Happy Children Fill School Building Wednesday Morning When Fall Session Begins

London Schools Open on Monday September First

With Superintendent Rankin Kothmann as master of ceremonies, the London School opened Monday morning with a good attendance of pupils present and an atmosphere that promises the best session London has ever enjoyed. After some instrumental music which was heartily enjoyed, Mr. Kothmann made an introductory talk and then introduced Judge J. B. Randolph who delivered a fine talk reviewing his work with the schools and telling those present that with the closing of the year he would retire from office. Judge Randolph has taken an interest in the schools of the county and is delighted at the growth of the schools during the past four years.

Following Judge Randolph's talk, County Agent R. E. Homann was introduced and made good talk. Mr. Homann has worked with the people of London the past year and always feels at home among the fine people of that progressive town and community. The coach of the school also made a short talk. Progressiveness was the keynote of the opening exercises and with Rankin Kothmann in charge of the school, everybody is looking for a good year.

The following are the teachers for the session: Rankin Kothmann, superintendent; Miss Victoria Brewer, principal; Mr. Morris, coach; Miss Lola Cummins and Mrs. Vesta Weaver, intermediate; Miss Eunice Green, primary.

Several Kimble County Schools Open Monday

Judge J. B. Randolph states that the following schools opened this week: Junction, London, Roosevelt, Tea Cup, Evergreen, Bodarc, White Bluff and Murr. He is pleased with the progressive spirit shown by the schools of the county. Four years ago he said that only one school opened on the first Monday in September.

Most of the schools were one teacher schools only a few years ago. New buildings have been erected and the enrollment has increased until several of them now have two teachers. Judge Randolph will retire at the close of the year with the satisfaction of having seen much progress made in the schools during his four years as ex-officio county superintendent.

SCOUT EXECUTIVES HERE ON BUSINESS

Mr. B. W. Draper, Scout Executive and camp director of the Ranch District Exhibition Troup of the Boy Scouts of America, and his wife, who holds a corresponding position with the Girl Scouts of America, are in Junction attempting to secure a lease on a camp site in Kimble County for these organizations. They are conferring with local business men today.

Should the lease be secured, permanent camp buildings will be erected on the site. Mr. and Mrs. Draper were guests at the Rotary luncheon at the Fritz Hotel today at noon.

Mayor T. B. Phillips is in town this week. He is spending the greater part of his time on his ranches.

A telegram from Ernest (Toot) Hamer reports a fine boy at his home in Philadelphia, born September 2.

Six Year Old Pupils Enter First Time This Year

All those who visited the school building at the opening of school Wednesday morning at nine o'clock had an opportunity to observe the crowded condition of our schools. During the summer the auditorium was cut up into two class rooms and library room, leaving a small study hall. The room formerly used for the library and the two new rooms gives three more rooms. The grades are also crowded, but with the new arrangement the school board will try to take care of the school until a better arrangement can be provided.

In spite of the crowded condition it was an inspiration to visit the schools and see the life and enthusiasm of the young people who assembled for a year of work. It is a real tonic to older people to see the young children as they enter school for the first time, then the intermediate boys and girls and last the high school students as they are approaching young manhood and young womanhood. It gives us a new conception of life after mixing and mingling with the business world.

On account of having no auditorium, no formal opening exercises were held. The pupils were assembled in the various rooms where they were enrolled. No classes met on the opening day, but this morning the classes were organized and by Monday the school will be completely organized and ready for the year's work.

Mrs. Conde Hardeman and Mrs. Guy Wynne were present to confer with all pupils interested in Speech Arts and Music. They have been connected with the schools on past years and have rendered valuable service.

The following are the high school teachers: Guy C. Moses, superintendent; Earl Bowers, H. S. principal and athletics; M. B. Bethel, vocational agriculture.

Mrs. Effie Roy Felps, English; Miss Nellie Bennett, Latin and Spanish.

Miss Inez Kelley, Mathematics and Commercial work. The grammar school is being conducted on the departmental plan with the following teachers:

Mrs. Grady Kindrick, English; Mrs. Guy Munn, Arithmetic; Miss Cecelia Merchant, Geography and Art; Miss Gussie Boone, History; Miss Juanita Dickey, Reading and Science.

On account of the admission of children six years of age the number of teachers have been increased this session, and the following trained primary teachers were present at the opening Wednesday:

Miss Georgia Gildhart, fourth grade; Miss Alma Owen, high third; Mrs. Earl Bowers, low third; Mrs. Astor Wallace, second grade; Miss Velma Owens, high first; Miss Austin Durst, low first.

Tuesday of last week the following members of the Junction Rebekah Lodge visited the Menard Lodge: Mesdames Joe Ramsey, Carl Taff, C. F. Burt and Misses Fannie Brooks and Lucille Edwards. They report a great time with delightful refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Henderson chaperoned these Rebekahs on the trip.

Representative Coke R. Stevenson was a professional visitor in Fredericksburg the first of the week.

Football Season Opens Today

When the Junction Eagles and the Marfa Shorthorns meet on the local gridiron this afternoon at four o'clock the football season will be formally opened. Both these teams made good records last season and a good game is expected. We go to press too early to get the results. Of course Junction is scheduled to win and should have the enthusiastic support of all the fans in this vicinity.

