COUNSEL RENEWS FIGHT FOR MILLIKIN

Seminole Threat To Oil Price Fades As Production Falls

Faith

Low Fire Losses—"Official" Figures—Not a Retraction—Credit Facilities—

Fire losses in Wichita Falls for the month of October total $3900, a low figure for a city of this size. Wichita Falls is unusually fortunate in having its efficient fire department, and in having so capable a man at its head as Chief J. L. McClure. Recent improvements made in the department, the fine work being done by the fire prevention committee of the safety council and other factors should combine toward securing for Wichita Falls one of the best fire insurance ratings in Texas.

Now comes Secretary Jardine of the federal department of agriculture with the admission that the cotton "carry-over" figures of his department represented 53 per cent of the total in bales shown by private agencies and 47 per cent from official census bureau figures. The "official" statement of the department on Sept. 15, which was only 47 per cent "official" it now develops, sent cotton toward the bottom and cost Texas and southern cotton farmers millions of dollars. Why should a department of the government issue a report as "official" which in truth was only 47 per cent the work of that department?

Colonel Hester of the New Orleans cotton exchange told the true source of the government figures weeks ago, and less than two weeks ago in a personal statement demanded that the secretary of agriculture issue a "retraction" on the government report. Mr. Jardine seems to lack the grace for a public retraction or admission of error. He merely gives the full facts of the government statement and lets the cotton farmer roll his own conclusions.

Credit men of the Wichita Falls district meet Thursday night for a banquet and program of entertainment, which may be surprising information to many people who look on credit men as species of cold-blooded, hard-boiled joykillers. Credit associations are operated for the protection of merchants who sell their goods on faith and who accept the pledges of their customers in lieu of the ready cash. The greatest benefit and service of the credit association, however, accrues to the public, to the man or woman who uses facilities of the credit association wisely and as needed. It is no longer necessary for a person desiring to open an account in a new town, or at a new store, to prepare lists of references, or to establish credit through experience. The credit association attends to these things for those persons who are favorably listed, and its service extends anywhere in the nation, or to any individual member business in a city.

Many people view the credit association as a system of espionage, devised to harass the customer. This is a most ridiculous error, and one which credit associations should combat. The writer knows little about problems of credit men, but it seems possible that a campaign to acquaint the public with the services given the customer as well as the demands made upon the customer by the creditor would engender a surprising amount of good feeling, and perhaps improve general business conditions.

The town of Turkey, or rather the road district which includes Turkey, is to vote on a bond issue of $25,000, with indications that the proposal will be successful. Turkey will devote the entire amount to the building of lateral roads extending out into the farming communities. Merchants of Turkey are wise. They know where the business is and how to get it.

Restriction Regulations In Force Now Need Not Be Renewed

FLOW CREST PASSED

Operators "Shoot" Wells But Fail to Help Production

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 2. (AP)—The Seminole oil field, whose prodigious production in the last several months caused restrictions to be placed upon it, is now in the position of a worn out motor car trying to make the maximum speed limit, it was said tonight by W. J. Armstrong, chief conservation officer for the Oklahoma corporation commission.

Armstrong, who has been in charge of restriction work, and Fred Capshaw, chairman of the corporation commission, said it probably would not be necessary to renew the order holding production of the Seminole area to 450,000 barrels per day when the order expires November 5.

Production Under 400,000

The Seminole area yesterday fell to a production of less than 400,000 barrels a day for the first time since early last summer. The figures for the period ended at 7 a. m. Tuesday showed a production of 399,578 barrels. In its heyday, the area produced as much as 527,384 barrels a day.

Capshaw said the restriction order, which was issued at the request of operators of the Seminole area, would not be rescinded, but would lie dormant, for use again if needed. Armstrong said he was keeping a watchful eye on a new district about six miles northeast of the Searight pool, a part of the Seminole area, which might present a new over-production threat if many flush wells were brought in. A well has been brought in in this district by the Gypsy Oil company.

Operators Shoot Wells

Efforts to boost declining production with permission to shoot 186 wells granted by the umpire, Ray M. Collins, who has regulated production under a restriction agreement, last week failed. New wells brought in in the Seminole field were not of sufficient caliber to promise substantial increases.

Oil men have watched with concern the creeping of salt water into the Searight field, a part of the Seminole pool. The Earlsboro area fell off heavily last week, slumping about 1200 barrels within 24 hours as gauged yesterday. This field had produced as much as 162,000 barrels. The Little River pool has held up a steady production level. The Seminole City pool has shown increases, however.

Oil Price Hurt

The greater Seminole pool has been the largest producing area in the United States, and to it has been attributed Oklahoma's supremacy in oil production, which poured into the channels of trade, has caused oil men no little concern because of its effect on prices. Concern was deepened when last March 12, the average crude oil price slumped $1.31 from the $2.63 level established November 2.

Mr. Collins, in approaching the corporation commission to seek means of curbing the flow which had so diluted prices, said, at one time last summer that the pool might reach 700,000 barrels of production.

Earl Hamilton Named Church Auditor For Wichita Falls Methodist District

DALLAS, Nov. 2.(AP)—Rumblings of discord over the issue of unification of northern and southern branches of the Methodist Episcopal church were heard here today more than 5000 clergymen and laymen met in the sixty first annual north Texas conference of the church.

While leaders said the question of unification might not come up in an open session of the conference, on account of no vote being possible before the next general conference of the southern church, members of the anti-unification group indicated an attempt to have the conference take a stand on the subject might be made.

The morning session was occupied largely with formalities of opening and routine business which included the appointment of working committees and auditors to check financial reports of the nine conference districts.

CITY OFFICIALS WIN FIRST TILT ON WARRANTS

District Judges Dissolve Injunction Against Warrant Sale

ASSURES AUDITORIUM

In Event Of Appeal City Will Ask For Quick Trial

"The City of Wichita Falls will proceed at once with the issuance of the warrants to pay for the auditorium completion and other work now in progress," said Mayor R. E. Shepherd Wednesday. The statement came after Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court had dissolved a temporary order forbidding the city to accept money on $214,000 in warrants and had refused to issue a permanent order to J. M. Childres and others.

Mayor Shepherd said the next step will be the receiving of the warrant forms from the purchasers in Wichita, Kan., the signing of them by the proper authorities here and return. When the signed warrants are returned the money will be paid, the city and contractors and others in turn paid.

Oral Opinion Given.

Judge Cook in announcing his decision did not present a written opinion but in oral comment stated that he and Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court who sat with him had held that the instruments are warrants and not bonds. Judge E. G. Thornton who also sat in the case stated he had not had time to go into the matter and when informed the other two judges had made a concurrent finding requested they announce it as the matter was of too much import to be delayed.

The court held that from a legal standpoint the warrants are not negotiable. This means, it was explained, that the city in no wise forfeited any of its defenses as to payment. Practically, the court said, the instruments may be transferred from one party to another as the credit of the city is good and he assumed that the board of aldermen would as soon pay one holder of the warrants as another. It was also held there is no doubt as to the authority of the city to issue these warrants.

McDonald and Anderson, attorneys for the plaintiffs, announced they would appeal the case to the Second Court of Civil Appeals at Fort Worth. No definite motion was filed and Judge Cook refused to keep his temporary order in force so the city is free to act as the mayor stated would be done. The attorneys have two days in which to file their appeal notice and at that time will be required to make a supersedeas bond in sufficient amount to indemnify the city against loss. Judge Cook said he would not decide upon this amount until the definite appeal motion was presented.

City Sold Warrants.

The suit was brought after the city council had issued and sold $214,000 in warrants and assumed a $6000 vendors lein note. It sought to enjoin the council from accepting funds from the warrants and the plaintiffs contended that the city lacked the authority to issue such instruments without a vote of the people as they were in effect warrants and not bonds. These warrants were issued $14,000 for cemetery extension land; $100,000 to pay contracts for work of finishing the auditorium; $100,000 to pay off water and sewer extension contracts, about half of which are now completed.

City Attorney Thelbert Martin in making his answer cited several cases where it was held the city might issue such warrants and one federal court case where the form was the same as those issued here. He held the instruments were in no sense bonds and also that the council by such a method of financing was actually saving the city money. He also called attention to the clause in the city charter which provides that funds may be provided by "bonds, notes or otherwise."

City to Meet Appeal.

Mayor Shepherd announced that if the plaintiffs do appeal the city will be ready to ask an immediate advancement of the case and will protest the issuance of any temporary order by the higher court. It is hoped by the mayor and members of the council that the matter will be dropped but every effort will be made to carry on civic work unless the courts interfere.

Law Bars Moody's Plan To Reduce State Tax Rate

Plan To Call Special Meeting Of Tax Board Not Possible Under Law, Attorney General Rules

AUSTIN, Nov. 2.(AP)—Governor Dan Moody's plan to reduce state taxes "15 to 20 per cent" at a proposed special meeting of the state automatic tax board, came to naught Wednesday when Attorney General Claude Pollard ruled "reluctantly" that such a meeting would not be legal, in an opinion to the governor.

The ruling surprised many who had given credence to published reports, purporting to come from "undoubted authority," and saying unless Mr. Pollard "changed his mind," that he would rule the other way. "Pure imagination," he styled the reports, and his opinion did not indicate that he ever had considered ruling in the affirmative, after looking up the law, which he found "wisely" set the board meeting date and prescribed its procedure. He said the law removes the "tax rate from the uncertainty of political campaigns," curbing promises of reductions.

In asking the opinion, Governor Moody noted that the law governing the board did not allow it to anticipate the $2,000,000 treasury surplus and increased prison farm revenues developing later. Because of these developments, he suggested cutting the 25 cents ad valorem rate set in July to about 20 cents saving taxpayers "millions of dollars."

The governor said Wednesday that a need is shown for an amendment to the tax board law.

COURT ORDERS MISTRIAL FOR TEAPOT CASE

Grand Jury Begins Probe Of Charge That Jury Was Shadowed

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The entire machinery of the federal government today swung into action behind the investigation of the alleged jury tampering which brought about mistrial of the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy case.

Justice Frederick L. Siddons granted the motion for mistrial this morning. He ordered the jury discharged on the request of counsel for both sides after affidavits charging operatives of the William J. Burns detective agency in the employ of Harry F. Sinclair, oil multimillionaire, had placed 11 of the jurors under "unlawful surveillance" had been presented.

Grand Jury Renews Probe.

Then the grand jury resumed its investigation. The first witness called was Juror Edward J. Kidwell who was accused in affidavits of having stated a verdict of acquittal might bring him an automobile "a block long."

Kidwell waived immunity upon entering the grand jury room.

A sensation was developed when the next witness, A. Mason Day, vice president of the Sinclair Exploration company, was called.

Day admitted yesterday when the inquiry was begun that he is in Sinclair's employ. He lived at the same hotel where Sinclair resided during the trial.

Guest of Juror's Employe.

Day was also a house guest of Donald Woodward, owner of one of Washington's largest department stores and employer of another member of the jury.

It was at Woodward's house according to reports of Burns detectives seized by secret service agents in a raid on Burns' suite at the Wardman Park hotel, that the full details of each juror's activities were reported to Day.

Woodward already has testified before the grand jury. He will be recalled.

In the meantime subpoenas for persons alleged to be connected with the jury tampering effort were broadcast over the country.

More than one witness will be called and the indictment of at least 12 persons sought by the grand jury, district attorney aides declared.

Congress to Get Data.

While the developments were in progress members of both houses of congress declared that body will inaugurate a complete investigation of the new Teapot Dome sensation as soon as congress meets.

BURGLARS LOOT HOME.

American Billions Pour Into Europe's Coffers In Form of Industrial Loans

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Pouring into foreign lands the greatest flood of American dollars ever known, the United States has lent $1,318,700,000 abroad privately in the last ten months, the commerce department announced today.

Despite demands from some quarters that the outflow of capital be limited, and from others that government supervision of its placement be altered or abolished, loans already have exceeded slightly the total for all of 1926, the previous record year.

The department's figures embrace only the sums lent by American investors through bankers, as disclosed by the public offerings of foreign securities. Much additional American capital is being placed abroad through investments in foreign enterprises.

All records in the history of American foreign financing were broken in October, with a possible exception for October, 1926, when $373,000,000 of war loans were floated, according to the department. Last month's total was $365,000,000. This compared with a previous peace time high mark of $293,000,000 last April.

NEW EVIDENCE TO BE PLACED BEFORE MOODY

Student Swears Millikin Not Man He Saw At New Braunfels

DEATH HOUR NEARS

Doomed Felon Scheduled To Die in Chair at Pen Tonight

AUSTIN, Nov. 2. (AP)—Blake N. Lancaster of Lockhart, 21-year-old Texas university student, tonight signed an affidavit which counsel for A. V. Millikin, found sane by a Caldwell county jury Tuesday and scheduled for electrocution Friday for the murder of Mrs. Virginia Petty of San Antonio, believe destroys at least one link in the circumstantial evidence chain which convicted Millikin.

Lancaster, who is "working his way" through the university, swore that a man he saw in a New Braunfels cafe, allegedly having been identified as Millikin in the murder trial, early on the morning of May 23, 1926, was not Millikin. He reached that conclusion, he said, after seeing Millikin at the murdr trial last year. Mrs. Petty was killed near New Braunfels on May 22.

Alfred Schultz, employe of the restaurant, testified that the man he saw there was Millikin, the trial transcript revealed tonight. Lancaster said in his affidavit that he was with Schultz when the man apparently in question came in.

Clarence J. Ginn, Houston, and W. E. Hawkins, Breckenridge, Millikin's attorneys, said they will take the affidavit to Governor Moody as grounds for clemency. They said it probably would be of no avail, because of technicalities, as basis for a new trial motion. But indicated they may take the case to the United States supreme court on the refusal of Judge M. C. Jeffrey to appoint a jury commission to select the jury which tried the sanity issue.

Meanwhile Ginn and Hawkins tonight requested the court of criminal appeals to hold in contempt District Attorney Fred Blundell, Sheriff W. M. Ellison, and Constable Gus England, all of Caldwell county, because the officers, before and during Millikin's sanity trial took Millikin to Austin, over protest, to be examined.

MILLIKIN ON HIS WAY TO HUNTSVILLE CELL

By Universal Service

LOCKHART, Nov. 2.—Bundled in the deep, warm folds of an overcoat loaned to him by a kindly sheriff, A. V. Millikin, condemned slayer of a San Antonio business woman, tonight was being whisked through the darkness to the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

Just before the "death ride" was started, Millikin was shackled to a newspaperman. They occupied the rear seat of the closed car driven by Sheriff Ellison.

Millikin quickly slumped into slumber, the result of the extra heavy meal he ate. The slayer had a real old fashioned beef steak supper with all the trimmings and plenty of seconds. "This is probably the last real meal I will ever have," he said. Mrs. Ellison prepared the meal.

The party will reach Houston tomorrow morning where they will stop for breakfast. Then the run to Huntsville will be made and Millikin will be in the hands of his executioners.

The slayer's only apparent worry tonight was whether his attorneys, Judge W. E. Hawkins and Clarence J. Ginn knew that he was being taken to the death cell.

It was reported late today that neither Judge Hawkins or Ginn knew where their client was. The two lawyers are in Austin planning a last minute fight to stay the executioner's hand.

Millikin's electrocution is set for midnight Friday.

BAPTISTS PLAN EXTRA REPORT

Data On Conquest Fund To Be Read Here

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Nov. 2.—Because many Baptist pastors over the state expect substantial contributions to the conquest campaign and the co-operative program in the month of November, the Baptist general convention of Texas has decided to attach a supplementary report to the annual report at the convention at Wichita Falls, showing all contributions made up to and including November 17, according to Dr. F. S. Groner, general secretary.

The annual report ordinarily ends with the fiscal year November 1, but many pastors feel that contributions which they expect later in the month should be reported on at the annual meeting, consequently the supplement will be made a part of the regular report. The report in full, including November 17, will be published in the Baptist Standard, official organ of the convention, December 1.

Many thousands of dollars have been reported from "Success Week," an intensive drive of the conquest campaign for the week ending October 30, according to Dr. Groner, indicating especially good results in collecting pledges that were made earlier in the year.

Both Legs Gone, Olustee Youth Retains Spirit and Joy of Life

Special to The Record News.

OLUSTEE, Okla., Nov. 2.—Paul Lynch, Olustee youth, has lost both of his legs but not his hope nor spirit of independence.

After spending many months in a Florida hospital where both legs were amputated at the thighs, he is back home to spend the winter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lynch, having been enabled to make the trip through his own ingenuity and determination.

After his recovery, he 'rigged" up a hand brake for his automobile and drove to far off Iowa, then back to Oklahoma.

He is a great reader and still enjoys life without his legs. He has learned to do many things about the home and says he intends to make his own living.

He was injured last winter while unloading a car of automobiles in Florida. The amputations followed the accident.

ARCHER CITY NOTES

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Nov. 2.—The parade and carnival given by the entire student body of Archer City terminated with the coronation ceremony at the school auditorium Monday night at eight o'clock. The curtain was raised displaying a beautifully decorated throne and court. From behind the throne appeared two small boys dressed in green satin suits who acted as pages. A long aisle lead through the audience to the throne on the stage.

First of the court to appear was Princess Elizabeth of the House of Ikard. She was dressed in a jade green chiffon dress, deeply embroidered with rhinestones. She wore black satin slippers with rhinestone buckles and heels. She was met and escorted by Duke Millard of the House of Threet.

Princess Gladys of the House of Longan was next dressed in orchid taffeta made with tight basque and full skirt trimmed with cream lace. She was escorted ty Ellis Conner of the House of Burnett.

Then came Princess Alvence of the House of Price who were a beautiful gown of rose georgette made with full skirt. She was escorted by Duke Myers of the House of Solomon.

