REVIEW LAMESA PARADE—Local and visiting dignitaries review the long, colorful parade that opened Dawson county's annual fair and horse show Wednesday afternoon. The opening day of the four-day event attracted more than 5,000 visitors to see the fair and a pageant, "Boom Days." On the reviewing stand are, left to right, Ross Woodson, publisher and president of the fair association; Connally Baldwin, Chamber of Commerce president; Preston Smith, representative of the 119th district; Judge Lewis B. Reed, 106th district; Mayor Sam Richardson of Lamesa; State Senator Kilmer Corbin and Harley Sadler, widely-known showman and former state representative from Abilene. Sadler crowned the "Queen of the South Plains" during the pageant at the Lobo stadium Wednesday evening. (Staff Photo by Edward Welsh.)

Miss Culp, a blue-eyed blond, won over seven contestants who became members of her court. She received her crown during impressive ceremonies in the Lobo stadium Wednesday night. PARADE OPENS FOUR-DAY EVENT

5,000 Attend Annual Dawson County Fair

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche Staff Writer

LAMESA, Oct. 12 — More than 5,000 persons turned out for the first day of Dawson county's Fair and Horse Show which opened at 8 a.m. today.

The most optimistic estimates and expectations of the fair officials were realized both as to attendance and number of individual exhibits entered.

More than 400 exhibits were shown in the agricultural division and the community section had more than a score of well prepared displays. The third annual Horse Show attracted 80 entries.

Parade Opens Event

Although judging in the home economics, agricultural and horse shows started in the morning the official opening of the four-day event came with the 4 p. m. street parade. Stores and shops closed for the afternoon so that owners and employes could witness the parade.

Lamesa residents added to the color and spirit of the occasion by dressing in pioneer and western outfits. Men grew beards and women adorned themselves with poke bonnets and bustles. Manager Howard Maddox did not exaggerate when he said: "We worked hard to make this show better than those in cities much larger than Lamesa."

A pageant "Boom Days" was the feature attraction at 7:30 p.m. It is a show with a large local cast portraying the early days, both hardships and fun. It is being presented each night through Saturday.

"Queen" Is Crowned

The crowning of the "Queen of the South Plains" took place during the pageant Wednesday night. Harley Sadler, well-known showman and former representative from the Abilene district, crowned the queen in an impressive ceremony. The queen is attractive 17-year-old Joy Culp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bonnie Culp, Lamesa.

Military Pay Bill Is Signed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 — A pay raise for most of the nation's fighting men — ranging from about $5 a month for recruits to a little more than $300 for generals with 30 year's service — was signed into law today by President Truman.

Congress recently passed the bill, granting the bigger raises to higher officers because they have not had a general increase in 40 years.

The increases, effective Oct. 1, are expected to cost $300,000,000 a year.

All Services Affected

The same scales will apply to members of the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and other uniformed services.

At the lowest end of the military scale, a buck private's starting pay of $75 a month will remain unchanged, but the bill provides a $5 automatic increase for him at the end of five months' service.

In addition to raises for active personnel, those retired for disability will in many cases receive higher compensation.

The bill calls for gradual aboli-

Senate Okays Sliding Farm Price Support

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. — The Senate today passed a farm price support bill incorporating a sliding scale of price drops which President Truman is reported to oppose.

The measure which the Senate finally approved after lengthy debate also is sharply at odds with a rival bill passed months ago by the House.

The Senate bill, sponsored by Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, provides for supporting major crops next year at 90 per cent of parity but only if they are under production or marketing controls. After 1950, the support level could range down to 75 per cent at the discretion of the secretary of agriculture.

House Bill Differs

The House bill, on the other hand, calls for a continuation through 1950 of the 90 percent of parity supports which prevailed throughout the war.

The parity concept has been the basis of federal farm legislation for many years. Parity is a price calculated to give farmers a fair return for the things they raise, in terms of what they have to buy.

The Senate bill revises that formula to take account of the cost of hired hands. The result is to give slightly higher price levels for farm products that require a lot of hand labor—meat, milk, tobacco and so on—and somewhat lower levels for corn, wheat, cotton and other row crops.

The Senate passed its bill by a voice vote.

To Seek Compromise

The next step is for the Senate and House to try to iron out the differences in their bills. These are so basic, however, that no quick compromise was in sight.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the House Agriculture committee predicted that the House conferees will insist upon full 90 percent support of basic crops, with the possible exception of corn, where farmers agree to acreage allotments and marketing quotas.

Cooley said that if Sen. Anderson and Senate Democratic leader Lucas want lower supports on corn he is willing to let them write their own ticket on that crop.

There are six basic farm commodities, by previous congressional definition: Cotton, corn,

No Further Action Seen This Year On Canadian Dam Project

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. — Rep. Worley (D-Tex) said today there will be no further congressional action this year on legislation to authorize an $85,000,000 development of the Canadian river in Texas.

Just back from an inspection of European foot and mouth disease research centers, Worley also said there is "nothing" to recurrent rumors that he is planning to take a high appointive federal position.

Objection to any Senate hearing this year on the Canadian river project was raised by Senator Watkins (R-Utah), a member of the Senate Interior committee, which handles such legislation.

"I conferred with Senator Watkins and others immediately on getting back to the capitol today," Worley told reporters.

"Although it would have been all right with other senators to report the Canadian bill on to the floor for a final vote, accepting the date developed by the House, the Utah senator said he felt there should a regular hearing.

"The senator said he was not expressing opposition to our project as such, and may even support it."

Worley then pointed out that Watkins' lone objection could block passage of the legislation.

Bradley Says Soviets Only Foe In Sight

By HAROLD LISK
INS Staff Correspondent

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 12.—Gen. Omar Bradley said tonight the Russians "could be foolhardy enough to launch an atomic attack with only a handful" of bombs but warned them not to because of America's A-bomb stockpile.

In plain spoken words, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff said "Red atom day" arrived with Soviet acquisition of the bomb and termed the Russians as "the only possible enemy in sight for the next 20 years."

Plan Set In Motion

Bradley revealed that the Soviet A-bomb development set in motion a master U.S. military plan previously prepared by the joint chiefs and that the "Red atom day defense phase is already well underway."

The U.S. military leader made his remarks in a speech before the American Forestry association.

Warning Russia against setting off atom warfare, Bradley declared:

"Of all the people on this earth, they are students of force, and power in war, and should understand clearly the disastrous result of such a gruesome error."

The general expressed earnest hope that the Russians "will see the difficulty and tremendous expense of atomic manufacture, and shall come forward to join us in international control of such a weapon."

Counter-Attack Probable

Bradley disclosed no details of the "Red atom day" defense plan but indicated strongly that it involved immediate devastating atomic counter-attack, at the same time defending the U.S. with anti-aircraft guided missiles, radar and fighter interceptors.

Bradley foresaw, in the unlikely event that Russia outlawed the A-bomb but still made war, that the next war would open with land and air battles in Germany. He said:

"If this becomes the case, then the Army must be ready to repel a land assault, with sufficient tactical air power to gain and maintain local superiority over Red bombers and fighters."

Bradley stressed the continuing need for a powerful Navy which he said "in either situation must

Admirals Increase Pressure On Defense Chief's Policies

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Secretary of Defense Johnson's "cut the Navy" policy underwent a mounting barrage from famous-name admirals today and a key congressman accused Johnson of making "grand stand" economy plays.

The heat on Johnson increased terrifically as:

1. Admiral William F. "Bull" Halsey called for completion of the huge, $189,000,000 aircraft carrier United States, canceled by Johnson. The hero of the Pacific lambasted the Air Force's B-36 atom bomber before the House Armed Services committee. He said it was fit only for "siege" bombing operations against cities and industries—and he said a siege never yet won a war against an enemy with an army in the field.

A-Bomb Emphasis Hit

2. Ailing Admiral Ernest J. King, top man of the Navy in World War II, sent the committee a statement that "we have been over-emphasizing the atom bomb and the bomber that was planned to deliver it." He said that "any war plans—or peace plans—which deprive the Navy of its combatant strength will become the plans for our own defeat."

3. Admiral Richard L. Conolly, commander in the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, testified that if war should come he would need more naval strength than the entire Navy now has. His responsibilities are increasing but his tools are decreasing, he said.

4. Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier, protested a "maginot line mentality" which, he said, might be "fatal" to the country's efforts to prevent destruction of civilization.

Vinson Raps Spending Slash

Then Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), the chairman of the House committee, cut loose at Johnson. Noting that the defense secretary had ordered a $800,000,000 cut in Navy, Army and Air Force spending for 1950, Vinson said this was done without

Liquor Suspect Is Nabbed After Rap On Wrong Door

Just a hazard of the trade—

A 23-year-old man knocked at the door of an apartment at 1505 Main Wednesday night and asked if anybody there had "called for Jim."

The man who answered the door said he had, after a moment of confusion, and invited the caller into the apartment. There the visitor pulled a bottle of whisky from his coat.

Police, who booked the man later on suspicion of liquor law violation after they had found an additional 17 bottles of whisky and seven cases of beer in his car, said he may have asked a good question, but he picked the wrong door.

The host? City Patrolman Ira E. Scott, who accepted the bottle with one hand and produced his service revolver in the other.

"Jim?" Nobody knows who called him, and only "Jim" cares.

Another Light Frost May Hit Area Today

Another light frost may spot the South Plains again this morning, the forecaster said last night, but fair skies and slightly warmer temperatures are due this afternoon.

Light frost Wednesday morning, first of the season, came in low and wind-sheltered spots although the mercury was only 39 degrees at the Weather bureau station north of Lubbock.

D. W. Sherrill, Lubbock county farm agent, said the Wednesday frost was not severe enough to damage or benefit cotton here. Homer Thompson, Cochran county agent, reported slightly heavier frost patches in that area.

The forecaster warned the mercury may go to 35 on Friday morning, possibly bringing a more severe frost. Still on a cool note, the weatherman said a new cold front may reach the South Plains between 6 p. m. and midnight Friday. The front, without rain, entered northwestern Colorado late last night.

Man Found Guilty In Scurry Jail Slaying

SWEETWATER, Oct. 12. (AP) — Henry W. Strickland, 20, was found guilty of murder tonight in the death of a fellow jail prisoner. The jury assessed him a five-year prison sentence.

The jury returned its verdict at 10:30 p. m. after deliberating two hours.

Strickland is from Jackson, Miss. He was accused of beating Robert C. Sperry, 48-year-old oil worker, to death when both were prisoners in the Scurry county jail at Snyder last June 27.

Prosecuting attorney Eldon Mahon asked that Strickland be given a severe penalty but not death.

The trial began yesterday. The defense rested today without putting Strickland on the stand.

Eastern Germany Regime Flayed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today branded the newly-created East German state an undemocratic puppet of Soviet masters." He then gave a fresh pledge of full U. S. support for the Bonn government of western Germany.

As for reports that Russia may now proclaim peace with Germany and withdraw Red army troops, Acheson said such "high-sounding talk" is mere propaganda as long as a "large militarized Communist police force" carries out Soviet policies in East Germany.

U. S. Not Deceived

"The United States government and the governments associated with it," Acheson said in a formal statement, "will not in any way be deceived or diverted from their course of action by the events which have taken place at Berlin, and will continue to give full support to the government of the German federal republic at Bonn in its efforts to restore a truly free and democratic Germany."

Acheson gave this empatic statement of the West's attitude toward the Berlin regime at his first news conference in nearly a month.

At a news conference, Acheson also rejected outright a recent protest by the Communist-run governments of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Romania against establishment of the Bonn regime. He said the protests were made "in the interest of a foreign power"

Shortage Of Steel Ties Threat To South Plains Cotton Crop

By TOM DAVIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

A tremendous threat to the marketing of the South Plains and Texas cotton crop came to light Wednesday night with the revelation that the supply of steel ties bands for bales already is in the critical stage, with the worst yet to come.

Managers of two companies in Lubbock supplying the steel bands readily confirmed a report from Sen. Tom Connally in Washington that the steel strike is endangering the marketing of the Texas cotton crop.

Supply Is Critical

"The tie band supply is extremely critical here at this time," said E. A. Patterson, owner of the company with his name, "but it isn't as critical as it will be in a week or 10 days unless there is some relief."

Another manager of a company handling the tie bands asked that his name not be used, but said:

"We certainly have a shortage. There is no secret about it."

He estimated that his company would be able to meet needs for five days, possibly longer, with present stocks.

"We are making a Herculean effort to get ties in from every possible source, and we may be able to keep customers supplied until the strike is settled. But if the steel strike isn't settled, eventually we will run out."

Patterson said that he, along with other tie dealers, would wire

Olds Confirmation Refused By Senate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (Thursday) (AP) — The Senate early today swept aside the wishes of President Truman and refused to confirm Leland Olds for a third term as a member of the Federal Power commission. The vote was 53 to 15.

After a night of heated wrangling, the Senate rejected the nomination for which Mr. Truman had fought with a personal appeal and the power of the Democratic National committee.

The showdown on Olds came shortly after midnight (EST). It climaxed a debate in which Olds, first appointed to the commission in 1939 by the late President Roosevelt, was sharply assailed and vigorously defended.

URANIUM STRIKE CLAIMED

KELOWNA, B. C., Oct. 12 (INS) —A fabulous new source of uranium was claimed tonight by the Yellowknife Volcanic Gold Mines company of Kelowna. The company claimed that the new strike, in the Yellowknife district of Northwest Territory, is richer than the storied El Dorado mine on Great Bear lake.

COMMISSION TO STUDY REPORT

Showdown Is Seen Today On City Limits Expansion Plan

A showdown on the Lubbock city limits extension program is expected at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission in the city hall at 1:30 p.m. today.

City commissioners are scheduled to receive the report and recommendations of a special chamber of commerce committee which has been studying extension proposals under the chairmanship of J. Ray Dickey. Homer D. Grant, chamber president, will submit the report.

If the extensions are to be made in time to give the city of Lubbock credit for the populations in developed and developing suburbs when the federal census is taken next year, the annexations must be completed by next Dec. 31.

Compliance with the legal technicalities involved in an annexation takes about two months when no snags are encountered. Only a little more than two and one-half months remain of this year.

Would Add 15,000 People

This means, chamber officials pointed out, that if the program is to be carried out in time to give the city census credit for its suburban inhabitants, action will have to be started at once.

They estimate that extensions will make a difference of close to 15,000 people in the official popu-

Officers Search Panhandle, New Mexico For Suspect

AMARILLO, Oct. 12 (AP) — Officers searched the Texas Panhandle and New Mexico tonight for a man they believed lured a friend on a World Series trip and killed him, leaving the body in an Illinois ditch, it was announced just before midnight.

Alfred Earl Clark, 23, of Boise City, Okla., was found dead today in a shallow ditch alongside a country road near Jerseyville, Ill.

Planes Aid Search For Seminole Girl

SEMINOLE, Oct. 12. (Special) —Addition of eight Air Force planes in a search of the rugged brush country surrounding Seminole today failed to uncover any trace of 12-year-old Mary Donna Nelson, missing from her home here since Monday.

The planes, B-25s supplied by the Lubbock Air Force base at the request of Gaines county Deputy Sheriff Sid Johnson, joined the search shortly after 3 p.m. today, returning to Lubbock at sundown. The military craft, supporting ground parties, conducted a systematic search of the 40-mile area centering on Seminole.

Focal point of the hunt for the missing girl shifted back to Seminole from El Paso and San Angelo after a check of reports that she had been seen near those cities failed to produce any sign of her.

The girl, who was last seen by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Guy Nelson, when she went to bed at 10:30 p. m. Monday was at first believed to be headed for California to visit her grandmother. Police have said they could find no reason for her to leave home.

Military officials at Lubbock, meanwhile, said plans concerning use of Air Force planes in the search again Thursday were still indefinite.

FLIERS ESCAPE INJURY

GUAM, Oct. 12. (AP) — Eight crewmen escaped injury today in a B-29's emergency crash landing north of the Guam Air Force base. The plane, piloted by Lt. George B. Herchenhahn of Abilene, Tex., was badly damaged.

Miners Refuse To Renew Contract

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12. (AP) — The striking United Mine Workers refused an offer today to renew their contract two years.

Government prodding brought the operators and union together.

President John L. Lewis did not attend. He's expected at resumption of the talks tomorrow in White Sulphur Springs and Charleston, W. Va.

Continuance of the coal talks was the only hopeful sign in America's darkening economic picture.

There's no hint of peace in the steel strike.

Murray Makes Appeal

Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, made a nationwide radio broadcast—appealing to the public to back his demands for free pensions and insurance.

The offer to renew John L. Lewis' contract for two more years came from northern and western soft coal operators.

Frank Amos of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal company, said renewal of the old agreement until April, 1951, was the operators' "best and final offer."

Amos added the operators want "unrestricted use of our facilities."

That simply means the operators insist Lewis discard the contract clause saying miners work only when willing and able.

The UMW hasn't specified its exact demands. But Lewis has let it be known he wants an increase

Texas Couples Boost Marriage License Output In New Mexico

CLOVIS, N. M., Oct. 12. (AP)—Texans bent on marriage are edging across the border to get their licenses here.

Last Wednesday a new law went into effect in Texas, requiring blood tests before getting a marriage license.

Twenty licenses were issued here from Saturday morning to Monday afternoon. At least one person of each couple was from Texas.

There was also an increase in marriage minded Texans in other New Mexico border cities.

Carlsbad reported two over the weekend compared with none the week before. There were seven licenses issued to Texans in Lovington since the new law went into effect, compared with two the previous weekend.

CAPACITY CROWD FOR GAME SEEN

Plans Are Completed For Annual Texas Tech Homecoming Event

TEXAS Tech officials Wednesday announced plans complete to handle a capacity crowd for Homecoming activities at the college and in the city this weekend.

Highlight of the annual celebration, to which thousands of Texas Tech ex-students and graduates will return from states throughout the nation, will be the Texas Tech-Baylor University football game at 2:30 Saturday afternoon in Jones Stadium.

All reserved seats for the game have been sold, Tech officials said Wednesday afternoon. But more than 2,000 general admission tickets will go on sale Saturday morning for Tech alumni returning for Homecoming festivities. Tickets remaining will be thrown open to the general public at 10 a.m. An overflow crowd of more than 18,000 persons is expected to jam Jones Stadium for the afternoon tussle, Morley Jennings, athletic director, said.

Meanwhile, D. M. McElroy, executive secretary of the Tech Ex-Students association, reported plans are complete for an informal reunion Friday night in the college recreation hall for alumni arriving early for the annual festivities.

PROJECT FACED CANCELLATION

B-36 Survived Painful Growth Prior To Air Force Acceptance

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The B-36 has become the storm center of the raging inter-service feud over relative merits of weapons. Why was this world's biggest bomber ordered? What is its history? The following article tells.)

By LEON SHLOSS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. —The B-36, America's "Sunday punch" bomber, survived a painful birth and a torturous growth. Several times, the project faced cancellation because of the plane's low speed and great weight.

First, its 140-ton weight threatened to end its career because only a handful of American airfields could bring it in without the runway crumbling and wrecking the plane.

Landing Gear Changed

This problem was solved by installation of a specially-designed landing gear which spread the huge load over a greater area, thereby reducing the strain.

The speed problem was more critical. As late as January, 1949, abandonment of the B-36 was imminent, because its top speed of 375 miles an hour still would have left it a "sitting duck" for enemy gunners. Installation of jet-propelled engines had failed. At the last minute it was found that four jet engines, in Paris, could be hung beneath the wingtips in "pods" to up the speed to 435 miles an hour without increasing the drag appreciably, or lessening the aerodynamic efficiency of the plane.

Plane Contracts Cancelled

At the same time, the Air Force was faced with cutting back from 58 to 48 groups. After high-level meetings it was decided that the best defense was a strong offense. More than $300 million worth of contracts for fighters and medium bombers were cancelled so the money could be used to buy additional B-36s.

Defense Secretary Johnson signed orders for more B-36s a few days after taking office. Johnson had just resigned as a director of Consolidated-Vultee. The decision to buy the planes was made by Air Force generals long before Johnson took office.

On April 11, 1941, with Hitler rampaging, and the U. S. a possible "next" if Britain fell, the Air Force called for a long-range bomber capable of carrying the war to the enemy from bases on this continent.

