

Hico News Review

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY
IN HICO, TEXASROLAND L. HOLFORD
Editor and PublisherEntered as second-class matter
May 10, 1907, at the postoffice at Hico, Texas, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.One Year $1.00 Six Months 75c
Outside Hamilton, Bosque, Erath
and Comanche Counties:—
One Year $1.50 Six Months 85c
All subscriptions payable CASH
IN ADVANCE. Paper will be discontinued when time expires.Cards of thanks, obituaries and resolutions of respect will be charged at the rate of one cent per word. Display advertising rate will be given upon request.

Hico, Tex., Friday, March 23, 1934

WE BELIEVE IN AMERICA

We get a little tired sometimes of hearing people run down America. In the newspapers and magazines that come to our attention we see many articles which appear to have been written for the purpose of making readers believe that the United States is on its last legs, that we have got to discard everything that has been done in the past and change the whole nation over into something modeled to Russia, Italy or Germany, or we're going to be sunk. And there is no end to the books, novels and others, whose sole theme is that we Americans are a pretty low-grade, incompetent set of ignoramuses, lacking in "culture" and intelligence, not to be compared with the enlightened and highly-cultured citizenry of other nations.

We do not believe the authors of these books, stories and articles mean precisely what they seem to imply. If we thought so for a minute we would be glad to join a movement to banish them to these other countries that they think are so superior to our own. Rightly understood, much of this sort of talk springs from the peculiarly American passion for self-improvement. It has its roots in the same urge that sent our ancestors from other countries to this one, the urge to find a better way of life. These gentlemen see defects in our civilization—which everyone must admit there are—and by magnifying those defects hope that the public will be sufficiently stirred up to do something about them. But the net effect of their diatribes upon the young and impressionable is to make them feel inferior to the people of other lands, and to regard their country as rather a low sort of a place in which to live.

There is nothing wrong with America! We say that in the full knowledge that there are still a great many persons out of work, a great many people who have a hard struggle to make both ends meet. Whatever is wrong with America, we are ten times better off than the people of any other country we know anything about, and whatever may be wrong with our country, there is a distinctly American way of fixing it, and the American people now, as they have always done in the past, will find and apply their own remedies, which will not be remedies prescribed by either Dr. Stalin, Dr. Hitler or Dr. Mussolini.

POLITICS AND BUSINESS

The most popular sport among politicians is trying to make the public believe that all business men are crooks while all politicians are models of virtue. That, at least, seems to be a fair conclusion from the tenor of some of the many "investigations" which have been going on in Washington. Of course, a part of the game, also, is to show up the politicians of the other party as crooks.

That is all well understood among politicians as an effective means of getting votes and power. If they can convince the average voter that their party, whichever it may be, is the only one composed of honest men, then they figure they can keep their crowd in office. And if they can make the voters believe that business men are dishonest, then they stand a chance of getting popular backing for schemes to have business conducted by the Government.

We wonder how much the politicians of either party fool the public in the long run. It seems to us that the net effect of that sort of tactics is to create a rather cynical state of mind toward all men in public office. The average man has come to believe that there is no such thing as honesty in politics, and is concerned more with what he can get out of it for himself than with any particular set of principles.

As to the comparative honesty of politicians and business men, we think most folk would rather take a chance with the standards which prevail in business than with those adopted by public office-holders. Fundamentally, no one class is more honest than another; each has its percentage of crooks. But in business it is, as Benjamin Franklin pointed out, the best policy to be honest. There is little in our political history to suggest that honesty pays a premium in politics.

OF COURSE HE WINS WITH HIS FULL HOUSE

Texas is always in the shaded areas of charts showing business conditions in the country. There is hardly ever one drawn showing these conditions that Texas is not included in the black or shaded areas, which means that Texas always has "fair to middling" conditions in business.

So it has been during these years from which America is now emerging.

Texas has not suffered depression as have some of the other states, and consequently Texas has come forth sooner.

Old Man Texas always holds a full-house.

His full-house consists of cotton, foodstuffs for livestock, millions of head of beef and dairy cattle, produce, fruits, berries, minerals (oil, lignite, sulphur, coal and others), fisheries and practically every kind of manufactured product needed for household business, farm or ranch.

It is one of the richest houses in Uncle Sam's group. It is a real commonwealth in itself.

Texas leads in the production of oil, cotton, livestock.

It stands close to the top in produce and fruits, including citrus fruits.

It stands high in climatic conditions and is gaining favor annually as a resort state.

Texas can feed itself from its farms and ranches.

Texas can clothe itself from its ranches and its cotton farms and manufacturers.

Texas can house itself from its lumber mills and stone quarries.

Texas can pave all its roads.

Texas can light itself from its numerous power plants.

Texas can do all of these things and in addition can annually export many millions of dollars worth of produce, minerals and manufactured products.

Texas has a full house, and a full house will win more times than it loses.—Exchange.

STAMP COLLECTING

A postage stamp seems but a trifling thing yet when the National stamp exhibition opened at New York, the value of the stamps there assembled totaled $10,000,000, and it took armed guards to protect all this wealth. The rare stamps would have made a fine booty for thieves, particularly four Cape of Good Hope stamps, values at $30,000 for the group.

People who never became interested in stamps may wonder why some folks become so fascinated by them. But when you see all the beautiful and artistic work on stamps, and how much of history and thought is recorded, it is a study worth anyone's time.

The boy who makes a study of stamp collecting will learn much. His attention will be turned to historical characters, famous men who have trod the stage of history, to the rise and fall of governments, the development of industries, the advance of philosophy and government. The door is opened to limitless study.

The postage stamp seems such a commonplace of daily life that many fail to realize that the first use of these stamps goes back only about 90 years. In 1845, the government did not feel financially able to issue stamps, but it allowed several postmasters to use them for their own convenience and at their own expense. This experiment was so successful that the government then began to use the stamps.

The business of mailing letters must have been tedious in those old days, when they had to pay the postoffice in money for each letter sent. The modern stamp saves work, and produces a beautiful series of pictures representing world history. If your young folk want to collect stamps, cheer them on. It will teach them things.

LETTERS from Our Readers

THE CRIME PROBLEM

The persons now living are of the same stock as their ancestors of a century or two centuries ago. Well, then, stock is not the cause of a bigger percent of persons now being classed as criminals. What, then, is the cause? Here is the answer: The struggle for existence is much harder now than it was one hundred years ago. Moral training to a hungry man is so much wasted effort. Nor is it worth much more to the person who has his needs supplied by theft. It was useless to teach the negro slave not to steal, but it was an equal folly to persuade the Mexican peon to keep his hands off and starve. How many convicts are reformed? They

One Can Stand Just So Much

By Albert T. Reid

often become too wise to be caught with the goods, but morally speaking, that is not reform.

But since the negro slave and the Mexican peon have been given opportunities approximately equal to other people, their morals are rapidly approaching the other fellow's standards. So you must see—give persons a chance to satisfy their needs and legitimate desires by productive labor (not by begging and stealing) and then the crime wave will be over—not before.

There perhaps would be individual exceptions, but they would be rare indeed.

Then it might be practiced to apply the sterilization plan to criminals. Certainly not now, because many of our present-day criminals are as good as the rest of the race. They use the only means at hand to satisfy their needs and desires.

The remedy is, let our Government open to labor the resources (land, productive machinery, communication and transportation systems—everything that the public depends on now to live) instead of allowing them to be held and exploited by a few individuals and corporations as it is doing at this time. Then crime with its mother, poverty, will disappear.

What do these few favored individuals care, so long as they can get their profits? They can hire protection for themselves, but they don't take you and me into consideration at all. They make this a bad world, and we must endure it as best we can.

ROY DERRICK,
Hico, Texas, Route 7.

TWO FOOLS THERE WERE

By Travis Holley
While sitting by my fireside,
I paint me a picture from life
Of two boys who were traveling the highway
Which led them through pleasure and strife.

Both had a dear, gray-haired mother.
Who waited for them all alone,
And wondered if ever their darlings
Would come back to mother and home.

One mother in luxury was living,
The other worked hard for her bread;
One lived in a fine large mansion,
One lived in a cabin instead.

But both burned a light in their window
Each for their own wandering boy,
Who if they'd write to their mothers
Would fill their old hearts with joy.

And both prayed to God up in Heaven
That the wandering ones' steps
He would guide.

And show them the paths that would lead them
To mansions on the other side.
But alas, from the paths the boys wandered—
From the paths that our Savior had made.
And the trails that now they were tramping
Were leading them on the down grade.

Then at last when they had not a penny
With which to buy something to eat,
They yielded to Satan's temptation,
And shot an old man on the street,
And robbed him of all of his money.

So in pleasure they'd live yet,
Yet the long arm of the law was in motion,
Revenge and justice to get.

Then this scene carries back to the mothers,
Who are keeping their lamps trimmed bright.
Oh, God, may they see and come back to me.

Then at last through the mail came a letter
From the police, way out in the West:
"We're taking your two boys as prisoners.
The ones you once held to your breast."

"If again on this earth you would see them,
For five thousand dollars each they may go."

That's pretty high for a ransom.
But they're sentenced for murder, you know."
And so on talked the law in its language,
That only the rich understand.

You may get freedom if money is in your possession—and land.

One mother paid for the freedom
Of her boy that had been her pride,
The other went down to the grave yard,
And sat by a new mound and cried.

"They hung my boy to the scaffold
For a murder that two did commit.
Yet his partner in crime is a free man,
He's trying so hard to forget."

He's trying to forget that his partner
Is beneath the cold, cold clay.
While money has made him a free man,
He's guilty but he won't have to pay.

His debt was settled with money,
And money means nothing now.
His buddy is suffering somewhere,
We don't know where—or how.

SUCCESS with POULTRY

By FULLER D. BAIRD

Pastures may be made to play an important part also in the production of poultry. Chickens obtain a large part of their feed when allowed free range with access to blue grass or other pasture or crop from which they will pick up a variety of insects and worms as well as green feed.

In raising young chicks the use of clean ground or new pasture helps to prevent losses from coccidiosis and other parasitic diseases.

Geese will obtain most of their living from good grass or clover pasture during the summer. In some cases they are fed no grain until large enough to fatten.

Turkeys also thrive on suitable clean pasture or range, making efficient use of grass, clover, or temporary pastures. Success in raising young turkeys depends largely on sanitation of the range in order to prevent the parasitic disease, blackhead. This malady may affect adult turkeys but occurs principally among poult between the ages of 6 weeks and 6 months. It is found to a greater or less extent throughout the United States and is by far the most destructive ailment of turkeys.

Chickens are often affected with blackhead without showing any symptoms and may carry and spread the infection to turkeys when allowed to range with them. Turkeys carry gapeworms and transmit them to chicks with deadly results. Chickens should therefore be kept away from turkeys at all times.

Horses and cattle are also subject to parasitic infestation from permanent pastures, especially of small size, that are used year after year by the same kind of animals.

Although no recommendations can be given that will apply to all sections of the country and for all classes of animals and owls, the following precautions may be taken as applicable to average farm conditions:

Use new pastures whenever they are available as they usually produce better forage and are less apt to carry parasite eggs or infective larva.

Avoid overstocking a pasture as this practice is apt to concentrate pasture infection, resulting in more worm eggs and worms to an area, thus increasing the chances of stock becoming infected.

Sunday School Lesson

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

Review.
Lesson for March 25th. John 10:7-16.

Golden Text: Isaiah 9:6.
During this first quarter we have studied some of the principal episodes in the life of Jesus, and have come to the grips with basic emphasis in His teaching. Beginning with His birth and childhood we considered His baptism and His temptation, and saw Him launched into the various phases of His dramatic ministry. We also read the Sermon on the Mount, that sublime epitome of His teaching. We listened to His testimony concerning His own power to heal, cheer and comfort. And we learned lessons from His parables.

This Sunday assigned for review affords an excellent opportunity for taking stock. Suppose we ask, "Why is Jesus indispensable?" "Why is He real today?"

One answer is to be found in the timeliness of His glorious message. What is this message? It is summed up in that splendid proclamation He heralded at the beginning of His ministry. "The kingdom of God is at hand." What is this kingdom? It is a realm over which a sovereign God presides. It is a commonwealth in which love and obedience, not fear and calculation, reign. It is a society in which the individual human soul has absolute value. It is a beloved community where spiritual purposes are supreme. And finally it is a brotherhood whose inward spring is the living person of Jesus.

Another reason for the Master's continued hold is His sureness of tread in the religious field. He spoke with authority, as one long familiar with the truth He proclaimed.

But a more important explanation of Jesus' attractiveness today is His constant companionship with God. As Dr. Henry Coffin says, Father and Son are united in conscience, toil and endurance.

The Master released His spirit so completely into the larger life of God that He became one with the Father. And there can be no doubt that He found in God the resources He needed.

THE BOOK

the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures

by BRUCE BARTON

PATIENCE MEANS ENDURANCE
"Why do you call the Psalms poetry?" somebody asks. "They don't rhyme." Hebrew poetry does not consist of rhyme nor meter, but in balance of thought, a parallelism. One line says a thing and the next repeats it with slight and skillful variation.

In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof is no death.

Or the second line is an adversative clause: Wealth gotten by vanity shall be diminished; but he that gathereth by labour shall have increase.

Thus the balance and rhythm are not in the words, but in the thought. Having in mind this distinctive characteristic, it is easier to understand why the Book of Job is called sometimes "the greatest poem" and sometimes "the greatest of all dramas."

