Justice rejects all Midland school plans

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

The United States Justice Department today rejected all three desegregation plans submitted to federal court by the Midland Independent School District.

The department also said it was not able to agree to dismiss three city elementary schools — Crockett, Milam and Pease — from the suit.

The response of the Justice Department was submitted today to U.S. District Court, Western District of Texas, Midland-Odessa Division.

Schools superintendent Dr. James M. Mailey said this morning he will delay comment on the response until he has had an opportunity to study the text of the document.

The Justice Department said in its response that all three plans submitted by the school district are "legally insufficient in their failure fully to desegregate the schools."

The major reason given was the number of grades involved in the plans.

"While the Court of Appeals has on occasion permitted the exclusion of kindergarten students from desegregation plans, . . . proposals to exclude grades above the kindergarten level have not been permitted ," the department said.

Two plans, C-1 and C-2, involve the fifth and sixth grades, while a third plan submitted by the school district involves only sixth grade.

Plan C-1 involves clustering the fifth and sixth grades of Washington, South and Travis elementary schools at a re-opened Bunche Elementary School.

The Justice Department cited the "possibility of 'white flight'" in such an arrangement and notes that courts have considered that possiblity in evaluating plans.

Plan C-2 would reassign fifth and sixth graders from De Zavala Elementary school to Bowie and Houston. The Justice Department said the fact that the burden of the plan falls entirely on the minority community "would appear to be a second level insufficiency in that plan."

In discussing its belief that Crockett, Milam and Pease should not be dropped from the suit based on present information, the Justice Department took note of the school district's contention that it should not be required to act to desegregate these schools.

This contention rests on two arguments. First, that the Justice Department previously agreed that the schools are not the result of "intentionally segregative actions" and, second, the school district can show such action did not take place.

In response to these arguments the Justice Department cites information gathered "in recent weeks." The document says the school district made changes in bus routes for rural students "which had the effect of further segregating these schools by reassigning Anglo students to other schools" during the mid-1960s when the ethnic composition of the neighborhoods around the schools was changing.

The Justice Department also noted, "In the process of closing one school during this period the MISD redrew zone lines in a manner which again had the effect of isolating minority students east of Big Spring Street."

In addition, the Justice Department said, it has come across information "which indicates that the city of Midland may have fostered and maintained neighborhood housing segregation in this area in the period after the 1971 hearing in this case."

In light of this information, further study is needed and a full evidentiary hearing may be required in the future, the Justice Department said.

Previous Justice Department statements on the necessity for action regarding Pease, Milam and Crockett should not "act as a bar to further consideration of this issue" for two reasons, the response says.

First, U.S. Supreme Court decision which came after the 1971 hearing in which the Justice Department statements were made alters the legal standards by which illegal segregation is determined.

Second, information about "possible state involvement" in maintaining housing segregation in the area indicates such action has Ciro Sanchez criticizes the school board for its method of putting together desegregation plans.

School trustees defend secret deliberations

School trustees Tuesday defended their secret deliberations on desegregation plans because of the "legal situation" and urged citizens to support the board in its opposition to the U.S. Justice Department.

Board president Joe Dominey said at the school board meeting Tuesday it had been "frustrating" to board members to conduct discussion of plans to be submitted to court behind closed doors but they "were forced into it" by the legal situation.

Trustee Johnny Warren expressed the board's view that the citizens of Midland do not want to change the neighborhood system for elementary schools and urged support for the board.

"We're not your adversary," he said. "Get behind us and support us and together let's fight the Justice Department."

Board member Ed Runyan expressed concern over a statement by Yoshinori H. T. Himel, trial attorney from the Justice Department, in a Reporter-Telegram interview.

Himel said community feeling in support of the present system does not affect the legality of the situation.

"We had better draw together because he has drawn the battle lines," Runyan said.

Roy Marshall, representing a group of Bonham parents, said the group opposes all of the plans. Marshall criticized the board's method of drawing the plans. People were "dismayed" at being confronted with the plans without having been consulted, Marshall said.

When Marshall started to suggest a plan involving use of the Carver facility as a sixth grade school, Warren interrupted to express fear that hearing a plan in open meeting would "prejudice our case."

Any public statement "can be used against us" by the Justice Department, Warren said. He suggested that any ideas for alternative plans be discussed informally with board members as individuals.

In response, Dominey said, "I hope we're not overreacting to the negotiations."

"I think any citizen has a right to say what comes to mind," trustee David Grimes said.

The consensus of the board was that it was proper to allow Marshall to speak about a plan, although Warren expressed a desire not to hear details.

Marshall's suggestion was that the board consider using Carver, with temporary buildings to provide adequate space, as a sixth grade school for the entire community.

Trustee Ann Page said the board had considered using Carver as a sixth grade school.

"We looked at a large number of plans. We picked those plans which were the least objectionable," Runyan added.

Dominey said the board's goal had been to keep "some semblance" of the neighborhood school system at the elementary level since it is not possible to leave the schools as they are.

Deliberations were not made public because the attorney for the school district advised trustees that it would prejudice the case to divulge plans under consideration to the Justice Department, Dominey said.

Several trustees commented on the "adversary" relationship between the school district and the Justice Department.

Dominey reiterated the school district's position that three of the five city elementary schools now included in a federal court order requiring dismantling of the "dual" system of education should be removed.

The five schools included now are Washington, De Zavala, Crockett, Milam and Pease elementary schools. The school district maintains that Crockett, Milam and Pease are not "racially identifiable" as a result of government action (de jure segregation) and thus the district should not be required to implement plans to desegregate those schools.

Word is expected today from the Justice Department on whether or not it agrees with that position. Today is the deadline for the Justice Department to comply with a court order which instructs it to respond to the plans submitted by the school district and submit alternative plans of the district's are not acceptable to the department.

During its Tuesday meeting, the board met again in executive session with attorneys to discuss court strategy in the case.

The plans submitted by the school board include two, C-1 and C-2, which together would desegregate Washington and De Zavala at the fifth and sixth grade level.

A third plan, J-1, would create sixth grade annexes in three of the city's

Platform panel agrees on anti-abortion plank

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Democrats and Republicans may clash directly over the sensitive issue of abortion if the GOP convention adopts a platform subcommittee's recommendation.

Supporters of both Ronald Reagan and President Ford joined forces in adopting an antiabortion proposal by a 13 to 1 vote.

While the Democrats opposed a constitutional amendment, the Republican proposal "supports the efforts of those who seek enactment of a constitutional amendment to restore protection of the right to life of unborn children."

Another platform subcommittee endorsed a plank Tuesday night denouncing busing of school children as "unnecessary, counterproductive and wrong."

Both of these proposed planks require approval of the full Platform Committee and of the convention itself next week before they can become part of the party's official policy statement.

At the final hearings by the full Platform Committee today, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., leader of a group of conservative delegates, was to press for adoption of planks embodying their views.

As the party considered these issues, the two leading candidates continued to maneuver for the presidential nomination by struggling over convention rules and seeking uncommitted delegates.

Helms acknowledged to reporters that he had once discussed with Sen. James Buckley, R-C-N.Y., the possibility of Buckley entering the presidential race. But Helms said he was not promoting the idea and that "I'm not neither encouraging nor discouraging."

Buckley said he had been urged by several conservative senators last month to consider being a compromise candidate and that he would neither block nor encourage such efforts. A third candidacy might stalemate the contest for the nomination and help Reagan, who trails Ford by 1,105 to 1,033 votes in The Associated Press poll of publicly committed or legally bound delegates. A total of 1,130 votes are needed for the nomination.

In the platform subcommittee hearings, the issue of women's rights brought about more disagreement than abortion. The panel was split 7 to 7 on the question whether the Republicans will continue, as they have for some 25 years, to endorse ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, a prime goal of feminists.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, RMass., a subcommittee member who favors endorsement of the amendment, was in Washington Tuesday and may break the tie after he arrives for the convention.

Rankin gals get pecan water for park

RANKIN—As the overnight heir to a farmlet that now includes squash, corn, beans, okra, tomatoes, bell peppers, chili piquines, cucumbers, Brussels sprouts, garlic, onions, and lentils, I was anxious to talk to Upton County Extension Agent W. M. "Dub" Day, Jr.

But all he'll say these days is "pecans, pecans, pecans."

Which figures. The count is now at about 12,000 nutty trees in commercial production here and growing, with another large operation in the works. Day's 3,000 four-year-old trees are his own pride and joy, and he can tell you where every squirrel in Oestexas keeps his Western Schleys.

But I exaggerate, as usual. With a little encouragement, Day also talks about another agricultural project on the local scene: the downtown Bicentennial park being developed by the ladies of Beta Sigma Phi's Xi Epsilon Chi chapter.

Across the street from the bank in downtown Rankin, the large lot—long vacant except for weeds and litter—is now bordered by handsome head-tall cypresses on three sides and three non-bearing mulberry trees in the front, with a huge plot of honeysuckle now starting to bloom in one corner and a field of decorative gray grass in another.

The ladies have already shelled out some $1,000 for greenery and the automatic watering system that will guarantee a permanent glade in the heart of Rankin, and they're planning even more costly improvements such as a system of concrete walkways and benches.

But even the Garden of Eden had at least one snake, and the Bicentennial Park promoters are finding what grows best in Rankin—as at Pendergrast Acres—is weeds; although recent monsoon drenches throughout much of Oestexas produced only about an inch of rain at the Upton County Seat.

And even Day's pecan trees are suffering some growing pains. The prevailing south winds are giving his trees a permanent nortbound lean. And the wind, after all, is the one thing you can't do much about hereabouts.

With harvesting by tree-shaking machines the leaning pecans could cause problema—which is another sign of changing times. Back when you had to climb the tree to shake out the nuts, a tree with a nice slope would have been a convenience.

Action on developer's request delayed

By DEBBIE PIERCE

After spending almost one and one-half hours discussing a request to amend a planned district for construction of a regional shopping center, the Midland City Council Tuesday recessed the matter until 2:30 p.m. Aug. 24.

The request was made by Morris Shaw of Odessa on behalf of Louis Rochester and Skyline Inc.

Accompanying Shaw were several representatives of Paul Broadhead and Associates of Meridian, Miss., who has an option to develop a shopping center on the 155.32-acre site at FM 868 and Midkiff Road.

Concern was expressed by the proposed developers of the shopping center about restrictions the council had placed on the site — a minimum of 500,000 square feet to be developed before the center could open and a time deadline of Sept. 10, 1978, by which the project must be completed.

Buddy Herring, Broadhead president, suggested council give the developers an additional two years, for a total of four years, to complete the project. He also suggested a minimum of 300,000 square feet be developed before the center could open.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said council "wants a first-class shopping mall, but we must protect the city from undesirable development which would eliminate our chances of acquiring our goal." He said council would "rather be too hard on the developers and get nothing than get undesirable development" at the site.

Art Roberts of Westport, Conn., a planner and developer for shopping malls, said a ring-road would surround the project, with two access points from FM 868 and two from Midkiff Road. He said 60-degree angle parking would be available entirely around the project, which "would have no real front and no rear."

David Stautz, vice president of Broadhead, added that the center as planned, would include four major department stores, 75 to 80 smaller tenants, a mall area and several areas outside the ring-road to be used for financial institutions, tire and battery shops and other establishments.

Herring noted the merchandise in the center would be on all levels price-wise, but would lean toward "high-price goods." He said the center would include clothing stores, food establishments, a theater, record shops and other such businesses. He said Sears Roebuck and Co. has indicated its approval of this site for location of a store in Midland.

John Brewer of the Dallas Sears store told council Sears has worked with Broadhead in three other establishments and has been "very pleased with the company." He said Sears also wants to be in a quality mall, but if council "puts severe restrictions on a developer, you limit his ability to do what he wants to do."

Stautz told council the developers want to build the center in a phased development and "build up mall space as the department stores go in." He said, "If times turn bad, it's totally out of our control. We'd rather wait for the right department store and tenant than have to fill space in the mall."

He added that developers "wouldn't attempt to open the center without two department stores." He said the developers "can't have these restrictions tied to us" in order to finance the project.

Council noted Tuesday was the first time it had heard of the developer's problems with the minimum space footage or the timetable. The group agreed to recess the matter two weeks until its next session to allow developers to meet with the city planning and legal departments and work out details regarding the ordinance amendment.

Copies of the proposed amended ordinance will be available to the public by mid-next week at the city planning and legal departments, council noted.

16 being considered as running mate by Ford

By JULES WITCOVER
The Washington Post

KANSAS CITY — While pressure continues on President Ford to follow Ronald Reagan's example of selecting a running mate early, the President, without saying so, is emulating Jimmy Carter's approach instead.

He has now contacted at least 16 Republicans in a semi-public way to check on their availability and backgrounds, just as Carter did with seven "finalists" before choosing Sen. Walter F. Mondale the day after his own nomination.

The White House has said the President also will wait to announce his choice until after his party's convention makes its presidential nomination next Wednesday night, despite pressure from the Reagan camp for disclosure in advance.

OF THE 16, two — Sens. Bill Brock of Tennessee and Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts — have asked not to be considered. The remaining 14 who have acknowledged they have been contacted include seven senators, two governors, two cabinet members, two ambassadors and one former governor who was also a cabinet member.

They are: Sens. Howard H. Baker (Tenn.), Bob Dole (Kansas), Charles H. Percy (Ill.), Lowell P. Weicker (Conn.), Pete V. Domenici (N.M.), James L. Buckley (N.Y.), Mark O. Hatfield (Ore.); Govs. Robert D. Ray (Iowa), and Christopher S. (Kit) Bond (Mo.); Secretary of Treasury William E. Simon and Secretary of Commerce Elliot L. Richardson; Ambassador to Great Britain Anne Armstrong and United Nations Ambassador William W. Scranton; former Texas Gov. and former Secretary of Treasury John B. Connally.

A 17th Republican, former Deputy Attorney General William D. Ruckelshaus, was said by party sources to be on the list. But Ruckelshaus, contacted in Seattle where he is now a lumber company executive, declined to confirm it. Two weeks ago, Ruckelshaus reported he had received what he considered a hard offer to be Reagan's running mate, but later was told Reagan had decided on Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania to gain delegate strength in the Northeast.

Also, according to President Ford Committee sources, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and Reagan are on Mr. Ford's list, though both have said they are not interested and have not been asked to supply data on their health, financial status and other personal matters as others have been. Finally, Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld is said by campaign sources to be on the list, but it is not known whether background data has been asked of him.

White House aides have referred to Mr. Ford's selection process as "traditional" but it is hardly that. Most presidential candidates, except incumbents, have given no public indication of their prospective running mates in the past until they have had their own nomination in hand.

WHAT USUALLY has been done, of course, has been to privately hint to a number of hopefuls — normally those in control of needed delegates — that each is under consideration.

The President clearly has been playing somewhat the same game. He has said publicly he will pick no one from either extreme of the party and someone compatible with him, and then has asked individuals from both conservative (Connally, Buckley) and liberal (Richardson, Weicker) wings, and from the middle, if they want to run with him.

Also, Mr. Ford's request to all 2,259 delegates, and other Republican leaders to submit their vice presidential recommendations is widely regarded as another bit of gamesmanship, designed more to make the recipients feel they are being involved than to provide serious counsel.

It is reminiscent of Richard Nixon's letter to party leaders in advance of the 1968 convention asking their choices, and three meetings Nixon held immediately after his nomination. According to participants, the name of Sprio T. Agnew was recommended by no one at any of the meetings, but Nixon picked him anyway.

While stopping short of Reagan's innovative pre-nomination disclosure of Schweiker as his ticket partner, Mr. Ford by failing to impose secrecy on those contacted has like Carter permitted a prenomination airing of the prospects.

THAT PROCEDURE in itself undercuts to some degree the argument by John P. Sears, Reagan's campaign manager, that prenomination selection is necessary to enable the convention to make a judgment on the running mate. By floating all the names, they are coming under at least a modicum of scrutiny in advance of the presidential roll-call vote.

What the mass floating does not do, however, is permit a zeroing-in on any single prospect of the sort that Sears has said would get Mr. Ford in hot water with some segment or other of the party — just as Reagan's choice of Schweiker brought conservative wrath down on him.

A White House source declined Tuesday to say how many individuals had been asked if they want to run with Mr. Ford. "Obviously at some point the list will be winnowed down," this source said, but he declined to say whether the President will meet personally with a group of "finalists," as Carter did.

GOP rules to curb delegate switching

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — In politics great decisions can turn on labels. Like, who could possibly vote against something called the "Justice Resolution." Hardly anybody, President Ford's convention strategists hope.

That's the handle they've hung on a new rule which would require convention delegates to honor their commitments under state law and vote for the presidential candidate to whom they're pledged. The effect would be to keep Ford delegates from jumping to Reagan.

So far, it's working. The Republican National Committee's Rules Committee voted by voice Tuesday to adopt the Ford rule.

And it has worked before. Back in 1952 when ex-General Eisenhower was trying to grab the GOP nomination away from old-line party leader Robert Taft he came up with the "Fair Play Rule."

In the name of "Fair Play," the convention ruled that delegates whose own credentials were being challenged could not vote on other delegate contests. Since Eisenhower was challenging several Taft delegations, this meant Taft lost a lot of his votes.

Consequently, Eisenhower was able to reverse the national committee and seat a Georgia delegation split 14-3 in his favor and a Texas delegation which was 33-5 pro-Eisenhowever. The difference was enough to nominate Eisenhower and send him on toward the White House.

Now the shoe is on the other foot and the established party leader has a label he hopes will stop the challenger. Ford's tacticians are arguing that "it's simply justice" to have delegates stand by their commitments.

In addition to the perils of opposing "justice," Reagan's forces face the distasteful necessity of offending one of the prime gospels of their conservative following — states' rights.

The Ford maneuver rests on the defense of state laws which require delegates to vote the way they were instructed. Principally this involves 19 states which held primaries and bound their delegates to vote at the convention for the candidate favored by the voters at home.

Reagan's chances for nomination rely heavily on hopes of winning over delegates bound to Ford. If they don't switch immediately, it is hoped that they will at least sit out a ballot or two until their commitments have expired.

This puts Reagan's conservatives in the position of urging rock-ribbed states' righters to violate state laws.

Now, the Supreme Court has ruled that such state laws can't legally bind delegates at a convention in a distant state. But that raises another problem for Reagan, since conservatives have often criticized the Supreme Court which is being offered as a higher authority.

Congress passes swine flu 'insurance' program

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — At the urgent request of President Ford, Congress passsed a bill to insure the swine flu vaccine program against injury suits Tuesday just before leaving on a 12-day recess.

Last spring, Congress had speedily appropriated $135 million for a nationwide vaccination program after scientists warned of the possibility of an outbreak of the strain of influenza that killed nearly 500,000 Americans in the 1918-19 epidemic. The drug industry has manufactured 100 million shots of vaccine.

But none has been distributed because the insurance industry refused to insure such a large program against suits claiming injury from the vaccine. HEW officials warned that the program would never get started unless the government provided participants liability protection.

The bill which passed both House and Senate Tuesday provides that all injury suits shall be filed against the government. If the plaintiff won a judgment, the government could turn around and sue the guilty party — the drug manufacturer for a bad batch of vaccine or the administering physician for negligence.

This would relieve participants in the program from bearing legal costs of meritless court suits, which is a major concern of drug manufacturers in the present climate of big malpractice judgments.

The bill would prohibit drug companies from making a profit from manufacture of the vaccine. It also requires that each person vaccinated must first be given an explanation of the risks and benefits from the vaccine and sign a consent form.

The measure had been stalled in the House Commerce Committee where several members opposed it on ground that it was a bailout for the insurance industry which is supposed to be in the business of taking risks, and would set a bad precedent which could lead to government insurance of all such programs.

Last week when it appeared possible that the mystery deaths in Pennsylvania were caused by swine flu, the bill was approved by a House Health Subcommittee headed by Rep. Paul G. Rogers (D-Fla). But when it became apparent by the end of the week that it was not swine flu, the bill bogged down in the parent Commerce Committee over legal issues of whether the government should get into the business of extending liability protection to private industry.

With Congress about to quit for 12 days for the Republican National Convention, President Ford called House leaders and said passage of the bill before the recess "absolutely imperative," according to Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill (D-Mass).

The Senate, which had virtually decided not to act on the bill unless there was a strong indication that the House would act, changed signals and quickly passed it by voice vote and sent it to the House.

Since there was no House bill ready for action, the House Rules Committee was convened and took the unusual action of adopting a resolution that would put the Senate bill before the House without first being referred to committee.

Rogers said immediate passage of the bill was necessary to get the program into action in time to immunize the nation's population before the winter flu season begins. It takes three or four weeks after a person is inoculated before he builds up immunity against the disease, he said.

A number of House members objected to being rushed into the vote in the last minutes before recess, but most decided in view of scientific warnings of the possibility of an epidemic, that could hit by Election Day, that they had no choice.

Mondale says equal justice important

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale says he will continue to discuss and criticize President Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon, but that he will not make it a central issue in his vice presidential campaign.

"I don't plan to make that the only theme or the dominant theme, but the issue of equal justice is an important issue facing the country," he said in an interview Tuesday.

In his acceptance speech at the Democratic National Convention last month Mondale criticized Ford's decision to pardon Nixon for any crimes Nixon may have committed while he was president.

Jimmy Carter, who picked Mondale to join him on the Democratic ticket, has said he does not intend to make the pardon an issue during the campaign, but he has also said he would not ask Mondale to refrain from bringing it up.

"There is a difference of emphasis," said Mondale in comparing his position with Carter's.

Mondale said that during the campaign he will concentrate on the "traditional Democratic constituencies," but that he will also focus on business groups, a less traditional source of support for the Democratic party.

