

SEQUESTERED JURY

Like being in jail

By LEWIS SIMMONS

Serving on a sequestered jury is not unlike being in jail.

It is an analogy drawn by Larry Chaney of Iowa Park, foreman of a sequestered jury which spent 10 days in early February deciding the fate of an Argyle man who was sentenced to death for the rape-strangulation slaying of a Lewisville girl.

"Whew! I get claustrophobia just being back in here again," Chaney said, stepping into the fourth floor Wichita County Courthouse jury dormitory where he lived during the trial.

Chaney, an articulate 28-year-old roustabout for Texaco with college training in pre-med and English, talked about his experience as a sequestered juror while the memory remained fresh on his mind.

"It's worse than being in jail. See, we couldn't have visitors. We couldn't even talk on the telephone," Chaney said, explaining the restriction placed on the eight women and three men who served with him.

The male jurors and a bailiff occupied the smaller of two jury dormitories located on the top floor of the courthouse.

Roughly 15 feet by 50 feet, the dormitory lacks aesthetics.

The cots were covered only with sheets and wool blankets. Three metal lockers, a coffee table and a half dozen chairs completed the furnishings. The bathroom has a shower, but no tub.

The three window sills are six feet off the floor.

"You have to climb up on a bed to see out the window," Chaney said. "All you can see is the jail."

Exit and entry is through a single door.

The other dormitory, where the women jurors stayed, is larger with a better view from the window, but it has the same beds, the same bleak walls," Chaney said.

Judging by Chaney's reaction to the experience, sequestered jurors in Wichita County are subjected to the literal definition of sequester.

"Jurors are awakened by 5:30 a.m. An hour later they were escorted to a nearby restaurant for breakfast in a segregated dining room. By 8 a.m. they were back at the courthouse.

Some days they started hearing testimony at 8:30 a.m. Other days their work didn't begin until 11 a.m.

It was back to the same restaurant for lunch with the day's courthouse work usually concluding about 5 p.m.

The jurors voted on one of three nearby restaurants where they individually ordered supper. Then it was back to the dormitories for the remainder of the night.

He was paid $5 per day for his services.

"We ate well. We got to order what we wanted. Yeah, I made $60 out of the whole deal," Chaney recalled.

To fight the pressures of isolation, Chaney read some. One night several jurors played penny ante poker.

Their television viewing was void of any news programs and newspapers were shredded by censoring of stories related to the case or other criminal litigation.

Chaney didn't speak to his wife for 10 days.

"The only time I saw her, she came down here one day and looked through the window of the courtroom," he said.

If one of the jurors needed to contact someone on the outside, they wrote a note and gave it to the bailiff who made the telephone call. Then the bailiff returned with the written message from the person contacted.

Chaney said the ordeal didn't have any appreciable effect on his five-year marriage to his wife, Kacy, a nursing student at Midwestern State University.

"It affected me. I am a different person now than the 10 days before I went into this," he said.

Handling the case forced Chaney to come to grips with his values, not so much a reassessment, but having to get a firmer grip on already established convictions.

Another type of case, such as a felony theft case, would not have had such a marked effect on him, Chaney believes.

The magnitude of its effect was in the fact that a young girl had been murdered and a man's life was at stake. The pressures were from sympathy for the dead girl's family and the value of the defendant's life.

Chaney said all the jurors with whom he served agreed not to discuss their deliberations "because we couldn't explain it."

"The isolation was an important part of what we all experienced," he said. "It wasn't like being a prisoner, but you felt a definite isolation. The only outside stimulus you received was concerned with the case."

Asked if it is fair to sequester a jury, Chaney replied, "I think it's necessary."

The jurors were not allowed to discuss the case even among themselves until deliberations actually began.

"That was very difficult to do," Chaney said. He indicated the temptation to discuss the case would have been great if he had been allowed to return home each night where the day's activities are normal topics of conversation with his wife and friends.

Being sequestered forces members of a jury to concentrate on the case, which is only fair to the defendant, Chaney maintained.

"I think a defendant deserves a juror's full attention when you're deliberating a case. It's a good system, but nothing's perfect," he said. As a result of the isolation, strong bonds grew among the jurors. He said he is closer to some of the jurors than he is with some persons he's known all his life.

"The decision we had to make is the thing that brought us all together," he said, emphasizing the group examination of values that transpired.

"They were a very amiable group of people. That's what made it all bearable. These aren't very good conditions under which to live," Chaney said, gazing around the dormitory.

Would you mind serving on a sequestered jury again? Chaney replied, "I'd rather not. But I wouldn't trade it (the experience) for anything."

"It's just that these facilities leave so much to be desired."

IOWA PARK, WICHITA COUNTY, TEXAS 76367

VOL. X NO. 25 20 CENTS

Two names on ballots

Only two candidates have filed thus far for six openings in the April 7 city and school elections.

Martha Dudley is the only trustee candidate to file thus far, according to an administration office spokesman. Her term, as well as terms held by CE. Myers and Bill Spruiell, expire this spring.

Loy Williams has filed for a place on the city council election ballot, even though the city has not yet officially called its election.

Terms of Bud Adams and CA. Hicks expire this spring. A third position will be voted on. It was vacated due to the death of the late Eldon Thompson Jr.

The council is expected to adopt an ordinance making the vacant seat a two-year term starting this year, thus balancing the number of city offices up for vote each year. Should the ordinance not be approved, the vacated position would be voted on for a one-year term.

Candidates have until the close of business March 7 in which to file for places on the two ballots.