College Students Will Soon Leave To Enter School

Frenchmen Make Successful Non Stop Air Flight

The attention of our young people is being turned toward school and the opening of the public school this week reminds them the more forcibly of this fact.

We are glad to get the names of those who will enter college and university during this month. Thus far we have heard of the following who plan to leave soon. We shall appreciate the favor if those knowing of young people going away to telephone us as we want to give a complete list next week of those who will attend college from Kimble County:

University of Texas—Dennis Wallace, Gay Munn, Carleton Wright, Junior Stevenson, Dick Winn, Dick Boone.

Texas Tech—Miss Tempie Boone.

Baylor University, Medical—J. W. McLendon.

A. C. C. Abilene—Herbert Newman.

Howard Payne—Roy Cochran.

Business College—Norma Hendricks, Audrey Kirkpatrick.

If we have errors in the list please telephone the Eagle office and please notify us of others who will go away to school this fall. We shall appreciate our readers helping us to get a complete list of our college boys and girls.

Rev. A. T. Nixon of Ingram and Rev. J. S. Good of San Antonio were here Sunday and preached at the Baptist Church. The Rev. Mr. Nixon at eleven o'clock and the Rev. Mr. Good at 8:30 p. m. They filled the pulpit for the Rev. G. W. Crabb who is conducting a revival meeting at Ingram.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Heyman left Friday for a short business trip to Carrizo Springs. They were accompanied as far as San Antonio by Miss Charlotte, who was returning to Brownsville to resume her work in the Junior College of that city.

Mr. A. J. Bierschwale and family of Sterling City were Junction visitors this week.

The highest officials of the Nation, led by President Hoover, Tuesday night joined in the acclaim of the French flyers, Captain Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, after they completed their ocean-spanning flight in New York.

Colonel Lindbergh was present to extend warm congratulations to the first man ever to fly without stop from Continental Europe to the continent of North America.

The air was full of planes as Coste and Bellonte flashed into view in their scarlet plane marked with a white question mark. A dozen other planes took off as the Frenchmen came into sight but with perfect handling, Fance's premier airman brought his big sesqui-plane down through the rising ships and effected a perfect landing.

With an escort of motorcycle police, the red plane that had just made aviation history and achieved a feat that has cost 10 lives in previous attempts, taxied slowly across the field and stopped by a hangar where the airmen were taken to talk over the radio and tell their experiences to newspapermen.

The Question Mark came to the end of its sensational journey out of a gray dusk that had been preceded by a heavy thunderstorm which fortunately cleared up before the flyers came. When the ship landed the crowd of thousands which had waited half a day for this one moment surged forward but were held back by the strong and high wire fences erected so that the completion of one trans-Atlantic flight might not be marred by the near riot conditions which have marked others.

FIRST BALE

Mr. C. W. Atchison, manager of the Junction gin, states that the first bale of cotton was received in Junction August 30. Mr. Atchison states that on account of the short cotton crop, the gin will run only on Friday of each week.

Junction Eagles Play First Game of Season Today With Big Shorthorns From Marfa

Dove Season In Kimble County Opened Sept. 1st

There has been much confusion about the legal time to hunt doves in Kimble County. After pointing the summary of hunting and fishing laws some months ago in which it was stated that September and October are the open months on doves, Game Warden Frank Cowser was under the impression that October and November were the months in which doves could be killed in Kimble County and had the folder so changed, but it now develops that September and October are the months to hunt doves.

The open season in the north zone is September and October and in the south zone October and November. The line dividing the north from the south zone starts at a point on the Rio Grande directly west of the town of Del Rio, thence eastward along the Southern Pacific Railroad to San Antonio; from San Antonio to Austin along the International Great Northern Railroad; Austin to the Brazos River near Brenham following the line of the Houston and Texas Central Railroad; thence in a general northerly direction along the center of the Brazos River to a point where the Beaumont branch of the Santa Fe Railway crosses the same; thence with the center track of the said Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railroad in an easterly direction through the towns of Navasota, Montgomery and Conroe to the point at or near Cleveland, where said railroad crosses the Houston East & West Texas Railroad; thence with the center of said H. E. & W. T. Railroad track to the point in said line where it strikes the Louisiana line.

JUNCTION LIONS VISIT GOLDTHWAITE MEETING

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. DeLano, Mr. and Mrs. Blackstone Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Powell and son, Milton, and Mr. Walter Buck attended a district Lions Club at Goldthwaite Wednesday. After the meeting Mr. Buck went further east for a visit and Mr. and Mrs. Powell will also be out of the city a few days on a little trip.

Mr. DeLano reports a great time at the meeting with an abundance of barbecued chicken and everything else needed to make the luncheon just what was needed. The business session was enjoyed and all the Junction delegates felt that the day was well spent.

Messrs. Emil A. Loeffler, A. G. Farmer, T. B. Phillips and engineer Minter made a trip in one of the Loeffler Motor Company's Fords over the proposed route of highway No. 4 from Junction to the county line north. Mr. Minter has been here some time and has surveyed the route of the new highway through the county. This is part of a road that extends from Canada to Brownsville, Texas. It has been designated as a Federal highway and through Texas is called No. 4.