He refused to promise that he would campaign in every state, although he said, "I think we can get into all of them."

He also said that during the campaign he will draw on his work as a member of the Senate intelligence committee and as former chairman of an international economics subcommitte to speak on foreign policy and arms limitation, areas where Carter has had little experience.

In the nearly four weeks since he was nominated, Mondale has refrained from campaigning, spending his time instead in meetings with Carter to plan campaign strategy and to discuss foreign policy, defense, national security and economic issues with experts from the academic world and government.

It has been what Mondale called "a golden month, rarely given" and, as a result he said campaign schedules, budgets and staffs should be coordinated by the end of August.

"We'll be ready to go flat out by Labor Day," he said.

For the last 10 days, he said, he has talked by telephone or in person with governors, mayors, other public officials, union leaders, educators and religious groups, "getting a feel for where we can be most helpful" during the fall campaign.

The traffic in and out of his office has been so heavy, and so much has been said that, he said jokingly, "we've got to get a new rug. It's worn out. Maybe a new ear, too."

CAB okays 2 per cent boost for domestic airline fares

WASHINGTON — The Civil Aeronautics Board Tuesday approved a 2 per cent increase in domestic air fares effective Sept. 15.

In a 3-2 decision, the CAB brushed aside a complaint filed against the proposed increase by the National Passenger Traffic Association which pointed out that the carriers already had been granted cumulative increases totaling 8 per cent since last November.

The NPTA, a group of professional business travel managers representing 300 business firms, argued that continued air traffic growth and stabilized fuel prices have had a beneficial impact on airline earnings which should be assessed by the board in evaluating the carriers' proposal to raise fares again.

The carriers had cited continuing inflation as one justification for the fare hike. American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines both suggested that the brief respite from rising fuel costs would not continue.

In addition, the carriers contended that the 2 per cent increase appeared justified under the board's rate-making return-on-investment methodology.

The majority of the five-member board agreed. The board said without the fare hike the airlines' estimated return on investment would only be 10.2 per cent, whereas the board adheres to a 12 per cent return-on-investment standard in its rate-making. The new increase approved would allow the industry to achieve a 12.1 per cent return on investment as of Sept. 15, the board said.

CAB members G. Joseph Minetti and Lee R. West dissented from the board decision, saying they would rather suspend and investigate the proposed higher fares. "We view the 12 per cent return on investment standard ...as a ceiling which is not to be bent or compromised," they said. "We cannot approve an increase which will result in an adjusted regulatory ROI of 12.1 per cent."

The 2 per cent increase applies to scheduled flights within the 48 contiguous states, and is expected to add $85 million to the trunk airlines' annual income.

High court to consider act's constitutionality

WASHINGTON (AP) — Around noon on Jan. 12, 1972, the steep walls of a seven-foot deep trench at a construction site in West Virginia gave way after being weakened by rain the night before. Laborer Fred Deal was crushed to death.

In another incident, Johnny Boseman, a temporary employe of a Georgia roofing company, fell through a three-foot-square hole in an unfinished warehouse roof at 9 a.m. on June 6, 1972, and was killed.

Lawsuits arising from the deaths of these two workmen have brought before the Supreme Court a test of the power of federal agencies to fine employers without a jury trial.

At issue is the constitutionality of the Occupational Safety and Health Act. More than $20 million in penalties for unsafe working conditions have been levied since that law was passed in 1971.

Some businessmen opposed to OSHA say the implications of the cases could be more far-reaching than that because that law has been suggested as a model for other regulatory agencies.

The cases will be heard in the Supreme Court term beginning Oct. 4.

A conference on federal administrative law recommended in 1972 that federal agencies streamline their enforcement powers by more use of civil fines as an alternative to such steps as license revocation.

The attack on OSHA is based on the Seventh Amendment to the Constitution which guarantees trial by jury in "suits at common law."

The appeals courts in the third and fifth circuits held against the employers of Boseman and Deal, ruling that the penalties are part of an administrative scheme designed to insure compliance with safety regulations, not "suits at common law."

The appeals courts cited a 1937 Supreme Court decision upholding the power of the National Labor Relations Board to enforce back-pay awards. In that decision, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes said jury trials were not required in such proceedings because those proceedings were "unknown to the common law."

In the cases now before the court, the two employers, backed by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, argue that the OSHA fines are not at all like an award of back pay to an employe but are "simply civil penalties" payable to the government. They maintain that the proceedings to enforce them are, in effect, lawsuits and that the firms should have the right to demand a trial by jury.

They also argue that the issues in the cases are the kind of issues juries traditionally decide.

Jury bias charged as Harris trial ends

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The William and Emily Harris trial has ended in a storm of confusion and accusations with the legal after shocks likely to reopen the long proceedings.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler denied three mistrial motions during two unusual post-verdict hearings Tuesday and let stand the Harrises' conviction on kidnaping and robbery charges. The hearings had been called to investigate charges that the verdict was tainted by bias against the Harrises.

Chief defense attorney Leonard Weinglass, stunned by contradictions revealed in the postverdict hearings, said of the trial's bizarre twists: "I don't think they're over."

"... I have a suspicion we're all going to be back here before Aug. 30," he said. That is the Harrises' sentencing date.

Weinglass spoke after he and other attorneys were hastily summoned back to court late Tuesday to hear two alternate jurors say their testimony earlier in the day about alleged juror misconduct was wrong.

Their reversals left unresolved the question of who had fashioned a rope "hangman's noose" in a jury room during jury selection.

"Maybe more information will be developed," said Weinglass.

"THINKING" with ODOM
PHILIPPIANS 4:8

In the very beginning God set a universal law into motion. That law was and is, "everything produces after its own kind,"(Gen. 1:11,12) The apostle Paul put it this way: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."(Gal. 6:7) You do not sow one kind of a seed and hope to reap another kind of harvest. Should you sow watermelons you are not disappointed if you don't reap tomatoes.

The same principle applies in the field of religion. If the pure word of God is sown (Lk. 8:11), what would you expect to reap? Different kinds of Christians? Can you reap a Catholic Christian, and various kinds of Protestant Christians, as a result of obeying one gospel? Has God sent one man to affirm something that he has sent another man to deny? This ,of course, would have to be so if we could sow one thing and reap different kinds of fruits in religion.

Reader friend, the truth about the matter is simply this: in the first century the gospel was preached, and through obedience to that gospel people became the same thing. Every responsible person who obeyed the gospel became a Christian. Not this kind or that kind of a Christian. Just a Christian.

Now, what does it mean to obey the gospel? In Matthew 7:21 Jesus answers the question: "Not every one that saith unto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Note with care the expression, "DOETH THE WILL OF MY FATHER." That is plain and simple, is it not? Whatever the Lord has commanded that we must of necessity do if we are to be pleasing in His sight.

What has the Lord required of sinful man? To the Bible for the answer! When the Saviour gave the Great Commission to His apostles, He instructed them to go into all of the world and preach the gospel to every creature, declaring, "He that believeth (the gospel that is) and is baptized shall be saved, but he that believeth not (the gospel) shall be condemned." (Mk. 16:16) Why on earth anyone would quibble about that command is beyond me but some do. Quibble about it if you will-- but when you do, you do so to your own destruction. Think about it!

14 per cent school tax increase approved by Midland trustees

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

The Midland school board Tuesday tentatively approved a 14 per cent tax increase and voted to pay health insurance premiums for school district employees.

The tax hike will boost payments 20 cents per $100 of assessed value of real property on 75 per cent of market value.

Of the 20-cent increase, 12.43 cents would be required for the maintenance and operation budget as originally proposed by the administrative staff.

Board president Joe Dominey said after the meeting the increase was caused by inflation and a decreased percentage of the budget provided by state funds this year.

Another 4.15 cents of the increase is required to cover the $255,735 cost from local funds of the health insurance package approved Tuesday.

Debt service will require an additional 2.74-cent increase.

The total amount of those increases would be 19.32 cents. Board members agreed, however, to insert a 20-cent increase into the budget to allow for possible expenses connected with desegregation plans and to rebuild surplus funds.

One cent of the tax rate equals $61,618 in revenue, district business manager Don Furgeson said.

The current tax rate is $1.425 per $100 of assessed value of real property, with assessment based on 75 per cent of market value. The proposed $1.625 rate would mean an increase of $45 for a $30,000 home, bringing the total tax for that home to $365.63.

Trustees set a special meeting for a public hearing and actual adoption of the budget for Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

The amount of the tax increase is based on updated information on anticipated tax revenues presented by Furgeson Tuesday.

The originally proposed budget totaled $19,607,979. With the insurance program the budget will total $19,863,714. Last year's budget as approved totaled $18,066,642.

Furgeson presented the trustees with an amended budget total of $23,011,610. He said almost all of the additional amount is the cost of air-conditioning schools. The additional revenue was supplied by sale of bonds.

The insurance proposal added to the budget Tuesday will provide Blue Cross health insurance benefits for all of the district's 1,407 employees at a cost of $18.58 per month (for a 12-month year).

Premiums for the 260 employees working in cafeterias or federal programs will not come from the maintenance and operations budget, however.

The motion to approve the plan made clear, however, that continuation of the same coverage next year if premium costs increase is subject to review.

Several trustees expressed reluctance to bind the school district to increased cost of insurance in future years.

"It would be more palatable to me if we could set a dollar amount to contribute to employee health care," trustee Ed Runyan said.

The plan adopted includes a $100 deductible provision. Trustees discussed the possibility of increasing the deductible amount in next year's policy in order to keep the cost the same if there is an increase in premiums.

"I would want the teachers to understand that next year the deductible may not be $100," trustee Johnny Warren said.

Bob Watkins, spokesman for the Teacher Welfare Committee which first proposed the plan, presented results of a survey of 397 professional employees (46 per cent of the total professional staff).

Twenty five per cent of those surveyed do not carry the current group plan because they are covered by spouses' insurance policies. Another 11 per cent do not carry the plan because it is too expensive and-or provides poor coverage.

An overwhelming 91 per cent favored the school district paying the cost of health coverage.

The present system requires the employee to pay the premiums and is voluntary. Only 43.6 per cent of the district's employees carry the coverage.

In proposing the plan, Watkins said the low percentage of employees enrolled in the plan makes the cost too high for inadequate coverage.

Current premiums for employes only are $17.64, but the plan approved Tuesday provides expanded coverage.

Watkins said many of those professional employees covered by spouses' insurance policies said they would benefit from the coverage because they presently have to pay for their coverage even if their spouses' premiums are paid by their employers.

Trustees had expressed doubts in previous discussion of the proposal that all employees would not benefit from this type of compensation because many were covered by spouses' policies.

Dominey said the coverage is "worth more than the approximately $223 we'll spend" per year per employee because the benefit is not taxed.

"It was a benefit that are employees are entitled to," he said. It is "standard in private industry," he said.

Dominey praised the work of the committee which compiled the information about a number of different plans available.

In other discussion, schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey told the board air conditioning will not be finished before the beginning of classes in any of the schools.

Mailey said he originally believed the junior high and freshman schools would be completed by the start of school, but delay in receiving equipment will push the date back. Arrangements have been made for work to continue in some schools after the beginning of classes and a number of schools should be air-conditioned by the middle of September, Mailey said.

In other action, the board tabled a proposal to hire an additional assistant principal at Lee High School. The new position would be part of a pilot program to team counselors and assistant principals, Mailey said elementary schools and include the sixth grade in the junior high school system. The board presented that plan under protest and has pledged to appeal any order to implement that plan. It was submitted to comply with the order to present plans involving all five schools listed in the court order.

Trustees also met in executive session to discuss "a personnel matter" and to meet with their attorney to discuss the desegregation case.

Warren expressed pleasure with the "approval" by a predominantly Negro group, led by Dr. Viola Coleman, of plan C-1, but Dr. Coleman quickly said the group's position was to accept, not to approve, the plan.

They agreed only "that they can live with" C-1, Dr. Coleman said. "We also made it very clear to any group or individual who felt strongly enough that we would encourage them to intervene," she said.

Plan C-1 would cluster the fifth and sixth grades of Washington, Travis and South elementary schools at Bunche Elementary School, which now serves as the Travis annex.

Approximately 130 pupils would travel by bus from South and Travis to Bunche.

Dr. Coleman expressed her opposition to one-way busing, a feature of a 1971 school board plan which prompted her and a committee of intervenors to oppose it in court.

One-way busing, to minorities, is a "subtle way of saying our community isn't good enough," she said.

Ciro Sanchez spoke against one-way busing in the C-2 plan which would reassign De Zavala fifth and sixth graders to Bowie and Houston elementary schools.

He criticized the board for not consulting minority groups in formulating its plans.

Sanchez expressed support for neighborhood schools.

Warren said one reason for the one-way busing aspects of plan C-2 was the need to keep the bilingual program intact at De Zavala and not dilute it.

Another reason, Dominey said, was the need to minimize busing. Also, he said, De Zavala is smaller than the other schools involved in the plan.

Warren said imput from the community had been received. After the discussion he explained the imput had been obtained informally by board members as individuals.

He said he would be willing to talk informally as an individual with persons who want to discuss the plans.

Runyan said it is too early to discuss alterations of current plans because "we're in a ball game and we don't know the rules." He said the board does not know how many schools or how many grades ultimately will have to be included in any plan ordered by the court.

Days to continue hot through Thursday

Nothing new can be said for the weather forecast of the Permian Basin, because all that can be expected is more of the same — hot and dry at least through Thursday, the National Weather Service said.

Tuesday's high was another hot 97 degrees with the low dipping to 68 degrees.

Andrews, Lamesa, Crane and Stanton all reported clear skies, warm temperatures and calm Winds this morning with one station saying, "It's going to be another scorcher."

Midland, Odessa, Rankin, Big Lake and Garden City also reported warm temperatures, clear skies and calm winds.

The forecast for the Permian Basin calls for fair through Thursday with no important temperature changes. Low tonight will be in the upper 60s with the high Thursday in the middle 90s. Winds will be from the south-southwest decreasing to 5 to 10 mph tonight.

A new cool front eased into the Texas Panhandle today without causing much of a ripple in the state's August heat wave, the Associated Press said.

Occasional showers fell in the Panhandle and near the west edge of the Trans Pecos region in West Texas. Except for overcast skies in those areas and a few scattered clouds in Southwest Texas, it was clear over broad areas.

Forecasts sounded like a broken record: Sunny and hot. Chances were seen for isolated showers along the West Texas-New Mexico border. Official observers expected the frontal system to move a little toward the southeast.

Tuesday's top temperatures hit 100 degrees at Alice, Cotulla, Junction and Wink, 101 at Abilene, 102 at Mineral Wells and Waco, 103 at Presidio and 107 at Wichita Falls.

City pools to close

The Midland Parks and Recreation Department has announced the closing of its four swimming pools, Edwin Nixon, pool supervisor, said today. Hogan swimming pool will be closed immediately and Washington and Ulmer pools will close Sunday. Alamo pool will remain open through Aug. 29.

Two receive jail sentences

Two men were sentenced to terms in the Texas Department of Corrections while another man received a five-year probated sentence during action in 142nd District Court early today.

All three men pleaded guilty to charges of felony theft of property valued over $200.

David Harkins, 20, of 4300 Roosevelt St. was sentenced to two years confinement in connection with a theft that occurred here on July 11.

Tommy Lynn Rodgers, 18, of Electra was given five years probation in connection with the theft of a vehicle that occurred here on July 28.

Charles Ray Staggs, 21, of Del Valle was sentenced to two years confinement in connection with a vehicle theft that occurred here May 25.

All three men were sentenced by 142nd District Judge Perry D. Pickett.

Four persons arrested after two burglaries

Four persons were in custody early today at the Midland city jail awaiting charges and bond in connection with two burglaries last night.

Police said the first of the burglaries took place at Midland Memorial Hospital shortly before midnight. Two suspects, one a 19-year-old man and the other a 16-year-old juvenile, were apprehended by authorities as they attempted to run from the hospital, police said.

Recovered from the burglary were two bottles of nitrous oxide. Police said the bottles were apparently taken from the basement freight receiving area at the hospital.

The second burglary took place shortly after midnight when the alarm sounded at the Howard-McCarroll Lumber Co., 3105 Bankhead Highway.

Police surrounded the building after locating a window broken out on the side of the building, investigators said. Two men, one age 28 and the other age 31, were apprehended inside the lumber company building.

Police said two trained dogs held the men at bay while the arrest were made.

AUTO DAMAGED

A 1974 model auto owned by Roosevelt Stevenson of Odessa suffered heavy damage under the hood from a fire extinguished firemen here at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

The fire occured in the 1600 block of Fast Highway 80. Firemen said the cause of the blaze was unknown.

Four grass and trash fires were extinguished by Midland firemen Monday. First of the fires was a pasture a half mile east of County Road 110 beside FM 1213. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

A trash container fire was exinguished in the 1000 block of East Hamby Street.

Another grass blaze was extinguished six miles west of U.S. Highway 80. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Firemen extinguished a burning mattress in a vacant lot in the 1100 block of South Loraine Street.

Justice rejects all school plans

The court earlier had ordered the Justice Department also to submit alternative plans if the school district's plans were not acceptable to the department.

However, no alternative plan was submitted for all five schools, pending resolution of the issue of the school district's alleged legal duty to desegregate the three schools in question.

The plan presented by the school district, J-1, was submitted "under protest." It would create a series of junior high annexes to desegregate sixth grades.

Regarding Washington and De Zavala, the department suggested that grades one through six be desegregated. "A three-way pairing arrangement with each school having two grades" was suggested by the Justice Department for De Zavala, Bowie and Houston.

"Washington should be clustered with the overwhelming Anglo schools in West Midland, rather than the naturally integrated schools of South and Travis," the Justice Department suggests.

The department suggested the school district may want to consider "the creation of a magnet school at one of the minority schools."

Also suggested for consideration was "the creation of a one-grade or two-grade center at the minority schools which could serve students from several predominantly Anglo neighborhoods as well as the minority neighborhoods."

An advantage cited for this type of plan "is that it can result in a more systemwide involvement of the school district in the desegregation plan."

The next step in the proceedings of the case will be determined by the federal court.

Midland girl elected to state 4-H office

AUSTIN — Vicky Calhoun of Midland was elected public relations representative of the State 4-H Council during the Texas 4-H Congress in Austin.

Miss Calhoun, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rayford Calhoun of Route 3. She is a senior at Midland High School and has been in 4-H activities seven years.

More than 600 4-H members attended the 1976 Congress. They divided into groups to draft five bills relating to youth issues and education, and discussed and voted on the bills.

The bills were presented to Reagan Brown and Nolan Ward, two assistants to the governor, who in turn presented the bills to Gov. Dolph Briscoe for his comments.

Miss Calhoun and the four other state officers will serve until the 1977 Texas 4-H Congress in Corpus Christi.

Research on nettles has multi-faceted goals

By NORMAN BLACK

BALTIMORE (AP) — One University of Maryland researcher's outlook for sea nettles this year is good. That's bad for humans. But another researcher's outlook is also good, and that might some day save lives.

The two researchers are David G. Cargo, a 51-year-old associate with the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory, and Dr. Joseph W. Burnett, a specialist in dermatology with the University of Maryland School of Medicine.

Their work, which continues despite an ever-present lack of funds, involves a three-pronged scientific attack on what to most people is nothing but a nuisance.

The poisonous sea nettle has caused problems for residents of the Chesapeake Bay area at least since colonial times. They sting swimmers, water skiers and watermen, clog boat engines and factory pumps, and work their slimy way into fishing nets and crab pots. And Cargo, who is responsible for monitoring the jelly-like, tentacled creatures, thinks the temperature and salinity of the bay this summer will bring the nettles out in force.

A bumper crop of nettles can mean millions of dollars a day in lost revenue to Maryland and Virginia resorts and watermen, so Cargo's prediction will not make many people happy.

But when Burnett predicts "an antivenom, topical agent and theoretically, control" of nettles, the outlook brightens.

Each sea nettle has a bloblike top, six or seven inches in diameter, and about 50 tentacles ranging from four to six feet long. In those tentacles the nettle stores its sting.

Burnett and others are convinced that when a nettle comes in contact with a human, it fires a tiny dart at great speed with a small dose of one of many toxins.

"Man is an inadvertent victim," Burnett says, "so the question becomes, 'Is it possible to change man's response?'"

After seven years of studying the nettle's anatomy, Burnett thinks the answer is yes. His work is now at the stage of extracting and refining the nettle's toxin for injection into test animals and the subsequent production of antibodies.

While there is no documented evidence that the sting of a nettle has ever proven fatal, Burnett's research could some day prove life saving on two fronts.

First, the sea nettle is related to the sea wasp, a rare animal found off the shores of Australia that kills two or more people every year. Outside Maryland, the only research comparable to that of Burnett's is being conducted by Australians.

Secondly, in working with the nettle toxin, Burnett and another researcher found it had much the same effect on a dog's heart as digitalis, a drug given humans suffering from congestive heart failure.

"We found it had an effect on the transport of calcium, which is needed for nerve and muscle transport in the heart," Burnett explained. "It definitely affects calcium transport, much like digitalis. While I can't say now exactly where that will lead us, it's got to be an important discovery."

Burnett does not set a timetable for development of a vaccine or toxoid, nor does he foresee a mass immunization program once it is developed.

"We might help solve the problem of bay watermen, or divers in Florida or the Australians with a vaccine," he said. "But there's no reason why we couldn't come up with some topical agent, or ointment, to be applied after a person is stung.

"We know now that we're not just going to get rid of the nettle," Burnett added. "The third part of our program is the possibility of using jet streams of water or other methods to keep them away from swimmers.

