PEACE CONFERENCE ON

WICHITA FALLS SELECTED FOR PERMANENT HOME BY EDITORS BEFORE CLOSE OF CONVENTION

H. N. F's. Mainly About People

Give Fair a Press Day
Sidelights on Boys
Col. Bill the Hero
A Word on Harrison

THERE SHOULD BE A PRESS day at the Texas-Oklahoma fair. There is always a press day at a state fair, a cotton palace, a fat stock show, a rodeo, an agricultural fair or a reunion of cowboys.

Many years ago the Northwest Texas Press Association was organized by the men of the fourth estate who did the pioneer work in this section and blazed all the trails for those who came after them.

Col. Bill Edwards of Henrietta was among the early trail blazers . He came to northwest Texas in the early seventies. A native of Illinois, he acquainted a knowledge of the printing trade in the village where he was born. His one ambition was to become a Texas cowboy. Before he was 20 he made the journey from Illinois to Texas and his ambition was gratified. He rode the range for years and then he returned to the printing office.

HENRIETTA WAS A WILD cattle town in those days, the home of rustlers, gun men, outlaws, and rendevous for buffalo hunters in the fat season, tourists in the open season, gamblers who made the sky their limit and temples dedicated to the worship of John Barleycorn.

He ran a newspaper at Mobeetie when Mobeetie was the wildest town on the Texas map. Col. Bill should write a book. Wolfeville trails would not be in it. Col. Bill is the first vice president of the association. He was elected Saturday by unanimous vote.

Crede Harrison of the Baylor County Banner was elected president. He is a youngster, a native of Baylor and he never sa wn buffalo or a wild horse or a gun man in his young life unless he visited the zoo or the jail. Harrison is expected to do all the work the coming year and Col. Bill, the praying. Col. Bill is a pious man outwardly; Crede Harrison is a pious man outwardly. He is red-headed and this shows the spiritual side of his nature.

RALPH SHUFFLER, PUBLISHer of the Olney Times is the secretary-treasurer of the association. He is a preacher's son and is expected to do the general uplift work of the association as well as to supervise the uplifting efforts of his own community where he has been a shining light, an exemplar of civic virtue and bludgeoner of John Barleycorn and his chief running mate who is said to preside over the infernal regions.

Harry Koch of the Quanah Tribune Chief, Deacon W. Dickson of the Iowa Park Herald and Wichita County Promoter and Buford O. Brown, the electric spark of the News in the best oil camp to be found in the world, constitutes the executive comittee of the association for the coming year.

HARRY KOCH IS ANOTHER pioneer of the west and when he found himself in Texas the grass was free, the range wasn't fenced, the herds were large, the cowboys were the life of the party and printing wasn't recognized as an established industry.

It is different now. Harry Koch for years has been giving the people a prosperous and well edited semi-weekly newspaper, he is a recognized citizen, there are no strings on his editorial page and the Tribune Chief speaks its mind freely. Harry was one of the organizers of the association and it is the only district association in the United States that has the recognition of the National Editorial association and the authority to elect delegates direct to the national organization.

Richard Harry McCarthy of the Albany News is another unique individual and is recognized as one of the ablest editorial writers of the state. He did not acquire it. He was born that way.

ERIC SHROEDER OF THE VERnon Record is a handsome and talented youngster who came from Missouri, but he doesn't have to be shown. He is well educated, he has a nose for news, he has vision linked with imagination and a tongue that is capable of telling the story.

Young Shroeder made a talk on the closing day on feature writing and human interest stories that caught the crowd and won the praise of the hard-boiled George McQuaid who has been in the newspaper game so long that he is as cynical as a Turk. Young Shroeder's talk caught the veteran. It not only caught him; it carried him away.

Rev. Frank H. Stedman blew in with witty and winsome Geo. L. Inglish of Stamford. Stedman is an intelectual sky pilot, a priest of the Episcopal church, a real human be-

O. C. Harrison Elected President of Press Association for 1923; Editors Are Pleased With Reception Here

Wichita Falls is the official home of the Northwest Texas Press association. Members of the association voted this city their home when before adjourning Saturday morning from a two days annual convention they said Wichita Falls is the best place to hold their conventions and voted without a dissenting voice to come back here in 1923.

O. C. Harrison of the Baylor county Banner, published in Seymour, was elected president of the association for the next term and Colonel Bill Edwards of Henrietta was elected vice president, while Ralph Shuffler was re-elected secretary. Mr. Schuffler is publisher of the Olney Enterprise. The newly elected president will name the members of the executive committee.

Re-convening in the ball room of the Kemp hotel at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, the Northwest Texas Press association got down to business without delay as there was some of Friday afternoon's program left over to be carried out.

Colonel Bill Edwards of Henrietta discussed prices and charges and also told of early day newspaper work. He was followed by S. E. Inglish of Stamford who discussed accounting and other details of the weekly newspaper work. Edgar McLendon of Graham discussed in detail newspaper bookkeeping and other office matters.

Features Discussed

Harry Koch of Quanah took up the subject of special features and handled the subject from every angle. He told of the kind of features he used and the kind he thought best for his people, preferring, however, he said, to use no more features than he had to. This subject brought up wide discussion and there were many views of the matter.

Others who discussed matters of interest to the newspapers and handled subjects which are of vital importance to the organizations, including the job printing departments, were: Ralph

FAR WEST HIT HARD BY STRIKE

Train Schedules Are Disrupted

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 12.—Resumption of transcontinental train service on one railroad, the Union Pacific, and suspension of east-bound trains on another, the Western Pacific, were the outstanding features today in the war west in the nation-wide railroad strike.

Union Pacific trains, which were tied up in Nevada, on the Salt Lake-Los Angeles road, began moving shortly after noon when big four trainmen, who had gone on strike, went back to their posts. Two of the trains were at Las Vegas and it was reported Governor Emmett D. Boyle of Nevada, had left for that point to take charge of the situation.

The two daily Western Pacific trains were annulled on account of strike conditions at Oakland and Stockton, and other California points where brotherhood men had refused to work as long as armed guards were retained. One Western Pacific train was abandoned by its crew after arriving at Stockton today from Salt Lake.

Fruit losses resulting from the strike are reported heavy. Particularly in the San Joaquin valley, where it was estimated that growers today lost 500 cars of green fruit valued at $500,000.

Will Appeal For Moving of Trains

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 12.—A direct appeal to trainmen at desert points to move stalled passenger trains will be made as a "last resort," L. L. Hibbard, general manager of the Santa Fe Coast Lines, said late today.

Some of the trains have been tied up for two days in an intense heat and the general manager said the crews would be urged to bring the passengers to their destination as "a matter of humanity."

FORD'S OFFER FLAYED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 12.—Henry Ford's order for the Muscle Shouls projects was declared "unconscionable" by Senator Harreld of Oklahoma, republican member of the senate agriculture committee, in a letter today to Gray Silver of the American farm bureau federation

Levee Delegates Want Congress to Control System

By Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 12.—Congress will be asked to adopt legislation providing for complete and permanent control of the Mississippi river levees system, by a delegation representing 19 of the major levee districts of the lower valley states, which will appear before the house committeel on flood control at a special hearing in Washington on Sept. 5, it was announced tonight by the Mississippi River Flood Control association.

These 19 boards, controlling the levees protecting millions of acres of land in Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana, have rejected any other plan for the control works along the Mississippi river and will ask the government to take over the entire project and complete it.

The committee, which will go to Washington will insist that the flood protection question is essentially a national one.

OIL PRODUCERS WILL SUSPEND ALL DRILLING

Measures Taken to Avert Price Declines

By Associated Press.

TULSA, Okla., August 12.—Approximately 500 independent oil producers, gathered here from five states of the southwest, unanimously voted today for a complete shut-down of drilling operations as the only means of preventing further declines in the price of crude oil. The five states represented were: Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma.

The action was taken at a joint meeting of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association and the National Association of Independent Oil Producers. The final decision was practically the same as the original proposals promuigated by the Mid-Continent association.

A secondary proposal designed to increase storage facilities was adopted. It was for the erection of a storage tank by every producer who is able.

Refiners were invited to cooperate with producers in handling the surplus that might develop while the market structure is being restored.

A central committe was appointed whose duty it will be to see to it that the drilling that is shut down is made effective. The committee will send out letters to all producers in the mid-continent field informing them of the plan of shut-down, requesting their co-operation and asking them to commit themselves to the plan.

The committee is composed of M.

"Creeping Paralysis" Threatens Roads

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Asserting that "creeping paralysis will make it impossible at the end of sixty days for the most willing train service employes to keep traffic moving," J. F. McGrath, vice president of the railways employes department of the American Federation of Labor, issued a statement tonight criticising assertions of railway executives that rolling stock is in safe condition.

He charged that the Interstate Commerce Commission has not made public recent reports on the condition of railroad equipment but asserted that commission members told the president on July 28, that if "the strike was not settled within two weeks the entire railroad structure of the country would be threatened with collapse because of impaired equipment and lack of fuel."

Bielaski Gets Clean Bill of Health

By Associated Press.

GUERNEVACA, Mexico, Aug. 12.—A. Bruce Bielaski, former American department of justice official, was formally absolved of all guilt in the recent kidnaping episode in which he was the central figure when Judge Quiros, who has been conducting the examination into the affair, issued full clearance papers this afternoon.

No Decision Yet On Strike Policy

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 12.—Announcement of action on the strike situation at Texarkana will not be made before Monday, Governor Neff stated this afternoon. He indicated the situation at that place has not become more serious and that the ranger force there now is sufficient. The governor refused to discuss any reports he may have received from Ranger Captain Lem Lanuble stationed at Texar

CRIME RAMPANT HERE WITH FIVE POLICE ON DUTY

Holdups and Daring Robberies Daily Occurrence

Is there a band of thieves headquartering and operating here, and if there is, by what method will Wichita Falls rid herself of the criminal danger?

This is the question that not only is arising in the minds of the busy police department almost daily, but which, with the report of numerous robberies and daring holdups right in the heart of this city, has caused merchants, business men and laymen alike to shudder over the problem and wonder what the outcome will be with only a diminished police department working to shut off the crime wave.

And in the meanwhile, the crime wave, already well under way, is gaining impetus and coming to be the paramount issue of the day for Wichita Falls—and ultimately a question which will stare the city commissioners point blank in the face as no other issue has.

In the last 12 days—the first 12 of this present month, a total of 10 bold robberies have been recorded in police history, while a hold-up so daring and so well executed that it carries the thinking citizenship back to oil boom days has been flaunted in the face of law in the most flagrant and defying manner.

Here are ten big cases:

1. During the night of August 3, thieves conducted three daring robberies in this city. The private garage of Frank Satterfield was broken into and his car stolen out, apparently for just a joyride, for it was found the next day at 11:30.
2. But other crooks jimmied into a private home at 830 Tenth street that night and carried off a dress suit, a string of pearls and several other articles.
3. During the same night, and perchance at the same time the Little Sporting Goods store was looted by a youthful character who was later apprehended by Juvenile Officer R. L. Yates, and sent to the state school of correction.
4. On the night of August 4, the home of Clara Best, 2305 Seventh street, was robbed of several dresses.
5. The following night thieves raided the Waggoner store on Mill street, at 1205 1-2, carrying off a quantity of smoking tobacco, candy and several dollars in money.
6. And any person who might have been keeping a diary of the events could have written under date of August 7, that on the preceding night the Overland warehouse at Fourth and Ohio was robbed by unknown men, several costly casings and rims being stolen.
7. And then in the midst of this epidemic of thievery, two unmasked men stepped out from behind trees just as H. G. Conaly, a visitor from Hico, Texas, had approached the corner of Twelfth and Ohio, stuck guns in his side and robbed him of $32 in money and a valuable watch. This bold crime was committed almost in the heart of the city, and at an early hour—10:20.
8. But the thieves didn't let an announcement to the effect that the police were busy investigating hinder their activities. They possibly remembered that the city council recently cut the force down to five patrolmen—three working nights and two working days—and they went right ahead with their criminal program.
9. On the following night, a band of crooks broke into the Wichita Service Station, at the corner of Third and Ohio, stealing a supply of casings, tubes and coils.
10. And when nothing happened to them for that, they broke into the Wichita Foundry, cracked the safe with a chisel and hammer and robbed the contents.

The next night, the place occupied by O. B. Dudley, at 1200 Scott street, became the victim, and clothing was carried away, while the following night re-

Women and Babes, Held in Desert, Periled by Heat

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 12.—A plea that some attempt be made to send a Red Cross relief train to Selgman, Ariz., to rescue women and children marooned there as a result of the refusal of big four brotherhood members to move Santa Fe trains, was received tonight by the Los Angeles Times from Charles P. Reiniger of this city, one of those marooned.

Several women passengers are ill, according to Reiniger's telegram, many babies and small children are suffering from the extreme heat and from lack of milk. "Only limited medical attention is obtainable," it is pointed out and "sanitary conditions are bad and growing worse, while elderly men and women among the marooned are beginning to exhibit symptoms of approaching breakdown."

"All passengers as a unit," concludes the message, urge that a relief Red Cross train be operated to take suffering babies, small children and elderly and feeble women to Los Angeles, and that automobiles be furnished promptly by the company to transport the remainder of the passengers."

Griffith Death Dismays Irish

NEW YORK, August 12.—News of the death in Dublin today of Arthur Griffith, one of the founders of sinn fein, and president of the dail errainn, was received with dismay by Irishmen in New York. The belief was expressed by many that his passing had taken from Ireland one of its greatest fighters for freedom and from state government one of it's most courageous leaders.

Advocates of both the republican and free state movements joined in expressing sorrow at Griffith's demise, they declared that his teachings and his works had inspired all Irish leaders and that they would carry on for him.

Germans Protest French Tactics

By Associated Press.

PARIS, August 12.—A note from the German government protesting against the expulsion of Germans from Alsace-Lorraine was delivered to the French government late today.

The note also protests against the French attitude with regard to compensation payments, saying it is contrary to the spirit and letter of the Versailles treaty and the subsequent agreement.

SPUDDERS GRAB 25TH STRAIGHT

'Vic' Keene Outduels 'Duke of Dallas'

BY "SPIKE" COOPER.

The Duke of Dallas has lost his estate,
By three thousand fans he was seen,
To do battle with one Victor Keene.

He died on the field in valiant combat,
He dueled the way he knew best.
But Keene drew a feint, then home went his blade,
And then, the Duke died like the rest.
—Street Corner Ballads.

Because, because, because. Then the Spudders chalked up their 25th straight victory, a 4-3 thriller before 3,000 rabid, fighting, pulling and begging fans.

The first because: Keene was sent to the mound, a worthy opponent for the dangerous and dreaded John Conley, alias "Snipe" Conley.

The second because: George Bischoff took dead aim at the vacant space beyond the left field barrier and twice rang a bulls-eye with round-trip clouts.

The third because: After Bischoff had evened upthe count, the remaining Spudders came through with the other couple of markers necessary and shoved them across.

Peacocks Take Lead

'Twas another game for the book, too, for the visitors paraded a couple of runners through the "clearing house" and received credit for a lead that looked like a million when stacked up behind the brand of hurling dished out by Conley as he flung his spitters hither and yon at the discomfort of the Spudder hitters.

Not a Spudder had been near the third cushion until the fifth when George Bischoff tripped lightly by on his way back to the bench after a long, low, sailing and carrying drive had disappeared over the wall far behind Nick DeMaggio.

The second Spud marker came as the result of George's disgust at the thought of remaining in the wake of the "Million Dollar club." As he came up in the seventh, the "Smiler" calmly deposited another apple over the wall, yet at a more remote distance than the first. Thereby did

Wilmot to Decide Soon on Nomination

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 12.—Announcement as to whether he will accept the republican nomination for United States senator will be made following a series of conferences with republican leaders here next week, Dr. E. P. Wilmot of Austin, nominated at the Fort Worth republican convention, stated here today. Doctor Wilmot said he will make a vigorous campaign if he accepts a place on the ticket. Personal friends of Wilmot expressed the opinion he will accept the nomination

Morse Returns

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Ernest C. Morse, under indictment in the lumber and old hickory "war fraud" cases, who arrived in New York yesterday from Warsaw, Poland, notified United States Attorney Gordon today, he would reort here Tuesday to answer the charges.

"Arrived from Poland, on the Mauretania today to answer charges against me," Mr. Morse's telegram said. "Will be at your office 10 o'clock Tuesday morning unless you wish to make toher arrangements. Was advised by cable July 21 of indictment. Immediately concluded business and returned."

Shooting in Yards

By Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 12.—John W. Cabiness, a city detective, was reported to have been shot and killed by Deputy United States Marshal Greenacer, who, in turn was shot to death by O. N. Martin, another detective, in the Rock Island railway yards at Biddle, near here tonight. First reports were that the shootings were the result of mistaken identity.

SENIORITY ISSUE DISCUSSED IN NIGHT SESSION

Both Sides 'Friendly' to Arbitration Suggestion

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The proposal that the seniority issue—conceded to be the sole obstacle to the settlement of the railroad shop craft strike—be submitted to arbitration by an impartial tribunal, was discussed tonight by a conference of railroad brotherhood chiefs and rail executives as a basis for ending the transportation tie up.

Although no definite agreement was said to have been reached at the conference, which lasted for nearly three hours both sides were said to have exhibited a "friendly" attitude toward the suggestion.

The railroad executives already have an appointment to meet with President Harding at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when Mr. Harding would be told of the new situation resulting from the late hour negotiations, in order that he might proceed from that point with his policy of mediation.

Lack of information as to the attitude which would be taken by the leaders of the striking shopmen to the proposal was said to have prevented the other union leaders from taking a definite stand. It was expected that a report on the proceedings would be made as soon as possible to B. M. Jewell, leader of the shop crafts, and his associates with a view to obtaining their views.

Meanwhile, it became evident the administration had dropped any intention it may have held of appealing to congress for legislation that might bear upon the subject. Senators close to the president were given to understand that no requests for congressional action would be forthcoming and that on presidential message to congress affecting the strike would be transmitted or delivered.

Justice Department Busy

The department of justice took cognizance today of the action of train service employes of the A. T. & S. F. railroad, which had led to the "stalling" of important through trains, by ordering the federal district attorney in Southern California to investigate whether such "abandonment of trains constituted a conspiracy to hamper interstate commerce. If sufficient evidence was found, the message ordered it presentel to a grand jury for finding of an indictment.

The president's determination to push for mediation of the difficulty was first disclosed in the midst of double conferences which were staged at the executive offices.

Outrageous Howl of Hate from Fort Worth Crazed With Jealousy

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 12.—The Dallas base ball team has protested today's Wichita Falls-Dallas game, it was learned here tonight. In a long distance conversation with the sporting editor of the Record, George White, a Dallas baseball writer, said that Manager Galloway had protested the game for what he terme! the "dirtiest baseball deal in the history of the Texas league."

Pitcher Snipe Conley of the Dallas team, was sent to his home near Dallas tonight to rest up for a few days. His mouth and tongue are swollen and burning as a result it is said of coming in contact with a foreign substance on a ball which he used today.

WICHITA TAX RATE LOWERED

Business Methods Bring Results

The fact that Wichita Falls, facing a $250,000 overdraft, has made a lower tax rate this year than last, is the result of good business policy instituted during the latter part of 1921 by Finance Commissioner R. E. Shepherd through the hearty approval and co-operation of City Clerk Thorburn, city officials declared yesterday.

The tax rate has been lowered from the figure of $1.66 on the $100 valuation in 1921, to $1.55 for this year on similar valuations, an ordinance naming these figures for 1922 being now before the city council.

The policy adopted by the finance commissioner, and to which reference is made is that of keeping accurate and dependable account of what the city owns and what it owes. Mr. Shepherd advanced the idea that an up-to-date accounting system applied to the city's affairs would bring the same results for Wichita Falls that they bring for any privately managed institution. And the results of such management have been astounding, not only to the city commission but to the citizenship as well.

Books Now Audited

Following the annual audit of 1921, an experienced accountant and auditor was employed to open up the general ledgers of the city and to assist the city clerk in all accounting and auditing necessary in large corporations.

As soon as the books were opened, an accurate check was made of the sinking funds created to retire the different bond issues, and it was discovered that in the past no systematic effort had been made in levying the exact amount needed annually in these funds, the result being that in most of them an overcharge had been caused. This became a proven fact when an issue of $8,500 was recently retired and an average of $4,800 had been accrued in excess of the amount needed to pay off the bonds.

These facts were presented to Mayor Frank Collier, and he, being a good business man, insisted that no levy be made for sinking funds which already had a large overcharge, the result of this being that the people of Wichita Falls will have an 11-cent lower tax rate this year than last.

This decrease applied to a $33,000,000 valuation will save the taxpayers approximately $36,300.

Many persons here call attention to the fact that this action proves that the policy of progressive business principles, adopted and applied to municipal affairs, proves beneficial.

ENGLISH PERSIFLAGE.

An English prohibitionist arguing with the English weekly, John Bull, points out that "the lion doesn't drink beer but drinks water only." John Bull comes back with the crushing reply, "So does the common or garden jackass." Of course, that leaves nothing else to be said for prohibition.

"Big 4" Men Quit; Trains Delayed; Federal Grand Jury Probes Rumored

By Associated Press.

IRON RIVER, Mich., August 12. Forty engineers, firemen and switchmen employed by the Pere Marquette and Northwestern here, walked out today declaring the engines in the service were unfit for use and dangerous. Their action forced the suspension of ore shipments amounting to about 125 cars daily. Only mail moved out of here today.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., August 3. The Southern Pacific's line embargo on perishables, including livestock to and through the Ogden gateway was lifted tonight. It was declared last night as a result of a walkout of firemen at Ogden, adjusted today.

WASHINGTON, August 12.—The federal district attorney in southern California was ordered today by Attorney General Daugherty to investigate "whether the abandonment of trains on the Santa Fe railroad "was the result of a conspiracy by those operating them, or others to interfere with interestate commerce and the handling of the mails."

"If the proof is sufficient, present the matter to the grand jury immediately," Mr. Daugherty's order said. "If grand jury not in session present to the court the necessity of calling special grand jury."

LOS ANGELES, August 12.—Passenger trains due to arrive here today over the Union Pacific railroad are "indefinitely delayed," it was announced by the road. No reason was assigned for the delay and the whereabouts of the delayed trains was not stated.

It was announced that trains would leave as usual and tickets would be sold subject to delay en route.

OROVILLE, Cal., August 12.—Westbound traffic on the Western Pacific railroad was tide up here late today when crews refused to take out trains. Several hundred passengers from westbound trains were transferred late today to trains of the Sacramento Northern railroad. The crowds were quiet and orderly.

There is no banking service that a sound conservative institution can render which is not at the command of those who bank with the City National Bank of Commerce, and small accounts are as cordially welcomed as large.—adv.

They do work that is of great value to them and are given a course of general instruction that will help them in their work. The health department will give instructions on proper precautions for health in handling pupils and methods of ventilation for school rooms under various circumstances.

Superintendent Clark said that the teachers were so well pleased with the reception given them here last year that they asked to come back here again this year.

The mothers' clubs of the schools have been asked to make arrangements for caring for teachers in homes at a reasonable rate. The expense of stopping at hotels is too great for some of the teachers, it is said, and because there are so many of them there will be several hundred who will want rooms and their morning meal in private homes. They expect to pay for this service at reasonable rates, it is said.

When the complete program is announced there will be found some items of entertainment for the teachers along with the working program and every effort is to be made to show them they are welcome in Wichita Falls.

To Store Crude

A joint committee of producers and refiners also was appointed with instructions "to arrange details of storage of crude on a co-operative plan and the issuance of warehouse receipts." This committee is composed of H. R. Straight, chairman; C. C. Brown, Ponca City, Okla.; E. R. Perry, Tulsa; W. L. Kistler, Tulsa, and W. E. Wood, Okmulgee.

That the shut-down will be 70 per cent complete within a few weeks was the prediction made yesterday. The storage building program is expected to gain much headway and already the announcement is made that approximately 7,500,000 barrels of storage are made available.

HARD ON THE PATIENT

Women eat too much, says Cecil Webb Johnson. Women are apt to eat too little, cautions Sir Malcolm Morris. Eat anything you want, advises Sir James Chrichton-Brown. All three are English, medical men, famous experts on diet. When eminent doctors disagree it is a bad day for the patient, especially if he follows their advice.

Shuffler of Olney; J. E. H. Bailey of Wichita Falls; R. B. McDonald of Wichita Falls; E. G. Schroeder of Vernon; A. D. Jackson of College Station; George McQuaid of Dallas, Claude Wells of Wellington, and Frank H. Stedman of Stamford. Mr. Stedman discussed the subject of the newspaper man's relation to the public. He did not go into the subject in detail but urged in a brief talk, that the editors realize their immense opportunity to do good for the public and accept the responsibility.

Whaley Speaks

Porter Whaley, president of the west Texas chamber of commerce was the last man on the program before the business session started. Mr. Whaley told of the organization and rapid growth of the organization and of what it means to Texas. He told how it was organized in hard times and has been a big factor in the development of this entire section. He gave details of how the organization works for the building of a great domain and mentioned plans for the future. He thanked the newspaper men for their support and said that they have been one of the biggest single factors in making this organization a success.

The resolutions committee passed resolutions thanking the chamber of commerce headed by Hubert Harrison for the courtesy and entertainment afforded, thanking the Kemp hotel and mentioning especially the excellent service given, thanked the Record News and Daily Times with especial thanks to Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, whom they termed "that splendid editor" and B. D. Donnell of the Times. They mentioned in the resolutions that without the efforts of Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Donnell the convention could not have been the sucess that it was.

Besides passing resolutions of thanks the resolutions committee reported favorably on Wichita Falls as the next meeting place and passed a resolution against traveling contest specialists.

Before adjournment members of the press association listed to a talk by the retiring president, B. O. Brown and by the incoming president, O. C. Harrison.

Adjournment was had at 1:15 p. m.

KANSAS WET VOTE 1 PER CENT

One of the non-surprises of the Kansas primary was Miss Pettigrew's defeat for governor. She represented in her candidacy the wine and beer wets and from present returns she received something less than an average of one vote to a percinct in the state, or something less than 1 per cent of the primary vote. This may not be entirely fair to the wets, but to be just to them we will double her vote and give them 2 per cent. That is what they were using as a slogan a year or so ago.

Accepting the report of a naturalist, there are only two hundred thousand rattlesnakes left in this country. But under prohibition the supply is more than equal to the demand.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ing and the gang elected him to membership by acclamation and are proud of their new brother. He is the publisher of the North Texas Adventure. It isn't a magazine of fiction. It is published in the interest of the Protestant Episcopal church. Publisher Stedman is the rector of the Episcopal church at Stamford, he has two small parishes in addition to this Jones county charge and he hopes to make the North Texas Adventure supply the spiritual and intellectual wants of his people in a territory larger than the state of New York, with Delaware and Rhode Island thrown in as camping parks for tourists.

PUBLISHER STEDMAN IS A regular fellow. He was born in Maine but he is a citizen of the world. He knows books and he knows men which is of much more importance. He isn't sending people to hell; he is keeping them out of it but not by emotional appeals. He is strong for logic and the milk of human kindness. He is to be the unofficial chaplain in future of Texas newspaperdom and in his missionary wanderings over the bounding and breezy southwest he will gather material for very colorful stories for the Adventure doing something all the time for the uplift of the heathen.

Yes, a regular fellow is this intelectual sky pilot who came and conquered the old timers of the Northwest Texas Press association.

E. L. Cobey of Goree, the pride of Knox county had two jolly days with the gang. He will sit under the big dome at Austin the coming winter to make laws for the people of Texas. He edited and published the Goree Times and he did it according to Hoyle until he broke into politics "and ran like hell," as his defeated rival expressed it. R. H. Richardson of the Alvord News is another valued member of the association. As a side-line he is a road builder and he has pledged his word that before the coming of another year the 15 miles of sand between the Montague county line and the Decatur courthouse will be lifted out of the depths and a model concrete highway will be the joy of tourists and other vehicular human atoms who travel about a bit.

BILL EDWARDS OF CLAY county and in Clay it is known the nation over they have twentieth century highways which are the pride of the people. Well, Col. Bill is going to see to it that Col. Richardson of Alvord abolishes the 15 miles of sand within the time specified.

Mayor Sam Roberts of the free city of Haskell and editor of the Haskell Free Press is another of the notables who contributed to the gayety of nations and his fellows for two whole days. There were a lot of others incuding Edgar McLendon, publisher of the sprightly Graham Leader and a recognized builder of home and state.

They all sang the praises of the city that faith built and its people. They all voted to hold the next annual meeting in this city. They all voted to make the city that faith built the annual meeting place of the association. They all voted to walk and to work together with their fellows who dwell in the city that faith built that West Texas may be made the paradise of the Lord and its institutions and industries the first of the commonwealth.

There will be a press day at the Texas-Oklahoma fair and the sons and the daughters of the fourth estate are coming.

CLARENDON BAPTISTS RETURN FROM CAMP

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Aug. 12.—About fifteen young Baptist people returned yesterday from B. Y. P. U. encampment in Palo Duro canyon. They report a splendid time. This week finishes the two weeks' gathering. This is an annual encampment, and about one thousand attended. Last Sunday was the big day, there being about three thousand people who spent the day there. Aside from the religious exercises consisting of Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. training work and lectures, they enjoyed swimming, fishing and sight seeing among the cliffs and cedars in the canyons.

Rev. Hicks, pastor of the Dalhart Baptist church, was re-elected president of the assembly. It is expected there will be at least five thousand people attend the assembly there next year.

TRAILING SKIRTS FOR FALL

A buyer of women's wear for a big department store in the west is coming home from New York with a large stock of long skirts. They are again in style, so the women want 'em. "But I think the men won't allow long skirts to remain fashionable for long," she says. "They age a woman and are dowdy. Wait until they all come out in their tailing fall suits, then husbands will have something to say about it." Much good will that do if fashion commands them to be worn.