City expected to set election date

The Iowa Park city council is expected to officially call its annual election for April 7 when it meets Monday at 7 p.m. in council chambers. Calling the election could have been accomplished at the city's meeting two weeks ago, but no action could be taken due to a lack of quorum. Only two members showed up.

An ordinance changing the time for one council position to be voted on is expected to be presented to council members, according to Steve Morath, city administrator.

Council members had earlier pointed out that this would be an opportune time to balance the number of council seats to be voted on each year. At issue is the vacated seat held by the late Eldon Thompson Jr. Present two-year terms provide for three council seats and the office of the mayor to be voted on one year, and only two alderman positions the other year. Since this year's the time for two terms to expire, it was felt changing that to three full terms would be appropriate.

Also to be voted on will be a resolution permitting the mayor to enter into a contract with the Texas Department of Community Affairs for comprehensive planning assistance funds to update the city's general plan.

Bids for sale of the wrecked police car are to be opened. Earlier bids were rejected and resubmitted.

Two public appearances have been slated on the meeting's agenda. Jess Yaryan is to speak to council members concerning an anti-litter project sponsored by the Iowa Park Garden Club, and Faris Nowell, school superintendent, will speak concerning a property line problem on East Lafayette.

Vocalists score big in UIL competition

Twenty Iowa Park High School vocalists earned Division I ratings at the UIL solo and ensemble competition held at Midwestern State University campus in Wichita Falls Saturday.

In addition, two more Division I ratings were earned by the Madrigal Singers and a girls' trio.

Of 29 soloists who competed, none made ratings less than Division II. There are five ratings in UIL competition.

Janet Walker, choral department director, said she was extremely pleased with the results of her students in the competition, adding that each had worked extremely hard in preparation.

Soloists earning top ratings included Buddy Mercer, Annette Nanez, Karen Callahan, Marilynne Mellroy, Jayne Dickey, Deanne Patterson, Kerri Edwards, Joanni Jennings, Karen Arrington and Rita Ratcliff.

Also Jayna Evans, Kay Hamilton,

No classes here Monday

Students of Iowa Park schools will have a three-day weekend holiday starting at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Monday has been designated a teacher work day, to grade papers and make out report cards for the second quarter period.

Classes are to resume Tuesday at the regular time.

The next scheduled holiday will be April 7-15, when school will be dismissed a full week for Easter.

DOWNTOWN BEAUTIFICATION- Members of the Iowa Park High School horticulture class planted trees along Park Avenue boulevard Thursday, as part of the downtown beautification project sponsored by the Iowa Park Parks Board. John Sibley, right, is president of the Parks Board, and Jimmy Howell, with cap, is instructor of the students. Funds for the project were donated by State National Bank.

Chamber endorses proposal

Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce directors Monday endorsed a proposal that the city council pass a package of four ordinances to insure success of an anti-litter campaign in the community.

Mrs. Charlie Lee, representing the Iowa Park Garden Club, sponsors of the campaign, met with the board to explain her organization's program and goals.

Mrs. Lee asked that Chamber members attend Monday's city council meeting in the support of the proposals, at which time Jess Yaryan is to present facts and figures connected with the campaign.

In other business, Bill Steger was named to select a speaker for next year's Chamber banquet; Helen Rich is to represent the Chamber at the NCO Club Awards function at Sheppard; and a discussion was held concerning obtaining a plaque on which past presidents of the Chamber will be listed.

Variety show

The American Heart Fund(dies Variety Show which will be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium promises to be all that the name implies, according to Mrs. E.F. Soell and Mrs. Charlie Lee, chairmen of the Heart Fund Drive in Iowa Park.

In planning for the show they have been assisted by Joy Hedrick, Mrs. Kenneth Watts, Mrs. Delbert Todd, Mrs. Georgia Flanagan, Vern Horsky, Bill Bates and Bill Curry.

Entertainment will feature music by the Duke Western Band, Blair-McDaniel Band, magician tricks by Randy Keck, piano solos, gospel music, baton twirling, modern dance, tap dancing, skits, spoon playing, disco dance and other numbers.

Frederick given two-year sentence

An Iowa Park man was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary after being found guilty of beating his two-year-old stepson.

Myron Davis Frederick, 25, of Iowa Park, was found guilty and sentenced last Thursday in 78th District Court in Wichita Falls.

Prosecution had asked for the maximum term in prison for the second-degree felony. Frederick could have been sentenced up to 20 years in prison with a $10,000 fine.

The four-day trial was heard by a jury of four women and eight men.

Frederick was found guilty of beating his stepson, Michale Paul Cryer, two days after he had married the boy's mother Gloria Frederick.

The beating incident occurred in the early morning hours Dec. 17 at 309 E. Cash.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Mojer of Orlando, Florida, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Martin of Iowa Park.

The bride's father presented her in marriage. She wore a formal white satin gown over baby blue trimmed with lace ruffles around the low neck and at the wrists of the long lace sleeves. The full skirt extended into a chapel train. She wore a waist length illusion veil that drifted from a camelot cap of lace and carried a cascade of white roses, white carnations tipped in blue and baby's breath.

Miss Debbie Lee and Miss Sharon Lee of Satellite Beach, Florida participated in the wedding as maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. They wore baby blue polyester sun dresses with spaghetti straps topped with lace capelets. Their nosegays consisted of blue tipped carnations and daisies.

The table that held the three-tiered white cake divided with Grecian pillars, decorated with cascades of blue frosting roses and topped with the traditional bride and groom standing under an arch of blue flowers, was the focal point of interest. The blue and white bridal napkins were table appointments.

