Night Game Slated For Powell Field

Sale Of Season Tickets For Football Games Started

With ten lettermen back from the 1933 squad, Coach Billy Jarvis has been drilling the Wellington football team intensively in preparation for the first game of the season with the Childress Class A team, which will be played on Powell Field Friday night. Wellington's squad of 27 eager players is reported to be in good shape with the exception of two casualties among lettermen.

Raymond Ford is still nursing an injured knee which was hurt in the preliminary training in New Mexico and Clois Duncan is suffering a broken nose. While these two stellar lettermen may be missing from the starting lineup due to their injuries the other eight are almost certain to start according to Coach Jarvis. These are: Gene Glenn, quarterback and captain, Woody Wood, fullback; Stanley Parker, half; C. C. Williams, half; M. V. Vandiver, center; L. E. Riley, end; Travis Williams, end and John Anders, tackle.

If Duncan is unable to play, the call for tackle may go to Harris McCauley or Buford Clement, although Coach Jarvis has given no information as to who could start the game besides the letterman named. The guard positions are the only ones in which Coach Jarvis does not have lettermen playing, but he has a number of good prospects trying out for this position. Some of these are Grant Woodridge, Mooney Stall, Lloyd Kelley, Vance Rody and E. B. Reuplet, who has been playing some at half.

Agents Will Appear Before State Board On Hog Plan

Charges Filed In Connection With Barnes Shooting

Officers Tell Of Martin Capture And Durham Escape Near Claude

Panhandle officers Tuesday, temporarily abandoned their hunt for Earl Durham for the first time in seven days—and considered the possibility of his having made an escape Thursday night or Friday morning. Others insisted that the alleged killer was still hiding in one of the many thousands of nooks to be found in the 450,000 acres of territory included in the Palo Duro Canyon.

Constable Ed Pryor and Sheriff-elect, Claude McKinney Tuesday took Tense Martin, who had been arrested September 4, on a warrant charging him with the murder of Elmer Barnes, employee at the Lucky Corner Service Station, from the Claude, Texas, jail and are expected to lodge him here or in the Wichita Falls jail. Last Friday the two officers carried Martin to Memphis, where he was identified in connection with burglaries and two warrants have also been filed against him in that county.

Cotton Allotment To Be Threshed Out At Bryan

County Agent, John O. Stovall, O. J. Walker, adjustment assistant, and J. C. Emmert, left Monday evening for College Station, where they will go before the State Cotton Allotment Board and Corn-Hog Review Board. The college advised them to come down in interest of the Cotton Allotment and Corn-Hog adjustments. It is their belief that they will get their contracts and applications by the State Boards at once, and that the Corn-Hog payment will not be held up, as the Corn-Hog review board disbands the 15th of this month, and all contracts that are not approved by then will be held much longer before payment can be made. Their contracts will have to go direct to Washington, and in event they are not correct, the payment will be withheld indefinitely. Mr. J. C. Emmert, chairman of the County Corn-Hog Association, states that he believes that the Collingsworth County contracts are in first class condition, and that they will not have any difficulty in getting the contracts certified for payment.

All applications for cotton allotment were taken to College Station with Mr. Stovall and Walker, these applications have been held up waiting for a few who were slow in signing up, and it is hoped that each and every cotton farmer in Collingsworth County had their application in and approved before Monday, as every one has had plenty of time to see about this, and as the ginning season has started the applications could not be held longer. It is doubtful if any one who did not have their applications in by Monday will be able to gin any cotton tax-free.

Collingsworth County cattle quota has been raised to 1000 head for the coming week, the county agent stated. He said that he and several cattle men have been trying for several days to get this quota raised, and it is not known just how long the state board will allow the quota to remain 1000 head but is hoped that this will last

For a time her condition was considered extremely grave, but her grandfather, George C. White, says that she is greatly improved and that strong hope is held for her recovery. Mr. and Mrs. Hughey live twelve miles east of Wellington.

Paupers Oath To Be Required On Charity Cases

Decision Reached Monday By Members Of Commissioners Court

All persons applying to Collingsworth County for charity will be required to take the pauper's oath. This decision was reached by the members of the Commissioner's Court in their regular session Monday after an inspection of their disbursements for August showed a heavy amount for charity. People taking the pauper's oath will be disfranchised and the Commissioners hope that this action will decrease the heavy demands that have been made upon the court.

The court was also estimating the cost of repairing bridges in various precincts, which had been damaged by the heavy rains. No exact estimate could be made without more detailed examination,

Canning Operations Will Start On Monday September 17

With all equipment on hand and a definite program outlined for the Collingsworth County canning kitchen announcement was made today that the new canning plant would be completed and open to the public for inspection on Saturday, September 15, from 10 to 6 o'clock. The regular canning program will be put into operation Monday, September 17.

In announcing Saturday as the date for public inspection, persons interested in the plant were encouraged to make visits on the set date as visitors will not be received except upon specified occasions due to the fact that they would let flies in through the doors and because the plant will operate under a strict sanitary regime which would not permit constant visits from the public. On Saturday, however, Mrs. J. W. Peoples and Mrs. Jennie Halcomb, recently named supervisors, assisted by a shift of workers will explain the operation of the plant and show the working methods to the public.

Palo Duro Canyon Manhunt

Buffalo, Deer Roam Beauty Spot Housing Alleged Killer

For the first time in many years men, armed with heavy rifles, disturbed the habitancy of Texas buffalo; not for many moons had deer gracefully dashed for security as armed men wended their way through the brakes and sage of the Palo Duro Canyon—but all of these strange things went unnoticed as the grim little band of peace officers searched and researched through the picturesque Palo Duro Canyon which crosses the world-famous Goodnight Ranch.

Recalls Frontier Days

A manhunt which bordered upon the tactics of frontier days in the Panhandle and one such as this section will probably never see again in recent years was underway. The little band which included peace officers from Collingsworth, Armstrong, Donley and other neighboring counties were grim and determined.

Trained through their work to love and respect nature, these sights would ordinarily have held each of them spellbound—but for the past seven days a shadow has lurked in the minds of these men. A shadow which pictured a widow woman and three children; a shadow which portrayed an innocent youth sprawled in a pile of blood; a shadow which hung over their own wives and children and over those dear to their friends.

Unparalleled the history of modern manhunts should go down the

963,000 Miles of Road Tests

followed by the Indianapolis Destruction Test to Prove Greater Motor Protection and Lower Oil Consumption!

What would you have us do that has not been done to establish New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil?

