

France And Italy Move Toward New Understanding

Five-Power Peace Pact Appears As Mussolini's Eventual Aim In Event Of Rift With Hitler

ROME, April 20 (AP)—French-Italian conversations are expected tomorrow to go into details of an understanding for peace, advancing another step toward what eventually may become a five-power pact to keep Europe out of war.

Instructions for proceeding with the talks were expected from today's French cabinet meeting, to be given to Charge d'Affaires Jules L. Deland.

Blondel will carry on the negotiations, which it is believed will be completed before France sends a new ambassador here—accredited to King Vittorio Emanuele as emperor of Ethiopia.

France has not had an ambassador to Italy since the Ethiopian conquest because she chose not to acknowledge the conquest by such credentials.

There is hope, both in Italian and French circles, that the negotiations will be completed before the Geneva league meeting early in May. The Spanish government has requested the league council to consider foreign intervention in Spain, an important point in the current negotiations.

Diplomatic quarters here felt the goal of Duce's diplomacy was to weld Italy, Germany, Britain, France and Poland into agreement, to enhance the value to Italy of the Rome-Berlin agreement and to provide a shock absorber if there should result a disaffection with Germany's Fuehrer, Hitler.

Yugoslavia, too?

Diplomats here said Italy also was sounding out Yugoslavia on a military alliance which would, perhaps, be a long-range measure to check any possible German effort to regain Adriatic ports once held by Austria.

While it was expected France and Italy would conclude their agreement before the league sessions, two things stood in the way of an early accord.

One was the visit of the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, to Tirana for the wedding of King Zog on April 27. The other was Fuehrer Hitler's visit to Mussolini, beginning May 2.

The accord is expected to follow in general outline the Italo-British understanding now completed. France likely will ask an exchange of letters, similar to those with Britain on Spain and Africa (pledges to maintain the status quo).

RECAPTURED SOON AFTER LEAVING PEN

HUNTSVILLE, April 20 (AP)—W. W. Stansberry, 23-year-old convict who walked past prison guards here last night, was on his way back to prison today.

Dressed in civilian clothing which he had donned to effect his escape, Stansberry was captured late last night near East Bernard.

The fugitive was surrounded by prison farm dogs after he ran into bushes from an automobile in which he fled. Sheriff Claude Mitchell of Huntsville was returning the youth here. Officers said he would be charged with automobile theft.

SENTENCE UPHELD

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today affirmed a four-year sentence given John E. Parks of Hidalgo county for slaying Frank Beale in a Mercedes inn, April 17, 1935.

The court granted a rehearing and then reversed its previous affirmation of a three-year sentence for B. F. Gay, Navarro county negro, for assault with intent to murder Ernest Cummins.

It said in effect the trial court should have told the jury to consider that Cummins, stabbed by Gay, wielded a club in the altercation which resulted in his death.

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Congress laid aside pressing problems of taxes, relief and national defense for a brief period today to participate in memorial services for members who died in the past year.

Democrats and republicans in the senate joined in paying tribute to the late democratic majority leader, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

Robinson died last July in the midst of one of his greatest legislative battles—the supreme court reorganization plan proposed by President Roosevelt.

House members who died in the last year included:

Representatives Goodwin (R-NY); Connerly (D-Mass); Peyer (D-NY); Hill (D-Okl.); and Kenney (D-NJ).

The company seeks permission to operate unlimited time on a frequency of 1500 kilocycles with power of 100 watts.

TRIES AGAIN

TOM F. HUNTER

HUNTER MAKES FOURTH RACE FOR OFFICE

WICHITA FALLS, April 20 (AP)—Three times loser as gubernatorial candidate, Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls oil man, today had entered the race again as the self-styled champion of the "plain people."

The fiery West Texan, who, in 1934 lost a close runoff battle to Gov. James V. Allred and again met defeat in 1936, announced formally last night after a tour over the state, which, he said, convinced him he should again seek the governor's post.

Entry of Hunter, who votes in the same precinct with Gov. Allred, threw the race into an unpredictable scramble.

Hunter, in announcing, said:

"In 1934 and in 1936 those who believe as I have, found the state machine holding a solid line. We pushed it back just as far in the 1936 primary as we did in the first of 1934. We got just as many votes, and each time, though, we were crippled in scurrilous and couldn't carry through with the ball."

"In 1934 the money wagon ran over us when we couldn't buy stamps, yet convinced the many that we were millionaires. In 1936 we were forced down by the united front of the state machine, the Centennial air and an unfortunate political trade."

"The machine is widely split this year. The ball can now be carried through the line. The people can score. The horses of the old money wagon are collared in the opposite direction. It may hold the tongue but it can't show the mileage."

"My fight for the plain people was not begun lightly. It was sincere. It is true they have bled my brow with their silvered lode; they have chagrined my friends by false propaganda, but they have never broken my course."

MEMORIAL SERVICES
HELD FOR SOLONS
WHO HAVE DIED

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—Congress laid aside pressing problems of taxes, relief and national defense for a brief period today to participate in memorial services for members who died in the past year.

Democrats and republicans in the senate joined in paying tribute to the late democratic majority leader, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas.

Robinson died last July in the midst of one of his greatest legislative battles—the supreme court reorganization plan proposed by President Roosevelt.

EL PASO, April 20 (AP)—A .38-caliber pistol shell and a business card were studied today as possible clues in the slaying of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, near Van Horn three weeks ago.

Mounted troops under Col. J. P. Swift found the items 150 yards from the spot where the Berkeley, Calif., women were tortured and slain.

The troops, on their way to army maneuvers at Balmorhea, made a systematic search of the area.

On the business card was printed the name of a Los Angeles clothing firm. The card and shell were sent to Sheriff Chris Fox of El Paso county, who is in charge of the investigation of the slayings.

Insurgents In New Advances; Japs Win

Franco's Men Shift Offensive, Take More Territory

(By The Associated Press)
Reinforced Japanese armies defeated the Chinese in two battles along the south Shantung front today while the insurgent forces of Generalissimo Francisco Franco made further advances in the northeastern Spanish war zone.

In Position for New Drive
The Japanese said they captured Lini, in southeastern Shantung province, while Chinese admitted losing Hanchang.

Japanese capture of Lini put them in position for a reorganized drive against the vital Lungai railway, China's east-west trunk line.

The intensity of the Japanese offensive indicated Lini was subjected to two days of aerial bombing and constant artillery shelling before the final infantry assault.

In Spain the insurgents, held up by the flooded Ebro river and stubborn government resistance in their campaign against Tortosa, swung their offensive abruptly southward along the Mediterranean coast toward Valencia and Castellon.

12-Mile Advance
General Miguel Aranda's troops advanced 12 miles along an 18-mile front and neared outskirts of Alcala De Chivert, covering almost half the distance from Vinaros to Castellon.

On the central Catalan front the insurgent push on Barcelona was still held up but farther north in the Aran valley region, preventing further escape of trapped government militiamen and sympathizers. A number of towns were taken.

In Zaragoza last night Generalissimo Franco proclaimed the civil war won and called on the government to capitulate. He declared continuance of the war by the government amounted to "doubly criminal resistance" and warned the government future resistance "will be a new sin against you the day you confront our justice."

Tax Revision Suggested To Provide Jobs

Committee On Unemployment Favors Senate Stand

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The senate unemployment committee reported today enactment of senate-approved corporation income and capital gains taxes would be "exceedingly helpful" in making jobs for the nation's 12,000,000 and more unemployed.

At the same time, the committee reported that relief expenditures for 1937-38 aggregated $19,300,000,000 of which $14,200,000,000 came from the federal treasury and $5,100,000,000 from state and local sources.

These taxes, imposing flat rates on corporation income and capital gains, have been approved by business and condemned by the administration.

President Roosevelt has endorsed the house-approved tax bill, which would continue in modified form the present undistributed profits tax on corporations and would provide a sliding scale of rates on capital gains.

More Ammunition
Proponents of the senate tax bill immediately seized upon the report as ammunition for arguments in behalf of the measure.

A joint conference committee seeking to adjust differences between the house and senate measures has become deadlocked, and yesterday recessed until Friday.

The unemployment committee, which held lengthy hearings earlier this year, reported that representatives of major industries made only one specific recommendation—that congress either repeal or modify the existing undistributed profits tax and modify the capital gains law.

The committee said that in view of the present "critical situation," it could make no long-range recommendations for a relief policy. Instead, it said, "reliance must be had for the next several months, and perhaps during the entire fiscal year beginning next July, on the federal, state and local programs now in operation."

MRS. PHARES SEEKS LEGISLATIVE POST

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—Mrs. L. G. Phares, wife of the deceased chief of the state highway patrol, said today she would be a candidate for the legislature on a platform "to make the highways safe, particularly for women and children."

"I will advocate keeping patrolmen on the roads where they belong instead of assigning them to other duties," she said.

Phares, who at the same time said she would not be a candidate for the Texas house, was removed by the public safety commission for "incompetability."

CONTINUED DECLINE
IN STATE DEFICIT

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—The general fund deficit was $11,605,007.44 today when the treasury called for payment of $1,129,848 in warrants issued through Nov. 29, 1937.

The deficit had dropped $188,393 since April 5.

The treasury also called for purchase of Confederate pension warrants, providing they are not discounted, issued through October, 1937, and payment of pension warrants, regardless of discount, through October, 1936. The deficit in the pension fund was $3,750,792.

BUILDING MAY BE MOVED TO PARK

The city is considering moving the barracks building at the high school to the American Business club West Side park, City Manager E. V. Spence said Wednesday.

Vandals have not only destroyed the glass in the windows, said the manager, but have battered out the window frames. Fearing further destruction, the city is planning to move the building away from the school campus.

Italo-British Pact Lauded By FDR

Lends Influence To 'Peace' Aims Of Big Navy Bill

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt's reiteration of his belief in "peaceful negotiations" strengthened the arguments of his senate lieutenants today that the $1,156,000,000 naval expansion program could not be construed as warlike.

"Sympathetic Interest"
Mr. Roosevelt said at his press conference yesterday this government viewed "with sympathetic interest" the new accord reached by Britain and Italy. He refrained, however, from any references to the political conditions which impelled it.

The United States, the president said, "believes in the promotion of world peace through the friendly solution by peaceful negotiations between nations of controversies which may arise between them."

He said the White House had given no opinion on the wisdom of a proposal by Representative Scott (D-Calif.) to have the state department issue a list formally naming international treaty violators. Scott's goal was reported to be an unofficial boycott of Italy, Germany and Japan.

The international note ran through senate discussions of the house-approved bill to authorize an increase of 20 per cent in the navy's strength.

"This program looks large when you consider it by itself," Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the naval committee told reporters, "but when you compare our position with that of other nations it is very meager."

Walsh said many senators were "shocked" when debate developed that the projected increase would not bring this country up to the 5-5-3 ratio once laid down for Britain, the United States and Japan.

The senate approved most committee amendments to the measure yesterday, causing Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the democratic leader, to predict final passage by tomorrow.

But from Senator Nye (R-Ind.) an opponent, came a statement that "we have between 40 and 45 votes against the bill, and we will keep debating it for two weeks or more."

