Coming Sunday

Computers

The growth of retail computer stores in Midland has been booming since the introduction of the micro computer in the late 1970s. Read all about Midland's 14 computer retail dealers in Sunday's Business Section.

Artists

Many porcelain artists want to change their image as persons who "just paint little plates and hang them up." Read about a future porcelain exhibit in Sunday's Lifestyle section.

Connections

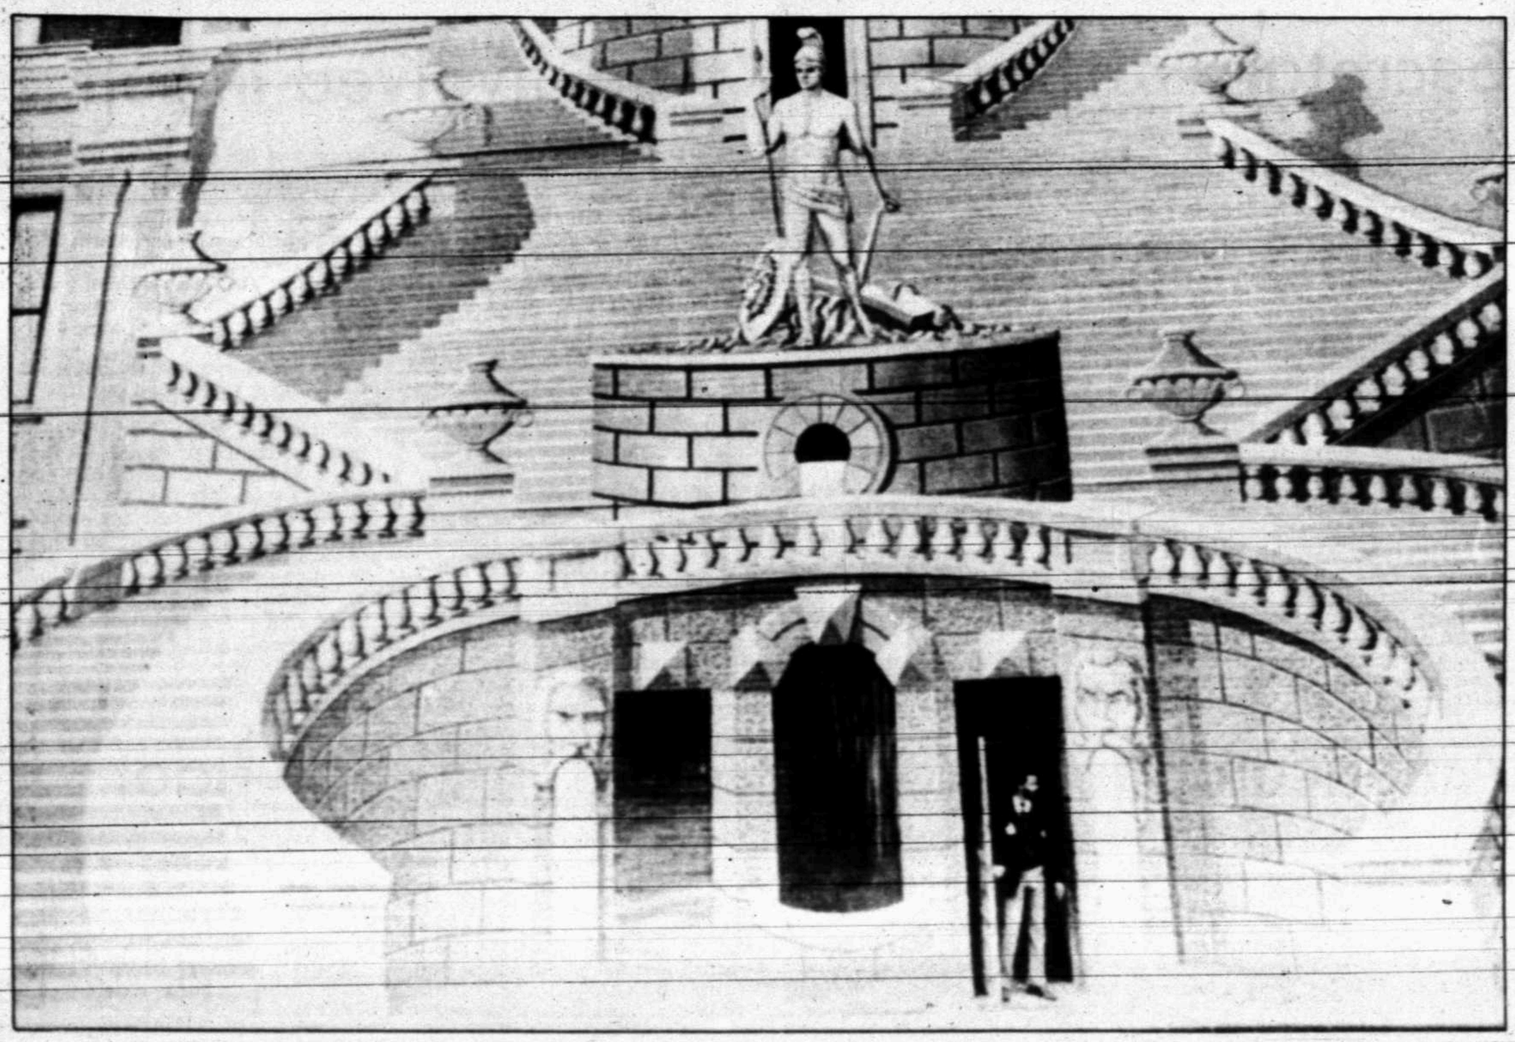

Midland's economic pipeline runs straight to the Mideast. If the Strait of Hormuz is shut off or Saudi Arabia decides to change crude oil prices, Midland will feel the effect. The Mideast-Midland tie is explained in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Hearing officer advises denial of annexation

By RHONDA RIGENHAGEN
Staff Writer

The hearing officer who heard the suit between Midland Independent School District and residents of Ridgewood subdivision has recommended denial of the proposed annexation of part of Midland County into the Ector County Independent School District.

In his recommendation to the Commissioner of Education, officer Mark Robinett called the proposal to detach 4,186 acres from MISD and annex it into the ECISD "unreasonable."

The issue arose more than a year ago when Ridgewood residents, faced with the option of sending their children to Midland schools or paying tuition at Odessa schools, filed a petition for annexation to the ECISD board of trustees. The petition was signed by a majority of voters in the subdivision and an adjoining trailer park. At that time 67 students in the area were attending Odessa schools five miles away while 11 went to Midland schools 15 miles distant.

The proposal was approved by the board and Ector County commissioners, but was opposed by Midland school trustees and county commissioners. Midland school officials have said such a detachment would result in an immediate loss of more than $17 million on the tax roll and a considerable long-term loss.

Robinett heard the suit Jan. 13 and released his decision this week.

The petition called for the detachment of more than 4,000 acres of mostly uninhabited land, a large percentage of which is undeveloped Mission Estates. Ridgewood and the trailer park comprise about 140 acres of the total.

"The amount of uninhabited land included in the proposed detachment and annexation is unreasonable," reads Robinett's recommendation. "All of the people who signed the petition...reside in one well-defined area...which constitutes less than four percent of the total area proposed for deatchment and annexation."

MISD attorneys opposed the petition on several grounds. One was that ECISD's boundaries were set by the Texas legislature and Ector County and the Texas Education Agency did not have jurisdiction to change them. Another was that detachment could not occur without consent of the MISD.

Although Robinett indicated those arguments were not valid, he did agree with the assertion that "the geographic extent of the area sought to be detached clearly bears no reasonable relationship to the area of residence of those who signed the petition."

Mayoral candidates' platform presentation turns into debate

G. Thane Akins

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Assistant City Editor

One candidate for mayor views his years on the City Council as his strength. His opponent says it's time for new leadership.

Mayor G. Thane Akins and challenger Frank Lasater turned a presentation of their campaign platform into a debate Friday during a luncheon before the Midland Jaycees.

Lasater called for more police officers and better streets; the mayor asked where the money was coming from to fund those projects.

In his opening remarks, Akins said, "I do have the experience. I have a track record. It's a proven stance of leadership. I do believe Midland has a legacy of strong conservative leadership for many years. Men who served previously were interested in city government and service. That's all I've ever promised."

■ Akins announces steering commitee — Page 2A

Lasater, involved in oil and gas, real estate and the cattle business, contended Akins has lost some of his objectivity after serving on the council four years and another four as mayor.

"I see a defensive attitude in council meetings," he said. "We need a change in leadership. It's imperative we change now. I'm glad the mayor is running on his record; those are the issues."

Lasater contended residential burglaries have risen 39 percent and the police officers are overworked. He called for adding 25 officers to the force. "Last year 13 officers were added to the budget, but by the end of the year those positions were eliminated."

Akins countered that the council has taken a strong position on law enforcement, adding 40 percent to the force since he first became a councilman. "Our ratio is higher than Odessa's. At one time, people were standing in line to be in our police department while Odessa had 15 openings." The additional positions would require an extra $1 million, he noted.

Lasater complained about the condition of Midland's streets and no synchronization of traffic lights. "In 1980, Thane Akins said we had a problem with streets. We still have a problem. Why hasn't it been taken care of? We have no preventive maintenance program."

Akins explained the city has gone from a boom growth of 12 to 14 percent per year to a loss of 40 percent of sales tax revenues. But the city has an unappropriated surplus to carry Midland through the slump, he said. With this surplus, Midland still pulls one of the highest bond ratings of any city its size in the country.

During the boom, contractors were busy putting in new streets in subdivisions. To do all the necessary street rebuilding, Akins suggested the city might have to consider a bond issue.

The 11-member Planning and Zoning Commission should be given more authority, Lasater suggested. But the mayor said that would violate state law.

U.S. photographer killed in guerrilla ambush in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — John Hoagland, an American photographer working on contract for Newsweek magazine, was killed Friday during a gun battle between leftist guerrillas and army troops north of the capital.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman and an official at the Polyclinic Hospital in San Salvador, where Hoagland's body was taken, both confirmed the death. The officials asked not to be identified for security reasons.

Hoagland, a 36-year-old native of San Diego, Calif., was with another photographer, Robert Nickelsberg, traveling on a road to cover a guerrilla attack on Suchitoto, 27 miles northeast of the capital, when they were caught in a crossfire.

Nickelsberg, under contract with Time magazine, said they had walked about a mile with some army soldiers when they were ambushed from behind by guerrillas about 14 miles north of San Salvador. They immediately took cover.

"We were 20 meters off the road behind a tree," Nickelsberg said, upon returning to the capital. "We got sprayed with bullets and one of them got him."

Nickelsberg said he was uncertain which side fired the shot, but he added: "It could very well have been the guerrillas. It came at an unexpected angle."

"We were pinned down for 45 minutes more, the soldiers retreated and they left us behind. The soldiers wired up that they had a wounded journalist, but they said we would have to wait," Nickelsberg said.

Nickelsberg said Hoagland passed out within 10 seconds after he was hit in the back and never regained consciousness.

"He said, 'I've been hit,'" Nickelsberg said. "That's all."

The Time photographer said he was unable to move Hoagland until 1:45 p.m. (2:45 p.m. EST) — an hour

Seminole bank declared insolvent

From Staff and Wire Reports

SEMINOLE — Seminole State National Bank in Seminole was declared insolvent at approximately 6:10 p.m. Friday.

H. Joe Selby, senior deputy comptroller for the office of the comptroller of the currency, said the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has been appointed receiver.

However, he said the institution would reopen under a new charter Monday morning.

The new bank will be named Seminole National Bank and is part of First West Texas Bank Shares of Midland.

Over the past year, the bank, which has deposits of $43 million, experienced substantial deterioration in the quality of its loan portfolio, said Selby.

Seminole State National Bank, unable to remedy its problems and losses, finally exhausted the bank's capital funds, resulting in its insolvency, he said.

Seminole State National Bank converted to a national bank on May 19, 1982.

According to Art Lorentzen with the FDIC office of liquidation in Dallas, the FDIC is trying to "wind up the affairs of the failed bank."

In this type of situation, the FDIC has the responsibility of verifying the assets and liabilities of the failed bank. They, along with representatives of the new bank, must come up with a beginning balance for the new bank when it opens its doors on Monday.

Robert Hankins, reserve bank assistant vice president, said Seminole National Bank is "a de novo institution formed to acquire certain assets and to act as transfer agent for the insured deposits of Seminole State National Bank, Seminole, Texas."

Approximately 80 FDIC officials from around the country arrived in Seminole early Friday to accomplish the transfer of ownership, Lorentzen said.

"We have quite a number (of people) to handle the closing in order to have the bank reopened on Monday morning," he added.

"We will be working through the weekend to have it (the bank) reopened Monday morning."

He said it would take most of the weekend to wind up the old bank's affairs.

Board member calls for chairman's resignation

By RHONDA RIGENHAGEN
Staff Writer

A personality conflict between H. Ross Perot and Joe Kelly Butler is clouding public education issues, says State Board of Education member J. Murphy Horton of Midland.

Calling the head of the governor's Select Committee on Public Education (Perot) and the chairman of the State Board of Education (Butler) "two bull elephants in a closet," Horton is regretfully calling for Butler to resign.

"There's nothing personal in it at all. The only thing personal is the hurt," Horton said. "He (Butler) has done a fine job. He's given 20 years of his life to public education. It's very difficult for me to ask for his resignation, but I feel that would do away with part of the conflict between the board and the select committee."

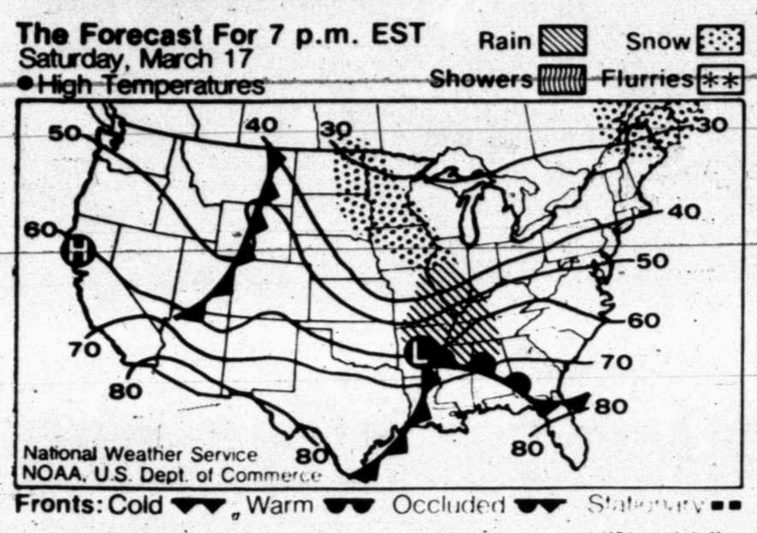

The 72-year-old Houston man has been chairman of the state board for 10 years.

"Joe Kelly has been such a visible figure. He's Mr. Education," Horton said. "He's very dominant. I think in his own mind it's not the State Board of Education, it's his board.

"I consider him a friend, but he's becoming a lightning rod. He's just become a part of the problem by his own personality."

Akins announces steering committee

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Assistant City Editor

The real issue in the campaign for mayor is "whether Midland should continue on a prudent and careful course or whether we are willing to be led down the road of over-promising, free-spending liberalism," incumbent G. Thane Akins said Friday morning.

During a news conference in City Hall Council Chambers to announce his steering committee and supporters, Akins criticized issues of his opponent, Frank Lasater. Akins has been mayor four years and is seeking another two-year term. That afternoon his opponent issued a statement countering Akins' remarks.

Although the election is non-partisan, the mayor painted a picture of Republican vs. Democrat. "I seem to be hearing the same kind of vague appeals to the future coming from my opponent as I hear coming from some of the liberal presidential candidates on the 10 o'clock news."

Lasater, formerly with Flare Inc., and now an independent in the oil business, had complained of poor street conditions, lack of communication between council and citizens and the need to hire 25 more police officers.

Akins said the council is in "a catchup mode." One of its primary goals is to do something about the streets, he said, pointing to the rebuilding of A and Garfield streets.

"We didn't get that way overnight. It won't be cured overnight." The medicine might have to come in the form of a bond issue, he noted.

Akins denied a lack of communication between the council and citizens. "I can't imagine anyone being more accessible. The council has their phone numbers listed. I have a pager I wear and a 24-hour answering service. I haven't been strong on press conferences. If it's a major issue we do our best to get the public informed."

Concerning his opponent's call for more police officers, Akins said the cost would be at least $1 million. "Where does the money come from?" he said.

Through a bond issue, the police department is being remodeled and new technology being added.

Lasater cited passages from a study on Midland made by the Texas Research League, and the mayor said much of what had been recommended were "already under way."

The need for a budget officer had been cited in the report and Akins said, "I feel it is being adequately handled through the city manager's office. The report fell short of what we expected of it."

Although the council has mentioned eliminating MidTran, the city's public transportation system, Akins said it may be changed to a different format. "I don't think anyone thought it would be profitable or break even."

Co-chairing his campaign are Doris Howbert, a former city council member, and Bobby Holt. Joining them are finance chairman Robert Monaghan and campaign manager J.D. Faircloth.

The steering committee includes former mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., Charles Priddy, Joe Pevehouse, Patti LaForce, Gordon S. Knox, Clem Barnes and Mary Jane Young.

Other supporters include former city councilman Carroll Thomas, Lou Brown, Windell Thomason, Tom Sealy, Kelly Fish, Kingdon Hughes, Earle Craig, Nick C. Taylor, Frank Cahoon, Bernold M. Hanson, Gerald S. Pitts, Louann Rogers, William D. Kennedy, Richard Gaddy, Monty Gist, Don Harvey, Ed Runyan, Fred Jones, James Blakemore, Cadell Liedtke, Amos Palma and Robert Devenport.

In a prepared release, Lasater commented that he was amused with "Thane's attempt to stick the label of 'Washington liberal' on this Midland-reared Texas Aggie. Apparently, he would rather talk about personalities than the important issues that are staring him right in the face."

Concerning the charge of "vague appeals," Lasater said the mayor's hearing "must be fuzzy because I have stated clearly what the critical needs are in Midland. What I seem to be hearing Mr. Akins say is that the problems are so overwhelming they can't be solved by sensible people allocating reasonable resources."

Lasater said he has been going door-to-door and the public reported they aren't satisfied with streets, law enforcement or growth pattern.

"I think we've been on a course of neglect," Lasater said.

Weekend temperatures for Basin expected to be in 70s

Record-setting warm weather which has blanketed the Permian Basin is expected to turn cooler, the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport reports.

Although Friday's 85-degree high came within one degree of meeting the all-time record high of 86 degrees set March 16, 1966, the forecast for today calls for cooler temperatures and fair skies. Highs are still expected to stay in the low 70s, however, and northerly 10 to 15 mph winds are predicted.

Tonight and Sunday should be fair and cool with lows in the middle 40s and highs in the middle 60s.

An overnight low of 50 was nearly double the record low of 26 set in 1970.

STATE

An upper-level disturbance over Northwest Texas brought very heavy thunderstorms over the Panhandle Friday, and severe weather advisories were posted for the area.

Movement of the upper-level storm over moist, unstable air at the surface prompted a severe thunderstorm watch for the Panhandle and south plains, while a flash flood watch remained in effect for parts of North Texas through early Saturday, the National Weather Service said.

Scattered showers and thundershowers were also reported over Northeast Texas along the remains of a cold front which stalled in a southward track. The front stretched on a line from near Midland to about Texarkana, the weather service said.

Skies were mostly cloudy over northern sections of the state and partly cloudy over much of South and far West Texas. High temperatures climbed into the 60s and 70s statewide, with readings in the 80s to near 90 over far South Texas.

Cooler readings in the 40s and 50s were common in the Red River Valley and the Panhandle, the weather service said.

Winds were southerly at 10 to 20 mph over most of the state, and westerly across West Texas.

More scattered thunderstorms were expected across most of the state through today, with some storms possibly severe in northwestern sections.

Highs today are expected to reach the 60s and 70s in the north to the 70s and 80s in southern sections.

NATION

Thunderstorms drenched parts of the Midwest on Friday, carrying tornadoes and swelling rivers over their banks, while up to a foot of snow fell in the Rockies of Utah, Colorado and Idaho.