"And it could be just a matter of delaying their life cycle — six weeks would do it for bay swimmers. But I can theoretically see control."

Dallas police say dead man placed in jail by 'by mistake'

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas probation officer said it was "our mistake" when they jailed a man who authorities said was beaten and stabbed to death two hours after he was placed in the Dallas County jail.

"We regret that the boy lost his life and feel to some degree responsible," Dallas County Adult Probation Officer Waylan D. Vernon said Tuesday.

Government of Bangladesh remains unstable

The Los Angeles Times

DACCA, Bangladesh — The tumultuous politics of this hapless country, which has had four governments in less than a year, are still filled with intrigue and uncertainty.

The military triumvirate in power since last Nov. 7 is working hard to keep the 4½ year-old nation intact, and the regime is well regarded by major foreign aid donors whose massive assistance is keeping Bangladesh afloat.

But there are gaping cracks in the martial law administration, especially in its ability to keep the highly politicized army under control and, beyond that, to maintain civil order in this volatile nation where political violence is the rule rather than the exception. Two events July 17 reflect the dilemma:

—There was a mutiny at the military camp at Bogra, 100 miles northwest of the capital. About 100 men were arrested during the day-long rebellion. It was not reported in the Bangladesh press.

—In Dacca the same day, a special military tribunal, which deliberated in secret, sentenced to death Col. Abu Taher, a prominent officer in the 1971 liberation war. Taher had commanded the military arm of the left-wing Socialist Party, the Jatyo Samajtrantrikk Dal (JSD).

It was the JSD that helped the present military junta come to power last November, but the factions subsequently split. Reportedly the JSD was too "leftist" or "revolutionary" for the present administration. Taher and other JSD leaders were charged with subversion.

With the verdict expected, the government put off by two weeks the opening of Dacca University. The JSD is popular with students, and the government wanted to forestall demonstrations.

Once the verdict was handed down and made public — a headline in the government-controlled Bangladesh Times said, "They planned to capture power through violence" — the diplomatic community here was told the government could not guarantee the safety of foreign officials traveling in the countryside.

The JSD had reportedly threatened to kidnap diplomats. Security for a number of foreign missions, already substantial, was enhanced.

Along with intrigues of the military, past and present, the prospect of resumed political activity and elections next year raises the specter of even more upheaval in a country whose entire life has been violent.

The dominant figure in the government today is neither a politician nor a civil servant. He is a soldier, who became a national hero when he organized the Bangladesh Liberation Army and who was the first to proclaim independence from Pakistan.

Maj. Gen. Ziaur Rahman, 40, known as Zia, is one of three deputy chief martial law administrators. The others head the navy and air force. Former Supreme Court Justice A.M. Sayem is the figurehead president.

Zia is unquestionably the strong man in the government. His words and actions are carefully watched and evaluated by diplomats here.

Those who know Zia describe him as a slight, handsome man with a well-trimmed moustache. He often wears a uniform and dark glasses in his many public appearances. His voice is deep, and he is a methodical speaker. He is said to relax in private social meetings, where he often wears "very smart" civilian clothes.

Diplomats generally give Zia high marks. He is considered a patriot, an honest man who has surrounded himself with good people, a leader whose judgment is good and who has brought some measure of stability to the nation.

The government he took over was practically a shambles. Even in the days of the two Pakistans, the east was something of a stepchild. After independence, the government suffered from excesses of political patronage and corruption even by South Asian standards. What is now Bangladesh has little in the way of resources, either economic or administrative.

If the country had only its economic problems to deal with, that would be a grave enough challenge, but the political ravages that have characterized this nation since independence have left many open wounds.

A political system or structure, in the traditional sense, simply does not exist.

Independent Taiwan

It would be healthy if Peking, Taipei and Washington recognized the reality of an independent Taiwan.

Instead, Communist China insists, as it did in the 1972 Shanghai Communique, that Taiwan is a province of China.

And Taipei agrees, holding that the government of Taiwan is the sole legal government of mainland China, which it intends to reconquer.

Washington is left with one foot on land and one foot at sea, an impossible position, based on the fiction of two Chinas, or perhaps one and one-half Chinas.

This causes problems, like the controversy over the participation of Taiwan in the Olympic games under the name of the Republic of China.

A far more serious problem is the obstacle placed in the path of full normalization of diplomatic relations between the United States and the People's Republic of China.

This must be a major foreign policy goal for the American president elected in November. Peking has made it clear that diplomatic recognition is a necessary precondition for wholly normal and sustained trade relations.

The strategic as well as the economic interests of the United States dictate further major improvements in U.S.-Chinese relations, to strengthen our hands in dealing with the Russians.

But we cannot and will not abandon Taiwan to the Communists. Our longtime alliance with the Nationalist Chinese remains in force. The American people will honor the commitment.

At the same time it is unrealistic for the Chinese Nationalist leaders in Taipei to insist that they are the legitimate government of the mainland. That contention can cause much trouble.

We would be better off all around to drop the Oriental face-saving fiction and face the fact of an independent Taiwan.

Our livable planet

The clarity of the pictures from Mars is amazing. But what do they show?

A cheerless, forbidding mineral environment, more like the moon than the earth. If life is present there, it must be a rudimentary form.

The first lesson from Mars is like that from the moon — how uniquely hospitable is our own planet.

The imagination of fiction writers has peopled these celestial bodies with all kinds of interesting creatures. But in fact after traversing vast distances, we find — nothing, landscapes more barren than any on earth.

It is worth doing, even though the cost is high. But whether it will continue to be worth doing, whether these space voyages of discovery will be worth following up by many more explorations, that remains to be seen. It depends upon what useful information can be developed.

The warehouse of moon rocks at Houston is a priceless collection. But would anyone suggest that it would be worthwhile to duplicate it?

One series of manned landings on the moon may very well be enough — at least for the time being.

A few instrument landings on Mars may be enough — at least for this century.

Man will keep on reaching out, sending probes farther and farther into the remote places, until the secrets of the entire solar system are discovered.

But if those secrets turn out to be as uninviting as the moon and Mars, there will be little incentive to attempt the colonization of the other planets.

And beyond, the distances are so unimaginably great to the nearest planets in other systems in our galaxy, it may be thousands of years before they are traversed.

Meanwhile, the great achievements of this generation of men will have to be conceived and accomplished here on the surface of this earth.

Mark Russell says

INSIDE REPORT:

Impasse signaled on troubled new tank

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

WASHINGTON — The refusal of Rep. Sam Stratton of New York, a Democratic power on military affairs, to breakfast privately with Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld recently sounded an alarm from here to Bonn signaling a dangerous impasse on production of a new battle tank for the U.S. and NATO.

"Rummy wanted to romance Sam," a Stratton intimate told us, "and Sam isn't in the mood."

Stratton's grim mood assures bitter political warfare — with legal and international overtones — over the long new delay ordered by Rumsfeld in production of the army's XM-1 battle tank.

Rumsfeld's delay, publicly and angrily resisted by Stratton and other military experts on the House Armed Services Committee (and privately by many officials in the Army itself), reopens specifications for the new tank in an effort to assure standardization or interchangeability of key parts — tracks, fuel, night vision technology, telescope and main gun — with a new West German tank called the Leopard II.

Thus, it once again puts off the long-delayed decision on a new battle tank to replace the aging M-60, America's main battle tank first produced 16 years ago. That delay, imposed on the Army by Rumsfeld, raises new questions about the capabilities of American arms vs. Soviet arms. Moving dangerously ahead of the U.S. in both surface and sub-surface naval vessels, the Soviets also have an immense superiority over the U.S. in battle tanks (estimated by the Library of Congress at 30,000 Warsaw Pact tanks to a mere 9,000 NATO tanks in the Central European sector alone).

Rumsfeld, a former American ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, is understandably committed to maximum joint development of NATO arms by the U.S. and its European allies. It was that commitment, certainly no desire within the Army, that compelled Army Secretary Martin R. Hoffman to announce a minimum four-month delay in awarding final production contract for the new tank.

Hoffman's explanation: the two competitors for the U.S. contract, Chrysler and General Motors, would have to come up with new "additional, alternative proposals" for assuring maximum interchangeability with the German Leopard, after which the army will decide whether to choose Chrysler's XM-1, GM's XM-1, the German Leopard II or a hybrid of all three as its new tank.

The political problem with this stunningly unexpected decision is that House Democratic leaders view it as directly violating the will of Congress, reached last fall after major disagreement between the House and the Senate Armed Services Committees. The House position won, directing the administration to choose either GM or Chrysler by July 1976 and to go ahead full speed on final engineering work and assembly line production.

All that went down the drain with the Rumsfeld-imposed decision to seek major changes in XM-1 specifications from the two U.S. bidders — and from the German Leopard II, which is behind the XM-1 in development — to achieve maximum standardization.

What is so deeply troubling about Rumsfeld's decision ("Rummy's gamble," according to critics) is this: while a "standardized" tank is obviously a worthy goal, recent history shows it to be beyond reach with so complex a weapon as a battle tank.

That raises the real danger that instead of a four-month delay (the shortest conceivable), the actual delay in starting full-scale production of the new tank will be closer to a year — or even more.

That is Stratton's nightmare and it mirrors the private view of Army tank experts, some of whom have threatened to quit in anger. As Rep. Mel Price of Illinois, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, told us: "We've been fighting a long time for a modern tank and this means one more delay of unpredictable duration. It could be critical."

Yet, Rumsfeld never checked with House leaders before his decision. Totally committed to standardization from his NATO days, Rumsfeld was dealing quietly with German Defense Minister Georg Leber in June as the July deadline for awarding the contract to GM or Chrysler approached. Then he ordered Undersecretary of the Army Norman Augustine to Bonn late last month to sign the memorandum of understanding with Leber committing the two countries to the radically different approach.

In the background are dismal failures to develop a common U.S.-German tank. More pressing is the immediate future. The House may deny Rumsfeld the several hundred million dollars needed for the new standardization-interchangeability studies.

Such political warfare is precisely what may now be expected in the wake of Rumsfeld's decision. Accordingly, no matter how worthy his motive, Rumsfeld may rue his failure to consult with the House before making his decision, a decision that embroils the new U.S. battle tank in political warfare at home and an uncertain future abroad.

WASHINGTON MERRY—GO—ROUND

Russia's evaporating labor pool

By JACK ANDERSON with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Barring unforeseen improvements, the Soviet Union is heading for a manpower crisis, which may force the Kremlin to relax its communist discipline and offer the workers more capitalistic incentives.

This is the conclusion of America's top Soviet manpower expert, Dr. Murray Feshbach, who has just completed one of the most important demographic studies ever done on the Soviet Union.

According to Dr. Feshbach's calculations, Russia can expect a critical manpower shortage by 1983. There is statistical irony in the year. It comes the year before "1984," the time and title of George Orwell's famous satire. Orwell described a Stalinesque police state, whose citizens couldn't make a move without government sanction.

But if Dr. Feshbach's confidential study is correct, the Russian people may be able to loosen the Orwellian grip and gain more freedom in 1983. This is what it may take to overcome the manpower shortage and stimulate productivity.

Dr. Feshbach has based his conclusions on a painstaking study of Soviet census figures and other obscure documents. The study was commissioned by the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, which will make it public in late September. It was co-authored by Dr. Feshbach and Steven Rapawy.

The Soviet population trends indicate that the population is aging and that there aren't enough young people to pick up the work tools. The European Russians, who have produced most of the skilled workers in the past, are also falling behind the Central Asian minorities in population growth.

The minority races, according to Feshbach, also resist leaving home to work in distant factories and fields. Nor do they want to go to the Chinese border to build up the population for a confrontation with the Chinese.

The 4.5 million-man Soviet army draws off the youth, who need to be trained to fill the middle-level jobs. The housing shortage, with husbands and wives cooped in tiny apartments, has also discouraged women from having babies.

To maintain an adequate work force, each family must produce at least 2.2 children. Soviet families have dropped below this figure in some parts of European Russia.

Many Russian women, accustomed to working, don't want more children. Even the "pro-natal" steps now being taken won't produce working-aged children until well into the 1990s.

The manpower crunch will probably hit the farms first, where productivity already has fallen so low that the Soviets must import food to feed the 256 million population.

In short, the Soviet Union won't have the mass workers needed to meet production demands, and a reverse "1984" may hit the country by 1983.

BISHOP'S CHALLENGE: In dictatorships around the world, the clergy have defended the downtrodden and the persecuted. Catholic priests and Protestant ministers alike have risked their lives to bring us evidence of torture in such countries as Brazil, Chile, Cuba, India and Iran.

Now many of the 81 Catholic bishops in the Philippines, meeting secretly, have drafted a manifesto condemning the suppression of human rights by President Ferdinand Marcos. A copy has been smuggled to us.

Marcos and his wife, Imedla, have courted the Roman Catholic Church, which has a religious hold on 83 per cent of the Philippines' 40 million people. The Marcoses have had some success in placating the conservative Cardinal Jaime Sin.

But now most of his bishops have taken a courageous stand against the abuses they have witnessed. They have denounced the heavy superstructure of secret police, informers and corrupt generals, which Marcos has imposed upon the country.

He has centralized political power and put "the whole nation under the control of one man," the biships declare. Yet the official corruption he promised to eradicate "goes on unabated." It is accompanied, they say by "violence and terrorizing, too, since the military are the only people licensed to carry arms."

The bishops tell of torture in Marcos' stockades. Political suspects have "practically no rights," the manifesto alleges, "(and) arbitrary arrests are matched by arbitrary detentions." Prisoners are held for months without charges.

The press is "sycophantic" and the populace is docile, the bishops report. "We are fast becoming a nation of sheep," they lament.

The manifesto also alleges that "camps for youths, 18 years and under, have been started" in three cities. Others reportedly are in the planning stage. "The regimen in those camps," say the bishops, is "reminiscent of Hitler's Youth Movement of the '30s and the Red Guards of China."

The prelates describe "systematic indoctrination" in the camps, "bordering on brainwashing and leading to an undisguised personality cult of President Marcos."

The stirring manifesto, completed on the Philippines' Independence Day, June 12, is divided into 37 sections dealing with every facet of Philippine life: family, youth, laborers, farmers, political prisoners, students, even aliens and squatters.

The churchmen charge that labor leaders, for example, "languish in jail to be released only at the pleasure of the government for as long as the 'State of Emergency' lasts." The right to strike has also been suppressed "in flagrant violation" of free labor principles.

The bishops call for discussions "in peaceful and orderly way." But they urge in ringing language: "Let the people be heard. Let the people decide."

Historic Savannah, Ga., shows way in restoration

By VIRGIL PINKLEY
Copley News Service

SAVANNAH, Ga. — The Bicentennial has reawakened the interest of Americans who live in this big, broad, beautiful land of ours.

We are looking anew at our traditions and the great diversity of climate, scenery, cities and countryside.

Savannah is typical of the new interest in restoration of buildings and perpetuation of our rich heritage.

Since the early 1950s, reconstruction of old, historic Savannah has been in progress. Some 1,100 buildings have been restored in 2.5 square miles of downtown Savannah.

A marvelous job has been done in rebuilding these structures and recapturing their original splendor.

Many of these architectural gems were built from 1750 to 1825. Savannah is the oldest city in Georgia and was founded in 1733, nearly 50 years before the Revolution.

When the city market was destroyed, seven women banded together to stop the further tearing down and defacing of Savannah's physical charm. Like many worthwhile movements it developed through the imagination and determination of these dedicated ladies, who brought into being the city's Historic Savannah Foundation. They were aided by Charles H. Morris, president of the Morris Newspapers which have their headquarters in this city.

Morris and his newspapers took over the Oliver Sturges House, next door to the parsonage used by the famous evangelist, John Wesley, founder of the Methodist church.

It is one of the most magnificent restorations carried out thus far and is accurate in every detail to the house which was built between 1812 and 1813. Morris says, "We decided to look for an historic building that might meet our corporate space needs and my interest in Savannah's past.

"Sturges House, located in the heart of the financial district, facing a charming square and listed in the National Register of Historic Places, provided the opportunity to do something for the community and to contribute to the revitalization of downtown Savannah."

So it was a classic example of aroused women and dedicated newspapers working together in behalf of progress and preservation of beauty.

Savannah is first in many respects. It was here that the oldest orphanage in the United States was established. In 1734, the first Jewish reform temple and community in the United States was founded. Here, too, is the birthplace of the original University of Georgia and the location of the first agricultural station in America.

It was in Savannah that Eli Whitney invented his cotton gin, which made cotton king and gave Savannah a position of power and wealth in our early history. Whitney came to Savannah from Connecticut to tutor, and while here created the technique for cleaning 10 times as much cotton per man as was possible previously.

The first Lutheran church in the United States was established in Savannah. It was in this city, too, that Woodrow Wilson was married.

Fortunately the city was spared during the Civil War. After Gen. Sherman and his forces burned Atlanta to the ground they carried out a scorched-earth policy 40 miles wide for 300 miles from Atlanta to the sea. When the Union general entered Savannah, however, he sent President Lincoln, as a Christmas gift, the reported surrender of the city, along with 150 guns and 25,000 bales of cotton.

The third oldest Chamber of Commerce functions in Savannah, and the city became the seventh oldest trade exchange in the nation.

The restoration programs, still in progress, are said to be the most successful and elaborate ever attempted in our nation.

The downtown area of Savannah has been designated by the National Park Service as a Registered National Landmark.

Savannahians are fiercely proud of their city and its Americana. What has been done here shows what could be accomplished elsewhere if we cared enough and if our patriotic pride knew no bounds.

DEAR ABBY

Male has runaway caboose

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male who needs your help with an embarrassing problem. It's my behind. It is enormous! I'm 5 foot 8 and weigh 180.

I work out three times a week at a health club and am in pretty good shape except for the abovementioned. I've tried every conceivable exercise and diet I've come across, but I can't seem to lose any of the flab back there.

It's just plain fat, Abby, and no amount of exercise can firm it up.

Someone told me that it can be removed by surgery. Is that so? I don't care if the operation is painful and leaves a scar. Anything would be better than hauling around this outsized caboose all my life. I'm not exaggerating; I look practically deformed. It's so bad I hate to go to the beach.

If this kind of operation can be done, who would do it?—A YARD OF LARD

DEAR YARD: A plastic surgeon. (But try to find one who doesn't mind getting a little behind in his business.)

DEAR ABBY: I live in an apartment building. Directly above me lives a woman and her 11-year-old son. He takes piano lessons and hates to practice, so her idea of the ideal punishment is to make him practice "extra time."

Lately he has been punished a lot, but I am being punished more. I have been hearing "The Blue Danube Waltz" in my sleep!

The mother is a music lover, and she's decided that her son is going to learn to love music if it kills him.

Please print this. I know my neighbor reads your column, because every time you knock smokers she cuts out the article and sticks it in my mailbox. (I smoke.)

Thanks a million.—HIGHLAND PARK HEADACHE

DEAR HEADACHE: If your neighbor wants her son to hate music, she's going about it in exactly the right way. Now, stick this in HER mailbox, and lotsa luck!

DEAR ABBY: Sunday evening at 8:45, my wife and I received a phone call from a couple who have been very dear friends of ours for many years. They asked us to please come right over for dinner because at the last minute, the couple whom they had invited couldn't make it.

Our friends live about an hour's drive from us. We weren't dressed and were all set for a quiet evening at home. Also, we need a babysitter and had made no plans for one.

My wife thought there was nothing wrong with their invitation, but I was amazed at their chutzpah.

Please understand that we have been their dinner guests many times, and I wasn't put out because we hadn't be invited initially. But to be called so late because, as they put it, "we have all this delicious food, which you would just love," was not a good enough reason for us to rush over there. We thanked them and declined.

How would you have responded to such an invitation?——ENCINO

DEAR ENCINO: The same way you did.

Group offers hope to poor in Rio slums

By MARY LENZ

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — She rises to go to work at her U.S.$30-a-month job as a maid or cook, sets a little bread and water on the floor and lays the baby down beside it. She shuts the shack door carefully, knowing she'll be home about 6 p.m. and the baby will be there waiting, as they say "if God wishes."

Sometimes, Methodist missionary couple Marion and Anita Way explained, there are older children to stay in the shack in Rio de Janeiro to watch over the baby. There may be a neighbor the baby can be left with.

But sometimes a child sets a shack on fire, or a baby crawls away unwatched and is injured or the newspapers report one more child's death from dehydration in the Brazilian heat.

Maybe this is why the Ways speak of the day care center first when asked to talk about the activities of the United Methodist Church-sponsored People's Central Institute here.

Besides its vocational, recreational and educational services, the institute provides day care for 30 babies. It is one of only four or five day care centers in this city of five million people, Way explained.

The People's Central Institute is celebrating its 70th year here. It serves as a school and community center for the people in Rio's oldest slum, Way said. Its homely brown buildings actually lie on the side of what was once called Favela Hill, which gave other "favelas" their distinctive name.

In Brazil, poverty can be so extreme it is not uncommon to see cripples crawling along the pavement, too poor to own crutches or braces.

Gabriel, a 15-year-old boy whose left arm and both legs are withered from birth defects, used to be one of them. "He had a little wooden platform on skate wheels," Way explained. "And he pushed himself around on it while his mother worked in a restaurant near here to support him. She couldn't send him to school."

Methodist Church members in the low-income neighborhood raised money for a wheelchair for Gabriel, and paid his way to the Institute's primary school, whose tuition ranges from almost nothing up to U.S.$10 per month.

"He's very bright and managed to make it through the first few years in one year," Way said, "Gabriel is now studying at the seventh grade level."