Experimental Models Ordered

Douglas, Northrop and Consolidated-Vultee responded. On Oct. 3, the B-36 was chosen. Two experimental models were ordered by Gen. H. H. "Hap" Arnold, then Air Force chief.

A year later, Convair suggested that to save as much as two years the Air Force take the unprecedented step of ordering 100 B-36s before even the first experimental model was completed.

But the U. S. was in trouble in the Pacific and priorities for men and materials had to go to more urgent needs.

By the summer of '43, the impending collapse of China illumined the need for a weapon capable of striking directly at the Japanese homeland. So Secretary of War Stimson placed the unusual order for 100 B-36s.

Fort Worth Plant Used

Then trouble set in. Difficulties were encountered in engineering such a mammoth plane. Production had to be transferred from the inadequate plant at San Diego to the new, government-built factory at Fort Worth. Extensive wind tunnel testing was necessary but the tunnels were tied up by higher-priority projects.

By November, 1944, the Pacific situation had eased considerably. The B-29s began raiding Japan from Saipan. Again the B-36 was in competition for scarce resources with more urgent programs.

By summer of 1945, the end of the war was in sight and weapons procurement was being cut back. However, the need for a bomber capable of striking overseas from bases on this continent had been intensified by the advent of atomic warfare. So, nearly a year before the first B-36 was delivered, the U. S. began planning for four B-36 groups to constitute an "effective, mobile task force for our postwar Air Force."

'Bugs' Threaten Plane

The B-36 first flew on Aug. 8, 1946. The first production model was delivered Aug. 30, 1947. Throughout this period "bugs" made its performance discouraging, leading Gen. George Kenney, head of the Strategic Air command, to recommend its abandonment as a prime striking weapon. Gen. Carl Spaatz, who had succeeded Arnold, overruled Kenney, who later reversed his opinion of the plane.

The test flight results became more encouraging. Altitudes above 40,000 feet were reached. In April, 1948, a B-36 flew 6,922 miles with full five-ton bomb load, even though two engines misfired throughout. A month later, an 8,000-mile hop was accomplished. There were still only two B-36s but after exhaustive comparative studies, the full B-36 program was continued.

The satisfactory long-range flights left only the speed problem, solved by the jet pods.

Pipe Line Firm Plans Open House Sunday At Monroe Station

Open house will be held at the Stanolind Pipe Line company pump station two miles west of Monroe Sunday, beginning at 2:30 p.m., in observation of Oil Progress Week.

The Stanolind company, one of the largest pipeline systems in the world, joins with 34,000 independent oil companies in sponsoring Oil Progress Week. Open house is being held throughout the system, C. E. Wilson, area superintendent of the Stanolind company, said.

The public is being invited to visit the station in an effort to give laymen an opportunity to learn something of how the pipe line business is operated, Clarence Simes, division engineer of the company, said.

Industry Launched In 1859

The oil pipe line industry had its beginning six years after the discovery of oil in Titusville, Penn., in 1859. That first two-inch line delivered 1,900 barrels of oil daily; today about 5,500,000 barrels of crude oil are delivered daily to refineries through the 153,000 miles of pipe lines.

Visitors to the Monroe station will see the equipment used by the Stanolind company in delivering some half million barrels of oil daily to refineries. The company, operating as a common carrier, transports oil from 23,000 wells to the refineries at an average rate of about four miles per hour.

Engineers of the Lubbock office of the company will explain the use of the equipment on display Sunday and answer questions of visitors concerning the pipe line industry, which carries more than ten per cent of all the nation's domestic traffic.

Monday junior and senior students in petroleum engineering at Texas Tech will be shown the plant, along with any other senior engineering students who wish to see the plant. Students will be given a more detailed explanation of the operation of equipment at the station, Simes said.

VFW Officials To Discuss Plans For Service Men's Center Here

Representatives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 2466, headed by Ed Sides, will meet at 10 a. m. today with a committee of officers from Lubbock Air Force base to inspect sites and discuss plans for a service men's center in downtown Lubbock, the public information office at the base reported Wednesday.

V.F.W. members have felt the need for a social club for the men at the base and have offered their aid in securing one, the office explained.

Col. George H. Blase, LAFB deputy commander, Lt. Col. Andre R. Brousseau, Capt. Noah H. Wynkoop, special service officer, and Major John P. Wood will compose the military committee.

One of the sites to be examined at the meeting today will be the former Hector's building at 2008 Broadway.

Any other civic organizations interested in giving aid in the project are asked to contact William Earl Creel, commander of the V.F.W. post, at 7200.

Trophies Are Won By Tech Dairy Team

A large silver milk can, fashioned by a jeweler, and four smaller trophies attracted interest Wednesday in the department of dairy manufactures at Texas Technological college, following return of the victorious dairy products judging team Tuesday night.

Texas Tech is the first college to win the silver milk can, awarded by the dairy industry of Texas to the high team in judging of all products at the Southwest intercollegiate dairy products judging contest held Monday at the State Fair of Texas.

The can will be passed to the first-place winner each year. The other trophies, won by Texas Tech's team for placing high in judging of each of the products, will be retained by Texas Tech.

The milk can, which is silver plated copper, is expected to create interest in the annual contest, perhaps eventually holding a place in the dairy industry such as the little brown jug and the old oaken bucket hold in the football world.

Members of the winning Tech team were Clarence Darter, jr., of Childress, Terry Smith of Roby, Royce Jackson of Quanah and Harold Sawyer of Evant. They were accompanied by Dr. J. J. Willingham, head professor of dairy manufactures.

The same team will compete Oct. 19 in the national dairy products judging contest in Los Angeles.

'Kiss-And Threat' Extortion Ring Ended By Grand Jury Indictments

By OWEN CALLIN
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12. Secret indictments by the Los Angeles county grand jury spelled "finis" today to the "kiss-and-threat" activities of a sex extortion ring which had shaken down prominent persons for thousands of dollars.

As the result of the indictments a Hollywood playgirl was under arrest in New York City and a second was being hunted to face charges of extortion and conspiracy.

Young Woman Arrested

Toni Hughes, 29, was arrested in a Manhattan night club yesterday and her friend, Helen Keller, 26-year-old blonde entertainer, was sought in Hollywood.

The indictments against the two women followed startling revelations to the grand jury that they assertedly had been members of a blackmail ring which preyed on men in the movie colony.

Principal witness at the secret grand jury proceedings was Ben M. Kleckner, 51, president of the University of Hollywood, who told jurors that he had been the target of extortion practices for years to the tune of around $3000.

Cameras, Recordings Used

Kleckner told the district attorney's office that the girls had used cameras and wire recordings to keep records of their "affairs" with clients.

Miss Hughes was arrested in New York on a fugitive warrant after a telephone call from Los Angeles police. She will be returned for trial.

A shapley brunette with a reddish tinge to her hair, she was wearing a modest dark blue suit and no hat when police picked her up in the New York night spot.

Previous Probation Noted

In 1946 the good-looking Toni, who gives her occupation as a buyer was placed on two year's probation in federal court after a marijuana conviction.

Miss Hughes and Miss Keller are not strangers to police. In 1944 they rented a seven-bedroom mansion in the exclusive Coldwater canyon area near Beverly Hills where many movie stars have their homes.

There they aroused the ire of their neighbors, among them Ginger Rogers and Dorothy Lamour, who joined in a fight to have the girls ousted. The neighbors charged that the sounds of dusk-to-dawn revelry kept them from resting.

Probe Reveals Ring

The existence of the extortion ring came to light during District Attorney William E. Simpson's investigation into how the now famous Mickey Cohen microphone recordings received underworld distribution.

It was during the questioning of Paul Behrmann, former Hollywood talent agent, about the source of the Cohen listening-post leak that the revelation concerning the blackmail ring was made.

Although Behrmann named Mickey Cohen as the head of the alleged extortion ring and two other girls—a starlet and a dancer—as members of the "kiss-and-threat" gang, no action was taken against them by the grand jury.

All have vigorously denied that they were a part of the extortion ring.

Morton Grid Fans Plan Special Train Despite Obstacles

MORTON, Oct. 12 (Special)—Fans of the Morton football eleven follow their team with little regard for existing conditions. Friday a group will go by special train to Slaton to see the Slaton-Morton game, despite the fact that Morton has no railroad.

The trip, which is sponsored by the Morton Quarterback club, will be made possible by fans driving 13 miles to nearby Whiteface where a special train will await the group.

An estimated 350 grid fans are expected to make the trip, about 40 of whom will be making their first train ride.

"Some local people have suggested placing bars over the windows of the train to prevent these first-timers from jumping at the sound of a whistle," David Todd, secretary of the Quarterback club said.

Fans will board the special train at 5:15 p.m. Friday and will arrive in Slaton about 7:30 p.m., returning home soon after the game.

The high school band and pep squad, members of the sponsoring Quarterback club, and many business men will be in the group.

"Practically everybody in Morton is going," Mrs. Ann England of The Morton Tribune said Wednesday. Stores are scheduled to close early to allow owners and employes to go to the game, which will be history making for Morton.

Note Set Afloat In Pacific Two Years Ago To Cost Texas Man $5

AUSTIN, Oct. 12. (AP)—A bottle set afloat in the Pacific ocean nearly two years ago is going to cost a University of Texas student $5.

The student, Berle E. Bridges of La Porte, said today he brought it all on himself.

As Army Air Force Lt. Bridges, he tossed the bottle into the water from the U. S. Army transport General Hodges en route to Guam on Jan. 14, 1948.

Inside a note promised $5 to the finder for putting his name on the back of the note and mailing it to box 1013, La Porte.

Today Bridges had his note back. On the reverse side was the name Mr. Masharu Yamashita, 10666 Ei Village, Ibusuki, Kagoshima Province, Japan.

Yamashita also enclosed a hand-drawn map of the island showing exact spot where the bottle was found on Aug. 19, 1949.

Bridges said he'll send an international post office money order for the promised $5.

Diabetes Detection Campaign Continues In County; City Laboratory Makes Free Tests

Lubbock county's observance of a nationwide diabetes detection campaign showed significant signs of progress Wednesday.

The city Laboratory, which is making free tests of urine specimens to determine whether there is sugar present, said it made 171 tests Tuesday and was "running out approximately 150 more" Wednesday afternoon.

'Significant Amount' Disclosed

Tuesday's tests disclosed that four students had a "signnficant amount of sugar" in their urine, sufficient for referral of information to their private physicians for interpretation.

The students are enrolled in the rural schools, which earlier had announced their participation in the drive in response to invitations of Gerald Jarvis, director of the City-County Department of Public health.

"We are finding numerous 'traces' of sugar in the tests, as well," Jarvis said.

Greater Response Noted

"More response is being noted from persons not in the schools."

Jarvis expressed belief that the drive would "hit high speed before the end of the week, spurred by interest taken by students."

Collection of urine specimens in the rural schools will be continued.

In the meantime, R. W. Matthews, superintendent of Lubbock public schools, said "city schools will encourage the diabetes detection drive through the home."

Schools Push Drive

He said that announcements of the drive would be made to the students of all schools through their physical education classes.

There are more than 10,000 students in the system, approximately 2,500 students in the rural schools.

It was emphasized that not everybody who has glycosuria (urine sugar) is diabetic, but all diabetics have glycosuria. Diagnosis, under the program of the American Diatetic Association, Inc., which is sponsoring the detection drive through assistance of medical societies and public and voluntary health agencies throughout the country, remains the exclusive prerogative of the physician.

Actual and potential diabetics are estimated to total approximately 3 per cent of the population.

"Of every 140 persons met on the street," according to Dr. Howard F. Root of Boston, president of the American Diabetes association and chairman of the diabetes detection drive, one has diabetes and is under treatment, another has the disease and doesn't know it, and two others will contract it before they die.

"Incidence of the disease is higher among women than among men and, beyond age 40, is almost two to one."

Some of the early, easily recognized symptoms are excessive thirst and excessive urination.

Cases discovered before they become serious may be treated, after insulin establishes a normal blood-sugar balance, with diet alone.

Untreated or improperly treated diabetes results in calcification of the vascular system—the arteries, veins and capillaries — causing complications involving the feet, eyes, kidneys, heart, etc.

Tests Are Urge

All one has to do to get a test is collect a specimen of urine one to two hours after a meal and take it in a container to the city laboratory, on the first floor of the city hall. Or he may stop at the laboratory or the John Halsey Drug store, at 1118 Broadway, where containers will be supplied for collection of specimens.

Anyone who fails to take advantage for himself and his family of an offer that could save much misery and suffering," as one internationally - known , authority said in a recent article.

"Every member of every family should take such a test at least once a year."

MAGIC FRUIT CAKE

THE request in this column for fruit cakes made with sweetened condensed milk and for taffy apples brought an overwhelming response, as is always true when we go to our readers. Our grateful thanks.

Since there are no recipes exactly alike, we plan to run all of them and one may take her choice. First, however, we'd like to print the recipe for taffy apples, as sent by Mrs. S. J. Dobbs.

Two cups of granulated sugar, three-fourths cup water, one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar. Boil together until syrup forms a hard ball in cold water. Remove from fire. Stick wooden skewers in small Jonathan apples and whirl in syrup until apple is completely covered. Remove quickly and place on buttered platter to cool.

Note: The syrup also may be used for making popcorn balls. A few salted peanuts add a certain something to popcorn balls.

HERE is Mrs. Dobbs' recipe for Uncooked Fruitcake: One pound each: crystallized cherries, pineapple, citron, raisins and mixed nuts. Two pounds finely rolled graham crackers, two cans sweetened condensed milk, generous pinch of salt, six heaping tablespoons cocoa, one cup brown sugar, four level teaspoons cinnamon, two teaspoons each of ground clove, allspice and nutmeg, one-half cup whiskey.

Save a little fruit for decoration. Cut up rest and mix with all other ingredients. This is difficult to do with a spoon but worth the effort. If using an electric mixer, keep it at a very low speed. Line molds with waxed paper and put in fruit decorations. Pack cake firmly into molds and leave at least three days, tightly covered to mellow.

AS THIS column was being written, Mrs. Armstrong called in her recipe for taffy apples, which differs somewhat to the one used by Mrs. Dobbs. Here it is:

Two cups sugar, one-half cup light corn syrup, three-fourths cup water, red cake coloring, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, twelve red apples, twelve skewers.

Cook sugar, syrup and water until sugar is dissolved. Cook at 300 degrees without stirring until an amount when tested becomes brittle. Use a damp cloth to wipe off all sugar crystals that form around the edge of the pan. Add spice and red coloring. Hold each apple by skewer and plunge into hot syrup. Draw apple out quickly and twirl until syrup is spread over evenly. Place stick end over a cake rack which has been placed over a large bowl. Prepare the same day the apples are to be used or they will become sticky.

Here is another Magic Cake recipe: One small can sweetened condensed milk, one pound dates, one cup nuts, one box cocoanut, one teaspoon vanilla. Mix. Shape like a loaf and slice as you would date loaf.

More recipes Friday morning.

Texas Farmers Aided By Loans

DALLAS, Oct. 12 (U.P.)—Marvin Jones, ex-Texas congressman and now chief justice of the U. S. court of claims, said today that better care of the soil is one of the major benefits from the Farmers Home administration program of financing small-scale individual farms.

"When a man owns a small tract of land that he calls his home," Jones said, "he naturally wants to use it to the best advantage and preserve its fertility."

Jones was the principal speaker at the State Fair of Texas' Farmers Home administration achievement day.

Conservation Value Stressed

He noted that the nation's farm program for the past 20 years has been built around conservation of soil and water resources, and said:

"It is difficult to properly fashion a program when a majority of the people who are cultivating the soil are tenants and have only a transient interest in the conservation of the particular tract," and:

"This being true, the sense of trusteeship in the conservation and use of the soil is vital to the nation, and to every man, woman and child in the United States and to future generations."

Jones said the Farmers Home administration plan of financing individuals who want to own family-size farms has been successful and worthy.

Nation's Strength Increased

"It has been a great contribution to our nation's strength," he said, and recited the following figures on its application to Texas:

Some 5,400 Texas families have received loans.

Of these, 2,013 have paid their notes in full—"thirty years before they were due."

And only 14 farms covered by such loans have been repossessed, representing one-twentieth of one per cent of the borrowers.

"That is ample reward for having faith in one's fellow man," Jones said, "and, at the same time these families were improving their living conditions and becoming better citizens through farm ownership."

Automatic Shift Due For Ford, Mercury

DETROIT, Oct. 12. (AP)—Automatic transmissions will be available for Ford and Mercury model automobiles some time next summer.

The new device, developed jointly by Borg-Warner Corp. and the Ford Motor Co., is a three-speed and torque converter type. A company announcement said it will be priced at "probably not over $150."

Ford already has General Motors' hydra-matic transmission on its Lincoln models. Ford officials said there was no present plan of replacing the hydra-matic with the new transmission.

Harold T. Youngren, Ford Motor company engineering vice president, said development work on the new Mercury-Ford transmission has been under way for about four years.

The new transmission, he said, has fewer parts than other automatic transmissions now in use, is completely air-cooled without separate oil cooler and gives greater fuel economy than regular three-speed standard type transmission installations.

It also eliminates the need for a clutch pedal.

The device combines a three-speed gear box with a hydraulic torque converter. This is arranged so that the engine transmits power in all gear ranges.

The transmission selector, located on the steering column, has four positions to cover all driving conditions, plus a fifth position for engaging a parking brake. Neutral position is in the center of the selector panel. To the right is the driving range and low gear position; to the left reverse and parking position.

Shifting to low gear and reverse is done manually. All other driving is done in the driving range position and the shifting is accomplished automatically.

MAJOR LIBEL SUIT FILED

Dona Ana Sheriff Resigns Post; Escapes Civil, Criminal Actions

LAS CRUCES, Oct. 12. (INS)— Dona Ana county Sheriff A. L. "Happy" Apodaca today escaped civil and criminal actions to be brought against him by resigning his office.

Apodaca surrendered his badge to Chief Deputy Marcelo Hinojosa early today, and announced that he will run for the sheriff's post again in 1950.

The ex-sheriff also declared that he has directed his attorney, Harry Bigbee of Santa Fe, to file a million dollar libel suit against the Santa Fe New Mexican, capitol city newspaper.

George Reynolds, general manager of the New Mexican, said his paper had attempted to keep its readers informed on the activities of the Dona Ana county grand jury which indicted Apodaca. "I do not know which of the articles may have offended him" Reynolds added.

Apodaca resigned without explanation last night at a session of the Dona Ana county commission. At the same time District Attorney Tom Campbell revealed that all charges against Apodaca will be dropped.

Apodaca had been accused by the Dona Ana county grand jury of rape and contributing to the delinquency of a minor. A civil suit seeking his removal from office also was to be brought to trial next week in Tucumcari.

Orders dismissing the charges against Apodaca need only to be approved by presiding Judge C. Roy Anderson, Carlsbad, to become official.

Apodaca's attorney was quoted in Las Cruces as saying the charges against the sheriff were dismissed because completion of the trials was considered too great an expense by district court officials.

Apodaca said today he is thinking about going into the insurance business in Las Cruces.

Business Drop Reported After Two Mexican Airline Crashes

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12. (U.P.)— Airline officials said today that Mexico's air transport industry lost "many" passengers after 33 persons were killed in two recent passenger plane crashes.

The government stepped up its investigation of the aviation industry at large and the crashes in particular after the second crackup in two weeks killed eight persons.

An Aerovias Coahuila DC-3 crashed into the rough northern Musquin Sierra Monday and the five passengers and three crewmen aboard were killed. All were Mexicans.

On Sept. 26, 25 passengers and crewmembers were killed in the crash of a Mexican airline DC-3 transport on Popocatepetl volcano.

One airline executive said his company's business dropped off 25 per cent since the first crash and he expected a further drop because of the second.

Dave Sherrill, the club's rural-urban committee chairman, arranged the program, which included a barbecue lunch on the grounds. Dr. M. Norvel Young gave the invocatoin.

Guests included Mayor Art Chesher and M. L. Hall, both of Littlefield, Davis Pounds of Levelland, Floyd O. Boles of Midland, and Walker Watkins, Frank Benson, Sam Davis, and Al Roy Cooper, all of Ralls.