Twisters demolished homes and flattened trees in scattered communities from Oklahoma to Illinois, with Arkansas hit hardest late Thursday.

Rain fell from eastern New York across the central Appalachians and eastern Kentucky through eastern Tennessee. There was also rain in western Oklahoma and northwestern Texas and from western Oregon to northwestern California.

Secretary of State won't be involved in suit

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The Texas Court of Appeals in El Paso has denied a motion by William T. "Bill" Shaner and the Midland County Republican Executive Committee to join Texas Secretary of State John W. Fainter Jr. in a lawsuit against Shaner and the committee.

Shaner, chairman of the Midland County Republican Party, and the committee had requested that the Secretary of State appear with Shaner before the court in a Monday hearing to explain why that state office's Elections Division gave Shaner advice which "has kept Mr. (Gary) Painter off the Midland County Republican primary ballot for the office of sheriff."

Painter, 36, resigned his post as a patrol lieutenant for Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith on Feb. 6 and then sought out Shaner to file for candidacy for sheriff before the 6 p.m. filing deadline that very day.

Democratic and Republican Party primary elections will be held May 5.

Painter missed the filing deadline by 2½ hours due to what he calls "extenuating circumstances": Shaner, a geological engineer, was out of town on a well site near Plains and no one was authorized to act in Shaner's stead. By the time the two got physically together, the deadline had passed.

Shaner, however, accepted the filing and Painter's $300 filing fee on the condition that the Secretary of State would validate the late filing. It was disallowed.

"I am really very sorry," Shaner penned in a letter to Painter on Feb. 8, when he returned the filing application and Painter's check for $300. "I only wish I had been allowed to give some kind of advice — a little earlier." Feb. 6 marked the end of a 30-day filing period in which Shaner said he was available to accept filings 80 percent of the time.

Subsequently, Painter filed a civil suit against Shaner in an effort to force his name onto the ballot.

Shaner and the committee repeatedly have expressed their "willingness" to include Painter's name on the ballot. If the court denies Painter a place on the ballot, Smith will be unopposed in the primary election but not in the Nov. 6 general election. Joe Carr, a detective sergeant on the Midland Police Department, is the sole sheriff's candidate on the Democratic Party's ballot.

Shaner indicated that the Secretary of State's court appearance was crucial to the issue but said the three-judge court apparently thought otherwise.

"Mr. Shaner and the Midland County Republican Committee had hoped that the Secretary of State's office would recognize their true responsibility in this matter and would explain, not only to Mr. Shaner and the committee, but also to the public, why Mr. Painter cannot be on the ballot," according to a news release suggested by Shaner's attorney, Robert Truitt Jr.

In contrast, Painter said Friday night he is "glad" Secretary of State Fainter isn't getting involved in the court issue between him and Shaner.

"The Secretary of State shouldn't be involved in county politics," Painter said.

Shaner said he has "done everything" he can to put Painter on the ballot. Shaner, Painter and their attorneys are to be in El Paso Monday in urging the appellate court to issue a writ of mandamus "to compel his (Painter's) name to be placed upon the ballot."

On Monday night in Midland, Shaner and the committee are by law to approve names to appear on the ballot.

In that respect, the hearing is quite "timely," Shaner said.

American photographer killed in El Salvador

after the shooting — when guerrillas arrived and told him he could take Hoagland away.

Nickelsberg and members of a nearby CBS crew carried Hoagland to their car and rushed him to the Polyclinic Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival. Nickelsberg said he was told doctors removed a 7.62-mm slug from the body.

Rebels attacked Suchitoto early Friday in heavy fighting that killed at least three policemen, sources in the town said.

Hoagland was the second Newsweek photographer killed in El Salvador. At least 13 Salvadorans and foreigners working for international news organizations have died covering the civil war since it started in October 1979.

It was the first such death since March 1982, when four Dutch journalists and a Chilean television cameraman died in two separate incidents.

Hoagland, who was divorced and had one son, had been working in Central America for about five years. He recently returned from a temporary assignment in Lebanon, and also worked for the Gamma-Liaison photo agency.

He was wounded in El Salvador in 1981, when a car in which he was traveling hit a mine on a country road.

"John Hoagland was an exceptional human being," said Newsweek editor-in-chief Rick Smith. "He loved photojournalism, and he loved this magazine. For the past four years he covered events for us in Lebanon and Central America with fearless dedication.

He had worked for The Associated Press as a free-lancer, covering the civil war in Nicaragua that ended with the overthrow of President Anastasio Somoza by the leftist Sandinista National Liberation Front in July 1979.

The U.S. Embassy issued a statement saying, "Much of what the public has seen of the conflict in El Salvador it owes to John Hoagland and his colleagues, who risk their lives to bring important events to individuals in all parts of the world."

Town plans Texas style St. Patricks' Day feast

SHAMROCK (AP) — The folks in this most Irish of Texas cities claim their St. Patrick's Day celebration is second only to New York in size and splendor and they'll argue that bigger is not necessarily better.

"We probably do have more fun," quipped Howard Weatherby, general chairman of the 38th St. Patrick's Celebration that got under way Friday evening with a barbecue and banquet.

Weather permitting, officials say, as many as 30,000 visitors will descend on this green-hued Panhandle city of 3,000 today for a unique blend of Texas-flavored Irish revelry.

Maybe that should be Irish-flavored Texas revelry, since the activities include team roping and calf roping, dancing and a fiddlers' contest.

Arrests made in drug raid

From Staff Reports

Based on a Crime Stoppers tip, sheriff's deputies raided an Austin Street residence late Friday morning and arrested four men and a woman on narcotics charges.

Formal charges of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs were pending Friday night against the suspects, who were arrested at 1110 Austin St. about 11:30 a.m.

A quantity of marijuana and amphetimines were confiscated in the raid and an investigation is continuing, according to deputies, who said the suspects were in their early 20s.

Resignation of chairman called for

Horton admitted there were problems with public education and with the board. "We need to clean house. But to do so we need to get rid of the personality conflicts and sit down and look at the issues."

About a third of the board members feel as he does, Horton estimated, but he does not expect Butler to resign. And even though the board could vote to remove him, "That will never happen."

Horton angrily objected to the select committee's recommendation that the elected state board be abolished and replaced with a smaller, appointed body. "In no way am I agreeing with the Perot committee. To do away with the board will not address the problem. Perot has not seen first hand the work the board does. I don't think he's knowledgable of what goes on.

"I'm not just defending my job," he continued. "The elected board works and works well and I believe it best serves the needs of the people of Texas. To say we're going to do away with it without first trying to correct it is ridiculous.

"With a political board we're not going to be answering to education, we're going to be answering to politicians."

"All I know is that we will be opening Monday morning at regular business hours, and that it will be a new charter, under the new name of the bank," Lorentzen said.

This is the fifth bank failure in the West Texas area in less than eight months. In July, Metro Bank was declared insolvent and closed under a bad loan burden of almost $7 million. Two months later, on Sept. 30, National Bank of Odessa was closed by federal banking officials. Both bank failures were blamed on large energy-related loan losses.

On Oct. 14, Texas' largest independent bank — First National Bank of Midland — was declared insolvent and closed by the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency and the FDIC was named receiver of the bank's $1.2 billion loan portfolio.

In February, federal banking officials closed Brownfield State Bank and Trust because the bank had suffered excessive loan losses and its owners had failed to replace the depleted capital.

DEATHS

Jones Barron

LAMESA — Services for Jones Beachem "Beachy" Barron, 77, of Lamesa are to be at 3 p.m., today at the First Baptist Church of Lamesa with Dr. C.H. Murphy, pastor, Rev. Clifton Igo, pastor of Second Baptist Church of Lamesa, and Rev. Milo Arbuckle, a retired Midland Baptist minister, officiating. Burial will follow at Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Barron died Thursday morning in a Lubbock hospital after a brief illness. He was a retired farmer who came to Dawson County in 1906 from Walker County, Texas and was a pioneer of Dawson County.

He married Erma Gracie Snell Jan. 30, 1927 at First Baptist Church in Lamesa and was a 56-year member of the church.

Survivors include his wife, Erma Gracie Barron, Lamesa; two sons, Robert and Ross Barron, Lamesa; five daughters, Linnie Ann Hancock, Fort Worth, Barbara Barkowsky, Lamesa, Clara Dean, Andrews, Grace Key, Lubbock, and Elaine Huse, Midland; four brothers, Clyde, Earl and Reese Barron, Lamesa, and Tom Barron of Plains; 24 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

Hearing officer advises against annexation

Although Robinett said such annexation might occur according to the letter of the law, it's purpose was to allow residents some choice in determining where their children could attend school.

"The statute's concern is with people, not property. The transfer of territory from one school district to another is authorized not for its own sake, but solely because of the effect such a transfer has on the people residing within the transferred area."

Petitioners said the uninhabited 4,000 acres was included in the proposal because developers felt anyone moving into the area — most of which is within Odessa city limits — would be in the same situation as the Ridgewood residents. But Robinett said the law was intended to allow people actually residing in a particular area to change their school affiliation, and not to serve the interests of developers.

Even though Robinett admitted that "in some instances — perhaps even in the present case — adjacent residents and developers might be better suited than the legislature to determine which school district will best serve their prospective neighbors or purchasers."

"I'm absolutely elated," MISD board president Bill Jackson said of the recommendation. "I feel like we were right all along and was sure this would be his thoughts also. If we hadn't been providing busing and schooling for these kids that would be one thing. But we have done whatever it took to serve this community and will in the future."

The Commissioner of Education is expected to make his decision within two months. Both sides have previously indicated they would appeal a denial to the State Board of Education.

"My understanding has been, and the general feeling of the community is, that we would pursue an appeal if they ruled against us," Ridgewood resident Jean Berridge said Friday.

Presentation of platform turns into debate

Lasater said the city might look at federal funds on repairing streets. Akins replied that "taxes paid to the federal govenment have no business fixing streets in Midland. And if you're going to have 25 new police officers, where does the money come from? City government has a certain income and that's it.

"It's hard to trust anything anyone is saying when they're drunk or in love or running for office," the mayor concluded.

But Lasater contended that "if there's a will, there's a way. We need to evaluate waste in city government."

In his opening remarks, Akins reminded that audience that he was following an "outstanding predecessor." But Lasater countered that the predecessor — Ernest Angelo Jr. — had no experience in city government prior to being elected mayor.

Cabbies drive Great Toke War into best establishments, courts

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Ask a cabbie in this city to take you to the best restaurant, bar, strip joint, wedding chapel or brothel, and you're likely to wind up at the establishment currently winning the Great Toke War.

This town ticks on tokes, but some of its oldest practitioners are saying enough is enough. And they've gone to court to see if a judge can define a line between routine tipping and diversion.

Cab drivers have long been paid "tokes," or tips, when they deliver customers to a long list of varied business establishments. Now some of the restaurants that used to pay the tokes are complaining cabbies are diverting riders to the businesses that pay the highest bounty.

The issue began to boil over last year when popular Strip restaurants such as The Flame found cab drivers were steering or diverting customers to other businesses.

Flame owner Edward Jaffe and six other restaurants hired attorney Frank Ellis III. Ellis hired investigators who took 169 cab rides. He said in 55 percent of the cases, the driver tried to divert the passenger away from the establishment where he or she asked to be taken, opting for a place paying higher tokes.

"A customer would ask to go to a place like The Flame and the cab driver would say, 'You don't want to go there. They've got bad food, bad service. They've been closed down by the Board of Health,'" Ellis said.

Ellis filed suit against 11 cab companies, several drivers and "the biggest culprit, Philips Supper House."

Philips, 2½ miles west of the Strip, actively solicits drivers, paying them $2 to $3 per customer, giving them hats, jackets and menus — all extolling the virtues of the restaurant.

"Those costs are all passed on to te consumer," Ellis contends.

Attorney Albert Marquis, who represents Philips owner Philip Deal, said his client has offered to quit if other restaurants will do the same.

That doesn't appear likely.

A publication for the city's 400-plus cab drivers, "Nevada Times," lists more than 100 establishments that offer a variety of tokes. A year ago the list numbered 40 and Marquis admits the problem is "something of a vicious circle."

Charter airlines pay cabbies up to $55 a person for those who buy Grand Canyon tours. Numerous wedding chapels offer $35 a couple and cabs line up outside the Clark County courthouse to snare couples leaving the Marriage License Bureau.

If a cab driver tries to steer you to the Ali-Baba or Lucky motel it may be because he'll get $10 for every customer.

Those wanting to partake of Nevada's legal brothels are of particular delight to the cabbies. The closest house is the Chicken Ranch in Pahrump, 60 miles west of Las Vegas. Round trip translates to an $85 fare and the Ranch offers cabbies 20 per cent of everything customers spend.

Marquis is asking that the case be thrown out of district court because there's no proof drivers are diverting customers. The city's 11 cab companies, named as defendants in the suit, have also asked to be severed from the case.

The issue has been bouncing around since last year and is now before District Judge John Mendoza. He's expected to decide March 28 whether to sever the cab companies from the suit.

District Judge Carl Christensen was the first judge to hear the lawsuit.

He told the two sides if he were a dictator he would make it illegal to toke a cab driver. He said he was irritated that a cab driver could take him to a restaurant and pick up a $3 toke for "delivering a turkey, which is what the patron of the cab company is when he is subject to this kind of practice."

Horns will toot to promote United Way agencies

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The United Way of Midland does give a hoot, and you can tell by the toots.

Beginning in a week, the "toot do doo" sounds of horn-blowers are to be coming over the radio and television airwaves and figuratively in the newspaper. The purpose is simply promotional and educational: to let the thousands of United Way supporters know exactly what their money is funding.

In the non-campaign season, the United Way seems to fade into background and gets relatively little press coverage.

In a six-week campaign in the fall of 1983, United Way raised $1.8 million in operating capital for 16 public-service agencies. A 16th agency, the Palmer Drug Abuse Program, has been approved for United Way funding in 1984.

"Many individuals pledge to the annual United Way campaign in September," Arlene J. Strickland, the United Way's communications chairman, said in a toot-off meeting with the broadcast and print media Friday in the Midland Chamber of Commerce offices. "But a great number are unfamiliar with the variety of human-service agencies their contribution supports."

To make the public aware of United Way services, the organization is asking the broadcast and print media to promote the agencies during "United Way Salutes Its Agencies With Awareness Week" March 25 through 31.

On radio and television, agency-by-agency promotionals are to include the trumpet and other horn sounds. Ms. Strickland gave this razzle-dazzle example: "Camp Fire is a 'toot do doo' United Way Agency."

"We're not trying to make fun of a particular agency," she said, "or to make light of United Way." Ms. Strickland said she hopes no one will be "offended by the frivolous nature" of the scheme.

"It's a rather unusual approach to a media campaign," she noted, "and that's exactly what we are counting on to grab the public's attention."

Ms. Strickland said she and her 3½-year-old son, Danny, conferred on the horn-blowing gimmick to draw attention to United Way agencies.

"Oh, yes," she said, "he toots real well."

Helping Ms. Strickland "toot" off the promotional campaign was Mary Whiteman, United Way's communications director.

"Things get kind of boring in the non-campaign (season)," Ms. Whiteman said. "People (sometimes) don't think we do anything, but we keep trying...

"We're excited," she said. "We feel we have designed a unique campaign to acquaint the community with how their United Way dollars are working all year-round."

Lending support to the Strickland-Whiteman toot-off were Sarah McDonald, Becky Brasswell, Joe Lynch and Jane Leslie, United Way public relations volunteers; Nan Gordon, executive director of the Midland Rape Crisis Center; Lisa Kubik, representative of the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Their Children; Ann Saegesser, representative of the Camp Fire; and Candy Stoltz, United Way campaign director.

The United Way in 1983 provided services to thousands of Midlanders through 16 agencies: American Cancer Society, American Red Cross, Boys' Club of Midland, Buffalo Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America, Petro-Plains Council of Camp Fire, Casa de Amigos, Community Day Nursery, Midland Council on Alcoholism, Family Services of Midland, Permian Basin Council of Girl Scouts, Rape Crisis Center, Midland Tape Lending Library, Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Their Children, The Salvation Army, West Texas Epilepsy Association and selected youth programs of the YMCA at the Alamo, Metropolitan, Park and Washington branches.

Midland Mayor G. Thane Akins has proclaimed March 25-31 as "United Way of Midland Agency Awareness Week."

Gibson, Sims attend seminar

From Staff Reports

A public forum on state agencies for developmentally disabled citizens drew Sen. Bill Sims and Rep. Jay Gibson to Midland Friday to hear criticism from area residents on the state programs for the handicapped.

During the day-long forum, complaints were made against the unnecessary bureaucracy involved in collecting state funds for the handicapped, ineffective adult education programs, the qualifications of those teaching mentally handicapped children and the failure of mainstreaming the handicapped into society through residential alternative living programs.

Organized to receive imput from the public around the state, the local hearing featured representatives from the Department of Mental Health & Mental Retardation, Texas Department of Human Resources, Texas Education Agency, Texas Department of Health and Texas Commission for the Deaf.

Representatives of The Texas Planning Council for Developmental Disabilities, which design the state programs, led the forum.

Eliminating the state's institutions for the severly retarded was discussed, with members of the Midland Association of Retarded Citizens opting for state support for smaller, group homes in the community for those who would benefit from them.

"Obviously, we're in a transitional time," said Ray Unterbrink, MARC executive director. "But we think we need to move immediately in developing it. We need to put forth the real effort to implement our community-based services."

According to MARC members, many individuals who are currently functioning at high enough levels should be mainstreamed into society. "We need to concentrate on placing these individuals in the community as soon as possible," Unterbrink said.

When the public became aware of MARC's residential alternative living program for retarded citizens, the organization was "deluged" with placement requests for handicapped people they were unaware of in Midland, he said.

Public testimony and recommendations were given on the difficulties the disabled have in finding jobs and receiving state compensation funds for their handicaps. Vocational-type services for the handicapped were major needs, as were support services for families of the handicapped and more medical education and knowledge about diagnosing developmental disorders for area physicians.

Continuation of schooling during the summer months for the learning disabled was another concern expressed. According to a mother of an LD teen-ager, "We're paying twice as much for a rather lax baby-sitting service (in the summer) rather than a highly skilled program."

Discussions will continue today with the Association of Retarded Citizens of Texas hosting an educational meeting for members and other interested persons at the Holiday Inn, 4300 W. Highway 80, beginning at 10 a.m.

The forum will focus on reasons why the association favors small, community-based residential environments to large, congregate state school facilities.

Car hits bus

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — Twelve Ector County school children and a bus driver escaped injury Friday afternoon when their school bus was involved in a two-vehicle accident. The driver of the car was treated and released from Medical Center Hospital.

According to Department of Public Safety reports, the Ector County Independent School District bus, driven by Tanya Reeves, was traveling east on Westmoor about 1:45 p.m.

The car, driven by 28-year-old Marilyn Harper of Odessa, was southbound on Huntington. The bus driver apparently failed to yield the right-of-way, a DPS spokeswoman said, and the car struck the rear of the vehicle.

Drug Lucas taking affects judgment, lawyers say

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Henry Lee Lucas, who claims to have killed at least 150 women, has been taking a powerful anti-psychotic drug that defense attorneys say affects his judgment in discussing his capital murder case.

Lucas is on trial for the killing of an unidentified woman hitchhiker whose nude body was found in Georgetown in 1979. Jury selection began Monday in the capital murder trial moved here on a change of venue.

Dr. Steve Benold of Georgetown, the Williamson County jail physician, said Thursday that he prescribed the drug four weeks ago after Lucas complained that he had trouble sleeping.

The San Angelo Standard-Times said Lucas is receiving 100 milligrams a day of chlorpromazine, which is prescribed under the trade name Thorazine.

Lucas is taking the drug in four 25-milligram dosages a day. He receives one in the morning, one in the evening and two at night, Benold said.

Benold said Lucas was under great pressure at the time he prescribed the drug, after a psychological examination.

"Because of his hectic schedule, interviewing with law officers as much as 10 hours a day, he was having mild hallucinations and had severe insomnia," Benold said.

Until the examination, Benold had prescribed a milder tranquilizer, he said.

However, Williamson County Sheriff Jim Boutwell said that Lucas had a prescription for Thorazine before he came into the care of Williamson County last November. Neither Boutwell nor Benold knew how much Thorazine that Lucas was taking before being transferred to Georgetown, the newspaper said.

