ANSWERLINE

Q. Do police officers have the authority to go on parking lots of department stores, grocery stores, etc., and write citations for cars parked in handicapped zones without a handicap permit? If so, how much is the fine?

A. Police officers can write citations and security personnel hired by the individual stores can file also. The code enforcement officer for a city can also issue citations. The fine can range up to $200. The space also has to meet identification requirements dictated by state law.

Hearing set for September 30
on refinery site

The Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission - formed by combining the Texas Water Commission and the Texas Quality Air Board - has scheduled their second meeting in Colorado City to discuss the cleanup operations of the Col-Tex Refinery Superfund Site.

It is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 30, at 7 p.m. in the C.C. Thompson Room of the City National Bank. The first meeting was held in July of this year.

The meeting will discuss the removal of three tanks at the site and that work is expected to start in October.

One of the tanks has a capacity of 80,000 barrels and the other two have a capacity of 55,000 barrels. The storage tanks contain benzene, chromium and a variety of other hazardous substances and each has been punctured and leaking. The Commission feels the hazardous substances have been migrating into the Colorado River.

Fina has placed oil-absorbent booms in the Colorado River and also installed a hydrocarbon abatement system that is designed to act as a filter and a barrier and it runs 460 feet along the river frontage.

The site of the refinery covers almost 200 acres north and south of Highway 377 west of town and it served as a refinery operation beginning in 1928. It continued in operation under various owners until 1968 and most of the major refinery equipment and tanks were removed in 1971.

For more information about the Col-Tex site, contact Barbara Ferguson, TNRCC Superfund Community Relations, at 1-800-633-9363.

Rotary Dove Hunt
is very successful

The third annual Rotary Dove Hunt was "an outstanding success" said co-chairmen of the event - Pat Taylor and David Montgomery.

"We had 5 hunters the first year and 14 last year," said Montgomery.

There were 28 hunters this year from as far away as Texarkana and Longview. A bar-b-que lunch was served Saturday at David Stubblefield's ranch and 35 people attended it.

"Not only do hunters come to town," said Taylor, "but they bring their families as well."

The morning hunt was "kinda slow" but the dove cooperated in the evening.

Several hunters got their limits in the evening and Lew Massey, an Arlington hunter, shot 12 times and got 12 birds said Montgomery.

Some 12 motel rooms were rented by the hunters and they also purchased food, gas, shotgun shells and other necessities while in town.

"All the businesses in town drew praise for their helpfulness and friendliness from the visitors," said Montgomery, "and the stores offering antiques for sale attracted lots of attention too."

"The Rotary Club would like to extend a special 'thank you' to David Stubblefield for donating his land for the hunt," said the chairman, "this event is getting bigger and better each year and through the help of David and many other individuals and businesses in town...this hunt will soon be a

modules to be set at the 80-John Wallace Unit here. Many Mitchell County citizens were on hand at the prison site as the 120,000 pound module was lifted into place on the second floor of the j-4 building.

First prison in Texas to use modular system

Final module set at 80-John Unit

"One hundred and forty three down and one to go" could have been the motto at the 80-John Wallace Unit Friday morning as the last pre-cast module was put in place on the J-4 building at 1 p.m.

The 120,000 pound module was set in place by some of the sixteen employees of the H.B. Zachary Co. who were on the job site here. The company manufactured the modules in San Antonio and then they were trucked here.

The four-cell module will hold eight inmates and has approximately 21 yards of concrete in it and close to two tons of reinforcement steel and weld plates.

This is the first time in history that this process has been used in constructing units for the Texas Department of Corrections.

Work at the unit is going "very, very smooth" said Art Chiaverini, project superintendent with the Bill Harbert Company. "As a matter of fact, I could not be more pleased with the progress at this time."

One hundred and ninety five are presently employed at the site and that figure will be over two hundred this coming week.

"The work and morale of the subcontractors has been excellent," said Chiaverini, "it is a lot easier to push a job along when the folks we work with want to achieve the same goals."

He was also involved with the Preston Smith Unit in Lamesa and says this project is "way ahead of that job due to workmanship, outstanding weather and a simplified foundation design."