LABOR DISPUTE AT FLINT IS SETTLED

DETROIT, April 20 (AP)—A labor dispute over a United Automobile Workers case collecting drive at Flint seemed settled, at least temporarily, today by the decision of U.A.W. international officers to discontinue morning picket lines, but there was a flurry of violence in Detroit where U.A.W. strikers kept five factories closed.

The Detroit skirmish was at the Michigan Plant Casting company, where 16 policemen broke up a 25-man picket line led by an unidentified man in football headgear. Twenty-five workers entered the plant and the management announced operations were resumed on a curtailed schedule after two days of idleness caused by a strike against a 10 per cent pay cut.

Soviet Halts
Farm Purge

MOSCOW, April 20 (AP)—The soviet purge of collective farmers was ordered stopped today.

An order signed by Joseph Stalin, as secretary of the central committee of the communist party, and Vyacheslav Molotov, chairman of the council of people's commissars, declared much harm had been done by mass expulsions of peasants from farms for trivial reasons on the pretext of purging the farms of hostile elements.

The communist leaders accused provincial officials of bureaucratic highhandedness and warned them they would be tried as criminals unless unwarranted expulsions cease.

Starvation
Quoting of peasants from collective farms meant starvation, the order said, adding that such action only created hostility to the soviet regime.

Two other orders, issued with the apparent intention of inspiring collective farmers to strive for bumper crops, promised them better conditions.

One required that at least 60 per cent of the cash income of farms must be distributed among the farmers. The other ordered tax evasions by individual peasants stopped.

The government found that collective farm boards had been spending funds excessively on buildings and other capital investments, as well as for administrative purposes.

As a result farmers in some provinces failed to receive any cash in 1937. Others received only 28 to 30 per cent of their farms' cash incomes.

This caused peasants to seek work elsewhere, which in turn forced the collective farms to hire workers from outside.

ASKS SUIT TO CLEAR TITLE TO OIL LAND

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred today requested Attorney General William McCraw to immediately file court proceedings to clear the state's title to a 10-mile Wichita river bed tract upon which Land Commissioner William H. McDonald had attempted to renew a lease to the Vennox Oil company.

"I am advised by the railroad commission," the governor said in a letter to McCraw, "that this river bed has now been definitely proved as very productive from the deep sand in the KMA field. At the present time the state's river bed is being drained by four completed oil wells within 350 feet; and there are approximately 12 additional drilling wells or locations within 350 feet of the river bed. Unquestionably, therefore, this lease is now much more valuable than it was even at the time I first demanded its cancellation."

Court Proceedings
"Of course, the state mineral board cannot lease this land advantageously due to the cloud on its title caused by the attempted renewal of the expired lease by the land commissioner. There is an absolute necessity for immediate development of this property. Only way it can be advantageously leased or developed with a clear title, therefore would be through the court. The proceeds could then be impounded pending disposition of the lawsuit."

Assistant Attorney General H. Grady Chandler, in charge of the case, said he had been working on it several days, having been informed of the possibility of drainage.

Chandler said he previously had notified attorneys for the Vennox Oil company that if steps were not taken promptly to protect the riverbed from possibility of drainage, the state would immediately institute necessary proceedings in the case now pending to fully protect the state's rights.

New Phase Of Recovery Is Taken Up

Plans Advanced To Care For More On Relief Rolls

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—President Roosevelt, expanding his recovery drive on still another front, discussed with fiscal advisors today how private utilities could be helped to finance new construction and provide jobs.

He took up the question at a White House conference. Just before he did so Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, indicated in testimony at the capitol that he was preparing to increase the relief load during the first seven months of the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

Appearing before the house appropriations committee to tell how he proposed to use $1,200,000,000 of relief funds requested by the president, Hopkins said this sum would be sufficient to care for 2,800,000 persons until Feb. 1, 1939 or 200,000 more than are now on the rolls.

Giving an idea of the extent of relief expenditures, the senate unemployment committee reported today that from 1933 to 1937 $10,300,000,000 had been spent for this purpose. Of this amount $14,200,000,000 came from the federal treasury while state and local governments contributed $5,100,000,000.

Confers With Jones
The subject of new construction by private utilities was explored by Mr. Roosevelt in a conference with Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, William O. Douglas, chairman of the securities commission and John W. Hanes, member of the S.E.C.

Jones said the R.F.C. under new power granted by congress could assist the utilities through loans or purchase of their bonds after the S.E.C. had approved the issues. The R.F.C. would not buy their stock, however, he said.

"There has been a lot of talk," Jones said, "about utilities not being able to get money, and we want to include them in the little business men."

Jones said the R.F.C. had two or three small applications for loans from utilities now on file, while Douglas asserted some large issues were being discussed but had not reached the application stage.

To Talk With Ford
Meanwhile, treasury and Federal Reserve Board executives, were called together to decide how fast they should pump the $1,400,000,000 devalued gold credit into the lendable resources of the nation's banks.

At Detroit, an informed person said Henry Ford would discuss business conditions with President Roosevelt April 27.

Ford, who has opposed various New Deal policies, was said to have accepted an invitation through G. Hall Roosevelt, the president's brother-in-law, to discuss automobile manufacturing, will be in Washington this week as a guest at the convention of the American Society of News Editors.

Negro Sentenced In Slaying Is Denied Clemency

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—The state pardon board paved the way today for a triple execution at the Huntsville penitentiary early Friday by refusing clemency to Johnnie Banks, Brazoria county negro, convicted of murder of a 13-year-old negro girl.

Barring issuance of one or more stays of execution by Governor James V. Allred, Banks will be electrocuted along with John W. Vaughn, convicted murderer of A. A. Edwards, San Antonio motorcycle officer, and Selene Canedo, accused the extreme penalty in the slaying of Joseph W. Daly of San Antonio.

The governor is empowered to issue one stay of execution regardless of the board's decision.

Bruce W. Bryant, chairman, said the board's stand against clemency for Banks was unanimous. The negro was alleged to have killed Jewel Smith in Brazoria county Aug. 16, 1935.

Pursang Often Aids in Clearing Complexion

Helps Build Red Blood Corpuscles and Tones Up Entire System

How do you know your skin can't be white and beautiful? Why take it for granted that you must look sallow and under-nourished? Perhaps you're simply run-down—as so many people are at this time of year—and need more iron in their blood. We recommend Pursang to you.

Pursang is the product of the McKesson Laboratories, famous in the manufacture of drugs and medicines for more than a century. It is a scientific preparation containing organic compounds of iron and copper. These important elements make Pursang an effective hematinic—a builder of hemoglobin—the substance which makes red blood corpuscles red. In addition, Pursang contains ingredients that stimulate appetite, make you enjoy eating more, and make your food worth more to you.

If lack of iron in your blood is dragging you down—making you feel and look below par—get a bottle of Pursang today.

Spring Symphony With Harmony

Yellow (one of the spring's favorite hues), tobacco brown and black make the color harmony for this Easter ensemble. The dress of flower-printed silk crepe is worn with a fringed girdle in the same colors and is topped by a black wool Tuxedo coat lined with silk to match the dress. The hat is yellow and black straw and the bag patent leather.

READING AND WRITING

"WALT WHITMAN'S POSE," by Esther Shepherd (Harcourt, Brace, $3.75).

A woman named Esther Shepherd has played the Good Gray Poet a nasty trick. Miss Shepherd has found, or believes she has, that Walt Whitman was a plain literary thief.

She calls the book she has written "Walt Whitman's Pose." Whitman himself speaks frequently enough of a secret, and indeed many of us thought this secret was fairly well known, and that it had to do with certain sexual peculiarities rather plainly indicated in the poems. Traubel's book contains very plain references to the secret, which Walt planned to confide to this disciple and did not.

Miss Shepherd got her cut out of a study of Whitman's coined words. She found certain references in the poems which seemed odd in a man who professed contempt for allusions to other languages and cultures in American poetry. One was in the first line of a poem: "O hymen! O hymen! why do you tantalize me thus?"

One day Miss Shepherd found herself in a library asking for a copy of George Sand's "The Countess of Rudolstadt." And in that she found "Hymen, O Hymen!" and other things which convinced her that Whitman's poetry came straight out of the epilogue of Sand's novel, and that not only the ideas and the content of Whitman's poetry were in the epilogue, but even the poet whom Whitman imitated all his life—the poet dressed like a laborer, but with soft white hands. Some of the parallels are startling, some of the inferences even more so.

Miss Shepherd devotes most of her book to a minute discussion of her book to a minute discussion of the matter. She builds a case which satisfies her and quite likely will satisfy many of her readers, if she has many readers. Yet it is a little difficult to see that it all matters. Bach, for example, took not only ideas, but actual themes; not only themes, but whole works by other musicians, and with these materials erected some of the most impressive of his edifices. Whitman may quite well have lifted material from Sand—the real question is whether his use of the material justifies the theft.

Winners Named In Plainview Judging

PLAINVIEW, April 20 (AP)—The Sudan team won first place in judging of all breeds today as vocational agriculture student judging started second day activities of the 11th annual Panhandle-Plains dairy show.

The Claude team won second place. A. Ellis of Sudan was the high individual scorer, with R. B. Dawson of Tulsa second.

Sudan and Claude tied for top honors in Jersey judging. McAdoo was third.

Happy led in Guernsey judging, with Sudan second and Raton, N. M., third.

In Holstein-Friesian judging, Sudan was first, Tulsa second, and Happy third.

Today was Plainview day at the show. Schools and business houses were to close for the afternoon. A rodeo and horse show were to open later today.

The annual banquet and meeting of the dairy association was to be addressed by C. N. Shepardson of the A. and M. dairy department.

NEW HOMES NEEDED, MONEY AVAILABLE, OFFICIAL SAYS

NEW ORLEANS, April 20 (AP)—Ormond E. Loomis, assistant to the chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank board, said today the nation needed 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 new homes and had plenty of money with which to build them. He spoke at the convention of the American Institute of Architects.

The richest field for home construction, he said, was in the smaller cities where the most-needed type of dwelling was the one-family house.

Construction of the houses would create a market of between $6,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 for materials, labor and technical skill, he estimated.

NAZIS CELEBRATE HITLER'S BIRTHDAY

BERLIN, April 20 (AP)—Picked units of the German army paraded before Adolf Hitler today as all Germany celebrated the reichsfuehrer's 49th birthday.

Unparalleled scenes of nationwide rejoicing took place as the German people, still mindful of Hitler's triumphs in accomplishing Austria's union, acclaimed their leader. For the first time Austrian soldiers marched in the birthday parade in Berlin.

The Fuehrer, wearing the simple brown uniform of a naval storm trooper, with nothing to indicate his rank as commander-in-chief except the gold oak leaf in his cap, reviewed the parade from a podium motor trucks and airplanes, cashed before Berlin university's main building.

Kolob, the name of the colorful plateau in Bryce National park, means "next to the throne of God" and was taken from the Mormon book of Abraham.