Hundreds of cars, trucks and tractors were used. A road test of 963,000 miles was made. Equipment from a single to a sixteen-cylinder unit was employed in this test.

Don't you think this was exhaustive? Don't we have a license to say that you know you can get greater motor protection? An unbiased Destruction Test was run on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway under the sanction and supervision of the AAA Contest Board (Sanction No. 3001).

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil competed with five nationally-known oils. We wanted you to know the truth of our claims, so we drove six identical stock motors to destruction at the rate of 50 miles per hour.

The car containing New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil out-distanced its nearest competitor by 1,410.2 miles. It traveled 3,015.8 miles farther than the first oil to fail.

Over half a century of serving the public with motor oils and gasoline has given us a wealth of experience and information to fortify the unusual results we are now offering to you.

H. D. Expansion Program

Mrs. J. G. Gardner and Mrs. J. W. Masten have been appointed on the expansion committee for the North Wellington Home Demonstration club. The purpose of this committee is to contact more people that are not familiar with the club program, and help to see that more people use the "Live at Home Program."

Mrs. Gardner says that before she studied picture arrangement in the club, she never did notice pictures in different people's homes—but now it is just as natural, for her to see if pictures are hung flat against the wall without the nail or cord showing.

Prepare Foods To Preserve Nature's Gift

Mrs. W. D. Aldridge, from the North Wellington Home Demonstration Club prepares her potatoes by baking so as to preserve the natural foods.

Even though you may select a balanced diet it may be very unbalanced when it is served at your table, on account of the method of preparation. Dr. Mayo says that the modern housewife destroys seventy percent of the potato by peeling, cutting in small portions, and cooking in large amounts of water at a high temperature.

Mrs. Aldridge preserves the natural foods that your body needs for growth and repair by baking her potatoes with the jackets on. After the potatoes were done, Mrs. Aldridge peeled them, added warm thin cream, and seasonings then, beating until they were light and fluffy. She says that the flavor of the creamed potatoes were decidedly improved in flavor and that she is glad to prepare quality foods.

Household Linens

Mrs. Jewel Roberts of the South Wellington, Household 4-H Girl's Club, is making a linen dresser scarf to display at the Amarillo Fair.

In planning the dresser scarf, she selected a scarf that harmonized with the shape of the dresser, covering the surface of the dresser since the scarf is to be as a background for the dresser instead of a decoration.

The decorative stitch has also harmonized with the shape of the dresser. Mrs. Roberts chose double hemstitching for her trimming since it is much more artistic to use only one type of trimming. Since the hem is two and one-fourth inches wide, she minored the corners in order to have a quality product.

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

The Junior Police are doing their best to improve traffic conditions in Wellington. They are clean young boys, and they take their job seriously. Their work is not only a help to the town, but it is valuable training for them. It gives them a knowledge of the need for law and its observance and a respect for it. They should receive the courteous co-operation of every person, for they are not only courteous themselves, but they are attempting to do the worthwhile thing. Thinking people will gladly give them their help.

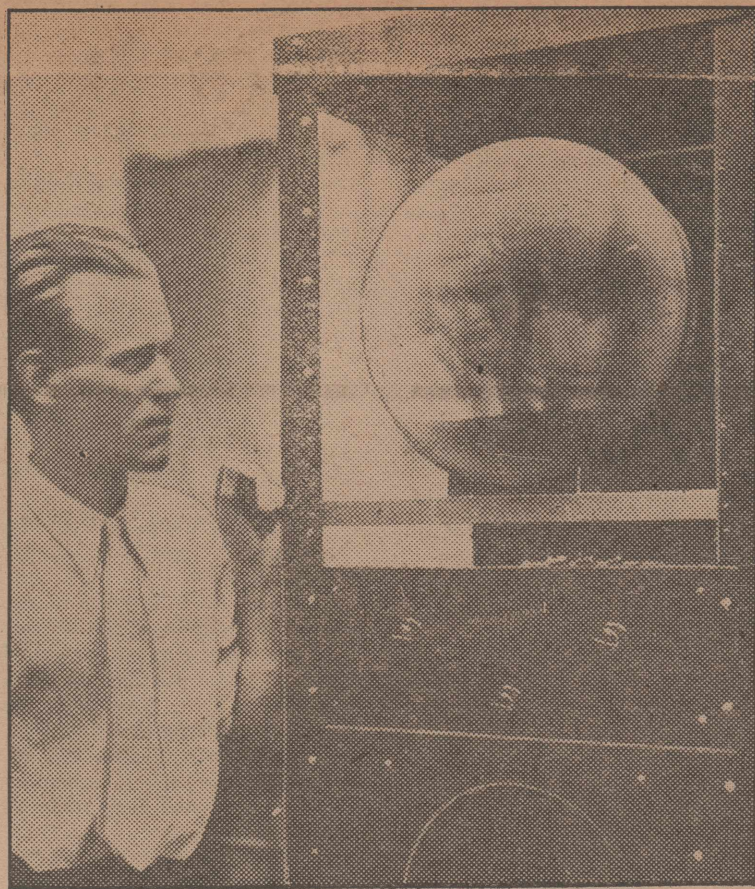

Sunday afternoon I saw the worst looking clouds to do as little damage as they did that I have ever seen. They were all colors and they were traveling in every direction. Luther McPherson invited me over to be near his dugout and Lawrence Gillespie and Earl Tompkins were already there with their families. Ordinarily I don't get excited about clouds, but I did over those Sunday. They were too low and they were moving in too many directions. One time a big black number made a swoop down and looked like it was going to hit for certain, but it veered off. Lawrence had his hands full keeping the children in the cellar while "Arkansas" and I watched the movements all the time he was keeping up a continuous lecture on clouds, storms and tornadoes. He knows more about these subjects than I do, but I didn't give him any argument, for I was too busy worrying over what they were going to do right then. Finally it rained and I went in and ate a big platter of ham and eggs for supper.

I ran across Ernest Lewis and C. C. Bell the other morning deep in a discussion of our present trend in government. Mr. Bell was of the opinion that 20 years ago the present program would have been called socialism. As a matter of fact much that the old socialists advocated had been swiped by the Republicans and Democrats and put into practice long before the New Deal came along, and much of the New Deal is composed of measures more liberal than the old time Socialists dared to suggest. However, there is still considerable difference between our present program and pure Socialism. We are simply modifying our form of capitalism and the present indications seem to point to considerable modification before it is over.