At the setting of the last module, several citizens who have been instrumental in working on the project were on hand as was the vice president of Bill Harbert Construction Company, Howard

Dyer-Smith from Birmingham, Alabama.

Chiaverini also issued a plea for citizens to stay out of the construction area except during organized tours.

"We'll be happy to stay late sometimes if anyone has a group that would like to look at the progress up close," said the veteran of several TDCJ ventures, "but it is much too dangerous to come out while all the machinery is going."

Homecoming set next Friday for Colorado High

Homecoming for the Colorado City Wolves will be Friday, Sept. 17. To kick off the activities, Wolf fans should meet at the high school parking lot on Thursday, September 16 to ride in the Car Caravan to the bonfire. The Car Caravan will leave the high school at 8:00 p.m. and the bonfire will be lit at approximately 8:30 at the rodeo grounds on Old Highway 80.

On Friday Sept. 17, the Homecoming pep rally will be held in the high school gym at 12:00 noon. At 4:30 p.m., the Homecoming Parade will leave from the First Baptist Church area. Participants in the parade need to be there by 3:45 to line up. The parade will leave First Baptist Church, travel south on Chestnut, head west on 2nd Street, and end at the Court House.

The Colorado City Wolves will play the Slaton Tigers at 8:00 at Wolf Stadium. The presentation of the homecoming queen and her court will be held at halftime of the game. Following the game, the homecoming dance will be held at Kelley Elementary Cafeteria. The dance is for high school students and their dates. TuTu 1/2 Productions will play for the dance from 10:30-12:30. The price will be $3.00 for single and $5.00 a couple.

Please show your support for the Wolves and participate in each of these activities.

Hertenberger Field may be opened

The city council will consider re-opening Hertenberger Field for softball games in their Tuesday, Sept. 14 meeting. The city closed the field last year because of complaints from residents in the area including Joe R. Johnson who filed suit against the city in the amount of $5000 due to "mental and physical duress caused by the close proximity of Hertenberger Field to Plaintiff's (Johnson's) residence."

The suit was filed August 7, 1992 and the city was without a softball field this past summer.

Other items on the agenda include Francis Perales presenting a petition for paving a street. Wayne Oliver will discuss fencing behind the Civic Center for a play area, discussion on prohibiting jet skis at Fisher Park, possible action on purchasing scales for the landfill and discussion on the city acting as collection agency for Lone Star Gas.

The council will also discuss setting the tax rate at $0.3763/$100.

The meeting will start at 7 p.m. at City Hall.

Fall registration set at Wallace

"YOU CAN" is a special project of the Wallace Community Education Center.

Open House for Fall Registration will be held Monday night, September 13, 1993, from 6:00-10:00 p.m. This is for anyone who is interested in attending classes for CED, Basic Adult Education or English-Second Language. This will give everyone an opportunity to meet and visit with the instructors and learn more about the classes.

The program is for persons 17 and over. All classes are free and are held on an on-going basis in Room 7 at Wallace Center each Monday night from 6:00-10:00 p.m. Registration may be made at any time during the year. Instructors are Bob Reily, Orphie Conner and Diana Castro.

Many people living in Mitchell County dropped out of school in years past and now, discover that they are shut out of better jobs and make less money than a High School Graduate. The GED can be a stepping stone to a better job, a better education, and the feeling of accomplishment that comes with a diploma. In competition for jobs, better educated persons are hired first. Employers are urged to sponsor their employees and encourage them to sign up for the CED and other educational opportunities offered at the Wallace Community Education Center.

There are no specific requirements as to how long you study each night, or even how often you come. Every subject is individualized and adapted to your needs. You can prepare for your tests as rapidly as you desire or take whatever time is necessary. It is up to you but remember "YOU CAN" do it. Why not start now?

KIT'S LIT

BY KITTEN ARTHUR

Colorado ISD is completing its fourth week of the new school year, as a part of our pledge to community awareness and partnerships, this column will address new and "revisited" happenings in the CISD.

