HIRAM JOHNSON BLOCKS VOTE ON MORATORIUM

City Council Names J. S. Bridwell Alderman But He Shies At Acceptance

CIVIC AND OIL LEADER HINTS HE'LL DECLINE

Former C-C President Is Selected to Succeed E. H. Eddleman

'TOLD THE RASCALS'

Bridwell Good-Naturedly Vehement in Replying To Board's Vote

J. S. Bridwell, oil operator, banker and civic leader, Monday night was elected by the Wichita Falls city council to succeed J. H. Eddleman, resigned, as alderman.

Informed of his election, Mr. Bridwell said good-naturedly:

"I won't stand for it. I told those 'doggone rascals' I hadn't time or inclination and am not nearly so well qualified as many men I know. I can't say now whether I'll accept it or not. I'll fight it out with them."

The office was made vacant last week by the resignation of Mr. Eddleman who Monday morning assumed office as executive vice president of the Texas Oil and Conservation association, with headquarters in Fort Worth. The former alderman resigned last week. The term of office expires next April.

Former C-C Head

Mr. Bridwell last year served as president of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. He is a director of the First National bank, an irrigation district official, and widely interested in the development of the oil industry. He has been a significant factor in business and civic circles here for many years.

In addition to the election Monday night the council passed on its third and final reading an ordinance regulating the manufacture and sale of ice in Wichita Falls. The ordinance controlling the sale of milk was passed on its second reading.

The amended ice ordinance passed Monday night provided that all ice sold in Wichita Falls shall be made from distilled water, or from water certified from the mains of the city water system. The ordinance also provides that water by-passed or otherwise unpurified in the city mains shall not be used for making ice. Council members said the purpose of the ordinance was to prevent the sale of raw ice made from impure water in the city.

A six-month suspension of the ordinance requiring curb gasoline pumps in the fire zone to be removed by Jan. 1, was voted. Economic conditions were the basis for the extension of the time limit for requiring all pumps to be moved inside the property lines.

Action on the application of R. L. Ward for permission to build a store building at 1305 Eleventh street was delayed until Dec. 28, to give the applicant time to submit plans and specifications.

The resignation of Mr. Eddleman from the council was accepted with regrets just before the members retired to elect Mr. Bridwell as his successor. Members of the council said after adjournment they would confer with Mr. Bridwell Tuesday.

Livestock Men Seek Lower Meat Prices

FORT WORTH, Dec. 21. (AP)—Campaign for reduction of retail meat prices to stimulate business in the livestock industry was launched today by the Texas Livestock Marketing association, composed of livestock producers.

Pointing out that wholesale meat prices are the lowest in 20 years, John C. Burns, manager of the association, declared today that a return to prosperity in the livestock industry would benefit other lines of business. The cut in retail prices would stimulate meat consumption, he declared. The association is appealing to hotels, cafes and meat markets to cooperate in the campaign.

Bandits Crawl Through Sewer to Blast Bank

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21. (UP)—Several thousand dollars was obtained today by bank bandits who crawled through a sewer and dynamited the bottom from the vault of a Security-First National bank branch.

The robbery was discovered when Manager K. Davis opened the vault doors. The interior was in confusion, with silver, currency and books mixed with chunks of concrete.

He Doesn't Know

Elected by the city council Monday night to succeed E. H. Eddleman as alderman, J. S. Bridwell, oil man, banker, and civic leader, said he was not yet ready to say whether or not he would accept the post.

CULBERTSON'S LEAD GROWS

New Partner Wins in First Bridge Hand

NEW YORK, Tuesday, Dec. 22. (UP)—Sidney S. Lenz, patriarch of contract bridge, and Oswald Jacoby, of the younger generation, became gradually vulnerable, in the worst sense of the word, in the Monday night session of the Culbertson-Lenz epic battle of the card sharks at the Hotel Chatham.

With Baron Waldemar (Waldy) Von Zedtwitz, millionaire bridge expert, as his partner, Ely Culbertson pushed further out in front in the contest which is supposedly testing the merits of the approach-forcing and the official system in bridge bidding. The Culbertson team, by the time most bridge players are usually going to bed, was 9,470 points ahead with the 69th rubber incomplete.

The baron, as he is called, was playing his first and only session in the match. Florida is calling, and "Waldy" has made Pullman reservations for today. He sat down at the 10th session as "east" and Theodore A. Lightner, Culbertson's other partner, took the night off.

Count Gosta Morner, one of Peggy Joyce's ex-husbands, now wedded to a woman reporter who is attending the match, was also present.

Action Delayed in Dual Killing Near Henderson

HENDERSON, Texas, Dec. 21. (AP)—The filing of charges against a farmer held for the slaying of Reuben and Melt Barker was delayed today while officers completed their investigation.

The farmer surrendered to officers after the Barker brothers were shot near Laneville Saturday. He said he was attacked and fired in self-defense. The shooting occurred on a road. The Barkers were farmers in the Laneville community, as was their suspected slayer.

Grand Jurors Testify In Don Carlis Appeal

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Dec. 21. (AP)—Jurors who tried V. Don Carlis in November on a charge of murder for the slaying of Alfred Steinbach, were called to testify today at the hearing of his appeal for a new trial.

In his motion for a new trial Carlis claimed that jurors who convicted him at the November trial and sentenced him to 99 years' imprisonment, discussed the case improperly before it was turned to them.

The court continued the hearing until tomorrow.

'Alfalfa Bill' to Stay With Fight Despite Special Election Defeat

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 21. (AP)—"Alfalfa Bill" Murray let Oklahoma know today that he isn't through fighting.

Seeing a "united militant following" behind last week's special election returns, in spite of the defeat of all his reform bills, the emphatic minded governor announced today there still was time for "economy in government and an adjustment of taxes."

"I shall drive straight ahead," he said, "giving my best service to the state. I shall not compromise or extenuate, holding my position when even my strength is gone and naught left but the will to hold on.

"Alfalfa Bill's" statement spoke of the "combined power of wealth and political puppets" and declared that "never in my experience was so much money used and pressure shown on industrial labor in an election since the Bryan campaign of 1896 as was put into this election in Oklahoma."

Red River Bridge Suit To Get Joint Parley

AUSTIN, Dec. 21. (UP)—A conference of Oklahoma and Texas assistant attorney generals has been arranged for Dec. 28 here, when suits of the Red River Bridge company against both states will be discussed.

The company claims $165,000 from each for alleged loss through opening of a free bridge over Red river on the Denison-Durant route. The company claimed an exclusive bridge right.

CHILD TELLS HOW GUNMEN KILLED BABY

15-Year-Old Girl Takes Stand to Describe Gotham Tragedy

HEROISM REVEALED

Witness Relates Wound Received as She Saved Infant

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—Clapping her hands, a 15-year-old girl described to a jury today the rapidity of the shots which killed one of her playmates last summer, wounded four others and spread terror through a congested tenement district.

The girl, Florence Amelio, was the first important witness to take the stand against Vincent Coll and Frank Giordano, whom the jury will be asked to send to the electric chair for the Harlem "baby-killing."

Children Fall

The victim, 5-year-old Michael Vengali, was slain when a spray of bullets from a gangsters' sedan missed a rival gunman at whom it was aimed and felled five children playing on the sidewalk.

The Amelio girl was the heroine of the tragedy and she told the jury about in a modest, childish way.

"I was sitting there with little Michael Beviacqua," she said. "He was in a baby carriage. I heard the shooting and I ducked.

"Then I grabbed Michael and ran into the hallway with him. I felt something in my right shoulder. It burned bad.

"I looked after I ducked and saw the car. I don't know the color, but it was a dark car. It was about in the middle of the street when I saw it."

Carriage Identified

"That's it; that's the one Michael was in," she said excitedly.

She made no other reference to the fact that she had saved the infant, at the cost of a bullet wound to herself.

"Oh, lots of 'em," she replied, with wide eyes and in awesome voice. Later she "judged" there were 15 or 20.

When she was asked how fast they came, she answered by clapping her hands rapidly.

Nearly a dozen witnesses preceded her to the stand.

Drum Corps Aids Kettle Campaign

The American Legion drum and bugle corps, directed by Leonard Hotham, will parade the business section of the city at noon Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, in behalf of the Salvation Army kettles.

Bells ringing at the kettles appeal for money to buy food for Christmas baskets for the city's poor. Salvation Army officials announced that food, especially canned food, would also be welcome.

The Salvation Army this year, as every year, works to provide Christmas dinners for the needy of the city.

Woman's Fierce Attack On Dry Raider Related

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—Under the heading "the more deadly of the species," the prohibition bureau's official weekly bulletin to its personnel today related:

"Agents T. M. Vaughan and H. H. Sherman, St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 10, were savagely attacked by Mrs. Rosie Balsama, who tried to wrest from Vaughan a kettle of whisky which he had seized and in a scuffle bit his nose so severely that he had to be taken to the U. S. marine hospital for treatment, and will be disabled for one week.

"In coming to his assistance, Agent Sherman was bit on the leg, and later Mrs. Balsama threw a bucket of ashes upon him."

HATCHERY FOR GRAHAM ASKED

Rep. Williams Presents Bill For $50,000 Plant

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—Representative Williams, Democrat, Texas, introduced a house bill today to establish a $50,000 fish cultural station at Graham, Texas.

WALTON LEAGUE SPONSORS PROJECT

Graham's bid for a federal fish hatchery at Lake Eddleman is being backed by the Izaak Walton league of Graham, other civic organizations of the town and Izaak Walton league chapters in this section.

Plans for the hatchery were revealed at the Walton league banquet here last week by Dr. W. A. Morris of Graham. The program received the immediate endorsement of Dr. Preston Bradley of Chicago, national president of the Izaak Walton league and chief speaker at the banquet. Dr. Bradley promised to wire his endorsement to government officials.

The Graham chapter hopes to secure the federal hatchery which will be located in West Texas. The plant, if secured, probably would be placed near Lake Eddleman.

Bandit Leader Slain In Nicaragua Clash

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (US)—Sebastian Montenegro, Nicaraguan bandit leader, was slain yesterday in a battle with 25 national guardsmen, the navy department was informed today.

Several other bandits were wounded and one was captured. The national guard patrol was led by Lieutenant Delgadillo, a native.

Father of 14 Children Electrocuted in Georgia

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Dec. 21. (INS)—English Gaskin, 45, father of 14 children, was put to death in the electric chair at the state prison farm here today at 11:24 a. m. for murdering his estranged wife.

DOCTOR FINDS MISSING GIRL ILL AT HOTEL

Heiress Located After Straying on Way Home From School

MEMORY IS HAZY

Physician Forbids Quizzing Of Over-Worked Student

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 21. (AP)—A widespread search for Virginia Penfield, 19-year-old Columbus, Ohio heiress, ended today when she was found in a hotel here.

Dr. Arthur Brown, hotel physician, said the girl was ill, due to over-study, and refused to permit questioning beyond a brief interrogation by police which served to confirm her identification.

The girl disappeared while on the way home from Mary Lyon school at Swarthmore, Pa., last Thursday. Next day she registered at the Narragansett hotel here, as "B. Scott." Attaches of the hotel said she had left her room only once or twice since her arrival. She had no visitors, they said.

Doctor Called

Dr. Brown identified the girl when he called to give medical attention. He said she readily gave "Virginia" as her first name, and appeared hazy about her last name, but finally furnished it. Told that her father was seeking here, she asked that Dr. Brown notify him of her whereabouts. At this point, Dr. Brown said, she buried her head in the bedclothing.

Chief of Detectives John Kelly and Mrs. Mae MacDonald, a woman protective officer, called to interview the girl, but the physician advised against it. Kelly found a card in the girl's room bearing the inscription, "V. Penfield, 341 South Columbia road, Bexley, Columbus, Ohio." He also said jewelry and clothing found in her room checked with descriptions broadcast when her disappearance was announced.

Memory Hazy

After notifying her father, Clare J. Penfield, Columbus chain store head, Brown administered a sedative. Mrs. MacDonald remained on duty in the girl's room, refusing admission to all pending arrival of her father. He was expected to arrive at 8:50 tonight by train.

Kelly said the girl told him the last thing she remembered clearly was a visit to a Philadelphia department store, and had only vague recollections of riding on railroad trains. She told Kelly she had no reason for visiting this city and had not been here before.

Shot Takes Life Of Rancher's Son On Wheeler Farm

Special to The Record News.

SHAMROCK, Texas, Dec. 21.—After he returned from Texola, Okla., about 12 o'clock Sunday night, Eugene Davis, 20, son of Lee Davis, prominent East Panhandle rancher, was shot to death at his father's ranch about 12 miles east of Shamrock.

Davis arrived at his father's ranch where he lived and went to a bunk house where two employes were sleeping, asking for his gun. He carried on a conversation with them for a few minutes then stepped out of the door, the fatal shot followed.

Davis is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Davis, Shamrock; two brothers, T. C. and L. E. Davis of Shamrock, and three sisters, Mrs. Jett Montgomery, Beaver, Okla.; Mrs. Tamp W. Grobe, Houston, and Mrs. W. A. Stegall of Amarillo.

Veteran Stage Star Struck by Automobile

BOSTON, Dec. 21. (US)—Remembered as a one-time stage idol, who played with Edwin Booth, Fanny Davenport and other famous stars, George W. Wilson, 82, today was near death, after having been run down by an automobile. Wilson, as a member of the old Boston Museum Stock company, played 238 parts, appearing in 4,695 performances on the museum stage alone.

Murray Frees Son of Woman Who Kissed Him

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 21. (UP)—The wish of an Indian squaw who kissed Gov. William H. Murray's hand, became reality today.

Several weeks ago Hoodle-Tau-Quodle, Carnegie, upset the gubernatoriol equilibrium when she attempted to kiss the governor when he promised clemency for her son, serving a five-year sentence from Comanche county for an offense against a woman.

The governor ordered the release of Steve Bohay, the son, a year's leave of absence effective tomorrow.

International Banker Says France Is Able To Pay U.S. War Debt

By EDWARD L. RODDAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (US)—Otto H. Kahn, international banker of the house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., told the senate finance committee he believes France is well able to pay the balance of her debts to the United States.

Testifying in the investigation, sponsored by Senator Johnson of California, of the billions of foreign securities unloaded upon American investors, Kahn further declared:

That his firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. would be unwarranted in floating new German loans, either government or private, until the present industrial crisis ends.

Bonds in Default

That of the billions of foreign bonds sold to the American investing public, $260,000,000 is a low estimate of the issues already in default.

That a majority of South America issues, testimony concerning some of which testimony has been given by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., and Charles E. Mitchell of the National City bank, are now in default.

The committee struck pay dirt in Kahn's testimony. In measured and precise speech, the banker unfolded a remarkable and entirely new picture of the present status of the billions in depreciated foreign securities now in the hands of the American people, and in American banks.

Johnson Pleased

Making no effort to conceal his gratification at the day's results, Senator Johnson declared the facts uncovered would exercise tremendous influence on future American foreign policies.

Only a portion of Kahn's testimony was concerned directly with the $1,136,000,000 in foreign issues which his own firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., has helped to float in this country.

For the most part, the day's hearing was a brilliant forensic duel between Kahn on the one hand and Senator Johnson and committee members on the other, trying hard to uncover the real attitude of the international bankers regarding Uncle Sam's efforts to collect his European debts.

Witness Clever

Skillful and adroit in the use of words, Kahn won the admiration of a packed gallery by his ability to avoid answering the blunt questions of his interrogators.

At times the witness was frank; at other times he was frankly reluctant. Nevertheless the relentless Johnson finally got him to make this admission.

If a choice must be made, Kahn believes that foreign countries should be asked to pay their private debts first before their obligations to the United States. To do otherwise, he said, would prove a severe blow to the "sanctity" of private contracts.

Opposes Cancellation

Throughout his testimony, Kahn emphasized that on ethical grounds the United States is justified in collecting every last penny from Europe. He is opposed to cancellation.

But he thinks that in view of present conditions, it might be best to consider the debt question dispassionately, with a few muttered "cuss words," and then adopt a policy which will prove wise in the long run.

When he discussed the actual situation regarding the foreign securities already held in this country, Kahn's testimony was full of meat.

Blind Coroner Hears Testimony of Deaf Mute

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 21. (AP)—A blind man today conducted a hearing at which a deaf mute, by sign language, convinced a coroner's jury that the fatal shooting of his young wife yesterday was an accident. He was exonerated.

Horace Sanders related with his hands, through an interpreter, how his wife, also a deaf mute, had been killed accidentally when a shotgun was discharged while she was cleaning a bed room closet.

Railway Association Notifies Contract Workers of Pay Cut

CHICAGO, Dec. 21. (US)—The first direct move to follow the decision of railroad owners for a 15 per cent cut in railroad workers' wages came today when the Association of Western Railways notified contract employes that the reduction would be made.

Engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen, yardmen and hostlers would be affected by the reduction, the association announced.

The decision of the roads to ask a 15 per cent cut was made at a meeting of railroad presidents of the nation in New York last Friday. The executives, however, appointed a committee to meet with an authorized committee of the unions on the latter's request to "negotiate to a conclusion."

One influential union leader said today that a 15 per cent cut was not in accordance with the union chiefs' sanction of a 10 per cent reduction.

"When the union heads agreed to a parley," he said, "it was with the understanding that 10 per cent would be the acceptable figure, if other conditions set out were taken care of. Fifteen per cent is extreme. However, the actual per cent of the reduction will depend upon the length of time for which the reduction is to endure.

"If it is to be for nine months, it is likely that the compromise reached will be different than if it is to last for a longer or shorter time."

46,000 Barrels of Oil Drawn From Tanks In East Texas

KILGORE, Texas, Dec. 21. (AP)—The closing of more than half the producers in the great East Texas oil field yesterday resulted in 46,193 barrels of crude being taken from storage.

Fifteen hundred and sixty-five wells reported a production of 154,894 barrels. Pipe line runs were 201,177 barrels.

Thirty-eight operators reported they shut in 1,816 wells yesterday in response to the Sunday shutdown movement. Twenty-three other wells were closed for various reasons. One hundred and thirty-six wells were not reported but it was estimated more than half of them were idle.

PAIR REVEALS KIDNAP PLOT

Confessions Made in Nelly Donnelly Abduction

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 22. (UP)—Two men, who confessed participation in the plot to kidnap Mrs. Nell Quinlan Donnelly, were arrested here late last night.

Paul Scheidt, 29, of Bonner Springs, Kan., and Lacy Browning, 42, of Holiday, Kan., confessed they were members of the gang who abducted the millionaire garment manufacturer and held her for $75,000 ransom, police announced early today.

Although Scheidt and Browning did not participate in the actual kidnaping, they both will be charged with the crime, officials said.

Browning acted as go-between for the gang, he admitted. He arranged with Scheidt to use the young farmer's house where Mrs. Donnelly was held captive 35 hours before her release.

Scheidt said he was to receive $1,000 for use of the house. Browning said he was to receive $7,500 for his part in the plot.

The actual kidnapers of the woman are known, police said. Their names were withheld pending their arrest. Police referred to them only as the "big boys."

Mrs. Donnelly's abductors are not members of the Kansas City underworld, it was learned.

Their plot to force the Donnelly family to pay $75,000 for the woman's release was frustrated, it was said, by John Lazia, Kansas City political leader. Lazia learned identity of the kidnapers and made them release her before they received their money. Lazia recently was acquitted of prohibition law violations when he was indicted and charged with being a member of Kansas City's $1,000,000 liquor ring.

Gladewater Oil Tanks Burn After Explosion

GLADEWATER, Texas, Dec. 21. (AP)—Fire destroyed two oil storage tanks located near the Gladewater business district today. Explosion of one of the tanks caused the blaze.

