THE JUNCTION EAGLE

Volume 45 | Junction, Kimble County, Texas, Thursday, October 4, 1928 | Number 25

SCHOOL NOTES

It is the custom, every Wednesday morning, in Schreiner High School, to have some prominent man deliver a talk or lecture. Brother Hill gave us a splendid talk Wednesday morning, taking his lesson from the 8th Psalm. His talk, we are sure, was inspiring to all the high school pupils

Brother Hill told us of the great books and their inspiration to us, and last of all of the Bible which will never grow old. He described high school days as days of friendship—friendship with great characters who live in history, friendship with great ideas and ideals.

Brother Hill reminded us of the value of fair play. To illustrate this he brought into his talk the football game between Junction and Sonora. He described the game as being a clean game and the football boys wish to thank him for the remarks he made along this line.

After reading the 8th Psalm Brother Hill closed his talk with a prayer.

September 29th the Junction Eagles won over Sonora high with a 13-0 victory. It was a hard fought game for both teams and looked as if it would be a scoreless tie until in the third quarter. The ball was on the thirty yard line, H. T. Richardson, who was ill, went in and in the second down carried the ball over for the first touchdown. King drop-kicked for extra point.

Several good runs were made during the remainder of the third quarter and first of last quarter, then in the last of fourth quarter King succeeded in making another touchdown. The goal was not kicked.

October 6th the "Eagles" invade new territory. It is a non conference game with Del Rio at Del Rio. This is a much stronger team than the "Eagles" will find in this district. This game will help prepare the "Junction Eagles" to meet Fredericksburg October 19.

Thursday afternoon Mr. Cowles suggested to the high school that the weeds on the football field should be pulled while the ground was wet. Therefore most all the high school pupils and some of the pupils in the lower grades were engaged in pulling weeds for a short time.

The pupils had the choice of studying or pulling weeds. Their choice tends to show that high school pupils with the exception of the seniors do not object to manual labor. It took about fifteen minutes only to pull the weeds.

H. T. Richardson and Warren Braley missed several days of school last week on account of sickness.

If anyone wants to know about the circus in San Antonio ask Arl Taylor about it.

Miss Cartwright from Brownwood is getting up an expression class here this week.

The Schreiner high school girls organized a tennis club last week, and will start work as soon as possible. Mr. H. O. Denman has been kind enough to give them permission to use his concrete court and his tennis net. The girls who have joined the club so far are: Ruby Johnson, Ruby Davis, Mildred Bridges, Vivian James, Kaleta Taylor, Mary Hubert, Tempie Boone, Nevada Blackburn and Virginia Strong.

From this number they ought to pick a team that can win over any other in this district.

Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Charley Dunbar and Mrs. D. Taylor visited the first grade last week.

Two new pupils entered the eighth grade last week. As a result teachers had to get more chairs for their rooms. This makes 43 in the eighth grade. The new pupils are Marie Buie from Dallas and Don Curtis from Uvalde.

The ninth grade also has a new pupil, Frank Curtis from Uvalde.

Why is it that Rich isn't going to get to play football the last six weeks?

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE CLASS NOTES

The vocational agriculture class work is coming along nicely. We have made a start toward farm shop improvement by making four saw horses. We have also done some work on our tool cabinets and expect to complete them soon. We have resolved to improve the general appearance of our V. A. class room and our farm shop. Sloan Davis made the highest grade on the placing of class of dairy cows that we judged at the Montgomery dairy and Carlton Wright made the highest grade on giving reasons. Congratulations, boys. We had a good class of dairy cows to judge last Monday afternoon, for most all of the good points of a dairy cow could be found in one or another of these four cows. The boys making the highest grade will be published next week. The boys seem to be learning to judge dairy cows fairly well, at least they are learning the good and the bad points to look for. We wish to thank Judge M. E. Blackburn, Mr. Dan St. Clair, Mr. Dave Turner and Mr. Jones for kindly consenting to furnish their cows for the class.

Our class met last week and organized a local F. F. T. organization and planned the following program of work as their goal to work for this year.

1. To improve the general appearance of the V. A. class room and the farm shop.
2. To improve the school grounds by building concrete walks and planting shrubbery, trees, etc.
3. To have a father and son banquet.
4. To furnish one or more teams for the annual Smith-Hughes Contest at A. & M. C.
5. To make this the most successful year in vocational agriculture work that Junction has ever had.
6. To attend the annual pecan show and meeting at San Saba.
7. To attend the Fat Stock Show at San Antonio next spring.
8. To camp on the river one night next summer and have a fish fry.

Other objectives may be added later.

You are probably wondering what the letters "F. F. T." stand for. Well, they stand for Future Farmers of Texas. The word "farmer" includes the livestock grower as well as the man who tills the soil. The first organization of this kind was formed in Virginia in 1926. They have grown very rapidly and are now to be found over many of our states.

MINUTES OF THE F. F. T. MEETING FOR SEPT. 27

The vocational agriculture class, consisting fo seventeen boys and the instructor, Mr. A. J. Bierschwale, met in the agriculture room of Schreiner High School Thursday, Sept. 27, 1928, and organized a local organization of F. F. T's.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Bierschwale and the following officers were elected:

Leonard Dunbar.....president
Junior Stevenson..vice president
Carlton Wright.....sec.-treas.
A. J. Bierschwale.....advisor
Gerald Ragland...executive com.
Raymond James..executive com.
A. J. Hendricks..executive com.

Plans for future business and pleasure were discussed. A motion was made and carried that we meet in regular session only once a month and have special called meetings when necessary. The meeting adjourned to meet again one month from date.

Carlton Wright,

Because Mary Hubert sets across the aisle from him. And still everyone wonders why Satch is sore at Rich.

The Pep Squad has been meeting regularly and they have been practicing yells and songs. Some of the members are planning to go to Del Rio for the game there next Saturday.

THE JUNCTION EAGLE CHANGES OWNERSHIP

This paper is the first edition issued since the plant was acquired by Mr. Edgar McLendon, recently of Coleman, Texas, but who has spent most of his life in Graham, Texas, as Superintendent of Public Schools, and the past few years, as editor and owner of The Graham Leader. He comes to us an experienced newspaper man; well recommended by his fellow-townsmen, and financially able to give Junction and Kimble County the best newspaper in its history. His wife will assist him in his work and his younger son will join the working staff, after taking a degree in Journalism in Baylor University this coming spring.