Corbett Ford was in town last Monday bringing the cheerful news that only half of his cotton crop was hailed out. He says it was quite a hail, however, for it took a lot of hail to hit what few bolls there were left. Chester Fires was also in to give Pink Sullivan the cheering news that a four inch flood fell on Pink's sub-irrigated land near Aberdeen. If any other farmers of this turn of mind have a message to deliver to me, I want them to know that I am not in the dumps. That reminds me Henry Vaughan did drop a little inspirational talk, but I just laughed and hurried on. Fred Hanna was here from Altus Saturday and he was also chasing the gloom away, and James Doneghey gave out a very optimistic statement concerning the cotton crop to me and Joe Hardy. Fred LeDerer was rushing off to Dallas, because a salesman had told J. D. Wilson there would be a shortage of cotton goods due to the textile strike and Fred wanted to get there before it was all gone. A. V. Jones was congratulating Luther Gribble on the fact that there were only seven bridges out in his precinct, when there could have been fifteen. All in all, Monday was a very rosy day.

No matter how it goes, I am not going to pray for any sudden changes. Sunday my wife and baby were in Shamrock and I was sitting on the front porch wishing something would happen. I even wished that a tornado would come, so I could send a story off to the daily papers. In about twenty minutes the clouds began to form and in another thirty they began to boil. Having a guilty conscience anyway about that wish, I just knew the town was going to blow away, and was I relieved when Arkansas invited me to go over to his cellar. From now on I am going to wait until excitement comes to me no matter how bored I get.

Here is something that was originated for the school children of Czechoslovakia, but it seems to me it might be a good thing for grown people to go by as well:

1. Love your schoolmates; they will be your companions for life and work.
2. Love instruction, the food of the spirit. Be thankful to your teachers as to your own parents.
3. Consecrate every day by one good useful deed and kindness.
4. Honor all honest people; esteem men but humble yourself before no man.
5. Suppress all hatred and beware of insulting your neighbor; be not revengeful but protect your own rights and those of others. Love justice and bear pain and misfortune courageously.
6. Observe carefully and reflect well in order to get at truth. Deceive not yourself or others and beware of lying, for lies destroy the heart, the soul, and the character. Suppress passions and radiate love and peace.
7. Consider that animals also have a right to your sympathy and do not harm them or tease.
8. Think that all good is the result of work; he who enjoys without working is stealing from the mouth of the worker.
9. Call no man a patriot who hates or has contempt for other nations, or who wishes and approves wars. War is the remains of barbarism.
10. Love your country and your nation but be co-workers in the high task that shall make all men live together like brothers in peace and happiness.

Salt Fork Crops Aided By Rains

By VERA LEE HARRIS

This community has had plenty of rain lately that has been of great help to the farmers. Feed will be late due to the drought. A late freeze will be needed to mature it.

Corn is a failure due to corn borers and drought. There may be a little corn but not much.

The cotton estimate is about six or seven acres to the bale. This is the lowest it has been in many years. The fleas or something are getting the new squares that the rain has helped put on. There is some pulling to be done now of the unmaturing bolls which opened before the rain.

Several farmers intend to sow winter pastures of rye, barley, oats or wheat.

staunch support given these men by the residents of Goodnight, Claude and by the farmers who reside between the two cities as they searched for Earl Durham, charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Elmer Barnes in Wellington on Saturday night, August 18. Such respect for the law, for officers and for law enforcement is indeed a tribute to those people who found no task too large in doing their bit. Automobiles, horses, guns and men were secured on a moment's notice.

what he did and where he resided none other than Durham, himself, knows. It is known, however, that he left the barn southeast of Claude, following the capture of his pal, Tense Martin, clad only in his underwear and carrying a .45 calibre pistol. He followed a southerly course to a farm house, where he secured trousers and about one mile from the scene of Martin's capture, took from a pen a gentle horse, saddle, blanket and bridle. He then turned to seek refuge in the huge arroyos of the Palo Duro Canyon.

Following the escape Tuesday night officers Wednesday night entered the canyon and searched for the fugitive. Two boys late that day discovered the horse. They rushed to officers with the information and the animal was recovered—but evidence pointed to the fact that Durham had torn the saddle blanket into strips making shoes for his swollen feet.

Last Thursday night Durham again came out of the canyon and went to the Bunn house, scene of the capture, where he received shoes, a coat and a sack of food. The manhunt went into full swing again—to no avail. Some persons contended that the fugitive made his escape, others felt that he was still in the canyon. The foreman in charge of the Goodnight buffalo herd was one of the latter.

After noting possibilities of persons having slept in the old Spring Creek camp he carefully swept smooth the quarter of an inch of dust covering the floor and each morning inspected to see if additional foot prints had been made. Monday morning he reported to authorities that prints were in the dust.

The hunt started again with renewed enthusiasm. Officers called Granite and got bloodhounds. Ed Pryor, Claude McKinney and Austin O'Neil of this city again returned to the Canyon, while Jack Deahl went to Granite for the dogs.

Upon arrival, however, the bloodhounds failed to pick up the scent which was old by the time they arrived. The entire countryside was searched with the dogs and the search took all Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning by men on horses.

Guards were placed Monday night at the two houses which Durham had previously appeared; also at the old camp where the tracks were discovered, but to no avail. The fact that the fugitive may have escaped is supported by knowledge that last Thursday night he secured a small portion of food—and since that time has had little to eat.

Many persons believe that he has left the Canyon, despite ever-watching eyes of the residents of that section. It is possible that he could have swung a freight as it labored through the canyon. He might have also sneaked out at night—but to escape discovery on the highway would be almost impossible and he would have had to walk 15 or 20 miles under the cover of darkness to escape detection by watchful residents who have his description and believe they can detect him by his blind eye.

Life In Palo Duro

That he can remain in the canyon until cold weather is entirely possible since Spring Camp, a quarter of a century ago used on the old Goodnight Ranch, has apples, peaches and persimmons growing in abundance. The chief hazards to be encountered would be the extremely cold nights and danger of being gored by one of the 235 head of buffalo. The buffalo cows attack strange men upon their appearance. The Spring Camp is one of the beauty spots of the canyon and furnishes plenty of fresh water with an old camp house for protection from the cold.

Despite the fact that officers feel that Durham has made good his escape many people who live in the vicinity of the Canyon still fear an attack from the armed man and each night lock their homes securely, driving either into Claude or Goodnight, where they spend the night with friends and return to their homes the next day.

Menace To Buffalo

The foreman has also stated that the presence of a man inhabiting the canyon may have an effect on the Goodnight buffalo herd, which is now the only one of its kind in Texas.