Princess Margaret Ellen of the House of Gowdy was next and looked charming in a gown of tea rose georgette trimmed with silver beads and cream lace. She was accorted by Duke Garland of the House of Andrews.

Then came Princess Mildred of the House of Powell in a lovely gown of rainbow colors trimmed with pearls and moline. The skirt was made full and long. Her escort was Duke Ben of the House of Powell.

Next Princess Mildred of the House of Wilcox dressed in a light green taffeta, made in a light green taffeta, made period style, trimmed in darker green velvet. Duke L. D. of the House of Hudson escorted her to the throne.

Then came Princess Ruby of the House of Wilson dressed in an orange taffeta ruffled frook. She was escorted by Duke Warren of the House of Jones.

The Dukes and Princesses formed a semi-circle on either side of the throne and awaited the queen.

Her Royal Highness Queen Ellen of the House of Charles, was preceded by tiny Peggy Maxwell and Kathyerine Shelton in pink dresses carrying baskets of rose petals. Queen Ellen entered looking beautiful in her gown of white georgette over white satin. Her gown was made along straight lines trimmed with seed pearls and silver cut beads. Her train was made of royal purple velvet covered with white satin and lace embossed with silver and rhinestones in floral design. It was caught at the shoulders with a rhinestone buckle and formed a Queen Elizabeth collar which formed a most becoming background for the queen's brunette type of beauty. In her hand she carried a tall silver staff topped with huge pink and white chrysanthemums. Her slippers were white satin with rhinestone buckles. She was escorted by Prince Edward of the House of Robinson to the throne where she made a most graceful court bow.

Tiny Betty Joe Matthews and Marjorie Cowan dressed in ruffled frocks acted as train Bearers.

Master Charles Hooper followed the queen with the crown on a white satin pillow. He was dressed in a white satin suit.

After the queen was crowned little Peggy Maxwell gave a toe dance before the court.

The entire student body of the Archer City schools gave a parade last Monday afternoon to advertise their carnival Monday night. They started at the school building and paraded all through the downtown section.

Each grade of the grammar and high school were dressed in different costumes. There were some dressed as "spooks," black cats, Indians, witches, cowboys, pirates, clowns riding on donkeys. One of the most clever as well as original sections of the parade was the "49ers." This was a "covered wagon" drawn bya horse and donkey. From the side of the wagon hung tubs, pans and other cooking utensils. The wagon was loaded with women and children. Beside the wagon a young boy led a milk cow and several long eared dogs followed the wagon. All the people following the wagon were dressed to represent the "gold rushers" of the '49's.

The queen of the carnival, Miss Ellen Charles beautifully dressed rode on a decorated car accompanied by the prince, Edward Robinson. The princesses followed in decorated cars also.

The parade ended at the school building where a regular carnival was held. The carnival was given for the purpose of raising money for the high school library. The carnival terminated with the coronation of the queen.

Miss Dorothy Dale Becomes Bride Of George Collum Wednesday Morning

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Dale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dale, 1817 Huff, to George Collum, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, at the First Presbyterian church, came as a complete surprise to both family and friends. The Rev. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, read the ceremony.

Mrs. Collum is one of the most popular members of the younger set here and is known as one of the most beautiful young ladies in the city. She is a graduate of the Wichita Falls high school in the class of 1926 and won the senior beauty contest during her last year in school, when her picture appeared in the yearbook of the school.

She was a student in Lindenwood college in St. Charles, Mo., last year. She was designated princess to represent the state of Texas at Lindenwood during the pageant which celebrated the centennial anniversary and general homecoming of the college. She was also president of the Texas club which is made up of all students from the state of Texas. She is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Collum of Mart, and is vice manager of the American Multigraphing Sales company here, where the young couple will probably be at home upon their return from Dallas and San Antonio where they are spending a brief honeymoon. The bridegroom has attended Kemper Military institute at Booneville, Mo., and Sewanee Military institute at Sewanee, Tenn.

"Delicate Skins Rejoice" Says Mme. Chernoff

Some time ago I declared unmerciful warfare against sallow, lifeless complexions, ugly enlarged pores and the ill effects that sun, wind and weather have on delicate complexions. Thousands of women know how successful I have been because they can point with pride to the matchless complexions which Chernoff A & B Astringent Bleach has given them. I don't believe there is anything like it in the whole world and you'll agree after just one or two applications. Sold at leading toilet counters.

HOW TO FIND PEACE - - - By Dorothy Dix

Don't Let Grief Have Constant Hold On You

DEAR DOROTHY DIX. — My baby died two years ago and it has left me crushed and bitter toward every one. Even my husband wonders at how I am changed. If it were not for my other two children I would try to find work that might help me forget. What can I do to gain back my old interest in everything?

Answer:

Is it not possible for you to go away from home, off on a trip or on a visit somewhere, for a couple of months? It would be worth your making almost any sacrifice to do, because it would save your reason and save your home. New scenes and new places, new faces, new food, would bring back a new mental adjustment. It would take you out of yourself and make you think of other things besides your loss. After we have brooded over any trouble for a long time we lose ability to shake off the dark cloud that enfolds us.

If you cannot leave home, I think it would be a good plan to get somebody else to take care of your children and for you to get work outside your home for a time. Because the new difficulties that you would encounter and the extra effort you would have to make would not leave you time to dwell upon your sorrow. And you would have to force a cheerfulness with which to meet the outside world that would help to cure you. Also it would be a good thing for you if you were separated from your other children for a while, because that would cause you to take a saner view of your loss and make you see how much you still had to be thankful for.

But in the end, dear lady, you alone must fight your own battle. You alone can minister to your mind diseased, and whether you rise above your sorrow or are crushed by it depends upon your own courage. To lose a baby is a great and terrible grief. So long as you live your heart will ache for the little one, but if all the mothers who have wept above little graves let their loss turn them hard and bitter, as you have done, what a terrible world this would be!

Last summer on a ship coming from Europe I met just such a mother as you are. She had lost her only son, a splendid young man full of promise, and she had grieved over him until, thinking she was going crazy, her husband took her to France to consult a famous neurologist. This physician took the woman in a car and they drove and drove and drove through villages that had borne the brunt and shock of war, and at the last he said to her:

"Madam, in every one of these houses is a woman who has lost a son. In many of them there are women who have lost three or four or five sons. How do you dare to compare your grief with theirs? Go home and have the courage to bear your sorrow nobly."

So I say to you. Be brave enough to put your grief behind you and live for those who need and depend upon you. Deny yourself the morbid pleasure of nursing your sorrow. Dry your tears and put on your face the smile that won't come off.

Or else a worse fate will befall you, for you will lose your husband and your other children as well as your baby. Men and children will not stay in a gloomy house nor with a gloomy woman. In self-defense they will fly from her to some more cheerful place and person.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX.—I have been working in the same position for more than ten years and, so far as I can see, there does not seem to be any prospect for advancement. The salary is not bad, but I am not learning anything. Do you think I should strike out and take a chance at something else or make up my mind to stick to the same old position.

MISS MICAWBER.

If you are sure that you are in a blind alley I would advise you by all means to get out of it. Do not stay in any position that does not offer you a future. Nothing turns work into drudgery so quickly as the feeling that one has reached the limit of what one can do in that particular line and that every day's labor will be just going round and round the same old treadmill without ever getting anywhere. Insensible under such conditions our work slumps and our morale breaks. It takes ambition to put pep into our efforts.

Women are very apt to get habit-bound, anyway, and so it is a good thing for them to change their environment every now and then, just on general principles. Many a girl who never had a beau in her home town is given a rush and makes a fine marriage if she moves to a different part of the country. Many a woman who has endured a cranky boss or stayed in a little job that she was afraid to leave, gets fired and finds that it has opened the door of fortune to her.

Of course, it isn't well to be always changing positions, but is it equally foolish to stick to a poor job too long. Find out what you want to do and what you have a talent for doing. Learn how to do that thing well, so that you are thoroughly competent, and then hunt around until you can find some position where good work will be appreciated and where the opportunities have no limit but the sky.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX. — I am a young married man, the father of one child. I love my wife and she loves me, but a young girl about 16 or 17, who is the daughter of a friend of mine, thinks she has fallen in love with me. She is very romantic and I have found her kissing my coat. She stuck one of her handkerchiefs in one of my inside pockets and is always hinting for me to give her a necktie or ring of mine. I am fond of this girl in a brotherly fashion, but I am certainly not in love with her. What shall I do? Go on pretending that I don't know that she cares for me? My wife is of a sweet but rather suspicious nature, and couldn't understand about that handkerchief. B.

Answer:

Well, B, if I were you I would have a plain talk with that girl and tell her not to make a fool of herself. Tell her that she is making herself perfectly ridiculous and that she doesn't touch your heart, she makes you laugh. Appeal to her better nature and ask her if she wants to break up your home and make you and your wife miserable and orphan your little child.

When you tell her this she will burst into tears and throw herself on your breast, and that is when you want to watch your step and dodge her. Because if you take her in your arms and try to comfort her and kiss away her tears you are a goner. She will take that as proof that you are in love with her. It will give her silly, romantic appetite something to feed upon, and you will never, never be able to explain "how come" to a wife who has a sweet and suspicious nature.

Let me stress this warning — that you are in grave danger, and unless your middle name is Joseph you will not be able to view unmoved a pretty flapper kissing your coat. So break this affair off at once. Otherwise you are headed for trouble.

THE UNBELIEVERS GO A-HUNTING FOR PAN

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY

PAN. The very name rouses that old painful impulse in everyone of us that calls us suddenly, in the midst of our dusty city life, back to hills and rocks and seas, back to mountains, the quiet places, close to the earth and the things that grow out of it. And we long violently to lay our bodies close against the grass and moss of the earth, to listen to the thousand little voices that talk there, to watch, from the earth's breast, the roving cloud-creatures racing free across the gigantic pastures of the sky!

Standing in an aisle of the forest, hundreds of miles from any town, above the enamel of blue and green, around you the silent tree-boles of silver and violet and brown, drenched in the magic of white gold sun and dreaming blue shadow, made harmonious with the secret, silver music of a hidden stream, musical with bird voices.

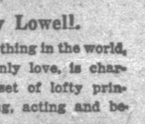

THEN haven't you looked to see the figure that none of us ever see since we have become sophisticated of eye and heart, that strange figure with the mocking face, the curled animal horns, the goat-hoofs, the brown chest, and the pipes, step out from behind a tree and stand and gaze like a deer to look at you? I have — and hoped to!

Can you picture a band of Dianas — flappers in their windbreaks and pretty sweaters and boots and guns — going a hunting for the goat-god himself? Unbelievers in faeries and wood-people. Up bobs Pan! Can you picture the baby-riot? Guns going off in fair amateur hands, terrible screams, bright-sweatered little figures and neat gaitered legs fleeing and twinkling over the landscape.

You Can Develop Character in Spite of All Odds

By Lucy Lowell.

LUCY LOWELL

THE greatest thing in the world, excepting only love, is character, the set of lofty principles of thinking, acting and being to which one clings steadfastly courageously in spite of all the buffetings of life which try to shake him loose.

Because character is a spiritual thing, it exists and may be developed in spite of all odds — environment, circumstance, overwhelming difficulties. Indeed these often help in the clear, bold chiseling of character.

Read what Emerson says of it:

"Ordinarily everybody in society reminds us of somewhat else or of some other person. Character, reality, reminds you of nothing else; it takes the place of the whole creation.

"'The man must be so much that he must make all circumstances indifferent—put all means into the shade. This all great men are and do.

"Every true man is a cause, a country and an age; requires infinite spaces and numbers and time fully to accomplish this thought—and posterity seem to follow his steps as a procession.

"A man Caesar is born and for ages after we have a Roman Empire. Christ is born, and millions of minds so grow and cleave to His genius that He is confounded with virtue and the possibilities of man. An institution is the lengthened shadow of one man; as, the Reformation, of Luther; Quakerism of Fox; Abolition of Clarkson. Scipio, Milton called "the Height of Rome" and all history resolves itself very easily into the biography of a few stout and earnest persons."

FASHION FADS AND FANCIES

Proclaiming Absolute Neutrality —Plain sweater costumes are of neutral shades that tend to form an extremely effective background for accompanying patterned scarfs, done in bright, geometric designs.

"Fitted as If They Were Moulded"—is not an exaggeration in describing the snugly-fitting moulded bodices that are the rage in velvet and in beaded type dance frocks. All of these gowns have full skirts, with uneven hemlines, that have a decided dip at the back or sides.

Folly's Daughter -:- A Thrilling Mystery of New York Night Life

—By Ann Lisle—

The Newspaper Version.

JILL HATHAWAY slept till noon on Monday. By the time she awoke the Monday morning papers had given way to early afternoon editions. The brief account of the drowning of Bonnie Clair and her guest at Lilypad Lake had moved from an obscure corner of the front page to a still more obscure spot on the inside pages. Jill didn't see it.

ANN LISLE

After drinking a hasty cup of coffee Jill went out to shop for the "little things" a girl needs on the eve of any sort of trip—including a matrimonial one. All during the day she was in the shops or trotting around looking for the things her slender resources would permit her to buy. She telegraphed her resignation to the real estate office. She didn't come in contact with anyone who knew she was connected with Folly.

By evening there was a new angle on the Clair drowning. An enterprising reporter had gone down to Bonnie's bungalow, had seen the dusky Chloe and had interviewed her ruthlessly. Chloe was a sly one and Roy had always tipped her well. So she couldn't remember his name and contented herself with saying that Massa Sam Kerby had been there. When Sam found himself dragged in, he thought fast and decided to talk—and to tell what he would like to see in print. What Sam said plus what Chloe said plus what George Wilkes didn't include in his thousand dollar silence, made a good front page story.

The account Daniel Sylvester Ames happened to see told a blunt and unvarnished tale.

"Folly Duane, or Felice Heath as she was known in the days when first her devastating beauty began taking toll of human life, was the first suspect in the case which wrecked a bank, stole a man from his wife and child, and drove the man almost mad when Folly wearied of Nate Heath and finally transferred her doubtful devotion to the wealthy young State Attorney, all within the compass of a few years. It was this powerful young official who got Felice off, when it was pointed out that she had recently purchased the gun, which Anna Heath was holding when found crouching over the body of her dead husband. It was the State Attorney who brought out that hatred and jealousy of Felice were Anna's natural motive for killing her husband and that her insanity or hatred would have taken her rival's life too if the Italian gardener had not helped Felice escape. . . Felice Heath disappeared after the woman whose home and happiness and freedom she had stolen was committed to an insane asylum. . . Yesterday, Anna Heath died of natural causes in the arms of her devoted daughter, Mrs. Roy Scarlett. With her at the time were Dr. Potter and his wife, Nurse Adelaide Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Scarlett and Detective George Wilkes, a devoted friend of the Scarletts. Every honor was paid to poor Anna Heath at the time she took her exit cue from life. But Fate made a mocking gesture in exacting the final penalty from Felice Heath. She died—after who knows what struggle—out in the marshes of Lilypad Lake. With her was her one friend and companion Bonnie Clair, recently become her rival, as both women wanted the dancing lead in a new play to be produced by Samuel Kerby. . . ."

There was a great deal more of it, some of it true, most of it deserved, all of it cruel. From coast to coast people smacked their lips over the savory concluding paragraph:

"For years Folly Duane has lived at the Hotel Xavier. She lived by her wits. Her cleverest coup was her recent announcement of the engagement of her 'ward,' the beautiful Jill Hathaway, to Daniel Sylvester Ames. Neither Miss Hathaway nor Ames could be located today. No arrangements have been made for memorial services for Felice Heath. It appears that the woman known as Folly Duane is unhonored and unmourned as she lies in the mud at the bottom of Lilypad Lake. The world may well ask why a woman of her notorious selfishness and indifference to law, order, morals, decency and life itself 'adopted' a child. Felice Heath can never reveal her secret. If Jill Hathaway knows it she will probably never speak. But the question on every tongue will long be: 'Is Jill Hathaway Folly's daughter? Or is the girl who is soon to become Mrs. Daniel Sylvester Ames the natural child of someone connected with the Heath case—someone who had earned and claimed the help of the notorious Felice?'"

Four men read that article on Monday afternoon.

Three of them acted on it at once. The fourth waited for the morning to bring counsel. And then it was too late for him to have a part in helping Jill Hathaway reap the whirlwind Folly had sowed.

There were only two people in all the world of living men and women who knew the truth about Folly Duane and Vivian Scarlett and Jill Hathaway. Vivian, who was one of them, lay between life and death, between sanity and mental blackness. . . . It was because of that Dr. Potter did not show Roy Scarlett the newspaper article until Tuesday.

The other person who knew the facts of the tangled relationship that truth could so easily have smoothed, was Beppo, the Italian restaurateur.

Early on Monday evening he put on his slouch hat and walked out of his restaurant in the very height of the rush hour. Conchetta gave him her blessing as he left the Jardina. Her fat and oily face was beaming with good nature as she sent him on his way. She had his full confidence at last and she was determined to help him discharge what she felt was a duty the saints would never forgive either of them for neglecting.

There was purpose and determination in Beppo's stride as he went to the Xavier Hotel and asked for Miss Jill Hathaway.

There was equal purpose in MacNeil Shannon's frown as he telegraphed to Jill from the Pacific Coast:

"I promised never to speak to you again, Jill Hathaway. I didn't promise not to wire you. So now I ask: If there is anything a friend can do, please command me.

"MacNEIL SHANNON."

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis—

ALL those who seek will surely find the way that's smooth, the smile that's kind, and ever, as through life they go, some faith will feel, some hope will know. For with responsive spirit they will answer every greeting gay and though the day be dark and chill their eyes will glimpse some sunshine still. Where others might in sombre mood find but few vestiges of good, those who have mastered joy's own art will glean fresh gladness for their part. Not only from the light without comes cheer; but from a courage stout and from a boundless faith and trust that men are true and life is just. So those who go, serene, down ways of toil or pleasure all their days, will find a bloom no blight can kill, through all the years, some sunshine still.

