Wholesale Prices Up Slightly in April

Reagan Winning Battle in Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan is winning the public opinion battle with Democrats in Congress over who is to blame for failure to enact a new federal budget.

The latest Associated Press-NBC News poll said 49 percent of the public blamed Democrats in Congress, 33 percent said they blamed the president and 18 percent were not sure.

The poll was a scientific random sampling of 1,599 adults across the country who were interviewed by telephone Monday and Tuesday.

A majority — 55 percent — said they think the failure to approve a budget will slow the nation's economic recovery.

Those and other responses in the latest poll indicate Democratic congressional leaders are not persuading most Americans that President Reagan is responsible for the nation's economic downturn.

The 1983 budget proposed by the president in January died after Democratic congressional leaders said it carried too big a deficit, and the battle over the spending plan is still raging in Congress.

The Democrats said a large deficit could keep interest rates too high and prolong the nation's economic recession.

In the poll, more Americans said they blame Congress most for continuing high interest rates; 27 percent said Congress, 19 percent said the Federal Reserve Board, 17 percent said the Reagan administration, 16 percent said the private financial community and 21 percent were not sure.

Sixty-three percent said they think the nation's economy has gotten worse during the past year, while 12 percent said it has gotten better and 25 percent said either the economy has stayed the same or were not sure.

Most of those who said the WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices reversed two months of declines and rose at a tiny annual rate of 0.9 percent in April, the government said today.

Rising prices for food largely offset record declines in energy costs in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for finished goods — the formal name for the wholesale price index.

The minuscule rise in the index so far this year lends further support to economists' predictions that wholesale inflation for all of 1982 will be well under last year's pace.

Many have lowered their predictions for this year to as little as 4.5 percent, down from the 6 percent to 7 percent forecast earlier.

The lingering recession and the worldwide oil glut have been held largely responsible for the lowered inflation rate. As the economy pulls out of the recession, however, economists are expecting prices to rise moderately.

In its report today, the Labor Department said the index rose a seasonally adjusted 0.1 percent in April. That was up from February and March, when the index had fallen 0.1 percent each month. The last time the measure had dropped two months in a row was in January and February, 1976.

Inflation at the wholesale level had risen 0.4 percent in January.

If prices rose for 12 straight months at April's rate, the yearly rise would be 0.9 percent after seasonal adjustment. The annual rate reported by the Labor Department is based on a more precise calculation of monthly changes than the figure the department makes public.

The new report said that over the last year, from April 1981 to April 1982, prices at the wholesale level rose 3.1 percent — the lowest gain for a 12-month period since the 2.9 percent in the year ending in October 1976.

With the overall gain in April, inflation at the wholesale level was running at an annual rate of 0.4 percent for the first four months of 1982. For all of 1981, the index rose 7 percent.

Specifically, the department said in its report of April wholesale price activity:

—Energy costs declined 5.2 percent, the fourth straight monthly drop. The decline was the biggest monthly decrease since the government began calculating energy prices in 1974 and broke the 2.9 percent record fall of January 1976.

For April, gasoline prices fell 7.2 percent and home heating oil costs were off 8.8 percent. Both declines were even sharper than those posted in the preceeding month.

Natural gas prices were up 2.2 percent, about the same as in February and March.

—Food prices shot up 1.6 percent after falling 0.2 percent in March and rising 0.5 percent in February. April's gain was the biggest since the 2.6 percent of August 1980. Pork prices skyrocketed 13.5 percent after edging downward in March.

Prices were also up for fresh fruits, eggs, beef and veal. Fresh and dried vegetable prices were down, as were the costs of coffee and processed fruits and vegetables. Prices for dairy products were down but the costs of processed poultry and rish rose.

—Prices were down 1.3 percent for passenger cars but up 0.1 percent for light trucks. Prices for both categories of vehicles had risen in March after big February declines pegged to automakers' price rebate programs.

—Capital equipment costs rose 0.4 percent, about the same as in March. Those costs are for machinery and transportation equipment used by business.

Urges New Negotiations

Reagan Calls for Arms Reduction

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressing the Soviet Union for a response, President Reagan has renewed his call for a new treaty to reverse the growth of "frightening" long-range nuclear missiles.

"Once launched, that's it, they're on their way and there's no preventing, or stopping them," Reagan said Thursday night in a news conference.

Calling land-based missiles with multiple warheads "most frightening to most people," Reagan urged Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev to agree to open negotiations by late June.

As an inducement, Regan offered to put all nuclear weapons on the bargaining table. "Nothing is excluded," he said.

But he emphasized that the first cuts under the treaty would be in warheads on land and sea-based missiles.

"You start with first things first," Reagan said. "You can't bite it all off in one bite."

The proposed one-third reduction in nuclear warheads could trim the lead U.S. strategists claim the Soviets are acquiring in silo-busting missiles.

However, Reagan's offer could eventually neutralize the edge the United States now has in strategic bombers and low-flying cruise missiles.

He did not refer to these weapons when he first outlined the proposed treaty Sunday at Eureka College in Illinois.

Brezhnev has not replied directly to Reagan's initiative, but the Soviet press has accused the United States of "attempts to secure for itself unilateral military advantage."

Turning to the economic situation at home, Reagan said unless high interest rates drop there will not be "any real improvement for anyone" in the foreseeable future.

At the same time, he acknowledged the economic recovery he had predicted for later in the year could be jeopardized by the high cost of credit.

In this vein, Reagan urged Congress to approve spending cuts and tax increases in the Senate Republican budget compromise he adopted last week.

That, he said, is the way to reduce interest rates and point the way out of the recession. "There isn't going to be any real improvement for anyone until interest rates come down," Reagan said.

Cutting spending, he said, is the best thing the government can do for companies facing the kind of troubles that prompted Braniff Internation airlines to suspend operations and file for bankruptcy protections.

In discussing nuclear weapons, Reagan said he did not know how long it would take to reach an agreement with the Soviet Union.

But he said his determination to pursue an arms

Demo Convention Here Saturday

The Deaf Smith County Democratic Party Convention will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the 222nd District Courtroom at the county courthouse.

County Democratic Chairman Robert Strain said that delegates to the state convention will be elected at the meeting. Strain said that no resolutions have been sent to the county office, but that some may be presented from the floor at the convention Saturday to be voted on.

This will be Strain's last convention to preside over.

He will relinquish the duties to Susie Woodford, who won election as the party's county head in the May 1 election, next year.

Senate Approves Defense Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, in a marathon 20-hour debate over a $177.9 billion defense bill, voted narrowly early today to allow President Reagan to resume production of chemical weapons for the first time in 13 years.

The Senate agreed, however, to an amendment putting a cap on the size of the U.S. chemical-weapon stockpile and saying that humans may not be used for experiments with the deadly weapons.

The final defense authorization bill also includes money for two new nuclear-powered aircraft carriers, but $1 billion Reagan requested for interim deployment of the MX missile was stripped from the measure. No attempt was made to cut funds requested for the B-1 bomber.

Dawn was near during the 84-8 vote giving final approval to the defense measure that had kept the Senate in continuous session for almost a full day.

Opponents of the president's chemical-warfare policies had argued that the Pentagon has enough nerve gas and other chemical weapons on hand to deter the possible use of similar weapons by the Soviet Union in Western Europe.

