War Ace May Race Graf Zeppelin Around World When Flight Starts Today

FRENCH FLIER CONCEALS HIS ULTIMATE PLAN

Dieudonne Coste to Take Off From Paris at 5 a. m. Today

SWISS STILL LOST

No Word Heard of Aviators Who Left for U. S. Three Days Ago

LE BOURGET, France, Aug. 22 (Thursday) (AP)—Captain Dieudenne Coste, French aviation ace early today postponed his projected long distance flight, to wherever he may have intended going. This became evident when he did not return to the field by 4 a. m. the latest possible time when he might have made preparations to fly at dawn.

LE BOURGET, France, Aug. 21. (AP)—On a flight which may be a round-the-world handicap race against the Graf Zeppelin or another attempt on the Paris-New York air line, Dieudonne Coste, famous French ace, will hop off from this airport at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Coste told the Associated Press he would fly to Tokyo. To personal friends earlier in the afternoon he confided he would start around the world in pursuit of the Zeppelin but late tonight there were persistent reports among the pilots at Le Bourget that Coste would make a second try to span the Atlantic between France and New York.

To those who know the French ace, the fact that he flatly announced he plans to fly to Tokyo in one great hop is interpreted to mean he will take off in exactly the opposite direction. They say Coste probably told friends of the proposed spectacular world race, being aware they would divulge the plans to correspondents and thus give him more freedom of action in preparing for a Paris-New York flight, which has been his fondest ambition.

Turner Ends Test

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 21. (AP)—Captain Roscoe Turner, who took off with three passengers from Glendale, Calif., early today in an attempt to demonstrate the feasibility of a daylight transcontinental airplane passenger service, landed here tonight at 11:38 o'clock (E.S.T.) His elapsed time was 19 hours and 53 minutes.

SHIPS WATCH FOR LOST SWISS FLIERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (UP)—Vessels of the American navy kept watch along the Atlantic coast tonight for two adventurous young Swiss fliers who boldly started almost three days before on a westward crossing of the ocean.

With nothing heard or seen of them since they passed over the Azores at noon, C. S. T., Monday, the navy department this afternoon asked all its ships along the coast to watch for flares at sea or on shore in the supposition the aviators had been forced down.

The closest watch kept at airports, coast guard stations and other points along the coast had failed to give the slightest clue to the fate of the fliers—Oskar Kaeser, 22, and Kurt Luscher, 21, who took off from Lisbon, Portugal, at 1 a. m. C. S. T., Monday.

The two started with about 525 gallons of gasoline, which aviation experts estimated would have kept their Gnome-Farman monoplane in the air only until 7 p. m., C. S. T., yesterday.

PAJAMA FAD ARRIVES HERE

Trio From Burk Gives Style Parade in Wichita

Pajama apparel for men invaded Wichita Falls Wednesday night when three young men from Burkburnett, clad in cool garments of brilliant hue, paraded the streets of the city, visited theaters and soda fountains, and ended up by attending the dance at Lakeside park.

Owen Smith, field foreman for an oil company, Paul Thompson, grocer, and Rex Gilmore, oil field worker, were the "three musketeers" who introduced the new style to Wichitans. Smiles and occasional snickers, but more often real envy and admiration greeted the tour of the three, they told a Record News reporter who finally corralled them on the streets here. The coolness and lightness of the attire "runs circles" around ordinary male apparel so far as comfort is concerned, The Record News was told.

The three men wore pajamas of dashing colors, straw hats, neckties, sports shoes and the usual undergarments. Two of them carried canes to complete the ensemble. The trip to Wichita Falls was made on a wager with friends in Burkburnett, the trio declared, and followed a style parade through the streets of the neighbor city before coming here.

Lindy's Wife Now Able To Handle Controls

HICKSVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 21. (UP)—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh has progressed to the flying stage in her attempt to learn her husband's trade. Reporters were barred from the flying field today—where Lindbergh is teaching the former Anne Morrow to fly—but they watched the plane from a nearby road and said that Mrs. Lindbergh handled the controls several times.

Mercury Fails to Reach Century Mark Only One Day Out of 25 Here

Heat Wave Here One of Longest on Record in Section; Little Relief in Sight

With the exception of last Friday when the thermometer registered 99 degrees, the mercury in Wichita Falls has not failed to reach the 100-degree mark for the past 25 days.

Only on two days during the month of August did the temperature fail to exceed the century mark and on Wednesday, Aug. 7, the thermometer reached 108 degrees, equalling the seasonal record set earlier in July. The average temperature, considering the maximums for each day during the 25-day period, was slightly in excess of 102 degrees, according to the daily reports of the weather bureau at the Texas Electric Service company. The maximum temperature this Wednesday was 101 degrees.

Precipitation during the period was only a fraction of an inch and few cloudy days were recorded. Wind velocities varied on an average from two to five miles per hour, with almost complete calm and no perceptible breeze on several afternoons. Cool nights were few, with minimum temperature remaining comparatively high throughout the month.

Low barometer readings were recorded during the greater part of the period, giving promise of rains which failed to materialize in the vicinity of Wichita Falls. Wednesday's reading of 28.94 was the highest for the 25 days, though it was but a fraction of a point above the low readings previously recorded.

Slight hope for relief from the heat was promised Wednesday when forecasts predicted probable light showers in West Texas. Forecasts for Oklahoma and this section predicted continued unclouded skies and fair weather.

Among other matters which should be brought up at that time, Barron said, are emergency appropriations including an increase in the state auditor's salary and care for the confederate widows who find their pensions decreased by the new law. ## Pantages to Be Arraigned Today; Sept. 17 to Be Asked as Trial Date

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21. (US)—Upon the arraignment tomorrow of Alexander Pantages in superior court District Attorney Buron Fitts will ask that the trial of the multimillionaire vaudeville circuit operator on charges of criminally attacking a young girl be set for Sept. 17.

Two important cases will prevent Fitts from participating in the prosecution of the 54-year-old theater man before that date. One of them is the trial of the multimillionaire's wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages, for second degree murder.

Mrs. Pantages, whose trial starts Sept. 3, is accused of driving her speeding automobile into the car of a Japanese while drunk and fatally injuring him.

As Fitts, known as a relentless prosecutor, wishes to head the prosecution of both Pantages and his wife, he announced today he would fight any attempt to set the theater man's trial date earlier than Sept. 17.

Defense lawyers did not indicate if they would be agreeable to that date. It was anticipated before the district attorney's announcement that they would seek a delay.

Pantages is accused by 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, an amateur dancer, of brutally attacking her when she kept an appointment he made to discuss placing her act on his circuit.

MAJOR CHANGES IN TARIFF BILL ARE APPROVED

Measure Is Finally Made Ready for Action Of Senate

TEST COMES SEPT. 4

Senators Allowed Time To Study Bill Before Next Meeting

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—Except for a minor administrative provision to be acted on tomorrow, the tariff bill was made ready for the senate today by the finance committee Republicans, who approved many important changes in the measure as passed by the house.

The bill will not be taken upon the floor, however, until Sept. 4, under the party agreement to allow ample time for senators to study it.

Plan Floor Battle

Democratic members of the finance committee, who had no part in the actual rewriting of the bill, planned a meeting called for Friday by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking minority member, to consider the floor battle.

While voting to retain in the bill the flexible clause giving the president power to readjust tariffs up or down within a limit of 50 per cent, the majority committeemen approved a proposal by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, to base all ad valorem rates in the future on the United States instead of the foreign value.

All ad valorem duties in the present bill, which are based on foreign value, would be converted by the tariff commission into duties based on the wholesale selling price of the imported article in the principal markets of this country. The commission would be given until Jan. 1, 1932, to complete the conversion task, but could not begin the work until the present bill became law.

Must Be Approved

As originally framed, the Reed proposal would have had the president proclaim the new rates as fast as the commission translated them, but an amendment by Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, was adopted to make the converted duties subject to approval by congress.

As United States value is higher than foreign value, the converted rates necessarily must be lowered to arrive at the same degree of protection and amount of revenue derived under the foreign value method.

Sand Storm Delays Air Racers' Hop to Midland

Women Derby Contenders Expect to Reach West Texas Point Today; Sabotage Probe Bares No Guilt

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 21. (UP)—Mishaps and disasters which have clouded the trail of the women air derbyists since they left Santa Monica, Calif., for Cleveland last Sunday were joined by the fury of the elements today to cause postponement of the second hop in today's projected lap from Douglas, Ariz., to Midland, Texas.

A swirling sand storm which descended on the airport here after the fliers had landed from Douglas, prevented the takeoff for Midland which was to have been tonight's stop. Officials decided to make the overnight stop here.

Sabotage Probe

Meanwhile, two official investigations were opened into the death of Miss Marvel Crosson, San Diego entrant, who was killed in a crash near Wellton, Ariz., Monday and into the charges of sabotage that have been made.

J. G. Null of the United States department of commerce of Los Angeles, was in Yuma, Ariz., today where Miss Crosson's body was taken, to determine whether the mechanism of her plane had been tampered with. Null planned to examine thoroughly the engine and other parts of the wrecked plane, which fell in a clump of mesquite on the Arizona desert.

Thea Rasche, German flier, and Claire Fahy, both of whom had minor mishaps with their planes, were the first to make charges of sabotage which are under investigation. They were joined later in the accusations by others, including Mrs. Keith Miller of New Zealand.

Flier Marooned

Mrs Miller was marooned for several hours in the cactus and sagebrush of Arizona when she was forced down out of fuel. She refused to leave her plane and stayed in the barren, isolated section until mechanics had repaired the fuselage, permitting her to continue in the race.

A brief stop will be made at Abilene for refueling and a stop for the night will be made at Fort Worth. Midland will give the derbyists a big welcome at noon Thursday.

As most of the accidents which have marred the derby occurred after the planes left San Bernardino, the district attorney's office there today questioned all mechanics who

'If Booze Comes Back I'll Quit Manufacturing Cars,' Says Ford

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (UP)—Henry Ford threatens to close down his automobile plants if prohibition ends.

"If booze ever comes back to the United States, I am through with manufacturing," he says in the September Pictorial Review, appearing Friday.

"I would not be bothered with the problem of handling over 200,000 men and trying to pay them wages which the saloons would take away from them. I wouldn't be interested in putting automobiles into the hands of a generation soggy with drink. Gasoline and booze don't mix; that's all."

Ford, always a friend of prohibition, believes it is 99 per cent effective in the United States, with the remaining one per cent made up largely of "the wealthy class, the criminal class and the abandoned class."

Because leading hostesses have said "no more cocktails on my table" it is no longer smart to serve drinks, he says.

Regarding his plan to shut down his factories if booze returns," Ford says:

"With booze in control, we can count on only two or three effective days work a week in the factory—and that would destroy the short day and the five-day week which sober industry has introduced.

"When men drank two or three days a week, industry had to have a 10 or 12 hour day and six or seven day week. With sobriety, the working man can have an eight hour day and a five-day week with the same or greater pay."

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (UP)—The state board of education voted late today to apportion $17.50 per capita as state aid to schools.

The apportionment will mean the distribution of $25,095,000 to the schools, as the state scholastic census completed today indicates an enrollment of approximately 1,340,000. This number was left after more than 9,000 names had been stricken from the rolls because of duplications.

The Wichita county census was 14,814; Dallas county, 66,612; Bowie county 12,933; Anderson county 9,378; and Harrison county, 15,087.

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (UP)—Computations made tonight after the state board of education decided upon a $17.50 per capita apportionment to schools indicted a total state tax of 68 cents.

The rate is based on the calculation that a 31-cent school tax rate will be needed to meet the apportionment. Last year the total state tax rate with a 35-cent school tax was 64 cents.

DALLAS COUNTY FEES CHECKED

Former Prosecutor Faces Legislative Hearing

DALLAS, Aug. 21. (UP)—Less than $3,000 as fees from collecting delinquent taxes was received each month during his term of office as district attorney, Shelby Cox told the legislative committee investigation fees here today. Cox's term was from 1923 to 1926.

The former Dallas county district attorney was the first witness on the stand when the committee resumed its hearing after noon recess.

He testified he made less than $9,000 a year while he was in office. In 1927, after he was out of office, he received $774 in back fees and $70 in 1928, he said.

R. A. Vinyard, tax assessor, estimated his job had been worth $9,000 a year. This year and in the future it will not bring in more than $8,000, he said.

Charles E. Gross, county auditor, who testified early today, told the committee that the exact amount received by Dallas county officials under the present fee system was known only to the officials. No legal record of collections is required, Gross said.

The probe will continue to be directed principally at the delinquent tax fee situation, the committee indicated today. The purpose of the investigation and the procedure to be followed at hearings in other Texas counties was outlined by Sen. Walter Woodul, Houston, a member of the committee.

"The main thing is to see if we are paying too much for service on delinquent tax suits," he said. "From now on we will put officials themselves on the stand and find out how much they make."