Perhaps the phrase you've heard most often while registering your student or attending one of the four open houses recently was the issue of parent and community involvement. TEA Commissioner Skip Meno often quotes a phrase from African folklore that certainly has merit here: "It takes the whole village to educate a child." Never before in the history of education has parental and community involvement been more important to our schools. The explosion of the Information Age has caused us to re-evaluate our roles as educators and co-educators.

How, exactly, can you help "co-educate?" In the era of dual working parents or single-parent families, volunteer work is reduced to a minimum, and schools certainly realize that. Here, though, are a few simple ways to help our schools:

1) Ask your student if he or she has homework, and ask every day (remember the Saxon math program which our district has adopted requires homework every night)

2) Encourage your student to explain assignments to you and praise his/her efforts

3) Set aside "homework time" for your student

4) Encourage your child to read for pleasure, and let him/her see you model that behavior

5) Attend school functions in which your child participates

6) Schedule a meeting with a teacher

7) Eat lunch with your elementary child once a month or so

8) Volunteer to assist on field trips, reading to small groups, clerical work in the offices or libraries, etc., if you are able.

What about community members who have no children in school? We need you, too!

1) Volunteer to sponsor field trips

2) Contact my office if you have an interesting hobby you'd like to share with a class

3) Volunteer to eat lunch with elementary students

4) Attend school functions

5) Contact the school libraries and donate a needed book in honor of your children, grandchildren, or favorite teacher

There are no limits to the types of involvement we would love to have in our system; indeed, we have many wonderful volunteers already. Kelley Elementary parents have organized the Teachers' P.E.T.S. program in which many of you are involved, and we thank you.

Probably the most important aspect of involvement that takes no time is the attitude that you, as parents and community members, value education. Let our young people know that education is a commodity for the 21st century; indeed, futurists consistently remind us that we are presently educating children for jobs that don't even exist today! As co-educators, then, let's work together to educate every child in our "village."

Garden Club meets at the Villa

On Wednesday, September 1, the Colorado City Garden Club held its first meeting of the 1993-94 year with a Dutch Treat Luncheon at the Villa Restaurant.

Brenda Aguillon, incoming president, welcomed members and guests. She introduced Bob Reilly, who discussed Robert's Rules of Order for Parliamentary Procedure. As a teacher, city council member, long time member of the hospital board, active layman in First United Methodist Church and a participant in civic organizations, he knows the value of conducting business meetings in an orderly, fair and polite way and Robert's rules of Order for Parliamentary Procedure is the universal standard for all business meetings. Since the original book of rules was published it has been revised and updated by three succeeding generations and is applicable to every business meeting.

Mr. Reilly told the members about his large oak trees that grew from across he had planted and about cultivating English Ivy.

Plans were made for the Horticulture Booth at the Fair in October. A new section this year will be Floral Arrangements. The theme and size of arrangements will be determined by a committee and all interested persons are urged to enter but to watch the Colorado Record to find the requirements for entries.

The October meeting is the community meeting on October 14 in the Thompson Room at the City National Bank. Burl Williams from the Sibley Learning Center in Midland will be the guest for that program.

Those attending were: Brenda Aguillon, Glenda Alford, Betsy Aycock, Catarine Bell, Dovie Brownfield, Erna Lou Burt, Ray Anne Carlock, Mary Ellis, Marjorie Kolman, Frances Myers, Peggy Ratliff, Sister Guadalupe Rodriguez, Rachel Singleton, Carolyn Witten, Kathy Watson and Terry McAdams.

Wolves lose to Stanton

After opening the season with a 32-0 domination of Hawley, the Colorado City Wolves got taste of their own medicine Friday night as they fell to 1-1 on the year with a 42-2 loss to the Stanton Buffaloes.

Just as the home team had dominated the line of scrimmage a week ago, they were handled this week, giving up 439 yards on the ground, with three Buffalo rushers accumulating over 100 yards on the night.

Junior Jerele Lee accounted for 168 of those yards, scoring three touchdowns on the ground and nabbing a J.J. Ortiz pass for another.

The lone scoring highlight for Colorado City came with 6:16 left in the game when junior Frank Casares picked up a blocked extra point attempt and rumbled 85 yards for a two-point tally for the Wolves.

Ashley Walthall led the C-City offense, running for 86 yards on 12 carries and catching four passes for 22 more yards.