WHAT "X" SIGNIFIED

"'X' marks the spot where a number of promising candidates were fatally shot," was the Lawrence Journal-World's way of breaking the news of the primary to its readers.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckleface, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while if it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

MANY NEW RIGS BEING ERECTED

Low Crude Price Is Not Checking Boom

With a mile and a half stretch of territory, east from the main production of the Herron pool opened up by the Tyrell Oil corporation No. 1 W. A. Ribble, in the sand at 2,400 feet, the Herron pool in Young county supplied one of the most interesting features of the week's development in the north and central Texas district.

As the result of this and other recent extensions in the east side of the Bunger district, a large number of new locations have been made. The Tyrell Oil corporation alone has 12 new rigs and locations in this pool, while other companies and operators bring the number of drilling permits issued during the past fortnight to around 30, according to reports from Young county. All of this activity does not allow for any depression over the lowered price of oil.

Ranger Shuts Down

The Ranger and Breckenridge district report a general shutting down of new operations for the period of $1.50 crude, only necessary offsets being drilled.

Pioneer has furnished no notable extensions during the past week, and on the other hand the Gulf Production company's No. 1 Shipp well, which it was hoped would prove a southwest extension, is now down below 3,000 feet and will continue to drill to the deeper Hilburn sand., according to the Saturday reports.

Sims Gets 200-Barrel Well

In the northeast part of the pool the No. 1 Moore of the Sim Oil company is reported a 200-barrel well. The Invincible Oil corporation's No. 2 Nelson, also in the northeast extension, is making some oil according to the Saturday report, from the 2,500-foot sand. It has been making a quantity of gas for several days.

The Ashe well on block 34 of the Pioneer townsite will be shot, is is reported, and is now flowing 250 barrels natural.

The Owenwood Oil corporation's No. 1 Brannon is making about 100 barrels of oil, after a heavy shot, from 2,440 to 2,500 feet.

The No. 1 Acker of Moore and others, about three miles west of Pioneer, is still being watched with much interest, and shows signs of making a nice producer. The sand was drilled slightly below 2,400 feet and the well is making some oil, though not yet completed. The closest production is on the Teston lease, a mile east.

INTEREST IN KIWANIS PROGRAMS GROWING

Interest in Kiwanis, according to Frank Quiesser is increasing whether the attendance increases or not.

Noteworthy interest in discussions that have arisen during the past several meetings, Mr. Quiesser asserts in his weekly letter concerning the meeting Monday noon at the Kemp hotel, has been manifest, despite the heat of the summer days.

The open meetings have been found so successful that the Kiwanians are planning another one for tomorrow.

Dr. V. E. Wratten will give the attendance prize, while the silent boost will be given by "Bill" Couch—and Frank says they're cigars.

Two New Tests in South Electra

McCallister, Brown and Grisham, No. 2 Waggoner, section 34, South Electra west side pool, is setting casing on a sand at 1,837 feet, reports from the field Saturday showing preparations being made for a test, as soon as sufficient water is available.

The Panhandle refinery's test in section 27, southwest of the McCallister, Brown and Grisham, was reported setting 5 3-16 at 1,950 feet.

The Gulf Production company's No. 1 Waggoner, in section 34, just south of the McCallister, Brown and Grisham lease, is reported drilling around 1,400 feet. The No. 1 of Hockaday and Shaw, east of the McCallister et al, in section 34, is drilling around 1,600 feet.

SILK WELL WILL BE PUT ON PUMP

Gets Seventy Barrels Of Oil in 10 Hours

After a short time of swabbing, on Friday and Saturday, preparations are now under way to put the Silk, Bullington and Clark well, in Carson county on the pump immediately. The well still has considerable mud in the hole and some difficulty in running the swab was reported from the field Saturday, but despite these difficulties, 70 barrels of oil was pumped in 10 hours from the slush pit, where it had been swabbed.

The owners place estimates of 300 or 350 barrels on the production, when the hole is finally cleaned out, and the well put on the pump. There is sufficient tankage at the well to make a thorough test possible, it is stated.

Cleaning Out McGee Well

Week-end reports from Hutchison county show the McGee well on the Smith Capers still cleaning out the bridge which formed around 2,800 feet when the second shot was administered at 3,165 feet. A 225 quart shot was given. The well is still making a considerable flow of gas, and spraying some oil, it is stated.

The Amarillo Oil corporation's No. 3 Masters in Potter county, is reported straight reaming from 2,200 feet.

The No. 1 Masterson of Montgomery et al, is reported shut down at 2,600 feet. This test has already encountered a 50,000,000 flow of gas.

Wichita Dam Will Be Begun Shortly

R. A. Thompson, chief engineer of the Wichita valley irrigation project, will leave on his vacation in about a week and when he returns the big features of the project will start. The power line having been completed and a greater part of the preliminary work done, everything will be in readiness for the heavy work to start. The dredge has been completed and is ready to go into action so that within a few weeks it will be piling up the dirt for the dam.

Some of the main work to be done is the laying out of laterals. This will require considerable preliminary work, some of which already has been done. The distribution system is to be one of the big features of the project and will be so handled as to be the most efficient that can be built under modern engineering.

FORD TO DRILL WELL AT SAYRE

Wichitans Enter New Field

Wichita Falls' oil operators, headed by Henry L. Ford, will drill one of the first wells to result from the recent wildcat strike at Sayre, Okla., about 30 miles east of Mangum, according to plans now being made by Ford and associates.

The new wildcat, which has been attracting considerable attention from Oklahoma and north Texas oil men, was drilled by the Barker Oil company on the Joyce farm, and is now producing both oil and gas. It has been shut in by order of the corporation commission of Oklahoma, on the grounds that gas was being wasted. The gas production amounts to several million feet.

The oil sand was drilled around 2,000 feet, it is understood.

Four New Tests to Start

Four other test wells, within the radius of a couple of miles, are to be started as soon as possible, it is stated.

A number of the large operating companies in Oklahoma have secured acreage, but it is understood that there is little likelihood of the larger companies putting on an active campaign while crude remains at the present low price.

Mr. Ford and associates secured leases on 800acres last week lying southeast of the new well known as the Twin Hill well. They are making arrangements to start drilling within a month's time, if the rig and materials can be placed. W. B. Fisher, W. W. Noe and C. T. Sutton, also of Wichita Falls, are interested in the lease and the new operations.

Check Forger Arrested Here

After he had presented a $10 check at a store on Indiana street, and told the merchant that "a man in the country" had given it to him, a man who gave the police authorities several names was arrested late Friday evening and turned over to county authorities yesterday, charged with forgery.

The $10 check was drawn on a man whose acount was not in the bank of which the check bore the label. The merchant called the bank signified on the check and learned that no deposit to the name appearing as signature had been placed with them.

The officers were immediately called, Tom Shook returning later with the defendant, and locking him in the city prison for the evening.

He admitted yesterday that he had signed the name of some other party to the check, and that he didn't know whether any funds were in the bank to that person's credit or not.

City Dads Have Little Business

With no matter of importance scheduled to come before the city council Monday night, the commissioners are expected to hold only a short session.

The city tax ordinance, passed at the last meeting to second reading, will possibly be placed on its third and final reading, this being the only ordinance which is pending at the present time.

The ordinance calls for the tax rate of the city to be placed at $1.55, orr 11 cents lower than the city tax rate was last year. This reduction is the only tax cut to be made in either city, county or irrigation here this year.

DEAD BANDIT FROM VERNON

Letters in Pocket Identify Him

When Kenneth B. Fleenor was killed in Los Angeles early this week while he with other bandits was attempting to rob an ice company of a pay roll amounting to $2,000, letters were found in his pocket indicating that he was from Vernon, Texas. Inquiries at the time failed to identify him.

Late this week J. W. Mote, a well known farmer, living near Vernon, said that Fleenor had picked cotton for him two years ago and that he had corresponded with his daughter until her marriage a few months ago. The letter in his pocket is believed to have been written by the former Miss Mote before her marriage. According to the daughter, Fleenor was originally from Kentucky, having been the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fleenor of Louisville.

Two of Fleenors' companions were killed at the same time he met his death and the fourth one was captured. A posse got wind of the robbery and surrounded the bandits as they were in the act of robbing the ice company.

SISTERS QUARREL CARRIED INTO COURT

It was the old, old story that was told Judge John Marrs in corporate court yesterday morning.

Two women were charged with quarreling, the quarrel ending in the usual manner—a fight, or rather a battle royal from the disheveled looks of one of the defendants.

The woman told Judge Marrs they had disagreed over domestic questions in their own home—both were sisters.

MAYFIELD CLUB FORMED HERE

Women Organize for Candidate

The supporters of Earle B. Mayfield for the senate are becoming active in his behalf during the last few days. A Mayfield club has been organized, it is reported that several hundred have already signed the membership rolls. Membership petitions were circulated through all the office buildings Friday and Saturday.

It is also reported that the women's Mayfield club has been organized and started to work with a large membership.

The Mayfield reception committee have all arrangements completed for his speech on the Moore & Richold lot Monday night.

A band has been engaged and arrangement for several hundred seats for the ladies has been made and it is expected that Mr. Mayfield will have the largest crowd that has heard any candidate in Wichita Falls this year.

MARRS HAS NO MERCY FOR SECOND OFFENSE

Because he had appeared before Judge Marrs in corporate court at various other times, a man charged with being drunk who faced the magistrate yesterday, was fined $25.

He paid the fine and was dismissed.

A speeder pleaded guilty and was fined $10, while two men charged with disturbing the peace, who failed to answer when their names were read from the docket, had their bonds of $25 each forfeited.

NEW RAILROAD WORK RUSHED

45 Teams Begin on Oklahoma Side

Monday will mark a new epoch in the building of the Byers-Waurika railroad. An outfit of 45 teams will start to work on the Oklahoma side of Red river and work toward Waurika. The outfit was sent during the past week and is said to be ready to start work Monday morning.

At Byers, pile drivers and tracklaying machines are expected to be unloaded. They will be ready for operation during the first of the week and if the spikes and bolts come in as expected Sunday night or Monday then the first track will be laid. Steel and cross ties already have arrived and crews are organized.

Work on the first sections of trestle at Red river is expected to start before the week is over. This work will be rushed so that when the road is completed to Red river, there will be a great deal of the long bridge already built. All the grading between Byers and Red river is expected to be completed by the latter part of this week or sometime during the early part of next week, when the various grading outfits will be sent to the Oklahoma side.

FORD STOLEN FROM IN FRONT OF HOTEL

While G. W. Young rested Friday night, unknown thieves took his Ford touring car from its parking place near the Westland hotel and escaped with it. No trace of the vehicle has been found.

Mr. Young reported the loss to the local police department yesterday morning, stating that his Ford bore an Oklahoma license.

Hotpoint

The most celebrated Iron in the world ~

MANY a woman can still remember the thrill that came over her when she first handled a Hotpoint Electric Iron.

Not that she had never seen or heard of electric irons before. There were already several irons on the market.

But here was an electric iron made for ironing.

Not a device or novelty to be bought and laid aside —but a housekeeping tool to use.

Three More Notable Features of the Hotpoint Iron

The Hinged Plug Cord Protector

The strength-saving Cantilever Handle

The Attached Stand

One simply tilts the iron back on its heel, instead of lifting it to and from the old-fashioned iron stand—a saving of many hundreds of pounds of lifting in a day's ironing.

Yeggmen Find It Easy With 2.5 Patrolmen on Job in Wichita

TRAFFIC COPS THING OF PAST

More Men Needed in Police Department

There is but one remedy that is a direct cure for any crime wave such as now faces Wichita Falls.

That remedy is a larger, more efficient police department.

The department must be supplied with patrolmen so large in number that those who walk the streets to prevent crime are not overworked and groggy on the job.

The department must have plenty of detectives; it must have a number of men it can rely on in an emergency, and there must be a certain number of men to answer the calls from residential districts, when the time comes.

At the present time, the police department of Wichita Falls has five plainclothesmen, five patrolmen, one sergeant, one turnkey, one poundman, one motorcycle officers, a chief and a night chief. This—a total of 16 men—constitutes the department which Wichita Falls must rely upon to protect its nearly 60,000 inhabitants from sandbagging thieves, gunmen, pickpockets and the usual scum which conducts crime in the larger cities.

A recent reduction in the police force cut it down to the present list, in order, it is understood, that these 16 men could have better salaries. The wage earned by the officers runge from $110 to $250, the salary received by Police Chief J. W. McCormick.

2.5 Cops a Day.

The five patrolmen get the brunt of the burden, for upon their shoulders rests the mission of preventing crime in the business districts of Wichita Falls.

Some job, too, for those five boys, working 12 hours each, have a total of 16 blocks in which there are all kinds of businesses operating to guard from criminals. Three of these men guard the 16 blocks at night. Two of them guard the same number in the day time, from 7 to 7.

The only consistent manner of patroling this city would be to place a patrolman at each cross-section of the 16 blocks. This would give the city three men working north and south from Sixth to Tenth, and three working from the railroad tracks to Scott over eight hours per day; his mission is more dangerous, more tiring than any other occupation, for he must be continuously on the watch for crime, and should he be overworked, his efficiency is cut in half.

The plan to place patrolmen at the cross-sections would give Wichita Falls six men working on a shift and in a 24-hour day, there should be three shifts of eight hours each, thus giving Chief McCormick the much-needed 18 patrolmen he desires.

In addition to this the plainclothes department should receive one other detective, whose identity should never be revealed, and whose work should be entirely secret, while four motorcycle officer—two working nights and two days—would bring traffic to a reasonable halt in speed and make the streets more safe.

The present police department has been made the emissary of the corporate court, and the corporate court has been turned into a collection agency for the city treasury. No police department was intended to be purely mercenary or for monentary gain, and when it has become such an institution, it must fail, and crime must run rampant just as it is doing in Wichita Falls, with robbery after robbery being reported, and hold-up after hold-up being conducted.

And when the criminal feels as safe and secure as he must feel in the face of a diminished and almost helpless police department, surely the ultimate recourse of criminal instinct must lead to murder and devastation.

And nothing save a change in the present department—a change that will bring more men to protect the city and citizenship, and safeguard life and property can avert the danger, whose signal is even now red.

OPPORTUNTY FOR SOMEBODY

Sioux City is offered $1.25 gas and 9-cent electricity for 25 years if the city will grant such a franchise to the gas and electric company. The next thing we know the Sioux City people will be receiving an offer to go out and collect driftwood for some company on shares.

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good, I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. SIBBERT, 1032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear

Thugs Get Theirs While Getting's Good, Handling One Job a Day

The facts about the police department are these:

Number of patrolmen working days, 2.

Number of blocks to be covered by patrolmen day and night, 16.

These facts show that when a robbery has been discovered, some one of the five plainclothesmen, three of whom work on the day shift, must be called upon. The patrolman cannot and must not leave his beat.

Thus, if robbery occurs at night, there are only two men to give chase to the thieves, who may be "ad infinitum" in number. If it occurs in the day time, the chief, his three plainclothesmen and any of the other officers who have come to the station before their hours have begun may give chase.

Other facts of interest are that robberies and hold-ups in Wichita Falls have amounted to 11 during the past 12 days—about one a day.

English Proposals Amaze France

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The French delegation to conference on German affairs was amazed to learn today that the British government proposes and insists upon a reduction of the German reparations payments to about one-third the amount fixed by the London schedule of payments of May, 1921—that is, cancel altogether the annual cash payments of 2,000,000 gold marks and to leave only the 26 per cent assessment on German exports.

Statistical Soft-Soaper Scorched; Being a Comedy on the Klan Count

By the OFFICIAL STATISTICIAN

Again—24 hours after the story is cold—we get the "official" dope on the meeting of the ku klux klan!

From 15,000 to 5,500 in attendance as an audience. Some reduction in figures, but, of course, you know, there just couldn't have been many over 5,000.

You know, it only takes 1,000 people to make 1,000 persons. And the grandstands at the baseball park will only hold 5,000, by actual count. But, of course, where every aisle is packed and jammed with interested spectators, when every box seat is packed with more, when every available inch of space in the big stands is filled, there couldn't—there just couldn't have been more than 5,000 up there sitting down, regardless of what anybody else says.

Well, then there were so many more than that present at the public speaking that the klansmen allowed them to overflow the stands and go out into the ball diamond. And they were packed thick on each side of the field. But that doesn't count; there still were only 5,500.

Not only that, but the knot-hole gang's seats were occupied to capacity, as well as the bleachers and the negro grand stand. Both of which together are fully able to hold around 1,000 spectators. But that don't count either.

Common sense (?) teaches there couldn't have been more than 10 or 12 spectators out there on the field, with it packed to capacity, could there?

And then while those 5,500—or was it 550?—spectators watched, we are told by our official statistician, who has been statistizing for the past 42¼ years, that a grand total of 226 klixers passed in review, garbed in official regalia.

Nota Bene: We get the official count from our aviating statisticianite who flitted about over the field, tabulating each klansman on the head as he flirted through the breezes. Some think we got the "actual count" from placing a reporter at the gate ,and having each klansman check in as he passed, and we did start to get it that way, but or reporter got nervous and lost count, so we had to rely on our aviating statisticianite.

And from our same source of "information" we learn who the interesting unknown speaker of the evening was! Think of it! We know a klansman at last.

But despite all this harangue you've been reading, dear friend, don't get angry at me if you are a kluxer, because I'm the official statistician. The airship I used to get the correct dope was a little nervously propelled, and there may have been a few thousand klansmen back in the center field of the ball park that I didn't get to statistize, while I'm sure I overlooked several thousand spectators that slipped in and didn't pay admission.

Wichita Organizations Go to Aid Of Motherless, Hungry Children

Five little tots huddled away in an unsavory corner of a poverty-stricken house. Tears of misgiving, tears of sorrow trickled down their faces, for the hand of death had just hovered over the lonely home.

It was truly a pitiful sight, but just the kind that appeals to the Salvation Army, and through the arm that reaches just such unfortunates, these people were reached and the mother, who had died was buried through the aid of the county.

The United charities acting through the Salvation Army also extended a helping hand, and after cruel death had carried away the mother, the kiddies' grief was lessened with a replenished basket of milk, ice and groceries.

Clothing was also furnished the youngest children.

This is just one of the numerous unfortunate cases that have been called to th attention of the human aid societies that are working in Wichita Falls.

An insight into the records conducted by Mrs. E. B. Gorsline Jr., as secretary of the United charities and the Welfare board show that of a total of nine families who reported to those organizations during the past week, with from one to nine children in the families, a total of 32 persons were helped.

Five Killed in Northern Crash

By Associated Press.

ANNADALE, Minn., August 12.—Five persons are known to have been killed, a number of others are missing and a score of persons hurt, more or less seriously, when train No. 107, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Saults Ste Marie, westbound, struck an automobile truck here late today. The truck was tossed into a freight train. The freight engine toppled into the ditch and three cars of the passenger train jumped the track and crashed into the freight.

Jailed Beleaguered

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, August 12.—Extra guards were placed at the Tarrant county jail tonight to protect the life of Lawrence Coleman, 14 year old negro, arrested this afternoon for attempted criminal attack upon a 50-year-old white woman. The negro arrested immediately after the attempted assault, confessed his guilt, officers say. He was later identified as the negro, who several weeks ago committed a criminal assault upon an aged woman. Small crowds surrounded the jail tonight but later dispersed. Sheriff Carl Smith does not look for any violence.

What Is the Ku Klux Klan?

It is an organization composed of native-born white Americans, whose sole allegiance is to the government of the United States of America.

It is a constructive organization, for its cardinal purposes are to BUILD character, to teach practical and intelligent patriotism, to fire the hearts of men with a new love for God, Home and Country.

The evil forces against which the Klan is fighting conduct their activities in secret. The secrecy of the Klan is therefore its strongest weapon. It is only the guilty conscience that shouts for the organization to unmask.

Klansmen are taught that observance of the law is liberty. No form of lawlessness is tolerated within the Invisible Empire, and no law-breaker can remain within its boundaries.

Remember that that which is good deserves to live, and that which deserves to live—SHALL LIVE.

ELECTRA HIGH SCHOOL ISSUES FIRST CALL FOR FOOTBALLERS

Eleven Will Spend Week Before School Opens in Practice; Plan New Schedules

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, August 12—Candidates for the football team of Electra high school for next term will assemble for practice Monday, September 4, according to an announcement by B. M. Dinsmore, superintendent of public schools. Mr. Dinsmore will assist Coach C. M. Edens in training the gridders and the mentors expect to spend the week preceding the opening of the school in getting a runnnig start in their race for the state interscholastic championship.

The backbone of the team will be composed of members of last season's squad who are expected to return. They are Sam Brewer, Harvey Stanford, Alvin Stearns, Francis Autrey, John Rouse, Elam Stearns and Clyde Sanderlin. Brewer, Stanford and Alvin Stearns were among the regulars. A number of new men have reported their aintention of trying out and the coaches expect to recruit material to fill up the holes satisfactorily. Indications are that Electra will open the season with a well balanced machine amply able to hold its own with the best teams in the state.

Will Arrange Dates Soon

The schedule cannot yet be announced, but a meeting of athletic directors has been called to convene in Wichita Falls, September 4, for the purpose of arranging dates, Mr. Dinsmore, who is director of athletics for this section, has announced. It is known, under the rules promulgated by the state officals of the interscholastic league, that the first part of the season will be an elimination contest between Electra, Vernon, Quanah, Wichita Falls, Henrietta and Archer City, the towns included in part A of the fourteenth district. The champion will meet the representative of part B, composed of the counties of Tarrant, Montague, Wise, Parker, Jack and Young.

A new rule of the league this year is that the use of tobacco in any form will be cause for ineligibility.

WEST TEXAS COTTON BELT NEEDS RAIN

By Associated Press.

ABILENE, Texas, August 12.—A thorough canvass of the cotton growing region of west Texas, completed today by the Abilene Daily Reporter, shows that the production will be seriously reduced unless rain falls in the next few days. From the brightest prospects in her history a few weeks ago, west Texas has been brought by drouth and in some cases hot winds, to the point where moisture in large doses is the only thing thatt will save her cotton crop.

If no rain comes, the crop will be cut anywhere from 20 to 50 per cent, but if rain falls in time most correspondents agree that a fair yield will be harvested. Early feed crops were a success, but late feed is seriously handicapped by drouth. Scattering showers are reported over the belt, but in some cases these only served to make the cotton squares drop off the plants.

Social Affairs at Burk Last Week

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 12.—Little Margaret Isom entertained with a birthday party Tuesday evening celebrating her eleventh birthday. The guests included 12 boys and girls who report a most enjoyable time given over to games and music, fun and frolic, and best of all, a big birthday cake covered with eleven candles and a treat of ice cream and cake. The table was decorated with roses and when the candles were blown out each little guest made a happy little birthday wish for Margaret, the honoree.

The Walthers League society of the Clara Lutheran church entertained with a little picnic this week in a beautiful spot up the river. Later in the evening a refreshment lunch was served at the Clara church, followed by a session of splendid musical numbers. About 150 guests, most of whom were young people, were in attendance, representing the church societies of Grandfield, Electra and Wichita Falls.

Chris Schmoker was the center of a delightful little family surprise party on Friday, Aug. 3, at his home a few miles southwest of this city, in honor of his seventy-sixth birthday. It was a home gathering of his children, coming from the extreme borders of Texas. Chris Schmoker and family and Evorerd Schmoker and family came from Vernon; Fred and family from Harlingen on the Rio Grande border; also two daughters, Miss Emma of Vernon and Miss Mary of this city. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Mills and son, Harry.

A big family dinner was served. Music was then enjoyed for a season and later in the evening a splendid watermelon feast was spread. During the evening hour F. R. Knaught and family, who were making a neighborly visit were welcome additional guests.

FT. WORTH SALESMAN ARRESTED IN ST. LOUIS

By Associated Press.

ROCK ISLAND MEN RETURN TO WORK

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 12.—Eleven Rock Island switchmen, constituting the third shift in the local yards, who quit work yesterday afternoon because of a dispute about the guards, returned to their jobs late last night. Other shifts have been at work today. District officers of the switchmen arrived today from El Reno to confer with local Rock Island officials about the trouble.

ABDUCTION FAILS

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 12.—M. H. Spurling, employe in a local railroad shop, reported he was saved from kidnapers at 6 a. m. today by an armed citizen, who heard the man's cries for help, seized his revolver and put the assailants to flight. Spurling was attacked while on his way to the railroad shops, he said.

CHARTER AMENDMENT GOES BY DEFAULT

By Associated Press

WACO, Aug. 12.—Owing to failure to properly advertise the charter amendment election held in the city July 11, it will be allowed to go by default by the city commission at its meeting Monday and another election will be ordered. The commission has not canvassed the returns and declared the result and will not do so. Declaration of the result and an order entered to that effect would make it an election and would bar another election for two years.

FORD FINED FOR SPEEDING

The little town of Le Roy, N. Y., has what it calls a "speed trap" for motorists. Its officers receive commissions for arrests and stiff fines are imposed. Last week this trap caught a big Lincoln motor car and its occupants who were racing through the town at 43 miles an hour. The man in the car said his name was Henry Ford and that he was hurrying to Buffalo to catch a lake steamer for Detroit. Ford's chauffeur was fined $30 on the spot and permitted to go. Probably they made the boat, as local history has recorded nothing further about the car and its occupants. Maybe it was going too fast for anyone but the recording angel to catch up with it.

Although Mr. Reinhart has entered upon his duties with the United States veterans bureau he will continue his official connection with the legion until the annual convention, which meets in Waco, Texas, in September.

ABSCONDER ARRESTED BY LAREDO POLICE

By Associated Press.

LAREDO, Texas, August 12. — A man arrested this morning as he emerged from the river, coming from the Mexican side, was said by authorities to have admitted he was Edwin Frederick Morse, wanted in Denver, Col., on a charge of absconding with $75,000 from the International Trust company last August. He first gave his name as Herbert M. Smith. He was accompanied by a woman who is definitely located in Mexico.

The man agreed to whive extradition proceedings, the authorities said, and return to Denver to answer the charges. He was turned over to department of justice officials.

ELECTION RESULTS TO BE THROWN OUT

By Associated Press.

GAINESVILLE, Texas, August 12. The ballots cast at the South Muenster box in the recent primary election were thrown out by the Cooke county democratic executive committee late yesterday, following an all day meeting given to hearing the election contest filed by Fred E. Wankan, defeated in the race for county attorney by J. L. Gettys, whose majority was 67 votes.

Mr. Wankan alleged fraud and illegality at the South Muenster as well as two other boxes. The committee's action makes Wankan the democratic nominee with six votes majority. Mr. Gettys issued a notice of appeal to the district court.

Now That's Rather Odd

By Associated Press.

SAN MATEO, Cal.—While being "burned at the stake" by "savage Indians" during the filming of a motion picture production here, Hobart Bosworth, actor, suffered painful burns about the face and hands. His injuries are not considered serious.

NEW YORK.—Prohibition cannot be referred to either humorously or seriously in any of the theaters of the Keith vaudeville circuit, it was announced today. It was declared also the ban would be effective on the affiliated B. S. Moss and Proctor circuits. A similar order has been in effect on the Orpheum circuit for some time.

It was announced the action was a result of numerous complaints by patrons who objected to the ever increasing number of anti-Volstead jokes.

WEST DENNIS, Mass.—By a vote of 79 to 70 this town decided last night to ban gland hospitals within its borders. The petition of Dr. J. Leon Hanson that his "gland farm" be allowed to continue in operation, was denied.

Attention was attracted to this hospital a few days ago when a patient, in whose body glands of a bull had been grafted, died.

Dr. Hanson at the meeting presented argument to show the need of such a place but his remarks were greeted with jeers. The physician argeed to remove his institution to a more hospitable environment.

Building Slumps As Howl Goes Up For More Houses

Building permits to be issued during a seven-day period fell to the lowest record of the year during the past week, a review of the books in the city clerk's office yesterday indicated. Only one building permit was issued for the entire week.

Officials of the city indicated, in speaking of this occurrence, that several buildings are under construction in Wichita Falls for which the owners or contractors have not taken out permits, and in this connection, attention was called to the city ordinance which provides a penalty of a $100 fine for each day that such work is conducted without the proper license.

The building permit to be issued during the past week went to H. F. Cobb, who is making additions and repairs on his residence at 1300 Harrison street that aggregate an expenditure of $2,000.

It's Just a Toss Up

W. E. Myers, attorney at law, was in the city yesterday in the interest of the case of Earl Mathieson, charged with theft of over $50 worth of wearing apparel, which, it is alleged, he stole in Wichita Falls.

Mr. Myers, whose headquarters are located in Fort Worth, said that the strike situation is not affecting Fort Worth in any noticeable manner, and intimated during his conversation with Sam Holliday, assistant district attorney, that a "draw-straws" contest will be held in Fort Worth when the next opportunity to vote for Mayfield or Ferguson rolls around.

Discovery and Burial of Body Successfuly Disposes of Ghost

By Associated Press.

PAINESVILLE, Ohio, August 12. A "ghost" which farmers living near Paines Hollow say has been haunting them for seven years, ise "at rest" today.

It disappeared several days ago with the burial of the body of Henry Lipenstick, which was found in an abandoned well on a farm.

Lipenstick, a farm hand, disappeared seven years ago. Since then the farm is said to have had poor crops. A farm house burned down and the "ghost" was blamed for that. Owner after owner had come and gone.

Carl Logies purchased the farm about a year ago. Whenever he went to his barn at night, Logies said today, he would see a "white wraith" like figures walking about. At times he declared he followed it with his gun in hand and it always disappeared in the direction of the well.

Determined to find out what caused the apparition Logies cleaned out the old well which had been filled with stones. He came upon the body of Lippenstick. Sheriff Spink was called and he and his deputies suspected murder. The next day the sheriff ordered the body buried and now the "ghost" is gone.

Frank Lerman, who owned the farm at the time Lipenstick disappeared, is in Lake county jail. He was bound over to the grand jury on charges of murder.