Last Saturday Messrs. Nugent Weaver, Ray Ridenhower and Wayne L. Allen went to Eden where Mr. Allen took the examination on Masonic work before Mr. W. S. Tate of Hamilton, a member of the committee on Masonic work. One interesting feature to the Kimble County men was the fact that a man who has been deaf for twelve years took part in the work as effectively as any of those who hear. He has been a certificate man for twenty years.

Locals Lose Several But Have Good Recruits

Determined to uphold the record set by the football team of 1929, the Junction Eagle squad of 1930 will play their initial game of the season at four o'clock this afternoon on the local field with the Marfa Shorthorns.

Both teams have been working out in training camp for the past two weeks. They have been quartered on the Wright ranch on the South Llano River. Each squad consists of twenty-three members; the Marfa team being coached by L. B. Martin and Coach Earl Bowers guiding the local team.

During the past season both teams made good records, each losing only one game on the schedule.

While Coach Bowers lost seven letter men from last year's squad by graduation, he has much new material to work with. The lettermen graduating last year were Frank Hubbell (captain), Gay Munn, Louie Ragland, H. T. Richardson, Oscar Duderstadt, Roy Cochran and Marvin Blackburn. The last year's lettermen who will still be on the team this year are L. E. Dunbar, Lawson Johnson, Harry Wilt, Wilbur Jeter, Gordon King, Richard Coleman, Leonard Dunbar and Sherman Hendricks.

While the game this afternoon is only a practice game, the Junction team will put out everything to win. Marfa has a slight weight advantage, it was stated, and stands out as a favorite to win, but the Eagles will be fighting.

M. B. Bethel, Vocational Agriculture teacher, will referee the game; Dennis Wallace will umpire; Gay Munn will serve as head linesman; Dick Boone as timekeeper.

Golf Course Is Now In Good Condition

Mr. E. J. Hendricks continues to improve the local golf course. He states that many visitors express appreciation of the course since it has been improved. The greens are in excellent condition and he is still improving the fair ways.

Every town needs a good course and Mr. Hendricks is putting forth his best efforts to give Junction one of the best in the country. Local golf enthusiasts are pleased with the improvements made and Mr. Hendricks is anxious to cooperate with the players in every way possible.

NEW X-RAY MACHINE IS INSTALLED THIS WEEK

The latest addition to Dr. H. E. Wright's professional offices is the acquisition of a new Westinghouse unit X-ray machine, which is being installed this week. The machine will fill a need which has existed in the community for some time. The X-ray laboratory will be connected with Dr. Wright's office.

Dr. Wright has taken a complete X-ray course and has had one year's experience in one of the largest X-ray laboratories in the southwest and is well prepared for the work.

Mitchell McLendon returned yesterday from his trip to Europe where he spent nearly three months. He visited France, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Switzerland and England and enjoyed every day of his trip. On his return he stopped on the Azores and at Havana, Cuba.

Chas. E. Coombes Is President of Runnels Co. Fair

Charles E. Coombes, Jr., Commercial Manager of District "G" of the West Texas Utilities Company, was recently elected president of the Runnels County Fair Association, and is now actively in charge of the Annual Runnels County Fair which will be held this year in Ballinger from October 11 to 18, inclusive.

"Charley" is well and favorably known in Junction and the citizens here know that the Runnels County Fair is in competent hands. He has always taken a deep interest in local affairs wherever he is located. He was with the company some time at Mason and while there took an active interest in the sheep and goat industry, investing his money in a bunch of sheep and goats.

It is reported from Ballinger that he will have the assistance and co-operation of competent aides, and it is the hope of everyone concerned that this will be the best fair in years, and knowing the pep and enthusiasm of "Charley" as the Junction people do, there is no doubt but what, everything else being equal, this will be a banner year for the Runnels County Fair.

Dr. J. Holt Smith and family were week-end visitors at Santa Anna, the old home of Mrs. Smith. They report crop conditions bad in that section.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

The pulpit was filled last Sunday morning by Rev. Mr. Cook, pastor of the First Evangelical Church of San Antonio. Brother Cook brought a splendid message which was greatly appreciated. The pastor preached at this time to the Bethel Church to the quarterly meeting of the quarterly meeting of the Llano Valley Epworth League Union.

The pulpit will be filled next Sunday morning by Rev. G. W. Crofoot, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, who, with his congregation, will worship with us on this occasion. This service will be a real privilege and blessing, and we hope you will plan to be present.

Plans are being made for a District Epworth League Rally. The League will meet at seven o'clock Sunday night in the old church auditorium. Please note the change in time.

The pastor will preach at the evening service. The subject will be "The Lost Romance." You cannot afford to miss this service. Please notice! The time for the service is changed to 8 o'clock.

Our many visitors this summer have been wholehearted in their praise of the new building, and not one word of criticism has been heard. As they came from many sections and are entirely disinterested this should mean much to those who have labored and sacrificed to erect the building.

And in the meantime—Don't forget that each one of us is building that we must use for all eternity. What sort of a building are you erecting?

"WELCOME DAY"

The officers and teachers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of Junction extend greetings to all students and teachers, and have designated next Sunday as "Welcome Day." To those not members of another Sunday School they extend a cordial invitation to join theirs.