Bridges Loses Fight To Escape U. S. Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12. (INS) Harry Bridges lost his fight today to escape trial on a perjury indictment growing out of his denial of Communist party membership.

The Australian-born chieftain of the CIO Longshoremen was indicated for falsely swearing at a citizenship hearing in 1945 that he had never been a Communist.

Two union vice-presidents, Henry Schmidt and J. R. Robertson, were named in the same indictment for supporting testimony.

Federal Judge George B. Harris denied motions for dismissal presented by defense attorneys on the grounds the three-year statute of limitations had run out and that Bridges had already been tried on the same charge.

Judge Harris held Bridges had not been tried under wartime statutes invodved in the perjury indictment which extend the statute of limitations to five years in fraud cases.

The case is scheduled to come to trial Nov. 14th and the government has delayed trial of a civil action in which revocation of Bridges' citizenship is sought pending outcome of the criminal action.

Clark admitted he took part in "30 or 40 burglaries" of grocery stores and filling stations.

Clark's two companions, officers said, were still at large, reportedly headed for Tennessee. They were seen last in a red convertible Ford. Officers said they were "armed and dangerous."

Communism Follows Old Pattern In Completing Czech Subjugation

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Communism is moving in its familiar pattern to complete the subjugation of Czechoslovakia.

It was inevitable that, in a country where western democratic principles were more deeply imbedded than anywhere in eastern Europe, the purge should come.

Class Destruction Sought

Police terror, nationalization of small business and collectivization of individually-owned farms are called upon to do what five years of political organization had not done—wipe out the middle class.

The capitalist class was evicted in the first throes of revolution, with nationalization of large industry and confiscation of landholdings of more than 125 acres. Now it is the clergy, the small business man and the small holder who are to go.

Fear and bewilderment are increased by the imprisonment of hundreds of priests in devoutly Catholic areas. People who feel their faith deeply, turning to it to alleviate their other woes, are at loose ends with their churches closed.

Sometimes the wholesale arrests have a side purpose of obtaining forced labor. Or they may involve increased security and defense of the Communist sphere through elimination of dissidents.

Hungary, Poland and Romania have had their purges. Violence and actual killing on a small scale has exceeded anything that has happened so far in Czechoslovakia. But nowhere since Moscow's subjugation of the Baltic states has there been such a concentrated drive on a wholesale scale.

Vermont Paper To Continue Publishing Without Printers

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 12. (AP)—The Burlington Evening News plans to publish without printers who were discharged yesterday.

Publisher William Loeb said the entire staff of 20 printers was dismissed for refusal to handle material intended for use in engraved advertising.

Girls who had been trained in operating special keyboards attached to ordinary linotype machines replaced the printers, Loeb said.

Production was delayed about three hours yesterday. Loeb said the printers were paid up to date and given an additional check to cover accrued vacation and other benefits.

A spokesman for the discharged men who are members of Local 580, International Typographical union (IND), said there was "no walkout, the men were just fired." He declined use of his name.

"The ITU," he added, "has nothing to do with this issue."

Loeb's statement said that "refusal of the printers to handle the material was based on their contention that this more economical method of production would deprive them of work rightfully theirs."

"Management of the News," the startement added, "contended that, with printers' wages already averaging above $4,200 a year and new demands for about a 50 cents an hour increase already being made, the News must use every method known that would reduce costs."

Negotiations for pay increases were underway between management and union officials when the men were dismissed.

The ITU asked hikes of 30 cents an hour for day men and 21 cents for night men.

The present scale is $1.50 an hour days and $1.59 nights.

Austria's latest census shows 6,952,744 inhabitants, with 54 per cent women.

Ben Bogeaus Buys Pulitzer Prize Winner, 'Early Autumn,' For Wife Dolores Moran

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11. — Blonde, svelte Dolores Moran is, and always has been one of the best looking women in this town. Now she's back in pictures and going stronger than ever, with her husband, Ben Bogeaus, as her boss.

He has bought Louis Bromfield's Pulitzer prize winning play, "Early Autumn," to co-star his wife and Wayne Morris, who were teamed in "Johnny One Eye."

Their love scenes in this Damon Runyon story inspired Bogeaus to hurry and get the Bromfield play before the cameras in December, which will take some doing, believe me. Off the record I hear it is Ben's best movie to date.

Wanted American Role

John Sutton, who has battled for the chance to play an American role, now gets it in "Here Lies Love," the Betsy Drake and Robert Young suspense melodrama.

John, who talks with a British accent, and was born in India of English parents, is an American citizen.

He objects to being typed, so he has been working like made to get rid of his accent and has succeeded very well. This is the picture Betsy Drake accepted in preference to several others, and it's a Mort Briskin-Robert Smith independent.

New Talent Found

Sally Forrest, the unknown girl Ida Lupino discovered for "Not Wanted" moves into the big league opposite Richard Montelban in "Mystery Street" at MGM. She gets John Sturges as her director.

You have to hand it to Ida. Instead of talking about the need for new faces she went out and actually gave three unknowns a break in her movie. Since then, Keefe Frasselle has signed an MGM contract and has an important loan out to Paramount for "American Tragedy." Now Sally is on her way to big things.

Hollywood just has to face it—we need this new talent and fresh personalities to give the box office a jolt in the arm.

Mother Cares For Baby

It's a new wrinkle in hospitals to allow mothers, right from the outset, to take care of their offspring. At the Good Samaritan hospital they have what they call a unit for mothers and babies. Papa Marcus Goodrich tells me Livvie, who is in one of these units, personally bathed and cared for the baby during the past week.

Now she vows, Marcus says, to forsake her career and devote herself entirely to motherhood. But we can't have her doing that—Livvie's far too fine an actress!

Meanwhile, Cleatus and Bill Dozier are having dates seven nights a week.

New York pals say that Jackie Cooper was in Gotham for four hours enroute to Pittsburgh to fulfill a cafe date, and never so much as telephoned Hildy Parks. She's the girl he was supposed to marry after his break up with his wife.

Today Mindy Carson is testing at 20th with Bob Hutton. She looks like Ingrid Bergman and sings much better—but, of course!

Troubles Ironed Out

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Judy Garland in a bright red dress and hat, looking extremely smart, at La Rue with Vincente Minnelli. Nice that Judy and Vince have ironed out all their trouble and that Judy looks so well.

Lucky Humberstone with his bride, Gay Poling, also at La Rue, told me that he had known Gay only three weeks when he married her, but it was love at first sight.

Top South Plains Schoolboy Games Set This Weekend

Pampa, Lubbock In AA Spotlight

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche Sports Writer

There are some real plumbs in the South Plains schoolboy grid pie this weekend, with at least one crucial conference contest in every district except 4-B.

In 4-B, the circuit leaders face comparatively easy assignments. But in all other loops, top-flight action is on the docket.

A total of 24 games involving area teams are slated Friday night. Of these, 20 are conference affairs.

In Class AA, Pampa's invasion of Lubbock holds the spotlight. The Harvesters are expected to provide the toughest competition yet faced by Coach Pattison's smooth-running Lubbock machine.

Brownfield, still looking for its first 1949 victory, goes against Plainview, with Plainview solidly favored to win.

Lamesa Idle

Lamesa, one of the state's few undefeated, untied Class AA teams, is idle this week.

District 3-A offers triple-barreled action in the ranks of the frontrunners. Abernathy, currently leading the pack, puts its unblemished district record on the line at Crosbyton. An Abernathy triumph in this one definitely would put the Antelopes in the "driver's seat" in the district chase, while a Crosbyton win would throw the conference scramble into more confusion than you'll find in a Chinese fire drill.

Lockney and Spur, now tied with Crosbyton for second place in 3-A, tangle at Lockney. Paducah and Floydada, both still very much in the running, meet at Floydada. In the remaining conference tilt, last-place Matador is at Tulia.

Levelland, Sudan Meet

The top attraction in 4-A North will be the Levelland-at-Sudan tussle. Both are undefeated in district play, and have developed fast after slow starts this season.

Littlefield, generally regarded as the top favorite in 4-AN, plays at Muleshoe. The Littlefield powerhouse enters this one favored to win, but the Yellow Jackets will be fighting to retain their last chance at the district crown and an upset is a distinct possibility.

In non-conference games, it will be Morton at Slaton and Sundown at Dalhart.

District 4-A South action finds first-place Post playing at Tahoka and Seagraves playing host to O'Donnell. Post and Seagraves rule top-heavy favorites, as neither Tahoka nor O'Donnell have crashed the victory column this year.

Kermit, holding down top spot in 5-A, faces a real threat this week when it journeys to Andrews to meet an improving herd of Mustangs. Andrews currently is tied for second place, and could throw the district race into complete turmoil by spilling the strong Yellow Jackets.

Monahans Favored

Seminole, still scrapping for a share of the 5-A honors, is at Wink in another feature setto. Both teams have key backfield performers sidelined by injuries.

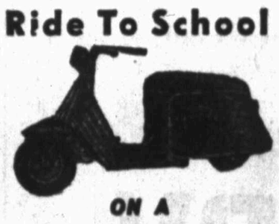

Denver City, still seeking its first conference win, isn't expected to get it when it plays host to Monahans, defending state Class A champion and one of the circuit's tougher teams.

The Olton-Dimmitt battle at Dimmitt is "it" in District 3-B. The Mustangs and Bobcats are tied atop the standings with four wins apiece in district play, and a capacity crowd is expected to see them fight it out for leadership of the circuit. Hale Center, also unbeaten in loop competition, plays at Amherst, Friona is at Springlake, Whitharral is at Anton, and Spade is at Farwell.

In 4-B, first-place Ropesville plays host to Plains. Powerful Meadow entertains Petersburg, Frenship is at Idalou and Cooper visits New Deal.

Navy is the only government school ever to play in a Bowl game—the Rose Bowl of 1924.

Four games Thursday night start the most important weekend of the year in Texas schoolboy football.

Eleven of the 20 districts of the City Conference and Class AA have Conference games.

Fourteen of the fifteen undefeated teams are in action and several appear due for drubbings.

Getz Gains Win Over Rod Fenton

Three action-packed wrestling matches were on the card at Sled Allen's arena last night, and a large crowd went away completely satisfied with the showing.

Appearing in the main even were Al Getz and Rod Fenton, and the two grapplers went three hard falls before Getz won the decision.

The first fall was won by Getz with a rolling leg scissors in 16 minutes of an exciting struggle. Fenton came back strong in the second canto to apply an arm lock and win after seven minutes, but Getz won the third fall and the match in six minutes with a slam and shoulder pin.

The semi-final match between Pat O'Dowdy and Herb Parks was the show-stealer of the night, but O'Dowdy could not cope with the Canadian who made his first appearance here since 1937.

Long a favorite of the unorthodox style of wrestling, O'Dowdy went down in two straight falls much to the applause of the crowd which has been against O'Dowdy for using rough tactics in winning.

Parks took the first fall in 20 minutes with a pile driver. Before O'Dowdy knew what was happening in the second set-to Parks finished the match in one minute with a back breaker.

The preliminary event went 14 minutes before Dory Detton downed Bill Brooks with a leg stretch. The two went at it with a will, exchanging a number of holds before Brooks was caught in the stretch.

Brooklyn's Louis Olmo Given Hero's Welcome In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 12. (AP) —Brooklyn outfielder Louis Rodriquez Olmo came home today to a hero's welcome.

He is the first Puerto Rican to play in a World Series baseball game.

San Juan government officials, who avidly followed the fortunes of "Dem Bums", proclaimed him an "honor citizen".

Frenship Boys, Girls Cage Teams Defeat Smyer Fives

WOLFFORTH, Oct. 12. (Spl.) — The Frenship girls and boys basketball teams defeated teams form Smyer here yesterday, the boys winning, 26-15, and the girls taking a 12-11 decision.

Wayne Ramsey and Earl Ray Swindler paced the Frenship basketeers with six points each, and Lane was high for Smyer with seven markers.

Rowena Dalton was the star of the girls game, scoring five points and looping in a long shot in the last 15 seconds to give Frenship the one-point victory. For smyer Russell scored six points.

Santa Clara and LSU were Sugar Bowl rivals in consecutive years—1937 and '38.

Ticket Campaign Launched For Henderson-Ortega Fight Card

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 2466 last night launched an all-out ticket sales campaign for Tuesday's Henderson-Ortega fight card at Chapman fieldhouse.

Tickets were distributed to more than 600 VFW members present at last night's regular meeting, so that an intensive sales campaign can be conducted this week.

Individual VFW members will sell the tickets. In addition, ducats will remain on sale at the Hilton hotel, Hub clothiers and City Club gym, all in Lubbock, and at Talley's Barber shop in Levelland.

To date, about one-third of the 2,200 available tickets have been sold, VFW officials reported. There are, however, ducats remaining in all price brackets—$3.50 ringside, $2.50 reserved and $1.50 general admission.

Mail orders are being accepted at City Club gym, 1313½ College avenue.

All profits from the fight show are to be divided equally between the local Goodfellows fund and Girlstown, U.S.A., located near Whiteface, Texas. The Lubbock VFW post is staging the program entirely for the benefit of these two causes.

A 32-round card has been arranged, with Bill Henderson squaring off against El Paso's Manny Ortega in the feature 10-rounder. Ortega, a top-notch featherweight who has met—and beaten—some of the nation's best, will be one of the toughest opponents yet faced by Henderson, the popular Levelland lightweight who has climbed steadily up the fistic ladder.

An eight-round semifinal expected to provide ample action brings together Gene James of Lubbock and Dickie Brown of Amarillo. These two met here recently in a six-rounder in which James won a decision so close that a rematch was deemed in order.

Leonard Duncan, undefeated Hale Center middleweight, faces Dick Smith, Oklahoma City, in a six-rounder. Four-round preliminaries send Charley Neff, Petersburg, against Tony Olivas, El Paso, and Billy Brackeen of Slaton against Sam Inagio, El Paso.

McMurry Preps For Game With Javelinas

ABILENE, Oct. 12. (Spl.)—Work on pass defenses is receiving emphasis as the McMurry Indians prepare to begin their fight to retain the Texas Conference title against the Texas A&I Javelinas here Saturday night.

Inability to halt the Mississippi Southern passing attack hurt the Indians sorely in their 55-32 defeat at Hattiesburg Saturday night. The Southerners gained 202 yards through the air.

A&I moves principally along the ground, but the Hogs' quarterback, Bob Rahm, has made some game-determining heaves.

Because the A&I coach, Dewey Mayhew, is one of the state's best at devising defenses, Coach Wilford Moore is not neglecting the McMurry offense. Actually, it performed in high gear Saturday night, and the total offense statistics gave McMurry the edge. But the Indians five times lost the ball in their territory on fumbles to set up five of the Southerners' touchdowns.

Team Faces Pampa Eleven Friday

Westerner Squadmen Hold Light Workout

It was almost like Christmas Wednesday at Chapman field, with the Westerners going through a light workout following two long, hard days of practice.

No one was more amazed than the players as they ran through the fundamental drills, dummy scrimmage, new play practice and defensive work, all of which was topped with a series of short and long wind sprints.

Coach Pat Pattison is looking forward to Friday's night's encounter with the Harvesters from Pampa with an uneasy feeling, remembering last year when Pampa unleased a powerful attack to come from behind and defeat the Westerners, 26-19.

Lubbock Rolling

That defeat, incidently, was the last suffered by Lubbock. The 1948 squad ended the season with two easy victories over Brownfield and Plainview, and so far this year the Model T attack has gained momentum and swept to four victories, cutting down Childress, North Side of Fort Worth, Plainview and Vernon.

TICKET SALES BOOMING

Sales for the Friday night football game between Pampa and Lubbock High at Jones Stadium are going well, E. J. Lowrey, athletic business manager, said Wednesday and 14,000 persons may witness the contest between the former District 1-AA foes. Pregame ticket sales are being made at the athletic office in the high school, with reserved seats selling for $1.50.

The Pampa team that came back so strong last year is gone, but in its stead is a young, inexperienced team with six lettermen and lots of hustle. Coach Tom Tipps has welded the squad together into a combination that defeated North Dallas, 40-0, Graham, 7-0, El Paso High, 35-19, and Vernon, 8-7, before losing last week to Wichita Falls, 14-6.

Considered Moral Victory

The loss to Wichita was considered a moral victory by Pampa fans, as the Harvesters entered that game three touchdown underdogs. But the Green and Gold looked like anything but underdogs, rushing to an early 6-0 advantage over the Coyotes before giving up a safety and touchdown in the first half and a second touchdown in the third quarter.

Pampa is led by right Halfback Jimmy Hayes who has scored 30 points for the season and lugged the ball for more than 500 yards in the five games played.

Named as Lubbock co-captains this week are Fullback Malcolm Young and Quarterback Bobby Brown. These two have played outstanding ball for the Westerners all season, with Young turning in his best performance last week and Brown ripping off an 80-yards punt return for a touchdown.

Physically the Cowpokes should be in near top shape, and mentally they are in good condition, looking forward to the contest eagerly.

Last week the line play was especially effective, with Guards Freddie Gray and Sammy Modrall and Tackles Joe Brock and Douglas Ross ripping the Vernon line apart at will to allow the backs through. Downfield blocking was the best yet.

Garnet Reeves and Billy Wright continue to stand out at end, being especially hard to move on defense.

Bauer Beats Riley In Texas Open

FORT WORTH, Oct. 12. (AP)—Young Marlene Bauer's 19-hole victory over defending champion Polly Riley and elimination of Mrs. George (Babe) Zaharias, marked second round play in the Women's Texas Open golf tournament today.

Babe, who has won the event three times, also bowed out on the 19th hole—to Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill. Babe conceded the hole after failing to get on the green in three. Marjorie's second shot lay only 10 feet from the cup.

The 15-year-old Marlene, found herself two down after nine holes to Polly. But the Long Beach, Calif., youngster rallied to take the next three holes to go 1 up over the Fort Worth entry.

Miss Riley pulled even on 13 and the two halved the next three holes. The end came suddenly. Marlene lofted her approach shot to within seven feet of the pin while Polly was short. Miss Riley shiped short of the cup and Marlene preceded to run down her put for the match.

Marlene faces another stiff test tomorrow in Miss Lindsay, the Illinois State champion.

Kansas State champion Marilyn Smith moved ahead with a 3 and 1 victory over Marlene's 20-year-old sister, Alice. Marilyn's quarterfinals opponent will be another state champion, Betty Mackinnon, the Arkansas titlist who plays out of Mt. Pleasant, Tex.

Miss Mackinnon ousted Betty Jameson of San Antonio 3 and 1.

Today's results included:

Patty Berg, Savage, Minn., def. Helen Detweller, Indio, Cal., 2-1; Beverly Hanson, Indio, Cal., def. Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite, Fort Worth 6-5; Mary Lena Faulk, Thomasville, Ga., def. Mrs. Leon B. Hosek, Dallas 6-5; Mrs. H. C. Riedel, Dallas, def. Bettye Mims White, 9-7.

Berg plays Hanson, and Faulk meets Riedel in tomorrow's semi finals.

Baylor Cubs To Meet Aggie Fish

WACO, Oct. 12 (Special) — The Baylor Cubs, eager to break into the win column, will invade Aggieland Thursday night to display their wares against the Texas A & M Fish. The Cubs lost their opener to the TCU Wogs in Fort Worth three weeks ago.

Taking the road for the second time, the Cubs should be in better physical condition than they were in when they met the Wogs. Quarterback Claud Kincannon, who was suffering with a shoulder injury at the time of the opener will be back to strengthen the Cub aerial attack. Although Kincannon saw action in the final period, his passing was considerably hampered by the injury.

In the intervening weeks the Cubs have shown improvement according to Coach Pete Jones, but the power is concentrated in the backfield.