Everybody knows Job, "the most patient man who ever lived"—a bit of knowledge based on the remark in the New Testament: "Ye have heard of the patience of Job." As a matter of fact, Job was about as impatient as a man could possibly be, and properly so perhaps, for he was the victim of trials undervalued.

The word "patience" as the New Testament writer uses it does not denote the moral quality of submission with cheerfulness to a hard experience, but mere endurance.

Job was a rich farmer, cattle owner and public-spirited citizen, who headed all subscription lists and had the satisfaction of seeing his enterprises succeed and his children grow up with good promise. Suddenly calamity descended upon him. He does not know it, but his soul is to be tried.

Job's crops are destroyed, his barn burned, his children taken sick, and he himself breaks out all over with horrid boils. In this condition he is visited by a group of three friends—professional moralists and Pollyannas—and between them and him the dramatic debate ensues. They tell him just where he has been wrong and urge him to confess his sins to God and beg forgiveness. He responds sarcastically.

No doubt but ye are the people and wisdom shall die with you. He denies that he has sinned and refuses to tell God that he has because it would be a lie; and he won't lie even to be relieved from all his misfortunes.

His conversation is far from meek, but you can't fail to admire his indomitable courage. In the end it triumphs. God says to him in effect: "Job, you have talked a good deal of nonsense, and you have been very impatient, but you have helped me to win out in my contest with Satan. He said that nobody on earth loves goodness for its own sake, and I told him that you do. He said I was wrong, but you have proved me right."

The word "patience" as the New Testament writer uses it does not denote the moral quality of submission with cheerfulness to a hard experience, but mere endurance.

Job was a rich farmer, cattle owner and public-spirited citizen, who headed all subscription lists and had the satisfaction of seeing his enterprises succeed and his children grow up with good promise. Suddenly calamity descended upon him. He does not know it, but his soul is to be tried.

Job's crops are destroyed, his barn burned, his children taken sick, and he himself breaks out all over with horrid boils. In this condition he is visited by a group of three friends—professional moralists and Pollyannas—and between them and him the dramatic debate ensues. They tell him just where he has been wrong and urge him to confess his sins to God and beg forgiveness. He responds sarcastically.

No doubt but ye are the people and wisdom shall die with you. He denies that he has sinned and refuses to tell God that he has because it would be a lie; and he won't lie even to be relieved from all his misfortunes.

His conversation is far from meek, but you can't fail to admire his indomitable courage. In the end it triumphs. God says to him in effect: "Job, you have talked a good deal of nonsense, and you have been very impatient, but you have helped me to win out in my contest with Satan. He said that nobody on earth loves goodness for its own sake, and I told him that you do. He said I was wrong, but you have proved me right."

The word "patience" as the New Testament writer uses it does not denote the moral quality of submission with cheerfulness to a hard experience, but mere endurance.

Job was a rich farmer, cattle owner and public-spirited citizen, who headed all subscription lists and had the satisfaction of seeing his enterprises succeed and his children grow up with good promise. Suddenly calamity descended upon him. He does not know it, but his soul is to be tried.

Job's crops are destroyed, his barn burned, his children taken sick, and he himself breaks out all over with horrid boils. In this condition he is visited by a group of three friends—professional moralists and Pollyannas—and between them and him the dramatic debate ensues. They tell him just where he has been wrong and urge him to confess his sins to God and beg forgiveness. He responds sarcastically.

No doubt but ye are the people and wisdom shall die with you. He denies that he has sinned and refuses to tell God that he has because it would be a lie; and he won't lie even to be relieved from all his misfortunes.

His conversation is far from meek, but you can't fail to admire his indomitable courage. In the end it triumphs. God says to him in effect: "Job, you have talked a good deal of nonsense, and you have been very impatient, but you have helped me to win out in my contest with Satan. He said that nobody on earth loves goodness for its own sake, and I told him that you do. He said I was wrong, but you have proved me right."

The word "patience" as the New Testament writer uses it does not denote the moral quality of submission with cheerfulness to a hard experience, but mere endurance.

Job was a rich farmer, cattle owner and public-spirited citizen, who headed all subscription lists and had the satisfaction of seeing his enterprises succeed and his children grow up with good promise. Suddenly calamity descended upon him. He does not know it, but his soul is to be tried.

Job's crops are destroyed, his barn burned, his children taken sick, and he himself breaks out all over with horrid boils. In this condition he is visited by a group of three friends—professional moralists and Pollyannas—and between them and him the dramatic debate ensues. They tell him just where he has been wrong and urge him to confess his sins to God and beg forgiveness. He responds sarcastically.

No doubt but ye are the people and wisdom shall die with you. He denies that he has sinned and refuses to tell God that he has because it would be a lie; and he won't lie even to be relieved from all his misfortunes.

His conversation is far from meek, but you can't fail to admire his indomitable courage. In the end it triumphs. God says to him in effect: "Job, you have talked a good deal of nonsense, and you have been very impatient, but you have helped me to win out in my contest with Satan. He said that nobody on earth loves goodness for its own sake, and I told him that you do. He said I was wrong, but you have proved me right."

The word "patience" as the New Testament writer uses it does not denote the moral quality of submission with cheerfulness to a hard experience, but mere endurance.

Job was a rich farmer, cattle owner and public-spirited citizen, who headed all subscription lists and had the satisfaction of seeing his enterprises succeed and his children grow up with good promise. Suddenly calamity descended upon him. He does not know it, but his soul is to be tried.

Job's crops are destroyed, his barn burned, his children taken sick, and he himself breaks out all over with horrid boils. In this condition he is visited by a group of three friends—professional moralists and Pollyannas—and between them and him the dramatic debate ensues. They tell him just where he has been wrong and urge him to confess his sins to God and beg forgiveness. He responds sarcastically.

The Fact Finders

AND THEIR DISCOVERIES

By Ed Kressy

The Dollar Bride

by Mary Imlay Taylor

© M.C.C. AUTOCASE SERVICE

Eleventh Installment THE STORY SO FAR

Nancy Gordon trades herself in marriage for fifteen thousand dollars—the price of her family honor—and the freedom of her brother, Roddy, who stole for a woman, that amount from the bank in which he works. Nancy, desperately in love with young Page Roemer, nevertheless agrees to a secret elopement with Dr. Richard Morgan, and with the money he loans her prevents Roddy's arrest. Dr. Morgan is loved by Helena Haddon, a sophisticated young married woman, but he adores Nancy and hopes to win her after marriage. In Washington they are married. Nancy is Richard's bride—and afraid of him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Something terrible must have happened!" cried Angie, with a flash. "I—I know it!"

The major nodded, looking past her out of the window.

"There's King Haddon coming in here," he exclaimed. "Go let him in, Angie. I'm going to finish my breakfast Haddon or no Haddon! You can tell him so—if you've a mind to."

Angie flushed and angry, hurried out of the room, glad to escape those shrewd old eyes.

Haddon would not wait in the library.

"Where's the major? At breakfast? I'll go right in—if you don't mind?" and he went, in spite of Angie's protests.

"Hello! Still at breakfast?" he said, as his eye fell on the old man's engrossed attitude.

The major started up, half rising from the table, but Haddon stopped him.

"Sit down, Lomax. I don't want to starve you," he laughed. "I can wait—Angie didn't want to let me in here anyway."

"I said I wouldn't see you until I'd finished. What's the matter at this hour anyway? I haven't robbed the bank."

Kingdom Haddon laughed. "Come in, Angie," he said as the girl tried to pass quickly through the room to the kitchen. "I haven't come to talk secrets and your uncle's crusty—I need protection!"

Angie stopped, smiling flushed, and leaned on a chair, looking at him. She liked Kingdom Haddon but she was afraid of his wife; she could not have explained her fear of her, but it existed. Haddon was sitting on the edge of an empty serving-table.

"I came in to ask you a question, Lomax," he said irreverently. "You know about such things. How much is Gordon's place worth now? I mean the house and grounds, including the river lot next yours."

Major Lomax pushed his chair back, felt in his pocket for his old pipe and began to fill it carefully.

"Near as I can figure—about six or seven thousand. The house needs repairs. Why?" he added.

"What's hit him?" Haddon looked absently out of the window. "How should I know? Family troubles, I reckon. The bank holds the mortgage. Helena doesn't want me to touch it. I don't know what to say about it yet."

Major Lomax rose and began to tramp up and down.

"Where's Gordon going to take his wife?" he asked sharply. "She's rooted there—and so is he, for that matter."

"Perhaps the young people think it's old-fashioned," suggested Haddon. "or Mrs. Gordon's tired of the housekeeping and wants an apartment—my wife does."

"Shucks!" the major sank down into his chair again, strumming on the table with his fingers. "You know better, Haddon! There's some trouble. I'm sorry for Will Gordon. He's a good man and she's a good woman. She'll take it hard."

The banker nodded, glancing thoughtfully across at Angie's pale face and pleading brown eyes. "I saw Miss Gordon on Monday in Washington," he remarked thoughtfully.

"In Washington?" Angie started, "why I didn't know she'd been away!"

Haddon nodded grimly, considering her pretty flush and her round soft eyes critically.

"She was there all right. A decided beauty, too. I hadn't noticed it so much before. How's the boy turning out, Lomax?"

"Roddy?" The major twisted his old mouth into a queer expression. "Sowing wild oats, Haddon, I reckon. He's in New York, Greenough Trust Company, gets twenty-five dollars a week—or did six months ago. I haven't heard that he's increased in value," he added sarcastically.

Haddon, who was observing Angie, saw the girl's wince of pain and the red going up to her forehead. "In love with the boy—too bad," he thought.

"Family troubles drain a man's pocket sometimes," he remarked sententiously.

Angie fired up, her brown eyes glowing with almost the wine tint of Roddy's. She was one of those gentle obstinate creatures who fight to the last ditch for love.

"They haven't got any family troubles, Mr. Haddon," she said hotly. "They're very fond of Nancy and very proud of her. She's lovely. I've known her all my life—and Roddy is doing well. Mrs. Gordon told me so herself."

Haddon listened with his lazy good-humored smile. "I wish I had a friend like you," he said.

Angie blushed crimson. "I'd feel very mean not to stand up for my friends. Anyone would—I should think!"

Major Lomax looked around at her with a grim smile. "My dear, there are a mighty lot of Judases in the world," he remarked dryly.

Haddon assented, buttoning up his loose spring overcoat, coughing a little as he did it.

Major Lomax glanced up at Haddon without rising. "Going right over to see Gordon?" he asked shortly.

Haddon, half way to the door, turned. "Oh, I shall send for him to come to my office when he gets to the bank today."

"You needn't—I've bought it myself."

"By Jove! You're quick at a turn!"

"Angie stopped, smiling flushed, and leaned on a chair, looking at him. She liked Kingdom Haddon but she was afraid of his wife; she could not have explained her fear of her, but it existed. Haddon was sitting on the edge of an empty serving-table."

"I came in to ask you a question, Lomax," he said irreverently. "You know about such things. How much is Gordon's place worth now? I mean the house and grounds, including the river lot next yours."

Major Lomax pushed his chair back, felt in his pocket for his old pipe and began to fill it carefully.

"Near as I can figure—about six or seven thousand. The house needs repairs. Why?" he added.

"What's hit him?" Haddon looked absently out of the window. "How should I know? Family troubles, I reckon. The bank holds the mortgage. Helena doesn't want me to touch it. I don't know what to say about it yet."

Major Lomax rose and began to tramp up and down.

"Where's Gordon going to take his wife?" he asked sharply. "She's rooted there—and so is he, for that matter."

"Perhaps the young people think it's old-fashioned," suggested Haddon. "or Mrs. Gordon's tired of the housekeeping and wants an apartment—my wife does."

"Shucks!" the major sank down into his chair again, strumming on the table with his fingers. "You know better, Haddon! There's some trouble. I'm sorry for Will Gordon. He's a good man and she's a good woman. She'll take it hard."

The banker nodded, glancing thoughtfully across at Angie's pale face and pleading brown eyes. "I saw Miss Gordon on Monday in Washington," he remarked thoughtfully.

"In Washington?" Angie started, "why I didn't know she'd been away!"

Haddon nodded grimly, considering her pretty flush and her round soft eyes critically.

"She was there all right. A decided beauty, too. I hadn't noticed it so much before. How's the boy turning out, Lomax?"

"Roddy?" The major twisted his old mouth into a queer expression. "Sowing wild oats, Haddon, I reckon. He's in New York, Greenough Trust Company, gets twenty-five dollars a week—or did six months ago. I haven't heard that he's increased in value," he added sarcastically.

Haddon, who was observing Angie, saw the girl's wince of pain and the red going up to her forehead. "In love with the boy—too bad," he thought.

"Family troubles drain a man's pocket sometimes," he remarked sententiously.

Angie fired up, her brown eyes glowing with almost the wine tint of Roddy's. She was one of those gentle obstinate creatures who fight to the last ditch for love.

"They haven't got any family troubles, Mr. Haddon," she said hotly. "They're very fond of Nancy and very proud of her. She's lovely. I've known her all my life—and Roddy is doing well. Mrs. Gordon told me so herself."

Haddon listened with his lazy good-humored smile. "I wish I had a friend like you," he said.

Angie blushed crimson. "I'd feel very mean not to stand up for my friends. Anyone would—I should think!"

"Oh!" Nancy gave a sharp little cry of pain, rising to her feet. "I tried so hard to save you both from this, Mama. I did it all to prevent this—and it's been useless—useless!" she groaned.

Mrs. Gordon nodded her head sadly. "It wasn't my fault, Nancy. You know how your father feels. He's paid back seven thousand already."