LONDON LOCALS

Our gin has put out 71 bales of cotton up to this date, Monday, Sept. 1st.

Mrs. Draper of Tahoka, a relative of the May family, was here last week.

Miss Victoria Brewer returned home Tuesday of last week from San Marcos where she attended the summer session of the Teachers' State Normal. Vic believes in keeping up to now.

Mr. and Mrs. John Royal left Thursday of last week for Crockett, Texas, where they are employed as teachers for the coming year. Mrs. Royal was a member of the faculty of London school last year and was well liked.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brewer who have been visiting their son at Breckenridge came in last week. Mrs. S. A. Brewer and children and Miss Mary Frances Brewer brought them home.

W. C. Jones returned from Bandera the 27th where he had gone to take his mother home after a stay of about six weeks in Bill's home. Bill always speaks so kindly and tenderly of his mother; it never fails to bare the nobleness of his soul.

J. H. Tomlinson returned to his home at Coleman Saturday.

Some needful improvements have been done on the school grounds. We are glad to note same, but the most needful thing has not been built yet.

That Teachergage that we felt sure the ladies of the P. T. A. would see to has not yet been built. It is more needful than anything else we know.

We need a teacherage and a teacher to occupy it. We need it from every angle you may reason on it. We have already paid out enough money on repairs for the building and lost enough books and other things to have made a substantial payment on a nice little bungalow. Let's build it.

Mrs. Fenton Stewart was visiting her mother, Mrs. I. W. Ellis, and other relatives here last week.

The road hands, under the supervision of our Commissioner, G. W. Hardesty, are building a real road from the Cooper farm to the Menard County line. We are glad indeed to see this gap closed up with a good road.

Mr. Joe Bissett was among our visitors Friday. Joe says he is not electioneering, but he can't make that go at all. He is one of the few men we meet that his very life is a pleasant persuasion for a closer friendship.

It is gratifying to see considerable live stock moving, though the price is low, it helps. W. L. Kothmann is buying and shipping calves and other stuff.

Miss Melbe Walton returned Saturday from Lone Grove where she spent several days in the home of her sister, Mrs. Box.

We regret to note the fact that grandmother Thurmond fell recently and inflicted a very painful fracture of the wrist.

Mr. Earl Hight was rather badly hurt by a run-away team Saturday, but nothing serious.

Rev. and Mrs. Lewis Cooper of Brownwood came in last week. Mrs. Cooper has the position of principal of the Tea Cup school while Mr. Cooper is a young Baptist preacher and has his time all taken up. These young people are favorably known here and we predict for them success in their public capacity. Mrs. G. R. Kothmann will teach the lower grades of the Tea Cup school. These two ladies have taught together before, therefore the Tea Cup school may expect co-operation with their teachers, and with the hearty co-operation this community always gives their school we look for nothing short of a successful school year for them.

Our London High School opened this morning with Mr. Rankin Kothmann superintendent, Miss Victoria Brewer principal, Mr. Morris coach and English, Miss Lola V. Cummins and Mrs. Vesta Weaver Intermediate, and last but by no means the least, we have Miss Eunice Green with the Primary grades. All the board of teachers except Mr. Morris are well known and have been connected with our school either as teacher or pupil, and some of them as both. We know them. Mr. Morris bears recommendations as a high-minded Christian gentleman with this board of teachers, and our present board of trustees. The success of the 1930-31 term needs only the co-operation of the parents and the entire citizenship to insure success. I will guarantee these teachers will do their best. That is what we as a community are paying them for and could not expect anything less than their best efforts. Our board of trustees are all intelligent men and their interest in the school is already proven. Now let's all get busy and make this term the success it should be. More about school next week.

SIX MILE MUSINGS

Mrs. Durban and daughter, Willie, have returned from Sanderson where they went two weeks ago. Willie decided to attend school here instead of at Sanderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Alexander have as their guests this week Mr. and Mrs. Avery Maise of Menard.

Miss Laura Crowell and other relatives of the Alexanders from San Antonio visited here recently.

No rain here yet but we are hoping that it will come soon as it is badly needed.

FLEA PRECAUTION

If your house is full of fleas, they are probably presents from your dog or cat, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. To destroy fleas on pet animals apply derris powder or wash them in a fairly weak solution of saponified creosote or kerosene emulsion. Keep pet animals out of the house. Scatter about 5 pounds of flaked naphthalene over the floor or each infested room, keep the room closed for 12 hours, then sweep up the naphthalene remaining. Keep animals and poultry from beneath buildings (where fleas breed), and clean up trash in such places. Invested areas should be sprayed with creosote oil and the ground where young fleas are growing should be covered with salt and wet down well.

I. H. ROBERTSON DIES

Mr. I. H. Robertson, who was injured last Wednesday afternoon when his horse fell on him, died about eight o'clock Thursday evening without regaining consciousness. Just how the accident happened will probably never be known. He was returning home from John Cowser's and is thought to have been looking after some sheep on the way home. His horse returned home without him and after a search his body was found soon after dark. He was brought to the Standifer Hospital but his injuries were fatal.

The body was buried in the Junction Cemetery Saturday morning, August 30, the Rev. G. W. Crofoot officiating.