Sheriff Tom Brunson of Claude, who headed the manhunt, is one of the most fearless and respected law officers in the Panhandle. Included among his deputies is a man who was instrumental in bringing about the capture of Perchmouth Stanton the first time.

The manhunt included many interesting points. One of these points in which Claude McKinney figured occurred as the men, walking through the canyon with the knowledge that over them lurked a man with two .45 calibre pistols who would shoot when cornered. At a tense moment during this search a covey of quail flew up under Claude McKinney—and he admits that he was frightened to the point where he almost shot even in the presence of Game Warden Austin O'Neil.

Mr. O'Neil and Ed Pryor also demand the admiration and respect of the Armstrong County officers—a type of respect and friendship which became founded as the men faced death for a common cause.

Whether Durham will be taken in the canyon or not remains to prove his present location. That he will be taken somewhere, however, is almost a certainty in the minds of the officers who state that they want to take him alive if possible, who say "shooting is too good for a rat that killed an innocent man in cold blood."

SUITS LOOK UP

Tweed is the favorite fabric and with good reason. It's so warm and sturdy, so adapted for the hard knocks of a busy season and so practical for business and all-around wear. With sporty accessories it is ideal for football games and the country; or add a satin blouse and dressy beret and you can fare forth serenely confident to tea or bridge.

There are many lovely domestic and imported tweeds, conspicuous among which are the nubby, closely woven textures with flecks of contrasting color. Herringbone effects and smooth wools are also seen. They come in many attractive colors among which browns predominate.

Zone Meeting Of Methodist Ladies Held Here Friday

The Wellington Auxiliary of the Methodist Missionary Society entertained the members of this zone last Friday with an all day meeting at the church. Representatives from Pampa, Shamrock, Kelley, Dozier, Salt Fork and Plainview were in attendance and gave reports from their districts.

In the business meeting a regular date was set for the meeting which will be the second Thursday of the last month in each quarter. The next meeting will be at Dozier the second Thursday in December.

SUITS LOOK UP

Tweed is the favorite fabric and with good reason. It's so warm and sturdy, so adapted for the hard knocks of a busy season and so practical for business and all-around wear. With sporty accessories it is ideal for football games and the country; or add a satin blouse and dressy beret and you can fare forth serenely confident to tea or bridge.

There are many lovely domestic and imported tweeds, conspicuous

among which are the nubby, closely woven textures with flecks of contrasting color. Herringbone effects and smooth wools are also seen. They come in many attractive colors among which browns predominate.

Worley Expresses Appreciation To District Voters

Eugene Worley, nominee for Representative of the 122nd district, visited in Wellington last week and expressed his appreciation to the voters of Collingsworth County:

"Please accept my sincere thanks for the votes given me in the recent primary. To tell you that I appreciate your vote would be expressing it mildly. I realize fully what an Herculean task it is to give the people of this district the representation they should have and I pledge my best efforts to secure for them what they need.

"I have nothing but the highest regard and respect for my opponent and those who supported him. I feel confident that my opponent was actuated by the same motives as myself, namely, to be a good public servant. I assure you that I am under obligations to no one except to the people of this district and I likewise assure you that I shall never bind myself to anyone except the people as a whole who haven't had the representation they are entitled to.

"I am leaving this week for Austin to begin working in the interests of the people of this district. I've tried to see all of you personally and thank you. To those I haven't seen, I take this method. I still need your support because without your confidence in me I might as well not be your servant. I deem it an honor and a privilege to serve you in this capacity, and my every effort shall be to make you a representative in fact as well as in name."

HONOR DANIEL BOONE

Honors were paid to the great frontiersman, Daniel Boone, a few days ago, at Boonesboro, Ky., the site of one of the first white settlements west of the Alleghenies, founded by him 159 years ago.

This was one of a series of observances being held this year, which marks the 200th anniversary of Boone's birth, which occurred in Pennsylvania on November 2, 1734. When about 18 years old he became a hunter and trapper in North Carolina, later roaming the forests of Kentucky with a small party of adventurous spirits like himself, exploring a wide area.

In 1778, three years after the founding of Boonesboro, he was captured by a band of Indians and adopted into their tribe. After being held a captive for several months he escaped and made his way back to Boonesboro, where he took a leading part in repelling a fierce attack by Indians which lasted 10 days.

Boone held several offices on the frontier, and in 1799 he received from Spain a grant of land in what is now Missouri, where he served as an official under the Spanish government until 1803, when this territory was sold to the United States as a part of the Louisiana Purchase.

Many stories are told of Daniel Boone's great physical strength, his skill as a backwoodsman, and his prowess as an Indian fighter. In an address at the recent Boonesboro celebration he was described by Governor Laffoon as the "foremost pioneer in our nation and its greatest frontiersman."

A PRODIGY GROWN UP

About eight years ago considerable publicity was given to the precocity of Ellen Elizabeth Benson of Texas, who was rated as America's brightest child. Before she was nine years old she had passed examination tests showing mental qualifications equivalent to those required of a high school teacher.

When she was 12 her intelligence quotient was determined to be 214, said to be the highest ever recorded in the United States by a person of any age in a Cinet-Simon test. During the following year, while in college she wrote six articles which were accepted and published by Vanity Fair. These and other intellectual feats brought her much fame as a child prodigy.

Recently a New York reporter rediscovered Ellen Elizabeth, now 21, living in a small apartment in the suburbs of that city. She said she was very happy and hoped later on to resume her literary work, which has been neglected for several years, but at present she finds other activities more expedient.

She was married several months ago to Harold S. Leach, an employee of an ice cream company, whom she declares to be a perfect husband, in spite of his limited education. She, too, has a job—as cashier for an automobile concern—which is more than a lot of other bright people can boast of right now.

WAIIF FINDS A HOME

Another of those pathetic stories of abandoned babies, this one apparently destined to have a happy ending, comes from Hattiesburg, Miss., where a 4-day-old baby girl was left in a box on the porch of Mr. and Mrs. John Carter.

Whoever the mother may be, the note she left pinned to the simple slip in which the child was clothed indicated that her heart was torn by the thought of giving up her child, and filled with solicitude for its welfare. It read:

"I love my darling baby, but have to give her up. Her father deserted me and it would be an injustice to her for me to keep her. Please, oh, please, raise her right to believe in and give her heart to God. God bless you, Roxanna, and help you to be a good obedient child. You that take my baby, little Roxanna, will never see me as I want you to love her and her to love you as each other's own. Her mother. Born 9:30, Sept. 1, 1934."

Mrs. Carter, childless herself, decided to keep the little waif and her request that no attempt to find the mother be made by the authorities was granted.

