ROOSEVELT KILLS PLAN FOR SALES TAX BILL

Two Men Jailed After Police Find Mutilated Body Of 9-Year-Old Girl

Threatened Roundup Of Solons Brings In Quorum For Session

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—The call of duty, and perhaps the threat that a sergeant at arms would go after absentees, sent 243 house members to the floor today for a combination of argument and action.

On the other hand, the senate only went through the formality of meeting, and quit within five minutes until Friday.

For a time it looked as if Speaker Garner would be forced to make good on his assertion that he would direct the sergeant at arms to round up enough members to do business, provided a quorum—215—was not present.

Vote School Fund

The quorum count came early through a vote on a motion by the only negro representative, DePriest, Republican, Illinois, to add $460,000 for Howard university, negro school, to the $43,000,000 interior department appropriation bill.

Vacant seats were prominent when the clerk began to call the roll but members trooped in from cloakrooms and offices.

Along with the quorum count, DePriest's motion was approved. The interior department bill was passed soon afterwards and went to the senate.

Speeches Aplenty

The agriculture department appropriation measure was taken up next but it was used as a spring board for speeches on the farmers' plight, war debts, the bonus army eviction, interest rates, the reconstruction corporation and other things until quitting time.

Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, said high interest rates were one cause of the country's difficulties. He introduced a resolution to have the government use its power to cut the rate to three per cent.

There were several proposals for investigations. Representative Black, New York, denounced the bonus army eviction by government troops and said congress should go into it thoroughly.

Representative Garber, Republican, Oklahoma, said there should be an inquiry into loans made by the reconstruction corporation, commenting the charge had been made that the corporation favored the larger banks. Representative Howard, Democrat, Nebraska, introduced a resolution for such an inquiry.

Meanwhile, house leaders were thinking about balancing a budget that has been out of line for three years.

THREE ACES

Leading Candidates For Speaker Face The Cameras Together

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—Three leading Democratic candidates for the speakership of the next house got together today for a friendly informal conference and photographers quickly gathered around.

"This is unfair to me," complained Byrns of Tennessee. "I take the worst picture of anybody here. Maybe it's because I'm the ugliest."

"You may be the ugliest," conceded McDuffie of Alabama, "but your pictures are no worse than mine."

"Stop alibi-ing," put in Rainey of Illinois, "let's get this over with. I'm always fidgety till I get those cameras turned the other way."

It generally is expected one of the three will be elected to succeed Speaker Garner.

FUNERALS FOR MINERS HELD

Corteges Make Continuous Procession in Streets

MOWEAQUA, Ill., Dec. 27. (AP)—Friends filled the streets today as many of the 40 victims of Saturday's explosion in the Shafer mine were buried, while the search for the bodies of 14 others continued in the mine, 700 feet down in the earth and a mile or more from the entrance.

Funeral cortages made an almost continuous procession through the streets today, nearly every one representing the loss of a bread-winner from a family.

In addition, other families were expected to be left without means of sustenance by closing of the mine—the village's only industry—at least until the long task of clearing it is completed.

Red Cross relief, $2,000 from the United Mine Workers of America, and a small fund remaining from the state emergency relief appropriation were expected to care for the 1,400 residents' immediate needs. A committee planned to visit the governor at Springfield and ask additional aid.

"There's not a chance in 10,000 that any of the 14 men still unfound could be alive," said John Millhouse, director of the rescue work.

"In addition, it may require weeks for the bodies to be removed. No one could estimate the difficulties—barriers of rock or poisonous gas—that will have to be overcome before we reach them."

Judiciary Committee To Consider Beer Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—A call for a meeting of the senate judiciary committee tomorrow to hasten action on the house 3.2 per cent beer bill was issued today by Chairman Norris as members of a subcommittee pored over law books in a study of the constitutional questions involved.

Norris expressed hope his second effort to obtain a quorum of the committee would be successful so formal consideration of the bill could be expedited. Absence of a majority of the group blocked action yesterday.

CHILD MISSING SINCE NOONDAY OF CHRISTMAS

Officers Say Pretty Young Victim Was Criminally Attacked by Pair

NEIGHBORHOOD IRED

Special Detail of Police Sent To District to Prevent Violence

NORWOOD, Mass., Dec. 27. (AP)—The mutilated body of pretty Anealy Keras, 9, was found in the cellar of her home today and soon afterward one man, who lived in the same house, was held on a murder charge and another as an accessory. She had been missing since Christmas day.

The body of the child, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keras, was bound by a piece of rope and concealed in a burlap bag under a woodpile. Police said, pending a medical examiner's report, it was apparent the child had been criminally attacked.

Tenants Held

The men held were Ahmeed Orsman, 50, who occupied a tenement in the Keras house, and Allie Orsman, 48. Ahmeed was charged with murder and Allie with being an accessory. Search was made for two other men who were known to have visited Ahmeed's apartment Christmas day.

The child's body, fully clothed except for shoes, was found in that portion of the cellar allotted to the Orsman tenement.

Assistant Attorney General Edmund Dewing of Norfolk county, who took charge of the case upon discovery of the body described it as a "most brutal murder." An autopsy was begun immediately by a medical examiner.

Resentment over the child's slaying flared up in the neighborhood when the finding of the body became known and special detail of police was sent there to prevent violence.

Dog Aids Discovery

Discovery of the body was made by Sergt. William Barron of the Norwood police, who visited the cellar again today although it had been searched three times previously. The peculiar actions of a dog which Barron brought with him led the officer to the wood pile in that section of the cellar used by Ahmeed Orsman.

Earlier in the day a bundle of blood-stained clothing was found a short distance from the girl's home.

When the child failed to return before nightfall Christmas, a search of the neighborhood was begun and all of her little playmates were questioned. Search of nearby woods was made by Norwood police, state troopers and Boy Scouts.

The Orsmans were taken into custody for questioning after police had interrogated the dead child's 14-year-old sister.

Farmers Revolt Against Foreclosures on Land

ASHLAND, Wis., Dec. 27. (AP)—The revolt against farm foreclosures spread today to Ashland county, where 75 farmers sought unsuccessfully to stop the sheriff's sale of the 40 acres owned by August Jusula.

Led by Martin Maki, the farmers tried to stop Sheriff Elmer Sanders from selling the property to the Federal Land bank of St. Paul. When the sheriff replied he was powerless to prevent the sale, Maki addressed the farmers, urging all to be present when the sheriff attempted to evict the family.

"We'll be there to put him off," Maki warned.

Marion Reed of Hurley, representing the bank, bought the farm for $1,900.

Late Christmas Celebrated By Rockefeller, Sr.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Dec. 27. (AP)—Santa Claus arrived two days late but tonight it was a jolly Christmas just the same at the Casements, winter home of John D. Rockefeller Sr.

Surrounded by a group of close friends and neighbors, the 93-year-old philanthropist led in the singing of old-fashioned hymns and carols and gave to his guests jovial compliments of the season.

It's a time-honored custom of Rockefeller to defer his Christmas party until after Christmas day, and tonight twinkling lights burned softly as the guests arrived at the Casements. The Christmas tree lifted to the very ceiling.

Each guest was greeted with a hearty handshake and best wishes as he or she walked through the tropical flower garden to the door opening into the huge domed drawing room. There stood the brightly lighted tree, whose tinseled boughs overhung a stack of presents for young and old alike.

The guests were seated around the edge of the drawing room, which is octagonal in shape. They heard a quartet, composed of members of a local civic club, and then an orchestra which played semi-religious music. The audience joined in the singing.

Refreshments of sandwiches, colored punch and fancy cream were served at the conclusion of the musical program.

Then, Santa Claus entered and distributed gifts.

Potter announced today he had declined to accept employment as special prosecutor in the second trial. INSULL DINES WITH FRIENDS AFTER VICTORY

Greek Court Refuses To Grant Extradition Of Chicagoan

RULING WINS CHEERS

Accued Utilities Chief Expresses Thanks To 'Greek Justice'

ATHENS, Dec. 27. (AP)—Samuel Insull ate dinner with friends tonight, a free man after a Greek court had refused to sanction his extradition to the United States to answer Cook county, Illinois, charges of mismanagement of funds of his utilities companies.

The court, after having peremptorily cut short the presentation of the defense case, found depositions brought to Athens from Chicago did not support the charges against the former utilities operator, and let him go free.

Decision Cheered

There were extraordinary scenes among the large crowd which had gathered for the verdict and shouts of "long live Greek justice!" echoed through the building from which Insull emerged something of a hero.

"I owe thanks to Greek justice for the sympathy expressed," the Chicagoan said.

The charges against Mr. Insull in Chicago are grand larceny and embezzlement. They involve payments of $66,000 and $104,000 which, according to a deposition made by Oliver McCormick, treasurer of the utilities companies, were made to brokers for Martin Insull, a brother.

No Fraud Intended

The prosecution contended these payments constituted embezzlement. The court held they were ordinary business transactions, that they were loans made for the purpose of saving the price of stock in which the companies were greatly interested.

Mr. Insull had no fraudulent intention, the court decided, and he committed no offense. The tribunal held that none of the charges made against him had been backed up by the depositions presented in court, and that there was no justification for extradition.

The former multimillionaire utilities operator was defended by ex-

Rail Commission Busy On Data For Use In Production Hearing Today

Operators to Meet With Administrators to Work Out Acceptable Method of Proration Field

AUSTIN, Dec. 27. (AP)—Production troubles of the East Texas oil field had been deposited on the doorstep of the Texas Railroad commission for solution again tonight.

Employes of the commission, administrator of state conservation laws, were busy today compiling data that will be used tomorrow in considering probable methods of prorating output of the big pool at a hearing of operators in that area as well as those interested in every other Texas petroleum field.

Nominations of purchasers of oil in the numerous fields had been made and were being tabulated. It was expected that ability of pipe line companies to take oil ratably from the various pools would be a determining factor in influencing the commission's action in fixing the allowable for each pool.

The East Texas field, with its approximately 9,300 producers, has been closed down since Dec. 17, when the commission ordered the shutdown to enable its engineers to test the wells for bottom-hole pressure and to gather other scientific data needed in considering conditions affecting the pool.

ENGINEERS TEST NEARLY 200 WELLS

LONGVIEW, Texas, Dec. 27. (AP)—Petroleum engineers of the Texas Railroad commission today had tested nearly 200 wells in the East Texas oil field for bottom hole pressure and the prediction was made that by Jan. 1 enough wells would have been gauged to give the commission all data necessary in issuing future proration orders.

Fourteen crews, each with a pressure "bomb," are at work in the field and are pushing across from the western edge to the eastern limit, which some of the groups already have reached.

The engineers were not prepared today to say what the average bottom hole pressure reading was but the information will be available at the hearing in austin tomorrow of oil operators with the commission. Considerable trouble has been experienced in obtaining signatures of independents on the release necessary to clear the owners of "the "bombs" from all blame should a well be damaged.

