Thousands expected to watch airshow

Dare devils?
Aerial stunts thrill crowds

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

BIG SPRING — Call them crazy, call them foolish, call them what you will, but Manfred Radius and Johnny Kazian don't consider themselves dare-devil pilots.

Sure the two perform dangerous stunts — Radius swoops upside down in a glider just 20 feet from the ground and Kazian wingwalks without a safety rope — but both have practiced their "death-defying" maneuvers until they can practically do them in their sleep.

The two will show off their skills Saturday and Sunday at the 1989 Vietnam Memorial Airshow at Big Spring McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark. Radius performs in a sailplane, or glider, while Kazian walks on the wings of planes piloted by his partner, Jim Franklin.

Radius, a native of West Germany, must complete his entire routine in an aircraft that doesn't have an engine. His maneuvers, which are unusual for a sailplane, include loops, rolls and the split S, as well as an Immelmann, in which Radius executes a half roll when he reaches the top of a loop.

All of Radius' maneuvers require a specially built aircraft. His was designed and built by a West German woman, and is made of fiberglass.

"It is the fastest, most maneuverable, fully aerobatic, high performance sail plane flying on the airshow circuit," Radius says in his clipped, German accent.

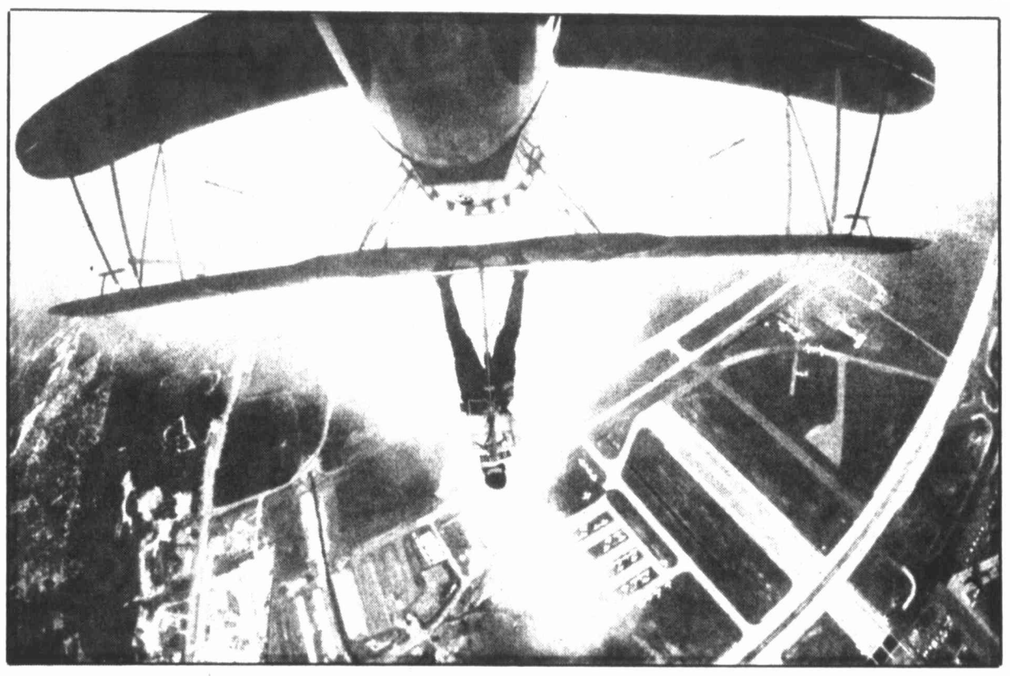

"Most sailplanes are not aerobatic at all. Some are semi-aerobatic and can do loops and rolls.

"(My plane) allows me to fly additionally to those simple maneuvers, snaps rolls, tail slides, outside loops and many combinations of all maneuvers."

Radius's most impressive stunt is his grand finale: the inverted ribbon cut attempt. The maneuver requires him to fly his glider upside down about 25 feet above the ground and through a suspended ribbon.

"I try to fly through and break it in inverted flight," he says. "To my knowledge, I'm the only one in the world to do it now. I call it 'attempt' due to the extreme difficulty. Sometimes I miss it."

Known as the last of the true wing walkers, Johnny Kazian stands on the wing of an upside-down airplane without the aid of wires or ropes.

Kazian and partner Jimmy Franklin will be one of several acts to perform at the Big Spring Airshow Saturday afternoon at the Airpark.

HERALD STAFF REPORT

BIG SPRING — Organizers for the 1989 Vietnam Memorial Airshow expect about 40,000 spectators to trickle through Big Spring Saturday and Sunday.

This year's airshow, the second held by the Vietnam Memorial Committee, will feature a variety of aeobatic acts like wingwalker Johnny Kazian, as well as military performers such as the U.S. Army Parachute Team, the Golden Knights.

The show also will feature displays and exhibits by NASA, the U.S. Border Patrol and the National Guard. Additionally, two local car clubs will display hot rods and vintage cars, and a model airplane club will give a demonstation.

● Related events, Page 10-A

Gates open at 9 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday and the aerial portion of the show will begin at about 1 p.m. each day. Tickets at the gate will be $5 for adults and $4 for students age 7 to 12. Children 6 and under will be admitted free.

The memorial committee is hoping to raise about $75,000 to build a planned memorial to West Texas Vietnam veterans.

The proosed monument features a 13-foot-high obelisk. It will have a 12-foot base, and an eternal flame will burn at the top. The obelisk will be surrounded by a plaza of 21 oak trees representing the 21 people from the area who were killed in action.

Three more oak trees, which will be set apart from the plaza, will represent the county three men still listed as missing in action.

Abortion clinic awarded damages

AUSTIN (AP) — An Austin jury has ordered an anti-abortion group to pay $587,000 in damages to an Austin abortion clinic that was the frequent target of the group's protests, but lawyers for both sides say it is unlikely that the clinic will ever get any of the money.

The organization has no assets, making it virtually impossible for the clinic to collect the damage, lawyers for both sides said Thursday following the verdict.

Karen LaFayette, administrative assistant of The Ladies Center, said the real victory cannot be measured in money.

"The goal was to stop the harassing," said Ms. LaFayette. "I definitely think this is what we need to stop this from happening again."

Austin Rescue leader Rex Moses was also claiming victory and said the decision would not deter the anti-abortion movement "one iota."

B-1 bomber flyby

BIG SPRING — A B-1B bomber entertained hundreds on the west side of the city Thursday afternoon to promote the Big Spring Airshow at the Airpark this Saturday. Along with several other cars that pulled off of West Highway 80 to watch the plane, Shirley Murphy, with children Lance, left, and Mandy, sit on the trunk of their car in front of the runway to watch the incoming plane. The three kept watch of the plane as it flew overhead in the right photo.

Crossroads schedules Halloween activities

By JAMES FLEEHR
Staff Writer

CROSSROADS COUNTRY — Children of all ages can be a part of area Halloween celebrations as schools, civic groups and churches across the Crossroads Country plan nights of carnival fun.

At Bauer Elementary in Big Spring, a Halloween carnival is set Saturday from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., with a costume contest for students planned as the feature event. Today teachers are wearing costumes, said officials at the school.

College Heights officials say the carnival there is planned from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Kentwood has made plans to open the cafeteria at 6 p.m. and the booths for their carnival at 7 p.m. on Saturday.

Marcy Elementary has already celebrated the Halloween season with a carnival held Oct. 15. The next project, said a spokesperson at Marcy, is to have the kids hang Halloween decorations at a nearby convenience store.

Moss activities include a carnival, which runs from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Saturday. The snack bar and kitchen will be open from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m.

"Moss also has a book fair and a "spook room," and a sweet shop that will be open," said Lana Schooler, Parent-Teacher Association president. "At 25 cents a ticket, we are not out to make a profit on this; we usually break even on it. It is just for the kids."

Different rooms at the school will sponsor booths and the special education class will have a duck pond and fishing, she said. The booths, like the cakewalk, will all be manned by parents at Moss, she said.

Washington Elementary will have a Halloween carnival from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, and a costume parade will be held at the Anderson Kindergarten Center, at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Detours removed

BIG SPRING — Confusing detours at Big Spring McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark have been removed just in time for the weekend's airshow.

Big Spring City Manager Hal Boyd said road construction at the airpark was completed Thursday night, leaving all the airpark's roads ready to handle spectators at the 1989 Vietnam Memorial Airshow.

"With the exception of cleaning up and finishing (work), it'll be open for the airshow," Boyd said. "(Price Construction) will come back next week and finish up. They'll finish up some of the shoulders and it's got to be striped with buttons."

Temporary stripes will be painted on the newly-blacktopped roads, he said, so tourists will know where to drive. All of the detours have been removed he said, and the airpark's regular roads will be open to traffic as the airshow allows.

Business seminar

BIG SPRING — Star Com Distributing/ExecuLine Inc. headquartered in Big Spring will host a business seminar Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Star Com is a major electronic/home office wholesale distributor with seven offices and warehouses.

Five offices are located in Texas and two in Oklahoma.

Each year business seminars provide product review, sales and marketing information, service tips, retail financing opportunities and motivational seminars.

Approximately 75 retail firms from outside Big Spring will be present.

Briggs sentenced

MARLIN — A Big Spring man who shot his father-in-law and fired on authorities was sentenced to 10 years in prison after pleading guilty to charges of murder and attempted murder.

Hiley Campbell Briggs, 44, pleaded guilty Oct. 17 to attempted capital murder in the firing on of Falls County Sheriff Larry Pamplin and attempted murder in connection with the shooting of father-in-law Jessie Blan Briggs. Briggs also fired on the three sheriff's deputies and a Department of Public Safety officer, according the the Waco Tribune-Herald.

Briggs injured his father-in-law March 16 with a rifle shot to the neck as Blann was driving his truck by the mobile home owned by Briggs and his wife, which is near Blann's property, Falls County District Attorney Thomas Sehon said in the Tribune Herald.

"It missed his jugular vein by half an inch," Sehon said of the shot.

Blann's vehicle also sustained damage as Briggs continued to fire on the vehicle but he was able to drive away, Sehon said.

Briggs is going through divorce proceedings with his wife, but the reason for his firing on his father-in-law is unclear. Although he was under a district court order to stay away from his wife's property he violated that March 16 when he returned to the property, Sehon said.

Briggs then fired on the officers from behind a car as they approached, Sheriff Pamplin told the Tribune-Herald. The sheriff said he returned fire with a .45-caliber Mac-10 machine gun, and advised Blann he should surrender.

"At that point he gave up," Pamplin said.

Briggs received two, 10-year sentences to run concurrently, after pleading guilty to attempted murder and attempted capital murder. Judge Robert Stem made a finding that Briggs used a dealy weapon in each assault, meaning that he must serve at least one-fourth of his time before he becomes eligible for parole.

Pierce refuses to testify before Congressional subcommittee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former HUD Secretary Samuel Pierce today declared "I committed no illegal or wrongful acts" while in office, but he again refused to answer questions from Congress about scandals in federal housing programs during his tenure.

Rep. Tom Lantos, D-Calif., said his subcommittee's HUD investigation would end after several scheduled hearings and he would not offer immunity to two former Pierce aides who refused to testify.

The subcommittee hearings have "demonstrated a colossal scandal" at HUD, Lantos declared, and two panel members said they are seeking a special prosecutor to investigate Pierce.

The former housing secretary said he was invoking his Fifth Amendment protections against self-incrimination because he believed he had unfairly been made a target of the subcommittee investigation of influence-peddling, fraud and mismanagement at the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"I believe I committed no illegal or wrongful acts," Pierce said in a statement he read to the subcommittee before refusing to answer substantive questions. "I look forward to the time when innuendo and rumors to the contrary are put to rest."

The panel has heard scores of developers and consultants detail political favoritism and mismanagement at HUD during Pierce's tenure but has heard little from former top agency officials of that period.

Pierce, who headed HUD during the entire eight years of the Reagan administration, said he hoped he would soon be able to defend himself against allegations he mismanaged agency programs and was involved in political favoritism.

"I look forward to the day when I can tell my story, and I assure you I have a story to tell," Pierce said. But he refused to do so today, contending several members of the subcommittee had already judged him guilty of "lies and dishonesty."

"I am constrained to conclude that an atmosphere has been created in which I have become a target" of the panel's investigation," Pierce said. "I have been unfairly accused."

"I am constrained to conclude that an atmosphere has been created in which I have become a target" of the panel's investigation," he said. "I have been unfairly accused."

Reps. Charles Schumer of New York and Bruce Morrison of Connecticut, both Democrats, said they were asking the House Judiciary Committee to formally request the Justice Department to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate Pierce.

"Now it's clear Sam Pierce is stonewalling," Schumer said. "If we're going to get to the bottom of this, Justice will have to appoint a special prosecutor."

Pierce appeared before the House Government Operations subcommittee on employment and housing voluntarily in May, but his appearances today and last month, when he first refused to answer questions, were forced by subpoenas issued by the panel.

He also has been subpoenaed to appear again a week from today, but Lantos said he would cancel that hearing because of Pierce's continued refusal to answer questions.

Pierce rejected an offer from Lantos to cancel the hearings today and next week and vacate the subpoenas in exchange for a pledge that the former Cabinet member would testify voluntarily before Thanksgiving.

Pierce said he was snubbing the offer at the advice of his attorneys.

At the beginning of today's hearing, Lantos disclosed that Pierce had asked the government to pay his legal fees, but that HUD has rejected the request.

