

Plane Smashes Into Crowded Street; Three Killed Traditions Reversed As National Political Pot Boils

Republicans Get Noisier As Demos Remain Deliberate

Hoover's Announcement Of Candidacy Brings Wave Echoes of Varying Quality In Many States.

REED LEAVES ON TOUR THRU WEST

Rumble of Opposition To Smith In South Louder, While New Yorker Gains Strength In East.

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP).—Reversing all of the traditions of recent years, the Republicans are growing louder and noisier at their presidential state-making parties. Democrats remain, for the most part, calm and deliberate.

Secretary Hoover's announcement of his candidacy has awakened echoes of varying quality during the past week in almost every state, with the hurrahs loudest in Ohio, where the Hoover and Willis camps are arming for a war without quarter. Among the Democrats the week has seen a further unfolding of the Smith movement, and a further quiet development, likewise, of an anti-Smith movement, particularly in the South.

New Democratic thunder is in immediate prospect, for Senator Reed of Missouri, always a virile campaigner, left Washington today for a swing around the circle in the east, but whether he will carry his thrills through the throats of his adversaries, as some of the Republican candidates are doing, remains to be seen.

Hoover vs. Field. The Republican situation in Ohio has developed a symptom which at any stage of a campaign always attracts the immediate attention of political diagnosticians. As a result of this latest turn of affairs, the Ohio battle appears to have become a fight between Hoover and the field.

Announcement of this development was made today by the Willis managers in Columbus, who said that Frank O. Lowden, Senator Curtis of Kansas, and Senator Watson of Indiana all had authorized Willis delegates to the Kansas City convention to name them as second.

West Texas Circle Of Women Formed

Organization Is Temporary Group To Work for Reinstatement Mrs. Fields As Chairman.

(By Associated Press) ABILENE, Feb. 18.—The West Texas Council of Women was formed today as a temporary organization to obtain the reinstatement of Mrs. J. U. Fields of Haskell as chairman of the Texas biennial board of the federation of women's clubs.

The organization resulted from a mass meeting of club women of 22 West Texas counties. Mrs. Fields recently was removed from the Texas biennial chairmanship by the executive committee of the general federation of women's clubs sitting in Washington, D. C.

"The formation of the West Texas council came Saturday afternoon following a spirited morning meeting marked by two distinct actions: First, the sending of a telegram to Mrs. R. Potter, president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, requesting "that a meeting of the state board of directors of the Texas Federation be asked the general federation executive committee to uphold the action of the West Texas council."

Conference For Boosting Cotton Market Tomorrow

Entirely Changed Financial Prospects In The South May Result From Resolutions Adopted.

ONE THOUSAND ARE EXPECTED TO ATTEND

Governors of Eight States Will Attend and Participate In Deliberations Of Jackson Confab.

(By Associated Press) JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 18.—A list of recommendations which may bring about action that will completely change the financial prospects of the South are expected to be handed down from the conference to be held here Monday when governors and delegates from numerous cotton-growing states meet to discuss ways and means of bringing about reforms in methods of raising, marketing and expanding the use of cotton.

While no detailed statement has been given out to indicate what phase of the broad question will be stressed and what official action taken to enforce any plan the conference may find to be to the best interests of the South, it is generally conceded by Mississippi delegates to the confab that the central idea is to reach an agreement on a workable plan to lower acreage, spread the marketing season over a broader period, to avoid market congestion and to encourage home manufacture.

Wide Possibilities Seen. When it is considered, observers point out, that states which raise approximately 85 per cent of the world's cotton supply are to be represented.

Tech to Offer 250 Courses During Term

Texas Tech will offer between 240 and 250 courses during the coming summer session, it was learned yesterday in the office of Dean James M. Gordon, who has charge of the arrangements for the term. Some 50 of these courses will be for graduate work, he said, while the other will be for undergraduates.

The faculty will be composed of 63 members of the regular long session faculty. Plans for the session are going forward daily, Dean Gordon reported, and efforts will be made to have a substantial increase in attendance over last summer.

Tradition That Frog Can Live For 100 Years Partly Verified at Eastland

Toad, Buried Alive In Cornerstone of Courthouse Thirty-one Years Ago Is Found Alive When Stone Is Opened Saturday; Animal On Exhibition

(By the Associated Press) EASTLAND, Feb. 18.—A horned frog, buried alive in the cornerstone of the courthouse here 31 years ago, was found alive when the stone was opened today, according to County Judge Ed S. Pritchard. The old courthouse is being razed. The West Texas tradition that a horned frog can live a century without food or water is partly verified, Judge Pritchard believes.

The cornerstone containing the frog, and a number of old newspapers, coins, and Masonic emblems, was opened in the presence of a throng of curious residents who gathered to see the frog, dead or alive.

As the judge, surrounded by county officials, picked the toad from the cavity in the stone, a cheer went up. The frog appeared lifeless for some time. After a while it opened his eyes, as the crowd

ONCE PALS IN CRIME NOW BITTER ENEMIES

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18 (AP).—The silent enemy displayed by two youths, once pals in crime, was carried today by the pair from the courtroom where they are on trial for the murder of C. Ivy Tom to the county jail.

When given a chance to exercise on the roof of the county jail today, in lieu of their usual march to court, now adjourned for the week-end, William Edward Hickman, and his erstwhile young accomplice, Welby Hunt, refused to speak to each other. Their attitude, jailers said, showed the bitterness of the enemy which has sprung up between them, each avowedly eager to throw the onus of the hold-up and shooting on the other.

3-Motored Plane On Endurance Flight

IMPERIAL COUNTY AIRPORT, Calif., Feb. 18 (AP).—The 3-motored monoplane Albatross, which flew off at 6:55 o'clock this morning, seeking to break the world's endurance flight, soared steadily above this valley during the day.

Charles Rocheville, designer of the plane, was its chief pilot. His relief was Jack Reer, and his second assistant, A. C. Peterson. The ship started with 1,294 gallons of gasoline and Peterson dropped at note about noon saying that they intended to stay in the air until every drop was gone.

If the Albatross can stay in the air until 11:17 o'clock Monday morning, she will make a new world's record, her pilots declare.

(By the Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—One to three persons were definitely listed as missing today as a three-cornered investigation got under way into the "nose dive" taken by the ferry boat Peralta while crossing San Francisco Bay last night.

Some unofficial investigators, who included in their estimates all persons who had not returned to their homes in the East Bay district last night, reported as high as 13 persons among the missing. While approximately 30 passengers were swept overboard when the vessel stuck its bow into the green waters of the bay, police announced that their checkup showed only three definitely unaccounted for this afternoon. Officials of the Key route system, owners of the ferry, declared only one person known to have been a passenger was missing.

An Attractive Match

Now that Dr. Otto C. Peltzer has made his American debut on the track and has convinced the dear old public that he is worthy of notice as a runner, it seems that the logical thing to do would be to match him with a runner of his own caliber.

Hahn is without doubt America's best in the middle distances and a match between the foreigner and his American competitor would prove a very attractive one to the track public.

Hahn has not lost a race in more than a year and went through the last indoor campaign without crossing the tape behind anyone and is likely to do so again this year.

He defeated Edwin Wide, another invader, last year. Perhaps, were he to meet Peltzer, he would defeat the German. It is asking a lot of him, but Hahn is a runner worth talking about with complimentary words any way you take him.

If they race this year, it will be indoors, and it must be remembered that foreign runners are unaccustomed to indoor work, and a defeat indoors does not harm their outdoor standing in the least.

Used to Outdoors. Lloyd Hahn has shown that he can step the half mile indoors around 1:54, and also demonstrated last year when he ran against Wide that he can do the mile indoors around 4:12.

He did it last year in one-fifth second more, which is just one-fifth second away from the record.

Foreign runners are unaccustomed to running indoors, and the victory of Peltzer the other night while it was against the very high competition, thrust a fear into the hearts of the native sons who would like to see Hahn beat him if they race here.

Peltzer is not an indoor runner. Nurni, son, manager to learn how to run indoors, and perhaps Peltzer will likewise learn. Wide didn't you know.

But whether the indoor track is banked or flat, running under a roof is a lot different from running out under the open sky. Remember that if Peltzer is beaten indoors, don't penalize his ability too much.

Who's the Next? It seems as if now is the proper time for any young heavyweight to shove himself into the limelight, and perhaps crack off a chunk of big dough.

Alas, however, the promising young heavyweights are not to be found around here, and about the only great quantities at this time, and there is a great fear that the fight fans will have to be satisfied with the present crop of heavies for the next few months.

The Delaney-Henney, Sharkey-Basko and Paulino-Godfrey fights, two of which are taking place in Mr. Rickard's gardens in New York are including just about all the prominent heavies in the business at this time.

And of this lot, it is unlikely that either Paulino or Godfrey will usher himself into the big dough class of Mr. Rickard's expense.

Paulino has a chance, but the big Beque has been eliminated so many times that it is hardly likely he will be given a chance to eliminate himself again.

District Champs Coming Here For Basketball Meet

Friday and Saturday To Be Scenes of Play-Off, When Nineteen County Quintets Battle For Title

Under the direction of Ewing Y. Freeland, athletic director of the Lubbock Interscholastic league district, nineteen county champions of the Lubbock district will meet here Friday and Saturday, February 24 and 25, to determine the 1928 basketball title.

The following schools will likely have representatives to the tournament: Andrews, Gaines, Terry, Cochran, Dawson, Lynn, Garza, Hockley, Lubbock, Lamb, Crosby, Dickens, Hale, Floyd, Bailey, Motley, Martin, Borden, and Yockum.

Eligibility Lists Ordered. Letters have been mailed from the offices of the Texas Tech athletic department, instructing the champions of the 19 South Plains counties to forward immediately eligibility lists of the members of their respective teams. Also, the letters informed the coaches to be on hand for a meeting at the Tech gymnasium at noon Friday to draw for places in the elimination rounds.

Most of the counties of the South Plains district have held their championship tournaments, and all requirements set forth by the league should be complied with and such information forwarded to E. Y. Freeland not later than the middle of this week.

Texas Tech basketball players will likely act as tournament officials.

EL PASO VICTOR. ALPINE, Feb. 18. (AP)—El Paso won the first game of a two-game basketball series here today from the Fort Davis high school. The score was 22 to 11. El Paso coaches asked a return match before determining the district championship.

More Thunder Added To Dallas' Steer Herd

Weak Team To Be Supplanted With New Aggregation

Seventeen Newcomers. Many of Them Youngsters, Are Signed As Big Town Goes After Pennant

(By Associated Press.) DALLAS, Feb. 18.—Seventeen newcomers, including several youngsters, have been added to the Dallas baseball club in an effort to bolster the team that won a pennant in 1926, yet finished in fifth place in the 1927 Texas League race.

The Steer owners have attempted to build in place of the weak team of last year, a team that will be strong in every respect. Nevertheless, they will be without three of their heaviest hitters—Fred Brannan, Charles Berry and Charles (Hack) Miller. But the new blood undoubtedly will add much to the batting strength.

Infield Is Shattered. Pleading did not particularly bother the Steers last year, for they lost the league with a 500 average. But the old infield combination of Jim Riley, Hap Morse, Joe Tate and Ewell Gross will be back.

Paddy Bauman also will contest Morse's right to hold down second, while Walter Faust, House, David Shortstop with his slugging removed will argue shortstop with Gross, Riley and Tate, heavy hitters of the old infield, probably will be retained at first and third respectively without a very stiff battle from competitors for first base and the keystone sack.

Much will depend on the engineering done by Bert Ellison, slugging manager, who plays first base and in the outfield, but who admits he prefers to chase flies. Ellison will pick up from Francisco to two players in the Pacific Coast League, was a victim of misfortune last year, for while playing in the outfield for Minneapolis in the American association, he broke a leg, and was out for most of the season. He is expected this year, however, to yield a heavy blowdown as well as an excellent whip.

Pitchers Coming Back. All of the regulars on the Steer pitching staff will be back with a load of additions. Fourteen hurlers will start in spring training, but the brown of the load will fall on Edwin Love, Richard Schuman, Glenn Darrough, Alex McColl, Jack Knott, Gene Walker, Ray Owens, Allen Benson and Ruel Love, unless the newcomers exhibit some real ball tossing.

Schuman and Darrough, pitchers, almost certainly will stay. Neal Baker of the University of Texas, also will have a good chance to stick if he hurks the brand of ball which enabled him to win 12 games in his last year at the university.

"General" Jackson of Jersey City and Leo Skidmore of Baltimore are dark horses in these pastures; and must make good even to get sent to Akron, the Steer's farm. Yank Miller, in and out, also will be back.

Four Catchers Signed. Four catchers are on the roster, but the battle for a regular catcher's job probably will be between Joshua Billings, with a year's experience, and no phenomenon with a bat and Frank Kohlbecker from Atlanta in the Southern Association, who allegedly is Bob Snyder of Indianapolis in the American Association and Charlie Allen, another stranger for Yockum in the Cotton States and Southwestern league. The Steers are trying for a job behind the plate.

Outfield hopes of the Steer have been severely damaged by the withdrawal of Hack Miller, who hit .327 last year. Miller, who underwent a serious operation, has not yet recovered, and his physicians have ordered him not to report before May 15. It may be June 15 before Hack dons a uniform.

Outfielders Numerous. Even with Hack not on the field, eight contenders for outfield posts, where the Steers were weak last year, will start out with the club. In net Mueby, who hit .327 with Hack in 1927, will be back at his old post, but there will be seven other outfielders. Ellison, new manager, will be among the outfielders. He probably will get a regular job. Ed Russell Saunders from Matamoras in the Blue Jays, and Jack Knott, from Yockum, expect to compete for the middle of the outfield. William Hadden of the University of Texas, Forest Hanne of the Junior Agricultural college of Houston and Herb Kelly, member of the squad last year, also, will attempt to strengthen the weak spot.

The Steers have the following exhibition games scheduled: March 10-11, St. Paul; March 17-18, Oklahoma City; March 23-24, Chicago White Sox; March 29-31 and April 1-2, Minneapolis.

April 4-5, Detroit. There also will be a pre-season game with Fort Worth on April 7 or 8.

The veteran Joe Dugan cannot go many more years at this rate, and it may be that either Reese or Lary might be made over to the custodian of the third corner.

The latest Coast League to attract attention is Mickey Finn of the Mission club. Finn is a second sacker and since several major league clubs could use help at that position he is much in demand.

It is understood that Mission is asking $40,000 in cash for Finn and four players acceptable to them. This means players who could be sold for from $7,500 to $10,000. In other words a conservative estimate of Finn's price on this basis would be $75,000.

Several times McGraw weakened on him, feeling he couldn't make the grade. Always at such times, O'Connell would show enough stuff to cause McGraw to change his mind. Just when it seemed he was about ready to deliver, he was barred from baseball.

Billy Kamm of Chicago, one of the greatest fielding third basemen of all time and a pretty fair batsman, cost the White Sox in the neighborhood of $100,000 in money and players.

Connie Mack, one year paid Portland something like $40,000 for Third Baseman Sammy Hale and about $50,000 to Salt Lake for Outfielder Paul Strand. This investment of one hundred thousand gave Mack a good third sacker but Strand was a complete bust.

Tony Lazzeri cost the New York Yankees about $100,000. This young man just about started the team chaperoned by Miller Huggins on the way to pennants.

While no definite figure was ever given out by the Pittsburgh club it is conservative to say that Barney Dreyfus paid about $75,000 for Paul Waner and Hal Rhyme. The latter, Waner, touted as highly as Waner, has failed to be of much use to Pittsburgh but Waner proved to be the sensation of the league. Last year he was voted the most valuable player in the National.

Only recently, the New York Yankees, pleased with their investment in Tony Lazzeri, went out and bought two of the star infielders of the Coast League for 1928 delivery. I have referred to Reese or Lary might be made over to the custodian of the third corner.

Bullfighters Of Tech Ready For Thundering Herd

Canyon Buffaloes To Be On Hand For Two Tiffs Here Monday and Tuesday, As Court Season Closes.