Misses Linda Mojer and Donna Mojer, sisters of the bride, were reception Assistants.

The groom's parents gave the rehearsal dinner at the Pelican Point Inn in Cocoa Beach.

For their wedding trip, the couple went to Disney World. They are now at home in Wichita Falls at 137 Airport Drive.

Mrs. Reaves leads study

Mrs. S.B. Reaves led the first study in the new home missions book "California Journey", by Elaine Furlow and Walker Knight, for the Night Baptist Women of First Baptist Church in the meeting Monday at Mrs. Bill Curry's.

She traced the religious growth from the time of the Spanish and English missions. Concentrating on Baptist work, she stated that the first Baptist church in the state was organized in San Francisco in 1849 and that the Southern Baptist work was started in earnest in 1936.

Mmes. E.T. Paterson, Roy B. Smith and V.I. Woodfin assisted with the presentation relating how the Dust Bowl days in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas had encouraged people to move to California and eventually strengthened the Baptist work.

Miss Helen Reed presided during the business. Mrs. Curry was in charge of the missionary prayer calendar.

Cook of the Week

When Rachael Jordan, 14-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Jordan of Seymour, grows into young womanhood, chooses her life's mate, and the excitement of old shoes, rice and a honeymoon are over, she will find herself faced with the responsibility of planning and preparing meals unless there is a drastic change in the status of women.

Chances are she will aspire to cook "just like grandmother", and chances are that she will have saved some of the recipes that her grandmother, Mrs. Lindon Jordan, shared with the Leader readers Feb. 22, 1979. No doubt, her parents will have preserved the picture of her in her frilly "Sunday best" dress she wore to pose for a picture with her grandmother. Armed with grandmother's advice and recipes it will be easier for her to keep meals from getting into a rut.

Mrs. Jordan, the former La Dell Trimm, was graduated from Iowa Park High School. She worked as a checker for C.H. Parker Food Store in Iowa Park before Piggly-Wiggly purchased the business. Since her marriage she has devoted full-time to being a homemaker. She is a member of First United Methodist Church. Her hobbies are sewing, cro-

Mr. Jordan is a pumper for Vinson and Clark. The couple's children are Ronnie of Lewisville, Marcus of Seymour, Michael and Lynn of the home. They have two granddaughters.

23 Study Club hears Mrs. Tanner

Mrs. R.A. Tanner, who has been much in demand to present programs for clubs, church and civic groups since her trip around the world in 1978, presented the program for the 23 Study Club Thursday afternoon.

Because of the excitement people seem to have accompanying special attention to India and Nepal, two places included on the tour, Mrs. Tanner has endeavored to spotlight different places and things for each program. The Taj Mahal at Agra, India, was the focal point of interest in Thursday's program.

Through slides and narration, Mrs. Tanner first showed the Red Fort built to protect the white mausoleum built by Mogul Emperor Shah Jahan, in memory of his favorite wife, Mumtaz, one of the most beautiful and costly tombs in the world.

Resting on an eight-side platform of red sandstone with slender minarets (prayer towers) standing at each corner, 20,000 workmen including mosaicists, artisans, jewelers from all over the world worked for 22 years to construct it. The entire Koran, the holy book of the Moslems, is carved on the outside of the building.

The magnificence of Taj Mahal was pictured through tapestry woven with precious stones, marble carved with intricate designs, the peacock room dedicated to the sacred bird of Nepal, and the national bird of India, all attesting to the staggering sums of money that went into the construction.

Mrs. Tanner showed the central room that contains the two cenotaphs (monuments) which visitors can see through a screen of alabaster. The bodies of Shah Jahan and his wife lie in a vault below. To conclude the Taj Mahal story, she showed the tomb reflected in the pool in the garden where it stands.

Some of the interesting incidental features of the program afforded glimpses of Nepal where the Himalaya range covers almost nine tenths of the land. Included were slides of Buddhist and Hindu elaborate temples and shrines decorated with statues and delicate carvings, pagodas, sacred animals, cremation platforms, the Holy of Holies temple where only Hindus can go in, the tri-shaw, the chief mode of transportation, and many more.

She described the three main tribes of Nepal, the Newars, Gurkhas and Sherpas, and the garuda, the mythical bird thought to be responsible for the people of Nali staying true to Hinduism instead of embracing Moslem worship.

Mrs. Tanner showed two Christmas cards that she received from friends she made on the tour, one from Taiwan, and the other a prayer wheel with its prayer flag from a Nepalese priest.

The meeting was held in Mrs. Tanner's home and the hostesses were Mrs. Sam Hill and Miss Ethyle Kidwell.

Mrs. C.L. Metz was program leader. Mrs. C.A. Hicks used "I Can Love" for the topic of her devotion.

The appropriate arts number was an organ solo,

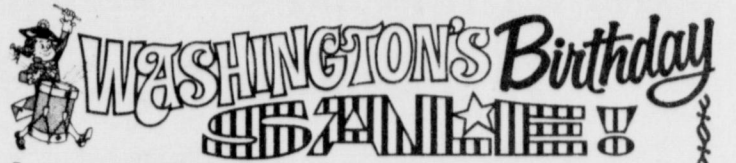

Song of India" by Mrs. O.E. Lochridge.

Mrs. E.F. Soell conducted a brief business meeting.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white embroidered linen cloth brought from the Bahamas and centered with a tall silver epergne holding crystal bowls filled with an assortment of colorful flowers.