"We do not need an unrestrained chemical arms race," said Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., the chief sponsor of an amendment to eliminate $54 million for new chemical production.

But with Vice President George Bush on hand to break a tie vote if needed, the Senate voted 49-45 against the amendment.

Later, however, the Senate voted 92-0 to bar human experimentation in chemical weapons and to require the Pentagon to destroy one old chemical-carrying artillery shell for each new one produced.

Under the amendment urged by Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would have to accept storage of the weapons before U.S. production could be increased by a number greater than the size of the current arsenal.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said existing stockpiles of the

La Plata Principal Resigns Position

La Plata Junior High principal Allen Brown is resigning to accept a business manager position in the Springtown Independent School District, he announced to students and faculty Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Sue Brown will be resigning at Bluebonnet for a teaching post in Springtown.

"I would like to say 'thank you' to the people of Hereford for the last 12 years my family has enjoyed here," Brown said. "I feel like the people of Hereford should be proud of their school district, superintendent and school board. Sometimes I don't think the people realize that Hereford has a reputation throughout the state as being one of the finest schools and communities. Considering all of this, it was extremely difficult to make the decision to accept the opportunity that was presented to us."

Brown will be working in the central office of school administration for the AAA district west of Ft. Worth.

"This would be a very large step toward achieving a superintendency," Brown explained.

ALLEN BROWN

Brown has been principal of La Plata three years. He was formerly assistant principal at Stanton Junior High and taught four years previous to that at La Plata.

A native of Oklahoma City, Okla., he received his bachelor's degree from West Texas State University and continued to obtain his master's degree in education and administration from that institution.

Clements Orders State Prison to Be Reopened

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has ordered the state Board of Corrections to end the prison admissions freeze he says has become embroiled in partisan politics.

The governor, in a letter sent to board chairman T.L. Austin, ordered the board Thursday to resume inmate admissions by Monday and to meet with him today in Dallas to discuss the issue.

Attorney General Mark White declined to say if Clements had the authority to order prisons reopened, and said through a spokeswoman that question required a legal opinion he could give only to a state agency.

The corrections board closed down the 19-unit system last Monday when it learned the prison population violated a federal court order against inmate crowding.

Clements said he also complained in his letter that the board did not consider any alternatives before taking the "shocking" action of closing the doors.

The closing left the Texas Department of Corrections and prison director James Estelle in a squeeze between two possible contempt of court actions — one if they resume admissions and overcrowd inmates, the other if they quit admitting prisoners.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, who issued the sweeping prison reform order, scheduled a hearing in Houston to determine if Estelle could be held in contempt because prison officials turned away 68 Harris County inmates.

Falklands Area Reported Quiet

By The Associated Press

No fighting was reported around the Falkland Islands for more than 24 hours, but Britain's foreign secretary warned "military incidents may occur with increasing frequency" unless agreement is reached on a cease-fire and a framework for peace talks.

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said negotiations at U.N. headquarters for such an agreement have moved into a crucial stage.

A British source who requested anonymity said the talks were "not producing visible results" and the chances of success were about 50-50. The source said Argentina budged somewhat, but "the gap remains very wide."

Perez de Cuellar said the British and Argentine representatives were having to get new instructions from their governments repeatedly. He said he expected more answers today "so we can move ahead."

British sources said their government was seeking guarantees that negotiations on the Falklands' future would consider all options rather than commence on the premise that Argentine sovereignty is ensured.

The sources said there was agreement in principle but not in detail about a phased, supervised withdrawal of British and Argentine forces and U.N. interim administra-

Brooding Hinckley Vowed To 'Win' Love

WASHINGTON (AP) — A brooding John W. Hinckley Jr., a bottle of peach brandy his only companion on New Year's Eve, chastised himself for being a "coward" and vowed to win actress Jodie Foster's love in 1981, a psychiatrist says.

Three months later, Hinckley shot a president.

Dr. William T. Carpenter, testifying Thursday in Hinckley's federal trial, painted a grim picture of the defendant's "carefully guarded inner world" in the months before March 30, 1981 when President Reagan and three other men were wounded.

Carpenter, called by the defense to make its case that Hinckley was insane at the time of the shooting, was to take the witness stand again

Pope's Assailant to Be Arraigned

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — A fanatic Catholic traditionalist enraged by church reforms launched by Pope John XXIII was to be arraigned today on charges of trying to kill Pope John Paul II.

After a day of interrogation, Lisbon police described the alleged attacker, Juan Fernandez Krohn, as a "determined, no-nonsense man who knew what he was doing."

But authorities said they believed the 32-year-old Spaniard's attack was "an isolated act without any conspiracy."

If convicted on the attempted homicide charge, he could be sentenced to 15 to 20 years imprisonment.

The police say the assailant, wearing a priest's cassock and with a 14½-inch bayonet in his hand, lunged at the pope from five or six yards away as the pontiff approached an outdoor altar during a ceremony Wednesday night at the Shrine of Fatima, 110 miles northeast of Lisbon.

Four security men overpowered the screaming man before he could reach the pontiff.

Portugese church officials said the pope blessed his attacker and "forgave" him.

The pontiff returned to the scene of the attack Thursday to say Mass before more than 500,000 pilgrims and thank the Virgin Mary for protecting him from assassination by Turkish terrorist Mehmet Ali Aga in St. Peter's Square exactly one year ago. He made no reference to Wednesday's attack.

Reports from police and church officials said Fernandez Krohn was ordained as a priest several years ago by maverick Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre.

Mt. St. Helens Erupts 'With A Whisper'

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Mount St. Helens erupted early today, oozing lava from the crusty dome covering its throat and shooting a plume of steam several thousand feet into the air, scientists said.

Spotters in a small plane reported seeing glowing avalanches on the northeast side of the volcano's dome, and a light dusting of ash fell on the northwestern flanks of the mountain.

Scientists said they weren't sure exactly when the eruption began.

"It came in with a whisper rather than a roar," said A.B. Adams of the University of Washington geophysics center in Seattle.

"It appears at this point that it's non-violent," Adams said.

About 3 a.m. a steam plume rose to 16,000 feet over the southwest Washington volcano and then slowly dissipated. The plume was first detected by National Weather Service radar in Portland, Ore., about 50 miles southwest of the volcano.

Earthquakes continued to jolt the mountain, including a harmonic tremor, an underground shiver that usually indicates the movement of molten rock inside the volcano. occasional gas emissions were detected.

The U.S. Geological Survey and the University of Washington issued an eruption alert late Thursday predicting an eruption within 36 hours.

"Shallow volcanic earthquakes that warn of eruptions are becoming more numerous," Donald Peterson, the U.S. Geological scientist in charge of the Cascades Volcano Observatory near Vancouver, said late Thursday. "Rates of deformation of the dome and crater floor have more than doubled.

Small Town Agog Over Local Miss USA Winner

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Terri Utley of Arkansas has been crowned Miss USA, causing a stir in her hometown where the school board meeting was interrupted and the switchboard jangled at the seven-officer police department.

"It hasn't even set in yet that I was Miss Arkansas," the 20-year-old brunette said after Thursday night's nationally televised pageant finale. She had held the state title only a month.

Miss Utley will represent the United States in the Miss Universe contest July 26 in Lima, Peru.

She is the second Arkansas woman to win a national beauty title in nine months. Elizabeth Ward of Russellville was named Miss America last September. The two pageants are not affiliated.