COYOTE GRIDDERS SOON TO HEAR FIRST CALL; ELEVEN LETTER MEN BACK FOR TEAM

Backfield of '21 Intact; Four Line Positions To Be Filled; Clark Seeking Athletic Field For Season; Games Planned With Dallas, Fort Worth and Austin; Captain Ready

By DON WELDON

When Coach Jones calls out the Wichita Falls high school football squad early in September, 11 of last year's letter men will report for practice. Of the 15 first string men who won letters last year only four will be absent when play starts. The old men expected to report are: Captain "Hunky" Walker, Gorman Kenley, Pearl Brasher, Bennett Moore, Hubert Stringer, "Shorty" Chewning, Frank Shaw, "Dutch" Anderson, Gerald Coffey, Clifford Waggoner and Joe Bailey Bell. The four men who will not return are "Cherry" Johnson, Leo Haney, Joe Hembree and Clyde Robinson. These men were all linesmen and Coach Jones will find his greatest difficulty in re-

The back field should give little trouble as every backfield man of the '21 team will be in the lineup when the whistle blows. "Shorty" Chewing will be back in the directing position with the same old pep that he has shown in the past two years and Brasher, Stringer and Moore will fight for the half back positions. Kenley will be in his old position at full unless some recruit shows up that can make a better showing. It has been said that this combination is the strongest that has ever been gotten together on the local gridiron. Last season Coach Viner put out the best drilled team that has represented the high school and Jones will have material for a winning eleven when all the players report.

Center Is Open

The largest gap that will have to be filled is that left when Captain Haney graduated this spring. The center position will have to be plugged with a new man but with the host of promising players that is expected to be out for practice it should not be difficult. Among the players who have signified their intention of showing up are: Tom Miller, True Cauble, Steve West, Ben Howell, John Tyson, Curtain and Copeland, all of previous experience. A new quarter back from Galveston is also expected to report.

Superintendent Clark is working upon a plan to acquire suitable ground for a practice field and feels confident that space will be leased before the season opens, where a grand stand can be built and the park fenced in to enable the management to collect receipts from all spectators.

The lack of such a place has been the greatest drawback to the team in the past few years as they were not able to bring other elevens here on account of finances. It is thought that there will be no trouble on that score this year and Coach Jones states that he will bring the strongest teams in Texas here toplay.

Many Games Planned

Games are being arranged with Dallas, Fort Worth and Austin and other schools will be billed as soon as they prove their right to meet the local aggregation. Electra will probably play here Thanksgiving day and this game will be the aim of the eleven. It has long been the goal of the Red and Black to score a win over this team and although the games have been closed in the past, the slight margin was on the Electra side. With the old team back almost in a body the players are confident that this year will tell a different story.

A movement has been started among the schools to divide the state into two interscholastic leagues, each to play independent ball and in this way make it possible to choose a champion team. The great number of schools has made this impossible before. Although nothing definite has been done as yet, Coach Jones stated that it is probable that such a move will be made and expressed himself favorably on the subject. In case this is done Wichita Falls will be included in the northern division along with Fort Worth and Dallas.

the ball in creosote, a fluid used to dip cattle and soak railroad ties in, in order to cause Conley to lose the effectiveness of his spit-ball." The pitcher complained to Umpire Weir in the third inning and the arbiter examined the baseballs. The Wichita Falls manager, Walter Salm, claimed the odor of the creosote was that of tar from the bats of his players or the ground. Conley's mouth became irritated and he again complained. The balls were thrown from the game and new ones ordered in.

Umpire Weir will send the balls to President J. Doak Roberts of the Texas league. Roberts, in Paris, Texas, tonight, said over long distance that he will investigate the case fully as soon as he receives the umpire's report and will prosecute the guilty party to the fullest extent of the Texas league baseball law.

"That is the dirtiest deal I have ever been the victim of in my ten years of professional baseball experience," Conley said. "There is one sportsman on the Wichita Falls club, but I won't mention his name. He came to me after the game and said: "Conley, I don't want you to think I am mixed up in this thing," the pitcher concluded.

PAY DAY

Boy, it pays to hit 'em.

If you care to verify that fact, ask George Bischoff.

Bisch came up yesterday in the fifth inning and smote one out of the lot for the first Spudder run.

Somebody started a purse for the wallop and before the takers got around George had smacked another over the wall.

Three or four hats passed through the stands netted $145. Just an appreciation for the timely wallops.

Boy, it pays to hit 'em.

Spudding In

By DON WELDON

Al White has made more than one seemingly impossible catch in the last few days, but his phenomenal stop in the third surpassed them all. Galloway slammed a hard drive between first and second and White ran back of first and fielded the ball, whirling completely around as he threw and catching the runner. It was a piece of the speediest fielding seen this year and the fans gave him a good hand.

In the fourth the Dallas hurlers called for new balls, claiming that oil had been placed on them. Weir took the ball and smelled it and passed it to Daly, who repeated the performance. The ball was thrown out and another put in play only to be smelled and thrown out. Every time a new ball was thrown in it was smelled by every Dallas player and the umps until it looked more like a pack of blood hounds hunting scent than a baseball game. Finally Salm got a new box of balls and even these were given close inspection. At one time Segrist fielded the ball and stopped to smell it before throwing it to first.

New balls don't seem to bother Adams. They slipped one in on him and he pounded it for a single the first time over.

Boy, page Babe Ruth! Two a day isn't so bad for a little man. When Bischoff parked that second one the fans shook the stand with their applause. He may be little, but Oh, Boy, he shakes a mean stick—and it wasn't oiled either.

Dallas tried a double play but it wouldn't work with Summa running bases. He moved down that first base line and crossed the bag just ahead of the ball. Regular Paddock style.

Segrist seemed to be hunting trouble and he knew the right place to go. He made a few remarks to Keene while he was batting in the seventh and when he got to second it took only a word to send the Spudder pitcher after him. Salm stopped him before any damage was done, but there was fire in his eyes and the next few balls slammed in with a bit of extra force.

Everybody is wanting to know how Tex McDonald got so high in the air when he grabbed that hard fly in the ninth. It is reported that the Dallas club has protested the game because he used linseed oil on his shoes to enable him to jump. At any rate it was the stellar catch of the season and is "Snipe" Conley's bird dog nose could catch a scent of oil on his glove that doesn't alter the case—it was just a mighty good catch made by a hard player.

At that there is a bit of difference between catching a scent and catching a ball. Tex had to reach for his while Galloway seemed to know before the ball was played just what he was going to catch.

Fred Beck hit the dirt in the eighth at third in spite of his bad leg. That's the reason Wichita is leading the league—when the players show that spirit you can just tuck it under your hat that the Spudders will be in the game at the play-off.

When Keene scored on Adams' sacrifice in the seventh he came in flat on his face and slid right in under Lingle's hand. The little hurler gave a good representation of a small boy on a new slide but he counted the run and that's what goes in baseball. Stay in there, Vic, stay in there!

SPANKING NOT EXTINCT

A man who canvassed Concordia, reports tragedy to the Blade-Empire. "In my daily rounds," said he, "I see several hundred kids spanked every day." With children denied the right of free speech, while being conscripted for labor whenever they strike, it is no wonder this world is full of sorrow. How would you like it yourself?

Paul Von Allmen, director of the Shrine quartet, said yesterday that he and the other three quarts didn't much relish the idea of getting up before that crowd at the ball park and singing, but that he had kind of a shaky feeling with regards to turning them down.

Wichita Let In On "Smell It" Game, One of Jim's Ideas

Have you had your smell today?

If not, go to Dallas. "Smell it" is the latest rage there.

Have you played it yet? It's quite one of the nicest li'l games you ever saw, and promises to be quite popular this season, especially at kindergarten parties and other social entertainments for younsters.

Although the game originated in Wichita Falls yesterday afternoon, it is a Dallas game (copyrighted in the United States and Canada. All rights reserved) and in all probability it will be played in the Giant's home city with much gusto.

Incidentally the game exposes Bill Ruggles, sport writer for the Dallas News. Bill has been raising a great hue and cry about Dallas' "Million Dollar Ball Club." For a while nobody could find out where the million went. Now we know it went for smell balls.

Although the game is commonly called "Smell it," it is known in these parts by several other names. It was originally called "Conley Ball," in honor of Sniper Conley, duke of Dallas, who first dared death to play the hazardous game. However, other people call it "Galloway ball," in honor of "Bad News" Jim Galloway, player-manager of the Dallas club, for to Mr. Galloway goes the honor of developing the game to its present wave of popularity.

First, get an ordinary baseball.

Third, swat the ball with the bat, which has been soaked in linseed oil to season it. Continue this several times to give the proper Spudder atmosphere. The ball will then smell of the linseed oil.

Fourth, (and here comes the kick). Now hold the ball in front of your nose and holler "smell it" just as loud and as fast as you can, at the same time sniffing rapidly. Keep this up indefinitely. At this stage of the game, much patience is required. However, if you keep on sniffing and hollering, the sky may drop, or the Atlantic ocean may dry up. Anything may happen these days, you know. If nothing happens, keep on "smelling."

Messrs. Galloway, Conley and company got a good kick out of the game when they first introduced it here yesterday, anyway.

DALLAS SWIMMERS WIN OWN MEET

DALLAS, August 12.—The Dallas team won the annual swimming meet of the Southern Amateur Athletic Union here today after coming from behind a strong lead piled up by the New Orleans team. The locals finished 17 points ahead of New Orleans through their capture of the high diving event by High Crow and the relay race. One old southern record was broken when Louis Dominguez of Dallas made his furlong in two minutes and 38 1-5 seconds.

BAT STRUGGLE HOTTEST IN YEARS

Sisler and Cobb Tied For American Leadership

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The race for batting honors in the American league has developed into one of the hottest fights in years with only a fraction of a point separating Ty Cobb and George Sisler, for the premier honors. The St. Louis favorite has been out of the game for about a week, and the Detroit leader kept up his consistent hitting until he was at the top of the list. Sisler returned to the game and since that time has been giving the Georgia Peach a hard fight. Sisler gained the lead, then he struck a snag which the Tigers' pilot took advantage of, and today, with averages including games of last Wednesday the two stars are in a virtual tie with .409 each. However, in order to decide just who is out in front, the decimal when carried out beyond the usual three figures shows the Detroit manager with a percentage of .40956 and Sisler's .40920.

Williams Climbing.

Ken Williams, the home run slugger of the majors, who has cracked out his 30th homer, has joined the select ten by boosting his mark from .313 to .329. Tillie Walker of the Athletics is the runner up to Williams for circuit drive honors, with 25, and "Babe Ruth," the king of swat, is trailing the pair with 21. Williams in addition to leading in four ply hitting continues out in front for total base honors, while Sisler, his team mate, ran his stolen base record to 37.

Other leading batters for 85 or more games: Speaker, Cleveland .376; Tobin, St. Louis. 344; Heilman, Detroit .3431; Bassler, Detroit .342; Ed Miller, Philadelphia .339; O'Neill, Cleveland. 330; Williams, St. Louis. 329; Blue, Detroit .325.

Reb Russell, the former Chicago White Sox pitcher, who essayed the role of outfielder with the Minneapolis club of the American association when he realized that his efforts on the mound were fading, is now giving the National league a surprise by his heavy hitting. Russell was obtained by the Pirates from the Minneapolis club. He was one of the best hitters in the league and was somewhat of a home run clouter. Since joining the Pirates he has socked out three homers in fourteen games. His batting average is .423, being the result of 22 hits in 52 times at bat. In addition to his three homers. Reb made six doubles and a triple.

Hornsby at Top.

Rogers Hornsby, the St. Louis batting star, however, continued to top the list of hitters in the Heydler circuit, who have played in 85 or more games. He is crowning the pill for an average of .383, and is out in front in total bases with .239, and in home runs with 28. Grimes of Chicago is the runner-up to Hornsby in batting with a mark of .361 and Bigbee of Pittsburgh with .360 is third.

Max Carey of the Pirates continues to show the way to the base stealers with 33 thefts, and also is out in front as a run getter, having registered 94 times.

Heir to Millions 20c Strikebraker

Alfred Victor Du Pont.

(By Central Press.)

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 12—Once heir to $50,000,000 and now working for 20 cents an hour as a strikebreaker. That is the position of Alfred Victor Du Pont today. Twenty-three years old and a senior at Harvard, his loyalty to his mother cost him an interitance estimated at $50,000,000 in round numbers. Young Du Pont is the son of Alfred I. Du Pont, the rich powder manufacturer.

After his father disinterited him he turned his back on Harvard and worked in an automobile factory. Recently he was laid off and now he has put on overalls and checked in at the Pennsylvania railroad shops as a strikebreaker. His wages will be 20 cents on hour.

When Alfred I. Du Pont got a divorce he called the paternity of the boy into dispute and eventually disinherited him.

Some Records—Then and Now—And Future—?

By "SPIKE" COOPER

Theres' lots of talk about the number of consecutive wins on the diamond that are considered as records.

The present world's record is 27, held by Corsicana (Texas league) and Baltimore (International league.)

It was in 1902 that Corsicana established the record which has not been beaten and the Orioles turned in their string last year, the season of 1921.

There is one record which has never been equalled, but it is not recognized, that of the old Orioles, when they took 38 games without a defeat. There is a fault in their string, however, for somewhere in the middle of the string, there was a tied game. This record was established back in the 90's when Baltimore was a member of the National league, then a 12-club loop.

The major league record is 26 straight wins. John McGraw's Giants set up that mark in 1916 and most memorable of that accomplishment was the fact that 17 of those games were played away from the home lot.

Two other marks are recorded where teams won 25 games in a row. Charlotte (Carolina league) in 1902 and Baltimore (International league) in the same season, each copped a quarter hundred without a defeat.

This mark was tied by the Spudders yesterday when Dallas sufferd their fourth successive defeat in the present series. By winning today's game the Spudders will tie the National record and a Monday win will equal that of both Corsicana and Baltimore.

Should the Spudders cop both those contests, then the first game in San Antonio, played Tuesday, will determine whether or not a new mark will be set.

GOT WIFE'S PACKAGES MIXED

The other morning a Topeka woman took two packages to her husband's office for him to bring home that evening. One package contained tomatoes. "Be sure you put the tomatoes on ice when you go home," she told him. Being a well-trained husband he obeyed instructions. The next morning the woman found the tomatoes on the library table: "What did you do with the other package," she asked. "I put it on ice as you told me." She went to the ice chest and got it. The package the man of the house had put on ice contained a brand new corset.

FRENCH SWIMMERS TRAIN FOR GAMES

(By International News Service.)

PARIS, Aug. 12.—French swimmers are the first athletes of this country to begin preparation for the Olympic games to be held in Paris in 1924. Ten swimmers from each department will be asked to compete in a 500-metre elimination contest for places in the games. Next year the best half of that number will be invited to compete in a 750-meter contest, and in 1924 the victorious onefourth of the group will again compete in a 1,000-meter race.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Commercial recreation is retarding civic life and making it impossible for cities to attain permanent civilization in America, George Albert Bellamy, of Cleveland, Ohio, declared before a convention here.

The influence of the motion picture upon the imagination of American youth is responsible for the growth o ferime, Bellamy said.

Bad Case of Forgetting

House wreckers tearing down an old homestead in Worchester, Mass. find a sealed envelope behind a secret panel. It had been received thru the mails in 1845 by James Munro Schofields. He put it away by error and forgot to open it. Inside is a will, leaving to Schofield a Scotch estate worth nearly one million dollars then. What is it worth now? Schofield's heirs will rush to Edinburgh to find out. The case is an allegorically warning to people who continually are saying, "I forgot."

Bischoff's Two Homers Bring Spudders From Behind

WHITE AND M'DONALD PULL SENSATIONAL STUFF BEHIND KEENE'S EXCELLENT HURLING

Galloway Protests Game in Fourth; Claims "Doctored" Balls; Spud Errors Turned Into Runs; Beck Shows Gameness Despite Bad Leg; Victory is Second of Series for Keene

Immediately following Bisch came Keene who refused to swing on the wide saliva slants of John Sniper, and he was passed to first. Bescher dumped a perfect sacrifice toward first and Conley played the ball perfectly, but Galloway did not; for he dropped a perfect throw and Bescher was safe. Tanner then sacrificed them along when he hoisted one over Galloway's head, but Massey was covering the bag and played the ball, but both runners had advanced. Shorty Adams poked a long fly to right and Keene came home, sliding as to the kids on a chute at a bathing pool, but he scored, and the Spudders moved out in front.

'Twas only a short lead though, for in the first of the eighth, Don Rader whammed one at Adams and the midget shortfielder heaved it to the stand. Massey moved Rader up with a sacrifice and Demaggio poked a knock to center. Summa played the ball with a rush and threw Rader out at the plate by 10 feet, but Bischoff dropped the ball after tagging the runner, who came in standing up.

Over in the Eighth

It was easy in the eighth for the Spudders, for Tex McDonald doubled against the long corner of right field. Beck singled to center and Tex moved up to third, but played safe and did not try to count, though he could have done so easily as Lovelace heaved to the Spudder dug out. Beck took second on the throw in. White drove a long fly to center and Tex scored easily after the catch. There Fred Beck showed his gameness, for, although his left leg is almost beyond working, he tagged up with the catch and slid into third. Fans could see his face twist with pain and he was hardly able to rise, but he was playing to win. Summa left him there, however, as he grounded out, Rader to Galloway.

Tex Pulls One

There were thrills for everybody in the ninth. Segrist hit one back at Keene that looked a foot long and could have easily gone for a hit, but Keene fielded the ball and threw the hitter out. Tommy Lovelace then came up and doubled to right, except he didn't double, for Tex McDonald became a rabbit and kangaroo both at the same time. With the crash of the bat he was off toward the fence and as the ball cleared his head several feet, Tex jumped and reached his limit, plus a wee bit more. With a backhanded grab far and high to his left, he came down with the ball and stole a double from Lovelace that would have meant a run, for Si Lingle and Conley singled in succession and Lovelace would have scored easily with the tieing run. With two runners on, Rader forced Conley at second on a play that was close and intricate. Adams knocked the ball down, but failed to hold it as it started over the bag. White was there also and grabbed up the agate before Conley slid in, retiring the side for a ball game.

White Stabs Another

White was up to top form again, and started the scintillating play in the fourth. Galloway was first hitter and drove a grounder between first and second that looked like a hit, but White was after it almost as it started and took the ball with his gloved hand after going his limit. He had to turn completely around after fielding the drive, but threw the hitter out without any trouble.

Galloway protested the game in the fourth inning after Umpire Weir had thrown three or four balls out of the game. Conley claimed somebody had been doctoring the ball with grease, and few understood just what or where it happened. Bescher volunteered the information later when he brought up a bat from the Spudder bench, showing that the sun had drawn out some of the oil with which the bats had been dressed. Any contact with the ball would leave a greasy spot on the ball and Conley's spitter couldn't work.

Lots of New Balls

The game was halted as the bats were wiped off and a new box of balls secured. After they were put into the game, Conley got all the new balls he could use, for Adams was hitting and fouled at least half a dozen over the stand before he finally singled to left. The fans went jubilant over the procession of new white spheres that Weir rolled out to the ox as one after the other disappeared over the stand.

The Spudders all but bid adieu to Athletic park for the season with their game today. Tomorrow they play in Dallas to break the jump between here and San Antonio, where they open Tuesday.

Todays' game is the one the Spudders will fight for. When the Dallas host bows today for the fifth consecutive game of the series, the Spudders will have swept cleanly, every series of the long home stay which saw every club of the league go down before the terrific drive of the last four weeks. And down they went in order, too. First came Fort Worth, then Galveston, Houston, Beaumont, San Antonio, Shreveport and last, but not least, Dallas.

NEW RECORD SET AT CLUB

Deatherage Nears Perfect Score

At the regular weekly shoot of the gun club Friday, A. G. Deatherage, president of the club, shot a program which is thought to be another new course record.

Deatherage broke 50 straight in the single rise targets and lost only one target of 12 pairs thrown in doubles, making a total of 73 out of 74 fired at.

The shoot was held in the morning because of the ball game in the afternoon and only a small squad of shooters were out.

In the shoot-off of the ties from last week for the club trophy, Landon and Kiddy again tied, leaving the winner still undetermined.

Other scores for the day were, Adams 48, Rhodes 47, Landon 46, Greenburg 46, Kiddy 43, Colburn 43, L. I. Lyon 42, Dempsey 42, Grooms 41, Splawn 40, Lankford 39, Brandeberry 37, Apple 35, Bailey 32.

In the doubles event, Deatherage was high with 23 while Greenburg was second with 22. Adams broke 20, Grooms 20, Dempsey 16, Brandeberry 14, and Apple 14.

The August registered shoot under the direction of the A. T. A. will be shot next week instead of the weekly club shoot. Many out-of-town gunners are expected for the meet.

JACK GETS ANOTHER PUNCHING BAG

By Associated Press.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 12.—Another sparring partner s added to the Jack Dempsey retinue here today by Manager Jack Kearns, when Jack Thompson, colored heavyweight from Tulsa, Okla., informed the impressario he was willing to help box the champion into shape for his ten round exhibition with Bill Breannan here on Labor day.

This makes two colored boxers on the list, the other being Jack Taylor of Omaha. These two will be the punching bags on which Dempsey will warm up. Billy Wells and Jock Malone are engaged to give the champion plenty of speed.

Dempsey has always gone into the colored ranks for sparring partners. He trained with Big Bill Tate and Joe Gans for Willard and the results more than satisfied him.

WAS A PRETTY GOOD WATCH.

Plowing in a cornfield near Osborn, Mo., last week Percy Rogers picked up a silver watch the share had turned up. It was recognized by the owner of the farm as one he had lost 16 years ago while gathering corn. In the meantime the field had been plowed and replowed, harrowed, rolled and pulverized each season. The case was slightly tarnished, but when the watch was wound it began to run as if it had just run down and it was a cheap watch in the beginning. It was made before the war.

POLES TWO

GEORGE BISCHOFF

After Dallas had taken a two-run lead in the first inning yesterday, Bischoff decided it was not justified and set out single handed to undo the threatened damage of the Dallas lead. It took Bisch until the seventh round to accomplish his purpose, but after that frame closed, he had evened the count with two drives over the left wall and the count was tied, all the result of that dangerous black flail.

MISS WAINWRIGHT BREAKS NEW RECORD

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 12. — Helen Wainwright of New York established a new world's record for women for the 500 yard free style swimming, according to an announcement made here today by the national A. A. U. Her time for the distance was 7:00 2-5. The old record, made in a closed pool was 7:19 3-5.

Miss Wainwright also eestablished a new American record in the same race for 300 yards. Her time was 4:13 2-5, while the previous American record was 4:18 2-5. This record also was made in a closed pool.

DEMPSEY STARTS TRAINING FOR BOUT

By Associated Press.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, arrived in this city today to end his exhibition tour preparatory to beginning training for his bout with Bill Brennan at Michigan City, Ind., on Labor day. He will meet Jim Darcy, one of his training staff, in a four-round exhibition bout at Braves field today and will start for his training camp directly after his match.

Lee Morrissey, Veteran of 308 Ring Battles Will Have Hard Time Beating "Country Boy" Lance at Burkburnett

Every fighter doesn't have the opportunity of receiving training from a champion, and there are but few knights of the fistic ring who are even acquainted with the champions in person.

But it happens to be the privilege of Lee Morrissey of having one time been under the same manager—"Patsy" Carrigan—who guided the destinies of Jess Willard, ex-heavyweight champion of the world.

That's one interesting fact about Morrissey, but another is his name, Leonidas Francis Patrick Morrissey—that's him—was born October 10, 1892 at Platt Center, Neb., and his early inclinations and intentions did not lean toward a four-cornered ring. "Pat," or "Lee," as he has come to be called in the ring, had a youthful idea that he would become a pharmacist, and his first education was directed in that course.

Sees His First Fight.

He witnessed a fight before he had ever decided to enter the pugilistic game himself as a scrapper, and it was in Oklahoma City, while he was an employe of the Westfall Drug company that he witnessed his first bout.

That gave Lee an idea. He bought a pair of trunks, other essential parts, a pair of mitts and entered the gymnasium there, and it wasn't long until he fell in with a fellow who had done professional boxing, and learned some of the rudimentary blows of the game.

The fact that there's money to be made in the center of the four corners for the fellow who can stay there the most successfully pleased Lee, and he decided to become a professional fighter, he asserts.

Morrissey had trained for several months before he ran into "Patsy" Carrigan and Willard, and they offered him an opportunity to make $400 in a bout at Dallas. But Morrissey couldn't make the weight, so his first bout was held in Oklahoma City, in 1912, where he fought the main event—a 10-round affair.

Gets to Travel, Anyway.

"Fighting isn't so awfully remunerative," Lee recalled recently when he was narrating some of his life, "but after all I'm not sorry I entered the ring. I've traveled through 29 different states in three countries—the United States, Canada and Old Mexico—and I've met 308 different men in the ring."

Included in some of his bouts are the name of Joe Rivers, famous old pugilist, and Ad Wolgast, with whom Morrissey got a draw in 20 rounds in Idaho, while he met Rivers three times.

And now, Lee is scheduled to go after another scalp in Burkburnett. He has already boxed his way into the hearts of fight fans of this section, and with the side lines rooting for him next Tuesday night, he is likely to put the sweet touches to "Country Boy" Lance, whom he meets in a ten-round go.

Morrissey claims numerous victories with the best and the worst of them, he admits. But he has always fought clean.

Not Bloodthirsty.

Not long ago, he witnessed a wrestling match in Electra, and when one of the contestants was about to win, and the crowd yelled "Break his neck," Morrissey was seen to shudder and then was heard to say: "What makes people want blood when both boys are just trying to amuse them, and when they are both gentlemen?"

We don't know Lee, but if that's the way you fight, we're with you, for sports can be kept clean.

Morrissey is in idol in Burkburnett, where he has boxed several times, but he will need his crowd, no doubt, Tuesday night when he steps to the mat with "Country Boy."

That event is just the main go of the evening which the American Legion will put on at Liberty garden, a special eight-round match between two light heavies—both from Oklahoma—being on the card, while a fast semi-wind-up between two husky negroes is also planned.

Arrangements have been completed for a full house at the boxing contests, and "Country Boy's" fans are reported coming with him. Word from Oklahoma yesterday announced that he would arrive in Burkburnett today, and that he was in tip-top condition for the affray.

ROASTING EARS BACK ON MART

Sells for 20 Cents From Wagons

Home grown roasting ears came back on the local market Saturday in small quantities when some farmers brought in the yield from their late corn fields. The corn offered was in good shape and tender. The price was not out of reason, selling from the wagons wholesale at 20 cents the dozen ears.

Many farmers brought in the last yields of their summer garden stuff Saturday and the result was that the market was bette rstocked Saturday with home grown vegetables than at any time previously this week. The following prices were paid farmers for their products:

Cantaloupes, 10c to 50c per dozen.
Sweet corn, 20c per dozen.
Sweet peppers, 12c per pound.
Okra, 10c per pound.
Peaches, $1.30 @ $2.00 per bushel.
Fresh blackeye peas, 6c per pound.
Beets, 40c per dozen bunches.
Squash, 4c to 5c per pound.
Eggs, 25c to 27c per dozen.
Butter, 30c to 35c per pound.
Fryers, 30c to 35c per pound.
Hens, 20c to 35c per pound.
Tomatoes, 6c to 7c per pound.
Spinach, 8c per pound.
Porto Rican yams, 5c per pound.

Railroad Shares Close at Small Losses on Market

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Railroad shares, which have been strong most of the week, were subjected to some selling pressure in today's half holiday session of the stock market, closing at losses of small fractions to 1⅝ points.

Industrial issues, however, were strong, International Harvester, Advance Rumely, preperred; American Radiator and Sears Roebuck pushing through to a new high for 1922 on gains of half to 3⅝ points.

Selling of rails was attributed partly to profit taking and partly to speculative pressure arising from the indefinite status of the rail strike situation and the lack of effective buying power, due to the absence from the floor of many of the largest traders.

Chicago and Northwestern suffered the greatest depression, closing 1⅝ points below Friday's close, with losses of a point or more also being shown by Atchison preferred, St. Paul & Great Northernr preferred. A few rails like Chicago & Alton, Chicago Great Western, preferred, Colorado Southern, Erie second preferred, Lake Erie & Western, New York Central and Norfolk & Western advanced fractionally on light dealings.

Steel stocks were one of the features of the industrial group, both classes of Bethlehem and Lackawanna rising more than 1½ points on announcement of an early completion of their merger. United States Steel, common, Republic, Gulf States Steel and Midvale also bettered their positions.

Arizona Bank Closed Saturday

By Associated Press.

COALGATE, Okla., August 13.—The Parker Valley bank at Parker, Ariz., has been closed because of the closing of the First State bank of Clarita, this county, County Attorney E. N. Holland announced today he had been advised by the bank commissioner of Arizona. A warrant has been issued there, according to Holland's information, for Alvin E. Smith ,vice-president of the Parker institution. Holland was informed by Arizona authorities that they believe Smith is in route to Oklahoma.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, August 12.—Price changes in bond transactions on the New York stock exchange today moved within narrow limits, with the general trend upward. Czecho-Slovakia 8s and City of Prague 7½s were offered freely at the start of trading but they recovered all or most of their losses in later dealings.

French government and other European surities were unchanged. Liberty issues held steady.

Railroad bonds moved with a conflicting trend but changes with few exceptions were extremely nominal. Kansas City Southern 5s, Kansas City Terminal 4s, Northern Pacific 4s and Wabash first 5s were strong but some weakness was shown in St. Paul Convertible 4s and some of the other convertible issues.

Industrial bonds moved upward in response to the irse in most industrial stocks. Republic Iron and Steel 5s, Cerro De Pasco 8s and Wilson company 7½ were the leaders. Total sales (par value) were $6,321,000.

GRAINS SET LOW RECORDS

Export Demand for Wheat Slow

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—New low figures for the season were made in all grains today. September wheat and corn were inclined to be a little light and both widened their premiums over December. At the finish wheat was down 1-4c to 1 1-4c, with September $1.04 1-4 to $1.04 3-8 and December $1.03 1-4 to $1.03 7-8; corn advanced 1-8c @ 1-4c for September and declined 3-4c to 1 1-4c on late months; oats were 3-8c to 5-8c, and provisions were 5c to 30c off.

