Texas Posse In Hunt For Negro

Black Forces Woman To Cook for Him At Sonora

(By The Associated Press)

SONORA, Feb. 3. — An armed posse, led by officers, tonight was making an extensive search of the open country between Sonora and Ozona, 38 miles west, for a heavy-set negro, who about noon took a pistol away from Mrs. Bill Horton, 18, in Sonora and forced her to cook for him.

The woman said she was not attacked but sustained a slight injury to her left side in the scuffle for the gun. The negro, a stranger here, first appeared at the Horton residence yesterday morning, asked for food, and was given a meal. However, Mrs. Horton said she was forced to draw her husband's gun to make the negro leave the house.

Returns To House.

The matter was reported to officers and this morning while they were looking for the negro he returned to the Horton home, which is a half mile from any other house. After eating and gathering up a few groceries the negro backed away from the house, still holding the gun on the woman. She ran to a Mexican settlement and telephoned her husband who was at work. The search was started and 100 joined the posse. Many were mounted and carried rifles.

Last trace of the negro was found about 2 o'clock this afternoon three miles west of town when footprints were said to have been identified. Officers expressed the opinion the negro would be captured by noon tomorrow as there are few houses between the two towns. The Mexican border is 100 miles south.

Will Rogers Jolts Dollars From Full Oklahoma Pockets

CHICKASHA, Okla., Feb. 3. (AP)—Winging southward over the hills and prairie of his home state, Will Rogers jolted the dollars from over crowded pockets today.

From here he rode Captain Frank Hawks' sky steed into Ardmore, where a night throng laid more coin of the realm at the altar of laughter.

When the day and night's dollars are counted it appeared the $20,000 mark would be near.

Cannon Faces Church Court

Secrecy Shrouds Hearing On Charges Brought Against Methodist Bishop By Four Fellow Clergymen

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today faced four fellow clergymen, who have brought charges against him, behind the locked and guarded doors of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist church.

The twelve men who are hearing and who will decide whether the charges have weight concealed their identity completely, even going to such lengths as addressing each other as "Brother Smith", and "Brother Jones." While in the presence of reporters.

Cannon On Crutches

Bishop Cannon came and went from the hearings on crutches, his normally erect frame bent from arthritis. Two of his sons assisted him up and down the steps of the church and guarded him as much as possible from the photographers.

Just before the hearing opened, Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of Birmingham, Ala., who is presiding, sent word to reporters by a policeman on guard at the church that he would see them. He said the hearing was an ecclesiastical procedure and it would be conducted according to church law.

He said the church law forced him to secrecy, but when a conclusion was reached he would announce the result and the names of the twelve men on the board.

The nature of the charges against bishop Cannon has never been revealed.

House Members Are In Uproar About Charges

Physical Clash Between Angry Republicans And Democrats Threatens When Criticism From Senate Answered

By CECIL B. DICKSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP)—Indignation ran high in the house today over senate attacks on its members and an uproar was precipitated that threatened to terminate in a physical clash between angry Republicans and Democrats.

Smarting under criticism voiced yesterday by Senator Caraway of Arkansas against house leaders opposed to the $25,000,000 Red Cross relief proposal, two Republican representatives—Cramton of Michigan and Treadway of Massachusetts—made bristling replies.

Confusion Reigns

Points of order were made by Democrats, and general confusion resulted.

During the exchanges, Speaker Longworth, who had been mentioned by Caraway, suggested the rules be suspended this session to permit house members to answer on the floor charges made by members of the other branch.

The speaker said he would entertain a proposal later from the rules committee to make the change.

Cramton and Treadway, hampered by rules of 140 years standing that prohibit representatives from making disparaging remarks on the house floor against senators, did their best to answer Caraway's attacks without mention of his name.

"Liar" Charges Fly

Overriding objections of Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, Cramton rose to a point of personal privilege and asserted anyone who said he had sought by his position on the house appropriations committee to obtain a $10,000 a year position was "a plain, unadulterated liar."

Without mentioning Cramton by

Deny Shepard Another Trial

Army Major To Appeal Murder Case After Judge Pronounces Life Term Sentence In Penitentiary On Him

(By The Associated Press)

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 3. — An appeal, taking immediately after Judge Richard J. Hopkins denied Major Charles A. Shepard's motion for a new trial, was all that stood tonight between the army medical officer's freedom and life imprisonment in Leavenworth penitentiary for the poison murder of his second wife.

Judge Hopkins in federal district court today overruled citations by defense counsel of alleged error in the conduct of the trial of Major Shepard, and imposed the sentence specified by a jury last December 22, when Shepard was convicted.

Judge Hopkins set the appeal bond at $20,000. Shepard gave the bond and was released. The defense was allowed 90 days in which to perfect the appeal.

Shepard, former suitor of Miss Grace Brandon, San Antonio, Tex., stenographer, stood apparently unmoved as sentence was pronounced. Earlier he had said "we have just begun to fight."

Compromise On Relief Seen In Hoover Speech

President Gives His Views On Troublesome Question To Relieve Tension And Open Way For Settlement

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 —President Hoover in a clear delineation of his views on relief today opened the way to talk of a compromise on the thorniest question that has troubled this session of congress.

The president gave an analysis of his reasons for opposing the use of federal money to feed citizens in a statement which characterized the proposal as one which struck "at the very roots of self government."

Compromise Seen

His statement, however, couched in moderate language, was followed by a preceptible easing of tension on Capitol Hill, and for the first time since the outcome of relief proposals became obscured by the haze of acrid debate, there came talk of compromise.

In his statement, the president said:

"I am willing to pledge myself that if the time should ever come that the voluntary agencies of the country together with the local and state governments are unable to find resources with which to prevent hunger and suffering in my country, I will ask the aid of every resource of the federal government because I would no more see starvation amongst our countrymen than would any senator or congressmen I have the faith in the American people that such a day will not come."

Proposals Made

Shortly afterward, one definite compromise proposal was made in

Secure in the general belief the region was immune from seismic disturbances, the populace of Napier was stunned by the severest quake in the New Zealand's history.

Buildings Wrecked

Recurring shocks wrecked stone buildings, broke the water supply system and placed the city of 20,000 at the mercy of fire that started as frame structures collapsed. Buildings were dynamited in an effort to halt the flames.

It was shortly before noon yesterday when the first polt was felt up and down the coastal region stretching back from beautiful Hawkes bay, on which Napier, capital of Hawkes Bay province, is located.

Hastings, Waipawa, Wairoa, Waipukurau and other nearby towns were badly damaged. Reports said there were 100 dead and 1,000 injured at Napier and a score dead and 100 injured at Hastings.

Hollywood Demonstrates Its Own Principles Of Relativity To Einstein--Professor Now Actor

(By The Associated Press)

PASADENA, Cal., Feb. 3.—Albert Einstein, who years ago astonished the world with a relativity theory that things are not what they seem and measurments change with velocity, received a shock tonight that made him burst out laughing, loud and long.

Hollywood showed him its principles of relativity, how it makes things seem what they are not. And it used an old model motor car.

The German professor never had driven an automobile. At the First National studio today a number of German technicians persuaded him to change his mind about not being photographed, and had him climb into the old car with Frau Elsa, his wife, by his side. The cameras clocked. Then the Einsteins left for an appointment at the Southwest museum.

Tonight the German technicians brought the film to the Einstein bungalow. The lights went out.

Then a little old stripped motor car appeared on the screen, with Einstein at the wheel, driving Frau Elsa on a sightseeing tour. Down Broadway, Los Angeles, they drove, then to the beaches. Suddenly the car rose like an airplane, and as Einstein took one hand from the wheel to point, the Rocky Mountains appeared below. Then the car landed on familiar soil, and the drive continued through Germany.

Gales of laughter drowned out the German voice in the film that was telling of the sights being seen.

Here he was driving through Germany in an automobile

The Woman's Angle

BY THE same process that small boys know when marble season arrives, I know it is spring. There is a sort of inner urge that makes me want to get out and dig in the dirt; I can't pass one of these racks full of flower seed, and every day I rush out to see if the tulips and jonquils have made any more progress.

Every spring of my life has been just like this. Invariably I get out and plant a lot of seed in the ground and dig and water and watch the ground through the spring months. Usually if anything at all comes up the chickens or dogs beat me to it. Or if the plants survive until summer they take one good look at the sun, then curl up and die.

I'm at it as usual, however. We got our sweet peas in the other day. By the way, I saw Mrs. L. C. Odom of Slaton, and she told me that the way to plant sweet peas to get the best results is to dig the original ditch about eight or nine inches deep. After the seed are in they should be covered about two or three inches and then as they come up in the spring more dirt should be gradually added to cover them. This gives them an extra long root and they are more hardy, she explained.

Sweet peas really should be planted in January, she said, but I had thought for a long time that February 14 was a final date for planting. Anyway, they will come up and bloom if they are planted now.