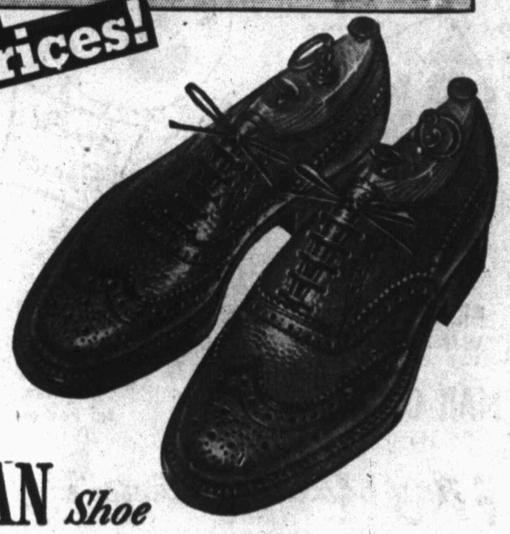

Jones said that he would start Milby Sexton and Connie Wright at ends; Robert Mehaffey and Charles Moak at tackles; Milton Lord and Bill Athey at guards; Jack Sisco, center; Claud Kincannon, quarterback; Don Carpenter and Bobo Patton, halfbacks and Luther Young, fullback.

In 1938, LSU piled up 24 first downs to Mississippi's three yet lost, 20-7.

Tech Works On Blocking Against Baylor

Varsity Gains Against Frosh

The job of readying Texas Tech's Red Raiders for the homecoming game Saturday with the Bears from Baylor is underway at Jones Stadium, and the task is far from completed.

Probably the most encouraging piece of work so far has been the downfield blocking, which was greatly emphasized Tuesday in a workout against a squad composed largely of freshmen.

Coach Dell Morgan was dissatisfied with the blocking in last week's game with Tulsa and said that the Red Raiders would have gained a lot more yardage had blocking in the secondary been up to par.

Raiders Gain On Frosh

Against the freshmen defense, the Raiders were gaining quite freely, with Fullback J. W. Thompson breaking loose on a couple of touchdown gallops that were made to look easy although several would-be tacklers were shaken off on each carry.

Cal Steveson was looking good on quick-opening plays and carried for substantial gains.

Halfback Walter Maloney, who suffered an ankle injury earlier this week in practice, was not at the workout and is a doubtful starter for the game. In fact he may not see action in any capacity.

Williams Returns

One cheerful aspect of the forthcoming tilt will be the return of Don Williams, injured in the San Antonio fracas against Texas A&M, to Lubbock. Williams has been in a San Antonio hospital since a knee injury and operation and will return to Lubbock in a Rix ambulance. First plans called for a trip by air, but Williams must stay in a reclining position until his knee heals further, and his doctor advised a trip by ambulance instead.

Defense against an expected Baylor attack is causing lots of worry in the Raider camp, and several of the players were slow to catch on in yesterday's drill.

The freshmen on the practice field were running the Baylor offense half-hard, and lots more work will be needed to sharpen the Tech team against ground and aerial thrusts by the Bears.

Baylor In Top Shape

Baylor is expected to be in top shape for the game Saturday, going into the fray as a solid favorite. As yet undefeated, the Bruins are one of the favorites in the Southwest conference race, and last week Coach Bob Woodruff's boys defeated Arkansas, 35-13, in a bruising battle.

Top offensive star so far for Baylor has been Quarterback Adrian Burk, turning in one of the flashiest attacks seen in Waco in recent years. Against Arkansas Burk completed nine of 11 tosses for 94 yards and one touchdown. Over the whole season—three games—he has attempted 45 passes, completed 29 for a net gain of 308 yards and five touchdowns for a .644 average. He also has rammed over two touchdowns to figure in seven of the 10 Baylor scores.

Chief target for Burk is J. D. Ison, who has caught 16 passes for 171 yards, and this combination is expected to be on prominent display in the Baylor offense Saturday.

FUTURE SEMINOLE STARS—The Seminole Junior Papooses, above, have compiled one of the area's outstanding junior grid records with four convincing triumphs in as many starts this fall. The Seminole team has beaten Kermit, 14-0; Denver City, 44-6; Plainview, 35-13, and Wink, 41-6. Tonight, at 7 o'clock in Seminole, they take on the tough Andrews Junior team in a conference game. Left to right in the Seminole line above are Kenny Cocke, Ronnie Phillips, Billy Trammell, Coy Lee Booe, Gene Graham, Jimmy Brooks and Lamoyne Livingston. The quarterback is Jon Wilson. Other backs, left to right, are Guy Nelson, Paul Sublett and Jackie Sparks. Sparks and Sublett are the team's leading scorers to date, each with 44 points.

Denver City Nine Will Meet Hubbers At Rosenthal Field

Denver City, winner of the Oil Belt baseball league, will invade Rosenthal field Sunday at 2:30 p.m. for a game with members of the Hubber baseball team.

Last week the Hubs rallied for four runs in the ninth inning to nose out the Gassers, 9-7. Starting for Lubbock will be Don Moore, c; Bob Clodfelter, p; Mike Dooley, 1b; Jackie Sullivan, 2b; Nelson Davis, ss; Frank McAlexander, 3b; Charlie Willis, lf; Wilcy Moore, cf; and Royce Mills, rf.

HUTCHINSON PLAYS LAMESA

The J. T. Hutchinson Rangers will play the Lamesa Juniors at 3:30 p.m. today at Chapman field.

Tonnemaker Named Lineman Of Week

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 12. (AP)—A pleasant young fellow whose keen football sense puts him in the opposing team's backfield quite a bit has been chosen as Lineman Of The Week.

Named in the Associated Press' third poll of the season was Clayton Tonnemaker, Minnesota's burly center. Chief reason for his selection was his play in the Northwestern game last Saturday, won by Minnesota, 21-7.

"It was Tonnemaker who wrecked us in that first half," said Don Heap, assistant Northwestern coach. The Gophers led, 14-0, at halftime.

A lot of times his ability to diagnose plays put him on the ground in the middle of the Wildcat backfield, the ball carrier clutched in his arms, when that happened, the ball carrier stayed put, because you don't move Tonnemaker's 243 pounds when he doesn't want to be moved.

Tonnemaker, co-captain of the Gohpers, is termed a "very good leader" by the coaching staff at Minnesota, and that quality is credited with bringing about "The best team spirit in several years."

Tonnemaker won the designation over Lou Creekmur, William and Mary tackle; Bob Jablonski, Yale guard, and J. D. Ison, Baylor end.

Winners of the first two polls were Howard Houston, Harvard tackle, and Art Weiner, North Carolina end.

McMurry's Brad Rowland Leads Texas Loop In Rushing, Scoring

ABILENE, Oct. 12. (AP)— Brad Rowland, McMurry's mighty man, leads in three departments of Texas Conference football statistics as the campaign rolls to the half-way mark.

Rowland leads the rushers, punters and scorers.

The great McMurry back has amassed 587 yards on 66 carries in four games, more than 200 yards better than Alton Green of Abilene Christian college, the second-place man.

In punting Rowland has averaged 39 yards on 21 boots. Second is B. F. Jay of Howard Payne.

Rowland tops the scorers in 48 points. Floyd Sampson of McMurry and Green are tied for second with 36.

Leon (Goose) Goslin of Detroit grounded into four consecutive double plays against the Chicago White Sox in a game on April 28, 1 34.

SPORTS Slants
BY CHOC HUTCHESON

Ever since those chilly September nights of 1947 when I saw Lubbock's power-laden Hubbers crucify the Lamesa Loboes in a playoff series, I have been something of a "Lamesa man" when it comes to West Texas-New Mexico league baseball. Of course, I pull for the Hubs, too—but there's always room for both clubs in the Shaughnessy.

Back in 1947, I saw Lamesa flattened (and how) in that playoff. Since then I have watched the team—and the team's followers—stage a gallant comeback that commands the admiration of any true baseball fan.

And now, with Lamesa's banner again waving proudly in the baseball world, there is talk of booting "my" Loboes out of the WT-NM league. Such nerve!

So far, no one has put the finger on the gent who is said to have made this rash suggestion. Supposedly, it was a "person close to the baseball picture." Well, it wasn't Hubber President M. L. Wilkison and it wasn't Harry Faulkner, the Hubs' general manager. Offhand, I don't know of any other persons in this vicinity who could discuss such matters with any degree of authority.

Whoever this "big-mouthed Yehudi" was, he was spouting through his chapeau when he talked of getting rid of Lamesa. The Loboes were in the WT-NM league this year, they will be in it next year, and—if the league is still going—they'll be in it the year after that. I say this not because of any inside information from a "person close to the baseball picture," but because I know Lamesa fans will back their team from start to finish.

At times, the Lamesa folks have had to dig pretty deep into their pockets to keep the club going. But they've always come through, and they haven't whimpered about their losses. They want their baseball, and they're willing to pay for it.

I, for one, am glad that Lamesa is a member of the WT-NM circuit. It is an asset to the league, I think, to have such a "real baseball town" as the Dawson county city—just as an example for other members, if nothing else.

Do you realize, for instance, that had Lubbock drawn—in ratio to its population—as did Lamesa last season, the Hubber home attendance would have been about 400,000 (more than four times what it was)? Denver, Colo., which set an all-time Western league mark with 400,000 admissions for the year, would have pulled 3,000,000 fans through the turnstiles if it had matched Lamesa's "population ratio" performance. And Detroit, on the same basis, would have drawn 20,000,000—which is more than the entire American league drew for the year!

And they talk of booting Lamesa downstairs to the Longhorn loop. Phooey!

Major Loop Managerial Lineup May Have Twelve Holdovers

NEW YORK, Oct. 12. (AP)— The major league baseball managerial lineup for 1950 is almost sure to carry 12 holdovers from this year.

Two skippers, Joe Kuhel of Washington and Bucky Walters of Cincinnati have lost their jobs. Jack Onslow of the Chicago White Sox and Zack Taylor of the St. Louis Browns may follow suit but the rest seem secure.

Pioneers Will Meet Plainview B Tonight

Lubbock High school's Pioneers go into action again tonight, meeting the Plainview B team at 8 o'clock at Chapman field.

The contest will be somewhat of a grudge match between the two teams. Earlier in a contest at Plainview the game ended in a 13-13 deadlock, and both elevens figure to capture tonight's contest.

In other games the Pioneers have won two and lost one. The lone defeat was to Meadow by a 12-0 margin, and there are two very decisive victories. In the season's opener the Pioneers romped over Wolfforth, 32-0, and last week defeated Littlefield B team, 31-12.

Admission to the game will be 50 and 25 cents.

Probable starters for Lubbock are Roy Burrows, le; Harlan Cooke, lt; Melvin Deardorff, lg; John Pittman, center; Charles Nix, rg; Ray McClarty, rt; James Blazi, re; Charles Sayers, qb; Billy Tucker, lh; Jeff Jones or Don Dean, rh; and Charles Northington or C. D. Walker, fb.

Minnesota awarded freshman football letters to 76 players during 1947.

Bell Picks Rice To Win

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

DALLAS, Oct. 12.—Matty Bell, who often asserts he is not Moanin' Matty, said today Rice is going to start making him a good forecaster.

The headman of SMU's football forces, whose teams have lost only one game in two and a half seasons and won the Southwest Conference championship twice, predicted before the season started he would drop four decisions.

SMU beat Wake Forest and Missouri, but those guys must not have counted. Now comes Rice to play here Saturday night in a Conference game.

"Yes, this is going to be the first of the four losses," quoth Bell as he professed to be worrying more about this game than any other. "I don't see how SMU can beat Rice with that senior team. It has speed, passing, running, outweighs us and has much more experience, the players made a pledge before the season that they were going to win the championship."

Bell went on with a husky note to his voice, saying the boys worked out all of August on their own so they'd be in shape.

Bell saw Rice against New Mexico last Saturday night. The Owls beat the Border Conference team 55-0 and showed no tricks. But Bell said: "I know a good football team when I see it. Rice has everything. If I was picking this game I'd take Rice by one or two touchdowns. Our kids don't have a chance against those grown men."

A check of the starting lineups shows Rice will have ten seniors and one junior, SMU six seniors and five juniors. Rice will put a 205-pound line on the field. SMU will have one averaging 201. Rice will have a 185-pound backfield, SMU 178.

Asked about that thing at New Orleans when Louisiana State beat Rice 14-7, Bell had a quick answer:

"Louisiana State is one of the best teams in the country. Sure Kentucky beat LSU but who hasn't Kentucky beat? Moreover, we have to play Kentucky."

Valentino Challenges Champion

Charles Will Defend Heavy Title Friday

SAN FANCISCO, Oct. 12. (INS). Both champion and challenger coasted into the stretch today before Friday's Ezzard Charles-Pat Valentino fight while the odds against the Californian climbed again.

Ringwise bettors are giving 5-1 that the lean, angular NBA champion can whip Valentino and even money that the local hope won't go nine rounds.

Despite the odds Valentino said his "worries are over." The husky challenger, dubbed "The Mop" because of a wild shock of uncut black hair, said:

"Anyone can lose a fight and you win if you can. I did all my worrying during the last three weeks. That's finished."

Valentino eased off with two workouts yesterday in which he swung his customary driving body punches but he wasn't as impressive as usual.

Charles, who has kayoed 39 contenders in 72 professional fights, went six fast rounds against three of his unhappy mates.

The NBA champ said he doesn't know why New York state hasn't recognized him as heavyweight champion, adding:

"Maybe Col. Eagan (Eddie Eagan of the New York Boxing Commission) thinks I should fight a little longer before giving me recognition. If I look good here maybe he'll do it."

Promoter Bill Kyne said it is certain now that a local man will referee the bout and insiders believe Frankie Brown will get the call. Jack Dempsey turned down Kyne's $1,000 offer to appear as third man.

maintain control of the seas," adding:

"It (the Navy) possesses that power of control today. Our collective defensive frontiers in the heart of Europe need the support of American industry and arms; we must deny any aggressor close bases for attack against this continent."

Bradley nevertheless by strong inference scored the Navy for its charges that the Defense department is whittling away its strength. He said;

"The people have twice affirmed, through their elected representatives, that the maximum security at least cost can be provided through unity in planning and command. When the President and the Secretary of Defense have made the decision of the defense budget then each service must carry its fair share of our calculated risk."

Atomic Defense Prepared

Bradley explained that it was because "we have worked out an orderly timetable of preparations for atomic defense" that he and Defense Chief Johnson announced on "Red atom day" that no change in basic plans was necessary.

The JCS chairman said Russia has a two and one-half million man army, a 600,000-man air force with 14,000 to 16,000 planes, and a "very modern" submarine navy developed from German underseas types. Bradley added:

"Since V-E day she has devoted a large percentage of her industrial capacity to the maintenance and modernization of her armed forces."

Bradley endorsed Bernard Baruch's warning that "we must not delude ourselves into thinking we can spend our way out" but expressed the belief that "the rate of spending" for previously-planned installations might have to be increased.

Former UN Official Given Peace Prize

OSLO, NORWAY, Oct. 12. (AP) —Lord Boyd Orr, president of a movement for world federal government and former head of the United Nations food and agriculture organizations, is the Nobel peace prize winner of 1949.

The Norwegian parliament's Nobel committee announced its tward today to the patient craggy-faced, 69-year-old Scotsman who has long campaigned for "a world food policy based on the needs of the people rather than on trade interests."

The prize amounts to 156,289.82 Norwegian kroner ($21,889.30). It is awarded from a fund set up in 1896 by Alfred B. Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.

The recipient, the former Sir John Boyd Orr, announced in Dundee, Scotland, that he would use the money to promote peace and world government.

Hotel In New York Joins Hilton Chain

NEW YORK, Oct. 12. (AP)— A controlling interest in the fashionable Waldorf-Astoria hotel has been bought by the Hilton hotel chain for $3 million.

The sale was announced by Conrad N. Hilton, president of the Hilton Hotels corporation, at a news conference late today.

He said he and Henry Crown, chairman of the board of directors of Material Service Corp., of Chicago, acting as individuals, and the Hilton chain had bought 250,000 of the 366,000 outstanding common stock shares of the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria Corp.

This, he said, would give them about 68 per cent of the outstanding common stock.

Forty-seven stories high, the Waldorf has 2,200 rooms. It was opened in 1931 and cost about $40 million.

Senate Okays Bill

wheat, tobacco, rice and peanuts. The House wants to support all of these next year at 90 percent of parity. It also insists on repeal of the Aiken law, which was passed by the Republican 80th Congress and which is due to go into effect next Jan. 1. The Aiken law would support major crops at from 60 to 90 percent of parity.

Under the Senate bill, full 90 percent supports would be available in 1950 for only those basic crops which are under production or marketing controls. These are expected to include wheat, corn, cotton and tobacco. The bill provides for continuation of that level for tobacco as long as it is under controls, but the other crops could be supported as low as 75 percent after 1950.

The Senate bill also provides for supports at 75 to 90 percent of parity for milk and butterfat, and price props ranging from 60 to 90 percent of parity on Irish potatoes, wool, honey and tung nuts.

The secretary of agriculture would have discretion to support other crops at from zero to 90 percent of parity—or even higher, in the interest of the nation's defense or welfare.

WOMAN NOMINATED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (INS)— Mrs. Eugenie Anderson of Red Wing, Minn., was named by President Truman today to be American ambassador to Denmark. VFW Votes For Get Acquainted Party

The semi-monthly meeting of the Lubbock post of the V.F.W. was held Wednesday night at the clubhouse at Thirty-fourth and Ave. N. Approximately 450 persons attended.

Preliminary plans were made for a District 7 V.F.W. convention to be held in Lubbock Nov. 19-20.

Members also voted to have a get-acquainted party for all personnel at Lubbock Air Force base on the evening of Friday, Nov. 4. The gathering will be held at the V.F.W. hall. All Air Force personnel at LAFB have been invited to attend.

Reports were made on the progress of ticket sales for the professional fighting matches, to be held at Chapman fieldhouse at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 18, under sponsorship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Officers of the organization have urged all who plan to attend the matches to pick up their tickets at Hilton hotel or Hub Clothiers as soon as possible.

Proceeds from the matches will be shared jointly by Girlstown and the local Goodfellow fund.

Fifty-eight new members were taken in at last night's meeting. William Earl Creel, commander, presided.

Cotton Crop Threat

officials in Washington today asking for all assistance possible.

To Wire Mahon

Patterson said he would send his telegram to Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock.

"The situation is so critical that I bought a large number of used ties—and at a prohibitive price," Patterson said. "Right now, I have only about 25 per cent of what I will need to supply my customers for the rest of the ginning season."

Patterson said that he was notified last week by the Atlantic Steel company in Atlanta, Ga., that his order for enough ties to wrap 20,000 bales of cotton was sitting on the docks of the steel plant but could not be shipped due to the strike.

"I asked them if I could send my own trucks to load out the ties and was informed that I could not do that," Patterson said.

Has Supply For Week

He estimated that his supply would last about a week. He explained that his company ran a smaller volume than others here, but that all were in about the same situation.

"I have been trying to buy ties everywhere," Patterson said Wednesday. "Just today I put in phone calls to Dallas, Galveston, Augusta, Birmingham and Shreveport."

"Unless the strike is broken or relief comes from some other source, we can't get half way through the South Plains cotton crop," he estimated. He said dealers have been trying to buy ties from each other.

Most ginners and farmers in this area were unaware of the shortage, one dealer said, explaining why the situation has not been the subject of talk among cotton men.

Hopes No Alarm Caused

One dealer urged that no undue alarm be created as a result of the shortage after he was informed that The Morning Avalanche had received a report on the situation from its Washington correspondent, Sarah McClendon.

"If they find out there is a shortage, people will rush in trying to get as many ties as they can," the dealer explained. He added that his firm does not plan to raise the price on ties regardless of the shortage.

Senator Connally said officials of the San Antonio Bag and Burlap corporation informed him of the critical shortage of steel tie bands. If more tie bands are not available soon, the farmers of Texas stand to lose immense sums of money on their cotton crop, company officials said, adding that ties are necessary for ginning of cotton. The San Antonio men said one-half of the Texas crop has been harvested, and that a real emergency exists in the steel shortage.

So quiet had the shortage been on the South Plains that Arch S. Underwood, of the West Texas Compress and Warehouse company, said that he had not heard of it.

P. B. Justice, manager of the Fortenberry gin at New Deal, said that he knew of no shortage and that he had not heard other ginners speak of any. "However, we haven't tried to purchase any ties," he added. The Fortenberry gin company purchased an ample supply of ties earlier to carry it through the season.