CHARGES FILED IN SLAYING

Mob Violence Feared For Alleged Masked Killer

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Dec. 27. (AP)—Murder charges were filed today against Leland Bell, 27-year-old rancher, for the Christmas day slaying of Everett Fling, 25, who with his brother was killed by a masked gunman.

Authorities said their investigation indicated a range fued was the cause of the slaying and that Bell had confessed.

The rancher was taken to the state penitentiary at Santa Fe today for safe keeping.

Everett Fling was killed instantly by two bullets through the head as he was feeding stock near his homestead shack, southeast of here, authorities said. Charles Fling, 22, was shot as he was dismounting from his horse with another brother, Louis, 17 years old. He died yesterday afternoon. Louis escaped injury as the gunman opened fire suddenly after dashing out of the Fling homestead shack.

No charge was filed against Bell in connection with the death of Charles Fling. The rancher surrendered yesterday afternoon and was taken to the state penitentiary at Santa Fe by Sheriff Ira Allen because feeling was running high in Tucumcari and it was feared mob violence might occur.

REVENUE PLAN DISAPPROVED BY DEMO CHIEF

President-Elect 'Horrified' By Reports He Favors Levy on Goods

CONGRESS HAS PLANS

Both Houses Push Attempt To Balance Budget As Early as Possible

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—The sales tax, recommended by President Hoover and again thrust forward in congress during the past few days, virtually was dismissed today as a possibility at the present session.

This was clearly indicated after President-elect Roosevelt at Albany was represented as being "horrified" by published reports he had endorsed the general manufactures sales tax.

This attitude on the part of the next president, said Speaker Garner, "kills the sales tax this session, anyhow."

Even before this, Senator Harrison of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the senate finance committee, had expressed opinion the sales tax could not pass through his branch. This view generally was held by Democratic leaders.

Push Budget Plans

In both branches, however, the Democrats pushed forward their attempt to balance 1934's budget, so as to avoid if at all possible a special session before next fall.

The ways and means committee of the house will begin Jan. 3, an exhaustive study of federal financing.

This is the tax-raising committee and its chairman, Collier of Mississippi, only yesterday said he knew of no means of balancing the budget except the sales tax.

Favors Reduction

However, the views of President-elect Roosevelt communicated to congress had been directed largely at reduction of expenditures, and intensive work along that line is in progress. A study of fixed expenditures, which do not vary from year to year, and amount in all to more than a billion, was undertaken by a subcommittee of the appropriations committee at the request of Chairman Byrns. They are to see if any reduction is feasible.

As Democratic congressional leaders understand it, the president-elect would like the present session to adopt a resolution for repeal of the 18th amendment, pass a beer bill, cut expenditures to the bone and enact a Democratic farm relief measure.

If all this could be done, Senator Harrison said today, "we could get along without an extra session until late summer."

Gasoline Tax

He saw no escape from an extra session if President Hoover should veto the beer and farm relief bills.

The senator also favored continuing the existing one-cent gasoline tax, which he estimated meant a yearly revenue of $130,000,000.

On the question of regular annual appropriations, the house appropriations committee has been more critical than usual. It has submitted to the house three bills—the treasury-postoffice, interior and agriculture departments. These carry $425,734,000 less than for the current year and $33,637,000 less than the budget asked.

Two Passed by House

Two of these bills, those for the treasury-postoffice and interior departments, already have passed the house, the latter today. The third, carrying $110,000,000 for agriculture, was then taken up.

Both in house and senate the Democrats indicated they wished to make way for plans for the new president to reorganize the government establishment. He is understood to contemplate asking congress for blanket reorganization au-

Wife Wins First Of Suits Resulting From Child's Resemblance To Doctor

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (UP)—Mrs. Lena Matarease won the first round today in a series of law suits which began over the question of whether her 3-year-old son resembles his father or the family physician.

Mrs. Matarease is 25. Her husband, Felix, is 35, and a barber. The doctor in the case is Attilio Monaco, 60.

The trouble started after Carl Matarease was born three years ago. Felix, the barber, and several of his relatives couldn't understand why although the Matarease's first son, Felix Jr., now 6, resembled both his parents, Carl resembled neither.

In time Felix's relatives agreed that while Carl did not resemble either his mother or father he did look like Dr. Monaco, who was not only the family physician but one of Felix the barber's best customers.

The relatives discussed the matter at length, convinced Felix, and he started suit for divorce, charging infidelity. He also filed suit against Dr. Monaco for $50,000, charging alienation of his wife's affections.

Monaco then checked up on his account books, found that Felix never had paid the medical bills resulting from Carl's birth and sued Felix.

Felix also checked over his accounts and filed another suit against Monaco, this one for money due on shaves and shampoos.

Mrs. Matarease, meanwhile, had filed a cross-bill to Felix's divorce.

Judge Joseph Sabath heard the story today, awarded Mrs. Matarease the divorce, custody of the children and $30 a month alimony.

The other suits are pending.

Rock Slides Tossing Entire Mountain Into Valley And Threaten Railroad

DURANGO, Colo., Dec. 27. (UP)—Tremendous rock slides which are tossing an entire mountain in the Animas valley south of here, continued tonight.

The thunderous rumble of the slides was heard for miles as thousands of tons of rock, dirt and trees plunged to the level floor of the valley, threatening to block the tracks of the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad and the river which flows beside them.

The slides began more than a week ago and since that time have increased until now about 100 tons of debris is hurtling into the valley daily. The rocky glacier is within 1,000 feet of the tracks.

Persons near the mountain when the movement began reported they heard a deep subterranean explosion. Then a huge crack opened near the top of the peak which is a part of the La Plata range.

Along one side of the new face of the peak, a fissure has opened and a huge section of solid rock is balanced precariously, ready to tumble into the valley momentarily. The rocky section was estimated as weighing thousands of tons.

Thus far the slides have caused no damage. The country in which the peak is located is sparsely settled.

Prospectors and mining men, however, fear the slide may presage similar activity among other peaks in the La Plata range where many rich coal and gold mines are located.

F. R. DISFAVORS TAX ON SALES

Revenue Plan Killed By President-Elect

thority and Senator Harrison said "we are going to give it."

Prospects for enactment of the sales tax seemed enhanced earlier today, especially when Speaker Garner said he would approve it, if it developed to be the only means of balancing the budget. He still stuck by that statement after saying that Mr. Roosevelt's attitude "killed" it.

Another who spoke in support of it was Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee, who also expressed opinion it was the only way to get the budget balanced.

ROOSEVELT DENIES GIVING "INSTRUCTIONS"

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 27. (AP)—President-elect Roosevelt's advisers said today he was "horrified" at the suggestion he had endorsed the proposal that a general manufacturers sales tax be put through at the present short session of congress as a means of balancing the nation's budget.

The suggestion was contained in news reports from Washington, not carried by The Associated Press, that the president-elect had issued direct instructions to Speaker John N. Garner, the vice president-elect, to revive the sales tax plan.

Mr. Roosevelt himself was silent on the Washington reports and declined to indicate whether he would use his influence with the Democratic majority in the house in any way with relation to the sales tax proposal during the present session.

In explaining the New York governor was "horrified" at the report he had given his endorsement to the general manufacturers sales tax proposal, Mr. Roosevelt's advisers drew a sharp distinction between the general manufacturers sales tax plan and sales taxes on particular commodities such as the federal gasoline tax now in effect and the tobacco tax.

They indicated, however, Governor Roosevelt is opposed to the general principle of sales taxes.

Mr. Roosevelt did not discuss the sales tax question in any of his presidential campaign speeches, and until today his attitude toward the proposed general manufacturers sales tax had not been known.

Governor Roosevelt said he had not been in communication with Speaker Garner, his running mate in the presidential campaign, "since one day last week," when he asked the Texan to visit him at his home in Hyde Park soon after Mr. Roosevelt's term as governor ends next Saturday.

"I asked him to visit me as soon as he could make the trip," Mr. Roosevelt said.

Mr. Roosevelt's attitude toward the sales tax report from Washington was made known while Senator Robert Bulkley, Ohio Democrat, was in conference with him. Senator Bulkley is a member of the senate committees on commerce, manufacturers and banking and currency.

Insull Freed By Greek Court

cellent legal talent. Arthur Page, a London lawyer, was present at the proceedings, and the defendant's Greek counsel were headed by Cristos Ladas, one of the most eminent attorneys in Athens.

Hearing Is Public

Mr. Insull was debonair and talkative when he walked into the hearing room. He complied with the formality of establishing his identity, asserted he had no profession, and agreed the proceedings be public.

The case for extradition was presented by Public Attorney Riganakos. Shortly after the public attorney began to speak M. Ladas interrupted him, protesting against the taking of moving pictures, and the court acceeded to his demand that the photographers be forbidden to proceed.

M. Riganakos explained to the court Samuel Insull was chairman and his brother Martin (against whom extradition proceedings are pending in Canada) was president of the Mississippi Valley and the Middle West Utilities company.

Martin Insull owed debts to brokers and was being pressed for payment, the attorney continued, and the brothers agreed to make the payment with money belonging to the companies. The attorney charged this payment was carried out by checks in a manner designed to cover embezzlement. He read a deposition by the treasurer of the companies in which it was asserted Samuel Insull approved vouchers for payments of $66,000 and $104,000.

The attorney cited another deposition by John A. Swanson, Cook county state's attorney, declaring the acts of the Insulls punishable. M. Riganakos followed up with a declaration these acts constituted embezzlement under Greek law.

The defense countered with a statement the transaction was entirely orderly in the light of the companies' bylaws. The treasurer, the defense attorney asserted, was responsible for the property of the companies, and he should be indicted first if any offense existed.

He traced M. Insull's life from the time he served as secretary to Thomas Edison, the inventor, and praised his ability and character. The payment to the brokers, he declared, was made to avoid a "catastrophic" sale of the companies.

Bandits Fail In Attempt On Safe Of Oklaunion Bank After Kidnaping Pair

Special to The Record News.

OKLAUNION, Texas, Dec. 27.—Wilbarger county authorities today sought three bandits who early this morning attempted to loot the First State bank here after kidnaping and holding captive a filling station operator and his 12-year-old son while the robbery was in progress.

Although gaining entrance to the bank's vault, the burglars were unsuccessful in attempts to enter the safe and obtained only a few dollars in pennies that had been left on a shelf. However, they damaged the vault and safe extensively.

The three drove up to O. D. Coe's filling station at an hour believed to be between 2 and 4 o'clock this morning. Coe and his son were forced into the bandits' automobile and were driven to the railway station where the man and boy were bound to the iron seats. One of the trio stood guard over them while his two companions attempted the robbery.

After the departure of the three bandits, Coe and his son released themselves with the aid of a knife in the boy's pocket and which their captors had overlooked in searching them.

Entrance to the bank was gained through a side door. With the aid of an acetylene torch the vault door was removed, after which the knob of the safe was knocked. However, the door of the safe would not open.