"The scandals at HUD during the Pierce years have already cost the American people billions of dollars," Lantos said. He praised new HUD Secretary Jack Kemp.

Thrills

Amazingly, Radius sometimes misses the ribbon by flying too low — a mere 17 feet off the ground.

Radius, who has lived in Toronto for 20 years, readily admits his routine is not for the novice, but nor is it as dangerous as it appears. A native of Hamburg, West Germay, the 45 year old has been piloting sailplanes most of his life.

"I started gliders when I was 17 years old in Hamburg," he says. "It's a natural sport. I had never been close to any other aircraft."

A woman pilot introduced him to the sport, he says, and he worked hard to prove himself worthy to the glider pilots there. As his skill developed, his airshow career developed too; with each performance, Radius says he is constantly demonstrating to the fullest the abilities of his glider.

"I do what the glider can do and I do what I can do," he explains. "I have a set routine. Everything is fixed so I know what I want to fly."

Because he has no engine in his craft, Radius must rely on kinetic energy produced as his glider descends to give him the power needed for each maneuver.

Kazian says Radius has refined the science of powering the glider to an art.

"He's an expert at aerial energy managment," Kazian says. "Everything is clockwork. It's precise and I admire his ability."

"It's a very, very great skill he's applying there. It's a calculated risk and he does not do anything stupid."

Radius, who works as a cabinet maker during the winter months, says his precision is a result of constant practice.

"The greatest challenge of my flight is the inverted ribbon cut," he says, but he's done it often enough "that I am relatively safe. It's not so dangerous," as it is difficult.

Kazian says his job isn't so dangerous other. Few would agree that wingwalking is a safe occupation, but Kazian is celebrating his 30th year as a performer.

"We're not dare-devils so much as aerobatic performers," Kazian says. "A dare-devil never looks the same twice and he breaks bones and gets hurt. The king of stuntmen is the one who lives and retires."

He hasn't gotten around to retiring yet, but Kazian may well be the king of stuntmen. When he's not wingwalking at airshows, he and partner Jim Franklin run a unit production company in Hollywood.

Kazian has doubled for the likes of Robert Redford, James Brolin and Lee Majors, and has performed stunts for the TV shows The Dukes of Hazzard, The Fall Guy and That's Incredible.

"I'll do intentional crashes," Kazian says of his stunt work, "but never the unintentional. This is my 30th year so I must be doing something right."

Kazian began as a trapeze artist then hit the airshow scene in 1960 as a wingwalker. He is the only wingwalker in the world to perform without any type of safety rope or wire. Kazian says his confidence stems from years of practice and the help of an excellent pilot.

"He (Franklin) was born around airplanes. I've never seen a greater natural pilot than Jim Franklin," Kazian says. "He is the best pilot I have ever seen in my entire life."

As trusting as Kazian is, Franklin must be too because a mistake by the wingwalker can cost both men their lives.

"If I came off that airplane, chances are I'd take off the tail of that airplane, so Jimmy trusts me as much as I trust him," Kazian explains.

The two have performed together for 10 years and have never exchanged a cross word, he says.

And despite their experience, the pair still gets a thrill from going up in a "flying machine."

"People make fun of me," Kazian says. "I get so excited. I yell and scream in the microphone," when narrating Franklin's routine.

"I get just as excited as a little kid and I get just as excited today as I did 30 years ago."

That enthusiasm helps Kazian fight the bane of an experienced wingwaker: complacency.

"When you do this as a profession ... the fact that you do this same act every weekend lends to complacency," he explains. "But the smart man or woman will sit down periodically, look in the mirror, and say 'Hey, knucklehead, this is just as dangerous today as it was 30 years ago.'"

The threat of danger keeps Kazian respectful but never fearful, he says.

"Anything that scares me I won't do because if you're scared, you won't do it well," he says.

Kazian and Radius, however, definitely do it well. The pair have travelled around the world with their acts, winning fans and awards along the way.

Despite the miles they've logged and the cultures they've experienced, Kazian and Radius can still appreciate the finer things that West Texas has to offer.

"I'm happy to be here in Big Spring and I'm impressed with the hospitality I'm experiencing here," Radius says. "People are helpful and friendly."

Kazian echoes those sentiments.

"Big Spring, Texas, is a very, very friendly place," he says. "It's a nice place to come. If for nothing else, the people at the airport are worth performing for."

Halloween

Weather

The Northeast and Midwest were heating up again today, but the wave of warmth was forecast to give way to weekend rains in the Mississippi River Valley and parts of the Southeast.

Over the weekend, rain is expected in parts of Florida, south Georgia and possibly coastal South Carolina. The Northeast is expected to have sunny skies through the weekend.

On Thursday, thunderstorms brought heavy rain to southern Texas, where nearly 3 inches of rain fell both at Victoria and western sections of Houston.

Showers and thunderstorms also developed ahead of a cold front crossing Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas. Winds gusted to 55 mph in central Nebraska.

Skies were sunny in the southwestern U.S. and across most of the East on Thursday.

Record highs for the date were recorded Thursday in at least nine communities in the Midwest, as temperatures soared into the 70s as far north as the U.S.-Canadian border.

The high for the nation Thursday was 90 degrees at McAllen, Texas.

New customer

DALLAS (AP) - Employees of an ice cream store turned a would-be holdup man into a paying customer by calling his bluff.

Police said the man walked up to a Baskin-Robbins store in a north Dallas shopping center as employees were closing the store Wednesday night and asked to enter.

Employees let the man in and she said, "This is a holdup," and stuck his hand in the pocket of his jacket, police said.

Archie Shivar, 41, an employee continued to walk toward the back of the store, ignoring the would-be holdup man.

"I'm not kidding. This is a holdup," the man shouted. The man then grabbed an 18-year-old employee and said, "I'll shoot him."

Shivar told police he then told the man, "Show me a gun." The man then took his hand out of his pocket and told Shivar, "I can't shoot anybody."

The man then ordered an ice cream cone, paid for it and left, employees said.

Forbidden fruit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal authorities have been running "fruit stings" along the Rio Grande as they try to crack down on a bustling trade in contraband Mexican mangoes, limes and avocados.

The Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service says it seized 93 tons of forbidden fruit in El Paso over the past year, up from just 33 pounds of prohibited produce confiscated in 1984.

Officials say the four "Fruit Interception Operations" netted 56,350 pounds of contraband produce in the El Paso area.

World's largest oil company plans move to Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — Exxon Corp. will move its corporate headquarters from New York City to the Dallas area next fall, the world's largest oil company announced yesterday.

Chairman Lawrence Rawl said the company had considered moving its headquarters for some time and had evaluated a number of locations.

"We concluded that, on balance, the Dallas area offered the best combination of factors from the standpoint of our employees' personal and professional lives and from an overall business standpoint," he said.

At least 300 headquarters employees will be affected by the relocation.

Exxon is the biggest energy company in the world and the third-largest U.S. industrial company, with sales of more than $87.5 billion in 1988.

Its departure from New York reflects a broader trend by large companies to relocate in areas that are more affordable.

Paul Whitman, executive vice president of the Henry S. Miller real estate firm in Dallas confirmed the report.

Whitman said his company will close on a deal for 132 acres in Las Colinas, a Dallas suburb, for a new corporate headquarters. He said the deal should be closed in about 120 days.

Whitman said people could begin working in the offices in August of 1990, in leased space in a Las Colinas office tower.

"The value of the move is not so much in the number of people they're bringing, but it is the highest level of Exxon Corporation, and the prestige they're bringing to the area," Whitman said.

Exxon will build a facility, Whitman said.

The announcement ends weeks of speculation over the identity of a corporation that was rumored to be considering a move to the Dallas area.

"We concluded that, on balance, the Dallas area offered the best combination of factors from the standpoint of our employees' personal and professional lives and from an overall business standpoint."

Whitman said the code name "Everglades" was used to conceal in initial talks over the move "just because we didn't think it would help the situation" if Exxon's name got out.

For weeks rumors circulated the Everglades was 3M Corp. 3M denied any plans to move to the Dallas area again Thursday.

Bob Doan, president of the Irving Chamber of Commerce, which includes the Las Colinas area, said he was not clued in on the move.

"This is the first time we've had a relocation come in and nobody actually knew who the code name related to."

Exxon has, in the Greater Houston area, about 12,500 employees. Houston Exxon spokesman Les Rogers said a move would probably affect only the New York employees.

Other leading U.S. companies historically based in New York also have been leaving or expressed their intention to, partly because of the high cost.

J.C. Penney & Co., for example, moved its headquarters from New York to the Dallas area in 1987, saving about $60 million a year in office and administration expenses. American Airlines moved to the Dallas-Fort Worth area in 1979.

GTE Corp. broke ground in August in Las Colinas for a telephone operations complex that will employ 3,600. It is expected to be finished in mid-1991.

Dallas is considered one of the most attractive areas for corporate relocations. Fortune Magazine ranked the city as No. 1 for business in its Oct. 23 issue, calling it "the most diverse and dynamic economic base in the U.S."

Rawl did not specify how much money Exxon might save by the relocation from New York, where it occupies a skyscraper in the heart of midtown Manhattan.

NEW YORK — Exxon Corp., the world's largest oil company, announced its intention to move from its New York headquarters in New York, shown here, to Dallas next fall. The move follows similar actions by other top companies because of New York's high costs.

New leak halts search for victims

PASADENA, Texas (AP) — Crews cleaning up a Phillips Petroleum Co. plastics plant damaged by explosions and fire found two more bodies, and rescuers continued a round-the-clock search for 15 more employees still missing.

Thursday's search was halted temporarily when officials discovered a hydrocarbon leak at the plant, which was ripped apart by a series of explosions Monday.

The two workers were found Thursday night outside a reactor control room, said Phillips spokesman Scott Carlberg.

So far, seven victims have been found at the plant. Jeffrey L. Harrison, 36, an 11-year Phillips employee from Houston, is the only victim company officials have identified.

Work was halted for about five hours so other workers equipped with monitors could determine if the level of vapor was dangerous.

"We didn't want to take any chances," Phillips spokesman George Minter said. "When you go into an area like this, with all these pipes, you expect something like this. We feel there is no danger. It's the workers we're looking out for."

"This is the kind of material we said we might encounter," Carlberg said of Thursday's leak. "We're taking an extremely conservative safety measure."

Also on Thursday, workers in another part of the plant scattered when someone spotted a vapor cloud coming out of a pipe that was being purged, Minter said. The cloud, however, was nitrogen, which is not dangerous, he said.

After making sure the area where the hydrocarbon leak was detected was safe, the search resumed at 5 p.m. and the two bodies were discovered later that night. Minter wasn't sure how the leak was corrected.

Texas universities to split $62 million in state grants

AUSTIN (AP) — More than 400 researchers at 32 Texas university campuses will split nearly $62 million in state grants as winners of a state-supported competition that attracted more than 3,000 proposals, the Higher Education Coordinating Board announced.

"This program is a major investment by the people of Texas to nurture research that will strengthen and diversify our economy," said H.M. Daugherty Jr., chairman of the panel that oversees the nation's largest competitive, state-supported research grant program.

"Our Texas faculty researchers are highly talented. By making the most of that talent with these grants, we can foster an environment of research second to none," Daugherty said.

The grants were awarded Thursday under the $40.7 million Advanced Technology Program and the $20.8 million Advanced Research Program, both of which were created by the Legislature to boost research on university campuses.

ATVs: The killing machine

How can otherwise responsible parents expose their children to the risk of crippling injury or death by allowing them to operate dangerously unstable ATVs simply for recreation?

The ATV, or all-terrain vehicle, is a gas-guzzling, motorized vehicle first imported from Japan in the early 1980s. It should be called the killing machine. Manufacturers promise it can go anywhere and thousands of youngsters who have set out to prove just that have been killed or maimed in off-road accidents.

Today there are over 2.5 million three- and four-wheeled ATVs in the United States. Most are being used on the sand dunes and hills of the West. Each is a lure to youngsters who commonly risk their lives when they flip over trying to do "wheelies."

Every month, some 20 deaths and 7,000 injuries are attributed to ATVs. The total U.S. death toll from 1982 through 1987 was 1,245; more than 300,000 injuries occurred during the same period. And more than half of the victims were children.

In 1988, after a suit by the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, five ATV manufacturers agreed to stop selling the three-wheelers in the United States and to halt the sale of adult-sized four-wheel machines to children under 16.

Now, however, a consumer organization known as U.S. Public Interest Research Group has charged that more than half of the 215 dealers contacted in nine states, including California, are promoting ATV use by youngsters. This is because the dealers are willing to sell adult-sized machines for use by a 10-year-old child.

As a result, consumer organizations are asking that dealers and manufacturers should be prohibited by law from selling adult ATVs for use by children. Unfortunately, such a law would be unenforceable, inasmuch as the dealer cannot control who ultimately gets behind the wheel. Moreover, such a law would wrongly fix the blame for misuse of ATVs on manufacturers and dealers.