STATES PLAN TO BUY BRIDGE

Okla. and Texas Officials Meet in Austin

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (AP)—Representatives of Texas and Oklahoma conferred here on the possibility of purchasing the Preston toll bridge over the Red river with the owners of the bridge today.

Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, said that figures for disposing of the bridge, which links Denison with Madill, Okla., were discussed, but that no definite action could be taken until plans were ratified by the Texas highway commission, which holds its next meeting Sept. 16, and the Oklahoma highway commission.

W. C. Burnham, Oklahoma bridge engineer, represented his state in the conference.

In a move to relieve motorists from paying tolls on private bridges crossing the boundary stream at several points, highway commissioners of the two states recently decided to buy or construct several bridges across the river, the cost to be shared proportionately. The Texas commission set aside $400,000 for the purpose.

Soundings have been made by the Texas department for a bridge north of Denison and the Oklahoma department is engaged in a similar project at Gainesville, Gilchrist said.

Car in Front Of Theater Catches Fire

Firemen were called to the 700 block on Ohio avenue about 10 o'clock Wednesday night when an automobile parked in front of a theater caught fire. The machine belonged to W. S. Cars parked near the burning machine were quickly removed and the blaze was confined to the engine of Mr. Hendrix's automobile.

Following a four-day inquiry for Joe Bates, attorney, and Fred C. Cosman, both of Oklahoma City, who had been reported missing since they took off Sunday morning from Meacham field at Fort Worth in Bates' monoplane headed for Lake Kemp, the two landed at Oklahoma City Wednesday morning unaware that they had caused anxiety as to their whereabouts, it was reported.

The two had come to Texas on a fishing trip, having left Oklahoma City Saturday morning and landed in Fort Worth, where they intended to fish in Lake Worth. Not finding the fish as plentiful there as they had hoped, they inquired about a better lake and were told to try Lake Kemp, it was reported.

They took off Sunday morning and reached Lake Kemp, only to decide that the waters of Diversion lake, over which they flew, held more promise of fish than those of the big lake, judging from a bird's-eye view. Failing to find a suitable landing place near the lake, they came to earth near Dundee and left their plane there, going to the lake by automobile.

They found bass in plentiful numbers there, it was reported, and spent the three days fishing with Joe Dickson, of the fish hatchery at the Diversion lake. They refueled at Dundee and took off for Oklahoma City early Wednesday morning, landing there after a short 700-mile fishing jaunt.

PARK PROGRAM IS 'BEST YET'

6,500 People Applaud Team Of Comedians

Honey Boy and Sassafras, popular KGKO comedians, literally "brought down the house" with their blackface act on the weekly free vaudeville program at Bellevue park Wednesday night before an audience of more than 6,500 persons.

The audience rose en masse following the program and the boys and girls rushed onto the stage to shake hands with them and beg them to appear again in the vaudeville bills. The skit began with a negro dialog, in which they discussed some of the questions that have been puzzling Amos and Andy, another famous comedy team, and the ludicrous conclusions they drew kept the audience in a roar. Following several negro songs, the two, assisted by Mrs. Honey, staged a ghost act which appeared to be the hit of the evening.

Phyllis Seeds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Seeds, in a special dance number, also found favor with the audience. The entire program was described as the best to have been staged this season, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. Other numbers included a butterfly folk dance by six girls, pupils of Mrs. Beatrice Fleming; a tap dance by Emma Ruth Burnside; a vocal solo by Emmett Walsh; a combinad reading and dance by Betty Dyal Trotter; a new dance step, the DeCushville hop, by Alta Knight; instrumental orchestra numbers by the East Side Presbyterian church band and concert numbers by the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds.

ZEPPELIN CRASHES — TAKEOFF FROM JAPAN IS DELAYED

REAR GONDOLA IS SMASHED

Hop to Los Angeles Put Off 24 Hours

By JAMES R. YOUNG
Record News Special Cable
(Copyright 1929, Universal Service, Inc.)

KASUMIGAURA AIR STATION, Aug. 22. (Thursday)—The third leg of the Hearst-Zeppelin round-the-world flight was delayed for 24 hours today when the Graf Zeppelin's rear motor gondola was struck when the craft was being maneuvered from the hangar here.

Commander Dr. Hugo Eckener, disappointed because the mishap delayed the scheduled start, said the start would be made tomorrow morning, after repairs.

Previous to the mishap, the pasengers and the crew had all been aboard the giant craft when at 3:45 a. m. (2:45 p. m. Wednesday eastern daylight time), the dirigible was being taken from the hangar.

To Repair Motor

Although there is a spare motor here, brought to Tokyo by Karl Beurle, Zeppelin company engineer, Dr. Eckener said he believed repairs could be made on the motor in the injured gondola.

The ground crew, hampered by the small landing space and crowds which beset the police, walked the Zeppelin from the hangar, and pulled it down, fearful lest it scrape the hanga roof. As a consequence, the rear gondola and the engine were both damaged. It was said after an inspection that the spare motor possibly might be used.

All the passengers were aboard the Zeppelin by 2:30 o'clock, having left the Imperial hotel in Tokyo at 11:15 for Yueno station, where they took the special train, which arrived at the air station at 2 o'clock.

A pilot's chart, with positions of Dollar Line steamers in the Pacific, was handed to Capt. Hans Flemming by F. C. Thompson, general agent for the line. The chart showed seven of the line's steamers in the Pacific while the Graf is en route to Los Angeles.

Crew Kept Busy

The refueling and regassing of the Zeppelin at Kasumiguara had proceeded without a hitch, according to Doctor Eckener. A specially trained Japanese crew was busy all night performing such duties under the direction of Admiral Araki, who has scarcely left his post since the arrival of the dirigible. Fifty-thousand cubic feet of Pyrofax, a special fuel, and gasoline were loaded aboard the Zeppelin.

All of the Zeppelin officers, greatly impressed with the business-like management of their Japanese helpers, voiced open admiration of the Japanese naval authorities who have arisen to the emergency, accomplished more than expected and assuring completed preparations by the starting time. Everything was replenished and repaired by 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with the exception of the new provisioning.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the provisions left the Imperial hotel aboard three large trucks, which flew large colored banners on which was printed "important government mission." They arrived at the aerodrome only a few minutes before the passengers boarded for the flight.

Parachute Aboard

All preparations were completed, except the food, when a parachute was put aboard in order that anyone attempting to stowaway could be dropped immediately.

The 450-man ground crew had the Zeppelin out of the hangar at 2 o'clock. The field was lighted by a battery of stationary search-lights mounted on the ground, and by several pole-mounted beacons and the hangar beacons of the air station.

Thousands packed the field, moving about in weird shadow. They had packed their lunches and stayed in the nearby town of Tsuchiura until midnight, when they began to flock by special train to the field. Others had slept on newspapers all night near the hangar. Others anxious to witness the Graf's departure used bicycles and automobiles to get to the field from Tokyo on time.

COMPANY PLANNED

BERLIN, Aug. 21. (UP)—Formal negotiations for the formation of a transoceanic dirigible company service between the United States and Europe will be begun in New York as soon as Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, completes his current flight around the world, it was stated today in well-informed quarters.

FIGHT ON BOLL WORM PLANNED

U. S.-Mexico Pact Would Be Put Into Effect

AUSTIN, Aug. 21.—Negotiations have been started between representatives of the United States department of agriculture and the Texas department of agriculture and high Mexican officials for an international pact between the two countries for cooperation in the eradication of pink boll worm from the North American continent, it was learned in Austin Tuesday. J. M. Del Curto, chief entomologist of the Texas department and R. E. McDonald, chief administration officer of pink boll worm eradication and quarantine work in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona of the United States department of agriculture, are now in Mexico conferring with the Mexican officials on this proposed plan.

While in Mexico, the two representatives from the United States will confer with officials in Torreon, in the state of Coahuila, and in Mexico City. The first stop in their visit to the sister republic on the south will be in Torreon where they will gather facts and statistics concerning the ravages of the pest.

The proposed plan for the international pact calls for the United States to aid Mexico in effecting a nation-wide non-cotton zone in order to prevent the spread of the pest northward. The United States will bear a proportionate cost of the losses the Mexican farmers sustain through the enforcement of the non-cotton zones. Approximately 200,000 bales annually less would be produced should the non-cotton zone be enforced.

Commissioner George B. Terrell explained Tuesday that only through strict quarantine laws in the southern portion of the continent that the pest can eradicated. The ease with which they now can spread from Mexico into Texas makes eradication impossible in the border counties.

It is believed that national cooperation will be necessary to effect an enfrocement of such a quarantine in the interior regions of Mexico because of the uneducated class that will not obey the restrictions.

THREE YOUNG CHILDREN SHOT

One Killed Outright by Mystery Shots

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 21. (INS)—The shadows of three young children rustled through a corn field at dusk. Perhaps they were playing.

Suddenly a gun volley rang out from the woods nearby. Police did not hear of the tragedy until today.

Among the golden green stalks on the farm of Grover and Frank Hoffman lay the body of 12-year-old John Kolesar.

They found 10-year-old Joseph Klementovitch Jr. in his home in Manville, dying from a shot gun wound. His sister, 14-year-old Helen, was seriously wounded.

The Kolesar boy was killed immediately. The other two children dragged themselves, bleeding, to their home half a mile away. Their wounds were not reported until today when police speeded them to a hospital for emergency treatment.

Farmers in the vicinity have complained recently of thieves raiding their fields. It is thought the children were taken for marauders.

The Hoffmans were questioned by Prosecutor Francis L. Bergen of Somerset county. They said that they knew nothing about the shooting and had not seen the children nor heard the shots.

Before Baby Comes

Comfort and ease for the expectant mother

Mother's Friend gives comfort

UNLESS the muscles, tissues and nerves "give" easily as the abdomen enlarges, much pain and untold suffering may result. As the abdomen increases in size strains increase in intensity, exhausting the expectant mother with perhaps ill effects upon the unborn child! More important still, is to have the tissues and muscles as "elastic" as possible when the great moment of childbirth arrives.

Countless thousands of expectant mothers for over 60 years have used "Mother's Friend"—that time-tested, scientifically-prepared skin lubricant and pain-reliever, which originated in the prescription of an eminent obstetrician—and have been relieved of the strain and the pain, the discomfort and the nervousness that come from the distention and the stretching of the skin and the tissues, which attend this delicate condition.

You owe yourself the comfort "Mother's Friend" gives during the waiting months. It is soothing, relaxing, comforting! It is not a drug to be taken. It is used externally only—gently rubbed into the skin. Clean and pleasant to the touch. Brings relief promptly. Very valuable in keeping the breasts in good condition. Also puts you in fine shape for the approaching ordeal. "Mother's Friend" is on sale at all drug stores. $1.25 per bottle. A massage with it tonight will relieve your strained condition. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE

OLD GOLD CONCEALED NAME CIGARETTE TEST

Ask us another if we haven't answered here every question ever asked about it

QUESTION: Does OLD GOLD publish the score of every public test taken?

ANSWER: Yes . . . win, lose or draw!

QUESTION: Is OLD GOLD always the same number?

ANSWER: No. In the actual tests there are no numbers on the cigarette masks. The smoker, himself, tears off the paper masks and finds out for himself which cigarette he has chosen as best.

QUESTION. Is the Concealed Name Test a "guessing contest" . . . does the smoker attempt to guess brand names?

ANSWER: Decidedly not! The smoker states only which cigarette tastes best to him, and does not try to guess the name.

QUESTION: Who conducts these tests?

ANSWER: Never the makers of OLD GOLDS, or their agents. The tests are conducted by certified public accountants, or officials of the organization or institution under whose auspices the tests are given.

QUESTION: Are all competing brands equally fresh and in precisely the same condition?

ANSWER: All four brands are purchased before each test at the same time in the same store out of retail stock, just as the public buys them . . . and the clerk who sells them certifies the purchase.

QUESTION: Does the official conducting the test know which cigarette is which while the smoker is making the test?

ANSWER: No! The cigarettes are arranged in sets of four . . . one each of the four leading brands. Then they are masked . . . their names completely concealed. When the official hands out these masked cigarettes it is impossible for him, or anyone, to know one from another.

NOTE: Why not make this test yourself in your own home? We'll be happy to send you a set of the brand name masks and complete instructions . . . Write to P. Lorillard Co., 119 West 40th Street, New York City.

The moon is cut in half tonight
Now who do you think did that?

Of course I don't know
It may not be so,
But they say that there lives in the sky

Between you and me
I think it is he
Who's slicing the moon by degrees.
That may be absurd,
But then I have heard
That the moon's really made of green cheese.

People who remember Grace Noll Crowell's lovely "White Fire" and "Silver in the Sun," would be amused to read Norman H. Crowell's sketch of her, printed in the Des Moines, Iowa, Daily. He burlesques his own ability as a writer all through a story that tells his admiration and love for his wife without putting it in exact words.