Somewhere I picked up a little pome which I kept because it sounded so much like a history of my gardening. Here it is:

"The time I've spent pursuing
Voracious bugs and strewing
The yard with seeds,
And pulling weeds
Has been my mind's undoing
Each green thing lures the rabbit,
Unless the chickens grab it;
I toil in vain
Then try again—
I've got the garden habit."

HAD TWO WIVES

SOMEONE called me Monday morning to know if Thomas A. Edison has been married once or twice. He has been married twice and is now living with the second Mrs. Edison. He was married to Miss Mary G. Stillwell in 1873 and they had three children. In 1886, he married Miss Mina Miller, the present Mrs. Edison, and they have two children.

Several people related the same anecdote to me concerning the Edisons. It seems that when they were married—and I don't know which time it was—Mr and Mrs. Edison went on a wedding trip on the train and, being an absent-minded scientist, Mr. Edison got off at the destination, leaving his wife behind.

SPRING, AGAIN

WE HAVE some more evidences of spring. Today I managed to collect three style booklets. Spring affects me that way.

I can get along very well with whatever wardrobe I happen to have as long as winter is definitely hanging around, but just one sunshiny day — this teeming kind—gets the best of me. Immediately every dress I have begins to look drab and worn and out of style generally.

I've been living here a long time, though. All this doesn't mean a thing. I'm certain we're going to have a lot more winter before spring gets here. I'm not a pessimist; I've waived disappointment.

IT'S A HARD PROBLEM

WASHING in hard water troubles thousands of women. But what could be simpler than the solution offered by White King?

White King Granulated Soap yields quick, rich suds, thorough cleansing, and swift rinsing in the hardest water. The reason is that it's made from pure vegetable and nut oils. It protects and brightens the colors of the most delicate ginghams and prints, keeps sheets and table linen really white. Yet it cleanses the heaviest woolen blankets. And its effectiveness in lukewarm water saves your hands from hot-water irritation.

Dishes, fabrics, silver, glass, floors, woodwork—White King solves every household washing problem. And it's economical. A teaspoonful for the wash basin, a cupful for the washing machine—plenty. Try it today. Sold by your grocer.

Square Plates Remain In Fashion

Gayety provides the theme for this year's new fashions in chinaware, which retain the square and slight variations from it as the only trace of passing "modernism."

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Square plates have survived.

Of all the forms of china tableware that came in with the modern vogue for angularity, square plates alone have withstood the latter trend towards older fashions and won a place in the new conservatism.

Square plates held a commanding place this year in almost every exhibit at the trade show of the Association of Glass and Pottery Manufacturers, the show at which nearly all American makers lay their wares yearly before buyers for stores from coast to coast. Square plates led in table services of both glass and china.

Not that the pure square rules. The square is but the general form, and variations are more numerous than the manufacturers creating them.

But while the square won its way into conservatism, it could not carry with it the vivid colors once its concomitant in modernism. As in the newest glass-ware, colors in the new china are generally soft and subdued.

The purpose, the makers say, is to harmonize with the mellow tones that characterize present-day furniture, wall-coverings, and draperies.

The trend also is away from intricacy in design. Many sets of china have no superimposed design at all, relying on body color and a colored border, a sprig of flowers, or a touch of quaint landscape. Rarely are border and body design found together.

Color range in china is limited. There are greens and browns in profusion, but most favored is a soft tone, almost ivory but with a slightly more yellow cast.

More novel forms still remain, however. The cubistic pattern can still be obtained, one decorated in authentic American Indian design.

C. C. Julian, Multimillionaire Oil Promotor, To Answer Divorce Claims

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3. (AP)—Another chapter in the spectacular career of C. C. Julian multimillionaire oil promoter, was in the making today as he prepared a reply to a divorce suit naming four "other women."

In a complaint filed yesterday Mary Olive Julian, wife of the Julian Petroleum corporation's founder, charged he maintained four luxurious apartments for as many girls. She asked $5,000 monthly alimony, custody of two children and a receivership for $10,000,000 in property.

Blames Enemies

Julian blamed "harsh enemies" having ulterior motives for having influenced his wife to file the suit. He announced he would retaliate by making sensational charges "in a few days."

Julian gained prominence through the promotion of the petroleum corporation named for him, which succumbed in 1927 to a $100,000,000 overissue of stock after he had disposed of his interests to S. C. Lewis, and others.

The four women named in the complaint were listed as Maybelle Smith of Graham or Newcastle Texas; June Laverne; Virginia Belcher, "a girl of tender years," and a "Chickasaw Indian girl." The promoter's wife alleged he took Miss Laverne to Europe, Miss Belcher to Cuba and Mexico, and brought the Indian girl here from Oklahoma City.

In her complaint Mrs. Julian charges Julian suffered a beating at the hands of a man in Oklahoma City recently for showing attentions to a married woman.

Julian was ordered to appear in court next Friday to show cause why he should not pay alimony. He also was ordered to make a deposition to Mrs. Julian's counsel Wednesday.

La Ventana Pictures Will Compare With Other Years

The number of photographs taken for the 1931 La Ventana, Texas Technological college yearbook, will compare favorably with similar figures for the last two preceding years, according to Arthur Brown, official photographer for the college annual.

All pictures have been taken with exception of a few club and organization "shots" and more than half have been mailed to engravers.

The number of photos to be included in the 1931 La Ventana will range from 2,500 to 3,000, according to the photographer. Of this number about 1,200 will be individual photographs while the remainder will be composed of clubs, athletics, buildings and scenes about the campus.

Nearly on-third the families in Britain now own radio sets.

INDOORS or out-of-doors, during hours that were once trying, Kotex now assures you the greatest possible comfort and security. Kotex takes up actually five times more moisture than an equal weight of cotton, and it is soft, not only at first, but during hours of wear.

Because it absorbs away from the surface, it is guaranteed to give more protection, longer protection than any other sanitary pad. It can be worn on either side with equal comfort and protection.

Kotex is rounded and tapered to fit perfectly. It deodorizes by a special process. And, of course, it is disposable. That's why millions of women first turned to this new method of sanitary protection.

Defends Work On Land Board

Hearings Are Resumed Against Herbert A. Hagerman, Former Territorial Governor Of New Mexico

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP) — Herbert J. Hagerman, former territorial governor of New Mexico, today defended his record as a member of the Pueblo lands board when hearings on charges against him were resumed before the senate Indian committee.

The charges by Senator Frazier republican, North Dakota, which led the senate to stop Hagerman's salary as a special Indian commissioner, included no mention of this phase of his employment.

To Refute Charges.

Hagerman said, however, that "very serious statements" were made concerning his work on the board by John Collier, secretary of the American Indian defense association, at last Friday's hearing and he was determined to refute them.

Collier had declared the board decided against the Indians on more than half of the claims before it and that Hagerman was largely responsible.

"On appeals from decisions of the board whom do you support the board or the Indians?" asked Senator Pine, republican, Oklahoma.

"As far as compensation is concerned," Hagerman replied, "I have sustained the board because I believe its decisions have been just."

"Then you as a representative of the Indians, took a position against them," said Pine, pointing out that Hagerman in his capacity of special Indian commissioner has supervisory charge of the Pueblo as well as the other Indians of New Mexico Arizona, Colorado and Utah.

Indian Comissioner Rhoads pointed out that "on this board Mr. Hagerman doesn't represent either litigant but serves in a judicial capacity."

Senator Bratton, democrat, New Mexico, added that the Indians' appeals are ably handled by George A. H. Fraser, of Denver, a special assistant to the attorney general appointed for the purpose.

Trapeze Artist Falls To Death

DETROIT, Feb. 3. (AP) — While 10,000 children watched, Catherine Solt, 34, trapeze artist, fell to her death yesterday at the matinee performance of the annual Shrine circus here.

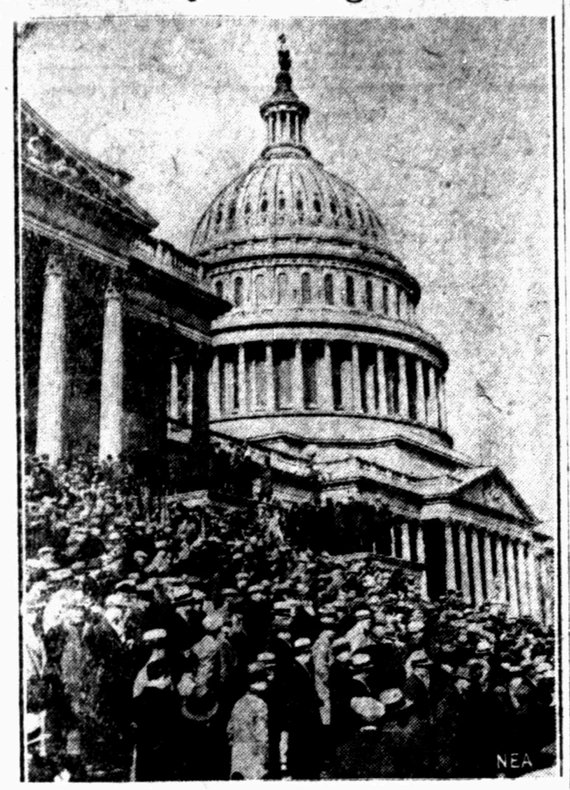

Mrs. Solt had been paired for 12 years with her husband, Carl Solt in a flying trapeze act featured by leading circuses. Between circus engagements she and her husband made their home in Denver, Ind.

