LBJ Calls for Faster System to Fight Reds

President Johnson, speaking at Baylor University commencement exercises, was grateful that a Dominican cease-fire had ended the threat of "wholesale bloodshed" sparked by "a well-trained, disciplined band of Communists."

The Chief Executive, speaking at Baylor University commencement exercises, was grateful that a Dominican cease-fire had ended the threat of "wholesale bloodshed" sparked by "a well-trained, disciplined band of Communists."

He emphasized, however, the need for a faster system to deal with new and similar threats to the peace and stability of other nations.

"It is clear that we need new international machinery geared to meet fast-moving events," he said in his address to a graduation audience assembled in the Hearsh of Texas Fairgrounds. "When hours can decide the fate of generations, the moment of decision must become the moment of action."

Pledges Support
Pledging staunch United States support for the inter-American force now assigned to maintaining Dominican peace, Johnson announced issuance of orders today for removal of an additional 1,700 U.S. troops Saturday from the more than 22,000 armed forces personnel ashore at the peak of the Dominican crisis.

This brought to 3,300 the total withdrawals ordered this week as the inter-American force, commanded by Brazilian Gen. Hugo Penasco Alvim, was enlarged by contingents from other Latin nations.

The President said he had ordered the U.S. commander, Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, to discuss further withdrawals with Penasco.

Such action will be taken when the military commanders believe it is safe and warranted by the arrival of further Latin American forces and by the continued stabilization of the military situation," he said.

Johnson felt that from the bloody disruption of Dominican life the 20 American nations "must now forge a stronger shield against disaster."

Opportunity Present
The opportunity is here for a new thrust forward to show the world the way to true international cooperation in the cause of peace and in the struggle to win a better life for all," he said.

Before flying to Waco from Austin, Johnson visited the state Capitol building for the formal unveiling of a larger-than-life portrait of himself in the Senate chamber. He took the occasion to proclaim proudly that "both politically and economically our system is succeeding as never before."

He cited such economic statistics as the growth of individual savings and assets nationally to more than one trillion dollars, the highest in history.

"Divisions among us are diminishing," he said. "We are coming to be — as we were meant to be — one nation and one people, knowing no north, no south, no east, no west, no creed, no color, no class or caste."

House Thaws Deadlock, OKs 39-Member Senate

AUSTIN (UPI) — With the legislative deadline at midnight Monday drawing nearer, the House yesterday thawed a month-long deadlock and approved a proposal for a 39-member Senate designed to save incumbents from extinction by court-ordered reapportionment. The constitutional amendment would go to the people Sept. 7.

Sens. Louis Crump of San Saba and Jack Strong of Long view promptly unveiled some of their own—a map chopping Texas into 39 senatorial districts instead of the 31 the state has now. The plan gives big cities no more senators than they were entitled to under the 31-member bill which already has gone to the governor, Houston lawmakers roared in pain.

After approving the 39-member plan, the House voted to a constitutional amendment to give representatives four-year terms. That measure would go on the ballot Nov. 2, and it faced a tough House fight before clearing 108-37.

HemisFair '68, San Antonio's International Exposition, got a $4.5 million state appropriation in a bill that cleared the House 115-25 and headed across the rotunda for Senate agreement. The measure originally asked for $7.5 million, but the governor suggested earlier in the week that $4.5 million was enough.

Congressional redistricting moved to conference committee for talks that might kill the idea of adjournment Saturday. Sen. Abraham Kazen Jr. of Laredo and Rep. Wayne Connally of Floresville, the governor's youngest brother, both hungrily eye a congressional seat in South Texas, but one House conferee said the lower chamber will not agree to draw the district the way Kazen wants it.

House remapping won approval on voice vote in the Senate after Crump told his colleagues, "I don't know anything about this bill except what I heard. I heard it's unconstitutional."

The state's bulky criminal code revision was salvaged after both houses removed a section limiting what police and lawyers could tell newsmen about pending criminal cases. Minus the gag rule, which news media fought, the bill quickly headed for the governor's desk.

A measure to implement the governor's ambitious plan to overhaul state water development won final approval Thursday in the upper chamber and was sent up for signing. It was a constitutional amendment raising the limit on water development bonds from $200 million to $400 million.

Conferees also agreed on a plan to reorganize the Texas water commission as a commission empowered only to settle water rights disputes and another to create a water development board with the power to order water transferred from the state's moister sections to the dry areas.

'Copters Crash In Viet, 9 Die

SAIGON (UPI) — Nine Americans were killed today when two U.S. Army helicopters collided and crashed in flames at the Bien Hoa base 20 miles north of Saigon.

In combat near another air base a U.S. Marine was shot and killed.

The helicopter accident happened 12 days after 27 Americans died in the chain reaction bomb explosions on the flightline of the Bien Hoa base.

A U.S. military spokesman said eight of the 11 Americans aboard the two helicopters were killed instantly when the craft plunged to the ground from an altitude of about 100 feet at the southern end of the runway. The ninth man died while undergoing emergency surgery.

Two survivors were reported in serious condition.

The Marine was killed near Chu, site of a new air base being built by Navy Seabees 330 miles north of Saigon. Ten other Marines were wounded, two of them seriously, in the clash with the Communist guerrillas.

In the air war, U.S. and Vietnamese planes battered radar installations, ground and sea transportation, bridges, roads, military barracks and other targets in North Viet Nam today.

The Bien Hoa base, 20 miles north of Saigon, is on the fringes of Communist-controlled territory but there was no indication that today's collision involved any Viet Cong action.

On May 16 a Sunday—a series of thunderous explosions ripped the big base, killing 27 Americans and destroying 10 B-57 jet bombers worth $12 million each.

Poorly Set Fuse
The flightline blast was blamed on an improperly set fuse in a bomb which had been loaded aboard one of the supersonic planes just prior to a combat mission.

The hard luck installation was the target of a murderous Viet Cong mortar attack last Nov. 1. That assault killed five Americans and wounded 76 others. Five B-57s were destroyed.

Today's Leatherneck battle near Chu Lai involved troops of the 2nd Battalion, 4th Marines. A Marine spokesman said six guerrillas were killed. Another was wounded, and captured.

Most of the Marine casualties were victims of Communist hand grenades.

Scheduled June U.S. Space Flight Delayed

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — A planned attempt to rocket two U.S. astronauts on a record four-day flight to conduct America's first "walk in space" June 3 has been postponed, it was learned today.

In Washington, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) denied there had been a postponement. He said "we are having some very minor problems" but the shot is still on for June 3. He said the problems involved changing a piece of equipment and that it would be necessary to lift the spacecraft from its rocket to get it off. But he said "this is no great operation" and would not delay the launch.

The launching of rookie astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White may be delayed as much as one week to about June 10, informed sources said.

