A Business Man Says—
Try The Manager Plan—
Healthful West Texas—
A Simple Recipe—

J. T. HARRELL, vice president of the City National bank and keen business man, suggests that Wichita Falls might do well to try the city manager form of government.

The manager plan has the appeal to Mr. Harrell that it has to all business and professional men—the application of simple straightforward business principles to the administration of a city's government. City government has become chiefly city business, and there you have the reason for the almost universal success of the manager plan.

A FEW years ago the city manager plan of government might have been considered an experiment. Today, with more than 300 cities, many of them in Texas, operating successfully under the plan, the manager form is an established success.

In Wichita Falls conditions seem most favorable to the manager plan of government, with a council of successful men to direct policies, and a "hired man" to carry out and systematize the details of municipal business. No city in Texas can boast more outstanding successful men in the business and professional world than Wichita Falls, and no city can point to men more willing to serve their home town.

JUDGE J. N. KELLIS of San Angelo dies at the age of 101 after an unusually long life of active service to his state and community. Few men reach such an age, but a greater number approach it in healthful West Texas than in any other section of the country.

Of course Judge Kellis had unusual stamina. He never burdened his body with the ills of incorrect living. He was a Baptist preacher from 1866 when he dropped his Confederate rifle. These are the elements of longevity and of happiness—safe and sane living, and the zeal to follow some worthwhile ideal through life's work.

JUDGE E. G. THORNTON'S suggestion that the grand jury investigate reports of fee-taking by officers in the county in traffic cases is well made, and should put an end to such practices, if there are any.

It is understood that operations of some officers have been through a misunderstanding of the provisions of the state law, and Judge Thornton has provided for this with the injunction to the grand jury that indictments need not necessarily be returned, but that the investigating body should inquire into the matter.

Any recurrence of fee-taking in violation of the state law should receive scant sympathy from courts or prosecuting officials.

LOCAL COUPLE OUT FOR AUTO RIDE, ROBBED

Pistols Displayed By Pair Of Unmasked Bandits To Halt Auto

CAR IS DISABLED

Bandits Escape By Taking Switch Key Away From Driver

Forcing Bill McCormick and his companion, Miss Marguerite McPherson, to step from the car in which they were riding, two unmasked men in a Ford touring car held the couple up on the Holliday-Park drive about 10 o'clock Tuesday night and robbed Mr. McCormick of $3.50 in cash and a pistol.

Mr. McCormick and Miss McPherson were riding slowly toward the city on the dirt road known as the Lake Creek road and were just entering the paved road when the bandit car overtook them, they told police.

Pistol Displayed

One of the men in the Ford stepped on the running board of Mr. McCormick's car and, with a large pistol pointed at them, ordered them to get out of the car.

When they were out of the car, Miss McPherson was ordered to walk down the road, which she refused to do, police were told. As one of the men started to take Mr. McCormick's money, he picked up a pistol which he had in his car but was prevented from using it when the other robber placed a gun against his back and ordered him to raise his hands.

Taking Mr. McCormick's money from his pockets and the pistol from his hands, one of the bandits held the couple covered with a gun while the other jerked the switch key from the car and they drove away towards the city.

Police Notified

To start the motor of his car, Mr. McCormick, who is an automobile mechanic, had to readjust the wiring of the ignition. On entering the city limits the couple met Homer Bentley, motorcycle officer and reported the robbery to him. The officer took two men and started a search for the robbers.

Later at the police station Mr. McCormick and Miss McPherson joined officers in a search throughout the city for the highwaymen.

POLLARD OUT AFTER RESORTS PEDDLING VICE

Injunction Order Against One Resort Already In Force

ALL NEAR HOUSTON

Attorney General Pollard Promises Action By His Office

AUSTIN, July 5.(AP)—State action against alleged gambling palaces below Houston will follow the injunction and search warrant served on "Loma Linda," Fort Bend county resort, Monday, unless local officers make some quick and effective moves, Attorney General Claude Pollard said today.

Although Loma Linda, 12 miles from Houston, and 150 yards inside the Fort Bend county line, was enjoined from operation of gaming devices by District Judge M. S. Munson of Angelton, no arrests were made. The restraining order and warrant were issued on application of Attorney General Pollard through Assistant Attorneys General D. A. Simmons and Galloway Calhoun, who left here Saturday after a conference with him.

Mr. Pollard said he had information that some of the resorts in Fort Bend and Galveston counties "are worse than those in Mexico," and that he will see that all of them are "cleaned out."

"The state has had to act on the numerous complaints of wide open gambling, running as high as $40,000 to $50,000 a night because local officers have failed to curb it," the attorney general said.

Two assistant attorneys general were absent from the capital today on an unexplained mission.

Banker Urges Trial of Manager Government In Wichita Falls

J. T. Harrell Sees Good Business Outlook For City in Fall; Farm Prices to Go Higher

"The manager form of government has been tried in many cities with success and I, personally, would like to see it tried out in Wichita Falls," said J. T. Harrell, vice president of the City National bank at the weekly luncheon of the Wichita Falls Real Estate Board Tuesday. Mr. Harrell spoke to the realtors on general business conditions in the city and territory, proclaiming them good "in spite of the mental attitude," and stoutly championed a trial of the city manager plan of government.

He pointed out that there is good sound logic in the arrangement by which a trained man is hired as manager who is not changed with every administration, and that no matter how fine a democratic form may seem, it is one in which it is always easy to make mistakes. Mr. Harrell affirmed that a change in our plan of administration might result in much betterment to the people and the city.

Business Outlook Bright

Speaking of the general trend of business at this time, Mr. Harrell first sketched a view of the prosperity in the nation as a whole, stressing the fact that America is experiencing a time of prosperous activity. With the rate of call money as a barometer, things could be no better, he said, as this has stayed between three and five per cent for several months past, an unusually good indication.

"Building activities are as good as or better than they were last year, and though the price of crude oil has been greatly reduced, I believe the peak of production will soon be reached and the situation remedied."

Good Fall Business

"Locally, the mental attitude is not very good—otherwise we are all right," he declared, receiving the hearty applause of the club for the statement.

"I think we can look for active business this fall, there are sufficient funds on hand for all legitimate enterprises, and there seems no reason to deny that the coming season will be a prosperous one."

Mr. Harrell gave among other reasons for this prediction the opinion that greater returns from agricultural products would be afforded especially in the corn and cotton markets.

"I believe that corn will bring one dollar per bushel at least, and it looks like we will have the biggest crop here I have ever seen since coming to Wichita Falls in 1920," he declared. He added that all indications are that the returns in the fall cotton market will be the best seen in many years.

GRAND JURY TOLD TO PROBE TRAFFIC FEES

Officers to Be Warned Against Illegal Collections

TRIBUTE TO ROGERS

Investigators Open Term Of Four Weeks In District Court

Swinging into action for a four weeks' session, the county grand jury got down to work Tuesday afternoon after being empanelled Tuesday morning by Judge E. G. Thornton, in the 30th district court, and perfected several indictments which are expected to be returned today or Thursday.

Hits Fee Collection

After delivering the necessary legal charge to the grand jurors, Judge Thornton advised the body to investigate a report made to him that certain officers in Wichita county were collecting fees in traffic law violation cases. A recent law passed by the legislature sets out that officers shall not receive fees for traffic law arrests.

Judge Thornton said that due to the fact that the law was recently enacted and that the officers might not be familiar with its provisions, that he would not recommend that indictments be returned but that he thought a warning to the officers from the grand jurors would clarify the matter. However, Judge Thornton told the grand jurors that they were the sole judges in the investigation and that they could return indictments if they desired.

Caution in Indictments

Advising the grand jurors that they should be cautious in returning indictments, Judge Thornton said that they should be reasonably sure of the guilt of the accused before returning indictments.

During his charge, Judge Thornton paused long enough to pay tribute to the late P. A. Rogers, who was a member of the grand jury commission which selected the members of the present grand jury.

Judge Thornton said: "I want to pay tribute to Mr. Rogers as being a good man—a public spirited and conscientious citizen. He represented the highest type of American citizenship. I wish we had more like him."

Members of Jury

Members of the grand jury are: Bert Adrian, Wichita Falls, foreman; W. P. Melton, Electra; S. A. M. Cooper, H. J. Exley and Joe Davis, Burkburnett; George Miles, Curtis Sewell and Charles Van Loh, Iowa Park; Tom Smock, George Fox, Al Moline and K. C. Spell, Wichita Falls.

U. S. WAR DEBT BEING REDUCED

Treasury Plans to Slash Another Billion Off

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Retirement of nearly $3,500,000,000 of liberty bonds in the next 15 months was the giant task confronting the treasury today.

Between now and September 15, 1928, the government must either pay off or refund $1,276,000,000 of second liberties. Although the larger portion will be refunded, more than a billion may be redeemed in cash if reduction of the public debt maintains its recent pace.

Debt Is Reduced.

A third of the enormous public debt growing out of the world war will have been wiped out before these operations are completed. About $900,000,000 more must be spent in debt reduction to bring this about. The debt stood, when the last treasury year ended June 30, at $18,512,000,000.

Its highest peak was $26,500,000,000, in August 1919. In the months intervening, the treasury will have an opportunity to buy in some of the bonds, making use of the $353,000,000 sinking fund available this year and other moneys. Another offer of new securities in exchange for the second liberties is generally expected in September.

Within these reductions it is anticipated that the treasury will be able to handle all the bonds surrendered on November 15. A considerable portion will not be turned in, from all indications, although interest ceases on that date.

When the second liberties are out of the way the treasury will have the third liberties to reckon with. These fall due on September 15, 1928.

Billions Retired.

Nearly half the original issue of $4,175,000,000 has been retired in the last few years, by application of the sinking fund, foreign repayment and treasury surpluses. More than $7,100,000,000, however, are still outstanding.

About $720,000,000 interest charges will be paid by the government this year on the public debt, according to treasury estimates. This is $67,000,000 less than last year.

The negro is the owner of the .45 calibre pistol used to kill Weatherby and Mrs. Weatherby, according to Sheriff Pierce. He is not thought to have done the killing but is being held on the theory that he may be able to furnish information in the case.

It was ascertained today that Mrs. Weatherby was shot with a .45 calibre pistol and with a shotgun in addition to being struck with the crow bar and hammer found near her body. It was thought yesterday she had been killed by blows from the crow bar and hammer.

The body of Weatherby was in another room. He had been shot through the head and the weapon which had been used could not be found.

The exact manner in which the boy met his death is not known. His grandmother, Mrs. R. E Boydston, with whom he went to Haven park Monday afternoon, last saw him in the shallow pool for children.

His body was discovered in deep water by swimmers and was recovered by Oswald White, 15, of 2138 Yale avenue. It was believed the body had been under the water an hour when it was discovered.

Wichita Falls Firm Wins Contract For $19,000 Steam Tunnel at Hospital

Work on a concrete steam tunnel at the Wichita Falls State hospital, to cost about $19,000, will be started by the Janes Construction company within the coming week, following the awarding of the contract Tuesday by the state board of control to the Wichita Falls firm, Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent, announced Tuesday night.

Notice of the award was received in an Associated Press dispatch here Tuesday from Austin.

Construction of the tunnel will effect a 15 or 20 per cent reduction in fuel bills for the hospital, Dr. Castner said, and will afford much greater convenience in heating the buildings and in the hot water plumbing system. It will be completed within about two months, and in order for the first cold weather.