A successful county newspaper editor is perhaps required to have more cosmopolitan characteristics than any of our modern day business men. He must be educated, diplomatic, progressive, energetic and in order to serve his patronage, know something of every kind of business in the county where he publishes a paper. Mr. McLendon and his wife graduated from one the best Universities; the fact that he served as Superintendent of Schools for ten years in one town and was offered reemployment is the best evidence of his diplomacy, and the further fact that he made a success in his chosen field of work, the publishing business, is at the same time a compliment to his business judgment, energy and progressiveness. He comes to our town with his family to become one of our number the rest of his days. We unhesitatingly commend him to our patrons.

The Junction Publishing Company has enjoyed a period of prosperity the past few months, in line with legitimate profits. For this patronage, the stockholders desire to thank their friends and patrons. Personally the venture in the newspaper field has been a pleasant one, and due to the loyalty and advice of my friends and the patronage afforded a reasonably profitable business. It has been my sincere desire to prevent a malignment, or reflection against any person or individual, whether friend or foe, and I have prevented the publication of any item that would in any manner injure or reflect on Kimble County, or any of its towns. I do not believe a personal, or a political quarrel, is a news item, and community differences never reflect credit on the people effected, and publication results in a distinct disadvantage to community progress.

For some time, due to the increased business of the publishing company, I have realized I could no longer direct the affairs of the business without a distinct loss to my practice of law, which I never intend to abandon. A number of men have endeavored to purchase the plant, most of whom were financially unable to buy and would have brought nothing into the community. After Mr. McLendon had made three trips to our town, and we had time to exchange references, the deal was closed. I anticipate the Eagle will be one of the best papers in Southwest Texas under the direction of Mr. McLendon.

It is my purpose to reciprocate in kind, at every opportunity, the business patronage of my friends, for the period of time I have been interested in The Junction Publishing Company. Whatever measure of success the business has attained, is largely due to the faithful and loyal employees, who have doubled the volume of business the past 18 months, and brought the paper from a five column to six column, twenty inch, eight page edition, with prospects for a larger paper in the near future, and to whom I shall always feel grateful.

WEAVER H. BAKER.

In assuming the management of the Junction Publishing Company, I do so with the hope that I may serve acceptably Junction and Kimble County. My past experience in the newspaper field has taught me that many and varied problems arise that affect the harmony and prosperity of a community. It has always been my policy to look upon the bright side of all problems and to try to say only those things that will upbuild the community and promote harmony and good fellowship.

Junction and Kimble County show every evidence of growth and development, and in casting my lot with the good people of this community, it is my desire to help, aid and assist every worthy movement for the upbuilding of this section. Being a stranger, I shall need the unselfish co-operation of every individual and every organization to give you the paper that is needed and that you deserve.

A hurried glance over the files reveals the fact that the present management with the help of the business and professional men has given you a good paper. It is my purpose to uphold the high standard maintained by Mr. Baker and with the co-operation of the readers and the advice and assistance of the office force, to strive to make improvements that will meet with the approval of our readers.

My family and I are coming here to make this our permanent home. We have no business other than the newspaper and job printing, and all our time, talents, and energies will be devoted to this and this alone.

I desire to thank those whom I have met for their words of encouragement and assurances of co-operation in my new field of labor. My previous experience will help me to adapt myself to the new environments, and before many weeks I hope to have the privilege and pleasure of meeting all our valued readers.

EDGAR McLENDON.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On account of the heavy rains, I have not been able to move my family to Junction. Mr. Wilkinson and the regular force will continue to edit the paper until I get on the field and familiarize myself with local conditions.

EDGAR McLENDON.

From current reports the American Legion Convention in San Antonio next week promises to be an elaborate affair, and the Bert Fleming Post of Junction expects to attend en masse.

Bill Hamer of Rocksprings was here Sunday on business.

The fire alarm was sounded Tuesday morning about 8:30 and when the fire wagon responded, it was found that the Hazelwood Laundry wagon had become ignited from some cause, and the body of the car was partially destroyed. No considerable damage was done.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCTOBER 7TH TO 13TH

Fight fires before they start. There is no problem that is of more importance to the American people at this time than the one which has been created by our extremely heavy fire loss. Thousands of persons are burned to death, additional thousands are injured, and hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of property values are being consumed by fire each year in the United States and Canada, largely through carelessness and thoughtlessness on the part of the public about fire hazards that have no reason to exist and are directly responsible for at least three-fourths of the fires that take place.

When we refer to statistics for 1926 compiled by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, we find some 30,000 casualities charged to fire during that year, together with a property loss of more than 560 million dollars, of which about 27% was recorded as strictly preventable, 28% as partly preventable, the remainder of some 252 million dollars having been classified as causes unknown but believed to have been largely of preventable origin.

While the preliminary estimate of last year's experience indicates a material reduction in the fire waste when compared with the record of the past, the figures still are so ridiculously high as to be entirely out of keeping with our progress made in other walks of life.

In the face of all this, is it any wonder that the need for Fire Prevention Week has been keenly kept; that we have Clean-up Week in the spring of the year; that the public is being constantly warned against the increased danger of fire at Christmas time and on the Fourth of July; that the schools are being urged to teach fire prevention as a part of the regular program, and that the fire prevention forces are engaging in various other activities, all of which is to arouse the people to their own responsibility about preventable fire waste.

Nor has the public fully realized that the fire insurance companies do not pay the losses. Cheap fire insurance rates do not spring from carelessness. Every time there is a fire everyone must pay. The fire insurance companies are merely collectors and distributors of the premiums that they receive for insurance, the cost of which is added to the price of all articles of trade, and whenever we make a purchase we contribute our share of the fire tax.

By no process of reasoning can America's fire waste be justified. It is the common hazards that keep the fire department busy.

Defective chimneys and flues are responsible for more than 27 million dollars of our annual fire bill, yet it doesn't require much time nor involve a great expense to see that they are in good repair, and furthermore, it may cost the savings of a lifetime if you fail to perform this bounden duty.

The careless smoker is being charged with approximately 37 million dollars of our yearly wastage by fire, and we find that stoves, furnaces and boilers unsafely installed, spontaneous ignition, electricity, and sparks on wooden roofs also are among the chief offenders in carrying our fire loss to such tremendous proportions.

A policy of "I'll attend to the trash, the grass and the weeds tomorrow" has been responsible for the heavens being lighted up by fires, not only thousands but tens of thousands of times.

There is no poetry in a fire that destroys. There is no warmth of good cheer in a blazing house. Only misery and want and woe can echo from homes destroyed, from business houses wrecked, from savings that vanish by way of the fire route.

When properly curbed and circumscribed a cheering fire is a thing that makes a most excellent servant, contributing greatly to the comfort of man. But to keep fire a servant requires constant and unceasing vigil.

