

Mrs. Wooldridge, County Resident 45 Years, Dies

Mrs. Leslie Wooldridge, who came here 45 years ago, died Saturday, July 19, in St. Joseph's Hospital. She had suffered from a heart ailment since May 1957.

Funeral services were held at First Methodist Church Sunday at 3 p. m., with the Rev. Frank Weir and the Rev. J. F. Michael officiating.

Pall bearers were Velman Warrick, Lawrence Warrick, Ernest Nunneley, Elmer Hiett, Dick Judd and Carl Estes. Burial was in the North Wellington cemetery under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

Mrs. Wooldridge had been a member of the Methodist Church since early in life, and active in its work throughout the time she lived here. It was only in recent months that she had been unable to participate in its activities.

She was born Lillian Ethel Burt, daughter of J. W. and Wilma Burt, in Paden, Mississippi, August 31, 1884. She was still young when the family moved westward into the Indian Territory.

She and Mr. Wooldridge were married August 25, 1912, in Hollis, and made their home at Martha for the following year, until they moved to Wellington.

Mrs. Wooldridge is survived by her husband, and three sons: Lloyd Wooldridge and Grant Wooldridge of Wellington and Ray Wooldridge of Liberal, Kansas. Other survivors are two sisters and three brothers: Mrs. Ruth Logan and Estes Burt of Ron, Oklahoma; Mrs. Carrie Tucker of Hollis; Arthur Burt of Mangum; and Ralph Burt of Guy, Ark. There are five grandchildren.

Mrs. J. L. Burt of Wellington is a sister-in-law.

County Gets Up to Three Inches of Moisture

Up to three inches of moisture fell in the county in three rains from Friday, July 18, through Tuesday, July 22, with the heavier amounts scattered in various communities.

Wellington received 1.59 inches during the period: .14 on Saturday night, 1.43 Sunday night and .02 Tuesday night, T. H. Franklin, Weather Bureau reporter said.

At Dodson, 1.8 inches was reported, and Truitt Holland, three miles northwest of that town, received 2.1 inches for the period.

Rain was heavier at Fresno, where Frank Roberts had three inches, J. B. Killian reported two and a half inches, and John Jackson had 2.1 inches.

Harris Royal, living nearer to Elley, received 1.6 inches.

The Bean Hill area had 1.2 inches.

At Quail, Ira Morgan reported from 2 to 2.9 inches fell throughout that section, and Frank Coleman of Marelle received 1.5 inches. Better than two inches was reported at Lillie, while Rolla, in the southwest part of the county, measured around three inches.

Reunion Change

Barbecue to Replace Ex-Student Dinner

One major change was made in the program of the 8th Annual Ex-Students reunion August 8 and 9, committees were named and six new directors added in a meeting of present officers and directors Thursday, July 17.

A barbecue will be held at Elison Park this year instead of the annual dinner, and open houses of the individual classes will be eliminated, Jonald Curry, president, announced following the meeting.

The barbecue will give the same visiting opportunities that the open houses formerly have, and also, an open house will be held at the American Legion.

Watermelon supper will be at the park Friday evening; singing and business sessions in the community building.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY HONORS EDITORS

Publishers and members of their families attending the 73rd Annual convention of the National Editorial Association were honored by the Ford Motor Company in Detroit, July 10. Pictured in front of the famous Ford Rotunda, showplace of the auto industry, in Dearborn, Mich., are, left to right, Mrs. Irwin West and Henry Wells, 9, of Wellington, Barbara Berger, 7, Eddie Berger, 10, and their mother, Mrs. Bill Berger, of Hon-do, Texas, and Mrs. Deskins Wells, of Wellington. This group also saw the giant Ford Rouge plant and visited Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum.

Water District Organized to Seek Dam on Salt Fork

Organization of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1, to cover the entire county, was approved by the Commissioners Court Friday, July 18, at a hearing on a petition presented by the Collingsworth County Water Authority.

Immediately after the court entered the order approving the petition, the commissioners named five temporary directors: John Coleman, Morris Wells, George Roberts, Louis Patterson and Gus Gooch. With that action, the county severed its connection with the water control district, which became an independent organization.

The next step is calling a confirmation election, set tentatively for August 23 along with the second primary election, which will give the water district legal status. It will not grant any taxing or bonding power. These will have to come in a separate election.

Judge R. L. Templeton, presiding at the hearing, read the petition and asked if anyone present was opposed to the measure, and no one present spoke in opposition.

A. H. Wolverton, water engineer from Austin, who has worked with the Collingsworth County Water Authority on the project, presented testimony on its feasibility.

Wolverton has picked the tentative dam site on Salt Fork River, which sponsors of the work seek, and which is located eight and one-half miles downstream from Salt Fork River bridge north of town.

The necessity for an early confirmation of the district was explained by Wolverton:

A topographical map will be required for construction of any dam. If the district is confirmed before September 1, it can participate in a program whereby it will have to pay only 5,000 on the cost of a map, with the State paying $5,000 and the federal government $10,000 of the $20,000 mapping cost. McElroy Goes to Needville School

Doyle McElroy, band director in the Wellington school system for two years, has resigned to take a similar position with the Needville high school, 30 miles south of Houston, Supt. Bennett Goodloe announced this year.

At the same time, McElroy announced he is resigning as music director of First Baptist Church, a job he has held for two years also.

Needville, a Class AA school, with a larger enrollment, has three bands, high school, junior high and intermediate. McElroy will have a 73-piece senior band.

He, with Mrs. McElroy and their three-year-old son, Eddy, will remain here until after the Ex-Studebts Homecoming August 9, and he will begin work at Needville August 18.

McElroy had a 55-piece high school band and between 60 and 70 in the junior high band this year. Next year he was to have added an elementary school band composed of fourth and fifth grade students.

McElroy was active in Rotary Club here and Mrs. McElroy in work of the Baptist Church.

Gas Valuations Raised Million and Quarter

The Commissioners Court, sitting as an equalization board Wednesday, July 16, set the 1958 taxable valuation of oil and gas properties in Collingsworth County at $1,722,000, an increase of approximately one and one quarter million dollars above the 1957 valuation.

Most of this increase affects El Paso Natural Gas Company, County Judge R. L. Templeton, who served as spokesman for the court, said.

There was no protest from El Paso or any other company represented at the equalization board meeting, the county judge added. J. Wed Davis and C. T. Wells of Thomas Y. Pickett, valuation engineers, were present to assist the commissioners. This firm had been hired to help the county on oil and gas valuations.

This valuation increase brings the county's total valuation for taxing purposes to "around $10,000,000," Judge Templeton said.

The valuation of El Paso properties was set at $1,375,000. E. N. Majors, representing that company, had presented an inventory which listed the properties at $247,000.

Landowners who have producing wells will be taxed for their one-eighth interest in the value of the well, Judge Templeton pointed out, and owners of overriding royalties also will be taxed.

"All properties were valued on the basis of actual well head sales and the proven potential of each well," Judge Templeton stated, adding that there are now 143 producing wells, and over 100 miles of pipeline. The pipelines were valued according to a formula in general use by counties, the judge said, and for El Paso, this amounts to $182,000. The value of producing wells includes pumping equipment.

"Some wells are valued at as much as $25,000 each and some as little as $3,000," he said.

Regarding the tax on the one-eighth interest held by landowners, Judge Templeton explained that there is a notation on all royalty checks of tax withheld. This tax, he pointed out, is the state severance tax on natural resources and does not apply to the ad valorem tax, which is what the county levies.

"In 1957, $1,000,000 worth of gas was sold out of the El Paso line, and we expect sales in the future to be between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000," Judge Templeton said.

The tax valuation is from 30 to 40 per cent of the actual market value of the gas from the standpoint of well head sales.

The judge said further that $214,000 of the El Paso valuation increase will be in Road District No. 1, and this should enable the county to cut the road district tax. (Continued on back page, Sec. 1)

Work Aimed at 1959

Brock Heads Kid Baseball as National Membership Planned

Ted Brock was named commissioner of baseball in the re-organization of the kid baseball program for the county Thursday evening, July 17. The Rev. Frank Weir was elected assistant commissioner and treasurer.

Six commission members were named, each to be assigned a definite work in the program. They are: Buster Hughes, Mrs. John Coleman, John Ford, James Sullivan, Doug Bergval, and Doc Barjenbruch. Paul Spillman will schedule the games.

This new set up will carry kid baseball for the remainder of this season much as it is, then organize for the 1959 season in compliance with the National Little League Congress. The first year of playing will be a probationary period, and after that, it is hoped that the Wellington teams can try for regional and state competition, Brock said.

Quail is joining the organization, and next year an attempt will be made to have teams at Samnorwood and Dodson.

Brock outlined what participation in the National Little League

Trend to Heavier Voting Seen for Primary Sat.

Mounting interest in politics during the final week before the first primary is due to bring out a heavier vote than was anticipated, L. B. Bratten, county democratic chairman, predicted with the election only three days away.

Absentee voting closed Tuesday, July 22, with 131 votes cast, Betty White, county clerk, said. No candidate for a state office has visited Wellington during the current campaign. Considerable activity developed in the state senator's race as these three candidates have probably given the county more attention than for any other race, and after these visits local workers picked up the campaign.

On the county and precinct level, person to person campaigning has marked all the political races to a greater extent than for some years.

There will be ten voting boxes: South Wellington and North Wellington in the court house; Quail, school; Samnorwood school; Dodson school; Rolla Gin, Lutie Gin; Dozier Gin; Buck Creek, L. W. Hartman Home; and Marelle Store. The regular voting hours of 8 a. m. to 7 p. m. will be observed.

There will be a slight difference in ballots this year, Bratten pointed out. To conform to law, candidates for each precinct will appear only on the ballots of that precinct. For example, ballots used in Precinct 1 will carry the justice of the peace candidates, but not those running for commissioner of precinct 2 and 4. Precinct 2 voters will have ballots carrying the candidates for commissioner, but no other precinct candidates, and the same will apply for Precinct 4.

In Precinct 3 Rolla voters will have ballots carrying only the name of L. A. Davis, candidate for precinct chairman, Rolla Precinct. Voters in the other Precinct 3 boxes will vote on no precinct offices.

Urge Voters to Attend Precinct Conventions Sat.

L. B. Bratten, county Democratic chairman, has urged all voters to attend the precinct conventions Saturday, July 26.

These will be held at 3:30 p. m. and will be at the voting place in each voting precinct.

"If there is much interest in the precinct conventions, I haven't run into it," Bratten declared. "We have no fight between DOT and the Democratic party here, and so we haven't had the interest there has been in most places. Too few people are interested, but I hope we'll get a good turnout."

Delegates to the county convention on August 2 will be elected.

Ray Peebles Critically Hurt

Ray Peebles was critically injured near Alliance, Nebraska, where his custom combine crew is working, Monday, July 21, about 6 p. m., when the pickup in which he was riding was hit broadside by a truck.

Peebles is in the Alliance Hospital with head injuries, and Wednesday at noon he was still unconscious. Doctors planned to make x-rays Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Peebles told his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peebles by phone.

The accident occurred when a truck drove onto the highway from a side road. Peebles was thrown 45 feet from the vehicle into a plowed field. The driver, whose name is not known here, was uninjured.

With Peebles' crew were his son, Kent, and his brother, Rex. His crew also is from Wellington, and Mrs. Peebles said that a number of other crews from here were in the Alliance area. All of them came to the hospital at night to offer their help, Mrs. Peebles said.

Brother of Eli Wolf Killed

Woodrow W. Wolf, 41, brother of Eli Wolf of Wellington, was killed in a mine accident at Benton, Ark., Wednesday, July 16, at 10:30 a. m.

There were no witnesses to the accident, but apparently a shovel car in which he was riding ran under some heavy timber, killing him instantly. He had been working for Reynolds Metal Co., 15 years.