Yesterday, when Mrs. Solt leaped from her trapeze toward the outstretched hands of her husband who was suspended from his own trapeze, the timing was faulty and Solt missed his wife's wrists, seizing only her fingers. He held her for a moment, then his hold broke and she fell 30 feet to the heavy net. Her skull was fractured.

Seek Reversal In Oil Cases

Albert Fall, Harry Blackmer Present Arguments To District Of Columbia Court Of Appeals Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP)—Two angles of the naval oil scandals which startled the nation nine years ago today held attention of the District of Columbia court of apeals as one man convicted of bribery and another found guilty of contempt of court sought reversal of their sentences.

Arguments in the appeal of Albert B. Fall from his conviction for accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny were concluded, and those in the case of Harry M. Blackmer, Denver oil man, fined $60,000 for contempt of court, were begun. Fall's charges grew out of a lease of oil lands to Doheny's company, and Blackmer's from failing to appear as a witness at the conspiracy trial of Fall and Harry F. Sinclair.

Atlee Pomerene, special government prosecutor, contended Fall had legal responsibility for handling the oil leases and even if he did not he awarded them to Doheny's company. He said the defense contention the former secretary of the interior could not be charged with bribery because the leasing was not a statutory act was immaterial.

Frank Hogan, chief counsel for Fall, closed the arguments by reiterating his contention a government officer could not be indicted for an act not included in his statutory duties. He contended the secretary of the navy had jurisdiction over the oil reserves.

Karl C. Schuyler, Denver, representing Blackmer, argued that the Walsh law of 1926 under which an American citizen residing abroad may be fined up to $100,000 for refusal to return and testify in a criminal case was unconstitutional because it attempted to extend the authority of the courts beyond the limits of the United States.

Blackmer was summoned by the government in the hope his testimony would help find the source of liberty bonds which had been traced from Fall to Sinclair and to the Continental Trading company of Canada.

Individual Responsibility

ONE OF THE major distinguishing marks of modern life is a universal fondness for organization. People live and move in groups, regimented and doing the lockstep. Law and other agencies devoted to addancing the millennium think in terms of the mass. Let a beam be in the one brother's eye, and all humanity must search for motes in the eyes of the other; the whole family must suffer for the sins of a prodigal son and in the same measure.

This philosophy is applied particularly to motorists. To make the roads safe for both car owners and pedestrains requires only, according to common belief, a plethora of rules and regulations affecting Tom and Dick as well as Harry. Regulation of a standardized nation needs standardized law.

Of late, however, there has appeared an heretical theory that an increased sense of individual responsibility will better serve to reduce automobile casualties and disregard for the safety of others. This new thought also proposes individual punishment for individual cases. In other words, educational work and an appeal to the individual's sense of what is right and wrong is more efficient in the long run than a stack of statutes as lofty as the moon.

There may be sound sense in the argument that drivers and walkers are becoming more careless because of paternalistic treatment of traffic problems. Perhaps, if there were fewer safeguards for the protection of users of the street and highways, the individual would learn, under the law of survival of the fittest, to protect himself. And the most forceful argument in support of this theory is the fact that the more we fool with the traffic situation the higher goes the accident rate.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

It is a sad but true commentary on human nature that when road conditions are treacherous ,traffic accidents decrease. When the highways are celan and dry motorists grow careless and accidents follow, but when motor travel is made precarious by slippery and drifed roads drivers are made cautious, minimizing traffic accidents, although natural causes for accident become greater.

Fall roads affording uncertain traction serve, for the average motorist, the same purpose as warning signs erected at approaches to sharp curves and steep hills. They are the "signs" the motorist believes in and which prevent accidents. Another sign, but one that causes accidents, is long stretch of straight and level highway which invites speed. It is where the going is smoothest and clearest that toes tramp on accelerators and cars test out their speed.

The gambling instinct of the human species is a good enough explanation for the thousands who each year plunge headlessly across grade crossings and highways intersections to their death or injury. These are occasions when autoists do not believe in "signs."

Every step on the road to national relief from highway accidents is marked by the human element and its varying regard for rules of safety. Comparison of winter and summer accident statistics shows that while all motorists are willing to take a chance, that willingness, in all, has limitations. And then, where are there two automibilists who will agree on just what is meant by a "chance?"

Practical Health Problems

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Just as malaria has been responsible for changing the history of the world (indeed the fall of the civilization of Greece and Rome is attributed to this cause), so also has quinine been responsible in this connection, since it serves to control malaria.

The year 1930 witnessed the 300th anniversary of this drug. In an exposition held in England samples of the bark of the cinchona tree, from which the quinine is made, were exhibited, including specimens brought to Spain from Peru in 1777.

The story of quinine, like the story of many other great medical substances, is reflected in the histories of all nations. One nation is credited with the discovery, another with the publication of the secret, another with the popularization of the drug, and another with its development. It grows only on certain soils and in certain climates.

The yellow bark of the cinchona tree of Java and Bolivia contains more quinine than that of any other cinchona. Quinine is the active substance of cinchona and is probably primarily responsible for its effects.

Malaria is caused by a plasmodium which gets into the blood. There was a time when the disease was extremely frequent in practically every country in the world. Seventy-five years ago. It was one of the most important diseases in New England, Maryland, Ohio, and southern Illinois. Cases are now so rare in these places as to be almost medical curiosities.

The control of this disease has been brought about by the discovery of the method of transmission through the mosquito and the elimination of the mosquito from the vicinity, and also through the use of quinine. When scientific medicine establishes facts as certain as these, the road to elimination of disease is open.

Hoover's Message Analyzed

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. — Right at the beginning of chapter two of our wet-and-dry analysis, in the light of the Wickersham report and its various accompaniments, we encounter a surprising bit of information—

Some ordinarily very well informed Republicans still insist that President Hoover did not intend to commit himself definitely to prohibition (as it is now known anyway that he said in his message transmitting the Wickersham report to congress.

All he said, they point out, was that he "does not favor repeal of the eighteenth amendment" or "the commission's proposed revision of" it; not necessarily that he is opposed to some other form of revision.

This is a mere mustard seed of we; consolation or a whole truckload of it, depending on the way it is looked at.

Personally I would classify it as an unmistakable mustard seed and a mighty measly specimen, at that I would say also that the G. O. P. wets, who direct attention to it, recognize it as nothing but a miserable little mustard seed, if they had not mentioned it until after Mr. Wickersham and associates had submitted their report at the White House and the president had forwarded it to Capitol hill with his covering communication.

But the fact is that they did forecast the whole thing more or less accurately, at least a couple of weeks in advance, which hints that they really knew something of what they were talking about.

As the prophecy reached my ears, the report was to be wettish, and the prediction was confidently made that the president would take advantage of it to modify what many have regarded as his ultra-dryness—not all at once but graudally—to suit the maximum number of tastes possible.

"But," as I got the tip, "he will have to start doing so cautiously, or he will completely break down the machinery of enforcement and let himself in for no end of trouble during the next two years."

This sounded to me like a reasonable program. My own notion was that Mr. Hoover took a dryer stand than he needed to when he entered the White House. Dryness just then was at its peak and I doubted whether all of it would last. The Anti-Saloon Leaguers themselves admit now that it did not. The way they express it, they carried districts in 1928 that they were not "entitled" to. If the president had it in mind to readjust himself to altered conditions, it struck me as no more than natural—viewing the matter coldbloodedly, as one of political expediency.

Upon the Wickersham report's actual appearance, however, even the politicans were stumped.

It bore every evidence of having been drafted thoroughly wettishly, all right, but seemed to have been (to borrow a gambler's term) "coopered" at the last minute. The presidential message also was dryer than the political folk had anticipated. As suggested, they had expected Mr. Hoover to be cautious, but not to lean quite so overly far backward.

Assuming that the politicians had the correct dope in the first place (and I am sure they did), either one of two hypothesis is available:

1. Chairman Wickersham and his associates on the crime commission bungled their job, and the president clamped down his prudential brakes altogether too tight, or—

2. The original plan was changed so late in the day that it was thrown into serious disorder, and sufficient time was lacking to permit the G. O. P. organization's publicity staff to explain matters to the corps of Washington correspondents, thus enabling the friendly ones to give a favorable slant to their "stories."

My own judgment inclines to the second of this brace of theories.

Why? Well, developments in the power situation have been rapid recently. President Hoover realizes that he he been maneuvered onto the unpopular side of this question. It is certain that he does, for he said so in an official communication to the senate, in connection with the fight between himself and the upper congressional chamber, over the personnel of the new power commission.