Students' families pay what they can for the school, with many students attending free on "scholarships." The minimum wage for Rio's workers is U.S.$76 per month and programs for poor people of the kind that the institute provides are so rare that Way and his wife Anita say it is difficult not to get discouraged.

"Materially, people here are much poorer than the poor people in the United States," Way said. "And the people we serve are just a drop in the bucket."

Living on the hill above the institute means carrying water in a bucket up to a shaek that often has only a dirt floor and no electricity. Sewage runs openly down the hillside.

The people of all religious denominations whom the institute serves work as maids, laundresses, ticket takers on buses or dock workers. Teen-age children have to work to support the family.

But despite the poverty and the area, 40 per cent of the institute's U.S.$90,000 budget is raised in the neighborhood itself.

Thirty per cent of the money is provided by Methodist churches in the United States and Germany and the Christian Children's Fund. Rio service organizations also contribute.

The institute's results can be seen in the lives of people like Iracy, who came for help nine years ago when her husband abandoned her and her three children.

She had no skills but "she learned to sew at the Mother's Club," Way said. "And she developed a method for measuring cloth by using string which she adapted for people who don't have the mathematics to take measurements otherwise. She is supporting herself and her children by giving classes here now."

This is why Way and his wife feel that in one sense people are better off in Rio's slums than in those of the United States.

"In the States they may have a car and electricity and plumbing," Way said, "but they have the feeling they can't get out."

Anita added, "Somebody here said that the slums of Rio are slums of hope because they aren't a dead end. The people here are looking for something better."

BETA PI CONCLAVE of Kappa Kappa Iota, national teachers' sorority, honored Mrs. Marjorie Morris, third from left, with a farewell party in the home of Mrs. Pat Southerland, left, of 2816 Stutz Drive, president of the organization. Hostesses were the sorority's other officers, including Mrs. Nancy Gill, left, and Mrs. Linda Sherman. Not shown are Mrs. Joy Cunningham, Mrs. Elwanda Culvahouse and Mrs. Jean Alvey. Mrs. Morris and her husband, Joseph, an employe of Mobil Oil Corp., are moving to Houston.

Janet Just, Hill marry at Idaho

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho — Janet R. Just of 307 N. Carrizo St., Midland, Tex., and Michael E. Hill of 110 Ridglea, Midland, were married during a double ring ceremony Monday in the Mormon church here, with Bishop Jay Cook officiating.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Just of Idaho Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Hill Jr. of Austin, Tex.

Bev. G. Durham of Salt Lake City, Utah was maid of honor. Matron of honor was Ann U. Just of Idaho Falls, sister-in-law of the bride. Bridesmatron was Suzie Brown of Midland and Jan C. Dean of Midland was bridesmaid.

Best man was Robert L. Brown of Midland. Groomsmen were Chuck Just, Jim Just, Joel Just and Nels Just, of Idaho Falls, all brothers of the bride.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length empire style gown of white. The dress was fashioned with sleeves with beaded cuffs and beaded stand-up collar. The attached chapel train and finger-tip veil beaded headpiece.

The bridal bouquet consisted of large white handmade silk flowers and small orange silk sweet-peas.

The reception was held in the garden at the home of the bride's parents. After a wedding trip to Salt City, Las Vegas, Nev., El Paso, Tex. and the Grand Canyon, the couple will reside at 110 E. Ridglea, Midland.

The bride, a graduate of Brigham Young University, is employed as an accountant for Exxon Co., U.S.A., Midland District. The bridegroom is a graduate of The University of Texas-Austin. He is chief designer and analyst for Electronic Systems and Development Co.

Mrs. Michael E. Hill

Courtesies reported

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Paschich of Albuquerque, N.M. hosted the rehearsal dinner prior to the marriage of their son, Robert Wristen Paschich to Amy Jill Darden Saturday in St. Mark's United Methodist Church. The dinner was held in the Devonian Room of the Midland Hilton.

The bridesmaids luncheon was given in the Garden Room of Midland Country Club. Hostesses were Mrs. J. Stewart Martin, Mrs. C. C. Hendricks, Mrs. Wendell Smith and Mrs. William Pendleton.

By ERICA WILSON

DEAR ERICA: In all of my 42 years of stitching, I've always used an embroidery hoop. Now my daughter tells me I've been using it improperly. All this time I've been putting the hoop on the cloth, then tightening the screw accordingly. She tells me all of the adjusting should be done beforehand—never while the hoop in on the material. Is she right?—Mrs. David Rusk, Darien, Conn.

DEAR MRS. RUSK: Daughters love to turn the tables and teach mothers, don't they? But yes, she's right; all of the hoop adjustment should be done before it is put on the linen.

To get your cloth truly taut (which is the only proper way to work on it), you may have to take the hoop off and put it on a few times before you get it just right.

Actually, yours is a simple habit to change, compared to others, which are practically impossible for stitchers to "unlearn."

DEAR MISS WILSON: My daughters and I have a problem. The needlepoint pictures we made seem to have warped and bulged even though they were stretched on a very strong cardboard and fastened with tape before they were framed. If we had used fabric adhesive, I don't think this would have happened. Any suggestions you can give will be appreciated.—Betty Berling, Bronx, N.Y.

DEAR MS. BERLING: Personally, I'm against using fabric adhesives and cardboard for mounting needlework. It's bound to buckle and bubble in time, due to the elements, and when you've put all that talent and time into your pieces, it makes sense to give it Tender Loving Care right up to—and including—the last step.

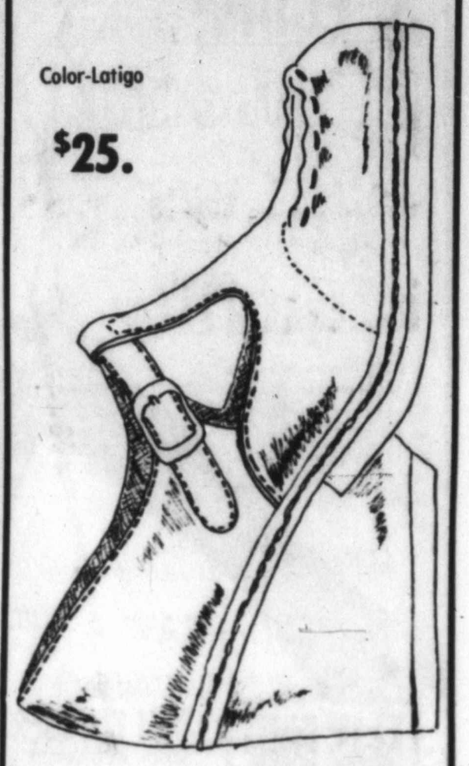

Buy inexpensive stretcher strips and staple your canvas around the frame with a heavy-duty stapler. Or use foam core board, which is lightweight and firmer than cardboard, and adhere your piece to it with masking tape.

Whether you use the stretcher strips or the board, first fasten down a layer of sheet, cotton or muslin for softness.

DEAR ERICA: Hope you can settle a bet with a friend. (The loser has to do an afternoon of babysitting while the other one goes shopping.) She says she read somewhere that you teach needlework on a ship. I told her she's crazy.— —Mrs. Charles DuMont, Riverside, Conn.

DEAR MRS. DUMONT: I'm not sure who's crazy, your friend or me, but you'd better prepare yourself for an afternoon of babysitting because it's true! During the week of Aug. 28 through Sept. 4, we're offering a "Stitching at Sea" cruise to Nassau and Bermuda on the luxury liner, the S.S. Rotterdam. It was my husband Vladimir's idea.

Legendary women: a state by state guide

By ELAINE SMYTH
Copley News Service

The only problem with "The American Woman's Gazetteer" is that it's habit-forming.

And a gazetteer isn't supposed to be, is it? The term suggests that section of almost any dictionary where one finds the correct spelling for Poughkeepsie or the exact location of the Ufa River. Then it's returned to the reference shelf.

Authors Lynn Sherr and Jurate Kazickas have not written a book for browsers.

What they have written is a fascinating book on America's women of achievement — and notoriety — from pre-Colonial times to the present.

"We have a couple of women in here that we really wish were never born, but we couldn't ignore them," said Kazickas during an interview.

"The emphasis is on noble role models."

The gazetteer is a state-by-state guide to more than 1,400 landmarks, monuments and noted places around the country where women made history, in one way or another, she added.

The book first takes the reader to Athens, Ala., the site of the Patty Malone grave in the South Hine Street Cemetery. Born a slave in 1853, the gifted contralto, encouraged by her "owners," was one of the famous Jubilee Singers who toured Europe and entertained many royal audiences.

The gazetteer concludes its guided tour in South Pass City, Wyo., at the home and office site of Esther Hobart Morris. Here, a fence-enclosed tablet acknowledges her as "the first woman justice of the peace" and coauthor of the first equal suffrage law. She received the appointment in February, 1870.

Among the ignoble included in the book are a few husband murderers, a sprinkling of prostitutes or plaques marking their former homes and, naturally, Lizzie Borden.

Readers and reporters alike who have long since wearied of "the first woman who" stories will still find a chuckle or two in some of the gazetter's "first women." There's the notation on Ruby City, Idaho, where the authors credit Joe Monahan, known as the best broncobuster in town, as being the first woman in Idaho to wear trousers.

Upon Joe's death, it was discovered that he was really a she, Johanna Monahan.

While traveling through the book's section on New York state, do stop at Niagara Falls where Annie Edson Taylor's "barrel" is preserved at the Niagara Falls Museum. The 43-year-old schoolteacher from Bay City, Mich., achieved brief fame as the first person to go over Horseshoe Falls in a barrel and survive.

Kazickas said she and Sherr first met while working as feature writers for ths Associated Press in New York City Kazickas, now a free-lance writer and photographer, also served as a volunteer schoolteacher in Kenya, Africa.

The two also are coauthors of "The Liberated Woman's Appointment Calendar," published annually.

Why a gazetteer on American women?..

"In the course of researching the calendar, the realization struck us that there was no guide for finding the only seven statues of women among the hundreds of men in Statuary Hall in Washington, D.C.," Kazickas said.

"We felt there was some kind of need for this. And all other travel guides sort of steer you toward places that commemorate men: this is where George Washington slept; this is where Daniel Boone killed the bear; and everybody who was anybody has his log cabin birthplace listed."

Publication for Jewish women starts

NEW YORK (AP) — Lilith, a new quarterly that will explore the world of Jewish women, has started publication here with editors calling for feminists who are Jewish to turn their attention to Jewish institutions.

"The battle for women's suffrage has never been won in Judaism," said executive editor Susan Weidman Schneider, "not only in Orthodox Judaism, where women literally do not count in the quorum required for worship, but even in Reform Judaism, which only recently ordained its first woman rabbi."

The magazine, a nonprofit venture by a group of Jewish women journalists, is named for Lilith, Adam's legendary first companion — the first woman equal with the first man.

Group helps prisoners' wives live independently

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — When a prisoner is led from court to begin his prison term, freedom is not all he leaves behind. His wife and children face the same term outside bars.

To help them through this often critical period, the Connecticut Prison Association has created a "Woman in Crisis" program for the wives or girlfriends of prisoners from the Hartford area.

Pat Downs of New Britain, one of the pilot program's 10 volunteers, recently sat beside one of those wives in Hartford Superior Court as the woman's husband received a 7-to-15 year term.

"When they said the sentence, I could feel myself going into shock. It was so final," she recalled. "They said the sentence and he just walked away."

During the ensuing month, she counseled the woman, explaining routine things such as rules for prison visits and how prisoners' mail is handled. She has also been helping the woman through the mental strain and shock that came with her sudden responsibilities.

Enes Moran of Bloomfield, program director, is the widow of a man who served time at the state prison in Somers.

"For a woman it's a traumatic time and for kids it's an overwhelming experience," said the mother of three. "We need to consider the needs of women and children. They suffer the same stigma as the men but nobody seems concerned about that."

Initial contact with prisoners' wives and friends is usually made in court on sentencing day. Volunteers in the newly created program approach the women and explain what they can offer.

"The woman doesn't have to be legally married to the man. Any strong bond is recognized," Mrs. Moran said.

"We offer to take them on their first visit so they don't have to be by themselves," she added. "It's a major thing to go to the prison to see that man."

Volunteers also offer support when the prisoner is released and returns home to find a woman who perhaps has become more independent during his imprisonment. She may also be resentful about the disruption his prison term has caused in their lives.

"Woman in Crisis" grew from parallel efforts of Mrs. Moran and Margaret Worthington of Hartford, a Connecticut Prison Association member.

The program is funded by Trice, a project of Trinity College and the Hartford Graduate Center.

The association hopes some of the women who get help through the program will eventually train others, enabling the project to spread to other court districts in the state.

SUPPER FOR FOUR
Adobo Drumsticks Rice
Green Peas Salad
Fresh Fruit Shortcake

ADOBO DRUMSTICKS

Adobo is the Spanish word for "a sauce for seasoning or pickling."

3 tablespoons cider vinegar
3 tablespoons soy sauce
1 large garlic clove, crushed
½ teaspoon pepper
2 pounds (12) drumsticks

In a large skillet stir together the vinegar, soy sauce, garlic and pepper. Arrange the drumsticks in the skillet in a single layer. Cook, covered tightly at a gentle bubble and turning drumsticks a few times, until tender — about 40 minutes. There should be a small amount of full-flavored sauce; if there is more, remove drumsticks and keep warm; reduce sauce by boiling and spoon over drumsticks. Makes 4 small servings.

Elizabeth draws out guests

Queen Elizabeth II and the duke of Edinburgh read through some of the personal letters which arrive daily at Buckingham Palace. Informal lunches are held about six times a year to enable them to meet persons they would not normally come in contact with during their official duties.

By PHILIP HOWARD
Copley News Service

LONDON — Lunch with Queen Elizabeth II starts with a telephone call, like a bolt from the blue, some weeks beforehand.

An urbane voice at the other end of the line says, as nonchalantly as if it were making some commonplace observation about the weather: "Good morning. Would you be free to come to lunch with the queen and the duke of Edinburgh on 9 July?"

With some people it often takes some minutes before they are persuaded that it is no joke. It is indeed Buckingham Palace speaking.

The deputy master of her majesty's household has the particular coordinating responsibility for the lunches, although other members of the royal household also suggest names of people to invite.

The informal telephone call from the deputy master beforehand is to avoid the mutual embarrassment of somebody having to refuse a formal invitation to lunch with the queen.

The formal invitation, on a large, gold-edged card from the master of the household, arrives a week later.

These informal lunches, intended to enable the royal family to meet a wider range of their subjects in depth and at length, began on May 11, 1956. Since then there have been about a hundred of them, an average of about six a year, fitted in whenever there is room in the royal program.

There are always eight guests at the lunches — the queen and Prince Philip, and either two members of the household or the prince of Wales and another of the royal children, if they are available — 12 at the table.

The sort of people who get invited are so varied that it is hard to generalize about them. The intention is to invite people the queen and the duke would not usually meet during their official duties: junior ministers and backbench members of Parliament, instead of prime ministers and cabinet ministers; bright, young surgeons, instead of eminent consultants and hospital administrators; working journalists, instead of editors and newspaper proprietors.

The gold-rimmed invitation mercifully specifies that dress will be "informal." In England this means a collar and tie and dark suit for the men, and a great deal of anxiety for the women.

Most women eventually settle on a dress or suit, hat and gloves.

The invitation is for 12:50 for 1 p.m. Most guests arrive on the dot, whispering sheepishly to the policeman at the gate that they have come to lunch with the queen. The policeman does not bat an eyelid, but directs them through to the inner quadrangle, where they are met by the master of the household and menservants in livery ranging from kilts (the queen's pipe-major) to tailcoats for pages and footmen.

The men's cloakroom is equipped with all the tools that a nervous man could wish for, from very hot water to brushes for scrubbing his hair, fingernails and shoes.

The guests are ushered to the 18th Century room in the Belgian suite on the rear ground floor, facing the gardens, where the household on duty give them stiff drinks, calm their nerves and give them a crash course in addressing monarchy: "Your majesty" when you first meet her; subsequently "Ma'am," pronounced to rhyme with jam; the duke, "Sir."

At 1 o'clock sharp a pack of corgis, short-legged, foxlike Welsh dogs, of which the queen is extremely fond, come snuffling into the room, closely followed by the queen and the duke.

Everyone is introduced formally. Women bob curtsies. Men make indecisive semibows. With the inconspicuous efficiency of Buckingham Palace the equerry steers one guest to talk tete-a-tete to the queen; the lady-in-waiting steers another to the duke.

Each guest will have a personal conversation with the queen and the duke during the lunch. They usually manage to talk to one or two guests each before lunch, two during lunch, and three or four with the coffee. At 1:15 prompt, without anything being said, doors open and the party moves to the 1844 Room, also on the ground floor, for lunch. It gets its name because it was redecorated in 1844 for the visit of the czar of Russia, and has that date inscribed on the ceiling.

Election under way for national flower

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

There are more candidates for the national flower than there are for President of the United States in an election under way.

There are 28 aspirants, with the marigold and the rose among leading contenders. The decision will be made by Congress.

Ballot boxes are in all 14,000 Florists' Transworld Delivery member shops. The results will be presented to Congress, just as FTD did after its first election in 1959, when no decision resulted.

Sens. Henry Jackson and Warren Magnuson, Democrats of Washington (where the state flower is the rhododendron), favor the apple blossom for the national flower. That's the official bloom of Republican President Ford's home state of Michigan. Also backing the apple blossom is Rep. Mike McCormack, another Democrat from Washington.

The marigold has support in the House from Rep. Floyd Fithian, Republican of Indiana, where the peony is the state flower. Perhaps the strongest champion of the marigold is an Indiana woman, Charlotte Bass, who, at her own expense, has labored for years to focus public backing for the marigold. The State Legislatures of Indiana, Georgia and Illinois have endorsed the marigold and similar resolutions are before lawmakers of several other states.

In the U.S. Senate the marigold is sponsored by Republican Howard Baker of Tennessee (state flower iris), and Mike Mansfield, Democrat of Montana (bitterroot). Baker explains his abandonment of the iris by saying his late father-inlaw, Sen. Everett Dirksen of illinois, long favored the marigold.

Here are the 28 candidates: (by number on the FTD ballot, which also permits write-in votes):

1 Apple Blossom; 2 Azalia; 3 Begonia; 4 Black-Eyed Susan; 5 Camelia; 6 Carnation; 7 Chrysanthemum; 8 Corn Tassel; 9 Daffodil; 10 Dahlia; 11 Daisy; 12 Dogwood; 13 Geranium; 14 Gladiolus; 15 Lilac; 16 Lily; 17 Magnolia; 18 Marigold; 19 Mountain Laurel; 20 Orchid; 21 Pansy; 22 Peony; 23 Petunia; 24 Rhododendron; 25 Rose; 26 Snapdragon; 27 Tulip; 28 Zinnia.

Early sign-up nearing end

ODESSA — Pre-registration at Odessa College for the fall semester ends Friday.

More than 1,800 students have signed up early for classes during pre-registration.

Students who have not pre-registered may make appointments by contacting the counseling center in Baskin Hall.

There will be an evening lab on Thursday from 6 to 8:30 p.m. in room 102 in Baskin Hall with daytime pre-registration labs scheduled from 8 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 4 p.m. through Friday, also in Baskin Hall. These labs are for returning and transfer students.

