Bill Seeks Water Project on North Fork

The Texas Senate passed a bill Wednesday, April 24, authorizing the study of a conservation project on the North Fork of Red River for the purpose of controlling storm and flood waters, reducing flood damages to persons and property and conserving such waters for beneficial use both within and without the watershed.

Author of the bill, known as SB 427, is Senator Andy Rogers of Childress.

If this study shows a conservation project on North Fork is feasible, then the measure provides for the Texas Water Development Board to make available from the Texas Water Development Fund an amount not exceeding $10,000,000 for the development of the project.

This bill ties in with the over-all water development program sought for the Eastern Panhandle, and centered in the work of the Collingsworth Water Control and Improvement District.

Its specific purpose is to eliminate the flood waters of the North Fork which create serious injury to property, and sometimes to persons within its watershed.

The bill is now awaiting action of the House of Representatives.

Paul Brewer Dies Suddenly at Work Friday

Paul Brewer, manager of the meat department of Lewis Grocery, collapsed at his work on Friday, April 26, and was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital. His death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Brewer was 49 years of age, and he was one of the few men here who had spent his entire adult life with one business firm. The only interruption of that association came during World War II, when he served in the Navy.

Born in Wise County Sept. 17, 1913, he was only a small boy when he came here with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Brewer.

He received his education in the Wellington schools.

Paul Brewer was only a schoolboy, barely in his teens, when he began work for Lewis Grocery, doing the work that youth generally do at the beginning of a career.

His loyalty, his hard work, and his aptitude for this business, so impressed his employers that he was advanced until he eventually headed the meat department.

Just as he was devoted to his work, to his employers and to his firm, Mr. Brewer also won the devotion of those who worked with him, and of the thousands who had been his customers through the years. There are many regular patrons who cannot remember when he was not associated with the store.

Mr. Brewer was married to Miss Hazel Dickey on Dec. 22, 1935 at Altus, Okla.

He was a member of the Methodist Church and the Odd Fellows Lodge.

Funeral services for Mr. Brewer were conducted Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Bowie Street Church of Christ. Officiating were Minister Grandolph Forehand of that church, and

FFA Stages Biggest Rodeo, Western Day

Future Farmers turned Wellington into Cowtown, Collingsworth county, Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, as four-footed horsepower replaced four-wheel horsepower with the younger set.

Wellington Future Farmers staged their most successful Western-Day, Rodeo and Races and when the show began with a big parade Saturday morning, more than 100 horses and riders in western attire were stretched along the half-mile route from the high school to the courthouse square.

Some of the top cow ponies of the county paraded along with some of the tiniest Shetland ponies, ridden by pint-size future cowboys and cowgirls.

A number of the Shetlands were hitched to pony carts. Occasionally a father or grandfather rode with the smallest fry.

Approximately 15 business firms were represented in the parade and leading this colorful retinue was the Skyrocket Band.

Winners in the Saturday afternoon races at Marian Airpark and the Saturday night Rodeo events at the rodeo grounds were announced by Danny Garcia, vocational ag instructor.

In the 300 yard horse race, a horse owned by Lewis Morris and ridden by Don Barnett won over the horse ridden by Tommy Lindley.

But in the next race for 200 yards, Lindley won over Barnett.

Rodeo Winners

Winning the steer riding was Walt Campbell, while Clifford Throne and Kenneth Patterson tied for second and Mark Fires was third.

Due to the number of entries, two qualifying rounds were held. Campbell, Fires and Glen Thomas qualified in the first round and Ronnie Gray, Patterson and Throne in the second.

First place in the boot race went to Glen Thomas; second, Ronnie Gray; third, Leamon Bawcom; fourth, Tommy Yarbrough and Bobby Barnett. Jerry Hurst won the tie-down calf roping in 26.1 seconds; Walter Campbell was second at 1:8.7. None of the other 7 entries qualified.

Ted Bailey won the sack race; Chris Cook was second; Roy Jackson was third; Eddie Orr fourth and Monte Kromer fifth.

In the trailer race, Kent Clark and Alfred Alfred with a time of 54.8 beat out Tony White and Jerry Hurst, who were one-tenthsecond slower with 54.9. Third went to the team of Joe Henard and Ronnie Ketchum, who had a time of 1:1.1. Fourth went to Tommy Yarbrough and Tommy Lindley, 1:5; fifth, Mark Fires and Walt Campbell, 1:8.5; and sixth, Leamon Bawcom and Ronnie Hartman, 1:12.7.

Shovel race: first, J. Warren and Tony White, 16.6; second, Jim Henard and Tim White, 27.8; third, Glen Thomas and Ronnie Ketchum, 30.9; fourth, Jackie Needham and Bobby Barnett, 31.3; and fifth, Leamon Bawcom and Ronnie Hartman, 51.4.

Team roping: first, Tony White and Jerry Hurst, 54.7 seconds; second, Tim White and Tony White, 1:3.2; third, Bill Driver and Max Phipps, 1:37.2.

Ribbon roping: first, Tony White and Jerry Hurst, 42.3; second, Mark Fires and Walt Campbell, 54.9; third, Leamon Bawcom and Ronnie Hartman, 1:13; fourth, Glen Thomas and Kenneth Patterson, 1:20.7; and fifth, Philip Hughey and Tim White, 1:21.3.

Trio Visits in Arkansas

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vaughan and Mrs. W. F. Vaughan returned Friday from a week's visit in Cave City and Batesville, Ark.

Mr. Vaughan had returned many times to visit his former home since leaving there in 1901.

Mrs. W. F. Vaughan, also left near-by Cave Creek in 1901 and this was the first time in 62 years that she has visited her former home. She visited many scenes of her childhood and brought back plants from the yard of her home, which is still occupied.

She came to Rockwall county with her parents, the late Will and Amanda Brewer, from the family home at Cave Creek near Batesville, making the three weeks trip in a covered wagon. They came to Collingsworth county in 1904, along with Mr. Brewer's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lewis of the Kelley community.

The trio stayed near the beautifully landscaped park at the entrance of Crystal River Cave, a burying ground for the Osage Indians, and a place where they held their powwows. The nearby museum, visited by the Wellington group, contains many relics taken from the cavern.

Election Code Overhaul Due

AUSTIN.—A complete overhaul of the election code is due. Senate already has passed a bill correcting scores of errors in the old law, which was overhauled in haste in 1951.

House members amended the bill to eliminate the "agent form" of paying poll taxes. Instead, prospective voters would have to go to the court house or get a deputy tax collector to certify qualifications to vote.