Late this afternoon the fire was still burning, but had not spread to nearby buildings. It was hoped that it would die when the oil was consumed.

FIERCE ATTACK AGAINST DEBT PLAN LAUNCHED

California Senator Strikes Out Savagely at Idea Of Cancellation

PASSAGE IS CERTAIN

Vote by Tonight Probable; 'Railroading' Tactics Are Assailed

By CHARLES M. McCANN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (UP)—Senator Hiram Johnson of California slashed fiercely at President Hoover's debt moratorium today, preventing an all-night senate session, at which leaders hoped to force through a resolution demanding a vote on the moratorium issue by tomorrow.

Both Johnson and Senator George Norris of Nebraska, another progressive, called the president's declaration of a moratorium without calling a special session illegal and unconstitutional.

After speaking for an hour on the Collier bill to approve the one-year moratorium on inter-governmental debts, Johnson moved that the senate adjourn until tomorrow. He added that he needed an hour more to finish his speech.

Smoot Protests

Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, jumped to his feet in surprise. But he protested in vain, because Johnson was spokesman for a large group on both sides of the senate who are angry at the effort to force through the moratorium proposal by machine tactics. They know it will pass, probably tomorrow night, but they want to talk about it first.

Johnson stuck to his motion. He consented finally that the session be recessed instead of adjourned, so that the usual morning business may be disposed with and the senate may start with the second portion of his speech. He consented also that the recessed session be resumed at 11 a. m., instead of noon. So at 5 p. m., senators went home, instead of lolling about in their arm chairs during a long night in which administration leaders had hoped to wear down opponents of the measure by physical exhaustion. It was a complete victory for the Californian.

Starts Softly

Johnson started his speech softly. He went back to the San Francisco earthquake and its suffering, then said:

"The only people who cried were those who had only 5, 10, or 15 millions left instead of 10, 20, or 30. The same people are doing the crying now while others walk the streets.

"We liquidated our statesmanship with the Versailles treaty, and in October, 1929 (when the depression began) we started liquidating our masters of finance, our supermen, our financiers de luxe. They are no more astute than we.

Dealing With Future

"We are dealing today with the future, not just a loan. Not because it was entered into illegally and unconstitutionally, but because this resolution validating it is a fraud and injustice to the American people, but because it will determine our future dealings with Europe, I oppose this measure. We have been departing for 12 years from our Republican principles and looking across the sea."

$450,000 Asked to Pay Expenses of Delegates

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (UP)—President Hoover today transmitted to congress a memorandum from Secretary of State Stimson asking an appropriation to finance the American delegation to the Geneva disarmament conference in February. The president did not ask for a specific amount, but Stimson estimated the delegation's expenses would be about $450,000.

BANKER AIRS BOND STATUS

France Can Pay Debts, Says Otto Kahn

This is in addition to over $600,000,000 of German short term credit, held mostly by the big metropolitan banks.

Kahn agreed that it was "quite natural" for the banks to think of these holdings when considering the future American policy towards the collection of foreign debts.

The attitude of the witness towards the French debt, often pictured as a heavy financial burden upon that country, was developed by Senator David A. Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania.

Expects Payments

Reed asked if he thought it necessary to "buy" a more liberal French attitude toward stricken Germany by further debt concessions.

"I see no lack of capacity to pay," the witness responded quickly.

A staunch administration supporter, Reed startled the capital last week by sharply opposing any more cuts in the French debt in opposition to the new Hoover policy.

Pressed to shed some light on constant reports of a serious economic plight in Germany which may lead to a world collapse, Kahn expressed his firm belief that the debts owed by that country to private sources will ultimately be paid. He asked to be excused, however, on venturing a prophesy about the payment of German reparations.

Company Activities

When he took the stand, Kahn followed the custom of previous witnesses by starting a detailed description of the foreign issues floated in whole or in part by Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

He had a chance to describe only some Swedish loans, totaling $74,000,000, when the session ended. They will resume after the Christmas holidays on Jan. 4.

Kahn said a part of the money raised for the city of Christiana, or Oslo, Sweden, was used to pay for the construction of municipal light and power plants.

When the delicate subject of the Hoover moratorium of foreign debts was referred to by committee members, Kahn became a trifle heated in his replies for the only time during the hearing. His anger was directed not against the inquiring senators, however, but against Representative Louis T. McFadden, Republican, of Pennsylvania, whose recent speech denouncing President Hoover's debt policies became a national sensation.

Attacks McFadden

McFadden said the debt moratorium was conceived by the international bankers and proposed to President Hoover as a means of ensuring payment of their own vast loans to Europe.

In particular, McFadden singled out for attack Paul Warburg, formerly with Kuhn, Loeb & Co., discussing McFadden's charges, Kahn replied heatedly:

"That is an absolute falsehood without the remotest grain of truth whatsoever." He added that Warburg was a Democrat who had strongly supported Governor Smith for president against Mr. Hoover.

The tension was somewhat relieved by an ironic remark from Senator Barkley, Democrat, of Kentucky, that no man should be forced to "incriminate" himself by admitting that he supported President Hoover in the last campaign.

Jack County Death Hearing Delayed

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Texas, Dec. 21.—While W. A. Beggs sat silent in his jail cell, making no effort to employ a lawyer or to obtain his release on bond, officials here Monday postponed his preliminary hearing on charges of killing George Ham Saturday night. Justice of the Peace Moses Martin said the hearing, set Monday, was delayed to give time for the townspeople and for the families involved to become calmer. No date for the hearing was set.

Ham, brother of the Jack county school superintendent, was shot to death by a rifle bullet as he stood at the front door of the home of Theodore Beggs, son of the accused man. The elder Beggs told officials he fired the shot, but refused to say why. The motive for the shooting was still a mystery Monday night.

Postmaster Returns Shipment Of Grown Ducks to Archer City

Six full grown Mallard ducks, vigorous and hungry, were enclosed in a cardboard box received at the postoffice here Monday night. They were sent by J. F. Smith, Archer City, and addressed to receivers at Rosebud, Texas. Postmaster O. P. Maricle, observing the postoffice regulation that only 24-hour old fowls and animals may be sent by mail, halted the shipment. The appetizing birds will be sent back to the sender Tuesday, Mr. Maricle announced.

Home-Owner Beaten by Youth When He Finds Strange Couple in House

A young man and girl were in the city jail late Monday night following the return of the owner of the strange house which they had been using for the scene of a liquor party.

The owner of the residence was severely beaten by the girl's companion when he remonstrated with them concerning their use of the home, the overturning of furniture and the breaking of most of the household dishes. Escaping from the young man only after his clothes had been almost torn from him and after he had been choked and beaten, the owner fled to a nearby drug store, where he called police.

He refused to re-enter the house until police had arrived. Officers had difficulty with both the young man and girl. The girl struggled madly to escape but was carried forcefully to police station.

Patrons fled from the drug store when the home owner called loudly for police as he breathlessly entered the place.

Frank Warfield and Harry King, motorcycle officers, answered the first call to the residence. Activity increased at the home and additional officers were dispatched.

Nobleman Plays With Culbertson

apparently little concerned over the 7,915-point lead Culbertson has managed to stack up, were on time as usual and Lenz became extremely fretful at the delay in getting started.

When Culbertson finally entered, Lenz promptly jumped up from the table and stalked out of the room, but Culbertson ran after him and cajoled him into returning.

"I just thought," said Lenz, "that if you fellows didn't want to play a little bridge, I'd go out and mix around with the newspaper boys a bit, and get some publicity for myself."

Baron von Zedtwitz succeeded Theodore A. Lightner, who had succeeded Mrs. Josephine Culbertson several days ago. The baron entered the contest for one night only, since he is leaving for the South tomorrow.

The baron is one of the world's slowest bridge players. He takes funny little puffs at his cigaret while studying over his hand.

He is universally credited with being one of the foremost contract sharks, and he proved his work on the first hand tonight by bidding four hearts square on the nose and making the bid to put Culbertson over the 8,000-point hurdle for the first time.

Rubber 64:

1—Von Zedtwitz bid and made four hearts. Culbertson lead, 8,035.

2—Lenz bid a little slam and made seven hearts. Culbertson lead, 7,305.

3—Jacoby, on a bid of one spade, went down one. Culbertson lead, 7,405.

4—Culbertson bid and made four hearts. Culbertson's rubber. Culbertson lead, 8,025.

Rubber 65:

1—Von Zedtwitz went down one on a bid of three spades. Culbertson lead, 7,975.

2—Jacoby made five no-trumps on a bid of three. Culbertson lead, 7,770.

3—Culbertson went down one on a bid of four hearts. Culbertson lead, 7,720.

4—Jacoby went set one on a bid of four hearts. Culbertson lead, 7,820.

5—Lenz bid three diamonds, Culbertson doubled, and Lenz went down five tricks to lose 1,800 points. Culbertson lead, 9,620.

6—Lenz went down one on a bid of four spades. Culbertson lead, 9,720.

7—Culbertson made a bid of four spades. Culbertson lead, 9,840.

8—Lenz made four spades on a bid of three. Culbertson lead, 9,700.

9—The Culbertson lead went to an even 10,000 points on this hand when Jacoby, bidding the hoodoo three diamonds, went set two tricks.

10—Culbertson bid and made three hearts. Culbertson's rubber.

Rubber 66:

1—Lenz made four clubs on a bid of two. Culbertson lead, 10,465.

2—Culbertson went down one on a bid of three spades. Culbertson lead, 10,415.

3—Von Zedtwitz went down one on a three no-trump bid. Culbertson lead, 10,365.

4—Lenz went down two on a bid of five diamonds. Culbertson lead, 10,515.

5—Culbertson made a bid of three no-trumps. Culbertson lead, 10,620.

6—Von Zedtwitz went set one on a two-theart bid. Culbertson lead, 10,520.

7—Lenz made a bid of four spades. Culbertson lead, 10,400.

8—Jacoby bid five clubs, was doubled, and made it to end the rubber. Lenz's rubber. Culbertson lead, 9,600.

Rubber 67:

1—Passed out.

2—Von Zedtwitz made a bid of three no-trumps. Culbertson lead 9,705.

3—Zon Zedtwitz made a bid of three clubs. Culbertson lead, 9,765.

4—Lenz went down one on a bid of two spades. Culbertson lead, 9,815.

5—Jacoby, bidding three diamonds, went down two. Culbertson lead, 9,915.

6—Lenz went down one on a bid of four spades. Culbertson lead, 9,965.

7—Jacoby made four on a bid of three diamonds. Culbertson lead, 9,855.

8—Lenz holding 150 honors, bid three spades and made five. Culbertson lead, 9,515.

9—Lenz made two diamonds on a bid of one. Culbertson lead, 9,445.

10—Culbertson made six clubs on bid of three. Culbertson lead, 9,655.

11—Von Zedtwitz made six clubs on bid of three and held 100 honors. Culbertson's rubber. Culbertson lead, 10,465.

Rubber 68:

1—Von Zedtwitz made five spades on a bid of four. Culbertson lead, 10,635.

2—Passed out.

3—Lenz made a bid of three clubs. Culbertson lead, 10,575.

4—Jacoby made three spades on a bid of two. Culbertson lead, 10,465.

5—Jacoby bid three no-trumps and made six. Lenz's rubber. Culbertson lead, 9,710.

Rubber 69:

1—Culbertson went down three on a bid of four spades. Culbertson lead, 9,560.

2—Von Zedtwitz went set one on a bid of four hearts. Culbertson lead, 9,510.

3—Lenz went down one on a bid of four hearts. Culbertson lead, 9,560.

4—Von Zedtwitz went down one on a bid of four hearts, doubled. Culbertson lead, 9,460.

5—Von Zedtwitz bid four hearts again and went set two tricks. Culbertson lead, 9,360.

6—Von Zedtwitz went down on a bid of three no-trumps. Culbertson lead, 9,310.

7—Culbertson made a bid of two spades. Culbertson lead, 9,370.

8—Jacoby bid two no-trumps doubled and went down one. Culbertson lead, 9,470.

9—Von Zedtwitz made a bid of four diamonds. Culbertson lead, 9,550.

10—Von Zedtwitz bid and made small slam in diamonds, Culbertson's rubber. Culbertson lead, 11,120.

TILLMAN MAPS ROAD PROPOSAL

County Offers $15,000 to Complete Highway

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Dec. 21.—At a joint meeting of the county commission, county excise board, and members of the Frederick Chamber of Commerce at the courthouse Monday afternoon, it was agreed to offer the state highway department $15,000 if the state would furnish the remainder which is required to buy the right-of-way and grade and gravel highway No. 14 from here to the Red river bridge south of Davidson.

Between $80,000 and $100,000 will be required by the state highway department in addition to the $15,000 furnished by the county.

A trip will be made to Oklahoma City this week by officials and others to present the proposition. If it is accepted it is expected work will be rushed in making the preliminary arrangements, including advertising for bids and awarding the contract, so that actual work can start as soon as possible.

Work will soon begin on gravelling of state highway No. 14 from Frederick to Kiowa county, which will cost the state about $14,000. Previous to this the state paid about $64,000 for the right-of-way, engineering work, and grading that portion of the road, which was matched by $5,000 of county highway funds.

If this highway is completed according to present plans, the county will get a standard gravelled highway from Kiowa county on the north to Red river on the south at a cost of but $20,200, matched by about $175,000 of state funds.

Oil Leaders Pay Last Tribute to Robert R. Penn

DALLAS, Dec. 21. (AP)—Leaders of the oil industry today joined personal friends in mourning the death of Robert R. Penn, 41, Texas oil man. The funeral was conducted at the home.

Penn, former chairman of the state central proration committee, was killed Saturday at Bledsoe, Cochran county, when his shotgun was accidentally discharged as he was preparing to go hunting.

A number of Dallas and Fort Worth petroleum executives, with whom Penn had been closely associated as vice president of the American Petroleum institute and chairman of its production division, crowded into the home today to pay a final tribute. Scores of prominent oil officials, unable to attend the funeral, sent messages of condolence and flowers.

Pallbearers were Dr. L. H. Hubbard of Denton, Heath Robinson, James M. Willis, J. Hart Willis, Charles P. McCormick, Marion S. Knight, Angus McLeod and Robert Wilson, all of Dallas.

Mussolini Learns of His Brother's Death

ROME, Dec. 21. (US)—Premier Mussolini did not learn of the sudden death of his brother Arnaldo until 6:30 tonight when he returned from a motor trip with his children in the country. Officials were waiting to break the news.

Arnaldo Mussolini, the premier's brother, died suddenly while accompanying his sister-in-law to the railroad station at Milan shortly after noon. Declaring that he felt ill, he suddenly collapsed.

JOHNSON RAPS DEBT HOLIDAY

Senator Delays Vote on Moratorium

proving the debt moratorium, and then took up the president's statement of June 20.

"Our leaders met secretly at the White House," he said, looking at several senators, "with the president. Not you, or you, or you."

"'The American government proposes,' he quoted from Mr. Hoover's statement, and commented:

"He might have asked a few private creditors to withhold their collections, too.

We Love Phrases

"'To give the forthcoming year to the economic recovery of the world,'" quoted Johnson, and then shouted:

"How we Americans love phrases. How we love to mouth them, and having mouthed them reap our reward of praise in moronic applause. Phrases about peace as if every one did not want peace. A shout, 'I want economy,' and every one says, 'what a marvelous statesman he is.'

"'To help free the recuperative forces already in motion,'" he quoted again. "Let me continue with this affecting communication: 'To permit debtor governments to recover their national prosperity.' What governments? Not France, for she is sitting on top of the world. Not England, for she is fighting her own battle. Germany, then.

"The president made an unwittingly disingenuous statement, an absurdity, when he said there was no connection between reparations and debts, when he let France out so she would let Germany out. It is perfect nonsense."

Emphasizes Scorn

Johnson stormed and shouted, and at times used an exaggeratedly affected voice to show his scorn of the proposal and of the senate leaders who seek to force it through.

"'Haste, haste, haste,' they say," Johnson said. "I will tell you why—they know that the international committee meeting at Basle is going to recommend a two-year moratorium extension, and they want this out of the way first."

Johnson refused to agree, when he had finished, to a proposal that there be a vote by midnight tomorrow. He knew, he said, that others wanted to speak, as he did, and he would agree to nothing. The leaders had to be content with that.

Two Girls and Boy Held in Mexico as Elopement Fails

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 21. (US)—Three young American high school students—two girls and a boy—were in technical custody in Tia Juana tonight as an aftermath to a gay lark and asserted elopment which failed to materialize.

Meanwhile, Mexican authorities sought the second youth in the party, Allan Witwer, 18, of Hollywood, son of the late H. C. Witwer, noted author. Young Witwer assertedly struck a Mexican pedestrian with his car in the Mexican town Sunday.

Frantic efforts of parents who rushed to Tia Juana to obtain release of the trio were unavailing at a late hour. The parents denied reports that Witwer was en route to a marriage license bureau and a planned elopment when his car struck Robert Talcano, 18, in Tia Juana.

Those held at the border were Avis Cutler, 18, of Pasadena; Mary Jean Clark, 18, of Los Angeles, daughter of former State Senator Clark of Illinois; and Francis O'Mers, 18, of Hollywood.

Tia Juana police said that Miss Clark told them she was eloping with young Witwer.

New Indictments Name Officers for Fee Excess

AUSTIN, Dec. 21. (UP)—Four additional indictments were returned here today by the 98th district grand jury which has charged to investigate alleged fee extortions by public officers.

The four indictments were handed to District Judge J. D. Moore by the grand jurors, who then were discharged. Defendants named in the indictments are being kept secret until arrests have been made.

Four sheriffs previously have been indicted on charges of fee extortion. It is said the indictments returned today name two new defendants.

Hoover Approves New Veterans' Appropriation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (UP)—A joint resolution from congress to provide $200,000,000 additional appropriations for the veterans administration for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, was approved today by President Hoover.

The president also signed a joint resolution making available $120,000 additional appropriations for the employment service and department of labor, for the next fiscal year and a joint resolution extending for 90 days the time within which the war policies commission must submit its final report.

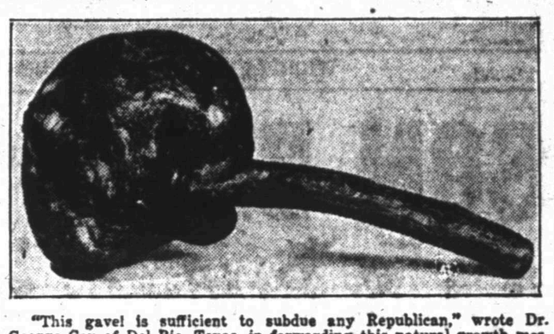

Pitcher Frank Tubbs, recently purchased by Galveston from Oklahoma City, was the latter club's "iron man" for six seasons.

Man-Sized Gavel for John Garner

"This gavel is sufficient to subdue any Republican," wrote Dr. George Cox of Del Rio, Texas, in forwarding this natural-growth mesquite gavel to John Garner, when it was learned that Garner had broken his first gavel with a few practice swings the day he became Speaker of the House. The gavel is a mesquite tree root. It is 12 inches long, six inches in diameter at the knob, and weighs two and a quarter pounds.

Infernal Machine Sent to Film Star in Guise of Christmas Gift

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Dec. 21. (UP)—An ingenious home-made bomb, which authorities believe was intended to kill or maim Marion Davies, film star, was disclosed tonight after it had been soaked in water to kill its danger.