Seemingly to continue their winning streak over the flaming-jerred loop artists of Texas Tech, Coach Samuel D. Burton's stampeding Buffaloes of the famous Palo Duro herd, will invade the Texas Tech gymnasium Monday and Tuesday evenings in the closing performances of the 1928 program. Both games are to be called at 7:30 o'clock.

In the early season the Matadors held the T. I. A. A. champion contenders to two of the closest games the Torador machine has ever been able to hold them to. 27 to 25 and 25 to 20, although the comparative scores made by the Matadors against the Steers university Cowboys and the Buffaloes against the Cowboys gives the indication that the Burton-trained herd will be harder to handle.

The Matadors split a twin bill with Simmons, with scores of 43 to 35 and 32 to 44, while the Buffs counted two victories over the Baptists, 63 to 36 and 60 to 30.

Tech To Battle Hard. Coach Victor Payne's outfit is figuring hard for hard games with the West Texas Teachers and the strongest combination that can be gathered from the Pecos campus will work against the Buffs on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The starting line-up to be used by Coach Payne will be Jennings and Hunter, forwards; Hemphill, center; and White and Kerr, guards.

It is anticipated that a record-breaking basketball crowd will file through the turnstiles of the Matador gymnasium in the concluding exhibitions of the Matador schedule.

COACH VICTOR PAYNE'S outfit is figuring hard for hard games with the West Texas Teachers and the strongest combination that can be gathered from the Pecos campus will work against the Buffs on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Kelsey, With Total of 22 Points, Leads Local Quint In Scoring; Idalou's Long Shots Fail.

Del Morgan's hustling, battling, and well-organized Westerners of Lubbock high school completely swept the rangy Idalou Wildcats off their feet with a shower of goals in the final and deciding contest of the Class "A" basketball tournament yesterday, and won the right to represent Lubbock county in the South Plains district interscholastic league meet by scoring a most decisive victory, 46 to 11, over the golden-jerseyed Idalou machine.

Early in the game, as a matter of fact, after the first minute of play had been on, Cocanougher, elongated pivot man of the Wildcats, sunk a short shot to score the first goal, then the Westerners with a steady flow of field goals started their drive which gave them a comfortable lead to work with for the rest of the game. At the end of the initial quarter, Lubbock led 14 to 3.

At the first half ended with the count reading 23 to 7; the third period, culminated by a score of 36 to 9, laid the final count was 46 to 11.

Kelsey Makes 22. Kelsey, the fast and hard working forward of the local quintet, scored the total point of the victory with 10 field goals and two free tosses to lead the floor in the scoring role of the game. Earnest Dowell, guard for the Morgans, trailed his forward mate with a total of 10 points for the victory. Coach Raymond Alter's floor work and great passing game was a feature of the game, and H. A. Castleberry, a consistent defensive

Slaton High Girls Capture Basketball Championship

Two Charlies of Cinderpath Meet as Relay Team Sets New World's Record

Carlisle, Hardy and Estacado Are Defeated by Lassies from Railway Center; Slaton Forwards Are Stars

Intercollegiate Leaguers Battle for Laurels And Silver Cup Is Prize Of Victorious Sextette.

The Slaton girls basketball team won a clear title in their division of the Lubbock County championship contest by successfully defeating the other three contenders. Carlisle by a count of 40-16; Hardy by a 15 to 10 tally; and in the last game piled up a score of 30 to 12 over the Estacado sextette. Throughout the tournament the remarkable work of Thelma Hendrix and Thelma Wilson, Slaton forwards, was outstanding as they scored consistently in each encounter.

The last two games of the meet, Slaton vs. Hardy, and Slaton vs. Estacado, were the two fastest girls' basketball contests that the Lubbock County Intercollegiate League has witnessed for sometime. Hardy and Estacado both played creditable basketball but failed to have forwards on an equal with those of Slaton.

Mangrum Is Star
Defensively "Skinny" Mangrum, of the Slaton club in center, was an outstanding feature of the games, as she was aggressive and her floor work was excellent.

In the early morning game, which was between Estacado and Canyon, for the title of Precinct No. 3, the Estacadoans scored a 21 to 16 victory over Canyon and won the right to represent Precinct 3 in the regular schedule of the county title race.

A silver leveling cup will be awarded the Slaton club for their work in the meet by the Lubbock County Intercollegiate League body.

Aggies Are Busy In All Kinds Of Sport Practices
But Baseball Seems To Be Of Most Interest As New Season Approaches; Fine Prospects Are Seen.

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal.)
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Feb. 18.—A and M baseball fans will get their first taste of the national sport when Coach Bob Countryman's Texas Aggies open their pre-season schedule with the Waco Cubs on Kyle Field March 16 and 17. The final pre-season game will be played March 22 with the Houston Buffaloes. Only three pre-season games can be played by members of the Southwest Conference.

HASKELL AND NOTRE DAME GAMES BEING PLANNED
Negotiations are under way for games with the Haskell Indians and Notre Dame nines during the month of April when those teams will play a four in the state. Since the Aggies do not play Baylor this season they have open dates left in their schedule and it is to fill these gaps in schedule that efforts are being made to secure the games.

GRIDSTERS ARE OUT FOR BASEBALL TEAM
Eight men from the ranks of the championship Texas Aggie gridiron squad are trying for positions on the baseball team. Siki Sikes, who played end on the eleven and was a star in the East-West game, is expected to be one of the mainstays of the A. and M. pitching staff this season. Joel Hunt, stellar quarterback and all-American player, is back at his old position at short. Pinky Alsbrook and Tom Holleran are in the race for first base. Mills and Holmes are putting in a strong bid for places on the hurling staff while Conover is working for a place in the outfield and Jefferies is showing up well as catcher.

BIG LEAGUE SCOUTS MAY FIND NEW STARS
Big League scouts will do well to keep an eye on the work of Broiles, Hunt, Sikes, and Bernhard this season, for all are expected to do great work under Countryman and each has signified his indication of entering professional baseball at the close of his college career.

HOGS MAY WIN BUT WON'T HOLD RECORD
Authors of the recent news dispatches stating that the Arkansas Razorbacks hope to establish a precedent by winning the Southwest Conference title three years in succession have evidently overlooked the fact that the Texas Aggies won the title for consecutive times beginning in 1920, when they were undefeated. The Texas Longhorns were the next conference victors, winning the title in 1924 with another undefeated quintet. In 1925 the title went to Oklahoma A. and M. and in 1926 and 1927 the Razorbacks were victorious.

STRONG TRACK TEAM MAY REPRESENT A. AND M.
Coach Frank Anderson expects to put a strong team on the cinder path and field for the Aggies this year but he expects to be weak in one event, the pole vault, for which he does not have a single competitor at the present time. The expected star in the event, H. Ashley, and V. J. Head, another dependable vaulter, have left school. J. U.

California Loses Basketball Prestige

RALPH DOUGERY, COACH, PRICE AND JIM DOUGERY

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—After one of those long winning streaks enjoyed every now and then by some collegiate team has been broken and California's basketball team no longer stands at the top of the class in Pacific coast basketball.

After ruling supremely for four years, the Golden Bears lost to small St. Ignace College a few days ago, the first defeat they have suffered since Jan. 30, 1925, and then dropped following games to the Southern California Trojans.

For four years in succession, California won the Pacific coast conference championship. During those years, three of which saw California under the guidance of "Nibs" Price, the Bears won 57 games and lost 6, scoring 1881 points, an average of 33 a game.

The collapse of the Bears is partly due to the lengthened football campaign because of the clash with Pennsylvania on Dec. 31. Football practice prevented the two Dougery boys from practicing basketball.

As a result, the court team suffered. Jim Dougery, captain and guard and his brother, Ralph, forward, are the two hopes of Coach Price to make the best of what has been a not too creditable season.

Both brothers were star football players and are rated equally proficient on the cage floor.

Sherrod Will Be Lubbock Envoy To Road Commission

Leaves Today for Austin to Represent City Before Session of Highway Board Monday.

B. Sherrod, representing the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, and the citizenship of Lubbock, will leave this morning in company with County Judge Charles Nordyke for Austin, where they will meet with the state highway commission.

A number of road matters in which Lubbock county and the surrounding territory are interested will be brought up, among them the aid that Knox county is asking for an east-west highway, giving connection with Fort Worth and Wichita Falls.

Another important route up for consideration is the connecting links between St. Louis and dual terminals at Odessa and El Paso in Texas. This will give connection with oil territory in western Texas, and is important also as a tourist route through Carlsbad, N. M., to El Paso for California-bound tourists.

The importance of this latter is magnified by the probability that the White Mountains of New Mexico and the Carlsbad Caverns promise to be the playground and summer resort of the bulk of American tourists within a few years.

Mile. Lenglen, although he had intended to exploit her for an entirely different purpose, he approached Tilden indirectly about joining the company for a professional tour.

Tilden at that time, according to the story, would have accepted but for two reasons—he said he never could get along with Mile. Lenglen and he wanted to be the manager and the boss. There is a waste basket in every man's mind.

And into it go the things he does not believe. Example: John Smith, because of his unusual build really does require made-to-order clothing.

When Smith reads a ready-to-wear adv. "WE CAN FIT YOU"—he scowls—pulls out the basket—and BANG!

Youthful Borah Wins Laurels Over More Experienced Paddock In Events Annual A. A. U. Relay at Los Angeles

New Mark of 41 3-5 Seconds Set In Quarter Mile, Four Man Relay Event, Borah Besting Paddock.

(By Associated Press.)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 18.—The two Charlies of the cinder path—Charlie Borah, University of Southern California flyer and his veteran rival, Charlie Paddock, now running under the Los Angeles Athletic club's colors—met twice in an indirect way during the annual A. A. U. relay carnival here today and the youthful trojan won honors, if any, by a shade.

The curly haired Southern California youth and the kingly of the dashes met first in the quarter mile four man relay, but Paddock got away to a seven yard start but the powerful drive of Paddock's running legs all but made up for it. They breasted the tape with less than a yard separating them—Borah the winner.

The former record was established here in May, 1925, by another Southern California quartet—Brice, Taylor, Ed House, Bob Lee and Keith Lloyd.

They did not run against each other in the other race, the half mile four man relay, but Paddock giving all that was in him made up several yards that Borah had gained in a previous lap, to give the Los Angeles Athletic club victory. Borah ran the second lap. The time was one minute 28 1-5 seconds.

Charles V. Harlow, former Stanford javelin ace tossed the spear a distance of 200-feet five inches to beat a classy field in this event and set a new Southern California record.

Texas Bests Borah Weldon Draper Is Winner Off Star

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—Weldon Draper, former Port Worth, Texas, Central high school student, showed his heels to Charlie Borah, his vaunted fellow student at the University of Southern California in the 100 yard dash event of the A. A. U. relays here today. Borah, however, finished inches behind. The time was 10 seconds flat.

of the tennis association and that there even may be an open championship. The players right now are trying to find out what the other ones are going to do and they don't know which way to jump. It is quite certain, however, that Mrs. Mollie Mallory will not turn professional because she said recently to one of her friends: "Maybe I'll be the amateur champion again by eliminations."

Kicking side, it may not be advanced beyond the point of recovery; (c) ball to receiving team if it goes out of bounds on a kick regardless of whether it was touched in field play by kicking team after having been fumbled.

Football officials have been relieved of the burden of having to decide between a muff and a fumble. Protecting arms still are thrown around the player catching a punt by depriving men on the kicking side of the right to run with the ball if it is recovered on a misplay.

But decisions of judgment are now avoided as the amended rule covers fumbles as well as muffs. This rule will encourage more than ever before the catching and returning of punts.

Screen Passes Curbed
"If the side in possession of the ball makes a forward pass, no player of the said side who has crossed the line of scrimmage shall in any manner interfere with an opponent until the ball has been touched except in an actual attempt to catch or bat the ball himself."

Heretofore when a forward pass was thrown, players of the passer's side who had crossed the line of scrimmage have been allowed to interfere with an opponent until the pass had actually been made. This gradually led to abuses so that what is known as the screen pass became a powerful part of the attack of many teams. The effect of this change should be to do away with unfair blocking of the defensive players by men who are not eligible to receive the pass and should leave that part of the field to which the pass is directed less congested, should give the eligible players of both teams a fair opportunity to get at the ball.

Shift or Huddle Plays
"In shift and huddle plays all the players of the side in possession of the ball must come to an absolute stop of approximately one second."

Two or more men constitute a shift and if one man is shifting he should be ruled under the player in motion clause.

Close Line Play Under Clipping
"Close line play under clipping is defined as the space between the two defensive tackles and three yards on each side of the line of scrimmage."

Ball Striking Goal Posts
"Any kicked ball which strikes the goal posts is to be ruled dead."

Equipment of Players
The committee urgently requests that coaches take primary responsibility for the use of dangerous equipment.

Politics

choice. These three candidates nowhere are contesting against Senator Willis himself, and their interests become his interests so far as Ohio is concerned when they agree to go on the same ticket with him.

On Western Trip
Although Senator Reed has not formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination, he proposes to talk politics during his western trip, which will take him into ten or a dozen states west of the Mississippi. The first speech will be delivered Monday night at Dallas.

"My present speaking engagements have been made at the insistence of many friends in each locality," he said just before leaving Washington. "And are the result of the invitations of long standing."

"I shall discuss those national issues which are conceived to be paramount, particularly stressing the necessity of driving corruption from high public office."

The Democratic party will depend on honest administration of government; the swift and sure punishment of all public plunderers, bribe-mongers, and bribe-takers; the equalization of the burden of taxation; the use of the federal government of an army of spies and informers; and the liberation of honest business from oppressive interference by governmental agencies."

Dakotas to Vote

Thus far Senator Reed has made no plans to go into North Dakota, where on March 20th he and Governor Smith are to be voted for in the first contested primary of the year. Across the line in South Dakota where some local preferences meetings were held during the past week, the two candidates captured some delegates to the district conventions, although most of the precincts voted no preferences. A state convention to be held early next month promises to develop both Smith and Reed support.

At the same time, the South Dakota development, the Smith-for-President movement has taken more definite form during the past two weeks in Kentucky and some other states. In Kentucky, as in Wisconsin, however, two rival local groups are fighting for the nomination, one in the National Convention.

Smith Opponents Grow

But the quiet activities of those who are opposing Smith in the South are no less numerous and widespread. The picturesque Senator Blaine of South Carolina, a constituent of a few days ago, if the party nominated Smith, it might as well save its pains and money. Georgia perfected her plans to vote for Senator George of that state, who also is said to have a following in Florida and South Carolina, the two states where the legislature of the latter state on Feb. 23, Tennessee is committed to Representative Hull; Mississippi to Senator Harrison; and Arkansas to Senator Robinson. There is talk of supporting Governor Moody in North Carolina, while many Kentucky Democrats want to instruct for Senator Barkley.

Hoover Day

Today might almost have been called "Hoover Day" at the White House, were it not for the fact that all of the political talk was done, not by President Coolidge, but by Representative of New York, who is from various parts of the country who called on him and who one and all disclosed having discussed politics in his presence.

At the White House, the executive offices of Representative Port of New Jersey said all of his state's 331 votes would go to Hoover; William M. Calder, former senator from New York, predicted that the commerce secretary would be nominated, and would be New York; Mark L. Reagan, the San Francisco oil magnate, said it was futile to ask about the political situation in California, because it was all Hoover.

tion of the state body taken at the El Paso convention last November. The El Paso convention ratified the election of Mrs. Fields as Texas biennial chairman.

The purpose of the temporary council, according to Mrs. G. D. Anderson, of Wichita Falls, who put the motion forming the council, is to "carry forward the principle of states rights in the matter of reinstating Mrs. Fields."

Mrs. O. T. Olney, who presided, was elected chairman of the council; Mrs. Dallas Scarborough of Abilene, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. E. T. Brooks of Abilene vice-chairman, and Mrs. Rhea Anderson of Olney, corresponding secretary.

Air Crash

his death in a hospital a few hours afterward.

Two other persons, unidentified, were believed to have been fatally hurt.