Mr. Robertson was born September 15, 1875, in Bell County where he grew to manhood, and after a sojourn in the Valley moved to Kimble County in 1924, settling on Bear Creek. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mattie Robertson, two sons—Edward, of Douglas, Arizona, and John of Laredo, and his daughter, Mary Jane, besides other relatives, including a sister, Mrs. W. W. Stockton, of Temple.

His many friends in Kimble County and elsewhere join in sympathy with the family in the untimely homegoing of Mr. Robertson.

FORD'S GOLDEN RULE

In an issue of "System" Henry Ford outlined the business creed under which he operates and to which he attributes most of his marvelous success. Here it is:

1. An absence of unreasoning fear of the future. One who fears the future fears failure and limits his activities.

2. A disregard of competition. Whoever can do a thing best ought to be the one to do it.

3. The putting of service before profit. Profit cannot be the basis—it must be the result of service.

4. Successful manufacturing is not a matter of buying low and selling high. It is the process of buying materials fairly and with the smallest possible addition of cost, transforming those materials into a consumable product.

Mr. Ford says: "I hold that these principles are universal and the practice of them must lead to a better and wider life for all of us. If I did not think so I would not keep working—for the money I make is inconsequent. Money is useful only as it serves to forward the principles that business is justified only as it serves. Unless everybody benefits by the existence of a business, then that business should not exist." (Florida Realty Journal).

Five Texas cities are listed among the ninety-three "largest American cities" in the 1930 census.

Texas will have twenty and possibly twenty-one members of the House of Representatives when the 1930 census is accepted by Congress.

TEXAS STATE TEACHERS OCCUPY OWN HOME SOON

Possibly unique among the pedagogical associations is the home in Fort Worth which the Texas State Teachers Association soon will occupy. One donation of $10,000, from the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce toward purchase of the site, was received. Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

FIFTEENTH INSTALLMENT

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Standing on a New York street corner, a young woman suddenly discovers that she does not know her own name nor how she got there. Everything in her past is a blank. She knows only that her name is "Miss Nobody." She meets a man who lives at the hotel where she is registered as Eve Nobody of Nowhere, which she has written in French. Eric Hamilton calls in a nurse specialist, but Eve slips out of the hotel, goes to a little apartment house, where she meets a professional dancer who goes her a job in a cabaret.

An earnest husband, she meets many curious people. Then, one night, a man who claims to be her father, comes in. She is afraid of him and runs away, back to the hotel to Eric Hamilton. She has her hair dyed and changes her manner of dress, so that the stranger out of her old life will not recognize her. Then Hamilton persuades her to go through a marriage ceremony with him, as they return to the hotel the man she fears is waiting for her. She is afraid to go, but Eric Hamilton sends her to the hotel where his name is Samuel Henderson, of Chicago.

Henderson identifies Eve to Hamilton. She is Eve Carrington, a famous concert singer and Henderson was not only her manager but had hoped to marry her. She had collapsed after trying to save her children of a friend from an overturned rowboat in Lake Michigan, two of them drowning before her eyes. She had slipped away from the nurse on guard in Chicago and completely vanished. The death of the two little boys coupled with her fear of Henderson had caused her loss of memory.

Hamilton tells the whole story to his friend, Dr. Carrick, who is able to assure Eve that there is nothing in her old life that she needs to fear, while he considers how to bring her memory back.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I will try to . . . but I have a sort of horror . . ."

"I know you have, Mr. Hamilton has told me about it. But there's nothing now to justify it. Will you believe that?"

"Yes. And you must remember another thing. We're morally but not absolutely certain that the man who came tonight is what he says he is and that the story he tells is true. He may have stolen the proofs he offers, or be passing himself off as someone else, but there seems a hundred to one chance that he's not a fraud. We're going to learn all about him as quickly as we can, but it may take a few days. In the meantime I'll give you a bare hint of his story and see if it stimulates memory. How about the name Carrington—Eve Carrington? Does it seem familiar?"

"I don't know," she faltered. "Is it mine?"

"Did it seem natural when I called you by it?"

"I can't be sure, I was so excited when you came in. You know what this possibility may mean to me . . . if there's nothing to dread . . ."

"Of course I do. How about the name Henderson? Does that suggest anything?"

She reflected, while both men waited tensely.

"No," she said at last, in a hopeless tone. "I'm afraid it doesn't."

"H-m-m. Well, this man Henderson . . . who was here tonight and who frightened you at the cabaret, Mr. Hamilton tells me . . . says that you are a musician."

"A musician?" She tried the word with tender lips and a sudden smile.

"Are you?"

"I . . . good Heavens, Doctor! I don't know!"

"Don't get nervous. I won't ask many questions. But what sort of a musician do you think you are—a singer?"

"I . . . I don't know!"

"Do you think you can sing?" She shook her head.

"If someone rolled a piano in here, would that interest you? Would you want to play on it?"

"I don't know. Oh, I don't know!"

It was clear that the strain of the situation was too much for her. To Hamilton's horror, she collapsed abruptly in a spasm of sobbing, her face in her hands, her body shaking. He started toward her, the psychiatrist waved him back while he himself approached the girl and laid a quieting hand on her shoulder.