"To Richard?"

Mrs. Gordon raised her eyes reluctantly to her daughter's haggard face. "Yes, dear. He—your father would have it so. That leaves eight more to pay, and he—"

Nancy rose and stood quite still and straight, her white face set. "Who bought the house?"

"Major Lomax."

Nancy's blue eyes widened. "He gave four thousand cash," her mother went on mechanically, "and there's three still on the mortgage. He—"

she hesitated and then added more cheerfully: "He's been so kind, dear, he urged Papa not to sell the furniture. He said it would not bring enough to make it worth while, and—he wants us to keep the house—to rent it from him."

"On father's salary? Why, Mama, there'll be one pinch after another. He—he hasn't sold anything else, has he?" she added fearfully.

Her mother sighed. "He's selling all his securities except his life insurance. He hopes to net about two thousand more. That will be nine paid. But oh, Nancy, I don't know where in the world he's going to get the other six thousand from!"

Nancy sank down on the lounge. "Mama, I never thought of it in that way," she faltered. "I had only the one thought to save Roddy from prison!"

"Oh, Nancy, I don't see how you could do it! When I was your age I—"

Mrs. Gordon stopped with her mouth open, for they both heard Amanda admitting a visitor.

Nancy listened, straining her ears.

"It's Mrs. Haddon!" Nancy cried, springing up. "You see her, Mother, I—I will not!"

Mrs. Gordon looked aghast. She had never known Mrs. Kingdom Haddon well and she did not like her.

"She's come to see you, Nancy. I—"

Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

"He's taking care of King; you know my husband clings to a doctor!" she laughed softly. "He and Richard Morgan are great friends."

"Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

"He's taking care of King; you know my husband clings to a doctor!" she laughed softly. "He and Richard Morgan are great friends."

"Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

"He's taking care of King; you know my husband clings to a doctor!" she laughed softly. "He and Richard Morgan are great friends."

"Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

"He's taking care of King; you know my husband clings to a doctor!" she laughed softly. "He and Richard Morgan are great friends."

"Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

"He's taking care of King; you know my husband clings to a doctor!" she laughed softly. "He and Richard Morgan are great friends."

"Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

now. I'm glad of it for I was just afraid he wouldn't like Richard. Men are such queer creatures. As a boy, Richard was so much in love with me that he offered to fight King for trying to marry me!"

She paused and Mrs. Gordon mumbled something, an indistinct sentence or two, evidently bewildered. Nancy sat up straight and listened now, although she knew that Helena wanted her to listen.

"I cared for him, too, of course—who wouldn't? But my father—you remember him, Mrs. Gordon—don't you?"

"I—I think so, yes, I do," Mrs. Gordon's tone showed confusion. "He really insisted that I should marry Kingdom. I—well, I broke my engagement and—" she laughed softly again, regretfully. "Dear Mrs. Gordon, Richard felt it so much that I'm afraid sometimes—" he'll never marry now. I really wish he would, it's so lonely over there for him since his mother's death."

Mrs. Gordon evidently did not rise to the occasion for Nancy only heard a murmur. There were a few words more and then Helena's voice rose again, loved to carry far, as her listener knew.

"I was so sorry that Kingdom didn't buy your house when Mr. Gordon offered it. It's quite a lovely old place. You must hate to let it go so suddenly, don't you, Mrs. Gordon?"

"Major Lomax wants us to stay on—to rent it from him," explained Mrs. Gordon, her voice breaking. "I do hate to leave it!"

"I should think you would! And your son, Mrs. Gordon. What do you hear from him?" she let her voice rest a moment and then, slowly drawing, "is he doing well?"

Nancy knew, without seeing it, the crimson flush that went up over her mother's face.

"Roddy's always done well. He's doing splendidly now."

"I'm so glad to hear it! Kingdom was asking about him yesterday. He knows someone in the trust company, I think, a Mr. Beaver, a cousin of Major Lomax."

Nancy started, trembling with apprehension. She remembered Roddy's description of old Beaver with his nose to the ground. Did this woman know?

Continued Next Week

How One Man Lost 22 Pounds

Mr. Herman Runkis of Detroit writes: "A few lines of thanks from a rheumatism sufferer—My first bottle of Kruschen Salts took all of the aches and swellings out of my joints—with my first bottle I went on a diet and lost 22 pounds and now feel like a new man."

To lose fat safely and quickly take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—an 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks—Get it at any drug store in America.

If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back.

Tough meat can be treated by placing it in a saucepan with a piece of fat or suet and allowing it to brown on both sides. Then, fry the meat or cook it. And it will be deliciously tender.

Mrs. Gordon stopped with her mouth open, for they both heard Amanda admitting a visitor.

Nancy listened, straining her ears.

"It's Mrs. Haddon!" Nancy cried, springing up. "You see her, Mother, I—I will not!"

Mrs. Gordon looked aghast. She had never known Mrs. Kingdom Haddon well and she did not like her.

"She's come to see you, Nancy. I—"

Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

"He's taking care of King; you know my husband clings to a doctor!" she laughed softly. "He and Richard Morgan are great friends."

"Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

"He's taking care of King; you know my husband clings to a doctor!" she laughed softly. "He and Richard Morgan are great friends."

"Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

"He's taking care of King; you know my husband clings to a doctor!" she laughed softly. "He and Richard Morgan are great friends."

"Nancy pushed her shaking hand. "Go out there and talk to her—in the other room. Don't let her come in here!"

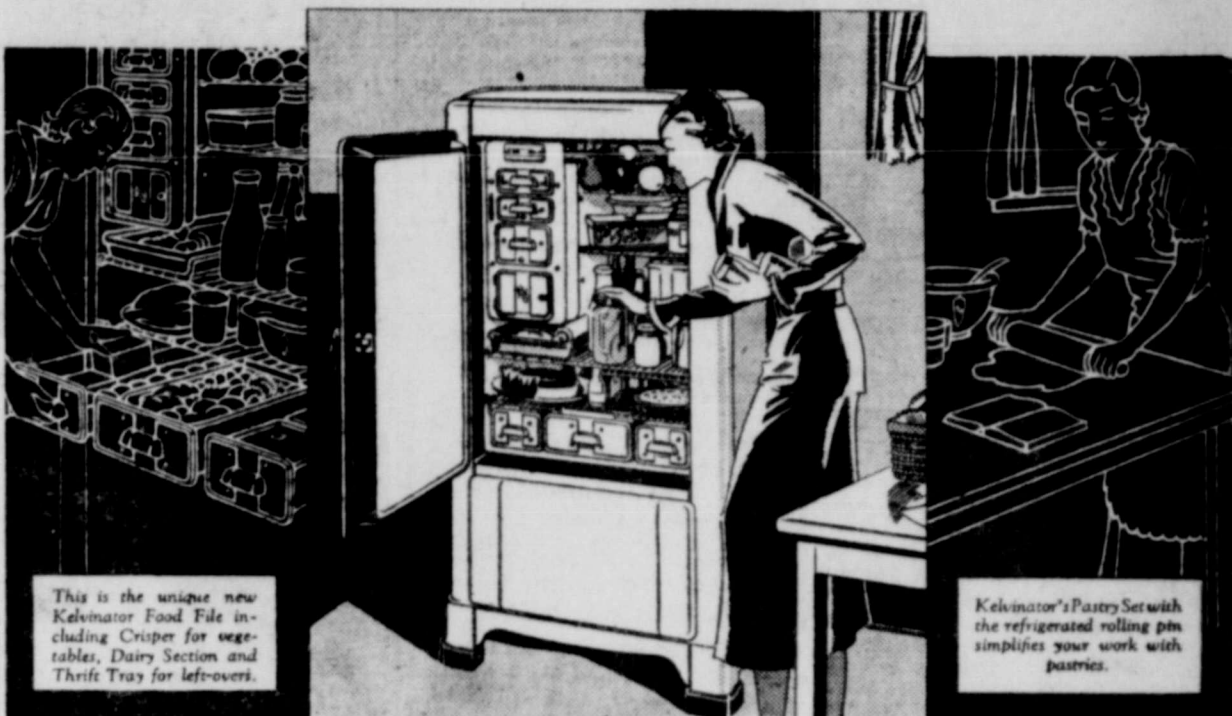

Mrs. Gordon, reluctant and embarrassed, allowed herself to be pushed. Nancy thrust her through the portieres, drew them behind her, and went back to her lounge. She meant to go upstairs but she actually felt faint and ill.

But by her she became aware of voices. Now the words took shape and became sentences. It was Helena's voice, her full, soft, drawing voice.

SPRING SHOWING

The 20TH Anniversary

KELVINATOR

THE REFRIGERATOR WITH A PLACE FOR EVERYTHING

Think of the convenience and economy of "filing" your foods! That's what Kelvinator gives you—the Food File—the Crisper for vegetables, the Dairy Section for butter, eggs and cheese, the Thrift Tray for left-overs—and the Frost Chest with a below freezing temperature where fish or meat can be kept fresh and wholesome—a place for everything, including the Water Cooler and Pastry Set.

This new 20th Anniversary Kelvinator does anticipate every refrigerating need of a modern home—gives you "4 refrigerators in 1," each fully automatic. There is one temperature service for food preservation on your shelves. Another for emergency fast freezing. A third for storing fish, game or meat indefinitely. The fourth for ice cubes and desserts. Be sure to see the 20th Anniversary Kelvinator before you buy any refrigerator.

America here they are!

To fill the record-breaking nationwide demand, Chevrolets are being produced at a record-breaking rate of units a day!

4000

Chevrolet factories are breaking records, trying to give America all the cars it wants. 4000 units a day are rolling off the assembly lines. In fact, more Chevrolets are now being produced than any other make of automobile in the world.

Naturally, Chevrolet is proud of the record its factories have made this year. Especially so, in view of the fact that the 1934 Chevrolet is not merely last year's model improved, but a basically new automobile throughout. Producing so many of these cars so early in the season, and producing them all up to Chevrolet high standards of quality, is nothing short of a real accomplishment!

Chevrolet takes this opportunity to thank the American public for the wonderful way it has received the 1934 Chevrolet car. And Chevrolet is happy to report, that with over 4,000 cars a day being built, dealers everywhere will soon be in a position to make immediate deliveries.

CHEVROLET MOTOR CO., DETROIT, MICH.
Low delivered prices and easy C.M.A.C. terms

Chevrolet

Drive it only 5 miles and you'll never be satisfied with any other low-priced car

Blair's Chevrolet Sales & Service

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward. The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a prescription. It is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they may do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

Fairy

By
FAIRY CORRESPONDENTS

We received a visit from Old Man Winter last week end. Think he has about worn his welcome out in this community as his visits have proved to be very destructive of late. We fear the fruit crop is gone again and early gardens and hot bed plants in many places were killed.

Our regular P. T. A. program will be held Monday night instead of tonight as was first planned. You are accordingly invited to attend.

Mrs. O. C. Jordan and little son and daughter and Miss Odessa Mayo of Cleburne were week end guests of Mrs. Jordan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parks and other relatives.

Several from here attended singing at Hico Sunday afternoon including Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Richardson, Mesdames P. L. Cox, E. M. Hoover and daughter, Miss Daphne, Mrs. H. O. Richardson accompanied them and spent the afternoon in the home of her sister, Mrs. Alva Poteet.

The Lanham home talent play was presented here Saturday night entitled "Silas Smidge from Turpin Ridge," and it was enjoyed by all present.

A number has asked about a cemetery working March 30th (good Friday). Since the cemetery here has been kept in excellent condition the past year. There will not be sufficient work by this date to justify a meeting. We have been requested to announce that this meeting will be postponed until the last Friday in April which will be April 27th. There will be dinner on the ground. An invitation is extended to all who can, to be with us on this occasion.

We were very sorry to learn of the tragic death of Forrest Thompson of Hamilton which occurred last Saturday night near Cranfills Gap in a car wreck. The young man was only 23 years old and had been in this community quite a bit while staying in the homes of Grady and Ruben Anderson engaged in farm work. He made many friends here who were grieved to learn of his untimely demise. We extend sympathy to all the bereaved loved ones in this distressing time of sorrow.

Salem

By
MRS. W. C. ROGERS

The days are very pretty after the cold northern Saturday night.

McClamnes Doc Vickery, J. R. McMillan and Bush of Hico spent Tuesday with Mrs. Vickery's mother and sister, Mrs. B. L. Hollis and Mrs. J. C. Laney.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Koonsman and son Rudolph, and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Koonsman of Iredell visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Koonsman Tuesday.

Mrs. Clarence Noland and Rayburn Noland spent Sunday with Mrs. S. P. Saffell and girls.

Misses Ora and Rosie Bailey of Fort Worth visited in the home of their mother and brother and sister the past week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Trimble of Duffan spent Sunday afternoon in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Vincent.

The play was well attended at this place Saturday night. A number of people from Stephenville and surrounding communities were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes McMahan and baby son visited Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. White and children.

Miss Mary Ellen McEntire spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Albert McEntire.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hulse of Rochester visited Wednesday and Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Lambert and they also visited his brother near Hamilton.

Mrs. Hulse is a daughter of Mrs. C. J. Lambert and a sister of W. E. Lambert. She formerly was Miss Bird Lambert.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnett of Stephenville spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Driver and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert McEntire, Mary Ellen McEntire and Hazel Jo English spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. Noland.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Izell and son Fred spent Friday with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Boyd of Flag Branch.

There was no singing or Sunday school here Sunday on account of bad weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson are the proud parents of a new girl, born Tuesday. We haven't as yet learned the young lady's name.