Perfect Husband Must Have Faults, Says Dorothy Dix

Why Even the Paragon of Husbands Should Have His Faults—Should a Disrespectful Daughter of 18 Be Spanked?—Dangers of the Long Engagement.

Dear Miss Dix—A young man who wants to marry me has the following qualities:

Bad—Never saved much money. Smokes and eats excessively. Drinks moderately. Swears rather fluently. Too blunt in telling the truth.

Good—Very pleasant and lovable. Even tempered. Religious, charitable and faithful. Well educated. Hard worker.

What do you make of such a man?

Would he be desirable as a husband?—HOPE.

Answer—Sounds to me as if he were a paragon that you had better grab quickly before some other woman who is looking for a good thing gets him. Certainly his fine qualities far outweigh his faults.

Of course, there is no such thing as a perfect man; and if there were, no woman would ever fall in love with him or marry him. Imagine being married to a man who never made a mistake, who never blundered, who never did anything silly and foolish, but who was always and invariably right!

What a poor, miserable worm of the dust he would make you seem! What a reproach he would be to you! What a contrast! And how superior he would always feel to you! How horrible it would be to always be trying to live up to him, and how bitter it would be to have to endure his criticisms on your short-comings!

No, my dear, if you want to be happy though married, pick out a man who, while he has the standardized sterling virtues, has also plenty of lovable weaknesses that will keep him human and in a proper state of humility. The happiest wives are those who can mother their husbands and smile indulgently on their faults and humor their weaknesses as if they were little boys.

Your friend's virtues speak for themselves and even his faults lean to virtue's side. The man who has not saved money is evidently no tightwad and that scores one for his wife, as she will not have to corkscrew every penny out of him. And after she has got what she needs she can help sew up the holes in his pockets.

Being fond of eating I rank also as a merit in a husband, since it puts some pep into housekeeping and makes it worth while to prepare a good dinner for a man who appreciates it. Also, it gives a wife an invaluable weapon with which to work him when the necessity arises.

Likewise, the man who smokes is more likely to settle down into a placid fireside companion of an evening than the one who, having nothing to occupy or soothe him, goes forth to hunt up amusement. Even the swearer is handy to have around the house at times to say the things that you would like to say and that no perfect lady can say.

Of course, the blunt man will hurt your feelings when he tells you the home truths that none of us like to hear, but at any rate you will have the comfort of knowing that he means what he says when he pays you a compliment.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—My husband and I are terribly worried about our 18-year-old daughter. Until about six months ago she was all sweetness and appreciation, but now she is cross and irritable and disrespectful to us. I have been tempted more than once to give her a good old-fashioned spanking, but have never done so. What would you advise?

—AN ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Answer—You can't spank a girl 18 years old, no matter how much she needs it. If you tried it, the probable result would be to make her run off and marry some good-for-nothing boy.

So you will have to find other means of dealing with her, and the first thing that I would suggest is to take her to a good doctor and have a thorough physical examination made. If a girl who has a naturally sweet and amiable disposition suddenly gets cross and irritable, the chances are that it is the result of some nervous disorder and the sooner you find out what the trouble is, the better it will be.

Then, if you can possibly afford it, send her away to a girls' camp this summer. The outdoor air, the exercise, the order and routine, and above all, the camp spirit works wonders in girls, and I regard girl camps as among the most valuable regenerative agencies, bodily and spiritually, in the world.

When a girl gets discontented and peevish at home, she needs a change. She needs to get away from home and from her family and to have to shift for herself.

Among strangers she will have to control herself. She will have to give as well as take. She will have to be polite and courteous, and she will find out that nobody will put up with her ways or overlook her lapses in good manners. It will do her a world of good and she will come home appreciating home conforts and mother love as she never did before.

Without doubt, the adolescent girl is hard to deal with. She is in a transition state between womanhood and childhood, when she has all the faults of both and the virtues of neither. She is upset in mind and body, and it takes the patience of Job and the wisdom of Solomon to deal with her.

Just try to realize that 18 isn't to be taken too seriously. Don't worry over your daughter's little faults. Be as blind as you can and in a little while she will outgrow her disagreeable traits. We have all been through the time when we knew more than our parents and resented their every word of advice.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—You do not favor long engagements. Why?

—A LONG-ENGAGED GIRL.

Answer—I do not favor long engagements because it spoils the present and mortgages the future.

A short engagement is probably the happiest time of a woman's life. It is full of circling wings and romance and thrills. A long engagement wears all of this out and gets to be a strain on the nerves and the emotions. It is filled with baffled desire, with heart-breaking waiting and anxiety and hoping and planning that comes to nothing.

It is filled with jealousies and suspicions, because it enforces an unnatural relationship between a man and woman in which they have indefinite claims and rights upon each other other; in which they have many of the restrictions that matrimony puts upon them without the security of matrimony.

It puts a mortgage upon the future because it commits them to a marriage which may have become distasteful to one or the other of them before the time comes when their vows are to be fulfilled.

Many a long-engaged couple have really lost their taste for each other before their wedding day arrives. Many a man outgrows a girl during a long engagement and only marries her as a matter of honor. And many a woman only marries the man she has been engaged to for years because she has let all other chances go by for him.

Far better to wait until you are ready to marry and then make your choice.—DOROTHY DIX.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21. (U8)—A Chicago woman divorced her husband because he was "brutally uncouth." He went to sleep out in society, he looked like a butter-and-egg man and he refused to be "improved." He cut his lettuce and he pulled fish bones out with his fingers when they choked him. He was insured for $50,000 but that wasn't a high enough price for waiting.

So many stories hang on that complaint! The women want money and the men have to be business men to produce it. They must be either business men or burglars to get enough. Once they get the money the women begin to notice what great big brutes they married.

The women want poets with dreamy eyes who play guitars under starry skies from Spanish balconies, and become millionaires while doing it. It's a good thing that women don't fix the salaries of guitar players.

Wives who wish their husbands got manicured regularly, carried canes and wore rose buds and seal rings, produce distinctly localized pains. They could bring their influence to bear and perhaps induce them to do these things, but to blame a good man because he can't look like the Prince of Wales and sing like Nick Lucas is downright cruelty. Any man would enjoy being able to sing like Nick but they have been too busy hustling around digging up pearl necklaces and diamond whatnots there was no time left to dabble in guitars.

A woman told me her husband shamed her because he laughed so heartily in the theater. They had seats down front and everybody was all done up in ermine and orchids and to have him laugh like that!

My word! If she only knew how the ermines and orchids wished they could laugh like that! Most of them had the laughs all trained out years ago—especially the poor dear men.

And the real laugh would be, if the complaining frau could divorce him and marry Prince Nez, with a soft cackle, a toupee and no ambition to do anything but share her settlement. A man with a disposition so he just couldn't sing.

If you happen to get a few virtues in a husband, thank the Lord and stop trying to make him over. If you lose him you won't get another, because a male detects a woman reformer as far as he can see her. God was good to him that way.

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. ## We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

Mirrors and Their Use

Sam Jones, noted Georgia evangelist of a quarter of a century ago, once said he had known a great many women who were too poor to own a decent pair of shoes but not too poor to own a looking-glass. Even Sam Jones, I'll wager, used a mirror to adjust his little black tie, to set his coat right, to scrape the whiskers off his face, to comb his hair and to practice speech and gesture that helped to make him famous as a churner of the emotions!

The mirror has contributed largely to human progress. It has been a powerful influence in shaping our fashions. It has helped us, to some extent, to see ourselves as others see us. Certainly from the time the first man and woman for the first time gazed upon their own forms in the crystal pool, there has been steady progress in the care of the human form, steady progress in the useful art of personal bodily ornamentation.

No man or woman of these times can afford to sally forth without knowing quite definitely how he or she stacks up, whether the hair and the cling of the clothes is just right, whether he or she is groomed in a way to avoid adverse comment.

There is nothing more wonderful than the faithfulness with which these mirrors tell us the truth about ourselves, so far as outward appearances are concerned. If we are physically ugly, or if our dress is unbecoming or grotesque, the mirror will pin the truth on us, though we may not always be wise enough to recognize the truth when we see it.

"Get you a mirror," a friend said cuttingly to a companion, "and look at yourself until you find out who and what you are."

There is a very profound philosophy in that shot; something of unkindness, but an unkindness sometimes deserved when men and women rate themselves too highly, losing sight completely of normal relationships, social amenities and social obligations.

Mirrors have done something more for us than teach us to comb our hair, powder our noses. They have helped us to get rid of bow legs and knock knees, to straighten up, and dress up, and thus they play their part in the steady uplift of the race. Maybe some day, with a little more introspection, they will tell us the whole truth about ourselves, which may be wholesome and uplifting.

DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT NEEDS BRAINS, NOT MORE ENFORCERS

CROOKED MEN CLOG UP WORKS

Scandals in Office Bared by Mabel Willebrandt

THE INSIDE OF PROHIBITION
XVIII—Human Flaws in Enforcement

By MABEL W. WILLEBRANDT
(Copyright, 1929, by Current News Features, Inc. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

(The personal equation plays a great part in failure of enforcement, Mrs. Willebrandt points out in this article, the 18th of her series on prohibition. Lack of intelligence, honesty and earnestness rise up to clog the machinery, and she enumerates many instances where sabotage has kept the law from grinding out its honest grist.)

Mrs. Willebrandt

I am not one of those who believe that what prohibition enforcement needs is more men, more money and more ammunition. In fact, I do not even believe that prohibition enforcement particularly needs more law.

It is lack of intelligence, earnestness and honesty, rather than lack of law that prevents effective prohibition enforcement.

There lies before me a personal letter from a United States district attorney in the East, a part of which I quote, with the names and places deleted, for obvious reasons:

"A few minutes ago Mr. S—, former congressman and state senator, who lives just outside the city of K—, was in my office and told me about a saloon keeper in K— who was in the senator's office Saturday of last week and his conversation divulged that he was paying about $1,000 a year to a brother of the mayor of K— for protection in his business. He also told the senator there were between 55 and 60 other men who were running saloons and paying as much or more than he was paying for protection.

"Of course, you have no opportunity of knowing the kind of men working under Mr. X—, the prohibition administrator, and I am not complaining about them. Nevertheless, it is a fact that neither Mr. X— nor any of the present employes of that office have had sufficient experience and training to intelligently investigate and prepare a big conspiracy case for trial in a federal court. Mr. X— and his men have been doing wonderful work along the line of repression insofar as it effects the smaller violators, but they have not been able to fathom the larger phases of violation of the prohibition act, and have not been able to prepare cases which involve the real leaders in these violations.

"The mayor is serving his second term here, and the report among those who are conversant with such matters is that he is the head of the protecting organization for the violators. My personal opinion is that this lead from the senator is an exceedingly important one and calls for a careful investigation by the best trained men in the bureau of investigation."

Didn't Have Money

And my reply to this had to be that the bureau of investigation in the department of justice did not have the money to make the investigation. It was one that should have been made by the agents of the prohibition division of the treasury department.

It is the lack of quality of the man-power in the enforcement job rather than the lack of quantity which has made the work ineffective. Too many of the agents are the ordinary policeman type, without special training or experience in undercover investigative work. There are too many little cases being made against ordinary retail bootleggers, and not enough cases against the real brains of the bootlegging industry.

To detect and capture 10 bootleggers in one week in a town of any size presents no great difficulty. But to discover and to obtain proof sufficient for conviction of the common source of supply, to find who is furnishing protection and how, to link these local operations with operations in cities of the same county and perhaps the operations of a gang distributing liquor over not only an entire state but three or four others, and to show their dependence primarily upon a conspiracy with a brewery, distillery, bonded warehouse, alcohol manufacturer or alcohol permit holder, is more difficult—and much more essential.

The job of prohibition enforcement can be well done with the right kind of men, but it never will be done with any number, no matter how large, of the wrong kind of prohibition agents, directors and administrators. And the right kind of agents, directors and administrators, will not be appointed unless there are the right kind of men at the very top of the enforcement organization.

I am often asked, "How many agents, spies and snoopers do you think ought to be employed to enforce prohibition?"—the implication being that a limitless army is needed to secure anything like effective enforcement.

My answer to that is that the number of federal prohibition agents and officers should not be greatly increased. It is no more logical, sensible or feasible to expect the federal government to set up and maintain an organization sufficient to apprehend all the liquor law violators in the country than to set up an organization to snare and prosecute all the petty thieves, burglars and hold-up men in the United States.

States Have Power

The 18th amendment itself contains the best answer to the question I have quoted. Section two of the amendment provides that the states shall have concurrent power to enforce the laws made under it. Certainly that part of the amendment having been ratified with the other part by 46 of the 48 states, places on those states a responsibility as great and as solemn as that resting upon the federal government.