When Manners Are Correct

—By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman—

A Fortunate Mother.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: I would like to know if I would be doing right in inviting a seventeen-year-old girl friend of my sixteen-year-old son to go swimming with us. My son has asked me to invite her out, but I have delayed. I will appreciate anything you have to say on the matter. Please let me know if it would be correct to do as my son has asked.

AN ANXIOUS MOTHER.

INDEED it would be proper for you to do this, and you will be a very wise mother if you do as your son asks. I think that he is a very fine boy with good instincts to wish to have his mother sponsor and share his friendships with girls. And you should take every advantage of his wishing to do this. Have his friends to your home whenever you can. Keep his interest there—evidently it is there now. Share all his enthusiasms for his friends, and make his plans your plans, especially when he so appealingly urges you to do so.

And the first thing you can ask this young lady to come to your home to dinner or to supper some evening—setting a definite date—or to tea on Sunday afternoon, or to supper Sunday evening. Don't by the way, extend your invitation through your son, because this would be poor and ungracious form, and if the girl is well brought up, her mother would not allow her to accept this round-about invitation. Invite her yourself, since you are the hostess of your home, and your son wishes to have you share that hostess-ship with his friends.

You have a great opportunity here, dear friend—seize it. You are a fortunate mother to have a boy who has such friendly trust and confidence in you. Don't give him the impression that you would hesitate to indicate to his friends, and especially to this young lady, that the hospitality of your home, and of his home, is theirs to enjoy. I am so glad you wrote me, and I do hope that the party—whether it is a swimming party or a supper party or a tea party—will be a great success. Do write me again. (Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

Forum Member Reviews Art Exhibit Now Being Displayed at Clubhouse

Editor's Note—Forum members and other persons interested in art, have viewed the Ben Foster Memorial art exhibit which is being displayed in the club house under the auspices of the art department of the Forum, which had its informal opening with the showing of the exhibit and which will be formally opened Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock with a program of music and discussion. The following is a review of the Ben Foster exhibit as given by a Forum member.

By DORAH M'CONNICO WADE

Wichita Falls is fortunate to have hanging on the walls of the third floor of the Junior college and high school, one of Foster's most beautiful paintings, "Opening in the Woods." In this painting, as in many others, Foster has achieved poetry. It is fascinating in its mysterious peacefulness. To nature lovers it has a message all its own; to any one who loves beauty for beauty's sake, it is worth going many miles to see.

Hanging on the walls of the Forum auditorium are many of these wonderful paintings but all those who view them stop longest at "Passing of Day's Light." It is a mood of nature hard to paint and Foster has brought to it that subtle touch that makes one share his mood and follow him into the scene, with senses alert to its appeal. The dying day with its memories seems one we, too, have lived.

Another that attracts great attention, is of a quiet scene in the woods, where water lilies bloom on the calm surface of a lake. The effect of quietness and solitude is like a song at twilight by a loved voice.

Edwin Howland Blashfield says, "The art of Ben Foster is good to live with; good in the companionship it affords. It is personal, quiet, serene."

Mr. Samuel Yunt, of the Yunt Art Galleries of Kansas City, who is exhibiting Foster's paintings, was a personal friend of the artist and his explanations and comments are a highly valued part of the exhibition.

The showing of the Ben Foster collection of paintings by the art department of the Woman's Forum is one of the best things that has ever come to Wichita Falls this season.

Jean Leautaud said, "In the disputed realm of art criticism, it is a far greater achievement to create an interest than to destroy one," and to those who know nothing of the technique of painting, Ben Foster's pictures have created a greater interest in natural beauty, than any other American painter. To those who are familiar with technique, his sense of true values and simple sincerity, appeals.

All galleries of importance in the United States possess his pictures. He was awarded a medal at the Paris exposition and the French government purchased his "Night Scene of the Parjs Exposition" and "Lulled by the Murmur of the Brook," for the Luxembourg Gallery.

These paintings will be on exhibit for the next ten days and will be open to the general public at an open house, Sunday afternoon or by appointment at any time.

Publicity Points Taken Up At Meet Tuesday Morning

Points of interest in publicity for the Parent-Teacher association were brought out Tuesday morning at the called meeting of publicity chairman of the city P.-T. A. associations, at the home of Mrs. John M. Fox, publicity chairman of the Austin school P.-T. A. Mrs. W. A. McGee, publicity chairman for the city council of P.-T. A. led the discussion.

Each chairman had something of interest to offer in way of ideas that could be used in "selling" her particular school to the community. The advantage of intelligently co-operating with the local newspapers was stressed.

A booklet on the five "Ws" of publicity—what, when, where, who and why was read and discussed informally by Mrs. McGee. A timely article by Mrs. Will T. Decherd of Austin, state publicity chairman, was read and points of local interest culled by each publicity chairman. Some of the paragraphs that deal directly with local publicity work, were as follows:

"What is the first duty of a publicity chairman?" She shall see the editor or editors of the local paper or papers, secure his interest and co-operation, find when announcements, reports write-ups should be in and how much space will be allowed for Parent-Teacher association news. If real news is furnished, worthwhile stories of work furnished, a P.-T. A. column or department is often allowed.

"Why should announcements of regular meetings be made? Why should accounts of meetings be given? What are some things that local publicity chairman should keep in mind?"

These and many other important questions were discussed in Mrs. Dechard's article.

"All money making schemes have to have publicity if they are to succeed, and as parent-teacher associations have to make money to secure things that promote the welfare of the children in schools, such are considered legitimate for the organization and the end in view. But money making in itself is never legitimate for the organization, and the end in view must always be first and so told. When money is needed for school ground eequipment, the better physical health an dgreater happiness of the children are considered. The money is always for some child welfare project."

Those representing the different schools were: Mrs. L. E. McConnell, Ben Franklin school; Mrs. O. G. Stephens, Crockett school; Mrs. E. F. Allbritton, Alamo school; Mrs. W. Roberts, Barwise school; Mrs. Turner Lee, Bowie school; Mrs. J. T. Ostoon, Huey school; Mrs. J. M. Fox, Austin school, and Mrs. W. A. McGee, representing the Junior college and high school and Wichita Falls city council.

The possession of four teeth is something to grin about. The Record News and Dave's aunt entered into an argument about the number of teeth Dave has, so the accompanying photo is being shown to prove that Aunt Flora (Miss Snow) was mistaken.

Dave Price Jr., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Price of Memphis, Texas. His mother was born and reared in Wichita Falls and will be remembered, as Miss Mildred Snow. Mrs. Price and Dave Jr., were the guests of Mrs. J. B. Evans of 2015 Tenth street, who is the great-grandmother of the child, recently.

But to return to facts and surmises about Dave—he has a pair of very handsome dark blue eyes and a perpetual (sometimes) grin that's even more attractive than the eyes. His chief delight in life is dogs and he has recently learned to walk in order to chase 'em when they won't come to him.

225 Attend Meeting Of Austin P.-T. A.

Austin School Parent-Teacher association again went over the top at the second meeting of the year Wednesday with 225 members present.

Mrs. R. P. Willis, president, presided. Mrs. J. T. Gant introduced the sponsor chairmen to the association. Mrs. J. Z. Steinkoenig exulained the sale of Christmas cards to the members, and it developed that a ten per cent discount would be allowed on orders, which would go into the treasury of the association. She also announced that the next meeting of the Child Health Study club would be Nov. 16 at the school, at which Dr. W. J. Masters is to speak on the undernourished child.

Mrs. W. D. Brookover reported on the purchase of a Victrola for the use of the lower floor of the school.

A motion carried that the assoballs of the standard make for the balls of hte standard make for the use of the children on the campus. The purchase of maps and globes for the rooms was also discussed. Mrs. M. Staniforth reported on the finances of the association and said that money had been made from the rummage sale, also the sale of pictures taken of each grade at the school. Mrs. Staniforth's report was enthusiastically received, because it was the result of only three weeks' work, and the financial affairs of the association were found to be in excellent shape, with much done and more plans being made by Mrs. E. H. Yager, finance chairman. Mrs. Yager explained the quilt, on which is to be inscribed the names of those paying ten cents per name, and twelve appearing on one block, making a very attractive and out of the ordinary article, which will later be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

Mrs. J. M. Fox, magazine chairman, reported that the first group of ten subscriptions to Child Welfare magazine, the official organ of National P.-T. A. had been secured, twenty per cent of this also going to the association.

The program was then turned over to Mrs. R. A. Lincoln, program chairman, and short talks were made by three mothers. The program had for its central theme the need of good books for the children and following out the Book Week program, Mrs. Ralph Hines spoke on "How to encourage reading in the home."

Mrs. Walter Cline discussed "How to build a child's book shelf," and gave the members many valuable points on this subject. Mrs. R. L. Underwood spoke on "Children's magazines in the home."

The woman's quartette sang two numbers, "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Rose in a Garden." The quartette is composed of Mrs. P. M. Cordell, Mrs. R. M. Wilhite, Mrs. C. H. Evans and Mrs. J. E. Stratton, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Cole. Miss Mary Denny's room received a Mother Goose book as prize on first floor for having the highest attendance of mothers. On the second floor Miss Churchwell's room received a beautiful vase as prize, and on the third floor Miss Bolin's room won the basket as prize.

Womans Forum Is Completing Plans On Talley Concert

Plans for the Marion Talley concert which will be one of the feature numbers to be brought to Wichita Falls by the Womans Forum as a benefit number on November 26, the day following Tranksgiving, are well under way with Mrs. G. B. Smedley, chairman of the Forum ways and means committee, in charge of arrangements. Plans to present the benefit number at the city auditorium have been perfected by Mrs. Smedley and tickets have been put on sale with Mrs. W. W. Cook, mail order ticket chairman.

American Girl

Every American thrills with pride at the amazing success of Marion Talley, the twenty-year-old Kansas City girl, whose sensational debut at the Metropolitan Opera house was featured in the nation's press and is still the talk of the musical world.

For what event indeed could better capture the imagination of the public than the advent of this lovely girl, untouched by worldly contact, who stepped to fame in one night as a prima donna of the world's greatest opera house?

The rise of Marion Talley from a choir girl in a Kansas City church to a leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, all without the influence of wealth and very little European training, is another example of what we like to consider as typically American characteristics, pluck and perseverance.

But to these qualities, and a God-given natural voice of freshness, brilliance and beauty, must be added a definite touch of genius which permitted this naive and unspoiled girl to walk unconcernedly on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera house before a gala audience on that memorable night last February to a triumph which is spoken of everywhere in terms of Adelina Patti and Jenny Lind.

Finished Musician

For this historical occasion was Miss Marion's first performance in opera and practically her first appearance with orchestral accompaniment! What wonder then, that Mr. Gatti-Casazza, director of the Metropolitan, ejaculated "magnifico!" and that all the conductors were unanimous in praise. They knew she had a marvelous voice, and that she was a lovely girl. So their joy was that much the greater to know she was also a finished musician. The surety, the phrasing, the perfect intonation,—these were the qualities which proclaimed a new star in the operatic firmament. Her years of study as a child at the pianoforte and on the violin brought her through the ordeal in a manner which is nationally famous.

Since her debut Miss Talley has sung fifty leading roles with the Metropolitan Opera company in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Cleveland and Rochester and during the same period, has sung over one hundred concerts throughout the United States and Canada, to some of the largest audiences ever assembled.

Thus when Miss Marion appears in this city on Nov. 25, under the auspices of Womans Forum at City Auditorium, it is to be expected that music lovers from this district will flock from miles around to hear the girl whose sensational career has been so widely and so justly heralded as the event of many seasons.

When the righteous turneth from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, he shall even die thereby.

But if the wicked turn from his wickedness, and do that, which is lawful and right, he shall live thereby.

Yet ye say, The way of the Lord is not equal. O ye house of Israel, I will judge you every one after his ways.—Ezekiel xxxiii, 18-20.

Health Board Approves Tests For Food Handlers

Members of the city health board Wednesday night decided to instruct Dr. L. I. Lucey to continue ordering Wasserman tests for all food handlers in the city and to file cases in corporation court against those not having the test made. The meeting was held in the office of Dr. R. L. Hargrave, chairman of the board.

The board also discussed the coming Thursday of Dr. Sinclair Drake of the American Health association. He is to make a health and sanitation survey of the city. It is probable the survey will require sixty days at the end of which time the visitor will make his report and map out a five-year campaign for the city.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

Copeland of New York

SENATOR ROYAL COPELAND of New York made a coast to coast trip to study political conditions and presidential possibilities. Senator Copeland has a private secretary, Chesley W. Jurney, a Texan who pays his poll tax in Texas and votes in Texas in the years important elections are held.

Senator Copeland comes up for re-election in 1928. He was elected in 1922, the year that Alfred E. Smith refused to run on the same ticket with William Randolph Hearst. Copeland was substituted for the publisher.

This New York writer on health topics and democratic leadership, is fond of senatorial life. He dearly loves the society of the capital of the nation. He hopes to win a second term. Of course, he is going to do all in his power to keep New York in the democratic column of states next year.

If New York should swing to the republicans then the doctor will swing out of the senate. Former Senator James W. Wadsworth may be picked by the republicans as their nominee. He is an up-state republican; he is a wealthy man; he is an able statesman, he is a wet.

He was defeated by Robert F. Wagner in the senatorial election of 1924. Wagner is a democrat, a former justice of the supreme court of New York. Of course, the New York democrats are up in the air; so are the New York republicans. The refusal of Calvin Coolidge to be their standard bearer in 1928 has made republican conditions riotous the country over.

After the holidays the preliminary work of the campaign of 1928 will begin in earnest. When spring time comes in the month of June the republicans will name their standard bearer.

Then in the month of July the democrats will pick their leader. As for the delegates from all the states and territories, these will be named in the month of May.

Senator Walsh believes that the growers of things in midwest and northwest will bolt the republican nomination unless given a standard bearer of their own picking.

There are democrats who say that there may be a bolt on the part of ultra drys should a certain democrat be given the nomination.

If all these things come to pass there will be plenty of readable copy furnished for newspaper readers in the year to come.

Farm Aid Makes Poor Headway

A WASHINGTON wire tells this story, "Discussions today both at the White House and in the ranks of the western republican senators fail to throw much light on a solution to the vexing farm relief problem, an outstanding issue in republican party circles."

President Coolidge vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill. He will repeat the veto if the measure is re-enacted. He is said to be unalterably opposed to the equalization fee feature.

Senator William A. Borah of Idaho feels that the president is giving considerable consideration to the farm relief problem. He does not believe that Coolidge will seek to embody his views in a new bill. Rather, the Idaho senator believes the president may leave the problem up to Congress.

According to Washington advices "this view was supported at the White House." Herbert Hoover sided with the president when he vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill to the deadly finish. Just now the master minds of the party, who represent largely the makers of things, as well as the great financiers of the east, are having troubles of their own.

Regardless of the troubles the republican party is not a suicide party. Its leaders will find a way to pacify the republican farmers of the west and the northwest. This has been the story of all the years. It may hold good in 1928.

Fighting With His Back

ALBERT B. FALL of New Mexico is fighting with his back to the wall in a crowded court room in the City of Washington. He was very ill a year ago. Death would have been kind to him if he had been taken away. A leader of his party, a United States senator, a cabinet officer, an ignoble finish awaits him if a verdict of guilty is returned by his jury.

Worth Hearing

WHEN you are wondering what you are going to do tonight, look over the paper and see if anybody is going to lecture on a foreign land or a question of international significance. What this country needs, as much as Tom Marshall's five-cent cigar, is a better knowledge of the rest of the world and what the rest of the world's people are like.

Intolerance is the shrivelled fruit of ignorance.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—One of the most novel studios in New York is about to be opened to the public. It is in the rear of a bookshop at 65 Fourth avenue, opposite Wanamaker's store. The interior of the studio has been constructed almost entirely out of discarded packing cases, but some very beautiful cabinet making and wood carving has been put into the raw wood by the artist whose workshop it is. This young man is a Russian, Ber Coffet, is a sculptor who has worked for ten years at the prosaic trade of being a hatter, by day, and who has studied and toiled by night at his wood carvings and modelling. Now at last he has a studio of his own, self made, and is showing there one of the most interesting art exhibitions in New York. He has about twelve interesting pieces on display, both in bronze and marble.

* * *

Panorama of New York . . . The rare, tiny orchids, like yellow butterflies alighting, in the window of Galvin's the florist above the Ritz . . . The brash fellow who tries to sell every man who is escorting a woman to the theater "red roses for the lady." He is always trailing along Forty-fourth street, both before and after the performance. What an old-fashioned idea, what an irritating hang-over from a romantic past, that of weighing a woman down with thorny flowers just before she takes her seat in the theater. If I were a woman, I should be annoyed with any stupid male who would add further to life's complications . . . The joyous hand Raymond Hitchcock receives, after a seemingly long absence from Broadway, when he appears as the amiable comedian in "Just Fancy" with Joseph Santley and Ivy Sawyer. In a curtain speech he explains he is deeply interested in the young Santleys (they are producing the piece) because they met and married in his company, more than ten years ago. He says that Ivy Sawyer's mother had permitted her to come to America under his guardianship because she didn't know him very well. Hitchcock seems to me one of the most likable of comedians. He is droll in an intelligent manner. He is an incurable ad libber, and most of the time has the other members of the cast weak with giggles not written in by the authors of the script.

* * *

Howard Shelley, who does a Broadway publicity racket, and might reasonably be expected to take his New York as it comes, quite without criticism or question, is developing what amounts almost to a phobia on the question of skyscrapers and the terrific growth of crowded life in the city, generally. He says he didn't mind the occasional skyscrapers in the Times Square and Grand Central district, but now that every corner blooms with a towering structure, the city is beginning to get on his nerves. He is oppressed by the feeling of being crowded down into nothingness by these great hulking, unfeeling buildings. I sympathize with him. Sometimes, when I find myself swept along Broadway, in that hectic after-theater rush that is nothing short of Bedlam, I am burdened with the same stifling sensation. There are just a few too many people in New York.

