcely is worth mentioning. Should these two teams win, the conference title would hinge on their battle at Waco a week from tomorrow.

Longhorns Meet Frogs

If Texas is to win its second straight title, a feat so rare that it never has been accomplished, the Longhorns must defeat the Horned Frogs. Another scoreless tie would leave them in a dismal position—eliminated from the race without having had their goal line crossed.

It probably would be a record of some kind. It therefore is logical to forecast a fast offensive struggle at Austin, with both gambling to score. Neither can gain anything by playing safe. A sideshow to the main event will be the battle between the Frogs' two backfield aces, Grubbs and Leland, and the Longhorns' star duo, Shelley and Rees.

Bears' "Moral" Victory

The fact that Baylor's scrapping Bears snapped into form to win a valueless "moral" victory over Texas in their muddy tussle last week accounts for their being favored over the tricky Mustangs in the bout here. The Bruins exhibited a wealth of drive in their backfield and their line had the Longhorn backs playing dead a great deal of the time. Opposed to the Bears will be a Pony machine with slightly less drive through the center and off tackles, but with a tricky, wide-open defense, featuring Mason the "speedy." The Ponies looked better than at any time this season in squelching the Aggies, 12 to 7, last week.

The standing:

	Won	Lost	Tied	Pct.
T. C. U.	2	0	0	1.000
Texas	2	0	2	.750
Baylor	1	0	1	.750
S. M. U.	1	0	1	.750
Arkansas	2	0	0	.500
Rice	0	2	0	.000
Aggies	0	3	0	.000

Ties count one-half game won and one-half game lost.

Notre Dame vs. U. S. C. Provides Great Intersectional Thriller for Nation

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—Featured by the national championship struggle at Soldier field, Chicago, between Southern California and Notre Dame, the football conflict promises to reach spectacular heights tomorrow all along the front.

Title hopes, sectional as well as national, will be at stake in every section to a varying degree, from the hills of Hanover to Berkeley near San Francisco bay.

More than 600,000 spectators alone are expected to witness 10 of the outstanding games, East, South and West, representing the greatest average outpouring of college fandom of the entire season.

Thousands at Chicago

At Soldiers field, upwards of 110,000 and possible 120,000 may witness the intersectional clash between the formidable Trojans and the unbeaten, highly-inspired ramblers of Rockne.

From 50,000 to 80,000 will see each of such outstanding attractions as Pittsburgh-Carnegie at Pitt stadium Illinois-Chicago at Champaign, Michigan-Minnesota at Minneapolis, Harvard-Holy Cross at Cambridge, Yale-Princton at New Haven and California-Washington at Berkeley.

Iowa vs. Purdue

Only the limited facilities of their arena prevent Iowa and Purdue from fighting their battle for the Big Ten championship before as big a crowd as any of the day.

Southern California entertains similar hopes of stopping the wild rush of Notre Dame toward a national championship. The Trojans of Howard Jones have come 2,000 miles for the attempt, well-equipped with material and weapons. But for their unexpected setbacks at the hands of California, the Trojans themselves would be in the thick of the national title hunt.

Pittsburgh, another national title contender, faces the same rugged Carnegie team that gave Notre Dame its stiffest test.

Yale Is Favorite

Yale is also a strong favorite to wallop Princeton but here again the "breaks" that have been so much in evidence all year may help the Tiger.

Cornell, one of the few remaining unbeaten arrays, tackles its most formidable rival so far in Dartmouth, even though the Green no longer has Al. Marsters to rely on.

The Big Ten will watch the Purdue-Iowa scoreboard, for a defeat for Purdue would reopen the title chances of such teams as Northwestern. Illinois and Minnesota. These three are favorites, respectively, over Indiana, Chicago and Michigan.

Nebraska, Big Six champions, will seek the scalp of Oklahoma in the main conference engagement, while Missouri is in New York looking for revenge against New York university for last year's setback.