However, Patterson said, a large portion of ginners in the area were not so happily fixed.

Safety Group Organized At Meeting Of 20-30 Club Here

Members of the Lubbock 20-30 club held their regular weekly dinner meeting and business session last night in Hotel Lubbock. Twenty members attended.

At the business meeting, a safety committee headed by Wayne Bain, Tom Adams, and Tom Vallas, was set up. Jimmy Williams and Gene Blackburn were named to head a project to place road signs on the outskirts of Lubbock on six highways.

Discussion was held on a Hallowe'en costume dance. Details of the social gathering are to be presented at the club's meeting next Wednesday night.

Guests at last night's meeting were Buddy Gobb of Midland and Jack Bates of Lubbock.

The youngster was restored to her parents by Mrs. Matt McCall, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Acheson Denounces

Soviet Russia—rather than in the interests of their own people.

Acheson also:

Wave Of Arrests Hit

1. Branded the current wave of arrests in Czechoslovakia as another example of terroristic tactics in Communist countries.

2. Said he had no intention of taking up specific problems with Prime Minister Nehru during the visit of the Indian leader.

3. Declared the State department will not be coerced into changing the U. S. policy of withholding armed protection from American merchant ships risking operation through the Chinese Nationalist blockade.

The blockade referense was to a telegram Acheson received today from the Isbrandtsen company of New York urging again that the United States provide armed escort for one of its ships, the Flying Trader.

Acheson said the purpose of the telegram and publicity was to coerce and dragoon the U. S. government into a new declaration of policy.

EAST GERMAN RED BIDS FOR SUPPORT OF NAZIS

BERLIN, Oct. 12. (INS)—Chancellor Otto Grotewohl of the Communist East German state made another bid for Nazi support tonight in a major policy statement. In it he accused the Western Allies of "preparing Germany as a frontline in a new war."

Grotewohl, whose statement was approved unanimously by the Communist hand-picked parliament, promised "full and equal rights to all former Nazis."

In a state reception at the presidential palace later his cabinet of 14 ministers was sworn in by Wilhelm Pieck, Moscow-trained German Communist who yesterday was named president of the new Soviet satellite state.

City Commission

lation of Lubbock as shown by the 1950 federal count.

With the extensions proposed, the chamber estimates, Lubbock will be shown with a population close to 80,000. Without the additions, they expect the total to be around 65,000. The 1940 census total was 31,853.

The chamber committee has considered the advisability of recommending the annexations of 16 different suburban territorial areas which adjoin the present city limits in all directions.

To Recommend 10 Areas

Of these areas, it was disclosed today, 10 will be recommended for annexation; at least one, and possibly two, for partial annexation and four for exclusion from any extensions program undertaken.

The four reportedly recommended for exclusion because of the opposition encountered within them to annexation follow:

Northeast Lubbock in the area which includes the Purina mill.

East Lubbock along the Idalou highway in the vicinity of the Corral drive-in theater.

East Lubbock south of Broadway centering around the Puckett addition.

Southeast Lubbock Included

Southeast Lubbock bordering the Slaton highway.

The addition to be recommended for partial annexation also lies in Southeast Lubbock. The area to be proposed for inclusion in the city limits extends from the present boundary to the alley south of Thirty-seventh street and from Avenue A eastward to Clutter's second addition, at about East Avenue E.

May Include "Westchester"

Another area which may be proposed for partial annexation is "Westchester," west of the city limits, where some of the residents threatened a few weeks ago to form their own municipality rather than become a part of the city of Lubbock.

At present, three schools of thought are apparent as to "Westchester."

One proposes to try to take the whole thing in.

Another proposes only partial annexation, excluding Bobalet Heights, center of the "secession" movement of a few weeks ago.

Areas Recommended

The third proposes to leave the whole thing out.

The areas to be recommended for annexation are.

North Lubbock from about North Tyler avenue eastward to include Country Club and Clayton Carter additions.

East Lubbock between Fourth and Nineteenth streets eastward about two miles from the present city limits, but not including the area around the Corral drive-in and the Puckett addition.

South Lubbock generally to about Fiftieth street but extending at points beyond the Traffic circle.

West Lubbock to include a huge triangle bordered by the present city limits, the Brownfield highway and about Forty-fourth street.

Procedure Explained

The procedure involved in an annexation, as explained by officials, runs about like this:

The city commission first must set a public hearing on any proposal to take in any new territory. At least 30 days advance notice of this hearing must be given, so those who may wish to appear for against it will have opportunity to do so.

After the hearing, the commission decides whether to take the affected area in or, if it chooses, to call an election on the proposition.

If an election is held, majority votes of approval are necessary both in the city and in the area proposed for annexation.

Tech also took second in the junior steer calf contest, and carried off third for the best group of three steers. Lawton FFA chapter topped the Techsans in both contests.

Bench Warrant Is Issued For Suspect Held In Texarkana

A bench warrant from 99th district court was issued here Wednesday for John Henry Bigbie, jr., said by the district attorney's office to be in custody at Texarkana.

Homecoming Plans

traditional bonfire at 7:30 p.m. Friday, the recreation hall Green room will provide snack bar privileges and ample seating facilities for former students to renew old acquaintances and "re-fight former Homecoming games," McElroy said.

Elmer Tarbox will be in charge of the informal get-together.

Halftime performances at the football game will include an elaborate show by 136 members of the Texas Tech band. Professor D. O. Wiley, director, reported the band will salute Tech alumni with a schoolhouse with "X's" inside to the tune of "Schooldays," followed by salutes to Baylor and personnel at Lubbock Air Force base.

Shoe Race Planned

Also included at halftime will be the traditional freshman shoe race, at which all freshman men will pile their shoes on the 50-yard line and then make a scramble for them. The annual shirt-tail parade by the frosh will precede the game.

Appeals were already going out Wednesday for lumber and miscellanous materials to pile up for the traditional bonfire Friday night. Everything but textbooks is expected to be thrown onto the fire, in which a dummy Baylorite will be burned in effigy.

McElroy, meanwhile, was making efforts Wednesday to get a large number of faculty members to attend a free luncheon Saturday at noon in the gymnasium.

Given for all returning alumni by Furr Food stores and Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma coaches, the luncheon is being thrown open to faculty members this year because exes have formerly complained of not seeing enough teachers, the alumni secretary explained.

Parade Slated Saturday

The luncheon will be held following the Homecoming parade at 10 a.m. Led by 120-members of the marching band, the parade will feature 43 floats, making it the longest in the history of the college.

Prizes for the best float in three classifications—beautiful, descriptive, and comic—have previously been announced. The prizes, consisting of a plaque bearing the engraved name of the organization, will be presented during the halftime performances at the ball game. Overall winner in the float contest will be announced at the time and presented a temporary trophy to be given annually to the winning contestant.

Float Sponsors Named

Organizations entering floats in the beautiful classification include Wranglers, Las Chaparritas, Las Camaradas, Las Vivarachas, Gargoyle, Delta Sigma Pi, Sans Souci, D.F.D., Ko Shari, Centaur, Socii, Silver Key and Association of Women Students.

Entering floats in the descriptive division will be Gamma Delta, Press club, College club, S.A.M.E., Saddle Tramps, Capa y Espada, Dairy Manufacturing club, Tech Geology club, Agriculture club, Block and Bridle, A.I.M.E., Tech Chamber of Commerce, Kemas, Future Teachers of America, Home Economics club, Four H club, Major Minor, Student Religious council, and Cosmopolitan.

In the comic section, organizations to enter floats are: Pre-Medical club, Alpha Epsilon Delta, Men's Dorm 3, Future Farmers of America, Signal club, Men's Dorm 4, Tech Radio association, A.I.I.E., K.A.M., and American Chemical society.

The Donkey club is also entered but not under any of the above classifications.

Also on schedule for the weekend will be numerous Homecoming activities by various organizations on the campus for former members. A dance Saturday night on the campus will wind up the Saturday activities.

Members of the Texas Tech Board of Directors will hold an annual meeting at the college at 10 a.m. Saturday as another highlight of the weekend program.

tion of family allowances for enlisted personnel but any man who finds his total compensation reduced as a result of the bill will be allowed to resign.

The same scales apply to members of the Navy, the Air Force, the Coast Guard and other uniformed services.

Requirements Tightened

The legislation makes it more difficult to retire for disability, but provides higher disability payments for those who qualify.

Family allowances end not later than July 1, 1952, for enlisted personnel who have wives and children and who enlisted or re-enlisted after July 1, 1946.

Men who enlisted prior to that date will draw the allowances until their enlistment term ends. After six months, enlisted men will not be entitled to allowances for dependent brothers or sisters.

Any enlisted man whose total compensation will be reduced as a result of loss of family allowances will be allowed to resign upon request.

Members of Congress have explained that the bigger raises went to higher ranking officers because they have not had a general pay adjustment in 40 years.

"There is nothing to such reports. I have not been offered any position. There were such rumors time and again, and over a long period of years about my predecessor in Congress before he was appointed to a federal judgeship."

Worley came to Congress when Chief Justice Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims was appointed to the federal bench.

42 Cases Beer Seized In Raid

Sheriff's Deputies Raymond Land and Frank Mitchell Wednesday afternoon seized 42 cases of beer in a raid at an unfurnished residence between East Twenty-fifth and East Twenty-sixth in the 1400 block.

A charge was expected to be filed today against an absent owner who had not been identified late last night.

At the jail it was said that $500 bond will be posted by Elmer Hopes, charged with transportation and possession of intoxicating beverages. He allegedly had 28 cans of beer in his car, one of which was found under the hood, and almost a case inside his residence, officials said.

Man Posts $500 Bond

Bond of $500 was posted by Al Davis, charged with liquor law violation a brief time after officials said they had seized five pints of whiskey from him.

Judge G. V. Pardue, after a 99th District court hearing, ordered forfeited to the state a 1949 Ford automobile.

The case listed as defendants T. G. Sims, Richard Long and the car. It alleged the car was seized July 31 while being driven by Sims, and that 168 containers of beer were in it at the time. Further it alleged that Sims had pleaded guilty of liquor law violation in the case.

Johnson Rapped

consulting Congress and before the 1950 appropriation bill has ever been passed.

Calling this a "grand stand play," Vinson said:

"When a bill is pending before Congress and further review of funds is justified, then he should come before Congress."

"Bureaucrats," Vinson said, are not playing fair with Congress when they go about "making a record" as economyites without consulting the legislators.

Hints At HST Backing

Johnson, however, hinted that President Truman is supporting his defense policies.

A reporter asked Johnson today if he had received assurance that the President is backing him up.

"If he wasn't I wouldn't be holding down this job," Johnson said.

Halsey made the day's most dramatic witness. He came out of retirement to spearhead a fresh Navy drive for retention of its present fast carriers and for permission to build the 65,000-ton United States as the prototype of a new carriers operating planes of increased range.

Halsey Is Praised

Chairman Vinson questioned the Pacific veteran with obvious sympathy, and Rep. Short of Missouri, ranking Republican member of the committee, heaped such praise on his "massive leonine head" that the largely naval audience burst into prolonged applause.

Admiral Halsey, who told a reporter he spent "damn little" time in the capital nowadays, came from his home in Charlottesville, Va., to back the Navy's claim that atom bombing of industrial cities with the Air Force's B-36 bomber would not win a war with Russia.

Atomic bombing of industrial and population centers, he said, would unite an enemy just as Japan's "wanton attack" on Pearl Harbor brought the United States together.

"His people will be fused into a solid stubborn mass by the flare of their burning homes," he added "even as we would be."

Should Use Best Bombers

Halsey contended the United States should use "the very best bombers we can get" against the strategic targets of oil and transportation.

"But I do not favor the concept that the principal weapon in our national arsenal should be a weapon designed to conduct siege operations, he declared.

At the beginning of a war, the admiral continued, this country must be able to occupy many areas and to reinforce its advanced forces, and its allies. He argued that it is necessary to gain command in the air before anyone can go anywhere in the air, on the sea or on the land in modern war. And "command in the air is not gained by heavy bombers," Halsey said.

"It is gained by fighting the enemy air force and defeating it," he continued. "It is gained by attacking enemy airfields and their supporting installations. It is gained by shooting down the enemy pilots faster than he can train them. The enemy might be making plenty of airplanes. But he would be wasting his money if he didn't have any trained pilots to fly them."

A committee member asked whether the admiral had heard the other naval officers who have been protesting against "overemphasis" on the B-36 and against planned reductions in naval funds.

"I heard them all, and I concur," Halsey said.

Dallas Police To Question Suspect Held In Jail Here

Dallas police informed City Detective Robert West they would be in Lubbock today to interview a 53-year-old man West arrested Tuesday as a suspect in a Dallas embezzlement.

The suspect was arrested here after he had gone to a hospital for treatment. He seemed "out of his mind," hospital attaches said.

A name and telephone number in his pocket caused West to call Dallas. The name turned out to be the owner of a drug store that formerly employed the man held here, West said. Money and narcotics recently were "missed" at the store, the storeowner and Dallas police told West.

Spain and Japan have reopened direct trade, with a shipment of potash from Barcelona.

NEWS BRIEFS

Penny's Drug store at 411 Ave. H was burglarized at 12:15 a.m. today with a loss of $35 from a stamp machine, 20 cartons of cigarets, several cigaret lighters and a fountain pen. A driver for Moore's Bonded patrol shook the front door at 12:15 a. m. and heard someone run out the back door. Police said it appeared two men forced a rear door with a crowbar.

A fire in an unoccupied one-room shack in the 2200 block Fifth at 7:45 p. m. Wednesday was the second at that location since Monday night, firemen said. The blaze, which was quickly brought under control, gutted the interior of the shack. Residents of the neighborhood said some children had been seen playing in the structure a short time before both fires.

Seventeen-year-old Billy Cagle Perkins, of 1608 Ave. Q, was reported in good condition Wednesday at Lubbock Memorial hospital after regaining total consciousness for the first time since he was injured in a traffic accident last Saturday afternoon. The Tech freshman suffered a broken left arm and a fractured skull when his under-sized motorcycle was in collision with a car at the intersection of Ninth and Ave. A.

Theft of approximately $40 worth of lugs and packing cases from Bob's Frigidway market at Nineteenth and Ave. Q was reported Wednesday to police. The property had been stacked outside the building for resale to wholesale companies, Leon Hale, of the store, reported. Two men in a heavy truck apparently backed onto the lot and loaded the missing property, police said.

Idleness Mounts

in the 20-cent-a-ton payments to his welfare and pension fund.

Lewis also has talked about a shorter work week with no reduction of pay.

Vice President Thomas Kennedy of the United Mine Workers told a news conference he agreed with operators that nothing had been accomplished today. But he added: "We're one day closer to a settlement."

And Kennedy said the miners' negotiators are willing to continue to meet "until we get a new contract."

The miners' walkout has idled 380,000 soft coal diggers east of the Mississippi. They quit after their pension and welfare payments were shut off. Lewis said some southern operators had quit paying royalties into the fund.

Refuses USW Request

The steel strike which has idled about 450,000 men resulted after Big Steel refused to pay the entire cost of a pension and insurance program. The United States Steel corporation offered to pay 10 cents an hour—but only if workers would contribute, too.

The twin strikes have resulted in layoffs to 55,000 in allied industries.

Unemployment may skyrocket during the week-end as contracts begin expiring in the fabricating steel industry. Murray is demanding free pensions and insurance for his half-million union members in the plants where steel is used to make everything from hairpins to refrigerators.

As the basic steel strike passed its 12th day, the union kept hammering away in its attempt to get fabricators to consent to the 10-cent hourly pension and welfare package recommended by the presidential fact-finding board. Here and there a few small companies accepted.

The trade journal Iron Age predicted the nation can expect "one of the worst tie-ups in its history" unless some real bargaining takes place in the steel dispute. Steel supplies were reported lower than had been estimated.

Pennsylvania's 127,000 steel and coal strikers got some expected—but bad news. The State Bureau of Employment and Unemployment Compensation ruled them ineligible for jobless benefits. It held they were not involuntarily unemployed.

The steel strike of nearly 500,000 unionists began Oct. 1 in the middle of the pay period.

USW negotiations with the Aluminum Company of America resumed today. Negotiators are working against a strike deadline Sunday midnight October 17.

The union says it has demanded a wage increase and company-financed insurance and pensions. The company contends the exact union demands involved are 20,000 employes in nine states.

Senate Committee Releases Displaced Persons Measure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. (AP)— The displaced persons bill finally got out of the Senate Judiciary committee today, and may come up for a Senate vote this week.

The committee voted, 7 to 3, to release the measure, but refused either to endorse or oppose it.

Senator Lucas (D.-Ill.), the majority leader in the eSnate, previously had said that as soon as debate on the farm program was completed, the Senate would take up the DP bill.

But if the bill's past stormy history is an indicator, it probably will run into stiff opposition on the Senate floor. For this bill — which would permit more of Europe's homeless to come into this country — has set Democrat against Democrat and Republican against Republican.

Germany Blasted By Bombs In U.S. Military Maneuvers

GRAFENWOEHR, Germany, Oct. 12. (AP)—Live bombs rained on postwar Germany for the first time today as ground and Air Forces staged a mighty display of fire power.

Units of the U. S. constabulary and the second air division combined in the show, attended by some 5,000 spectators, including high officers of Atlantic pact nations.

A surprise visitor was Charles A. Lindbergh, who sat unobtrusively in the stand.

CONFIDENTIAL LETTERS BARED

Baruch Urged UN Disarmament Proposal As Early As 1946

By EARLE MARCKRES
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 — Bernard M. Baruch wanted to propose general disarmament to the United Nations in 1946 but held back when he was informed that President Truman and State Secretary Byrnes were preparing a plan of their own.

This came to light today when Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) released hitherto confidential correspondence with Baruch in which the elder statesman referred to his introduction of A-bomb controls before the UN.

Informed sources, in commenting on the correspondence, said a Truman-Byrnes plan was never laid before the UN because it soon became obvious Russia was not going to agree even to atomic energy control and it was deemed futile to open a larger field of discussion.

Letter Is Quoted

Baruch wrote Vorys on Aug. 2, 1946, that at the time he presented his atomic regulation proposals he wanted to say something about disarmament. The letter quoted Baruch as saying:

"I have been trying to get the President and the secretary of state to let me say something about disarmament, but they are preparing a plan of their own.

"In the meantime, however, we may have lost the opportunity."

No Disagreement

(In New York, Baruch declared "there never has been and is not now" any disagreement with the President on atomic energy. He said of his proposal for general disarmament:

("The President and Mr. Byrnes and the State department believed we should stick to the matter of atomic bombs and I agreed with them. There was no disagreement. We were just passing suggestions back and forth.")

The letter was made public at a House Foreign Affairs committee hearing on resolutions designed to put Congress on record as favoring the development of the UN into a world government with sufficient powers to preserve peace and prevent aggression.

Wanted War Ban

Baruch was revealed to have told Vorys more than three years ago that it would be unavailing to outlaw the atomic bomb without banning "war itself" by placing in the constitution of each nation "the pledge that it will not go to war."

The Baruch plan called for "a system of inspection of the forces and arms allowed each country."

Rep. Jackson (D-Wash) told the committee that a world federation form of government is the best way to prevent an atomic war between the United States and Russia.

More Power For UN Urged

Jackson, a member of the joint Congressional Atomic committee, urged that the United Nations be empowered to outlaw A-bombs and all conventional weapons of war. He added:

"I believe that a world federation is the surest way of permanently controlling the forces of mass destruction that are now at large."

Another witness, Ely Culbertson, said that Russia is producing "at least one atomic bomb per week."

Culbertson, chairman of the Citizens Committee for United Nations Reform, said the UN must be converted into a world federation "with or without Russia."

Rep. Hays (D-Ark) presented the pleas for four state governors in support of his resolution to make the world federation a "fundamental objective of U. S. foreign policy."

The governors were G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Luther Youngdahl of Minnesota; Lee Knous of Colorado and Sidney McMath of Arkansas.

ALL OF A SUDDEN IT COLLAPSED — The wonderful one-hoss shay had nothing on this 50-year-old bridge near Stockton, Calif., except an extra fifty years. The 70-foot steel bridge just collapsed, for no apparent reason, and with no one on it at the time. Evidently it had just used up its alloted span. When the photographer found it, it was being used as a romping ground by a small boy and his dog.