House also refused to require county tax assessors to name civic workers as deputies.

Progress is slow on the proposals to abolish the poll tax as a prerequisite to voting.

Senators passed a proposed constitutional amendment to let the people say whether they want to keep the poll tax. But after some delay, a House committee put it in subcommittee.

Meanwhile the national constitutional amendment to outlaw the poll tax in election of president, vice president, senators and congressmen has been ratified by 30 states. When 8 more ratify it, use of the poll tax in Texas would be out the window.

Sen. Abraham Kazen Jr. of Laredo envisions the possibility that the 1964 election could be held with state officers elected by poll tax holders, federal officials by everybody.

NO MONUMENT FOR THE 49TH DIVISION

AUSTIN.—A Senate resolution to place a monument honoring the 49th Armored Division of the Texas National Guard on the State Capitol grounds was all but killed by the House State Affairs Committee, after Alpine Representative Gene Hendryx called it "a disgrace to every veteran who ever served overseas in every war that Texas ever participated in."

The former Marine said "the greatest battle this organization ever fought was the battle of the canteen at Fort Polk, Louisiana."

Seguin Rep. John Traeger defended he 49th, but the resolution was defeated by a vote of eight to seven.

However, a spark of life remains, since Rep. Ben Atwell used a device by which the resolution may be called up for another vote.

The first major national labor organization in the USA was known as the "Knights of Labor."

I'LL BE WITH YOU SHORTLY!

The Wheat Vote: At Stake Is Freedom Or Total Control

Qualified wheat growers of Collingsworth County will go to the polls, May 21, 1963, along with wheat farmers all over the nation to cast their votes in a referendum. The choice on the Ballot will be whether to vote "yes" or "no" on a multiple price certificate plan for wheat. If two-thirds or more of those voting vote "yes," the proposed plan will go into effect, beginning with the 1964 crop; if more than one-third of those voting vote "no," it will not.

The real issue is NOT phony claims "$2.00 versus $1.00" wheat or the exact amount of acreage that will be cut the first year.

The real issue is this: "Is government supply management going to be the future way of life for the American farmer? Who will manage our farms—farmers or the federal government?"

The "mastermind" behind the "supply management" or "supply control" theory is Dr. Willard W. Cochrane, Director of Agricultural Economics, U. S. D. A. He has defined his theory this way, according to the March 6, 1961, issue of the Wall Street Journal:

"By supply control, I mean the conscious adjustment of supply to demand, commodity by commodity, year after year, to yield prices in the market that have already been determined fair by some responsible agency."

Lest we be misled into thinking that "supply control" would be limited to wheat and feed grains, we find Dr. Cochrane had this to say in the Journal of Farm Economics, November, 1959, pp 714-715;

"It is probably the case, however, that beef producers would be forced to accept supply control if producers in the above aggregate of animal products adopted supply control. . ."

In an interview in the Fall, 1960, issue of Farm Quarterly Magazine, Dr. Cochrane was asked:

"After a few commodities adopted supply control do you think others would be encouraged to follow suit?"

His reply: "It would not be a matter of encouragement; some of them would be forced in. . ."

Further evidence that the proposed wheat plan was conceived with the idea of setting the stage to extend "supply control" to other commodities is found in the same interview:

QUESTION: "What groups would you say are most prepared to adopt control?"

ANSWER: "Wheat producers, manufacturing milk, poultry, in that order seem most interested."

Thus, the real issue is spelled out for the wheat farmers who plan to vote in the coming referendum. More than just wheat is involved. May voters cast their ballots wisely.

Wheat in itself is but a symbol of the real issues at stake in the referendum.

In the words of Benjamin Franklin, "They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

Senior Series

Johnny Ford

Johnny Ford brought honors to Wellington high school in track this year, winning the district 2-A Interscholastic League 880 yard dash and placing in the pole vault. The victory in the dash was a repeat of last year's performance.

He went on to win fourth in the regional contest this year, the highest of any athlete.

A well-rounded list of extra curricular activities are on Johnny's high school record. He played baseball a year, was on the track team two. He played football a year, and was team manager two years. But his favorite sport was basketball and he was on the team all four years.

Johnny was a member of the Future Teachers chapter the last two years, the Library Club and the Science Club this year. Interested in dramatics, he was in the junior play, the Christmas play, and will appear in the senior class play.

Last year he received a certificate for creative writing in poetry.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ford, Johnny was born here Nov. 11, 1944. He lives at 1510 Graham Street. All of his school work was done here.

Biology and history are his favorite subjects and sports his hobby.

Johnny will attend North Texas State University and major in biology.

Herbie Duncan

Herbie Duncan has been outstanding in almost every sport offered in Wellington high school, and he climaxed his high school athletic career by winning in the district Interscholastic League competition and participating in the regional meet.

Herbie played football four years, basketball three, baseball one, and was on the track team four. He was chosen for the all-district football team this year.

He won the district 2-A 100 yard dash and 220 yard dash, and placed in the 440 yard relay.

He also was escort to the Harvest Queen one year and was class favorite as a senior. He was in the Christmas play two years and will appear in the senior play.

Herbie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Duncan, Wellington, and he was born Sept. 16, 1943 in Los Angeles. He attended Wellington schools for all his work.

History is his favorite subject and water skiing his hobby.

Shortly after graduating he will begin six months basic training in the Army under the National Guard program.

Vicki Glenn

Few girls have had the full and satisfying high school career that has come the way of Vicki Glenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Glenn of Wellington. She was born here on Dec. 19, 1944, and she has attended only the Wellington schools.

To begin with, she is one of the top rating students scholastically in the senior class.

When a freshman, she played in the band, was named class favorite and most studious. Sophomores named her to the newspaper staff, class queen candidate and most courteous. When they came to be juniors, they selected Vicki an officer in the Future Teachers, FFA Sweetheart, Football Queen, most versatile and the basketball co-captain.

This year she was Miss Basketball, on the all-district basketball team, and all tournament team, Personality Queen, and the best All Around Girl.

Some honors came more than one year: as being named to Who's Who, a Future Homemakers officer, Beta Club officer, class officer as a sophomore, junior and senior, basketball queen attendant, and singing in the FFA Area chorus, and she was on the office staff two years.

Vicki was in the FTA three years, played volleyball ball three years and basketball four, and was in the senior play and the Christmas play casts.