Greyville

By
PAULINE PARRISH

Every one who attended the program which was rendered by the "Reds" enjoyed it very much. The music was made by the Tire Changers of Stephenville, and was also enjoyed very much. We invite them to come back at any time. We have been serving refreshments every time until the last, and we will not serve any more.

Several from here attended the singing at Hico Sunday.

Mrs. Ross McLendon visited in Hamilton last week with her sister.

Miss Ella Fay Thompson spent Friday night with Misses Doris and Marcelle Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Patterson and daughter Imogene went to Stephenville Monday and came back Tuesday.

Lawrence and Charley Tolliver made a trip to Fort Worth last week.

Misses Alene Patterson and Pauline visited awhile Saturday evening in the A. J. Jordan home near Millerville.

Leonard McLendon has spent the past few days in Fort Worth with his parents.

Mr. Rills has not improved at this writing. Everyone wishes for him good luck.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Parrish of Hamilton visited in the W. J. Parrish home recently.

"THE FAIRYS"

Published Weekly by the
FAIRY HIGH SCHOOL
STUDENTS
Editor-In-Chief, Ray Miller
Asst. Editor, Essie Mae Duncan

The Senior boys won a score of 5-6 in the track and field work at Hamilton during the Interscholastic League with Ray Miller as highest scoring senior boy. The Junior boys won a score of 3-3 at the same time with Sammie Davis as highest scoring junior boy. Several senior and junior girls won honors, but all reports at this time of publications are not authentically completed.

Considering the severe cold weather last Saturday night, a large attendance of Fairies enjoyed Lanham's play presented in the Fairy auditorium.

Wednesday night, March 21, the B. Y. P. U. will present "Richard Beware," in the Fairy auditorium. The proceeds of this play will finish paying for the piano in the Fairy Baptist Church.

The Seventh grade students are studying diligently as only two months of school remain for them.

To keep their heads in books. The Seventh graders wonder why Maxine likes to go to Sunshine in a truck; Lucille is jealous; J. T. is missed; Gerald is helpful; Juanita likes model A cars.

Things the seventh graders can't do without: Ruth's red tam; Gerald's smile; Robert's model T; Maxine and Cora's sweeping day.

The Seventh graders ask what if Sam were tall; Maxine had blue eyes; Juanita was bashful; Andrew should have a date; Geraldine should flirt with the Seventh or Sixth grade boys.

Dry Fork

By
OPAL DRIVER

Wednesday afternoon, the W. W. C. met with Mrs. T. R. Thomas as hostess. After an enjoyable afternoon spent in quilting and sewing, a dainty plate was served to the club members and guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hicks of the Greyville community spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Johnson and family.

Mrs. J. B. Pool visited with friends in Hico Tuesday.

Tom Lowery of near Carlton spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Ables. Grandmother Ables accompanied him home for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman Lowery of Olin visited while Saturday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Box.

Several from this community attended church at Hico Sunday night.

The second meeting of the community club will be tonight (Friday) at the school house. Everyone come to enjoy yourself.

Miss Alice Hicks spent Sunday with Miss Delpha Marie Smith.

HAMILTON COUNTY WORKERS' MEETING

To Be Held With Carlton Baptist Church
March 26, 1934

General Theme: "Our Denominational Life"

10:00 A M—Devotional—Rev. Allen DeHart, Evant.

10:20 A M—The Co-operative Program, What It Is and What It Does—Rev. J. L. Smart, Mullin.

10:40 A M—The Hundred Thousand Club and What It Means to Our South-Wide Causes—Rev. Judson Prince, Brownwood.

11:00 A M—The Plan For and Place of the District Missionary—Rev. A. D. Foreman Jr., San Angelo.

11:20 A M—Special Music.

11:25 A M—Sermon—Rev. F. E. Swanner, Goldthwaite.

12:00 Noon—Lunch.

1:00 P M—Board Meeting with H. W. Henderson of Hamilton in charge.

1:30 P M—W. M. U. Meeting with Mrs. Vernon Shaw of Hamilton in charge.

2:30 P M—Inspirational Address, Rev. Frank Nixon of Clifton.

Honey Grove

By
MRS. J. P. CLEPPER

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sears of Altman, Anson Vinson and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. Pingleton, Esta Lee, J. W. Jr. and Wilma Gene Jordan, Ana Lou, Joe and Carl Moss, Bana, Gerald and Dock Clepper, Harry Tarry and Mr. Martin enjoyed a musical in the Arthur Pingleton home Wednesday night.

Several from this community attended the program at Greyville Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jordan and family spent Sunday with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Curry of near Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery Coffman were in Fort Worth Wednesday.

Mrs. Clyde Adams and little daughter and Mrs. J. S. King of near Carlton visited in the W. A. Moss home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Culmer Jordan and little daughter of near Carlton visited in the J. W. Jordan home Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burden, Miss Aileen Appleby and Wiley Jones of Hico and Misses Lena Mae Jameson and Geraldine Burden of Falls Creek visited in the J. W. Burden home a while Friday night.

Bill McQuerry of Gordon was a guest of Miss Bana Clepper Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fern Jordan and little son attended the stock show at Fort Worth last week.

Sunday, March 25, is our regular Fourth Sunday Singing date. Everybody come, especially you good singers.

HONEY GROVE SCHOOL NEWS

We are happy to have Murray Smith to start to school, and hope he will enjoy being with us as we are glad to have him.

Can you believe it—W. H. playing a banjo or mandolin? Carl not smiling? Louise wearing a class ring?

What would happen if—Miss Gladys lost her temper? Wilma Gene had lost her extra pair of slippers Thursday night?

For Sale or Trade—Gerald's cute smile. Vesta's embarrassment. Wilma Gene's lipstick. Louise's boy friend from Meridian. Fontain's low talk.

Everyone is having to watch their step to keep off the demerit list. We are doing fine but we want to stay that way.

Carl saw W. H. sleeping at his desk and snoring. Slipping up on his desk, Miss Gladys ask him what he was doing and he quietly replied, "I'm trying to tune out the static."

"Will you come and play zoo, Miss Gladys," urged Fontaine. "Certainly, my dear," replied Miss Gladys, "but how do you play?"

"Oh, I'll be the elephant and you be the kind lady who feeds him candy and peanuts."

County Line

By DOROTHY COLE

The gardens and fruit were injured by the sleet, snow and high wind Saturday night and Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Rob Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Gribble and Mrs. Florence Gribble of Temple spent Thursday night with their sister and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hatchcock and Leroy.

Odin Pingleton is in Hamilton this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mackey and Jessie spent Saturday night and Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Mackey of Chalk Mountain.

Misses Ethel and Josie Harris spent Sunday with Miss Stella Ross.

Carlton

By
CORRESPONDENT

We are still having winter and plenty of March wind.

J. N. Clark was in Hamilton Friday on business.

Misses Amoret Tunnell, LaRue Childress and Mesdames J. H. Tull and L. A. Anderson and son, Dan, were in Stephenville shopping Friday.

Mrs. S. J. Gibson and daughters, Misses Wilma and Mary Gibson and Ethel Roach were in Hamilton Friday shopping and attending to business.

Uncle Dick Butler is real sick at this writing. We are hoping for him a speedy recovery.

Riley Williams and J. N. Thompson were in Glen Rose Saturday looking after business.

Mrs. D. Burnett and little daughter of Abilene are spending a few days with Mrs. Burnett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Finley.

Mrs. Oma Graves was carried to the Gorman Hospital Monday for treatment.

Rev. A. J. Quinn attended the Sunday School convention in Brownwood this week.

Marvin Bell and family of Brownwood spent the week end with relatives here.

Those from this place who attended the funeral of Grandmother Oxford Monday afternoon at Morgan's Mill, were Mesdames Grady Laws, A. L. Fisher, J. F. Pierce, Robt. Barrett and J. N. Clark.

H. E. Turney and family of Lamkin visited relatives in Carlton Monday.

Mrs. R. L. Black of Rotan is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. N. McGuire.

Fred Curry and sister, Mrs. G. C. Kenney were in Stephenville Saturday on business also shopping.

Woodie Brimer, A. E. Cloyd and George Moore spent Friday night in Hamilton.

Visitors for the week end in the home of Mrs. Robt. Barrett were Mrs. Dennis Barnett and son, Denny of Olton, Texas.

Mrs. O. B. Smith and children of Fort Worth and Dave Deaton of Hamilton.

Miss Lucille Dazan spent Wednesday night with Elmer Wilhite of Altman community.

Miss Gertrude Oxford spent the week end in Waco with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Ralph Delaney and son of Coleman were visiting Mrs. Delaney's father, Robert Smith.

Help

By
MRS. W. H. LOADER

We have had some real Spring weather, but a sudden change came Saturday eve. Sunday morning the ground was covered with sleet and snow.

Rev. Barry Garrett from Baylor University at Waco has taught a B. Y. P. U. study course here. He returned home Sunday.

Miss Maye French spent Friday night in Meridian.

Most everybody from here attended the track meet at Clifton last week end.

Misses Nina and Beatrice Loader, and Ione Finsted spent Thursday night with Miss Ellen Prater at Iredell.

Miss Emma Jean Pool and brother, Jake, spent Thursday night in Clifton.

Mrs. Frances Ward spent last Thursday night in Meridian.

W. H. Loader who has been sick for some time, is improving some.

Miss Maye French was in Meridian Sunday.

Ray Gibbins spent Friday night with his grandparents, R. C. Ray and wife, in Meridian.

At his home in Ballinger, Tex., March 14th, 1934, Mr. Henry Jocy passed to his reward after a brief illness, bringing to an end a long and useful life. He was 51 years of age. He was kind and patient, and was loved by every one. His life was one of beauty, and in its simplicity sparkled and shone as one of God's jewels of victory as a Soldier of the Cross. It was characterized by sincerity, faithfulness, for he was always ready to do his part, and honesty. He was laid to rest in Spring Creek Cemetery Thursday, a large crowd being present to pay their last respects. The service was conducted by Rev. Hutchens. The Masons took charge with their part as he was a faithful member. He was born in North Carolina, and moved to Texas when a child. He lived at Clifton and ran a barber shop for 15 years. He moved to Ballinger in 1924 and lived there until his death. He leaves five brothers and two sisters to mourn his death: Tom Jocy of Meridian; Martin Jocy, Wade Jocy and John Jocy of Haskell; Bert Jocy of Meridian; Mrs. Lily Henson, Blum; and Mrs. Etta Moose. He also had eight brothers and sisters gone on to await his coming.

We Are Glad...

—To tell our lady friends that Miss Elva Mauldin, representative of Dorothy Perkins toilet articles, will be with us three days next week—

MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

To demonstrate these products.

You Have a Special Invitation to Attend This Demonstration

—and while here be sure and see our beautiful line of Ready-to-Wear, Millinery, Shoes, Hosiery, New Scarfs, New Collars with Cuffs to match, and our Spring line of Silks.

We Are Proud of This Showing

And Are Sure You Will

Be Pleased With It

G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co.

— HICO —

Hurry...

LAST TIME FOR THESE LOW PRICES

Style Craft

Sun Tested

Wall Paper

For Faultless Wall Decorations

In our latest book of samples which we are mailing out this week will be found a variety of stunning patterns which will enable you to brighten up your rooms at a minimum outlay.

In case you fail to receive one of these books, call for same at our office. We want everyone who is interested in the appearance of the home to see our offerings.

Literally hundreds of late designs—at a price that likely will not prevail after our present stock moves.

Barnes & McCullough

"Everything to Build Anything"
HICO, TEXAS

Katy Coach Fares

HICO TO FOLLOWING POINTS:

We pick up and deliver LCL freight and express free. Ask us about this when you have freight or express shipments.

|           |        |          |        |
|-----------|--------|----------|--------|
| Albany    | $2.08 | Houston  | $5.47 |
| Austin    | $3.92 | Hamlin   | $3.25 |
| Cisco     | $1.40 | Rotan    | $3.69 |
| Dallas    | $3.31 | Stamford | $2.85 |
| Ft. Worth | $3.10 | Waco     | $1.72 |

H. SMITH, LOCAL AGENT M-K-T

Taking Unknown Drugs A Great Folly

Doctors throughout the world agree there is no greater folly than to buy and take unknown drugs. Ask your own doctor.

So—when you go into a store for real Bayer Aspirin, see that you get it.

Remember that doctors endorse Genuine Bayer Aspirin as SAFE relief for headache, colds, sore throat, pains of rheumatism and neuritis, etc.

Just remember this. Demand and get Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Local Happenings

Mrs. Annie Waggoner is in Houston on an extended visit with relatives.

Mrs. Will Laurence of Quinlin is on an extended visit with Mrs. Hattie Norton.

Mrs. C. P. Coston and Miss Lois Wootte were visitors in Stephenville Tuesday.

Misses Lorraine and Lucille Segrist of Dallas spent the week end here with their mother, Mrs. Sue Segrist.

Mrs. S. W. Young, Mrs. George Labor and Mrs. Ray Connally were visitors in Stephenville on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Rucker Wright, Mrs. Jim D. Wright and Mrs. George Wright spent Tuesday afternoon in Stephenville.

"The Missouri Hillbillies" at school auditorium Friday, March 23, benefit of Methodist parsonage. Admission 10c and 25c. 41-3c

Kal Segrist and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Segrist of Dallas are here spending a few days with their mother, Mrs. Sue Segrist.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark and son of Sweetwater and Mrs. J. Frank Hobbs of Abilene spent the first of the week here in the homes of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. McCarty Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Clark.