None of those who were plunged into the drug store basement by the collapse were believed to have been seriously hurt, most of them reporting only minor cuts and bruises.

Exploded Near Ship
Several planes were in the air when the crash occurred, but only one was flying close enough for follow-up to see what happened. Gardner Ragle, its pilot, said the ill-fated plane's first two bombs had exploded without mishap but that the third appeared to have exploded within a few feet of the ship.

He expressed the belief that both Steele and Ashcraft were killed instantly, the former being decapitated by the blast. Their bodies struck the street some distance from the wrecked plane, leading to the belief that they had been catapulted out of the craft by the explosion.

Events on today's derby program in which 30 or more fliers were participating were abandoned and all social features of the meet were cancelled.

Chest of Gems

ed to the salesman's room at a local hotel.

The arrival of the jewelry trunk was linked to this city, where a young man secured it from the depot and engaged a drayman to haul it to the Y. M. C. A. building. The trunk was left outside the building instead of being carried up to a room, detectives discovered. They believed this was a ruse to carry the gem laden trunk away from the depot to a point where it could be picked up by automobile, taken to a secluded spot and looted.

Y. M. C. A. officials confirmed the report that the trunk arrived at the building. It was discovered, however, that the trunk had been looted on the highway near Handley.

Newspapers found inside the trunk delivered to the optician were from Oklahoma City and bore the dates Feb. 8 and 9. Sacks of flour and other goods were found in the trunk, Okla., and Wichita Falls, Texas.

Police believe the trunk checks were switched in Wichita Falls although Optician said he saw no suspicious characters around his room there or at the depot.

Ferry Boat

later sounded a "stop" bell.

"As the Peralta appeared to dip, I ordered back full speed," said Captain Melsome.

The sea on coming aboard flooded the main deck and part of the inner cabin. As the headway lessened, the Peralta came back to anchor, even keel and shed the water it had taken on.

"A panic took place among the passengers. Members of the crew had to fight their way in getting to the boats, causing a delay in getting the first boat away."

Cotton Meet

resented at the conference, wide possibilities are offered.

If the meeting can bring out result that will cause cotton acreage to be cut sufficiently to force the market to an average of even as little as two cents per pound over the last ten or twenty years or can conceive a method that will bring the market season for the staple over a period that will force an average higher price, delegates have declared, it will have added from $120,000,000 to $150,000,000 to the annual income of the cotton producing states.

Plans Made

In the meantime, plans for the conference have gone forward and the city is preparing to entertain approximately 1,000 persons expected to attend.

The conference will start organization work at 9:30 a. m. Monday. An address of welcome will be delivered by E. H. Bradshaw, president of the chamber of commerce, who will introduce Governor Theo. G. Bilbo. Governor Bilbo will act as temporary chairman and will introduce Governor Dan Moody of Texas at whose instance the meeting is being held and who will act as permanent chairman.

It is anticipated that an open forum will be held during the morning when short addresses will be made by the delegates who will have an opportunity to exchange ideas.

Before noon, committees will be named to draft resolutions and to thresh out various questions and later in the day will report back to the general assembly, which they will take official action.

Governors scheduled to be here besides Governors Bilbo and Moody are L. G. Hardman, Georgia; Bibb Graves, Alabama; Henry Horton, Tennessee; O. H. Simpson, Louisiana; J. E. Martin, Arkansas; and John G. Richards of South Carolina.

Each visiting state is to have from six to 75 delegates, while approximately 750 Mississippi delegates will represent this state.

The legislature of the state already has pledged itself to give its whole-hearted cooperation to the convention and to enact measures designed to carry out the plan adopted by the conference. It will not be in session Monday.

HORN ON WAY

TO JACKSON MEET.

Dr. Paul W. Horn, of Texas Tech, is on his way to Jackson, Miss., where he is to attend the conference of Southern governors, college and university men which is being held in the interest of cotton acreage reduction in the south. He is attending the conference at the personal invitation of Governor Dan Moody who will also be present.

Clifford B. Jones, of Spur, president of the Tech board of directors stated during the week that he might also attend the conference. It is not known whether he will attend or not.

On his return from the conference, Dr. Horn will stop off in Austin, Texas, where he will address the Rotary club and a church banquet meeting there on February 22. On February 24 and 25 he will be in El Paso where he will speak to various school meetings.

This Is Charged to Two Young Men

False swearing charges filed in the court of Justice W. S. Clark have put at least a temporary blight upon the romance of an Abilene couple, following the arrest Friday of two youths upon complaint of the father of the girl, who had intended to become a bride last Friday.

The charges were filed against the boy who was to have become a husband and against his friend who testified that the would-be bridegroom was 21 years of age, and that the girl had reached the age of 18.

Both youths were released on bonds of $1,000 each.

Spring Is In The Air--What of Your Plans For New Apparel In Keeping With The Season

There is a great amount of pleasure in planning your new clothes each season, especially in a spring season when the change is from the heavier weights and more sober colorings to the light airy weights and the bright spring shades. There is a satisfaction too about choosing the new things when you choose them at Lubbock's "Finest Department Store." You have that sureness of the correctness of things—that knowledge that they are the last word as to style—that assurance that you are purchasing a full measure of quality and satisfactory service on every transaction. Never have we shown so much that is clever and unusual. Never have our early showings been so complete. Frankly too, most of these unusual things are being selected almost on arrival so it will be well for you too to think seriously of your new garments.

We Appear Today For the First Time Under Our New Name

Hemphill-Wells Co.

At the meeting of our Board of Directors in January a resolution was passed authorizing an increase in our capital stock of from $60,000.00 to $100,000.00 and changing our firm name from Hemphill-Price Co. to Hemphill-Wells Co. Authority for these changes have just been received from the State Department—today we appear for the first time with our new name. These changes do not in any way effect the investments of members of the old corporation, nor the positions, personnel or management of the business. The increase in capital will place us in a position to render an increased service to the people of this section and enable us to supply ever increasing stocks to keep pace with the rapid development of this section. The change in name is merely in line with an established policy in our stores, i.e. that of embodying in the firm name the name of the executive head of each store. At this time Mrs. M. L. Price becomes a member of our board of directors and Lewis H. Price, who has been a member of the board for some years, is elevated to the office of Treasurer.

You will find the same policies, the same courteous service, the same progressive air about our store under the new name that prevailed under the old. You will also find here a store that believes in the almost unlimited possibilities for the future of this city and section and one determined to grow and prosper with it.

Major Hoople Says Al Smith Can't Carry Texas And Cites His Reason For Opposition To New York's Man

Governor's Wet Stand Will Ruin Him As Far As This State Goes, Says Lubbock Philosopher

It's perfectly all right to talk about "voting the ticket straight," but if Al Smith happens to get the Democratic nomination it will take something drier than powder to blow the Texas vote his way. Texas has just 20 votes, but they count and count plenty, and a Democrat that loses Texas might lose the election. A bone-dry candidate for the vice-presidency, with Al as a running mate, will not help matters. It will mean political death, and this is probably the reason leaders are having so much trouble to locate such a candidate.

Now Texas isn't the driest state in the Union—there are a few wets still with us. But a Texas wet looks like a drough as compared with the Smith variety. Down here they don't have the "pen" for allowing his affinity to do so. Down here there are plenty of people with dusty tonsils—they can't get enough of any one thing to get a kick. Up there all they use water for is to wash in.

Think We're Boobs. There are several reasons for this, and the main one is enlightenment. New Yorkers take us for a bunch of long horned boobies—then we are cattle of the most common variety. Still, what they don't know about us and our state would fill a big book.

There are more Democrats to the square inch in Texas than there are native born American citizens in New York. The trouble with those fellows up there is they have never been able to learn the meaning of two words—freedom and independence. Most of them have been scrapping all their lives so when they come to America all they know is the battle cry. If they are not preaching anarchy, blowing up buildings or trying to chase the golden sceptre out of the hands of the Goddess of Liberty they are demanding just a little more than their constitutional rights. Of course the constitution doesn't mean very much to them, and that may be why they think so little of it.

Smith a Big Success. So far as Al Smith is concerned, no one has ever doubted his being a good citizen. As governor of New York he has been a howling success, and his friends are legion. But Al couldn't qualify for constable in Texas—he isn't in harmony with Texas ideals. Most New Yorkers have an idea that New York means America—that other portions of the country are just suburbs and don't amount to much. They feel that if New York is satisfied with a candidate that the rest of us shouldn't kick. Well, in a way they are right, for New York has it on us when it comes to votes—they have 40—Texas 20. Yet if we listen to New York eight months in a year, we should be allowed a few minutes along at the close of the season, and that is just what is going to happen.

The national convention will meet in Texas this year, and Al Smith may get the nomination. If he does he will have a Republican president for another four years. The majority of Texas Democrats will not support an avowed enemy of prohibition. Al being a Democrat, can do just as he chooses. If he wants Manhattan cocktail for breakfast, in rickety for lunch and 40 per cent wine in the evening—that's his business. And if Texans don't want these things, but crave were planted in that state the first year, as a result of the governor's Arbor Day proclamation in 1872. The idea spread and met with such universal enthusiasm that over four hundred millions of trees have been planted by the school children of Nebraska since that time.

The worth of this custom was recognized in Texas in 1889, when the law was enacted designating February 22, Washington's birthday as Arbor Day. Forty states now observe Arbor Day and in at least one state a day is set aside both in the spring and in the fall.

SNYDER WANTS MEET

Goes After Regional Session Of West Texas C. Of C.

SNYDER, Feb. 18.—The Scurry county chamber of commerce and the Snyder Lumber club will combine in one body and attend the regional convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce to be held at Colorado, February 29th, according to plans completed today.

Snyder will make a decided bid for the next convention and hopes to land it for this city next year. Plans have been completed for a mass meeting to be held here Monday night when the relocation committee of Gunter college Church of Christ school, to visit Snyder. The committee will inspect a proposed site for the educational institution. The college is to be moved from Gunter, Texas, to some West Texas city to be determined by the relocation committee.

acqua pura—that's their business. We can still be democrats, but instead of the "vote her straight variety" we will have "vote her straight—unless you have cause not-to-do-so, Democrats."

Wet Democrats in the East were not so dead behind the ears when they allowed Dry Texas to enter into the national convention. No they used strategy and lots of it. Still eastern Democrats with all the wetness they boast can not hope to dampen this whole state in a period of four or five days, during which time the convention will be in session. Texas is a big place, and it will take a lot of "dampness" to be noticeable. Then, too, Texas covers all the ground it stands upon, and that is as much as half a dozen New Yorks with a Connecticut and a couple of Rhode Islands thrown in for good measure.

Right now we are lacking in population, but with our natural resources, our ideal climate and other gifts we are going to draw more people, and when our population reaches the density of the East there won't be any elections—they will just "phone down and ask us which Democrat we are going to elect. Until that time we will just keep voting and fussing and planning. Selah.

Farmers Can Make Real Money Raising Poultry

It's a mighty fine thing, too, to find the South Plains farmers studying and co-operating in poultry production and marketing. We commend them for such action.

You Can Make More Money Raising Poultry with

BUCKEYE INCUBATORS

The most vital period in the life of a baby chick is the first 24 hours. It is during that period when a foundation is laid for the future health and vitality of the chick. It is absolutely a fact that any sudden change of temperature during the first 24 hours will do more real damage than any other calamity that could possibly befall the chick. White diarrhea is almost always the result of subjecting the chicks to sudden changes in temperature during those first 24 hours.

Buckeye Incubators Avoid All Possibility of Subjecting the Chicks to Any Harmful Temperature Changes While They Are Hatching!

Buckeye Incubators and Brooders have proved their money making ability. They have proved it in the hands of nearly a million farmers and poultrymen. Think of it. More than 250,000 users have proved Buckeye Brooders' ability to stop the losses; its ability to raise every valuable chick. More than 700,000 users have proved the ability to hatch every hatchable egg. To thousands of poultrymen Buckeye's ability has been so amazing, so incomparable, that they have actually discarded all other incubators and brooders and use BUCKEYES only!

They Are Guaranteed by the World's Largest Manufacturers of Incubators and Brooders! We Guarantee You Satisfaction With Their Use!

Trees Make Home More Attractive Arbor Day In Texas Comes On Feb. 22

By Miss Louise Baird County Demonstration Agent

Trees and shrubs are essential to the making of a real home. They increase the value of the property and make conditions more pleasant and healthful. They are beautiful because they transpire moisture into the air and produce a restful effect on the eyes and nerves. There is scant comfort in a house or barnyard drifting snows of winter, and to the withering blasts of the hot rural winds of summer.

A study of rural economics, realize that before one can expect the boys and girls to stay on the farm, there must be attractions on the farm that are comparable with those of the city. One of the best ways this can be accomplished is by making the country home comfortable and attractive. Comfortable by the use of modern conveniences, and attractive by the planting of trees, shrubs, and grass around the home.

Twenty-three states out of the forty-eight have considered tree planting of sufficient importance to make special laws to encourage the planting of trees, and to aid in various ways in this project. Texas is not one of these. All the planting that has been done in Texas has been done individually, but wherever such an improved farm is found in Texas, it looks like an oasis in a desert.

Origin Interesting. The twenty second of this month is Arbor Day, the origin of which makes an interesting story. Fifteen hundred years ago in a little town of Switzerland, the people of the village decided they must have oak trees on their common, so a day was set aside on which every man, woman and child, tramped out in the woods and each dug a little tree, which was carried back to the common and planted under the direction of a gardener. The old story says that everyone did his duty gladly, and that the older folks held a festival in the evening with songs and festivals, and that every boy and girl received a wheaten roll as a reward. Thus was the first Arbor Day observed by the people of the Alps. For many years afterwards the little Swiss village observed the Anniversary of its first Arbor Day by feasting and making merry, while the children paraded through the streets carrying oak branches in memory of the first oak trees.

Al Smith Losing Strength In Texas, Writer Says

While It's Too Early To Make Any Predictions On State Committee's Stand, It's Not Too Soon To Guess

New York Governor Will Be Weaker In May Than Now, Waide Says; North Texas Opposes Wet

By C. D. WAIDE
Special Correspondent

AUSTIN, Feb. 18.—It is entirely too early to make any predictions as to what the state democratic convention is going to do when it meets on May 2, but a decided trend is now developing that may make predictions safe within a few short weeks.

Al Smith is losing ground in Texas now, if dependence may be placed in reports coming from all sections of the state, and it would seem now that his losses will continue. This is the fair and impartial judgment of a writer whose personal leanings are toward Smith.

Smith Strong in South
Smith is strong in south Texas, and especially in Houston, where there seems a prevailing opinion that he is the only democrat who can win, and that he must be nominated. But in north Texas, especially in those counties that were favorable to Butler against Mrs. Ferguson, sentiment against Smith seems to be getting stronger.

While some of the opponents of Smith are frank in giving their reasons, especially the real prohibitionists, yet the religious opposition is almost as strong. But he is cloaked under the prohibition question. In other words, the old guard of the Klan and others who are bitter against the Catholics do not, as a rule, base their opposition on that ground, but on the prohibition question.

Opposition is Unorganized
So far, however, the Smith opposition is without organization. Numerous prominent citizens have declared themselves against the New York governor, but have done it in a disjointed, unorganized manner. If the Smith opposition becomes organized its weight will be realized more forcibly.

Now that the honor of having the national convention has become adjusted to the heads of the Texas voters they are beginning to think about their own votes. Houston leaders and some few other citizens have been emphasizing the duty of Texas to keep out of a party fight, and support the nominee. But a growing resentment against that advice is coming to the fore. The anti-Smith crowd remembers that New York didn't do that four years ago and they have no intention of letting the laws of hospitality supersede their rights of suffrage.

Dan Best Be Careful
If Dan Moody doesn't keep a close eye on his friends they are likely to do him a grave injustice at the state convention. There is one very substantial element in the state that wants to see the state delegation instructed for Moody with a hope of nominating him for president or vice president. Another, still larger, element wants to instruct for Moody as a simple favorite son gesture, which is the recognized equivalent of no instructions. Another element, hoping the delegation may be controllable, want the same thing with a view to swinging the 40 votes elsewhere at the right time.