Funeral services were July 18, at First Baptist Church, Benton, and burial was in Rosemont cemetery there.

In addition to his brother here, Mr. Wolf is survived by his wife, Marie; and two children; two brothers and one sister.

Eli Wolf returned here Sunday after attending the funeral.

Wins Dress Review

Ann Ruth Messer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Messer, was winner of the county 4-H Dress Review Friday, July 18, and will represent the county in the district contest in August.

Parents of Leroy Saul Injured

Leroy Saul, candidate for state senator from the 30th district, who was due to have returned to Collingsworth county within a few days, will not be able to return, due to his parents being injured in a car accident Monday, July 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Saul Sr., and Mayor and Mrs. E. H. Denny of Kress were involved in the two-car collision near Tulia, according to W. H. Cocke III of Quail, a friend of Saul.

Mrs. Denny received a fractured arm, and the others had cuts and bruises. They are in the Tulia hospital. Two little girls riding in the other car involved are in an Amarillo hospital with serious pelvic injuries.

Texas Tops in Southern Farm Protection

In the few years since 1951, Texas has moved from seventh to first place among 12 southern states in the amount and enforcement of protective farm legislation.

We have asked for and received from the Texas legislature the necessary weapons to clean up many of our farm problems. Ten years ago, we were a convenient, inviting garbage pail for the nation, serving as a wide-open disposal point for bad seed, unhealthy nursery plants, poor quality eggs and a host of other inferior products.

Until the necessary laws were passed and put into effect, the old saying was "If you can't sell it here, send it to Texas." Now this picture has changed. We can put more trust in our own production and know, too, that farm goods shipped into the state must meet certain standards of quality.

The clean-up of the grain scandals through the Texas Grain Warehouse Law is a case in point. Texas was one of the first states to strengthen grain legislation after the national scandals of 1952, and no major outbreak of public fraud has occurred since that time.

Through the Texas Seed Act, seed buyers have learned that testing and inspection protects them from fraud and deceit which earlier ran rampant.

Our nursery was offered greater protection by the revamping of the Texas Nursery Law in 1953. Strict inspections and impartial enforcement have prevented any major outbreaks of plant diseases and have protected unknowing home-owners from being defrauded my misrepresented stock.

The Texas legislature five years ago approved a modernization plan which gave the Texas Department of Agriculture its first major overhaul in 47 years. As a result, many departmental programs offer greater services and yet are on a self supporting basis, bringing the need for tax money to a bare minimum.

We are now leaders in the South. But we must look to the day when Texas will find its rightful place at the top of all the 48 states in providing protection to producers and consumers alike.

Wind Destroys Gin Seed House

By Mrs. Alex Coleman

The seed house of the Planters Gin was blown several feet off the foundation and demolished Saturday night, July 13, as the storm passed through this community.

Several trees also were broken down and some house-tops damaged.

Man Still Only One Step Ahead Of the Insects

Only by constant fighting has mankind been able to hold his precarious own against the insect hordes that bite and sting him, destroy his food and clothing and home, and sometime inflict horrible death.

Well over a million different insect species have been described from throughout the world, and the list continues to grow at the rate of 6-7,000 new species discovered every year. This country is inhabited by approximately 600 injurious species. Some of these are proven vectors of human diseases.

The vast majority of insects are neutral or indifferent where man is concerned, apparently content to let humanity go its way and, demanding the same privileged. Others are highly beneficial, feeding on noxious weeds or troublesome insects, or pollinating crops. At least 50 different seed and fruit crops would be barren without insect pollinizers.

On the other hand, to fix a price on depredations of harmful insect varieties, you have to re-gear your thinking or risk getting lost in a maze of zeros. Just counting field crops and store grains, they wreck an estimated $4 billion worth of havoc every year in the United States alone.

Flies, fleas, and mosquitoes were, and still are, behind some of the most calamitous scourges the human race has ever faced, including plague, malaria, yellow fever, encephalitis, typhus, dengue fever, and filariasis.

Against this constant threat to human health and welfare, mankind has developed powerful insecticidal sprays and powders. Using them with sensible safety precautions, literally thousands upon thousands of acres of previously untenable land have been opened for human habitation. Their use has also resulted in a marked decrease in the incidence of insect-borne diseases of man and his domestic animals.

The fact that most insecticides are toxic for humans as well as for insects has caused some apprehension. It is true that people who are in close contact with poisonous agents or use them carelessly do run real risks. But there is no concrete evidence to suggest the general population is being insidiously poisoned.

New insecticides are introduced only after extensive experimentation has shown they can meet exacting federal and state requirements. Each label carries detailed instructions for using the product safely. The burden of following those instructions rests with the user.

Insecticides, despite their great value as weapons against insects, are not sufficient by themselves.

They should be used to supplement — not supplant — other control activities, the most important of which is proper personal and community sanitation.

Formal Church Ceremony Unites Miss Hiett and Lynn Jenkins Saturday Eve

Miss Mary Jane Hiett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer P. Hiett, became the bride of Aubrey Lynn Jenkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Jenkins of Wasco, California, in a formal candlelight ceremony in thirteenth and Bowie Street Church of Christ Saturday, July 19, at eight o'clock in the evening.

Minister G. B. Stanley of Olton performed the double ring ceremony.

Centering the altar was a white wrought iron arch, and extending across the area were arrangements of greenery, baskets of white gadioli and candelabras holding lighted white tapers. A white satin kneeling bench completed the arrangement. Lighted white tapers were set in each window along the sides of the church, and pews were marked by satin bows.

Music, sung a capella by a girls chorus from Tipton, Oklahoma, included "Because", "I Love You Truly", "Whither Thou Goest" and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a wedding gown of embroidered nylon organza over taffeta and net. The bodice was made with a scoop neckline edged in embroidered scalloped and long fitted sleeves that came to petal points over her wrists. The bouffant skirt, intermission length at the front, extended into a chapel train, and was edged with a deep border of delicate embroidery. A satin band at the long-torso waist was tied in a bow at the back and streamers fell the full length of the train. A sequin and pearl crown held her fingertip veil, and the bride's bouquet was an orchid surrounded by feathered carnations tied with satin streamers.

Mrs. Elmer Donald Hiett, of Amarillo, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Mary Beth Kelso was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Calvin B. Hiett, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Wanda Lou Shinn of Lubbock and Miss Doris Ann Tharp of Cleburne. The honor attendants wore dresses of ice blue and sky blue cotton satin, while the bridesmaids were in baby blue. They were styled identically with rounding necklines, Juliet sleeves and bouffant street-length skirts, accented at the waist with white silk organza cummerbunds, with long streamers falling in the back. Their head pieces were lace caps fitting with a brief veil. The attendants carried fans laced with blue and white net, centered with blue and white carnations, tied with satin streamers.

Flower girls were Dana Lee Jenkins, niece of the bridegroom, and Amelia Ann Nelson of Big Spring. They had ice blue cotton satin dresses with white organza pinafores, and headpieces of net and ribbons forming circle crowns. Lu Duane Jenkins of Riverdale, California, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Serving his brother as best man was Duane Jenkins, Riverdale, Calif. Head ushers were Elmer Donald Hiett, brother of the bride, of Amarillo, and Kenneth K. Burcham, of Reed, Oklahoma. Groomsmen were Calvin B. Hiett, brother of the bride, and Harlan Smith, of Oklahoma City.

Lighting the candles were Dan Cotter Hiett, brother of the bride, and Mark S. Coleman of Oklahoma City, her cousin.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hiett chose a baby blue lace dress over taffeta, with blue and white accessories. Mrs. Jenkins wore a dress of medium blue lace with white accessories. Both had corsages of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiett were hosts at the reception in the club room of the community building. Miss Barbara Shanks registered the guests.

The bride's table was laid with a white net over taffeta, gathered at the edge and ending with a deep ruffle. Garlands of ivy edged the table, while the bride's bouquet was the centerpiece.

Mrs. Don Hood served the cake and Miss Lu Wertha Hiett of Dallas, cousin of the bride, poured.

As the couple left on their wedding trip to points in Texas and California, the bride wore a midnight blue silk shantung suit, with pleated chemise jacket, accented with a white silk scarf dotted in navy. Her accessories were navy and white and her corsage was an orchid.

The bride was graduated from Wellington high school, where she was a member of the 4-H Club, Future Teachers of America, Future Homemakers of America and the Skyrocket Band. She then attended Abilene Christian College.

The bridegroom was graduated from Wasco high school and received his bachelor of science degree from Oklahoma State University, Stillwater.

He is now employed with the Bank of America in San Francisco.

The couple will make their home in San Leandro, California.

Shower Honors Mrs. Stallings

Mrs. W. T. Stallings of Hollis, Okla., formerly of Wellington, was honored with a surprise pink and blue shower Thursday, July 17, in the home of Mrs. C. O. Wilkerson with Mrs. Bill Miller as co-hostess.

The entertaining room was decorated with a bouquet of crepe myrtle and greenery on a table laid with a cream lace cloth around which the gifts were displayed.

Mrs. Joe Calabrese gave a reading on "The Trip of the Stork".

Those attending were Mmes. J. Phipps, Bula Gentry, Lee Campbell, together of children, grandchild, W. A. Poteet, Betty Thompson, Frank Moore, L. E. Tingle, T. L. Jesse, Inez Vorse, Pasadena, R. L. Campbell of Amarillo and Miss Patsy Wilkerson.

Mrs. Bruce Hite was in Shamrock several days last week with her mother, Mrs. W. W. Perrin, who was in Shamrock hospital. Mrs. Perrin is much improved and returned home with Mrs. Hite to spend a few weeks.

MRS. AUBREY LYNN JENKINS

Miss Mary Hays to Wed Emmett Thornton of Denver in October

Mrs. J. L. Hays has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary Frances Hays, to Emmett Thornton, son of Mrs. Melcena E. Thornton, of LaVeta, Colorado.

The couple will be married October 11, in the home of the bride's mother, 2011 East Avenue. The Rev. W. R. Lawrence of Dalhart, a cousin of the bride, will perform the ceremony.

Miss Hays is a graduate of Wellington high school and is now employed by the City State Bank in Wellington.

Her fiancé received his education at LaVeta and Pueblo, Colorado, and served in the United States Navy.

He is now with the Colorado State Highway Department at Denver, where the couple will live.

Friends Honor Bride Elect

Miss Sherry Bounds, bride-elect of Ernest McNabb, was honored at a kitchen shower recently in the home of Mrs. Mack Bush. Mrs. Dale Ratliff was co-hostess.

A corsage made of miniature kitchen utensils was given the honoree, and after games were played, at which she was winner, the gifts were presented.

Attending were Mmes. Earl Lynn Bartlett and Harold Wayne Moore, and Misses Vada Bell, Mary Lou Sanders, Katherine Sanders, Varue Sweet, Jolene Groves, Ann Johnson, and Cozetta McNabb.

Birthday Party Honors Three

Sue Lester, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pate Lester, and Rosie and Ronnie Baker, twins of Mr. and Mrs. Creed Baker of Quail, were honored with a birthday party, Sunday, July 20, in the Pate Lester home.

Ice cream and cake were served to Mrs. Hubert Baker, Jamie and Kathy, Carol and Keith Crooks, Margie and Virginia Ann Kennedy, Mrs. Ray Brown and Terry, Mrs. Denil Hook and son, Paul, Rosie and Ronnie Baker, Jimmy, Sue, Ronnie, Tommy and Betty Lester and hostess, Mrs. Pate Lester and Mrs. Baker.

Surprise Event Honors Langleys

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Langley who have just recently moved back to Wellington from Daingerfield, Texas, were surprised by a gathering of their relatives on Saturday night, July 19.

They were presented with a white Colonial Bedspread, towels and a China cigarette holder and ash trays. The guests brought home-made ice cream and cake and the evening was spent with eating ice cream and cake and visiting with each other.