Bids were advertised for some time ago by engineers of the Montgomery Ward and Company, who had charge of drawing plans for the tunnel. Eight were received with the local company placing the lowest and most satisfactory offer at $19,000.

Petition Asking Lower Assessments, Higher Tax Rate, Delayed by Backers

A group of citizens living in Wichita county desiring to have property assessments decreased and the county tax rate raised will endeavor in the near future to have the county commissioners court take action on the proposal to be effective in 1928, Everett Hughes, one of those favoring the proposal said Tuesday night.

It was anticipated that the group would file a petition Tuesday with the court requesting action in 1927, however due to the fact that the members of the court asserted they would not take action without an opinion from the attorney general and as this opinion could not be obtained before the final adjournment of the county board of tax equalization, the group decided to defer action until a later date, Mr. Hughes said.

The board of equalization will convene Wednesday and take final adjournment Friday, according to a statement issued Tuesday by the county commissioners court.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Chicago's "toughest bandit queen," as authorities termed Helen Konkel, 21, fainted in court when sentenced today for the robbery of a jewelry store.

From three to twenty years in the state penitentiary was the sentence on a plea of guilty to robbery with a gun.

Carl Ness, Helen's sweetheart, and Joe Maschinski, received similar sentences, and Clarence Swanson, a boy of 19, was given from one to 10 years in the Pontiac reformatory.

Helen went "shopping" to the jewelry store of Joseph Robinson, accompanied by her three escorts. While she held a revolver at Robinson, her three chums ransacked the store. But in departing, Helen left her purse. And the purse contained cards bearing her name and address.

She and the youths were cornered in a deserted house by the police. A revolver battle followed, Helen shooting with the best of them. Tear bombs overcame the party. But even when captured Helen was "tough" until she went to court today.

Dried-Out Bowels Hold Malaria in Your System

If malaria is in your system, the only way to get it out without torturing and upsetting yourself is to take Dodson's Liver Tone to clean out all the hardened, dried-out accumulation of bile in the liver and bowels, and carry the germs out with it.

Never take calomel. That's wrong. Calomel is mercury—a dangerous drug. It jars the liver and cleans constipated bowels, that's true. But it salivates you—makes you sick and you lose a day from your work. It stifles the muscles of the bowels, deadens them so they can't act at all.

Dodson's Liver Tone cleans you out good so the liver is free to get the malaria germs out of your blood, and the bowels can carry them off. Before you realize it the chills and fever stop. Malaria is gone.

Get the big bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone from your nearest store. They all have it. Keep it in the house so you will have it, handy to take nights before you go to bed.

don't fool yourself

You probably offend

It's a fact that most of those who offend by Halitosis (unpleasant breath) are not aware they have it.

The one way of putting yourself on the safe and polite side is to rinse the mouth with Listerine before any engagement—business or social.

Immediately, every trace of unpleasant odor is gone, and with it that dread fear of offending.

1/3 Had Halitosis
120 hotel clerks, 40 of them in the better class hotels, said that nearly every third person inquiring for a room had Halitosis. Who should know better than they?
Face to face evidence

Halitosis is usually the result of a bad condition in the teeth and gums—or both, and you know how effective Listerine is in keeping them healthy.

LOVE AT SEVENTEEN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Happy Marriages Often Grow from Youthful Romance

By Beatrice Fairfax,
An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

CAN love at seventeen, be real and lasting love, a safe basis for marriage?

Has seventeen sufficient judgment to choose a mate wisely? Is seventeen-year-old love to be lightly ignored, to be discouraged as puppy-love?

These and similar questions are suggested by the following letter from Philosophical.

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I am in love with a young lady named Ruth, who is seventeen years of age. I am a few years her senior.

"Your experience has probably proven to you that the average young person of seventeen does not know the meaning of true love. I would like you to know that we are both exceptionally seriously-minded and sincere and extraordinarily level-headed.

"We contemplate matrimony in five years—no sooner. Ruth is now a senior in High School and I have a position with a reliable firm and have a wonderful chance to rise. I would appreciate your advice in the following matter.

"Not our parents so much, but our various relatives, are trying to separate us, because they say we are too young to go together steadily. I see Ruth almost every evening. I love her more every day.

"First, they said it was infatuation, then, puppy-love. But now they are beginning to admit it must be true love. I would like your advice as to whether it is advisable for us to defy them and go on meeting each other.

"I believe a letter from the renowned Beatrice Fairfax will influence them. Our relatives are poisoning our parents' minds with evil thoughts. I assure you, my intentions toward Ruth are clean and moral and I hope some day to marry her.

"This is a very serious matter for both of us. We would both be broken utterly if we were separated.

"PHILOSOPHICAL."

Many of the happiest marriages have grown out of youthful love. A girl and boy who are school friends and grow up together may prove to be the most congenial and understanding of life-partners and contract the ideal marriage of friendship and love.

I do not by any means believe that youthful love is necessarily foolish, puppy-love. But it is true of very youthful, as of older love, that it needs the test of time to prove its lasting qualities.

You do not plan to marry until five years have passed. Five years is too long for an engagement of marriage. Long before that period of time has elapsed the enchantment of the engagement is likely to wear off and the waiting may become irksome.

An engagement is like the overture of an opera. It should be just long enough to enable a couple to test their love by comradship, in order to be quite sure they are not making a mistake. Two years is the very longest it is wise to prolong an engagement.

Since you two feel so sure of each other's love, and such absolute mutual trust, why do you not agree to be the best of friends, but without pledges on either side, until you are in a position where marriage seems possible within a year? Then become engaged, with a definite date set for marriage.

Let your friendship be quite free. Go about with each other and, if either of you wish with other friends as well. Love will stand this test of waiting and association with others—both girls and young men.

See each other often, but not too often. Let patience and self-control wait on your fine affection and friendship. In this way it should successfully weather the hardships of the long wait ahead.

If the love between you and your Ruth is real and grows with your mental growth and progress it will wait patiently, generously, without imposed pledges and obligations.

You and this dear friend are, I am sure, as you express it, "serious and extraordinarily level-headed." Yet at seventeen, eighteen or nineteen young folks are growing and changing rapidly, constantly acquiring new viewpoints and tastes. You two are congenial now. Will your tastes and mentalities develop in the same direction in the next few years? Will you still love each other when she is twenty and you are twenty-four, let us say? These are the reasons that solemn engagements to wed between very young people are not usually wise.

So wait. And while you wait do not either separate entirely or exact promises. But remain fine, generous friends, free as the wind. If this understanding friendship of yours continues to be appreciative and congenial it will naturally deepen, two or three years from now, into a safe engagement which should lead to happy, successful marriage.

YOUTHFUL FRIENDSHIPS OFTEN LEAD TO ROMANCE

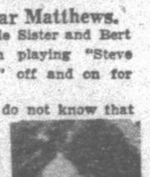

BUT POSTPONE MARRIAGE UNTIL LATER YEARS

Does Your Child Have the Dignity of Privacy?

By L. Lamar Matthews.

DAVID, Little Sister and Bert have been playing "Steve and Kate" off and on for many weeks.

L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

You probably do not know that play; for David created it. He, of course, was always "Steve," Bert was always "Kate" and Little Sister was anything that was assigned to her. Sometimes "Steve" was a bad, bold bandit, who dashed into the shingle play-house and kidnaped "Kate." Little Sister would then be "Kate's" mother or her little girl or maybe just a lady who was there on a visit.

Fifteen minutes later, "Steve" would quite likely appear as the noble gentleman who rescued "Kate" from the bandit.

The story changed from day to day according to David's own fancies. Sometimes the author wrote it down before the actors played the story and sometimes afterwards. But he always wrote it; so that there was nearly a tablet full of "Steve and Kate," written in the childish scrawl that was David's own. This tablet he kept hidden in the innermost recess of his private drawer.

One day he wanted to know how to spell certain words and in the course of securing this information he let his mother discover his secret.

A few afternoons later David came in from school, tossed his cap on the hatrack, pitched his books on a table and started up the steps to his room. Then he heard his mother's voice mingled with the laughter, the exclamations, ejaculations and what-not of other feminine voices. The boy stopped for a moment, and this sentence smote his ear:

"Then Steve jerked Kate up off the ground and sprang up the tree with her in his strong arms."

His mother was reading his story aloud, and her friends were making fun of it!

"Fools," he muttered. And then, under his breath, he said something else that no little boy should say.

David saw his mother when she slipped his tablet back into its hiding place. He said not a word, but let her leave his room, believing she had put back his manuscript without his knowledge.

The next minute he jerked open the drawer, snatched up the tablet and tore the leaves into shreds. Then he fell on the bed and sobbed as only a little boy can weep when he is hurt, ashamed and defenseless.

Little sister heard him and came in to comfort him. But he only pushed her away. Then she told Mother that David was crying and Mother came up to see what had happened. The bits of paper that covered the rug told her just what she needed to know.

"I'll never tell you anything else as long as I live," was all that her son said to her. And now Bert and Little Sister are wondering why David is so mean to them.

David's mother is no worse and no better than the majority of grown-ups. For those who respect a child's private affairs are the exception and not the rule. But a child has just as much right to expect that sort of consideration as any one else.

Every sensible parent wants the confidence, the respect and the friendship of his child. There is only one way of securing it—give him the confidence, the respect and the true friendship that you would give to an older member of the family.

Make Dusting Less Dusty

By Hannah Wing

DUSTING seems dustier and prosier than ever in its everydayness during the Summer. The trick is to give the job its just rewards in labor-saving, time-saving and the best results. Daily care is made easy by a clean, soft non-scratchy cloth. The easy stroke is to gather the dust into the cloth and shake the duster often to free it from the grit and the scratchy dust which it has so quickly gathered. That usually is the cause for the hazy look on highly polished furniture.

What about using a damp duster? Is it safe? If water is to be used one must decide at once as to the degree of moisture possible, for constantly to wet polished wood introduces several chances of trouble: One is that the moisture will dull the varnish; a second is the veneer may peel off, and another, dusting with damp dust cloths produces a smear that not only clouds the polish, but introduces a great opportunity for scratches from grit. Clean cloths wrung tight from hot, clean water may be an excellent duster, but the cloth should be clean and thin and wrung so dry that the only moisture on the cloth is from the steam of the hot water. Sometimes corners of dust cloths are wet and folded into the centre of the cloth, planning that the moisture so spread would create a damp dustcloth.

Sometimes equations not entirely mathematical can be used to present truths: Dust+water=mud.. streaky wood and then a second equation is presented: Dust+oil or varnish=gum or sticky dirt.

When the housewife uses dustless dusters, daily care is also needed. Oil is a good non-dusting medium, but one must remember how far a little may spread. A polish that is free from grease and does not streak is admirable to treat the dustcloth with.

Dusters three-quarters by one yard in size are really easier for all general dusting. And don't forget that dusters should be washed after each using.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

—By Beatrice Fairfax—

Invite Him to Call.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of sixteen. I am going with a young man of whom I am very fond. He is also fond of me.

He gave his age as twenty-one, but I was told he is twenty-six. What shall I do? Mother wouldn't like my going about with a man as old as that.

BO-PEEP.

HAS your mother met your friend, Bo-Peep? If not, ask her permission to invite him to your home, so that they can become acquainted. She may consider him such a worth-while young man that she will not object to the friendship, even though he is ten years older than you are.