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi Takes Dad's Advice — By JAY V. JAY

Dad is astounded at Mitzi's taking his advice. He suggested that she begin to do her Christmas shopping now and she's doing it. She waves lists—long lists of his sisters, his cousins and his aunts before him. All the time looking business like in spite of the coat with large collar with a wide band of fur.

"And suddenly I had no money at all, Dad, to finish my Christmas shopping," says Mitzi in she dropped in the office for cash reinforcements. The plea really touches Dad—she's evidently accomplished as much and means to do more. The hat she wears with the helmet effect is of two colors of felt.

Polly is telling Mitzi at luncheon just where she got her coin dotted sweater and Mitzi is saying she'll get one like it right away. The new little silver dog trotting along the hatband of Polly's hat is also a "find." Dad happening by is surprised that his daughter finds time to dine so leisurely.

Over Polly's dotted sweater she wears a tweed coat with the cape top. "It would be such fun, Polly, to go to a matinee—we just have time to make it." Of course, Polly will go. And Dad looking out of his window sees them. Surely the mind of women is changeable muses Dad, and will he ever be able to understand it?

HATTIE

A STORY OF LOVE AND SACRIFICE

By SAMUEL MERWIN

HATTIE JOHNSON, just 17, is a somewhat colorless little girl, who works in the mailing room of a printing and bookbinding establishment. One day a girl who had formerly worked in the mailing room comes to call. Her name is

LUCILLE OVERMAN, and she is now working in pictures. She takes Hattie to the studio where she, Lucille, is to have a screen test. Hattie there is seen by the litfamous director,

DE BRISSAC, who makes a screen test of her and offers her a contract. Hattie lives with her married sister,

ALICE, and her baby daughter, Emily, and

GRANDMA, a querulous semi-invalid. They all start for California with De Brissac, who suggests books for Hattie to read to "form her mind." On the train she meets

HENRY O'MALLEY, De Brissac's head camera man. De Brissac makes love to Hattie as part of her training for screen work and Hattie seems powerless to resist him. She refuses to go with him on his yacht away from her family, however. O'Malley, to whom she becomes engaged, advises her to try to get work at another studio and invites a lawyer to look over her contract with De Brissac. A rival studio gives her a part and she goes to work for them.

She is a failure without De Brissac and finally she sees him in a restaurant. He asks her not to tie up with the other concern for more than one picture.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

Certain difficulties that confront the novelist have a troublesome habit of appearing to be insuperable. Coincidence, for one. So common in our daily lives as to seem, often, the determining factor, coincidence must not, with its familiar long arm, touch and arrange the scrupulous narrative. . . Talent, for another. Not unfamiliar to the least pretentious village neighborhood, a driving force in every department of life, it yet remains a quality that the writer dare bestow upon one of his characters only at the risk of his reader's simple belief . . . And, for still another. Success. Old-fashioned success, that spells riches and what widespread interest must step warily among them if he is to hold his reader's faith. And among all these facts of outcropping material success, the most blatantly familiar, of late, the swiftest to arrive, the most overpowering in quantity and force, are the successes of the screen. They come, some of them, overnight. They are almost instantly a matter of wireless communication from careless brain to empty brain all round the world. They strike capriciously and hard.

Thousands of eager young actresses and actors swarm at the gates of the studios. Some have experience, some talent; either may fail or succeed. A gifted and beautiful young actress may appear in twenty pictures without once capturing the popular fancy. A little cash girl out of a store may wander in by chance and arrive in a day. Repeatedly the managers in concert abolish the star system. Only to fight like cut-throats over the ignorant child who, as a result of some unknown law, photographs well; offering her fortunes in a moment, plucking her authority over trained, mature men. . . . A picture is released; within a week it is viewed by more than a million theatre-goers, and still within that week a thousand, two thousand, five thousand exhibitors have telegraphed to their exchanges a peremptory demand for more pictures of a certain pretty little face, or of a pair of crossed eyes, or of two acrobatic feet. This dramatically capricious bolt strikes not, perhaps, so often, but strikes it does. And no system of management can withstand it.

De Brissac's greatest picture, "Bagdad," was released after very brief preliminary announcements but with a sudden burst of publicity that taxed the resources of Earthwide's press department. Suddenly in a blaze-light outbreak of posters and display advertising and reading matter, every city in the United States became vividly aware of it. The name of "DE BRISSAC" everywhere preceded the slogan—"The Greatest Picture Ever Made." It was played in regular theaters at theater prices in the Griffith manner. The great director went East in person for the New York opening. He was dined by Mayors and Governors. At Washington the President attended as his guest.

Hattie was at this time nearly through with her job at Plantagenet town. She was unhappy and tired. The end of the family income was more than in sight; it was fairly upon her within the fortnight. Mr. Mortimer had, she knew, done the best of a bad bargain. And she had done her best; but knew not that it was nothing. She wasn't an actress; was sure now that she didn't want to be one. She even longed for the routine of the mailing room, which at least, however monotonous, didn't tire her brain, worry her about things she couldn't understand, drive her to secret tears and to playing in secret, at home, with a doll she'd secretly bought one day. She talked to the doll. It was the only one she had to cheer Henry. The family didn't know that she'd helped finance his fruitless journey to New York.

It was just then that the United States rose up and demanded more of Harriet John. She didn't even know that this was her new name. She saw none of the Earthwide people. And at first, when the men and women she saw changed sharply in their attitude toward her, she couldn't catch the significance of it. She was too tired. But she did observe with an almost impersonal, almost meaningless little thrill the constant appearance of her own "stills" in the Los Angeles papers. And a girl on the lot gave her the dramatic sheet of a sober New York Sunday paper with a remarkable list of praise for her acting. They said she was an artist of rare delicacy, of utter appeal and charm, yet, surprisingly, with emotional power. Even this failed to come home to her. She knew she was no artist. The bitter thought came—"Ask Mr. Mortimer. He'll tell the world!" Whatever she was in "Bagdad" was what de Brissac had made her, by working in from the outside—by dressing her, and cleverly making her up, and posing her. She had never known what he was up to, what anything meant.

The family and Henry were excited, however: Alice couldn't resist dreaming expansively. At last the money was to come pouring in. But they hadn't got it yet. Times were terribly bad; Beverly was wretched with unemployment. Some of the studios had shut down. Henry, for all his natural enthusiasm, wasn't certain that the wealth would come so quickly. Ultimately, yes; he was sure about that; but perhaps not right away. It was a delicate time.

A Mr. Harbin from the Earthwide press department, called one evening, with an enormous bundle of clippings for Hattie. He said that Mr. Zeeck, who had just returned from New York, thought that she'd be glad to have them. So there was no hard feeling, after all. She thought it awfully nice of them, and read the astonishing pile of reviews—all praise for Harriet John—with a queer, bewildered sense of unreality. They left her no happier than before, merely more excited. She found refuge in locking her door and whispering playfully with her doll. On the following evening Mr. Wurtzel called up to warn her against accepting any offers that might come. "I may be able to tell you something pretty interesting within a week or two," he said. "Keep this closely to yourself. Suppose you just put yourself in my hands. That's the best way."

Vaguely, not knowing of any other course, she replied, "Yes. All right."

But if this sudden and unbelievable success brought no immediate wealth, it did bring something.

She came home from Plantagenet Town on her last evening but one, utterly dispirited. Alice met her at the door of the flat with flushed cheeks and rather apprehensively bright eyes.

"You can't guess who's here," she whispered.

"No, I can't," said Hattie.

"Arthur!"

"Who—oh, not——"

Alice nodded brightly, and led her within.

When Pain Comes
Two hours after eating
What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.
One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.
Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggist.
"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

U. S. ENVOY TO PERU EXPOSES TRADE RIVALS

Russia Chief Offender In Unethical Attack On America

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—A vicious propaganda aimed to destroy the prestige of the United States and to steal away the great trade markets which she has captured since the war is being aggressively circulated through South America, Former Senator Miles Poindexter, American ambassador to Peru, declared at the White House today following a conference with President Coolidge.

Russia is the chief agitator, Poindexter said, but he declared that several European nations are guilty of the attempt to stir resentment against the United States in the southern continent.

The general method of the propaganda, Poindexter said, is to accuse the United States of dollar diplomacy and to attempt to prove that her relations toward Mexico, Nicaragua the Philippines and the Central American republics manifests a desire to impose her will upon the world through strength.

"The more vicious propaganda, emanating from Russia," he said, "strives to arouse political and racial animosities. Coupled with that is the propaganda of other European nations which seek to regain the vast trade which we have gained since the war. I do not object to fair competition.

"There has been a good deal of interference from European countries in Mexico as well as in other Latin countries. Peru does not entertain those ideas of United States imperialism at all. Most of the South American governments have maintained an attitude which is technically correct towards us.

NEVER FAILED

Farmer Near Turkey Has Made 23 Good Crops

TURKEY, Texas, Nov. 2.—Buck Crump, living on a large farm south of Turkey, has been raising cotton 23 years and declares that he has made money every year except one. This year he has 800 acres in cultivation, and expects to pick between 600 and 600 bales. He has never made a crop failure, and the only year he failed to make a profit on cotton was last year when the price was so low.

Although he is a big cotton grower Mr. Crump is not a one crop man. This year besides his cotton he is cultivating 640 acres of corn, maize, etc. He states that this is one of the best feed years Turkey has ever had.

Quanah Citizens Agog as Time Nears For Opeing of 'Harvest Moon' Feast

Three Newsreel Companies To Make Photographic Record Of Indian Festival Blessing City

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Nov. 2.—The citizenship of Quanah is athrill as the time approaches for the visit of Chief Baldwin Parker and his tribe of Comanche Indians who will climax their "Feast of the Harvest Moon" celebration here by initiating into their tribe as chief, Honorable R. W. Haynie of Abilene, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Although scant time was given for arrangement of a program, the Quanah Chamber of Commerce has worked out a program for the event, and has arranged for two big days in this city which was named in honor of Quanah Parker, great chief of the Comanche tribe.

Program Arranged

The two day celebration will open at 1 p. m. on Friday with a big parade led by the Quanah Municipal band. The famous "Quanah Parker March," composed by E. S. Hamilton, director of the Quanah band, will be the official music of the parade. Indians, cowboys, and famous frontier characters will participate in the parade, and several hundred people from Chillicothe led by the Chillicothe band will march. Following the parade, the citizenship of Quanah and Chillicothe will hold a joint celebration on the court house lawn at 3 p. m., the occasion being the completion of the grade for the Colorado to Gulf highway connecting these two cities. This highway is to be a first class paved thoroughfare. It is tentatively planned to initiate President Haynie into the Indian tribe following the conclusion of the program about 4 p. m., the ceremony to take place on the court house lawn.

Following the highway celebration, the Indians will stage their "Harvest Moon" rites and will feast upon raw beef in their tribal custom. The public will be invited to see the feast. At 7:30 p. m. the Indians will celebrate with a dance, music and Indian folk lore songs.

Impressive Ritual

The solemn ritual initiating the white chief will be most impressive. This is said to be the first time in the history of Texas that such an initiation has ever been held, and it will be the first time the public has been permitted to witness the coronation of a chief by the Comanche tribe. A magnificent war bonnet has been prepared by the squaws of the tribe, and an Indian name will be conferred upon the West Texas Chamber of Commerce president. The name will remain a secret until Mr. Haynie is actually initiated.

Unusual color will be lent to the occasion by virtue of the fact that Chief Baldwin Parker who will be in charge of the ceremonies, is son of Quanah Parker and grandson of Chief Peter Nocona, high chief of the Comanches who once ruled practically the same territory now covered by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. In effect, it will be a meeting of the present "white chief" of West Texas with the heir-apparent of former owners of the region.

Tour on Saturday

On Saturday the Indian chief will take his tribe for a tour of the city of Quanah and will show them the city named in honor of his father. Citizens of Quanah will be hosts to the Comanches on the trip. Saturday afternoon another parade will be held, and the Indians will complete their dance and celebration of the "Harvest Moon."

Sunday morning the entire tribe of Indians will attend services at the First Presbyterian church in Quanah and will be honor guests at this service.

Unique Celebration

This occasion is expected to prove the most unique celebration ever staged by a Texas city and the unusual features of the event are expected to attract here a large number of people from over the entire "Green Belt" of Texas.

PICTURE RECORD TO BE MADE OF INDIAN RITE

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 2.—Scenes of the Comanche Indians' harvest moon feast here this week will be broadcast to the nation by three motion picture news reel men and by staff correspondents of half a score newspapers. Paramount News Reel Exchange has notified Secretary Carl Guin of the Quanah chamber that they will have three cameramen on the lot and will film the celebration in detail.

Practically all of the larger Texas newspapers have sent notice that they will have staff men and cameramen on hand. The big feature, that of initiating the West Texas Chamber of Commerce president into the Comanche tribe as a full fledged chief, is scheduled for Friday afternoon, and a huge elevated platform is being erected

TWO HELD IN BOMBING CASE

Texas Police Probe Raid On McAllen Home

EDINBURG, Texas, Nov. 2. (AP)—Two men were in jail here Wednesday pending a preliminary hearing in connection with an alleged attempt to bomb the home of O. E. Burg of McAllen Monday night. Chief of Police William J. Rapp of McAllen and Deputy Sheriff John R. Bales, who arrested the men, said one of them was in the act of lighting a dynamite bomb on the front porch of the Burg home.

The officers said that they had had a tip on the bombing and hid near the home until about 11:30 p. m. when an automobile drove up and one of two men in it got out and went to the porch of the Burg home. Burg turned on the lights and the officers seized the trespasser, who was garbed in a Halloween costume representing the Devil. The other man drove hurriedly away and the second man held in the case was arrested the next morning at Pharr as the driver of the car.

Officers could assign no motive for the alleged attempt. One of the men held came here some time ago from Oklahoma.

Negress Takes $56 From Man in Holdup

One negro woman was held and police sought another early Wednesday night in connection with a hold-up staged in the Fort Worth and Denver yards from which A. H. Connell, about 20, employe of a bridge and building gang of the Katy near Burkburnett, emerged $56 the loser.

Connell told police the negro woman had stuck a gun in his face and rifled his pockets of all his money.

Interment was in Rosemont.

The boy died late Tuesday evening as the result of an infection in the knee which set in after he had been injured in play only a few days ago. He was a member of Troop 12, Boy Scouts, and pallbearers for the funeral were chosen from his former scout companions. The troop was present at the funeral in a body, under the leadership of Scoutmaster Don Ross, and one of the number played "taps" at the conclusion of the burial services.

He is survived by his parents, three brothers, and three sisters.

Health and Diet Advice

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

WHOLESOME SOUPS

There are many kinds of soups, from the clear bouillons to the mixed thick soups, where often a dozen or more food articles are used in the preparation.

A bouillon is a thin clear soup generally made by boiling beef and using the broth. A bouillon is also made from clams or tomatoes. Consomme signifies specifically a clear soup made by boiling together a knuckle of veal, a shin of beef, and a fowl.

The bouillon or consomme soup does not contain much nourishment, but furnishes a warm, highly flavored dish which is relished by many at the start of a meal.

Cream soup is usually made of vegetables and meats and then strained, and flour sauce or cream added.

Puree is a French culinary term which means a thick soup.

Soups of many kinds are now canned and are of great convenience to the housewife, offering an agreeable diversity, with no trouble of preparation, and capable of being served at a minute's notice.

If wholesome soups are desired it is well to keep in mind that the same rules about combinations which hold good with solid foods are likewise good rules to use in the selection of the ingredients for a soup. It is not wise to combine too many kinds of food at any one meal, and this rule holds good in the making of soup.

It is a good plan to use only those foods in the preparation of a soup which are also used with the rest of the meal. For instance if the meal is to consist of string beans, spinach and celery, portions of these foods can be finely ground and boiled together into a soup, flavoring with salt and butter if desired, or adding pure cream just before removing from the fire.

A delicious puree may be made of any of the non-starchy vegetables by grinding them through a food grinder, cooking in a small amount of water for a long time over a slow fire and adding seasoning or cream as desired after the soup is thoroughly cooked.

If meat is used in the preparation of the soup, it is not advisable to use any highly starchy foods, such as rice, potatoes, or macaroni. If a starchy soup is desired, it is best to use only one of the highly starchy foods and combine it with one or more of the non-starchy vegetables. Cream also combines well with this mixture.

The soup which is the most difficult of digestion and which often ruins an otherwise good meal is that made with meat or fish in combination with starchy vegetables or a flour sauce.

Make your soups of as simple combinations as possible, and observe the same rules about combinations which you use in combining the other foods at your meal.

QUESTION: N. S. writes: "My girl twelve years old has a birth mark on the forehead, right over the eye, and it is beginning to come down in the corner of the eye. The doctors call it a cyst, something like a blood tumor. Is there anything that can be done to remove it without an operation?"

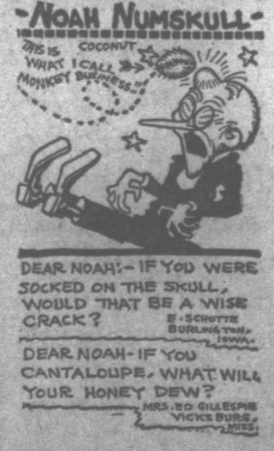

ANSWER: Birth marks can usually be removed by the proper electrical treatment. I advise you to take your girl to a skin specialist who understands the treatment which will be necessary.

QUESTION: T. C. asks: "What is the best method of making cider? Should the cider be kept in bottles or a cask?"