Wolf quarterback Jason Castillo completed eight of 20 pass attempts on the night for a total of 69 yards, but was sacked eight times for 64 yards in losses.

Castillo spread his passes around with Walthall, Randy Casares, Ryan Costabile, Frank Espinoza, Greg Gaona, and Daniel Silva all catching at least one.

The game was further marred by the early injury to senior tackle Ron West, who had to leave the game early in the second quarter with an apparent hip pointer.

C-City will now prepare to meet Slaton Friday in an 8 p.m. homecoming matchup.

1993 SENIOR CAPTAINS: Serving as senior captains for the Colorado City Wolves for the 1993 football season are (left to right) Jim Lemons, Ashley Walthall, Ron West and Joe Luera. The Wolves will host the Slaton Tigers in their third game of the year this coming Friday night.

WHO SAYS YOU'RE NOT HEARING AS WELL AS YOU USED TO?

Just because other people seem to mumble. And you often ask them to repeat things. And so what if hearing on the telephone is difficult, or you seem to favor one ear for phone conversations?

That doesn't mean you have a hearing problem, does it?

Yes, quite possibly it does. Over 20 million people are afflicted with hearing difficulties. But today most hearing problems can be helped. So why not find out for sure? Have a hearing test by a professionally trained Beltone specialist. It's quick, it's simple, and it's free.

Committee to oversee jail construction

Lt. Governor Bob Bullock today directed the Senate Committee on Criminal Justice to oversee the state's massive, $650 million jail construction program to make sure the work is done within the budget and on time.

The Texas Legislature appropriated funds in the last session to build a new system of state jails to house 22,000 prisoners, add 1,000 beds to the regular prison capacity and provide 10,000 transfer beds to alleviate jail overcrowding during the next two years.

About $300 million of the funding is contingent upon voter approval in November.

"We need to be sure that this sizable undertaking is brought in on time and within our budget," Bullock said. "This committee will monitor all decisions and plans to assure the program is a success."

In his letter outlining the committee's interim duties to Committee Chairman John Whitmire (D-Houston), Bullock said the senator also should study the possibility of establishing a process independent of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice for selecting prison and jail sites.

The committee also will study parole rates to project their future impact on prison population. A final report will be prepared for the next Legislative Session that begins in January 1995.

Funds approved for treatment of chemically dependent offenders

State Senator Bill Sims and State Representative Robert Junell today announced that more than $38 million have been approved by the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse to provide treatment to chemically dependent offenders during fiscal Year 1994.

The funds were made available through an interagency contract with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice (TDCJ) and through the appropriation of state funds by the 73rd Texas Legislature to TCADA.

$11.2 million of the funding was approved for the Treatment Alternatives to Incarceration Program (TAIP) which provides chemically dependent offenders with screening, assessment, referral and placement into approved chemical dependency treatment programs. TCADA also approved $5.4 million for the Substance Abuse Felony Punishment Facilities (SAFP) and $3.4 million for the In-Prison Therapeutic Communities (ITC) program. Both of these programs provide services to the chemically dependent offender in TDCJ facilities.

In addition, TCADA approved 111 treatment providers to be offered open-ended contracts for Transitional Treatment Centers to provide a continuum of care for offenders released from the SAFP and ITC programs.

The criminal justice initiative is designed to directly impact the correlation between substance use and crime and is the largest such chemical dependency treatment initiative in the world. "More than 80 percent of the nation's prison inmates have a serious drug or alcohol problem," said Sen. Sims. "If we don't treat their addictions, the cycle of crime and addiction will continue."

"This initiative is a concerted effort to reduce recidivism among addicted offenders," said Rep. Junell, "thereby reducing the criminal justice workloads, crime in our communities and the demand for illegal drugs."

Asthma leading cause of school absenteeism

If your child says he's allergic to school, it may be the truth.

"Many asthma attacks occur indoors where children spend most of their time," said Dr. Benjamin Interiano, an assistant professor of medicine at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston. "At school, they are often exposed to allergens that can trigger asthma."