No reason was given immediately for the postponement. However, it was learned that technicians will have to remove the Gemini-4 space capsule from its perch atop a Titan-2 booster rocket to get at the problem.

Pilot McDivitt and co-pilot White are scheduled to fly 82 times around the globe in about 97½ hours. Early in the mission, White hopes to take a 12-minute "walk through space" as far as 25 feet from the safety of the capsule.

The voyage would set a U.S. record for manned spaceflight endurance.

The postponement was the first major problem to crop up in the smooth preparations for the Gemini-4 mission that have been underway practically since the Gemini-3 flight of astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young last March 23. Earlier, plans to shoot a "physics lab" satellite into orbit today were called off.

Dallas, Wichita Falls Hit By Multi-Million Hail

Thundershowers rolled over the Panhandle early this morning dumping over an inch of moisture at Briscoe and Mobeetie and only a trace in Pampa.

Fair and warmer weather is in prospect for the weekend with highs predicted in the upper 70s. Tonight's low is forecast in the low 50s.

Pampa's cooled off a little Thursday with a high of only 73. The overnight low dipped to 52.

Wichita Falls and the Dallas metropolitan area apparently bore the brunt of a multi-million dollar hail wind and rain barrage spawned out of a series of thundershowers which formed unexpectedly and slashed savagely across North Texas yesterday.

Hail damage alone may run as high as $2 million at Wichita Falls after three violent hailstorms within an hour tore at a wide residential strip across the south side of town, destroying roofs, smashing windows and wreaking havoc with trees and shrubs.

Winds clocked unofficially at 100 miles an hour accompanied torrents of rain and some scattered hail in the Dallas area and also around Lake Tawakoni south of Greenville. Minor flooding occurred at Dallas.

Drenching rains of more than three inches brought flash flooding at Tyler and many points between Dallas and Tyler reported much the same conditions as the storms, accompanied by brilliant electrical displays, raced eastward.

Wichita Falls Socked

The hailstorms at Wichita Falls were the most vicious, striking almost without warning around 4 p.m. there and around 6 p.m. in the Dallas area.

The storm first struck the southwest side of Wichita Falls and cut a wide swath through new residential sections before moving into open country at the southeast corner of town.

In the Fountain Park area, it was estimated 91 per cent of the homes suffered total roof damage by hail that generally was hen egg size, but ranged from pellets the size of marbles to a few which were almost as large as a softball.

Radio station KWFT news director Joe Tom White said he had preserved one of the monstrous stones in his freezing unit. He said he had to use a scoop to get the drifted hail away from the doors to his home, which lost its roof and all its windows.

Both Sides React Coolly To Peace Efforts of OAS Force

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — Both sides in the Dominican conflict reacted coolly today to the efforts of the Organization of American States to restore normal conditions in this divided city.

OAS Secretary General Jose A. Mora is trying to win support for the plan, which would give his organization temporary control of the Dominican "White House," Santo Domingo's principal radio station and other communications facilities, the city's banks and its power stations.

Reliable sources said U.S. and inter-American mediators have dropped their efforts to form a compromise government here for the time being and are concentrating on the effort to restore vital services in the city.

In Waco, Tex., President Johnson announced that 1,700 U.S. troops will be withdrawn Saturday from Santo Domingo, where they are no longer needed because of the growing strength of the inter-American peace force there. Six hundred U.S. Marines have left the city already.

Johnson said a new and much faster international system is needed to counter Communist attempts to seize power in Latin America.

Col. Francisco Caamano Deno's rebels were particularly violent in their rejection of the OAS plan. Rebel sources charged it would end rebel CIVIC CLUBS BANQUET — Shown here is part of the 400 service club members and wives at last night's All-Civic Club Coordination banquet in the high school field house. The affair was sponsored by the Pampa Key Club in an effort to have the city's service clubs work together on community-wide projects and eventually to organize a Council of Men's Clubs. In the center background of the photo is the speakers' table directly under the various civic club banners.

Plea Made for United Effort for a Better Pampa

Some 400 civic club members and their wives heard Pampa Key Club officers make a plea for united civic club action on community-wide projects at the high school club's first annual All-Civic Club Coordination banquet in the school field house last night.

Outgoing president Jim Shelhamer and incoming president George Snell told the dinner audience of the Key Club's hope to reach a goal of unified effort by "working together for a better Pampa."

Snell said the project, which actually came into being last night, had its inception nearly a year ago and had been the dream of the late Dr. Bob Seibert while he was Kiwanis Club sponsor of the Key Club.

Shelhamer explained the purpose of last night's banquet. He pointed out that there are many problems too big for individual service clubs to handle.

"They have to give up because of limited resources," he said. "The answer to that is found in the two words, 'working together'."

"There are 700 men who are members of Pampa civic clubs. Men organized and working together can accomplish much for our city. Let's all join together and work for a better Pampa."

Key Club officials hope eventually to have Pampa civic clubs form a Men's Council of Clubs similar to the Pampa Women's Council of Clubs. Last night's meeting was aimed at bringing joint action of the clubs in supporting the Hi-Plains Eye Bank, a project of the Lions Clubs. Joe Tooley, member of the Noon Lions Club, is president of the Eye Bank.

In attendance at the banquet were Orbie Hensley of Amarillo, secretary of the bank; Al Carr and C. R. Smith of Amarillo and Paul Preall of Morse, directors.

Principal speaker last night was Mrs. George Raymond of Conway who related her experience of going blind and later regaining her eyesight through a cornea operation.

Eye Bank president Tooley explained the method by which pledges may be made to the Eye Bank for donation of eyes upon death.

An outstanding entertainment program was given by Fred Lowery, nationally known recording artist. Lowery, billed as the "world's greatest whistler," (See PLEA, Page 3)

Pampans Prepare For Memorial Day Service

Thousands of Pampans joined with the rest of the nation today in preparation for Memorial Day weekend and the traditional kickoff for beach outings, backyard barbecues and shirt sleeve parades.

Pampa, along with cities and towns throughout the nation scheduled observances to commemorate the nation's war dead.

The VFW Post 1657 and Auxiliary, American Legion Veterans Post 334 and Auxiliary and World War I Post 1952 and Auxiliary, planned special services at Fairview Cemetery.

Brassy parades vied with prayer vigils for the public's attention.

Sunday at sunrise the three Pampa auxiliaries will place a wreath on the monument to all veterans at the cemetery.

Wreaths will also be placed on the graves of all veterans. With Memorial Day coming on Sunday many Pampa businesses will be closed Monday and all state, county and federal offices will close. Post Office windows will be no residential mail deliveries will not be open and there livery.

City Hall will also be closed but the Pampa Police Department will operate as usual. The majority of business at Coronado Center will remain open Monday and most stores in downtown Pampa will be open.