In Cabot, Ark., a town of 4,000 people, Almeda Elliott, the wife of the school superintendent said she interrupted the school board meeting to tell everyone that Miss Utley had won.

"I think it's fantastic," she said. "I'm just so proud of her. She's a sweet girl. She deserved it."

Employment At All-Time High

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The number of people at work in Texas reached an all-time high during March but the unemployment rate was up nearly a full percentage point from a year ago, the Texas Employment Commission said Friday.

The commission said 6,875,000 workers were employed in Texas in March, an increase of 60,700 over the previous record, set in October.

Total unemployment declined by 8,000 jobseekers from February to March, the commission said, but the March unemployment rate was 5.7 percent. In March 1981 the rate was 4.8 percent.

The lowest unemployment rate reported for March among the major labor market areas was 4 percent in Austin and Abilene, the commission said.

tion of the islands.

In Washington, the State Department said Special Ambassador Vernon Walters visited Buenos Aires unannounced earlier this week to discuss the Falklands but not to negotiate.

The Times of London, quoting a high-ranking Reagan administration official, said Walters presented "new ideas" about the sovereignty issue. But there was no confirmation of this from Washington, London or Buenos Aires.

British Foreign Secretary Francis Pym told the House of Commons Britain's military pressure on Argentina is effective since "there are signs the message is beginning to get through."

"From the beginning of this crisis, the government has been trying to build up pressures on Argentina steadily and progressivly and remorselessly," Pym said. "Argentina knows how to avoid further military conflict. She can begin her withdrawal — now."

Pym said Britain would seek an "alternative ending" to the dispute if Argentina does not drop its demand of unconditional sovereignty over the colony it seized April 2 after 149 years of British rule. But Argentine President Leopoldo Galtieri told an interviewer sovereignty over the islands Argentina has claimed ever since Britain took them over "was, is and will always be" Argentina's objective.

He said his government would respond "with all the means at our disposal" to any British attacks.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher told Commons the 1,800 British-descended Falklanders must be guaranteed the right "to live their own way of life under a government of their choice."

"We are working for a peaceful settlement, not a peaceful sellout," she declared in answer to members of her Conservative Party threatening to rebel if she conceded on the sovereignty issue.

day's announcement that moderately higher prices for a variety of goods lie just ahead.

"The best news is over on food prices," said Allen Sinai, senior economist at Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, MASS.

"The price declines associated with the recession are over," said Wharton econometrics' Nariman Behravesh.

Sinai, however, predicted the increases would be modest and would amount to "continuing evidence that we've broken the back of double-digit inflation."

All the April price changes are adjusted for normal seasonal variations.

In all, the unadjusted Producer Price Index for finished goods stood at 276.9 in April, meaning that goods costing $10 at wholesale in 1967 would have cost $27.69 last month.

Recent price declines have also been reflected in the government's Consumer Price Index, which measures price changes at the retail level. Consumer prices fell a seasonally adjusted 0.3 percent in March — an annual rate of 3.3 percent. It was the first decline since 1965 and the largest drop since 1953.

Price changes in the Producer Price Index often point to what will happen to prices measured at the retail level. The Consumer Price Index, though, checks for a broader range of costs than does the wholesale measure.

buildup in the meantime "offers an inducement to the Soviet Union to come to that table and legitimately negotiate with us."

Spurning a new drive to ratify the SALT II treaty, Reagan said it "just legitimizes the arms race." But he said both sides will honor its monitoring provisions.

The treaty was signed in 1979 by former President Carter and Brezhnev but never approved by the Senate. Worked out over seven years, it sets ceilings on intercontinental ballistic missiles and bombers.

Reagan made no specific mention of these and other key elements of the agreement. Later, a White House spokesman, Mark Weinberg, said, "We'll continue observing all of it as long as the Soviets do."

On another issue, the president hinted he will renew the strategic cooperation agreement with Israel that was suspended late last year after Israel annexed the Golan Heights.

Also, Reagan expressed hope that Israel and Egypt will pursue their stalemated talks on autonomy for Palestinian Arabs.

In a getaway comment, he suggested there may be progress toward a settlement of the conflict between Britain and Argentine over the Falkland Islands. As he left the room, Reagan said, "There's been some breakthrough that makes it look a little more hopeful." He did not elaborate.

During the news conference, Reagan said he did not think "irreparable damage" had been done to U.S. relations with Latin American countries by his decision to back Britain.

today. Hinckley has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

The doctor, who spent a total of 45 hours interviewing Hinckley after the shooting, said the defendant was despondent over his one-sided love affair with Miss Foster, and the murder of his idol, John Lennon. He also had lost his nerve to follow through on a plan to kill former President Carter.

Hinckley's "mind was filled with thoughts of homicide, suicide, death and the end of his world," said Carpenter, who is associated with the University of Maryland.

While sitting alone with his brandy bottle at his parents' Evergreen, Colo., home on Dec. 31, 1980, the 26-year-old Hinckley tape recorded a "New Year's Message to the World."

"Anything that I might do in 1981 would be solely for Jodie Foster's sake," he said in the recording, which was played for the jury.

"I want to make some kind of statement or something on her behalf.

"I don't want to hurt her or anything. I can't hurt anybody really. I'm such a coward really."

As the tape was played, Hinckley took off his red tie and handed it to a U.S. marshal in back of him. His wealthy parents, who were sitting in the second row of the wooden spectator benches, bowed their heads as their son described his life as a shambles.

Carpenter said many of Hinckley's troubled thoughts and ideas came from the movie "Taxi Driver," a film he saw 15 times and believed to be "speaking to him personally."

Miss Foster stars in that picture as a teen-age prostitute who is rescued from her ignoble profession by a taxi driver, Travis Bickle.

In the film, the character Bickle becomes obsessed with saving the prostitute after a woman he adored rejects him and his plan to assassinate a presidential candidate is foiled.

Carpenter said Hinckley felt he had to protect Miss Foster and was trying to form "an almost magical union between the two of them."

Hinckley also tried to live like Bickle although, Carpenter testified, "There were times he would be aware of the identification and there were other times he would be doing things without conscious awareness."

Both men spent long hours alone in their rooms, stalked presidential candidates, wore an Army fatigue jacket, purchased guns, kept diaries and sought out young hookers with the thought of rescuing them.

It became difficult for Hinckley "to sort out what's reality and what's a concoction of his own mind," the psychiatrist said.

Carpenter said Hinckley invented a girlfriend named Lynn Collins who "began to take on a life of her own."

He prepared a membership list for a right-wing organization he founded, but the doctor said, "There were no other members. The membership was created in his own mind."

Carpenter said Hinckley intended to kill Carter when he was campaigning in the fall of 1980, "but had not been able to psych himself up to do it."

Carpenter said that after the November 1980 election Hinckley "lost interest in Carter and was now devoting his activities and thinking" to Reagan.

But the murder of former Beatle John Lennon in December 1980 "stunned him out of the stalking of President Reagan," the psychiatrist said. The diversion was only temporary.

Nearly four months later, Hinckley assumed a shooter's crouch outside the Washington Hilton Hotel and fired several bullets, hitting Reagan, White House Press Secretary James Brady, Secret Service Agent Timothy McCarthy and former Washington policeman Thomas Delahanty.

He is charged in a 13-count indictment with attempting to assassinate the president and assault with intent to kill. Conviction could bring life imprisonment.