One look and you're charmed by these wall papers

They're so rich in texture, so unusual in design—these nationally advertised Mayflower Wall Papers. And for all their authentic advanced style, they cost no more than undistinguished nameless wall papers. Designed by celebrated artists and made to hang smoothly, wear wonderfully, clean beautifully, Mayflower Wall Papers are tested and approved for the color fastness. See our large stock of selections today. HIGGINBOTHAM BROS. & CO. Hico, Texas

Mrs. W. H. Hudson and little daughter, Joella, of Iredell, were here this week visiting her mother Mrs. Stegall.

F. M. Mings of Abilene, employed by a hardware firm of that city, was a week-end guest of Mrs. Mings here.

G. B. Wolfe of Mansfield, Okla., is here visiting his mother, Mrs. Anna Wolfe, and brother, H. N. Wolfe and family.

Mrs. Gene Darnell of Garland spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Longbottom.

Mrs. Ruby Bingham, Miss Oleta Hughes, Miss Vieta McAnally and Mrs. Walter Patterson and son spent last Saturday in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Edith Surber and H. O. Johnson were in Hamilton Wednesday visiting Mrs. Roy Santy and Mrs. Jack Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hurley of Hamilton, were Hico visitors last Friday.

Julius Jones of Lampasas came over Wednesday after Mrs. Martha White, who will spend several days in Lampasas as their guest.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Wolfe and children and Miss Lena Hegfeldt spent the week end in Groesbeck with relatives.

Mrs. J. H. Roberts and Mrs. H. F. Sellers spent last Thursday and Friday in Granbury and Fort Worth with friends.

Mrs. I. M. Hutchens, Mrs. C. L. Woodward and Miss Carmen Shelton were visitors in Dallas Thursday.

Dr. A. G. Livingston of Hamilton, candidate for representative of this district, was in Hico Wednesday visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Rodgers Jr. and little daughter, Barbara Estelle, were visitors in Fort Worth Tuesday.

Mrs. James B. Carmean, county case supervisor of relief work, was in Waco two days last week on business.

Hector Hollis left Tuesday for Ozona and other points in the western part of the state where he will be employed by a construction company.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Wolfe took Mr. Wolfe's mother, Mrs. Anna Wolfe, to Waco Tuesday where she will receive medical treatment.

LET'S SWAP I will take in exchange for first class Dental work, any kind of livestock, feed stuff or anything of value. What have you?—DR. V. HAWES, the home dentist. Hico.

Learn the new way to loveliness

*** with our compliments

THOUSANDS of women have found radiant charm and loveliness by following Dorothy Perkins' rules of beauty.

At considerable expense we have obtained a personal representative of Dorothy Perkins to explain this scientific method of beauty care to our customers.

This beautician will be at our store March 26th to 28th inclusive and will give a complete private consultation and special individualized treatment to every person making an appointment.

This service complimentary. You will be amazed at results. Phone now for appointment.

G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co. Telephone 48

SPECIAL ATTENTION to Dry Skin Oily Skin Sallow Skin Blackheads Lines and Wrinkles Sagging Muscles Crowsfeet Pimples and Acne Double Chin Personalized Make-up

S. E. Blair Jr. of John Tarleton College, Stephenville, was in Hico Tuesday visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Blair Sr.

Mrs. O. D. Cunningham and children, Dorothy and O. D. Jr., spent the week end at Abbott and Aquila with relatives. They returned home Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. L. Hunter and daughter, Miss Opal, were in Turnersville Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral of G. Rowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Killian, Mrs. Jeff Hendrix and Miss Opal Hunter were visiting friends in Stephenville Sanitarium Wednesday afternoon.

Buddy Randals who is attending John Tarleton College at Stephenville is here spending a few days recuperating from a recent illness.

Custom Hatching $2.00 per tray 25 eggs; leading varieties Chicks $7.00 per 100. Special—1900 Ancona Chicks $6.00 per 100.—Lyle Golden. 43-1c.

Charlie McBeath and sister, Mrs. Annie Goodman, of Iredell were here last Friday visiting their sister, Mrs. Sue Segrist. Goodman remained for the week end.

D. F. McCarty Sr. was taken to the Stephenville Hospital Wednesday afternoon and underwent a minor operation. His many friends will be glad to know he has fully recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Hutchens spent the week end in Dallas with Mrs. Hutchens' uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Boyd. Boyd recently underwent a minor operation and is recovering nicely.

W. A. Holford of Garland was a week end guest of his son, Roland L. Holford and family. His little granddaughter, Carolyn Holford, accompanied him home for a week's visit in Garland.

Miss Evelyn Goughly, a student at T. C. U. Fort Worth, who was spending the week end in Hamilton, was in Hico Saturday afternoon, guest of Miss Mary Smith and other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Aycock spent the week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Alexander at Wichita Falls. Mrs. Alexander is the former Miss Marie Aycock of Hico.

Mrs. A. Q. Jordan who is staying with Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Pittman at Stephenville, was in Hico last Friday, accompanied by Mrs. Pittman and Charlie Pittman, as Mrs. Pittman was having some dental work done.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ratliff and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ratliff of Lampasas were here Wednesday visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Ratliff and Helen Ratliff. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ratliff remained for a week's stay and the others returned to Lampasas Wednesday afternoon.

Morris Harelik and daughter, Sylvia, spent Sunday in Hamilton where Mr. Harelik was at a business meeting with David and Haskell Harelik of Hamilton. W. H. Novitt of Dublin, and Morris Novitt of Stephenville, all business men. They made plans for the approaching season in selling merchandise.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hubbard of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Barrow of Hamlin, Dave and Arch Barrow of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barrow and family of Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Barrow and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shannon and daughter, Joy Nell, of Houston were in Hico Tuesday attending the funeral services of Henry Deller Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Duncan and daughter, Olive Clair, came in Wednesday from near San Francisco, California, where they spent the past two years. They will probably locate in Texas. Mrs. Duncan was formerly Miss Maxine Guyton of Hico.

Frank Sears of Hico and Miss Jessie Bell Campbell of Hamilton were married Wednesday night at the home of the groom's brother, Dutch Sears on Duffau Street. Elder Jno. M. Alton performed the ceremony. The newlyweds will make their home in Hico as Mr. Sears is employed by Tamalie King.

In renewing her subscription recently, Mrs. R. H. Fenley, 1219 East Allen Ave., Fort Worth, sent a note as follows: "While passing through your little city enroute to the Hamilton Sanitarium, to visit relatives who have been confined there for several months, I am leaving my renewal for the News Review, which we have greatly missed since allowing my subscription to expire. Those enroute to my respects on this sanitarium visit are Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Fenley and son, Vernon, of Fort Worth; and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tally of Crowley, Texas."

Discovery of what is believed to be pieces of a human body at a city incinerator in San Antonio, sent police hurrying to the place to investigate the find Tuesday. Employees at the place said the discovery to police and detectives of the homicide squad were immediately dispatched to the incinerator. The pieces of the body were found in a garbage can.

Pleasantly Surprised on 71st Birthday Anniversary.

Mrs. R. W. Purdom was pleasantly surprised last Saturday when her son, Roscoe Purdom, and son-in-law, L. E. Callan, of Kaufman, and another son, Robert Purdom, drove to the Robert Purdom home in Stephenville where she had spent since Thursday to tell her that relatives with their families had come to assist her in celebrating her 71st birthday anniversary on that day. Everything to add cheer to the honoree was given and she also received a number of lovely gifts.

On Sunday a delicious dinner was served, prepared by her youngest daughter, Mrs. Roy French, with the big birthday cake centering the huge dining table.

Mrs. Purdom declares that she receives more pleasant surprises than anyone, but her children together with her hosts of relatives and friends, consider her most worthy, and get much joy out of seeing her happy.

Those present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Callan and Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Purdom of Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Purdom and daughter Mary Louise of Stephenville, Mr. and Mrs. Zack Barrow and Mr. and Mrs. Roy French and children of Hico.

Miss Irene Frank Hostess To Contract Club Tuesday

Miss Irene Frank entertained members and guests of the Tuesday Contract Bridge Club at her home Tuesday afternoon. The open rooms were made cheerful with pot plants and cut flowers.

After the games, chicken salad, olives, potato chips, celery, wafers, hot coffee, and ice cream with mushrooms and cake were served to the following: Mesdames H. F. Sellers, C. L. Woodward, E. S. Jackson, Charles Shelton, C. G. Masterson and Misses Doris Sellers, Jeanette Randals and Annette Culbreath. Corsages of sweet peas were given as plate favors.

Mrs. J. E. Massingill Entertained With Party for Grandson

Mrs. J. E. Massingill entertained a few tots at their home last Friday afternoon with a party for her little grandson, Rolene Yarbrough, who was three years old on that day. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Yarbrough who reside near Carlton.

After the guests arrived at the home, they were taken to the City Park where games were played, after which pop corn, suckers and cake were served.

Those present were Billie Wright, Betty Rose Horton, Thomas Dale Leeth, Billie Jean Newton and James Lee Proffitt.

Flag Branch By HAZEL COOPER

Mrs. Ola Mings spent awhile Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Graves.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Pruitt visited Hunter Newman and family of Black Stump Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Mings spent awhile Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Mings.

Harry Barik and family and Mrs. F. D. Graves were visitors in Hico Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Moore and week end with her parents. Mr. Little daughter, Billie, spent the and Mrs. J. M. Cooper.

G. W. Mings and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Graves Sunday night.

J. C. Henshaw spent awhile with J. D. Crane Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Dotson, Will Flannary and Willie Moore, and family visited Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cooper Sunday.

Several from this place attended the funeral of Mr. Strickland and Mr. Phillips of Iredell Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burks and children spent Tuesday night in the Frank Craig home.

Palace Hico

Friday-Saturday (Matinee on Sat.) Tim McCoy in "RUSTY RIDES ALONE" A Western Story

We will pass any person over 60 years of age into the theatre on Saturday afternoons free until further notified.

Monday-Tuesday Mae West with Gary Grant in "I'M NO ANGEL" The sensation of the season. No advance in prices.

Wednesday-Thursday Merchants' Nights—Jack Holt with Lillian Bond in "WHEN STRANGERS MARRY"

Miss Dorothy Ford Entertained Les Jukes Club Tuesday Eve.

With an idea toward the practical, Miss Dorothy Ford entertained the members of Les Jukes with a sewing bee at her home Tuesday evening. An Irish theme predominated with decorations in green.

After a short business session, sewing and singing were the chief diversions. Refreshments of cheese sandwiches, congealed fruit salad, potato chips, angel food cake and iced tea were served by the hostess.

Tiny green shamrocks marked places for Misses Mildred Ross, Inez Burleson, Sue Petty, Rubilee Malone, Mary Smith, Mayo Hollis, and Jennie Mae McDowell.

Miss Nita Richardson Becomes Bride of W. H. Gandy.

Miss Nita Richardson and Mr. W. H. Gandy were quietly united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Waco, at the office of the Justice of Peace, C. A. Allen, officiating.

Only Mrs. W. H. Gandy, mother of the groom, and a brother and sister, Walton and Rita Gandy, were present for the wedding.

The bride wore a very becoming light blue crepe frock, with white accessories. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Richardson, prominent citizens of Stephenville, who have made their home there for many years. She was born and reared there, and attended the public schools of that city. She was graduated from the high school department of John Tarleton College.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gandy, well known citizens of Hico. They have made their home in and near Hico for many years. He was graduated from the high school in this city also attended John Tarleton College at Stephenville, majoring in woodwork. He is now employed as shipping clerk for the Hilltop Baking Company at Waco, having secured his connection with the company through a route in this territory.

Mr. and Mrs. Gandy will make their home at 2525 Sauger Ave., in Waco.

CAMPBELL'S GROCERY

RETAIL — WHOLESALE

Granulated Finest Quality Sugar 23 lbs. $1.00

Shortening Snowdrift 6lb. 75c 3lb. 38c

Folger's Coffee 1 lb. 31c 2 lb. 61c

Staley's Golden Syrup 50c

Crystal White Soap 5 bars 12c

Dromedary — Just add water GINGER BREAD MIX 25c

Quick Mayonnaise Both—Maker and a Pint WESSON OIL 49c

Excell Crackers 2 lbs. 21c

K. C. Bak. Pdr. 25 oz. can 15c

SWIFT

PREMIUM

Ham

Half or Whole

LB.—

18c

Easter Day

is not complete unless there is EASTER CANDY on hand.

They are here Ducks, drakes, bunnies — and thousands of eggs, waiting for you.

PEACHES, Gal. 40c APRICOTS, gal. 60c PINEAPPLE, gal. 60c

Pure Country Sausage Per lb. 15c

CARROTS Bunch 5c

LETTUCE Head 5c

RADISHES Bunch 5c

CELERY Stalk 15c

GREEN ONIONS Bunch 5c

CAULIFLOWER Lb. 12 1/2c

GREEN BEANS Lb. 12c

SQUASH Lb. 10c

NEW POTATOES Lb. 5c

GREEN PEPPERS Lb. 20c

RED RIPE 2 Boxes

Strawb'ries 25c

Full Line of Field & Garden Seeds

News of the World Told In Pictures

Night School Class of Elderly Farmers Graduate

VAN HORNESVILLE, N. Y. . . . Over 100 farmers and villagers received diplomas in the first night school graduation class of Van Hornesville Central School, founded by Owen D. Young. Many of the graduates were older than Mr. Young, who presented the diplomas. . . . The photo shows Mr. Young presenting diploma to Mrs. Dora Petrie.