Attending were Mrs. Noah Johnson and Jim Langley from Quail, Mrs. Earl Harwell and Jan of Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Langley and daughters, Pamela, Paula and Sue of Floydada, Miss Melba Langley, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Langley and Gus Haven of Clarendon, Miss Becky Rice and Dewayne Crow of Pampa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gray, Danny, and Sherry, and Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Stuckey of Wellington. Also attending were friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Langley when they were in Daingerfield, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Kirkland and daughter, Marilyn, also Mr. Kirkland's mother Mrs. Robertson of Ft. Worth.

Dinner Honors Wedding Party

Mrs. Jimmie Kelso was hostess for the rehearsal dinner Friday evening, July 18, in the home of Mrs. John Coleman which honored Miss Mary Jane Hiett and her fiancé, Lynn Jenkins, and members of their wedding party.

Mrs. Coleman received the guests and directed them to the back yard, where the event was held.

Tables were arranged in horseshoe shape.

Highlight of the floral decorations was the arrangement of silver wedding rings centered with pink gadioli. The other tables had arrangements of pink dahlias.

Miss Anna Kay Kelso assisted in serving.

Attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Donald Hiett, Calvin Hiett, G. B. Stanley of Olton, Duane Jenkins of Riverdale, Calif., John Coleman, John Gay, Monroe Tharp of Cleburne, Bruce Jenkins of Wasco, Calif., Elmer Hiett and Misses Lu Wertha Hiett of Midland; Wanda Lou Shinn of Lubbock, Barbara Shanks, Mary Beth Kelso, Vearl Turner, Virginia Padlock, Louise Elliott, Joan Duncan, Doris West, Darlene Whaley, of Tipton, Okla., Anna Kay Kelso, Dana Lee Jenkins, Amelia Ann Nelson of Big Spring, and Doris Tharp of Cleburne.

Messrs. Robert Fleming, Ken Burcham, Dan Hiett and Lu Duane Jenkins.

Many Here for Wedding Sat.

A large group from points in Texas, Oklahoma, and California were here for the wedding of Miss Mary Jane Hiett to Lynn Jenkins of San Francisco, Calif., Saturday evening, July 19.

These included Mr. and Mrs. Leon Coleman and Mark of Oklahoma City, Mrs. C. A. Brown of Dalhart, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Self of Hedley, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hiett of Shamrock, Mr. and Mrs. Cotter Hiett and Lu Wertha of Midland.

Nina Harrison Marries Gerald Jackson in July Fourth Ceremony at Pampa

Miss Nina Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harrison, was married to Gerald D. Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Q. D. Jackson of Hollis in a ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Lewis, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, in Pampa, July 4.

The Rev. Howard Jones, pastor of Pierce Street Baptist Church, Amarillo, performed the double ring ceremony at six-thirty o'clock in the evening.

The background for the ceremony was formed by floor candelabras holding lighted tapers and cathedral baskets of white gadioli. A program of nuptial music included the wedding march and solos, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because".

The bride wore a dress of white embroidered cotton satin, made with a basque bodice and bouffant waltz-length skirt. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds on a white Bible.

Mrs. Lewis was her sister's matron of honor and Kenneth Ray Jackson, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Lighting the candles were Miss Pam Jackson, sister of the bridegroom and Stanley Harrison, brother of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony. In the house party were Miss Glenda Epps, and Miss Cecilia Cartwright of Amarillo and Mrs. Wayne Ketchum of Wellington.

As the couple left on their wedding trip, the bride wore a turquoise sheath dress with white accessories.

Mrs. Jackson was reared here and graduated from Wellington high school in 1957. She has been employed in Amarillo. The bridegroom was graduated from Ron high school and is now employed by the Texas State Highway Department in Amarillo.

The couple will be at home at 1508 Harrison, Amarillo.

BILL BLAKLEY

LAWYER • RANCHER • BUSINESSMAN

The only candidate with first-hand experience and knowledge of the problems faced by Texas farmers and ranchers...
a sincere friend to the farmer and the working man.

BILL BLAKLEY HAS A PRACTICAL PROGRAM...

NOT EMPTY POLITICAL PROMISES. HE SAYS:

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION: "The Rural Electric Cooperatives have performed one of the greatest of all services to the rural people of Texas.
This work must continue, and Congress must see that the REA Co-ops get all the electric power they need at low enough rates to supply the needs of the Farm and Ranch people of Texas."

FARM PRICE SUPPORTS: "I grew up on a farm and made a living as a cow hand before the day of 'windshield farmers.' Many times before and throughout this campaign I have said that farmers should have the right to make a living without government controls. But, until a way can be found to do it, the farmer must receive subsidies that will give him a return on his labor and investment that equals the rest of our American economy.

This is now accomplished best with PRICE SUPPORTS, and they must continue until the government can set up a system that will enable farmers to finance production and marketing facilities of their own, controlled solely by them, making it possible for them to produce and market their products under the same business principles as other producers."

WATER and SOIL: "For over 40 years the soil and its problems have been a part of me, and I have been a part of the farm and ranch life of Texas.
Soil and Water conservation in Texas are as vital to our economy and our way of life as the air we breathe. We have done much, but we must do tenfold more. And when we do it, let's do it in such a way that a man can build a tank or lake on his farm or ranch without a government permit, and be able to use the water without some bureaucrat telling him he has no right to it."

FINANCING and INTEREST RATES: "Few farmers and ranchers in Texas can borrow enough money at low enough interest rates and satisfactory terms to enable them to develop their farms and ranches so they can operate efficiently and profitably. Money at low interest rates is as vital to the farmers and ranchers as it is to any businessman or manufacturer.
As your Senator, I will support the creation by Congress of a lending agency which would be in addition to the Federal Land Bank, the Intermediate Credit Bank, and other lending institutions. This agency would insure that any responsible farmer or rancher would be able to borrow the money he needs at reasonable rates."

"When You Work for Safety, Safety Works for You"

This week we are observing the 15th National Farm Safety Week, promoted by the National Safety Council with the aim at making farms safer places to work.

Certainly farming has lagged behind industry and business in its attention to safety and safer working conditions. It is only the nastier, more serious farm accidents that get public attention. But every year one of our neighbors will get a finger cut off working on machinery, or fall off his barn, or step on a nail in a loose plank he'd intended to pick up. From each of these accidents that particular neighbor will lose a few days work, pay a doctor and drug bill, and suffer considerable pain. And these are only the minor farm accidents.

The big ones take their toll in weeks of work lost, hospital bills and doctor bill that may be a severe financial strain, and possibly loss of life.

Add the accidents of your neighbors, with those of neighbors all over the country, and here is what you get:

Farm work accidents claim from 3,500 to 4,000 lives each year—more than any other major industry.

From 12,000 to 15,000 farm residents lose their lives each year in all types of accidents, and a million or more farm people suffer accidental injuries and the accompanying disabilities, miseries and financial troubles each year.

Who loses after these accidents? Everyone in the nation is affected directly or indirectly. Business in general loses economically and socially after a farm accident. But it is the victims and their families that suffer the greatest loss.

Human failure, not motor vehicles, farm machinery and equipment and animals, is the basic cause of accidents, says the National Safety Council. In nearly every case, human failure to recognize and correct a hazard is the real cause of accidental death and injury. Human failures include hurry, lack of common sense, improper equipment, improper care and use of equipment, procrastination, false confidence and lack of knowledge.

Obviously most, if not all, farm accidents can be prevented. It is a fact that in states where good safety committee and well planned, active programs are in existence, accident rates have been reduced. National Farm Safety Week has been an important factor in bringing about this reduction and each year the effectiveness of this week-long campaign becomes more and more apparent.

Home Town Problems

Newspapermen have a word for excessive concern about troubles in remote places while the home fires go unattended. They call it Afghanistanism. The word can be usefully applied—perhaps even more usefully, since it is coming to be generally realized that concern with troubles abroad is vital to our own interests—to other problems. To the problems of juvenile delinquency, for example.

Most of the stories about the crimes and misdeeds of teen-agers spring from the big cities. The troubles in such urban centers as New York, Chicago and Los Angeles hit the front page with shocking frequency. Published studies of juvenile crime usually focus on the big city gangs.

Good citizens are properly appalled at what they read about gang violence. It is a grave mistake, however, to deplore teen-age crime in the big cities to such an extent that the home situation is obscured. That is a kind of Afghanistanism.

The most recent statistics disclose that the largest juvenile crime increase has been in cities of 25,000 and under. The figures indicate that anyone's home town can be stricken by this blight on society. It is good to be concerned about juvenile law-breaking in the big cities, and to try to understand and think of ways to improve matters. It is even better to apply such concern and such efforts to understand and correct the trouble, to potential home town delinquency problems.—Warrensburg (Mo.) Star Journal.

The Price of Democracy

Ours is a sense of utter disgust with those citizens who begin to weary of political campaigns, because the fire and fury of wooing voters takes on a red-hot temperature in the closing days of electioneering.

The price that is paid by people living in a land where a dictator reigns is blood, and tears, and death.

It is more costly, much more costly, than the mere worry and fret that is the fate of citizens of a Democracy during a political election.—Andalusia (Ala.) Star-News.

Around and About

By Louise Wells

We got off to a good start on our trip to Michigan. Caught the train in Oklahoma City early in the evening and went to bed. It was not until we reached St. Louis the next morning that we saw very much.

St. Louis is called the crossroads of the nation. It has much to offer if you have time to see it, such as Jefferson Memorial, where the Lindbergh trophies are just one of the priceless historical collections. The home of Eugene Fields, beloved "Children's Poet", to name a few.

Much of the countryside was beautiful from the train window. The fields of corn and soybeans are green and lush.

I keep thinking of the struggle between industry and agriculture. Cities are getting larger, great buildings are going up everywhere, and each time one is built less land is left to grow things on.

Attica, Indiana, another thriving industrial community, on the Wabash River, is where Paul Dresser, brother of the novelist Theodore Dresser, was inspired to compose his now famous song, "On the banks of the Wabash."

Going through LaFayette, Ind., brought to mind Marion Baumgardner, and Jake Tarter. Believe they both attended Purdue University.

Michigan is a state where the past, the present and the future, are all tied up together.

The NEA Convention was held in Detroit, the Motor Capital of the world. Detroit did not invent the automobile, but picked it up when it was nothing but a costly toy and made it a necessity to our American way of life.

We witnessed the past in Henry Ford's Greenfield American Village where literally thousands of relics of early American life are stored.

We saw the present as we walked through the plant, and watched a bus being assembled.

The future we didn't see, they were working on cars for the year 1962, and we were not allowed even a peek.

My Methodist neighbor says he recalls one time an SMU football team figured they got startled and banqueting out of a Rose Bowl victory.

Says with this type of strategic hospitality working to distract the opposition, looks like the Dodgers wouldn't be in the league cellar, but maybe they take too much of their own medicine.

I see where a lady doctor of psychology by the name of Dr. Hurlock says spanking a wayward child just antagonizes him and makes him harder to get along with in the future.

My short-headed neighbor says likely this is scientific, so it follows that throwing a car-rustler in jail is the wrong thing to do because it will make him mad and meaner.

Says Dr. Hurlock ought to inform the Lord about this, on account of He evidently hasn't heard that punishment for wrongdoing is bad psychology.

I hear some unfriendly comment around about how our Congress-

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE

— My Policy Is Fairness to All —

I have tried to be a good Justice of the Peace during the years you have entrusted this office to me. I hope to continue serving you.

One of the important duties of a justice of the peace is the trial of misdemeanor cases, which make up by far the most of the law violations here. I have always tried to be fair and just, and I have studied what the law has to say. But at the same time I have tried to never forget that it is men and women — not just cases — that I am dealing with.