The infernal machine was received at Miss Davies' beach home and was regarded as a Christmas present. It was addressed to her personally. When her servants became suspicious of it, one of them volunteered to open the box. A sudden puff of smoke sent the servants scurrying out of the house.

The bomb, enclosed in an elaborate gilded case, was opened tonight. Police found that a key, protruding from the side, operated a wooden cylinder. In small holes drilled in the sides of the cylinder were heads of matches, so placed that the turning of the key would scratch them against the side of the box and ignite three small sacks of powder.

When Miss Davies' chef, Carl Mueller, gave the key an experimental turn, only a warning flash of smoke resulted. Police said a dangerous explosion might have occurred if the key had been turned more rapidly, igniting all the matches.

Officers took samples of each of the typewriters at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio, on the theory that some disgruntled studio employe might have sent the package to Miss Davies. The samples will be compared with the typed message on the bomb.

Postoffice inspectors said they would begin their investigation as soon as they receive a formal report from the sheriff's office.

Miss Davies denied she had any enemies who might plot the bombing.

BLAST INJURES DRY RAIDERS

Dynamite Trap Explodes During Search

PEARSON, Ga., Dec. 21. (AP)—A dynamite trap exploded in the midst of a raiding party at a liquor distillery near here today and injured four officers, two seriously.

Sheriff Louis White said the party, including himself, Deputy Edward White and Special Deputies Berry Palmer, Wilber O'Berry and Levi Corbett, had just arrived at the distillery when the explosion jarred the earth.

The sheriff and Deputy Sheriff White were knocked to the ground, suffering leg injuries that incapacitated them but were not considered serious.

One of Palmer's legs was so badly torn that amputation was necessary. Doctors said he might not live. O'Berry's eyes were burned and physicians feared he might never see again.

Corbett, uninjured, said he found wire leading from the dynamite charge to a switch hidden in the swamp nearby.

The officers located the distillery deep in Roundabout swamp on a tip that came from a source they refused to disclose.

OPPOSITION TO F. D. R. SPREADS

Factions Pulling Wires to Head Off Governor

By LOUIS SEIBOLD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20. (US)—Factional opposition to the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for president is rapidly assuming concrete and definite form.

Every fluctuation of the Democratic barometer unmistakably portends the coming of a storm. Whether the Roosevelt candidacy will be strong enough to weather it is already a matter of lively controversy. In the unbossed sections his popularity grows.

Within the last week or 10 days the movement to sweep it on the rocks of party discord has gained considerable headway. The conflicting lines of strategy have advanced to a point which will require unusual skill on the part of the governor's friends to prevent disaster.

Involvement Prevented

The promoters of the governor's candidacy have so far succeeded in preventing his direct involvement in any sectional or factional dispute. The maneuvers of the opposition clearly indicate the determination of its sponsors to tie him up with the Ku Klux and dry elements of the South.

It will be made to appear that the governor's strength so far developed lies in those sections and among those elements responsible for the defeat of Al Smith in 1928. He is to be portrayed as the candidate of the southern and western drys and the western units which then responded to religious bigotry.

Of course, there is little basis for such charges. The New York executive has refused to be drawn into discussion of them.

It is most significant, however, that the forces which supported Mr. Smith three years ago are most active in the crystallization of sentiment hostile to Roosevelt. These embrace almost every one of the leaders of the Atlantic seaboard, including the governor's own state, and the numerically strongest in the Middle West.

Confident that they will be able to dictate the presidential nomination through the operation of the undemocratic two-thirds rule, these leaders have effected a hard and fast merger they believe will be effective in stopping him.

It appears to be of little actual consequence to the opposition as to who shall be nominated so long as it is not Governor Roosevelt. He has already been marked for defeat, so far as the nomination is concerned.

Evasion Cited

The ostensible causes for opposition to him are, of course, his evasion of the wet and dry issue, his alleged inclination towards internationalism and his refusal to perpetuate the feuds generated by the candidacy of Mr. Smith. The prohibition issue, of course, provides the opposition with its best selling argument.

But back of these things is the thinly veiled purpose of powerful financial power interests which frown upon the governor's "progressive notions" that are chiefly responsible for the widespread approval of his candidacy.

The governor's friends in the South and West have a pretty clear idea as to the origin and extent of the antagonism to him and regarding the identity of the men aligned against him.

They believe that there is a pretty tight working agreement between Mr. Smith, Chairman Raskob, Frank Hague of New Jersey, Mayor Cermak of Chicago and, in fact, most of the leaders of the Atlantic coast and the larged mid-western states.

Hague, who has achieved dominant leadership in national affairs, has frankly expressed his disapproval of the Roosevelt candidacy in his conferences with leaders who are expected to hold the balance of power.

Disapprove Alliances

These men fully disapprove of Mr. Roosevelt's alleged alliances with the dry southern leaders and those who opposed Mr. Smith for other reasons.

The New York governor is credited (or blamed) with having instigated the rejection last spring of the Raskob plan to have the national convention adopt a wringing wet prohibition plan.

The success of the Roosevelt and southern group in defeating the Raskob move was decisive. It is quite likely the move will be renewed at the meeting of the national committee here next month.

There is no scant room to doubt the determination of the Smith-Raskob-Hague combination to prevent the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt, regardless of its effect upon the party's present favorable prospects.

Floydada Scouts Send Gavel for Use of Garner

Special to The Record News

FLOYDADA, Texas, Dec. 21.—It is hoped that Floyd county will be instrumental in preserving order in congress during the present session. Boy Scout troop No. 44 of Floydada this week sent a beautifully made gavel to Representative Marvin Jones with a special letter of presentation and instructions to give to John Garner of Texas, speaker of the house of representatives. The gavel was made by W. A. Gound, scoutmaster of the troop, who is an experienced wood worker. The gavel was made of bois d'arc and presented in the name of the local Boy Scouts.

Churchills Honor Youth Whose Car Struck Statesman

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—Mrs. Winston Churchill and her daughter Diana were hostesses at tea yesterday to Mario Contasino of the Yonkers Contasinos.

Mr. Churchill, noted British statesman, was unable to be present. He is recovering from injuries resulting when he was run down by an automobile last week.

The driver of the automobile was this same young Mario Contasino.

Every day since the accident Contasino, a 24-year-old mechanic out of work, has presented himself at the desk of the hospital and inquired anxiously about Mr. Churchill's condition.

A nurse made casual reference to the fact in the presence of the injured man. Mr. Churchill was interested. He feared the young man might be worrying unduly and holding himself blamable for the accident.

A note was sent to Contasino's home in Yonkers—a second floor flat in a house all but hidden from the street by billboards.

Would Mr. Contasino have tea with Mrs. Churchill at the Waldorf?

Mr. Contasino would.

Would Mr. Contasino accept a substantial cheque from Mr. Churchill to help him until he might obtain work?

Mr. Contasino most certainly would not.

"I just wanted to be sure Mr. Churchill was getting along all right," Contasino said. "I never want to drive an automobile again. I never hurt any one before—and I feel very badly about it."

Mrs. Churchill spoke of Contasino as "a very worthy young man."

HOOVER HEARS PLEA FOR FALL

Prisoner's Condition Said to Be Serious

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—Describing the condition of Albert B. Fall in the New Mexico penitentiary as serious, Senator Cutting reminded President Hoover today the former secretary of the interior was eligible for parole last Nov. 21.

Senator Cutting, who is an old political enemy of Fall, a former New Mexico senator, reported on Fall's condition as he found it upon a visit to him recently.

Cutting was accompanied to the White House by Senator Lewis, Democrat, of Illinois, who served in the senate with Fall.

While confirming that he went to the White House to report on the condition of Fall, Senator Cutting said he had made no recommendation either for a parole or pardon.

It was understood on Capitol hill that the two senators had suggested early action looking toward the release of Fall, who is now eligible for parole.

The president was said to have taken the position that such matters are in the hands of the federal parole board, which acts as an independent body, and is capable of granting a parole on its merits without action by the chief executive.

There have been numerous pleas for the release of Fall, serving a year for accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny, oil man.

The parole board is understood authoritatively to have considered Fall's case, but no action has been announced.

Oklahoma Bandit Named in Killing

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Dec. 21. (AP)—Fred Barker, slight auburn haired desperado widely known in the Southwest, today was identified from photographs as one of the two men who shot and killed Sheriff C. Roy Kelly when he sought to question them Saturday about a robbery.

Barker, wanted at Tulsa, Okla., for assault and robbery, and reported to have escaped several months ago from the Claremore, Okla., jail, was named as one of the killers by Raymond H. Tiner, an employe in the garage where Sheriff Kelly was killed. He identified photographs of Barker as those of the man who escaped in an automobile after the slaying.

It was established today that Sheriff Kelly was slain by the fire of two men instead of one as originally reported. Bullets of different caliber were found in an examination of the garage where the shooting occurred.

Barker and a companion, who escaped on foot from the scene, were still at large this afternoon.

Twilight Ceremony Unites Popular Wichita Couple

A wedding marked with beautiful simplicity was solemnized Monday afternoon just at the twilight hour when Miss Mary Hamilton became the bride of A. J. Longley, son of Mrs. George Longley of Seymour, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Leslie Humphrey on Rose street. Dr. O. L. Powers of the First Baptist church read the impressive ring ceremony.

The mantel in the living room was a beautiful improvised altar with tall palms at the sides and southern smilax draping it. Tapers in silver holders gleamed through banked masses of bronze and yellow mums. The same beautiful and dignified motif was used in the dining room where the three-tiered wedding cake stood in the center of a dining table covered with filet and the pink and yellow bonbons in silver dishes stressed the chosen colors of the charming bride.

The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Misses Mary C. Boone and Matilda Donnell, the clear sweet violin music sounding the notes for the bridal procession.

James Longley, brother of the bridegroom, was his only attendant and as they advanced to the altar Miss Ellen Hooker, who was bridesmaid, preceded the bride down the graceful stairs. She wore a very long cerise taffeta frock, close fitting with quaint puffed sleeves and accessories of yellow in turban and slippers and carried an arm bouquet of yellow sweet peas.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Leslie Humphrey, was a radiant picture in her long, ivory satin gown with ivory turban and accessories. The close fitting dress, with trimmings of real old lace, had long close sleeves, topped with puffs and a close-fitted skirt on diagonal lines. Her arm bouquet of bride's roses and white sweet peas completed a charming picture.

An informal reception followed the wedding with the bride cutting the pretty cake and Misses Kathleen Melat and Ruby Murrell presiding with her. Mesdames Carl Morrison and H. L. Bear assisted in serving in the dining room.

Directly after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Longley left for old Mexico where they will spend a short wedding trip. They will be at home to their friends after a week at 2183 Avenue J.

Mrs. Longley, who has made her home with her sister, Mrs. Leslie Humphrey for many years, is one of the most popular and talented girls of the city. She has been teacher of expression for several years after completing her education at C. I. A., at the Dockery school of expression in Fort Worth and at Southern university, Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. Longley is a graduate of A. & M. college in the engineering department and is connected with the state highway department.

About 50 friends were present at the wedding and reception.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

There is no fashion in beauty. Daybreaks are recurring moments of subtle tones and delicious harmonies; the sunset has at each setting its glory of back drop, its mauve and gold and crimson; spring woods are always misty with pink and fluttering green, and autumn wears each year the same garments of rich bronze and scarlet and gold and leaves a russet carpet in her path.

◇ ◇ ◇

But it seems somehow, though there is never a fashion in truth and honor and faith, there is fashion in faiths.

◇ ◇ ◇

Times have changed somewhat since those days when disciples of new faiths came to the wild shores of America with a vision of a land where they might worship according to their hearts.

◇ ◇ ◇

In New England there were rulers of the people quite as severe in their ruling as the bigoted despots from whose autocracy they had fled. They found witches to burn in women they did not understand. That the new world might be clean and pure according to the laws of God in which they believed, rigid rules for living were laid down. At one time, man could not even kiss his wife on a Sabbath day.

◇ ◇ ◇

With time, faiths were modified; their outer clothing was made more attractive. In this century, there are few who adhere to all those old Testament miracles in which our forefathers believed. Men are not condemned for refusing to believe in Jonah and the whale, Daniel and the lion's den, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego in the fiery furnace.

◇ ◇ ◇

Men believe that many Jonahs fight destiny to have trouble open their eyes; that belief in good can save one from ravenous lions of despair and that the fire of suffering often purifies.

◇ ◇ ◇

Fashion in faiths almost always means more beautiful faith. Who would want it otherwise? A flower, even though it comes to life in the darkness, leans toward the sunlight.

◇ ◇ ◇

So long as men have ideals and aspirations, they will climb higher for broader vistas. And as you go up a mountain, you may see farther and see more beauties. From the heights, the ugly little things are not so plain. Would one who has mounted to a high peak and seen the glories of the world spread out before him wish to go down into a dark hollow again?

◇ ◇ ◇

That the flower leans toward the light; that plants creep upward and that men and women shed the dark garb of stern and hard faiths for those that teach kindliness and beauty is one of the strongest assurances given that there is immortality.

◇ ◇ ◇

Justice is a tremendous thing in the growth of the world; but justice tempered with love and mercy is a more beautiful quality. Without love and mercy, how could mere man know that he was ever just?

Lamar Baptist Circles Have Regular Meetings

Members of the Lamar Avenue Baptist Woman's Missionary union met in circles Monday afternoon for Bible lessons and business meetings. Circle one met with Mrs. H. C. Glaznor, and Mrs. A. C. Munday opened the session with prayer. Mrs. Glaznor gave an impressive devotional and in the absence of the circle chairman, Mrs. D. B. King, presided at the business session.

The resignation of Mrs. R. M. Lay as Sunbeam leader was accepted, and plans were made to take toys to the day nursery. Mrs. Glaznor taught the Bible lesson, and nine members were dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Fred Childers.

Circle Two

Mrs. J. W. Covington was hostess to members of circle two and also opened the session with prayer. Mrs. E. J. Moore presided at the business meeting and taught the Bible lesson. Mrs. G. Nash was a visitor, and there were eight members present.

Circle Four

Members of circle four met at the home of Mrs. L. H. Hood and the session was opened with devotional and prayer by Mrs. A. A. Foster. Mrs. F. C. Paul presided at the business session and toys were brought for the day nursery. Mrs. Foster taught the Bible lesson.

Visitors present were Mrs. F. E. Webb of Amarillo, and Mrs. T. E. Seigler of Hereford.

The meeting was closed with sentence prayers. There were 10 present.

Circle Six

Mrs. G. W. Anderson was hostess to members of circle six and Mrs. J. W. Tallant gave the opening prayer. Each member gave her favorite Scripture text as the devotional lesson.

Mrs. Oran Nicholson had charge of the business session and Mrs. Anderson was in charge of the lesson. The closing prayer, dismissing seven members, was given by Mrs. E. A. Stanley.

Choir to Give Concert For School Lunch Fund

For the benefit of the school charity lunch fund of the city the Scottish Rite choir is now preparing to give a concert at the Memorial auditorium either late in January or early in February, according to Dr. L. D. Parnell, director of the choir.

Dr. Parnell said Monday that the concert will feature folk songs mainly.

Junior C. E. Group Gives Christmas Program Sunday

A playlet, "The Meaning of Christmas," was the main feature of the Junior Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian church Sunday evening.

The following persons took part as characters: Ruth Billingsley, Barbara Barnard, Martha Francis, Jean Barnard, J. B. Broughton, Jane McGowan, Mary Helen Brougton, John Gould, Constance Booth, Mary Frances Brightwell. Christmas decorations made a pretty background for the playlet which stressed the theme of the Christ child as the first thought of the season.

"Silent Night," was hummed by the department, and Miss Lucille Wilson led in prayer.

The juniors voted that their evening offering be presented at the Wednesday evening church service as a white gift and that Helen Bartholomew be the bearer of the gift.

Mrs. John O'Reilly, the sponsor, read several topics on "Bringing Our Gifts to Jesus," and Mary Bell Rollins, Helen Bartholomew, Lyle Rose Hankerson, Betty Jane Timblin, Jean Harris, Lavinia Dunn, Bob Murrell, Virginia Corbin, John O'Reilly Jr., Jane Elliott, J. B. Broughton, Ruth Billingsley, G. C. Shumake and Martha Clark responded with thoughts for the day.

During the session preceding the play, gifts were exchanged and a basket was packed for a needy family. The pastor was presented with a book mark and a little Japanese garden made by the juniors, was presented Miss Dorothy Dragon. There were 33 active members and four visitors present. The sponsor was assisted by Mesdames B. K. Booth, Floyd Billingsley and Miss Lucile Wilson.

Each junior offered a sentence prayer to conclude the service.

Christian Division Entertained Monday

Mesdames W. C. Duncan, J. R. Kenney and R. L. Sandeford were joint hostesses at Mrs. Duncan's home Monday afternoon to division one of the First Christian Woman's council when the Christmas story and the work of the council was the topic of study.

Mrs. E. W. Corder gave the beautiful devotional lesson on "Benevolence" and Mrs. H. B. Dudley stressed the season in an inspiring talk on "Giving." The home for the aged and the orphange supported by the Christian church were the subject of a talk by Mrs. R. E. Hilburn. Mrs. T. E. Durrett told the Christmas story, "The Song of the Road."

A dainty refreshment plate was served by the hostesses to 12 members and to the following guests: Mesdames R. G. Cocanower, W. R. Duke, W. E. Lindley, R. S. Reeder and T. L. Murphy.

First Presbyterians Announce Yule Service

"White Gifts for the King," will be brought as a part of the worship service to be held in the First Presbyterian church, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The service centers around a simple pageant of the coming of Christ, in which all departments of the Sunday school are taking part. The primary and beginners departments will sing the lovely "Cradle Song" which was written by Luther, as well as the carol, "Silent Night, Holy Night," around the cradle, while the "Mother" sits near. The "Mother," Mrs. Robert Park, will sing a lullaby, specially arranged for this occasion. The shepherds and the angel will be represented by the junior department of the Sunday school, followed by the scene of the wise men, given by the junior high department.

After the wise men have given their gifts, the gifts of the Sunday school will be presented, by representatives from each department, and from each adult class in the Sunday school. These gifts were taken in a special offering on Sunday. They are to go to the work of the Presbyterian church in Persia and Mesopotamia.

This worship service takes the place of a large party for all the Sunday school. Each department in the school will have a special party around the Christmas tree in the basement of the church. Then on Wednesday evening all will join in worshipping and giving together.

Scotland Methodist W. M. S. Studies Peace

Mrs. W. D. Craig was hostess to members of the Scotland Methodist Woman's Missionary society in a social session Monday with Mrs. May McDonald, leader, and Mrs. T. D. Whittaker giving the opening prayer. Mrs. W. R. Coker gave the devotional.

With "The Golden Rule the Law of Nations" as the topic for the day, subjects were given as follows: "The Church's Responsibility for Peace," Mrs. Lamb and reading, "Peace," Mrs. F. E. Johnson.

A lovely refreshment plate was served to nine members, after which Mrs. W. P. Prichard gave the closing prayer.

Lighting Contest Closes Wednesday

Entries in the "light up for Christmas" contest sponsored by the Junior chamber of commerce will be acceptable until 5 p. m. Wednesday, it was announced Monday.

Much interest is being displayed in the contest, which is held annually by the junior chamber as an inducement for beautification of homes during the Christmas season. Many entries have been received, it was said, and before the close of the contest many additional entries are expected.

Entries may be made by coupon or in writing before the closing hour Wednesday. However, it was said, no entries will be received over the telephone. Contestants may mail their entries or call personally at the Junior chamber offices.

First prizes for three classifications, based on the cost of electrical equipment used in the home display, will be awarded in cash, $10, $15 and $25. Additional prizes for second and third places are items of electrical equipment.