Wheat rallied a little from the low point just before the close, but resting spots were lower. September shorts evidently are beginning to recognize the possibilities of a prolonged rail strike and there was covering in the nearby delivery of both wheat and corn, these deliveries being relatively strong compared with the remainder of th list.

Export demand for wheat continued slow but traders heard that there is more business under way than has been reported from day to day.

General sentiment in conse grains remains bearish although there is a disposition to keep away from the short side on the breaks. The decline today was due more to lack of support than to any aggressive selling.

Provisions were easier in sympathy with grains and on scattered selling, the trade being light.

WIDE DECLINES IN COTTON MART

Strike Rumors Put Prices Down

NEW ORLEANS, August 12.—Moderately wide declines featured trading in cotton today and they were due partly to hopes of rain in droughty areas in the western belt and partly to rumors received by brokers that the rail strike situation was being further complicated by men of the "big four" brotherhoods walking out. Lowest prices came late in the session when the trading months were 34 to 47 points under the close of yesterday. Last prices were at net losses of 33 to 36 points. October sold as low as 20.45 and closed at the lowest.

Week-end liquidation by the long interests was again values in a mild way around the opening, lowering the price by from 1 to 5 points. Overnight news regarding the rail strike was considered encouraging and by the middle of the session prices were 4 to 13 points over the level of yesterday's close. In the second half of thession the tone was distinctly easy, the market changing complexion because of western weather accounts.

While the weather map was disappointingly dry over the western belt, private massages from Oklahoma and Texas reported showers at a few points and claimed that the outlook was good for more rain over Sunday.

NEW YORK COTTON

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—An opening advance was followed by sharp declines in the cotton market this morning under liquidation or realizing for over the week-end and southern selling. December contracts broke from $21.28 to $20.75 and the market closed at the lowest with the tone barely steady at a net decline of 35 to 48 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 13 points on further covering and a little trade buying promoted by bullish overnight cables advices and the rather more cheerful view of European prospects. Active months sold 12 to 13 points net higher right after the call, but the advance evidently met realizing by recent buyers, while there was also scattered southern selling. This soon checked the upward movement and the market turned easier during the middle of the morning on private reports of rain in Oklahoma and the possibility that the partly cloudy weather expected in the southwest might be followed by showers or rains in Texas before Monday.

Is Ferguson a Democrat?

It will be remembered that two years ago Jim Ferguson ran for President of the United States on the American Party ticket, and that he was at that time, as now, publishing the "Ferguson Forum (For-Rum)" and was doing his best to destroy the Democratic Party, which he is now asking to endorse him as its nominee for the United States Senate from Texas.

In a signed editorial in his "For-rum" of October 7, 1920, Ferguson said: "There is no longer any reason, logical or sentimental, why any Texan should vote the Democratic ticket.

"The Democratic party has left the cardinal principle of individual liberty and has set up more domination and invasion of rights of the people than was ever inflicted by the Czar of Russia or the Kaiser of Germany.

"The Democratic party has ceased to consider any question that will bring any material welfare to the people. It is now in league with the special interests to rob the people of their sustenance.

"The infernal Democratic party is already condemned and beaten in the national campaign. Cox is a joke, and Wilson a memory.

"A party without principle, the leadership, of course, must blow up."—Jas. E. Ferguson.

Also in Ferguson's Forum for October 21, 1920, Ferguson said:

"Our only hope is to carry Texas for the American party electors and take Texas out of the Democratic column and thereby assure the election of a Republican president, who will give us some relief, just to show us how bad the Democrats were.

"The Texas politicians, all Democrats, have not got the pride of a jackass or the decency of a skunk. They stand for nothing and they are nothing."—Jas. E. Ferguson.

But on August 11, 1922, at Sherman, Texas, when the same James E. Ferguson was making a speech in his present race for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate, he warned the voters that if they send Mayfield to the senate, it will "spoil completely whatever chance the party has to put a Democratic president or a Democratic congress in power for a generation to come."

WICHITA RADIO HEARD IN IOWA

W. K. A. F. Opening Will Be Delayed

Wichita Falls music has been heard in Iowa and Illinois and scores of other states since WKAF went into action here. The high powered radio broadcasting station being erected by the W. S. Radio Supply company to broadcast concerts ad big news events for the Record News, while testing out has been picked up as far away as the states of Iowa and Illinois. In fact the operator held conversation Friday night with the operator of WBGH station in Iowa.

A card was received Saturday morning from WBSG station at Downer's Grove, Ill., saying that music broadcasted by this station had been picked up there Because one of the important attachments for the station here has not been received the sound of the music and voice sent out has a metallic whang and for that reason the big opening concert will not be held Monday night. It will be held some time later in the week when the necessary reactance coil now being wound is put in to take the place of one that is enroute. When this feature is completed the station will be one of the best in the country and the sound will be transmitted as it comes from the instruments or the natural voice as spoken.

The local station is to broadcast music picked up from other stations as well as music produced here. Only very powerful stations can accomplish this feat successfully.

Announcement will be made sometime later in the week about the opening program.

"Full Crew" Law Held Constitutional

Special to the Record News

AUSTIN, August 12.—The Texas "full crew" law requiring less than five men in operation of trains is constitutional, the attorney general held in an opinion given railroad commissioner, Clarence E. Gilmore, concerning the Eastland, Wichita Falls and Gulf railroad. The fact that a mixed freight and passenger train is operated will not permit reduction of the crew to four men, it was held.

You are hereby commanded to summon W. P. Thompson by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in September, A. D., 1922, the same being the fourth day of September, A. D., 1922 then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the fifteenth day of February, A. D., 1922, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 12372-B, wherein John R. Hirschi is plaintiff and R. A. Blackard, W. R. Moore, W. P. Thompson and C. M. Reed are defendants and said petition alleging: Suit on three notes for $2,000 each executed by R. A. Blackard, payable to the order of W. R. Moore, bearing interest from date of notes at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, secured by a vendor's lien on lot No. 12, in block No. 31, of the Southland addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas. That no payments have been made upon said notes except the sum of $75 on Nov. 21,1921, and the sum of $75 on Dec. 19, 1921, which said sums were by this plaintiff credited upon the interest due upon said note No. 1; that plaintiff has often requested defendants to make payments of said notes and interest, but defendants have failed and refused and still fail and refuse to pay the same or any part thereof except the sum of $150. Wherefore, plaintiff prays that citation issue to the defendants and each of them, commanding them to appear and answer herein, and that plaintiff have judgment against defendants, jointly and severally for his debt, interest, attorney's fees, costs of suit and for general relief; and for a foreclosure of his vendor's lien upon said real property, and for such other and further relief, both general and special in law or in equity to which he may be entitled.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the fourth day of August, A. D., 1922.

A. F. KERR, Clerk, District Court, Wichita County Texas.
By EUNICE JACKSON, Deputy.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
COUNTY OF WICHITA:

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the Honorable 30th District court of Wichita county, Texas, on the 19th day of July, 1922, by A. F. Kerr, clerk of said court, for the sum of $29,365.30 and costs of suit, under a judgment in favor of W. D. Kynard and S. E. Colgan, in a certain cause in said court, No. 12730-A and styled W. D. Kynard et al vs. W. B. Fitzhugh et al, the defendants in said cause being W. B. Fitzhugh and D. Churchill Oil syndicate, placed in my hands for service, I, Frank Morgan, as constable of Precinct No. 1, Wichita county, Texas, did on the 25th day of July, 1922, levy on certain real estate, situated in Wichita County, Texas, described as follows, to-wit:

Upon the oil and gas lease and leasehold estate in and upon 93.2325 acres of land out of the northeast part of Survey No. 2, S. A. & M. G. Ry Co., in Wichita county, Texas, described as follows: Beginning at a point on the north line of said survey, 146.02 vrs. west of its northeast corner; thence south 597.2 vrs; thence west 367.98 vrs; thence south 357.8 vrs; thence west 514 vrs; thence north 477 vrs; thence east 385 vrs; thence north 477.5 vrs; thence east 496.38 vrs. to the place of beginning and levied upon as the property of the said W. B. Fitzhugh and D. Churchill Oil syndicate, defendants; and that on the first Tuesday in September, 1922, the same being the 5th day of September, A. D. 1922, at the court house door of Wichita county, Texas, in the city of of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of 10:00 o'clock a. m. and 4:00 o'clock p. m., by virtue of said levy, said order of sale and said judgment, I will sell said above described real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said W. B. Fitzhugh and D. Churchill Oil syndicate.

And in compliance with the law I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Record News, a newspaper published in Wichita county, Texas.

Witness my hand this 8th day of August, A. D. 1922.

when Wichita Falls has grown into a great city will you have kept pace with her activities by your personal accomplishments? Think this over, young man. It should interest you.

As one suggestion, if we may be permitted, save $25 a month from your earnings. Place it in this institution each month and together with the interest it will earn for you, you should have $5,000 in cash at the above date. Or, $50 a month should be $10,000. This would be an accomplishment of progress rivaling that of your city. You can easily learn the details by calling on us today.

67 MILES OF PAVED ROADWAY TO BE COMPLETED IN OCTOBER

Good Weather to See Finish of Extensive Highway Project in Wichita Says County Engineer's Report

If the weather man permits and supplies are placed on the grounds at the proper intervals, Wichita county will have 67 miles of paved highways completed by the middle of October. This will give the county two miles more of pavement on which to ride than the city of Wichita Falls claims.

County Engineer Isbell, in speaking of this fact yesterday, intimated that in addition to this long chain of concreted highways, precinct No. 2, of this county, will also claim a long drive of graveled highway soon, which will last for a considerable length of time.

Work has progressed with rapidity on all the projects during the past several weeks, two of the projects being completed during the last seven days—the Henrietta road to the Clay county line and the Burkburnett road from Wichita Falls to that community having been finished.

Material has been slow in arriving, reports during the past three weeks have indicated, the block in activity being ascribed largely to the strike situation, which brought about a tie-up in the yards where the shipments of rock, gravel, sand and concrete were held en route to the locations in Wichita county.

Work on the 1,500-foot gap of the Burkburnett road east of that place, and which is designated as where the "north mixer" is at work, has been closed down for the past two days, but will possibly complete that strip of concreting by Monday evening. Two cars of sand are needed on the grounds, and are expected to arrive sometime today.

Track is being laid west of Burkburnett on the Burk-Clara strip, according to Engineer Isbell, who said Saturday that a mile and a half has already been completed. Scarifying of this project is already under way and it is thought that paving of the roadway will be under way by Thursday of the present week. Arrangements for a steady supply of water have been completed with the Invader Oil corporation, Mr. Isbell asserts, and it is thought that the 5 1-4 mile strip of concrete project will be finished in record time.

Shouldering is under way on the recently completed Henrietta road, the Tibbetts Construction company, which received the sub-contract from Potts-Prentice Construction company, being at the present time engaged in removing their plant to a location near Dallas, where they have a contract. Approximately 10 days of shouldering yet remain to be completed, Mr. Isbell said yesterday.

The McCollum Construction company, Mr. Isbell said, has moved its plant to about 5½ miles north of Electra, where 1 1-8 miles of concrete surfacing remains to be finished on the Electra north road. Approximately a half mile of this road was finished during the past week, Mr. Isbell asserts.

B. O. Gilstrap, contractor, is engaged at the present time in putting in culverts on the Iowa Park-Jonesdale road, Mr. Gilstrap being about half way through with his contract. Mr. Isbell estimated yesterday that it will take him at least 40 days to complete these culverts, which are being constructed in the most modern manner.

L. E. Whitham & Company, the county engineer recalled yesterday, are engaged in putting down gravel on this same project, the company's plant and crusher having already prepared about 4,000 yards of gravel, which is ready to be hauled. The gravel pits which are being used by Whitham, are located on the Fasset ranch.

All the graveled projects of precinct No. 2, Mr. Isbell estimates, will be completed by January 1, 1923, while the other roads will possibly be in use by the middle of October.

Thirteen miles of the Burkburnett road are already finished and in use, while 2 1-4 miles of the Henrietta highway, extending from the railroads east to the Clay county line, are in use. All of the Henrietta road will be open by September 1.

Three miles of the Electra north project are in use, Mr. Isbell asserted, a larger portion of this highway being almost ready for usage by the public.

Newspapers Back Fair in Wichita

Newspapers all over West and Northwest Texas as well as in Oklahoma are boosting the Texas-Oklahoma fair, to be held in Wichita Falls September 30 to October 4, inclusive. They realize that the fair will be a big boost and builder for the entire section and they are pulling for it.

The fair association in Wichita Falls appreciates what the newspapers in the towns over the two states are doing for the fair. The association knows that to make the fair a complete success the help of the newspapers is necessary. The men who make up the fair association are big hearted, progressive men working without pay for the fair because it is for the upbuilding of this vast territory and they realize that the newspapers over the territory are their right hands, so to speak, in carrying out the project.

All the Stars of Paramount Shown in Record News Picture

"I wonder if that's all bunk."

How many times have you heard that said in connection with stories you so frequently hear concerning movie stars? Often enough, certainly. That's the reason The Record News has arranged for a film portraying the real life of the movie stars, and showing just how pictures are made.

The picture will be shown at the Olympic theater here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, in addition to its regular bill, and if you enjoy the movies, and have often wondered just how pictures are taken, what Hollywood looks like, and how movie stars look and act when they are not before the screen, then you will enjoy this picture.

In addition to several thousand feet of film showing how pictures are taken, the film carries the spectators directly through the Paramount Hollywood, from cellar to garret, showing every process in the making.

But perhaps the most interesting part of the whole three reels, to the movie fan at least, will be the intimate glimpses into the daily lives of such stars as Rudolph Valentino, Wallace Reid, Thomas Meighan, Betty Compson, May McAvoy, Lois Wilson, Agnes Ayres, Gloria Swanson, Dorothy Dalton, Leatrice Joy and any number of other screen favorites whom Wichitans have come to know on the screen, but whom few if any of us have had the opportunity of meeting in a personal way.

The film will follow these stars into their homes, back of the scenes, without make-up, in such a way that it almost makes you feel that you have actually met the real, flesh and blood perhaps, rather than just seen their pictures without their make-ups.

Cool Wind Keeps Temperature Down

The dial on the registering thermometer in the Art Jewelry company doorway had a life of ups and downs Saturday. In the morning the temperature fluctuated slightly at two periods and in the afternoon it made three slight changes. The minimum temperature for the day was registered at 7 a. m., when the mercury went down to 81 degrees. The maximum was 99 degrees at 3:30 p. m. A cool wind coming up at 6:30 o'clock caused a sharp break in the heat and made the early night cool.

Ferguson Here for 4 Hours Sunday

Former Governor James E. Ferguson, senatorial candidate, will be in Wichita Falls for four hours Sunday afternoon, according to a telegram received Saturday by Guy R. Holcomb, chairman of the Wichita county Ferguson campaign committee.

Mr. Ferguson will be at the Kemp hotel from 2 o'clock until 6 and will be glad to meet all friends. No special plans are being made for the afternoon but the public is cordially invited to drop in and greet Mr. Ferguson.

George McQuaid Passes Out Feature Assignment to His Former Scribe

Where did the gray granite in the facing of the City National bank building come from?

That question worried George McQuaid, veteran newspaper man, to such an extent that he mentioned on the convention floor of the Northwest Texas Press association that it would make a good feature story. He said there are many such good features all around any town or city.

McQuaid has a wonderful nose for features. That gray granite used on the City National bank building is a pretty good feature. It was hauled all the way from Vermont to adorn the building. Texas granite is of a pinkish tinge. It is the kind used in constructing the statehouse at Austin.

But the big feature of the City National bank beauty is not the Vermont gray granite on the outside. It is the pretty cream colored Texas marble on the inside. Mr. McQuaid overlooked that feature. The marble finishing is unusually pretty and every bit of the marble came from San Saba, Texas.

Wichita to Have New Optical Firm

Wichita Falls is to have one of the most modern and highly specialized optical companies in the entire southwest, according to a statement made Saturday by Dr. J. W. Du Val and Fred Goss, who have associated themselves together to form the Faith Optical company and will open their place of business at 813 Scott street, about August 20.

Dr Du Val is a specialist who has practiced in Wichita Falls several years, and Mr. Goss has been associated with the optical business here since 1917, having been with Haltom & Friedly and then with the Kruger Jewelry company. The new firm will put in a plant that will contain all the most approved equipment in the line and devote their entire time to the business.

INVENTORS GET PATENT FOR NEW IDEA AUTO PLUG

Self-Cleaning Stunt Worked Out Thru Necessity

Again necessity has proven the mother of invention. This time it has led to an invention which is destined to bring more fame to Wichita Falls and establish here an industry that will be known wherever automoboles are used.

Several months ago Leslie S. Williams and H. Kerr were employed as mechanics for a well known local automobile sales company, which also maintained a shop for work on the cars sold by the company.

Last Christmas an automobile was bought from the company where Williams and Kerr worked, as a Christmas present. Two days after it was delivered, it was back in the shop. Something wrong. The mechanics worked it over. It came back again then again. The owner said that unless the car was fixed he did not want it. The company must take it back.

Kerr and Williams held a conference. The trouble always appeared to be a missing purr. They decided it could be fixed only by making an air valve for the spark plug. They made it. The car performed perfectly. It has performed that way since.

The two mechanics realized that they had j nvented something worth while. They made a model of the air valve spark plug and applied for a patent. The patent was granted this week by the patent office in Washington.

But they went ahead making the

Henrietta Editor Recalls Days When Winchester Was Mightier Than Pencil in Lone Star History

The pen may be mightier than the sword, but Col. Bill Edwards, veteran editor of Henrietta told members of the Northwest Texas Press association Saturday morning of a time when a rusty Winchester rifle was mightier than the pencil for a newspaper man of the early days.

"It was back in the days when Vernon had just graduated from Eagle Flats as it used to be known," said Colonel Bill, "and the editor of the old Vernon Guard which opened up for publication was named B. Wilson Edgell. He was a splendid newspaper man and backed up his convictions in the columns of the paper.

It so happened that in that day and time which was in the seventies, there were many cattle rustlers in this section of the country and they were causing a great deal of trouble. Edgell got tired of their activities and opened up on them in his paper. He made it so hot for them that everybody in town was divided on one side or the other and the rustlers had a big following. When the issue became so keen that everybody had to take sides, lots of people took the side of the cattle rustlers for safety. Among those who sided with the rustlers were some of the officers of the law.

"Things got mighty hot for Edgell, especially when one of the deputy sheriffs spent a great deal of his time trying to pot shot the editor. It was about then that the anti-pistol carrying law was passed, so Edgell carried a Winchester rifle with him from his room to his office and around wherever he went. He had to do it for protection. When he and the deputy finally got together in the hotel each maneuvered for position before shooting and they were separated before blood was shed.

"In those days we slept on bedding rolls on the floor. We rolled our pallet down at night and rolled it up in the morning. The house where Edgell roomed was off the ground on blocks and one borning when he got up he found a fuse attacked to a 25 pound keg of powder which had been placed under the house and directly under the bed, but the fuse had gone out after having burned a few inches.

"But with all the rough and tumble time Edgell had in his career," Colonel Edwards concluded, "he was an excellent gentleman and when he came out before the public he was always dressed as a gentleman with his shoes shined and his clothes pressed."

Working Girls Will Marry First Says Editor of Stamford Leader

G. L. Inglish of the Stamford Leader made a talk before the Northwest Texas Press association Monday on accounting and collections. His talk covered the points assigned to him, but with the technical side he put in some very interesting high points regarding human nature and human beings in general. Here are some of the remarks he made:

"I use a man for bookkeeper. I used several young women who were very efficient, but I find that men always notice that when a young woman works she is energetic and will make a good wife. They get married so I use men."

"I can't get used to saying lunch for dinner like so many people do 'n this day and time. The word lunch always implies to my mind a cold handout. I say dinner and expect a pipin' hot square meal."

"There is absolutely no accounting for what a newspaper man will do, so why discuss accounting?"

"I harken back to the good old days when democrats were democrats and not pussyfooters."

"Prompt sending out of bills usually means prompt pay."

Mr. Inglish in conclusion said he had not been consulted when his subject was assigned to him. "Had I been consulted," he said, "I would have talked on the subject of making farmers build good homes in the country and equip them as homes should be. Even if they have to sell off land to build the right kind of homes they should do so. The homes should be modern, they should have pianos, victrolas, their own light plants which are cheap, and all other modern attractions. When this is done we will not find the sad incidents of girls from the country, going into the city and having smooth tongued young rascals lead them astray. They will have home environments that will make them want to stay at home instead of going out into the world for their pleasure and when they do go out they will know enough to beware of the slick female chasing hell hounds."

There's a Feature Story in Every Man, E. G. Schroeder Tells Editors

E. G. Schroeder of Vernon made one of the best newspaper talks at the Northwest Texas Press association convention when he spoke Saturday morning on feature writng. His talk of about 10 minutes was a gem and contained pointers considered by the newspaper men to be worth coming to Wichita Falls to hear.

Mr. Schroeder is young in the newspaper game and a young man, but he diagnosed the feature story situation for the newspaper men in such a way as to make it extremely valuable. After the convention had been discussing various kinds of features, patented and otherwise, and the problem of lack of space to run them, Mr. Schroeder told them that he had found the best features for the weekly to be on the same order as the best features of the daily paper—local stories written from a local color standpoint. He explained that there are feature stories in every town and community and that every man is good for at least one feature story. He told of various instances of feature writing in Vernon where he has found many unusual features among his own people without having to go outside for them. He explained that features with local color and concerning local people are always more interesting to the home people than outside stuff. He classified feature stories and gave details on the technique of writing them.

Kemp's Dream of 25 Years Just About to Materialize Here Now

The Wichita valley irrigation project now in the course of construction has been the hobby of J. A. Kemp for fully 25 years, according to W. H. Chilson, wealthy rancher of Henrietta who has resided in this section of the state more than 25 years. Mr. Chilson visited the office of Kemp and Kell Thursday and finding both members of thef irm out he became reminiscent and told the office force some of the early history of the irrigation project.

Mr. Chilson said that about 25 years ago he went with J. A. Kemp to the present diversion damsite at Owls Gap beyond Dundee and helped Mr. Kemp pick out the dam site. They went in Morgan Jones' private car, he said and Mr. Kemp was very enthusiastic over the project at that time. Mr. Chilson said the later went to Austin with Mr. Kemp to help arrange some matters looking toward the project.

"This Wichita valley project is not a fleeting fancy but the consummation of plans that have been worked out through the years and which when completed will mean more to this section of the state than anything else," said Mr. Chilson.

Mr. Chilson has watched Wichita Falls grow from a village to a city and he expects to see it grow to a much larger city under the spell of natural growth and the development of the irrigation project. "I have ridden all over this country horseback," said Mr. Chilson, "but now I go over it in automobiles and think what progress has been made. It is nothing for me to akme a trip of 100 miles per days with my wife to our holdings scattered here and there, but 25 years ago, that would have been a dream."

Irrigation Will Mean Prosperity To Everyone in Wichita County

B. L. Bradford, who taught agriculture in the Iowa Park schools last year is said to be a man of wide knowledge in the matter of farming. He has studied farming from all angles and has taught farming and practiced it so that the following interview with him published recently in the Wichita County Promoter and which concerns the Wichita valley irrigation project:

B. L. Bradford, teacher of agriculture in the Iowa Park school last year, returned first of the week from Fort Collins, Colorado, where he attended Colorado A. & M. college this summer, taking a course in irrigation. In a conversation with this gentleman Wednesday afternoon he stated to the writer that irrigation in Wichita county will mean prosperity to every man, woman and child and that the irrigation project now on in this county should have the hearty cooperation of every land owner whose land is adjacent to the canals.

"The tillable land in Colorado is similar to Wichita county land, without sufficient rainfall it will not produce. However, Colorado produces an abundance of alfalfa, vegetables, watermelons and cantaloupes, fruits and other marketable stuff, simply by irrigation. Lands are cut up in small tracts and cannot be bought for from $500 to $1000 per acre. Before irrigation was a reality this same land was selling at from $3 to $15 per acre," says Mr. Bradford, and if irrigation is a success in the mountains of Colorado it will by all means be a success in Wichita river valley.

Mr. Bradford stated that irrigation in the Wichita river valley can be carried on much cheaper than in Colorado with a much greater production.

Lands in Wichita county that are selling now for $75 per acre will be worth $200 to $500 per acre when irrigation will have begun and the population of Wichita county will increase 1000 per cent.

Mr. Bradford will attend Texas A. & M. college next year and plans to return to Wichita county to devote his attention to irrigation.

Groseclose Will Speak to Strikers

A special invitation to attend the evening services has been extended by Rev. J. H. Groseclose, pastor of Floral Heights Methodist church, to railroad shop craft workers now on strike in Wichita Falls.

In announcing his theme for Sunday evening, which is "Is the Golden Rule Obsolete?" Rev. Mr. Groseclose declared that he would have several things of interest to say to the shopmen and would also have some enlightening points for those included in the "capitalistic class," who might be in the audience.

It is believed that a number of the shopmen here will accept the invitation of the minister.

CASH AWARDED TO RECORD NEWS SERIAL READERS

Three Prizes Follow Letters on "The Mucker"

"The Mucker is an epoch-maker," said Mrs. Gem O. Moody, 1114 Tenth street, winner of the Record News prize for the best story telling what she got out of the recent serial. Mrs. Moody was awarded first prize out of a field of several hundred contestants.

There were a large number of exceptionally good letters which were not awarded prizes, naturally, but the first three prizes selected because of their comprehensive review of the contents of the story and its elements, and their clarity of expression, were awarded as follows: Mrs. Gem O. Moody, 1114 Tenth street, first prize, $10; Mrs. S. S. Brelsford, 1506 Sixteenth street, second prize, $5, and Mildred Black, 616 East Second street Burkburnett, third prize, $3. Honorable mention was given by the judges to Miss Mary Cathryn Moody.

The prize winning letters follow:

First Prize

The Mucker is an epoch-maker.

It is one of those wholesome, fascinating novels that has woven a golden thread of romance, marking a distinct period in the life of our people.

The imagination follows with delight the course of one who arises from the lowest dare-devil instincts, to possess all the finest manly virtues and to exercise regal dominion.

The lure of the story unconsciously lifts one out of the selfish self that would ever bind one to earth, and gives an alluring vision of fairer fields in a way no preachment ever could.

May the Mucker's tribe increase.

Second Prize

Your story "The Mucker," fraught with thrills throughout, is both interesting and edifying, as we learn from it a two-fold lesson. First, that evil influences and environment after making a criminal of the hero could not keep him one.

Secondly, no matter how degraded a person becomes there can always be found in him or her some redeeming trait. Considering everything, the hero is wonderful, and by his dauntless courage and defiance will surmount all obstacles and win fame and fortune and they will "live happily ever after."

Third Prize

Your story, "The Mucker" has a fascinating touch to it, counterbalanced by the sturdy reality of romance, struggle, and sacrifice. It is a tensely moving study of the human heart and it's aspirations, that unfolds itself through thrilling situations and dramatic developments. I can hardly wait for the Record News to come every morning, so I can read "The Mucker."

60,000 Acres of Cantaloupes Grown On Damsite Area

A total of 60,000 Gem cantaloupes on six and one-half acres under irrigation at Damsite raised this year by Edwin Smith is said by irrigation men in Wichita Falls to be one of the best examples of what can be accomplished when the Wichita valley project is completed.

Mr. Smith who resided near Quanah laast year, went to Damsite to put in irrigated farming this year and is said to have shipped 36,000 melons off his acreage and has fully 25,000 more. The melons are said to be as fine as any raised in Colorado, Arizona or California. Melons will be only one of the many crops that can be raised on the Wichita valley pro-

BUT YOU CAN'T BLAME WEBSTER

Flappers Change Modern Dictionary

Noah Webster in his prime was rated as quite an adept at formulating, classifying and making applications of those pliable and altogether necessary somethings known as words of the English language. Furthermore, Noah gained more or less notoriety through the compilation and publication of that ponderous volume rejoicing in the title of Webster's "Unabridged"—a work that has stood second to none in the fields of literature.

At the time, Noah nor anyone else dreamed that within the short space of a few years his book would be entirely out of date insofar as the definitions of words contained therein were concerned, for, as he contended, a spade was a spade and pigs is pigs, so why change. And since his definitions were accepted at their face value by the literary lights of the day, Brother Noah rested content in the belief that he had established something as enduring as the tomb of Rameses.

Until recently his claim for fame has gone unchallenged. But in this enlightened age events transpire swiftly. In proof thereof witness the "flapper dictionary."

Supposing you were strolling down Avenue Indiana some cool afternoon and some one, feminine gender, unknown case, should accost you with a flow of language thusly:

Get This If You Can

"Well, if it isn't the old apple knocker himself. This sure is the cat's particulars. I'm glad to see you, 'cause my goof and me had a a big flat shoe last night and I'm just headed for a blow. He's such a cornshredder anyhow and an awful bell polisher, so I can't be bothered. Besides, I always get Edisoner at home after I'm out with him.

"The dapper thinks he's a forty-niner and he got a few too many laps one night and got goofey over a fire bell and some alarm clock heard it and we all got clotheslined. Call a dimbox, will you? My hush money's

POULTRY KINGS TO SHOW CHICKS

Exhibits to Jam in at Fair

Lively interest already indicated in the Texas-Oklahoma fair by Southwestern poultry breeders promise that the poultry section of the fair this year will be a big one, according to Ira D. Brown, secretary of the North Texas poultry association, and on the poultry committee of the fair. Mr. Brown expects the poultry exhibits to completely jam one of the big hangars.

"Usually a show has to mail its premium list to the breeders in an effort to attract their interest," he says. "That is not the case with the fair here, for I have already had letters from a number of the leading poultry men of this and nearby states asking for the premium lists which are now in course of printing."