Impressive Service Held In Memory Of Deceased

Lilies And Cross Form Background For O.E.S. Rites

Easter lilies and an electric cross formed an impressive background for a memorial service of the Order of Eastern Star Tuesday evening at the Masonic hall. The altar was covered with white satin and centered with an open white Bible, and lilies were placed at the foot of the platform.

While Henry Williamson read the memorial service, Mrs. Omar Pitman played softly on the piano and officers placed 10 lighted tapers in individual holders in memory of deceased members of the past year. There were also two floral baskets in memory of other officers.

One white chair was left vacant to signify the loss of the chapter's worthy patron, the late Homer Dunning. Mrs. G. C. Schurman sang "The Vacant Chair" as officers placed arm bouquets of lilies in the chair. Mrs. Schurman, Mrs. Bernard Lamun and Mrs. B. C. Moser sang a trio, "Going Home," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Pitman.

The service was concluded with Mrs. Schurman and Mrs. Lamun singing "The Way of the Cross Leads Home" by the light of only the tapers and electric cross.

Attend Convention

Members of the Friendship class of the First Baptist church attending the state Baptist Sunday school convention at San Angelo Tuesday were Mrs. Charles Houser, Mrs. Hack Wright, Mrs. G. G. Morehead, Mrs. Ervin Daniels, Mrs. Vernon Mason, Mrs. C. L. Lambert, Mrs. Truman Townsend and Mrs. H. Agee.

THE SPORTS PARADE

By HANK HART

The Forsan Continental Oilers are confidently expecting to shatter the local ball crew's defense to "smithereens" Saturday afternoon when the two teams meet in a practice game at the new park but Manager Barnabe may have a way to get around all the left handers the Oilers will bring to town. (There's six of them.)

The right field wall at Baron park is only 350 feet from home plate and an average hitter can expect to drive one that far on occasions provided of course the pitching is right down his alley. Barney has a twirler named Frankie Jacob, though, who doesn't throw the ordinary way. He's a southpaw who was successful with the Moonshiners club last year and who glazes over the possibility of throwing to a southpaw swinger. Then if Jacob fails Barney can always rely on his own arm. He's a wronghand and has been able to waive put hitters away from short fences in the past.

There's a possibility that a ten-foot barrier will be added to the right wall before the Saturday game, forcing a batter to drive a ball 300 feet before he can put it into Sixth street.

Speaking of drives, there is very little likelihood that right-handed home run sluggers will be very successful in the local park. On a clear day the batters are sometimes able to see the left field upright.

Sign work is progressing rapidly on the fence and should be completed within the near future.

Opening Day Ducat Starts Saturday

President Jack Hutcheson has announced that opening day tickets will not go on sale here until Saturday. They will be offered in most of the business houses in town.

The drive for season ticket sales got underway this morning with Dr. F. W. Malone and C. L. Rowe taking charge. Walter Wil-

Meet Barons Saturday—First Practice Game Here Is Postponed

The practice game between the Forsan Continental Oilers and the Big Spring Barons, originally scheduled to be played this afternoon in the West Fifth and San Antonio street park, was postponed until Saturday afternoon, Manager Charles Barnabe announced, due to the fact that the park stands would not have been completed in time for customers to be seated comfortably.

The wiring back of home plate has not been attached and the seats in the grand stand have not been completed but bleacher seats are erect and the field is in good shape for playing.

Plenty of Batting Practice. Barnabe Tuesday ran the team through four hours of strenuous offensive drill, dedicating two hours of that time to batting practice. The 30 odd candidates swung the timber on four or five different trips to the plate.

Pepper games and fielding practice also held the spotlight.

Barnabe, in preparing the outfit for the invasion of the Oilers Saturday, moved to drill his left-handers to toss against the club noted for its left-handers. No less than six of the Oilers' starting lineup swing from the left side of the plate and will be shooting for that short right field wall.

More batting drills were in prospect for the crew today.

Whitt has retired from active competition but he pitched in here last winter and helped train the Golden Gloves fighters. He's putting on a few pounds now which he feels he doesn't need and may go back into heavy training with the local amateur fisticuffs to trim the tonnage.

LINDSTROM TO BE RELEASED

ONTION CITY, N. J., April 20 (AP)—The Hudson Dispatch said today that Freddie Lindstrom, former major league baseball star, would be released by the Jersey City team of the International league because of a recurrence of a back injury.

Lindstrom was attempting a comeback after a two-year layoff.

son and Jimmy Greene are assisting.

Doug Jones, runnerup of the recent Sweetwater golf tournament, was to leave town this morning for Mineral Wells where he will enter an invitational meeting to be held there this weekend.

Obie Bristol may also represent Big Spring at the tournament.

The sensational rise of Sweetwater's Lew Jenkins, who in his last two fights has scored over such veteran campaigners as Jackie Sharkey and Lew Feldman, also brought an old campaigner back to the ring. He is Bobby Clark, veteran middleweight, who fought a Jenkins-Feldman prelin several weeks ago.

Champs Open Season With H. C. Burrus On Mound

The Anderson Devils, managed again this season by Ben Daniel, will open their 1938 campaign tonight on the Mundy diamond when they oppose Ackerly's high school Eagles in a practice game.

Daniel will probably rely on H. C. Burrus to hurl since Bobby Savage is unable to play. L. D. Cunningham may also see action.

Most of last year's crew has returned for play and indications are that the champions of the Mundy league will figure largely in the loop race again.

A MIGHTY HEAVE

President Roosevelt put his all into a herculean heave to open the baseball season in Washington. Connie Mack, Philadelphia owner, is next to the president and Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, enjoys the pitch and the huge crowd on hand.

KURTSINGER SUSPENSION MAY KEEP WAR ADMIRAL FROM RACING 'BISCUIT'

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—The suspension of Jockey Charley Kurtsinger threatens to throw a man-sized monkey wrench into two of racing's biggest events this spring but Kentucky Charlie, the cause of it all, is optimistic.

The Brookmeade stable, Big Heat Charley's contract employer, slapped his wrist with a suspension Monday. Hugh Fontaine, the Brookmeade trainer, thinks it will last for 30 days, which would bar the Flying Dutchman from the Kentucky derby in which he is scheduled to ride Hal Price Headley's Menow.

This does not agitate racing men half as much as the thought that Kurtsinger may not be able to ride War Admiral in the match race with Seabiscuit.

The race is for a paltry $100,000 and of course Belmont park expects to scrape up a few dimes after the race is over May 30, but with Kurtsinger, the Admiral's favorite rider out, will they run off the race? Charles S. Howard, Seabiscuit's owner, has stipulated that Jack (Red) Pollard, the Biscuit's pilot, must be on hand and there is nothing to prevent Sam Riddle from picking up his Admiral and going home if Kurtsinger doesn't get a leg up.

Kurtsinger feels he won't be "grounded" for long. "I think the whole affair will be straightened out in a couple of days," he said last night after a talk with Marshall Cassidy, one of the stewards at Jamaica. News of the suspension broke at Jamaica when the clerk of scales was notified not to accept Kurtsinger as a jockey.

Kurtsinger doesn't believe his offense, running off to Keeneland to ride Menow Friday when Brookmeade wanted him at Jamaica, worthy of such fuss. Jack (Red) Pollard is going pretty far, said he in his soft Kentucky drawl.

Crowell Loser To Finn Heavy

LOS ANGELES, April 20 (AP)—Gunnar Barlund, heavyweight idol of Finland, awaited a crack at some other California favorite today following his bruising 10-round victory over Chuck Crowell of Los Angeles at the Olympic auditorium last night.

With a crowd of more than 10,000 packed into the arena, the durable Finn opened a heavy body bombardment early in the fight, had the green but willing Crowell holding on by the sixth and sank him for an eight count in the eighth with a right to the stomach and a left to the chin.

Crowell matched the Gunnar's aggressiveness with gameness, and received a big ovation at the end, but at no time was he able to keep his foe out of firing range.

Hun Evens Matters By Scoring With Leg Locks

The indoor wrestling season will draw to a close next Tuesday evening, Promoter Herman Fuhrer promised, with a three-bout card. Ladies will be admitted free with a paid admission.

Patrons who paid a visit to the Goliad arena last night were treated to a rare exhibition of home spun wrestling as it was in the days of Gutch. Count Von Bromberg and Soldier Thomas, the main events, were decided hits in their return to the German pulling up even by taking the final two falls and the match. Thomas had previously won over the titled fellow.

The infantryman captured the initial fall with a flying body another and seemed on his way toward a repeater but the Hun slid from his shell and steam rolled his way to the win with a pair of leg locks.

Joe Kopecky outstepped Billy Hall in the semifinal with a couple of flying toe holds to grab off the blue ribbon in that match although the Hollywood flash looked anything but bad in losing. He lacks the knockout punch necessary to square in a victory but he hobbles in a way that gets over with the ringiders.

Geo. Gentry To Attend Confab

Committee Meets To Discuss Eligibility Of Transfers

Officials of the Oil Belt football district are scheduled to attend a meeting in Abilene Saturday to discuss eligibility of transfers within their conference the coming season.

From Big Spring will go George Gentry, secretary of the association, who stated here that he would favor strict observance of a rule forbidding transfers to play within a reasonable amount of time.

The meeting will be held immediately after the regional Inter-scholastic League contests.

Giants' Hitting Is The Talk Of Big League Openings

Yanks' Light Stick Work Surprising

Dix Dean Scheduled To Throw Against Reds Today

By GAYLE TALBOT

Ball-throwing presidents, governors and mayors were back at their appointed tasks today after playing their star roles in the opening day frills and folderols that started off another major league baseball campaign.

Fans totalling just over 200,000 witnessed yesterday's nine flag-LOS ANGELES, April 20 (AP)—Take it from P. K. Wrigley, who backs up his statements with cash, the pitching arm of Dixie Dean is still a winner.

He said so today, at his Catalina Island home, in disclosing new sightings on the deal by which his Chicago Cubs bought Dean from the St. Louis Cardinals for $185,000 and three players.

"We're preparing for a long haul in baseball and felt Dean was the pitcher we needed."

spangled games, marking the general opening of the season after Monday previews at Boston and Washington. This turnout included a banner crowd of 40,000 at the Polo Grounds in New York; 34,000 at Cincinnati and 33,000 for the afternoon half of the Patriot's day program between the New York Yankees and the Red Sox at Boston.

Two outstanding events pointed the gala occasion and had baseball bugs talking today—the rip-roaring batting attack unveiled by Bill Terry's New York Giants in flattening the Boston Bees, 13 to 1, and the continued wet hitting of the world champion Yankees, who collected a total of only seven hits in splitting with the Red Sox.

Plenty of Hitting. It all was very disconcerting. The Giants, picked to fight for the National League pennant with Chicago because of their pitching and tight defense, spilled 16 hits off three Boston pitchers, including three home runs, while Cliff Melton easily held the Bees. The Giants had been hitting that way against Cleveland's crack staff in recent exhibition games, but nobody expected them to keep it up.

On the other hand, the Yankees, famed for their power, continued to look hamstrung with Joe DiMaggio out of their line-up. They won the morning game from Boston, 5 to 3, on a pinch-hit by Red Ruffing in the last inning, but made only five hits.