ANSWER: Cider is easily made in a small home press which can be purchased in any large hardware store. If the cider is to be kept for any length of time it must be pasteurized and put into bottles. Otherwise, it turns to vinegar.

QUESTION: N. J. writes: "What treatment do you advise for multiple sclerosis? What is the cause? Violet rays have brought back the feeling to patient's limbs and he has use of them, but a numbness comes over him at times."

ANSWER: The fundamental cause of multiple sclerosis is a faulty diet. Patient you write of will get quickest results by taking a fruit fast for a week or ten days followed by a well balanced diet. Treatment such as massage, osteopathy, chiropractic and electrotherapy will be helpful in restoring the circulation to the affected parts.

Conference Title Hinges On Mustang-Aggie Game

Ed Hughes' Column

Hard to believe is the report that Johnny Dundee is still determined to "carry on" despite his miserable showing against youthful Tony Canzoneri the other night. Most of the fans and critics who attended the pugilistic wake of the once marvelous little fighting man, came away convinced that even the stubborn Johnny had at last seen the light, that it had been amply proved to him that he was no longer fit to fight. Dundee was outclassed practically from the beginning to end, and at no time did he show anything to warrant the belief that he could do better in future bouts.

Most of them expected an official announcement from Jawn to the effect that he would quit the ring which he ornamented so richly in the days of his youth. Many were the "sob" stories that described the "passing" of the great veteran, but it seems these obituaries were a bit premature. Dundee, we have it, still thinks he is a "live one" between ropes. And Jawn, of all persons, hates to be buried alive, so to speak.

* * *

However, judging from the attendance, and the attitude of the fans that witnessed his yaltz with the considerate Tony Canzoneri, Johnny, fistically speaking, is a dead one to the Queensberry world. Johnny used to pack them in the old days. Johnny Dundee was a magnetic name, a synonym of whirlwind action, durability and ring craft. The name, once so influential in whirring the turnstiles, has now lost the power to attract. Less than 9,000 of the faithful fans turned out to glimpse Johnny's latest "come-back" attempt — for Johnny has acquired the "come-back" habit.

It is inconsistent with Dundee's exploits of the past to engage in "waltzes" with the rising generation, despite some sly winks at the mention of those Benny Leonard engagements.

In the old days Dundee never asked nor gave quarter. He was a genuine fighting man. Thus it is hard to conceive of this phenomenal fighting machine permitting even an inference that any one "carried" him out of respect for a great name.

* * *

There are those who argue that it would be more respectable of Dundee to sumbit to a knockout rather than accept the questionable honor of "staying the limit" with an opponent "under wraps." In other words, to "die with his boots on" insctead of "lasting" with an opponent who had on the "hobbles."

The writer agrees with that argument. Remember the finish of Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, at the hands of Bob Fitzsimmons? Fitz begged the wonderful Irishman to quit when it was patent that he was striking only a ghost of the mighty champion. Dempsey made his finish as glorious as his many victories.

"You'll have to knock me out to win!" the beaten man groaned. And that was the manner in which Fitzsimmons won.

Dempsey preferred to be carried out of the ring rather than "carried" in it. He was a fighting man all the way through.

Met Hal Skelly, the star of "Burlesque," last night—a great show with a great actor. If you've seen this gifted actor's remarkable performance you'll pardon this obvious piece of free publicity. Hal is a talented talker on the stage and quite as entertaining off it.

Skelly, years ago, was identified with the fight racket. He managed Joe Tipman, the old Baltimore fighter, one of the toughest featherweights in the business some 20 years back. Skelly has risen to stardom, but his ascent didn't much dull his interest in fisticuffs.

He has a vast supply of humorous stories of the ring, but few better than the one he relates of his return to New York from the first Leonard-Tendler fight in Jersey City.

"Jim Corbett and I made the trip together," explained Hal, "and coming back on the crowded tube we discussed the great fight.

"'I think Tendler won beyond a doubt, don't you, Hal? Corbett asked.

"'Oh, yes; tendler had a shade, I should say,' I agreed.

"'Well, I should say it was more than a shade,' went on Corbett. Whereat a young Jewish hero worshiper of Benny, jammed against us, put in an oar.

"'Wuttya mean, Tendler won,' he growled at Corbett. 'There wuz nuthin' to it but Leonard, all the way, every round.'

"Corbett affected not to notice this, and we continued our conversation. But every once in a while the hero worshiper butted in with indignant remarks. He became very offensive. Finally, after a retort by Corbett, he would out with 'Well, who the ---- are you? Wutta you know, anyway?'"

"Just at that moment a friend of Corbett's entered with another fellow. 'Hello, Jim,' he said. And, turning to his friend, 'Meet Jim Corbett, the old heavyweight sham pion of the world.'

"The hero worshiper took it all in with bulging eyes you could hang hats on. He stared at Corbett agape.

"About five minutes later he butted in again to Corbett: 'Thinkin' it over again, I guess you're right, at that. Come to think of it, Tendler kinda shaded him.'"

Brilliant Offensive Teams Clash At College Station

Ponies And Farmers Rank As Two Greatest Football Machines Southwest Ever Has Known

Special to The Record News.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 2.—The 1926 champions of the Southwest conference gridiron will meet the 1927 challengers when the Mustangs play the Aggies on Kyle Field Saturday afternoon in what is expected to be the football classic of the year. A crowd of between 15,000 and 18,000 is expected to attend. The battle will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Saturday's game not only will see in action two of the strongest teams the Southwest conference has known in years, but will also probably decide this season's championship. The Mustangs are leading the conference with a perfect average, while the Aggies are trailing only half a game behind. The Mustangs, who have not lost a conference game in two years, showed a dazzling offense and an impregnable defense in defeating Missouri of the Missouri valley conference, victor over Nebraska and Northwestern, and Texas and Rice of the Southwest conference. The Aggies have shown a brilliant attack in defeating Sewanee, Arkansas and Texas Tech, and in these victories their line appeared to be one of the best the conference has had in recent years. The Aggies and T. C. U. Frogs played a 0 to 0 tie in Fort Worth, but three of A. & M.'s backfield stars were out of the line-up with injuries.

If the Mustangs defeat the Aggies Saturday, football critics believe that the S. M. U. eleven will march undefeated to its second consecutive championship. If the Aggies defeat the Mustangs, critics expect the Aggies to win the championship, provided they can hurdle the Longhorns on Kyle field Thanksgiving.

Football fans are marking time until Saturday's game. In years gone by, the football championship was decided on Thanksgiving Day when the two state schools played in their annual contest. Saturday's game will have something of the same significance as concerns this year's championship that the Turkey Day battles had in the past.

Playing on Kyle Field, where the Aggies defeated the Mustangs, 7 to 0 in 1925 and in the same year won over the Longhorns, 28 to 0, the Aggies will enter Saturday's fray hopeful of doing what no other conference team has been able to do in two years—defeat S. M. U. Kyle Field is a hallowed place for the Aggies, and the record book fails to reveal where any team ever won over the Aggies on this turf except by the closest sort of a score. Playing again on this field is an advantage to A. & M. The Mustangs will be forced to take the road for this game and any coach knows that a train ride always saps the strength of the team to some extent.

There Will Be No Regrets.

D. X. Bible, veteran coach of the Aggies realizes the tremendous task that confronts his team. He is cheerful over the outcome of the game but not over-confident. Asked of his team's chances, he made the reply: "Our supporters will not be disappointed in us."

Saturday's drama will include a cast of players, some of whom rank with the best of all time in the history of the conference. The Mustangs have a fine backfield, a strong line, and a perplexing passing machine. In Gerald Mann the Mustangs have a great passer, a man who is the spark plug of the Mustang machine. To his passing the S. M. U. eleven owes much of the credit for their success in the past two years. In Redman Hume the Mustangs have a man who is better at carrying the ball than Mann and a player who has star qualifications in other respects.

The fastest man on the Mustang squad is W. C. Lynch, who was kept under wraps in the Longhorn game in order that he will be in the best of condition for the Aggies. Ross Love, fullback, is particularly adept at receiving and breaking up forward passes. It will be recalled that he broke up eight passes consecutively against the Longhorns last year after the Mustangs came from behind and forged ahead in their 21 to 17 victory.

In the line the Mustangs have a spectacular end in "Dog" Dawson, who compares with George (Hook) McCullough of the Longhorns of 1920 and 1921 and whose ability to receive passes is uncanny. Dawson has been playing for S. M. U. several years, and is a finished product. The S. M. U. team has a great tackle in Roach and a fine guard in Captain Tatum. The Mustangs do not have a weak man at any position and in games thus far it has been a battle to see who would win regular berths.

Hunt Can Pack Oval.

Against this galaxy of stars, the Aggies also have their scintillating lights. In Captain Joel Hunt, A. & M. presents the best all-round player in the conference and many Aggie supporters aver he is the best player A. & M. has ever had. Hunt is a whiz on the offense, especially at carrying the ball. In this respect and at throwing passes he is expected to give Hume and Mann a race. Hunt also can punt and will have the able assistance of Z. W. Bartlett, center.

The Aggies have other backfield stars who furnish a good combination for their brilliant captain, Joel Hunt. In H. R. Burgess, who has been handicapped much of the time this year with injuries, the Aggies have an excellent line plunger who is also good at backing up the line. R. Varnell, who weighs only 174 pounds, is also a good fullback. At halves the Aggies will present new faces in Brooks Conover or R. R. Dorsey at left half and Pinky Alsabrook, former all-State end from Cisco, at right half. Conover, Dorsey, Varnell and Alsabrook were freshmen last year but they have been playing football for a number of years and have had much experience. Conover is a good, all-round player, while Alsabrook has as a specialty the receiving of forward passes. In the Texas Tech game last Friday, the passing combination of Hunt to Alsabrook flashed as brilliantly as the Mann to Dawson combination. Alsabrook's fine showing last week has assured him of starting in the momentous Mustang game.

Aggie Line Powerful.

In the line the Aggies have a defensive team that has held like a wall. Siki Sikes and Red Petty are dependable ends and are both good at snatching passes. The Aggies have two of the best tackles in the conference in A. C. Sprott and W. S. Lister, both of Livingston. Sprott weighs 195 pounds and Lister tips the scales at 194 pounds. The Aggies will present two comparatively new faces at guards in J. G. Holmes, a 185 pounder of Troup, and E. E. Figari, a 185 pound product of the Island City. These two men, squad men last year, have shown much improvement this year, and have held their own against all opponents. In Z. W. Bartlett at center the Aggies have a pivot man who is considered a strong contender for all-conference honors.

An analysis of the two teams shows that there is not much difference in the individual players. Critical followers of the game have suggested that the Mustangs have perhaps shown more finish than the Aggies and that the S. M. U. playing has been a little more alert. But it must be remembered that D. X. Bible and Charles Bassett of the Aggies had virtually to rebuild their team, while Ray Morrison had much of his 1926 championship team intact. The experience of the other games this year should give the Aggies the confidence and polish necessary to battle the Mustangs on even terms on this score.

Coach Bible believes the team that shows the most drive Saturday will be the team to win. If the Aggies can muster the proper drive, local fans expect the Aggies to be victorious.

An Offensive "Defense."

To win Saturday's game the Aggies expect to have to play offensive football. The Aggies realize that it would be unwise to play only a safe, defensive game against the Mustangs, a type of game that other schools have attempted against the Mustangs to no avail. By unleashing a passing, slashing, smashing attack with confidence and determination the Aggies believe they have a good chance for victory. It is likely they will not permit the Mustangs to keep the ball longer than possible unless the wind is such that an exchange of punts would be profitable to the Aggies.

The Aggies have carefully scouted the Mustang plays, and their players have been practicing against these formations for some time. On the other hand, it is expected the Mustangs will be confronted with an offense seldom presented by a Southwest conference football team.

TERRELL PLAYS YEARLINGS.

FIRPO EXPECTS TO PIN M'GILL

Wilcox Jumps In Where Cantonwine "Ran"

Pat McGill, the husky Irish-American grappler who tossed the huge Harry Coffman with more or less ease here last week, will not find the going so soft Friday night at the 605 Scott arena, declares Firpo Wilcox, the Oklahoma heavy.

Wichita Falls fans pulled for a Wilcox victory here last week, but were balked when Howard Cantonwine rushed his man as the latter was endeavoring to crawl through the ropes after falling out of the ring. Wilcox had much the better of Cantonwine until caught in the ropes. He came back then and won a fall, and seemed on the verge of copping the decider when Cantonwine kicked him in the chin for a knock-out.

Wilcox avers McGill will not get away with "any of this sort of stuff on me" this week. The Oklahoman admits he has picked a tough customer but believes he can outfight the Irishman. Wilcox stepped in and asked for a whack at McGill after Cantonwine refused to meet Pat.

Mike Zonivich, who was given a terrible thumping here a couple of months back by Wayne Munn, may find Paul Jones an easier man, at least on his features and ribs, than he did Big Wayne. The 190-pound Jones has agreed to a stipulation that he toss Zonivich twice within an hour or receive no pay. Zonivich gets no cash, according to Matchmaker Ross, if Jones does throw him twice within 60 minutes.

Playing 'em Over

With the Dixie Champions

Somebody once cracked last summer that next to Carl Williams and Prez J. A. Gardner, Jake Atz of Fort Worth had more to do with the Spudders winning a pennant than anybody else. Perhaps that's a bit far-fetched. Anyhow, it was only meant as a joke. It is possible the originator of the wheeze got his start toward thinking the crack up along about May 15, for on Sunday, May 15, the Spudders had played the Cats exactly eight games and had won exactly eight games from the Cats. Number eight was played in Fort Worth.

Howard Fitzgerald, rangy Spud center gardener, and the pudgy Joe Kiefer, right-hand pitching ace, combined on the Atzmen this particular Sabbath afternoon, winning the game by a 3-2 margin.

The Cats combed nine safeties from Harlem Joe's delivery, but the barrel-shaped boy kept 'em well scattered. Cowtown took the lead in the first, scoring a run due largely to Eddie Moore's lead-off triple. The Cowtowners got another in the sixth.

Lefty Johns was tight and the Williams gang collected only seven hits, but Fitzgerald swung into action late in the affray. Tis two-bagger figured in two runs scored during the seventh by the Wichita Falls flailers, knotting the count, and his home run in the ninth gave us the game.

San Antonio, riding the second rung, lost to Waco by an 8-6 score and dropped down five games behind the Spudders. Houston, in third place, lost to the lowly Beaumonters.

Burk Bulldogs Battle Waurika

BURKBURNETT, Nov. 2.—The Burk Bulldogs will play the Waurika, Okla., football team Saturday at 2:45 p. m. at the high school athletic field as part of the program celebrating the opening of the free bridge between Texas and Oklahoma. The game will find Burk with a weakened team because of ineligibilities and injuries, but with high hopes of winning. Buckner, Hunt, Griffin, and Gibson probably will be out of the game and Green will be able to play only in part of the game. York, Smith, Merrit and Williams will be substituted for these players and are expected to do well in their respective positions.

The Burk line-up, although subject to change, probably will include Williams and Gibhart as guards, Jarrel land Wood as tackles, Willingham and Goodwin as ends, Vance as center, Moore and Hurd as halfbacks, Dilbeck as fullback and Green as quarterback.

Waurika has had a string of hard games but was beaten by Grandfield, probably the strongest team in southern Oklahoma, by only a small score. Waurika's line-up will be Plumlee, left-end, Boydstun, left tackle, Hooper, left guard, Bunger, center, O. Vickers, right tackle, Massey, right guard, W. Vickers, right end, Spivey, right end, Hooker, halfback, Wells, halfback, Shipp, fullback.

Slight Chance For Change In District One Status This Week

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross

IF WISHES—

Nothing could be more pleasing to the col (not that it matters what pleases this column) than the production of a tie score down at College Station this week-end. There isn't much more than one chance in 50 the Aggies and Mustangs will battle to a deadlock, but we just would hate to see either club defeated. Both have strung up such commendable records that this very interested follower of the two teams has developed a heavy attack of sentiment. Those clubs are too good to be beaten. However, a tie for the Farmers more than likely would eliminate them as conference championship contenders, for such a tie added to the zero deadlock with T. C. U. under conference ruling would count in the standings as a game won and a game lost, whereas the Ponies would be black-marked with only a half-game defeat.

* * *

Conference Stock Soars.

Largely through performances of S. M. U. and Texas A. & M., the Southwest conference this year has gained more prestige, more nationwide notice than ever before. It's ancient history how the Mustangs murdered Missouri's hopes for a perfect season, walloping the Tigers, 32 to 9. And it's history how the Missouri team stopped the powerful Nebraska Cornhuskers and how the Missouri team ran over the strong Northwestern Purple, 34 to 19. Last week, the Ponies trampled the Texas Longhorns, 14 to 0. Those same Longhorns with not as powerful a machine as they threw against the Mustangs Saturday, beat Vanderbilt by a 13-6 score, and Vandy has been winning by wide margins in the Southern conference. The Aggies turned back, 18-0, a strong Sewanee team in intersectional clash and they rode over the Arkansas Razorbacks by a 40-6 score. Arkansas Saturday trampled Louisiana State, 28 to 0, and Louisiana State held the powerful Alabama team to a tie score. The Mustangs and Aggies have given the Southwest conference a football flair that has arrested attention of football fans all over the nation. Little wonder tournament of roses officials out in Pasadena have spoken of bringing the winner of the Aggie-S. M. U. game to the coast for post-season play with the Pasific champions. And it's little wonder that any Southwest conference fan, unless he be a staunch supporter specificially of the one or the other team, dislikes the thought of either team being defeated in the grid classic booked for College Station Saturday.

* * *

The Long and the Short Of It.