-:- Our Rhyming Optimist -:-

By Aline Michaelis

I LAY no claim to thoughts profound as wiser people may, yet I am grateful to have found one truth as clear as day. This is the lesson I have learned, by passing years made plain, the truth to which my hope has turned in times of stress and pain: It is a vain and foolish thing to yield to care and fret, for every need the day may bring will by the day be met. Why question, then, the boundless good the future holds in store? Though all too little understood, its currents wash life's shore. Dark hours may come of grief and blight, but by this truth I know old Earth will blossom with delight when fear's fleet phantoms go. It is but folly's part to hold one bitter, weak regret, for every lack the hours unfold will, in the end, be met.

Safeguarding the Baby's Teeth

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOUR attention to your baby should begin before the baby is born. This is true, even with respect to the baby's teeth.

CHARLES A.L. REED, M.D.

Now, most babies are born without teeth showing. Yet the teeth have been there since a very early period in the pregnancy and their health depends to a very great extent indeed on the mother's health, and on her obedience to the rules of hygiene while she is carrying her child.

About seven weeks after conception the milk-teeth start to grow, by a dipping-in of the skin covering the jaws on the inside of the mouth. This skin forms a minute cup called the enamel organ. About sixteen weeks after conception, the processes of "calcification," or building up of lime salts into bone, begins, and the teeth are formed. The first and second sets begin together, so that a baby at birth has fifty-two teeth packed away inside its jaws in various stages of development. When the second set begins to come through, its enamel organs absorb the roots of the milk-teeth.

In order that these teeth may be strong and well, Peyton Baly, a leading authority, advises that two things are necessary. One is that the mother's blood should contain all the nourishment necessary for building teeth and the other is that it should contain no toxins, germs or poisons.

All drugs and all infective illnesses that cause a rash damage the skin and enamel of the growing teeth. The teeth, when they come through, have defective enamel, and if the damage is severe they may even drop out. One of the commonest and most serious causes of this damage is measles, but any kind of poisoning may have a similar effect. A poison which many people are subject to all their lives, and which causes much minor ill-health without their suspecting the reason, is, of course, that derived from the intestines as a result of constipation. The contents of the intestines are highly poisonous if retained more than a few hours, and far too many mothers habitually retain them far longer than this. Regular purgatives are harmful and the only real remedy is exercise and proper food.

Bad teeth and septic sinuses and tonsils in the expectant mother are also the source of much poison, all of which is likely to damage the baby's teeth before it is born. They likewise render the mother permanently more or less unfit and more liable to disease than a woman who is not being constantly poisoned and, therefore, tending to unfit her for the arduous duties of a mother.

The proper diet to keep both mouth and bowel clean contains hard and tough foods that require chewing and contain a certain amount of fibrous "roughage."

These facts show that it is very important that every mother should have her teeth seen to early in pregnancy and the bad ones removed or filled. She should not arrange to have her teeth extracted on a date on which her period would fall. She should, therefore, arrange to visit the dentist at the sixth, tenth or fourteenth week after conception.

It is a fallacy to suppose that having a baby spoils the mother's teeth...."one baby, one tooth." If it does, it simply means that she is not getting enough lime salts in her food. Half a pint of milk a day will supply all that are required for mother and child.

These facts present ample reason why the expectant mother should place herself under the casual observation of her physician during the whole period of pregnancy.

Household Hints

During the cold weather a little care will prevent much worry for those who suffer from skin trouble. A bag of muslin containing a little oatmeal is better than a sponge or flannel during the biting March winds. Cold cream at night keeps the face from cracking, and a little vanishing cream before going out in cold winds is advisable. Never powder before going out in really cold weather, as it cracks the skin, and makes the face an unsightly mauve colour. Put powder on when you arrive at your destination, if you must use powder. Babies should always have a little cold cream on their faces before going out in winter. Always buy collapsible tubes of cream or ointment, as the contents keep cleaner than in pots.

Soot will remove grease spots from shoes.

Summer Afternoon Frocks

—Republished by Arrangement with Good Housekeeping—

PRINTED chiffon or georgette still remains by far the smartest material for the Summer afternoon frock for more elaborate wear. And the frock illustrated above, in addition to being fashioned of a very charming printed georgette, has a sash all around ending in a bow at the front and three soft tiers on each side. The sleeves have full, flowing cuffs.

The two piece frock at the right is of crepe de Chine, trimmed with hand work. It would be most attractive in white, rose-beige, rose, French blue or green.

Folly's Daughter

A Thrilling New Mystery of New York Night Life

By Ann Lisle

Folly Gets a Job.

"YOU like mabbe Beppo's wife maka with you the friend?" Conchetta asked after she had found a quiet spot in the dressing room to which she had beckoned Folly so mysteriously.

ANN LISLE

"Sure!" Folly said absent-mindedly, removing the turban from the fluff of yellow curls which were her one genuine beauty and were as untouched by time as by peroxide in spite of Conchetta's suspicions. "Gee, I'm dirty!" she added. "I'd have hated to eat without washing. But the gentleman I'm with doesn't seem to want me out of his sight even to clean up. I really don't believe he'd have let me go if I hadn't told him the proprietor's wife was beckoning me. Was there something special you wanted?"

Folly was hiding a gnawing fear. She was always haunted by the thought that some time Beppo would tell her secret to his wife. She couldn't actually blame him if he did. But she wasn't a judge of human nature if she expected much peace after Conchetta knew her history. Folly bit her lips to keep back the tears she hid by bending over to wash her hands. She thought it was just the darndest luck that things should break this way when Sam was beginning to like her—right.

"I thinka it nice we be friends," Conchetta said suavely. "Never we been friends. And Beppo he lika you so much."

"Beppo's a nice fellow," Folly told her. "He deserves to get rich and famous. And from what I hear his chances are good with a wife like you."

Conchetta smiled complacently. Folly saw she had taken the right tack.

"I'm sorry Jill was impertinent to you," she sighed. "We ought to be friends, you and I, and I hate to think that the child made you feel angry at me and mine."

"That nothing!" Conchetta said waving it away. "The-a-ast issa gone. But for now I lika you bringa plenty ugar daddies here. Yes?"

The eyes of the two women met. One saw a tired wanton, the other saw a greedy slattern. Folly winced. Beppo always made her feel like the rich lady of the manor she had once been; Conchetta made her feel even more drab than she had come to be. Until now she had let herself drift on the tide of her infatuation for Sam Kerby. But now she knew she must find a way to use him as she had used other men. She closed her eyes for a moment. Then she said sweetly:

"I'll bring all my friends here whenever I get a chance. But I'm hoping you can tell me who Jill's friend is. A man as rich as he appears to be ought to be a good customer."

But Conchetta could give Folly only scant information about the "handsome, young, gray-haired man" suddenly revealed where Folly had gathered from Jill's incoherent words there was an old man, old enough to be the girl's father. So Jill's admirer was young, vital, attractive and not a feeble, doddering old creature! Folly's lips set in a thin line. She was ready to fight by the time she returned to Sam Kerby's table. And what she intended to fight for now was what she called "Jill's chance."

Folly smiled at Sam as she drank to him with her eyes and the fifteen dollar wine he had ordered.

"Darling," she said in a tiny thread of a voice. "I'm going to do something that makes me feel so ashamed I don't know how to get the words out."

"How much?" Sam asked, taking out his wallet.

She covered her face with her hands, they were young and soft and helpless and she knew their effect. Just over her breath she moaned: "I am more ashamed than ever now. Did you expect a—hard luck story?"

"Sure. Why not? They all tell 'em."

"So—after the wonderful days in Asbury, the wonderful nights at the ocean, I'm just one of—the people you call 'they all.' Take me home, Sam. This is too cruel. I—can't eat."

But in the end she ate and told a pathetic story of the little waif she was bringing up and the rich man who was pursuing her ward.

"And the child borrowed fifty dollars from the proprietor here. He is an ex-servant of mine and gave it to her willingly, feeling sure I'd pay. Of course, Beppo wouldn't ask me for it. But his wife called me aside and told me. I don't want Jill to come in here with the man and have Beppo's wife dun her as she did me. The girl might lose her head." She might give this man the wrong impression. I feel as if you couldn't misunderstand me. But it's a chance I've got to take. If you don't know me too well to think I'm a gold-digger, our whole wonderful week-end was a farce."

She lifted limpid, pleading blue eyes.

"It's a new story," Sam Kerby said crudely. "It's even a good one. Help yourself."

He shoved his wallet toward her. Folly buried her face in her hands again. Tears trickled between her fingers.

"You don't understand. I've sacrificed myself for the girl who takes everything and never thanks me," she sobbed.

Suddenly Sam began to be ashamed of himself. He saw himself as another of those who took everything from poor, helpless little Folly and gave her nothing.

He felt that he ought to defend her against her reckless sweetness—against the quality that had obviously given her the pathetic little name she went by—against Folly!

It was a triumphant Folly who crept home with the dawn. She had one hundred dollars in cash and a part in Sam's new show. Her salary was to be fifty a week. She could hardly wait for the morning and her talk with Jill.

To Be Continued.

Correct MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Wedding Ring.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been engaged to a young man since last Christmas. When he bought the engagement ring, he also got the wedding ring. Inside of it is this: "To A. S. from G. D., Dec. 25, 1926." We are to be married in June, this year. Now what I want to know is, shouldn't the wedding ring have the date of our wedding, instead of our engagement? He tells me I am wrong.

A. S.

IT is customary to have engraved inside the wedding ring the date of the wedding itself, not of the engagement.

"My Plane and I—
FROM THE LIPS OF LINDY HIMSELF"

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
(Copyright, 1927, by King Features.)

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Lindy looks at the future with practical eyes. He predicts two things.

One is American supremacy in the air. The other is regular passenger service across the Atlantic.

The first will come sooner than the second.

"Within two years," Lindy says, "the United States will surpass the nations of Europe in commercial aviation.

"Flying is sustained by subsidies in Europe today. Therein lies its weakness. Our aviation will grow because it will be profitable and will not be limited by any restrictions that come with subsidies.

"It is important, however, to build our commercial flying on a solid basis. There will be a lot of flurry for the next few months and hundreds of airplane corporations will spring up everywhere.

"We must be careful of wildcat concerns. Unless men who are reliable back these concerns we will become disillusioned.

"More than that, science and careful study of commercial aviation must go hand in hand with honest business ability.

"We must profit by what we can learn from Europe, from her fine aviation fields, from her passenger lines.

"We have the motors, the materials, the fliers.

"What we need is to take practical advantage of our resources and the United States will lead the world in flying."

Lindy insists that it is futile to talk of regular transatlantic service before ten years.

"We have a lot of experimenting to do yet," he says. "We must chart our flying lanes across the sea just as shipping companies chart their steamship lanes.

"It took many hundred years to learn the best lanes. We cannot expect aviation to perform miracles. We still have man's old enemy to contend with—fog.

"We must learn more about winds and how to take advantage of them.

"During my flight to Paris, I was lucky to get a fine tail wind which helped me along.

"We want to make certain we know how to take advantage of all the winds.

"New inventions, new discoveries of science in the way of navigating instruments, of instruments to guide us may be found which will help progress.

"I am certain, however, it is premature to think of ocean passenger air service now."

Recalling one of Lindy's speeches in Paris in which he quoted Franklin's reply to a question as to what good a free balloon is by asking, "What good is a new born babe?" I asked Lindy to summarize briefly what practical results his flight achieved according to him.

"First, it attracted attention to flying," he said. "Second, it proved there was a motor that could carry a plane over a long stretch of water. Third, it proved a man given a good plane and a motor could physically endure the trip.