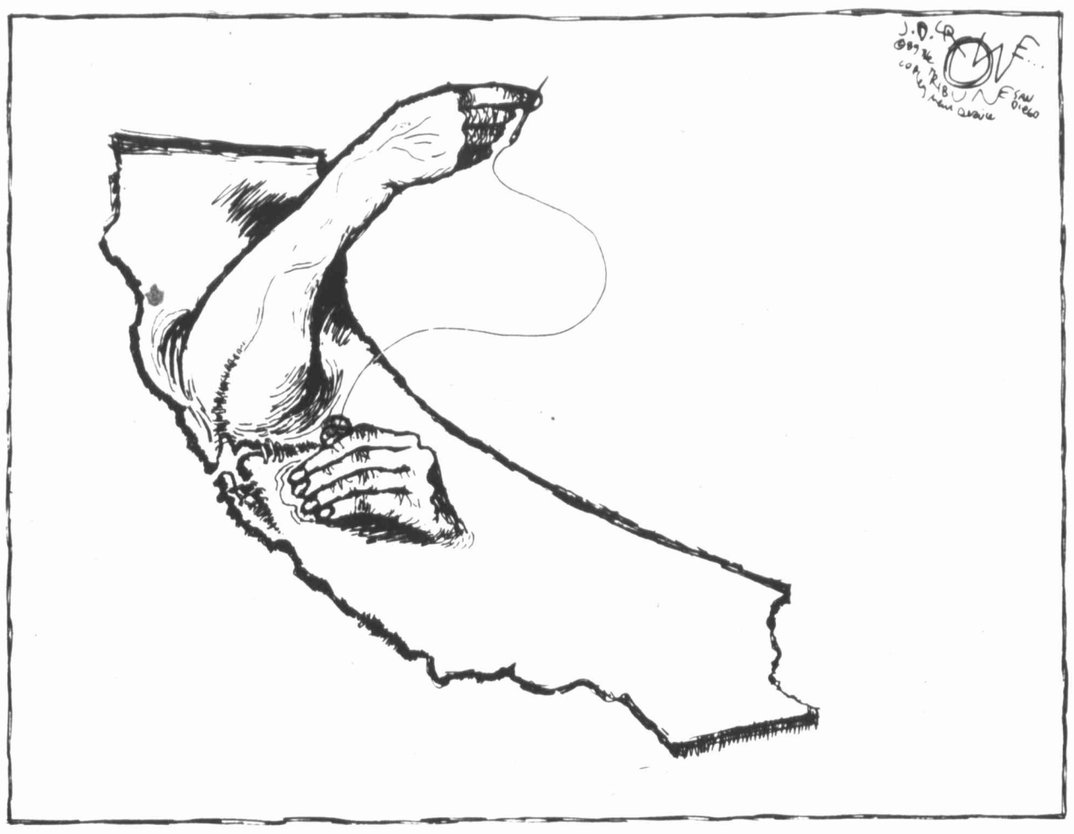

The real obligation to keep children off ATVs rests squarely with parents and other machine owners.

The consumer groups should redirect their efforts to educating the masses about ATV hazards. Too few parents realize the mortal dangers that attend the use of ATVs by children, most of whom lack both the judgment and coordination to control the vehicles safely.

If any new law is needed, perhaps it is one making it a crime for the owner of an ATV to permit anyone under 16 to drive it.

Earthquakes also teach man a lesson

By GEORGE F. WILL

WASHINGTON — San Francisco's geography is histrionic — its fogs can be as spectacular as the vistas they obscure — and its geology is downright dangerous. On Oct. 17 that geology taught the nation three lessons. They concern the predictability of some surprises, the sovereignty of nature and the web of dependencies that define civic life.

The earth's shell is composed of numerous plates from 45 to 95 miles thick, slowly migrating. North America — The United Plates of America, as a geologist calls it — is united only for now. This "collage of wandering fragments" (geologists are phrasemakers) may disperse to form new aggregations in a few hundred million years.

Meanwhile, California straddles two plates, one moving south, the other north. No good can come of this. Sudden slippages between plates produce quakes, and not only in the West.

Quakes around New Year, 1811-12, near New Madrid, Missouri, reached perhaps 8.8 on today's Richter scale. They reversed the flow of the Mississippi, altered its course, caused waves in the Earth several feet high and rang church bells in Boston. Last November, a 6.0 quake hit rural Quebec. In 1983, a 6.5 quake shattered Coalinga, Calif. The scale is logarithmic: San Francisco's 1906 quake (8.3) was 90 times more powerful than Coalinga's and less powerful than Alaska's 1964 quake (8.4).

There are between 2,500 and 10,000 measurable tremors during a normal day on this fidgety planet. (Instruments can measure ground movements the size of an oxygen molecule.) Big quakes are rare. They also are certainties.

Earth sciences predicted the 1980 eruption of Mount St. Helens and six months ago Science magazine examined evidence that "dangerous quakes are closing in on the San Francisco area." A 1976 quake in China killed 400,000, but in 1975 the evacuation of a Chinese city in response to a correct prediction saved an estimated 100,000 lives. As a predictive science, seismology is still developing, but it suggests that a big quake is highly likely in eastern America within 30 years.

Tuesday's quake should concentrate minds. One-tenth of all Americans live in California. One-quarter of the semiconductor industry is in one county near the San Andreas fault. About 47,000 Americans die each year in motor vehicle accidents, the equivalent of a major plane crash every day. An 8-strength quake — smaller than 1906, larger than 1989 — could kill that many in 15 minutes. Only 60 people died when Charleston, S.C., shook for eight minutes in 1886, but people then did not live in high-rise structures over natural gas lines and downwind from chemical plants.

George F. Will

An earthquake once shook the Western mind. It struck Lisbon on All Saints' Day, 1755, killing thousands in churches and thousands more who, fleeing to the seashore, were drowned by a tidal wave. It was as though nature were muttering "Oh, really? Says who?" in response to mankind's expanding sense of mastery. The quake was an exclamation point inserted arbitrarily into the Age of Reason, raising doubts about the beneficence of the universe and God's enthusiasm for the Enlightenment.

In this secular age, when the phrase "acts of God" denotes only disasters, we still can learn lessons from them. One of the striking vignettes from television coverage of the aftermath of San Francisco's quake was a policeman exhorting citizens to "go home and prepare for 72 hours without services." Perhaps no electricity, no gas, no running water for three days. Of course mankind lived for millennia without any of those. Today, however, our well-being depends on a network of many systems too easily taken for granted.

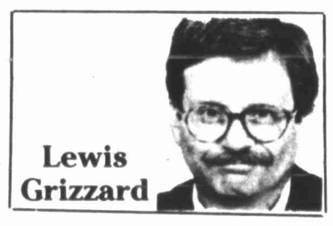

The words civic, civil, citizen have a common root. They originally pertained to residents of cities. It is in these complex creations — cities — that we see the truth of the phrase "social fabric." Any community, but especially a modern city, is a rich weave of diverse threads. The strength of each thread is derived from its relation to the rest. All the threads can snap or unravel when the fabric is ripped by jagged events. San Francisco's fabric has been strained but not torn.

From any catastrophe some good can come. It is no bad thing to be reminded — the world relentlessly sees to this — of the fragility of all social arrangements. Americans, for whom individualism is instinctive, need periodic reminders that their individual pursuits of happiness are utterly dependent upon the functioning of civic, collective community institutions — government — and upon habits of civility of the sort San Franciscans showed in their crisis. An earthquake is a tough teacher but it tells the truth.

Beating a shaky market by stockpiling octopi

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Lewis Grizzard

What I like best about my stockbroker, Norman (Lucky) Sellshort, is he never tiptoes around anything. He's always direct and to the point.

I phoned him recently at his office at Sellshort, Dipsy and Doodle and asked what he thought about the recent fluctuations on Wall Street.

"I don't know," he said.

Like I said, Lucky tells it straight.

"Besides," he continued, "I've got you out of the market."

"Out of the market?"

"Too risky and unpredictable."

"But wait," I said, "if I'm not in the market anymore, what have you done with my money?"

"I have decided it is time to put you in investments that are more steady than the market. One day, the market goes down. The next day, it goes up. Who knows what's going to happen?"

Naturally, I wanted to know what sort of steady investments Lucky had chosen for me.

"For starters, octopuses," said Lucky. "Or is octopi?"

"Who cares what sort of octo it is?" I replied. "Why in the devil have you invested me in something like that?"

"Do you realize," Lucky explained, "that in some countries, such as Greece, octopus is a delicacy?"

"Yeah," I said. "And in some places they eat dogs, too. But what's that got to do with me and my money?"

"You buy a bunch of octopuses and then sell them to grocery stores," said my stockbroker. "The grocery stores put them in those tanks with the lobsters and octopuses are cheaper than lobsters and even if nobody wants to eat one, every kid in town will want one for a pet, and you'll make a killing."

"What else?" I asked Lucky, somewhat reluctantly.

"I've put you in a container company that will soon introduce toothpaste tubes where it's better to squeeze from the top down."

"And this is going to make me money?"

"Of course. Don't you know how many wives gripe at their husbands for not squeezing the toothpaste tube from the bottom up.

"This new container will be an instant hit, and you'll make another bundle."

"Anything else?"

"A Japanese horseshoe company," said Lucky.

"A what?"

"A Japanese company that is going to introduce the game of horseshoes into Japan. It costs a million to join a golf club over there, and a horseshoe game will go for only $39.95, American. Everybody in Japan who can't afford to join a golf club will get a yen and play horseshoes."

Comedian stockbrokers.

"Don't tell me there's more?"

"One other thing," said Lucky. "You know killer bees are headed to America."

"I've been hearing about that for years."

"Well," Lucky went on, "they're coming and I've invested you heavily in a company in L.A. that is going to produce chastity belts for female killer bees. You put 'em on those little suckers and they can't reproduce — and no more killer bees. You'll make a fortune."

"Lucky," I asked, "who's going to catch the female killer bees and hold them down while somebody puts chastity belts on them?"

"Had you rather worry about that or about a rumor there will soon be a world-wide shortage of vermouth that will send the Dow plummeting?"

"I guess you're right," I said. "When is the first shipment of octopi due?"

Many prisons do little to reform inmates

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — A Washington, D.C., police detective wheels through the ghetto with an informant in the back seat of the car, sipping from a can of Schlitz Malt Liquor. The passenger slumps low in the seat. He can't afford to be seen with a cop in this neighborhood, even in an unmarked car.

They pull into a parking lot and the detective quizzes the informant about top-level drug dealers in Washington. The answers are mumbled. Our associate Jim Lynch is in the car, and the informant is cagey.

The man is fresh out of the Lorton Correctional Complex, a graduate school for Washington's drug merchants. They may go in with the equivalent of a high school education in crime, but they come out with a Ph.D.

The informant brightens when asked to describe life at Lorton, located in a northern Virginia suburb of Washington. It sounds much like life on the streets of the nation's capital. "You can get everything in there you can get out here," he says. "Guys smoke crack right there in their bunks...I walked into the bathroom once and saw a guy shooting up."

For the detective, the litany is a painful rerun of what narcotics officers all over the country are seeing. They work long nights, wearing bulletproof vests, compiling the elusive evidence needed to get criminals off the street and into prison. But this detective has stopped expecting places like Lorton to scare them straight. "I think even if someone went there wanting to reform, they couldn't," he says.

It's easy to find your drug of choice in Lorton, says the informant. You just have to pay more. Inmates will trade five packs of cigarettes for half a joint of marijuana. He claims some of those drugs are smuggled in by guards, for a price. It happens in the D.C. city jail, too, he says. One Christmas, about 20 of the 80 jail inmates in his dorm celebrated by getting high on marijuana, the informant says. He swears the pot was supplied by a guard.

The contraband in Lorton is well-hidden when guards come around for shakedowns. A street-wise inmate is never surprised by unannounced inspections. The going rate to pay a guard for advance notice is $50, which buys inmates time to stash their goods, including guns and prison-made blades, according to the informant.

"The correctional system is a microcosm of the community at large and is affected by the same problems."

A spokeswoman for both the D.C. jail and Lorton wouldn't talk to us about the allegations. She would only say, "The correctional system is a microcosm of the community at large and is affected by the same problems."

Except that taxpayers don't expect prison to be a "microcosm." They expect it to be a place where people are punished and reformed, not an expensive finishing school for drug dealers.

Jack Anderson

The informant explains that heads of drug gangs often continue running their businesses from inside Lorton. They call from prison pay phones and talk in a street code. Those outside contacts can be intimidating to guards. From behind bars, an inmate can threaten guards with what his friends on the outside can do.

It's against the rules in Lorton to have money or valuables, but those who are used to strutting their status on the outside find ways to do it on the inside too. The informant talks about a Lorton inmate who wears a gold necklace and always sports a new pair of high-top sneakers.

In Lorton, a "lockdown" is punishment — two weeks in solitary confinement. But the informant laughs it off. Even in lockdown, an inmate can get drugs.

The detective calls Lorton "out of control." Why does he still work so hard to send people there? "You just can't sit and do nothing," he shrugs.

He pulls his car to a dark stretch of road and tells the informant to keep his "nose clean."

"Yeah, yeah," the informant says as he steps out into the night.

"He's a night person," the detective says. "If he could find a night job, he might be able to keep it."

FALL FROM GRACE — Secretary of State James Baker lost his golden-boy glow in the fumbled coup in Panama. Career foreign service officers are flabbergasted that Baker didn't take advantage of the confusion to seize Manuel Noriega. As one high-level State Department official told us, "Everyone's scrambling to find out why Baker failed. That was a real crisis. That wasn't a fire drill. There was a blaze and we didn't send any fire trucks." Baker is known for having the best antennae in the Bush administration. Those who work for him are now wondering why he didn't tune in.

MINI-EDITORIAL — As part of its new, pre-election image, the Sandinista government of Nicaragua is making peace with the Miskito Indians of Nicaragua's Atlantic Coast. The oppressed and abused Miskitos are coming home, but they had better keep their bags packed. The aura of cooperation in Nicaragua these days is a veneer to convince the rest of the world that the country can responsibly mind its own business. If the Sandinistas maintain power after the election, their enemies may need to beat a hasty retreat.