Other honors were on a community basis. Vicki was chosen to represent Wellington at Girls State last year. The Kiwanians have had her as their Sweetheart the last two years and she was president of the Methodist MYF the last two years also. She was chosen as MYF Sub-District Officer and a B&PW Girl of the Month.

Vicki is a member of the Methodist Choir and church organist. This year she will receive her high school diploma in music.

A member of Ti-ca social club four years, she was an officer three. She also has been a member of and officer in St. Joseph's Junior Hospital Auxiliary, and the Junior Music Club. She is now junior American Legion Auxiliary counselor.

English, history and commercial subjects are her favorites, while music and sports are her hobbies.

Vicki will attend Texas Technological College and major in elementary education.

Shortest Session If Ends May 7

AUSTIN—A modern-day record for short legislative sessions may be set if Lt. Gov. Preston Smith and Speaker Byron Tunnell can get legislators to wind up their business and go home by May 7.

A May 7 adjournment has been filed. But the constitution allows the legislature to work until May 27 if they can't finish by the 7th.

Both houses have been making fast progress on "local and uncontested bill" days.

Darlene Rainey First Norwood Future Homemaker to Receive State Degree

When Darlene Rainey was given her State Degree in Homemaking at the State FFA convention in Dallas April 18-20, she became the first girl from Samnorwood high school to receive this award.

Two other girls attended the meeting: Nancy Hill, voting delegate from the Samnorwood Future Homemakers chapter, and Sue Dwight. Accompanying them were Mrs. Selma Rainey, Darlene's mother, and Mrs. Arva Knight, homemaking instructor.

Darlene served as reporter to the FFA her freshman year and received her Junior Degree May 18, 1960. The chapter selects the State meeting delegates by the point system and Darlene had enough points to go to the State meeting her freshman year. While at the meeting in Austin, the presentation of the State Degree inspired her to work toward that goal.

She was elected treasurer of the FFA chapter her sophomore year. She entered the State-Line Fair and the Collingsworth County Fair in active participation of her homemaking and won various fields such as sewing, canning and home projects work. She received her Chapter Degree on July 15, 1961.

She served as president of the FFA Chapter in 1961-62 and was selected the best homemaker for the Who's Who. She represented the chapter at the State meeting again on the point system and participated in the skit that was presented by Area I.

She began work on her State Degree in the summer by the selecting of the goals of achievement that she needs to improve most on.

Mrs. Arva Knight, her advisor, helped to evaluate her goals, and these were sent to the Area office July 1, 1962.

Darlene is serving as vice president of the chapter this year. She has attended all the area meetings since she has been in high school, and the State meetings twice.

4,700 CHILDREN TO DIE OF CANCER IN 1963

Some 4,700 children will die of cancer in 1963 if present rates continue, according to the American Cancer Society. Many of these deaths will be unnecessary—because cancer was detected too late for effective treatment. Parents should be aware that cancer strikes children as well as adults.

Major Crime Up in Texas During 1962

AUSTIN.—Major crime in Texas continued its upward spiral in 1962, outstripping the population increase as an average of one offense was committed every 2½ minutes.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr. director of the Department of Public Safety, reported that crime jumped 6.6% in 1962 over 1961, with the crime of auto theft showing the largest increase of 10.5%.

Garrison said the 1962 figures represent an overall increase in crime in Texas of about 71% since 1955.

"The crime rate per 100,000 population increased from 2,122 in 1961 to 2,261.5 in 1962, confirming once again the alarming trend that set in after World War II," he said.

The official 1962 crime report shows that murder was down 8.5%, rape decreased by 8.2%, robbery dropped 2.1%, while burglary increased 4.9%, aggravated assault 6.4%, theft 7.4%, and auto theft 10.5%.

In urban areas, there was an increase in major crime of 8.4%, offset by a 3.9% decline in rural areas.

By population groups, the greatest increase was 14.7% in cities between 50,000 and 100,000, while the largest decrease was 15.5% in counties with under five rural population per square mile.

Garrison said there was an 11.8% increase in 1956, 9.2% increase in 1957, a 9.3% increase in 1958; a 3.9% increase in 1959, a 13.1% increase in 1960, and a 2.2% increase in 1961.

"The 1962 figures, according to our statistical services section, mean that on the average, there was one major crime every 2½ minutes, one murder every 9 hours, one rape every 7½ hours, one robbery every 3 hours, one burglary every 9½ minutes, one aggravated assault every 40½ minutes, one theft every 4 minutes, and one auto theft every 32 minutes," Garrison said.

"Overall, there was an estimated 216,650 offenses in 1962 which compares with only 126,791 in 1955."

CANCER TREATMENT WILL SAVE 177,000

About 177,000 Americans will be saved from cancer this year. However, the American Cancer Society says that about 88,000 cancer patients will probably die in 1963 who might have been saved by earlier detection and treatment. Have a health check-up once a year as a safeguard against death from cancer.

Meat is a bargain today, and any of the retail cuts can be appetizing if prepared properly. Local county home demonstration agents can supply information on meat cookery, concludes Uvacek.

Protein Deficiency Reduces Vitamin

Research reported by the University of Arizona indicated that body weights and liver storage of vitamin A were significantly greater with adequate protein in the diet of cattle.

When Vitamin A acetate was injected into the rumen of vitamin A depleted sheep, the animals fed a 10.4% crude protein ration stored twice as much vitamin A in the liver (66.6 mg. of total vitamin A per animal) as did those fed a 5.9% crude protein ration (32.1 mg.).

The test was conducted by depleting the test animals of body storage of vitamin A during a preliminary 8-week feeding period after they had been allotted to the protein-adequate or protein-deficient diet.

Thereafter, for four weeks, vitamin A was injected into the rumen daily. At the completion of the injection period, the animals were slaughtered and the liver (the organ in which vitamin A is stored) was examined.

In addition to these observations, they noted that there were significant decreases in serum albumin, A:G ratio, and plasma vitamin A in the sheep fed the protein-deficient ration.

A 1959 graduate of Vinson high school, Sherrill is a senior at Southwestern State college and will graduate in January of 1964 with a degree in physical education.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson

BOOM OR BUST PLANNERS

One segment of American thought considers the prospect of recession about as fearsome as nuclear war. Generally this thinking insists that government provide guarantees against each calamity. It was therefore both concession and pressure when President Kennedy looked a group of bankers in the eye recently and promised the nation a recession unless his tax cut goes through.

Has Mr. Kennedy taken up soothing? If so, why are his planners blind to dangers of government-induced economic chaos? Either kind of collapse would surely bring on a thorough-going government-managed economy. Perhaps that is the real goal.

