Snow storm closes roads in Panhandle

Tornadoes touch down in East Texas

MOUND CITY, Texas (AP) — A tornado touched down in this East Texas community late Friday afternoon, damaging a general store and several homes, uprooting trees and power lines, and overturning farm equipment, officials said.

Deanna Holden, owner of the general store, which recently was converted into a home, said the family had no warning of the storm. She whisked her 11-month-old granddaughter from her crib only moments before glass flew through the southside bedroom, she said.

"We just started opening windows, but it was too late," Mrs. Holden said. "If we hadn't gotten the baby out of the bed, she'd have been dead."

Another tornado tore through about 25 homes in East Mountain, a small community 15 miles north of Longview. Witnesses said about eight houses were blown from their foundations, but no injuries were reported.

The city hall, an elementary school and a car dealership suffered heavy damage about 4:45 p.m. at Gladewater, about 20 miles northwest of Longview. A supermarket and several mobile homes also were hit.

A spring snow storm produced near-blizzard conditions in the Texas Panhandle on Friday, closing at least two highways and knocking out power to some homes.

A winter storm warning was in effect through tonight for the Panhandle, where as much as six inches of snow had piled up in some areas and more was expected.

"We have a lot of stranded motorists in town and on the highways," said Dalhart police dispatcher Susie Simmons.

She said a lot of travelers stuck in the Panhandle were en route to ski areas. "I guess they can cross-country ski here," she said.

Meanwhile, the National Weather Service issued a tornado watch until 8 p.m. for 36 counties in north central and northeastern Texas as thunderstorms, some producing hail, rumbled across much of the state.

Dalhart police discouraged travel in the northwestern portion of the Panhandle because of snow-packed and icy roads. U.S. 87 through Dalhart was closed.

Hazardous driving conditions were reported across most of the Panhandle, and U.S. 287 was closed north of Stratford to the Oklahoma state line because of blowing snow, the Department of Public Safety said.

Near-blizzard conditions and near-zero visibilities were also reported west of Amarillo to Dalhart and into northeastern New Mexico. Winds of up to 30 mph have caused power outages from West Amarillo to Dumas, authorities said.

The "E" for Earth first-class postage stamp goes into service Sunday, when the United States Postal Service blasts off with its latest rate hikes. The 25-cent first-class stamp is replacing the 3-year-old 22-cent postage for first-class mail.

Postage increases to follow USPS' 'break-even' policy

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

The United States Postal Service, which has brought the American public eight postal-rate hikes since 1968, is levying yet another rate increase, effective 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

The USPS benchmark, the first-class stamp, is increasing in price by 14 percent — to 25 cents from 22 cents.

"It's to cover our costs, which are mandated by Congress to keep with the break-even policy" of postal operations, said Polo J. Martinez, director of marketing and communications for the USPS's Tucson Division. "We don't get a subsidy from Congress."

Instead, mail-users bear the cost of mail operations by way of postage.

The USPS has been an independent federal government agency since 1971, when it replaced the U.S. Post Office Department.

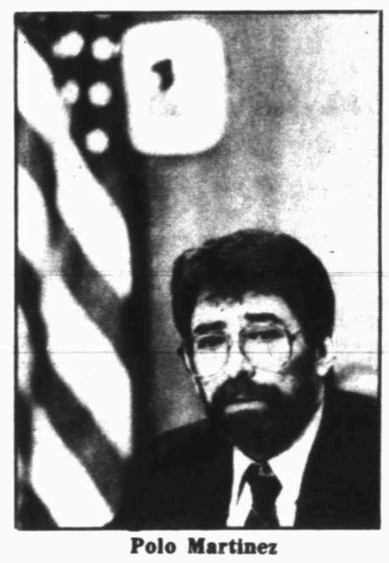
USPS stamp-vending machines and postal-clerk stations already have been stocked with the new "E" for Earth quarter stamp bearing a thumbnail-size image of the planet Earth.

"Normally what happens," Martinez said Friday in Midland, "is we make a lot of money the first year (after a rate hike). We don't make any money the second year, and we lose money the third year." The USPS's goal is a "zero" net in keeping with the Postal Service's break-even policy, he said.

"We're mandated to break even as opposed to making a profit."

Rate increases for 1988 include:

— 14 percent for first-class mail.
— 18 percent for newspapers and magazine on the second-class rate.
— 25 percent for bulk business mail (BBM).
— 14 percent for parcel-post packages.
— 12 percent for Express Mail.
— Less than 1 percent for the postal card, which is being priced to 15 cents from 14 cents.



Polo Martinez

Priority Mail rates will remain unchanged, Martinez said.

The new rates will be in effect "for as long as possible," he said.

And to keep rates from escalating too soon, the USPS is "pursuing" automation to cut down on labor costs and long-life vehicles to reduce mechanical overhead. Labor costs devour 80 to 85 percent of the USPS budget, he said.

"Martinez described the USPS bulk business mail (BBM) as its "bread and butter" mail.

First-class mail and bulk mail make "very high" contributions to covering the USPS fixed costs.

The USPS current budget is between $31 billion and $32 billion, said Martinez. In 1975, when the first-class stamp was 13 cents, the USPS budget was $10 billion.

Noriega's soldiers replaced; U.S. to send in more troops

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Police replaced Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega's heavily armed soldiers on the streets Friday for the first time since last month's attempted coup against the Panamanian strongman.

The U.S. Defense Department announced it will send 1,300 additional military personnel to Panama, bringing the number of American troops there to nearly 12,000.

Panamanians took time out from political activity on Good Friday to prepare for the Easter weekend. But for many that meant only another day of hunger and shortages as a 12-day-old general strike and bank closures made even basic necessities scarce.

Opposition leaders said they would accept, with some conditions, Monsignor Marcos Antonio McGrath, the Catholic archbishop of Panama City, as a mediator in talks to resolve the political crisis.

The conditions included guarantees that Noriega, head of the nation's 15,000-member Defense Forces and the power behind the civilian government, would indicate a willingness to resign and to leave the country.

Police foot patrols replaced soldiers who have filled the capital since a coup attempt failed March 16. The change was an indication of how the city has quieted for the holiday weekend, after weeks of protest.

The Pentagon said the 1,300 extra military personnel would improve security for American bases and U.S. residents in Panama.

Many of those to be dispatched beginning next week are military police, but army helicopter units will be included, the Pentagon said.

The U.S. Southern Command, which is based in Panama, had about 600 security personnel among its 10,000 troopers before Washington intensified its campaign for Noriega's removal.

Over a 10-day period that ended March 24, the Pentagon dispatched another 670 security personnel to Panama for the stated purpose of protecting military facilities.

Col. Ronald Sconyers, spokesman for the Southern Command, said the latest troop increase was prompted by "a longstanding look at what has been going on down here."

He said it was not made in anticipation of an imminent departure of Noriega and any instability that might follow.

Independent counsel says he lacks evidence to indict Meese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Independent counsel James McKay said Friday he has found insufficient evidence to date to warrant indicting Attorney General Edwin Meese III in connection with a $1 billion Iraqi pipeline plan or a possible conflict of interest involving his telephone company stock.

Meese said he was "gratified by the action and the statement" of the independent counsel and that he would not step aside.

"It is certainly my intent to carry on my duties as long as the president wants me to," the embattled attorney general told a news conference.

McKay said his report was an interim one and that his investigation was continuing.

"The grand jury's investigation is not yet complete as to" the pipeline probe, the telephone stocks and "other matters, and will continue at least through the end of April," McKay's statement said. A source close to McKay's investigation would not provide details of these matters, but said they were all felony cases.

The grand jury is expected this month to hear testimony from Meese, his wife, Ursula, and U.S. Circuit Judge Douglas H. Ginsburg, former head of the Justice Department's anti-trust division that handled the breakup of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. while Meese held telephone stock.

Even though McKay's announcement was an interim report, it was an enormous boost to Meese, who has been reeling from bipartisan calls in Congress for him to quit in the wake of the resignations Tuesday of two of his top aides.

McKay told a news conference that he decided to issue his statement on Friday "without any outside consultation." But he acknowledged that Meese's attorney has asked several times for such a public statement, including "quite recently."

A source close to McKay said Meese's attorneys "have known of this decision for a period of time." The source said they argued McKay should tell the public as well because "we know it and you know it."

This source said of McKay, "He's concerned about the fairness factor. ... He didn't want people speculating about what he would or would not do with respect to these matters."

The source said McKay could be reappointed or retain his appointment to deal with any evidence that might surface after the grand jury is dismissed.

Lawmen hunting suspects in DJ's death

By PATRICK CRIMMINS
Staff Writer

"He (Charles Kimble) was a Big Spring radio veteran for 37 years. We are all saddened and shook up. There are so many things we are trying to figure out."
— Larry Napper, KBYG disc jockey

BIG SPRING — West Texas law officers were watching for three suspects who reportedly fled with two vehicles and rifles belonging to a popular radio personality found shot to death at his home early Friday morning.

Meanwhile, the radio station where 61-year-old Charles Vance Kimble worked as a morning disc jockey played his favorite country music as a tribute to him, one saddened colleague said late Friday.

Kimble was found about 10:45 a.m. at his home on U.S. Highway 87 three miles south of Big Spring, a Howard County Sheriff's officer said late Friday.

Kimble's death was first ruled questionable, then a homicide, after he was found with a gunshot wound to the chest, Howard County Justice of the Peace William Shankles said.

Investigators handling the case were not available, the officer said.

But just after 4 p.m. Friday, descriptions of three suspects in the case and vehicles owned by Kimble were teletyped to the Midland County Sheriff's Department, the Midland office of the Department of Public Safety, and other agencies.

The suspects, a 21-year-old woman, 22-year-old man and 26-year-old man, were reportedly armed with a rifle and shotgun owned by Kimble, according to the broadcast.

"He was a Big Spring radio veteran for 37 years," said Larry Napper, 35, night personality for radio station KBYG. "We are all saddened and shook up. There are so many things we are trying to figure out."

Kimble worked weekdays 5 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the station, and when he did not show up Friday some workers though it was an April Fools' prank, Napper said.

But station workers who went to the home found Kimble, who apparently had been dead for several hours, Napper said.

As country music played in the background, Napper explained many regular station listeners had called about the death.

"He was one of these fans of old country music," he said. "We are playing his favorite music as a tribute to him until about 10 o'clock tomorrow."

Napper — who was born in Big Spring in 1952 — recalled hearing of Kimble in his childhood.

"He was very well known here."

Law officers were searching for a light green 1980 Ford pickup truck, and a 1986 blue and white Chrysler Fifth Avenue. Both vehicles were registered to him and were missing from his home, according to information broadcast to officers late Friday.

Fugitive priest involved in drug ring leads 'double life,' officials say

Zorza

NEW YORK (AP) — After arrests for art smuggling and ticket scalping, the Rev. Lorenzo Zorza claimed he was only trying to help his friends. These days the ex-Vatican diplomat has new friends, federal officials say — and they operate an international drug ring.

Zorza, 46, was identified Thursday as one of 39 people in the New York area involved in swapping cocaine for heroin with the Sicilian Mafia in what U.S. authorities described as the biggest international drug bust ever. For the Italian-born fugitive priest, it was just another twist in what was apparently a strange double life.

Known to his friends as Father Lorenzo, Zorza handled an assortment of church duties since arriving here in 1969: at the Consolata Fathers home for runaway girls, as fourth ranking Vatican diplomat to the United Nations, as assistant pastor at a Manhattan church.

Authorities provided a different resume: art smuggler, ticket scalper (although charges were eventually dropped), heroin smuggler.

"Among other criminal activities, Zorza carries money derived from illegal sources back and forth between the U.S. and Italy," the heroin complaint against the priest charged. The priest also is heard in several wiretapped conversations allegedly talking about the ring.

Zorza remained at large Friday after failing to get off a flight from Italy at Kennedy International Airport on Thursday, as authorities expected.

His first encounter with federal authorities came in 1982, when Zorza was arrested for using his clerical garb and diplomatic status to smuggle two 16th- century oil paintings worth more than $100,000 from Italy into the United States for an $8,000 fee.

Zorza, who was at the United Nations at the time, was placed on probation for three years after pleading guilty to charges in the case.

"I did it sincerely to help somebody," Zorza told the judge, asserting he did not know the paintings were stolen. "I'm terribly sorry."

And after charges of scalping $40,000 worth of tickets to Broadway's "Les Miserables" were dropped in August 1987, Zorza said he was "just trying to help out two friends."

Zorza was ordained in 1966, moved to the United States three years later and became an American citizen in 1976.

Authorities said Zorza remained a member of the Consolata Fathers of Somerset, N.J., but a priest there said the order ended its association with him more than a decade ago by mutual agreement.

"We just know what we heard last night," said the priest, who declined to give his name. "We don't know what he's doing, or where he's doing it."

The Archdiocese of New York also doesn't know where Zorza is, a spokesman said Friday. Zorza was assistant pastor at St. Agnes church in 1983, but officials at the church hung up the phone when called for comment.

Zorza is charged with conspiracy to distribute and possess with intent to distribute heroin, cocaine and marijuana. The conspiracy charge carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Jackson lectures on history when he takes campaign into schools

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jesse Jackson the politician often becomes Jesse Jackson the history teacher these days, taking his presidential campaign to high schools as often as to union halls or churches.

From the inner city school in Inkster, Mich., to Pulaski High in the heart of southside Milwaukee, the Democratic presidential candidate delivers his sermon of self-respect, a drug-free and violence-free life and the need to achieve.

"I go to four or five high schools a week in the course of every week, because I love our children, because I care, because their lives are at stake," Jackson told students in Inkster, near Detroit. "You are our energy."

In the high school speeches there is always a political message — "Come alive, April 5" was the chant he taught at Pulaski, in advance of the Wisconsin primary on Tuesday.

But Jackson has other goals as well, for in 1988 he emphasizes the course of the fight for equal rights for a generation that looks at the 1950s and 1960s as ancient history.

Jackson tells the story of Rosa Parks, whose refusal to go to the back of the bus in Montgomery, Ala., sparked demonstrations that pushed Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to prominence in 1955.

Jackson, a King protege, talks of the role young people played in the civil rights struggle, saying that King was only 26 when the Montgomery bus boycott began and that college students led the lunch counter sit-ins in Greensboro, N.C., that inaugurated a new tactic in the fight for desegregated public accommodations.

"In 1960, four students in Greensboro, N.C., sat at a lunch counter to get hamburgers. They got handcuffs," Jackson said at Pulaski High School. "They were threatened with expulsion from school. They chose dignity over degrees. They kept fighting to make America better."

Some Pulaski students may have had family members who had personal experience with the civil rights movement. It is in the heart of Southside Milwaukee, an all-white neighborhood that was the scene of ugly, sometimes violent confrontations during open housing marches of the 1960s.

Jackson also talks in sometimes brutal terms of the price that was paid in the civil rights movement, reading down the list of those who were killed in the fight. Often his images are harsh, as in his description of one civil rights marcher's death.

"Her brains were blown out at point-blank range by a shotgun," he told students at Stevenson High School in Sterling Heights, Mich.

After recounting how far the nation has come, Jackson turns to the problems of today.

"Each generation must face the challenges of its own time," he told Pulaski students.

Woman says children held as collateral

AP Laserphoto

Maria Luz Delulis of Lynn, Mass., claims her 22-month son, William and 6-year-old daughter were held by a hotel in Manila, Philippines, for payment of her bill. Her suit against the Royal Palm Hotel was dismissed; she has filed suit against the Bank of Boston because they restricted use of her credit card.

BOSTON (AP) — A woman says her sick infant and 6-year-old daughter were held as collateral in the Philippines until her hotel bill was paid, and has turned her anger on the Boston bank she says caused the trouble.

Maria Luz Delulis, who failed in her bid to sue the hotel, has sued the Bank of Boston for $2 million, saying her anguish was caused by someone at the bank who bungled her credit card account.

A Suffolk Superior Court judge this week refused a request by the bank to dismiss the suit she filed last year. The bank says the suit is groundless and that Delulis brought all the trouble on herself by using a card she had asked be restricted so her boyfriend could not use it.

Delulis, 39, of Lynn, a Filipino native, said her ordeal began when she returned to Manila in November 1986 with two of her three children to see her ailing father.