After Tornadoes, Floods

Clear Skies Covering Texas

By The Associated Press

Skies began clearing from the west across Texas today as a storm system that spawned tornadoes and flood producing rainfall moved eastward out of the state, leaving one dead and extensive flooding at Wichita Falls, Sherman and Austin in its wake.

V. Margaret Finney was killed Thursday when a tornado touched down about 10 miles south of Kirbyville, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety. Another tornado destroyed a mobile home and injured one person about eight miles south of Kirbyville.

Another tornado uprooted trees and damaged automobile in Atlanta in Cass County, but no injuries were reported.

Tornadoes earlier injured 29 persons in North Texas and West Texas Wednesday.

The National Weather Service said early today that although Holliday Creek at Wichita Falls remained well out of its banks today, the creek has stabilizing and the flood waters should begin to recede there later today.

Drenching rains produced extensive flooding at Wichita Falls where water ran as high as five feet deep in some streets and residential areas.

Law enforcement officers and volunteers used boats to rescue people from their homes and vehicles in the southern part of the city Wednesday night and Thursday. Some of the flooding was in the same area devastated by an April 10, 1979, tornado that killed 45 people.

"Now I can go get another T-shirt that says I survived the tornado and the flood, too," said Dale Dipprey, whose apartment was flooded Wednesday night.

"It happened so fast we didn't even have time to get anything upstairs," his roommate, Roy Schenk, said as he used a bucket to scoop water out of his home early Thursday morning.

The National Weather Service said more than five inches of rain fell during the night, sending Holliday Creek over its banks. About 250 people went to the emergency shelters set up by the Red Cross. Others forced from their homes stayed with friends or relatives.

At Austin, heavy rains flooded an area rebuilt after last year's Memorial Day flood that killed 13 people and caused extensive property damage.

Most of the flooding was along Shoal Creek where residents were evacuated from their homes early Thursday.

Heavy thunderstorms developed early today in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, prompting forecasters to issue severe thunderstorm warnings for persons in Cameron County.

Only a few showers and thundershowers remained in Southeast Texas during the pre-dawn hours today as most of the heavier activity moved into the Gulf of Mexico.

Patchy dense fog was reported in South Texas early today. Visibility was reduced to as low as one-eighth of a mile at Corpus Christi.

Elsewhere skies were clear over West Texas and partly cloudy to cloudy over the eastern half of the state.

Flood warnings were issued for Pine Island and Hillebrandt Bayou in Southeast Texas due to the heavy rains Thursday.

Early morning temperatures were in the 40s and 50s in West Texas and the Panhandle and in the 60s and 70s elsewhere.

Forecasts called for scattered showers in East Texas and scattered showers and thundershowers along the coast. Skies were to be clear to partly cloudy elsewhere.

Highs today will range from the 70s in the north to the 90s in far South Texas and in the Big Bend area of Southwest Texas.

Lows tonight will be in the 50s and 60s in the northern half of the state and in the 60s and 70s in the southern half. Highs Saturday will be mostly in the 70s and 80s.

deadly weapons are deteriorating and need to be replaced with so-called binary chemicals.

Binary weapons, most often packed into artillery shells, are harmless to humans until two separate chemicals are combined after firing.

When the shell explodes, a deadly gas emerges, killing everyone in the area except those wearing extensive protective equipment.

Tower said that only by making sure the U.S. supply of chemical weapons is strong will the Russians be afraid of using them on their own if war broke out in Europe.

There were a few successful challenges to the president's defense policies, but overall the Pentagon budget proposals escaped unscathed.

economy has gotten better said it was because of President Reagan's economic program, while those who said the economy has either stayed the same or gotten worse were about evenly split over whether or not it was because of Reaganomics.

Respondents split over whether President Reagan's economic program is primarily a failure, with 47 percent saying it is a failure, 34 percent saying it is a success and 19 percent either not sure or saying it is too early to tell.

A 57 percent majority said Reagan's economic program is either helping the nation or not making any difference. A 57 percent majority also said they think the Reagan economic program either has helped people such as themselves or hasn't made any difference to them.

And 48 percent said they agree with the president's view that the country's economic problems would be worse today if his economic program had not been adopted, while 43 percent disagreed and 9 percent were not sure.

As with all sample surveys, the results of AP-NBC News polls can vary from the opinions of all Americans because of chance variations in the sample.

For a poll based on about 1,600 interviews, the results are subject to an error margin of 3 percentage points either way because of chance variations.

Airline Lost; Lack Of Time And Money

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Braniff International tried to become the prototype airline for the 1980s and break new ground in labor-management relations but ran out of time and money.

The now-idle airline has ducked behind federal bankruptcy laws, leaving owners of its billion-dollar debt wondering when they will ever receive compensation.

In a midnight meeting at the home of a U.S. bankruptcy judge in Fort Worth, officials of the debt-riddled airline filed under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy laws, seeking protection from creditors while they try to reorganize the company.

Twelve hours later, at a Thursday news conference, Braniff Chairman Howard Putnam said the bankruptcy petition was only way to save the airline from its creditors. Braniff also fired some 8,500 employees Wednesday, Putnam said, his voice cracking with emotion.

"What we had to do last night was very difficult," said Putnam. "We're trying to provide a basis for a future for this airline."

Braniff's stock dropped more than 50 percent Thursday after news of the bankruptcy petition, but stock prices of other major airlines rose sharply.

An accounting of the company's financial status has begun, under supervision of U.S. bankruptcy trustee Scott Bush, and total debt could exceed $1 billion, said company vice president Sam Coats.

"We have incurred net losses of more than $$300 million during the three years ended Dec. 31, 1981 and during the first quarter of 1982 we have lost over $43 million," Coats said. "As a result, our ability to remain an active competitor in a deregulated airline environment has been severely impacted."

President Reagan said Thursday that the federal government has no place helping companies threatened with bankruptcy.

"I don't see where government can put itself in the business of suddenly bailing out at taxpayer expense companies that go bankrupt," he said.

Braniff shut down its operations, without warning, abruptly at 5 p.m. Wednesday after making sure all its airplanes were on, or headed for, Braniff property to guard against seizure by creditors.

Neither employees nor passengers were warned of the shutdown ahead of time, causing mass confusion at the company's sprawling, 24-gate terminal at Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport. Arriving travelers found their connecting flights cancelled, the ticket counters closed and most of the baggage handlers gone.

"Panhandle Empires" was the topic of the program given by Mrs. Clayton Sanders at the Tuesday closing luncheon of the Pioneer Study Club. Members met at the Hereford Country Club.

Mrs. Sanders gave a history and future outlook of some of the most well-known and largest ranches in the Texas Panhandle.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Miss Roberta Campbell, Mrs. Herman Ford, and Mrs. H.E. Miller. The tables were decorated with spring flowers.

Mrs. Ted Panciera gave the invocation, while Mrs. Paul Rudd led the Pledge of Allegiance and Mrs. Elmer Sigle led the pledge to the Texas flag.

Mmes. R.L. Wilson, L.H. Lookingbill, Sr., Sanderes, and Ray Johnson reported on the recent TFWC district convention held in Amarillo. They mentioned that the club history won first in district and that the club yearbook was chosen as one of the top ten and will be sent to Austin to compete at the state level.