Topics at many of Pampa's churches will pertain to Memorial Day and war.

The National Safety Council estimates as many as 510 persons, a new record, could die in traffic accidents during the 78-hour holiday period which begins at 6 p.m. today and ends at midnight Monday.

Officials in Pampa and throughout the nation issued pleas for safe driving and simultaneously ordered highway police patrols beefed up in most states.

National Guardsmen were mobilized to help the Wisconsin and Iowa state police. The Safety Council predicted about 87 million cars would take to the highways during the long weekend and between 430 and 510 persons would be killed.

U.S. Developing Nuclear Arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is developing more accurate tactical nuclear weapons for the use of front-line troops in Europe, presumably to replace the Davy Crockett atomic gun at some future date.

But, said the Defense Department in a statement Thursday night, "no decision has been made to withdraw the Davy Crockett from its current deployment in Europe," where it is assigned to five U.S. divisions.

The Davy Crockett, variously called a bazooka or a mortar, is small enough to be handled by two or three men and may be jeep-mounted. It is a long, tubular weapon with a solid fuel missile which throws a bulbous atomic warhead. Its explosive force is equal only to a few tons of TNT whereas most nuclear weapons are compared with thousands or millions of tons of TNT.

Small by atomic standards, it is designed to break up enemy assaults and support counterattacks.

The weapon is not considered an efficient one and, in some quarters, it is said to require unwarranted numbers of men for handling separately stored launchers and atomic shells.

The Defense Department said Thursday night that it had conducted studies of the Davy Crockett's effectiveness in relation to its cost.

"As weapons which can do the same job more accurately and effectively for less money are developed, they will be assigned to troops in Europe," the Pentagon said.

United Press International reported on Feb. 15, 1963 that the Pentagon was "taking a new look at the need for the Davy Crockett" and might cut back the numbers planned for army forces in Europe.

GERMANS HAVE LABOR PEACE

BONN (UPI). — Labor peace in West Germany was almost complete during 1964, the Federal Statistical Office reported. Of about 22 million employed, only 5,629 workers went on strike in 334 factories, causing a loss of 16,711 working man days.

The number of strikes and working days lost through strikes was the lowest since 1949 when strike records for the post-war period begin.

domination of an important part of the city and push Caamano's men into a corner where they would be virtually sealed off.

Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbaert Barrera's junta government, though less angry in its opposition to the plan, showed no sign of willingness to surrender either the "White House" or the studios of Radio Santo Domingo to the OAS.

The junta wrested both from the rebels during the fighting here.

The rebel pocket south of the U.S.-controlled supply corridor across Santo Domingo includes most of the city's banks, the post office, the telephone exchange and the offices of the cable companies serving the city.

Few of these institutions are operating normally, and most of them are not operating at all.

Go Ahead... Go Cadillac!

Before you buy any car at any price, consider a Cadillac first of all. New or previously owned, a Cadillac is the one way to be sure your investment will buy the most and last the longest.

Whatever you have budgeted for your next car, your Cadillac dealer has a Cadillac to fit your plans. Naturally, if your choice were unrestricted, you would prefer a new 1965 Cadillac like the Sedan de Ville in front. Next best would be a late-model, previously-owned Cadillac such as the black 1963 Sedan de Ville, above. A well-maintained, one-owner used Cadillac is actually the only real rival of a new Cadillac. Because of the popularity of the 1965 model, your authorized dealer is the one logical place to go for the best selection of fine used Cadillacs.

Dear Abby...

Complainers Might Be Left Sitting at Home

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently attended a very lovely dinner party at the home of a friend who always does things just so. Dinner was announced and we all went to the table to find our places. The hostess had place cards. When one lady discovered she was seated next to her own husband, she said loudly, "I don't have to go to a party to sit next to him." The hostess immediately switched a few place cards so that the couple was split up. What do you think of such a performance on the part of a guest? And aren't married couples supposed to sit next to each other at dinner parties?

MILANDER
DEAR MILANDER: There is no set rule about seating married couples at an at-home dinner party. But guests should sit where the hostess seats them. And those who complain about the seating arrangement could find themselves sitting at home.

DEAR ABBY: Our nine-year-old son is ruining our vacation plans. We have four other children and he is the only one who has ever given us any trouble. We planned to take a house on the beach for the last two weeks in July, but Danny refuses to go. We can't go without him, and we can't leave him home alone.

He says he will "do something" and get sent to a reformatory, or run away to an orphanage, but he will not go with the family to the beach. We can't use physical force to get him in the car and we can't strap him in and lock him up so he won't run away. Can you help us?

WORRIED MOTHER
DEAR WORRIED: If you are actually "worried" about the threats of a nine-year-old to "do something" for which he will be sent to a reformatory, or "run away," you have something to worry about. Your son has you where he wants you. His behavior is a symptom of a deeper emotional problem. Take him to a child psychologist and find out why this child rebels against authority. And learn how to cope with it.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me how to express myself so as not to insult a doctor when I bring up the subject of money? I have run into so many situations where they avoid telling you until after the third or fourth visit. I once asked a doctor on my first visit how much he was going to charge me and he said, "If you think I am going to hold you up, you can go to someone else." If you buy merchandise you want to know how much it's going to cost. Why do professional men take this attitude about their services?

INTERESTED
DEAR INTERESTED: Every ethical doctor is willing to discuss money with his patients. All the patient need do is ask, "How much do you charge for an office visit? Or a treatment? Or for that kind of operation if surgery is required?" The doctor cannot always give you the exact amount because he, himself, doesn't know how many treatments or visits you will need. But if a doctor refuses to discuss money—go elsewhere.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DISTURBED": In these days when people can stand by and watch a knife, a beating or any other evidence of man's inhumanity to man, it might be timely to quote the poem, "Devotions" by John Donne: "Any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind; And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; it tolls for thee."

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Scouting Scoops

By SUSAN MAGUIRE
GS Troop Two

And then came summer! To many Scouts this will mean a halt to activities for three months. Your troop's problem may be that the leader is away with her family for the summer and assistants or mothers feel too inexperienced to carry on alone.

At the troop's closing party a rumble of comments were heard. "Well, that's that." "I'll sure miss Scout meetings." "Tough break, just as we're starting to work on that badge." Every Scout in your troop will express their disappointment, all except Undaunted Mary.

Mary aroused such questions as: "Why couldn't we help our assistant?" "We're supposed to be prepared, aren't we?" "What about the patrol leaders?" "Aren't they supposed to lead?"

Of course, many of your girls will be ready to laugh it off as another of Mary's impractical ideas. But maybe others will listen with curiosity.

So, Undaunted Mary might suggest visiting all the places you had wanted to and didn't have time for. But of course, there wouldn't be two adults to accompany you. But wait a minute. I'm sure someone of the troop committee would be glad to go along on these trips as the second adult.