This is the second time in recent months that the bank has been raided. About three months ago burglars dug into the vault and obtained about $300 in pennies.

ROAD SHOW TO OPEN SATURDAY

'Sorority Dream Girls' Booked at Theater Here

The first road show of the season comes to Wichita Falls Saturday for four days with the presentation of "The Sorority Dream Girls" at the Majestic theater. Nationally known stage and radio stars appear in the musical extravaganza.

The popular trend of the day is to a combination of motion pictures and musical revues, the revues to be of a caliber not to offend ladies and children, yet to be thoroughly popular and entertaining. Such a production is "The Sorority Dream Girls" combining the musical qualities of an all-girl band, with the talents of dancers and singers. Youth had its inning in the selection of the artists assembled. Stars from radio and stage are offered in a myriad of flashing scenes and sequences, with exponents of the dance vieing with singers of torch songs.

The attraction to be presented here Saturday will be under the personal direction of F. W. Day, former manager of the Strand theater here. Mr. Day will be in the city with the company on its arrival.

Among the dancing stars of the show are Normi Norman, former specialty dancer with Earl Carroll's "Vanities" and Horace Claywell, originator of tap dancing on the air. Two highly regarded singers are Francis Van Cleve, contralto, and Dale Drake, tenor soloist.

The Personality Girls band is composed of several widely known musicians including Corinne Osburn, Nedra Pearl Clay, Louie Mason, Dolores Redding, Joyce Humbert, Allyene Hooker and Dorothy Hudel. Among the other stars of the performance are Fredie Heller, toe dancer, and Marion Cade, specialty dancer.

Four performances will be given Saturday with an additional "Peek-aboo prevue" for New Year's eve at 11:30 o'clock.

Junior Forum Members Give Lovely Christmas Program

Mrs. Temple Shell was general chairman of one of the unique programs given by Junior forum girls at the Woman's forum clubhouse Tuesday and proved her genius for arrangements by giving the group of girls taking part freedom to use their own ability for repartee in their own line of patter and show the course of the entertainment.

The group of girls in charge of the tables featured a beautiful and dignified Christmas motif with evergreens and candle lighting. A handsome seven-branch antique brass candelabra centered the speaker's table with three branch holders at the end, all holding tall red tapers that cast a pretty light.

In the business meeting preceding the program, Miss Mary Virginia Barron presided and various reports were made. Outstanding among these was the welfare report made by Miss Marietta Hunt, which told of the work in which Miss Lucile Wilson was in charge at the day nursery and the splendid story telling programs she had put on with the aid of other members of the Junior forum. The report included that of Mrs. Josach Easley who was representative to all the literary clubs of the city sponsoring an entire or a part of a Junior college scholarship. Mrs. Easley reported that the matter would be considered seriously in another year.

Lucille Bishop's work helping Miss Erma Schnelle at the Y. W. C. A. received a beautiful recognition and Miss Hunt requested the donation of kimonas, slippers, magazines and funny papers for children for use in the hospital work she is carrying on. There were 20 prettily wrapped gifts reported carried to the hospitals this Christmas.

Program

Mrs. Temple Shell made a preliminary announcement of a bridge party being given by Miss Elizabeth Langford during the program and of a national broadcast which Junior forum girls would put on later for an international broadcast about Christmas.

The curtains were drawn to show a pretty living room scene where two tables were filled at bridge and Miss Langford was enacting her part as a hostess desiring to give her guests a good time. But in the midst of the game, some one suggested that it was time to practice for the international broadcast and cards were laid aside for the feature.

Mrs. Kay Cason was announcer over N. B. C. and presented first Peggy Durkin who told of customs in Spain in the Christmas season. Miss Cheville Whitehill spoke of Christmas in France and Miss Elizabeth Langford told a charming story of Holland celebrations. Miss Jane Moore was presented to tell of the season in Germany and Miss Eloise Hawkins in Russia. Then the announcer, Miss Cason, took up the story and told of why and how Christmas came to be celebrated as it is in America. Clever repartee that was not a part of the program, attested Mrs. Shell's knowledge of what girls will do.

A flute solo, "O, Little Town of Bethlehem," by Elizabeth Turner, accompanied by Miss Katherine Steiner, and a violin number, "Holy Night," when Miss Roberta Lincoln was also accompanied by Miss Steiner, were beautiful interludes.

Delightful Luncheon

A delicious Christmas luncheon was served to members and guests from out of the city, including Misses Virginia Douglas, Maxine Fisher and Ruth Marie Fisher, Electra; Miss Sallie Bancroft, Sadie Shain, Bertha Mae Kruger, Lennie Mangum, Mary Sue Allen, May Belle Bartlett, Lucile Fraley, Mary Klein O'Reilly, Gwen Voelcker, Joan Hoffman, Joan Fox, Irma Cline, Beatrice Hathorn, Margaret Staniforth, Bonnie Jean Lincoln, Artie Neva King, Patsy McGregor, Constance Clark, Elizabeth Perkins, Myra Jane McMahon, Ruth Grisham, Joyce Craft, Judy Norwood, Charlotte Maer, Peggy Jo Tittle, Anna Katherine Howard, Gladys Stevenson, Jane Clayton, Katherine Biedenharn, Katherine Smith, Alice Marrs, Elizabeth Turner, Jane Moore, Peggy Durkin, Eloise Hawkins, Kay Cason, Elizabeth Langford, Cheville Whitehill, Katherine Steiner, Roberta Lincoln, Dorothy Lee Taylor, Hazel Bryan of Dallas, Mary Hyatt, Lois Corbin, Margaret Bone, Jonnie Green Hawkins, Leonora Walker, Mary C. Carrigan P.-T. A. Finishes Paving

Pupils and patrons of the Carrigan school are rejoicing that at last the school may be reached without the danger of being stuck in the mud, or having to drive far out of the way in order to have good streets to the school.

Several months ago the P.-T. A. of the Carrigan school undertook to sponsor the graveling of Blond and the unpaved section between Blond and Ardath. Success crowned the effort, and now in a few days the last load of gravel will be put on the streets and the big job of street improving around the school premises will be completed.

The P.-T. A. expressed gratitude for the corporation which property owners on Blond and Bridwell have given them in this undertaking, and also the business firms of the city which contributed to the fund.

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute relief for colds and coughs due to colds. Authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

PENETRO

COLD EPIDEMIC

PENETRO is the Deepest Penetrating, Most Effective Cold Salve ever developed. Discovered by Grandma and Perfected by Modern Medical Science, PENETRO Penetrates 4 Times Deeper to drive out Head, Chest Colds Quicker than any thing you ever used before.

Stuffy, miserable head colds and stubborn, deep-seated systemic colds are knocked out quicker—much quicker—with Penetro, the mutton suet salve. Grandma, you know, used mutton suet for years in the successful treatment of colds. And now modern science has taken her old time remedy—mutton suet—and added to it the newest and most effective cold medication known to give you Penetro, the deepest, quickest penetrating cold salve ever developed.

Penetrates 4 Times Deeper To Drive Out Colds Quicker

Penetro is unlike ordinary cold salves. Such salves with their bases of mineral oil or petroleum stay merely on the skin's surface. But Penetro with its base of highly-refined mutton suet goes right in—deep within—and carries its powerful medication direct to the seat of cold infection. It takes deep penetration to get a cold out. And that's exactly what Penetro does. It penetrates four times deeper to drive out head and chest colds quicker.

Mothers Prefer Penetro to Break Up Congestion in Children

Mothers everywhere in treating their children's colds prefer Penetro because of its deep, direct penetrating action. Penetro goes right in to break up congestion in croupy children, soothe inflammation and bring blessed relief and comfort. Mothers also like Penetro because it's so nice and clean to use. Stainless and snow-white, Penetro does not stain bed clothes and sleeping garments.

Penetro Does These Things To Drive Out Colds Quicker

Applied to the nose and throat, Penetro soothes inflamed membranes, relaxes bronchial muscles, and opens up cold-clogged nasal passages to permit free, easy breathing. Applied to the chest, Penetro warms the skin, stimulates circulation, breaks up congestion, draws out aches and pains and drives out deep-seated, systemic colds before ordinary salves and methods get started.

Stainless and Snow-white—Ask for it by Name—Penetro

Epidemic is too serious . . . too dangerous for you to rely on half-way measures in treating the colds of you and your family. Don't dose yourself with a lot of medicine, or use ordinary cold salves that simply can't penetrate. Take no chances. Attack that cold at the seat of infection with penetrating Penetro, the mutton suet salve. It's stainless and snow-white. Ask for it by name: Penetro, 25c a jar. The 50c economy size contains three times as much as the 25c size. The $1.00 family size contains seven times as much as the 25c size.

Check Your Cold Before It Has a Chance to Really Get Started

The chances are you can avoid colds altogether by applying Penetro Nose and Throat Drops night and morning. You are certain to check that cold by using this clinically tested preparation at the first sneeze or sniffle. Penetro Nose and Throat Drops (contains ephedrine) stops the spread of germs, opens up stuffy nasal passages, and brings instant relief to sinus sufferers. Penetro Nose and Throat Drops are approved by leading nose and throat specialists. Today, ask your druggist for the generous size bottle, 25c.

Your druggist also has large size bottle 50c.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—Transition of the senate from Republican to Democratic control after March 4 next involves no such problem of chairmanship distribution for the Democrats as is the case in the house.

WILLIAM H. KING

There are so many western Democratic old-timers on the senate roll now that the traditional "solid south" bogey that bothers the house, due to the seniority piled up by southern members, does not arise. Western or northern Democrats together rate chairmanships of about half the standing committees of the senate.

Take the case of Senator William H. King of Utah, who is to become senior senator from that state after having served so long as junior senator that he will be No. 14 in seniority, counting both Republicans and Democrats, in the new senate.

His Republican colleague, Senator Smoot, was such a fixture up to last election that King hardly expected ever to achieve the distinction of the senior senatorship.

Many Choices Open

In his junior service, however, Senator King has built up a standing on various committees expected to give him a choice of chairmanships in the next congress.

He is ranking Democrat on the District of Columbia privileges and elections and immigration committees, ranks next to Pat Harrison of Mississippi on the all-important finance committee, third on the judiciary committee and is a junior only on the committee on territories.

Ashurst of Arizona, Pittman of Nevada, Walsh of Montana and Kendrick of Wyoming all rank King in seniority. Ashurst ranks the chairmanship of the Indian affairs, judiciary and public buildings committees, aside from his place on the public lands committee so much sought after by westerners.

Pittman is ranking Democrat on that committee and also on the territories committee while he stands next to Swanson of Virginia on the foreign relations committee.

If Swanson should elect to take the naval committee charmanship he also rates, Pittman might take the post now held by Borah of Idaho.

Or Pittman might choose the chairmanship of the interstate commerce committee instead if Smith of South Carolina, as expected, takes over the agriculture committee from McNary of Oregon.