SACK THIEF

Charged with having attempted to steal 19 empty feed sacks from the Berry Feed and Seed company Monday morning, a 16-year-old negro boy was taken into custody by J. C. McDonald, county juvenile officer. The negro planned to sell the sacks, it was said.

Pattern 2219
By ANNE ADAMS

Frocks made half light and half dark, frocks made of two fabrics or two colors, or both, are extremely smart and promise to remain fashion highlights throughout the spring season. This model, attractively seamed, formed its bodice yoke and sleeve top of the new light green; the darker fabric was brown. Both were canton crepe. You'll find a delightful choice of new shades just ideal for this frock.

Pattern 2219 is obtainable only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44. Size 16 requires three yards dark and one and one-fourth yards light fabric. Thirty-nine inches in width. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Each pattern is 15 cents. Forty-five cents for three. Send coins or stamps (coins preferred). Write plainly your name, address and style number.

Send for the winter catalog. It features the newest in afternoon, sports and house dresses, lingerie, pajamas and kiddies' clothes. Also delightful gift suggestions in accessory and transfer patterns. Price of catalog, 15 cents. Catalog with pattern, 25 cents. Evergreens Are Backdrop For Floral Color Display

By BERTHA M'KEE DOBIE

Evergreens are sharply divided into two classes, commonly known as coniferous and broad-leaved. The distinction is not well made, since the names are based upon two different characteristics. Coniferous plants bear their seeds upon the open surface of cone scales, whereas other seed plants enclose their seeds in cases that we diffentiate as nut, grain, pod, etc. To the first class belong the junipers, spruces, firs, pines, cedars, arbor vitaes and cypresses. These plants have leaf characteristics in common, one of which is a more or less needle- or awl-like form. The leaves of plants belonging to the other class are broad in comparison to their thickness, but not necessarily broad in an absolute sense. The leaf of box, for example, is very small, but it is broad in respect to its thickness.

The proper association of "conifers" and "bread-leaved evergreens," so different in their appearance, furnishes one of the nicest problems in landscaping. The effect of conifers, which are usually pyramidal, conical, or globular, is stiff, stately, formal; the effect of broad-leaved evergeens is, with few exceptions, "natural," easy, unconfined, fluid. It is a pity that an excessive use of conifers as "trappings and suits of woe" in cemeteries has produced a dislike of them among many people; for a formal garden can scarcely be achieved without them—the Italians, to whom the garden is a complement to the house, equally architectural, depend largely upon them—and even in informal gardens they are useful as accents amidst other shrubs.

Evergreens are fundamental to all good planting; they are the backdrop against which floral colors are displayed, and they are much more besides. In order to guard against disappointment, a Texan must forego fir, hemlock, yew, balsam, rhododendron and kalmia and confine his attention to plants that thrive in his soil and climate. There are enough and to spare of these.

Evergreen Errors

It is easy to point out certain mistakes commonly made in planting evergreens, but not so easy to avoid them. They are sometimes more apparent in the growing than in the planning. One sometimes sees shrubberies in a corner of a lawn or against a house that look more like a nurseryman's display than a garden, the shrubs being too many in kind to make for peace and charm and too many in number to allow for the growth of years.

Indeed, almost every one early in his experience plants shrubs or trees without due regard for future growth. It is difficult to visualize a live oak sapling as a great tree spreading over a diameter of a hundred feet. And on a smaller scale it is difficult to remember how much space an abelia, say, will cover in two or three years. Ultimate height must also be considered. How many times have we all seen a Cedrus deodara, with potential height of 75 feet, or an Arizona cypress, which in its native mountains grows 40 feet tall, against a house as part of a "foundation planting"? But it is in hodgepodge shrubberies that plants are oftenest crowded together.

Color combinations are an important matter. Greens differ widely in intensity and in the predominance of component blue or yellow, to say nothing of the gray, red and purple that occur in foliage. Contrasts can be pleasing or abhorrent, according to the degree of taste and forethought that lies behind them. As white is the greatest harmonizer among flowers, so is dark green, like that of live oak or cedar, among foliage. The combination of greens of three intensities along the Sabinal river toward Utopia in April and along many another Texas stream—the pale green of leafing sycamores, the bright new green of cypresses, and the dark eternal green of the mountain cedars—affords the observer a delight equal to Thoreau's when he looked down upon an autumn landscape on Cape Cod. It can be stated categorically that certain combinations should not be made, such as light blue-green and red, blue-green and yellow-green, gray and pale green, yellow-green and the Burgandy-purple of the Japanese plum, and that variegated foliage should be used with restraint if at all. Gold-margined and yellow foliage should be used with great discretion in those parts of Texas where chlorosis frequently occurs, lest the plants look sick instead of beautiful.

Evergreens are so diverse in habit that they are adapted to a great variety of uses. A few evergreens for each of several uses are suggested in the list that follows:

Proper Placing

Trees for shade or tall masses: Live oak, the incomparable gift of Nature to the southern United States; magnolia, which in favorable regions grows to be a forest tree and which is hardy as far north as Washington; camphor, for the far south; pine in several species; Arizona cypress, which has the especial merit of requiring little water; and Cedrus deodara.

Small evergeen trees, ranging in height from 15 to 30 feet: Wild peach (Laurocerasus caroliniana), 20 to 30 feet, best when trimmed to a cone shape; native cedar; Photinia serrulata, 15 to 25 feet; mountain laurel (Sophora secundiflora), which, though oftener grown as a shrub, makes a beautiful little tree; Ligustrum japonica; the lovely huisache (Acacia farnesiana); Tamarix articulata, known along the Rio Grande as athol tree and grown from cuttings planted where the trees are to remain; holly (Ilex opaca), which is a very shapely tree when it grows single in a field; and yaupon, or Texas holly.

Tall, slender evergreens for accent: Italian cypress (Cupressus sempervirens fastigiata), 20 to 25 feet; Ramsey's Hybrid (Biota ramseyii), a useful conifer having characteristics resembling both arbor vitae and Italian cypress; and, among broad-leaved evergreens, Euonymus japonica, when trained to grow tall.

For foundation planting, background to flower beds, and shrubbery borders: Abelia, which if copiously watered is a fountain of whiteness all summer long; Texas mountain laurel in small enough quantity that its flowers will not be objectionable to people who find the fragrance overpowering; cenizo, or leucophyllum, which, though it is leafless for a short time in February, may be accounted an evergreen; nandina, an evergreen that

Lovely Bridge Honors Guests From Decatur

Dr. and Mrs. O. W. Little of Decatur were honor guests Monday evening when Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Whitley entertained at their home on Victory with a lovely bridge party. "Earthquake bridge" was played and contributed to the merriment of a pleasant evening.

A tall, beautifully decorated tree with evergreens, silver and red berries, made a lovely Christmas setting.

The honor guests received pretty favors and handsome prizes were given winners in the games and owners of low scores.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Two local headlight testing station licenses were renewed and their bonds approved for another year by the commissioners court in its weekly session Monday. The November report of Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, was received and referred to the county auditor.

Grant Street W. M. S. Has Christmas Party

Members of the Grant Street Methodist Woman's Missionary society met Monday afternoon in the closing social session of the year 1931 when the Christmas party at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Bounds was featured by splendid reports of the year's work.

After the opening song, Mrs. W. H. Black led in prayer and Mrs. Bounds gave an inspiring devotional on the Christmas spirit.

In the short business meeting, the report from the treasurer showed that the society had raised $748.15 in the past year and each circle leader, in reporting her work for the year, thanked every member of her group for unusual cooperation.

Mrs. O. F. Coleman gave a devotional reading expressing gratitude for divine aid in the year.

In the social hour, gifts were exchanged among the members and handsome presents were given to the president, the vice president and each circle leader from the society at large.

A pleasant social hour was spent and a delicious refreshment plate, stressing in its pretty colors the Christmas season, was served to the following members: Mesdames J. H. Hallmark, Marshall Doke, W. D. Smithson, C. G. Arnold, O. F. Coleman, G. N. Walker, H. A. Bancroft, A. T. Crump, M. N. Johnson, Roy Thompson, D. O. Waymire, W. H. Black, E. A. Partin, S. Myers, H. A. Baker, O. W. Holmes, John Singleton, C. B. Wigley and J. F. Counts.

Wilson Memorial Circles Have Christmas Parties

Circles of Wilson Memorial Methodist Woman's Missionary society met Monday afternoon in social sessions preceding the holiday season. Members of circle one were entertained at the home of Mrs. W. A. Johnson when the meeting was opened with song followed by prayer by Mrs. A. M. Davenport and devotional by Mrs. J. W. Donley.

Mrs. H. O. Denson discussed "Peace," and each member said a sentence prayer.

Mrs. Johnson's home was pretty with Christmas decorations and a tree in one corner held gifts for each member. Dainty refreshments were served to 12 members and one visitor.

Circle Two

Mrs. W. S. Martin was hostess to members of circle two in their Christmas program. Mrs. Owens gave the opening prayer and Mrs. B. C. Harrison the inspiring devotional. Mrs. E. A. Morris discussed the topic, "World Peace," and Mrs. F. S. McConnell, "A Dramatic Way to Peace," from the Missionary Voice. A piano solo by May Pearl Martin completed the program.

Presents were distributed from a prettily decorated table and a delicious refreshment plate was served to 16 members.

Mrs. R. E. George gave the dismissal prayer.

GUARD'S DEATH STIRS PRISON

Federal and Local Authorities Disagree

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Dec. 21. (INS)—Conflicting reports attended revelation today of the death of William Suberkrup, 60, veteran guard at the federal prison here.

First reports were to the effect that Suberkrup, worried over the spectacular break of seven convicts from the prison Dec. 11, had ended his life in the garage of his home yesterday by inhaling carbon monoxide fumes from the exhaust of his automobile.

Later the department of justice at Washington issued a report that it had been advised that Suberkrup's death was not a suicide but accidental and that it occurred in the prison garage.

However, County Coroner T. L. Sexton refuted the Washington report, stating that Suberkrup's body was not found in the prison garage but in the garage at the guard's home. Sexton said a note found in the Suberkrup home stating "goodbye—in the garage," substantiated his theory of suicide.

E. H. Echoltz, secretary to Warden Thomas B. White, confirmed Coroner Sexton's report that the guard's body was found in the garage at his home. "The department of justice must be mistaken," he said.

The guard's death had nothing to do with the investigation into the convict escape plot, it was said at the prison.

BANK BATTLE

Who Gets the Water Is Crying Question in London

LONDON, Dec. 21. (AP)—The Bank of England is having a little more trouble—well trouble this time.

In rebuilding the bank a new artesian well was bored to insure the bank's water supply in case of siege or natural catastrophe.

When the well was opened the well in Lloyd's bank, across the street, dried up, apparently drained by the newer bore.

Lloyd's are boring a new well and when London financiers have an idle moment they wonder whether Lloyd's or the bank or both will get the water this time.

Crew Escapes Death In Dredge Blast

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 21. (AP)—Twelve men narrowly escaped death or injury today when an explosion and a fire destroyed the dredge Yankee, valued at $300,000 in the bay about 1,000 yards from the foot of Powell street in Emeryville.

A broken gas hose line in the engine room is believed to have started the fire. The crew was aroused and escaped.

WALTON HEARD IN FRAUD CASE

Ex-Governor Testifies as Defense Witness

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 21. (AP)—J. C. Walton, ousted governor of Oklahoma, who has been freed of mail fraud charges in the Universal Oil and Gas company trial, testified as a defense witness this afternoon. Eight defendants remain on trial, including S. E. J. Cox, spectacular promoter, and Mrs. Cox.

Walton said he left the Universal company about a month after it was organized, and told the jury about his own concern, the Jack Walton Petroleum company, and the Francis oil property, near Ada, which it delivered to Universal. The Francis property was the first acquired by the Universal and has played an important part in testimony.

Inference that Mrs. Nell Cox may have kept a government witness away from the telephone during the grand jury investigation was left this morning by Herbert Hyde, U. S. attorney, in cross examining a witness.

James L. Woolson, executive vice president on the witness stand in his own behalf, said he did not know if Mrs. Cox detained Mrs. Burton Christmas at Woolson's home during the investigation and refused her permission to use the telephone. Mrs. Christmas, called as a government witness, was not used during the government's testimony. Her husband pleaded guilty and testified to organizing the Securities Service company on money furnished by Cox, to promote Universal shares as if from an unbiased source.

Letter From Death Cell Asks Santa for Torch and Guns

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Dec. 21. (AP)—Leland Harvey and A. L. Martin, long-termers recently returned to the state prison after a daring break, have submitted Santa Claus a tall order.

Here's the letter they wrote from close confinement quarters:

"Death cell.

"State farm.

"Dear Santa Claus:

"Just a few lines from two longtime convicts asking you not to forget us Christmas. If it won't be too much trouble for you, please bring us the following toys:

"One acetylene torch, two .45 automatics, Colts preferred, one 'Tommy-gun' and one 'T' model Ford.

"We are respectfully your Peck's bad boys.

"A. L. Martin; Leland Harvey."

Martin was recaptured in Detroit and Harvey in Chicago. Prison officials, reading their letter, prefer the stockings of the pair to be empty on Christmas.

Machine-Gun Bandits Loot Chicago Bank

CHICAGO, Dec. 21. (UP)—Four bandits with two machine guns held up the Papanek-Kovac State bank on the north side today, terrorized a dozen employes and customers and escaped with $10,000.

Holding back passers-by with machine guns, the robbers escaped in an automobile driven by a fifth man.

Bessie Buchta, a bookkeeper, dashed for an alarm button as the bandits swaggered into the bank waving their machine guns. One of the gunmen stopped her with this warning:

"Life's too short and sweet for that, baby."

Frederick Man Given 75c Refund After Twelve Year Wait

FREDERICK, Okla., Dec. 21.—Repentance worked slowly but so surely in the man who wrote a former Frederick business man, now retired for 12 years, asking his forgiveness and refunding him 75 cents for a pair of hose stolen years ago from his dry goods store. The letter was received from Lawton by J. M. Smith, but he did not recognize the signature.

The following students will appear in the play: Ruby Willis, Inez Lindsey, Lois Hunter, Lila Jeanne Dodd, Shelby Kerbow, Nolan Jackson and Preston Douglas.

FIVE HELD FOR FAKING MONEY

Dallas Men Accused of Counterfeiting

DALLAS, Dec. 21. (AP)—Counterfeiting charges were filed against five men today by United States secret service agents. They were accused of possessing and coining spurious 10 and 25 cent pieces.

The men named were Clifford Thrift, Thomas F. Thrift, George Luckett, Alvis P. Fulton and Wylie Anderson.

Officers raided a house in the Dallas residential district and confiscated a quantity of the allegedly counterfeit money and equipment suitable for its manufacture.

The coins were described as poor imitations of United States money and apparently the work of amateurs. Officers said a quantity of it had been circulated in Dallas recently.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas leads the southern states in both native-born and foreign-born population. Of a total white population of 3,918,165 Texas has 2,650,041 who were born in the state, 666,555 born in other states of the United States, and 360,159 foreign-born, mostly Mexicans.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

The list of industrial possibilities for Texas has been increased by a recent bit of research work for which citizens of Lufkin are responsible. A carload of Texas lumber was shipped to the federal lumber and wood research laboratory at Madison, Wis., in the effort to ascertain if paper manufactured from Texas pine were possible. In the back of the heads of those responsible for the experiment was the idea of establishing a paper mill in the East Texas lumber region and they did not want to enter the craft-paper business, already well taken care of. As a result of the research and the equipment of the laboratory, the Texas timber has been found suitable for making a white news print, and the white paper is to be shipped to Lufkin, there to be used by the Lufkin daily newspaper as convincing proof of the possibilities of pulp from Texas pines. Somewhat apropos of which is the census bureau report which discloses that Texas sawmills last year produced more than a billion feet of lumber, the total output of 285 mills included in the census being 1,045,262,000 feet, board measure. Yellow pine accounted for 881,726,000 feet and hardwoods for 157,581 feet. Texas, the report showed, was one of the seven states in the billion-foot class in lumber production.

Sunset News

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, Dec. 21.—Paul Finn of Sunset, Montague county representative in the Texas legislature, is chairman of a committee which was appointed sometime ago to select a state poet laureate and he states that he has received about 100 applications for the honorable position. A number of the applicants have mailed applications and samples of their work to Mr. Finn, while others have come from different places in Texas to see and talk with him about an appointment to the poet laureateship. Mr. Finn has enough copies of the poetry of applicants to build a stack as high as his head.

Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie, past president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, suggested the appointment of a poet laureate and Mr. Finn introduced, in the house of representatives, a resolution setting up the laureateship. Mr. Finn states that the passing of the resolution in the legislature was a difficult task, yet the poet laureateship is only a position of honor, it is without any salary from the state.

The selecting committee will meet sometime in January to consider the applications and appoint a state poet laureate to hold the position for a period of two years. Members of the committee are Hon. Paul Finn, chairman, Sunset; Lieut. Gov. Edgar Witt, Waco; Senator W. R. Cousins, Beaumont; Speaker of House Fred Minor, Denton; Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, secretary, Bryan.

2. THE VALLEY—Systematic, vigorous development of the irrigated valley in keeping with its possibilities as Wichita Falls' greatest physical asset.
3. WATER—An ample, assured supply of soft water.
4. EDUCATION—Maintenance of a junior college in Wichita Falls to give opportunity for higher education to our youth—the highest standards in elementary schools.
5. THE LAKES—Full development of the recreational opportunities offered by the three lakes.
6. HIGHWAYS—Early consummation of a highway program covering all the main routes radiating from this city and all the local roads that serve its agricultural community.
7. DRAINAGE—Solution of the drainage problem in all three phases; first, in the irrigated valley; second, with regard to Holliday creek; third, in those portions of the city now inadequately drained.
8. GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY—The adoption of such means as may be found most feasible to reduce the cost of local government by elimination of unnecessary offices and consolidation of others.

Chicago is staging its 14th grand jury investigation of its sanitary district "Whoopee Era." With the new title and a chorus of comedy gals and an assortment of political comedians they ought to put it over this time.

Milwaukee has all its bills paid and over $2,000,000 in its coffers. Well, with prohibition, something just had to be done to keep Milwaukee famous.

Census reports say France now has a population of 41,835,000. In which case of course 50,000,000 Frenchmen can't be wrong.

The Origin of Life

LIFE on earth may have originated in nothing more complicated than puddles of warm rain-water millions of years ago, according to an article by Dr. Assar Hadding, Swedish geologist, in the annual report of the Smithsonian institution.

It probably happened, says Dr. Hadding, in the polar regions, where the earth first cooled enough to permit water to condense on the surface. These pools would have been slightly salty, and conditions for the development of an organic cell would have been favorable.

All of this, probably, is about as close to the truth of the matter as we can get with our present knowledge. But the funny thing about it is that no matter how hard we try, we can't make the whole business seem at all real.

We can believe it, of course. Any one who is moderately familiar with science will agree that that, or something like it, was probably the beginning of life on this planet. But somehow it doesn't seem to get us anywhere. Our belief, like the primeval puddles themselves, is luke-warm and slightly salty.

Long before we have traced our ancestry back that far we get more or less dizzy. Science, entreating us to accept the obvious truth, takes us far beyond our proper depth. We cannot form any mental picture of things. We cannot really convince ourselves that those splashy mud-puddles of the infinite past contained the seeds of all of the intellect—and all of the kindness and all of the love and all of the beauty that are in the world today.