The states can no more say "Well, the federal government has authority now to deal with the liquor problem; we will leave it alone and let the people at Washington worry about that," than to say: "There is a federal law which prohibits the shipment between states of impure and spoiled foods and therefore we will not, in this state, make any effort through our own officers to protect our people against canned goods that are poisoned, contaminated, or adulterated. Let the federal government attend to that."

Where blame does attach to the federal government is in failing to supply the right kind of man power in many places during the past few years. The human flaws, and not the legal flaws, have furnished the loopholes through which bootleggers have swarmed.

Defects Pointed Out

Lest the prohibition officials in the treasury department complain that I have been unfair to them and wilfully blind to the defects in the department of justice's machinery for law enforcement, I now call attention to some of those defects.

As things are now, the prohibition agents and their superiors often say "We gather plenty of evidence and arrest practically everybody who is in the bootlegging business, but we can't make any real progress in putting a stop to the business because the department of justice falls down on its end of the job. Give us the right kind of district attorneys who will prosecute cases vigorously and secure convictions and long sentences, and we will soon have most of the bootleggers out of business."

Certainly no one has a better understanding of the glaring deficiencies and defects in the prosecuting organizations than I have. During my entire eight years as assistant attorney general, a large part of my time and energy was necessarily devoted to prosecuting prosecutors when I should have had to do nothing but direct prosecution of people the prosecutors should have prosecuted!

For instance, a few years ago we received complaints from many reputable citizens of an eastern city that prohibition cases assigned to an assistant United States district attorney were being handled in an ineffective way. The complaints were of such a character that we ordered a thorough investigation. The investigation disclosed that the assistant district attorney, who had been appointed through the political influence of a United States senator, was constantly consorting with bootleggers and other underworld characters, and had shown evidences of wealth not at all compatible with his salary of less than $4,000 a year. Among these evidences were purchases of a high-priced automobile and an expensive seashore home, payments being made in cash.

The prosecutor, on being questioned, admitted that he had possessed little money or property before taking office. He explained his evident prosperity after assuming office as due to the receipt of a large fee from an underworld character for whom he had done some work which he said was in no way connected with his federal activities. He stated that the fee had been paid in cash and that the man from whom he received it had since died, having been killed in a shooting affray. He admitted that he had failed to account for the money in his income tax returns. He stated that he was unaware of the regulation of the department of justice, prohibiting district attorneys or their assistants from appearing as defense counsel in criminal cases, ether in state or federal courts. Certainly a man cannot both prosecute and defend persons at the same time without either neglecting the public's interests or poorly serving his private clients' interests.

Finally Dismissed

Even after we called for the resignation of this prosecutor, he sought by the use of political influence to retain his position. However, he finally went.

Another assistant United States attorney, while responsible for the prosecution cases, actually associated himself in a transaction whereby he became the partner of several shady characters in the purchase of a brewery.

In another district, I received information concerning the operations of a liquor ring that was transacting an enormous amount of business. The evidence was clear and conclusive, but we had to withhold taking any action to secure indictments until the United States district attorney then in office was replaced by another. We found that it would be unsafe to place the evidence in the hands of the district attorney then in office, because there was proof that he and his friends were closely associated in many ways with some of the principal conspirators to violate the prohibition law.

There are many ways in which an unwilling or dishonest district attorney can nullify the effect of good work on the part of the prohibition agents. I was obliged to recommend the dismissal of one of the United States district attorneys, not because of any proof of corruption or graft, but because of continued neglect of prohibition cases. One of these cases involved the removal to another state for trial of a federal court bailiff who happened to be a Republican county chairman in the district attorney's state. The removal proceedings were neglected nearly two years, until one of the men under Mr. Morrison heard of what we call our flying squadron from my office took action to end the delay. When the removal was brought about, the defendant was tried and convicted.

The district attorney's offices, of course, are responsible for insuring the posting of adequate bonds by bootleggers who seek release on bail pending trial, but in many cases prosecutors have failed to see to it that the bonds posted were valid and collectible. The result is that arrested bootleggers have simply disappeared and bondsmen have had to pay nothing.

Must Have Prosecutors

Prohibition agents can gather evidence and make arrests to their heart's content, but there is little prospect of prohibition enforcement when a district attorney handles prosecutions in such a way that six out of ten of the men arrested secure dismissal of their cases with the apparent acquiescence of the district attorney.

In one district, we discovered that of 830 criminal cases disposed of, 474 were either dropped for want of prosecution, or quashed on motion of the defendants—which meant that the defendants were freed without trial. In the same district, there were 123 trials by jury, and 56 of these, or more than half, resulted in acquittals for the defendants. The district attorney in charge simply wasn't interested in prohibition enforcement and had to be replaced by a man who was.

In other districts we found the work of good prohibition agents nullified by the plain incompetence and lack of ability of district attorneys appointed to their offices merely in reward for political services rendered a congressman or United States senator. This type of district attorney simply doesn't know how to effectually prosecute a prohibition case or any other kind of case, and of course bootleggers thrive in such districts.

(Tomorrow Mrs. Willebrandt will have something more to say about the human flaws that have prevented genuine enforcement of the prohibition laws).

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Wherein Mr. Twitchell's Day Is Ruined

(Scene: Shore cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Twitchell. It is extremely hot. Mr. Twitchell is getting into his bathing suit.)

Mrs. Twitchell—What're you going to do?

Elmer—I'm gonna peel off and lay around the beach.

Mrs. Twitchell—You're gonna do nuthin of the kind.

Elmer (puzzled)—Why not?

Mrs. Twitchell—You know very well what you're gonna do today.

Elmer—I'm gonna lay around the beach, I am, and keep cool.

Mrs. Twitchell (resolutely)—You are going to the city with me.

Elmer—What for?

Mrs. Twitchell—To the August fur sale.

Elmer (painfully)—August fur sale! Woman, this ain't no day for no August fur sale.

Mrs. Twitchell—We had this all out yesterday and you promised to go with me and help me pick out a coat.

Elmer—Would you go in and pick out a fur coat on a day like this?

Mrs. Twitchell—I don't like the heat any more than you, but I've gotta have a new fur coat for the winter and the only way to get one cheap is at the August fur sale. Take your swim and then hurry out and dress.

Elmer (earnestly)—We can go to the fur sale tomorrow. The paper says we'll get showers tonight and it'll be cooler.

Mrs. Twitchell—Don't argue. All the best coats are picked the first day and you've gotta be there if you wanna get 'em.

Elmer—Well, you go in and get anything you please, dear; I'm gonna lay around the beach. This heat gets me. If I ain't careful at my age I might get a sunstroke or sumpin, I might.

Mrs. Twitchell—You always criticise anything I buy. The last fur coat I bought you said looked like an old sack made out of the skins of moth-eaten police dogs. You told me I should never buy anything like that without letting you pass on it and today you . . .

Elmer (feebly)—I know, but I'd be no help to you today, I ain't in the mood. Phew! Whatever you buy will be okay with me.

Mrs. Twitchell—Yeah? What can I spend?

Elmer—Just be reasonable, that's all I ask.

Mrs. Twitchell (reading from an advertisement): They run from $250 to $1,800. There's a lovely native mink reduced to $1,050 from $1,200.

Elmer (startled)—One coat or by the dozen?

Mrs. Twitchell—And here's a Russian karakul for $900, reduced from $1125.

Elmer (beginning to worry)—You ain't thinking of going that high, are you?

Mrs. Twitchell—That's not high for a good coat.

Elmer — Ain't there anything cheaper than that?

Mrs. Twitchell—It's a very smart coat. I'd rather get something like that and know I was right than buy something cheap and have you criticise it.

Elmer (with complete surrender)—Well, I guess, maybe I had better go in with you and look around. I'll take a dip and be right out. Don't go without me!

Mr. Cline's Letter

WALTER D. CLINE has written a letter to Judge A. H. Carrigan, whose name led a petition of Wichita Falls citizens urging the candidacy of Mr. Cline for the Democratic nomination for governor. In his letter Mr. Cline gratefully acknowledges the confidence of Wichita Falls citizens expressed in the petition and says that he must devote the next few months to his personal affairs, after which he will give definite answer to the petition. He neither declines to be a candidate nor does he say that he will make the race.

He does, however, make two suggestions that ought to receive serious consideration by the Democrats of Texas. One is a proposal for a "disarmament conference" of Texas Democrats, and the other that the party ought to adopt a definite policy to guarantee an honest and economical handling of public affairs, and to select for its gubernatorial candidate the man best fitted to carry out such a program.

Mr. Cline does not go into detail concerning his proposal for a "disarmament conference." We doubt whether he means any statewide meeting for this purpose, but rather a change in the mental attitude of individuals within the party toward other individuals and the laying aside of ancient grudges, prejudices and the substitution therefor of a sincere purpose to do what is best for the good of the party and for the state. Probably no statewide meeting could do much toward bringing this about. It can come only from a realization on the part of the great masses of the party that selfish leadership can only enguif us deeper in the morass, and that if we are to make any progress it must come through unselfish desire for benefit of all. As we have said before, politicians have found that we could be enticed into their tent with a cheap punch and judy show of personalities and prejudices, and that there was danger of some other party or organization getting on the lot with a real circus.

We don't know just when it was that individuals successful in contests for nomination began making the party platforms the reflection of their own pet notions. It was along about the time we began to make nominations through direct primaries, but whenever it was we began then to make the party the property of individuals instead of the party making its own declaration of principles and holding the nominees to accountability for carrying out the party's principles and policies. It seems to us that it would be a fine thing to get back to party responsibility and the accountability of its representatives. That would be a popular government, and the other kind, if it is anything at all, is a sort of dictatorship.

We are glad to see some man who can command attention advocating these things. Mr. Cline may or may not become a candidate, but his letter drops some suggestions that will doubtless be discussed and may start something.

The Fight to Organize Southern Mill Workers

IN RECENT YEARS the country as a whole has been free from strikes and labor troubles. This has probably been due to the appreciation of the large industrialists to the fact that the more labor is paid the better is the market for their goods. Through higher pay to workers the sales of many manufacturers have been largely increased. We have run through a sort of cycle of higher pay for workers to sell more goods to employ more workers at higher pay and around again.

Wage increases have come voluntarily rather than enforced in this process, and about all that labor leaders have had to do has been to sit by and watch the process to the satisfaction of everybody.

But while this process has been going on in many lines of industry there are others in which there has been so such cycle either of increased sales for the manufacturers or increased wages for the workers.

One of such industries is the textile industry. While other industries have prospered the textile industry as a whole has had no great prosperity and certainly no growth like the automobile, radio and others. And many textile manufacturing plants have been moved from the industrialized, organized centers of the North and East to the South where labor has been unorganized and in most cases cheaper.

Labor leaders are seeing in conditions in southern mill towns a field for organization and improvement and a national campaign is being waged, with American Federation of Labor support, to "organize the South." A long, hard fight is promised for textile employers can see little hope of a bigger market through higher wages, for it hasn't worked out that any considerable percentage of the higher wages of other workers have been spent for textile products.

The battle is on. If supported wholeheartedly by organized labor we can at least expect to see the southern textile workers receive as high pay as those in the same line in the North. But we can hardly hope to see the same expansion of the market for textiles as has followed wage increases in other industries.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, and through her Chatty gets a position as switchboard operator in the Van Nuys bond house. There she meets and falls in love with David Jordan, handsome young bond salesman.

Chatty's busy tongue creates havoc in the office. Agnes Herford, Mr. Van Nuy's secretary, leaves on account of Chatty's gossip. David Jordan knows that Chatty is responsible, and drops her. Chatty begins to go with a new salesman, Bryant Dunning, who says he is married but has left his wife. Chatty's friends are Billie Langenau, a file clerk, and Winnie Talcott, Mr. Van Nuy's new secretary. After some lively parties Chatty makes up her mind to quit going with Bryant.

The next day David Jordan brings a girl to the office, and Chatty, in a rage of jealousy, makes another date with Bryant.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXXII

But then something strange happened inside Chatty.

She arose in the morning quite certain that she was through with Bryant, that her infatuation was all over.

She knew she could never really love a man like that.

But the more certain she became that she couldn't love him any more—if, indeed, she ever really had loved him—the plainer it became to her that she wanted to be with him on wild parties.

Chatty hadn't the insight to know why she felt this way. She felt it first when Billie described to the other girls a very mild little party she and her sister had gone to the night before—the night when Chatty had been with Bryant on a party which was anything but mild.

"We had such a nice time!" Billie had said. "Some bridge and some sandwiches, and Lola sang to us."

Chatty's better nature told her to agree with Billie and tell her how glad she was she had had a nice time. What she actually said was:

"The kitty's off-side whisker! That's not a real party, is it, girls? A real party has enough pep to make you forget your feet ache, and enough fizz water to make you feel hay-wire—"

That was the beginning of the strange feeling that though she didn't love Bryant any more, yet she wanted to be with him; to go on wild parties with him—to be alone with him.