Police struggle to retake prison

CAMP HILL, Pa. (AP) — Police struggled to regain control of an overcrowded state prison today after a second night of riots by more than 1,000 inmates who seized hostages, set off explosions and torched buildings.

"At one point, all inmates were out of all the cell blocks," said Ken Robinson, state Corrections Department spokesman, though not all of the 2,600 inmates were actively involved in the rioting.

At least 84 people have been injured in the rampages, including 40 Thursday night. No deaths have been reported.

About 500 state troopers, with local police and firefighters, began to retake the Camp Hill medium-security prison early today.

Jane Pauley to leave 'Today' show

NEW YORK (AP) — After 13 years of predawn "Today" wakeups, co-host Jane Pauley confirmed to a national audience this morning that she's leaving the NBC show at year's end. She hugged her successor, Deborah Norville and gave her an alarm clock.

Pauley's farewell announcement, in which she said she'll most miss working with co-host Bryant Gumbel, was preceded by his comments in which he criticized "idle and often erroneous speculation" about the troubled, top-rated show.

Gumbel said the speculation had been "much to the detriment of all of us here."

Pauley had been reported to be unhappy at recent changes on the show, including the Sept. 5 arrival of Norville as its news anchor, succeeding John Palmer.

Pauley, who turns 39 on Tuesday and has two years remaining on an NBC contract reportedly paying her $1.2 million annually, is going to anchor a prime-time news series next year, sources have said.

SEARCHERS

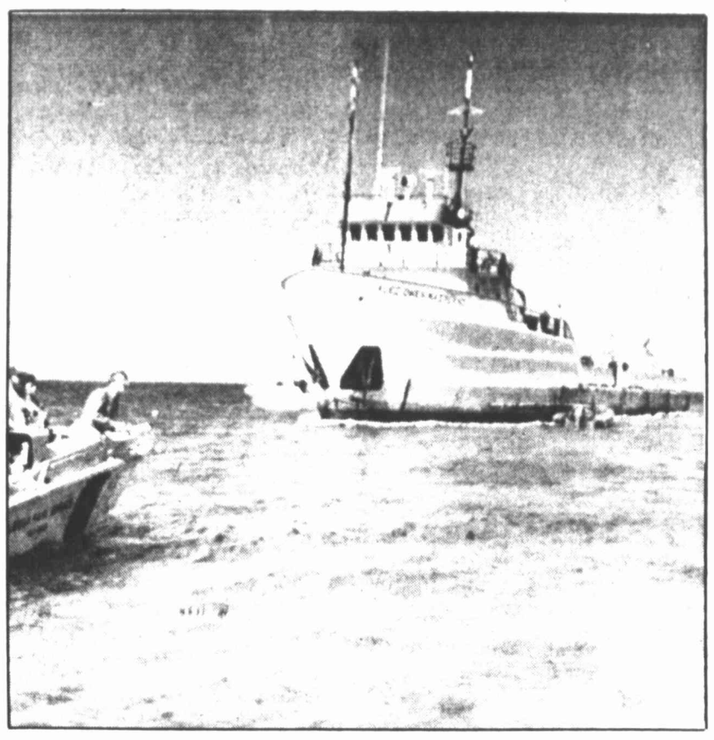

ST. JOSEPH, Minn. (AP) — The sheriff's office installed extra phones hoping that a caller will respond with news of the whereabouts of an 11-year-old boy abducted at gunpoint.

More than 40 deputies set out on horseback Thursday to search dry fields near the spot where Jacob Wetterling was abducted by the masked man dressed in black Sunday evening, but they found nothing.

Jacob was riding bikes after dark with his 10-year-old brother, Trevor, and an 11-year-old friend in this central Minnesota town of 2,200 people. The trip to a convenience store to rent a videotape was the boy's first trip out by himself at night, said his father, Jerry Wetterling.

On the way back to the Wetterlings' house, the boys were accosted by a man who had what appeared to be pantyhose pulled over his head to distort his facial features.

The two boys who escaped told police the man pulled a gun and ordered them to run away.

Freighter aground

Congress approves bill to intervene in strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is taking action in an effort to resolve the 8-month-old Eastern Airlines strike.

"We are delighted that the Senate has approved this labor-supported proposal, which provides a process that should lead to a fair and equitable settlement of the Eastern Airlines strike," AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland said about Thursday's vote.

President Bush has refused to involve the government in the dispute despite his well-established power under the Railway Labor Act. Bush has said he wants management and the employees to resolve the dispute.

The Senate, on a 65-35 vote, approved its version of a bill to create a commission to resolve the strike affecting about 30,000 machinists, flight attendants and pilots who have been off the job since March. 3.

The House earlier approved a similar measure.

The Senate version would create a four-member bipartisan commission consisting of one House member and one senator from each party, appointed by the respective party leaders in Congress.

Fifty-five Senate Democrats were joined by 10 Republicans in supporting the bill. No Democrats voted against it.

Bush's Republican allies have tried for almost as long as the strike to forestall a vote, but Senate Democrats voted earlier this month to close debate.

Metzenbaum cited 34 occasions in which presidents have appointed emergency boards, settling 26 strikes.

East Germany declares amnesty

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's new leadership today declared an amnesty for all citizens accused of illegally trying to escape from the communist nation, a move expected to free several thousand people from prison.

The amnesty also would allow tens of thousands of East Germans who have fled to West Germany through Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland in recent months to return home without facing criminal prosecution.

The announcement came a day after more than 100,000 people rallied in Dresden and other East German cities for democratic reform, and a Politburo member began talks with a leading opposition group.

The amnesty, which also covers those who took part in illegal street protests, is the firmest step toward reform since Egon Krenz replaced long-time leader Erich Honecker as Communist Party chief on Oct. 18.

It was announced by the official news agency ADN, which said all prisoners affected would be freed by Nov. 30. Although East Germany does not release information on inmate numbers, Western sources said the measure would affect thousands.

No survivors in China plane crash

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Rescuers located 31 badly burned bodies amid the wreckage of a China Airlines jet today, a day after the plane crashed in a remote valley with 54 people on board, officials and news reports said.

The official Broadcasting Corporation of China said there were no signs of survivors. A Los Angeles man was believed to have been the only foreigner on the plane.

The Boeing 737-200 slammed into a mountain and burst into flames five minutes after taking off from Hualien, a popular tourist resort on the island's east coast.

The jet was en route from Hualien to Taipei, about 90 miles northeast.

The radio said rescuers found 31 bodies strewn in deep grass in the highlands valley and began the arduous task of carrying them on the three-hour walk down the mountain to Hualien. Rescuers also found limbs and other body parts, the radio said.

Anderson: 5th birthday as hostage

TERRY ANDERSON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Terry Anderson spends a fifth birthday as a hostage today, a grim milestone in his captivity.

Gunmen seized the 42-year-old Anderson on March 16, 1985, after a game of tennis that had been a brief respite from his reporting on Lebanon's civil war.

He has not held his daughter, born three months after the morning he was kidnapped. He probably does not know that his father and brother died of cancer.

The fate of Terry A. Anderson, journalist and non-combatant, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, now appears to be caught up in a power struggle between Shiite Moslem radicals and moderates.

He was kidnapped in Moslem west Beirut by Islamic Jihad.

GIVE THANKS TO GOD FOR THE LIBERTY IN OUR LAND

Through history, man's liberty
Was sought in every land.
They set their sights on human rights
That all of us demand.
We have today the right to say
The words that we profess,
Like those you'll read and then concede
As freedom of the press.
To meet with friends, it all depends
On vigil we maintain;
For while we're free, we'll never be
Required to explain.
And any way we choose to pray,
We have that guarantee;
So thank the Lord for this reward,
And keep our nation free.

Divorced husband rejected by kids

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: The hardest thing about my divorce is that my children no longer want anything to do with me. They blame me for the divorce. I admit I wasn't a perfect husband, but it really hurts me to know I will never see them, or attend their weddings or some day know my grandchildren. Can I do anything to build a bridge between us? — N.F.

DEAR N.F.: By its very nature divorce brings division — and often that division is lasting and very hurtful. I often say that one reason divorce was not part of God's perfect plan for marriage is that He knew the pain and broken relationships it would cause.

Can you do anything to reverse the damage that has been done, particularly with your children? Yes, you can. First, take whatever opportunity you have to let them know you still love them. Remember their birthdays, for instance, and other special days. (Don't go overboard with gifts, however; it will look like you're trying to buy their affection.)

Then, I urge you to write them what you have written me — an honest letter in which you admit your failures and say frankly how much you regret what has happened. Ask their forgiveness for whatever pain you have caused them (if you sincerely have faced the fact of your responsibility). But don't get caught in a game of emotional tug-of-war, trying to win them away from their mother. Let them know that you still value them and hope some day the bridge will be restored. It may take time, and you need to guard against pushing too rapidly, but things can change. "A patient man calms a quarrel" (Proverbs 15:18).

Most of all, I urge you to turn to Christ and seek His forgiveness and help in remaking your life. He can bring healing even when things seem impossible.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My wife keeps getting after me because I use some language she doesn't approve of. I admit I swear a lot but it's just a habit and I don't mean much by it. What is the harm of such things? It's very common today and everyone talks that way. — J.O'D.

DEAR J.O'D.: Yes, it is very common, and I'm afraid it has become even more common on television and in print. Just because something is common, however, doesn't mean it's right — and that's the case here.

The Bible is very clear; one of the Ten Commandments that God gave to us states: "You shall not misuse the name of the Lord your God, for the Lord will not hold anyone guiltless who misuses his name" (Exodus 20:7). The Bible also says, "But among you there must not be ... obscenity, foolish talk or coarse joking, which are out of place" (Ephesians 5:3-4). One reason, therefore, for guarding our speech is that God has commanded us to be pure in what we say.

But why is profane and obscene language wrong in God's eyes? For one thing, when we use the name of God without thinking and in a casual way, we are actually mocking God and showing we have no respect for Him. In addition, swearing often is aimed at other people, and tears them down (often behind their back). It shows we have no respect or love for them, and are setting ourselves above them -- which is wrong. Profanity also can be a sign of anger and jealousy -- things which shouldn't control us.

But there is a deeper issue at stake here -- and that is your relationship to God. If you are honest, you'll admit that you are indifferent to God. But should you be that way? No; instead you should have Him at the center of your life. You need Christ and my prayer is that you will turn your life over to Him.

Dialogue gives cheer to pastor

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in our continuing series of short devotionals by area pastors. This one is written by Gary Smith, pastor of the Big Spring First Church of the Nazarene.

By GARY SMITH

I heard a conversation recently that brought a smile to my face and added courage to my heart.

The dialogue went something like this:

"Joe, how are you doing today?" said the inquirer. "Quite well, under the circumstances," responded Joe.

The inquirer came back and said, "What are you doing under there!" He continued, "You'll never make it that way. Get ABOVE the circumstances — that's where Jesus waits to help and strengthen you!"

Joe decided to quit wallowing in self-pity and sadness and began to look to the Lord for the positive. He climbed out and gained the victory!

In Philippians 1:12, Paul was writing from a jail cell, having every right to be "under the circumstances", but decided to proclaim, "...my circumstances have turned out for the greater progress of the gospel ... (v. 14) and because of my imprisonment, have far more courage to speak the word of God without fear." (ASV)

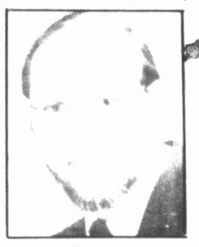

In this "pressure-cooker" world in which we live, it is so easy to get depressed, distraught and downhearted. But, there is a way out! God has provided an escape from the pressures of the world, the traps of fleshly desires that bring personal destruction, and the attacks of Satan himself.

"We are more than conquerors through Him (Jesus Christ) that loved us." Romans 8:37 (KJV)

Get on top; make this the greatest day of your life. It's up to you!

Mission weekend

BIG SPRING — The Wesley United Methodist Church will host a Mission Awareness Weekend, Oct. 28 and 29 at the Wesley United Methodist Church, 12th and Owens.

WEST

The weekend will begin Saturday with a pot luck dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the Memorial Hall. Rev. Paul West will be the speaker.

West has been active in missionary work for many years. He served under the Board of Missions as a missionary in Malaysia from 1964 to 1974. He served the United Methodist Church on the Navajo Reservation, Shiprock, N.M. for 13 years and then served as the director of the 4 Corners United Methodist Ministry to Navajos. He organized and supervised the construction of an Alcohol Counseling center in Shiprock and completed the building of a two story abuse shelter for women and children.

The Mission Awareness weekend will continue Sunday morning with West sharing with the Youth Department and Joyce Cooper speaking to the adult Sunday school classes in Memorial Hall.

Cooper was commissioned as a Deaconess in the United Methodist Church in 1974. She has toured Israel, Jordan, Egypt and Syria while taking a history/religion course on the Middle East. She has attended several World Federation of Deaconesses and Sisterhood conferences. Currently, Cooper is teaching in an illiteracy program.

West will speak during the worship service at 10:50 a.m. Cooper will conclude the weekend by speaking at the worship service at 6 p.m.

Songs and food

BIG SPRING — A special singing will take place from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at Birdwell Lane Baptist Church. A fellowship meal will be served afterwards in the fellowship hall.

Everyone is invited to come and share a great time of singing God's songs.

CWF bazaar

BIG SPRING — The 22nd annual bazaar held by Christian Women's Fellowship of First Christian Church will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the church on Nov. 4.