Bride-elect entertained

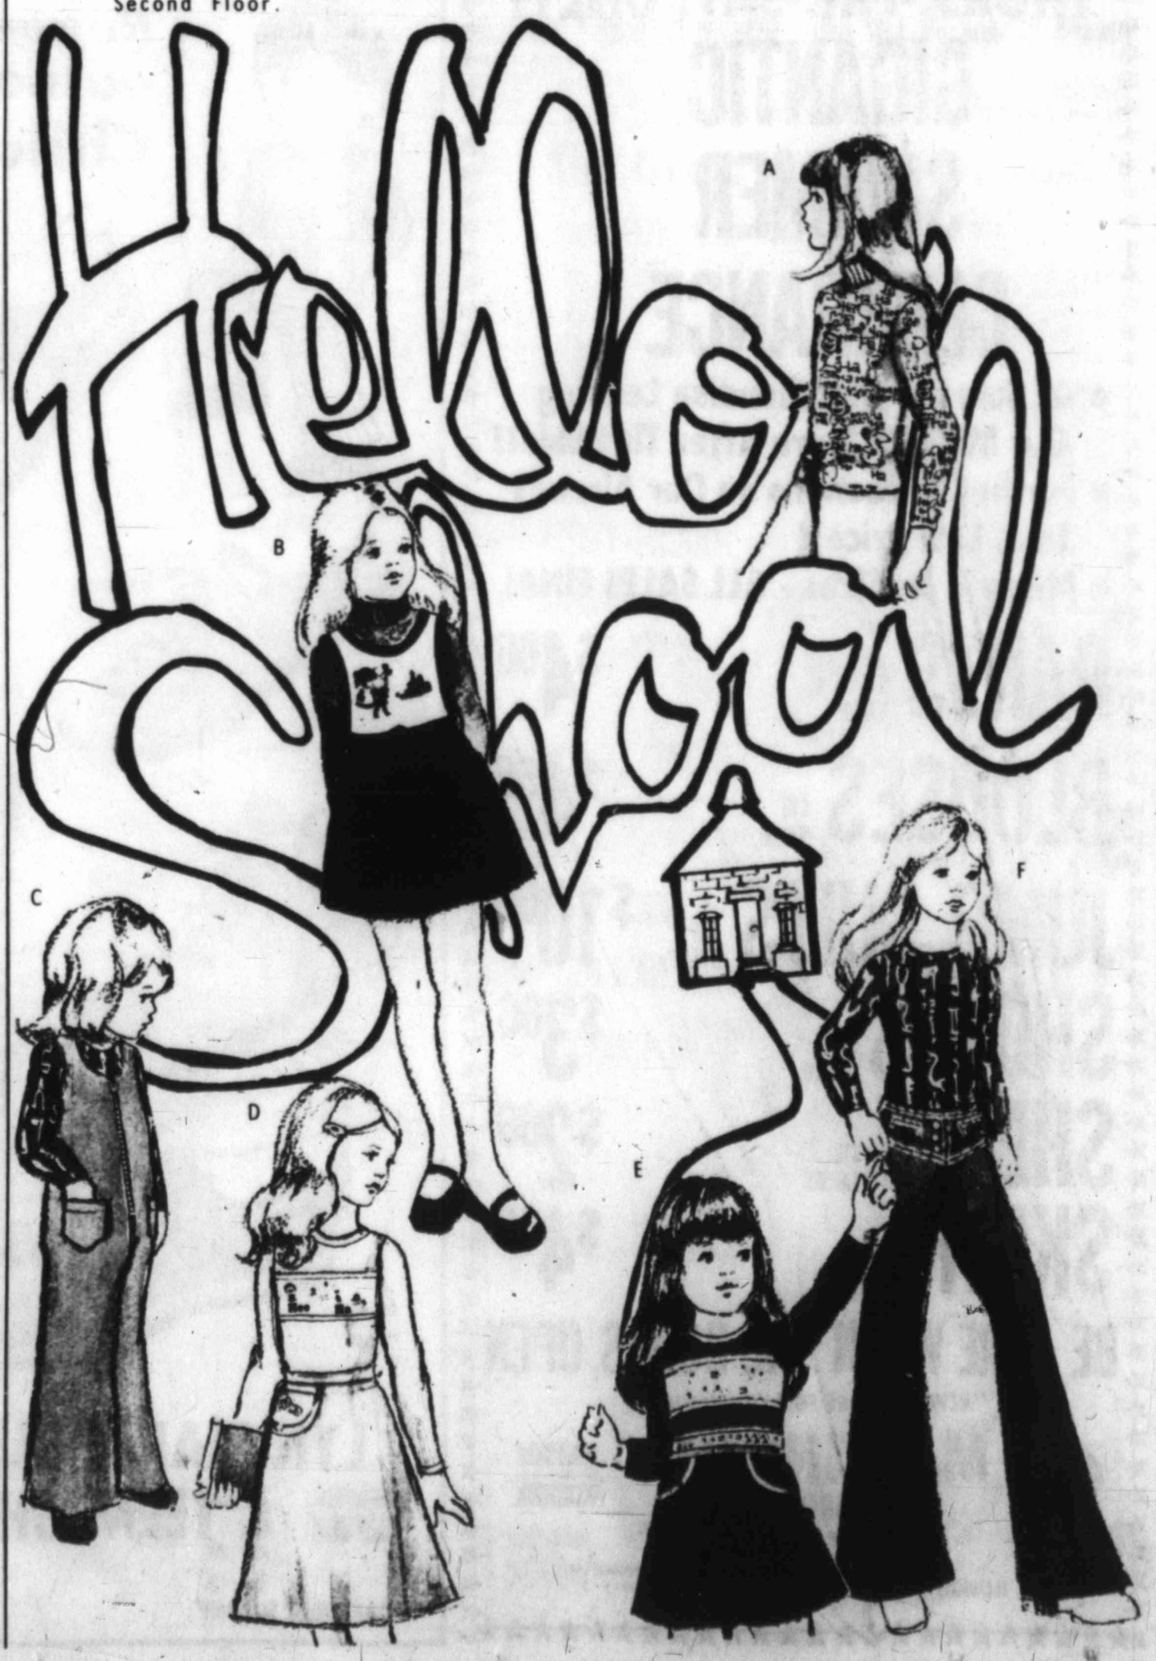

A miscellaneous shower honoring Jacquelyn Ehrig, bride-elect of Michael Highsmith, was given by Sherry Turner, sister of the future bridegroom, in her home.

Miss Ehrig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Ehrig of Gonzales, and Highsmith, son of J. O. Highsmith of Midland and Mrs. JoAnne Highsmith of Yorkville, Ill., will be married at 7 p.m. Aug. 21 in the First United Methodist Church at Gonzales.

Guests were Mrs. Jim Blackmon, Mrs. Phil Stinson, Mrs. Clifford Nutler, Mrs. Patsy Harrison, Mrs. Gary Edwards, Mrs. Mike Byrne and Susan Highsmith of Yorkville, also sister of the prospective bridegroom.

Rice declines

During almost every month throughout the past year, the national average retail price of rice has declined. This is in contrast to the gradual rise in prices of most other food products. The cost of a half-cup serving of cooked rice today is just over three cents.

New bill gives break to stripper producers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent President Ford an energy bill that would raise gasoline prices up to one-half cent a gallon and provide federal loans and grants for energy conservation.

The measure, which the House approved 293 to 88 on Tuesday, also would revive the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) for 17 more months.

After the vote, a chief GOP sponsor, Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, predicted the President would sign the measure, which received Senate approval previously.

The bill would add $1 billion a year to the price consumers pay for domestic oil products, according to congressional energy experts. Congess approved the price hikes to spur domestic production and reduce dependence on imported oil.

The bill's energy-saving programs include:

—Up to $2 billion in federal loan guarantees to small businesses, universities, hospitals, local governments and others to install energy-saving equipment; with a limit of $5 million per applicant.

—A $200 million, three-year program of grants to provide weather stripping and insulation materials for homes of low-income families.

—A two-year, $200 million demonstration program designed to encourage homeowners to install energy-conserving equipment.

The FEA technically expired last month, but its energy programs are being run temporarily through the White House at the President's order. The bill extends its mandate through 1977.

The measure also exempts low-yield oil wells from price controls.

The low-yield, "stripper" wells, producing less than 10 barrels of crude oil daily, account for nearly 15 per cent of domestic production.

Stripper well production had been free from federal price controls prior to enactment of a energy law last December. That law provides for all federal price controls on oil to end in 1979.

The exemption in this bill would let stripper well prices climb from $11.63 a barrel to world price levels of roughly $13.18 a barrel.

Winkler test pumping oil

Doyle Hartman, Midland, No. 1-D ARCO-Cummins, ½-mile south stepout to the three-well Henderson (Permian) field of Winkler County, nine miles northwest of Kermit, pumped 14 barrels of oil and 520 barrels of water in 24 hours.

Recovery was through perforations at 2,981-3,078 feet. Testing continued.

Location is 990 feet from south and 330 feet west lines of section 15, block 25, PSL survey.

Wells finals in Dawson

Miller Exploration Co., Midland, has filed with the Texas railroad Commission an official calculated 24-hour potential test gauge of 2,880 barrels of oil for its No. 1 W.E. Beam, Dawson County Fusselman strike, three miles southwest of Patricia.

The gauge was based on an actual four-hour flow rate of 120 barrels per hour, through a 25-64-inch choke, and from open hole at 12,110-12,170 feet, sidetracked total depth. Gravity of the oil is 40 degrees.

Operator set 4½-inch production casing at 12,110 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of labor 12, league 262, Borden CSL survey, two miles southwest of Fusselman production in the Patricia field.

Increase announced

HOUSTON (AP) — Shell Oil Co. announced today a one-cent per gallon increase in automotive gasoline prices in all its marketing areas east of the Rocky Mountains.

The increases were effective at 12:01 a.m. today.

Shell also boosted its aviation gasoline prices one cent a gallon and its jet fuel prices sixtenths of a cent a gallon.

Gas strike potentials

Pennsylvanian gas production has beem opened in the Heart of Texas oil field of Northeast McCulloch County with completion of Estoril Producing Corp. No. 5 John G. Jones, 2½ miles southwest of Mercury.

It gauged a calculated, absolute open flow of 260,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations at 442-448 feet, after treating the pay with 500 gallons of acid.

Total depth of the well is 740 feet. It is plugged back to 431 feet.

Location is 820 feet from north and 1,520 feet from east lines of the west half of Andrew Verbene survey 843.

L. B. Wood, Breckenridge, filed application to deepen to 1,100 feet at No. 3 Bertha Ina Cates, McCulloch County 800-foot failure, one mile northwest of Mercury.

It originally had been slated to 475 feet, and it was abandoned Feb. 28.

Location is 1,050 feet from north and 2,295 feet from west lines of M. Eubanks survey 280, abstract 280.

Mobil picks directors

NEW YORK — Five new members, including a former Midlander, have been added to the board of directors.

New directors, effective Aug. 1, are George A. Birrell, vice president and general counsel; Alex H. Massad, senior vice president of Mobil Oil Corp. and executive vice president of its exploration and producing division; Allen E. Murray, executive vice president of Mobil Oil Corp. and president of its U. S. Marketing and Refining Division; Herbert Schmertz, vice president, public affairs; and Lawrence M. Woods, vice president and general manager, corporate planning and economics.

Massad joined Mobil in 1946 and is a former production manager at Midland, Tex.

Presidio, Andrews sites for projects

Exploration has been planned for Andrews amd Presidio counties.

John L. Cox of Midland accounted for the deepest test, a 13,000-foot project in Andrews, one location south of the depleted C-Ranch oilcamp and Devonian)field. It is No, 1 Midland Farms.

Location is eight feet from south and 2,173 feet from west lines of section 30, block 40, T-3-N, G&MM-B&A survey, 20 miles east of Andrews townsite.

The C-Ranch opener, Mobil Oil Co. No. 1-CA Fasken Block was completed in 1954 for 15 barrels of 27-gravity oil daily, through perforations at 10,008-10,038 feet. It was completed in 1953 as the Devonian opener for 200 barrels of oil daily, through perforations at 12,738-12,749 feet.

William N. Beach, Midland, will drill No. 1 University, a 4,850-foot venture in Andrews, one mile east of the McFarland, East field.

Drillsite is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 9, block 5, ULS, 15.2 miles northeast of Andrews townsite.

PRESIDIO PROJECT

Atlantic Richfield Co., operating from Midland, filed application to drill a 9,000-foot rank wildcat in Southwest Presidio County, two miles north of the Mexican border. It is No. 1 Presidio-State.

Location is 1,420 feet from northwest and 1,980 feet from northeast lines of section 1004-A, Mrs. M. C. Spidel, six miles northwest of Presidio townsite.

New Mexico areas gain wildcat tests

Wildcat locations have been staked in Lea and Eddy counties, N.M.

BTA Oil Producers, Midland, filed application for the deepest test, a 23,000-foot Ellenburger prospector in Lea, seven miles southwest of Bennett. It is No. 1 7608 JV-P Hagood.

Location is 990 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 25-26s-35e, 4½ miles north of Ellenburger production in the Crittendon multipay field of Winkler County, Tex.

Also in Lea, Marathon Oil Co. has scheduled No. 1 Northeast Anderson Ranch Unit, a 10,500-foot Bursum reef venture, 2¼ miles southeast of the Tulk (Wolfcamp and Pennsylvanian) oil pool.

Drillsite is 2,080 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 14-15s-32e, 24 miles south of Caprock.

EDDY ACTIVITY

Yates Petroleum Co. of Artesia filed application to drill No. 1 Lechuguilla Canyon Unit, a 10,800-foot Devonian prospector, in Eddy, 10 miles northwest of White's City.

Location is 900 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 5-24s-24e, 1¼ mile northwest of Morrow production in the Crooked Creek field.

Llano, Inc., Hobbs, intends to drill No. 1 South Lakewood Communitized, a 10,300-foot Morrow try in Eddy, 6½ miles north of Morrow production in the Avalon field.

It spots 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 3-4-3-20s-26e, two miles south of Lake Wood.

Area counties get wildcat explorers

Wildcat sites have been staked in Tom Green, Stonewall and Nolan counties. Also, a reentry test is planned for Upton, and a strike offset has been slated in Crockett.

Hoffacker Exploration, Inc. of Midlamd will drill No. 1-169 Rust Ranch, a 4,600-foot wildcat, and southeast offset to the gas opener in the Murray-Rust (Strawn) oil and gas field in Tom Green.

Drillsite is 1,320 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 169, block 11, SPRR survey, three miles southwest of Vancourt.

J. M. Purvis, Midland, filed application to drill No. 1 M, Wright Jr., a 5,000-foot searcher for oil in Tom Green, four miles northeast of the depleted Mereta (Strawn) oil pool.

Location is 1,690 feet from south and 1,389 feet from east lines of section 1, T. S. Lee survey, abstract 4836, six miles northeast of Veribest.

STONEWALL TRY

T. F. Hunter Estate, operating from Wichita Falls, intends to drill No. 2 Pruitt as a 3,600-foot prospector, six miles southwest of Aspermont, in Stonewall.

The site is 915 feet from south and 870 feet from west lines of section 200, block D, H&TC survey, a northeast twin to No. 1 Pruitt, a 3,767-foot failure, and three miles west of the Aspermont, West (Canyon) field.

NOLAN VENTURE

Vaughn Petroleum, Inc., Dallas, accounted for a 6,350-foot wildcat in Nolan, 10 miles east of Sweetwater. It is No. 1 C. L. McLeod.

It is one mile west of the Chinquapin (Strawn and Ellenburger) field. Drillsite is 1,320 feet from north and 758 feet from east lines of section 51, block 20, T&P survey.

UPTON WORKOVER

A. G. Kaspar of Midland has announced intention to reenter and clean out to around 8,400 feet and attempt recompletion as a Devonian oil opener, at No. 1 J. H. Shirk, former Strawn oil and Fusselman gas pay opener and Ellenburger producer in the Fradean field.

It was completed originally by Odessa Natural Gasoline Co. in 1960.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 23, block 2, MK&T survey, 12 miles northeast of McCamey.

CROCKETT OFFSET

C. F. Lawrence & Associates, Inc. of Midland will drill No. 2 Marwood as a ⅜-mile northeast offset to the firm's No. 1 Harwood, opener in the one-well Harlaw (Grayburg) field of Crockett.

Drillsite, 15 miles east of Iraan, is 1,913 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of the west half of section 7, block GG, H&OB survey. Planned depth is 2,200 feet.

Promotion announced

Mrs. Veronica Caldwell of Midland has been promoted to senior accounting clerk by Drilco Industrial-Division of Smith International, Inc., in Midland.

Mrs. Caldwell joined Drilco in 1972 as an accounting clerk, and in 1975 was named senior accounting clerk.

Reentry planned

Trans Ocean Oil, Inc., operating from Midland, Will attempt to reopen Mississippian production in the Emma field of Andrews County, with the reentry and plugging back to around 10,400 feet, at No. 4 University Lands, former Devonian producer.

Operator plans to perforate and test from 9,824-10,084 feet.

Completion from the Devonian was at total depth of 12,490 feet.

Location is 1,395 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 36, block 10, ULS, 10 miles southwest of Andrews.

Wildcat flows gas

SKM Oil & Gas Co., Ltd., Dallas, No. 1 J. P. Ash, Runnels County wildcat, 12 miles west of Winters and ⅜ mile southwest of a depleted producer in the Dorman, West field, flowed gas at the maximum, daily rate of 2.25 million cubic feet, and recovered 370 feet of free oil and 200 feet of heavily oil- and gas-cut mud on a drillstem test in an unidentified zone.

Tool was open 70 minutes on the test taken from 4,970-5,032 feet. Gas surfaced in an unreported time, flowing at 1.3 million cubic feet per day during the first 10 minutes, and increasing to the above maximum during the last 60 minutes of the test.

The project is 467 feet from south and 5,800 feet from east lines of section 4, H&GN survey (O. L. Parrish survey 1406 on some maps).

Standby gas rationing trigger public howls

By FRANK MACOMBER
Copley News Service

It probably will come as no great surprise to anybody that the federal government's proposed standby gasoline rationing plan has triggered a mounting crescendo of protest.

So far the tourist industry and the National Highway Users Federation have led the cries of "foul." The upshot is that members of Congress soon will be deluged with letters and telegrams demanding an end to consideration of even a contingency rationing blueprint, if indeed the process hasn't started already.

The Federal Energy Administration proposed the standby rationing powers, to be used only in the event of another Arab oil embargo.

The federation especially was critical of FEA Administrator Frank Zarb's proposed weekend ban on gasoline sales. Its president, Peter G. Koltnow, said the proposal "violates the Energy Conservation Act by imposing an unreasonably disproportionate share of the conservation burden on a specific class of business, namely the travel industry." He has told Zarb as much in a letter made public at the same time.

Even a voluntary Sunday ban on gasoline sales during three months of 1974 cost the tourist industry 100,000 jobs and lost revenues of $250 million, Koltnow says.

"It appears unreasonable to propose a conservation plan that impacts one segment of the economy...and at the same time ignores large fuel use categories such as residential heating and cooling," he points out.

Koltnow also hits out at Zarb's proposed commuter parking management and car pool incentive proposals. They would restrict commuter parking in both employer-provided and commercial lots and require that employers operate a car pool information program.

"The basic assumption underlying the proposed plan is that every licensed driver is about equally dependent on highway transportation, and thus entitled to an equal share of available gasoline — subject to adjustment only by open market purchase or sale of such entitlements," Koltnow says.

That was a reference to a provision which would allow motorists to exchange or sell their ration rights on a "white market" through banks.

Koltnow says the whole assumption is wrong because an individual's degree of dependence on highway transportation varies with countless factors.

The federation is a national, non-profit organization supported by 600 businesses, industries and highway user groups to promote highway transportation safety and efficiency. It also is a lobby with a considerable voice on Capitol Hill, where the FEA standby rationing plan's fate will be determined.

Meanwhile, Roger Manfred, president and chief executive officer of TraveLodge, a worldwide motel chain, has written to all state hotel associations and the American Hotel & Motel Association to urge a battle against FEA proposals to declare the travel industry "nonessential" and seek the standby weekend gasoline sales ban.

"I believe the gasoline rationing plan has the potential to destroy the motel and motor hotel industry."

Remains of giant mastodon found on reservation

By TERRY WEIDE
Mitchell Daily Republic

HIDDEN TIMBER, S.D. (AP) — A team of four Rapid City men has unearthed the remains of a giant mastodon that probably roamed the earth 70 million years ago.

"What's so exciting about this find is the condition of the skull, and the tusks, too," said Pete Larson, 24, a leader of the excavation team.

"I don't think we will have to replace more than 1 or 2 per cent of the bone in the skull."

Remains of the mastodon were dug out of a hill near Hidden Timber on the Rosebud Indian Reservation in south-central South Dakota early this summer.

The mastodon is an ancestor to the elephant and roamed semi-tropical forests just before the Ice Age.

The team found most of the skeleton intact and well preserved. One rear leg, the tail, some foot bones and an upper leg were the only bones missing.

The excavation team included Jim Honert of Rapid City who, with Larson, operates a business specializing in minerals and fossils.

Also digging were Larson's younger brother, Neal Larson, Jr., who is a senior geology student, and Robert Tate, 13, son of a local rancher.

"We went out there, not really expecting anything, and started digging. But then we found vertebrae, then a femur, then some ribs. By now the dirt was really flying," said Pete Larson.

The skull measured seven feet one inch, from the tip of the tusks to the back of the skull. The tusks had been worn down during the mammal's lifetime, but were intact and measured 47 inches. The skull was estimated to weigh a ton.

"I don't know how many complete skulls have been found, but there are not very many," Larson said.

Examination of the molars indicated the beast was at least 60 years old when it died, he said. It probably stood 10 feet tall at the shoulder.

The skull and other remains were dabbed with a preservative mixture of water and glue to guard against the deteriorating effects of sunlight and oxygen. The skull was also cast in plaster of paris.

Although fossil fragments of a saber-toothed tiger and a rhinoceros were found by the diggers, Larson said he did not believe the elephant died of violence.

He theorizes that the mastodon died of old age in a quicksand pit or a stream bed at the discovery site.

Commercial collectors have been known to pay thousands of dollars for assembled mastodons, but Larson declined to set any value on the specimen he helped find.

"It's just impossible to place a value on it as far as human enjoyment goes," said Larson, a graduate student at South Dakota School of Mines and Technology. Larson said he would like to see it given to the school museum.

The skeleton belongs to the Tribal Council of the federal government, though the council voted to allow the excavators to crate the bones to send to Rapid City, he said.

Professor says people enjoy thrill ride fright

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Don Palmer has been riding roller coasters — professionally — for the past several years. Most recently he's been going over the top on a double racing ride where two coaster trains, starting side by side, race over a mile-long course, reaching speeds of more than 60 miles an hour.

"I must have ridden that ride 5,000 times while breaking it in," says Palmer, speaking of the "Rebel Yell" at Kings Dominion near Richmond, where he is rides manager. "And, you know, it's still a thrill to go over that first crest.

"You see what's coming, you tell yourself to calm down, that it's nothing you haven't been on lots of times before. And, each time, just as you reach the top, you ask yourself 'What am I doing here back on it again?'

"For a second you stop there, poised in space, right on the edge of disaster. Your eyes are tearing and you're holding on so tight that your knuckles are white. Then it starts, and you gasp for breath and your stomach is stuck someplace up in your throat. It's terrible."

Why do people pay good money to be scared witless, to have their stomachs driven up into their throats?

"People enjoy being scared; there's no two ways about it," explains Dr. Darren Newtson, a social psychologist at the University of Virginia here and an expert on stress, fear and fearinducing situations.

"People quickly become accustomed to a certain level of stress or anxiety; that's the level they learn to live with. Alteration of that level — either up or down — is very pleasurable within a certain range."