"You see how it is, Miss Carrington," he said, very gently. "You're not quite up to these tests yet, and in one way they may do you more harm than good. Don't let that frighten you. I'm certain that you're coming through this all right, and very soon at that. In the meantime you mustn't mind if we don't talk any more of this man and his story till we know what we're about. We can't risk getting you stirred up on false clues, can we?"

She wiped her eyes and pulled herself together.

"No," she steadily agreed. "But if they're real clues—"

"If they're real clues you can trust us to tell you. In the meantime, these names are in your mind and they may start some subconscious work. Will you be patient and leave all the rest to us, and promise not to ask any more questions?"

"Yes." She sat up and resolutely smiled at him. "I'm ashamed of myself for breaking down."

"You needn't be. You're going through this wonderfully, and you're coming out of it wonderfully, too. Do you think you will sleep tonight?"

"I hope so."

"You ought to, for I think you're on the road home. Good night, Miss Carrington."

"Good night, Doctor."

Their eyes and hands met.

The next morning, in the light of a sparkling day, the problems seemed simpler.

"I want you to make me a promise," Eve said to Hamilton.

"Almost anything, Eve. You know that."

"Then promise me you won't let the man who calls himself Henderson know about my condition until I say you may."

Eric hesitated.

"Doctor Carrick and I agree that it would be wise not to confide in him for a time," he told her. "Won't that do?"

"No. Even if you find he's all right, I don't want him to know about my amnesia, or whatever it is," she persisted. "There's something deep down—Oh, I can't explain it. Perhaps it's instinct. Perhaps it's memory stirring a little. Whatever it is, I don't want him to know."

Eric, of course, understood and shared her feeling, but he hesitated to give a blanket promise.

"Something may happen," he pointed out. "News may come . . ."

"Then tell me about it before you give him any details. Consult me. You owe me that. Will you promise?"

"Of course I will." She was right, he was sure; and he himself was anxious to keep the truth from Henderson as long as he dared. Mor over, right or wrong, the important thing was to have her mind as free from anxiety as possible.

"It's too fine to stay in," he suggested. "Suppose I get a roadster and we go off for the day?"

She hesitated, but her quick glance at the outer radiance showed him that she was tempted.

"It does sound nice," she admitted.

"Then let's go. Can you be ready in half an hour?"

"In half a minute. I've got on everything I own, you know."

"We'll split the difference. I'll try to be at the front entrance with a car in fifteen minutes."

He was exacting about the roadster when it was offered for his inspection at the hotel garage. He insisted on having it cleaned and he also ordered an overworked tire changed. But it was not much more than twenty minutes before he helped Eve into the car at the Garland's entrance. Her mood was serene but severely practical.

"I oughtn't to let you spend money on me this way," she murmured as she took her place beside him. The matter of money was increasingly on her mind. He gave the wheel a car-free whirl and started the roadster uptown.

The roadster was approaching the turn that led to White Plains. She glanced down at her black pumps and her face sobered.

"I had a shock this morning when I looked at myself in the glass and got the full effect of my dyed hair in a bright light," she abruptly announced.

"I can imagine it. I'm glad, myself, when you wear your hat. Talking of food has made me hungry," Hamilton added, for the dyed hair was not a topic to dwell on. "How about lunching very soon at some picturesque place along here? You ate hardly any breakfast."

"I'll be ready for my lunch-eon."

She was not only ready for it, but she ate it, to his immense relief. They had a table on the hotel veranda commanding a superb view of river and hills and meadows, and after the meal they lingered to enjoy the vista while Hamilton smoked a cigar.

When they resumed their ride she deliberately led him, for the first time, to talk about himself. He was glad to have her know something of his family and traditions, of his school and college life, his interests and his friendships. Perhaps she had wearied of their marriage game, but this did not hurt him. She was an inspiring listener. He knew he had never talked better.

"How would you feel," she abruptly demanded, "if a black curtain suddenly fell between you and all that? If you had absolutely no knowledge of your-self as you were before you came here?"

"I'd feel just the way you feel," he admitted; "only I couldn't take the experience so pluckily. You've been an inspiration, as Carrick says."

"It was disgusting of me to bring up the subject," she broke out. "That wasn't plucky—to spoil even a minute of our beautiful day."

The last words would have made up for anything. They restored Hamilton to a mental state in which the universe belonged to him and his companion; and this condition of beatitude lasted through a rather silent dinner and an evening in which she left him at eight on the plea of being tired.

"But it has been a good day," she told him, and added with her enchanting smile, "I have felt actually human."

He had sent off his instructions to the Chicago agency the previous night, before he slept, and from the time he wired them he subconsciously began to watch for the report. Incidentally he dropped a note to Henderson, postponing their next talk for a few days.

No doubt Henderson was equally busy with investigations covering Hamilton's life and present standing. Certainly Henderson revealed no more urge toward another meeting than Hamilton did.

He had also wired to Chicago, extending his own vacation, and he killed time for Eve and himself during the rest of the week by arranging several motor jaunts, a matinee or two, and some bus and steamer sight-seeing expeditions. There was no doubt that Eve played up wonderfully. She asked no questions and betrayed only occasional moments of depression.

The third day Eve made an unexpected suggestion.

"Do you think it would be all right if we dropped into Jake's tonight for an hour?" she asked.