Tenn-Vandy Tilt

Tennessee and Vanderbilt, twin contenders for the Southern conference title, meet at Knoxville to settle the biggest argument of the day in Dixie.

The big scramble in the Southwest centers in Austin, where Texas Christian and Texas come to grips, and in Dallas, where Southern Methodist meets the Baylor Bears. All four have championship aspirations and each game is as much of a toss-up as any on the slate.

Utah, already acclaimed as the Rocky Mountain champion, apparently need have no concern about Wyoming but there will be keen rivalry in such other games as Colorado-Colorado Aggies, Utah Aggies-Denver and Colorado College-Colorado Mines.

California's fast traveling Bears are overwhelming favorites to beat Washington, even though the huskies have taken a second breath and charged in to recover something from the wreck. Oregon and Oregon State will have their own private war at Eugene.

Horton did not play as he had a bad ankle.

Walters Eleven Edges Out Grandfield 13-12

Special to The Record News

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Nov. 15.—A fighting Grandfield Bearcat eleven went down before the Walters Purple Devils 13 to 12 here this afternoon in the hardest fought game played on the local gridiron this season. This eliminates Grandfield south central hopes since three ties already had been checked up against the locals.

In the first quarter Grandfield marched the ball down the field with straight football and Knizer, left halfback, went off tackle for the first touchdown. Goal was kicked from placement.

Third quarter, Grandfield blocked Kennedy's punt, King recovered for Grandfield and carried the ball to Walters' one-yard line where Lawson plunged center for the third touchdown. Failed to kick goal. Fourth quarter, a pass, Musgrove to Koler for Walter advanced the ball to Grandfield five-yard line where Musgrove plunged for touchdown. Failed to kick goal. BOOTH TALKS

Famous Yale Star Says That He Will Play

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15. Injuries suffered in the Maryland game will keep little Albie Booth, Yale backfield star, on the side lines tomorrow when the Blue faces Princeton in the Yale bowl, Head Coach Mal Stevens announced tonight.

"I'm not supposed to talk about it," Albie said at the infirmary. "But I'm OK, it's nothing serious, and I'll sure be able to play tomorrow.

"The bruise that brought me here is not one of those I got in the Maryland game. I got it this week in practice."

Booth was taken to the infirmary at 11 a. m. today, and the announcement that he would not play was made late this afternoon.

ATHLETIC ROW IN TEXAS BAD

Dean Says That May Rule All Games Lost

AUSTIN, Nov. 15. (AP)—The athletic row in the University of Texas faculty may result in the forfeiture of every football game which the Longhorns have played this season, it became apparent today.

Dean V. I. Moore, who is chairman of the university's eligibility committee, said that if the faculty upheld the contention that a university regulation forbade the employment of athletes as assistant physical training instructors Coach Clyde Littlefield had played at least one ineligible man in every contest this year. Dean Moore added that he did not know whether that would mean that the games would be forfeited.

Law Avows Rule Broken

Dr. R. A. Law, former chairman of the athletic council, contended before the faculty yesterday that rule four of the university had been broken in the employment of seven athletes as assistant instructors in the physical training department. He was supported by L. Theo. Bellmont, former athletic director.

Doctor Law offered a motion that the faculty "disapprove," of such employment. After two hours of discussion, action on the matter was deferred until next Thursday.

Athletes Named

The seven athletes, who help instruct physical training classes for an average salary of $11 a month, are Frank Cheatum, football and basket ball man; Claude Meadows, football; John Railton, baseball; Lester Peterson, football and basket ball; Perry Van Zandt, football; J. W. Nixon, football, and L. L. Blackney, football. Littlefield said tonight that he would not keep any of them out of the T. C. U. game here tomorrow on account of the squabble.

Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, director of athletics, characterized the Law motion as an attack on him and his administration of athletic affairs.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Health Brings Beauty

Many people consider themselves as being "unfortunately" not beautiful. Have they ever considered the fact that many of them would be much easier on the eyes if they had received the best dietetic and cultural care when they were children?