In the afternoon Jack Wilson and Fritz Ostermiller blanked them 6 to 0, allowing the two-time champions only two safeties. Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey went hitless for the day, and the anger of Owner Jacob Ruppert appeared to mount.

It blazed when he was informed that DiMaggio was willing to compromise on salary if the club would make the first move. "I should say not," he snapped.

Drops Close One. About the only consolation for Yankee followers was the fact that the two clubs supposed to give them their competition, Detroit and Cleveland, also had headaches today. Detroit dropped a tight one to the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 3, and the lowly St. Louis Browns spoiled Oscar Vitt's managerial debut at Cleveland by shelling the great Johnny Allen, 6 to 2.

Roxie Lawson was the losing pitcher, the Sox jumping on him for three runs in the fourth inning. One of the vital hits was by Joe Kuhel, Sox first sacker recently obtained from Washington. Players who figured in the big Detroit-Chicago trade didn't do anything exciting, but Vernon Kennedy, now with Detroit, was slated to pitch against his former White Sox mates today.

In the other American League game, the Washington Senators made it two straight over Philadelphia's Athletics, 9 to 2, as Monte Weaver hurled six-hit ball.

Hard-Earned Win. The Chicago Cubs, with their new $250,000 beauty, Dixie Dean, leading encouragement, came through with a hard-earned 8 to 7 win over Cincinnati to keep pace with the Giants. Rip Collins, Cub first baseman, belted four of his team's 15 hits off three Red pitchers.

Owner Phil Wrigley of the Cubs was scheduled to learn how much pitcher he got for that money today when Dean was Manager Charley Grimm's choice against Cincinnati's Lee Grissom.

Meantime, Dixie's former mates, the Cardinals, started off in that second division to which Bill Terry has assigned them by dropping their opener to Pittsburgh, 4 to 3. Arky Vaughan's home run with one on in the ninth did the dirty work. The revived Brooklynans made Larry MacPhail look good temporarily, at least, by wallopping Philadelphia, 12 to 5. Dolf Camilli hit one of the Dodgers' three home runs against his former comrades.

Budge Defeated

LOS ANGELES, April 20 (AP)—Sidney Wood, Jr., of New York, trying to win back a place on the United States Davis Cup team, advanced another step today after beating J. Donald Budge in a one set exhibition match.

Wood trimmed America's top singles star, 6-7, and made it more impressive by acing the famed red-head for the point set.

COAHOMA BULLDOGS DRILL FOR GAME WITH BILLIES

COAHOMA, April 20—Coach Lloyd Devan prepared his football outfit for an invasion of Garner Friday by running the team through short offensive drills.

Devan has 19 men on which to rely this season and indicated that he would start Dunn, Echols, Collins, Little and Arthur. Selection for the other place has not been made.

The Bulldogs will miss the services of the veteran Ralph Marshall who did not come out for training this season.

In taking up "six-man" football for the first time, Devan is being forced to change his offense, building his drive around Echols and Dunn who will play in the secondary. The Coahomans played 11-man football last year but lack of material led them to join with neighboring schools of the Pioneer School Activities association in taking up the new game.

Anderson Top Money Winner Of ABC Meet

Birk Brothers' Mark Is Written Into Record Books

CHICAGO, April 20 (AP)—They sliced a $198,000 melon today for the money players in America's bowling classic.

Top prize winner when the 38th annual American Bowling Congress ended last night was Knute Anderson, of Moline, Ill. Most of the big money went to mid-westerners. Anderson took $300 in cash, a diamond medal, and the plaudits of the bowling world for topping 746 pins to win the individual championship. His margin of victory was 21 pins.

There were 24,784 keggers after the prize during the 48 days and nights of competition of 40 gleaming drives. The number of alleys and contestants were new A. B. C. highs.

One record score was written into the books. It was the 3,234 count amassed by the Birk Brothers Brewing Co. team of Chicago, a score that topped the nearest competitor by 137 pins and compared with the former record of 3,199 set in 1927 by the Milwaukee Tea Shops. Veteran bowlers figured the new record would be secure for many years.

The victorious team split a $1,000 cash prize in addition to receiving the diamond awards bestowed upon first place winners.

Next year bowlers will seek A. B. C. gold and glory at Cleveland.

Local Boxers Begin To Bear Down For Abilene Invasion April 29

Big Spring's leading group of amateur boxers, who have been working out at the high school for the past week, were due to settle down for a 10-day grind of actual competition this afternoon with Roy Stice and Kid Whittington as tutors.

The local squad will take part in a boxing show in Abilene Friday April 25, against the pick of the Abilene simon-pures.

Red Womack, due to participate in track, is not able to take part in the drills this week but will get down to serious training Monday.

Ellis Reed, crack lightweight, and Johnny Owens, feather, went through the paces yesterday with Whittington with both boys showing to advantage. Reed is punching effectively and has adopted a weaving defense that is very hard to penetrate. Owens is trying an attack of both hands and seemed adept at finding his mark Tuesday.

ESCOBAR IS BEATEN BY MORGAN

DETROIT, April 20 (AP)—At 31, an age when most fighters are ready for a soft cushioned rocking chair, Kayo Morgan (Andre Esposito) today looms as a contender for the bantamweight title now held by Sixto Escobar, of Puerto Rico.

Morgan, who has been campaigning for 15 years, gave Escobar a thorough going over in a 10 round non-title battle here last night but whether he will ever get a championship shot against the Puerto Rican is doubtful.

Although Morgan won the verdict in the ring, he came out on the short end in a dressing room battle after the bout. Escobar cracked his foe on the chin with a right during the unscheduled freelas and X-rays were to be taken today to determine if Morgan's jaw was broken. Escobar charged that a running fire of chatter by Morgan during the bout in the ring included "some insulting remarks."

Lew Brix, Escobar's manager, asserted that "Morgan will never get another shot at the title as long as Escobar is champion."

The fight itself was one-sided with Morgan going in front at the opening gong and staying there to the finish. Escobar was credited with winning only one round by the referee and judges.

East Tex Loop Has Six New Managers

Fast Circuit Hopes To Better Attendance Marks

By the Associated Press

Eight clubs which participated in last year's banner season today open the first "C" East Texas league with six new managers on the rolls.

On opening day of the 140-game schedule Texarkana was camped at Marshall, Tyler at Longview, Palestine at Jacksonville and Kilgore at Henderson.

Only Abe (Pay Day) Miller, Palestine's skipper, and Tommy Robello, Jacksonville manager, were back at "old timers" to see the start of the race. New managers included Doug Taitt at Tyler, Elmer Hall at Henderson, Guy Sturdy at Marshall, Sam Gray at Texarkana, Hal Funk at Longview and Jimmy Dalrymple at Kilgore. The fast "C" loop played to better than a quarter of a million fans last season, Jacksonville topping the list with 40,632 paid admissions. Marshall won the opening day attendance trophy last year but Jacksonville took the pennant. The clubs switch after a two-day stand for opening day ceremonies at other towns.

Invitations Out For Corsicana Golf Tourney

CORSICANA, April 20 (AP)—Invitations for the sixth annual Corsicana invitation golf tournament, May 13-16, were placed in the mails today by W. A. Lang, committee chairman.

Johnny Dawson of Chicago is one of the first to advise he will again compete. There are 350 invitations to be sent throughout Texas and neighboring states. There were 20 entrants last year.

Harry Todd of Dallas is the defending champion.

GARNER V'BALL CHAMP, PLAN TOURNAMENT

Plans were made for the Moore volleyball tournament Tuesday night as teams of the Community volleyball league completed their schedule for the season.

The tourney will probably be held Wednesday evening, April 27, in the Moore gym, Miss Arach Phillips announced.

Garnier clinched the Community crown by defeating the Courthouse team, 15-13, 15-10. The Moore Cowhands defeated Fairview, West Side topped the Moore Independents, Garnier smashed Brown and Fairview lost to South Side in other games played.

PAWSON COMES BACK TO WIN MARATHON

BOSTON, April 20 (AP)—Leslie Pawson of Pawtucket, R. I., who gained his first Boston A. A. marathon fame five years ago when he set the course record of 2:31.1 3-5, today joined the little company of four winners who have "repeated" in the 42-year history of that famous 26-mile, 385-yard race from Hopkinton to Boston.

The 34-year-old playground instructor, who wants a berth on the 1940 U. S. Olympic marathon team, led Pat Dengis of Baltimore by a fifth of a mile, and 178 other rivals by much wider margins, when he plodded to victory through yesterday's heat in 2:35:24 4-5.

Rookies Flash In Nat'l. Loop

Mueller, Rizzo And Slaughter Shine First Day Out

By SID FEDER

(Pitch Hitting for Eddie Bristo)

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Is it true that a "social complex" is bothering the Yankees?... And that the boys aren't putting their minds on their work because of extra-curricular activities, as the grapevine says?... Mike Jacobs figures on stealing some of the headlines today by announcing where the Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong May 30 party will be staged.... You can bet it'll be New York, either in the Polo Grounds or Madison Square Garden bowl.... Jack Dempsey says Joe Louis'll start slipping fast in two years unless he's given lots of action.... Harding Hibbs, a classy looking catching youngster down New Orleans way, might be worth a quick lookover for some big league scout.... Cards had him at Houston, but sent him home after Judge Landis went to work plowing their furrows under....

Hangovers from opening day.... Lucky Lawson wasn't so lucky when the White Sox went to work on the Tigers.... Maybe his horseshoes aren't up from the South yet.... Who said Phil Cavaretta can take Ripper Collins' first base job away on the Cubs?... All the Ripper did yesterday against the Reds was a homer, double, two singles, two runs batted in and three scored.... Giants' fans thought they were in the wrong park when the National leaguers belted Boston for 16 hits, three of 'em homers.... Incidentally, after two days' campaigning, the N.L. leads the American loop 12 homers to eight.... Who said minor league?... Chet Laabs comes up with the year's first pinch-homer, and Clay Bryant, who didn't do much flinging for the Cubs, gets credit for being the first pitcher with a four-bagger.... Rookie first-day flashes: Emmett Mueller, Phila second sacker, homer and single; Johnny Rizzo, Pirates, two for three, and Enos Slaughter, Cardinals, three for five.

DEATH IN CHAIR IS SLATED FOR TWO, PERHAPS A THIRD

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—Whether there will be a triple execution or a double one at the Huntsville penitentiary early Friday remained undetermined today.

Bruce Bryant chairman of the pardon board, said A. R. Ruck, Angleton attorney, would come here today to plead for the life of Johnnie Banks, Brazoria county negro convicted in the slaying of a negro girl.

The board announced yesterday it had decided against clemency for John W. Vaughn, convicted of murder of A. Edwards, San Antonio motorcycle officer, and Selma Canedo, accused the death penalty in the killing of Joseph W. Daly of San Antonio.

Rev. Millican One Of Early Pastors Here

Pioneer West Texas Minister Taken By Death

Death of Rev. L. R. Millican, 85, pioneer minister in West Texas, leaves only one person who recalls the earliest days of the First Baptist church here.