When the economic indicators revealed a slow-down last summer, we heard this same plea: there would have to be a tax cut to stave off recession. Then, with the economy stepping along briskly at the year's end, it was said that the future would require a tax cut.

Now that we're on a plateau and nothing spectacular is occurring to set off a boom, we are told that we have only two choices—either we cut taxes or we face a recession. (A free economy always faces recession.)

Boom Obsession

Another obsession among the planners is that we require incessant economic boom. They decree that our growth must proceed at some predetermined but furious rate, with never a backward look nor pause for readjustment. But the complex economic life of the nation is not going to gee and haw at command from Washington.

The government can meddle with the currency and inflate it to the bursting point, but after that the meddling ceases. But if we seek complete planning and control we encourage the tyranny of the state.

Although it has been tried before, deficit spending has never accomplished much as an anti-recession medicine. It would seem that if national deficits are worth anything in achieving economic prosperity, we would have had no ups and downs at all. But we have had our peaks and valleys for five years, during which our habit of deficits has piled up some $30 billion in debts.

Our nearly 30 years of deficit spending in peacetime has produced nothing except debt and cheap money, unless it has been a more vigorous interest in the pork-barrel.

Where Cuts Are Needed

People have grave doubts that tax cutting such as that proposed by the President will prevent recession or stimulate growth. Many believe that cuts in the low income brackets would not have any effect at all upon our economy.

There is doubt whether this would stimulate consumer spending. What will people do with a tax refund? They may choose to pay off debts, or to hide it under the mattress. Cuts toward the top brackets however, along with corporate tax relief, could produce more action toward stimulating enterprise and expanding business.

A big question remains. Can we expect business itself to go off on a wild spree of expansion as long as the federal government controls prices, encourages the wage spiral, and keeps the dollar in jeopardy by its domestic and foreign policies?

Can even Mr. Kennedy suppose that the steel industry will charge out of the corner in which he stood it a year ago, beaming with confidence and raring to build new plants that will hire the unemployed? Do Administration economists think that Big Steel will build more capacity just because they say the word "boom"?

Confusion or Sense?

The truth is that the Kennedy money policies tend to produce caution and confusion. People may not understand what White House Advisor Walter Heller means by "deficits of strength," but they do understand that a tax cut is supposed to mean less revenue for the government to spend. People are aware that a tax cut with deficit spending is, after all, not a tax cut in the full sense of the picture. If the government cannot afford the loss of revenue, our citizens would just as soon forget about the tax cut.

To be sure, when high taxes confiscate capital that would be used to create jobs, it is time to talk about relief for enterprise. But the President proposes limiting deductions and altering the rules so that middle and high bracket taxpayers would probably pay higher taxes.

The nation's economy would have less risk capital than it has now—another example of government planning gone wrong. It will be only self-defeating to tax so that government can spend so that more taxes are required to pay for bigger deficits of bigger and bigger government.

SECURITIES BOARD ISSUES MORE PERMITS

AUSTIN.—State Securities Board granted investment permits in Texas totaling $25,000,000 last month. February total ran only $17,000,000. Thirteen of the 42 companies granted the right to sell stocks in Texas were Texas firms.

Sunday visitors in the home of Mrs. Stella West were Mrs. Ella George and Mrs. Glenn Brickey of Shamrock.

First state to abolish capital punishment was Michigan, in 1847.

Let's Look at Industry Other Towns Our Size Have Secured

With Wellington leaders right now giving some of their best thought to securing industry that will be geared to the economy of our area, it is well to see what some of the other Panhandle communities are doing. Most of them have one thing in common — utilizing the resources of the area.

Within the last few weeks work began on a sugar refinery at Hereford which will process that area's newly introduced sugar beet crop.

Multi-million dollar fertilizer plants have been located near Dimmitt and Plainview.

A new plant to utilize gypsum deposits is opening at Duke, Okla., and in the last year Memphis became one base of operations for a nationally known textile firm.

The most encouraging fact is that these projects appear to be practical and based on know-how. They tie in with the economy of the area they serve. Certainly the fertilizer plants will serve an entire area, and the market now is not even close to the potential.

It has been pointed out that the freight savings alone on all these products will be considerable for these industries closely allied with agricultural progress.

Freight saving was of key significance in Memphis' getting its plant.

Right now one that seems most practical here is a feedlot, one of the booming industries of the Panhandle in the last 5 years. Meat consumption continues to go up. Population continues to rise in the Panhandle and there is a solid mass of thinking that there is no point in shipping livestock to Iowa or California to be finished then shipped home again as beef.

One step beyond the feedlot lies the meat processing plant. These things are practical for us here.

We have every right to feel we can handle this type of industry. With designation of the county for Area Redevelopment, a source of venture capital of the type to be had locally becomes available.

We are on the verge of industrial development. It will be well to look around us and see how others are handling it.

Stars on Alabama

The slaying in Alabama of a Maryland postman who had thumbed his way south to stir up sympathy for Negro integrationists is criminally tragic and will invite unjustified wrath on a state which is trying to handle a century-old problem the best it can.

A succession of events in Alabama shows how the whole racial problem is wrought with hypocrisy, animosity and—most important—politics.

Bob Kennedy, attorney general of the United States, for some reason found it necessary to go all the way to Montgomery to tell Alabama Gov. George Wallace that he—Kennedy—intends to enforce the law. Isn't that what he's supposed to do? Why should this young star of the New Frontier fall on Alabama all of a sudden?

The day before his older brother, the President of the United States, told his news conference that the killing was an outrageous crime and said he was shocked over the "assassination" of citizens on public roads.

Has either of the Kennedys expressed shock about the muggings, knifings, assaults and rapes by Negroes in the public parks and streets of the nation's capital? Is the President concerned because white visitors to Washington are warned by cab drivers and policemen to stay off those streets—even lighted streets—at night?

Did Bobby go to New York City when a white boy was stabbed by a Negro gang in Harlem and thrown in the East River not long ago?

Racial atrocities are overlooked where integration is the way of life. They are "public assassinatin" and a "national disgrace" in the segregated South.

By now these conclusions ought to be obvious:

The unfortunate and tragic racial turmoil from Virginia to Texas will never ease as long as outsiders deliberately cause trouble.

That turmoil is aggravated when men in high places continually stigmatize the South.

That turmoil will continue as long as it can be used as a political weapon by politicians who want the huge Negro votes of New York, Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles, Cleveland.