The next meeting will be the annual Guest Day luncheon March 1 in Fellowship Hall of First Christian Church.

supposed to indicate good weather ahead. Boy, if I could accurately forecast the season's change, I could sell the information for almost as much as a sure cure for the common head cold. I heard that during those really warm days we had last week, stores were overrun by people buying and shopping yard and garden equipment. I'd say that's a sure sign that folks have had all the bad weather they need for a season, and are ready for the warmth of spring. Editor Lewis Simmons has been garden bug in a real way. He's been devouring all the books and pamphlets he can get his hands on, has started his sets growing in his home, and appears to be heading for a summer of fresh vegetable eating. Actually, Lewis has gotten so involved in the gardening subject that he's going to have a special section in next week's edition. I think you'll enjoy it, as well as finding his information helpful. I've got to admit, however, that I'm still looking for more bad weather. It's just too early, and I've lived in Texas long enough to know that we can have as much bad weather in April as in any January. One of the biggest blizzards I've seen was in April. Actually, I look forward to spring with mixed emotions. The change will affect my two favorite pastimes. An avid golfer, I naturally look forward to warmer weather, green fairways and playing regularly... in shirt sleeves. Winter is extremely difficult on a golfer's nerves. But on the other hand, when it turns warmer, I won't be able to enjoy my new love... my fireplace. I can't relish the embarrassment of keeping my windows and doors open just so I can sit in front of the fireplace and watch those logs burning. So it actually doesn't make me much difference what the next few weeks holds in store, weatherwise. I'm going to be enjoying one or the other of my interests.

REMEMBERING...

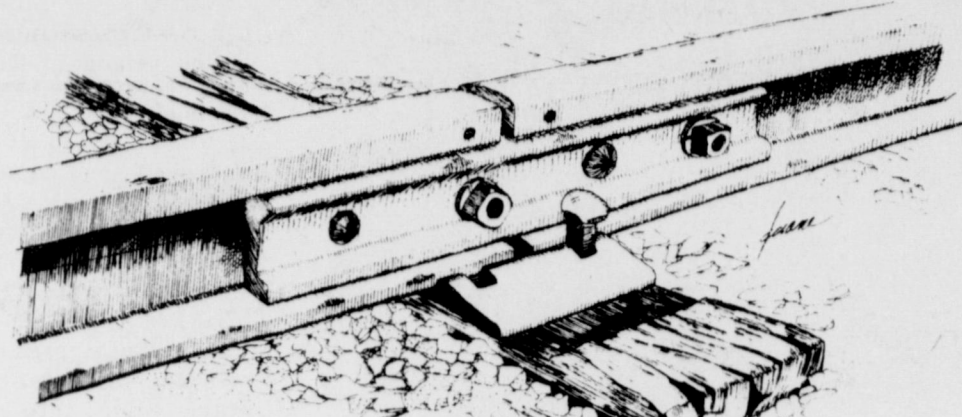

By BILL D. BROOKS
AT THE RAILROAD TRACKS

We didn't live near a railroad track but had some friends who did. It was an enjoyable time in our lives when we would go to visit them and get to see the train come by. The tracks ran behind their house and when we visited them that's the first place we kids would go. The tracks were up on a steep embankment and we would scamper up, racing to see who could get there first yelling, "Last one up's a big fat hen!" When up on top we would peer both ways down the shiny-topped rails for a train. If none was in sight we would walk the rails for a ways, pretending we were walking a tightwire high above a circus ring. Sometimes we walked on the crossties, stepping on each one, pretending they were steps on a long stairway. Sometimes we walked on every other tie or maybe every third one or every fourth. The winner of that game was the one who could step the farthest each time. I was too short for that game to interest me much. I liked to look for things. If you were lucky you might find a discarded rail spike for a souvenir.

A little ways down the track was a trestle that seemed high but really wasn't. You had to be pretty brave to walk crossties and rails when there wasn't anything in between them. It was fun to play underneath the trestle though. We would play like we were bandits, planning how we would rob the next train of all its gold. Black smoke billowed from the engine's stack as it chugged along coming toward us. Someone in the group would usually produce a penny from his pocket to place on the rail for the train to run over. The massive iron wheels would smush a penny "flatter'n a pancake". A train is an awesome thing to watch, especially if you are very close to one when it roars past. The big iron wheels make a click-clack sound at each rail connection. The coal burning trains we used to watch would puff out black smoke from their tops and white steam from their sides at several places. It would make us so happy when the engineer would wave and toot the whistle for us. We would stand there gawking up at the train, counting cars or sometimes counting the hobs sitting in the open box car doors or leaning against the ends of the flat cars. As the red caboose disappeared from sight in the distance, along with the sounds and smells and clouds of smoke, we would be silent for a time. We each wondered in our mind what it would be like to be on that train going to big cities and all sorts of far away places. I sometimes envied the hobs for the free life they lived and how they got to go wherever the trains took them. Sometimes, even today, I still do.