As an itinerant Baptist pastor, Rev. Millican led worship services of the pioneer church in Big Spring. In the congregation was Mrs. Mary Willis, sole surviving charter member of the church.

His passing also broke a deep and lasting friendship between him and Mrs. Willis as pastor and member. So highly did the Willis family regard the pastor that a room was maintained constantly in that home for Rev. Millican.

Brother Millican, as he was known all over West Texas, started out as a mail carrier in Lampasas county in 1868 and followed that occupation for a year before becoming a trail herder. In 1873 he was ordained as a Baptist minister and studied at Baylor, settling later at Independence. The state Baptist convention commissioned him as a missionary pastor and stationed him in the "Sweetwater district," a territory that reached from the Nolan county town over the expanse of wild country as far west as El Paso.

It was on Nov. 13, 1886 that a small group of people prayerfully organized the First Baptist church here. Rev. S. P. Galloway, then pastor, gave way in a short space of time to Brother Millican, who nursed the church through its days of infancy. For three years he served as the pastor, finally going to El Paso to become first pastor of the First Baptist church there.

School Operetta Is Postponed

Presentation of an operetta by the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of the West ward school has been delayed from Thursday until Monday night, school officials said Wednesday.

The school program will be presented then as originally planned, starting at 8 p. m. in the municipal auditorium with a cast of approximately 80 children.

Plot of the operetta centers around the woman who lived in the "Old Shoe," this time a tenement in "Twilight Alley." The public is invited to attend the program Monday.

When the church celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1936, Rev. Millican planned to attend and to stay again in the Willis home. However, he was taken suddenly ill and was unable to come.

HEAVY EARTHQUAKE TOLL IN TURKEY

ANKARA, Turkey, April 20 (AP)—Three hundred persons were killed and 50 villages were shaken to the ground by violent earthquakes in central Anatolia, reports today said. It was feared the total casualties would be much larger when a count of the dead and injured was completed.

The quakes were felt all Tuesday afternoon at Ankara, the capital, and at Konia, Kirshehr and Kayseri.

CORSICANA MAN IS HEAD OF GOOD ROADS ASSN.

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—The Texas Good Roads association headed into a new year of activity today with Lowry Martin, publisher of the Corsicana Sun, as president.

He was elected unanimously yesterday at the annual meeting. Other officers were chosen as follows: Oscar Burton of Tyler, first vice-president; Joe Leonard, publisher of the Gainesville Register, second vice-president; Max Starcke, mayor of Seguin and president of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, third vice-president; Frank C. Gross of San Antonio, secretary and treasurer; C. B. Shorter of San Antonio, financial secretary, and Charles E. Simmons of Austin, public relations manager and editor of the Texas Parade, association publication.

The association urged by resolution continuation of federal financial aid to state highway departments on its present basis of $200,000 annually and, in addition, advocated that a large portion of future emergency appropriations be set aside for highway building.

E. M. Conley, manager of Montgomery Ward, left Wednesday for Albuquerque, N. M., where he will remain for several days on business.

When the EXPERTS Say He Should Do a MAN-SIZED JOB!

Texas truck operators are not asking for bigger trucks. They are asking for sensible regulations permitting them to fill the ones they have, so they can do their shipping job just as safely, but more economically and efficiently than in the past.

Texas is one of only four states in the Union which limits a truck load to 7,000 pounds. The result is: carriers of heavy merchandise must run half loaded, doubling the number of trucks on the road, raising shipping costs to both producer and consumer and severely handicapping interstate commerce.

Much heavier loads may safely be carried—44 other states permit them. The National Safety Council makes a plea, based on studies of technical experts, for uniform legislation providing for loads of 16,000 pounds per AXLE where high pressure pneumatic tires are used and 18,000 pounds per AXLE where low pressure tires are used. Such regulations are considered absolutely safe by the EXPERTS. They are endorsed by such organizations as the U. S. Department of Agriculture, National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, American Association of State Highway Officials, American Motorist Association and a score of others manned by experts who know that highway stresses are ruled by wheel loads and not by gross loads!

The gist of the matter is this: Let's have laws which are big enough to fit the modern trucking industry, which enable it to fill the demands made on it by the commerce of today, which permit shipments with greater economy to both producer and consumer.

Instead of an ill-advised 7,000-lb. load limit law, dictated by the prejudice of an unfriendly competition, which sends a MAN to do a BOY'S WORK—let's have more adequate regulations as recommended by the EXPERTS, which will enable him to do a MAN-SIZED JOB! For the sake of both safety and economy—REPEAL the 7,000-lb. load limit law!

Army Plane May Replace The Mule

New Methods In Supplying Troops Are Tested

BALMORHUA, April 20 (AP)—The U. S. army horse had his day here today while the military career of the pack mule hung in the balance.

Two cavalry outfits, supported by motor trucks and airplanes, clashed over the mountainous terrain of Reeves county in the Big Bend. The objective was this town, designated in the army maneuvers as a "border" stronghold.

Troops under the command of Brig. Gen. Kenyon A. Joyce and Col. L. P. Swift participated in today's engagement for possession of this point. General Kenyon commanded the White army, consisting of the Fifth and Tenth cavalries from Forts Clark, Brown and Ringgold, backed up by artillery. Colonel Swift's Blue forces were made up of troops from the Seventh and Eighth cavalries and part of the 52nd field artillery.

Reconnaissance and rationing was by bombers and trucks, the tactics followed by the Italians in the mountain fastnesses of Ethiopia. The pack mule, long an adjunct of U. S. army mobility in rough country, faces the discard if the horse, supported by the motorized equipment, can meet the test.

The object of the maneuvers is to test all advantages of the proposed streamlined cavalry division.

Carol Again Challenged

New Struggle Another Phase In His Duel With Codreanu

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP Foreign Affairs Writer

NEW YORK, April 20.—Whole-sale arrests in Rumania of pro-Nazi iron guardsmen, charged with plotting against the government, represent just another phase of the remarkable duel for power between the country's two most colorful personalities—King Carol himself, and the fiery chief of the outlawed iron guard, Corneliu Codreanu.

The youthful commoner—always daring and often rash—has challenged his monarch's dictatorship. Curiously enough, it was Codreanu—the "Little of Rumania"—who was mainly responsible for Carol's assumption of absolute power at the end of December.

But the story really starts with Codreanu and not with his majesty. The 28-year-old guardman has been leading an anti-semitic and anti-communistic campaign since his school-days.

Always an exponent of direct action, he has kept himself constantly in the public eye. There is not a fireside in the land that doesn't know his name. Some conjure with it; others speak it with a curse.

Codreanu has a wide-spread reputation of being a very earnest person, irrespective of whether his policies and methods may be considered. Obviously it is hard to defend plotting against the government if there has been such subversive action. His following is considerable, though nobody knows the total.

He has made himself felt as a personality and leader since his youth, many of his disciples having been university students. His activities at the outset were largely anti-semitic.

One of his earliest sensations was in 1924 when he was only 24 years old. He shot and killed the police prefect of Jassy for using great severity in suppressing anti-Jewish student riots. The young chieftain was acquitted, and this increased his following.

In 1934 Codreanu stood trial a second time in connection with assassination—that of Premier Ion Duca. He and 45 of his followers were acquitted, although three youths who were convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment were said to belong to the iron guard.

Codreanu's Pro-German All-Fatherland party (successor to the outlawed iron guard) won third place in the chamber of deputies with 62 seats. Apparently even the Nazi leader himself wasn't prepared for such strong support. He couldn't take advantage of it.

King Carol, however, was quick to interpret the writing on the wall. He realized that the country was heading towards dictatorship—and he took over the job himself, being tired of the failures of past governments.

Carol has staked his dynasty on this dictatorship.

Helium Supply Held Insufficient For Nazi War Use

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The 17,000,000 cubic feet of helium which the state department has approved for sale to Germany, army officials said today, could be of little military usefulness except to inflate observation balloons.

They did not take public issue with Interior Secretary Ickes' reluctance to ship the non-inflammable gas, but expressed doubt any European nation would utilize huge dirigibles in event of war.

Germany asked for the gas for use in the big commercial dirigible built to succeed the Hindenburg, destroyed last year, in an explosion, but Ickes has withheld approval. He said Germany had not given sufficient guarantees the gas would never be used for military purposes. Army experts said Germany's gas control distances are easily—and more effectively—covered by heavy bombers and scouting planes. The Germans abandoned the zeppelin as a war weapon during the last period of the World war.

HE'S LONG JUMPS AHEAD OF MERE "OIL CHANGERS" because

ONLY YOUR MILEAGE MERCHANT OIL-PLATES YOUR ENGINE

$ In this space suppose you'd mark down what you would pay some average "oil-changer" for your indispensable Springtime oil change that the oldest or newest car needs badly right now.

$ In this space then you would mark down just about the same!...which is all you will pay for making the whole great 1938 Springtime TRIPLE-CHANGE...

- the change to Your Mileage Merchant's station
- the change to his Conoco Germ Processed oil
- the change to an OIL-PLATED engine for you

Only the patented Germ Process creates an inlay of lubricant all over the inner engine surfaces—a PLATING of oil that holds as close as any other plating on your car.

Not a chance then, for cylinder walls and other delicate surfaces to drain dry every time you park. Hence not a chance of "dry starts," that can cause more wear than all your jaunts this Summer. And the gauge-stick tells you own eyes that OIL-PLATING is the twin of OIL-MILEAGE! So change to Your Mileage Merchant, Continental Oil Company

THAT FORTY-YEAR AGE LIMIT

There appears to be a myth, strictly of American manufacture by so-called "efficiency experts," to the general effect that after a man gets past the age of 40, he is no longer of use in industry or trade and should be chloroformed and put out of his misery. Just where the "efficiency experts" find justification for the theory that a man past 40 is past the age of usefulness is hard to define, especially so after a survey of the great industrial plants where men by the thousands are employed. It is generally conceded that Henry Ford is a pretty fair business man, and knows how to deal with men employed in his business enterprises (Ford does many things besides make cars) and one of the highest-paid mechanics in his Dearborn plant is past 80 and his hand has not lost its cunning; at least, Ford thinks it has not and he is still at the bench.

A recent interview with Ford conducted by a nationally read magazine cited instance after instance where men past the three score and ten were in responsible positions with no thought of quitting because some "efficiency expert" declares them flotsam after 40. In this connection a successful business man at home, one who has operated and still operates a successful business in which many men are employed recently summed up his ideas on the subject by saying that according to his theory a man did not commence to have mature judgment (in other words, good sense) until he was past the 40-year milestone, and to make his statement stronger he said that a firm or corporation that employed labor should be boycotted if they released trades people or mechanics after they were 40, and a long way beyond that age.

Boycott is an unpleasant word. It does not fit into our scheme of things, but neither does the "efficiency expert" with wild-eyed theories that men and women are no longer useful in industrial or commercial life after they are past the age of 40. Those "efficiency experts" must not be students of history, else they would discover that those who built the foundation upon which our institution of government rests were men long past the 40-year milestone of life. Captains of industry who rose from the ranks to command great industrial forces do not agree with "efficiency experts," and continue to keep employees who, after perhaps half a century of toil, would be placed in a helpless condition if they were dismissed. And in that connection, will someone please define just what an "efficiency expert" really is and how he gets that way?