It happens, too, that the Republicans who oppose him on the power issue are mostly of the dry persuasion. Though they dislike his power policy, may he not still hold them as prohibitionists? But supppose he alienates them on both grounds?—especially with the intensely dry Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania, whose power views suit them to a "T", fairly bursting with presidential aspirations; probably on a third party ticket, to be sure (if any), yet from whom except Mr. Hoover would it draw?

All these considerations being taken into account is it not conceivable that the president may suddenly have come to the decision that now is on time to risk antagonizing his prohibition following by the slightest deviation from the pathway of 100 per cent aridity?

As already has been stated, the Wickersham commissioners vehemently deny that they changed a syllable in their report at the president's request. Some of the senators are skeptical (they have a resolution pending, to investigate the question) but I believe the commissioners. I think merely that if the president did want a change made, maybe the commissioners sensed it, and made the change without being requested to do so.

There remains, of course, the possibility that theory No. 1 is the right one—that Mr. Hoover simply was over-cautious. Even so, my guess is that his declaration, as interpreted, "took" too energetically for him ever to get away from it.

SOFTENING THE RACE

An eminent Chicago physician declares that the cause for the familiar, homegrown colds from which so many persons suffer may be found in luxuries. If that is so, it adds another count to the indictment of modern living.

More than once has the statement been made that modern conveniences and modern luxuries are making us "soft." It is predicted that if the automobiles increase in number thus making it possible for more persons to ride, it will not be so many million years before humanity begins to shed its feet and legs.

There are many impressive statistics on mortality, health, athletic achievement, physicial excellences revealed by the war to combat all this talk about race degeneracy, but with all that there are many persons ready to testify and believe that the softening influences in modern life have made muscles flabby and reduced physcal resistance as compared with the days when living was rugged existence shifting between the outdoors and the fireplace.

More likely the truth is that if the people of today are more susceptible to colds and other ailment it is because they abuse or misuse the remarkable conveniences. And should that be the case, it would merely illustrate again how inexorable in life is the law of compensation on which for everything given, something must be given up.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

JOE RENO SPENT 406 CONSECUTIVE HOURS IN AN ARTIFICIAL SLEEP—During a wrestling match at a ball park in Dallas, Texas, June, 1930, Rajah Yogi, a Hindu magician, gave an exhibition of hypnotic powers before a crowd of about 5,000 spectators. Reno consented to be the medium of Yogi's mesmeric powers, and remained under his spell for a period of 17 days and 17 nights—the world's record.

A DONKEY REFUSED TO EAT GRASS—Sixteen donkeys that were taken underground into the workings of the Pikeview, Colorado, coal mine have not seen daylight for the past twelve years. Recently one of the donkeys was brought to the surface, and it was found he had forgotten that grass was good food. A cow was pastured with the donkey in order to teach him that growing grass was good to eat.

FRANCIS SELDON WAS IMPRISONED IN THE BASTILE FOR 69 YEARS—In 1674, Francis Seldon, of Ireland, aged 9, and heir to one of the largest fortunes in Europe, was a student at the Jesuit College of Clermont in Paris. When, after the King's visit, the Jesuit Fathers decided to change the name of the school to that of King Louis the Great, the boy commented on the change by a play of words, alluding to the King's baldness. Thereupon he was promptly denounced to the King and a royal "lettier de cachet" was issued for the child's committment to the Bastile. His solitary confinement lasted 69 years, during which time his parents and nearest of kin died with mortification and in complete ignorance of the boy's fate. Riquelet, the Jesuit confessor of the Bastille, finally contrived to free the unfortunate prisoner, not, however, without situplating that the tremendous fortune of the Seldon's be placed under the tutelage of the Jesuit Order.

The story of this blood-curdling injustice is told in Remenner's "Histoire de la Bastille," Volume 4.

Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON," "THE AVENGING PARROT" and MURDER BACKSTAIRS"

©1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Investigating the murders of JUANITA SELIM and DEXTER SPRAGUE, who he thinks were partners in blackmail, "BONNIE" DUNDEE goes to New York and learns that JUANITA LEIGH was married to "MATTHEW SELIM" in 1918, was soon deserted, but apparently not divorced. From SERENA HART, stage star, he learns that Nita's picture was printed with a story about the suicide of ANITA LEE.

Dundee wires to PENNY CRAIN district attorney's secretary, and learns from her that the suicide story was printed in Hamilton, but that no correction of the wrong picture appeared. After this story appeared, four of Dundee's possible suspects married — PETER DUNLAP, TRACEY MILES and JOHN DRAKE the same year, and JUDGE MARSHALL, owner of the death weapon, almost seven years later.

Nita deposited $10,000 in cash in Hamilton, and Dundee wonders if she were collecting "back alimony" from a husband who had married again, thinking her dead. Dundee feels this is the real lead, and drops the idea of investigating further vague scandals. Looking for records of Nita's marriage, Dundee finds nothing in New York, but realizes that she might have married in Connecticut or New Jersey, and might not have used her stage name. The police theory that the two were killed as a gangland revenge has collapsed, and Dundee on his way home in response to a desperate wire from the district attorney, finds to his dismay that he has made revelations to the newspapers which have probably put the murderer on his guard. At home Dundee finds a note under his door.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

Bonnie Dundee set his traveling bag upon a chair and picked up the sealed envelope which bore no other inscription than his name. The note it contained was on paper as plain as the envelope, was typed and unsigned:

"If Special Investigator Dundee will consult page 410 of the latest WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA, he will find a tip which should aid him materially in solving the two murder cases which seem to be proving too difficult for his inexperience."

A wry grin at the unfriendly gibe of his anonymous correspondent was just twisting his lips when a double knock, with which he had become very familiar, sounded on the living room door, which he had not completely closed.

"Come in, Belle!"

A morose, slack-mouthed mulatto girl in ancient felt slippers sidled into the room.

"Howdy, Mistah Dundee," Belle greeted him listlessly. "You got back like the paper said you would, didn't yuh? And I ain't sayin' I ain't glad! Dat parrot o' yoahs sho is a Gawd's own nuisance—nippin' at mah fingahs, an' screechin' his fool head off. 'Course I ain't sayin' it's his fault, keepin' dat young gen'man on de secon' flo' awake las' night. But lak I say to Mistah Wilson, when he lights into me dis mawnin', runnin' off at de mouf 'cause I fo'got to put Cap'n's covah on his cage las' night, I ain't de onliest one what fohgets in dis house. Comin' home Gawd knows when an' leavin' de front do' unlocked and murderers and Gawd knows who could walk right in hyer—"

Dundee, itching to consult his own copy of "Who's Who," flung a glance at the parrot's cage, intending to pacify the mournful girl by scolding his "Watson" roundly. But he changed his mind and consoled the chambermaid instead:

"Just tell Mr. Wilson that for once he's wrong. You did not forget to cover Cap'n's cage, Belle. Look!"

The girl's dull black eyes bulged as they took in the cage, completely swathed in a square of dark silk.

"Gawd's sake, Mistah Dundee!" she ejaculated. "I didn't put dat covah on dat bird's cage! An' neithah did Mis' Bowen, 'cause she been laid up with rheumatiz eveh since you lef,' an' eveh las' endurin' thing in dis ol' house has been lef'

Student Meets Tragic Death

Texas Medic At Tulane University Crushed To Death By Train While In Pursuit Of Runaway Boys

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3. (AP) — Paul R. Eckels of Temple, Texas 29-year-old senior medical student at Tulane university who since last June has served as keeper of the municipal home for boys, today was dead, the victim of a tragic accident.

Eckels and H. K. Rouse, jr., of Poplarville, Miss., another medical interne, started yesterday afternoon to round up four youths who ran away from the Canal street school across the tracks of the railroad at Bayou St. John.

A passing freight train held up the truants, Rouse reported, and Eckels hopped up the ladder on a boxcar of the passing train near the railroad bridge over the bayou in order to hurdle the train and pursue the search quickly.

As the car passed into the trestle Eckels was jammed against a stee' girder, his skull was crushed and his body toppled into the bayou.

The body was rescued 20 minutes later.

State Takes Over Road Maintenance

Crews soon will begin work on state highway No. 24 from Lubbock to Levelland, marking assumption by the state highway department of responsibility for maintenance of the strip, Joe Caldwell, divisiona' engineer, said Tuesday.

Several thousand dollars were appropriated by the highway department at its last letting for maintenance of the road and at that time state designation for that section of the route also was authorized.

According to Mr. Caldwell, it is thought that eventually the state will designate the road on from Levelland to the New Mexico line via Morton. From that point it will connect with another highway to Elida and Portales, N. M.

Guy R. Johnston, resident engineer, recently was appointed by Mr. Caldwell as engineer in Hockley county to plan extension of the road from Levelland to Morton. These plans will be started within the near future.

Local Motorists Warned By Keller

Lubbock county motorists were warned Tuesday by John Keller, state highway officer, that highway patrolmen had been instructed to make immediate arrests in cases of motor vehicles being operated without 1931 license plates.