The strategy, you see, is to attack little Alabama (11 electoral votes) to win New York (45), Pennsylvania (32), Illinois (27), California (32) and Michigan (20).

So what if you lose the 11? You stand to win 156. That's worth a trip by the attorney general to Montgomery and words of shock at a presidential news conference.

"How Long Are You Going to Use Daylight Savings Time as an Excuse for Being Late?"

THE WRIGHT SLANT

By Congressman Jim Wright

It is high time for Congress to take vigorous, even drastic action to restore and protect the integrity of the law-making branch of our government.

A few highly publicized abuses by a small handful of members and employees of the Congress have begun to reflect discredit upon our government itself. For the good of the whole nation, these abuses must be ended.

Admittedly, many such accounts are flamboyantly exaggerated. Admittedly, a vast majority of the members and employees behave responsibly. But just as a few rotten apples can spoil an entire barrel, or a few drams of strychnine poison a well, a few flagrant examples of irresponsible misconduct, have begun to tarnish the image of the legislative arm of our government.

The congress thus has the clear responsibility, at whatever cost, to put its own house in order. The danger of delay or vacillation is a peril not to the Congress alone but to our Republic itself. For whenever the public is led to lose confidence in the legislative branch, it loses confidence in that wing of government which has historically protected the nation's freedoms. And whenever public confidence is shaken in the fundamental integrity of those who are the products of our great elective system, then the public cannot long keep confidence in the system itself.

This week I introduced a bill designed to impose both specific prohibitions and binding requirements of public disclosure upon every member of the Congress. For 90% of the members, such restrictions are unnecessary. For the good of the nation, they need to be enforced upon the other 10%.

Fundamentally, my bill would institute the following reforms:

It would (1) tighten up on official travel; (2) impose restrictions upon employees of the Congress; (3) require public disclosure of any private financial transactions by members of Congress; (4) restrict members and employees from conducting any private business relationships with the government itself, and (5) provide penalties up to $10,000 for violations.

Official travel would be permitted only upon a resolution officially adopted by a regular committee of Congress, and only actual transportation expenses and standard per diem expenses for basic necessities during such trips would be allowed for payment by the government. It would be required that all government monies expended either directly or indirectly on any such necessary committee trips would be itemized and published in the Congressional Record within 45 days of their occurrence.

Because of a few abuses of the public payroll by a distinct minority of the membership, it would be absolutely required that no employee of the House or Senate may be engaged or paid except when performing specific Congressional services in the office of a Congressman in Washington or in his home office in the District he represents.

Moreover, each Congressman and Senator would be required to file annually a full sworn financial statement containing the amount and source of each item of his income during the previous year, any valuable gift from any source other than immediate members of his own family, an account of any stocks and bonds or other business interests or real property owned by the member, as well as a specific accounting of any fees or honorariums he may have received during the year.

Conflicts of interest would be defined and prohibited, and each member would be required to stipulate precisely any business relationship in which he would own an interest that had furnished for profit any goods or services of any type for the Federal government.

For a vast majority of the members of both the House and Senate, these requirements would impose no hardship what ever and require absolutely no change in their method of operation and conduct. For the few who have in some way abused the public trust, they would require definite alterations.

Texans in particular can understand the problem of a very few highly publicized irregularities casting an unwarranted shadow of suspicion and mistrust on an entire class of people. At this very moment, Texas interests are suffering nationally because of the thoroughly unwarranted impression that Texas business is generally dishonest. Every Texan, of course, knows this to be untrue.

Yet because of the flamboyantly over-publicized scandals involving slanted oil wells, non-existent fertilizer tanks, insurance rackets, etc., there is a tendency on the part of others to think that these few instances are representative of the total Texas commercial climate and are common practices in our state.

To ask whether Texans are inherently crooked or whether Congressmen defraud the public is like asking whether doctors and lawyers deceive and overcharge their clients, whether car dealers misrepresent their products, whether butchers defraud housewives, or if housewives cheat on their husbands. The answer, obviously, is that some do. Most, however, do not.

For the Congress, however, the problem of an accurate public image is even more important than for any other group. If the government itself

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where some taxpayers are griping because a House clerk in Washington has been using a government Cadillac to go to the horse races.

My turf neighbor says he reckons we owe a little Cadillac to these capital slaves who are wearing their lives away, grooming and cleaning up after our big stables of electronic thinkers.

Says, after all, we hollered about expense so much that Congress had to put up its last big fancy office building without any race track in the basement.

My learned but not much neighbor says he is tired of hearing people run down Debt, as if being in debt is some cardinal type sin, like whipping your wife or voting Republican.

Says Debt now travels in the very best social circles, and is a thorn to people only when the notes come due.

And he claims that Massive National Debt is actually Biblical on account of being a should not command respect, then what mortal institution would be left in which Americans could trust?

Public officials live in a gold fish bowl, and they should. If they are unwilling to conduct themselves, both publicly and privately, in such a way as to reflect credit rather than disgrace upon the government and the people whom they represent, then they ought to get out.

For the sake of the Republic, we simply cannot permit a little handful of irresponsible miscreants to tarnish the good name and reputation of this nation.

pleasant way to visit the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generations.

I see where Secretary of State Rusk suggests that anybody wanting to ease up on our Foreign Aid outpourings must be a Communist-sympathizer.

My flawed neighbor says he can't see how come it is that being hostile to borrowing more money to give away to Communists and Communeutrals could work out to make a man a Communist-sympathizer.

Says, though, maybe this unnatural development is caused by the same type of magic that turns a bandwagon politician into, say, an ordained money wizard, or an African expert.

Junior High Girls Win 2-A Volleyball

Wellington Firecrackerettes took the District 2-A junior high volleyball championship in the tournament played Saturday, April 27 in Clarendon. Seven teams were entered, according to Coach Harvey Millsap.

Second place went to the Clarendon junior high team, which won the first game of the championship set 15-11. The Firecrackerettes came back to win the next two games, 15-2, and 15-6 and thereby take the set and the district title.

The Wellington girls first met Memphis, taking the first game of the set 15-3, but losing the second 18-16. They then came back to blank Memphis 15-0.

The Crackerettes won the second set from McLean 15-0 and 15-3.

A trophy was presented the team, which will remain at the school, and the team members received ribbons.

Players were Becky Brewer, Regina Ferguson, Linda Moore, Linda Winton, Charlotte Allen, Charlotte Gibbs, Rosario Sandana, Nancy Holton, Judy Millsap, Ann Duncan, Peggy Crawford and Davela Edens.