Three-Cushion Champion

NEW YORK . . . John Layton (above), Sedalia, Mo., former boxer, wrestler and sports promoter, is again the three-cushion billiard champion of the world. He defeated Walker Cochran, defending champion, in the final match 50 to 18.

New Cue Champion

NEW YORK . . . Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, is the world's pocket-billiard champion. He defeated champion Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland in a six block challenge match, 750 to 607, which included a run of 153 by Ponzi, a world record in title competition.

New N. E. A. Head

CLEVELAND . . . Edson E. Sherholter, Superintendent of Houston, Tex., schools, is the new president of the National Educational Association. He was born at Putricksburg, Ind., and is 54 years old.

Valentino Fan Wins

LOS ANGELES . . . Mrs. Zunilda Mancini, (above) contributed her life savings, $6,000 toward a memorial to the late Rudolph Valentino. Later she learned that the memorial cost only $1,200. She sued and won, the court ruling that $5,400 should be returned to her.

To Austrian Front

WASHINGTON . . . George H. Earle, 3rd, U. S. Minister to Austria, home on leave to enter Pennsylvania gubernatorial race, was rushed back to his post by President Roosevelt in view of the internal crisis there.

Cashing-In on Fourth Largest Diamond

SOUTH AFRICA . . . On the right is Jacobus Janke Sr., finder of the fourth largest diamond in the world, handing over the stone to Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, left, who had delivered approximately $400,000.

Heads Marines

WASHINGTON . . . Maj. Gen. John Henry Russell, the new head of Uncle Sam's Fighting Marines. This photo was taken at his desk in the Navy Department, when he took over the command last week.

Columbia's Queen

NEW YORK . . . Pauline Revere (above), descendant of Paul Revere, has been selected by faculty members as the most beautiful girl at Columbia University . . . an honor which completely "floored" the young freshman.

Knows Depressions

NEW YORK . . . Eberhard Faber (above), pencil king of the U. S., who celebrates his 75th birthday this month, says he has spent fifty-five active years as an officer of his company and has gone through depressions of all kind. He says the present depression is at its end. Don't worry is his rule for longevity.

Official Portrait of President Roosevelt

NEW YORK . . . The official portrait of President Roosevelt which is to hang in the White House has been approved. It is shown above in the studio of Mrs. Ellen Emmet Rand, who has worked on the painting since August of 1933. This is the portrait which failed to be approved when it showed the President smiling. It was changed and has now been approved by Mrs. Roosevelt.

Dillinger Sheriff

CROWN POINT, IND. . . Sheriff Lillian Holley, who ruled over the "escape proof" Lake County Jail, from which John Dillinger, notorious killer and bank robber made his escape with a wooden pistol he had whittled out during spare moments.

Christy Mathewson Jr.

NEW YORK . . . Christy Mathewson Jr., son of the late "Big Six" pitcher, attended the funeral of McGraw. This was Mathewson Jr.'s first appearance since the tragic death of his bride-wife in China and in which crash he lost one leg.

Now Hunted

CHICAGO . . . A nation-wide search is under way for Louis W. Greber, (above) former purchasing agent for the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., who is alleged to have absconded his employers of approximately $500,000.

Now Dunking Dates

PALM SPRINGS . . . They pick fresh desert dates and dunk them in hitherto forbidden beverages and eat them as appetizers in the smart set here. Ruth Holly is shown bringing in freshly picked dates for the dunking process.

New Basket Record

SEATTLE . . . Bob Galer (above) University of Washington forward, amassed a total of 176 points during the season, averaging 11 points per game, thus topping the record of 173 points, made in 1933 by Edward Lewis of Oregon State College.

Birth Control Hearing

WASHINGTON . . . Mrs. Margaret Sanger, a leading advocate of birth control, appeared before a senate committee to urge approval of the Hastings bill which would permit dissemination of birth control information.

BUD 'N BUB

By Ed Kressy

NEWS FROM IREDELL COMMUNITY

By MISS STELLA JONES

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Noel of Dublin visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordin, here Wednesday evening, returning home Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Scales, Mrs. McAden and Allen Dawson were in Glen Rose Monday.

Mrs. B. N. Strong of Walnut Springs was here Wednesday.

Miss Thelma McCauley of Walnut Springs visited here this week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Cas Bowman and Mrs. Harve Sawyer attended the funeral of Mrs. Tarver at Walnut Springs Friday.

Mrs. J. L. Tidwell, Mrs. Joe Tidwell and Mrs. Bryan Smith were in Waco Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Scales and Allen Dawson were in Clifton Wednesday.

Mrs. J. L. Dearing is ill with the shingles, a skin trouble, and is not improving very much. Her friends hope she will be well soon.

Mrs. Odle Bryan has returned from Glen Rose and is well, of which her friends are glad to know.

Mr. Cam Moore was taken to Gorman for treatment Friday and returned the same day. He came back to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Anderson, where he will stay for a while. His wife is with him. He has been ill for over a month. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson and Martin Moore took him up there.

Mrs. Lillian Tarver of Wortham who has been at the bedside of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Tarver at Walnut, visited her sister, Mrs. Gregory, here Wednesday afternoon.

J. L. Davis and son James Arthur, Albert Hensley, Robert Myers, Mrs. Soures and Miss Stella Jones were in Meridian Friday afternoon. Robert remained until Sunday with his aunt, Mrs. Clara Richards.

Mrs. N. E. L. Peavey of Wadley, Alabama, sister of Mr. Fuller and Mrs. Chowning died Wednesday and buried Thursday. Mrs. Chowning and Mr. Fuller visited her last Summer. Illness in the homes of relatives prevented any of them attending the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Berns were in Fort Worth Friday.

Mrs. Jackson visited Mrs. Andrew Jackson on Saturday, who lives north of town.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chester and their son Oley of Cleburne spent the week end here with relatives.

Mrs. Potts, Misses Annabel Tidwell, Maggie Harris, Doris Helm and Guy Hedley were in Waco Saturday of last week.

Mrs. Chowning is ill and also Lamoine Fuller.

Several from here attended the funeral of Patsy Ruth Proffitt, who was buried at Fair Tuesday afternoon. The relatives have the sympathy of their friends here.

Mrs. May Holt of Tyler is at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Lambert, who is very ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Miller of Dallas spent Wednesday evening here with his parents, and returned home Thursday.

Miss Opal Laurence of Tahoka spent the week end here. She is teaching school there.

Mrs. Laura Munterlyn and her daughter, Mrs. Trammel, of Hamilton, visited her sister, Mrs. Annie Boyd, Friday.

Mrs. Waldrup of Walnut Springs spent Saturday here with friends.

Mrs. Rilla Tidwell and Miss Dorothy Little spent Friday in Cisco.

Mrs. Annie Goodman is visiting in Hico.

All this week the boys here enjoyed flying kites, which is fine. Some of the older ones get enjoyment out of the sport, as well as the boys.

A norther came up Saturday afternoon and was very cold. Several have planted some gardens. It is hoped they are not killed.

Charles Ray McCauley of Walnut Springs spent Sunday here.

Virgil McClinton of Paducah spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Ray Tidwell. He had been to Temple to take his wife to the sanitarium.

The play that will be put on by some of the Missionary Society ladies will be Friday evening. Admission 10 cents for everyone. The play is very funny and you will be well entertained by them. The play will be at the school auditorium. The quilt that was pieced and quilted by them will be given away that evening. The one who gets the quilt will be fortunate, so every one be there.

Rev. McCauley preached a fine sermon Sunday morning, taking his text from Luke 9:51. He steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem. Jesus was on His way to Jerusalem. He has a mission to fulfill. We, as church members, have duties to perform. We should fulfill the tasks He has assigned us. Jesus was on his way to Jerusalem. Nothing could hinder Him. We should be so determined to do as we should for Him that we would not let anything come in our way and may we all be faithful, be steadfast, and by our faithfulness bring souls to Him.

Albert Newsom of Southwestern University spent the week end here with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Davis and children and Mrs. Willie Shoemaker and daughter of Meridian were here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Obie Dunlap and children were here over the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Casper.

Rev. Baldrick, the Presiding Elder, held Conference here Sunday afternoon with very good reports from the church. He delivered a fine sermon at the evening hour to a large and attentive congregation. He is a fine preacher.

Billy Royce Newsom of Big Spring underwent an operation Sunday. It was to have been done a week ago, but hopes were held that it could be prevented. He stood the operation very well.

Mrs. J. H. Woodley of Shamrock, a sister-in-law of Mrs. E. R. Turner, and her daughter, Mrs. Tom Yourre and son Gene of Hedley and Miss Geneva Davis of near Ireddell spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Turner.

Mr. J. C. Phillips of this place and Mr. John Strickland died Sunday and were buried Monday. Mr. Strickland died at the sanitarium in Austin. More extensive notices will be given next week.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Freedman Saturday evening were Cecil Polack of DeLeon, Huron Polack of Howard Payne College, Brownwood, Pat Polack and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Polack of near Ireddell.

On Thursday, March 23, I was very much surprised when a very large crowd of friends came to see me and most every one present brought a beautiful and useful gift to me. This birthday shower was gotten up by the Missionary Society and was kept a secret from me. Talk about being surprised, I certainly was, and thrilled too! Mrs. Deatherage and Mrs. Gregory took dinner with me that day, and when they went home back that evening as Mrs. Echols was coming too. A little while after dark two or three ladies came and in a little while a large crowd came up and were singing. "Happy Birthday to You." I knew the crowd was coming to see me. I was very proud of all my pretty gifts, and I thank each and every one for them. After the crowd all came in. Billie Echols gave a picture show. He has a toy machine and the pictures are plain and all enjoyed the moving picture show. Misses Jewell McDonel, Johnnie Gregory and Norma Jean Cavness gave readings. Some girls sang some songs. Refreshments of sandwiches were served. I was told to make some coffee to go with them, but as I was without coffee just then we ate them without the coffee. The cakes were cut and passed around and every cake was fine and pretty as well. After about two hours the guests began to leave, all expressing themselves as having had a fine time. I enjoyed them all coming for this birthday was the happiest one I ever spent. My many friends made it happy for me. I received a most lovely box of gifts from Mr. and Mrs. Bowen and daughter, Waldene, and a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wood, all of Los Angeles; and a lovely gift from my brother, Mr. Guy Jones, and wife of Fort Worth. These I appreciate very much. Everyone that remembered me in any way, I wish for them as happy birthdays as all of them helped me to enjoy. I was not expecting anything from any one except Mr. Bowen, my niece and family, as she wrote me she could remember me on that day. The day will be long remembered and never forgotten by me for it was a happy time for me. The following ones were present: Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Tidwell, stationery; Mrs. Nola Freeman and children; Bobbie Ray and Susie, a comb; Mrs. C. A. Gregory, perfume; Nell and Johnnie, handkerchiefs; Nell and Mrs. John Miller and daughters, Allen and Ruth, a dresser scarf; Mrs. McClinton, chore ball; Myrtle and Jewell McDonel, cake; Junior McDonel, Mrs. Jackson, a handkerchief; [Mary Jackson, a powder puff; Mrs. Pate Bowman, handkerchief; Mrs. R. S. Echols, towel; Mr. R. S. Echols, talcum; Billie Echols, powder box and perfume; Elizabeth Woodall, talcum; Miss Mittle Gordon, handkerchief; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Newsom, hand lotion and bud vase; Mrs. Lizzie Beard, glass bowl; Josie May and Ethel Harper, Ellen, Louise and Raymond Prater, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tidwell, salt and pepper shakers; Mrs. Bertha Henderson, handkerchief; Mrs. Charlie McLoughlin, towel; Towila Joe, face powder; Ha Locker, Mrs. D. E. Cavness, Jack and Norma, a dresser scarf; Mrs. Pike, a cake; Mrs. Snell, talcum; Mrs. Lawless, hand lotion; Mrs. Deatherage, bath salts; Paul Patterson, hand lotion; Mrs. E. R. Turner, beef soup; Miss Judy Myers, cleaning cream; Mrs. Sallie French, pillow cases. A beautiful cake was brought by Mrs. Jerry Phillips, made by my "sunshine sister" and it was a beauty. Mrs. Pike made the birthday call, and it was a beauty, too. I received away from here the following letters and cards: Mrs. Sam B. Curry, Ennis, letter, card and handkerchief; Mrs. J. N. Odle, Meridian, letter and handkerchief; Mrs. Medlin, Stamford, letter; Mrs. Ira W. Davis of Tuskegee, Ala., card; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Jones and son, Fort Worth, a card; Mrs. C. E. Myers, Meridian, card and handkerchief; Mr. and Mrs. How Wood of Los Angeles, a card; Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Bowen, Los Angeles, a card; Rev. and Mrs. M. Shannon and sons, Stephenville, a letter; Miss Sarah Ware, Hico, a letter and handkerchief; Mrs. Alfred Hardwick, Meridian, a letter. At home I received cards from Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tidwell, Mrs. Snell, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Chaffin, and Mr. J. N. McAdoo. Who wouldn't be proud of all these gifts, cards, letters and kind words from a host of friends? I thank each and every one of the givers. Since writing up this I received a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Clanton, a box of bath powder; a box of lovely stationery from Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Sadler; and a glass of jelly from Mrs. G. W. Chaffin.

The Mirror

Published Weekly by Students of the
HICO HIGH SCHOOL

Editor-in-Chief Alma Ragsdale
Assistant Editor Charlyne Malone

New County Record

Billy (Dashing Dizzy) Hays stretched out his nimble legs on the 100 yard dash to set a new county record of ten seconds flat. Of the 32 points won in track by Hico, Billy won 16. He was first in the 440 yard dash, 220 yard dash, low hurdles, and the finish man who brought us victory in the mile relay.