A poll was taken to discover the members' favorite club program of the year. The result was a book review of "Meeting God at Every Turn" by Catherine Marshall which was reviewed by Mrs. Jim Clark.

Mrs. Wilson presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Miller, chairman of the Girl's Town committee, reported that a girl is currently being considered to receive a scholarship to West Texas State University.

Plans were made for a booth and parade entry in the Town and Country Jubilee in August. It was announced that club members will mann the registration tables at Pioneer Day later this month.

Mrs. Wilson installed new officers, using the Federation theme and format.

Other members present included Mmes. Frank Ball, Clark, O.G. Hill, Sr., W.C. Hromas, A. Petersen, Tom Manning, P.B. Sowell, Guy Walser, W.M. Wimberly, P.H. Gililland, Henry Hastings and John Patton.

Charles Lyles Describes Perspective In Drawing

Charles Lyles presented an informative program on perspective and drawing when members of the Hereford Fine Arts Association met Tuesday evening at the Community Center.

He explained how perspective was a process of creating an illusion of depth. He illustrated detail, parallel lines, eye level, overlap, position, value, one and two point perspective.

Special guest during the meeting was Randy Jones, a well known artist in the Dallas area for his billboard paintings and now a resident of Hereford. At the close of the meeting, he was welcomed as a new member.

The business session was opened with a prayer by Norma Hendon, club president, and minutes of the last meeting were read by Loyce Brown, secretary.

Lyles discussed plans that have been made for the Jubilee of Arts to be held Aug. 20-22. Members were requested to sign up to assist in the various jobs that will be required to make the Jubilee a success.

Dameron Park has been selected for the Jubilee Junction. Entertainment is planned throughout the day. Last year it was estimated that approximately 10,000 people took part in the Jubilee.

Suzy Wall, scholarship chairman, gave a report on two deserving Hereford High School students who will be presented $100 scholarships at the HHS Awards Assembly Tuesday.

It was announced that a painting done by Lyles will be on display at the entrance of the Community Center during the Jubilee of Arts and that proceeds from the drawing will be used to raise funds for this function.

During the meeting, a pen and pencil drawing of a windmill done by Lyles was won by Jean Reinauer.

Special guests from the Hereford Art Guild included Margaret Young, Susie Robinson, Mozell Childers, Ruby Lee Hickman, Jean Reinauer, Mary Hamby and Betty Rice.

Other guests were Linda Minchew, Joe Huckert and Billy Joe Wall. A total of 25 people were in attendance.

Serving as hostesses during the evening were June Owens and Loyce Brown who served a variety of cookies and punch.

The next meeting is scheduled in September.

Speaker's Program Portrays Pioneers

Carol McGilvary presented a program concerning American pioneer women when members of Lone Star Study Club met Tuesday for a noon luncheon at the Hereford Country Club.

During her program, which stressed how some pioneer women rebelled against the attitude that the women's place is in the home, she listed several women who have played important roles in American history.

Ms. McGilvary concluded her program by urging members to use the public libraries to learn more about the women who have given so much of themselves to make this nation what it is today.

During the business meeting, with Ruby Stevenson presiding, she thanked the officers for their help during the past club year. Two new members were also announced.

Lloyd Ames, from Hereford Cablevision presented the film from the Senior Women's West Texas Golf Tournament held last fall in Hereford.

Mike Horton, city golf pro, commented on rules of golf courtesies. Two of the rule to remember are "always carry a rule book in your golf bag and always be sure golfers in front of you are out of the way before proceeding with your game."

Each Tuesday is playday with meeting times at 9:30 a.m. and again at 5:30 p.m. Anyone not able to play at these times has until the next Monday to post their playday score. The Tuesday, May 18 playday score card will show "most bogies."

Mount Taal

Though an erupting volcano brings to mind pictures of flowing rivers of boiling lava, not all active volcanoes emit lava. Mount Taal in the Philippines, with a history of death and destruction, has spewed forth noxious gas, steaming mud and ash, and white-hot rocks — but never lava.

Western Heritage Is Installation Theme

A salad supper and business meeting were attended by members of Veleda Study Club recently in the home of Donna Lindeman.

Members responded to roll call by recalling highlights of the past year. Janice Brownlow conducted the installation ceremony for the new officers.

Other officers included vice-president, Jean Ruther; recording secretary, Billie Birdwell; corresponding secretary, Arvella Lauderback; treasurer, Marcella Bradley.

Introducing Southwestern Bell's new
CUSTOMER GUIDE

Take a close look at the front of your new telephone directory. This year it features a new Customer Guide section chock-full of information to help you get the most from your telephone service.

In the past, the directory Call Guide Pages served as a helpful calling reference, offering information from in-state Long Distance rates to local dialing instructions. But the new Customer Guide offers more — more information, more money-saving value, more practical help for your telephone needs.

For example, there is a section featuring money saving tips that can advise you about deposits, payment plans and how to save money when making calls.

The Customer Guide has helpful information on doing business with the phone company, too, like local bill payment locations and an outline of your rights and responsibilities as a consumer.

Best of all, the new guide features a wide variety of money-saving telephone tips, from ways to save on Long Distance to saving on Directory Assistance charges.

Southwestern Bell's new Customer Guide. It's another way we're helping you get the most from your telephone service.

Ann Landers

Be Grateful Children Can Visit

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My daughter informed me that her marriage was finished and she wanted a divorce, but she was afraid to tell her husband because he might become violent. She begged me to stay with her for a few days and be "on hand."

I was in their home when her husband received a court order at his office, forbidding him to enter the house without her permission. When he came to pack his bags, he suddenly turned on me, accused me of breaking up his marriage and ordered me out of the house. I was stunned. My daughter remained silent. So I drove 150 miles to my own home, crying most of the way.

Now they are back together and he holds me responsible for all his marital problems. I admit I was bitterly opposed to the marriage, but when my daughter said she was going to be his wife no matter what anyone said, I accepted him and tried to be supportive. (I should tell you my daughter was not yet 20 years of age at the time. He was in his mid-40s and the divorced father of four children.)

This is the present situation: My daughter is permitted to bring the children to visit me, but I am unwelcome in their home--now and forever. I am sick about it. Can you help?—Somewhere in Texas

DEAR TX.: Help you do what? Shoehorn your way into a situation that would inevitably result in another family fight, with you driving home again in tears? What do you need it for?

Your son-in-law sounds like a tyrant, and your daughter has spaghetti where her spine belongs. Be grateful Spaghetti's lord and master allows her to bring the children to visit you. It's better that way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you have heard some lollapaloozas over the years, but this one is a winner. I'd like your opinion. Are we nuts, or are they?

My wife's rich cousins from Maine told us they save a lot of money when they go out by ordering one dinner and two plates. Sometimes they have to pay an extra 50 cents or $1 for the extra plate, but they say it's worth it. What do you think about this plan?—Just Amazed In Vermont

DEAR JUST: One dinner and two plates? And probably no tip.The word that comes to mind is tacky.

If these relatives have small appetites and don't want to waste food, they can ask for doggie bags and take the leftovers home. No restaurant owner objects to this practice. It is considered acceptable behavior even in the finest places. But two people splitting dinner is boorish.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago I met a married man and knew I wanted him more than anything in the world. His marriage was a disaster and if it weren't for the children he would have left her long ago. When he finally asked his wife for a divorce, she said, "OK, but it will cost you plenty."