Junior high girls will now go into a period of spring basketball training, with the seventh grade working out for next year's Crackerette team and the eighth grade preparing for high school play.

City Woman Home from Tour

Mrs. Theo Parker returned recently from a visit with relatives in Alabama and Oklahoma, and with her daughter, Mrs. Theone Cullender and family in Monahans.

Her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Teague, of Cullman, Ala., accompanied her home for an extended visit.

The pre-Easter trip to Alabama was along the southern route, made pleasant by the pink and white dogwood and azaleas.

On Easter Sunday, she visited the Ave Maria Grotto at St. Bernard, Ala., which Mrs. Parker called "the nearest thing to a visit to the Holy Land," she had experienced.

Here a tiny hunch-backed priest has spent much of his life depicting Bible scenes in miniature, fashioned from materials given him.

He has cemented together bits of glass, silver, beads and many other types of items to form scenes of beauty, Mrs. Parker continued.

Any one of the group, she told friends, seemed to represent as much labor as the priest could be expected to accomplish in a lifetime.

"Looking back through the hills and viewing the various scenes, both religious and historic, one could not but be reminded that nothing should be wasted," Mrs. Parker told her friends.

As the terrified Nicole Maurey watches, Howard Keel attempts to kill advancing triffids, death-dealing plants, in this scene from Allied Artists' "The Day of the Triffids," science-fiction thriller showing at the Ritz Theatre Thurs, Friday and Saturday. In color and CinemaScope the picture was filmed by producer George Pitcher and director Steve Sekely from a screenplay by executive producer Philip Yordan based on the John Wyndham best-seller of the same title.

Dedication of County Plaques at Ampitheatre

Despite one of the Panhandle's most blustery days, there was a turnout of some 800 persons for the dedication of the county plaques to be reproduced in stone for the entrance of the new Palo Duro Park amphitheater in the canyon recently.

Thirty-five teenage winners of the contest for drawings for the plaques, sponsored by Federated Women's Clubs in the various counties, were recognized by Mrs. Ples Harper, president of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation.

Representing Collingsworth County was Jerry Mann, student in Dodson high school.

Mrs. John Merchant of Amarillo, representing the Federated Women's Clubs, presented certificates of honor to the winners, and their framed drawings were returned to the young artists by Lee Bivins, chairman of the Fine Arts Council of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, to be hung in their respective schools. The plaques were designed to represent some important phase of each county.

The program opened with a concert by the 589th Air Force Band of the Amarillo Air Force Base, under the direction of Capt. Ernest Greer. Dr. J. A. Hill, president emeritus of West Texas State College, gave the invocation. Clint Formby of Hereford was master of ceremonies, and he presented the winners, gave their names, home towns and the county represented.

R. B. Johnson, retired Amarillo history teacher, gave a chronological outline of the Panhandle from prehistoric days, through Coronado's reputed refuge in the canyon, the life of the Indians of the plains, and the coming of the white man and his success in harnessing nature to his needs. Some of all this, Johnson continued, will be incorporated in the script of the historic dramatic musical play which will be presented in the canyon in 1964 and for which the amphitheater was built by the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation.

The A capella Choir of West Texas State College, under the direction of Dr. Houston Bright, presented four numbers which, like the Air Force Band, sounded clear and fresh despite the high wind. The program closed with the winners lining up with their drawings at the rear of the open-air theater for inspection and congratulation by the audience as they filed out.

Week end visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. McGill were her brother, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Goad of Oklahoma City. On Saturday the two couples visited in Carey with Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Williams. Mrs. Williams is a sister of Mrs. McGill and Mr. Goad.

from Congressman
WALTER ROGERS

THE THRESHER TRAGEDY

The loss of the 129 men of the submarine Thresher has saddened all America. It is a tragedy that reminds us again of the stark cost of maintaining our freedom—a cost that dollars alone can't meet.

As President Kennedy said, "These brave men have joined their comrades, 1,500 of whom were lost in submarines in World War II. The future of our country will always be sure when there are men such as these to give their lives in preserving it."

Now we must do our best to determine why the Thresher disaster occurred. Twenty-two more submarines of the Thresher type are scheduled for construction. More brave American seamen will be assigned to man them. It is a responsibility of the government to see to it that they have the safest, most technically-perfect craft it is possible for our experts to devise. And it is vital that American industry and American workmen accept the responsibility to see to it that materials and workmanship are of the highest quality.

It is expected to be some time—if ever—before we know the exact cause of the Thresher tragedy. The submarine and its crew are in a grave 8,400 feet deep about 220 miles east of Cape Cod.

The Thresher lies too deep to be salvaged. The determination of the cause of the disaster can be achieved only by photographing the wreckage from the Navy's deep-diving bathyscaphe Trieste, brought from the West Coast to the scene.

Meanwhile, a number of theories are being advanced about possible causes for the submarine's plunge into water so deep that intense pressure would collapse its hull like an egg-shell, dooming its crew to a sudden death.

A Naval Court of Inquiry has been convened at Portsmouth, N.H., the home port of the Thresher, to hear evidence accumulated so far. Part of the court's job will be to consider the nature of work done on the Thresher during a recent overhaul in the Portsmouth Naval Yard when cuts a yard wide were made in her hull so as to install new equipment. The cut-out section was welded back in place and the weld then examined by X-ray for flaws.

"To the best of our knowledge and belief there were no defects in the work," said Admiral George W. Anderson, Chief of Naval Operations. "Whether or not there were defects remains to be seen."

Was this work defective? Did some other vital piece of equipment give away? How can a similar accident be prevented in the future? Let us all hope that the answer can be found.

Vice Admiral Hyman C. Rickover, the caustically outspoken Naval officer who, more than any other single American, is responsible for our great strides in nuclear-powered seafaring, made a speech last fall that received little notice at the time.

The Admiral laid it on the line for the National Metal Congress, meeting in New York. The troubles of the Navy in the construction of nuclear-powered submarines, he said, can be laid to two main causes: (1) Poor workmanship and poor quality control, and (2) Incomplete understanding of basic manufacturing and inspection processes.

Admiral Rickover was careful, in the wake of the disaster, not to relate any of his criticisms to the Thresher. "It would be improper for me to make any comment on that speech at this time," he said after the Thresher was lost.

However, some of the points he stressed last fall should be studied carefully by all Americans who have a part in our weapons production program—not only in the manufacture of nuclear submarines but in making aircraft and missiles and the countless other items in which our servicemen must put their trust as they man the lines against our Cold War opponents.