Then have the patrols meet and don't worry about ideas. They'll fly fast and furious. The Court of Honor will want to schedule a special meeting to draw up a plan for the troop's approval. Each trip should have a different patrol in charge of transportation, help, and other arrangements. In preparation for these trips, patrols should check with your assistant before making the final arrangements, have Court of Honor meetings between trips, and patrol leaders keep in touch with members of your patrol.

Of course, your problem may not be leadership. Your troop may use a school recreation room with several members living in rural areas. With the closing of school, neither your meeting place nor the school bus will be available. Your leader could talk to the Court of Honor about ways the girls might carry on Girl Scout activities outside of troop meetings. Leaders, ask at your regular patrol meeting. What kind of things could girls do alone? With a few friends? Could they get transportation to come together a few times during the summer? Could they keep in touch by correspondence? By telephone? You might plan a cookout for June, an overnight at the camp lodge in July, and a family picnic to round up August.

Summer is the time to work on the Collector badge. It's a perfect time to collect rocks, fossils, or stamps. And you could trade them with other girls when you meet in town after church on Sundays. Groups of girls within walking distance of each other might form sketching groups and photography clubs. Plan to meet once a week to sketch trees, landscapes, flowers or to photograph clouds, farm animals, one another or other objects of special interest and nature around you. Girls could begin the Writer badge by writing poems about nature and stories about summer adventure.

To keep in contact and know the doings of one another, patrol leaders could start a round robin letter by writing a note about your Scouting activities and send it on so that each girl may add to it. The last girl would send it to your leader so she could see what you are doing and then in turn, she would start the round again. Each girl should solemnly promise not to hold the round robin more than two days.

However, your problem may be none of these. If you're Senior Girl Scouts, you may be taking jobs during the summer. Those not holding jobs could use their interests as Service Aids. And those who could "swing it" could volunteer to hostess the troop's weekly open house.

Seniors, you can serve as Program Aids at the Drv Camos or as Aquatic Safety Aids. You might help younger Scouts with their summer meetings while their leaders are away. Your work will especially be appreciated.

Your weekly evening get-togethers should be informal and relaxing. The first of the evening you might spend just talking and catching up with one another's activities. The hostess should serve refreshments which will probably be eaten quickly by some of the hungriest girls in the world.

The advisor should take advantage of this relaxing time as a way of getting to know the girls better.

Many troops can still carry on their meetings as usual during the summer months. You may have a varying attendance because some girls go away to camp or on family vacations. But you can meet if you really want to. Many troops will have to use ingenuity to work around obstacles such as time, meeting place, leadership and other problems unmentioned.

What about you? How will your troop complete the sentence, "And then came summer—?"

Sixteenth century medicine relied heavily upon burning incense and swallowing strongly spiced medicines.

Cookbooks first appeared in Greece in the fourth century B.C.

CHOIR CONTEST WINNERS — Winners of the St. Vincent de Paul choir contest are Paula Homer, chorister of the year, with the largest number of individual points and Bert Morrison, president of the sixth grade. Mrs. Lula Owen is teacher of the winning sixth grade at St. Vincent. Contest winners are based on the amount of participation in the choir.

Choir Contest Ends At St. Vincent

The choir contest between the various grades at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church and school was closed this week with winners being presented awards by the music department of the church.

Winning first place among the grades was Mrs. Lula Owen's sixth grade room which earned a total of 802 points and ranked 85 per cent in attendance since the contest began in January. The $10 grand prize was presented to Mrs. Owen for her room by Tracy D. Cary, music director of St. Vincent's.

Honored as the chorister of the year was Paula Homer, 12 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Homer of 2207 Chestnut, Paula earned the highest number of individual points in the contest and was awarded a leather music case.

The choir contest was based on extra attendance and performances with the adult choir of the church in addition to their regular choral responsibilities as members of the choirs directed by Sister Kenneth, C.C.V.I. Points were earned for attending and singing at two masses on Sundays, Holidays, and for all rehearsals and extra services during the Lenten season.

Only a year or two ago, it was a rare spectacle to find a clergyman toting a picket sign. Today it's commonplace for ministers, priests and rabbis to participate in protest demonstrations.

Racial justice is most frequently the cause which brings clergymen into the streets. But they also are beginning to use direct action methods to register their views on other issues, ranging from the war in Viet Nam to the location of a new express highway.

This trend is regarded with unqualified horror by conservative church members who believe that a preacher's place is in the pulpit, talking about "religion" in the narrow sense of private piety.

But other Americans—including many who haven't been to church in years—have been heartened to see men of God risking imprisonment or worse to bear witness to their moral convictions. It is probably no exaggeration to say that the willingness of clergymen to put their own bodies on the line in the fight against racial discrimination has done more to rescue religious institutions from the charge of being irrelevant to the real problems of secular society than any development of our time.

When all that has been said, however, a question remains, even in the minds of men of proven devotion to religious social action, as to whether there is not the danger of overdoing a good thing.

"Demonstrations are sometimes necessary to arouse the conscience of a community," said the Rev. Jay Moore, director of community action for the Religion and Race Commission of the National Council of Churches. "But we must not fall into the error of looking upon direct action as the only tool for bringing about social change. There are many other things that need to be done that are perhaps not as exciting as marching in the streets, but which may do more good in the long run."

He cited the "Citizenship Education" project which church and civil rights groups are undertaking in Cleveland, Ohio. Its purpose is to help minority groups understand how they can bring about changes—such as better schools—through the democratic process of voting for trustworthy candidates for public office.

As another example of unspectacular social action which may yield greater long-term dividends than a protest demonstration, the Rev. Mr. Moore pointed to the open occupancy housing campaign of the Detroit Council of Churches. Working quietly with the residents of some 30 residential neighborhoods, church groups are trying to open up all-white suburbs to Negro families who are being uprooted from inner city homes by a new expressway.

Rabbi Richard G. Hirsch, director of the religious action center of reform Judaism, was one of the first clergymen to fly to Selma, Ala., when the Rev. Martin Luther King appealed for help there, emphasizing that he was not discounting the value of direct action techniques. But he said:

"Even as we continue to stand on picket lines, we must not confuse demands for change with change itself. Even as we continue to engage in direct action programs outside the framework of religious institutions, we must not lose sight of our primary responsibility, which is to make better human beings of our own adherents."

Power Belongeth to God Is Keynote at Christian Science

"Power belongeth unto God" is the keynote of the Bible Lesson which will be heard at Christian Science services Sunday.

Matthew's account of the temptations which Jesus met and mastered in the wilderness will also be included in the selections from the Bible.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following statement will be read: "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God." The subject will be: "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced."