Tech Council Discovers $7,700 In Student Union Building Fund

Ever wish you could wake up and discover you had a small fortune?

The Texas Tech student council did just that this week—or at least something a lot like that. Raymond Brigham, business manager for the council, was thumbing through past business records and discovered that some $7,700 was deposited in the First National Bank toward a Student Union building.

In the form of bonds and savings stamps, the fund had long since been forgotten. The fund, plus recent announcements that profits from concessions on the campus and, possibly, profits from the college bookstore, will go toward the building, raised hopes of early construction on the SUB.

Unfinished Charcoal Sketch Of Bradley Stolen From Artist

CHICAGO, Oct. 12. (AP)— An unfinished charcoal sketch of General Omar Bradley was stolen from artist Guy Rowe last night.

The theft was reported by Hilton Grant, midwest representative for the Oxford University press which is publishing "In Our Image," in which Rowe paintings appear.

Police said Grant told them the Bradley sketch, a topcoat, some photographs of Bradley, and a suitcase were taken from the car while he and Rowe were dining.

Grant reported the theft because Rowe had to catch a train for New York.

Super-Highway From Florida To California Is Proposed

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 12. (AP)— Plans for a proposed trans-continental super-highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts, skirting the Gulf of Mexico and the Mexicon border, were outlined at a meeting here of the recently organized Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Safeway association.

E. H. Ramsey of Jacksonville, Fla., secretary of the association, said the highway would afford an all-year route, free of snow and ice.

He said the route, starting at Jacksonville and terminating at Los Angeles, would enter Texas at Orange and leave the state at El Paso. States traversed by the projected four-lane highway would include Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California, he said.

Ramsey is attending the American Association fo State Highway Officials in convention here.

Fund Drive Started To Send Asthma Victim To New Mexico

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 12. (U.P.) Financial aid was requested today for a Nacogdoches, Texas, woman who wants to take her 6-year-old daughter to New Mexico in a final attempt to save the child's life.

Mrs. Wilma Latsha, who earns $60 a month as a housekeeper here, said today doctors have told her they can do nothing more for her daughter, Janet, a victim of asthma. Mrs. Latsha thinks maybe the New Mexico climate will help Janet.

The child's doctor says, "All the things you do for asthmatics have been done for Janet. She will gradually go down hill. Frankly, I don't know whether another climate will help—but I feel it is certainly worthy of trial."

Civic organizations and the Red Cross at Nacogdoches raised funds last summer to send Mrs. Latsha, a divorcee, and Janet to Oklahoma City after doctors here were recommended. Janet has had asthma since she was 10 months old.

STANOLIND WELL MAY TEST ELLENBURGER

Scurry County Prospector To Drill Deeper After Oil Recovery From Canyon Reef Drillstem Tests

Progress Petroleum company of Texas, and associates No. 1 Carden, Central-North Scurry county, wildcat, two miles north of the North Snyder field, and 12 miles north of the town of Snyder was making new hole below 7,040 feet in lime, according to unofficial sources.

More detail reports have been secured on two drillstem tests taken at this prospector since it entered the Canyon reef lime at 6,998 feet, on an elevation of 2,496 feet.

The first test was at 6,997-7,007 feet. The tool was open five hours. Gas showed at the surface in 30 minutes. Recovery was 540 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud and 870 feet of 41.5 gravity oil. There were no signs of formation water.

The venture then deepened to 7,017 feet and a three hour drillstem test was run at 6,997-7,017 feet.

Gas showed at the surface in three minutes. Recovery was 1,414 feet of clean oil, 300 feet of drilling mud and 180 feet of salt water.

The foregoing reports have not been officially verified, but are from sources which are generally accurate and dependable.

The wildcat is 660 feet from east and 467 feet from south lines of section 503, block 97, H&TC survey.

Stanolind Oil & Gas company No. 1 Whatley, Central-North Scurry county prospector, three and one quarter miles north of the northwest side of the nearest Canyon lime production on the northwest side of the North Snyder field, and 660 feet from south and east lines of the southwest quarter of section 548, block 97, H&TC survey, was making hole below 7,580 feet in the Strawn lime of the Pennsylvanian.

It ran a one hour and 30 minute drillstem test at 7,550-80 feet. Recovery was 150 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water. The exploration may be continued until it finds and tests the Ellenburger. It failed to produce in the Canyon reef lime.

Completion has been made at L. H. Wentz Estate (Oil Division) No. 1 L. A. Hill, one location north of the closest completed producer on the southwest side of the North Snyder field in North-Central Scurry county.

Flowing natural through a one-half inch tubing choke it made a calculated daily potential of 1,284.8 barrels of 42-gravity oil and no water. Gas-oil ration was 868-1.

Flowing casing pressure was 90 pounds and the flowing tubing pressure was 550 pounds.

From the Canyon it was completed from open hole between the five and one-half oil string cemented at 6,752 feet and the total depth at 6,901 feet.

This new producer is 467 feet from south and east lines of the lease in section 330, block 97, H&TC survey.

Claud B. Hamill of Houston has filed an application with the Railroad commission of Texas requesting a permit to drill his No. 1 Lois Sears Sentell as a 7,000-foot rotary exploration on the southeast side of the North Snyder field in North-Central Scurry county.

The project will be 467 feet from north and west lines of tract 3, secton 26, block 1, J. P. Smith survey and six miles north of Snyder.

Drilling is to begin immediately.

Standard Oil company of Texas has completed its No. 6-7 J. Brown in the North Snyder field of north-central Scurry county.

Flowing natural through a one-half inch tubing choke, it made a calculated 24-hour potential of 1,188 barrels of 43.5-gravity oil and no water. Gas-oil ratio was 1,050-1.

Open flowing casing pressure was 400 pounds and the open flowing tubing pressure was 300 pounds.

From the Canyon lime completion was from open hole between the 7-inch oil string set at 6,579 feet and the total depth at 6,915 feet.

The new well is 467 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of the lease in section 439, block 97, H&TC survey.

GAINES WELL IS PLUGGED BACK AFTER WATER FLOW

Shell Oil company No. 1 Andrews, five-eighth of a mile north of the discovery well for Ellenburger production in the Flanagan field of central-south Gaines county, and 12 miles south of Seminole, developed salt water in the Ellenburger and has plugged back to 7,300 feet to try to complete a producer from the Clear Fork of the Permian.

That zone showed good possibilities of making an oil well when drilled through.

The Ellenburger as tested for 32 minutes at 12,525-580 feet. Recovery was 390 feet of drilling mud, heavily cut with salt water. No indications of oil or gas were developed from the test.

Los Nietos company No. 1-B Pecos-University, 14 miles northeast of Fort Stockton, eight miles south of the Apco-Warner-Ellenburger field, and 660 feet from west and 1,980 feet from south lines of section 11, block 26, University survey, has been plugged and abandoned as a dry hole on a total depth of 5,649 feet in granite wash and lime streaks. It found no signs of oil or gas in any formation it penetrated.

Newman Brothers of San Antonio, and associates, No. 1 Eiland, central-west Scurry county wildcat, seven miles west of Snyder, and 1,787 feet from east and 467 feet from north lines of section 20, block 97, H&TC survey, and two and one-half miles west of the closest completed Canyon reef producers on the west side of the Kelly field, topped the Canyon reef at 6,611 feet, to give it a datum of minus 4,194 feet on that point.

The venture was drilling ahead below 6,615 feet and was to continue to 6,767 feet and then stop and run a drillstem test.

City Power Plant Output Almost Doubled

"Starts the Day on the South Plains"
LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE
Lubbock, Texas, Thursday, October 13, 1949

OFFICIALS VISIT PLANT—City officials inspected and then watched Mayor W. H. Rodgers close the switch Wednesday afternoon which put into operation an $800,000 steam turbine electricity generating unit at the city light plant in Northeast Lubbock. The engine, the first of its kind to be bought for the city, increased the electricity production capacity of the plant from about 11,000 to a peak of 20,000 kilowatt hours. Watching over the mayor's shoulder as the switch was thrown (bottom photo) were City Commissioners John Spikes, wearing glasses, and E. K. Hufstedler. Lined up behind them, left to right, were Commissioners W. B. Price and Clarence Whiteside, City Manager Steve Matthews and electric department Supt. Truman Green. Standing on a platform on the turbine in the upper picture are, left to right, Green, Whiteside, Spikes, Tom Perry of Trenton, N. J., the installing engineer, Hufstedler and Price. (Staff Photos.)

New Generator Added To Plant

Production capacity of the city electric plant was nearly doubled Wednesday afternoon when Mayor W. H. Rogers threw the switch which put the city's first turbine generating engine into operation.

Before the switch was thrown, the plant was capable of producing approximately 11,000 kilowatt hours of current. The new unit added 7,500 kwh. to this total and, when needed, can be stepped up to 9,000, City Manager Steve Matthews reported.

The installation cost nearly $800,000, financed with bonds voted about two years ago. The turbine unit was bought from the De Laval Steam Turbine Co., of Trenton, N. J.

Plan To Buy New Engine

Even before it was put into operation members of the city commission had begun their planning for the purchase of another of equal or larger size. The additional electricity will be needed before another engine can be installed if Lubbock continues to grow at the rate of the past several years, officials said.

Heretofore, the city has used diesel engines exclusively for the generation of electricity, having purchased the last several from the Nordberg Manufacturing Co., of Milwaukee.

The diesels cost less initially but require more room, generate less electricity and are more expensive to operate, the city manager said.

Also Houses Diesels

Housed in the same building in Northeast Lubbock with the new turbine are two of the diesels, each costing approximately $225,000. Each is more than twice as large as the turbine, but will generate only 2,200 kwh. of current. The diesels are the more economical when electrical requirements are relatively small, officials said in explanation of why turbines have not been bought sooner.

There was little formality in connection with the switch throwing. Members of the city commission inspected the new engine, escorted by Truman Green, electrical plant superintendent; Tom Perry, of Trenton, the installation engineer for the De Laval company, and Matthews.

Present when the mayor closed the switch were Commissioners W. B. Price, John Spikes, E. K. Hufstedler and Clarence Whiteside.

Suspect Denies Extortion Note

HOUSTON, Oct. 12. (AP) — A former deputy sheriff was accused today of writing a threatening letter attempting to extort $50,000 from wealthy oilman Glenn McCarthy.

Raymond Chambers, 43, pleaded innocent when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner W. F. Carothers. He was released under $7,500 bond.

For four years Chambers was a Harris county deputy sheriff, office records show. More recently he was a $7-a-day janitor at the multi-millionaire McCarthy's swank Shamrock hotel.

An examining trial was set for Wednesday. FBI agents said much of their evidence would have to be brought from Washington.

Accused Of Writing Letter

Chambers was charged with writing a letter that threatened to "kill or injure" McCarthy or a member of his family if the oilman and sportsman did not leave $50,000 at the door of a Houston home.

For several days appearance of armed guards at the plush McCarthy residence several blocks southwest of the Shamrock had puzzled Houston residents. McCarthy said the guards "quite obviously" resulted from the letter; that "every precaution was taken."

McCarthy has a wide range of interests which almost match his great fortune. He was sued yesterday by Larry Rummans of Los Angeles for $210,000 damages. Rummans, a sports promoter, asserted McCarthy kicked and beat him. As in all suits which involve him, McCarthy said "no comment."

FBI Arrests Suspect

Chambers was arrested by FBI agents early today as he left the night shift at the new $18 million Shamrock. He said he became a janitor there two months ago after serving several months as hotel detective.

As Chambers left the federal building with his attorney he shook hands with three FBI agents and thanked them for the "fine treatment" they had accorded him.

He remarked to reporters:

"They say I wrote this letter. I'm not mad at McCarthy. I work for him. This is the first trouble I've ever been in."

Neither McCarthy nor any rep-

'ACROSS BOARD' POLICY DRAWS ATTACK

Rail Board Orders Oil Allowable Hike

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Oct. 12. (AP)—Railroad commissioners stuck by their "across-the-board" policy today as they ordered a 137,606 barrel daily increase in Texas' November crude oil production allowables.

The commission declined numerous requests that allowables in sweet crude areas be hiked, with sour crude schedules remaining at October levels.

A blanket one-day hike in production schedules for all fields was ordered.

Third Consecutive Hike

It is the third consecutive increase after eight straight monthly cutbacks. It places the state's November daily allowable at 2,286,175 barrels. Permissable production last Saturday totaled 2,148,569.

All fields, except East Texas, next month will produce on 20 days. East Texas will have a 19-day schedule.

The commissioners estimated November under production at approximately 5 per cent or 114,308 barrels daily. Part of this would be offset by an anticipated 17,000 barrels daily from new wells.

This leaves November probable actual production at 2,188,867 barrels daily, 305,695 below purchasers nominations and 41,133 below the U. S. Bureau of Mines' forecast of demand for Texas crude.

Witnesses Are Heard

Several witnesses as the commission's monthly statewide hearing today said customers are being forced to turn to foreign sweet crude sources while faced with shortages for this grade in Texas.

They contended current production includes too much sour crude, not enough sweet.

Remarked Ernest O. Thompson, senior member of the commission:

"We've been trying to keep away from selective buying because a man naturally wants the sweetest, nicest crude possible, and the crude nearest his refinery. This eventually would mean some field would have no market at all."

Sweet Stock Claimed Low

E. R. Turner, Pan American Production company, said his firm's stocks will be below desired working levels by November 1 unless additional sweet crude becomes available.

"It will be necessary for us to look to foreign sources if we can't obtain it on the domestic market," he said. "We urgently need more sweet crude in fulfilling our winter obligations to customers in New England and along the eastern seaboard."

The agreement now is subject to House and Senate action.

Texas Rail Commission Again Orders Hike In Oil Allowable

John Caffrey said Sun Oil company would stop its imports if more sweet grade oil were available in Texas. When asked his opinion of the "across-the-board" policy, he replied.

"We can't use sour crude, don't use it, don't buy it. You can pick your type crude in Venzuela just as you can in Texas."

Sour Crude Unwanted

Herman Pressler, Humble Oil & Refining company, and Raymond Myers, Magnolia Petroleum company, asked one day increases for the entire state except railroad commission districts 7C and 8, where sour production is heaviest.

Said Myers: "Any West Texas increase will have to go into storage. Our pipelines are full."

Maston Nixon, Southern Minerals corporation, warned that Texas now is in competition with Louisiana and Venezuela production in that customers who can't get enough sweet crude here are turning elsewhere.

H. P. Nichols, executive vice president of the East Texas Oil association, asked 19 days for the East Texas field despite a 5.52 pounds per square inch decrease in the field's bottomhole pressure.

Stocks Show Decline

Thompson reminded the hearing that Texas stocks in April stood at 130,000,000 barrels and had dropped to 118,000,000 by October 8.

"This is most gratifying," he said. "It shows that companies did find it possible to use West Texas crude production plus dipping into stocks.

District 2	134,815	10,213
District 3	424,247	24,493
District 4	214,718	12,896
District 5	39,838	3,138
District 6 (outside East Texas)	96,279	8,407
District 6 (East Texas field)	273,848	22,434
District 7-B	73,144	2,298
District 7-C	57,284	2,812
District 8	644,548	44,941
District 9	183,758	5,118

Be'gian Envoy Says Plan For European Union Is On March

DALLAS, Oct. 12. (U.P.)— The dream of a United States of Europe is on the march, Belgium's ambassador to the United States, Baron Robert Silvercruys, said today.

Silvercruys, in Dallas to open the Belgian exhibit at the Texas State fair, made the statement at a press conference.

He said that western European nations must not move too fast toward such union, both economic and political, but "European nations can't go on in a world separated."

Animosities Slow Plan

Deep-rooted animosities are slowing closer cooperation, but they are gradually being erased, Silvercruys said.

He pointed out the Benelux countries (Belgium, Holland and Luxemburg) will have "complete economic union" by July 1, 1950. "And France and Italy are also moving toward a customs union," the envoy said.

Asked about possible entrance of Spain into a union of Western Europe, Silvercruys said that he was not a "crystal gazer" but Spain had been "totally lacking in co-operation."

Lauds Marshall Plan

Belgium's industrial production now is equal to its pre-war rate, Silvercruys said as he lauded the Marshall Plan.

"My nation received $207,000,000 in conditioned grants under the plan," he said.

The funds were used to bolster exchange with other European nations and thus served to keep up Belgium's supply of dollars for trading with the United States.

As to Belgium's recent devaluation of the franc, the ambassador termed it a "revaluation."

Belgium devalued the franc only 12 per cent in relation to the dollar, while Britain and many other nations devalued 30 per cent.

Silvercruys said he did not think Belgium's devaluation would bring any political repercussions such as occurred in France.

Silvercruys was accompanied to Dallas from Washington by Frans Leemans, Belgian representative to the United Nations; Jene Cattier, president of the Belgian Chamber of Commerce in New York, and Maurice Heyne, commercial counselor of the Belgin embassy in Washington.

Silercruys said Belgium is "after the American market." Its $30,000 exhibit at the state fair is designed to make the southwest aware of the country's varied exports.

New replacements for carnauba wax in polishes for automobiles, wood, leather, etc., are said to be economical and, when properly blended, to give hardness, texture, and melting point equal to carnauba.

Marine Captain To Attempt Non-Stop Light Plane Record

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12 (INS) —Marine corps Captain Norman Marsh said today that he will take off at 11 a.m. (CST) tomorrow in an attempt to set a light plane non-stop speed record from Los Angeles to New York City.

His route will extend 2,530 miles by way of Amarillo, Enid, Okla., St. Louis, Indianapolis and Pittsburgh.

Flyer Draws Cartoon

He said that he hoped to reach New York in 22 hours. Captain Marsh is the cartoon artist of the adventure comic strip "Danny Hale," syndicated by King Features.

Marsh's plane, named after his cartoon strip hero Danny Hale, will have to lift a gross weight of 3,000 pounds, almost 1,000 pounds overweight with its 145-horsepower engine.

Marsh, a Marine infantry veteran of both world wars, will carry three sandwiches, a thermos of soup and a canteen of water.

The final gas tank to be put in the tiny Aeronca sedan will have to be practically "fitted" around the cross-country flyer.

Restaurant Owner Accused Of Rustling, Butchering Cattle

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 12. (INS)— Eyebrows lifted when Joseph J. Marcon, 29, Minneapolis restaurant owner, told patrons the steaks they enjoyed were butchered especially for him.

Scott county Sheriff J. J. Wermserkirchen said Marcon forgot to add they also were butchered by him.

He arrested Marcon today on charges of cattle rustling, accusing him of killing and butchering a Holstein heifer on the farm of Emmett H. Wagner last Sept. 24.

Galen N. Willis, agent in charge of the Houston FBI office, said arrest of Chambers ended two weeks of intense inquiry.

McCarthy Answers Note

Associates of McCarthy said tonight McCarthy went against FBI requests and answered the threatening note.

They said it directed the money be placed Oct. 1 in a culvert at the Houston intersection of Lawndale and Frio streets.

Earlier today Chambers told reporters the letter, as read to him by FBI agents, said the money was to be placed at the door of 904 Frio street. Chambers admitted this is his home address.

Spokesmen for McCarthy gave this account:

"The letter, with several misspelled words, instructed McCarthy to "come by yourself in your Kadilak." The money was to be in fives, tens, twenties and a few hundreds. McCarthy was to make no notes of the serial numbers.

FBI Advice Ignored

After deliberating a few hours, McCarthy decided to answer with a return note, although friends and the FBI had urged him against it since the note said the money was being demanded by a gang of five.

McCarthy armed himself with a .38 revolver and carried a note saying it would be impossible to raise the money in small bills on such short notice. He asked the letter writer to contact him again.

At the Lawndale-Frio intersection, McCarthy's Cadillac convertible attracted attention from the neighborhood. He told curious he was having motor trouble.

While helpful neighbors looked under the car, McCarthy tossed the note into the specified culvert.

FBI agents kept a constant vigil on the culvert but no one came to pick it up. The agents retrieved it the next day when it began to rain.