And there is where danger lies for Dan. If he permits the delegation to be instructed for him, and then it is thrown for or against Smith, Moody will get the blame. It might be that common sense would dictate the support of Smith, but the ardent anti-Smith crowd would blame Moody—and that just three weeks before the state primaries, in which

Moody probably will be candidate for re-election, or nomination. Moody's Position Precarious
On the other hand the Texas delegation might block the nomination of Smith at the crucial moment, and Moody would get the blame. Or it might fight Smith to the last moment, when his nomination was assured, thus losing for the state any credit for his success, and Moody would be blamed.

Moody doesn't want the nomination for vice presidency, very few sincerely think he can "have" the nomination for the presidency, therefore it seems to this writer that the governor's real friends will keep his name out of the middle. A favorite son instruction has become an idle gesture that scarcely carried with it any honor these days. On the other hand it makes a goat of the said favorite son, or would in Moody's case.

Yet, between now and May 22 the plan to instruct for Moody is going to get stronger and stronger. Anti-Smith forces are going to adopt it as a means of preventing instructions favorable to Smith; Smith forces will adopt it in the hope that after the third or fourth ballot they can throw the delegation to their candidate, and in either event Dan will get the blame.

Snyder Citizens Meet To Continue New Plans For Additional Railway Facilities; Two Chosen For Board

Capt. Ed Kennedy, Promoter Of Artesia, Roswell And Snyder Line, Sure That Road Will Be Built

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SNYDER, Tex., Feb. 18.—Further developments came today in the proposed building of the Artesia, Roswell and Snyder railroad when a special meeting was held at the Snyder National bank this afternoon with the full railroad committee in attendance. The meeting was sponsored by the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce. O. P. Thrane, vice president of the Snyder National bank, and Robert H. Curnette, vice president, First National bank, were elected members of the board of directors of the proposed line with full authority of the rails committee to act, as well as acting on a townsites board.

Definite assurance was given the committee by Capt. Ed Kennedy, of Houston, promoter, that he would arrive in Snyder with a corps of engineers within the next thirty days to run the line from the caprock to Snyder. Full expectation was given that the engineers would remain in Snyder until the work was ready for the graders.

Survey Is Read

During the meeting a survey was read that had been secured by a special committee in connection with the tonnage data for Snyder alone. It was brought out that during 1927, over one hundred million pounds of freight was handled for Snyder alone. Inbound tonnage registered more than twelve hundred carloads, while outbound numbered more than 625 carloads, not including shipment of 24,000 bales of cotton during last year.

The committee had no way to positively ascertain tonnage figures from motor truck business, but conservatively estimated that as more than 1,000 tons a year. These figures were for the city of Snyder only and does not include Hermleigh, Fluvanna, Bunn, Inadale, Pyron, Dermott or Ennis Creek, which are all located in Scurry county. Railroads now entering Snyder include the Santa Fe and the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific. Word from Lamesa further brought out that for a number of years that city and other South Plains towns had to pay an extra tax in the form of a freight differential on all tonnage. With an eastern outlet, such as the Artesia, Roswell and Snyder railroad would give them direct market with Fort Worth, Dallas and Amarillo, in addition to giving them direct connections to Houston and Galveston with their remarkable water route facilities. The territory that would be served by an additional railway has witnessed one of the most remarkable and rapid developments within the last few years of any section of Texas, and is contributing in no small quantity to the production of West Texas.

There yet remains hundreds of thousands of acres untouched by the plow. Towns, such as Lamesa, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Brownfield, Gail, Plains, Tatum, only await adequate transportation facilities to cause intensive development and afford production that would far the facilities of more than one transportation company to handle in a satisfactory manner.

Sagamore Hill School Association, Fort Worth, Is First Texas Club To Register In 1928 Summer Round-Up

Value of Health Campaign Told by Mrs. Maddocks; Nurse Is Available For Some Counties.

AUSTIN, Feb. 18.—Sagamore Hill Parent-Teacher association, Fort Worth, the only Texas association to reach the highest classification and which accordingly was placed in Honor Roll "A" for the 1927 summer round-up for pre-school children, which campaign is sponsored by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, is the first Texas association to register for the 1928 campaign, according to Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, past president of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, who is now state chairman of child hygiene and summer round-up campaign. To be placed on this honor roll associations must correct at least 75 per cent of the remediable defects found in the children examined in the April or May clinic. But Sagamore Hill corrected 92 per cent and so was eighth in the list of ten associations in the United States that corrected over 90 per cent of the defects.

Other Texas associations which did well in the 1927 campaign and were placed on Honor Roll "B" are Fletcher and Juniper Parent-Teacher associations, Beaumont; East Ward Sweetwater, Baker, Austin; A. & M. Mothers club, College Station; and New Parent-Teacher association, Texarkana.

Sends Out Plans.

Mrs. Maddocks is enthusiastic about the value of the summer round-up and has sent out, through the official organ of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, plans for the 1928 campaign in which she urges Texas associations to make this round-up work a regular part of their program. She says that because the campaign is under the direction of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, it is a national campaign and that it is desirable to have the first examination free of charge by the campaign office. Fourth, associations register with the state chairman who in turn forwards the registration to the campaign office.

Mrs. Maddocks wishes the fullest cooperation with state county and city health officials in the campaign and expresses herself as being delighted with the cooperation the state health department, which through Dr. J. C. Anderson and the Child Hygiene Department, is offering the services of Miss Celia Moore, state itinerant nurse for use in the summer round-up in counties that have no county nurse. This offer was made to the state board in January and was gratefully accepted.

Recognizes Value.

"This shows," states Mrs. Maddocks, "that the state health department recognizes the value of the summer round-up, and it should be explained that neither the national nor the state congress desires free medical treatment. It is desirable to have the first examination free because of the fact that only those parents who know their children are sick will pay for an examination, when often an examination of a child that seems well will reveal alarming symptoms that, taken in time, can be easily corrected, but if allowed to run on will become serious handicaps to the child."

Registrations should be made immediately and before April 20th with Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, Ranger, Texas.

A George Washington party that was unique in entertainment was given Friday evening at College Inn when senior home economics students of the Technological College entertained the College Home Economics club. About fifty were in attendance.

Candidate For Presidency General Federation, Mrs. John F. Sippel, Of Baltimore, Is Honored By Maryland

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Darling Mother:

Well, I asked Alan what he thought about settling down to house and slippers and you should have heard what he said! It was sufficiently scorching to decide me not to undertake his training.

Anyway, what woman wants a trained husband these days? We prefer that men remain just as they were when we married them. Being able to take our time about it without fear of becoming old maids, why, we have a better break in getting what we want in marriage. It's just because they do sometimes change afterwards that some of us decide on a little detour to Paris or Reno.

And as for losing our freshness, we know where to get it back. Sleeping late mornings restores my youthful bloom quite successfully and there are always the perfectly marvelous beauty parlors to make us blossom like dandelions after a day when we don't have to slave as women did before the age of electricity.

Alan refused to come home to lunch. He said he hadn't time. I don't think it would have worked out anyhow because I'd have been rushed like mad to get ready for him.

As it is I've planned to drop in the office about noon occasionally and go to lunch with him so he won't have to put up with the company of girls like that one I saw him with. To be frank, she looked as if she was a good deal older than I and I don't think that kind of association would do Alan any good. He hasn't said who she was.

Yesterday I had a surprise visit from Norman's aunt and what do you think she had the effrontery to say to me? She actually said that my engagement to him as they wanted him to take his art seriously, and they believed couldn't if he married a flapper! I hope you will call on his mother and tell her that they can't expect anything like that from Norman, for he certainly enjoyed being "flapped."

Alan sends his love and says to ask you to send some more jelly. We've used it all up with waffles for late snacks. Some of the gals hadn't jelly since they were kids.

With love and thanks,

MARYE

Therefore, Madam President, in behalf of the Executive Board of the Maryland Federation of Women's clubs, I have the very great privilege to present to the General Federation Headquarters in Boston of Mrs. John F. Two teas are scheduled for the coming week that promise to be of interest to many Lubbock club and society women. The Janey Anderson chapter of D. A. R. is to entertain Wednesday afternoon with an annual reception, this one to be in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Neill, 1623 Broadway. Mrs. J. L. Ford is regent of the local chapter.

The other tea is to be given by members of the First Methodist W. M. S. at the parsonage on Saturday afternoon observing the twenty-sixth anniversary of the society organization.

The beginning of Lent observance on Wednesday of this week will probably be felt in the postponement of some social club meetings and parties until after Easter. As many Lubbock folk do not observe the season of abstinence, it will have little effect in some circles.

During the last week there were a number of social events. Mrs. Herbert Lowery and Mrs. J. Rankin Dox entertained with the most pretentious affair of the week Tuesday afternoon at the Lowery home. Fourteen tables were laid for bridge games during the afternoon. The Saint Patrick motif was used in decorations.

That evening Mr. and Mrs. Lowery entertained 1-Deal club members in their home. In entertaining the Bluebonnet club Wednesday afternoon Mrs. W. H. Meador invited in guests, filling every table and adding to the enjoyment of this occasion.

College weeks of the week included class and Valentine parties, birthday surprises and in honor parties for visitors.

Wolffarth, president, said yesterday and will honor two charter members of the organization who live here. Several other Lubbock women joined the society within a few months of its organization. Mrs. Wolffarth stated, and these will be honored with pioneer W. M. S. members, women who have been in missionary societies for thirty or forty years.

Paris Peers Into The Spring Color Crystal

As Jenny envisions spring color combinations: (left) a light blue jersey frock with silk coat of darker blue, (center) a beige tweed ensemble, trimmed in kid, the sweater of mixed silk and wool in beige and tan, the belt of kid and the hat beige and kid-trimmed; (right) a velvet coat in pink, trimmed with stitching and summer ermine.

By ROSETTE
NEA Fashion Expert

PARIS, Feb. 18.—After seeing all the mid-season collections to be seen, it is very evident that white, combined with two or three pastel shades, is favored all around for wear in the Middle or at Palm Beach. Most of these suits include the eternal sweater, plaid skirt and a straight three quarter length coat with a light fur collar. The word sweater, however, seems the wrong term to apply to the garments which resemble the original sweater in shape only, as the modern article is a much more elaborate affair. Those sweaters, for instance, made of a mixture of wool and silk with a gold or silver thread running through the pattern, are as dressy as a crepe de chine blouse.

Rose and Green on White
Patou has a white ensemble trimmed with rather wide bands of rose and green on the sweater, and another trimmed with red which has a white handkerchief scarf showing the same red border. All these white suits are worn with white hats and a rather novel shade of brown shoe.

Apart from white, there is a certain shade of egg-blue flecked with white which promises to be popular during the coming spring, as well as a faded pink and a delicate grey. Jenny features all these colors in her collection for Monte Carlo and Cannes and sometimes uses all three on one ensemble, that is to say, she will trim the sweater of a pearl grey suit with alternate bands of pink and blue to great advantage.

Those of us who are less fortunate and have to stay at home, are forced to admit that everywhere we go the black is predominant to the point of uniformity. There are very few women to be seen wearing bright colors, in the afternoon at least, and even in the evening at any smart gathering you will find a goodly sprinkling of black frocks.

It may be a passing fancy and perhaps are long we shall see the palest of pale tones, but for the moment at any rate the really smart woman wears black. Besides being chic and becoming, a great deal of ingenuity can be displayed in the choice of accompanying accessories and all of the relieving color required can be added by a piece of jewelry, a flower or even one of those rather large plain mouseline de soie handkerchiefs, the way of wearing which can be many times renewed.

Far Trims Black Coats
All of the black coats one sees are trimmed with a light fur which goes far to relieve the sombreness of the ensemble, and often the lining matches the fur.

As an alternative to all-black, there are some ensembles of black and beige, black and white and black and pink which are perhaps equally attractive. A very smart woman lunching at the Ritz the other day was dressed in a black cloth coat which featured a rather small collar of ermine, which formed the lining of the coat. As a contrast to the small collar, the sleeves are voluminous, pouch shaped and trimmed with ermine to the elbow. This was worn over a simple white tulle frock and accompanied by one of the new tight turban shapes in black tulle. The whole ensemble was in very good taste, exceedingly smart and yet sufficiently discreet to be worn in the street without attracting undue attention.

Registration Of Births Is Urged By Visitors Here

Miss Marie T. Phelan, Of Children's Bureau, Washington, In Lubbock On a Tour of Texas.

It is to those people in Texas who do not realize the necessity of birth and death registration that the state health department is appealing during the next few months, Miss Katherine Hayquist, of Austin, said yesterday afternoon when she visited the Avalanche-Journal office.

With Miss Hayquist was Miss Marie T. Phelan of the children's bureau, Washington, who has come to Texas at the request of the state health board to assist in presenting facts concerning birth registration. Miss Phelan talked on this subject yesterday afternoon at a conference of graduate nurses conducted at the Lubbock sanitarium. Other workers from Washington will spend the next few months in Texas in this campaign, Miss Phelan said.

Few Registrations
Basing figures on the 1926 census, Miss Phelan stated yesterday afternoon that 98 per cent of Texas births are registered and 71 per cent of the deaths. Texas is one of the seven states in the union that is outside the birth registration area, she said. Qualification requirements for this latter state being that 50 per cent of the births shall be registered.

As Miss Phelan visits in Texas cities, she is telling the necessity of birth registration. This is not done, she explained, because, primarily, she explained, but is for the benefit of the people. In many states, a child is required to present a birth certificate before he is enrolled in a public school, a birth certificate is necessary in securing a passport, in establishing one's age and nationality and in many such instances, she pointed out. It is proposed frequently and agitated that birth certificates be presented in securing marriage licenses, she said.

To Fix Standard
In addition to these reasons, the State of Texas and other states in the union are seeking to determine the birth and death rates in the country by 1930 in order that a standard may be fixed in future. The health conditions of the nation, according to Miss Hayquist, who explained that unless the death rate is known and the ages of people at death, this cannot be determined. Miss Phelan and Miss Hayquist are not staying in Lubbock at present but have come on to other Texas points in the interest of this campaign. They expect to return to Lubbock, however.

Quality Is Our Failure Insurance

A successful merchant once said that he considered honesty the greatest single factor for success in retailing. "Build integrity into your business," he advised, "and you not only safeguard it but your contribution to the community you live in is immeasurable."

Wise words! And that is one of the reasons why we pay so much attention to the quality of the goods we sell. It is so easy to skim on a lining, or substitute inferior leather in the inner sole of a shoe. But then we would not be running an honest business, and it would gradually crumble into ruins.

Selling honest merchandise at a fair price is more than an ideal with us. It is our "insurance policy" against failure—

Rails Continues To Grow And Add To Conveniences

Present Year Finds Change For Better As Citizens Of Hutsling Little City Push Forward

RALLS, Feb. 18.—The growth of Ralls within the past five months reflects the fact that it is located in the center of that of Crosby county's best agricultural area. The place has been transformed from a country town to a little city with all the conveniences of her larger neighbors.

The West Texas Gas company brought gas from the Panhandle gas fields, thereby giving the people of the most sought for utilities of any to be had. They not only piped, gas in, but built offices in Ralls.

The Lone Star Stage company running a line out of Lubbock to Wichita Falls and one from Ralls north, located their terminal here. It is a terminal that will compare favorably with any in the state, and one through which fourteen buses are now running daily. The company has expressed a desire to run their line south as soon as the road is made a state highway. The matter of designation of this road is set for hearing before the highway commission on February 21.

Outside concerns have been induced to locate in Ralls. Within the brief time mentioned above the West Texas Compress company and the Underwood company have each put in a 1,000 bales per day compress, the Texas Farm bureau has built two new and modern gins to care for the Crosby county members, a commercial feed mill to care for the grain sorghum crop around Ralls has been built, and a commercial hatchery with a capacity of 17,000 eggs has been installed.