On The Record

By Dorothy Thompson

(Miss Thompson's column is published as an informational and news feature. Her views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.—Editor's Note.)

RAISING THRESHOLD QUESTIONS

The president's fireside chat was conciliatory in tone, and will be taken by most of us in the spirit in which it was uttered: "Immoderate statements, appeals to prejudice, the creation of 'unkindness' are, indeed, 'offensive' against the whole population of the United States." And "bitterness is never a useful instrument in public affairs."

light. But the president must not confuse his personal enemies with opponents of certain of his policies. It has been the administration's mistake—from the viewpoint of an effort to consolidate the national will—even to confuse opponents of policies with opponents of objectives. The latter objectives of the New Deal have become a part of American thinking. But there is, and there will continue to be, great divergence of opinion as to how these ideals and objectives can be realized.

If we go on the presumption—and I think we may—that what we all want is a great increase in the national income, its more equitable distribution, and greater economic and social stability and security, and that to achieve these ends most of us are willing cheerfully to make considerable personal sacrifice, in the conviction that such sacrifice will pay us, even individually, in the long run, since we do not live in isolation, but as part of a social order, then the question is whether the policies proposed are likely to further that end, or not. That is a matter of analysis and judgment. It is perfectly true "to reach a port, we must sail, not lie at anchor; sail, not drift," but it is also true that to reach a port we must sail in the right direction. You don't get to Southampton if you are headed under full steam for Havana, and the intention of getting to Southampton is not enough. Even the best sailors, with the surest instincts, use charts and a compass.

Therefore, before we can agree upon a program for recovery, we must agree as to the cause of the present depression. The cure has to begin with correct diagnosis.

Now, it would appear that the administration has been faulty, and that this is where the trouble started. The administration still hardens on its theory that in April, 1937, there was overproduction and a danger of inflation. "Fearing just such an event," says the president, "the federal reserve system curtailed banking credit, and the treasury commenced to sterilize gold, as a further brake on what was feared might turn into a runaway inflation."

They did, indeed, and by those measures they started the present depression. Obviously, the measures, on the sale and with the vehemence that they were undertaken, were wrong. And at the time, this column, and a number of other commentators, doubted the wisdom of the measures and predicted what the results would be—this column as long ago as October 18th. While still defending them, the administration, by implication, admits its error, because the new recovery program completely reverses the policy of last spring, and this is the most constructive single thing in the whole program.

The administration lightens the reserve requirements which it unwisely and unnecessarily stiffened, and releases the gold that it unwisely and unnecessarily froze.

As far back as last March and April, liberal economists, among them Mr. Alexander Sachs, who set forth his views in early autumn before the Price Conference of the National Association of Manufacturers, were predicting that radical deflationary monetary measures were fraught with grave dangers.

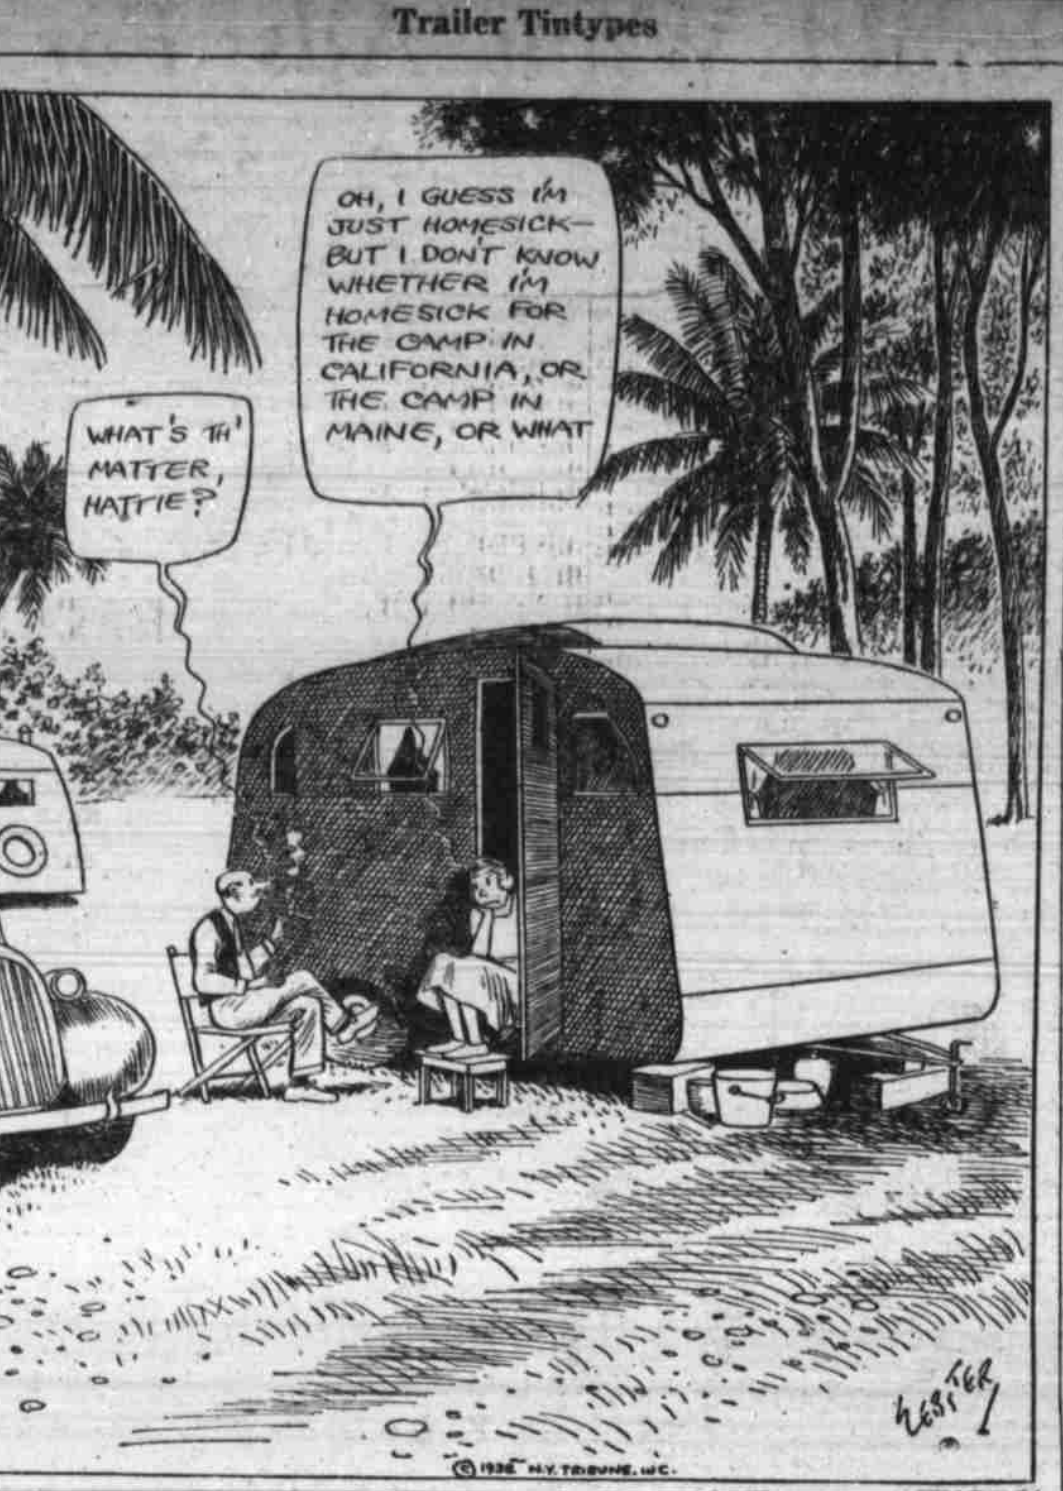

But the government chose to listen to other advisers. So the ship didn't sail. It didn't even drift. It started with great speed in the direction of an iceberg.

And was there overproduction in 1937? And what does the phrase mean? It is very important to ask, because if another recovery starts, and is going happily, in let us say, 1939 and 1940, what assurances have we that the government, still sticking to its present theories, will not again radically reverse the trend?

If the cause of the 1937-38 depression was overproduction, and the same cause accounts for the depression of 1929, then the New Deal turns out to be the same thing as the Old Deal, and Mr. Roosevelt's mistakes the same as Mr. Hoover's. But, since the entire procedure and strategy of government has been very different since 1933 from what they were before, isn't it reasonable to enquire whether this may not be a different kind of depression?

If you enforce sudden and radical deflation, of course you get overproduction. If a man is starved under a regular meal can make him sick.

On every known ground, we have not even begun to take care of the normal demand for new houses. There is one example of flagrant underproduction. But if you deflate and thus unemploy and produce through a squalid misregulation of the stock exchanges a

Certainly, we must spend for relief. But is it a foregone conclusion that we must spend for relief by blanket appropriations to the WPA? Are we never again to question the whole theory of the WPA—which also began as an "emergency" measure? Does work relief prime any pump that the same amount of cash relief would not prime? What is the argument for it? Morale?

When we get a system of unemployment insurance going, the unemployed will get cash, not work. Will that destroy their morale—to live for some months without working? And if so, why are we starting unemployment insurance?

If this is a temporary recession, and we are shortly to begin recovery, can we not give cash relief, for, say, six months in substitution for unemployment insurance, and then see where we are?

And how about training some of the present WPA workers as artisans in the building trades? It is an undisputed fact that if we were to have a big housing boom in this

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

by ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — The camera stands there with an eye that looks at and through you, and the lights blaze around you, and what you do in the next few minutes—your screen test—will determine whether you go into movies or...keep on working.

Would you be nervous? You bet you would. That first screen test is a nightmare, even now, to most of the people who've survived it and gone on to fame.

Fred MacMurray, just a musician, suffered from shaking knees at the big moment. "Just sing," they told him. Now Fred had sung, his six-feet-and-more draped over a piano, and he could still do it, despite that camera and those lights. "But walk around," they said, "give it the old zip and dash." Fred borrowed Bob Hope's hat and cane—Bob was in the same stage show—and with those as props survived.

Gable Told A Story

Bette Davis's first test—made in Brooklyn—began dramatically, with the little lady fainting, which wasn't in the script. When she'd dusted herself off she made the test, but didn't get the job.

"Just walk, turn, smile, act natural," Lionel Barrymore, directing a silent test, told Clark Gable, but Gable's inability to disport his hands made the role command hopeless. The wily Lionel stopped the test, started telling stories, which led Gable to tell one—and Lionel signalled for the camera. Gable's first test showed him spinning a yarn, not acting.

Even in testing, Jimmy Cagney showed his independent spirit. Arrived in Hollywood with a contract, Cagney reported to the studio but the fellow was supposed to see was late. Jimmy wouldn't wait, and when he came back five days later it was too late for a test. He went to work without one.