I sincerely appreciate your past confidence, just as I will appreciate your continued support.

men are spending $100 million deficit money to get themselves some fancier offices and handier bathrooms.

But my calculating neighbor says this likely will be a good investment. After all, you take over 500 legislators drawing $10 an hour wages and it costs a good deal in time lost when they have to go away down the hall to the bathroom.

Especially in a crowded place like that, where most of the time they probably have to wait in line for the facilities.

My ashamed neighbor is sort of wrought up about how foreign countries, and even free-lance generals, are busy kidnapping Americans these days.

Says this was once a very dangerous international sport, but nowadays is pretty tame.

He remembers that a fellow could take a lot more pride in being a USian back in the Teddy Roosevelt days when if some foreign country got to abusing one of us, it took a chance of getting Marines in its hair. Now it only runs the risk of getting its aid allowance raised.

ELECT JESS DEGER Commissioner Precinct 2

I am basing my candidacy on the pledge I made you early in the year: If you elect me, I will at all times try to give the county a business-like administration.

It is my opinion that the Commissioners are not entitled to draw $50 per month travel expense when the roads are taken care of by our county engineer.

I have lived here many years, and I feel I know the problems the county has before it. I believe the only way we can solve these problems, whether they pertain to financing, roads, or other county policy, is to apply these business principles, never forgetting that we are guardians of a trust the people have given us.

State

Representative

We, the undersigned farmers and ranchers of Collingsworth County believe that Rep. Grainger McIlhany should be returned to office. He has worked for us faithfully and diligently. Let us remember him next Saturday.

McIlhany sponsored legislation to set up on-the-farm demonstrations of improved farming methods in this county.

He was the author of the complete revision of the livestock feed laws of Texas.

He was co-sponsor of the state farm-to-market road program which was enacted in 1949.

He is now a senior member of both the House Livestock and Agricultural committees, which hear all bills that apply to farm and ranch problems.

McIlhany is an independent thinker and is free of any shackles of any special groups. We need this type of representation in Austin.

Hints Given on How to Drive at Night

Driving accidents occur at night three times more often, per miles driven, than during daylight hours, say the editors of "Changing Times", the Kiplinger Magazine, even though traffic is from a third to a fourth lighter during that period.

The main reason for the high rate is that people try to drive at night just as they would in broad daylight. Night driving with its extra hazards requires special techniques. The editors make these suggestions to help safeguard your life.

1. At night, turn your head at a slight angle to what you are trying to see. Objects in the distance can often become clear if viewed this way.

2. If you are blinded by oncoming headlights, use the right edge of the road as a guide. If it is indistinguishable from the shoulder, use the oil slick in the center of your lane.

3. Have a clean cloth handy to keep your windshield clear for best visibility.

4. Before starting on a long trip, check taillights, stop lights and turn indicators. Headlights should be properly aimed. Those set too high or too low are hazardous.

5. In case of trouble, get off the road quickly. Use a flashlight to warn approaching motorists. Safety-warning devices should be placed well behind and ahead of your car.

6. Slow down after dark so that you don't overdrive your headlights. That means at least ten miles per hour below your normal daytime rate of speed.

7. Watch your gasoline gauge and play safe by refilling when it reaches the quarterfull mark. Running out of gas at night is more than inconvenience — it can be dangerous.

BOULDER, Colo., — Miss Joyce Wood, 1301 Bowie, is attending the 62nd annual Summer Session at the University of Colorado for five weeks this summer.

Highlights of the session are the annual Summer Lecture Series and the Creative Arts Program. The lecture series features such speakers as Clyde Kluckhohn, Harvard anthropologist; Philip Morrison, Cornell University physicist; and Giorgio De Santillana, professor of humanities at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Creative Arts Program features the annual Shakespeare Festival; the Pearl Lang dance company; and a full-scale production of "Carousel".

5 Cent Charge on Mail Lacking Enough Postage

To give the American people more time to familiarize themselves with the new postage rates effective August 1, the Post Office Department will suspend between August 1 and October 31, 1958, the new 5-cent charge for handling mail lacking sufficient postage recently enacted by the Congress (P. L. 85-371). Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced today.

After October 31 a 5-cent charge will be made for all pieces of mail lacking sufficient postage. This charge, plus the postage due, can be refused by the recipient, in which case the mail is returned to the sender if it bears a return address. Otherwise it will be destroyed or sent to the Dead Letter Office.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Goodloe and children visited recently in Houston and Galveston on a combined business trip and vacation. Goodloe also visited Prairie View State College, Prairie View, to interview teachers for Washington School in Wellington.

Guests of Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Porter recently were his two brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. Z. Porter of San Angelo and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Porter of Sweetwater; also their son, J. K. Porter and sons of Memphis.

Re-Elect

Cortez Barnett

COMMISSIONER of PRECINCT 4

I think we all agree that a business-like operation of the county's affairs is necessary, and I believe most of you know that is the kind of operation I have been for during the years I have been your commissioner.

If you return me to office, I will continue to look after county business as I have in the past, standing for A MORE CONSERVATIVE OPERATION OF OUR LOCAL GOVERNMENT. I will do my best to combine this business-like operation with the efficiency I know you want.

I am grateful for the past support of the voters of Precinct 4. I will again appreciate your vote and support in the July 26 election.

Cortez Barnett

To the People of Collingsworth County:

May I again enter your homes, this time by way of the press, and solicit your support for District Clerk of Collingsworth County?

I feel that my experience as your District Clerk, together with fifteen more hours of College work, obtained through attending night schools offered here in Wellington the past few years, qualifies me to carry on more efficiently the duties of the office.

As you know, the population of Collingsworth County has been decreasing the past ten years and that this decrease not only affects our Churches and Schools but our County Offices also, and unless our population increases within the next two years, after the next census of 1960, the office of District Clerk will merge with that of County Clerk.

If I may serve you these next two years, I assure you that the work and records of this office will be kept, as in the past, in such manner that you may be proud of its place in the County government.

I am indeed happy to report to you that the Auditors of the records of the County have repeatedly given a good report as to my work and qualifications and I proudly submit to you the statement of F. E. Coan, CPA, who last audited our records.

West Avenue Church Meeting August 1-9

A gospel meeting will open at the West Avenue Church of Christ Friday, August 1, and continue through Saturday, August 9, Minister Howard Mitchel announced this week.

The guest speaker will be Evangelist Thomas L. Dixon of Central Church of Christ, Norman, Okla. Min. Mitchell will direct the song services.

Week day services will be at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The five Sunday services will include Bible school at 10 a. m.; morning worship at 10:50; young people's class and Children's Bible Drill at 6 p. m. and evening worship at 7 p. m.

Min. Mitchell has extended an invitation to the public to attend.

Stolen Car Found in Okla.

A 1956 Ford Fordor stolen from Ira Morgan of Quail at Hobbs, N. M., about midnight Monday, July 14, was recovered two days later when Oklahoma City Police arrested two juveniles who attempted to outrace officers and were hemmed in on a dead-end street.

Sheriff John Rainey said both boys were from Hobbs, although one, 16, had been staying in Wellington about two months with relatives and working here. The other youth is 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan had parked the car in front of the Hobbs hospital, where their daughter, Mrs. Jack Sherrill, is a patient.

After taking the car, the boys drove to Wellington, cashed a check, which proved to be hot, at Buddy's Super Market on Tuesday, July 15, and a short time later Leroy Oswalt, owner, notified Rainey.

Further investigation showed the older boy had taken a .22 pistol from H&H Hardware, and another pistol was found in their possession, the sheriff said.

The boys were turned over to Hobbs officers.

offer expires September 1.

Wolverton pointed out that all figures and all tentative plans were based on the assumption that the Greenbelt dam will be built. The local group seeks only the water rights in Collingsworth county and the excess water rights from Greenbelt dam.

In a later interview with The Wellington Leader, Wolverton said the proposed dam is an earthen preder type dam with a concrete spillway, approximately 80 feet tall and a mile long. It would contain approximately 1,500,000 cubic yards of dirt, and altogether around 2,000,000 cubic yards would have to be moved.

Wolverton stressed the industrial possibilities of such a dam and the lake it would back up.

"It would satisfy a large industry, such as a power generating plant, chemical industry, or carbon black plant."

He also mentioned "mining" in the sense it is used in oil and gas development, also wildlife and recreation, which is one of the prime aims of the developers.

It was brought out in the hearing that the proposed dam would have a drainage area of 420 square miles, equal to approximately half the county, lying below Greenbelt dam.

The size of the reservoir will be for 77,000 acre feet capacity. The dam and spillway cost is estimated at between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000, and the spillway would be constructed so it could handle all the water of the Greenbelt Dam, in case it were to fail or not be built.

The reservoir would be about the same capacity as Greenbelt, although the area probably would be larger, Paul Spillman said.

The water backed up by the dam at the proposed site would not damage the bridge on Highway 88 or require its relocation. The water would stand about 8 feet deep at Panfork Baptist Encampment, but it would not damage the buildings, although some might need to be moved. It was the opinion of the group at the hearing the lake would make the property more valuable, Judge Templeton said.

Spillman, in answering the question of the availability of water, pointed out that after evaporation, a rough figure of 10,000 acre feet of water per year could be counted on.

"And that's nine million gallons a day," he added.

The proposed site is approximately 10 miles northeast of Wellington and a short distance below the mouth of OM Creek.

Sunday visitors in the Neal Prescott home were: Mr. Joe Brown; and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Evans of Martha, Okla., Mrs. T. F. Prescott and Joan of Lawton, Oklahoma, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Martin and family of Hapy.

Bowie Street Church Plans Bible Studies

Min. F. I. Stanley of Midland, already well known here, will return to conduct a series of studies from the Bible at Bowie Street Church of Christ from Friday, August 1, through Sunday, August 10, Minister John Gay has announced.

Services will be held at 7 a. m. for the benefit of those members who work, while the evening service is scheduled at 8.

Different members of the congregation will lead the singing.

Min. Stanley is a brother of G. P. Stanley, a former Wellington minister, and he has also conducted gospel meetings here in the past. He is widely known through the church as outstanding in debate, meeting and in local work.

Min. Gay has extended an invitation to the public to attend, adding that the building is air conditioned.

I. G. Vaden to Memphis FHA

I. G. Vaden, Farmers Home Administration supervisor for Collingsworth county three years, has been transferred to Memphis, a larger office, as assistant supervisor.

He has been succeeded here by Alton Piburn, transferred from Anson.

Vaden, who came here from Dalt, was secretary of the Rotary Club, active in Boy Scout work, junior deacon of the Masonic Lodge, a member of the American Legion and VFW, post supervisor for the Civil Defense, and secretary of the boat and ski club.

Mrs. Vaden taught home economics in Wellington high school two years and was active in Eastern Star, First Baptist Church and the Excelsior Club.

They and their daughter, Kay Beth, moved to Memphis Monday.

Church Lists Sunday Hours

Sunday services for the remainder of the summer at Bowie Street Church of Christ will be at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., Minister John Gay announced this week.

President Proclaims Farm Safety Week

"When you work for safety — safety works for you."

With that as the theme the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture will conduct the nation's 15th annual National Farm Safety Week.

The week, proclaimed by President Eisenhower, will be observed July 20-26.

Purpose of the campaign, according to Maynard Coe, director of the Council's Farm Division, is to acquaint the public generally and farm residents specifically with the need for strong accident prevention efforts among farm people.

"This is not just a week-long campaign," Coe explained. "It is a campaign that is to continue 52 weeks a year."

National Farm Safety Week was initiated in 1944 by the Council's farm conference, which thought more could be done to prevent death and injury on the nation's farms.

Safer on Farms Now
"It was — and still is — difficult to reach farm residents with a safety message," Coe pointed out.

How well the safety message has reached rural people can be seen in the declining farm death and injury toll.