The different booths this year will include various handcrafted items, baked goods, Christmas decorations, plants and a white elephant table.

A luncheon is included and will be served in the Fellowship Hall from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Take out orders will be filled and telephone orders will be delivered to those who want this service. The price will be $3.75 for adults, $2 for children and $4 for carry out or deliveries; for deliveries call 267-7851.

Deweys in concert

BIG SPRING — Levoy Dewey and his wife, Cleon will be in concert at the Evangel Temple, Assembly of God Church, 2205 Goliad, on Sunday at 6 p.m. A free-will offering will be recieved during the concert and nursery care will be provided for children.

Levoy Dewey is considered one of the finest singers in gospel music today. He has recorded with the London Philharmonic Orchestra, made personal appearances in more than 33 countries around the world over the past 25 years and, along with his wife Cleon, co-authored one of the all-time great gospel songs, "Heaven's Sounding Sweeter.

Levoy is proficient on the saxaphone, valve-trombone, stringed instruments, clarinet and bassoon while his wife, Cleon, is an accomplished keyboard artist. Together, they have recorded four instrumental albums and they always include several exciting instrumental numbers in every concert appearance.

Singles course

BIG SPRING — A five week course for singles, "God's Will: Mine or Thine?", begins Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. It is sponsored by the First United Methodist Church.

All singles are invited to enroll. The course will provide singles an opportunity to explore the will of God and its relationship to their own will, church officials said. It will also provide a forum in which to consider their particular set of circumstances inlight of their understanding of God's will.

Focus for the session is to provide answers to such questions as: "Does God really have a plan for my life? Does He have a plan for each person? How can this be, if those around me can be hurt by the choices I make in my own free will? Which is stronger, man's will or God's will? If His will is stronger, why does He let me get in such messes? How can I plug into His will?"

Teaching the men is Jack Abendschan, a Methodist minister, and spiritual director for the Hi-Sky Emmaus Community, Midland. Teaching the women's group is Jackie Henry, an educator, and director for the Personal Achievement Center, Big Spring.

To enroll, or for further information, call Bryan Fink, director of education, First United Methodist Church, 267-6394.

Halloween dance

BIG SPRING — Sacred Heart Church will have a Halloween Dance at the county fair barn on Oct. 28 from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Music will be provided by Twin City Band featuring Willie Mendoza and Tony Barrientes.

The cost for the dance will be $7.50 for advance tickets and $10 at the door. Advance tickets may be purchased at Jimmy Marin's, Casa Blanca, Dominguez Texaco and Josie De Leon. Tables will be for rent at the Fair Barn.

There will be prizes for the best dressed costumes, $50 for first place, $25 for 2nd and 3rd places. Proceeds from the dance benefits the Sacred Heart Chruch.

Ex rector appointed

ALBURQUERQUE — Episcopal Bishop Terance Kelshaw has appointed the Rev. Harland B. (Steve) Birdwell, former rector of St. Mary the Virgin, to be the new Canon to the Ordinary in Alburquerque, N.M. He began duties on Oct. 1.

BIRDWELL

Fr. Birdwell began his ministry at All Saints' in Colorado City and St. Stephen's, Sweetwater, after training at the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Kentucky.

Fr. Birdwell served the Church as Headmaster and rector of St. Mary's from 1968 to 1980. He then went to Rosewll, N.M. where he earned a reputation as a church builder, concerned for the nurture and well being of the congregation.

When time away from official duties allows, Fr. Birdwell enjoys playing jazz trumpet, gardening, bird watching, and says he is a "frustrated" builder/designer.

He and his wife, Charlene, are proud of their family. Their son, Scott, is married and currently living in Houston and is the father of their youngest grandchild. Cynthia, their daughter, is married to a local optometrist, Dr. John Marshall, and has two children, Kristen and Zachary.

Great day planned

BIG SPRING — Iglesia Bautista Central, 22nd and Lancaster, will celebrate "Great Day in the Morning" with a high attendance emphasis in sunday school and morning worship service.

Activities for the day include coffee and donuts for everyone attending at 8:45 a.m., Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and the worship service at 10:50 a.m. A meal will be served immediately after the worship service for all those attending.

Special guest for the day will be Richard Gonzales, Rockdale, an evangelistic singer and pianist, who has served at Metro Park Baptist Church in San Antonio.

Gonzales will present music concerts in both the morning and evening worship service. The evening worship service will begin at 6 p.m.

The public is invited to these special activities. A nursery will be provided for children three years of age or younger.

Homecoming '61

BIG SPRING — The First Church of the Nazarene will be celebrating it's 61st anniversary in Big Spring at 10 p.m. Sunday.

Services will begin at 10 a.m., according to Pastor Gary Smith, with special guests the Jory Waldon Family, who will minister with songs of praise and worship.

Following the service, there will be a dinner on the grounds for everyone who attends.

The First Church of the Nazarene was organized in Big Spring in April of 1928 by Rev. C.C. Montandan.

The congregation began by worshipping in the district courtroom of the courthouse when it was first formed. Later property was donated on Young Street and it was there the church was organized and began worshipping in a small basement church.

The First Church of the Nazarene is now located at 1400 Lancaster in a sanctuary constructed in 1983.

AUSTIN — Texas State Trooper Barry Washington, left, is presented an award for his law enforcement efforts by Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox Thursday in Austin. Washington, who works in Panola County, received a Special Merit Award for his efforts.

Lawmen honored

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox honored three lawmen at a news conference Thursday, but his Texas law officer of the year was an undercover narcotics officer who couldn't appear before the cameras.

"He is not here for a reason," Mattox explained of Dallas narcotics detective Frank A. Perez, who preferred that his face not become public knowledge. "He is an undercover police officer."

"Detective Perez exemplifies the idea of making the drug pushers meet the slammer. In the past two years, he has put 325 drug dealers behind bars and taken more than $8 million in dangerous drugs off the street.

"He meets face to face with the lowest elements of society, people who are killing our future by drugging our children, people who have no morals or ethics or conscience, people who carry weapons and are quick to use them," Mattox said.

The award is presented annually by the Attorney General's Conference on Law Enforcement.

Also honored was state Trooper Barry G. Washington, who arrested 70 drug dealers and seized $8.8 million in drugs during his patrols in Panola County last year.

"On 45 different occasions in 1988, Trooper Washington used good judgment, intuition, observation, clever questioning and a sensitive nose, to detect more than 1,500 pounds of marijuana and more than 155 pounds of cocaine being smuggled in vehicles traveling through Panola County," Mattox said.

Retired U.S. Marshal Clint T. Peoples was given a special award for 59 years in law enforcement. Peoples has been a deputy sheriff, constable, Texas Ranger, highway patrolman and marshal.

Horseshoes

Welder molds cowboy statues

By ROBERT CARTER
Plainview Daily Herald

PLAINVIEW — After M.O. Stapleton retired last year from his job as a welder and steel building contractor, he says he had to find something to do with his hands other than lift a coffee cup.

He had a porch in back of his house for work space and a welder in a storage shed. With a little imagination, he went to work.

"About March of this year I got to tinkering around with my welder and I started making things out of horseshoes," said Stapleton, 75. "I made statues of cowboys doing various chores like riding a bull, roping a calf and using an anvil."

The horseshoes, heated and bent to their proper shape, are used for the bodies and arms of the cowboys. Each cowboy has a hat. The blackened figures sit on a picnic table on his back porch.

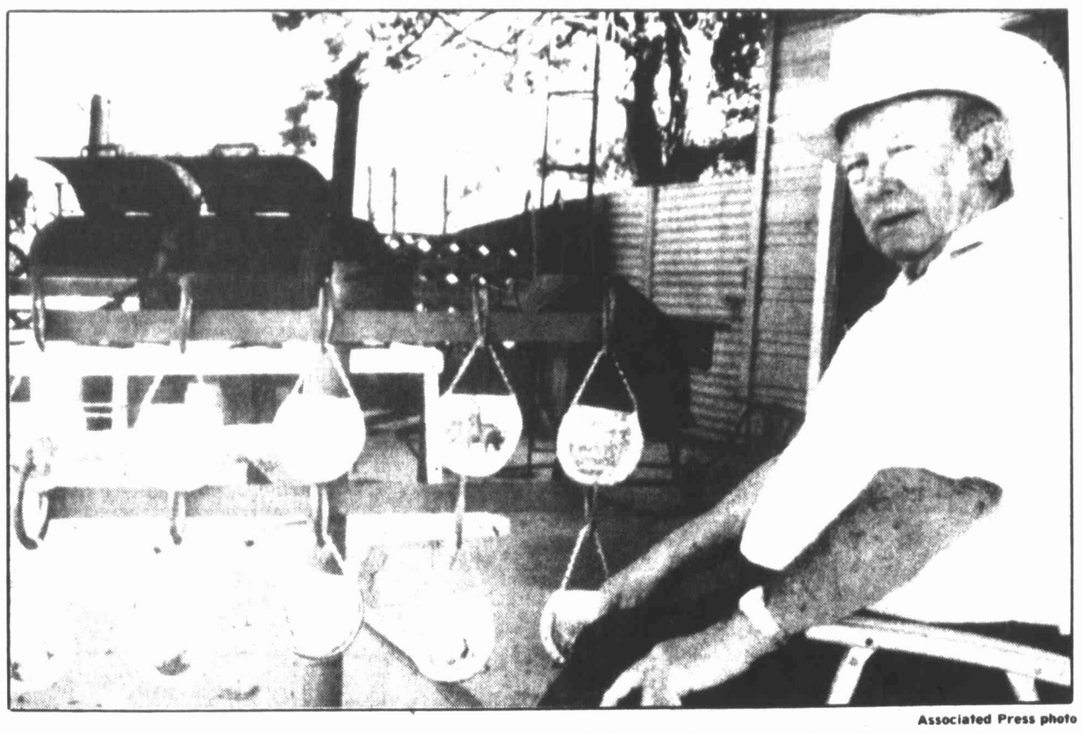

"I started cutting pictures out of a Western calendar and fitting them in the horseshoes," Stapleton said. "I thought it would be nice to have something to represent our pheasant hunting here."

Stapleton uses pictures of pheasants taken in open fields with a simple 35mm camera. "I just frame the pictures with horseshoes."

The frames have a silver chain welded to the horseshoe to allow for hanging.

"I imagine I'll give them away at Christmas," he said. "My son brought me a bucket full of horseshoes and I've picked up discarded horseshoes at places where horses are shod."

Stapleton is no stranger to horses and horseshoes, having moved from Hunt County to Jones County in a 5-wagon train pulled by the stout animals during the early part of this century. In 1925, he moved to Petersburg and in 1945 he and his wife, Iris, moved to Plainview. The couple has three sons, seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Fritch man turns pile of junk into maintainer

By JO ANN MITCHELL
Borger News-Herald

BORGER (AP) — From a "pile of junk" to a dream's come true.

Back in the 1920's, roads around the Durant-Caddo, Okla., area were not paved, and to keep the them in good shape, a horse-drawn road maintainer was a common sight.

But with mechanization, it went the same route as the buggy.

L.R. Iker of Fritch remembers watching the maintainers go up the road while he was hoeing and picking cotton as a young boy.

"Back in 1921-22, the banker moved from Caddo to Durant and the trip took about one day to make. They had the Overland Touring Car and it cost about half a dollar for the 24-mile round trip. Five passengers and a driver could sit in it, but the roads had to be kept up for the vehicle to drive on it," he said.

Iker remembers seeing a friend, Robert Stapleton and his son, drive the road grader up the road to keep it open for the car. The blade would only go in one direction.

"In the wintertime the people riding the touring car would stay overnight at the Dobbs Mule barn and Wagon Yard and come back to Caddo the next day if the road was open," he said.

Iker always wanted a road maintainer.

He left the farm and the Durant area in 1926 and went to work in the oil fields, ending up in Fritch.

Iker spends a lot of his time with his horses and mules and rebuilding buggies. But, for years, he wanted a maintainer. Then his dream came tue.

"A friend, Bill Anderton, found one that was just 'mainly a pile of junk' and he called me about it. He picked it up with a hook and loaded it on the truck. It had been abused and thrown around but I started working on it," he said.

Robert Stegall gave him some assistance in making a gear for the machine, and Iker said it fit just like it was cut right out of the factory.

The maintainer was not the first type of equipment to work on roads in rural Oklahoma. Iker remembers a dirt mover called a frisno that was pulled by two mules.

But it is highly doubtful if the maintainer in its heyday was pulled by two Arabian horses, as Kiker now operates his. Iker has graded a road with the maintainer and leveled his driveway.

"If the county would let me, I'd grade some roads for them," he added.

Iker knows of only two other road maintainers like his in existence but they're not in working order.

Smoke detectors can't smell a thing if batteries are dead

DEAR ABBY: As a firefighter, I am saddened by the number of people who die each year in home fires simply because they did not have working batteries in their smoke detectors.

During the course of our rescue attempts, we keep finding smoke detectors that did not function because the batteries were either worn out or missing.

In the early 1980s, we saw a dramatic decline in the number of home fire deaths because of the wide acceptance of smoke detectors. Now the number of deaths is on the rise again. What a tragedy!

Abby, please help us get the word out that smoke detectors are worthless unless they have batteries in them that work, so on Sunday, Oct. 29, when people should turn back their clocks an hour from daylight-saving time, they should put NEW batteries in their smoke detectors. — JIM ESTEPP, PRESIDENT, INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF FIRE CHIEFS

DEAR JIM: Consider it done! Readers, don't forget, next Sunday, Oct. 29, when you turn back your clocks, change the batteries in your smoke detectors.