Sophomore News

The Sophomores feel as though they did their part in the track meet.

The one and only Walton Gandy brought back four blue ribbons and one red.

Wayne Boatwright won first place in Senior Declaration.

Naomi Jones won fourth place in Junior Declaration.

We regret that one of our class mates, Glendine Bass, has moved to Stephenville. We wish her good luck in her new home.

Wonder what gave the Sophs the "gad-about" this weekend?

Oh, dear! Our boys are rushing the seventh graders again.

What's Lucille's recipe for getting the admiration of men?

Loyd loves to steal parts of little girls' hearts.

Freshman News

Louella Odell has been absent several days because of her mother's illness. We are very glad to have Louella back with us again and hope her mother is up and about soon.

Jack Hollis has decided to join the army. The Freshmen hope that he has all the success in the world there.

Lucky Eight Meeting

The Lucky Eight met last Thursday night at the home of Mavis Hardy. Various games were played until Bill Rusk suggested that they eat.

Delicious refreshments were served to the members. All were present but the sleepy-headed Walton Gandy. Of course they excused him because he carried away a first place for us in the county meet.

Club House Frolic

Saturday night Emory Gamble entertained with a dance at the Bluebonnet Country Club.

Those enjoying the evening's fun were Marie Pirtle, Jane Adams, Bettie Boustead, Mayo Hollis, Martha Porter, Evelyn Go Lightly of T. C. U., Mary Smith, Emory Gamble, Ralph Boone, Devere Luke, Jack Vickrey, Carroll Smith, Geary Cheek, Leighton Guyton, Ralph Cherry, Verdie W. Miles, Adolph Leeth, Hector Hollis, Alma Ragsdale, and Margaret Stroud, Paul Holliday, Robynna Melton, Dorsey Collins, and J. C. Smith of Cleburne.

Les Sans Souci

The members of the Les Sans Souci met at the home of Miss Nell Petty Tuesday night.

The guests were given green ribbons to wear on their hair and various games were played in accordance with St. Patrick's Day.

Banana ice cream, green mints, individual cakes decorated with shamrocks were served to Charlyne Malone, Dorothy Meador, Mildred Thomas, Alma Ragsdale, Delta Pittman, Rhuey Bingham, and the hostess, Nell Petty.

Plenit in Honor of Glendine Bass The members of the Cumrade Gesellschaft—Glendine, Elizabeth, Eileen, Lillian, Margaret, and Mary Bob—met at Eileen's Friday and hiked about two miles out into the country for a picnic.

After enjoying kodaking, they examined their watches (which were all different) as if they were horometers to determine the time to eat.

Having finished their lunch they slowly walked on their way. They were auspicious enough in getting a ride in a breezy, rattling (1922) Chevrolet, driven by a distinguished gentleman.

Beauty Hint

Even if you prefer to cleanse your face with cream, a good scrubbing with soap and water once each week will not hurt. After scrubbing then rub a good cream into the face and leave it on all night. Ice is good to close the pores after thorough washing with water, being certain to rinse in cold water. When removing the cream with tissues in the morning be sure to use a good powder base and an abundant supply of powder to prevent Old Man Sunshine from playing havoc with your complexion.

Gossip

What would happen if—Lurline couldn't talk? Collin wasn't tardy? Yetta didn't have fever blisters? Hill Rusk couldn't eat? Hobart couldn't proposition with somebody? Leighton lost Anatole? Dorothy couldn't wiggle? Della couldn't giggle? Walton didn't have a bread basket? Some people weren't dumb? Mavis couldn't sing and her old tin Lizzie wouldn't run? Loyd couldn't tell jokes? Alma couldn't gurggle? Martha Maserson was not in love with E. L.? Martha didn't have Smitty? The girls of the Les Sans Souci didn't fuss?

Virtuous Ghost

Coach: "If I make you a star, you must lead a life of strict decorum."

Billy Hays: "But can't my understudy do that?"

She Can Spell It

Mildred: "I wonder why the boss keeps that stenographer (Janette French), she can't spell?"

Yetta: "No, casting a spell is her strong point."

Busted Flush

Garry: "I believe in calling a spade a spade."

Smitty: "That's right, my friend—there was a man who nearly lost his life here by getting into a game and tryin' to call a spade a club."

on all night. Ice is good to close the pores after thorough washing with water, being certain to rinse in cold water. When removing the cream with tissues in the morning be sure to use a good powder base and an abundant supply of powder to prevent Old Man Sunshine from playing havoc with your complexion.

—Eileen Alexander.

Dear Madam X: Could you please tell me how to prepare my first breakfast? I was married last week and my husband and I are so happy.

NEWLYWED.

Dear Newlywed: The way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and if you do as I tell you, there will be no difficulty in your case. First, light the gas (be careful, as gas is explosive). Next get two eggs out of the ice box (don't look for the can opener) and put it under your foot and press with your heel until the shell is crushed. Then put the eggs in a skillet and take the toast out of the oven and scry it. That which is left may be served. Now throw the eggs out and ask "Hubby" if he hadn't just as soon eat in the restaurant.

MADAM X.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS!

In view of the fact that several cases of rabies are known to have occurred in dogs and other live stock in Hico and vicinity recently, notice is hereby given that on and after March 12th, 1934, unlicensed and unmuzzled dogs found running at large on the streets, alleys, etc. in Hico will be shot without further notice. Please act accordingly, and aid in saving the lives of our citizens.

HICO CITY COUNCIL.

FILMS

We stock all size films. That means that we stock films that we do not sell two rolls per year, as they are perishable, we naturally take a loss on some sizes. We are here to supply you when you need films, regardless of the demand. Eastman of course.

Call for or order by mail such special numbers as No. 620, No. 616, No. 125, No. 118 and No. 520, and films for Norton Camera, both regular and Verichrome, Eastman of course.

THE WISEMAN STUDIO

Hico, Texas

Spring's Newest Arrivals

WILL BE FOUND AT OUR STORE

If you could just realize the immense values in new Spring Merchandise, Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Ready-to-Wear, Millinery, Piece Goods, Notions, etc that we have—you would not think of going elsewhere for your needs. Fresh, clean stocks of wanted merchandise at a price cheaper than you can order them from the mail order houses. And in addition, you have the advantage of our trained sales force, and of seeing the goods you buy before paying out your money, thus assuring yourself that what you buy will fit and look right.

JUST COME IN AND LOOK AROUND—WE GUARANTEE THAT YOU WILL FIND SEVERAL ITEMS YOU WANT

For Ladies - -

SILK DRESSES, new shades, new styles, priced at $2.25, $3.75, $4.75

WASH DRESSES, prints and linens at 49c, 89c, 98c, $1.49

HATS and Tams, new styles and shapes, prices 35c up to $1.49

SHOES, white, gray, black and brown at $1.95 to $2.95

PURSES, Hosiery and Accessories of all kinds for that Easter frock.

For Men - -

SUITS, for men, prices far below the present wholesale cost.

MEN'S HATS for Easter in all colors, prices from $1.95 to $3.95

SHOES, Peter's Diamond Brand for men. Priced from $2.25 to $3.95

Our stock is complete in Dress Shirts, Neckwear, Socks, and in fact everything for the men.

SAVE On Staple Items!

WE HAVE A STORE FULL OF STAPLE GOODS AT REASONABLE PRICES

Since establishing our store in Hico we have been favored with an increasing patronage from month to month. There must be a reason for our growing popularity. If quality goods at lower prices, with full selections of sizes mean anything to you, you will become a regular customer.

We are anxious to see Hico supply the needs of the people of the community, and are willing to put our shoulder to the wheel and work toward that end-along with the rest of the merchants in our line and in other lines.

H. & D. Harelik Dry Goods Co.

"HICO'S DEPARTMENT STORE"

Trade With Us

We buy everything in the produce line and give you:

- Highest Cash Prices.
- Courteous Treatment.

Western Produce Co

Mt. Zion

By
MRS. ALLIE ADKISON

Well, it looks as though winter has just gotten here, as the ground was covered with sleet Sunday morning.

Almost everybody is through planting corn.

A. F. Polack was on our sick list last week.

Miss Nevada Adkison visited in the Weston Newton home Saturday night.

Weston Newton, wife and son, Grady Adkison and mother, and Mrs. W. L. Simpson and son, Joe Harris and son visited in the Early home awhile Wednesday night.

Ferman Howard and Nevada Adkison visited Grady Adkison and mother Sunday.

Little W. J. Newton visited his aunt Friday.

Ben Tignor visited in the Newton home Saturday night.

Travis Adkison and family visited in the Clint Adkison home Thursday night.

Mrs. C. L. Adkison spent the week end in the Meadows home. Mr. and Mrs. Lobton of Ireddell visited Miss Stella Ross Saturday.

MAX'S HEART STOPPED. STOMACH GAS CAUSE

W. L. Adams was bloated so with gas that his heart often missed beats after eating. Adlerka rid him of all gas, and now he eats anything and feels fine.—Porter's Drug Store.

PORTER'S DRUG STORE (41-42c)

Chickens-Turkeys

Don't take chances—give fowls and baby chicks Star Parasite Remover in drinking. It kills disease causing worms in inception. Keeps free of lice, mites, fleas, blue bugs. Keeps their health and egg production good and saves much trouble and loss at a very small cost or your money refunded.

Mae West's Curves Given "O. K." By Insurance Firms

Dallas, Texas, March 14.—When Mae West popularized feminine curves she also opened the road to health and long life to millions of women.

Saucy, naughty Mae did more than bring back puff sleeves and by-gone day and substitute feminine curves for straight lines and angles, for she also brought the glow of good health to the cheeks of her girl and women fans.

This is not propaganda extended by her press agent but is opinion based on cold, dry statistics from the actuarial department of one of the large Texas Insurance organizations.

Insurance companies have always looked with suspicion and even disapproved upon excess fat according to Z. E. Marvin, president of The Gulf States Security Life Company. But when women decided they wanted those willowy figures at any cost and began the reducing craze with their eighteen day diets and other drastic measures, heads of insurance companies that hold policies on the lives of many women, really began to worry.

"The women were undermining their health because of under nourishment. Glad treatments self-administered together with food denial was cutting years off the lives of American womanhood and there was lots of worrying in scientific circles," Mr. Marvin said.

"Normal weight was what was desirable for health's sake. But style demanded 'slenderness' and the women gritted their teeth and battled nature to be skinny. They shared weakening of various organs and even tuberculosis but as worshippers at the shrine of 'fashion' there was nothing else they could do."

And then came Mae West, sexy swagging Mae. She was not skinny nor did she have those so-called fashionable straight lines. Not Mae. She had curves and natural upholstering.

And the men fell for her. They liked those curves, those soft feminine old fashioned curves. Not only that the women also liked Mae. Women are progressive too. They looked into the matter to see what it was about Buxom Little Mae West that charmed, and they knew it was those old fashioned curves. Well they took the cue and overnight curves for women were in fashion again for millions of women.

They dropped off their starvation diets and ate three square meals a day. Rosy cheeks that did not come from the drug store appeared. Normal natural health is the rule again. And all because that naughty, saucy little Mae West had the nerve to "be her own wave length" and demonstrated to the girls what the boys really do like in their women.

Altman

By
MRS. J. H. McANALLY

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sellers of Lanham visited Mr. and Mrs. Dee Graves Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Young and two children, Durward and Peggy Sue, and Fay Young of Stamford visited Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Young from Thursday until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hinson and daughter Wayne and Mrs. Will Wright were Stephenville visitors Saturday.

S. T. Wilhite of Desdemona was in the J. M. McAnally home last Thursday night.

Mr. C. F. Young, Spurgeon and Willard Young, visited R. V. Young and family at Hamilton Friday.

Lucille Duzan of Carlton spent Wednesday night with Elmer Wilhite.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Adams of Hico visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gibson Sunday.

Imogene Lowery and Betty Jo Pine of Palm Rose visited Glyma McAnally awhile Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wright and children of Palm Rose community visited Mr. and Mrs. Will Wright Sunday.

TODAY and TOMORROW

FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

MINISTERS ... their job

I was asked to address a luncheon club composed entirely of ministers not long ago. They wanted me to talk about the world's economic troubles and how to cure them. I told them that I knew of no wholesale method of salvation, either in the spiritual world or the economic world. I am an individualist, and believe that the world gets no better than the men and women in it. I know of no way of legislating honesty and morality into the human race.

I suggested to the ministers that the trouble with the world was that we had been worshipping the Golden Calf so long that we had forgotten the Golden Rule, and that it might be more to the purpose if, instead of interesting themselves in social reforms in the mass, they concentrated their attention upon the effort to persuade individuals, one by one, to live honorably, upright and moral lives. If everybody did that there would be no need for most of our laws.

CHILDREN ... place to begin

The way to make the world better is to begin with the children. By the time a child is ten or twelve its character, so far as its social relations are concerned, is pretty well formed. Either it has been so spoiled that it never will be any good or it has learned that there are certain lines of conduct which the world at large won't tolerate, and shapes its actions accordingly.

In an ideal social organization every child would be taught from infancy that it has no rights that are superior to the rights of every body else. That is what liberty and equality simmer down to. If everybody realized and acted upon that principle, nobody would infringe on any of the rights of anybody else and we wouldn't need any government at all.