That, very likely, is the fault of our imperfect brains. But it does indicate that the eternal mystery which enshrouds all human life is not in the least lessened by the careful explanations of the scientists. They try to lift it, but when they get through it is as heavy, as impenetrable and as magical as ever.

And that, in turn, is very good for us. The statement that we cannot live by bread alone means, among other things, that our minds must have room to roam about unfettered. The frontiers before and behind us are still unexplored, in spite of the wise men. Their tales about what lies beyond do not convince us.

Pepping Up Congressional Record

CONGRESSMAN JOHN J. BOYLAN of New York believes that the Congressional Record is too dull and fails to present a fair and complete picture of the doings of the national legislature. So, in a resolution introduced the other day, he asks congress to decide if pictures, cartoons and the like couldn't be printed in the government's august magazine.

That The Record is dull is perfectly true. But there is a much quicker and easier way of reducing some of the dullness, and that is to do away with the extension-of-remarks business which now clutters it up. Any congressman can have a long, windy and excessively uninteresting speech inserted in the Record without ever going to the trouble of delivering it. He can even insert such parenthetical comments as (laughter) and (applause) wherever he chooses.

If the Record could be confined strictly to things actually said on the floors of the two houses it would be vastly improved. Let Mr. Boylan give it a thought before a photo-engraving outfit is got ready.

Stamp Collector's Stunt

THE stamp collector is a man apart, and he occasionally is unable to spot the ridiculousness of a given situation. That, as least, seems to be the explanation of the plans recently announced whereby a special delivery of mail is to be made—via airplane and deep-sea diver—to the decks of the sunken liner Lusitania.

A special pouch of letters will be flown from Ireland to the decks of the salvage ship sometime next spring. The letters will be taken down to the Lusitania, brought to the surface again, and forwarded back to their senders. To transmit a letter on this unique circuit will cost each sender one dollar.

Probably it would be thrilling to own a stamp that had been to the bottom of the sea and back. But to any one but a confirmed stamp collector, this stunt must look more than a little silly. A more supremely useless bit of human endeavor would be hard to imagine.

Quotations Worth Noting

The "hogs that hogged Hog Island," which the Republicans whined so much about during the war, were peanut vendors compared with the Hogs Who Hogged the Hog Tariff.—Josephus Daniels, wartime secretary of the navy.

◇ ◇ ◇

We in this country have more to lose from the (Russian) Five-Year Program than all of the other nations put together.—Hamilton Fish Jr., congressman from New York.

◇ ◇ ◇

University clubs are those bright centers of intellectual life where the alumni cluster around the radio and hang on the words of the football announcer.—Gordon J. Laing, professor of Chicago university.

◇ ◇ ◇

If our governments were serving us as beneficially and as honestly as we are being served by the capitalists, we would think the millenneum had arrived.—Albert Shaw, editor and publicist.

2. Jack and Jill.
He had a yen for going places, did the dapper Jack,
So he ambled up to Jill, a fair enticer,
And said, "Let's arm-in-arm it to Van Cortlandt Park and back."
Upon which Jill, the dope, comes back with "Aye, sir!"

Well, when they'd hoofed it up the stem for plenty tiresome miles
And Jill thinks that another step will end her,
The dapper Jack takes time for breath and turns to her and smiles,
"There's water on that hill!" Was he a spender!

The climb's too much for Jack, and does he get a busted bean!
While Jill lands bumpty-bumpty on her hearer.
Today this Jill has thoughts of Jack, but they are not so clean:
You'd better ask that Winchell of the Mirror.

By Way of Report

The current issue of Equity, the official organ for the Actors Equity Assn., wastes a lot of time hating the dramatic critics again. Equity revives the time-worn joke that goes like this: That the critics should be barred who go in for wisecracking—that the critics exploit themselves at the expense of the poor actors. Poor, we take it, meaning incapable.

Now, if we were the editor of Equity, we feel sure that we could make the publication a profitable proposition. One that would bring in so much money that it would help support the Actors Assn., so that the actors would not have to pay any dues and thus make ourself the most popular person in the world with the actors.

For instead of publishing such stale text, we would publish real red-hot news. News, for instance like this:

That right now the Messrs. Gillmore and Dulzell of Equity are the chief combatants in Equity's most serious internal war. So serious a war that Equity may explode at any moment, and wipe itself off the map!

Tee-Hee-Haw!!!

Martha Nilsen of Ann Arbor, Mich., must be an amusing person. She signs herself—"A Mrs. But a widow by the grace of God!" Heheheh. Mrs. Nilsen, however, knows a good gag, even if it's old, when she sees or hears it. She read this in a paper, the name of which she forgot to mention. However, laugh at it, again—I still am.

Jones, who had a bad habit of teasing his wife, was motoring with her in the country the other day. They encountered a farmer leading a Jack-Ass on the road. Just as they passed the animal the Jack-Ass turned and brayed lustily right in Mr. and Mrs. J's faces.

Jones turned to Mrs. J. and sarcastically groaned: "Relative of yours?"

"Yes, dear," cooed Mrs. Jones, "by marriage."

A Dime a Dozen

Peggy will never starve for she can always call in the waste paper and rag man and sell him all her old marriage certificates.

Boff!

It happened in one of the better Chicago dress shops. Beatrice Lillie and two of the gals from her show were in for a fitting. The wife of a stock yard prince entered the fitting room:

"Oh," she oh'd haughtily, "I did not know show girls were here for a fitting, or I would certainly have made my appointment for some other time."

La Lille burned up, but went in for her fitting. As she ankled out of the shop, she meowed within the haughty one's hearing: "Tell the butcher's wife that Lady Peel has been fitted and she may go in now."

I wish for your sake, dearest love,
That ignorance were bliss.

Oop!

At one of the uptown cinema gogues the flicker "Alexander Hamilton" was being screened. George Arliss as Alex was shouting to the world in general how the passing of his bill would open the flood-gates of prosperity! Etc., etc.

The next moment the title of the following flicker was flashed. It was "Believe It or Not—By Ripley!"

Two-Doo-Loo!!

Incidentally, several editions ago (Dec. 8), Mr. Ripley offered an interesting "Believe It or Not" when he drew a facsimile of a check that had nothing but 2s on it. It was dated 2-22-22. The check's number was 2222. The amount was $22.22 and Mr. Ripley would have us believe, too, that the Farmer's Grain and Suppy Ass'n of Merna, Neb. (per L. C. Highland), cashed it.

And the bank's cancellation was dated 2-22-22.

Well, here's one for my old pal Bob Ripley and particularly Mr. Highland of Merna, Neb.

Checks drawn on Washington's Birthday, a legal holiday, are not cashable—believe that or don't!

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE ENGINES ON THE AKRON AND THE DO-X—The reason for the strange use of American engines on a German ship, and German engines on an American ship, is one of unique supply and demand. The world's largest airship, the U. S. S. Akron, is equipped with eight Maybach engines manufactured by the Maybach Motor company, Friedrichshafen, Germany, which is a subsidiary of the Zeppelin company. The reason the Akron employs these German engines is that to date there is no demand for airship engines in the United States sufficient to warrant the development of such an engine. The world's largest airplane is the DO-X, built by the Dornier company, a subsidiary of the Zeppelin company. Originally the DO-X was equipped with Bristol Jupiter British engines, but before its transatlantic flight American engines were installed and it is now powered by 12 Curtiss Conquerors, of 600 horsepower each. My information is from Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, commander of the Akron, now at Lakehurst, N. J.

SYNOPSIS

Lovely Jan Ashe always had her own way. Her father, Stephen Ashe, prominent lawyer, wanted her to live her own life and never interfered until she fell in love with Ace Wilfong, the gambler. The Ashes are one of San Francisco's most distinguished families and Stephen could not see happiness ahead for Jan as the wife of a man so far beneath her socially, although he admires Ace personally. Jan is heartbroken, but she makes a bargain with her father that she will not marry Ace if he will give up the liquor which is ruining his life. They go on a camping trip. Stephen craves drink. Jan sends for a doctor and Mac, Stephen's handy man. Mac gives Jan a letter from Ace which she destroys without reading. Back in San Francisco, Stephen is unable to resist temptation. Jan gives him another chance but when he comes home intoxicated a second time, she tells him he has lost. Jan marries Ace. They buy a house, and Gwennie, Ace's sister, keeps house for them. Stephen stays with them now and then when not on a spree. Hermann Verbeck, an old friend of the Ashes, visits Jan. Gwennie tries to attract him. All goes well until Stephen asks Verbeck to paint Jan's portrait. Gwennie is jealous. Ace, who has always played square, seems unperturbed about the threatening headlines in the papers calling him "Boss of the Underworld." He confides in his bookmaker, Jeremiah Kress, that he hopes to retire some day because the hours are such that he has to leave his wife alone too much.

CHAPTER XXXVI

"Women," said Jeremiah Kress, "can get used to anything. I have been married 27 years, and the less you let a woman think for herself the happier she is."

"Maybe," said Ace Wilfong, with that engaging grin. "But there are women, Jerry, that don't ask your permission first. You and your wife must come up and have dinner with us some night."

"That'll be fine," said Jeremiah.

He could not tell Ace, whom he held in the highest affection and esteem, that Mrs. Kress no later than yesterday had told him that she would not eat at Jan Wilfong's table if she starved to death first.

"I hope I got some pride," said Mrs. Kress. "I'm not sure I'd have gone even if she'd asked me inside a decent interval. But I guess I'm not going now. Alice McMonagle told me she got all tangled up on the forks and when it come to the ice cream she didn't have a thing to eat it with but a little bit of a fork like I use on the pickle-dish. And Ace's wife had on pajamas. I guess you never heard of anything like that before, did you?

"Gwennie says she swears something awful. And Alice told me she rolled her own cigarets, like Ace couldn't afford to buy her gold-tipped ones if he wanted to. And Alice said she talked right out about children and said the Chinese had the best religion of anybody. I can tell you right now, Jeremiah, much as I love Ace, I'm not going to be patronized by a woman like that if her whole family is in the Blue book.

"We're always kept respectable in our set, and none of the girls act like that unless once in a while they get drunk, and Aileen, even if she ain't married to Tut Inman, is a perfect lady the way she conducts herself. Gwennie had us all over there for lunch one day when she'd gone out with some man—Gwennie says she goes around with men just like she wasn't married—and I can't say I thought much of the house. All the furniture is old. And she hasn't got any bed in her room—just a great big couch. It looked right immoral, if you was to ask me—a couch in your bedroom, with pillows all over it."

This and much more had Jeremiah's wife spoken unto him, but of it he said no word to Ace. "That'll be fine," he said. Himself, he liked Ace's wife. She came down to the place sometimes. He didn't think she was beautiful—too thin, and her face had none of that round, indefinite pink-and-whiteness which Jeremiah admired—but she was a good fellow. Only all the women, even Aileen who was not married, had it in for her. They liked Gwennie Wilfong, most of them, and it seemed to Jeremiah that she had given them slightly distorted pictures of her sister-in-law, had scared them off, as it were. But that wasn't his business. He kept out of women's rows. And he didn't suppose Jan Wilfong cared much whether these women liked her or not.

But in that he was mistaken. A woman, even a man's woman, is always lonely for other women whether she knows it or not. And Jan Wilfong's life, which had always been so full, was just then very lonely. After the great shock of defeat, the deep change of marriage, she had not quite found herself. And moreover, it is not good to live in the house with the tragic disappointment of your life, with the slowly disintegrating wreck of someone you have loved beyond hope of God. Nor is it well to live side by side with a secret but corrosive enemy. Nor to find in the mind of the man you love to madness some corridors that are barred, some doors that are locked even to you.

"Jake Landor's out here," he said briefly. "He wants to talk to you."

Ace Wilfong contemplated his brother, general manager and private secretary, with a whimsical eye. "I expect Jake is some upset about all these things in the paper," he said. "He ain't seasoned in crime as yet. A man is apt to be a little upset when he first sees himself described on the printed page in the language of these reformers."

"I'll be going, Ace," said Jeremiah Kress, standing up and reaching for his umbrella. "I'll open Sunspot at even money. I don't think he's such a hell of a horse, myself. I seen him run twice at the Aqueduct last year. He won once and the other time they had to send somebody to get him off the track so they could start the next race. If he ain't exactly suited with the necktie the starter's wearing or the way the wind's blowing, he'll set right down on his tail. I'm willing to give even money he'll do it tomorrow."

"Whatever you say is certainly all right with me, Jerry," said Ace Wilfong courteously.

Ace was right. Jake Landor was upset. He showed it a little too plainly to suit Ace Wilfong. It was the first time he had been under fire with Jake.

"Those newspapers—" said Jake. The back of his neck turned a slow purple.

"What's concerning you about the newspapers?" said Ace. He had sunk into that slow and gentle drawl which oftenest served his anger. "Have they been publishing something you don't agree with them about? There are a lot of signs of insanity I have stumbled against in my life, but a man who starts fighting the newspapers has got the worst one."

"Filthy, muckraking sheets," said Jake Landor. He was a handsome man, with two university degrees, but he showed no such polish now as did the gambler sitting before him.

"Oh no," said Ace pleasantly. "I wouldn't call them that. There is an election coming. The administration has got to do a little shouting in order to haul those righteous votes into camp. It is their right And the newspapers have got to publish the news. I wouldn't get upset if I was you. A man ought to be able to stand the truth about himself."

"The truth?" said Jake Landor.

Then Ace let him have it. "Was there anything in them calling you the head of the bootleg ring that wasn't the truth?" he said. "You have been pretty lucky, Jake, hiding behind that cleaning establishment of yours. Why, you are actually making money off of all them little places you started just as a cover-up. It is not every man can do that. And it has been safe. You have got the town covered. And what cop is going to be mean enough or smart enough to start looking for liquor under all them fancy dresses and gentlemen's pants you haul around? You have some smart boys driving those wagons, Jake. And you have pretty near got things cornered here. I expect"—his whimsical grin broke out—"I expect, Jake they might prosecute you for being a trust if you had a legitimate business. And they didn't say anything about you being tied in with that blackmail gang Hennesey is working. I thought you come off pretty easy. There have been no charges. They will string these investigations and things out for a while until after the election and then they will be dropped.

Landor was sullen. "I owe you some money," he said.

"Yes," said Ace Wilfong.

"Would you rather have it, or shall I let it ride in the business?"

Ace Wilfong looked at him. "That money has not ever been in the business," he said. "I loaned it to you. I am not in the bootlegging business. I stick to my own game. If you want to pay it back, I'll take it, but I can wait. Only don't go giving anybody the idea I'm tied in with you."

The man rose awkwardly. "I'll send a couple of cases of champagne up to your house," he said.

"Thank you, Jake," said Ace Wilfong, "but my wife is a prohibitionist. It's appreciated just the same."

When he had gone, Bill said, "Fallange is coming up."

"All right," said Ace, and he put his feet on the desk and sat looking at the ceiling, whistling to himself. He hated mixing up with a man like Landor, but it was unavoidable. They were in the same boat and must pull together as best they could.

The excellent portraits of Pudd'n Fallange on exhibition in all the best rogue's galleries show him a round and smiling youth with hair growing to a kewpie point in front, and the chief identification noted is his dimples. They were out in full force when he sailed into Ace Wilfong's office. Without preamble, he took from his pocket several pieces of jewelry and laid them out on the green blotter. He might have been a high-grade jeyelry salesman instead of the smoothest-working dip on the American continent.

"I have been having a slight run of adverse circumstances," said Pudd'n gently. "The Fates, if I may say so, have not been kind. If a gentleman offered to sell me the Ritz for 25 cents, I should be obliged to decline for lack of sufficient funds. I should like to place these with you as security for a trifling loan that will tide me over until a little deal I am engaged in at present comes through."

Ace took up a diamond bracelet. It coiled about his fingers like a snake of light. "They aren't any of them hot, are they, Pudd'n?" he said.

Pudd'n looked grieved. "Ace," he said reproachfully, "don't you know I wouldn't bring any hot stuff to you? These are some of my wife's personal collection. They were set for her last year."

Ace laughed as he got up and went over to the safe.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The resources of our free information bureau are at your service. You are invited to call upon it as often as you please. It is being maintained solely to serve you. What question can we answer for you? There is no charge at all except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Address your letter to the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What is the average weight of the Notre Dame football team?—E. B.

A.—About 185 pounds.

Q.—Will an automobile freeze up in a wind when it would not if the air were not in motion?—L. H. D.

A.—The bureau of standards says that it seems obvious that a car will cool off more quickly in a wind, but if allowed to stand long enough every part will assume the same temperature as the surrounding air, wind or no wind.

Q.—Why was Oct. 27 observed as Navy day?—G. N.

A.—This date marks the anniversary of the founding of the United States navy. On Oct. 27, 1775, a special committee presented a bill to the Continental congress, providing for the construction of the first ships of the navy.

A.—Since Senator Borah was a member of the senate at the time congress passed the law providing for the increase of congressmen's salaries, he refused to accept the increase during that term. Since his re-election for a new term he accepts the salary as provided by the law granting the increase.

Q.—What kind of an organization is P. E. O.?—D. L. H.

A.—P. E. O. was founded Jan. 21, 1869, at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, by seven girls. At first it was simply a secret society of a local school, but spread until at the present time it is reported to have 30,000 members scattered through the different states. Its present object is the acquisition and disposition of an educational loan fund whereby young girls past high school, who have not the means to secure higher education, may make a loan for one or two years to carry them through the preparatory college classes.

Q.—Who supplied the building which houses the Gorgas Memorial institute?—A. J.

A.—The republic of Panama presented the institute with a building originally erected as a school of medicine.

Q.—I have a genuine dry land tortoise. What shall I feed it in the winter time?—F. D. W.

A.—All land turtles or tortoises or temperate climates customarily hibernate in the winter. They are dormant and take no food. It is much better for them to learn to hibernate rather than be forcibly kept in an active condition during the winter.

Q.—What plant has been most used through the ages in decorative and sculptured art?—A. N.

A.—The acanthus. It appears in ancient Corinthian, Greek, Roman, Byzantine, Renaissance, Louis XIC, XV and XVI decoration. The period can often be told by the particular way in which the acanthus is used.

Q.—What is a traffic sheet in the hotel business?—H. M.

A.—It is a record kept by the telephone operator of the outside and long distance calls made by the guests. The sheet tabulates the number of calls, the room number, the number of minutes talked, and the amount charged.

Q.—Where was the first high school started?—A. D.

A.—The high school is distinctly an American institution. The English High school of Boston, founded in 1821, was the first of its kind, and gradually, as free elementary schools were established throughout the country, the high schools followed.

Q.—Is a reserve officer called in business and social life by his commission title?—J. E. F.

A.—It is not customary for a reserve officer to use his rank in business or socially unless he had held that rank as a regular army officer.

Q.—Was the Rakoczy march written expressly for the damnation of Faust?—B. A.

A.—It was not. It was interpolated. It is an old Hungarian gypsy tune. Berlioz first heard it in the city of Pesth in 1846 as near as is known. A friend, probably Liszt, had loaned him, the evening of his departure from Vienna, a collection of popular songs. Berlioz chose the theme of the Rakoczy march and reclothed it with magnificent orchestral color.

NEGRO SLAYER FOUND DEAD

Lynching or Legal Killing Suspected

MONT BELVIEU, Texas, Dec. 21. (AP)—Isaiah Edwards, youthful condemned negro murderer, was dead today and official action seemed necessary to determine whether he was slain legally as an escaped prisoner or was Texas' only mob victim of 1931. Action of a special grand jury at Conroe was expected.

In the absence of all Montgomery county jail officials Saturday night Edwards departed from the jail. Other prisoners asserted five men representing themselves as officers took the negro away. In the light of later events officers today expressed the thought Edwards escaped, possibly with outside assistance.