Why not fight fires before they start? Why not so conduct your habits and so keep your premises that when the fire demon wants to pay you a visit he will have to pass you by. Too often those who suffer from fire cry out that they are the victims of bad luck, when the fact is they are but paying the natural penalty for their own carelessness.

Do away with your fire hazards. Stop inviting disaster. If your neighbor is indifferent, remind him that should he be visited by fire you will have to assist in paying him what he loses and that he may burn you out besides.

Be a fire fighter. You don't have to wear a uniform and live at the fire station. The most successful fire fighters today are those who prevent fires.—S. A. Inglish.

SEVENTEEN YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

Tom Joy, who had his foot smashed by a barrel of lard falling on it, is able to be out again with the aid of crutches.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Murr were in Junction Wednesday and went out to the Alfred Hodges ranch to visit their daughter, Mrs. Hodges.

Calbert Reid, Johnnie Graham and Blackston Smith made a flying trip to Menard Wednesday in Calbert's car.

Howard Payne and Dug Nance came in from Menard in the Jeter car Wednesday. Howard is returning from a business trip to Fort Worth.

Joe Taylor sold his ranch situated in Edwards and Kimble Counties, consisting of 7042 acres to Gus Schreiner. Consideration $17,605.

S. L. Jeter and Ward Cross went to Menard in Jeter's car Wednesday and brought back Willis Cross who will spend a few days with home folks. Willis is one of the guards at the Huntsville penitentiary.

The families of N. C. Patterson and J. A. Browning enjoyed a few days outing at the beautiful Seven Hundred Springs, and report a glorious time. Mr. Patterson says the fellow who would not enjoy himself in a place like that needs medical treatment.

Jno. T. Wilson was in from Roosevelt last week.

Rev. H. Jeffrey returned today from a trip to San Antonio and other points.

Claude and Hayden Lawler left last week for Argyle, Texas, and other points to visit friends and relatives.

SAN ANGELO INSTALLS AUTOMATIC TELEPHONES

At a brief, but impressive ceremony last Saturday night 5,700 telephones of the San Angelo Telephone Company's system, were cut over from the manual to the automatic dial system, when W. D. Holcomb, mayor of San Angelo, severad a wire in the telephone company's new $182,000 building.

John Y. Rust, founder and president of the San Angelo Telephone Company, states that the present equipment will care for fully 7,000 subscribers and that with additions possible to the present system will accommodate 27,000 users of a total population of approximately 120,000 persons.

LONDON LOCALS

Sunday morning about 7:45 a. m., our usually quiet little town was thrown into a state of excitement caused by the report that Mrs. Bettie Walton, wife of T. H. Walton, had swallowed carbolic acid. This report proved true. Doctors France and Fussell were summoned immediately and worked faithfully to save this good woman. Later Dr. Standifer of Junction was called. Later Dr. Davis of Menard, also was called. Everything was done that could be done to save her life, but all in vain. About 5:30 Monday evening death came to claim its own and end her sufferings. Mrs. Walton had no enemies. She was simply loved by us all. She was a good woman; this fact has been so freely expressed by all during her suffering. All who knew her loved her and those who knew her from childhood have most to say in praise of the pure life she lived and the kindly, jovial soul that was hers. We tender to her bereaved ones our true sympathy.

Our school was opened in due form Monday morning. The exercises were held at Community Hall and was well attended considering the surroundings. The opening was featured by a speech by our County Judge J. B. Randolph and a speaker from Mason. Unfortunately we failed to get his name. All who heard these gentlemen speak give them praise for their effort to encourage the pupils, teachers and parents. The general expression is that they said the right things at the right time and in the right way. All seem to enter into this school with enthusiasm. Now let's all work together; let's make it a term to be remembered because of its accomplishment in real school work.

E. I. Cummins has just informed us that he has recently sold his steer calves at $40.00. Good, I think.

After about ten days' rain our gin is again running on full time, and if the weather stays fit we will again hear it all night. We have an up-to-date gin and a real gin man. We have the land to grow the cotton and farmers to grow it, so here we go.

Some real estate deals are on which we will note later. This London land is valuable and will sell. Don't fail to secure you a home of sandy land while in your reach. It's going to advance.

Mr. Sidney Stockard of the Postoffice force in Denton and family are here. Mrs. Stockard is a sister to Mrs. Bettie Walton, deceased. Mr. Stockard states that North Texas State Normal had the largest enrollment this summer of its history.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Box and family of Lonegrove, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thiers of Camp Allison attended the bedside of Mrs. Walton during her short illness. Mrs. Box and Mrs. Thiers are her two married daughters.

If you have troubles, real or imaginary, do not bottle them up in your heart, your life, your very soul, until they explode, but take your troubles to your real friend. It matters not who your friend is, it matters not what your troubles are; bare your heart to that friend and save the destructive explosion that is sure to come sooner or later. Did you know your friend can and will always help you? They will tell you likely where you may be at fault; they will take your burden as their very own, help you bear your burden. Don't try to carry a load of trouble alone; it too often ends in a rash act. That could and would be overcome if you would only go to that true friend of yours and tell them all and let them help you. That is what friendship is; that is the beauty of it, to help in time of need. Not in dollars and cents; that is not the help you need when you bear a heavy burden. You need one that will bear a part of your load. A true friend will do that.

SOUTH LLANO NEWS

We enjoyed another fine rain last week. Everything is looking fine. Hope it continues to rain.

Miss Burris had as her week-end guest Miss Naomi Knowles, who teaches at Segovia. Miss Knowles and Miss Burris are from Runnels County, and were former classmates in College.

Mrs. J. Schuhardt has been on the sick list the past week, suffering with a cold.

Pecans are beginning to fall and the gatherers are coming in fast.

John D. Henderson put up a house for Stafford Thomas and Herbert Masters last week.

Mrs. Ed Hunger is improving. Mr. Hunger will go to Kerrville for her Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wynne and daughter, Elois, were week-end guests at the George Hamilton ranch home.

Mr. Jones of Marble Falls came to Hodges' ranch to thresh pecans Thursday.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Martha Ellen McKinley Stephenson was born June 17, 1861, in Montgomery County, Arkansas. On September 11, 1881, she was married to W. A. Stephenson. Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson were early settlers in Concho County, living in the Eola community for more than thirty years. Nearly three years ago they moved to Junction where Mr. Stephenson has owned a service station and tourist camp. On September 21 Mrs. Stephenson was taken seriously ill and despite loving care, death ensued on the following Sunday, September 23, 1928.