Sheriff W.F. Conway of Montague County said that Lucas was taking prescription medicines while in the care of his county, but did not know what kind.

Defense attorneys argued in a motion to throw out Lucas' confessions in the Georgetown case on grounds that the medication had affected his judgment in discussing his case. But Conway said Lucas was not taking the medication until after the first confession was given.

Chlorpromazine, or Thorazine, is classified as a major tranquilizer, "used to keep thought processes clear," according to Benold. "It does not have the numbing effect of the minor tranquilizers."

Lucas' attorney, Don Higginbotham, said earlier this week that Lucas has been little help in preparing his defense. In earlier interviews, Higginbotham described his client as "confused." Lucas changes his stories frequently, Higginbotham said.

"When he (Lucas) is on anti-psychotic drugs, there's no question he does better," Higginbotham said.

Higginbotham has filed notice that he will employ the insanity defense in the trial.

Houston commuters have luxurious bus stop shelter

HOUSTON (AP) — Commuters in a north Houston neighborhood can wait for their buses in luxury, thanks to a neighbor's ingenuity and craftsmanship.

Jim Wallace Smith built a special bus stop shelter near his home in Houston's Heights area to keep his neighbors comfortable as they wait for their buses.

"So many of them stand out there in the cold, rain and hot sun," said Smith, 68, who is retired. "And they have to wait because the buses don't run regular like they should. Sometimes they (passengers) ask to stand on our porch when it rains."

Smith said he built the 11-by-12-foot shelter from concrete and steel for about $400. Not an ordinary shelter, it features chairs, windows and a wood-burning stove that Smith made from an old washing machine. Smith lights the stove on cold mornings.

The shelter also has mirrors, including one hung low for children to use.

"I see more men fixing their face and hair than I do the ladies," said Smith's wife, Pearl.

Smith said he has received about $10 in contributions from women who use the stop.

He said he plans to paint the shelter and add speakers to pipe music from his home. There also are plans for a signal light telling the bus when to stop and an electric fan to keep the waiting commuters cool.

Metro spokesman Randy Baker said people can build their own bus shelters as long as they are not on city property.

"There's no way we can put one at each stop," Baker said. "So we put them at the points where there is the greatest concentration of patrons."

Prosecutor seeks conviction of two men accused of rape

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — Asking jurors to discard "that myth that rape victims somehow...invited the crime against them," a prosecutor Friday demanded the conviction of two men accused of raping a woman on a barroom pool table.

But defense attorneys argued for acquittal, saying the woman who made the accusation was a willing participant who "knew in her mind and her heart that this was a consensual act."

Wrapping up one of two trials in a case that became a national rallying point for women's activists, prosecutor Raymond Veary told jurors, "Something very wrong happened to that woman in that bar."

Although Veary acknowledged there were varying stories, the assistant Bristol County district attorney said four witnesses "put Daniel Silva on top of her on top of the pool table when she was crying and resisting, and that, I say to you, is rape."

He asked the jury to convict Silva and Joseph Vieira of raping the 22-year-old woman at Big Dan's tavern in New Bedford on March 6, 1983. The woman testified she was held on the pool table and attacked as bar spectators cheered.

The closing arguments came after both sides rested their case in the afternoon trial of Silva, 27, and Vieira, 28, who are charged with aggravated rape. The jury will begin deliberations Saturday morning, sifting through 16 days of testimony by 30 witnesses.

Veary told jurors the woman may have lied about some of her activities in the bar that night, but he said drinking and talking with men is not an invitation to rape.

"Take away her innocence if you must," he said. "Don't take away her humanity.

"Don't perpetuate the myth about rape victims," he said, "that myth that rape victims somehow through their own acts invited the crime against them — by walking into a bar, by having a couple of drinks, by perhaps talking to a couple of male patrons, (the woman) somehow invited what was done to her later and somehow deserved it, and doesn't deserve your consideration and this court's protection under that law."

In closing arguments for Silva, attorney Edward Harrington said his client did attempt sex with the woman, but it was "an act he thought was consensual."

Harrington said it was only after other men crowded around Silva and the woman that she became upset. He noted the woman did not identify Silva to police when she returned to the bar later that night.

"That was because she knew in her mind and her heart that this was a consensual act," he said.

Attorney David Waxler said the prosecution failed to prove its case against his client, Joseph Vieira, who did not take the stand.

Both attorneys attacked the testimony of the woman who said she was raped on the pool table by both Silva and Vieira.

Harrington said the woman's story "changed remarkably from hour to hour, day to day and week to week." Waxler accused the woman of lying on the stand.

The last witness was William Sturner, the medical examiner for Rhode Island, who said Friday that a sample taken from the woman after the attack showed traces of sperm. But he said it could not be determined whether the sperm came from sexual activity that night.

The prosecution completed its case Friday against four other men being tried separately on the same charges, and attorneys said that second case will go to the jury next week. Those defendants are John Cordeiro, Victor Raposo, Jose Medeiros and Virgilio Medeiros.

"The jury will have the case by Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest," said Kenneth Sullivan, Cordeiro's attorney.

Silva and Vieira face possible life sentences if convicted on the charge of aggravated rape. The jury can opt for lesser charges ranging from assault and battery to lewd and lascivious behavior. The latter carries penalties of fines and probation.

Kennedy Jr. placed on probation

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Saying the punishment had "nothing to do with your name," a judge gave Robert F. Kennedy Jr. a two-year suspended sentence and placed him on probation Friday for possessing heroin aboard an airline flight.

Circuit Judge Marshall Young imposed a number of probation conditions, including continued drug treatments and 1,500 hours of community service. But he said he was impressed with the attitude shown by Kennedy, 30, son of the late U.S. attorney general and senator.

"I think you have a real good probability and possibility of overcoming your drug addiction," Young told Kennedy. "You're the only one that can solve these problems. You've taken some giant steps" in recent months.

Kennedy's 10-minute court appearance Friday came nearly a month after he pleaded guilty to a felony charge of possessing about two-tenths of a gram of heroin when he became ill aboard a flight from Minneapolis to Rapid City in September.

The judge said he believed it was in the best interest of justice and society to suspend imposition of sentence against Kennedy. A suspended sentence is the usual punishment for first-time drug offenders who aren't involved in selling drugs, the judge said.

The sentence "has nothing to with your name or anything else," Young said.

If Kennedy violates the terms of his probation, which will be served in New York, he will go to prison for two years, Young said. But if he succesfully completes probation, Kennedy will have no criminal record, the judge added.

Last large Olds 98 rolls off assembly line

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The last rear-wheel-drive Oldsmobile 98 rolled off the assembly line Friday — 36 years after the introduction of the big sedan that became the flagship of the General Motors Corp. division.

The last car — a metallic blue, four-door model — was the 2,297,601st Olds 98 built at Lansing's Oldsmobile plant. It will be kept by the GM division for "historical purposes," such as parades and auto shows, said company spokesman Phil Workman.

The model will not remain, but the name will, Workman said. The new Olds 98 will be a smaller, more fuel-efficient front-wheel-drive car.

The Olds 98 was introduced in late 1947 as the "Golden Anniversary Oldsmobile." The first 98 was powered with an eight-cylinder, 115-horsepower engine and in the first year, 65,235 Olds 98s were sold. The car reached the peak of its popularity in 1977, when nearly 140,000 were sold.

Two people die, three hurt in Libyan raid on Sudan

world

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — An unidentified jet bomber struck four targets in the Sudanese city of Omdurman on Friday, and President Gaafar Nimeiri of Sudan accused Libya of ordering the raid, the official Egyptian news agency said.

The agency said the Soviet-built Tu-22 bomber flew in from the southwest and dropped five bombs, hitting the chief government radio station, two houses and an administrative building in the city of 300,000 people near Khartoum, the capital. It said the fifth bomb struck a house but did not explode.

The Middle East News Agency said two people were killed and three were injured.

Egypt, which has a mutual defense treaty with Sudan, immediately sent its defense minister to Khartoum and pledged to stand by Nimieri's pro-Western government against any further aggression.

In a statement distributed by the Egyptian agency, Nimeiri accused Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy of ordering the raid. Nimeiri has repeatedly claimed Libya and Ethiopia were supporting southern Sudanese rebels.

Nimeiri was quoted as saying the raid "proves his conspiracy and his joint operations against Sudan in coordination with Ethiopia." He did not elaborate.

There was no word on the plane's place of origin. But the authoritative "Jane's All The World's Aircraft" says only Libya, Iraq and the Soviet Union have the TU-22, a long-range bomber known as the "blinder."

Sudan put its armed forces on full alert but there was no word on any military activity against the government.

In its dispatch from Khartoum, the Egyptian news agency quoted the Sudanese military command as saying "all air and land forces in Sudan have been put on alert to repel any attack."

"Sudanese air space has been secured against any possible aggression," the military added.

Egypt's defense minister, Field Marshal Abdel-Halim Abu-Ghazala, described the raid as a "dangerous aggression" and said military commands of the two countries would work together to confront any further action "now and in the future."

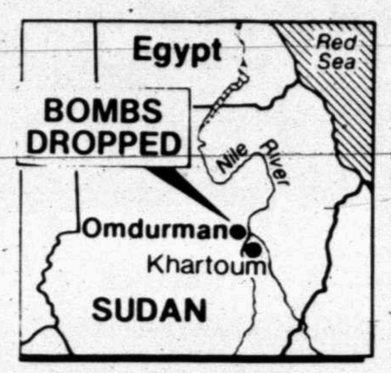

In Cairo, the Egyptian Foreign Ministry condemned the raid as "a foolish and childish adventure.... Egypt is closely watching the situation and all attempts aimed at interfering in Sudan's domestic affairs ... and foreign designs aimed at undermining Sudanese security."

David Shinn, deputy cief of mission at the U.S. Embassy in Khartoum, confirmed the raid, which he said was carried out by "one jet aircraft" about 11:30 a.m. (4:30 a.m. EST).

"There was a small number of deaths, two or three," he told The Associated Press in Cairo by telephone. "Damage was not considerable. Five bombs were dropped in one overfly."

Shinn said there was no sign of unusual military activity and that Khartoum and its suburbs were quiet.

Omdurman, Sudan's largest city and chief commercial center, is part of a northern tri-city metropolitan area at the confluence of the Blue Nile and the White Nile — across from Khartoum and Khartoum North.

Sudan, in northeastern Africa, borders on Egypt, Ethiopia, Libya, Chad, Uganda, Zaire, Kenya, and the Central African Republic. It has a largely Moslem Arab population in the north and black Christian and animist population in the south.

Formerly one of Africa's most politically unstable countries, the Sudan has been led by Nimeiri for 15 years. He has survived more than a dozen reported coup attempts.

His government faces a growing rebellion among southern tribes, which has stepped up since he imposed Islamic law nationwide.

Southern rebels have staged attacks on government troops, shelled the provincial capital Malakal and raided foreign oil and construction projects, kidnapping several foreign workers.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said the United States deplored the attack. He said he did not know which country was responsible but added: "conventional wisdom is that the only Tu-22's in the area belong to Libya."

Following reports of Libyan-backed unrest in southern Sudan, the United States has been reviewing Sudanese requests for additional American military equipment.

In Washington, a U.S. official who asked not to be identified said the requests have been considered on an urgent basis and are being reviewed "even more intensely" in light of Friday's incident.

Reagan names Bergold new ambassador to Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Friday he would replace Anthony Quainton, the U.S. ambassador in Nicaragua, with Harry E. Bergold Jr., a career foreign service officer who has most recently served as ambassador to Hungary.

The decision to replace Quainton, made public earlier although not officially announced, was said to have reflected an administration concern that he had not applied sufficient pressure on the leftist Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Bergold has served in State Department posts in Honduras, Mexico, Spain and Panama. In addition, he has served as a deputy assistant secretary of defense and as an assistant secretary of energy for international affairs.

He held the post in Hungary from 1980 to 1983.

In announcing the move, the White House gave no reason for replacing Quainton. No new post for the envoy was immediately announced.

One official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said Quainton irritated Henry A. Kissinger, chairman of the National Bipartisan Commission on Central America, by suggesting that the United States could coexist peacefully with the Sandinista government.

The State Department has said Kissinger had no role in Quainton's reassignment.

Harry E. Bergold

Quainton also antagonized some conservatives when he disputed allegations that the Nicaraguan government was anti-Semitic. In a confidential cable that Quainton filed on July 16, he said that his embassy staff had found "no verifiable ground" to accuse the Sandinistas of anti-Semitism. Reagan and some Jewish groups had asserted that the Sandinista regime drove the nation's small Jewish community into exile.

According to the official who requested anonymity, Bergold is a "solid professional" who earned high marks for his service in Hungary. He said the appointment of Bergold to the Managua post reflects the importance the United States attaches to its relationship with Nicaragua.

Bergold joined the Foreign Service in 1957 at age 26, serving tours of duty early in his career in Tegucigalpa and Mexico City. From 1966 to 1972, he served as political military counselor in Madrid, participating in negotiations on U.S. base rights in Spain and in the management of U.S.-Spanish military ties.

He was political officer in Panama from 1972-73.

The United States has been financing right-wing rebels trying to unseat the Marxist government of Nicaragua. Administration officials say they are only seeking to prevent Nicaragua from shipping arms to leftist insurgents in El Salvador, but the Nicaraguan government accuses Washington of plotting its overthrow.

On Wednesday, the Senate Appropriations Committee approved an emergency $21 million increase in military aid sought by the administration for the Nicaraguan "contras," $7 million of which would be made available to the CIA immediately. The measure requires approval by the full Senate and then the House.

Israel considers pulling troops in Lebanon to new defense line

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel is considering pulling its troops in Lebanon back to a new defense line south of the port city of Sidon and about 14 miles closer to its border, a military source said Friday.

The source, who spoke on condition he not be identified, was reacting to reports on Israel radio that a pullback seemed one of Israel's most viable choices for cutting casualties and the costs of maintaing an army in Lebanon.

After Lebanon's March 5 abrogation of the Lebanon-Israel accord, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's government signaled it was ready to redeploy its forces in Lebanon. But it has given no hint as to the timing.

A decision on where to draw the new line also has been postponed while officials wait for the outcome of the Syrian-mediated Lebanese reconciliation talks in Lausanne, Switzerland.

The military source said the conference results would be a "factor" in when and where Israel would redeploy. If a "new reconstituted Lebanese army" emerged from a strengthened Lebanese government, this could affect Israeli redeployment plans, he said.

Israel has refused to negotiate a new troop withdrawal accord to replace the one nullified by the Beirut government. But there have been growing indications it might seek different security arrangements if a stronger central government in Beirut emerged from the Lausanne conference.

Meanwhile, the army has been drawing up plans to pull back from its front line at the Awali River north of Sidon, 35 miles north of the border, the military source said. Sidon, provincial capital of south Lebanon with a population of 250,000, has been a focal point for attacks against Israeli troops.

One of the redeployment plans given prominence in Israeli news reports would bring Israeli troops midway between the Zahrani River just south of Sidon and the Litani River, where United Nations forces are deployed.

The new line would put Israel's army at about 21 miles north of the Israeli border, just beyond the range of most Soviet-made Katyusha rockets used by Palestinian guerrillas to attack Israeli border settlements.

The source declined to elaborate on the plan or say if it was the army's preferred alternative.

CAP searching for small plane

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Four Civil Air Patrol airplanes were searching in northeastern New Mexico Friday for a small plane missing since Sunday with three Texans aboard.

A.B. Rylee, 52, the pilot, and his two sons, Jerry, 32, and Duane, 20, were reported missing Sunday. They were on a flight from Gunnison, Colo., to their home in Porter, Texas, a Houston suburb, in a white Cessna 310 with orange and brown trim.

CAP spokeswoman Madge Harrah said foul weather was hindering the search effort in New Mexico, and had forced a temporary suspension in southern Colorado and West Texas.

Salmonella blamed on pet turtles

ATLANTA (AP) — A study of salmonella bacterial disease in Puerto Rican infants showed that as many as one out of six cases may be blamed on pet turtles.

Of 61 salmonellosis patients under age 1 in Puerto Rico last year, seven had pet turtles or had direct contact with them in the two weeks before becoming sick, and another three may have had contact with the turtles, the federal Centers for Disease Control said Thursday.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration banned the commercial distribution of such turtles nine years ago after studies showed that 14 percent of reported salmonellosis, which can cause intestinal disease, was attributable to them. Health inspectors checking pet shops on Puerto Rico impounded more than 1,200 turtles, all of them from two turtle farms in Louisiana, the CDC said in its Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report.

Boy sent to facility in shooting

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy charged with shooting a teacher while she led her class in singing the national anthem has been sent to the state Department of Corrections for evaluation and placement in a secure facility.

Winnebago County Associate Judge Bradner Riggs ruled out probation for Michael Graham, but his order carries the possiblity of parole before the youth reaches 21. Graham pleaded guilty to shooting and wounding Sharon Mundt, his teacher at Boylan Catholic High School, on Dec. 16.

Riggs recommended on Tuesday that Graham be sent to a secure facility for emotionally disturbed teens where he would receive psychiatric treatment.

Boy honored for saving brother

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 9-year-old boy who saved his sleeping 5-year-old brother from a fire in their home has been given the Fire Department's highest civilian award for bravery.

After Jonathan Manahan's class at Franklin Street Elementary School recited original limericks about fire safety, fire Battalion Chief Robert MacMillan presented Jonathan on Thursday with an official certificate. Jonathan scooped up his brother, Joseph, after he was awakened by a smoke detector.

Only six to 10 such awards are given annualLy, very few of them to children, said fire Capt. Tony DiDomenico.

Hart: U.S. troops shouldn't be in Mideast

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Gary Hart said Friday that during a war in the Middle East, the United States should not send troops to protect or restore the flow of Persian Gulf oil to its allies in Western Europe or Japan.

"I think it would place too great a burden on the American people to suggest we have some long requirement for expending...large numbers of American lives fighting for oil in other countries," the Democratic presidential hopeful said.

Campaiging hard four days before the critical Illinois primary election, Hart also said that as president, he would negotiate with U.S. allies a reduction of American ground troops in Europe, to be replaced by greater emphasis on building up U.S. naval forces in the Atlantic.

In an appearance before 1,600 members of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, Hart called for discussions "behind closed doors on the future of NATO and its structure."

"As this country maintains one-third of a million men on European soil 30 years after World War II, we are not meeting our other security commitments to that alliance," the Colorado senator said.

Those commitments to protect the sea lanes against Soviet domination would be met by building a bigger Navy with smaller more maneuverable ships, plus restoring the American maritime shipping fleet, Hart said.

Gary Hart

In his speech, Hart made no direct criticism of campaign rival Walter F. Mondale, although the former vice president used the same forum last week to attack Hart's foreign policy proposals as naive and not well thought out.

Hart said his administration would adopt a policy of "reciprocity toward the Soviet Union," which he said, "does not require that we like or even trust each other."

Rather, he said, it means negotiating nuclear arms reduction with the Soviets and "recognizes as a fact of life that neither superpower can win an arms race or a nuclear war."

Hart launched a bitter attack against President Reagan, saying that under his administration, the United States has been "a nation without a foreign policy...a ship without a compass — lost, tossed, drifting on zig-zag course, vulnerable on a stormy sea."

Hart said Reagan has been one of the "weakest presidents in our history," a leader who like William McKinley, William Howard Taft, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover "responded to disorder and rebellion in Central America and the Caribbean ... by sending in the Marines."

Asked about Mondale's criticism that Hart would pull all U.S. troops out of Honduras while allowing Nicaragua and Cuba to send their troops into other Central American nations, Hart said to applause, "I do not think there is a military solution in Central America.'

"The central problem in Central America is poverty, not communism," Hart said urging that the United States send agricultural and medical aid to the region rather than U.S. troops.

Answering questions after his speech, Hart noted that American reliance on oil from Middle Eastern nations has been declining.

"Meanwhile, he said, "The Europeans and the Japanese may not have the same luxury."

As president, Hart said he would say to them that they "should consider what our response would be if those oil supplies get cut off in coming years and the impact it will have on your economy."

He said it is possible that the United States could provide air and naval support if U.S. allies went to war to retain their supply of oil from the Middle East. But no American troops would be provided, he said.