Church World Service Needs Clothing

A Church World Service truck scheduled to pick up clothing from local churches participating in a city-wide clothing appeal will reach Pampa the week of June 7.

In areas of emergency and disaster the used clothing and blankets contributed, enable people to survive and get on with the business of living.

The United Clothing Appeal provides an efficient, simple way to get the clothing from the churches to the area Church World Service Center in Houston.

All those desiring to contribute used clothing to the drive should contact their ministers. Contributions need to be packaged securely and labeled according to denomination and weight. Ten cents for each pound of clothing is needed at the time the clothing is sent to pay for moving it from the port of debarkation to its overseas destination. This shipping money should be taken or sent to the Rev. J. W. Duke, secretary-treasurer of the local CWS committee.

'Come Rain or Come Shine' Topic At First Baptist

Dr. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pampa, will be in the pulpit for the morning worship and will preach from the subject, "Come Rain or Come Shine." The church choir, under the direction of Mr. Sam Allen, will sing the choral offertory, "Hear My Prayer" by James. Miss Eloise Lane, organist, will play "Andante Religioso" by Smith for the organ meditation. Special music will feature Mr. Jim Johnson in a tenor solo.

Rev. Carroll Ray, area missionary, will speak for the 6 o'clock evening worship. The chapel choir will occupy the choir loft and will sing the choral offertory number. Miss Dianne Phillips and Miss Jo Ann Craig will sing a duet for the special music. Miss Lane will play the organ prelude, "Adagio Vespérale" by Page.

Financial Gossip

By JESSE BOGUE

UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The annual Memorial Day sports spectacular, the Indianapolis "500," roars into action this weekend. Not only auto racing fans, but a sizeable segment of the American stockholding community, should pay attention.

Without necessarily detracting from its appeal as a sporting event, the "500," and the weeks of on-track tests leading up to it, have become over a span of years a showcase for a variety of items of merchandise connected with the automobile and the man who drives it.

Success in this racing classic has an appeal far beyond the visual range of the tens of thousands of persons who cluster in the hot Hoosier sun—or sometimes, in rain— to watch and to listen to the noisy speedsters grinding away before them.

The right to claim a share in a winning performance can be hailed for months to come in advertising, promotion, and shop talk by whatever company contributes a product to that victory.

It can be a gasoline, an oil, an axle, a tire.

Victor Holt, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., said recently that "for better or for worse, there is an indisputable racing-sales relationship, and the key factor in this relationship is the youth market, which worships performance."

Goodyear for many years stayed out of racing; about six years ago, it began bringing its tires to the race tracks again.

Pastor and Mrs. Upshaw will leave Sunday afternoon to attend the Southern Baptist Convention which meets in Dallas, May 31-June 4.

Remembrance Will Be Read at First Presbyterian

Malachi's reminder that a book of remembrance is written before God serves as the biblical basis for the book of remembrance of the First Presbyterian Church. This Sunday morning the names of all those whose names have been inscribed in the book during the past year will be read at both worship hours.

The Pastor Donald S. Hauck will preach on "The Presence of Eternity." Special music will be provided by Miss Celeste Duncan and Miss Margaret Ann Brewer, accompanied by Miss Harriet Henderson at the organ.

Rev. Robert E. Reed
Calvary Assembly of God

LUKE 8:48

"And Jesus said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace."

In the present day that you and I live, every individual has their faith in someone or something. It is what you do with your faith and where you put your faith that will determine your peace and happiness. We read in Hebrews 11:1: "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Faith is your hope of the intangible. This may be happiness, contentment, and peace.

Many people, through the centuries, have put their faith in a nation or a form of government. They have expected the government and leaders to set policies and lead them on in a way that would make them a proud people, but we find in History that many times their faith has not been rewarded. Their nation has fallen, their government overthrown, and the people lead into captivity. Tragedy and disappointment has come, because Faith was put in the wrong place. At other times, people has put their faith in Armies, while others have put their faith in people. Many times, these individuals are also disappointed. Peace and Joy came not from this, but once again heartache, sadness and disappointment. If because of times like this you find your faith wavering and you don't seem to be able to put your faith in any one or anything, let us look at another scene where faith was present and faith was rewarded.

In Luke 8:48, we find a woman who's faith was rewarded. Prior to this, her faith had been placed in earthly means, but this was to avail. Help could not be found. Her faith in earthly ways, could not be rewarded, but one day she heard of Jesus. This was without a doubt, one of the greatest days of her life. She had heard of a man, that no sorrow or disappointment ever came from. Now as she placed her faith in Jesus, her faith was renewed. This time her faith had not been put in material wealth, nor had it been put in just an individual, but it had been placed in Jesus, The Man that had Walked the Shores of Galilee, walked the streets of the cities and all that was ever spoken of Him, was praise for His goodness to mankind. This lady's faith had been rewarded, by the faithfulness of Jesus. Faith had been placed once again and this time, peace, rejoicing, and happiness came.

If your faith in objects or people has not brought happiness, then let me encourage you to cast your faith in Jesus, "for He careth for you."

Playboy Podres Stays Unbeaten

United Press International
The Los Angeles Dodgers are loaded with pitching that a 1,000 won - lost percentage and a 1.59 earned run average ranks no better than No. 4 starter.

Podres sat out virtually the 1964 season with a sore arm but he's back in business this year and he's pitching clean, easy games against tough teams that have marked his entire career. Johnnie P. 3-0 this year, for example, with the wins over the Philadelphia Phillies, Cincinnati Reds and Milwaukee Braves.

Podres turned in one of his typical quick and slick jobs Thursday night when he pitched a 3-2 victory over the Braves. He had one out in the third inning — which doubled by Denny Lee. Frank Bolling and Hank Aaron produced the Braves' two runs — pitched out and sent the boys out on town in 2:02.

Bolt Leads 500 Golf

INDIANAPOLIS, Md. (UPI)—The touring golf pros found the new Greentree course a respectable challenge today with temperamental Tommy Bolt the leader going into the second round of the $87,000 "500 Festival" tourney.

Only 17 players beat par 71 in Thursday's wind-flagged opening round as Bolt carved out a 3-under-par 68 for a one-stroke lead over his closest pursuers.

The low 70 and ties after today's halfway mark will go the final 36 holes Saturday and Sunday and advance predictions that a 72-hole total of 275 may be good enough to win may be realized.

Bolt got five birdies on the long-playing, 7,037-yard course Thursday and posted just two bogeys — on No. 2 when he missed the green and on No. 11 when his approach shot went over the green. But he sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie on 15 and chipped in from 70 feet with an 8-iron on 16 for his best hole.

Bolt, the National Open king in 1958 looking for his first major tourney triumph since 1961, teed off early today as did two-time winner Doug Ford.