A Shift of Power

In any event, with these illustrations of non-southern senatorial seniorities among the Democrats, it is clear that veteran Democrats from West and North are going to exercise tremendous lots of influence in the new senate.

Nearly half the standing committees will presumably be headed by non-southerners on a strict seniority preference rule while in the house, to avoid southern domination, a further relaxation of that rule may be noted.

In Civilization's Backwaters

ONE of the strangest little sidelights on modern times that has ever been disclosed is one that came to the surface in Chicago not long ago.

Not far from Chicago there is a little farm, occupied by a man who came over from Russia 30 years ago, bringing with him his family and a whole set of superstitions that stem in an unbroken line directly from the dark ages.

Members of the family had never seen a movie, heard a radio, ridden in an auto or a street car or seen a skyscraper. They were isolated from the modern world as effectively as if they lived in an unapproachable village in the middle of Siberia. Modern life had deposited them almost within shouting distance of Chicago, but in all essentials it had completely passed them by.

Existence of this odd family became known when a daughter, 23, went to a neighbor, protesting that she had brought a curse on her family. A pigeon had circled over her head, it seemed; a portentously evil omen. Then a cow had died, a horse had taken sick, and finally her father had lost his lease on the farm. And when the father went to the police to get his girl back the whole story came out.

Tthat there are backwaters like this in the very center of civilization is a fact well known to sociologists—and, it might be added, to policemen, welfare workers and newspaper reporters. The flood tide of human enlightenment has risen unevenly; here and there it has left peculiar islands, lost in dense swamps of ignorance, and every so often some little thing happens to bring these places to our attention—this event in Chicago, for instance, a "hex" murder in Pennsylvania, or something similar.

And such events give us a deeply uneasy feeling. We feel as if we must paraphrase Lincoln's famous remark; the nation cannot endure half civilized and half ignorant. More than ever before, now, the world is a place in which intelligence and enlightenment are required of even the humblest citizen.

It is an extremely complex and sophisticated place; and it is like feeling an eerie wind out of a dark cavern to read this little tale of a circling pigeon, a blindly frightened family and an ignorance that comes down unchanged from medieval Europe.

Technocracy on the Farm

BORROWING an idea or two from the technocrats, the farmer may soon turn to mechanized production on an increased scale in an effort to reduce labor costs and compete under new economic conditions.

New developments in this line that have just been announced by manufacturers include:

A sugar beet topper that plows the beets out of the ground, grabs the entire beet plant and carries it to the chopping knives. It is claimed for this device that it will cut labor costs 75 per cent and obviate the necessity for transient labor.

A new type of tractor that weighs little more than a big draft horse, but has the sustained pulling power of four draft horses. It costs no more than the average small motor car, does belt work and supplies power for binders or other machines hitched to it.

A machine which brushes, grades and polishes 1,000 bushels of potatoes a day, being somewhat similar to a recently invented machine which brushes the fuzz from peaches.

A "combine milker" with which the milk is never exposed to the air from the time it leaves the cow until it enters the bottle.

A new balloon-type of tractor tire which is said to increase the rate of plowing by 27 per cent and to make a saving of 23 per cent in fuel costs.

All-steel barns which are shipped in parts from the factory and erected on the farm in units designed for 24 or 32 cows or any other standard sized herd or flock.

Thus, the mechanical experts have it all figured out how a farmer can cut his labor costs and increase his production at the same time.

So far, however, none of these engineering wizards has invented a machine which will enable the farmer to find a market for the tremendous surplus crops already on hand or a machine that will lift a mortgage.

Until somebody invents machines of that nature, it seems that the others might just as well wait.

Death—or Mercy?

WHEN her baby, expected to be born late in January, is two months old, Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes of Columbia, S. C., will go to her death in the electric chair in that state's penitentiary.

That is the situation as it stands now and which will be carried out unless Governor Blackwood of South Carolina chooses to intervene. Mothers from all parts of the United States have written him, petitioning clemency for this 36-year-old woman who stands convicted of murder and awaiting the penalty.

Frankly, there seem to have been no extenuating circumstances. Mrs. Snipes shot and killed a policeman when that officer attempted to arrest her husband on a bootlegging charge. No reasonable complaint can be found with the courts, which took their natural course in accordance with the laws.

The real question before Governor Blackwood now is: Will society be improved or bettered by the execution of this woman and the resultant placing of a life-time stain on her child, now unborn?

It is difficult to see what society would gain thereby. A commutation of the death sentence might be the wiser course.

Poor Relief—In Church

THE REV. AUGUST E. JOHANSEN, rector of the Bedford (Mich.) Congregational church, has a good idea.

No longer will the plate be passed around for collections each Sunday morning. Mr. Johansen figures that it is wrong to embarrass worthy parishioners who, in these days of financial stringency, are unable to contribute. Therefore, contributions to the church will be made privately hereafter.

Comment being needless, we pass this on to our pastor readers. It may offer the hint to more affluent churchgoers that their contributions are more urgently needed now than ever before.

SO THEY SAY!

I do not care if somebody leaves the ship of national socialism. I'll remain aboard even if the ship founders.—Adolf Hitler, German Nazi leader.

Unless something is done before another winter goes over our heads, there will be a complete change of government in America.—The Rev. James R. Cox, Pittsburgh priest, leader of one of the unemployed marches on Washington.

Q.—What is a wash-bear?—R. L.

A.—It is a raccoon.

Q.—Is Whistler's mother now in America?—W. L.

A.—The portrait has been loaned by the Louvre to the Museum of Modern Art, New York.

Q.—How many Christmas trees are cut for the market in Canada?—S. B.

A.—About 4,000,000. New York City alone takes about 700,000 or 800,000.

Q.—Did Vice President Curtis spend his boyhood among the Indians?—D. H.

A.—Charles Curtis, left a motherless child by the death of his mother when he was but 3 years old, went to live among the Kaws with his grandmother, the Princess Julie.

Q.—Has France a law regarding birth control information?—J. W. V.

A.—Until 8 or 10 years ago, France had no law against giving birth-control information. At the present time, however, laws have been enacted to prevent the giving of such information.

Q.—Who are the smallest football players on the Notre Dame team for 1932?—M. F. P.

A.—According to the varsity football roster of the University of Notre Dame 1932 squad, the smallest players are Robert Daniel Knappman, and Laurie Vejar, both of whom are 5 feet, 6 inches tall.

Q.—Which state has the oldest general sales tax?—A. A. K.

A.—The oldest general sales tax in this country is the West Virginia tax imposed in 1921 as a tax on the gross sales and gross income of business and professions. In 1925 it was changed to a so-called business-occupation tax. An exemption of $10,000 is allowed.

Q.—How old a man is this Professor Moley who is adviser to President-elect Roosevelt and how did Roosevelt acquire him?—G. M. H.

A.—Professor Moley is 46 and it might be said that Mr. Roosevelt inherited him from his predecessor as governor of New York, for the professor was an unofficial adviser of Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Q.—When was the first air mail route established in the United States?—H. L. T.

A.—The first air mail route was established on May 15th and 16th, 1918, when Lieut. George Boyle and James C. Edgerton made the first air mail trip from New York City to Washington, D. C. However, the first aerial mail delivery in the United States took place September, 1911. The pilot was E. L. Ovington.

Q.—How soon after congress adjourns, on March 4, are the president and vice president inaugurated?—F. C.

A.—Immediately. This year it will be necessary for John Nance Garner, who is speaker of the house of representatives, to proceed from the house wing of the capitol to the senate wing, where he will be sworn in as vice president. After this ceremony, the company goes to the east portico of the capitol, where the president will be inaugurated, unless the usual procedure is changed.

Q.—Does light have weight?—C. P. G.

A.—Astronomical observations appear to show that a beam of light (from a distant star) is deflected when passing near a second celestial body (planet)—as if the beam were of the nature of a stream of matter. These observations carroborate theoretical predictions that a light ray shows weight in a gravitational field. That light produces a definitely measurable pressure on a mirror reflecting it, shows that it has beyond doubt the property of inertia.

Q.—Who executed "Puck" on the west side of the Folger library in Washington, D. C.?—H. S. L.

A.—This is the work of Brenda Putnam, the New York sculptor. She is also represented in Washington by her bas-relief of Mrs. Coolidge who established the Coolidge Music foundation of the library of congress, and by the beautiful winged figure which constitutes the Anne Simon memorial in Rock Creek cemetery. Miss Uutnam is noted for her garden figures of children and for her portraits. Her latest work is a portrait bust of Amelia Earhart.

Are You Sensible About Your Diet?

No sensible person throws coal on the fire when the house is too hot, or crowds 20 people into a seven-passenger car, or turns on more water when the bathtub is full, or wears No. 11 shoes when No. 7's fit the feet. Yet by reason of ignorance or gluttony, people, otherwise sensible, do things quite as absurd as these in the matter of food. Dietitians agree that most people eat too much, and this is true of many who are underweight as well as those who become grossly fat.

No more important question enters into the daily life of the individual than that of diet. Therefore it behooves every one to have accurate information on every phase of the subject, and this will be found in the booklet, Weight Control. A copy will be sent to any address upon receipt of 10 cents in coin to cover cost and postage.

PARIS LOVE

by NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

SYNOPSIS

Since her husband died ten years ago, Kate Sayers had made $40,000,000 by continuing the manufacture in France of the now famous American motor car Europa. In constant attendance on her was Alfredo Santini, whom she knew only as a gigolo and a driver of racing cars, although he was the chief of a gang of jewel thieves. Mrs. Sayers' daughter, Alacia, had recently fallen in love at first sight with Armand de Pas, Prince d'Orsant, who was learning the business at Piron's. Santini induced Mrs. Sayers to have her fabulous rubies reset at Piron's and one of his gang substituted imitations the day Santini left Paris in the Europa racer he was to drive in the Grand Prize at Monte Carlo. Armand was arrested because he had handled the rubies but M. Piron gave bond. Alacia suspected Santini. A jealous girl told Alacia that Santini was going to throw the Monte Carlo race. Armand agreed to drive Alacia's exact duplicate of Santini's racer in the Grand Prix, and they left together in this car in pursuit. At Monte Carlo Santini disappeared mysteriously. Armand, sitting in his car waiting in semi-darkness for a painter to come and paint the racing number on it, was mistaken for Santini by a stranger. This man warned him not to remove the rubies from the upholstery of his seat, and not to attempt to escape to Italy, but to return to Paris. A confederate, he said, would take the car to Genoa and sell the jewels. Armand decided to ram Santini's car in the race. He wrote a note to the police asking that Santini's car be searched after the race, if he, Armand, was injured.

INSTALLMENT XXXI

In a few moments the chasseur appeared, and with the letter Armand gave the youth a bank note of a figure sufficent to make the youth's eyes start from his head.

"Will you attend the races tomorrow?" de Pas asked.

"Yes, M'Sieur," came the answer. "Being on night duty, I am happily free in the morning!"