Ralls is served by the Texas Utilities company with light, ice and power. On the first of January the company reduced rates to the extent that Ralls can now offer the same industrial rate of any of the larger cities of Texas. The citizenship is also enjoying a material reduction in the domestic rate.

The water mains have been extended to serve a greater number of people, a complete sewer system has been installed, fire fighting equipment has been increased, city lighting improved, and the Panhandle Construction company to which the contract for a $40,000 paving program has been let is now on the ground ready to begin work within the next few days.

The financial condition of the county is good as reflected in bank deposits of over three-quarters of a million dollars on January 1, 1928. A system of diversified farming and stock raising has placed the farmers in better condition than that of last year, despite the fact that cotton production in Crosby county was reduced by two-thirds this past season.

A New Low Price Water Softener

With the installation of a Paige-Jones Water Softener in your home, softened water can be had in any desired quantity. In the kitchen, in the laundry, in the bath, softened water relieves the housewife of much work and is far more pleasant to use for bathing, shampooing and shaving.

This Water Softener SAVES MONEY, for it saves the boiler. Softened water will not precipitate scale that not only increases the consumption of coal and gas, but tends to plug the piping.

The function of the Paige-Jones Softener is to remove the dissolved salts that make water "hard." This changing of the water is done entirely automatically. It is economical and efficient in its operation, and can be installed ready for use whether your home is piped for gas or not.

It eliminates cisterns, pumps, chemicals and gives you clean, clear, soft water for the many household purposes.

Quality of the materials are of the highest, a fact mentioned because every customer may know that constant repairs will not be on the program after installing the Paige-Jones Softener.

Its original cost is small indeed when you consider its convenience, and we'll be glad to explain in detail, just why it should be in YOUR home.

Big Celebration To Mark Birthday Of U. S. President

Texas And Mexico To Stage Joint Five-Day Program At Laredo With Large Parade Featuring

(By The Associated Press)
LAREDO, Feb. 18.—More than 40,000 persons are expected to attend the thirty-seventh annual Washington birthday celebration when a five day program combining American and international color is exhibited in the annual fiesta here and in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, just across the border. Special rates have been offered by all railroads. While February 22 is slated as the climax of the program, persons are expected to start swarming in Sunday when religious programs and entertainment in Nuevo Laredo will officially open the fiesta. Three hundred senoritas brought from Mexico City will form one of the color contributions offered by the Mexican town.

Mammoth Parade
February 2 will be ushered in by a mammoth parade of color when industrial organizations, civic clubs, and independent orders align themselves to exploit the beauties of south Texas. The program will be climaxed by a bull fight across the border for which vicious bulls and prize terrors of Mexico have been obtained.

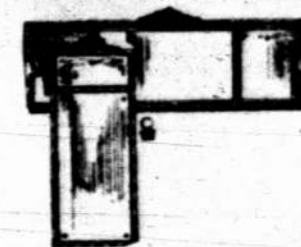

Work of decorating Laredo is under way. The fiesta rivals the annual Battle of Flowers in San Antonio for beauty and splendor. Mexican and United States bands will take part in Sunday's program and will continue through Monday. Tuesday horse racing will be held under the jurisdiction of Fort McIntosh, army post here, and some of the best racing stock in the southwest have been obtained for the starting line. Spanish "Verbena," or contest in Spanish shawl dancing, will also be held on Tuesday. The national salute of 21 guns will boom forth Wednesday when official tribute is paid the memory of George Washington. City, county, state, federal and public officials of Mexico and United States will exchange courtesies at the international monument in the center of the international bridge. Bombs and fireworks, in which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and George Washington will be outlined against the sky in fiery etchings, will conclude this day's program.

The final day will be featured with a performance by 2,500 Mexican school children garbed in the colors of Mexico. Mass singing of American and Mexican national anthems will also be held. Many carnival attractions will run the entire five days program.

Hunger Scenes Are Not Faked

That Is A Feature Of 'Les Miserables'. Film Which Will Open At The Palace On Monday

It is not all horror scenes for the film as Gabriel, the leading character in 'Les Miserables', the Universal Film de France Production which comes Monday in the Palace Theatre, will tell you. One day when Henri Pesscott was asked some of the heavy scenes of the actors remarked to Gabriel, who was seated in a corner looking even more sinister than usual:

"What's the matter, Gabriel? As you're not being filmed you can surely smile a little!"

"Oh, you expect me to smile when I've had nothing to eat since seven in the morning? It's now five o'clock," complained Valjean-Gabriel.

"Then you've had no lunch?" "No, except for a bit of bread and butter," Gabriel replied.

Beauty!

How and Why

HOW TO CHOOSE EYE GLASSES

Assume now that you have consulted your oculist or optician and after studying the various sizes, shapes and styles in which modern glasses are made, have come to a decision as to whether your new pair is to have round, oval, square or octagonal lenses, whether nose glasses or spectacles are the more becoming.

The next point has to do with the rims. If you have decided that you want rims. Perhaps you prefer the inconspicuous rimless style. If so, that question is settled and you are saved the trouble of choosing from among the many intriguing varieties of rims. Ocelluloid in all shades from the almost invisible transparent gray or white to tortoise shell brown and black are among the favorites. The metals are represented by white, green and yellow gold, silver, plain and oxidized, and beautiful and artistic grey platinum. The optician will show you rims in all these shapes and materials with varying designs.

Take plenty of time to choose what is right for you, for in an article so conspicuously worn as eye glasses, the least mistake may reflect you to the ranks of the dowdy. If your face is small, do not attempt it in great pads rim and spectacles. If you are the out door athletic type, and have an average sized face, wear the horn rims—they will suit your style. Should you be of the stately type, you may wear the Oxford nose glasses, and the very smart lady glasses.

A powerful drama of the heart of an ex-convict. Of evil habit triumphing over a long-remembered conscience. Of the squalid lives of poverty-stricken France—the convicts, the gutter-rats, the starving with power to awaken laughter and move to tears. As only Victor Hugo's sympathetic pen could tell it.

Business In Britain Is Hurt By Large Taxes

Whiskey Drinkers Turn To Continental Wines After England Places Duty On Hard Liquor

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—American and British distillers are at it again. The distillers' argument is that the tax on Scotch whisky is too high and that it is a barrier to the bootlegging industry in America.

It may be added that the distillers' argument is a vain campaign. The chancellor needs every penny he can pile into the national treasury. To cut down the whisky tax would mean higher taxation elsewhere. No chancellor is going to try that at the present stage of the game.

EXPLAIN DONATION

Major Leagues Approve Of Legion Plan

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—The major leagues feel that the American Legion's plan for developing and lot baseball offers an excellent means of perpetuating the national game and of keeping the nation's youth out of mischief. It was chiefly for these two reasons that the American and National leagues, meeting in Chicago this week, voted to contribute $50,000 to the Legion's proposal which would bring 100,000 American youths into baseball competition each year through a series of tournaments.

So said John Heydler, president of the National league today when asked to explain just what it was the big time circuits hoped to accomplish by their move.

CRAB'S EMOTIONS SHOWN

That crabs have some emotions and not others was demonstrated by scientists in London recently. It was shown that a crab fettered by one claw and left with food just out of reach will starve to death, but the placing of a polyp, the crab's deadly enemy, near it will cause the prisoner to become convulsed with fear. The shock causes the tied claw to come off so that the crustacean can scuttle away to safety.

Texas Livestock Shippers Protest

Change In Rates On Shipments Between Ranges and Feed Lots Brings Producers To Hearing

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 18 (AP)—Texas livestock shippers appeared at the interstate commerce commission livestock rate hearing here today in protest against a recent change in conditions governing shipment of livestock between Texas ranges and Indiana and Illinois feed lots.

Suspension of the change had been obtained by the shippers, and the hearing today was on the question of whether the suspension should be lifted and the new rate take effect.

H. D. Driscoll, who with A. H. Price, is counsel for the livestock shippers of Texas, declared the new conditions would increase the rate on shipments to Indiana and Illinois from 61 cents to 73 cents a hundred pounds.

L. M. Matthews, assistant traffic manager of the Pennsylvania railroad, said that no appreciable change in the tariff had been contemplated by the road.

Mr. Driscoll insisted, however, that the change would require Texas shippers to transfer at St. Louis instead of going direct to Indiana, and the transfer caused the difference in rates.

The arguments were completed and counsel instructed to file briefs. Later the commission examiners resumed the hearing of testimony by shippers in the general livestock rate case.

Lubbock Man, Successful In First Year With Theatrical Company, To Open Next Season On Larger Scale

E. D. Lindsey, Who Is Part Owner Of Traveling Show Is Laying Plans For The Future Of Business

Devoid of a theatrical district, in which fiction tells us of the gripping romance of the struggles and hardships endured in preparation for the footlights, Lubbock is the home of a vaudeville company. And more than that, a Lubbock boy is booking manager for the company and part owner in the enterprise.

This young man is E. D. (Chunk) Lindsey, member of the Lindsey theater enterprises. The company mentioned above is billed Durnal and Lindsey, radio stars and entertainers, but only Mr. and Mrs. Toby Durnal comprise the cast. Their bill features the presentation of the well known "Country Store" where prizes of various natures are given away during the evening intermingled with skills by the two members of the cast.

Met In Memphis
Mr. Durnal and Mr. Lindsey met each other about two years ago when the Lindsey theater was in operation in Memphis. Durnal worked at the theater for some time and Mr. Lindsey became interested in his work. Later Mr. Durnal went to the Jefferson hotel radio station, WJR at Dallas where he was a star performer and announcer. He spent several months at this work and then came to Lubbock and he and Mr. Lindsey set to work on the formation of their company. Their first season on the road started soon after January and at present the company has been out more than six weeks, playing in Big Spring, Midland, Colorado City, Plainview, Lubbock, Pampa, Wellington and Elberta. The company finishes a week in Elberta today and will leave for Oklahoma where it is booked for six straight weeks with the Nomad Amusement company which operates a chain of theaters over that state. Following completion of this engagement, the company will be engaged for 15 straight weeks with the Griffith Brothers, also Oklahoma theater men. Mr. Lindsey said here yesterday.

Plan Bigger Year
With the closing of a successful season this year, the company has plans for a greater season next year. Mr. Lindsey said yesterday. A new Dodge truck was recently purchased here by the company to be used in the traveling. Other new features will be added to the bill next season and there is a possibility of big-time work, he said.

Over at the Lindsey theater, where Mr. Lindsey is manager, he may be found at most any time, planning for greater theatrical work for this section. His traveling vaudeville company is only one of other innovations, he intimates.

THE CANARY MURDER CASE

THE STORY THIS FAR
The first case in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell had been opened with a steel chisel after a full battering with a poker. This leads Vance to the theory that the murder was committed while the victim was in the closet, while the stranger did his work. Vance shatters Clever's alibi that he had been in Bonteen the night of the murder. Mrs. La Fosse tells him Mannix had been in her apartment from ten-thirty until two the night of the murder. Vance traps her in a falsehood and she admits Mannix did not come in until midnight, which was after Margaret Odell was strangled.

CHAPTER XXXI
"I like you more and more," said Vance, and when she gave him her hand at parting, he lifted it to his lips.
As he rode downtown Vance was thoughtful. He was nearly to the criminal courts building before he spoke.
"The primitive Alys rather appeals to me," he said. "She's much too good for the cunning Mannix. Women are so shrewd—and so glib."
"A woman can read a man with almost magical insight, but on the other hand, she is suspiciously blind when it comes to her man. Witness sweet Alys' faith in Mannix. He probably told her he was staying at the office Monday night. Naturally, she doesn't believe it, but she knows—knows, mind you—that her Louise couldn't tell the truth. Ah, well, let us hope she's right, and that Mannix is not apprehended—at least not until her new show is financed. My word! If this being a detective involves much more than I shall have to reconsider. Thank Heaven, though, the lady didn't attend the cinema Monday night."

When we arrived at the district attorney's office we found Heath and Markham in consultation. Markham had a pad before him, several pages of which were covered with tabulated and annotated entries. A cloud of cigar smoke enveloped him. Heath sat facing him, his elbows on the table, his chin resting in his hands. He looked pugnacious but disconcerted.
"I'm going over the case with the sergeant," Markham explained, with a brief glance in our direction. "We're trying to get all the salient points down in some kind of order to see if there are any connecting links we've overlooked. I've told the sergeant about the doctor's information and his threats, and of the failure of Traffic Officer Plump to identify Clever. But the more we learn, the worse apparently the jumble grows."

He picked up the sheets of paper and fastened them together with a clip.
"Truth is, we haven't any real evidence against anybody. There are suspicious circumstances connected with Skel and Doctor Lindquist and Clever and our interview with Mannix didn't precisely play safe in his direction, either."
"But when we come right down to it, what's the situation? We've got some finger-prints of Skel, which might have been made last oral minutes. Markham, this fellow Mannix lures me like a magnet. He licks and whistles me. He infests my slumbers. He's the raven on my bust of Pallas. He plagues me like a banshee."

"Does this Jeremiah come under the head of tidings?"
"I shan't rest peacefully," pursued Vance, "until I know where Louey the furrer was between eleven o'clock and midnight Monday. He was somewhere he should not have been. And you, Markham, must find out."

"Please make Mannix the second offensive in your assault upon the flotsam. He'll parley with the right amount of pressure. Be brutal old dear; let him think you suspect him of the throttling. Ask him about the fur model—winnies his name? Frisbee. He stopped short and knit his brows. My eye—oh, my eye! I wonder. Yes, yes, Markham; you must question him about the fur model. Ask him when he saw her last; and try to look wise and mysterious when you're done."

"See here, Vance—Markham was exasperated—you've been harping on Mannix for three days. What's keeping your nose to that scent? Intuition—sheer intuition. My psychic temperament, don't you know?"

"I believe that if I hadn't known you for fifteen years," Markham inspected him shrewdly, then shrugged his shoulders. "I'll have Mannix on the tapis when I'm through with Lindquist."

(Friday, September 14; 2 p.m.)
We lunched in the district attorney's private sanctum; and at two o'clock Doctor Lindquist was announced. Heath accompanied him, and from the expression on the doctor's face, it was plain he did not look at all like his companion.

The doctor at Markham's request, seated himself facing the district attorney's desk.

"What is the meaning of this new outrage?" he demanded coldly. "If you're prerogative to force a man to leave his private affairs in order to be bullied?"

"It's my duty to bring murderers to justice," replied Markham, with equal coldness. "And if any citizen considers that giving aid to the authorities is an outrage, that's his prerogative. If you have anything to fear by answering my questions, doctor, you are entitled to have your attorney present. Would you care to phone him to come here now and give you legal protection?"

Doctor Lindquist hesitated. "I need no legal protection, sir. Will you be good enough to tell me at once why I was brought here?"

"Certainly," to explain a few points which have been discovered regarding your relationship with Miss Odell and to elucidate—if you care to—your reasons for deceiving me at our last conference, in regard to that relationship."

"You have, I infer, been paying unwarrantably into my private affairs. I had heard that such practices were once common in Russia."

"If the prying was unwarranted, you can, Doctor Lindquist, easily convince me on that point; and whatever we may have learned concerning you will be instantly forgotten. It is true, it is not, that your interest in Miss Odell is somewhat beyond mere paternal affection."

"Are not even a man's sacred sentiments respected by the police of this country?" There was just ent scorn in the doctor's tone. "Under some conditions, yes; under others, no," Markham controlled his fury admirably. "You need not answer me, of course; but, if you choose to be frank, you may possibly save yourself the humiliation of being questioned publicly by the People's attorney in a court of law."

(To Be Continued)

NEW PHONE SYSTEM
Slaton Improvements Go In During February

SLATON, Feb. 18.—Slaton's new $77,000 telephone system will be ready soon. Service through the new plant will be effective by the latter part of February. It is hoped by officials of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, new office equipment and a new switchboard are now being installed. A new brick office building was finished last fall. The system will give Slaton "flashlight" service, making the plant among the most modern in West Texas.