DEAR ABBY: Now that fax machines are here, they have become almost a status symbol. They are remarkably speedy and convenient for business correspondence, but how about faxing thank-you notes for social occasions?

Dear Abby

I hope this doesn't catch on. I just received one, and I must say it lacked the warmth and elegance of lovely stationery, as well as the personal touch. Please comment. — NO FAX, PLEASE

DEAR NO FAX: Almost any thank-you note is better than none, but a faxed thank-you is definitely a no-no. It's tantamount to sending a "collect" telegram, because the recipient must pay for the fax paper, which is not exactly petty cash.

DEAR ABBY: Enough is enough. You've turned your advice-to-the-lovelorn column into one crusade after another. Get off smokers' backs!

I just read Susan Ortez's letter about her mother who smoked herself to death (supposedly). Well, my mother has smoked two to three packs a day since she was 14 years old, and she has never coughed once. She's a tiny, fragile woman who will be 92 years old this month.

Her closest friend died of lung cancer. She was 67 — and never smoked a cigarette in her life! — HEALTHY 70-YEAR-OLD SMOKER

DEAR HEALTHY: I am glad you are a healthy 70-year-old smoker. You are very lucky, and your mother appears to be even luckier. There is no arguing with the fact that smoking contributes to lung cancer, bladder cancer and heart disease. Some smokers are luckier than others — but why gamble?

Fire roars through Texas chemical plant

GRAND PRAIRIE (AP) - Plumes of black smoke billowed from a chemical plant fire in this Dallas suburb, but firemen said early today it posed no danger to residents in the Grand Prairie-Arlington area.

The fire erupted about 11 p.m. Thursday at the Poly-America Corp., a firm that manufactures plastic bags and other plastic items, according to Assistant Fire Chief James Smith of the Grand Prairie Fire Department.

No one was injured.

AUSTIN — Texas Governor Bill Clements gives tree-planting instructions to a group of children near the State Capitol Thursday. The Governor was launching "Project Live Oak," a program to increase environmental awareness. The program, which will include the planting of 600 Texas-grown live oaks, is sponsored by ClayDesta Communications.

Toddler gets to stay with adopted dad

AUSTIN (AP) — Child welfare workers have decided against removing a toddler from the custody of a man who, facing a drug charge, sent the 22-month-old boy into hiding for fear of losing him.

Al Slaton, who operates a cluster of unlicensed boarding homes in Temple, was given legal custody of Matthew Bennett by the child's imprisoned mother.

Earlier this month, Slaton was charged with felony possession of a controlled substance, after law officers found methadone in his closet at the Rose Garden complex.

About 40 mentally disabled people live in the complex, which Slaton directs.

Slaton said the drug belonged to a cancer patient who died three years ago at the Rose Garden. The case is pending.

"We're not removing him (Matthew) from Mr. Slaton," said Wanda Pena, Texas Department of Human Services director.

CROSSROADS CHRISTMAS PARADE IS SPONSORED BY THE BIG SPRING HERALD

Friday Football Forecast

Big Spring (4-2, 3-0) at Pecos (3-3, 1-2)

The Big Spring Steers' secondary will get another strong test in this one. Pecos quarterback Monty Medanich and slick wide receiver Dani Talamantez will try to make life miserable for Big Spring.

But it won't, becuse the Steers are too powerful defensively. Big Dpring's offense will continue to roll. QB Rance Thompson will have his fourth strong game. The Steers will be 4-0 in league play.

BIG SPRING 35, PECOS 14

Van Horn (4-3, 1-1) at Stanton (5-2, 2-1)

A very big game for both the Stanton Buffalos and Van Horn Eagles, both the surprise teams in the district. Both teams were picked in the lower division of the league, and both teams are proving to be playoff contenders.

Stanton is coming off an impressive 23-6 upset win over preseason favorite McCamey, while Van Horn dropped a 28-13 decision to tough Iraan.

Van Horn had trouble stopping the run against Iraan, and it will be the same against Stanton. Randy Nevarez and Gary Don Thompson will roll. An occasionally pass to Kenny McCalister will keep the Eagles off balance.

Richard Villa will again lead a stubborn Stantopn defense. The Buffs' playoff chances keep looking better and better.

STANTON 27, VAN HORN 13

Sands (7-0, 2-0) at Loop (1-6, 0-2)

The Sands Mustangs are going to the state playoffs. The big question can they go through regular season play undefeated?

That question wouldn't be pressed this week against the struggling Loop Longhorns. This Longhorns will be lucky to take this one into the second half.

The Mustangs go to 8-0.

SANDS 57, LOOP 12

Wylie (3-4, 2-0) at Colorado City (3-4, 1-1)

It's homecoming night for the Colorado City Wolves — and a must-win situation. The Wylie Bulldogs started the season off meekly, losing their first four games, but have come on like gangbusters the past three weeks, starting with an upset win over then No. 2 ranked Ballinger.

The Wolves will stage a gallant fight in front of the homecoming crowd, but the Bulldogs are just too powerful.

No return trip to the state playoffs for C-City.

WYLIE 21, COLORADO CITY 8

Merkel (1-6, 0-2) at Coahoma (2-5, 0-2)

A battle between the cellar-dwellers in 7-3A. But in all fairness to both the Merkel Badgers and Coahoma Bulldogs, they are much better than their records indicate.

Coahoma will get its offense cranked up again, and when they do that, they usually win, because the defense just about always does its job.

Tonight, the "D" and "O" will go hand-in-hand.

No cellar for the Bulldogs.

COAHOMA 14, MERKEL 12

Eldorado (1-6, 0-2) at Forsan (1-6, 0-2)

Another battle between cellar-dwellers in District 6-2A. But the Forsan Buffaloes are definitely better than their record. The Eldorado Eagles just aren't playing to their potential.

Tonight the Buffaloes will put it together both offensively and defensively, and make the Eagles wish they had played to their potential.

FORSAN 24, ELDORADO 15

Dawson (2-5, 0-2) at Borden County (5-1-1, 2-0)

Despite battling injuries, the Borden County Coyotes are gearing for the final two weeks of the season, which will determine whether they gain a playoff spot.

The Dawson Dragons will give B.C. a chance to put on the finishing touches. The Coyotes in a romp.

BORDEN COUNTY 48, DAWSON 16

Rankin (5-1, 1-0) at Garden City (5-1, 1-0)

This is Texas' Game of the Week in the Class A ranks. Both teams are ranked in the top 15 in both the AP and Harris Polls, and both teams went far in the playoffs last year.

Both teams know how to win the close ones, both have balanced offensive attacks and both have very good defenses.

But Garden City has the home field advantage, and Garden City will win the district championship with this victory.

GARDEN CITY 21, RANKIN 20

Grady (3-4, 1-1) at Klondike (4-3, 1-1)

As far as important area six-man games go, you'd be hard-presed to beat this one. Both teams have one loss in district, and another defeat would put the loser in a serious bind.

The Klondike Cougars have been a pleasant surprise to their fans. Behind the running-and-passing heroics of Corbett Foster, the Coug's have made a shambles of preseason picks that had them destined for the cellar.

But Klondike has its work cut out. The Grady Wildcats, preseason district favorite, seem to have hit their stride after a shaky first half of the season. Scott Glaze, Scott Terrell and the rest of the 'Cats should prove to be too much for the game-but-undermanned Cougars.

Hawks start hoop season

BIG SPRING — St. Edwards University should provide just the kind of workout the Howard College Hawks need to work off their pre-season jitters.

The Hawks take on St. Edwards' junior varsity at 7 p.m. Saturday in their 1989-90 basketball season opener.

STEVE GREEN

Tickets can be purchased at the gate and will be $2 for adults and $1 for students. Season passes to Hawks and Hawk Queens home games also are available for $15.

Howard coach Steve Green hopes his team will be able to ease into the season against the Austin-based four-year school.

"It's a good contest to open the season and get some pre-season jitters out of the way," Green said. "It's an opportunity to begin to perfect some of the things that we've been working on in practice."

The Hawks already have scrimmaged Wayland Baptist College and Lubbock Christian College, and they recently held an intrasquad scrimmage. Although the workouts were helpful in pinpointing strengths and weaknesses, Green said the Hawks need a real game.

"We're ready to play. I think we'll play with a lot of enthusiasm because we're ready to play against someone other than ourselves," he said. "It'll be a very fast, up-tempo game."

The Hawks will be playing the same style of fast-break ball that averaged 98 points per game last season. Preseason All-American Terrence Lewis will lead the Hawks, with other probable starters including Carlos Thunm, Johnny McDowell, Greg Christian and Greg Jeffery.

Although the Hawks beat the St. Edwards junior varsity handily last season, Green said Saturday's game will be more than just an exercise in conditioning.

"The biggest thing is it's an opportunity to get the preseason jitters out, work the kinks out, and see how the team responds," he said. "We're looking for some pluses that we've overlooked or didn't expect. We're hoping for some contributions from all the players."

Besides allowing Green to get a look at all of his recruits and returning players, the game also will be a chance for the Hawks to do what they love best: play ball.

"I always try to play as many people as I possibly can in a game," Green said. "The ones that work hard (in practice) get to play."

The Hawks have been turning up the intensity a notch during practice; the recent scrimmages pinpointed a problem with turnovers and defense, Green said.

"We've gone to work on it the last couple of days," he said, "and I feel it's considerably better."

If not, the Hawks will have time to fine-tune their game. The team starts the season with five straight home games, as well as the Domino's Pizza Hawk Classic tournament, before hitting the road to Southern Nazarene in Oklahoma.

The Hawks, Green said, are ready and waiting.

"We're anxious to get started. The season's here," he said. We've got five games within about nine days, all at home. We want to get the season off to a good start."

Running for four-in-a-row

BIG SPRING — The Big Spring High School girls cross country team will be going after school history when Big Spring hosts the District 4-4A cross country meet Saturday at the old air base golf course at 10 a.m.

Coach Randy Britton's girls teams will be seeking its fourth consecutive district championship, something no team has ever done in any sport at Big Spring High School. The Lady Steers basketball team will be trying to equal that feat when it begins its season in a few weeks.

While the first three cross country championships were relatively easy for the Lady Steers, this one will definitley be a struggle.

Coach Britton has a patched-up girls team that will get a strong challenge from San Angelo Lake View, which will proably head into Saturday's meet as the favorite — although Britton won't admit it.

"Odds-on favorite? There is no odds-on favorite in the girls' division," said Britton. "It will be between us and Lake View. Now, in the boys, Lake View is definitely the odds-on favorite. They'll win it unless something drastic happens within the next few days," he said Wednesday.

The Big Spring girls are a veteran team led by senior Rocky Alivar. Alivar is the only one of the Lady Steer runners who has been with the squad four years — plus one of the few healthy ones on the team. Alivar has a best of 14:30 over a two-mile course.

The Lady Steers' best distance runner won't be at 100 percent. Junior Mimi Regalado, who ran in the state meet as a freshman, is nursing a slightly-pulled hamstring, a injury that has been nagging her all season. Mimi has a best of 13:11 this season. She's the all-time school record holder with a time of 12:44.

Also nursing an injury is junior Ericka Franks. Franks, who has a best of 13:42, is hobbled by a strained quadacep muscle. Then there's Yvette Regalado, Mimi's older sister. Yvette, a senior, is recovering from arthoscopic knee surgery.

BIG SPRING — Big Spring Lady Steers senior Yvette Regalado will be returning to cross country action after coming off knee surgery. The District 4-4A meet will be Saturday at 10 a.m. at the old air base golf course.

This will be her first two-mile race. "Yvette's been working as hard as I've ever seen her work," said Britton. "I really didn't think she would run again. This will be her first two-mile race this year."

Last but not least is another ailing runner, senior Genevaa Barraza. Barraza has tonsilitis. She has a best of 13:54.

Rounding out the Lady Steers squad is a healthy, but inexperienced freshmean — Amy Gonzales.

Britton has nothing but praise for the Lady Steers. "They're all working hard and pretty much pulling together," he said. "They're all trying to catch ahold of that tradition. The seniors feel they have a responsibility to win.

"Winning four straight district championships is something special. There's not any other teams here that can say that."

The Lake View boys sport a powerful team — one that has Britton impressed.

"They've got seven good runners. They've got five or six athletes on that team that would be an asset to their football team. I think they've got a good chance to win state, if they don't go to regional and choke."

Brian Gayoso is Lake View's top runner over the three-mile course, having run a 16:33.

Gayoso will be trying to unseat Big Spring senior Chris Polyniak as the district champion, and it looks like he has a good chance.

Polyniak has run a 17:03. Big Spring's second best runner is senior Rene Villa, who's run a 17:27. Freshman Jackie Lynn, nursing a broken big toe, has run a 18:58.

This is the first year in five seasons the Steers won't have enough indididuals to compete as a team. But they are still eligible to qualify to regional. The first five individuals and the first two teams qualify to the regional meet in Lubbock.

"In regard to the season, I just hope they (Steers) run their best times of the season. That's about the only satisfaction you can get when you don't compete as a team."

The varsity competition will begin at 10 a.m., followed by junior varsity action at 10:30.

Eleven days later — Series resumes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Slowly, life in the Bay area is returning to normal.

Businesses are back in business, and so is the symphony and the opera. Conventions are coming back and so are tourists.

And tonight, so is the World Series.