Humor 'n Whimsey

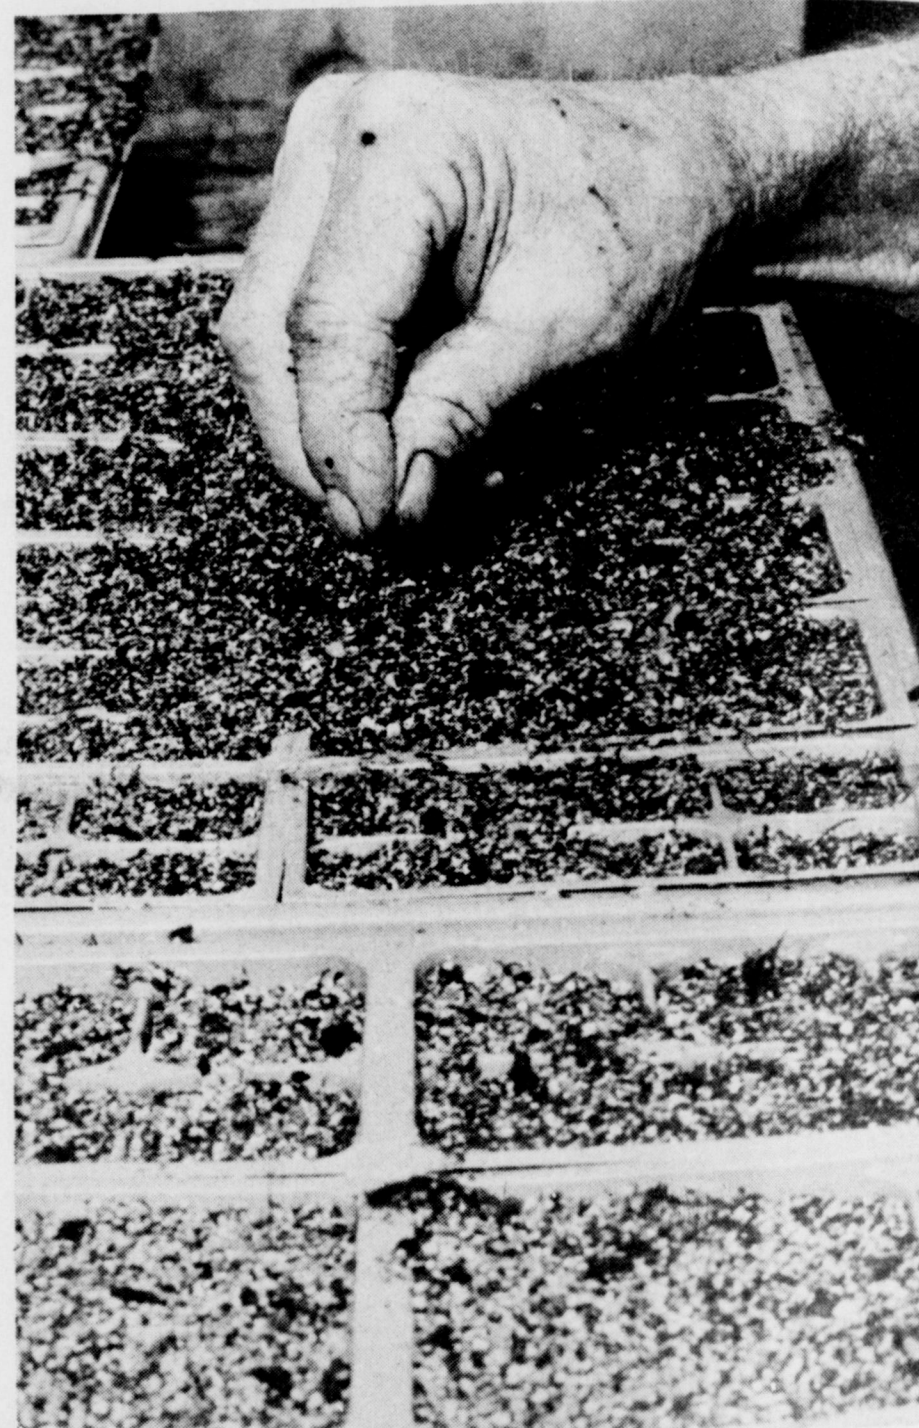

Joe Riordan

I don't know who said, "Politics makes strange bedfellows," but until you've been involved with politics and politicians -- you can't know how true that old saw is. My first taste, and first lesson in the ancient art of "Vote those rascals out -- and vote us rascals in" came in 1952 when I was living in a small town in the midwest. A political party -- which shall remain nameless -- hired me to generate publicity for a fund-raising dinner. The planning committee met for breakfast each morning in a local hotel. It didn't take long for me to tell the difference between the power-wielders, the figureheads and the hangers-on. By the third meeting I knew a man I'll call Perk Perkins was one of the power-wielders. It was at that meeting Perk taught me a lesson in politics I will never forget. One of the members of the committee asked about the possibility of using a man I'll call Barney to help sell tickets to the dinner. The chairman of the committee didn't reply to the question. He just glanced at Perk. Perk laughed and folded his pudgy hands across his expansive middle. When he leaned forward to speak -- he wasn't laughing. "Don't use him. He's a lush. Just last week he called me at two o'clock in the morning. Wanted me to get him out of jail. Got himself arrested for drunk driving. Hell, I had to wake up Uncle Bart to get him released. Otherwise he would have called me all night." My mouth dropped open. The only Uncle Bart I knew of was the leader of the opposition party -- which was in power at the time. Perk read the look of amazement in my face. "I guess you're surprised I'd call Uncle Bart for a favor, aren't you kid?" "That's right, Mr. Perkins." Perk laid his beefy hand over mine and gave me a paternal pat. "You see -- Son -- Uncle Bart takes care of me and my people when he's 'in' -- and I take care of him and his friends when I am 'in'. And that way neither one of us is ever 'out'." And that's how I know -- "Politics makes strange bedfellows."