Of the twelve children one died in early childhood, while Ollie Stephenson died at the age of thirty-five. The surviving children were all present during the illness of their mother, the sons being Claud, M. B. and Herbert Stephenson of Eola, Howard Stephenson of Junction, Oscar Stephenson of Sweetwater, Gilliam Stephenson of Cisco, and Oran Stephenson of Beaumont. The daughters are Mrs. Herbert Duncan of Beaumont, Mrs. Ed Coffee and Mrs. Willie D. Hyatt, both of Eola.

Mrs. Stephenson had been a member of the Methodist church since her childhood, and had lived a faithful and devoted Christian life. A devoted and loving wife and mother, a true and devoted Christian woman, her passing brings heartaches and grief to her friends and loved ones, but with its sadness comes renewed faith in the blessed reality of the Life Eternal.

MOHAIR SHEARING IS COMPLETED

With the shearing of the Texas clip of mohair complete, it is believed that the average amount of hair from each animal is to be heavier than it was last fall.

Prices of 60 and 70 cents are being offered but few are taking that figure. One report is that a big warehouse in the area has already sold its accumulation of mohair at the early part of the season. Last spring when the clip was not nearly so good as it is today, it commanded up to 76 and 86 cents. —Sheep & Goat Raisers' Magazine.

MINTS TO QUIT COINING SILVER HALF DOLLARS

Denver, Colo.—Half dollars, like silver dollars will be unknown within a few years, according to Robert J. Grant, "boss" of the United States Mints, who was recently on a visit here. The smaller paper dollar bill, soon to be placed in circulation, will accelerate the exit of the silver dollar, and according to Grant, people would rather have two quarters than one 50-cent piece.

"No half dollars have been coined in the East in the last six years," said Grant. "The coinage of of silver dollars almost stopped, too. We did coin between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 silver dollars at San Francisco during the year that ended June 23, last, but that was not many as compared with the amounts coined in former years.

"Two years ago we tried to popularize the use of the silver dollar in the East. We put 10,000,000 silver dollars in circulation, but they were all back in the banks in a few weeks. The people just won't use them and now half dollars are seldom seen in the East, although you will see a few in the West.

"We tried to popularize the silver dollar because it cost the Government less to keep silver money in circulation than it does paper money. It costs three cents year to keep every paper dollar bill in the country in circulation, whereas it cost less than one cent to coin a silver dollar and a silver dollar won't wear and need replaceing as a paper dollar will."

The holiday season is when most currency is needed, according to Mr. Grant. Ninety-five per cent of the money is distributed during the last three months of the year.

The Eastern mints, as a rule, are busier than the Western mints. Ninety per cent of the money in circulation is east of Chicago. Money is usually coined in the section where it will be put in circulation. Transportation of coined money is expensive.

During the past year $120,000,000 of double eagles ($20 gold pieces) was coined at the Philadelphia mint. Most of this gold was exported, between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000 worth going to Argentine alone.

The Denver mint has coined nothing larger than quarters during the past, year, said Grant.

FARMERS ARE GREATEST HUNTERS

The farmer more, perhaps, than the city man, is a hunter, for the man on the farm has more opportunities to hunt, as frequently all he need do is pick up a gun and walk a few hundred yards from the farmhouse to find game. Because of that fact, it is likely that most of the shot-guns owned in the United States are in the hands of rural dwellers.

Further, taking the country as a whole, it is on the farms that most of the game birds and game animals are to be found. But, of course, state-owned lands provide for the enjoyment of shooting by thousands of gunners. Usually, shooting is better on public lands than on the average farm. However, the farm can and should be as good a place for small game, especially birds, as a state-owned tract. Still, the official and unofficial reports disclose that the mortality rate of game on farms is excessively high, owing to lack of control of "vermin"—as the natural enemies of game are called. Absence of necessary cover is also a factor both in mortality of game and in failure to attract wild life to farms. This condition is largely due to the destruction of natural cover by farming operations. These observations are based on the composite opinion of sportsmen in various parts of the country.

Many are of the belief that the situation could be greatly improved by educational efforts along the line of instruction as to the kinds of cover required for various species of game. Concerning the subject of cover, the Department of Agriculture Farmers' Bulletin No. 1521 states:

"The favorite resorts of upland game fowl have long been known as coverts, no doubt on account of their being admirably adapted to covering or concealing the game. Such coverts are usually characterized by an abundance of low but dense and stiff or thorny shrubbery, together with luxuriant growths of grasses and weeds. These plants supply also an important part of the food of the birds.

A good, inexpensive treatment for "dusting," or disintegration of the surface, of indoor concrete floors, which frequently occurs because of poor materials or workmanship, is the application of commercial sodium silicate (water glass). For this purpose the sodium silicate should be diluted, 1 gallon to 4 gallons.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PROBATE OF WILL

THE STATE OF TEXAS,

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Kimble County—Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to cause the following notice to be published in a newspaper of general circulation which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year preceding the date of the notice in the County of Kimble, State of Texas, and you shall cause said notice to be printed at least once each week for three consecutive weeks exclusive of the first day of publication before the return day thereof.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PROBATE OF WILL

THE STATE OF TEXAS,

To all Persons interested in the Estate of T. M. Winslett, deceased. Claribel Winslett has filed in the County Court of Kimble County on the 27th day of September, A. D., 1928, an application for the probate of the last Will and Testament of said T. M. Winslett, deceased, and for letters testamentary (the said Will accompanying said application), which will be heard and acted on at the next Term of said Court, commencing the first Monday in November, A. D. ..1928, same being the 5th day of November, 1928, at the Court House thereof, in the City of Junction, Texas, at which time all persons interested in said Estate may appear and contest said application should they desire to do so.

HEREIN FAIL NOT. But have you then and there before said Court this Writ, with your return thereon endorsed, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at Junction, Texas, this 28th day of September, A. D., 1928.

WELCOME BACK

They can—and usually do—come back. Editors and publishers, we mean. About the hardest of undertakings is to get weaned away from the newspaper business, once one gets acclimated to the smell of ink and paste-pot.

Edgar McLendon found it so, and after trying the mercantile business in Coleman and various undertakings, he has purchased from Judge Weaver Baker the Junction Eagle, and will soon be back in harness again. Mr. McLendon was at one time publisher of the Graham Leader, and sold that paper with the intention of quitting the printing business. His son-in-law, Jas. F. Horton, is publisher of the Eden Echo. He has two sons studying Journalism in Baylor University, one of whom will graduate in June, and who will be actively associated with his father in the Junction Eagle.

Mr. McLendon was in Brady Thursday, anxiously awaiting a let-up in the rain so he could continue on his way to Junction. Before leaving he promised one of his first acts would be to renew his membership in the Texas Press Association, and to make every effort to attend the Golden Anniversary meeting of the association in Mineral Wells next June.