"I went 62 hours without sleep up to the time I turned in at the American embassy in Paris. This made some people believe there was some special power I possessed making it easy for me to go without sleep.

"As a matter of fact, I need as much sleep as anyone. But anyone could have done as I did with the excitement and the problem of the flight and the beginnings of the flight. I did train myself to do with less sleep than one is ordinarily accustomed to but that was for a short period only before the flight. I still like to get plenty of sleep when I have time."

Lindy's mind is ever a practical mind. He envisages his life in terms of practical problems.

Nothing more eloquent of this attitude of mind is to be found than in the statement that fell unpremeditatedly from Lindy's lips on the cruiser Memphis as he was nearing American waters.

The Memphis was sailing off the regular steamship channels after the first two days, because its course was more southerly than the ordinary channels.

We had not seen a ship for four days. Hour after hour we sailed over smooth sea, seeing nothing but water, water, water.

It was a monotonous symphony of blue. One began to realize the immensity and loneliness of the sea.

"You wouldn't think the ocean was as long as it is, would you?" Lindy asked as he gazed into the water. And then he moved away silently, as was his custom.

Lindy before his flight said:

"The ocean is a big pan of water, but I'm going through just as I always do on my air mail route."

But Lindy never realized how big a pan of water the Atlantic really was until he came back on the Memphis.

But his practical mind, never troubled with the back wash of emotion and illusory shadows of imagination, went about the task of flying the Atlantic as he went about any task.

He knew he had to go so many miles. It would take so much gasoline. It would take so many hours. If he fell, the machine would float. He had food. If anything worse happened—well—

The flight of Lindy may be duplicated. Chamberlin has already flown much further. But the combination of Lindy and the flight and the ovation that followed will never be duplicated again.

Spells More Prosperity

"NOW the lower Rio Grande valley is shipping out can goods by the car load," editorializes the San Antonio Express. "That spells more prosperity." Many towns in East Texas are shipping canned goods by the carload. "That spells more prosperity." There are household canneries everywhere in Texas, and the housewives of Texas are canning everything in the vegetable and fruit line.

It was different in the so-called good old days.

Then the Texans paid out their money for Missouri bacon, Kansas corn and the canned goods put up in the northern states and on the Pacific coast. In the good old days they imported their milk—canned milk. Now Texans are shipping butter to outside states. They are selling their cream to local creameries. They are making cheese of a fine brand away down here in Texas. They have turned to the right.

Heroes of the Air

LIEUTENANTS Lester Maitland and Albert Hagenberger are herbes of the air. They made the jump from Oakland, Cal., to Honolulu in 25 hours and 50 minutes. It is 2400 miles from Oakland to Honolulu. And their great monoplane bore them at nearly 100 miles an hour in the history making flight.

Where are the wild aces of European countries? Where is Arthur Brisbane? Since 1924 he has been telling the world that the United States was lagging far behind in notable flyers and airplanes that were worth while.

Now all the honors are in the laps of American flyers. Capt. Richard P. Byrd flew to the North Pole. Now the coming September he is going to make a flight to the South Pole.

America has the flyers; America has the aircraft; America has the billions; America has the creative builders who have given the world the latest and the best in flying machines.

State Income Tax Defeated

GOVERNOR LEN SMALL of Illinois is the champion of a state income tax. A Small lawmaker introduced a bill embodying his ideas or wishes. There was a close vote but the measure was killed, 66 to 63.

A farmer representative introduced a bill to regulate the Chicago board of trade. This measure was killed by a vote of 65 to 55. Governor Small advertised himself as the farmer's friend. He must be losing his grip in the lower house of the Illinois legislature.

Small has wielded the political bull-whip for a long time. He will face the battle of his life next year. Big Bill Thompson was elected mayor of Chicago. In the light of this there is no substantial reason why Small should not be re-elected governor of Illinois.

Valley Growers Demand Protection

A PROTECTIVE tariff on vegetables from foreign countries into the United States is to be asked by the Magic Valley growers. They have organized a valley-wide marketing organization. Hon. John M. Garner is their congressman.

He is a Democrat.

Will he change front on tariff or emulate the example set by Congressman Claude Hudspeth who votes for protection on meat products and wool and mohair?

Mexican tomato growers are competitors of the valley tomato growers; Egyptian onion growers are competitors of the onion growers of the so-called Magic land. If protection is a good thing for steel products why not for vegetable products?

Beer by the Glass

PROVINCE of Manitoba electors won their referendum for the sale of beer by the glass in licensed premises under government control over those favoring the sale of beer by the bottle under the cash and carry system. Winnepeg electors voted overwhelmingly for sale by the glass. In the Blue Nose country all the profits from the sales of liquors and wines and beer fall into the government hopper. John Bull is for business first. His Canadian children are walking in his footsteps.

Greatest in History

UNCLE SAM rounded out the fiscal year June 30 with a treasury surplus estimated at $635,000,000 to 640,000,000 said to be the greatest in the history of the republic. When the rounding was done Andrew W. Mellon was in a foreign clime and enjoying a well needed rest.

The plain English of this is that the government took from the pockets of the people $640,000,000 that was not needed to defray running expenses of the aforesaid government. Two great problems before the lawmakers of America are those of farm relief and flood control.

Senator McNary of Oregon, author of the bill that bears his name, is confident that $240,000,000 would swing his farm relief scheme. Eminent engineers say that it will require an appropriation of $400,000,000 to bring about flood control in the upper and the lower Mississippi valley.

Flood losses this year go beyond $600,000,000. People of 27 states are interested in the flood control problem. People of a greater number of states are interested in the farm relief problem.

And the Hog Follows The Corn

NOW it is announced that the western movement of hog production and hog slaughtering is in harmony with the general western progress of corn culture, and that the world's supremacy of Chicago in pork packing is threatened by the extension of the corn belt in the northwestern states. Big packing houses are being established in the cities of the northwest and the corn growers of the northwest, who are hog raisers, are shipping their stock to the packing houses nearer home. It has been known for a long time that trade followed the flag. Now the world is told that the hog follows the corn.

On Trail of Maskers

IN one county in Georgia 14 men accused of masked outrages are in the hands of the sheriff. They terrorized an entire county. Now that if guilty, the 14 should wear the governor of Georgia insists stripes. Why not? There should be no higher law in America.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, July 5. (EFS.)—A trip into Westchester county by way of the Boston and Westchester Electric railway is always an adventure. At the Forty-second street station of the Third avenue "L" I see a brawl between two drunks, which attracts a considerable crowd. A policeman in a Ford soon arrives and disperses the gathering by the simple method of pushing both the battlers in the face. They slink away, muttering threats concerning "a man's rights" and the crowd soon follows.

On the elevated train I sit next to a young Cuban who is in a semi-coma. He is not drunk, but he seems under the influence of some drug. He recites poetry in Spanish by the yard. Occasionally he halts long enough to choke with laughter over something which no one else in the train is able to see. Or he beams jovially on young girls in the car and says "ello senorita." Sometimes he inquires as to the merits of the stories I am reading in my magazine.

* * *

On the Boston and Westchester, a man and woman enter and sit in the seat opposite mine. The woman is deaf and dumb, but talks continuously and excitedly with eloquent hands. The man is bored and tries to look out the window, but she yanks his shoulder, and insists that he watch her fluttering fingers. Now and again he nods wearily, as if in assent to some point she is so insistent on making. The woman never stops. I wonder why the man does not close his eyes. The poor fellow is obviously bored to death. She is still talking as they get out in New Rochelle.

* * *

On West Forty-ninth street there is a speak-easy in which hang out movie critics, stage people, and a peculiar class of nattily-dressed young men who are commonly known as naggots. Their peculiar technique is aimed at securing free drinks. They travel about the place in groups of six or eight and virtually force themselves upon people they have never seen before, magnanimously declaring that "these are on me." But they never wait for the check to arrive. They are off to another table, leaving the objects of their generosity to hold the bag.

* * *

An opening of a movie that attracted a large crowd was that of "The First Auto" at the Colony theater the other night. There were the usual spotlights on trucks mounted in front of the theater. There was also mounted on a truck, the famous "999" which was made by Henry Ford and which also was the first car to make 60 miles an hour. Barney Oldfield, who made this record, was at the theater and talked lengthily of his career. He told a great deal of his early dealings with Henry Ford and continually referred to the latter as "Hank."

"Well, Hank," I sez, "Can you lend me 20 bucks?"

"Barney, I haven't got 20 bucks," says Hank.

* * *

Oldfield told one story of a conversation that took place between Ford and himself, and a third person. The latter asked Ford if he did not think that Oldfield helped him a great deal to make him the success that he is. Ford replied that this was true; that Oldfield helped "make" him and that he helped "make" Oldfield.

Whereupon Oldfield said: "Well, Hank, if that's the case, I guess you'll admit that I made a damn sight better job of 'making' you than you did."

MODISH MITZI — A French Label Isn't Everything! — By JAY V. JAY

"Of course, it's from Paris," remarked a friend to Mitzi, admiring her new dress of flowered chiffon and plain crepe. There's no use in saying that it is for her friend to see it in the store window when she goes out since Mitzi has just purchased it. It is true it looks very French but so do a lot of clothes in this country.

Even Polly is a little confused. Did or din't Mitzi get this frock in Paris? It's one of the new evening dresses with the air of the sports dress. Anyway this is the first time she has worn it. The Goofer hasn't seen her twice in the same frock since she got home. What price a Paris label? he wonders.

"You could only get a dress like that in Paris," says Adelaide to Mitzi. "Who would think of an evening dress with tiers and a tailored belt?" Adelaide is all wrong! Mitzi bought this dress yesterday. Adelaide's dress with the bolero jacket also has sport feeeling.

"I suppose you've gone 100 per cent French, Mitzi on the clothes question," says the Goofer. "Not at all," replies Mitzi, "it's a relief to shop where you can find things you want." Aunt Sophia cannot resist saying, "But, Mitzi, you did buy enough thing sfor about two trousseaus." Now what does that mean ponders the Goofer?

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Phillip Wynne Tracy IV has had a childish engagement with Natlee Jones. Becoming interested in Lyra Hilliard, an old friend of his mother's, Phil soon finds himself falling in love with her.

Natlee, overhearing him making love to Lyra, breaks her engagement. The whole affair, however, sinks into nothingness because America enters the World war.

Phillip enlists and is soon in France. Just before leaving, Phil meets Natlee again and they plan to be married. The immediate departure of the troops, however, prevents this.

Soon after arriving in France Phil is wounded and is decorated for braverey.

While convalescent, armistice is declared and as he meets certain requirements, Phil is awarded a scholarship in a French university and returns to Paris.

His mother, not having heard from him for months, goes to France to hunt him, and Major Aukland, who is devoted to Anne Tracy, accompanies her. Unexpectedly she comes face to face with her son.

Mrs. Tracy learns with dismay that Phil intends to marry Pat, a French divorcee with a four-year-old child.

Phil goes to see Pat and they go to Maxime's to announce their engagement. Phil wakes the next morning in a bedroom in Pat's apartment and is told that having returned from a cafe at a very late hour, she had asked him in.

Here the story further unfolds:

CHAPTER XLVIII

The Compromise.

"You were much better to me than I deserved, Pat dear. Why are you so good to such a worthless disabled American soldier as I am?"

"I will not have you call any American soldier who wears France's croix de guerre 'worthless,' and besides, I love you."

"Pat, you are very sweet. I wish I were more worthy of you."