Prateically all of the growing number of poultry fanciers of this immediate section are grooming birds for the show in spite of the fact that the show comes early and is consequently not as well adapted to the showing of younger birds as the winter shows.

The North Texas Poultry association, whose annual show is one of the best in Texas, are co-operating with the fair association in moving their show date up from November to the second week in January—this action being taken in order that the show, scheduled too closely to the fair, might not divide interest among the poultry exhibitors with the poultry section of the fair.

Upton Gets 99 Years For Girl's Murder

Special to the Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, Aug. 12.—The jury returned a verdict of 99 years in the penitentiary in the case of Houston Upton, tried in district court here this week for the killing of Gladys Solomon in Floyd county, February 27. The jury was out about 17 hours. The defense asked for a new trial which was overruled. Notice of appeal was then given.

The second case against young Upton for killing Nell Umberson, has been transferred to Randall county.

The general opinion is that should Upton accept his sentence the second case will be dismissed, since both killings were in the same bed.

$7,000 Offered in Premium List of Texas-Okla. Fair

The premium list for the Texas-Oklahoma fair has been issued in book form by the fair association and is being distributed throughout Texas and Oklahoma. It has 63 pages devoted to the premiums offered for various exhibits and giving the rules governing exhibits.

The permiums offered by the fair total almost $7,000 and some very substantial rewards are affered for exhibits in various lines. The biggest prizes are in the livestock class, but others are in proportion and prizes are suc hthat an exhibitor can well afford to bring his stuff here to show.

The various departments are under the following heads, cattle, swine, horses, jacks and mules, sheep and goats, poultry and pet stock, dog show, agriculture, boys' agricultural clubs, woman's department, art, automotive, retail merchants' exhibits, wholesale and manufacturers' exhibit, petroleum products.

Chock Beer Supply Will Fall Off at Newtown Now

Following a raid conducted by Deputy Sheriff White of Burkburnett, in the territory between Clara and Bridgetown, a man giving the name of G. R. Sims was placed in the Wichita county prison yesterday morning, charged with manufacturing whiskey in this county.

The deputy took charge of two stills, one of which resembled a toy that some child might have used, while the other was a modern work of art, and of about 80 gallons' capacity.

The larger still, which is made of tin, has a condenser, coil and thumper equipment intact.

The smaller still is constructed of two gallon syrup cans, one of which is used for boiling purposes, while the second contains the thumper and coil. The two cans were moulded together.

During his raid in that territory, the deputy sheriff unearthed a "wholesale chock beer" establishment not far from Burkburnett in the vicinity of Newtown. According to a report which he made to Sheriff Fred K. Smith, the deputy discovered a regular beer cache, destroying over 100 large bottles of the substance, some of which was in the process of fermentation.

PEOPLE MOVE TO OTHER CITIES TO "LIVE BETTER"

Record News Survey Will Tell Story Completely

BY THE INVESTIGATOR

Are Wichita rents too high?

Readers of the Record News have said so. Daily, there come complaints of high rents in Wichita Falls. Daily there are people who say they must leave Wichita Falls, as soon as they can "find something" somewhere else. Daily, people complain that the bulk of their income goes to pay the rent, and that this makes living conditions here unbearable for the average, small salaried man and the wage earner.

Is this true?

Does this single item make this an expensive one in which to live?

Because of these complaints, the Record News has delegated me to investigate conditions here, and that is what I have been doing for the past three weeeks. The investigation has been made with one idea alone, to get at the truth of the matter.

Studies Entire City

In no case has it been partisan. In every case, I have tried to get the viewpoint, both of the renter, and of the property owner. Figures compiled are not from one section of the city alone, but from every section. They include the better, so called "restricted" residence section, as well as the neighborhoods occupied by wage earners. I have attempted to classify the houses and neighborhoods, in such a way as to estimate the average income of the individuals in that community.

Investigates Wages

Further than this, I have made an exhaustive investigation of wages and salaries received in Wichita Falls, in order that some basis of comparison might be conceived.

In order that the comparison may be fair, the survey will include other Texas cities, representative of the various sections of the state.

A comparison of such figures will show whether or not Wichita Falls is an "expensive" rent city, as compared to other cities of this size, and larger.

According to the latest census, Wichita Falls has a population of 40,017. A census of houses here made last February, shows there are 3,117. However, this does not include the business district, the negro section, one and two-room shacks along the river bank, and some of the most outlying sections of the city, and for this reason, 20 per cent is being deducted from the population figure, for people living in these sections. This leaves 32,014 people in the section of the city surveyed.

What of the 24,000?

Of this number, 1600 families own their own homes. Allowing five people to the family, the government census rate, this makes 8,000 people, roughly, who have no rent problem.

But what of the remaining 24,014? What of more than half of Wichita Falls' population?

If they are paying exorbitant rents, they will certainly move to some other city, where their money will "go further."

If a Wichita Falls dollar is cheaper than an Austin dollar, they will move to Austin. If it is cheaper than a Waco, or a Beaumont dollar, they will move to Waco or Beaumont.

People are only human, and no matter how much faith they have in a city, and no matter how much they like to live there, they will move

Henry Ford Has Elaborate Plan to Bring Peace to Mexico

Probably on the Theory That With His Hands Full of Monkey Wrenches He Couldn't Carry a Rifle

And Besides They'd Probably Have All the Trouble They Wanted Without Starting a Revolution

By Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 12.—Development of Mexico industrially and agriculturally to a point where it will take its place as one of the leading powers of the world is the plan of Henry Ford.

This has been learned by the Associated Press from sources close to the manufacturer. Mr. Ford, it was learned, proposes to end forever the internal strife in the southern republic by "putting the people to work," as he expresses it, by making it possible for the peons to obtain educations, and by devious ways elevating the masses in the country to the highest possible standard.

The motor manufacturer wants to keep the hands and minds of the Mexican common people occupied so "they will have no time for fighting." This it became known, is the substance of Mr. Ford's theory, one that he hopes to carry out in the near future by erection of a number of factories throughout the more important sttaes. In short, it was said, he hopes to reveal to the people of Mexico how they can help themselves.

The first step in this program may be taken soon with establishment of a Ford motor assembling plant in the state of Coahuila, probably in Saltillo. Business interests of that city and the governor of the state are known here to be eager to bring about the industrial development. Mr. Ford, it is known, would enter upon his development program immediately upon erection of the necessary factory buildings. Similar enterprises would be established by Mr. Ford in other parts of the country if the plan is carried out, it was intimated.

Mr. Ford is said to believe that if the Mexicans once are taught the value of industry, better methods of agriculture and their possibilities individually and as a nation, the advance of the country will prove to be one of the most notable in history.

The manufacturer is known to have an abiding faith in the people of the country. He announced his iden several years ago, at a time when many persons in the United States were advising that the United States send troops to "clean up Mexico."

At that time Mr. Ford said:

"Let me invade Mexico with factories and give the people something to do. Then there will be no more war there."

As the initial step toward carrying out his plan, Mr. Ford for the last few years has been training Mexicans in his automobile factories heree. Several hundred representative workmen from the southern republic have become skilled workmen in the local plants. Now they are ready to return to their own country and become native foremen when the wheels in the Mexican Ford shops begin to turn. These men, it was explained, have learned the American methods, adopted American standards of living, and have seen the vision of the new Mexico. They will pass this enthusiasm on to their countrymen, the manufacturer believes, and from this seed will support the end of the Mexican peonage system.

Mr. Ford, it became known, proposes to take into the southern republic all the ideas that he has worked out in this country. He would open schools where farmers would be taught the use of improved agricultural implements. He would make it possible for his workmen to become educated by attending school outside of working hours and see to it that the children of the poorer class had educational advantages necessary for the welfare of the country.

It was learned that Mr. Ford believes the working people of Mexico have been exploited. He proposes to throw the present system into reverse and turn toward development.

Cooler Weather Brings Forecast of Brilliant Fall Season to Come

Between Season Dance Will Precede Formal Opening Fall Season

Cool weather during the week brought not only a renewal of summer social activities but a forecast of what the fall season is to bring.

Along with another of the mid-summer lake dances, given this week by the Avoleh club, comes talk and plans for the year in college and rumors of the September entertainments already being planned.

In the meantime, before the opening of the new college term scatters the dancers, Comus club officers are promising a between-season dance which, in spite of informality, will rival those of the summer. The dance will come this week or next and will combine watermelon feast with the usual dance program. For the last time this year, the club ill use the lake pavilion.

Early in September, the Comus club plans to open the fall season with a brilliant dance to be given at the Kemp hotel. The club will bring Doc Davis and his famous orchestra from Oklahoma City to supply the music, hisappearance here last season at the call of the same organization having left a demand for more.

Comus club's second dance will be the occasion for another evening of Jimmie Joys orchestra for Dallas. Dates for neither dances have been set yet, but club officials are already at work preparing for what promises to be the gayest of seasons.

PENSION OLDEST ELEPHANT

John L. Sullivan, oldest elephant, is to retire on a pension next November. In his heyday he did a boxing act with the old Adam Forepaugh show in which he toured Australia. Finally he came into the hands of the Ringlings. During the last 10 years John has been merely a working elephant. He is now making his farewell tour through the Canadian northwest, down the Pacific coast and through the southwest. John has traveled more than 114 million miles by rail and water and it is estimated has had fully a ton of peanuts fed to him. Will he miss the show and the sawdust smell?

GRANDSON WAS BEST MAN

The best man and bridesmaid at a Newark wedding were the bride's grandson and his betrothed. The married pair were near their 80's. Helped by the fashions and customs of the day, old folks are getting younger and younger.

SHE'LL WINTER IN WASHINGTON

MISS SUDA WILLIS

Who will leave soon with other members of her family to spend the winter in Washington where she will attend George Washington university.

MEMORY SYSTEM FAILED.

Paul Montgomery attended a public dinner at Colorado Springs recently. One of the head guys took him in tow, but insisted on calling him Mr. Armstrong. "My name is not Armstrong." Paul told him for the sixth time. "My name is Montgomery. Just associate it with Montgomery, Ala. Think of Alabama, then Montgomery, then you will have it." In a few minutes his new acquaintance had a chance to introduce Paul to a late comer. He looked puzzled for a moment, then his face lighted up, and he introduced Paul as "Mr. Birmingham."

GIRLS ENJOY LIVELY OUTING AT FARM

The Shuinala Camp Fire Girls of the M. E. Church, South, camped at Cedar Park Friday night.

After a swim in the pool, lunch was served, and then, with their packs on their backs, the girls hiked to the Downing farm where blankets were spread for the night.

Stories and star study, led by the guardian, Mrs. Clyde Foster, occupied the evening. Twelve o'clock was the signal for a lengthy ghost walk.

Members enjoying the outing were Mrs. Clyde Foster, Mrs. Hanks, Mrs. V. N. Cain, Miss Elizabeth Hanks, Marjorie Foster, Juanita and Zona Bachman, Mable Gwynn, Alice Welty, Olivia Harrison, Doris Ragland, Margaret Akin, Vera and Thelma Cain, Beulah Gardner, Nell Warman, Josephine Fisk, Alice Copeland, Lorraine Russell, Glenore Fisk and Carrie Walsheek.

What Would People Do Without Ice?

Food would spoil, health would be endangered, baby's milk would be imperiled, sick people would suffer, well people would swelter. Life would be a difficult thing for a day.

Ice is such an everyday enjoyment that people seldom thing about it, what a boon it is and how easily it might be interrupted, how much money and foresight is invested in its safe and sure delivery.

Whisk the Newest Modes to Our Ready-to-Wear Section

Our buyers are now in the New York markets choosing the apparel for Fall. Each day sees the arrival of some new delicacy from the feast of fashions favored fancies.

New frocks of exceeding charm are among the early arrivals. Grecian drapes, Oriental medallions embroidered in vivid hues or woven of rich colored beads, panels that flaunt bright colored facings and flowing sleeves are among the distinctive features of the new garments.

Oh, yes, the skirt length is lowering perceptibly. Now it is to be seven to eight inches from the floor if one is to be entirely correct.

SOCIETY GOSSIP

Timely Little Talks Over the Teacups An Individual on the Inside Impresses Her Opinions on Friend People Peggy Piedmont Meets During Week

DEAR KITTY: Before so very long I'm going to tire of this slow letter writing and start broadcasting my gossip. Might as well do it frankly, for certainly no one really pretends not to want the whispers carried on and on through the air! And think of the audience! Circulating lists and shouting from the housetops are out of date. Already, since the opening of the licensed broadcasting station here, there is talk of radio dances and concerts. A big opening concert is to be given Monday night, and later in the week Miss Mattie Ellen Verschoyle is planning a radio dance at her home, ordering the music by wireless. Miss Verschoyle is honoring her guest, Miss Dorothy Hardy of Dallas. The date for the dance hasn't been set yet, but if the weather and the apparatus permit, it will be this week. The first dance of its kind in this part of the country, I think. Truly a "novelty," one about which one may really speak of "ethereal" music.

TALK about the radio this week has been including one of our most interesting summer visitors. Miss Nora Duessnen of San Antonio, who is here visiting her sister, Mrs. Bolding Coulter, has been giving a number of radio readings, or readings for the radio, or any other alliterative name you may choose, for one of the broadcasting stations in San Antonio. Miss Duessnen is a particularly clever impersonator and has been delighting friends here with a number of informal interpretations.

One of her specials is a convincing study of the ill-starred flapper who groans and gurgles and emotes and philosophizes in the most approved fashion. To use the cognomen of the species, she has a clever lane on the creatures which are alleged to be girls, but personally, I've an idea that that term, or epithet of slanderous intent, is about ready for its last little flutter. Did you ever see a flapper, Kitty? I believe she's a myth that people have been believing for about three years simply on the evidence of F. Scott Fitzgerald, short skirts and bobbed hair. Most everyone admits that young Fitzgerald included himself (inadvertently, no doubt) in the title of his latest book, "Beautiful and Damned," and I've a notion the stigma of that name is going the same way. Bah! I wonder if some young smart aleck didn't grow famous in the days of Methuselah when he termed all women under 500 years "Chickens."

THINK of a few of the younger girls of Wichita Falls and see if you can detect any flapping tendencies. There's Joe Betsy Miller, for instance, one of the most attractive of them, who is planning to spend this winter in some eastern city studying music at the rate of some six hours a day. Miss Monterey Lewis is equally in earnest. Her plans include the winter in the Cincinnati conservatory, where she will study violin music. It would be hard to limit the number of girls who are putting their work in the fine arts first. You remember Elvia Allmen who has been doing such splendid work with the community players all year? She is making efforts to arrange to study in Chicago all winter, preparing for public appearances next year.

* * *

YOU know, don't you, that the leadership of the community players this season is still pending, although hopes among the players are high for another year of progress and success. Mrs. E. L. Fulton, who was so successful in helping the players secure the first Texas charter this spring, says it will be impossible for her to continue in leadership, and is advocating the employment of a full time director. She has suggested the names of experienced and well-known directors and efforts will be made to interest them in the work here. Mrs. Fulton says she knows the town is worth the best director we can bring here and that we can easily produce the talent to support the leadership. She herself is very sorry to give up the leadership of the club she organized and has worked with so steadily, but tells me her health and other work will not leave her strength and time. She has great hopes for the work this winter, however, and thinks the organization will make great strides toward becoming the most advanced in the state.

* * *

IN the meantime, Kitty, Wichita Falls' people are using these long days, so delightfully cool this week, for the best of sports. So many of them, as I've told you, have been visiting in Medicine Park and enjoying camping trips in every spot where running water and trees can be found. They're having great fun, too, even if some of them are amateurs. I talked to one joyous young camper yesterday who told me she had a most gloriously inconvenient time camping with a party of friends along Cache creek. "Swimming in the creek was splendid, thought I'm a little more used to concrete swimming pools where the fish don't kick you. And at night I couldn't sleep, but nobody else could either, so we made a party of it. The only time I did go to sleep I woke up with a cat roosting in my hair." But she meant it when she called it fun. Imagine a camping trip without fish and cats, wild or otherwise.

* * *

BUT it doesn't take the wilds to bring adventures. Guests of Miss Louise Montgomery found fun waiting for them when they started swimming at the Golf club, only to find the pool empty of water. Reminds me of that bit of verse which was probably naughty before it got too old which advises the girl in something of this fashion: "Hang your clothes on a hickory limb, but don't go near the water." Which, of course, has nothing to do with the swimming party which turned into a picnic, where games from the blind man's buff age up to about 14 were the order. One of the party tried to tell me of the ridiculous fun they had, but got all choked up with laughter when she came to the part about Norris Ewing and his dainty gamboling. The party was in honor of Miss Maude Neff, daughter of the governor, who is visiting Miss Montgomery, and developed into the gayest of the week's entertainments, although the society editor didn't tell about the empty pool, and in spite of the fact that there have been several more formal and brilliant affairs.

The entertainment program for Miss Neff included a family jaunt into and through the oil fields Thursday, giving the popular visitor a chance to see some of the financial as well as the social attractions of Wichita Falls.

WHICH reminds me that what appeared last week to be the last of the summers' big dances turned out to be just a challenge for more of the same kind. This week the Avoleh club vied with the Comus entertainers last week for brilliant honors. They combat the hot weather by giving the dances at the lake pavilion, and have been especially ingenious in arranging lighting and decorative effects to make the occasions especially impressive. And the girls help a lot by wearing some very beautiful and elaborate evening gowns, most of them now cut on the lines of the new fall mode. Some day, soon, I'm going to describe a few of the prettiest in detail for you.

AND now I've only time for a word about a little Wichita Falls colony that has been accumulating in Denver, Colo., this summer. Half a dozen or more families are there for a part or all of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Kemp and Anderson Kemp and Dr. and Mrs. Garrison are across the hall from each other in the Hotel Mills. Mrs. Kell and Misses Sybil and Mary Joe Kell are within a block of them. Mrs. Carter McGregor and the little folks are there, as is Mrs. J. W. Stone and the Monte Staniforth family. Rev. and Mrs. N. F. Grafton have just arrived to augment the group.

Of course, it would be impossible to list all our friends in Colorado Springs and Manitou. Those places are proving dangerous for whole young hearts this summer. The last week brought two announcements concerning Wichita Falls youth. The famous Colorado weather plus an alliance with cupid will prove an irresistible magnet, I'm thinking.

And now, Kitty, for another week and the things which it shall bring forth!

SHE IS QUEEN OF DALLAS THRONE

MISS MONA MODE

The selection of Miss Mona Mode as "Tolana, Blonde Queen of the Southwestern Style Pageant" at Dallas, comes as an agreeable surprise to many of her Wichita Falls friends. Miss Mode is the sister of J. W. Mode, 1620 Fourteenth street, trainmaster of the Fort Worth & Denver railroad, and has made many friends on her numerous visits here.

Miss Mode has won an enviable reputation as a successful young actress in the east, where she has spent the greater part of the last two years. She was a member of the Floradora chorus in the recent revival of that famous show, was a member of the cast in the Passing Show of 1921 and played two years at the Century theater in New York.

AREA ADJACENT TO CITY PLANS FAIR EXHIBITS

West Texas Chamber Expert Stirs Up Interest

By HAMILTON WRIGHT

STAMFORD, Aug. 12.—Practically every county within the influence of the Texas-Oklahoma fair will be represented at the exposition with county agricultural exhibits, according to B. M. Whiteker, exhibit manager of the west Texas chamber of commerce.

Mr. Whiteker has devoted ten days of his time exclusively to touring the territory about Wichita Falls and meeting and interesting county officials, chambers of commerce and citizens, in the matter of being represented with agricultural displays.

In an interview which he gave out today, Mr. Whiteker said that he was very optimistic over the success of his trip. "In all the towns where I broached the matter of collecting exhibits for this fair, the people seemed instantly interested and promised to gather up the best of their farms to be shown at the Texas-Oklahoma fair.

"Of course the exhibits which we contemplated bringing to the fair this year cannot be as stupendous, attractive and varied as we desired, due to the unexpectedly hot weather, lack of rain and other things. The people however are going to do their very best in this matter, so that we can assure the people of Wichita Falls that these exhibits will be first-class in every respect."

A short time prior to the holding of the fair Mr. Whiteker will again make a trip over the territory that he has just covered, personally assisting in the gathering, packing and shipping of the exhibits for Wichita Falls. A few days before the fair he will be on hand to receive the various shipments, to unpack and arrange them in a splendid display. In this way he expects to give his closest co-operation to the agricultural department of the new big fair.

Mr. Whiteker is one of the best exhibit managers in the southwest. During the grand tour of the northern and eastern fairs by the west Texas chamber of commerce agricultural department two years ago, Mr. Whiteker had charge of several of the large exhibits. At the southwestern exposition at Fort Worth this spring he arranged his exhibits of west Texas so instil yand attractively as to bring the first prize to his organization. The exhibit was pronounced by fair connoisseurs as the most elaborately displayed of any ever shown.

Henry Burns of the Times Post at Nacona did not have much to say at the convention but he listened a whole lot.

Frank H. Stedman of the North Texas Adventure introduced his adventure to the members of the association Saturday morning.

Y. C. McDaniel of the Graham Paper company, who makes his headquarters in Abilene was much in evidence at the convention. He knows the whole bunch.

Edgar McLendon of the Graham Leader is a Wichita Falls booster. He is one of the newspaper men who was enthusiastic over coming back here next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Goeth took a very active interest in the press association convention. Mr. Goeth is with E. C. Palmer and company of Dallas.

Most of the newspaper men who attended the convention here expressed a strong desire to come back here during the Texas-Oklahoma fair. Many of them said they will be here without fail.

OUR WAR METHODS WON.

The big war proved that American methods of making war still are most effective, and we learned them largely from the first Americans—the Indians. The most successful foe of the German machine gun was the American doughboy and his rifle and bayonet. He stalked these machine gun nest in Indian fashion, with rifle picking off its defenders from every available angle. The American open-formation infantry attack, also adopted from the Indians, was the opposite of the German attack in mass formation against which artillery and machine gun fire were particularly deadly. The world war demonstrated that American troops had as much to teach as they had to learn.

Here is a fine description of the country taken from the Chicago Tribune: "Winding roads with trees, a crooked creek and corn fields, the smell of clover in the summer time, and a quietness that hurts—that is what the country means to me."

Jackie Coogan in "My Boy," Comedy

Preparations to accommodate capacity crowds are being made at the Gem theater for the showing of "My Boy" the Jackie Coogan First National attraction which is to feature the Gem movie bill Saturday of this week. The picture, which stands as the headliner on a long list of other fine screen attractions is rated as the best the juvenile star has ever made, and when "The Kid" and various other pictures of Jackie's are considered this is a rather broad assertion.

The story is that of a little homeless orphan boy who lands in New York with no friends and who is adopted by an old seaman. Serious and comical run-ins with immigration authorities, not to mention quite a few escapades with the ponderous dignity of the New York "laws" furnish more than the usual portion of movie humor.

DALLAS ORGANIST SHOT IN HOTEL

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Aug. 12.—H. T. Johnston, organist at a local theater, was shot and wounded seriously in a local hotel today. Johnston is said to have come to Dallas from Minneapolis about three months ago. W. E. Hamilton and C. T. Harp surrendered to the district attorney and were charged with assault. Their bonds were fixed at $5,000. Hamilton's home was said to be Waxahachie.

The trouble is alleged to have been over an accusation that Johnston was instrumental in causing Harp's daughter to leave her home.

STRAND BILLS IRENE CASTLE

Popular Dancer in Big Picture

Mrs. Irene Castle, famous dancing star, appears on the screen for the second time in more than two years in "No Trespassing," the feature attraction at the Strand theater the first three days of this week.

In this latest production, which is a Hodkinson release directed by Edwin L. Hollywood, Mrs. Castle is given ample opportunity to make use of her remarkable athletic powers. She dances, rides, swims and goes through many athletic stunts with all the grace and poise that have made her famous both on the cinema sheet and before the footlights. Incidentally, she wears a number of stunning gowns that are said to be veritable "knock outs."

Joseph C. Lincoln wrote the story, which is a modern version of modern events with the action taking place in New York City and in a picturesque little village near Cape Cod.

MOVIE STUFF

"East is West," Constance Talmadge's latest starring vehicle for First National release has been completed at the United studios. The work of cutting and editing this spectacular oriental love story will start immediately under Sidney Franklin's direction.

Hilda Lee and Boyd La Dero, dancers of international reputation, will be seen in a fiery interpretation of the Argentine tango in "The Dangerous Age," the all-star production which John M. Stahl is making at the Louis B. Mayer studio for First National release.

Lewis Stone, one of the all-star cast assembled by John M. Stahl for his production of "The Dangerous Age" for First National release cannot complain of a lull in the picture profession. Stone has appeared in four great features thus far this year —"The Prisoner of Zenda," "A Fool There Was," and the "Black Orchid" in addition to "The Dangerous Age."

The next Mack Sennett antic in which Ben Turpin will let loose his wayward eyes will be "The Shriek," a parody on the well known hot-sands romance. Kathryn McGuire will support Ben in the absence of Phyllis Haver, loaned to Goldwyn for "The Christian."

Art studio. The last of the interiors were cemeraed last week.

Rodolph Valentino is usually photo-graphed in scenes smoking a cigarette —that is, when he is smoking. This is because he finds relaxation in a short, quick smoke during the nervous tension of acting, but his real solace is a pipe. He has a collection of briars and even mixes his own smoking tobacco, and likes to spend his evening smoking and reading. He recently completed work in his first starring picture for Paramount, "Blood and Sand," directed by Fred Niblo and based on the famous novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez.

When screen patrons see Penrhyn Stanlaws' Paramount production, "Pink Gods," with Bebe Daniels, James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson and Raymond Hatton, they will be afforded a glimpse of one of the most famous diamond-cutting factories in Amsterdam, Holland. It is the Van Dam plant which is visited annually by thousands of American tourists.

An orgy of the court of King James I of England is a feature of George Fitzmaurice's Paramount picture, "To Have and to Hold," adapted by Quida Bergere from the Mary Johnston novel. Betty Compson and Bert Lytell play the featured roles, with Raymond Hatton, Theodore Kosloff and others members of the Paramount stock company in striking parts.

THOMAS BACKS UP MAYFIELD

Tells of Fighting Ferguson

Cullen F. Thomas today gave out his first public expression of preference in the senatorial run-off, in a formal statement to the press, as follows:

"In making choice between the present candidates for the senate I have sought to strip myself of all except the most worthy motives.

"I do not undertake, amid so many charges and counter-charges, to appraise the personal merits or demerits of the candidates.

"I cannot take to the woods, and thus shirk the duty and responsibility of citizenship.

The Klan Question

"I decline to permit the klan issue alone to determine my choice. No man in Texas has suffered more politically from the wounds it wrongly gave, but I must not take counsel of personal resentment now, when the question is wholly outside the scope of senatorial duties. If, as many contend, the klan be but a passing phase in our political life, all will be well; if it becomes, as others predict, a serious peril to our country, then the battles of the future can settle the question when the issue is more clearly joined.

"I simply ask myself what will be the attitude of the next senator from Texas on great vital questions. I am thinking of three.

Prohibition Enforcement

"First, during my own campaign, I sounded everywhere the warning against sinister forces that seek to emasculate the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution. This is not an imaginary issue; it is a practical issue. The question is not local; it is nation-wide.

"If Mr. Mayfield is senator he is pledged without further instructions to strengthen and not weaken the Volstead law. In the absence of further instructions from the people of Texas, Mr. Ferguson would vote to destroy that law.

Federal Reserve System

"Second, during the campaign, I criticized severely the mismanagement of our federal reserve banking system; but applauded the original act as one of the outstanding constructive accomplishments of our government during the present generation.

"It is true that I arraigned the federal reserve board for its unsympathetic and autocratic policy; for its stupendous blunder in the precipitate contraction of the country's credits; for its responsibility in part for the toboggan slump in the prices of farm products, entailing the loss of billions of dollars to the farmers of America.

"If Mayfield goes to the senate he is pledged to right abuses and preserve the system. Ferguson is pledged, because of abuses, to destroy the system.

League of Nations

"Third, I believe with all my being that America, on some sort of terms, should enter the league of nations. In more than 250 speeches I declared this to be the paramount issue before America and the world. I denounced this country's failure to join the league as the political crime of the century. I made earnest appeal to the people in many ways to rise above petty issues and prejudices to a realization of world conditions. Over and over, I advanced the opinion that in the league of nations was the supreme hope of the stabilization of world business and the preservation of world peace.

"When once more the fight is renewer in the senate of the United States who will vote for Texas, when on that one vote may rest the course of this republic? Mr. Mayfield has declared that he is for the league of nations; Mr. Ferguson has declared himself against the league of nations

Lake Champlain in Majestic Feature

Historic Lake Champlain, scene of one of the earliest naval battles in America's history is the background for some of the stirring scenes in S. E. Taylor's production, "The Mohican's Daughter" which comes as the feature attraction at the Majestic theater Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The play is based on the Jack London story of the same name and is said to be one of the best photodramas ever made of the popular writer's works.

Monday the Majestic offers a First National, "Ais's Button," and Friday and Saturday bring Charlie Chaplin in "Sunnyside" and Eileen Sedgwick in "Arrest Norma McGregor."

REO PUTS OUT PHAETON MODEL

Fritz Enthusiastic Over New Car

"The little conveniences and big comforts essential to motoring, along with safeguards for emergencies, are designed into—not merely added to—the 5-passenger Phaeton, a new model which has just been added to the Reo line," says Mr. Fritz of the Fritz Motor company.

Photographs and a complete description of the new Reo Phaeton have just been received. Deep cushions, generously upholstered in curled hair and genuine Marshall springs, provide unsurpassed ease. The top is of new design, with gray interior trimming and finished with special nickel molding and leather inserts.

Clear-vision curtains, Reo designed and made, pack flat in a special compartment behind the removable back cushion of the rear seat, without danger of bending or breaking the lights. A slip cover is furnished.

Splendid Upholstering Job

The coverings, in high grade gray Spanish leather, are splendid examples of fine custom upholstering. The leather, heavy and substantially trimmed, is exceedingly durable and retains its color and finish indefinitely. High grade carpet is fitted to both drivers' and passengers' compartments. Three-bar full nickel bumpers, front and rear, are features of the new model.