TEACHING ... a new system

Hiram College is trying out a new system of teaching, which sounds to me so rational that I wonder it has never been adopted before. Instead of skipping from one subject to another, students are given intensive study in a single subject for a long period, then another and so on.

It seems to me that a thorough mastery of one subject can be got in this way better than by a series of scattered hours, interrupted by the need to prepare for work in other courses. And I don't see why it wouldn't work in schools far below college grade.

I welcome every new educational experiment, because I believe none of the systems evolved so far is as good as it ought to be or could be.

FACTS ... and facts

Nothing is harder to get hold of in this world than facts. I heard a man say the other day, in a public address, that there are twenty million men out of employment in this country. A few hours later I heard another speaker declare that all the farmers in the United States were starving. I knew neither of those statements was true, but I don't know where or how to get at the facts as to the number of unemployed or to the number of distressed farmers. My main reaction to such exaggerated statements is that probably every body is lying about them.

Nothing is more misleading than bare facts, either. A fact is not enough unless one knows all the other facts that go with it.

Most of us know too many facts that aren't so. By that I mean that we don't understand the relation of the facts we know to other facts that we don't know. I have long since stopped trying to draw conclusions from single facts. The conclusions usually turn out wrong, because someone comes along with a fact I didn't know.

MONSTERS ... find new one

Proof that there are strange beasts in the sea was furnished a couple of weeks ago when a sea-monster unlike anything known to science was cast up on the shore of France. It had a head like a camel on a neck four feet long, and its 20-foot body, five feet thick, had scanty stiff hairs like those of an elephant.

From many parts of the world have come reports recently of other sea-monsters, variously described by all bearing resemblance to the traditional sea-serpent. Since there has been so much genuine evidence of their existence, folk who have seen them are not so hesitant about telling what they have seen; they are not so likely to be laughed at.

Some scientists have put forward the suggestion that some volcanic upheaval in the ocean depths has driven these monsters from their secret haunts and that they are looking for new homes. Others believe they have always been around in the vicinities where they are now, but that nobody would take a sailor's or a fisherman's word for them.

Anyway, it's interesting to speculate about things that nobody knows anything about.

NOTICE OF ELECTION TO BE HELD ON THE 3RD DAY OF APRIL, 1934.

By virtue of authority vested in me, I, Lawrence N. Lane, Mayor of the City of Hico, Texas, hereby order an election to be held in said City of Hico on the first Tuesday in April, 1934, and which election so ordered is for the purpose of electing for said City the following officers, to-wit: A Mayor to succeed Lawrence N. Lane, also an Alderman to succeed J. W. Richbourg, also an Alderman to succeed John H. Elington, and also an Alderman to succeed John D. Higgins.

That said election shall be held on said date in said City at the following designated place, to-wit: The City Hall in the City of Hico, Texas. T. A. Randals is hereby appointed presiding officer to hold said election.

In evidence of said order I hereto on the 5th day of March, A. D. 1934, at Hico, Texas, sign my name officially.

LAWRENCE N. LANE, Mayor of the City of Hico, Texas. Correct—Attest:

J. R. McMillan, City Secretary (SEAL) 41-46

VERY LATEST

By Patricia Dow

A Simple Frock
8112—This model is cut with Princess lines and short overlapping vestee fronts. Low placed pleat fullness in the skirt portions lends added fullness. The sleeve is a fitted model, with dart seam at the back of the arm, which seam may be left open and finished to close with buttons and loops or with strap fasteners.
Sheer woolen in any of its attractive patterns, or wool crepe, taffeta or velvet is suggested for this stylish frock.

Stylish Ensemble
8117—Youthful sailor collars trim both blouse and jacket. Each has its own attractive sleeve. The skirt is a two-piece straight line model.
As pictured brown crepe was used for skirt and jacket with brown and orange plaid cotton for the blouse, cuffs and bow.

For PATTERN, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired), your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE to Patricia Dow, Hico News Review, Hico, Texas, Pattern Dept., 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The four robbers who robbed the First National Bank of Rotan of $830 in silver coins about 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, were trailed to Aspermont where all traces of them were lost. They were followed by City Marshall C. W. McCombs and Constable W. H. Huntsucker.

Records on 28 baby beavers on feed by 4-H club boys in Menard county show average daily gains of 2.4 pounds in 213 days—the best record in three years of feeding, the county agent says.

Cooperative hog and cattle selling in Goliad county branched out to include turkeys last fall. Ordinarily a low market for turkeys, Goliad became one of the best in South Texas last fall.

E. H. Persons
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
HICO, TEXAS

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, March 20.—Summing up the results of President Roosevelt's first year in office, his general feeling here is that it has been about an even break between the Administration and the Depression. If the Government hasn't succeeded in beating the Depression, neither has that Big Bad Wolf got the Administration licked. And that, these observers point out, is all to the good, because the underlying causes of the depression, at home and abroad, have pretty nearly ceased to function, while the Government still has plenty of weapons left in its arsenal. There are a lot more experiments that can be tried.

One of the most important of these, in the view of many, is that of giving the President power to alter the tariff schedules at will. This appeal not only to those who favor the tariff reduction but to those who believe that it is a sign that the Administration has come around definitely to the realization that the Depression is not a local affair but world-wide, and that it has its roots in international conditions.

Wallace, Clear Thinker

There has been a good deal of uneasiness over what seemed like moves toward a policy of narrow nationalism in the United States, just at a time when several of the other nations of the world were beginning to abandon their nationalistic policies. Some of the most vocal of the President's advisers have been outspoken in their advocacy of building a wall around the United States and proceeding to try to straighten our affairs out as if there were no other people in the world but us.

It is regarded here as a victory for the sane and well-considered analysis of our situation by Henry Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, whose reputation for having the clearest, most logical and best informed mind in the whole Administration group is growing. In his widely circulated article, "America Must Choose," Mr. Wallace pointed out that Nationalism, pursued to its logical conclusion, could lead only to either Fascism or Communism. He did not think America was ready for either. Internationalism, he agreed, has its dangers, as has any other policy.

If America were to continue in its international relations on the principle that other nations must buy our goods but we would not buy any of theirs then we would be having an plenty trouble for ourselves and destroying all the foreign markets, on which so much of our income from natural products, farm products and factory products depends.

Wallace's conclusion is that the Nation should follow a middle-of-the-road policy, neither wholly Nationalistic nor wholly Internationalistic. And that, his admirers say, is what Mr. Roosevelt has in mind in asking Congress for authority to elevate or reduce tariff schedules by Executive order without having to submit them to revision by Congress not wait upon the slow "studious" by the Tariff Board necessary under the existing law.

The Roosevelt Courage
Mr. Roosevelt's friends call this the greatest display of courage he has given yet. For there is no political topic which carries so much dynamite in itself as the tariff. More than one Administration has been wrecked on the tariff rocks. One promising candidate for the Presidency, General Winfield Scott Hancock, who ran on the Democratic ticket against General Garfield in 1880, probably would have been elected had he not incurred the hostility of Eastern manufacturers by his perfectly truthful but politically tactless statement that "the tariff is a local issue."

It is just because the tariff is a local issue that it is so dangerous. It can stir up more sectional animosity than anything else in politics. There is nothing for which the average Congressman will fight so bitterly as for tariff protection for the industries of his home district, for not only votes but campaign funds depend upon his record in that respect more than in any other particular.

There is a pretty general agreement among Republicans as well as Democrats that the tariff increases provided in the two tariff laws enacted by the Republicans in 1921 and 1930, ran the import duties on most of the list up to unworkable peaks, and by inciting other nations to set up defenses against American aggression in their markets, while shutting them off from our markets, had a great deal to do with prolonging the situation precipitated by the crisis of 1929.

Now Mr. Roosevelt has bravely brought the tariff right up to the front of politics again. By all the rules of logic and economics this complicated subject certainly ought to be administered by the Executive, either by the President single-handed or by a commission responsible directly to him, and under rules of his making, rather than responsible to Congress and its restrictions. But whether the present Congress will be able to resist the local pressure from the back home interests, who don't want an equitable tariff, nor reduced tariff rates, nor anything that might conceivably benefit all the people if it is going to hurt their own pocketbooks.

If Congress does grant this power to President Roosevelt it will have put into his hands the most useful of all weapons with which to carry on the fight against the Old Man Depression. And if it does not give him what he asks for it will be the first time it has denied him anything, and there, again, the majority of the members of both Houses are likely to face repercussions from back home—and there's a general election coming on next November!

WANT ADS

TO TRADE—28 acre farm 7 miles of Hico for more land and grass. Roy Derrick, Hico, Rt. 7 42-2p.

CUSTOM HATCHING $2.00 per tray 96 eggs; leading varieties of Chicks $7.00 per 100. Special 1,000 Ancona chicks 6.00 per 100—Lyle Golden. 43-1c

FOR RENT—3 or 4 well furnished rooms for light housekeeping. All modern conveniences. Phone 237. 42-tfc

FOR SALE—Qualla cotton seed, grown from pure seed last year. 75c per bushel.—H. O. Richardson, Route 2, Hico, Texas. 43-2tc

BABY CHICKS for sale every Tuesday. Set on Monday—Carlton Poultry Farm. 42-tfc

Qualla Cotton Seed, second year. 75c per bushel.—N. A. Lambert, Route 2, Hico, Texas. 42-4p.

BELL CITY INCUBATOR, 240 egg size. In good condition.—N. A. Lambert, Hico Route 2. 42-3p.

FOR SALE—Large size refrigerator equipped with Frigidaire unit. Would make ideal box for grocery or commercial use, or could be used in home. May be seen in operation. Inquire of S. J. Cheek, H. E. McCullough or at News Review office. Will sacrifice for cash. 41-tfc

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

The News Review is authorized to announce the following candidates for office subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in July, 1934:

Hamilton County

For Representative, 94th Dist.: EARL HUDDLESTON (Second Term)
DR. A. G. LIVINGSTON

For District Judge, 52nd Judicial District of Texas: R. B. CROSS
TOM L. ROBINSON

For District Attorney, 52nd Judicial District of Texas: HARRY FLENTGE

For District Clerk: L. A. MORRIS (Re-Election)

For County Judge: J. C. BARROW (Re-Election)

For County Treasurer: DOLL ADAMS (Re-Election)

For Sheriff: HOUSTON WHITE
MACK MORGAN (Re-Election)
O. F. (BILL) JONES

For County Clerk: J. T. DEMPSTER (Re-Election)

For Tax Assessor-Collector: R. J. RILEY

For County Superintendent: EARL S. HUFFMAN
WINNIE HAMPTON
BERT C. PATTERSON

For Commissioner, Precinct 3: A. C. STANFORD
S. A. CLARK (Re-Election)

For Justice of the Peace, Prec. 3: J. C. RODGERS

Erath County

For County Judge: G. H. (Wad) WILLIAMSON

For County Clerk: IRA P. FORSYTH

Easter Classics

— In —

WOMEN'S APPAREL

Designers do not always succeed in getting as many new style notes into their offerings as are presented in our Easter showing of Ready-to-Wear, Millinery, Shoes and Accessories of all kinds.

Join the Easter Parade

500 YARDS of PRINTS

Assorted Patterns
Fast Colors
SPECIAL
10c Yd.

STETSON

MITY-LITE

It's LIGHT but it's MIGHTY

$5

TO make a "crusher" hat of tissue-weight felt is a comparatively simple matter.

But to endow that hat with rugged strength and sturdy wearing qualities is a real test of hat making.

In the famous STETSON "Mity-Lite" you get amazing lightness without sacrifice of stamina.

Styled with an air of nonchalance.

Shirts, Ties, Socks, Belts and Men's Wearing Apparel of all kinds for Easter.

W. E. Petty

— Sell For Cash —
— Sell For Less —
Phone 259

FOLGER'S

Pure Cane Sugar Imperial 21 lbs. $1.00

|                  |            |     |
|------------------|------------|-----|
| POST TOASTIES    | large size | 12c |
| POST BRAN        | pkg.       | 10c |
| GRAPE NUT FLAKES | pkg.       | 10c |
| RIPPLED WHEAT    | pkg.       | 10c |
| CREAM O' WHEAT   | large pkg. | 24c |

Hudson Coffee 3 lbs. 55c

|                       |        |     |
|-----------------------|--------|-----|
| BRIGHT & EARLY COFFEE | lb.    | 24c |
| ADMIRATION COFFEE     | 3 lbs. | 93c |
| ALL GOLD COFFEE       | 3 lbs. | 89c |
| SANKA COFFEE          | lb.    | 50c |
| MOCHA and JAVA COFFEE | lb.    | 40c |

Flour 48 lbs. Lily Guaranteed $1.49

| MIRACLE WHIP |        |            |
|--------------|--------|------------|
| Pints        | Quarts | Pt. Relish |
| 19c          | 31c    | 19c        |

Bananas Dozen 15c

Market

|                                  |     |
|----------------------------------|-----|
| "7" Steak, lb.                   | 10c |
| T-Bone, Loin or Round Steak, lb. | 17c |
| Pork Ham or Chops, lb.           | 17c |
| Pure Pork Sausage, lb.           | 15c |
| Hamburger Meat, lb.              | 10c |
| Rib or Chuck Roasts, lb.         | 10c |

Our meats are STALL FED and scientifically refrigerated and under our own control from live animal to you, assuring you of absolute purity, juiciness and tenderness.

Hudsons Hokus Pokus

Free Delivery

Phone 140

BUILT ON VALUE

And Still Growing on Value

That is why we are daily adding satisfied customers to our list. When you trade with us you are assured the best.

J. E. BURLESON