Delulis, her 6-month-old son and daughter checked into the Royal Palm Hotel in Manila for a week. She presented her Bank of Boston credit card and thought little of her $260 tab until shortly before she was to leave.

"They called my room at 11 o'clock at night and said the bank had voided my credit card," said Delulis.

Delulis said she asked the hotel to check again but that the hotel responded by confiscating her credit card and calling police, who seized the family's passports.

Because it was the start of a three-day holiday in the Philippines, Delulis said she was unable to go to a bank. As a result, the police ordered a security guard to watch them during the holiday.

After the weekend, Delulis was escorted to a bank by police. She says police and hotel management said the children could not leave the hotel until the bill was paid and that it took most of the day to arrange to get the money.

"My baby son was sick, he had a fever and diarrhea," Delulis said. "I was nervous all the time. I was horrified. I thought they might take the kids away from me forever, I thought they might take them away."

Delulis said hotel officials released the children after she paid her bill and after she complained to the American Embassy and Ministry of Tourism in Manila.

"This is the craziest story," Bank of Boston spokesman Wayne Taylor said Friday. "It's absolutely crazy. It's the most groundless, frivolous suit. It's the most ridiculous thing in the world."

Taylor said Delulis contacted the bank before she left for the Philippines and asked that her boyfriend's name be taken off the account. Taylor said the bank gave her a choice of either notifying them in writing, or canceling the account and getting a new card. Taylor said Delulis was unsure what to do and agreed to have the card "restricted," meaning no one could use it.

But Delulis said she had paid her credit card bill in full at the time and understood that she could continue to use it.

Delulis said her attempt to sue the hotel was dismissed in the Philippines.

Arman Mamangon, an operator at the Royal Palm Hotel for eight years, said in a telephone interview Friday that he was unaware of the Delulis case. But he said that when customers fail to pay their bills, the hotel "sometimes takes collateral like a passport, or maybe jewelry."

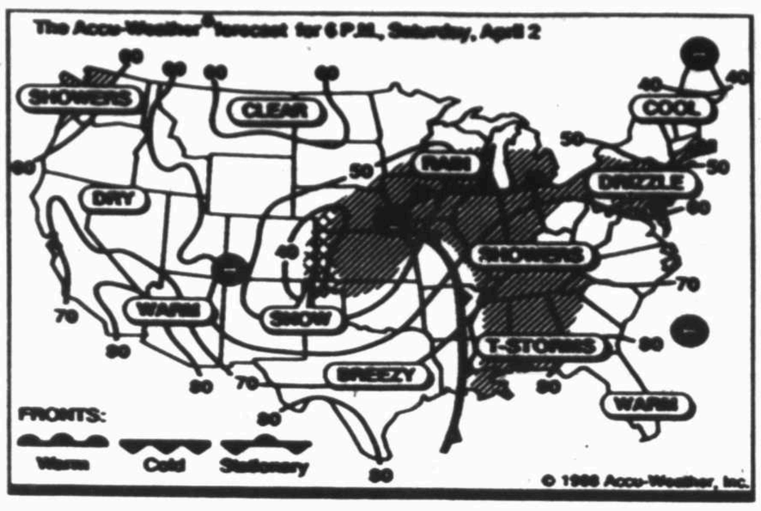
WEATHER SUMMARY



Easter will be sunny

From Staff and Wire Reports

Skies will be pleasant through the Easter weekend, with sunny skies and temperatures in the mid-70s expected by Sunday afternoon, according to National Weather Service forecasters at Midland International Airport.

Saturday will be sunny and warmer with a high in the lower 70s. Winds will be from the west 10-20 mph.

Saturday night will be fair, with the low cooling to the lower 40s.

Sunday will be sunny with a high expected in the mid-70s, according to forecasters.

Friday's high temperature of 60 was almost 40 degrees cooler than the record high for the date, a blistering 99 which was set in 1946. The record low of 29, set in 1938, was 14 degrees cooler than Friday's low of 43.

NATION

A storm spread snow up to 10 inches of snow from the southern Rockies to the southern Plains on Friday, and heavy rain ahead of the storm raised a threat of flooding.

Snow fell over the southeastern third of Colorado, the northeastern half of New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle, the Oklahoma Panhandle and western Kansas.

There were reports of 10 inches of snow over sections of the Texas Panhandle and 6 inches of snow at Ulysses, Kan., the National Weather Service said.

Elsewhere, rain continued over the northern Oregon coast.

For Saturday, rain and occasional thunderstorms were forecast from New Jersey across Pennsylvania, the Ohio Valley and the Tennessee Valley, from the northwestern half of Georgia across the Florida Panhandle, Alabama, Mississippi and southeastern Louisiana, and from Iowa across Missouri, northern Arkansas, the east-central Plains, Illinois, southern Wisconsin and Lower Michigan. Scattered rain was forecast over the northern Pacific Coast.

TORNADOES

As the storm moved on, it headed northeasterly toward Union Grove, where a house was destroyed, and on to East Mountain.

The only injury reported in Mound City was to a 10-year-old boy, Shan Haggerty of Houston, who was cut on the hand by flying glass as he crouched beneath a kitchen table of a Mound City home he was visiting.

Mound City is about 20 miles south of Palestine. Officials said the old general store remained standing, but the walls buckled and the structure moved off its foundation.

Four sheds nearby were destroyed, said Troy Freeman, dispatcher for the Anderson County sheriff's department in Palestine.

Witnesses reported four homes in the area were moved several feet off their foundations, at least one pickup truck overturned, and two large stock trailers were hurled about 300 yards.

The roof of Eileen Crawford's house in Mound City was ripped off in the tornado, while two brick sheds were demolished.

"I've got nothing left," Mrs. Crawford said. "I've got some furniture, my loved ones and my friends and that's all." Friday, she and her mother, Tommie Denson, covered her exposed furniture with plastic as rains continued in the area.

SNOW

Forecasters said as much as 10 inches of snow may fall in northern sections of the Panhandle and snowfall elsewhere could be as much as six to eight inches over the rest of the Panhandle, three to five inches over the southern Panhandle and northwest portions of the South Plains and about two inches over northeast portions of the South Plains.

Snow was also falling in northwestern sections of the South Plains and snow mixed with rain fell across eastern sections of the Panhandle.

An upper-level storm system moving across northeastern New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle triggered the snow.

The watch area included the metropolitan areas of Houston, Galveston, Beaumont and Port Arthur.

Forecasts called for showers and thunderstorms over most of the rest of the state through Saturday except in extreme West Texas, where skies were to remain clear.

A cold front produced thunderstorms and rain from the low rolling plains southward through the Edwards Plateau.

Ex-postal clerk given probated sentence

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

A 22-year-old former Midland postal clerk testified in federal court on Friday that she fraudulently used stolen credit cards in 1987 because her family was in "financial difficulty."

"And I took the easy way out," said the defendant, Lisa Woods.

Mrs. Woods' "easy way out" netted her a five-year probated sentence and $2,990 in restitution ordered by U.S. District Court Chief Judge Lucius D. Bunton.

Mrs. Woods, who is a first-year student at The University of Texas at El Paso, sobbed as she told the judge why she misused the credit cards.

Mrs. Woods' attorney, H.W. "Woody" Leverett Jr. of Midland, laid the woman's offense to "youth and immaturity" and to "financial difficulties."

In sentencing the woman, who plans to become a teacher after graduating, the judge said she should "want to teach children to respect the rights of others — don't take something that's not yours.

"And, yet, you went out and took something that wasn't yours," Bunton told the woman.

Mrs. Woods, a former letter-sorter machine clerk in Midland, was charged with the unauthorized use of a VISA credit card issued to L.E. Hamilton of Midland and with the unauthorized use of a MasterCard credit card issued to Robert Scott. She pleaded guilty to misusing the VISA card. The charge of her unauthorized use of the MasterCard was dismissed in a plea-bargain agreement.

In other cases heard Friday by Bunton:

— Rosie Lee Alvarez, 29, of Odessa was sentenced to three years in prison after she had pleaded guilty to conspiracy to sell methamphetamine in 1987. "I was pretty messed up on beer," said the woman, who testified that she sold speed "to support my habit" and grossed $200 to $300 a month in drug sales.

"You knew better," Bunton admonished the woman, "and went ahead and did it. You've been skirting on doing something really bad" for sometime. Her criminal record includes burglary and drug-abuse offenses. Bunton told the woman that she needed to stay off of dope. "You're not going to do it hanging around bars."

— Calvin James Johnston, 25, pleaded guilty to making a false statement in acquiring a firearm in August 1987. Johnston, who has a prior criminal record, could be sentenced up to five years in prison and fined $250,000 when Bunton sentences him at 12:30 p.m. on April 21.

— Troy D. Cottrell, 39, of Odessa pleaded guilty to making a false statement to obtain a $16,149.07 loan from ClayDesta National Bank in Midland in June 1984. Cottrell was charged with misleading ClayDesta by stating that proceeds and accounts receivable from Permian Meter House Inc. were unencumbered. Earlier, however, Cottrell admitted to pledging those same receivables to Texas National Bank of Odessa. The case was investigated by the FBI.

Cottrell, who could subjected to two years in prison and fined $5,000, is to be sentenced by Bunton at 12:13 p.m. on April 21.

Assistant United States Attorney Tom Beery of Midland represented the government in the criminal cases heard Friday by Bunton.

PANAMA

No evacuation plans have been discussed with Americans in Panama, Sconyers said during a news conference at Southern Command headquarters.

While most troops and their 13,000 dependents in Panama are assigned to live on bases, about 6,000 military personnel, dependents and Defense Department employees live in civilian areas.There are about 45,000 Americans living in Panama.

Limitations on movement for the Southern Command troops were decreased Friday to "alpha" level, the least severe of four restrictions.

The designation, in use for the first time since the crisis began Feb. 26, permits free movement but advises military personnel to avoid crowds and demonstrations.

Virtually all businesses were closed for Good Friday. A general strike called by opposition leaders eased earlier in the week, with groceries and pharmacies reopening, reportedly under government pressure.

Banks have been closed since March 3, and Panamanians who had cash appeared to be using it only for essentials.

Roberto Aleman, an attorney for the opposition National Civic Crusade, said the National Council of Private Enterprise, an umbrella group of several business organizations, had decided to continue the strike.

Other opposition leaders said some business executives felt the shutdown had made its point and could be ended.

In a letter made public Friday, three leading Noriega opponents said they would accept McGrath as a mediator in talks aimed at settling the situation only if Noriega indicated, before the negotiations, that he was willing to resign and leave the country.

The letter was signed by Alberto Boyd, coordinator of the National Civic Crusade; Ricardo Arias Calderon, president of Panama's Christian Democratic Party; and Alfredo Ramirez, president of the Liberal Republican Nationalist Movement.

Any agreements reached during mediation would have to be guaranteed by the church, four government officials to be named later, and the presidents of Costa Rica and Panama, the letter said.

It also demanded the release of all political prisoners before talks started and total press freedom. Panama's opposition press has been shut down for weeks.

MEESE

Several key figures in the criminal investigation of Meese, including his longtime friend, E. Robert Wallach and Meese's former financial manager, W. Franklyn Chinn, have refused to cooperate with McKay's inquiry. Wallach and Chinn are under indictment in the Wedtech scandal.

The aides who stepped down Tuesday were concerned that Meese's legal problems — he has been under criminal investigation for nearly 11 months — are hurting the Justice Department's operations and image.

Among those who resigned was Assistant Attorney General William Weld, who oversaw all federal criminal investigations, and Deputy Attorney General Arnold Burns.

Meese had planned to announce replacements for Burns, Weld and departing Associate Attorney General Stephen Trott, but the announcement was called off at the last minute without explanation.

Meese would not discuss in detail the reasons why the two top aides left, claiming his conversations with them were confidential.

But he did say that "there were some basic differences" between Burns, Weld and the attorney general "as to the effect that recent events had on the department...in part they were the fact that there was an independent counsel investigation."

Meese told reporters that for him to resign would be "incompatible with the actual state of affairs" and he cited "broad support" from law enforcement officials, from within the administration "at the highest level" and from members of Congress.

The White House declined comment on McKay and Meese's statements.

Meese received other good news Friday when Solicitor General Charles Fried said he would remain at the Justice Department, even though Fried reportedly urged Meese to resign earlier in the week.

The independent counsel said that if at the end of his investigation there remains "insufficient evidence to warrant a prosecution as to these or any other matters" he will issue a report covering all the matters which have been under investigation.

"Based on the evidence developed to date, he (McKay) does not intend to recommend that the grand jury return an indictment against Meese as to the 'Aqaba pipeline' matter or as to matters relating to Mr. Meese's investments, including the so-called 'Baby Bells' matter," McKay's statement said.

Fire scene

Midland firefighters work late Friday to extinguish a garage fire behind 709 Tyler Street. No injuries were reported in the blaze, which broke out about 8:20 p.m. The cause of the fire, which heavily damaged the structure, was under investigation.

Two people injured in accident

From Staff Reports

Two persons were injured Friday afternoon in a two-vehicle accident near Interstate 20 six miles west of Midland, the Department of Public Safety reported.

Scott Smith, 26, of Odessa was listed in fair condition Friday at Midland Memorial Hospital, according to DPS reports. He was the driver of a 1982 Datsun two-door sedan, reports said.

Patricia Gillispie, 34, of Andrews was listed in stable condition at MMH, reports said. She was a passenger in a 1987 Ford pickup truck driven by Robert Gillispie, also of Andrews, according to reports.

The pickup truck driven by Gillispie was eastbound on the north service road of I-20 about 2 p.m. when he attempted to turn into the driveway of a private business, the DPS said. The Datsun driven by Smith was westbound on the service road, and the two collided when the truck turned, reports said.

Midlander held on drug charges

From Staff Reports

A 29-year-old Midland man is in custody on drug charges following his arrest after a joint investigation of Midland police and the Department of Public Safety, a police spokesman said.

The man, whose name was not released, was arrested about 8 p.m. Thursday as he sat in his pickup truck in the 3300 block of Storey Ave., according to police spokesman Cpl. Jim White.

At least 11 grams of amphetamines with a street value of $1,300 were confiscated from the man after the arrest, White said.

Officers from the Midland police Selective Enforcement Team participated in the arrest, White added.

The man was expected to be charged with possession of narcotics with intent to distribute, according to reports.

DEATHS

Vera Underwood

Services for Mrs. Vera Underwood of Midland will be held 3 p.m. Saturday at the Kelview Baptist Church with Rev. Frank Johnson, pastor, officiating. Burial will follow in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Underwood died Thursday evening.

She was born Sept. 26, 1955, in Hobbs, N.M., and moved to Midland with her family at an early age. She attended Midland High School. She met Tommy Underwood in Midland, and they married Sept. 26, 1975, in Abilene. The couple made their home in Midland.

Mrs. Underwood was a member of the Kelview Heights Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband of Midland; two daughters, Janey and Jenny Underwood of Midland; a son, Jerry Don Underwood of Midland; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Zumwalt of Midland; three sisters, Kathy Zumwalt and Shirlene Zumwalt, both of Midland, and Joanna Anderson of Florida; a brother, William Zumwalt of Midland; six nieces and a nephew.

Bertha Hill

Services for Bertha M. Hill of Midland were at 1 p.m. Friday in the Ellis Chapel.

Pallbearers included J.D. Gaines, Kelly Meyer, Gary Summar, Rickey Cates, Steve Gaines and David Hill.

STAMPS

In 1883, first-class postage was three cents, dropped to two cents in 1885, returned to three cents in 1917 and dropped back to two cents in 1919. In 1932, the stamp returned to the three-cent rate and held that mark until 1958, when the first-class rate was hiked by a penny to four cents.

Since then, rates, affected by inflation, raced well into the double digits. First-class rates jumped to six cents in 1968, to eight cents in 1971, to 10 cents in 1974, to 13 cents in 1975, to 15 cents in 1978, to 18 cents in March 1981 and then to 20 cents in November of that year, to 22 cents in 1985, and, now, in 1988, to 25 cents.

First-class postal rates in industrialized nations outside the United States range from 26 cents in Australia to 49 cents in Italy, Martinez said. Elsewhere, rates are 32 cents in England, 39 cents in France, 45 cents in Japan, 48 cents in Germany, he said.

United States postal rates are recommended by the independent Postal Rate Commission and are approved by the USPS Board of Governors. Commissioners and governors are selected by presidential appointment.