His absence was not noted until last night when a posse took up search for him.

While he was sought in areas so heavy with sticky black mud that the search was retarded seriously, Edwards appeared here and was recognized by Neal Roten, Chambers county deputy sheriff.

The negro sought to escape in an automobile which had been stolen in Humble, Texas. Roten reported he fired eight pistol shots at the fugitive and believe one took effect as the negro abandoned the motor car when it became bogged in the mud and fled afoot.

A posse early today found Edwards' body on the outskirts of this town where he had hidden himself in high weeds.

J. N. Gourie, justice of the peace, held at an inquest that the negro had been slain by Deputy Sheriff Roten. Upon his own request the officer was charged with murder. He was released upon bail bond of $1.

Edwards was sentenced to be electrocuted for the murder of T. J. Beyette, constable, of Magnolia, Texas.

'Legs' Diamond's Career Symbolizes Era of Fierce Gangland Terrorism

Rise and Fall of Notorious Gunman One of Most Spectacular Dramas of Underworld Life

Universal Service and The Record News herewith present the first of two chapters sketching the life story of Jack (Legs) Diamond, whose turbulent gangland career was finally snapped by a crackle of gun-fire that pursued him, unrelentingly for more than seven years.

By SEYMOUR BERKSON
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The rise and fall of Jack (Legs) Diamond amid a bloody reign of gangland guns is one of the underworld's most spectacular dramas.

No longer will Diamond sneer with equal disdain at bullets—and the law.

No longer will his slim figure grace the bright spots of Broadway to the tune of tinkling glasses and the rhythm of dancing girls.

And never again will his trigger finger strike terror in the hearts of the quiet townsfolk of the leisurely catskill mountain community where he sought to model a little Cicero after the pattern of Al Capone.

Tempestuous Era

But the bullet-riddled career of Jack (Legs) Diamond will nevertheless be long remembered as a symbol of a tempestuous era—

The era of gangland terrorism, nurtured by a fierce rivalry to quench the prohibited thirst of the American people.

Diamond was born in Philadelphia 36 years ago. And on the parish register of a little church in the city of brotherly love a fading scrawl of ink still spells his name: "John T. Diamond."

And there also is inscribed the name of Edward Diamond, Jack's brother, who shared his gangland exploits until tuberculosis snuffed out his life two years ago.

Their mother died while they were children and their father, a minor Democratic politician, never seemed quite able to keep his two boys out of trouble.

"Boiler Gang"

In their old haunts along the Port Richmond section of Philadelphia there are still some who recall their reckless expeditions of petty thievery and vandalism as members of a schoolboy mob which dubbed itself the "boiler gang" because its headquarters were in a set of abandoned marine boilers on a vacant lot.

After their father had despaired of keeping them in school and tried to get them jobs, Jack and his brother migrated to New York, and began an apprenticeship in organized crime—at the bottom of the ladder.

Nimble on Feet

It was as a package thief and a dance hall sheik that Jack earned the nickname "Legs." He was as nimble on his feet in running away from a wagon with a stolen bundle as he was in swaying a little flapper on the polished floor.

But Jack didn't stay with the wagon "bouncing" gang long.

He graduated to burglary. And it was on one of his initial jobs that he was caught and sent to the New York reformatory for a year when he was 19.

That taught Jack a lesson, however, for—with the lone exception of a term for desertion after the war—he survived each of 25 succeeding attempts of the law to remove him from society until gangland vengeance scored a victory where the law had failed.

Then came the world war . . .

Pardoned by Harding

Diamond joined the army. But he wasn't cut out for military discipline. So he disappeared from his camp. So did some army supplies. And when Uncle Sam finally caught up with him in New York City in 1919 he was sentenced to Leavenworth for five years.

But Diamond only served a year. He was pardoned by President Harding in what ironically happened to be the president's first act of clemency.

Free again, he enlisted in another army, an unofficial one known as New York's east side gang.

And there it was that Legs got his first baptism of gangland fire, in the fall of 1924.

He was riding down Fifth avenue when a car drew alongside. A shotgun muzzle poked through its side curtains and spat a volley of lead.

Except for a grazing wound on the forehead the only bullet that pierced him struck him—of all places—in the heel.

Honored by Chief

Jack began to be recognized in the east side gang as such a capable and merciless gunman little Augie Orgen, the gang's chieftain, picked him as his bodyguard.

Everywhere that little Augie went, Legs was sure to follow—

Until one October night in 1927.

Little Augie was making a "professional call." And Legs was with him. As they drew up to the curb and stepped out of their car, there was a rattle and roar of gunfire.

Little Augie dropped to the ground dead. Legs dropped alongside of him—two bullets in his chest.

But Legs and his trigger finger had already carved a little niche for themselves in gangland and when he got out of the hospital no less a kingpin than Arnold Rothstein, czar of New York's underworld, made him his bodyguard with a weekly salary of $1,000.

It was under the influence of Rothstein and his gangland grandeur that the ambitions of Legs Diamond soared to the dizzy heights from which they fell—punctured by the bullets of the gangsters whose rackets he thought he could confiscate.

Murray Grants Leaves And Paroles to Convicts

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 21. (UP)—Gov. William H. Murray today issued nine acts of clemency, including seven leaves of absence and two paroles.

A leave of absence granted Marion Madill in July 1931, was extended until July 1, 1932. Madill, sentenced to 60 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter from Kay county, was given the extension because of ill health. He is at Waco, Texas, living with his sister.

Two brothers, Frank and John Rogers, sentenced to seven years from Pottawatomie county for robbery were granted leaves of absence until Jan. 10 to permit them to visit their father at Rogers, Ark. The father is ill with pneumonia and not expected to live.

Former Russian Army Officer Seeks Help

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—A former lieutenant-general of the Russian imperial army, Alexander J. Elshin, sought the help of White House aides today for other Russian officers who fought with the allied armies during the world war.

Elshin said many officers under the czar now worked in his country as plasterers and laborers, and that he felt some aid might be advanced them. He talked with Walter Newton, one of the president's secretaries.

MONTGOMERY SENTENCES SIX

Pleas of Guilty Entered in Graham Court

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, Dec. 21.—Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court here Monday heard six pleas of guilty and assessed six prison terms, three of them suspended.

W. N. Jeffress, who pleaded guilty to burglary was given a two-year straight sentence. He is under a similar sentence for burglary at Ballinger.

George Rux was sent to jail for six months for failing to stop and render aid after an automobile accident in which Miss Eunice Tripp, Olney, was hurt last September.

Charlie Freeze, 21, and his brother Jack Freeze, 18, admitted burglary charges. Charlie, tried by a jury, got a four-year suspended sentence and the younger brother was assessed two years, suspended, by Judge Montgomery.

Rube Robinson was allotted a one-year suspended sentence for driving a car while intoxicated. Judge Montgomery added a 10-day jail sentence to a $10 and cost fine assessed against Gus Allbright charged with a similar offense. Both men pleaded guilty.

District Attorney Sam Spence announced that he would call B. W. Cox to trial on a liquor charge Tuesday morning.

Town Sues When St. Nick Trades Deer for Plane

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill., Dec. 21. (AP)—Santa Claus arrived on time today but not in the manner he was expected and suit was started immediately against a reindeer ranch that was to have supplied Santa's team.

The jolly old gentleman dropped in on Libertyville by plane in response to a special invitation from the Livertyville-Mundelein Chamber of Commerce. The youngsters of the community seemed perfectly satisfied. But the elders had wanted an old-fashioned Christmas with Santa arriving in the old-fashioned way.

They said they had arranged Santa's transportation here by agreement with the Diamond reindeer ranch at Duluth, Minn., but the reindeer got themselves quarantined at Vincennes, Ind., with a skin ailment and couldn't keep the appointment. So today, coincident with the elderly Mr. Claus' arrival by plane, the chamber of commerce filed the prescipe of a suit for $10,000 alleging breach of contract.

Sportsman Sentenced to Jail on Liquor Charge

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—Dr. Beverly Sproul, Lake Placid dog fancier and Montreal hotel man, was sentenced to six months in the federal house of detention by Federal Judge John C. Knox today on his plea of guilty to possession, transportation and sale of liquor.

Sproul's attorneys pointed to their client's reputation in the sporting world and denied there was any evidence that he had ever used airplanes, though he had patronized aviation and aviators, in bringing liquor into the United States.

Scotchman Chooses Jail Term Against Fine Of 10 Shillings

GLASGOW, Scotland, Dec. 21. (INS)—Christmas is a merry holiday, and it would not be so nice to spend it in jail.

But ten shillings (about $1.87) is a lot of money, and here's one Scotchman who would rather spend Christmas in jail than pay a ten-shilling fine.

He is John McGovern, Laborite member of parliament, who was arrested for violating a public speaking ordinance. He chose a short jail term, which will keep him imprisoned until after the holidays, to paying the fine.

Ex-Convict Sought After Cleveland Explosion

CLEVELAND, Oslo, Dec. 21. (AP)—The dynamiting of the mansion of Samuel A. Cowan, prominent real estate dealer, here today started police on a hunt for a convicted murderer and arsonist who many years ago sought to wreak his malice on Cowan. Police said the suspect probably also was the same man who sent a demand to Cowan Sept. 23 for payment of $5,000 under threat of kidnaping the real estate man's 11-year-old son, Joseph. The name of the suspect was not revealed.

The man, police said, disappeared years ago after serving a term in the Ohio penitentiary.

After today's explosion, which damaged the entire front part of Cowan's home, police disclosed that Cowan's son had been under constant guard since the threat to kidnap him was received.

Ship Brings Gifts To Porto Rico Children

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 21. (AP)—A Christmas ship carrying food and gifts for the children of Porto Rico from every state in the union arrived this morning.

Jose Padin, commissioner of education, was aboard as unofficial Santa Claus. He said he had brought a check for $15,000 for the establishment of lunch rooms and milk stations for school children, gathered by the Porto Rico child feeding committee in New York.

The ship also brought several hundred "treasure chests" from school children throughout the United States, supplementing more than 4,000 received previously.

THE BODY'S RESISTANCE AND REPAIR METHODS

The following are some of the methods the body uses to resist disease and cause healing.

1. The blood: The healthy blood stream contains several substances which are germ killing. Natural antiseptics are thought to exist in the blood of a healthy person, as well as in all the secretions and in practically every cell of the body. The ferment called "lysozyme," found in the cells and secretions, has been found to have a remarkable antiseptic power. The tears contain lysozyme and it is said that even after they have been diluted six million times they still retain antiseptic power. Thus you see that the body has a natural power against bacteria. It is also thought that the white blood cells of the body are able to eat up microbes; this is the theory of Metchnikof. Several substances found in blood serum which are held to help destroy microbes are alexin, opsonins, agglutinin, antitrypsin, etc.

2. The Lymph: The lymph nodes defend the body, straining out poisons.

3. Skin: A healthy skin protects you from infections when unbroken as it is not penetrated by disease germs. The same is true of the mucous membrane lining the digestive tube.

4. Ductless Glands: These protect the body, especially the thyroid and adrenal glands.

5. Gastric Juice: A strong stomach kills millions of microbes through the hydrochloric acid.

6. Sunlight: The action of the ultra-violet rays of the sun on the skin increases the natural resistance. Tanning of the skin protects it against too much ultra-violet.

7. Liver: Your liver saves your life every day by screening out poisons and turning them into harmless substances.

8. Elimination of Wastes and Disease Products: Germs and waste products may be thrown out through the bowels, kidneys and skin. Some poisons from disease are also breathed out through the lungs. It is well known that fasting will hasten this eliminative process. For example, the fast will hasten the elimination of the toxins producing rheumatism, thus relieving the painful symptoms. The wild animals realize the great value of the fast and, when ill or hurt, they stop eating. They may eat grass for a laxative but refuse other foods. The skin may eliminate many poisons in the form of perspiration, rashes, pimples, etc.

9. Fever: The purpose of the fever is to burn up wastes and create a temperature sufficient to destroy many types of germs.

10. Congestion: This is another of nature's fighting forces. When disease attacks a certain part, extra amounts of blood are rushed there.

11. Encapsulation: If other ways fail, the body will try to build a wall around the infected area, thus bottling it up and keeping the germs away from the rest of the body.

12. Alkaline Elements: The body uses the alkaline elements to keep the blood alkaline, which is helpful toward resisting infection.

13. Clotting Power of the Blood: This stops bleeding.

15. Repair: Broken bones and other torn tissues are rekuit, often stronger than before.

16. Compensation: By this is meant that, when one sense or ability is lost, it is usually compensated for by the increased strength of other parts.

17. Cilia: The cilia are small hairs in the air passages which catch an intruding particle and wave it upward so it can be coughed out.

18. Sleep: Sleep is one of our greatest measures for rejuvenation of the nervous energy.

19. Vomiting: Vomiting protects the body from many harmful materials.

20. Healthy Soil: One of the reasons you keep well is that the healthy body furnishes a particular kind of soil in which germs make no headway. A normally alkaline saliva, for instance, prevents the growth of germs needing an acid medium.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Overcoming Lisping

Question—Miss Rowena writes: "Although I am 17, I have never overcome the babyish habit of lisping. This has caused me a great deal of humiliation and embarrassment. How can I overcome this?"

Answer—Lisping is usually curable. Sometimes this trouble is caused by an impediment of the tongue because of small cords tied to its undersurface or other mechanical defects. These can usually be corrected by a slight surgical operation. If not, your trouble is probably a habit which you have formed and which can be cured by paying close attention to the sounding of your consonants and attempting to pronounce clearly the words and letters causing you the most difficulty.

Endive or Chicory

Question—Mrs. Van B. inquires: "Is the vegetable endive, which is also named chicory in our seed catalog, wholesome? Has this any relation to the chicory found in coffee?"

Answer—Chicory used for coffee is the root of the chicory plant. The chicory or endive leaves are used as a vegetable and make a wholesome salad. Although few Americans know it, it is an especially well-flavored cooked vegetable. Although most of these leafy vegetables are not high in caloric food value, I recommend them on account of their slight carbohydrate content and high mineral value.

Work Starts on New Hotel in Spearman

Special to The Record News.

SPEARMAN, Texas, Dec. 21.—Work has started on the erection of a three-story brick hotel in Spearman, costing approximately $50,000. The new hostelry will be modern throughout, located on the main street of the city. Contracts call for the completion of the hotel by April 1, 1932.

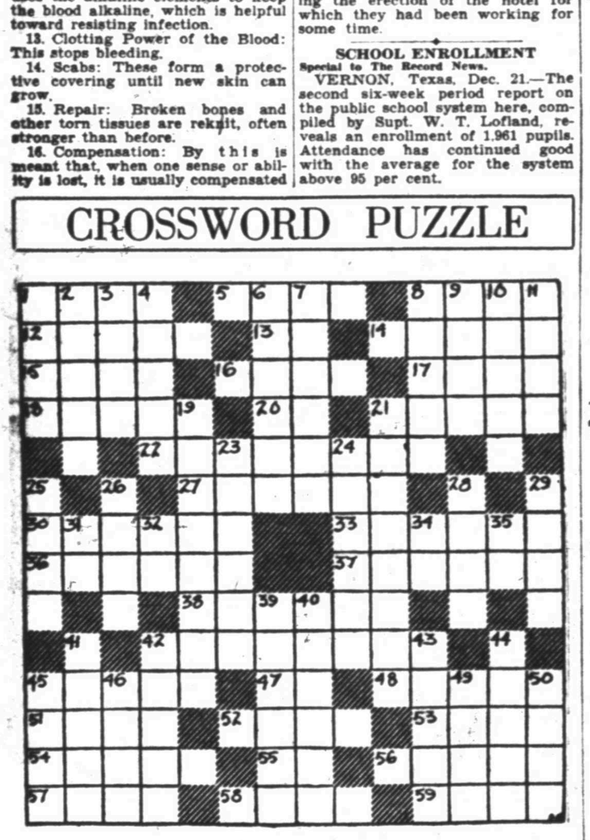

Capacity of the hotel will be 40 rooms, with a spacious lobby with front and side entrances on two streets. Half the rooms will have private baths and the entire building will be heated by gas steam heat. The local chamber of commerce was responsible for securing the erection of the hotel for which they had been working for some time.

PACK HOLDS WILDCATS TO THREE FIELD GOALS, BREAKING JINX

The Coyotes' defeat of the Nocona Indians will place them in a favored position in the district race. Although the local aggregation whipped the Nocona basketeers by only one point they displayed a decided superiority in both shooting and passing. The loss of so many of their star players of last season will probably keep the Indians out of the race for the district flag, but they are sufficiently strong to provide a worthy foe in early season games. The other teams in this district who will probably make a strong bid for the title are Jacksboro, Olney and Vernon. Jacksboro was defeated by Nocona last season in the finals of the district by only a few points. Neither Vernon nor Olney was at the district meet last year, because they were defeated by other teams, but they both have practically the same teams they had last year. Both always have strong cage teams.

The Coyotes are still going strong being defeated by only one high school team. This was with the team from Union Valley, Okla., by the score of 16 to 13. According to Bill Habern, a Coyote football and basket ball star of past years, the Coyotes have played this aggregation for many years before the reign of Barry Holton, and have never succeeded in beating them. Bill played while Bud McCallum was coach, and they received a beating at the hands of this team every season. It might have been a jinx that this small Oklahoma team had on the Coyotes, but jinxes don't usually last that long.

The Pack is well provided with forward material. Bob Brandon, playing his third year for the Coyotes, is holding down one of the positions while the other forward position is inclined to go back and forth between two or three players. Victor Estes holds the upper hand, but he is hard-pressed by Norvan Presley and MacKnight. Presley is small but fast and has accounted for quite a few tallies in the early season games. He is also a very efficient passer, but he is a senior and will not be with the team next season. In the second game with the Nocona second string he was high point man with a total of 18 points, and all of these were field goals.

The Texas Tech athletic department is getting up in this world. Aside from holding a fine coaching school in the country there every summer, Tech is scheduled to play games with football teams all over the country next season. They open their season with Abilene Christian college, probably the easiest game on the schedule. Their schedule includes games with three Southwest conference teams, A. & M., S. M. U. and Baylor. It also includes a game with the B team of Notre Dame. This will give the fans in this section of the country a chance to see the vaunted Notre Dame in action. Besides this gruelling schedule, they are planning on entering the Border conference which contains such teams as New Mexico university and Arizona university.

Governor Denies Parole To 12-Year-Old Slayer

OLYMPIA, Wash., Dec. 21. (AP)—A parole for Herbert Franklin Niccolls Jr., boy slayer of Sheriff John L. Wormell, was denied and efforts of Father E. J. Flanagan, head of a Nebraska boys' home, to obtain custody of the boy were deplored today by Gov. Roland H. Hartley.

The governor's final decision in the Niccolls case was made public in a letter replying to Father Flanagan's personal and written appeals for removal of Herbert from the state penitentiary at Walla Walla to his institution at Omaha.

Fireman Killed in $500,000 Auburn Blaze

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 21. (AP)—One fireman was killed and damage of $500,000 caused by a fire which destroyed this city's largest department store today. The fireman was identified as Lieut. Irving Dwyer of the Auburn fire department. He was buried under debris.

The fire apparently was caused by the explosion of a boiler in the basement of the Hislop Department store, the building chiefly affected.

COYOTES TRIM SOONERS, 24–16

Brandon High Point Man With Total of Eight

Allowing their opponents only three field goals, the Coyotes earned a victory over the Union Valley Wildcats 24 and 16 on the high school court last night. This is the first time in the history of the Coyote team that they have defeated a Union Valley Oklahoma team.