I would love to have a baby, but I can't take the time off from work. We live in a tiny apartment while his ex-wife is still doing all the things she did before—trips, a maid in the house, expensive clothes. It burns me up.

Is it fair for a woman who was a rotten wife to get half of everything? Alimony is the biggest racket going on. Please, Ann, tell me why it has become a way of life for so many women.—I'm Yelling Foul

DEAR YELLING: You can yell all you want, but alimony is the high cost of leaving. When a woman marries a divorced man she marries his responsibilities.

You said you wanted him more than anything in the world. Well—you've got him now, so don't complain. The law favors those who are legally married, not illicit lovers.

One Win from Stanley Cup

Islanders Playing Cautiously

VANCOUVER (AP) — One step away from their third straight Stanley Cup, the New York Islanders are playing it as cautiously as they did in getting to that position.

The Islanders played awesome defensive hockey Thursday night, shutting down the Vancouver Canucks for a 3-0 victory. The two-time defending National Hockey League champions have a 3-0 stranglehold on the finals with Game 4 here Sunday.

"I won't say we have one hand on the Cup," said Mike Bossy, who scored a goal while he was airborne midway through the second period. That tally, on a backhander after Vancouver goalie Richard Brodeur had robbed Stefan Persson and Bossy, gave the Islanders a 2-0 margin. "As much as I'm excited about being up 3-0, I'm keeping my hands off until we the fourth game is won," he added.

If they get the fourth triumph, it will make the Islanders the first U.S. based franchise to win three straight NHL championships.

But, as has been their philosophy since they first won the title in 1980, the Isles are playing it cool.

"It's still not over," said goalie Bill Smith, who made 23 saves — few of them difficult after the opening period — in registering the third playoff shutout of his career and his first whitewash since March 12, 1981.

All of the Islanders were thinking about shutting off the Canucks before their vociferous fans, who greeted their heroes with a thunderous ovation. Nearly everybody in the crowd was waving a white towel, the team's symbol ever since Coach Roger Neilson waved one near the end of the second game of the semifinals in Chicago.

"What towels?," joked Islanders Coach Al Arbour, who is one win away from his sixth Stanley Cup — three as a player and three behind the Isles' bench.

After a relatively even first period in which Brodeur and Smith both made several spectacular saves, Clark Gillies got the Islanders up 1-0 at 2:56. Brodeur, who was magnificent all night, made one of his few errors by passing the puck directly to New York rookie Brent Sutter. Sutter fed Gillies, who put home a 20-foot wrist shot before Brodeur could get set.

Bossy made it 2-0 with his stellar effort just one second after Vancouver defenseman Doug Halward stepped out of the penalty box.

After that, the Canucks were completely stifled by New York's forechecking and protective net around Smith.

"We wanted to get that first goal and they got tighter and tighter, tougher and tougher," said Canucks center Gerry Minor. "We had a good first period and came up empty. After that, they took the game away from us."

"They forechecked us to death," added Stan Smyl, "especially after they got the lead. We didn't shoot enough."

Bob Nystrom clinched the game with an empty net goal with 1:20 remaining, setting up the possible sweep. The Islanders now have won eight straight postseason games and six in a row on the road.

76ers, Celtics Both Still Under Pressure

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach Billy Cunningham says he doesn't believe his Philadelpha 76ers have switched the pressure to the Boston Celtics in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference championship series.

"The pressure is on both teams because it's a seven-game series," said Cunningham. "There is no point where you can relax."

The Sixers won 121-113 Wednesday night to even the series at one game apiece. The third and fourth games are here Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The fifth is at Boston Wednesday night.

Cunningham refuses to put much stock in the fact that the 76ers have wrested the home court advantage from the Celtics.

"Yeh, you do have the support of the fans, but it doesn't change the style of the visiting team," Cunningham said. "The teams that have reached this point know how to play under all conditions."

Actually, Boston twice during the regular season won in Philadelphia, so they know they can do it.

Cunningham insists that while he was embarrassed, the 40-point loss his team incurred in the series opener meant no more than one defeat, not a difference in ability between the teams.

Cunningham also noted that the Jones players had a lot to do with the turnaround. Neither scored Sunday. Caldwell Jones contributed 22 points, eight rebounds and controlled Robert Parish Wednesday. Bobby Jones collected 10, had seven rebounds and helped hold Boston's Larry Bird to 18.

Boston coach Bill Fitch was upset by his team's 23 turnovers. He said the Celtics' fundamentals resembled a team playing in November, not the playoffs in May.

"You can't get by with that," Fitch said. "Not against a team as good as the 76ers."

The 76ers received some hopeful news Thursday. Lionel Hollins may be able to play this weekend.

Hollins broke a knuckle on the little finger of his right hand three weeks ago today against the Bucks. He was examined by Dr. Michael Clancy, the 76ers' team physician, who put on a small splint and told Hollins to practice today.

After practice, Clancy was to re-evaluate the mobility and agility of the hand to see if Hollins can play.

Laser Light Ready For Preakness Run

BALTIMORE (AP) — The way trainer Pat Kelly sees it, Saturday's 107th Preakness Stakes is set up for a victory by his colt, Laser Light, second-place finisher in the May 1 Kentucky Derby.

Laser Light, a late closer, hasn't been in the winner's circle since the Remsen at Aqueduct Nov. 14, but the son of Majestic Light has been installed as the second choice at 7-2 in the early-line behind Linkage for the 13-16-mile Pimlico race, a sixteenth of a mile shorter than the Derby.

"We couldn't ask for anything better," Kelly said Thursday after seven colts and the filly Cupecoy's Joy were entered for the second leg of throughbred racing's Triple Crown.

"There's plenty of speed in the race which means there'll be an honest pace. He's a come-from-behind horse and he should benefit from it.

"Another thing, he won't have 18 horses to get around like he did in the Derby. The problem was getting through the big field. Eddie (Maple) couldn't get into him until the last eighth of a mile."

In the Derby, Laser Light went off at 18-1 odds and charged through the stretch to finish 2½ lengths behind winner Gato Del Sol and a neck in front of Reinvested.

"I was amazed at his odds in the Derby," said the 34-year-old Kelly, son of veteran trainer Tommy Kelly. "The people who bet on him made out like bandits." Laser Light paid $17 for place and $9.20 for show at Churchill Downs.

Laser Light, owned by the Live Oak Plantation, also posted two thirds this year, in the Wood Memorial and an allowance, and finished seventh in the Florida Derby.

It figures: Hindsight is the only way in which afterthoughts can be viewed.

Razorbacks Favorite to Take SWC Track Championship

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Arkansas, with dominating distance strength, appears ready to fulfill its favorites role in the Southwest Conference Track and Field championships that begin tonight at the Univesity of Houston.

The Razorbacks were runnersup to the Texas Aggies in the 1981 meet at Dallas but seem to be unanimous as the favorite with the University of Texas and host University of Houston given the best chance for an upset.

"Arkansas has to be picked the favorite with the rest of us fighting for second," Texas Coach Cleburne Price said.

The Razorbacks have the top conference times in the 800 and 1500 meters, led by Randy Stephens and the 5,000 and 10,000 meter events paced by Pat Vaughn. The Hogs, in fact, had eight of the top 10 times in the 5,000 meter race and two of the top five in the 10,000.