Martinez couldn't foretell when another rate increase would be. However, he said, "down the road," the first-class stamp might be affixed with a 50-cent and then a dollar price tag.

Council won't oppose Swaggart's suspension

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Assemblies of God state council that wanted Jimmy Swaggart barred from preaching for three months said Friday it will go along with the one-year suspension demanded by the church's national leaders.

A spokesman for the fire-and-brimstone TV evangelist said Swaggart will return to the pulpit May 22 despite the ruling.

If he returns, he risks dismissal from the denomination, officials have said.

The church's General Presbytery, meeting at its national headquarters Tuesday in Springfield, Mo., had banned Swaggart from the pulpit for at least a year for "moral failure" that reportedly included hiring a prostitute to pose nude for him.

After a six-hour meeting Friday, Cecil Janway, the church's Louisiana district superintendent, announced the state council will accept the national leadership's recommendation for the sake of unity.

"Easter is coming. And the same Christ that has forgiven Jimmy Swaggart's sins will forgive every person who calls upon him," Janway said. "So, although we do not agree with the decision of the General Presbytery of the Assemblies of God relative to Jimmy Swaggart, we will yield to those leaders."

"We will not attempt to hinder them from carrying out their decision. Nor will we cause division within the our Asemblies of God fellowship," he said.

Asked if the council was encouraging Swaggart to accept the national sanctions, Janway said, "I think it could be interpreted that way."

Swaggart on Feb. 21 tearfully confessed to unspecified sins and stepped down from the pulpit. News reports have said he hired a prostitute to pose nude.

On Wednesday, Swaggart announced through his attorney that he would return to the pulpit May 22 — the end of the three-month suspension recommended by the state council — in defiance of the national leadership.

"What was said at the Wednesday press conference still holds," Swaggart spokesman Gus Weill said. "Reverend Swaggart is still planning to return to the pulpit May 22 and we're still examining the rights to appeal."

However, Juleen Turnage, a spokeswoman at the Assemblies' national headquarters, said church bylaws do not allow ministers to appeal rehabilitation decisions.

Turnage said Swaggart will be given time to respond to the General Presbytery's penalty.

"If they haven't heard from him in a few days, a reasonable period of time, they'll assume he is rejecting their offer. In that case, they would move immediately to dismiss him," Turnage said.

On Thursday, the Rev. Ansley Orfila of Slidell, one of 19 members of the Louisiana council, said Swaggart probably will leave the denomination rather than accept a year-long preaching ban.

Agencies receive drug bust money

AUSTIN (AP) — Assets from an international drug ring broken up in 1986 turned out to be a financial windfall for five law enforcement agencies that received checks totaling $276,990 from federal authorities.

Officers seized more than $1 million in cash, vehicles and equipment during those arrests, led by the Drug Enforcement Administration with the help of state and local officers.

The ring, which smuggled cocaine and marijuana into the United States, had planned to make Austin its permanent base for an operation, officials said.

The Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1984 allows the Justice Department to share assets seized as a result of the arrests with local law enforcement agencies that helped in the investigation.

U.S. Attorney Helen Eversberg on Thursday presented checks for $52,500 to the Austin Police Department, $35,000 each to the Austin Airport Police and the Williamson County sheriff, $17,500 to the Greater Austin Area Organized Crime Unit and $136,990 to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Man kills ex-wife; Her son then kills mother's assailant

DALLAS (AP) — A teen-ager whose mother was killed by several shotgun blasts shot his former stepfather with a razor-tipped hunting arrow minutes later, then disarmed the man in an ensuing struggle and killed him, police said.

Amir Abbasi-Damnabi, 38, was pronounced dead Thursday by a peace justice at the apartment of his former wife, Berenice Pascoe.

The 35-year-old woman died after being shot three or four times in the head and body earlier Thursday as she sat in her automobile in the parking lot at Northridge Town Homes, said Detective Linda Erwin.

The woman was preparing to leave for work after talking to Abbasi-Damnabi, who lived in the Dallas area. The man then pulled out a shotgun, Ms. Erwin quoted witnesses as saying.

"After the shooting occurred, he apparently went to her apartment and attempted to get in and did get inside," said Ms. Erwin. "There, he was confronted by the woman's son and daughter."

Believed to be a native of Iran, Abbasi-Damnabi fought with the woman's 15-year-old son, while her 13-year-old daughter tried to contact neighbors and police.

"The boy was able to get hold of some kind of compound bow and arrow and shot at Abbasi-Damnabi and hit him, but it was not a mortal wound," said Ms. Erwin.

She said the assailant pulled a small-caliber revolver from his clothes, but the boy was able to wrestle the gun from Abbasi-Damnabi's hands and shoot him with it several times, killing him.

No charges have been filed against the teen-ager and both children were with relatives Thursday night. The children's names were withheld by police.

A spokesman for the Dallas County District Attorney's office said Abbasi-Damnabi and Ms. Pascoe were divorced in June.

Astronauts' families receive flight medals

HOUSTON (AP) — NASA flight medals honoring the contributions of the seven astronauts who died in the Challenger explosion more than two years ago were given to their families Friday.

The medals were given to family members during a luncheon ceremony Friday, a day after a celebrity-packed tribute was held in Houston to honor the Challenger crew and raise money for the Challenger Center for Space Education.

June Scobee, widow of Challenger commander Dick Scobee, said it would have been a "tremendous moment" for the astronauts if they had lived to receive the flight medals, along with framed certificates acknowledging work in the space program.

"Their proudest moment was to be known as one of you (NASA)," Mrs. Scobee said, choking back tears.

"We want to thank you," she added.

"The dream is alive," Mrs. Scobee said, apparently in reference to the challenger center project. "And it's becoming not only a dream, but a reality."

Conceived and developed by family members of the crew, the educational center will offer teachers and students the opportunity to learn about space by participating in simulated space flights and missions at the flagship center in Washington and at satellite learning centers around the country.

Since the Challenger tragedy, $2.5 million has been raised for the center.

Other Challenger family members at the ceremony were Jane Smith, widow of Michael Smith; Lorna Onizuka, widow of Ellison Onizuka; Cheryl McNair, widow of Ronald McNair; Marcia Jarvis, widow of Greg Javis; Charles Resnick, brother of Judith Resnick; and Steven McAuliffe, widower of Christa McAuliffe, who was to have been the first teacher in space.

Daniel C. Brandenstein, chief of the astronaut office at NASA's Johnson Space Center, said the awards are given to those who have "made significant contributions to the manned space program."

The Challenger crew members, he said, did a lot of work and contributed much to the program long before the space shuttle launch. All seven astronauts died in the Jan. 28, 1986 explosion.

"We are very appreciative of all their efforts while they were with us," Brandenstein said.

On Thursday night, hundreds of people gathered at Houston's Wortham Center for the tribute.

Tickets for Thursday's benefit ranged from $25 to $1,000.

Teen Contra soldier awaits heart surgery

FORT WORTH (AP) — At first glance, Ernesto Herrera may look like any of hundreds of sick children at Cook-Fort Worth Children's Medical Center: Sleepy-eyed with hepatitis-yellow skin and a respirator helping him to breathe.

But the frail 14-year-old is an experienced Nicaraguan contra solider.

Fort Worth nurse Sarah Duhon found Herrera weak and near death in a refugee medical center in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, two weeks ago. The boy now awaits surgery to repair a heart valve.

"If he had stayed, he would have died," said Ms. Duhon, who works for Mosquito Coast Child Find, a nonprofit adoption agency in Fort Worth that brings seriously ill Central American children to the United States for treatment.

Herrera said he took up American arms against the Sandinistas at age 11, after a small band of soldiers invaded his village, stole the family's cows, killed his cousin, beat his father and tied up Herrera, his mother and four sisters.

"They are just assassins," he said.

Herrera said he fought bloody battles in northeast Nicaragua with his father and a small group of fellow contra rebels until six months ago when his heart began to fail.

Ms. Duhon said the hospital will underwrite the $12,000 heart surgery until her organization can collect enough donations to pay Herrera's bill. She said additional money will be needed to pay for his hepatitis treatment.

Iranians rail against 'Satan' America

WORLD

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ten thousand Iranians shook their fists while chanting of death to Iraq and the "Great Satan" America at Friday prayers, glancing nervously skyward now and then for the vapor trails of incoming missiles.

A Western diplomat described the weekly ritual at Tehran University, where unarmed students defied the imperial army when the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was deposed in February 1979, as "the beating heart of the Islamic revolution."

Iraq said it would stop firing missiles into Tehran and other Iranian cities during a three-day visit to Baghdad of the Turkish prime minister, Turgut Ozal, beginning at midnight Thursday.

Iran launched two rockets Friday into Kirkuk, the oil center in northern Iraq, but did not fire any at the Iraqi capital. The last report of a missile explosion in Baghdad was March 27.

Turkey maintains good relations with both Iran and Iraq, which have been at war since September 1980, and has tried to act as mediator.

Despite the apparent lull in the month-long "war of the cities," in which hundreds of civilians have been killed on both sides, no one in Tehran was taking anything for granted on this Moslem sabbath.

Two long-range Iraqi missiles landed in the capital during Friday prayers in mid-March.

"We saw the vapor trails, but nobody at the prayers moved," said a translator from the Islamic Guidance Ministry who accompanied visiting Western correspondents to the university. "Everyone stayed seated when the missiles exploded some distance away."

Weekly prayers on the campus and elsewhere in Iran, to Western eyes a cross between a revival meeting and political rally, are the main platforms for mobilizing mass opinion and stoking fervor for the war.

Shiite Moslem fundamentalists beat their chests with fists in unison, chant slogans and listen to leaders exhort them to victory, condemn the "Great Satan" America and preach Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolution.

Hashemi Rafsanjani, the parliament speaker, is a regular prayer leader at the university but this week it was President Ali Khamenei.

He urged Iranians to vote in parliamentary elections April 8 "even if there are missiles and bombs falling," echoing remarks the revolutionary partriarch had made the day before.

Khamenei praised the current thrust by Revolutionary Guards into northeastern Iraq and said Western media had not given enough coverage to alleged chemical warfare in the region.

Iran claims the Iraqis dropped chemical bombs March 16-17 on three Kurdish towns in Iraq that had been captured by Iranian troops, killing 5,000 civilians and wounding an equal number.

At prayers, the pattern is the same each week: calls for sacrifice interrupted by such chants from the crowd of "War, war, until victory!" and "Death to America!"

"Death to Russia!" has joined the lexicon since missiles began demolishing homes, schools and hospitals Feb. 29. Iraq is believed to be using Soviet-designed Scud-B missiles fitted with boosters so they can reach Tehran, which is nearly 300 miles from the border.

Among the estimated 10,000 people at the campus prayer meeting were about 60 Iraqi prisoners of war Iranian officials said had volunteered to fight on Iran's side.

They squatted in an enclosure in front of the covered podium, which bore photographs of Khomeini and other religious leaders. All wore white T-shirts emblazoned with the image of Imam Bakr Sadr, a Shiite cleric executed by Iraq as a subversive in 1980.

The imam was a cousin of Mohammad Bakr al-Hakim, leader of the Supreme Islamic Revolutionary Council of Iraq, a group of dissident Iraqi factions supported by Iran.

Another enclosure held men wounded in the war — without limbs, in wheelchairs — not far from ranks of teen-aged volunteers for the front wearing red headbands with Islamic slogans.

Security was tight and foreign correspondents were frisked twice before being allowed onto the campus from the surrounding streets, where thousands more people had gathered to hear the sermons through loudspeakers.

A bomb exploded on the campus two weeks ago, but no casualty report was given.

Iranian women, shrouded in the black head-to-toe robes called chadors, were not allowed onto the campus because strict Islamic law requires them to be segregated. They sat in an enclosure some distance away.

Outside the campus, cartoon-like posters explained what to do in case of an Iraqi poison gas attack.

Beside the entrance was a transparent plastic "war fund" box into which worshipers stuffed banknotes. Officials said one slipped in a check for 400,000 rials, about $5,600.

China's female officials decry job inequality

BEIJING (AP) — The top women officials of labor federations in seven cities issued a statement Friday complaining that women on the job received unequal treatment and demanding a public debate on the issue.

"We call upon the media, economic and theoretical communities, leaders at all levels of the (Communist) party and government...and all men and women workers to air their own views and actively join in a discussion," the seven women said in the statement, published on the front page of the newspaper Workers' Daily.

Their statement, drafted at a meeting in Beijing, was especially critical of what they said was a growing tendency to fire women once they have children.

Many enterprises also have done away with maternity leave and other "women's benefits" in order to cut costs now that companies are being held responsible for their own profits and losses.

"Some people believe that when a woman becomes pregnant and has a child it is a private matter and becomes a burden for the enterprise," the statement said. "But others believe women carry two heavy loads, of helping produce material goods for society and perpetutating the human race, and this contribution deserves social recognition and special protection."

Women were regarded as inferior in traditional China's rigid social hierarchy but are promised equal treatment in Communist China's constitution.

In reality, they hold few high government or party posts and have little social influence. Most still bear the full burden of household chores and child-rearing while also working full-time in the fields or in factories.

Minister says Italy considering possibility of taking U.S. F-16s

ROME (AP) — Italy's defense minister assured Secretary of State George P. Shultz on Friday that the government is considering seriously the possible transfer to Italy of F-16 jets being evicted from Spain.

But Defense Minister Valerio Zanone did not commit Italy to accepting the fighters. He said the entire NATO alliance should be involved in the decision.

Shultz took up the issue of the F-16s with Zanone during a stop in Rome before heading for the Middle East on Sunday to continue efforts to spur Arab-Israeli peace talks.

Italy is considered the prime candidate to take the 72 fighter-bombers of the U.S. 401st Tactical Fighter Wing, based in Torrejon, Spain. In January, Washington agreed to a Spanish demand to remove the planes within three years.

Asked at a news conference whether an accord in principle had been reached on the F-16s, Zanone replied, "I wouldn't say an accord in principle. There is serious attention by the Italian government to the problem."

His statements did not go far beyond those made in February following talks in Rome with Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci.

Zanone reiterated Italy's position that the F-16s must remain in Europe to protect NATO's southern flank, but that a decision on where they should be relocated and how to finance the move must be decided by the entire Western alliance.

Shultz did not meet with reporters after the meeting with Zanone.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said the meeting with Zanone was "not in any sense an effort to make commitments" on the F-16s.

Zanone said he and Shultz discussed the "various possible" sites in Italy where the F-16s could be based, but he declined to identify them. Italian media have identified possible sites as the bases of Gioia del Colle in southern Puglia, Decimomannu in Sardinia, the present cruise missile base in Comiso, Sicily, and the U.S. base in Aviana in northeastern Italy.

Zanone, the lone Cabinet minister from the tiny Liberal Party, noted that the issue will have to be faced by Italy's new government. Premier Giovanni Goria resigned three weeks ago, and fellow Christian Democrat Ciriaco de Mita is trying to form a new five-party coalition.

Some Italian politicians, including former premier Bettino Craxi, a Socialist, have voiced concerns about the possible relocation. The Communists and other opposition groups are firmly opposed.

Shultz met earlier Friday with President Francesco Cossiga and Foreign Minister Giulio Andreotti.

Speaking with reporters earlier on the plane taking him to Rome, Shultz was cautiously upbeat about his new Middle East peace mission. His trip last month failed to bring an agreement.

"I think we have a chance to see some motion," he said of his shuttling to Israel, Jordan, Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

Shultz said he felt especially positive about the role of Jordan's King Hussein, describing him as a "key player" in the peace process.

"I hope we can make some headway," he said.

So far only Eygpt has endorsed the plan to have talks on Palestinian self-rule begin on May 1.

Today, Shultz is to have a private audience with Pope John Paul II. He also plans to attend the pope's Easter Mass on Sunday before leaving for Jerusalem.

Protesants and Catholics pray, march in unity

LONDON (AP) — Protestants and Roman Catholics marched together through London, Dublin and Belfast on Good Friday and prayed for an end to sectarian violence.

Cardinal Basil Hume asked London marchers to pray for political leaders of Britain, Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic who seek an end to the strife.

"Today, as never before, healing is needed not only in grief-stricken Ireland but here in the heart of London, since we are sadly but inevitably part of the problem," he said.

"The violence has always been the work of the few at the expense of the many who want nothing better than to live at peace with their neighbors."