Any disease if long continued will result in ugliness. Any case of long continued malnutrition, improperly balanced feedings, or gluttony will destroy the proportions of our figures that are supposed to be modeled after the image of God.

If one were describing the symptoms of ugliness, he would be describing disease symptoms as well. It would be impossible to imagine Hercules afflicted with tuberculosis, Diana with gout, Appollo with biliousness, or Juno with mucous colitis. Just imagine Robin Hood running off with his fair maid, Maron, if she had weighed two hundred and sixty-five pounds!

The alterations produced by disease are so pronounced that any competent diagnostician can distinguish a healthy person from a sick one simply by the general appearance. In many cases, it is even possible to recognize the principle disease with just a general inspection.

I know that many of the conditions under which we live are not conducive to beauty. One who sits at a desk all day certainly has some disadvantage physically compared with the legendary golden age when all that was necessary was playing leap frog under the trees from which lucious and nourishing fruits fell just when one was ready to eat them.

I believe that our civilization is an improvement over any past age within history. I would rather have an automobile and a radio, a home with hot and cold running water, electric lights and convenient sewage disposal than to live in a palace with the filth and ignorance of the middle ages. We have not reached perfection, and we can always look forward to better things.

One of the drawbacks of a civilized community is that it tends to specialization. An individual must be able to do something uncommonly well or he is very likely to be dragged into the mire of failure. This specializing permits us to use some muscles but neglect others. We may be compelled to occupy a limited number of positions during many hours. This interferes with our health and beauty unless we take special care of our exercise and play.

Each person should develop a hobby that will correct his one-sided work. If he also will eat a correctly balanced diet, such as I outline in my weekly menus, he may preserve his health and figure for many years longer than the average.

If you wish to avoid physical and mental decay, you should make yourself a specialist in health producing habits.

I am sometimes astounded to observe the remarkable changes that patients undergo while following the right diet, exercise and hygienic methods. Many of them blossom out into astounding beauties, even in cases that looked exceedingly hopeless in the beginning. A small thorax will enlarge to normal if one practices deep breathing several times daily. Though your back be crooked, you can improve it by the right kind of exercises.

Don't think this is hopeless with yourself. Everyone is capable of improvement unless he is at death's door. So throw out your chest and pull your head back and resolve to day by day become better and better. The time to start is now!

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Weak Ligaments

Question—R. F. writes: "I am 16 years old and am troubled with weak ligaments. I have a knee which frequently slips out of joint, and I have this trouble with my elbows likewise. What, if anything, can be done to correct this condition? Would any special diet help these weak joints?"

Answer—There is no special diet to correct weak joints. The best method of overcoming this condition is to take exercises so that you can strengthen the muscles. Not much can be done to strengthen the ligaments except to strengthen the neighboring muscles and improve the circulation around the joints. You must be careful not to take sudden exercises, and avoid displacing, as every displacement weakens the ligaments still more.

Breathing Dust

Question—K. H. W. writes: "I am by trade a driller, at present doing concrete work. This is naturally a very dusty job, and this fine concrete dust envelopes me when at work. Is there any danger of this dust getting into the lungs? If I keep this work up for a long time will it have any effect on my health?"

Answer—If you breaths too large a quantity of dock dust it could lead to a coating of the lungs which is termed "silicosis" but usually much dust must be breathed before this occurs. Various occupations where dust is breathed may lead to a fibrosis of the lungs. Those who erborb too much silica or stone dust may be incapacitated in from two to eight years. Coal miners or dwellers in cities where there is dust and soot may gradually have the lungs carbonized. The first symptoms are those of coughing and failing health and if this begins to occur it would be well for you to change your occupation. Much of the dust will gradually be eliminated through expectoration.