A Multiple-Tester

About the only test that meant anything to George Brent was the one opposite Ruth Chatterton, whom he was later to marry and divorce. Before that, for several years, Brent had been tested for almost every role that popped up, first at one studio, then at another.

Like Brent, Robert Young was a multiple - tester. Every new girl that came along had Young opposite for her test—but it was the girl's test, not Young's. He made about 150 tests all told—with newcomers and with women stars. It was doubling for Garbo in a test—her gown—that got Karen Morley her own chance.

Man About Manhattan

by GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — It was nice to see Maria De Kammerer again. Eight months is too long a time for so cheerful and pleasant a person to be away from New York. But she is a business woman as well as an artist, and it was good business for her to paint portraits of important people in England and on the continent. Maria was so occupied that she found time only for a fleeting visit to her native Budapest. Then she hurried back to her apartment in East 60th street.

To celebrate her return and to salute an old friend she gave a dinner party for Baroness Lily Hatvany. Very small. Black tie.

There were Hungarian foods, and Elizabeth Arden was there, and Fredric March came in a business suit with a blue shirt and tie. He was, he explained, hurrying off to Syracuse on a midnight train and could not possibly change clothes in time to make his train.

Mrs. March seems even smaller across a dinner table than on the stage. She and her husband may do a new play in a few weeks.

Baroness Hatvany was just back after four months in Hollywood, and she has no exalted opinion of that city of the angels. Some day I must find out, if I can, the Baroness' story. At this moment she is en route to Budapest. She was gay and optimistic, but under the surface you could tell that she was very much worried. The Baroness is an important woman in Budapest. She was a power in court circles. All the papers referred to her as "the beautiful Lily Hatvany." She is the author of innumerable plays, the best known of which perhaps is "Tonight Or Never," in which Helen Gahagan starred. Melvyn Douglas was also in the cast, and he starred in the picture. Then he married Helen and she retired from the theater.

Among the canvases in Maria's studio is one of Libby Holman's little boy, a forthright little fellow with blue eyes and curly golden hair, high forehead and eyes filled with an inquisitive wonder. He looks like a young prince out of a story book, one of the handsomest children I ever saw.

In the studio also was a portrait of Mrs. March and her two children, but Miss De Kammerer had that out of sight, as the Marches were there, and she thought perhaps it might embarrass them for guests to be commenting on it in their presence.

March is very much sold on Bermuda, but wouldn't be caught dead in Tahiti. He wouldn't have missed going there, however. He spent a lot of time traveling through the South Seas and while there ran into Nordoff, who collaborated with Hall on "Mutiny on the Bounty" and the other Bounty books.

In all, it was one of the pleasantest evenings I remember. Everybody had something interesting to say. And now I must drop Miss De Kammerer a little note and tell her what a nice time I had. And asked her not to stay away so long when she goes painting in England again.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

Chapter 32 THE END OR THE BEGINNING?

Moving hastily about the dim, fragrant bedroom, picking up small garments, comb, brush, her faded blue linen—flinging them all into the open bag, Judith tried vainly to down her growing resentment. Why couldn't he have left her here to this white bath, to these firm smooth beds, to comfort for just one night?

Judith shut her ears to common sense. Reuben was sulking. Jealous of her comfort. A dog in the manger. Because he had failed to provide all this himself. Her nerves were still quivering, her pulses not quite steady.

The tent at plot 16 was dark as Egypt under its pine-tree. Neither Judith nor Gary saw the khaki clad figure sitting in the opening.

Bringing the old car to a wobbly halt Gary said: "I don't notice any light in the window to guide the wanderer home."

"Everything is right as a trivet," Judith assured him. "Drive my Rolls back to your place, Gary. You can return it tomorrow."

"I'm having you for the most wonderful evening!" Terribly he wanted to kiss her but he didn't even touch her hand. "Goodnight, Judy."

"Goodnight, Gary!"

He got into the car and rattled away. Judith stood for a moment watching the red tail light disappear, then she turned and went down the slight incline to the tent. A tall figure across a writhlike and filled the opening.

"Reuben!"

At the sight of him her anger burst into a flame that defied suppression. He had been listening, eavesdropping. "Why didn't you pop up sooner, Jack-in-the-box?"

Weariness and black rage tied his tongue. He stepped aside to allow her to enter the tent ahead of him. Judith held back. "You go first and make a light."

Stooping his tall length Reuben went inside. Judith followed, slowly, uncertainly, blinking at the sudden harsh light which Reuben switched on.

For a fleeting second they stood staring, silent—a few yards between them—the width of the world between them. Each knew it was there. Neither tried to span it.

Judith was startlingly aware of a new virility, a new poise about the man who was her husband. His hair, so lately released from the barber's ministrations, had been worried by restless fingers until every hair stood tumbled, vital and dully bronze. His shirt, turned in at the neck, displayed a length of sunburnt throat. It melted his superb shoulders. Shining puttees drew attention to his straight legs.

With effort Judith turned her attention from him to the tent with its taut white sides, it sloping top—deep enough to divide into three rooms.

Useless to pretend interest in the tent, Reuben's masculinity dominated it; filled it to overflowing. This new thing between them, sized and seethed like water too hot and too long confined in steam pipes. An explosion was inevitable.

Dully, but with a mixture of surprise and relief, Judith thought: "This is the end—the end of my marriage."

With cave-man exultance Reuben thought: "This is where I should have started that day before the bishop. This is the beginning."

Their eyes locked in hostile combat. One would go down to defeat. Each watched for the other to make the first move.

Now Or Never

The beginning or the end? They had come to grips with Life, with each other, Judith and Reuben, who until now had so very carefully avoided combat.

Judith, really knowing what she did, picked a piece of wrapping paper from the floor and started to fashion a shade for the electric bulb. "No use to awaken the children."

Reuben made no attempt to steady the swaying light. "I don't believe dynamite could disturb them."

If they had essayed no more conversation all night, have been well. Fate was giving them a chance but they would have none of it. Reuben said: "You drive up!" His tone conveyed resentment.

"I bought Jeff Snow's old car." Her tone conveyed defiance.

"A waste of money. It was not what he meant to say at all."

"It's been so long since I had any you can hardly blame me for not handling it wisely."

This was the kind of thing he could not fight. He felt himself weakening. Felt his anger ebbing. He didn't want it to ooze. He reminded himself that sooner or later one must take life by the horns or be tossed up in the wreckage.

That now or never he must assert himself. She had belittled him publicly—"You were lucky to get here."

"How do you mean—lucky?"

"In that pile of junk." She had let Gary Brent drive it. Let him see their poor makeshift. Let him see the pass to which their marriage had brought her—

"The drive up was pleasant compared to my arrival here."

"Not trying to tell me you didn't enjoy meeting Brent?"

"I was referring to having no place to go. To feeling like a homeless animal." She knew she was being unfair but she kept right on. "You provided no place for me. If it hadn't been for Gary—"

If it hadn't been for Gary! The barked storm of his anger burst in its fury. He could fight now. "And so you accepted the loan of a house."

Judith shrugged: "What's a roof between friends?"

"If you take that attitude—"

"What other one can I take? Where else could I go?" asked Judith reasonably—"a shade too reasonably."

"You could have waited an hour or two until Pike got your tent up. You preferred to humiliate me."

"I didn't give you a thought."

Her frankness was retreating.

What sort of fool do you think I am?

Landslide

Her shrug was more deadly than anything that she said.

"You're going to give me a thought from now on," hotly.

"Yes?" lazily.

"How long do you think you can go on cheapening me?"

"I—? Cheapen YOU? Impossible."

He looked at her—a dark woman in white, with blue bands around her neck—her woman he had put on a pedestal; the woman who could make a mushroom of him—coldly and critically he looked at her and hated her!

All the suppressed resentment that had been seething against her since his wedding day took fire. Every angry smile and uplifted eyebrow; every veiled sneer; every real or imagined condescension clamored for outlet, for retaliation. It was like the beginning of a landslide—rocks, trees, houses, grass, earth—all being loosened, seeping and tumbling down a vast mountain, colliding violently one with the other, swept by the hurricane of his rage. "Cheapening me to Brent—"

Her laughter scorched like hot lava spit from a volcano: "You over rate your importance."

"You over rate yours. You're a woodman's wife," he gloated, "just a woodman's wife."

"Need you remind me?"

"Yes. When you accept favors I can't return—"

"No one expects you to return them."

"So?" If her eyes had not been so contemptuous—"As Brent's wife you'd have perfect right to one of those cabins. It's too bad you didn't marry him before I came along."

"He didn't want me—then."

"You're trying to tell me?"

"It may not be too late." Mad beyond all power of reasoning.

"Ah!" The white sides of the tent seemed inadequate to hold his rage. Any second now it would rent those walls, go billowing through the forest. Unconsciously he came a step nearer. The manila paper shaded light threw a brownish shadow upon his face. From the copper gleam in his eyes, the sardonic twist to his lips, it might have belonged to the Prince of Darkness himself; "I might have known—"

"What?"

"That for all your high faluting trying to live by your blasted code. You need to hear the truth. You still have what you bargained for—house, boxwood, all your mother's grandeur—but you're squirming out of your bargain—crying for the moon! You've not a thought beyond yourself, your pride! Well—I have a card word of pride myself, but you've never suspected or respected it. You've never even suspected I might be human!"

'Big Jim' As Excited As A Horned Toad Can Get, Over His Air Jaunt Across The Nation And Return

"Big Jim" may not have looked like anybody else at the airport in a traveling suit which fit as tight as the hide, but he was excited like everybody else taking their first trip via air as he boarded an airliner yesterday afternoon at 4:38 o'clock for an 8,250 mile trip to Dallas, New Orleans, Memphis, Miami, Charlotte, (N. C.), Washington, D. C., New York, Detroit, St. Louis, St. Paul, Salt Lake City, Seattle, San Francisco, Phoenix and back home.

He rode calmly enough to the airport with friends but the minute he spied an apparent silver bird soaring toward the ground, he figured it was up to no good and actually went 'round and 'round. But when his guardian, Postmaster Nat Shick, presented him to the snappy stewardess—Ahem! things did begin to look up. He became more composed, and though he is a very non-committal sort, his facial expression seem to say, "This is going to make being up in the air an unexpected pleasure." He posed for a picture with his new guardian and both seemed quite well pleased.

"Big Jim" would never have been able to travel so light had he been a feminine. But as it was he only carried one pack and it was on his back. He didn't even have the proverbial American toothbrush, but under the travel set-up he didn't figure even that would be necessary.

In case you haven't guessed, "Big Jim" is a West Texas horned toad being sent to fifteen points on the airmail map in the United States by Shick as a novel advertising stunt for National Airmail week which is April 15-21. The pack, attached to the cage in which the toad is traveling, contains letters to fifteen postmasters along the route who are to follow instructions and send him on his way as quickly as possible. There is a space on the outside of each envelope for autographing. Miss Pat Mullally, stewardess, and Homer Rader, pilot, were the first to autograph in it yesterday. Rader has figured in a lot of other "firsts" in Big Spring considering the fact he was the first pilot to bring an airliner here, first to make the westbound stop, and now the first pilot to carry the toad.