Many will condemn the mother who thus abandoned her baby to the mercy of strangers, and certainly her action is not to be recommended to other mothers, still, in this instance, she may have done for the best. Little Roxanna and the kind-hearted Carters will have the sincere good wishes of everyone.

CONSTITUTION DAY

September 17 marks the 147th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States by the constitutional convention in Philadelphia in 1787, after many weeks of deliberation and much spirited discussion. It became effective March 4, 1789, having been ratified by 11 of the 13 original states, the remaining two giving their ratification the following year.

The first 10 amendments to the constitution, commonly known as the Bill of Rights, became effective December 15, 1791. A total of 21 amendments to the Constitution have been adopted, but the 21st repealed the 18th (prohibition) amendment, leaving 20 now in effect. The 18th amendment is the only one ever repealed after its adoption.

In recent years Constitution Day has been widely observed by suitable exercises held by schools, clubs and patriotic societies, in which addresses pertaining to the origin, provisions, and significance of the Constitution have been features of the day's program.

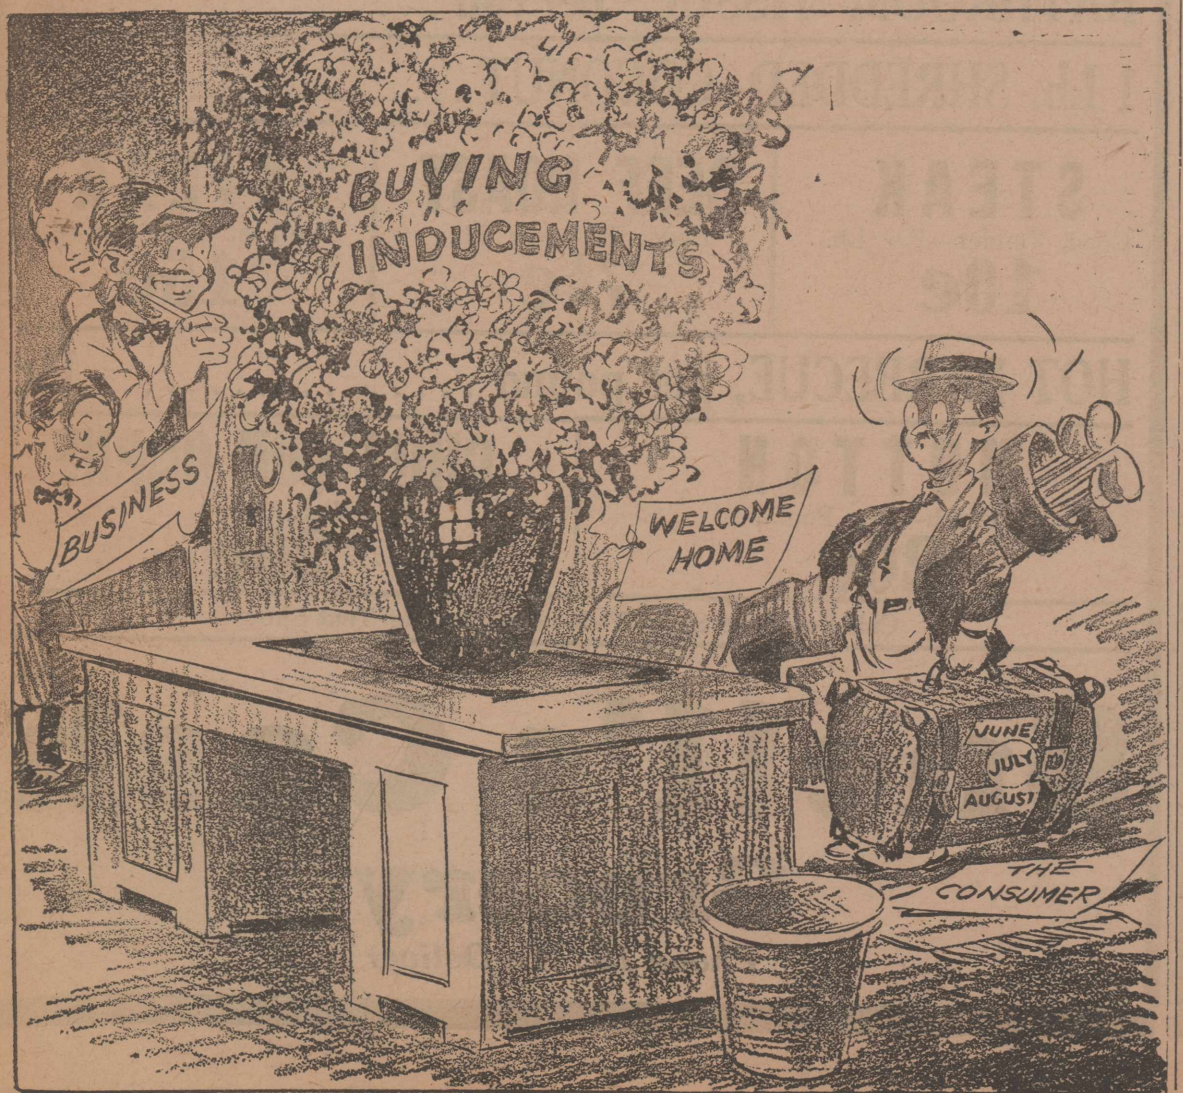

It is only true to say that comparatively few Americans are familiar with this great charter of our nation's liberties, the wisdom and foresight of whose authors have been amply vindicated. Constitution Day is suggested as a most appropriate time for the reading and study of this immortal document.

One of the highest tributes ever paid the Constitution was given by the eminent British statesman, Viscount James Bryce, who said:

"The Constitution deserves the veneration with which Americans have been accustomed to regard it. It ranks above every other written constitution for the intrinsic excellence of its scheme, its adaptation to the circumstances of the people, the simplicity, brevity and precision of its language, its judicious mixture of definiteness in principle with elasticity in details."

In Missouri a mule has been born with three hind hoofs. In some cases that would be just three too many.

The Boss Returns

The Story Of The Bible Told In Pictures

MOSES TALKS WITH GOD ON MOUNT SINAI.—At the beginning of their wanderings in the wilderness Moses was not only the leader of the Israelites but also their sole judge. But finding this burden too heavy, he appointed judges from among the people of Israel to judge small matters, and he himself served as a final arbiter. Thus the Israelites were provided not only with a law—through the Ten Commandments and the comprehensive Mosaic code given to them shortly afterward—but with a judiciary as well. The Ten Commandments were given to the Israelites and the Moses covenant was ratified by God through Moses on Mount Sinai. The arrival of the children of Israel at Sinai and their preparations for receiving the Law are told in Exodus 19. "And the Lord came down upon Mount Sinai, on the top of the mount; and the Lord called Moses up to the top of the mount; and Moses went up."—Ex. 19:20. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1835.