Referring to the latest killings in Northern Ireland, Hume said: "For the sake of the future of our countries, there must be a renewed attempt to build a better society. This is no time to match violence with violence even in the face of real or perceived injustice."

Thirteen people have been killed in the province since March 6, when British soldiers killed three Irish Republican Army guerrillas in Gibraltar.

The mainly Catholic IRA is fighting to drive the British out of Northern Ireland, where Protestants are a majority, and unite the province with the Irish Republic.

Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, spiritual leader of the Church of England, sent a message of peace to the 200 people who marched silently from the Catholic Westminster Cathedral to Westminster Abbey.

"I pray that the people of Ireland and England will forgive each other for the hurts and wrongs done in the past and find in today's common action a deeper unity of spirit," he said.

About 400 people marched through Belfast and 1,000 in the center of Dublin.

Northern Ireland police said three people were arrested in Belfast after stones and eggs were thrown at people marching from Falls Road, a Catholic district, to Shankill Road, a Protestant stronghold.

"The incident was over very quickly," a spokesman said.

Nation's Final Four bring out guns for Kansas City

Duke vs. Kansas

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — In the end, it comes down to the two Dannys — Manning and Ferry.

Both are the sons of former professional basketball players. Both lead their teams. And they will be on the court at the same time — Manning for Kansas and Ferry for Duke — as the teams meet Saturday in the NCAA Final Four.

"I just want to concentrate on what I have to do," Manning said, "and I think Danny's the same way. There's a lot of mutual respect, but the main thing is to win the game."

FIFTH-RANKED Duke takes one of the nation's finest defenses into its national semifinal against unranked and underdog Kansas at 4:30 p.m. CST. The Duke-Kansas game will be followed by a semifinal between No. 2 Arizona and fourth-ranked Oklahoma, with the title game scheduled for Monday night.

"One reason we've been successful is we know defense is our trademark," Duke's defensive specialist, Billy King, said.

Duke has yet to win a national championship, although this is its sixth trip to the Final Four. Kansas, in its eighth Final Four, won its only national title in 1952 under coach Phog Allen.

Although Duke is from the Atlantic Coast conference and Kansas from the Big Eight, they are no strangers to each other. The two teams met last February with Duke winning 74-70 after trailing by six points in overtime. They also played each other in the 1986 national semifinal, Duke winning 71-67 before losing 72-69 to Louisville in the championship game.

"I think it helps both teams that we have played each other," Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski said. "You can watch tapes and listen to scouting reports, but until you've actually guarded the man, you don't realize how big or quick he is.

"I was amazed by Danny Manning. I knew he was good, an All-American and all that," Krzyzewski said. "But he was even better than I thought, quicker, bigger, more agile. He's as good a player as we've seen in my years at Duke. ... I don't think Ferry is as good as Manning. Manning is unique."

Not only do Manning and Ferry both have basketball fathers, they also both grew to be 6-foot-10, and they both are veterans of their teams' 1986 Final Four appearances. In Duke's man-to-man defense, Ferry will guard Manning most of the time.

MANNING, WHOSE father Ed is an assistant at Kansas and a former player in the American Basketball Association, averaged 24.6 points for Kansas, 25-11, this season. Manning, a senior, was called upon to take up much of the slack when the Jayhawks lost two starters — Archie Marshall to injury and Marvin Branch to academic ineligibility — for most of the season.

Ferry, whose father Bob played in the NBA and currently is general manager of the Washington Bullets, averaged 19.1 points for the Blue Devils, 28-6. Ferry is a junior.

"For such a big kid, Danny Ferry is a great passer," Kansas coach Larry Brown said. "He's capable of handling the ball and creating his own shots. If you double team him — like you can with some good big men — he can find the open man. He also has a tremendous knack for drawing fouls, both offensive and defensive, and that creates tremendous problems. ...

"But," adds Brown, "Duke is not just a team made up of Danny Ferry and a bunch of other guys. To beat them, we have to play our best game of the year."

Manning had only four points before fouling out against Duke in the 1986 as a sophomore. He had 31 points against Duke this year as Kansas built a 23-8 lead only to be taken into overtime.

"That game gave us confidence because we won," King said. "But it gives them motivation. ... We know Kansas is not a one-man team. They do have some great players around Manning."

Kansas' Danny Manning feels ready for Final Four action today with a practice slam dunk.

Oklahoma vs. Arizona

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Get some rest and make sure the scoreboard lights are all working.

Second-ranked Arizona and No. 4 Oklahoma meet Saturday night in the second NCAA semifinal game and things won't change much for the teams from the regular season.

When asked Friday what we might expect for a final score, Arizona Coach Lute Olson responded: "If he doesn't hold it, about 124-122."

IF THE "he" Olson was referring to was Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs, there isn't much chance of that happening.

"We used that offense once this year and very effectively," the coach of the second-highest scoring team in the nation said Friday. "We held it once for 36 seconds one time near the end of a game. You don't have to worry about us doing that."

Both teams have faced different styles on their roads to the Final Four and neither seemed worried about what the opposition will do.

"We've played against every type of team this season, slowdown, methodical and the fast ones," Arizona All-American forward Sean Elliott said. "We'll play at any tempo they want to play at."

That means fast and it means a style dictated by the pressure defense Oklahoma is known for.

"It seems to be a system where the players decide when to trap and they're allowed to use judgment," Arizona guard Craig McMillan said. "We have to come meet the ball and keep the court balanced."

The Sooners forced an average of 24 turnovers per game while Arizona committed just 12.3.

"I think they are an outstanding defensive team," Olson said. "There is great structure to their press. They harass everything coming inbounds and trap when it's inbounds."

Ricky Grace, who along with Mookie Blaylock (both former Midland College stars) comprises the quick backcourt that has accounted for 241 of the Sooners' 465 steals, was asked if Arizona would be the team that could best handle the Oklahoma press.

"You can't tell that until the game starts," said Grace. "On paper they don't make many turnovers and I think that's a challenge for us and we like challenges. If that's true, we have to force the intensity a little higher and force them into playing our type of game and we'll see if they like to play the way we like to play."

There's no arguing the success of the two programs this season. Arizona won the Pac-10 regular-season and tournament championships and enters the Final Four with a record of 35-2. Oklahoma won both titles in the Big Eight and is 34-3.

OKLAHOMA averaged 104 points per game. Arizona averaged 85.3 while shooting 55 percent from the field.

Many feel the Arizona-Oklahoma game will be the one that decides the national champion, the Duke-Kansas winner notwithstanding.

"There are two outstanding teams in our game and two outstanding teams in the other game," Tubbs said. "We always think the team we're playing and the Sooners are the two best teams in the country. And that's all we care about."

Will Arizona look to slow it down as Villanova did in its near-upset of Oklahoma in the Southeast Regional championship game?

"We've played 37 games and we're not about to change everything we're doing," Olson said. "Steve Kerr knows and understands game tempo and as soon as he tells me to slow things down we'll do what Steve tells us to do."

Kerr tipped his hand to how he felt the tempo should go.

"I don't feel we'll play the same way Villanova did," Kerr said. "That won't be the way we play. We're not looking to stall by any means."

Kansas, Arizona could be biggest championship loser with 11 losses

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Both Kansas and Arizona can make the record book if either wins the NCAA championship this weekend.

If the Jayhawks win they would finish with a record of 27-11 and that would be the most losses ever for a champion, surpassing the 10 of North Carolina State in 1983 and Villanova in 1985.

If Arizona were to win the title, the Wildcats would have a record of 37-2 matching the most victories by a team in one season. Duke won 37 games in 1986 and Nevada-Las Vegas matched that figure last season. Both of those teams lost in the Final Four.

With both Kansas and Oklahoma of the Big Eight in the Final Four, the national semifinals continue to serve as a reunion for conference teams.

Last year Syracuse and Providence of the Big East met in the semifinals and two years before that, the Big East had three teams in the Final Four with Villanova winning the championship.

If Kansas and Oklahoma were to both win Saturday it would be the third time two teams from the same conference met for the title.

Villanova and Georgetown met in 1985 and Indiana and Michigan of the Big Ten met in 1976 when Indiana went undefeated as Coach Bob Knight won the first of his three national championships.

There are some solid family basketball backgrounds at the Final Four.

Duke's leading scorer and rebounder, 6-foot-10 Danny Ferry, is the son of Washington Bullets general manager Bob Ferry.

Kansas's two-time All-America Danny Manning is the son of former NBA veteran and current Jayhawks assistant coach Ed Manning.

The elder Ferry and Manning are friends and played briefly together in the NBA.

Kansas also has the son of NBA Hall of Famer Rick Barry, Scooter Barry.

Barry was named to the Midwest Regional all-tournament team after scoring a career-high 15 points in the victory over Kansas State that sent the Jayhawks to the Final Four.

Oklahoma Coach Billy Tubbs has heard time and again how much he looks and sounds like Jack Nicholson. Friday, he was asked about it once more.

"I go along with that because I know it makes him feel good," Tubbs said. "I'm glad to do whatever I can to help out."

Later in the interview, Tubbs told moderator Rick Brewer, "You sound like Ed McMahon. Do you want me to hold up the question and have you give the answer?"

Oklahoma coach Billy Tubbs says he has been influenced by several coaches during his career, adding that he was a big fan of UCLA's John Wooden.

"And he never one time, that I'm aware, ever got accused of running up the score," Tubbs said.

Asked why he thought Oklahoma is accused of that but UCLA wasn't, Tubbs said "You guys have changed. That's probably what it is ... I think it just kind of caught on, and you guys didn't have anything else to write about."

Henry Iba, who won back-to-back national championships in 1945 and 1946, said a few words to the Duke team during the Blue Devils' practice Friday at the behest of Coach Mike Krzyzewski.

"I told them to try and keep on a level keel. If you get to thinking about it too much, you have trouble."

Baseball has 77 players in millionaire club

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Series champion Minnesota Twins have seven players earning $1 million or more this season, the most of any major league club. They are among a record 77 players earning $1 million or more in 1988.

Nine of the 77 millionaires will make $2 million or more this season, another baseball record. Shortstop Ozzie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals has the highest salary at $2.34 million.

Contract details were obtained by The Associated Press from several player and management sources on the condition that the sources' identities not be disclosed.

First baseman Kent Hrbek leads Minnesota's payroll with a $1.41 million salary. Pitcher Frank Viola, the MVP of the World Series, is next at $1.35 million.

Reliever Jeff Reardon at $1.14 million, outfielder Tom Brunansky at $1.1 million, outfielder Kirby Puckett at $1.09 million and pitcher Bert Blyleven and Gary Gaetti at $1 million complete Mianesota's millionaire club.

"There will be some natural escalation of players' salaries," Minnesota general manager Andy MacPhail said after the World Series. "It doesn't cause us grave concern."

Naturally, the raises have pleased the players.

"They've been a helluva a lot better than Calvin Griffith," pitcher Bert Blyleven said, referring to Minnesota's former owner, who let free agents like Rod Carew leave rather than pay large salaries.

Minnesota will have increased revenues enabling the Twins to afford the high salaries. Minnesota sold 3,939 season tickets in 1987. The Twins have sold over 9,000 for this season and have an advance sale of 1.1 million tickets.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have six millionaires, the second-most in the major leagues. The additions of free agent outfielder Kirk Gibson ($1,833,000), pitcher Jesse Orosco ($1 million) and free-agent outfielder Mike Davis $987,500 could give the Dodgers the highest payroll in baseball. Exact totals cannot be computed until next week, when final rosters cuts are made.

"Our ballclub had to change, it was a must," General Manager Fred Claire said. "Our offensive production last year was terrible. We could not stand pat. We could say everything was going to be okay, but everything was not going to be okay."

Other Dodgers making at least $1 million in 1988 are third baseman Pedro Guerrero ($1.72 million), pitcher Orel Hershiser ($1.1 million) and catcher Mike Sciosia ($1 million).

Six clubs have five millionaires each — the Baltimore Orioles, Boston Red Sox, Chicago Cubs, Kansas City Royals, New York Mets and New York Yankees.

Five clubs have no millionaries — the Cleveland Indians, Pittsburgh Pirates, San Francisco Giants, Seattle Mariners and Texas Rangers. Seattle and Texas had the lowest and second-lowest payrolls in baseball last season.

Salaries include a pro-rated share of signing bonuses. If a player signed a two-year contract at $1 million a season with a $1-million signing bonus, his salary would be listed as $1.5 million.

Portions of salaries are being deferred without interest have been discounted to reflect their current value.

Following Smith in the $2 million club are outfielder Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox at $2,229,822, catcher Gary Carter of the New York Mets at $2,160,714 and first baseman Eddie Murray of the Baltimore Orioles at $2,160,035.

Third baseman Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies is fifth at $2.15 million, pitcher Rick Sutcliffe of the Chicago Cubs sixth at $2.07 million and pitcher Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers seventh at $2.05 million.

Phillies' hurlers lose no-hit bid

Associated Press

Pinch-hitter Rod Booker's single with one out in the ninth inning broke up a no-hitter by three Philadelphia pitchers Friday as the Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0.

Booker's hit came off Todd Frohwirth, who succeeded Kevin Gross and David Palmer. Gross pitched five hitless innings for the Phillies and Palmer three more.

The only other Cardinal to reach base was Ozzie Smith, who was hit by a Gross pitch and reached first on an error by Palmer.

Three of the Philadelphia runs came on Lance Parrish's three-run homer in the fourth off Jose DeLeon. The other scored in the sixth when Milt Thompson doubled, moved up on Phil Bradley's infield out and scored on catcher Tom Pagnozzi's passed ball.

Astros 3, Twins 2

Mike Scott pitched six scoreless innings, allowing just two hits and striking out six for the Astros in his final warmup for the regular season. Mark Bailey drove in two runs with a fourth-inning double and Glenn Davis had a solo homer in the sixth for the Astros.

Minnesota scored its runs in the ninth on RBI groundouts by Gene Larkin and Tim Laudner off Jeff Heathcock.

Oklahoma City 4, Rangers 3

Jeff Kunkel's two-run homer off Bobby Witt paced the 89ers over the parent team. Witt gave up five hits and walked five in five innings.

Larry See and Mike Stanley each singled in runs for Texas.

Braves 8, Expos 5

Albert Hall singled home Dion James with the tie-breaking run in the top of the ninth and two more runs scored on a throwing error by Montreal catcher Mike Fitzgerald.

Exhibitions

James tripled off Tim Barrett and scored on Hall's single after the Expos had tied the game with five runs in the eighth. Fitzgerald and Luis Rivera led the rally with two-run doubles.

Bruce Benedict hit a solo homer and three singles for Atlanta.

Brewers 11, Cubs 1

Ernest Riles and Glenn Braggs had three hits and drove in three runs each for Milwaukee.

Brewers starter Chris Bosio allowed the Cubs only one run and six hits in six innings. Cubs starter Greg Maddux was charged with nine runs, eight earned, in five innings.

Yankees 3, Orioles 2

Bobby Meacham's scored Roberto Kelly by chopping a single over a drawn-in infield to break a 2-2 tie and give the Yankees their best spring training record since 1962 at 21-9.

Cecilio Guante pitched two innings of scoreless relief for the victory. Rick Schu had a two-run homer for Baltimore.

Red Sox 7, Pirates 0

Bruce Hurst, John Trautwein and Wes Gardner combined on a shutout and Jim Rice homered for the Red Sox. Hurst allowed all seven hits in seven innings while Trautwein and Gardner eached pitched a perfect inning.

Rice's homer came off Doug Drabek to open the fourth.

Royals 5, Tigers 1

Floyd Bannister limited the Tigers to one run and six hits over seven innings and Willie Wilson drove in three runs to lead the Royals. Bannister, obtained in the off-season from the White Sox, walked one and struck out five.

New York second baseman Willie Randolph takes to the air over Baltimore's Sherwin Cintje for a double play.

Detroit starter Eric King allowed all five runs on nine hits in six innings.

Indians 3, Mariners 1

Greg Swindell pitched seven shutout innings as Cleveland beat Seattle.

Swindell, who lowered his ERA to 3.30, gave up seven hits, walked one and struck out three in his final spring appearance.

Seattle left-hander Steve Trout took the loss, giving up three runs on five hits in six innings.

Cleveland scored twice in the first on Joe Carter's sacrifice fly and an RBI double by Brook Jacoby. Ron Kittle singled in a run in the sixth.