Farmers advised to use services

To avoid unnecessary worry about the loss of 1979 farm program benefits, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service advises farmers to use pre-measurement and other producer services. "At the request of the producer, we will stake and measure acreages prior to crop planting time," David Robnett, county executive director of the Wichita County ASCS office, said. Producer services provided by ASCS include measurement of set-aside land, field and subdivisions to be planted, total cropland, and land areas for other purposes. "Fees vary, based on the type of service rendered," he said. The services are guaranteed for the program year in which they are taken. According to Robnett, producers who take advantage of premeasurement and guaranteed the acreage in the areas measured

Letters to the Editor

To Whom It May Concern,
We read the Leader every week here in San Antonio and await anxiously of news from home. I enjoy the article on "Cook of the Week," but you are over looking one of the best cooks in town and a resident of Iowa Park for over 25 years and that's my mother Mrs. Grace Hadley. It's nice to read about all the new people in Iowa Park but at times I think you over look the "older" residents of your community. Mrs. Hadley's Red Velvet Cake always makes a big hit with her family plus all the other goodies she has learned to cook over the years. Also, I notice articles you have printed on the homes up there and who collects what. There again you have failed to look again to the "older" homes. For the inside of that 100 year old house is filled with some really fine antiques that were brought over from England. Yes, I agree it's nice Iowa Park has new people and young people coming to town but if it weren't for the "older" residents who stay on Iowa Park wouldn't be home to all of us who move away. So consider doing my mother as cook of the week or of doing an article of her home that she has worked so hard to redo all these years. Honor your "older" residents more than just a notice of their death, for when they're gone I.P. won't be home anymore.

Thank you,
Barbara Hadley Jackson

Editor's Comment: Thank you for the suggestions. We'll contact Mrs. Hadley as soon as possible. I must comment on a couple of items, however. First of all, we do not attempt to select our Cook of the Week on the merits of their cooking abilities, but rather ask them to share their favorite recipes. As to our featuring our "older" citizens, I'm wondering how long you've been reading the Leader? If I may paraphrase Billy Carter: There's a lot more "new" ones here now than "old" ones. But we'll try to do better. Thanks again for the letter and suggestions.

Council petitioned to pass no-porn law

Holliday City Council has been petitioned to adopt an ordinance that would outlaw the availability of materials considered pornographic to persons under 18.

Homer Whisnand, who said he had been appointed as a committee of one, presented the petitions and proposed ordinance at Monday night's regular council meeting. Councilman Melvin Bills said he already was studying the issue and had contacted the Wichita Falls city attorney about its ordinance on pornographic materials.

Holliday councilmen accepted the petitions. They voted to continue their study of the situation and renew discussion at the next meeting.

Apparently, persons involved in the Holliday movement are primarily concerned with the availability of some magazines in some local stores.

The petition asks the council to "consider the following proposed ordinance and to pass and approve it as an official ordinance regulating the sale or exhibition to minors of objectionable publications, pictures or articles."

Petitions included the signatures of 139 Holliday residents.

The petition also seeks to ban the "display at newsstand or any other business establishment frequented by persons under the age of 18 years or where said minors are or may be invited as a part of the general public."

The proposed ordinance also would outlaw "any motion picture or live show or performance, any still picture or photograph, any article or instrument of immoral sexual use, or any book, pocket book, pamphlet or magazine the cover or content of which:

"1. exploits, is devoted to, or is principally made up of descriptions or depictions of illicit sex or sexual immorality.

2. consists of pictures of nude or partially denuded figures posed or presented in a matter to provoke or arouse lust or passion or to exploit sex, lust or perversion for commercial gain..."

The petition seeks a fine on conviction of not less than $200 or more than $1,000.

OTHER ACTION

On two issues Monday night the council decisions were made on split votes.

By a 3-1 margin, Mayor Ben Ezzell gained council approval to purchase new cement bumper blocks for the parking lot west of the Post Office.

The parking lot does not belong to the city, but the city assumed informal control of the land several years ago, Ezzell said.

The wooden bumper blocks have become deteriorated and are needed for safety, the mayor maintained.

"I realize it's not in the budget, but I believe it's a worthwhile expenditure," Ezzell said in asking for the $150 to purchase the 15 new cement fixtures.

Councilman Mike Parker claimed there are other projects that deserve priority, and that upkeep of the parking lot was the responsibility of the landowner, not the city.

The council approved the purchase by a 3-1 margin with Parker casting the lone dissenting vote.

Ezzell was forced to break a tie vote concerning the purchase of a new speed radar for police.

Officer Don Pennington requested the new piece of equipment, explaining it would cost $1,685 plus trade in of the old radar.

Councilmen Bills and Mary Denney voted in favor of the purchase. Parker and Jim Virdell voted against it. Ezzell sided with Parker and Virdell to nix the proposal.

In other business Monday night the council discussed supplying water to Chick Ayres east of town and discussed repairs and the possibility of buying a new trash truck.

Ezzell reported on his discussion with school officials about the possibility of consolidating the city and school tax offices.

The mayor said only in cases of extreme emergency should the city policeman answer calls outside the city limits.

Oscar Park improvements are planned

John Sibley presided during a meeting of the Parks Board held in the Iowa Park City Council chambers Monday night.

Steve Morath, city administrator, presented a budget status report for the parks department and asked the board to consider priorities for the 1979 budget so that it could be presented to the city council.

During the meeting, the city administrator reported that the sloping of the west side of Lake Gordon near the pavilion was scheduled for this week, and the group decided that this area would be sodded in Bermuda grass this spring.

At another time, Morath discussed the need for more lighting in Oscar Park. The board members decided to wait until after the boundaries of the proposed Kiddie's Park were marked to determine whether extra lighting would be needed. In connection with this, the board will meet in Oscar Park the first week in March to mark the boundaries of Kiddie's Park.