RUSH PIPE LINE
300 Men At Work In Vicinity of Big Spring

BIG SPRING, Feb. 18.—Three hundred men are stationed near Big Spring and are laying the Shell pipe line that traverses the country from McCarney to St. Louis. This is a 10-inch line and will transport crude oil from the fields south and west of Big Spring and will handle part of the oil originating in the Big Spring fields near this city. According to Mr. Marcus, manager of the construction company, the work is progressing rapidly and will be completed in this immediate vicinity within the next 30 days.

Mr. Marcus states there is a surplus of labor—there being as many as 100 men unemployed around the camp at one time.

ITALIAN DECODES
Baffling Tongue

(By the Associated Press)
BOLOGNA, Italy, Feb. 18.—Prof. Alfredo Trombetti, of the University of Bologna, today announced that he has succeeded in deciphering the ancient Etruscan language which until now has baffled scholars.

Prof. Trombetti, who is widely known for his work in philology, is conversant with nearly thirty languages.

Success in deciphering the Etruscan language will open a great field of historical research which has been closed for centuries and will throw light upon earliest Italy.

Etruria, now known as Tuscany, contained a federation of twelve cities which developed as a great naval power influential in northern and central Italy long before the first century A. D. Etruscan kings ruled at an early time in Rome, probably until about 500 B. C. The Etruscans finally were defeated by the Romans in 283 B. C.

The authentic history of Etruria is very meagre and efforts to learn more of its life have been largely fruitless because of difficulty in deciphering the language.

Hupmobile Sales At Record Level

Output Since Announcement Of First Of Three Century Cars Rises 104 Per Cent Above Year Ago

Hupmobile production and retail sales since the announcement of its new "Six of the Century," and later its two "Century Eights," has been a record that ever before at this time of year in the company's history. According to R. S. Cole, general sales manager, production during January, December and January was 104 per cent greater than for the corresponding months of 1927. During the last quarter of 1927 the company enjoyed an 87 per cent increase in volume over the corresponding period of 1926.

"The strong demand for Hupmobiles is indicated in the fact that retail deliveries during January were greater than our entire January production," said Mr. Cole. "January, February and March are usually the months in which motor car dealers plan to stock cars against anticipated heavy spring deliveries. In response to orders we increased our January output 51 per cent over that for January, 1927. Yet we have found that our total deliveries actually exceeded our production by more than 500 cars."

"When it is remembered that during January we announced and introduced the brand new 'Century Eight' and the new model of the 'Century 125 Eight,' and that our distributors and dealers naturally needed a considerable part of that month's entire production of these two cars for showroom and demonstration purposes, the record becomes even more remarkable. It is the first time within my knowledge, that such an accomplishment has been made in the motor car industry. The answer is that public demand for Hupmobiles is so great that dealers are compelled to deliver them as rapidly as they are received."

(By the Associated Press)
BOLOGNA, Italy, Feb. 18.—Prof. Alfredo Trombetti, of the University of Bologna, today announced that he has succeeded in deciphering the ancient Etruscan language which until now has baffled scholars.

Prof. Trombetti, who is widely known for his work in philology, is conversant with nearly thirty languages.

Success in deciphering the Etruscan language will open a great field of historical research which has been closed for centuries and will throw light upon earliest Italy.

Etruria, now known as Tuscany, contained a federation of twelve cities which developed as a great naval power influential in northern and central Italy long before the first century A. D. Etruscan kings ruled at an early time in Rome, probably until about 500 B. C. The Etruscans finally were defeated by the Romans in 283 B. C.

The authentic history of Etruria is very meagre and efforts to learn more of its life have been largely fruitless because of difficulty in deciphering the language.

Tire Mileage Decreases In Spite Of Constant Improvement In Tire Fabrics And Driving Conditions

Instance Cited By A. A. A. As Additional Reason To Guard Against Monopoly Of Rubber Abroad

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Although the automobile tire has undergone constant improvement, both as to fabric and structure in recent years, tremendous changes in driving conditions have greatly decreased the average mileage obtained, according to the American Automobile Association.

This fact was cited today by the national motoring body as an additional reason for steps by the federal government to guard against a foreign rubber monopoly.

The facts cited by the A. A. A. are based on the records of the emergency road service departments of its 950 motor clubs throughout the United States and Canada. These records show that motorists who formerly obtained from 15,000 to 20,000 miles from tires now secure only from 8,000 to 10,000 miles.

The salient features of the changed driving conditions that have lowered tire mileage, in many cases as much as one-half, are summarized as follows:

- 1.—High-powered engines that permit greater speed.
- 2.—Increased traffic, necessitating more stops and starts.
- 3.—Improved acceleration, tending toward tire abuse.
- 4.—More powerful brakes that grind off treads.
- 5.—Smaller diameter wheels, necessitating more frequent road contact for tires.
- 6.—Improvement in roads, permitting higher average speeds.

The A. A. A. statement continues: "Greater mileage can be secured from the present day tire. Those who maintain recommended inflation pressures, who use judgment in starting and stopping and who keep the wheels of the car in proper alignment will undoubtedly obtain satisfactory mileage. In 1928 the driver of every car will largely determine his own tire costs."

"It is estimated that the average speed on the open road is from ten to fifteen miles per hour higher than two years ago. At continued high speed, tire slippage is much greater, due to swerving and side bounce resulting from road inequalities. Therefore it is important for tire users to realize that tire mileage is decreased as the speed is increased."

"Steady increase in the number of registered cars has also had a telling effect and has resulted in steadily congested streets, with a resultant gain in the number of stops and starts, and a consequent decrease in tire mileage."

"Acceleration quickly from a standstill or slow-moving position is an evil that greatly affects tire mileage, as it results in the wearing of wheels. A car driven at the rate of thirty-five miles per hour and stopped at every quarter mile will wear out half of the tire tread in a distance of one hundred miles. The use of high-powered brakes, such as four-wheel brake and the vastly improved two-wheel brake, bring a car to a stop in such a manner that if the brakes are improperly applied a thin coating of rubber is laid on the street. Add to this the fact that 90 per cent of all brakes

Pretty Pearl Smiddy, daughter of Dr. Timothy A. Smiddy, minister to the United States from the Irish Free State, is to marry Major Alfonso Reyes, of the Spanish army. The wedding will take place in February in Dublin. Miss Smiddy met Major Reyes in Washington in 1926.

are estimated to be in some degree faulty.

"Demand for higher speed with greater safety has brought about the lower center of gravity. This has been accomplished by the use of smaller diameter wheels. It is a simple logic that smaller wheels revolve more frequently and the tire tread is brought into contact with the pavement more than larger wheels. The small diameter wheels have more 'action' as they make and break contact with the road."

"The advent of the balloon tire has made proper inflation an item of paramount importance. In the day of the high-pressure tire, the sole was stiffer and ample leeway was allowed by the manufacturer for those failing to keep them at the proper pressure. Under-inflation or over-inflation of the modern tire has a telling effect in decreasing the mileage."

"Temperatures also affect mileage. In the northern part of the United States the tires give about sixty per cent more mileage than in the southern part of the country."

DALLAS BOND ISSUE $5,000,000 To Be Sold At Once

DALLAS, Feb. 18.—Five million dollars worth of bonds authorized under the Clackson plan, which calls for the issuance of $25,000,000 in a 2-year program, are to be sold immediately. The city commission by unanimous agreement decided Thursday. An emergency was declared to exist in the public improvements and employment situation, while at the same time, conditions in the bond market were declared unusually favorable.

Marmon Program Is 45,000 Autos

Plans Of President For This Number Present Year. Output Is Over 200 Daily

G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor company, announces a production program, entitled by the Marmon board of directors, of 45,000 automobiles for 1929. This is by far the largest production in the history of the Marmon company. Output at the Marmon factory is rapidly approaching the peak required to meet this anticipated schedule. The Marmon plant, according to President Williams, is already turning out from 200 to 210 cars a day.

After the most exhaustive tests of the new Marmon "45" and "72," both on the Indianapolis motor speedway and in grueling transcontinental runs, the executives of the Marmon company felt confident that in these two cars they had evolved something of the greatest importance, both to automobile dealers and consumers. It was not until they had found enthusiastic ratification of their judgment on the part of the public at both the New York and Chicago shows, as well as at Philadelphia, Cleveland, San Francisco, Detroit and elsewhere, that the decision was definitely arrived at to proceed on a 45,000 cars a year basis, and orders for full speed ahead given.

Reception of the new Marmon straight eights, one of which sells in the low price field and the other in the medium-priced class, is evidence of the growth in popularity of the straight eight of which there were more sold in 1927 than in any other year. In fact, the Marmon company enjoyed the greatest percentage of increase in sales in 1927 of any company in the industry, and this year's program will mean tripling Marmon's former record.

Record In Plains Cotton Claimed By Board Farmer

31 Bales Of Cotton Picked From Ten Acres In Year Without Fertilizer Or Any Irrigation Means

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal) CROWELL, Feb. 18.—A record believed unequalled in the history of this section of Texas has just been made by M. L. Cribbs, board farmer of the Peace-Red River valley, living 15 miles northeast of Crowell, who gathered thirty-one bales of cotton from ten acres without the use of fertilizer or special irrigation but achieved the remarkable record from just ordinary cultivation.

Best Record on Farm

Mr. Cribbs stated that this was his best record that he has ever made on his farm in the fifteen years that he has been on it, although in 1924 from three acres of the same land, he made 3,000 pounds of Half and Half cotton and that this particular ten acres which adjoins his farm home has averaged greater than a half to the acre since he has been farming it. His farm is located about one mile south of Peace River in a belt containing about five thousand acres of sub-irrigated land where the water is found at depths of from six to fifteen feet, a major flow resulting for the extra heavy production of this section. The water under the land from which this record was made is found at a depth of from six to ten feet according to Mr. Cribbs.

The soil from which the record was made is a heavy sandy loam of the most fertile type. In many instances the cotton stalks on the record ten acres reached above seven feet and most of them averaged around six feet, all being thickly covered with bolls. There are 160 acres in Mr. Cribbs' farm, most of which is level and underlaid with water at depths from six to fourteen feet which sub-irrigates the land and makes a crop failure almost impossible. There were a total of 85 acres in cotton on the farm this season and ninety-five bales were made from this acreage.

His Smallest Crop

"The least cotton that I have made since coming to this farm 15 years ago," said Mr. Cribbs in commenting on his farming activities, "was 38 bales from 85 acres the first year that I came here. Since then the yield per acre has been much heavier and the land is improving from year to year. In 1924 I made 90 bales from 85 acres; 70 bales from 80 acres in 1925; 69 bales from 80 acres in 1926; and 95 bales from 85 acres this season. I can't remember just what I made before 1924 but always made pretty big crops and the yields were just about as heavy as they have been for the last few years."

While Mr. Cribbs has made one of the greatest records known to any cotton farmer, yet he does not follow the one crop system but is one of the most outstanding diversified farmers to be found. Each year he raises such crops as oats, sorghums, corn, wheat, sweet potatoes, sweet clover, truck products and others. He is a strong believer in the cow, sow and hen and has a strong lineup of these reliable money makers that provide a weekly income.

ADMITS "FRICTION" Difference On Board Of Control Aired

AUSTIN, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Dr. H. H. Harrington, former chairman and now a member of the state board of control, issued a statement Friday openly recognizing "friction" between himself and the other two members, R. B. Walthall and Roy I. Tennant, who recently voted him out of the chairmanship and installed Mr. Walthall. A dispute over the way board minutes have been and are kept was the immediate occasion for the statement. After treating this at length, however, Dr. Harrington added: "A good deal has been said from time to time in regard to friction on the board and I may as well allude to it here and now acknowledge that I am not of the same political affiliations as the other two members." BOXING AT LUNCHEON Boxing matches were served between courses at a luncheon given to a number of sporting men in Paris by a prominent figure in the pugilistic world. The table was in the form of horseshoe, the center forming a ring. Here, with each course, was given a boxing contest, representing a period in the history of the sport.

WAIT ON GOD—The Lord uphold-eth all that fall, and raise up all those that be bowed down. The eyes of all wait upon thee; and thou givest
them their meat in due season.—Psalm 145:14, 15.

PRAYER—Lord God, no good thing
dost Thou withhold from them that walk uprightly.

MOST ESSENTIAL FEATURE OF THE NAVY'S BUILDING PROGRAM

The navy department recommends that its construction program be given preference in the projects it desires Congress to approve during this session. That measure embodies the views of the navy general board, under Admiral Charles F.
Hughes, Chief of Operations.

This program aims to bring the establishment to a strength sufficient to carry out its missions satisfactorily. It approved it will require the expenditure of $740,000,000, spread over five years.
President Coolidge considers that the outlay will not interfere with the administration's policy of economy.

The Navy Department plans to build
five aircraft-carriers, 25 light cruisers,
nine destroyer leaders and 35 fleet submarines. Each aircraft-carrier would cost $19,000,000 and accommodate 75 planes of various type. It is intended to begin one such vessel annually, the first to be laid down during the fiscal year 1928-29.

This country has only three aircraft-carriers—the Lexington, the Saratoga and the Langley. The last-named is a converted collier, obsolete and hardly worth keeping in commission. The United States is entitled to 135,000 tons in aircraft-carriers under the Washington Treaty, and now has 78,700 tons afloat.
The British Empire is allotted an equal tonnage, and Japan may claim 81,000 tons. Britain's eight carriers aggregate 107,550 tons; Japan's three total 63,309
tons.

Public attention here has been directed to the light cruiser program, by assertions that it would cause a building race between Great Britain and the United States. Such critics do not mention the fact that the British Empire has 50 cruisers less than 20 years old, including fourteen 10,000-ton craft designed since the Washington Treaty was signed.

Britain's ships of this class total 354-810 tons, and the United States does not possess a single 10,000-ton cruiser. Two—the Pensacola and the Salt Lake City—will be finished sometime next year. Work has begun on five others, for which initial appropriations have been voted.

Of the United States cruisers in commission, the majority would be unable to accompany a battle fleet or undertake missions to distant seas, because they are light in armament and slow. Ten—of which the Omaha is a type—displace 7-500 tons each and were finished since the war. They carry only 6-inch guns in main battery, however, and would be no match
for treaty cruisers, which are armed with six to eight 8-inch pieces.

The Navy also lacks destroyer leaders and needs more fleet submarines. Secretary Kellogg's move toward abolishing
the undersea boat has not brought a favorable response from either Italy or France.
Until all the principal maritime nations agree to do away with the submarine, the United States must maintain this class in its Navy as a necessary defense measure.

Congress should approve the construction program. It is not competitive, but seeks the country's security so far as its coasts and overseas communications are concerned.

WHAT IS OUR NAVAL PROGRAM?

Confusion continues in the public mind concerning the plans for the navy. So far as we can learn, the same confusion continues in the mind of Congress. After all that the president has said in his public addresses, after all that the Secretary of the Navy has said in hearings before Congress, after all the explanation and opinions and impressions concerning the proposal of the Administration to start at once upon a program of naval construction comprising 71 auxiliary vessels. If we were to let our impressions be formed by what some of our admirals have been saying, it might seem as if there were developing in America a war party. Nothing could be more untimely or un-American than that. No people have less patience with militarism than the American people; and never have they had less patience with it than now. If there are any people in this country who are in danger of getting the same delusion that drove Germany into war, they are wholly at variance with the American temper and disposition. President Coolidge has explained that bellicose talk is apt to flare up whenever there is before Congress an appropriation bill for the army or navy,

and that it can be and ought to be discounted. The most sensible among the English observers of American affairs take this bellicose talk with due allowance for the temperament of extremists. Viscount Cecil, who was a delegate to the futile
Geneva Naval Conference, said quite recently: "We are ready to disregard the possibility of war with America as so unlikely that it would be foolish to base a policy on any other hypothesis." And even Mr. Bridgeman, First Lord of the Admiralty, who seemed to stand for the extreme views of British naval men, had said two days before: "The United States has a perfect right, subject to the Washington Convention, to build whatever fleet
she thinks necessary for her own defense."
It is inconceivable that either America or Britain should intend aggressive, warlike lucas in these days. Let us go quietly on with what we think necessary for ourselves. Let them go on with what they think necessary for themselves; and let us hope if they build a larger navy their navy will be a great factor in the preservation of the peace of the world as the British navy has been. The trouble is the country does not know just what the Administration does want. It has heard that the Administration wants Congress to authorize the building of these 71 vessels, but also to authorize the president to stop building them at his discretion. If the Administration wishes to prove that the United States can outbuild any other nation in cruisers, as it proved it could in capital ships, then why cannot the Administration say so frankly, using President Wilson's word, if need be—"Incomparably the greatest navy in the world." But if the purpose is otherwise, then why cannot that purpose be made clear to the country? Under the Washington Treaty of 1922 the United States is entitled to the same tonnage of capital ships as Great Britain. For those capital ships, it needs
a certain number of auxiliaries; it needs
the fleet effective. If the sole purpose of this program is to provide for parity with Great Britain under that treaty and no more, then it would seem to be a simple matter for the Administration to say so in so many words.