Arkansas won the SWC indoor meet and finished second in the NCAA national indoor meet earlier this year.

Stephens could face a challenge from Rice freshman Gawain Guy in the 1,500 meters.

Stephens, the NCAA indoor champion in the 1,000-yard race, has a 1500 meter best of 3:42.10 compared to Guy's 343.30.

Vaughn is the SWC leader in both the 5,000 and 10,000 meter races with times of 13:47.8 and 28:31.9.

Houston's chances of victory likely will depend on sprinter Stanley Floyd, who will have to make up points lost by the scholastic ineligibility of Carl Lewis, who last year won the 100 and 200 meters, the long jump and anchored the Cougars to a second place finish in the sprint relay.

Floyd, who has run only one 100 meters this season, will have plenty of competition from Texas A&M's Rod Richardson, 10.09, Texas Christian's Phillips Epps and Rice's Vince Courville, each with 10.17 season bests.

Floyd will have a legacy to uphold in the sprint events. Cougars runners have won the two events the past three years.

Epps is the conference leader in the 200 meters with a 20.19 clocking.

Texas' strength will be in the weight events where Oskar Jakobsson of Iceland is the conference leader in the discus at 200-5 and shot put, 66-10 34 and ranks third in the javelin at 249-7.

Winners of five other 1981 events also will miss the meet. Dennis Brantley, high jump champ, and Sam Koskie, 800 meter titlist, both of Southern Methodist, are ineligible. Injuries have sidelined Baylor's Jeke Jefferson, 400 meters, Texas A&M's Jimmy Howard, high jump and SMU's Michael Carter in the shot put.

Champions returning include Mike Collins of Houston, javelin; Keith Connor, SMU, triple jump; Scott Lofquist, Arkansas, discus; Baylor's sprint relay team; Reggie Garner of Texas, 400 meter hurdles and SMU's 1600 meter relay team.

Finals in the long jump, shot put, javelin, and 10,000 meters are scheduled tonight. The meet ends Saturday.

Mears Fastest Again, But Andretti Smiling

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rick Mears once again owned the fastest speed in the history of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, but Mario Andretti and the rest of the Patrick Racing Team sported the widest grins on pit road.

The incredible speed game on the Speedway's 2½-mile oval went on Thursday, with Mears, the 1979 Indianapolis 500 winner, knocking teammate Kevin Cogan off the top spot in the pre-qualifying pecking order with a scorching lap of 206.8 mph in his arrow-nosed Ford-powered Penske PC-10.

That quick lap, unofficial since it didn't come during qualifications or the race, was part of the traditional "happy hour," the final hour of each practice day at Indy.

Mears' lap, a half-hour before the end of Thursday's session, surpassed Cogan's run of 206.3 a day earlier. The sun-drenched grandstand crowd, perhaps 30,000 people, hardly had settled down after the announcement of Mears' quick one, when Andretti, the 1969 Indy winner, brought it to its feet again.

Andretti, driving one of U.E. "Pat" Patrick's Cosworth-powered Wildcat VIII's, became the second-fastest in Speedway history with a trip around the asphalt at 206.6.

Last year's second-place finisher said, "We've been scratching. We made changes in the car, and there's no question we've improved it. It's just developed since we tested last February. It feels good to make the jump, though."

Andretti had been running in the range of 200 to 203 prior to his fast lap. And that big lap came just moments after teammate Gordon Johncock became the 10th driver of the week to top 200 — charging to a lap of 202.1.

The scorchers by Mears, Andretti and Johncock were just part of the continuing speed parade that has everyone breathlessly awaiting the start of time trials, Saturday, for the 66th Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Don Whittington, driving a year-old March-Cosworth, ripped off a lap of 204.5 mph Thursday, the fourth-fastest of the week and the history of the ancient racing plant on the Westside of Indianapolis.

Joining Johncock Thursday as new members of this year's 200 mph club were four-time winner A.J. Foyt at 201.3, Tom Sneva at 202.5 and Danny Ongais at 200.3. All have been over 200 in the past, with Sneva the official track record-holder for one lap, 203.620, and four-laps, 202.156, both set in 1978 qualifications.

Earlier entries over 200 included Whittington's younger brother, Bill, with a top lap of 201.4 and three-time Indy winner Al Unser at 200.9.

Chisox's Hoyt 7-0; Guidry Axes A's

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Although his Chicago White Sox teammates have given him booming offensive support this season, Lamarr Hoyt isn't pitching entirely pressure-free.

"It's not as easy as it looks," says Hoyt, whose teammates have scored 42 runs for him in the last four games. "The hardest thing about it is keeping your earned run average down. Once you get a big lead, you have to throw fastballs — and the hitters expect you to throw fastballs."

Thursday night was another loud night for the White Sox, who clubbed 20 hits en route to a 3-2 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers. The latest offensive show included home runs by Greg Luzinski and Ron LeFlore.

Hoyt's only test came in the sixth inning when the Brewers loaded the bases on a pair of singles and a walk. He then went to work on Marshall Edwards and got him to bounce out to end the threat.

Hoyt, 7-0, became the first seven-game winner in the majors with the victory. Hoyt picked up his 12th straight decision over two seasons and now has won 14 games at Commiskey Park without a defeat as both a starter and a reliever.

The victory was the ninth in the last 10 games for the White Sox, who battered loser Mike Caldwell, 2-3, for 13 hits before LeFlore knocked him out with a two-run homer in the sixth inning.

Elsewhere in the American League, it was New York 6, Oakland 4; Baltimore 3, Seattle 1; Texas 4, Toronto 3; Detroit 6, Minnesota 2; Kansas City 11, Boston 2 and California 3, Cleveland 2 in 12 innings.

Yankees 6, A's 4

Steve Balboni staked Ron Guidry to a 2-0 lead in the first inning with his first major league home run and the rookie first baseman added two more hits as New York beat Oakland.

Guidry, 5-1, allowed six hits, including Dwayne Murphy's leadoff homer in the fourth inning, his seventh, before needing relief help with no outs in the eighth. Guidry struck out eight and walked four before George Frazier and Shane Rawley finished up for the Yankees.

Orioles 3, Mariners 1

Al Bumbry and Dan Ford hit seventh-inning home runs and Dennis Martinez pitched a five-hitter as Baltimore beat Seattle.

Leading off the seventh, Bumbry snapped a 1-1 tie with his first homer of the season. One out later, Ford socked his third home run of the season. Martinez, 3-3, walked two and struck out one and yielded the Mariner run in the fourth inning, on an RBI grounder Steve Stroughter.

Tigers 6, Twins 2

Larry Herndon drove in two runs with a homer and a triple and Detroit got a six-hit performance from Jack Morris to beat Minnesota.

First Team in History

Cubs Win 8,000th

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs...first when the National League was founded but more accustomed to being last in recent years...finally have another first to boast about.

The only one of the NL's eight charter members which has operated continuously in the same city since it was franchised in 1876, the Cubs haven't been first at the end of any year since 1945 and they are in their usual spot at the bottom of the NL East.

But when Al Ripley and Lee Smith combined on a three-hit 5-0 shutout of the Houston Astros Thursday night, it enabled the Cubs to become the first team in major league history to win 8,000 games.

Ripley has won exactly one of those 8,000. He made the most of his first start mf the season, allowing two singles in six innings before giving way to Smith.