Two fines of $1 and costs of $12.15 each were paid Tuesday in Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter's court for driving machies without new license tags. Other arrests were expected. Fine for the offense is not less than $1 and costs and not more than $200 and costs, Mr. Keller said.

"We do not want to have to make arrests," said Mr. Keller, "but our orders are very clear and we have no alternative. We just want to issue a final warning that no one is to be an exception."

An extensive program for improving railway service of government lines has been outlined by Rumania.

Governor Long Is Given Law Degree

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3. (AP) — Now in New Orleans it's Dr. Huey P. Long, holder of an honorary law degree from Loyola university. In Baton Rouge it's governor and soon in Washington it will be senator, but a close friend says it's still plain Huey "out in the country."

The friend was John H. Overton, who spoke last night at exercises during which the degree was conferred upon Governor and Senator-elect Long.

The governor responded that he "deems it beyond my talents and accomplishments to be so honored by a great university of this nation."

"Louisiana, we hope," said Governor Long, "is emerging into a new era of prosperity, new policies and achievements that will make possible a new era and a new life."

The Rev. Father J. D. Foulkes S. J., regent of the Loyola law school, presented the governor with the degree which was conferred by the Rev. Father F. D. Sullivan, S. J., president of the university.

United Charities Shows That Total Of $1,004 Spent For Food, Medical Attention, Fuel, Clothing Last Month

United Charities in January spent a total of $1,004.85 for food, medical attention, clothing, fuel and transportation for needy families, and obtained employment for 168 persons, according to the monthly report of the charity agency.

Individuals totaling 1,070 and 225 families were helped during the month. Fifty-seven of those who gained jobs through United Charities received additional work through the organization later. A night's lodging was furnished for one family.

Clothing Donated

Distribution of old clothing and shoes, valued at $841.53 and donated to United Charities, and other projects supplemented expenditures from funds of the agency.

The monthly report by Miss Evelyn Richter, secretary of United Charities, included accounts of the following expenditures:

Food $459.07, medical aid $104.39, clothing $53.38, fuel $163.25, transportation of families $33.49.

Donations which were distributed by United Charities included:

A total of 3,500 pounds of rabbits killed in the recent Cochran county hunt, 100 loaves of bread by the Cinderella shop, 2,700 pounds of sweet potatoes by Robert A. Sowder, 300 pounds of onions by J. A. Rix, 40 dozen buns by the Joe Baldridge bakery, and 120 quarts of milk by the Hillside dairy.

Groceries Given

Grocery orders entered for families by United Charities totaled 172. Of the $459.07 spent for food, $25.20 was used to aid needy negroes and $14.25 to help Mexicans.

Apparel donated for distribution to the poor included 1,221 articles of clothing and 157 pairs of shoes. Nine and a half tons of coal sent to the poverty stricken by United Charities cost $124.25 and 390 gallons of kerosene cost $39.

United Charities is allowing the negroes $6 a week to maintain a soupline which dispenses food twice a day in the Flats, and the Colored Relief association is aiding the project with a contribution approximating that amount. The recently formed negro charity organization will solicit funds among Lubbock negroes.

Twelve hundred "handouts" were made to negroes in a soupline during January. Thirty negro families were aided directly by United Charities, which distributed 57 articles of clothing, 13 pairs of shoes and two orders of coal to those families.

Seventeen Mexican families representing 76 individuals were helped during the last month. Six orders of groceries, 106 articles of clothing and 20 pairs of shoes were distributed by United Charities among the Mexicans.

Butler Charge Not Yet Known

Defense Counsel For Marine Major, Facing Court-Martial, Works In Dark Until Charges Are Made

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP)—Major Henry Leonard, counsel for Major General Smedley D. Butler of the marine corps, believes it's better to work in the dark than not at all.

He and his client plan to get together in Leonard's office tomorrow to talk over defense procedure for Butler's pending court martial. Leonard said they were "working in the dark" until specific charges had been served on Butler by the navy department.

May Be Known Today.

Secretary Adams said today that "in all possibility the charges would be available tomorrow." They were formulated as the result of a speech by Butler at Philadelphia which led to a note of apology from this government to Italy.

Capt. William C. Watts, prosecution counsel, with Rear Admiral David F. Sellers, judge advocate general of the navy, today conferred with Secretary Adams.

When approved by the secretary, the charges will be submitted to Major General Ben H. Fuller, marine commandant, for transmission to General Butler.

Butler's staff of legal advisers has been augmented by the services of Major Harris W. Watkins, Philadelphia lawyer and former campaigner with Butler in the marine corps.

Davis To Assist.

Major Leonard said John W. Davis, 1924 democratic nominee for president, was planning to assist in Butler's defense.

Sessions of the court will be open to the public unless this right is waived by Butler, or unless the court, for reasons of propriety shall ask and receive approval for them to be closed from Secretary Adams.

Favorable Reaction Made To U. Of Penn Changes

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3. (AP)—Echoes of the announcement of sweeping and drastic changes in the management of athletics at the University of Pennsylvania in the endeavor to eliminate over-emphasis in competitive sports began to be heard on the campus today.

Gates, who made the announcement that athletic control would be centralized in the administrative officers of the university and that all coaches would be members of the faculty of the reorganized department of physical education, is receiving communications from all parts of the country. It was said these communications praised the step and predicted the movement would spread to other colleges and universities.

Cuban Strike Begun Tuesday

Havana Linotype Operators, Stevefores And Fishermen Protest Renewed Suspension Of Guarantees

HAVANA, Feb. 3. (AP)—Havana linotype operators, stevedores and fishermen began a 24-hour strike at six o'clock tonight in protest at renewed authorization by the Cuban congress for suspension of constitutional guarantees.

The movement originally was planned to result in a general strike, but not all laboring units had decided tonight whether they would join.

Street railway employes are protesting a reduction of their wages by five cents an hour and are expected to participate in the strike, but it was uncertain when the others walked out whether they would fall in line.

With the strike of their printers, the newspapers El Mundo, Heraldo and Diario De La Marina will not be able to publish tomorrow. The employes of Heraldo and Diario De La Marina are not union men, but decided to walk out in sympathy with their brethren. The Havana Post, an English-language publication, is not affected.

In the meantime the government took wide precautions to prevent any disorder.

New Baseball Adopted By Majors To Slash Hit Market

Thicker Cover Heavy Stitch Mark New Ball

Texas League Officials Not Decided Yet; New Ball To Cut Down Base Hits And Home Runs; Is Slower

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. — Major baseball as exemplified by Hack Wilson and Babe Ruth, the home run twins, was curtailed in the national league today with announcement the 1931 ball to be used in the senior circuit will have a thicker cover and heavier stitch.

The ball designed as an answer to the cry for fewer extra base hits not only is expected to be a trifle slower but will furnish the pitcher a chance for a better grip. In addition the stitches will not be countersunk. No change was made, however, in the size or center of the ball, the former being regulated by a joint major league agreement.

Team presidents and owners in session at the Hotel Commodore had no opportunity to reject or approve the new ball as they were merely informed by President John A. Heydler of the new ball designed for the league's use by the manufacturing company which furnishes the balls.

"The idea of a heavier stitch goes back several years," said President Heydler, "before the present core was placed in the ball the heavy raised stitch was used by both leagues."

Used In Camps

The new ball will be used during the regular season but will probably be given a trial by the National League clubs during their spring training games.

Although not shortening the playing season the schedule adopted calls for the earliest closing date in 22 years, September 27.

The opening date of April 14 remains the same as last year.

Retain Old Umpire Staff

Expressing satisfaction with the 1930 umpire staff, President Heydler announced retention of Robert M. Clarke, Louis Jorda, William J. Klem, George L. Magerkurth, Charles B. Moran, Ted McGrew, Charles Pfirman, Ernest C. Quigley, John R. Reardon, Charles Rigler, James Scott and Albert D. Stark.

Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh club, was the only league executive absent from the session, but he was reelected vice-president.

In accord with a recent decree, calling for everybody on the playing field to be in uniform, the league ruled the home club must furnish a uniformed bat boy for the visiting club.

No Decision In Texas League About Ball

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 3 (AP) — The Texas League has not decided to use a new style baseball such as has been adopted by the majors Milton Price said tonight.

The Texas League heretofore has used balls identical with those used in the National League and whether the change will be made depends upon the club owners, Price said.

J. Alvin Gardner, Texas League president, was enroute to Chicago to attend the Red Bennett contract suit and from there he was to go to New York for a meeting of the national draft committee.

Campbell Makes Speed Of 260 An Hour; Unofficial

High Wind Prevents Official Test At Daytona

By The Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 3. High wind and poor visibility on the ocean speedway here today prevented Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British speedster, from making an official attempt on the world's land speed record of 231 miles an hour, but in an exhibition run he claimed he reached a speed of 260 miles an hour.

He made the exhibition run over the nine miles course at an average speed of 194 miles an hour, and before entering the measured mile he said he attained the higher speed. His machine slipped out of gear, he said, and he was forced to coast over the mile in neutral.