"I am driving in the race," Armand explained, "and I want you to do something to help me. Wait near the finish, and look for me afterwards without any delay. If you find me you are to give me this letter. If anything has happened and I am not there you are to run up the hill to the gendarmerie and see that the letter is given to the officer in charge. Quick action is very important, you understand. And keep your mouth shut!"

The boy departed full of the importance of his trust, and Armand went to bed and slept calmly as only a young man who has settled an inescapably important decision can sleep. That it might very possibly be his last sleep on earth no longer seemed to enter into his calculations, and perhaps to a boy who had served in the trenches of the world war at 17 the prospect of a mere automobile accident did not hold unbounded terrors.

The next day, one hour before the race, Monte Carlo seethed with an excited mass of humanity. The streets were packed, the roads were closed, the course was cleared. Alacia, setting out from her hotel on foot, was headed for her place in the judges tribunal on the condamine. The sidewalks along the route were so densely crowded that she could make no headway at all and was finally forced to make a detour in order to gain the side street at the foot of the gardens of the new sporting club. From there a less crowded route to the condamine was possible and she was glad she had given herself plenty of time to allow of her taking it. Even at the back of the Hotel de Paris the streets were thronged, for an official betting booth had been set up on the corner and found plenty of patrons. Glancing at the boards she saw that Santini was still favorite, and smiled a little grimly as she wondered how his backers would feel if he failed to appear. And then in another instant she caught sight of the man himself.

Santini was already dressed in his driving clothes, his goggles pushed up over his close-fitting helmet, and a long block away she recognized him instantly. There was something peculiar in his walk which identified him at once, a certain swagger and a spring in his step which came, perhaps, from his training as a dancer. The slim young figure was accompanied by a heavier man whom Alacia surmised to be Charles, the mechanic. They were walking rapidly along the Boulevard des Moulins and although they were taking a direction exactly opposite to hers, Alacia turned on her heel and followed. It was, she found, no easy matter keeping them in sight, for by the time she reached the boulevard they had turned up the steep road towards Beausoleil, taking the same route which she and Armand had followed on the night of their arrival when Santini's car had so mysteriously disappeared, and as this significant fact dawned upon Alacia her heart beat so that it nearly stifled her. The car! Of course they were going for the car, and she was alone and helpless!

The two men followed a twisting route through a series of side streets now, some little more than alleyways, and they were moving fast. It was only by the utmost effort that she managed to follow quickly enough to keep them in sight. Higher and higher they climbed, through the frequent narrow short cuts of this district where hidden stairways connect one street level with that above it and dark passages pass under forbidding-looking tenements. As the neighborhood grew more sordid in appearance, Alacia looked about her with a wild idea of demanding police assistance, but there was not a gendarme in sight. Apparently the entire police force had been concentrated at the racetrack to handle the crowds which were still pouring into town. Santini and his companion were talking earnestly, even angrily, she thought, and it did not appear they would welcome an interruption. Moreover, with every step she was getting further away from safety. Anything could happen to her in that sinister quarter and the authorities would be a long while finding it out. Yet she could not bring herself to turn back. She must know what they were up to at this late hour, when Santini's name was on every lip, and thousands upon thousands of people were crowding against the barriers to him pass.

At the top of a little lane, identified by a plaque as the Passable Veltri, the two men emerged upon a small square. A street of ordinary width led from this into the La Turbie road up which she and Armand had driven in their pursuit of the vanishing car, but to the right the open square ended in a sheer drop of 80 feet to the roofs of some car barns below. The gap afforded a view of the ocean to dwellers in a cheap new villas which had been built into the hillside, and Alacia, sheltering herself behind a mangy palm tree which garnished the terrace of a little cafe on the corner, watch the two men cross the empty square toward one of these villas. The neighborhood was strangely quiet, every one who could walk having gone to the race, either to watch or to hawk their wares, for even the few miserable shops in sight were closed and Santini and his companion were the only living things in sight except a starved cat which darted out of the way at their approach.

The house for which they headed was composed of a garage of the usual type and a narrow entrance door for the living quarters above. It was a thoroughly commonplace dwelling, modern and comparatively clean, completely expressionless. The windows above the garage were closed and its inhabitants were evidently no exception to the general exodus. But it was not to the garage door that Santini went. Using a key, he opened that at the side, and motioning his companion in ahead of him, took a look around. Then, apparently satisfied that no one was watching him he, too, entered and shut the door behind him. A moment later a single, strangling cry rang out on the quiet air, followed by a silence that was still more terrible.

Alacia leaned back against the wall for support, sick with the sound of it. What had happened in the darkness of the little hallway as soon as that door was shut? And which of the two men had called for help so hideously? With an effort, Alacia pulled herself together and looked anxiously up and down the street, but no one else seemed to have heard. All thought of following and knocking on that commonplace door which had suddenly taken on a terrifying aspect, was wiped out of her mind. Yet something must be done. She could not simply turn away and leave the mystery unsolved. Behind the blank face of that villa lay the evidence which would once and for all clear her lover's name of any possible stain. Alacia wrung her hands in her helplessness and then, characteristically, suddenly refused to remain helpless. Santini wouldn't murder her, she thought, shivering a bit. At most he would be beastly unpleasant, but surely nothing worse. She was far too important a person, she reflected with truth, to risk disposing of in too summary a manner. He would not dare to harm her! However, suppose it were the other man, the mechanic Charles, who was mysteriously occupied in that silent building?

While all this was going rapidly through her mind, Alacia was examining the surrounding with a new keenness of observation. Behind the villa which was the object of her interest was another row of buildings on a higher level, their foundations vanishing behind the upper stories of those on the level on which she stood, and their entrances a good three stories higher. There was one exception to this, a low, windowless building of weather-worn yellow stucco through which the rough stone of the walls showed in places where the outer facing had chipped away; a squat, ugly building, the lines of whose roof were somehow familiar. It stood directly back of and above the house which Santini had entered, and with a catch of her breath, Alacia recognized it as the abandoned stable at the end of the impasse Paques Fleurie, whose ancient wooden doors Armand had tried in his vain search for Santini's car on the memorable occasion of its having vanished down a cul de sac. And now Santini had coolly let himself into the house just below it with an air of complete familiarity. There must be, she thought, some connection between the two buildings, and at the risk of missing any one who might emerge from the villa, she determined to investigate.

CITY DWELLERS ADOPT BARTER

Greenwich Villagers Trade With Work and Wares

By ROBERT ST. JOHN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Greenwich villagers by the hundreds have taken to bartering as a solution of their personal economic problems—and they like it.

A carpenter who couldn't get a job, a florist who found people reluctant to spend money on bouquets and a butcher who wanted to revive his waning business are among those who told eagerly today about the "system" as they call it.

While several attempts are being made in various parts of New York to launch concerted barter plans, the Greenwich villagers, without organization or scrip money, are swapping flowers for fish, art for apples and groceries for gasoline.

"It works like this," said Amos Ramsay, butcher. "I get a shipment of meat. It costs me—say $75. I should sell it for $100. Instead, I sell three-quarters for cash, then I take the rest and I give some to my landlady and say, 'apply this on the rent,' then some to the lady across the street to help pay for a painting she did of my daughter, and when the garage man comes in I say, 'take some meat and give me 10 gallons of gas'."

Emil Grossbeck, a carpenter, explained how he had been unable for months to find a job.

"Then I went to the butcher and said I would build a new counter for him and he could give me meat in return. I built a staircase for the landlord and that paid the month's rent. The grocer gave me a lot of canned goods in return for a new showcase he couldn't afford to have built. I haven't seen money in weeks, but I'm getting along fine."

Dorothea Wells, florist, found she had many accounts on her books with little hope of collecting them, so she "took them all out in trade," and she found that the merchant who gave her fish for flowers, the druggist who paid his bill with lunches at his soda fountain, and her other debtors "even were willing to buy more flowers on that basis."

Barter, said Mrs. Wells, has become the chief subject of conversation in Greenwich Village studios these days.

Bloodhound Saved After Being Tied By Fleeing Man

GULFPORT, Miss., Dec. 27. (AP)—In an almost famished and starved condition, a bloodhound kidnaped last Thursday night when turned loose on the trail of a fleeing burglar, was found today tied to a tree in the woods near the Back bay of Biloxi, some two miles from the point where it was placed on the trail.

Charles Hoffman, robbery and burglary suspect arrested last Thursday by Gulfport police officers, escaped Thursday night while pretending to guide officers to a house where two of his confederates could be taken into custody. Immediately two dogs belonging to J. J. Fairley of Gulfport were obtained and placed on Hoffman's trail near Beauvoir. The dogs were turned loose, but only one of them returned.

Today, a youth, James Written, residing in the rural section north of Beauvoir near Back bay, heard the faint howls of a dog while in the woods in search of pine knots and found the animal leashed to a tree where evidently the fleeing man had tied him.

GRID COACHES HEAR PLEA THAT HALF OF GAME BE JUNKED

RETENTION OF RULES URGED

Cornell Mentor's Address Feature of Day

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—The gridiron rules of 1932 "have put the game in a much better condition than heretofore and should be left substantially as they now exist," Gilmore Dobie of Cornell university told the opening meeting of the American Football Coaches' association today, urging at the same time that the coaches concentrate their efforts upon making the sport "safer and simpler."

Dobie's report, a feature of the day's session, assailed the modern game as too complicated for the average college player and specified: "It is not the quality of the game but the quantity that is undesirable. It consumes too much time and effort on the part of all concerned and is expensive. We can junk one-half of it and still have more left than is sufficient for a college game."

Makes Death Report

The veteran Cornell coach's report followed a technical analysis, showing 32 deaths directly attributable to football this year, and prefaced discussion indicating the association will "stand pat" on the rules changes made to safeguard the game.

The meeting failed to develop any discussion whatever of the mooted "dead ball" rule, previously criticized by some coaches, or reveal majority sentiment for further alteration of the gridiron code. The only two suggestions put forward, neither of which came to a vote or aroused apparent interest, were one by Chuck Collins, North Carolina, that two points be awarded for making the extra point after touchdown by a rush or pass; and another, by J. Wilder Tasker, Rutgers, that the existing rule on pass interference needs adjustment, taking away advantages to the offensive side.

Without indicating their sentiment one way or another, the coaches postponed until tomorrow a formal vote on whether or not to ask direct, voting representation on the national rules committee, in place of their present advisory status, after listening to a report on the subject by Lou Little of Columbia.

Opposition Seen

Little, who sat with the rules committee as an adviser this year, along with Howard Jones of Southern California, Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt and Mal Stevens of Yale, stressed mainly the necessity for a crystallization of the coaches' views on the rules, adding: "So long as we accomplish this, perhaps through a clearing house committee of our own, I do not think it matters whether or not we have a direct vote in the deliberations of the rules committee. This committee will give our views every consideration, providing we are able to put them before it in concrete form, instead of having discussions and suggestions die on the floor of this meeting."