Eleven days after a devastating earthquake, the Oakland Athletics and San Francisco again will try to play Game 3.

Of course, this World Series will never be the same. Win or lose, tragedy will be remembered more than any triumph.

But, just like bankers do their banking and cooks doing their cooking, the baseball players will play baseball. More than 62,000 fans will watch them at Candlestick Park when Oakland ace Dave Stewart faces Scott Garrelts in a rematch of Game 1 starters.

Rick Reuschel, scheduled to pitch Game 4 for the Giants, was scratched. He was hit in the right shoulder by a line drive in batting practice this week, so Don Robinson will fill in to face Mike Moore.

Robinson has not started since Sept. 25. He has pitched just 13 1-3 innings since Sept. 3 because of a bad knee.

"If things keep going on like this, Dave Dravecky and Mike Krukow will be our starters," Robinson said.

All during the record layoff, while it was debated whether the games should go on, the Athletics and Giants talked about the spirit of the series being gone. Day by day, though, the excitement and enthusiasm returned.

"It's starting to feel like a World Series again," San Francisco's Will Clark said during Thursday's workout.

Oakland, leading 2-0, also got into the swing Thursday. At the Athletics' spring-training site in Phoenix, they held their instruc-

Ryan the politician?

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Farm Bureau and two other agricultural groups say they have a poll that shows Texas Rangers pitcher Nolan Ryan could defeat Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower in the 1990 elections.

Ryan, the major league's strikeout king, has not decided whether he'll seek the GOP nomination for Hightower's job next year.

The poll, conducted for the Farm Bureau, the Texas Cattle Feeders Association and the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers, indicates that 40 percent of those surveyed would vote for Hightower, 29 percent would vote for Ryan and 31 percent were undecided.

According to the survey, Ryan has a 48 percent positive rating and only a 10 percent negative rating. Forty-two percent had no opinion of Ryan.

By comparison, 34 percent of those asked had a favorable opinion or Hightower, compared with 36 percent with an unfavorable opinion and 30 percent with no opinion.

Fifty-three percent said it would not matter whether Ryan conducted his political campaign next year while he continues to play professional baseball.

Pollster Bryan Eppstein of Fort Worth said Hightower's almost one-to-one positive-negative ratio means that he is vulnerable to a challenge by the popular Ryan or other potential candidates.

Andy Welch, a spokesman for Hightower, dismissed the poll.

"This thing has more holes in it than a doughnut shop," said Welch. "I think they would have gotten the same figures if they would have made mention of Akeem Olajuwon or Martina Navratilova."

The three organizations that sponsored the poll tried during the legislative session earlier this year to eliminate Hightower's position. The agriculture commissioner said his political enemies were upset about his strong enforcement of pesticide regulations.

Unbeatens will be tested

By The Associated Press

Notre Dame, Miami, Colorado and Alabama, four of the nation's six remaining unbeaten and untied college football teams, appear to have their work cut out for them on a weekend that will go a long way toward determining the eventual national champion.

Top-ranked Notre Dame (7-0) entertains No. 7 Pitt (5-0-1), runnerup Miami (6-0) visits No. 9 Florida State (5-2), No. 3 Colorado (7-0) is at Oklahoma (5-2), which is unranked but one of three teams tied for the Big Eight lead, and No. 6 Alabama (6-0) visits No. 14 Penn State (5-1).

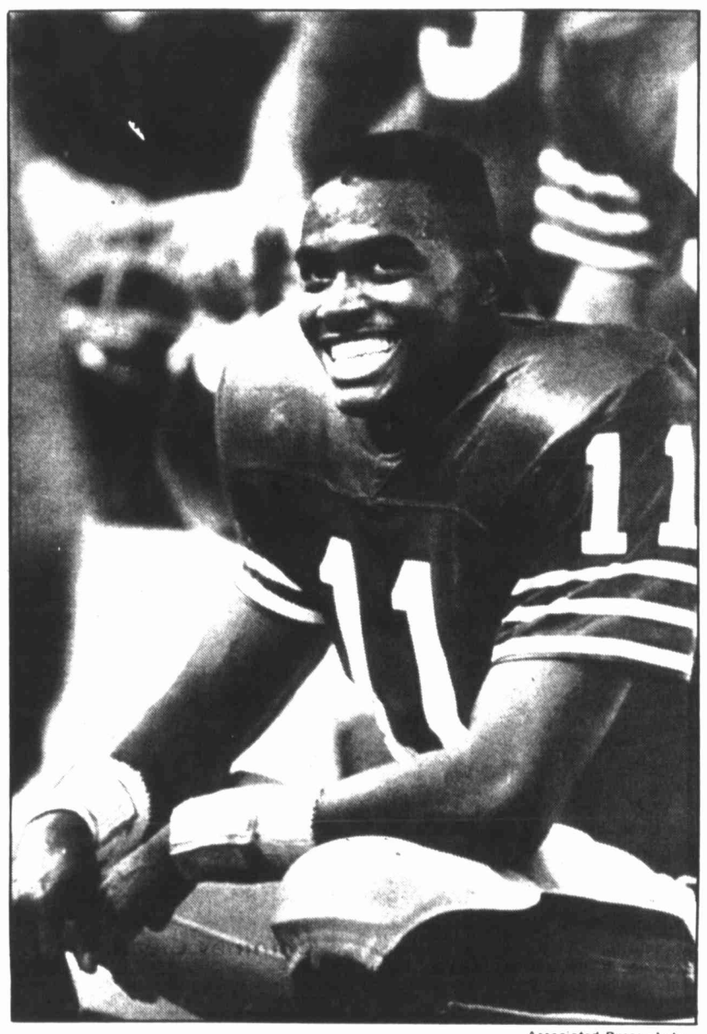

The other teams with unblemished records are No. 4 Nebraska (7-0), which is tied with Colorado and Oklahoma atop the Big Eight and plays host to Iowa State, and unranked Fresno State (7-0), which entertains Nevada-Las Vegas.

Among those holding their breath will be the Orange Bowl, which is drooling over the possibility of a national championship 1-2 shootout matching the Nov. 25 Notre Dame-Miami winner against the survivor of next week's Colorado-Nebraska showdown. The Sugar Bowl's hopes are riding on Alabama, the only unbeaten team in the Southeastern Conference.

Spoilsports Pitt, Florida State and Penn State are hoping to join the New Year's Day bowl picture while Oklahoma, on probation and ineligible for postseason action, would just like to ruin someone else's holiday plans.

Rounding out the Top Ten, fifth-ranked Michigan entertains Indiana, No. 8 Illinois plays host to Wisconsin and No. 10 Southern Cal is at home against Stanford.

Elsewhere, No. 11 Tennessee is at LSU, No. 12 Houston plays No. 13 Arkansas at Little Rock, No. 15 West Virginia is at Boston College, Mississippi State is at No. 16 Auburn, Pacific is at No. 17 Arizona, No. 18 Brigham Young is at Hawaii, No. 20 North Carolina State is at No. 25 South Carolina, No. 21 Texas A&M is at Rice, Wake Forest is at No. 22 Clemson and No. 23 Washington State is at Arizona State. Florida, the No. 19 team, and No. 24 Texas are not scheduled.

Houston Cougars quarterback Andre Ware is the leading passer in the nation. Ware and the No. 13 ranked Cougars will be in a tough battle Saturday when they play the No. 12 Arkansas Razorbacks.

For Pitt, this is the biggest game since 1982 when a No. 1-ranked Panther team was upset by unranked Notre Dame 31-16. That was the last time Pitt was unbeaten this late in a season.

"It's the biggest game since we've been at Pitt, the biggest game of my life," defensive back Louis Riddick said. "We're playing the best team in the country, with a chance to move up in the rankings. It's a great test, but it's also a great opportunity."

Pitt coach Mike Gottfried remembers "walking off the field last year after losing to Notre Dame 30-20 and telling (Coach) Lou Holtz his team was a year ahead of schedule. I thought they'd be a good team (in 1989) and all they did was win the national championship.

"I've talked to our squad about the winning streaks they have — a 19-game winning streak, 14 straight at home, 11 straight since they were voted No. 1. That's impressive in this day of college football when you play so many tough teams.

"No one runs against them. I don't know if they've given up 100 yards rushing in a game this season. Miami passed for 424 yards against them last season and still didn't win. Southern Cal threw for 333 yards against them last week and still didn't win. Notre Dame is the quintessential team."

College Roundup

After Notre Dame, the Panthers have a week off, then play Miami on Nov. 11.

Miami has been a thorn in Florida State's side, handing the Seminoles their only setbacks in 1987 and again last year. The Hurricanes are 9-1 in Tallahassee while trailing 12-10 in Miami.

Dennis Erickson, Miami's new coach, says he "had a sense of the rivalry when I first came into town and people said, 'The two things you do are beat Florida State and Notre Dame.' That kind of tells you how important it is."

"I think it's going to be a classic game. The whole nation is going to be watching. It's one of the best games in the country every year so it's going to be fun to coach and play in."

Miami's Gino Torretta will make his third consecutive start at quarterback for Craig Erickson, who has been sidelined with a broken finger on his throwing hand.

Torretta, a redshirt freshman, has completed 64 percent of his passes for 976 yards and seven touchdowns and is ranked No. 4 nationally in passing efficiency.

Miami will have the services of middle linebacker Bernard Clark, who has missed three games with a knee injury.

Florida State will rely on senior quarterback Peter Tom Willis, who has completed 60.4 percent of his passes for 1,832 yards and eight touchdowns.

Crossroads area football roundup

COAHOMA 26, MERKEL 12

MERKEL — The Coahoma JV's traveled to Merkel to take on the Merkel Badgers 's Thursday night with the Bulldogs taking a 26-12 win.

In the first quarter Brent Elmore passed 42 yards to Kenny Lowery for it's first points of the game. Steven Garcia added the PAT as the Bulldogs went up 7-0.

In the second stanza Elmore found Isa Castellano all alone, as Castellano found daylight and went 81 yards, but the extra point went wide and Coahoma led 13-0 ending the first half of play.

The Badgers came roaring back as they traveled 76 yards on an impressive scoring drive and cut the Bulldogs lead 13-6 as the PAT failed.

Castellano scored again on a six-yard run and the visitors led 19-6 in the final quarter. The Bulldogs defense put up a real dogfight as they stopped the Badgers on three consecutive downs, but on fourth and eight from the eight Merkel's quarterback bootlegged his way into the endzone as the Badgers cut into the Bulldogs lead at 19-12.

Elmore found Castellano for another score as Garcia added the extra point and the final score ended 26-12 in favor of Coahoma.

Offensively, Coach Kim Nichols drew praise to Steven New, Drew Bell and Shane Sayles. On the defensive side, Mark Arguello, Matt Coates, Kirby Brown and teammate Brian Sledge played well stopping the Badgers.

The Bulldogs will be at home against the other Bulldogs from Abilene Wylie Thursday night sporting a 3-4-1 season tally.

RUNNELS A 18, PECOS 18

PECOS — The Runnels Yearlings just ran out of time and ended up in a tie with Pecos Thursday night.

Runnels led 18-12 at the half, Pecos tied the game in the fourth quarter, and Runnels was on its way to the winning drive when time ran out. Runnels had the ball on the Pecos 30-yard line.

Fullback David Akins led Runnels, scoring on runs of 25 and 3 yards. Tailback Josh Jones scored on a 60-yard TD. Quarterback Richie Thompson had a good game, completing 8 of 12 passes.

Runnels almost got a score when cornerback Mike Olivas intercepted a two-point conversion pass, and returned it 82 yards to the Pecos 18.

Runnels coaches credited both the offensive and defensive lines with playing good games.

Runnels A is now 3-1-1 for the season. They will play Andrews in Andrews Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

MONAHANS 8, RUNNELS B 0

MONAHANS — The Yearling B team record fell to 3-2 as they dropped a 8-0 decision to Monahans.

Coaches said that Toby McQueary, Justin Taylor, Francisco Ramirez and Noe Trevino played good games.

Runnels B will play in Andrews Thursday at 4 p.m.

STEER FRESHMEN 20, PECOS 6

The Steer freshmen ran their record to 5-2-1 as they drubbed the Pecos eagles Thursday night.

Big Spring got on the scoreboard on a 55-yard interception return by linebcker Richard Hain. Waylon McGee ran in the two-point conversion.

The next score was a 55-yard pass from Derick Smith to Pat Martinez. The final score was a 12-yard run by Gary Green.

Big Spring will host Monahans Thursday at Memorial Stadium at 5:30 p.m.

GOLIAD A 14, PECOS 0

The Goliad Mavericks got a 70-yard kickoff return by Donald Vanderbilt and a four-yard run by Mario Cavazos to win their first game of the season.

The Goliad B team remains winless, dropping a 12-0 decision to Pecos.

Hammond takes early lead in final PGA tournament

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Donnie Hammond, the upstart leader of golf's richest tournament, didn't even expect to be playing in the Nabisco Championship.

Three weeks and two tournaments ago, he was mired in 92nd place on the season's money-winning list and, admittedly, "not even thinking about Nabisco."

He had booked himself into a tournament in Japan on the same dates as the elite Nabisco, which takes only the top 30 money-winners for the year.

"I wasn't thinking about it until we were on the plane to Texas and my caddy said, 'Well, we finish first and second in the next two and we're in Nabisco.' I told him he'd better quit drinking."

But the journeyman Hammond, who had won only once before in a seven-season PGA Tour career, followed his caddy's plan, a win in the Texas Open with the second-best 72-hole score in Tour history, and a runner-up finish last week.