Brandon earned high point honors for the visitors with a total of 8 points, and Reeves was second with 7 points. Zwalcker was high point man for the Wildcat team with a total of 9 points.

Neither team made a field goal in the first period, and the initial quarter ended 4 and 3 in favor of the Oklahomans. The score was tied 7 and 7 at the half, but the Coyotes started a scoring rally early in the third quarter that sent them well ahead of their opponents. The Sooners were handicapped the last half, because of the loss of Cullum who was thrown out of the game for too many personal fouls.

The Coyotes will journey to Petrolia to play the high school team there tonight.

Goose Shoot Planned By Frederick Legion

FREDERICK, Okla., Dec. 21.—Details for the first annual goose shoot sponsored by John S. Kerr post, American Legion, were announced Saturday. The event will take place at Fairgrounds park at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, Dec. 23, when 20 geese are to be given away. The men will be grouped into squads of eight who will shoot with rifles and shotguns and the crack shot in each squad will be given a goose.

Each participant will fire a rifle three times and a shotgun once; rifles will be shot at 30 feet and shotguns at 30 yards. The legion will furnish the firearms but the contestant must furnish his ammunition.

All are invited to take part and to bring their own guns as there may be a shortage if a large crowd is present. Shells can be bought on the grounds.

Abilene's Eagles Have Opportunity Of Rivaling Waco's Great Record

Largest Crowd in History of Interscholastic League Expected at Beaumont Battle at Fort Worth

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Texas Interscholastic league's Christmas present to Texas football fans will be a championship game between Beaumont and Abilene Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the Texas Christian university gridiron at Fort Worth.

Providing the weather is ideal, the largest crowd to witness a high school championship game in history of the league is expected.

It will be the 12th annual state championship combat since the league was organized in 1920. Tremendous strides have been made since 1920. This year, 85 class A teams, playing in 16 districts, started the race with Corsicana, Amarillo, Tyler, Pampa, Lubbock and Cisco as the outstanding favorites.

The past championship games follow:

1920—Cleburne 0, Houston 0.
1921—Bryan 35, Oak Cliff 13.
1922—Waco 13, Abilene 10.
1923—Abilene 3, Waco 0.
1924—Oak Cliff 31, Waco 0.
1925—Waco 20, Dallas Forest 7.
1926—Waco 20, Oak Cliff 7.
1927—Waco 21, Abilene 14.
1928—Abilene 38, Port Arthur 0.
1929—Breckenridge 0, Port Arthur 0.
1930—Tyler 25, Amarillo 13.

For the fifth time within 12 seasons, the Abilene Eagles are finalists in the state football marathon. They have held the title twice and if they defeat Beaumont Friday it will put the Eagles close to Waco's brilliant record of four state crowns.

It is Beaumont's first chance at the championship. Several years ago in bi-district competition, Beaumont beat Waco but the game was protested and awarded to Waco. Waco played on and won the championship. Not since then has Beaumont ranked as a serious contender. The Royal Purple has been defeated twice this season. San Jacinto of Houston stopped the Royal Purple, 6 to 0. Later Sam Houston of Houston defeated Beaumont, 26 to 0. Both were non-district defeats.

Beaumont 13, John Reagan 12.
Beaumont 38, Harlingen 6.
Beaumont 13, Corsicana 6.

Abilene's bi-district games follow:

Abilene 21, Sweetwater 6.
Abilene 13, Lubbock 0.
Abilene 0, Greenville 0. (Game awarded Abilene on scholastic rule of 20-yard penetrations).

Oklahoman Killed in Three-Sided Car Crash

ELK CITY, Okla., Dec. 21. (UP)—James J. McCardy, 30, Weatherford, was killed early today on U. S. highway 66 three miles east of here.

His car struck a truck in the rear and when the machine was thrown back into the highway, it was struck by an auto driven by Joe Schachle, Elk City.

President Fred Keyser of the club, here today, said definite plans would be arranged this week.

LEOPARDS TO PLAY DEC. 25

Dusky Team to End Season With Hillsboro

The Washington High school Leopards will end their 1931 football season Christmas day when they meet the negro team from Hillsboro, Texas, on the Washington school field. The game is being sponsored by the P.-T. A. of the school.

The P.-T. A. is sponsoring this game to raise money for the poor children's lunch fund of the local negro school. Upon investigation sponsored by that organization, it was discovered that more than 50 children of regular attendance are financially unable to buy even a bottle of milk for their dinner.

The P.-T. A. organized a milk fund for underprivileged children at their last meeting, but they have not yet helped any children because of the lack of funds. This will be their first attempt at raising money for this cause.

The season of the Leopards has not been very successful in comparison with that of last year. Last season they won the state championship without losing a game and tying only one. This year they have lost to quite a few teams, but are expecting to add another victory to their list on Christmas day at 3 p. m.

Galveston Fly Chaser Wants Reinstatement

GALVESTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—Application for reinstatement was made today in a letter received by Manager Del Pratt of the Galveston Buccaneers from Gene Rye, former Boston Red Sox outfielder, who played last year with Galveston.

Rye was placed on the voluntary retired list last year when he complained that an arm injury, received in spring training with Boston, was giving him trouble. Rye will play center field for Galveston next year if he is reinstated.

Beautiful Bull Montana to Display Wares in Wrestling Go Wednesday

Bull Montana, the sour-visaged grappler and cinema rough man of pre-talkie days, will clinch with Whitey Grovo here Wednesday night in the weekly wrestle card at 607 Scott avenue.

The Montana-Grovo match is part of a double main event. Pat O'Brien, wild Irishman, will trade locks with Silent Condell, Scotch champion, for the other half of the double main event.

Advance talk on Montana, the pug that made cauliflower ears famous, is that he recently invaded Australia on a toe-hold and headlock tour which netted him seven straight wins. His return from Australia is said to have been occasioned by a picture he is soon to make on the coast.

Labelled as "spectacular," a match between women is scheduled on the card.

QUANAH SQUAD IS BANQUETED

District Champs Presented Mounted Football

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Dec. 21.—The Quanah Indians, football champions of district 2, were banqueted at a hilarious evening's entertainment sponsored by the Quanah Rotary club with a sumptuous dinner prepared by the ladies of the Methodist church served in the church banquet hall Friday night, Dec. 18. About 125 attended, including the champions, the Palookas pep squad, coaches, teachers and fans.

Dr. W. E. Thurman acted as toastmaster, and speeches were made by Coach Dan Stallworth, Gordon Conley, president of school board; E. A. Sanders, superintendent of Quanah schools; Anton Koch, Jim Harrell, captain of the Indians, and Jarrell Bolton.

Immediately before the banquet a football meeting was called to select the 1932 captain. Jarrell (Block) Bolton, big all-district guard, was unanimously elected to guide the 1932 squad. Fourteen men received letters this year, and of this group six will be lost to next year's team. The men who received letters and attended the banquet were Capt. Jim Harrell, Jarrell Bolton, Cecil Faircloth, Wayland Marsalis, J. D. Rogers, Garland Cox, Oscar Richardson, Harvey Blue, Pug Norman, Eugene Jones, Lowell Page, Bob Barnett, A. W. Hall and Glen Smith.

ANOTHER ONE

Howard Sprague Third Member of Family To Lead Teams

DALLAS, Dec. 21. (AP)—The list of football captaincies in the family of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Sprague of Dallas was enlarged today when Howard Sprague was elected captain of the 1932 Southern Methodist university eleven.

Howard, 200-pound blocking halfback, was virtually a unanimous selection. This will be his second captaincy as he led the Oak Cliff High school array in 1928.

Mortimer E. Sprague, the oldest son in the football family, starred at the University of Texas and West Point, being captain of the Army team in 1928. He was a tackle.

Johnny Sprague, 17, will captain the Oak Cliff eleven next fall. The youngest son, Charlie, 15, will be fighting for a place on the same squad.

MATADORS EYE BORDER LOOP

Tech May Enter Western Conference

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Dec. 21.—Texas Technological college, seven years old with an enrollment of 2,300 students, ranking third in enrollment in Texas, may get into an athletic conference in January.

Officials of the college will attend a meeting at Alburquerque, N. M., Jan. 9-10, at which time it is possible that Tech will be admitted to membership in the Border conference, now composed of the following schools: University of New Mexico, University of Arizona, Tempe Teachers, Arizona State Teachers and New Mexico A. & M. college.

Tech has a standing appeal to be admitted to the Southwestern conference. Last year the Texas conference refused the school admission on the theory that within a year or more, Tech would be too strong, and an effort to organize a West Texas-Eastern New Mexico conference two years ago failed.

With a winning season this year with a sophomore team, Texas Tech has arranged the most difficult schedule for 1932 that any West Texas team ever faced. It follows:

Sept. 17—Abilene Christian college at Lubbock.
Sept. 23—Texas A. & M. college at Amarillo.
Sept. 30—Southern Methodist university at Dallas.
Oct. 15—Attempting to schedule game with Austin college, Trinity university or Southwestern university.
Oct. 21—University of Arizona at Lubbock.
Oct. 28—"B" team of Notre Dame at Lubbock.
Nov. 4—Louisiana Tech. Place either Lubbock or New Orleans.
Nov. 11—Baylor university at Lubbock.
Nov. 18—University of New Mexico at Alburquerque.
Nov. 25—Simmons university at Lubbock.

"I didn't get the job"

HE'D counted on landing the job—but he missed out. Again he'll have to "stall" the landlord, the grocer and all the rest. One thing stood between him and a weekly pay check. His wife is somewhat reluctant to tell him. He doesn't realize that a fresh, close shave is important in getting and holding a job.

• • •

Far too many men shave, without being clean shaven. The blade you choose and the way you use it makes the difference. Of course you can't shave your way to independence, but a fresh, immaculate appearance will help. On the other hand, the slightest growth of stubble is a handicap.

Today Gillette offers a blade that makes close and frequent shaving easy and comfortable. It never roughens or irritates tender skin—shears away stubborn beard quickly and smoothly. Try this Gillette on our guarantee. You risk nothing. Buy a package and use two blades. If every shave isn't clean and pleasant—return the package to your dealer and he'll refund the entire purchase price.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—Cotton was generally lower today under liquidation by recent buyers who seemed to be disappointed by the failure of demand to broaden out on the rallies of last week and the action of the stock market. January contracts sold off from 6.26 to 6.15 and closed at 6.16 with the general market closing steady at net declines of 8 to 12 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 4 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. March sold off to 6.32 and May to 6.50 and closing quotations were within a point or two of the lowest.

The report of the census bureau showing 15,358,405 bales ginned prior to Dec. 13 against 13,259,413 last year was without any appreciable effect on the market. This indicated ginnings of 234,759 bales between Dec. 1 and 13, compared with 422,314 last year. Ginnings this month is supposed to have been delayed by unfavorable weather and the figures appeared to be about in line with expectations. Covering and trade buying on scale down orders were regarded as furnishing the market's chief support during the day and this demand was believed to include a moderate demand through brokers who sometimes operate for Japanese account.

Liverpool cables reported local and continental liquidation in that market and said cotton cloths and yarns were quieter. According to cable advices received by the New York cotton exchange service, the Indian government estimates the Indian crop at 4,096,000 running bales of about 400 pounds compared with 4,750,000 last year. Exports today 29,313 making 3,713,754 so far this season. Port receipts 43,415. U. S. port stock 4,666,630.

Futures closed steady, 8 to 12 points lower; spot quiet; middling 6.30.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 21. (AP)—Cotton prices declined 7 to 9 points in today's trading which was rather quiet due to the approach of the Christmas holidays. Quotations mostly followed trends in stocks and wheat.

The census bureau made total ginnings to Dec. 13, 15,358,405 running bales, which was a total for the last period of only 334,954 bales.

Liverpool cables came in 5 to 7 penny points worse than due but sterling exchange was better and bar silver in London closed unchanged. Private cables stated that there had been local and continental liquidation. Manchester cabled that cloth and yarns were quieter. Prices made new lows for the day in sympathy with declines in stocks and wheat. January dropping to 6.12, March to 6.30 and May to 6.49, down 8 to 9 points from the highs. There was a rally of 2 to 3 points near the end on covering, March closing at 6.33 and May at 6.52 down 7 points net for the day.

Liverpool is due tomorrow 1 to 2 penny points down on New Orleans.

Port receipts 43,415; for week 89,063; for season 5,987,547; last season 6,803,536; exports 29,313; for week 61,319; for season 3,634,034. Last season 3,657,981. Port stock 4,711,914; last year 4,278,536. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 185,288; last year 153,999. Spot sales at southern markets 33,399; last year 13,230.

Oil Stocks Lead Market Decline While Bonds Score New Gains

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (US)—Stocks were lower today but bonds improved further despite the sizable recoveries scored late last week.

The stock list apparently failed to attract new buying on the recovery which was inaugurated with the turnabout in bonds. In the latter market a more selective demand was reported, though the tone of the market continued quite different from the prevailing up to a short week ago. Various stocks displayed plain signs of renewed liquidation which seemingly had only been interrupted by last week's recovery.

On the whole, however, the markets reflected less urgent selling though buying likewise continued extremely limited. Professional pressure against the market was to be expected after the sharp bulge late last week.

External developments were of a conflicting nature, though business news was of the same generally discouraging nature as heretofore. Dealings in stocks dropped to two million shares.

The railroads apparently having determined upon forcing the issue of wage-cuts, the Atchison started the ball rolling by announcing its intention to seek a 15 per cent cut for certain classes of contracted employes. Obviously, this action will hasten negotiations between the carriers and their union employes. The railroad stock slipped lower, but there was a noticeable lack of heavy pressure such as characterized the rail share market up to recently.

It was reported that the railroad managements are contemplating wage adjustments which may net them, with allowance for the "concessions" demanded by the unions, about 7½ per cent reduction in wage bills. The railroads' threat of a 15 per cent downward adjustment is naturally intended for bargaining purposes.

Oil stocks displayed the most noticeable weakness, especially some of the more prominent Standard issues, including New Jersey, New York and California. Standard of New Jersey slipped to a new low price for the entire bear market and reports persisted of "enormous liquidation still overhanging" this stock. There have been persistent reports of late that the Standard of New Jersey-Standard of California merger terms, as agreed upon by the insiders have lately been subjected to some alteration, and there have been doubts raised concerning the California company's dividend.

About two-score issues in all reached new lows, most of them among the less prominent groups.

Wall street heard that the experts' committee at Basle had agreed upon their report concerning German paying-capacity, but in the light of the Washington developments the report seems to lose some of its significance. The "rider" attached to the moratorium bill appears to have dissipated hope that definite action on debt reduction might be expected from this congress. Despite the attempt of bankers to hide their hopes in this direction, it is still very plain to unbiased observers that the banking community had been counting on some such action.

Bonds rather than stocks continue to dominate the attention of the best-placed observers. The financial institutions' position is dependent mainly on bonds, not stocks. Therefore, every "reconstruction," "revival," "rehabilitation" effort is being directed toward relief to bondholders, while stocks are being ignored. Eventually, of course, the benefits of a sound, strong bond market will overflow into stocks, but the major consideration currently is stabilization of bonds.

Commodities generally were lower.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—Cotton goods opened the week very quiet in the gray goods division. Curtailment in the industry this week is now excepted to amount to 50 per cent of total capacity. Burlaps were quiet and unchanged. Raw silk markets were unsettled and weak. Silk goods are in moderate demand. Wash fabrics are being asked for ore freely for spring. Rayon crepes are now quiet but well under order for spring. Additional lines of dress goods are being opened by worsted mills.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—Recent improvement in the delivery of wool tops created a slightly better sentiment in the wool market today. Top makers have been minor factors in the raw wool market for some time owing to lack of new contracts. Receipts of domestic wool at Boston during week ending Dec. 19, amounted to 2,869,-800 pounds as compared with 2,102,100 pounds the previous week.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Dec. 21. (AP)—Cash grain demand, steady.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or group three points, freight paid:

Wheat—No. 1 ordinary hard milling 57½@58½c; No. 1 hard, 13 per cent protein, 59½@60½c; 14 per cent, 63½@64½c; 15 per cent, 67½@68½c; 16 per cent, 71½@72½c.

Basis delivered group one:

Basis delivered group three:

Oats—No. 2 red 24½@25½c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 21. (AP)—Dashing of hopes that the United States wheat visible supply would exhibit a notable shrinkage led to late setbacks in grain prices today. The decrease shown for the last week was only 1350,000 bushels, contrasting sharply with 4,145,000 bushels' decrease the week previous. Holiday conditions, which settled on the pits, did much also to transform market sentiment, and give bears the advantage in the final dealings.

Wheat closed unsteady at about the day's bottom level, ⅛@1⅛c under Saturday's finish, corn ¼@1⅛c down, oats ⅜@⅝c off, and provisions varying from 12 cents setback to 5 cents advance.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. Shipping demand here for corn was extremely slow.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May 54⅜@½c, 56⅜@½c; July 53⅜@½c, 55⅜c. Corn, March 38¾c, offers; May 39⅜@½c, 40½@⅝c, July 41c, 42¼c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Wheat longs chose to unload rather than face the period of nervous and narrow markets expected over the holidays. Persistent easiness in foreign markets and a slow import demand suggest that little action on the constructive side can be expected until the first crop scarce news makes its appearance in January.

The holiday period is always one of slow foreign demand. Supplies are usually stocked up in anticipation and the beginning of the crop movement from the southern hemisphere further restricts buying.

While the cash market for corn continues firm, the increase in visible supplies today despite the abnormally small country movement was accepted as definite indication of the poor commercial demand that exists.

Oats maintain a firm tone. This market appears to have an undercurrent of demand which takes all the offerings on the dips and when the leading grains turn strong speculative bids for the futures find offerings very light.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 21. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Around 22,500 cattle appeared at eleven markets today as compared with 80,860 last Monday. Slaughter steers and she stock found a steady to 25c higher outlet than last week's close but mostly steady. General bulk of short fed steers and yearlings made $4.00@7.50 with a few loads of weighty steers at $8.50@9.75. Stockers and feeders were steady to strong with spots 25c higher. General bulk of replacement steers made $3.00@5.00 with a few 405-pound stock calves at $6.40.

Hogs were tabulated at 10c to 25c higher levels than Friday's average with a top of $4.40 taking best butchers in Chicago and St. Louis.

Lamb values received a nice rebound after last week's low close and prices were rated strong to 50c higher with spots up more. Several loads of strictly choice fed westerns sold up to $5.75 but most of the better grade lambs had to go at $5.25 and down. Fat ewes cleared up to $2.50.

OIL DAMAGE SUIT REVERSED

Texas Rancher Loses $3,500 for Cattle Injuries

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 21. (AP)—A judgment of the federal district court awarding Harold Bevans, rancher, $3,500 damages against the Shell Pipe Line company, for alleged damages to sheep and cattle in the laying of a pipe line was reversed today by the U. S. circuit court of appeals. The case was remanded to the district for new trial.

Bevans alleged the Shell company entered upon his ranch in Schleicher county in 1928 and 1929 without his consent and laid a pipe line across his pastures through the use of ditch digging, dynamiting and other activity which he claimed cut his cattle off from their water supply, terrified them into failure to eat and that reproduction among the cattle was reduced 10 per cent in comparison with the previous year. He asked damages on alleged deterioration in the general value of the stock, winning the $3,500 in the lower court.

The northern Texas district court also was reversed on its jury verdict finding that John Bela Martin, suing the government on a war risk policy, "became totally and permanently disabled" when he was wounded at the front in the world war in October, 1918.

The government appealed the verdict on the refusal of the trial court to grant a directed verdict.