Pampa professional Fred Bond captained one of the first place teams, an all-Pampa one, of C. E. Barnes, A. D. Prichard and David Marler. Amarillo Air Force Base pro Red Holland captained the team of Carl Tychsen, Amarillo; Dub Hardy, Tulsa; and Mrs. Loran Baird, Amarillo.

Borger amateur Mark Leshar captained the other first place team of Dee Avery, Perryton; Bill DeFee, Amarillo; and Mrs. Floyd Nunley, Amarillo.

Roach, Parker Win PCC Golf

In the 'A' division of the Pampa Junior Golf Tournament, completed at the Pampa Country Club yesterday afternoon, Ricky Roach of the PHS golf team took the honors with a net score of 201 for 54 holes. Tied for second were Tommy Rose of PHS B and Dan Carlton of Pampa Junior High with net 201s. The pair were scheduled to play off for the runner-up trophy today.

In the 'B' division for 11-13 year-olds, Kevin Parker won the 36-hole match with a net score of 144. There was a three-way tie for second between Mike Casey, Kip Parker and Johnny Garren, each with 148. Casey won a playoff for the honors.

There were a total of 20 participants in the meet.

PCC pro Hart Warren reported a correction in the recent story concerning the Memorial Day weekend partnership tournament. The course will be closed to everyone, including members, who are not entered in the tournament Saturday and Sunday.

Gentle Giant Jolts Fans With Prodigious HR

By United Press International
Frank Howard is not quite as tall as the Washington Monument nor quite as wide as the Lincoln Memorial but he may soon rate as one of the top tourist attractions in the nation's capital.

By far the biggest and strongest man in baseball at 6 feet, 6 inches and 255 pounds, Howard is showing American Leaguers the awesome power usually associated with Mickey Mantle in his prime.

Howard insists his great size has made it more difficult — rather than easier — to develop in the major leagues but he has such enormous strength that he makes hitting 400-foot drives look like child's play.

The Gentle Giant, as he's known to Washington fans, gave another demonstration of his prodigious power Thursday night with an awesome home run that was an estimated 450 feet from the plate and about 50 feet in the air when it landed in the upper center field deck of Washington's District of Columbia Stadium.

It was the first ball ever hit into that sector and by far the longest home run in the five-year history of the stadium.

Howard's eighth homer of the season topped off a night during which the Senators routed 1964 Cy Young Award winning pitcher Dean Chance with eight hits and seven runs in 2-3 innings en route to a 9-6 victory over the Los Angeles Angels. It was the second straight early kayo for Chance and reduced his season record to 3-4. He was 20-9 with a 1.65 earned run average in 1964.

Chance was tagged for three runs in the first inning and then routed in a six-run third. Singles by Jim King and Ken McMullen started the rally which also was featured by Ed Brinkman's single and a two-run triple by pitcher Marshall Bridges. Joe Cunningham followed Bridges' triple with a homer off reliever Don Lee.

Howard, acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers, has improved under the direction of Manager Gil Hodges so much that he has walked 19 times compared to 25 strikeouts this season. His 32 runs batted in rank him second in the league only to the 33 by the Boston Red Sox' Felix Mantilla.

The Red Sox knocked the Minnesota Twins out of first place with a 2-0 win and the Detroit Tigers beat the New York Yankees 4-1 in other AL games. Kansas City at Baltimore was rained out.

Dave Morehead pitched three-hit ball for 8 1-3 innings and Dick Radatz came on to strike out the last two batters for the Red Sox, who tagged Jim Kaat with his fifth loss against three wins. The Red Sox scored both their runs in the seventh inning on singles by Carl Yastrzemski, Mantilla and Tony Conigliaro, an error by Frank Kostro and a sacrifice fly by Bob Tillman.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself no more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Apathetic or Pathetic?

Entering into their second generation of governmental-socialist brainwashing the American peoples' minds are pretty well cleaned of any individualistic concepts. They no longer think of themselves as individuals but as "parts of the whole society," as collectivistic cells.

Free enterprise and property rights are becoming foreign terms to their intellects. They hear them expressed but they no longer understand their meanings. They pin their faith on majority rule, even though the majority never votes. "The voice of the majority is the voice of God," the government is chosen by the majority (of voters), therefore, the government is God ordained; it can do no wrong.

"Poppa knows best," "Big Brother will take care of you," "The men in Washington must know what they're doing," "We have picked the best men to run the country, let them run it."

The American people have begun to accept these slogans of "those who have our best interests at heart," and now the sloganizers turn on them and accuse them of being apathetic.

Brainwashed of the desire to think for themselves, they have become unable to think, they leave thinking to the politicians—the greatest thinkers of the ages. The do-gooders, the welfare staters, the Fabians, the socialists, the communists, the unions, the ADAs, the liberals and the pseudo-conservatives have united in pouring out an endless barrage of propaganda until deafened and dizzied from the enormity of it all, the plain Joe Citizen walks around in a daze, punch drunk from too much beating over the head by most newspapers, magazines, TV and radio and the politicians.

And they call him apathetic. Patriotism has been untaught in the schools for 30 years, and they call him unpatriotic. Since they dropped the Bomb on Hiroshima, they have endeavored to frighten Joe Citizen to death to appease their own guilty consciences. They talk of peace and disarmament while they wage war, hot and cold, on many fronts. The President has the power to cut off the enemy's supply lines in Viet Nam but refuses to do so, thereby sentencing untold members of American service men to death. He should do one or the other, make every effort to reduce the enemy's supplies, or get out of there, and bring all Americans home except those who wish to stay.

Alexander Hamilton once said, "The public is a great beast." But a beast, when badgered, cornered and pushed around will fight savagely back, even unto death. The American public is becoming a brainwashed punch drunk collectivized, regimented and unthinking mob ready to follow their "great leader" to perdition, if that is the direction he takes—and he's taking it.

"Apathetic" — let's drop off the "A" for a more descriptive word.

The idea for the above editorial came from a column written by James J. Kilpatrick, entitled "Old U.S. Goes Amid Yawns," wherein he derides the "apathy" of the American public.

Piggybacking Has Arrived

Not so long ago, there was much talk about the possible future of piggybacking — whereby loaded highway trailers are placed on railroad flatcars and hurried to their destinations. The idea, which was then revolutionary, was to combine the best features of both rail and road transportation, and to do a more dependable, efficient and economical job for shippers of all kinds of cargoes.

We don't hear much talk now about the future of piggybacking and for a good reason. As Stan Federman of the Portland Oregonian succinctly puts it, "Piggyback traffic is no longer called the railroading of the future — it has arrived."

It has done its arriving with a bang. Last year, there were more than 800,000 piggyback loadings; and this year, the figure is expected to reach the million-car figure. By way of comparison, when piggyback service was first offered back in 1954, only about 40,000 flatcars were thus loaded.