In other NL games, St. Louis outlasted Atlanta 10-9, New York downed Los Angeles 4-2, Philadelphia trounced San Francisco 8-1, Montreal nipped San Diego 6-5 in 11 innings and Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh 2-1.

Besides making baseball history with win No.8,000, the Cubs have won five of six games for the first time in two seasons and they snapped an Astrodome jinx of 12 losses in a row dating back to May 1979.

Ripley retired the first 11 batters before Ray Knight singled.

Meanwhile, the Cubs roughed up Joe Niekro with two runs in the second inning on singles by Ripley, Steve Henderson, Bump Wills and Keith Moreland. Ripley also singled a run across in the fourth and the Cubs added two runs in the fifth on Leon Durham's RBI single and Moreland's sacrifice fly.

Cardinals 10, Braves 9

Tito Landrum drove in three runs with his first major league homer and an RBI single. The Cardinals scored twice in each of the first three innings and held on despite three Atlanta home runs, two by Dale Murphy and one by Claudell Washington. Two of the homers came in the bottom of the ninth off St. Louis relief ace Bruce Sutter.

The Cardinals made it 9-5 with three runs in the fifth, including a single by Willie McGee — his first major league RBI — and a two-run single by Ozzie Smith. They scored what proved to be the winning run in the top of the ninth on singles by George Hendrick and Ken Oberkfell around a wild pitch.

Mets 4, Dodgers 2

Hubie Brooks singled three times and drove in all four runs to back the nine-hit pitching of Pete Falcone and Neil Allen. The loss was the fourth straight for the world champion Dodgers, who dropped one game under .500.

The Mets, who have won four in a row, rapped out 13 hits, including bases-loaded singles by Brooks in the first and fourth innings off Burt Hooton.

Phillies 8, Giants 1

Dick Ruthven pitched a six-hitter and Gary Matthews slammed a two-run homer and drove in three runs as the Phillies won their fourth game in a row and 10th in the last 11. It was the second straight complete game for Ruthven, who failed to win in his first five starts.

The Phillies took a 3-0 lead against Alan Fowlkes in the first inning on a double by Bob Dernier, an RBI single by Mike Schmidt and Matthews' homer. They made it 5-1 in the fifth without a hit.

Nicklaus, Palmer Stalk Haefner

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Vance Heafner has the lead, but two of the greatest golfers the game has produced — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer — are within striking distance in the $350,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

"Early in the week, I thought I was feeling the vibes — I get a little nervous, my stomach gets a little upset, I get a little anxious — that I might be ready to play a little better," said the 52-year-old Palmer, who won this event 20 years ago.

"It's probably the best I've played this year," Palmer, the current national seniors champion, said after a solid, 2-under-par 68 in Thursday's rain-delayed first round. "Maybe we can make a reasonable week of it."

He was three shots back of Heafner, a third-year tourist and the 27-year-old son of the late Clayton Heafner, who won this event in 1948. Heafner finished his round of 65 just before darkness. The start of the day's play was delayed 4½ hours by violent thunderstorms that dumped some three inches of rain on the Colonial Country Club course and produced temporary flooding.

Nicklaus was only one off the pace and tied for second wih second-year tourist Lennie Clements at 66.

"I have to credit a couple of shots to Steve," Nicklaus said of his 19-year-old son, who is caddying for him. "Just as an experiment, I'm having him help me read the greens."

Nicklaus, holder of a record 17 major professional titles, has been plagued by poor putting in his last few starts and, for the first time in his career failed to qualify for the final two rounds in three of his last four starts.

His 4-under-par round marked an end to those troubles, however, and represented his best score since January.

Braniff Failure Affects Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry, who made televised personal appeals trying to help, said Thursday the suspension of Braniff International was like watching part of the team crumble away.

"I feel like many people in our organization feel right now — sad," Landry said. "You hate it when a company like Braniff goes under. Braniff was so important to the community."

"We had many, many friends at Braniff who were like a part of our organization."

The Cowboys flew on Braniff charters for 22 years.

This last season Braniff designated a special "Cowboy plane" which included the National Football League team's logotype on the tail.

The plane made trips to New York City during the regular season and to San Francisco for the National Conference title game. Dallas lost on both occasions.

"Maybe we jinxed them, I hope not," Landry said.

Braniff flew the Cowboys during some dreadful seasons before they became a consistent NFL power, going to playoffs in 15 of the last 16 years..

"It seems like we've been with them forever and suffered through the good and the bad with them," said Landry.

Both Landry and quarterback Danny White made the televised 60-second advertisements without reimbursement.

"Doug Todd and Gregg Aiello in our public relations department felt we should do something for Braniff and asked me if I would help," Landry said. "I was glad to."

He added,"I didn't mind even though we couldn't win flying in that airplane."

Todd said,"We had a close relationship for 22 years. They were good friends and sponsored our highlight film each season.

"We had the same pilot (Wally Nicholson) and the same stewardesses, Maria Surgeon, Jackie Moseley and Codie Lewis, for years. You'd be surprised how hard it (the suspension) hit everybody up here."

There was a humorous moment during the taping of the advertisements. Landry performed perfectly through the first take until he got to the punch line: Instead of "Fly Braniff" he said "Fry Braniff."

He said, "Let's do that again. Obviously we don't want that to happen."

Now the Cowboys don't know what airline they'll be flying this fall.

Hill Postpones Contract Inking

DALLAS (AP) — Rod Hill, the Cowboys' No. 1 draft pick, says he always intended to sign his multi-year contract with the Dallas football club, but needed time to think before inking the agreement.

The Cowboys were forced to cancel a Thursday press conference when Hill informed club officials late Wednesday that he would not sign the contract.

But Hill finally signed the contract Thursday morning, and said he was "glad to be a Cowboy."

"I just wanted to sleep on it," Hill said. "I never did change my mind. ... I just wanted to clear up some clerical problems."

The Cowboys already had announced Wednesday night that Hill had signed.

Cowboy Vice President Gil Brandt said Hill and his agent, Earl Cromwell of Houston, had agreed to terms of a contract Wednesday afternoon.

"For some reason, me and said that the deal had changed," Brandt said. "I said, 'OK, we'll talk some more in the morning.'"

Hill, a defensive back from Kentucky State, was the 25th player chosen in the National Football League draft.

Last year, No. 1 draft choice Howard Richards held out three months before agreeing to terms with the Cowboys less than 24 hours before training camp opened.

BARBS
Phil Pastoret

When you're 20, life is a ball; after 40, you find you've never been in step with the music.

People who refer to something hilarious as being "a gas" obviously have never been billed for heating the house with the stuff.

Diplomatese: "Ongoing talks" is the striped-pants set's way of saying they haven't been able to decide on anything.

FAITH TEACHES US THE MEANING OF REAL WEALTH

From the great love of money, the evil that springs
Is the same kind of trouble that avarice brings,
With the habit of wanting material things
That we usually cannot afford.
When we shorten our lives with all work and no play,
Then our taxes increase while the years fade away;
And the loss of our health is a high price to pay
For excessive financial reward.
If you'll go to the Church of whatever your creed,
There's a lesson you'll learn on the evils of greed;
For the only true riches that you'll ever need
Will be found in the love of the Lord!

— Gloria Nowak

"Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy."
—I Timothy 6:17

Heaven does not choose its elect from among the great and wealthy.