"We'll do anything you like," he said at once, but she saw that the prospect of the expedition was intensely distasteful to him. She was not surprised. From the first he had shown an unwillingness to discuss her experience at Jake's or even to admit that it had occurred.

"I'd like to go," she amplified, ignoring his manner. "They were all amazingly good to me; I've told you that. And I left them under a cloud. In fact, they say Jake never forgives anyone who 'quits him cold,' as they put it. So I really ought to show up, merely as an apology."

"Of course," he restlessly agreed. "But . . . you could write, you know."

"I've done that," she gave him an odd look. "You don't want me to go back there, do you?"

"No, frankly I don't. But we'll go, just the same, if you're really keen for it. However, I'll ask you to indulge me in one detail. Introduce me as your husband. I don't want those people to think you're drifting around alone."

"As you like," she agreed. "But there's no danger in the visit. The man Henderson isn't likely to be there again, and even if he were—"

"There's no danger at all. That's not what I'm thinking about."

He spoke so curtly that she looked at him in mock alarm. "Do you realize," she said teasingly, "that at moments you're beginning to talk and act like a real husband? The proprietary air you're wearing this minute would deceive the closest observer."

He flushed.

"I beg your pardon."

She relented.

"You don't need to . . . Eric!" As he turned an illuminated face to her she added hastily, "I know just how you feel."

"You don't know anything of the kind," he said unsteadily. "But some day I hope you will."

FOUR AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF TEXAS WILL BE VOTED ON IN NOVEMBER

Four amendments to the State Constitution, two of them affecting the University of Texas and its oil lands, one aimed at a revision of the term of the Supreme Court and another at a reorganization of the Legislative session, will be voted on at the November election.

One of the amendments would permit counties in which University of Texas lands are located to tax this property as if it belonged to an individual. Heretofore, the land has been free and the counties complained that the university was not only sapping its natural resources in the form of gas and oil, but was depriving them of any tax revenues from the valuable tracts.

Another amendment will permit the board of regents of the University of Texas to issue bonds to provide funds for the erection of additional buildings on the campus. The bonds will be secured by the $13,000,000 oil and gas royalty fund. Under the present system, the university may use only the interest from the fund for new buildings.

Legislative reorganization and salary increase is among the list of amendments. If adopted, the amendment would lengthen the legislative session from 60 to 120 days and would double the pay of the legislators from $5 to $10 per day.

The amendment provides for separating the legislative term into periods, 30 days for the introduction of bills, 30 days for the committee hearings and reports and 60 days to the debate on the measures and the enactment of the laws. The rule, however, would not be rock-bound, either branch having the right to set aside the regular procedure by a four-fifth vote with the further provision that emergency measures could be taken up at any time.

The fourth amendment would require the State Supreme Court to remain in session throughout the year instead of only nine months. The present constitution requires the Supreme Court to go into vacation from the last Saturday in June to the first Monday in October, regardless of the condition of the docket and the number of cases pending. The amendment is being advocated by leading jurists and law-makers.

at the NEIMITZ HOTEL.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says: The "Perfect Retention Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time.

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.

Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

Officials of the West Texas Exposition, to be held in San Angelo Sept. 22 to 27, voted recently to refuse space in the poultry building to commercial feed concerns. While sale of exhibit space would prove profitable, the need of floor space to accommodate increased exhibits this year made the refusal of commercial exhibit space advisable. Feed concerns will exhibit in the Merchants Exhibit building.

A LINE
Contrary to the dictionary, a line is not a string or a cord. Neither is it a threadlike mark of pen or pencil. If straight, it is not necessarily the shortest distance between two points. A line is what makes a beautiful girl leave the dance floor at 10:00 p. m., and sit in the back seat of a broken-down touring car till 2 a. m. A line is what makes a beautiful girl roll her eyes at a man who has freckles, big ears and no money. A line is what makes chickens cross a road—and get into a strange automobile. A line is what makes a "no girl" turn into a "yes girl." A line is what makes a girl forget that a line isn't everything. But after all, a line is nothing more than a loose flow of words which doesn't amount to anything. A line is what you have just been reading.—Exchange.

FRIED OKRA
Fried okra is one of the vegetables that can be enjoyed from time to time in summer. Select young okra pods, wash them, and cut them crosswise in pieces between a fourth and a half inch thick. Allow 6 tablespoons of butter or 1 cup of salt pork, diced for cooking to 2 quarts of okra. If salt pork is used, cook it in a skillet until crisp. Then remove the piece and use 6 to 8 tablespoons of the fat. Put in the okra, cover and cook about 10 minutes, stirring frequently to prevent burning. Remove the cover and continue to cook until the okra is tender and slightly brown. Add the crisp pork and serve at once.

FATTENING TURKEYS
Begin on the first of October by gradually increasing the feeds morning and evening. If the birds are fed enough they will not move about very much. There is no advantage in shutting them up. The more milk fed the better the bird; so feed as much buttermilk as possible during this time.
Keep all hoppers and troughs clean at all times. Provide the birds with deep wooden troughs for wet mash, made from 10-inch or 12-inch boards or planks.

Probably the longest cotton row in the world is one on the Northeast farm in Mitchell County—sixteen miles. It is a complete circle around a hill.