Piggybacking is just one of the far reaching innovations the railroads have adopted in a massive and successful effort to increase their share of the nation's transportation movements. Another consists of huge tri-level cars for moving automobiles from factory to dealer. One of these can handle 12 regular size autos or 15 compact, as compared with a mere two vehicles in the old-time boxcars. Think of the load that just these two innovations take off crowded highways.

This is all part of a technological revolution which has literally changed railroading in just about every particular. The cost runs far into the billions. The railroads have always been the backbone of our enormous mass transportation system. And they are doing everything within their power to keep on being just that.

Homing-in on Garage Doors

In this complicated age, even staying in your own back yard won't necessarily keep you out of trouble, particularly if you are one of those progressive homeowners who have radio-controlled garage doors.

The Federal Aviation Agency has discovered that the equipment that operates the doors can be a hazard to flying by interfering with air navigation signals. Though they are receivers, they can generate signals like a small radio transmitter if their antennas are not sufficiently isolated.

In one week in Los Angeles recently, the FAA tracked down 58 offending garage door openers and shut them down.

While most of the trouble has occurred near big airfields, some receivers are strong enough to be picked up by aircraft as far as 16 miles away. Thus it would be possible, says the FAA, for a pilot to home-in on somebody's garage and fly directly toward it — conceivably with disastrous results.

The hazard works both ways. The doors on one garage in the Midwest open or close every time a certain flight passes over. In other locations, signals from radio navigation aids have caused doors to flip-flop at all hours. Some pranksters have discovered a new sport in operating garage doors with transmitters as they pass by on the street.

The FAA recommends that owners cut down garage door receiver antennas to the minimum needed for driveway operation. Or else get out and lift like the rest of us.

Did It on Porpoise

For the record, if for no other reason, let it be noted that the first transoceanic telephone call between porpoises has been successfully conducted.

Thanks to special underwater equipment furnished by General Telephone and Electronics Corp., porpoise Moby Dick in Santa, Fla., "talked" for five minutes over a 4,700-mile hookup with porpoise Keiki on the island of Oahu.

Scientists have established that porpoises have well-developed mental processes and are able to communicate with one another. But what Moby Dick and Keiki talked about — in high-pitched tones at frequencies of 2,000 cycles a second — remains, alas, a mystery. Possibly the weather?

Expert Testimony

Between the Bookends

IN SEARCH OF PEACE

Recent American involvements in the Dominican Republic and Vietnam have been greeted with near-unanimous acclaim by American thought-leaders. The only vocal pressure for disengagement comes from a handful of collectivists who would replace this policy with a deeper involvement in a world authority.

Through this, however, there does remain a voice of reason that favors neither of the above policies. It is the true "liberal" position — the policy of placing liberty here at home above all else. It was perhaps best explained in a small booklet, written in 1951 by F. A. Harper, entitled "In Search of Peace" (available from Institute For Humane Studies, Box 3606, Stanford, Calif. 94305), here are some passages pertinent to today's (and every day's) problems:

"Probably more wealth and effort have been squandered in a fruitless search for peace by the present generation than by any other in the history of man. For nearly a century the increasing tempo of war and preparation for war has found the world further and further from peace. Time after time it has been asserted that if only we could crush some particular dictator by the use of military might, the safety of man's freedom would be assured. One more supreme sacrifice, again and again. And each time dictators more ruthless than anything the world has seen since Genghis Khan arose out of the refuse of war leaving liberty and peace the loser after each bloody conflict."

"Our government during the last half century, however, has become the captain of military excursions all over the world. In these wars, the citizens are compelled to give up essentially all their liberty and to respond to the call to arms at the command of one person — one who is presumed to be their servant and not their master. So long as this procedure is tolerated, liberty is at an end in this nation."

"In view of all the misunderstanding and confusion about liberty and its defense, the thing most to be feared at this time is enslavement from within the nation rather than from without. Slavery from within is no vague threat; it is rapidly approaching a full victory. But the 'enemy' from without is still only a threat, and I doubt if a nation of free people could be conquered by him, even if it were to be attacked."

"Those who want action because they are in a panic and who point to the 'lateness of the hour,' are free to start throwing off the yoke they now endure at any moment they wish."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economic and the proper functions of government which will not incur charges)

Question No. 767: "Would you define the expression, 'moral obligation'? Also who decides what my moral obligations are?"

Answer: An obligation is an act of obligating oneself to a course of action. It is a voluntarily assumed condition and cannot be imposed externally.

An individual who makes an agreement with another to commit a certain act has assumed an obligation. He is morally bound to complete the "contract." It is his own self-assumed obligation.

When a worker and an employer make an agreement relative to employment of the worker, the employee is obligated to work as specified, and the employer is obligated to pay him for the work performed.

Most persons by virtue of religious teachings, conscience and ideals, consider that when they have made a promise (contract) they are bound by that agreement to perform as agreed.

No one can decide what the questioner's moral obligations are. However, once the questioner has made a commitment or agreement, he is obligated to complete it or to face the penalty of disapproval of his associates.

WE ARE NEEDED

A commuter train in California running at full speed crashed into an oncoming engine and overturned, killing two and seriously injuring a score of people.

A youth burst the glass in a coach window and leaped to safety. Running from the scene, he could still hear the screams of the injured. It was too much for him. He slackened his pace, listened, turned and ran back, climbed into the train and heroically rescued one after another, carrying the wounded to safety.

Reporters who had been watching him later asked, "Why did you do this?" He answered simply, "I didn't want to go through life with a yellow streak down my back."

Our country has bumped into a lot of trouble. We are facing enemies on many sides and there is trouble within. It will take a lot of cool, level-headed, and our government needs able people to bring some of our misguided citizens back to safety to do the job.

This young man on second thought displayed the character and quality which could save liberty. One-tenth of our population, boys and girls, is within four years of his age. If we will encourage, train and lead them, this legion of 30 million would make it impossible for the communists to take over.

It is not too late if we fail to make youth effective patriots, for there are other legions of 20 million whom we can find and enlist to help save freedom such as service organizations, businessmen, and others.

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE

Last night I read in the paper that the Russians are planning to sell their Moskvich cars in the United States soon. I wondered what it would be like to buy a car from the Soviets, but I soon found out. For later, I had a hunch of a dream.

There I was on the streets of Manhattan, standing in front of "Honest Ivan's — Your Friendly Red Star Car Dealer." I went in, anxious to talk business.

The salesman welcomed me: "Come right this way, comrade. We show you the latest thing from Moscow, our new 1965 Moskvich. Is stylish, nyet?"

"Hmmm," I said. "It does look quite a bit like the '38 Chevy. Tell me, why is one fender all smashed up?"

"Oh that. Minor problem. Was a small incident while driving through Iron Curtain. Besides, this makes it our latest style — three fenders, the 'Troika' model."