A Reoco moto-meter, full nickel plated, keeps watch on the temperature of the motor. The radiator cap is of new design, made of German silver with ball handles. The headlights, also new in design, have non-glare lenses and are equipped with nickel rail. Small parking lights complete the battery. There is also a combination parking light and combination stop and tail light on the rear.

Aluminum is used generously in the trimmings of the new model. Seven polished aluminum guard bars protect the rear seat back panel. Aluminum moulding fitted at the back of the hood where it joins the cowl prevents scratching of the body due to careless handling of the cover at filling stations. Step plates and kick plates of heavy solid aluminum save the running boards from wear and enhance the appearance of the car.

Disc Wheels Standard

Disc wheels, with tires inflating from the outside, four Royal Cord 32-4 tires and an extra rim are standard equipment.

The windshield, a new Reo design with integral sidewings and nickel plated frame is good looking and insures better vision and greater protection against rain or snow. It supplies, besides, a perpendicular support for the front door curtains, making them more air tight and eliminating bulging of the curtains when the doors are opened. The Windshield cleaner is of solid brass, nickel finished. A cowl ventilator that cannot get out of order directs ample draft toward the floor-boards of the front compartment.

In the back of the front seat are two roomy curtained spaces for wraps and packages; and between these two compartments is a disappearing vanity case well furnished. Near them is a tonneau light with concealed wire long enough to permit its use as an extension lamp in and around the car. An aluminum covered foot rail, nickel trimmed, is fitted in the passengers' compartment.

An electric lighter of fine quality for cigars is handily placed on the instrument board, also an 8-day key less clock.

KILLED BY HIS IMAGINATION

The cable tells a curious story of a man in London who tried to hang himself with his handkerchief fastened to a bed post. The man wasn't hanged, but believed he was being hanged and died, the doctors say of "auto-suggestion." What hanged him was the strength of his imagination. We are just beginning to learn that "thoughts are things."

Auto Row Heeds Vacation Call; Many Taking Automobile Trips

"I Hear You Calling Me," seems to be the favorite hymn along motor row these days. Managers, sales managers, service managers and salesmen are hying themselves away to the mountains, the seashore, the woods and bathing beaches. Vacation time is here in full swing.

Among those no sojourneying are L. L. Dixon, who writes from Milwaukee, that he and Mrs. Dixon are departing by boat for Grand Rapids, and will be back in a few weeks driving a new Buick sport roadster, coming via Los Angeles and the Yellowstone national park. Clarence Dodge is enjoying the mountainous beauties of Colorado with Mrs. Dodge. Frank Keim is taking the salt sea cure at Corpus Christi, while Al Booth of the Cleveland Motors Co., is off on a two weeks fishing and camping trip among the lakes of Wisconsin. Claude Hall too, the genial manager of Lloyd Weaver Co., is another member of the vacation gang. Mr. Hall accompanied by Mrs. Hall, Miss Pauline and Miss Felts of Fort Worth, left last week for Colnor, New Mexico, where they will visit on the Ferguson ranch, latter going on to Colorado. Mr. Hall, of course, is driving an Essex.

BIG SALES CUT AUTO PRICES

Volume of Business Lowers Cost

"A most amazing reversal of generally accepted economics explains the recent mid-summer reductions of automobile pirces," says Fred C. Chandler, president of the Chandler Motor car company.

"Generally speaking, what has come to be known as a buying strike on part of the public is usually responsible for bringing down prices.

"This was the explanation of the great deflation movement between midsummer of 1920 and the beginning of 1922.

"The public declined to pay the prevailing high prices and withdrew from the market. Then prices came down.

"Exactly the opposite explains the present new low level of automobile prices. This reduction was brought about through big buying. The public has bought in such quantities that unexpected economies were made possible. As a result, we have the present new range.

Didn't Expect Cut

"No manufacturer foresaw such a development at the beginning of 1922, when new prices were set.

"All of them went as low as seemed possible, based on the volume of business in sight. Among manufacturers there as a general opinion that these prices would stand for the whole year.

"Then came a rush of business based first on the necessity of the automobile in relation to the every day life of the typical American family, and second, on improving business which brought into the market many buyers who had been waiting two years. This changed the whole situation and warranted new prices.

"The genius of the American automobile industry has been in the ability to reduce prices through quantity production. Manufacturers have not hesitated to cut their profit to get volume, and thus to share with the public the benefits of expanding business.

"The Chandler company is reducing its price last January felt that it had gone as low as it could, considering the greatly increased merit of the product, both mechanically and in point of beauty. Like other manufacturers, the Chandler company enjoyed a profitable half year, and is, therefore, able to go still deeper in its price, while at the same time constantly enhancing the quality of the product.

"Since lower price is made possible only by quantity production, and since no one expects the last half of any year to match, in volume, the first half, it seems reasonable to believe that the low basis of automobile prices has finally been attained.

"The Chandler car in its entire history has only once been priced as low as at present, and the car of that date fell far short of the present models."

OAKLAND SALES TAKE BIG LEAPS

Arthur Huff Pleased With Market

"Oakland sales have been exceptionally good for the past two weeks" says Arthur Huff, manager of the Arthur Huff Motor Co., local Oakland and Jordan dealers. "With the new price reductions announced August first, Oakland sales have taken a leap that is more than gratifying to us. Always a good car at a low price, the Oakland today ranks as one of the best motor values in the six cylinder field for the money and the public has been quick to recognige it. A six cylinder motor car, fully equipped, with a written guarantee for 15,000 miles, is our offer at a low price of $995 delivered at the factory. You can't blame them for buying Oaklands, can you?"

Among the sales reported by Huff Motor Co., for the past month are: Oakland touring cars to Mrs. R. F. Green of Electra. A. F. Pengree of Dallas, W. B. Stromquist, Wichita Falls, J. L. Howard, Wichita Falls, a coupe, J. D. Posey, touring car, Petrolia, and to Dr. J. Graves of Electra, a Jordan 5-passenger. A number of used car sales are also reported.

BLOW-OUTS

Bill Lampe, Wills Sainte Clair dealer, spent most of last week in Dallas, visiting the home offices of the Southwest Motor Co., of which the local firm is a branch. Bill reports seevral good sales since his opening here.

Dad Proctor, of the Overland Motor company, is another new citizen of Wichita Falls. Mrs. Proctor joined Dad a few days ago and they have taken a home for the winter.

Frank Keim the genial manager of the Keim Motor Co., is enjoying the salt sea breezes at Cornus Christi ti. Mr. Keim and family had intended returning several days ago, but Sales Manager Daugherty wired him to stay as long as he felt like it as the local agency was selling every Studebaker they could get hold of and the boys here were hitting on all six.

Among the sales made by the Lloyd Weaver company last week were, Hudson speedster to W. H. Rowe, also a speedster to P. C. Stovall of Graham, and an Essex coach to J. T. Borris. Several used cars weer also sold.

C. C. Randle of Randle Auto supply, reports an excellent week for Goodyear Tire sales. "We were going strong before the reduction," said C. C., "and with a new low price on the entire line it looks like big business from here on out."

E. C. Hoffman of the Lloyd Weaver service department, has returned from a several thousand mile jaunt to the west. While gone, Mr. Hoffman visited in Cheyenne, Wyoming, attending the round-up there. He also stopped in Denver and Kansas City. Te reports the Essex he was driving gave top-notch service and carried him through in fine shape over some of the worse roads in the country.

O. O. Somers of the Somers Spring company, was a Dallas visitor Friday and Saturday.

"400" was the batting average of the Dixie Tire service last week. Pat Jarratt, Paul Putty and B. G. Sharpe were hitting the high spots and busting all past records for tire and gasoline sales. Pat reports one of the best weeks they have had for several months.

C. D. Shamburger, of the Shamburger Lumber Co., purchased the first new Lincoln sedan to be received by the Motor Supply Co., local Lincoln dealers. Capt. W. S. Langford delivered the car Friday.

L. O. Brown of the Victory Motor Co., accompanied by his family, leave this morning for a ten-day trip to Galveston.

With everybody denying responsibility for the railroad strike, we imagine that we must blame it all on the flapper.

Arrested for Speeding, Maxwell Salesman Sells Cop His Speedster

Here is salesmanship raised to the Nth degree, though some will call it luck, and others sheer nerve. S. Bemrod, local Maxwell dealer, vouches for the authenticity of the story.

Out in Aberdeen, Wash., Carl Bunch, employed there as a Maxwell salesman—and none can douhht his right to the title—recently unloaded the first Maxwell roadster delivered in Aberdeen. Steep hills and well paved roads in the vicinity invited a trial spin that Mr. Bunch couldn't resist. While tearing along at a speed that isn't sanctioned by any law of the land, a motorcycle bearing a duly sworn representative of the law came from the rear to give persistent chase.

The Cop Wins, But—

Perhaps some imp of the highway had perched itself on the steering wheel of the Maxwell and was urging the driver for even greater speed; or perhaps Mr. Bunch figured the worst had already happened and no further harm could be done. At any rate, a merry race ensued and continued for some miles with the motorcycle finally victorious.

Mr. Bunch forced to concede, halted. Right here Blind Justice slipped her blindfold. She saw the car; and the scales fell from her hand at the precise moment that Mr. Officer forgot court-rooms and judges and warrants.

Mr. Bunch and Mr. Officer conversed, but not about speed. Both of them knew all about speed. They took a spin in the roadster.

Thirty minutes later the representative of the law had purchased the car he had raced from the man he had meant to arrest. That's salesmanship, though some will call it nerve or sheer luck.

MOTOR TRUCKS GROW POPULAR

White Company Has 51,811 in Use

An idea of the big growth of motor truck transportation the last decade is gleaned from statistics recently compiled by the White company. This company, which is one of the pioneers in the motor truck industry, has been manufacturing gasoline trucks for about thirteen years, but it is only in the last six or seven years that production and use of the motor truck has reached large proportions.

The first of the year, 506 owners operating 18,527 White trucks in fleets of ten or more. This same list of owners twelve years ago were operating the insignificant number of 60 trucks. The great majority, of course, did not use motor trucks in 1910. A few operated one or two. There is just one outstanding exception and that is W. & J. Sloane, the well known New York furniture and carpet merchant. This establishment in 1910 was operating 13 Whites. Today this pioneer fleet has grown to 31.

Gulf Heads List

The owner of the largest individual fleet on the White list is the Gulf Refining company with 1177 trucks, representing an investment of more than $8,000,000. The Gulf Refining company did not operate trucks in 1916, but purchased one the following year. In 1914 the company had 81 trucks in service and since then has added from 100 to 200 trucks to their fleet each year.

A few of the other large fleet owners are the Associated Bell Telephone companies with 806; the Standard Oil company of New York, 649; Union Oil company of California 534; and the United States post office department, 665.

In addition to the users who operate fleets of ten or more there are 3,411 owners operating fleets of less than ten, totaling 33,284 trucks, making a grand total of fleet owners of 5,917 and the number of trucks they operate 51,811. There is a host of owners who do not operate fleets.

Another interesting angle of the White company's tabulation is that 15 owners have invested more than $20,000,000 in Whites. The total value of all Whites on the road is well in excess of $180,000,000.

It is impossible for anyone to tell the absolute truth, says Andre Tridon, famous student of the mind. The difficulty is that no two people see the same thing in exactly the same light. Each gets a certain impression. The rest of the details are vague or escape him completely. If 1,000 persons were to describe an accident they all had seen, we should have 1,000 different accounts of it. But this is no reason why you should not be as truthful as you can.

"Sporty Evening" Proves Real Party At Burk Hut

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 12.—The members of the B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church enjoyed a unique social, Tuesday evening, August 8th at the church hut.

The entertainment was known as "Sporty Evening" and the program of amusement was rendered in keeping with the name.

The fun started with a game called "Slander Sports." All guests whose birthdays were in the same month, pulled a stunt and all the other guests were to guess what they were doing.

The second game was a "Relay Race." Two sides were chosen; large crackers were given to each, and at the given signal, the first in line in each team, began eating his cracker. The next in line could not start on the cracker treat until the one ahead had finished his cracker and whistled.

The company then witnessed a very exciting race known as the "Hundred Yard Dash." Every one was numbered, the even numbers forming one team, the uneven ones the other. The course of each team was marked by chalk lines the length of room and a yard apart running parallel. The test was to run down the line and back looking through the large end of a pair of opera glasses. If the player stepped off the line, he had to forfeit his time and begin again.

One of the most exciting features of the evening was the "Yacht Race." The race started at Piano Point, the course lay past Table Isle, through the Narrow Channel at Arm Chair Bend and into Hearth Rug Bay at the end of the room. It was a thrilling race, even to the awarding of a loving cup. This thrilling race was nothing more than a tub wash tub for a yacht and a broom handle to paddle the racer across the floor who stood in the pan with both feet!

Dr. Robinson, the pastor was called forward to examine four girls for the "Girls' Marathon." This was a mockery examination of lung power the contestant being required to run a line of lighted candles blind-folded blow them out and return to place. The first one to return was the winner and received a toy watch.

"Shot Put" was the next game. Pitching peanuts in a glass at a given distance. The winner, Dallas French received a blue ribbon bearing the letters: W. C. S. P. (world's champion shot put.)

The International Bawl (ball) game concluded the merry session. This burlesque fun-maker was presented as follows: Each guest was given a gum-drop wrapped in a paper on which was written the name of some foreign country, and then told to sing a song in the language of the country mentioned. It as an "International Bawl" all right.

The drawing of boxes on an advertisement basis concluded the sporty evening program. Each box proved to contain sandwiches, and other good eats, which were served with iced tea.

AUTO DEMAND WILL CONTINUE

Overland Manager Optimistic

"Every indication points to a continuance of the present heavy demand for cars," according to A. C. Barber, general sales manager of the Willys-Overland company, who has just returned from an extended business trip through the New England and North Atlantic states.

"Every model of cars that Willys-Overland is building is in demand, but the popularity of the Overland sedan is particularly impressive. Every dealer I called on had orders for this model and was enthusiastic over the prospects of selling many more.

"There is a real feeling of optimism among all our dealers. Crops in every section I visited seemed to be in excellent condition and are bringing a good price. Our dealers in the rural communities told me that the farmer was again a big factor in their local market.

"I am convinced that there will be no slackening off in demand for our cars, particularly if the present industrial unrest is smoothed out as we are all hopeful that it will be. The present rush of orders will be maintained at almost an even level for some time to come. A settlement of the strike situation and the return of the farmer will make this an assured fact."

SMITH WINS CUP

ELECTRA, Aug. 12.—Brandon Smith, local sales manager for the Magnolia Petroleum company, won the loving cup presented by the company to the manager whose business showed the greatest percentage of gain over the previous quarter. The business increase of the Electra business exceeded all other stations in the lower panhandle district which includes the cities of Fort Worth, San Angelo and Childress and intermediate points.

2,500 Foot Extension Most Important Development Here

3 EXTENSIONS DURING WEEK

1900 and 1500 Foot Pools Widened

South Electra this week offered as its most important developments a 2,500 foot extension northward from the original producers in block 31, of the newer southwest pool, an eastward extension of the 1900 foot sand in the south end of the original pool, and another extension in the new 1500 foot pool opened on the John and Jeff Waggoner ranch, several miles south of the main pool.

The Harvey-Cullum No. 9 Rio Bravo, in the extreme north corner of the company's south 80 acre lease, as brought in from the sand at 1940, a 250 barrel ell, giving a nice extension, almost a half mile to the north from the other producers.

The second extension, in the main pool, is efefcted by the Cline Oil company's No. 2 Waggoner, Gibson survey, which is now drilling in, in the sand at 1902 feet. The well was expected to make a nice producer, estimated running around 150 to 200 barrels.

Stanley McGregor's No. 1 John and Jeff Waggoner is the third interesting extension completion of the week, his well, east of the other producers, and separated from them by a test which showed up dry in the 1500 foot sand, was put on the pump this week, and is reported a 75 barrel pumper.

The third completion of the Fitzgerald Syndicate, Bailey and others, on the John and Jeff Waggoner ranch is anticipated for the first of the coming week, the test getting the sand last week, and cementing casing. Activity here is of course hampered on account of the general conditions, but there are still several tests drilling, al lof them offsets. The John and Jeff Oil company and T. F. Hunter are due for completions here in a short time. Hunter also has a test the well which failed to get the 1500 foot sand, going down to the 1900 foot sand.

Completions in Extreme South End of South Electra Pool

The extreme south end of the main south Electra pool had several completions this past week. One of them the Planet Petroleum company No. 6 Waggoner A, in the 1500 foot sand, helps form a link between the 1600 foot producers of the Cline Oil company and the Shamrock Oil corporation, on the south, and the main pool where the Planet recently opened up the 1500 foot sand, with a 600 barrel producer. This 1500 foot sand is new for this older pool and the nice flush production of the wells makes it of considerable interest, with regard to future possibilities. The 1500 foot sand had been encountered in tests from time to time, according to reports from well logs, but the 1600 and 1800 foot sands were at that time engaging the attention of the operators. Then the 1900 foot sand sensation started all drills toward the deeper level. However, the Planet discovery well, in the heart of the pool, and the Cline well in this depth, some distance to the south, were such nice completions as to make it appear to be worth while for a test to be given this sand.

The Shamrock No. 7 which is the 1500 foot well, of this company, had an initial production of 185 barreles daily. It is west from the Cline No. I Waggoner and is a recent completion.

The Shamrock Oil corporation has three wells yet to be completed on its Waggoner lease, Gibson survey. The No. 5 and No. 6 are on the 1900 foot sand, casing cemented and will be completed within a short time. The No. 8, which will be another 1500 foot well, is now drilling around 1100 feet.

The extensions in sections 27 and 34 anticipated last week, failed to materialize, and all of the tests being watched are still on the waiting list, and drilling deeper.

The Panhandle refinery's No. 1 Waggoner, in section 27, and the McCallister, Brown and Grisham No. 2 in section 34, are both drilling around the 1900 foot sand level, according to reports from the field and the Hockaday and Shaw No. 1 Waggoner, in section 34, another point of interest last week, is drilling deeper, failing to pick up the 1500 foot sand.

In section 13 the Humble Oil and Refining company is bailing its No. 1 in the 1900 foot sand, but not succeeding in getting oil ,it is reported, although the sand showed oil. The shallow test here has been abandoned.

In section 31 Harvey and Cullum will be finishing up their last well, for the immediate future, within the next week or so. This well, the No. 10, is in the southeast corner of the section, and will be a 1900 foot well.

In the northwest quarter of the section, offsetting the No. 6 of Harvey-Cullum, brought in a couple of weeks ago, the Rio Bravo Oil company's No. 1 is completing, in the 100 foot sand, and expected to make a nice producer. The No. 2 is drilling around 1500 feet.

On the west side of this same section John O'Neil's No. 2 Rio Bravo, which has been held up for weeks at a depth around 1400 feet wtih a fishing job, is reported making progress to the 1900 foot sand level.

The Texas company in it's Waggoner operations will keep the south Electra field from being entirely shut down, eight rigs now being under steam in various parts of the field, with other offset locations to be drilled yet.

CARTER COUNTY AGAIN ACTIVE

New Completions in Bayou District

ARDMORE, Aug. 12.—The Bayou district southeast of the Hewitt field is furnishing the greatest activity in Carter county oil circles. Among the latest completions is the Humble Oil and Refining company's No. 4 Gill, southeast of southeast quarter of 26-4s-2w, which extended the proven area one-fourth of a mile to the northwest and which is flowing 200 barrels from the sand topped at 2,-773 feet with the drill still in it at 2,825 feet.

Another good Bayou producer is the Hudson-Gillam-Colne No. 1, Harts, southwest of southwest quarter of 25-4s-2w, which is making 350-400 barrels from sand topped at 2,-825 feet. The drill passed through seven feet of sand, then through a seven-foot break of shale, and again into the solid pay at 2,839 feet which it has penetrtaed three feet with the drill still in it.

The Gypsy Oil company has entered the Bayou area and is now building the rig for its No. 1 Tubbi, northwest of northeast quarter of 35-4s-2w, diagonal southwest offset to the Humble-Gill No. 6, which is flowing 500 barrels from the pay topped at 2,878 feet and penetrated to 2,900 feet.

Coline-Gillam-Miller No. 7, Westheimer A, northeast of northeast quarter of 35-4s-2w, is flowing 160 barrels from the sand at 2,812-57 feet with the drill still in it. Latest well to spud in this district is the Coline-Gillam-Miller No. 11 Westheimer A, northeast of northeast quarter of 35-4s-2w, south offset to Humble Gill No. 6.

Gas pressure in the Haskell et al No. 1 Clark, southeast of northwest quarter of 35-4s-2w, deepest producing well in southern Oklahoma, is reported as increasing. The operators are now cleaning out a bridge which resulted following an hour's flow during which 125 barrels of oil were put into the tanks from a series of sands below 3,610 feet, the deepest of which was topped at 2,805 feet with the drill still in it at 3,828 feet.

ARKANSAS OPERATORS TO REDUCE DRILLING

Besides the fact that there is not a reasonable profit in El Dorado, Ark., oil at present prices, operation expense and decreased production considered, operators of the Arkansas territory believe that their salvation lies in decreasing the output of crude according to R. E. Armstrong, general manager of the Boggs Oil corporation, who returned recently from El Dorado district. Drilling, Armstrong says, has been reduced to a minimum and the district is very quiet. Crude of 34 gravity sells for $1.50 and less than 34 at $1.25.

"The low gravity of the oil in the new field a few miles east of El Dorado makes it unattractive," says Armstrong, "and development is slow in that territory. I am advised that the oil has a gravity of 19 to 20, and has a limited ale for fuel purposes. No pipe line has been laid into the field. A similar grade of oil, possibly a little better, I am advised, has been found south of Camden."

ONE COMPLETION IN ARCHER CO.

Blair No. 1 Shows 20 Barrels

Archer county furnished only one completion in the Texhoma 1000 foot sand, and two in the new shallow pool just north of Holliday, during the past week.

The M. B. Blair No. 1 Morrison, in the new north Holliday pool is a 20 barrel producer at 670 feet, and the Carl Parker No. 6 Morrison, same sand, is a 15 barrel well.

Two nice new wells are reported for the south Burkburnett shallow pool, the Columbia Petroleum company's No. 10 Dodson being a 100 barrel well, from the 1,000 foot sand, and the No. 13 Dodson of the Magnolia Petroleum company a 100 barrel well, from the sand at 900 feet.

Police Search for Bombing Squad

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Aug. 11.—Agents of the department of justice were added today to the forces of police, deputy sheriffs and deputy United States marshals seeking to learn the identity of the persons who hurled 23 bonds on the Santa Fe railroad property early today. Sheriff Shay announced that the bombs were exploded by chemical action after they had been thrown over the north fence.

According to a telegram from R. E. Bright, in charge of Sheriff Shay's force at Needles, the temperature there was 120 degrees today and there is suffering among 250 passengers who are marooned by the big four strike.

Planet and Hobbs To See Completions

There has been nothing new reported from the new scene of activity east of Electra, on the Jennings and Douglas and the Beaver Electra refinery, this past week, various events slowing up drilling. Several tests are reported due for completion in a short time.

No defnite news was had from the various Sunshine Hill section tests this past week, though tests on the Ward and Todd are reported nearing an interesting depth.

After applying for their patent the two mechanics went to work and made several of the spark plugs. They tried them out on various kinds of automobiles. They found that in every case they worked unusually well. The air valve served as a self cleaner. It gave more mileage on gasoline. It had points they had never dreamed of before.

Company Formed

To put the air valve spark plug on the market was the next thing. Messrs. Williams and Kerr interested S. Walker in the matter. A company was organized and arrangements made for manufacturing the plug. Mr. Walker was made president of the company and it was called the Self Cleaning Spark Plug company, which is now in operation in this city and selling the self-cleaning W-K plugs, as they are known, faster than they can be manufactured.

Parts of the spark plugs are made in various cities. The porcelain comes from one place, the metal wire from another, the brass from another and the steel from another. The parts are assembled here and when the company gets in full swing of operation something like 50 men will be used here in President Walker.

A Question With Two Sides

It is self evident that a public service company is composed of two important elements that must work together, the public and the service.

The Lone Star Gas Company has a particular service to sell in maintaining a supply of natural gas for your use every minute. This service demands a large outlay of capital, much enterprise and the application of foresight.

Whenever one person in a community desires gas, thousands of others want it at the same time.

Taxed to Its Utmost

For a few days every winter, every consumer calls for all he can get. At this time the Lone Star Company's facilities must furnish four or five times the ordinary supply. Often this great demand comes on very short notice.

This peak load calls for an enormous plant for use only a few days each winter. It is sometimes taxed to its utmost for only a few hours.

The consumers should know this, because upon their careful use of gas at such time depends the comfort of thousands. When every consumer wants an abnormal supply, some are likely to run short.

Prepare for It Now

Therefore, we call upon our partners in this enterprise—the public—to prepare now for this winter's load, by the installation of gas saving appliances, by correcting wasteful methods and by rightful use—not neces sarily deprivation—of the world's best fuel.

We try at all times to give the best service possible. The public—you—alone can utilize that service to the greatest advantage to everybody.

"SAVE IT WITH ICE"

How to Gain Real Economy

Many housewives grant the fact that food can only be kept properly in refrigerators—but they fail to keep the foods properly by taking less ice than they need. You can not obtain proper refrigeration by keeping the ice box half full of ice. If the refrigerator gets warm, it takes more ice to chill it than it does to keep it cold. You cannot economize on ice by skimping.

Women of Vernon Clean Up Town and Open Playground Parks

TOWN TAKES ON CIVIC GROWTH

Women Consolidate And Do Things

By ERIC C. SCHROEDER

VERNON, Texas, Aug. 12.—Three years ago last spring, in March, 1919, to be exact, there was given birth in Vernon a movement which, in its manifestations thus far, offers every evidence of embodying far reaching consequences of a civic nature. It entailed the banding together of five local women's clubs for the purpose, simply but pithily explained by a present member as being "to do what we could to help the town."

There was much pioneer work to accomplish. The ages long tradition that "woman's place is in the home" required refutation of the most valient degree. There were municipal needs to sort over in order that a selection might be made best adapted to the working capacity of the new organization. Above all was the pressing need to perfect an organization that would not succumb to the first task on hand and which might be counted upon to withstand the caustic comments of a skeptical public which, with true womanly intuition, the members felt must make an early showing.

They Begin to Clean Up

Mrs. W. H. Huggins, prominently known in Vernon for her untiring efforts in behalf of civic improvement, was chosen the first president and the organization turned enthusiastically to the disposition of the first burden it had assumed—ridding the city of a rank growth of weeds. A survey was made of the town, the movement given wide publicity through local papers, and townspeople were urged to contribute funds to enable the work to get under way. Parkings and vacant lots were stripped of their unsightly vegetation through the efforts of workmen hired by the new federation, and in the event that owners of these properties refused to remit of cost of mowing, the expense was borne by the women.

So was launched the first concerted effort by club women in Vernon to enhance the attractiveness of their town. It is true that years before members of the Home Science club planted trees up and down the main thoroughfares of Vernon, but the work was that of an individual organization and lacked the community aspect embodied in the 1919 project.

Seven clubs now comprise the Wilb.."ger county federation. They are the Home Science club, Women's Christian Temperance union, Delphian club, Musicians club, Home Economics club, Women's club and Parent-Teachers' association.

Successful co-operation with city officials has been one of the most important phases of the club union. A Civic league, organized by the federation last year inaugurated a clean-up campaign which has since and will in the future be followed as an annual affair. Through its medium the town is divided into districts with members of the federation assigned as supervisors in each.

Trash Hauled Free

For a period of ten days all trash in the city, regardless of the affiliation of its owners with any organization, is hauled free by the federation and city co-operatively, and throughout the remainder of the year trash belinging to members of the Civic league is disposed of regularly at a very nominal stipend. The pride of a woman in the appearance of her home, the immaculate aspirations of the tidy housewife have been extended by women of Vernon until they embrace the entire community.

A sincere effort is being made by the local federation to secure the co-operation of rural women's clubs. At times there has been a whole hearted reciprocation from the organizations in the outlying districts, and during community week, observed during the past July, an exceptionally creditable program was presented by the rural clubs under the auspices of the federation. Cooking schools, club girls' encampments, butter making contests, and girls' clothing contests have in turn been fostered and encouraged by the club union in a vigorous manner.

In 1922 the eternal motherhood found its expression through the determination of club women to provide Vernon with an adequate playground. There were no funds on hand and no prospects for gaining them, but the members refused to be dismayed. Negotiations were entered into regarding the purchase of a considerable tract of land for a consideration well above $3,000, and then the women devoted themselves to the problem of raising sufficient money to meet the first payment.

Community, or home town week, was hit upon as the most acceptable method of providing the required funds, and details of the occasion began to be carefully worked out. Mrs. Arthur Vernon had then assumed the leadership of the federation, and personally directed the east in one of the most successful programs rendered during the week.

Nature smiled upon this novel effort to rejuvenate and engender community spirit, and the week of July 10 to 16 offered nothing but fair weather. In Allingham park, an open air theater was constructed and the programs to be presented given wide publicity. Each evening of the week witnessed a stirring address on community spirit and a performance rendered by the respective clubs forming the federation, and each evening regularly found the seating capacity taxed to the limit.

Home talent was used exclusively and performed with such merit that the decision was unanimously rendered to duplicate the event in the years yet to come. Nearly $700 was cleared by the federation, and the first payment on its debt met with a comfortable surplus on hand.

Future plans of the organization are wrapped up in the development of Allingham park, both as a community center and as a place of recreation for the city's children. Trees will be planted this fall, and there is a possibility that a concrete stage, large enough to accommodate productions of considerable size, will be forthcoming in the near future.

The altruistic spirit which prompted the inception of the federation has never left it. It has rather developed and expanded with the years, touching at first only those nearest to it, and gradually extending its influence to even the remotest corners of the community.