These contractors participating in our Defense program and the men and women who work for them must be certain that their own efforts are worthy of the men who will utilize the equipment.

Unfortunately, high standards have not always been met. Among several examples cited by Admiral Rickover as he ticked off his criticism was this one: "Some of the types of difficulties we constantly encounter have to do with faulty welding, faulty radiography and defective castings. That is, with deficiencies in basic conventional processes of present-day technology. The press frequently reports malfunctions of advanced components or systems caused by failure of a weld, improper use of a routine process, or use of defective materials. Industry apparently considers such failures to be inevitable, since not enough is being done to correct the abuse."

All of us play some part in the nation's defense. Let us be faithful to the sacrifice of the men of the Thresher by doing our best to meet our own responsibilities as Americans.

This formal dining room was inspired by an original fabric design printed in Mulhouse, France. The antique satin print was adapted from a trophy panel design from the Musée de l'Impression sur Etoffes collection. Insets have been framed by the moulding on the panel walls at either side of the front window. The print is used also in festoons over floor-length curtains of white silk and rayon sheer. A handsome 18th century chandelier and two wall sconces provide the lighting.

Dodson Civic Club to See Program on Interior Decorating and Fabrics

Members of the Dodson Civic Club will see a program "Musee Fabrics for Your Home" presented by the medium of slides Thursday, May 9.

Mrs. Purl Tippie will be the hostess and Mrs. T. E. Lennon will be the commentator. Altogether 53 slides will be shown.

Each slide shown will picture a room created by an outstanding interior decorator. All fabrics used in decorating the rooms have been inspired by original designs from the Musée de l'Impression sur Etoffes in Mulhouse, France, the only museum in the world devoted entirely to textile printing and design.

Fabrics featured in the room settings are taken from Napoleonic commemorative prints, antique tapestries, provincial prints, historic toiles, and decorative floral designs.

This will be one of the last meetings the Dodson Civic Club will hold during the current year.

Coin Collecting Described for 1924 Study Club by Amarillo Man

Clarence Maynard, Amarillo coin collector, was guest speaker at the 1924 Study Club on Thursday, April 25, when Mrs. Mack Bush was hostess at the Greenbelt Electric directors' room.

"Coins for Collectors" was Mr. Maynard's subject, and his collection included coins of all denominations as well as paper money.

He pointed out it isn't only the old coins that are the valuable ones. It is the scarce coins and always the uncirculated ones that are of more value.

He explained that coin shops have a teletype system by which they can locate most coins since one operator cannot possibly have in his shop all that are desired.

"More interest is being shown in collecting coins the last year than ever before," he told the club members.

Mr. Maynard explained that he is not a collector but an operator and investor, for that is the way he makes his living. He is owner of a coin shop in Amarillo, and told club members he started with only a small number of coins and built them into his present large business.

After the business meeting, a salad plate was served to Mmes. J. F. Michael, Luther Gribble, Edd White, R. R. Crawley, Don Beck, D. F. Cook, Chester Fires, J. B. King, Velman Warrick, Ed Bawcom, Don Wells, and Misses Hattie D. Wells and Bessie Rainer, and Messrs Maynard and Horace Small.

The final meeting of the club year will be held May 9.

SAM ADAMS, Mgr.

Deck's DIDACTICS

-By Deskins Wells

Flags were flying all over town on May 1—Loyalty Day in the United States as compared to May Day in the Communist world.

Do you happen to remember what you were doing on this same day 40 years ago? I do, because it was a memorable one for me, for I was managing editor of The Austin American (one day only) on May 1, 1923. It was the day the journalism students of The University of Texas did all of the reportorial and editorial work on the Austin daily, and we were later commended by the publisher and his editor and our journalism instructors particularly for the amount of Austin and State news we managed to get in the paper. No big stories seemed to be breaking over the wires and we had a field day digging up local news.

One wire story that came across my desk was the AP account of the observance of May Day in all the capitals and metropolitan cities of the world. I did not know too much about May Day at that time, but I decided it was time to find out if the Associated Press was sending us that much copy on the occasion. I had known of the traditional May Pole dances in England and of the other celebrations in France and Germany; but I knew little of the ominous significance the recently created Soviet Union had given to the ancient festival day.

Riots and other violent demonstrations had been expected in some of the world capitals, but the gist of the verbose AP story was that peace and serenity abounded throughout the world. World War I had ended three and a half years before. The Soviet blueprint of their plan to conquer the world by tyranny at home and intrigue, infiltration, lies, indoctrination, appeals to minorities, riots, bloodshed, assassination and even war if necessary had been documented and published even at that time. But we paid no more attention to their sinister designs than we did back in 1943 when the Russians were our allies and were stealing us blind in Washington, Alaska, and everywhere else in the world.

Anyway I wrote a bold two column heading for the peaceful May Day story and put it on Page 1 along with the more "interesting" local news. My city editor even wondered if it should be on Page 1 at all. After a slight argument which lasted about a minute the front page layout was sent down to the composing room one full hour before the deadline. The foreman of the composing room who had been having a little trouble with late copy came up to find out if the wild young college students had May 1 confused with April 1. So I told him that was it, unless something big broke in the next 30 minutes and I already had a story picked out that could be removed if necessary. He went back with a strange look on his face and so ended our big day—or rather afternoon and night—on the downtown daily.

The Farm Bureau calls the coming wheat election the most important ever faced by the farmers under the agricultural program. They say: "This referendum is not just another vote on another one-year wheat program. Wheat has been chosen as the 'guinea pig'—testing whether or not the American farmer will submit himself to a totally planned economy where his individual farming operation and personal income are determined by those who govern him. If supply management is to work as it was conceived, all commodities necessarily will have to be involved."

Was I wrong in saying that predicting rain in May was a non-controversial subject. With a dry norther blowing Earl Alexander honked me down early Monday morning and stormed out of his car like he had discovered the culprit who had been running coon dogs in his cattle. "Am I put out with you," he shouted. "What have I done now?" I asked. "That piece about getting your cattle on high ground—I moved mine last Friday and just look at that wind." I told him I said May and that it was still April. "That is what my wife told me," he said, "but I had already moved the cattle before I read that part."

Three or four other farmers have been by to remind me of 1953 when it did not rain at

Guard Unit Opens Contest for "Miss 49th"

DALLAS.—Traditionally, soldiers go for girls. And once again, the Texas 49th Armored Division, National Guard, will conduct a beauty contest to select a sweetheart, to be crowned "Miss 49th Armored Division" of 1963.