Low tide tomorrow occurs about 3 p. m., E. S. T., and Campbell said he hoped weather conditions would improve sufficiently to permit an official attempt to lower the record at that time.

He was confident his car would break the world's straightaway mark established here in 1929 by the late Sir Henry Seagrave also of England.

Amarillo Pooch In All-Age Dog Trial

COLUMBUS, Miss., Feb. 3 (AP)—Eight of 27 dogs entered in the all-age field trials of the continental club were put through two hour heats at Marland's Circle M ranch here today.

All-age trials followed completion of the Derby won by Evergreen Jersey Mack, white and liver pointer of F. S. Groves Jr., Riverton, N. J., handled by Ed Farrior. Trego, winner of national cubs derby, was runner up and Panhandle Lady third.

Braces running today in the all age included:

First: Dickies Dan, owned by J. W. Dickie, Jr., Amarillo, Texas, handled by W. H. Warren, and Parmwood Buckshot, owned by U. M. Fleuschman, New York, handled by Sam Young.

Pat Page To Assist At University Of Chicago

American League To Use Same Cover Weight

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—The American League will use a baseball with a heavier stitch, but with the same cover weight as before during its 1931 season, Pres. Ernest S. Barnard said today.

The thread will be coarser than before so that the pitcher can get a better grip on the ball and so that the ball will have greater wind resistance. The thread used on the old balls, President Barnard said caused the ball to cut through the wind and travel farther.

Versatile Jimmy Foxx Now Playing On Painted Court

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP) Jimmy Foxx, slugging first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics has added basketball to his preseason training schedule.

With his new contract reported signed, the A's first sacker donned the colors and uniform of a center in the city basketball league.

The venture is the most strenuous sport Foxx has undertaken since he came here some time ago for a golfing and fishing vacation prior to spring training at the Athletics' Fort Myers camp.

His versatility on the basketball court, in the opinion of Alton Moore, manager of the team, is on a par with his ability on the diamond or the fairway.

Foxx has a reputation for banging out 300-yard drives at the golf course here. He recently set up an eagle on the long 16th hole for other club swingers to shoot at.

Jimmy explained his basketball venture as the final bit of his program to get in prime condition before spring training opens the latter part of this month.

Lubbock Ready For Hagen And Kirkwood Show

Famous Professionals Here Tomorrow For Exhibition And Lectures; Appear At Country Club At 1:30

Officials of the Lubbock Country club have employed twelve of Lubbock's "unemployed" to work on the fairways and greens of the course and announce that the links will be in the best condition possible for the appearance here tomorrow of two of the world's greatest and most popular professional golfers, Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood will arrive here about noon tomorrow and will be at the country club for an 18-hole flight at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Gibson Payne, regular playing member of the club, and W. J. Byrnes, club professional, will be matched with Hagen and Kirkwood for the match, Payne to pair with Hagen and Byrnes with Kirkwood.

In addition to the scheduled 18-hole match, Hagen will deliver a lecture at the close of the flight and Kirkwood will give a display of his famous "impossible" shots. He is known far and wide as a trick shot artist. In an individual appearance here four years ago he entertained a large gallery with shots that were seemingly impossible.

Tickets for the exhibition are on sale for $1.50 each at the Hilton and Lubbock hotel drug stores. Lubbock fans are urged to purchase the tickets before going to the course.

Claude Bracey Fast Man Off And On Cinder Path

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Claude Bracey, former Rice sprinter, and Nelson Greer, Texas middle distance star, are fast travelers off as well as on the board and cinder tracks.

Starting from Houston, Texas, in an automobile they drove to New York City in 49 hours, several hours ahead of the fastest train schedule.

They will make their first starts of an eastern indoor track campaign in the Millrose A. A. games Saturday, Bracey in the sprint series and Greer in the 1,000-yard run.

Shorty Russick Wins In Second Dog Derby Laps

OTTAWA, Feb. 3. (AP)—Shorty Russick of Flin Flon, Manitoba, drove his team of huskies to victory in the second 33 1-3 mile lap run today of the 100-mile international dog derby. Today's victory brought him up to second place, six minutes and 53 seconds behind Emil St. Goddard of the Pas, Man., who won yesterday's race in which Russick was third.

In a recent month 921,106 fine ounces of gold, a record, were mined in South Africa.

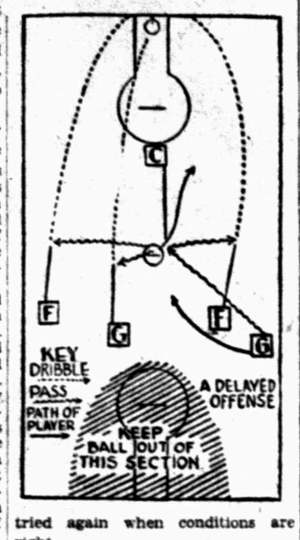

BASKETBALL PLAYS and PLAYERS

Massed defenses have brought about a quick evolution of offensive systems. These defenses were hard to penetrate and because of this, offensive tactics were changed to meet the situation.

The result was that a delayed or slow offense was used to spread the defense out over the floor, thus making it easier to penetrate. This can be done by the team ahead in score. The other use of the delayed offense is in the final minutes of the game to keep possession of the ball and at the same time make offensive thrusts for short baskets.

The delayed offense as illustrated in the accompanying chart has been used by Western Conference teams. The offensive team takes the ball to its defensive end of the floor and waits until the defense approaches. The ball should be passed snappily to avoid interceptions. When the entire defense comes out, a pass is made to (C) meeting the ball; he bats it back to one of the fast men breaking for the basket. The fastest men should do most of the breaking and there should be two men following up to retain possession of the ball if they do not get a shot.

McCracken of Indiana, and Murphy of Purdue are the best type of centers for the delayed offense mentioned here. If the offensive thrust fails to go through, the ball should be brought back, passed around and tried again when conditions are right.

Next—Southern California Play.

Shipbuilding is becoming increasingly important in Spain.

Keeling Sends Team Through Stiff Workout

Game Starts At 7:30 On Tech Floor This Evening; Ralls Brings Strong Team Against Lubbock Westerners

"Jew" Keeling was a great deal more fatigued than his Lubbock high school Westerners late yesterday afternoon when the order came to dismiss and shower. He had just finished giving his youthful proteges one of the toughest workouts of the season. They have all been tough of late, but it has occurred to the Westerner mentor and the Westerners that they ought to win a game now and then to hold the support of the faithful 40 who see the games.

Their opponents tonight are the Ralls high school Jackrabbits, strong Class B unit that has been running over and about nearly all comers this season. It is usually a good party when Ralls and Lubbock meet in any kind of athletic contest, and now, feeling that the Westerners are weaker than usual, the Rabbits make bold to invade the local precincts.

Belle, tell me the truth, and I l not be angry: did you put that book on that shelf?" Dundee d, his voice steady and kindly pite of his excitement.

Thanks, Belle. That will be all ," and Dundee did a great deal dispel the chambermaid's gloom presenting her with a dollar bill. When she had gone, the detec- read the note again, then look- at it and its envelope more close- They had a strangely familiar . . . . Suddenly he jerked open drawer of his desk, on which his noiseless portable typewriter od, selected a sheet of plain white d, and rolled it into the ma- e. Noiselessly he tapped out a y of the strange, taunting mes- s! The left-hand margin was tical, the typing and its degree blackness were identical, and the r on which he had made the y was exactly the same as that which the original had been tten.

The truth flashed into his mind. was no coincidence that he had opy of the very book to which his known correspondent referred For the note had been writ- in this very room, on stationery conveniently at hand, on the noise- typewriter which had been far more considerate about not betray the intruder than had the par- whose slumbers had been dis- urbed.

"But why did my unknown friend risk arrest as a burglar if he wanted to give me an honest tip?" Dundee remarked aloud to the parrot, who croaked an irrele- vant answer:

"Bad Penny Bad Penny"!

"I'm afraid, my dear Watson, that those words will not be so helpful in this case as they were when your mistress was murdered." Dundee assured his parrot absently, for he was studying the peculiar situation from every angle. "An- other question, Cap'n—why did the unknown bother to take my 'Who's Who' out of the bookcase, where I should normally have looked for it, and put it on that particular shelf?"

Warily, for his scalp was prick- ing with a premonition of danger, Dundee crossed the room to the shelf, but his hand did not reach out for the red book, which might have been expected to solve one problem, at least. "Why the shelf"? he asked himself again. Why not the desk top, or the mantelpiece, or the smoking table beside the big armchair?

The shelf, with its drapery of ra- ther fine old silk tapestry, offered no answer in itself, for it held no- thing except the red book, a Chinese bowl, and a humidor of tobacco. And beneath the shelf was nothing but the old-fashioned register, the opening covered with a screwed-on metal screen which was a mass of tiny holes to permit the escape of hot air when the furnace was going in full winter. . . .