He is a splendid and most likeable gentleman, and we feel sure the citizenship of Junction is fortunate in having him at the head of their newspaper. We extend fraternal greetings and best wishes for success in the undertaking.—Brady Standard.

FACTS ON FAMILY LIFE

Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has made an interesting analysis of family life in America. It shows that behind everything, historically and statistically, there is some economic reason.

For instance, the marriage rate in the country is higher than in the city. The man in the country is not confronted with the cost of living to such a great degree as the man in the city. Also a wife is often essential in the operation of a farm.

The country also has a greater birth rate. In the city, the greater the number of children the greater the cost of maintenance. This is true too in the country, but when the children in the country reach a reasonable age they become producing factors on the farm.

The economic factor enters in largely in divorces, too. There is a heavier divorce rate in cities than in farm districts, Dr. Dublin's figures show. The highest divorce rate, he says, however, is in Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. An analysis of the figures might show that the majority of the divorces in these states come from the towns and larger cities.

However that may be, the survey in the main shows a more domestic state of things in the country than in the city, due to economic forces. In other words, the man in the country has a greater opportunity than the city man to attain those things that men strive for—a happy home, a loving wife, and a family of children—even though he may be comparatively poor.

COLUMBUS

The most heroic story of history—the story of the voyage of Christopher Columbus and the discovery of America—is to be celebrated on October 12. On that day in 1492 when Columbus discovered a new continent, who could have guessed what an important part of the globe that continent would become, containing, as it does, several of the greatest nations in the world.

The story of Columbus in itself is inspiring and magnificent—the story of a brave pioneer who feared no disaster, spared no effort, to prove to his own satisfaction and to the satisfaction of Europe that the world was indeed round. Little honor was paid to Columbus during his life-time; he was jeered and thought crazy; his path was beset with difficulties and dismay, his accomplishments disbelieved, his theories discounted. Yet today his name is held in reverence the world over.

Since the days of Columbus the Eastern and Western worlds are close neighbors; Lindbergh, by spanning the Atlantic in an airplane, showed us how close they really are. In the days of Columbus the way from Europe to America was beset with perils, both real and imaginary, and sailors on comparatively short trips always feared, tremblingly, that they would come to the "edge of the world" and fall off.

Now we do not fear the "edge of the world;" science and improved methods of transportation have destroyed the bugaboos of the past; now a man can talk in one continent, and by radio, be heard across the seas; distance has been demolished—travel has become a pleasure instead of a hazardous undertaking. Yet we still cannot even glimpse the mystery of life, the Divine Purpose of it all—and propably never shall. We know more and more about ourselves—but have no more knowledge than in the past of the workings of Providence. But just as Columbus praised God for his accomplishment, so must we too praise God for the things that have come to pass since the days of Columbus.

Think of brave Columbus! Whitman has sung of him, "old, poor and paralyzed," nevertheless thanking God for His Divine help. We who have not to face the martyrdom of a Columbus, nor encounter the difficulties that he encountered, should not be swayed from the spiritual by the mechanical and scientific discoveries of this age. The Soul of Man is more important than man's accomplishments, important though they be.

FENCE ROWS AS COVERS FOR BIRDS

While a farmer could not be expected to sacrifice considerable tracts for the sake of having game, unless for commercial raising, the Department of Agriculture at Washington, says he can help the game situation by leaving patches of cover on fence rows or provide cover on land not suitable for cultivation because of the character of the soil or other conditions. In the case of cover for grouse, such plants as rose, sumac, blueberry, bearberry, buffaloberry, snow berry, dwarf birch, and alder are recommmended. The ruffed grouse thrives among scrub oak, bayberry, rose, sumac, dwarf birch, alder, poplar, willow, and such fruit-bearing plants as partridge berry, hawthorn, shrubby dogwoods, viburnum, wild grape, mountain ash, blueberry, blackberry and cranberry. Cover of this nature is suited to pheasants also, but it is well to supplement the food supply furnished by these shrubs and trees by planting small grains and legumes as recommended for quail. Brushy ravines, overgrown pastures, or other waste land about farms are much better. Recommendations as to specific kinds of fruit-bearing shrubs attractive to birds and adapted to various parts of the United States are contained in Farmers' Bulletins of the Department of Agriculture, which can be had free by writing to Washington for them.

Can't Read Judge's Mind!

James Davis, known as "Prof. Okon," who was advertised as "master of Egyptian and East Indian science, spiritual advisor, crystal reader and God-gifted seer," was sentenced to serve three years by Judge Smathers.

One of Davis' handbills, shown in court, called "Prof Okon" a mind reader.

"Do you know what is in my mind?" asked the judge.

"No," answered Davis.

"Three years in prison for taking other people's money."

Davis was charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from Negroes to whom he promised wealth if they would consult him.

NEW BANK NOTES DUE ABOUT FIRST OF YEAR

With the advent of 1929, the new size of paper currency, smaller in size than the present bank notes, will be issued by the United States Government. The new size is 6 1-4 by 2 9-16 inches, and has been brought about in the interests of efficiency and economy. But, it will have many other advantages. The new "bills" will have new pictures on their faces and backs; they are printed by the intaglio method from specially-engraved plates, chromium-plated; they will be easier to handle than the present size bank notes; and, they will be more difficult to counterfeit, or alter.

"Once the New Year arrives," said Alvin W. Hall, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, D. C., "tons of the new currency will move out of Washington by truck loads. When the banks request new currency, they will receive the new size, and the old notes will be taken out of circulation as fast as they come in."

The new size and designs of paper money are the result of years of careful planning, investigation and designing. According to Mr. Hall, it is the first "though-out" money in the history of the Government. Heretofore, there has been no harmony, and many more varieties were printed than were necessary.

For example, the old $10 note: Five designs were in circulation. One contained the portrait of A. J. Hendricks; one had the portrait of Michael Hillegas. (Neither men were well known to the public). Another had the portrait of Andrew Jackson; still another had that of William McKinley; the fifth pictured a buffalo with a humped back.

In the new line of bills, all this has been changed. All notes of each denomination will be practically alike. On the $10 note, for example, in place of five different pictures, each note will have the likeness of Alexander Hamilton on one side, and a picture of the Treasury Building on the other side.

The various issues of the notes will have only technical differences—denoting gold, silver, etc.—that are of no special interest to the public in general. These differences will be indicated by certain printed matter on the faces of the bills, and a difference in the seal that is put on after the regular printing has been done.