Chatty was as yet too innocent to know why. She wasn't fully awake.

But Billie knew! And Billie worried.

Hard experience had taught Billie that it would do no good to advise Chatty "for her own good" or tell her to stay away from Bryant.

Besides, Billie did not want to seem to criticize Winnie.

Billie didn't believe in Winnie. She thought Winnie over dressed, laughed too loud, spent too much thought on herself and not enough on her work.

She never had quite understood how Mr. Van could replace a girl like Agnes with Winnie, even though Winnie did know the work and the details of the firm.

But she couldn't deliver a lecture to Chatty on the evils of wild parties, without reflecting on Winnie. And Winnie was not to be trusted, at least in Billie's mind.

Chatty's wild parties were not the only thing which worried Billie Langenau.

Chatty's long tongue seemed to grow sharper and more poisoned as its owner gained experience in the ways of the world—particularly an office, the business of which is largely confidential.

Mr. Van had always endeavored to foster a spirit of one for all and all for one in his office force. And before Chatty came, with her devastative tongue, the office girls, and many of the men who had been there for some time, were just a happy family.

Mr. Van believed that better work was done when every one was friendly with everyone else! Now, Billie saw that cliques and jealousies were taking the place of the old spirit of good comradeship.

She saw girl set against girl, and even man against man.

And whenever she traced it down, it always ended in "Chatty said that so-and-so said such-and-such."

The tales Chatty carried were harmless enough in themselves. But Chatty's embroideries and embellishments were not harmless.

If Winnie told her she had been on a party and returned home at midnight, Chatty had her getting in at three in the morning.

"We had such a nice time!"

If Chatty saw Lola, one of the stenographers, on the street with a man Chatty didn't know, the office heard that "Lola has a secret boy friend she's ashamed of!"

If Chatty listened in on the phone and heard any girl make a date with any male voice, the office knew it within an hour. And the "dates" took on a sinister character in Chatty's retailing of them.

What Billie didn't know was that Chatty was just letting off extra steam! Chatty was making a real effort to "be through" with Bryant. It was increasingly hard. It was harder, Chatty thought, than to have broken off with him when she was crazy about him.

She didn't miss his kisses because she cared for him; she missed them because the kisses, themselves, had grown so pleasant.

As she denied herself the midnight expeditions, the drinking and the "mussing" in Bryant's car, she had to have excitement to replace these diversions.

She found it in increased chatter, in talking about her mates in the office, in making up good stories to add to the meager information she had.

For the girls gradually became wise to her, and told her as little as possible.

Even Winnie became watchful. In the dressing room one day she told some of her feeling to Billie.

"What's the matter with Chat?" she asked. "I haven't been able to get her to fling her foot or wet her whistle for a coupla weeks! And she talks like a phonograph with the hurryups! She better lay off me—I been too good to that kid to be laid out! If she plasters any of her lies on me, she better watch her step!"

"Oh, Winnie, I think she's just—just worried about matters at home!" Billie tried to think of some good defense for Chatty. Billie was like that, always trying to help people.

"Her mother isn't well," she went on. "And her brother—"

"Humph! I know all about Little Brother!" sneered Winnie. "Chat thinks it's a deep, dark secret."

"But, dear, Chatty does worry. And she loves her mother. And she doesn't mean any harm—"

"—said the lawyer for the defense of the fool who rocked the boat!" Winnie finished the sentence for her.

Billie's face fell.

"Look here, you—you nice thing!" cried Winnie, remorsefully. "I'm not razzing you or your friend. Chat's my friend, too. But she can't tell tales on me and get away with it. I'm telling you—tell her if you like. I like peace like a horse likes oats, or Bryant likes gin, but I can fight if I have to—"

Billie turned away. But she made up her mind to have a talk with Chatty. Perhaps she could get her into a more reasonable frame of mind.

So that evening, as they were preparing to leave, Billie asked Chatty if she would come over and spend the evening with her and her sister.

"Just the three of us, Chat!" she urged. "We'll have a real old talkfest!"

Chatty brightened. To talk was her greatest joy—unless it was to listen to scandal—or perhaps to cuddle in Bryant's arms. Deep down in her heart that was another joy—and its name was Dave. But that was all over. Over forever. She'd come. Glad to. "Even if I have to break a date with the boy friend!" she said.

This was a plain fib, and Chatty was instantly ashamed of it. It was so unnecessary. She had no date. She had refused Bryant for the 14th consecutive time. But she didn't like Billie to think she had no date.

When she told her mother she was going to spend the evening with Billie, her mother sighed. "That's nice," she answered. "She's a really good girl."

"Meanwhile some of my friends are not?" demanding Chat.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Every time I read of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's having eluded another posse of newspaper men, or having evaded another interview, I think that it is just revenge for a trick that was once played on him by a photographer. It was in the days when Lindbergh was flying on the Chicago-St. Louis air mail route.

A tornado had struck southern Illinois and the Chicago newspapers sent men there by train. One picture agency ordered an airplane, giving instructions that the pilot should fly to the tornado-struck town, meet a photographer in the postoffice there, and fly back with the cameraman's plates. Lindbergh drew the assignment. He followed instructions, and when he arrived at the postoffice he found several Chicago photographers, who were arranging to send their pictures home by train.

"I'm looking for the man from the Chicago Blank," announced Lindbergh naming the newspaper that had hired him.

The man he was looking for was not there, but one of the photographers from the opposition stepped forth.

"Here I am," he said. And he gave Lindbergh a box of plates.

Lindy flew with customary speed and accuracy back to Chicago, and was met at the airport by representatives of the Blank, who seized the package and dashed by motor to the office.

There it was found that the box contained unexposed plates. The opposition photographer's fast thinking had prevented the Blank from scoring a beat, and it was, so far as is known, the first and last time that the canny Lindbergh ever was duped.

First Flight

The first night of a play or a musical comedy and the first flight of a new type of airplane have something in common, yet the spirit in which one is undertaken is totally different from that of the other. Both occasions contain the element of suspense.

In each case, many persons who have worked long weeks or months on hand to see whether or not their efforts will be marked with success. In the theater there is an air of suspense and excitement, but at the airport the watchword is calmness and assurance.

One day I was the guest of Igor Sikorsky, the great Russian airplane builder, at the maiden flight of a bombing plane that Sikorsky had designed for the army. It was different in construction from anything he had previously built, but Sikorsky had absolute confidence in his design. He knew it would fly, and fly well, because he had figured it out on paper.

I arrived at the Long Island flying field just as the big ship was being taken out of its hangar for the first time. It looked mountainous. Blocks were put under its wheels, and the three motors were started, one by one. For an hour or more pilot and mechanics worked in the cockpit, running the motors singly or in unison, throttled down and at full speed.

Sikorsky looked on with a most casual air, but I confess that the drumming of those 500 horse-power motors beat an almost uncontrollable excitement into me. Here, I thought, was a great moment, great adventure. Finally the ship was rolled out on the field, the blocks were removed from its wheels, and it trundled off up-wind. With perfect grace it slid into the air and began a series of climbs, dives and banks.

Sikorsky still maintained his attitude of detachment. Finally he spoke. "It'll do," he said.

Pity the Sharper

The life of a card-sharp, I am told by one of the best in the game, is not entirely one of pleasure. In the main it is, of course, a rather enjoyable life. One travels, with one's partner, to the best places. One spends the winter in Florida. If the steamship people are not too watchful, there are occasional trips abroad. When the card business is good, one travels with rich men, and the profits are huge.

"But summer," says my friend, "is a bad season, and I always try to have enough money to tide me over. Sometimes, though, I need more money, and then I have to go to some of the up-state resorts and pick up what I can. The men are out playing golf, or playing the horses.

"So I have to sit around the hotels and play bridge with the women. Ugh! How I hate it. It's no fun playing with women, even though they are born gamblers. They play for small stakes, and I earn my money. And their husbands are always interfering. Last summer I was broke and had to earn my way at a resort. I was just making expenses at a hotel—about $25 a day—and was preparing to stick it out on that line all summer, when one of the women I had been playing with told me she'd have to quit. She said her husband had found out about her losses, and threatened to kill her if she played any more."

The card sharp told me, incidentally, that he and his partner rarely used crooked methods in playing with women at summer resorts. "Most of the time," he said, "we just rely upon playing a better game."

The Squelch

It happened in a white tile restaurant the other day. A waitress set a glass of water before a dignified young man, and started a conversation.

"Pretty hot today, brother."

"Yes," said the young man.

"And what'll you have, brother?" He ordered.

"Here you are, brother," she said as she brought the soup.

By this time the dignified young man was annoyed. He beckoned to the waitress.

"Might I have another glass of water, grandmother?" he asked.

She served the balance of the meal in respectful silence.

FLOYD CO. HERD WINS HONORS

National Magazine Writes Up Prize Winners

Special to The Record News

FLOYDADA, Texas, Aug. 21.—Nation wide recognition of the Stansell dairy herd owned by O. D. Stansell, of this city, president of the Texas Panhandle dairy show, was received this month when the record of three of the herd was given special notice in the Jersey Bulletin, a magazine issued by the American Jersey Cattle club. The Bulletin contained the following:

"Three young daughters of Allen's Premier 242754, Texas Jersey sire, have just completed register of merit records with an average yield of 432.76 pounds of butterfat, starting on a test at the average age of one year and 11 months. This exceptional yield for heifers of this age was made on twice a day milking. Calculated to a mature basis this yield is equivalent to a production of 592.87 pounds of butterfat in 365 days.

Tested at Floydada

"O. L. Stansell, of Floydada, Texas, the owner of this sire, and the three promising young daughters, tested the trio, Prince's Combination Ula, Allen's Premier Lola, and Allen's Premier's Darling, giving them only the care given cows in a dairy herd.

Prince's Combination Ula 739847, the youngest daughter, was started on a test at the age of one year and nine months and in the ensuing 365 days produced 461.54 pounds of butterfat and 9,686 pounds of butter.

Allen's Premier's Lola 614656, started on test when just two years of age, yielded 419.92 pounds of butterfat and 7,851 pounds of milk in 365 days. Lola was with calf for 206 days of the year of the test.

Allen's Premier's Darling 729723, produced 416.82 pounds of butterfat and 7,153 pounds of milk in 365 days when started on test at the age of one year and 11 months.

Sold in 1924

Allen's Premier was bred by W. I. Allen of Floydada, Texas, and sold to Mr. Stansell in 1924 when a few weeks old. Five daughters of this bull have register of merit records, and he has a total of 17 registered progney, 10 of which are daughters."

The article which appeared as above will be sent to Jersey breeders over the entire nation.

QUANAH, Texas, Aug. 21.—Thirteen thousand dollars was paid Hendrix & Dossett for the gin property formerly known as the Farmers Blue gin in a deal consummated Tuesday. The purchaser is the Farmers Cooperative society No. 1, represented in the transaction by Alex Vestal and E. N. Prim.

The Farmers Cooperative society has enjoyed wonderful success in Quanah for the past two years with their two gins. A third gin was decided upon several months ago, some of the members favoring building, while others felt they should purchase one of the gins already built.

A pilot should not enter the air, especially with passengers, without feeling that his nervous equilibrium is unimpaired, his muscles feeling fit, and he should feel in a general state of well being, unhampered by a lack of sleep, fatigue or any sort, worry or temperamental trouble.

In considering the causes of accidental death, it has been found that such a simple thing as a few nights' loss of sleep is a big factor in whether the aviator is going to crash or land safely. A temporary illness in the air, which might be unimportant on the ground, such as a sudden blinding headache, a bilious attack, or a feeling of staleness, may be quite serious when the flier's life depends on the control of his ship. Even such things as a casual disturbance of the eyes, a sudden ringing in the ears, or an abnormality of the sense of motion may affect him suddenly just when his piloting needs his most careful attention.

Pilots just recovering from any acute disease had better stay on the ground. Also it has been found that several flyers using certain headache remedies were killed soon after using this drug. Feelings of nausea and dizziness and vomiting are not uncommon among flyers. At least 10 per cent of them will show a previous history of having been ill on ships, trains, merry-go-rounds or street cars. This tendency to vomit can be overcome in most cases by the proper diet. One of the foremost aces which America produced during the war vomited continually during his training time. He overcame this in actual combat work.

Sometimes a flyer, particularly an inexperienced one, may become acutely ill by having his morale lowered by seeing other ships on fire or other flyers crash. This is especially true if he should pass and see two accidents on the same day. Fright may also cause a flyer to freeze to the control, which will be followed by faintness, nausea and sometimes violent shaking.

In taking off into the higher altitudes, the flyer may become especially cold, and as he comes down his heart beats quickly and tries to force his blood through his cold veins which causes him to feel very sick, almost in agony. He returns very faint, totally exhausted. The excessively high altitudes have a tendency to affect his judgment in landing.