Suddenly Dundee stooped and peered with eyes that were widened with excitement and a certain amount of horror. Then he rose, and standing far to one side, pick- ed up the fat volume which lay on the shelf. As he had expected, a bul- let whizzed noiselessly across the room and buried itself in the plaster of the wall opposite—a bullet which would have plowed through his own heart if he had obeyed his first im- pulse and gone directly to the shelf to obey the instructions in the note.

But more had happened than the whizzing flight of a bullet through one of the holes of the hot-air reg- ister. The "Who's Who" had been jerked almost out of Dundee's hand before he had lifted the heavy vol- ume many inches from the shelf. Coincidental with the disappear- ance of a bit of white string which had been pinned to a thin page of the book was a metallic clatter, followed swiftly by the faint sound of a bump far below.

Dropping "Who's Who" to the floor, Dundee flung open his liv- ing room door and raced down three flights of stairs. He brought up, panting, at the door of the base- ment. It was not locked and in an- other minute he was standing be- fore the big hot-air furnace. Above the fire box was a big metal com- partment—the reservoir for the heated air. And set into the reser- voir, to conduct the heat to the re- gions above, were three huge pipes.

With strength augmented by ex- citement, Dundee tugged and tore at one of the pipes until he had dislodged it. Then, thrusting his hand into the heat reservoir, he groped until he had found what he had known must be there—Judge Marshall's automatic, with the Maxim silencer screwed upon the end of its short nose.

At last he held in his hands the weapon with which Nita Leigh Selim and Dexter Sprague had been murdered.

The ingeniousness of his own at- tempted murder moved him to such profound admiration that he could scarcely feel resentment. If, in the excitement of hunting for a prom- ised clue, he had gone directly to the shelf, standing in front of the hole in the register into which the end of the silencer had been jam- med, so that it showed scarcely at all, even to eyes lookinig for it, he would now have been dead. And the gun and silencer, after hurtling down the big hot-air pipe behind the register, could have lain hidden for months, even years, in the heat reservoir of the furnace.

With the weapon carefully wrap- ped in his handkerchief, Dundee went up the stairs almost as swiftly as he had gone down them, meet- ing no one on the way to his rooms on the top floor.

"My most heartfelt thinks to you, Cap'n!" he greeted his parrot. "If you had not squawked last night and so frightened the murdered that he made the vital error of cov- ering your cage, I should never have annoyed you again with my Sherlock ruminations on cases which do not interest you in the slightest."

The parrot cackled hoarsely, but Dundee paid him scant attention. He picked up the now harmless "Who's Who" and turned to page 410, a corner of which had disap- peared with the string which was still fastened to the hair-trigger hammer of the Colt's .32. Very clever and very simple! The mur- derer of two people and the would- be murderer of a third had had only to unscrew the metal covering of the register, wedge the end of the silencer into one of the many holes, replace the screws, and paste the end of the string to a page of the book he had selected as the one most likely to appeal to a detective as a clue source. . . .

No, wait! He had had to do more! Dundee bent and examined the metal cover of the register. The circumference of the hole the mur- derer had chosen as the one which would be directly in front of Dun- dee's heart gleamed brightly. It had been necessary to enlarge it considerably. The murderer had left a trace after all!

But the book was open in Dun- dee's hands and his eyes rapidly scanned page 410. And he found what the murderer had not expect- ed him to live to read, but which he had counted on as an explanation of the note which the police would have puzzled over, if all had gone well with his scheme. . . .

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—"For a long time I suffered with pains right across my back," writes Mrs. F. M. Boatwright, of 839 Park Ave- nue, this city.

"I had nervous headache and sometimes I could not sleep.

"When I began to take Cardui I began to feel better. I was com- plaining to a friend how bad I felt. She had been taking Cardui and she told me to try it, so I did. Before that, I just could not relax, and I got very little rest at night.

"I took Cardui for several months and it made all the dif- ference in the world in my health. I felt stronger and better than I had in many a year.

"I recommend Cardui to other women when they suffer from weakness and bad health."

Thousands of women have been benefited by taking Cardui, and their experience prompts them to recommend it to their friends.

Cotton Cotton Continues Quiet On Tuesday — Livestock Cattle Trade Is Slow On Circuit — Grain Mart Is Featured By Heavy Receipts

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 3. (AP)—Cotton continued quiet during today's session here, and price fluctuations were narrow, although the undertone was steadier after a slight early drop of 2 points. Cables were lower than due, but prices were supported by overnight buying orders, and the early decline of a couple of points was far from meeting Liverpool's decline. Later the market rallied on some trade buying stimulated by rather good exports and by a report that the India crop was to be reduced. By noon prices had recovered 6 to 9 points from early lows. A new low record was established for silver, but it had apparently no effect on the market. There was more activity in late trading with price fixing on old crops by mills and buying of new crops by the cooperatives, and new highs were made 6 to 11 points above the lows. The close was a little under the best on realizing and the general market closed steady at net advances for the day of 1 to 4 points.

Port receipts 31,340; for week 60,237; for season 7,573,361; last season 7,541,866. Exports 38,376; for week 92,112; for season 4,438,567; last season 4,891,436 Port stocks 4,187,302; last year 2,481,852; combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 67,353; last year 119,085; spot sales at southern markets 6,896; last year 5,036.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Opening declines of 2 or 3 points in response to relatively easy cables were followed by steadiness in cotton today on further trade buying and covering, particularly in the near months. May cotton sold up from 10.60@10.70 and closed at 10.69 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 1 to 6 points.

Liverpool cables said the market there had declined under hedge selling and scattered liquidation, but reported a fair business in cotton cloths for future delivery.

There was some comment on reports that rain was needed to put a good season in the ground in some parts of the cotton belt, which, however, evidently failed to stimulate interest in the new crop positions. Exports today 64, 131 making 4,976,709 so far this season. Port receipts 27,207; U. S. port stocks 4,041,083.

eration, Tuesday evening that Lubbock's invitation had been unanimously accepted at the board meeting.

This will bring several hundred women to Lubbock for the November meeting—probably five or six hundred, local club women estimate. Since this is an election year, there will be a larger attendance than the 1930 session drew, Mrs. W. B. Price, who is recording secretary for the state association, believes.

The meeting will open on the second Tuesday in November, following a meeting of the board on Monday. The sessions probably will continue through the following Friday.

Since the Texas Federation met in Amarillo in 1924, this is the first time the women have gathered in this section of the state. The nearest meeting place to this section was the 1929 meeting in Mineral Wells.

Santa Fe Man Leaps Twelve Stories To Instant Death

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—Richard Michael Noonan, 15, of Santa Fe, N. M., walked into the Hotel Biltmore this morning carrying two bags, took an elevator to the 14th floor and from a fire escape plunged to his death on a courtyard roof twelve stories below.

The body broke off the edge of a cornice, but a re-inforcing net prevented it from crashing through to the dining room where 70 guests were eating.

A telegram addressed to Mrs. M. Noonan, Santa Fe, N. M., was found in his pocket. It read: "Have arrived at the final destination. Shan't return example. Jerry."

Recovery Of U. S. Government Shares Furnishes Background For New Rally

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3. (AP)—A recovery by United States government securities and firmer prices for corn and wheat provided the background for another last hour rally in stocks today.

The market dragged along dolefully most of the day. Fluctuations in pivotal stocks were confined to the minor fractions. Motion pictures, steels and utilities came to life sufficiently in the late dealings to improve the tone of other sections. Net gains averaged about half a point in a turnover of 1,200,000 shares.

Interest Revived.

Revival of interest in some of the pool stocks suggested that professional traders believed a sold-out condition had developed in the general list. Auburn Auto rallied 5 before losing half its rise. Overthingtn Pump gained more than 4, and Vanadium was active at higher levels.

American Telephone, Woolworth, Eastman, New York Central, North American, and Union Carbide improved a point, net, but advances over the Monday close in U. S. Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, Consolidated Gas, Bethlehem Steel, Radio, Montgomery Ward and National Biscuit amounted only to about half a point.

Weakness Confined.

Weakness was confined to less than half a dozen shares. Hudson's unfavorable earnings statement, broke the stock 2 points to the lowest quotation for the present issue. Uncertainty over the dividends of Rock Island and St. Louis San Francisco railroads directed considerable pressure against both stocks, the latter losing 3.

The upturn in liberties and treasury certificates was accomplished in a substantial volume of business in several issued and this reversal of trend assisted other sections of the bond market.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Feb. 3. (AP) — Recent heavy receipts of wheat continued to feature the cash grain market here today. With this grain largely taken by farm board agencies, it merely served to add to local stocks. No. 1 hard wheat of any protein was quoted around 77 1-2@80c delivered Texas common points.

Quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid: Corn, No. 2 mixed 72 1-2@74c; No. 2 white 75 1-2@76 1-2; No. 2 yellow 75 1-2@76.

Oats, No. 2 red 43 1-2@44 1-2.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.24@1.26; No. 3 kaffir 1.22@1.24.