Mav loss streak climbs to three

NBA Roundup

LANDOVER, Md. — Moses Malone scored 13 of his 27 points in the fourth quarter, and Bernard King added 11 of his 18 in the same period Friday night as the Washington Bullets handed the Dallas Mavericks their third consecutive defeat, 118-103.

The victory moved the Bullets to within a half-game of Philadelphia in the race for the final Eastern Conference playoff berth. The Sixers lost 105-93 to Atlanta Friday night.

Jeff Malone scored 13 of his 23 points in the first half as the Bullets built a 56-45 lead. He added 10 more in the third period helping Washington hold off a Dallas comeback that closed the gap to 86-81 after three quarters.

Jeff Malone left holding his hip late in the third period, and did not play in the final quarter.

Dallas was able to get as close as 90-88, on Detlef Schrempf's free throw with 9:35 remaining in the game. But with the score 92-90, the Bullets scored nine consecutive points, including seven from King.

Mark Aguirre, who scored 21 in the first half, finished with 38 points to lead the Mavericks. Rolando Blackman added 21 for Dallas.

Frank Johnson, who filled in for Jeff Malone in the final period, scored 14 for Washington.

Hawks 105, 76ers 93

PHILADELPIHIA — Dominique Wilkins scored 28 points, including six late in the game, as the Atlanta Hawks clinched an NBA playoff berth.

The victory was the fourth straight for the Hawks although they made only 12 free throws compared to Philadelphia's 28. Atlanta had 15 free-throw attemptes and the 76ers 45.

Atlanta led 85-73 on a jumper by John Battle with 9:24 to play, but Philadelphia rallied behind Gerald and David Henderson, and a hook shot by Mike Gminksi cut the deficit to 92-89 with 4:28 left.

Wilkins then scored six points during an 8-1 Atlanta spurt, and his two free throws with 2:13 remaining gave Atlanta a 100-90 advantage.

The Hawks never trailed in the game and built their biggest lead, 72-58, on a jump shot by Glenn Rivers with 3:11 left in the third quarter.

Rivers added 19 points and 10 assists and Cliff Levingston 12 for the Hawks, while Charles Barkley had 26 points and 10 rebounds and Gminski 19 points for Philadelphia, which had its three-game winning streak snapped.

"They're a great team," Barkley said of the Hawks. "They have the deepest front line in the league. We tried to go right at them, but we weren't able to. They did a good job on me."

The Sixers, missing 17 free throws, were also hampered by a lackluster performance from guard Maurice Cheeks, Coach Jim Lynam said. Cheeks played only 24 minutes and scored two points.

"He wasn't feeling well from the very start," Lynam said. "I could tell he was laboring because he wasn't handling the ball as well as he normally does."

Hawks Coach Mike Fratello had special praise for his team's defense, and particularly Wilkins.

"He made some clutch baskets and some great passes. He was just magnificent," he said. "He had only nine points at the half, and I told him it was one of the best halves he's ever played."

Celtics 121, Pistons 110

BOSTON — Larry Bird scored 32 points and Kevin Mchale added 29 as Boston defeated Detroit, the Celtics' 21st consecutive victory over the Pistons at Boston Garden since 1982.

The victory gave the Celtics a four-game lead in the battle between the two teams for the Eastern Conference title, which gives the winner the homecourt advantage in the conference playoffs.

Bird and McHale had 11 rebounds apiece in the game, which saw the lead change hands 17 times in the first three quarters.

After Rick Mahorn scored four of his 18 points to tie the game at 76-all with 4:40 left in the third period, Bird came back with five straight, and the Celtics never trailed again. Boston had a 93-85 lead going into the final period.

Vinnie Johnson scored eight points as the Pistons rallied, cutting the deficit to 103-100 with 4:30 remaining.

A 3-point play by McHale, jumpers by Dennis Johnson and Bird and a three-point play by Robert Parish then sealed the outcome.

Danny Ainge sank three 3-pointers in the game to finish with 19 points. Bill Laimbeer led Detroit with 22 points, and Isiah Thomas had 15 points and 10 assists.

George Brett may miss Royals' season debut Monday

Associated Press

George Brett, who missed 44 games for the Kansas City Royals' with injuries last year, was flown to Kansas City Friday to have an injured finger examined.

Brett had missed the previous two Royals' exhibition games with a bruised second joint of the middle finger on his right hand.

Royals trainer Mickey Cobb said Brett attempted to take batting practice before a Friday game with Detroit.

"He did not respond very well to that at all," Cobb said.

Cobb said the finger would be examined in Kansas City by Dr. Charlie Rhoades, a hand specialist, and Dr. Steve Joyce.

"We definitely have a bruise there," Cobb said. "There's no doubt about that. If there's anything else going on there, we obviously won't know until there is further examination."

Manager John Wathan said Steve Balboni probably would start at first base in the Royals' opening game Monday against Toronto if Brett could not play.

In other baseball news Friday, the New York Mets traded catcher John Gibbons to the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday for shortstop Craig Shipley.

Shipley, the second Australian in the major leagues, batted .257 in 26 at-bats for the Dodgers last season with two runs batted in. He batted .223 for Class AAA Albuquerque of the Pacific Coast League and .236 for Class AA San Antonio of the Texas League. He was 11-for-18 this spring.

Shipley, 25, will be assigned to Jackson of the Texas League. Shipley, a veteran of 38 major league games, was a teammate of Mets infielder Dave Magadan at the University of Alabama.

"Craig Shipley is an outstanding talent who already has made it to the big leagues," Mets vice president Joe McIlvaine said. "The reason we are asking him to go to Jackson is that we already have Gregg Jefferies and Keith Miller at Tidewater and we want him to get as much playing time as he can."

The only other Australian in the major league was Joe Quinn, an outfielder who went 1-for-14 in four games with the Chicago Cubs in 1877.

Gibbons batted .266 in 103 games at Tidewater of the Class AAA International League last year with 12 homers and 60 RBI. The Mets made a promise this spring to trade him rather than send him back to the minors and talked with eight clubs about a trade.

"Everyone is aware that John needed a change of scenery and we have been trying to accomplish that for him all spring," McIlvaine said.

"I have mixed emotions. It's tough leaving a place where you've been so long. But it's time for me to move along," said Gibbons. "I have every faith in my ability that I still think I can become a No. 1 catcher. That wasn't going to happen here."

Gibbons was 6-for-29 in spring training with a homer and three RBI.

Bear's Hampton arrested for drunk driving

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Chicago Bears defensive end Dan Hampton has been charged with driving while intoxicated, refusing to submit to arrest or a breath test, speeding and disorderly conduct, police said today.

Hampton, 30, a former University of Arkansas football standout who lives at nearby Cabot, first was arrested about 2:30 a.m. Wednesday after leaving a restaurant called The Waffle House, according to police records.

Purdue head coach interested in UT job

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Texas' search for a new head basketball coach apparently has shifted to Purdue's Gene Keady, but Keady says he has not been contacted, the Austin American-Statesman reported Friday.

The American-Statesman quoted a coach familiar with UT and Keady as saying he believes the Purdue coach would like to take the job that opened up when Bob Weltlich was fired March 14.

"He wants the job, and he wants the damn job badly," the coach told the American-Statesman. "Texas will have to conscientiously try not to hire him."

Hard times continue for MHS, Lee golfers

4-5A Golf

From Staff Reports

ABILENE — The San Angelo Bobcats took a 10-stroke lead following second round action in the District 4-5A golf race held here Friday at the Abilene Country Club.

Midland High, meanwhile, dropped from third to fifth place, despite shooting a 308, six strokes better than last week's opening round 314.

Midland Lee Rebel coach Ronnie Stephens switched players on his two squads as the Rebels' No. 1 team — comprised of last week's No. 2 squad — picked up six strokes in tournament action. After Friday's play, the Rebs' No. 1 team possessed a team total 622, 21 strokes behind leader San Angelo.

Abilene Cooper finished the second round in the runner-up position, having moved up from last week's fourth slot.

"This is a pretty tough district," Midland High head coach John Ford said. "This is one of the toughest districts in the state. To get out of here you'd have a pretty good chance of getting to Austin."

Permian's Ben Bangert, widely considered as the district's best putter, still leads in medalist competition after firing off back-to-back 72s for a 144 total. Bangert leads Abilene Cooper's Robert Joyner by three strokes in individual honors.

The closest local golfer in individual competition, Midland High's Donnie Doan, is in 10th place with a two round total of 154, only 10 strokes off Bangert's pace.

Lee golfers continue to have trouble as Randy Milby and Beau Brown — the Rebels' top two linksters — finished round two with identical 169s. Both are 25 strokes behind Bangert.

Midland hosts third round action, teeing off Friday at 8 a.m. at Ranchland Hills Country Club.

Second Round and Team Totals

Andrews moves into District 2-4A top spot

From Staff Reports

SAN ANGELO — Andrews golfers made up for lost time — and strokes — in a big way Friday in third round action of the District 2-4A golf race.

The Mustangs shot 20 strokes better than did last week's top team, Big Spring, and now lead the district race by three shots. Andrews' team total after play at the San Angelo Riverside golf course is 967, compared to Big Spring's 970.

"We went into (Friday) 17 strokes down," Andrews head coach Goerge Boynton noted, "but we cut Big Spring 20 strokes. It's still tight between us, Big Spring and Snyder.

"The three that I've really been relying on (Brett Boynton, Gym Bice and Guy Hester) finally played golf today."

The top three Andrews golfers also improved their own individual standings, each moving up in medalist competition. Boynton, last week positioned at No. 8, move into fifth place with a third round 75 for a 238 total; Bice and Hester, neither who were in last week's Top 10, are this week's sixth and ninth medalists.

"I just hope they continue on this track now," Boynton said of his team, which was a preseason favorite in the district race.

Fourth round action will be held next Saturday at the Sweetwater Country Club.

Amy Alcott grimaces after attempting a birdie putt on the 5th hole at the Dinah Shore LPGA Tournament.

Alcott finds success again

LPGA Tour

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Amy Alcott, trying to end the longest victory drought of her LPGA career, crafted a 6-under-par 66 Friday to take the second-round lead in the $500,000 Dinah Shore tournament.

Alcott, who owns 26 career victories and was the Dinah Shore champion in 1983, went to 7-under-par 137 midway through the tournament.

Alcott, who last won a tournament in 1986, held a one-shot lead on Colleen Walker, who had a career-low round of 65. Marta Figueras-Dotti of Spain, who had a 69, was another shot back.

Rosie Jones, with a 67, and Debbie Massey, with a 68, were at at 140.

Jan Stephenson, a shot off the lead after the first round, matched par 72 at Mission Hills Country Club to remain within striking distance at 3-under-par 141.

Muffin Spencer-Devlin, the first day's leader with a 68, struggled to a second-round 76 and was at 144.

Alcott had nine birdies during her round, including a 25-foot chip shot on No. 8, and a 40-yard chip on No. 15.

She missed a chance to widen her lead when she hit into the water on the sixth hole and took a double-bogey six.

"It was a fabulous round," said Alcott, who until 1987 had won at least once every year since joining the LPGA Tour in 1975.

"Anytime you shoot a 66, you can't complain. But it was only the second round; there's a long way to go."

Longhorn streak at 18 after shutout of Bears

SWC Baseball

Associated Press

AUSTIN — Junior Eric Stone surrendered five hits and won his 11th game of the season as the second-ranked Texas Longhorns blanked the Baylor Bears 8-0 in Southwest Conference action Friday night.

Stone, now 11-1 on the year, gave up singles in the third, fourth and seventh and two in the eighth as the Longhorns won their 18th straight and improved to 36-5 overall.

Texas is alone at the top of the SWC standings at 4-0. Baylor is now 16-17 and 2-2.

Stone, who earlier in the year set a school record of 19 strikeouts in a game against Southwestern Louisiana, won his 10th in a row and is 3-0 in the SWC. The righthander struck out seven Baylor batters and walked five.

After scoring a run in the bottom of the first on a pair of walks, Texas scored five more in the second on four hits and two Bear errors.

Baylor committed six errors in the game.

Mike Patrick, Brian Johnson, Steve Bethea and Joel Chimelis had singles in the second inning to push the Longhorns ahead 6-0.

Texas added single runs in the third and sixth.

Baylor threatened to score in the eighth after back-to-back singles, but centerfielder Rusty Crockett threw out pinch hitter Charlie Rigney at the plate.

Patrick, Texas' designated hitter, went 3-for-4 with three singles.

Bruce Aguilar was the loser for Baylor and dropped to 3-1 on the season after working five innings.

Houston 8, Arkansas 2

HOUSTON — Catcher Fred Hinojosa scored from first base on a misplayed double and later doubled home two runs to lead the Houston Cougars to a victory over the Arkansas Razorbacks.

Houston evened its SWC record to 2-2 and improved to 27-7-2 overall. Arkansas fell to 1-3 in conference and 21-10 overall. The two teams play in a doubleheader today.

Woody Williams, 8-1, won his eight straight victory for the Cougars. He relieved starter Brett Simpson in the fifth inning after Simpson walked the leadoff batter. Williams pitched 4⅔ innings, allowing two hits, two walks, no runs, and striking out five.

Williams moved back to shortstop for one batter in the sixth inning as Steve McCaslin hit the only batter he faced before Williams came back and finished the game at pitcher.

The Cougars jumped on Arkansas starter Ray Harris, 4-2, for two runs in the second inning. Leftfielder Troy Eklund misplayed a Ross Goolsby double allowing Hinojosa to score from first base and Goolsby scored on Williams' single.

Hinojosa's two-run double in the third increased Houston's lead to 4-0.

Ricky Torres and Goolsby added home runs for the Cougars. Goolsby, 3-for-4, drilled a bases-empty shot in the eighth off of reliever Mike Oquist and Torres hit a sixth-inning two-run pinch-hit homer, his fourth of the season.

Texas A&M 11, Texas Tech 3

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M's Randy Pryor struck out 13 Red Raiders to lead the Aggies over Texas Tech.

The Raiders took an early 3-0 lead in the first inning, but the Aggies came back in the second with five runs. Mike Easley, an A&M junior from Baytown, batted the key hit of that inning with a two-run double when the bases were loaded.

Easley went on to finish 3-for-4 with three RBIs in the game.

Pryor, a sophomore from Pearland, walked only three in his 13-strikeout performance, his best as an Aggie. At one point, Pryor retired 13 in a row.

Tech's only scores came when Mike Humphreys doubled in Jeff Boydston and then Gilbert Arredondo, follwed by a two-run homer over the right-field wall.

Pryor allowed only two hits in the rest of the game.

A&M, which is ranked third by Baseball America and sixth by Collegiate Baseball-ESPN, moves to 31-7 on the season and 3-1 in SWC play. Tech falls to 25-12-1 and 4-3.

The teams will play a doubleheader today at 2 p.m.

Terry Houston

JuCo All-Star Thumbs

Texas

From Staff Reports

San Jacinto's 6-10 David Butler averaged 17 points per game in helping the Ravens, one of the strongest junior college programs in the nation, to a 68-3 record over the last two years.

Butler, headed for Jerry Tarkanian's UN-Las Vegas Runnin' Rebels next season and will be in the lineup April 9 for Texas against the U.S.A. All-Sars at the Chaparral Center.

Tickets for the game are $4 general admission and $6 for reserved seating.

Proceeds from the game support Midland Jacyee public service programs.

U.S.A.

From Staff Reports

At 6-6 Terry Houston relies on speed and tenacity to outrebound taller players and at Miami-Dade Community College in Florida, he yanked down 12 rebounds and scored 16 points epr game.

He was the catalyst for Miami-Dade's fast break this season and do the same for the U.S.A. stars against Texas Saturday night.

Houston was selected to the Region VIII all tournament team and he was named "Mr. Basketball' at Miami-Dade.

Valvano visits UCLA to discuss basketball job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Valvano, the colorful North Carolina State basketball coach, was in Los Angeles Friday to discuss the vacant UCLA coaching job with school officials.

The UCLA job opened Wednesday when Walt Hazzard was fired by Chancellor Charles Young after four years as the Bruins' coach. Hazzard had a 77-47 record at the school, including 16-14 this past season.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner reported Thursday that UCLA officials had offered Valvano a five-year, $2.5 million contract.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying Valvano, N.C. State's coach the last nine seasons, was 90 percent certain he would accept the offer and would be in Los Angeles today to work out details.