Lady Astor Gives Up Trip in Dirigible R-101

LONDON, Nov. 15. (INS)—Lady Astor, British parliamentarian and the former Nancy Langhorne of Virginia, stood accused today of having "cold feet."

Lady Astor was one of the 100 members of parliament who drew tickets for a flight aboard the new giant British dirigible R-101. She withdrew because of business appointments, and was immediately set upon by opponents, who teased her for being "afraid" to travel in the airship.

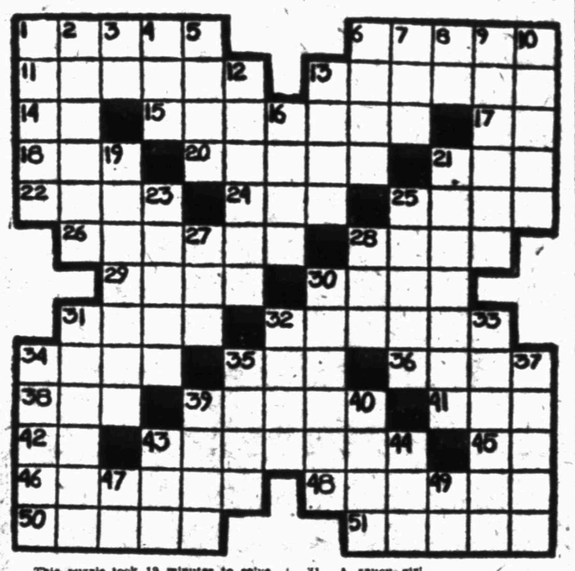

Two men members also withdrew, but all three places were promptly filled.

BOSTON, Nov. 15. (UP)—The United States cruiser Marblehead, with 435 officers and men aboard, arrived at the Boston navy yard under her own power this afternoon, several hours after she had been in collision with a freighter 40 miles northeast of Nantucket lightship.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 15. (UP)—An explosion in a coal mine near Zonguldak, on the Black coast of Anatolia, today killed 11 men and injured four others. The explosion was due to black damp.

PLANTS END TURKEY PACK

78,000 Pounds Shipped by Two Firms Here

Packing plants of the Armour creameries and Peoples' Produce company succeeded Friday in winding up the packing and shipping of the avalanche of turkeys which were unloaded on local platforms Thursday, the last open day of the pre-Thanksgiving market in this locality, according to information given Friday.

Totals announced Friday showed that approximately 52,000 pounds of turkeys were graded, weighed in, and purchased at the Armours plant Thursday, while more than half that amount went through the same process at the Peoples' Produce company's plant. The former concern bought about 5,000 pounds additional on Friday, most of which was dressed in time for the last carload freight shipment to the East.

Reports from Atlantic seaboard points indicated that the turkey market looked more steady than at any time in recent weeks, and on the basis of shipments now in transit, it was predicted that the surplus of 28,000,000 pounds of Thanksgiving turkeys said to be in storage in the East would be worked out almost entirely before the Christmas market opens. Holding of all turkeys not yet sold until December was said by local dealers to be the best guarantee of a fairly steady market during the coming month.

Gins of Wichita county were all in operation Friday, but the day's output totaled only 99 bales, according to reports given, bringing the 1929 crop in this county to 17,456. Electra led Friday's production with 43 bales.

The Kraft cheese factory will continue to buy milk from producers who have been making deliveries there, it was learned Friday, until the Southwest Dairy Products company is ready to begin operation of its condensed milk manufacturing process, which will be about Dec. 15, it was said.

These are being shipped to Risser & Rabinowitz, Inc., of Philadelphia, Pa., with the price ranging around 21 cents. This is only the beginning of the shipments, which will be made now until Christmas, and will bring some money to the people who have made short crops in this section.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. (AP)—A further advance of about $1 per bale in cotton today was prompted by the firmer tone of stocks and steady Liverpool cables. It was checked by some southern selling and weekend realizing but there offerings were absorbed on setbacks of about 10 points and after selling off from 17.46 to 17.36, January closed at 17.41. The general market closed steady at net advances of 16 to 19 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 14 to 19 points and after some irregularity active months sold 21 to 23 points net higher on trade buying and covering. The advance to 17.32 for December and 17.75 for March met considerable realizing for over the week-end.