Asthma is the leading cause of school absenteeism, amounting to 10 million lost days a year, according to Interiano. It is especially prevalent among African-American children, who suffer more serious attacks.

Asthma attacks are frequently caused by allergies to dust and mold. Chalkboards, plants, dusty carpet, and chemicals used for art and science projects can all be possible culprits.

Exercise can also cause an asthma attack if preventive measures are not taken. However, asthma should not impede a child from participating in physical education and team sports, said Interiano, who is also medical director of the Baylor/Methodist Hospital Asthma Institute of Houston.

"The teacher or coach needs to know the child's physical limitations," he said.

Some asthmatic children are sensitive to certain food preservatives in school cafeteria food. Interiano recommends parents discuss the problem with cafeteria personnel and provide the child with sack lunches from home if necessary.

The first step toward helping a child manage asthma is knowing what symptoms to look for.

"Teachers should be aware of the signs of an asthma attack, such as wheezing, coughing, choking and shortness of breath," Interiano said. "Parents should make sure the child is referred to the school nurse so he can take medication to suppress an attack."

Anti-inflammatory drugs can ease asthma's severity. However, some children are reluctant to take their medication.

"Teenagers in particular tend to hide the need for medication from their peers because they think it is a sign of weakness," Interiano said.

"They need to be taught to take their medication regularly even when they are feeling well."

Interiano adds that asthmatic children sometimes make excuses not to attend school or participate in school activities because they are embarrassed by their condition. He recommends that parents tell the children that they are not alone.

"Children with asthma must learn not to be afraid of the problem and that other children have asthma, too," Interiano said. "A team effort between the child, parent and teacher can create a positive learning environment."

Interiano recommends that parents:

- *Form a partnership with the child's teacher and school nurse by having a meeting with them at the beginning of the school year to discuss the child's asthma. Devise an emergency plan including phone numbers where you can be easily reached.

- *Explain what asthma medications the child must take and the side effects that may affect performance and behavior.

- *Make arrangements for the child to take medication discreetly, perhaps in the nurse's or secretary's office.

- *Ask the teacher to treat the asthmatic child like all the other children and to help classmates understand that asthma is not contagious.

Asthma among school children is a serious problem, says Interiano, but with a little planning, it can be managed.

According to the National Center for Health Statistics, school days missed due to asthma take a huge financial toll. Parents lose $1 billion in wages a year to stay home and care for their asthmatic children.

This notice is required by the Texas Legislature

* The percentage increase shown in the first paragraph below may appear unusually high because it does not reflect 1992 taxes levied by the now-abolished county education district (CED). In 1992, the CED levied a portion of the taxes used for school purposes, and the school district levied the remainder of school taxes. In 1993, school districts will levy all school taxes. For an explanation of the increase, attend the public hearing scheduled below or call your school district

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The Colorado ISD will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1992 by 183* percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property. The public hearing will be held on September 20, 1993 at 7:00 p.m., 534 E. 11th St., Colorado City, TX 79512.

FOR the proposal: Dwayne Harris, Tony Turner, Larry Blasingame, Roxie Strain

AGAINST the proposal: Diana Garza

PRESENT and not voting: None

ABSENT: Jessie Munoz, Yolanda Molina

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the .5440 tax rate that the unit published on 9/5/93. The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year County Education District	Last Year School District	This Year School District
Average home value	$18,813.00	$18,813.00	$18,739.00
General exemptions available (Amount available on the average home, not including senior citizens' or disabled persons' exemptions)	$10,000.00	$ 5,000.00	$ 5,000.00
Average taxable value	$ 8,813.00	$13,813.00	$13,739.00
Tax rate	$.9420/$100	$.5150/$100	$ 1.457/$100
Tax	$ 83.02	$ 71.14	$ 200.18
Total 1992 School Taxes	$ 154.16	Total 1992 School Taxes	$ 200.18

This paragraph compares last year's CED and school district taxes with this year's proposed school district taxes:

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $46.02 or 29.85% percent compared with last year's total school taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would neither increase nor decrease by $-0- per $100 of taxable value or -0- percent compared to last year's total school tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

This paragraph compares last year's school district tax with this year's proposed school district taxes:

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $129.04 or 181.39 percent compared with last year's school district taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the school district tax rate would increase by $.9420 per $100 of taxable value or 183 percent compared to last year's school district tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Colorado Independent School District
Explanation of Conversion from County Education District Taxes

County Education Districts (CED) have been abolished. In order to compare school tax rates from last year to this year, it is necessary to compare the combined school tax rate below to the school district's proposed tax rate for this year.