The indications are that the rules committee of the National Collegiate A. A., which also has its annual meeting this week, will oppose giving the football coaches a voting membership on the ground it would set a precedent, for other groups desiring representation, including the officials and high schools.

It seems to be the sentiment of the coaches, incidentally, that William S. Langford of New York, for years secretary of the national football rules committee, be chosen to take the chairmanship, vacated by the death this year of Edward K. Hall of Dartmouth. Langford's place as secretary, in that event, may go to Walter R. Okeson of Lehigh, at present the commissioner of the Eastern Intercollegiate association.

Urges Penalties

After listening to a report by Maj. Ralph I. Sasse of the Army on officiating, in which he urged less hesitation in calling fouls for piling on, clipping and starting before the ball, together with a recommendation for development of younger officials, the association heard a ringing appeal against so-called "cheating," delivered by Dr. Edward J. O'Brien of Boston, veteran referee.

Dr. O'Brien, after trading improvement in officiating under more efficient organization and the elimination of much of the former "favoritism" in selecting officials, nevertheless urged the coaches to stamp out all attempts at teaching players to evade the rules.

"Instead of teaching the boys to try smart plays or cheat the rules, teach them how to obey the rules," Dr. O'Brien urged his listeners. "Your coaches association can be the greatest power today for the game's good. I know there are outside influences. I know there is pressure on the almight desire to win. I hope a lot of this can be wiped out."

The report on football accidents for 1932, made especially for the association and delivered by Floyd R. Eastwood of New York university, showed 1,477 injuries in 147 colleges making reports, in addition to 32 fatalities attributable to football in the United States. Five other deaths originally attributed to football were found to have arisen from other causes, the report said.

After an exhaustive analysis of the injuries and deaths, the report concluded with recommendations for (1) more thorough pre-season training; (2) more warming-up exercise for players before games; (3) better equipment for joints, especially elbow and ankles; (4) stricter enforcement of rules; and (5) more protection for the head in practice.

Ever Hear Of A Horseshoer? Well, It Seems There Is One!

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Service Writer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27.—Years ago, when horse racing was more prevalent in the United States, the name of H. M. (Blackie) Roth was as well known to race followers as the names of big money winners.

In all sections of the country he was known as the best horseshoer in the land. Turfman seldom agree, but when talk shifted to horseshoers, "Blackie" Roth was their unanimous choice.

For 50 years, Roth fitted shoes for flying feet. He knew Sheepshead Bay, Saratoga, Brighton Beach, Gravesend, Emeryville, Arlington Park and Santa Anita when they were in their prime.

He called noted breeders by their nicknames, and, at one time, could tell you the age, color of eyes and other details about many famous horses.

Now, at 70, "Blackie" Roth is operating a small blacksmith shop near Los Angeles. And, despite the depression and the scarcity of horses, he is making a comfortable living. The aged man, who would rather talk about horses than shoe them, claims the young fellow of today is foolish in overlooking the trade of horseshoeing. He says owners of polo ponies are his best customers.

"Blackie" insists it's very easy to plate six horses a day and that each horse brings the horseshoer $10. And, he says, there always will be horses.

"There isn't anything the matter with my business," he says. "We haven't felt any depression. I am sure that some of our bright young men could earn a better living plating horses than they can selling bonds."

Incidentally, "Blackie" will just about eat your head off if you happen to refer to him as a blacksmith. "A blacksmith," he says, "is a fellow who attends to plows, Fords and other things—we horseshoers are interested in horses alone.

"There is as much science in fitting a horse with shoes as there is with a man," he says. "A bootmaker takes into consideration the formation of the human foot; likewise the horseshoer studies the formation of the hoof and forges a plate to fit the hoof. The blacksmith makes the hoof fit the shoe and causes bad feet."

"Blackie" can take you back many years along the race track trail. He remembers most vividly the famous "Emperor" of Norfolk, E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin's great American Derby winner. "He was the greatest horse that California ever turned out," Roth says.

Roth was born in York, Pa., where he followed his father and grandfather into the business.

One of the proud moments of his career was when he plated the Midwick Country club's famous ponies in 1925 when they startled the polo world by winning the open championship.

Carleton Burke, Teddy Miller, Eric Pedley and Arthur Perkins were members of the team. It was the first and only polo team from west of the Rockies ever to win the open title.

Roth claims that one of the greatest little horses that ever lived was Stephen (Laddie) Sanford's "Beatrice." She died last year during a polo game at the Midwick club here.

"Beatrice" was the only animal in the world ever decorated by the British government for bravery under fire. "It was a pleasure to plate that mare," said "Blackie," with what seemed like a sigh.

When the old Santa Anita race track is reopened here in February, "Blackie" Roth, despite his age, plans to become official horseshoer for the $1,000,000 plant.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAD IN TIE

Methodists and Christians Share Top Rung

Floral Heights Methodist church cagers went into a tie with First Christian for first place in the Sunday School league basket ball race Tuesday night on the Floral Heights Presbyterian court by beating First Christian, 23 to 12, in the first game of the double bill. In the nightcap, Highland Heights Christian won a thriller from Floral Heights Presbyterian by a 35 to 29 score.

The lone loss of the year for Floral Heights Methodist was thrown out because of the use of an ineligible man by First Christian and will be played over soon. Striking this game off the records leaves both teams with two victories and no defeats.

Jack "Red" Allen and Danny Cox furnished the scoring power for the Floral Heights gang, each with four flips from the floor. Guest proved to be the shining light for the First Methodist and equaled the work of these two men with a like number of field goals.

Floral Heights used an early lead to a good advantage, holding an 8 to 0 advantage at the first quarter.

In the nightcap, first one team then the other would take the lead with never more than four points difference in the score until a last minute deluge of goals by Leonard Voltz and Williams iced the game away. Voltz with 13 points and "Dauntless Dave" Denton with 10 led the attack for the Christians which enabled them to register their first league victory. Smith with 12 points was the big artillery in the Presbyterian attack.

Lion Cagers Resume Practice After Rest

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 27.—While candidates for the Vernon High school basket ball squad take a few days' rest after less than two weeks' practice, negotiations continue for games for the Lion cagers. The Lions have not played a game to date this season, and, furthermore, have not as yet scheduled a single contest with the exception of county play. The opening game of the season for the Maroon basketeers was carded last Thursday night here with Frederick, Okla., but the contest was called off because of inclement weather.

Meanwhile, the Lions Friday started a holiday rest, but resumed practice Tuesday afternoon at the high school gymnasium. There is every likelihood that the Vernon cagers will open their 1932-33 season next week-end, however, probably Thursday or Friday night.

Negotiations are now under way with Olney, Crowell, Plainview, Gainesville, Childress, Quanah, Electra, and others for practice engagements late this month or early in January. The Lions will also probably play Wichita Falls, although negotiations between the two schools for a game have not been started.

This revelation came during an inspection of the interment camp Dec. 23 with a man, who first had presented documents identifying himself as Ma Su-Fung, when the remnants of General Su's army first crossed into Siberia, said, according to Tass, that he really was Ma Chan-Shan.

Boston Braves Set New Record To Win National League Fielding Honors

Club Handles 6,287 Chances During 155 Games With Only 152 Errors, With Average of .976

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—The Boston Braves, who were next to the bottom in batting, led the National league clubs in fielding during the 1932 season and set a new league record as they did it.

The Braves, as a club, handled 6,287 chances during their 155 games and made only 152 errors, the official records for the year released today, reveal. Their average was .976, a point higher than the old mark set by the Chicago Cubs in 1929 and the same distance below the major league standard established by the New York Yankees of 1923.

Not only did they shine as a club during a season which brought many record fielding feats and a few record lows, but two of them set individual highs for the year.

Individual Honors

Wally Berger led all the outfielders who played in 100 games or more and tied the league's record average of .993 for the wanderers of the outer pastures which was set by Louis Duncan of Cincinnati in 1923. Sam West of Washington holds the major league mark of .996. The venerable Walter J. (Rabbit) Maranville topped the "regular" second basemen of the circuit with a .975 average.

While several club fielding records were beaten or tied, Earl Grace of Pittsburgh walked off with the year's individual fielding honors with two new marks for rival catchers to shoot at, catching 144 games. His mark of .998 surpassed by two points the one set by Frank Hogan of New York the year before and seriously threatened the perfect mark made by John Bassler of Detroit in 63 games during 1926.

Grace's one error was made Sept. 8, ending a string of record proportions which had run since Aug. 20, 1931. In that time he handled 444 chances without a misplay.

New "Lows" Set

The pitchers and the first basemen, as usual, staged the closest races for the honor of being named the year's best fielder in their respective positions. Twenty-one moundsmen fielded perfectly. Freddy Heimach of Brooklyn getting the nomination by handling more chances than his rivals, 51. Frank O. (Don) Hurst of Philadelphia beat out Manager Charley Grimm of Chicago in the struggle at first base by the margin of .9930 to .9929. Arthur (Pinkey) Whitney of Philadelphia led the third basemen, with a .960 mark and Bill Jurges of Chicago led the shortstops at .964.

Three new "lows" for the league were established in the assist column. On Aug. 23, the Cubs played an entire game with only one assist, cutting the old National league mark in half. Pittsburgh had only 1,640 assists for the season and the league only 14,683. The former low marks were 1,754 by St. Louis in 1929 and 15,020, the league's 1930 mark.

The New York Giants tied the record of six double plays in one game, held by three clubs; and the Philadelphia catchers equaled another mark, having only four passed balls in a season.

PITT WORKS ON AERIAL PLAYS

Trojans Likely to Present Running Attack

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 27. (AP)—Coach J. B. Sutherland spent two hours with his University of Pittsburgh football squad today in giving an offensive and defensive lesson in passes in preparation for the game with the University of Southern California at the Pasadena Rose bowl Jan. 2.

The easterners went through their own repertoire and then received a complete barrage of the passing plays the Trojans have been using.

Southern California's husky line and tricky aerial attack are two of Sutherland's chief worries. He apparently is grooming his attack to include strong overhead plays if the Trojans' great line stops his ground attack, and he is spending much time developing a defense against the coast eleven's pass flippers. It was a long pass, he remembers, that resulted in Southern California's first touchdown against Notre Dame.

JONES WORKS TEAM ON OFFENSIVE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27. (AP)—Possibility that Southern California might present a more powerful running attack against Pittsburgh Jan. 2 than at any point in the regular schedule was strengthened today as Coach Howard Jones sent his team through a hard workout on offense.

The Trojans played a defensive game for the most part this season, awaiting or making the breaks which took them to nine consecutive victories.

A strong line and a green backfield were the factors which made this necessary but with the ball carriers in possession of more experience now, Coach Jones may put more of the responsibility of the game on their shoulders.

A gain of a pound a day is considered the average for a normal hog.

EAST, WEST TEAMS BUSY

Gridders Practice for Jan. 2 Charity Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Eastern and western gridiron stars, training for the annual charity football game here Jan. 2, romped through practice programs today that included everything from foot races to line and backfield scrimmage.