After selling off some 10 or 11 points from the best, prices steadied again.

The volume of business tapered on the decline and offerings were light in the later trading. Closing prices were within 4 or 5 points of the best for the day.

There was bullish comment on the week-end figures which showed a further falling off in the movement of cotton into sight, which was placed at 687,856 bales by the New York cotton exchange statistics compared with 706,509 the previous week and 640,350 last year.

Spinners takings for the week also showed some increase over the previous week, although they fell short of last year's figures, with the world's visible supply of American cotton increasing 208,223 against 281,657 the previous week and 151,598 last year. This showing may have helped the late market.

A foreign trade authority published its first estimate of the Indian crop placing it 7,001,700 bales against 6,969,500 last year. The increase over last year being somewhat below expectations, according to local brokers.

Exports today 25,043 making 2,747,582 so far this season. Port receipts 46,261. U. S. port stocks 2,499,364.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15. (AP)—Cotton opened 14 to 18 points advance, made slight further gains and afterwards eased a few points in morning trading. Prices turned firm again in the afternoon and closed at or near the top for the day 16 to 21 points net higher. MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 15. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle prices were little changed on receipts at most markets being insufficient to make a fair test of market conditions. Increased receipts and only moderate shipping demand resulted in an uneven decline in hog prices around the 11-market circuit of 10 to 40 cents. The day's extreme top of $9.25 was paid at Chicago and St. Louis. Offerings around 96,300.

Chicago reported an upturn of 25 cents on fat lambs but otherwise values on killing classes of sheep were unchanged. Choice native lambs in Chicago scored $13.00 and the fed westerns made $12.75. Supply approximated 30,300.

THRONGS FLOCK TO OLD GRAVE

Maimed Thousands Continue to Visit Shrine

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 15. (UP)—Catholics, Protestants, Jews and Orientals continued to kneel side by side today at the grave of an obscure priest in Holy Cross cemetery in quest of miraculous relief from afflictions science has been unable to cure.

Statements from medical authorities that there can be no "miraculous" cures for those suffering from organic defects have no deterrent effect on the endless lines of pilgrims which move in and out of the cemetery. More than half a million have come the past two weeks.

Some rise with cries of thanks and cast aside crutches, braces, or spectacles.

Many others, however, weep with disappointment, finding themselves untouched by the supposed powers of the shrine.

Secretary Hyde's Key to Old Office Won't Open Door

TRENTON, Mo., Nov. 15. (INS)—Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde and his secretary, E. E. Hall, returned to his home town here early today but Mr. Hyde's key to his old office here refused to turn the lock.

For two hours Mr. Hyde and his secretary waited in a garage until the manager of the building arrived and unlocked the office door. The building manager explained to Mr. Hyde that a recent burglary had caused them to install a new lock on the door. Hence, the key Mr. Hyde used before he went to Washington as secretary of agriculture would not fit.

Secretary Hyde visited his farms near here today.

JUNIOR C.-C. PLANS BANQUET

Annual Gathering Set for Dec. 9

Selection of the second Monday in December of each year for the annual meeting and decision to make the calendar the organization's fiscal year featured the weekly meeting of Junior chamber of commerce at the Kemp hotel Friday noon.

Pursuant to the plans adopted Friday, the first annual banquet and business session of the organization will be held at 7 o'clock Monday night, Dec. 9, at a place yet to be selected, and at that meeting officers and directors for the year 1930 will be elected.

Walter Nelson Jr., now president of the Junior chamber of commerce, was authorized Friday by those present to appoint budget, program of work, and nominating committees whose reports will be submitted to the membership meeting on Dec. 9.