Jimmy Alsop expressed the board's appreciation to the city administrator for his interest and participation in the monthly meetings and in his presentation of the budget status report. He acknowledged that due to Morath's active interest in the parks program, the board is realizing many more successful project accomplishments.

Reports were heard from several other chairmen during the meeting. Mrs. Charlie Lee, boulevard project chairman, reported on the plantings of yuons, live oaks and crape myrtle by the Iowa Park High School horticulture class, under direction of Jimmy Howell. She noted the savings this allowed and stated that even more planting could be done through the efforts of the horticulture students.

Virgil Woodfin mentioned the need of top soil to replace the 18-inch depth of gravel around each new planting in the boulevard, and stressed that the replacement was important to the survival of the plants.

James Owens gave a report on the Oscar Park barrier project, which is to be completed in four inch pipe railing to provide a safe playground area for children. He stated that approximately 150 feet of pipe was still needed to complete the project.

Mrs. David Padgett, Kiddie's Park chairman, reported on fund-raising for purchasing new playground equipment. She stated that she had presented the need for playground equipment to six organizations and had three more appearances scheduled. She acknowledged a check from the Alpha Epsilon Omicron chapter of Beta Sigma Phi that had previously donated trees for the pavilion area in Oscar Park.

Board members worked on priorities for 1979 and they are listed according to their order of importance: complete barrier at Oscar Park, measure and mark boundaries of Kiddie's Park, draw scale model of Kiddie's Park showing placement of equipment, shape and level grounds at Oscar Park.

Also fence Kiddie's Park area, purchase and install recreation equipment for Kiddie's Park, install picnic tables north side of Oscar Park, plant trees in existing parks, pave parking lot and entrance to Oscar Park, seek assistance in planning new parks.

Finnell proposed bill to toughen arson penalty

Rep. Charles Finnell this week announced that he is sponsoring a bill which toughens the penalty for arson and defines those instances where arson laws apply.

Pointing to statistics which show 40 percent of all fire losses nationwide are due to arson, Rep. Carlyle Smith of Grand Prairie, House co-sponsor of the bill with Finnell, cited the need for "protection of property, firefighters, and the community tax base."

Finnell stated that he was "particularly concerned that the intentional burning of vehicles is not covered by the current arson statutes." "The tremendous investment in vehicles by the citizens of this state necessitates a bill which gives the law the extra strength needed to protect all property from such senseless destruction," Finnell added.

One of the features of the Smith-Finnell bill is that it attempts to close the "no claim, no crime" loophole which hampers arson investigations.

Under existing statutes, anyone may burn his own property to gain a settlement, but if no insurance claim is paid, there is no crime.

Private burning of one's own property is specifically allowed under the proposed amendment to the present law providing that a permit for such burning has been obtained.

The proposed arson bill, House Bill 6, has a Senate companion bill, Senate Bill 254, sponsored by Sen. Gene Jones of Houston.

CARD OF THANKS

Many thanks to our friends and relatives for their many good deeds shown to me and my family while I was so long in the hospital recently.

I am very grateful for the many cards, calls, flowers, food for Linton and Gale and the many prayers said each day; also to the City View School employees for the beautiful currency corsage which was so thoughtful, and to those who spent many afternoons sitting with Gale to keep him going. I am also grateful to the attending physicians, Drs. Huckaby, Pogue and Mears for their concern.

Many, many thanks to each of you and may God in his own way bless you abundantly.

Older citizens needs improved eating habits

Older adults need improved eating habits which include eating a nutritious breakfast every day, eating foods that contain an adequate amount of fiber, and drinking plenty of water, according to Barbara Cornelius, County Agent.

Older adults should make a special effort to eat a breakfast that includes about one-fourth of the day's needed nutrients.

Serve a variety of fruits, fruit juice or tomato juice. Citrus fruits are excellent source of vitamin C, and tomato juice is a good source of both vitamins A and C.

However, if an adequate source of vitamin A or C is served at another meal, serve an apple or apple-sauce, raisins or prunes for variety.

Bacon and sausage cooked rather dry are lower in fat. Poached eggs or those cooked in a very small amount of fat will also be lower in fat and may be substituted for meat or served as an accompaniment to meat.

Milk may be used as a beverage or as an ingredient in foods served at breakfast such as breads, muffins or hot cakes, or serve it with cereal.

Inadequate amounts of water and fiber may cause constipation in many older persons. About six to eight glasses of water are needed daily. Some of this may be in the form of juices, soups, coffee and tea.

Although there is no specific recommendation for the amount of fiber, four servings of fruit and vegetables and four servings of breads and cereals, with some whole-grain cereal, are considered adequate.

There are two kinds of Long Distance. One keeps you in shape. The other keeps you in touch.

Running keeps those muscles in tone. Calling keeps the tone of an out-of-town friend's voice fresh in your mind.

A Long Distance call, a thousand miles away for ten minutes, (dialed the One-Plus way, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday-Friday) costs about the same as a paperback running book with all the answers. Compare that to the smile you get when a friend answers. Isn't there someone you'd like to call right now...just to keep in touch?

Long Distance. What else is so nice for the price?

Hawkettes lose bid for playoff

The Iowa Park Hawkettes - for two years a bride's maid but not quite a bride.

For the second straight year, the girls' varsity came close to the District 4-AAA championship, but the coveted title stayed just beyond their grasp.

Iowa Park, after dropping two games in second half play against district opponents, still had a shot at the crown when the team traveled to Mineral Wells Thursday night. The dubs had not yet played their first round game, and both were undefeated in first round play.