There are eleven denominations of paper money now in circulation. In the new currency, the $1 note will have the portrait of George Washington as at present. On the back appears "ONE" in large letters, making the note raisers' task difficult. Jefferson's portrait is on the face of the $2 note while an engraving of Monticello is on the back. The new $5 note has the portrait of Lincoln on the face and a picture of the Lincoln Memorial on the back. The $20 note has Andrew Jackson's portrait on the face, and an engraving of the White House on the back. The $50 note has Grant's portrait on the face, and a picture of the Capitol on the back. The $100 note will have the portrait of Benjamin Franklin on the face, and likely, an engraving of Independence Hall on the back.

All the notes up to the $100 bill, and except the $1 note, will have pictures of buildings on their backs, making it hard to pass $1 bills for higher notes by changing numbers. Above $100, the notes have beautiful ornate designs on their backs. The $500 note bears the likeness of McKinley; the $1,000 note has the portrait of Grover Cleveland; the $5,000 note has the portrait of Madison, and the $10,000 note that of Salmon Chase.

LARGE CASH PRIZES OFFERED FOR BEST LETTER

Ten thousand dollars in cash prizes will be awarded for the best letters on "Why It Pays to Buy Chicks from a Hatchery," in the biggest prize contest ever conducted in the poultry industry, according to announcement just made by the International Baby Chick National Campaign headquarters. The contest is open to everyone, particularly farmers and others interested in poultry raising, with the exception of hatchery operators, their employees and families.

A glance at the list of prizes indicates that a new automobile, a trip to Europe, or even new farm equipment is going to be possible for some fortunate contestants, when prize winners are announced about March 31, 1929. First prize in the contest is $5,000; second prize is $2,000; third prize, $1,000; fourth prize, $500; fifth prize, $250; sixth prize, $125; the next ten prizes, $50 each; and the next twenty-five prizes, $25 each.

Contest rules are simple. Letters must not exceed 500 words in length, and must be on the subject, "Why It Pays to Buy Chicks from a Hatchery." The letter should contain the writer's ideas upon the subject, written in simple, straightforward language. All letters must be mailed on or before February 28, 1929, to Contest Editor, Campaign Headquarters, 705 Third National Building, Dayton, Ohio. Original thoughts contained in the letters will determine the winners, rather than excellent writing, the contest committee has announced.

Judges will consist of one prominent hatcheryman, one man from the allied industries, and one representative of the poultry press. These judges will be announced shortly.

Farm families are particularly interested in this prize announcement because of their wide experience with chickens and chick raising. The Baby Chick Committee, representing reliable hatcheries throughout the nation which have united under the slogan "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits," to better the quality of hatchery chicks, inaugurated this contest. They desire to obtain first hand information from poultry raisers as to why hatchery chicks are profitable. A booklet has been prepared, which will be of help to anyone interested in the contest, and may be secured upon written request to campaign headquarters.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION

Two glass measuring cups, one for wet and one for dry ingredients, are a great convenience in cake making.

The notion that it is harmful to eat fish and milk together has no foundation in fact. Think of the many excellent creamed fish dishes, and fish chowders made with milk, that have always been eaten without ill effect.

A small pan that fits into the top of the teakettle has many uses. It serves as a double boiler for small quantities of food to be cooked or reheated, and will be found handy for melting shortening.

Cook spinach for 10 or 15 minutes only, in just the water that clings to the leaves after washing it through several waters. When it begins to get tender, chop it very fine and season with plenty of butter or cream.

It is unnecessary to remove food from a can as soon as it is opened. For a reasonable period the food may safely remain in the can. Transferring it to another container only means another dish to wash. If the can was safe while the food was shut up in it, it is still safe.

Starch does not taste good unless it is well cooked, hence it is advisable to cook cereals until the starchy flavor disappears, but it is no longer considered necessary to cook them for several hours before they are given to children. Many of the package cereals now on the market have already been precooked so that some of them need only a very brief cooking in the double boiler.

When making jelly it is not necessary to heat the sugar before adding it to the fruit juice. The only reason for heating it is to shorten the time of boiling the jelly. If the juice is boiling hot when the sugar is put in, the boiling process will only be checked for a minute or two by the addition of the cold sugar. It is then boiled rapidly until the jelly stage is reached, which should be in from 5 to 10 minutes or even less.

Mildew stains on fabrics when very fresh, may sometimes be washed out with soap and water, or bleached in the sun. The growth of mildew is at first on the surface of materials that have been allowed to become damp, but in a short time these molds penetrate the fiber and injure it, and are almost impossible to eradicate. Soaking the stains in sour milk over night and placing in the sun without rinsing, will sometimes help. Slight stains are sometimes removed by moistening them with lemon juice and salt and placing in the sun. Javelle water, used as a bleach, will take out mildew stains on white cotton or linen but should never be used on silk or wool. Other chemicals are also used at times. Mildew on shoes should be wiped off as soon as detected, and the shoes washed with soap and warm water, and well dried. Stuff the shoes with soft crumpled paper or dry oats, and dry in a warm, but not hot, place.

SHEEP PRICES HIGH

Good yearling ewes have brought in several instances $12 a head on the range, ewe lambs have brought up to $9 a head when sold by the head and have weighed out to $9.50 when sold on the pound basis at $13.50. Mutton lambs have brought as much as 11 1-3 cents a pound, this price being set by Collins Coates. Mixed lambs have been bringing up to $8.

The big delivery season is on today and the lanes throughout the ranch territory are covered with sheep.

Goat delivery time for stuff sold out of the hair will begin at the latter part of the month.

The breeding season for goats began for some ranchmen on September 15, but for some ranchmen goat breeding begins on October 15 or thereabouts. —Sheep and Goat Raisers' Magazine.

The first essential in curing pork is to make sure that the carcass is thoroughly cooled. The center of the hams of freshly killed hogs should be chilled to between 34 and 40 degrees within 24 or 48 hours, at which time the carcass is ready to cut up and put in cure.

GRAND COMMANDER URGES ALL MASONS TO VOTE

Atlantic City, N. J.—Charging that "no Master Mason is worthy of the name or of the honors and privileges which it carries who does not do his part to secure an honest and efficient administration of public affairs," Leon M. Abbott of Boston, Sovereign Grand Commander of the Supreme Council, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, at the 116th annual session of that organization told the delegates that each of the more than 3,000,000 Masons of the United States "should register his convictions at the polls as a Masonic and patriotic duty."

"Every member of the Rite, in our jurisdiction," he continued, "has pledged himself to support and defend the lawful government of his country and to cheerfully conform to its laws. Our constitutional government is one in which the expressed will of the people is sovereign and supreme. There should be a clear and full expression of that will."—Scottish Rite News.