Speaking on the "It's Right in Wichita Falls" week, to be observed beginning next Monday, Maurice Cheek declared that the object of the drive will be to encourage citizens of each city in this community to purchase needed goods from their own home merchants as long as what they want can be provided in such establishments. He announced that speakers will appear every day next week before local service clubs and by radio in support of the week's program.

Guy P'Pool, secretary of the organization, stated that a large number of local business houses have entered window displays featuring the recently adopted slogan in a contest for a silver loving cup which will be presented to the winner.

Following a short talk by J. C. Mytinger on the coming campaign of deep oil drilling, numerous members of the organization promised to aid in the general canvass of the community for stock subscriptions.

It was announced that a delegation from this city will attend the annual meeting of the Lawton, Okla., Junior Chamber of Commerce which will be held on Nov. 21.

Olney Passes and Hits Line to Beat Decatur

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Nov. 15.—The Olney Cubs, using both a line plunging attack and a well-executed air attack, overpowered the Decatur High team this afternoon, 26 to 7. The Cubs registered 23 first downs to Decatur's five. Decatur made 118 yards from the line to 206 yards for the Cubs.

The Cubs completed 10 passes out of 14 attempts for a total gain of 170 yards. Goode's passes to Greer netted two touchdowns and another pass to W. Gilmore was responsible for a third tally. Decatur was not so successful with its passes, completing only five out of 14 attempts.

Patrick, 125 pound fullback for the Cubs, carried the brunt of the Cubs' offense, breaking through for several long gains. Duckworth and Greer's interference running was very noticeable. Kuehn and W. Gilmore showed up well in the Cub line. Petty and Elder starred for Decatur. Petty made two nice runs, one for 36 yards and another for 28 yards resulting in Decatur's only touchdown.

Man Held Here On Forgery Charges

Formal charges of forgery were filed Friday afternoon against Alonzo Rogers on two counts for alleged use of fictitious names on checks, according to information given by Sheriff W. G. Bralley. Rogers was arrested late Thursday night in Burkburnett by Bill Garland, chief of police in that city, and brought to the county jail here.

At the time of the arrest, the sheriff said, Rogers was driving an automobile with a Nebraska license. A telephone conversation with the sheriff of York county, Neb., revealed that the car was alleged to have been obtained under false pretences and that Rogers is wanted on two counts for forgery in that county. The sheriff there said he would be glad to arrange extradition papers as soon as Rogers has been tried here. The cases against him here will be brought up before the grand jury on Jan. 6, Sheriff Bralley said.

Nocona Indians In 44-7 Victory Over Iowa Park Eleven

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Nov. 15.—The Nocona Indians ran rough shod over the Iowa Park High school eleven here and won an overwhelming victory by the count of 44 to 7. A rain fell during the greater part of the game.

Evans and Zachery, Nocona backs, carried the ball over for touchdowns in the very first quarter of the game: Zachery scored another marker in the second period. On none of these first three touchdowns were there extra points made.

The Iowa Park team made its only touchdown in the third quarter. In the third quarter Caricker scored and in the final period Keck, Zachery and Haralson all scored touchdowns.

Keck probably was the individual light of the game when he raced 75 yards through most of the opposing team and crossed the enemy goal line. Caricker also looked on an intercepted Iowa Park forward pass and dashed 45 yards to score.

Steagall and Haralson did good work for the Indians in the forward line. The attendance at the game was cut short on account of the threatening rain.

MILK FACTORY OPENS DEC. 16

Southwest Company Installs New Machinery

Opening of the powdered and condensed milk factory by the Southwest Dairy Products company in the Kraft cheese manufacturing plant, scheduled to take place on Nov. 16, will be deferred for approximately 30 days in order to give time for removal of old equipment and setting up of new, officials of the new concern stated Friday.