COTTON GIN TOTAL GROWS

15,358,405 Bales Reported For 1931 Crop

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (UP)—The census bureau of the department of agriculture today reported 15,358,405 running bales of cotton had been ginned from the 1931 crop up to Dec. 13.

This compared with 13,259,413 bales in the corresponding period of 1930 and 13,456,783 bales in 1929. The figures included 7,307 bales of the 1931 crop ginned prior to Aug. 1, which was counted in the supply for the season of 1930-31, against 78,188 bales and 86,974 bales for the crops of 1930 and 1929, respectively.

A bear weighing 300 pounds was bagged by three Hoquiam, Wash., hunters in western Washington recently. It was one of the largest taken in the region this year.

Numerous 'Bettys' Spring Up as $2,000 Legacy Is Made Known

DETROIT, Dec. 21. (AP)—Herman August, public administrator to whom fell the task of closing up the estate of the late Thomas Sheehan, is learning a number of things, among them that there are a great many girls in Detroit whose first names are "Betty."

In going over Mr. Sheehan's effects Mr. August found a slip of paper on which Mr. Sheehan had written:

"Should anything happen to me I want Betty to have $2,000."

That started it. Since then there has been a girl named Betty waiting for Mr. August at every turn in the road.

"It would be amusing," Mr. August said, "if it were not annoying. Why, when I got home the other night my wife jumped me about Betty. 'Who's this Betty?' She asked me. 'She telephoned twice this afternoon'."

"My only salvation is that they found some other papers in Mr. Sheehan's effects more clearly identifying Betty," Mr. August said. "Until then, as old Bill Shakespeare might have said, 'Betty me no betties, else I go batty'."

VERNON HOPES FOR NEW P. O.

$50,000 Appropriation Expected This Session

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 21.—Early appropriation of an allocated $50,000 for construction of an addition to the Vernon postoffice building is in prospect at the current term of congress, according to letters received by the chamber of commerce here from Congressman Guinn Williams and Senators Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard. Assurance has been given that the item will be included in the appropriation bill which will be submitted at this session of congress.

Preacher Checks Hijackers With Timely Sermon

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 21. (AP)—A mighty good sermon can be preached in an automobile with three holdup men as congregation.

Such was the realization today of Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian church. Dr. Ewers was reluctant to comment on what he took as his text, but he pointed out that he still had his automobile and watch, although short some money.

The men planned to take automobile, watch and purse and drop Dr. Ewers at the edge of the city. At the end of a half hour ride they admitted it was "all wrong."

But they had to have the cash, they said, as they left him with his car and watch.

Of the dozen undefeated football teams in the nation when the 1931 season closed, two—Maryville Teachers and Westminster—were from Missouri.

WICHITA LEADS TAX PAYMENTS

Record Here Better Than in Other Counties

Wichita county has made a better record than any other county in Texas during the past few weeks in the payment of taxes, according to information given Arthur C. Howard, county tax collector, by a representative of the state comptroller's department last week.

The state official was quoted as declaring that on a proportionate basis, population considered, no other county in the state has equalled the pace set by citizens of Wichita county in paying up their taxes. He commended the aggressive efforts made by the county tax collecting offices to obtain prompt payment of current and delinquent taxes, and the unusual response of property owners to this call.

Mr. Howard left this city Sunday for Dallas in order to confer with owners of Wichita county property relative to early payment of 1931 taxes. He will return Wednesday, it was said.

Grand Jury Panel for January Term Announced

Grand jurors for the January term of the 89th district court have been drawn, and were announced Monday by Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, district clerk. The list follows: Guy Willis, S. A. M. Cooper, Roy Magers and J. C. Adams of Burkburnett; Proctor McDonald, Burt Mahaney, H. Y. Newsom and William Williamson of Electra; Will George of Iowa Park, and H. A. Gray Jr., Ed Howard, J. W. Culbertson, Louis Pink, Frank B. Creighton, Walter S. Curlee and N. M. Clifford of Wichita Falls.

The inquisitors will be sworn in by Judge P. A. Martin the first Monday in January.

O. E. S. Wins New Trial in Libel Suit

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 21. (AP)—Judge C. Jasper Bell announced a new trial today for Mrs. Edith E. Ambruster, of St. Louis, one of the eight defendants against whom an award of $125,000 was obtained in libel suit of Mrs. Josephine S. Fisher.

Judge Bell overruled motions for a new trial filed by the seven other defendants against whom the verdict is directed.

Mrs. Fisher, an Eastern Star leader, alleged her character was defamed by the circulation of a pamphlet at a state Eastern Star convention in St. Louis in October, 1928.

In granting the new trial to Mrs. Armbruster, Judge Bell sustained her attorneys' contention that she had the right of privilege as to communications because of her official capacity in the Eastern Star.

U. S.-Born Countess Dies in Paris Home

PARIS, Dec. 21. (AP)—Countess Jean de Kergorlay, born Marie Louise Carroll, died early today at her home, aged 72.

She was the daughter of John Lee Carroll, a governor of Maryland, and the great-great granddaughter of Charles Carroll, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

Born in New York in 1859, she was married in 1886 to the Count de Kergorlay. They had four children of whom three are living.

even great popularity has not rendered common; waxleaved ligustrum (Ligustrum lucidum), four to six feet; Cotoneaster pannosa, redberried, five to six feet; Cotoneaster microphylla, three to four feet; euonymus ranging in height from three or four feet to 12 in habit of growth from trailing to columnar; Chinese tea plant, growing four or five feet tall and having white flowers from December to April; Myrtus communis, or true myrtle, three feet; Jasminum floridum and J. primulum, drooping plants about three feet high; Pittosporum tobira, P. filifera (low-growing and red berried), P. tobira variegatum, and many other pittosporums grown in California but not proved out for Texas; the arbor vitaes Biota orientalis (10 to 15 feet), B. orientalis bakerii (six to 10 feet), B. orientalis pyramidalis (10 to 15 feet), B. orientalis aurea or globe arbor vitae (three to six feet), B. orientalis var. Rosedale (three to six feet); B. orientalis bonita (one to three feet), B. aurea nana or dwarf golden arbor vitae (one to three feet).

For shrubberies: Most of the foregoing and, in addition, Pyracantha punnanensis, or Chinese firethorn, six to seven feet; Mahonia aquifolium and M. japonica, stiff but attractive low plants with foliage resembling that of holly; yaupon, which may be kept low and spreading if desired; and Eleagnus pungens reflexa, which grows eight or ten feet tall and has white flowers followed by red berries.

Smaller Varieties

For specimens: Cedrus deodara, tall; Arizona cypress, tall; Pittisporum tobira, of moderate height and considerable spread; agarita (Berberis trifoliata), an exceedingly beautiful native shrub having edible red berries; box, Gardenia florida, the families cape jasmine, and the similar G. fortunei, which flowers sparingly throughout the summer; oleander for warm places; photinia; wild peach; and abelia.

For tall and moderately tall hedges: Abelia; euonymus japonica, agarita; pyracantha, the bright berries of which are relished by birds; yaupon, which trims into as neat a hedge as box; oleander; cenizo; wild peach, which, carefully trimmed, is much used in Houston; Ligustrum japonica for high screens; nandina, which colors beautifully for the winter when it is planted in full sun, and privet.

For low hedges, from one to three feet high: Lodense privet; dwarf box (Buxus suffruticosa); Euonymus pulchella; dwarf evergreen pomegranate; Myrtus communis compacta; rosemarinus officinalis.

For blooms: Camellia; abelia; cape jasmine; Jasminum floridum; oleander; Thea bohea; Texas mountain laurel; huisache (Acacia farnesiana); Pittosporum tobira for fragrance; dwarf evergreen pomegranate; Viburnum tinus; daphne cneorum, with pale pink, fragrant flowers.

For edgings: Santolina, or lavender cotton, eight inches; Alyssum saxatile compactum, with yellow flowers, ten inches; dwarf box, 15 to 18 inches; English lavender, 18 to 24 inches; Daphne cneorum, finest of all, but difficult, ten inches.

Trailing shrubs: Cotoneaster horizontalis, having small red berries and growing two feet high; Cotoneaster prostrata, one foot; Juniperus pfitzeriana, J. sabina horizontalis J. Sabina prostrata.

Trailers, creepers and climbers: English ivy; Vinca minor; Vinca major; Euonymus radicans and to some extent Euonymus japonica, which may be trained into a lattice with good effect.

LATE SHOPPERS THRONG STORES

Night Sales Bring Out Big Holiday Crowd

That most positive indication of the approach of Christmas—throngs of package-laden shoppers on downtown streets—was apparent here Monday and Monday night in the business section.

With only four days in which to shop before Christmas, Wichita Falls en masse seemed to have centered its activity Monday in that section of the city where gifts may be had. Women, men, and children scurried from store to store, heaping more packages in arms that appeared already loaded.

The word "Christmas" seemed to be on every lip along Indiana and Scott avenues and many side streets. Pedestrian traffic was congested to a point seen seldom here in recent months. It was with difficulty that gift seekers made their way through the crowds of people downtown for the same purpose, bent on completing Christmas shopping. Minutes were required to progress the length of a block in the shopping centers.

Monday night stores remained open until 8:30 o'clock in order to accommodate the rush of Christmas business. Shops will continue to remain open evenings until this hour until Thursday, Christmas eve, when all will remain open as late as patronage demands.

School News

By HELEN BROODO—

Attend Science Meet

A. E. Edwards, B. T. Adams, Tom McCarty and W. T. Falls, faculty members of the high school and Junior college, will spend the Christmas holidays in New Orleans attending the annual session of the American Academy of Science.

The 1931 session will be the second meeting of the academy in the South. Five years ago there was a session of the organization in Nashville.

Cafeteria Schedule

A big chicken dinner will wish all patrons of the cafeterias of local public schools a merry Christmas and a happy New Year Tuesday, according to Mrs. Katherine Keith, manager of the high school and Junior college cafeteria.

Mrs. Keith said that, because of the early dismissal of students Wednesday, the cafeteria will offer no service on that day.

Many Visit Library

The total library attendance during school hours only for the week of Dec. 14-19 totalled 2,481, an enormous amount for Snider library of the Junior college and high school, according to Mrs. Roberta Ryan, librarian.

Mrs. Ryan stated that heavy reference work caused the attendance of many of the students. The week's record was far above the average.

All-College Party

Stressing the fact that all college students must pay their class dues to finance the all-college party Tuesday night and make it a flourishing success, Gardner Walker and Harry Daugherty, presidents of the freshman and sophomore classes, respectively, called a special college assembly Monday morning in the little auditorium. They urged the students to pay their dues, make their dates, and come to the party at the Elks club, starting at 8:30.

Visitor

W. T. White, former principal of the local Reagan Junior High school, visited the Wichita Falls public schools Monday. Mr. White is now principal of the Sunset High school in Dallas.

Honor Society

Reports on the records of members of the National Honor society of the Wichita Falls High school and Junior college figured in the term meeting of that honorary organization Monday morning.

The reports were made by Miss Pauline Shirley, sponsor of the local chapter of the society.

"Thou Art the Man," a reading, was given by Miss Laurie Glenn Pattilo. Kodak pictures were made for the Coyote, high school annual. Miss Mary Brown Basham, president, was in charge of the meeting and Miss Virginia Wiest announced the program.

Spanish Club

Senor E. Olivares of St. Louis was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the high school Spanish club Monday morning. Mr. Olivares addressed the members in a talk about customs of observing Christmas in Mexico, especially Mexico City.

The speaker is in Wichita Falls visiting relatives. When he spoke to the high school students Monday, he spoke in Spanish.

REAL CHRISTMAS

Kiwanis Club Provides Bumper Baskets for 15 Families

Fifteen selected families will be provided with better than ordinary Christmas supplies through efforts of the Kiwanis club, it was revealed at the weekly meeting of that organization at the Wichita club Monday noon when reports of the Sunshine committee were received. Roy Grimes is chairman of the committee.

Morgan Gillum, manager of the Marchman hotel, and Augustus G. Nagel, manager of Saul's Stores, Inc., were introduced as new members of the club.

SHORTEST DAY BRINGS SUN

Winter Officially Arrives With Mercury at 56

Winter arrived Monday in Wichita Falls, bringing with it the shortest day of the year, climbing temperatures and at least temporary relief from rainy weather here for the past several days.

Temperature here Monday mounted to 56 degrees, the highest in some time. The sun beamed down through partly cloudy skies, and a mild breeze wafted from the south. Overcoats were shed and the populace of Wichita Falls basked in sunshine for the first time in two weeks.

Although winter actually arrived, it was more like the advent of spring. During the dark hours of Tuesday morning the northern hemisphere will begin turning its face toward the sun and days will grow longer until June 21, the day for the arrival of summer.

Former Students Visit Wichita Falls Schools

Among the students home from out-of-town colleges are the following who were seen in the halls Monday: Louis Bond, Oklahoma university; Mamie Bond, Chickasha Women's college; Henry Hall, S. M. U.; Raymond McPhail, Oklahoma university; Mary Hyatt, C. I. A.; Jim Tom Barton, S. M. U.; Homer Lee, A. & M.; Springer Williams, S. M. U.; O. H. Box, Baylor Medical college in Dallas; Bob West, Baylor Medical; Harrold Simmons, O. U.; Kearby Peery, law school in Lebanon, Tenn.; Allen Dale Peery, A. & I.; Jerre Elliott, Kingsville; Evelyn Franklin, T. C. U.; Katherine Ashford, T. C. U.; Ernest Willis, Texas university; Herman Smith, O. U.; Mozelle Hodge, O. U.; Mildred Bachman, C. I. A.; Ouida Shirley, sister of Miss Pauline Shirley, high school teacher, Simmons university; Dorothy Lee Taylor, Texas university; Mary Virginia Barron, Baylor; Clifford McCall, Kingsville A. & I.

Monroe Byerly, also an ex-student of the local Junior college, was visiting here from McLean, where he has been working.

Officers Arrest Couple In Liquor Raid Here

Deputy Sheriffs Ben Howle, H. C. Gill and Carl Davis raided a house on the Iowa Park road about 3:30 p. m. Monday, seizing a half-gallon of beer mash and more than a quart of whisky at the place.

The mash was taken from a full five-gallon container, the officers said. Almost half of a half-gallon jar of whisky had been poured out by a woman at the house before an officer took charge of the container.

A man and woman will be arraigned before a justice of the peace Tuesday morning, it was said.

The basket ball team of East Rutherford High school in Washington has been undefeated in 75 games in five years.

$50,000 SUIT IS DISMISSED

Plaintiffs Withdraw Action Against Sheriff

Suit for $50,000 damages filed last week by Odell Howerton, J. H. Shaffer, and A. G. Little, against Sheriff Perry Browning and Sid Johnson, night jailer, has been dismissed upon formal order of the plaintiffs, it was learned Monday.

The suit was filed by Jack Ballard, attorney for the three petitioning plaintiffs. It alleged that Howerton, Shaffer, and Little had suffered painful and permanent injuries on the night of Nov. 10 as a result of gas shells having been discharged in the jail by Mr. Johnson to quiet a disturbance among other prisoners. The three plaintiffs set out in their petition that they were being held in the county jail on that date on misdemeanor charges.

DEATHS

MRS. L. M. SWITZLER

Funeral services for Mrs. L. M. Switzler, 66, who died Sunday at her home, 404 Adams street, were held Monday from the Grant Street Methodist church. Services were conducted by the Rev. W. D. Craig, the Rev. W. D. Cook and the Rev. Ben Bell. Burial was in Rosemont with the Hines mortuary in charge. A daughter, Mrs. Rex Skelton of Wichita Falls, survives.

MRS. FRANCES SEARCY

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances Searcy, 85, were held Monday from the chapel of the Hines mortuary. Dr. H. T. Wood, pastor of the First Christian church, officiated. Burial was in Rosemont. Mrs. Searcy died at a hospital here Saturday after prolonged ill health. She resided here with a daughter, Mrs. Millie V. Howard, 2308 Tenth street.

Man Makes $300 Bond On Assault Charge

Charged with having beaten a woman on Lake street Sunday night, a man was arrested Monday and charged with aggravated assault in a complaint taken by County Attorney Louis V. Abernathy. The defendant was released under appearance bond of $300.

Complaints also were filed against two persons charged with use of narcotics, and against several defendants charged with swindling by check. One of the latter group was said to have distributed many checks, using several different signatures.

Ad Club to Hold Christmas Party

Members of the Ad club will hold their annual Christmas party at the regular biweekly luncheon to be held Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel.

Each club member will play Santa Claus to at least one other member, the exchanges of two-bit gifts being made anonymously. Light entertainment has been planned by the program committee to complete an hour of fun-making.

County Workers Cancel Party to Aid Needy Family

Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, and her deputies have gone "extrovert" on the matter of Christmas.

Dr. Charles G. Obermeyer, renowned psychologist and open forum lecturer, had much to say here last Wednesday night about extroverts and introverts—those whose objectives are, respectively, outside and inside themselves.

In past years, the county clerk has given a Christmas tree party for office deputies and other county employes on the first floor of the courthouse. There have been many gifts and much merry making.

But that seasonal attention has reversed its direction this year—instead of a tree and gifts for those employed at the courthouse on that floor, there will be a sumptuous Christmas dinner for a large family here. Baked hen, dressing, and all that goes with it to make a memorable feast.

The "extroverts" have it.

Children Look on As Gypsy Kills Estranged Wife

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21. (AP)—Failing to effect a reconciliation with his wife, Louis Adams, 35-year-old gypsy, entered her home today, police said, and shot and killed her before eight of their children.

Adams fled but was overtaken by Olena Lee, 18-year-old sister of Mrs. Adams, who scuffled with him on the street until police arrived. In the street fight the Lee girl was shot in the hand.

Dry Agents Close Shop Selling Wine Concentrate

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 21. (UP)—"Winehaven," a grape concentrate shop, was closed today by federal prohibition agents.

The action followed similar action in other cities resulting from a federal court ruling holding sale of grape concentrate for wine making purposes was in violation to prohibition laws.

Don't waste time these cold mornings trying to shift your car and the gears G-R-I-N-D. Let us flush the heavy summer Lubricants out with our Alemite Electric Flusher and refill with the proper Winter grade. A small charge of 15 cents per shot for the New lubricants used.
A CHRISTMAS GIFT
Let us make your dull faded car bright and shining for the Holidays. We polish the body and fenders—dress the top and wheels—paint under fenders and behind bumpers. All for only $6.00.
A BEAUTIFUL CAR
Simoniz gives you a beautiful car. One that will last longer, because a good coat of Simoniz wax is added which is a protection (like waxing your floors). It will also keep colors from fading. We dress top and wheels — paint under fenders and behind bumpers. Try this super job at only a cost of $8.50 on small cars and $12.50 on large cars.
100 PER CENT DUCO PAINTING
Our refinishing department needs no introduction. You are assured of getting the best to be had. We use nine coats of material, and we use it the factory way. All work is guaranteed. We have all colors and our prices are cheap, quality considered. Let us give you an estimate today.
REMEMBER
Remember your motor oil. After you have driven 500 miles drive by and let us drain the old and refill with your brand. We have it.

JUNIOR C-C DANCE

Invitations to the Christmas dance of the Junior chamber of commerce Dec. 26, at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club, will be restricted to members and friends, the social committee announced Monday.

The dance is in honor of T. J. Waggoner Jr., immediate past president whose term of office expired last week with the installation of Don T. Haynes as president for 1932.

WINNING RECORD

Coached by Gil Dobie, the University of Washington was undefeated in football for nine years, from 1908 through 1916, winning 48 games and being tied three times.