The actual thrill of "thrill" rides derives from two different components, Newtson points out. One is emotional — the presence of physical sensation such as fear, excitement or curiosity. The other is an informational component; that is, the context.

"Hurtling through air may be pleasurable on a roller coaster; it would be downright terrifying in a car that's out of control," he notes. "It's how you interpret the arousal sensations via the context that determines whether or not they will be pleasurable."

In today's popular theme parks, Newtson says, the innate scariness of rides is teamed up with the different theme areas to provide a continuously changing context in which to experience the sensations.

"Theme parks offer an abstraction of life that's very cathartic, that provides an almost perfect emotional release. It's an artificially-arranged vacation, very compact and time efficient. In seven or eight hours, you get an 'essence of vacation' — variety, relaxation, and excitement.

"We're living in a world that's quite expert at manufacturing artificiality," continues Newtson, "one where artificiality is fast becoming the norm rather than the exception. If there's a demand for something — whether it's orange juice for astronauts or the illusion of total escape — man is busy at work creating the commodity.

Summer heat boosts electricity bills

Although Midland area consumers have lower electric rates than most of the rest of the state, electric bills are going up as air conditioners are used more to cool the summer heat.

According to John Berry of Texas Electric Service Company (TESCO), electric usage is up 10.7 per cent for June and July from 125.3 million kilowatt hours for the same period last year to 138.7 million kilowatt hours this year.

The peak usage for this summer was set June 29 with Midlanders consuming 3,187 megawatts of electricity, Berry said.

According to C. W. Barclay of TESCO, a typical residential customer will use about three times as much electricity in the hottest summer months as he does in the winter months.

Many consumers will feel more than the usual summer impact on their electric bills, for a variety of reasons, Barclay said.

One reason is that this is the first summer following the rate increase granted to TESCO last winter.

Another is that fuel costs for the company are higher this summer, causing further increases in electric bills.

Another factor, according to Barclay, is the design of Texas Electric's rates. "The rate increase was more for large users of electricity than for small users," he said.

"Many customers may be alarmed at high percentage increases in their summer bills when they use a lot of electricity. But the increase in the winter bills is less, when taken on an annual basis the increase is not so large," Barclay said.

However, Barclay said, the increase was smaller for low users of electricity. "The impact on low users will be relatively small," he said, "but some of the largest users will see large increases."

The electric company is making efforts to help those customers faced with higher summer bills, Barclay said.

For one thing, he said, the company offers an "average billing plan" to residential customers and churches. Instead of paying the high summer bills as they come in, you can use this plan, and pay an average bill based on your use.

Information on this plan may be obtained by requesting it in the message space on your electric bill or by calling the TESCO office.

Another thing consumers can do, Barclay said, is to increase conservation efforts to avoid wasting energy.

The company offers a free booklet with tips on how to save on air conditioning cost and save energy in other applications around the home.

Suggestions in the booklet include getting an air conditioning inspection or "tune-up" to help it work more efficiently. Shrubbery should also be trimmed back from the outdoor central air unit so there is room for good air flow.

Other suggestions are keeping the thermostat setting as high as possible, keep windows and doors closed and keeping air vents inside the house unobstructed.

Although Midlanders' electric bills do seem high, they are actually among the lowest in the nation, TESCO officials say.

The average monthly bill for 750 kilowatts of electricity in Midland is $22.63 as compared to New York's $64.30, Boston's $42.52, San Antonio's $29.57 and Amarillo's $28.97, according to TESCO's figures.

SCORE opens office

ODESSA — The Odessa chapter of the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) has opened an office in the Chamber of Commerce Building at Odessa for the convenience of business people in this area, Philip J. O'Jibway, district director of the Lubbock District of the U.S. Small Business Administration, has announced.

The office, which was opened July 22, 1976, will be open weekdays from noon to 4 p.m. and counselors will be available by appointment.

SCORE is a volunteer group of retired men and women who provide free management counseling to small business owner-managers and those who are considering starting a business.

Sponsored by the Small Business Administration, SCORE was developed in 1964 as a means of tapping the business expertise of retired business people for the benefit of America's small business community.

There are currently about 6,000 SCORE volunteers working out of nearly 300 SCORE chapters in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

The Odessa SCORE Chapter meets each fourth Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Odessa Chamber of Commerce building.

The chapter chairman is Arthur Berggren, former realtor and owner-manager of the House of Flowers. Other members of the chapter are J. Ben Whittenburg Jr., formerly of Exxon; Charles J. Maisel, formerly of Acme Lumber Co.; Larson L. Lloyd, former bank president; Leander G. Jackson, formerly of West Texas White Truck Equipment Co.; William M. Braly, former public school administrator; Harvey L. Ellison, formerly of Sears, Roebuck and Co.; Don M. Hampton, formerly of Lubrication Service, Inc.; Glen B. Looney, formerly of Texas-New Mexico Railroad; Guy White, former realtor and rig builder, and H. B. Rees, former president of Big Lake State Bank. The chapter secretary is Mrs. Ressa Phillips.

For further information, contact Mrs. Phillips at 332-9111 or write SCORE, Chamber of Commerce Building, 412 Lincoln St., Odessa, 79760.

Professor addresses meeting

COLLEGE STATION — Dr. Fern Moffitt, associate professor of paleontology and trilobiology at Texas A&M University, has shocked the scientific community here with a new theory on the evolutionary tendencies of trilobytes.

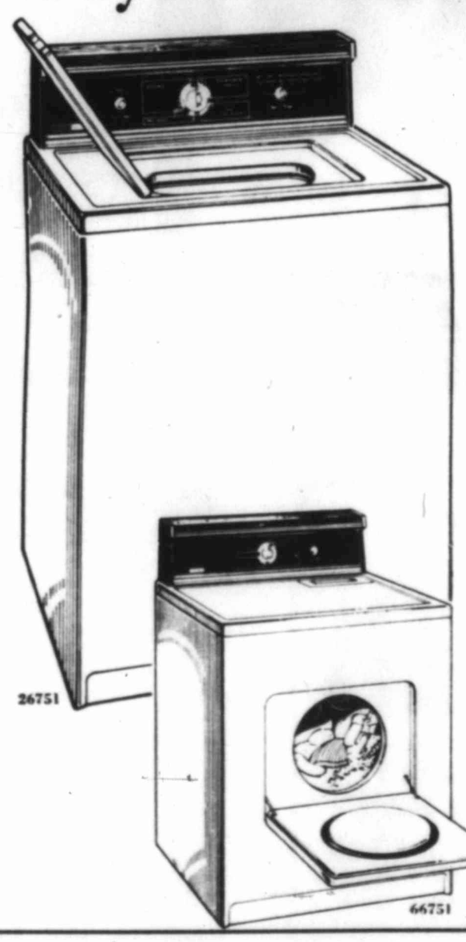

Professor Moffitt stated in a paper presented to the recent conference on Cambrian Parasania that "there is now good evidence that trilobytes did not become extinct in an evolutionary dead end."

He further asserted that both the common flatworm (Turbellarian) and homo sapiens sapientis are "direct descendants of the early trilobytic forms." As professor Moffitt stated at the close of his address, "it is now obvious that the closest living relative of homo sapiens sapientis is a de-shelled trilobyte."

Summer heat boosts electricity bills

Although Midland area consumers have lower electric rates than most of the rest of the state, electric bills are going up as air conditioners are used more to cool the summer heat.

According to John Berry of Texas Electric Service Company (TESCO), electric usage is up 10.7 per cent for June and July from 125.3 million kilowatt hours for the same period last year to 138.7 million kilowatt hours this year.

The peak usage for this summer was set June 29 with Midlanders consuming 3,187 megawatts of electricity, Berry said.

According to C. W. Barclay of TESCO, a typical residential customer will use about three times as much electricity in the hottest summer months as he does in the winter months.

Many consumers will feel more than the usual summer impact on their electric bills, for a variety of reasons, Barclay said.

One reason is that this is the first summer following the rate increase granted to TESCO last winter.

Another is that fuel costs for the company are higher this summer, causing further increases in electric bills.

Another factor, according to Barclay, is the design of Texas Electric's rates. "The rate increase was more for large users of electricity than for small users," he said.

"Many customers may be alarmed at high percentage increases in their summer bills when they use a lot of electricity. But the increase in the winter bills is less, when taken on an annual basis the increase is not so large," Barclay said.

However, Barclay said, the increase was smaller for low users of electricity. "The impact on low users will be relatively small," he said, "but some of the largest users will see large increases."

The electric company is making efforts to help those customers faced with higher summer bills, Barclay said.

For one thing, he said, the company offers an "average billing plan" to residential customers and churches. Instead of paying the high summer bills as they come in, you can use this plan, and pay an average bill based on your use.

Information on this plan may be obtained by requesting it in the message space on your electric bill or by calling the TESCO office.

Another thing consumers can do, Barclay said, is to increase conservation efforts to avoid wasting energy.

The company offers a free booklet with tips on how to save on air conditioning cost and save energy in other applications around the home.

Suggestions in the booklet include getting an air conditioning inspection or "tune-up" to help it work more efficiently. Shrubbery should also be trimmed back from the outdoor central air unit so there is room for good air flow.

Other suggestions are keeping the thermostat setting as high as possible, keep windows and doors closed and keeping air vents inside the house unobstructed.

Although Midlanders' electric bills do seem high, they are actually among the lowest in the nation, TESCO officials say.

The average monthly bill for 750 kilowatts of electricity in Midland is $22.63 as compared to New York's $64.30, Boston's $42.52, San Antonio's $29.57 and Amarillo's $28.97, according to TESCO's figures.

SCORE opens office

ODESSA — The Odessa chapter of the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) has opened an office in the Chamber of Commerce Building at Odessa for the convenience of business people in this area, Philip J. O'Jibway, district director of the Lubbock District of the U.S. Small Business Administration, has announced.

The office, which was opened July 22, 1976, will be open weekdays from noon to 4 p.m. and counselors will be available by appointment.

SCORE is a volunteer group of retired men and women who provide free management counseling to small business owner-managers and those who are considering starting a business.

Sponsored by the Small Business Administration, SCORE was developed in 1964 as a means of tapping the business expertise of retired business people for the benefit of America's small business community.

There are currently about 6,000 SCORE volunteers working out of nearly 300 SCORE chapters in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

The Odessa SCORE Chapter meets each fourth Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Odessa Chamber of Commerce building.

The chapter chairman is Arthur Berggren, former realtor and owner-manager of the House of Flowers. Other members of the chapter are J. Ben Whittenburg Jr., formerly of Exxon; Charles J. Maisel, formerly of Acme Lumber Co.; Larson L. Lloyd, former bank president; Leander G. Jackson, formerly of West Texas White Truck Equipment Co.; William M. Braly, former public school administrator; Harvey L. Ellison, formerly of Sears, Roebuck and Co.; Don M. Hampton, formerly of Lubrication Service, Inc.; Glen B. Looney, formerly of Texas-New Mexico Railroad; Guy White, former realtor and rig builder, and H. B. Rees, former president of Big Lake State Bank. The chapter secretary is Mrs. Ressa Phillips.

For further information, contact Mrs. Phillips at 332-9111 or write SCORE, Chamber of Commerce Building, 412 Lincoln St., Odessa, 79760.

Palmer sees cocky Pate as star

—AP Laserphoto

Jerry Pate, winner of this year's U.S. Open, follows the flight of the ball during a practice round Tuesday while preparing for Thursday's opening round of the PGA.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arnold Palmer sees a little bit of Arnold Palmer in Jerry Pate, the newest potential super star to burst onto the golf scene.

"He's cocky—you've got to have some cockiness in you to make it in this game," the graying, 46-year-old fairway legend from Latrobe, Pa., said as the old and the new prepared to tee it up in the 58th PGA Championship.

A FIELD of 141, headed by defending champion Jack Nicklaus, will set out Thursday on the four-day, 72-hole tour of the Congressional Country Club.

Pate, 22-year-old rookie pro from Pensacola, Fla., who already has won the U.S. and Canadian Opens this year, is one of the favorites. Hope is dimming for Palmer, three times a runner-up but never a winner in the pros' private competition.

It rates with the frustrations of the great Sam Snead in the U.S. Open as one of the tragedies of the sport.

Bridging two eras, Palmer and Pate arrived on the scene almost simultaneously Tuesday for practice rounds. Both were mobbed by autograph seekers. Both were the center of attention when they went to the practice putting green.

SAM SNEAD, in a familiar cocoanut straw hat, added an age dimension, nudging at the holes with his weird croquet style, adopted to battle the "putting yips."

"I would surely like to see that guy win—if it can't be me," Pate said, motioning toward Palmer. "He has done so much for golf, has been such an ambassador over the years."

Pate said he had been paired with Palmer at the Westchester Classic in early July and in the Canadian Open later in Windsor, Ontario.

"What a great guy to be paired with," the young rookie continued. "He's so loose and pleasant. I enjoy playing with Nicklaus, too, but Jack is so much more serious, even in practice rounds."

PATE SAID he had first met Palmer when Arnie was at the peak of his game and he, Pate, was a 10-year-old just beginning to dream about making the pro tour.

"I lived in Anniston, Ala., at the time," he said. "I went up to the Memphis Open and Palmer agreed to pose with me and some other kids. I was the smallest, I remember, and in front. Arnie had his hands on my shoulder.

"I still have the picture at home."

Jerry said that at Westchester he and Palmer were paired for the first two days and he got a good insight into the personality of the man given responsibility for the boom in pro golf.

"I remember I commented that it was nice to play with him because he drew such a big gallery," Pate said. "Then I jokingly added, 'And look at all the pretty girls following me.' Arnie gave me a dirty look and smiled."

Palmer remembered the incident well.

"This kid has a great swing and a wonderful temperament," Palmer said. "He could be one of the greatest. I like it that he has this touch of cockiness. Sure, I was cocky in the old days. I didn't think anybody could beat me.

"But there is a difference in cockiness—or confidence—and big headedness. Once you get big-headed, you're in trouble. I can name you five guys on the tour today who got so big-headed they let it get away from them.

"There has to be a balance— I think Jerry has it."

Tourney field narrows

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Lauren Howe of Colorado Springs, Colo. carded an evenpar 75 Tuesday to win medalist honors by seven strokes in the 28th USGA Girls Junior National Championship at Del Rio Golf and Country Club.

The starting field of 120 was narrowed down to 32 for match play starting Wednesday.

Miss Howe had a bad drive on the 14th hole, resulting in a double bogey six that cost her a shot at the all-time tournament record. She finished with a twoday total of 146 and missed by two strokes the standard set by Nancy Lopez in 1973.

Brownsville defeats Midland Northern

WACO—The Midland Northern All-Stars dropped an 8-6 decision to Brownsville here Tuesday morning in the consolation bracket of the State Little League Baseball Tournament.

The loss eliminated the Northerners from play in the tournament. Midland lost to Victoria, 7-2, Monday to move into the consolation round.

Brownsville scored five runs in the first inning behind the strength of a grand slam homer by Jose Soto, and it was catch-up time.

Trailing 7-2 in the fifth, Midland's Ted Bartley hit a grand slam to cut the margin to 7-6, but the Northern All-Stars managed only three hits in the contest, and that was the last of their attack.

Bartley absorbed the loss for Midland, but struckout eight while giving up only five hits. Pete Martinez, the winner, struckout 11 Midland batters and yielded only three hits.

Amarillo belts Midland, 11-5

AMARILLO—The Amarillo Gold Sox busted the Midland Cubs, 11-5, here Tuesday night in a Texas League game.

The Gold Sox broke open a 5-5 deadlock in the seventh inning with a five-run outburst. It was the second defeat in as many games of the current series, which goes through Saturday.

A bases loaded double by Tucker Ashford and a run scoring two-bagger by Gene Delyon in the fifth gave Amarillo a 4-0 lead. The Gold Sox added a run in the sixth on a key single by Craig Stimac.

The Cubs tied the score in the top of the seventh with a five-run outburst of their own. Joe Hernandez and Jose Ortiz both scored on a throwing error by Amarillo catcher Rick Sweet and Mike Umfleet and Ed Putnam both scored on a sacrifice fly to center by Mike Gordon. Steve Thompson drove in Bill Huisman with a single to account for the other run.

Amarillo, however, came right back with five runs in the bottom of the frame to put the game away. The inning took over an hour to play. Sweet drove in the first run of the inning with a sacrifice fly, and Craig Stimac had another sacrifice fly to make it 7-5. Two more runs scored on singles by Bobby Mitchell and Chuck Baker while the final run of the inning came on a wild pitch by relief pitcher Bernie Beckman.

Grid stars missing

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Lon Farrell, assistant athletic director at the University of Arkansas, said Tuesday the UA coaching staff has no lead in the disappearance of three missing football players.

Farrell said Mark Lewis, Steve Inhoff and Phil Davis has been missing about four weeks.

Farrell said UA officials had been working closely with the parents of each of the players.

Palmer blanks Twins

By The Associated Press

Jim Palmer, the American League's Cy Young Award winner last season, fired a one-hitter Tuesday night as the Baltimore Orioles dumped the Minnesota Twins 2-0.

Palmer allowed only a second-inning single by Mike Cubbage en route to his 15th victory of the season—tops in the American League. The 30-year-old right-hander, who has lost 10 games, struck out five batters and walked just one, and retired 14 straight batters during one stretch.

The Orioles scored in the second when loser Dave Goltz, 9-11, walked Ken Singleton and Tony Muser doubled him home. Baltimore picked up its other run in the fifth as Mark Belanger doubled, took third on a fly ball and scored on a passed ball by Twins' catcher Butch Wynegar.

In other American League games, Detroit and Texas split a pair, with the Tigers taking the opener 7-5 and the Rangers winning the nightcap 3-0.

In the National League, Atlanta shaded Philadelphia 2-1, the New York Mets edged San Diego 5-4, Los Angeles topped Pittsburgh 5-1, the Chicago Cubs stopped Cincinnati 6-3, St. Louis bombed Houston 8-1 and Montreal got by San Francisco 3-2.

Rusty Staub's three-run double in the eight inning carried Detroit to victory in the first game of their twinbill, before Steve Hargan rallied the Rangers with an eight-hitter in the second game.

Phil Niekro picked up his 12th victory and doubled home a run as Atlanta beat the Phillies.

John Milner's pinch single in the eighth inning snapped a 4-4 tie and carried Jerry Koosman to victory over San Diego ace Randy Jones.

Ron Cey's bases-loaded triple was the big blow as Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh to end a six-game losing streak.

Steve Swisher's three-run homer carried the Cubs past Cincinnati for their sixth victory in the last seven games.

Keith Hernandez drove in three runs with a single and triple for St. Louis against Houston.

Larry Parrish hit a two-run homer and Earl Williams belted a tie-breaking triple to lead Montreal over San Francisco.

In late action, the New York Yankees beat Kansas City 2-1 on Thurman Munson's home run in the 11th inning; pinchrunner Matt Alexander scored all the way from first base on a bunt and an error in the ninth inning to lift Oakland over Milwaukee 2-1; and California rallied for two runs in the ninth— one on a sacrifice fly by Bob Jones and the other on a throwing error by Boston third baseman Butch Hobson—to beat the Red Sox 5-4.

Oklahoma assistant takes Wyoming job

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Steve Barrett, an assistant football coach at the University of Oklahoma, will take an assistant coaching position at the University of Wyoming.

Barrett, who could have lost his job if a disputed NCAA rule were enforced, made the announcement Tuesday. He becomes the second assistant football coach to leave Oklahoma in three weeks.

"I feel sure that Steve would not have accepted the position (with Wyoming) if the NCAA staff limitations had not been put into effect," Oklahoma football Coach Barry Switzer said.

Giants, Jets play tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, a baseball team, told the New York Cosmos, a soccer team, they could kick a ball around Tuesday night. So the New York Giants and New York Jets, football teams, are going to play their game tonight.

Huh?

Well, it all comes down to a blustery lady named Belle who blew into town Monday night and ran roughshod over Yankee Stadium, doing more to damage the turf than any 22 pairs of cleats could have done.

And when Hurricane Belle left for points north, the Giants and Jets still hadn't played their National Football League exhibition match for the so called "bragging rights" to the city.

Tuesday night the Stadium belonged to the Cosmos of the North American Soccer League—if the Yanks, concerned over the field's condition, approved. If not, the Cosmos had a rain date, namely tonight. But the approval came through and the Cosmos' rain date wasn't needed. So tonight belongs to the Giants and Jets.

After the game, the Giants will have a couple of days to rest up and, at the same time, prepare for a Saturday night encounter against the Oilers in Houston.

The Jets, though, have only one days' rest before the Oakland Raiders hit town Friday night for another Yankee Stadium exhibition. Considering the recent past performances of the two teams, the Jets may well think ol' Belle has returned.

Lou Holtz, the Jets' new head coach, viewed the dilemma realistically, if not optimistically. "You know," he said, "football is not for the timid and the weak, and you'll never get a better example of it than right now. Something good will come out of this. I don't know what it is yet, but I feel sure it will.

"I've had plenty of situations where I had two good, long, hard scrimmages in three days, yessiree. But two games—no."

Yanks take on AL president

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, who are battling for the American League East championship, have taken on an additional opponent in American League President Lee MacPhail.

Tuesday the Yanks accused the AL of a "cover up" policy and hinted they intended to defy a league directive concerning the use of instant replay on their scoreboard at Yankee Stadium.

MacPhail, a former Yankee official, fined the Yankees $1,000 and reprimanded the club Tuesday for using their instant replay scoreboard to show close plays.

The Yankees responded with a release which said:

"...We would like to point out that we have only the fans in mind when we use our scoreboard for instant replays. The board cost us $3 million and we see no reason, with this great innovation, why fans at the ballgame should see anything less than the fans at home, where instant replay has become a way of life."