Asked whether he would reinstate the military draft, Hart said he was opposed to what he said was the unfair military conscription system he said took only poor people to fight in Vietnam.

But if the economy improved and enlistments in the all-volunteer Army declined, Hart said he would support a mandatory public service program for men and women. This, he said, would involve civilian and military jobs for 18- to 20-year-olds for a year or 18 months and would include an education program.

From Chicago, Hart flew to Milan, Ill., and then back to Chicago for a rally at the University of Illinois.

Mother sentenced in son's beating death

ALLEGAN, Mich. (AP) — A mother was sentenced to four to 15 years in prison Friday for involuntary manslaughter in the beating death of her son at a camp operated by the House of Judah religious sect.

"I put all my faith in God. He knows I'm innocent," Ethel Yarbough, a member of the House of Judah, said as she entered Allegan Circuit Court. Later, as she was being led to jail, she said, "I most definitely will appeal my case."

Mrs. Yarbough, 33, was convicted in the July 4, 1983, death of her 12-year-old son, John. She was the last of six members of the sect of "Black Hebrew Israelite Jews" charged in the case.

She showed no emotion as Circuit Judge George Corsiglia passed sentence, with a contingent from the sect looking on.

"I think this defendant has a lot of good qualities, but there is a defect in her understanding of what it means to be a good parent," Corsiglia said.

"This is a tragic case when someone subjects themselves and their family to an institution which apparently has no leadership or one that can't control its members," he said. "This presentence report indicates she still wants to live there (at the camp) and this court feels that is improper."

County Prosecutor Fred R. Hunter III said Mrs. Yarbough probably would be sent to the Huron Valley Correctional Facility near Ypsilanti.

The boy's death sparked civil and criminal investigations into the cult's camp, located about 20 miles southwest of Allegan.

House of Judah "Prophet" William A. Lewis was acquitted of one count of child cruelty. Identical charges against his son, William L. Lewis, and Robert McGee were dropped in January.

Sect member Larry Branson and former member Theodore Jones previously pleaded no contest to child cruelty charges. They were each sentenced to one year in the county jail.

Lewis has said that Mrs. Yarbough is innocent.

"They should let that woman go free," Lewis said. "No way did she kill that boy."

Within a week of the youngster's death, the Allegan County Probate Court sent a task force to the cult's camp and removed 11 children. Two days later, 55 more children were taken from their parents at the camp and placed in foster homes.

Conservationists seek to safeguard elephants

LILONGWE, Malawi (AP) — More than 60,000 elephants die each year, providing 800 tons of ivory for a $500 million business, an American researcher says, and conservationists are concerned about how long the species can survive without strict controls on the ivory trade.

Esmond Bradley Martin says the first Africa-wide regulations could be developed after field studies are completed this year. Their aim, he said is to conserve shrinking elephant herds and, at the same time, "to come up with a management plan so that African countries can maximize income from ivory sales.

"Ivory is a legitimate resource that poor countries should be able to exploit," he said.

The current study is financed by Japanese ivory carvers through the Swiss-based International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources. Martin said the carving industry in Japan and Hong Kong, which take 70 percent of the ivory trade, wants to stabilize shipments "to produce a sustained yield indefinitely."

Martin, 42, a geographer from Westbury, N.Y. who has lived in Nairobi, Kenya, for 20 years, toured southern Africa this month on a survey of elephant numbers. He has been working on elephant data for six years with Ian Parker, a Kenya-based British authority on ivory dealings.

At stake is a world ivory business worth $500 million a year at retail prices.

Despite human encroachment, Africa still has more than 1 million elephants, and they are not in danger of extinction, Martin said.

But more than 60,000 die each year — naturally and from legal culling and poaching — and "the question is whether that is a sustainable death rate," Martin said in an interview.

He is a vice chairman of the Conservation Union, a research unit financed by the non-profit World Wildlife Fund and the United Nations Environment Program.

In some areas, elephant populations have dropped sharply through poaching and human settlement in bush areas. Kenya's elephants have decreased to 50,000 from 165,000 in 1972. Uganda's elephants have declined by 90 percent in 14 years, Martin said.

In southern Africa, elephant numbers have risen. Zimbabwe had 3,000 some 80 years ago and now has 52,000.

"South of the Zambezi River, there is a surplus of elephants, and culling is going on in Zimbabwe, South Africa and South-West Africa. The elephant is well managed in Botswana and Malawi," Martin said. "North of the Zambezi is a disaster of mismanagement. Many more controls on trade are needed."

Martin cited Sudan, which exported 200 tons of ivory last year — far more than its own production — and Burundi, which has one elephant but exported 40 tons. He said both countries gave legal export permits easily and thus became "laundering" stops for poached ivory smuggled from Zaire, Tanzania and elsewhere.

Heavy poaching was reported in Sudan, Somalia, Chad and Zambia.

Much of the Burundi ivory was shipped through Belgium, Martin said.

But he said Belgium, "once the easiest country in Europe to get ivory into," joined the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species this year, and Sudan pledged to stop ivory shipments. For those reasons, dealers rushed to get ivory out of Africa and 1983 exports may have been the highest since 1914 when 1,000 tons were shipped, Martin said.

The world market price of ivory — $42 a kilogram (2.2 pounds) — climbed 20 percent since November, as dealers anticipated a shortage.

Martin said production quotas could be set through measurement of tusk weights. Parker's research over 25 years, he said, has shown that tusk weights give accurate clues about elephant over-kills.

"Once the average tusk weight falls below five to six kilograms (11 to 13 pounds), the great majority of elephants being killed are females and babies — in other words, the breeding nucleus," Martin said.

"When tusk weights fell too low from an African region, we could go to the two major importing countries and advise them not to import from that area. Or we could simply advise the importers not to accept any consignments under a five-kilogram average weight."

Robot barkeep spills drinks, too

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Scarab the bartender was having a little trouble the first day on the job, spilling beer and knocking over glasses.

The Bloody Marys didn't have celery stalks in them, but the tequila sunrises came out right.

Scarab is what its developer hopes is the barkeep of the future: an 8-foot-tall, $65,000 robot that takes orders by walkie-talkie and delivers drinks with a cheery, "And here is your order, all done."

The machine, whose full name is Scarab X-1, was demonstrated recently by Ron Meyer, a 54-year-old former hospital equipment developer who has been working on it for a year.

During the demonstration at the factory, Scarab addressed waitress Judith Haig, who was hooked up to a special walkie-talkie.

"May I have your order?" it said.

Across the room, she asked for a Bloody Mary, tequila sunrise and beer. She had to repeat the order several times before the machine understood, beeped twice and went to work.

The mechanical arm knocked over a glass and Meyer cringed. His assistant then opened up the machine and took out the unbroken glass. Scarab then poured too much beer, and the foam spilled onto the floor.

"Beer is very difficult to work with," said Marty Watts, one of Meyer's assistants. "Right now we've got no solution to the beer problem."

U.S. Navy pilot ejects from jet

TOKYO (AP) — A U.S. Navy pilot ejected safely Friday from an A-7 Corsair jet that crashed into the northern Arabian Sea after launching from the deck of the aircraft carrier USS Midway, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The pilot was rescued within six minutes by a helicopter, but the aircraft sank, he said. The Midway was conducting routine flight operations in the area at the time.

The name of the pilot, who suffered minor injuries, was not released.

Group requests ivory restrictions

STRASBOURG, France (AP) — The European Parliament asked Common Market governments Friday to tighten restrictions on the trade of ivory to stem the illegal slaughter of African elephants.

African elephants are protected by international treaties and the sale of their tusks is restricted under the convention on international trade in endangered species.

About 60,000 elephants are killed, most illegally, each year for their ivory, a parliamentary report says. Western Europe imports about 50 tons of ivory annually, compared to nearly 600 tons total for Hong Kong and Japan.

The parliament asked the European Economic Community to ban the import of ivory from African countries which have not signed the trade convention, ban transit of such ivory through Common Market countries, and require legal ivory to be marked by punch dies.

Chinese jet undergoes test flight

PEKING (AP) — The first jet airliner designed and built by China, the Yun-10-02, has completed its first test flight over the Himalayan Mountains of Tibet, Xinhua reported Friday.

The official news agency, quoting a report in the Shanghai Liberation daily, said the 149-seat plane flew over the Tibetan plateau and delivered a consignment of solar energy heaters to Lhasa, the capital.

The plane flew back to Chengdu in Sichuan province the same day, a roundtrip of 1,240 miles. It has been undergoing testing for three years, Xinhua said.

Thai police raze squatters' houses

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Police on Friday razed scores of squatters' houses in eastern Bangkok that had clogged the canals and obstructed an anti-flood program.

An official on the scene said one 5,000-foot-long canal long had been cleared of the wood and tin structures, and workmen were tearing down houses in another waterway nearby.

The canals will be dredged and deepened to prevent a recurrence of last year's devastating floods, Somrerk said.

German official invited to Moscow

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher has accepted an invitation from his Soviet counterpart, Andrei Gromyko, to visit Moscow in the second half of May, the Foreign Ministry said Friday.

A firm date for the visit has not been set, the ministry said.

Veterinarians: Acupuncture valuable

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Acupuncture as a treatment for ailing animals is nothing to poke fun at, says the head of Purdue University's large-animal clinic, where acupuncture is used as a veterinary tool.

Although he was skeptical when Purdue first started using acupuncture in 1973, Dr. Edwin Page has changed his mind.

Originally, he thought acupuncture operations that were seemingly performed without pain were the result of hypnosis — an altering of the perception of pain.

Most of Purdue's activities are with horses — "a good model to study because he reacts to pain. He doesn't just tell me it doesn't hurt, and he can't be hypnotized," said Page.

An Indianapolis veterinarian who uses the technique primarily on dogs agrees.

"Veterinary medicine adds more credence to acupuncture than anything so far," said Rod Duncan, who works in a general small-animal practice. "The animal isn't going to think he's feeling better."

Page thinks that in the future acupuncture "will be another modality that we can use in combination with our Western training."

Duncan, a 1972 Purdue graduate, considers acupuncture "another treatment tool" and something that he's trying to make himself use more.

Page says acupunture has been effective for "at least temporary relief of neuro-muscular problems" and can stimulate movement of the intestinal tract. It can also prevent muscle shrinkage after nerve damage, he said.

"It's been very effective in relieving pain from muscle spasms over the back of the animal," he said.

Page says his department likes to use horses because they're familiar with being handled by humans. "There's difficulty in working with beef cattle. They're not as used to people working with them — they're a little more difficult to restrain. They're not as used to people as the dairy cow or horse," he said.

Duncan has used acupuncture primarily for back disorders and muscular-skeletal problems.

After working with acupuncture for about five years in some 50 to 100 cases, Duncan says he's no authority on the technique, but adds "I think as veterinarians are exposed to it and see more cases that work they'll be more receptive to it."

A big drawback is that acupuncture, which costs about $20 a treatment, takes time — about 20 to 30 minutes from start to stop, Duncan said. Also, animals can be hard to restrain for that long.

Page says that as acupuncture research expands, more work is being done with nerve stimulation using electrodes and magnetic stimulation of tissue, some of the newer fields of study. "In all probability it's going to replace the use of the needle, because of the ease and less discomfort to the animal."

Two sisters create stuffed bears resembling prominent Houstonians

HOUSTON (AP) — You've heard, of course, of the Teddy Bear, named for President Theodore Roosevelt. Now get ready for the Whitbear, a Kathy Whitmire lookalike that dresses in the style of Houston's first woman mayor.

For $250, discriminating toy buyers can get copies of this limited edition stuffed huggable that comes complete with Jordache glasses, hazel eyes and the famed business suit and bow tie favored by Her Honor the Mayor. The toy even has lingerie bearing the initials "KW."

The Whitbear — along with other celebrity bears to follow — springs from the nimble fingers and lively imaginations of sisters Suzy Stewart and Jo Anna Meredith. The bears are being marketed by Roy Cameron, owner of Critters, an adult toy store, with profits going to the Houston Zoo.

Cameron said he tested the workmanship by putting the first Whitbear in his store window for a week.

"Everybody had no trouble recognizing that it was the mayor," said Cameron.

Mrs. Whitmire's aide, Paul Mabry, said she was delighted with the Whitbear and even posed for a picture holding the cuddly, myoptic critter.

"The mayor liked it very much," said Mabry. "She was flattered that somebody would think her an appropriate subject for the first celebrity bear of that store, especially when the profit benefits the zoo."

AP Laserphoto

Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire holds her "Whitbear," a $250 toy bear dressed to resemble her. Made by sisters Suzy Stewart and Jo Anna Meredith, the doll is the first of several he planned to resemble and be named for prominent Houstonians. Profits will benefit the Houston Zoo.

Ms. Stewart said the mayor was "tickled to death" by the initialed slip worn by the Whitbear. The sisters have patented the 19-inch bears. Each one is signed, dated and numbered. Ms. Stewart said she and her sister plan to make only 25 of the Whitbears and of other models resembling Houston celebrities.

It takes about 30 hours to create each one of the bears. The stuffed toys have movable limbs and the faces are hand painted. The clothes are fitted and the wigs are individually created.

Cameron said four Whitbears have been sold so far and that new entrants in a menagerie of stuffed celebrities are scheduled for introduction next week.

A Marvin Zindbear, modeled after the famed-whitehaired TV crusader, is planned next. Marvin Zindler, a commentator on KTRK-TV in Houston, rose to fame when his reports were instrumental in closing the famed Chicken Ranch in La Grange, an incident celebrated in the musical play "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

"Marvin Zindler wanted to make sure that his eyes were going to be blue," said Cameron.

Other celebrities who will be honored include Carolyn Farb, Houston socialite; Bum Phillips, former Houston Oilers football coach, and Gov. Mark White. After that, Cameron said, the idea goes national. Get ready for the Ronniebear.

Nurse fired for delaying ambulance

DALLAS (AP) — A nurse who argued with a man, scolded him for foul language and delayed sending an ambulance for his dying stepmother was fired on Friday, the Fire Department said.

In addition to the firing of nurse Billye Myrick, her supervisor, Capt. Donald Greene, was demoted to lieutenant, and other employees involved in the case were reprimanded, said department spokesman Bill Jernigan.

The actions followed an investigation into the delay in sending an ambulance for Lillian Boff, 60, who died before paramedics arrived at her home on Jan. 5.

Mrs. Boff's stepson, Larry Boff, called for an ambulance Jan. 5, saying that his stepmother was having trouble breathing. He then spent eight minutes on the telephone with Ms. Myrick, who scolded him for foul language and demanded to speak with Mrs. Boff.

The written reprimands were given to emergency call screening nurse Lelani Starks and fire section chief Mike Jones, Jernigan said. Walton was the head of the communications department were the others were assigned, he said.

Ms. Myrick, who has an unlisted telephone number and could not be reached for comment, has been on administrative leave pending the outcome of the investigation, fire officials said.

"Nurse Myrick has been discharged. Capt. Greene has been demoted. An ambulance supervisor has been reprimanded. A section chief has been reprimanded. Assistant chief J.R. Walton has retired effective today," Dallas Fire Chief Dodd Miller told a news conference.

Judge grants murderer stay of execution

DALLAS (AP) — A federal judge granted a stay of execution for death row inmate Joseph Jernigan just hours Friday after the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals refused to stop what would have been the state's second execution in a week.

U.S. District Judge Robert Porter of Dallas granted the stay Friday afternoon. Jernigan, convicted for capital murder, had been scheduled to die by lethal injection Monday morning, five days after the execution of James David Autry.

"That's about what I anticipated," said Rusty Duncan, Jernigan's attorney.

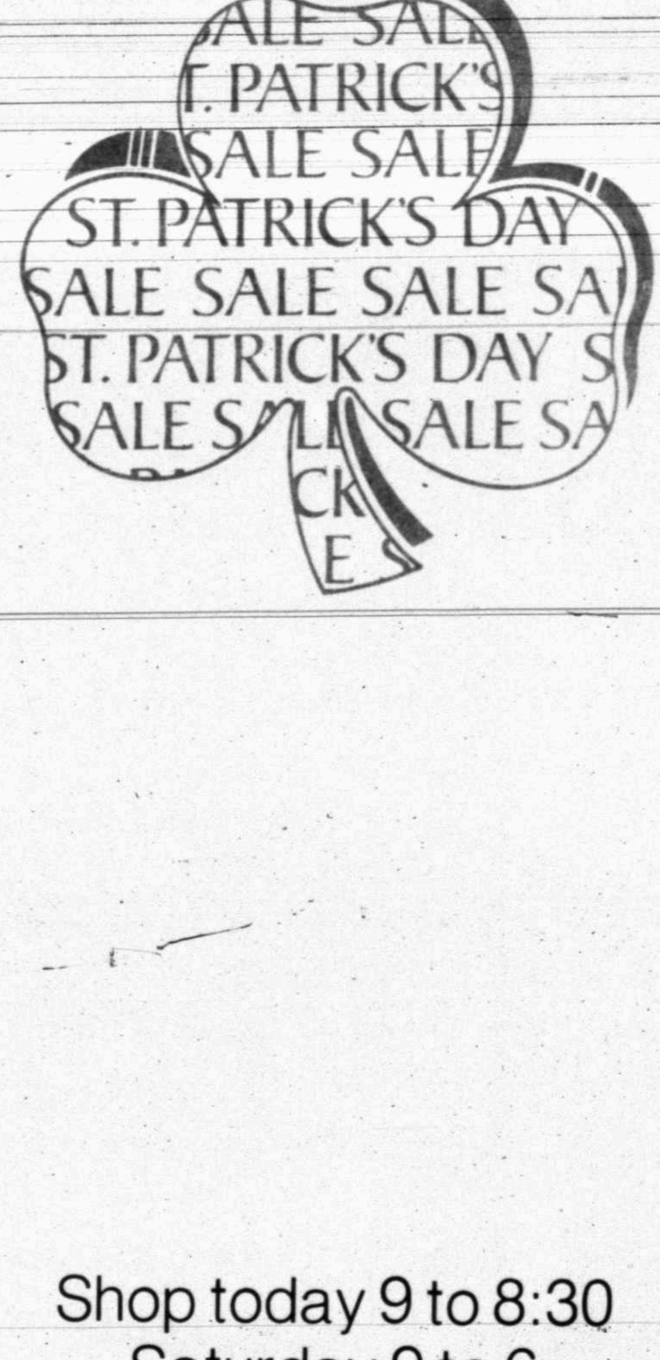

The state's highest criminal appeals court rejected Jernigan's request for a stay earlier Friday, saying only that "application for stay of execution should be denied and that all relief requested in said application for a writ of habeas corpus should be denied."

Leslie Benitez, chief of the enforcement division, said that Jernigan's motion included "at least one non-frivolous ground" that deserved court review. And she said the attorney general's office would not oppose a request for a stay.

Jernigan, 29, of Waco, was convicted of the July 3, 1981 murder of Edward Hale, 75, of Dawson, a community 25 miles west of Corsicana. Authorities said Hale was stabbed several times, then shot three times with his single-shot .410-gauge shotgun.

Louisville's Charles Jones (33) weaves through a tangle of arms to get a shot off in the Cardinals' 72-59 victory over Morehead State in the NCAA tournament.

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Othell Wilson scored 17 points, including a driving one-handed shot with five seconds to play, to lead Virginia to a 58-57 victory over Iona in the first round of the East Regional NCAA Tournament Friday night.

In the other first-round East Regional game Friday night at the Brendan Byrne Arena, Rolando Lamb sank a 22-foot jump shot at the buzzer to lift Virginia Commonwealth to a 70-69 victory over Northeastern.

After Wilson's basket, Iona's Rory Grimes had a chance to tie the score from the foul line with two seconds remaining. But Grimes, who missed all 12 of his shots from the floor and his first two free throws, sank the first foul shot but missed the second.

Kenton Edelin ripped down the rebound to send Virginia, 18-11, into the second round Sunday against eighth-ranked Arkansas. Wilson hit eight of his nine field goal attempts and had four rebounds, three assists and two steals.

The victory by Virginia offset Steve Burtt's 28-point performance for Iona, which finished the season at 23-8.

Virginia held a 51-45 lead when Burtt scored all of Iona's points in a 9-2 burst to give the Gaels their first lead of the game at 54-53 on a 20-foot jumper with 5:37 to play.