An unique situation will be developed in the Arkansas-T. C. U. game at Fort Worth Saturday. Flem Hall tells us, in that a 162-pound footballer will be placed on the line o' fire against a giant who shakes the Fairbanks at 275 pounds, no less. The smallest lineman and the largest lineman in the conference will face each other. They are Fain Reynolds, 162-pound Frog guard, and "Tiny" Gardner, 275-pound Arkansas tackle. Reynolds hasn't missed a minute of play yet this season, and he will be in there Saturday opposite "Tiny," says Coach Madison Bell. The little fellow is fast, short and tough as Dutch Mantell would have you think HE is, which is SOME tough.

Lay Your Bets.

It was a motley array of vehicles the Junior college football squad plied hurriedly into yesterday to start the trek for Cisco in answer to S. O. S. call for competition by the Randolph team Thursday afternoon. The game originally was slated for Saturday. Ludgate squeezed his athletes into one nondescript Ford, one veteran shaky Chevrolet and one aged Star. Drake university's "flivver races" should have nothing on that drive of the Wichita Falls Indians.

Frog Feather To Seek U. S. Coin

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. (AP)—The tide of foreign champions, coming in over the Atlantic to seek world laurels in the "heavy money" fight centers of America, swelled today with the announcement that Tony Ascencio, featherweight champion of France, would land here tomorrow from the liner De Grasse.

Hot on the newcomer's trail are Johnny Cuthbert, bantamweight champion of England, and Willie Smith, South African 118-pound king due here within two weeks to challenge for both the bantam and featherweight crowns now in dispute because of the retirement of the world titleholders.

Already the list of heavyweight contenders has been increased by the appearance of Phil Scott, English recruit from overseas, whose possibilities will be tested by Knute Hansen, Minnesota Dane, in Madison Square Garden Friday night. Among the foremost contenders for Gene Tunney's heavy weight laurels are Paulino Uzcudun, bounding Basque from the Pyrenees of Spain, and Tom Heeney, New Zealand champion, who battles Jack Sharkey in a crucial engagement at the garden November 18.

Within a few weeks, Tex Rickard expects to introduce Victorio Compolo, his impression of a "bigger and better Luis Firpo," to New York audiences in the South American champion's heavyweight debut. Campolo weighs 216 pounds and is six feet four inches tall.

JIM SLATTERY WINS.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 2. (AP)—Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo light heavyweight and national boxing association champion, won a technical knockout over Murray Gilitz of New Haven, Conn., in the sixth round of a 10-round bout here.

LEADING CLUBS TAKE IT EASY

Lions May Upset Amarillo Next Week, However

Although booked in conference games, the leading contenders for the district one interscholastic league football championship mark time as it were this week-end. The race has turned into a three-way argument, Amarillo and Wichita Falls to the fore with Vernon carrying a serious threat.

Vernon takes a breather with the light Quanah team Saturday and Amarillo should find Plainview soft pickin's. Wichita Falls is doped to win, but probably has the stiffest assignment of the "big three" in combat with the Electra Tigers at Spudder park. So the race this week should find the first division teams riding along with their status unchanged.

Watch Vernon.

Wichita Falls has an easy assignment next week and is confronted with opportunity of forging to undisputed district leadership. Scheduled with Quanah at Spudder park next week, Bud McCallum's proteges should pac ethrough to an easy victory. But Amarillo, undefeated in league play to date and who no doubt still will be undefeated when Saturday night's returns are in, may strike a Tartar in the Lions at Vernon Saturday a week hence. There are many dopesters who believe Wichita Falls and Amarillo will ride through to their Thanksgiving day game undefeated. But there are just as many more who will tell you Wichita Falls will be the only undefeated team in the district on the eve of that game. The Lions gave the Coyotes a great battle here before going down to defeat by an 8-6 score. It is doubtful had the Coyotes played the Lions in Vernon as Amarillo will do next week, that Wichita Falls would have triumpher. Playing in Amarillo, th eLions would be the under dogs, but tackling the Sandstorm on the Vernon gridiron before the home fans, Coach Baggett's warriors are the favorites. It's a pretty tough job, this trying to beat an inspired and fighting Vernon team at home. The Coyotes of 1926, rated easily a two or three-touchdown better club, barely managed to scrimp out a 14-13 win in Vernon. And, for that matter, the Coyotes, rated at least a touchdown better team than Vernon has today, were very fortunate in staving off defeat and nosing out for an 8-6 victory at Spudder park two weeks ago. Vernon may tangle up the race yet.

The Coyotes will place their strongest team onto the field Saturday against the Electrans. The club will be in better shape than it was for the Lubbock game last week, better physical shape and better as a team drilled on fundamentals.

Coaches McCallum and Francis have not devoted so much time this week on signal practice but have sent the squad through rigorous practice tests in tackling, in carrying the ball and in offensive line play. A smoother-working machine, one with more precision in the offensive performances of its forwards and a smarter-tackling set of youngsters will meet the Tigers Saturday.

Temple Menaces Waco.

The race all over the state is beginning to take form. In district eight apparently has been uncovered at last a contender who may beat the Waco Tigers before Tyson's team can climb out of the district. The Temple Wildcats in their one conference game played to date gave notice to Waco by whipping the Main high team of San Antonio, 33-0, a performance every bit as impressive as the Tigers themselves put up against the Main Crimsons. The Tigers, however, have no conference game booked this week.

There were no startling upsets in high school football throughout the state last week. In Section No. 1, the Lubbock team played Wichita Falls to a 12-to-12 tie, and that was a surprise, but not a great one. In Section No. 2 the favored Abilene team swamped Ranger, 33 to 0. That was to be expected, and in Section No. 3 the undefeated Sunset high team of Dallas continued undefeated by winning from Central high of Fort Worth, 20 to 0. Poly of Fort Worth, defeated by Forest of Dallas, is the only real obstacle that Sunset now has to overcome to win the district title. If Poly wins, here is ape to be a three-cornered tie for the title in that section.

In Section No. 4, Corsicana and Cleburne won as usual. These teams are now certain to meet for the title. In Section No. 5, McKinney, the titleholder of last year, was defeated by Paris, while the race in Section No. 6 continues as usual, a battle among Athens, Marshall and Tyler, the odds favoring Marshall. Beaumont won an overwhelming victory over Ball high of Galveston in Section No. 7 and now the Royal Purple is favored to win down there, with the most opposition coming from Houston Heights high and Port Arthur. Port Arthur defeated Central high of Houston by a score of 20 to 0.

Gene Can Ease Into $750,000

By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Gene Tunney, the heavyweight champion, can pick up $750,000 by risking his title against George Godfrey, the Leiperville negro, in a ten-round decision contest at the sesquicentenntial stadium in Philadelphia.

A syndicate of prominent Philadelphia sportsmen are willing to guarantee Tunney that sum to meet Godfrey in a decision tussle.

Several members of the organization will appear before the Pennsylvania commission tomorrow to post a certified check for $750,000 with Chairman Frank Weiner, covering Tunney's entire guarantee.

ARMOUR PAIRS WITH HAGEN IN THIRD ROUND P. G. A. TOURNEY

"The Haig" Takes Manero, 11 and 10, While Tommy Blazes Way to 7-6 Triumph Over Harmon

By Universal Service.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 2.—Two of America's golfing kings will match nerve and ability over the Cedarcrest Country club course here tomorrow in the third round of the National P. G. A. championship tournament.

Walter Hagen, for three years reigning professional champ, will be forced to make his greatest fight in defense of his crown tomorrow for he meets none other than Tommy Armour, national and Canadian open title holder.

The great "Haig" came through the second round of play today with ease. Young Anthony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., pro., apparently was afflicted with stage fright and he went down 11 and 10. Manero's putter failed him completely.

Taking no chances with his title, Hagen fired a 33 into Manero on the first nine holes of the 36-hole round, being under par. This gave him a six up lead and he eased down on the remaining 27 holes, although he stayed mighty close to Old Man Par.

The genial Tommy Armour was pushed to the limit by Tom Harmon of Yonkers, N. Y., in the first 18 holes but the lad from the banks of the Hudson river blew up in the afternoon round, donating the open champ with a 7 and 6 triumph.

Eye for Eye.

It was eye for eye, tooth for tooth in the morning, each turning in a 70, one under par. Tommy played a deadly short game but Harmon matched putt for putt to hold the terrific pace set by the open title holder.

It was in the afternoon that Armour blazed his way to the quarter finals of the meet. The match went to the 12th hole before finish was written. Armour was three under par while Harmon was five over. Included in the great golf which Tommy dished up was an eagle two on number 11 hole, a 333-yard hole.

Cards.	Morning:
Armour	Out	434	444	344—34
	In	545	542	534—36—70
Harmon	Out	433	453	445—35
	In	434	443	544—35—70
Afternoon:
Armour	Out	435	453	435—36
	In	423
Harmon	Out	545	564	335—40
	In	544

Mortie Dutra, the "dark horse" of the tourney defeated Charles Guest, 3 up. Both had high scores.

Al Espinosa of the Illinois Country club, brought sorrow to local fans and "Light Horse" Harry Cooper. He shot one above par golf to win out on the 14th green, 5 and 4. Cooper was brought up on the Cedarcrest course, and he had a big gallery with him. He was off on his putts, however, in the morning round and could never catch Espinosa in the afternoon.

Sarazen Wins.

Gene Sarazen, the favorite in the lower bracket, defeated Ed Dudley, Hollywood Country club, 4 and 3. Joe Turnesa and Will Klien struggled throughout the day but the match was not ended until Joe took a birdie three on the 36th hole to win 1 up.

John Golden, Patterson, N. J., and Harold Long of Oklahoma also staged a real fight over the 36 holes, the former finally winning on the 37th hole, 1 up. He took a birdie three.

The innumerable sand traps, bunkers and narrow fairways of the difficult Cedarcrest course is still resisting any electrifying scores. Armour and Harmon were the only pair to turn in below par golf on any round, each getting a 70 in the morning. Many of the scores today were four to ten strokes over par.

Pairings for the third round tomorrow are:

Upper bracket: Walter Hagen vs. Tommy Armour. Mortie Dutra vs. Al Espinosa.

Lower bracket: Gene Sarazon vs. Joe Turnesa. John Golden vs. Francis Gallett.

Mickey Walker To Meet Berlenbach

Kearns Confident Battler Will Win Crown

BY WARREN BROWN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—While the badly battered Micheal McTigue, and his crestfallen manager, Jimmy Johnston, were proceeding back to New York today, Jack Kearns and Mickey Walker were beginning to look the field over for more opponents in the light heavyweight division.

Walker's sensational victory over McTigue, which amounted to one of the most surprising events of the boxing year, more than makes good Kearns' claim that he will yet steer Walker into the light heavyweight title.

The Jersey Bulldog has a match tentatively arranged for Los Angeles, with Paul Berlenbach, another of the former champions in the division, but Kearns seemed a little disturbed today over the failure of the coast promoter, Dick Donald, to register some definite details about the match.

Jim Mullen, the local promoter, tried to match Walker with Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, making the latter a substantial offer, which was promptly refused, the inference being that Slattery wanted none of the Jersey battler. Then Mullen discussed the Berlenbach match, but no conclusion was reached.

Kearns was in his usual good form, following Walker's rapid annihilation of McTigue.

"I told you that fellow was improving with every fight," he said. "He's got something of Jack Dillon, and something of Sam Langford in his fighting style. I never saw any heavyweight hit harder than Mickey did against McTigue,"

ACE HUDKINS MEETS DUNDEE

Nebraska Wildcat Seems Certain He'll Win

By MARK KELLY
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—Dick Donald's delayed-in-transit welterweight championship is scheduled to arrive tomorrow night at about 9:15 o'clock in Wrigley field before 25,000 persons who are expected to contribute $125,000 to see Joe Dundee of Baltimore and Ace Hudkins of somewhere in Nebraska do battle. The weather man has promised to do his very best, the last-minute demands for tickets has keyed Donald up to high expectations and the only unsettled problem is the referee question.

On rather good authority the writer learns that George V. Blake will be the third man. The three commissioners are due to have a session prior to weighing-in time and to officially settle the referee question.

There are two other ten-round bouts—one before and the other after the main go. In the first bout Jackie Fields meets Joey Silver and in the ring down shindy Vic Dundee, Joe's brother, is scheduled to trade socks with Eddie Mahoney.

Both fighters must make 147 pounds. Dundee is under that figure by three pounds. Hudkins may find the weight his stumbling block. He has been down to 147 for two weeks and the drying-out process has left him peaked.

From an early top-heavy favorite the Hudkins money is now scarce at even-stephen. Dundee's early appearances here failed to impress the local customers. Since he moved into downtown quarters where the wise railbirds could get a good closeup of his prowess, Dundee has rapidly gained supporters.

Dundee may be beaten and the title may go to Hudkins, but it is very doubtful if Ace can score a knockdown where others have failed. Hudkins' hope is to wear down Dundee with his flying fists and to set such a stiff pace that Dundee cannot keep up with it. That's the usual Hudkins style.

The Hudkins camp is confident. So much so that Hudkins has already told Donald to line up Mickey Walker for a championship shot with Walker's middleweight title in the balance. Dundee showed his confidence today when he told Waxman to rent a home for the winter and sign up for fights with Mushy Callahan and Bert Colima.

REDSKINS PLAY IN CISCO TODAY

Ludgate Packs Gang Away On Hurry-Up Call

Coach Herb Ludgate received a hurry-up call Wednesday morning from officials of Randolph junior college who told him a cross-up of schedules between the college and high school had caused conflicting dates for games this week-end in Cisco, so the Wichita Falls mentor gathered together his junior college Indians Wednesday noon and headed for Cisco to play the Randolph team Thursday afternoon.

Nineteen players started out on the trip in automobiles with the coach and team manager, Weldeman.

The Indians are in comparatively good shape and hope to give the Cisco club a stiff battle. The game is a non-conference affair.

Players making the trip are: Ewing, Enloe, Moore, Pritchard, Watson, Tarkenton, Scoggin, McConnell, Rundell, Hodges, Atkins, McKinney, Edmonson, Ray, Hutcheson, Reasoner, Boyd, Hobbs, Sammons.

'Crime Wave' On In Hunting Circles

AUSTIN, Nov. 2.(AP)—A "crime wave" either is on in the game shooting phase of Texas life or the wardens are getting busier, a report of the state game, fish and oyster commission indicated today.

Three hundred and seventy-one convictions were obtained in game law violations and $3,957 collected as the department's share of the fines during October, setting the highest record in the department's history, Commissioner W. J. Tucker said.

Mack Releases Georgia Peach

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2. (AP)—Ty Cobb will not be with the Philadelphia Athletics next year. This was announced Wednesday after an hour's conference between the famous ball player and Connie Mack, manager of the local Americans.

Cobb did not announce his retirement, but told Mack that he thought he might.

Mack announced that the Athletic management could not see its way clear to re-engage the great American leaguer for next year.

"We like Cobb, we like his playing and we would like to have him next year," said Mack.

"We regret that this is not a Sunday baseball town which would give us greater revenue and permit us to retain such a player as Cobb."

Jack Slattery Pilots Braves

BOSTON, Nov. 2. (AP)—John T. "Jack" Slattery, Boston college baseball coach, Braves scout, and former Harvard baseball coach, has been appointed manager of the Boston Braves succeeding Dave Bancroft, resigned, president Emil E. Fuchs of the Braves announced tonight.

Slattery's contract is for one year, and no salary was mentioned in the announcement of his appointment.

Slattery who began as a catcher for the Red Sox in 1902, is now under contract to Boston college as baseball coach there. He is expected, however, to give his full time to the Braves, in whose harness he has worked for the last five years as scout, while holding coaching berths at Harvard and Boston college. He is 45 years old.

Dave Bancroft, for four years manager of the Braves, was unconditionally released to Brooklyn on October 14. Details of the transactions were somewhat hazy at the time, but Judge Fuchs intimated that there was no cash involved in the transaction and that Bancroft's own desire to turn in his uniform with the Braves and transfer to a New York club prompted the change.

TEXAS BOASTS EDGE IN LINE

But Baylor Forwards Are Just As Heavy

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Nov. 2.—Though about evenly matched in weight the Baylor line will hardly be the equal of the Longhorn forward wall when the two teams clash in Austin Saturday. A comparison of the two lines that will likely start the game follows:

Wt.	Texas:	Pos.	Wt.	Baylor
175	Ford	Left End.	175	Bullock
172	Brown	Left Tackle.	182	Weed (c)
185	Tigner	Left Guard.	170	Burch
165	McCullough	Center.	161	Smith
175	Phillips	Right Guard.	180	Taylor
195	Higgins (c)	Right Tackle.	207	Riley
184	Wray	Right End.	176	Griffin

The Baylor line will lack in experience what the Longhorn have gained through a year's play together. But at that Jim Crow has a bunch of husky Bears in that front line that the Texas forwards may find hard to move.

The stars of the Baylor line, judging from their performances this season are Griffin, end; Taylor, guard, and Riley, tackle. Jim Smith the midget center have likewise been having a great season. He seems to be filling the shoes of the mighty Bear Walker nicely.

McCullough the Texas center who is a Tyson - trained football player, should be better than a match for Walker. Both are light, but McCullough has had more experience and has shown up better all season.

At guards, the Longhorns will be weakened by the loss of Ike Sewell who will be out of the game again with a leg injury. Tigner and Phillips will be in there. Both are veterans from last year's team. They will be pitted against Taylor and Burch, two huskies that will likely show them a very, very busy afternoon.

The Baylor tackles are hardly matches for the mighty Captain Higgins and Gordy Brown of the Texas team. Captain Weed and Riley are powerful tackles and will put up a great scrap.

Griffin of Baylor and Ford of Texas are the class of the end that will play Saturday. Griffin is characterized by Texas scouts as one of the sweetest players in the conference this year. Ford is also a grat fighter and an excellent pass receiver. Bullock will be on the other Baylor wing, while Wray will defend Texas' other end.