Fair demand was reported for all offerings.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 3. (AP) — All grains darted upward today, impelled by drouth reports and by authoritative estimates that feed use of wheat has been much larger than supposed. With forecasts giving no promise of rain or snow, wheat finished at almost the day's top level, and corn rivalled wheat, although summer-like weather has heretofore been construed as enabling feeders to economize corn. A leading unofficial authority estimated that domestic disappearance of wheat for six months was 60,000,000 bushels in excess of last year.

Wheat closed firm, unchanged to 1 7-8 up, corn showing 1 1-2 to 2 cents advance, oats 5-8 to 7-8 gain, and provisions at 10 cents decline to a rise of 2.

Corn, oats and rye borrowed strength from wheat, but responded also to a sharp decrease in primary receipts of corn to 636,000 bushels, a total only half as large as a year ago. Provisions were steadied by upturns of cereals.

With matters at this point, the sheriff had only the story of W. R. Crider, 39, of Johnson City, that Withers and a woman were seated in a car about 30 feet from the Weiner roast fire when the shooting occurred. Crider said he saw two men standing by the car and that they fled.

Cramton, who was defeated for reelection, has been proposed for a position with the Washington bicentennial commission. He led the house opposition to the $25,000,000 relief proposal.

Representative Parks, Democrat, Arkansas, clamored for recognition from the speaker to make a point of order against Cramton on the ground the Michigan member's remarks were unparliamentary.

"It is the only language that will adequately picture the occasion," Cramton snapped.

the senate and another broached.

Harrison of Mississippi, a Democratic advocate of the governmental relief provision, proposed that the $25,000,000 appropriation be made for the Red Cross with the Stipulation that it be used only in case charitable organizations were not taking care of the situation.

Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, inquired of Democratic Leader Robinson if he would accept a proposal for a $15,000,000 food loan instead of the $25,000,000 Red Cross appropriation.

Senator Robinson declined to comment until a definite compromise was formally offered. In two speeches, the democratic leader defended his own relief measures and assailed what he described as "indifference" to the situation.

President Hoover's statement expressed the feat of the chief executive that if once the government has turned its hand toward pushing the cart of relief that volunteered by private citizens would be lifted and the sense of local, individual responsibility to care for the needy would be dissipated.

The president said "it was not a question whether people should go hungry or cold, but of the best method by which hunger and cold could be combatted.

Efforts To Limit Number Of Filipinos Coming To The United States Assailed By Representative Gibson

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3. (AP)—Efforts to limit the number of Filipinos coming to the United States were assailed today as "un-American" in a minority report from the house immigration committee opposing the free bill for a 90 per cent cut in all immigration during the next two years.

The report, prepared by Representative Gibson, republican, Vermont, questioned the necessity for any general legislation but emphasized the ethical, economic and legal advisability of excluding "a people to whom we have extended the fundamental rights guaranteed by the constitution, the protection of our flag and the advantages of our democracy."

In a lengthy discussion of the Philippine issue, it said that to declare inhabitants of insular possessions, aliens for the purpose of restricting immigration, violates "our promises of protection and of equal treatment of a people brought under allegiance to the American flag."

Gibson said it is a "fair legal question if congress has the legislative authority to put the Filipino into the alien class and consider the Philippines to be a foreign country."

money and that the present was no time to increase governmental costs. He also gave the impression he would support a rigid retrenchment program, stating the tax collections would be less this year, and the schools, along with other state institutions and departments should bear their share of the reduced expenditures necessitated by the revenue curtailment.

The 10 per cent salary cut resolution pointed out that salaries were fixed when the cost of living was higher than at present. The salaries need to be readjusted, the resolution stated. Under its provisions, the appropriations committee would include the reduced salaries in the bills recommended.

The economy resolution adopted by the senate asked citizens of Texas to refrain from petitioning legislators to increase salaries and create new commissions and bureaus. It pointed to the present economic situation in Texas and the nation.

Another proposal to keep counties from having to pay any more on state highways was introduced in the house by Representative Stevenson of Junction.

Stevenson would have the state pay out of the gasoline tax the outstanding indebtedness of counties on state roads, estimated by him at $80,000,000.

The counties would not be reimbursed for bonds already retired.

A dozen employes of the Cudahy Packing company received minor cuts from glass.

The train, which had left the Salt Lake City station for Ogden a short time before the explosion, collided with the truck, which was loaded with blasting caps en route to Eureka, Utah.

Bergeman is believed to have been driving the truck, which was demolished and half buried in the ground beside the railroad track. Prinsen was decapitated by the explosion, and Rugg died in an ambulance en route to the hospital, as the result of burns from the locomotive boiler.

Locomotive Caved In.

The cab was blown from the engine and the side of the locomotive was caved in. The baggage car and two coaches ran on for about a quarter mile before breaking of the air lines brought it to a stop.

The force of the explosion was felt in buildings two blocks away, a box car on a nearby siding was split open by the force and a steel rail was cracked down the center.

Rugg, one of the oldest employes of the Denver and Rio Grande, was due to be pensioned next April. He left his home yesterday on his run to Helper, Utah.

Many persons met death while sitting in their parked automobiles, Commander Rogers reported, as buildings toppled over on them. The shocks were continuing late today, but the population was quiet and no disorder was reported.

Appeals for nurses, medical supplies, food and clothing were sent out. The British warships Diomede and Duhedin left Auckland for Napier with doctors, nurses and supplies at first word of the disaster.

A COLLEGE COLUMN

By MARSHALL FORMBY, TECH CORRESPONDENT

"FISH" OFFICERS NAMED

Matt Seymour, Waco, was named president of the Texas Tech freshman class at a called election in the Tech gym Monday night. At the same time Charles F. O'Neall Lubbock, was elected vice-president. Miss Temple Boone, Junction, who was selected secretary last fall will continue in that capacity.

Failure of officers selected last fall to return caused the election Monday night. Taylor B. Odom, San Angelo, was elected early last fall as president and Sparton Duke Dawson, was named vice-president.

Pre-election campaigning had placed at least two freshmen ahead of Seymour who entered the race as a dark horse. Results for both officers were close.

Representatives to the student council will be selected at the next class meeting, it was announced yesterday. Under a new ruling, the first year class is allowed a representative from each school on the student council after the fall term. The representatives will not be allowed voting power until the spring term, however.

MID-TERM EXAMS ON

Mid-term examinations are in full swing at Tech this week and midterm reports are due in to the registrar's office by Saturday, February 14. These reports will be mailed to parents of students, indicating whether or not the student is doing satisfactory work. No grades will be recorded.

The midterm exams are one hour in length.

PLAN ATHLETIC MEETING

Athletes from West Texas high schools will be guests of the Tech Chamber of Commerce at the next all-college "fun night" if plans now being worked out by the organization are perfected. Preceeding the "fun night" program the visitors will be entertained with some sort of a "feed," probably a barbecue. A special program will be arranged for the night, according to officials of the Tech organization.

A similar gathering was sponsored by the Tech organization last year and was branded a huge success by college students. Officials of the athletic department have signified their intentions of cooperating with the chamber of commerce in providing entertainment for the visitors.

Invitations will be mailed to athletes in every high school in West Texas. Julius Bergfeld, Dallas, has called a special meeting of the chamber of commerce for next Monday night at 7 o'clock in the auditorium of the engineering building.

COMMENTS ON SCHOOLS

"I think it is highly important that there be summer schools not only in Tech but in other state colleges," stated Dr. Paul W. Horn Tech president, in commenting on the movement before the state legislature for cutting out appropriations for summer sessions. "I sincerely hope that the appropriation bills will come through all right," the Tech president added.

The college has asked for $35,000 to run the summer session. Fifteen thousand dollars already is available, but $50,000 is necessary to keep the school going the proposed 12 weeks. The senate already has approved the $35,000 request.

TO ORDER INVITATIONS

Orders for 1931 senior invitations at Tech will be taken at the bookstore from February 15 until April 15, it was announced yesterday. The 1931 class is standardizing the invitations which will be unique. The Tech colors, scarlet and black will be carried out and the invitations this year will contain several pages giving the names of all the candidates for graduation.

REGENTS REAPPOINTED

Clifford B. Jones, Spur; Roscoe Wilson, Lubbock, and Houston Harte, San Angelo have been reappointed as members of the Texas Technological college board of regents by Gov. Ross Sterling, it was announced yesterday by Pres. Paul W. Horn. Mr. Jones is chairman of the board, while Mr. Wilson is secretary.

The board is made up of nine members, three retiring every two years.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION

The North Texas Tech Student association was organized Monday night at Amarillo when more than 40 graduates and former students of Tech gathered at a banquet at which Pres. Paul W. Horn was principal speaker. Anna Belle Collins was named president; Winfield Nicklaus, vice-president, and Lucille Davis, secretary.

All Tech graduates or former students in North Texas are eligible for membership in the organization which was organized to promote fellowship among Tech students in that part of the state and to induce more high school graduates to attend Tech.