Virginia regained the lead at 55-54 on Jim Miller's shot one minute later, but Burtt put the Gaels ahead 56-55 on a 10-footer with 4:11 to play.

Olden Polynice, the 6-foot-11 center who replaced Ralph Sampson at center this year for Virginia, tied the score when he sank the first foul shot in a one-and-one situation. Polynice, who finished with 14 points and 10 rebounds, missed his second shot from the line and the score remained tied until Wilson's game-winning basket.

Virginia, and then Iona, ran the clock down for more than a minute after Polynice's free throw, trying to set up for a go-ahead basket. But Virginia's Rick Carlisle and Wilson each missed the first shot in one-and-one situations, as did Iona's Tony Hargraves.

With two seconds remaining, Lamb took an inbounds pass from Michael Brown, spun toward the basket and fired a shot from just outside the foul line. Lamb fell to the floor as the ball dropped cleanly through the net and he was mobbed by teammates.

Northeastern had taken a 69-68 lead when Glenn Miller sank the first foul shot in a one-and-one situation with 15 seconds to play. He missed the second shot.

Virginia Commonwealth's Don Franco then misfired on a 18-foot baseline jumper with three seconds remaining. The Rams called a time out to setup the game-winning shot after the ball wents out of bounds off the hands of Northeastern freshman Reggie Lewis, who scored a game-high 31 points. Lewis made an NCAA early-round record 15 of 17 shots from the field.

Northeastern shot a NCAA first-or second-round record of 75 percent from the field. It converted 33 of 44 shots from the field.

Lewis, a 6-foot-7 forward, scored 16 points in the second half, incuding 12 of Northeastern's final 13. Lewis' last basket was a driving layup that gave the Huskies a 68-64 lead with 1:43 to play.

Virginia Commonwealth tied the score as Calvin Duncan put in a rebound with 1:19 remaining and Lamb sank two free throws nine seconds later. Lamb, a 6-2 junior guard, finished with 10 points and nine assists as Virginia Commonwealth, 23-6, advanced to the second round of the East Regional Sunday against 18th-ranked Syracuse.

Mark Halsel scored 19 points, including 13 in first half as Northeastern finished the season with a 27-5 record.

Halsel's 25-footer with one second to play in the first half gave the Huskies a 36-34 lead at intermission.

Louisville, Villanova romp to NCAA wins

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Guard Lancaster Gordon scored 17 points, including six during a 15-4 run at the start of the second half, to lead Louisville to a 72-59 victory over Morehead State in the first round of the NCAA Mideast Regional basketball tournament Friday night.

And Frank Dobbs triggered an 18-2 spurt by Villanova in the second half with six points, lifting the Wildcats to an 84-72 victory over Marshall in the other first round of the Mideast.

Villanova, 19-11, advances to Sunday's second round here against sixth-ranked Illinois.

Marshall seemingly had the game under control, increasing a 40-33 lead to 50-42 on David Wade's layup with 16:29 left in the game.

Villanova then went on a tear, going up 60-52 over the next nine minutes with Dobbs scoring six of the points. Marshall could get no closer than 62-56 on Jeff Battle's jumper with 6:37 left.

Marshall, 25-6, used an 8-0 run late in the first half to take a 36-29 lead. Don Turney and LaVerne Evans scored four points apiece during the surge.

Evans, a sharp-shooting guard, scored 18 points in the first 20 minutes. But with Dobbs following his every move in the final half, Evans scored only four more points.

Villanova, representing the Big East Conference, was led in scoring by forward Dwayne McClain with 24 points and center Ed Pinckney with 22. Harold Pressley added 15 points and Dobbs had 12.

Turney and Battle were the only Marshall players other than Evans scoring in double figures, Turney finishing with 12 and Battle with 10.

Mashall's trapping defense gave Villanova troubles in the first half, forcing the usually poised Wildcats into 16 turnovers. Villanova was able to stay within striking distance by shooting 56.5 percent from the field and controlling the boards by a 17-11 margin.

Louisville, 23-10, advanced to Sunday's quarterfinal round here against 12th-ranked Tulsa.

Louisville broke the game open late in the first half with eight straight points to go up 29-18. Morehead State's Arthur Sullivan hit a jumper just before the half ended to cut the margin to 29-20.

After Morehead State's Earl Harrison scored on an inside move to pull the Eagles to within 33-24 at 16:54 of the second half, Louisville reeled off 11 straight points to open up a 44-24 advantage with 15:10 left in the game.

Morehead State, 25-6, managed to close the gap to 50-37 on Sullivan's baseline jumper at 8:39. Louisville's Charles Jones countered with three straight baskets to give the Carinals 56-37 lead with 7:11 to go.

Morehead State, which had lost to the Cardinals 85-50 during the regular season, could get no closer than 14 points the rest of the way.

Milt Wagner, Gordon's running mate at guard, also had 17 points for the Cardinals, while Jones tallied 16.

Center Jeff Tipton led Morehead State with 16 points, Harrison added 14 and Eddie Childress had 10.

Jordan splashes into state finals

From Staff Reports

AUSTIN — The Midland High swim team, led by junior Andrew Jordan, shattered three MHS records here in the Texas high school swimming championships at the University of Texas.

Jordan qualified for the state championship finals with new personal bests in the 50 and 100 freestyle. Jordan posted a 21.49 time in the 50, which tied for second place in the Friday preliminaries, only three-hundreds of a second off the leading time. In the 100 free, Jordan nabbed the sixth and final qualifying spot for today's finals with a 47.66.

As a member of MHS' 400 freestyle relay team, Jordan turned in a fast leg to help MHS to a 12th place time of 3:19.49, the third new MHS mark and good for a spot in the consolation finals.

Mike Seay finished 12th and qualified for the consolation finals in the 100 butterfly with a personal best time of 54.15. Seay finished out of the finals round in the 200 freestyle with a 1:49.42, in 15th.

"They were ready," said Bulldog coach Jesse Marsh, taking his first group of boys to the state meet since 1975. "The depth of the whole meet is really something. Everything is really close. They got rid of their nervousness today."

Jordan and members of the team have shaved down to eliminate drag, with Seay now the new recipient of a Mohawk cut.

A win for Jordan Saturday afternoon would give MHS one of its youngest ever state champions.

"Andrew Jordan's 50 free Saturday will be a tossup," said Marsh. "Anybody can win it. He's going to be tough to beat if he gets a good start."

Malcontents haunt Expos

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Clubhouse lawyers, malcontents and lazy big-money ballplayers. It was said and written. That was the trouble with the Montreal Expos.

When the team traded pitcher Scott Sanderson to the Chicago Cubs last December as part of a three-way deal, he took a parting shot. He said there was a cancer on the team.

Several weeks later, Andre Dawson softened the criticism, but said some things in the clubhouse had to change. They did.

The Expos let outfielder Warren Cromartie, whom they had been trying to trade for a year, take the free-agent road out of town. Al Oliver, a popular member of the team, was moved to San Francisco for a sore-armed pitcher.

Expos management took $2 million-per-year catcher Gary Carter aside for a long talk. Presumably, they spoke of many things, like leadership and winning attitude.

And 42-year-old Pete Rose, a proven leader with a declining batting average, was signed as a free agent in January.

While downplaying the importance of clubhouse squabbles, Expos second-year manager Bill Virdon admitted that having Rose in the locker room "is a plus. There's no question about that."

But Virdon, a stoical, disciplined, tough-minded manager, refuses to blame any part of the Expos' failure on clubhouse malaise.

"I wasn't unhappy with our clubhouse last year," Virdon says. "You don't go through 180 games a year without a few feathers ruffled."

Rose, who is vying for the left field job but could wind up playing first base, says he has found the team's attitude to be positive.

"Of course, I wasn't here last year, so I have nothing to compare this clubhouse with," said Rose, who was cut by the Philadelphia Phillies. "But as an opponent in Philadelphia, I saw nothing on this club that would keep it from winning."

It has become an almost annual rite in baseball to predict pennants for the Expos — on paper a fine team, but one that seems to fall just short each season. The Expos made it to the National League playoffs in 1981, the season that was split by the strike. That's as good as they've managed.

Last season, they finished a disappointing third, eight games behind Philadelphia and two back of Pittsburgh.

"What I've always looked for in a clubhouse is people who want to compete, people who want to win," Virdon said. "We've had no problem that way.

"It's impossible that all 25 of your players are going to be real close," he said. "But they get along well enough."

Washington advances to face Duke

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — Washington's 15th-ranked Huskies, led by West German Detlef Schrempf's 23 points, posted a 64-54 victory over Nevada-Reno Friday night in a first-round game in the NCAA West Regional basketball tournament.

Southern Methodist University and Miami of Ohio met in a first-round nightcap late Friday night.

By defeating Reno, the Huskies, 23-6, earned the right to face 14th-ranked Duke here Sunday in a second-round game.

Schrempf, second in the voting for Pacific-10 Conference Player of the Year this season behind Oregon State's A.C. Green, had 14 of his points in the second half. Seven-foot freshman Christian Welp, a countryman of Schrempf, added 16 points for the Pac-10 co-champions.

SCHREMPF PULLED down a game-high 13 rebounds and Welp had 10.

Curtis High, brother of Johnny High of the National basketball Association's Phoenix Suns, led the Reno attack with 21 points, followed by Tony Sommers with 12. High had 13 of his points in the opening half for the Big Sky Conference champion Wolf Pack, 17-14.

With a 10-2 spurt in the final 3:55 of the first half, Washington led 32-24 at the intermission, but Reno came back and tied the score at 32-32 scoring the first eight points of the second half.

Welp put the Huskies ahead to stay at 37-34 with a three-point play 5:25 into the second half.

Samples used to yo-yo treatment

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — After a season in which he hit in all nine spots in the batting order, Billy Sample of the Texas Rangers says, "I guess I feel like I'm pretty adaptable."

"They'll tell me when I walk into the locker room on April 3 where I'm hitting this year," he says.

Sample, 29, can count on at least one thing — he'll be the Rangers' regular left fielder when the 1984 season begins. He earned that much security last year when he provided one of the few bright spots in a season of offensive impotence. The Rangers finished 13th of 14 teams in runs scored with 639, but Sample improved in almost every offensive category.

Despite being what the Rangers called a yo-yo in the batting order, Sample hit .274 and set personal highs with 554 at-bats, 80 runs, 152 hits, 28 doubles, 12 homers, 57 runs batted in and 44 stolen bases.

"It's easier sometimes knowing the night before where you're going to hit in the order, but if I'm the best one to slide up and down the lineup to get the offensive production, that's all right with me," Sample said. "I'm not complaining."

Sample says he's not sure why he hit in so many spots last year, "but it might have been because we had a new manager and staff, and they might have been trying to experiment to get the most out of our offense."

"We were really striving to get more production."

At this point in spring training, Rangers second-year Manager Doug Rader expects Sample to hit seventh, behind Buddy Bell. But that could change.

Kansas Jayhawks nip Alcorn State by one

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Kansas' Calvin Henry had an off scoring night but hit a follow shot with 12 seconds remaining to give the Jayhawks a 57-56 victory over Alcorn State in an NCAA Midwest Regional first-round basketball game Friday night.

Lou Stefanovic hit an 18-foot jumper with eight seconds left to lift Illinois State to a 49-48 over Alabama in the other Midwest game.

Down by 11 points at halftime, after 30-percent field goal shooting, Kansas warmed up in the second half, hitting its first six shots, managing to trim the Alcorn State lead to 40-32 with 14:35 to play.

Ron Kellogg then came off the bench to rally the Jayhawks to within 49-46 with six straight points. Greg Dreiling added a free throw to cut the difference to two with 4:44 remaining.

Kellogg then added two more free throws and followed his own missed shot to give Kansas its first lead, 55-54, with 1:32 to play.

Aaron Brandon hit a jumper with 53 seconds left to put the Braves back on top but Henry then followed another Kellogg miss to put Kansas up 57-56.

After a timeout, Alcorn State's Michael Phelps missed a driving jumper and David Claybon's follow shot attempt was blocked by Kansas' Kelly Knight with one second left.

Alcorn State led by as many as 14 points, 28-14, with 7:20 to play in the first half as Brandon hit his first six field goal attempts.

Calvin Thompson had 20 points for the Jayhawks, while Henry and Kellogg added 12 each.

Brandon topped the 21-10 Braves with 18 points. Phelps added 16.

Illinois State now advances into Sunday's second round against fourth-ranked DePaul.

Vaughan hits 30 against LaSalle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Clyde Vaughan scored 30 points as Pittsburgh held off La Salle 95-91 Friday night in the opening round of the National Invitation Tournament.

Pittsburgh's Panthers, connecting on 18 of their first 21 field goal attempts, led 29-19 with 6:53 left in the first half, but La Salle closed the gap to seven points, 43-36, at intermission.

Two baskets by freshman forward Larry Koretz gave the Explorers a 58-55 lead with 12:53 left in the game. But Pittsburgh reeled off 16 straight points, eight by Vaughan, to take control at 71-58 with 7:24 remaining.

La Salle failed to score for 5:40 during that stretch.

The Explorers rallied to within four points, 80-76, on a shot by Koretz with 3:21 left, then got into foul trouble and the Panthers ran off seven straight free throws to end the threat.

La Salle, 20-11, was led by Ralph Lewis with 27 points. Steve Black with 23 and Albert Butts with 21.

In the second round of the NIT, Pittsburgh, 17-12, will meet Florida State Sunday night in Greensboro, N.C., while Boston College plays Notre Dame in Springfield, Mass., on Monday night.

In the first game Friday night, Boston College got 26 points from Jay Murphy and 22 from Michael Adams in downing St. Joseph's.

BC's Eagles, 18-11, broke the game open early in the second half, outscoring St. Joseph's 12-2 to take a 46-34 lead with 17:02 left. The Eagles missed only eight of 25 shots from the field in the second half.

Murphy, a 6-foot-11 senior forward, connected on 12 of 15 shots from the field, mostly from the outside. Adams, a 5-11 junior guard, sparked the offense with lightning-quick passes and six steals.

St. Joseph's, 20-9, was led by senior center Tony Costner with 29 points and junior forward Bob Lojewski with 14.

NIT Results

Junior forward Randy Worter paced Weber State with 20 points and led the Wildcats to a 75-63 victory over Fordham in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament Friday.

Worster also grabbed 10 rebounds, got the Weber State fast break rolling and opened the Wildcats' offensive attack.

The victory moved Weber State, 23-7, into the second round, where they face Southwestern Louisiana Monday night in Lafayette, La.

Fordham finished its season at 19-15.

Weber State opened up a 10-point lead just before the end of the first half when the Wildcats outscored Fordham 12-4 during a three-minute stretch, shooting 75 percent from the field compared to 48 percent for Fordham.

In the second half, Weber State continued to shoot well and was led by John Price, who finished with 15 points, and Charles Carradine with 13. Greg Jones added 12.

Colts' Irsay leaning toward Phoenix now

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Baltimore Colts owner Robert Irsay apparently is leaning toward Phoenix as a new home for his National Football League team, two Phoenix business leaders said after meeting with him.

"I felt we had a very positive meeting," real estate developer Eddie Lynch said Friday. "I was quite encouraged. He expressed interest in our package and I had the definite impression that he was leaning toward Phoenix because we are the heart of the Sun Belt's growing economy and because of our area's wonderful lifestyle."

Attorney Harry Cavanaugh said, "They were very up front with us. I think they want Phoenix."

Lynch and Cavanaugh, plus Keith Turley, chief executive officer of Arizona Public Service Co., and James Simmons, chief executive officer of United Bank, accompanied Gov. Bruce Babbitt to a Thursday meeting with Irsay at Bakersfield, Calif.

Babbitt said he expected a decision soon on whether the Colts would remain in Baltimore or move.

"If we can strike a deal that's good for Arizona State University and Arizona, that's fine," Babbitt said. "But I said there wouldn't be a nickel of taxpayers' money involved."

Asked for his assessment, he said, "When the owner of an NFL team sets up a meeting ... and invites serious people from Phoenix, it is my assumption that it is worth talking about."

Lynch said he expects another meeting.

Hogs trip Bears in SWC opener

WACO, Texas (AP) — Mike Loggins and Jeff King each drove in three runs Friday to lead Arkansas past Baylor 10-9 in the Southwest Conference baseball opener for both schools.

Mark Berry's solo homer in the seventh proved to be the winning run for the Razorbacks, the nation's No. 20 team, who improved their record to 15-2.

Baylor, 15-11, trailed by 10-4 but scored five runs over the last three innings, and had the tying run on second with one out in the ninth. But relief pitcher Lester Lancaster got two ground outs to preserve the win for Arkansas starter Rick Huntze, now 5-0.

Ronnie King, Keith Shepard, Blair Hibbert and Kenneth Patterson homered for Baylor, which got 10 hits off three Arkansas pitchers.

The two teams are scheduled to meet again in a doubleheader beginning at noon Saturday.

Arkansas collected 11 hits and scored six runs before Baylor starter and loser Alan Koonce, 3-3, left in the fourth.

Loggins singled in one run in the Razorbacks' three-run second inning and tripled home two more in the third.

Arkansas took a 1-0 lead when Jim Ward tripled in the first and scored on King's sacrifice fly. King walked with the bases loaded in the second inning. In the sixth, Ward walked, stole second, and scored on King's single.

Former Tech SID dies at 62

WACO, Texas (AP) — William W. "Bill" Holmes Jr. of Waco, a longtime sports information director at Texas Tech and two other Texas colleges, died early Friday at a Waco hospital. He was 62.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at Wilkirson-Hatch Funeral Home Chapel in Waco.

A member of the College Sports Information Directors Association Hall of Fame, Holmes was sports news director at Texas Tech University for 17 years. He was sports information and news service director at Texas A&I University for 14 years and sports information director at McMurry College.

Holmes was born May 20, 1921, in Mobile, Ala., and graduated from high school in McAllen, Texas. He held degrees from Texas A&I University and the University of Colorado.

He formerly was student publications adviser at Baylor University.

Holmes had lived in Waco since August 1981 and attended First Baptist Church. He was a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Survivors include his wife, Jean Houston Holmes; a daughter, Jeananne Genovese of Houston; two sons, Tommy Holmes, a reporter for the Waco Tribune-Herald, and Keith Holmes of Waco; a sister, Virginia Polfus of Mercedes; and a brother, Charles Holmes of Washington.

DuPree retires from Cowboys

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Tight end Billy Joe DuPree, the Dallas Cowboys' "Mr. Reliable" for 11 years who played in 181 consecutive National Football League games, announced his retirement Friday, saying he wouldn't be back unless Coach Tom Landry had an emergency.

DuPree said he wanted Landry to realize he needed to draft another tight end but added, "I told him if he got into real trouble he might want to give me a call."

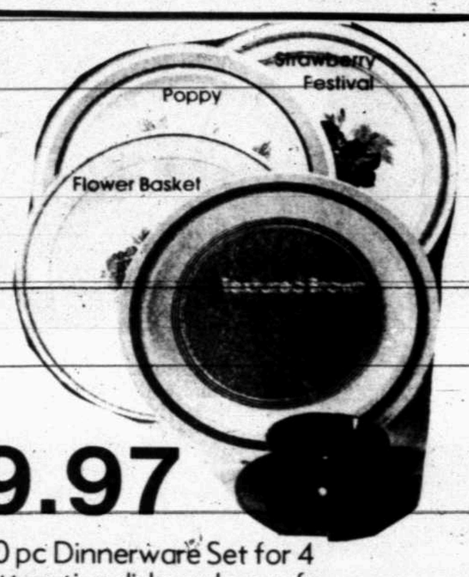

DuPree said at his retirement party Friday that his fondest memories will come from the Super Bowl and scoring a touchdown as a runner.

"You just can't beat a Super Bowl victory as the greatest feeling of exuberance," DuPree said. "And to score a touchdown as a runner when you are a receiver is another tremendous thing for a player.

"Of course, I scored a touchdown running once out of fear, not because of my speed," he said.

DuPree said he wouldn't miss the drudgery of training camp.

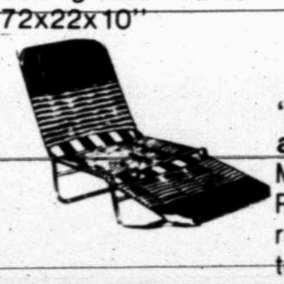

"I hated getting up at 7:30 in the morning for two-a-days in camp," he said. "I never understood how other guys stayed out until 2 a.m. at beer parties and then made it the next day."