Parts of the equipment used in making cheese will be transferred to the "Dairyland" plant of the purchasing company on Virginia street, it was said, to be used in manufacturing cottage cheese and other milk products. Much new machinery has been secured for installation in the Kraft building, however, for the powdering and condensing processes. Making of cheese will be continued, according to the information given, until the Southwest Dairy Products company is ready to begin making of condensed milk, which will probably be about Dec. 15. This arrangement was made in order to provide an uninterrupted market for producers while the transfer is being effected.

Alterations and equipment required for conversion of the cheese factory for its new uses will entail the expenditure of about $25,000, P. R. Freeman, local manager, said.

Powdering of milk will begin about Jan. 15, it was said. The production engineer of the company is expected to reach Wichita Falls about Dec. 1, and will at once begin a campaign for the increase of production of whole milk in this area.

Girls to Sell Feathers In Final Chest Drive

Camp Fire girls, Girl Reserves, Y. W. C. A. members and dozens of other persons were ready to make a last campaign Saturday for the community chest in the second and last "feather day," according to A. E. Kelly, campaign director.

The total in the fund Friday night was $58,168. Fifteen firms had also agreed to underwrite a total of $100 each toward making up the $10,000 remaining, and with several chairmen who will not turn in their cards and money until Saturday afternoon, the campaign seemed assured of success.

"While we are closing the campaign Saturday night we expect to continue our work, of course," Mr. Kelly said Friday. "We will continue our correspondence and active solicitation until the $70,000 is secured."

Wichita Penney Store Leads State in Sales

The local J. C. Penney company store took first place among all stores in the state for percentage of gain in sales during October, Manager R. S. Fidler learned Friday.

Sales for last month showed an increase of 73.94 per cent, as compared with sales for October, 1928.

"The increase in our store's sales indicates that business is good in Wichita Falls," commented Mr. Fidler.

This is the second month in succession that the local store has lead the state in percentage of sales increase.

Texas Girl Heads Vaudeville Bill

Dancing innovations introduced by Marion Wilkins and a troup of much-heralded equilibrists styled "The Mounters" are to be featured in the program of Interstate vaudeville which comes to the Majestic Sunday and Monday.

Miss Wilkins, whose father was Judge W. W. Wilkins of Dallas, will be assisted in her dancing act by the Harris twins and Jack Meyers. She has to her credit performance of comedy roles with a Raymond Hitchcock show in New York and later danced eccentric dances with the Ziegfeld Midnight Follies.

The "Mounters" will present a gymnastic performance, in which skill and showmanship is said to combine in their numerous handwalking feats. The act, it is announced, will includes the spectacle of the five performers nonchalantly running up and down a collapsible stairs on their hands.

A comedy skit by Jimmy Conlin and Myrtle Glass entitled "Whoa," humorous songs and patter by Dorothy and Rosetta Ryan, and a comedy juggling act by Stan Kavanaugh, a sheep herder from Tom Heeney's "down under" country, will complete the five-act bill.

An Invitation to Dealers
Who Want This Franchise

COME!
See the Demonstration of the First Practical Cottonpicker!
Chickasha, Okla., Nov. 18-19
DEMONSTRATION HDQTRS. New Chickasha Hotel
The American is about the size of a motorcycle, weighing about 300 pounds. It PICKS cotton from the boll, instead of threshing it from the stalk. It is powered by a small gasoline motor, which uses about one gallon of gas per day.
IT PICKS THE COTTON—and does the job rapidly, economically, and cleanly, fluffs out every lock and improves the grade. It "wipes" cotton from "bollies" as well as from open boll.
Thousands have seen it—many dealers already have their franchises—growers are placing their orders for next season's delivery. Mr. Dealer—if your territory is open, take this opportunity to get your franchise. Inquire at headquarters during demonstrations.
The machines are operated by ordinary hand-pickers, without special training or practice.
The price is less than $500. All farmers can own them.
Here is an opportunity for dealers that has never been equalled. The market that awaits this first practical cottonpicker is tremendous. Be sure to attend this demonstration and learn details.