Charley Hosses In Zundy Camp

But Golden's Men Will Be Ready Friday

Zundelowitz high school may present a sort of battered array to Fairview gridders Friday afternoon at Wilson field, but Coach Roy Golden believes all his men will be ready to perform.

Four of the athletes have come up with charley horses, result of scrimmage this week. They are Frank Hicks, Gordon Barrett, W. T. Saye and Harlan Ray. The rest of the squad appears to be in pretty good condition.

The game is to start at 3:30 o'clock. It will be a battle for blood. Zundy players are smarting under a defeat registered against them last week when Fairview copped by a one-point margin.

Barnard Prexies American League

Bill Harridge To Serve As Circuit's Secretary

By FRED VAN DEVENDER
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—E. S. Barnard of Cleveland, was elected president of the American Baseball league at a meeting of the owners and directors here today. His election was unanimous. He succeeds Ban Johnson, who resigned his office Nov. 1.

The election of Mr. Barnard, who was the salaried president of the Cleveland club of the league, had been forecast since the announcement of Mr. Johnson's resignation.

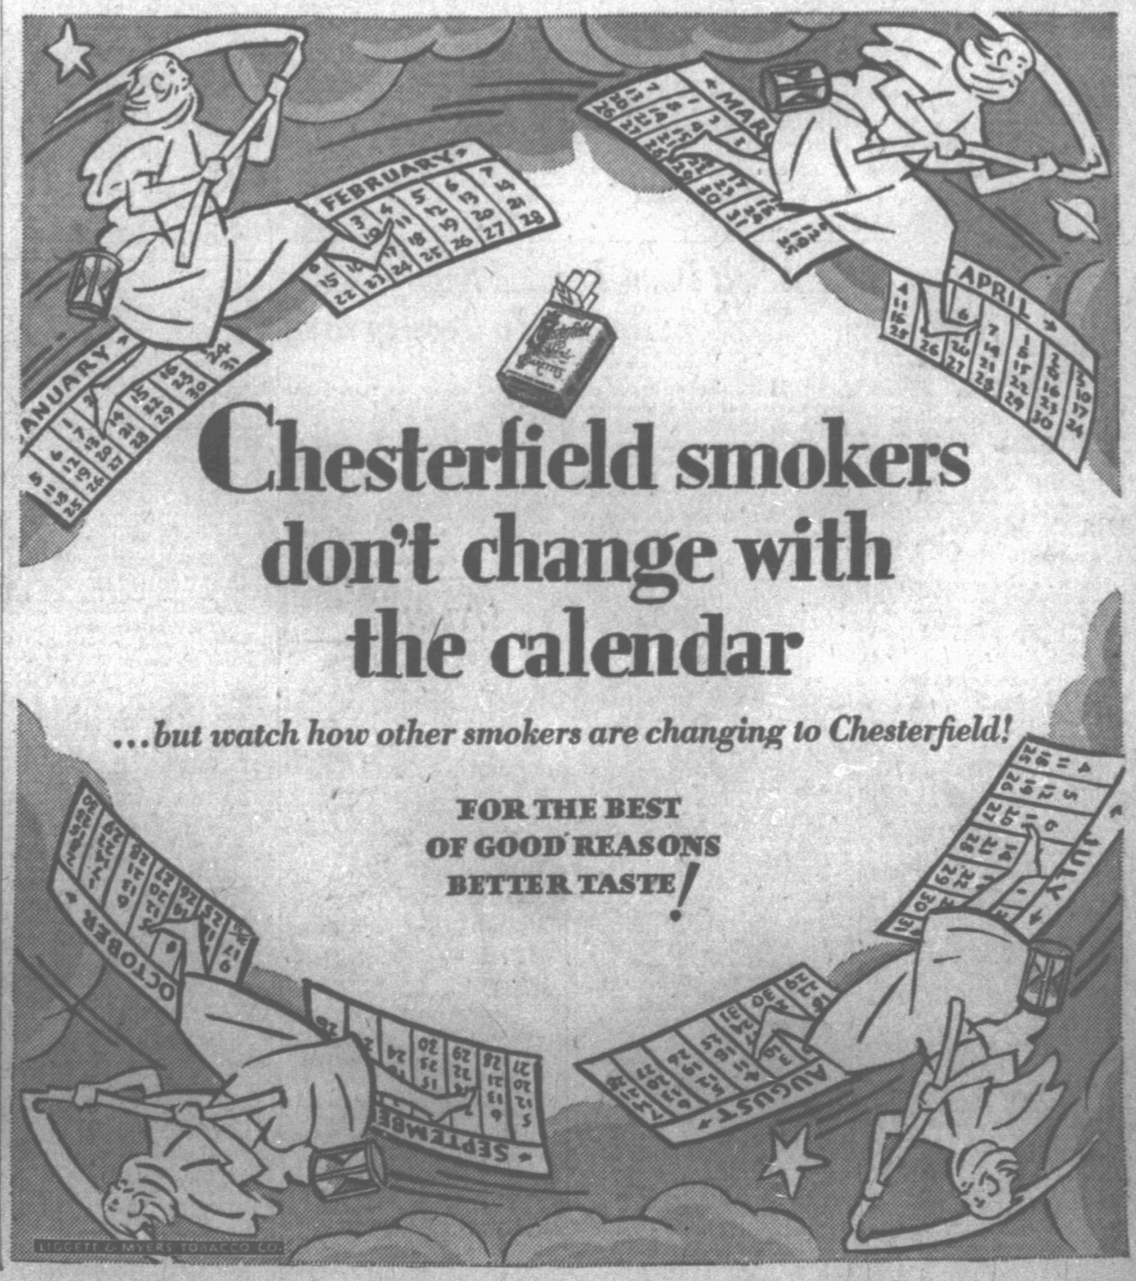

Despite the general belief, however, that he would be elected, reports persisted that some man of national prominence would be named. Mayor Walker of New York was mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Barnard was elected for a three-year term, and William Harridge, who was the personal secretary of Mr. Johnson, was elected secretary of the league. Mr. Barnard, it is understood will resign immediately as president of the Cleveland club.

The election of the new president brings to an end the turbulent affairs of the league of the past few months, which were brought about through the battles between Johnson and Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner.

It is believed that Mr. Landis forced the resignation of Mr. Johnson, who also was reputed to be in ill favor with many owners of American league clubs.

PHILLIPS PETROLEUM CO. BUYS ALAMO REFINERY IN HUTCHINSON

Hamilton and Adair To Ask State To File Land Claims Immediately

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 2.—Officials of the oil and gas bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will take immediate steps to have the state of Texas file all claims on lands in West Texas at once instead of waiting until some oil operator discovers oil and then file the claim, according to R. W. Haynie of Abilene, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The oil and gas bureau was recently organized upon authorization of the general meeting of the body held during May in Wichita Falls. W. B. Hamilton and H. J. Adair, both of Wichita Falls, are chairman and secretary of the bureau, respectively.

At the first meeting of the bureau, of which several prominent West Texas oil operators are members, composing the board of directors, the question of the state filing claims to land after oil had been discovered was one of the first taken up for discussion.

Producers Lose.

It was stated at the bureau meeting that in several instances leases on land had been obtained from persons claiming to own the property and that after oil had been discovered the state stepped in and claimed an interest in the oil production on the assumption that it was state land.

"It seems to me," Haynie said, 'that it would be equitable on the part of the state to announce its claims to the land before oil operations were started. If such was the case the operator would 'know where he stood' before he spent any money for drilling."

To Go to Austin.

Both Hamilton and Adair are expected to go to Austin in the near future to endeavor to have the state file all of its claims immediately.

Homer D. Wade, general manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, has already paved the way for the work expected to be done by Hamilton and Adair. During the past several months he has presented the oil operators' s"ide of the question" to various state oficials in Austin and his endeavors have met with success in that the oficials lent an attentive ear to his arguments.

H. J. Adair, manager of the oil and gas bureau of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, said Wednesday night that it had not bene decided when he and W. B. Hamilton, chairman of theb ureau, would go to Austin to ask state officials to file claims on lands in West Texas.

Mr. Hamilton is out of the city and the matter will be discussed when he returns, said Mr. Adair.

Injunction Halts Sale of Royalties

FORT WORTH, Nov. 2. (AP)—Injunction was granted today in district court enjoining L. F. Reardon, F. M. Stone and M. Meadows from selling stock or offering for sale stock in the Yates Ranch Royalties and Yates Ranch and Royalty company. The order also prohibits Reardon and his associates "from converting to their own use and benefit any moneys received from sale of stock."

The petition filed in the name of the state of Texas, recites that assets of the company are about $500 and liabilities $10,000, that Reardon is claiming 59,998 shares of stock in the company not paid for in money or its equivalent and that such stock should be cancelled. Reardon is asked to account for all money received in stock promotion.

The petition further charges that Reardon acquired the stock by transfer of a lease which he valued at $100,000 but which is actually worth not over $10,000. Stock is being sold in Texas without permit and $15,000 has been converted by promoters, the petition states.

Pawhuska Field Has 5000 Barrel Well

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Nov. 2.—Osage county's new gusher well in the Shidler area of the Burbank field, western Osage, continues to keep oil people and others in Oklahoma's largest county excited.

A. G. Oliphant and others No. 13, in the northeast corner of 20-27-6, which found the Bartlesville sand from 2900 to 2902 feet, for 100 an hour and kep increasing to 175 barrels an hour, was estimated as doing close to 5000 barrels a day, field reports said. P. E. Voyles of Pawhuska is an associate of Mr. Phillips.

In addition to the oil, the well is making 12,000,000 feet of gas and the Phillips Petroleum company is laying a half mile line of eight inch diameter to run the gas to its nearest gasoline plant.

UPTON TO GET POTASH TEST

Fifth Well To Drill Near McCamey

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The next potash test in Texas will probably be drilled in the McCamey field of Upton county, which is in the same general area of western Texas in which wells Nos. 4 and 5 are located, it was announced by the bureau of mines, department of commerce.

It is probable that three test wells, in addition to No. 5, now drilling, will be drilled during the present fiscal year. The coares obtained as a result of the drilling operations are turned over to the United States geological survey for study and analysis.

The contract for drilling potash well No. 5, in the course of the federal government's effort to develop domestic potash supplies, has been awarded by the bureau of mines to the Pennsylvania Drilling company, Pittsburgh, Pa., this company having submitted the lowest of the four bids received. The location of well No. 5 is in the northwest quarter of section 16, of the G. C. and S. F. survey, on Harris Brothers' ranch, Crockett county, Texas. It is expected that drilling will be started immediately. Drilling will be done with cable tools to the top of the potash-bearing salts,a depth of approximately 1190 feet. After the salts are encountered, the diamond drill will be employed. The well will be sunk to a total depth of about 2000 feet.

Potash well No. 4, near Metz Siding, Ector county, Texas, which was started on July 26, was completed September 30, having been drilled to a depth of 2098 feet. This well was drilled with a cable string to the top of the salts, 930 feet down. After the salt deposits were reached, core drilling was resorted to for the remaining footage of 1169 feet, 9 inches. The core obtained was 1169 feet, 9 inches in length, representing 100 per cent core recovery. Well No. 4 was the first of the government potash test wells in which all core drilling was done with diamond-pointed bits. In previously drilled wells, much of the coreing was done with bits pointed with alloy steel.

Oil Activity Unabated In Jack County Area

Berryman survey, abstract 40, and are now drilling at 195 feet. The Cox-Wilkers No. 1, B. Billington survey, abstract 2230, is drilling at 300 feet. Creighton and Shadbolt-Zuber No. 1, T. Kenney survey, abstract 329, is drilling at 765 feet. Hicks and McNabb-J. E. Moore No. 1, Wm. Berryman survey, abstract 40, drilling at 330 feet. Madden and Hunt-Sloan No. 4, Jas. W. Williams survey, abstract 887, is drilling at 560 feet. Smith and Adams-Thomas No. 1, J. S. Porter survey, abstract 466, drilling at 430 feet. Clay Wilson-H. L. Green No. 1, Edward Wray survey, abstract 882, is drilling at 542 feet.

The Kesslar and Logan-Clarihew No. 1, block 30 of the Mitchell Putnam survey, abstract 465, will no doubt be completed within the next few days as a dry hole, as they are now drilling at 900 feet and the contract depth is 1000 feet. The usual producing sand found in the area at 782 feet failed to produce in this well. Mitchell and Spoonts-McCasdlin No. 1, N. Ware survey, abstract 887, has been abandoned as a dry hole at a depth or around 700 feet, and they are now moving rig material on the Lester Carter tract southeast of the Strang-Millett shallow pool where they plant to drill several wells.

New Salt Dome Located Near Houston; Humble To Develop Area

HOUSTON, Nov. 2. (AP)—A new salt dome has been discovered within 20 miles of Houston, known as the Cockburn dome, it was announced here Wednesday. Location is approximately five miles south of Sugarland in Fort Bend county.

The North American Exploration company, inc., with offices here, surveying a block of leases with the torsional balance for H. C. Cockburn, announces that it has positively identified the area as a salt dome. This fact was later checked and verified by the Humble Oil and Refining company by aid of seismograph tests. Cockburn controls about 90 per cent of the area on and around the dome. The Humble company practically controls the balance. The latter company has executed a five-year drilling contract with Cockburn to test the new dome for oil.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. (AP)—The cotton market was firmer today, active months selling about $2.75 a bale above yesterday's closing quotations on covering and rather a better trade and speculative demand, inspired by reports of frosts in the southwest and a firm southern spot situation. January contracts sold up to 20.97 or 55 points net higher and closed at 20.92, the general market closing steady, at net advances of 27 to 52 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 15 to 21 points, active months soon showing net gains of 27 to 30 points on a renewal of yesterday's late buying movement, apparently timulated by low temperatures in the southwest and relatively steady Liverpool cables.

A bullish interpretation of the weekly report of the weather bureau on the ground that it indicated a large proportion of the crop had been picked, probably contributed to this advance. The higher prices met considerable realizing and a little southern selling, however, and there were reactions of 15 or 18 points from the best during mid-day. Selling failed to become as active or aggressive as on most of the recent setbacks, and after easing off from 20.84 to 20.69 for March, or within 7 points of yesterday's closing quotation, the market firmed up on renewed covering. Trade and commission house buying also was reported on the late advance which extended to 20.90 for December and 21.10 for March, or 52 to 55 points net higher. The close was a few points off from the best under realizing.

A private report placing the crop at 12,298,000 bales, compared with an estimate of 12,158,000 bales a month ago, appeared to be without any market influence on the market, but an opinion was rather more frequently expressed that next week's government report was not likely to show an increase as compared with the October 1 indication. A private report published early said there was a deterioration of about 2.8 per cent in the condition of the crop during September and 85 per cent of the crop has been picked, compared with 64 per cent last year.

Exports today 21,756, making 2,246,412 so far this season. Port receipts 64,390. U. S. port stocks 2,296,228.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2. (AP)—After easing off from an early advance the cotton market turned firm in the afternoon trading today and advanced over $3 a bale compared with Monday's close. December contracts sold up to 21.10 and closed at 21.08, 71 points net up. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 62 to 71 points.

The market opened steady. First trades showed gains of 22 to 36 points due to higher Liverpool cables. The market continued upward in the early trading in sympathy with the advance in New York yesterday when the local market was closed. Secretary Jardine's statement yesterday that his department's carryover figures were not official, helped the buying movement, January trading to 20.89 and March 20.99, 42 to 44 points net up.

Later in the morning prices eased off 19 to 20 points on lack of sustaining influence and more or less realizing. Near noon, however, the market rallied on a private production estimate of only 12,298,000 bales and continued on the upgrade for the remainder of the session. The highs of the day were reached in the final trading when January traded to 21.15 and March 21.11, 65 to 70 points above Monday's close. The close was at or near the highest, with near months showing the maximum gain.

Exports for the day totaled 21,256 bales.

Closing Rally in Stocks Leaves Wall Street Operators Cheerful Wednesday With Industrials Higher

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Brokers and traders left Wall Street today feeling better than at any time in a fortnight as a result of the closing rally in stocks. Individual stocks featured the first four hours of trading while the general list backed and filled in a narrow range until in the last hour the standard industrials broke from their lethargy and pulled others higher.

Radio in a move to a new high record featured the session, while gains of 2 to 4 or more points were quite frequent in both the gas and tobacco stocks. Sudden increase in demand for General Motors and steel in the late trading quickly spread through the list so that final prices were near the best. Short covering played a big part in the rally and was due in some part to expectation of a report of another reduction in loans.

Commodities were strong with cotton scoring fairly good gains on covering. Foreign exchange was quiet with most currencies slightly lower. Call money was in good supply at 3 1-2 per cent.

General Motors was displaced as the most active stock for the first time in weeks as radio forged ahead. Professional bears have taken a terrible licking as a result of fighting the move which was forecast here when the stock was in the 50's. Those who have been caught heavily short were under the impression that it was a one man operation. There is no one man could do what has been done and it is known that some of the strongest interests in the street have been active. Bullishness on radio is not based so much on current betterment as on the long distance outlook. Those interested were as bullish as ever in their talk after the close.

Expectation voiced so widely on the floor that the loan report tomorrow afternoon would show another big reduction was not borne out by statements of partners in some wire houses. Little change is looked for by these big borrowers. However, unless an increase is recorded, the loan report this week would probably not prove much of a factor, due to the change in sentiment in some speculative circles.

With Brooklyn Union Gas, Consolidated Gas and the other gas stocks advancing steadily it was natural that talk of the Mello ninterests seeking control should be revived. However, the most powerful of local utility interests refuse to be disturbed by such rumors. They have plans for extending operations of the properties to provide for growth and shift in population which they believe warrant the confidence of stockholders. Consolidated Gas eventually will go on a high dividend basis while the demonstrated earning power of the other companies promises ultimate benefit to stockholders, they point out.