UCLA Sports Information Director Marc Dellins confirmed that Valvano would be in Los Angeles to meet with school officials today, but stressed that no offer had been made to Valvano, despite published reports to the contrary.

"The position of head coach is being discussed with Jim Valvano today, he is going to be in Los Angeles meeting with university officials," Dellins said this morning. "There has been no offer made to him or anyone else."

Meanwhile, The Associated Press was told by a school official that the salary figures being reported are exaggerated.

The Los Angeles Times quoted UCLA Athletic Director Peter Dalis as saying Thursday, "We have not offered anyone the job."

When asked if their was a frontrunner, Dalis said, "No," and when asked if there was a timetable, Dalis said, "Next week, if I can get it."

Valvano, in Kansas City for the annual meeting of college coaches Thursday, sidestepped questions about the report, saying, "This is not an appropriate time" to comment.

Temple's Chaney AP's cage coach of year

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — John Chaney wanted to keep his first major award in proper perspective.

When the man who runs Temple basketball program was named The Associated Press coach of the year on Friday, and when he received his trophy, he had people to thank and an outlook to keep.

"One of the things I did say to myself in coming here was that I did not want to get before an audience and receive an award without making sure we have this thing in its proper perspective," Chaney said at the presentation made during Final Four activities.

"All my life I've had someone I can turn to and thank for giving me an opportunity. I think that perhaps is the bottom line. I've been involved in teaching for a long time and way back in junior high school, high school and later at Cheyney State and as I look back I can only think of the people who were instrumental and made an impact in my life. It easy to count them out."

Chaney, who a Division II national championship at Cheyney State, received 261 of 445 votes from a nationwide panel of sportwriters and broadcasters. Arizona's Lute Olson was second with 58 votes, followed by Purdue's Gene Keady, 56, Loyola, Calif.'s Paul Westhead, 21, and Oklahoma's Billy Tubbs, 13.

Chaney, who was third in the voting last season, has made quite an impact on Temple in the six years he has been there, culminating this season in the school's first-ever No. 1 ranking and a 32-2 record. He has compiled a 114-38 record and led the Owls to five consecutive NCAA bids, including one this season that ended in the East Regional championship game.

Temple's John Chaney

That 63-53 loss to No. 5 Duke was marked by a 6-for-29 shooting performance by freshman Mark Macon who led the Owls throughout the season.

"This young man has a tremendous talent, we certainly wouldn't have gotten to the NCAAs without him and he's right on the threshold now of making us a better ballclub," Chaney said.

Chaney never got the opportunity to play at Temple, a school located in his hometown of Philadelphia. Instead he went to Bethune-Cookman and turned to a life of teaching and coaching with the accent on the former.

AP names Bradley's Hawkins top hoop star

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Hersey Hawkins' ascent to the top in college basketball began the day Bradley University hired Stan Albeck as its coach.

Albeck, a National Basketball Association coach for 17 years, installed a pro-style offense that allowed Hawkins to blossom, and on Friday, the 6-foot-3 senior guard received the Adolph F. Rupp Trophy as The Associated Press college basketball player of the year.

"I want to give thanks to Coach Albeck for giving me the freedom on the court to go out and do some things he probably wouldn't allow other players to do," Hawkins said. "He allowed me to do things that I really didn't think I was capable of doing.

"I think he gave me confidence in myself to go out and score points. My teammates gave me confidence to go out and shoot the ball more because they wanted me to be the leader, they wanted me to shoot the ball."

Hawkins, who led Division I in scoring with a 36.3 average, received 223 of 445 votes in a nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters conducted before the NCAA tournament.

Danny Manning of Kansas was second with 89 votes, followed by Danny Ferry of Duke and Mark Macon of Temple with 28 each, Gary Grant of Michigan with 25 and Arizona's Sean Elliott with 22.

The Rupp Trophy, first awarded in 1972, was presented at ceremonies in conjunction with the NCAA Final Four.

Hawkins, who played center at Westinghouse High School in Chicago, was recruited to Bradley by former Coach Dick Versace after a special session was arranged so Hawkins could show Versace he had the ball-handling skills to play guard in college.

Albeck took over prior to Hawkins' junior year and began running the offense he had used to free players such as George Gervin, Otis Birdsong and Michael Jordan during an NBA career that took him to Cleveland, San Antonio, New Jersey and Chicago.

"Bascially, he gave me the freedom to go one on one, which was something that was really new to me," Hawkins said. "He put in something where I got the ball and the other four players just cleared out and gave me the freedom to go one on one.

"He also had a lot of confidence in my abilities. I was glad he gave me an opportunity, but I was a little nervous because I wasn't sure I was capable of doing it."

Kansas' Brown denies recruiting story

By ED ZIERALSKI
Copley News Service

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Kansas coach Larry Brown has denied a report that he had been recruiting Los Angeles-area high school players to both Kansas and UCLA. Brown's name was listed as one of the leading candidates for the vacant UCLA position.

Bruins coach Walt Hazzard was fired Wednesday. North Carolina State coach Jim Valvano is reportedly the front-runner to replace Hazzard.

Reports said Brown was asking recruits if they would play for him at either school.

"I never said that," Brown said. "It would be embarrassing to UCLA and embarrassing to Kansas. I'm involved in one of the most wonderful experiences of my life and want to do the best job I can for the kids in this program."

Brown was interviewed by ESPN's Dick Vitale during Thursday night's NIKE-National Association of Basketball Coaches' East-West All-Star game. Brown produced a mop during the ESPN interview, and Vitale began mopping the floor of historic Municipal Auditorium, which has been the site of nine Final Fours.

The background on the mop stems from Vitale's promise that he would scrub the floor of KU's fieldhouse with a toothbrush if Brown were still coaching the Jayhawks on Oct. 15. With Valvano apparently headed for UCLA, a job that Brown covets, Brown wanted to make a statement to Vitale.

Notre Dame's David Rivers earned MVP honors for his eight points and nine assists as the East beat the West 97-91 in the NIKE-NABC All-Star game. Rivers dazzled pro scouts with some spectacular passing and moves. Wyoming's Fennis Dembo had 13 points for the West.

How serious was West coach Jerry Tarkanian about the game? "I didn't even bring my towel," Tark said.

Remember the clock controversy here during the 1986 Midwest Regional final between Kansas and Michigan State? The clock malfunctioned and Jud Heathcote's Spartans lost some precious seconds of game time and Kansas won the regional final. Kemper Arena officials have replaced the clock and the timekeeper. What was the old timekeeper's name? Larry Bates.

Campeau wins Federated fight; Macy's will get two divisions

NEW YORK (AP) — Campeau Corp. won its 2-month-old battle for Federated Department Stores Inc. on Friday, but R.H. Macy & Co. Inc., Campeau's rival for the nation's fifth largest retailer, will end up with two of Federated's divisions.

Campeau will acquire Federated for $73.50 a share, or a total of $6.58 billion, Campeau and Federated said in a statement.

Macy came away from the fight with the I. Magnin chain and the Bullock's and Bullock's-Wilshire operation, for which it would pay $1.1 billion, the statement said.

The acquisition would be the fifth largest corporate takeover in U.S. history, and the largest deal not involving oil companies.

Macy agreed to terminate a merger agreement it reached with Federated last month. The definitive agreement signed by the three companies also calls for Macy to be paid $60 million for its expenses in the takeover fight.

Edward S. Finkelstein, Macy's chairman, said his company was pleased with the outcome and believed "we have made a prudent decision.

Campeau, a Toronto-based real estate developer that also owns Allied Stores Corp. in the United States, won Federated following two meetings of the retailer's board this week.

Campeau's offer was expected to remain open until April 14, subject to the company's obtaining financing commitments, but it might be extended until May 12.

Friday's deal ran along the lines of the "lockup" agreement between Macy and Federated last month, which gave Macy the right to buy Bullock's and Magnin if the two companies' merger fell through.

The purchase of the two divisions would give Macy an expanded presence in California and the Southwest. Most of Macy's nearly 100 department and specialty stores are in the eastern half of the country.

Robert H. Morosky, president of Allied who would head the combined Allied-Federated operations, said Campeau planned to sell off Federated's supermarket, discount store and specialty store chains, as well as some of its department store chains.

"Good Neighbor Club" Send A Gift Of Love

This year when you go out of town for 3 or more days, send a "Gift of Love". Instead of stopping the delivery of the Reporter-Telegram - just call our circulation department and tell us you want to become a member of our "Good Neighbor Club". While you're away your paper will be delivered to a local nursing home of your choice with a card "compliments of a caring Midlander". When you return, your regular delivery will be resumed.

It's just a simple gesture at a cost of pennies a day, but the residents will thank you for sharing your Reporter-Telegram subscription, and the Midland Reporter-Telegram will thank you for being a "Good Neighbor".

It's so easy to be a member of our "Good Neighbor Club". All you have to do is call our circulation department and say "I want to be a member of the "Good Neighbor Club". Tell us how long you will be out of town, where you want your paper sent and when to resume delivery to your house. We will do the rest.

Disney becomes baseball sponsor, eyes spring team

Associated Press

The Disney Company announced Friday it has become an official corporate sponsor for Major League Baseball and that may only be the beginning.

There have been reports the Disney people are considering constructing a baseball complex near Disney World in Orlando, Fla. and would like to bring in a major league team for spring training. Some of the Arizona teams — including the Chicago Cubs — have been approached.

A three-year sponsor agreement was announced at a news conference at Walt Disney Studios by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth and Michael Eisner, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Walt Disney Company.

The first Disney programs at a major league ballpark are scheduled April 8-10 with the Chicago White Sox and will be followed by programs with the Houston Astros on April 29-30 and May 1; the Atlanta Braves on May 6-8, and the New York Yankees on May 13-14.

Each Disney appearance at those ballparks will include a pre-game entertainment spectacular, Disney souvenirs for every fan in attendance, and vacation trip giveaways to Disneyland and Disney World between each inning, it was announced. ...

Mike Norris, a former 20-game winner, may be back in the major leagues soon. He's at home in Oakland working on a screwball and is in shape. Norris has not pitched in the majors since 1983 with the Athletics, when he ran into injuries and legal problems. Yankees manager Billy Martin is known to be in favor of signing Norris. ...

Baseball Notebook

Yankees pitcher Tommy John, needing a bat to use in an exhibition game, searched the dugout and found a Ron Kittle model. "That should have a lot of hits left in it," shouted a teammate. John went 0-for-2 at the plate. ...

Yankee fans may not like what they see when they exit the subway at Yankee Stadium this year. At the end of one ramp, is a large poster of New York Mets pitcher Dwight Gooden. ...

Speaking of Gooden, Atlanta manager Chuck Tanner asked the umpires to make Gooden take off his gold neck chains last week in a spring training game. It seems the glare was bothering the hitters. ...

Pam Postema's hopes of becoming the first female umpire in the big leagues are not over just because she won't make it this year. She'll spend this season in the American Association as a crew chief for the first time and will be back with the National League next spring training. It's a good bet she will work at least one game in the majors in 1989. ...

The Reds will have a moment of silence Monday before their season opener with St. Louis in honor of former slugger Ted Kluszewski, who died Tuesday in Cincinnati. The Reds also will wear black arm bands for the first week of the season to honor Kluszewski. ...

Mario Soto is the only pitcher in Cincinnati history to win four consecutive opening day games, beating Atlanta in 1983, then New York, Montreal and Philadelphia. He also started in 1982 and lost to Chicago. ...

The St. Louis Cardinals have often complained that they don't get any respect from the New York Mets. They may be right. In the 1988 Mets media guide, it's written that the Mets are the only team in major league history to appear in more than two championship series and go undefeated (1969, '73 and '86). Well, the Cardinals are also won in 1982, '85 and '87.

Noah falls to Edberg

DALLAS (AP) — Top-seeded Stefan Edberg of Sweden outsteadied erratic Yannick Noah of France 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 Friday night to advance to the all-European championship match in the WCT Finals.

Edberg will play West Germany's Boris Becker in Saturday's championship finals for the $200,000 first prize at Reunion Arena. Becker ousted American Brad Gilbert 6-4, 6-2, 6-1 Thursday night in the other semifinal.

Becker lost to Anders Jarryd in the 1986 WCT Finals title match.

IT WILL be Edberg's first trip to the finals after twice losing here in the semifinals.

Noah has lost to Edberg all six times he has met him.

Edberg, 22, born in Vastervik, Sweden but now a resident of London, lost only six points on his service in a 30-minute first set.

The 27-year-old Noah's first service betrayed him and he lost serve in the sixth and eighth games as the acrobatic Edberg consistently found the corners with his returns. Set point came as Noah dumped an easy volley into the net.

Noah, born in Sedan, France but now residing in New York City, steadied his service to fight back and take the second set after breaking Edberg in the ninth game with a backhand winner. Edberg fought off three set points before Noah held service in the deciding 10th game.

Edberg charged back in the third set after Noah's first service malfunctioned once again. Noah did provide comic relief by climbing into the stands to get a spectator's eyeglasses after a radar-acurate return by Edberg found the line.

Edberg was down love-40 on his own service but rallied to win the seventh game.

In the fourth set, Edberg broke through in the seventh game and held service the rest of the way to wrap up the 2½-hour duel.

Techsters upset Vols

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Erica Westbrooks scored 18 points as fifth-ranked Louisiana Tech avanged a loss to Tennessee in last year's national championship game by beating the top-ranked Lady Vols 68-59 Friday night in the semifinals of the NCAA women's basketball tournament.

The loss snapped Tennessee's 22-game winning streak.

Louisiana Tech, 31-2, earned the right to play the winner of Friday night's other semifinal match — No. 3 Auburn vs. No. 7 Long Beach State — in Sunday afternoon's NCAA championship game in the Tacoma Dome.

The Lady Techsters led 36-23 at halftime, but the Lady Vols got to within 48-43 on a jump shot by Kris Durham with 9:12 to go.

With Venus Lacy, Louisiana Tech's 6-foot-4, 200-pound sophomore center, on the bench after picking up her fourth personal foul of the game with 9:23 left, the Lady Techers appeared to be in trouble.

But Louisiana Tech rallied to score nine of the next 11 points for a 57-45 lead.

Louisiana Tech's biggest lead was 63-47 with 3:41 left.

Nora Lewis added 13 points and Lacy had 11 for Louisiana Tech. Tennessee, 31-3, was led by Tonya Edwards with 16 points, 15 by Bridgette Gordon and 13 by Dawn Marsh.

All of Louisiana Tech's starters were in double figures. Teresa Weatherspoon and Angela Lawson each had 10 points for the Lady Techsters, who won the first NCAA women's title in 1982.

Louisiana Tech also handed Tennessee one of its two defeats this season, a 76-74 defeat in Knoxville during the regular season.

Louisiana Tech hit its first five shots from the floor and led 36-23 at halftime, their biggest lead in the opening half.

The Lady Techsters hit their first five field goals and led 11-4 after a 3-point basket by Weatherspoon.

Shelia Frost, Tennessee's 6-foot-4 junior center and No. 2 scorer with a 14.9 scoring average and leading rebounder, was limited to three free throws and Louisiana Tech outrebounded Tennessee 45-36, with Lacy and Lewis each pulling down 10 rebounds.

Tennessee entered the game as the nation's No. 1 scoring team with an 89.8 scoring average.

This thing we call hope—it is a strange thing. It springs eternal in the human breast . . . and yet so often it has been mocked by time and tragedy.

Why, indeed, does every man and woman cling to his or her hope, even when the self-styled realists cry "hopeless."

The answer is written in the beautiful history of the first Easter Day. Faithful friends of the Master came to anoint His body. Came sorrowing . . . . without hope.

And they returned rejoicing: "Christ is risen . . ."

That was the birthday of Hope . . . the certainty of Christians that even death cannot destroy the believing soul!

And every Easter Day countless men and women discover or rediscover that Hope. It brings a new joy to their lives. It will, to yours . . . . . .

Haggadah product of Jewish tradition

New York Times News Service

The people who loved her are quietly dreading the seder this week because Rachel Anne Rabinowicz will not be there, effervescent and enlightening, the perfect Passover celebrant. But many other seders will be enriched, because her scholarship and devotion to Jewish tradition will shine from the pages of the Haggadah she edited.