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

The town of Santa Fe, New Mexico, the principal settlement in what is known as the New Mexico, was on the east banks of the Rio Grande River and therefore the Republic of Texas claimed this as a part of her territory.

The old postal guide of the Republic of Texas listed Santa Fe, New Mexico as one of the post offices in the Republic.

This territory was so far from the Texas settlements that Sam Houston did not consider it worth while to make any effort to bring this region under Texas control. When President Lamar took office he was a man of far-seeing vision and he immediately took steps to bring Santa Fe under Texas control.

Lamar's plans were to send a commission to Santa Fe to take over the government. This goes to show that Lamar knew but very little about what he was trying to do. It had been for many years preceding this that traders from Missouri were afraid to go to this town on trading expeditions, due to the fact that they would in all probability be placed in prison as so many had been done.

Another reason that Lamar offered for sending men to Santa Fe was that the towns of Missouri by the Santa Fe Trail were enjoying a practical monopoly on the trading with the New Mexico Territory. It is said that steel was selling for $1.00 per pound and the cheapest grade of cloth was bringing from $2.00 to $3.00 per yard. One lady in St. Louis invested $60.00 in one trading trip and her profits were $500.00. No wonder President Lamar wanted this region for the Texas people.

Armed with an official proclamation, in which President Lamar invited the inhabitants of Santa Fe and the vicinity to cover themselves with the protection of the Texas flag, the expedition left Brushy Creek, about fifteen miles above Austin, on June 21, 1841.

The expedition included three commissioners, a military escort and about fifty others, chiefly merchants and traders. The total number of men in the party numbered about 600. For about six weeks the journey was pleasant enough, for its course lay through country which afforded a plentiful supply of game for food, and in which there was an abundance of water and grass for the horses and cattle.

Apart from the latitude and longitude of Santa Fe, they had no notion of where they were going. A Mexican who accompanied them had been in New Mexico, but he was utterly lost long before they reached the Mexican settlements.

As they reached the arid sections of the trip, food became scarce and they were reduced to the cruel necessity of eating snails and lizards. Many of the men are said to have eaten tortoise and snakes.

Many of the men had lost their horses and were on foot. Those on horse back decided to go ahead and send back food. Those reaching the Mexican settlements were promptly placed in prison.

This ended the only effort put forth to place Santa Fe under Texas control.

Isaiah Pleads For True Worship

Text: Isaiah 1:19-20

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 15.

Down through the ages, a contrast has always existed between reality and form in religion; that is, between ritual worship as distinguished from the inward religion that affects heart, life and daily conduct.

The tendency of religion to express itself in forms and symbols seems to be inherent in religion or in man. Everywhere religion in its expression has taken on such forms and symbols and even the barest, most Puritan sort of Christian worship is not entirely free from them.

I suppose, if we could trace the origin and history of all religious symbolism and ritual, we should find that originally the form had meaning and reality for the one who used it; but the tendency is constantly for such forms to lose their original significance or reality.

What was originally done with deep sincerity and meaning becomes simply a lifeless ritual or practice.

Nor is that the worst side of the matter. Often regard for the forms and the ritual observances of religious habit becomes far more insistent than the moral and spiritual realities, and even men of religion will have hate and violence toward one another in their controversies and quarrels over matters of form rather than reality.

The illustrations in Scripture are surely strongly in mind. One recalls how the formal literal observance of the Sabbath had become so exaggerated in the minds of certain bigots that they would have been willing even to kill Jesus because he healed the sick and disabled upon the Sabbath day.

An illustration in more modern time is the story, probably fictitious, of pirates who attacked a ship, murdered the crew and were indulging in revelry and wassail when they were suddenly conscience-stricken, realizing that they were eating meat on Friday. Such an illustration is extreme, but it signifies what has happened very widely in a lesser way.

This was the condition in Israel of Isaiah's time. The people had become much more concerned about outward observance than upon the vital matters of truth and honesty and justice, and it was under these circumstances that Isaiah uttered the plain words of our lesson. They strike home to mind and conscience with keen and startling reality.

Isaiah says that religion does not consist in outward reverence and observance of certain forms. He dares to dramatize the Almighty and to put on the lips of God the command for real cleanliness of life and the denunciation of formal profession of religion on the part of those whose hands are dripping with the blood of injustice.

How strikingly the words apply to our own age! "Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil; learn to do well; seek judgement, relieve the oppressed; judge the fatherless; plead for the widow."

The lesson does not end, however, on the note of denunciation and command. Deeper in the religion of a God of love and mercy is the note of appeal and the assurance that there is forgiveness. "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord; Though your sons be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

Here we have set before us the profound realities of religion in their height and in their depth.

The teaching of the lesson is not that oblations and sacrifices are necessarily vain, nor that forms and symbols in religion are altogether to be avoided. These things are perhaps in some measure matters of temperament and inherent attitude on the part of the worshipper.

The teaching, however, is clear and plain that, where the deeper realities of morality and spirituality are lacking, form and ritual can have no meaning.

Superintendent Lists Details For Opening Of Samnorwood High School

School Work In New District To Start October 1

Formal Opening Celebration Will Be Held At New Building September 26

By E. G. SANDERS
(Editor's note—The following article was written by E. G. Sanders, superintendent of the Samnorwood Rural High School District No. 2, and generally covers details concerning the formal opening of the new building as well as information in regard to the beginning of school in the new district, which is accredited the title of being the largest rural high school district in the state of Texas.)

Dedication Is Planned
Dedication ceremonies for the new high school building in the Samnorwood Rural High School District will be held in the auditorium of the new building, September 26. It is planned to have an all-day celebration in connection with this event consisting of a free barbecue at noon, a baseball game and other entertainment features in the afternoon. Plans are being made to care for a crowd of 3000 people.

State Superintendent L. A. Woods has agreed to give the dedicatory address in the morning, while Dr. Bradford Knapp will be the principal speaker at the afternoon session. Other speakers on the program are Bryan Dixon, Deputy State Superintendent, J. D. Wilson, County Superintendent, and members of the school board. Bands will be present from both Wellington and Shamrock.