"COMPANIONATE" DIVORCE

We have heard a lot about "companion-ate" marriages and everybody in Lubbock has read the discussion that was started sometime ago by Judge Ben Lindsey. Not being interested in any such social innovation we will admit that we have not taken the time necessary to study up on the fine points of the new arrangement
and therefore can tell little or nothing about it.

However, in our reading last week, we ran across a new idea along the line of divorces, when we discovered that an Ohio couple recently tried a "companion-ate" divorce, which worked out very satisfactorily in the long run. It seems that a Cleveland man and his wife decided that they could not get along and went to the judge to get a divorce.

Judge Harrison Ewing is credited with suggesting to the dissatisfied couple that they should think of the children and not be so selfish. So it was agreed, as there was no third party involved, that the wife should take care of the meals and keep house and the husband pay the bills, residing under the same roof, but each had their exclusive rooms, and the wife had two nights off each week.

After trying the "companionate" divorce the couple decided that they could get along and the suit was dropped. The judge, when asked about the matter, said
"I was confident if I could keep them together under the same roof they would patch up their differences." That's a wise move from the bench and other divorce
judges might follow the lead.

VISIT THE SCHOOLS

We doubt if the citizenship of Lubbock and Lubbock county take enough interest in the schools of the community.
Many of the patrons of the school go through an entire year with several children in the school and do not take enough interest in the schools to visit them occasional, or even once a year.

We feel sure that teachers and school officials will be glad to see the parents of the pupils, and there will be a better understanding all around. Few grown people take enough interest in the work of the schools. There is no more important activity in this community. The teachers who train our children are wielding great influence upon the future of Lubbock.
Luckily, most of them are extremely conscientious in their work, but that does not mean they would not be glad to see that the nature of their task is appreciated.

Mr. Hoover says he will gladly come before the flood committee and tell them
what he knows and thinks about flood control. We await the outcome with great interest.

SO THINK WE

We think that Michigan offers an inviting field for work of the fundamentalists. Teaching of the Bible in the state's public schools has been prohibited by an opinion rendered by the attorney general of that state.

We think that if defense alienists understand the true meaning of an oath there possibly would not be so many people insane.

We think that there are three things that most women can be counted on as enjoying, and is really uplifting to her spirits. One thing a fresh peppy bath, another is having something that other women envy her of and the third is to have her husband act like he's really proud of her.

We think that all men are born
lazy, and there are some of them
who are still lazy and admit it,
while others of us will not admit.

We think that Lubbock man who sat musing before the gas heat in the fireplace and said that the reason women always seemed sad at a wedding, was thinking what a dismal failure he had been and how disappointed his wife must be in her romance.

We think the most successful recipe for young married couples to start out on life's journey together
and make the journey a happy one,
would be that the young wife make her visits back "home" few and a long ways between. And the husband might also use some of this salve.

We think there is one thing that can be said of old Demosthenes.
He never practiced his speeches before audiences. "He always went off into some secluded spot apart from anyone and this relieved the general public of having to be present at the practice, which many speakers
of modern times do not seem to realize is far from entertaining.

We think that after all Mexico is possibly ahead of the United States.
That government has made peace
with the oil companies in that country, and the United States it seems has not succeeded very well
so far.

We think if that multi-millionaire who makes a hobby of giving away new dimes, would come to Lubbock he would be a welcome visitor. The newspaper in that state just who he is or he would possibly receive many requests for donations.

We think the living room in the average home is anything but what its name implies, and should certainly be renamed. In some places
it is the room where no one is allowed to enter except on some very very special occasions, and in other homes it is that space used to pass through on the way from the car
to the dining room, or the kitchen.

We think Texas will be a good place to let the Democratic donkey
out to graze for the next few years,
for that will be what will happen
if Al Smith is the nominee, and as this is all going to happen in Texas, we presume that this was foreseen by the leaders of the convention, who do not want to leave the animal in a state, where there are no livestock industries.

We think that if Hoover will just "hoover" on taxes and will promise to exterminate the income tax
he will be elected by almost a unanimous vote. The wet and dry plank will not have much to do with it in a case like that.

We think there is little use for any city to be trying to "hog" territory from other cities. This is a free country (so we have been told)
and we see no reason why one city cannot solicit business wherever they want. The newspapers in that city get it. But some newspapers seem to take a delight in trying to claim everything for their town, to say nothing of the claims of the Amarillo Globe and News and the Ablene Reporter and News.

We think there should be no time
lost in trying to stamp out the pink bill worm in the counties where they have been found, and the state and the county and the federal government should stay out of the argument as to whose duty it is to bear the expense of exterminating them. The main thing is to get them killed and then decide who shall pay the bill afterwards. If this is not done the farmer will have to bear the loss, which is usually the case.

We think no one can control the floods alone but the government possibly might be of great assistance in getting some of check on the situation, and prevent the recurrence of the Mississippi Flood.
There are men in the world who can figure out proper protection,
and we feel sure that the government could well afford to spend money on something of that kind in place of many of the things they do spend it for. People do not mind to pay taxes, when the money is used for legitimate purposes, and we feel sure that the government benefits derived from such expenditure. It is where they pay and pay and get nothing for their money
that people balk on taxes.

We think it is really surprising at the reaction of people who are actually living in a room and endure the close room, and impure air, just to get a few words of testimony in a case that is tinged with scandal and corruption, and a half dozen people will not attend a good lecture in comfortable quarters and under more favorable conditions. Some people seem to have the taste of a buzzard for the rottenest stuff
that can be put out, and Lubbock it seems has a number of that kind of people.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that a certain minister was heard to say that silence is sometimes a sin. Sometimes it is right, but we will venture that the minister could not say that it is a prevalent sin.

It is reported that the recent rains and the fine snow that has been falling for several hours
will mean more bales on fewer acres, and it will also mean that there will be more wheat left in this country, and that will help Dan Moody and his co-workers to reduce the cotton acreage in this section of the country.

It is reported that one of the newspapers in Hutchinson county says that things are going to be different politically in that county this year. The old timers are outnumbered by the new comers and the paper says the new ones have a different idea about law enforcement, and there will likely be quite a changing up of administration.
We do not know and the paper did not state what side the pioneers were on, but surely they were not adverse to law enforcement.

ested in the work this train is trying to do. The Santa Fe company part toward this country.

OPINIONS

ABANDONMENT OF OCEAN FLIGHT

The National Aeronautics association has just announced that it has given up its plans for a series of trans-Atlantic test flights during this year, and its new stand will recede into the background as one inspired by good sense. Enough lives have been lost in futile disasters in this dangerous enterprise. Until the science has made advances which would warrant further risks, there seems no reason why chances should be taken. The successes of Lindbergh, Byrd and Chamberlin have demonstrated all that possibly can be until invention has made strides
which will place the science far ahead of the present status. The losses of lives in unsuccessful flights have placed a damper on this super-sport.—Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

A CHANCELLORSHIP
Washington University searching for a chancellor probably is as perplexed as the senate confronted with the question of farm relief.

That is, the syndics of the institution are no doubt swamped with suggestions from volunteers who are neither personally acquainted with the field nor cognizant of the necessity of meeting the immediate problem in a particular way.

This, if so, is deplorable, but surely
it is anything but unprecedented.
For some years our higher institutions of learning have been increasingly made the object of the criticism and advice of classes out of contact with the educational world. Perhaps there have been beneficial results from this new tendency, but the most evident results
are surely far from commendable.
The passing of the faculty from its
one-time dominance of our colleges and universities, and the arrival of the go-getting type of educational administrator, are actualities which are hard to defend.

Happily, some of our institutions of learning are finding this out. The faculty is again raising its head and demanding restoration to its proper place in the education sun. Also,
the chancellor or president of the Babbitt variety seems to be slowly heading for the chute. Chicago University, when it recently was forced to select a new head, turned it back on the go-getters, and picked the scholar, Max Mason. California University has recently elected to be led by a professor of mathematics.

These are but two of several indicents of the same sort which show how the educational world is being rescued from the hands of the scholar, Max Mason. No other institution in search of a leader can afford to miss their import.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

For many years it has been contended that the milk of the goat is superior to cow's milk as an infant's food. Some of the proponents have argued that the goat is less subject to tuberculosis than is the cow and that, for this reason,
its milk would be safer.

On the other hand, there seems to be no essential chemical difference between the goat's milk and that of the cow, although the casein of goat's milk forms a more compact mass than does that of cow's milk. In proportion to its body weight, the goat produces about twice as much milk as does the cow.

Vitamin Content
In more recent years investigators of milk have concluded a study of the vitamin content as well as of the chemical factors. Some German investigators have found that raw milk from a goat, fed with green food was almost entirely without vitamins. The goat tended to keep away from the sunlight and did not get good fresh fodder. The vitamin A content of goat's milk was much lower than that of the cow, and vitamin C was practically absent.

Furthermore, a Dutch investigator who has made a special study of the incidence of tuberculosis in the goat found the disease in 24 out of 300 goats that he examined.
It is reasonable to believe that if goats were herded together in stables as cows have been, tuberculosis would spread among them
to about the same extent as it appears among the cows.

Finally, the goat suffers with one disease which is found less frequently among other animals;
namely, Malta fever or undulant fever. This disease seems to be spread by the drinking of goat's milk in regions where the disease is present.

Obviously, the handling of any food product by human beings may be associated with the spread of disease, unless sanitary precautions are constantly observed.

Our Sunday Morning Sermon

By REV. R. F. DUNN

ETERNAL PUNISHMENT—IS IT TAUGHT IN THE BIBLE?

Matt. 10:28. Mark 9:43-48

"And fear not them that kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul; but rather fear him that is able to destroy both soul and body
in hell."

"And if thy hand offend thee cut
it off; it is better for thee to enter into life maimed than to have two hands to go into hell, and into the fire that shall never be quenched;
where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched. And if thine eye offend thee pluck it out; it is better for thee to enter into the kingdom of God with one eye than having two to be cast into hell
fire, where their worm dieth not and the fire is not quenched." This is not all that is said in the New Testament about "eternal punishment," but I have quoted a lengthy text for two reasons. First, that the reader may see that it is not an isolated text taken out of connection, and made to mean something different from what our Saviour meant when He uttered
these words.

In the second place we choose a lengthy text because there are some that pose as Bible teachers, who deny that Christ emphasized the fact of punishment as a motive as being unworthy and selfish. They assume to know more than God
and in judgment of the wisdom of Jehovah, and censure the plan of salvation.

For anyone to say that Christ did not emphasize the fact of eternal punishment, is to expose one's ignorance of Christ's teachings or one's dishonesty in handling the Word of God. If there were no other statements of our Saviour on the subject, the above scriptures are sufficient to show that He did emphasize the danger repeatedly.

One more scripture will be added
here to the same point: from our Lord's foretelling of the judgment
on the nations. (Matt. 25:41-46).
Then shall he say unto them, who
on the left hand "Depart from me ye cursed into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels,"
and these shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous go into life eternal. It is a most surprising thing about the denials of eternal punishment, that some who profess to be Christians, and accredited teachers of the Bible,
are doing it. It is not so strange that those who reject Christianity deny this doctrine also; but for those who claim to be disciples of the Son of God, to deny His teachings, as positive, and as repeatedly as it is found in the New Testament; leads one to doubt their sanity, or sincerity.

To say fine things about Christ,
and then give the lie covertly to His teachings is a kind of hypocrasy that deserves a stinging rebuke. When John the Baptist saw many of the Pharisees and Saducees coming to His Baptism, he said unto them "O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come? Bring forth therefore fruits, meet for repentance."

It seems that we are coming to a time again, when some Elijah or John the Baptist is needed to rebuke modern Pharisees and Saducees that are making void the Word of God, by their rationalistic and modernistic teaching. Christ bade
His disciples to beware of the leav-en of the Pharisees and Saducees.
The disciples misunderstood the Master, thinking He said this because they had taken no bread.

Then Jesus made them understand that He spoke of the doctrine of the Pharisees and the Saducees. (Matt. 16:5-12). Doctrines are fundamental when they affect our character and relation to God. If it were not so Jesus would not have said "Beware of the leav-en" (doctrine) of the teachers.

St. Peter speaks of false teachings, who bring in damnable
(2 Peter 2:1). St. Paul warns the church at Gallatia in these words
"But though we, or an angel from heaven, should preach unto you that unto you, than that which we have preached unto you let him be accursed." Then as if to put double emphasis on the warning he repeats
these words: "As we said before so say I now again, if any man preach
any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed." St. John is warning Christians against such as did not abide in the doctrine of Christ said that those should not be received into their house, nor, should they bid them God's speed. (John 1:10).
John Wesley in warning people against a certain dangerous doctrine, calls it the "Spawn of Hell." Intolerant did you say? Yes, and if you are permitted to have a part with Christ in glory and share with saints and martyrs in their eternal reward, you will be intolerant of those "damnable" falsehoods, of which the apostles and prophets have foretold were to come in the last days. It was the intolerance of Jesus that excited the murderous hatred of those who accused His death, it was the intolerance of the Apostles of Christ that sent them to prison and death. If you read carefully the eleventh chapter of Hebrews you will find that the illustrous saints from Abel and Daniel, dared to face prisons and death rather than make a compromise with falsehood and enter into alliance with the devil and his representatives.

In matters of opinion—non-essentials—Christians must be tolerant.—See SUNDAY SERMON Page 6

My path led up the hill- and past
The neighbor's house, and then
Slipped through deep and leafy

To find the road again;
It climbed a friendly little knoll,
Dropped down to cross a cool
Grass-tufted stream, and then it

A one-room country school.

Wait, schoolboy, wait! You show

And where I saw a timber wolf.

And where wild grapes grew best
I'll show you where the rabbits hid.

Country Is Found With But One Car

Anticosti's Chrysler Has No License Plates And Its Driver No License, But Has Station All Its Own

Mark Twain, in his "Random Notes of an Idle Excursion," recorded the fact that, when he first visited Bermuda there was only one mahogany tree on the island. He knew there was only one, he said, because he was informed by a trustworthy native who passed it often and had counted it many times.

The genial humorist's informant would find another opportunity to exercise his mathematical talent if he could go to the strange island of Anticosti in the mouth of the St. Lawrence river and count the automobiles there. He could count it as often as he wished and his total would never vary. Anticosti is a large country, 140 miles long and 40 miles wide, but it has only one automobile—a Chrysler Sedan.

The Anticosti Chrysler has several distinctions that make it unique among all the products of the automobile industry. It is probably the only car in the world that has its own private filling station. It bears no number plates. It has no driver's license. It is not registered by any government. Operating a car in Anticosti is just like operating it in your own back yard, without ever going out on the public highways.

Anticosti, says a magazine writer who visited it recently, is the largest and most curiously administered private domain known in modern history. The whole island, with 3100 square miles of area, a town, churches, a chateau which cost a million dollars or more, forests, minerals and other natural resources of uncounted value, was for 30 years the property of Henri Menier, the French chocolate king.

Sunday Sermon

ant of one another, and should be gentle toward all men. They must be willing to endure insults and injuries for Christ's sake without retaliation.