The maid brought in the cafe au lait which Phil hurriedly drank. He knew he had done something which his mother would find hard to forgive. He must get to her at once and fix up some kind of a compromise with her.

Pat's tenderness held him, but at last he started for the Ritz.

When Anne Tracy arrived home from her expedition at Montmartye, her first act was to look in Phil's room to see if he had returned yet. She was not greatly disappointed not to find him there.

When he did not come to the hotel the next morning, she waited until 12 o'clock. Then she determined to brave the annoyance of the French telephone service and call up Pat to ask her if she knew anything about Phillip.

"Yes, Madame," answered a voice that Anne knew was Pat's. "Monsieur Tracy has just left for the Ritz, I think he should be there soon now."

"Thank you," said Anne, and rang off. For the life of her she could not show that she recognized the voice.

When she knew that her son would be with her very shortly, Mrs. Tracy became almost panic stricken. What should she say to him? What would he say to her?

She was not left long in doubt. He came in perfectly unconcerned, but with a look on his face that she had seen so often on his father's—a face which told her without any words that he would brook no questionings.

Before he arrived, Anne Huntington Tracy had definitely come to the conclusion that she would not give her consent to Phillip's marriage.

"Of course if he wants to stay over here and work in some capacity in 'Madame Pat's' silk factories, why, that's all right. I could not make any serious objection to that, but I do not think I would be doing my duty as a mother if I gave my consent to such a marriage as he contemplates before he is 21.

"The time would come when he would call me to account for allowing him to do such a thing."

Anne had said all this to Major Aukland the night before, and she had been somewhat piqued because he had made no comment. With characteristic honesty, however, today she had realized that John Aukland could have said nothing under the circumstances.

When Phillip came in, however, and she saw the peculiar gray look on his face that she had seen so often on his father's, she determined that he must begin the discussion.

"Would you like to go to the opera tonight, Mother?" he asked.

"Yes, Son, I'd be delighted to go."

"And don't you think," he said, "that we had better go to the tailors so that I can have some new civilian clothes made. It will only be a short time now before I am out of uniform."

"Then you have decided to stay over here, Son?" asked Anne, her voice trembling a little.

"Whether I stay or not," Phil answered, "I'd like some English clothes. All the Bond street tailors have a branch over here. I hope you will help me to get discharged on this side. I don't think I could standing another trip back like the one I had coming over. That doesn't sound very brave, does it? But coming over, you know, I had a definite object in view. There was a heroic gesture before me. As someone has said, we started over as heroes and I at least would be going back as a disabled man, unless I was discharged on this side."

"Of course, Son, I'd love to have you go back with me, and we will start things in preparation for that right away."

"Mother," asked Phillip abruptly, "are you in love with Major Aukland?"

"Why do you ask me such a thing?"

"Well, I've been wondering just what I would do on the other side, if, when I got back there I found you had determined to make him your husband."

Anne smiled. "That sounds rather funny, Phillip. If you ask John Aukland about it, he'd say the last thing I had determined upon was to make him my husband."

"Well, if you want to put it another way, Mother mine, let's say has John Aukland determined to make you his wife?"

"All of John Aukland's and my friends have said for the last 20 years he had stayed single because I have refused to be his wife."

"Are you beginning to think you have made a mistake, Mother?"

"I don't know, Phillip."

"I don't like him." Phillip said the words impatiently. "I cannot bear to see him hanging around you."

"That's a characteristic of your father's, Phillip. He was jealousy personified, and yet he arrogated to himself the privilege of paying his attentions to any woman he wished, even after he was married to me. Phillip, do you realize that if you marry this French woman, you will cut me entirely off from your life?"

"Why, Mother, what do you mean?"

"I mean this. I cannot live here. You know that as well as I do. Of course, do not know how lonely you were without me, but it seemed to me that only half of me was living when you were away."

"Mother, can you remember our meeting a few months ago, without realizing that I am nearer to you than most boys are to their mothers? I cannot think of my future life being lived where I might not be in communication—where I might not see you every day."

"You couldn't do that, dear, if you married Pat."

"Do you mean that, Mother? Would you do that?"

"If by 'that' you mean separate myself from you, I would have no choice. I cannot live in France. I am an American by birth and education, and I am quite sure that Pat would not be willing to live in America. She is French with all the French ideas of life. There you have the impasse."

"Then you will not give your consent to my marriage?"

"Not till after you are 21, and you know in France a man has to have the consent of his parents if they are living, whatever his age. It is the family, not the romance, that is considered in a marriage over here."

"Are you intimating, Mother, that you will give your consent to my marriage with Pat after I am 21?"

"Why, of course, Phillip, if you are faithful to your love and to her for that length of time. I would be very selfish not to give it."

"Will you also wait and not give your answer to Major Aukland for that length of time?"

"Gladly, Phillip, especially as he has not asked me lately, and I am sure the time will come when you will thank me. You have demonstrated in the last two or three years that you did not know your own mind in regard to love and marriage."

Phil got up from the chair in which he was sitting and walked to the window. He stood there a long time and for once his mother did not interrupt his thoughts.

When he came back to her he said, "All right, I promise not to marry Pat except with your consent, but I cannot help thinking it isn't quite fair to her."

Ann Tracy and Augland definitely break and she and her son prepare to return to America. What awaits them at home? Read what happens in the next chapter.

The Sorrows of Life Endured Gamely Make the Joys of Life Sweeter

Why Are We Called On to Endure Trials and Sorrows?—So That We May Enjoy Our Blessings—Only Those Who Have Been Sick or Poor or Unhappily Married Married Really Appreciate Health, Wealth and a Good Home.

The world is full of the wails and lamentations of those who have "seen better days," as the phrase goes. Theirs is, indeed, a sad lot, for no one will dispute the poet's assertion that "a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things."

To have known riches and luxury and to be cast down into the hard ways of sordid poverty, to have been feted and flattered and admired and then thrust into obscurity, to have known love and to be left lonely and forsaken, is to be tormented by tastes and habits that cannot be gratified, by desires that cannot be realized, by humiliation that are always fresh, by longings that leave the heart aching with emptiness. Fate can deal a human being no crueler blow than that.

Fortunately, however, there is another side to this dark picture, although we seldom contemplate it. And just as our memory of the good things we have and lost deepens our misery, so the memory of sorrows we have endured heightens our enjoyment of the good things that come to us.

The most common illustration of this is in our health. We may go along for years being hale and hearty and think nothing of it and have no particular sense of well-being. Then let sickness come to us, let our bodies be torn with suffering, let the fear of death cast its dark shadow over us, and then let health return to us again.

It is no commonplace then. It is a miracle. Just the relief of being out of pain, of being able to sleep again, of being able to eat once more, fills us with happiness, and when we feel our strength coming back and realize that we will soon be able to take up our ordinary lives again, we are flooded with a surging joy. It is so wonderful to be well again!

And it's the same way with money. The people who have always been rich, who have been full-fed, who have only had to write a check for anything they thought they wanted in order to possess it, miss all the finest flavor of having the things one wants because they have always had them and so have no standard of comparison.

The man who has sat down to a fine dinner every day of his life has no special relish for it and finds fault if the chef has a dash too much or a grain too little of seasoning in a sauce.

It takes the man who has gone hungry in his youth and who looks back upon the time when he thought he had a feast if he had all the corned beef and cabbage he could eat, to really savor a good meal and offer up a genuine thanksgiving in his heart every time he sits down to a well-spread table.

The woman who has always been lapped in luxury, who has always had beautiful clothes and lived in lovely houses and has had somebody to stand between her and the world, is often peevish and fretful and discontented.

But to the woman who has had a hard, starved girlhood, who has had to scrimp and save in order to get the cheap, sleazy silk to make her a gown, who has gone without lunches to buy her a pair of near-silk stockings, it seems a fairy tale come true just to be able to buy a a decent outfit of clothes.

The woman who has never had a home of her own before gets more pleasure and thrill out of a three-room flat ora cheap bungalow in the suburbs than the woman who has always had them does out of her place at Newport and her home on the Avenueand her villa on the Riviera.

And it takes the woman who has had to earrn her own bread and butter, who has had to fight her own battle and be haunted by the fear of what would happen to her if she fell sick or lost her job, to know how blessed a thing it is to be just a home woman, safe and warm at her own trousseaus, with a good husband to take care of her.

And it's the same way with marriage. The only people who really appreciate a good husband or wife are those who have had bad ones.

When a young man marries a girl who is sweet and amiable and unselfish and who makes him a pleasant and comfortable home he thinks he is getting no more than is coming to him and he doesn't feel called upon to extend any vote of thanks to her.

So with a girl. If she gets a husband who is domestic and faithful and considerate and courteous and kind and generous, she considers that he is doing no more than his duty and it is nothing to write home about.

But let either one draw a grouchy, cantankerous, selfish, quarrelsome, disagreeable mate in the matrimonial lottery, and then if fate is kind enough to give them a second throw of the dice and they win a blue-ribbon-prize husband or wife, they realize their luck.

They know all the things that a hateful husband or wife can do to one. They know how unhappy a home can be, and so they know how to appreciate tenderness and sympathy and understanding when they get it and to value a home that is a haven of rest and peace.

We often wonder why we are called upon to endure hardships and misfortunes. Perhaps it is to enable us to enjoy the more the blessings that come to us.

Sunshine never seems so bright as when it follows the storm.

DOROTHY DIX.

Then the Lord rained upon Sodom and Gomorrah brimstone and fire from the Lord out of heaven:

And he overthrew those cities and all the plains, and all the Inhabitants of the cities and that which grew upon the ground.

But his wife looked back from behind him and she became a pillar of salt.—Genesis 20:24-26.

"Spudders Whip Champs"—headline.

Irony for you, not the "whip" but the "champs" part.

• • •

First Spudder bug: Are you going to Birmingham to see the Dixie series?

Second Spudder bug: How-in-'ell do I know? Birmingham ain't in the Dixie series yet.

• • •

And it was a typical Payne game, lots of hits, 11 being quite some few, but all scattered out. Why the Spudders lead the league: Dallas scored one run off 11 safe blows. Wichita Falls scored four off eight.

• • •

Yeah, you say, I've seen the day they couldn't get more than two for love or money off 15 hits. But you haven't seen many. Statistics show the Spudders are the best little run-getting club in the loop.

• • •

PRATT WON ANOTHER

The unusual in sports: Waco keeping up that victory gait in foreign territory. Get 'em out of that cigar-box park and lissen to 'em change their music.

• • •

ROUGH IN THAT LEAGUE

Phil Todt flung a ball that broke an umpire's nose yesterday and probably caused further astigmatism. Some players are none too smart.

• • •

WELL?

And J. Cato Galoway steps out with unique situation of league's leading larruper catching the pink slip. Stump Edington was released by Beaumont. Now what have you?

• • •

The Beaumont transaction gives Stumpus another darkened optic, although the pudgy hit-me-pitcher and base-on-balls demon may be entirely innocent of any wrong. Stump caught trouble with the Atz management, you remember, and was awarded the air last year. Now, as the league's statistical batting or near-batting leader, Stump snares the atmosphere again. It reads all wrong, Mabel.

Habits of great men: C. M. Bell, Burk Humble man, all the time sending in baseball stories covering the game in detail but omitting the largest detail of all, what the final score was.

Why didn't you ride the Cats more, Mister? We always crave to see that bunch get it in the neck and would like your "col" more if you did, writes in one of the boys up around Wellington.