But a more graphic example of success, in which National Farm Safety Week has played an important part, comes from a look at the results obtained in individual states that have recorded their efforts in behalf of farm safety.

In Minnesota, for example, farm deaths are down 28 per cent since 1940. Farm deaths are down 31 per cent in Ohio, 47 in Wisconsin and 60 in Connecticut.

Greatest Reduction
Kansas reports a 61 per cent drop since 1936 in the number of farm deaths.

The greatest reduction, however, has occurred in New Hampshire, which reports an 84 per cent slash since 1950 in farm fatalities. "In the states in which records have been kept," Coe said, "there has been a steady decline in fatal farm accidents."

Despite the success enjoyed in several states, safety men such as Coe aren't complacent.

Auto Chief Target
"We're convinced that the number of farm accidents can be reduced even more," Coe said.

Chief target of safety men is the motor vehicle — No. 1 death-dealer to farm residents. Motor vehicle mishaps take about 6,000 lives and injure more than 200,000 persons annually.

The biggest cause of injury to farm residents is the home accident. Its annual injury toll is about 460,000, according to Council statistics.

"The number of work accidents also must be cut," Coe said. In recent years about 3,600 farm residents have died doing farm work.

Miss Posey on OU Honor Roll

Miss Roberta Posey was one of 2,26 students to be listed on the University of Oklahoma honor roll for the spring semester, it was announced this week by Dr. George L. Cross, OU president.

To be eligible for the honor roll, a student must have an over-all grade average of B in a minimum of 12 semester hours of classwork during the semester.

Miss Posey is a graduate college student and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Posey.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Passmore left Monday afternoon for two-weeks vacation at Minneapolis, Minnesota. They will visit her sister, Mrs. Fred Burgland, and also fish in that area. Relief operator of the Ritz and Bronco while Passmore is away is Melvin Williams of Borger.

Faulty Electrical Installation

IS A

Shocking Danger...

Don't take chances with your life and property by attempting to make electrical repairs and installations in your home, barn or buildings.

Have someone do it that knows how and you will get the full benefit of electricity. Before you add more electrical load, be sure your buildings are wired to take it. In this day of appliances it is very easy to overload the wiring in a farm home or other buildings in which electricity is used.

Proper wiring is just as important as adequate insurance—in fact it is insurance of a preventive kind. We will be glad to check your load and your wiring at no cost to you.

Documentary Proof Big Unions Give Generous Funds to Yarborough

Reprinted from the Austin American Statesman,
Sunday, June 22, 1958

C. T. ANDERSON

Railway Labor's Political League secretary - treasurer, C. T. Anderson, in a sworn statement to Congress, listed two contributions of $2,000 each to Robert Bryant, who is on the railway legislative board "for general activity" in Texas.

I. W. ABEL

United Steel Workers secretary-treasurer, I. W. Abel, acknowledged a contribution of $5,000 to the Harris County Democrats. The liberal organization in Houston backed Yarborough in his special campaign that sent him to the U. S. Senate.

EMIL MAZEY

UAW International's secretary-treasurer, Emil Mazey, a star witness before the McClellan subcommittee labor hearings, certified that UAW CIO Political Action Committee contributed $5,000 to the "Yarborough Senatorial race" in the special election.

JAMES L. McDEVITT

A co-director of Committee on Political Education (AFL-CIO), James L. McDevitt, certified two contributions of $5,000 each were forwarded to Texas AFL-CIO for "R. Yarborough Campaign". Another $663 was sent to the Texas Industrial Council.

FRANK ROSENBLUM

The treasurer of Amalgamated Political Education Committee, Frank Rosenblum, signed a report that his organization sent $1,000 to Fred Schmidt of Austin, secretary of the Texas AFL CIO joint committee and a DOT official, for Yarborough's campaign.

JOHN CHUPKA

The Textile Workers Union of America official, John Chupka, signed an affidavit that his union sent $1,000 to Texas in 1957 as a contribution to the "Senatorial campaign in Texas for Ralph Yarborough." The money was sent to the Texas State Industrial Council.

Quail Baseball "Best Program for Youth"

"It's one of the best youth programs we've ever had at Quail," Supt. Herman Moseley declared this week in explaining the summer baseball program which started from scratch and has three teams in which 55 boys are playing, and a lighted field for night games.

"Crowds resemble those between Quail and Samnorwood during basketball season, and enthusiasm is just as high," he added.

The Quail baseball program is joining Wellington to set up the program under the national rules in preparation for next year's play.

All games are played at night, and at present the Quail boys play teams from Wellington and Hedley.

Coaching the Pee Wee team is Zeb Neeley. These youngsters — 14 of them — have won two games and lost one.

Chester White coaches the Little League, with 17 boys, and they haven't lost a game to the week end. They have won over Hedley and Wellington twice.

The Pony League team is coached by Woodrow Wilson and has lost two games and won one.

Cost of lighting the field and getting it in shape has been around $500, and Moseley praised the cooperation of the people of the community in helping finance this. Several have donated money, others have said they will donate. Greenbelt Rural Electric Co-operative helped with the poles.

Moseley said that anyone wishing to donate to the project may send checks to Quail Boys Baseball, in charge of him or Chester White.

"It's the greatest thing I've ever seen here for interest and enthusiasm," he added.

Quail School Repair Finished

Much repair work has been completed on the Quail school during the summer, Herman Moseley, superintendent, said this week.

Several rooms were redecorated and drinking fountain facilities doubled. The new fountains are installed to pick up water directly from the well, and it is cooler than is usually found in fountains, he said.

Mrs. Lillah Campsey of Knox City is visiting here with her sisters, Mrs. V. J. Simpson, Mrs. S. B. Bowen and Mrs. J. A. Lowe.

Your support helps to make Collingsworth
Schools among the best

I am grateful for the support you have given me during the years I have been your county school superintendent. Any success I may have had in helping improve the schools of the county is due to your cooperation and support.

I feel strongly the need for making Collingsworth schools superior, for education of our boys and girls today determines the quality of our citizens tomorrow. Anything I can contribute through serving as your county superintendent, I feel is worth the effort.

I appreciate the fact that I do not have an opponent this year, and in returning to office for another four years, I pledge my best efforts to the boys and girls of Collingsworth.

Lone Star Gas Introduces New Refrigerator Line

A brand new line of automatic gas refrigerators is now being manufactured and nationally distributed in the United States by the Whirlpool Corporation, according to an announcement by the Lone Star Gas Company, retail outlet for this modern home appliance. Through purchase announced last January, Whirlpool became the successor to Servel, Inc., which manufactured the gas refrigerator for many years.

Trade name of the gas refrigerator now is RCA Whirlpool. All four of the new models obtain constant, unvarying cold for ideal food preservation through the magic of a tiny, economical gas flame. There are no moving parts, no on-off cycling, so the refrigerators remain completely silent and interior temperatures are the same 24 hours a day.

Now available at Lone Star Gas Company is the top-of-the-line Imperial, a two-door, 11 cubic feet gas refrigerator with an automatic ice maker, a separate 70-pound freezer, automatic defrosting and an ice water tap. The ice maker produces semi-circular disks of ice automatically, deposits them in a handy storage bin, then fills itself with water and freezes a new supply, repeating the process until an automatic control signals that the ice bin is filled.

Other features of the Imperial model include two glide-out aluminum shelves, with safety stops, tilt-out compartments for butter and eggs, full width door shelves, adjustable cold control, twin porcelain enamel crisper drawers and porcelain enamel interior. Rose-inlaid door handles match the 1958 decorative motif used on other RCA Whirlpool gas appliances. Interior colors are pink for the liner, blue and charcoal grey for the crisper drawers, and blue, charcoal grey and brushed gold for the door compartments.

Two single door models became available in July. They provide 10 cubic feet of food storage capacity, including room for 49 pounds of frozen food in a separate freezer. Both models, one with the ice maker and the other without, include sliding shelves, twin porcelain enamel crisper drawers, tilt-out compartments, full width door shelves, adjustable cold control and porcelain enamel interiors. In one model two lever ejecting ice trays replace the automatic ice maker.

Also available in July is the custom model gas refrigerator which provides nine cubic feet of storage space, including a 32-pound freezer compartment, and features pushbutton defrosting, a glide-out meat tray, two level-ejecting ice cube trays, twin crisper drawers, full width door shelves, butter compartments and egg racks, one sliding shelf and porcelain enamel interior. Lone Star Gas also has this model in stock.

Little League Plays Hollis

The Little League baseball team was beat by the Hollis team 8 to 4 Tuesday afternoon, July 15.

Hollis scored 8 runs on 6 base hits and 5 Wellington errors. Wellington scored four runs on four base hits and one Hollis error. Gary Bergvall, pitcher, gave 6 hits, three strike outs, and walked one.

The Hollis pitchers gave four hits, struck out four, and walked five. Hollis scored four runs in the first inning, three in the third, and one in the sixth. Wellington scored two in the fourth inning and two in the sixth. A rally in the sixth fell short for Wellington as they left the bases loaded.

The Hollis team had just won their Little League Leadership the night before.

My Record Is Before You

I SHALL APPRECIATE YOUR SUPPORT

I want to say this about the job for which I'm asking your support in the first primary election: I thought enough of the job and your vote that I took a week of my vacation to try to contact each of you personally. I tried to not miss anybody. If you were not home, I left my cards and hope you got to them before the weather did. If I missed you, I take this opportunity of saying I appreciate your support in the past and thought enough of your vote to try to see each of your personally and would like to have your consideration.

The following unsolicited letter written before I had an opponent tells how I have conducted the affairs of the office:

February 27, 1958

To Whom It May Concern,

I have examined the records of Mrs. J. D. Aaron, County Treasurer of Collingsworth County, Texas for three years, namely 1955, 1956 and 1957 and found her records to be in excellent condition.

Mrs. Aaron also shows initiative and understanding of her duties of office. She has had unusual problems to cope with during this period and has handled them very well in a business like manner.

Sincerely,
F. E. COAN,
Public Accountant.

I have tried to fulfill the duties of this office efficiently and courteously. The records are always open for your inspection, and I invite you to come by and look at them.

I feel deeply the responsibility of the work as your county treasurer. The money handled belongs to you, the taxpayers, and the accounting of this and keeping the records accurate and in order, I sincerely believe, are among the most important duties of any official. If you return me to office, my only pledge is to continue to carry out the work you have entrusted to me to the best of my ability.

Mrs. J. D. Aaron

CANDIDATE for COUNTY TREASURER

Some FACTS for Consideration:

It is again nearing election time and the citizens of Collingsworth County are called upon to select a County Judge for the next four years.

Do you know that the county's budget for 1958 was $229,623.17?

Do you consider that big business?

Would you hire a man to run your personal business who has never made a living without being on a government payroll?

Would you hire a day laborer to file your income tax report because he was unemployed?

Some Things That I Promise to Do

If elected I will not accept the regular $600 a year travel allowance now attached to the Judge's salary. The county judge's office should not have an allowance for travel. He should file an expense account with the Clerk for any necessary county expense and let the court pass or reject it.

I promise to give you a detailed report of the County's finances each time reports are published, so that you will know where your money was spent and exactly what for.

I will work diligently with the Commissioners Court for co-operation in running the county business. By working together we can get the county on a sound financial basis. I will work toward that goal.

I will stay within the law as written by the Legislature and interpreted by the courts.

To the Old Age Pensioner

I will not promise to raise your pension. The county judge does not have anything to do with your pension. He can work with the Texas Legislature and the Welfare Board for higher pensions. I will work with the Welfare Board and the Legislature for better pension plans. One of my opponents has promised to raise your payments—a promise he can not keep.

To the General Public

I will enjoy working with the youth of this county for a better place in which to live. We have children in our home who need supervision and desired recreation. I can think of no one who would harm the Scout work or the baseball system as operated by the committee for same. It is our duty as parents to do no less.