Rabinowicz died of a brain tumor last Sept. 14, at the age of 46. But it was not until her family and friends (including me and my wife) began reviewing her life — her religious writing, her work as an advertising copywriter, her help of the needy, the sumptuous kosher salons she held in her tiny West Side apartment — that the richness and varied nature of her accomplishments became clear.

The Haggadah, possibly the first text of the Passover ritual ever edited by a woman, is among the more lasting of those accomplishments. More than 100,000 copies of "The Feast of Freedom," a full-color narrative celebrating the Exodus of the Israelites from slavery, have been published since 1982 by the Rabbinical Assembly, the international association of Conservative rabbis.

"Why is this Haggadah different from all other Haggadot, from the estimated 3,000 editions that have been produced during the past 500 years?" reads the Haggadah's foreword, paraphrasing the four traditional "Why-is-this-night-different?" questions of Passover. The foreword — signed by Rabbi Wolfe Kelman, the executive vice president of the Rabbinical Assembly; Rabbi Max J. Routtenberg, the late scholar, and Rabbi Jules Harlow, the assembly's director of publications — answers with a blend of "conservation and innovation."

"We wanted to preserve the general liturgical theme that a Jew from Yemen in the year 1400 could recognize," Kelman said. "On the other hand, we wanted to eliminate sexist language, to look at things from the perspective of the Holocaust and the State of Israel."

In her role as editor, Rabinowicz seems to have herself embodied this balance of conservation and innovation, conserving her scholarly heritage while performing a role that her Hasidic ancestors would not have countenanced. Women have vastly different roles within traditional Judaism. Orthodox and Hasidic Jews often separate the sexes, and at services they are seated in different areas. By contrast, women have been ordained as rabbis in Reform Judaism for more than a decade; more recently, they have been ordained in the Conservative branch.

The editor of "The Feast of Freedom" was descended from prominent Hasidic families of Eastern Europe. Her father, Nathan David Rabinowicz, left Poland before World War II, becoming the rebbe, or leader, of the Biala congregation in London.

Rachel and her older sister, Miriam, could not go to the all-male religious schools attended by their older brother, Harry, now an Orthodox rabbi in London. Instead, they went to English public schools, becoming more worldly, perhaps, but remaining faithful to Hasidic traditions.

"Girls were not normally taught the Torah," Miriam Rabinowicz recalled in a recent interview. "But with a mind like Rachel's, our father could not resist."

When their father died at the age of 47, the sisters pursued secular careers, moving in the 1960's to New York City, where Rachel became a prize-winning copywriter for several companies, while Miriam worked at the Jewish Theological Seminary.

At Passover and other holidays, the sisters were often invited to the home of Sylvia Heschel and her husband, Abraham Joshua Heschel, their cousin and one of the most celebrated contemporary Jewish theologians, whose writings emphasized a spiritual dimension to the practice of Judaism.

"There were certain chants Rachel knew from her family, but they were very much like the chants my father knew," said Susannah Heschel, the only child of Rabbi Heschel and the author of "On Being a Jewish Feminist" (Schocken Press, 1983). "After my father died, Rachel kept the chants going."

Rabinowicz's scholarship and writing ability, in what were frequently volunteer projects, caught the attention of Rabbis Kelman, Routtenberg and Harlow, who wanted a new Haggadah for the large and diverse Conservative branch.

"I asked Rachel, 'Would you work with us?' " Rabbi Kelman said. "She was taken aback but said she would try. She was supposed to be the editor, but the truth is, she actually rewrote it."

Among the desired changes was a interpretation of Psalm 79 that would soften its traditional emphasis on righteous wrath: "Pour out Your wrath upon those who do not know You and upon the governments which do not call up Your name. For they have devoured Jacob and laid waste his dwelling place."

Vietnam veteran to preach Thursday at Midland Center

Evangelist Dave Roever will speak at Midland Center, Main Street and Wall Avenue, at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Roever was burned beyond recognition or hope of survival in the Vietnam War, says a news release from Dave Roever Ministries.

While serving with the River Patrol Division of the United States Navy in South Vietnam, a phosphorus grenade, hit by a sniper's bullet, exploded in Roever's hand six inches from his face as he was poised to throw it into an enemy bunker. The explosion sunk his boat and he was pinned, still burning, beneath it.

"His story of survival and life is a miraculous account of Divine help," the release says. "Hospitalized for 14 months and undergoing 15 major operations — during one of which he was thought to have died — he says his ordeal has served to heighten his love for America."

Although his hands were badly mangled and charred, Roever learned to play the piano and is "an exceptionally gifted musician."

In 1974 and 1975, Roever returned to Vietnam, not with an M-16, but with a message of love, the release says.

"He was beautifully received by thousands of South Vietnamese who listened intently as he spoke of God's miracle love for all the world."

Since then, Roever has preached and lectured in 36 nations and has made frequent appearances at university campuses, high school assemblies, concerts, youth conventions and churches of many denominations throughout Canada and the United States.

He has appeared on such national television shows as "Praise the Lord Program," and the movie industry has solicited his story "Welcome Home, Davey" for network television.

His Midland talk is sponsored by several local churches and businesses.

Methodist church begins series

First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Illinois Avenue, announces the beginning ot four new classes in its Wednesday Night Live program.

The classes will begin Wednesday and continue April 13, 20 and 27.

All classes are open to the general public as well as to church members. Classes meet from 6:15 to 7:15 p.m., preceeded by a fellowship meal at 5:15 p.m. for those who choose. Graded choir rehearsals for children and child care for pre-schoolers is available during class.

There is a registration fee of $3 per person or $5 per family, payable during registration Wednesday from 5:15 to 6:15 p.m.

The classes are "The Church," a survey of the history of the United Methodist Church and its beliefs and doctrines, led by Dr. Charles Lutrick; "Learn to Love Opera," a survey of the development of opera will be given, with an emphasis on the stories, music and background of two operas being presented in Santa Fe "Cosi fan tutti" and "Die Fledermaus," led by Jane Ward; "Parents Coping with Sibling Rivalry," includes stages of development, sibling rivalry, how it develops and how parents often foster it and includes case studies from today and from some Old Testament characters, led by Steve Roberts, director of Family Services of Midland; and "Parenting Teenagers Today," led by three professionals, including Dr. David Koch, psychiatrist, Susan Tate, drug abuse therapist at Clearview Hospital, and Jim May, Family Wellness Center.

A trip to the Santa Fe Opera in late August is being planned by Brad Kisner and Ms. Ward. Those interested in knowing more about opera and perhaps going on the trip are invited to attend the Wednesday Night Live sessions.

Kelview Heights to present Easter musical

The Adult Choir of Kelview Heights Baptist Church will present the musical "Then Came the Morning" at 9:45 and 11:15 a.m. Sunday.

" 'Then Came the Morning' is more than an observation about the chronology of dawn in the passing day," says a news release from Kelview Heights Baptist Church. " 'Then Came the Morning' is a declaration about the breakthrough of divine revelation into the soul of a human person.

"More specifically, it is a statement about each of our lives before and after we are confronted with the Living Lord. This musical is not so much a collection of victorious songs and statements as it is a personal accounting of the struggle to believe," the release said.

In the musical, two disciples tell of the days they spent with Jesus, what they saw and experienced for themselves and how his message came in painful conflict with the voices and promises of their world.

"In the end, the fact of the risen Lord demands of them a frightening commitment," the release says. "Willing to take this risk, yet powerless to live out their choice, they cling to other believers in fear and weakness."

"The musical ends, not with the Resurrection, but with Pentecost, when the 'eternity' in Christ's words consumes and possesses these believers, banishing their fear and driving them into the street to share the news of the unshakable kingdom Christ has come to build," it said.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Frank Johnson, invites the public to attend this Easter celebration. A nursery will be provided. Kelview Heights Baptist Church is located off North Big Spring and Scharbauer Drive.

Six-week temperament class set for Grace Presbyterian

Beginning April 10, The WHEN Class at Grace Presbyterian Church, 2801 N. Garfield St., will be led by the Rev. Jerry Kelly, associate director of the Samaritan Counseling Center.

Kelly will teach a six-week course on "Temperament and Spirituality."

"The course is designed to help us understand our temperament, to experience different forms of spiritual disciplines and to appreciate the diversity within the community of faith," says a news release from the church.

A prerequisite for this class is an introductory knowledge of the Myers-Briggs Type Indicator. Kelly will hold a MBTI workshop from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

"If you have never taken the MBTI, this workshop will give you a basic introduction to your type," the release says. "If you know your type, it will serve as an excellent review before focusing on temperaments."

The course is designed to be practical and theoretical. Each week participants will be given a set of daily spiritual exercises to practice. Each class will be a combination of discussion of the exercises and lectures on the temperament.

The course outline is as follows:

— April 10, "From Type to Temperament;"

— April 17, "The SP Temperament and Franciscan Prayer;"

— April 24, "The SJ Temperament and Ignation Prayer;"

— May 1, "The NT Temperament and Thomistic Prayer;"

— May 8, "The NF Temperament and Augustinian Prayer;"

— and May 15, "The Use of Temperament in the Spiritual Journey."

For more information on this class call Kelly, 563-4144.

Center offers two new workshops

The Samaritan Counseling Center is offering two groups in April and May.

The first is "The Dance of Anger", a workshop focusing on the book of the same title by Harriet Goldhor Lerner, Ph.D.

"This workshop is designed for women to guide them in dealing with patterns of anger in intimate relationships," says a release from the center.

This six-week course is being offered at two different times — Thursdays from 9:30 to 11 a.m. beginning Thursday and concluding May 12 and also Mondays from 7 to 8:30 p.m. beginning Monday. All classes will be at the center.

Fee is $100 per participant. Leaders for the group will be Diane Rhoden and Ed Rowley of the center staff.

The second group will be a "Divorce Adjustment Group," the purpose of which is to be supportive and to use an educational model to assist the personal growth and self-understanding of the participants. This group will meet for 10 sessions beginning Thursday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Rowley is the leader of the group. The fee for all the sessions, workbook and tests is $100.

To register for either call 563-4144.

Odessa woman to speak at Aglow Fellowship

Rita Glasscock

The Outreach Aglow Women's Fellowship of Midland will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Holiday Inn T-Dome, 3904 W. Wall Ave.

Rita Glasscock of Odessa will be the speaker. Mrs. Glasscock ministers weekly for The Living Word Home Bible Study, an interdenominational group.

Aglow began the Casting Our Nets tape ministry in 1982. The members make available free of charge the complete New Testament on cassette to all hospital patients, nursing home residents, prisoners and the blind.

The Bible Study met in individual homes until 1983 whey they were given four acres of land, a house and two barns, deed free. The group now meets each Thursday at the Promised Land, which will eventually be opened to all denominations and any Christian group in the Southwest Texas area for retreats.

Aglow will have supper at 6:30 and the program will begin at 7:15 p.m. For more information call 756-3688 or 682-8386.

Lacy featured at luncheon

The Rev. Sterling Lacy is the guest speaker at Wednesday's noon luncheon of The Permian Basin Businessmen's Briefing of the John Birch Society. The luncheon will be held at Midland Ramada Hotel.

Lacy, who is executive director of a family counseling center, has been a minister since 1962. He has served as president of a private Christian college.

"His interest in politics dates back 20 years and has led him to run for Congress, expose the voting records of prominent politicians on moral issues and present over 100 patriotic seminars across America," says a news release from the society.

He will talk on the biblical-based mooring of the United States and call "all men of goodwill to help restore them.

"He mentions some of the unmentionables, such as the Council on Foreign Relations and the Trilateral Commission," the release says. "He records their beginnings, their power over modern America and what they are really up to."

Lacy is the author of "Valley of Decision."

Tickets for the luncheon and talk are $12. To make reservations call 684-5469 or 683-6268.

Film series continues

An eight-part film series entitled "Marriage Enrichment" is being conducted at Golf Course Road Church of Christ's Family Center. The series is being presented at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

This week's film, the seventh in the series, is "Speaking Frankly About Sex" and deals with ways to enhance the physical relationship.

The film series, the work of Dr. Carl Brecheen and Dr. Paul Faulkner, has been seen by more than 11.5 million people in the United States.

Brecheen, a college professor in the field of family studies for 20 years in Abilene, is a member of the National Council of Family Relations and co-author of the book "What Every Family Needs."

Faulkner, a supervisor for counselor certification for the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapy, serves as the director of the Marriage and Family Institute, Abilene, and has been featured on his own film series based on his book "How to Make Things Right When Everything Goes Wrong."

No offerings will be taken, and child care will be provided.

Alliance adopts by-laws

The Midland Ministerial Alliance formally adopted a constitution and by-laws at its regular monthly meeting in March.

The Alliance's purpose as stated in the constitution is "to provide a forum for the leadership of various streams of ministry within the larger identity of the church; to communicate with each other and share in common fellowship with a goal of understanding, openness and peace within the body of Christ."

The regular monthly meetings of the Alliance are held in the fellowship hall of First Baptist Church at noon on the first Thursday of each month.

"A cordial invitation is extended to anyone interested in furthering Christian fellowship and services in our city and throughout the world," says J.E. Barrington.

The April meeting will be Thursday. The Rev. Alan Williams, chaplain at Midland Memorial Hospital, will present a video program and discussion on the spiritual dimension of teen suicide intervention.

"This is a subject of vital interest to our community," barrington says.

Members are urged to attend and bring guests.

Blooms Brunch scheduled

Blooming fashions and sprouting plants will be on display April 9 during "Blooms Brunch" at St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, 2900 Princeton.

The spring fund-raiser is sponsored by St. Nicholas Episcopal Church women and is scheduled from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Tickets are $10 each with proceeds going to ECW projects.

Spring fashions are being furnished by the Canopy and a variety of designs to fit all lifestyles will be modeled.

Lanham's Nursery is providing spring bedding plants and hanging baskets for purchase.

The brunch will be served by ECW members and the menu will consist of items from the church's cookbook, "Breaking Bread with St. Nicholas." This cookbook may be purchased at the brunch.

Tickets may be purchased by calling Sherry Malouf, 686-8497, or Barbara Shelton, 699-0080. Ticket sales end Tuesday.

For more information call Ms. Malouf.

Spring meeting slated

The annual spring meeting of the Presbyterian Women of Tres Rios Presbytery will meet Friday and Saturday in Midland.

The meeting will be hosted by the Trinity Presbyterian Church, located at Louisiana Avenue and Andrews Highway. Registration will begin at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Special guest speaker will be Sylvia Washer, Christian educator for the John Knox Presbyterian Church, Houston, and David Stoner, executive director of the General Assembly, Louisville, Ky.

Ms. Washer will hold an informal session starting at 4 p.m. Friday to answer questions concerning the new design for Presbyterian Women since church merger. Also, she will speak at 7 p.m. Friday.

Stoner will address the group at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Easter sunrise service set

Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan Ave., will hold a sunrise Easter service at 6:45 a.m. Sunday.

Weather permitting, the service will be held outside. Church members, visitors and guests will be present at the open tomb as daylight dawns and the sacred days Maundy Thursday, Good Friday and Holy Saturday come to an end. An Easter breakfast will be served following the service by the Senior Lutheran League and Bob Christensen.

The Resurrection of Jesus Christ will be celebrated at both the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services with Holy Communion. The sermon will be "Jesus Christ is Risen Today, Alleluia!" and the choir will present special music entitled "Break Forth in Joy."

Midland Lutheran is a member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. For more information concerning worship services and church programs call 694-1373.

Crestview presents musical

The music ministry at Crestview Baptist Church will present David Danner's musical drama "Joy Comes in the Morning" at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The 65-voice sanctuary choir, accompanied by organ, piano and symphonic-percussion ensemble, will be directed by Crestview's minister of music, Ty Morris, Jr.

Crestview's production will include a fully staged and costumed portrayal of events of the week leading up to Jesus' crucifixion and concluding with the Resurrection and Ascension.

The musical drama emphasizes the sorrow experienced by Jesus and those close to him, and how their tragedies were turned into victory and hope. The concluding narrative will be spoken by the church's new pastor, The Rev. Rex Horne.

News service not probed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Southern Baptist executive committee has declined to make a sweeping investigation of its Baptist Press news service, but a subcommittee has advised it to exercise "Christian restraint."

The news service has come under increasing pressures as a fundamentalist wing gained control of denominational operations.

But the executive committee said the requested investigation of stories issued over the last 10 years would be a "prohibitive task of studying more than 9,000 releases.'