BURKBURNETT PERSONALS

In honor to Mrs. Bill Johnson of the Humble lease community her sister, Mrs. W. H. Jernigan, entertained with a "Good Luck Breakfast party" the guests arriving at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The members of the K. K. club met in business session Tuesday night at the home of Miss Weltha McClain, East Main street. Several matters of interest were discussed during the hour, touching on social plans for the early fall.

Arrangements were made for a swimming party next Tuesday, the members and their guests to meet at the home of Miss Ercy Cannon, East Second street, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

A delicious treat of brick cream, cake and punch as served as the concluding favor of the pleasant occasion in which the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Turnbow and Mrs. Grimmin.

The personnel of the gathering was as follows, all of the names being registered in a pretty hand-painted guest book: Mesdames Ed Turnbow, Monna Detter, Leota Taylor, C. A. Williams, W. C. Doyle, W. B. Burgess, Susie B. Reed, N. C. Shaffer, H. V. Sivert, R. M. Jay, Harry Ten Brink, Pearl Jernigan, G. A. Griffin, W. H. Jernigan, E. J. Brady, Misses Lela I. Brady and Opal Edwards.

Mrs. H. H. Holman and little son, Jack, left Thursday for Paris, Texas, where she will visit Mr. Holman's mother, who will return with them for a stay in Burkburnett later in the month.

Mrs. Sam Warren and to little sons, Sam Jr., and Joe, will accompany Mr. Warren's mother on her return to Tennessee this week.

F. U. McCutchen has returned from Weatherford, Texas, where he visited his family and other relatives in that city.

Floyd Covington left Thursday for Excelsior Springs, Mo., to visit his wife who has been in that city some time, and has recently undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. D. R. Holcomb, accompanied as far as Wichita Falls by Mrs. Arthur Abbot, left for Vernon Tuesday to visit her parents, and will probably join the latter in their trip to Colorado.

Mrs. M. A. Abbott and children were visitors in Wichita Falls Tuesday, the guests of her mother, Mrs. Jack Price.

The many friends of Miss Henrickle, of the Chiridren Aid society, will regret to learn that she is very ill in Fort Worth, suffering with appendoicitis, according to communications from the superintendent, Mr. Stockwell of institution.

George Hudson, a popular member of the First National Bank force, has resigned his position and will enter into business with his brother in Goldswaithe, Texas, about the first of September.

Cork Captured; Dublin Buildings Fired by Rebels

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Exchange Telegraph has received a telephone message from Dublin saying that irregular troops attacked the postoffice there, overpowered the guard and are now holding the building.

Flexible Tariff Plan Approved

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—A flexible tariff plan proposing authority for the president to increase or decrease tariff rates in the pending bill until July 1, 1924, was approved tonight by the senate.

The vote was 36 to 20 with three republicans and two democrats supporting.

With the flexible tariff fight out of the way, the senate approved provisions dealing with unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of merchandise into the United States. It then began consideration of the so-called scientific tariff amendments proposed by Senators Frelinghuysen, republican, New Jersey, and Jones, democrat, New Mexico.

Indicted for Lynching

By Associated Press.

MACON, Ga., Aug. 11.—A special Bibb county grand jury late today returned indictments against five persons in connection with the lynching of John Glover, a negro, August 1. There were nine true bills, for charging rioting and one each for carrying concealed weapons, rioting and unlawfully assembling.

Late News of Electra

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 12.—With a request that the money be used on the cemetery fence a letter was received from the local ku klux klan by the Electra News this morning bearing the sum of $100 to be turned over to the American legion. The message was written on official stationery of the invisible empire and bears the seal of that order.

The local organization of ex-service men recently financed and supervised the erection of an iron fence around the cemetery but have not placed an appropriate gate at the entrance. It was for this purpose that the donation should be used, the knights of the veiled order requested.

"The cemetery of our city has been badly in need of a respectful fence for some time. We note a good fence has been recently erected by the American legion, although the main entrance gate has not been erected as yet.

"We presume this is on account of lack of funds; therefore we are enclosing herewith $100 in currency, with the request that you turn this money over to the American legion that they may be able to carry on the good work in bettering Electra in this manner.

"We believe in taking care of the city of the dead, as well as the city of the living, and are glad to note that the American legion has the same spirit.

"Thanking you in advance for attending to this matter, we are,

ELECTRA, Aug. 12.—Two incipient fires were extinguished by the local fire department yesterday afternoon. One on North Waggoner street, the Electra Daily Produce company was caused by some one turning up an oil stove too high. A trash box in the office of the Texas company on Cleveland avenue, was ignited when a lighted match was thrown among the trash. Little damage resulted from either fire.

Science Explains How "Miss Injured Innocence" Fooled the Court

"She Really Believes the Stories She Tells," Declares a Psychologist After Analyzing Germaine La Pointe, and Although She's a Confessed Liar, Thief and Adventuress, "She's Not Really Bad," but a Victim of "Undeveloped Association Fibres."

Diagram Showing the Interlacing of the Association Fibres in a Normal State. Dr. Burr Says That Germaine La Pointe's Are Undeveloped, a Condition Accounting for Bad Memory and Inability to Profit by Experience. This Drawing Was Made from an Illustration in "James's Psychology."

WHEN Germaine La Pointe, a young Frenchwoman, completely hoodwinked a New York City magistrate recently with a yarn about turning thief to save her honor, the cynics smiled and nodded and said that it was just what gullible human nature deserved.

But the cynics may be jolted now that a scientist comes forward with the amazing statement that "she isn't really bad." Thief and liar as the court records show she is, the cold and calculating psychological investigation of an authoritative alienist finds that her falsehoods "are merely a series of poses that she assumes unconsciously" and that "she follows the suggestion of the moment" when she steals.

The fact that she did thoroughly fool a police magistrate attracted the attention of Dr. Emily Burr, Consulting Psychologist of Bellevue Hospital, New York City. Aware of the keen wit of the average city magistrate, who has thousands of cases arraigned before him each year with their limitless opportunities for the study of human nature, it was enough for a scientist to marvel at that a magistrate had been so hoaxed.

"It was a case of steal or take to the street," said the girl, tearfully. "I was brought to this city by a man in Chicago. I knew he was married, but he agreed to get a divorce and marry me and I believed him. Then he deserted me and left me no money and I had to steal to get money for food or go on the streets."

Tall and stately, with beautiful dark eyes and delicate features, the girl made an appealing figure. A half-dozen lawyers volunteered to defend her, the court beamed on her, the newspaper reporters interviewed her, and someone sent her a fine dinner, steaming hot, served on a tray. And the world in a few hours read with interest the story of the girl who stole rather than lose her honor.

But when the case was called for examination the next morning in the Gates Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, Mrs. Anna Jarvice, telephone operator of the Bronx, N. Y., stepped forward.

"Your Honor," she said to Magistrate Dale, "this woman is an imposter. She is a divorcee. She was the wife of Peter Magnussen, an insurance agent of Chicago. He divorced her and got the custody of her children, Eileen and Lorraine. She came to this city friendless and I took her in. She robbed me of my husband in return. Edward Jarvice, my husband, is the man whom she has been trying to paint as preying on innocent womanhood."

"Yes," answered Miss La Pointe. "It is true. I don't know why I did it."

A Psycho-Analysis of Germaine La Pointe

THE secret of the success with which Germaine La Pointe put over her pose of injured innocence with Magistrate Dale in Brooklyn, in spite of his many years of judicial experience in dealing with clever imposters, was really her sincere belief in the part she was playing.

Germaine La Pointe is of a neurotic disposition and is emotionally unstable; of this type she is an exceptionally consistent example. She is very suggestible; i. e., she acts without any deliberation upon anything whatever which is suggested to her by persons or environment. She is actually chameleon in the way she reflects her surroundings. Her analytical ability is poor and all abstract thinking is quite beyond her.

This girl isn't really bad; she is essentially a good girl without much sense. She isn't stable in her affections, for all her emotions are superficial. In a good environment with proper supervision Germaine would be all right. Very affectionate, friendly, unsuspicious and desirous of pleasing all, she can't be judged by too severe standards, for in order to win approval, she will do anything anybody wants her to do.

These characteristics are the ones which a "vamp" uses so successfully, and therefore this girl unconsciously "vamped" these judges. However, it was no thought-out campaign, for she is quite incapable of considering a chain of consequences which would follow a certain line of action.

I arrived at my conclusions through the Terman test and confirmed those findings by the Healy Performance Tests. It would have been impossible for her to dissemble during the tests.

Under the Terman test, she rates below the mental age of a person of 11 years. To be sure, many adults who are earning their living rate no higher on this scale, but Germaine's capacity for forming judgments, her extreme suggestibility and her lack of sufficient mentality to reason and foresee consequences keep her from following the right track. A normal child of 11 knows that it will be punished for wrong-doing, but this girl only follows the suggestion of the moment. She is utterly irresponsible from an intellectual standpoint.

Had the prisoner been a more crafty person when she was asked why she stole the woman's jewels, instead of answering, "I don't know," she would have given as her excuse her anxiety to see her lover, the great love which urged her to return to her two children, her remorse and desire to see her mother again.

The first reason which she gave, that she stole rather than become immoral, was made up on the spur of the moment in response to the judge's kindly attitude. She could not back it up by a continued performance.

Speak of her lover and she will tell you: "I love Mr. Jarvice more than any human being in the world."

Bring up the subject of her two children: "I love them more than anything in the world. If I could only feel their curly heads once again against my cheek, the little darlings!"

Discuss her mother: "No one has ever filled my mother's place in my heart. I love her more than anyone else in the world."

The girl is simply following the suggestions made to her. She wishes to please and say the proper thing. As a matter of fact, while her voice may ring emotionally with any of these statements, and would easily deceive anyone who heard them separately, they mean nothing. She never attempted in any way to affect a meeting with any of these beloved ones.

These are simply a series of poses which she assumes unconsciously. They do not lap in any way. In one she sees her dear mother whom she loves devotedly—yet she ran away from home at the age of 16 and has not seen her mother since, she says; the second regards her darling little children—she deserted them because their father would not permit her to dress them in silk socks, but bought the five-and-ten store variety instead—the third, her lover whom she loves more than anything in the world—this has proven a mere surface attachment.

After the scene in court when Mrs. Jarvice accused her, she changed abruptly from the innocent, sweet-faced, young girl, into a vindictive, threatening woman. Later, when this attitude was criticised, she remodelled her role and affirmed that she felt no resentment against Mrs. Jarvice, and was sorry for her and would do anything any time she could befriend her.

Germaine has been accused of continually telling untruths. This is also unconscious. She does not think before she speaks. Everything is on the surface and all depth of feeling is lacking.

She has been called extravagant and her expenditures would justify this remark, but her so-called extravagance is due to the fact that she has only a limited number concept. In reacting to tests for a nine-year-old child, she is unable to make change and her sense of values is quite below normal.

In appearance Germaine La Pointe is all right in every way. She is a sweet, appealing little thing, refined and extremely neat about her person. Like all persons of her type she uses words glibly, her linguistic powers are good, though her occasional grammatical errors show that she has not very much education.

When she says she did not think when she took the jewelry and other things, it is quite possible that she is speaking the truth. This is just the sort of thing people of her type would do. They make snap judgments and never think of the consequence. It was not callousness that made her rob the women who had befriended her, it was an action on the spur of the moment.

It is a pathetic case. There is a definite link missing in her powers of action and judgment which nothing can replace. Because of this she does not reason clearly, and her continuous lying shows she has a poor retentive memory, and she does not draw deductions from previous experiences. With kindly, good, sympathetic people, she will be a sweet, obedient young woman; treated harshly, she will exhibit the contrary spirit. She is of a type that can be ruled by kindness alone.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge in a new pose.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the vice president, will be missed from the social functions in Washington for a while because she has left with her husband for Boston, where they will spend some days before going to California. After attending the convention of the American Bar association on the west coast they will go to Vancouver and return by way of the Canadian rockies.

HOME FROM RUSSIA

Col. William Haskell, head of the American relief administration in the American relief administration in Russia, has returned to this country with his family. He spent the last year in Russia directing the alleviation of the destitute people. Conditions have so improved that he is able to return to the country for a conference with Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

By NORMAN C. McLOUD

A THOUSAND foot mattress, woven of good-sized trees, is a thing that appeals to the imagination, but mattresses of this size play an important part in Uncle Sam's work of flood prevention in the valley of the Mississippi River.

During the spring and summer months of each year the newspapers devote much space to news of the Mississippi floods. The current season is no exception. Vast areas of low lying lands adjacent to the river bed have been submerged by the overflow, and enormous loss of property has been involved.

Going on a rampage is an established habit with the Mississippi River. This great stream seems to be totally unable to stand prosperity in the matter of water supply. The spring and summer rains, with their heavy contribution to the volume of stream flow, serve no other purpose so surely as to tempt the Father of Waters to stray into forbidden territory. All the labor and ingenuity of man have so far been powerless to apply adequate curb and to keep the great river within the bounds of safety. In spite of all the efforts of the Federal and local governments, destructive floods continue to take their annual heavy toll in the country lying alongside a large part of the river's long stretch of channel.

The trouble with the Mississippi is that throughout much of its course the river is higher than the surrounding territory. To control its course and to give it a channel as nearly permanent as possible, the Government has constructed and maintains great artificial embankments, known as levees. The purpose of these is to confine the stream within a protective channel. As long as the levees hold together, they are effective, but not always do they demonstrate that they are proof against the ravages of the great volume of water which fills the channel in times of flood. With unfailing certainty the increased water flow seems able to find the weak spot in the embankment, and when this happens the damage is immediately under way. The small leak may quickly become a large one, and a large one may rapidly assume the proportions of a vast opening—or crevasse—through which the waters rush with savage force into the lowlands of the surrounding region.

An idea of the construction of the levees is given in the accompanying pictures, reproduced from photographs made by the United States Army engineers in connection with their construction projects.

The Conquering Flood

Casual inspection would cause the layman to think that it would be a mighty flood indeed which would break through the solid embankments of earth and stone. On the other hand it must be remembered that water is an element of tireless persistence and that it has a way of forcing itself drop by drop through obstacles which might seem proof against its efforts. Every school child is taught that the steady dripping of water will wear through solid granite. Since this truth is recognized, it is obvious that an earth embankment stands little show when water finds the slightest opening through which to work its way. The seeping streamlets steadily disintegrates the earth and soon or later forces an outlet for itself which may easily develop into an opening of such size as to result in the outpouring of a mighty stream.

Use Of The Giant Mattresses

Permanent construction to guard against breaks of this kind is one of the chief functions of the organization maintained by the Engineer Corps of the United States Army in connection with the prevention of floods. It is in this work that the giant mattresses find their use. Engineers in charge of protective undertakings have found from experience that the use of great willow mattresses is one of the most powerful and effective methods yet devised for the prevention of breaks in the embankments. These mattresses are woven from young trees of long, slender growth and flexibility. It has been found that because of their strength, slenderness and the ease with which they may be bent, the young willows afford the material best adapted to the weaving process by which the mattresses are constructed and to the use of these mattresses in protective work. Some idea of the size and length of the trees utilized is given in the picture showing two loads of them ready for use. It is fascinating to watch the process as these trees are woven into giant mattresses resembling rafts. The pliable willows are woven together into a continuous structure, held by wire strands of galvanized steel. The size of each mattress is regulated by the requirements of the place for which it is intended. One of the pictures shows a mattress 250 feet in width, during the process of weaving. As pictured this is 500 feet in length. In its completed state it will reach a length of one thousand feet.

In bank protection these mattresses are applied like giant porus plasters. The placing of the mattress is accomplished by sinking it into contact with the sloping bank and river bottom. The sinking is achieved by loading it with riprap stone. Placed on the top of the mattress the stone serves not only to submerge the woven structure, but also to hold it firmly in place after sinking, and establish it in permanent position. In addition, the weight of the stone forces the flexible mattress to conform to the slope and to fit snugly into any irregularities in the river bank or bottom. The use of these protective structures prevents undermining of an embankment and makes a permanent protection against washouts.

The Mattresses Do Not Decay

To the layman it might appear that the mattresses are temporary devices and that decay would make short work of them. Experience, however, has convinced army engineers that they are to be regarded as having as much endurance as may be found in any of the works of man. Strange as it may seem, they tell us that decay is a factor that does not have to be taken into consideration. The rotting of water soaked timbers is caused by exposure to the air, and since the mattress is for the most part submerged it has been found not to be subject to decay. In giving evidence on this point before a Senate Committee, an army engineer told of wood unearthed in excavating, which was shown to have been below the water line for more than 600 years, and was yet in a perfect state of preservation.

The use of concrete has been also found effective in protecting embankments against erosion and leakage. The coating of concrete lasts indefinitely and offers an impenetrable surface to water seeking an outlet.

One of the methods of emergency repair is the use of bags of earth in filling a threatened break in an embankment. One of the pictures shows such bags being placed in position to build up a sinking levee in Louisiana. The emergency was created by a cave-in, which bid fair to develop into a crevasse of such size as to let the river through and imperil the entire surrounding neighborhood. By the use of the bags the trouble was stopped in short order, and a serious flood prevented. The process required the use of several thousand bags, but they served their purpose, and nobody begrudged their number nor the amount of work involved

STARS as a rule give animal assignments wide berth. The ordinary director will not attempt the work. The average "extra" will not show up on the lot when the lions are to be let loose. The producer has a real job on his hands when he attempts to "cast" such a picture.

"Why?" you ask.

Says Mme. Olga Celeste, the world's greatest woman animal trainer, "People think that the wild animals they see in pictures are tame. They believe we remove their teeth and claws to make them harmless. Nothing is further from the truth. Look!" She rolled up her sleeve and revealed a half dozen ugly scars on her arm. "Those are the marks of my pets!" she laughingly confessed. "My leopards and my lions."

Col. Wm. N. Selig was the first man to feature jungle beasts in a photoplay. His famous zoo in Los Angeles houses no less than seven hundred animals from all quarters of the globe. This motion picture pioneer has produced several successful jungle films and at the time the writer interviewed him was just completing a fifteen episode serial, "The Jungle Goddess," in which over four hundred of his animals were being used. He is perhaps the most experienced wild animal man in this country.

A Race For Life

Arrangements were being made at the time to shoot a scene. There was a hurry and bustle of preparations and then the sounds died away to an ominous silence.

The director glanced about nervously.

"Get ready now," he warned. "If any of them get past that second rock let them have it!"

"It" meant nothing more or less than six steel-jacketed bullets for the time peacefully reposing in a like number of winchesters carefully trained about a little circle of rock not far ahead. Six crack marksmen caught their breaths as they awaited the magic word that would virtually loose pandemonium about the place. Hidden behind the rocks were some more men with clubs in their hands and pistols in their holsters.

The shrubbery parted. A devilishly pretty girl jumped into the scene—a jungle girl, scantily clad in leopard skins and sandals. Her bare arms and legs were tan with the blush of the sun. A wreath of wild flowers encircled her neck. She threw up her arms and turned in our direction. Her eyes widened in terror. A panic seemed to seize her. She turned as if to run away.

"Let 'er go!" boomed the director's voice. The men with the guns became tense. Great roars reverberated in the arena and then three giant, tawny bodies split the air. Elinor Field hesitated but the fraction of a second as she faced the monster lions.

"Hurry!" came the warning shout from Colonel Selig. Sheer will-power made the girl turn. Then she raced for her life toward the jungle shrubbery in the distance. A race for life it was in truth. The three jungle beasts literally hurled themselves through the air to catch the girl before she could reach the safety cage hidden in the foliage. Its gate was only three-quarters closed when the first lion crashed against it.

Elinor Field had as her co-star in this picture Truman Van Dyke, a good looking, red headed Irishman. He was quite "new" in pictures and was willing to go to any risk to establish a reputation for himself. As to Miss Field she is a dare-devil by nature. Automobile racing and airplaning are but two of her hobbies. Going into an arena with the "wild ones" only offers her another opportunity to display her steel nerve.

Another Lion Act

One scene, a mere fifteen feet of film, that flashes off the screen in a few seconds is the result of a full week's work by the entire company. Elinor Field is cast in the role of a little girl who is kidnapped and thrown into the basket of a balloon which, freed, drifts through the night until it is brought to earth in the jungles of Africa by a flaming arrow shot by a native chieftain. The girl is taken for a divinity sent from heaven and grows up as a jungle goddess. A jealous high priest plots against her and has her sacrificed to the lions. She is placed in the lap of a monster stone idol. As a score of ravenous lions are loosed upon her the right hand of the idol opens and the fingers close about the girl. She is lifted into the air and held there.

The scenario called for the climax of the episode at this point. A lion was to leap for her and be caught by the left hand of the idol. Here was a very perilous scene to get. Double exposure was impossible. There could be no tricking of it. It just HAD to be real. The staff worked for hour after hour and day after day before a lion was finally induced to jump just the proper way. When the beast finally did the right thing it made an angry reach for the intrepid film player who was barely two feet away from its jaws.

Wrestling An Alligator

Truman Van Dyke plays the part of the Hero Dean, who is sent to the jungles to rescue the Goddess and bring her back to civilization. The chase takes him across Africa to India, then to China. When he reaches India with the girl a Rajah captures the pair and in order to keep the girl himself decides to do away with her champion. Van Dyke is bound to a tree at the edge of an alligator swamp.

One of the alligators creeps from the water and begins to circle around the helpless man. Every now and then its great jaws open as it regards the defenseless creature it is about to eat. Van Dyke, by a superhuman effort breaks his bonds and makes a leap for the reptile.

Now it so happens that there is a way in which a man may safely wrestle with an alligator. There are about two men in this country who have dared to try it. It is a very dangerous stunt for the man who knows his opponent. Think of a film star trying it! There is a particular hold which one must get on the alligators jaw and it must be just so. There is only one way in which one must tackle the beast if a death dealing swing of the ponderous tail is to be avoided. The alligator man explained it all to Van Dyke. Then he gave a demonstration. Then the cameras started grinding. It was up to Van Dyke to show his nerve. He did! The result is the most daring fight scene ever screened.

Danger Ever Present

Take Mme. Olga for instance. During the filming of an episode one of her leopards turned suddenly upon her. A trainer instinctively feels impending danger. She leaped to one side as the brute hurled himself at her, fangs bared in an angry snarl. As the beast flew by Mme. Celeste's club came down with a resounding crack across its nose. ("That's discipline," she explains. "One must never retreat from an animal.)

"Mary" And "Anna May"

Wild animals are not the only ones that make good screen actors. Take "Mary" for instance. Mary is an almost human chimpanzee. She is called upon to do more stunts in this serial than any animal was ever expected to do before. She is the constant companion of Lady Betty and Dean in all their adventures. She rescues her from a boat going over the falls; she turns loose a hundred wild animals aboard a transport, she frightens a little pickaninny and then pets it and comforts it until the tears stop flowing.

Then there's Anna May. Anna May is a great elephant with a disposition like an angel. As Mme Olga would say "When she's good she's very very good—but when she's bad—heaven help anyone near her." She has appeared in many pictures and takes a prominent part in "The Jungle Goddess." In one episode she pulls a lion down from a rock and then stamps the life out of a "dummy" lion to finish the job for the screen. Anna May is an ultra modern young lady. She goes the Greenwich Village Vamp one better. She chews tobacco! But she hates cigarettes, possibly because someone offered her one with the wrong end front, once upon a time.

The wild animal director is always an optimist! If a tiger should happen to break loose and jump on him he'd probably yell with his dying breath to the cameramen

"GET THIS—NOW FADE OUT—AND PUT IT IN THE NEXT EPISODE!"

FORGET HIS FAULT

ARE people more selfish than they once were?

A well known resident of Wichita Falls in conversation with a boyhood friend recently remarked: "Times have changed so much since we were growing up. Those good old days when neighbors were neighbors and people loved their neighbors and sought to do deeds of kindness and mingled together in friendly sociability seem to be gone. Here, we live for years next door to people, we know them, we have nothing against them and they evidently have the same sentiment toward us, but we just leave each other alone. There is no common bond between us, no old time neighborly feeling and each leads his own life and lives unto himself. I have seen the same thing in so many other cases that I have almost come to the conclusion that all of us are living our lives entirely too selfishly."

Whether or not the deductions of the Wichita man are correct as regards neighbors, it certainly does seem that people today as a whole, live to themselves entirely too much. It is impossible to live to one's self and live the life the Creator intended that we should live. Our neighbors are our brethren and we should be keenly interested in them and in their welfare. It is the commandment to "Love they neighbor as thy self."

There is nothing that can save the world from a state of chaos but love and faith in Jesus Christ. If a person does not love his neighbor and his fellow man then there is no love in his heart. Our neighbors may have faults. But so have we. Forget their faults and remember they have souls and that their souls are just as much in the sight of God as our own.

BUNK FOR THE BLACK BROTHER

A VERY interesting bill is the Dyer anti-lynching act. It defines a mob and Congressman Dyer has written it into the bill, that three men may constitute a mob and set the written law aside.

That is, a lynching party made up of three is a mob and comes within the vengeance of the bill as it is written. This reminds the writer that two men may seize a negro or a white man, as the case may be, hang him to the nearest limb or shoot him full of holes and the death of the victim may not be attributed to mob violence. If three rush an unfortunate into the treetops or shoot him full of holes, it is mob vengeance and the county wherein the mob performed must be penalized to the extent of thousands of dollars.

This is the bill which has received the endorsement for approval of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts and Senator Samuel Shortridge of California. These noble statesmen and congressional leaders of the republican party have declared the Dyer bill to be constitutional and they are making the most of it in all republican or doubtful states where the negro voters hold the balance of power. It is not to be enacted at this session of congress. It is fine campaign material. It has been fed to the negro voters wherever there is a negro voting constituency. It is fine bunk for the brother in black. He eats it up.

Gorged with it, he will vote the republican ticket. But the brother in black is not the only voter who swallows bunk. Bunk is fed to all voters, white and black and red and yellow. All the candidates are feeding bunk to the voters. Some of the candidates are going to make them rich by placing a tax on all foreign importations, some of the candidates are going to make them rich by forcing the railways to give very low passenger and freight rates and then to pay railway employes the highest wage schedules that it is possible to extort from the rail executives.

Others are going to make the people rich by starting the government printing presses and making paper money as free as the air. Others are going to make them rich by saving their souls here instead of over there. Prosperity is to be made by law. Peace is to be decreed by law. Wages are to be made higher by law. All the necessities and necessaries of life are to be made cheaper by law. And there are some few economic doctors who insist that work should be abolished by law and all the people made wealthy and wise and happy by government enactment or decree. What fools these mortals be!

CONSUMERS TO PAY

THEODORE H. PRICE has broken the news gently to the readers of his syndicated newsletter that consumers are to pay coal strike costs and there promises to be a long drawn fight with exorbitant prices for coal this winter. Theodore H. predicts that the rail road executives and the shop men will soon get together but he says the coal strike is different. This economist or publicist, as he calls himself, is to be congratulated. He has made a discovery that all the people knew the day the coal strike began.

Consumers always pay coal strike costs. They always pay exorbitant prices the winter after the strike has been settled. Two months ago a member of the national coal operators' association, in an interview carried exclusively by this paper, gave it out boldly that it was a showdown between the mine owners and the miners; that the strike would not be settled before November 1, that there would be a cut in wages before it was settled and that there would be no interference on the part of the federal government.

There are six hundred thousand strikers. They are not demanding a six-hour work day. They are demanding six hours work every work-day in the year. There are too many mines and too many miners. If all the mines and all the miners were worked continuously, there would be a vast surplus of coal above the ground and the price of coal would hit the bottom. This is a fact well known by all people who read and think. There are too many miners and too many mines. The miners have a slogan: All for one and one for all. They demand a national agreement that will cover all the districts. On the other hand the operators are opposed to signing a national agreement and insist that each district shall adopt its own wage scale and arrange its own working conditions.

Unless all the signs are misleading the rail strike will be settled in the near future but the mine owners and their coal diggers will growl along until freezing time comes in the homes of consumers of coal. Then it will be up to the consumers to pay the price or freeze.

PAY UP TO SAVE

AN ordinance has been introduced in the city council of Wichita Falls cutting the tax rate 11 cents on the $100 valuation and the total valuation of the city, which is given at $33,000,000, remains the same.

The taxpayers certainly have something to be thankful for when a city in debt can decrease the tax rate. It is said that if the delinquent taxes would all be paid then the city would not be in debt. In this case it would appear that all that is necessary for citizens to enjoy the full effect of the 11-cent reduction is for those who owe to pay the delinquent taxes.

It is a matter of certainty that a government cannot be run without money, so unless the delinquent taxes are paid it stands to reason that the tax rate must be increased again next year. No decrease is justifiable when the administrative efficiency is sacrificed to make the decrease.

DAMNING THE TARIFF BILL

CONGRESS keeps dragging along. It is leaderless and the country appears to be leaderless. Semi-official Washington says the tariff bill is to be presented to the president this month and that he will sign it without looking at it.

Official Washington says the bonus bill is likely to be out over until the next session, when the republican senate will lose interest in it and it will die a very slow death. There are many influential American newspapers, republican or independent, in their editorial utterances, dawning the tariff bill now pending and predicting that its passage and workings will send the republican to a dishonored grave in the fall of 1924.

One of the most critical of these newspapers is the New York Herald, and the New York Herald gave thick and thin support to Harding and Coolidge and their platform in 1920. Now the Herald is more caustic in its criticism of republican leadership and legislation than Senator Pat Harrison or any of the lesser lights on the democratic side of the house.

A PESSIMISTIC VIEW

THEODORE H. PRICE is going to make a trip from New York to the Pacific coast. He goes by the northern route and will return through Texas and the south. This is an excerpt from a Price letter:

"Some cynics are meantime asserting that the coal operators are not averse to a continuance of the strike until frost because they will then be able to claim that they had to yield to the men or let the people freeze and so justify the prices to which coal is already mounting in some localities." Governor Harding invited the governors of all coal producing states to notify the mine owners to reopen their mines on a certain date and proceed to dig coal. And the governors notified the mine owners and in many states national guardsmen were assembled to protect the miners who were willing to dig coal. Now what happened? Not a union coal digger materialized and mighty few non-union coal diggers appeared at the mouth of the mine and announced willingness to dig without delay. There was no break in the ranks of the strikers. Soldiers had nothing to do but walk about a bit. Mine owners and their clerks are not diggers. They are not built that way. This is a funny old world as it keeps jogging along.