In the past, last minute charges and gossip have been started to confuse the real issue. This is very unfair to the voting public, as it does not give them time to find out the truth or falsity of the charges before casting their vote.

I ask you to consider these facts and answer these questions by voting for a business man for a business administration of the county's affairs.

Tax Assessor-Collector

The office of Tax Assessor-Collector will be increasingly important in the next few years because of our tax structure and financial set-up. If elected, I will personally see to it that all taxes are assessed, to the best of my ability. It is necessary that all of our property be equally and justly taxed, and that these taxes be collected.

I am asking for this office on the basis of the experience I had as your tax assessor-collector, and my knowledge of county conditions. I served as deputy in the tax office from 1946 to 1949, when you people elected me for a full term. The next term I served in the combined offices of tax assessor-collector and sheriff. In that time I became thoroughly familiar with what this office requires.

If you see fit to elect me, I will always keep in mind how much of the responsibility for the financial welfare of the county lies in the office of the tax assessor-collector.

When you go to the polls Saturday to vote you might like to know some facts.

- When the writer served as County Judge, the Commissioners Court was able to operate the County on a cash basis; all bills were paid promptly when due.
- We borrowed some money and paid it back each year, left no permanent indebtedness for operating expenses, no one had to hold county warrants for payment.
- We did not raise the tax rate nor the property valuations.
- We paid off more machinery warrants for prior officials than we made.
- Only permanent indebtedness we made was for the East-West right-of-way through the county.
- We were able to borrow all the money we needed from local banks at 4%.
- We left a cash balance to our successor.
- It was only a few weeks after we retired that our successor had $50,000.00 worth of car tag money coming in to operate on.
- When we left the office of County Judge, very few counties of Texas could boast of as good a financial condition as Collingsworth County.

Hidden Forces At Work

When Robert Morris was an officer in Navy Intelligence and psychological warfare stationed at Honolulu in 1944, he became deeply disturbed by the official dispatches and reports being sent throughout U. S. military and diplomatic channels praising the Communist forces in North China and undermining Chiang Kai-shek. He placed his commission in jeopardy, disregarded all Navy regulations and chains of command and went directly to Admiral Chester Nimitz, Commander-in-Chief of Naval Operations in the Pacific. Surprisingly enough Admiral Nimitz received him. He made a documented presentation to the Commander-in-Chief, four lesser admirals, a Marine General and the fleet's first Intelligence Officer, Ed Layton. He showed how the dispatches—most of them based on material from the Institute of Pacific Relations in Washington, (written, it developed later, by Communist agents who had infiltrated IPR) — were setting the stage for the Communist take-over, later, of all China as the U. S. A. temporarily forsook Chiang Kai-shek, our staunch and effective ally against the Japanese.

Futile Attempt

Admiral Nimitz and his advisory board listened interestedly for nearly an hour. Then the Commander-in-Chief said that what happened in China at the end of the war would not be his responsibility; it would be a higher responsibility. And that was as far as Morris got. While still in the Pacific theater, however, he saw how the Communists and pro-Communists manipulated the suppression of the Japanese surrender overtures late in 1944 and early in 1945 — made through the Vatican at Rome, and later through Moscow — and this suppression permitted the Yalta agreements which set the stage for Russia's needless three-day engagement in the Pacific — to the everlasting harm of the United States.

At another point in his Naval Intelligence work, Morris encountered mysterious and powerful forces at work within the Armed Services which brought about the disbanding of his Political Intelligence unit under circumstances which caused our Government to lose valuable intelligence contacts within the Communist apparatus—at great cost to our internal security.

He Lived the Incidents

Robert Morris sets down all these incidents—and many more—in detail in his book, "No Wonder We Are Losing". It is a book that will stand up under the most searching scrutiny, for Morris himself has lived the incidents in it. He speaks with unquestioned authority concerning the Communist network in America, for he has been investigating it since his first assignment eighteen years ago on the staff of the Rapp-Coudert Committee, set up by the New York legislature to track down Communists in the educational system. This Committee exposed the Communist control, through the Teachers Union in New York, of a politically influential organization with thousands of members. Morris, a successful young law-

Tax Advantage on Wheat Sales Told by Agent

Wheat can now be sold and delivered to the buyer in one year with the proceeds received as taxable income in a later year, County Agent Bob Lynch had told county wheat growers.

With harvest near and prospects good for a bumper crop, a recent ruling of the Internal Revenue Service relating to this type of sale will be of immediate interest to Texas wheat farmers, buyers, and others in the trade.

While the specific case discussed in the ruling concerned the sale of wheat, the interpretation undoubtedly will apply in the same manner to any commodity. The key requirement of such a sale is that the seller must have no legal right to demand and receive payment until the year following the sale. (If he has such a right, then he is in "constructive receipt" of the sale price the same year of sale, regardless of whether he actually receives the money.) Here is the gist of the holding (Revenue Ruling 58-162): "The proceeds from the sale of wheat by a farmer using the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting, under a bona fide arms-length contract calling for payment in the taxable year following that in which the wheat was delivered to the purchaser, are includible in his gross income for the taxable year in which payment is received."

sed in the ruling concerned the sale of wheat, the interpretation undoubtedly will apply in the same manner to any commodity.

The key requirement of such a sale is that the seller must have no legal right to demand and receive payment until the year following the sale. (If he has such a right, then he is in "constructive receipt" of the sale price the same year of sale, regardless of whether he actually receives the money.)

Here is the gist of the holding (Revenue Ruling 58-162):

"The proceeds from the sale of wheat by a farmer using the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting, under a bona fide arms-length contract calling for payment in the taxable year following that in which the wheat was delivered to the purchaser, are includible in his gross income for the taxable year in which payment is received."

15-Day Excess Cotton Plowup

Millard Brown, county ASC office manager, this week reminded cotton farmers that if they have planted in excess of the farm allotment, they have only 15 days from the date on the notice of measured acreage to destroy the excess cotton acreage.

This is different from past years, he pointed out.

There is also a fee for checking cotton plow-ups of $2.00 per farm plus $1.00 for each plot over one. The charge for remeasuring farms where the farmer is dissatisfied with his measurement is $5.00 per farm with $1.00 for each plot over one.

Mrs. Joe Raburn and Tommy from Dumas are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Crawford and parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Raburn.

Mrs. Everett Bennett and children, Betty and Bill, from Wichita Falls, are visiting here this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Boien and children of Amarillo spent the weekend with his mother, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hopper.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Nelson and daughters, Amelia Ann, Laurey, and Nancy of Big Spring are spending a week of their vacation here visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bounds.

Pharmacy is a Scientific Career

If you've been keeping up with the news about satellites and ballistics, then you know how important it is for everyone in free countries to encourage the study of scientific subjects. No one has to be especially farsighted to see that we must have more science students in our schools and colleges soon to make sure that free people will be the future leaders in research.

But you may not know that the 4-year college course, required for a Bachelor of Science degree in Pharmacy, has always included the same basic science subjects which are essential stepping stones to advanced research in atomic energy, satellite development and space ballistics.

This does not mean that your neighborhood pharmacist is an expert on defensive missiles for destruction; but his knowledge of medical science equips him with weapons which he can use both defensively and aggressively in the war against disease. Those who choose pharmacy as a career become strong links in our chain of national defense because, through scientific knowledge, they contribute to the health and welfare of free people.

Right now, there is a shortage of pharmacists in some states. Your local pharmacists will be glad to provide information to anyone interested in pharmacy as a career.

THE COUNTRY EDITOR

By H. M. BAGGARLY
Publisher, The Tulia Herald

ONE OF THE most vital races in Saturday's Democratic primary is that of State Senator. There is much more involved than mere personality. Since the issues have been clouded by gossip, false rumors and even defamation of character, the voter has a tremendous personal responsibility to sift truth from fiction, prejudice from objective appraisal, and fact from fancy.

WE ARE NOT supporting Senator Andy Rogers, the incumbent, because we think he is perfect, because he has pleased us all the time, because we think he is the only resident of the 30th Senatorial district capable of serving with ability and integrity. We are supporting him because he towers head and shoulders above the two men who now seek his place in the Senate. So completely objectionable are the other two men, in our opinion, that we would have to scratch both names if the name of Senator Rogers did not appear on the ballot.

HERE ARE SOME of our reasons for having to support Rogers. He is the incumbent, having served only one complete term in the Senate, and it is our belief that an incumbent deserves re-election unless there is a good reason why he should not be re-elected. In the case of a Senator, seniority is of utmost importance. It would be extremely unwise for a district to throw its seniority in the Senate to the wind. Senator Rogers already has the job. We owe nothing to a person, even a friend, who covets the job of his neighbor.

Secondly, anyone who studies Rogers' record carefully will soon find that he thinks like the typical resident of the 30th district. We have not always seen eye to eye with Rogers on every issue that has come up, in fact, on occasion we have attacked some of his decisions editorially—but we have approved his actions in a huge majority of cases. In voting, our choice is not to select the perfect candidate, according to our own specifications—our choice is to vote for the man who most nearly reaches perfection.

While Senator Rogers' batting average in the Senate is high, in our opinion, the voting records of his opponents are completely unpalatable in too many instances.

ONE OF ROGERS' opponents has represented big business interests, including the utilities monopoly, much more effectively than he has represented the farmers and smalltown businessmen of the 30th district.

The other man in the race, when he was in the Legislature, voted for exempting utility companies from the license fee (required of other appliance dealers) for the privilege of selling gas and electric appliances, parts and repairs in towns of 3,000 or less. He voted for a two per cent gross receipts tax on soft drink bottlers which Gov. Shivers offered. It was adopted 15-14, so his was the key vote. Later, the Senate reversed itself and killed this tax. He also voted to table Aikin's effort to reduce this bottler's tax to one per cent. Then Aikin tried to exempt milk from the bottler's tax and this candidate voted not to exempt milk.

THIS CANDIDATE introduced a bill to give the state a first lien on any property owned by old-age assistance recipients and to require that it be foreclosed on their deaths and the state welfare department would get back all they had been paid. This idea has been pushed by anti-pension folks ever since. He also introduced a bill regulating sale, distribution or possession of oleomargarine which hurts every cotton farmer. And most objectionable of all, he supported a two per cent state income tax proposal.

This is to say that Senator Rogers, the incumbent, is much better qualified to serve an agricultural district than either of his opponents. Ask any informed farmer who is familiar with REA and other major farm problems. Ask informed leaders of any farm organization who have had occasion to make trips to Austin in the interest of farm problems.

IN THE THIRD place, we would have to vote for Andy Rogers because the special interests groups, the gas pipeline group, the utilities monopoly, the anti-farm group, those who would like to have federal and state control of underground water, those who consistently try to keep the lid on Austin scandals, those who do not want practitioners of the healing arts controlled or licensed by the state, those who have proved themselves enemies of the Farm to Market road program, those who abhor independent thinking, those who try to tell legislators to get on their team or else they will have to smear them, all have combined to try to move heaven and earth to defeat Senator Rogers. Rogers has been threatened by these interests which warned him not to run. He was told to be a good boy, to go back to Childress and settle down, and he wouldn't be hurt by the character assassins and gangsters who have a great deal of influence in Austin.

Perhaps Rogers would have retired to go back to Childress and make a living for his family had he not been threatened as he was. But there is something in a red-blooded American that causes him not to yield to gangster tactics. So Rogers defied the warnings.

We need more men like Rogers in Austin, men who will put principle above politics, men who will not sacrifice honor for expediency. Men like Rogers are and will be in a minority for sometime, but at least they will speak out against corruption so we can hear. To fail to re-elect Rogers would not be a step in the right direction.

AND FINALLY, even if we did not have the reasons mentioned above for supporting Rogers, even if we did not believe him to be the best man intellectually, morally, and spiritually, we would have to support him because of the campaign techniques used by his opponents or supporters of his opponents.