Yankee owner George Steinbrenner had complained to MacPhail about the umpiring in Sunday's 8-5 loss to the Baltimore Orioles. The Yankees also put out a release criticizing what the team alleged was a series of bad calls by the crew headed by Lou DiMuro.

An eighth-inning call by Bill Kunkel started the action. On the play, New York's Gene Locklear was called out at first base. The Yankees insisted Locklear was safe, claiming that Baltimore first baseman Tony Muser juggled the ball and did not have his foot on the base.

The Yankees replayed the incident on the giant screen, and the crowd reacted bitter. Then the umpires' names went up on the screen.

MacPhail sent a telegram to Steinbrenner Tuesday which said:

"...It has come to my attention that the New York club again used the replay scoreboard in a manner contrary to policy recommended by this league. I am also informed that, following a close decision on the field, you posted the names of the umpires in a manner calculated to produce fan reaction against the umpires.

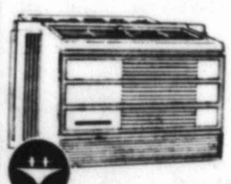

"Irresponsible action of this sort could result in physical harm to an umpire and, in fact, it has been reported to me that, on this occasion, a bottle was thrown on the field, landing near the umpire.

Bob Gibson blows interview with Candelaria

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Gibson, the only other pitcher to throw a no-hitter at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium, could have been the best possible person to interview John Candelaria. But he wasn't.

Gibson is an almost-certain Hall of Fame pitcher for his successes on the field. That does not, however, make him an instant success as a journalist.

The tendency at the networks is to pluck star players from the field and move them directly into the press box. If the migration went the other way and journalists were placed on the pitcher's mound, they would be knocked right out of the box.

That's what happened to Bob Gibson Monday night.

Following Candelaria's no-hit victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers, Gibson, an ABC broadcaster working the game, was dispatched to talk to the Pirates' young pitcher.

Candelaria was excited and Gibson apparently was nervous. The interview reflected those emotions. It didn't go well. Television's chance to do what it does best—record history live—died.

"I don't think anybody, including Bob Gibson, was happy with the way the interview turned out," said Don Ohlmeyer, an ABC producer.

"It was the first live network interview in which he has been the interviewer," Ohlmeyer said. "Bob was a little nervous. But maybe it was our fault. Maybe we shouldn't have sent him down alone.

"But there's really no excuse. He's a professional and he's paid to do a job. We threw Bobby into something he wasn't quite ready for."

New York audiences had been watching the Yankees play the Kansas City Royals. It was a runaway game, and ABC wisely switched to the on going no-hitter in Pittsburgh.

Ohlmeyer, who was producing the Yankee game in Kansas City, pointed out that the switching process was difficult "and relates to Bob's state of mind." He said Gibson may not have been briefed properly before embarking on his first national interview.

Gibson's first series of questions was inane.

He asked Candelaria how he felt, if he was nervous and if he had a family.

Then he sent the broadcast back to New York. Meanwhile, Ohlmeyer and Bob Goodrich, the producer in Pittsburgh, were on the phone. "We need more of an interview," Ohlmeyer said.

Ohlmeyer speculated that Gibson might have blanked on his questions and terminated the interview prematurely. On Ohlmeyer's orders, the cameras went back to Gibson and Candelaria in the Pittsburgh dugout.

This time, Gibson questioned Candelaria mostly about bonuses and negotiating wedges a pitcher gets after he throws a no-hitter. He asked the same type question to Duffy Dyer, who caught the game.

Gibson was a player who fought for every contract he signed. He was a sharp negotiator. Money evidently was on his mind as a player and now as a broadcaster.

But does the average fan care about that line of questioning?

Richard Raskind seeks net berth as Renee Richards

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of the U.S. Open tennis tournament are still undecided whether Renee Richards, formerly Richard Raskind, a ranking male tennis player who underwent a sex change operation, will be allowed to play in the women's singles next month at Forest Hills.

"The tournament committee has the application under consideration," a spokesman for the the U.S. Tennis Association (USTA), which will make the decision, said Tuesday.

Dr. Richards, 41, is an ophthalmologist who lived in New York City and now resides in Newport Beach, Calif. As Dr. Raskind, she played in the junior veterans division at Forest Hills just two years ago. In 1953, Dr. Raskind won the Eastern Juniors men's title.

Some tennis buffs have speculated that Dr. Richards, strong and mobile as a nationally ranked men's single player, could overpower even the likes of Chris Evert in the women's field.

The USTA's indecision has angered Dr. Richards. In a statement issued through World Tennis Magazine, she said she had the "same right to play" at the prestigious Forest Hills "as any other woman — more than most because I have already won a major singles event and I have been training for that tournament all summer."

The sex change was disclosed earlier this month when Dr. Richards won a women's title in a tournament at La Jolla, Calif.AEhe already has been cleared for i.q.e$n the Tennis Week Open starting Aug. 23 at the Orange Lawn Tennis Club in South Orange, N.J. The Tennis Week Open is the last before the U.S. Open, the most important tennis event in the United States.

Gene Scott, who accepted DNO Richards' bid to enter the New Jersey tournament, said, "I am convinced that the tests she has undergone establish that she is a woman. I am expecting to receive the gynecologist's report as further evidence."

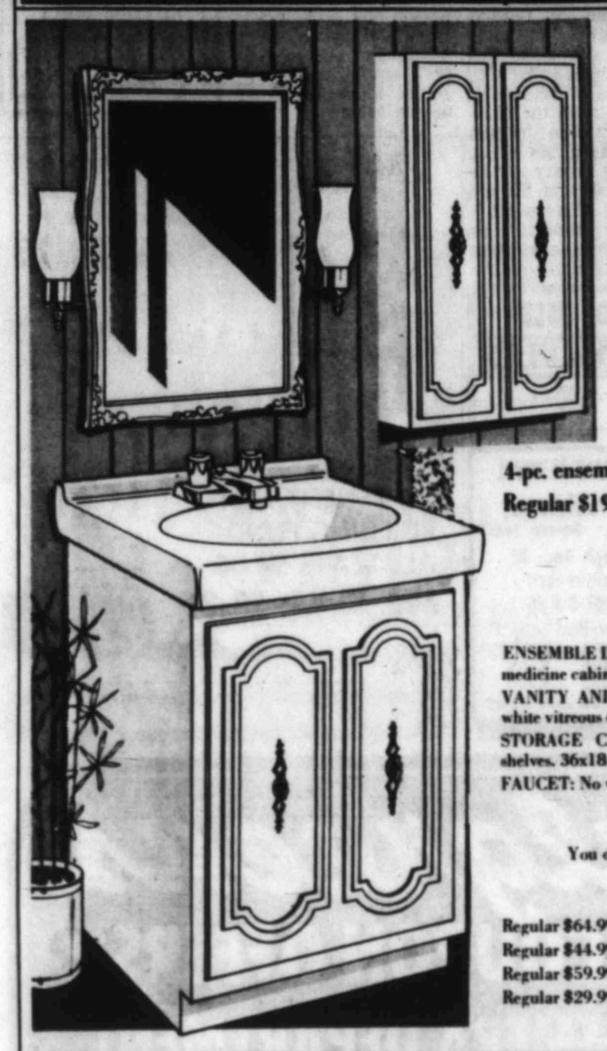

Scott, a former Davis Cup tennis player, said he talked recently with Dr. Richards, "and I take people as I find them."

Scott said that before the sex change operation Dr. Richards had weighed about 180 pounds but has lost muscle tissue due to the operation and now weighs about 147 pounds. "I noticed many more differences which helped to convince me," he said.

"I had no intention of making a cause celebre out of my participation in tennis tournaments," Dr. Richards said. "But this whole issue has become so publicized that I now feel I owe it to myself and to all others whose rights are infringed on in similar fashion, to insist on my legitimacy."

Top net women miss tourney

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — It's nothing personal, but Marcie Louie would rather have played Chris Evert or Virginia Wade than Laurie Tenney, even though she won.

The Everts, the Wades, the Evonne Goolagongs and most of the other top women tennis players are noticably absent from this year's U.S. Clay Court Tennis Tournament because of World Team Tennis commitments.

It's giving the younger players a chance to show their stuff, but for the 22-year-old Miss Louie, a former WTT player, it's a bit frustrating.

"This field might be more wide open than usual, but there's no big guys to beat," the No.5 seed from San Francisco said Tuesday after stopping Miss Tenney 6-1, 2-6, 7-5, in a wild finish that saw 18 points from deuce in the final game.

"I'd rather play the big-name players," Miss Louie said. "You're more up for the match."

The 20-year-old Miss Tenney, from Miami Beach, gave the favored Miss Louie a little more than she had expected.

"I think I underestimated her," the bespectacled Miss Louie laughed. "I was winning so easily and then she started hitting a lot of drop shots. She has a good drop shot, and that surprised me. Also, I was serving lousy."

Miss Louie's third-round opponent will be 11th-seeded Kathy May of Beverly Hills, Calif., who she beat in the first round here last year.

"She's pretty good, too," said Miss Louie, who admits she has to remind herself to be patient in each match. "My concentration is my biggest problem. I can be far ahead and then start thinking of something else."

One of the "big-name players" Miss Louie referred to is just getting underway on the third day of the tournament.

Jimmy Connors, the 1974 winner, faces his first match today, taking on Colin Dibley of Australia.

"Oh, the rocketman?" Connors said Tuesday when told he will face Dibley, whose booming serve has been clocked at 148 miles an hour.

Connors, the No.1 men's seed, has beaten Dibley on a fast, indoor court, however he doesn't really like the slow clay surface.

For top-seeded Lesley Hunt, who beat Michel Gurdal of Belgium 6-1, 6-1, it was a match she just wanted to get out of the way.

"Before this week, I hadn't played for a month. I'm always nervous anyway, but this time I was concentrating as hard as I could just to get it over."

Stephenson takes Snyder cage job

SNYDER — Jack Stephenson, assistant basketball coach at Midland Lee for the past eight years, has resigned his post to take the head coaching job at Class AAA Snyder High School.

Stephenson has been with the Midland Public Schools System for 14 years with six years experience in junior high at Cowden and Alamo.

"I am really impressed with the facilities here and am looking forward to coaching in District 3-AAA which has always been strong," said Stephenson.

Stephenson wasn't sure what type offense he would install. "I have to meet the athletes and decide then," he added. Stephenson's teams at Lee played run-and-shoot basketball and played full-court and zone press on defense.

His wife Shirley, will teach English at Snyder High School.

"It was a hard decision to make, but we are looking forward to the opportunities in Snyder," said Stephenson.

Baseball under attack for antitrust exemption

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball's prestigious exclusion from the nation's antitrust laws has come under attack by members of a House committee seeking to put major league teams in New Orleans and Washington, D.C.

Legislation to take away baseball's antitrust exemption was recommended by Rep. Gillis W. Long, D-La., and three other members of the Select House Committee on Professional Sports.

Long, who has championed a team for the $163 million Superdome in New Orleans, told the House panel Tuesday baseball has abandoned its fundamental responsibility to the American fans by expanding to Canada earlier this year and leaving U.S. cities such as New Orleans and the nation's capital without teams.

He said baseball's protection from the law has resulted in unfair treatment of players and "in a refusal to fill the void in American cities where the fans are begging for major league baseball."

Committee chairman B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., said he was impressed with the testimony he has heard in the past few weeks urging that baseball be considered commerce as are the other major professional sports such as football, basketball and hockey.

Sisk said he hoped to hold hearings on the general subject of antitrust exemption in midSeptember along with the socalled hobby tax laws in which a sports owner must make a profit in two of seven years of operation or have the franchise considered a hobby for tax purposes.

Sisk also said he will hold hearings at the end of this month, calling officials from the Justice and Labor departments, the Internal Revenue Service and university economists.

Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., suggested that baseball does not need an antitrust exemption, although officials from the sport testified otherwise He said football, basketball and hockey have been able to survive while adhering to the statutes and still remain competitive.

Long said that contrary to baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's testimony, the antitrust exemption "might serve as a bigger deterrant to negotiations with the players" because the owners could hide behind it without fear of legal suits.

Under the proposal, baseball would become "commerce" under the law and would be regulated like other businesses. The Supreme Court in 1921 held that baseball was a sport and not subject to antitrust laws.

"It has been only the commissioner of baseball, Bowie Kuhn, and owners of major league clubs who make forceful appeals for the continuation of privilege for baseball," said Long. "This so-called all-American sport has received favorite son treatment for a long time and I'm afraid is beginning to respond to such treatment as many favorite sons do—as a prodigal son."

Duane Thomas is back

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — When the Dallas Cowboys offense lines up against the Denver Broncos at Texas Stadium in Irving Saturday, an old and controversial face will be set as running back.

Duane Thomas is back, and Coach Tom Landry, to whom Thomas once referred to as a "plastic man," says Thomas will probably start in the backfield with Roger Staubach and Ron Johnson.

Thomas scored the first touchdown in Texas Stadium back in 1971, scampering 56 yards against New England in the first game played at the Dallas Cowboys palatial ballpark.

A lot happened to Thomas since 1971, including tours of duty and non-duty with other NFL clubs and a hitch in the long-gone World Football League. There was a period when Thomas lashed out at Cowboy management, including General Manager Tex Schramm and Landry.

But the Thomas who will line up in the backfield with Ron Johnson has changed his ways, and when Landry said he saw "flashes of the old Duane Thomas" Saturday against Los Angeles, he was referring to the player who led the Cowboys to the 1972 Super Bowl.

Thomas' return to the Cowboys has been well publicized, and he has said he is a more mature person now than he was when he gave sportswriters the silent treatment and gave Dallas management the tongue lashings.

Novice meet scheduled for Saturday

The Parks and Recreation Department and the City of Midland Swim Team will conduct a Novice Swim Meet at the Alamo Pool Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon.

The meet is open to all boys and girls from seven to 16, who have never competed in an AAU, YMCA or UIL official meet. Contestants may register Saturday at the pool.

Ribbons and trophies for the top three places will be given in most events. Boys and girls may enter several events, and there will be special relays and games.

Dave Frame wins crown

BUFFALO (AP) — Dave Frame won his first Professional Bowlers Association title when he captured the $60,000 Buffalo Open Tuesday night.

The Baldwin Park, Calif. kegler defeated Bobby Fenton of Los Angeles 207-197 in the title game to grab the $6,000 first prize.

The victory came when Frame struck out in the 10th frame while Fenton managed only a strike and a spare.

BRIDGE

Don't make wishes; make your contract

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A well known bridge expert has a fairy godmother who grants him a certain number of wishes while he plays a hand. This is the only reasonable explanation of the way he played today's hand during a recent match.

Opening lead — ◇ K

After ruffing the opening lead in dummy our hero wished that East had the queen of trumps and therefore led a trump from dummy and won a finesse with the jack. He got his wish.

His next wish was to find the clubs divided 3-2, so he led a low club and ducked it to East's queen. He got that wish too.

East returned a diamond, making dummy ruff with the last low trump. Declarer cashed dummy's king of spades, and the bad trump break showed up. Now South couldn't draw trumps, couldn't run the clubs and couldn't ruff out his losing diamonds. Down two.

NO WISHES NEEDED

South needed no wishes on this hand. He didn't need a trump finesse and didn't need the club suit. He just needed to count his tricks.

Declarer should lead a heart from dummy at the second trick. The best defense is to take the ace of hearts and return a trump. Declarer can cash a heart and two clubs, ruffing diamonds in the dummy and hearts in his hand at each opportunity. This line of play gives him three tricks in the side suits and seven trump tricks.

Anybody who draws trumps when the hand shrieks out for a crossruff doesn't deserve a fairy godmother.

ANSWER: Bid one heart. Show the major suit first. There will be ample time later to show the excellent diamond support.

Federal pensions most liberal, also perhaps most debt-ridden

By LEE MITGANG
Associated Press Writer

Federal pension plans offer the best retirement deal in the nation to their workers, from the president of the United States to the mailman. But the pension funds also are among the most debt-ridden.

The 21 major pension plans covering federal employes have an unfunded debt of nearly $500 billion, according to estimates compiled by the National Taxpayers Union, a private nonprofit research group. That $500 billion is money guaranteed to present and future retirees, money the pension plans do not have on hand and that each taxpayer will have to shell out over the coming years.

As of March 1, the pension plan of the largest federal employer, the Civil Service Commission, had unfunded pension debts to 4.2 million active and retired workers totaling $101 billion.

In the military retirement system, the unfunded debt to 3.1 million active and retired employes is $172 billion.

The pension fund covering the U.S. foreign service has an unfunded debt of $1 billion.

And the Central Intelligence Agency owes an estimated 16,000 employes, both active and retired, approximately $3 billion more than it has on hand, the National Taxpayers Union estimates. (The CIA does not make such statistics available.)

Under the Presidential Retirement Act, former President Nixon gets $63,000 a year in retirement pay. Three presidential widows — Mamie Eisenhower, Bess Truman and Jaqueline Kennedy Onassis — get $20,000 a year each. It is estimated that the fund providing that money will be $3 billion in debt over the life of its commitments.

Of the 21 principal federal pension plans, only one — the Federal Reserve System Retirement Plan covering 1,500 employes — is fully funded, meaning that if the plan went out of existence, it would have the assets to pay all its pension debts on the spot.

The rest of the plans apparently are relying on faith in the federal government's ability to tax 215 million Americans and print more money — something cities and states with billiondollar pension debts can't do.

In the U.S. Civil Service, basic pension benefits average $550 a month or $6,600 a year, according to David Minton, a staffer for the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee. But a retiree who started at that pension level three years ago has seen his postretirement benefits grow to $8,494 when the cost-of-living allowance is added, according to calculations done by the actuarial firm Program Planners, Inc., of New York.

While state and local public employes must serve an average of 10 years — known as the vesting period — before they can start collecting even a reduced pension, some U.S. civil servants can collect retirement pay after only five years. After 41 years of service, a federal employe can get 80 per cent of the average of his three highest salaried years of service.

Unlike nearly all private workers and many state and local public employes, federal civilian workers are not entitled to Social Security benefits. But it is common for federal workers to "moonlight" in private jobs long enough to qualify for Social Security.

With that combined coverage, a retired civil servant often can make more in retirement benefits than he took home while working.

To get his generous pension, however, the federal employe must contribute 7 per cent of his yearly salary. Most private plans do not require employe contributions and state and local public workers have to pay only 4 or 5 per cent of their salaries toward pensions.

Last year, federal civil servants contributed $2.1 billion to their pensions, while taxpayers kicked in $9.2 billion, a cost of about $45 per American.

The debt problem of federal plans is compounded by the most liberal cost-of-living allowances offered any American worker. The allowance matches each yearly rise in the Consumer Price Index and then goes it one better. A so-called "one-per-cent kicker" is added, meaning an extra one per cent adjustment above the inflation rate to compensate for time delays in paying the cost-of-living allowance.

Congressional staffers report strong backing for several pending bills which would eliminate the kicker.

Ed Hustead, chief actuary of the Civil Service Retirement Plan, estimates the cost of living allowance has added $31.4 billion to the fund's overall debts since it began in December 1965. Of that total, $22.1 billion has been accumulated since 1973 when inflation was approaching its peak. And the one-per-cent kicker alone has increased the system's debts by $4.9 billion since it was begun in November 1969, Hustead says.

Federal officials say the military retirement system is the most generous and most debtplagued. The system is entirely pay-as-you-go, meaning the plan collects from taxpayers only what it needs to get by each year. No fund is accumulated, no investments are made and hence there is no interest that might ease the tax burden. Pension experts say this type of system runs a high risk of sharply rising costs each year because provisions for future payments to retirees are never set aside.

Military pension costs, borne by every American, have gone from $895 million in 1962 to a forecast $8.4 billion in fiscal 1977. The Defense Department projects that military pensions will cost $11.3 billion in fiscal 1980 and $20.9 billion by 1990 if present trends continue.

Unlike most publicly employed workers, military employes make no contribution to the pension plans. They can retire after 20 years' service at half pay and will draw their checks for an average of 32 years. Unlike most other federal workers, they are entitled to Social Security benefits.

The military plan also provides the full cost-of-living, plus the kicker adjustment, for its retirees. And the average military retiree gets an estimated $2,000 a year in government subsidized savings through use of base food stores, hospitals and other facilities.

Two other groups receive generous retirement benefits — congressmen and federal judges.

Congressmen are covered by the Civil Service Retirement Plan, but no one is sure how much of the fund's $101 billion unfunded liability is due to congressional pensions. Benefits range from $11,000 to more than $50,000, depending on years of service.

Sens. Mike Mansfield, DMont., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., will get annual retirement pay of more than $40,000 when they retire in November. House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., will get the maximum rate of $65,000.

The maximum pension is 80 per cent of final pay after 32 years' service, but military service up to five years can be included.

Federal judges have what may be the best deal of all. Technically, they are never even considered retirees, but rather after age 65 or 70, depending on their number of years on the bench, attain "senior status," after which they can work or not, at their own choice. Either way, they draw full salary until they die.

Some federal judges, through a complicated quirk in the federal judicial and civil service statutes, also are getting paid an unintended windfall in back civil service benefits for U.S. government jobs they held before joining the bench. The amount of this windfall has been estimated as high as $200,000.

A U.S. Civil Service Commission spokesman said 16 federal judges were entitled to back civil service pensions in addition to judicial benefits. He said many were receiving the double payments.

The majority of the 16 are former U.S. attorneys or congressmen who had accumulated the necessary five years of civil service credit before joining the bench, the spokesman said.