YANKEES OF COLOMBIA

Engineers and builders have climbed high up into the Andes of Colombia, and occasionally the world reads a few lines, or possibly a special article by a writer like Charles S. Hurter concerning the achievements of what he has recently described as "The Yankees of Colombia"—who are building railroads in and over the great mountains, and spanning the streams with steel bridges. At the same time new scenic highways are described by Mr. Hurter as "par excellence of the whole world." Some of these highways connect the Isthmus of Panama and the Continent of South America. One of the new highways will be 300 miles long.

These "Yankees of Colombia" are at the present time completing transportation facilities between Medellin and Antioquia. These regions of Colombia are little known to most of our Americans, but travelers who have taken the West Indies and the Central American cruises on fruit boats have had glimpses of the fine culture life of these ports, and they have been amazed at the attractiveness of the homes, business streets and natural features of Colombia. "There is," as Mr. Hurter has said, "something inspiring in the friendship that an American Yankee instinctively feels toward these Yankees of a sister Republic in the midst of their amazing display of ability to overcome nature and to build in the hills of Colombia a fine modern civilization."

COVERTS FOR GAME BIRDS

As this is "hunting time" throughout a large part of the United States, interest attaches to information furnished by one of the Government departments designed to secure a greater degree of protection for upland game birds. It is pointed out by the Agricultural Department that bobwhites frequently use coverts of rose, alder, bayberry, sumac and blackberry bushes, and dense banks of honeysuckle. These plants furnish food for the birds, but they should be supplemented by others more exclusively adapted for the purpose. The quail is especially fond of mulberries in addition to those previously mentioned. Among valuable seed-bearing plants are Japanese clover, millet, wheat, beggar lice, buckwheat, sorghum, broomcorn, and kafir corn, vetches, cowpeas and any plants of the pea family producing small seeds. These are sown in large quantities in cultivated areas known as feed patches. The seeds of milk pea, hog peanut, wild bean, and smartweeds, are important natural foods of the eastern quail, but their growth should be encouraged only where they will not become weed pests. Western quail are fond of the seeds of sumac, bur clover, alfilaria, lupines, napa thistle, and turkey mullein, but where these plants are likely to become nuisances the food species recommended for the eastern quail will serve. The Hungarian partridge, like the bobwhite, thrives in open country, where often the chief cover is furnished by growing crops, hedges or brushy fence rows. Improved coverts for the bird may be made, however, by planting much as recommended for quail.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

Textile Things

Everyone who has tried to buy "all wool" at "the store" has usually met with difficulty, and the Federal Trade Commission at Washington has been exposing fraudulent claims of merchandise of this kind and trying to correct the abuses resulting from false advertising and dishonest merchandise.

Ruth Ridenour, writing for Liberty magazine, describes how synthetic chemistry has stolen another march on Mother Nature, and she observes that among the twentieth century high spots we have invented machinery to supply our growing needs—which accounts for airplanes designed to surpass eagle's wings, and for weapons of war deadlier than the lion's jaws—and such things. Miss Ridenour says that the chemists worked for 60 years to make silk fiber without the aid of the silk worm. In the end the triumphs of synthetic chemistry was represented in rayon.

It is rather surprising to learn that more cotton dresses were made and sold in the United States during the summer of 1928 than in 1927, but this may show how smartly dressed American women are filling out their wardrobes without cutting down the supply of more expensive garments.

Two piece frocks have not gone out of business as many of them are offered by the best merchants for the early fall and late summer.

Ribbons are striding forward in the fall fashion parade. As trimming one sees them on gowns for evening and sewn fast as braid on daytime frocks, but it is in the realm of millinery that they are greeted with greatest acclaim. Brilliant ribbons made of super-lustrous rayon threads in stripes and plaids interwoven with gold and silver tinsel are very popular.

One of the devices of Dame Fashion for fall is a charming balancing of side draperies on skirts with side jabots on blouses. This type of frock is usually created in soft crepe, satin or georgette.

Broad Uses of Clay

In the poetry of speech the word "clay" is used to describe the earth in general. Shakespeare spoke of Caesar "as dead and turned to clay." The poet Wordsworth wrote, regarding the burial of a man:

"And, without sorrow, will
this ground receive
That venerable clay."

Clay is a kind of soil or a mud produced by the wearing down of rocks. In some of its numerous conditions it is very valuable. It is used in Potters clay, works of art, for building purposes, fire proofing, clay-pipes, Fuller's Earth, and countless other things.

Interesting figures about ordinary clay used for industrial purposes have been supplied by the Government.

The average price of clay sold by producers in the United States in 1927 it seems amounted to $3.56 a ton, and the total output was valued at $13,697,159.

KNOW TEXAS

The Rio Grande Valley claims the four largest mixed vegetable farms in the United States.

Texas has about 450 incorporated cities and towns.

Texas is the fifth or sixth ranking state in minerals produced. Customarily Texas contributes six or seven per cent of the total minerals mined in the United States.

Since 1880 the annual value of mineral production in Texas has increased from about $1,000,000 to some $300,000,000 today.

Kaolin is the most valuable of clays for the manufacture of porcelain pottery. Kaolin exists in large quantities in several Texas counties.

Texas has almost 635,000 telephones, which is four times the number in Austria, four times the number in Belgium, 60 times the number in Bulgaria, 125 times the number in Greece, and only 100,000 less than the number in France although France has seven times the population of Texas.

Junction Trade Notes

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ward of the Sonora section were in Junction Tuesday shopping ranch supplies and getting acquainted. They recently purchased a good-sized range (7000acres) out of the Live Oak pasture and will move onto it before winter. They will have to build first and are now looking for a carpenter.

E. A. McCoy and family returned home Tuesday after a summer recreation around their old home in Brown county. They had headquarters at Mullin.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Brown of London community have sold their ranch-farm, 715 acres, and are prospecting for a smaller place near Junction. Dave Adams purchased the Brown place at a price of $18, it is said. The sale also included goats, $4 for kids and $5 for nannies, out of the wool. Mrs. Brown retained her milk cows and expects to continue supplying the Junction trade with her superior farm butter.

Nice fat mackeral. Gann Grocery Company.

Butter and eggs were scarce in Junction last week due to the extended wet spell. The scarcity reminded N. C. Patterson—who has lived here fifty years or longer—of a time when he and other old settlers were isolated for a week or longer with only crackers as breadstuff.

Seed wheat, seed barley, seed oats. Gann Grocery Company.

L. M. Rathbone killed a three-footed coyote on his range last week; and there is evidence of another coyote on his premises, he said.