Those two tournaments provided him with $194,400 in winnings, vaulted him into 26th place on the money list and put him in the 30-man field that is chasing almost $3.5 million in individual prize money, almost three times as much as any other American event.

The tournament, the final official-money event on the PGA Tour schedule, also will determine the year's leading money-winner and the Player of the Year.

It is a mathematical certainty that Hammond cannot achieve either of those distinctions.

No horse races on Friday

AUSTIN (AP) — After three weekends, G. Rollie White Downs has received permission to end Friday horse racing because crowds fell short of expectations, the track manager said.

To boost revenue, the track in Brady, where pari-mutuel betting began on Oct. 6 for the first time legally in Texas in 52 years, will be allowed to increase its Saturday and Sunday fare to 12 races, instead of 10.

An average of $180,000 has been wagered on weekend days and $75,000 on Fridays, said Richard Lerma, general manager of G. Rollie White Downs. The track had projected an average of $200,000.

"We were the first to test the market and the first to learn from it," Lerma said.

"We found that Friday is not a viable race day for a track our size in our location. Our Saturday and Sunday attendance has been good, and we have decided to concentrate our resources to offer more racing on those days."

Although the Texas Racing Commission approved Lerma's request to drop Friday racing, it balked at the track's second request in as many months that it be allowed to offer trifecta wagering, in which bettors try to pick the first three horses in the order of their finish.

The commission said it would consider the trifecta proposal again at its Nov. 6 meeting.

In September, the commission turned down trifecta wagering at G. Rollie White Downs on grounds that it takes sophisticated handicappers to choose the first three horses in the correct order of finish. Commissioners decided to restrict wagering to simpler bets until Texas racing fans get better acquainted with betting.

Tracks that allow more so-called exotic bets like twin trifectas and pick-sixes generally have higher "handle," or total amount bet, because handicappers will sometimes bet a horse several ways.

Walter "Butch" Smith, president of the Texas Professional Horse Trainers' Association, said he thinks track management at Brady made the correct decision in discontinuing Friday racing.

"Horsemen could see this coming. We've been looking at tote boards for a lot of years, and we said after the first weekend that Friday racing wasn't going to work here," Smith said.

tional league team hitless and won 7-0 in a five-inning scrimmage.

Rickey Henderson led off the game with a single and doubled in his next at-bat. Dave Henderson hit a home run off 21-year-old Mike Grimes, a June draft pick who was Jim Abbott's roommate at the University of Michigan.

Jim Corsi, who bounced between the Athletics and the minors this season, pitched three innings for Oakland. Two farmhands finished up and did the job against an instructional team lineup that, by the end of the game, included Ken Phelps, Mike Gallego and Stan Javier.

Jose Canseco was slowed by blisters, caused by a new pair of spikes, but start tonight and try to end an 0-for-23 World Series slump. Catcher Terry Steinbach got nicked by a foul tip, but also is ready.

The weather won't be a problem and neither will the Rolling Stones.

Clear skies, moderate winds and temperatures in the low 60s are in the forecast. There might be rain Sunday, when Game 5 would be played if necessary.

While the Athletics worked out, team management, the Oakland Coliseum and the Rolling Stones worked out a compromise that will allow the World Series to continue as planned despite a schedule conflict.

The Rolling Stones have sold 120,000 tickets for concerts at the Coliseum on Nov. 4-5 and their contract allows them to move into the stadium five days earlier to set up their massive stage. Should the World Series go back to Oakland, that would've meant trouble.

Bill Graham, one of the country's best-known concert promoters, said Thursday that the rock group agreed to move back its concerts a day if the World Series needs Game 7 on Nov. 1. If so, the group, the Athletics and the Coliseum will together absorb the overtime construction costs.

"Under the circumstances, yes, I'm satisfied. The overall picture, no," Graham said. "It doesn't seem right to me to hear that the facility I have a contract for is not available. But in light of the earthquake and everything else, I think it's fair."

The earthquake and its victims remained foremost in baseball's mind.

Commissioner Fay Vincent said $1.4 million would be donated to the earthquake relief effort. The Giants and Athletics each contributed $100,000 and the other major-league teams gave $50,000 apiece.

"We want to assist the recovery to demonstrate our appreciation for the cooperation we have received while guests here and to emphasize our support for the people who have suffered," Vincent said.

The Giants and Athletics said they would open next year's exhibition season with a benefit game March 1 in Phoenix. Proceeds from ticket sales, parking and concessions will go to earthquake victims.

The Athletics collected more than $20,000 in donations during their two days in Phoenix. They went to Arizona to avoid possible bad weather in the Bay area — it turned out to be sunny in both places — and returned to Oakland on Thursday night.

Giants manager Roger Craig preferred to stay at home. He did not set up any simulated or practice games and San Francisco's workouts were fairly loose.

"We just had to get our work in, so we came here," Athletics manager Tony La Russa said.

Baseball Today

Friday, Oct. 27
SCOREBOARD

Game 3 of the World Series at San Francisco's Candlestick Park (8:31 p.m. EDT). Oakland's Dave Stewart faces Scott Garrelts of the Giants. Both pitched in Game 1.

SIDELINED

Rick Reuschel, the Giants scheduled starter in Game 4, was scratched Thursday, two days after he was hit in the right shoulder by a line drive during batting practice. San Francisco manager Roger Craig said the pitcher's status is day to day and that if he is unable to work Game 5, Mike LaCoss would be moved up. Don Robinson will pitch Game 4.

STATS

Jim Corsi of the A's pitched three hitless innings Thursday against Oakland's instructional league team. Dave Henderson homered and Rickey Henderson singled and doubled.

STARTERS

San Francisco's Don Robinson started three times for 13 1-3 innings since pitching a seven-hit shutout against the New York Mets on Sept. 3. He's worried a Sept. 28 cortisone shot in his right knee will start to wear out.

SPEAKING

"If it keeps on going like this, Dravecky and Krukow will be the starters." — San Francisco pitcher Don Robinson, joking about teammates Dave Dravecky and Mike Krukow, both out with season-ending injuries.

SEE ME

All ushers at Candlestick Park will have flashlights for the remainder of the World Series. Baseball officials want to be prepared in case another aftershock causes the main stadium lights to fail.

SKIES

The weather in the Bay area isn't expected to be a problem for the resumption of the World Series. The forecast calls for clear skies, moderate winds and temperatures in the low 60s.

STATUS

Terry Steinbach of the Oakland A's was hit in the neck with a foul tip Thursday during Oakland's game against its instructional league team. Steinbach left the game, but the A's said afterward that he was not hurt. ... Jose Canseco said he's bothered by sore feet.

SPECIAL FUNDS

Commissioner Fay Vincent said $1.4 million would be donated to the earthquake relief effort by the 26 major league teams. The clubs would all make equal contributions while Oakland and San Francisco give double shares — $100,000 to the others' $50,000.

SPRING TRAINING

The A's and the Giants announced a special exhibition game for March 1 at Phoenix Municipal Stadium to benefit the earthquake relief efforts.

SEASON STARTS

The 1990 baseball season begins on April 2 as the Houston Astros meet the Reds in Cincinnati. The Reds will try for their eighth straight victory on opening day.

SEASONS
Oct. 27

1985 — The Kansas City Royals accomplished their second postseason comeback to win the World Series with an 11-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in Game 7. The Royals had trailed 3-1 in the Seriesm, as they did in the American League Championship Series. Bret Saberhagen hurled a three-hitter and the Royals batted around in the third and fifth innings. The Royals tied a record by scoring six runs in the fifth and the Cardinals used five pitchers in the inning to tie a record. It also marked the first time that a team had dropped the first two games of the World Series at home and came back to win the championship.

Hockey Today

Friday, Oct. 27
By The Associated Press
SCOREBOARD

New York Islanders at New York Rangers (7:35 p.m. EDT). First game of a home-and-home series between local franchises. Teams play at the Nassau Coliseum on Saturday. The Rangers, at 7-1-2 lead the Patrick Division with 16 points. The Islanders are 3-4-2 and in third behind the Rangers.

STARS
Thursday

Jody Hull, Whalers, scored twice as Hartford won its second game in as many night, beating the New Jersey Devils 7-3.

Steve Thomas, Blackhawks, had two goals as Chicago beat Montreal for the first time in four seasons, 5-3.

SOVIETS

Sergei Mylnikov debuted in goal for the Quebec Nordiques and lost 4-2 to the Boston Bruins Thursday night. Mylnikov, who came to Quebec after leading the Soviet National Team to the 1988 Olympic gold medal and world championships, stopped 31 shots.

SOVIET SPEAKING

Quebec's Peter Stastny, a Czechoslovakian native said he spoke in Russian with goaltender Sergei Mylnikov after the 4-2 loss to Boston.

"He said he wanted to get it over, to get the game behind him. He said he was a little nervous, but he got used to things as the game progressed."

SCORES

Pittsburgh and Detroit played to a 3-3 tie on Phil Bourque's controversial goal with one second remaining in regulation. As Bourque tipped a Mario Lemieux backhand past goaltender Tim Cheveldae, the blue light (signaling the end of the period) went on before the red (signaling the goal). After a five-minute delay referee Dave Newell rule the puck entered the net before time expired.

SCORERS

Montreal's Shane Corson and Guy Carbonneau scored goals in a span of 1:17 of the third period against Chicago.

STREAKS

Chicago ended a 12-game winless streak against Montreal, beating the Canadiens 5-3 on Thursday. The Blackhawks had last won on Jan. 2, 1985 and were 0-7-5 since. The game was also Chicago's fourth straight win for the first time under coach Mike Keenan. ... St. Louis ended a three-game losing streak against Minnesota. ... New Jersey, unbeaten on the road, is just 1-3-1 at home.

SORRY STATE

The Pittsburgh Penguins are 3-for-30 on the power-play in their last six games. ... New Jersey gave up five straight goals to Hartford after taking a 3-2 lead.

STATS

Pittsburgh managed just eight shots on goal in the first two periods against Detroit. ... The St. Louis Blues have been outscored 10-3 in the third period of the their last four games. ... Hartford's Brad Shaw had four assists against New Jersey on Thursday.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Mel Gibson and actress Kim Basinger topped US magazine's list of sexiest stars, followed by actor Tom Cruise and actress Michelle Pfeiffer.

Other women on the list were "When Harry Met Sally" star Meg Ryan, singer Cher, actress Kathleen Turner, model Christie Brinkley, actress Farrah Fawcett, actress Jaclyn Smith, singer Madonna and Donna Mills, who just left the CBS series "Knots Landing" after nine seasons.

The top ten hunks included Kevin Costner, Dennis Quaid, Patrick Swayze, Mark Harmon, Tom Selleck, Harrison Ford, Rob Lowe and Kurt Russell.

The fourth annual list of 10 men and 10 women, published in the magazine's Nov. 13 issue, was based on a mail-in survey from readers.

The old man on the list is Ford, at 47; Lowe is the youngest at 25.

Two favorites from previous surveys who failed to make the list this year: Don Johnson and Cybill Shepherd.

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Tina Turner, who turns 50 on Nov. 26, says she's a practicing Buddhist who lives "like a monk," doesn't like being a sex symbol and takes no drugs — not even aspirin.

"I live a very quiet life," Turner said in an interview in the Nov. 13 issue of US magazine. "There's no television, no music blaring. I live like a monk, almost. A monk with red lips, short dresses and big hair."

She went on: "I have at times given off the image of raunchy, rock sex, but I've tried to turn that energy into something positive. But I wish it could have been nicer in some way. Maybe I feel that way because I am an older woman who is grown up. Young girls, they like all of that crazy image stuff."

Turner said that Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis "is the lady I would have most liked to have been."

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: explorer James Cook, coach Lenny Wilkins, Dr. Jonas Salk, actress Jane Alexander, Olympian Bruce Jenner.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your enthusiasm for activity is almost limitless today. Do not ignore job advancement possibilities. Enroll in a night class or computer workshop. Romance could be frustrating.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Differences with relatives or your mate can be overcome with affection or a compromise. Someone's feelings may be badly hurt if you play games in romance. You may not be ready to settle down.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A blunder could be a good thing. A newcomer will soon dominate your life. Impromptu meetings alter your views, perhaps even a relationship. Be more flexible.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Get household errands done early today and you will have more time and energy for fun. Romance is part of the picture. Your prospective mate is waiting for you to make the first move.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your indecisiveness is even greater than usual today. Do not fret about the choices you make. Your instincts are excellent. Rule out a clandestine romantic encounter or your reputation could be damaged.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you suddenly shift gears, others may think you are erratic. Take the time to explain what you are doing. Stay away from any ventures that involve major financial risk.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Meditation will bring you the answers you have been seeking. You have a tendency to be too harsh on others. Try to put yourself in their place; it will make you more compassionate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may decide to create a new you. Get your hair done and buy that outfit you have been wanting. Others will be highly complimentary! Romance finds you when you least expect it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may feel nervous without knowing why. All will be clear by midafternoon. Excitement looms this evening. Be ready for a big change in your social life. Romantic partner has lots of plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Go for life's finer things today. Splurge on something luxurious for yourself or your mate. Have dinner in an intimate restaurant. Share your hopes and dreams.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your quick thinking saves the day on a family outing. Everyone returns home feeling refreshed. Spend the evening with good friends. You could hit on a wonderful moneymaking idea.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your winning smile and charming manner lead people to seek you out. You make a new friend today and feel content. A parent-child relationship still needs work. Forget past grievances and be conciliatory.