Reverse offense needed

4-5A Baseball

Trying to reverse anemic offensive production, Midland Lee and Midland High return to District 4-5A baseball action today with the Rebels hosting San Angelo and the Bulldogs traveling to Big Spring for 2 p.m. games.

Against Odessa High Tuesday, the Rebels used two big defensive innings and the strong pitching of Bryan Willis to squeeze out a 1-0 victory.

Neither team was able to mount much of an offensive punch, as the final score shows, but Lee's attack was even less than that of the Bronchos. OHS pitcher Tommy Olivas allowed only five Rebel baserunners on two hits and three walks while OHS had 10 from five hits, three walks and two Lee errors.

The only Rebels to collect hits in the district opener were Steve Woodlee and Jimmy Phillips, giving Lee only a .087 league average after one game.

The Rebels improved their season record to 8-3 Friday with a non-district victory over Lubbock Coronado, 7-3, in Lubbock.

Using eight reserves, the Reb offense exploded for three first-inning runs against Coronado. The scoring was headed by catcher Sergio Ochoa, who drove in two runs with a triple and stole home to account for the 3-0 lead.

Thursday, the Bobcats claimed a 2-1 victory over Ft. Stockton to improve their overall record to 5-7. In district play, however, San Angelo is looking for its first win.

MIDLAND HIGH was also the survivor of a low-scoring game, defeating Odessa Permian 2-1 at Memorial Stadium Diamond.

Midland High scored its runs off eight hits and three walks off Permian pitchers Mark Fowler and Craig Steen while Bulldog hurler Steve Wootan held the Panthers to five hits and two walks. The only run he gave up came on an error in the first inning.

MHS coach Tim Whalen will probably start Wootan for today's game. Mike Timlin, who was suffering from a sore shoulder going into the Permian game still looks doubtful for Big Spring.

"Timlin had his wisdom teeth taken out and I don't think he'll be ready to go," said Whalen. "We may have to pitch (Doug) Daehling some too. Wootan did a heck of a job the other day. He's a pretty gutsy pitcher, a tough pitcher."

Daehling saw four innings of relief duty Thursday in Midland High's 8-4 loss to Pecos which dropped the Bulldogs season record to 3-6.

Against Permian, the Bulldogs were able to come up with eight hits for a team batting average of .304, but they weren't grouped together to provide a big scoring production.

"I think we'll be able to hit the ball around some, I really do," said Whalen. "We're getting six to 10 hits against good pitching and six to 10 hits off bad pitchin. It's just a matter of bunching those hits together at the right time. If we get some help from the other team and eliminate our mistakes, we'll be okay."

Wootan is also the team's leading hitter in 4-5A play with a .667 average while second baseman-shortstop Darren Thorpe is batting .500. Four other Bulldogs are hitting .333 while the rest of the teams is looking for their first district hit.

4-5A Golf

SAN ANGLEO — Abilene Cooper is leading Abilene Cooper after the first stop of the District 4-5A golf tour here Friday.

Cooper's varsity leads Cooper's junior varsity by 13 strokes, 295-308, after the first round while the rest of the district teams almost appear to be in an also-ran category.

San Angelo is 21 strokes off the lead pace, Permian 28 back, Abilene High and Midland High 30 back and Midland Lee 42 strokes off the pace.

Cooper also holds or shares the top three spots in the medalist race with Bob Estes and Todd Moore setting the pace Friday with 73. Cooper's Brian Heller and Brian Springer are tied for third with Midland High's David Pritchett, all owning 74.

Joining Pritchett for the Bulldogs were Dan Watts 78, Tom Knittle 84, Steve Spaugh 89 and Carl Brown 106 for a 325 total. Lee's top golfer was Chris King with 81 and was followed by Eric Griffin 82, Andy Herbig 86, Brent Barker 88 and Reece Spears 89 for a 337 mark.

Lee's JV was led by Mike Cantrell with a 79, the Rebs' best effort of the day, and was followed by Mike Brame 88, Gary Luther and Jason Hancock 89 and David Foster 91 for a 345. The MHS JV was led by M.J. Miller's 84 and the team score of 346 was completed by Chris Travland and Jesse Penz with 86s, Wade Sale 90 and David Newsome 108.

The tour travels to Abilene Friday where Cooper is expected to extend it's two-place lead.

Junior netters have new league

By BRUCE CASTLEBERRY
Sports Writer

Beginning March 30, seven teams of junior level players open competition in a newly-formed junior tennis league.

The league, open to Permian Basin youngsters in the 10-14 age range, is searching for players or potential players interested in learning competitive tennis. Ranchland Hills Country Club pro Terry Bobbitt spearheaded the drive for a Midland-Odessa junior league. "After I came to Midland last fall," said Bobbitt, "I wasn't really satisfied with the situation. The area was ripe for a junior league, and I approached the other pros. We're all in it together."

Teams representing Ranchland Hills, Midland Country Club, Gree Tree Country Club, The Midlander, Odessa Country Club, Odessa College, and the University Gardens Racquet Club of Odessa will compete in the league. The planned nine-week season will have each team meeting each other in a round-robin format.

Bobbitt stressed that the league would be instructional and designed to bolster the area's future tennis foundation. "I think the first priority is that it has to be fun," said Bobbitt. "We want to present the league and the teaching in a way that's simple enough to understand, fun, but competitve, too."

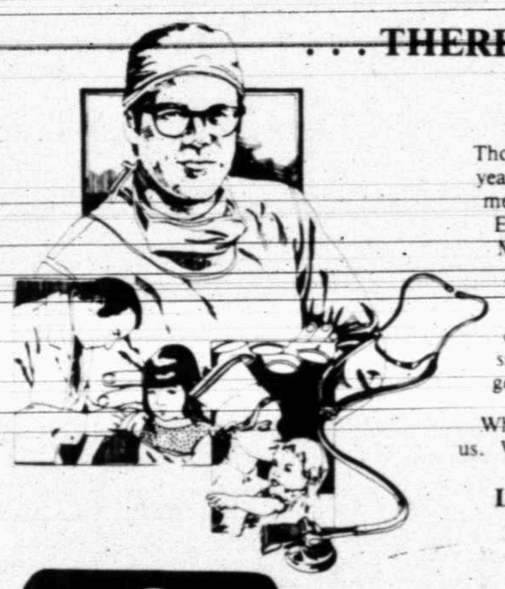

The league does not require players to belong to any club or organization. "The kids I want are the kids not involved in juniors and who want to be. The juniors do not have to be members of any club. I'd like my team to grow to 30 or 35. We're looking for beginners and advanced players," Bobbitt said.

The 10-14 age range isn't carved in stone, either. The league will make exceptions, because the bottom line is participation. "The idea for this league was conceived while I was in Phoenix," said Bobbitt, who worked in the Arizona city before coming to RHCC. "Because there they have the best city junior I've ever seen. 20 clubs take part, and I saw no reason why Midland couldn't have the same."

In the league, teams will compete in both singles and doubles play at weekly Friday afternoon matches. "Anybody who wants to play can play for somebody, somewhere," said Bobbitt, who is handling informational chores and inquiries about the league.

Parents interested in placing children in the junior tennis league can call Bobbitt at 682-3729 for further details.

Norman kills course record

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Australian Greg Norman matched the course record with a 9-under-par 62 and took a 3-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $400,000 Bay Hill Classic.

"That's the best score I've had in competition," said Norman, who has collected 31 titles around the world but has yet to win on the American PGA Tour.

And that's the next goal for the hawk-faced man with the hair bleached white by the sun.

"You can win around the world," he said, "but people don't take much notice 'til you win on the American Tour. That's what I have to do to climb the next rung on the ladder."

In order to accomplish that goal, he's established a permanent residence in this country, has a home on the Bay Hill course, and said he plans to play the majority of his golf on the U.S. tour this season. He was a playoff loser in this event last year.

Norman, 29, who won seven international titles last season and opened the 1984 campaign with a victory in the Australian Masters, scattered seven birdies and an eagle across his card, and registered neither a bogey nor a 5. The effort matched the course record set by Andy Bean in 1981.

But setting a course record on the layout owned and designed by Arnold Palmer was not the object, Norman said.

"Standing on the 15th tee, I was thinking about shooting 59," he said. "When I made birdie there, 59 was still alive."

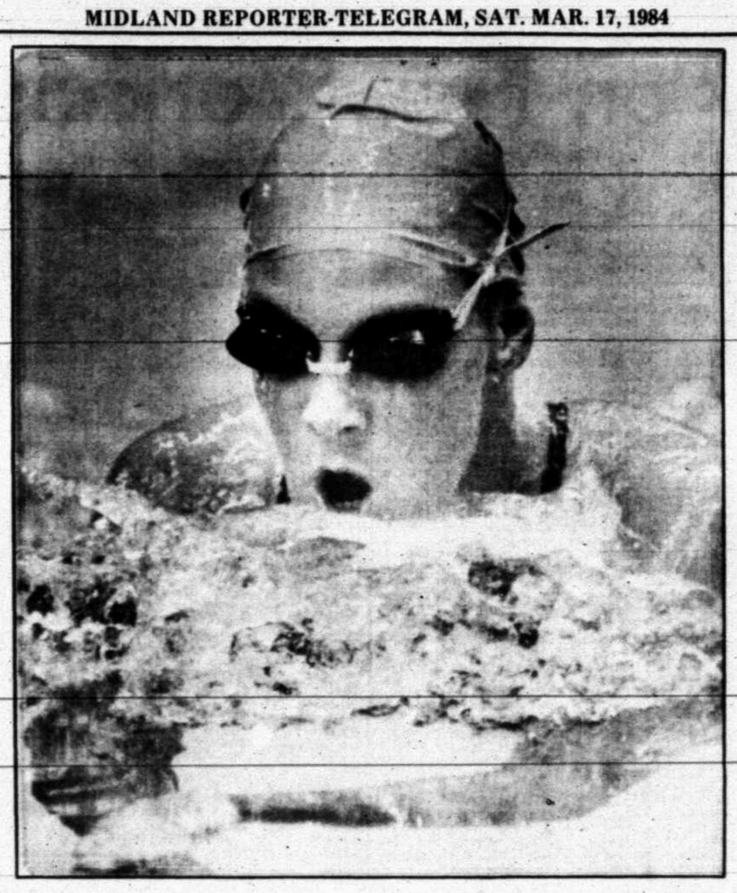

That score, the all-time PGA Tour record, became untouchable, however, when Norman parred home on the 7,103-yard course that was robbed of its natural defenses by the absence of wind.

At the tournament halfway point, PGA champion Hal Sutton, veteran Ray Floyd and George Burns shared second at 136. Each had a second-round 69 in the warm, sunny weather.

Curtis Strange and Gary Koch were another shot back at 137. Koch had a 68, Strange 66.

Sammy Rachels, with a 69, and Bernhard Langer of West Germany, with a 68, followed at 138.

Tom Watson had another 70 and was at 140. Jack Nicklaus had a 72 — including a second consecutive double bogey on the 17th hole — and was at 141. Palmer, the host, matched par 71 and was at 143.

Uhhh, where's the quarterbacks

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Express knows which quarterback it won't be using today in San Antonio. The Gunslingers don't know which quarterback they will be using.

Steve Young, the former Brigham Young University quarterback signed by the Express to a contract worth $40 million over 43 years, will be benched for the second week. Los Angeles plans to use him before the home fans March 25.

"There is a lot to learn," says Express Coach John Hadl. "It's pro football and these other rookies have had training camp. He has tremendous pressure on him going through all this. He's a kid that doesn't enjoy all the hoopla."

Starting at quarterback against the winless Gunslingers will be rookie Frank Seurer, coming off a 21-for-37 performance for 185 yards in the 10-0 victory at Oakland that made Los Angeles' record 1-2.

San Antonio's first-string and second-string quarterbacks are listed as questionable, Rick Neuheisel with a broken left hand, Mike Ford with torn ligaments in his right knee. Karl Douglas, a 34-year-old whose last touchdown pass was thrown for the Canadian Football League's Calgary Stampeders in 1975, is expected to start, but Neuheisel may be able to play part of the game.

"If someone wanted to give me $40 million," Gunslingers' Coach Gil Steinke said, "I'd go out and get 22 players. I need them."

TODAY'S OTHER USFL games are Oklahoma at Chicago and Memphis at Birmingham. Sunday, it's New Jersey at Houston, Pittsburgh at Washington, Arizona at Michigan, Tampa Bay at Denver and Oakland at Philadelphia. Monday night, it's New Orleans at Jacksonville.

The Outlaws, 2-1, take their show on the road for the first time this season, against winless Chicago, and they're taking Efren Herrera with them. They signed the former National Football League placekicker Thursday. He's replacing Stu Crum, the first player signed by

USFL Scene

Oklahoma after it was granted a franchise. Crum, on injured reserve with a pulled hamstring, missed all four of his field goal attempts in the Outlaws' first three games.

Vince Evans of the Bears is ranked fifth among Western Conference quarterbacks — three rungs higher than Doug Williams of Oklahoma. But Evans is running up against a defense with eight interceptions, second in the league to Jacksonville's 10, while the Blitz' defense is next-to-last in the 18-team league.

"We've been able to move the ball," said Chicago Coach Marv Levy. "But we've had to pass the ball. We've played very poorly on defense. We've been behind in every game. We've been struggling to get things together."

"I'm excited about playing against Evans," said Oklahoma Coach Woody Widenhofer. "It will be our biggest test on defense ... but we like to play against the best."

BIRMINGHAM was home for quarterback Walter Lewis when he starred for the University of Alabama. Now he's in the enemy camp as he leads the Memphis Showboats, 1-2, against the Stallions 2-1.

"Many of the same fans who supported me while I was at Alabama are going to be against me now," Lewis said. "I hope to put things to rest with a good start."

Said Birmingham Coach Rollie Dotsch: "I think the Showboats are a team on the move and firmly believe that Lewis is going to develop into a great quarterback."

The Stallions are led by Joe Cribbs, coming off a 191-yard performance that highlighted Birmingham's 30-18 romp at Pittsburgh. It gave him 324 yards for the season, second to league-leader Sam Harrell's 338 yards for Houston. "Each week, I get a little more familiar with the offense," said Cribbs. "I'm more at ease now and recognize things a little better."

Caulkins attacks records

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Junior Tracy Caulkins of Florida continued her attack on the NCAA record book Friday, establishing two meet marks and an NCAA standard at the NCAA Women's Swimming and Diving Championships.

Caulkins began the night by winning the 400-yard individual medley for the third consecutive year. The 21-year-old junior from Nashville, Tenn., then topped the NCAA and meet standard in the 100 breaststroke.

While Caulkins took the individual honors, defending champion Stanford and Texas continued their tight battle for the team title heading into Saturday's conclusion of the three-day meet. Texas was leading with two events left on Friday's program with 236 points. Stanford was next with 190 and Florida held third with 156.

Caulkins, who set the NCAA mark of four minutes, 7.75 seconds in winning the Southeastern Conference meet this year, had lowered her meet record in the event during qualifying. She then lowered the meet mark to 4:08.37 in the finals.

Then, in the breaststroke, Caulkins won her 11th individual NCAA title and third of the meet in 1:01.37. Joan Pennington of Texas matched her nearly stroke for stroke all the way, placing second in 1:01.61 — a time that was also below the former NCAA and meet record set last year by Jeanne Childs of Hawaii.

In winning the medley race, Caulkins led from start to finish and was never seriously threatened. Caulkins pulled away from the field with a 56.40 pace for the first 100 yards — a time that was quicker than her American record pace time in the event. She was almost five seconds quicker than her top challenger at 200 yards.

Sophomore Polly Winde of North Carolina placed second in the event for the second consecutive year, finishing at 4:11.32 — a time that was quicker than the old mark Caulkins had set in winning the event for the first time in 1982.

Texas helped its hopes for the team title with a first in the 200 freestyle relay. Kirsten Wengler, Jodi Eyles, Debbie Risen and Pennington won the event in 1:31.95. Pennington, who was third into the water for the final 50 yards, passed Stanford's Diana Zock and North Carolina's Sue Walsh on the final 25 yards.

Walsh came back to earn her eighth NCAA backstroke title in as many races with a 55.32 time in the 100.

Okamoto produces tie

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Japan's Ayako Okamoto birdied the last two holes Friday to tie Patty Sheehan at 8-under-par 136 through the second round of the $150,000 Tucson Conquistadores LPGA Open.

Okamoto, 32, drilled in nine-foot putts on the 17th and 18th holes to finish with a 5-under-par 67 on the 6,346-yard, par-72 Randolph North golf course.

Sheehan posted a 67 earlier in the day.

Lauri Peterson also shot a 67 and was one stroke back halfway through the tournament.

Debbie Massey was two strokes behind the leaders at 138 after shooting a 67. She finished Thursday's first round at 71, three strokes off the pace.

Defending champion Jan Stephenson blew to a 2-over-par 74 Friday for a 143 total and last week's winner, Chris Johnson, carded a 71 for 140. Both had been one stroke back after the first round.

Okamoto made up for her opening round, when she missed several greens.

"I only missed a few greens today because of my good second shots," she said. "But even though I hit more greens today, I was putting from farther away. My putting was good, though."

St. Mary's eliminated in NAIA tournament

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Harold Hamlin hit a 12-foot jump shot with one second remaining Friday, lifting Waynesburg, Pa. to a 61-59 upset over 10th-seeded St. Mary's, Texas, in the second round of the NAIA basketball tournament.

St. Mary's, 25-8, rallied from a 45-30 deficit early in the second half to gain a 49-49 tie.

The Yellow Jackets, 25-5, will meet the winner of the Central Wesleyan, S.C.-Fort Hays, Kan. game in Saturday's semifinals.

Blake, Abila on card of Odessa fight event

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — Levelland boxer Robin Blake will give local fight fans a chance to see him in action Friday night when he takes on El Paso's Gerareo Vensor here at the Holiday Inn Centre.

Blake, who seemed to be unstoppable and well on his way to a lightweight title fight after defeating Odessa's Ruben Munoz last year, is on the rebound from back-to-back losses, the only defeats marring his 24-fight career.

In October, Blake lost the first fight of his professional career to Tyrone Crawley in Levelland and then suffered a majority decision defeat in January to Henry Arroyo. Vensor, his first opponent since the defeats, is bringing a 16-5 record into the fight.

Also on the Blake-Vensor fight card will be Midland boxer Richard Abila against Art Ortiz of El Paso and Odessa's Gordon Cox taking on Lewis Williams of Phoenix.

Abila, 118 pounds with a 10-1 record — his only loss coming to Harold Petty more than a year ago in Fort Worth — is scheduled for an eight-round bout against Ortiz, 6-2. Cox, a 170-pound newcomer to the professional ring, has a 3-0 record while Williams is 2-2. Their fight is scheduled for six rounds.

Tickets for the card are available at Endless Horizons and Morris Caffy TV & Appliance in Odessa and Midland, Foodway stores, Stan's House of Maple and the Odessa American in Odessa. Ticket prices run from $20 for ring side seats to $8 for general admission. There is also a $15 section.

Proceeds from the card will be donated to the Girls Club of Odessa.

NFL examines drafting college undergraduates

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League is trying to work out a plan to include undergraduates in its draft of college players, The Associated Press has learned.

The move is the result of the emergence of the United States Football League, which signed prized undergraduates Herschel Walker and Marcus Dupree as well as several potential first-round NFL draft choices, and the successful suit against the USFL by University of Arizona dropout Bob Boris.

NFL COMMISSIONER Pete Rozelle said there is little likelihood of undergraduates being included in this year's college draft, set for May 1. But the fact that the league's owners are considering including them is a dramatic departure from NFL policy.

"The discussions have just been in general terms right now, but the league feels, in view of the Boris case and the loss of Walker and Dupree, that it has to do something to retain a share of good players," said a source close to the NFL, who requested anonymity. "We're trying to work out the details. We don't know yet what we can live with."

The league conducted committee meetings this week in Maui, Hawaii, in preparation for the full owners' meetings next week in Honolulu. Some of this week's Competition Committee meetings were attended by officials of the NFL Players Association, including its executive director, Gene Upshaw.