Arthur Cutten evidently has turned bullish for the immediate future at least. This was evidenced by the change in advice of brokers who have been bearish for many weeks. They believe selling has been overdone temporarily. In other words, they expect a better market for a fortnight or so. They handle orders in such cutten favorites as Montgomery Ward, Missouri Pacific, Harvester, etc.

FROST REPORTS BOOM COTTON

Market Climbs 50 Points Here Wednesday

Active buying in the New York markets and talk of frost in the southwest cotton belt is held partly responsible for the continued advance in prices paid for the staple Wednesday, the market closing 50 points higher than the close of Tuesday.

As a result, better grades of cotton again sold for 20 cents and better in Wichita Falls, the prices paid for local buyers ranging from 1½6 to 20⅛ cents, on a middling basis.

Receipts continued low with Wichita Falls cotton yards reporting only 50 bales received.

There was no change in the cotton seed market. Local gains paid $36 a ton for prime seed Wednesday.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2. (AP)—The cotton seed oil market continued quiet today but the undertone was firmer, closing 10 to 20 points net higher. The higher range of prices reflected covering by recent sellers and fresh commission house buying stimulated by the advance in cotton and the firmness of lard. Sales 12,800 barrels. Prime crude 9.12½; prime summer yellow spot 10.75; December closed 10.80; January 10.90; March 11.09; May 11.25.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Nov. 2. (AP)—Trading in wool is rather slow. A moderate inquiry is being received for graded fine and quarter blood territory, with a few houses reporting a fair amount of business. Prices remain very firm, although the competition for wool is not very keen.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2. (AP)—Commission house demand tightened the wheat market at the last today after prices had given way grudgingly in the earlier dealings. Spreading operations between Chicago and northwestern centers appeared to be largely responsible for the day's swings in price. A notice from the grain futures administration of the department of agriculture ordering a resumption of daily reports of individual open accounts of 500,000 bushels or more in wheat, corn and oats and of 200,000 bushels or more in rye attracted considerable attention, but seemingly had little if any immediate influence on values.

Closing quotations on wheat were steady at a shade net lower to ⅛c advance, with corn ⅜@½c to ⅝c down, oats unchanged to ⅛c up, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of 23c.

Although firm early owing to somewhat unsettled weather, corn later showed a heavy undertone, one reason being that th emovement of new corn is expected to increase steadily. Oats prices held firm despite the weakness of corn. Primary receipts of oats today were a good deal less than half the amount a year ago.

For the most part, provisions were responsive to an upturn in hog values.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 2. (AP)—Cash wheat was unchanged at the close Wednesday on the Fort Worth grain market with exporters continuing to bid $1.33 to $1.34, basis No. 1 hard delivered Texas gulf ports. Corn and oats held Tusday's levels but milo wa selling two cents lower due to heavy receipts. Demand was reported dull for all grain except the export wheat and prices on that did not invite sales.

Wheat, corn and oats unchanged.

Snapped corn 70@75c; No. 2 barley 87@89c; No. 3 barley 85@87c; No. 2 milo $1.25@130; No. 3 milo $1.20@1.25; No. 2 kaffir $1.27@1.32; No. 3 kaffir $1.22@1.27. Rest unchanged.

ROTARIANS TO VISIT ELECTRA

Banquet and Program At Country Club

The Electra Rotary club will be hosts to the Wichita Falls Rotary club Friday night at the Electra Country club, according to a letter received Wednesday from C. P. Engelking, president of the Electra club.

It is the first time the Electra club has invited another club to visit there enmasse and the meeting is to be purely a social affair, said Mr. Engleking.

All Rotarians are expected to bring a Rotary Ann, he said. The program is to be unique in that it does not include any speeches but fun and hilarity altogether. A turkey dinner will be served.

LEGION PLANS PROGRAM HERE

Banquet and Dance For Night Celebration

Preparations to entertain 200 or more former service men and their wives and daughters at a banquet and dance to be given in the ball room of the Kemp hotel on Armistice night, Nov. 11, were begun by the local post of the American Legion at a meeting at the Texan hotel Wednesday night.

A tentative program for the memorial services to be held at the Olympic theater at 11 o'clock Armistice morning was also drawn up. The general public will be invited to attend the memorial program; the banquet and dance will be open only to legion members, all other men who saw service during the World war and their families.

"There will be no long-winded speeches made at the banquet," Post Commander Walter H. Caldwell said. "This is a feature that will appeal to all former service men, it is believed.

The post voted Wednesday night to ask the entertainers appearing on the vaudeville program at the Majestic theater on Armistice day to present an act at the banquet.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd will lead the former service men in singing some of the songs that were popular in 1917-18.

George Taylor will sing a solo.

These features will be interspersed with the banquet courses. At the conclusion of the dinner the ball will be cleared for the dance.

The following program for the memorial service in the morning was tentatively arranged:

Invocation by Rabbi Schwab.
Address by Dr. Floyd Allan Bash.
Vocal selections by a women's quartet to be selected.
Piano solo by J. S. Pitman
Benediction by Dr. O. L. Powers.

Jurors Award Dog To Farmer

Concluding half a days' judicial proceedings before Justice R. V. Gwinn that resembled in tensity and excitement the trial of a man for murder, but which really was about whether one man owned a dog or not, attorneys for Bud McCallum, coach of the high school football team, announced they would appeal from the jury's decision that a German police dog, Big Jack, was legally the property of Ed Maag, Archer county farmer.

Facts in the case set out that Maag had bought a police dog from a Missouri kennel about two months ago, and had kept him only a short while before he disappeared. On a trip to Wichita Falls about Oct. 6, the plaintiff set out in his testimony that he saw a dog in the possession of McCallum that he recognized by a scar over the left eye.

McCallum, it developed, had been given custody over the dog by Dick Long, member of the high school football squad, who told McCullum he could keep it until the end of the season as a mascot for the football team. The dog had been given Long, it was said.

Brought finally into court, a jury held the canine belonged to Maag.

The announcement of the verdict by the jury, like the stories related of famous trials, was received by Maag with tears of joy. He proclaimed loudly his ownership of "his pet," and met all the witnesses who had testified in his behalf with many "God bless you's."

Jno. Hooser Brings In Another Producer

RANGER, Texas, Nov. 2.—The No. 4 Fox of the John Hooser interests in the north extension of the Parsons shallow pool, just south of the town of Olden has been drilled in with a showing estimated by scouts at 100 barrels daily. The well has a total of nine feet of sand which was topped at 1609 feet. Preparations are being made to put the well on the pump now.

The Gulf Production company's 5-A Persons, a diagonal offset to the southwest of the No. 2 Fox of John Hooser is nearing the pay level and should be drilled in within the next day or two. Top of the pay sand is expected in this well at between 1609 and 1616 feet. The offset well on the Fox had an initial output of 100 barrels and the Gulf well is expected to be equally as good.

The Hooser interests have made the location for two more wells on the Fox. They are the Nos. 5 and 6, one being located an offset to the north of No. 2 Fox and the other the same distance north of the No. 4 Fox.

"Cruelty" Takes Many Forms, Divorces Show

Eleven matrimonial ships went on the rocks Wednesday and appeals to the district courts to salvage the wreckage were made. The cases are more than have been filed in a single day for many months according to Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk. A majority of the petitions alleged cruel treatment. The cruelty alleged ranged from making a wife work to beating her up and on the other side of making hubby darn his own socks and get his own meals.

Tax Payments Show Heavy Increase Over 1926

Total collections for the month amounted to $12,085.52. Delinquent property owners paid in $4,187.33 of this amount and the rest came from occupation, poll and other taxes.

Opera Guarantors Name Committees For Work of Presenting Program Here

Formation of the Wichita Falls Grand Opera organization which will sponsor the appearance of the Chicago Opera company here Feb. 29-March 1, was perfected at a meeting of the 60 guarantors Wednesday when committees which will handle preliminary plans were announced by Harry Hines, permanent general chairman of the executive committee.

Mary Garden, considered by many musical and dramatic critics as the greatest singing actress in the operatic firmament, will sing the lead in "Resurrection," opera to be presented on the opening night.

Rosa Raisa, Italian soprano, will be featured the second night when "Aida" is presented. Mme. Raisa will have the support of her husband, Giocoma Rimini, celebrated Italian baritone, in this presentation. Other famous artists who will sing the two operas will include Cyrena Van Gordon, noted contralto, Virgilio Lazarri, bass, Forest Lamont, tenor, Carolina Lazarri and other internationally famed artists.

The business men who signed the guarantee making possible the presentation of the opera here named the following permanent executive committee: Harry Hines, chairman; N. H. Martin, J. T. Harrell, Horace Robbins, W. M. Bonner, T. B. Noble Jr., Henry Ford, John F. O'Donohoe, Arthur Raynor, Jack Barnard, Mrs. Ben G. Oneal and J. Alvin Gardner.

The following were named members of the finance committee: J. T. Harrell, chairman, C. E. McCutchen, W. M. McGregor and Walter Cline. The chairman of this committee will be treasurer of the organization and will receive all funds derived from ticket sales.

Ticket Sales

Horace Robbins was named chairman of the ticket sales committee, with other members including T. B. Noble Jr., J. Alvin Gardner, W. T. Knight, J. W. Chatham and Guy Airey. When the tickets are printed a down town place will be designated where tickets may be purchased. At least one week before the opening night of the opera the box office at the auditorium will be kept open from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. each day for the sale of tickets.

A publicity and advertising committee was named, consisting of Henry Ford, chairman, Jack Barnard, B. D. Donnell, Don M. Bernard, Miss Marjorie Watson and W. S. Abbott. This committee will be in charge of all publicity.

The clubs, schools and civic organizations committee is composed of N. H. Martin, W. M. Bonner, R. E. Shepherd, Ivan Murchison, Gene Segall, J. C. Mytinger and Mrs. M. M. Addickes. It will be the duty of this committee to carry the grand opera idea to the clubs of Wichita Falls and surrounding towns.

On the social and women's clubs committee was named Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, chairman, Mrs. O. E. Nichols, Mrs. Fred Barron, Mrs. D. G. Whitney, Mrs. Jouette Bonner and Mrs. Alva Willgus. Their duties will be similar to that of the foregoing committee, except they will work with the women's social and civic clubs.

Educational Work

To work under the supervision of the last named committee and of the executive committee, Mrs. Lulu Richardson Dean was chosen. She will visit the towns from Lawton, Okla., to Abilene and Breckenridge and east and west of Wichita Falls on the Denver railroad, presenting operalogues consisting of a short history of the composer, the story of the opera, themes and arias from the operas and interesting stories about the artists. Mrs. Dean was chosen for this work because of her thorough schooling in music in America and Europe. She has had considerable operatic publicity experience at San Antonio and elsewhere.

The hotel reservations committee consists of Arthur Rayzor, chairman, Joe Huckins III, Lawrence Shields, George M. Holt and A. W. McCoy.

John F. O'Donohoe was named chairman of the housing committee, with Bill Ward, Gene Liepold, Ed Peterson and J. E. Gill.

Merchants Urged To Enter Floats At Burk

An appeal to Wichita Falls merchants to enter decorated floats and automobiles in the parade to be held at Burkburnett Saturday morning in connection with the formal opening of the free bridge across the Red river was made by the chamber of commerce parade committee Wednesday.

"Wholesale houses, particularly, are urged to enter decorated cars in the parade," according to J. T. Gant, member of the committee. "Wichita Falls should have several entries in this parade, but the merchants have been slow to announce their intentions of entering floats."

The committee also called upon as many Wichita Falls citizens as possible to attend the celebration at Burkburnett.

MAJESTIC: Five Acts Interstate vaudeville; "The Whirlwind of Youth," with Lois Moran, comedy and Paramount News.
OLYMPIC: "Dog of the Regiment," with Rin Tin Tin, comedy and Pathe News.
MISSION: "Hearts and Spangles," comedy, and Al Russell's Baby Vampires on the stage in musical comedy.
GARDEN: Lon Chaney in "Mr. Wu," and comedy.
GEM: Clara Bow in "Rough House Rosie," western picture and comedy.
STRAND: "The Cat and the Canary," with Laura LaPlante; and comedy.

Popularity needs no introduction. And the A. and P. Gypsies are well-known to everyone. Their appearance on the Majestic vaudeville program Thursday and Friday will undoubtedly be warmly welcomed by each and every one and radio fans will especially show their appreciation for it is over the radio that the Gypsies have won most of their fame. They are also renowned Brunswick recording artists and their music is known for its temperament, fire and genuine gypsy character. The musicians appear in native costume and present an unusually pleasing picture.

Ward and Dooley and "The Typical American Boy" will prove their ability and talent in a smart act. They are in real life parents and son for little Jay Ward is a living endorsement of the theory of heredity and environment influence. He was brought up on the stage, practically, and was selected by the American Legion at the legion convention in Paris as their moscot. Aside from these honors he is recognized as the cleverest and youngest juvenile on the American stage. In spite of his meager five years he has the poise and stage presence of a veteran trouper and handles his line to perfection. Ward and Dooley themselves in "I Can Do That Too," are a most versatile couple in their singing, dancing, bicycling and lariat throwing act.

The Melroy sisters are pretty and chic and clever, it is said, and their songs and steps are delightful and the flying Hartwells offer a sensation in gymnastics and athletics. This is their first American tour and the receptions accorded them are even warmer than the foreign applause they received. Roy Cummings and Irene Shaw present "One Afternoon" and both are possessors of charm, cleverness and personality plus.

Lois Moran in "The Whirlwind of Youth," is the screen attraction.

Rin-Tin-Tin in "A Dog of the Regiment," has the most thrilling picture of his spectacular career. There have been 12 other Warner pictures before this, beginning with "Where the North Begins," and now "A Dog of the Regiment," showing at the Olympic which reproduces much of Rinty's own life in the devastated region of France, where he was born. He is shown as the devoted pal of an American ace, known by Rinty before the World war. Rinty is a Red Cross aid in the Germany army, but, being a dog, he sees no reason for hatred, and rescues his friend from a burning plane and performs other heroic deeds, which are almost beyond belief. Rinty flies in "A Dog of the Regiment" in the most approved Lindy fashion and sets the crowd shouting, whistling and stamping. The human members of the cast, Tom Gallery as the American aviator, Dorothy Gulliver as the Red Cross nurse and John Peters as the villain are great. But after all it's Rinty!

BEWARE OF COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

LIONS HEAR DR. KELLEMS

U. S. - British Friendship Basis of Peace

Dr. Jesse Kellems, evangelist, world scholar and student of international affairs, disrupted current thought in relation to the combined policies of Egnland and America, characterized the actions of "Big Bill" Thompson, Chicago mayor, as "twisting the lion's tail," and declared that in the brotherhood of the stars and stripes and the union jack rests "the peace of the world," in his address Wednesday before the local Lions' club.

Basis of Peace

With the advent of Americans as world citizens, with their augmented interest in the economic affairs of the far east, "the problem of the future," he said, "is the problem of the Pacific." "If we meet this problem with the co-operation of the British, all is well; if not, all is wrong. The British, with their concentrated possessions, form an unbeatable combination," Dr. Kellems said.

The speaker pointed out the importance of crushing "propaganda," such as that forthcoming from the Chicago mayor, and urged that citizens of the two nations on that common ground created by "those factors in which we are alike," declaring that "we must face the future united."

Dr. Kellems was introduced by Dr. R. B. Wolford, who urged the membership to attend the revival services being conducted by the speaker at the First Christian church.

The club by unanimous vote agreed to send a telegram to the Methodist conference, now in session at Dallas, requesting that the bishop return Dr. S. A. Barnes, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist hurch, to Wichita Falls for another year.

Tom Sorey, chairman of a committee to draft a plan for a municipal zoo, explained the project to the club, using a drawing to illustrate the features of the project. That the plan may be brought to the immediate attention of city officials, a committee consisting of Mr. Sorey, Dr. William P. Bolding, and Judge H. J. Bruce was appointed to broach the plan to the city.

Dinner Friday

Entertainment was furnished by W. L. Underwood, cornetist, who played "O Dry Those Tears," accompanied on the piano by J. S. Pitman; and Mrs. Ransom, sister of Mrs. R. H. Graham, of Pittsburgh, Pa., gave two vocal selections.

The club adjourned Wednesday until Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock, when the membership will gather at the Wichita club for a dinner, to be followed by a business meeting during which plans for the coming state convention are to be formulated, it was announced.

The Rev. Alvin S. White, new pastor of the Grace Methodist church, was introduced to the club. He spoke briefly.

Bert King made a brief report of the recent trip to Fort Worth where 27 local Optimists visited the Fort Worth club.

Vocal music for the meeting was furnished by an impromptu octette, led by Joel MacGregor. Other members of the octette were Mr. Richards, D. O. Alberts, Archie Smith, J. Will Gray, Guy E. Curtis, H. W. Gray, B. D. Sartin and Bob Ford.

Announcement was made that there will be no luncheon next week, but that the annual "Uncle and Nephew" banquet will be held at the Womans Forum Wednesday night, with the program in charge of J. Dell Bright. Each Optimist is expected to bring a boy to this meeting.

Miss Nadine Nash read Robert W. Service's poem, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew."

Professor A. F. Edwards, head of the history department of the Junior college questioned his classes in history Wednesday morning about the information in The Record News editorials and on the front page. He stated that it is possible that we are now about to see things transpire that will in the future be given a prominent place in the histories and that if we only read the news items and the editorials of the leading daily papers we will be able to watch history in the making.

are paying for your home satisfactorily and saving some money besides then this institution has nothing but commendation and congratulation to extend you.

You certainly deserve it. If, however, you are living in a rented house, or are not able to meet large yearly notes on your home, or are not saving something above expenses each month, this institution can be of extreme service to you. It can fix your home payments so you can meet them easily and thus provide a surplus to save each month in our installment investment shares. So between the loan and the saving we can do you a lot of good. Let's talk this over.