Mineral Wells' Ramettes had handed the Hawkettes their worst defeat of the entire year when they played here earlier 51-30.

Thursday's game on the Ramette course was even more disappointing to the young Iowa Park club, as their season came to a crashing halt, 56-29. The team finished with a 20-6 record. When the freshman-dominated team claimed a playoff spot for the district championship last season, their hopes were dashed by eventual 4-AAA winner Stephenville, 69-61.

The Ramette defense proved too much for Iowa Park, as the Hawkettes were outscored in every quarter, 16-2, 13-6, 14-9 and 13-12.

Jill Watts carried the scoring load for Iowa Park with 15. The conference's leading scorer, Jo Ann McClurg, was held to seven points, her lowest of the year.

Another sophomore, Mineral Wells' Regina Kimbrough, had a field day. The 6-1 center racked up 23 points for the hosts, while Lauri Lampkin had 18.

Thursday's win gave Mineral Wells undisputed lead in first half play, and a playoff spot against Hirschi, second half winner, Tuesday night.

Playing at Olney, Mineral Wells laid claim to both the boys and girls 4-AAA championships, as the Ramettes knocked off the Wichita Falls school 41-29.

Three Iowa Park High basketball players were named to the 4-AAA Sportswriters All District team. Two were girls and one a boy.

Jo Ann McClurg, who finished as the scoring leader among district players despite the fact she is a sophomore, was one of three unanimous selections to the team. McClurg, who stands 5-8, averaged an even 17 points per game, three-tenths ahead of Mineral Wells' Regina Kimbrough. Another sophomore, Jill Watts, was also a first team selection. She averaged 10.8 points in district games.

Randall Griffith, a 6-2 senior who averaged 14.4 points in district contests, was named to the boys' first team.

Two other senior Hawks,

Harry Hutchins and Jim Richardson, were honorable mention recipients. They were among the top 24 scorers in the district, averaging 9.1 and 10.8, respectively.

The only freshman to be recognized on either boys' or girls' teams was Tammie Richardson. The 5-8 forward received honorable mention. She averaged 8.4 points per game.

Rounding out the boys' first platoon team were: Darrell Milton, Mineral Wells; Kelley Edwards, Hirschi; Laramie Mergeron, Hirschi; Rory Nowak, Mineral Wells; Danny Brennan, Burkburnett; Jessie Kimbrough, Mineral Wells; Willie Brown, Weatherford; Ken Donnell, Graham; Ireland Scott, Vernon; and Griffith.

Second team selections included Tommy Fincher, Mineral Wells; Greg Crawford, Burkburnett; Michael Calhoun, Hirschi; Robert Sigman, Weatherford; and Michael Birt, Mineral Wells.

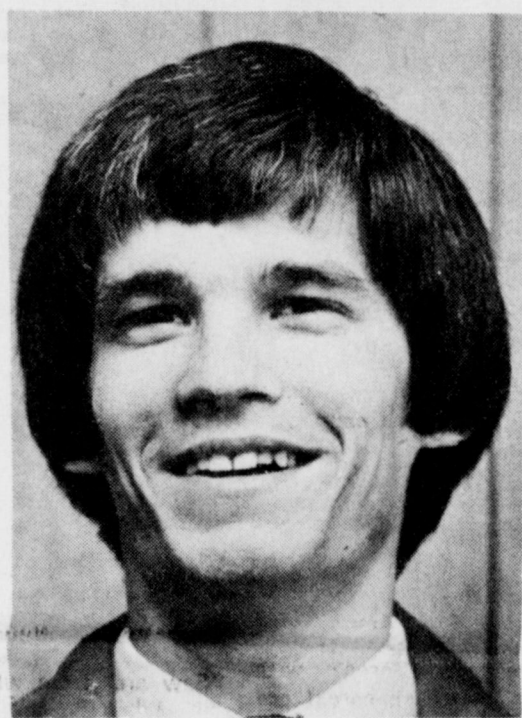

All selections were seniors except Scott, a sophomore, and Kimbrough, a junior.

Joining McClurg and Watts on the girls' first team were Regina Kimbrough, Mineral Wells; Loretta Herron, Hirschi; Kala Henry, Hirschi; Lisa Manley, Graham; Teresa Williams, Burkburnett; Laurie Lampkin, Mineral Wells; Paula Jefferson, Weatherford; and Kim Lindsey, Vernon.

Second platoon selections were Cora Moore, Mineral Wells; Sherry Calhoun, Hirschi; Terri Hamilton, Weatherford; Melvia Andrews, Mineral Wells; and Sharon James, Hirschi.

Three of the first team selections were sophomores, and two of the second team were also. Only three first team players were seniors, as were two on the second team.

"Try lowering the temperature in your home to 68° this winter. You'll save on your heating bill!"

"A setting of 68° during the winter is the one Texas Electric recommends for both comfort and energy efficiency.

For each degree above 68° the energy used for heating your house is increased by approximately 4% per degree.

As shown by the chart the difference between the recommended thermostat setting and 74° is 24%. At 78° the increase in energy usage is 40% or more.

Clearly, the lower you set your thermostat the lower your heating bill is going to be. And after last winter, one of the coldest on record, we think a lot of people are going to be trying their best to use less energy.

Remember to change the filter in your heating system regularly, too. A dirty filter causes your heating system to work longer and that costs you more. Check the filter at least once each month.

All forms of energy are costing more these days. If you're serious about saving energy and money, request a copy of our energy efficiency tips booklet on the comment portion of your electric service bill."