These things can all be guarded against, and the larger companies, employing passenger-carrying aeroplanes, take special precautions to prevent these accidents so that there is very little danger when flying with experienced pilots.

It is said, in fact, that there are fewer deaths in proportion to those who ride in aeroplanes than in those who ride in automobiles. This is because of the careful health examination given the pilots before they are permitted a license.

In flying, as in other fields of endeavor, health is the foundation of success.

Catarrh

Question—H. E. J. asks: "May one who has catarrh eat wholewheat bread and muffins in which there is no sugar?"

Answer—Wholewheat bread and muffins are wholesome foods, but all starches should be discontinued by the catarrhal patient until the excess amount of mucus has subsided. After that, these foods may be used in moderation with good results.

Cancer

Question—G. H. asks: "What is the best method of preventing the return of cancer once removed by operation? Does exposing the parts to the sun help?"

Answer—The best method I know of for preventing cancer is to live on a careful diet, exercise each day, and adopt the right mental attitude. It is a noticeable fact that cancer rarely if ever develops with those who continue to live a vigorous physical culture life. The congestion of cancer cells to any one part of the body cannot occur if the circulation of blood does not become sluggish. Sunbaths are helpful because of the ultra-violet effect on the blood. Nude sunbaths should be taken, exposing the entire body, as the effect of the sun's rays are no more helpful over a certain diseased part than over the other parts of the body. The main object of these sunbaths is to absorb all of the ultra-violet rays possible, and the effect is general upon the blood and not specific to any one part.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Child Has Chronic Cough

Question—Mother writes: "I have a little girl 11 who has had a loose cough for about four years. The doctors say it is not her lungs."

Answer—There is such a thing as a "habit" cough, but if your daughter has been troubled for four years there is doubtless some other deepseated cause which could be discovered upon examination. I would suggest that you take her to one doctor after another if necessary until you find someone who understands diagnosing well enough to find the cause of her trouble.

STAPLETON AND BENNETT HURT AS SPUDS LOSE 4TH STRAIGHT

HOUSTON 1 1-2 GAMES BEHIND

Errors Let Wachtel Best Steengrafe, 4 to 3

Special to The Record News.

HOUSTON, Aug. 21.—The hapless Spudders took it on the chin again today. Not only did the Wichita Falls nine lose the opener of the three-game series with the Buffaloes, this enabling the 1929 champs to creep to within a game and a half of the lead, but two of the Spudder stars were injured. Red Bennett injured a knee while running out a grounder in the sixth inning and Stapleton sustained a badly injured finger.

The Buffaloes won, 4 to 3, Paul Wachtel, the veteran spitballist besting Milt Steengrafe. Steengrafe's excellent chucking went for naught in the face of miserable support, four Spudder errors handing the game to the Buffs.

Fourth Straight Loss

It was the fourth straight defeat for the Galloways.

Change in the Spudder lineup necessitated by injuries to Bennett and Stapleton saw Bettencourt playing first base and left field after starting at third, and Galloway and Hermann finishing at the respective corners.

The Spudders tallied two runs in the fourth inning. Fitzgerald singled and scored on Sullivan's double, and Dick tallied on Bettencourt's hit.

Houston scored one in its half. Moore singled and Hunt beat out an infield hit, advancing Moore to third. Taylor forced Hunt, Steengrafe to Benton, but Rabbit threw wild for a double play and Moore counted.

Buffs Win in Fifth

The Buffs scored three in the fifth. Hock singled, Cunningham walked and Martin beat out a roller filling the bases. Moore strolled, forcing home Hock. Cunningham tallied on Hunt's infield hit. Martin and Moore were out at the plate on grounders to Hermann and Steengrafe by Miller and Taylor, but Bettencourt missed Crouch's throw to first for a double play and Hunt scored.

Sullivan and Bettencourt singled in the sixth, Dick going to third, and he tallied on Crouch's blow past short for the last run.

ALEX RETIRED FOR CAMPAIGN

Past Services Let Grover Escape Discipline

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 21. (US)—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran pitcher of the Cardinals, today was "retired for the remainder of the season."

This announcement was made today by Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis National league baseball club, following Alexander's suspension last Monday for violation of training rules.

Breadon said his lifting of the suspension and retirement of Alexander was "because we are unable to forget Alex's great pitching and his heroic work in baseball."

Alexander, interviewed later, said the only good thing in the whole affair was that he had been retired with pay and he hoped "to be with the Cardinals again next year."

Final decision as to Alex's status will not be made before the end of the present season, Breadon said.

Texas Athletics in Exclusive Hands of Faculty

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 21. (AP)—Athletic affairs of the University of Texas were overhauled from top to bottom today by the board of regents, when it adopted faculty recommendations. Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, acting director of athletics since the retirement of L. Theo Bellmont, was given permanent appointment.

Faculty control over the selection of coaching staffs was made absolute. Student and ex-student members of the athletic council were shorn of all power in making the nominations.

All members of the coaching staff were approved by the regents for one year.

Daily Dope

By LARRY DAILEY

A BASEBALL man who is connected with a major league club that has minor league holdings was bemoaning the falling off of interest in the game in smaller circuits, and to a lesser extent in the faster time. "Well, what's wrong with baseball," I asked him. He gave me a few reasons why in his opinion, baseball attendance has decreased. Logical and correct reasons, no doubt.

Competition with golf, the radio, the movies, or as it is now, the talkies, the automobile, were advanced by the mogul as main causes for distracting public attention from the diamond to other recreations. No doubt a wider scope of recreation developed in the past 10 years has been a blow to baseball attendance. But there are other, and I think better reas — why Mr. and Mrs. John Fan don't t. the ball park as frequently as fo. merly.

And those reasons concern the baseball magnate and player themselves.

IN THE first place, baseball is NOT as interesting a game as it was a decade ago. In elevating the home run to pre-eminence, the powers of the sport took away the dash and snap that made the game so vastly popular. The sacrifice, the stolen base, the squeeze play, almost are lost arts today. Science and speed have been displaced by sheer brawn. And the public is weary of the spectacle.

In the second place, the magnates, with Commissioner Landis as the prime mover, have done their best to make the game a pink tea. Players are so imbued with the fear of swift and drastic penalty for the mere disputing of an umpire, that they accept decisions of the arbiters with a meek and docile spirit.

This change from times when managers and players were permitted to question an umpire, even to the point of shaking a fist in his (the official's) face, to today, when the indicator holder is invested with the despotical mantle of infallibility, has of course extended to the athletes. Their attitude toward the game has changed. Of course, they try to win while out there on the field. But they don't worry about winning and fight with the old spirit of other days.

◆ ◆ ◆

GO TO ANY ball park a half hour or so before the start of the game, and you usually will see players of rival clubs fraternizing and hobnobbing in a delightful spirit of comradeship. I don't advocate the sharpening of spikes for infielders and dusting off of batters. But there's too much easy-going fellowship and not enough of the will to win shown by the players.

◆ ◆ ◆

THERE IS another matter, this strictly up to the moguls, that seems to me would enhance the popularity of baseball were it followed. That is the operation of a scoreboard that would give the fans a comprehensive but simple means of keeping up with play. Of course, the habitual fan, who goes to the games every day, knows the players. But others do not. Therefore, the installation of a scoreboard in all parks, which would show the players' names and positions, and who is at bat, should be COMPULSORY in baseball.

Save for score cards (which the fan buys) which are inadequate in that no provision is made for changes of lineups as of course they are printed several hours, or longer, before a game, the fan has no means of knowing the names of players unless he is a close follower of the game.

BEAR CAPTAIN OUT 4 WEEKS

Fracture of Left Hand Puts Charlie Grimm on Shelf

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (INS)—Charlie Grimm, captain and one of the most important cogs in the pennant-bound Chicago Cubs, is lost to Joe McCarthy's household for at least four weeks with a fracture in his left hand.

An X-ray examination today disclosed the nature of an injury sustained by Grimm when he crashed into the concrete fronting of the ground boxes near first base in the eighth inning of the second game of yesterday's double-header. He was chasing a foul ball at the time.

McCarthy has assigned Clarence Blair to play first base temporarily. Grimm's injury is a severe blow to pennant chasing Cubs.

Supplication
To H. A. S.

Not of the silver cups gloating on polished trays,
Not of the lightning grabs ending in triple plays
But of the bunch of dogs who never had their days.

Not of the boxer's glove, raised at the final gong,
Not of the first crew home still pulling strong,
But of the heart that cracked . . . that didn't belong.

Not of the lusty cheers as the favorite leads the pack,
Not of the "six-winner boy" riding into the jack,
But of the 'prentice lad with chills running over his back.

Not of the hefty ash, the blow and a four-bag clout,
Not of the curves that "break" as the bleachers shout,
I sing of the shame-faced kid who just struck out.

Not of the great returns . . . ace following ace . . .
Not of the job and twist and the change of pace,
I chant the loser's end and the smile on his face.

To the victor belong the spoils, ever the song of war,
Writ to a martial beat and learned in the days of yore.
Can't somebody write a song that forgets the score?

—ROBERT NORMILE ROSS.

Alright, I'll hoist one lyric to the mob,
That cannot putt or slug or smash or lob,
But still persists in sticking to the job.

Forming again for one more counter-fire,
Taking its beating through the dust and mire,
In the deep joy of battling to the wire.

Claimants for the heavyweight title should be made to stand in line in order to prevent a blockade. It will be at least a year before enough of the debris is removed to know what the yapping is all about.

"Here's a good tip on timing," comments a reader. "Hit hard as easy as you can."

The Fast Moving Age

On more than one occasion Bobby Jones has been listed in cartoons and sketches and articles as a member of the old timers defending the heights against on-rushing youth. And Jones is only 27.

There was a time when 27 stood at the first rim of one's championship prime. But Jones at the age of 27 has known 13 years of national championships and nearly 15 years of tournament play.

Thirteen or 15 years of competitive sport makes one a veteran, whatever the age. The youthful players of today are getting good technical instruction in various games at the ages of 9, 10 and 11 years. Large flocks of them around 12 know what most of the fundamentals are. An oldtime football player was astonished early last fall to see two young football teams, most of the players under 14, passing and punting and dropkicking with the skill of collegians.

Not Entirely

"College trained ball players are dominating the two big leagues today," an exchange remarks. Not entirely.

Babe Ruth, Jimmy Foxx, Mel Ott, Hornsby, Wilson, Grove, Bush, Alexander, Klein, Maranville, Simmons and a few other non-collegians still manage to break into print once in a while.

When these younger players begin to crowd Bill Tilden, there is one line from an old sporting verse that he probably recalls, to this effect: "O mocking memories of youth."

There is one detail about Jess Sweetser that makes him a formidable rival always. Whether he is meeting Jones, Hagen, Von Elm or Horton Smith, he isn't beaten until the final putt has dropped into the cup. The better they are the better Sweetser is likely to play.

Mental Pictures

Certain mental pictures can be of great help in the art or science or knack of hitting a golf ball.

For example, there is Douglas Wesson's sound suggestion to kid yourself into the belief that the "golf ball has no mass." It is worth trying by those who can swing correctly at a dandelion, but who immediately tighten up and lunge when a golf ball is the target.

Another good mental picture is one where the path of the clubhead is traveling from "the inside out," away from the player. The golf swing is merely the application of centrifugal force, which is force applied from the inside to the outer rim. Get a picture of the clubhead swinging away from the body, not from the outside across the ball toward the left.

Another good mental picture is that of the hands in control, the same mental picture one gets in swinging an ax at a tree, where the hands take over the job of swinging the head of the ax and letting the head have its way.

Where there is no mental picture or mental pattern to follow, the golfer is bound to work in the dark, groping his way along an unknown road, struggling for some goal hidden by the fogs of doubt and confusion. The correct mental picture of good putting is a smooth stroke, backward and forward, and this is worth keeping in mind.

The average mental picture in golf concerns only the result, not the cause.

Three Identify Suspect as Bandit In Dundee to Wichita Robberies

State Completing Evidence in Case Against Man in Slaying Of Charlie McDaniel

Efforts to connect a prisoner held on robbery charges in the Wichita county jail with the fatal shooting of Charlie McDaniel in July, 1928, gained fresh impetus Wednesday when three witnesses positively identified the suspect as the principal in three holdups between Wichita Falls and Dundee before and after the shooting, according to a resume of developments given by Sam Spence, district attorney, late Wednesday. Half a dozen other witnesses have testified to a "strong resemblance" between the two men.

Grand Jury Recalled

Wichita county officials are attempting to identify the bandit as the same man who later shot Mr. McDaniel when he thwarted an attempted robbery of the Dundee bank. Mr. Spence and Sheriff W. G. Bralley, who are conducting the investigation, have announced that the evidence in connection with Wichita county holdups is already practically complete. Efforts Thursday will be directed toward obtaining the testimony of witnesses who saw the prisoner in Wichita Falls on or about the time of the series of hi-jackings, and in interviewing Neal Rayburn of Dundee, who saw the bandit just a few minutes before the fatal shooting in front of the bank, Mr. Spence added.