Texas did not lead the states in population gains in the 1930 census, standing sixth in numerical increases. But it retained fifth place in standing of the states with a population of 5,821,272 or 10,589 more than a preciously announced total. To achieve the slogan, "Third State in 1940," Texas in the next decade must pass Illinois and Ohio.

Junction Trade Notes

(By G. G. Co.)

The weather is always interesting, whether we like it or not. Tacoma, Washington, reports 1930 as the driest in 40 years, with little more than half of average rainfall, and similar condition has existed all the way across the U. S., except in spotted areas. . . . September 1st several Northwestern States indicated the end of an unusually hot season, when the thermometer descended to 32 and below; Montana reported frost and snow.

San Antonio Express correspondent recently drew this attractive picture of Junction and the Hill Country of Texas: "Matchless highways wind in and out among crystal streams. Masses of wild flowers cover plateaus, valleys and hillsides. Great spreading trees line the rivers and soften the rough profile of the hills. It is a country of magnificent distances, crisp mornings, bright days and cool nights all summer. It offers not only unsurpassed opportunities for summer play, but equally alluring prospects for home-seekers and developers. Few regions anywhere are richer in unexploited resources."

For Sale: 24 purebred White Leghorn hens and pedigreed rooster. Apply to Black Davis, Junction, or Gann Grocery Co. Supplies of fed cattle during first half of 1931 are expected to be much smaller than in 1930, and economic conditions of the cattle industry are likely to improve within next 12-month, according to a beef cattle bulletin issued by U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. . . . The Nat'l Wool Co-Op announces it will advance after Sept. 10 the sum of 50c head on sheep not to be sheared this fall, with further advances to be made after January. Advances on fall shorn wool, it is stated, will range from 16c to 20c and on mohair 30c and 40c.

Borden is open to dinner engagements while Mrs. Borden is visiting with relatives and friends in Austin. . . . Mrs. George Pepper and family, after spending school vacation on the ranch, are again occupying their home in Junction. . . . Mrs. Fred Duderstadt and family have moved in from the ranch for the school year.

Junction public schools, the community's best asset, opened Wednesday with optimistic outlook for a successful year; but there may be a scramble for seats before the term is far advanced. Suggestions for school lunches: Fresh baked ham, sliced to order, Pecan-Nut butter, apple butter, velveta cheese, and other spreads, ideal for school sandwiches. Shall Mt. Vernon Be Changed To a Park?

It is rumored that a bill will be introduced at the next session of Congress to change Mount Vernon from its present status to a public park under the management of the government. Several attempts to this effect have been made in times past but all, fortunately, have failed.

Since 1860 this patriotic shrine—the home of George Washington from 1747 to 1799, and his present burial place—has been owned and managed by the Mount Vernon Ladies Association of the Union. The association was formed for the purpose of buying and restoring the estate. They have carried out their plans so well that should Washington awake and emerge from his tomb on the grounds, he would perhaps marvel that there had been so little change in the 131 years since his death. He would find deer in the park by the river, flowers growing in the gardens back of the house, and inside the house much of the same furnishings and many of his personal belongings.

For the restoration and maintenance of Mount Vernon, that thousands of citizens yearly may have the pleasure of visiting there and catching a glimpse of the life lived by the Father of our Country, the nation is deeply indebted to the members of the Mount Vernon Ladies Association. It is one of the greatest contributions of the many made by American women to national life. No criticism has ever been directed toward their work in this connection and it is deserving of great praise.

Serious consideration should precede any action looking toward a change in the maintenance of Mount Vernon. One should think twice—aye a hundred times—before sanctioning such a step.

Mr. Philip Joseph is in Mason this week looking after his store in that town.

Lions Eat Lamb At Noon Luncheon On Monday, Sept. 8

(From The Ozona Stockman)

Contributing its mite toward furthering the national campaign to popularize lamb meat as a table delicacy, the Ozona Lions Club will eat lamb as its meat course from time to time at the weekly luncheons of the club held at the Ozona Hotel. The first of this series of lamb dinners will be given Monday, September 8, W. D. Drennan, hotel manager, has announced.

In addition to eating lamb, the Ozona Lions Club is co-operating in the national educational campaign by printing on all its stationery and advertising pieces the slogan, "EAT MORE LAMB." This slogan is being printed in colors on all stationery going out from the office of the secretary and president and this movement is being placed before other clubs in the stock raising section in the hope that they also will join in the campaign.

Lamb meat is recognized by experts as one of the most delicious of meats and physicians recommend it as one of the most digestible. Popularizing lamb, then, is merely a matter of convincing the housewife of its delicious flavor, backers of the educational campaign declare. If the people of America can be induced to give lamb a trial, it will popularize itself, it is pointed out.

CONSERVE FEED

There has never been a time in the history of Kimble County when there was a greater need to conserve feed than at the present time. The continued drought has limited the supply of feed. Many farmers and ranchmen have stubble of various kinds that will make some feed with proper care, if early fall rains come as they usually do.

By planting all available ground in wheat and other cold resisting grains much valuable pasturage can be furnished during the winter. These feeds can be planted late in the fall and make good pastures during the months when grazing is needed most. By conserving the available feed supply and supplementing in every possible way between now and winter farmers and ranchmen will be better prepared to tide over the winter months.