The last of the 15 or 20 plays each side will employ were outlined by the rival coaches—Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley of the East and Orin Hollingbery and Dana Bible of the West.

A two-hour workout was held at Stanford university by the eastern squad, while at Berkeley the western players doubled the program of their forthcoming opponents by morning and afternoon drills.

Remembering the game two years ago was decided in the West's favor with a field goal, Coach Andy Kerr set three of the eastern gridders to work at this department of the game. Harry Newman, Michigan quarterback, Marsh Wells, Minnesota tackle, and Bob Rowe, Colgate fullback, were assigned to polish up on their ball-booting. All were outstanding at this during the regular season.

Sharkey Offered 'Go' With Either Max

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Jack Dempsey said tonight he had wired Jack Sharkey in Boston an offer to defend his heavyweight championship in September against either Max Schmeling or Max Baer.

Dempsey, in his debut as a "big league" promoter, already has matched Baer and Schmeling for a 15-round match in June either in Chicago or New York.

Dempsey said he had received a telegram from George F. Getz, Chicago sportsman who aided Tex Rickard in promotion of the second Tunney-Dempsey bout, asking that consideration be given Chicago as a site for the Baer-Schmeling match as a world fair feature.

Sportsmen Honor Amos Alonzo Stagg, Veteran Chicago Coach, At Luncheon

Prediction Made That Football Will 'Mend Its Ways' or Become Professional Sport in 10 Years

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Leaders of American sport gathered around 71-year-old Amos Alonzo Stagg today to pay him tribute, and at the same time attack bitterly the evils against which the "old man of the midway" has been fighting 40 years or more.

Retired now because of his age after four decades at the head of University of Chicago football, the stocky, white-haired, but still vibrant old man sat at the head of the table at the annual sportsmanship brotherhood luncheon and heard himself extolled as the greatest living teacher of the true principles of sportsmanship.

His life work at Chicago, his athletic career at Yale, formed the text for comparison with evils of the present day that prompted Prof. Philip Badger, at New York university, to predict that unless proselyting disappears from intercollegiate football "the game will be dead in 10 years, or else frankly in college as a professional sport."

Play Decreasing

"I know from what the boys have told me," said Professor Badger, who heads the committee that reorganized New York university football a year ago, "that not 10 per cent of the colleges today are playing the game. I know what colleges offer all over the country."

With equal frankness Professor Badger said his own school had admitted its guilt at the time of reorganization, when John F. (Chick) Meehan resigned as head coach after the 1931 season.

"This fall," he said, "sports writers referred erroneously to our program as one of de-emphasization. It was not that. Rather it was one of deordization."

Chancellor Charles W. Flint of Syracuse university declared that reorganization and a "new deal" were the moods of the hour in all branches of activity. In this reorganization in sports he asked that sportsmanship, the idea of "playing fair" be extended to every one concerned.

He divided this into "fair play" for the student body, a catering to the athletic needs of all instead of a few, and the wholesome stimulant of the "mass loyalties and friendly rivalries of intercollegiate games" when given the proper simplicity of organization and the proper spirit of loyalty.

Hazardous Occupations

Sportsmanship to the player, he said, meant making games a pleasure instead of drudgery, giving him a chance to retain his self-respect, a "fair field and no favors." To the coach it meant tenure and security, rather than a premium on winning, and to football itself it means relief from carrying the burden of all other sports with the attendant temptation to schedule games purely with an eye toward public patronage.

"The three most hazardous occupations," he remarked, "have been those of the minority gangster, the college president, and the athletic coach."

To Coach Next Year

Walter F. (Dutch) Carter, director of the Brooklyn ball club and a great pitcher at Yale, told of Stagg's athletic achievements, while Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, former assistant coach at Chicago and now Princeton's head coach, spoke feelingly of the principles and teachings of the "old man."

Stagg could say little to the hundreds at the luncheon table in reply to their tributes. He said simply that he had always tried to be honest; that he had done the best he could always.

After the luncheon he said he would coach somewhere next season but just where, he did not know. He said he was much impressed by the desire of Pacific university at Stockton, Calif., to have him coach there, but that he would accept no post where he would cause some other coach to lose his position.

COLDS? I've Checked Mine,

Thanks to MENTHOLATUM

She has learned the secret of checking a cold quickly. Others may let their cold "run its course," and suffer much discomfort, but she gets speedy relief by inserting Mentholatum in the nostrils to clear that stopped-up feeling. Then she rubs Mentholatum into the chest to stimulate circulation and reduce congestion. Pleasant relief comes surprisingly soon.

SEAL SALE TO CLOSE SOON

Wichitans Asked to Report On Purchases

Plans are being formed this week by the Wichita County Tuberculosis association for closing the 1932 Christmas seal campaign. The seal sale is the only means of obtaining funds for operation of the association program during the year. Miss Mary Quinn, executive secretary, issued an appeal Tuesday that all seals not returned or funds from seals used unreported be sent to the office as soon as possible.

The sale goal this year was placed at $3,500 and only $1,602 has been contributed to date. The campaign was opened Thanksgiving day and seals were sent to 7,000 residents of the city and county. Approximately 4,000 citizens have responded to the appeal.

"The association is asking special consideration for the annual appeal this year. It is to be expected that 1933 will be extremely hard for the poor. Tuberculosis is to be dreaded when the standard of living is lowered. We realize that it has been impossible to sell seals to thousands of unemployed this year, who purchased them in former sales," Miss Quinn said.

"We hope that those who have so far failed to send in the seals or donations and who are in a position to do so will contribute in appreciably larger amounts this year. Never before has our work been so important. We must keep the children well. We must instruct parents how to provide the most healthful food on slender budgets. And we must discover cases of tuberculosis before they are beyond control," she continued. Semi-annual clinics are held in Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Electra and Iowa Park in the war to control and prevent development of the disease.

Purchase of as many seals as possible is urged. Citizens receiving the seals and unable to purchase them are asked to return them to the association headquarters promptly in order that records of sales may be maintained. Prompt return of the seals or contributions will save the association unnecessary worry, it was pointed out. A follow-up letter will be sent out in a few days to all who have not sent in the seals or donations.

Madame Holton Answers Queries on Future Events

Readers of The Record News Tuesday continued to shower questions on Madame Holton, noted psychic, now appearing at the Majestic theater. The questions are being selected at random and as many are being answered as space permits.

Perhaps your question is among those answered today.

I. M. M.—Will we make a success in our present business?

Answer—I get an impression you will. I advise you to stay.

G. M.—Do you advise me to marry George, born Sept. 3, or Earl, born the 26th of May? I was born on Feb 25.

Answer—You would get along best with Earl, as he is born under the planetary sign of Taurus, and George is born under Virgo. You would be happier with a Taurus person, as you are born under Pisces. Taurus and Pisces mate well.

F. L.—Why do I not get the letter, and will I receive it yet?

Answer—You will get letter within three days. It has been held back on account of the large Christmas mails.

W. P.—Will I ever make a success in music?

Answer—You would if you applied yourself. And you can.

D. E. S.—Will the misunderstanding between B. P. and me ever cease?

Answer—The misunderstanding will be at an end as soon as you apologize. I advise you to as soon as possible.

M. N.—Am I ever going to get to go to South America?

Answer—Yes, and if you do not start getting to work sooner in the mornings, the company you are working for will tell you to go to a hotter place than that.

Mrs. S. M.—What does S. L. think of me? Does she like me?

Answer—I get the impression that S. L. thinks very much of you.

R. R. E.—What is best for me to do about breaking up with the only man I have ever really loved? Will I ever be happy.

Answer—The best thing to do is to make up your mind to forget this man. He is not worth your grief. You will be happy, will meet and marry another man in 1933.

H. T.—Will I be successful in attaining a teacher's position.

Answer—I see you will be successful in doing so in 1933.

Mrs. E. D.—Does my husband love me? Does he see other women alone?

Answer—Your husband is faithful and true to you. I advise you to come to the ladies matinee Friday morning at 10 and let me advise you.

L. P.—Will I ever see D. P. S. again? If so, when?

Answer—You will see this party again, but not until 1935.

F. M. H.—Will I go to California? Will I get in the movies? I am considered very beautiful, and all my friends tell me I should be in the movies.

Answer—You better stay right here in Wichita Falls, and help your mother with the dishes a few more years. You may be nice looking, but you would never set the world on fire, and looks don't go very far in Hollywood. It requires good brain, and plenty of it.

Mrs. T. Y. Z.—Would I be successful in training as a nurse?

Answer—Yes, but you would not stay with it long.

W. H. S.—Should I go to California, or is it best to return East?

Answer—I get an impression you would be better off to go East.

F. S.—Are my husband and I going to go back together? Will the other woman cause any more trouble?

Answer—You will go back together, and she will leave here for a while. However, she may return on. I advise you to come to the ladies matinee at 10 a. m. Friday, and let me discuss this question, when only ladies are present.

E. R.—Is my wife true? Does she love me?

Answer—She is true to you, though you have been unfaithful to her in the past. She always thinks of this, and that is why she acts indifferent toward you.

W. D. J.—Do you advise my husband and I to sell our little business or is it advisable to stay where we are?

Answer—I advise you to sell as soon as you can get your price. Looks like you will sell at a profit in April.

H. G. M.—Will I ever find my string of pearls which disappeared?

Answer—You will find them. They were packed by mistake in a suitcase which belonged to a relative.

E. P. L.—Am I going down to the Rio Grande valley this spring?

Answer—Yes, I see you in Brownsville before then.

R. E.—Will I ever get my little dog back?

Answer—Yes, I see this dog has strayed away, and will return in about three or four more days.

M. F.—Will my husband's family and my own ever be friends?

Answer—Yes, but not until your husband goes to his folks and tells them he is sorry as he was to blame in this matter. Eventually, both families will be on good terms.

R. N. W.—Did my grandfather die a natural death? Did he leave any money hidden?

Answer—He seems to have died a natural death, and can not see he left any hidden money.

O. N.—Please tell me whether or not I will stay here all year.

Answer—It is advisable to stay, and it seems you will stay.

H. P. L.—Where is Paul Renolds, last seen in Havre, Mont.?

Answer—I get an impression he is well, and in St. Paul, Minn. He seems to be working in a flour mill in or near there.

Austin Man Charged With Slaying of Father

AUSTIN, Dec. 27. (AP)—Carl Anderson was charged with murder in connection with the death of his father, C. A. Anderson, here today. Anderson, senior, 55, was fatally shot at his home yesterday. Young Anderson, 28, told officers there had been a quarrel.

Anderson, junior, told officers his father and mother had had trouble recently. The quarrel between the couple was renewed last night and when he asked his father to desist, he lunged at him, officers said young Anderson told them. The elder Anderson was shot twice, one of the bullets entering near his heart.