The completion of the links in the evidence, expected Thursday or Friday, will probably lead to the recalling of the August Archer county grand jury in an effort to obtain a murder indictment, the district attorney has announced. The prisoner is already under a robbery with firearms charge in Wichita county and has been implicated in four separate holdups by the evidence of witnesses who have identified him here this week, Mr. Spence said.

Denies Charges

The three witnesses who positively identified the prisoner Wednesday were:

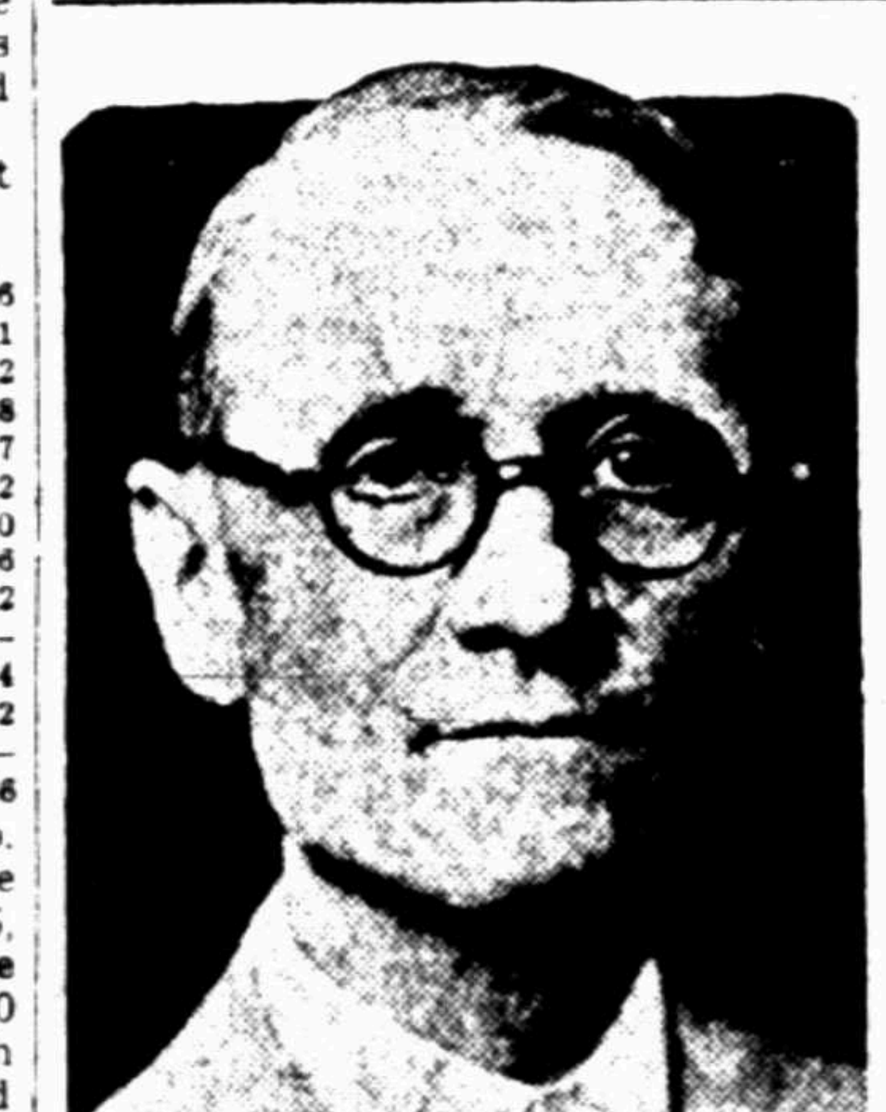

H. O. Kelly, who saw the holdup on a Pontiac coupe between Mankins and Dundee on the night after the shooting. Kelly is truck driver for the Magnolia Petroleum corporation.

E. H. McDaniel, former filling station operator, who said he saw the prisoner held here in a car similar to the one in which the slayer fled from Dundee.

Mrs. Mabel Groves of Electra, who was robbed of a valuable diamond ring in a lunch stand holdup on the Iowa Park road on the night after the shooting.

The man held here was arrested in Oklahoma City by federal authorities several weeks ago and transferred to Wichita county last Sunday. He has denied all knowledge of either the shooting or the series of hijackings which accompanied it.

SHRINE FROLIC AT LAKESIDE

Public Invited to Attend Jubilee Friday

An invitation to the public to attend the Shrine frolic at Lakeside park Friday night was issued Wednesday by Walter Caldwell, potentate of Maskat temple. No increase in the admission fee to the park will be made and everyone has been urged to "come and bring the family."

About 1,500 Shriners, who have been requested to wear their fezzes, are expected to be present. The frolic is being sponsored by the uniformed bodies of Maskat temple and is under the direction of an arrangement committee composed of J. T. Yeargin, Syd Gaines, Ray Wilhite, Dr. C. R. Lanphere, Leon Taylor, Dr. J. H. Fletcher, Kindell Paulk, Otto Lambert and Joe Bailey.

A free band concert by the temple band, under the direction of Leon Taylor, will be given at the open-air coliseum between the presentations of the regular musical show. Dancing at the pavilion to the music of the De Sautelle orchestra will be open to the public throughout the evening and night.

A number of special surprise features will be presented during the evening, it was said, in true Shrine style. Syd Gaines, on the arrangements committee, described the affair as "a regular good time for everyone."

"Clemency Will Come—But Not From Topeka"

LANSING, Kan., Aug. 21. (UP)—A 75-year-old man who has gone slowly about his work of sweeping prison yards at the state penitentiary here since he was sentenced to life on Aug. 10, today heard without pleasure an announcement that his pardon was favored by the governor.

He is Fred Erb who shot his aged and paralyzed wife to death "to end her suffering," and pleaded guilty after an unsuccessful attempt to kill himself.

Erb, who says doctors have "promised" him death soon, straightened from his work when told of the prospect of pardon.

"There's no use making any fuss over me," he said. "Nobody on earth understands my case. Clemency will come—but not from Topeka."

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP)—Rallies from an opening decline in cotton today were promoted by bullish features in the weekly weather report, but prices eased later under liquidation. December contracts after selling up from 18.77 to 19.07, or 11 points net higher, broke to 18.57 and closed at 18.62 compared with 18.96 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net declines of 33 to 41 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 10 to 17 points. Buying sent the price of October to 18.73 and March to 19.28 or about 5 to 12 points net higher. The market turned easier.

October sold off to 18.25 and March to 18.77 in the late trading, making net declines of 38 to 46 points on the active positions. Closing quotations showed rallies of 5 or 6 points from the lowest. Liverpool cables said there had been heavy Bombay selling and local realizing in that market.

Port receipts today 11,591. U. S. port stocks 543,186. Exports 2,280 making 125,408 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 21. (AP)—Heavy selling on a weaker technical position and a belief that the tropical disturbance would bring relief to the western drought section of the belt caused a sharp recession from an early advance in cotton today. December contracts declined from 19.03 to 18.48 and closed at 18.56 for a net loss of 34 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 33 to 35 points.

The market opened easy. Liverpool cables were lower than due and first trades showed losses of 3 to 5 points. Prices declined October selling to 18.54 and December 18.80, or 8 to 11 points net down.

A subsequent bulge carried October to 18.76 and January 19.08, or 20 ot 23 points above the early lows.

After mid-season selling pressure increased and prices eased sharply. Values were on the downgrade until near the end October declining to 18.22 and January 18.53, or 54 to 55 points down from the highs. Final prices were 4 to 8 points above the lows but at net declines of approximately $1.50 a bale from yesterday's close.

Motor Shares Start Recovery In Quiet Session of Stock Exchange

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (US)—Motor shares started recovery today in a quieter stock market but were handicapped by reactionary influences resulting from expectation that increase in loans would be reported tomorrow. General Motors held over 2 points of its gain to the close but others slumped and finished practically unchanged. Steel had scored a new high early and inspired continued good demand for other stocks but it too slid off in late selling and finished but fractionally higher. American Can lost 5, Foreign Power 4¼ and other recently favored stocks from 2 to 3 points. All offerings were taken, however. Coppers and Oils finished practically unchanged while the Rails closed a point lower on the average. Call money was in more abundant supply and the rate dropped to 6 per cent from renewal of 7 per cent. Turnover increased to cover 4,500,000 shares.

Federal reserve bank directors meet again tomorrow. As Assistant Agent Burgess says they have not considered issuing a market letter the important statements will concern brokers' loans and bill purchases. The street is reconciled to an increase in brokers' loans but doubts it will be sufficient to make up for the $68,000,000 decline from the top last week. That decline was considerable surprise. While there has been further liquidation in the past week by timid holders it is doubtful that it has been sufficient to offset the new buying so no such pleasant surprise is expected. It is generally believed that the statement will show continued large bill purchases by the reserve for only in that way could the continued ease in call money be brought about, it is felt.

First sign of real buying in the Motors brought heavy short covering in General Motors, Chrysler and others. New models introduced recently have been received even better than the most optimistic officials expected so that the current quarter is expected to result in earnings larger than those reported for the third period of 1928. Powerful western interests in General Motors were reported as heaviest buyers of the stock. Their associates declare the new Buick received better reception than any new model in the last three weeks.

New Haven directors meet next Tuesday and are expected to put the stock on a $5 dividend basis. With New Haven adding to its payment and Erie expected to start dividends before very long holders of St. Paul are more hopeful than ever that they will be receiving return early in 1930 at the latest. Improvement in net earnings effected by the new management is continuing, it is claimed, and restoration of preferred dividends may be made before the end of this year. The drop in the call rate was the signal for renewed activity against the shorts in Anaconda and other Copper stocks but the subsequent wave of profit taking proved too much for bankers interested in getting the stocks back to a better liquidating point.

As Steel moved to a new high record early in the day the street heard that directors would call a special meeting of stockholders for October. Inquiry of those usually best informed of the affairs of the corporation failed to bring confirmation of the report. It is stated that neither directors nor the finance committee has officially discussed splitting up the common stock. However, if as good buying as experienced in the last fortnight continues, it was felt, the directors would be compelled to take action toward splitting up the shares or otherwise a corner would exist in the stock. Steel has been a favorite of recently formed investment trusts.

Opened Safe Yields No Clue to Arson Ring

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 21. (UP)—Officers failed today to gain new leads in their investigation of an alleged arson ring here when they opened the safe of Dady M. Carey, asserted leader of the ring, who shot himself to death after being indicted for the death of three firemen, killed in a fire and explosion recently. The box had been cleared of all but a bad check, returned to Carey in 1927.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (AP)—Stupendous piling up of stocks of wheat at all the big market centers in this country and Canada smashed prices downward 6⅝c a bushel today. The jolt which did the work was announcement that because of unwieldy accumulations threatening to choke railroad and elevator facilities, an embargo against shipments of rye, oats and barley to Minneapolis and Duluth had been declared. This announcement, although not outright to wheat, was generally taken here to mean that acute scarcity of storage room for grain had reached a crisis, with the bulk of the spring wheat harvest movement in the Northwest yet to come.

After an almost vertical wild fall of prices and big selling of future delivery holdings, the wheat market closed shaky, 5⅝c to 6c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed irregular, varying from 1⅜c net decline to 1c advance, corn ¼c to 1¼c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5c.

Corn showed relative firmness considering the severe setback in wheat prices. Oats sympathized with wheat.

Provisions were easier as a result of scattered selling.

MID-WESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 21. (AP)—(USDA)—Cattle prices at most points around the 11 market circuit continued to sag, with packers at some markets inforcing material declines on native grain feds as well as Western grassers. Most all classes of Western grass cattle are selling at new low levels for the season. There was expansion in country demand today, but with liberal supplies available it was still a buyers market. Aggregate receipts, 36,200 a decrease of 5,000 from a week ago and 2,500 less than a year ago.

Trade on fat lambs slow. Prices steady to higher. Aged stock at 25c lower figures. Closely sorted native lambs in Chicago topped at $14.00, and choice rangers $13.65. The supply was 64,900 as compared with 50,191 last Wednesday and 65,916 a year ago.

Hogs found moderately active at steady to 15c higher. The top of $11.50 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 67,900, a decrease of 10,500 from a week ago but 6,500 heavier than a year ago.

STATE TO LET CONTRACT SEPT. 15 FOR HOSPITAL UNIT HERE

BUILDING TO COST $125,000

Accommodations Provided For 220 Patients

Contract for the erection of a new $125,000 men's ward at the Wichita Falls State hospital will be let on Sept. 15 by the state board of control at Austin, according to announcements by R. B. Walthall, chairman, reported Wednesday by Associated Press dispatches from the capital.