One question to be resolved is whether underclassmen who are drafted but decline to turn pro could become free agents before their college eligiblity expires.

Under the existing collective bargaining agreement, the rights to a drafted player who declines to sign are retained by the drafting club for one year, and the player then becomes draft-eligible again. If he again fails to sign within a year, he becomes a free agent, able to negotiate with any team. There is concern that a star undergraduate who is drafted before his junior and senior seasons could be a free agent upon the expiration of his eligiblity.

UNDER NCAA rules, a player loses his college eligibility only after negotiating with a professional team, engaging an agent or declaring himself eligible for the draft. Just being drafted, the NCAA said, would not cost a player his eligibility.

Rozelle, referring to the meeting in Hawaii, insisted, "I can't say whether it (drafting undergraduates) has been talked about out there, but it is my feeling it will not be seriously considered until we're forced into it by agents and the legal situation. ... In my opinion, I don't think the owners will support it until we're obligated to, until we have no alternative, and I hope it doesn't come to that."

Boris was a punter for the University of Arizona who filed suit after he was barred by the USFL from playing while he had college eligibility remaining. The USFL, meanwhile, had welcomed Walker, a Heisman Trophy-winning running back and an undergraduate. USFL Commissioner Chet Simmons called Walker a "special case" and said he would not permit the signing of other undergraduates, including Dupree.

BUT WHEN a federal judge ruled last month that the USFL's eligiblity rules constituted a "group boycott" in violation of antitrust law, it opened the door to pro football's signing of undergrads. The NFL was not a party to the Boris suit, nor is it a party to the USFL's appeal of the decision.

Rozelle pointed out the NFL already has provisions for a supplemental draft, although it does not permit taking undergraduates unless their college eligibility has expired or been revoked. Dave Wilson, the backup quarterback for the New Orleans Saints, was picked in such a draft.

Rozelle said Boris "probably would have been acceptable to our supplemental draft." And he said it would "take more than just the Boris case" to swing the NFL toward drafting underclassmen.

Steve Morgan, director of legislative services for the NCAA, said there is "nothing in the NCAA rules that prohibits someone from going off and pursuing a pro career. It is the public posture of the NCAA that nobody wants to stand in their way.

"The biggest concern of our member schools, as the USFL-NFL situation has heated up and with the possibility that the NFL's long-standing draft rule (against selecting underclassmen) might change, is how much effort might be put into influencing those individuals for whom leaving school might not be in the best interest."

Morgan said he believes the concern over pro football taking undergraduates is mostly "the fear of the unknown," pointing out that college basketball has thrived despite the National Basketball Association opening its draft to underclassmen.

IN A related development, Simmons suggested in letters sent earlier this week to college administrators that a review board be established to pass on the qualifications of undergraduates hoping to turn pro before the expiration of their college eligibility.

"I believe there must be a mutually beneficial relationship between professional leagues and the college coaches," Simmons wrote. He recommended the review board consist of a coach, an athletic administrator, an academician, a doctor and a lawyer, with the board's findings to be binding on the player.

According to Friday's Washington Post, the NFL also is gearing up to sign USFL players whose contracts expire in July, at the end of the current season. The first such signing, by the New York Giants, was of cornerback Kenny Daniel of the Oakland Invaders.

MONDAY

A.C.A. is an anonymous fellowship of adult children of alcoholics, (although all are welcome). Many of us grew up in alcoholic homes or are at the present time faced with dealing with the consequences of this disease in a parent, relative or friend. In this fellowship we have come to understand that alcoholism is an illness which we did not cause, cannot cure and cannot control. We have found by sharing our experience, strength and hope and by following the 12 suggested steps of AA we can live our lives in a more meaningful manner and can change our attitudes, old patterns and habits to find serenity, even happiness. Adult Children of Alcoholics meets Mondays at 8 p.m. at St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton St. For more information, call the Midland Council on Alcoholism, 682-4721.

Citizens try to raise reward for child

DANIA, Fla. (AP) — A child who tipped police about an alleged murderer but was denied a $1,000 reward on a technicality will get the money from private donations, officials say.

"We are committed to raising the money," said George Sullivan of Crime Stoppers of Broward County. "As individual citizens, we will join with the rest of the community to raise $1,000 for the informant."

The child, who has not been identified, was refused a reward because the tip was given to police first, while the organization only gives money for information it gets first, Sullivan said Thursday.

The child's tip led to the arrest of Jon Anthony Cox, 53, who had been sought for 13 months in the fatal shooting Nov. 13, 1980, of Peter John Bongiovanni, 27. Cox is awaiting trial.

The child, who knew Cox, followed him home despite the danger and gave the information to a relative, who called police. Dania police Detective Henry Rickmeyer took the information, seized Cox and called Crime Stoppers the next day in the child's behalf.

Kathy and Kevin celebrate St. Patrick's Day . . . Kathy wears her green plaid dress, and Kevin his sweater with the emerald stripe. The hats are those we brought home from last night's party!

They don't really know what the day is all about. But they heard Dan singing in the shower, "the wearin' o' the green," and saw the color of the tie he placed on the door knob.

They don't miss a thing! That old saying that actions speak louder than words is certainly true around our children. They are regular little copycats.

That's why Dan and I make it a habit to go to church every Sunday with them. We want God and His Church to be a real part of their lives, not just something they have heard about.

Give your children a chance to know God. Go to church and take them with you.

Methodist youths leave on ski trip

This Friday, two chartered buses departed the parking lot of First United Methodist Church loaded with a group of 93 youth, their counselors and several parents. The group is headed for Winter Park-Mary Jane ski area, Colorado, for four days of skiing.

This is the fifth year for First UMC to sponsor a youth ski trip during spring break. The trip was organized by D.A. Harral, director of Youth Ministries at the church. In the past seven years, Harral has directed ski trips for about 600 different skiers.

This year, the senior pastor, Dr. Charles E. Lutrick, will provide spiritual guidance. The church's music directors, Jane and Brad Kisner, are also on the trip. Theme for the morning and evening devotions is "Going the Second Mile."

Other counselors on the trip include Mary and Ron McFadden, Lois Hagins, Alice and Grady Jones, Sharon and Wilson Heidelberg, Kim Gentry, Jill and Dave Roberson, Angela and D.A. Harral and Priscilla Schaefer.

Business Men's fellowship meets

Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International meets today at 7:30 p.m. in the Midland Hilton Ballroom. Dinner is at 6:30 p.m.

Guest speakers are Gwen and Carl Jowell of Arlington.

Born in Tulia, Jowell grew up in Dimmitt, where he attended high school. He attended Rice University and graduated from McMurry College, Abilene. Jowell served in the armed services in Korea, and after service duty, he entered into the professional sales business.

He was baptized the same year, 1969, he started The Cargwen Co., which gives Bibles as graduation gifts to high school seniors. The Cargwen Co. is delivering and operating in several states.

Both are active church members.

Interested parties are invited to attend.

Also, FGBMFI meets for a "Prayer Breakfast" the second Saturday of every month at 7:30 a.m. at the Midland Hilton, Room 201.

'It Is Written' continues on WTBS

A 3-part series on the Seventh-day Adventists is in its second week on Sunday at 6:30 a.m. on WTBS cable channel 7.

Being aired on "It Is Written," the series explains "how and who we worship," says Jerry Oster, cleric at the local church, 3144 Travis St. Denominations are sometimes labeled 'cults' simply because people do not understand their ministry. No one is deliberately prejudiced or distrustful, we know. This series will give our friends opportunity to know the facts."

"Of course, we welcome the community to worship with us any Saturday at 11 a.m.," Oster says. "The TV series will give you an idea of what to expect — from the meaning of the name to a look at our worldwide mission."

Nazarenes hold special services

The First Church of the Nazarene, Wall Avenue at F Street, has been in special services this week. Today's service is set for 7 p.m. and Sunday's for 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Evangelist for the services is the Rev. G.R. "Scott" Cundiff of Bethany, Okla. Born and raised in Indiana, Cundiff began conducting revivals when he was 19. At 23, he assumed his first pastorate. He pastored in the Church of the Nazarene for 10 years before entering the field of full-time evangelism.

Jackie Cundiff travels with her husband and conducts special Children's Crusades in the summer months. She is a native of Iowa and has been a member of the Church of the Nazarene since childhood.

The Rev. Harold Quarles, pastor at First Church of the Nazarene, invites the public to attend. Special music is provided for the night services.

St. Luke's to celebrate Communion

A service of Holy Communion will be celebrated each Wednesday morning in Lent at St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave.

The service will begin at 7:10 a.m. and conclude at 7:40 a.m. The sermons will be delivered by the Rev. Jarrell Sharp, pastor. Bert Bostic, minister of program and music, and the Rev. Kenneth James, associate pastor, will serve as liturgists.

These eucharist services will be held Wednesday, March 28 and April 4, 11 and 18.

Churches oppose embassy move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of major Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Roman Catholic churches have registered opposition to legislation proposing to move the U.S. embassy in Israel from Tel Aviv to Jerusalem.

They said such a move would undermine the U.S. role in seeking peace in the Middle East.

"Such a unilateral action would exacerbate tensions and heighten frustrations in an already fragile situation," said the Rev. Charles Kimball, Middle East director for the National Council of Churches.

Testimony for the council, which includes most major Protestant and Orthodox churches, was presented to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. The bill was proposed by Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D.-N.Y.

While opposing the bill, the Rev. Bryan Hehir of the U.S. Catholic Conference also noted the church's strong bonds with the U.S. Jewish community.

Victim of cerebal palsy to speak at First Baptist

Carliss Odom will speak to the Baptist Men and Ladies Monday at noon in the Fellowship Hall at First Baptist Church, Louisiana Avenue and Garfield Street.

A victim of cerebral palsy, Odom could not walk until he was 6 years old. His speech was unintelligible and the saliva poured uncontrolled from his mouth. For years, he wore a band around his head to keep the bones of his skull from separating.

He started school at the age of 12 and had reached the third grade by the time he was 15. Following a dedication of his life to Christ, remarkable changes began occurring in Odom's life.

He began to walk and talk better and to gain better control of his hands. His grades also began to improve. Soon he was able to make up for lost time by making two grades in one year. In high school, he graduated near the top of his class.

During his college years he never forgot his promise to speak for the Lord. For the past 25 years he has traveled throughout the United States giving his testimony. He has traveled as far away as Jerusalem, Israel, and has spoken before more than 10,000 at one time.

Carliss Odom

All interested parties are invited to attend. There is a cost for the meal.

Lay minister will preach at First Presbyterian Church

Howard E. Butt Jr. will preach at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave. Butt is vice-chairman of the board of the H.E. Butt Grocery Company, a regional supermarket chain of more than 150 Texas groceries known as H.E.B. Stores.

He is president of the Butt Foundation established in 1934. Its 2,000-acre property near Kerrville at Leakey welcomes some 20,000 persons annually for retreats, conferences and family camps.

A lay preacher, Butt was one of the early voices of lay awakening and as such he developed teams that led Laymen's Crusades and Laymen's Leadership Institutes in many American cities.

He is president of Laity Lodge Foundation, a public charity sponsoring Christian youth camps and programs of church and family renewal.

He is the author of "The Velvet Covered Brick," a book on Christian servant-leadership published by Harper and Row in 1973.

Butt is married to the former Barbara Dan Gerber of San Angelo. They have three children and reside in Kerrville.

Chaplains blend work of police with ministry

YORK, Pa. (AP) — Armed with no more than a police radio, a beeper and a car marked with crosses and the city seal, a group of pastors performs an unusual blend of police work and Christian ministry.

The 16 evangelical ministers in the city's volunteer "police chaplain corps" are each on call 48 hours a month, largely to comfort and counsel people in crisis situations, said the Rev. Carl Scott, a corps captain and one of the six-month-old program's founders.

"These are things police officers would not be able to do. They don't have time to do it nor the expertise to do it," said Scott, pastor of Bible Tabernacle Church.

While some of the chaplains regularly ride along in squad cars, most spend their shift waiting for calls from officers at the scenes of fires, suicide threats and household and neighborhood disputes.

"We're not trying in any way to be law enforcement officers or replace the police," said the Rev. John Oldfield, pastor of Yorktowne Chapel. "We're trying to relieve the police."

But one minister more than relieved an officer when the two went to investigate a disturbance at a restaurant. "I ended up having to place the handcuffs on this man and help subdue him," said Tom Shelley, a deacon in a Methodist seminary.

"He was just extremely violent," Shelley said. "It's certainly not what we intend for chaplains to have to do."

The police willingly let the chaplains have the job of notifying families of people who die in accidents and other violent circumstances, said Lt. Dennis McMaster. "One of the toughest things I've ever done as a police officer is tell someone their son is dead," he said.

In several cases, a family without a religious affiliation has asked the chaplain who brought the bad news to conduct the funeral, Oldfield said.

When a natural gas explosion injured eight people early this year, several chaplains visited victims in hospitals and helped with the subsequent evacuation of thousands from the downtown area.

The chaplains are evangelical Christians, although ministers of all sects were invited to join the program, Shelley said.

"In the evangelical churches, there is a commitment to outreach and mission that in the other churches just isn't there," he said.

The idea of a police chaplain often raises eyebrows. "We've gotten some strange reactions, some people that didn't want us involved.

Churches, organizations join for 'Decision '84'

Sixty churches and organizations have joined together to bring evangelist Arthur Blessitt to Midland for a six-night crusade, "Decision '84," April 1-6 at Chaparral Center.

Blessitt of Los Angeles, Calif., was in Midland in December 1982, when he carried a cross through the downtown area. During the past 14 years, he has carried a 12-foot long, 6-foot wide, 90-pound cross 20,000 miles across six continents. He has appeared as a guest on many major television shows, including Tom Snyder's Tomorrow Show, David Susskind, Steve Allen and the Today Show. He has also appeared on numerous occasions on the 700 Club, PTL Club and the Praise the Lord Program.

He has been written about in People, Time, Newsweek and every major Christian publication.

Archie Dennis, who has toured the world presenting the message of Christ in song, will be the crusade soloist. A 500-voice choir and orchestra composed of volunteers from the sponsoring churches will also provide music nightly.

This representation of churches to sponsor the Decision '84 crusade represents many denominations throughout the Midland area. Pastors and representatives have been working together for a year planning this crusade.

The public is invited to attend. The crusade will begin daily at 7 p.m.

New archbishop causes controversy in New York

RELIGION

NEW YORK (AP) — His theology and politics differ little from his predecessor's, but in the month since John J. O'Connor was named the archbishop of New York he seems to have generated more controversy than Cardinal Terence Cooke did in 15 years.

In interviews, O'Connor has likened abortion in the United States to the extermination of Jews in Nazi Germany; complained that liberal interpreters "are badly distorting" the U.S. bishops' pastoral letter on nuclear war and describes the controversial papal encyclical upholding the church's ban on artificial birth control as a "a marvelous document" which he would preach "very strongly."

O'Connor, formerly bishop in Scranton, Pa., is to be installed Monday as the spiritual leader of New York's 1.8 million Catholics, the nation's fourth-largest diocese.

He is not exceptional among Catholic prelates in his opposition to threats to human life, nuclear or surgical. But in a state with unusually liberal abortion policies, O'Connor's outspokenness has transformed what normally would have been a newcomer's honeymoon into a public argument.

This week The New York Times, in a stinging editorial attack on the way O'Connor compared U.S. abortion policy to Hitler's holocaust, criticized the bishop's "highly offensive implications" and added, "if he means to instruct the community at large, a change of tone would be welcome."

Here's what O'Connor has been saying on the 1968 birth control encyclical, which some opinion surveys have linked to a dramatic decline in Catholic church attendance:

"I don't think its potential has been actualized. I don't think our people in recent years have been given adequate teaching in every quarter of the value of self-sacrifice, of self-discipline."

On the pastoral letter, which was drafted by a committee on which O'Connor sat:

"There's a section on abortion in there, and I never hear anybody talking about that. People are badly distorting (the letter) if they don't mention this."

On abortion:

"I always compare the killing of 4,000 babies a day in the United States, unborn babies, with the Holocaust...Now, Hitler tried to solve a problem, the Jewish question. So kill them, shove them into ovens, burn them. Well, we claim that unborn babies are a problem, so kill them. To me it really is precisely the same."

The Times' editorial said O'Connor was implying that "Hitler had a problem called 'the Jewish question' and that only his remedy was evil," and that women who decide to have abortions "are practicing Nazi genocide."

The next day O'Connor said he was "outraged" by the "grossly unfair" interpretation. He denied implying that Jews were a problem and said he did not condemn any "poor, young, confused girl" who has an abortion.

Rock musician to undergo surgery

Gina Schock

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rock drummer Gina Schock of the Go Go's will undergo surgery soon to correct a small hole discovered in her heart during tests at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

Ms. Schock, one of the band's founding members, will be able to return within six weeks to join the Go Go's on the group's national tour scheduled at the end of May, spokeswoman Jody Miller said Thursday.

Doctors said Ms. Schock's heart condition is congenital, Ms. Miller said.

The group, which also includes Belinda Carlisle, Charlotte Caffey, Kathy Valentine and Jane Wiedlin, currently is on the charts with the single "Head Over Heels" from their album "Talk Show."

NEW YORK (AP) — Psychologist and author Jerome Bruner has been named director of the New York Institute for the Humanities at New York University, the university announced.

Bruner, whose studies have focused on the nature of human thought and perception, succeeds author and sociologist Richard Sennett.

The institute, established in 1976, sponsors seminars and public conferences. Last fall the institute organized a weeklong tribute to the poet W.H. Auden.

LYONS, N.Y. (AP) — Matthew Van Vlack, who at 11 became the youngest person to make a perfect score on the math section of an aptitude test for college-bound students, says it really wasn't hard. "I just figured it out logically," the seventh-grader said.

Matthew Van Vlack, 12, aced the Scholastic Aptitude Test's math section three months ago at age 11, even though many of the questions covered material he had never studied.

Dr. Julian Stanley, a psychology professor at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore who has spent 12 years searching for children with extraordinary promise in mathematics, commented: "What makes it more remarkable is that it happened the first time he took the test."

Out of about 1.5 million students who took the SAT in 1982-83, 749 aced the math section, according to the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J.

Matthew, who enjoys sports and plays the flute, would like to be an astronomer, a quantum physicist or maybe an astronaut when he gets older, according to his mother, Susan Van Vlack.

On the verbal portion of the exam, Matthew scored a 350, which Stanley said is good but not extraordinary for an 11-year-old.

Matthew skipped sixth grade this year to attend Lyons Central School, which covers grades 7 through 12. But his mother said even the high school can't challenge him enough in math.

Philip Rock

CHICAGO (AP) — Democratic Senate candidate Philip Rock went to a downtown radio station for a debate with his primary opponents and wound up having his car stolen and stripped.

Police said the theft occurred Thursday night outside the downtown studios of WBBM-AM, which broadcast the debate. Rock's driver parked the car on the street, and both went into the studio for the hour-long debate.

When they emerged, the car was gone. Later it was found in a South Side alley, stripped of its wheels and bumpers. Police said Friday the thieves ignored or overlooked a box containing about 1,000 "Rock For Senate" buttons.

Passengers relax in private clubs

AP Laserphoto.

Lane Nelson, manager of Western Airline's Horizon Club poses at Los Angeles International Airport. The lounge, one of 13 Western has around the country, features a variety of snacks and drinks, served in spacious, comfortable surroundings.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Not everyone is looking for bargain air travel, and many are willing to pay extra to avoid the incovenience of long lines and the crush of crowds in busy air terminals.

Despite the fare wars, discount airlines and bankruptcies since deregulation of the industry, private airline clubs that cater to the frequent traveler — mostly business executives and celebrities — are thriving.

The clubs exist in every major airport, providing quiet, out-of-the-way lounges and refreshments for relaxation, private rooms for meetings, and telephones and telex machines for conducting business.

"When you travel a lot and may have to wait a couple of hours between flights, this is a pleasant place to relax," said William C. Mearns, who runs a development company in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Mearns and his wife, Loula, were chatting in the subdued atmosphere of Western Airline's Horizon Club at busy Los Angeles International Airport.

"Primarily it's a convenient place to rest and use the telephone," said Ed Moreno, who works in the Los Angeles offices of United Technologies and was en route to a business meeting in Dallas.