This race, from the time it started with the mailing of anonymous smear literature, has been one of the filthiest races in the history of Texas politics.

We have had "Port Arthur" type stories in circulation almost weekly since early spring. Some of the false stories planted here and there have been petty. Others have been outright libelous. They include, for example, the testimony of a former medical doctor who lost his license, who has served numerous terms in penitentiaries in several states including Florida, Maryland and Oklahoma, who is at present under indictment for performing an abortion in a Dallas tourist court, who perjured himself when under oath he voluntarily made statements a week apart in direct conflict, who was convicted three times for being a confidence man.

Yet there are those having an interest in getting Rogers out of the Senate who produce a completely false statement signed by this character in trouble up to his neck which they expect people to believe in preference to the word of Senator Rogers, official records in the Legislature, official records in Austin, and even newspapers and public officials who have not been particularly friendly to Senator Rogers. And, strangely enough, one of the men attempting to unseat Senator Rogers served on the House investigating committee and would have had access to the official records which, had they contained information adversely affecting the senator, would have made a perfect rope with which to hang Rogers. Yet, instead of bringing about the prosecution of Senator Rogers, had there been any basis for doing so, he does nothing about it. Either this man is guilty of negligence of duty or the whispered charges against Senator Rogers a complete fabrication.

ALL OF THESE false stories, planted and distributed, appeal only to "the moron vote" because of their utter absurdity.

As a Tulia pastor told us when we showed him some of the smear literature now in circulation against Senator Rogers, "When I see something like that, it spurs me on to vote for the man who has been slandered and wronged."

ARE WE TO assume that Rogers' opposition has so little to offer the voters of this district that they must base their campaigns on such things as the testimony of an ex-con, and a several-times loser, and also other stories of equal veracity?

Andy Rogers' life is an open book. If there exists adverse information concerning his character not available to the public, certainly it has been available to those trying so hard to discredit him. They have proved during this campaign that they have keys to many doors in Austin.

The issue in this race is Andy Rogers and his record Vs. a cesspool of slanderous accusations. Let all honest men and women of the district turn a deaf ear to vile gossip brought out during the closing hours of a political campaign.

Don't fall for literature and whispered reports published for morons.

This Quartet Causes Discord on U. S. Farms

An unusual quartet—machinery, drowning firearms, and falls—is disrupting the harmony of farm life.

The four cause about 3 out of 4 accidental farm deaths, according to a study reported by the National Safety Council.

Machinery, most deadly of the four, took nearly 4,000 lives from 1949-53, the study shows. The study did not cover accidental deaths of farm people that occurred in farm homes or off the farm.

Drownings Second Largest
Annually machinery is a big factor in the nation's 3,600 farm work deaths. Nearly 1 out of 3 farm accidents studied involved machinery. Its chief victims? Persons 45-64 years of age.

Drownings, No. 2 accidental farm killer, according to the study, took more than 1,600 lives during the five-year period. About 1 out of 4 drowning victims was a child under five years of age.

The reason? "Uncovered wells and unguarded swimming areas," according to Maynard Coe, director of the Council's Farm Division.

Boobytraps for Children
"While no statistics are kept," he pointed out, "we believe wells are boobytraps for farm children." Unguarded swimming areas, he noted, are doubly dangerous, because of the cold, rapid water, and such underwater hazards as logs and sharp rocks.

Firearms, third in the study among farm killers, took nearly 1,600 lives. They played no favorites. In almost every age group, firearms were listed as the cause of death in hundreds of persons.

Falls, second only nationally to traffic mishaps as an accidental killer, ranked No. 4 on farms. They accounted for nearly 1,400 deaths during the five years covered by the study.

Overall Picture
Chief victims of falls on farms were persons 65 years of age or older—same as elsewhere in the nation. Next group most frequently hit by falls on farms was the 45-64 age group.

Overall, this is the farm accident picture:

1. Accidents take about 13,000 lives and injure more than a million farm residents annually.
2. Nine out of 10 victims of the farm accidents studied were males, due, probably, to the hazardous task they perform and the chance-taking nature of men.
3. The No. 1 killer of farm residents each year recently has been the auto, which takes about 6,000 lives every 12 months.
4. Farming has more deaths each year than any other major industry.

The solution?
"One solution", Coe says, "is stepped-up public education of farm residents. This is one purpose of the annual National Farm Safety Week."

This year's National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26, is co-sponsored by the National Safety Council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Hazel Cherry, Brenda, Jane and Jeanne Tom of Lubbock, have been visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. French Self.

FARMING Can KILL You!

IT'S EASY - HERE'S HOW

Neglect Your Machines...

Who cares if it's not in safe working order... it's too much trouble to keep it in shape. Guards and safety devices are for sissies.

Operate Tractors Carelessly...

Always start and stop suddenly... take corners at high speed... and drive as often as you can in ditches, on soft ground and creek banks. It's more fun.

Ignore All Traffic Rules...

Whether you are driving a car or tractor on the highway, remember the rules are for the other fellow. This is a slack season for under-takers anyway.

Forget Fire Hazards...

Smoke all you want in the barn and always start fires with kerosene. This makes life more interesting.

Startle Your Animals...

Shouting "boo" at your bull is a sure way to liven up the day.

Be a Lousy Housekeeper...

You can't get hurt in the house and besides you are too busy to watch the water heater... fix old wiring, pick up roller skates, etc.

Falling Is Fun...

Especially from the barn roof. Ladders never slip anyway. To heck with safety. Live dangerously.

It Can't Happen to You Anyway...

Only one out of five farm families had serious accidents last year... why worry when you know it will happen to someone else.

SEAfari Diary Tells of Stop in Japan

NORMAN, Okla. — Editor's Note: The SEAfari diary of one day in the Far East was written by Roberta Posey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roberta Posey, 1205 Eight, Wellington. A graduate student, she is one of fourteen students who left Oklahoma June 12 for a three-month "SEAfari" study tour to southeast Asian countries. Dr. Percy Buchanan, University of Oklahoma professor of history and director of OU's institute of Asian affairs is sponsor of the trip.

Each student taking the trip must keep a daily diary on his observations and prepare a paper. The diaries are being compiled for a National Geographic magazine article on the trip. Students also have cameras to take photographs to accompany the article. The tour grants six hours of college credit and daily lectures and class periods are held while the students are aboard ship.

While on the tour the group of 15 will travel by ship, bus and train and through the Philippines, Singapore, Malaya, Thailand, Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, Hong Kong, Formosa, and Japan.

In each country, beginning with the Philippines where the group arrived July 2, the students are separated and stay in the homes of English-speaking families, giving each student an accurate idea how people in these countries actually live.

The next airmailing of dairies of the students to the University of Oklahoma will cover their experiences in the country homes of Philipinos who live on Luzon.

EXERPT FROM THE SEAFARI DAIRY OF ROBERTA POSEY

June 28, 1958

Today we actually begin our tour of southeast Asia when the members of our "SEAfari" study group walk down the gangplank to the huge docks of Yokohama, Japan!

It is 4:00 a.m. Foggy and slightly like pea soup. The docks of the President Cleveland are jammed with Japanese and Americans dressed in their best for the "homeland". Japan is called homeland even by the Americans returning there to study or work.

Excitement reigns aboard. Cries of disbelief that we actually are in the Orient resound from our group of 15. Our sponsor, Dr. Percy Buchanan, is busy gathering together our 14 chicks ready or disembarking for one day's stop-over in Japan before we go on to Manila and two weeks in the Philippines. So happy that on our return trip we will have more time to see Japan before we return to the states in August.

I feel a little sad this morning to think we'll be losing so many of the wonderful friends we've made aboard ship during our two weeks' crossing of the Pacific.

We're definitely almost there — already we have passed several islands off the coast of Honshu. Japanese fishing vessels and ships. . . . water is looking green. . . . jelly fish can be seen. . . . little boats are pulling long side the ship's huge shell.

Quaint houses and huge buildings can be seen crowning the dim horizon misty with fog. . . . There's the Yokohama dock!

Lines, lines, lines, and more lines of humanity. Reminds me of that dreaded process known as registration at the University of Oklahoma. Dear me, quarantine check. Do you have your Yokohama landing card. Yes, Yes. How about getting your money changed.

Say I really like this yen. Think I'll change all my money. Nice little Japanese man gave me over 7,000 for only $20 and most of the coins have holes in the center! Wonder what the money will be like when we get to the Philippines. It is so different. Probably in Malaya and Thailand we will have to learn how to count our nickels all over again and how much each is worth. But it is all so fascinating.

Betty and I, finally tiring of the long line waiting to get off the ship, I give Betty strict orders to retain my place and set out to find Doc B. There he and the rest of the gang are — the whole gang, mind you. . . . sitting on the dock revelling in their popularity with the Mainichi press reporters. . . . completely ignoring the fact that the charming smiles of Betty Blanton and Roberta Posey are missing.

Five cars haul our group off for its day tour of Yokohama, Tokyo, Kamakura, Enoshima and back to board the ship at dusk.

I'm in the lead car. . . . keeps stopping to see that the others are behind us. . . . This is really something — riding about in "Press" cars! Yes, the flying red flag flashing "Press" carries us far too quickly through the dock traffic and into the unmistakable streets of Japan. Oh, Oh, we've lost Doc B's car. Hope our little white-gloved chauffeur isn't taking us out into the midst of nowhere. Can't understand a word the men in the front seat are saying. Jimmy Abe, a Japanese young man, but a graduate of OU, does keep us assured he knows where we're going.

Not only do we seem lost, but we're even driving down the wrong side of the street at a most rash speed. But so is everyone else!

We're stopping in this deserted alley? Get out? Oh, where are we and where's Doc B? ? ? Like little lambs, we follow. Jimmy hurries us down the rocky alley and finally we emerge back to civilization to the corner camera shop. Windows are filled with all kinds of goodies and brilliant red lobsters. Back we hop into the press car.

Down the narrow streets lined with fascinating little shops — people are squatting off the sidewalks resting. Makes me tired just to look at them. Why don't they sit?

And now we are on a beautiful highway — American influence — a toll road! Driving on at our breakneck speed, we pass many rice fields. Everything we see seems to be of bamboo — the baskets, the clotheslines, the fences. Just saw my first honey bucket — no expensive plumbing facilities are needed here when that famous honey bucket serves the same purpose, but what a stench as we pass the long narrow wagon loaded with the town's human refuse hauled by a little brown man leading a reluctant buffalo hitched to the bucket wagon. Off to the rice fields for fertilizer I am told!

Look at those slum areas along the canal. All kinds of small shops. Everyone seems busy working or making something. Wish I knew what each is doing. Why is that little lady peeling paper from tar? . . . Babies look so comfortable strapped on their mama's backs. Wish we weren't going so fast. I could spend hours on this one street. Bicycles, bicycles, loaded sky high. Odd how the houses are so close together.

Our fast ride now over, we're at the Kamakura Raibutsu, "The Great Buddha". It is a superb, silently eloquent image, erected centuries ago. I didn't dream it would really be so terribly huge. Jimmy says it is more than 42 feet high, almost 100 feet around at the base. It's face is almost 8 feet long. One eye, mind you, is almost four feet across! Jimmy tells us it's weight — 92 tons.

What an insignificant feeling I have standing beside it, or rather beneath it. For 10 yen, we each go in to investigate its inner workings. Nothing there but a staircase leading to its shoulders. . . . Rather eerie and musty, didn't linger long.

Outside again, we take a closer look at some of the details of the dignified Buddha.

It's hands are laid on the lap, palms upward, and thumbs touching — the Buddhist sign for steadfast faith. The half-closed eyes that seem to watch one through eyelids as gentle as those of a child:

After leaving I could feel the expression on the face of the Buddha, so admirably depicting the perfect repose and passionless calm which is the root idea of the Buddhist doctrine.