"Do you have a 'Fourka' model I could see?" I asked.

Well, one thing led to another and we started "realistic negotiations." I offered a price. He said "Nyet." I offered a higher price. He said "Nyet." The tough bargaining didn't bother me much until he started pounding his shoe on the desk.

So I put it to him straight: "Say, I don't like the way you do business. Are you a member of the local Chamber of Commerce?"

"Dah and nyet," he said. "Ve belong, but nothing much happens there. No votes—nothing. Not since we stopped paying our dues."

"Well, I don't care for the deal you're offering me. For one thing, your ad says you give a pound of caviar with every new car purchased. But I don't see any caviar. Where is it?"

"Vell," he said. "That's a long story. Ve're very busy here. Ve didn't get our vodka break today. Ve're very hungry. Ve saw the caviar. So-ve-it-it! Haw-haw. Is good American pun, nyet?"

With that I prepared to leave explaining that it appeared I just couldn't afford their new car.

"In that case," he said. "I'll show you one of our nearly new, late model Moskvich trade-ins. Here's one barely used. Was owned by a little old lady — in Petrograd who only drove it every third Monday to visit her son in Siberia. Is sharp late-model, nyet?"

"Hmmm," I pondered. "It does look quite a bit like the '38 Chevy. May I look in the trunk?"

"Of course, Comrade. Here, let me open it for you." He did and lo and behold, there was a man curled up in the trunk!

"Oops!" said the salesman, shutting the trunk again. "Is son from Siberia stowing away."

Well, to make a long story short, I never did buy a car from him — despite the excellent credit terms he offered through the Export-Import Bank — despite his claim that the car had a U-I engine in it.

But I did get a new car — and a free one, at that.

How?

Simple. I just ran across the street to the American Motors dealer and threatened "to do business with the Russians" if he didn't give me a car!

Pull Up A Chair

"Tell it to the Marines" didn't originate with the U.S. Marines, but is traced to the noted diarist, Samuel Pepys, secretary of the British Admiralty in the days of King Charles II. Pepys relates that a returned traveler told the Merry Monarch he had seen a flying fish, and the skeptical ruler turned to the commandant of a maritime regiment standing nearby and asked if it were possible.

The Marine officer said he too had seen them during sea voyages. The King said to Pepys: "Henceforth, whenever we cast doubt upon a tale that lacketh likelihood we will tell it to the marines. If they believe it, it is undoubtedly true."

Today's smile: A lawyer was cross-examining a prim little spinster, who remained calm throughout his acrimonious questioning. Finally, he said to her: "You've testified that you had very little education, but you answered my questions readily enough." The witness replied: "Any fool could answer your silly questions."

One of the newest gadgets for protecting the home we have seen is an electronic alarm system that operates on radar principles. When hooked up it spreads an invisible radar microwave field throughout the interior of the house. Any intruder entering the protective radar pattern sets off a number of audible or visual alarms, such as turning on the lights, ringing bells or activating an outside siren.

Thoughts while shaving: The Salvation Army is now 100 years old. Like all good works it had small beginnings. From a single small mission in London in 1865 this wonderful welfare organization now has 21,924 service centers in 71 countries.

The telephone operators at the United Nations can answer your call in any of the five official languages — English, French, Spanish, Russian or Chinese.

The medical profession says more people die from overeating than from drinking too much.

One of our gripes about present day show business is the fact the legitimate theatre lacks the lavishness and splendor of yesterday. Today's producers, unlike Flo Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll, scrimp on scenery and stage furnishings and rely mostly upon mechanical gadgets, and multiple single sets that depict various scenes through trick lighting. Maybe they do it to cut costs, but we have fond memories of the scenery turned out by Ziegfeld's Joseph Urban. Our history teacher never told us, but Alexander the Great was the first prominent person in history to recognize the importance of research. Over a period of a few years he gave Aristotle the equivalent of millions for intellectual pursuits. It paid off handsomely.

We read recently of a British doctor who advised a meeting of judges and lawyers on the handling of drunken driving cases. He suggested they get themselves loaded and profit from the experience. Now we wonder if they followed his advice? ... The Auburn (N.Y.) CITIZEN-ADVERTISER reported: "A Titan 2 rocket trails vapor as it hits the upper atmosphere after lunch at Cape Kennedy." Nothing like orbiting on a full stomach.

COLD STATISTICS
NE WYORK (UPI) — Colds account for more than 50 per cent of absenteeism in industry — an annual loss of 218 million work days and production loss of $5 billion, according to the Contact Cold Control Center.

National Window

United Press International
The liberal establishment now controlling the executive and legislative branches of the U.S. government coldly ignores the civil rights aspect of the national debate over compulsory unionism.

The liberal establishment is committed to compulsory membership in labor unions. To this end, President Johnson and the Democratic party seek repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act. Fourteen-B permits states to forbid compulsory unionism within their border. Nineteen states have in force laws forbidding compulsory unionism.

The civil right involved and so coldly ignored is the right of association, the right to join or not to join. There are more material factors, however. Are right-to-work laws forbidding compulsory unionism economically good or bad for the states enacting them? First witness will be George Meany, president of AFL-CIO. In a speech this month, Meany said: "What has been the experience of those states that have so-called right-to-work laws? Well, call the roll of those states and you are calling the roll of the states that are the poorest, the most backward in the nation—the states with the poorest schools, the lowest per capita income, the states that pay the least federal taxes and get the most in federal benefits."

Meany implied but offered no proof that the sorry posture of the right-to-work states was somehow caused by right-to-work laws. That, of course, is baloney. Ten of the 19 right-to-work states are in the South and much of what Meany said of them was true and would have been equally true if they had no R-T-W laws. But among the R-T-W states are Florida, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, the two Dakotas, Texas and Wyoming. The citizens of those states probably would be angered and astonished if they learned of Meany's estimate of them.

Enemies of 14-B gun for it with phony ammunition based on bad statistics. Speaking in Miami, Fla. before a recent labor convention, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said that wages in the 19 right-to-work states, including Florida, averaged $25 less a week than in the rest of the

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Analyst Eliot Janeway says the market is more bearish than it looks — whether the trend is up or down.

Janeway says that right now sentiment among the institutions has turned very much more bearing than can be measured by the actual selling pressure which they have put on the market.

Bache & Co. says it would expect some lateral movement over the near term as the market marks time to regroup for the traditional summer rally.

W. E. Hutton & Co. says that from the standpoint of the trader, it is important to keep in mind the current market vogue is to be highly sensitive to trends rather than to absolute figures.

SIGNS ACT
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson, reaffirming belief that "man can turn from violence" and live in peace, Thursday signed a three-year extension of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency Act. He described the legislation as a "small but significant step toward a durable peace."