Every major airline has a private club, and all cater to business executives, who account for about half of the industry's revenue, said Chuck Novak of United Air Lines in Chicago.

But executives aren't the only ones who appreciate the privacy of the private lounges. Celebrities also prefer them.

One wall of Western's Los Angeles club has 169 framed, autographed photos of stars who have frequented the facilities, including Jamie Farr and Loretta Swit, who for years starred together on the TV show "M*A*S*H," and actors Lee Majors and Burt Reynolds, and actress Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Even Ronald Reagan.

Miami-based Eastern Airlines has its Ionosphere Room. American has the Admiral's Club and TWA the Ambassador Club. Recently, Frontier launched its Summit Club.

United Airlines has 200,000 members of its Red Carpet Club, which operates at 18 airports, while Pan American has been running its Clipper Club for two decades and has 30 of them around the world from Berlin, Germany, to West Palm Beach, Fla.

A typical initiation fee is $45 to $50, then an annual charge of $60 or so. Lifetime memberships run from $600 at Western to $900 at United. Companies frequently pick up the tab.

Member don't have to stand in lines to buy tickets or check baggage. It's all taken care of in the lounge.

For the airlines, the clubs are essential in attracting the executive traveler, said Bozarth.

"It is a marketing tool, and the clubs provide a marketing advantage for United," Novak said.

James Arey of New York-based Pan Am says that for clients, the clubs "are a place to get things done."

Most foreign carriers don't have fees and open their clubs to all first-class passengers. Many of them share space, as Singapore and Scandinavian airlines do at Los Angeles International Airport.

By and large, the clubs bring in enough revenue to cover expenses of renting expensive airport space, hiring staff, paying for food and mailing notices to members.

"It's about a wash," Novak said.

Jackson didn't write song, musician says

Michael Jackson

CHICAGO (AP) — Recording superstar Michael Jackson falsely took credit for writing the music for "The Girl is Mine," a hit song he performed with Paul McCartney, a musician claims in a federal court suit against the record's producer.

Fred Sanford alleges that Jackson's song was taken from one which he wrote entitled "Please Love Me Now" and sent to CBS Inc. in 1981.

The suit named CBS, which produced the Jackson hit in 1981, as a defendant, and said that Jackson, although not a defendant, participated in the "bad acts, at least in part." The album cover indicates Jackson wrote the song.

James Klenk, the lawyer representing CBS, said: "The suit is absolutely without foundation. Michael Jackson is the perfect target for something like this."

Jackson's "Thriller" album has sold 30 million copies and last month was named "Best Album of the Year" at the Grammy Awards.

Jerald Jacover, Sanford's lawyer, was in Los Angeles this week to take two days of depositions from Jackson in the copyright infringement case. He would not comment on the contents of the dapositions.

Sanford's wife, Kathy, first heard "The Girl Is Mine" on the ABC-TV show "American Bandstand" in December 1982, Jacover said in a telephone interview Friday.

"She told her husband Jackson was singing the song her husband wrote called 'Please Love Me Now,'" Jacover said. "It wasn't the same words, but the music sure was the same."

The Sanfords are professional musicians who perform together, Jacover said. They were out of town Friday and could not be reached for comment, he said.

In the suit, filed a year ago, Sanford said he sent the song to CBS Inc. and that promoters "recognized its value as a popular song" and told him it would be sung by Johnny Mathis and Denice Williams.

Jacover said Sanford "had personally played it for CBS at CBS offices (in March 1982) and they asked if they could keep the tape of his duet." The Sanfords sang the duet on the tape, he said.

Promoters Granville White and Steve Kelch said in court depositions that they had talked to Sanford last winter and told him that the song might be "suitable" for Mathis and Ms. Williams. But they said they made no promises. They also did not comment on any similarity between the songs.

No trial date has been set for the suit.

Health care costs up, study shows

Burden of spending on government

By The Associated Press

The bill for America's health care is nearly eight times bigger today than it was in 1965 and the burden of payment has shifted from the private sector to the government — particularly the federal government, a recent study by a tax watchdog group shows.

The study was done by researchers at the Tax Foundation Inc., a non-profit, non-partisan organization in Washington, D.C., founded in 1937.

Here are some of the basic findings:

—U.S. spending — public and private — for health care in 1982 was $322.4 billion. That's 7.7 times the $41.7 billion spent in 1965.

—Per capita spending in 1982 was $1,365 compared to $211 in 1965; health- care expenditures represented 10.5 percent of the Gross National Product in 1982 and 6 percent in 1965.

—The share of government spending has increased sharply — from about 26 percent in 1965 to 42 percent in 1982. The federal government's share rose from 13 percent to 29 percent; the share for state and local governments went up from 12.6 percent to 13.5 percent.

There are several reasons for the increase in spending and for the shift of the burden. A key factor — and the reason 1965 was chosen as a comparison date for the survey — was the passage in 1965 of Medicare and Medicaid legislation providing care for the elderly and the poor respectively.

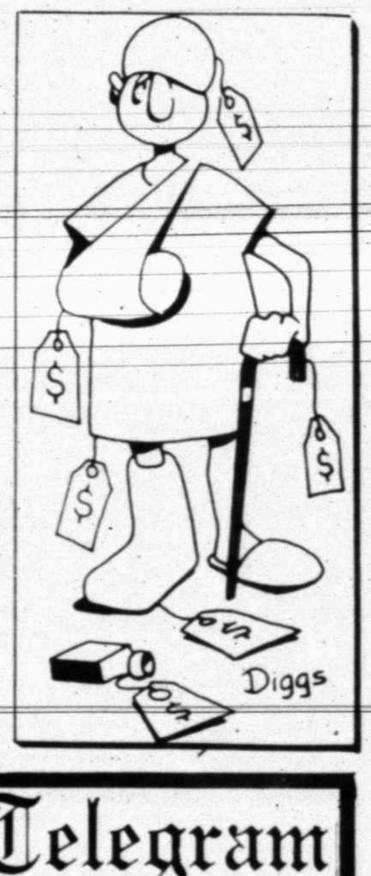

Medicare spending, which was at zero in 1965, rose by seven times from 1970 to 1982 alone; total health care spending by all sources went up by a little more than four times in the same period.

The researchers found that the Medicare program has grown at an annual rate of over 18 percent since 1975. Recent cost controls, together with further cutbacks proposed by the Reagan administration, are expected to hold increases in 1984 and 1985 to an annual level of 14 percent to 16 percent.

The Medicaid program, which is jointly financed by the federal government and state and local governments, grew at an annual rate of 13.3 percent from 1975 through 1981, but cutbacks introduced in 1981 slowed the rate of increase to 11 percent in 1982.

The biggest chunk of the total health-care bill — more than $4 in $10 — is for hospital care and the spotlight has been focused on these costs lately and on ways to reduce them through eliminating unnecessary hospitalization and tests, limiting government reimbursements and improving the efficiency of hospital operations.

Stuart A. Wesbury, president of the American College of Hospital Administrators, notes that several steps already have been taken. Many medical students receive regular orientation on the cost of in-patient care as part of their training. At the University of Chicago Hospital and Clinics, staff members are given manuals listing the cost of medical tests. And some hospitals have started "economic grand rounds," to discuss treatments and their costs.

Young doctors choose rural practice

ATHENS, Texas (AP) — The man in the black bomber jacket and mustache wheels his silver BMW past the chickens pecking on the courthouse lawn.

But he is no big-city interloper in this small East Texas town. People stop and wave to him. He is their doctor.

Doug Curran and his three colleagues — Jim Cox, Ken Lemmon and Gary Williamson — are among many young doctors who are rejecting specialized, big-city practices to put down roots in rural Texas as family physicians.

"My patients are my friends that I jog with in the morning, the guys I play racquetball with and go to church with," said Curran, lunching with his partners at a restaurant featuring the local favorite, black-eyed peas. "You get real close to these people. When they get sick and they're hurt, you hurt with them."

"When that arm you set doesn't come out straight, you get to look at it every Sunday morning in church," said Williamson.

Small-town practice means making house calls, the doctors said, though they do most of their work in a shiny, new clinic, financed by local banks.

CURRAN AND Lemmon said they went to the tiny home of an indigent kidney dialysis patient to see how the machine was working. Every appliance in the house, including the kidney machine, was plugged into a single bare light socket.

"I tripped over a wire and everything in the house went out," Lemmon said.

"When you know grandma, you know mom and dad and all the problems at home, it's a little easier to understand those aches and pains sometimes," he said.

Dr. William Ross, chairman of the family practice division at Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, comes from a line of doctors who practiced in Mount Pleasant beginning in 1834. Ross, who practiced in San Benito in the Rio Grande Valley for 22 years, preaches the joys of being a small town's doctor.

"You share the tragedies and triumphs of a community," he said. "There's no way for me to sit here and describe these things. They don't build up your bank account or stature, and the tragedies bring us back to the ground and remind you of what you can and cannot do."

WITH THE technological revolution of the '60s, Ross said, specialization became the rage of the medical community.

The old doctors were dying, the younger, experienced family practitioners were heading back to the cities "in hordes" to study up to specialize, said Ross.

"It was getting worse by the minute," he said. "Nobody out there was seeing people on an everyday basis."

He said when he set up his practice in 1955, he was the 14th doctor in San Benito, and there were six others in nearby communities. By 1963, Ross said, there were three doctors serving the entire area. Few medical students would even consider rural family practice.

"We were equated with Vietnam and Appalachia," Ross said.

Spurred by concerned physicians like Ross, former head of the Texas Medical Association, the Legislature began in the 1970s funding family practice programs around the state to encourage medical school students to consider rural family practice.

IN 1970 there was only one family practice residency program in Texas. Now there are 21.

In 1950, 40 percent of Ross' graduating class went into family practice. By the 1960s, Southwestern was lucky if one out of its graduating class of 100 did. Now the figure is back up around 20 percent and the size of the graduating class has doubled, Ross said.

Doug Curran, Gary Williamson, Len Lemmon and Jim Cox are four doctors in Athens, Texas, a town 70 miles southeast of Dallas, who have rejected specialized, big-city practices to put down roots in rural Texas as family physicians.

The Texas Medical Association published a study of physician distribution in 1982 that showed 46 percent of Texas' family and general practitioners were in the six most populated counties. Ross said the TMA is in the process of a new count.

But he is convinced that the programs have worked and quickly reels off a list of two dozen or so recent graduates who have moved to small towns like Cuero, Marfa, Kilgore, Weatherford, Whitney, Ennis, Corsicana.

"We're going great guns," said Ross. "But it will take 25 years just to fill in from the death rate. As you can see by my gray hair, there are not many left in my generation."

"Satellite" residencies established around the state have played a major role in producing doctors for rural areas, Ross said, because studies show that the majority of doctors set up practices within 100 miles of their residencies.

COX, LEMMON, Curran and Williamson met through their common residencies at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth, about 100 miles from Athens.

The four have also brought two other physicians to Athens from John Peter Smith.

"That residency program has had a big influence on Athens, Texas," Lemmon said.

Susan Morrey, who also did her residency in Fort Worth, ranged a little farther. The Austin native practices in Fort Stockton in far West Texas.

At the end of her first year of medical school, she visited Fort Stockton under MECO (Medical Education with Community Orientation), a national program designed to acquaint medical students with rural practice.

"I really liked it out here. I got along with everybody," she said. "The following year, the people, the community here, got together a fund and offered me financing for my last two years of medical school for my agreement to practice out here for at least two years.

"I'VE BEEN out here the last 2½ years and I certainly don't have any plans to leave."

But for Ms. Morrey, who is single, life in a remote city of 8,500 has its drawbacks, like social life.

"For a single professional female, there's virtually none," she said. "There are very few eligible males and even fewer that are comfortable with a professional woman. But the people are so friendly. Everybody kind of takes you under their wing, as it were."

Ross says "intellectual companionship" is one of the biggest concerns among young doctors considering rural practice. He said he has been encouraging graduates to consider a kind of buddy system, like Cox, Lemmon, Curran and Williamson did.

Cox said he and Lemmon decided they wanted to raise their families in a small town. After touring several East Texas towns, they chose Athens, population about 11,000. Curran and Williamson joined them later.

"WE WORK together so well," said Curran, "and I'm not down here by myself trying to decide these things."

"I think that one reason that family practice is coming back to an extent," said Curran, "is that there are enough young family practitioners coming out and they're sitting down together and saying, 'I can't go out here by myself, but if you'll go with me, we'll work together.'"

Jim Ripasky, a family practitioner, and his pediatrician wife, Karen Roberts, moved to Kilgore, east of Athens, a year ago.

Ripasky cites a professional comraderie among rural doctors he wouldn't expect to experience in a big city.

When a woman's unborn baby was threatened with death recently because the umbilical cord was in the wrong place, five doctors rushed in to help with a emergency Caesarian section, Ripasky said. He said the woman and her baby are now "perfectly normal."

"We can do just about everything here, and that makes you feel great," he said.

"You tell Dr. Ross that I'm going to stay in Kilgore until it's time for me to go into academics, like he did," Ripasky said.

Ross, meanwhile, continues his crusade.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, March 18, 1984

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: President Grover Cleveland, German inventor Rudolf Diesel, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and actor Robert Donat ("Mr. Chips") were born on this date. Also sharing your birthday: auto racing's Andy Granatelli, George Plimpton, skier Ingemar Stenmark and Oakland A's slugger Dwayne Murphy. Stay composed when the pressure is on and you will emerge a big hero. Others look to you for leadership. Be alert to new financial opportunities. Those in charge finally recognize your artistic talents. Do not let someone force you into acting prematurely. Your own instincts are correct. Romantic partner reacts favorably when you take on more family responsibilities.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You could decide to change residence for health reasons -- your own or someone else's. If a waiting list is involved, get on it! Do something special to please a small child.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You are glad to renew old acquaintances today. If a newcomer interests you, invite him or her for dinner sometime soon. Those widowed or divorced should not rush into marrying again.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Getting outdoors for a while will boost your spirits. A friend from the past telephones. You could find this person less interesting now that you have a new lifestyle. Be kind.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): An exciting and adventure-filled day lies ahead. You will not have to pick up the tab. An out-of-town visitor wants to revive a romance. Assert yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Someone finally reveals his or her true feelings. Even if you do not agree, be polite and sympathetic. Compromises settle family differences quickly. Reserve the evening hours for loved ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Do not allow someone who is rude or inconsiderate to spoil your day. Channel your energies into more positive ventures. New friends broaden your horizons. Be more outgoing. Issue invitations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A talk with new friends proves very rewarding. A spur-of-the-moment party could be much more fun than any planned affair. Think about taking along a gift.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Life is moving at a fast clip now. Slow down a little and relax with your family. A get-together with friends or neighbors will brighten your evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Write or call someone who is having family problems. Your concern will be deeply appreciated. Do not let an age difference hinder romance. Seek out someone who shares your interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Spend some time socializing today. Your sterling qualities always win you new friends. A good day to phone or write letters to loved ones living at a distance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If nothing special is taking place today, work on a favorite hobby. Others are not as practical or imaginative as you. Help someone who needs transportation or other assistance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A friend's loyalty pleases you. You may have agreed to go somewhere this evening because a friend wants you to. Do not become temperamental and change your mind.

Country curbing videos

By The Los Angeles Times-Washington Post News Service

BONN, West Germany (DPA) — West Germany's growing video craze has brought with it increasingly brutal and sadistic films with titles such as "The Texas Chain Saw Massacre" or "Man-Eater."

Officially, such films are not supposed to be shown to children. But the boom in horror movies on home video cassettes has reached many a private living room where children can watch, largely unchecked, the blood-dripping scenes of cannibalists sucking human intestines and similar revolting acts.

Alarm over the problem, which has received prominent treatment in the West German media recently, has grown among parents, teachers and politicians. A spokesman of the Youth Ministry here announced Wednesday that legal action was being prepared to curb the horror video boom.

The ministry says 45 percent of all video films marketed in West Germany contain horror, action or crime that it considers harmful to young people. West Germany's video retailers, however, claim that hard-core horror holds a market share of only 6 percent.

IN 1982, 6 percent of all West German households possessed a video cassette player, but sales have been skyrocketing since, and estimates are that the figure will have jumped to 50 percent by the end of the decade.

The center-right coalition government in Bonn met no resistance from the opposition when it introduced draft legislation in December that would have video cassettes screened by a special panel and decide if a video should be restricted to adults.

The government also plans to revise the criminal code to prohibit showings of extreme violence against humans. Violations would carry a fine of about $4,000 and up to one year imprisonment.

In virtually all of the 6,000 West German stores where videos are for sale or rent, young West Germans now have little problem obtaining what they are not supposed to get. Gas stations, newspaper vendors and large department stores are also gearing up to capture a share of the growing video market. Total video cassette production in West Germany reached 1.5 million copies in 1982.

Horror videos, meanwhile, have also reached many of West Germany's schools. Pupils can be seen on schoolyards openly trading the newest renditions of video gore, an official in the municipal Office for Adolescent Affairs in Bonn says.

THE OFFICIAL, who asked not to be identified, says many young people engage in a "test of courage" in which they present each other with the most gruesome video cassettes to see who can "stomach" them best.

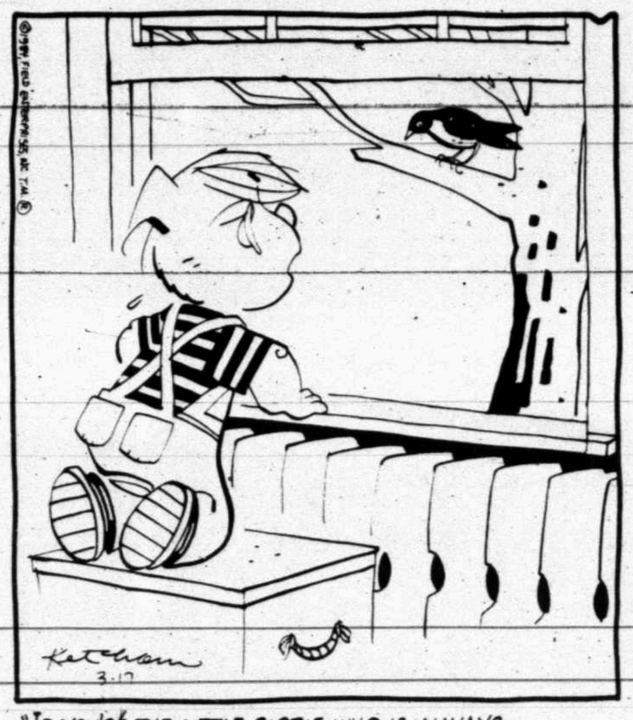

The law allows federal authorities to restrict certain films to adult viewers, and restricted videos may not be displayed in windows or sold to persons under the age of 18.

But experts say the controls are easy to circumvent and predict that a flourishing black market for horror videos is likely to evolve. And government regulators acknowledge that the line between stiffer regulations against video violence and censorship of freedom of expression, which is a constitutional right in West Germany, is a thin one.

Researchers, meanwhile, tend to agree that horror videos make children more prone to violence and aggressiv ebehavior. The West German Children's Protection Society warned recently against misuse of the new media.

Psychologists and pediatrics express fears that a whole generation will become "brutalized" by their viewing choices, but there have been no studies to date that prove a clear correlation between horror videos and criminal behavior.

We leave you few options.

The Honda Accord LX 4-Door Sedan is so loaded with standard equipment that it's hard to list any options. In fact, almost the only one is a 4-speed automatic transmission. Practically everything else comes standard.

So you have no choice but to enjoy its cruise control, AM/FM stereo with cassette, air conditioning and Michelin steel-belted radials. Along with engineering features like front-wheel drive, 4-wheel independent suspension, power-assisted self-adjusting front disc brakes and a powerful new 12-valve engine.

"WE WANTED A QUALITY LIFESTYLE, NOT GIMMICKS AND GIVEAWAYS..."

"...That's why, when John and I were transferred to Midland, we chose to live at Oakridge Apartments. Sure, we passed up a few gimmicks and giveaways offered by the other communities. But what we got instead is an apartment community superior to anything else we saw. New on the market this year, Oakridge Apartments are bright and beautiful with sparkling new amenities and lots of extras. But more than that, Oakridge is a real quality neighborhood. The people out here are just great, and the management team is the best we've ever had."