The postmaster says Big Jim will be back before he gets hungry if the schedule goes through. It is estimated he will be back within a week or ten days. If the letters and "Big Jim" arrive home in tip-top shape, both are to be exhibited in the lobby of the postoffice.

ASSERT WAGE-HOUR BILL WOULD BE HELD INVALID

WASHINGTON, April 20 (UP)—A minority of the house labor committee, criticizing the revised wage-hour bill as "arbitrary and discriminatory," predicted today the supreme court would invalidate it if it became law.

Representative Ramapack (D-Ga.) issued the dissenting report. The new measure would provide for a graduated minimum wage starting at 25 cents an hour and increasing to 40 cents at the end of three years. Work hours would drop from 44 to 40 a week in two years.

The Ramapack report said that while it may be contended the revised bill is not discriminatory because it provides for uniform wages and hours, "when these figures are translated into actual wages in terms of what the dollars will buy, it will be found that the proposal does not provide uniformity in that respect."

Insurance Meeting
Slated Saturday

Big Spring district of the American National Insurance company is scheduled for a meeting here beginning Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock with a general staff gathering and climaxed with a banquet and dance Saturday night at the Settles hotel.

The meeting is the result of a twelve weeks agency contest and the winners are to be announced at the banquet, when C. C. Born, agency organizer of Lubbock, acts as master of ceremonies.

Earl L. Pallard, division superintendent of Lubbock, is to be a special guest as well as a home office official of Galveston. Towns included in this district are Midland, Odessa, Pecos, Monahans, Kermit, Wink, Fort Stockton, McCombs, Rankin and Big Spring.

Guests are expected from division offices at Lubbock, El Paso, Sweetwater and San Angelo.

CHARGES FILED

Students To Have Special Rate For
Tom Mix Show

Arrangements may be made, it was indicated Wednesday, for school pupils to see the afternoon performance of the Tom Mix circus, which will play in the city Friday. The popular cowboy star, his horse, Tony, and a large array of entertainers will be on hand at the Read showgrounds on West Third for afternoon and night performances Friday.

No regular holiday will be given school authorities said, but some program of early class dismissal may be worked out. The circus will have a special matinee rate to school children.

Tom Mix personally directs the show program and introduces scores of big-time circus acts, many of them being presented in this section for the first time.

Excellent horsemen, rifle and pistol shots, champion whip-crackers, aerialists, acrobats, wire artists, bare-back riders, wild animal trainers and other entertainers make up the Mix show.

RECREATIONAL MEN TO CONVENE HERE

Recreational directors in towns of the San Angelo WPA district will convene here April 30 for a district conference. H. F. Malone, local recreational director, said Wednesday.

William McCall, San Angelo, district recreational director, will preside. Discussions will be led by Jim C. Edwards, Abilene, James F. Houlihan, Sweetwater, Grace E. Wilhoit, Coleman, H. F. Malone, Big Spring, and Janet Pilcher, San Angelo. The conference is one of a series of monthly meetings.

1,500 CCC CAMPS
TO BE OPERATED

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The Civilian Conservation Corps will operate 1,501 camps for another year, Director Robert Fechner said today, as a result of congressional approval of an additional $50,000,000 appropriation.

"The new funds," Fechner said, "will mean that we do not have to cut off 301 camps as previously ordered, and that we can proceed with an uninterrupted program."

The extra money, requested by President Roosevelt in his new recovery program, was authorized by the senate yesterday. The house previously had voted for it.

The camps, Fechner said, will be continued in their present locations with the exception of 31, which will be moved from army reservations to other sites.

MASONIC MEETING

The Royal Arch degree will be conferred Thursday in the Masonic hall, leaders of the order announced Wednesday. The session will start with dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the hall, Lee Porter, secretary, said. All members are urged to attend.

INJURED IN CRASH

Three persons injured in a head-on collision a mile west of Morita Tuesday afternoon were given emergency treatment at the Big Spring hospital and discharged.

A couple, whose name could not be learned immediately, was brought to the hospital in an Eberly ambulance. The two were reported to be from Iowa. The third party was a nurse from South Dakota, injured slightly.

New Trend Of
Snyder Pool
Studied

Moore Bros. 3-A
Carries Oil; Another
To Shoot

Two developments in the Snyder pool Wednesday stirred some speculation as to the trend of the pool toward the Howard-Glasscock area.

Moore Bros. No. 3-A Snyder, 2,310 feet from the west and 1,650 feet from the south lines of section 28-30-1a, T&P, carried 100 feet of oil in the hole at 2,622 feet in lime, having encountered its first show at 2,588 feet. The test is north and slightly west of the pool's heaviest producers in the southwest corner of the southwest quarter of the section.

Austin Taylor (John Moore, Agt) No. 1 W. P. Edwards, 2,310 feet from the west and 990 feet from the north lines of section 44-30-1a, T&P, two miles south and west from the No. 3-A Snyder, was preparing to shoot with approximately 600 quarts at 3,000 feet. The outpost test reported as such heavy shows as in the Snyder area.

1,600 Feet Of Oil
Magnolia No. 4 O'Daniel, 2,310 feet from the west and 1,650 feet from the north lines of section 34-30-1a, T&P, west offset to the east-most test in the Snyder area, drilled Wednesday to 2,750 feet with 1,000 feet of oil in the hole.

Moore Bros. No. 1-A O'Daniel, 2,310 feet from the south and 330 feet from the west lines of the same section, was past 2,622 feet.

Moore Bros. No. 7-TXL, 2,310 feet from the east and 330 feet from the north lines of section 33-30-1a, T&P, was at 2,600 feet and Moore Bros. No. 5-TXL, one location to the east, was past 1,000 feet. Ajax No. 1 Snyder and Sun No. 4 Snyder, both in section 28, were pumping, the former previously having been reported erroneously to have been testing.

Other Tests

Moore Bros. No. 1-B-TXL, 1,650 feet from the west and 2,310 feet from the south lines of section 33-30-1a, T&P, drilled to 780 feet, and Moore Bros. No. 1-D-TXL, in the northeast quarter of section 41, drilled to 1,000 feet with rotary in little better than 20 hours.

H. L. Hyman No. 1 Scott (Hyman), 330 feet out of the northeast corner of section 36-29, W&NW, drilled to 2,500 feet. Cosden-Kahn No. 1 Hyman, in section 37-29, W&NW, was reported to have resumed drilling after being shut down for several weeks at 544 feet.

The Texas Co. No. 1 H. H. Williams, widest test, eight miles west of Big Spring, struck salt water from 2,940-46 feet and it rose 200 feet in 10 minutes. The test was running eight-inch casing to 2,950 feet. Location is 330 feet from the north and 904 feet from the west lines of section 32-34-1a, T&P.

Cornstalks Cited
As New Source Of Many Products

DALLAS, April 20 (AP)—Cornstalks will soon outdo coal in furnishing one of the new and fastest growing businesses of the United States with its raw materials, the American Chemical Society was informed today.

The raw material is "phenol." The new business is synthetic resins, which means making imitation tortoise and other expensive decorative materials, brilliantly colored toilet articles, costume fittings, table dishes of all sorts, auto parts, radio set boxes and literally hundreds of other articles of trade.

Cornstalks can supply eight times as much of these phenols as the coal tars from which they are now extracted, said G. Leon Bridger of the chemical engineering department, of Iowa State college.

In addition the phenols from the corn will make perfumes, flavors, dyes and drugs and more of them than the coal tars.

The phenols come from the lignin, the woody part of the corn stalks. One-third of corn is lignin. Most wood is only one-quarter lignin. The coal got the same lignin millions of years ago when it was growing trees.

To make cornstalk perfumery and dyes commercial, Mr. Bridger said it will be necessary to perfect cheaper methods of extracting its lignin, and that this appears possible.

PHYSICIANS OF AREA
WILL GATHER HERE

Physicians from several surrounding towns are expected here Thursday evening for a meeting of the Six County Medical Society at the Settles hotel at 8 p. m.

Special subject motion pictures will be shown and Dr. P. W. Malone, Big Spring, will read a paper before the local society that he is scheduled to deliver subsequently before the state society.

Dr. R. B. G. Cowper, Big Spring, will preside. Dr. Frank Boyle, Big Spring, is secretary of the organization.

AWARDS TO SCOUTS

Awards were presented to five Boy Scouts in a court of honor session Tuesday evening at the high school.

Merit badge awards went to Billy Koons, Grover Cunningham, and Edward Fisher. Second class badges were presented to Charles Berger and Raymond Winn. W. C. Blankenship, assisted by Mrs. Edmund Berger and Mrs. Amabelle Lovelace.

ARABS KILLED

JERUSALEM, April 20 (AP)—British troops and airplanes today killed five members of a large Arab band which authorities held responsible for an attack on a police post last night in which an Arab constable was killed.

Old Residence, One Of Landmarks, Is Demolished

Another of Big Spring's old landmarks is on its way out.

The two story gray house erected by W. A. Matthis, T&P conductor, about 1891 is being demolished by J. Y. Robb, owner of the property at 402 Runnels street.

When erected by Matthis and wife, it was second in quality and beauty only to the Bauer home, destroyed here last month by flames.

The house was of sturdy construction with fine lumber throughout. Much of it was fashioned with the old square nails. The interior lumber and finishings are said by some to be better lumber than much of similar type that can be bought today.

When Matthis moved to El Paso, he rented the house. Later he sold it to J. A. Pickle, who in turn sold it to J. Y. Robb. Matthis now lives in Fort Worth, according to reports, having gone there to live with relatives following the death of his second wife.

Texas Shares Well
In Govt. Funds

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The federal government spent $716,694,489 in Texas during the Roosevelt administration from its inauguration, March 4, 1933, to January 1, 1938.

In only three other states were more federal funds spent than in Texas. New York led with $1,665,484,374, followed by Pennsylvania, Illinois and Texas in the order named.

The figures were cited by Senate Majority Leader Barkley to show that the administration had followed the Jeffersonian doctrine of uniting "in common efforts for the common good."

BROTHERS MAKE BOND

LAREDO, April 20 (AP)—Thomas J. and William B. Dix, brothers, made bonds today on state indictments charging an alleged conspiracy to defraud two Laredo banks with counterfeit A&T bonds.

Thomas J. was released from jail; William B. was no longer held under guard at a hospital where he was ill.

No bond had been provided for Carl Silver and H. C. Kerr, indicted on similar charges with the Dix brothers. Trial has been set for the June term of district court here.

MINERS KILLED

CRAIGHANK, Ayrshire, Scotland, April 20 (AP)—Four miners were killed and 22 injured today when six coal wagons broke loose and sped down an inclined road to a crash at the new Cunnock coal mine.

CAMPAIGN MANAGER

DALLAS, April 20 (AP)—George Sergeant, former mayor of Dallas, will manage Karl A. Crowley's campaign for the governorship of Texas.

Crowley, who resigned as solicitor for the post office department to make the race, said headquarters would be opened here Monday.