He declined to name the judges involved, but those who have said in the Congressional Record that they were entitled to double benefits include U.S. Circuit Court Judge Homer Thornberry of Austin, Tex.; U.S. Court of Claims Judge Marion T. Bennett of Washington; Judge Jack R. Miller of the U.S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals; and Judge James Harvey of the Eastern District of Michigan.

A bill now before Congress would end the dual pensions for anyone joining the bench after the legislation is passed.

Butz says U.S. may help feed earthquake-stricken Chinese

CHICAGO (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz says the United States may come to the aid of earthquake-stricken mainland China with supplies of food.

"I think we'll move in when it becomes clear what is needed," Butz said at a news conference this week.

Butz said that talks between the United States and the People's Republic of China already have taken place concerning relief for earthquake victims there. But he said he was uncertain of details about the talks.

"Some of our people have been over there," he said before addressing a fund-raising dinner for the Republican candidate for governor of Illinois, James R. Thompson.

Acupuncture said good for animals

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A Texas A&M University professor of veterinary medicine says acupuncture has worked on humans and there's no reason it can't work on animals.

Dr. Bill McMullen, a large animal clinician, said in a recent interview that acupuncture can eliminate pain, be used in animal surgery, and one day soon "may become another branch of veterinary medicine."

Research has shown, McMullen said, that needles placed in the proper areas can make life easier for cats and dogs and horses.

"We are only scratching the surface of animal acupuncture now," he said, "but it offers a lot of promise. It will not be a replacement for the current methods of veterinary medicine, but an addition to the practice."

Acupuncture can eliminate the pain of arthritis and offers great possibility in the treatment of shock in animals and in certain operations where anesthetic may be dangerous, McMullen said.

McMullen told The Associated Press he had witnessed an operation on a pony where two of the silver needles had been placed in the left ear.

"The skin jumped when the knife passed through. The muscles reacted, but the pony looked straight ahead with no obvious pain.

"On another occasion, two needles were placed in the hind legs of a dog and an incision was made in his stomach about four inches long. Once the operation was finished, the incision was closed, and the dog ran back to his room with no obvious pain," McMullen said.

"I have no doubt but that acupuncture is the real thing," he said.

"There has been a tremendous amount of research work in recent years that offers real good proof that acupuncture is more than hypnotism or hog-wash."

Market prices advance

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices advanced again today, but the market began to bog down once more near the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The closely watched average of 30 blue chips, up 4 points at mid-morning, showed a 2.25 gain at 995.68 by noon. The average had climbed 9.97 Tuesday for its sharpest rise in more than a month.

Advances led declines by slightly less than a 2-1 margin in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers noted continuing hopes for an encouraging reading in the government's wholesale price index for July, which is slated to be announced Thursday morning. But they also said investors still seemed to grow cautious whenever the Dow neared 1,000 — a point above which it has failed to hold 10 times this year.

Transamerica was the most active NYSE issue, up ⅜ at 12⅞. A 217,600-share block traded at 12¾.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks picked up .18 to 55.94. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was ahead .23 at 104.09.

Volume on the NYSE increased considerably, totalling 9.25 million shares over the first two hours against 6.88 million in the comparable period Tuesday.

J. Ray McDermott rose ⅝ to 49¼ after a 1¼-point advance Tuesday, when the company reported sharply higher quarterly earnings.

House passes bill saving New River

WASHINGTON — Rejecting arguments that it was creating a precedent "that will haunt this body for years to come," the House Tuesday overwhelmingly approved legislation that would prohibit construction of a giant hydroelectric project on the pristine New River in North Carolina and Virginia.

The 311-to-73 House vote was considered the main test in the long and nationally waged fight to save the waterway, which geologists have called the second oldest river in the world.

The Senate is expected to pass a companion measure later this month, after it returns from its current recess. President Ford has already indicated he will sign legislation preserving the New River, which flows down rapids and through gorgs on a highly scenic mountain route from western North Carolina through southwestern Virginia to West Virginia.

ENVIRONMENTALISTS, who had helped make preservation of the New River a national issue, quickly hailed the House vote.

Though the bill may become law by the end of the month, the 13-year struggle between supporters and opponents of the $845-million Blue Ridge hydroelectric dam project is not likely to come to a quick conclusion.

The chief counsel for the American Electric Power Co. Inc. of New York, which wants to build the two-dam project, said Tuesday that "it is highly likely we will bring suit" against the federal government for more than $500 million if the bill becomes law.

A. Joseph Dowd, general counsel and senior vice president for American Electric, noted that its Roanoke subsidiary Appalachian Power Co., was given a license by the Federal Power Commission two years ago to build the project that is barred by the House legislation.

Dowd who called the license "a valuable property right," said any suit would seek to recover the difference between the cost of the Blue Ridge Project and the likely acceptable alternative — a coal-burning power plant in Appalachina's coalfields in West Virginia. He estimated the cost of a coal-burning plant at about $1.35 billion, or $505 million more than the FPC-approved Blue Ridge Project.

THE ARCHITECT of the House bill, Rep. Stephen L. Neal (D-N.C.), said such a suit "would be pure fantasy."

In debate on the House floor, Neal said legal research by the Interior Department, the Library of Congress and staff members of the House Interior Committee indicated "there would not be one dollar of liability if these dams were not built."

The House bill had two purposes. It reaffirmed a March decision by Interior Secretary Thomas S. Kleppe designating 26 1-2 miles of the New River — which includes much of the area that would be flooded by the two proposed dams — as part of the federal wild and scenic river system.

More importantly, it prohibits any project that would "invade, inundate or otherwise adversely affect" the 26 1-2 mile segment of the river.

This language would effectively kill the Blue Ridge Project, which would consist of two dams near Galax, Va., just north of the North Carolina border. The dams would flood about 42,000 acres of highly scenic land in both Virginia and North Carolina.

About 3,000 people, including 600 farm families, would be displaced — a prospect that helped marshall widespread opposition to the project in North Carolina, and line up the state's entire congressional delegation behind anti-dam legislation.

THE STRUGGLE to save the New River produced a fierce but unusual battle among lobbyists.

Supporting the legislation were not only liberals who can be expected to back save-the-environment bills, but conservatives like Sen. Jesse A. Helms (D-N.C.) and even presidential contender Ronald Reagan.

Opposing it, in addition to electric utility interests, was the AFL-CIO, which usually supports liberal positions on environmental issues.

For the AFL-CIO, especially its Building Trades Department, the issue was the 1,500 to 2,000 jobs that would be created by the eight-year construction of the dams.

Supporters of the House bill produced more clout in their lobbying. For example, Rep. Roy A. Taylor (D-N.C.) sent letters to many congressmen with a paragraph tailored to each colleague pointing to individual projects he had supported in their district during his chairmanship of the National Parks subcommittee. Taylor, who is retiring this term, said he asked for their vote as one last favor.

The chief opposition within the House came from Virginia congressmen representing southwestern and other largely rural areas, that want to attract the recreational dollars promised by the large lakes created by the dams.

"I fear we are going to create a precedent that will haunt this body for years to come," said Republican Rep. William C. Wampler, who represents Southwest Virginia. The legislation would constitute the first congressional revocation of an FPC license.

City orders plans for golf course

By DEBBIE PIERCE

Parks and Recreation Planning Associates Inc. of Austin has been employed by the city to make preliminary plans and specifications on constructing an additional 18 holes and a clubhouse building at Hogan Park Golf Course.

The action came Tuesday by the Midland City Council at the recommendation of Councilman Mark S. Martin.

A fee of no more than $5,500 will be paid for the preliminary plans and specifications, with funds to come from revenue sharing, the group agreed.

Two representatives of Parks and Recreation Planning Associates Inc. appeared before council Tuesday and said the company could do very preliminary plans at a cost of $2,000 for an extra nine holes at the golf course and $1,500 for the clubhouse building.

Council, however, at the recommendation of Parks Director Robert Thomson, agreed to have plans made for an additional 18 holes at the golf course, to provide for the expected growth.

The group also gave its approval to an emergency ambulance service contract with Midland County, in which the county would contribute $10,000 until May 31, 1977, for the city's operation of emergency medical service ambulances. At that time, a meeting will be held to review progress of the ambulance service, with the possibility of the county renewing its contribution then.

In other action, council:

— Approved taxicab rate increases on first reading, provided the companies supply the city airport transportation rates, agree to sign a franchise and agree to post their rates in their vehicles;

— Approved on first reading a request by William Hickey for an amendment to a planned district at 2300 W. Wadley Ave. for an increase in the size of his office;

— Approved a replat at 2300 W. Wadley Ave.;

— Approved on first reading a request by Lee R. Johnson for a specific use permit for on-premises consumption of alcoholic beverages at 106 S. A St. for a mixed beverage permit at the Sans Souci Club, but not opening the club to the public;

— Approved a request by Phillip Sorrell for a two-year temporary trailer permit at 3108 Mariana St., provided the city planning staff makes sure the trailer will fit on the lot;

— Approved on second reading a zone change from multiple family to mobile homes in the Midland Heights Addition, Haley Heights Addition, Moore Addition and Lindsay Acres Addition;

— Approved on second reading a zone change from office, commercial and single-family to all commercial at S. Cottonflat Road on Carter Street south 2,640 feet;

— Approved a request by G. D. Dixon for a specific use permit for on-premises consumption of alcoholic beverages at 700 W. Missouri Ave. for a mixed beverage permit for a new supper club, but not opening the club to the public;

— Approved on first reading a request by Texas Diversified Properties Inc. for a zone change from single-family to planned district in the 3000 block of Midland Drive, provided the developer adds 10 feet to the west and north for alley purposes and provided construction is made in two years;

— Approved the writing of an ordinance amending the city's building code to enforce certain standards of durability throughout the city;

— Approved a request by the Midland Symphony and Chorus Association for use of Wadley-Barron Park and the showmobile Aug. 28 and the closing of Wall Street between Big Spring Street and Colorado Street for the Pops on the Plaza Sept. 22;

— Approved a request by the Eastside Lions Club for use of the showmobile and Hogan Park and a temporary beer license for the club's Sept. 16 Fiesta;

— Amended the engineering agreement with Parkhill, Smith and Cooper for ramp improvements at Midland Regional Air Terminal at a fixed fee of $70,750 for the plans and specifications only;

— Approved one loading zone space in the easternmost space of 513-517 W. Texas Ave.;

— Approved for a three-month period a request by Midland Paper Salvage Co. for use of trash containers for reclaiming paper;

— Approved extending water and sewer service to Buckeye Inc. at the standard pro rata rate;

— Approved on first reading abandoning an alley in the 400 block of N. Loraine St.;

— Agreed to advertise for bids for a water line to serve the park maintenance building at Hogan Park;

— Approved on second reading the regulating of parking at Air Terminal;

— Agreed to renew the FAA janitorial service contract and increase the price from $1.50 to $2 per square foot;

— Authorized the refund of over-payment of taxes;

— Approved securities pledged for the city's deposit;

— Agreed to oppose HR 13040, which would authorize federal agencies to regulate public pension systems;

— Awarded a contract to R. L. Staub Co. for $2,074.80 for drilling monitering wells in the landfill area;

— Awarded a contract to N. B. C. of Texas Inc. for $7,703 for repairing and repainting of the Public Safety Building and the Municipal Garage;

— Awarded a contract to War-Pak Inc. for $8,105.50 for container lids for the Public Works department;

— Awarded a contract to Chemical and Turf Specialty Co. Inc. of Dallas for $7,011 for grass seed for the Parks and Recreation department;

— Agreed to see if competition is available on establishing section corners along Wadley Drive;

— Authorized execution of a $10 option agreement for a five and one-half month period on lots 4-6 of block 53 of the Original Town Addition;

— Considered appointments to city boards and commissions;

— Referred to the city Energy Commission the matter of the forthcoming review of Pioneer Natural Gas Co.'s gas purchase contracts by the Texas Railroad Commission;

— Agreed to waive purchase rights to the 12-acre Windecker Property at the airport; and,

— Commended the Mixed Youth Choir of the First Baptist Church for being selected to sing at the GOP National Convention in Missouri next week.

City to endure more woes from 'big' government

The Midland City Council Tuesday ran into two snags from "big" government — one dealt by the State of Texas and one by the federal government.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. said council had received a letter from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development regarding the city's application for second-year Community Development funds.

"HUD approved our application, but added their own amendment to it," Angelo noted.

The city's application was approved by HUD on the condition that the city provide renters assistance in its third-year program, the mayor explained. "I find it strange HUD can make its approval this year subject to something we have to do next year," he said.

He noted that renters assistance is one thing HUD has been trying to nudge the city to have, but the city had voted against it many times in the past.

Council agreed to authorize City Attorney Joe Nuessle to correspond with HUD officials, noting the unacceptability of the amended application. Council also agreed copies of that correspondence would be sent to both state senators and to Congressman George Mahon.

In a snag fron the state government, council came upon a somewhat different situation.

Marion Fisher, Senior Services director, appeared before council seeking funds for a congregate meal program for 78 elderly Midlanders. She explained that a hot noon meal could be provided five days a week to elderly persons and not duplicate services already offered to them.

She was seeking $2,153 from the council to be added to the $2,153 already approved by the Midland County Commissioners, for the total local input to be matched by a grant from the Governor's Office on Aging.

Bill Smith of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission told council the program could be implemented in 60 to 90 days. He said the program had just recently become available to smaller cities instead of only the large metropolitan areas.

Smith said Ector County, but not the City of Odessa, also would participate in the Program. He said the food would be prepared in Odessa and transported by van to serve Midlanders.

Mayor Angelo noted, "The objective of this is great, but we're going to wind up getting more jobs and equipment for those who are helping than actually helping the needy ones."

Councilman Martin Neill said the program "is an excellent one for the churches to engage in," but not the city.

Councilman Charles Tighe wanted to know why the food couldn't be prepared in Midland, thereby saving the cost of transportation. He said, "The economics of this just don't make sense. Why don't you explore the possibility of having a local cafeteria prepare this food?"

Smith noted the program also is not a welfare situation. He said that anyone, regardless of his economic state, could participate, provided he could be classified as a senior citizen and provided he make some sort of donation toward the cost of the meal.

Angelo said he had questions "on if this is a real viable program," but that he and the council would be willing to look for private sources to help fund it for the first year.

Mrs. Fisher said the program was needed, as many senior citizens miss being included in the welfare program by as little as $5. She also volunteered her help in explaining the program to groups desiring to assist in funding the project.

County commissioners award contracts on floor coverings

A contract for floor covering in office areas of the jail was awarded to Sherwin-Williams at this morning's reconvened meeting of the Midland County commissioner's court.

The meeting was recessed Monday without acting on the matter pending further information from Sherwin-Williams.

The low bid, for $2,687.20, is for covering three offices, the lobby, hallway, kitchen and dining area of the jailhouse with industrial sheet vinyl.

A representative for the company said the materials were guaranteed by the manufacturer, and Sherwin-Williams guarantees workmanship for one year.

Work will begin within two weeks, and will be completed within seven days, he said.

Commissioner Durward Wright presided over the meeting in the absence of County Judge Barbara Culver and Judge Pro-Tem John Thomas.

Four clergymen return money

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — One of four San Francisco Bay Area clergymen who received money from the Jimmy Carter presidential campaign to attract local black political support said Tuesday he had offered to return his funds to the Carter campaign.

The Rev. J.L. Richard, president of Oakland's Baptist Ministers Union, who received $2,000, said he was returning the money because "the questionable implications currently being suggested becloud our original good intentions."

"We assumed that this was to be expense money disbursed through the black clergy for workers in the campaign," Mr. Richard said in a statement issued in Oakland.

The Los Angeles Times disclosed Sunday that Mr. Richard and three other Bay Area black ministers were paid a total of $5,000 by the Carter campaignito woo support for Carter among black voters in that area.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING CORRIDOR (LOCATION) AND DESIGN (COMBINED HEARING)

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation will conduct a public hearing on September 15, 1976, at 7:30 P.M. in the Midland City Hall Council Chambers for the purpose of discussing the development of a north arterial loop road around Midland's urbanized area. The proposed route will extend from the junction of FM 1369 and IH 20 west of Midland along the western, northern and eastern edge of Midland to intersect with IH 20 east of Midland.

The proposed highway project contemplates the construction of a four-lane divided facility throughout the limits of the project and will be developed in various stages of construction. Access to the ultimate circumferential route will be controlled by locating interchanges at intersections with highway routes and arterial streets with continuous frontage roads throughout the limits of the project. A minimum of 300 feet of right of way will be required for the development of the project which will generally follow routes of other existing facilities.

Maps and other drawings showing the proposed route locations and geometric designs that are under consideration will be displayed at the hearing and together with environmental studies and any other available information about the proposed project are on file and available for public inspection and copying at the Resident Engineer's Office at 2701 Elizabeth Street, Midland, Texas. Also, the drawings showing the proposed geometric design have been placed on File with Midland County and the City of Midland.

The State's Relocation Assistance Program, the benefits and services for displaces and information concerning the relocation assistance office will be discussed. Tentative schedules for right of way acquisition and construction will be discussed.

All interested citizens are invited to attend this public hearing. Verbal and written comments from the public regarding the project are requested. Comments may be presented either at the hearing or written 10 days after the hearing. Written statements and other exhibits may be submitted to the Resident Engineer's Office at 2701 Elizabeth, Midland, Texas, but must be received not later than ten (10) days after the public hearing.

THE STATE OF TEXAS TO: PHILIP HARRIS BOHART
RESPONDENT, GREETINGS

You are hereby commanded to appear by filing a written answer to the Petitioner's Petition at or before ten o'clock A.M. of the first Monday after the expiration of 20 days from the date of the issuance of this citation, same being Monday, the 30th day of August, 1976, at or before ten o'clock A.M. before the Honorable Court of Domestic Relations, Midland County, Texas, at the Courthouse of said County in Midland, Texas.

Said Petitioner's Petition was filed in said Court, on the 6th day of August, A.D., 1976, in this cause, numbered 7293 on the docket of said Court, and entitled "In the Interest of KEVIN DAWSON BOHART, KELLY DYKE BOHART, and CHRISTOPHER GRAFTON BOHART, minor children" the nature of which suit is a request to terminate the parent-child relationship between said children and their natural father and appoint CAROLINE DYKE CALLAWAY as Managing Conservator of and for such children with power to consent to their adoption.

The Child, KEVIN DAWSON BOHART, was born the 1st day of June, 1961, in Midland, Texas.

The Child, KELLY DYKE BOHART, was born the 7th day of July, 1963, in Midland, Texas.

The Child, CHRISTOPHER GRAFTON BOHART, was born the 9th day of April, 1966, in Midland, Texas.

As is more fully shown by Petitioner's Petition on file in this suit.

The Court has authority in this suit to enter any judgment or Decree in the said children's interest which will be binding upon you, including the termination of the parent-child relationship and the appointment of a conservator with authority to consent to the said children's adoption.

Issued and given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Midland, Texas, this the 9th day of August, A.D., 1976.

Attest: Madge Wallis, Clerk
Court of Domestic Relations
Midland County, Texas

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

PERMIAN BASIN CAPITAL CORPORATION (LICENSE NO. 06/06-0161) Notice of Application for Transfer of Control Licensed Small Business Investment Company

Notice is hereby given that an application has been filed with the Small Business Administration (SBA), pursuant to Section 107.701 of the regulations governing small business investment companies (13 C.F.R. Section 107.701 (1976)), for transfer of control of Permian Basin Capital Corporation (Permian), 303 West Wall Avenue, Midland, Texas 79701, a Federal Licensee under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, as amended (the Act), (15 U.S.C. 661 et seq.), and the Rules and Regulations promulgated thereunder.

Permian was licensed on January 3, 1973 and has a paid-in capital and paid-in surplus of $500,000. The class "A" voting common stock of Permian is owned 49 percent by the First National Bank of Midland (FNBM), Midland, Texas, 17 percent by the First National Bank in Brownwood, Brownwood, Texas 17 percent by the First National Bank of Lea County, Hobbs, New Mexico, and 17 percent by the Western State Bank of Midland, Midland, Texas. In addition, FNBM owns 100 Percent of the class "B" non-voting common stock.

Public Law 94-305 permits a bank to own up to 100 percent of a small business investment company (SBIC). As such, under the terms of a purchase agreement, FNBM proposes to buy all the class A voting common stock from the aforestated three banks. As a result FNBM would own all the issued and outstanding stock of Permian.

The proposed transfer of control is subject to the approval of SBA. If such approval is given, the officers and directors of Permian will be as follows:

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD
Wilbus A. Yeager
1500 Country Club Drive
Midland, Texas 79701
PRESIDENT
DIRECTOR
William B. Johnston
P.O. Box 325
Midland, Texas 79701
VICE PRESIDENT
SECRETARY
TREASURER
DIRECTOR
G. Arthur Donnelly III
1608 Gulf
Midland, Texas 79701
DIRECTOR
William B. Yarborough
2005 Sinclair
Midland, Texas 79701
DIRECTOR
Willam B. Blakemore II
620 Commercial Bank Tower
Midland, Texas 79701

There are no proposed changes to Permian's present Articles of Incorporation, Bylaws and current operations.

Matters involved in SBA's consideration of the application include the general business reputation and character of management and shareholders, and the probability of successful operations of Permian under their management, in accordance with the Act and Regulations.

Notice is further given that any person may, not later than fifteen days from the date of publication of this notice) submit to SBA in writing, comments on the proposed transfer of control of Permian. Any such comments should be addressed to: Associate Administrator for Finance and Investment, Small Business Administration, 1441 "L" Street, N. W., Washington, D.C. 20416.