This event is the culmination of several months of strenuous activity on the part of the board, during which time they have constructed a school building, worked out a curriculum and employed a complete faculty for the set-up. All business transactions have been on a strictly cash basis.

School Opens October 1
Construction of the Samnorwood Rural High School building will be completed about September 20 and turned over to the trustees. It is planned to complete the installation of equipment in time for the opening of school on Monday, October 1. On Friday previous, September 28, all pupils, both high school and grades, will register in the schools which they will attend. That is, all high school students will register at the high school, and all grade children will register in the old districts in which they reside. It is possible that some shifting of pupils to take care of crowded conditions will become necessary at a later date. On this registration date, all school busses will run just as on a regular school day, and it is urged that all pupils in both high school and grades ride the busses on this date in order that the board and superintendent may get some idea as to the load each bus will have to carry. Too, in this connection, it is just as necessary that all children attend school on the above mentioned date, for registration, as on a regular school day. Any high school student failing to attend on that date may find it impossible to get his schedule arranged to advantage. It might be added that the busses will run in time to arrive at the high school by nine o'clock and will make the return trip by noon of that day.

The seventh grade will be taught in the old grade buildings this year as usual. It has been found not only impractical but impossible to take care of the seventh grade at the high school due to a lack of bus room and to a shortage of teachers in the high school. It is hoped that this condition may be remedied at a later date.

Teachers Are Listed
A new salary schedule for the teachers has been worked out by the school board in the Samnorwood Rural High School District whereby the teachers will be paid on a ten months basis instead of the usual nine months. This new arrangement will be of material worth to both the teachers and school board. It will enable the board and superintendent to bring the faculty together for two weeks of organization work preceding the opening of school and at the same time give the teachers a pay day two weeks earlier than would otherwise be the case.

The faculty for the coming session has been completed and consists of 21 teachers all of whom have not only made good, here or elsewhere, but have previously done work of an outstanding character. The following is a list of the teachers of this district: E. G. Sanders, superintendent and mathematics; Clyde C. Brown, coach and history; Royal D. Metcalf, science; Miss Celia South English; Mrs. Dollie C. Robinson, Spanish and grade school supervisor; Miss Mary Allen, commerce and English; Olsen Sweat, intermediate and principal at Aberdeen; Mrs. Olsen Sweat, primary; Morris S. Ledger, intermediate and principal at Lutie; Miss Wilma Jarrell, primary at Lutie; Mrs. L. C. Sweat, intermediate and principal at Nicholson; Mrs. Jack Lowry, primary at Nicholson; Leroy McDaniels, intermediate and principal at Plymouth; Katherine McMinn, primary, Plymouth; Raymond Powell, intermediate and principal, Prairie View; Mrs. Raymond Powell, primary, Prairie View; Ben F. Baldwin, intermediate and principal, Dozier; Mrs. Clyde C. Brown, primary Dozier; Huelyn Laycock, intermediate and principal, Abra; Mrs. Guy Beasley, primary, Abra; Miss Joyce Harvey, music and expression, Samnorwood.

One outstanding feature of the Samnorwood Rural High School organization is the plan for supervision in the grades. For this position the board has selected Mrs. Dollie C. Robinson who last year was grade school supervisor in the Canyon schools. Mrs. Robinson was also president of the Canyon P. T. A. while there, and the board feel they were fortunate in securing her services here.

Quarter Of Bale To Acre Estimated Yield In Marella Section This Year

By JOE CLAUNCH

Due to excellent late rains in this and surrounding communities, crops are looking good under prevailing conditions—but generally, look better than they really are.

In the Marella community, four miles square, cotton will do well to make a fourth of a bale to the acre with the exception of a few fields which may produce a half a bale to the acre. The estimate is naturally based upon the assumption that no heavy hail or storm damage hit here before the cotton can be picked.

Cotton in this locality has been seriously damaged by the drought, fleas and jack rabbits.

The corn crop, likewise, was very badly damaged by corn borers—and a few of the patches appear as if they were drilled with buckshot from a shotgun.

Late in the afternoon, driving through the fields, one could see the rabbits gnawing the stalks down to get to the top leaves and tassels, having already eaten the top leaves so high that they were out of reach. This section will produce no corn crop during the present season.

The feed that was planted a little late is the best feed, including both headed and bundle stuff. Feed which was planted for bundles is fine and will not be long until it is ready to cut.

Maize in this community will average around 500 pounds to the acre.

Of Course You Want Your Boy to Win

If any one told you that you were making it needlessly hard for your boy or your little daughter to get on in school you wouldn't believe it could be true.

But are you giving your child, or your children, the good light they need for their home studying?

In many of the schools light is still poor, so it is especially important to provide good light where children's home work is done.

See that the lamps they use are of sufficient wattage to give plenty of light and that there can be no glare in their eyes, either direct or reflected.

Poor light makes concentration difficult, brings on fatigue and drowsiness quickly, is damaging to young eyes, and is often responsible for faulty posture, which is a danger to be guarded against.

Let our home lighting consultant tell you how to light your home for your children's benefit and for your own comfort. This is a free service. You have only to write or 'phone us to obtain it. Take advantage of this service before school begins. It will pay dividends in higher grades.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule... and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

Plymouth Crops In Fair Shape After Long Drought Period In This County

By Mrs. C. W. Fritts

Crops in this vicinity are reasonably fair considering the long drought of nine weeks. There had not been a good season in the ground since 1932.

Early cotton will not make anything and many of the fields will not even be gathered. The late cotton in some places will probably make a bale to every six acres, many ten acres. In some instances cotton is better. Warren Lowe, who farms land in the river bottom has cotton that might make one-third of a bale if we have late frost. All cotton on the tight land will be almost a complete failure as compared with cotton last year which made about one-third bale per acre.

Feed crops, as a whole, are better this year than last, as there was practically no grain raised in this district. There were bundles made but little grain. Early feed was entirely burned up when the rain came in August; but most farmers had some late feed. The grain sorghums will in most cases, mature unless we have an unusually early frost.

Practically every farmer is sowing wheat from small patches up to 20 and 25 acres for winter pasture and some plan to harvest.

The shortage of the crops is almost entirely due to drought, very little damage by rabbits. Very little corn was planted and it was damaged by worms and was a failure on account of the drought.

O. E. S. INITIATION

Members of the Eastern Star Chapter Tuesday night, September 11, initiated Mrs. George Corry. A large crowd was reported in attendance for the ceremony.

In Bonfield, Ont., the 180 families of the town average 10 children to the family, the largest having 20.