When Jesus was reviled, He reviled not again. When the servants of the High Priests struck Him, He endured it without a word. But when He saw hypocrisy and false teaching hiding in the garb of religion, and sheltering itself behind official rank in the church, with what hot indignation did He rebuke their insincerity, and expose their inward wickedness.

The loyal disciple of Jesus will walk in His footsteps—will take His cross and follow Him, even though an unfaithful church may brand him as an intollerant bigot, and charge him with pagan superstition. We need not be surprised when men of rank and influence become traitors to Christ and purveyors of false doctrine. As already noted that was one of the things foretold that should come to pass. Another New Testament prophet declares that:

"The time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but after their own lusts shall heap unto themselves teachers having itching ears, and shall turn away their ears from the truth and be turned into fables." (Timothy 4:3-4)

Please note admonition following the foregoing of the coming of the false teaching and the teachers with which people will turn away their ears from the truth.

"But watch thou in all things, endure afflictions—make full proof of thy ministry." (1 Timothy 4:12)

The spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience is "on the job" and is working with all conceivable means of unrighteousness. (2 Thess 2:10)

With athletic societies, secret organizations in colleges and universities and some professors in these institutions of learning to unsettle the faith of our young people by injecting their doubt and skepticism into the minds of their students, we have a situation that is alarming, but when we find the institutions of the churches, sending out their literature to corrupt the mind of our young people in the church, we are made to wonder what is going to happen next. Take for instance an extract from "High Road," a periodical published by our Sunday school authorities, of January 22, 1938, the fear of everlasting punishment and Hell fire are represented as a superstition of pagans. Europe. Here is the extract: "All believers in mental and physical welfare, have come to rejoice in the abatement of fear of everlasting punishment and Hell fire. Can these superstitions of pagan Europe save any one? Christ, preaching the doctrine of love, the love of God and performing good works. He knows the power of love, the expulsive power of kindly thinking and friendly action. May all of us follow Him." Let anyone of sound mind and open heart examine the extract above, in the light of the teaching of Christ with His word quoted in our text and elsewhere and the conclusion must be that the extract is an instance of thinly disguised falsehood to lead our young people from the truth into the meshes of skeptical modernism, which in my opinion is more dangerous than undisguised atheism.

If the above extract is not sufficient to convince you of the danger that now threatens to poison the mind of our youth with skeptical teachings take another example found in the December number of the "Missionary Voice," containing the January program for the Young People's Meeting. Note that part of the program under the topic "How did Jesus Choose a Life Work?" It is too lengthy for quoting here, but I will only mention a few things in it. Jesus is represented as only one of the humble folk of Nazareth sharing the common Messianic hope of Israel, having no consciousness of His Divine relationship and mission as the Messiah, until after His baptism by John in Jordan. "No mention is made of the voice that proclaimed Him God's beloved Son. No mention of the 'Holy Spirit' as His baptism only it was said He was driven by the spirit into the wilderness where He was represented as alone with His Heavenly Father, fighting it out. He allusion to angels ministering unto Him. No mention of how He defeated Satan with the written Word of God, and of course leave these fundamental facts out of their account. Get a copy of the December 'Voice' and note these and other items of the same character on page 37, topic "How did Jesus Choose a Life Work?"

There is no doctrine these modernists hate quite so much as eternal punishment. In this eagerness to oppose it, they will contradict or deny the positive teachings of Christ and degrade the Scriptures to the level of human productions, with them there is no infallible authority. Some insist that God is a moral monster of injustice and cruelty, if He inflicts eternal punishment for sin there is no authority that is final, to which doubt can be made."

See next Sunday's sermon on moral necessity of the judgment, and eternal punishment.

STUDIES SHARKS

Will Offer Self As Shark Bait In Test

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Feb. 18 (AP)—Van Curen Heiler, field representative of the American Museum of Natural History, left today for the Bahamas Islands to pursue his studies of ocean life, which this time will include an effort to disprove the belief that all species of sharks are man eaters. Heiler said he would offer himself as shark bait.

"I have long been a question whether a shark will attack a human being unless provoked," Heiler said, adding that it was the belief of scientists that only the white shark and Barracuda would. "I intend to prove it by swimming in shark infested waters while my assistant makes under water motion pictures."

Senator Johnson Believes In The Merchant Marine

California Solon Says The Growing Trade Demands That U. S. Have One; He Gives His Views

EDITOR'S NOTE: Necessity of an American Merchant Marine to handle our growing trade abroad has become one of the issues of the day. Here are presented the views of Senator Hiram Johnson.

By SENATOR HIRAM JOHNSON of California (Written for NEA Service) (Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—If America is to retain her prosperity and maintain her ideals, she must possess a merchant marine which can handle the bulk of her foreign trade.

We have become the greatest producing nation in the world. We produce more than we consume. If we allow our ships to disappear from the seas, our foreign trade and the disposition of our surplus production in other words, our prosperity itself—will be at the mercy of the shipping interests of those nations with which we face most strenuous competition for world markets.

About the necessity of an American merchant marine there can be no question. Argument centers on whether this merchant marine is to be owned and operated partly by the government or entirely by private interests.

Without a Subsidy With no fixed shipping policy, the percentage of American trade carried by vessels flying the American flag has steadily declined since the war period. Our private shipping interests have been unable to compete with the cheaper building and operating costs of the subsidized interests of foreign nations. Meanwhile, it has been impossible to obtain a subsidy for our shipping.

If we cannot have an adequate merchant marine under private ownership, we must have one under government ownership. It will be far cheaper to spend a few paltry millions for its maintenance than to imperil both our foreign trade and our national safety. We must first have a merchant marine to carry our goods abroad and we must have a navy big enough and efficient enough to preserve and protect it. The two must go together.

If we do not act, our flag, according to estimates, will disappear from the seas within 15 years. While our trade volume has increased, our shipping tonnage has gone down.

Before the world war Britain's trade exceeded ours by 50 per cent. Today we are about equal and tomorrow we will lead.

Rise and Fall of Nations Throughout the centuries, the inexorable rule of history has been that sea power and the rise and fall of nations have been closely linked.

Because we had no adequate merchant marine when we entered the world war, we were forced into the feverish, wasteful and extravagant expenditure of $3,000,000,000 to answer the desperate cry for "ships, ships, and more ships!" The time will come—and I omit discussion of the possibility of war—when we cannot safely rely on other nations to carry our goods and expand our trade. If we are not prepared we will face disaster, hardship and privation.

The American people here face an issue involving the future and the perpetuity of this nation. The dominant business interests concerned with the dollars and profits of tomorrow must realize that commercial supremacy is likewise at stake.

Even if we were to do the unthinkable and disregard such vital matters, we should be more than justified in demanding a merchant marine to act as a complement to the national defense and to preserve our economic welfare.

Our coastwise trade offers another cogent and incontrovertible reason. This coastwise traffic, essentially ocean-going and dependent upon by many of our major industries, is actually infernal domestic trade. Nothing can compete with it except overseas trade between the various ports of the British empire upon which the British based their argument for naval supremacy at Geneva. But British sea lanes are no longer than our coastwise lanes and the value of our coastwise trade is more than half as great as all of Britain's foreign trade.

If we look into the past and read the lesson of history and then look forward to the fulfillment of this nation's glorious destiny, we must make such laws as will provide a merchant marine big enough to maintain for all time the supremacy won by American grit, courage and enterprise.

Chevrolet Sets New High Record

91,584 Units Produced Past January, Setting A New Mark For First Months Of Year, Officials Assert

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 18.—All previous January production records were shattered here last month by the Chevrolet Motor company when the total output for the 30-day period reached 91,584 units, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, announced today.

This figure topped by nearly 20,000 units the 73,876 cars and trucks produced in January, 1927, and more than doubled the output for the corresponding month in 1926 when only 46,437 units were manufactured.

As a result of this tremendous volume, production in January was exceeded by that of only four other months in the entire history of the company. Every indication points to new Chevrolet records in the coming months of 1928, Mr. Knudsen said.

The tentative production schedule for February is 112,475 units, as against 85,000 units last February, while actual production for the month this year is certain to exceed the tentative schedule by a comfortable margin, Mr. Knudsen said. Tentative plans for March call for the building of more than 127,000 units, which will establish a new all-time monthly record for the manufacture of gear shift cars, according to Mr. Knudsen.

This huge volume has been made possible by the enormous sales gains registered since the introduction of the bigger and better Chevrolet on January 1. R. H. Grant, vice-president of the company in charge of sales, stated that more than 125,000 units were sold for immediate delivery at retail in the United States to date.

Another high record was set during the Chicago Automobile show, ended February 4, when more Chevrolets were sold during show week than any other make of car at this or any other automobile show.

Oakland Boosting February Output

Heavier Demand Necessitates Record Of 25,000 For This Month, Pontiac Announcement Says

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 18.—The Oakland Motor Car Company will produce 25,000 Oakland and Pontiac cars during the month of February, a high record.

An announcement coming from Tracy, vice president in charge of sales, steps up the previously announced record of 22,268 cars scheduled for February by nearly 3,000 cars and will be an advance of more than 5,000 cars over the January record of 19,774 cars.

The building of 25,000 cars this month, a record for Oakland-Pontiac production, will be made possible by the opening of the third Pontiac assembly line, Mr. Tracy stated.

"When we announced 22,268 as our production schedule for February, this figure was not based on possible sales but on actual orders. So when the orders continued to pour in, it became evident early this week that the additional demand could be met only by increasing our production to 25,000."

"I may say," Mr. Tracy continued, "that this schedule increase is made possible by the ability of our production department to expand its facilities, principally through hastening completion of the third Pontiac assembly line, now under construction. This line, which will afford an increase of 50 per cent over our present Pontiac production capacity, will be ready for operation by the middle of February."

There are 23 working days in February with a total of 297 work-hours or 12,420 working minutes. In order to manufacture 25,000 Oakland and Pontiac Sixes during this month, it will be necessary for the Oakland Motor Car Company to produce one car every 30 seconds.

MEXICANS ARRESTED

Nine Held In Fort Worth By Immigration Men

FORT WORTH, Feb. 18 (AP)—Nine Mexicans, claimed by authorities to have entered the United States without complying with the immigration laws, were arrested in Fort Worth Friday by order of patrol inspectors.

The immigration officers will remain in Fort Worth for at least three more days rounding up a number of Mexicans who made their way past the border and are believed to be hiding in this city. All prisoners taken here will be deported immediately.

HIGHWAY MARKING

State Roads To Be Logged And Marked Properly

FORT WORTH, Feb. 18 (AP)—Improvement of the logging and marking of designated state highways is urged by the state highway commission. Homer D. Wade, manager, the West Texas chamber of commerce, was informed by W. R. Ely, highway commissioner.

While local tourists are in need of better directions by which they can more easily distinguish their way, the fact that three national conventions will be held in the state this year has made adequate marking necessary.

A Word From A "Lucky" Housewife

"Things are not as they use to be, by no means!! Why I can remember when ALL of the sweeping was done with a broom, and what a drudgerous, back-breaking job it was! Then ever so often the rugs were hung out to be beaten—and I can well remember how ashamed I was for neighbors to see the result of a few strokes on the rugs. How the dust did fly and I thought they were clean!

Yes, I remember too, how we did without electricity. Used coal oil lamps, cleaned blackened chimneys, broke them often and of the danger they were in every home.

Think about it, bread toasted in ovens that were slow to heat and inefficient even when heated. I even remember the old rub board and how I had weekly night mares of that frightful thing!

Electricity has freed the modern housewife of most dreaded tasks. It has contributed happiness and years to her life. So much done at such little cost!

"A Mighty Factor in Business"

"Do you recall the days when all of the clothing was sold inside the store after having been inspected thoroughly by the buyer on the outside? Indeed I do. A blue suit might have been black or a black looking one might have been blue. Outside the store you could distinguish the color. Now with proper electric lighting color and fabric may be easily judged in the store. It has made stores brighter, made store help happier, relieved eye strain and built confidence. Electricity chases heat from the stores and keeps them filled with fresh air. It makes possible the beautiful displays now seen in modern store windows.

Electricity has speeded industries of all kinds. Has set the pace that means more results with less effort. More speed with safety.

Is It Not Significant That The Greatest Strides In Manufacturing and Distribution Have Been Linked Year by Year With the Development of Electric Power and Electric Appliance Inventions?

We offer electric appliances of tested reliability and economy for sale to those who wish to make complete use of electricity. We invite your inspection of them.

In January the buyers went to the great furniture centers and Marts of America and bought as if not a piece of furniture was in stock in any of the stores. The foundation of 1928 business for this company was planned on complete new stocks for the retail floors and for the Warehouse stocks. Thus you realize why we offer you such tremendous and sensational values in the disposal of present stocks. Already the new furniture has begun rolling, a few carloads have arrived, the Wholesale House has become filled—and needed room is urgent on retail floors. Incomplete stocks remain offering you what we since really believe the greatest buying and saving opportunity of your life.

ALL THE PLAINS ARE THRILLED!!!

The response over the Plains of Texas to this company's great Sale has been so generous and so enthusiastic we state it as our honest belief that no merchandising event of recent years has thrilled so many people as this Gigantic Fire Sale!

TIME FLIES!

Now the time for Cleaning Out remaining stocks is at hand. You have not taken advantage of this sale should move to action at once. We await daily word to take off the sale and start the year on a profitable, justifiable basis. You realize too late how time flies.

Prices tell nothing of quality
they never measure value
when used alone

FOR the final wind-up of the most wonderful Furniture Sale orders have come to place the two new car loads of furniture received a few hours ago on sale in the Lubbock store! "Sell it—this newest furniture—features of this year, exactly on the same basis as other furniture is sold in our $300,000.00 Fire Sale" says the boss! So that's the big news for you thrifty people of this section!

We understand the idea behind these orders: Mr. Wright wants everyone who comes to Lubbock to have complete confidence that their desires shall be found in this store. For that reason—since this sale is on and stocks have become low—he feels someone will come miles and without the new furniture, be disappointed by finding stocks incomplete! You must come in Monday or this week and make your selection because you will never regret a buy of this store.

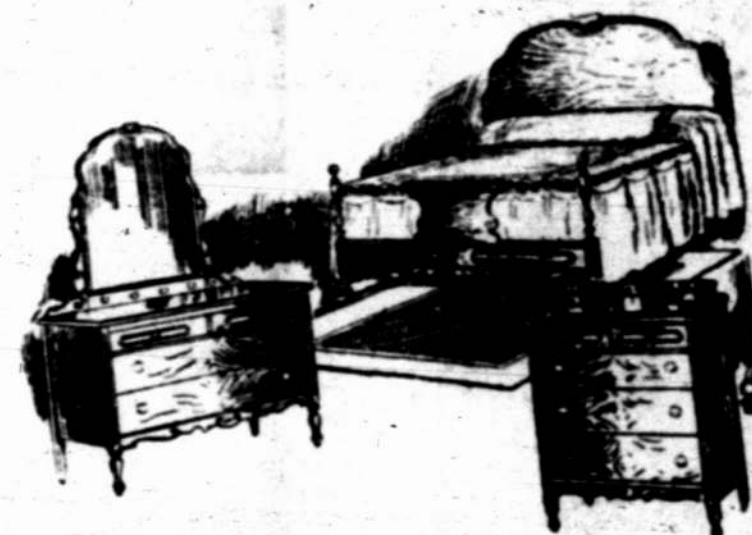

The Amarillo Furniture Company feels that the kind of store it operates in this city, and in all other cities where operated, contributes to the commercial attractions offered by it. It feels that because of enormous buying power, its personal and particular care exercised in the selection of furniture, offers to the people of this vicinity an attraction that makes Lubbock a better trade center.

We feel that our business has been gained by steadfast application of "Preferred Quality"—the kind that "Pays Dividends". For the money you are asked by this store—you are assured of greatest value. Remember greatest values include type of construction, weight, character of manufacture, materials etc., and great value is never a result of buying for lowest price.

We extend the people of the South Plains an invitation to enjoy the privileges of shopping here at all times. Their entire satisfaction is the road through which we shall travel on to greater success.