W. J. Millican, president of San Saba pecan growers' association, is quoted as saying that about one-eighth of a normal pecan crop will be gathered in the Bend section this season, due to caterpillars stripping the foliage in a way never before known.

New crop dried apricots and peaches in stock. New stock prunes due to arrive this week. Gann Grocery Company.

Riley, Holekamp & Denman have moved their insurance office to the second floor of the new bank building. Mayor Holekamp and the city water works will have office in the new Bissett building when completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sikes of the Divide were shopping ranch supplies in Junction Saturday. They report fine range.

Some local sales of mohair were made Saturday at 62c and 72c. The accumulated sale at Junction Wool Warehouse is expected to be held about the middle of the present month.

ENTERTAINS

Friday evening Mrs. Dorothy Westmoreland entertained the members of the Laf-a-Lot Club and a number of friends with a bridge at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Homer Livingston. Mrs. Aubrey Hill, a recent bride was the guest of honor.

The pink and white tallies bore the likeness of a pretty bride and the appointments carried out the color scheme of pink and white.

After a series of bridge games the club prize, a Maderia linen vanity set, was awarded to Miss Lela Taylor. A similar prize went to Mrs. Lester Hodges, who made high guest score. Mrs. Frank Patterson was consoled with a pretty linen handkerchief. Mrs. Westmoreland then presented the honoree with a basket covered in pink and decorated with sprays of regina corona tied with a white satin bow. To Mrs. Hill's surprise the basket contained many packages of linen from the ladies present.

Pink ice cream and white cake were served and the favors were little pink baskets to which tiny wedding bells were tied. Pink and white mints filled the baskets.

A wedding cake, decorated in pink and white and surmounted with a miniature bride and groom was then brought in. After the honoree cut the first slice the guests followed suit. Miss Lela Taylor cut the ring, Miss Josephine Urban the button, Mrs. P. Joseph the thimble, Mrs. S. A. McDonald the heart and Mrs. C. R. Stevenson the wishbone.

Those present were Misses Lela Taylor, Josephine Urban, Nettie Wright, Mesdames Slator Fleming, P. Joseph, J. M. Livingston, S. A. McDonald, C. R. Stevenson, C. T. Holekamp, Clay Maddux, Clifford Hamer, Rowland Martin, U. D. Kindrick, Guy Wynne, Lester Hodges, Frank Patterson, Carl Wolf, Vann Martin, J. M. Livingston, Ed Allen, Aubrey Hill, Homer Livingston and Dorothy Westmoreland.

JUBILEE PROGRAM

Sunday evening the members of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church gave an interesting and instructive program at the church.

Green, white and yellow, the jubilee colors, were used in the decorations of potted plants and cut flowers.

Fifty years ago the Woman's Missionary Society was organized and this year has been dedicated as the year of golden jubilee. The various talks on the program gave the history of the organization with a brief resume of the great good accomplished since the origin of the society.

Miss Bernice Sutton and Mrs. M. F. Hill rendered two beautiful duets and Mrs. S. A. McDonald read "Gather Us In." Splendid talks were given by Mesdames Roy Blackburn, M. F. Hill, Walter Tinsley, S. P. Bennett and Homer Livingston.

Mrs. W. M. Taylor presented the Jubilee poster and read the poem, "The Torch." The Jubilee Litany was given by Mrs. Joe Bissett, president of the Society. Rev. M. F. Hill read the scripture lesson and also gave an interesting talk. "Our Youth To Thee We Bring" was read by Mrs. A. W. Loeffler.

Girls wearing golden ribbon jubilee badges acted as ushers and also passed the collection baskets. Those in this part of the service were Misses Christine Schraub, Vernelle Tinsley, Annie Laura Braley, Doris Dalton, Madeline Ragland, Stella Bissett, Eula and Lula Motley.

This service, under the direction of Mrs. Ada Dockery, proved an inspiration to all and presented the work of the Woman's Missionary Society to the public in a splendid manner.

The Farmer Furniture Company opened the doors of the new concern Tuesday morning. The place and quality of stock carried would do credit to a city many times the size of Junction. Read their advertisement in this issue.

WILD MONEY

"It is a modern practice to apply the financial yard stick to almost everything we desire to appraise," observed W. C. Henderson, one of the leading officials of the United States Biological Survey, in addressing a convention of the Izaak Walton League of America in New Hampshire. He then proceeded to lay down the financial yard stick in proving his claim that birds and wild game have a direct economic value to the people of every State, even though that value is difficult to measure at the time.

The average citizen is not apt to think of New Hampshire as one of the great game States of the Nation, but nevertheless Mr. Henderson, who is one of the best authorities in the United States, says the annual return to that State through game and birds at $6,500,000, and he divided this economic return by placing the valuations for flesh, fur, and feathers at $400,000; for insect destroying services of birds, $1,500,000; for recreational values, in connection with the general tourist business, $3,000,000, and for returns due to game alone, $100,000 from license fees, and $1,500,000 for general expenditures by hunters. These figures omit reference to values from fish, which are not within the scope of the Biological Survey work. The figures are believed to be conservative.

The same yard stick if applied to conditions in any other State, would show equally advantageous economical advantages.

STEWART GOES TO TRIAL

Colonel Robert W. Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, will be placed on trial in Washington on the charge of perjury, growing out of his testimony given before a Senate Committee last February.

It will be remembered that Stewart was summoned before the bar of the Senate when he refused to answer questions put to him by Senator Walsh, and that he escaped at the last moment by obtaining an order from a Washington judge. This proved to be another case of "out of the frying pan into the fire," as Stewart was placed under arrest and remanded to trial.

Then came John D. Rockefeller, Junior, into the fray, and he, as one of the principal stockholders of the Standard Oil Company demanded the resignation of Stewart as the head of the oil concern.

The case of the Colonel will be watched with interest. Fall, Doheny and Sinclair, who were spattered with the same buckets of dirty grease that defiles Stewart, each secured their acquittals before Washington jurors. Stewart has the same lawyer that got the others off.

You have a standing invitation to visit our repair shop when in trouble of any kind, and you will receive a cordial welcome. Powell Motor Co.

"You Have a Problem—!"

To solve it judgment must be used—you own, or your own in combination with that of others.

Judgment is the highest qualification of the business man. It places him in a position of leadership. It makes one bank better than another, one store more attractive than another for, where judgment is best, there are the best services and the best goods.

But the judgment of many is better than the judgment of one. This is what gives value to organization. In this business we have an organization. Every move is the studied result of a combination of judgments. Sometimes it gives us an advantage in competition; it always keeps us on even terms.

The judgement of this organization is at your service.