Houston Trade Union Objects To City Firemen As Competitors

HOUSTON, Oct. 12. (AP)— Firemen should fight fires and not build houses on their off time, Houston trade unions declared.

Representatives of the Houston Building Trades council asked the Civil Service commission yesterday to stop the firemen from working on their off time as carpenters and painters.

The delegation said firemen working in construction on their days off were knocking craftsmen out of jobs.

There was talk around the city hall that one group of firemen had gotten together and contracted to build a house.

To quash competition, Guatemala is moving to raise duties on cotton products.

Supreme Court May Hear Case Of Negro Seeking Texas U. Entrance

NEW YORK, Oct. 12. (AP)—The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America has filed a brief asking the U. S. Supreme court to review the case of a negro who seeks admission to the University of Texas where segregation prevails.

The council announced today that the brief is the first it has submitted to the high court.

The announcement said the Presbyterian church in the U.S. (southern) disassociated itself from the council's stand. The case concerns Heman Marion Sweatt.

Majority Of Texas Voters Favor Okaying Jury Service For Women

By JOE BELDEN
Direcotr, The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, Oct. 11.—The idea of making women eligible for jury service is approved by two out of every three representative voters in the latest statewide survey by The Texas Poll.

Voters will ballot officially on this issue, along with nine other proposed constitutional amendmenst, in the special election November 8.

The Texas Poll has been measuring public opinion on the question of jury service for women since before the war. In 1941, just before the U.S. entered the war, a survey showed that most men did not approve of women serving on juries. However, most women did. Of all adults interviewed in the pre-war survey, exactly 50 per cent said they thought women should be allowed on juries.

Little Change Seen

In 1947, The Texas Poll found 65 per cent of a cross section of adults approved the idea. That survey indicated the rank and file of Texas men had come around to the view that women should be allowed on juries. But members of the Texas Legislature, after considering the question, failed to submit it to a vote of the people.

Six months ago, before the Legislature finally adopted the proposed amendment, a statewide survey by The Texas Poll showed almost the same results as the 1947 survey. Now the latest poll, completed last month, indicates opinion among all qualified voters has remained fairly stable during the past six months.

Division of voters in the last two surveys is compared below:

"Do you think Texas should or should not allow women to serve on juries?"

	April 1949	Sept. 1949
Should	69%	67%
Should not	25	27
No opinion	6	6
	100%	100%

In the most recent survey, 63 per cent of the qualified men voters as compared with 77 per cent of the women voters approved jury service for women. Analysis of the results discloses also that the proposal finds greater acceptance among the upper income groups than among the lower levels.

If a majority of the voters who go to the polls on November 8 give their approval, Texas will join thirty-one other states that now permit women on juries.

Advertising Executive Speaks At Exchange Club Meeting Here

Rex Webster of the advertising agency of Buckner, Craig & Webster Wednesday told members of the Exchange club at a luncheon meeting in Hotel Lubbock that advertising has existed since Eve talked Adam into partaking of the forbidden fruit.

"Only an advertising person could have done that," he mused.

However, advertising as we know it today has only existed for 76 years, according to Webster.

"Advertising creates desire," he said. "Desire then creates demand and demand creates production, which results in more jobs and higher standards of living," he added.

"The sparkplug of business is advertising," Webster stated.

Expansion of consumption of existing goods, new uses for existing goods and new markets for new goods are direct results of a proper advertising campaign, Webster asserted.

Club President M. B. Hilburn, jr., announced the club will meet with the Rotary club at the Hilton hotel Wednesday, Oct. 26. Dr. James M. Reynolds gave the invocation. Dick Richards was a club guest.

It was also announced at the meeting that privileges of the club will be extended to personnel of Lubbock Air Force base without payment of the initial membership fee.

Texas Products Sold By National Company

Merchandise purchased last year from Texas manufacturers by Sears, Roebuck and company totaled $27,723,000, it was revealed Wednesday by W. C. O'Mara, manager of the local Sears store at 1625 Thirteenth.

A total of 990 different Texas manufacturing firms in 89 cities shared in the expenditure, O'Mara said. Many of the products purchased in this state were distributed nationally through Sears outlets.

According to O'Mara, these figures showing the extent to which Sears turns to industry in Texas were prepared in connection with the company's forthcoming "Southern Industrialization" sale. This event is scheduled for Oct. 13 through 22.

Now on display at the local store is a letter from Gov. Allan Shivers congratulating and supporting the company's "Made in the South" promotion.

Lubbock Automotive Firm Is Given Special Award For Dealership Operations Work

The McWilliams Pontiac Co., 902 Ave. J, Wednesday joined the Pontiac motor division's new select group of Better Dealers.

The selection for the honor for general excellence of dealership operation under what Pontiac terms its Better Dealer program was revealed in the presentation of a reproduction of the famous oil painting of the great Chief Pontiac for whom the car was named.

McWilliams Praised

M. R. Spears, manager of Pontiac's Oklahoma City zone, made the presentation to D. R. McWilliams, owner, and had special praise for McWilliams' relations with the local public. The picture will hang in the dealership showroom as long as the standards of excellence are maintained.

"This is no idle tribute to be passed out indiscriminately," Spears added. "Each case requires exhaustive investigation."

Many Questions Asked

"We must find the answers to such questions as, 'Has he improved his physical property to keep pace with the needs of the community?,'—'Has he a sufficient number of well-trained mechanics and body repairmen?,'—'Has he the proper service facilities, parts inventory, used car lot and local advertising program.'"

Spears said the McWilliams dealership is considered one of the best in this area. McWilliams has been dealer here since 1944. The buildings measure 15,500 square feet and includes complete mechanical, body and paint departments with 14,000 square feet of floor space. The new used car lot is just across the street north of the dealership.

Other members of the McWilliams organization are: W. K. (Ken) Moreland, service manager; Lloyd W. Stinson, parts manager; Horace Felder, body shop foreman and Wm. J. Whitson, office manager. Lewis Holder, George W. Hayes, Dennis Daniell and Harry Shaw are new and used car salesmen.

In addition the company employs a bookkeeper, a service salesman, two body mechanics, a car painter, seven general mechanics, one lubrication man, one car washer, three ex-service men on government training program, one to become a parts man and two to be mechanics.

Lubbock Painters, Maintenance Men Attend Meet, Dinner Here

About 75 Lubbock painters and maintenance men attended a meeting and dinner recently at the Newsom Paint & Supply Co., 1958 Texas Ave., Garland Newsom, owner and operator, reported Wednesday.

The meeting was held in cooperation with the Seidlitz Paint & Supply Co. of Kansas City, Mr. Joe Huntoon, sales manager of the Missouri organization, and Buck Stryker, territory salesman, were in charge of the meeting.

A demonstration of painting equipment was given at the meeting and a question and answer period followed.

The meetings are annual affairs, although this is the first one to be held since the end of the war.

WINS BETTER DEALER AWARD—As a symbol of the McWilliams Pontiac Co.'s standing with Pontiac, D. R. McWilliams, owner, was presented with a reproduction of the famous oil painting of the great Chief Pontiac for whom the car was named by Pontiac officials here Wednesday. M. R. Spears, left, zone manager of the Pontiac Motor division of General Motors, presented the Better Dealer award to D. R. McWilliams, second from right. At the right is B. E. Zink, district manager, of Amarillo. (Staff Photo.)

New Enlistments Push Texas National Guard Over 15,000

AUSTIN, Oct. 12. (AP)— Three weeks of recruiting have boosted the strength of the Texas National Guard past the 15,000 mark, State Adjustant General K. L. Berry reported today.

Enlistment of 184 men last week brought the total to 15,093. The recruitment campaign will continue through Nov. 19.

Gen. Berry said the Texas National Guard now ranks fifth in strength in the nation behind New York, Pennsylvania, California and Illinois.

Cattle Prospects In State Reported Good

AUSTIN, Oct. 12. (AP)—Texas ranges and cattle are in their best condition in many years.

The United States Department of Agriculture reported today that ranges over practically the entire state are continuing to supply abundant feed.

An unusually heavy growth was reported beginning to cure in the trans-Pecos and Plains counties. Wheat pasture was coming along rapidly. Some fields were being grazed.

Most ranchmen were expecting to go through the winter without any supplemental feeding except cake, USDA said. But if they need it, an abundant supply of hay, roughage and grain is available.

With coal now available in Eire, thousands of tons of peat stacked over many acres in Phoenix Park, Dublin, during the war, have created a problem.

Oilmen To Discuss New Chapter Here

The Permian Basin petroleum section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical engineers will meet Monday in the Hilton hotel in the interest of organizing a Lubbock chapter of the society.

The meeting is to determine how many men in the Lubbock, Levelland, Sundown and Brownfield vicinities would be interested in forming a petroleum chapter of the AIME in Lubbock.

Lewis E. Young, president of the AIME and consulting engineer at the Carlsbad Potash mines, is expected to be present for the meeting. From 100 to 200 area oil men are expected to attend.

Registration for the meeting will begin at 6 p. m. Monday, with a dinner and talk to follow. The speaker has not been announced. Price of the dinner will be $2.

HICKENLOOPER BLASTS VOTE

Solons Reject Charges Against Atomic Energy Chief, Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. (AP)—The joint Congressional Atomic Energy committee today rejected by a 9 to 6 vote a charge that the Atomic Energy commission had been the subject of "incredible mismanagement."

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) immediately called the committee's report "a cleverly written 'white wash.'" He announced he will file a minority report, and several Republican members indicated they would join him.

It was Hickenlooper who leveled the mismanagement charge last spring at AEC Commissioner David E. Lilienthal and other members of the commission.

Many Members Away

Nine Democratic members of the Senate-House "watchdog" committee voted in favor of the report absolving the commission. Six Republican members voted against it. The committee has 18 members, but many of them were away from the capital.

The committee held extended hearings during the summer on Hickenlooper's charges. He sought to prove laxity in security precautions, and waste and extravagance in administration of the multi-billion dollar program.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint committee, said the report declared that Hickenlooper's charge "could not be proved."

Report Is Revised

That phrase was in the original draft of the report which McMahon circulated among committee members two weeks ago. Since then, it has been revised, but McMahon said most of the changes were "of a minor character, mainly in language," rather than in substance.

McMahon said the only copy of the revised report had been sent to the printers and that copies would not be available for a day or so.

The report denied that Russia had obtained any information through security leaks permitted by the commission. Hickenlooper raised the possibility that had happened.

The report said that while the Soviet Union obtained the atomic bomb "considerably sooner" than expected, any security leaks that helped Russia "all occurred before the commission assumed responsibility."

The AEC took control of the atomic program from the Army in 1947.

Evidence Claimed Inadequate

The first draft of the report said there also was "no foundation in the evidence" for Hickenlooper's charges that Communists and fellow travelers have made their way into the atomic set-up.

"The only qualification," the report said, "relates to a handful of 'calculated risk' cases where a combination of irreplacable ability, and access to key secrets during the war, and derogatory data limited mainly to associations may mean that a scientist gains clearance where normally it would be denied."

In calling the majority report a "whitewash," Hickenlooper said in a statement:

"I can not comment on the details of the report until it is printed with the changes made in the last few days, but when the report is published, it certainly will be significant to note that the strong evidence of soft policies toward subversives and even Communists which was produced at the hearings is given no consideration."

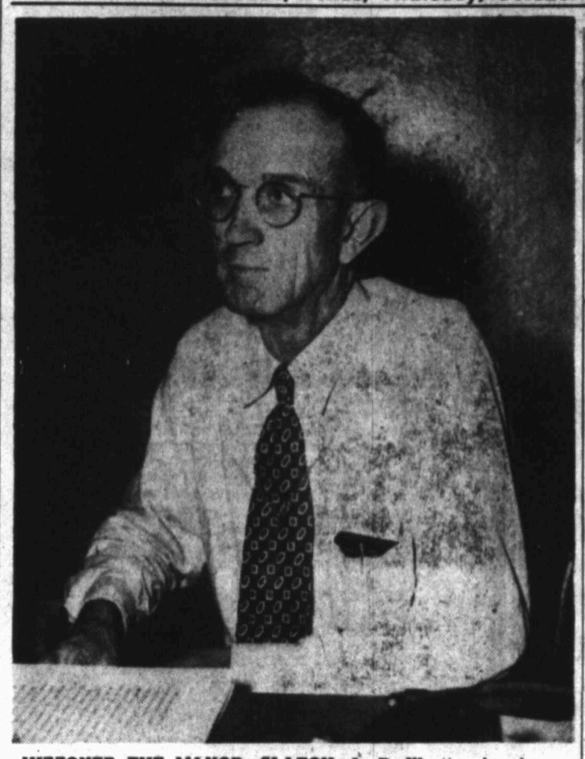

Voting for approval of the report were:

Senators McMahon, Connally (D-Tex), Ewing C. Johnson (D-Colo) and Russell (D-Ga), and Reps. Durham (D-NC), Jackson (D-Wash), Kilday (D-Tex), Melvin Price (D-Ill) and Folfield (D-Calif).

Against it were:

Senators Hickenlooper, Millikin (R-Colo) and Knowland (R-Calif), and Reps. Cole (R-NY), Elston (R-Ohio) and Van Zandt (R-Pa).

Rep. Hinshaw (R-Calif) voted "present." Senators Tydings (D-Md) and Vandenberg (R-Mich) were not recorded.

Eagle Pass Starts Six-Day Celebration

EAGLE PASS, Oct. 12. (AP)—Historic Eagle Pass started a six-day celebration of its centennial today.

The town was crowded for the opening ceremony and a big street parade.

Maury Maverick, grandson of Samuel Augustus Maverick, for whom Maverick county was named, participated. Eagle Pass is the county seat.

An afternoon parade of bands and floats was cheered by crowds that lined the streets. In it were 24 floats that depict the history of Eagle Pass.

The Fourth Army band from Fort Sam Houston and the Hardin-Simmons Cowboy band and 14 school bands and drum and bugle corps furnished music.

Visitors included Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, Mayor Jack White of San Antonio, Rep. Lloyd M. Bentsen, jr., and state Senator Hill D. Hudson of Pecos.

The celebration will continue through Sunday. Square dance festivals, old fiddlers' contests, a kickapoo Indian program and other events are scheduled.

A rodeo will be held daily. There will be a bull fight Sunday.

Unmarried women should not be termed spinsters until they are 55, the Ely Women's Institute, in England, has decided.

Grand Jury Work Is Stalled As Member Awaits Stork's Arrival

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 12. (AP)—The entire Oklahoma county grand jury helped member John A. Orcutt sweat out the arrival of the stork yesterday.

Orcutt reported for jury duty, then asked to be excused so he could flag the stork in.

The jury waited, and waited and waited for Orcutt's return.

In the jury room, they paced the floor. And in the hospital, Orcutt paced the floor. Finally, eight hours later, the stork arrived with an eight pound boy.

The jury dismissed for the day, and decided to subpoena Orcutt to show up with a box of cigars.

Navy To Ground Two Giant Air Transports As Economy Move

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. (AP)—The Navy's two giant Constitution transport planes are being grounded because it costs too much to keep them flying, the Navy said today.

The four-engine, double-decker Constitution is capable of carrying 180 passengers, but has usually flown with far smaller passenger loads.

The Navy said it costs three to four times as much to operate as the 50-passenger DC-4 transport.

Sentences Delayed For Wartime Fraud

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. (INS)—Ex-Rep. Andrew May and the Garsson brothers with whom he was convicted of wartime fraud against the government won another delay today in beginning prison sentences imposed two days ago.

Latest postponement came when the Supreme court, which on Monday refused to review the convictions, announced it has "withheld on the motion of counsel" issuance of the order which will send the three men to jail.

Until the high court formally notifies the court in which the men were found guilty that review has been denied, the prison sentences cannot begin.

Court attaches said the delay will not exceed 15 days, during which defense counsel can file a motion for reconsideration of the high bench's refusal to review the case.

May and the Garssons were convicted July 3, 1947, on charges that the congressman, wartime head of the powerful House Military Affairs committee, received $53,000 from Henry and Murray Garsson for pressuring the War department in their favor in connection with weapons contracts.

FEEN-A-MINT FAMOUS CHEWING-GUM LAXATIVE

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Follow the easy way, endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears — how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Mrs. M. C. Britton, 506 W. Wildwood, San Antonio, Texas, writes us as follows: "I am a faithful user of Barcentrate. CITY EXPANSION

It's "Do--Or Die!"

THE results of the regular meeting of the City commission this afternoon are likely to affect the future of Lubbock in many ways.

Scheduled for consideration are extensions of the city limits to include many developed and developing suburban areas. This meeting probably will be the showdown on whether these areas are to be annexed, not only in time to give the City credit for their populations when the 1950 federal census is taken, but perhaps for a long time afterward.

There's no more time for dawdling. Areas must be annexed before January 1 if their populations are to be credited to the City of Lubbock when the census is taken next year. The legal processes involved in an annexation take about two months even when no hitches occur.

Just a little more than two and one-half months remain before the deadline date. The City commission must get something started at once if any broad annexation program is to be completed this year. Today's meeting will be something of a "do or die" affair in this particular matter.

Much of the present widespread interest in extending the city limits results from the civic pride which inspires the desire for a 1950 census figure which will be indicative of the City's actual population. The same interest could not have been aroused a year ago. It cannot be aroused after the deadline for the census passes on January 1.

Many civic and business leaders in both the City and suburbs have devoted weeks to the effort to extend the city limits this year. They could not be as much interested in the same effort next year, because the same incentive will be lacking.

Residents and property owners in the suburbs now are being urged to become part of the City. Next year and afterward, the general attitude toward them is likely to be one of indifference.

SOME of the suburban residents and property owners say they oppose annexation now because they cannot be assured utilities and other municipal services immediately.

Here's something for these people to think about:

They probably can get a better "deal" if annexed now, while interest in extensions is keen, than if they wait. There is a disposition now to make concessions to get outlying areas inside the City. After this year, those seeking annexation are likely to be told: "Here are the requirements; take them or leave them."

But, disregarding other considerations and personalities, the City commission will be handed the ball in this extensions matter today by a Chamber of Commerce committee which has been working on it for weeks.

If the annexation program is to be carried further, the commission must do it by setting public hearings at which everyone interested could be heard for or against any proposed extensions. The commission then would decide whether to annex or to hold an election on the proposition.

The least members of the commission should do is to hold hearings which, among other things, would identify those who make their livings and, in many instances, have grown wealthy in Lubbock, but would shirk a legitimate share of the municipal responsibilities.

TRUE enough, any action taken by the City commission in this matter will be criticised. No action will please everyone.

But the decision should not be difficult if the commission is interested solely in proceeding in accordance with its conception of the answer to the question: "What is best for Lubbock?"

This answer should disregard personal friendships. It should make the welfare of the community paramount to that of individuals and groups — some of whom oppose annexation because it would halt the erection of "shack towns" which are ruining many of Lubbock's suburbs.

Hearings on all areas which should be annexed would be fair to everyone. They, at least, would be an attempt to proceed with extensions. If they are not held, the commission cannot alibi its responsibility if the 1950 Lubbock census figure is short of the City's true population.

Someone To Love

BY IRENE LONNEN ERNHART
Distributed By NEA, Inc.

(THE STORY: Jenny halfway believes that Ted Duncan has married her to spite his fiance Liz Conover who eloped with another man. Ted's family, with whom they live, have given Jenny a cool reception and then one evening Jenny sees Ted meeting Liz in a cafe. As a result, Jenny packs her things and goes to the home of Nina Cushman, who works in Max's salon, where Jenny also works. Ted is able to explain that Liz had called him and asked him to meet her, not knowing that Ted was married. But Jenny refuses to return to the Duncan home with Ted and Nina suggests that they live in a trailer while Ted finishes his schooling at Markwood College in the fall.)

TOD hadn't been quite honest with Jenny about meeting Liz Conover. When he saw that phone number on his pad at the office he had a feeling it would be Liz who would answer. And Liz had not begged him to meet her, either. She'd merely said she wanted awfully to see him. When she said that, such a crazy yearning to see her took possession of him that he momentarily lost his senses, forgot about Jenny and everything else.

He said he'd meet her at their favorite table in the Greenbriar. Driving toward the restaurant a few moments later he thought all at once about Jenny. He knew she wasn't expecting him home from his road trip until the following day, and he had planned to surprise her by picking her up at the shop.