Last year the Colorado Independent School
District's tax rate was $.5150.

Last year the Mitchell County Education District's (CED) tax rate was $.9420.

The combined School District and County
Education District tax rate was $1.4570.

The proposed tax rate for the Colorado Independent School District for this year is $1.4570.

Academy Day set

Congressmen Lamar Smith, Henry Bonilla, and Charles Stenholm are pleased to announce they will sponsor an Academy Day orientation for all high school students interested in learning about their opportunities to acquire an education at one of the U.S. Service Academies. The event will be held September 26 on the Angelo State University Campus in San Angelo.

A nomination is mandatory for any young person before he or she can be appointed to any of the Department of Defense academies. The four academies which require a nomination are the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs and the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point.

To be eligible, a young person must be between 17 and 21 years of age, unmarried and have no legal obligations for children or other dependents, and be a citizen of the United States. There are many sources of nominations. Congressional nominations can be obtained through the U.S. Representative in whose district the application resides, from each of the two U.S. Senators from Texas and from the Vice President of the United States. Congressional nominations account for about 80 percent of all nominations awarded annually.

Specific details are as follows: Sunday, September 26, 1993, 3-5 p.m. at Houston Harte University Center Ballroom Angelo State University.

Parents and friends of students are welcome. For further information, please contact Jayne Schoonmaker in Congressman Stenholm's San Angelo office at (915) 655-7994.

HEALTH NEWS

In the 1993-94 flu season, North America will likely be hit by A/Beijing (H3N2), a variant of the flu that predominated in 1991-92.

Some East Coast people will be immune to this Beijing variant because it circulated there, sometimes with fatal results, at the end of the 1992-93 season, said epidemiologist Dr. W. Paul Glezen of the Influenza Research Center at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Most people elsewhere in North America have not been exposed to it, but the 1993-94 vaccine provides protection, Glezen said.

"Because there is so little natural immunity to this variant of Beijing flu," Glezen said, "It could hit hard. People at high risk for flu complications should get vaccinated."

The elderly are particularly susceptible to such potentially deadly complications as pneumonia.

Other high-risk groups are:
*People with immune-system disorders and heart and lung disease, including asthma and chronic bronchitis.

*People with diabetes, chronic kidney disease and chronic anemia, including sickle cell disease.

*Health-care workers and home care givers likely to have frequent contact with the other groups.

Flu season normally runs from December to March, and Baylor Flu Center experts traditionally recommended vaccination no later than Thanksgiving.

Since the early-start 1991-92 flu season, however, they suggest getting the vaccine when it is available, usually in September.

Each year's vaccine is about 85 percent effective, Glezen said, and it is possible to catch a strain not covered by it. But vaccinated people who catch it will have a less severe case.

It is also possible to contract flu in the two weeks the vaccine requires to take full effect.

"It is not possible to catch the flu from the vaccine because it is made from killed virus," Glezen said.

The prescription drug Amantadine can lessen the severity and shorten the duration of influenza A if taken within 48 hours of the onset of symptoms. It is ineffective against influenza B.

Flu strikes suddenly with fever, muscle pain, weakness and a dry, hacking cough. Victims need rest and liquids, Glezen said.

To reduce fever and pain, adults may take aspirin or an aspirin substitute, but children should use only acetaminophen. Aspirin and ibuprofen have been associated in children with Reye's syndrome, a flu and chicken pox complication that can be fatal, said Glezen, a pediatrician.

It is highly unlikely the coming flu season could equal a 1918 worldwide epidemic that afflicted 500 million people and killed 20 million.

The 1918 pandemic killed more people in less time than any disease in modern history. It ranks with the 14th Century's Black Death as one of the few recorded events to reduce the earth's population by as much as 1 percent.