It is ever so human to enjoy watching some other fellow get a kick in the pants, but it is not HUMANE (even though it is quite human, too) to kick a fellow when he's down. And there isn't any doubt about the Cats being down. They were down so far the past week that hitherto haughty Cowtown sports scriveners did an about-face and started yurping for a split season.

SPORTING BLOOD

They seldom repeat. Also, you may be a king one year and a rotter the next in the eyes of "funny" fandom. Snipe Conley piloted Dallas to a Dixie championship last year. This year, Dallas has not fared so well. Fandom cried for a scalp. Fandom got it. The man who led his team to a championship in 1926 has the tag put on him mid-way in 1927 because the team looks like it won't repeat against stronger competition. Your grandstand manager wins (?) another decisive battle.

• • •

And yet they call it "sport." When you win you're fit to be feted by royalty; when you lose you're a bum and a tramp.

Zero in sports: The little guy who invariably is popping off, figuring as how the big guy hates to mess with him and probably would be checkmated by the rest of the gathering if he did.

EDINGTON RELEASED

BEAUMONT, July 5. (AP)—James C. Galloway, manager and one of the new owners of the Beaumont Exporters, announced the outright release of Frank "Stump" Edington, veteran outfielder, and Gene Caldera. Edington has led the Texas league in hitting almost since the season opened and his release was unexpected. Galloway said the move was made in keeping with the club's policy of developing young players.

Caldera, a left-hander, who had a trial with Beaumont last year, has been unable to round into winning form.

SPUDDERS COP SERIES OPENER

Swenson, Lamb Hits in 4-1 Victory For Payne

DALLAS, July 5.—Bunching hits off Dicky Shuman in the sixth and seventh for four runs, Wichita Falls defeated the Dallas Steers here Tuesday afternoon in the first game of a three-game series. George Payne held the Steers scoreless after the first inning.

The one Dallas run was pushed across after three were out. Bauman popped out to Benton and Gross lined out to Turgeon. Tate followed with a single to right and Miller was hit by a pitched ball. Riley singled past second, scoring Tate. Woeber fouled out to right.

Swenson Doubles.

Wichita Falls bunched blows in the sixth inning. Lamb flied out to right, but Jenkins singled to left. Benton followed with a single to right and Jenkins raced to third base. Swenson doubled to left. Before the smoke cleared from the mighty blow, Jenkins and Benton had scored and Swenson came charging home when the throw-in hit Benton in the back and rolled to the grandstand.

The other Wichita Falls run was scored in the seventh. LaFayette grounded out and then Turgeon drew a base on balls and stole second. Fitzgerald grounded out to first base, Turgeon running to third. Lamb blasted a double to center and Turgeon scored. Jenkins was called out on strikes.

Payne In Form.

Neither team threatened very seriously the rest of the distance. Payne hurled a great brand of ball and was ever tight in the pinches. The Spudder infield supported him brightly. The outfield trio of Jenkins, Fitzgerald and Lamb staged some pretty fast defensive work.

Benton and Swenson led the batting attack for the league leaders with Lamb's double coming in timely.

BUFFS 5, BEARS 2

SAN ANTONIO, July 5.(AP)—With two runners on the bases in the seventh Johnny Kane met one of Bob Couchman's floaters for a three-bagger with a drive to right to put the Houston Buffs in front to win the opening game of the series here Tuesday, 5 to 2. Until then the score was tied at two-all, but Frankhouse had the Bears' number with a sweeping curve, which he mixed with a fast ball to hold them to five hits. Southpaw Sep Good went to the hill in the eighth and held the Buffs to one hit the rest of the way. Score:

BIG FIGHT WILL GO ON

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—Suggestions that the Dempsey-Sharkey fight July 21 at the Yankee stadium might be postponed because of Dempsey's worry over the tragic death of his brother or to inability of the former champion to get into condition by that time were spiked today by Tex Rickard.

The promoter declared there had been no consideration of a postponement, that none was contemplated and that none would be made. He declared there was no doubt Dempsey would be in condition for the battle.

Pick Your Own Slabsters Today

We Have Williams, Kallina And Cobb

Try to figure it out for yourself. Steengrafe and Keifer worked the Sunday double header in Shreveport. Fussell and Estell chunked that duo in Fort Worth Monday. Payne hurled us a victory yesterday in Dallas. They, hte Spudders, are playing in Dallas again, the Lord and the weather permitting, this afternoon. And who will chunk for our side? We have left one Mr. Williams himself, Herb Cobb, and Lefty Kallina. Do your own guessing. Mr. Williams ought to throw today. Mr. Cobb probably will. If you left it up to Mr. Payne, the workhorse, he would come back again this afternoon.

Yesterday's 4-1 victory in Dallas made it 10 wins against five losses on the road so far this trip. Waco, beating the Beaumonters, 8-4, kept pace and still is five and a half games behind the league-topping Wichita Falls outfit. We've gained a game on the Cubs since being on the road. Waco has won nine and lost six since the Monday a couple of weeks ago when the Spudders broke out down in Santone.

"Larruping Lou" Latest Answer To Maiden's Prayer

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Goodbye, Lindy! Hello, Lou.

The girls, fickle to the end, have transferred their affections from the hero of the Atlantic to the latest hero of the ball and bat.

They're hailing Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, whose home-run race with Babe Ruth is the talk of sportdom.

It's just one hero of the hour after the other with the girls. They simply must have somebody to look at with longing eyes. Somebody they want to love, to mother, or to marry. The hero of the hour bears the brunt of it.

Yus, Yus

The female of the species finds so much fun in coveting a prize-knowing about a man, say, who could make one's life complete if he only would and who never will because he doesn't know one is alive.

So much fun carrying around a secret of sorrow.

And so, a new hero has arrived to call up new heart beats, new sighs.

A few weeks ago it was charming, tousle-haired Lindy with his captivating smile and his utter exasperating indifference, before him, there were others, from the Prince of Wales back to Admiral Dewey. There will be others in the future.

Lou Gehrig is almost satisfactory hero of the hour from the feminine standpoint. Men may admire him for the swatting ability that has placed him in a neck and neck marathon with the immortal Babe.

Easy There, Girls

But the girls—that very select portion that likes baseball or has brothers and fathers who do—love Larrupin' Lou for himself alone.

Well, might they. He has all the qualifications of the popular idol, the matinee idol.

He is a college graduate, 24 years old. His nose is cast in the Barrymore mold, his mouth is altogether nice, his eyes are blue and smiling and provocative, and his dimples—ah, those dimples—belie the very fine muscles of his arms and shoulders.

An Apollo of the twentieth century.

But what's the nicest yet, say the girls, he is not married. What's more, unlike Lindy, he thinks girls are pretty much all right. There's a hero of the hour for you!

Burk Humble Club Goes On Rampage

BURKBURNETT, July 5. (Sp.)—The Burk-Humble baseball game continued its slaughter of opposing amateur baseball teams Sunday when it defeated the Tipton club, 9-2, and went into a tie for the Cotton-Oil league leadership.

"Bull" Smith pitched a masterful game against the league leaders and was not scored on until the ninth. The all-around playing of the Humble team was the feature along with the wonderful pitching of Smith, who struck out 12 men.

The Fourth of July game at Vernon resulted in another victory for the Humble team and marked the eighth win out of the last nine starts. The game was a pitchers' battle between Fuzz Douglas and Davenport until the fifth inning when the Burk team broke loose and scored seven runs, three of which were scored in the fifth and four in the sixth. The Vernon team came back in the seventh and scored all of their runs as the result of three hits and three errors, the last of the hits being a home run by Ladd. Vernon threatened in the ninth but Pinch Hitter Freels fanned with the bases drunk. Fielding on both sides was rather ragged in spots, still several sensational plays were made by Vernon outfielders and Payne, Burk shortstop. The Vernon team will seek revenge for their first defeat when they journey to Burk next Friday.

NEW YORK, July 5.(AP)—The Yankees tripped up the Senators for the third straight time today by 7 to 6, Tony Lazzeri bringing the game to a dramatic close by slamming for the circuit after two were out in the ninth.

South Central Results

WALTERS, Okla., July 5. (Sp)—Look 'em over, boys. Here's how they stand in the South Central league, according to Secretary C. H. Chesher, after heavy play Sunday and Monday:

Teams—	W.	L.	Pct.
Comanche	5	0	1.000
Waurika	2	0	1.000
Taylor	4	1	.800
Randlett	3	2	.600
Devol	2	2	.500
Hastings	2	2	.500
Addington	2	3	.400
Temple	1	4	.200
Chattanooga	0	5	.000
Walters	0	5	.000

Sunday's Games.

At Comanche 4; Walters 3.
At Taylor 13; Temple 13.
At Randlett 15; Addington 11.
At Waurika 4-16; Chattanooga 3-6.
At Devol 13; Hastings 7.

Monday's Games.

At Waurika, Comanche 26; Addington 3.
At Taylor 7; Randlett 0.
At Walters 0; Temple 4.
At Chattanooga-Devol (no report.)
Waurika-Hastings, no game scheduled.

With but one exception every home club in the league won its week-end Independence day games. Every home club won Sunday and the only home club to lose Monday was Walters who is finding it hard to climb out of the cellar.

Several football scores were stacked up; for instance the Comanche 26-3 win over Addington at Waurika Monday, the Taylor 13-18 victory over Temple Sunday, that 16-6 win of Waurika's over Randlett's 15-11 victory over Addington.

The league seems to be thriving right along and quite a bit of rivalry has been developed.

The Riotous Mr. Reed Doing Some of His Daily Dozen

We have with us this week one Mike Reed of Los Angeles, sturdy man of might, who has trimmed a number of the local favorites and made to tremble several others, namely in the first score, Yaqui Joe, Jack Gorman, Basanta Singh, and on the second score, J. Reynolds and M. Matsuda.

Mr. Reed engages Mr. Young Gotch here Thursday night in a finish match.

Mr. Reed is portrayed above doing something or other horrible to another member of the tin-ear fraternity in a wrestling workout.

Still Chirp About Iowa Park Win

IOWA PARK, July 5. (Sp.)—They're still talking about that Electra-Iowa Park game Sunday at Electra which was won by the Parkers, 7 to 6, in the eleventh inning.

The contest was a thriller from the first with Iowa Park being held runless until the eighth inning when two hits and two errors scored two runs. Electra scored two runs in the tenth and as did Iowa Park and then the Parkers came back in the eleventh to win out. K. Denny, first up in the eleventh, hit a three-bagger and scored on G. Denny's single that bounced over Stroud's head.

Features of the game were the hitting of Clark and Cheves of Iowa Park and a sensational catch in center field by T. Ray.

Score by innings:

DALLAS TIES CAN TO PENNANT PILOT AND NAMES GROSS BOSS

DALLAS, July 5. (AP)—Announcement of the retirement of James P. (Snipe) Conley as manager of the Dallas Steers was made Tuesday by Secretary Walter Morris of the Dallas baseball association. Field Captain Ewell (Turkey) Gross, Morris said, would be put in charge of the team for the remainder of the 1927 season. The change will be put into effect immediately and Manager Gross will run the Steers in Wednesday's game with the Wichita Falls Spudders.

The Steer moguls gave no reason for the retirement of Conley and it is surmised the failure o fthe team to win more games is the motive for the change.

"It is purely a business proposition," Morris said. "Dallas fans in number have asked the management to make such changes as would bring out the recognized good material on the Steer team and a change in managers is one that has been decided on."

AROUND THE BIG LEAGUE CIRCUITS

Sand lot heroes bloom unexpectedly. Catcher Frank Hogan, who jumped from the corners of Boston to the "ace" of the Braves' receiving staff, is regarded as one of the prizes of the 1927 season.