Advice To Investors

By Charles W. Storm—Editor of the "News Service of Wall Street"

T. B.—Please advise me if American Gas and Electric company common stock is worth holding. Any recent information on the company will be appreciated.

Answer—For the 12 months ended Oct. 31, 1932, earnings available for the common stock equaled $2.55 a share, as compared with $3.90 a share on a somewhat smaller capitalization for the previous 12 months. Revenues of subsidiaries have declined throughout 1932. For the months of September and October the declines, compared with 1931, were not as great as in previous months, and the seasonal increases for each of these two months over the preceding month were moderately greater than was the case in 1931, when little if any such improvement occurred. Likewise the rate of decline in common stock earnings for those two months was less than in previous months. The showings for those two months, however, should not be regarded as significant as there has been practically no real upturn in heavy industrial power consumption. Based on the number of common shares to be outstanding on Jan. 1, 1933, after payment of the 2 per cent stock dividend recently declared, it seems likely that earnings for the calendar year 1932 will approximate $2.36 a share. At the end of 1931 the system had a strong current financial condition, current assets of $41,497,913 comparing with current and accrued liabilities of $13,734,533. More than half of these current assets was represented by cash or its equivalent. In all probability the system will also have a comfortable current financial position at the end of 1932. The common stock represents the equity of a strong holding company, whose subsidiaries are engaged almost entirely in furnishing electric service, and the company is able financially to withstand further declines in earnings for an extended period. When sustained improvement in general business conditions sets in, earnings of the company should improve. From the longer term standpoint the stock is worth holding, despite probability of further declines in earnings over the near term. The stock pays $1 plus 4 per cent in stock annually and is classed as a speculative investment.

H. P., Olney, Texas—Would like to know about the dividend record and earnings of Standard Oil of Ohio common stock.

Answer—Standard Oil company (of Ohio) earned $2.34 a share on 752,467 common shares in 1931 as against $5.56 a share on 560,720 common shares in 1930. At the close of 1931, current assets of $15,759,458, including $2,976,109 cash and $1,343,246 U. S. government, etc., securities, compared with current liabilities of $4,376,180. There are 120,000 shares of 5 per cent cum. preferred stock of $100 par outstanding. Dividend rate on the common stock was reduced from $2.50 to $1.50 annually on Oct. 1, 1932 and the issue is rated as a speculative investment. The company has paid regular and extra dividends since 1901 with exception of the year 1911. The $2.50 rate on the present $25 per share was paid from April 1, 1927 to July 1, 1932.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Cotton was inactive over a range of 2 to 6 points today. Traders were apathetic owing to a continuation of the holidays in the English market and in absence of important new developments.

Demand was slow throughout the day but offers were limited with very little selling aside from moderate local operations in sympathy with the weakness in wheat and the heaviness in the stock market. The March position advanced to 5.92, declines to 5.86 and closed at 5.89 or 2 points net lower, while the general market closed steady at 2 points lower to 1 point net higher.

The opening was 3 points lower to 2 points higher and at no time during the day did prices show a real trend either way. Rains were reported over the eastern and central belt states and there was little or no selling by houses with southern connections.

A few selling orders from Europe were absorbed largely by the trade. Spinners, however, were not buying freely owing to year-end inventories.

The New York cotton exchange service placed the world's consumption of American cotton during November at 1,150,000 bales, bringing the total for four months from Aug. 1 to about 4,473,000 against 4,018,000 last season and 3,855,000 two years ago. The amount on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was reported at 215,000 bales compared with 190,000 last year and 161,000 two years ago. Exports today 17,590, making 3,997,705 so far this season. Port receipts 14,006. U. S. port stocks 4,855,759.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27. (AP)—Cotton was very quiet today as holiday influences continued to operate against trading and prices fluctuations were narrow and irregular. The close was steady with final quotations five points up to four down, December, 1933, showing the extreme gain.

The opening was very quiet. As Liverpool continued closed for the Christmas holidays there was an absence of the usual early incentive from cables. Only two months, March and July, were active at the opening call and both showed initial losses of 1 point. There was a little trade buying and price fixing in the early trading but was offset by some hedge selling and March traded down to 5.86, May to 6.00 and July to 6.10, down 1 to 2 points from the previous close.

May eased 3 points near the end of the first hour but prices soon rallied slightly on short covering. March advanced to 5.88, May to 6.01 and July to 6.12, up 2 to 3 points from the early lows.

The market although ruling quiet all afternoon turned easier and made new lows at 5.83 for March, 5.96 for May and 6.08 for July or 4 to 6 points below the highs of the morning, the decline being due to hedge selling and lack of support. Prices rallied slightly on near months but were easy on the distant positions except December which closed at the high point of 6.04 or 5 points net up while March closed net unchanged and July 4 points net down.

Port receipts 14,006, for week 65,753, for season 5,650,500, last season 6,213,703. Exports 17,590, for week 46,091, for season 3,998,828, last season 3,793,485. Port stock 4,806,597, last year 4,712,496. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 202,773, last year 133,545. Spot sales at southern markets 13,251, last year 35,522.

Financial Markets Resume Sluggish Trend; Stocks Show Irregularity

By JOHN L. COOLEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 27. (AP)—Financial markets, resuming operations today after their Christmas recess, found conditions little changed from last week. Trading in securities was slow and although the trend was generally toward lower levels, the outstanding characteristic of both stock and bond trading was sluggishness.

Stocks closed with some irregularity, but most quotations varied only fractionally from Saturday's final prices and the day's extreme range of fluctuations was narrow. Bonds were strong in the U. S. government and German categories; on the other hand, a number of secondary domestic rail loans weakened, due partly to tax selling.

Factors influencing the share market were largely familiar. Wall street however, took interest in the sales tax talk at Washington, but was probably more impressed by signs that congress was ready to tackle the government's financial situation. Many year-end statements or "forecasts" by business executives and advisory services mention a balanced budget not only as a primary requisite for recovery, but also as one of the anti-depression weapons immediately at hand.

On a group basis, tobacco shares were heavy and rails about steady. Industrials generally accomplished little or nothing, except that U. S. Steel sagged a point. Otherwise losses of equal size were limited mostly to issues of minor importance. American Telephone, whose February dividend meeting will soon be a topic of lively conjecture, eased half a point with Du Pont, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Gillette, Radio, Aviation Corporation and a few others. Allied Chemical, for which another regular dividend payment is assured, firmed a point; American Can improved a shade after its directors had likewise voted a "regular," omitting action on the $1 extra usually declared at this time. American Tobacco "B" was down a point net. Sales totaled 801,488 shares.

In the absence of more striking reasons, brokers ascribed the downward drift to further selling for tax purposes and to heaviness of wheat. Hopes for a turn in the market fortunes after or around the first of the year have not been abandoned, though some think the usual flurry may be delayed by the larger uncertainties which are being widely publicized.

Business this week is under the spell of seasonal let-downs in most departments. Steel mill activity is probably scraping close to the midsummer low, since some plants did not resume immediately after the holiday. However, American Metal Market says "some business is being done" ever at the year's fag end, recalling that the trade pays little attention to late December schedules.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Dec. 27. (AP)—The recent firmer tendency of wool prices with only a very moderate amount of buying is considered by members of the wool trade to be a very encouraging feature of the wool market. Buyers are beginning to give more attention to the offerings at the stronger asking prices. Receipts of domestic wool at Boston during week ending Dec. 24, as estimated by the Boston grain and flour exchange, amounted to 388,100 pounds as compared with 3,875,000 pounds during the previous week.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Dec. 27. (AP)—Demand was fair for wheat after the holiday of two days on the Fort Worth cash grain market. Corn also was fairly easy selling. Other grains were slow. Quotations ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid, delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat No. 1 hard according to protein and billing 46@50c. Barley No. 2 nominally 31@32c; No. 2 nominally 30@31c. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 pounds according to color, 46@54c; No. 2 kafir, according to color, 30@31c.

Delivered Texas common points, or group three: Corn No. 2 mixed 33½@34c; No. 2 white or yellow 33½@41½c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 27. (AP)—Wheat, corn, oats and barley today all outdid season low-price records in Chicago.

Competition for world export trade in wheat toppled values like nine-pins. Starting with an all-time unequaled plunge of wheat quotations in Buenos Aires, a series of market breaks ensued with Winnipeg and Chicago wheat collapses affecting one after another corn, oats and barley. A cable from Athens that the Argentine government was negotiating for the sale of a large quantity of wheat to Greece had a specially unsettling effect.

Chicago wheat future contracts closed unstable at virtually the day's bottom level, ⅞@1⅞c under Saturday's finish, corn ⅞@⅞c down, oats a shade to ⅞c off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents lower.

Before today's trading began here, it was reported that February delivery of wheat at Buenos Aires, the first new crop contract, had fallen to around 35 cents a bushel, the lowest figures ever reached on an Argentine exchange. Rivalry between Argentina and Canada quickly became apparent, and slashing of prices in the two countries was followed soon by stop-loss selling here. Argentine advices said there had been of late a continued downturn of values with depreciation of the British pound sterling an important unsettling factor.

Increased influx of wheat from rural sources to Buenos Aires, and anxiety of Argentine farmers to turn wheat into cash as quickly as possible, was given as a contributing reason for the action of the Buenos Aires market. Despite a decrease of 1,315,000 bushels shown in the United States wheat visible supply total today, Chicago wheat prices developed little power to rally. Extremely bullish crop reports from Nebraska and Kansas were almost ignored.

Corn and oats finally sympathized with wheat weakness although at first responsive to reports that severe damage to the Argentine corn crop had been done by locusts.

Provisions went lower with hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May 43⅞@⅞c, 44⅞@⅞c; July 43⅞@⅞c, 44⅞@⅞c. Corn, May 25⅞@⅞c, 25⅞@⅞c; July 26⅞c bids.

Suit for $25,000 damages was filed in district court Tuesday by H. A. Decker, guardian, on behalf of Maurice Snyder, 18, against the United States Torpedo company as the result of an explosion at Electra, Dec. 30, 1930, in which several employes of the defendant concern lost their lives.

The group will discuss plans for 1933 activities. Gerald Coffey was in charge of a group discussion Tuesday afternoon.

Two for One

Because of a two-sided transaction at a local department store Tuesday morning, two young men face charges of theft in the county court at law, according to Z. Allen, assistant county attorney. The youths visited the store to purchase one pair of shoes. They left with two pairs—but failed to elude the local police.

For Old Time's Sake

"Auld Lang Syne" will be the song of the hour on New Year's eve, but one youth who sought to invoke the spell of such a sentiment Monday night wound up in the county jail. In company with several other youths, he met two young women on Seventh street. One, it seems, was a former sweetie. Accosting her, the youth promptly demanded a kiss, for old time's sake. Being smartly repulsed, he allegedly slapped the girl's cheek, then seized a piece of iron bar and threatened her life. He was restrained by his companions. He will face a charge of aggravated assault in the county court at law.