The sum to be used in the building for which contract will be let next month is one-half the total amount appropriated by the last legislature for construction of new units at the Wichita Falls institution, according to the dispatch. The remaining $125,000 will be used in the year 1930-31 for the building of a similar unit, which will be used for women patients.

According to Dr. J. W. Castner, superintendent of the state hospital, plans for the new men's ward are being drawn by Voelcker & Dixon, local architects, and are now nearing completion. The building will be erected in the eastern part of the hospital grounds, near the units built two years ago. It will be approximately 190 by 80 feet, and of two stories.

Completion of the new ward building will afford accommodations for 220 additional patients, it was said, and will bring the hospital's equipment abreast of a program adopted some years ago. There are at present more than 100 men in jails throughout the state, Dr. Castner said, awaiting commitment to the state institution. There are 80 vacant beds in the women's wards here now, he stated, making possible the postponement of building the new unit in that section for one year.

Five Grass Fires Keep City Trucks on Run

Five grass fires Tuesday caused no damage, but kept the fire department on the run. The first blaze was at 7:45 in the morning when the trucks were called to Seventh and Austin. The second alarm was for two fires at the same time, at 12:10 p. m., the scenes being at Eighth and Fillmore and 2504 Ninth street. At 1:47 o'clock an alarm came in for the 1800 block on Sixth street and at 2:15 the fifth blaze was found at 105 Galveston. At the last-named place the fire was beaten out with wet tow-sacks, it not being necessary to turn on the water. The biggest blaze of the day was at 2504 Ninth, where 166 gallons of chemical were used in putting out the fire.

Wichita Woman's Suffering of One Full Year Ended

Tried Every Kind of Treatment She Could Hear of but Got No Relief Until She Took Orgatone

"Orgatone has really worked wonders in my case," said Mrs. Pauline Ross, who resides at the Studio hotel, Wichita Falls, Texas, recently.

"For almost a year," continued Mrs. Ross, "I have suffered with indigestion and dyspepsia and during the past six months especially I have tried everything imaginable, with no results, until I got Orgatone. Rheumatism went to bothering me and I would have terrible headaches which I can tell you made me suffer misery. Finally my nerves seemed to give way and I have been unable to get sufficient sleep and rest.

"Although I had tried many remedies, nothing seemed to help me. By the high endorsements of local people right here in Wichita, I was induced to try Orgatone and now, after taking it a few weeks, I can truthfully say I feel better than I have in the past 12 months. My sleep is sound and restful and, oh, it is such relief to be able to eat what I want without suffering those terrible bilious spells afterward. I feel very grateful and am only too glad to tell others about the medicine that has done so much for me."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store.—Adv.

MAJESTIC Buddy Rogers and Mary Brian in "River of Romance," last day. All-talking Mack Sennett comedy. Fox Movietone news. Screen song.

OLYMPIC: "Give and Take." Comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: William Powell and Louise Brooks in "The Canary Murder Case."

◇ ◇ ◇

The romantic charm of "the land of cotton," and the very attractive Tarkington story used in "River of Romance," at the Majestic, have not concealed the exceptionally fine characterization given by Natalie Kingston as the mistress of Gen. Orlando Jackson. The role of "Mexico," octaroon beauty who graced the gaming parlors of the illustrious general, gave Miss Kingston exactly no action with which to color the rapidly moving narrative. Her contribution was the triumph of sheer ability.

◇ ◇ ◇

So graceful and enticing were the low bow and gesture of welcome as to impart realism to the picture of Jackson's hostelry. The flashing teeth and lustrous eyes were played with consummate success upon guests of her master. With a voice which by its mellow ripples disarmed the harsh voice to which it spoke full obedience, and a mirthful giggle which adapted itself naively to each various philanderer, "Mexico's" few appearances were flashes of rare artistry.

◇ ◇ ◇

Mystery which combines the wizardry of Conan Doyle with the uncanny machinations of the Oriental mind is promised in the production opening at the Majestic Friday noon, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," one of Sax Rohmer's most popular stories, will be interpreted by an impressive cast headed by Warner Oland. Ever since Oland's appearance with Connie Talmadge in "East is West," his face has portrayed to motion picture followers the subtle, sinister genius of evil which, in all English writings, has been personified in the Chinese villain.

◇ ◇ ◇

Dr. Fu Manchu, in Rohmer's novel, is a super-intelligent Chinese who plans and executes the most baffling crimes merely for the joy of giving play to abnormal capacity for intrigue and deception. He is pictured as possessing the scientific knowledge of the Western world as well as the almost super-natural occult sciences of his own people. The action, in the book, moves from England to China, involving crimes which ultimately are solved, but without satisfactory identification of their perpetrators.

◇ ◇ ◇

Besides the potent Warner Oland of the cold, drooping eye, the cast includes Neil Hamilton, Jean Arthur and O. P. Heggie—which to the casual observer would promise action, beauty, and strong character—impersonation in the order named.

◇ ◇ ◇

Light comedy is to be had for the taking at the Olympic during the closing three days of the week. "Give and Take" builds a humorous story primarily on the prevalence, first, of returning college graduates burgeoning with brand new ideas for revolutionizing business, and secondly, of mergers and mergers.

◇ ◇ ◇

Without looking any further into the story of the canning factory, acceptable entertainment for a tired evening is assured by the inclusion of Jean Hersholt and Sam Hardy in the cast. Since Sam is cast as a plunging broker, it must necessarily follow that he was a football star during his years at Old Ell—for he is a Yale man. Hersholt's performance with Al Jolson in "The Singing Fool" assured him entre with the most discriminating patrons of screen drama.

◇ ◇ ◇

On the basis of refined pulchritude, however, Jean Arthur and Sharon Lynn and other current entrants will be crowded, through no shortcomings of their own, into second place Saturday at noon. Billie Dove will receive at the Strand, in "Man and the Moment."

RABBIT RECORD

Wichitans Bag 23 in Less Than Two Hours Of Shooting Here

Jack rabbits are plentiful this year in the vicinity of Wichita Falls according to reports of hunters. A. W. Shackelford and Thomas Banks, neighbors in the 1400 block on Seventeenth street, bagged a total of 23 of the rabbits within an hour and a half Wednesday afternoon without leaving their automobile while shooting. The animals scattered in all directions in great numbers as the two drove about the Will Piebe farm, 12 miles south of the city, they said. The rabbits appeared almost faster than the two could reload their shotguns and they returned to town with the rear of the car filled with the animals.

Statistical information was given by the speaker to support the rating of "fair" business conditions given this community by national authorities.

Entertainment included reports of an investigating committee, headed by Frank J. Dempsey, which had been charged with bringing to light the private life of well-known club members. Miss Angie Noe, soprano, sang two numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Kindel Paulk. Joel MacGregor conducted a singsong. The program was arranged by Kindel Paulk.

36TH DIVISION REVIEW FRIDAY

5,500 Men to March At Fort Sill, Okla.

The annual divisional review of the 45th division, largest single encampment of the National Guard in the United States will be held at Fort Sill, Okla., next Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock when 5,500 men pass in review before Gen. Baird H. Markham, reviewing officer, General Lassiter, commander of the eight corps area, Gov. W. J. Holloway of Oklahoma, and other officers of the divisional staff and prominent citizens of both Texas and Oklahoma.

The review will include tractor-drawn artillery, composed of huge 155's, light horse-drawn artillery, a brigade of infantry, and special troops, including engineers, signal corps and others. Meanwhile, airmen of the army post will fly in formation above the columns passing in review. Seven military bands will be included in the review and will fall out, one by one, near the reviewing stand as the columns pass until the seven have formed one huge band, all playing the same military air throughout the spectacle and forming one of the largest bands ever assembled at a National Guard encampment.

Other officers included in the reviewing group will be Col. T. D. Harris, Colonel Johnson, Major Gilstrap, Colonel Stevenson, Colonel Davis, Captain Woods, Colonel Patterson, Lieut. Joe Huckins, Lieutenant Gilstrap and others, many of whom served with the famous 36th Arrowhead division of Texas during the world war. The eighth corps area includes the 45th division of Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona and the 36th of Texas.

Colonel Harris, G-4, supervisor of transportation, ordinance and quartermaster supplies and manager of the motor transportation department of the Continental Oil company, was in Wichita Falls Monday on a business trip. He was a member of the Colorado division during the war and later moved to Oklahoma where he became a member of the 45th of that state.

The encampment at Fort Sill is now staging a three-day and night battle maneuver in which the troops have been divided into two "armies" with complete facilities for the manipulation of troops and the carrying out of military commands, Colonel Harris said. The review will be held Friday morning and the camp will end Saturday, completing the annual 15-day encampment.

A large number of Wichita Falls residents were connected with the 36th division during the war and since many of the officers from that famous group will be present at the review Friday, it is expected that many persons from this section of the state will attend the spectacle, Colonel Harris said.

Court Orders Father To Aid Minor Children

After a preliminary hearing Wednesday afternoon before O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, J. T. Smith, arrested on a charge of child desertion, was instructed to contribute $30 a month toward the support of his three minor children. Smith is the father of eight children, only three of them under 16 years of age, according to Geo. W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, who represented the state in the hearing.

Pastor Gives Talk At Lions Club Luncheon

Determined perseverance as a master of all obstacles was discussed by Rev. Ben Bell, pastor of the Sibley-Taylor Methodist church, before the weekly meeting of the Lions club at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon.

A singsong and several numbers by a quartet composed of E. F. Bohmfalk, J. L. Eggleston, Dr. A. D. Patillo and Chess L. Baum, comprised the remainder of the program.

Municipal Gas Company Builds $15,000 Brick Warehouse on Sibley

Construction of a new $15,000 warehouse and garage for the Municipal Gas company will begin immediately, according to Jacob B. Price, local manager of the company. The structure will be located on lots 17 and 18 in the Taylor subdivision on Sibley street. Contracts were let to H. J. Naylor, local contractor, who has promised completion by Nov. 1.

The building will be one story in height and will be made of light face brick, trimmed with stone and tile with a tar and gravel roof. Voelcker and Dixon are the architects. A concrete yard with drives and gravel walks and a program for beautifying the front with shrubs, flowers and trees have been planned in order to make the place conform with civic beauty as well as withutility.

Modern fixtures, including hot-air heating devices, daylight features in the workshop and other facilities, will be installed, Mr. Price said. Complete warehouse facilities, with space for a meter shop, pipe and connection storage and testing rooms, will be provided. The lot occupied by the garage and the warehouse will be completely enclosed. The company will occupy the property about Nov. 15.

Wichitan's Gunnery Crew Sets New Navy Record in Winning Trophy

Friends in Wichita Falls of Lieut. Commander E. Z. Herzinger, the brother-in-law of Mrs. B. C. Nicholson and son-in-law of Mrs. Mary P. Harmest, both residents of this city, will be interested to learn of an honor won primarily by Lieutenant Commander Herzinger himself.

The San Diego Union has to say: "For the third consecutive year, scout cruiser Omaha, the flagship of Rear Admiral Thomas Senn, commanding the destroyer squadron, U. S. battle fleet, has been awarded the naval gunnery trophy, word has been received.

"The Omaha now is in the Puget sound area and is due in San Diego in five weeks.

"By winning the gunnery trophy for three consecutive years, the Omaha has made a record never before established in the history of the navy.

"This record was made while the cruiser was under the command of Capt. Allen Buchanan, who is now Aide to President Hoover, with gunnery officer, E. Z. Herzinger as lieutenant commander."

Court Delays Hearing On Widow's Injunction

The press of other business in the 78th district court Wednesday prevented Judge W. W. Cook from the consideration of an injunction petition in which Mrs. Delia Morris asks that E. S. Goodlett, her neighbor, be restrained from the alleged circulation of reports that she poisoned her husband. The application for a court order was filed late Tuesday afternoon and will be acted upon as soon as the court's time is free, officials explained.

Mrs. Morris appeals to the judge as the widow of T. A. Morris, who died at his home at 409 Lamar on the afternoon of Aug. 3. She accuses the defendant of spreading the report that she administered poison and of bringing other charges against her character. She denies the charges.

BARTLETT CASE TO GRAND JURY

Successor to Officer Fails To Arrive

Evidence being completed in connection with attempted criminal assault charges brought by a 7-year-old girl against J. J. Bartlett, 61-year-old deputy United States marshal, will be laid before the 30th district grand jury when it convenes here in October, Sam Spence, district attorney, announced Wednesday afternoon. Both district and county court charges have been filed against the former official, the attorney explained, the felony charges to be developed first. Bartlett is accused of aggravated assault in the county charge which will be kept on file until the other complaint has been disposed of, Mr. Spence declared.

So far as other federal authorities here were informed no successor to Bartlett, suspended immediately after the filing of charges, had arrived in Wichita Falls late Wednesday. A new deputy marshal to serve during the pendency of the charges here is expected, but no appointments have yet been announced.