• • •

Impressing Dave Bancroft in the spring, Hogan not only stepped in ahead of Frank Gibson, but Zack Taylor as well, and eventually Bancroft accepted the trade with the Giants that included Taylor.

• • •

When Bancroft was socked on the chin by Earl Smith of th Pirates, the exchange with McGraw turned out to be a good one for the Braves, as "Doc" Farrell was around to replace the manager at shortstop.

• • •

The first serious injury of the season came when Tommy Thevenow, one of Cardinals' 1926 heroes, suffered a double fracture of the right ankle in sliding for second base in a recent game against the Cubs. His return to the game any more this season is doubtful.

The Cardinals have had more than their share of injuries. Bob O'Farrell has a lame throwing arm, Ray Blades twisted his good knee and Chick Hafey was put out of commission when he crashed against the concrete outfield wall in St. Louis.

• • •

For thrills the Cards and Cubs put one on when they met June 21. The Cards tied the score at 3-3 by scoring one in the ninth. Webb opened the twelfth with a home run. Catcher Schultz repeated the drive for the Cards in their half. Gonzales opened the thirteenth with a belt into the right field seats and the Cards won out in their half when Douthit tripled, Bottomley singled, Southworth walked and Les Bell singled.

• • •

Tommy Sewell, the third member of the Alabama family to enter the major league ranks, is a duplicate of Brother Joey of the Indians. He has the same fielding actions and batting stances as the Indians' shortstop.

The National league race is getting so interesting the boys are steaming around the collar. After Earl Smith hooked a right against Bancroft's chin, Heinie Mueller and Hogan of the Braves exchanged blows while Lew Wilson, shoving Umpire Pfirman around started a series of uppercuts when he was nipped in time by Manager McCarthy.

• • •

The Eastern slump by the Cardinals is attributed to weak hitting. Shortstop Tommy Thevenow, who batted .481 for 21 games in the spring training series, has driven home exactly two runs in 29 games. Moral—save the base hits for the real games.

• • •

If Earl Whitehill continues to set them down on strikes he will be the leader in the American league. He reached the high mark for the season with 10 in a recent game with the Senators.

When the Yankees won seven straight they set the season's mark for a winning streak. Previously six had been the best spurt, made by the White Sox, Cardinals and Giants.

TOM GREEN AND PECOS COUNTIES PROMISED NEW OIL AREAS

BIG GAS FLOW IN VAL VERDE

Southwest Wildcat Takes Oil Interest

SAN ANGELO, July 5:—Possibilities of the first production in Tom Green county and in a new area in eastern Pecos county are seen in an oil showing in H. D. Camp's No. 1 Willeke Bros., 7 miles west of San Angelo, and gas in Shankel and others' No. 1 Yates, in section 58, block 1, I. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey, less than two miles of the nearest Yates well.

Owens & Caldwell No. 1 Henry Mills in northwestern Val Verde county, which struck 1 1-2 million cubic feet of wet gas at 2527 feet, was waiting on 8 1-4 inch casing, which was expected to arrive by Wednesday. Much interest attaches to the wildcat, in section 128, block 1, I. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey, owning to its location only about 50 miles southeast of the Yates pool in Pecos county and the fact that it is on the lower end of an almost direct southeast-northwest line connecting the fields in Pecos, Upton, Crane, Ector and Winkler counties and extending into southeastern New Mexico.

Oil was found coming through six or seven feet of mud in H. D. Camp's No. 1 Willeke in Tom Green county after 6 5-8 inch casing had been set at 738 feet and the water bailed out. Work had to be shut down for overhauling of the engine and will be resumed the middle of the week. The test is 310 feet from the west line and 200 feet from the north line of section 4, Blind Asylum survey.

Gas in Shankel and others' No. 1 Yates in Pecos county was reported struck below 1300 feet. Allsman & Bell Saturday spudded their No. 2 Pecos river bed test, two miles north of their first producer, and 564 feet from east and 655 feet north of the corner of section 64, block 1, I & G. N. Ry. Co. survey. The first river bed well early in the week was flowing 180 barrels daily from 1068 feet. Flowing 200 barrels hourly from 1355 feet, Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental No. 28 Yates likely was to be deepened.

Oklahoma Does 800,000 Barrels

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 24,800 barrels for the week ended July 2, totalling 2,535,550 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute today.

Daily average production in Oklahoma was 802,600 barrels, an increase of 27,700 barrels; Kansas 110,550, decrease 1350; Panhandle Texas 121,056, decrease 4450; North Texas 87,200, decrease 1100; West Central Texas 73,150, decrease 650; Southwest Texas 31,750, decrease 850; North Louisiana 50,200, increase 300; Arkansas, 111,950, decrease 50; coastal Texas 135,050, decrease 3550; coastal Louisana 15,850, increase 50; Eastern 111,500, increase 500; Wyoming 62,300, increase 1650; Montana 15,400, unchanged; Colorado 7200, decrease 50; New Mexico 3500, decrease 50; California 627,400, decrease 7700.

Daily average imports of petroleum at principal ports for the month of June totalled 173,000 barrels compared with 190,000 barrels for the previous month, and for the week ended July 2, 144,428 barrels compared with 240,143 barrels for the previous week.

LOOK OVER FIELD.

SAN ANGELO, July 5. — San Angelo and the West Texas oil fields will be visited this week by Frank Finsthwaite, investment broker, formerly interested with G. A. Hinshaw Jr., & Company, and several associates of New York. They are coming to look over the oil situation.

CHILDRESS COUNTY.

C. L. Sloane at No. 1 Smith, in survey 49 of F. P. Knott lands, near Nowlin, in northwestern Childress county, the southeastern area of the Panhandle, has recovered lost tools and is cleaning out. The hole is below 1700 feet deep.

Little Girl Seriously Burned at Austin

AUSTIN, July 5, (AP)—Probably fatally burned, Betty Faire Green, eight, is in a hospital here after her clothing caught fire while she was playing with a lighting candle.

The accident occurred at the residence of Judge J. H. Baugh, whom the girl's parents, Captain and Mrs. J. P. Green, and three children of Fort Benton, Ga., en route to Fort Sam Houston, were visiting. She was saved from immediate death by two men who extinguished the fire.

U. S. MUST HAVE NAVY

HOUSTON, July 5. (AP)—The United States "must have a navy equal to any that floats," Congressman Tom Connally, Marlin, told the state convention of the American Legion here today.

New Pipe Line May Be Laid

Humble Rumored Planning Panhandle Line

AMARILLO, July 5.—A fourth Panhandle-Gulf pipeline is to be built into the Panhandle oil field.

This is what Panhandle oil men understand that the Humble Pipeline company is to do right away. The new line would parallel its present 10-inch line from Burnett station, south of Borger, to Comyn, and also tie onto one of the West Texas lines there as the present 10-inch line does.

Official confirmation is lacking, but inasmuch as the Humble is already unable to move all of the crude oil offered it, and is operating its present 10-inch line to maximum capacity of 32,000 to 34,000 barrels a day, and its experts are already convinced that the Panhandle will be a producing factor for many years to come, the proposition sounds feasible.

What makes it appear possible that the Humble has already outlined plans for its second Panhandle-Gulf line is that it is actively soliciting crude oil in the higher gravity areas of the Panhandle. This oil is not mixed with the oil from Hutchinson-Carson counties, but is stored until shipped away in tank cars.

Exploration Company Plans Oil Development in South Plains Area

AMARILLO, July 5.—The Exploration company, headed by E. R. Perry, a former Tulsa, Okla., oil man, is planning considerable development work this summer and fall in the Panhandle-South Plains country. It has taken extensive blocks in different counties and is now spudding No. 1 Goodman, in the southeast quarter of section 1, block 0, of D. S. survey, located to the northwest of Hale Center, and due west of Plainview. Fox and Cope are the drilling contractors, and E. E. Adams, head tool rusher.

Discovery of shallow oil at 407 to 423 feet, in the L. L. Donnell Petroleum company's No. 1 Mullican, in section 21, block B, of R. M. Thompson survey, in Hale county, makes oil men feel that the Exploration company may open up "something."

Word from Lubbock says the Exploration company is also to drill No. 1 Fee, in section 19, block S4, of D. S. E. survey, and is moving in material.

A. S. Mimms has spudded No. 1 Richter, located 700 feet from the east and 1200 feet from the south lines of section 17, block X, of John Glynn survey, of Hale county, and termed locally the Abernathy well.

NEW YORK, July 5. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet today, prices showing moderate declines owing to a favorable view of weather conditions in the South over the holiday. October contracts sold off to 17.02 and rallied to 17.07, closing at 17.04. The general market close steady at a net decline of 7 to 13 points.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 9 points, and after a little irregularity sold about 11 to 15 points below Saturday's closing quotations. Early weather reports evidently made a favorable impression on sentiment, but after easing off from 16.90 to 16.79 for July, and from 17.29 to 17.21 for December, the market steadied on coverings.

Selling on the more favorable view of the weather, appeared to be held in check by continued apprehensions of boll weevil damage, and possibility that the report on boll weevil emergence expected from the department of agriculture tomorrow, would make a bullish showing. With offerings light, prices worked up a few points during early afternoon, and there may have been a little buying on the detailed weather reports showing slightly more rain than looked for in the Carolinas. On the average, however, the favorable view of the weather persisted, and comparatively slight bulges were not fully maintained. Last prices were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest.

A private crop report published before the opening, placed the condition at 76.5 compared with 75.4 last year and the ten year average of 72. This report pointed to a net decrease of only 8.6 per cent in acreage, making the area under cultivation 44,614,090 acres.

Private cables said the Liverpool futures market was featureless awaiting the action of the New York market, or the showing of tomorrow's report on boll weevil, but added the advance in the minimum price for yarns made of American cotton had checked business in Manchester.

Exports today 247, making 10,899,261 so far this season. Port receipts 4291; port stocks 1,164,488.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 5—(AP)—The cotton market was quiet today and prices fluctuated narrowly. After an early loss the market gradually improved but near the end weakened again finally showing net losses for the day of 8 points on all active positions. The tone was called steady.

Liverpool calbes were about as due at the start here but first trades showed losses of 3 to 5 points. The market continued to ease off assisted on the downgrade by a bearish private crop and reports of general rains in the belt over the holiday.

Traders showed very little disposition to trade in advance of the weekly weather and crop report due tomorrow and this disinclination was helped somewhat by the uncertainty as to what the government's acreage report will show when it is made public at the end of the week.

In the afternoon reports of boll weevil depredations carried prices 5 to 7 points above the previous close. The market turned easy again in the late trading with prices closing 2 to 3 points above the lows.

Exports for the day totalled only 247 bales.

Stocks Climb to New High Records During Trade On First Day's Business After Holiday

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 5.—As predicted here last week that the stock market would meet excellent support after the Fourth, stocks today went to new high records in some cases on long and short buying. Seasoned rails and industrials were leaders.

At the close of trading the market acted as if it had started on a new advance. The street is crowded with bears, and the bulls will see to it that all the lines are covered. The credit situation is satisfactory and the banks should be in a position to take care of expansion in the fall trade without materially affecting loans for stock market purposes.

Banks called approximately $25,000,000 in loans. Money could be obtained at 4 1-2 per cent. Wheat was higher; cotton lower. Foreign exchange, quiet. The banks, it was rumored, intend to take hold of the oils the middle of the month.