The contest is open to any single lady, between the ages of 17 and 24, who will be available to travel to Ft. Hood, Texas, for the crowning activities Aug. 3.

Final selection of the division sweetheart will be made after various 49th company units sponsor their own "unit sweetheart" by May 15. These winners will then be judged in battalion contests, which are to be completed by June 1.

Entrants must initially be sponsored by a Guardsman of the 49th Division.

Battalion winners will have their photographs submitted to the division information officer, and the final five beauties will be judged by a professional modeling agency.

Maj. Hal Cheatham, information officer of the 49th, said the photographs of the five finalists will be submitted to a motion picture or nationally-known television personality for the selection of the division winner.

"Miss 49th Armored Division" will be announced in July, but will receive her full recognition at the division's Governor's Day Review at Ft. Hood on Saturday, Aug. 3.

A beauty queen dance will be held at Ft. Hood prior to the crowning on Friday night.

Thereafter, the division sweetheart will officially represent the 49th in appropriate military and social functions.

This will mark the division's sixth annual sweetheart contest, which was not held in 1962 due to the division's call to active service during the Berlin crisis.

Ronnie Reneau Dies at Borger

He was 26 years of age and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Patterson of Dodson.

His grandfather said it was believed a low front tire caused his car to go out of control on a curve. The vehicle went off the bank of a ravine and the young man is believed to have died instantly.

Born in this county, he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Reneau, now of Borger.

In addition to his parents and grandparents, Ronnie Reneau survived by three brothers.

Funeral services were conducted Monday, April 22 at the Nazarene Church in Borger.

Code of Ethics Bill Introduced

AUSTIN.—Tighter rules over the private business activities of state officials has been the talk of the Capitol since Wm. J. Murray Jr. resigned from the Railroad Commission. Murray said he made more than $1,000,000 in oil deals while regulating that industry.

Reps. Bob Eckhardt of Houston, James Nugent of Kerrville and Travis Peeler of Corpus Christi introduced a bill to outlaw investments by state officials in the fields which they regulate. Old Code of Ethics Law—passed in 1957—merely called on them to disclose any such interests.

Rep. John Allen of Longview, chairman of the House State Affairs Committee, named a subcommittee to go over the bill, to tighten up the tightening up. He indicated he will try to bring the bill out for House action quickly.

Bill would prohibit legislators from appearing for pay before state boards and commissions while they are considering appropriations which are the lifeblood of state agencies.

RAILROAD COMMISSION CHANGE PROPOSED

AUSTIN.—A plan to take the railroads and trucks away from the Railroad Commission has been proposed by Rep. Henry Grover of Houston, who told the House:

"Recent developments indicate that the Railroad Commission is overworked, and has more to do than it can handle." Grover inferred that these indications are the slant-hole oil well scandals and the conflict-of-interest resignation of former Commissioner William J. Murray Jr.

Grover introduced HB 1041 to ease some of the workload by removing the commission's authority over the transportation industry, and leaving it with just oil and gas regulatory authority.

The "Texas Commerce Commission," to regulate railroads, bus lines, truck lines, and so forth, would be made up of three $15,000-a-year commissioners.

Railroad Commission was set up in 1891 to regulate the railroads. But authority over oil and gas, since 1917, has caused most of its time and attention to turn in that direction.

Rep. William S. Davis of Midland, a petroleum engineer, is the other Humble employee. He, too is a Republican.

DRAFT BOARDS CALLING DOCTORS

Texas draft boards have issued a call for 60 doctors for the Army, Navy and Air Force, according to State Selective Service Director Morris S. Schwartz.

The 60 physicians would be the state's share of a national call for 1,350.

Physicians—either fathers or non-fathers—would be subject to call if they were born on or after Jan. 1, 1935.

ONE-DAY SESSION PROPOSED

AUSTIN.—A special, one-day ($8,000) session of the Texas Legislature would be held on Dec. 1, 1964, under a House-approved resolution by Rep. Bill Dungan of McKinney.

Purpose would be to swear in House members and elect a speaker. Aim is to enable the speaker to make appointments so the 1965 session could get underway immediately.

Elmer Sorrells returned home recently, after spending two months working in the citrus groves in the Rio Grande Valley. He spent most of the time near McAllen but went into Mexico several times.

SALT SOIL CONSERVATION FORK DISTRICT NEWS

Several grassed waterways are scheduled for completion this spring, according to Bob Crawford, work unit conservationist with Soil Conservation Service.

In an outstanding project south of town, four farmers have worked together on a waterway to take care of their water problem. They are Judge Luther Gribble, Robert Posey, James Wilson and Ray Null.

At the bottom of a hill, an erosion control dam will be used to stop an overflow. It will also provide livestock water, Crawford said.

The waterway has been shaped and will be seeded to Bermuda grass.

"Grassed waterways are natural or manmade water courses that are protected against erosion by grass cover," Crawford explained. "They are an important part of soil conservation programs where the need exists, and they are important to both the farmer and town resident."

Grassed waterways are important because they serve as safe outlets for terraces and diversions. In addition, they may provide a safe passageway for water that enters your farm from adjoining land.

"Good grassed waterways are a must in controlling water erosion on many farms. If you do not have a grassed waterway or you have one that does not function properly, all other parts of the water control system for your farm or field may fail too. The next time you have a heavy rain on your farm, take a look at the natural drainage ways and low areas in your field. Are there finger gullies on the field and silt bars in the low areas? If so, you should consider the need for a grassed waterway," Crawford continued.

Properly established grassed waterways can be a profitable area. Besides serving as a water outlet for the field, it can be used for hay, grass seed production or limited grazing.

"To you town people, grassed waterways are important in controlling erosion. Water coming from a washing field carries many tons of silt. If protection is not provided, this silt eventually makes it way to reservoirs and recreational areas causing untold damage. The next time you are on your favorite lake, walk up to the place where the water enters. See if there is a silt bar. This will tell you if the land is being protected from water erosion," Crawford said.

NO COLLEGE TUITION HIKE IN SIGHT

AUSTIN.—Dallas Reps. Ben Atwell and Dick Morgan's college tuition increase bills may never come out of the House Tax and Revenue Committee.

This, even though Atwell is the chairman and Morgan a member of the committee.

Atwell proposed a doubling of state college tuition, as endorsed by the Commission on Higher Education. Morgan offered a compromise of a 50% increase.

But word already has come "from above" that there will be no tuition hike this year. That virtually ended it.