But there was no reason why he should feel such a sense of guilt about going off to meet Liz for a few minutes. People were broad-minded about such things in these times. And he couldn't have refused without seeming prudish, or giving Liz the impression he was afraid to see her again. He'd tell Jenny about it, of course, and they'd probably get a laugh out of it.

He parked his car in the lot behind the Greenbriar and adjusted his bow tie by the rear view mirror. "Now look here," he told himself sternly, "there's no use getting excited about meeting Liz. That's all over."

Yes, it was all over. He repeated it two or three times on the way from the parking lot to the restaurant. But he knew the minute he saw Liz that it wasn't over.

Liz was wearing a draped hat, exotic and expensive. Her eyes, slanted, dark, mysterious and exciting; that smooth skin, those wonderful rounded shoulders—

"Oh darling Tod, how good it is to see you!" Her voice with that husky caress in it. Everything—every single thing about Liz you went for and couldn't help yourself.

"Gosh Liz, it's good to see you." She waved him to a chair.

THEY sat across from each other. The light was dim and somehow an awkwardness lay between them. The waiter brought their order.

"I just had to see you, Tod." She smiled at him over the rim of her glass.

He knew suddenly that he shouldn't be here, sitting with Liz as he had so often before, and feeling the same old way about her.

"Why?" He said it bluntly.

Liz bit her lower lip. "You want me to be honest with you, Tod?" But she didn't wait for him to answer her question. "I don't know why on earth I married Jim. It was all wrong."

"If that's what you asked me here to say, it's wasting your time and mine," Tod said roughly. Yes, he'd been a fool to come. Because he wanted to take Liz in his arms and tell her she was right—they'd both made mistakes—his was marrying Jenny.

"It's never a waste of time to apologize and say you're sorry," Liz said huskily, "and that's what I'm doing."

"In this case it's a waste."

"But I had to do it, Tod."

"You're only hurting yourself and me too," he said grimly. "You're married, I'm married. If that doesn't settle things, I don't know what could."

The color drained from Liz's beautiful face. "You're married?"

"Right." He shut his teeth firmly together. All he wanted now was to get out of there.

Liz fumbled in her purse for her compact and he saw that her slender hands were trembling.

"I guess I can't blame you," she said. "There's not even any use now trying to tell you how it all happened."

They looked at each other for a second or two, and he could see that Liz read in his eyes that his being married hadn't changed things much.

"No," he said coldly, "there's no use either one of us trying to explain, and there's no use our seeing each other again."

Driving home, he kept thinking how bright Liz's dark eyes had grown when he said that. He'd been afraid she was going to cry, Liz, of all people! Cynical, witty, sophisticated Liz verging on tears because they weren't ever going to see each other again!

WHEN he reached the apartment and Ma told him what had happened he quit thinking about Liz, like a man waking from a dream. He was furious with himself for having hurt Jenny. He couldn't bear to think of making her suffer. The quickness with which Jenny forgave him and her trusting attitude, were almost more than he had expected.

Now, the thought of living in a trailer camp was anything but appealing to him, but then he owed

See SOMEONE TO LOVE Page 3

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

ADOLPHE Menjou remarked a few days ago that despite the fact that more than 400 reporters cover Hollywood, no one really knows what the town is like.

BRANDEIS

If I were a betting man I'd bet Mr. Menjou, who, by the way is one of my favorite movie actors, that he doesn't know Hollywood any better than the rest of his fellow townspeople.

By the same token, I could say that, although more than a thousand reporters cover New York, no one really knows what New York is like.

I could also say that probably you don't know what YOUR town is like.

The trouble with most of us is that we move around in squirrel cages, particularly those of us who live in the large cities.

We get up in the morning. We eat our breakfast. We go to work at the office or the shop, or if we are a woman we go into the kitchen.

You know the rest of the routine. "Round and round she goes and where she stops nobody knows," to quote the late Major Bowes.

Then take our social lives.

We belong to little clubs. We go to meetings.

Or we play bridge. Or Canasta. Sunday after Sunday we meet the same groups at church.

So, our whole life is lived according to schedule.

All we really know about the world, about the country, about our own town is that little pigeonhole of ours in which we live.

I don't know much about Mr. Menjou's private life.

But several times when I was in Hollywood I have seen him in Chasen's, in Romanoff's, in Ciro's. And in New York I have seen him in the Stork Club and Twenty-One.

That isn't Hollywood. That isn't New York.

TAKE all your big cafes, all your night clubs, all your theatres, all your amusement spots in any town in America, and you wouldn't have room to accommodate one one-thousandth of its population.

To know a town you have to get into its homes. You have to explore its "uptowns" and its "downtowns". You have to be acquainted with its residential districts and its slums—those sections that the visitor seldom ever sees and usually doesn't care to see.

Newspapers are interested only in the unusual. The more unusual things happen in a town, the more reporters it takes to cover the town.

I wonder in how many homes of clerks, carpenters, butchers, business men and housewives Mr. Menjou has ever spent an evening.

That is the real Hollywood, just as it is the real every other town.

But in those millions of homes, there is darn little for newspapers to report.

And thank Heaven that it is so.

ON FEDERAL PAY HIKE

White House Pressure

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—President Truman recently violated ancient rules governing the relations between White House and Congress to retain the support of one of the most influential political groups in the electorate—namely, more than 4,000,000 federal workers post office employees and members of the armed services.

TUCKER

When it appeared that the legislators might pass an increased pay bill carrying lower rates than these groups had demanded, thereby antagonizing them against the Administration, Mr. Truman "invited" Senate and House conferees to the White House for a private session. Despite denials, he insisted that the higher schedules be written into the final measure.

EXTRAORDINARY: Now, it is not unusual for a Chief Executive to express his views on pending legislation, and Mr. Truman had exercised this prerogative during House and Senate debate on the pay proposals.

But it is extraordinary procedure for a President to intervene after both bodies have acted, and after the two bills have been sent to conference to iron out discrepancies in the House and Senate versions.

It is as if a trial judge entered the jury room in an effort to influence the jurymen's decision.

EFFECTIVE: But nobody realizes more than the politically canny Missourian how effective the army of government employees and post office workers can be during a campaign and on Election day.

He attributes his defeat of Thomas E. Dewey to their support in the three states of Illinois, Ohio and California, where the "federal" vote alone was sufficient to give him his squeaky majorities.

Moreover, the lower-paid employees were bitter against the attempt to give them a minimum increase at the very moment when President Truman was demanding annual $10,000 and $7,500 raises for Cabinet members, Under Secretaries and the chairmen of a score of independent agencies. In view of the minor employees' relatively small pay, they felt that their requests should be given priority and preference.

As of today, the vast majority of these groups usually vote Democratic, as they were appointed during the 16-year, Roosevelt-Truman regime.

DEAL: President Truman's aggressive but abortive fight for Senate confirmation of Leland Olds as a member of the Federal Power commission was part of a major deal under which certain New York labor and liberal leaders agreed not to name their own, third-party candidate in the Lehman-Dulles senatorial contest next month. His reappointment was the payoff for their support of the former governor in this critical campaign.

The story goes back to 1938, when Mr. Olds was only executive secretary of the New York Power Authority, and when "Racket Buster" Dewey was preparing to oppose Governor Lehman in that year's election.

Mr. Olds was then a member of the State Central committee of the American Labor party. It contemplated nomination of its own gubernatorial candidate in order to maintain a foothold in New York politics.

Mr. Olds used all his eloquence and influence at their state convention to block this plan, and he succeeded. Had the American Labor party run its own man, drawing votes from Mr. Lehman, it is almost certain that he would have lost out to Mr. Dewey, for it was a photofinish race. Olds' reward was his original appointment to FPC in 1939.

PAYOFF: Last spring, when President Truman showed some reluctance about reappointing Mr. Olds to FPC in view of the growing opposition, the labor-liberal leaders in New York cracked down. At the very time that the President was trying to persuade ex-Senator Wagner to resign early enough so that a senatorial election would have to be held this fall, with Mr. Lehman as the White House choice for the Democratic nomination in that battle, the friends of Mr. Olds went to work.

Mr. Wagner did resign, forcing an election next month. Governor Dewey named John Foster Dulles to the vacancy, and under White House pressure Mr. Lehman agreed to make the race.

But he did so only after President Truman promised to rename and go down the line for the Olds confirmation, thus appeasing the labor-liberal faction, including such radicals as Henry A. Wallace and Representative Vito Marcantonio.

Thus Mr. Truman made the payoff, although he could not redeem it on Capitol Hill. But it is now too late for the leftist party to name anybody except a write-in candidate, which may insure a Lehman victory.

ALLIANCE: Senate votes on keeping farm parity supports at 90 per cent, thus meaning higher federal costs and prices for consumers, reveal that the most effective coalition on Capitol Hill, as frequently noted here, is not between Southern Democratic and Northern Republican conservatives. Instead, it is an economic alliance between Dixie and Western members.

Not a single legislator from outside those two areas voted for the amendment to keep the support level at 90 per cent, reversing an earlier decision for lowering them to a 75-90 per cent schedule.

Breaking with Majority Senate Leader Lucas of Illinois and Senator Anderson, former Secretary of Agriculture, Vice-President Barkley, the Kentucky lover, cast the deciding vote in favor of top parity payments.

Aside from these geographical alignments, it was also strictly a country versus city, farmer versus labor, producing versus consuming lineup.

Mrs. J. C. Stanford of the Southwest ward community, won first place in the Lubbock county yard contest and will receive as a reward $10 worth of trees, shrubs, or hedges, according to an announcement at the close of the contest Saturday afternoon. The prizes are being given by the Lubbock chamber of commerce and are to be delivered in the early spring.

Mrs. E. R. Davis of Acuff won second place and will receive $5 worth of shrubs. Mrs. R. C. Moore of Acuff was winner of third place and will receive $2.50 worth of shrubs.

When the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs take the field here Oct. 26 against the Texas Tech Matadors, everything will be in readiness for their entertainment.

That was the word given out yesterday by Marvin T. Warlick, business manager of athletics of the college, Hogue Williams, president of the student body, and C. W. Ratliff, president of the alumnae association.

The day has been set aside as the annual "Homecoming," and preparations are underway to take care of the largest crowd ver seen at an athletic event in West Texas. Officials are looking forward to seating at least 8,000 people and should the advance ticket sale warrant, additional seats will be provided.

Believe It Or Not -

AGREEMENT IS POSSIBLE

Trade Pact Step Toward Peace

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The process of living together amicably in the world, as in any neighborhood or community or nation, requires freedom to trade and do business with one another for, after all, most of our living depends upon trade and business.

STOKES

It is, therefore, a sign of considerable progress in living together in the world when 33 nations, including our own, can sit down together to lower tariffs and remove trade barriers among themselves and come up with an agreement for this purpose. Such an agreement was reached at Annecy, France, a few months ago and now is published to the world and submitted for ratification to the nations involved.

Agreement Is Possible

This is true international co-operation at work in an important area. It is a tribute not only to the United Nations, which sponsors such efforts, but also to our own nation which has pioneered in tearing down tariff walls and other trade obstructions through its reciprocal trade program, recently extended for another three years, that owes so much to Cordell Hull, former secretary of state.

The significant thing here is the demonstration that there can be world-wide agreement in a very significant field of activity, one of the most significant. One of the causes of wars has been the inability of certain nations to get access to raw materials and other necessities to build up their own economies on a self-supporting basis. Whereupon they go out to grab by force of arms something that belongs to some other nation.

IT was the building-up of tariff walls by nations against each other, trying to live within themselves, that produced that feverish wave of nationalism that helped to bring on the last World war. We contributed through our successive high tariff laws. That proved to be the wrong way to keep the peace.

Now, instead, we decided, in effect, to pool our resources and make them available to one another. Out of this everybody can profit and everybody can get what he needs. To this degree, we get a real federation of nations in the sphere of trade and commerce. The hopeful thing about this tariff-reducing and trade-promoting agreement among 33 nations is that it may encourage a real federation of nations also in the strictly political field where nations still are individualistic, jealous, self-centered, timid standoffish and insist on something called "national sovereignty."

Our own history offers an example. Our own colonies, which were very jealous and individualistic, raised tariffs against each other. These persisted even after we had declared our independence from Great Britain during that loose confederation of states under the Articles of Confederation, which was our government during the revolution and for a few years thereafter.

Step Toward Union

This weakness caused by one state fighting another over trade privileges was among the reasons for getting together eventually and erecting a real federation under our constitution. That abolished all these restrictions among states and, at the same time, provided a strong federal union with power over matters that affected all its citizens as citizens of a single nation and not as citizens of separate, competing states.

The world can move that way, too. The process is the same, simple formula, which is to make the United Nations into a real federation with a central government that cannot only regulate trade but can meet those delicate and difficult problems of a political nature with which the united Nations is still unable to cope because of lack of authority.

THE world is moving that way, if slowly. Progress in the field of trade and commerce is one sign. Then there is the Food and Agricultural Organization, FAO, with the purpose of improving production and distribution of food so that everybody in the world can have enough to eat. There is the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to help people all over the world understand each other better as human beings. This agency operates through many channels, including exchange of information, newspapers, magazines, art, music, literature and students. Then there is the World Health Organization and the International Refugee Organization, among others.

They are all doing good work, which is too little noted. They show that we can have real world union if we'll only take the step of strengthening the parent organization into a strong federation in which they and all affiliated agencies can function more effectively.

Someone To Love

it to Jenny to try to make her happy. Living in the apartment with his family had been hard. Maybe when they were alone together, even though it was in nothing more pretentious than a trailer, they'd get along better.

Jenny's happiness was his business now. He must remember that, and not think about Liz at all. He must fight to keep her out of his thoughts. But after their meeting, it wasn't going to be easy.

COMPANIES PLAN MAJOR FIGHT

Expense Provides Main Hurdle To Development Of Color In TV

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 — What's new?

You won't have to start worrying about color television until the middle 1950's, the way things are going.

There are several reasons why, though the system is pretty well perfected. For one thing, color TV is breath-takingly expensive for the broadcaster. Not many TV stations in the land are making money now with black and white, though interest is high, sets are selling and new and more important sponsors appear every time the coaxial cable expands a bit.

TV Fight Probable

Those companies not ready for color televising, or incapable of bearing the financial burden, have long-range plans to fight it in Washington . . . fight it to a fare-thee-well.

The industry has had color television down pretty fine for five or six years. The last important "bug" the experts had to eradicate was this: When a viewer takes his eyes from the screen to look to another part of the room the primary colors "march" off the screen like a colorful picket fence.

Your first ride in an American jet-powered transport probably won't come until 1955 at the earliest. The British and Canadians will have the first such planes in operation, perhaps by '51.

The British were the true pioneers in the modern jet and deserve their slight lead, which was further aided when the U. S. agreed to make the Rolls Royce reciprocal engine for them during the last part of the war, while their engineers concentrated on the inevitable engine of the future.

The market for jet transports won't be a lively one, the Douglas company, for one, is inclined to believe. Of 1948 traffic figures, the entire trans-Atlantic trade could be handled by 25 of them, and 100 more could take care of all the U.S. traffic over 800 miles.

New Plane Planned

Our side is working on a jet transport about half again the size of the Constellation or DC-6 and capable like those two (and the Boeing Stratocruiser) of both long and short hops.

The first U.S. jet transport will cost its company $22,500,000 to build. To make it worthwhile, it must cruise at 500-550 MPH, carry from 50 to 100 passengers and be powered by no more than four jets.

The whole question is complicated by fuel costs — appalling, where jets are concerned—and airports. The U. S. jet, when it is finished, stoked with juice and pay-load, will need a 9,000 foot runway. There are only a few of these in the country just now. Precious few.

Largest Fire Progresses

Things are coming along nicely with the largest man-made fire in history.

It was touched off last March in a huge coal vein buried 55 miles north of Birmingham, Ala., with the blessing of the U. S. Bureau of mines, Southern Research institute and the Alabama Power company. The purpose: The production of illuminating and cooking gas.

It is being tracked scientifically by experts from Schenectady, who have developed a new electronic mercury vapor detector which keeps constant check on the gases belching mightily from the subterranean inferno.

Town Helps Self

The full story of what a town can do for itself, if its people believe in its future, will be unveiled next week at Hazleton, Pa. Details of the story must await until then.

But this much is known: When the war ended 4,000 of the city's 39,000 were unemployed. Its coal fields were running out. It determined to attract new industry. In four weeks the people raised $3,660,000 (cash) to attract that industry. It meant $18 a head, man, woman, child. There were no promises to repay the loan if no new firms were attracted.

Next Tuesday a new $3,500,000 wire and cable plant will be dedicated at Hazleton by the governor of Pennsylvania. It is one of many industries brought to a town which, while wearing out, rediscovered itself through its people.

Brownfield Pastor To Head Promotion Drive For Wayland

PLAINVIEW, Oct. 12. (Special) Rev. A. A. Brian, pastor of the Brownfield First Baptist church, was elected chairman of the immediate promotional campaign for Wayland college in a meeting of the board of trustees Monday.

The board, composed of pastors and laymen from Districts eight, nine, and ten, met for the primary purpose of raising funds to meet the immediate needs of Wayland. These needs were brought about by the fact that the larger gifts program, as launched by the denomination, has not materialized in this area. This was due largely to the illness and death of J. A. Fortenberry, Larger Gifts chairman of district nine.

"The long range objective of this promotional campaign is to so publicize Wayland college and the enlargement program as to enlist churches and individuals through the larger gifts program toward adequate support of this institution," said Rev. Brian.

In meeting immediate needs through the promotion of the campaign it is hoped to bring about a sound financial status for the college.

It would render highly probable the immediate accrediting of both junior and senior years at Wayland by the Association of Texas colleges.

Major objectives of the campaign include the enlargement and improvement of classrooms throughout the administration building, equipment for the library and science departments, together with the securement of student scholarships.

District rallies to be held this month will be in Lubbock, Oct. 24; in Big Spring, Oct. 25; and in Amarillo on Oct. 27. Featured on the program will be a 30-minute program by Wayland's International choir.

Rev. Brian, newly elected chairman of the promotional campaign is a Wayland graduate. He has been a member of Wayland's board of trustees since 1935, and a member of the executive board of the Baptist General convention since 1940.

Attending the meeting of the board were the following: A. A. Veasey and J. Ralph Grant, Lubbock; Neil Singleton and W. A. Mayes, Amarillo; Oscar Flowers, Perryton; C. T. Aly, Tahoka; R. H. Cagle, Hereford; and A. A. Brian.

Others were E. C. Dorr, Shamrock; Hal Upchurch and Paul Cullen, Borger; Cecil Goff, Dumas; Moody Womble, Morse; George Pickles, Sunray; C. M.Zowell, Tulia; and C. H. Hancock, E. J. Green, and Burton Craig, all of Plainview.

Senate Group Okays Funds For Boosting Farm Surplus Exports

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12. (AP)—The Senate Rules committee today approved a resolution authorizing $25,000 for an investigation of ways to stimulate exports of farm surplus commodities.

The resolution was offered by Sen. Anderson (D-N.M.). The study would be made by the Senate Agriculture committee.

Chicago Dog Supports WCTU By Nipping Tavern Patrons

CHICAGO, Oct. 12. (INS) — Bowser of North Chicago tonight held the favorite's role for the title of the WCTU's "Dog of the Year."

Bowser catapulted into top content on last night with yeoman work.

He walked into a tavern where Louis Koziol was drinking beer and bit him on the leg.

In swift succession and in different bars, Bowser put the nip on sippers Stanley Gimbora and Max Brewer.

Bowser walked righteously from the taverns after each attack.

Clement Mischichowski, Bowser's owner, was ordered to appear in police court Oct. 24 with a defense for his dog.

Coughing Of Baby Saves Family Of Six From Deadly Gas Fumes

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 12. (INS) —A baby's coughing saved a family of six from asphyxiation today.

John Boucher, 60, was awakened by the coughing of Christina Becker, 9-month-old child being boarded at the Boucher home.

Stepping from bed to investigate, he was partially overcome by gas fumes and stumbled to the floor, waking his wife.

Police and firemen found the house filled with gas from a leaky refrigerator.