Railroad stocks came in for considerable attention. It is the confident belief that a number of railroad deals will go through despite the action of the interstate commerce commission at the present time. Atlantic coast line spurted half a dozen points on buying attributed to Henry Walters, chairman of the road. Southern Pacific sold at the best price since 1911. Insurance companies have been large buyers of this stock on prospects of a dividend increase and the stock is beginning to feel the effects of mid-year reinvestments from other sources. Chicago & Eastern Illinois preferred continued in demand. The Northwest issues moved higher and buying should soon make itself felt pricewise in Erie. The same is true of Reading, Lehigh and Central. The latter three are favorites of the first National Bank. Gulf, Mobile & Northern is another stock enjoying speculative favor. Net operating income of this road during May showed an increase of thirty per cent over last year. Excellent buying also developed in New York, Ontario & Western.

American Can sold at a new peak for the year on heavy trading. A price tag of $70 has been placed on this issue for the present move. American Can has entered into contracts with the National Biscuit company for the largest order ever placed in the Can business. This order is for fancy cans known in the trade as Japanned cans. The National Biscuit company has started an aggressive campaign to develop a high-grade biscuit business. This includes the high-grade goods made by English companies and sold in America.

The American Can company also has opened approximately sixty new accounts for enameled and Japanned cans for the largest candy manufacturers in the world. Inside have been the principal buyers of Can on all reactions.

Union Carbide, Baldwin and Timkin—the so-called Cutten stocks—were higher. The outlook for Timken is said to be unusually good. The St. Paul and many other big lines are installing roller bearings on passenger and freight cars which mean not only comfort for passengers but less power requirements. Colorado fuel made a new high on increased speculative buying. Fuel is understood to be headed for 125 on dividend prospects.

Motor held ground. Inside are the principal buyers of General Motors which again crossed the 200 mark. Fancy prices are predicted for the Premier Motor issue. Pittsburgh interests were the principal buyers of Texas Gulf Sulphur. The same crowd were instrumental in lifting Westinghouse Electric five points. Control of this company, it is, understood, has changed hands. The stock is selling practically at the same price as seven years ago. During that time General Electric has risen several hundred points. Sentiment toward the rubbers is tending toward the bull side following a period of bearishness.

Steel common closed higher and a demand developed for Inland steel, one of the low cost producers. Buying developed in Oil Well Supplies and Reynolds Springs. Demand for the latter's products is well ahead of last year and directors look for much higher earnings this year as a result. The Fisher body corporation has placed a large order with the company and Briggs Body corporation is doing likewise. Ford has also contracted for a large amount of the company's products. Sales are estimated to be running at the rate of $6,500,000 annually.

Speculative buying developed in American Brown Boverie on the ground that it had been liquidated to a standstill. The company apparently has seen the worst of its troubles, according to its chairman. New banking arrangements have been made, he says, and shipbuilding activities are assured for two or three years with satisfactory profits and $4,000,000 business in the electrical division has been booked for 1927 and 1928 delivery. Expansion plans have been curtailed and its affairs put on a basis to assure better earnings.

Oils are beginning to act better. The United States this year is establishing a new high record in the consumption of gasoline. Nearly 30,200,000 gallons of "gas" were burned daily in the first half of 1927. This estimate is based on figures of the commerce department from refineries throughout the country. A barrel holds about 42 gallons. Consumption averaged 719,000 barrels daily during the first five months, compared with a rate of 647,000 barrels last year. This represents an increase of approximately eleven per cent. The 1926 consumption rate exceeded that of the previous year by 19 per cent. Motor cars in operation in this country this year numbered approximately 22,000,000 vehicles of all varieties.

PRICES SLIDE IN GRAIN PIT

Sharp Drop Tuesday In Wheat Quotations

By CHARLES J. LEYDEN
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, July 5.—World crop news on wheat today was appreciably more favorable, and prices after early firmness dropped sharply. Long wheat came out on the way down and met less aggressive support. Beneficial rains were reported in the droughty areas of the Argentine and Australia while weather conditions were more seasonal in the American and Canadian spring wheat sections.

Corn was a choppy affair, the December delivery hitting a new crop high and closing with a good part of its gain maintained. Nearby months were draggy, the July being lower. In all pits holders were inclined to reduce lines rather than add to them.

July wheat opened at 1.46 1-4@1.46 1-2, reached $1.46 3-4, sold off to $1.44 1-8 and closed at 1.44 1-2@$1.44 5-8. September opened at $1.44 3-4@1.45, reached $1.45 1-8, tumbled to $1.43 1-8 and closed at $1.43 1-8@1.43 1-4. September corn opened at $1.06 1-2@1.07, hit $1.08 after selling at $1.05 3-4 and closed at $1.06 3-8@1.06 1-2.

Export wheat sales totaled 600,000 bushels, largely Manitobas. Little other business. Liverpool closed 3-8 to 1 5-8 pence higher than Saturday.

Locally wheat finished 1 7-8@2 3-8c off, corn 1-4c lower to 1c higher, oats 1-8c to 3-8c lower and rye 1 1-2c to 2c down.

Corn had an erratic trend throughout. This disappointed many bulls and they took profits. The trade inspected a great part of the corn belt over the holidays and the opinion prevails that the plant is dangerously late, and must have ideal climatic conditions to make up lost ground.

Oats were in moderate trade with the range of prices narrow and the close easy.

Rye trailed the leading cereal into lower ground.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 5—(AP)—Resumption of trading after the double holiday in the stock market found speculators for the advance still in control of the price movement. Intermittent profit-taking and bear selling was more than offset by the steady investment demand for high grade issues and aggressive pool operations in a number of specialties, base on the prospect of easier money rates and the hope of special dividend action in several issues. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales running below 1½ million shares.

Banks called about $25,000,000 in loans during the day, presumably to repair the fifth consecutive deficit shown in clearing house reserve, but call funds were in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 4½ per cent, with loans reported in the "outside" market as low as 4¼ per cent in many quarters. A 4 per cent call money rate is looked for before the end of the week. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Electrical equipment stocks gave one of the best demonstrations of group strength, with buying influenced by rumors of railroad and other electrification projects. General Electric, Westinghouse Manufacturing and Manhattan Electrical Supply reached new high ground, while Allis Chalmers and General Railway Signal recorded substantial gains. Baldwin, after acting rather sluggish in the early trading, ran up over 3 points to 234¼, or within a point of the record high. American Car and Foundry touched a new low at 97.

U. S. Rubber first preferred, which was recently sold in reflection of speculative fears for the safety of the dividend, rallied 2 points on unofficial reports that the dividend would be declared at Thursday's meeting of the board.

General Motors was bid up nearly 4 points to 202¾, and substantial gains were recorded by a number of other recent favorites, including American Radiator, American Tobacco B, Coca Cola, Dupont, Otis Elevator and Western Union.

In the railroad group, Southern Pacific, Chicago & Eastern Illinois preferred and "Soo" preferred reached new high ground. Atlantic Coast Line soared over 6 points and large gains were recorded by Lakawanna, Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville, and some of the other high priced issues. Wall Street is waiting with interest the outcome of the hearings on the approval of securities under the St. Paul reorganization plan, which start before the interstate commerce commission in Washington tomorrow, and the action to be taken on the application for the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads, which is expected to reach the commission Friday.

With the exception of a drop of about 7 points in Spanish pesetas and a similar gain in Japanese yen, foreign exchanges fluctuated within extremely narrow and irregular limits. Demand sterling ruled around $4.85⅝ and French francs around 3.91½ cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, July 5.(AP)—Fine weather for the winter wheat harvest and for spring wheat growth did much to bring about lower prices on wheat today, Closing quotations for wheat were heavy at 1 3-4 to 2 1-2 cents net decline with corn 1-4c off to 1 1-8c up, oats 1-8 to 3-8c down and provisions varying from 5a decline to a rise of 17 cents.

Corn rallied in the late trading, talk being current that cool nights have been against corn growth and that it would take ideal weather to produce 2,000,000,000 bushels this season.

Provisions were mostly firmer, influenced by strength of the hog market.

What To Do And How To Do It Told Husbands By Chicago Judge

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Judge Joseph Burke, who presides over the court of domestic relations here, issued a "pronunciamiento" for young husbands today, which, if followed, he said, would reduce the work of his court. Here is what he says the June bridegroom should not do:

"Don't try to make your wife over after you marry her.

"Don't complain eternally. Help each other. Maybe she is trying her best to learn to cook. Have patience.

"Don't throw your clothes around and make extra work for your wife.

"Don't be petty. Attend to the details of your business and let her run the house. That's her job.

"Don't bother her with business complaints.

"Don't lie to her about your income. Perfect frankness is the only solid foundation of domestic happiness.

"Don't try to be a sheik to other women after you are married. The right kind laugh at you and the wrong kind get you into trouble.

"Don't become intoxicated and expect your wife to like it.

"Be neat about your person. Clean linen, nicely kept hands and frequent haircuts save many a home.

"Be generous with your compliments as with your money. Compliments are lik a pulmotor to a slightly discouraged woman."

COUNTY ENDS VOTE COUNT

Results of Road, School Elections Canvassed

Official returns from the recent road bond issue election showed 3504 ballots cast, according to a canvass made Tuesday by the county commissioners court.

Ballots cast against the issuance of the bonds totalled 2231 and for the issuance, 1273.

The unofficial returns showed 3546 ballots cast; 2287 against and 1259 for. However, after "throwing out" defective ballots and correcting errors in the figures compiled by election judges, the court announced the result of the canvass.

The court instructed C. H. Van Horn to kill prairie dogs on his farm near Iowa Park. The court was informed that a large number of the animals were on the farm and were hindering the growth of crops on adjoining property.

Results of two elections recently held in the Cashion-Bacon,Cooper school district were canvassed and approved by the court. The elections were relative to the absorption of outstanding bonds by the Cashion district, which recently annexed the Bacon and Cooper districts, and the acceptance of a school tax rate of $1 on the $100 valuation by the district. Both the bond absorption and the acceptance of the tax rate were voted upon favorably by the citizens in the school district.

A petition requesting the reduction of property assessments and the increase of the tax rate in the county anticipated to be received Tuesday by the court was not filed.

State Waives Right To Buy School Bonds

The state board of education waived its option on $250,000 worth of bonds recently issued by the Wichita Falls independent school district so that the bonds can be placed on the open market, according to an Associated Press dispatch received here Tuesday afternoon. This was done in a special session of the board, following the approval of the issue by the attorney general's department.

W. W. Brown, secretary of the city board of education, took the printed bonds to Austin the early part of the week, accompanied by P. B. Garrett of Dallas who has bought the bonds with the Illinois Merchants' Trust company of Chicago. They were sold at a $3075 premium, bear four and three-fourths per cent interest and mature serially, Mr. Brown stated prior to leaving here.

Mr. Brown had not returned to Wichita Falls Tuesday night but is expected Wednesday. Plans on the distribution of the funds among the various school buildings in the city will be announced soon.

Bar Delegation Off To Convention Today

Judge A. H. Britain, vice president of the Texas Bar Association, left Tuesday afternoon for Houston where he will attend the annual convention of the organization with four other Wichita Falls lawyers who are to leave Wednesday. Judge Britain will be elected president of the state association if election precedents are carried out in the usual rotating method.Judge Fitzgerald said Tuesday night. As first vice president for the past term, Judge Britain, in all probability, will be named head of the organization Saturday afternoon at the annual election of officers.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, billiousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.