POOR OLD JONES

WALTER B. BROWN is the editor of the New York Commercial. He is telling his readers and the American people that debt cancellation would be good business all around, speaking of course, of the concellation of all war loans. If debt cancellation would be a good thing for nations, they why not for individuals? Foreign nations owe the United States government eleven billions. If these war loans are cancelled, the American people, the American wealth makers and tax payers must pay the eleven billions. Poor old Jones.

THE RAILWAY EGG

ALL the shippers are clamoring for a low freight rate. All the railway employes are clamoring for a living wage. All the political demagogues are promising the shippers a low rate and on the side they are promising the railway employes a living wage and American standards of living. This reminds the writer that there are 14 million motor vehicles in the United States.

There are 12 million pleasure cars and two million trucks. This reminds the writer that the national government is aiding the state governments in paying the cost of constructing national highways from ocean to ocean and from Canada to Mexico. These national highways parallel the east and west lines and the north and south lines. In the good old days tourists traveled by rail. Now they motor across the continent. In the good old days commercial travelers patronized the passenger coach. Now they make use of a Ford car to visit all points in their territory. In the good old days, there were short hauls of freight for the railway companies. Now the motor trucks are the short haulers from city to city and village to village. There are thousands of Texans in California and Colorado and other far away states this summer. They did not buy railway tickets or pullman reservations. They made the trips in their own cars.

National highways makes motoring a pleasure. State highways reduce the revenues of the railways. This has been going on for 10 years and every year there are more motor cars carrying passengers and more motor trucks carrying freight. Uncle Sam is the king of road builders. Every dollar the people of a state are willing to invest in a highway, Uncle Sam matches with another. States are expending hundreds of millions of dollars annually on modern highways and the United States government is in behind the states with large appropriations every year. And the good roads movement is in its infancy That's all. Now how are the political demagogues going to force the rail executives to give the shippers very low freight rates and after doing this how are they going to force the rail executives to pay railway employes a living wage in order that their dependents may live up to American standards?

William G. McAdoo, when he tendered his resignation as director general of American railways, advised the congress to maintain government supervision or control for a period of five years. He bluntly told the congress that the railway egg could not be unscrambled in less time than five years. Congress disregarded the advice of McAdoo and the Esch-Cummins law was enacted. If the political demagogues have their way in this country, some day the railways will be taken over by the government. There must be sufficient revenues to pay for the operation of the railways and to pay their owners a dividend. Regardless of the politician and regardless of the other wild men, running at large the world over, the people need the railways and they can not get along without them. There are two million railway employes. They are entitled to a living wage.

There is a small army of people who own the railways. They are entitled to a fair dividend on the capital invested. Just now the people need servants in legislative halls, state and national, who will attempt to solve some of the acute problems which came out of the war. Wild men have never been known to solve a problem of any sort and neither have selfish men who are vote seekers and not constructive builders of laws or movements which lift a people or a country out of the ditch. There are 14 million motor cars this year, passenger or freight carriers. Ten years hence there may be 28 million, all reducing the freight and passenger revenues of the American railways. Now what are the American people going to do about it?

THE CASE OF BULLINGTON

"In the campaign to elect a successor to Hon. Lucian W. Parrish in the thirteenth congressional district of Texas, Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls ran as an independent, refusing to make the race either as a democrat or as a republican. At the time his friends refused to admit that the Hon. Orville had quit the democratic party, but his affiliations last Saturday in his home town marked him as a republican of the first water. He not only went into the republican convention but the convention passed a resolution of thanks for Mr. Bullington's self-sacrifice last May in making the race for congress. Mr. Bullington, in a speech before the convention, stated that he was almost ashamed to admit that he had ever been a democrat. We hope that Mr. Bullington's identity will never be questioned again. We only hope that all people of the state will be fair enough to stand pat as democrats or as republicans and not pass as one and act as the other. We admire the man who will stand for his honest convictions, whether or not his convictions and ours make perfect agreement."

Everybody's Being Bobbed

What Was Once a Mere Fad Has Become an Established American Institution Along With Ice Cream Soda, Baseball and Flivvers---Why Barber Shops for Women Are Now Busiest of All.

The Bobbed-Haired Brunhilde in the Centre of the Group Below Is Ethelda Leibtrey, Swimming Champion, Who Long Ago Committed Herself to Short Hair and Snap. She Is Being Taught How to Make up by Mary Anderson, the Movie Beauty Shown at Right.

Women Barbers Are Almost as Frequent as Men Because the Number of Women Who Need Tonsorial Attention Now Runs Into the Millions. The Photograph Shows Two Girls Getting Their Weekly Trimming.

BOBBED HAIR is no longer the exclusive hall mark of the flapper; bobbed hair is no longer a craze. It is now established as a national institution along with baseball, ice cream soda and the flivver.

Propagandists still call for the return of the flowing locks of yesterday's languorous era. Scalp specialists with an axe to grind predict that bobbed-haired women will verge into baldheaded women. But despite these alarums a good 70 per cent. of American girls are definitely committed to the ear-length ringlet.

Perhaps no better illustration of the new condition could be offered than that furnished by the action of the union barbers of the Bronx, New York City, who went on strike because girls who wanted their hair bobbed—and also those who wanted their short locks trimmed—insist on going to the barber shop after their own business hours and after the barber's closing time. The master barbers naturally wished to accommodate their new patrons and the journeymen simply wouldn't stand for it, so they went on strike. The matter has not been permanently settled yet.

Bobbed hair ceased to be a mere craze when the first girl who had hers cut because the others were doing it, decided in her second summer to continue it. There were several reasons why these pioneers decided to stick to bobbed hair.

In the first place they thought of the immense bother that the restored long hair would be. Then again they thought of that intermediate period when their hair would have lost its crisp and curling shortness, but would still not be long enough to put up properly. It also occurred to them that the bob had given them a certain piquancy they had never had before and might never have again. So they decided to stick to it a while longer. And the longer they stuck the less reason there appeared to be for ever going back. All the forces of inertia have been on the side of bobbed hair. For as untold millions soon found out, it was much simpler to cut hair than grow it back again.

The surest indication of the permanency of the bobbed hair vogue is furnished by the barbers. A while back the air was filled with lamentations of desperate razor wielders. What with the prevalence of the accursed safety razor and the high cost of lather, etc., etc., their business, they said, was going to the dogs. The only way to prevent the barber shop from being wiped off the face of the earth was to raise the price of a haircut to a dollar. Meetings were held and statements issued.

Then of a sudden the lamentations ceased and there was no more talk about the dollar haircut. The reason was not far to seek, though many male persons haven't found it yet. The increased number of women who had decided to bob their hair and keep it bobbed so swelled the receipts of hotel and department store barber shops that additional chairs had to be installed to take care of the girls. This finally led to the establishment of regular shops for women and no department store in any of the large American cities is now complete without a "Ladies' Tonsorial Hall."

In New York and Chicago, shops that were established for women are now the largest barber shops in the world. On Saturdays around noon these shops need only to be seen for one to understand why the barbers have quit their lamentations and why those who know declare that bobbed hair has come to stay.

Scene in a Barber Shop

A typical New York shop occupies a whole floor and in each of the chairs, extending in double rows down the length of the room, sits a feminine customer. And as fast as one is discharged another replaces her.

Girls who have their hair trimmed every week usually go to their favorite shops immediately upon reaching the shopping district and draw checks from the head barber. The number of each check indicates how soon its possessor may have a chair. She can then use the intervening time in shopping.

Further evidence that bobbed hair is come to stay is furnished by any business office. A count of any establishment employing women workers will reveal that a good half of them have permanently adopted bobbed hair. In fact, the business girl, along with the athletic girl, has found that the short cut is an asset.

She doesn't have to take up as much of her time in preparation for the day's work, she doesn't have to make as many excursions to the dressing rooms in order to keep ship-shape during the day, and she can attack her job with abandon and still know that her hair is not going to betray her into dowdiness.

The athletic girl decided a long time ago that she couldn't afford to have her hair coming loose while she was in the midst of a championship swim or a tennis match. The short hair was as necessary to her feeling of fitness for her job as overalls to an engine driver.

Bobbed hair—as might be expected—carries its penalties. Women have to have shapely necks in order to wear evening clothes and bobbed hair too, and there are limitations to the amount of ornamentation that can be carried in the coiffure.

A number of the younger women, both American and English, who were presented recently at the Court of King George and Queen Mary found their bobbed hair somewhat of an embarrassment at first because they could think of no way to fasten the three feathers, required on that occasion, into their hair. The difficulty was finally met by Bond street hairdressers who contrived bandeaux to hold the decorations.

And now that bobbed hair is a recognized part of the American scene, considerable interest has been aroused by the discussion as to what American woman first bobbed her hair. Several have been mentioned, but the majority of opinions favor Mrs. Irene Castle Tremaine as the prototype of the modern bobbed beauty.

When Mrs. Tremaine first appeared as the dancing partner of her late husband, Vernon Castle, bobbed hair appeared with her. Mrs. Castle was not influenced by any ambition to set a style—she was concerned solely with enhancing her slim beauty. That she achieved the effect she wanted goes without saying, for she has kept her bobbed hair till this day.

Advocated Bobbing in 1910

Alma Webster Powell of Brooklyn, former opera singer and champion of the working girls' cause, was the first society woman to take the radical step of having her hair bobbed. She cut it off in 1910 and created a sensation in New York City, for the long black hair she had shorn marked her as a noted beauty. She then predicted that some day—she then estimated, and quite accurately, a decade—women generally would wear short hair.

Another pioneer with bobbed hair was Mae Bush, the actress who has returned to motion pictures after several years' absence. Mae Bush's bobbed hair was known to picture fans as long as ten years ago, when she had leading roles in the Mack Sennet comedies. In those days the film actors and actresses were anonymous. There were no programs then. But everybody knew Mae Bush as "the bobbed-haired girl."

Miss Bush doesn't claim to be the first bobbed-haired girl. She yields that honor to Mrs. Castle Tremaine. She does, however, claim to be the second.

Office workers advance the claims of bobbed hair as a time saver. When lunch time arrived in the days of long hair, they say, at least ten minutes had to be cut off the eating period while hair net was rearranged and hair combed.

Also, the convenience of bobbed hair on the beaches has really increased the number of women swimmers. Now, with bobbed hair, wet tresses means little. Another sport of women, cross-country hiking, has helped make bobbed hair popular. There are no facilities at roadside lodgings for elaborate coiffures.

Just How Manna Is Marketed

The Children of Israel Gathering Manna. The Illustration Is a Reproduction from an Old Wood Cut.

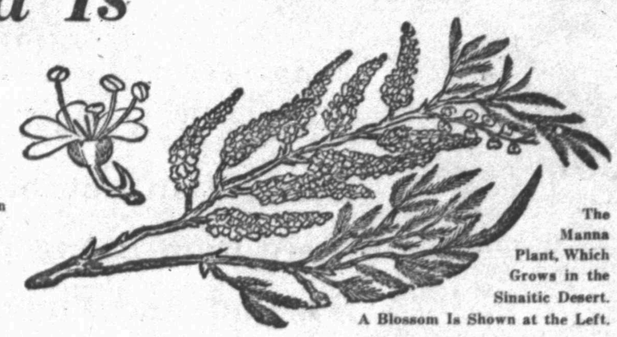

THREE thousand four hundred and thirteen years ago the children of Israel, as the Bible narrates in the book of Exodus, crossed the Red Sea and came into the wilderness of Chur. While traveling through the wilderness of Sin they suffered from hunger and murmured against Moses and Aaron. But God heard their cries and sent them bread from heaven to eat. The Lord said unto Moses:

"Behold I will rain bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather a certain rate every day—at even ye shall eat flesh, and in the morning ye shall be filled with bread." And in the morning there lay a small round thing, as small as hoar-frost, on the ground. And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, "It is manna." And Moses said: "This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat."

Throughout the intervening centuries hundreds of millions of the earth's inhabitants have accepted as a miracle the biblical account of how the children of Israel were fed on manna during their forty years of wandering in the wilderness while journeying to the promised land of Canaan. Twentieth century science, however, does not record this event as a miracle, but rather as a very prosaic affair after all. This is the opinion of one investigator, Oscar S. Heizer, American Consul at Jerusalem. In one of his official reports Consul Heizer states that manna is being found in the regions of Upper Mesopotamia and Kurdistan and along the Persian frontier. It falls, he says, in the form of dew during September, October and November, and lodges upon the leaves of oak trees.

Immediately after falling the manna hardens and assumes the form of a grain, that is, "a small round thing, as small as the hoar-frost, on the ground." A piece of manna, however, varies in size from that of a pea to that of a Brazil nut. The average weight is about one dram.

"MIRACLE" FOOD of the Bible Still FALLS to FEED the FAMISHED

Early in the morning, before the heat of the day, it is gathered by spreading sheets under the trees, which are shaken. The manna is then collected and stored for winter to be used as a food, or shipped to Bagdad for sale in the bazaars.

United States Consul Owens of Bagdad also has sent samples of manna to the Department of Commerce at Washington.

Scientists say that this remarkable food that "fell from heaven" and kept the children of Israel from starving during their wanderings, is in reality a variety of lichen, a scrubby, stunted growth that forms on stones. Its outside color is grayish yellow, but, when broken, the interior is white as a crushed grain of wheat.

As it gets older it loosens its grip on the rock, its edges roll back, and soon it becomes detached altogether, forming a rounded body with a central cavity. It is feather-light, and the slightest breeze will blow it hither and thither.

Thus it often happens that a wind storm carries great quantities of these lichens long distances, and afterward they are found piled in heaps and windrows. It appears as if they have fallen out of the sky, and ignorant people assign to the phenomenon a supernatural cause.

In the desert regions where these lichens grow, heavy rains usually follow a long dry season. Rivulets wash quantities of them into depressions in the ground, and subsequent evaporation of the water leaves heaps of them behind. The superstitious natives consider such a happening miraculous.

Analyses have shown that the dried lichens contain 65 per cent. of oxylate of lime and 25 per cent. of a starchlike and highly nutritious substance which is also found in the moss on which the reindeer feed in the frigid areas within the Arctic circle, and which in the latter case is the principle element of food. Botanically, mosses and lichens are closely related.

The lichen growing on a rock derives its water supply from the atmosphere. It can absorb from that source 35 per cent. of its weight in three days. On the other hand, it surrenders moisture with equal rapidity and by the time it is ready to detach itself, it is almost absolutely dry, which fact accounts for its lightness.

It is reported that the manna crops in western Asia Minor are bounteous and supplies of this food are now being imported into this country. The public may soon have an opportunity to taste manna such as that on which the children of Israel were fed nearly 35 centuries ago and to decide whether it is a worthwhile article of food. The time may soon come when manna can be bought in paper containers at the corner delicatessen store. In fact, so plentiful is the supply of manna at certain times that one man in a single working day has been known to collect from 12,000 to 20,000 pieces, amounting to from five to eight pounds.

When the wheat crop is deficient in certain districts in western Asia Minor, manna is used as a substitute. It is ground into a flour which is baked into bread.

In Bagdad and Mosul the manna is cooked with sugar and made into round white cakes three inches in diameter and half an inch thick, with a sprinkling of wheat flour on the outside. Street pedlers sell these cakes as candy and in this form manna is greatly liked by both natives and Europeans as well. These manna cakes have a delicate aromatic flavor. It was samples of manna in this form that Consul Heizer sent to the Department of Commerce at Washington.

Botanists explain that the reason only small quantities of manna are found today in the region traversed by the Israelites on their journey from Egypt to Palestine nearly thirty-five centuries ago may be attributed to a radical change in vegetation that has since taken place. In the days of the Exodus vast tamarisk forests covered most of the "wilderness" spoken of in the Bible. These forests have been destroyed by the Arabs, largely for the production of charcoal, and the territory has become desert and desolate.

Elsewhere rains of manna have fallen frequently. Among such districts that have been so favored from prehistoric times are the steppes and deserts of Armenia, the Caucasus, Persia, Kurdistan, Arabia and northern Africa.

Within the last one hundred years great "rains" of manna are recorded as having fallen in 1824, in 1828, in 1841, in 1846, in 1863, and in 1864. All of them occurred between January and March, the season of heaviest rainfall in the regions where the lichen grows. This circumstance is at least suggestive, although the natives believed that the manna fell from heaven.

Two of the most notable rains of manna happened in the years 1828 and 1841. During the former year the naturalist, Parrot, observed a shower of manna in Persia which covered the ground to a depth of six inches. It was undoubtedly carried by storm-winds from somewhere far distant.

Thirteen years later there was an astonishing fall of manna near Lake Van, in the eastern part of Asia Minor, covering many square miles to a depth of four inches. It was gray in color and pleasant to the taste. Live stock devoured it greedily, thereby suggesting to the inhabitants that it might be good for them to eat. They ground it into flour and made bread, which proved palatable and nourishing.

Thus again science and history in confirming a historical fact as told in the Bible, unite to show that the falling of manna may be called neither a miracle nor a rarity.

Is ODOR Due to VIBRATIONS?

THE sense of smell is the most acute of all the five senses, yet it is the one about which the least is known. Each of the five senses is the reception of something from outside the body; sight and hearing are the effect of vibration of the ether, of energy. In other words, is odor in the same category? ask W. G. Ungerer and R. B. Stoddard in Ungerer's Bulletin.

The authors reject this hypothesis and say that all the evidence of observed facts tends to support the theory that it is instead the result of molecular action, the contact of the molecules of the odorous material with the olfactory nerves.

It seems strange that science has never explained odor, so that the blenders of perfume are still "making use of forces and laws regarding the true nature and correct application of which they can have no real comprehension." They are working empirically. "The master perfumer is not the scientist, but the artist, the genius, the man with a flair for an instructive grasp of the elusive and baffling odor values."

Ungerer and Stoddard suggest a hypothesis upon which odor may scientifically be explained. They say: "There are few volatile substances which are completely odorless. That there are conspicuous exceptions to this rule is well known, the gases of the atmosphere being the most prominent. Yet a little consideration of these exceptions soon leads one to the discovery that nearly all the odorless substances possess a very simple molecular structure. Is there, then, some connection between complexity of molecular structure and odor?

"We have assumed that odor is produced by the impact of molecules on the olfactory nerves, and we know from experience that certain molecules are almost without effect, while others are so marvellously effective that our senses will detect their presence even when they are diluted to an unbelievable extent with the inert atmosphere. This difference might be sought in the variations in the size and shape of the molecules, just as the physical chemists have sought to correlate structure and physical properties, such as melting point and index of refraction.

"Modern chemistry offers a far better solution of our problem in its conception of the dynamic condition within the molecule. The atoms within the molecule are no longer supposed to be rigid and motionless, but to be in a constant state of vibration. This must give to each molecule a certain characteristic vibration which in effect influences if it does not indeed determine the outward properties of the molecule.

"Here then lies the foundation for a real theory of odor and odor values. Odor is the response of the delicate olfactory nerves to these inter-molecular vibrations, vibrations which the most delicate instruments yet devised can hardly detect, much less record and measure. Here is the explanation of the observed differences in the odors of substances. Every pure substance has its own rate of vibration; this vibration may be such as to influence the olfactory nerves and produce the sensation of odor, or it may be too low or too high to be detected, just as certain ether vibrations are outside the range of the eye and ear; vibrations within a certain range may produce a certain odor, while those of another range produce a different one."

Are CELLS of the BODY IMMORTAL?

THE individual cells of the human body are potentially immortal, according to Dr. Albert H. Ebeling of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research in describing how he has kept alive for 10 years some connective tissue cells from the heart of an embryo chicken.

In the Journal of Experimental Medicine, Dr. Ebeling says he obtained these cells on Jan. 17, 1912, and placed them in glass tubes filled with a medium containing the substances necessary to their growth. On Jan. 17, 1922, the incubators at the institute contained about 60 cultures, which represented the 1860th generation of the connective tissue cells.

This means that the cells have multiplied in than 30,000 cultures have been derived from a fragment of heart less than one cubic millimetre in size. If it had been feasible to multiply the tissues to their greatest possible extent, today their mass would be very much larger than the sun. Thus it is evident that some of the food material contained in the medium has been transformed into protoplasm.

Dr. Alexis Carrel observed that after 28 months of life in vitro the rate of growth of the active tissue cells has not decreased. It was evident that fibroblasts living under the conditions of his experiments were no longer subjected to the influence of time, as they are when living within the organism. They could be compared to unicellular organism, such as Paramecium, which Woodruff has cultivated for over 14 years, and could be considered potentially immortal.

Why Martial MUSIC Makes You MARCH

WHY is it that military music makes you want to march; that jazz music makes you want to dance; and plaintive music makes you sad? At last science has discovered that it is all due to a little gland situated at the base of your brain. This little gland is known as the pituitary gland, and it controls the rhythmic beating of the heart, acting on it in much the same way as a governor controls a steam engine. It prevents it—and other organs of the body—from racing, or working irregularly.

But the curious thing, medical science has found; is that this gland is sensitive to music. Different kinds of music affect it in different ways, and it is the way a tune affects this gland that makes you think the tune either lively or sad.

Martial music excites the pituitary gland very much, and in response the gland manufactures and sends into your blood more than its normal amount of fluid. It is this fluid that controls the speed of your heart, and with the extra amount your heart beats much faster, giving you that exhilarated military feeling.

Another type of music acts on the pituitary gland in just the opposite way—it slows it down. At once your heart's action decreases, and with it comes an accompanying depression or sadness.

A man who is worried or excited will find jazz music irritates him. It stimulates the already fast-beating heart, when at the moment a soothing tune is what he wants.

How to FIND RELIEF at HOME from HAY FEVER

THOSE who have suffered year after year from hay fever, "rose colds," asthma and similar afflictions will welcome the information that in a large number of instances it is possible greatly to relieve the symptoms and sometimes to cure these diseases permanently without going away from home, says Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, New York State Commissioner of Health, in one of his radio health hint broadcasts which is quoted by the Medical Times.

"Before discussing the method of treatment we should first consider some of the causes of hay fever. True hay fever is due to a peculiar sensitiveness on the part of some persons to the pollens of certain grasses, weeds, plants or trees. Formerly, it was supposed that the pollen of the goldenrod and rag weed were alone the cause of hay fever, but now we know that while these two cause some cases many other pollens are also to blame. The earliest group of cases of true hay fever develop in April, are very few in number, and are due to the pollen of certain trees such as the birch and maple. The next group appears by the middle or end of May and lasts until mid-July, while late hay fever begins in mid-August and lasts until frost. The pollen of the different grasses is responsible for a great majority of the cases. The pollen of roses and goldenrod is heavy and therefore not being widely scattered causes few cases. Occasional cases are caused by the pollen of daisies, asters, sweet clover, corn and far less often by that of other flowers and plants.

"What has been said applies to hay fever that occurs only at stated periods of the year. Many cases called hay fever that occur at odd times throughout the year and certain types of asthma are due either to the presence of adenoids or other nose obstructions. Such cases may also result from the sensitiveness of those persons to certain substances, such as dandruff from horses, dogs, cats or other animals, dust from feathers used in pillows, hair used in mattresses, etc., cotton, insecticide powders and orris root used in talcum powders. Asthma may also be caused by the use of certain foods to which these particular persons are sensitive. Eggs, strawberries and some of the cereals sometimes cause this trouble.

"In hay fever coming at practically the same time each year, a fairly accurate guess as to the cause can often be made by noting the particular grass or weed or flower pollen most common at that time. In hay fever or asthma occurring at odd times during the year it is wise first of all to have a competent physician examine the throat and nose for any obstruction in the upper air passages. If none can be found there, it should be noted whether the attack is preceded by contact with certain animals, absence of which gives relief. It should next be noted whether the patient is free from symptoms when away from home. If so, then experiments should be tried to determine the exact cause by substituting hair for feather pillows, cotton for hair mattresses, etc. Women and girls afflicted with either hay fever or asthma should be careful not to use talcum powders containing orris root. Note should also be made as to whether the symptoms always appear after eating certain foods, such as those previously mentioned and others known to affect some persons unfavorably.

"If these simple tests all fail, a physician can oftentimes decide definitely by inoculating into the skin of the arm minute amounts of a sterile extract of each of the pollens and other substances—considered capable of producing the symptoms. No discomfort is felt until the substance actually causing the trouble is injected when a slight swelling, reddening and itching occurs. Once the right substance is thus detected relief from the affliction can usually be obtained by weekly inoculations of increasing doses of an extract of the substance in question, thus causing the body to manufacture its own antidote."

Is NORTH POLE Moving to SOUTH?

AN analysis by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey indicates that the north pole point is shifting southward toward the continent of North America. This means in effect that the cities of the United States are moving slowly to the north. However, you need have no worry that you will awake some morning to find the north pole in your back yard. The shift is almost negligible because of its slowness. The southward drift is a trifle over six inches a year, or less than a mile in 10,000 years. At this rate, New York would move to the latitude of Boston in a million years.

A London astronomer asserts that the distance between Naples, Italy, and the equator has shortened a mile and a half during the past 51 years and that Greenwich has moved half a mile toward the tropics in two decades.

The National Geographic Society says there is no question that latitudes change, but such changes are of no considerable magnitude and do not continue for any great length of time in the same direction. The variations are due to a slight wabbling of the earth like that of a top which is not spinning evenly on its axis. This irregularity does not change the direction of the axis itself but it does change the point on the earth's surface (the pole point) from which the axis emerges. By such changes most points on the earth would have their positions altered with reference to the poles and to the equator, which is always 90 degrees from the pole point and therefore follows it in any movement which it makes.

If the earth's simplest possible rotation had but a single wabble added to it, the pole point would trace a closed path; that is, it would return to the same position again and again after the completion of definite, equal periods. But there are at least two distinct and unequal wabbles known, one completed in about a year and the other in about 14 months. Their combination causes the pole point to trace lines that are very roughly elliptical and which cross and re-cross each other. However, these would change the latitude of any city at most only 30 feet north or south of its mean position.

There are other possibilities in regard to change of latitude. One is that there are other as yet unrecognized wabbles extending over longer periods which cause the pole point to wander in circles or ellipses larger than the 60-foot radius ascribed to the two known wabbles. Another is that there may be forces in operation which shift the pole point steadily southward almost along a definite line of longitude. Finally, latitude changes might be due to local movements, either a sliding of relatively small sections of the earth's crust, or to a recently postulated "floating" of the continents.

How Baseballs Are Made

NEARLY all of the work of making a standard baseball today is done by machinery. Some of the most highly developed machines are still "trade secrets" and are operated in locked rooms where no outsiders are permitted to see them in operation.

The ball is weighed five times in the course of manufacture, for it must weigh exactly five ounces.

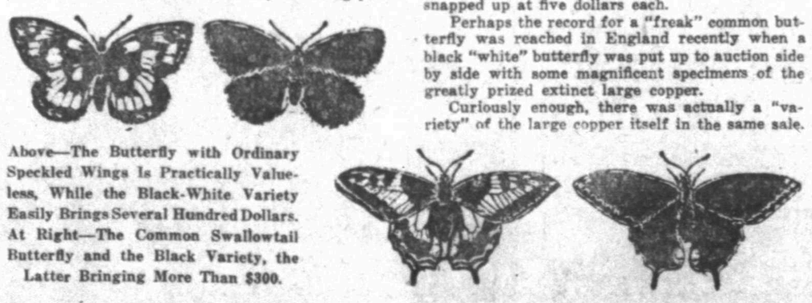

A small rubber ball about an inch in diameter forms the centre of the ball. Around this rubber sphere is wrapped a few layers of coarse twine. By means of accurately adjusted machinery layers of blue and white yarn are then wound. During this process the ball is several times soaked in a cement solution and laid aside to dry in order to give it compactness. Finally a still smaller cord is wrapped snugly around the ball.

The cover is made of best grade horsehide, cut by hand and prepared for the purpose in a special solution. After the ball is put into clamps the cover is sewed on with cotton thread, which has great frictional strength. The cover seams are ironed out and the completed ball is polished.

FORTUNES Made in BUTTERFLIES

FASHIONS change in butterflies as in other things. Even the scientists are at present unable definitely to say exactly what causes variation in the wing-markings of these insects.

The fact that these markings do change, however, has awakened an extraordinary interest among collectors in all parts of the world. So much so that large sums of money are being paid for these so-called "varieties" of species otherwise quite common.

One remarkable "catch" last season was that of a black swallow-tail butterfly in the Fen district of Cambridgeshire, England, and this almost unique insect has found a home in the cabinet of a famous collector at the price of some three hundred dollars. Had the butterfly been of the ordinary color (black and yellow), it would scarcely have been worth a quarter.

In England, the swallow-tail is what is termed one of the "local" butterflies. It can be taken every year, but only in the Fen districts of Cambridgeshire and Lincolnshire. The prize-winners of the present season must therefore confine themselves to those parts if they would find black swallow-tails.

Black is undoubtedly a highly valued color, however, in any butterfly or moth. Considerable sums are paid for black magpie moths, the insect itself being a pest on the currant bushes of the fruit garden. Those with ordinary speckled wings are quite valueless, while "varieties" will be snapped up at five dollars each.

Curiously enough, there was actually a "variety" of the large copper itself in the same sale. This found a purchaser at ninety dollars, a bargain, by the way, which, in truth, could not possibly be repeated, as the insect itself is now extinct.

The black "white" butterfly, however, created such a furore of excitement among the entomologists that it was eventually bought under the hammer at one hundred and seventy-five dollars, almost twice as much as that paid for the former insect.

This marbled white butterfly is quite a common meadow subject. Thousands are captured every year, and it is by no means impossible that another black "white" butterfly may pay the vacation expenses of some fortunate captor.