Wilbur Shaw of Ogden, Utah, has lived in the same house for 72 years.

gram of the plant starts Monday one shift of workers will be used as first and two bevers will be canned each day. It will be necessary that all beef be chilled for a period of 48 hours between a temperature of 32 and 38 degrees before it can be packed in the County Plant. Persons wishing to can beef were urged to call the supervisors and make appointments for the canning of their products. All meat will be marked in order that each person will be insured of receiving his own beef.

There has also been some question as to what toll will be charged and there are several systems listed by the relief board. Two divisions, however, will be used principally in the local plant.

Where relief furnishes equipment, cans and labor with the producer furnishing only the product, the following scale will be used. Relief to receive 55 percent of vegetables and the producer 45 percent of vegetables; relief will receive 40 percent of meat and the producer will receive 60 percent of the meat. This scale will be slightly different on peas, however, where the producer shells the peas before bringing them in he is to receive 60 percent under this system and relief will receive 40 percent; but where the peas are shelled at the plant the producer will receive only 40 percent and relief will receive 60 percent.

Under the second system, where relief furnishes equipment and labor and the producer furnishes the product and the cans; relief receives 45 percent on vegetables and the producer 55 percent of vegetables; meat canned under this system will allow the producer 70 percent and relief 30 percent.

U. S. Will Fight Suit Over Calf

WASHINGTON, D. C. —The commerce department is being sued for $20, the price of a calf that died after licking the paint off the bottom of a federal radio beacon.

An unusual midwestern farmer is the plaintiff. Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, served notice that he will fight the case, holding that if the farmer fed the calf enough salt he wouldn't have licked the paint and died. Roper also feels that the claim should be offset by the cost of the paint job ruined by the calf.

outside before the officers realized that the trio was not in the room in which Martin slept.

Clad In Underwear

When Durham escaped he was clad only in his underwear. He later secured a horse and a pair of trousers and rode into Palo Duro Canyon at about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. He also carried a .45 calibre pistol. The horse and saddle were said to have been taken from the J. H. Davis farm a mile from the barn where Martin was arrested.

McKinney fired several shots after the fleeing couple but due to the absolute darkness was unsuccessful in hitting his unseen targets.

Some distance from the barn, Durham left the woman, telling her to return and surrender to the officers, and after securing the clothing articles and horse was thought to have taken a direct route into the canyon.

Truck Load Of Loot

In the barn officers found more than a truck load of loot, which is said to have been taken in a series of holdups over the Panhandle. Approximately half of the articles have been identified this week, included was a gun, razor and several other articles taken from John Dafferon's home at south Lutie several months ago. The cache also included six saw-off shotguns, several rifles and ammunition. Among the remainder of the loot is a radio, blankets, numerous articles of clothing and trinkets, none of which are considered unusually valuable. The loot is in the Armstrong County Courthouse.

Martin and Durham are both said to have resided at Acme, Quanah and other nearby towns, but at the same time of the arrest had no permanent residence, according to present information.

Officers said that the trio had been "batching" on the Armstrong County farm for two weeks, purporting to be in search of a farm which they said they expected to rent and work next year.

Night Game--

Coach Jarvis reports that the squad is showing the best spirit of any in recent years, and that "win the district" is the battle cry of the entire team. He also says that the field is in perfect condition, due to the care it received this summer.

The game Friday will start promptly at 8 o'clock. As a special feature at the half, the midgests will demonstrate their football ability. The veds will play the blacks, and it is expected to be quite a battle.

The sale of season tickets started this week and is progressing nicely. W. F. Decker, principal of the High School, says that the teachers have subscribed 100 percent in an effort to put the team on a sound financial basis at the beginning of the season. Tickets will be on sale Friday at all drug stores in Wellington, and others will be sold by individuals appointed for this purpose.

The complete squad now reporting for practice, according to Coach Jarvis, includes: Engene Glenn, Woodrow Wood, Clois Duncan, Grant Woodridge, Paige Wilson, Mooney Stall, Stanley Parker, Lloyd Kelley, M. V. Vandiver, Buford Clement, Earl Shields, Leroy Kelley, C. C. Williams, J. C. Ward, Tom Kennedy, Vance Rody, Leon Miller, G. W. Poteet, Oscar J. Liott, I. E. Kelley, Travis Williams, E. B. Peeples, Harris McCauley, John Anders, Raymond Ford, Woodrow Ham and Paul Jones.

section. For the past quarter of a century Mr. Thompson has worked for the betterment and improvement of the section in which he lived.

Among other things he subscribed money for the first gin ever to be built there and has been an untiring worker for the welfare of his community and his neighbors, who recall him as a fine man and a friend upon whom they could always depend. Many times he has gone out of his way to assist a friend and was always available in cases of sickness.

During the past 12 years he has been in failing health, but only during the past five years has he been in such a condition as to prevent active work.

Mr. Thompson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ada Tucker Thompson; one daughter, Dorothy Louise Thompson; two sisters, Mrs. Veda Kirk of Lutie and Mrs. Jack Redding of Lutie; four brothers, R. E. Thompson of Nasasota, F. E. Thompson of Texaco, F. W. Thompson of Lutie and H. D. Thompson of Virginia.

"Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," was sung as a quartette number by Aaron Edgar, J. B. Stevenson, Mrs. S. K. Parsons, Sr., and Mrs. V. A. Porter, accompanied by Mrs. Apprey Dobbs at the organ.

Pall bearers were: Frank Gulley, Will Bennett, Fred Thompson, H. K. Willingham, Richard Wischkaemper and Buster Redding. Flower bearers: Aline Isbell, Thava Wood, Elsa Wischkaemper, Obette Bennett, all of Lutie.

Interment was made in the Wellington Cemetery by Ellis Funeral Home.

and eastern part of the county, doing considerable damage in spots. The worst hail of the day fell between Pampa and Allenreed, where stones the size of a hen egg were reported.

Warm weather Tuesday and Wednesday revived hopes of a favorable fall growing season. The size of the county's cotton crop now depends upon whether or not the warm weather continues and how long a killing frost holds off. Estimates of the cotton crop vary greatly, but all estimates depend upon the weather. Warm weather and a frost as late as last year could easily give the county a total near its tax free quota whereas an early frost or continued cold weather could easily cut the crop far short of that amount.

for several weeks, until the cattle men and stock farmers can get the desired relief that they have been in dire need of for some time. The quota until this notice was only 150 head per day, the 1000 head allotment will be divided as near as possible over the entire county, Stovall stated. This will be divided among the different precincts, and will be 250 head for each. The cattle buying will begin as per schedule on Thursday