Did You Know?

Senator Ralph Yarborough is regarded as one of the most able Senators in Washington by his colleagues in the Senate. Senator Herman Talmadge of Georgia said of Senator Yarborough: "I KNOW OF NO MEMBER OF THE SENATE WHO HAS A MORE INTENSE INTEREST IN SOLVING OUR FARM PROBLEMS AND IN SEEING THAT THOSE WHO TILL THE SOIL RECEIVE A FAIR SHARE OF THE NATIONAL INCOME."

Senator Ralph Yarborough is regarded as one of the most able Senators in Washington by his fellow members of the Senate. Senator Frank Church of Idaho said of Senator Yarborough: "I HAVE OFTEN HAD THE EXPERIENCE WHEN LISTENING TO THE JUNIOR SENATOR FROM TEXAS OF FEELING MY HEART POUND A LITTLE HARDER AND MY PULSE BEAT A LITTLE FASTER. I CAN ONLY SAY TO HIM THAT THE GREATNESS OF TEXAS IS NOT IN ITS SIZE BUT IN ITS MEN, AND ONE OF THE GREATEST TEXANS OF OUR TIMES IS THE JUNIOR SENATOR FROM TEXAS, RALPH YARBOROUGH."

Senator Ralph Yarborough is regarded as one of the most able Senators in Washington. The Jacksonville (Texas) Daily Progress said editorially: "YARBOROUGH HAS BEEN ONE OF THE MOST ABLE FRESHMAN SENATORS EVER TO APPEAR IN WASHINGTON. HE KNOWS TEXAS AS NO OTHER TEXAN, HE KNOWS THE HEARTBEAT OF THE WORKING MAN, THE OLD AGE PENSIONER, THE OIL OPERATOR, THE SMALL BUSINESSMAN. NONE DENY HIS ABILITY, HIS WORTH TO TEXAS, HIS COURAGE OR INTEGRITY."

Senator Yarborough has received high praise from Texas business leaders. Ben Belt, President of the Houston Chamber of Commerce, introduced Senator Yarborough before a large audience of businessmen with these words: "RALPH YARBOROUGH DESERVES ALL OUR THANKS. HE'S TRYING TO LEARN WHAT OUR PROBLEMS ARE SO HE CAN REPRESENT US WELL IN WASHINGTON. HE'LL MAKE YOU THE BEST LEADER YOU EVER HAD."

U. S. Senator Ralph Yarborough is fighting the flood of foreign oil imports. Senator Yarborough introduced a bill to increase the tariff on foreign oil and has spoken on the floor of the Senate and before Congressional Committees against the giant oil cartels that are hurting our Texas economy by flooding the market with foreign oil.

State Capital NEWS

AUSTIN, Tex. — Mid-way through the so-called "recession year" of 1958, Texas economic forecasters are turning their eyes upward again.

Statistical reports show steady improvement in overall business activity since the bleak lows of February and March. If the hoped-for pick-up in oil demand develops during the latter half, analysis say, "1958 may be a good year after all."

Some of the bases for the current atmosphere of cautious optimism are these:

BANK DEPOSITS: Folks have lots of money in the banks; in most areas, more than last year. Response to the Texas Banking Commission's mid-year call for condition of banks showed that most have higher deposits than last summer and some are at new record highs. Dallas County bank deposits increased by $333,000,000; Harris County (Houston) by more than $267,000,000 over a year ago. Towns with all-time high deposits were Amarillo, Corpus Christi, Tyler, Midland, Denton and Port Arthur.

RETAIL SALES: Despite sagas here and there, Texas retail sales are expected to run some 7 per cent ahead of '57, says the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Because of low months early in the year, sales volume for the first five months of '58 were 1 per cent below the same period for '57. But a late spring upsurge put May, 1958, sales ahead of those for May, 1957. Apparently Texans are concentrating on essentials. Compared to last year, farm implement sales were up 27 per cent, food up 11 per cent, autos down 8 per cent.

BUSINESS INDEX: BBR's latest report shows the 1958 level of general business activity 4 per cent below May 1957, was a dizzy pinnacle, the highest point ever reached by the Texas business index. Since the low in March the index has made encouraging progress, pulling up by 8 points. Fall will bring the tip-off, says BBR, as to whether recovery momentum is sufficient for a rise to a new crest.

EMPLOYMENT: Although thousands more were out of work than a year ago, Texas Employment Commission's most recent over-all survey showed a substantial shortening of the jobless lines.

Like the general business index, employment seemed to be making a steady recovery from the early spring "through". Number of unemployed dropped 4,200 during May, TEC reported, and non-farm employment rose to almost three million. Insured unemployment in Texas was only 4.1 per cent of the working force compared with the national average of 7.2 per cent.

COMPANY CHALLENGED — A king-size clash is in prospect July 15 between the State Insurance Department and National Bankers Life Insurance Company of Dallas.

Commissioner William A. Harrison has ordered the company to prove fitness of its management or lose its license.

National Bankers, regarded as one of the largest and most prosperous companies in the Southwest, claims more than $19,000,000 in assets. Some $5,000,000 of these are discounted by the Department as unsound or unsuitable for an insurance company. Specifically questioned by the state are a number of mortgage loans made by the company to other firms in which the company's officers or directors have an interest.

Company President Lester F. Hall said the firm's financial footing is so sound it could raise $5,000,000 in a matter of hours. He said the company had a premium income of $10,000,000 last year and net earnings of $1,000,000.

GLAD TO MOVE OVER — Despite the prospect of losing "biggest state" honors, Texas officials say they're happy to welcome Alaska as No. 49. Sample comments:

Gov. Price Daniel: "We will still have the biggest navy."

Sec'y of State Zollie Steakley: "I'm glad another state will bear the brunt of the gags about being the largest state."

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson: "I suggest they nail down their off-shore lands before they enter the union."

SEMI-WESTWARD HO! — Re-designed Texan-tan uniforms have brought a new look to the Texas Highway Patrol. Semi-western in style, the uniforms sport black trim, black shoes, wide-brimmed grey hats with western crease.

Only 380 patrolmen and other 251 counties to the Hale-Aiken Survey Committee on Public Education. Most of the increase would go for expansions necessary to keep up with increasing enrollment.

Counties differed as to how the money should be raised. Twenty-five per cent favored higher local taxes or increased valuation. Forty-four per cent wanted additional money from the state. Nine counties favored federal aid. Thirty-five recommended a sales or income levy.

division members of the Department of Public Safety are outfitted at present. New uniforms for the rest of the force will have to wait for another appropriation from the Legislature.

TAXPAYERS GET WARY — Slump in federal income tax collections in Texas the past several months has been noted by Internal Revenue officials.

Cause has been attributed to recession-minded taxpayers lowering their estimates of income for the year. South Texas Collector Bob Phinney thinks, however, most will wind up making just as much money as last year.

Last year Texans paid a record-breaking $2,600,000,000 in federal income taxes, about $128,000,000 more than in the year previous.

SCHOOL COST CLIMB SEEN — Texas counties expect cost of education to climb $70,000,000 annually in the next five years.

This was revealed in reports of SHORT SNORTS — Walter Buckner, publisher of the San

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Blanchard and daughters, Mary Lou and Elizabeth Ann, of Fort Worth, are here visiting his mother, Mrs. C. W. Roberts and Mr. Roberts.

Ben Hurst left Wednesday morning for Plains to attend the Yoakum County Old Settlers Reunion. Hurst went there in 1900. From Plains he will go to Ruidoso, N. M. for a short stay. He will also meet other members of his family at Plains.

Visiting Mrs. Helen Hurst for two weeks is her daughter, Mrs. Don Hood of Austin, who has been attending the summer session of the University of Texas. Another guest has been Mrs. Hurst's cousin, Mrs. Myrtle Burroughs of Bremerton, Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hall and Jacqueline Sue of Amarillo are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Hale.

Marcos Record and past-president of the Texas Press Association, has been named by Governor Daniel to the Industrial Accident Board. He will serve as the employer representative. The two other members of the board are Ned Price of Tyler, representing labor; and Leonard Carlton of Austin, representing employees. . . . A $20,500 grant for re-codifying Texas school laws has been provided by the M. D. Anderson Foundation of Houston. A legislative committee headed by Rep. Robert H. Hughes of Dallas is in charge of the work. . . . Preliminary report on a comprehensive survey of Texas water resources has been submitted to Governor Daniel. It was requested by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and prepared jointly by state and federal water agencies. Contents of the report will not be released or publication until final approval is given. . . . Farm experts expect that a 92-year-old record for cotton yield per acre may be topped this year. Second-highest yield was recorded last year at 295 pounds. All-time high was 325 pounds per acre in 1886 — when soil was virgin. . . . Governor Dan-

SOME REASONS FOR SUPPORTING WAYNE CUDD for COUNTY JUDGE

We feel that . . .

(1) Wayne is the best qualified of the three contestants to handle big business and the county judge's office is big business.

(2) Both the other contestants have held this office several years and I do not believe in making a gift of any public office to any one person.

(3) The people voted the unit system for our county roads and there is no doubt that handled by a judge and commissioners favorable to this plan, it will serve to save us many dollars in the future and we know that Wayne Cudd will follow the law to the letter.

(4) It is our information that your present county judge at one time introduced a bill in the State Legislature to make it mandatory that the county judge's office be filled from lawyers who had been admitted to the bar, thereby limiting the average county to only one or two men eligible for the office.

(5) The county judge's office is a large business enterprise and needs a successful business man to run it.

Sincerely yours,
EMIL KERSTEN

Vote for WAYNE CUDD for Better Government

(Political advertisement paid for by Emil Kersten.)

BILL BLAKLEY

Texans like a public official who is independent in his thinking and doesn't have to account for his actions to anyone except the voters themselves.

William A. Blakley is such a man. Of his race for U. S. Senate, the Port Arthur News says: "He entered this race by his own decision. He is beholden to nobody. He doesn't have to promise special interest groups anything and he wants to represent all of Texas, not any political splinter or fragment or faction above the rest. . . ."

A vote for Bill Blakley on July 26 is a vote for returning to Washington a man who will truly represent Texas.

YOUR VOTE WILL BE APPRECIATED JULY 26

ALFRED KNOLL

for Commissioner
Precinct 2

I am deeply grateful for the confidence you have had in me in past years in electing me to this office. I appreciate just as deeply the co-operation you have given during that time.

If you see fit to return me to the office, I'll be in there working just as hard for you, the people, as I have in the past.

The county has serious problems, and when these come up, I welcome your suggestions on them. It is you that I represent, and I seek to express your wishes in county government. Working together we can accomplish much good. As in the past, I will work with other members of the Court to give you sound government.

I have no other promises. The work I have done in the past tells you the kind of official I am.

For Re-Election, Commissioner of Precinct 2

We like our business.
It's pleasant

—Because it gives people pleasure

We write most kinds of insurance. You might think this is pretty dull doin's.

But we figure what we sell is mainly . . . pleasure.

Insurance gives pleasure to insured people every day because it banishes fear of loss and disaster.

But it gives greatest pleasure when it covers an actual loss. We've seen people who would have been ruined by a fire, lawsuit, robbery or other loss if they hadn't had insurance written by us. With insurance, they still found life pleasant.

Yes, we like our business.

We urge our many farmer friends to take every precaution against accidents on your farm . . . it will save you money, save you pain, and possibly save your life.

ADEQUATE INSURANCE . . . is one form of Farm Safety

One farm accident not only costs your time and loss of property. Replacements must come out of future earnings, and that is loss of money, too. Money you'd planned to invest, make improvements or use for pleasure.

There are many forms of Farm Insurance that you may not know are available. The cost is low, and in case of a farm accident, you will be protected against costly loss.