SUNDAY, APRIL 3, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You can make great strides in your chosen field. Never lose sight of your goals! Give others a reason to think about you and your ideas, and new job doors will open. Gather family around you on holidays and be careful not to let communication lag in between. Love makes your world go round like never before. Take minivacations to recharge your batteries and you will avoid "burn-out."

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Marlon Brando, center fielder Gary Pettis, actress Doris Day, comic Eddie Murphy, singer Wayne Newton, actress Marsha Mason, entertainer Tony Orlando, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, Time-Life founder Henry Luce.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Exercise can help dispel anxiety. Walk more. Take a few minutes to bring your checkbook up to date. You will have to change your attitude if you want a dream to become reality.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): This could be a day of enchantment for you and your loved ones. Visit a nearby museum or art gallery for educational fun. Your faith helps you when doubts arise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Little will get past you today. Helping a child with a hobby will be an investment in her future. If entertaining at home, ask your family or friends for help with the preparations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A good day to listen to others. Do not chastise yourself for what you said to partner. It was the truth. Work out in your spare time. Look into a course in high-tech skills.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Ignore people who are critical of your openness. It is one of your greatest charms! A lively newcomer could spark romance. A family financial project requires in-depth research this weekend. Dig deep.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take things one at a time. Keep track of expenses, especially if you travel with friends. A new perspective will help you tackle family problems. Be willing to make intelligent concessions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Loved one comes to you for advice. Take the time to listen carefully before commenting. Someone will try to prove you wrong. Be willing to admit that you could have made an error.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): New obligations begin to surface in interesting ways. Plan a summer vacation after consulting family members. An older person could offer some excellent suggestions. Romance begins to soar. Hold onto your hat!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Keep a promise to yourself and begin that diet or exercise program. You will feel better when you look better. Tackle a family problem without further delay. Romance is happy the second time around!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Go ahead and splurge a bit today. A relationship begins to heat up. An investigation into a secret deal intrigues you. You are wise to get things out in the open.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You have both high ideals and high aims. Trying to keep up with a friend could prove difficult. Do not fall for an impractical scheme. Your social life is about to accelerate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You are popular with just about everyone. Give credit to your delightful sense of humor. Being practical about everyday spending will enable you to take that dream vacation after all. Save, save, save!

Fraternity will win Gatlin pool table if they stay off drugs, alcohol this week

Gatlin

COOKEVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Members of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity are nearing their goal of winning a pool table from country music star Larry Gatlin by not drinking alcoholic beverages or using mind-altering drugs this week.

"We haven't messed up yet, and I don't think we're going to have any problem," said former Pi Kappa Alpha President Steve Swanson of their Saturday midnight deadline.

Gatlin, of Nashville, set forth the conditions in a letter to Swanson after learning the fraternity at Tennessee Tech was interested in the pool table he was trying to sell.

Gatlin received treatment in 1984 for drug and alcohol problems. Since then, he has encouraged young people to avoid lifestyles that can lead to addiction.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — First lady Nancy Reagan was mum after her look at the $2.5 million Bel Air quarters she and the president will move to after their lease is up at the White House.

No one was talking either about how much the first couple is paying in rent, but the house was purchased for them by Wall Management Services, a group of about 20 friends of the Reagans. The group, whose members were not identified, gave the Reagans a three-year lease with an option to buy, Mrs. Reagan's press secretary, Elaine Crispen, said earlier this week.

Mrs. Reagan toured the ranch-style house Thursday.

It has three bedrooms, six baths, guest room, living room, family room, sun room, butler's pantry and three servants' rooms. It is tucked away on a 1¼-acre estate in exclusive Bel Air, 12 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles.

The Reagans' new neighbors will include Elizabeth Taylor, Joan Rivers, Zsa Zsa Gabor, Mac Davis and Burt Bacharach.

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Singer Johnny Cash has entered the hospital for a checkup at the Eisenhower Medical Center.

The singer-songwriter known for such hits as "I Walk The Line," "Ring of Fire" and "Folsom Prison Blues," said Thursday that his busy schedule the past two years has prevented him from doing "all the things a 56-year-old man should do to keep track of how all the parts are working."

Cash flew to the hospital 100 miles east of Los Angeles after an engagement in Las Vegas, Nev.

Cash was suffering from bronchitis and laryngitis which have lingered since a recent bout with the flu, the statement said.

Boitano

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Olympic gold medalist Brian Boitano has hired a public relations firm to help him endorse products "I use or believe in."

The list of things the skater from Sunnyvale likes includes soft drinks, rice cakes and mineral water, said Leigh Steinberg, his sports agent.

That list also includes women, but the 24-year-old world champion in men's figure skating said at a news conference Thursday he so far has no endorsements along that line. His training for the Olympics left him little time for a social life, but Boitano said he has plans to change that.

"It's been so long since I've been able to go out on a date or find a lady who can share with me the success I've had," said Boitano, of Sunnyvale, Calif., who returned to the Bay area Monday night after winning the World Championship in Budapest.

NEW YORK (AP) — Douglas Edwards, who was the nation's first nightly TV anchorman, preceding Walter Cronkite in the job at CBS, had his last day at the network on Tuesday after 46 years.

Tuesday "CBS Newsbreak" at noon newsbreak was his last television appearance for CBS.

He concluded it with a personal statement: "And so ends the chapter of almost 46 years as this reporter moves on along the journey. A deep bow of gratitude, love and respect to the men and women of CBS News and to the company for which they stand. To you out there, thank you for honoring me with your presence in my audience, and most of all for your voices, your most sweet voices. Douglas Edwards, CBS News New York."

Edwards' last radio broadcast was Tuesday night.

President Reagan sent a congratulatory letter calling Edwards a "consummate professional."

"Over the years, countless men and women have turned to you for the news, especially in time of crisis, and have felt reassured that they are 'getting it straight' when they hear the the voice of Douglas Edwards. I can't think of any greater tribute to a journalist than that," said Reagan's letter.

Edwards joined CBS Radio in 1942, joining Edward R. Murrow's staff in London towards the end of World War II. Later, he served as Paris bureau chief.

When CBS launched its evening news show in 1948, then-CBS President Frank Stanton tapped Edwards to anchor it and called it "Douglas Edwards with the News."

NBC followed with "Camel News Caravan," and ABC later launched a nightly news show with John Daly.

Edwards stayed in the job for 14 years, until the show became the "CBS Evening News" and Cronkite took over as anchor.

Edwards, 70, plans to move to Sarasota, Fla. He will continue lecturing on broadcast journalism and start work on a book.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen Americans will receive literary awards from the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters, the academy announced Friday.

In addition, the academy announced that Blake Morrison of London will receive the E.M. Forster award, given to an English writer for a stay in the United States.

Nine of the 16 awards include $5,000 purses given to encourage writers in their creative work.

Those nine are William Barrett of North Tarrytown; David Bottoms of Marietta, Ga.; Rosellen Brown of Houston, Texas; David Cope of Grandville, Mich.; John Clellon Holmes of Old Saybrook, Conn.; John McCormick of Princeton, N.J.; James Seay of Chapel Hill, N.C.; William Weaver of Arezzo, Italy; and Norman Williams of North Ferrisburgh, Vt.

The other seven are Andrew Hudgins of Montgomery, Ala.; Kaye Gibbons of Raleigh, N.C.; Edward Hirsch of Houston; Thomas McMahon of Wellesley, Mass.; Andre Dubus of Haverhill, Mass.; Jonathan Evan Maslow of Mobile, Ala., and Clement Greenberg of New York City.

The awards will be given May 18.

Catholic chapel in shopping mall packs in worshippers

PARAMUS, N.J. (AP) — The Rev. Brice Riordan sensed a bargain in the air one day recently while he prepared to celebrate Mass.

"Dear friends, it's encouraging to see such a great number of you," Riordan said, looking out over his congregation. "There must be a sale at Stern's or something."

The 18-year-old Carmelite chapel in the Bergen Mall is one of the few in the country to be located in a shopping center. It is billed as The Chapel on the Mall, devoted to St. Therese.

The Rev. Ferdinand Schaefer, the chapel's pastor, said the idea for a place to worship amid the materialism of a mall comes from the age-old directive to "get Christ in the marketplace."

"You have to go where the people are, and the people are in the malls," Schaefer said.

The chapel is run by four priests of the Carmelite Order of the Roman Catholic Church, which helped set up the first known mall chapel more than 25 years ago in Peabody, Mass.

The reason the Bergen Mall was chosen for a chapel site was a link to the Peabody chapel — Allied Stores, which in 1970 owned both shopping malls, Schaefer said.

Attendance was poor in the early years but it has gained steadily, and today, especially during Lent and on Saturdays, it is standing room only in the 150-seat chapel, Schaefer said.

Year round, the chapel attracts about 200 people a day for three Masses daily on weekdays and four on Saturday, he said. The chapel doesn't offer Sunday Masses, because the mall is closed.

Schaefer and steady chapelgoers credit the solid turnout to convenience and the strong sermons of the four Carmelite priests.

"We just love these priests," said Kathleen Tappen of Maywood.

Mrs. Tappen and her husband, Frank, have been chapel worshipers for eight years.

"It's like a family," added Marge Wohlrab of Rochelle Park, a 10-year chapel-goer. "Each (priest) gives a different perspective. We always get another reason for carrying on."

The priests, ranging in age from 66 to 71 years old, have drawn their wisdom from experience, said Schaefer.

"These guys have 40 to 45 years of priesthood behind them," Schaefer said. "They have sort of mellowed."

In tears

Thomas Phillips, 9-months-old, and Sharell Phillips, 2, of Allentown, Pa., seem to be afraid of the Easter bunny who paid a visit to a local mall. People with a sales receipt from any downtown store could have free photo taken with the bunny.

Linguist tells conference members that 'humor is serious business'

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — The seventh National Conference on Humor opened on April Fool's Day without so much as a gag, practical joke or even a hint of buffoonery.

The 70-odd scholars gathered Friday at Purdue University to dissect the fragile body of humor. These humor anatomists specialize in the brain more than the funnybone.

"This is serious business," said Purdue linguist Victor Raskin, the conference chairman.

How serious? Well, have you heard the one about, "The Effects of a Silent or Laughing Confederate and the Amplification or Inhibition of Facial Reactions on Cartoon Funniness Evaluation?"

Ball State University researchers Lambert Deckers and Daniel Moore planned to deliver a paper on that topic during the three-day conference.

"You don't have to be funny while you're presenting a paper," Raskin said.

He knows the public is puzzled by the paradox of "excrutiatingly boring" research on a topic that is mirth itself.

He learned that lesson the hard way, ducking ripe tomatoes and rotten eggs hurled by the media after the first conference in the 1970s at Arizona State University.

"The media decided that the humor conference was supposed to be hilarious," he said ruefully. "So there was a full page report in Time magazine on how boring it was, complete with a couple of pictures of back-benchers dozing off during presentations.

"Well, we learned our lesson," he said.

At the five conferences that followed at Arizona State, reporters were invited to cover sessions featuring humorists and dynamic public speakers, while the real work was carried out in back rooms, he said.

"The media on the whole have been very happy with those conferences ever since," he said.

There is something funny going on here, though. The meeting is called the WHIM conference, that's for Western Humor and Irony Membership.

And, for those not celebrating Passover on Friday night, the program guide promised seating for "an indefinite number of people" at a beer and pizza place down the block. On Sunday night, a three-hour joke-telling contest was scheduled.

But why do these academics — linguists, psychologists, anthropologists and sociologists — do it?

Raskin's answer is basically, "Why not?"

"It's an important natural phenomenon," he said. "It's a human faculty, and we study all the other faculties. We study the mind, we study emotions, we study our health and behavior. And humor is part of all that."

While a comedian knows which material works, the professors want to know why.

"You don't expect a gymnast or a figure skater to come up with a scientific explanation on their failures or successes," said Raskin. "That's what we are for. We're trying to figure out what makes humor work.

"I know of no reseachers who have any ambition to become stand-up comedians," he said. "Most of us are professors, and we use a lot of humor in the classroom. But that's a matter of survival. If you don't, the students doze off on you and this is reflected in your teacher evaluations and salary raises."

Ex-employee of Lorraine doesn't think King would like motel to be museum

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — In happier times, she planted flowers for the anniversary and directed tours of the small motel where Martin Luther King Jr. died.

But now, in the 20th year after his death, Jacqueline Smith huddles on a sidewalk, wraps herself in plastic to keep off the rain and tells anyone who'll listen how the slain civil rights leader would not like plans to make The Lorraine Motel a museum.

Miss Smith, 37, lived and worked at The Lorraine for 11 years and helped organize annual gatherings there on the anniversary of King's death.

"We would clean up and plant flowers, and how the crowd was handled was up to me," she said.

But Miss Smith was evicted March 2 and has no official role in ceremonies set Monday for the 20th anniversary of King's death.

"I feel sad," she said. "I'll miss talking with the people as they go in the room."

Participants in memorial programs for the King anniversary plan a march through town, ending at The Lorraine. After a wreath-laying ceremony there, a combination march and motorcade billed as a "poor peoples' pilgrimage" will be launched from the motel for a trek through Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

The Lorraine, where King was staying while helping lead a Memphis sanitation workers' strike, is to become a civil rights museum.

For past anniversaries, visitors could go to the room where King stayed. Over the years, motel employees built a makeshift shrine in the room.

State officials closed The Lorraine in January and put a chain-link fence around it, saying it was unsafe for habitation. Miss Smith stayed on.

After her forced eviction, she set up housekeeping on the sidewalk.

The motel is in a downtown district of warehouses and low-rent apartments, but developers have begun in recent years to upgrade property in the area in hopes of attracting middle-income renters.

Miss Smith claims the $8.8 million museum will speed the gentrification of the neighborhood.

"Dr. King would not want the poor people displaced," she said.

The project for The Lorraine museum, financed by the state and local governments, is largely due to the work of a citizens' group which raised $140,000 to buy the motel at a foreclosure auction. The museum is scheduled to open in 1991.

D'Army Bailey, a Memphis lawyer and a prime mover behind the project, said museum visitors will be surrounded by pictures and sounds of civil rights marches of the 1960s.

"The museum will take you back to those times and do all we can to recreate those feelings, the tensions of the moment," he said. "When people come in and spend an hour or two and then walk out, I think and hope that what walks out is going to be affected and changed."

Bailey said it has taken almost 20 years for local government to realize that The Lorraine should be preserved as an integral though painful part of Memphis history.

Drought may force water restrictions

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia, Alabama and South Carolina are facing their fourth serious drought in eight years, experts said Friday.

"If we don't get a dramatic increase in rainfall, we'll be looking at water restrictions this summer," said David Word, chief of water resource management for the Georgia Department of Natural Resources.

Lake Lanier in north Georgia and Lakes Hartwell and Thurmond on the Georgia-South Carolina border are at lower levels than they were at this point in the drought years of 1981, 1986 and 1987, officials told reporters Friday in Atlanta.

Likely effects of the drought include timber loss, reduced water quality, stress on fish and "water restrictions, if this continues through the summer," said Pat Davis, chief of the Technical Engineering Branch for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Mobile District.

"We're in the third (consecutive) year of greatly reduced rainfall," Davis said. "It's been persistently below normal through the decade."

For the 1980s, much of the area is 12 percent below normal rainfall — the equivalent of an entire year without rain, he said. Some parts of Georgia are 70 inches below normal for the decade.

The area remains under a "water shortage alert" issued by the corps last fall, and that could become a "drought alert" later this month, officials said.

Lake Lanier, which supplies water to metro Atlanta and is the most visited lake in the Corps of Engineers system, stood Friday at nine feet below its normal level.

Despite a forecast for above-average rain for April to June, Burkett said, the customary summer and fall drops in lake levels would likely leave area lakes below normal levels.

OUR USED CARS HAVE A WARRANTY THAT WON'T WASH OFF.

Maybe you think the only used car warranty you can get is the one soaped on the windshield.

At Jack Sherman Chevrolet-Saab, we inspect every used car we sell. We test, we tune and then we attach a special 90 day, 3,000 mile warranty on the engine, drive train and transmission - for parts and labor - on every used car in our lot.*

So when we say we stand behind the cars we sell, that's a promise written in stone. Not just on a windshield.

SPECIAL 90 DAY COVERED PARTS AND LABOR WARRANTY.
